

School administrators salaries issue finally settled

The Northville school district and its administrators ended more than a year of negotiations Monday with the ratification of a contract that, for some principals, will mean a lower income this year.

The first-ever contract between the school and the Northville Association of School Administrators also assures that this will be the last year that principals take vacations while school is in session.

The new salary schedule ranges from $21,000 to $30,000, depending on position and experience.

The administrators, who have been without a contract since school began last year, ratified the contract Monday afternoon. The school board followed suit at its meeting that night.

Neither vote was unanimous, but both were substantially in favor of adopting the contract.

Secretary Chris Johnson was the lone school board dissenter. He said he approved most of the provisions, but his "deep feelings" against two-year, annually renewing contracts "just will not let me vote for the contract."

Amerman Elementary School Principal William Craft, a former NASA president, said administrators were not eligible for the two-year contracts until they had worked in the district for six years.

NASA represents seven principals, two high school assistant principals and all of the special education building supervisors.

The contract provides retroactive pay for last year.

The 1975-76 salary schedule was improved by 5½ percent for 1976-77, according to Personnel Director Burton Knighton. In addition, administrators who haven't reached the top of the salary schedule received step increments that averaged five percent.

The 1977-78 salary schedule was improved by five percent, but most administrators will not have their annual income increased by that much since work years were shortened in most cases.

"The administrators said they would take time in lieu of money," said Knighton. "The association was adamant about that at the bargaining table."

The work year used to be 220 days for all principals. Now it is 217 days for the high school principal, 212 for junior high and assistant high school principals and 207 for elementary school principals.

This year's wages were obtained by tacking on five percent to last year's schedule, determining a per diem rate and multiplying that by the number of days worked.

Thus, while the average administrator's earnings increased by 8.8 percent from 1975-76 to 1976-77, average wages increased by only 1.2 percent this year.

The total cost to the district to cover this year's share of the contract is only .4 percent higher than last year, said Knighton.

A principal at the top of the schedule and working as many as 13 fewer days this year could be earning up to 1.2 percent less money, he added.

The salary range, from the lowest step to the highest, is as follows: assistant high school principal, $21,256 to $25,507; elementary school principal, $22,352 to $26,823; junior high school principal, $23,873 to $28,648 and high school principal, $25,107 to $30,128.

Beginning next year, principals will take vacations only during holidays and the summer and not while school is in session.

In past years, when the district had voluntary year-round school, principals often had to take vacations while school was in session in order to get all of their 22 vacation days. Ratification was contingent on principals using up all vacation days by June.

The administrators pact is the last to be settled of four contracts that faced the school district last year.

Ironically, it will be the first to be reopened since it expires at the end of this school year.

TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

Woman, 75, dies in township fire Tuesday

Panel probes child abuse procedures

A three-person panel will investigate the Plymouth Center for Human Development to see if the institution for mentally retarded properly looks into suspected child abuse cases.

Dr. Donald Worden, regional director for the Department of Mental Health, appointed the panel but said his action was not in response to a lawsuit by parents which claimed child abuse probes have been inadequate.

In a related matter, Worden sent a tart letter to Northville school officials to complain about remarks made by the school's special education director, Leonard Rezmierski.

Rezmierski, who is in charge of educating most of the center's patients, has called for a complete investigation of child abuse cases.

In his letter, Worden said he was "appalled" by Rezmierski's "intemperate, hostile, accusatory and defamatory comments."

Northville Superintendent Raymond Spear said a written response to Worden's letter would be mailed this week.

Worden said the newly-appointed panel, which meets for the first time Monday in his Oak Park offices, will try to "get a handle on what is happening to see if there have been errors."

Last month, the Michigan Court of Appeals ordered the Department of Social Services (DSS) to take jurisdiction in child abuse cases at institutions.

The ruling was in response to a suit by the Plymouth Association for Retarded Citizens who claimed there have been 24 cases of suspected abuse at the center since May of 1976 which have been improperly investigated.

Mental health policy requires immediate investigations into all cases where there is reason to suspect child abuse, but Worden did not know if any of the 24 instances listed in the suit had been investigated.

Dr. William Womack, the center's director, said he couldn't comment because of an agreement within the department that all media queries should be handled by Worden, who is Womack's immediate supervisor, or through a spokesman in Lansing.

Earlier this month, a different spokesman in Lansing said the Mental Health's Office of Recipient Rights (ORR) had studied each child abuse claim.

Worden said he chose a disinterested panel who were experts but worked outside of the Department of Mental Health network.

Appointed were Arthur L. Johnson, Vice President for University Relations at Wayne State University; Dr. Jane W. Kessler, professor of psychology at Case Western Reserve; and Wayne County Probate Court Judge Joseph Pernick.

"We are not concerned with whether the abuse took place or who did it, but are we taking the appropriate action," said Worden, who was formerly director of the Northville Residential Training Center which also sends students to Northville's special education classrooms.

Teachers and supervisors in the special education program have complained that suspected cases of Flames trap victim

By the time Northville firemen arrived shortly after receiving the call, flames already had engulfed this house on West Seven Mile Road in which a 75 year old woman died. The woman was trapped in the basement, but her daughter and granddaughter escaped unharmed. The ranch-type house, located about one-quarter mile west of Clement Road, was totally destroyed. See other pictures on page 9-A.

2 escape blaze; house destroyed

Trapped in the basement, a 75-year-old woman died Tuesday morning when flames consumed a large township house on West Seven Mile Road.

Facing a wall of flames, firemen were unable to rescue the woman, Mrs. Irene Weinand. Her body was not recovered from the rubble until six hours after the fire was first reported shortly after 9 a.m.

Fire Chief Robert Toms said the body was found on the landing at the top of the stairs at about 3 p.m.

The brick and concrete house, located at 46528 West Seven Mile Road — a quarter mile west of Clement Road on the north side — was already engulfed in flames by the time township firemen arrived.

They attempted to reach the basement but were beaten back by flames.

The house was demolished except for exterior walls which firemen tore down in the search for the body. Debris from the collapsed main floor and roof hindered the search.

According to those first on the scene, Mrs. Weinand's daughter, Mrs. Robert (Mary Lou) Powell, and her granddaughter, Coreen, 18, escaped from the house in their night clothes and bare feet.

Mrs. Powell told members of her family that she and Mrs. Weinand were in the basement and Coreen was sleeping upstairs when the fire was discovered.

After her screams woke Coreen, Mrs. Powell started upstairs with her mother. When she turned at the top, she saw only flames, said family spokesmen.

The flames and Coreen apparently prevented Mrs. Powell from returning to the basement. Mrs. Powell then called the operator before fleeing the home.

The township dispatcher reported that when the fire call came in, the caller suddenly dropped the telephone and "crackling" could be heard in the background.

An unidentified policeman carried Mrs. Powell to a police car. Township Police Chief Ron Nisun drove Mrs. Powell and Coreen to a

Library hearing tonight

Public hearing on the controversial township proposal to build a new library building on Six Mile Road takes place tonight at 8 p.m. at the township hall.

The hearing was scheduled following protests by township citizens questioning the necessity of such a facility.

As the proposal now stands, the township would build the library on the site of the new township hall complex on the north side of Six Mile Road, east of Bradner Road.

Township officials plan to finance construction of the building with federal grant monies.

Originally, the proposal called for a 6,000 square foot structure. However, officials now propose to trim this size to about 5,200 to reduce projected costs and to more approximate the $137,900 grant.

Apparently, officials propose to build the new facility whether or not it is operated jointly by the city and township as is the existing library, located in the lower level of the Northville Square shopping center.

Earlier, the city council stated that under no condition would it permit closing of the city-located library and a move to the township.

Citing the Wayne County federated library system's recommendation that the central business district is the better location for a library, the council also took the position that two libraries are unnecessary and financially impractical.

On the other hand, township officials contended the library's present location in a shopping center mall is too expensive, particularly in view of the uncertainty as to how long the library will be permitted to remain there.

In response to these arguments, the council has proposed to construct a library 6,000-square foot addition to the city hall at no expense to the township. The city hall is across Wing Street from the shopping center.

HOWELL — Prosecuting Attorney Frank KelVero has ruled that the Livingston County Board of Commissioners has violated the state's new Open Meetings Act by polling members on an expenditure over the telephone. KelVero also said the commission's finance committee must discontinue the practice of approving payments of bills by signing vouchers and not by a motion at a meeting open to the public.

GENOA — A South Lyon garbage collecting firm, New Way Service Company, has been fined $200 for late garbage collections in this township. Meanwhile, Wolverine Lake has told its rubbish removal contractor to stop tardy pickups or face loss of a $5,000 performance bond.

LYON — James Helfer has donated 7.3 acres of land on which a new Lyon Township Community Center will be built. Ground already has been broken on the center just north of the Lake Angela Co-op Apartments, owned by Helfer, on Martindale Road. Cost of the center is estimated at $50,000. The donated land has been appraised at $51,600.

SOUTH LYON — Ticked off because he parked his truck a space away from a "no truck parking" sign and was ticketed, Mike Heron went out and purchased for $6.50 a sign that he claims is more definitive and less likely to be misinterpreted. It reads, "No Truck Parking Entire Block." As for the ticket, Heron said: "I will give them a chance to take the ticket back if they like. Save them money not having to go to court to defend it."

NOVI — When the city's ambitious 18-mile road paving bond proposal was presented to voters in 1975, the battle cry was "Get Novi out of the mud." Now two years later, only three of the 18 miles have been paved and chances are slim that all 18 miles will be completed. Problems with specially assessing property owners along the roads to be paved have placed anywhere from two to five miles of paving in jeopardy.

NOVI — A decision on whether or not to hold a public hearing on combining eight parcels of Novi township for annexation has been postponed by the state boundary commission. The public hearing would be in response by Novi Township to combine the Brookland Farms subdivision with seven other parcels scattered on the perimeter of the city. If the parcels are combined, township residents would be allowed to vote on whether they want to join the city. If not, the seven parcels, excluding Brookland Farms, would automatically become part of the city.

NOVI — With reports of gunshots in the area of Novi schools, newly elected Mayor Romaine Roethel is proposing a hunting ban in the city. "With a community of over 14,000 people, it is a very dangerous thing for us to allow hunting at all," she declared.

Terrace view

This view of Allen Terrace, Northville senior citizen complex under construction on High Street by Northville High School, was taken from Randolph Street. The buildings, previously hidden by tree leaves, now are visible.

The picture gives a hint of the wooded views Terrace residents will be enjoying after occupancy, which is expected to be early next year.

Two local collegians named to 'Who's Who'

Two area residents have been named to "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges" at Northwood Institute.

They are: Bradford P. Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ransom P. Hall, 45763 Clement Court, and Timothy L. Sheehan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Sheehan, 45820 Bloomcrest Drive.

Hall is a candidate for the bachelor of business administration degree and has already received the associate of arts in hotel-restaurant management from Northwood.

Only four year students earning their bachelor's degree during 1977-78 and enrolled in Northwood of Michigan at the time of nomination are eligible for the award. They must also have a satisfactory scholastic record, participate and show leadership in academic and extra-curricular activities, show evidence of citizenship and service to Northwood, and show promise of future achievement.

Special education director Leonard Rezmierski helps pass the food at Thanksgiving feast

There's reason to give thanks

It's ISEP's third Thanksgiving

It was a situation that would have tried anyone's patience. Even Job would have been fidgety.

But the 175 mostly young people — primed and eager for a Thanksgiving feast — endured the 45-minute wait with admirable restraint.

In fact, it could be argued that these kids were better behaved than a normal group of nearly 200 children had they been asked to sit quietly at the banquet table for the better part of an hour.

These kids aren't "normal." They are mentally retarded.

They live in institutions — the Plymouth Center for Human Development and the Northville Residential Training Center — and, because of a 1971 law, they now go to school at various locations in western Wayne County.

Wednesday was the date for the third edition of what has become an annual rite — the pre-Thanksgiving Day dinner.

The students who had to wait for their food attend Burger Junior High School in Garden City. Similar dinners were served at Taft School in Livonia and Parkway School and Brainard School in Dearborn Heights.

All of the schools are rented for special education classes by the Northville Public Schools which administers the state-funded program.

The Burger staff — particularly those who have been with the Institution Special Education Program (ISEP) since it began two years ago — was obviously pleased with the way things went Wednesday.

"You have to understand that the first time we did this two years ago, a lot of these kids didn't use utensils — they used their hands instead," said one staff member.

He shook his head, laughed and indicated there would have been something resembling pandemonium had there been a 45-minute wait before ISEP's first Thanksgiving.

This year, not only did the students sit quietly and courteously, eat with good manners and pass food to their classmates and guests, but some even helped served the four, long rows of tables.

Depending on the different levels of retardation, varying degrees of conversations were under way at most tables.

The guests — including State Senator Robert Geake, Northville Superintendent Raymond Spear, school board President John Hobart and Vice President Douglas Whitaker — had to be impressed.

To those at Burger, the meal was living justification of the 1971 law which mandated education for all Michigan handicapped residents under the age of 26.

Prior to ISEP, the state's under-staffed residential centers were unable to provide the almost individual attention now given during school hours to the retarded.

'Before a lot of these kids didn't use utensils — they used their hands instead'

The progress of some students is used by ISEP people as an argument for the need to keep them out of institutions.

Burger, to be sure, is where the most educable, most trainable and most easily controlled students go to school. It even has an expanding vocational program.

At other schools, where the students' retardation is more severe, IQ's are at 30 and much below. There, it may be a major undertaking to teach students in their 20's to sit in a chair, recognize their names, or go to the bathroom.

Still, optimism abounds. At Taft, a teacher recently showed a touring group her class — half of which was unsuccessfully trying to catch hula hoops, the others sitting morosely around a table.

"It may not look like much," she said. "But when they first got here, all they did was sit on the floor."

The cost of this experiment is staggering. The budget for educating 800 ISEP students this year is $5.7 million. That's more than $7000 a kid or better than four times as much the amount spent on Northville's K-12 students.

Dollar-and-cents talk paled when young, retarded Holly — stuffed full with turkey, dressing and a second helping of potatoes and gravy — gleefully clasped hands with Superintendent Spear and gave a "right on" handshake to a departing reporter.

Nobody was thinking about costs, either, when it was time for grace.

It was said by a black student who carried out his duty solemnly and then basked in well-deserved praise the rest of the day.

He was assisted by a young, white lad who interpreted the prayer into sign language for his deaf classmates.

It was a special time for giving thanks.

Board studies change in restaurant's name

A name change has the Northville Township Board wondering about a township restaurant, but the owner of the establishment says the change reflects only a change in philosophy and not in ownership.

Questions about the ownership of Papa Geppetto's New Life Restaurant arose at a recent township board meeting and prompted the board to ask Township Supervisor Wilson Grier to look into the situation.

Board members said they had heard rumors that the restaurant had changed hands when the name "New Life" was added, and trustees wondered what effect, if any, the new situation might have on the restaurant's status regarding its liquor license.

Supervisor Grier said he has written to the state Liquor Control Commission to investigate whether any irregularities regarding ownership or the restaurant's liquor license have occurred.

Meanwhile, Don Musselman, owner of the restaurant, said no change in ownership has taken place.

"There's been a change in name and philosophy, but not in ownership," said Musselman, proprietor of the Northville Plaza establishment.

Musselman said the name change is

Stay in Orient fosters artist's talent

The paintings are large and colorful — almost luminous. The four which are completed depict fish in watery scenes. The two yet to come will depict sandpipers along the shore and a Japanese seascape. Their accomplishment through the mixed media of water-colors and mat board is unusual but pleasing.

The artist herself is also somewhat unusual.

Kathryn Allen didn't start painting seriously until she had moved far away and was living in a foreign land. Self-described as "shy and recalcitrant," she needed to be in a situation "where people weren't looking over my shoulder" before she could begin to explore her own artistic talents.

Mrs. Allen began testing those talents, however. And today she is testing them more and more, coming up with new projects day after day, stretching and trying her artistic wings.

Mrs. Allen, of 538 Grace Street, Northville, began painting when she was living in Japan. Her husband had gone there to teach English as a foreign language and they were living on the slopes of Mt. Fuji.

During the six years the Allens lived abroad, in Japan and England, Mrs. Allen experimented with various art forms, many of them Oriental.

When the Allens returned to the United States, they discovered Christianity. Now, Mrs. Allen is combining her faith and her artistic ability into a satisfying lifestyle.

"It was Christ which helped my husband and I settle in Northville," Mrs. Allen says. "We were on our way East after returning from abroad when we stopped off to visit my family in Birmingham.

"We got involved with some people who attended the Christian Community Church on Six Mile Road and we found we liked what they were doing. We had been searching for reality and it seemed we had suddenly found it."

"One of the things which has since blossomed for Mrs. Allen has been her painting. She has nearly finished her latest project — creating six pictures to adorn the walls of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Building in Troy — and she is simultaneously involved in several other artistic endeavors.

The "shy and recalcitrant" Mrs. Allen has come a long way from the time when she began studying Sumi-e, the Japanese calligraphic painting of birds and flowers.

The Allens lived in Japan twice, for a total of five years. While there, in addition to Sumi-e, Mrs. Allen also studied Japanese Batik and Bingata, the stencil-making technique used to decorate kimonos.

Mrs. Allen held an exhibition of her work at the American Club in Tokyo before returning to the United States three years ago.

Since moving to Northville two years ago, Mrs. Allen has been busy tending to her husband and 17-month-old son — as well as her artistic endeavors.

"It's a good way to work at it," she explains. "And my son is my best audience. When he sees my paintings, he claps and points at them and smiles."

It was perhaps partially with her young son in mind that Mrs. Allen embarked upon another recent project — the authoring of two books, one for "Christian children," the other for "Christian young people."

Mrs. Allen wrote the two fictional works and hopes to not only have them published but to illustrate them herself.

"You can pretty quickly exhaust what's available to read if you're a Christian these days," Mrs. Allen says.

"But I like to read and I think youngsters should read, too."

"I don't know if I'll be able to illustrate them myself or not but I would rather have my pictures in them, since I can draw, than to have someone else do them. So I'm hoping to talk the publishers into it."

In the meanwhile, Mrs. Allen won't want for things to do. She has the two other paintings to complete for the insurance building and she also hopes to do some work for the walls of her church's youth chapel.

"I'd like to donate some of my work to the church," Mrs. Allen says, "because since we found Christ, all things have fallen into place for us."

State takes low road bids

Eisenhour Construction Co. of East Lansing was lowest of six bidders at $4,621,948 for paving five miles of the M-14 Freeway in western Wayne County, the Department of State Highways and Transportation announced.

Bids on the project were taken November 16 in Lansing, with bids on 37 other highway and airport construction and maintenance projects. Sixteen of the projects were those postponed from the bid-taking scheduled for October.

M&B Contracting Company of Novi was lowest of eight bidders on two adjacent projects for reconstruction and modernization of 4.4 miles of US-10 (Telegraph Road) in Oakland County. The two low bids on the projects totaled $8,938,136.

Kensington Corporation of Novi and Greenfield Construction Company of Livonia were lowest of six bidders with a joint bid of $2,883,920 for reconstruction of the median, including removal of guardrail and construction of concrete median barrier, on 7.8 miles of I-75 in Lincoln Park, Melvindale and Detroit.

The M-14 project won by Eisenhour involves 5.1 miles of paving from east of Napier Road (Wayne County line) and the C&O Railroad and between Sheldon and Schoolcraft roads in Plymouth Township. The project is slated for completion by November, 1978.

'Most important in 150 years'

Houston conference inspires six

"A man of quality is not threatened by a woman of equality."

The six women sitting in the living room of the Doris Bailo home, Northville, had just returned from the National Women's Conference in Houston and were admiring a button one of them had found there.

The group may not have appeared to be typical feminists. They are, however, all members of the Tri-County Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc. (BPW), which states as its goal the elevation and promotion of women in business and the professions.

The host of the meeting, Doris Bailo, is 50 years old and has 11 children. Three still live at home, and four are at college. Mrs. Bailo is a real estate broker at her husband's office, J. L. Hudson Realty in South Lyon.

Colleen Chadwick, also 50, works for Vaughn McClain, a South Lyon attorney. She is married and has four children, ranging in age from 24 to six.

Hollice Holycross, 32, is between jobs, but she was most recently a legal secretary. She has never been married.

Katina Gertz, 39, works for Michigan Kwikie Duplicating in Novi. She is a widow with one child.

Doris Richter 56, is a nurse at Beverly Manor Nursing Home in Novi. She is married and has no children.

Perhaps the most like a person's preconception of a feminist is Doris Bailo's daughter, Susan. Susan is 28, single, and will graduate from Cooley Law School, in Lansing, in August.

These six women may appear to have little in common. On the contrary, however, they feel they have much in common not only with each other, but with the 20,000 other women who gathered in Houston this week to voice support for women's rights in general and the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) in particular.

What brings them together, they say, is a common experience which at first shocked but then angered them.

"When I was growing up, I never felt any man was naturally better than me — you had to prove it to me," Mrs. Gertz said. "It came as quite a shock when I found out, according to some, and by law, that I was not equal."

Mrs. Bailo said she felt the same surprise and was upset that she was considered inferior because she was a woman. "I was at the top of my class in school," Mrs. Bailo said. "I got better grades than my brothers. My brothers went on to college after high school. No one ever thought of allowing me to go to college like my brothers."

"My brothers became engineers," Mrs. Bailo continued. "And I don't see why I couldn't have become an engineer. I tell my children — male or female, they have equal rights to do what they want."

To support, and insure these equal rights, by showing their support for the Equal Rights Amendment, was one of the reasons the women say they travelled to Houston to attend the conference. Each said she is glad she made the trip.

"It was great to see all these women get together to support one issue," Mrs. Chadwick said. "Democrats and Republicans alike stood side by side in support of the ERA."

"It was the most important women's meeting in 150 years," Mrs. Bailo said. "And we wanted to be there. I was impressed by the amount of women and the enthusiasm of the women."

"It was very inspirational, very educational, and I felt proud just being a part of it all," Mrs. Gertz said.

Friday the women attended special programs sponsored by the BPW, which is an international group. The program included speeches by ex-Congresswoman Martha Griffiths and ex-presidential secretary and author, Liz Carpenter. The two spoke mostly of the ERA and the benefits it would bring women.

The conference actually began Saturday with a fundraiser attended by Rosalynn Carter, Lady Bird Johnson, and Coretta King, among other well-known women. Approximately $100,000 was raised for use in the fight to ratify the ERA, Susan Bailo said.

In between exhibits and other rallies, the women attended the voting by the delegates on the 26 resolutions concerning women's rights, which was the main purpose for the conference.

Of the 26 resolutions, only one did not pass, the resolution calling for a cabinet level committee to protect women's rights. Though little time was allowed for debate on each issue, some issues were very controversial, Susan said.

"Only the resolution calling for no discrimination when giving credit passed unanimously," Susan said. Resolutions calling for the adoption of the ERA, reproductive freedom, and freedom in sexual preference, among others, were disputed. (see related story)

The reason for the disputes were that anti-ERA women were well represented in state delegations, Susan said. In some state delegations, Susan said she believes they were over-represented.

"Hawaii was the first state to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment," Susan said. "But the Hawaii delegation did not include one pro-ERA woman."

The women said they were very aware of the "anti" convention, as they termed it, near the Houston Astrodome, but that it did not cause any major problems at the conference.

"They seemed to stay at their convention," Susan said. "When we ran into them, we argued but it did not get unpleasant."

The BPW women did say, however, that they were angered by the tactics used by the anti-ERA group.

"I love my children and my family," — that's what their signs said," Mrs.

Bailo said "Like I don't love my children, my family?"

"We really think that being pro-ERA is being pro-family. The ERA has to do with equal pay, which would be good for the family. Especially for women who are raising children alone. The ERA would hold the family together."

Women who are anti-ERA have always had someone to take care of them," Mrs. Richter said. "They'd feel differently if they didn't."

Susan said she believed the anti-ERA women were confused. "They voted against the resolutions dealing with handling and trying to decrease wife beating and child abuse," Susan said. "I can't figure that out at all."

The women thought too much was made of the gay rights issue, though they all agreed that homosexuals deserve the same rights as everyone else.

"The ERA has nothing to do with homosexual rights," Mrs. Bailo said. "But the anti-ERA people try to imply that anyone who is for the ERA is a lesbian."

The women said their own biggest goal, and the goal of the BPW, is to get the Equal Rights Amendment passed. An economic boycott of all states that have not passed the amendment is planned, Susan said.

"We are planning to send a letter to the governor of each state that has not passed the amendment," Susan said.

"It will read, 'We intend to boycott: all products manufactured or produced in your state, all travel to or in your state, and any conventions will be discouraged from being held in your state, until the ERA is ratified."

Companies based in states that have not ratified will receive a similar letter and all their products will be boycotted, Susan said.

The women said their husbands are supportive of their roles in the women's movement. "My husband is behind my involvement all the way," Mrs. Bailo said. "He doesn't mind at all."

Mrs. Richter said her husband encourages her to go to meetings and get involved. "He is just great," she said.

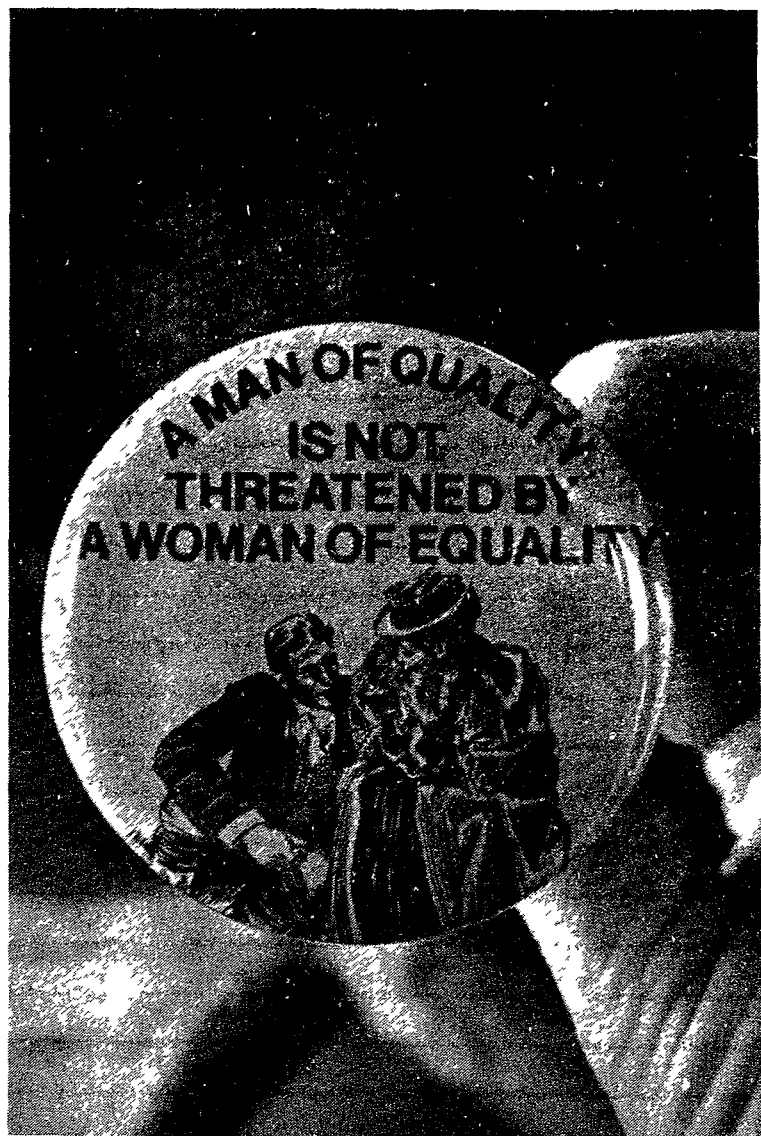

"If my husband were here, he would be supportive," Mrs. Gertz said. "I think any intelligent man would be supportive."

Mrs. Gertz said she believed a lot of women came home from the convention with the idea that they would like to run for political office. Mrs. Bailo said she thought she would like to be a delegate to a national political convention.

"One of the most important aspects about the convention is that we shattered a myth," Hollycross said. "Contrary to a most accepted opinion — that women cannot get along — we did get along — and look what we did."

"There were four to six women sharing rooms because it was so crowded," Hollycross added. "We were tired, and hungry most of the time. But everyone was congenial, even women without rooms who were sitting in the lobbies."

"Lady Bird really summed up the feeling," Mrs. Gertz said, "when she said: 'I thought this was my daughter's fight, but I suddenly realized it was mine.'"

"I think any intelligent man would be supportive"

Panel probes child abuse

abuse of children who come to their schools from both institutions have been lost in a red tape shuffle.

Rezmierski, in the article that angered Worden's, said 15 cases of suspected abuse had been reported by his staff in the last 18 months.

He said the centers needed a "get tough" policy.

Worden countercharged in his letter to Spear by alluding to "accusations which have been made against your own staff and our lack of satisfaction regarding your resolution of some of those cases."

In a telephone interview Monday, Worden said there were one or two such incidents but added that they were "not current."

Rezmierski said that one special education staffer has been fired and several others reprimanded as the result of abuse charges. A Plymouth Center employee, who is facing court charges for child abuse, has also been fired.

In his letter, Worden said child abuse was a common problem and concern.

"It happens. What we must do is to try to minimize its occurrence and to take remedial action against any perpetrators."

Last Tuesday, Spear and Rezmierski met with representatives from DSS, ORR and the Plymouth Center to resolve child abuse reporting problems.

Spear said the meeting was "constructive" and that another session is scheduled for early January.

Northville hosts eight Guatemalan teens

"Charley's Angels" was a television favorite

Indian garb will give way to Northville T-shirts back home

Eight youngsters will be taking Northville T-shirts to their Guatemalan homes this year.

In exchange, they opened a few eyes to the similarities — as well as differences — of foreign life.

All in all, everyone seems to feel it was a fair trade.

"The PTA gave them the T-shirts and they loved them," said Gladys Cohen, a counselor at Cooke Junior High School.

The eight — four boys and four girls, aged 13 and 14 — are staying in Detroit area homes for five weeks as part of the Interchange Program.

The Guatemalan school year is from January to October so this is their vacation period. This summer, children in the American host homes will visit their guests in Guatemala for five weeks.

Since one of the Guatemalans, Roberto, is staying with the Cohens, their son Jordan will be one of the Americans going to Latin America.

It was a busy schedule Tuesday for the Guatemalans. They visited all four elementary and two junior high schools in the district, giving dance shows and answering questions at each stop.

Although all eight are Spanish, they wore costumes to portray their country's Indian population which descended from the Mayans.

At one stop, the visitors were taken back a bit when a student asked them if they normally wore shoes.

Each of the teenagers came from a family that was in the upper-middle class strata or higher.

The ice was broken — and the similarities exposed — when the Amerman Elementary School youngster asked them what their favorite television show is.

"Charley's Angels," was the consensus reply.

From there, it was easily revealed the "Star Wars," disco dancing and blue jeans play as big a role in the life of a Guatemalan teen as with their American counterparts.

The student's visit to Northville was organized by the Junior Entertainment Committee.

Workshop to teach about ornaments

Northville Public Library is holding a workshop for children in grades four through six who would like to make Christmas tree ornaments.

The workshop will be held in the library at 10 a.m. on Saturday, December 10.

The ornaments which the children make, using supplies furnished by the library, will be hung on the library Christmas tree.

Participants should bring in any scraps of ribbon or lace, as well as bits of jewelry, to help decorate the ornaments.

Those who wish to attend should register at the library or by calling 349-3020.

Library hours are expanded

The Bradner Library at Schoolcraft College will open from 1 to 8 p.m. on the three Sundays of December 4-11-18.

It will also be open those hours on Sundays during the Winter Semester beginning January 29.

The decision to provide weekend hours was made by President C. Nelson Grote in response to numerous requests from students unable to use the library during the week.

Weekend hours had been discontinued during the fall of 1975 in order to save energy and reduce operating expenses.

This menu offers 'mystery in the round'

Dinner theater is suburbia's fastest growing industry. What, then, can be different about Schoolcraft College's December 2-3 offering?

For one thing, it will be theater-in-the-round, a phenomenon which hasn't been seen in these parts in a half-generation. The performers are surrounded on four sides by the audience, and everyone is closer to the action.

For a second, it's Agatha Christie's "Murder in the Vicarage," with a cast of 13. Most dinner theaters offer shows specifically written for that medium, with casts of four, two and even one actor, to hold down costs.

For a third, there's the Schoolcraft culinary arts program's cuisine. Anything associated with dining there is usually a sellout as soon as a two-paragraph announcement hits this newspaper. At this writing, there may be no tickets left at the bookstore on the main campus at 18600 Haggerty, Livonia.

"This is kind of an experimental thing," said Dr. Lawrence Rudick, instructor in speech and theater and director of the student performance.

"I've done some theater in the round in the past. The old rules of movement? You practically throw them out the window because they don't apply."

Not only will the action be in the center of the room in the upper level of the Waterman Campus Center, but the stage is 36 inches high, aiding visibility.

"One problem is that the openness of the stage demands good vocal projection. I'm surprised it (our cast) is as good as it is. We do use some mikes," he said.

A second problem is British accents. Here he and the cast had help from London-born Claire Islip, who works in two-year college's registrar's office.

Dr. Rudick, a 10-year veteran of teaching at Schoolcraft, returns as director after a two-year rest. In the past, he has directed "Our Town," "A Doll's House," and "Born Yesterday" and worked with other directors.

"I used to belong to a community group — the Hartland Dramatic Club," he smiles. "I played character roles."

In 1971 he earned his doctorate from Stanford University in dramatic literature and play production, writing a 641-page dissertation on the Detroit theater from 1962-75.

In an Agatha Christie play, you can be sure there will be two mysteries: Who will be the victim (answered in the second scene of Act I)? And whodunnit (sometimes never answered)?

Her detective in "Vicarage" is Miss Jane Marple, the dignified student of human nature and of gardening, played in the movies by square-jawed Margaret Rutherford.

Schoolcraft, no longer dominated by recent high school graduates, will have

GOOD TIME FOR WINE

by Jim Roth

The drinking habits of America have changed, and wine producers and distributors are profiting from it. In the past year, a wine magazine estimated that the demand for premium (wines costing over $2.00) table wines has increased 20%. This search for better wines by Americans has grown faster than the supply, especially in the finer white California wines. If you have a favorite in this group, better stock up before it is all gone.

We are here at GOOD TIME PARTY STORE, 567 Seven Mile Road, 349-1477 to help you select one bottle of wine or many, for yourself or to give as gifts. Don't hesitate to ask any questions you may have concerning wines. You'll also find a large selection of liquors in popular sizes and have beer and wine on ice for immediate use. Open: 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. Mon. thru Sat., Noon to 6 p.m. Sunday.

WINE WISDOM: Dry riesling wine is good to drink with meals rather than with cheese and crackers.

Your doors don't have to be dull as dishwater. They can be given a variety of different treatments if you draw on the inspiration of the past. The beautifully carved Gothic doors, the rich bronze doors of the Renaissance or the delicate painted Rococo all provide a history of period and design to use in your contemporary living. Today, solid woods louvered or accordion panels, paint, mirrors, felt, leather, plastic or fabric can serve many decorative needs. Ornamental interest can be created by adding distinctive molding or antique brass door pulls or knockers. A door is no longer just a door, it's an integral part of a decorating scheme.

When you want ideas on how to decorate your home, talk to us at GREEN'S CREATIVE HOME CENTER, 107 N. Center St., 349-7110. We have many ideas that will please your personal tastes and budget requirements. Our work is our best advertisement. Let us show you beautiful window shades, woven and otherwise, unpainted furniture, FULLER-O'BRIEN PAINTS, wallcoverings, etc. Let us help you avoid the costly and disappointing mistakes so common in decorating your home.

Township firemen fight fatal blaze

Fighting vainly to bring a raging house fire under control Tuesday morning, Northville Township firemen were beaten back when they attempted unsuccessfully to rescue a 75 year old grandmother trapped in the basement. See story on Page 1. Photos by Jack Margolis.

HOWELL — Prosecuting Attorney Frank Kelvero has ruled that the Livingston County Board of Commissioners has violated the state's new Open Meetings Act by polling members on an expenditure over the telephone. Kelvero also said the commission's finance committee must discontinue the practice of approving payments of bills by signing vouchers and not by a motion at a meeting open to the public.

GENOA — A South Lyon garbage collecting firm, New Way Service Company, has been fined $200 for late garbage collections in this township. Meanwhile, Wolverine Lake has told its rubbish removal contractor to stop lardy pickups or face loss of a $5,000 performance bond.

BRIGHTON — Efforts by the Michigan Township Association to delay the state supreme court's controversial ruling came under attack here by the city council, which is asking the supreme court to set a date for annexation of 413 Brighton Township acres. The association's appeal, said Brighton City Attorney, is "spurious" and causes serious delay. The townships have asked for a rehearing before the supreme court or, as an alternative, a 20-day stay order to allow them time to seek relief in the United States Supreme Court or a United States District Court in Michigan.

RUSTPROOFING.
EITHER YOU HAVE IT OR YOU DON'T

Car makers don't build the rustproof car and no car dealer can deliver the real rustproofing you get with the exclusive Ziebart process.

Don't be misled by some sweeping references to anti-corrosion methods used in building some 1977 cars. Real rustproofing must be done after the car is built. And it must cover every critical area inside and under the car. That's the proven Ziebart method. There are no shortcuts. That's why your Ziebart Dealer uses nine different patented spray tools to reach rust-prone areas. That's why he uses a rustproofing sealant that actually penetrates welded seams where rust can start. Your Ziebart Dealer can deliver a rustproofed 1977 car because that's his business—and he knows it. Call him.

Split tax plan best for area

Another study has been launched in Northville over the controversial proposal to establish a split-tax collection system here for the school district.

The proposal suggests that half of the school taxes be collected in the summer, the other half in the winter. Presently, school taxes are collected by the city and township for the school system in the winter.

Purpose of the proposal is to save the school district thousands of dollars it must pay out for borrowing money to meet bills that come due before the winter taxes arrive.

Although we doubt the study will do much more than update financial data and trigger a new round of debate, we remain hopeful split tax collection will be given a fair hearing. It is not an emotional issue, as some have suggested, but rather a serious, pocketbook matter.

As readers know, this newspaper has advocated the split tax collection for years. We are convinced it is a sound, workable solution to eliminating an annual waste of tax dollars. Since 1971, the Northville School District has paid out $398,551 in interest that largely could have been saved had split tax collection been in operation.

Contrary to what many believe or suspect, this waste does not mean mismanagement of money by the school board or school administrators. They, like any consumer, are victims of the system.

Unfortunately, the school district does not enjoy the ability to make its expenditure year coincide with its income year. By law, its budget runs from July to June. Its tax income arrives, for the most part, in January. The city's budget, on the other hand, begins in July — the same time income arrives. The township's budget begins in April — three months after its income arrives.

When payday arrives for city and township policemen, the city and township have received money to pay their employees. When payday arrives for teachers working in September, October and November, school tax income has not yet arrived. That's why the school district is forced to borrow money.

The arguments opponents of split tax collection use here are the same arguments used in Novi before that community wisely adopted split tax collection. Many of the arguments in Novi have proven to be either false or minimal inconveniences. But the "proof of the pudding" is that split tax collection is working in Novi, is doing exactly what it is intended to do, and is not working a financial hardship on the vast majority of Novi taxpayers.

Let's look at some of the arguments that are surfacing here again:

• If the school board was truly interested in the taxpayers' welfare it would return any savings resulting from split tax collection directly to the taxpayers.

This argument, ironically, is made most often by city and township officials who ought to know better. Obviously, the school board has no intention of directly returning the savings to the taxpayers. It intends to use the savings to help fund school programs. Indirectly, the taxpayers do benefit because recovery of wasted money minimizes the need for additional taxes. We are not so naive, however, to believe that the savings represented by split tax collection is a panacea.

What disturbs us about this argument when used by city and township officials is that these same officials do not also suggest that surpluses in city and township treasuries be returned directly to taxpayers.

• Mortgage companies and banking institutions will not "go along" with split tax collections.

This argument is false. Financial institutions have no choice. If they want to continue to do business locally they have to cooperate. What's more, Novi reports they "are cooperating beautifully," after some initial balking by a few.

• It would cost taxpayers as much or more to provide early school tax payments as it now costs the school district to borrow money for them.

Theoretically, this argument has validity. But, practically speaking, relatively few city and township taxpayers bank money to be eventually used to pay their taxes. By far the greatest number of taxpayers in both the city and township pay their taxes through monthly mortgage accounts and are not enjoying the bank interest rates as are those who pay taxes directly.

And even many of those who pay their taxes directly are not earning a full year's interest on money earmarked for taxes. They are building up their bank savings accounts over the year in much the same way mortgage escrow accounts build up over the year.

• Senior citizens suffer because of split taxes.

Quite the contrary, experience has shown in Novi and other communities with split tax collection that senior citizens prefer to divide their tax payments rather than paying it all in one lump sum during the holiday period.

Furthermore, late payment of summer collected taxes would not be penalized until the deadline for payment of winter taxes.

• Split tax collection would disrupt mortgage escrows.

There is no disputing this argument. During the first year of operation, split tax collection will require larger escrow payments. But after the first year of split tax collection, escrow account payments should be no greater than they are with single tax collections.

• It would be cheaper for the taxpayer if the school district raised its taxes by one-half mill to cover the cost of borrowing money.

Theoretically, if all or most of taxpayers banked earmarked tax money for a year prior to payment this argument would stand up. But most do not pay taxes directly, most do not bank ear-

Speaking for Myself

Satisfied with Carter?

ROBERT FITZPATRICK

YES...

Yes. President Carter is attempting to fulfill his promises to the American people.

His platform was to reduce the national debt, unemployment, federal bureaucracy and reform the tax systems and welfare, as well as confront the complex issues of energy conservation.

In the coming months we will hear a great cry from those who will be the most affected by these reforms; the entrenched federal bureaucracy, the international oil cartels, the multi-national corporations and those institutions that create the inflation which reduces the purchasing power of retirees, wage earners, small businessmen and in general, middle America.

The American public responded last year to the Carter call, "Why not the best?"

The apathy created by Watergate is fading and once again, those who care are becoming interested in government on all levels.

When office holders and bureaucrats...Republicans and Democrats alike believe they serve only a chosen few, it is time to turn them out of office. We can no longer stand for mediocrity.

Whether in the Federal government, the state of Michigan, Livingston County, or locally, in future elections, let us remember, "Why not the best?" The President's goals are still commendable. That is why President Carter still gets my vote.

Robert E. Fitzpatrick
Livingston County Democratic Party Chairman

JOE RICHARDS

NO...

Reasonable men will always differ on approaches to problem-solving and so I find myself in disagreement with much the Carter administration is proposing. Yet more troublesome than these specifics is the almost cavalier way in which President Carter has broken the promises and pledges that got him into the White House. Space does not permit a complete list, but let me name a few.

Last year candidate Carter said politics should not enter into the selection of federal prosecutors. Yet in May he fired, without cause, U.S. Attorney Philip Van Dam of Detroit and replaced him with a supporter of Senator Donald Riegle.

Last year candidate Carter said that he owed nothing to any special interest group. Yet by the end of the campaign he had received some $250,000 from maritime interests and was pushing a cargo preference bill his own advisors called political payoff.

In his Inauguration Address, President Carter said of President Ford, "For myself and for our nation, I want to thank my predecessor for all he has done to heal our land." By June, Carter's Ambassador Andrew Young was calling that same man a racist and Jimmy Carter was silently acquiescing in that statement.

And finally, in his campaign, candidate Carter said that his administration would not only avoid impropriety, but the appearance of impropriety. By August he was telling the American people he was "proud of Bert Lance."

JACK W. HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

Most of us probably will just smile it away as an empty threat.

But when Frederick Boyd, an old friend of this writer, says Oakland University and some of its people are headed for "real trouble" he's not whistling through turkey feathers.

He reminds us that Custer probably tried to smile away impending disaster at Little Big Horn.

An American Indian, who is an official representative of Indian tribes throughout the state, Boyd is mad enough to consider dabbling himself with warpaint.

Worse still, he's afraid those who desecrated an Indian cemetery near Rochester may have brought down a "terrible" curse upon themselves.

"We gave those university people five days to return the Indian remains and the religious symbols they stole and they didn't do it. It's (the curse) out of our hands at this point, Jack," he told me. "Even if they return them now the 'bearwalk' already may be cast. The dark cloud of trouble may be settling down over them."

What's more Boyd has warned the university that the modern-day Indian warpath leads straight to the courtroom and to the university's pocketbook.

In case you are not aware of what happened, suffice it to say an Indian burial ground was accidentally uncovered during some construction work recently. By the time Boyd's organization, the North American Indian Association learned about it, citizens in the vicinity and university personnel had excavated the area and carted off at least 13 skeletons, a peace pipe and a quantity of wampum.

They were "just like a flock of vultures, picking away at carcasses," Boyd insisted.

"Can you imagine the howl that would go up if I robbed a white man's cemetery or if I broke into one of your churches in Northville and stole something from the altar?"

"What really grinds me about this appalling, despicable act near Rochester is that so-called learned men argue that this was an ancient burial ground and therefore different. In the interest of increasing man's knowledge about Indians it had to be ripped open and the remains carted off probably to be displayed in some showcase someplace.

"For Indians the burial place is more sacred than the white man's cemetery. It is our church, our altar, our communion cup. Age of a cemetery makes absolutely no difference. It's just as bad to rob a 1000-year-old cemetery as it is to steal bodies from a one-year-old cemetery."

Curious about "bearwalk," I pressed him for an explanation.

Denies 'mislead'

To the Editor:

I did, indeed, submit to Joann and Bill Dayton a petition to incorporate Northville Township into the city of Northville Hills. I circulated the petition not because I want or expect incorporation to become a reality, but because this is currently the only way we can protect our community from piecemeal annexation.

When Joann told me she felt she had been misled, I contacted the State Boundary Commission and had their names removed from the petition.

Joann and Bill, when I left your house, I honestly felt you knew what you had signed, and why I was circulating the petition. The petition clearly states that it is a "city incorporation petition". I do not feel I misled you. However, if you do indeed feel an apology is necessary, you have my most humble public apology in the hope that peace and tranquility may once again prevail on Banbury Road.

Sincerely,
Dick Henningsen

To the Editor:

On Tuesday, November 22, 1977, the Northville Public Schools were host to a group of eight exchange students from Guatemala. These students, with their Guatemalan adult leader toured the four elementary schools and the two junior high schools and presented a lecture demonstration.

The eight students danced while Carmen Ciudad - Real, their leader, lectured about the Indian cultures that were represented by the costumes.

Many thanks to the Junior Entertainment committee of the PTA. Special thanks to Joan Sellen, Junior Entertainment chairperson of Cooke PTA, who not only arranged and coordinated the six presentations but arrived in Southfield at 7 a.m. to help drive the group, chauffeured them all day, and then returned them to Detroit at the end of the day.

Also the exchange students, Javier Martinez, Julio Roberto Escoban, Roberto Rosenberg, Paul Herbert Avirlin, Rosa Maria Botran, Lourdes Jimenez, Monserrat Guzman, and Veronica Keller, send their thanks to the PTA for the Northville tee-shirts, which will go to Guatemala when the group returns to their homes on December 3, 1977.

marked tax monies for a year. The majority of taxpayers here pay taxes through monthly mortgage accounts and this majority would lose, not gain, by such a tax increase.

• Cost of collecting school taxes twice a year would be a financial burden on collecting agencies.

The additional cost is minimal, according to Novi officials. Furthermore, the Northville School Board has offered to pick up any additional cost incurred by the city and township.

• City council members have stated in the past that they are willing to adopt split tax collection but only if the township does also. To make city taxpayers pay

Only Miss Marple and Dr. John Haydock, a physician who enjoys philosophical discussions with the vicar, are above suspicion. Dr. Haydock is played by Charles Montgomery of Plymouth.

— played by Buzz Buzzell of Livonia, a Navy veteran and band musician who has some stage experience in Utah.

Grisolda Clement, the vicar's devoted and young wife — played by Lisa Danke of Livonia.

Dennis, the live-wire, thrill-seeking teenage nephew of the vicar — played by Steve Massel of Northville.

Ronald Hawes, the intense but sarcastic curate — played by Michael Groves of Northville.

Lettice Protheroe, Dennis' girlfriend (with eyes for another cast member), a rich, spoiled brat — played by Paige Lysinger of Northville.

Lawrence Redding, an artist, charming and two-faced — played by Marc Harlow of Livonia.

Inspector Slack, who quizzes everyone — played by Steve Swanson of Livonia.

Mary, the cockney maid — played by Karen Weinberg, who is well acquainted with the technical side of theater from her work at Clarenceville High.

The constable — played by Kenneth Keating of Plymouth, who also plays the corpse.

Anne Protheroe, Lettice's step-mother, who at one point confesses the murder (as does another character — played by Anna Maria Warmann of Livonia).

Mrs. Price Ridley, who has spent years in India and considers herself above everyone else — played by Janine Hill of Livonia.

Bob Gregory, known for his high quality of work at Clarenceville High, is teaching Schoolcraft's technical courses in theater and is technical director of "Vicarage."

Said Dr. Rudick: "We're building This year we have the most number of persons interested in theater that we've had since I've been here."

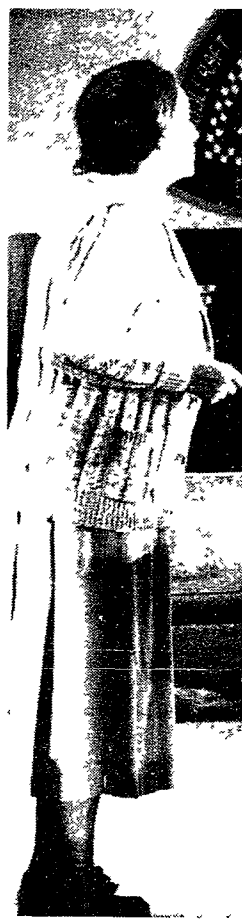

Chef Robert Breithaupt has announced a menu of cornish game hen, tossed salad, herbed rice with water-cress, assorted rolls and breads, and choice of beverages and dessert twice, while permitting township taxpayers to continue paying once would be unfair to the city.

This argument is a little like the child who knocks down a sand castle rather than have an uncooperative playmate enjoy it.

If the city believes split tax collection is worthwhile, as we firmly believe, it ought not knock it down just so an uncooperative township cannot enjoy the benefits. One supportive government is better than none.

Had Novi taken this attitude it wouldn't have split tax collection today. After all, quite a few of its property owners are paying taxes twice a year to the Northville school system. And they, in effect, are helping the Northville schools in a way that the city and township of Northville have, up to this point, refused to do.

Yule dollars up for grabs

First drawing in the annual Christmas Dollars project sponsored by Northville stores is scheduled Monday, December 5.

Any person may register for the drawing at any of the participating merchants' stores, officials of the retail merchants association point out. No purchase is necessary to qualify, they add.

Winners will receive Christmas Dollars certificates, each worth one dollar in purchasing of any merchandise in the store. Minimum prize is worth $10, maximum $50.

Store visitors may register at all or just one of the participating stores. The more stores a person registers at, however, the better his or her chance of winning.

Just before the drawing, the merchants association will collect all registrations, put them in a single box and draw the names of the winners. Upon conclusion of the December 5 drawing, the old registrations are destroyed and new registrations for a second drawing will be taken.

The second drawing will be held Monday, December 12.

Under the rules of the promotion, all Christmas Dollars must be spent by December 31, 1977.

Bearwalk, he said, is a "supernatural, religious phenomenon" invoked by Indian shaman or witchdoctors. Today, in Michigan, there are only three shaman capable of casting a bearwalk. Their identity is a secret, although Boyd insisted he is not one of them.

Bearwalk may be cast against a single person, a group of people, an institution (such as Oakland University) or against a place. Like voodoo, it can mean death, ill health, irrational behavior or a string of bad luck for those upon whom it is cast.

For Indians bearwalk is as sacred and meaningful as is communion for religious white or black man.

It is used only as a "last resort," when all else has failed.

It is being considered, for example, against the University of Michigan with whom the Indians have been fighting unsuccessfully in the courts for some five years. "The treaty that gave the university its lands stipulated that the university provide free education for Indians," Boyd said.

U-M has refused to honor this treaty and "we're running out of patience. If this lawsuit isn't settled soon we may have to use bearwalk."

Football addicted U-M ought not treat such a threat lightly. Given Bo's record in the Rose Bowl, he doesn't need the bad luck of a bearwalk to complicate matters.

Pharmacies carry it

Local doctors don't recommend liquid diet

Liquid protein, believed associated with at least 16 deaths nationwide in connection with the "liquid protein diet," is sold in Northville but not recommended by area physicians.

At least two drug stores in the greater Northville area stock liquid protein, which is the main ingredient of a diet featured in a book entitled "The Last Chance Diet".

Federal authorities are currently investigating the substance due to recent disclosure which have labeled liquid protein as a possible factor in at least 16 deaths.

Both the Northville Pharmacy and Perry Drugs currently stock liquid protein, although representatives of both stores note that sales of the substance have not been brisk as of late.

"We still have some but we haven't sold much lately," said Al Potts of the Northville Pharmacy. "And in light of the recent problems, I think it should be suspended until the causes of those deaths have been determined."

Potts reflected that the deaths attributed to liquid protein may have been coincidental. He also noted that the substance has been a factor in some very successful diets.

"It has been an effective diet. I've seen people lose weight on it who have never lost weight on anything else," Potts said. "But I think the FDA (Food and Drug Administration) should come back with some restrictions on it."

At Perry. Drugs in the Northville Plaza, pharmacists have been advising customers to use liquid protein only under strict supervision.

"We don't give them any instructions or anything," pharmacist Charles Hupp said. "We tell them it's a dangerous drug and they should call their physician."

Hupp said Perry's has stocked liquid protein for two or three months but, like Potts, he said his store hasn't sold much.

Lorenz Rexall Pharmacy did stock liquid protein but Douglas Lorenz has now removed the substance from his shelves.

"We had very little and I never pushed it because I'm not a big believer in these diet things," Lorenz said. "When they started connecting it with deaths, I pulled it immediately."

At least three Northville area physicians don't recommend liquid protein or its accompanying diet.

"I don't believe much in it," said Dr. Alberto Vincenti, who nevertheless admitted to having "many patients on it."

"It's actually a ridiculous diet," Vincenti said. "I tell patients that if they want to lose weight they can lose it the proper way. But you can't tell some people anything."

"If I do have a patient who uses it, I tell them to take it off and on, not for three or four weeks straight, and I tell them they're doing it at their own risk," Vincenti added. "I tell them what the side effects are and I haven't put anyone on it."

Although no one is sure how the liquid protein diet may cause death, Vincenti feels it has to do with the breaking down of bodily fats, resulting in a surplus of acidity in the body.

The doctor also feels the FDA will "put the clamps on" liquid protein in the near future.

Dr. O. J. Robinson of the Atchison Clinic sees liquid protein as an "increasing problem."

Robinson said he has put patients on the diet for two or three days a week but he admitted to being uncomfortable with it.

"I think it's probably all right if it is used under close supervision," Robinson stated. "But I don't think it should be sold across the counter, even if you buy the contention that it's not a drug but a food by-product."

Robinson said he sees two main problems with liquid protein.

"It can cause a deficiency in potassium and it can bring about restriction of fluids, which puts a strain on the kidneys. Whenever I have a person on it, I also give them a potassium supplement."

In addition to the medical problems involved, Robinson said, the possible linking of liquid protein with deaths has also brought about an increasing legal problem.

"You have to think about the medical-legal aspects of these things these days," he said, "or you could leave yourself open to a suit."

Dr. Max Crandall, of the Novi Center Physicians, isn't taking any chances. In light of recent disclosures involving liquid protein, Crandall said, he will no longer supervise anyone on the diet.

"If someone came to me now and wanted me to supervise them on the diet, I would refer them to someone else," Crandall said.

The doctor said he has never placed anyone on the diet but added that he has followed "three or four" patients on it. "My feeling is that it's not wise," the doctor stated. "You do certainly lose weight on it but I'm still uncomfortable with it. I think the best way to lose weight is on a balanced, low-calorie diet with exercise, and maybe a behavioral counseling approach."

"There are better ways to lose weight and not jeopardize your health."

Woman dies in fire here friend's house on Six Mile Road.

Mrs. Weinand, who turned 75 last Tuesday, had lived with the Powells for a year since her husband died in Florida.

Powell had talked with his wife Tuesday morning before leaving for work about installing a smoke detector or fire alarm, according to their son, Kevin.

Powell was called home from work and joined his wife and daughter at the friend's home on Six Mile Road.

Cause of the fire was not immediately known, but spokesmen for the township fire department said it appeared to have started on the first floor level in the western part of the house, quickly spreading throughout the single story ranch-type home.

According to one of the township police officers present, Michael Cayley, the house had been built by his grandfather in "about 1950." The Powells had lived there for about six years and had made several renovations.

About a dozen township firemen fought the blaze, using all of the township vehicles — two pumpers, a tanker, and equipment van.

Some difficulty was experienced in getting the tanker to the scene. Only after three calls by the township dispatcher did it finally reach the fire.

Township fire equipment is housed on the Child Development Center grounds off Sheldon Road, near Five Mile Road.

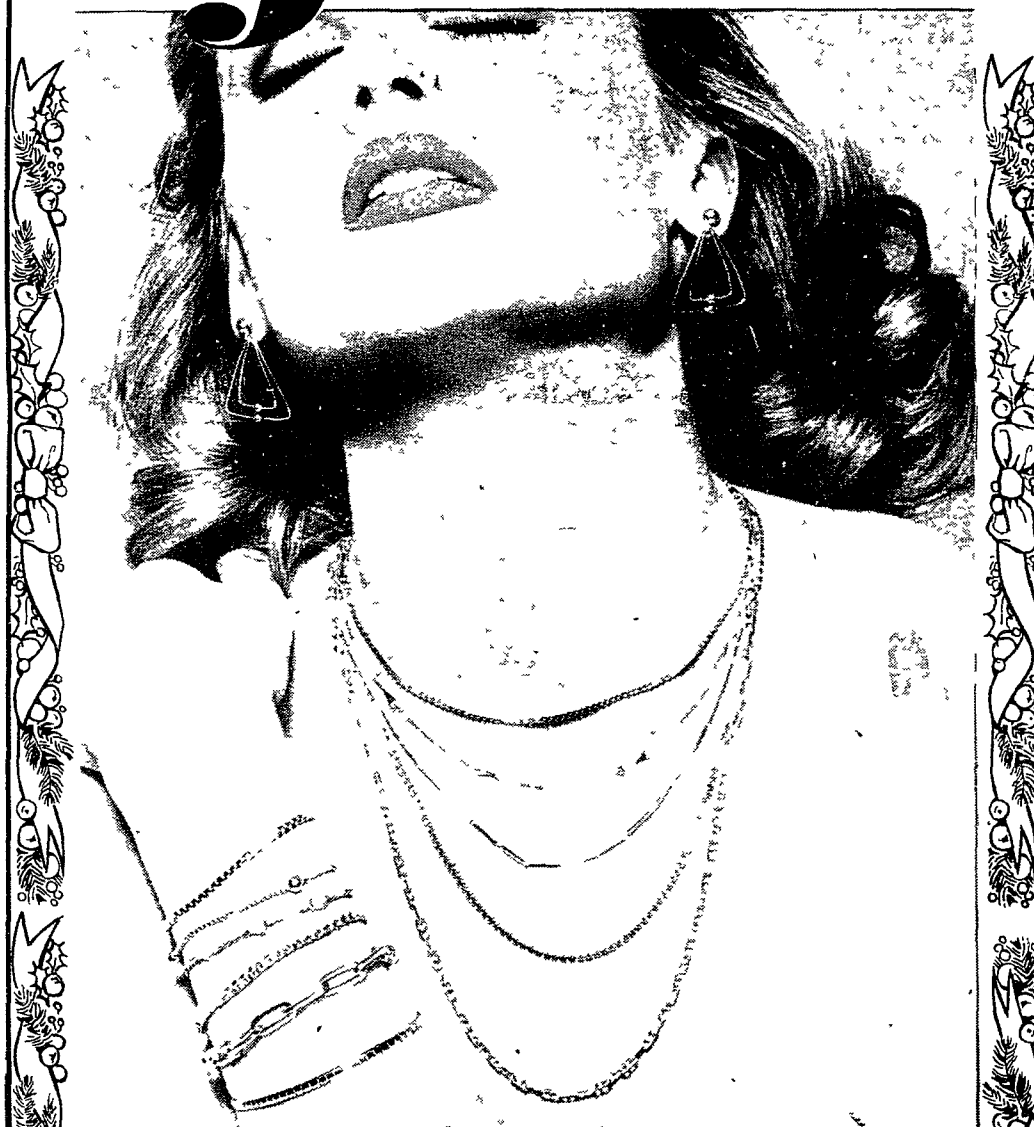

Although city firemen were not called to assist, township firemen requested water from the city fire rigs a half hour after the blaze erupted. City fire trucks were used then to refill township vehicles several times during the course of the fire. A Salem Township Fire Department also responded to the request for water.

"It's a crying shame," said one of several city firemen watching the fire. "They're (township fire department) just too proud to ask for our help, even though we are next door."

Township Fire Chief Robert Toms said he had sufficient manpower. The blaze, he said, was too far gone when firemen arrived.

South Lyon is first b-ball victim

Mustangs, Harding are off and running

Northville's basketball express started out on the right track last week.

In fact the Mustangs were beginning to look like a runaway freight train midway through the first quarter against South Lyon last Tuesday night.

Sparked by senior Doug Harding and a tenacious defense the local squad roared to an early 15-point lead and coasted to an 84-65 home-court victory over the Lions in the season opener for both schools.

"We started out very, very, well," coach Walt Koepke remarked later in somewhat of an understatement. "The first five minutes were unbelievable."

And indeed they were.

With the hometown quintet controlling the backboards and adding a bit of strong shooting Northville scored the first 15 points of the game and was never seriously challenged afterwards.

South Lyon managed to narrow the gap to 37-28 by halftime but the Mustangs bounced back with 29 points in the third quarter to put the game out of reach.

"We really dominated the score, and we dominated the rebounding," Koepke noted, but added that his team was plagued by errors after the first quarter.

"What kept them (South Lyon) in the game was that we turned the ball over several times," he said, pointing out that the Mustangs had 29 turnovers in all, most of them as a result of their fast-break offense.

"Offensively we looked very good against them at the beginning, but then they switched to a zone defense and we started having problems. I didn't think we attacked their zone very well."

He also felt that Northville's man-to-man defense, which he described as "very aggressive" in the opening minutes, "let up after a while" and gave the Lions a few unnecessary buckets.

But what the Mustangs lacked because of turnovers and defensive lapses they more than made up for with their shooting and rebounding.

Led by Harding, who dumped in 13 of 17 floor shots and two free throws for 28 points, Northville warmed the nets with a respectable 57 percent field goal accuracy and was 17 of 27 from the free throw line.

Just as impressive, the Mustangs nabbed 47 rebounds to South Lyon's 30. Harding, the team's 6' 3" 201-pound center, dominated the boards with 20 pick-offs.

"This is my 19th season of coaching and I've never had a player get 20 rebounds in one game before," Koepke bubbled. "I couldn't have asked more out of him."

Helping out Harding on the boards was forward Marc Hooth, who had eight rebounds while contributing seven points.

All told the Mustangs had four players in double figures. Following up Harding's scoring performance was forward Jeff Norton, who had 13 points, while senior guards John Horwath and Pete Wright chipped in 11 each.

Joe Schimpf came off the bench at forward to tally seven points, while Brian Prom added five.

To South Lyon's credit, Koepke noted that the visitors were playing without two of their starting players, including center Jeff Burt, and that they lacked height and experience.

Still, he was happy with the victory and particularly with Harding's play.

"We knew he (Harding) would be good on the boards," Northville's seventh-year mentor said, noting that his veteran center was the team's leading rebounder last year, "but he showed me more than I'd expected last Tuesday. He has developed some poise under the basket and has some very quick moves."

"I think we can count on a lot from him this season."

The victory marked the fourth time in the last five years Northville has won its season opener against South Lyon. Last night the Mustangs traveled to Milford for a non-conference contest against Lakeland.

They open their Western Six schedule at Waterford Mott on Friday before coming home to play defending conference champ Livonia Churchill next Tuesday.

Last season the local squad finished fifth in the conference race, but is among the favorites for this year's crown.

Korte's lone All-Area pick

Donna Korte was the lone Northville player selected to this year's All-Area girls' basketball squad.

Korte, the Mustangs' second-leading scorer, was an honorable mention choice to the 25-girl squad, which covered 10 schools in the Sliger Home Newspapers area. The junior forward was her team's most consistent all-around player this season, averaging 5.5 points and six rebounds per game while hitting 42 per cent of her floor shots.

Novi, Pinckney and Hartland had four girls each selected to the All-Area team while Walled Lake Central dominated the first team with two players.

FLYING MUSTANG—Northville center Doug Harding (44) soars past South Lyon defender Fred Bryant to snatch a rebound during last week's 84-65 victory. Harding had 28 points and 20 rebounds to lead the Mustangs in their season opener.

State prospects look good for swimmers

Six Northville swimmers, and possibly one diver, will be taking a 120-mile trek to Kalamazoo this weekend for the Class A girls state swimming finals, and prospects couldn't look rosier for some impressive showings.

Seniors Vida Mikalonis and Dianne Townsend, juniors Kyle Roggenbuck and Janet Shaw, and sophomores Sue Cahill and Leslie Farquhar have all qualified for state berths in the 200-yard medley relay, an event the Mustangs have yet to be beaten in this year.

Mikalonis, Roggenbuck, Shaw and Cahill were clocked in 1:56.6 at the Detroit News Girls' Swim Invitational one month ago and will be trying to improve on it this weekend while Townsend and Farquhar will be along as alternates. That time shattered the previous school record by well over two seconds and rates as the second fastest in Michigan this year behind East Lansing's 1:54.9.

In addition all four medley relay finalists have qualified for individual events as well, and will be competing in at least six altogether. In four of those events Northville girls have times ranked among the top 10 in the state.

Cahill will be swimming in both the 200-yard individual medley and the 100-yard butterfly. Her 2:12.5 clocking in the individual medley is by far the fastest time posted by any girl in the state this season, and almost two full seconds ahead of the existing state record, while here 1:00.5 in the butterfly ranks fourth.

Giving her competition in the butterfly will be Mikalonis, who finished fifth in the state in that event two years ago with a 1:02.6 clocking. This season she's upped her time to 1:00.8.

The record-breaking senior will also be competing in the backstroke, an event she swam in 1:03.1 two weeks ago, the fourth-fastest time in the state. This will be her fourth consecutive trip to the finals.

Another veteran to the states is Roggenbuck, who's been there in each of her three years at Northville and who placed second in the 50-yard free style two ears ago.

She'll be swimming both the 50- and 100-yard free styles, which she set school records in last year. This season she ranks sixth in the state in the 50, just .2 seconds behind Flint Carman swimmer Martha MacKenzie's pace of 25.2.

Shaw may not have a top 10 clocking in the breast stroke, but should do well enough on desire alone. After flirting with a 1:15.3 qualifying barrier all year long she finally broke it with a time of 1:15.1 in her last chance at the Western Six finals two weeks ago. Top time in the state there is 1:10.3.

She was also at the states last year, and swam on Northville's 17th-place medley relay team.

The Mustangs' only other hope for a berth in the finals was senior diver

District time! Girls face Milford in opener tonight

It's district time in girls' basketball action around the state this week, and Northville gets into the thick of it with a first-round game tonight (Wednesday) when the Mustangs take on Milford at Brighton's home court.

Tip-off time is 8:30 p.m., with the winner moving on to Saturday's Class A district finals in Brighton against the winner of tonight's Howell-Milford Lakeland contest, which starts at 7 p.m. Milford takes a winning record into the game while Northville, with only two victories to its credit in the last three years, enters with a 1-17 mark.

The local squad closed out its regular season with a 59-43 loss to Inter-Lakes League co-champion Walled Lake Central last week.

The loss stretched Northville's current losing streak to 14 games, dating back to an early season victory over Walled Lake Western, but in one area, anyway, the Mustangs began to show improvement.

"We did manage to get more shots off than we normally do," coach Dave Schopp said, noting that many of the team's previous losses were the result of a failure to shoot enough times, "and we looked pretty aggressive."

While their field goal percentage was higher than usual, too, however, the Mustangs still hit on only 29 percent of their floor shots and were unable to get clutch baskets when they needed them.

Northville's point total represented one of the team's highest this season, and while a 16-point loss is nothing to brag about it was the closest margin of defeat in over a month for the local squad.

Leading the charge for the Mustangs was Donna Korte, who topped the team in both scoring and rebounding with 10 points and eight rebounds. Lori Young and Susie Heinzman chipped in seven points apiece as all but one girl scored in the game.

The junior varsity squad, meanwhile, ended its season on a bright note with a 41-28 victory over Central. Down 15-10 at half time the Northville girls fought back with 31 points in the second half to nail down their third win in the last four outings and finish the season with a somewhat respectable 7-10 record.

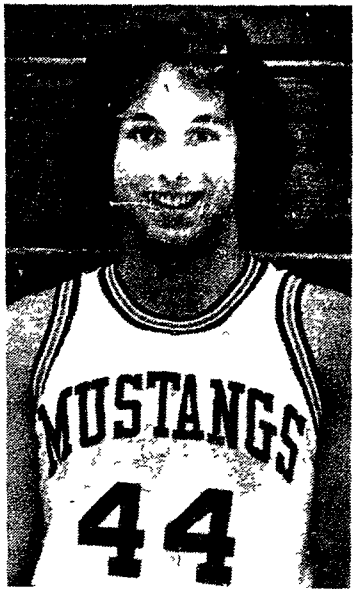

"I was really proud of these girls," coach Omar Harrison said of his team's performance. "They fell behind in the beginning, but never gave up."

Sue Townsend and Lissa Carter, who had six points apiece, each had key steals in the second half that helped turn the game in Northville's favor.

Kim Kurzawa, meanwhile, led all scorers with 15 points, seven of them free throws, while Karen Goxem added 12 points and 13 rebounds and Julie Abraham eight rebounds.

With the jayvee season now over Goxem, Kurzawa and Townsend will move up to the varsity squad for tonight's district tournament action.

Athlete of the week

DOUG HARDING

There wasn't any stopping Doug Harding last week. Northville's 6-3 senior center was nearly flawless as he shot, jumped, and rebounded his way to the best performance of his career in sparking the Mustangs to a season-opening 84-65 basketball victory over South Lyon last Tuesday. Harding totaled 28 points for the night, hitting on an amazing 76 per cent (13 of 17) of his floor shots and adding two free throws in three attempts. He also had the best single rebounding game Walt Koepke has seen in 19 years of coaching, grabbing six offensive and 14 defensive caroms for a total of 20, and had five steals to boot.

Kratz misses just one and wins final contest; Caroselli's second Kent Kratz of Novi won the top prize in the final of a series of football contests sponsored by this newspaper.

Son of Novi's superintendent of schools, Kent was one of only two persons to miss a single game.

The 44518 Chedworth resident won by virtue of his closer prediction of the UCLA-Southern California score, beating out Paul Caroselli of 770 Bradburn Court, Northville, who also missed just one game.

Paul, who won second place, was 29 points off the mark in the all-important tie breaker, while Kent was just 13 points off.

Closer even than these two was Ron

Barnum of 515 Reed, who was just four points off the actual score. Ron took third place, beating out a host of contestants who missed two games.

Others who missed two games included: Tom Bryson, Ed Kritch, Tom Gates, Charles Eubanks, John Hale, Bob Pote, Jim Harding, Joe Tyrrell, and Dave Viers.

Nine contestants missed three games. They were: Mickey O'Leary, Patricia Hansen, Chris Baetz, Jeff Hooten, Finn O'Leary, Art Thompson, Mike Stratton, Dennis Quinn and Dave Viers.

Nine contestants also missed four and five games each, while the remainder missed six games or more.

Most difficult games for contestants were Penn State's 15-13 win over Pittsburgh, Brother Rice's 17-7 win over Portage Central and Army's 17-14 triumph over Navy.

Champion OLV splits first two

Our Lady of Victory's seventh and eighth grade basketball squad opened its 1977-'78 campaign by splitting two games in the Farmington Our Lady of Sorrows Thanksgiving Basketball Tournament last week.

The Cougars, who walked off with the Detroit Metropolitan CYO championship last year on their way to a 24-1 season, started off with a 35-26 overtime loss to St. Anselm's of Dearborn.

Sparked by Bob Isom, who had 13 points in the game, and Pat Foley, who had nine rebounds, the Northville squad rolled to a 21-14 lead with just three minutes remaining. St. Anselm's stormed back with 11 straight points, though, before the Cougars got untracked with four of their own to send the game into overtime at 25-25.

The taller Dearborn quintet then buried O.L.V. with a 10-1 scoring outburst.

In the consolation game coach Gene Wagner's squad bounced back with a 47-38 victory over Detroit St. Scholastica. Isom again paced the Cougars with 16 points while Carl Lang chipped in 14.

Jayvee team wins opener

Balanced scoring and a 19-point third quarter boosted the Mustangs to a season-opening 55-35 triumph over South Lyon in junior varsity basketball action last Tuesday.

Four players scored in double figures as coach Omar Harrison's squad crept to a 28-19 half time lead, then exploded for a 19-9 margin in the third quarter to seal the victory.

Sophomore forward Bob Crisan led the Northville scoring charge with 14 points while center Dan Bartels added 11 and Ken Weber and Russ Gans chipped in 10 apiece. Bartels had 14 rebounds to lead in that category while Weber picked off 12 caroms.

According to Harrison the Mustangs are hoping to improve on last year's 14-6 record and Western Six co-championship. They'll get their next chance at Waterford Mott this Friday.

Swimmers look good

Andy Conder, who had to qualify through regional competition last night, after the Record's deadline. According to coach Ben Lauber her chances were "50-50" of successfully winning a spot in the states, which meant having to finish among the top 12 divers in an extremely competitive region.

Northville's strongest performance at the girls' state meet in recent years occurred in 1975, when the Mustangs finished as the eight-best squad in Michigan.

This year's meet starts with afternoon preliminaries at Western Michigan University on Friday and ends with the finals on Saturday beginning at 1 p.m.

Listed below are the top times (or point total) posted for each event this year by Northville tankers, with the notation "sr" indicating a school record.

Lack of experience, luck spell doom

It wasn't bad enough that inexperience hampered Northville in its own wrestling tournament over the weekend. The "luck of the draw" was working against the Mustangs as well.

Six Northville wrestlers had to face first or second seeds in their opening matches, and the result was disaster as the local squad finished seventh out of eight schools in the third annual Northville Invitational at the high school last Saturday.

The Mustangs, who had finished first in both previous tournaments, garnered only 50½ points to champion Novi's 157.

"When you have eight new wrestlers you have to expect to take some lumps," coach Gary Emerson remarked as he looked back on the invitational, noting that only five of his 13 wrestlers at the meet had ever competed in a varsity tournament before.

But he did admit to anticipating a better performance from his team than that.

"It seemed like it was a combination of things," the veteran mentor said in trying to explain the weak showing.

Besides Northville's obvious youth (only two members of the squad are seniors), he noted that only three of his five experienced wrestlers were able to place, and that most of the other schools in the meet were improved over last year.

"I think we might have been in the pack (among the top six team finishers, which all placed fairly close together) if some of our returning letter winners had done better, but most of it was due to a lack of tournament experience."

Add to that a few untimely first-round draws, and down fall the Mustangs.

In fact not a single Northville wrestler drew easier than a second-seeded opponent for his first match in the five lowest weight classifications, where the local squad is particularly green.

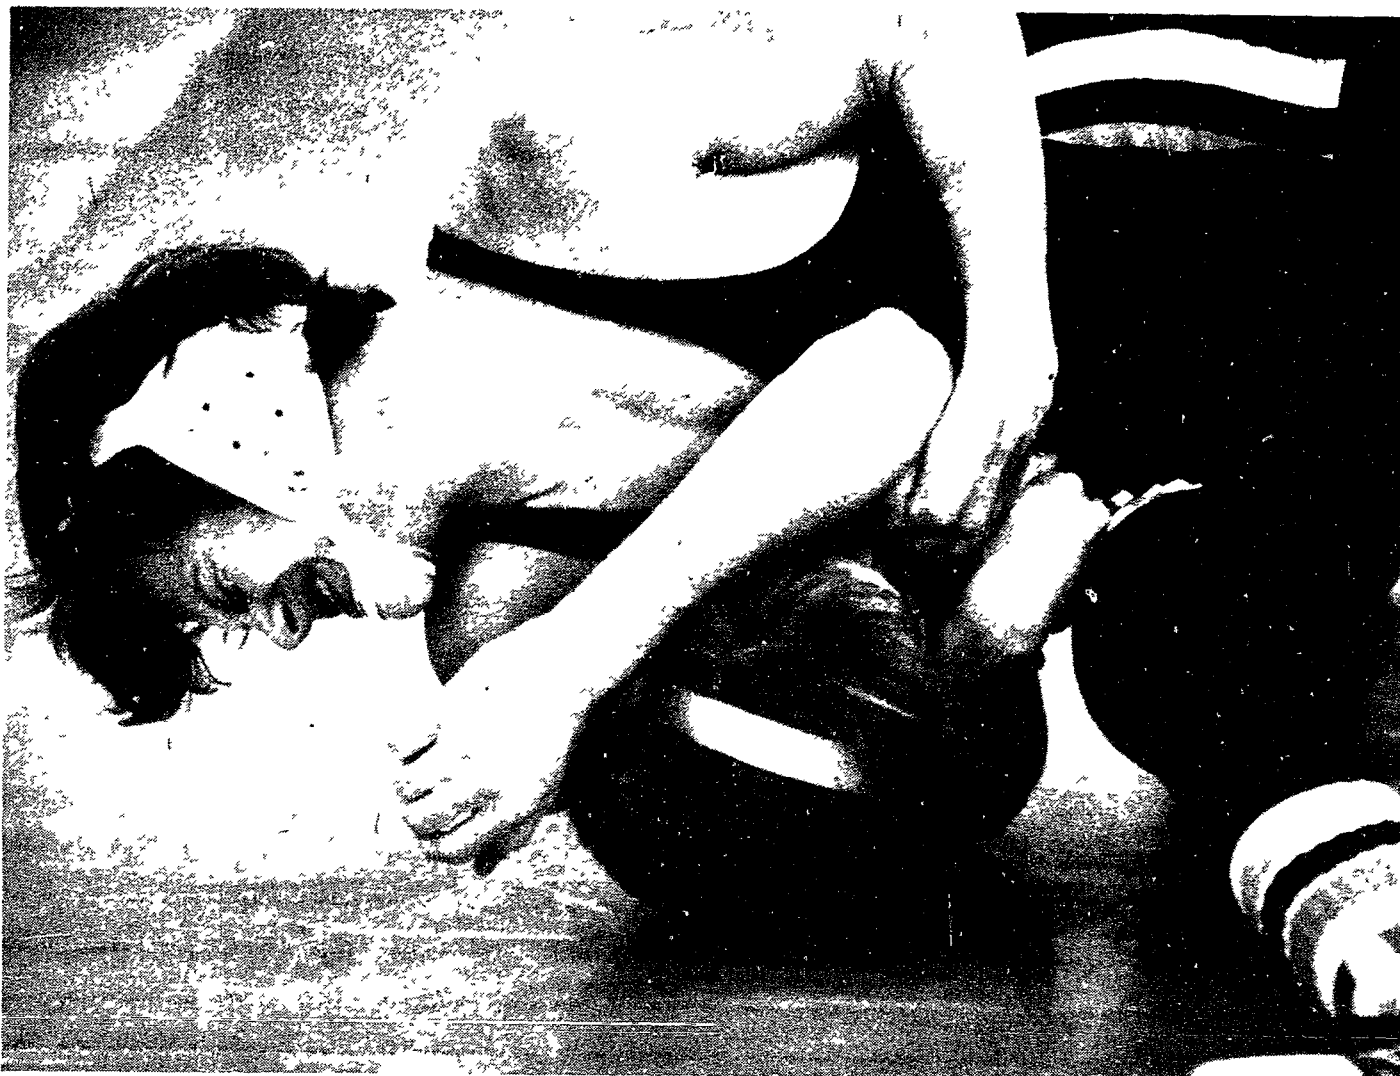

Sophomore Mark Towczyle, competing at 98 pounds, lost to Milford's second seed in his opener before bowing out to third-seeded Jim Longhurst of Novi in the second round. At 105 fellow sophomore Bill Blanchard drew and lost to a first-seeded wrestler from Dearborn Heights Crestwood in his opener, but bounced back for a win in the second round before falling to Milford's Jim Hathaway in the third.

"He showed some good moves, did some real good stuff out there," Emerson said of Blanchard. "I was quite pleased with everything he did, even though he lost."

Todd Mack, another newcomer, lost his opener at 112 to a second-seeded opponent as well before exiting in a second-round loss, while both Mike Lurvey at 119 and Lance Irey at 126 were pitted against top seeds in their first matches.

After drawing a first-round bye Lurvey, who finished second in last year's competition at 112, upset first-seeded Jeff Griswold of South Lyon 10-3 and advanced to the finals, where he lost a heartbreaker to Crestwood's Dan Dreher. Tied 1-1 at the end of the regulation three periods Lurvey fell 4-1 in overtime, losing two vital points as a result of penalty points (e.g. briefly walking off the mat without informing the referee of his action), and finished in the runner-up spot.

"It's a shame because he wasn't really outwrestled," Emerson said of Lurvey's effort. "It was just a couple things that probably won't happen to

Mike the rest of the year."

Irey, meanwhile, drew top seed and eventual winner Kevin Mills of Novi as his first-round opponent. After getting pinned by Mills he came back with a win in the second round, then lost out in the third.

The other Northville wrestler to open against a top seed was Bob Powell, who lost to South Lyon's Mike Danielson at 138 before beating a Crestwood opponent and then falling to Milford's Steve Thone

"It seemed we could never draw a third or fourth seed," the Mustang coach said in reference to his lower weight class matmen. "Consequently we lost most of our first matches and had to come back with a win in the second round to go anywhere."

Besides Lurvey only two other Mustangs, both veterans, were able to place. Brian Faustyn, who lost to South Lyon's Dave Gardner in the second round, won his last two matches at 155 to finish third while heavyweight Chris Friel bounced back for another third place after getting pinned by eventual winner Chuck Walker of Plymouth Canton in his second match.

Jack Stabinau at 132 and Don Lucas at 145 were the only other Northville wrestlers to pick up any wins, and both did so in their opening matches.

Stabinau's failure to place was probably the Mustangs' biggest surprise of the meet. Despite going in seeded first Stabinau lost his second and third matches, the former to eventual champ Tim Scofield of Milford and the latter to Crestwood's Scott Nichols, to drop out of competition early.

"He didn't have a very good day,"

Emerson acknowledged. "It might have been a situation where he tried to make weight and lost his energy for the meet in the process." Emerson indicated that Stabinau will probably be moving up to 138 in future meets.

Lucas, meanwhile, lost to Howell's top seed and eventual winner Lasse Kausrud in the second round and a Milford wrestler in the third while Rick Torgersen (165), Eugene Rabassa (178) and Matt Baker (191) all failed to win a match.

"Things have to get better," Emerson said. "I'm sure we're going to improve... (but) for this year it looks like we're just going to have to get some experience in."

"I think we've got a lot of new, young, talented kids. How far we go this year, though, will just depend on how fast they move up and how well our experienced kids come on."

Emerson noted that he will be shuffling his lineup a bit, particularly at the lower weight levels, and was expecting several new faces at last night's double dual meet against Ann Arbor Pioneer and Plymouth Salem, both future district opponents.

Tomorrow the Mustangs have an away meet against Westland John Glenn before traveling to Dexter Saturday morning for that school's annual invitational, which should get under way at about 11 a.m.

Northville grad named diving coach out East

Tom Cook, a 1974 graduate of Northville High School, has been named head diving coach at Boston College. Cook, a member of the Mustangs' 1973 champion swimming squad and the team's co-captain in 1974, will be directing both men's and women's intercollegiate divers.

Last year Cook, now in his junior year at Harvard University, coached two high school All-American divers and five state finalists in the Massachusetts state high school swimming championships.

He is a former diver on Harvard's swimming squad and lettered two years. He was an Eastern Seaboard Championships finalist and NCAA qualifier in 1976, but a back injury put an early end to his intercollegiate diving career.

Cook is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Cook of 118 Ely Drive.

One of two designs available

Familiar mailbox on Yule stamp

A rural mailbox, very much like those that line almost every area road, is depicted on one of the two Christmas stamps now available at the Northville post office.

Second design is of General George Washington kneeling in prayer during the winter of 1777-78 at Valley Forge.

The 13-cent denomination stamps will be used in upcoming weeks for sending holiday greetings.

The colorful design of the rural mailbox is by Dolli Tingle of Westport, Connecticut. The box, in a snowy winter setting, is crammed with letters and packages. The same designer created the popular needlepoint Christmas tree stamp of 1973. As the stamp is issued for the 1977 Christmas season, the United States Postal Service points out that the rural mailbox was brand new in 1896 and represented an important link with the outside world for isolated farm families. Rural carriers, it adds, today travel approximately 2.2 million miles each day to service 13.8 million families along more than 33,000 rural routes throughout America.

The Washington stamp pays tribute to the Continental Army which spent Christmas, marred by severe hardships and semi-starvation, at Valley Forge in Pennsylvania. After an unsuccessful effort against the British at Germantown, General Washington and his troops retreated to Valley Forge.

This design, by artist Steven Dohanos, is based upon a painting by J. C. Leydecker.

Both stamps were printed by the gravure method.

As an economy effort, the postal service issued the stamps in regular size rather than the larger, standard commemorative size which significantly reduced costs connected with the multi-billion printing run.

College to give secretary's exam

Schoolcraft College in Livonia has been designated as an examination center for the Certified Professional Secretary (CPS) examination.

Candidates for the 1978 exam, scheduled for May 5-6 on campus, have two application deadlines: December 1, 1977 for secretaries with work experience, and February 1, 1978 for those holding student status.

Inquiry about applications, requirements, processing and examination fees should be directed to Mrs. Christine Covert at Schoolcraft. Telephone 591-6400.

Mrs. Covert 'will proctor the center, and it was through her efforts assisted by Dean Ronlad Griffith that the college became one of the 170 throughout the U.S., Canada and Puerto Rico.

An instructor in secretarial science at Schoolcraft, Mrs. Covert was education chairperson of the Town & Country Chapter of the National Secretaries Association (NSA) when she led the effort to establish an examination center at the college.

The CPS program is conducted by the Institute for Certifying Secretaries, a department of NSA.

A certified professional secretary is one who has successfully completed the six-part examination and who has met the secretarial experience requirements.

The CPS exam covers:

- Environmental Relationships in Business.
- Business and Public Policy.
- Economics and Management.
- Financial Analysis and the Mathematics of Business.

- Communications and Decision Making.
- Office Procedures.

Candidates are required to pass each of the six parts with a 70 percent grade or better. They are able to retake individual parts if necessary and have five years to complete the entire exam successfully.

Over 11,000 persons have earned their CPS since the program was instituted in 1951. There are 454 in Michigan including Schoolcraft's Mrs. Jeanne Stearns, secretary to the vice president for Garden City Centers.

Mrs. Arlene Patruski of Dearborn is president of the Town and Country Chapter of NSA. Members include secretaries and educators from Detroit and suburbs.

PERRY DRUG Stores, Inc., operator of 51 stores in 37 Michigan communities, said it is going to build a new 225,000 square foot distribution center and corporate headquarters on a 67-acre site in Waterford.

And the gigantic facility will be built by the R. A. DeMattia Company of Livonia, whose owner and president is Robert A. DeMattia of Northville.

The single-level complex will cover about five acres, combine 200,000 square feet of warehouse space with 25,000 square feet of office space, and is scheduled to be ready for late 1978 occupancy, said Jack A. Robinson, chairman and president of the Pontiac-based chain.

Most of the approximately $5 million investment required for the project, including land, building and equipment, will be financed by industrial development revenue bonds to be issued by Waterford Township, Robinson said.

The site for the new facility, Williams Lake Road, and Van Zandt Road in Waterford, is only eight miles from the 70,000 square foot warehouse and office building Perry has occupied since 1973 in Pontiac Township.

The need for three times greater distribution center capability, said Robinson, is directly related to plans for at least 80 Perry Drugs being in operation in Michigan by 1982 and for future stores being located in communities beyond a 60-mile radius from Metropolitan Pontiac.

DeMattia lives at 589 Morgan Court in Northville. His company is located at 19500 Middlebelt in Livonia.

DONALD PLATTE, a 26-year veteran of the liquor industry, was recently appointed exclusive broker for the Calvert Distillers Company in the state of Michigan.

Platte, whose new office is located at 294 East Main Street, Northville, resides with his family in Northville.

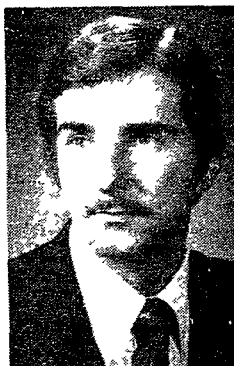

Platte began his career in 1951 with Kessler as a sales representative in Detroit and later became administrative assistant sales promotion manager. In 1962, he was transferred to Calvert as assistant control state division manager in Ohio. After 11 years in that position, Platte returned to Michigan as regional sales manager for Michigan and five southern states. His newest position became official October 1.

Platte currently has eight well-known veteran salesmen covering the Michigan market. His line includes many of the leading brands in the state, such as Kessler and Calvert Extra blended whiskey, Lord Calvert Canadian, Passport and White Horse Scotch, Jameson Irish whiskey, Calvert and Burnett's gin and Crown Russe vodka.

Dolores Barr and Richard and Dolores Mitchell. William Barr is assistant superintendent of the Novi School District.

Managing the new business is Dolores Barr, who has been a teacher in the South Lyon School District for the past five years.

The agency is equipped to handle any kind of travel needs, such as acquiring airline tickets or booking a place on any tour. Travel Masters is open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturday.

JAMES PICKETT

NATIONAL BANK OF DETROIT recently announced the appointment of James P. Pickett of Brighton as administrative officer in its Item Check Processing Group.

In his position as manager of administrative controls, Pickett is responsible for management of all staff activities including project and budget planning, budget administration, project management, and quality control. Pickett has been with NBD for eight years.

Pickett received his associate degree in industrial engineering from Lawrence Institute of Technology, where he is currently working toward a bachelor of science degree in industrial management.

MSU offers soil testing

Anytime you can put a shovel in the ground is a good time to soil test. But, according to Darryl Warncke, assistant professor of crop and soil sciences at Michigan State University, fall soil sampling has several advantages.

He says that soil testing laboratories — including the one at MSU — aren't as busy in the fall as in the spring. Farmers sending in soil samples tend to get quicker service.

"Having soil test information available in the fall gives a farmer quite a bit of flexibility in planning his fertilizer program," Warncke points out. "He can buy his fertilizer now, when it's readily available and fairly low cost. He may have to store it, however."

On land where surface run-off is not a problem, needed lime may be applied in the fall and winter, he notes. Except on sandy soils, potash may also be applied during this time. When they are possible, fall and winter applications can save time and money next spring.

The reason for soil testing, of course, is to determine nutrient levels in the soil so the farmer can apply fertilizer of the proper analysis in the correct amounts to provide for top crop yields. Without a soil test every two or three years, the farmer is really "groping in the dark." He may be applying material he doesn't need or nutrients in the wrong proportions.

"For instance, only about one-fourth of the soils tested in Michigan last year needed three or more tons of lime per acre," Warncke notes. "About half needed some additional phosphorus (about one-third needed 75 pounds per acre or more). Eighty percent of the soils tested needed more potassium, but the quantities varied from 30 to 200 pounds per acre. Soil testing for potassium needs can be extremely beneficial."

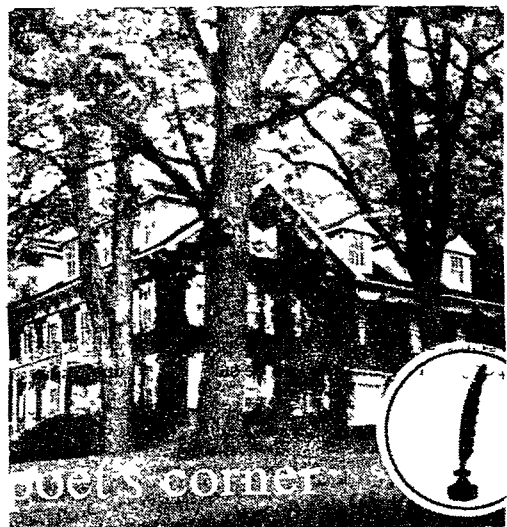

Because it takes about three years to see trends in soil fertility changes occurring as a result of a fertilizer program, Warncke suggests that producers of field crops divide their acreage into thirds and test one-third each year. This will provide for testing of any given area every three years.

Farmers who raise vegetable crops, potatoes and specialty crops which require generally higher levels of fertilizer, should probably soil test every year or two, Warncke advises.

An important factor in soil testing is soil type. Because soil types vary in their ability to hold nutrients, they require different treatment. When sampling soil for analysis, farmers need to decide what is the smallest acreage that they would be willing to treat differently and sample that portion separately.

"This is strictly a matter of scale," Warncke says. "The small, specialty crop farmer with 20 acres would probably find it economically feasible to treat five acres differently. The corn producer with 200 acres may not feel it was worthwhile."

Making efficient use of fertilizer as a resource will become even more important as energy becomes more expensive and prices rise, Warncke adds.

Loving Tears

After Four Years
And One Beautiful Son
You Say It's Over

If these eyes of mine begin to turn red and glisten.
Don't run away, please sit and listen.

I'm hurting with the thoughts of you and with confusion. What should I do?

I feel at times the need for you very strong.
Please, God, help me say it won't hurt long.
Oh, it hurts so bad
I sometimes sigh out-right, Especially when I long to hold you in the night.

Come, tell me you care with any loving emotion
you feel you can spare.
But please don't stop, don't stop. I need your love and I long to give you mine.
Just a call or a card would sure be fine.

Losing you is one of my biggest fears.
This is why I've christened this poem with loving tears.

DUE TO A MAJOR unfavorable inventory adjustment at its Paragon division, Portec, Inc. will report substantially lower earnings for the fourth quarter 1977 than for the prior year period, James A. Miller, chairman and president, announced today.

Miller said that while the adjustment is not expected to have a continuing effect on net income for future periods, it will materially reduce previously anticipated year-end results. He added that 1977 earnings may not exceed the record $5,970,000 figure reported for 1976.

Miller also announced that negotiations of a $2.6 million contract for ballast undercutting on a portion of the Northeast Corridor for 1978 have been completed with Amtrak. He stated that the company's backlog of unshipped orders at October 31, 1977, reached an all-time high of $129.3 million, compared with $69.2 million a year earlier.

"The full amount of the inventory adjustment at our Paragon plant (in Novi) cannot be determined until completion of a second inventory. However, the adjustment results from higher material and labor costs than planned and actually recorded in the production of the division's new totally enclosed auto racks. The net effect of the adjustment will be determined as part of the 1977 year-end audit," Miller said.

regular season with a 19-0 overall record, as did the Tri-County Conference champion, Whitmore Lake high.

Hartland high won the tough Genesee B League title, and closed-out the regular season with a 17-3 mark. Novi high won the Southeastern Conference crown with the identical overall season record. These two teams split their two season meetings and could clash again in the district tournament.

Walled Lake Central won a share of the Inter-Lakes Conference title, ending its season with a 19-3 record.

South Lyon high placed second in the SEC, but defeated Novi twice during the year in conference play. Also figuring in the balloting was a gutsy Brighton high squad, which was decimated by injuries early in the season, but still managed to tie for third place in the SEC.

The Sliger All-Area first team is led by two exceptional senior guards, Karen Ausmus of Walled Lake Central and Cathy Eghotz of Hartland. Both girls averaged just over 17 points per game for their respective teams.

The two forwards will both be back for action again next season. Anne Robinson of Novi, and Patty Limb of Walled Lake Central, will be giving opposing teams fits for yet another year. Robinson averaged 15 rebounds and 11 points per game, while Limb scored an average of 18 points a game, while yanking down 11 rebounds.

There was no debate as to who the top center in the area was. Senior Jill Longanecker of Whitmore Lake scored an average of 22 points in leading her team to the league title. Her 38 points against South Lyon last week was the best individual effort the area saw this year.

The second team was just as terrific, with those girls being the equals of the girls on the first squad. Too bad there weren't ten spots on the first team.

It was just a vintage year for girls basketball.

First Team

Walled Lake Central placed a pair of girls on the All-Area first team in Karen Ausmus and Patti Limb.

KAREN AUSMUS, a 5-6 senior guard, averaged 17.3 points a game for the co-Interlake champion Vikings.

She also averaged over ten rebounds a game from the guard position, amassed 141 steals and shot almost 50 percent from the floor.

The Inter-Lakes first team guard was lauded by her coach as the Vikings' best defensive player and possessed great speed and quickness.

PATTI LIMB, the tallest player on the Viking team at 5-7, averaged 18.1 points a game from the forward position.

The determined junior also pulled down over ten rebounds a game and registered 96 steals.

Also named to the all-Inter-Lakes first team, Limb is a great outside shooter with exceptional range according to her coach.

ANNIE ROBINSON of Novi is only a junior, but she has done just about everything any girls' basketball player can hope to accomplish.

Last year the 5'11½" forward earned first-team honors on both the Southeast Conference and All-Area squads and should easily repeat.

She has also led the Ladycats in scoring each of the past two years, helping Novi to SEC titles both times, and was voted the team's Most Valuable Player this season.

Despite sitting out two weeks with a partially fractured arm midway through the season she came on strong afterwards and averaged 11 points per game.

Robinson is one of Novi's two leading rebounders with 15 caroms per game and normally an extremely accurate shooter. She had been hitting floor shots at a 68 percent clip until her last three games and was 74 percent from the free throw line.

She is also the team's best pressure player. In her first game after the injury, for instance, she pumped in a game-winning basket with seven seconds left that proved to be the difference between an outright and a co-championship for the Ladycats this season.

CATHY EGHOTZ, 5-4 senior guard, was unquestionably the team leader in Hartland high's Genesee B League title drive this year. As captain of the team, she led the Eagles to a 17-3 overall record, and an 11-1 mark in the league. "She is a super basketball player," said coach Bob Troesch. "She is an excellent ballhandler, and she does so many things very well."

One thing that Eghotz does well is score points. The senior averaged 17.7

points per game this season for a total of 353 points. Her high game scoring this year was a school-record 32 points against Durant.

Troesch said that Eghotz hit 45 percent of the shots she took from the floor this season. She also hit on 70 percent of her free throw attempts — giving her a 71 percent career (three years) free throw shooting average.

Eghotz was selected last season to the Sliger All-Area first team. Her coach noted that she hopes to play basketball in college, possibly at Oakland University.

JILL LONGANECKER, Whitmore Lake High's versatile 5-10 senior center, combined power and finesse to lead the Trojans to a perfect 19-0 record and a Tri-County Conference championship in the regular season.

Opponents found it difficult to stop Longanecker, who scored a season-high 38 points in her last regular season game against a good South Lyon club to finish with a 22.4-point scoring average.

Longanecker has a deft shooting touch, meshing 52 percent of her floor shots for the year and clicking on 59 percent of her free throws.

The Trojan center was tough under the boards, too, collecting nearly 14 rebounds per game over the season. She also had 41 assists, 38 steals and 47 blocked shots.

Whitmore Lake Coach Wondella Devers called Longanecker a good all-around player, "very hard working, an unselfish player."

"Jill is a good ball handler, has beautiful movements left and right," Devers said. "She has a great deal of finesse but is strong enough to handle herself under the boards."

Second Team

ROXANE JOHNS, 5-4 senior guard, was one of the big keys to Pinckney high's perfect regular season record. She was a "team player" and sensational on the Pirates' vaunted press which shut-down opponents all year. "She plays very well," Pinckney coach Nancy Dustin noted. "She is a consistent player, and this makes her a very valuable asset."

Johns scored an average of 11 points per game throughout the season, and also grabbed an average of 5.4 rebounds a game.

The senior pilfered 53 errant enemy passes this season as well, but her coach pointed out that Johns could have stolen many more were she not held in check by the disciplined style of team defense that the Pirates play.

JANE WARREN, a 5-4 senior point guard, was the workhorse for Brighton high even though she played part of the season on an injured ankle.

"She was terrific for us," Brighton coach Carroll Cook said. "I am very high on her; she played on a bad ankle but she was always near her scoring average."

Warren scored an average of 14 points per game this year. In several key games, she scored 20 points. She also hit 52 percent of her free throw attempts.

A co-captain on the Brighton squad this year, Warren was elected as the team's most valuable player by her teammates.

LAURA BIROU of Novi is a second-team All-Area selection for the second year in a row, and has some very strong credentials for first-team honors that statistics can't reflect.

The 5'11" senior center and co-captain is undoubtedly a team leader on the floor and a major reason the Ladycats were able to win their fifth straight Southeast Conference championship and post a 15-3 regular season record this year. Novi's only two conference losses, in fact, were heartbreakers that came after Birou had fouled out late in the game.

According to coach Chris Hamilton she is far and away the team's assist leader, although the school doesn't keep individual stats in that category, and provides Novi with the top 1-2 rebounding punch in the league. She and Annie Robinson both average 15 rebounds per game.

Offensively Birou doesn't shoot much, but usually hits when she does. She has a 52 percent accuracy on free shots and is 62 percent from the free throw line.

She was a second-team All-SEC choice last year and should match if not top that honor this season.

JULIE ANGELCOR, 5-7 junior guard-forward, was simply super for Pinckney high this season; her coach Nancy Dustin has touted her as the team's floor leader and best defensive player.

Such praise does not come easily, because Pinckney plays a tremendous team game.

Angelcor scored 180 in the regular season — an average of 11 points a game good for a 43 percent shooting average. She shot 41 percent from the foul line as well. Her best scoring game as a 21-point effort against South Lyon. Dustin pointed out that Angelcor had 72 steals, and pulled down an average of 6 rebounds a game.

NADA OBRENOVICH, South Lyon High's 5-7 junior guard and a second team all-area choice, is the best all-around player in the Southeastern Conference, according to her coach, Sue Smith.

"No one can compare to Nada in overall play, shooting, ball handling and as a team player," Smith said. "She has a lot of natural ability."

O'Brien led the Lions to a second-place finish in the SEC with a 14-point per game average. For the season, she hit 40 percent from the floor and 54 percent from the foul stripe.

'77 transportation plan is dead

By WARREN M. HOYT

LANSING — The year for the state-wide total transportation plan is gone.

The package authored by Governor William G. Milliken and Representative William Ryan (D-Detroit) was officially declared dead after road interest groups all threw their support to an alternative proposal providing more funding for highway construction and maintenance.

Little hope remains for the package to raise an additional $147 million through increased gasoline and weight taxes until at least 1979.

All 148 members of the Legislature face bids for re-election during 1978 and any increased taxes during an election year have a dismal track record during election years.

Due to the pending transportation package, the Department of State Highways and Transportation is currently operating on a continuation budget at similar levels as last year. Legislative leaders must now rewrite the departmental budget with sights set at simply retaining the current levels of public transportation.

Ryan suggested combining the general transportation fund with the State Trunkline Fund coupled with a possible gas or weight tax hike to raise an additional $90 million for roads and public transportation.

The Forum for Balanced Transportation, a coalition of road advocates, backed an alternate plan providing an additional $199 million of which the lion's share would be earmarked for highways.

Ryan, labeling the proposal a step backwards, said failure of the yearlong negotiations was the fault of intransigent road interests.

"It is arrogance that has built over the years because they have had a monopoly on funds. To think they are in a position to usurp $63 million in general fund money is arrogance that says give us what we want and to hell with everybody else," Ryan said.

Increases in transit costs from inflation and the evolving forms of transportation make the additional funds necessary. Estimates from the Michigan Public Transit Association indicate lack of increased funds will mean cutbacks in the state's medium-sized cities by up to one third.

No appeal is planned and the state will ready the Oscoda burial site for PBB contaminated cattle in compliance with an order by Oscoda Circuit Court Judge Allan C. Miller.

Along with Governor Milliken, Attorney General Frank J. Kelley said the state would not appeal and accept precautionary measures and line the site with 20 feet of clay to eliminate any possible seepage of the toxic chemical.

Both the governor and attorney general are not convinced the clay liner is necessary.

However, after reviewing alternatives including incineration and out-of-state sites, the Oscoda site even with the clay liner requirement is the fastest and clearest way to dispose of the cattle found to be over the new tolerance level of 20 parts per billion in fat tissue.

The decision to comply with the court order remains the center of controversy and has been questioned by members of the Legislature closest to the issue who authored the PBB tolerance act.

Senator John Hertel, Chairman of the Senate Agriculture and Consumer Affairs Committee, challenged the wisdom of the state deciding not to appeal.

Hertel charged the governor and Department of Natural Resources officials did not properly check alternatives as allowed by the court order.

He said his office had discovered a plastic liner could be made at a fraction of the cost for the clay and would provide just as much safety as demanded by the court order.

Hertel also charged the governor of not using his powers properly in refusing to make a direct emergency appeal to the state Supreme Court. He suggested such an appeal and subsequent hearings would be a source of embarrassment to the governor in that the state bypassed proper environmental review requirements.

Hertel was quick to point out the governor used those powers at other times this year on less important matters than the health and welfare of residents of the state.

The charges and countercharges on PBB continue to fly as the issue has become highly politicized. Michigan residents can be sure of only one thing: PBB, its affects and the handling or mishandling will remain before the public until the second Tuesday in November next year — election day.

Plan 'disabilities' class

A new course to help individuals understand learning disabilities will be offered by Schoolcraft College during the winter semester in February.

It will be offered through continuing education at the college and according to instructor Dorothy Swanson is designed especially for parents of learning disabled children. Other interested adults will also be welcome to attend.

The course emphasis will be to provide methods for helping parents and other adults work with children at home and in the community. Basic background and current information concerning the term "learning disabilities" will be explored. Current educational procedures will also be discussed, as will how to obtain needed services.

Available resource books and periodicals along with helpful professional organizations such as the Michigan Association for Children with Learning Disabilities (MACLD) will be covered.

Ms. Swanson is a special education teacher with the Livonia Public Schools.

Tuition for the eight-week course is $15.50. Non-residents pay $26. Course materials will cost an additional $3.50.

Registration or further information may be obtained by calling the Schoolcraft continuing education office at 591-6400, extension 404.

Plan 'night hike'

A "Night Hike" will be held at the Nature Center of Oakwoods Metropark near Flat Rock on Saturday, December 3 at 7 p.m.

Following a slide presentation on owls, Naturalist Bob Wittersheim will take participants along the wooded nature trails, where tape recorded calls will be used to lure resident owls into viewing range.

Visitors should wear proper clothing and foot gear. Advance registration is required.

High Tar No Longer Essential To Taste.

Tests prove low tar MERIT delivers flavor of higher tar cigarettes.

For years, it seemed the only way to get real taste from a cigarette was to smoke a high tar brand.

High tar cigarettes had an "exclusive" on taste.

Today, all the standards are changing because of a new taste breakthrough called 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco.

MERIT is packed with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco. Tobacco fortified with certain key flavor-rich ingredients isolated in cigarette smoke and proven to deliver flavor way out of proportion to tar.

Test Data Conclusive

MERIT and MERIT 100's were both tested against a number of higher tar cigarettes. Thousands of smokers were involved.

Overall, smokers reported they liked the taste of both MERIT and MERIT 100's as much as the taste of the higher tar cigarettes tested.

Coffee's good-to-last-drop in their mugs

Coffee — that dark brown, rich roasted liquid which some drink laced with cream or sugar, or both, is brewing these chilly days in almost every back room of stores and businesses about town.

The aromatic drink has established "the coffee break" for many workers. Others sip at their desk throughout the day.

And what you drink your coffee in has become almost as important as how you take it — black or au lait.

The coffee mug has come into its own. Borrowing another's coffee mug is a major crime. The mug may be chipped or stained from long use, but don't try to replace it.

"It's like a security blanket, and they better not break my black mug," laughs Del Black, whose mug is near his desk in the store at 153 East Main. The mug has a hockey insignia on it and was a gift several years ago.

Black agrees that "you might have 12 of them, but there's one you always drink from. I try to use the others I've received as gifts, but I always go back to my black mug."

Answering a very informal survey to see if Northville workers treasure special mugs as suspected, an amused employee at Schrader's Home Furnishings admitted that everyone there has "special" mugs. N. C. Schrader's mug, she added, is clearly identifiable with a large "N" on it. It was a gift and came from England.

Jean Stenfelt of Summit Gifts reports that the store's supply of mugs is low as mugs have been in some demand. Unlike most coffee drinkers, she is not attached to a particular mug, but uses "what suits my fancy."

A nurse at Doctors' Clinic says that Dr. Robert Wetterstrom is the major coffee drinker there, mentioning that he "has his own mug which he refuses to let anyone touch. Nobody else would dare drink out of it. It's so stained they wouldn't want to."

Lynn Austin, contacted at Northville City Hall, confirms that employees there do care about their mugs, noting that her fellow worker, Donna Kohn, has been "very upset because she can't find her mug and we think maybe somebody broke it."

At Northville Board of Education offices, Director of Instruction Nancy Soper has a coffee mug of the Snoopy variety with an inscription that could fit a cold, gray morning:

"I think I'm allergic to mornings."

It was a Christmas gift a few seasons ago from her secretary, Gen Morrison. Down the street at Four Seasons

Flowers Louise Whittington affirms, "We all have mugs with great big initials."

There are a few holdouts who don't need a hot drink of the brown brew to make it through the day. Among them is attorney Cliff Hill, whose secretary calls him the "all-time top ice tea drinker."

Margaret Zayti, recording secretary at Northville Downs, when surveyed, mentions that her mug is inscribed with "Margaret", her name.

But, she says, John Carlo, executive manager, never drinks his coffee from a mug.

"We take it to him in a cup and saucer," she adds, "because the mugs remind him of the days when he was a barber in the U.S. Marine Corps in World War I."

Carlo, in addition to be a harness racing pioneer has been an attorney, but when he entered service, he was told, "You've an Italian name; so you're a barber by nationality."

But Carlo's the exception.

Record business manager wouldn't drink his coffee from any mug except the one emblazoned with "Detroit Red Wings" and a winged wheel. He thinks it's going to be a collector's item.

And a co-worker makes it through the day because her mug reads: "Love is the little things you do..."

What it all perks down to is that coffee tastes better in a familiar mug. Then it's good to the last drop.

Junior Miss contest features 11 Saturday

Eleven would-be Junior Misses will provide a wide variety of entertainment at the 10th Northville Junior Miss Competition at 8 p.m. this Saturday at Meads Mill Junior High School.

Dramatic readings, an unusual photographic act, classical and popular piano selections, a clarinet solo, a pom-pom routine and vocal selections are planned by the senior girl contestants, Chris Campbell, co-chairman representing the Northville Jayettes, reports. Pat Diggles is Jaycee chairman.

Mrs. Campbell is enthusiastic about the Meads Mill facilities as the girls will compete on a footlighted stage and have dressing rooms available.

Contestants are Amy Vargo, Margie Boland, Kathy Settles, Judy Zimmerman, Debbie Curl, Cindy Ball, Donna Kaczor, Sandy Hrubick, Danell Bergstrom, Barbara Rice and Julie McDaniel.

Again this year Nick Serkian will be master of ceremonies.

While this is the 10th Junior Miss Pageant it is the 11th year that the competitions have been held, with one year being skipped, in 1972, Mrs. Campbell explains.

For the milestone event, a reunion with former Junior Misses from Northville is planned. Eight will be returning and will be honored during the ceremonies.

MR. AND MRS. CARL DENTON STEPHENS

Karen Winters wed in candlelight service

Karen Jean Winters and Carl Denton Stephens exchanged vows and rings in a candlelight service at 7:30 p.m. Friday, November 4, in First Presbyterian Church of Northville where they had met and are active members.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John K. Winters of 1046 Bristol Court.

Her bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Stephens of 46064 Norton and the grandson of Joseph Denton, former Northville police chief, who attended the ceremony.

The Reverend Lloyd Brasure officiated. Special music included "Ode to Joy," "Charity" by Kenn Gulliksen was sung at the reception following in the church social hall by Mrs. Gerald Aleya of Warren. Pink satin roses centered the aisle as the bride was escorted down the aisle by her father.

She wore an Empire-waisted satin gown which she designed and made.

It featured a lace bodice with pearly lace appliques edging the neckline and decorating the long, cuffed sheer sleeves. Back pleats extended into a train, and a matching lace cap held her chapel-length veil.

She carried a bouquet of pink and white roses surrounded by stephanotis and baby's breath.

Mrs. Wesley Snow of Milford was her sister's matron of honor. The bridegroom's sister, Mary Stephens, and Mrs. H. Scott Diels of Ann Arbor and Mrs. Gregory Broome of Dearborn Heights were bridesmaids.

They wore cowl neck, blouse gowns of crepe knit in rich burgundy which they had made. Each carried three pink roses tied with pink streamers.

Carolyn and Sandra Snow, ages four and two, daughters of the Wesley Snows, were tiny flower girls for their aunt in long pink dresses with burgundy sashes. They carried baskets of dried flowers interspersed with others created from dress materials.

Paul D. Lorenz of Canton was best man. Ushers were Frederick Reuger, Marvin Mackie and the bride's brother, William Winters.

Guests attending included Fred and Joyce Crocker and their son Joel, who was candle-lighter, from London, Ontario; other cousins from Canada; and Mrs. Abdullah Brierani of Syracuse, New York, who had been flower girl at the wedding of the bridegroom's parents at First Presbyterian Church.

The bride's mother wore a peach gown with chiffon sleeves while the bridegroom's mother chose a dusty rose knit crepe.

The bride, a 1973 graduate in art history from University of Michigan and a 1975 master of arts graduate from Wayne State University, is manager of So-Fro Fabrics in Belleville. Her husband is a 1972 graduate in fine arts from Eastern Michigan University. He is employed by Detroit Diesel, Allison Division, General Motors.

They are making their home in Northville.

Northville High classmates wed in November rites

Marriage of their daughter, Susan Ann, to Val Romberg is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Roman Pawlowski of 21498 Stanstead Road. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Romberg of 45012 Byrne Drive.

The Reverend Douglas Thompson officiated at the double-ring service last Saturday morning, November 26, at Ward United Presbyterian Church.

Kimberly Marshall was maid of honor while the bridegroom's brother, Curt, served as best man.

A reception followed at the home of the bride.

The couple met at Northville High School, graduating in the class of 1976. She now is attending Schoolcraft College. He is a student at University of Michigan.

Dr. Campbell hospitalized at St. Mary

Dr. Stuart F. Campbell, long-time Northville resident and Kiwanis Club member, was admitted to St. Mary Hospital November 23 for observation of heart variations. His progress is reported satisfactory and he expects to return to his Northville office in mid-December.

By JEAN DAY

'Tis the season for baking cookies, decorating and getting together with friends.

Kathy Hughes, who is scheduled to fly back to London Thursday, was the reason for a luncheon gathering hosted by Mrs. Robert Yoder at the Yoders' Lexington Condominium November 22. Mrs. Hughes, a former Northville resident, has been visiting Ann Lang, another former resident, in her Detroit apartment. She first visited her brother in North Carolina. Her Michigan stop also enabled her to see sons, Steve, who commutes from Northville to University of Michigan, and Mike, who is getting his master's in psychology at Oakland University.

Kathy and her husband, Paul, have an apartment in Sussex outside London with a balcony that affords views of both London and Worley where he is employed by Ford Motor Company.

They're decorating for dance

Monday Barbara Yoder and Mary Esther Fountain headed through snowdrifts to make centerpieces for the Wayne County Medical Society-Auxiliary dinner dance to be held this Friday at the Regency Hyatt in Dearborn. Mrs. Fountain is president of the auxiliary, which for the first time is combining forces with the society to give the dance. Because the event has a British theme, the British Consul has been invited as honor guest and Highland dancers will be featured.

Coffee welcomes Edenderry newcomers

Two newcomers in Edenderry subdivision were honored last week Tuesday at a coffee given for close neighbors at the home of Mrs. Daniel Swayne on Laraugh welcoming, Mrs. Harry Moorhouse and Mrs. Ted Elsholz. Mrs. Blake Couse was co-hostess. Mrs. Moorhouse, her husband and three young children are renting the original Couse house in Edenderry from Mrs. William Chase.

Michele Moorhouse says they lived previously in Michigan in the Livonia area before moving to Dallas and then Woodridge, Illinois, near Chicago.

Elsie Elsholz and her husband moved next door to the Swaynes on their return from a Ford assignment in Germany. Previously they had lived in South Africa. They have two daughters, one at Michigan State University and the other graduated and working.

The store pays five percent of what is spent to the J.E.S. programs if you turn in a donation card when you check out. Cards are available at the local schools. Anyone with questions concerning our programs or the Donation Day may contact Janis Stevenson, 348-2084, council J.E.S. chairman. Please remember the Northville Plaza A & P Day Monday, December 5.

COOKE JUNIOR HIGH

The Cooke Student Council voted for new officers earlier this month. Matt Yanoschik is president, Lynn Watt is vice-president and Laurie Coolman is secretary-treasurer. David Longridge is council sponsor.

November 15, Little Caesar's was the gathering place for a jubilant group of 21 girl basketball players from Cooke. Bob Simpson took his team there to celebrate the end of a fun season and its second win over Meads Mill. Many pizzas and pitchers of pop were consumed. The girls presented Coach Simpson with an autographed basketball for being a "super" coach.

November 18 was a busy day at Cooke. Report cards were passed out to the students and the student council held its first Student Activities Day. Students danced to records from 2:45 until 4:45 p.m.

Seven exchange students from Guatemala visited the seventh grade social studies classes at Cooke November 22. These students go to school here for five weeks during their vacation time and in the summer our students go there for five weeks and attend their schools.

Open Dating

Open dating at A&P means just that - clear, readable dates printed on the label that tell customers the last date the product will be sold.

One of the most important consumer rights is the right to be informed. A&P's open dating policy which began in Jan. 1973 continues to help shoppers who are concerned about the freshness of the foods they buy.

While several freshness codes are in use throughout the supermarket industry, A&P has consistently chosen the "sell by" date. Products are designed with built-in time for normal storage and use in the home, so even if a product is purchased on the "sell by" date the consumer knows the product can be used after that date and still be assured of good quality and freshness.

A&P uses open dates for 95 percent of its perishable and semi-perishable items including poultry, fish, meat (fresh and processed), bean coffee, baked goods, deli, dairy and refrigerated items. Look for our signs in the Meat Department which tell what the open date means. The labels read "Sell by Nov. 16" or "Sell by Nov. 16, 1977." A few products carry the expiration date. It is intended to have the same meaning as the "sell by" date, and the label reads "Exp. Nov. 16."

Open dating is one guide to food freshness, but proper handling and food storage temperature are equally important. Taking groceries home from the supermarket right away, rather than letting them sit in a warm car will maximize their freshness. Read labels for storage directions. Avoid storing any foods in warm places.

For freshness - read the date before you buy.

There's entertaining in our town their home at 18275 Edenderry by their four children. They renewed their marriage vows with Father Ray Szpadzinski, a family friend, officiating.

Surprise guests were Mrs. Palarchio's sister and her husband, the Gene Giannullises, who flew in Saturday from their home in Encino, California, for the event.

The couple's children who hosted the party were Margo, now program director for Rouse Company's Dayton office; twins Pam and Phil, seniors at Michigan State University, and Mary Kay, a junior at Northville High School.

AAUW plans old-fashioned evening

An old-fashioned theme is being used for the Christmas party of the Northville branch, American Association of University Women, being held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, December 13, at the Victorian home of Mrs. Mary Lou Volz, 46400 10 Mile. The home, which dates about 1869, will be decorated for the holidays, and members are invited to dress up for the evening.

A traditional wassail bowl and cookies, candies and breads will be featured. A program of holiday music by Miss Dorothy Hileman and Mrs. Gordon Medel, Grosse Pointe organist, will include seasonal readings by Jay Ward, Edna Fleming and Pamela Baker. Joyce Murdock, 455-3059, is in charge of arrangements.

Buy your cookies here

If you haven't found time to make Christmas cookies or would like a choice foreign variety, the Northville High School Drama Club invites you to attend its international cookie festival to be held from 7 to 9 p.m. December 14 in the high school cafeteria. Amy Vargo, club president, is festival chairman, and promises a world-wide assortment as school club have been assigned countries and will bake ethnic recipes.

League sets holiday tea

Members of the Northville, Plymouth, Canton and Novi League of Women Voters will combine a league topic with sociability at a Christmas tea at 12:30 p.m. next Wednesday, December 7, at Northville City Hall.

"Everything you want to know about education, but are afraid to ask" is the topic to be discussed by Liz Kummer, State of Michigan LWV legislative and education vice-president. She also will give an update on bills pending before the state legislature in which the league is interested. The public is invited. Child care will be available by contacting Liz Morelli, 455-4992.

Newcomers holding punch, recipe fetes

Northville Newcomers have set dates for their annual Christmas cocktail party and for a Christmas recipe exchange.

The parties will be from 8:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stevenson and Mr. and Mrs. George Buelow. Reservations are limited to 50 couples and must be made by Saturday with Karen Poulos, 348-2474. It is to be a festive evening, reports Beverly Walsh, president, with those attending sipping both champagne and Manhattan punches. A paper goods gift exchange will add to the fun.

The recipe exchange from 1 to 3 p.m. December 14 is a new twist on last year's cookie exchange. Women will be bringing cookies to sample and the recipe to exchange. All recipes will be contained in a booklet, Christmas Delights, which will be included in the $1 admission. Those planning to attend are to call Prudy Vannier, 349-4082, by Saturday to make reservation and learn homes to attend. Reservations are limited to 60. Each woman attending is to bring two dozen cookies to sample and exchange. There will be coffee, punch and even door prizes.

DAR honors members at anniversary lunch

Ruth Yerkes Burkman and Marjorie Horan Coolman of Northville were among nine members of Sarah Ann Cochrane Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, who were honored for having 34 or more years of continuous membership in the national society at the chapter's 51st birthday luncheon November 21 at the Plymouth Hilton Inn.

The nine were presented with 25-year certificates signed by the DAR President General, state and chapter regents.

Others receiving the certificates are Letitia Eldridge Ambler, Marjorie Philbrick Bain, Ruth DuBois Blomberg, Edna M. Blunk, Ruth Robinson Stark, Helen Hoover Thams and Maxine Geddes Willoughby.

Mrs. Albert Heindryckz, chapter regent, pointed out that the national society has made the 25-year certificate of appreciation available for the first time this year, but all of the recipients honored at the birthday luncheon had more than 34 years of membership.

The chapter, she said, wanted to show its appreciation rather than wait for the 50-year recognition. Together the honorees had a total of 341 years of continuous membership.

"Sarah Ann Cochrane Chapter is proud of these ladies who have contributed so much but is also grateful for the new junior members entering the chapter," Mrs. Heindryckz stated, noting that last year the chapter won the Michigan Society, DAR, award for admitting the largest number of junior members when 10 joined.

Junior membership is open to women 18 through 35 years old. Junior members attending the luncheon were Miss Terry Lapham, Mrs. Thomas McDonald, Dr. Cythia Baumhart and Miss Jacqueline Merwin.

Reverend, Mrs. Schmidt, Kings announce births

The Reverend and Mrs. Ralph Schmidt of 46133 Neeson are parents of their first child, Jonathan David, born November 18 at Women's Hospital in Ann Arbor. Their son's birth weight was eight pounds, three ounces.

The Reverend Schmidt is pastor of Christ our Savior Church in Livonia, a new mission church. He formerly was assistant pastor at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Northville.

The baby's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Goetsch of Sheboygan, Wisconsin, and Mr. and Mrs. James Mackie of Seward, Nebraska.

Great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Diamond of Redford, Mr. and Mrs. Toivo Mackie of Kaleva, George Schmidt of Sheboygan and Mrs. Anna Zerger of Sheboygan.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard King of Saginaw named their tiny daughter Camarie Nicole. She was born November 15 and weighed just five pounds, one ounce. Mrs. King is the former Janice Williams of Northville. Camarie joins a brother, Jimmy, 3, at home.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Williams of Northville and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Connors of Indian River. Mrs. Robert Williams of Detroit is the great-grandmother.

Academy lists yule musical

Plymouth Christian Academy, in its second year of operation, will be presenting the Christmas musical, "Mary Had A Little Lamb", under the direction of Paul Bechler.

The musical presents the Christmas story from the animals viewpoint. Elaborate costuming and settings enhance the production of this musical-drama. The acting and solo work will be performed by select students from grades one through eight. The musical will also feature the 80 voice choir of Plymouth Christian Academy.

"Mary Had A Little Lamb" will be presented on two nights; Thursday, December 8th at 7 p.m. and Sunday, December 11th at 6 p.m. in the auditorium of Calvary Baptist Church, located at 43065 Joy Road.

Plan now to attend one or both of these exciting and unique performances of the Christmas musical-drama, "Mary Had A Little Lamb". Admission is free of charge.

Our high-interest certificate savings accounts help you earn extra money by waiting.

Pretend it's six years from now.

You go to your desk drawer and look at the six-year certificate savings account you opened back in 1977. Remember the $1,000 you took to First Federal Savings of Detroit? Well, now it's $1,584.00. And all you had to do to get that additional $584.00 was wait.

Of course, if you'd rather pretend it's four years from now, or two and a half, or even just one, we can show you plans that still will turn your money into more than you might have thought possible.

And remember, too, that you can have certificate savings accounts in addition to your regular savings account (which earns 5 1/4% per year daily interest, paid and compounded quarterly). In fact, that's how many people get the money to open a certificate savings account. They save for it.

What's more, at First Federal, certificate savings accounts can entitle you to a number of special services, many not available anywhere else. We think you should know about these things because we know that money is important for you.

So don't wait to find out.

We know what money is for.

Type of Account	Minimum Amount	Annual Rate	Effective Annual Rate	How and When Paid
One-Year Certificate*	$1,000	6 1/2%	6.66%	Paid and compounded quarterly
2 1/2-Year Certificate*	$1,000	6 3/4%	6.92%	Paid and compounded quarterly
4-Year Certificate*	$1,000	7 1/2%	7.71%	Paid and compounded quarterly
6-Year Certificate*	$1,000	7 3/4%	7.98%	Paid and compounded quarterly

*Federal regulations require a substantial interest penalty for early withdrawal from certificate savings accounts.

SILVER SPRINGS

Silver Springs PTA wishes to welcome our student council representatives to our PTA membership, making us a PTSA. They will represent the students at all meetings along with Mrs. Lynn Sherman, our Teachers' rep. This is a giant step in the Northville Schools, and we are proud to take it and have them with us.

The first big fund-raiser for the student council will be a sliced-pizza sale Friday, December 2. Eric Pearson is chairman of the event. We're sure it will be a big success.

Christmas decorations will be going up early around S.S. and Santa has made plans to arrive December 8. That's the evening of the Christmas bazaar!

There will be everything from home-made-candy to home-grown-plants — plus a Santa Shop where the little ones can purchase their special gifts.

Invitations soon will be going out inviting all new mothers at Silver Springs to a holiday tea. It will be hosted by a board member at her home at 9:30 a.m. December 15.

We at Silver Springs want to wish everyone a happy and safe holiday season.

WINCHESTER

The most successful pancake supper, arts and craft sale and book fair in Winchester's history was held November 10. The committee chairmen and their many volunteers did an outstanding job! A special thank you to pancake supper chairman Sandy McRae and her team, Mrs. Marie Kotarski and Mrs. Donna Wilson; arts and craft chairmen Liz Grow and Pat Yargus; and book fair chairmen Karen Hill and Mary Ann Guertin, and library aide Jean Angell.

"How can I encourage my child to read more?" was one of many topics discussed at the November PTA mini-workshop. This month's program was presented by the media center. Parents became aware of what a media center is and what their children are learning there. Coming up at December's mini-workshop is a visit from Raymond Spear, superintendent of schools.

The PTA lunchroom program is off to a great beginning. More than 130 mothers have volunteered to assist noon supervisors, Mrs. Lois Hollis and Mrs. Rose Kucharski. A special part of lunch for many of the children is "apple slicing" time. Mrs. Kucharski's apple slicer-corer has saved many an apple from the garbage. She circulates among the children with her "gadget" cutting apples and encouraging the youngsters to eat the bite-sized pieces and to share the unwanted pieces with others. Gread idea, Rose!

Winchester's curriculum advisory committee met for the first time in November to review the current curriculum offerings. The purpose of the committee is to become aware of changes and improvements in the curriculum and to offer suggestions as new programs are developed.

Parents comprising the committee are: kindergarten, Mrs. Andrea Graham; Grades 1 and 2, Mrs. Joyce Kormanis; Grades 3 and 4, Mrs. Kay Stoeckel, and Grades 5 and 6, Mrs. Glenda Buist.

Winchester held a Turkey Trot the Monday before Thanksgiving for children in grades 1-6. Children, teachers and friends participating in the after-school run, jog, and walk throughout a course on the school grounds received a "certificate of excellence" for completing the Movement Education Activity. This activity was a prelude to the Family Fun Run to be held in the spring.

MORaine

November was a successful month for our PTA. We had an informative speakers' meeting dealing with our "shared responsibility" lunch room program and an annual election day bake sale. Many mothers participated in the bake sale and our profit of $244 will be used for future PTA activities.

Our current membership is 202, and we have recently become a PTSA with the addition of a student representative to the board. We also have three new teacher members: Donna Jennings, teacher vice president, Judy Highbee, service squad, and Lou Wolf, Helping Hand co-chairman.

Plans are going forward for Santa's Secret Shop which will be held December 6-7-8. Children will have an opportunity to do their Christmas shopping at this time.

The PTA is also working on plans for an activities program during the lunch hour. Mothers will supervise in the library and in a games and craft room during the months of December, January and February.

AMERMAN

The ghosts and goblins of October took leave from Amerman to make way for the Pilgrims and Indians of November. Kindergartners celebrated the annual turkey feast dressed in pilgrim and Indian costumes.

First and second graders had a party in the library where they recited Thanksgiving poems, sang songs and told stories. Afterward they had a "tasting party." Each class offered a contribution of food made by their class, such as cornbread, applesauce, etc., which they all shared together.

Third graders studied a unit of Indians and made vests and headaddresses to wear.

Each class made vegetable soup from vegetables brought from home and had a luncheon together.

Third and fourth graders enjoyed a morning at the Detroit Institute of Arts viewing a musical play this past week, entitled "Smart Alex and the Talking Wire." The play depicted Alexander Graham Bell's invention of the telephone and his dash to the patent office.

Fourth, fifth and sixth graders will entertain the parents and families the evening of November 29 with a music program, with the assistance of Ann Jarvi, the music instructor.

Wednesday, December 14, from 7-8 p.m. all Amerman families are invited to a family Christmas sing-along and bonfire on the grounds of the school. After the Christmas carols hot chocolate will be served to the attending families.

Many celebrate by sharing, giving

While most of us have our hands full planning Christmas gifts for friends and family at this time of year, a few of us take on a whole lot more.

Many of the civic and volunteer organizations in the Plymouth community sponsor food, toy, and clothing programs for those who wouldn't have much of a Christmas without them.

"We give away baskets of food as well as a number of other items," said Lt. William Harfoot of the Salvation Army. "If someone calls us and is in need, we help. Last year we were in touch with more than 70 families."

Part of the money for the Salvation Army's Christmas program comes from the annual bell-ringing campaign throughout the city. No matter what the temperature, the familiar red kettles are out on the corners. And the silvery bell tones remind passers-by that the spirit of Christmas is giving and sharing.

In addition to providing for needy families, the Salvation Army also visits nursing homes and the Northville State Hospital to spread Christmas greetings and gifts.

The Army also visits prisons in the area with a program called the Christmas Toy-lift. Each inmate, Harfoot said is allowed to choose a gift to be mailed home to his or her children in time for Christmas.

On Dec. 16, the Army rents out Cobo Hall in downtown Detroit and throws a huge Christmas party for senior citizens. Last year, more than 150 seniors from this area took the trip down to enjoy the food and festivities, Harfoot said.

ANOTHER GROUP which does its best to bring Christmas to those who need it is the Goodfellows. For more than 20 years, these ex-newsboys have sold their annual editions on the streets, just like they did when they were younger.

The money that is raised is used to buy food packages, shoes, clothes and gifts for Christmas.

"We get calls from friends and neighbors telling us about someone who needs this or that," said Treasurer Henry Berghof. "And we follow up on it. When people need help, we give it."

Although the Elks Club does not raise money through public projects, its members give individual contributions to sponsor a toys, clothes and money program at the Plymouth Center for Human Development.

You don't have to drive far for gifts

What is their pleasure?

A gift that will be treasured but useful, slightly extravagant but practical. A gift that bespeaks the thoughtfulness and good taste of the giver.

Plymouth and Canton shoppers do not need a Nieman-Marcus charge account or an unlimited travel budget for their holiday shopping. It's all right here within a mile or so their own front doors.

Consider a tentative Christmas gift list which could have been prepared by a globe-trotting traveler:

Grandfather—Meerschaum pipe (Mediterranean), special mix tobacco (English and Dutch)

Grandmother—Pendleton robe (?), English china teapot (?) exotic tea mixture (?) (India and China)

Grandmother Ruth—Williamsbury herb wreath (send early)

Brad—glassware set for his new apartment? (Belgian), food processor (?) butcher block (?)

Chris—game (stop at Family Emporium)

Sarah—something wicker (?) basket set (?) bench (?) (Far East)

Jeff—train accessories (?) models (?)

Mr. Phillips—imported wine and cheeses, (gift pack)

Fran—tap shoes, leotards

Jason—hockey skates (Canada), $10 for ice time at Cultural Centre

Brigit—kid's cookbook and apron and chef's hat (size 6)

Mother—hostess skirt (something glamorous)

Dad—shirt? racketball racquet? sweater? antique tool? book?

Fred—belt? wallet? (order early for handmade)

Mrs. B.—fancy soap (Spain)

Miss Frank—hand-dipped chocolates (made in Plymouth)

Jennifer—furniture for her doll house, skis, poles, jacket

Aunt Nell—a Hummell (check what she hasn't)

Uncle George—bottle of Scotch? vest sweater? gift certificate? cigars?

Tommy—stuffed animal (try for baby seal)

THEY ARE ALL HERE in Plymouth and Canton Township.

Specialty shops stock items that take hours to find in the large sophisticated shopping malls or department stores.

A former Chicago resident recently returned from the windy city—disillusioned with her favorite department store and enthusiastic about what the Plymouth-Canton area had to offer.

"We have much better selections in toys, dolls and accessories. Their Williamsburg shop was nothing compared to ours. We have everything here—and more of it."

Happy Christmas shopping in your own home town.

The Wassail Song

Here we come a was-sailing
Among the leaves so green; Here we come a wand-d'ring, So fair to be seen.

Love and joy come to you. And to you your wassail too; And 5od bless you and send you a hap-py
New Year, and God send you a happy New Year.

We are not daily beg-gars That beg from door to door; But we are nieghbors' children, Whom you have seen before.

God bless the master of this house. Like-wise the mistress, too,
And all the little children, That round the table go.

How to scrape up enough money for everyone on list

Christmas means many things to many people. One of the lesser aspects is money—having to scrape up enough to cover expenses for gifts.

Recognizing this, various banks and department stores offer a number of holiday plans to help lessen the financial burden of consumers and at the same time attract business.

For instance, the J.L. Hudson Co. distributes holiday money to its charge account customers every fall. The imitation bills allow customers to spend interest-free dollars until February, when they have the option of either paying the balance in full or spreading it over several months at regular interest rates.

Until recently, banks offered similar money-saving plans called Christmas clubs. They were designed to help consumers save money year-round for the Christmas season.

But today bank clubs have diminished to the point where only a few exist.

THE PROBLEM with these accounts is they do not bear interest, according to a host of bank presidents in Plymouth and Canton Township.

"There was a big fuss made about interest rates on the part of the consumer approximately three years ago," a spokesperson for the Bank of the Commonwealth said. "Since then, accounts that were not accumulating interest fell by the wayside."

"They're a bad deal all around—for the bank and the customer," said Bill Linden of National Bank of Detroit. "We don't like to get into these clubs because the money isn't retained long enough and there really isn't anything attractive for the consumer."

"Christmas clubs are a bothersome type of account," said Dan Kennedy of Detroit Bank & Trust. "When only one-fourth of one per cent of your customers belong to such a club, it's pretty obvious they're not too popular and it's time to get out."

Tradition of bells: 1 idea benefits many

As Christmas draws near, one of the familiar sounds in Plymouth is the bell-ringing of volunteers collecting donations for the Salvation Army.On a weekend in December, volunteers from various service clubs and organizations in the Plymouth community take their posts on the sidewalks with bells and the Army's "Christmas kettles" to raise funds to provide Christmas dinners for needy families and to meet other needs throughout the year.THE SAME scene is repeated in cities throughout the United States, and has been since the late 1800s.In December 1891, a Salvation Army Captain in San Francisco had resolved to provide a freeChristmas dinner to 1,000 needy persons.While trying to decide how to pay for 1,000 meals, Captain Joseph McFee recalled his days as a sailor in Liverpool, England. On the Stage Landing he had seen a large pot, called "Simpson's pot" into which charitable donations were thrown by passers-by.He obtained permission from authorities to place a similar pot at the Oakland ferry landing, at the foot of Market Street—in a strategic location to be seen by all those going to and from the ferry boats. In addition, a brass urn was placed on a stand in the waiting room for the same purpose.With that, Captain McFee launched a tradition which has spread not only throughout the Santa listens as Eric Zander, age 4 at the time of this picture, tells what he would like for Christmas.

United States but throughout the world.

BY CHRISTMAS, 1895, the kettle was used by 30 Salvation Army Corps in various sections of the West Coast area.

The Sacramento Bee in that year carried a description of the Army's Christmas activities and mentioned the contributions to street corner kettles. Shortly afterward, two young Salvation Army officers who had been instrumental in the original use of the kettle—William A. McIntyre and N.B. Lewis—were transferred to the East, taking with them the idea of the Christmas kettle.

In 1897, McIntyre prepared his Christmas plans for Boston around the kettle, setting up three kettles in the heart of the city. That year, the kettles provided Christmas dinners for 150,000 needy Bostonians.

In 1901, kettle contributions in New York City provided funds for the first mammoth sit-down dinner in Madison Square Garden, a custom which has continued for many years.

Kettles now are used in such distant lands as Korea, Japan, Chile, and in many European countries.
