

Musicals, services to tell story of The Risen Lord

Contemporary musicals as well as traditional services will tell the story of The Risen Lord on Easter Sunday, climaxing Holy Week services in local churches.

Maundy Thursday and Good Friday observances will precede the celebration of Easter for the faithful. A joint Good Friday service open to the community will be held at 1:30 p.m. in the new sanctuary of Northville United Methodist Church, 777 West Eight Mile. The minister, the Reverend Guenther C. Branstner, will lead the service.

The Reverend Lloyd Brasure of First Presbyterian Church will give the sermon, "The Way of the Cross," based on Matthew's record of the crucifixion, during the hour-long service.

NORTHVILLE METHODIST

On Easter Sunday morning at the Northville Methodist Church about 40 teenagers will be praising the Lord in a contemporary musical, "Greater Is He," at the sunrise service at 7:30 a.m. in the new sanctuary of the church. It is directed by Stacey and Gary Becker and includes instrumental music of trumpets, flute, organ and piano. A church breakfast will follow.

The Reverend Branstner will bring the Easter message at 10 a.m. With the completion of the new sanctuary, the church is holding a single Sunday service now. A Maundy Thursday service will be held from 7 to 8:30 p.m. with an open Communion with parishioners free to come and go.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN

"Everyman" is the sunrise Easter musical to be given at 7 a.m. at First Presbyterian Church by its young people. It was adapted from the 15th century English play by John Eltinge, a Northville High senior and elder in the church.

Musical director is Lynne Schwab, youth choir director, while Barbara Willoughby is the producer. The junior high group of the church is in charge of a breakfast following.

The Reverend Brasure will give the Easter message at 9:30 and 11 a.m. services. Special music will be provided by the chancel choir. On Maundy Thursday the confirmation class will be received at 7 p.m. with Communion at 8 p.m.

ST. PAUL'S LUTHERAN

"The Enemy Within" will be the Reverend Charles F. Boerger's sermon topic at Maundy Thursday Holy Communion at 7:30 p.m. There also will be

Communion at the 1 p.m. Good Friday service, "The Majesty of the New Cross" at 7:30 p.m. Good Friday there will be a Tenebrae service of darkness with the meditation on "The Seven Words."

Easter sunrise service will be at 7 a.m. with Communion.

Easter Sunday the church day school will present a pageant at 8:45 a.m. with the traditional Communion service at 10:30 a.m. Special instrumental as well as choir music will be featured. The Reverend Boerger's sermon topic will be "What Is Easter?"

Continental breakfast will be served at the church on Easter morning from 8 to 10:30 a.m. The new cross at the church containing stones from the Holy Land will be placed on the altar and lighted for Easter, the Reverend Boerger reports.

OUR LADY OF VICTORY CATHOLIC CHURCH

Plan ordered to revitalize city's CBD

An implementation plan for the revitalizing of downtown Northville has been ordered by the city council.

"I sense an air of excitement in this proposal," said Councilman J. Burton DeRusha. "We have to act quickly...I think this is a good positive beginning."

DeRusha's remarks were aimed in part at Councilman Wallace Nichols who, although he conceded the city must get much talked about revitalization "off dead center," expressed irritation at not having had more opportunity to study the proposal.

It was first presented to council Monday night.

The implementation plan, which is to detail procedures for the city's first comprehensive improvement program in history, drew unanimous council support — despite Nichols' objection.

Cost of developing the plan has been pegged at $11,500 by Ronald Nino of Tomblinson, Harburn, Yurk & Associates, the city's planning consultant.

This isn't just another study; it sets the stage for some positive action "to do something" rather than just talk about it, said Mayor Paul Vernon.

It is a culmination of more than 20 meetings of the ad hoc committee appointed by the council last year to study various ways to revitalize the downtown to make business more competitive with the growing number of new shopping centers in the city's periphery, councilmen noted.

Even though Nichols said he would have preferred having more time "to mull it over" in view of the cost, he said, "We've been kicking around ideas for 15 or 16 years. I hope something comes of it."

"We can sit on it, but for how long?" asked Councilman Stanley Johnston, who serves on the ad hoc committee with Vernon, Councilman Dewey Garner, and businessmen Glenn Long, Herman Moehlman and William Sliger. "We're ready to move, and the merchants are waiting for us to do something. We can't afford to wait."

In his proposal requested by the ad hoc committee, Nino outlined what his firm will do:

1. We will analyze pedestrian, traffic and, in particular, service delivery movements to the business establishments in the CBD for the purposes of determining constraints on pedestrian, and related landscaping improvements recommended in the previous CBD renewal plan.

2. Particular attention will be given to landscape, traffic flow, parking lot and physical building improvements necessary to effectively re-orientate access to Main Street business establishments from the present back side of these establishments, so that a time table for implementing the Main Street Mall can be achieved.

This activity will involve inventorying physical conditions relative to the rear of Main Street buildings and interior interfaces. Similarly, we will provide conceptual facade improvement themes in the two locations based upon the adopted architectural theme. We will consult with the Northville Historical District Commission in this regard.

3. We will develop conceptual plans for landscaping the CBD area (i.e. this includes species and material identification) and pedestrian circulation utilizing the functional land use allocations from the previous CBD plan. This work will be graphically illustrated for public discussion purposes.

4. We will prepare preliminary cost estimates and recommend an implementation time table recognizing optimum development relationships and likely short range capital improvements for public sector activities. We will also prepare preliminary cost estimates for specific facade improvements for private sector establishments.

5. A narrative report including cost estimates and implementation timetables together with graphic material for public discussion purposes will be presented to the Downtown Development Committee.

6. Implementation opportunities can be greatly improved through a more formalized administrative structure with a mandate to carry out the downtown renewal program. Such a vehicle is statutorily provided for in the

NEWS BRIEFS

WILLIAM W. TUCKER has been appointed to the Northville Planning Commission to replace Lyn Bourne, who has resigned. Tucker lives at 21147 Chigwidon, Northville Estates subdivision.

ABSENTEE BALLOTS for Northville schools' April 29 millage election may be obtained at the central board office, 303 West Main Street. The district is seeking 5.5 additional mills for operation.

BECAUSE THE meeting date falls during Easter Vacation, Monday's Northville school board session will be in the regular location rather than the high school as previously planned. The meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. at the board room, 303 West Main. The high school will host a meeting later this year.

PARKING on both sides of the street is causing "serious" traffic hazards in several areas of the city, council members contended this week in directing the city manager to survey the city to determine where only one-side-of-street parking should be considered.

A RECOGNITION dinner is being planned in May during Michigan Week to honor the dozens of persons employed in the city or serving appointive positions.

UNLESS there is a dramatically larger increase in betting at Northville Downs, the city's share of the parimutuel handle will not hit the $700,000 maximum level. Nevertheless, the city's anticipated share is still up nearly $50,000 over the projected budget income.

SPRING is here! You can be sure of that by the swollen buds on the crab apple trees, the green spikes of daffodils that have poked through the ground, the rainfall this week that has nearly wiped out the thick blanket of snow, and by the rash of reports of citizens who spotted their first robins of the season.

Annexation bid pared by state

Don't look for annexation of all of the Hillcrest subdivision area east of Clement Road.

State Boundary Commission members informally concluded at last week's public hearing that the only township area they will consider for annexation to the city will be the 10 lots covered by the original citizens' petition.

During the next 30 days (following last week Tuesday's hearing) the commission will consider any additional written communications from the public it may receive on the proposed annexation of the 10 lots.

Following this 30-day period, commissioners will weigh the evidence — pro and con — and reach a decision. That decision will be final. No election is provided, under the law, because fewer than 100 persons live within the area.

When citizens, who live outside the 10 lot area but east of Clement in Hillcrest, requested to be heard, Commission Chairman David Calhoun bristled and told the audience the commission was not considering annexation of a larger area.

He waved aside disagreements expressed by the commission's executive staffers who pointed to the public notice, claimed the newspaper had misinformed the public, and finally solicited from commission members an informal commitment that the commission will not consider annexation of any area outside of the original 10 lots when it begins deliberations.

It's Easter egg hunt time here

The count down's begun for the annual Easter Egg Hunt sponsored by the Northville Jaycees.

Target date and hour are Saturday at promptly 9 a.m.

Place is the Cass Benton Park in the Edward Hines Parkway — the same place where previous years' hunts have occurred.

Jaycee Project Chairman Steve Gregerson reminds parents to bring their children to the park prior to the starting date to avoid disappointments for those who missed past hunts by a few minutes.

According to Gregerson, several local businesses have contributed prizes to be awarded finders of specially labeled eggs.

The "prize" eggs as well as the hundreds of other eggs will be scattered about the park in five designated areas for each of the five age groups.

Children will be permitted to hunt only in their designated areas, he emphasized.

Finders of special eggs may take them to the Jaycee prize area in the park to receive their prizes.

The age groups are: Preschoolers, kindergarten through first grade, second and third graders, fourth and fifth graders, and sixth graders.

BRIGHTON — City officials and representatives of the Brighton Mall continued their feud this past week over the zoning board of appeal's 4-1 rejection of the Mall's request for a variance to allow for additional parking.

HAMBURG — By a narrow seven-vote margin, Hamburg Township residents approved a one-mill property tax increase over the next three years to purchase a 134-acre parcel of land from the Huron Clinton Metropolitan Authority.

GREEN OAK — A vocal audience made its feelings known here and ultimately saw their wishes fulfilled as the township board failed to approve a rezoning request for a 30.3-acre parcel just south of the Kelsey-Hayes plant on Old U.S. 23. "I'm tired of trucks from Kelsey-Hayes tearing up our backlot," one of the residents said, echoing sentiments of others.

BRIGHTON — The long legal hassle between the City of Brighton and Leon Bonner, a Northville resident who owns five rental properties in Brighton, resulted in a decision for the city. Circuit Court Judge Bert Hensick ruled that the city ordinance was reasonable and constitutional and that the city was justified in shutting off water to three of Bonner's rental properties. The water was shut off when Bonner refused to let city officials enter the homes to inspect them to see if they complied with city codes.

WHITMORE LAKE — The school board here granted Superintendent Ed Heathcote a one-year renewal of his contract with a 10 percent salary increase by a 4-2 vote.

SALEM — Demolition of the former Lyke house, just east of the township hall here, will proceed on schedule following the opening of bids. Removal of the building will clear the way for construction of the first phase of the new fire hall-township office complex which will incorporate and eventually update the current township hall.

NOVI — Responding to citizens' request to build a fire station away from residential property, the city council approved by a 4-3 vote a site on Nine Mile Road just east of the railroad tracks.

NOVI — The new high school auditorium was dedicated Thursday in honor of the Fuerst family, early settlers in the city. The facility has been named the Fuerst Auditorium. It is located in the new high school on the old Fuerst farm at Taft and 10 Mile roads.

WIXOM — A 25 year old New Hudson man has been arrested and charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of John Wade, Jr. of Livonia. Wade was killed in a hit-run automobile accident near the Wixom city hall on February 28. Donald Kelmer stood mute at his arraignment.

COMMERCE — Owners of some 485 acres of vacant land in the southeast corner of the township have asked for multiple-family, industrial and commercial zoning. A 3,000-unit apartment complex is planned.

April 10 deadline for candidates

The annual school board election is nearly three months away, but prospective candidates have less than three weeks to make their intentions known.

Monday, April 10, at 4 p.m. is the deadline for filing nominating petitions for the two four-year terms which expire this year on Northville's board of education.

This is the second year since state lawmakers moved the filing deadline forward to 60 days before the June election.

Treasurer Karen Wilkinson, who won a full four-year term in her first try in 1974, and Trustee James Lewis, who was elected last June to fill an unexpired term, are up for reelection.

Neither has taken out a nominating petition but both indicated they may run again.

Nominating petitions may be picked up at the board of education office, 303 West Main Street.

It takes only 20 signatures from registered school district voters to get on the ballot.

Persons circulating petitions should take care not to get signatures from citizens of two different government units on the same petition sheet.

In other words, separate petitions should be circulated in Northville City, Northville Township and Novi City although the combined total of signatures may be computed to reach the minimum requirement.

Mrs. Wilkinson may become the first school board member to seek reelection since President John Hobart in 1975.

"I think I am" going to run again, she said Friday.

The school board make-up has changed drastically in the last two years.

Marjorie Slinger and Christopher Johnson were elected for the first time in 1976. Vice President Douglas Whitaker was appointed to fill a vacancy last winter and he and newcomers Lewis and Charles Peltz were elected in June.

Boardmembers Dr. Orlo Robinson and Martin Rinehart in 1975 and Roger Nieuwkoop in 1976 did not seek reelection. Two other board members, Sylvia Gucken and Dr. Robert Mandell, moved out of the district.

Township seeks fire station site

Attempts by Northville Township to secure a site for a second fire station at the corner of Seven Mile and Beck roads is underway.

That attempt, according to Township Supervisor Wilson Grier, may involve trade of properties with the Department of Natural Resources.

The township has its eye on three acres of Maybury State Park land at the Northwest corner of Seven and Beck — at what formerly was an entrance to the now non-existent Maybury TB sanatorium.

However, because the state used federal monies in acquiring the state park property sale of the property is restricted.

U.S. Representative Carl Pursell, according to the supervisor, is assisting the township in getting that restriction modified.

Meanwhile, however, the DNR has told the township it would prefer a trade of properties that might not conflict with federal regulations.

Boiled down, what DNR is saying is "give us another equal size piece of land adjacent to the park and we'll give you the corner parcel."

With such a trade in mind, township officials have asked Consumers Power Company to consider a gift of three acres of land on Napier Road adjacent to the park. "They are considering it," Grier said, "but if they don't want to give us the land, we're prepared to negotiate a purchase."

Consumers is a large property owner along Napier, part of it used for gas storage.

Establishment of a second fire station at Beck and Seven, township officials believe, would provide quicker fire service to the western part of the township.

Currently, the township's fire department is housed on the grounds of the Wayne County Child Development Center near Sheldon and Six Mile roads. These facilities will be moved this coming summer to the township's new municipal complex now under construction on the south side of Six Mile Road, east of Bradner Road.

Projects keep students busy at high school

Winter doldrums have not prevented the Northville Student Congress from keeping busy, reports Secretary Sherry Wissman.

The student government is now building a stage in the Munch Room (cafeteria) for use by the Pep Club, for dances and for other school activities.

Halls have been brightened by a planter put in by the stairway leading to the basement.

Many of the plants were donated by Mrs. J. G. Reband, Kelly Mikton and Shelly Millard.

Anyone who wants to donate a plant to the high school should call the office (349-3400) and leave his number.

Student Congress has taken a student survey for ways to change the attendance policy. The results were turned over to Principal George Aune.

Last Thursday, Northville hosted a Western Six Conference of student governments from league schools. The topic was "Lack of Involvement." Last month, Livonia Churchill hosted the conference.

The Student Congress clothes drive to collect men's pants and shoes for patients at Northville state mental hospital is going well. Those wishing to donate should contact the high school.

There will be a roller skating party from 7-9 p.m. on Wednesday, April 12 at Brighton. It costs $2 — 50 cents for skates — and is open only to Northville students.

A flea market will be conducted on June 3 at the high school parking lot. Space may be rented for $5.

These local teachers 'have language, will travel'

By RICH PERLBERG

What would you call a linguistic group of teachers who speak a flock of languages, more often than not were born in other countries and almost always end the working day in a building different from which they started?

How about, "Have Language, Will Travel?"

That's the case in Northville where a five-woman staff shuttles between the high school and Cooke and Meads Mill junior high schools where they lay some French, German and Spanish on about 450 students.

There is one exception. Emily Serafa-

Manschot spends the entire day at the high school because her specialty, Spanish is not offered to ninth graders even though it is the most popular.

"I guess they figure that so many people get it in high school that it's not needed in the junior high," she said. "Everybody thinks Spanish is the easiest language to learn."

"That's a misconception," adds Austrian-born Gerda Burnside who teaches German, the language she says that has been unfairly tagged as most difficult to learn.

If you are beginning to think these teachers sometimes feel misunderstood, you are starting to speak their language.

Somewhat enviously, they look at European schools where two foreign languages — of one which is English — are required beginning at age 11.

Typical of most American schools, Northville has no foreign language requirements and offers none until the ninth grade. Plans for seventh and eighth grade classes have been shelved until and if additional millage is passed.

When Northville students do get into their classes, the five teachers say they encounter a language barrier of the unexpected kind.

"English is a fantastic problem," says Lefka Simeon, a native of Greece, a speaker of Yugoslavian and Italian and a teacher of French. "We always have to teach them English."

"Sometimes, it seems like we are teaching nothing but grammar," agrees Burnside.

Strengthening English skills, in fact is one of the advantages of taking foreign language.

"My third-year students write beautiful papers," says Serafa Manschot. "They know their tense and sentence structure."

Improving their English, however, is not the main reason that most students choose to take a language.

"Heritage is a big factor," says Burnside. So is the knowledge that most of Red hot detectors on sale again Saturday

Since the Northville Township Fire Department began selling smoke and fire detectors last month, the hottest thing around has been its sale records.

The four-stage Honeywell alarms have been such a hit that department has been called on for an encore.

After the last successful sale at Northville's American Legion Hall last week, another sale has been scheduled for Saturday from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. at the A&P grocery store, located in the Seven Mile Road Northville Plaza shopping center.

And this will be the absolutely, positively, final last sale.

"When these are gone, we are out of business," said Township Fire Department Chief Robert Toms.

But what a business it has been. The 500 detectors sold at the legion hall brings to about 2100 the number of alarms that have been purchased in about a month.

There are about 500 detectors left and those that aren't sold Saturday can be bought at the fire hall, located in the Wayne County Child Development Center property, north of Five Mile Road and east of Sheldon.

Each detector (battery included) costs only $20 and $5 of that will be rebated by the Honeywell company. The fire department is selling the devices at cost and is making no profit.

The object of the sale was to improve fire safety in Northville community homes and Toms said the results may already be evident.

Until last Friday and Saturday, when the department extinguished mattress fires at Hawthorn Center and the Northville state mental hospital, "we hadn't had a fire for the last month," said Toms.

"We were averaging a run every other day. I would like to think that we (through the sale) are doing the thing."

It is Toms' belief that the publicity and success surrounding the detector sale have made people more fire conscious.

Before this weekend, "the last fire in the township was a dryer on Sunset Drive on February 23. The last major fire was a home on Seven Mile Road. That was on February 14," said Toms. He then knocked on his wooden desk.

"We've sold 2100. That's a fabulous amount. With smoke detectors, people will have small fires and they will be on the outside waiting for us and we won't have to go in there and get them."

The fire department's idea may be catching on. Toms has received inquiries about setting up similar sales from officials in Romulus and Brownstone Township. Some fire chiefs have also been interested.

The City of Detroit is going to make smoke detectors mandatory and state lawmakers are considering a similar move.

'Vacation, not sick days'

It was incorrectly reported in last week's Record that Northville Public Schools Superintendent Raymond Spear would receive $200 a day for each accumulated sick day should he resign by June 1 of this year.

In fact, the contract amendment approved by the school board allows for $197 for each vacation day, of which Spear has no more than 20, should he resign by June 1 leges programs either require or strongly urge foreign language study.

Then, of course, there is the trip — an every-other-year excursion to places such as Mexico, Spain, France and Germany that is open only to past and present foreign language students.

Organized independently from the school by the language teachers, the primarily sightseeing tours generally take place at Easter vacation. Fund raisers, such as art auctions, help defray the average cost of $1000 per student.

Even with such inducements, the language department suffers because all of it courses are electives, say the teachers.

"My objection to languages being an elective is that I don't think you can maintain standards," says Elaine Prestel, a French and German teacher. Like the other teachers, she believes that one of the advantages to foreign languages is that it teaches good, disciplined study habits.

Demanding this effort and grading accordingly can be a shock to students who aren't used to everyday homework.

"One student even asked why he had any homework at all since language is an elective. Thus, students who feel the pressure to maintain a high grade point average may drop a language class rather than risk a lower grade than they are used to.

Such thinking is contrary to good sense, especially for the college-bound student who is most concerned about high school marks, says Marie Hopkins, who teaches Spanish and French.

"It's a lot easier because of the time involved to start in high school," said the native of North Africa. "I've know a lot of bright people who have had to drop French in college where the teaching (of languages) in the first and second levels leaves much to be desired."

On the practical side, students who master a language in high school can not only place into advanced college courses, but — by taking a standardized test — they can receive college credit for the courses they skip.

The teachers agree that all students should be exposed to foreign language in the seventh and eighth grades and then those that choose could continue in high school.

Foreign languages, they say, can also help cure ethnocentrism — a contempt for other people's cultures — which is all-too-common in this country.

"Americans go around thinking, 'I'm not going to put myself out. Let them learn English,'" says Simeon. "We teach about different cultures in our classes so the students can appreciate something that's different."

Simeon suggests that Russian, which used to be taught here, and other languages, such as Italian, should be offered.

"If the interest is there, why not?" she asks. "We have the talent here."

Plymouth luncheon fetes DAR winners

Two Northville students are winners in the Sarah Ann Cochran Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, essay contest and were to be honored at a luncheon March 20, at the Plymouth Historical Museum.

Matthew Meyer, a Moraine student, and David Bach, Cooke Junior High, are among seven area winners in the annual competition.

This year's essay topic was "Strength to Grow Up in Colonial Times."

Northville Rotarians will conduct their annual sale of miniature Easter lilies Friday and Saturday as a means of raising monies for the Wayne County Easter Seal Society, which aids crippled children and adults. According to Rotary Co-Chairmen C. A. Smith (left) and Philip Ogilvie, Rotarians will be selling the lilies throughout the city, including the race track, from 9 a.m. to noon and 3 to 7 p.m. on Friday, and from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Saturday.

GOOD TIME WINE
by Jim Roth

Most wines are harvested in more or less the same way and then left in the vats to ferment. But there are vital differences. Red, white, and rose wines are each made in a slightly different manner. Also, there are a number of factors that affect the fermentation process—what type of yeast is used to start fermentation, the temperature at which fermentation is taking place, and the amount of air the fermenting juice is exposed to. A good winter keeps expert control over all of these factors.

You'll find help from experts when you come to us at GOOD TIME PARTY STORE, 567 Seven Mile Road, 349-1477. Cold wine, champagne and beer are available for immediate use and there is always a fine selection for your choice. If you want to serve something different and delicious come in and pick live lobsters from our lobster tank. We can explain how to cook and serve them. Open: 9 a.m.-10 p.m. Mon. thru Sat., Noon-6 p.m. Sun. Stop by soon and pick up your wines for Easter dinner. Easter Greetings from all of us.
HANDY HINT: The wine in an unfinished bottle of wine is excellent for cooking.

State hospital director resigns

John J. Zugich, director, Northville State Hospital, has announced his intention to resign April 7.

His resignation was accepted "with regret" by V. A. Stehman, M.D., acting director, Michigan Department of Mental Health, who announced that John S. Reynolds, associate director of the hospital, would become acting director pending selection of a new director.

Zugich, formerly associate director of University of Michigan Hospital, was appointed Northville director in January, 1976.

He said his decision to resign was made in January and "has nothing to do with the recent changes in department administration."

"The reason for relinquishing the post," he said, "is to enable me, after 38 years in hospital work, to taper off from demands involved in the daily management of a busy institution."

"It is my intention to devote more time to family and personal matters and less to scheduled or professional activities."

Reynolds, 51, was formerly coordinator of mental health services in the Detroit-Wayne metropolitan region.

In this capacity and later as associate director he assisted in administrative reorganization of Northville hospital during 1976.

He was director of Downriver Child Guidance Clinic, Lincoln Park, from 1962 until appointed Department regional mental health coordinator in 1974.

Reynolds, a clinical social worker, received his bachelor's and master's degrees from University of Michigan and for many years served as a field instructor in administration and case management for the U-M School of Social Work.

He is a department representative on the planning committee of the state Mental Health Advisory Council.

Northville council concerned

Has Novi exceeded sewer limit?

Suspicious for more than a year that Novi might be exceeding its allotted space in the sanitary sewer system that passes through Northville, the city council here is even more suspicious today.

The day of reckoning is coming for Novi, Northville councilmen concluded this week upon reviewing memorandums of the Novi city manager concerning the neighboring city's sewer capacity outlook.

What worries Northville councilmen most is that Novi not only feels it has sufficient sewerage capacity now but that it has sufficient capacity for a great many more "taps".

It grates Northville city officials that Novi and Northville Township continue to expand their use of the Huron-Rouge Sewage Disposal system even though the state sees the system as being inadequate and is warning that it may impose a widespread construction ban.

Especially irritating locally is the fact that when the City of Northville purchased into the interceptor it purchased sufficient additional capacity to serve ultimate development of the city, Novi, on the other hand, purchased a fraction (4CFS) of its ultimate need.

Yet, the City of Northville has been told, long before all of its lands are developed, that it already exceeds its (CFS) capacity. Novi, on the other hand, goes unchecked in granting more capacity than was initially anticipated, local officials note.

Novi has been able to accommodate a major building boom because it had a "holding" facility constructed on Nine Mile Road.

In effect, this facility permits Novi to contain excess sewage effluent during peak sewer use periods, then releasing it into the interceptor during lower use periods (at night). The county has authorized this method of "stretching" sewer capacity.

Despite contentions by Novi that it has not exceeded its capacity, Northville remains unconvinced. It has repeatedly urged the county to make an accurate check of effluent fed into the interceptor by user communities. Basing that use on water consumption, as has been done by the county, is an accurate gauge, local city officials contend.

If a measurement of the actual amount of effluent was made, Northville is convinced it would show that the city has additional capacity left while Novi has exceeded its capacity.

In a letter to developers earlier this month, Novi City Manager Edward Kriewall conceded that "the bottom line is that other planned developments on the horizon could accelerate the use of available capacity and cause a moratorium on building. You should be aware of this problem and be prepared to deal with the potential stoppage of building activity."

In cautioning developers, however, Kriewall was not talking about current planned developments but rather future ones.

According to Novi's city engineer, Novi still has 3,750 sewer units available to it before it reaches capacity.

"Further experience, study and analysis will be required to accurately determine the number of sewer units still available in Novi," the engineer said. "However, it appears reasonable to determine that Novi's available sewer units should, conservatively, range somewhere between 2000 and 3000 (equivalent to 2000 to 3000 single family lots)."

Kriewall said proposed residential subdivisions in Novi represent 2,755 total taps — most of which would empty effluent into the Huron-Rouge interceptor.

In view of the future potential problem, Kriewall urged builders, developers, trade unions and government officials to "contact your state and federal legislator to mount a uniform pressure on the agencies that control the fate of the (planned) Super Sewer."

Petro program one of 8 in nation

Schoolcraft College's petroleum technology program has been listed in the 1978 directory of petroleum engineering schools published by the Society of Petroleum Engineers.

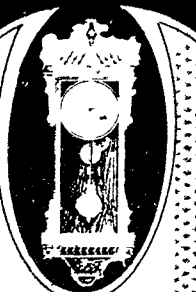

The college is among eight technical schools in the United States to offer the program. A second state school, Northwestern Michigan College in Traverse City, is also included.

Schoolcraft's program was developed by instructors John Bedford, its coordinator, and William Ryan. It requires 76 credit hours of study, 25 in the area of petroleum, and leads to an Associate in Science degree.

The program trains geology technicians and its graduates are prepared for employment as assistants to petroleum engineers or petroleum geologists, or transfer to senior institutions to continue their studies.

First begun in the fall of 1976, petroleum technology currently has eight freshman and eight sophomore students. Openings for additional students are available.

Television watching has no ill effect on your eyes but there are certain rules for viewing that will increase your enjoyment. Be sure your set, and it's antenna, are properly installed and maintained. Eliminate glare on the tube from lamps and windows. Avoid looking up or down too sharply. Have the set at about eye level, if possible. The best viewing distance is at least five times the width of the screen. Wear your regular viewing eyeglasses. Rest your eyes by looking away from the picture occasionally. If your eyes water or feel strained while watching a well-adjusted TV picture, your eyes may need attention.

Langfield promoted

Bradley Langfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Langfield, 533 Morgan Circle, recently was promoted to Army private first class in Geilenkirchen, Germany, where he is a radio operator with the 39th Signal Battalion. Private Langfield entered the Army in December 1976. He is a 1977 graduate of Northville High School.

Petty cash

A $25 petty cash fund has been established in the Northville Township Fire Department. Township established the fund so that the fire chief need not use his own monies "for day to day expenses" and then later requesting reimbursement.

for prospective engineering students from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. March 23 in the Waterman Campus Center.

The seminar is being co-sponsored by the college's mathematics department and the Engineering Society of Detroit.

Students are invited to bring their lunch and questions they may have about the engineering profession. Engineers from the metropolitan area will be available to answer questions, providing students the opportunity to consult with professionals in their prospective field.

Scheduled seminar topics include job opportunities for men and women, starting salaries, best fields for advancement and availability of scholarships.

Further information may be obtained by calling mathematics department representative Rocco Garritano at 591-6400, extension 446. Schoolcraft College is located at 18600 Haggerty Road in Livonia.

Police out talk 'voices'

A young Livonia man on a weekend pass from Lafayette Clinic said voices were telling him to jump off an overpass and onto the I-275 expressway Sunday.

But the voice that prevailed belonged to a Northville township policeman who gained the man's trust and ended the drama by talking him into having a cup of coffee.

"He never did get the coffee," said Patrolman John Sherman who along with a Livonia policeman prevented a possible suicide.

The man — identified only as a 25-year-old, white male — was taken to the Northville state mental hospital where authorities said he was suffering from a nervous breakdown.

Later, his parents took him from the hospital back to Lafayette Clinic.

The man was spotted Sunday afternoon dangling ominously on the north railing of the Five Mile Road overpass crossing I-275's southbound lanes.

"He screamed at us to get back," said Sherman. "He was yelling that voices were telling him to jump off. "I talked to him and convinced him to come down and have a cup of coffee. I got him to trust me."

Police are still searching for leads to the identity of the person or persons who went on a window-smashing spree in Northville early last week.

Windows in five downtown businesses were smashed either by a pellet gun or rocks late Sunday night and early Monday morning causing more than $1100 in estimated damages.

The night before, a front picture window at a Fairbrook home and windows on three cars parked in the city were also broken by rocks or pellets.

The businesses struck Sunday night and Monday morning were Arbor Drugs, 133 East Dunlap; Century 21, 224 North Main; Moonkin Toys, 446 South

Ham station approved

A radio ham operators club has received township board commission to establish an emergency communications center in the new township hall.

Township board members, however, conditioned their approval upon the specific sanction and direction of the police chief.

Making the request was James Macintyre, vice-president of the Stu Rockafellow Amateur Radio Society.

Purpose, said Macintyre, "is to furnish to the community a system of emergency communication, and to advance the state of the art radio communication."

Macintyre said his society would —

- Install and make operational the antenna, repeater and associated equipment.
- Provide liability insurance covering all personnel working on, installing or maintaining the repeater.
- Accept all responsibility for the proper operation and maintenance.

The hams' radio antenna would be located on the township's police radio tower in such a manner as to not interfere with the police communication system, he said.

The Stu Rockafellow society, named after a Northville township radio ham who died, is based in Plymouth but its 58 members include some members from the Northville area.

Annexation boundaries pared by state commission

little presumptuous of you (Calhoun)," said Commissioner Irving Rozian. Commissioners and executive staffers argued among themselves over whether or not a second hearing would be necessary if the commission considered annexation of a large area — some contending it would be necessary, others that it would not. (A Record news article had quoted Robert Terry, criteria analyst for the commission, that the commission had decided to enlarge the area in question because it felt that the lots petitioned were only a small part of a larger, homogenous residential area. ("The commissioners felt they should get input of both the city and the township on the entire area," he was quoted as saying. (The article noted that, by law, the commission is empowered to deny or approve annexation petitions or to alter boundaries before approval. (Terry said after the hearing that he had been accurately quoted. (The commission's own paid published notice of the hearing stated, "In addition, the commission welcomes any information relative to the annexation of this entire area in Section 4, East of Clement Road and north of Main Street." (Commission members said the only reason why they had solicited comments of property owners from the larger area was because the city had requested that the entire subdivision — east of Clement be considered for annexation. (City officials strongly deny that they played any role in the suggested expansion of the area to be considered for annexation. City Clerk Joan McAllister, who attended the commission meeting in Lansing, recalls that it was Commissioner Rozian who suggested expansion of the boundary to Clement, whereupon the commission quickly supported him. (Terry telephoned The Record Thursday to say that in the confusion over the hearing notification the commission had erred in saying that the city had requested inclusion of the wider area. "We went back to the original tapes of the meeting," explained Terry, "and found that it was proposed by our own people. We've apologized to Mr. (City Manager Steven) Walters and we wanted you to know.")

Of the original 10 lots, three of the four owners in attendance said they still favor annexation of their properties. One of the four, however, has sold his property and the new owner, Frank Demicoli, told the commission he would prefer to remain in the township. "I moved 1½ months ago and I knew I was moving into the township; I'd like to remain in the township," he said. On the other hand, Robert Engelmeyer, one of the original petitioners said he spoke for most if not all of the other lot owners in saying that "our original feeling still stands. We've felt like city residents all along and we'd like to become city residents."

It was noted that most of the lots are located on the north side of Main Street, just a few blocks away from city and fire police departments. This fact, together with other services offered by the city, persuaded the 10 lot owners to seek city residency, according to Engelmeyer and Maxwell Austin. None of the Hillcrest residents who live outside the 10 lot area favored annexation. In his presentation to the commission, City Manager Walters emphasized that the city was not soliciting annexation. However, he expressed confidence that the city can adequately serve residents in the area. Noting that the city had submitted its written stand on the annexation request to the boundary commission several weeks ago, Walters said the city concurs with the commission that Clement Road would be a more "logical boundary" for the city.

"We're receptive to taking in the area if they are interested in joining us, but we're not pushing it," the manager said.

Township Supervisor Wilson Grier, on the other hand, strongly opposed either annexation of the 10 lots or all of the subdivision east of Clement.

He noted that in the two previous annexation attempts (involving the entire township) citizens rejected it at the polls. The people obviously want to remain with the township, he concluded.

The township, said Grier, provides all of the services desired by the citizens of the subdivision — including superior police and fire services than are offered by the city. He noted that the township has a full time fire chief, has retired professional firemen on its force, and it has a police chief and a professional police force, while the city has neither a full time fire chief nor a police chief.

Property owners would, he noted, lose the services of the state police and the county road patrol if they joined the city.

Grier said other services provided by the city, such as rubbish collection and a DPW department, could be provided by the township if the citizens wanted it.

That's what makes township government attractive — people decide what they want to pay for, said Grier.

Through its questioning, the commission took the city to task for "threatening" Hillcrest property owners with removal of their water supply. It faulted the city for not having informed citizens along Main Street that they would have to, by state law, tie into the city's sewer line, and one member appeared chagrined because the city charges township water customers' higher rates than it does for city property owners.

The commission also chastised the supervisor for suggesting that Hillcrest property owners would not have to accept an assessment if new water lines were installed in front of their properties.

Hillcrest property owners should realize, contrary to the supervisor's contention, that sooner or later they will have to pay for the planned water lines, commissioners argued.

One commissioner observed that the estimated $3,000 water line assessment made by the township probably would be offset by the cost the city would charge for making sewer connections on Main Street.

Commission Chairman Calhoun told the property owners, "I think you have one year to hook up (to city sewers)... you can't go along without it... so you won't get off scott free (by annexing)."

Similarly, the commission told property owners that they must understand that when new water lines are put into the subdivision they will have to pay for them if they remain part of the township.

It was when a resident of Hillcrest, who lives outside the 10-lot area, attempted to express his views that Commission Chairman Calhoun angrily denied that the commission had any intention of considering extension of the proposed annexation to Clement Road.

Commissioners argued among themselves over procedure... over whether or not the single hearing would suffice if subdivision area beyond the 10 lots were considered for annexation.

When a citizen outside the 10-lot area requested to be heard because he had read in the newspaper that his comments would be considered, Calhoun said, "I don't give a damn what the newspaper said..."

Larry Sheehan, one of the "outside" property owners, then asked the commission if it would assure him that after he left the hearing his property would not be considered for annexation.

Permitted to speak, finally, Sheehan said he had moved from the city to Hillcrest because he liked the country setting. He said he had been satisfied with city services, but that he is also satisfied with the services of the township and would much prefer to remain in the township.

Nick Serkaian, another Hillcrest property owner outside the initially proposed 10-lot area, also voiced opposition to annexation of his property. He said a majority of the other residents were also opposed to annexation.

"We don't want city taxes," Serkaian said, adding that "I'm basically pleased (with township services)."

Responding to remarks of the township supervisor, City Attorney Philip Ogilvie said the city's police and fire services "are more than adequate," that despite the absence of full time chiefs those functions are being admirably filled by DPW Director Herman Hartner (fire) and Captain Louis Westphal (police).

The city attorney also attempted to defuse suggestions that the city had forced Hillcrest residents into considering annexation by threatening to cut off water supply to the subdivision. That action by the city, he emphasized, was a reaction to the township's failure to live up to its long-standing agreement to improve the water lines that health officials said were potentially dangerous to the health of residents.

"It wasn't a case of the city holding a gun to the people's head," he asserted.

This marks the second time in five years that the band has made a spring trip to California. The Symphony Band, numbering more than 70 members, will play in six California cities — Stockton, Pleasanton, San Raphael, Pomona, West Covina and Anaheim.

Making the March 27-April 4 trip from here will be WSU bandmembers Gregory A. Kalin and David P. Kleckner.

Township purchases approved

Purchase of $7,234 worth of fire department equipment has been approved by the Northville Township Board.

Acting on the request of Fire Chief Robert H. Toms, the board last week authorized the purchase of the following equipment:

500 feet of 2½ inch fire hose; 500 feet of 1½ inch fire hose, a Hale Pump; two watertight float pumps, two float strainers, a resuscitator, two spee (hose) guns; two portable flood lights, a 10-foot aluminum ladder, one Resusci Annie manikin, six strobe lights, one foam eductor, 10 five-gallon foam containers, one 10-foot section of hard suction hose, and two 2½ inch hard suction hose.

The board will use federal revenue funds to purchase the equipment.

During the discussion about the purchase, two trustees argued over whether or not the equipment will be purchased with federal revenue funds in the current budget or with federal funds under the new 1978-79 budget.

"It's much ado about nothing," quipped Trustee Dr. John Swienkowski when Trustee Mark Lysinger pressed for an answer as to what budget monies are to be used.

Swienkowski took the position that sufficient federal revenues exist in the present budget for the purchase and if those monies are not used this budget year they will be carried over in the new budget for the same purpose.

"$7200 is a lot more than 'much ado about nothing,'" said Lysinger.

Speaking for The Record

Public hearing botched by state

We can't remember ever having been more disappointed with the performance of public officials than we were with the "circus" of the State Boundary Commission here last week.

Unfortunately, while the commission did a pretty good job of keeping the audience under control, its own conduct was unbecoming and gave credence to Michigan township officials' charges that its actions are suspect.

Questioning by commissioners of citizens was often irrelevant and misleading, unsubstantiated conclusions were expressed, commissioners were obviously uninformed about the purpose of their own public hearing, members bickered among themselves over procedure, some members were rude and crude, and, in short, the commission made a spectacle of itself.

It is inconceivable to us that public officials who have been involved with numerous public hearings on annexations over the years could, at least in this instance, be so unprofessional, so completely disorganized.

We have to conclude that intelligent officials came to the hearing without having done their homework.

Of natural concern to us was the allegation of the commission chairman that this newspaper had, through its news stories about the public hearing, misinformed the public. That charge was supported by one of the commission's executive staffers.

Yet, after the meeting, that staffer admitted the stories had been accurate — that the commission had indeed invited public comments concerning possible annexation of a larger than initially petitioned area.

The commission's own paid legal notice of the hearing as published in this newspaper, which stated "the commission welcomes any information relative to the annexation of this entire area in Section 4, East of Clement Road and north of Main street," appears to have escaped their notice.

It was a case of one hand not knowing what the other was doing.

Of equal concern to us were the repeated statements made by commission members that they had been persuaded to consider the larger area by the city.

The public was left with the impression that had it not been for pressure from city officials, the commission would not have voted to consider more than the initial 10 lots in Hillcrest Subdivision.

That false statement bothers us most because it is precisely the argument used by township officials who see every annexation issue as being carefully and deviously orchestrated by city officials.

The fact of the matter is that no city official asked the boundary commission to enlarge the area to be considered for possible annexation. That decision was entirely of the commission's own doing. A review of the commission's own taped minutes will show that a commission member proposed it, without pressure from anyone, and that other board members quickly supported him.

When this newspaper challenged the commission to prove its "city asked us to do it" position, Commissioner Irving Rozian replied, "Sure they did; their written documentation to us proves it."

The "documentation" turns out to be the position papers that city and township officials were asked to submit to the boundary commission. In it the city had said it concurred with the commission position that Clement Road would be the better boundary for annexation.

What Rozian failed to say, therefore, is that when those position papers were submitted, the commission already had decided on its own to enlarge the area, and the city was responding to the commission's enlargement decision.

Later in the week, the commission admitted its error. An executive staffer of the commission called this newspaper and said that, upon reviewing the taped minutes of its meeting, it had learned that commission members themselves had suggested expansion of the area.

As the commission reviews the public comments made at last week's hearing, we suggest its members pay particular attention to the minutes of their own comments to see for themselves how they botched what otherwise might have been an orderly meeting.

Age no handicap

Who said it's a handicap to be old? Or to be small?

Obviously, one of the nation's industrial giants is convinced there's room in its empire for a tiny operation with half-century-old roots.

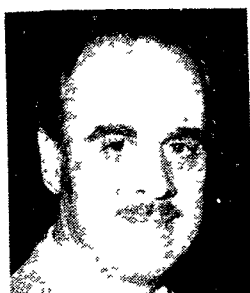

We suspect that there was more than recognition of company heritage that prompted Ford Motor Company to update and improve the valve-making machinery at its Northville water-wheel plant.

Production records that will now make the local plant the largest supplier of valves for Ford passenger cars must be impressive, too.

The community of Northville has had a long-standing love affair with the first (and last) of old Henry Ford's village industries. And there's a lot more than economics associated with the pride that's felt locally as a result of Ford Motor Company's decision to keep on producing valves by the millpond.

It's good news, indeed, that the plant where it was once not uncommon to see the company's founder checking out operations will continue to function as an important supplier of Ford Motor Company.

Affirmative Action?

LAWRENCE J. WASHINGTON

BAD . . .

The Police Officers Association of Michigan (POAM) is opposed to any affirmative action program, racial preference promotional policy, or quota system which results in the hiring or promoting of one police officer over another based on race.

To support such programs would be to further perpetuate the wrong such programs were supposedly intended to correct — discrimination.

The racial preference programs instituted by the Detroit Police Department and the Teamsters Union, representing Flint police officers, are not only wrong, they are unlawful.

They deny the citizens the best possible professional police service for their tax dollars.

U.S. District Judge Fred W. Kaess said it best in Detroit Police Officers Association vs. City of Detroit, when he wrote, "no one can doubt that a police officer is a professional in every sense of the word."

"Ordinarily, he makes more decisions and exercises broader discretion day in and day out than a judge does in a week. Indeed, these professionals have only minutes — sometimes seconds — to make decisions that perplex judges for months, who may even then divide five to four or two to one."

"Our society expects that these professional officers will not only enforce the law in determining what constitutes a constitutional arrest or search, but also act as curbside psychiatrist, social worker, legal adviser, minister and doctor."

"Cognizant of these factors the tax paying community is entitled to the services of the most qualified police officers and supervisors available — without regard to unconstitutional racial considerations."

"Those who would have this Court do otherwise do violence to common sense."

POAM does, however, support and defend equal employment policies, practices and procedures designed to provide all persons an equal opportunity to compete.

Executive Director
POAM

GOOD . . .

Why should any group of people be hired, or promoted, or admitted into educational institutions in preference to any other group? In short, what is the justification for affirmative action?

The answer to this question may be a bitter pill for some, but the facts speak for themselves. It cannot be honestly disputed that the deficits resulting from African enslavement placed blacks at a far greater disadvantage than that suffered by the European immigrants, who admittedly faced many obstacles.

For example, in the infamous Dred Scott case of 1856, U.S. Supreme Court Chief Justice Roger Taney declared that "for more than a century before, (blacks had) been regarded as beings of an inferior order, and altogether unfit to associate with the white race, either in social or political relations; and so far inferior, that they had no rights which the white man was bound to respect."

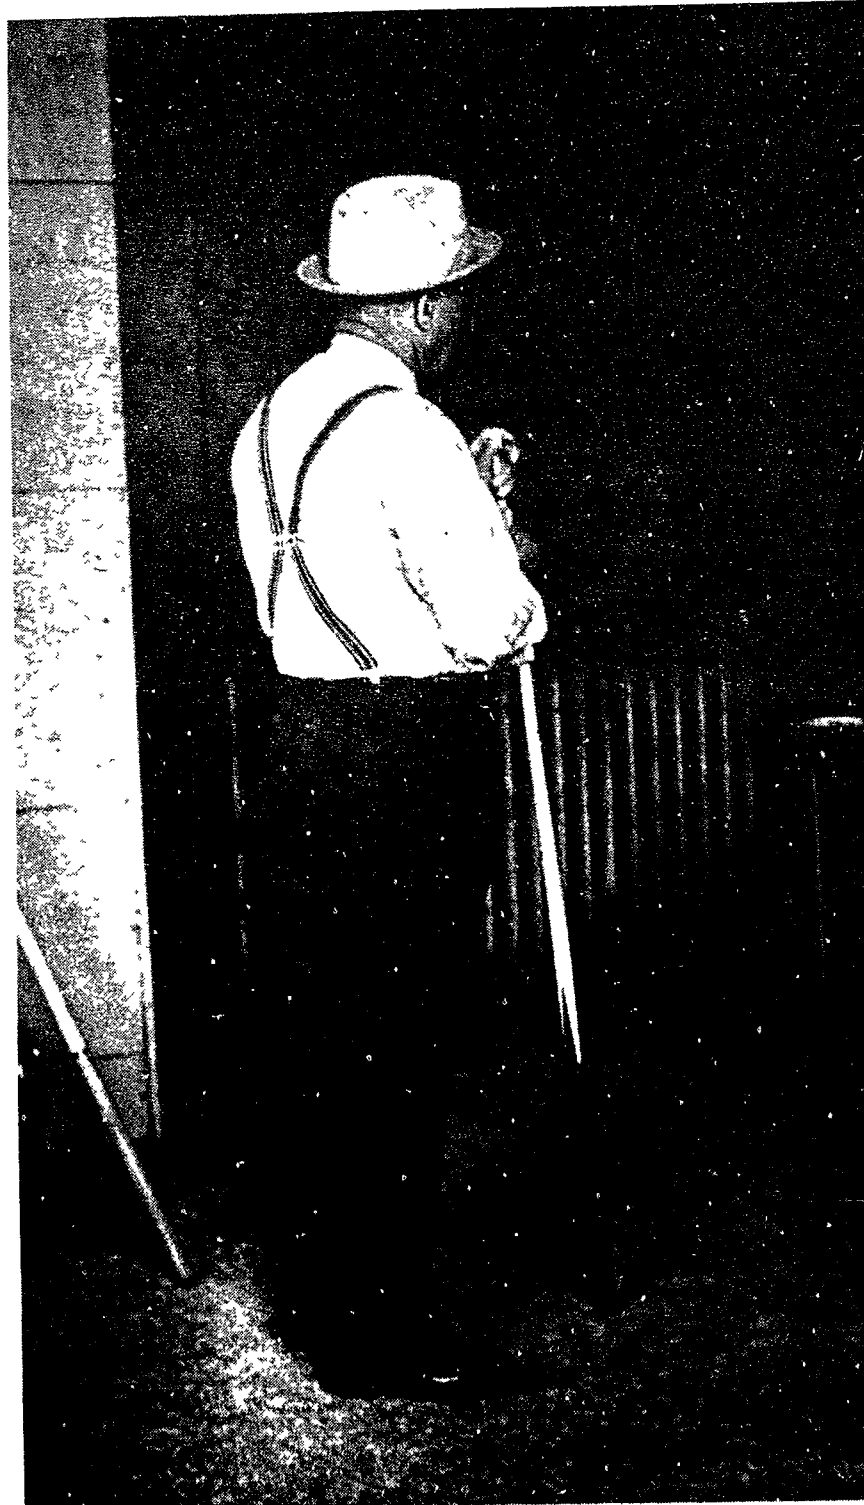

Many blacks are living today whose grandparents were slaves when these dreadful words were written. Having placed blacks in such a deep hole, it flies in the face of human experience to declare that the mere enacting of civil rights laws has placed blacks on equal footing with whites at the starting gate.

On a short term basis, something more is needed to redress this massive imbalance. That "something" is affirmative action.

JACK W. HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

A few weeks ago I wrote a couple of stories about the damper systems that, according to manufacturers, will save 20 to 25 percent fuel in gas furnaces. Building officials doubt these dampers will save that much fuel, but most concede some savings will result.

The stories were triggered by a phone call from a resident in another community who wanted to buy a damper but was told by his city officials that the furnace dampers were not permitted.

"If they want to conserve energy why are they so reluctant to permit these devices?" I was asked.

In trying to find an answer to his question, I learned that local municipalities are reluctant to approve installation of such devices because they can't be sure of their safety.

Understandably, local inspectors don't want to permit something that later might cause a house to burn down. Most are looking for a central governmental agency to tell them which dampers are safe and which are not.

Neither the federal government nor the state government has such a list. And in the case of the state, no one at Lansing appears interested in developing one.

Worse, after having spoken to the "expert" at Lansing, I came away with the distinct impression that he knew less about furnaces than I — and I know nothing.

Anyway, following publication of the articles, which were not intended to promote the sale of these devices but rather to point out their existence and to point up the existence of a myriad of "pass the buckers," a local area heating contractor called to complain that the stories had generated a host of customers who were demanding that he install dampers on their furnaces.

'It was a comedy of buffoonery'

To the Editor:

The annexation hearing, held before the State Boundary Commission, (Tuesday, March 14) was a comedy of blunders, mistakes, and buffoonery. What a waste of time and taxpayers' money, to hold a special meeting, when only four of the original 10 petitioners were present. Obviously, the others cared very little about their original cause.

Not surprisingly, most of the time was spent on technical discussion, as the Boundary Commission searched for enough information to discover adequate cause for annexation. Local officials were ill prepared, and failed to provide enough evidence to establish a case.

Furthermore, the State Boundary Commission established its own precedent, when, in 1972, it ruled against "piece-meal annexation," by denying a group of Lakeside residents the right to annex a small portion of Northville Township to Plymouth Township. Obviously that decision should be mandatory authority upon the Boundary Commission, compelling the commission to rule against annexation of the Hillcrest Subdivision.

Moreover, in 1975, we fought against annexation, and an overwhelming majority of the township residents voted against the unification movement. So, in effect, the vote should also be utilized as a precedent to guide the commission to decide against annexation. We realize the state legislature "is free to change local boundaries at will." However, a decision by the State Boundary Commission, without providing for a referendum by the voters of our township, has to be a step toward the destruction of local control.

As we have seen, a recent Supreme Court decision "legalized" actions taken by the State Boundary Commission. But the major principle, which must be determined, is if the annexation is reasonable. Certainly, based upon the meager evidence provided at the hearing, the State Boundary Commission should not decide in favor of the annexation action. To do so, would deny the principle of reasonableness, established by the Michigan State Supreme Court.

Above all other considerations, the Boundary Commission should reasonably consider the majority votes against annexation, past precedents established against piecemeal annexation, the possibility of destruction of the principle of local control, and the guidelines established by the Supreme Court. To do otherwise, would be a direct violation of our rights in a democratic political system.

Student says ticket's unfair

To the Editor:

I am a student at Northville High School. I drive a car to school because I do not come to school until 9:30 and I work after school. Since I come so late there are usually no parking spots left. Since there are usually not any spots available, students resort to parking on the sidewalk, and wherever else they can.

On Monday, March 6, 1978, I parked in the front — there were not any others available. I received a ticket for illegal parking. I feel I was not illegally parked since I was not on the fire lane, and cars could pass without driving on the sidewalk. Well I went to the police department and they said, "go talk to your principal about it." The next morning I went to talk to our principal and he said that I have to talk to the police department. I went back there once again and the ladies said, "Sorry, you have to pay it" and I told them the situation, and they laughed in my face.

Do you think that I should have to go through this? No one would listen to me unless I went to court. I did not have time for this since I am very busy. If I went to court would they of listened to me I think that they should start thinking before they start issuing!

Thank you,

Questions union of principals

To the Editor:

The following is an excerpt from the minutes of the Northville Association of School Administrators from a meeting of June 2, 1977: "re-assignment of M. Tarpinian. Some possible plans of action: 1. Public Hearing; 2. Closed Hearing; 3. National alert to colleges and universities to warn people not to accept administrative positions in Northville. 4. Make known to the public that the conditions in the high school are not the fault of the principal."

The members of this Association are the current Principals and Assistant Principals of the Northville School District. I am sure that the Association's primary purpose is to assure "quality education" for Northville kids. Everything is!

Items 1, 2, and 4 were carried out. If item No. 3 was implemented the only applications the Board may receive for the position of Superintendent will be from the district's current Principals and Assistant Principals.

Could item No. 3 be interpreted by a reasonable person as possibly having a negative effect on the quality of education in Northville? Or would the conspirators say that this is a perverted, malicious interpretation by a hostile taxpayer whose only intent is to destroy the integrity of the Northville Association of School Administrators.

Sincerely,
A taxpayer

It's 'concern' not overreaction

To the Editor:

In reply to the letter of 1977 Northville graduate, Eric Horner, "Congratulations on the good scores. Keep up the good work. I would not attempt to explain your grades."

I have to admit, I resent being called "over-reacting" instead of "concerned." You may change your attitude someday when you are a parent.

As for my getting involved to bring about changes for the better, I thought that was what my letter was about.

In 1976, I joined the citizens' committee to work for the upcoming millage election at that time. Before that, I was involved with the PTA. I am still actively interested, and keep informed by attending many of the board meetings.

When I found out my daughter's entrance exam scores, I contacted every school board member I could reach by telephone to tell them of the situation. One of them suggested that I get in touch with the school where the tests were held to try to find out the subject matter of the test. I called the school and chancellery office and returned the information I obtained to the board member. I hope this was more "action" than "over-reaction."

Eric, if I am so wrong in my conclusions, then why are there so many "letters to the editor" like mine, and why do so many of the board members share my concerns?

I have high hopes for the future, and I agree constructive criticism never hurt any of us.

'His statement was ridiculous'

To the Editor:

After Mr. Spear's unexpected resignation last Monday, Mr. Nieuwcoop immediately read a prepared statement attacking the present board for, among other things, giving Mr. Spear impossible goals within impossible time frames and to certain other members the charge that they had purposely set out "to get" Mr. Spear.

How absolutely ridiculous. How sad it is that Mr. Nieuwcoop and certain former board members have never been able to understand or grasp that NO ONE was out to get the superintendent. All this community ever wanted was quality education. If this was considered a personal vendetta against the superintendent, then so be it.

As parents, concerned citizens and taxpayers we had every right to expect (and the responsibility to demand) leadership, excellence in education, and nothing less. To attack mediocrity, apathy, indifference and abuses has been our absolute duty.

For too many years we sat by helplessly, but not quietly, watching this system crumble, moving from one crisis to another, with schools needing better curriculum, more discipline and leadership. Morale and trust have been deteriorating steadily. For too many years we voiced our concerns only to be treated like a bunch of nitwits.

To the present board we say at last we have a sympathetic, concerned, diligent board which, in the face of much opposition and pressure, has recognized those problems and attacked them vigorously. We ask no more than this. We thank you for your courage and astuteness. You have not been lulled into a false sense of security that all is well.

We feel that the long years of frustration, anger, resentment and helplessness may be coming to an end. At long last we may see the light at the end of the tunnel.

Sincerely,
Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Pettit

Court upholds Carlo's banning

The rights of race track management to ban drivers from the track for sufficient cause was upheld Tuesday morning by Judge Thomas Foley in Wayne County Circuit Court.

Judge Foley said Northville Downs Executive Manager John Carlo has the jurisdictional right under the provisions of a contract with drivers to ban them from the track.

Tuesday's hearing resulted from action taken by Carlo earlier this month against five drivers because of charges that they were in a race that had been fixed.

The five banished drivers obtained a court order prohibiting the banning until Tuesday's hearing was held. Judge Foley dismissed the injunction and ruled in favor of Carlo.

In upholding the authority of track management Judge Foley declared that, like race tracks, the state licenses drug stores, too, but the state doesn't manage the stores.

The five drivers banned by Carlo as the result of a February 1 triecta race with an unusually small pay-off despite the number one and two finishers being 20-1 and 40-1 longshots were Clayton Faurot, Ray Fuller, Rex Putnam, Charles Smith and Ron Wrenn.

Michigan State Police are investigating the theft of more than $800 worth of tools taken from a semi-trailer parked on Maybury State Park land.

The trailer, owned by Sante Fe Excavators of Plymouth, was being used as a tool shed. The theft occurred sometime between 5 p.m. Monday and 10 a.m. Tuesday.

Troopers said the thief had to break a latch that had been welded shut to gain entry through a side door.

Once inside, he lifted a $500 power chain saw and $300 worth of tools. Footprints were found leading away from the trailer toward the northwest.

Township police may find that the trail is a bit old for a $265 Solex bicycle stolen from the garage of a Pickford Court residence.

The bike's owner could not pinpoint the theft any closer than the two-week period that ended Thursday.

Township complaints are down

The year started out on the slow side for the Northville Township Police Department.

Total complaints for January dropped by 10 percent — from 307 to 276 — compared with December's totals, according to chief Ronald Nisun's monthly report to the township board.

Even so, township officers made 15 arrests, issued 62 tickets (20 for speeding) and covered 48 accidents during January.

No arrests were made in three reports of family trouble where none of the parties wished to press charges.

There were only two cases of breaking and entering but they resulted in $4500 of stolen material including a television, stereo and jewelry.

One car was stolen but it was recovered five hours later.

County EDC established

Wayne County can soon help local communities compete more successfully for jobs — producing development, County Commissioner Edgar L. Harris (D-Taylor) declared following creation of a Wayne County Economic Development Corporation (EDC).

Harris, who proposed the EDC, made his prediction following unanimous approval of the EDC plan at a March 16 meeting of the county board of commissioners.

Harris said the EDC will work with the 43 cities and townships in the county in maintaining existing businesses and bringing in new businesses.

He described the EDC as "one of the necessary tools for competing with neighboring states" in wooing business development. He predicted that the Wayne County EDC will be functioning by the summer building season.

Economic development corporations are independent, non-profit bodies designed to stimulate local industrial and commercial development. An EDC has the authority to sell revenue bonds to help finance industrial and commercial growth. It is also eligible for federal grants.

The ordinance authorizing the Wayne County EDC must still be approved by Governor Milliken. That is expected to take less than 60 days, said Harris, chairman of the Commissioners' public works committee. Then the board of commissioners will select the nine-member EDC board of directors, composed by Wayne County residents no more than three of whom can be county employees.

Speaking on behalf of the county board, Harris said:

"We are anxious to get the EDC in operation to realize the potential for economic development that exists in Wayne County. To realize that goal, we must seek out all phases of diversified industries which will provide a good basis for still further growth."

Since the 1974 passage of State Act 338, which provides for the formation of local EDC's, 70 municipalities — including more than 10 counties — have established these business growth agencies throughout the State.

As required by the state law, the formal petition for a Wayne County EDC was made by citizens — Joseph E. Stermer, executive director of the Southern Wayne County Chamber of Commerce; Wilson C. Grier, Northville Township supervisor; and H. Fred Campbell, president, Campbell Development, Detroit.

CBD plan ordered

State of Michigan. We will prepare a report outlining the procedures to establish a Downtown Development Authority and to identify the advantages that can accrue to downtown development opportunities through this administrative vehicle.

According to Vernon, the ad hoc committee envisions a separate building authority from the existing one for the express purpose of dealing with downtown development and improvement.

He said the ad hoc committee is currently obtaining commitments from financial institutions to provide low interest loans that business owners can use to make improvements.

In addition, the mayor said officials are investigating procedures for setting up a tax incentive program to further promote improvements.

Basically, this tax incentive plan would mean that one half of the monies raised from a new improvement would be channeled back into a downtown improvement fund. It would involve only tax monies on the improvement, not on the remainder of the business place. Thus, improvements will generate public funds earmarked for additional downtown improvement.

Target date for completion of the revitalization proposal is April 17. Meanwhile, the Downtown Development Committee is preparing for a meeting with local retailers, tentatively set for May 11, to present the results of its shopping survey, financing inquiries and to introduce and explain the proposed physical improvements for Northville's downtown business district.

Former doubles partners John Marzonie (left) and Lance Carter will be vying for singles spots

But coach says it'll be rough

Can netters repeat? They have six back

Six lettermen are returning from last year's Western Six tennis champions.

That includes Northville's number one singles player, its number one doubles team and a number three doubles team that won 23 straight matches as sophomores. Those five alone combined for 46 victories in 51 regular season matches.

Add to that a few promising new prospects and a winning tradition that dates as far back as the school's been around, and what have you got?

"We'll probably be a strong third this year," coach Bob Simpson, never one to go out on a limb in pre-season forecasts, says of his club's league hopes this season.

According to the veteran mentor, who's been at the Northville helm for the past nine years, Livonia Churchill and Farmington Harrison should pose a serious challenge to the Mustangs' two-year reign in the Western Six.

"Churchill has an all-senior team, including six returning lettermen," he points out, noting that the Chargers finished a close second to Northville — just one point behind — in last year's league meet. Harrison, he adds, has two of its four singles players and a strong first doubles team back.

"I look for those two teams to fight it out for first," he says.

Don't think for a moment the Mustangs are lacking in talent, though. Despite losing three of their top singles players of 1977 (Rudy Horst, Greg McFadden and Charlie Whiteside), Simpson's crew is far from being depleted.

Returning for a club that went 17-0 in dual meets and qualified for the Class A state finals are regulars Doug Castillo, Steve Pyett, Steve Laffler, Jeff Hodge, Lance Carter and John Marzonie.

Castillo played number one singles as a junior and captured a league title to go along with his 16-1 record during the regular season, but may be pushed to win his spot back again this spring. Barry Ouellette, a sophomore transfer from Novi, is a good bet to be playing singles as are Lance Carter and John Marzonie, a pair of juniors who went all the way to the state finals before losing a match as Northville's number three doubles team last year.

"I would say singles will be our strong area," Simpson says, although he notes a strong doubles nucleus will be returning in Laffler, Pyett and Hodge.

Laffler and Pyett teamed up for a 13-4 record and a second-place league finish in number one doubles last year, and should be back together again this season. Both are seniors.

Hodge, also a senior, was part of a number two doubles team (Jeff Dyer was his partner) that went 15-2 in 1977 and placed second in the league.

Among the club's top challengers for the other starting berths are seniors Eric Engelmeyer and Neil Bradley. Also battling for spots are juniors John Cannarsa, Joe Behrend, Dave Herbel and Greg Bach and sophomores Bill Hopping, Jim Herbel, Andy Orlando and Doug Horst.

So what's to prevent the Mustangs from winning their third straight Western Six championship?

"Our returning lettermen are young, and a couple of our players (Carter and Marzonie) will be playing singles for the first time," Simpson explains. "There's too many unknown factors right now. We have some young kids that are going to have to come through for us if we want to do as well as last year."

Men's basketball round-up

Wack Pack's on track, opponents are finding

Wack Pack is on a hot streak.

Northville's recreation basketball league power, seemingly on its way to a third or fourth place finish just one month ago, upped its current winning streak to four games last week with victories over the Cavaliers and Zayti-Long. That hiked the Pack's record to 7-3 and left them tied with Park Haus for second place with just two games remaining in the season.

And last week's triumphs were far from being flukes.

Sparked by balanced scoring and a stingy defense Wack Pack rolled past the Cavaliers 83-46 in a make-up game on Tuesday, then plastered Zayti-Long 107-69 two days later.

Ten players got into the scoring act in the first game and five of them hit double figures as the winners shot out to an early 22-6 lead and were up 38-16 by the half.

Howard Boyer led the onslaught with 16 points, 11 of them in the first half, while Doug Rooney added 15, Ed McGowan 12 and Mike McFawn and Tony Zerbo 10 each. The Cavs' John Monagle topped all scorers with 17 points while Duane Peterson pitched in 10.

As if that wasn't enough the Pack tallied the highest point total of any team this season on Thursday, cruising out to a 52-25 halftime lead and coasting to the 107-69 triumph over Zayti.

This time six players scored in double figures. Brian Gulick had 22 points while Jim Cahill added 18, including a 15-point outburst in the third quarter. Zerbo and McFawn 15 apiece, McGowan 14 and Jack Cahill 13.

Two players, meanwhile, were responsible for 62 of Zayti's 69 points. Jim Long, the league's second-leading scorer, had his highest output of the season with 37 points, including 28 in the second half, while Jim Zayti netted 25.

In other men's action Park Haus kept themselves tied for second with a 73-68 squeaker over Brodie's Muffler and Goat Farm remained unbeaten with a 79-48 romp over the Cavaliers.

Brodie's held Park Haus, the top scoring club in the league, to its second-lowest output of the season but couldn't hang on to a 52-51 third-quarter lead.

The game was a see-saw battle throughout, with Park Haus edging out to a 19-18 first-quarter lead before Brodie's knotted things up 36-36 at halftime.

Jeff Moon led all scorers with 28 points, hitting four clutch free throws down the stretch, while Howard Bennett tossed in 20 and John Pantalone and Lance Hahn eight apiece. Al Schultz topped the losers with 24 points while Dave Burt chipped in 22 and Mike Dellamora and John Wizgird eight each.

Goat Farm's win was its 10th straight this year. The league leaders raced off to a 24-8 lead after one quarter and sailed the rest of the way.

Mark Lisowski paced the winners with 20 points while Kevin Callahan collected 14, Larry Kaplan 10 and John Ackley nine. John Monagle canned 14 for the Cavs while Jeff Weber added 12 and Rick Hunter 10.

Local woman becomes Northville's first certified CC ski instructor

Donna Nawrot became Northville's first certified cross country skiing instructor after passing an intense three-day examination conducted by the Central Ski Instructors Association of America (CSIAA) earlier this month.

Little more than half of the 31 candidates from Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin and Ohio passed the test, which was judged by three CSIAA members.

"It was quite extensive," Nawrot said of the test, which involved mastering such maneuvers as the diagonal stride, double poling and snowplow turns. "I was elated when they told me that I had passed."

The exam lasted close to 10 hours per day and took place March 11, 12 and 13 in Traverse City.

The 30-year-old enthusiast has been teaching cross country skiing for the past two years at Maybury State Park, where over 10,000 people have been introduced to the sports through the SkiVenture rental program.

There are only about two dozen certified cross country instructors in Michigan. Six of them, including Nawrot, are associated with Maybury's SkiVenture program.

The other certified instructors are Ray Meyer (Redford Township), Bill Halvangelis (Detroit), Tom Barry (Farmington), Paul Maddex (Lansing) and Doug Maddex (Wayne).

Titans fall from lead

The Titans' hopes for an unbeaten season, and even a league championship, took a mighty tumble in 5th and 6th grade junior basketball action Saturday.

Sparked by Doug Doyle's 12 points, the third-place Trail Blazers romped to a 30-17 victory over the former league leaders, handing them their first defeat in 10 games and dropping them into a tie for first place with only one week left in the season.

The Trail Blazers hung onto a slim 19-16 lead at the end of three quarters but then caught fire. Paced by Doyle's six points the winners outscored the Titans 11-1 down the stretch.

Scott Bush pitched in seven points for the Trail Blazers, now 8-2 on the season, while Bob Guldborg topped the losers with eight points.

The Pistons, meanwhile, climbed into a first-place tie with their 52-23 shellacking of the Bulldogs.

Three players hit double figures as the winners raced off to a 28-12 halftime advantage and coasted. Steve Starcevic led the onslaught with 16 points while Bob Craske chipped in 12 and Dave Naar 10. The Bulldogs were paced by Dan Nyquist, who scored nine points, and Brian Jennings, who had six.

In other 5th-6th grade action the Mustangs maintained fourth place with a 26-11 victory over the Hurons; the Ocelots stayed in fifth with a 35-22 win over the Tartars; the Royals bounced the Spartans, 49-23; and the Huskies edged the Wolverines, 24-18.

Bill Downs had 10 points to pace the Mustang victory while Jeff Metz and Kevin Downs added six. Mickey McGrath had six for the losers.

Dave Longridge tossed in 18 points to lead the Ocelots while the Tartars' Scott Gala had eight; Dirk Nowka scored 13 points, Adam Swallow 12 and Jim Robertson 10 for the Royals while Mick Newman netted 15 for the Spartans; and Todd Deal paced the Huskies' victory with eight points while Todd Hahn and Mike Sylvester had five each for the Wolverines.

While things may be tight in the 5th-6th grade league, the 7th-8th grade race is jammed.

Thanks to the Hawks' surprisingly easy 52-26 victory over the Suns, there's a good possibility of a three-way tie for first at the end of the season.

With one week remaining the Hawks and Suns are tied for second place at 5-5, one game behind the Kings and one game ahead of the Jazz. The Jazz almost created a four-way tie for first — and for last — when they came close to upsetting the Kings, but wound up on the short end of a 44-42 thriller.

Dan Eiselle and Steve O'Hare sparked the Hawks' route with 16 and 15 points respectively, while Tim Boyd chipped in eight and Tim Hendra seven. The Suns were led by Seth Swallow with nine points, Carlos Villaseñor with eight and Bob Pote, who topped the team with 12 points in a clutch win last week, with four.

The Kings had to battle back from a 28-19 halftime deficit for their victory. Down 36-31 entering the last quarter, they went on a 13-6 spree that vaulted them into first place.

Jeff Anger had 12 points to lead a balanced scoring attack for the winners while Jackie Nixon added 11 and Scott Faustyn seven. Steve Harrison had 20 points and Jeff Traudt 10 for the Jazz.

In 3rd-4th grade play the Cougars became the only unbeaten team in junior basketball with a 32-7 triumph over the Bullets, the Spartans nipped the Warriors 15-14, and the Wolverines beat the Chips 19-14.

Led by Paul Newitt, who wound up with 16 points, the Cougars jumped out to a 20-3 halftime lead and coasted to their 10th straight victory. Dave Nadeau and Sean McLaughlin chipped in six apiece.

Kirk Morrison scored eight points, including what proved to be the game-winning basket, in the Spartans' victory.

John Bugar, meanwhile, paced the Wolverines' triumph with seven points and Dave Hall had 12 for the losers.

Meads Mill spikers success in first year

If this year was any indication, the future of ninth-grade volleyball at Meads Mill is looking bright.

Competing interscholastically for the first time ever this winter, the local junior high team rolled to an 8-2 record and wound up second in its five-school league.

The Patriots' only two losses were both to league champion Dearborn Hts. Haston. Coached by Chuck Shonta, Meads Mill won eight of its last nine games, including two victories over arch-rival Cooke.

"We worked well as a team and that's what made us so good," Shonta said. "No one really stood out."

Members of the starting team were Jenny Missel, Geri Grzena, Kim Maguire, Diane Hrubak, Cheryl Stasak and Judy Orr, the Patriots' top server.

Other girls on the club included Karen Kraft, Sue McKenzie, Julie Hunko, Lori Kormanis, Debbie Paluzzi, Katy Rudden and Lisa Gejoff.

Betting's steady

Downs has good week

Attendance and betting were relatively steady throughout the six racing nights at Northville Downs last week, helping the local track make impressive overall gains in both.

Attendance for the week was 18,998, or an average of 3166 nightly, a jump of over three percent compared to last year's overall figures.

Total mutuel handle, meanwhile, was up a full 16 percent. Betting totalled $2,520,757 last week, an average of $420,126 per night.

For the season the Downs is averaging $398,321 per night in mutuel handle, up exactly 10 percent over last year's figures, and 2977 in attendance, up three percent.

Eighteen racing dates still remain in this season's 82-night stint, which ends April 8.

Susan Cahill will be competing in the nationals next month

Cahill breaks records, qualifies for nationals

Susan Cahill, Northville's record-shattering 15-year-old girls' swimming ace, added a few more laurels to her already impressive list of accomplishments over the weekend.

Competing in the AAU Region VI Senior Indoor Championships at Cincinnati, Cahill broke Michigan state records in all three events she swam in and qualified for the nationals in one of them.

Cahill, who won the Class A high school state championship as a sophomore at Northville last fall, posted a 4:30.8 clocking in the 400-yard individual medley, a 2:10.8 in the 200-yard individual medley and a 207.3 in the 200-yard butterfly.

seconds behind a Cincinnati girl, and easily qualified her for the April 5-8 nationals in Austin, Texas. It was almost three full seconds under the qualifying time and shattered the previous state mark by several seconds.

Her 200-yard medley time, which broke her own previous state record, was good for third place. She took a fourth in the butterfly.

Cahill swims for the Fitzgerald Swim Club in Warren and has been competing in AAU meets throughout the winter. Last summer, before joining the local high school squad, she qualified for the AAU summer nationals in California.

During the school swim season she broke five individual varsity records and helped the Mustangs to a fourth-place finish in the Class A state finals.

Boys are impressive, too

Northville swimmers won medals galore over the weekend as five local boys placed at the Michigan AAU boys' short course swimming championships in Kalamazoo.

Cam Ramsey, a 10-year-old who swims for the Bulldog Aquatic Club of Livonia in the 10-and-under division, won both the 50 and 100-yard breast strokes, the former in 37.2 and the latter in 1:21.5.

Four others — Dave Malinowski, Tony Nader, Mark Yanoschik and Carl Haynie — each placed among the top five in at least one event in their age divisions.

Malinowski, 13, and Nader, 14, who swim for the Bulldog Aquatic Club in the 13-14 age group, helped their team to fourth-place finishes in both the 400 and 800-yard freestyle relays.

Malinowski also placed fifth in the 200 and 400-yard individual medleys and in the 100 and 200-yard backstrokes, while Nader wound up fifth in the 200 breast stroke.

Yanoschik, who swims for the Ann Arbor Swim Club in the 15-18 age group, helped his team to a third-place finish in the 800 free relay and a fifth in the 400 free relay while placing third himself in the 50-yard freestyle. His 22.35 clocking in the 50 free was a personal best for him, almost .3 seconds faster than the time he posted in the Class A state high school finals three weeks ago, when he placed 10th.

Haynie, who also swam for the local high school this winter, finished fifth in the 100 backstroke in 58.08 and took a ninth in the 200 backstroke. Haynie competes with the Clarenceville Swim Club, which took first place out of some 50 clubs that were represented in the meet.

Whatever happened to . . .

GREG BOLL, 1974 grad, has been named captain of Hillsdale College's tennis squad this spring.

The senior netter has played first doubles for the Chargers in each of his four years there and has always been among the top four singles players as well.

Last season he played number two singles and was named the team's most valuable player. His performances helped Hillsdale to a fourth-place finish in the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference.

Boll, who carries a 3.7 grade-point average and plans on pursuing a business career in grad school, was co-captain of Northville's tennis squad for three years.

In his senior year here he became the first local netter to ever win All-Conference honors in the Western Six and led the Mustangs to their first Western Six tennis title in history. Since then Northville has won the crown twice more.

At Hillsdale Boll has also been instrumental in organizing the school's first scholarship fund for tennis this year. He leaves Friday on a 10-day team tour in Lakeland, Florida.

BILL PICCOLO, 1976 grad, is an infielder with the Miami (Ohio) University baseball team this year.

Piccolo, out for the team for the first time, is a back-up first and third baseman for the Redskins, who were rated one of the top teams in the country last spring and tied Central Michigan for the Mid-American Conference baseball title.

The former Mustang star, named Northville High's Athlete of the Year in 1976, is a sophomore at Miami and is studying personnel management and business.

During his years here Piccolo was an All-League linebacker on the football squad, a starting forward on the basketball quintet and a third baseman and All-League designated hitter for the baseball club.

He was the Mustangs' top hitter with a .442 batting average during his senior baseball season and a clutch RBI man as well.

BECKY ALBUS, 1977 grad, is a leading player on the Wayne State University girls' volleyball team.

Earlier this year the freshman spiker was named the Detroit school's representative to the All-Conference squad.

Albus, who plans on going out for tennis as well next year, helped the Tartars to a 12-5 record this season and a third-place finish in the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference behind Grand Valley State and Oakland University. She is presently in the first of a six-year program in pre-pharmacy.

During her senior year at Northville Albus was the team's leading server and setter, helping the Mustangs to their first Western Six volleyball championship ever.

In her junior year she once served 15 straight points in a victory over Farmington Harrison, and in the 1977 pre-regionals almost duplicated the feat with 10 straight points against Livonia Franklin.

CHANGES COMING—It's just empty space now, but Fish Hatchery ball fields will soon be the site of new bleachers and player benches for junior league baseball program.

Fish Hatchery development coming

Local facilities to be improved

There won't be any more need for bringing lounge chairs and blankets to junior baseball games at the Fish Hatchery this summer.

Thanks to a Land and Water Conservation (LAWCON) grant acquired by the Northville Recreation Commission last fall, fans will now be able to watch the games from a new set of bleachers that should be going up in about three or four weeks.

The bleachers are just part of the developments that will be taking place at the Fish Hatchery this year as a result of the $18,940 grant. Player benches, a concession-restroom building, a small boating dock, a picnic area and waiting benches for the tennis courts there are also planned for the site, located off Seven Mile Road just east of Clement.

Once a federal fish hatchery, the property has been somewhat neglected in recent years. At present it is mostly used for G and H League junior baseball contests — two ball diamonds are located there — and for the recreation department's summer tennis program.

Last year the recreation commission applied for the LAWCON grant, a federally funded program aimed at acquiring and developing land, in order to upgrade the facilities and open the site up to more community use. The application was officially accepted last fall.

The LAWCON program set-up calls for the city and township to jointly contribute $9470 for the project while the LAWCON funds will provide the rest.

According to rec director Ed Kritz, who last week delivered intent to apply forms for more LAWCON funds that would be used for developments at Ford Field and the new Civic Center property (see story below), the state has told him the money will be coming through in about three weeks.

"The bleachers and player benches will probably go up as soon as we get the money so we can get some use out of them right off the bat," he says, noting that junior baseball competition gets under way May 6. "The things that'll take longer are the dredging and stocking of the pond, and completion of the concession-restroom building."

According to Kritz, through, everything should be completed sometime during the summer. Once dredged the pond will be stocked with panfish and a boating dock installed.

The concession-restroom building, Kritz says, will probably stand near field no. 1. In addition a picnic area, complete with barbecue grills and picnic benches, will be set up on the northeast end of the property.

Originally a privately-owned fish hatchery, the site was taken over by the federal government in 1880 and was known as the U.S. Fisheries Experimental Station. In 1968 it was purchased by the city of Northville and turned into a municipal park.

During the mid-'70's local Jaycees used an old utility garage on the property for some of its activities, and were in the process of renovating it for use as a community building when vandals set it afire. The charred remains still stand.

More funds are requested

If the recreation commission gets its wish, LAWCON funds may be arriving next year for the development of sports facilities at Ford Field and the new Civic Center Field.

The commission filed a pair of intent to apply forms last week, in time to meet the March 15 deadline.

One requests a $10,100 grant for excavating the land behind the township civic center, located on Six Mile Road just north of Winchester school, while the other requests $20,000 for constructing new facilities at Ford Field.

The civic center project would involve digging out an athletic field that could serve a variety of activities, including baseball, soccer and skating.

Because the township acquired a grant last year through the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, much of that property has already been cleared of rocks and other debris and backstops have been installed. If the LAWCON grant goes through the township will have to contribute half the funds.

The Ford Field project, on the other hand, would involve adding facilities like dugouts, with player benches, a concession-restroom building, fences, and bleachers and lighting for a possible new diamond. Half the funds for that grant, should it go through, would be provided by the city.

In order to receive the funds the state DNR must give the rec commission's request a high priority rating. The commission then has to fill out a full application that's subject to final approval by the federal government.

produced and written by Essa Sackllah's seventh grade class at Cooke Junior High School. In the background are the rest of the film makers.

Book deposits ok; secret ballots not

A pair of opinions from the state attorney general's office may result in some changes in the Northville school district.

The attorney general has ruled that schools may require students to make deposits on textbooks. He also said secret balloting during board meetings is prohibited in most instances.

As long as deposits are "reasonable and refundable," they do not violate the free public education principle established by the Michigan Supreme Court, said Attorney General Frank Kelley.

A committee of the Northville school board will soon prepare a policy that sets book deposit guidelines.

Kelly also said that the Open Meetings Act "clearly intended that votes taken at public meetings be open to the public," according to the Michigan Association of School Boards.

The only exception is when there is a statute which specifically permits secret balloting, ruled Kelly.

Almost all Northville votes are either by voice vote or roll call, but the board has had secret ballots when electing officers or, just recently, choosing an architect.

Drugs, pressure in Jr. High film

Bob knew that Mike, a classmate in Cooke Junior High School, was feeling down. But he was surprised when Mike paid a dollar to a mutual friend for pills swiped from the family medicine chest.

"You want to try one?" asked Mike.

"No way," said Bob who was well aware that rock stars Janis Joplin and Jimi Hendrix died from their drug habits.

Mike ignored his friend's warning but eventually ends up in drug rehabilitation program.

The above scene was not more than an act. Mike and Bob are part of the cast of the soon-to-be completed film "Substance Abuse" which was written, produced and starred in by the members of a seventh grade class at Cooke.

"We're trying to show the pros and cons — and in this case it's mostly cons — for when the student has to make his own choice," said Essa Sackllah, who teaches the Exploratory Arts course.

It's in school, particularly in the junior high school grades, where students are most often exposed to drugs, cigarettes and alcohol, he said.

"No matter how much a parent worries, the kid is going to have to make up his own mind," he said.

Sackllah's students prepared reports about different aspects of substance abuse and then split into groups to write the filmstrip's script. Sackllah took the pictures.

To the background music provided by Elton John ("I'm a genuine example of a social disease") and James Taylor's "Fire and Rain", which tells of the death of his girlfriend to drugs, the film depicts problems which students may encounter.

One example: a young girl turns to drinking in an attempt to hide from a disrupted homelife. She finally finds solace and strength from her friend, but not before taunting her with "Any normal person would drink."

"Peer pressure is 80 percent of the problem," estimated Sackllah. "It's usually the sensitive kid who gets hurt."

When the film is completed, probably by Easter, it may be shown to other seventh graders and to sixth graders who will be entering junior high school next year.

"I'm afraid some of the ninth graders would laugh at it," said Sackllah. Unfortunately, he explained, some already know the story from first-hand experience.

Sackllah — who tells his students, "You've got it hard enough making it sober" — said the Cat Stevens music used in the film is particularly appropriate.

"I was a child who lived for today," sings Stevens, "fighting without aim, speaking without wisdom."

This was true for the kids of the 60's who experimented with drugs, said Sackllah, but today's youth has the advantage of "first-hand knowledge. This generation is seeing what drugs have done."

Another Stevens song, "Oh, Very Young", also carries an important message, said Sackllah.

"You are the future," he tells his class, "don't mess it up."

New millage strategy: Tax hike is sound investment

A new strategy for passing 5.5 mills in the Northville school district may have emerged during a planning session Monday night.

Instead of taking a defensive stance, putting out brush fires and trying to appease a score of special interest groups, it was suggested that millage supporters take a strong, positive "We've got an excellent school system and we have to pay for it" approach.

The high-flying profile was promoted by Northville resident Joseph Fiorelli, a board-baiter and gadfly in the past, but as he said Monday night, never a critic of education.

"I think you (school board members and administrators) have done an excellent job," Fiorelli said during the initial meeting of a pro-millage steering committee, chaired by him and PTA Area Council President Joan Roth.

Despite inflation, increasing salaries, whopping utility rates and a declining enrollment which penalizes heavily the district's state aid payments — all of which were unforeseen or unavoidable in the past decade — Fiorelli said, "We've got, quality education in this school district."

As proof, he said, all one has to do is look at the price of home in Northville which continues to rise "not because of wood panelling" but because of schools.

"We have a quality to sell — the Northville school system raises property values — and it costs money," he said.

Superintendent Raymond Spear, who more often than not has been on the receiving end of Fiorelli's salvos, was quick to join forces with the unexpected ally.

A 5.5-mill tax hike, he said, is not that huge — especially if counter balancing tax breaks are considered — when compared with the quality of education it will buy which, not incidentally, allows sellers to demand a higher price for their homes.

"There is no place else I know where you can make an investment like this," said Spear.

Homeowners, however, may look at it differently. The millage request itself represents a 14 percent hike in school taxes. Add that to increasing property assessments — 10 percent or more in Oakland County — and some are being asked to boost their school taxes by 25 percent.

The 5.5 mills, if approved, would give Northville one of the highest tax rates in the Wayne-Oakland area.

"I recognize that we are running uphill, but I still think it's possible," said Spear, who announced his resignation last week. "I think it can be done."

With the brave words out of the way, the committee turned to the less exciting, but necessary tasks of identifying and informing the positive voters and then making sure they get to the polls on April 29.

The committee — which represents parent-teacher groups from all schools, the Northville Education Association, the League of Women Voters, the school board and administration, and the high school student Congress — has set a target goal of 2800 "yes" voters although it feels 2100 should be enough for success.

That's no small chore. About 1800 "no" voters have turned out for the last four millage elections and that's been sufficient to defeat all but one of them.

Here again, Fiorelli had his say.

"Things don't win for us, people do," he said. "You have to have committed people. It's good that students are involved. Talk it over every day at the dinner table. If there are only 200 of

If Northville school officials were looking for omens during millage elections Saturday in two neighboring districts, they probably didn't like what they saw.

Voters in both South Lyon and Novi approved renewal millage but turned down requests which would have raised the tax rate.

Northville will be seeking 5.5 additional mills in a special election on Saturday, April 29 you, that would be a start.

"Talk (alone) is not the secret to success. Commitment is. Bang on doors, ask for their interest. And if you can answer a question or two, you would be surprised at the results."

Between now and April 29, the committee hopes to form a vanguard of millage supporters who will call school district voters, gain the support or at least interest of community groups, register and encourage 18-year-olds and college students to vote, and prepare fact sheets.

The next committee meeting will be Monday, April 3.

South Lyon, Novi split

South Lyon voters virtually flipped as they approved a seven-mill renewal but rejected a three-mill additional issue by similar 2-1 margins.

The seven mills, without which the system could not function next year, passed 1172-655 with 64 percent of 1827 voters saying "yes."

But an even larger number, 87 percent, voted against three additional mills which school officials said were needed to maintain the current program.

That issue, which like the renewal was for five years, failed 1217-609

In Novi, nearly three of every four voters approved renewing 13 mills for a five-year period. The vote was 1375-475

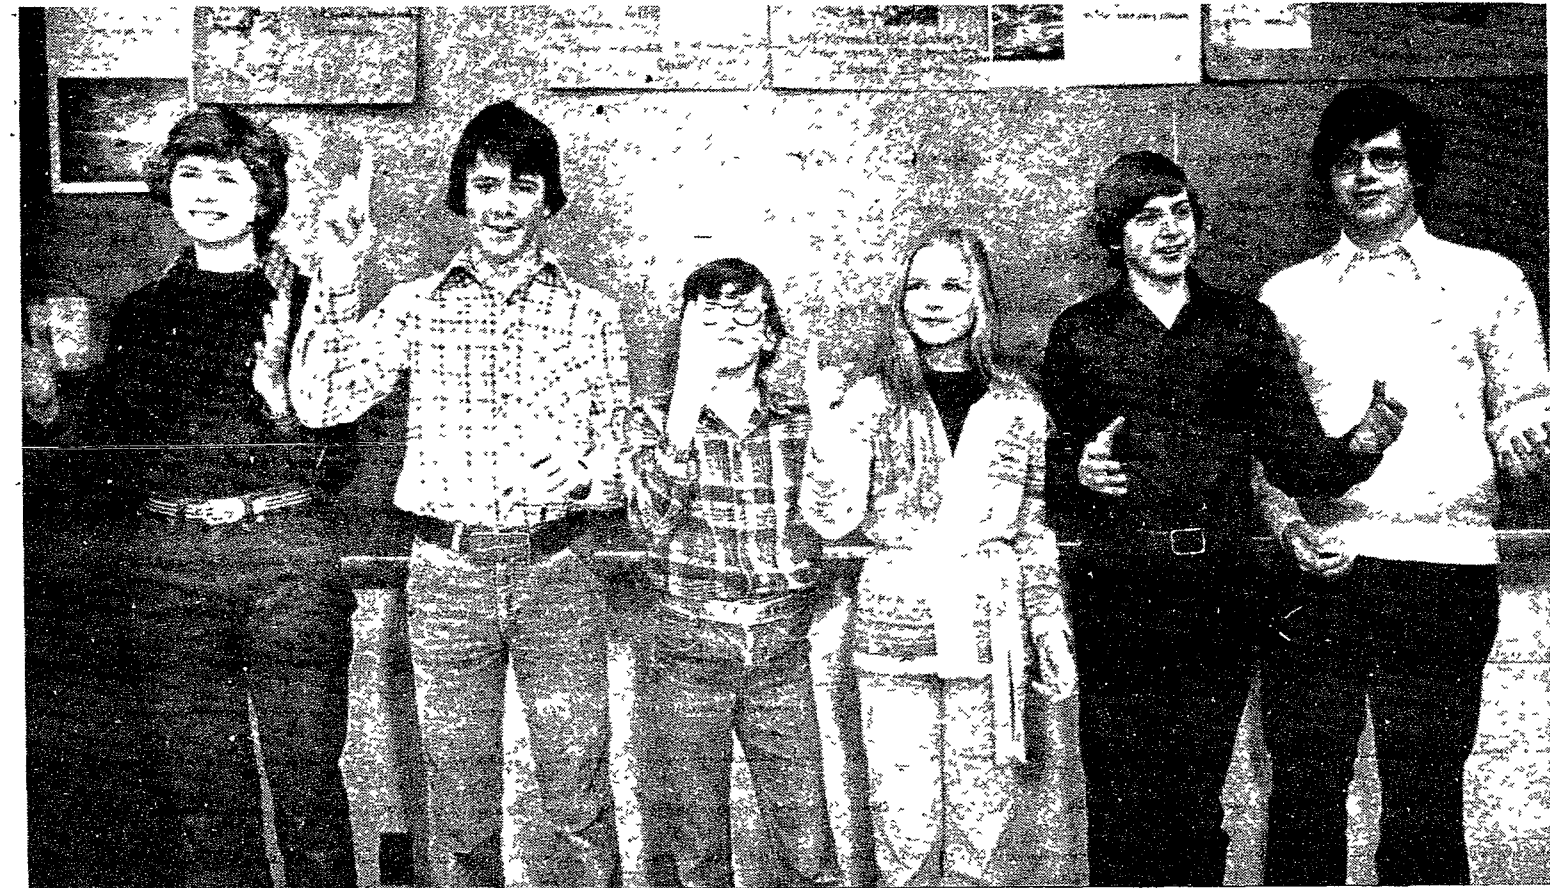

A request for one additional mill for three years to maintain current programs was narrowly defeated, 933-906.

Observers say that the closeness of the defeat probably means that the mill will be on the annual June ballot.

But the fact that Novi voters, who have not beaten a millage request in several years, turned down such a small increase may be indicative of voter reluctance to approve any tax hike.

Novi voters also turned down a somewhat confusing half-mill request which would raise $265,000 over three years to finance energy saving steps.

No tax hike

Mini-bond issue considered

By RICH PERLBERG

The Northville school board is considering a "mini-bond" issue which could produce about $900,000 for repair and major purchases without raising taxes.

The majority of the money, 90 percent, would be borrowed from the state's school bond loan program and would be paid back over a 26-year period.

The board may decide at its Monday night meeting (7:30 at the board of education office) whether it should place the mini-bond issue on the June ballot.

The mini-bond proposal has been tossed around for some time.

Its advantage is that it can raise a lot of money quickly for high-cost items such as repairing the roof at the high school; and, because of a rising tax base and the school bond loan program, it makes no appreciable dent in the taxpayer's pocket.

But the cost of the money is dear. Interest payments over 26 years will equal or exceed the $900,000 that is spent on capital purchases and improvements.

Further tapping of the school bond loan fund could also restrict the school district's borrowing power should additional buildings be needed in the near future.

Board members, however, are keenly aware of the penalty of allowing the condition of school buildings to deteriorate.

The general feeling is that providing no funds for capital improvement is out of the question. Still vivid is the outrage when the public went to the high school in late 1976 for swine flu immunizations and found the building looking like a pigpen.

The idea of paying two dollars to get one through the mini-bond method may not be too appealing, but neither is the alternative which would be seeking an earmarked millage for maintenance.

Not only would an extra mill or maintenance be difficult to pass at an election — since it would increase taxes — but the money from such a levy would only become available gradually over the life of the millage rather than all at once.

And, as finance director Thomas Goulding and operations head Michael Janchick have said, the cost of the projects which need funding will certainly increase drastically with inflation over the next few years.

The advantage of earmarked millage is that it guarantees annual maintenance funding.

Even though it wouldn't raise taxes, borrowing money through a mini-bond issue would require voter approval.

Here's how it works: Northville presently levies 7.12 mills for debt retirement. Because of a rising tax base, school officials estimate that a levy of only 7.08 mills will be required to meet next year's payment.

Reducing taxes by 4/100th of a mill as a mini-bond issue would generate only $6960 next year in local revenue, but because of the school bond loan program that money could increase 10-fold for the next 26 years.

The school bond loan program allows a school district to borrow up to 90 percent of its debt retirement obligations above seven mills.

Thus, the school estimates it can generate $1.8 million without raising taxes. Half of that would pay the interest of the 26-year loan.

The $900,000 principal — less fees for architects, bond attorneys, bond qualification and printing and publishing — could be used immediately for capital improvements.

This is attractive to the school board which eliminated capital improvement funding in the general budget last year and has allowed for $175,000 next year only if a 5.5 mill increase is approved in April.

Book review will not go up in flames

It is unlikely that there will be book burnings ala Wyoming, but people who object to any material on Northville school shelves do have recourse.

A policy that is expected to be adopted soon by the Northville board of education sets up procedures for parents or citizens who object to books used in the library or classroom.

The method is not as incendiary as that used by a Wyoming school district which will burn its three copies of "Saturday Night Fever" — based on the disco movie — because of blasphemous and obscene passages.

Anyone who thinks a book should be removed can pick up a "challenge form" from the school principal's office. The book will then be reviewed by representatives of either the department or grade level where it is used.

If the review decision finds that the criticism is valid, the book will be reviewed; if not, the decision department chairperson, teacher involved and the principal will meet with the complaining party to explain the reasoning.

The decision on the book may be appealed to the superintendent. The final responsibility for removing a book lies with the board of education.

Renewals pass

That issue received only 43 percent of the votes and lost 1045-798.

The results of Saturday's elections — where renewals passed and additional millage tries failed — may cause some second guessing in Northville.

The school board opted to put all its eggs in a 5.5-mill basket rather than splitting the millage into two packages, one to maintain the present program and the other to improve it.

$500 budget
outlay nixed
by township

A request by Constable James Schrot to have $500 earmarked for training of constables in the new budget was rejected by the Northville Township Board last week.

Instead of earmarking funds for this purpose in the budget, members requested Schrot to submit requests for such training and each will be considered on its merit at the time.

Sufficient monies will be provided in the township's contingency fund should the board decide to grant monies to cover the constable's training, it was noted.

Sign update
due in May

An update report on outstanding sign violations in the township is to be given at the May meeting of the Northville Township Board.

Citizen Don Thomson requested the report at last week's meeting of the board, indicating he was interested in learning how many violation citations have been issued, to whom they were issued, and whether or not corrections have been made.

Audit firm reappointed

Iceman, Hoffman and Johnson of Ann Arbor has been reappointed the auditing firm for Northville Township.

In an unrelated matter, the township board last week supported the treasurer in his position to retain Manufacturers and National Bank of Detroit as the township depository agents for the township.

The question of depository came up because Detroit Bank & Trust had requested to become the collection agent and a depository agent for township taxes, water and sewerage bills.

'Tying the knot' doesn't come cheaply—even after

By JAMES CNOCKAERT

From the moment a couple in love decides to "tie the knot" until the moment they both actually say "I do," a lot of thought and careful planning will go into making their wedding day one they'll remember forever.

The wedding day, from ceremony to reception, can be a very simple occasion and still be very nice. At the same time, the sky can be the limit on wedding costs if the couple and/or their parents are inclined to make the affair the social event of the last century.

"The most important thing for a bride and groom is to make their vows an impressive thing that will be remembered by them long after the wedding day is over," said Mrs. Muriel Heiner, owner of "Weddings by Muriel" in Brighton.

"The party (reception) after the ceremony is where the money comes in. Parents may want to give their children a good send-off. But the party has nothing to do with the vows."

One wedding consultant humorously remarked that the ceremony and reception costs are cheap, when one considers the costs that will be incurred by the couple in the years of marriage that follow.

Delving into all of those costs would be a monumental task indeed, and books have been written on the subject. Suffice it to say that those costs are always going to be there after the wedding is a memory.

Brides and grooms should be wary of spending all their time planning the wedding. Planning their marriage should be the top priority.

But the cost of the ceremony and the reception is something that can't be ignored. That's what this article is all about.

First and foremost, wedding costs depend on the couple's desires and, of course, the limit of their pocketbook. Simplicity can be synonymous with low cost.

For example, the bride can sew her own bridal gown instead of purchasing one in a store. Another alternative here is for the girl to wear her mother's wedding gown — a tradition which is coming back into vogue these days.

The sure way to limit costs is to curtail the spending involved with the reception. Church parties are popular and usually tend toward the inexpensive. Refreshments, including punch and hors d'oeuvres, can be catered out or cooked by family and friends.

Even flowers do not have to cost a fortune. Bouquets for the bride and her attendants, corsages for the mother, and a simple arrangement for the altar, can all be purchased for less than $50.

Other sure costs are item such as invitations and Thank You notes, gifts for the bridesmaids and the ushers, cost of the church (usually $25), and the honeymoon.

But many couples are opting today for traditional weddings — including a formal church service and big reception (dinner, dancing, and drinking).

Choosing a hall is a first priority and should be done as soon as the couple has decided on their wedding date. Costs vary widely depending on the packages each hall offers.

Larger halls, hotels and country clubs do not charge rental fees, but insist on providing their own caterers. Costs here range from $7 per plate and upward. Many halls also insist that couple buy their liquor through them.

Some larger halls also insist that the couple buy liquor for the reception through them. A spokesman for one hotel stated that she estimated the cost to the bride and groom as $1.40 per drink.

But even without that consideration though, buying booze is a big expense. A minimum liquor bill of $200 is usual, with the prices soaring as high as $400-$500.

Smaller halls, in deference to larger ones, usually charge a $50-$200 rental fee but allow the couple the option of providing their own caterer if they wish. Private caterers charge anywhere from $2.75 to $5.50 per person.

The price for hall, food and liquor (for 250 people) in the four newspapers' coverage area can range anywhere from just under $1,000 to $4,000.

Next, the couple has to include the wedding gown and veil, flowers, music, tuxedo rentals, bridesmaids' dresses, the wedding cake, photographs and invitations.

Mrs. Heiner stated that bridal gown prices start at $80 and can go up to $2,000.

"A girl can go to a catalog and spend even less money, or she can make the gown herself," the wedding consultant said. "It isn't uncommon for a girl to spend $850 on a dress, but on an average, brides spend about $300."

Flower prices fluctuate considerably, according to Delores Remmert, owner of The Flower Shop in Brighton.

"Everything is so variable," she said. "Prices can start as low as $50 for a simple affair, and can range as high as $450. $200-$250 is about average for us." Mrs. Remmert also noted that prices in the country are normally cheaper than in Detroit.

Getting dressed for the wedding is not an as expensive prospect for the groom as it is for his bride.

"In this area, a groom can expect to spend $29-$42 if he wants to wear an outfit that is in a modern style," said Dick Bourbonais of The Tux Shop.

"True, a guy can rent a tux for $15, but the outfit is going to look like it was styled in the 1950's. And the costs of getting a modern-styled outfit costs even more in Detroit than it does out here."

Wedding cake is often priced by the piece. This cost works inversely — as the number of servings goes up, the cost per serving goes down. The average price is about 40 cents per piece.

Music can cost plenty as well. Some bands sell their services for as low as $150 for a night, but their sound is often questionable. A couple can figure on spending $250 or more for four hours of good music.

The price of photography can be staggering, and again will depend on what the couple wants. Prices start as low as $150 for a book of 20 8 x 10 color pictures. Costs increase as one moves east from Livingston County.

Finally, there is a small inexpensive item that will help all brides and grooms save money is they purchase it from the start of making their plans.

A magazine for brides is a handbook to the world of weddings and contains a wealth of information about costs, clothing styles, homes and apartments, cooking, honeymoon — you name it, it probably is covered in the book.

As can easily be seen, the costs of a wedding can be gigantic or can be kept to a minimum. It is a day and age when the poor pocketbook is to be pitied.

1-3 Card Of Thanks

The family of Joe Pine wishes to express their love and gratitude to all who helped to sustain them in a time of need. To Dr. Gehrke and Dr. Myers for handling a difficult task with tender compassion, to Father Hugh Conklin for his words of comfort, to all those who gave their time and donations to the benefit dance, to family, friends and neighbors who expressed their love by way of flowers, contributions, phone calls, food, prayers, cards and the feeling that the love we feel for our loved one is shared by many others. Words alone fail to fully express the love we feel for each and every one of you, but our love is richer because of you

Libby Pine, Marcy, Joey and Penni

I would like to thank the people of Northville area for the testimonial dinner given in my honor as retiring mayor. It has been rewarding in many ways and I deem it a privilege to have served a village and the city since 1948. The oil painting that will be displayed in the lobby of Allen Terrace is one of the highlights of my life and to me it truly expresses your appreciation. I feel our working together as a community has made this a place for which we all can be proud. A special thanks to those on the committee for the dinner and the party. It was a wonderful evening that Betty and our family and I will never forget.

Sincerely, Mike Allen

"If You Deal Before Seeing Us, We Both Lose"

RANDOM HOUSE INTERIORS, located at 41706 Ten Mile in Novi, has done the decorating of the models in the new West Bloomfield Woods Subdivision on Maple Road.

The subdivision, a development of Futura Home Builders, features three models in the $90,000 price range: The Westwood (a 2,000 square foot ranch), The Huntington (a 2,550 foot colonial), and The Monterey (a 2,600 square foot quadlevel).

Linda Hudson, an interior designer with Random House Interiors, reported that The Monterey reflects a California feeling, using soft crisp color tones within open spacious living areas.

The theme of interior color tones steamed from the use of brick and rough-sawn siding in spice tone with Spanish brown trim.

Interior colors are mushroom beiges, maize, and autumn orange. The progression of color suggests a light harmonious color scheme. The color hues changes in an orderly fashion, but both lightness and saturation are repetitive.

The studio-ceilinged foyer with circular staircase invites the use of two coordinated wallpapers.

A cathedral-beamed ceiling in the kitchen gives the area a spacious, warm touch; the center of the island and doorwall are both functional and visually attractive.

The family room features a masonry fireplace with optional wet bar. A cozy atmosphere has been created by warm paint tones on stucco walls with rough-sawn tudor design.

Random House Interiors specializes in wallpapers, draperies, furniture, and decorative accessories and offers complete interior design service.

GUARDIAN Industries Corporation of Novi and GAF Corporation has reached an agreement in principle for Guardian to purchase assets of GAF's nationwide photo processing business.

A jointly signed letter of intent provides for a cash payment of about $6.2 million at closing for plants, other fixed assets, and some inventories, but not accounts receivable. The agreement also provides that Guardian will process GAF prepaid film mailers through December 31, 1980. The transaction is subject to the signing of a formal agreement and approval by the board of directors of both companies.

GAF's photo finishing operation includes 17 plants in 13 states, and employs 1,300 people.

The facilities will be operated by Guardian Photo Division which now has four photo finishing plants serving an eight-state area in the Midwest and Northeast. Guardian also is a leading manufacturer and fabricator of glass for the construction and automotive industries. Its photo division contributed $26.4 million in revenues to the company's total sales of $155.6 million in 1977.

GAF announced last month its intention to sell the photo processing business as part of a corporate-wide redeployment program which last year involved discontinuing the sale and manufacture of consumer photo equipment, color films, and papers. The company continues to produce a large variety of photographic products, including film, paper, chemicals, and equipment for medical, industrial, graphic arts, and instructional purposes.

MPA urges poison safety

"Accidental poisonings begin in the home and so does poison prevention," Dewaine Robinson, president of the Michigan Pharmacists Association (MPA), said.

The first week of spring also marks Poison Prevention Week (March 19-25, 1978), and the MPA urges adults to become aware of various potential poisons which can be found in their homes.

Spring cleaning is an excellent time to store these "killers" out of the reach of children, MPA states.

"Even though safer packaging techniques have helped tremendously, constant caution is necessary. You may have a convenient storage area under the sink, but remember that youngsters can reach it, too. It may be easier to leave that furniture polish you were using on the dining room table while you answer the telephone, but remember that youngsters are naturally curious.

"Be a responsible adult: 'Poison-Proof' your home during Poison Prevention Week, and consult your pharmacist for ideas on how to handle and store poisonous products."

Kensington slates program on birds

A special program entitled "Planting to Attract Birds" will be presented at the Nature Center of Kensington Metropark near New Hudson on Saturday, April 1 at 9 a.m.

As spring approaches, many people begin to consider ways to attract more birds into their yards. Some birds are very particular as to diet and homesite — they have specific needs which must be met, according to Naturalist Bob Hotelling.

The two-hour program will consist of slides, discussion and a walk to observe some popular bird plants.

For information/registration contact the Nature Center of Kensington Metropark — phone 685-1561 (Milford).

DANDEE the clown, who made a big hit with kids last year, once again entertains with balloon animals and clown antics at Northville Charley's every Monday from 5-8:30 p.m.

Other special features at the Chuck Muer family tavern include a special Monday Funday Kids' Stuff menu and a Clean Plate Club.

The menu offers Jabber Jaws fish and chips, the Scoobie Doobie Doo dog, the Wimpy burger and Roadrunner's wing dings.

To qualify for the Clean Plate Club, children must eat all of their dinner at home for seven straight days and bring a diploma signed by their parents. Once the diploma is certified, the graduate is rewarded with a special dessert upon his or her next visit to Northville Charley's.

A new feature on Mondays is Jimmy the Baker, who celebrates young guests' birthdays with a huge birthday cake covered with sparklers.

"Monday evenings are fun for everyone, especially the staff," said John Campbell, manager of Northville Charley's. "Dandee makes us all laugh, some of the waitresses wear clown make-up, and the jovial atmosphere soon spreads among all our guests."

According to unofficial sources, Dandee's background includes "entertaining George Washington before Valley Forge, Herbert Hoover before his inauguration, and John Wayne before his career."

The menu further explains that Dandee eventually settled in Michigan because of his close friendship with Henry Ford who said, as he broke ground for his museum, "This is going to be a 'Dandee place!'"

Dandee is played by Dan Duey, a resident of Northville.

New Meadowbrook manager George Gillam, right, and assistant, James Hakspacher, await spring thaw

Meadowbrook Country Club

New managers await golf season

George E. Gillam and James W. Hakspacher became manager and assistant manager, respectively, right in the depths of winter at Meadowbrook Country Club — a club known for its green setting and peak summer activity.

While waiting for the ridges of snow to melt they have been getting acquainted with the membership and attending to club housekeeping.

Gillam became club manager February 1. He most recently was manager of Grosse Ile Golf and Country Club, serving there for six years. He admits he had a decision to make as he left a club that "was spinning on the right spindle" to accept the Northville club's offer that "was too good to turn down."

Hakspacher arrived January 1 and has been overseeing preparations for the 1978 season at the club located at 40941 West Eight Mile.

The dance floor, carpeting and draperies have been cleaned. An addition is being made to the men's locker room and employees' locker rooms are being renovated.

Hakspacher has held various management positions at the Main Event Restaurant and banquet facilities at the Pontiac Silverdome, the Troy Hilton Motor Inn and Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge.

Both point out that the club's social calendar was pretty well set when they arrived so that, while changes are anticipated, they won't be immediate.

They're interested in the club's food service, saying they wish to refine it with a team approach to make service to members and their guests the "key" word.

The club's full Class A membership (golf and social) is at capacity of 325 with a waiting list. Over-all membership is close to 489 with a few openings remaining.

Easy access to the club from the new Interstate 275 Gillam sees as a boost to membership although the membership has shifted in recent years to become more local.

The office estimates that the greatest number of families, about 75, are Northville residents, with the next greatest number coming from Plymouth and from Livonia and Novi. Others live in West Bloomfield, Birmingham, Union Lake and Dearborn. There also are members from Grosse Pointe and Grosse Ile.

The new management team met quite a few members at the successful Sportsman Night March 1. Last Thursday women of the club gathered for a spring fashion show and luncheon.

First big couple event was the St. Patrick dinner dance March 18, but Gillam mentions that he couldn't be on hand as his former club has planned a farewell party for him that evening.

He and his wife, Meg, and youngest daughter, Theresa, 17, have been living in Trenton. He plans to commute for the time being as Theresa is finishing her senior year in high school and then will be going to Michigan State University. The Gillams have two other daughters, Elizabeth, 26, and Karen, 24.

A native of Ohio, Gillam, who is 49, has had extensive experience in club management and has a bachelor's degree from Michigan State hotel and restaurant school.

He has been in managerial posts in Mauh Nah Tee See Country Club, Rockford, Illinois; Meridian Hills Country Club, Indianapolis; Manor Country Club, Rockville, Maryland; Chevy Chase Club, Chevy Chase, Maryland; and Sharon City Club, Sharon, Pennsylvania.

Hakspacher, who will be 30 in June, has a bachelor's degree in psychology and speech with graduate work in the same fields. He and his wife, Teri, with their daughter, Kirsten, who is a year old, have been living in Mount Clemens but are in the process of buying a home in Berkley.

The club's top management post previously was filled by George Karydes, who left the end of the year.

In announcing the new management team the club's board of directors stresses it has "the education, experience and initiative to enhance the enjoyment of all club members," noting that country club business today is becoming more complex.

William P. Lindhout, president, emphasizes that Meadowbrook has a great variety of interests among its members so that the club appeals with swimming, tennis, bridge and, of course, golf.

He echoes the new management team's words that "good service centered around a good facility" is the club goal.

Stellar benefit to help furnish Providence dorms

By JEAN DAY

A three-star evening with dinner, dancing and a fashion show for men as well as women is being planned for a good cause by the Northville Manresa, Order of Alhambra, a local group "dedicated to the retarded." Organizers are hoping that the community will support the event to be held April 7 at Meadowbrook Country Club.

Proceeds from the $12.50 a person night will be donated to help purchase furnishings for the three new cottage dormitories at Our Lady of Providence School on Beck Road. Pat Roux, general chairman, reports that "The Variations," a popular dance band, has been signed and that Lapham's Claire Kelly will be doing the fashion show.

"We're hoping to have a capacity crowd of 350 at Meadowbrook," she says and asks any groups interested to call her about tickets at 349-4160. Plans for the new, smaller unit dormitory buildings at the school for retarded girls were approved last month with construction to begin this spring.

Pink lights and a sellout for Olivia

Pink lights have been ordered, as requested, and a hair appointment made for Olivia de Havilland, the Oscar-winning actress whose appearance April 6 will conclude Northville Town Hall's current season.

Town Hall chairman Florence Booms confirms that more interest has been shown in the star's appearance than in any other recent lecture guest. She has arranged to have Krystine Dzewit, owner of the Fashion Cellar, do Miss de Havilland's hair before her lecture at the Plymouth Hilton Inn.

There also will be a step stool behind the podium for the tiny actress as well as the pink lights, known to be most flattering to women.

Pat Byberg's a winning business student

Business award

OLV graduate cited

A 1974 graduate of the Our Lady of Victory Parochial School in Northville has been named the outstanding business student in the area by Executive Women's International.

Patricia Byberg graduated from eighth grade at Our Lady of Victory in 1974. She is currently a senior business student at Novi High School.

The women's organization which has chapters throughout the nation conducts an annual business career development program in conjunction with Sears.

The program helps to identify high school seniors with outstanding business leadership potential.

Competing against students from several other area high schools, Pat took a battery of skill tests in all fields of business. She received recommendations from school officials and her employer, and has achieved a high scholastic record.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Byberg of Park Forest Court in Novi. Pat intends to enter business college upon graduation in June.

Reservations for the luncheon following her talk have been sold out since March 10, the day after the last Town Hall, Mrs. Booms adds. Miss de Havilland, created more than 40 characters on the screen, two winning Oscars. Recently she returned from her home in Paris and has been making lecture and television appearances.

Bake-Off sugar—and spice

Here's a correction to be made in Betty Engles' Winning Bake-Off recipe printed last week. The amount of sugar to be used should be one-quarter cup, rather than three-quarters, as printed.

The fact that there was a "bitter taste" to the Pillsbury Bake-Off last month in New Orleans really wasn't known at the contest itself, says Pat Wright who attended as the guest of her sister, one of the 100 contestants. Afterward, however, reports got into print from here to Florida, where Mrs. Wright's sister lives, regarding the way the judging is done.

Birmingham, Michigan, contestant Millie Snow declared that "cooking performance on the floor has nothing to do with whether you win." Decisions of the floor judges, it developed, count for only 25 percent with the big amount, the 75 percent, being the marks from 1,800 consumer-testers in four cities. The testers in Los Angeles, Houston, Indianapolis and Philadelphia were asked to read five recipes and indicate if they appealed to them. Pillsbury now says that next year the food editors will conduct the contest.

Remember special April dates

April 5 has been designated as George Berryman Donation Day at the Northville A&P on Seven Mile. It is sponsored by the Northville Band Boosters to help the popular former junior high band director whose serious illness necessitated giving up his career. Band members and Dr. Barbara Campbell at Northville High School have crediting coupons to be presented when purchasing that day. The store then gives a percentage of its proceeds to the cause.

A spring "garage sale" is being planned by Our Lady's League of Our Lady of Victory Church for April 13-14 at the administration building garage on the church grounds at Main and Orchard. Jackie Lentz, chairman, reports that league members are housecleaning with the fund-raiser in mind and promise to donate "boutique-type" items. There will be no clothing.

Northville AAUW is holding a used book sale April 14 and 15 at Twelve Oaks Mall. Sheila Norgren wants any used books, and the AAUW hopes you'll browse and buy at the sale for its scholarship fund.

April 3 is the start of National Library Week. Northville library in Northville Square invites you to stop by.

Channel 56 Auction runs April 7 to 15 and has donations from Northville merchants.

Spring fashions

Spring arrived officially Monday, but it was here for members of Northville Newcomers March 7 when more than 200 women attended the club's dinner fashion show at the Plymouth Hilton Inn. "We were very pleased," reports President Beverly Walsh, "that attendance was as good or better than at our previous luncheon shows and many said they liked being able to linger afterward."

Peggy Gettig was a happy reservation chairman

Kim Kelly, left, and her mother, Claire Kelly, who presented the show, enjoyed dinner together

In the fashionable audience were Pam Urban and Judy Stewart, co-chairmen for the event.

Seminary hosts author

A well-known Chicago priest-author will be the speaker at a meeting scheduled for April 11 at St. John's Provincial Seminary in Plymouth.

Fr. Matthew Fox, OP, a well-known figure in the Church in the U.S. because of his encouragement of "American-style" spirituality, will speak on the topic, "Christian Spirituality as a Ministry to the New Consciousness," in an 8 p.m. session that is open to the public free.

He was originally scheduled to speak at St. John's in January, but the session was postponed due to bad weather.

Fr. Fox, who has studied spirituality in France and taught at Barat College in Chicago, became best-known with the publication of his first book, "On Becoming a Musical Mystical Bear" (sub-titled "Spirituality American Style") (Paulist Press, 1972) and later wrote another book entitled "Wee! Wee All the Way Home," which was published by Consortium Books in 1976. Director of an Institute for Creation-Centered Spirituality at Mundelein College in Chicago, Fr. Fox has participated in many workshops and retreats throughout the U.S.

St. John's, a four-year theologate serving all seven Catholic dioceses in Michigan, is located on Five Mile Road at Sheldon Road.

St. John's Provincial Seminary in Plymouth is inviting men from throughout Michigan to an annual vocations day at the seminary on April 15.

Invitations to the all-day event have gone out to all students in Michigan of high school and college age who have been involved in diocesan vocations programs or who have indicated an interest in the seminary.

The schedule will run from 9:00 a.m. until 6:30 p.m. and will include tours of the seminary facilities and grounds, lunch, Mass and dinner.

WHAT IS THE PURPOSE OF A CHURCH?

A Christian congregation should exist for only one purpose, to teach people to know their Savior. As the Apostle Paul wrote to one of the congregations he established, "I determined not to know anything among you, save Jesus Christ, and him crucified." 1 Cor 2:2

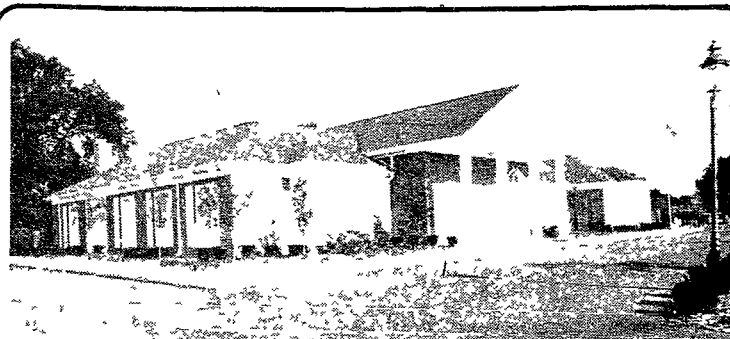

We invite you to hear with us this timeless message which alone is able to give us peace of conscience and the hope of heaven.

WHAT DO YOU SAY TO A GRIEVING WIDOW?

Because it is so difficult to know how the bereaved really feels, we advise that you not say "I know how you must feel." It is not necessary to force a conversation, nor to extol the virtues of the deceased to the grieving family.

Silent expressions of emotion and compassion (like a firm gripping of the hand) and a simple "I'm sorry" are frequently more eloquent than talkative attempts at "eulogies."

Listening and just "being there" show that you care. Your presence is indication of your desire to be sympathetic and comforting. Above all, don't try to jolt a grieving widow out of her grief. Time will do it for her gradually. She must first accept the loss, then begin to live with it and pass through several emotional stages before the natural healing effects of time take hold.

Dyes for eggs

Ancient custom lives

Customs and legends, often obscured, link the colored egg with Easter. The bright dyed eggs could be viewed as a visual reminder of a coming spring season. Easter is by tradition a festival of spring.

The dyeing of eggs had been practiced in European countries long before German settlers brought the tradition to America in the early eighteenth century.

The egg, especially in the early churches, was symbolic of rebirth. Often worshippers were given eggs at Easter services marked with the words "the Lord is risen."

The coloring of eggs may be traced to the time of Christ when a man placed his basket of eggs at the side of the road to help carry the Cross to Calvary. It is said the man returned to find his eggs the color of the rainbow.

For whatever reason, colored eggs and Easter are linked. The tradition continues.

Using the fruits of nature, people for centuries have made solutions of vegetables, fruits, and flower heads to dye their eggs. Those natural colors can still be brewed in family kitchens today.

Although the procedure is somewhat more time consuming and more difficult than plunking a colored pellet in a cup of water, nature can bring unexpected results.

Some dyes come from roots or seeds, others from leaves berries or bark. Since these items are not readily available in this climate zone, a try at natural dyeing would have to come from the supermarket.

Most often, a simmering hot dye-bath colors the shells best. To begin the procedure, bring at least two cups of water to boil in a pan, using something other than an aluminum utensil.

To the boiling water is added leaves, flowers, skins or berries. The addition of one tablespoon of vinegar as a mordant helps the color adhere to the egg.

After the mixture comes to a second boil, turn down the heat and keep it at a simmering point for about ten minutes or when the color appears to have some depth. Remove the solid plant material either by straining or ladling. This must be done before the egg is added or the natural ingredients will stick to the egg.

Eggs do not necessarily have to be hard boiled prior to being added to the solution since they will be simmering in the dye solution. The longer the egg remains in the dye bath, the deeper the color will become.

To make a pale blue dye, chop one cup of red-cabbage leaves and add them to the boiling water, vinegar solution. Simmer until the color is leached from the leaves, strain, then add the egg.

By wrapping the cabbage leaves around the egg and securing them with twine before adding it to the water-vinegar solution, a mottled effect can be achieved. Red onion skins can also be used to achieve a blue color.

The brown skins of white onions will produce a dark yellow color. Again using two cups of water, no vinegar but an optional pinch of alum, add one-third cup skins.

Or, cover the eggs in about four layers of the brown skins tied tightly with light twine and submerge in boiling water. The veined patterns of the onion will appear in yellow on the shells. If left for as long as a half hour, the patterns develop into a bright burnt orange.

Turmeric can be used to produce an orange yellow dye. Add one teaspoon of powdered turmeric to two cups of water with one tablespoon vinegar and two pinches of alum. The brew should simmer five minutes.

With the possible exception of peculiar aromas coming from boiling solutions and the addition of "flavor" to the eggs themselves, natural dyeing of Easter eggs can be a fun project and different, too.

Northwest safari

Members of the Highland Lakes Women's Club enjoyed a "trip" to Washington and Oregon Thursday in a travelog presentation by one of the senior citizens who lives in their subdivision — Irving Benson. The occasion gave newly elected officers of the club a chance to get acquainted, go over club procedures and to informally chat with their guest speaker (above). Shown with Mr. Benson, left to right, are Ruth Collins, treasurer; Dorcas Aumann, president; Dolores Blackburn, vice-president; and Virginia Simpson, secretary. Mr. Benson titled his presentation, "Washington and Oregon Safari".

College to host poet Rod McKuen

Rod McKuen, the international famous, most widely read and best selling poet of this period, is coming to this area April 13 under the sponsorship of the Schoolcraft College Cultural & Public Affairs Series.

His appearance is scheduled at 8 p.m. at Churchill High School auditorium.

Over 16 million copies of McKuen's books are in print. He is also the composer of more than 1500 songs, which have been sung and recorded by performers around the world.

His film music has twice been nominated for the motion picture Academy Awards, and his classical music has been performed by leading symphony orchestras including the London Royal Philharmonic.

According to

Publishers Weekly, the total sales of Rod McKuen books in hardback editions number well over the 10 million mark, making him not only the bestselling poet of all time, but the bestselling living author of any type in hardback.

McKuen will read some of his works, tell some stories and rap with the audience at Churchill.

The poet says "It doesn't matter who you love or how you love, but that you love." Describing love and loneliness and communicating it to an audience is what McKuen does best.

"The secret behind the incredible success of this handsome blonde loner — he reacts and responds to people simply and directly and in terms of love in a way most men wish they could, if only they weren't so inarticulately pent-up when it comes to writing what they feel..." New York Daily News, Michael Lachetta.

Tickets are priced at $4 for the general public and $3 for students. They are available at the Schoolcraft College Bookstore. To order by mail, send check or money order made payable to Schoolcraft College and a self-addressed envelope to the Schoolcraft College Bookstore, 18600 Haggerty Road, Livonia, MI 48152.

Churchill High School is located at 8900 Newburgh Road, at Joy Road, in Livonia. For ticket information, telephone 591-6400, ext. 265.

Furniture and decorations should be arranged in groups for specific purposes, conversation, reading, watching television. Groups should be arranged in balance, with several small bright pieces offsetting larger or heavier-looking pieces. The balance can be formal, or informal, depending on your particular taste. Remember that equal balance gives a restful effect to a room, but may become monotonous with too much repetition.
