Farewell party

Departing Northville Superintendent Raymond Spear gives his wife Freda a kiss while the family gathered at a farewell party at Meadowbrook Country Club Thursday night. Spear's parents, Carl and Dot Spear, were

For fire station

Township eyes free land

Legislation clearing the way for Northville Township to expand its fire protection services to the western portion of the township has been introduced by State Senator R. Robert Geake, Republican from Northville, it was announced last weekend.

Geake's bill provides for the transfer of three acres of land, currently part of Maybury State Park, from the State Department of Natural Resources (DNR) to Northville Township. The land is located on the northwest corner of Beck and Seven Mile.

This acreage was identified by master planning studies, conducted in 1974, as being the most appropriate site for a new fire station to serve Northville Township's westerly population. Currently the fire department is located by the township offices in the former Wayne County Training School on Sheldon south of Six Mile.

When the new township hall complex opens on Six Mile at Winchester, there will be complete facilities there.

When contacted Monday, Senator Geake said he expects the bill (Senate Bill 1609) will be acted upon before December. It currently is under review by the Senate Committee on State Affairs.

The senator said he was prompted to introduce the land transfer bill at the suggestion of Northville Township Supervisor Wilson Grier.

"Supervisor Grier has been concerned with the need to develop more adequate fire protection for residents of the western part of the township," he explained.

"After reviewing the situation, I, too, believe a new fire station is needed and that this parcel of land would serve as an appropriate site.

"I have explained the need for this legislation to both the DNR and the State Department of Management and Budget, and am hopeful they will agree to support it.

"I am convinced that, due to the size of Maybury State Park, the loss of these acres will not significantly limit its use."

Senator Geake stressed that, "This land transfer will meet Northville Township's need for expanded fire protection services, and will mean better

Hearing set to fund

Mainstreet 78 plan

A public hearing to consider the adoption of a Downtown Development Authority ordinance is slated for Monday, July 24.

The Northville city council approved the hearing Monday night as a first step in the establishment of a vehicle to be used for financing of the proposed Mainstreet 78 project.

protection against fire for Maybury State Park as well."

Supervisor Grier said Tuesday he intends to proceed "in the most expeditious manner possible" to get the station built as soon as the land is committed.

He said the township has application on file for federal assistance in the form of a block grant to build the station. He stressed, however, that this is just one of several choices for funding.

Under a new provision of the state legislature, he pointed out, the township for the first time will be receiving monies for fire protection on an annual basis, beginning July 1, because of the high percentage of state land located in its boundaries.

"This was one of the things I have fought for in Lansing," Grier said. The amount is to be no less than $15,000 and not more than $35,000, he added.

He suggested that it would be possible to use the funding to retire a debt for the new station, probably over a 10-15 year span.

The land acquisition would be free, he said, and was a solution as several home owners in the area had been approached with offers to purchase, but, because of soaring land values, had not been interested in selling.

Grier concluded that he expects to have funding soon as the land is available.

Albion man offered superintendent post

The Northville board of education was prepared last night to offer a superintendent's contract to Dr. Garth Errington, a man who says he brought stability to the Albion School District during his three years as superintendent there.

Errington, 44, was to meet with the board last night (Tuesday) in an open meeting at the Hillside Inn in Plymouth.

If the two parties reach an agreement, Errington will follow Raymond Spear who resigned as superintendent in March.

The contract he will be offered was hammered out in an executive session Monday night attended by Northville's seven board members.

Prior to the closed meeting, an audience of five watched as the board selected Errington in favor of the other finalist, Dr. Elvin Peets, superintendent of the East Jackson school district.

Both candidates drew high praise from all board members but Errington's experience in a larger school system appeared to be the turning point in his favor.

"It was a tough decision, I think either man would be a good superintendent," said Secretary Christopher Johnson, the only board member who was on both subcommittees that visited the finalists' home districts.

"It is evident that there is a greater breadth and depth of background" in Errington's past, said Treasurer Karen Wilkinson.

But, she added, "There has been no indication from either group that they were dissatisfied with either one of them."

The board agreed that if Errington turned its offer down, Peets would be offered the job.

Errington has already rejected the superintendent's job at Warren Woods and is a candidate in other school districts.

Ironically, both Errington and Peets were candidates for the superintendent's job at Van Buren, which offered the position to Peets.

Errington taught for seven years before beginning a 14-year administrative career in which he was principal at Pontiac Central High School and assistant superintendent in Battle Creek before coming to Albion in 1975.

Prior to his arrival in Albion, Errington said the district had gone through four superintendents in seven years and eight high school principals in nine years.

In his May 30 interview with the Northville school board, Errington said he had brought "stability" to the administrative staff and the school district.

The board members who went to Al-

NEWS BRIEFS

A PRELIMINARY discussion of a proposed development for property on the North side of Eight Mile between Northville Estates and Lexington Commons Condos, slated to appear on last night's city planning commission agenda, was delayed at the request of Ernest Fournier, spokesman for Four Real Estate Investments, Incorporated, who has been discussing a proposal for a planned unit residential subdivision with Ronald Nino, city planner.

THE CITY will stick with its present auditors for at least another year, the 21st in a row for the firm of Icerman, Johnson & Hoffman of Ann Arbor. Three other auditing firms submitted bids to do the city work last night, but councilmen had second thoughts on changing horses in mid-stream. The city's fiscal year ends in June. Besides, Icerman offered to reduce its charge from a fee of $9,600 last year to no more than $8,000 for this year. A firm representative explained that some preliminary work plus scheduling had already been done and rather than lose the work it would cut the cost. Consequently, Sutherland & Yoe, Plante & Moran and Lee E. Holland, CPA, were told to apply again next January.

SUMMER JOBS in maintenance for students now are available to Northville Township residents who are 18 and older through the Wayne County Road Commission. Supervisor Wilson Grier has been notified. They will run from June 26 through September 30 from noon to 8 p.m. and pay $3.84 an hour. Applicants, who must have a car, are to call Larry Hamilton, 956-1581.

SUMMER'S HERE! It's official. Today, June 21, the sun reaches the northernmost point on the celestial sphere, the summer solstice, to give us the longest day of the year. The weather bureau promises that any showers will end early today. Be ready for three months of picnics, ice cream cones and dips in the pool, as lifeguard Ann Sherman illustrates as she emerged from the Northville Swim Club pool during yesterday's glorious preview.

TOWNSHIP POLICE Chief Ronald Nisun reminds residents to contact his department when they are leaving on a vacation. The police force has been instructed to expand the manpower used for house checks of people out of town, said Nisun. But the service, which police believe reduces break-ins, is only effective when the department is aware of vacation schedules.

Neighbors can't halt subdivision's approval

Angry Whipple Estates residents failed to block tentative approval of a preliminary plat for Beacon Woods subdivision Thursday but they did win some assurances that their voices will be heard at the engineering stage of the proposed development.

Northville Township Board voted 6-0 for tentative approval upon the recommendation of township planning commission.

But not until after residents bordering the proposed Eight Mile property located between the city's Lexington Commons subdivision on the east and Moraine Elementary School on the west had blasted the plan.

The main arguments of citizens were that the proposed subdivision lots are not consistent with larger lots in adjacent Whipple Estates; that the proposed street layout of the subdivision does not take advantage of the rolling terrain but rather suggests straight streets that will mean "row housing"; and that undeveloped street easements from Beacon Woods into Whipple Estates allows a loophole for unwanted future street development.

The developer, Angelo Spagnoli, proposes building a 166-lot subdivision on a nearly 84-acre site. He is hopeful to begin the project yet this year.

It is to be developed under the township's "open space plan," which provides the developer with the opportunity to reserve some of the R-2 land for park-like open space. By so doing, the developer is permitted to reduce the size of lots provided the population density is no greater than would occur if open space was not employed. What this means is that the developer may vary his lot sizes so as to average the minimum size required.

One of the advantages of the "open space" concept as originally envisioned by planners is that it would "provide a more desirable living environment by preserving the natural character of open fields, stands of trees, brooks,

Blond campaigner stuns council

The politically non-partisan atmosphere which has been steadfastly guarded through more than two decades of city council meetings by ever-alert Northville councilmen was totally destroyed Monday night.

The tradition was broken by an attractive blond pitching the candidacy of a Democrat for Governor.

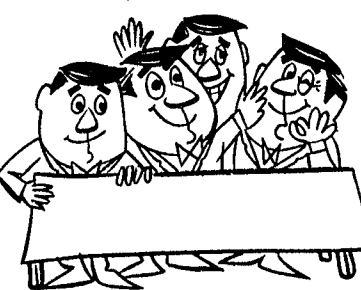

And for at least five minutes a quartet of elected officials sat seemingly mesmerized at the council table in a state of mixed emotions. Obviously they were enjoying what they were seeing, but not what they were hearing.

When Monday night's council session progressed to item number eight on the agenda, Mayor Paul Vernon read it aloud: "Mrs. Sylvia McCollough — Community Services."

From the audience of less than a dozen citizens arose a well-dressed, eye-appealing young lady who marched to the front of the chambers and announced she was "not certain about the community services" aspect of her reason for appearing.

She wanted to tell the council and audience about her husband, State Senator Pat McCollough, Democratic candidate for Governor.

"Pat is the only one who has really fought to repeal the single business tax. He has never missed a roll call at a session of the state senate. His mother, a state representative, holds the record for the whole country for never missing a session of the house. He could do a much better job of bringing all sides together than Governor Milliken. He is an independent Democrat. Pat feels that he can get along with business as well as labor... etc., etc."

It appeared that Sylvia was just warming up when Councilman Burton DeRusha mustered the courage to interrupt.

"Pardon me, but Mr. Mayor don't you think this is rather unusual," DeRusha started to say when Mayor Vernon explained "I was going to give her another minute or two."

"You're a gentleman, Mayor," responded Sylvia.

Not to be outdone by the mayor, Councilman DeRusha set out to prove that he, too, was a gentleman.

"I didn't interrupt because your husband is a Democrat. I'm sure he needs all the kind words he can get. It's just that this is a non-partisan body conducting a meeting on city business," DeRusha rushed to explain.

"Actually you've convinced me that your husband is a very smart man, indeed, to have such a bright and attractive woman as you for his wife," DeRusha added as the clincher.

The campaign's only started and already the sparks are flying.

Incumbent Supervisor Wilson Grier and treasurer candidate Lee Holland clashed Thursday night over what Holland contends was a deliberate political ploy of the supervisor.

At issue is a memo hand-delivered by Grier to citizens of the Five Mile area informing them of federal monies that will be used to conduct sewer studies for their area.

Holland said he did not object to use of such money for this purpose, but rather the memo's misleading suggestion that Grier had secured new grant monies for this specific purpose.

"How did you inform the people?" asked Holland at the conclusion of Thursday's board meeting.

Grier said he had personally hand-delivered it to avoid mailing expense.

At that point, Holland gave members of the board a copy of the memo.

Signed by the supervisor, the memo reads in part:

"The sanitary sewer problems of Park Gardens Subdivision have been a problem and an issue in township government for many years. Since the fall of 1976 I have been working with State and Federal agencies seeking monetary assistance to resolve the problem.

"It is with great pleasure that I inform you of recent grant monies from the Community Block Grant program in the amount of $129,000. This initial funding will be used to engineer and design a satisfactory solution to the sanitary sewer problem. It is expected that an additional $89,000 in grant monies will be made available in July of 1978. Construction of the sanitary lines could begin as early as the fall of 1978 or the spring of 1979."

In defense of this memo, Grier pointed out that the township has indeed been seeking solutions to problems in Park Gardens and that, as a matter of fact, other requests for federal and/or state financial assistance are still in the hopper.

Holland, however, contended that the monies now earmarked for Park Gardens were not originally intended for the subdivision but rather for the library building that Grier had battled for. Why, he asked, didn't the memo explain this rather than lead the public to believe that Grier had personally championed the federal monies specifically for Park Gardens?

Holland also was angered by the fact that Grier signed the letter and not the board and that it had been done with knowledge of other board members.

He reminded Grier that had it not been for public protests the monies now going to Park Gardens would have been used for construction of a township library building. It was the supervisor, he noted, who had insisted to protesting citizens that the monies could not be used for another purpose.

He had reference to a statement by Grier last year made after a suggestion that consideration be made for using the money for another purpose, that the monies had to be used for the library or the township probably would lose the grant.

Dr. John Swienkowski emphasized that the original application for federal monies prioritized potential uses of the money and that one of these had been for sewer work.

The controversy, suggested Dr. Swienkowski is an "example of someone trying to make political points... on both sides" of the issue — Grier for passing out the memo and Holland for contesting it.

Allen Terrace hikes city's housing total

The City of Northville led Northville Township in new housing construction last year — but only because of development of its senior citizens housing complex, Allen Terrace.

According to statistics just compiled by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG), a total of 103 permits were taken out in 1977 in the Wayne County section of the city and six were taken out in the Oakland County section.

In the township, 73 permits were taken out in the township.

Overall, here's what the data shows in the Wayne County section of the city:

Two permits for single family houses, 101 multi family units (Allen Terrace), with two dwellings being demolished.

In the Oakland County action of the city (north of Base Line), six single family housing permits were issued, with no demolitions.

Data for the township:

Seventy-three permits for single family houses were issued, and one dwelling was demolished.

Several neighboring communities showed a substantially greater housing development than in Northville.

Plymouth Township issued a total of 402 single family permits; four multi family unit permits; and 10 dwellings were demolished. (City of Plymouth) on the other hand, showed a net reduction of five dwelling units, with permits for one single family unit, two two family units, and eight demolitions.)

Novi issued 172 single family unit permits; 402 multi family unit permits; and 18 dwellings were demolished for a net increase of 556.

Farmington Hills issued a gross total of 1,317 housing permits (720 multi family units and 597 single family units); and Livonia issued a gross total of 1,133 units (669 single family and 464 multi family).

Salem Township in Washtenaw County issued a total of 27 permits — all for single family houses; Lyon Township issued permits for 84 single family units and nine multi family permits.

In open-versus-structured class dispute

Board agrees to study open enrollment for district

Some of that old-time learnin' is good enough for a Northville couple who believe their children are being harmed by the modern teaching concepts at the elementary school they attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Edouarde Petit, 19701 Meadowbrook, say that while open classrooms that group children of several ages may work well for some, they have been detrimental to their children.

Last week, they asked the board to approve a transfer for their youngster from Silver Springs to Winchester Elementary School.

Failing that, the Petits asked the board to assure at least one traditionally structured classroom at each grade level at Silver Springs.

The board denied the transfer request but said it would study the idea of open enrollment which would allow parents to place their child in the school of their choice regardless of where they lived.

In truth, the board is tackling a question with wide-ranging ramifications.

Open enrollment could be an expensive, troublesome project involving wide-scale busing and possible bureaucratic headaches.

On the other hand, some board members are less than enthusiastic about giving no recourse to parents who have misgivings about the teaching methods used in their child's school.

"The problem is different philosophical experiences depending on the area of the school district that you are in," says Board Treasurer Karen Wilkinson.

Silver Springs is perhaps the most innovative of the four Northville elementary schools, offering multi-classes that, for example, group students together who would normally be segregated in separate kindergarten, first and second grade rooms.

"There is no place else except at school that we say you must only associate with five-year-olds," says Principal Nancy Fieldman in defense of the Silver Springs approach.

Students of the same chronological age mature socially, emotionally, physically and academically at different rates "in the same way that children lose their bottom teeth at different ages," says Chris Modrack, a K-1-2 teacher.

"I have a five-year-old student who reads at the sixth grade level but who is hardly ready for school emotionally, physically or socially," she says.

"We have a responsibility to meet needs at all levels."

All well and good, respond the Petits. But, they say, if it's true that the structured classroom isn't best for all students, then it is equally valid that the open philosophy doesn't fit all needs.

"I don't want to take it (multi-grades) away from anybody who wants it," says Mrs. Petit. "It just did not work for my kids."

Mr. Petit says that when his daughter was in the traditional and since-closed Main Street Elementary classrooms, her report card carried home remarks such as "eager" and "perfect citizen."

At Silver Springs, those comments changed to "behavior problem," and "precrastinator."

The Petits blame at least some of that change on the Silver Springs method which they believe is less disciplined and less demanding.

"I have found it very, very difficult for my kids," said Mrs. Petit.

In some ways, the Petits' plight boils down to the difficulty of a school system trying to be all things to all people.

"I have not heard that much opposition to multi-grading in Silver Springs," says Superintendent Raymond Spear.

He says the board should be wary of making changes because the system "does not meet the needs of one."

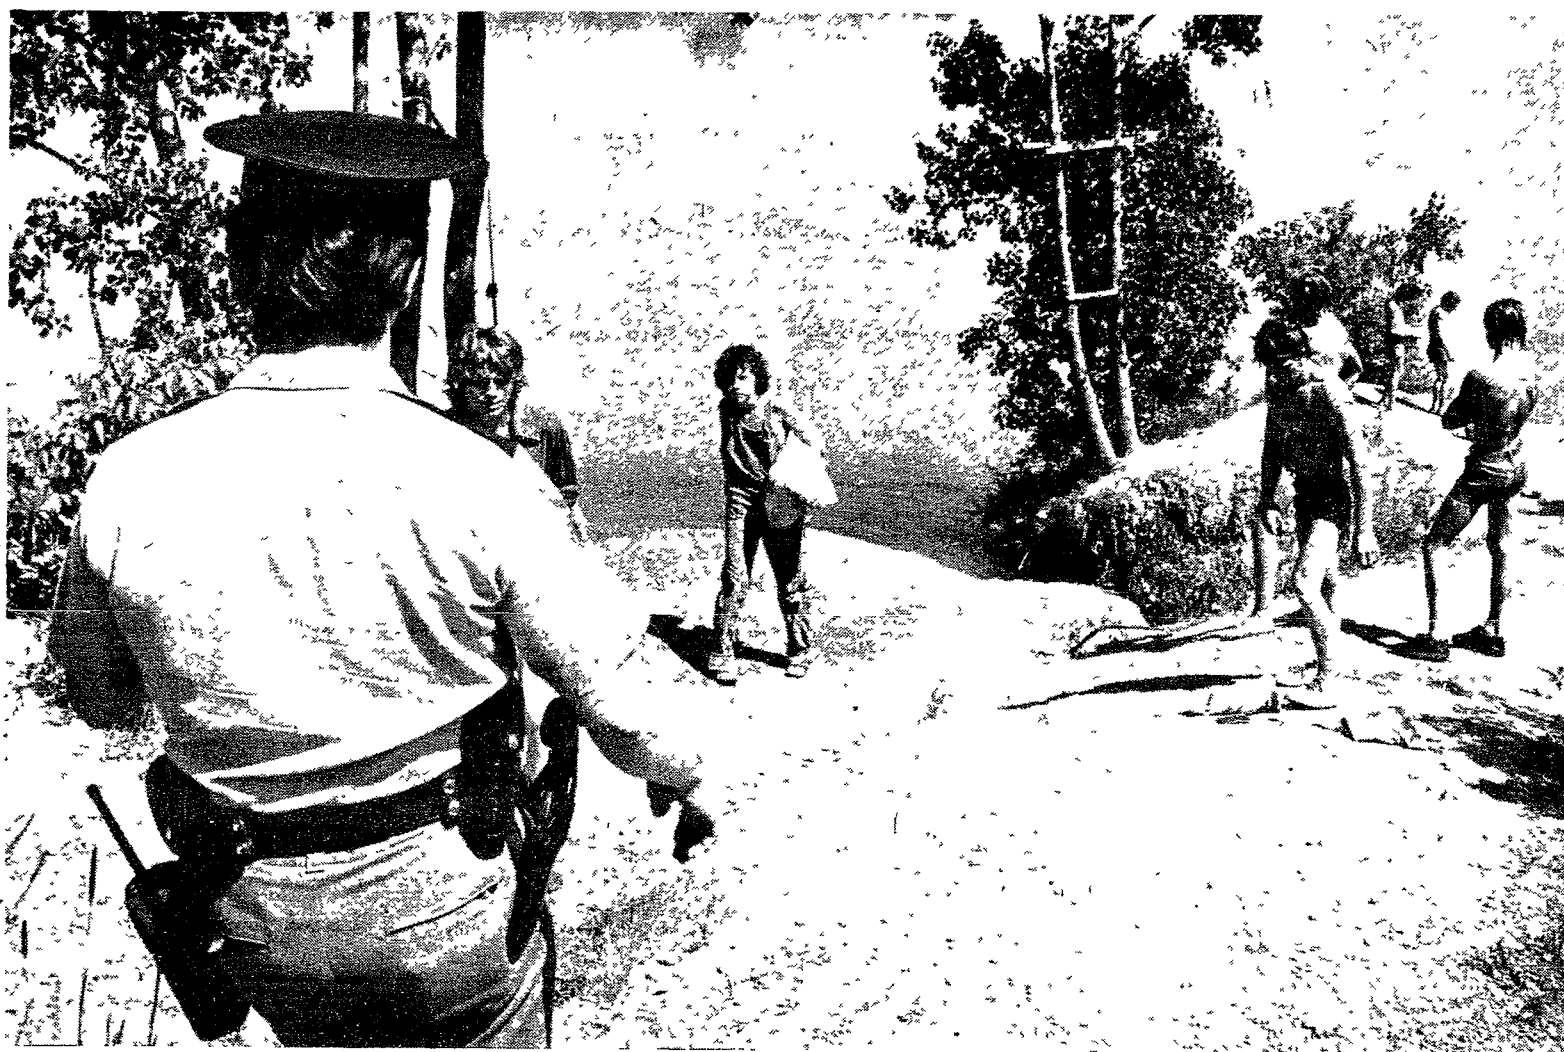

If a relatively few people could force Silver Springs to offer some structured classrooms, he says; then why couldn't a handful of people force a school such as Amerman to adopt open classrooms?

Principal Fieldman says that only three parents of incoming Silver Springs kindergartners objected to the multi-grade set-up, while five said the staff should make the decision and the rest favored it.

But Mrs. Petit refers to a school-financed North Poll survey of the entire district.

In that, 60 percent of those responding favored closed classrooms and only 12 percent endorsed the open concept.

She also says the poll showed that 66 percent of the parents of traditional school year youngsters had a low opinion of the split grade system.

The party's over

The gravel pit between Highland Lakes Subdivision and Griswold Road continues to be a popular swimming hole and a headache for neighbors and the township police. The gravel pit is off limits as Townships Patrolman Kevin Eves tells these swimmers Monday afternoon. Last year, the township passed an ordinance which required the Levitt Corporation, which developed Highland Lakes and owns the gravel pit, to put up a fence. The fence, however, has since been torn down and Police Chief Ronald Nisun said the Levitt Corporation has balked at repairing it. The youngsters above were given a warning, but they could have been given a trespassing ticket. Some 900 were issued by township police last year. "It's a dangerous place for kids to be," said Nisun. "It's deep, it's cold and there are cables beneath the surface."

Township crime down

Serious crime has reduced sharply in the township for the first-quarter of 1978, according to data released earlier this month by the Northville Township Police Department.

Even though Part I crimes were up slightly in April of 1978, the total for the first four months of the year was down by 30 percent when compared with the first four months of 1977.

The biggest drop was in the area of larceny, which is the Part I crime most reported in the township.

Larcenies were down 34 percent, from 58 to 38, through April. All Part I crimes were down from 91 to 64.

Car thefts were down from 12 to eight. The township has had no homicides, armed robberies and only one rape report this year.

There have been 13 burglaries, compared with 15 last year through April.

The crime reporting system includes six classifications under larceny. The classification with the largest decrease was larceny from motor vehicles which dropped from 29 to 17 for the first quarter.

Overall, the total number of calls received is up slightly through April, from 1597 to 1617.

This increase is due to a doubling of traffic complaints from 137 to 270, and increases of sick calls from 59 to 73, alarms from 92 to 106 and citizen assists from 130 to 173.

Vandalism incidents have decreased almost in half from 66 to 34 although the average damage has been more expensive.

In the first quarter of 1977, the average monetary loss for a vandalism incident was $104. In 1978's first quarter, it was $184.

Reed's calling up madcap militia—and hoping they'll muster July 4

By LENORE BECHTEL

The local commander of the Northwest Territorial Militia is putting out a call for his troops to come to Northville for the July 4 festivities.

But the perky 64-year-old patriot says he's not sure they'll make it.

"The militia is a citizens' group, raised for the purpose of mutual defense in early history," explained Robert James Reed, with his tongue-in-cheek type of talking. "They're somewhat unreliable, bound by their own whims and patriotism. You can call them out, but you don't know how many will appear."

Enough have shown up for the past three Fourth of July parades to make them true crowd pleasers, and Reed also has an explanation for the crowd's delighted reaction:

"The American public loves noise and gunfire," he said. "Strike up a band, start a military unit marching and they'll come running."

It's anybody's guess what the militia members will wear if they make their appearance in the holiday parade. They might be in Civil War uniform, buckskin outfits, colonial garb or military uniforms dating back to the American Revolution.

Reed himself might wear his replica of a 1740 British military uniform. "It's the first uniform authorized for the British Army to make everyone dress the same," Reed said. "Before that, they were a motley group."

On the other hand, he just might not wear it. "It's warm because it's wool, and July 4 will probably be a hot day." Then he added capriciously, "Maybe I'll let someone else wear it."

Reed hopes Michael Gleason will respond to his call from his home in Manchester. Gleason, who plays the bagpipe when — and if — the militia ever musters, wears a 1740 authentic Scottish uniform.

"It's a wrap-around kilt, just a big piece of cloth," Reed said. "To put it on, he lays down and rolls up in it."

Reed feels confident that at least one other militia man will show up — Douglas Reed, the group's drummer and Reed's son. "Even though he's 27, I still have some control over him," he said.

The group will fly the same flag that never fails to arouse the public's curiosity. "It has what looks like a dead crow on the middle of it," Reed said. "It's yellow, which goes along with the militia's courage. We eat crow, and we're yellow. We take military life only when we're forced into it."

What looks like a dead crow is supposed to be an eagle, Reed admitted. The flag also carries the militia's slogan: "Liberty shall never be disarmed."

The madcap militia, formed about four years ago, is made up of members of the North South Skirmish Association and the National Muzzle Loading Rifle Association, both competitive shooting groups which combine their interest in history with competitive sports.

Most will be carrying flintlock muskets, some originals from the 18th century and others excellent replicas.

The guns are fired with a piece of flint held in a hammer which strikes a piece of steel, showering sparks on exposed powder.

After the parade — assuming any militia members respond to Reed's call for them to assemble at Mill Race Village — they'll fire their muskets in volleys over the Mill Race.

"We might do some colonial style marching, some tomahawk throwing, a little mock training drilling," Reed said. "We might have someone showing a raw civilian how to use a firearm."

Reed, who's been shooting competitively since 1949, hopes his status as one of six commanders with the right to call out the militia carries some clout on July 4, but he's not sure.

"Our members don't get paid for this; we just enjoy doing it," he said. "Some will have to come from Lansing and Troy, so we might have two members, and we might have twenty."

If many make it, he has no idea how long they'll stay because, as Reed explained, "The militia has a tendency to fire a volley and scatter."

Nolan named director of center programs

Martin Nolan has been named director of programs of the Plymouth Center for Human Development here by David Rosen, acting director.

He will be responsible for the overall operation of the Center's eight program units, and program support services.

Linda Gonzales has been named assistant director of programs. She will have responsibility for all afternoon shift programs throughout the agency.

Their appointments were effective Monday, June 12.

Both have come to Plymouth Center from the Macomb-Oakland Regional Center.

Prior to his service at MORC, Nolan was a program director at the Muskegon Regional Center for Developmental Disabilities. At MORC he was director of programs for developmental homes and services.

He has a master's degree in school administration from Western Michigan University.

Mrs. Gonzales was an assistant program director at Muskegon and a program director at MORC.

She also holds a master's degree in school administration from Western Michigan University.

Board denies license to Chinese restaurant

A plea for a liquor license by the owner of a planned Chinese restaurant here was denied Thursday by the Northville Township Board.

The request went down on a 6-0 vote, with Trustee Mark Lysinger being absent.

The liquor license was being sought by the China Fair Corporation, which has begun development of a Chinese Restaurant at Northville Plaza Mall on Seven Mile Road — in the quarters formerly occupied by Papa Geppeto's Restaurant.

Charles Hooper, attorney for the owner, said his client had already invested more than $130,000 in revamping the restaurant — including installation of $70,000 ovens.

Attempts to purchase the liquor license held by the owners of Papa Geppeto, a restaurant now in bankruptcy, have failed, said Hooper. The license has been placed in escrow by the State Liquor Control Commission and is unavailable for his client's use.

What was sought, therefore, was a separate new license.

Although China Fair intends to open August — whether the restaurant has a liquor license or not, Hooper noted that it could be the difference between a successful or an unsuccessful operation despite his client's outstanding reputation.

Lauding the owner as one of the finest Chinese restaurateurs in the nation, the attorney also said one of the "most famous" Chinese cooks in the world has been secured for the restaurant operation.

What concerns China Fair, he said, is that it will have competition from restaurants on either side of the plaza site — Northville Charley's and Little Caesar's, both with liquor licenses, he contended, would make the Chinese restaurant more competitive.

Furthermore, because of China Fair's reputation, it will have a demand for banquets, especially by Chinese who know the cook, and banquet business to be successful requires a liquor license, he said.

"People like to have a cocktail with their meal."

When it appeared the board would turn down the request, especially after Supervisor Wilson Grier indicated efforts were being made to "retrieve" the Papa Geppeto's license, Hooper asked that a decision be delayed until after the board had more opportunity to study his client's written proposal.

"For the sake of consistency," said Trustee James Nowka, "I will have to vote against it. I was opposed to it (the earlier license) in the beginning. Even though I believe Northville really needs a good restaurant, I cannot reconcile myself to vote for another license there."

As vote was taken, Grier emphasized that the action did not mean denial was "forever." "You may request it in the future," he said, "and we'll consider it. I wouldn't hound the board every month, however."

GOOD TIME WINE
by Jim Roth

Cheese and wine is an old European favorite, quickly rising in popularity here. One of the simplest, tastiest meals you can fix, there are endless combinations of cheeses and wines that can be served with or without a variety of fruits and vegetables. Some suggested combinations for an afternoon meal: A good blue cheese such as Roquefort, Canablu, or Bleu de Bresse, served with celery stalks and a robust red wine such as Chianti, Barbera, or Cabernet Sauvignon. Or try a fairly salty cheese, such as Feta, Banon, or Taleggio, with Greek olives, scallions, thinly sliced dry salami, and crusty bread, with Greek retsina wine or a very dry wine such as Pinot Noir.

If you would like more information on what wines to serve with cheeses and/or fruits and vegetables, be sure to ask our knowledgeable staff at GOOD TIME PARTY STORE, 567 Seven Mile Road, 349-1477. Plenty of convenient parking available and we have a fine assortment of party crackers, pretzels and potato chips. Hours: Mon. thru Sat. 9 a.m.-10 p.m., Sun. Noon-6 p.m.

Stone's reserves parking for expansion

Northville's city council moved rather swiftly (three hours) Monday night taking action on a number of items including:

- Approval of a merchant's request to reserve 35 offstreet parking spaces at the current $2,400 per space rate for expansion of his business later this year;
- Denial of reconsideration for rezoning of eight lots on South Center street from residential (R-2) to CBD (commercial);
- Approval of a contract with Oakland County for assessing services at an increased rate;
- Giving the O.K. to a proposal from the Jaycees to tear down the Jaycee-built fish hatchery building that was damaged by fire before it was completed;
- Making some appointments and reappointments to city commissions, while stalling on some others.

Robert Boshoven, owner of Stone's Unfinished Furniture Store, presented an updated plan for expansion of his business at Main and Hutton streets. It calls for the construction on nine small shops along the northern end of the property, a plan that was originally proposed in early 1976. He noted that it was his desire to reserve the necessary 35 offstreet parking spaces at the current price of $2,400 each. Effective July 1 the price per space will be increased to $3,000.

Boshoven said he would agree to start construction on the new building within six months.

City Manager Steve Walters noted that when the expansion plan was first considered between Boshoven and the city the cost per space was $1,800. The cost of offstreet parking spaces has since been increased to $2,000, then $2,400 and finally, $3,000 each on July 1, the manager pointed out.

The council asked City Attorney Philip Ogilvie if a contact between Boshoven and the city could be drawn providing reinstatement of the expansion plan prior to July 1 with the understanding that work will begin this year. Such an agreement would provide that assessment payments for the parking spaces would be due next July (1979) with interest beginning July 1, 1978.

The city attorney and manager were directed to draft the contract noting that if construction does not begin within the year the cost per space would become $3,000. Boshoven agreed to the arrangement.

Steve Folino brought a request for rezoning eight residential lots on the west side of South Center street north of Fairbrook from residential (R-2) to central business district. The proposal had been denied by the planning commission in a hearing last February.

At that time Folino said he had an opportunity to sell two of the lots he owns for commercial use. He said the deal was lost when the rezoning was denied.

He noted that all of the lot owners with the exception of the southern-most lot at Fairbrook favored the rezoning.

Councilman Burton DeRusha said he agreed completely with the planning commission's decision to deny the rezoning. "I think it's premature now. Maybe in the long run the area should be changed, but we shouldn't get involved in rezoning simply to bring about a sale at a higher price for the property," said DeRusha.

Mayor Paul Vernon was less firm in his position, stating that a planned commercial project for the area should be given consideration if presented in the future.

In response to Folino's inquiry as to the legality of commercial parking business being conducted on the lots, City Attorney Ogilvie said such business was legal as a non-conforming use, but that it could not be expanded.

On a motion by DeRusha seconded by Wallace Nichols the council voted 4-0 (Councilman Stanley Johnston was absent) against holding a public hearing on the proposed rezoning.

Noting it had little power to do otherwise because for the city to undertake its own assessing in Oakland county would be more costly, the council approved a hike from $2.40 per description per year for 1979 and 1980 to $3.00 for Oakland county to continue its assessing service. The new rate will cost the

In November election

Chamber supports vote on tax ceiling

The Northville Community Chamber of Commerce has climbed aboard the tax limitation bandwagon whose destination is the November general election.

The chamber announced this week that it supports a petition drive to place a constitutional amendment on the ballot which would place a ceiling on state taxes.

The petition drive, which got a boost when a tax revolt referendum passed easily in California, is reportedly within 60,000 names of the 266,000 signatures needed by July 10.

Unlike the California proposition, the Michigan amendment pushed by Taxpayers United for Tax Limitation would not reduce the tax rate but would prohibit it from taking a larger than current share of the state's personal income.

Last month, the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce asked local chambers to join in a drive to get 50,000 of the necessary signatures.

"The (Northville Chamber) board of directors voted their support for the constitutional amendment which would place property taxes and other local taxes, along with total state taxation and spending, under direct voter control by establishing revenue limits," said President Marge Cinader.

"Mandatory restraint on governmental revenues is believed to be both desirable and necessary and broad-based business community support of this objective is considered essential.

"We believe that tax limitation when coupled with the budget stabilization concept enacted in 1977 will normalize the growth of government by permitting expansion only in step with the taxpayers' ability and willingness to pay for the expansion."

The proposed amendment would prohibit local tax increases or new taxes without voter approval. It also would forbid the state from mandating new programs to local governments without providing the necessary funds.

The proposed amendment is similar to Proposition C which was defeated in the 1976 general election.

Taxpayers United for Tax Limitation has headquarters in Southfield. Its chairman is Richard H. Headlee, president of the Alexander Hamilton Insurance Company in Farmington.

Overall harmony is a constant goal when we add accessory and accent pieces to the furnishings of a room. It is relatively easy to secure when both furniture and accents are of the same period... more difficult, but usually far more interesting, is the harmony that results when we combine basics and accents of different styles and periods, harmonious because of pleasing, not warring contrasts. Pleasing contrasts are those that set an ornate against an unornamented design, dark against light, smooth against rough, and shiny against dull. Each element is more appealing because of the contrast than if it were surrounded by other items like itself.

Novi Gala Days are biggest ever

Novi's Jaycees are gearing up for the biggest Gala Days ever.

The annual summer festival sponsored by the Jaycees gets underway today (Wednesday) and runs through Sunday. The five-day festival will be held on the north side of Ten Mile, just east of Novi Road.

Activities run from 6 p.m. through 11 p.m. on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday. Gala Days will open at 10 a.m. and close at 11 p.m. on Saturday. Gates will open at 10 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. on Sunday.

Featured during the festivities will be a large midway, live entertainment at the beer tent sponsored by the Novi Lions Club, a chicken barbecue sponsored by the Jaycees, a flea market on Saturday and Sunday, a free pancake breakfast on Sunday, and two large fireworks displays.

Special attractions include an Odd-ball Olympics in which local residents will attempt to add their names to the Guinness Book of World Records and an "Almost Anything Goes" competition between various local clubs, organizations, and homeowners' associations.

"It ought to be a heckuva good time for just about everybody," commented Gala Days Chairman Bruce Rautiola who has been working on plans for the last eight months.

Here's the schedule of Gala Day activities.

Wednesday, June 21

Gala Days opens at 6 p.m. Activities will be kicked off with a fireworks display at dusk. The fireworks have been donated by Pace Fireworks.

Thursday, June 22

Gala Day activities begin at 6 p.m. The first series of events in the Odd-ball Olympics will run from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. as local residents attempt to place their names in the Guinness Book of World Records. Oddball Olympic events include potato chip stacking, lemon eating, and hopping on one leg.

A rock group will perform in the Lions Beer Tent from 9 p.m. until midnight.

Friday, June 23

Gala Days opens at 6 p.m. The second series of events in the Oddball Olympics will run from 6-7 p.m.

The first elimination round in the "Almost Anything Goes" competition will run from 7-8:30 p.m. Various local teams will be competing for top honors in the event.

The Ban-Joes, featuring the music of 30 banjo players, will perform in the Lions beer tent from 9 p.m. until midnight.

Saturday, June 24

Gala Days opens at 9 a.m. Residents are invited to buy, sell, and swap at the flea market from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Limited space in the flea market is still available and interested individuals should contact the Jaycees at the Gala Days command post trailer on the grounds.

Residents can have their blood pressure checked at the Novi Chamber of Commerce booth from 2-6 p.m. Blood pressures will be checked by staff from the Novi Medical Center.

The Novi Jaycees' chicken barbecue will begin at 5 p.m. and run through 8 p.m. The Jaycees are planning a delicious menu and have promised a tasty meal for the whole family at reasonable prices.

Another round in the "Almost Anything Goes" competition will run from 6-8 p.m. A special team of radio personalities from WCAR will test their skills against teams of local residents.

A country-western band is slated to perform in the Lions beer tent from 9 p.m. to midnight.

Sunday, June 25

Gala Days opens at 10 a.m. The second day of the flea market will get underway when gates open and last throughout the day until Gala Days closes at 7 p.m.

In appreciation of community support, the Jaycees will host a free pancake breakfast from 10 a.m. until noon. Food has been donated by various local merchants and the Jaycees are prepared to serve up breakfast to more than 1,000 hungry residents.

Finals in the "Almost Anything Goes" competition will begin at 5 p.m. The 1978 champion is slated to be crowned at approximately 6:30 p.m.

The 1978 Gala Days will officially close at approximately 7 p.m.

Clarke, Canterbury named Ely recipients

The tables were turned on two longtime members of the Claude N. Ely Foundation board of directors this year.

Since the Claude N. Ely Memorial Award was initiated in memory of Northville's last village president and first city mayor in 1958, A. Russell Clarke and John S. Canterbury have been active in selecting the annual winners.

They have served as directors along with the mayor, superintendent of schools and school board president.

This year Superintendent Raymond Spear, Board President John Hobart, Mayor Paul Vernon and A. M. Allen, the ex-mayor, decided Canterbury and Clarke deserved recognition.

So they were declared co-winners this year of the Claude N. Ely Memorial Award. Normally, it is presented at the Michigan Week mayor's exchange dinner. But this year neither of the recipients were able to attend.

In conjunction with the memorial recognition three cash awards of $35 each were given from the Ely Fund to John Eltinge, Amy Vargo and Bob Krinsky, all graduates of Northville High School class of 1978. The checks were presented at the school's annual Honors Convocation ceremonies.

Both Canterbury and Clarke have long records of community service in Northville. The former served as a city councilman for 12 years and was one of the creators as well as past president of the Northville Area Economic Development Committee. Canterbury recently retired from Ford Motor Company where he was executive director, supply staff.

Clarke is the retired vice president of the Northville branch of Manufacturers Bank. Back in the village days he was Northville treasurer. He has served on countless committees and, like Canterbury, was a longtime working member of the Economic Development Committee.

Increase doubles this revenue

'Registration fees' to aid Schoolcraft's budget

There will be no property tax increase and no tuition increase.

But Schoolcraft College students are likely to see a set of "registration fee" increases when they enroll in August for the fall semester.

Trustee Mark McQuesten lodged a vigorous dissent when the administration Wednesday said it was considering registration fees of $5 per credit hour for credit courses and $3 per hour for community service courses for the fall and winter semester.

The fees would be $2.50 and $1.50 respectively for the shorter spring and summer semesters.

Edward McNally, vice-president for student affairs, said the fees are justified because "an additional burden has been placed on the staff and registration costs have risen" with the increasingly popular mail-in registration system.

President C. Nelson Grote said neighboring Colleges are levying even higher fees.

McQuesten, however, called it the equivalent of a tuition increase. "It's a cost, and what you're saying is, 'Let's throw it at the students.'"

No one else on the eight-member board objected. The administration has authority to levy the fees without board approval and presented the proposal as a matter of courtesy.

The increased fees would double the amount of revenue Schoolcraft receives from that source — from the current $95,000 annually to about $195,000. Other fees are for laboratory use, commencement, transcripts, applications, physical education and music and would be unchanged.

The fee hike was the only major percentage increase in the $11.2 million budget proposed to the board by Dr. Grote and Kenneth Lindner, vice-president for business.

Lindner said the new budget is up 7.8 percent and projects a "modest" credit hour growth of one percent.

Trustees will take up the budget in a June 21 meeting and conduct a public hearing, as required by the state constitution, at 7 p.m. Wednesday, June 28.

Percentage-wise, the budget would earmark 56 percent for instruction ($6.3 million), up from the current year's 54.4 percent.

Lindner said the budget will provide for salary increase being negotiated with the secretaries union and for three new full time instructors — in math, child care and apprenticeship. It will also provide for $175,000 in maintenance and $230,000 for equipment.

But the budget cannot "continue to support a 10-sport athletic program; hire five full time instructors as requested in mathematics, music, business, technical and library; provide all of the technicians requested in instruction; and fund completely all our equipment replacement requests."

The Faculty Forum, bargaining agent for instructors, asked a reversal of what it saw as a trend since 1972 toward reducing the portion of the budget for instruction.

"Instructional money has continually declined to a low of 46.4 percent of the general fund in 1976-7," said William Nickels, Forum president.

"That is a low of 10 percent in four years. While enrollments and costs have increased, instructional supply budgets have barely held their own, and faculty salaries have lost nine percent of the budget."

This brought a 17-point retort by President Grote, who said the Forum used a "very narrow definition of faculty and a very broad definition of administration" when calculating costs.

Grote said the Forum lumped counselors and librarians, which the Forum represents, with administration in concluding that the faculty's share of the budget has failed to keep pace.

Among reasons for changes in the non-instruction part of the budget, he said, are: Utility costs are up disproportionately; insurance has risen greatly; community services and continuing education courses, which are self-supporting, have become a greater part of Schoolcraft's program; and the college's program at the Detroit House of Correction, which is reimbursed by the state, has come into the budget.

Meanwhile, Grote said, the college has had to budget funds such new facilities as the new Applied Sciences Building, the Liberal Arts addition, the outdoor physical education area, 30 more acres of vacant land which requires mowing, child care center costs, and a senior adult center.

Moreover, he added, there have been disproportionately increased costs for worker's compensation, unemployment compensation, and social security along with full funding of teachers' retirement.

In addition, as the college has aged, funds must be set aside for maintenance and equipment. Grote said the Forum also failed to consider that the computer center, which is charged entirely to the business office, also serves instruction, but accounting procedures aren't sophisticated enough to charge a portion of the costs to instruction.

"Instruction is our first priority... whether that's understood or appreciated by the faculty," he said.

Launch study on cost of DeHoCo take-over

Study of cost involved with the proposed take-over of the Detroit House of Correction by Wayne County has been launched.

Commissioners Mary E. Dumas, who represents Northville, and Richard E. Manning, Redford-Livonia, have been appointed to the newly formed board of commissioners corrections committee to come up with specific recommendations on the multi-million costs of housing county inmates.

The study grows out of a recent announcement by the City of Detroit of its plan to close DeHoCo on December 1.

"The City of Detroit wants to get out of the jail business, stating that it is the responsibility of Wayne County to provide prisons for those convicted of state misdemeanor and municipal ordinance violations," Manning explained.

Detroit has operated the facility since 1861 when it was located on the current site of Eastern Market. The prison facility was moved to the Northville area in the 1920's.

"A December 1 county take-over of DeHoCo creates enormous financial problems for the county, which already faces an $8 to $12 million budget deficit this year," said Mrs. Dumas.

"The county will have to spend at least $2.8 million annually to operate DeHoCo, plus the costs of purchase and renovation," she said.

"If the county takes over this facility, it will require a major remodeling job to meet new state and federal prison standards," Manning noted. "But, for starters, the City of Detroit's asking price is $18 million!"

Detroit Mayor Coleman A. Young had asked Jerrette Simmons, chairman of the county board of commissioners, to appoint a committee to discuss Young's request and to handle similar responsibilities previously delegated to the board's new jail construction subcommittee.

In addition to the DeHoCo transfer, the corrections subcommittee will oversee the construction of the county's new $31.7 million prison in downtown Detroit.

DeHoCo is located on both sides of Five Mile Road — the southern side in Plymouth Township, the northern side in Northville Township.

11 receive diplomas at MSU graduation

Eleven Northville residents were among the nearly 5000 Michigan State University students who received degrees at the Spring commencement exercises on the East Lansing campus on June 10.

The 11 and their degrees are:

Paul Allberry, 18547 Jamestown Circle, BS in criminal justice; Linda Daniels, 41615 Sutters Lane, BA in humanities; Kathleen Donner, 824 Revere Court, BA in telecommunications;

Matthew Gellner, 390 Maplewood, BA in

The latter side of the institution was closed last year with the moving of state female inmates to a new facility near Ypsilanti. It is this already vacant section of the prison that the state would like to purchase for establishment of a new state prison facility for male inmates.

DeHoCo on the south side of Five Mile is the prison facility that Detroit plans to close December 1. Male prisoners housed there come from throughout the county, serving relatively short sentences of up to one year in length.

Originally, the state planned to purchase the also vacant Wayne County Child Development Center facilities and lands on both sides of Sheldon Road.

One of Northville Superintendent Raymond Spear's gifts at his farewell party Thursday night was a two-year subscription to "his favorite newspaper," The Northville Record. The gift was announced on a press plate which depicts some of the many headlines and pictures of Spear during his 16 years in Northville.

'Super' departing

Party fetes Ray Spear

More than 200 friends and family said farewell to Northville Superintendent Raymond Spear Thursday night at the Meadowbrook Country Club.

Spear, who will become DeWitt's superintendent after 16 years in Northville, found a few surprises waiting for him when the party started Thursday night.

First, his parents, Carl and Dot, had been secretly brought in from New Hampshire. Spear did not know they were in the state until he arrived at the country club Thursday night.

Second, the departing superintendent learned that he won't be up the river without a paddle when he moves to DeWitt. Organizers of the party gave Spear a canoe as a surprise gift.

Former board member Roger Nieuwkoop was emcee for the night and took the opportunity to land a few well-placed barbs at just about everyone including past and present board members, The Northville Record, Spear and himself.

The party was organized by Louise Robinson, Barbara LeBoeuf, Karen Wilkinson and Marion Zayti.

Pair ace Miami courses

Two Northville youngsters were among 370 Miami of Ohio students who made the University President's list by achieving a straight-A average for the second semester of the 1977-78 academic year.

21967 Bedford Drive.

To be eligible for the President's List, a student must successfully complete 12 or more hours during the semester.

Just who's fit?

These four are

Four Northville youngsters have been awarded the Presidential Physical Fitness Award, the highest recognition of a student's superior fitness level.

Gay Wagner, a fifth grader at Moraine Elementary School, and Northville High School sophomores Kathy Phillips, Renee Miller and Audrey Rigneur all received the award.

The American Alliance for Health, Physical Education and Recreation Youth Fitness Test is a battery of six tests designed to measure physical fitness for both girls and boys.

The tests evaluate specific aspects of the physical status which, when taken together, give an overall picture of the young person's general fitness, according to Moraine physical education teacher Karen Turner.

"This is the only fitness test for which national norms have been determined," she said. "The test items are bent arm hang for girls, pull-ups for boys, sit-ups, standing long jump, shuttle run, 50-yard dash and one mile run."

All fifth and sixth grade girls and boys at Moraine were tested this spring. Sophomore students of Pat Bubel and Ben Lauber were tested at the high school.

Area survey reflects strong anti-crime mood

Northwestern Wayne County residents overwhelmingly support mandatory prison sentences for hardened criminals, and favor building more facilities to house prisoners, according to a survey conducted by State Senator Bob Geake (R-Northville).

The survey was mailed in April to 71,000 households in the 14th Senatorial District which Senator Geake represents. It included questions asking whether more mandatory minimum sentencing laws should be enacted by the Legislature, and whether more prisons should be built in our state. Out of the 10 percent of returns received (most of which contained responses from two or three voters per household), 96.6 percent favored mandatory sentencing for career criminals, and 83.1 percent supported increased prison construction.

"I view my constituents' support for mandatory sentencing and more prisons as an indication of their unwillingness to continue living in fear of crime. They clearly want to see hardened criminals put behind bars," Senator Geake commented. "I believe their intolerance of those who make a life out of menacing law-abiding citizens is entirely justified."

Senator Geake pointed out that the results of separate statewide survey, released recently by the state Office of Criminal Justice Programs, showed the greatest fear of crime exists among residents of Detroit-area suburbs, as well as among those living in and around other major outstate cities.

"There's perhaps no worse feeling than fear — fear to go out during the day or night because we might become a criminal's next victim," he noted.

The Geake survey also revealed that a large majority of Northwestern Wayne County residents think the voters should have an opportunity to vote on whether to reinstate the death penalty in Michigan.

In addition, 14th Senatorial District residents voiced their opposition to outlawing private ownership of handguns in Michigan. By a margin of 61.9 to 38.1 percent, they sided with the argument that honest citizens would be left more defenseless than ever against criminals if they were prohibited from owning handguns.

Your automobile probably weighs over a ton and a half. It may have from 200 to 300 Horsepower. At 30 miles per hour, it covers 44 feet each second. It is potentially a deadly weapon, especially if the driver doesn't see perfectly!

One defect in vision that can cause tragedy is "tunnel vision" or the lack of good side vision. It sometimes occurs even where central vision (straight ahead vision) is good. This condition comes on slowly and the victim is often unaware of the deficiency. With poor side vision, you may not see the driver pulling out of a driveway or a pedestrian stepping off a curb.

Periodic eye examinations are the only way to be sure your vision is normal.

Environmentalists oppose super sewer

By DAVID RAY

While most of the local officials of Oakland County Communities that are still included in super sewer have indicated support for the controversial interceptor and wastewater treatment plant project, two conservation organizations have taken a stand against the regional plan.

Both groups — the East Michigan Environmental Action Council (EMEAC) and the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC) — have come out in favor of an alternative for a decentralized approach to wastewater treatment.

According to John Spurr of EMEAC, his organization opposes super sewer because it could lead to "unreasonable over-sewering of areas where it's not required, based on unrealistic population projections."

Specifically, Spurr said that super sewer would be environmentally harmful because it crosses the Huron and Rouge river watershed lines and would have "serious impacts in those watershed areas and Lake Erie," in addition to the "enormous cost" of the project.

While the cost of super sewer was estimated at some $147-million two years ago, the EMEAC spokesman said the expense probably is now in the "hundreds and hundreds of million dollars. It is certainly costlier than it has to be since much of the cost is for pipe and not for treatment."

Spurr, who is studying the Saginaw Bay area on a grant from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) for the Cranbrook Institute of Science, said much of the opposition to super sewer has originated in the downriver Detroit area.

"The farther away (from the proposed treatment plant), there is less opposition because the problems aren't as visible," he said.

A major concern of those who oppose the project is its impact on Lake Erie, Spurr explained.

"There are times when treatment just won't be accomplished because of the size of this project," he said. "The people down here relate to Lake Erie and the Huron River. They've seen what comes down the Detroit River and they don't want to grossly pollute Lake Erie."

And, since storm water runoff could mix with sanitary sewage in the interceptor line, Spurr said the project would have a disastrous effect on river levels.

"Storm water is necessary to maintain the river levels," he said, "and the rivers will dry up if they don't get that runoff. (Super sewer) would drastically affect water flow in the rivers."

Of the five alternatives for super sewer now being studied by the EPA and Wapora, Incorporated, its Chicago-based consulting firm, Spurr said one plan calls for more local control of treatment facilities.

"EMEAC is in favor of the decentralized program and we'd like to see a watershed type approach," he added.

While some opponents of super sewer have cited urban sprawl as an argument against the project, Spurr said that growth is not really an issue "except that the population projections they are using are unrealistic."

Meanwhile, MUCC Executive Director Thomas L. Washington, in a May, 1977 letter to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR), stated his organization's opposition to super sewer.

While the MUCC has recognized that wastewater treatment in the Huron River Valley area is a problem and must be solved, Washington said that the decentralized alternative is the only one that "adequately protects the environment and satisfies the objections of the (federal clean water act)."

That plan, he continued, "is the only proposal that significantly benefits Lake Erie," which, under the clean water act, has "shown considerable improvement and is again regaining its reputation as a great lake rather than an open sewer."

The decentralized alternative "assures the continued improvement of Lake Erie," Washington said, while the regional proposals "assure a halt to the lake's recovery."

Further, the MUCC executive director said, the decentralized alternative "concentrates on the problem — wastewater treatment — while the other alternatives rely on bigger sewers and sewage pumps."

The regional approach, he said, endorses the principle "out of sight, out of mind," and added that, under that approach, "the water quality of Lake Erie will continue to suffer."

Also, he said, under the regional plans, one "super plant" would be built to provide secondary treatment of effluent, while the decentralized plan calls for up-grading six existing wastewater plants to tertiary treatment levels.

Recent EPA studies indicate that "secondary plants" treat only 85 percent of the wastewater, while the up-graded facilities would have a higher capacity.

Washington noted that, "considering the rate of technological change and improved techniques in wastewater treatment in the past few years, it makes more sense to upgrade existing plants rather than abandoning a large capital investment and committing ourselves to another even larger capital investment that will require extensive upgrading in the future as more stringent effluent standards become necessary."

Those costs would be incurred, if the super plant has to be converted to tertiary treatment capabilities to meet new federal standards, he said.

The MUCC executive director also noted that the decentralized plan would augment the flow of the Huron River to help correct a problem of the effects of low flow. The increased flow would "promote wildlife and (reduce) pollution of Lake Erie." The regional plans, he said, would decrease the already low flow.

The decentralized alternative "provides the greatest benefit to the water quality of both Lake Erie and the Huron Valley," Washington said.

Nothing but winners at ISEP Field Day

Hundreds meet at Burger

Roy Brown wasn't thinking of visionary dreams, landmark events or even the hot dogs and watermelon he had for lunch.

More likely, he was wondering what he was doing in the middle of the pack during a 50-yard dash.

Brown, one of several hundred retarded youngsters to participate in an ambitious Field Day last week, had spent weeks training for long-distance running.

"He ran around the schoolyard," said Betty Jo Harris, an instruction aide at Parkway School where Brown attends classes.

"At first, he couldn't get around once," she said.

But after determined practice, Brown built up his endurance to the point where he was ready to shine Wednesday. Then the event was cancelled and he was stuck in the shorter dash.

No matter. Once the race was over, he and Ms. Harris took off hand-in-hand for their own long distance running.

Together, oblivious to the competition about them, they loped around the football field. Once, twice, three times before coming to rest.

"He's my pride," Ms. Harris said of Brown, obviously pleased with the way her prized student had run his race.

Pride, care, fun, enjoyment, affection and perhaps a little boredom. Those were the characteristics of the Field Day at Garden City's Burger School that organizers hope to make an annual event.

Brown, like most of the youngsters, lives at the Plymouth Center for Human Development, a state institution for the mentally retarded located in Northville Township.

Earlier this year, a long series of Detroit Free Press articles detailed sexual and physical abuse at the center. Some of the alleged victims of those assaults were among the children racing, pushing food carts, jumping and throwing balls about Burger Field Wednesday.

The Plymouth Center residents, as are those from the Northville Residential Training Center, attend the Institution Special Education Program (ISEP) at eight area locations.

Funded by the state and run by the Northville School district, ISEP is the result of a state law that mandates an education to all handicapped citizens of the state up to the age of 26.

"This is just an example of that dream being fulfilled," said Leonard Rezmierski, Northville's director of special education.

A Field Day of this scope — it involved several hundred retarded youngsters, many with additional handicaps including those who are blind, deaf or confined to wheelchairs — is not without logistics problems.

The opening parade was delayed for about an hour just waiting for buses to arrive. The field was liberally dotted with portable johns and several instructors spent much of the day escorting youngsters to the makeshift barrier-free bathroom set up under a tent in the southeast corner.

Some of the kids were entered in only one event and had little to do the rest of the day. But that's a nitpicking detail that can be corrected in future events.

The real story was the joy of the youngster in the wheelchair races, the glee of Alan Wims' face when Detroit Piston Assistant Coach Mike Brunker showed him how to pass a ball behind his back, and the fact, as one observer noted, that there was no pity, only affection, for each of the children.

Rezmierski had praise for the Garden City police, fire and emergency services department who volunteered time and vehicles.

"That says a lot about people who care," he said.

The Field Day was the brainchild of physical education teachers who wanted an extension of what goes on daily at their classes.

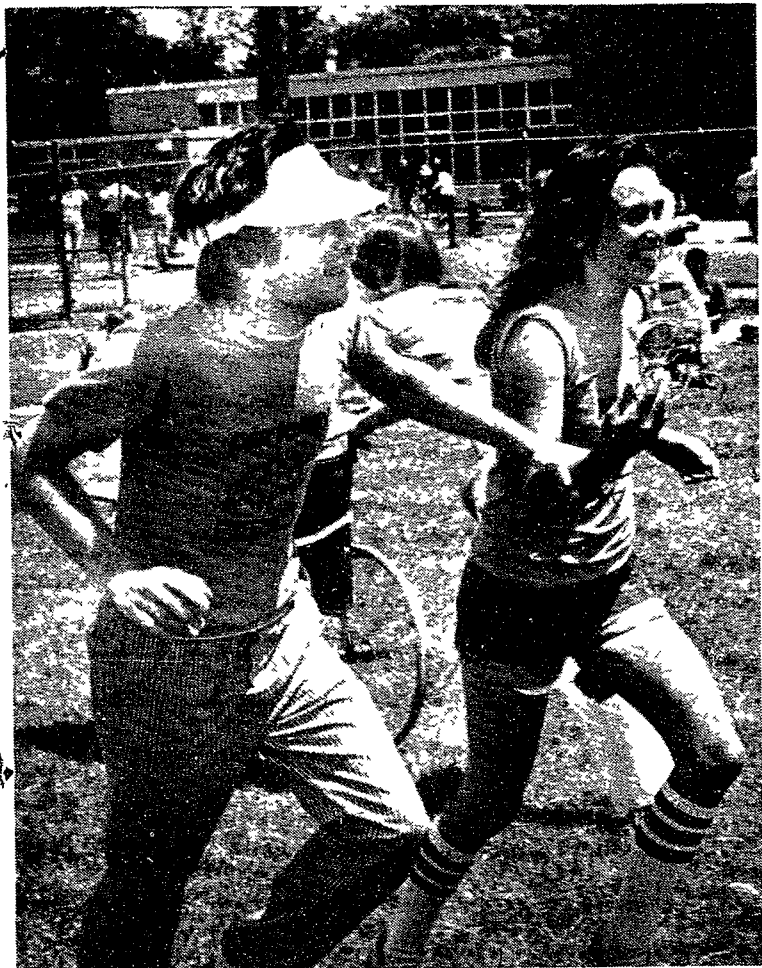

"Our kids at our annual field events are all winners," said Rezmierski. Each received a ribbon.

Besides the opportunity for exercise, the Field Day was also an old-fashioned good time.

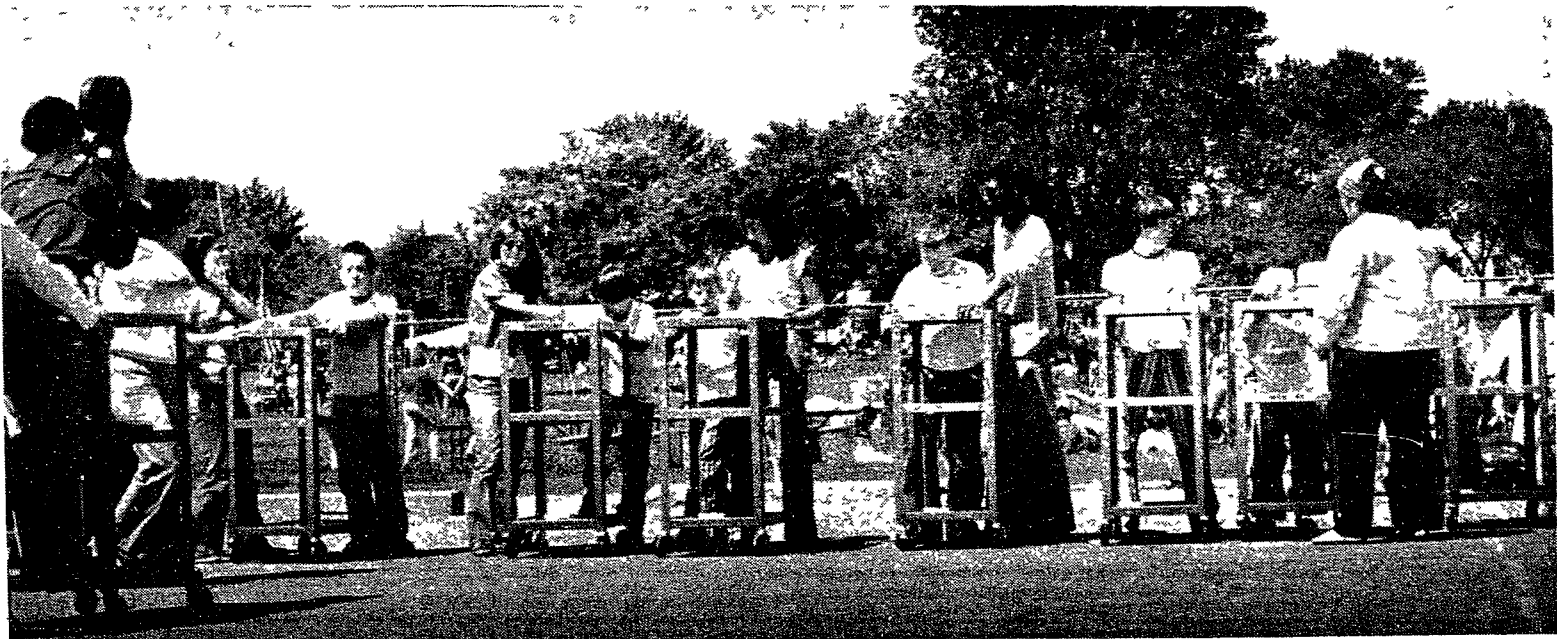

"These kids know they can eat a lot more than they usually do," said one aide as she watched youngsters sneak an additional hot dog or helping of ice cream or watermelon.

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, The Order of Alhambra is a fraternal organization of our community who are giving of their time and talents, and efforts to help the mentally retarded; and

WHEREAS, These members of this fraternal organization give freely of themselves without any thought of praise or of being repaid, and

WHEREAS, The day of June 21st, is being set aside as the "Alhambra Day" to entertain approximately 6,000 persons, consisting of the mentally retarded and their attendants.

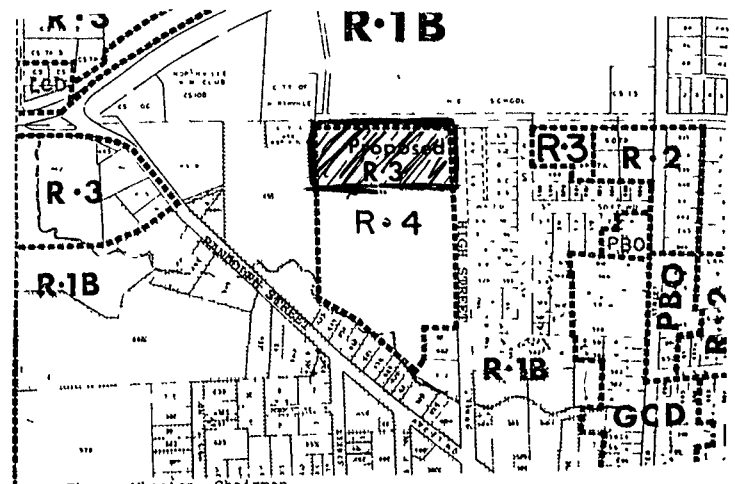

NOW, THEREFORE, I PAUL R. VERNON, Mayor of the City of Northville do hereby proclaim June 21, 1978 as "ALHAMBRA DAY" and urge all citizens to recognize the dedicated services of this fraternal organization.

CITY OF NORTHVILLE NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING JULY 11, 1978 8:00 P.M.

The Planning Commission for the City of Northville will hold a Public Hearing Tuesday, July 11, 1978, at 8:00 p.m., in the City Hall, on Petition of the City of Northville to consider the rezoning from R-4 (Fourth Density Residential) to R-3 (Third Density Residential) the north 250 feet of Lot 636.

Lot 636 is described as follows:

Northville Assessors Plan No. 6, T1S, R8E, L66, P40, Wayne County Rolls.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING NORTHVILLE DOWNTOWN DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY ORDINANCE

Notice is hereby given that the Northville City Council will hold a public hearing on Monday, July 24, 1978, at 8:00 p.m. in the Municipal Building, 215 W. Main Street, to consider the adoption of an ordinance to establish the Northville Downtown Development Authority as follows:

AN ORDINANCE TO ADD A NEW CHAPTER 12 TO ARTICLE II OF THE CODE OF ORDINANCES OF THE CITY OF NORTHVILLE, FOR THE PURPOSE OF ESTABLISHING A DOWNTOWN DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY PURSUANT TO ACT NO. 197 OF THE PUBLIC ACTS OF 1975; AND DESIGNATING THE BOUNDARIES OF THE DISTRICT WITHIN WHICH THE AUTHORITY SHALL OPERATE.

The City of Northville ordains:

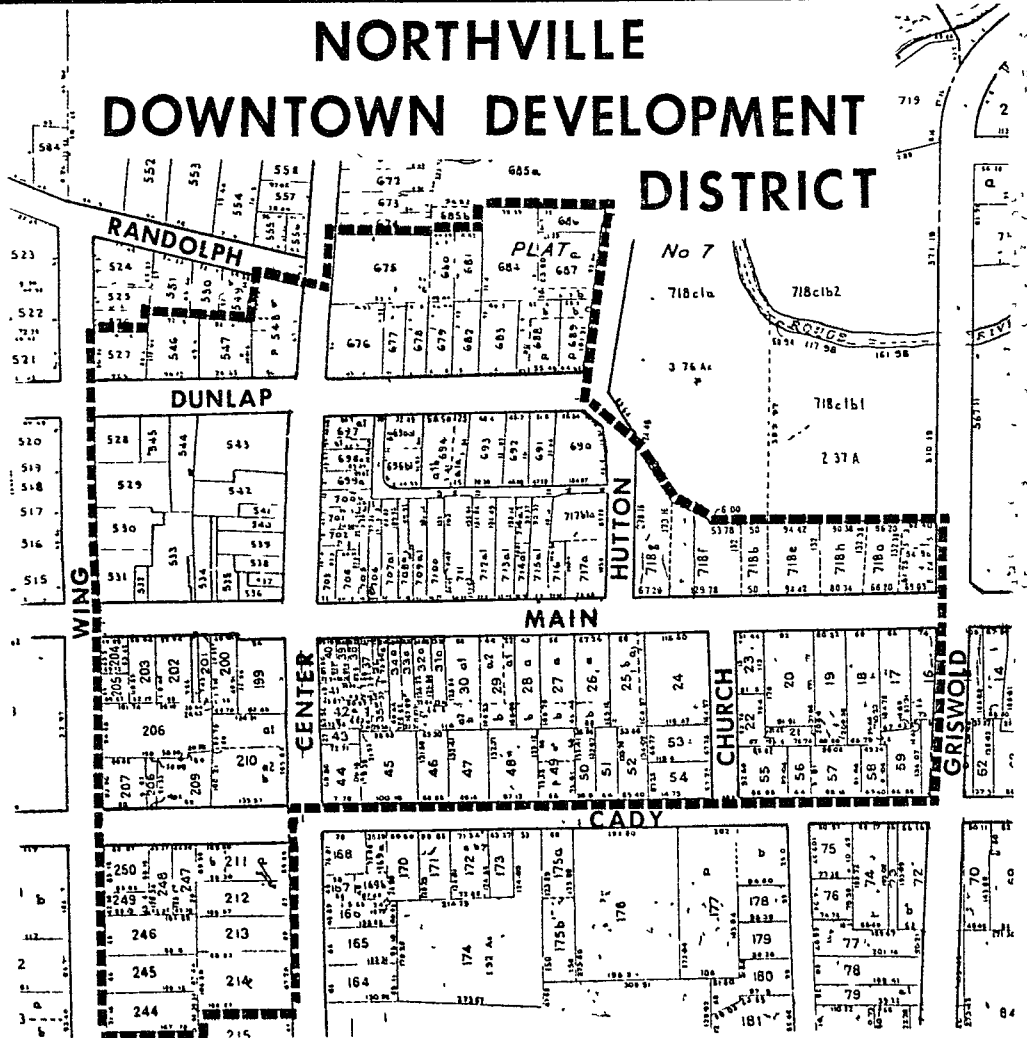

- Section 1. Short Title
- Section 2. Purpose of Authority
- Section 3. References in Act 197, P.A. 1975
- Section 4. Powers and Duties of Authority
- Section 5. Boundaries of the District
- Section 6. Director's Bond
- Section 7. Severability
- Section 8. Effective Date

A complete copy of the proposed ordinance is on file for public inspection in the office of the City Clerk.

The Downtown Development District, within which the Authority is proposed is the Ordinance to exercise its powers and duties, is described as follows:

Those parts of Assessor's Plats No. 1, 3, 6 and 7, City of Northville, County of Wayne, State of Michigan, specifically described as follows:

It's been more years than I like to admit since taking rod and reel in hand. Decades at least.

But I keep telling our resident fisherman at The Record, Jack Hoffman, that as a 12-year-old I hauled in a five-pound bass one dark night on Beadle Lake in Battle Creek.

He guffaws. Hoffman fishes a lot. But he never produces any evidence of catching anything.

I remember back in my fishing days that we would share our huge catches with friends. And I've probably told Hoffman a hundred times that if he ever had more (cleaned) fish than he needed, he could feel free to drop a batch off at my house.

But I'm serving notice that he can keep his fish, if indeed he ever catches any. I just bought a rod and reel and am coming out of retirement.

I love fishing. Especially since my golf game has deteriorated to disgraceful shambles.

Fishing today has to be a cinch compared to the "old days." We'd spend half of our time untangling backlashes. Try that sometime in the dark, especially after a long cast when you've just heard a big bass strike at your trusty, floating black mouse lure.

It's impossible to foul up the new spinning reels.

And the boats. Whatever happened to the good old, heavy wooden rowboats with oars that left you arm-weary by the time you reached the best fishing spots?

If you were ever lucky enough to use an outboard motor, you would end up rowing after wearing out the starter cord.

I tested the old fishing techniques last weekend. And I can report mild success: one strike, no fish. But it's all coming back to me now and soon I'll probably be dropping off a batch of (uncleaned) fish to Hoffman.

Perhaps my fondest boyhood memories are of the days spent hunting and fishing with a now-deceased second cousin, Barney Holds of Battle Creek.

He was a mountain of a man and a true outdoorsman. He taught me to hunt, fish and play cribbage. He was a trouble shooter for Consumers Power Company, which in the Battle Creek area provides electrical service. And I can remember many nights when Barney was "on call" that he would take me along to watch while he scaled a utility pole to make repairs.

But June 25, the opening of fishing season in those days, was the time I looked forward to. Somehow, Barney always managed to arrange his work schedule so that he was off duty when fishing season began.

It was almost like a ritual. His wife, my cousin Gladys, would prepare a large dinner on the night of June 24th. Then we'd be joined by another fishing buddy, Vern, who, like Barney, was an "oldtimer" of about 35.

From about eight until 11 o'clock we'd play three-handed cribbage. Then we would take off for Beadle Lake.

Exactly at midnight we would begin casting for bass. That would last perhaps four hours. And like I've told Hoffman, we'd always catch our limit, which as I recall was five apiece.

Then we'd go ashore and drive to an all-night restaurant for breakfast. At the break of dawn it was back to the lake for two or three hours of bluegill fishing, limit 25.

Sometimes after sleeping all day we'd repeat the process.

In the fall and winter we would hunt pheasant and rabbits and fish through the ice.

Barney swore like blazes and told more dirty jokes than any man I've ever met.

But he was a gentle giant who was a whale of a father-substitute.

He also taught me that it's all right to lie about fishing.

Thousands of area residents will enjoy the Fourth of July at home, thanks to the efforts of the Jaycees.

As usual, it will be an old fashioned celebration with a long parade followed by a chicken barbecue and a host of other attractions.

Naturally, fireworks will cap off the daylong events.

It shouldn't surprise us to learn (see letter on opposite page) that the cost of Fourth of July celebrations is going up. And while the Jaycees are happy to give their time to a worthwhile community project, they are a little short of money.

They're asking for donations to help defray costs.

Whether we are planning to attend or not, those of us who reside in the community know full well the value of such a program. Everyone of us should make our "reservations" by sending one, two or five dollars to the Jaycees.

That would demonstrate to the Jaycees that we appreciate their efforts and want them to continue their sponsorship of the Fourth of July celebrations.

Legislation creating mandatory compliance to require smoke detectors is the only solution to present day complacency.

It is unfortunate that the general public assumes that tragedies only happen to other people, but it is a fact repeated constantly that indifference, particularly on the part of the parents, contributes to such a great extent to children needlessly becoming a statistic.

Individuals involved in dwelling fires are generally unconscious from the effects of smoke before becoming a fatality from the fire itself. The thing that amazes me is the total indifference on the part of a great many people in relation to fires. How many children have been taught emergency routes from a dwelling and other pertinent instructions to minimize panic and lessen the possibility of needless fatalities?

It is inconceivable considering the competitive low cost of smoke alarms and the ease of installation that anyone would consider this lifesaving device beyond their means or a major installing project.

To state that compliance is mandatory and to create an enforceable ordinance becomes an extremely frustrating situation. I agree that compulsory approval from the homeowner to inspect the smoke detector would be considered by many as an invasion of privacy, but to what extent could you expect voluntary cooperation to comply?

I would suggest that failure to cooperate with a qualified inspector would become a matter of record and assumption on the part of the inspector that no smoke detector was installed. In the event that a fire occurred in the dwelling without a smoke detector, whether personal injury was involved or not, the homeowner would be subject to a fine in an amount to discourage any further non-compliance.

NO . . .

Smoke detectors are perhaps the single greatest device yet devised to save lives in the home. This is true as long as the smoke detectors are properly installed and maintained, and assumes that they are of the type which has been determined to be safe for use around people.

The problem with mandating the use of smoke detectors in private homes is in the enforcement. Enforcements is relatively straightforward with new construction. It is a simple matter for a building inspector to check the smoke detector installation at the same time the final inspection is made.

It is a different story in existing homes. Either some means must be developed requiring the installation of smoke detectors at the time of improvements to the house or when the house is sold to a new owner or a flat requirement imposed that all houses must be equipped with smoke detectors by some predetermined date.

The requirement of adding smoke detectors at the time of home improvements or at the time of the sale of the house would also be relatively straightforward by means of an automatic inspection.

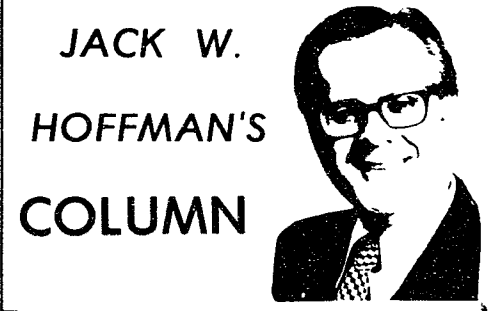

Verifying the installation of smoke detectors by a predetermined date is impractical if not impossible for at least two reasons: (1) the cost in manpower and time makes it prohibitive, and (2) without invading everyone's privacy or through voluntary invitations to the inspector, verification could not be made.

The installation of smoke detectors in new construction is already mandatory through the building codes, but installation in existing home should remain on a voluntary basis.

Time and places change but memories, muted, live on.

They came flooding back as I read The Flint Journal's recollection of the tornado that destroyed my native town.

One hundred and sixteen killed. Many hundreds more injured, many seriously. Three hundred homes demolished. Two hundred and fifty houses damaged. Whole neighborhoods where I spend my teens sucked up in an instant and scattered across a scarred landscape.

A quarter century has passed since the twister struck the Beecher area at the northern boundary of Flint in June of 1953.

Fortunately, I was spared a first-hand experience and my parents, brother and sister and our home escaped. The indistinguishable funnel, which resembled a boiling, earth-hugging cloud swept east along Coldwater Road, between former Northville mayor Mike Allen's monument business on the south and our home on the north.

It plowed through the gas station at Clio Road but spared the next door dairy where I had scooped ice cream as a teen, then hopped along the road on its easterly path.

It bent and uprooted giant trees in the woods behind our home, where my parents watched in horror from a basement window, and then began its devastating attack on houses and occupants and frightened motorists as it approached Saginaw Street—the main artery into Flint.

In its brief but stunning existence, the tornado took the lives of several personal friends, injured dozens of others, and all but destroyed the high school where three years earlier Edgar Guest challenged my graduating class not to fear the future but rather to shape it.

A few tried reshaping Beecher following the tragedy, but most of the survivors moved away. One member of the class who heard Guest's challenge came back to become prin-

Long swing into summer

Readers Speak

Why favor builders over citizens?

To the Editor:
Why—
Why is it this way?
Why must residents continue to live with and accept developments they do not want? Time and again, citizens go before their respective planning and township boards, requesting modifications and limitations on proposed developments. Time and again the developer leaves the meetings with his wishes being granted and approved.
Invariably the answer to the residents (and taxpayers) is the developer has met the requirements as specified by our "Master Plan." Revisions in 1974-75 cut lot sizes of sections in Northville Township by 57? These revisions were made without the knowledge of many concerned citizens. Therefore, Northville continues to expand as its neighboring communities already have — housing developments close together and in continuous rows.

Why does our township government seem to prefer to give preference to the developers rather than giving preference to its interested citizens who really pay the bills and only wish to better their community?
What a disappointment — to find one is fighting their elected officials rather than finding them a source of help and support!
Last night, we attended Thursday's township meeting concerning North Beacon Woods and its tentative approval of development plans on 8 Mile Road. Citizens living in the surrounding subdivisions made various suggestions and requests of the board and the developer. In spite of the citizen's requests, the board unanimously granted tentative approval to the developer's plan.

The citizen's intentions were to make North Beacon Woods more esthetic and more similar to its surrounding area. Homes in subdivisions adjoining the proposed North Beacon Woods development are on 1/2 to 1 acre lots. The new development will have lots sized under 1/2 acre.
It is alarming to note that nearly all the open space in the township is currently for sale or on the planning board for development. Certainly as the developments grow, our township government must be responsible to see that Northville Township does not become another "ugly suburb" but rather remains the charming community it has always been.

Why not listen to some of the Northville Township citizens and their appeals?

Plan ignores convenience

To the Editor:
I was unable to attend the public meeting regarding the new plan for downtown Northville due to an unprecedented deluge of rain. Hence, I must write you to once again express my feelings regarding this new plan.
I will be the most happy of citizens to admit that I am wrong, — IF I AM. I still regard this plan in the eyes of an average consumer and a local shopper. I have always tried to patronize our local stores. I do this in spite of the fact that prices can be more attractive at larger shopping areas. This is my town, and I shop here because I was raised here and these merchants depend upon a great deal of loyalty to sustain their enterprises.
However, I shop here because it is still reasonably convenient for me to get to what I want. Despite your editorial this past week, I still feel that the city planners have forgotten one of the most important of merchandising concepts — convenience to the consumer.

won't really "walk a mile for a Camel."
Very truly yours,
Mrs. Carole E. Miller

To the Editor:
If we needed more than our latest tax bill to understand the growing clamor for tax relief, a perfect illustration would be the inept leadership in Northville Township. The burgeoning fiefdom being assembled there is only an example of tax dollars wasted but of an egocentric attempt to dismantle years of harmony between City and Township governments.
Witness the twin fire departments, the Township unit providing a service that is suspect from an efficiency standpoint; the ill-fated attempt to create two library systems, a move that would transformed one barely adequate system into two mediocre ones; the persistent rumblings of separate recreation programs; construction of a township hall with federal money but which will be maintained with local funds (listen to the gas meter sing); creation of a wage commission to establish guidelines, and then failing to notify members of meetings; the yearly haggling over fair-share funding of what few shared services that remain after the power-grabbers are finished plundering.

Could it be that politicians are of the same stripe everywhere...too stupid to realize that even in a small community the dumped-upon citizens will hold them accountable?
The latest indication that the supervisor can't see past his gleaming new building and expensive, though sub-par fire department, is his suggestion that the Northville School District could improve its financial plight by selling vacant land and pump the receipts into the general fund. He not only vastly underestimated the value of the property but failed to consult with anyone with some expertise to determine if his financial wizardry was legal. It wasn't.
Above all, what is most disconcerting is the ill-will engendered by Township officials in one of Michigan's finest communities. Down with the fiefdom!

Cabbagetown

To the Editor:
We would like to use the privilege of this column to inform the citizens of Northville of the formation of the Cabbagetown Residents Association.

Cabbagetown is bordered by Center and Main streets, and Eight Mile and Griswold roads. Membership is open to all individuals and families who reside within this area. At the second meeting of the Cabbagetown Residents Association, a steering committee was formed and plans were completed to enter a float in the Fourth of July Parade. All the children living in Cabbagetown are invited to join their neighbors in the parade, and all adult help will be gratefully accepted.
The Cabbagetown Residents Association is a product of many concerned, interested homeowners. We're concerned about keeping our homes and property up to standards we can all be proud of, and interested in making this area of Northville an attractive, enjoyable and safe neighborhood.

To the Editor:
I would like to take this opportunity to acknowledge how deeply touched and sincerely appreciative I am of and for the expressions of friendship and respect reflected in the farewell gatherings on June 14 and 15, 1978 which were organized and carried out by "Friends of Ray Spear."
My 16 years with the Northville Public Schools will remain forever in my mind and heart.

Township board unmatched

To the Editor:
Have you moved to Northville Township in the past five years? If so, this is meant primarily for you. Having lived in Northville Township for the past 21 years I would like to reflect on some of the recent changes.
For most of those years our township government drifted along managing to survive, but not making much real progress. When Clarice Sass was first appointed township clerk I was not expecting much from the "City of Detroit trained" lady. Then Wilson Grier was elected to the post of supervisor.

person at the hall has worked too long for too little. Our diligent workers are still making less than many school teachers, school administrators, and common laborers in the auto industry. If our teachers and school administrators, with exceptions, performed their duties as well as our supervisor and clerk we would need fewer of them and the recent 2.6 mill increase would not have been needed.
If someone tells you that Wilson Grier isn't doing one fine job, ask if they have tried to follow him for just one entire day.
Normally I am a writer of letters only when I have a complaint, but it is time someone gave these dedicated people the credit that is long overdue.
Thanks,

Thanks voters

To the Editor:
As president of the Northville board of education, I wish to take this opportunity to thank all the citizens who supported our recent millage campaign.

To the students, parents and other interested citizens who devoted their time and talents to the campaign, a big "thank you."
To the administrators, teachers, secretaries, custodians, bus drivers, aides and other staff members, a big "thank you" for your efforts all year long as well as during the campaign.

To the voters of the district, our biggest "thank you". Your support will provide the needed financial support. In addition, your vote provide a "pat on the back" to the staff who are engaged in the day-to-day educational activities and gives them a bright outlook for the coming year.
I wish everyone an enjoyable summer and look forward with optimism to the coming year.

To the Editor:
I noticed that among the photos taken of the commencement ceremonies was a picture of the student who stood on his chair and screamed at the top of his lungs.

I'm afraid I was not among the pictures because I merely sat quietly through the ceremonies. Perhaps when I graduate from college I will stand on a chair and scream and maybe The Record will reward me by putting my picture in the paper.

PROPERTY FOR SALE

The City of Northville will receive sealed bid proposals for the purchase of the following described property:

North 250 feet except the west 30 feet of Lot 636, Assessor's Plat No. 6, City of Northville, Wayne County, Michigan, comprising approx. 3.01 acres with 535 feet of frontage on Baseline Road.

Proposal form: proposals must meet the requirements outlined in the Sale Information Packet which may be reviewed at the Office of the City Clerk, 215 W. Main Street, Northville, Mich. 48167, or obtained in person or by mail for a fee of $3.00.

The proposal must include a signed offer to purchase, a 5% good-faith deposit, and a preliminary site plan for the proposed development with a starting-date commitment to be not later than June 1, 1979.

Basis for award of sale: The City expects to receive offers in excess of $115,000.00, but will award the sale to the purchaser whose proposal offers the best combination of purchase price and addition to the tax base. The City will pay a realtor's fee of 5% to a realtor whose proposal is accepted.

Deadline for proposals: any proposal must be submitted to the City Clerk in a sealed envelope marked "LAND SALE" no later than 11:00 a.m. on Wednesday, July 26, 1978, at which time the proposals will be opened and read in public.

We need $ donations for July 4th: Jaycees

To the Editor:
In this year, as in years past, the Northville Jaycees are helping the community to celebrate and enjoy the 4th of July with a full day fun-filled activities.

Once again there will be a parade with live animals, marching bands, antique cars and clowns. Following will be the chicken barbecue at the Mill Race with a watermelon eating contest, dunk tank and exhibitions by the Northville Historical Society. In the evening the skies will be filled with colorful cloud-bursts as the fireworks are launched.

Inflation has affected everything and our budget this year will be in excess of $8,000. The parade alone will cost in excess of $2,200. The City and Township have each generously pledged $1,000 and some other sponsors have been obtained. However, we need help from the community and spectators.

We are hereby appealing to the community for support to help us defray expenses. Tax-deductible donations may be sent to Northville Jaycees, P.O. Box 241, Northville 48167. Also prior to and during the 4th Jaycees and Jaycettes will be offering raffle chances in order to raise further monies.

Come to the parade, barbecue and fireworks and enjoy a safe and fun-filled day in the community. Thank you for your help and support.

Very truly yours,
Peter J. Winter
Financial Chairman

What to do When a Death Occurs Out-of-town?

If you're ever involved in arranging for a funeral for some one who dies out of town, you should contact us or another local funeral director who will then make arrangements with a highly qualified mortician wherever the death occurred. (We have hundreds of personal contacts all over the country through our membership in National Selected Morticians.)

We'll take the necessary steps to prepare the body for immediate transportation back home. We will confer at long distance with you or other family members locally to plan for local funeral services. It is important, though, for you to remember to call us or another local funeral home FIRST. Especially under these circumstances, you need to avoid duplication of effort and fees.

If you wish further details on out-of-town arrangements, please contact us.

topography, and similar natural assets."

But that "advantage" is this particular case, Whipple Estates citizens would argue, is in actuality a disadvantage.

Gladys Evans, a Taft Colony resident, noted that the lands (7.2 acres) to be put into the "open space" bank is swampy and serves no good purpose. It would be far better — from a more attractive layout standpoint — to eliminate the open space, which would permit larger lot sizes.

"We have a beautiful township," she said, "and it would be a shame to spoil it (with row type housing), particularly at the entrance to the community."

She emphasized that she is not against the development but rather against the kind of subdivision it represents, which in the opinion of herself and her neighbors is contrary to the established housing trend in the area.

Lots sizes in the neighboring Lexington Commons subdivision may be no larger, she noted, but the developer there (Thompson-Brown) took advantage of the hilly terrain and developed a pattern of curving irregular streets.

Furthermore, when citizens of Whipple Estates voiced concerns to Robert Carey, an executive of Thompson-Brown, he responded by making those lots adjacent to Whipple Estates larger to make them more like neighboring ones.

The result, she contended, is a handsome subdivision.

Earlier, opposing residents won a concession from the Wayne County Road Commission, which asked that access streets between Beacon Woods and Whipple Estates not be developed.

However, Mitchell S. Pitak voiced concern over what he considered is a "loophole" in that concession. Because a 60-foot-right-of-ways for streets remain, he worried, the developer or eventual residents of Beacon Woods could later persuade officials to put the streets in.

Whipple Estates citizens object to the "through" streets because it will mean their streets will be used as access routes to and from Beacon Woods.

Relative Pitak's concern, citizens were told the township board will try to persuade the county to reduce the width of right-of-ways sufficiently so that they could never be used for anything but utilities and footpaths.

Supervisor Wilson Grier suggested the county be asked to reduce the easements to 20-foot widths.

When Grier pointed out that the "open space" concept was not intended especially for parks but rather is a reaction to the Department of Natural Resources' push for preservation of wetlands for wildlife and wildfowl, a citizens asked if this meant the township is more concerned about the well-being of birds than people.

DNR has stated, Grier was reminded, that the "wetland" on the property is of no concern to it.

Another citizen, Robert Donovan, voiced concern that development of the subdivision near his home might adversely affect his septic tank and drainage field. If that is disrupted, he pointed out, his home would become inhabitable.

He told township board members that he had unsuccessfully attempted to contact the developer to obtain engineering data about the subdivision so that he could have his own engineer check to see that it would not damage his disposal system. The developer, he noted, failed to respond even to a registered letter.

"I think this (engineering) should be looked into before any approval is given," Donovan said.

Supervisor Grier reminded Donovan that the preliminary plat approval is not the stage in the planning process when engineering is considered. That step occurs next, said Grier, who secured from the developer a promise that Donovan will be provided a certified copy of engineering drawings as soon as they are developed and presented to the planning commission.

"I give you my personal guarantee," said the supervisor to Donovan, that Donovan's concerns would be considered at the next planning approval step.

When the township ordinance came under fire, Grier suggested the board could not be responsible for or be asked to defend arguments for an ordinance adopted by earlier board members. he suggested, however, that Trustee James Nowka, a member of the planning commission when the ordinance was drawn up, might be able to answer their questions about "open space" development.

The supervisor added that the board recently allocated $10,000 for review of the township master plan, which he said will be updated yet this summer, and that citizens will be given an opportunity to be heard on the subject.

Nowka defended the ordinance. "R-2 (zoning) isn't bad," he said. "Every township area can't be one acre in size."

Calling the ordinance one of the toughest and most restrictive in the suburban area, the trustee said the ordinance sets down specific rules by which development may occur. And so long as the developer lives by those rules the township cannot legally require him to do more.

One-acre lot developments (R-1) and larger lot sizes, explained Nowka, was intended primarily for housing that has no utilities such as sewer and water. In the case of the Beacon Woods property, planners envisioned that this property would eventually be developed to include these utilities.

"R-2 is not liberal (in eyes of developers) by any stretch of the imagination," said the trustee, suggesting that what may appear on paper as an objectionable subdivision very likely in reality will be an attractive neighborhood.

It appears, he said upon viewing the plans on the wall, that the developer is attempting to minimize the disturbance of the natural beauty of the land. The terrain, because it has a 28 foot slope, forces constraints on the developers in laying out streets that would not exist if it were flat land, he added.

(The developer is required to develop streets that have no greater slope than six percent).

"We can't require the developer to do something outside the ordinance. We can encourage, but we can't force him to do something not called for."

"If this (plan) is in accordance with your request, I can't understand. Aren't you suppose to be representing us?" a citizen asked.

"Why did the planning commission have to change the ordinance in the first place?" asked Mrs. Irvin Marburger. We weren't notified (in 1974) that it was being done...

"We were upset when Taft Colony went in with half-acre lots and now they're even smaller. Why can't the planners realize what adjacent property owners think?"

Said another citizen, "If this (open space plan) is part of the regulations, let's change them."

The objections to the Beacon Woods proposal, a citizen declared, are indicative of zoning and subdivision concerns throughout the township. Citizens everywhere are concerned about what is happening to the township, the board was told.

"No matter where you go people feel the same. We want larger lots! Open your ears."

In defense of the plan, a spokesman for the developer bristled, "A lot of laymen are taking shots at us and it's not fair if this is a democracy. Everything we are doing is in accordance with your requirements."

Albion man

bion — Johnson, Vice President Douglas Whitaker and Marjorie Sliger — said they received positive reports about Errington from his staff and from conversations with citizens.

"One thing that I was very impressed with was the motivation of the staff. It was just incredible," said Johnson.

Staff motivation was given a high priority by the Northville board when it rated the characteristics it sought in a new superintendent.

Errington's extensive experience in larger school districts — such as Pontiac and Battle Creek — helped to sway the board's decision.

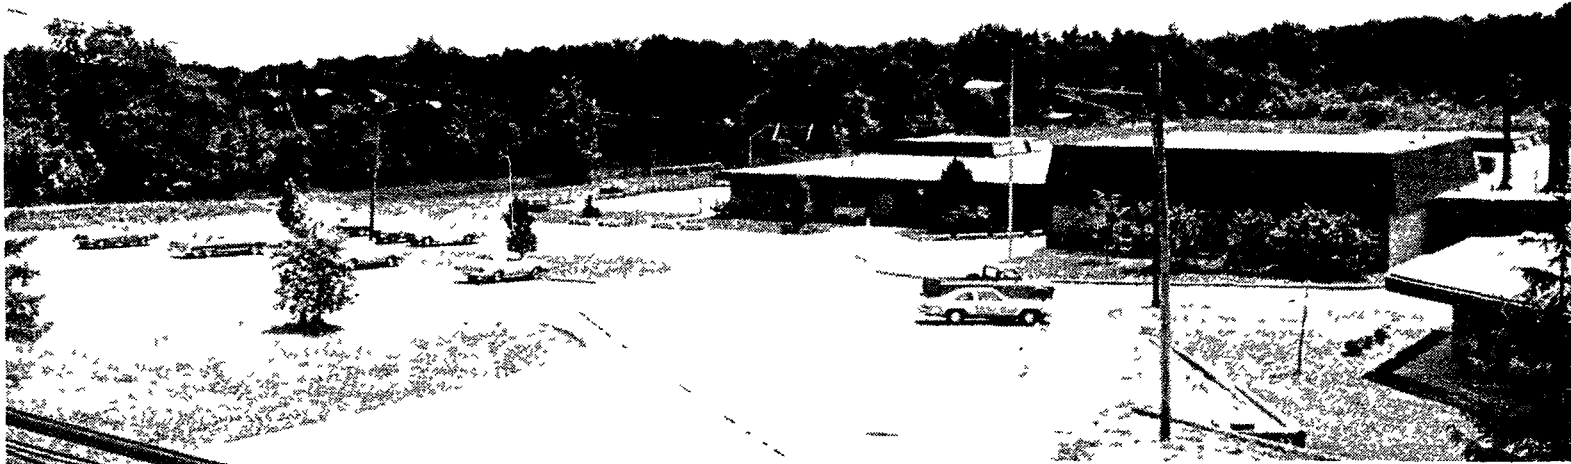

Albion has about 3300 students which is nearly 1000 fewer than Northville's enrollment but which is still larger than the 1900 students in East Jackson.

Peets, 43, has been superintendent at East Jackson for eight years. He impressed board members as an efficient, well-organized administrator who had the support of his administrators and faculty.

If Errington turns down the board offer, then the board will attempt to meet with Peets tonight (Wednesday) to propose a contract to him.

In either case, formal ratification of the contract would be at the board's next regular meeting which is Monday night at 7:30 in the central offices, 303 West Main.

Spear, who has been a superintendent for 11 years in Northville and an administrator for 16, is leaving for his new job in DeWitt on July 1.

Beacon Woods boundary

This picture with Moraine Elementary School in the foreground shows the western portion of the area on the south side of Eight Mile Road to be developed as Beacon Woods Subdivision. Residents of adjacent Taft Colony and Whipple subdivisions have been protesting that the new subdivision does not take advantage of the wooded, natural terrain.

city an additional $500 to $600 a year, the city manager stated.

An offer by the Jaycees to remove the partially destroyed fish hatchery building for $1,350 was approved by the council. The price is $150 higher than originally proposed and must also be approved by Northville Township, which shares use of the fish hatchery recreational site with the city.

The Jaycees offered to do the clean-up project, City Manager Walters explained, as a community service. Originally, the building had been restored for recreation use by Jaycees only to have it destroyed by fire just prior to completion.

Finally, the council agreed to appoint Margaret Dawson to the zoning board of appeals to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Jean Dykstra. Ann Brueck, Beatrice Carlson and Norma Vernon were also unanimously reappointed to the beautification commission.

But a little haggling took place when it came time to consider an appointment and three reappointments to the planning commission.

Mayor Vernon first noted that "I consider the planning commission a most important body" and then suggested a "full council should be present" before taking action on the appointments.

Councilman DeRusha strongly urged the council to act on three reappointments — James Cutler, Luke Durst and William Tucker — because "these terms expire June 30 before we meet again."

He said he thought all three had performed well and should be reappointed.

Mayor Vernon was willing to go along with Durst and Tucker. "But I'd like to talk to Cutler first to see how he feels about the position." The mayor suggested he was concerned because of a conflict on a recent zoning issue adjacent to Cutler's business property.

DeRusha responded that such a conflict could happen to anyone and that he thought Cutler had conducted himself properly in the action.

Finally, the council moved to reappoint only Durst and Tucker.

The planning commission position left open by the resignation of John Genitti was not decided upon, either. While Councilman Nichols proposed John Stilson, the mayor asked that action on the remaining two positions be left until a full council was present.

Two promoted

Promotions of two Michigan State Police officers stationed at the Northville Post have been announced by Colonel Gerald L. Hough, department director.

Detective-Lieutenant Joel E. Gorzen has been elevated to detective-lieutenant V level, while Detective-Sergeant Joseph A. Koenig has been promoted to detective-lieutenant IV.

Northville soccer powers win tournament crowns

Two Northville squads ended their seasons in sparkling fashion in Western Suburban Soccer League cup action last week.

Northville Arsenal, the league's 16-and-under Division A powerhouse, and Northville United, runner-up in Division B of the boys' 14-and-under bracket during the regular season, both won post-season tournament championships in their respective divisions with nail-biting victories in Sunday's finals.

Arsenal climaxed a spectacular season with a 3-1 triumph over the Farmington Flyers, giving the local club its second straight perfect season and stretching the team's unbeaten streak to 23 games dating back to last spring. Arsenal won the divisional title last fall with an 8-0 mark and repeated the feat this season before entering the cup playoffs.

Kevin Swayne scored Northville's first goal well into the first half on an assist from Les Neal, giving Arsenal a 1-0 lead at intermission.

Farmington bounced back early in the second half, though, and tied the game on a head shot by Andy Pfoch.

In an attempt to pick up the club's offense coach Norm Davis played goalie Mark Swayne, who'd made two diving saves in the first half, on offense for the rest of the game and the play apparently worked. With Swayne's help Arsenal scored twice in the second half for the victory.

Left wing Greg May tallied both of Northville's second-half goals while Mike Hammel, Steve Precobb, John Davis and Russ Gans turned in strong defensive showings to preserve the victory for Arsenal, which finished with a perfect 10-0 record this spring. During that time Davis' squad outscored its opponents 50-4 and posted six shutouts.

Four days earlier Arsenal had qualified for a berth in the finals with a 6-1 victory over Plymouth. Sparked by Les Neal, John Davis, Bobby Paul and the Swayne brothers Arsenal jumped out to a quick 3-0 lead and breezed.

Neal scored twice for the winners while Davis, Paul and the Swaynes kicked in one apiece. Davis' goal came on a deflection of a remarkable corner kick by Paul that careened off the goal post and bounced out front, and Davis' kick made it 3-0.

Kevin and Mark Swayne each played one half in goal and combined for 12 saves. Doug Fairful tallied Plymouth's lone score.

United, meanwhile, staved off a late charge by Livonia no. 6 and held on for a tight 3-2 victory in the 14-and-under title game Sunday, handing the Livonia club its first loss in 10 outings this season.

United, which finished second to Livonia during the regular season, needed outstanding defensive efforts by halfback Bob Kinnaird, who made 18 defensive saves, fullbacks Mike Willey and Marty Kramer (12 and 11 saves respectively) and goalie Bob Foster (17 saves) for the victory, its third straight in cup competition.

After fighting to a 1-1 standoff at intermission United scored two quick goals in the second half, but then hung on tight in a close finish. Livonia scored once to cut the gap to 3-2, then just missed tying the game on a shot that deflected off a player and hit the crossbars with five minutes left in the game.

Rick Paler, Bob Wolfram and Kinnaird each scored once for the winners, who finished with an overall 7-1-1 mark this season.

Three days earlier United had beaten local rival Northville Arsenal, 2-0, to earn the spot in the championship game. Both goals came in the last 15 minutes of the contest, one on a 20-foot kick by Paler and the other on a shot by Wolfram.

Arsenal had set up the all-Northville semifinal earlier in the week, highlighted by goalie Steve Gribbell's game-saving block of a penalty kick late in the game.

United had opened its tournament run with a 5-2 victory over the Livonia Titans. Trailing 2-0 at intermission, the winners exploded in the second half on goals by Paler (2), Wolfram, Dan Nielsen and Dave Bach. Goalie Joe Walker had eight saves.

Two other Northville clubs made the finals of the 10-division playoffs, including the Pink Panthers of the girls' 14-and-under bracket. The Panthers, who won the Division 2 title with a 7-1 record during the regular season, met the Farmington Furries, winners of the Division 1 crown, in Sunday's championship but lost 2-0.

The Furries scored once early in the game but, with Donna Schlachter turning in a strong performance at goalie for the Panthers, didn't score again until the dying minutes.

The Panthers had opened their tournament hopes Monday by edging the Livonia Blue Streaks 2-1 in an overtime thriller climaxed by Schlachter's winning goal in the third period of sudden death. Sharon Campbell had scored the Panthers' first goal.

Two days later the local girls

Junior baseball round-up

Pirates upset G League leaders

They're no longer the undefeated Dodgers.

The Pirates, battling to stay alive in the fight for first place in junior baseball's G League, came up with three-run rallies in the first and fifth innings and went on to dump the Dodgers from the ranks of the unbeaten Saturday, 6-2.

The victory put the Pirates, now 10-2, just one game behind the league-leading Dodgers, who slipped to 11-1 with the loss.

The Pirates jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the first inning without the benefit of a hit, but a two-run double by the Dodgers' Jeff Temple in the third cut the gap to one.

That's the way it stayed until the top of the fifth, when the Pirates exploded for three more runs to salt the game away. John Mynatt singled to start the rally, Dirk Nowka followed with a double, Dino Candela slapped a single and Rick Van Buren capped the outburst with another double.

Nowka and Tim Rufing combined for a three-hitter on the mound for the winners and struck out 16.

Earlier in the week the Dodgers, getting two hits apiece from Greg Ryba and Dave Denhof, had picked up their 11th straight victory with a 13-5 romp over the Cardinals while the Pirates had beaten the Giants 10-2 and the Indians 9-5.

Nowka sparked the triumph over the Giants with a home run and a single while Candela and Mynatt stroked two hits each to pace the victory over the Indians.

The Yankees, meanwhile, stayed right on the Pirates' heels with a 14-11 squeaker over the Giants last week. Scott Wordell and Bob Cannon cracked three hits apiece to lead the winners while Doug Hartman and Ken Guertin belted three hits apiece, including a home run, for the fifth-place Giants.

The Yankees are now 8-2 on the season and have a solid hold on third place.

In other G League action last week the Padres handled the Phillies 7-1, the Astros crunched the Cubs 13-3 and the Braves picked up their third straight victory in an 18-7 rout of the Reds.

Don Norton's three hits topped the Padres' winning effort, and he and Swayne Hayes combined to pitch a one-hitter at the Phillies. The Astros were led by Ron Lisowski, who went 3-for-3 at the plate, while the Cubs got a pair of hits from Steve Peltz.

H League

Several close games highlighted action in H League junior baseball over the weekend.

Sparked by Mike Reitenga's hitting and the pitching of Doug Martin the Cubs picked up their fourth victory of the season in a 7-6 thriller over the Giants.

Martin struck out the last nine batters he faced to earn the win.

The Expos, meanwhile, rallied for a run in the bottom of the seventh for a 9-8 victory over the Braves. Paul Frewald knocked in the winning run with a dou-

Golf celebrity to hold clinic at Brooklane

Area golfers who need a bit of help on their game might take a tip from a lady next week.

Marilynn Smith, a world-renowned member of the Lady Golf Professionals Association (LPGA) and one of the top women golfers on the circuit, will be holding an afternoon golf clinic and lesson next Thursday (June 29) at Northville's Brooklane Golf Course.

There will be no charge for the clinic, which begins at 1 p.m., and Smith will compete in a nine-hole exhibition match with three local professionals immediately afterwards.

Since joining the professional circuit 29 years ago Smith has racked up 22 tour victories, and her earnings during those years have been in the neighborhood of $300,000.

Currently a member of the LPGA board of directors, she still competes in various tournaments while sponsoring clinics throughout the country.

Her 22 career wins place her 10th among the all-time LPGA winners, and her earnings place her 13th.

Following next Thursday's clinic and lesson she'll be joined by Bob Sladzi of South Lyon's Godwin Glen Golf Club, Gary Whitener of Livonia's Whispering Willows and John Koch of Brooklane in a nine-hole exhibition open to the public. That, too, is free of charge.

Women's teams romp

Last week's women's league softball games weren't exactly what you'd call cliffhangers.

No, with scores like 35-2, 37-1 and 15-0 there wasn't much need for attending fans to hold their breaths in anticipation of the outcomes.

But there was one exception.

The Thunderbird Flyers, coming off the floor after three season-opening losses, scored three times in the bottom of the seventh for a 14-13 triumph over Northville Record in a game that saw the lead switch hands five times.

The victory gave Thunderbird a 1-3 record this season while the losers slipped to 2-2.

Record had taken a 13-11 advantage in the top of the seventh on a five-run outburst.

Base hits by Roxanne Dzieczkowski, Carol Terlecki and Debbie Juhnke plus an error tied the game, though, and put runners on first and third. A sacrifice fly by Cindy Booth then scored the winning run.

Sparked by leadoff doubles by Sue Booth and Juhnke, the Flyers had jumped out to a 4-0 first inning lead and added three more in the second for a 7-1 bulge.

Record exploded for six runs in the third, though, and talked another in the fifth to regain the lead before two-run rallies in the fifth and sixth innings gave Thunderbird a short-lived 11-8 advantage.

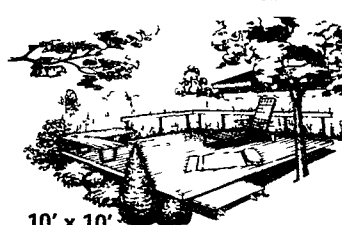

Sue Booth, Cindy Booth, Marlene Taylor, Chris Redmann, Pam Bower and Juhnke all had two hits for the winners while Cathy Swoboda cracked a double and two singles to pace Record.

In other women's action last week Dave's Trim Shop erupted for 19 runs in the fourth inning for a 35-2 victory over Alhambra; Northville Laboratories remained unbeaten in league play with a 37-1 romp over Wishing Well Manor; and the Choo Chooettes scored 12 times in the first two innings on their way to a 15-0 skunking of Nichols-Realty Saints.

Gayle Richardson had five hits and Wendy D'Haene and Connie Soncrant blasted home runs in topping Dave's Trim. Pam Soncrant and Cheryl Cook added four hits each for the winners.

Denise MacDermid collected a home run and three singles and Debbie Davis went 5-for-5 at the plate for Northville Lab, while the Choo Chooettes were paced by Terry Lapham's three doubles and Debbie Kemp's three singles.

Rob Marzonie beats Ray Coram to the tape in hurdles race at Jaycee meet

Turnout low but showings are good at Jaycee meet

Despite a disappointing turnout, Northville's seventh annual Jaycee Junior Champs track meet produced another batch of outstanding performances by area youngsters last Saturday.

Among the top efforts was Dave Ward's winning height in the high jump. Ward, a 15-year-old Northville resident who'll be entering high school next fall, cleared 6'1" and easily won the event, out jumping his nearest competitors, Bob Crisan and Scott Robins, by seven inches.

That not only earned him a first-place ribbon in the 15-16 year-old age bracket, but was the highest jump ever posted at the Jaycee meet.

Ward also won the shot put competition with a heave of 35'8½". Rob Ade placed second with a 31'11" throw.

Other double winners in the meet included Tony Armada, Ray Coram and Doug Wright (17-18 boys' age division); Rob Marzonie and Scott Dayton (15-16 boys); Cindi Martin and Nancy Pinkelmann (15-16 girls); Bill Bailey (13-14 boys); Sheri Robins and Julie Dusablon (13-14 girls); Andy Earehart and Dave Denhof (11-12 boys); Vicki Robins and Jean Dusablon (11-12 girls); and Russ Parker (8-10 boys).

The meet's lone triple winner was Dan Troher, who finished first in the 100-yard dash, the 220 and the 440 at the 15-16 boys' level.

Only about 60 youngsters turned out for the rain-threatened meet, held annually at the local high school track. The event is sponsored by the Northville Jaycees, who were assisted this year by the Northville Schools, Guernsey Dairy and meet judges Ed Gabrys and Ralph Redmond.

Age bracket winners in each event are listed below. Official times for the meet's running events were unavailable.

Long jump — Russ Parker (boys pee wee, 8-10 years old) 12'1"; Andy Earehart (boys junior, 11-12 years old) 15'5"; Denny Bartok (boys prep, 13-14 years old) 11'3"; Scott Robins (boys intermediate, 15-16 years old) 18'8"; Ray Coram (boys senior, 17-18 year old) 19'10½".

Nancy Pinkelmann (girls intermediate, 15-16 years old) 12'2½".

termediate) 6'1"; Jean Dusablon (girls junior 4'4"; Sheri Robins (girls prep) 4'8".

Late rallies highlight men's games

The official results show that last week's local American League softball games each went seven innings. As far as three of the divisions' four winners are concerned, though, the last two innings were all that mattered in Wednesday's action at Thomson Field.

While the league-leading Village Blues remained unbeaten with an easy 14-5 victory over Cap 'n' Cork, Little Caesar's, Kountry Katerers and the Cyclones were all forced to overcome mid-game deficits in the sixth and seventh innings for their wins.

Little Caesar's, thanks to a four-run outburst in the sixth highlighted by Dennis Rons' three-run homer, pulled a minor upset by edging Winner's Circle, 5-3. Winner's Circle had taken a 2-0 advantage into the sixth on run-scoring singles by Joe Kahanec and Dan Taylor earlier in the contest.

After going ahead 4-2 with the sixth-inning rally, Caesar's sewed the game up in the seventh on a triple by Al Schultz followed by Mike Rons' run-producing base hit.

The Kountry Katerers came up with eight runs in the last two innings to overcome a 9-6 deficit and beat Jim Storm Insurance, 14-11. Jim Storm, sparked by Tom Ambs' two home runs, had raced out to a 9-3 lead in the first four innings.

The Katerers, though, bounced back with three in the fifth, five in the sixth and three in the seventh to post their third victory in six decisions this spring.

Pete Wright poked three singles while John Kroll and Franz Regner had three RBI's each to lead the winners. Ambs, in addition to his two round-trippers, cracked a double and had five RBI's for Jim Storm.

The Cyclones came up with the biggest upset of the week in an 11-10 triumph over Sheehan's-On-The-Green.

One-out singles by Dave White, Mike Gribbell, James LaPlante and Bob LaPlante sparked a three-run rally in the bottom of the seventh that gave the Cyclones their first win of the season. Sheehan's had taken a 10-8 lead with three runs of their own in the fifth.

White had four hits and Rick Fazekas three to pace the winners.

The Village Blues, meanwhile, picked up their fourth straight victory of the season in a 14-5 romp over Cap 'n' Cork.

Gary Winemaster's three-run homer in the first gave the Blues an early 3-0 lead and provided the only scoring in the game until his teammates exploded for four more in the fifth.

Can 'n' Cork scored all its runs in the bottom of the sixth, but by then it was already 13-0.

Dave Conlin supported Winemaster's effort with a two-run blast of his own while John Boland added three hits and two RBI's for the winners. Mark Fillenworth had Cap 'n' Cork's only extra-base hit, a double in the sixth.

National League

In National League action last week Real Estate Two and Car's racked up easy victories and continued their march toward a first-place showdown in two weeks.

Real Estate Two won twice, beating Community Credit Union 24-1 Tuesday and OLV 12-2 Thursday, and hiked their record to 6-0 this season.

Mike Schroeder blasted a home run, a triple, a double and had five RBI's to lead the romp over Credit Union while Kevin Cavanaugh, Brian Smith and Mike Rae added four RBI's apiece. The winners outhit Credit Union 22-4.

Two days later Cavanaugh stroked two-run singles in each of the first two innings to pace the victory over OLV.

Carl's, meanwhile, scored at least twice in each of the first two innings on their way to a 15-7 win over the Brew Hogs last Tuesday, upping their record to 5-0.

Dan Fisher had two hits, including a three-run homer, and four RBI's while Dave Catton added a home run, a triple, a double and a sacrifice fly for the winners.

In other National League action last week Sheehan's Little Caesar's remained a close third in the standings with victories over the Eagles (11-4) and Credit Union (10-9); It's Custard Time moved up to fourth with a 9-1 romp over OLV; St. Paul's picked up their first victory of the season in a 14-12 cliff-hanger against the winless Northville Players; and Ely's dumped the Northville Jaycees, 7-2.

Annual Blues Invitational takes place this weekend

Northville's annual Blues Invitational men's softball tournament gets under way this weekend at Thomson Field.

Sixteen teams will battle it out for the double elimination tournament championship, including defending champ Pete Drakos Insurance of Walled Lake.

Action starts at 6 p.m. Friday with a game between Northville's Rizzo Real Estate and Westland's McCurdy Optical and winds up Sunday night. Finals are slated to begin at 8:30 p.m.

All contests will take place at Thomson Field except for a group of four second-round losers' bracket games, which will be held at the Training Center on Sunday morning.

Among the Northville clubs competing will be State Farm, Carl's, Kountry Katerers, Real Estate Two, C.D.S. and Rizzo Real Estate.

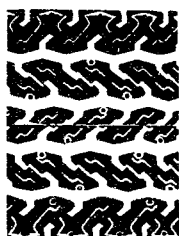

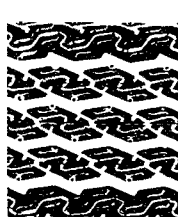

Others include D & B Blister Pack, Town Pump, G & I Quality Meats and Pete Drakos (Walled Lake); Crabble Joe's and McCurdy Optical (Westland); Earl Keim Realty and Spartan Tire (Brighton); Chrysler-Vernon Tool and Die (Warren); and Unistrat (Wayne).

ble while Tom Grow and Steve Lee led the Braves' hitting attack.

In two other see-saw battles the Pirates defeated the Cardinals, 14-10, while the Padres, despite an outstanding defensive effort by Matt McDonell plus Donovan Campbell's hitting and John Lobbia's pitching, lost a tight game to the Mets.

In a pair that weren't so close the Dodgers, thanks to the pitching of Matt Mai and Mike Tabaczynski and the hitting of Matt DeMattos and Greg Benvenuto, breezed past the Phillies 20-2 while the unbeaten Rangers, behind the pitching of Derek Darkowski and Brian Baldrice, crushed the Reds 24-2. DeMattos had a home run and Benvenuto a grand slam in the Dodgers' romp.

Local horse wins in Ohio

Greenhills Superton, a horse owned by Ralph and Peg Moore of Napier Road in Northville, won the Western Pleasure riding championship at the Morgan Gold Cup regionals in Columbus, Ohio last weekend.

That performance qualifies Greenhills Superton to compete in the Grand Nationals next October. The Grand Nationals will take place in Oklahoma City.

An area rider who also won a championship at the regional competition was Erin Shutz of South Lyon.

Shutz won the stock seat equitation championship and will also compete in the Grand Nationals.

Plymouth man gets hole-in-one

Brooklane Golf Course recorded its fourth hole-in-one of the spring last Wednesday when John Ryder aced the 140-yard 15th hole.

Ryder, a Plymouth resident, used a seven-iron to bag his first hole-in-one in 20 years of golfing. He shot a 35 for the round.

status from the American Heart Association. From left are Sgt. Charles Lanning, Sgt. Bert Sass, Gerhardt Obrikat, James Schrot and Peter V. Boving.

Learn to save a life

Northville Township Fire Chief Robert Toms wasn't fooling around when he said he wanted to bring lifesaving techniques to the doorstep of area residents.

Earlier this year, at Toms' urging, the entire 26-man volunteer fire department completed a course in cardio-pulmonary resuscitation.

Since then, five firefighters have gone on to obtain their own instructor's certificate and are now qualified to teach the class.

Toms said those instructors are available to teach life-saving classes in the community. Interested persons should call him at 455-5535.

"Now that the swimming season is upon us, it should be imperative for every pool owner and every swimmer to know this life-saving technique," he said.

"A class may be formed as soon as ten names are received and can be held at the Sheldon Road fire station or around a homeowner's poolside area.

Those completing the course will receive a C.P.R. card from the American Heart Association.

Summer programs

Soccer a kick for YMCA

Looking for a soccer clinic? Want to go back packing and hiking? Need mini-diet workshop? All are among new summer programs available at the Canton, Northville, Plymouth YMCA, Janet Luce, program director, announces.

Nine first-time offerings are among summer activities for which the Y now is taking registrations. Information and brochure are available at the Y office in Plymouth, telephone 453-2904.

The youth activities include the soccer clinic starting June 26 under the direction of Larry Christoff, All-American soccer pro; and a week's back packing and hiking starting June 10. Also available again this summer are an eight-session day camp for youngsters in grades one through five; a sports day camp for youngsters seven to fourteen; a summer theatre club for seven to eleven year olds; ballet for all ages and beginning group piano for ages six and up. Adult offerings include Cope, a program to aid in caring for aging parents; folk dancing; tennis and mini tennis sessions and golf for youths and adults.

A youth tumbling clinic July 17-28 for youngsters four to fourteen is a new activity this year at Hulsing Elementary.

Preschoolers may be signed up for creative movement, ballet or tap and a Kreative's program with four sessions throughout the summer.

Separate diet workshops for teenagers and adults currently are in threeweek sessions. There are trim classes for adults, modern dance, jazz dancing and disco for teens and adults starting this month and in July.

There's a two-week fun swim club as well as parent-and-tot and evening family swimming. Summer programs for senior citizens include a shuffle board club, folk dance and swimming.

'Pech Tech' grads see good future

Just eight students have reached second year status in Petroleum Technology at Schoolcraft College, but prospects for them and others who may be interested look good.

According to geology instructor John Bedford who helped develop and heads the two-year-old program, four have taken jobs ranging from $1,000 to $1,200 a month plus fringes, two have gone on to advanced studies and two are completing the program at Schoolcraft this summer.

Three Schoolcraft grads took jobs in Oklahoma. Bruce Ellis and Doug Wait were hired by Phillips Petroleum and Pat Mancinelli joined Cleary Oil. Rick Stearns took a job with Magcobar in Pennsylvania.

As for others in the first class, Mike Polkinghorn and Mark Gliha will pursue bachelor degree programs at Michigan Tech, while Rick Vincent and Jay Herdman will complete studies at Schoolcraft.

Schoolcraft's program was developed in cooperation with the National Science Foundation and an advisory Committee from the Michigan petroleum industry.

It requires 73-75 credit hours of study with emphasis in geology, and its graduates earn an associate in science degree.

It was specifically designed to provide students with the necessary skills or background to either begin work after graduation or transfer to a senior institution to continue their studies.

The Schoolcraft program and one at Northwestern Michigan College were featured in the May 19 issue of "Oil and Gas News," Michigan's weekly petroleum magazine.

It described the two programs as "springboards" for young men and women to become part of the rich Niagara oil boom unrolling across the northern part of the state.

For a detailed brochure or other information about the Schoolcraft program, contact Bedford at 591-6400 ext. 524 or write him at the College, 18600 Haggerty Road, Livonia 48152.

Police Blotter

Police seeking hit-and-run driver

Northville Township Police are looking for a hit-and-run driver who smashed into the side of a stopped car that had pulled off the road in an attempt to avoid the collision.

Because of the location of the accident, which occurred on Fonner Court shortly after midnight Monday morning, police believe that neighbors may know the identity of the suspect.

"Fonner doesn't go anywhere. It isn't somebody passing through," said Police Chief Ronald Nisun, who said there were parties nearby that night.

"We believe either the driver of the vehicle lives in the area or was visiting someone either on Fonner or in that Taft Colony area."

Nisun said the police want to hear from anyone in that area who hosted a party that broke up around midnight.

The suspect's car was described as "possibly a full-size Ford, green in color with damage to the left front," according to a police report.

Just before 12:30 a.m., two women heading west on Fonner saw the car approach them on the wrong side of the road, according to police.

The driver of the westbound car, Beverly Fike, 31, Detroit, told police she pulled off the road, but the oncoming car still hit her car in the side and then drove off.

Depending on the extent of the injuries, the driver of a hit-and-run car can be charged with leaving the scene of an injury accident, said Nisun.

The passenger in Fike's car, Sally McCracken, 35, 20145 Woodhill, complained of injuries but did not wish to go to the hospital. She said she would consult with her own physician, according to police.

Nisun said people with information about the accident should call the police department at 459-1700.

In city

A young Plymouth boy escaped serious injury Friday night when he darted in front of a slow-moving car.

Justin Stanislawski, 3, was sitting with his parents along the curb on the west side of Center Street about 150 feet southwest of Dunlap, said police.

When his parents got up to walk to their nearby car, Justin ran from behind a parked car into the path of a southbound vehicle.

The driver of that car told police she saw a blur, heard a bump and then stopped.

Witnesses, including Justin's parents, told police the car was travelling slowly and had no time to stop before hitting the boy.

The driver said she was going about 20 miles per hour.

Justin was taken to St. Mary Hospital in Livonia where he was treated and released.

Every once in a while, Northville City Police run into especially prickly cases.

It's hard to adjust to open meeting law

By RICH PERLBERG

Somehow, it didn't seem fair.

Less than 24 hours after its brightest moment in sometime — the passing of 2.6 additional mills by 99 votes — the Northville school board was together again for still another meeting.

The purpose was the continuing search for a new superintendent, a task made much brighter now that the board won't have to greet its chosen one with an austerity budget.

Thus, when the board met informally Tuesday to narrow the list from eight to two, the mood was relaxed, relieved, amiable — and frustrated.

The frustration, and a bit of uneasiness, came when several members began to feel hamstrung by Michigan's Open Meetings Law.

The Open Meetings Law specifically requires school board interviews with superintendent hopefuls to be conducted in public meetings. The board found no trouble complying with that.

But while the interviews are public, the candidate may ask that the information contained in his application not be revealed.

Furthermore, when the board met Tuesday night to trim down the list of candidates, it wanted to speak openly about each man but — out of courtesy and a healthy respect for slander laws — no one wanted to say publicly negative things.

At first, the board was going to solve the dilemma by referring to the candidates as code numbers known only to each board member.

This awkward option was avoided when the school's attorneys advised that such a plan probably violated the spirit, if not the letter, of the Open Meetings Law.

The candidates were discussed by name, then, with each board member outlining the merits of his or her favorite and cautiously mentioning drawbacks of other candidates.

A difficult obstacle sprang up when Vice President Douglas Whitaker said he had a question about information in one of the candidate's application.

By law, the topic could not be discussed in public without the candidate's permission. But, because the meeting was informal, no vote could be taken to go into an executive session.

In fact, had not the handful of people in attendance voluntarily stepped outside the room for a few minutes, the entire process may have been delayed for a couple of days until a closed meeting could be properly called.

Even so, some board members later expressed uneasiness about what might appear as a procedural sidestepping around the law.

Later on, the situation became even stickier when Trustee Marjorie Sliger indicated she had reservations about a candidate based on phone calls to his present school district.

When pressed by other board members for specifics, she would say nothing except that she did not want to be part of a "superintendent shuffle."

Some in the audience, assuming that Mrs. Sliger was reluctant to go into detail because of the public forum, suggested they could leave the room again.

But the board did not accept or even comment on the offer.

It was just as well. A reporter in attendance, who did leave the room when the application was being discussed, would not have left unless ordered to in this case.

The circuit court pre-trial of a Northville apartment manager charged with embezzling $11,000 in rent money has been adjourned until 8:30 a.m., Friday, June 20.

In a taped interview with Michigan State Police, Charles Sena, 54, admitted pocketing nearly $20,000 in cash payments from tenants at Innsbrook Apartments, south of Seven Mile Road and east of Northville Road.

Sena, who said he embezzled the money to give him the "courage to commit suicide," lost most of the money he took over an 11-month period at the race track.

The embezzlement wasn't discovered until March 14 when Sena revealed the scheme in suicide notes he left to his wife, son and employer.

Sena indicated he was going to kill himself, but his wife followed him to Miami, Florida, where she talked him into returning to Michigan.

Company bookkeepers have located about $11,000 in missing rent money, although the former manager said he took close to $20,000.

At his June 7 district court arraignment, Sena waived his examination and said he wished to plead guilty to an embezzlement charge.

He was released on $1000 personal bond and a pre-trial was originally set for last Friday, but has been adjourned for two weeks.

Failure rate high

Small businessman's worst enemy is self

By HOWARD RONTAL

To the small businessperson, with a newly opened store, a ready smile on his face, and shelves full of goods, the whole world can seem as if it is conspiring in a plot to either keep him from opening or drive him out of his mind.

Take the case of the Sunflower Hut a natural foods store in South Lyon. The Oakland County Public Health Department told owner Betty Lou Mitchell she needed another hot water heater which met the license requirements for a "food store". Mitchell's place is only a few square feet larger than a walk-in closet.

She uses so little of the hot water her over-sized unit produces that it comes out "black," from stagnating in the storage tank, she said. This bit of bureaucratic aggravation cost her about $190 before she sold her first toasted soy bean.

Fellow small businesses are often no help either. Greg Tigani, the owner of Speedy Printing Center in Brighton, said his opening was delayed four weeks — two weeks as he waited for installation of his furnaces and two more weeks for an electrician to hook the shop up.

That hurts, said Tigani. Everyday he was unable to open represents income that is lost forever, just when he needs it most. Tigani's is a franchise operation for which he spent $12,000 just for the name and a little training from the parent company. Add in the cost of the copying machines printing machines, and inventory and Tigani was in the unenviable position of watching a investment crawl further and further out on a limb as each day passed.

But the small businessperson's worst enemy may be himself.

In fact, the head of the Michigan office of the Small Business Administration (SBA), Ray Harshman, is quite positive that he is.

Sixty percent of all small businesses fail in their first five years and of that, 93 percent go under because of managerial inexperience or downright incompetence, he said.

Harshman gets this second figure from a 1975 Dun and Bradstreet analysis of 11,430 business failures. The study determined that 16.9 percent of the failures lacked experience in the particular business they were in, 13.7 percent lacked managerial experience, and 21.1 percent knew one aspect of the business for instance, manufacturing, but sank like a stone when it came to another aspect, like sales. A staggering 41.2 percent were incompetent regardless of what experience they had.

The reasons why people start a business for which they have little aptitude and/or knowledge is either a mystery or as varied as the number of businesses that fail. Whatever the reasons, Harshman is continually amazed at the number of people who come to the SBA for a loan, and, when asked what kind of business they want to start, answer, "What's a good business to get into?"

To hear the owner tell a tale of woe after he has invested and lost his shirt, you'd think the banks were out to get him, said Harshman. "I was undercapitalized," say the disgruntled owners.

No lender loans too little money, claims Harshman. "If somebody goes to a bank for a loan, the lender evaluates the loan. If they determine that the proposition is too risky they won't make the loan."

"But have you ever heard of a person go out of business say 'I failed because I was a lousy manager.' No, they say they didn't get a big enough loan."

Going broke isn't the real problem in a business failure, Harshman said, it's merely the symptom of the real problem, managerial inexperience or incompetence.

To overcome these potential problems, the SBA performs a number of services for its client companies besides underwriting their bank loan. (The Michigan SBA has arranged for $100 million in loans this year.)

Under the heading of management assistance, the SBA provides pre-business workshops, sponsors courses on small business operation in community colleges, has a corps of retired company executives who advise the new businessperson, and published 250 titles relating the small business management.

Harshman said that the pre-business workshops are valuable both when they help educate the prospective business person and when such a person realizes that "it's not for me."

On a national basis, the SBA monitors the spending of the federal dollar and tried to make sure that at least some of the government's $60-$70 billion in purchases go to small businesses.

But the SBA isn't always right either. An SBA-backed market study of the South Lyon area done for Mitchell and her Sunflower Hut concluded that the area lacked a population large enough to support the store. Move, the SBA said.

Mitchell stayed. Her Sunflower Hut, opened less than a year ago, is already paying for itself, something Mitchell didn't expect for another year. Looking at her bank book and not at the national odds, she plans to expand her South Lyon operation as soon as she can.

Bonsai look-alike has several uses

You might think of the balfour aralia (Polyscias balfouriana) as the lazy man's bonsai.

As this plant gets older, it develops woody stems, glossy, leathery leaves, and light brown, twisting branches suggestive of bonsai.

Michigan State University horticulturists advise placing the balfour aralia where it will get the unbroken light of a north window and temperatures of 80-85 degrees F during the day and no cooler than 62-65 degrees at night. During the winter, it will benefit from moving to a south window where it can get direct sun.

It should be potted in a standard houseplant potting mix with provisions for good drainage and watered whenever the soil surface begins to feel dry to keep the soil around the roots uniformly moist but not wet at all times. Fertilize with any standard houseplant food every three or four months.

When small, the balfour aralia can be used in terrariums and dish gardens. Older, larger plants make good floor or table specimens.

This plant is very sensitive to changes in its environment. Leaf drop is its usual response to changes in light, temperature or humidity, overwatering or low light. It prefers high humidity.

Red spider mites can be a problem on this plant.

Propagate the balfour aralia by stem tip cuttings.

Incumbency power

By WARREN M. HOYT

The advantage of being an incumbent in the Legislature is becoming more and more evident with the number of bills being rushed through the process prior to the election.

Numerous proposals are winning approval in one house to give incumbent legislators a quick record on which to mount a campaign.

For example, U.S. Senate candidate Representative Paul Rosenbaum (D-Battle Creek), running on a record of law and order, has been pushing hard for bills strengthening penalties on large drug dealers, the advent of wiretaps on drug-related investigations and the removal of the right to bail for repeat offenders.

Numerous legislators are tying themselves to the role of protector of the elector's pocketbook with a renewed push for less taxes.

The House Taxation Committee recently voted out one constitutional amendment and two separate pieces of legislation permitting local districts to trade property taxes on residential and some other property for income taxes.

This idea is getting much voter appeal and the issues are available for incumbent legislators to take back to their districts to show their people what they are doing in the all important taxation area.

Senator Patrick McCollough (D-Deerborn), chairman of the Senate Finance Committee and candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, has been pumping out of his committee numerous tax relief bills which look great on paper, but have no chance of clearing the Legislature this year and may not be affordable by the state.

Incidentally, McCollough before agreeing to take over the chairmanship of his committee demanded the committee be renamed Finance instead of Taxation to eliminate any bad connotation with his chairmanship.

Another crime fighter is Senator Daniel Cooper (D-Oak Park) who won Senate approval of two bills appropriating $50 million for local units of government for increased lighting and police patrols in high crime areas.

Another good mark on which to campaign in a district where formidable opposition is appearing.

Senator John Hertel (D-Harper Woods), whose district has a great number of senior citizens, is campaigning with legislation to prohibit public utilities from advertising anything but for safety explanations or the mechanics of doing business with the utility.

Hertel's bill, which is being pushed out of his own committee on energy, will naturally appeal to senior citizens who can easily be convinced such ads do nothing but increase their utility rates cutting deeply into their fixed incomes.

A permanent program of tax credits for home heating has been approved by a House committee.

The $51 million program, reducing the income tax load for low income persons with high heating bills compared to income, would replace the annual direct subsidy to elderly, low income persons for heating cost.

It can grow in a teacup

Small enough to grow comfortably in a teacup — that's the miniature sinningia (Sinningia species).

These tiny relatives of the African violet rarely grow more than two inches tall. Michigan State University horticulturists suggest that they are ideal flowering plants for terrariums and mini-gardens.

The flowers of the miniature sinningias look like tiny, pastel-colored cornucopias rearing above the small mound of dark green leaves.

Pot these plants in a humusy soil made of equal parts peat moss and houseplant potting soil. Or use a prepared mixture for African violets. Water whenever the soil surface begins to feel dry to keep the soil around the roots moderately moist, but not soaking wet at all times. Fertilize every one or two months when the plants are actively growing.

Place sinningias where they will be exposed to humid air and bright, indirect light. Though they will survive in partial shade, they require bright light to flower.

Garden beds

Talk to most any gardener who has built frames to enclose raised beds for vegetables and flowers and you'll get an enthusiastic recommendation. Raised beds are so effective that you'll kick yourself for not building them sooner. Raised beds, according to those who use them, mean soil drains faster and warms up more quickly producing earlier vegetables; labor in weeding, watering and harvesting is reduced; water soaks in rather than running off; earthworms thrive in the moist environment; and gardens look neater. Raised beds need not be expensive. Frames can be built of used or rough lumber, painted or dipped in copper naphthenate, a wood preservative that is not toxic to plants. Do not use creosote, "Dipenta" or copper sulphate, however. They can kill plants. Frames should be at least six inches deep and should not be more than four to five feet wide so vegetables can be harvested without stepping into the bed and compacting the soil.

Ask the Plant Doctor

By GREGORY PATCHAN Extension
Horticultural Agent
May 30, 1978

Dear Plant Doctor:

I have noticed that the leaves of our oak trees are misshapen by clusters of round swellings. What malady has struck our trees? B.V.
Dear B.V.:

The condition you described is called oak gall. The galls are caused when a small wasp like insect stings the leaves and lays eggs. The galls are more unsightly than they are destructive and nothing can be done now to eliminate them. Chemical controls are seldom required, but you can reduce the problem by spraying with Lindane when the leaves are emerging. Nearly one hundred different galls have been found on oaks.

I suspect your problem is being caused by cabbage maggots tunneling in the root system of your plants. This destructive insect also attacks cabbage, brussel sprouts and cauliflower. Carefully dig out one of your plants and inspect the root system. If maggots are the culprits, you will find small, white worm like insects in the roots. Transplants should be treated with Diazinon (Spectracide) to prevent this problem; however, there is little that can be done now. You can still have broccoli this season by seeding directly into the garden in late June for a fall harvest. Be sure to thin the plants to stand two feet apart in rows three feet apart. These plants will produce late in the fall. Do not forget the insecticide treatment.

Dear Plant Doctor:

Nearly all our broccoli plants are wilting and dying. Watering doesn't help so what can we do? N.H.
Dear N.H.:

Dear Plant Doctor:

The home we just purchased has an established asparagus bed. How long can we eat the spears and then what do we do? N.H.

An established healthy asparagus bed can be cut for 6 to 8 weeks. After this time, stop cutting and allow the ferns to develop which will produce stored food for the crowns to use next spring. In the spring, apply 30 lbs. of 5-10-5 fertilizer per 1,000 sq. ft.

Rural life: look before that leap

Ah, country life! Fresh air, room for a garden sweeping vistas, nature at your doorstep. A return to the "simple life" and a retreat from noise, pollution and city crowds.

That's how many Michiganders view a move to the country. Though their goals can be attained, there are some hard realities to be explored before making the move.

A new bulletin, "Getting Into Country Living," E-1140, published by Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service, lists points to consider before making a move to the country. It is available from local county Extension offices for $1.

The authors are: Elizabeth B. Mowery-Daly, Clare Brown, John Comstock, Eckhart Dersch, Leo Dorr, Peter Gladhart, Larry Libby and Wayne Nierman, members of the MSU Department of Resource Development and/or MSU Extension Service.

The bulletin's four chapters — Michigan Moves to the Country; Considering the Move; Choosing Your Place; Living in the Country — provide some insights into the advantages and disadvantages of country life, relates Barbara Arnold, MSU Extension specialist in community resource development.

The following are some of the points raised by the bulletin.

"The simple life" can become complicated as you try to build or remodel your dream home amidst a tangle of building codes and restrictions. You may find after you've bought your country place that local ordinances prohibit doing the things you planned on: owning a horse, building a compost pile for the garden or running a home-based business.

A move from the city to the country involves some trade-offs — some things you must give up to get other things. Making your getaway to the peace and quiet and wide open spaces of country life usually means spending more time — and money — to commute to work. Shopping, theatres, restaurants, after-school activities and old friends are also no longer as close as they used to be.

Country life isn't free of many of the problems that plague city dwellers. Contrary to popular myth, crime and other emergencies do exist in rural areas. It may take the local county sheriff — as well as the fire department and ambulance — longer to respond to your call than it would in the city. As a result, your insurance may cost you more in the country.

Other costs may be higher, too. Utilities are likely to be higher in rural areas. Natural gas is not readily available, and many rural homes are heated with oil or bottled gas, which is more expensive. Initial hook-ups of electricity and telephone may require that new poles be set and wire strung for some distance, which can make hook-ups costly.

To avoid unpleasant surprises later, find out everything you can about the property you're considering before you buy. First, look into the legal land description of the property, its current assessed value, special assessments pending and long-term land use plans for the area. Learn what county and township the property is located in and find out how that government unit regulates land ownership and use through zoning ordinances and building restrictions and requirements.

Examine the physical characteristics of the property. Find out whether the geology of the area will interfere with or prohibit building a house foundation or drilling a well.

Does the property have a reliable source of safe water? What are your options in sanitary waste disposal? Can the land handle a septic tank system? Is the area in a flood plain or high risk erosion area? Is the soil suitable for whatever you intend to do with your land? What about the weather and climate? How cold does it get in winter? How much does it snow?

Fig fiddler

A large, low maintenance plant for interior landscaping — that's the fiddleleaf fig (Ficus lyrata).

This erect, branching shrub with its glossy, fiddle-shaped, footlong leaves is a native of tropical west Africa. As a houseplant, it usually reaches a height of five feet or more. In the wild it's a 40-foot tree.

Michigan State University horticulturists advise potting the fiddleleaf fig in standard houseplant potting soil.

'Friendship' is rugged

Hybrid tea rose is '79 All-American

FRIENDSHIP

It's a rugged, strong growing, bushy hybrid tea rose.

And it's the 1979 All-American Rose with the name "Friendship."

Friendship was hybridized by the well-known rose breeder, Robert V. Lindquist, Sr. of Hemet, California, who began hybridizing in 1948 and, prior to Friendship, already had three All-American winners to his credit — Granada, Tiffany and Command Performance.

According to the experts, it appears Friendship will be a "very hardy variety, as it came through last winter's severe weather in our more northern test gardens without loss."

Friendship makes a tall bush, producing a great profusion of very large blooms throughout the season, which is somewhat surprising because rose varieties bearing large flowers usually bloom sparingly.

The color descriptions of Friendship vary from coral rose, salmon pink inner petals, coral-rose, to flesh, and any one of them could be right, depending upon when you happen to look at the four to five-inch blooms.

The buds, long-ovoid and deep coral color, deepen to a rich coral pink as the petals role back and open into the large, fully double flower.

The form of both bud and bloom is excellent and while the color varies with each observer, it is always attractive, particularly when a light flush of salmon-red appears at the edge of each petal.

Blossoms have a good petal sustenance and last for a long time, both in the garden and when used as a cut flower. In addition, they possess the added virtue of a strong, sweet fragrance.

SUNDOWNER

A very vigorous 1979 grandiflora award winner, the Sundowner has medium to large gleaming-orange blossoms borne on very long stems.

When first opening this rose has such an intense coloring that it actually seems fluorescent.

The 40 petal flowers are slightly ruffled, with excellent form and substance. As the bloom approaches maturity, salmon tints appear on the outer edges of the petals, giving the flower an apricot cast, which gradually fades to a soft pink as the petals drop.

The brilliant blooms exude a delightfully spicy fragrance and a fresh cut bouquet will fill a room with the perfume.

PARADISE

In the opinion of the All-American judges, the award winning 1979 Paradise "is one of the most distinctive and novel hybrid tea roses ever produced."

It has a most unusual color combination, while at the same time presenting a rose of striking beauty.

Hybridized by Ollie Weeks of Ontario, California, it is expected to attract world-wide attention and admiration.

From the long, pointed, deep ruby buds, to the fully double four-inch exquisitely formed open bloom, many shades of lavender, purple, bright pink and rich ruby red come and go during the various stages of flower opening.

silvery lavender, with each petal brushed at the edges with a vivid, bright pink, presenting a rose in an entirely new and unique color combination.

As the flower ages, or in cool weather, the silver-lavender deepens and the pink becomes a bright, ruby red, which appears literally poured around each petal margin, from which it gradually spreads over the flower.

The variety attracted the attention of the AARS judges and the public as well, as it came into bloom in the test gardens, and for the first time in the 38-year history of AARS awards, the entire rose jury elected it as an award winner by acclamation without a formal vote being taken.

The plant of the Paradise is vigorous and bushy, well covered with large, deep glossy green foliage, which forms an excellent background for displaying the most fascinating rose that has been produced in many years.

The flower petals have good substance and hold up well as cut flowers, or on the bush. Black spot will not be a problem with this rose with the spray or dust protection ordinarily given in a rose garden.

According to AARS judges, "We have only the two-year's severe winter in some gardens where other varieties were killed."

You cannot see those nematodes; but they're at root of crop harm

Nematodes are microscopic roundworms. In Michigan, those that feed primarily on plant roots do millions of dollars' worth of damage to crops each year. They can also be a serious pest in the home garden, lawn and landscape.

"One reason nematode damage is often so serious is that the symptoms of an infestation look like those of many other problems," observes Bobbi Lawrence, Washtenaw County Horticultural Agent.

"Stunting, wilting, yellowing, reduced yields, and root galls and lesions can be caused by nematodes, other plant pests, disease organisms, too much or too little water, and too much or too little fertilizer. By the time the other possibilities have been eliminated and nematodes are the prime suspect, the damage may be done."

It usually takes a laboratory analysis of soil and root tissue to confirm a nematode problem. "If you can see something in the soil, it's not a nematode," Lawrence says. "Plant-parasitic nematodes are much too small to be seen with the unaided eye."

In the home garden, tomatoes, peppers, cucumbers, strawberries, lettuce and cabbage are frequently the target of the northern root-knot nematode. Swellings on the roots of these plants are a symptom of the pest.

Because the nematodes' feeding interferes with the plants' ability to take up water and nutrients from the soil, plants are stunted and may wilt no matter how much water is available. Yields and quality of produce are low.

The homeowner with a nematode problem doesn't have many options, Lawrence says. There are no chemical controls for nematodes registered for use in the home garden. Cultural practices can help — like crop rotation to follow nematode-susceptible crops like tomatoes with more resistant crops like onions and radishes — but they are no cure.

Non-tropical origin for piggyback plant

The piggyback plant (Tolmiea menziesii) is one of the few common houseplants that did not originate in the tropics.

It is a native of the Pacific Coast of the United States and prefers somewhat different conditions than those in which tropical plants thrive.

One look at the plant will tell you how it came by its common name. It consists of a mound of ragged-edged, heart-shaped leaves on long stems. Plantlets form at the base of each leaf, giving the appearance of one plant riding piggyback on another. The plantlets root readily in water or soil.

Michigan State University horticulturists advise placing it in cool spot — 60-65 degrees F during the day, 45-50 degrees at night — that receives bright, indirect light most of the year and full sun in winter.

Pot it in a standard houseplant potting soil with provisions for good drainage. Water whenever the soil surface begins to dry out to keep the soil around the roots uniformly moist, but not wet, at all times.

Fertilize every two months with any standard houseplant fertilizer.

Potential problems with the piggyback plant stem from overwatering which causes browning of the leaf tips. Exposure to direct sun can also be a problem, except in winter, the foliage burns easily.

Possible pests include red spider mites and mealybugs. Watch for them and treat any infestation at once. Propagate by rooting plantlets.

Equal Housing Opportunity statement
We are pleased to have the letter and spirit of U.S. policy for the achievement of equal housing opportunity throughout the Nation.
We encourage and support an affirmative advertising and marketing program in which there are no barriers to obtaining housing because of race color religion or national origin.
Equal Housing Opportunity slogan

father of triplets."
Politician "Impossible! I demand a recount."

"At the parade today, did you notice how well
Googan beat the big bass drum?"
"Indeed I did!"
"I found out why. He had a picture of his mother-in-law pasted on it!"

The funeral service was over and "Digger" the undertaker found himself

"Yes I am!" answered the older.
"How old are ya?"
"Ninety four!"
"Hmmm" said Digger,
"Hardly pays you to make the trip home!"

TRAINEES

We need men and women with career potential or experience in management to grow with our young, rapidly expanding organization. A college degree is helpful, but not essential.

We need people who are:
• Industrious and willing workers
• Performers who can get the job done
• Consistent, dedicated, and dependable
• And have a super attitude.

To these people, we offer
• A complete training program
• A sound and progressive salary
• Company paid insurance benefits and vacations
• Above all, fast promotions based on Performance and Attitude

PTA dishes up ice cream social at Amerman

Recipe for the success of an ice cream social includes one very undependable ingredient — the weather. The ice cream, the cakes and punch and even the crowd of young and old can be counted on, but it takes a warm evening in June to make a social a "real success."

And that's just what Amerman Elementary PTA planners were lucky enough to get for their annual social the second Friday in June.

Since this is "the big event of the year" at Amerman, chairmen Marcia Greiner and Elaine Talsma, report happily that the social was attended by "as good a crowd as we've ever had because the weather was so nice."

Just as church socials were friendly gatherings around the turn of the century, the Amerman event has been a festive evening for a dozen years. It's become a tradition that includes a cake walk competition and features popcorn, punch and ice cream cones or sundaes served with cakes, pie and cookies.

Mothers and dads dish out the goodies to everyone from children to neighbors and grandparents.

And when a "treat" can raise $415 for PTA projects, that's rather great.

BETH ARQUETTE

Announcement is made of the engagement of Beth Ann Arquette to Donald James Wilber II. Both have been classmates at Northville High School and are graduates of the Class of 1978.

Announcing the engagement are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Dean Arquette of 51824 Eight Mile.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald James Wilber I of 19639 Clement. He now is employed by Great Lakes Plastics in Salem.

A November wedding is planned.

KAREN DYKE

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Dyke of 46265 Sunset announce the engagement of their daughter, Karen Janice, to Paul M. Reiff.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Reiff of Bloomfield Township.

The bride-elect, a 1971 graduate of Northville High School, received her BS degree in social work in 1975 from Western Michigan University and her MA degree in counseling in 1977 from Michigan State University. She is employed by Clinton County School District and is living in St. Johns.

Her fiancé received his BS degree in psychology from Michigan State University and currently is a master's degree candidate. He is employed by the East Lansing Public Schools. They are planning a fall wedding.

CECILY HAYWARD

Mrs. James Hayward of 42115 Brampton Court announces the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Cecily, to William Charland. She is a May, 1978, graduate of the

ALICIA JANE PIERSMA

University of Michigan with a major in Industrial Design.

Her fiancé received his MFA from U-M this May and is teaching at the University of Northern Colorado at Greeley. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Charland of Sterling Heights, Michigan.

They have set an August 5 wedding date.

ALICIA JANE PIERSMA

Announcement of the engagement of Alicia Jane Piersma of Holland, Michigan, to Scott H. Evans is made by her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Norman R. Piersma.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Evans of 20311 Woodhill Road.

Dr. and Mrs. Piersma presently are residing in Colombia, South America, where they are serving as medical and religious missionaries.

Scott, a 1972 graduate of Northville High School, was president of his class in 1976 on graduation from Michigan State University where he was a building construction and design major. He is a member of Sigma Chi fraternity and now is with IBM in Detroit. He lives at 3641 Mann Road in Pontiac.

His fiancé's high school education was at Alliance Academy in Quito, Ecuador. She attended Hope College for two years where she affiliated with Sigma Sigma and now is at MSU. She expects to graduate in December with a BS in retailing, clothing and textiles. She is a model for Saks Fifth Avenue, Gail and Rice Agency and Affiliated Models. A December 30 wedding is planned.

In Our Town

Anniversary parties honor three couples

By JEAN DAY

Silver anniversary celebrations are a reminder that June has been the traditional wedding month. Children of three local couples who spoke their vows 25 years ago honored their parents at special celebrations this month.

Richard Barrons renew vows

A 6:30 p.m. Mass at the new Holy Family Church in Novi on June 10 preceded a party for Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Barron of 21000 East Chigwidden. Father Gerard Hadad of Our Lady of Victory Church officiated as they renewed their marriage vows. They were married on June 6, 1953, in Niles, Michigan.

Their daughter, Sarah, and son-in-law, David Marino, of Novi then hosted the party in Applegate Clubhouse with friends and relatives attending from the area and from Kalamazoo and Niles.

Co-hosts were their other children and husbands, Barbara and Steve Woiwode of Kalamazoo, Mary and William Andrews of Rochester, Michigan, and David, Carrie, Betsy and Andy at home.

McLeods, Eltinges surprised

Children of Mr. and Mrs. I. M. McLeod, Jr., of 42254 Sundale and Mr. and Mrs. Lamont Eltinge of 45754 Fermanagh combined forces to honor both sets of parents at a surprise open house Sunday, June 11. Impetus for the joint festivity was the discovery that both couples had been married on June 13, 1953.

The Donald Willoughbys assisted in making the event a surprise by taking the couples out to lunch after church. They returned to the McLeod home where about 54 guests dropped by to offer congratulations. As a special surprise, Mrs. McLeod's sister, Mrs. Sandra George, flew in the day before from Coffeyville, Kansas, and stayed overnight in a motel to be on hand at just the right time.

The McLeods were married in Coffeyville while the Eltinge ceremony took place in Chicago.

Carolyn and Bruce McLeod and John and Barbara Eltinge, children of the couples were the planners. Barbara had just been graduated May 17 from Vanderbilt University and has taken a position as mechanical engineer with Proctor and Gamble in Cincinnati.

Eunice Switzler hosts workers

A "thank you" luncheon was given Friday by Mrs. William Switzler of 43403 Reservoir for officers and board of Northville Woman's Club. Mrs. Switzler has completed her two-year term as president of the club, turning the gavel over to Mrs. John Brown at the end of the club year in March.

It turned out to be a busier-than-expected week, Eunice Switzler mentions, as she accepted a position in the Northville Township Office where she is working with Margaret Tegge.

Antiques topic at Meadowbrook

Because Mrs. David Rees is a member of Meadowbrook Country Club public relations committee (the only feminine member, in fact), and was challenged to "come up with a different program," there will be a luncheon and talk on antique furniture at the club next Wednesday, June 28. Katharine B. Hagler, antique furniture curator at the Henry Ford Museum, will give a slide-talk following cocktails and will answer questions until luncheon at 1 p.m.

Guests of Mrs. Rees, who lives in Meadowbrook Glens, will be her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Clay, who arrived from Hartfordshire, England, Monday for a three-week visit. Mrs. Rees explains that her hobbies are gardening and antiques and that she drew upon the latter for the program. She's a collector of Wedgewood.

MR. AND MRS. WAYNE DONALD STAFFORD

Couple recites vows in Mill Race ceremony

Northville's Mill Race Historical Village was the setting May 27 for the double ring nuptials which united Cynthia Ann Smelser and Wayne Donald Stafford.

Brother James Beech of the Central Church of Christ of Westland performed the ceremony in front of a large floral arch in the old library building at the village.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Smelser of 24100 Chubb Road and Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Stafford of 7542 Earhart Road, all of South Lyon.

"Wedding Prayer" and "I Take Thee Dear" were sung by members of the Westland church choir under the direction of Milton Jordan. Included in the choir were Craig and Tom Smelser, brothers of the bride. Greg Kerwin of South Lyon sang "Love Story".

The bride wore her mother's wedding gown of full length white nylon sheer over white satin. The skirt was adorned with hand-appliques of Belgium lace. The same lace etched the Sabrina neckline and wrist points of the long sleeves. Her fingertip-length veil was trimmed with matching lace.

The bride's only jewelry was a diamond necklace given to her by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Dunn of Wayne. She carried a bouquet of white carnations, roses and babies' breath.

Annette Betley was her friend's maid of honor. Her country-style floor length dress was in tiny yellow print. She carried a bouquet of daisies, yellow carnations and babies' breath.

Judy Hill, Kris Page and Sue Pelchat were the bridesmaids wearing matching country-style gowns in green print. Their bouquets were of daisies, green carnations and babies' breath.

Ten year old Rene Jordan, wearing a long green gown printed with daisies, passed out the rice packets after the ceremony.

Nick Chrumka was the best man. Scott Herald, Jon White and Collin Lince seated the guests. The bridegroom wore a cream-colored tuxedo and the groomsmen wore beige tuxedos.

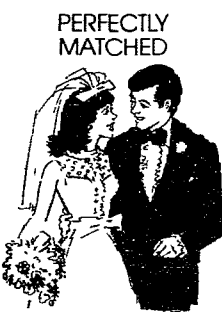

The American Legion Hall in Northville was the location for the afternoon luncheon reception for 100 guests. The hall was decorated with green and yellow paper carnations and streamers.

Following a wedding trip to northern Michigan, the couple are residing at 65750 Eight Mile Road, South Lyon.

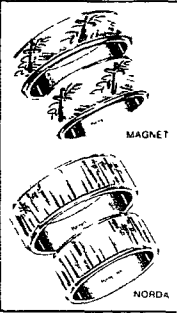

Both are 1977 graduates of South Lyon High School. The new Mrs. Stafford is employed at Del's Shoes, Northville.

Out-of-town guests were the Herbert L. Smelsers Sr. of McRae, Arkansas and Phil Pernice and Jim Donaldson, both of New York.

MR. AND MRS. SCOTT JAMES LAPHAM

Deborah Cecil is wed to Scott Lapham here

A wedding trip to the Virgin Islands followed the May 27 candlelight exchange of vows between Deborah Jean Cecil and Scott James Lapham in First Presbyterian Church of Northville.

The Reverend Lloyd G. Brasure performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Robert and Jean Cecil of Westland. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Lapham of 46907 Grasmere.

The bride's gown of white chiffon was fashioned with a pearl-beaded bodice of Alencon lace. Accordion-pleated chiffon formed the full sleeves and chapel-length train. A large picture hat of pearl-beaded Alencon lace, accordion-pleated chiffon and veiling complemented the gown.

White roses, stephanotis and spengeri formed the cascade arrangement carried by the bride.

Mrs. Catherine Wedge of Grosse

Pointe Woods, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. Terry Lapham, sister of the bridegroom, was a bridesmaid. Friends of the bride in attendance were Sue Adkins, Cindy Bernges and Monica Walker of Livonia.

Charles Lapham was best man for his son. Ushers were John Ferris, Robert Poppe of Northville, Dean Myers of Livonia and Ken Weiser of Brighton.

The newlyweds received guests at a dinner reception at Meadowbrook Country Club.

The out-of-town guests from Florida, New York, California as well as East Lansing, Petosky and East Tawas, Michigan, included the couple's grandparents. The bride's grandparents attending were Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Smith of Williamsville, New York, and Mrs. Alice Cecil of Mt. Dora, Florida; while the bridegroom's were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Taylor of East Tawas.

The couple will be living in Plymouth.

Admission, use fees set for Mill Race

Suggested admission charges as well as a new schedule of building rental fees were voted by Northville Historical Society Board of Directors for Mill Race Historical Village at its June 15 meeting.

Visitors to the grounds and five buildings in the Mill Race property, located on Griswold off Main, will be asked to pay $1 a family, or 50 cents a person with children under 12 free and no charge for historical society members, board member-publicity chairman Virginia Hayward announces.

The suggested fees, to aid restoration work of the society, will be posted while docents are on duty from 1 to 4 p.m. Sundays, she said, but stressed that visitors who do not pay will not be excluded from the village. Docents are on duty in both the Hunter double-wing Greek Revival house and the Victorian Yerkes home Sunday afternoons.

Because the New School Church, formerly called the old library building, in the Mill Race Village has become a popular place for meetings and weddings, it has become necessary to replace volunteer help with a paid worker who schedules events.

Katherine Mock, who may be called at 348-2847, is taking reservations for use of the church and also for events on the Mill Race grounds.

Fees for the use of the New School Church, which has become a popular location for weddings, are $60 for the first one-and-a-half hours and $50 for the next hour-and-a-half and $50 each hour thereafter, Mrs. Hayward said.

There is no fee for the wedding rehearsal or for opening the building so that a florist or caterer may view it beforehand.

While liquor may not be served, Mrs. Hayward explains, it is possible to have a champagne or wine punch at the receptions there. The church has a seating capacity of 100 and has kitchen, dressing and bathroom facilities in the basement.

There is to be no June meeting of the historical society, but a full schedule of events for July 4 under the direction of Francis Gazlay is planned. No admission will be charged during the holiday weekend.

Gazlay also is in charge of all village construction and maintenance.

A picnic for society members and families will be held in the village in August. Rose Beaudoin and Charlene Merritt are society co-chairmen of the annual Northville Home Tour in September for which the village is open. The tour is co-sponsored by the First Presbyterian Church Women's Association.

Next business meeting of the society will be in October with the Tivoli Fair scheduled for November under chairmanship of Pat Meyers and Carol Stockhausen. A Christmas party will be in December. Annual society dinner-dance again is slated for February with election of officers in May.

Robert Daniel was elected society president at the annual meeting May 25. Other officers are Kenneth Harrison, vice president; James Beaudoin, treasurer; Joan Hoffman recording secretary; John Carter, corresponding secretary.

Docent co-chairmen are Sharon Lineman and Karen Paulos. Membership chairman is Liz Joslin who may be contacted at 349-8533.

Fisher, Nield births told

A baby daughter, Maria Elizabeth, was born June 4 at St. Mary Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. James Fisher of South Lyon. Mrs. Fisher is the former Diana Black.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Fisher of Beck Road in Novi and Mr. and Mrs. Del Black of Northville.

Birth of their first son and second child, Jeffrey Christopher, is announced by Mr. and Mrs. James Nield of 21753 Kilrush. In his honor a baby rose was placed on the chancel rail of First Presbyterian Church of Northville last Sunday.

He was born June 14 at Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak and joins a sister, Stacey, 3, at home. He weighed eight pounds, five ounces at birth.

Grandparents are Mrs. Barbara Smith of Coldwater, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Nield of New Canaan, Connecticut. Great-grandmothers are Mrs. Palmera Freda of Schumberg, Illinois, and Mrs. B. L. Bates of Ovid, Michigan.

PWP change location

Meeting place for the June 27 meeting of Northville-Nowi Parents Without Partners has been changed to the Northville scout-recreation building, 215 West Cady, with the afterglow to be held at Vargo's restaurant. The meeting will be at 8 p.m.

LaLeche meets today

Second in a series of four meetings on breastfeeding, sponsored by the Northville-Nowi La Leche League will be held at 8 p.m. today (Wednesday) at the home of Joan Mason, 549 Dunlap in Northville.

The session will deal with the art of breastfeeding and how to overcome difficulties. Subsequent meetings will be held at the same time and place July 19 and August 16.

For information and telephone help, mothers are invited to call leaders Charlene Frellick, 349-2840, or Kay Semion, 981-1028.

ADVERTISED ITEM POLICY

Each of these advertised items is required to be readily available for sale at or below the advertised price in each A&P Store, except as specifically noted in this ad.

Prices effective Wed., June 21 thru Sat., June 24, 1978. We reserve the right to limit quantities. Items offered for sale not available to other retail dealers or wholesalers.

WHAT ABOUT TRIM?

The proper trim on our beef is important at A&P's Butcher Shop because we don't want you to pay, or even think you're paying one penny extra for unnecessary bone and fat. It's a precise business. We have to trim the beef so the extra bone and fat is taken off before the retail cut is weighed, packaged and priced by weight. Yet we have to leave on just enough fat cover for full flavor. At A&P we trim off all fat in excess of 1/2 inch.

PRECISE TRIM - LOOK FOR IT NEXT TIME YOU VISIT THE BUTCHER SHOP.

OLV slates Bible school

During the week of July 10-14, Our Lady of Victory Church will be conducting a Vacation Bible School program for children in grades kindergarten through fifth. Classes will be held in Our Lady of Victory

School from 9:30 a.m. to noon. This is the first year that the religious education office at Our Lady of Victory is sponsoring such a program. Volunteer teachers will be using the "Hosanna" series which is published by the Augsburg Press.

This series, specifically designed for Vacation Bible School programs, encourages students to praise God through their daily activity.

The program incorporates scripture lessons, worship and arts and crafts.

There will be time given also for light snacks, recess and playground activity. The closing of the program will be a Mass prepared by the students and a potluck supper for families.

Students registering for the program are asked to contact the Religious Education Office at Our Lady of Victory.

Science fiction film's free

This Thursday, the Northville Public Library will be showing the film, "Journey to the Center of the Earth."

This award-winning science fiction film is based on the novel by Jules Verne.

Suitable for all ages, it begins at 2 p.m. and runs for two and a half hours. There is no charge for admission.

Registration for the summer reading program is going on now at the Northville Public Library, and will continue through June 30.

"Book Trek into New Worlds" is the theme of this year's six-week program, which ends July 28.

The library maintains a reading record for all those who register. Participants who read 10 or more books receive a certificate at the end of the program.

The program is open to all school-age readers. Many activities, such as science fiction film programs and a costume party on the final day, are planned.

Witnesses convene at Silverdome

Three hundred persons are representing area Jehovah's Witnesses congregations at a convention beginning today and continuing through Sunday at the Pontiac Silverdome.

Spokesman Walt Kowalchuk of the local congregation reported that 45,000 delegates are anticipated for the convention, coming both from Ohio and Michigan.

The convention is one of 20 international gatherings to be held by Jehovah's Witnesses for the continental United States during this summer.

The Witnesses are utilizing some of the largest sports stadiums in the country for this series of international meetings.

They include four covered facilities — Astrodom in Houston; Superdome in New Orleans; Kingdome in Seattle; and the new Silverdome in Pontiac.

Kowalchuk added that 760,000 persons are expected to attend the conventions at which three languages will be used — English, Spanish and French.

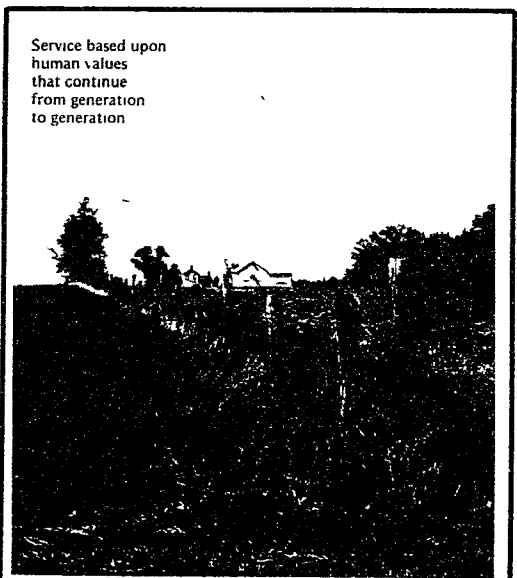

Five conventions are planned for Canada with an estimated attendance of 145,000.

Theme of the convention year is "Victorious Faith."

"There are many issues confronting society today," Kowalchuk said.

"These include changing moral standards, emphasis on materialism, social problems, energy crises and an accelerating arms race. The convention program will stress the value of faith in the Bible as Christians face these issues and other problems of daily life."

She's Frances Yoakam

Allen Terrace director's hired

Frances R. Yoakam, who began work this week as director of Allen Terrace Apartments, is looking forward to a phenomenon in September.

"It's so rewarding to turn keys over to the very first tenants," she explains, "and then see how varied 100 identical units become — the difference is astonishing."

Mrs. Yoakam speaks from experience. To take the Northville post she has just resigned as executive director of the City of Plymouth Housing Commission, a part-time position she had held for eight years. During that time she saw Plymouth's 60-unit senior housing project, Tonquish Manor, opened.

This week senior citizens who will be occupying the 100 apartments in Allen Terrace will be introduced to Mrs. Yoakam through the first of several progress reports she plans to send out.

Then she is hoping to meet tenants as they sign leases in the office she expects to occupy shortly in the new complex.

"I want to be in as soon as possible and also to have a 'sample' apartment ready for them to see," she says.

The Allen Terrace director is enthusiastic about the facility.

"The whole building is beautiful and so well designed," she exclaims, mentioning how the activity room is located right off the lobby.

"The apartments when vacant are deceiving in size — they have most usable space with more than ample closets."

Mrs. Yoakam now has a temporary office in Northville City Hall, but is working toward operating from the one in Allen Terrace as soon as possible. "I told them I don't care if it's painted," she declared, "I want to be there so tenants can come to see me. I hope they'll just call first so I can be sure to be in the office."

Initially she will be setting up files and keeping those who signed up for the apartments informed of progress.

"I anticipate feedback from my first progress report," she notes candidly, "because we're going to have to be reasonable and honest and say that occupancy now probably will be during the month of September."

At last week's meeting of the Northville Housing Commission the September date looked realistic.

"It just depends on the strike," confirms City Manager Steven Walters, who said they had been hoping the sheet metal workers would be back on the job before all related work was delayed.

"We're still hoping we can update the time," Mrs. Yoakam agrees with Walters.

"It seems to happen in all construction work," she points out. For that reason those planning to move into Allen Terrace had been advised to make provisions in any home sales agreements for occupancy to be contingent upon their moving into the new building.

Mrs. Yoakam, whose director post here is full time, plans to operate on a flexible time schedule, feeling that there will be evening activities for which she will be on hand.

She plans a low-key approach to activities, saying she probably will start with an informal get-together over cups of coffee.

"Getting to know you" will be the approach as Mrs. Yoakam stresses that tenants' likes and interests will determine activities.

In Plymouth, for example, she mentions, many said they did not need arts and crafts-type programs.

"They said they already had too many things in their apartments that their grandchildren had made for them."

Bingo, she adds, has not been particularly big, but some card games go on.

"There's an exercise bike that residents ride, and we've had exercise programs at the apartment."

Through Schoolcraft College special programs have been presented at the Plymouth facility, and Mrs. Yoakam expects to have similar offerings here.

A resident of Plymouth with her husband, Victor, and three daughters, Mrs. Yoakam recalls that she started at Tonquish Manor as a temporary position when it first opened because they lived close by.

"I really liked it, and stayed on," Mrs. Yoakam recalls. At that time the family had just returned from a Ford assignment in Ireland and had moved to Plymouth. They previously had lived in Ypsilanti.

Her husband is in quality control with Ford Motor Company at its Ypsilanti plant. Their youngest daughter, Brenda, was just graduated from high school and will be enrolling at Michigan State University this fall. Daughter Diane is finishing her second year at MSU while middle daughter, Ellen, is completing her freshman year at Western Michigan University.

It's a good time, Frances Yoakam agrees, for her to find a new, challenging job.

In her previous post, she also oversaw a Plymouth Housing Commission project of subsidizing people in their own apartments.

During this time she enrolled in the gerontology program at Madonna College. It is probably the only college in Michigan to have an undergraduate program on the problems of aging, Mrs. Yoakam mentions.

She has received her certificate indicating 30 hours of work in the area and now serves on the board for gerontology study at Madonna.

She also has received her certification as housing manager from the National Center of Housing Management in Washington, D.C., which required two weeks of intensive training in housing management for the elderly.

She's a certified public housing manager by the National Association of Housing Redevelopment Officials.

From her studies and work, Fran Yoakam knows what to expect at Allen Terrace.

Would you loan money to a young man who wanted to buy a motor home and drive 125 mph?

We did, and it turned out to be a good investment. For him and us.

We're Manufacturers Bank. He's Tom D'Eath, winner of the 1976 Gold Cup for unlimited hydroplanes.

Tom leads the kind of life a lot of young men only dream about. He's service manager of the family marina on Harsen's Island. A professional race car driver. A champion boat racer in everything from outboard to Grand Prix categories. And, as we mentioned, winner of the Gold Cup for unlimited hydroplanes.

The only problem with that kind of very active life is that it was separating Tom from his wife, son and daughter for long periods of time. That's when Tom came to us. And we loaned him the money for a motor home. Since then, when Tom pulls out of Detroit for the race circuit (cars or boats) he takes his home and family along.

Why are we glad to loan money for such things as boats or motor homes to young people like Tom D'Eath? It's all part of our theory: If we stick by people like Tom while they're just getting started, we figure they'll stick by us once they make it.

So far, our theory seems to be working. Try it for yourself.

Forum participants

College forum views sexism in textbooks

They came to the Schoolcraft Women's Forum session on sexism in textbooks with their philosophies pinned to their chests.

"ERA-YES" read the tags worn by some members of the group, and their ideas were expressed by Ann Arbor attorney Jean King.

"We should educate our girls that they may not be homemakers all their lives," she said. "Unexpected things happen, and we should build options in to textbooks."

Connie Whiting of Detroit represented those wearing a "Ban ERA" button to the forum at Schoolcraft College.

She said she thought changing the texts currently in use amounts to a "blurring" of the issues.

"Our kids can't read, and the feminists fight for stupid issues like whether a man should be portrayed as taller than a woman or whether she should be shown doing heavy work," Mrs. Whiting said.

Mary Gibson, Livonian who works as a sales representative for Scholastic Magazine and Book Co., steered a middle course as the three women on the panel and the audience members explored the topic.

"Many companies have set guidelines for the use of sexism in textbooks," she said. "We haven't; we want a balance."

She pointed out, however, that women didn't begin appearing much in history books until about two years ago, and the matter of considering textbook stereotypes is a fairly recent one.

"Occupations are raising the questions now," she stated. "Women are now in jobs formerly male-dominated."

Comments from the audience were somewhat heated and followed the positions the buttons proclaimed.

"I read a study that said changing textbooks the way you suggest is confusing our kids," one woman told Ms. King. "We are turning out homosexuals because they are not being shown the traditional role models."

Tensions increased. The moderator, Karen Wilkinson of the Northville school board, reminded the women this was a discussion. Coats went on over ERA and anti-ERA buttons, and one matter of agreement was that the textbook issue was a hot one.

Frances Yoakam begins as Allen Terrace director

"It's a fact of life that most occupants will be single women," she notes, "and there won't be a lot of couples."

Residents, she knows from experience, will move in with heirloom furniture, furniture from the 1920's, all-new furniture — or, in one case in Plymouth, with just a suitcase and a bed.

"It's their home, and they'll put up pictures and bring in their own personality."

Some residents may bring a bird or goldfish, but that will be the limit in the pet area, Mrs. Yoakam expects.

The senior citizen center is not a medical facility, she emphasizes, noting that residents are aware of this, but their families may not be.

Mrs. Yoakam plans to have fire department briefings and says she tells tenants, "You know the habits of your neighbors; so, if anything seems different, let us know or do check."

She adds that "there will be no white caps running along the halls" as Allen Terrace residents are to be there "as long as they can care for themselves." There is a built-in bell system that will enable a resident to signal for help in case of a fall or other emergency.

The director expects to institute a Wayne County nutrition program as she did at Tonquish Manor. This is the senior citizen lunch program now administered at city hall.

"When you have this program," she explains, "other county programs, such as health screening, then come to the same site. In the summer there are comprehensive health physicals."

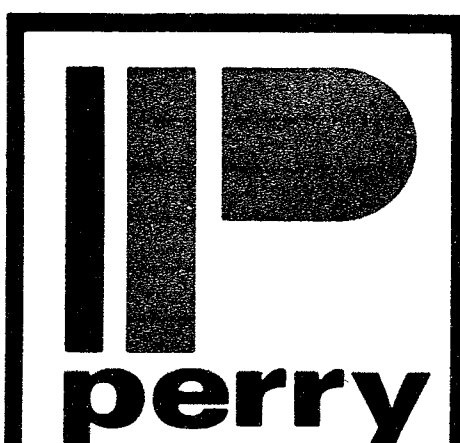

Plumbing has been installed in Allen Terrace so that a beauty shop can be located in the building at some future date. In the winter this can be a big plus, Mrs. Yoakam points out. She thinks the hillside location of the terrace may be a transportation problem to some residents that will have to be solved.

A library is planned. In the Plymouth facility, she illustrates, "solid walls of books" were donated when people were made aware of the need. The library in Plymouth brings in books appealing to senior citizens, including large print editions and books for the blind.

As Fran Yoakam talks about Allen Terrace's residents, she stresses a personal belief that should endear her to all:

"So many people are categorized by age — I don't believe in that. I don't ask about age for I see everyone as people with the only limitations being physical or mental."
