

Day-long Fourth of July festivities set for Tuesday

The appearance of Michigan Governor William Milliken, who is expected to arrive in Northville July 4 between 11:30 a.m. and noon, may be the climax of the annual Fourth of July parade.

Governor Milliken, invited by Jaycees to participate in Tuesday's parade, will be unable to do so. However, the governor indicated he will make a brief appearance — probably between 11 a.m. and noon — at the Mill Race festivities before travelling to Plymouth for the parade there.

Jim Totzkay, chairman of the Jaycees participation in the day-long festivities, said he will be at the Mill Race site to mingle with the crowd.

Efforts to entice the governor to the Northville celebration began in January, with many Jaycees and city, township and state officials deluging him with invitations.

"It's super that he's coming," Totzkay said. "It's probably the highest point of our Jaycee project over the years to finally be able to get the governor to attend the festivities here."

The Jaycees promise that this year's parade will be bigger and better than ever.

With "Support Community Athletics" as the theme of the parade, what could be more appropriate than marathon runners leading off the parade? More than 40 runners are expected to run the parade route in the first annual Northville to Plymouth Fourth of July Marathon.

The runners will be followed by a police escort, nine marching bands, six military marching groups, seven junior marching groups, four equestrian groups, nine floats, numerous sports groups, antique cars, buggies and state and local dignitaries.

The race and parade will leave the Northville Downs parking area at 10 a.m., going up Griswold to Main Street. It will proceed west on Main Street past the reviewing stand at Northville City Hall, then south on Rogers to Cady, and east on Cady back to Northville Downs.

The marathon runners will continue along the bike trail through Edward Hines Drive, ending in Plymouth at its Fourth of July festivities.

Runners can register for the race, co-sponsored by the Northville Jaycees and the Plymouth Jaycees, at 8:45 a.m. at Northville Downs on July 4. A $1 entry fee will be charged, and trophies will be awarded to the first man and woman to finish the race.

Ecumenical service slated

Members of nine area churches will join together for the third annual July 4 ecumenical worship service at 8 a.m. on the grounds of Mill Race Village. The public is invited to come sit on the lawn, or bring blankets or folding chairs, for the 45-minute service in front of the New School Church.

The morning homily will be presented by the Reverend Father Gerard Hadad, Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church, with lessons from the Scriptures given by the Reverend James Andrews, Full Salvation Union Church.

The combined choirs of Our Lady of Victory, First Presbyterian and First United Methodist churches of Northville will sing under the direction of guest conductor Kenneth Clum, with Ann MacDonald accompanying.

The services, sponsored by the Northville Historical Commission, will begin with a greeting by the Reverend Lloyd G. Brasure, First Presbyterian Church of Northville, followed by a unison prayer led by the Reverend Richard Hendersen, Faith Community Presbyterian Church of Novi. The Reverend Leslie Harding, Holy Cross Episcopal Church in Novi, will give the benediction.

Members of Boy Scout Troop 775 will act as ushers.

Other participating churches are the Open Door Outreach Center of Northville and Holy Cross Episcopal, Holy Family Catholic and First United Methodist churches of Novi.

Hurrah for Fourth!

Northville's Independence Day celebration Tuesday promises to be one of the biggest, if not the biggest, in the state with non-stop activities from dawn to dusk. Following an 8 a.m. ecumenical service in the Mill Race Village will be a Masonic breakfast before the Jaycee-sponsored parade at 10 a.m.

A new parade entry this year will be the Cabbagetown Association float. Among the little "cabbages" riding on it will be, top, from left, Christen and Courtney Gazlay and Scott Byam.

The Gazlay youngsters' grandfather, Fran Gazlay, at right, pitches horseshoes in Mill Race Village to illustrate one of the day-long activities there for which he is Northville Historical Society chairman. Houses will be open and a large flea market again will be attractions. Jaycees will serve chicken dinners from a tent.

Northville Newcomers will carry out the parade theme, "Support Community Athletics," in a three-tier float, below, with, front to rear, Kurt Lehmkuhl and Eric Abbey demonstrating baseball; Richard Naszradi, basketball; Brad Lehmkuhl, hockey; Karla Pearson, baseball; and Patrick Naszradi, soccer.

After commitment, Errington backs out of school job here

Dr. Garth Errington, "overwhelmed" by the cost and congestion of suburban Detroit, changed his mind Saturday and rejected a three-year Northville superintendent's contract that he had verbally accepted four days earlier.

"It was one of the toughest decisions my family and I ever made," Errington said Monday in a telephone interview. "All I saw (in Northville) was a very excellent school district."

Errington, 44, said he will either remain another year in Albion, where he is superintendent, or accept the superintendent's post in Grandville near Grand Rapids.

Monday night, a discouraged Northville school board decided to wait until after the July Fourth holidays to resume the superintendent search.

Burton Knighton, Northville's director of personnel for the last two years, was appointed as acting superintendent.

A week ago Monday, the school board had chosen Errington from the eight men it chose to interview from a list of applicants numbering about 80.

The next night, after a public dinner meeting at the Hillside Inn in Plymouth, Errington met privately with board President John Hobart who offered him the contract.

Errington accepted and agreed to come to Northville by the end of the summer. Departing Superintendent Raymond Spear leaves Northville on July 1 for DeWitt, but the board expected Knighton to head the schools during the transition period.

DR. GARTH ERRINGTON
He won't be coming here

Wednesday, the Erringtons toured Northville and Friday Mrs. Errington picked up a copy of the contract from Hobart's Livonia business office.

Hobart said there was no indication then that Errington had changed his mind. Saturday, he got the bad news from Albion.

"Obviously, it was very much of a surprise to me," said Hobart. "We had a verbal agreement on the contract."

"It isn't the greatest position to be in, I'll tell you that. Whoever we get at this particular point, it's pretty obvious that they are not our first choice."

The board had actually centered in on two candidates, Errington and Dr. Elvin Peets of East Jackson, who were considered outstanding.

Had Errington rejected the contract Tuesday, Peets who was sitting on an offer from the Van Buren school district, would have been given the job.

Thursday, Peets signed a contract with Van Buren.

Errington said his change of mind was a "personal decision evolved around a desire for us to get away from the Detroit metro area."

Errington said he and his wife were "overwhelmed with the cost of living and the cost of housing and, the more we looked at the area, the congestion and the traffic."

Errington grew up in northwest Detroit and his mother lives in Livonia, but he said he was unprepared for the housing situation.

"We had in mind to get some property for the first time in our lives, a couple of acres or so, but we couldn't put it together," he said.

The Erringtons found only a few housing choices to their specifications and, he said, the cost for those were too high.

"In many ways, I would have very much liked to have worked in this school district," he said.

Errington said his change of mind was not related to the school board's offer.

Secretaries angered

Salary hike curbed

There may be no better liked group of employees in the Northville school system than the secretaries and clerks.

Friendly and hard working, they often appear to know more about how the district runs than the people who hired them.

In the various schools, secretaries frequently take on extra responsibilities in their unofficial rolls of assistant principals.

Monday night, these same cheerful secretaries and clerks were so mad that a hornet's nest looked tranquil by comparison. Some talked of forming a union.

Their anger was vented at the school board which has declared war on what one member called the "hallowed tradition" of experience increments — or "steps" — and annual increases in the base rate structure of employees.

The board served notice two weeks ago when it declined to improve a 6½ percent increase in the wage schedule for secretaries, clerks and aides.

The 6½ percent increase actually works out to an average raise of 9½ percent when the annual step increments are considered, said board members. For some secretaries, the raises would be 12½ percent.

Monday night, the administration came back with the same recommendation and the board rejected it.

Instead, by a 5-1 vote, the board approved across-the-board seven percent cost-of-living raises and froze everyone at her present step on the salary schedule.

Moments later, the board took a similar step with its central office administrators, allowing them to move up a step on the salary schedule but leaving that schedule unchanged.

That means that central office administrators will be receiving approximately four percent raises rather than the nine to 11 percent raises in the administrative proposal.

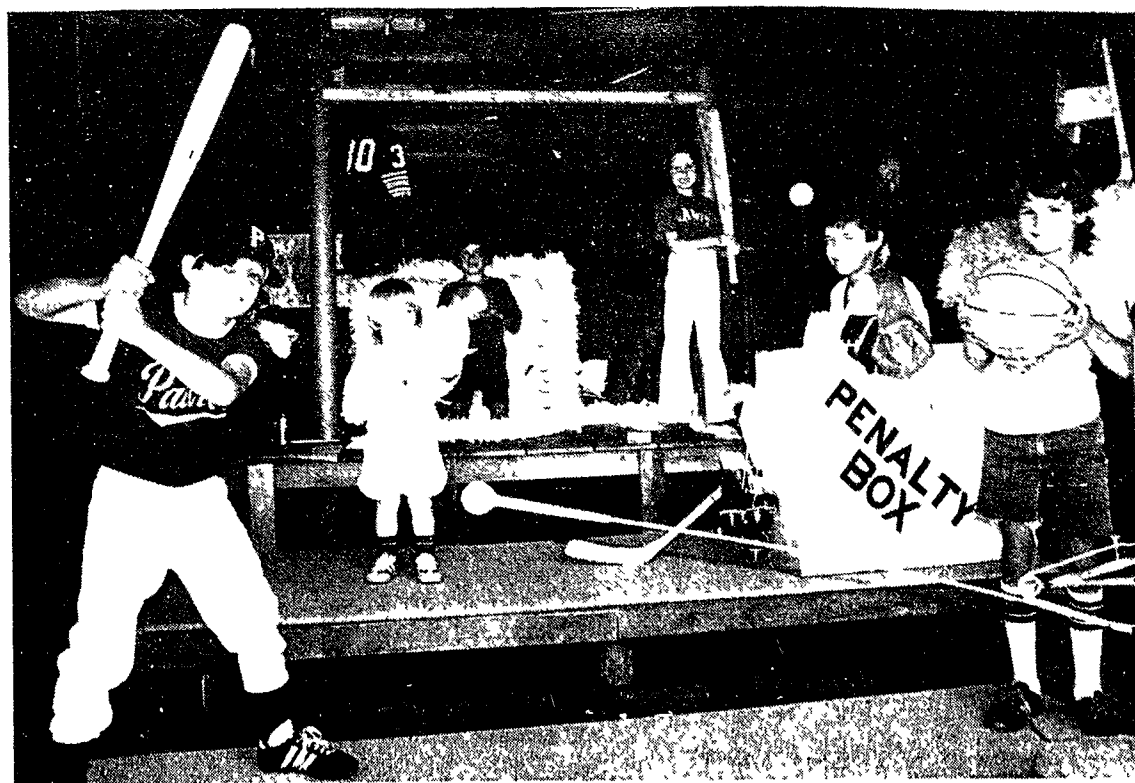

Board members said they were responding to the tax revolt that is sweeping the country and to their own desire to keep salary schedules in line with an employee's performance and with the school district's resources.

"Given the financial situation of the district and the rapidly changing attitude of the public" toward its employees, the board must be "fair but more reflective on what the current fiscal situation is," said Vice President Douglas Whitaker.

The secretaries, however, said the board's efforts should have started elsewhere. Monday's action, they said, will destroy morale among employees who already work without overtime pay and readily accept extra work.

"You have taken on the very smallest group of employees in the district to begin your great bargaining with," said Marion Zayli, a secretary at the central board offices.

NOVI—After much debate, the Novi School Board has agreed to seek bids on some, but not all, of the improvements planned for the $450,000 Novi High School athletic facility. At the June 15 meeting, the board voted to seek bids for a bituminous track, six tennis courts and the moving of existing bleachers at the present football field behind the old high school to the new facility. The board put off discussing the proposed $125,000 concession-storage-press box facility and the purchase of an additional 2,000 bleacher seats.

Write-ins add election luster

The most interesting thing about this year's school board election in Northville was the write-in vote.

No single candidate mounted an organized campaign to challenge Karen Wilkinson and Richard Barron who ran unopposed for two four-year seats.

But that didn't stop 81 voters from writing in the names of 65 people who weren't on the ballot.

The write-in votes were cast for a wide variety of people including school administrators, past school board members, unsuccessful candidates from past campaigns, media personalities and other citizens.

Heading the list, however, was departing Superintendent Raymond Spear who is leaving for the DeWitt school system in July.

His four years bested Stephanie Ruiter, Wade Deal and Dick Herbel who all had three.

Two votes were recorded for Andrew Orphan, Alfred Qualman, N.C. Schrader, Dan Beetles, Donald Young, James Maxey and Paul Folino.

Another 54 received one vote. Among the most notable was Alfred E. Newman who graces the cover of "Mad" magazine each month.

None of the write-in candidates posed much of a threat to Mrs. Wilkinson and Barron who were certified as the winners by the board of school canvassers.

Showing the power of the incumbent, Mrs. Wilkinson, who is the board's treasurer, received 2,236 votes to Barron's 2,098.

Barron will attend their first meeting as a board member next month, replacing James Lewis who declined to run for reelection after serving a year.

The canvassers also certified the two millage votes and one bond issue on the June ballot.

An additional 2.6 mills for operation was approved, 1.680 to 1.581; an additional 2.9 mills lost, 3.328 to 1.072; and a bonding proposition to borrow $1 million for remodeling and improvements passed, 1.667 to 1.590.

Even though the financial issues required only a "yes" or "no" vote, about 70 people still cast invalid ballots.

Those receiving one vote in the election were:

Stuart Oil seeks rezoning for warehouse near tracks

A public hearing has been set for 8 p.m. July 25 on the request of D.A. Stuart Oil Company to rezone property adjacent to its present building at 175 Railroad to enable an addition to be built. Northville City Planning Commission set the hearing date as the firm explained that the rezoning from R-3 (residential) to PR-2 (industrial) is needed to permit the erection of a medium industrial-use warehouse to the north of the existing property. Herman Moehlan, attorney for the company, and its manager, Chris Richards, told the commission that a natural berm and the lake area shelter the industrial plant from adjacent residential property, Highland Lakes, in the township.

Because the adjacent residential property is in the township, commission chairman C. Thomas Wheaton asked that it be notified of the rezoning request. The firm is the successor to Mergraf Oil Products Company.

Capitalize on walls as backgrounds for decorative accents. Make the most of the areas available by installing a series of shelves-built-ins or free-standing pieces of furniture especially made to serve as showcases for small "treasures". The French have a word for this particular piece of furniture - etagere - and they vary its style to suit a room's other furnishings. Ordinary bookcases, cabinets with glass doors, improvised shelving and all of these can serve your purpose, provided they are in harmony with other furnishings of the room. . . keep in mind that using all or most of a large wall in such a manner would make it the "focal point" of your decorating. Using a smaller amount of wall space this way could constitute an accent if not a major decorative feature.

Arson investigation

For the fourth time in less than a year, fire struck along a short stretch of Base Line Road at Northville City's western boundary with Northville Township. About 5 p.m. Thursday, fire of undetermined origin started in the second floor of a Northville Lumber storehouse just a few feet east of where another storage building was burned last July. Across the street, fire consumed a former lumberyard last June and destroyed an adjacent cider mill in November. Arson was suspected in both those blazes and Northville City Fire Chief called for a state fire marshal arson investigation of Thursday's fire. The wooden storage shed contained ceiling tile and insulation. No damage estimate was available Tuesday. Fireman at left is Dan Anderson.

Future fire station site

State Senator R. Robert Geake, a resident of Northville Township, looks across to the northwest corner of Beck and Seven Mile roads where a township fire station will be located in the future if the bill he has introduced into the legislature is passed, as expected, by the end of the year. Senate Bill 1609 provides for the transfer of three acres of land, currently part of Maybury State Park, from the State Department of Natural Resources to Northville Township to be used as a fire station.

site for the western portion of the township. Senator Geake points out the station also will serve as protection for the park. Supervisor Wilson Grier indicated this week he definitely expects that monies being paid by the state for the first time this year for fire protection for the large percentage of state land located in the township will be earmarked for the fire station. The funding, he said, could be used to retire a debt for a new station.

Composite drawings of suspects sought by township police department

May 21 knifing

Seek identity

Northville Township police have released composite drawings of a man and a woman who they believe stabbed and beat an area couple last month after they stopped to aid a motorcyclist.

The bearded male suspect and his long-haired female companion are thought by police to be among the 100 or so who attended a Sunday, May 21 party at the Jokers Motorcycle Club on the Novi side of Eight Mile Road west of Northville City.

The Jokers, who deny that any club members were responsible for the attack, staged another party Saturday night which drew less than 100 people and heavy police scrutiny.

Northville Township and Novi City patrol cars cruised by the clubhouse about every 15 minutes and two plain clothes Novi Police attended the party which was uneventful, said Township Police Chief Ronald Nisun.

Investigator Phil Presnell, who is in charge of the case, has asked that anyone recognizing the two suspects or who has information about the attack to call him at 459-1700.

Reward money for information leading to the arrest and conviction of either suspect is available through the Secret Witness Program funded by the township, city and chamber of commerce, he said.

Police believe that several people may have seen the knifing because it occurred shortly before midnight along the shoulder of heavily travelled Eight Mile Road. The victim, who police refused to identify because they are concerned about his safety, said he was driving west when he accidentally clipped a motorcycle that was pulling out of the Joker driveway.

When he returned to help, he said three men provoked a fight and one, the bearded suspect, stabbed him twice in the back. When his wife left the car to help, the woman suspect beat her, the man told police.

The fight occurred on the Northville Township side of the road.

The couple managed to flee even though a bystander had slashed the tires of their car. They drove into the city where they flagged down another motorist who took the man to the police station.

He was later taken to an area hospital where he was treated for several days for a punctured lung.

A spokesman for the Jokers, who have had relatively few incidents at the clubhouse since they moved in nearly a decade ago, blamed outsiders who are not affiliated with any clubs for the stabbing.

There were no problems at Saturday night's party, said Nisun, although police were prepared to shut the place down if more than 200 showed up.

The club had failed to acquire the necessary permit for gatherings of more than 200 people, but plain clothes Novi policemen at the party said the count never reached higher than 87.

Historical group to have last word

Proposed changes in the city ordinance that will streamline the building architectural approval process were viewed by the Northville City Planning Commission June 20.

An Article VI change in the zoning ordinance, proposed about a year ago by the commission to the city council, will make it possible for local merchants within the city's historic district who wish to change a building exterior to get approval in a one-step process.

It is expected that a public hearing now will be held by the council at its first meeting in August.

At present remodeling plans are viewed by both the Northville Commission and the city planners. In the new recommendation final authority for architectural changes will lie with the Historical Commission.

It was pointed out, however, that if changes in use required a different parking density, they would be referred to the planners also.

"If a business in the historic district wants to change a building front," explains City Manager Steve Walters, "under the new provisions it will not have to go to both the Historic Commission and the planners. In a case of minor architectural changes outside the historic district it will not be necessary to get any approval at all."

As the planners accepted the city council's draft, Walters said he felt it was a good change, making it easier for a business to make improvements.

With the change in authority, City Planning Consultant Ronald Nino stressed, the planning commission will be concerned "with special rather than architectural concerns."

Article VI in the city site development plan review provision of the zoning ordinance, section 6.04 on plan standards, dealing with building characteristics and architectural relationships (d.), will read that exterior modifications in the historic district will be subject to the review of the Historic District Commission.

Then, to accomplish the change made the Article VI zoning ordinance, the city ordinance dealing with the Historical Commission's powers also will be amended to give it final authority.

In other minor zoning ordinance changes, the year's implementation time could be extended for a period of two years, rather than the present five.

It now also will read that the planning commission may (rather than will) require floor plans for the purposes of assessing population-holding capacity and people-generating characteristics.

The city ordinance dealing with Historic District Commission powers will read that the commission will have the duty to review all plans for the construction, alteration, repair, moving or demolition of structures in an Historic District and have power to pass upon them before a permit is granted.

It will consider compatibility of exterior design but not interior arrangements.

Schoolcraft must name

Cowden replacement

The seven remaining Schoolcraft College trustees will have to appoint a replacement when Ron Cowden resigns in August, even though the board shrinks from eight persons to seven under a new state law in 1979.

Legal opinions from the firm of Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone told the board it had a duty to appoint a replacement promptly. The board had considered not replacing Cowden in order to bring its size to seven members a year early.

Cowden, a second-term trustee from Livonia, will leave to become principal of Manistee High School on the west side of the state. His resignation will take effect "when I give up my home," he said last week.

His current term expires in June of 1981. The remaining two years of his term will be filled permanently at the college election of June 1979.

Also in June of 1979, three trustees' terms will expire, but only two will be elected — the device the legislature used to cut the college's board sizes to seven.

The terms of Chairman Paul Kadish, Secretary Nancie Blatt and trustee Gerald Cox are due to expire then.

When the college was being formed in the early 1960s, its enabling act allocated one trustee to each of the five K-12 member school districts — Clarenceville, Garden City, Livonia, Northville and Plymouth-Canton — and three at large.

A court case applying the "one person, one vote" principle forced reapportionment, and all trustees are elected at large. The legislature cut the board's size to seven to make it conform to the size of all other community college boards in the state.

Appointed to academy

PFC. Gregory L. Harper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth L. Harper, 47010 Dunsany, recently graduated from the U.S. Military Academy Preparatory School at Fort Monmouth, N.J., and received an appointment to the U.S. Military Academy, West Point, New York.

The preparatory school provided instruction and training which will assist candidates in the areas of academics, military aptitude and physical training upon entrance into the academy.

Harper entered the army in June 1977.

He is a 1977 graduate of Northville High School.

Patti Kelly's in Army now

Private Patti Lynn Kelly, daughter of Mrs. Rose Bacon of Jackson recently joined the United States Army Delayed Entry Program.

She was recruited by Sergeant Dale A. Horner of the United States Army Recruiting Station located at 819 Penniman in Plymouth.

Private Kelly, who graduated from Northville High School will go on active duty July 6.

He completes Army course

FORT BENNING, Georgia—Private Bryan J. Ludasher, son of Elmer P. Ludasher, 42092 Queen Anne Court, Northville, recently completed seven weeks of advanced individual training at Fort Benning, Georgia.

The training included weapons, qualifications, squad tactics, patrolling, landmine warfare, field communications and combat operations. This qualifies him as a light weapons infantryman and as an indirect fire crewman.

Ludasher entered the Army in February of this year.

Area artists receive invite

Northville area artists and craftsmen are invited to participate in an arts and crafts show and sale being sponsored by the Canton Arts Council from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. July 22 at the Canton Recreation Hall on Michigan near Sheldon.

Fee for tables is $5. They may be reserved with Lynn Martel, 397-3311.

Novi mailing district dispute may go to hearing

A public hearing to consider a proposed single postal zone in Novi is expected to be set soon.

William Fleming, district customer services director of the postal department, said last week that he wanted input from citizens in the affected area before a decision is made.

Novi has five postal zones — Novi, Farmington, Northville, Walled Lake, Wixom and South Lyon.

Many residents living in the southern portion of Novi, for example, receive their mail through the Northville post office.

Late last year the Novi council adopted a resolution urging the merger of all of these mailing districts into a single Novi zone because, according to the city manager, the several postal zones caused great confusion among residents — many of whom did not realize they lived in Novi.

Northville's council refused to endorse the Novi resolution.

And residents of North Hills and Westridge Downs subdivisions, located just north of the Northville boundary, protested the changing of their mailing district from Northville to Novi.

Since then the postal department has announced plans to expand the Northville Post Office.

"Our main concern is what effect the change will have on our customers," said Fleming, "not what effect it will have on our political customers. Fleming said the input of the people is important because the post office does not want to be accused of acting 'capriciously.'"

"We don't want to be the bad guys," he said.

Fleming noting that the post office does not deliver by political boundaries. He said he could not initiate the public meeting, although he would like the city council to do so.

Mayor Romaine Roethel said she favored holding a public forum, and indicated that the council would be happy to comply.

Although Fleming said no decision had yet been reached, he did admit to a preference to keeping things the way they are.

"No hard fast decision to turn it all over to Novi has been made," Fleming said. "We really like the status quo at this time."

According to Fleming a survey on mail delivery in Novi has just been completed. He would not comment on the results of the survey, other than to say it had revealed "nothing shocking."

Fleming noted that he has informed both the Detroit and Royal Oak post offices, through which much of the mail comes into Novi, not to extend service further into Novi without first checking with his office.

He said he has attempted to give the Novi mailing address to as many new homes built in Novi as possible. Earlier he stated he would invite U.S.

Senators Donald Riegle and Robert Griffin, and U.S. Representative William Broomfield to any public meeting set by the Novi council.

Obituaries

Founder of Brader's dies at 86

Samuel L. Brader, the man who founded Brader's Department Store here more than a half century ago, died June 17 in Tucson, Arizona at the age of 86.

He is survived by his wife, Mary, who was a business partner with her husband when he established Brader's here in 1924.

Their first store was located in the street level quarters in the old opera building that stood at the southeast corner of Center and Dunlap streets.

On the couple's 50th wedding anniversary, their children recalled that upon moving to Northville their parents opened the "cleanest store in town. Only the most sanitary garments were to be found.

"During the early years mother and dad lived in back of their store and mother cooked while dad waited on the trade...and dad ate while mother tended the store. The nearest outhouse was five blocks away and a 'big' trip into Detroit by interurban streetcar was an all day affair.

"Remember mom how you parked the baby carriage by the cash box and waited on customers? Those were hard years and the only thing to be found in the cash box were clean diapers.

"(But) the natural outgrowth of honesty, effort, and providing your customers with the 'best for the least' paid off. The demands for their merchandise and friendly family store resulted in a new building in 1928 and expansion of the Brader's Department Store."

Their new Main Street building, which remains the store's location today, was located on the site of a restaurant building that had been operated by the Wares.

Shortly after the move to Main Street, Mr. Brader took a partner, nephew Harry Himmelstein. He came from the city having previously worked in several Detroit clothing stores. The two managed the store together until 1944 when illness forced Mr. Brader to sell out.

The Bradens later moved with their two daughters to Tucson. Both children, Natalie Eisenberg and Jacqueline Bleich, also survive as do three grandchildren.

Both Samuel and Mary Brader were active members of the Lloyd H. Green American Legion Post and its auxiliary. He was also a Mason and active in many civic affairs. During World War II he was the top seller of war bonds here, while "mother baked cookies and packed boxes of goodies for the Northville servicemen."

After the departure of the Bradens, Himmelstein continued managing the store alone. This lasted until 1963 when illness forced him to sell. He then traveled South where he lived until his death in 1965.

Like his predecessor, the new and present owner, Aaron Gellerman, was a clothing merchant from Detroit. Under his direction the interior of the old store was completely remodeled, but the original building remained the same.

In Arizona, Mr. Brader was a member of Temple Emanu El.

Funeral services were held at Arizona Mortuary Eastside Chapel, with the Rabbi Joseph Weisenbaum officiating. Burial was at Evergreen Cemetery, Temple Emanu El section.

OWEN A. RILEY

Owen A. Riley, of 26902 Sandy Hill Court, New Hudson, died in Botsford Hospital June 20.

Born in Michigan in 1894, he moved to South Lyon 12 years ago.

A retired sales representative, he leaves his wife, Charlotte B; his son Thomas O. Riley of Dallas, Texas; his daughter, Mrs. Richard Endress of Northville, and three grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at Ross B. Northrop & Son Funeral Home June 23 with the Reverend Robert S. Shank Jr., of St. Johns Episcopal Church of Plymouth officiating.

Interment was at Rural Hill Cemetery in Northville.

CHARLES J. LUTE

Charles J. Lute, Livonia's oldest resident who lived all his life on a farm at 19250 Newburgh Road, died at the age of 96 last Tuesday, June 20, 21 years after he retired as a farmer and logger.

He died at St. Mary Hospital after having been ill for a year-and-a-half.

Funeral services were held June 22 at St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church of Livonia where Mr. Lute was a member with Pastor Winfred A. Koelpin officiating. Interment followed in Riverside Cemetery in Plymouth. Arrangements were by Casterline Funeral Home, Incorporated, in Northville.

Last winter, about the time of his March 16 birthday, Mr. Lute recalled how in the winter he became a farmer-turned-logger, hoisting 18-foot long logs into the farm sleigh and driving to Jimmy Dubuar's Northville Mill on the site of the Ford Valve Plant. He declared it was the "busiest mill in Western Wayne County with Charles Dubuar's lumber located across the street."

At that time Northville school district extended beyond Newburgh Road and area residents came to Northville to shop. Three-quarters-of-a-century ago, he reminisced, farmers raced on Dunlap street.

In earlier days, he remembered, the street car was the fastest way into town.

Mr. Lute also recalled coming to Northville to have Bruno Freydl, father and grandfather of present owners of Freydl's, make his wedding suit for his marriage in 1910 to his wife Bertha. She preceded him in death February 9, 1955.

Mr. Lute was the son of Fred and Frederica (Salow) and was born in 1882 in Livonia.

He leaves nine children, Charles H. and William of Livonia; Mrs. Celesta VanHellemont and Mrs. Bernice Baggett of Northville; Wilbur of Florida; Thomas of Plymouth; Donald of South Lyon; Mrs. Vera Caldwell of Idaho; and Mrs. Jean Sanders of Alabama.

He also leaves 23 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Fessler seeks double penalty

People who commit felony crimes during blackouts could get a double dose of punishment if State Representative Richard D. Fessler (R-Union Lake) has his way.

Fessler, who is vice chairman of the Judiciary Committee in the House of Representatives, wants to double the penalties for persons convicted of committing a felony when electrical power supplied by a public utility has been interrupted. He has introduced legislation to accomplish that end.

The Fessler measure would provide that a person convicted of a felony during a blackout of a public utility would be punished by a term of imprisonment which is twice that otherwise prescribed by law.

GARY DANIELSON
Pro's Grand Marshal

The Jaycees chose "Support Community Athletics" as the parade's theme in honor of the community's young people.

Sports participants ranging from little leaguers to Northville High School sports teams and their coaches will march in the parade. Gary Danielson, Detroit Lion quarterback, will be the grand marshal.

One of several new parade entries is the First Michigan Colonial Fife and Drum Corps, regular performers at Greenfield Village. The corps' uniforms are handmade in the same material and same manner as they were more than 200 years ago. Their instruments are authentic for the 18th century, and although parade situations require the corps to march at modern tempo, their music is historically accurate.

Also in the parade line-up will be elephants, clowns, unicyclists, a calliope and five-time national tube baton champion—Cindy Gray, with the Deb's Darlings.

Last year's first place winners will again participate, including the Northwest Territorial Militia, first senior marching group; the Amhurstburg Community Band, first senior marching band; the Canton Chieftettes, first junior marching band and J & J Farms, first equestrian group.

Children are invited to participate in the decorated bike contest. First, second and third prizes will be awarded in each of five categories: 5- and 6-year-olds, 7- and 8-year-olds, 9- and 10-year-olds, 11- and 12-year-olds and 13- and 14-year-olds. Every child will be given a certificate of recognition for participation.

Judges for the parade will be Steve Walters, Northville city manager; Nick Simkins, local attorney and the 1977 Jaycee's "Outstanding Young Man of the Year"; Ted Strasser, WWJ announcer and disc jockey; and Louise Cutler, local realtor and immediate past president of the Business and Professional Women.

The Jaycees expect five helicopters from the Lansing National Guard to swoop down in formation over the parade route, but at press time they had received only tentative confirmation from the guard's commandant.

They're also hoping for a P51 fighter plane from World War II to make several low passes over Northville High School grounds before the fireworks display at dusk. The Jaycees promise a spectacular display, with $4,000 worth of fireworks, in addition to some left over from last year because of rain.

In case of rain this year, the fireworks display will be postponed until Saturday, July 8.

Judging for the parade bicycle contest will be done at Northville Downs before the parade. Youngsters are to register their decorated bikes there between 8:30 and 9 a.m. Tuesday morning.

A pancake breakfast will be served by the Royal Arch Masons, Chapter 55, at the Northville Masonic Temple, 106 East Main, from 7 to 10 a.m. Tuesday. Pancakes and sausages will be offered with coffee until parade time. It is open to the community at $2 for adults and $1.25 for children.

Thousands of people are expected to flock to Mill Race Village for after-the-parade activities arranged through the cooperation of the Northville Historical Society and the Northville Jaycees.

"We have so many good things planned, it's bound to be a success," said Fran Gazley, chairman of the historical society's participation in the festivities. "We expect about 5,000 people, which is what we had last year."

Activities at the village will begin at 11 a.m. with a flag raising ceremony by the Northwest Territorial Militia and music by the Northville High School band.

Members of the militia—favorites of past celebrations—will also give demonstrations throughout the day, marching colonial style and firing their muskets in volleys over the Mill Race.

The Jaycees will cook and sell barbecued chicken dinners throughout the day, serving under a big tent capable of shading about 100 people at the same time.

The Junior Docents—dressed in their old-fashioned costumes—will sell ice cream cones on the back porch of the Yerkes house.

Lemonade will also be available, with proceeds from the sale going for the construction of the village.

The cottage house in the Mill Race Village, which is the home of the Mill Race Weavers' Guild, will be open Tuesday and will have a special photo display tracing the history of those who were born and lived in the Gothic-style house.

Pictures also will show various projects and work sessions of the weavers in restoring the cottage.

Ken Lunn will demonstrate traditional weaving while Heather Fee will give tapestry weaving demonstrations.

There also will be spinning demonstrations throughout the day.

A flea market with around 20 dealers will sell collectables ranging from antiques, milk cans and old bottles to records from the 1950's. In an arts and crafts section, 12 dealers will display their handiwork, including leather-tooled belts, beads, dry flowers, copper and silver jewelry and handmade wooden toys.

In addition, the historical society will have a white elephant sale booth of items donated by community residents.

For a 50-cent entry fee, horse shoe pitching enthusiasts can enter a contest and win $1 for one ringer, $5 for a second ringer and $10 for a third.

For 25 cents those with good pitching arms can get three softballs and three opportunities to put their favorite person in the dunk tank. Jaycee Mike O'Brien, who is trying to get city council members, the mayor and police officers to volunteer to sit above the tank, promises some surprises and plenty of splashes in the water.

A free watermelon eating contest is expected to attract more than 50 children, and adults are also invited to participate in eating the ample supply of watermelons.

Square dancers can swing their partners in air-conditioned comfort from 1 to 5 p.m. in the New School Church, with James Trombley doing the calling.

Other music will be provided on the grounds by the Franklin Village Band.

People parking in the Arbor Drug parking lot and the Northville Downs parking lot can follow trail signs leading the shortest routes to the village, where activities will end at 6 p.m.

National convention

Stilson takes Jaycee honor

Lady Luck took a liking to Northville's John Stilson last week at the national Jaycee convention which was hosted by America's newest gambling center, Atlantic City.

Stilson, 35, 500 Maplewood, the newly-elected Northville Jaycee president, received the John Armbruster Memorial award which designates him as one of five outstanding Sparks in the country.

Spark awards are granted to Jaycees who play an active role in the organization and who are effective recruiters.

Stilson's award is even more impressive because he has only been with the Jaycees two years, according to former Northville Jaycee President William Zapke.

"I can't believe all the things he has done," said Zapke.

Stilson, a Ford engineer, was in charge of the Fourth of July parade sponsored by the Jaycees last year when he was president.

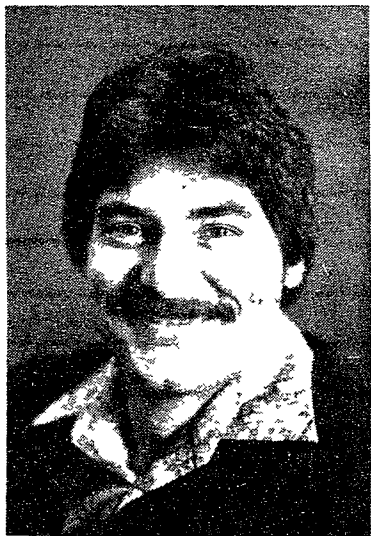

This year, he took over the president's role when Zapke became a district director.

Zapke and his wife Rose, Ron Brasgalla and his wife Nancy, Stilson and Richard Kernoszek all went to Atlantic City.

All six were delegates, the men to the Jaycee convention and the women for the auxiliary.

Women are not allowed in the Jaycee service organization which is restricted to men aged 36 or under.

Zapke said a motion to give local chapters the option of accepting women was defeated.

JOHN STILSON

Michigan had one of the largest delegations among the 16,000 at the convention, said Zapke.

The five-day session started at the convention center with addresses by comedian Jerry Lewis and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance.

A Michigan man, Michael Robinson of Rochester, was elected national vice president.

Stilson's award caps off a strong year for the Northville Jaycee chapter which walked off with scads of awards at district and state levels.

Site plan extension ok

Unanimous approval was given for the extension of site plans okayed for Robert Boshoven, owner of Stone's Unfinished Furniture at 215 East Main, to December 31 of this year by the Northville City Planning Commission at its June 20 meeting.

Site plan approval for the firm to construct an L-shaped building with several small shops had expired May 17, 1977.

It was explained that work on the project had not begun before expiration because of economic conditions and financing difficulties. The commission was told that Boshoven now is working with the Economic Development Corporation.

SPEAKING

for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

If Howard Jarvis is right, someone ought to start circulating petitions for a tax refund.

The man from California is telling us what we want to hear. It's the impossible dream come true for millions of American taxpayers. We've been handed a meat cleaver and told to chop away at our property taxes.

Proposition 13, the tax limitation amendment, has been passed by the voters of California. Presumably, that means we can operate our schools and provide local government services for half the property taxes we have been paying.

But in case more money is needed, it's suggested that we can turn to the state or federal government for support.

The cut and dried answers of the Howard Jarvises of the world scare me. He may be the current American hero, but he's not mine.

Yet there's the gnawing inner admission that Howard Jarvis is on the right track and that's why Proposition 13 gained such strong voter support.

The frustrating fact of the matter is that the voters themselves and their elected officials created the atmosphere that spawns extreme reaction.

We have thrived on state and federally funded programs. We have looked for excuses to qualify for every program and grant ever invented, whether it was intended for use or needed in our home district or not.

We believe that money from government once or twice removed is free. And we have voted for legislators based upon what they have done for us lately or promise to do in the future. The press releases of our elected officials are filled with news of appropriations they have won for their local districts.

But politicians can smell a trend downwind. And I suspect a rash of bright ideas on how to cut government spending will replace appropriation bills as the news in future press releases.

It's possible even local administrators and elected officials will heed the message of Proposition 13 and begin looking twice at routine expenditures, however small.

Maybe Howard Jarvis is a hero.

Yet I would prefer to believe that we can take a common sense approach (with a carving knife) to government spending without curtailing worthwhile and necessary spending.

Certainly it is no revelation that a substitute must be found for property taxes. They are the chief means of revenue for local government and schools. And while it would be nice to cut them in half, unless some other source of funds is found to replace them the cut will hurt most at the local level.

I worry that life will be worse rather than better for taxpayers under the severe measures of Proposition 13.

How about Proposition 6½?

State Senator Robert Geake recently completed a survey of his constituents in the northwest Wayne county area in which he received a 10 percent response from some 71,000 households.

He asked how many taxpayers would favor shifting property taxes to a state income tax for support of schools.

The results: 51.1 per cent opposed; 48 per cent in favor of such a shift.

Several years ago an attempt to introduce a limit on property taxes coupled with a shift to income taxes was defeated by voters in Michigan.

Interestingly, Senator Geake's poll showed that voters who responded favor, 61.4 to 38.6 per cent, exempting senior citizens and others on low, fixed incomes from paying any property taxes.

Senator Geake concludes that taxpayers want a cap on taxes, not a shifting.

Obviously, they want a reduction, too, and that means less spending. Which means smaller pay increases for government employees, among other sacrifices.

Which is fine until it hits home.

Michigan, by the way, now has its own "Proposition 13".

It's the Tisch Petition currently being hurriedly circulated so that the proposal can appear on the November ballot along with the more moderate proposal of the "Taxpayers United for Tax Limitation."

The Tisch Petition states:

- 1 — Cut property tax assessments in half;
- 2 — Limit increases of assessments to 2½ per cent per year;
- 3 — Provide for state income tax limits so the legislators cannot increase the income tax rate more than one per cent;
- 4 — Provide for optional one per cent local income tax for schools;
- 5 — Insuring local voter control in property tax costs.

Senator Geake, favors the moderate Taxpayers for United Tax Limitation proposal, while Jack Kirksey, Northville's state representative, has stated he opposes the measure.

A record five-day Fourth of July holiday period is predicted with motorists journeying some 770 million miles on Michigan's highways.

State Police will have an additional 200 troopers on the roads each day strictly enforcing speed limits. The special effort, called "Operation CARE" (Combined Accident Reduction Effort) helped produce a 42 per cent decrease in highway deaths last Labor Day and a 23 per cent reduction Memorial week end.

So drive carefully and keep that speedometer at 55.

TED FRIER

Speaking for myself

America morally bankrupt?

JIM HAYNES

YES . . .

Stripped of its parochial dogma and petty religious differences, morality is simply the complicated effort to move humans from an ego-centered existence to one of caring for the other guy.

To be truly moral, America would have to have a national philosophy where the tired, the poor, the huddled masses — but also the everyday Joe and Josephine — could expect to be treated with dignity and justice by those who cared as much for the well-being of others as their own.

I am afraid we don't make the grade. It is becoming more and more clear that we are a nation of special interests, of self-interests, of the "me generation." Issues are not debated, nor policies formulated, with the aim of a higher good with justice for all. But rather, stands are taken depending only on whatever group one happens to be a member of, or whatever benefits one might be able to obtain.

This lack of morality is something that transcends the popular "liberal-conservative debate", and is as much evident when those in California vote to yank off funding for social programs to reduce their own tax bill, as when qualified whites are denied their just reward because of affirmative action practices designed to favor one group over another.

The question has been raised, are we as a nation morally bankrupt? Well, no, but we may have over-extended our credit a bit.

Ted Frier
South Lyon

NO . . .

Morality can be defined as conformity to the rules of right conduct, moral or virtuous, which society dictates. Aside from petty infractions of society's rules for morality, I don't think this generation is any less moral than generations past.

Granted, there appears to be more crime, more violence and more lenient sexual attitudes than at any other time in our history. This is the basis of the moral bankruptcy fallacy.

I believe, however, that the concept of America's low morality is an illusion created by a giant mass media industry, which will do anything, say or print anything, that will attract the attention, and ultimately, the money, of the public.

There will always be crime. There will always be violence. And, for the sake of possible future generations, there will always be sex.

People think there is more crime and more violence because they are exposed to more than ever before. This doesn't indicate an increase in immoral behavior, only an increase in awareness of it, due to a highly sophisticated media.

We must also realize that some of our morals are changing. To judge all of today's morals by yesterday's would be a mistake. To some people this change would indicate a lack of morals while to others, it means a beginning of morality.

JACK W. HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

Carl has a lot going for him.

He is a young teenager who began bowling in the Kiwanis program for retarded children two years ago.

Retarded children, I've learned, wear their hearts on their sleeves; they are constantly seeking and giving love.

But what makes Carl extra special is his smile. It is absolutely contagious.

Whether he throws a gutter ball or a strike, he flashes a grin that quickly spreads across his face and says to everyone around him, "My, isn't it a grand world in which we live."

It is a smile that defies faces in the crowd not to reciprocate. It is the talk of those adults who share a piece of his life at the bowling alley.

Carl's smile tells us something that has long been a subject of James McConnell's psychology classes at the University of Michigan.

People who smile a lot tend to manage an office more capably, teach more effectively, sell more merchandise, raise happier children, says McConnell.

And, he adds, they get more smiles in return.

"That alone is reason enough for smiling more.

"Imagine what life would be like if you never got feedback for your actions or accomplishments. A smile tells us 'right on! Continue what you are doing! You are reaching your goal!' the professor says.

Frowns, like smiles, affect both the sender and receiver. They are a form of punishment.

Studies have shown that medical doctors who are frowning and critical toward their patients experience twice as many malpractice suits as doctors who are smiling and encouraging, he points out.

Township fire chief defends department's record

To the Editor:

Mr. Tom Campbell, a city resident, has a lot of nerve to attack the township fire department in an attempt to make political hay with innuendo and sly remarks! I personally resent a city resident making innuendo about whether or not the township fire department is suspect from an efficiency standpoint or sub par.

Has Mr. Campbell a background in fire protection that makes him such an expert? For him to make such remarks, surely he must have great knowledge about the efficiency of good and bad fire departments!

In 27 years of fire fighting and as a Captain in the Detroit Fire Department holding a State of Michigan Class A Instructor's Certificate in Fire Science (which took hard work to get and very few have), I have never had the pleasure of hearing Mr. Campbell's professional fire fighting presentation in any seminar for instructor's that I've attended. Surely with such a professional opinion he must be well known among professional fire fighters.

For Mr. Campbell's use the next time he presents himself as the duty expert so that he will be able to competently express his opinion on the criteria and efficiency of the township fire department the following information is furnished:

1. LEADERSHIP — As Chief, I have been a fire fighter and instructor in fire science for 27 years. The Assistant Chief, Donald Riffenburg, led a fire company in Detroit for 25 years. Captain Frank Hatch has 25 years fire fighting experience. Lt. Vernon Belloli fought fires in Detroit for 33 years, attaining the rank of battalion chief.

The officers of the township fire department, because of their experience, command the respect of all volunteers. There is no doubt that they lead the volunteers in aggressive fire suppression. The township residents should be aware that qualified men have stepped forward in this community to upgrade fire protection.

2. TRAINED MEN — Five of our 26-man force are certified fire fighters by the State of Michigan which means that they have over 240 hours of certified training. The remaining volunteers have had 180 hours of certified training plus an additional 24 hours of first aid which puts this department well on its way to having the only volunteer certified fire fighting department in the State of Michigan. All of the volunteers have cardio-pulmonary resuscitation cards from the American Heart Association and five volunteers have been certified as instructors.

3. EQUIPMENT — The Township has three fire engines equipped above State of Michigan fire department standards; one equipment van completely equipped — lights, generator, fire clothes, mask, etc.; one fire fighting jeep for brush and grass fires; two water tankers with 9400 gallons capacity to carry water to rural areas. All equipment has been inspected and overhauled in the last nine months by the original manufacturer.

4. SUPPRESSION OF FIRES — In the last nine months there have been 81 fires in the township. Each fire has been evaluated for conditions on arrival, aggressively attacked and suppressed in a professional manner. The department has over 100 hours fire fighting since inception.

5. ACCEPTANCE BY MUTUAL AID FIRE DEPARTMENTS — The township fire department has been accepted into the Western Wayne County Mutual Aid Association, which binds this department with 20 other fire departments to provide mutual aid with each other. This acceptance is important because union fire departments will not respond outside their jurisdiction without a written agreement.

6. COSTS — The volunteers of the township fire department are paid $6 per hour for fighting fires and $10 per three hour training session.

7. ADDITIONAL SERVICES TO THE COMMUNITY — As a community project, this department initiated a smoke detector program which was extremely successful and improved the early warning system for fires. We have qualified all men in cardio pulmonary resuscitation for emergency services to residents. We volunteer time and efforts to work with the handicapped and infirmed, participate in community parades, and sponsor events for children.

A professional full time fireman costs the average community $30,000 per year including fringes. The township operates on a 24-hour basis with a budget of $44,000 per year which includes the salary of the full time Chief ($15,500).

In the 1976 census there were 3,267 occupied homes in Northville Township which means every homeowner pays approximately $1.00 per month for fire protection. As a comparison, garbage collectors receive $5.00 per month just to collect rubbish.

If Mr. Campbell can show me where we can get better fire protection for less money I would certainly like to talk with him. Better yet, he should join this department because we can certainly use someone who knows all the answers!

Sincerely,
Robert H. Toms, Chief
Northville Township
Fire Department

To the Editor:

I address this letter to the residents of Northville Township and especially to Mr. Thomson and his slate of candidates for political office.

Mr. Thomson — your statements in the June 7th edition of the Northville Record made reference to the fire on Seven Mile Road which you refer to as a disaster that could have been avoided.

As owners of the residence and relatives of the deceased, Mrs. Powell and I also wish that disaster could have been avoided.

Let us set the record straight, however, as it has to do with the Township Fire Department.

Mrs. Powell and I feel deeply indebted to the Northville Township Fire Department and the Township Police Department for their efforts in this regard. We are also grateful for the response of the Salem Township Fire Department and the Northville Fire Department for their presence and assistance on the scene.

I remember vividly the presence of Supervisor Wilson Grier and Police Chief Ronald Nison on the scene assisting the Fire Department.

If you were there Mr. Thomson I'm sure you would agree with our opinion and would have been proud of the efforts of your police and fire department.

Mr. Thomson we would appreciate you and your slate refraining from any further reference to this disaster unless you can come up with some factual proof that will stand up in court.

Sincerely,
Mr. & Mrs. Robert H. Powell

Fire hall wise?

To the Editor:

I think the township's idea to have a fire station located near Seven Mile and Beck is badly needed, as response time from the new fire hall to this area will be approximately ten minutes. Any reduction in response time will have a significant effect on losses to both life and property.

I see one major drawback, in that now we will either need new taxes for additional fire equipment or else have to split up the existing equipment and have two half-fire stations. There will be a further tax drain because of double building maintenance and utilities.

Why doesn't the township do away with the expense of the proposed new fire hall and contract with the city to respond to fires in the western part of the township? This would eliminate the need for additional facilities and equipment. This arrangement could be implemented quickly, whereas the new fire station is at least one year away.

Having the city respond to western township fires will result in the dispatcher determining the actual location and which fire department should respond. However, this will be no different than when the 911 emergency system goes into effect.

Sincerely,
Richard E. Allen

Al salom!

To the Editor:

The Alhambras say thank you Northville and Northville Township.

The picnic for the Plymouth Human Development Center held on June 21, 1978 was a tremendous success. About 750 people from the center were present along with their total staff from the Northville I.S.E.P. program, totalling some 1200 people.

Words alone cannot express the gratitude we of Mandresa Caravan No. 217 have for the following people who in one way or another helped in making this picnic possible:

Northville City Council and Chamber of Commerce; Northville City Police, Auxiliary Police and Fire Department; Northville Township Police and Auxiliary Police; Michigan State Police, Northville Post; Novi Ambulance Service; Herb Fisher, electrician; Guernsey Dairy; Good Time Party Store, Little Caesar's Restaurant; Detroit Edison; Wayne County Road Commission; Scott Santos Orchestra, The Spectrums, Andy's Meat Hut, Hygrade Food Products; Profit Foods, Inc.; and Frito-Lay, Inc.

To the Editor:

The Senior Class Party chairmen would like to thank those who made the all-night party so successful. There are so many wonderful people in Northville. Our thanks to Mike Janchick and his custodial staff, especially Lewis Bulman who helped us set up, and Vladimir Regentik, who put up with us all evening long. Thanks to Eddy McLeod, who every year is there with his support. Ben Lauber and his liegwards helped us. We thank Marie Knapp, Beverly Pratt and Barbara Strange for helping the Buffet and Breakfast committees.

We also thank Stricker Paint Products, Little Caesar's, Kountry Katerer, the Northville Police, Northville Record, Mr. and Mrs. Russ Kramer, Walter Leikett, Ely's, Green's, Black's and Brookside Hardware.

The success of the party was due in part to Jim Roth of Good Time Party Store. He generously spent his evening popping corn to the delight of parents and students alike. A very special thank you, Jim from all of us!

The counselors and teachers who joined in the fun are fondly remembered.

Most of all we thank the Parents! They created and produced the ideas parents of delinquent children," he notes. "More than 80 percent of these parents are punitive non-smilers. The other parents may smile, but they spend little time with their kids anyhow. I have never met a delinquent's parent who was warm, encouraging and smiling!

"Go to a cocktail party and watch who is attractive to whom. People who smile draw more attention. They are better liked and are perceived as being more friendly.

"Frowns are a type of psycho-pollution that are as deadly as smoke fumes or mercury in drinking water," McConnell declares. "One can kill the spirit more easily than the body, I suspect. We legislate against polluted air and water; maybe we ought to legislate for the "The Greatest Class on Earth". They also deserve credit for producing an outstanding group of young people who are and should be a credit to our school and our community. To all of you who worked on committees, a very grateful "thank you". I think we parents enjoy working on the party as much as our graduates look forward to the evening. A special thanks to all the committee chairmen, you were great!

If I have omitted anyone, I am sorry. So many were so wonderful! Again, our thanks and best wishes to the Class of 1978.

Sincerely,
Connie Conder
Senior Party Chairman

Thanks, Mike

To the Editor:

I want to offer my sincere thanks to your sports editor, Mike Lash, for the excellent coverage of the spring soccer season.

I am a 10 and under boys' coach and officially speak only for myself. However, I am aware other coaches and parents have similar views as expressed here.

It is very satisfying to watch a player take pride in himself for his or her accomplishments between the start and end of the season. I only wish Mike could see the smile on the face of the player when those accomplishments are given some recognition.

Interest in soccer is growing rapidly in this area. In the fall we had approximately 300 players. This number grew to over 600 players this spring. Continued growth is expected in the coming fall season. Mike Lash deserves credit for contributing to the growth of this fine sport.

'Sub's threat'

To the Editor:

A new resident speaks... Just two short years ago, after a long, hard search, we found what we thought would always be a natural setting and ideal location for our family. We found we were lucky to find a piece of property for sale in Whipple Estates. As a realtor told us, "I wish there were more areas like Whipple and Taft Colony in Northville. Everybody that sees these areas always indicates their preference for these natural, wooded sections."

You can imagine my horror to learn a few months ago about the proposed North Beacon Woods development. It threatens not only our investment, but the very reason for our selecting this location in the first place. If North Beacon Woods is allowed to be developed as proposed, the natural beauty adjacent to my lot will be destroyed and house upon house will be my view. As I have pointed out, this is exactly why we selected Northville and our present location... to escape close, city-like housing.

If the Township Board continues to approve the developer's plans, one of the nicest sections of Northville will be transformed into only another subdivision. Please consider these changes — this is your town, too!

Pat Charchian
20109 Whipple Drive

To the Editor:

A resident born in Northville speaks...

Nineteen years ago, we bought an acre lot in Whipple Estates. We wished to ensure our rural-like Northville lifestyle with woods and space to which we were accustomed. As I grew up in Northville, these priorities were important to me, and when we purchased our lot, assurances were made that surrounding properties would be developed in a similar manner. Until a few years ago, the property zoning of R-1 assured these plans.

Somehow, in 1974, rezoning of adjacent property took place without the knowledge of nearby residents. Now, due to the zoning change, a developer is able to reduce all lots to under 1/3 of an acre. Quite obviously, the woods will be uprooted in order to carve out lots of this size... the "space" will also be taken away.

If the township had allowed the zoning to remain as it was originally planned, the developer would now be proposing a subdivision more suitable to the surrounding area — and to our Township.

'Gardens great'

To the Editor:

On behalf of the senior citizens who have plots in the gardens on Sheldon Road, we wish to thank all those responsible in making these plots available.

We especially want to thank those who plowed and prepared the ground and laid the plots out in such attractive sections. Also those who spent so much time in planning, organizing, and doing the telephoning necessary for the success of such a venture.

The extension of water pipes to the area was a most thoughtful gesture.

We want all who had anything to do with the gardens to know that we sincerely appreciate your efforts. It has given us great satisfaction in planting, tending, and watching things grow and the harvesting of the vegetables.

We have talked to most senior citizen gardeners and they expressed a desire that some acknowledgment be given. We whole heartedly thank all concerned in their behalf.

Grandchild Life Insurance

Introducing the first life insurance policy that can grow along with your grandchild, through investments primarily in the stock market. The name of this new kind of protection is Variable Life Insurance. But since it's designed for the future, and your grandchild can benefit from it, you might call it "grandchild life insurance." It's available only through Equitable Variable Life Insurance Company—EVLICO—a wholly owned subsidiary of The Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States.

Here's how it works: the funds supporting the policy are invested in a Separate Account managed by the professional investment staff of The Equitable. The insurance coverage on your grandchild increases or decreases, depending on the performance of the Account. But the policy always guarantees at least the amount of insurance protection you bought.

Also, if you include an Option to Purchase Additional Insurance, when your grandchild is between the ages of 25 and 40, up to $300,000 more coverage can be purchased—regardless of his or her health at that time. The cash value of the policy also increases or decreases, depending on the Account's performance, but there is no guaranteed minimum.

Remember, too, that the low premium you pay now, because of your grandchild's youth, never changes—even if he or she decides to take over the payments later on. For more information about the Separate Account and our "grandchild life insurance" policy, including charges and expenses, obtain a prospectus by mailing the coupon, or calling 313-425-4630. Read the prospectus carefully before you purchase a policy.

Rezmierski goes to Scotland

He'll chair seminars

Leonard Rezmierski, director of Northville's precedent-setting program for educating mentally retarded youngsters housed in institutions, will participate this week in an international conference on the future of special education.

Rezmierski left Saturday for the University of Stirling in Scotland where he will co-chair two seminars at the First World Congress on Future Special Education.

The conference, which will involve 1500 professionals, is conducted by the Council for Exceptional Children based in Reston, Virginia.

Rezmierski will also present a paper about Northville's Institution Special Education Program (ISEP) which he directs.

ISEP educates mentally retarded people up to the age of 26 who live in one of two state institutions in Northville Township.

About 800 students from the Plymouth Center for Human Development and the Northville Residential Training Center attend school daily at various locations in Northville, Livonia, Garden City, and Dearborn Heights.

Although the program is state-financed, it is run by the Northville school district, a unique set-up which some say provides more responsive administration because of local control by the school board.

This year's ISEP budget was $5.7 million.

Earlier this year, the ISEP staff published what they believe is the first comprehensive curriculum in the nation for extremely low functioning retarded youngsters.

Even before it was published, the ISEP office — located in the Northville board of education building — was swamped with requests for copies from across the country.

ISEP also does innovative work in the area of multi-handicapped youngsters since many of its students are physically handicapped as well as being retarded.

ISEP began after a Michigan law in the early 1970's mandated an education for all handicapped people up to the age of 26.

Local school districts generally took on the responsibility for handicapped youngsters normally living within their boundaries but, except for ISEP, the job of educating institutionalized youngsters has been assumed by county intermediate school districts.

This week's congress in Scotland is designed to allow professionals to "exchange ideas, research projects and develop plans that will have effect on the education of handicapped children all over the world," according to a spokesperson for The Council for Exceptional Children.

The congress will focus on current practices, appraisal of prevalent assumptions, and future directions.

The Council is an international group of 65,000 teachers, administrators, parents, and others interested in advancing the education of "exceptional" children and youth.

Errington backs out fer which he called a "fine contract."

Details of the contract were not released but the Record has learned that he was offered a three-year pact with the first year's salary at $39,000.

Errington is currently making $34,000 at Albion. Spear received over $36,000 this year and would have received $38,235 had he stayed for the third and final year of his contract.

This is at least the second superintendent's job that Errington has turned down in the last six weeks.

In the middle of May, the southern Macomb County school district of Warren Woods offered him a three-year contract that started at $36,000 and reached $41,000.

He told his local newspaper that he rejected that offer because of the district's internal strife, its huge deficit and the congested urban sprawl of Warren.

"Unless something considerably more interesting than the Warren Woods job comes along, I'll be in Albion at least another year," said Errington in a May 18 interview with the Albion Evening Recorder.

Errington had also applied this spring for several other superintendent openings including those at Van Buren, Toledo, Ohio, and Little Rock, Arkansas.

Last fall, he was one of two finalists in the Birmingham school district.

The Northville school board began its search for a new superintendent in March. Of 80 applicants, eight were chosen for the first public interviews of superintendent candidates in the school's history.

Monday night, the board resisted suggestions to begin a new search immediately.

"I think we're all pretty discouraged about what happened," said Trustee Charles Peltz. He said the board should not act for "at least two weeks."

"Let the dust settle a little bit," agreed Vice president Douglas Whitaker.

Monday's meeting was the last for Spear who has been superintendent in Northville for 11 years. He came to the district in 1961 as Amerman Elementary School Principal and was named assistant superintendent four years later.

At the same time I was participating in the recent U.N. Special Session on Disarmament in New York, NATO leaders were meeting in Washington to discuss the need to strengthen their military position in the face of the Soviet arms buildup. This paradox illustrates our need for bilateral disarmament.

The United States stands as the protector of the free world. We have remained free because we have remained willing to fight to defend our freedom. But at the same time, we would pursue a goal of gradual disarmament, but only in mutual, equal steps on both sides.

We, as a world leader, must continue to make a strong commitment to arms control and eventual disarmament, and it's imperative the Soviet Union match our efforts to de-escalate.

By deferring production of the neutron bomb and B-1 bomber, we have clearly demonstrated our desire to slow down the arms race. The ball is now in Russia's court, and we should insist on an equivalent response.

I see the answer to the arms race through gradual de-escalation, as long as the American people are provided with safeguards by the United Nations. I believe the United Nations could be an effective agency. I suggest the United Nations and the United States work jointly as a monitoring force to track and record military progress and trends throughout the world. This cooperation would help ensure the security of many countries from aggressive forces.

Agreement on a new SALT treaty is in critical danger because of the Soviet arms buildup and the attempts by Russia and Cuba to encourage revolts and unrest in Africa and elsewhere. The Soviet Union and her satellites must understand that disarmament is not a unilateral process, and we will not agree to any treaty or pact unless both sides deal in a mutual and sincere fashion.

Bike party's no problem

Novi police kept a close watch out for troublemakers Saturday at a party thrown at the Eight Mile Road Jokers motorcycle clubhouse, but no incidents were reported, according to Police Chief Lee BeGole.

On May 21, a man was stabbed after he was involved in an accident with a motorcyclist outside the clubhouse on Eight Mile following a party. Police have released drawings of two suspects sought in the stabbing incident.

The June 24 party, however, went off without any altercations, BeGole said.

CHALLENGING candidates for public office are fuming because they are being barred by Jaycees from participating in Tuesday's parade. In effect, the Jaycee directive prohibits only challengers since any incumbent official seeking re-election may participate so long as he or she does no electioneering. Asked a candidate for district judge, "In fairness, shouldn't incumbents seeking re-election to any office — local, state or national office — also be barred?"

IN CASE you missed it, the large evergreen tree at the corner of the city hall lawn was cut down early this week to make way for enlargement of the city hall and the library addition. Officials said there was simply no way to save the tree, which had been decorated annually for Christmas — even before the present city hall was constructed in 1963.

CONSTRUCTION of the Wing Street extension to Seven Mile Road is now able to proceed without further delay, according to officials, on the basis that Wayne County Road Commission has transferred the portion of the right-of-way from the city's right-of-way to Edward Hines Drive across the parkway. This right-of-way transfer was preventing the contractor from proceeding, although permits have been issued for the creek relocation and storm sewer installation work.

Rain postpones finish

2 Northville clubs survive in tourney

The hopes of two Northville clubs in this year's Blues Invitational softball tournament were left hanging last weekend.

With only four teams remaining from the original 16-team tourney field the rains came flowing down late Sunday afternoon, forcing postponement of the final three or four games until this weekend.

Two of the survivors were part of the six-team Northville contingent that entered the tournament. Carl's, currently battling for first place in the local National League, and State Farm of the American League have both lost once in the double elimination affair, as has Brighton's Spartan Tire.

The tournament favorite, though, has to be Chrysler-Vernon Tool and Die. The powerful Warren club walked over four straight opponents, including two from Northville, to earn an automatic berth in the championship finals.

After opening with a 13-12 victory over Westland's Crabbie Joe's, Chrysler knocked off Northville's C.D.S. 16-7, defending champ Pete Drakos Insurance of Walled Lake 12-9, and State Farm 18-4.

State Farm made its way through the tourney field the hard way. Overcoming an early 5-0 deficit, the American League team bounced back for a 17-16 victory over Wayne's Unistrut in the first round, but not before experiencing a late scare that saw Unistrut rally for six runs in the last of the seventh inning.

During that game Gary Metz hit for the cycle (single, double, triple and home run) for the winners while Dan Delaney and Denny Doran added four hits apiece.

State Farm then rallied for three runs in the top of the seventh on singles by Doran, Metz and Tim McGorey for a 12-9 victory over Spartan Tire in the second round.

As if that wasn't close enough the team needed a two-run rally in the bottom of the sixth, capped by run-scoring singles by McGorey and Ted Gores, to edge Northville's Rizzo Real Estate 7-6 in the third round. Chrysler-Vernon then knocked them out of the winners' bracket with an 18-4 victory.

Carl's, meanwhile, started out with a 13-3 victory over Northville's Kountry Katerers. Sparked by Dave Catton's two-run triple and a series of Katerers' errors, Carl's scored seven times in the bottom of the fifth for the game's final runs and merited their opponents. Dan Fisher had a single and triple for the winners while Chuck Caksackkar added two doubles and single.

Then, despite two home runs by Catton and three straight hits by Caksackkar, the National League power dropped an 11-10 decision to Pete Drakos in the second round.

Carl's recovered by edging Brighton's Earl Keim Realty 14-13, getting three hits each from Bob Hubbert and Mark Finley, in the losers' bracket. They then dumped C.D.S. 6-3, and earned a spot in the losers' bracket semifinals with a 14-5 victory over Rizzo.

Harold Wilhelm led the win over Rizzo with two home runs and a single while Jim Schultz cracked a single, a triple and a homer.

Carl's had a 1-0 lead over Spartan Tire in the fourth inning of the semis before the rains came. That game will be replayed from the start when the tournament gets under way again this weekend.

The final games will resume on either Friday night or Saturday, with the winner of the Spartan Tire-Carl's contest meeting State Farm. The winner of that game plays Chrysler-Vernon in the finals and would have to win twice in order to capture the championship.

Former LPGA great will hold clinic here

Chances are you won't see Marilyn Smith's name among the top finishers in any of this year's major LPGA (Ladies' Professional Golfers Association) tournaments.

Her four earnings, in fact, probably won't even approach those of the top 20 or 30.

Smith, at age 49, is well past the prime golfing years of her life. There was a time, though, when she ranked among the world's best, right up there among the likes of Betsy Rawls, Mickey Wright and Kathy Whitworth.

And this Thursday (tomorrow) some of the talents that made her a star golfer throughout the 1950's and '60's will be on display at Northville's own Brooklane Golf Course.

Beginning at 1 p.m. she'll hold a clinic and lesson for golfers interested in improving their game. The clinic is open to golfers of all ages and is free of charge.

Although the kingpin of LPGA tournaments — the United States Women's Open — has eluded her during a professional career that's spanned almost three decades, Smith's 22 career victories, 10th on the all-time list, encompass quite a few other well-known classics. Among them are the Jacksonville Open (1958), the Memphis Open (1959), the Titleholders Championship (1963 and '64), the Peach Blossom Invitational (1963 and '65) and the Women's Charity Open (1971).

Marilyn Smith

After winning several amateur titles as a teenager in the late 1940's — including the National Intercollegiate Championship in 1949 — Smith earned her first tour victory in 1954 when she won the Fort Wayne Open.

The peak of her career came in 1963, when she won four tournaments — in-

Arsenal soccer team caps perfect season

Northville Arsenal, runaway winners of this spring's 12-and-under Division 4 title, wound up a remarkable Western Suburban Soccer League season by winning its age group tournament championship last Tuesday.

Getting second-half goals from Steve Starcevic, Bill Butterfield and Chris Seffie, Arsenal romped to a 3-0 victory over the Farmington Falcons in the finals. That gave Northville clubs, which comprise 18 percent of the WSSL's 190 teams, three of the league's 10 age group tournament crowns this year.

Starcevic broke open a scoreless deadlock with an assisted breakaway goal early in the third quarter, his 10th in the five-game tournament cup series.

Seffie made it 2-0 on an assist from Butterfield early in the fourth quarter, and Butterfield closed the scoring on an assist from Starcevic minutes later.

Arsenal, which outshot the Falcons 17-9, also got strong defensive performances from halfback Mickey McGrath (eight saves) and Mike Sylvestre (four saves).

Coach Bill Butterfield's club finished its season with a 12-0 overall record this spring, including five playoff victories. The last three were over teams with a combined record of 30-2 (the Falcons were 12-0) going into the games.

During the seven-game regular season Arsenal was undefeated, untied and unscored upon.

Women's softball round-up

3 clubs still near top

Northville Laboratories kept right on rolling in search of its third straight women's softball title last week, but two other clubs remained close behind. Lab, which hasn't lost a league contest in over two years and now sports a 28-game winning streak, picked up victory number five of the current season with a 15-5 drubbing of Northville Record Tuesday.

The winners jumped out to a quick 7-0 lead in the first inning on two walks, two errors plus singles by Ruth Booms, Kimm Adams, Denise MacDermald and Louise Hopping each added two other hits for Lab, while Sue McIntosh's three singles and Lori Stanford's single and double paced Record.

Dodgers' catcher Bob Pegrum tags out Padres' Dane Martin in third-inning action Saturday

League leaders still unbeaten

Padres breeze in 'F' showdowns

The Padres left little doubt about who'll be ruling the roost in F League play this season.

Backed by the strong pitching arm of Dave Malinowski and an awesome hitting attack, the Padres romped to a 32-4 victory over the Dodgers in a showdown of the league's top two clubs Saturday, then walked off with a 13-6 triumph in a make-up game Sunday.

Mark Kormanis, who started the first game at pitcher for the Dodgers, kept his team close throughout the first four innings. Before being relieved he had given up just four hits but faced a 7-4 deficit.

The Padres put the game away, though, with four runs in the fifth and the scored at will in the sixth and seventh, hiking their record to 13-0.

Malinowski limited the Dodgers to just six hits, two of them by Chris Odom, while striking out 14 and going to the distance.

Bob Schoettley went 4-and-6 to pace the winners' offensive attack while Malinowski added three hits.

The going wasn't as easy the following day, though.

Despite pitching out to a quick 4-0 advantage in the first inning, the Padres didn't put the game safely away until the top of the seventh, when they scored three runs to break open a 10-5 game.

Malinowski and Tom Parkinson paced the winners this time, each getting three hits, while Steve Demattos collected two of the seven hits for the Dodgers.

The two victories left the Padres 14-0 on the season, three full games ahead of the second-place Giants, while dropping the Dodgers into third with an 8-4 mark.

Earlier in the week the Padres got their stiffest competition of the season when the Astros, behind Bob Orlowski's pitching, fought the league leaders down to the wire before dropping a 4-3 heartbreaker.

Highlighting the contest were Dane Martin's last-inning double, which drove Jim Thompson home with the winning run, and a triple play by the Padres. Second baseman Kip Mack caught a line drive, tagged a runner out between first and second and threw to shortstop Bob Schoettley to force a runner between second and third to complete the rare defensive maneuver.

In other F League action last week Bob Townsend's four hits, including a towering home run over Ford Field's centerfield fence, paced the Pirates to a 14-13 victory over the Phillies.

Pitchers Dan Nielsen and Steve Fraellick, meanwhile, combined to shut down the Cardinals and Jim Rose added a home run in the Angels' 12-8 triumph, overshadowing a strong pitching performance by the Cards' Mike Messing.

Mark Kormanis and Steve Demattos combined for strong pitching performances for a 21-4 Dodger win over the Angels. The Dodgers, however, later succumbed to the Giants in a close 9-6 game which saw Dave Jeko go 2-for-2 and score twice for the winners.

The Giants also beat the Cardinals, 12-8, with Chris Behen and Jeko scoring three runs apiece.

The Phillies, meanwhile, downed the Expos 16-3 on the strength of a seven-run third inning and, thanks to the hitting and pitching of Todd King, beat the Angels 10-4.

In another game involving the Giants Jim Allen and Irven Meadows, despite pitching well for the Mets, lost a 7-3

Lone woman coach learned baseball fast

Three years ago Mina Bhavsar didn't know the first thing about baseball. A native of India, a housewife and a mother of three who'd moved to the United States a dozen years earlier, she'd only vaguely heard of the sport and was more accustomed to thinking of pitchers as liquid containers.

Her son Abdish, with the help of a man named Bob Fraelick, was responsible for changing things around in the following months, though — and eventually changing them quite drastically.

Today Mrs. Bhavsar has the distinction of being the only woman coaching Northville's junior baseball program.

And, despite some of the troubles she claims to be encountering, she fully intends to stick with it.

Her association with the program first began three years ago when Abdish, the oldest of her three children, decided to play G League baseball. With the encouragement of Fraelick, then commissioner of the league, Abdish stuck with the team and apparently enjoyed his experiences.

In fact, Mrs. Bhavsar recalls, one coach told her he felt Abdish was "the most improved player in the league from when he started out."

Spurred on by his success, she signed the younger of her two sons, Avanish, into the recreation department's T-Ball program. Avanish played for the Phillies, and it was during that summer that Mrs. Bhavsar began to take somewhat of an interest in baseball herself.

Because of other commitments, though, Avanish's coach was apparently unable to spend as much time with him as Mr. Bhavsar would have liked. "So," she says, "I decided if I wanted him to learn, I'd have to coach him myself."

Armed with helpful friends, enthusiasm and a growing knowledge of the game she took over the Phillies and helped them to a successful season last summer.

"The parents were very very cooperative with me then," she recalls. Her troubles began when she decided to try coaching H League baseball this year.

"I was really surprised," she says of her initial experiences with the Cardinals, for whom her son now plays. "When I first started try-outs some of the parents I'd known before suddenly ignored me. I'd say hello and they'd look the other way."

The problem, she feels, was that the parents didn't think a woman could handle the team.

"I think the attitude is that a woman's just not right for this type of thing," she says. "One parent told me he didn't want his son to play for me. He had heard that being a woman coach, I was trying to cause trouble."

And while she had "no problems at all" with the kids themselves, she says, there were also a handful of coaches showing resentment toward her.

Instead of discouraging her, though, those episodes apparently drove her on all the more.

"I want to show them that I can do it," she acknowledges. "It seems like more of a challenge to be a woman and do a good job of coaching."

Mina Bhavsar makes a point during recent game

And apparently she's been successful. After losing five of their first six games the Cardinals came on strong and won three in a row — including a couple by very sizable margins.

The attitude of others, she adds, has improved with her team's success.

"It's starting to work out now," she says. "One parent who was totally against me right in the beginning now makes sure his boy comes to every practice — and he's never missed a practice."

The Cardinals, for their part, are only concerned about winning ball games.

and having fun. And that, according to Mrs. Bhavsar, is the whole idea behind junior baseball.

And her plans for next year? "I'll coach again, hopefully," she says.

Besides coaching junior baseball Mrs. Bhavsar, who moved to Northville from Westland with her husband Raman seven years ago, is also actively involved in several other community affairs, including work as a cub scout den mother, volunteer teacher aide, PTA member and a recreation department instructor.

Junior baseball leaders are still going strong game to the second-place club. Andy Dimitroff went 2-for-2 and Mike Sylvester pitched six innings for the Giants before needing relief help from Dimitroff and Chris Behen. The Giants also edged the Reds last week, 13-10.

Earlier in the week Shaun Tague went the distance for the Reds, but the effort proved futile as his team lost a 14-13 decision to the Angels.

And, in a game between the Padres and Reds, Jim Thompson went 3-for-3 and Tim Parkinson belted a home run to give the league leaders a 25-7 victory.

G League
In G League action last week the Pirates scored three times in the bottom of the sixth to squeeze past the Astros, 5-4. The Astros scored a run in the first on three walks around Jared Cole's single. The Pirates bounced back with two in the fourth on a Tim Ruffing home run and a run-scoring single by Jeff Stuart, only to see the Astros tie the score in the top of the fifth on three walks and a hit batsman.

In the sixth the Astros scored two on singles by Tim Blanchard and Cole plus a double by Bob Guldberg. The Pirates refused to fold, though, and came back with three of their own to win the game. After a single by Rick Van Buren and four walks had tied the game, Frank Meyers hit a 3-2 pitch for a single to bring home the winning run.

In other G League action Brian Fuller's homer, his second hit of the game, was the only score in the Braves' 1-0 victory over the Cards. The Cards were held to just one hit by pitchers Keith Dutkiewicz and David Smith.

The Yankees, meanwhile, eked out a 5-3 thriller over the Cubs. The Cubs opened the game with a run in the first on back-to-back doubles by Tom Ross and Doug Hansen with two outs.

Rusty Parker held the Yankees scoreless through the first four innings and in the top of the fifth the Cubs upped their lead to a 3-0 on a walk, a single by Barry Krisch and a double by Mike Bates.

The Yanks came back to knot the score, though, in the bottom of the fifth on a bases-loaded walk and a two-run double by Larry Wojtowicz. Richie Belanger then poked another two-run double to close the scoring.

Yankee pitchers Bob Cannon and Scott Wordell combined to strike out 13 Cubs.

H League
Highlighting last week's H League action, Dan Magdich and Doug Ayers combined to retire all 18 batters on strike outs and lead the Giants to an 11-0 victory over the Reds last week. It was the first time this season any team has pitched a perfect game in Northville junior baseball.

In other games Jerry Salas of the Mets and Steve Wilson of the Braves slapped home runs but the Mets prevailed, 11-4.

John Lobbia pitched the first three innings, striking out seven batters and hit a three-run homer, to lead the Padres over the Cubs, 7-6. In the last inning, with the Cubs only one run behind, Kurt Lemkuhl struck out the last Cub batter with the bases loaded to preserve the victory.

Greg Stoeckel and Steve Hayes, meanwhile, pitched five innings of shutout baseball to lead the Cardinals past the Cubs, 4-2.

The Phillies, behind the pitching arms of John Anderson and Jay Moore, allowed only seven hits in leading the Phillies over the Reds, 11-7. Their hitting attack was led by Karl Freyde, who went 3-for-2 at the plate.

The Pirates, meanwhile, got run-scoring doubles from Brent McDonald and Brad Metz but lost 13-9 to the Padres.

Golf star to hold clinic cluding the Titleholders Championship — and received the Most Improved Professional Women's Golfer Award from her colleagues. Her last tour victory was in 1972, when she walked off with the Pabst Classic.

In addition to ranking among the top LPGA tour winners of all time, Smith is one of the top money winners as well. Four years ago her career earnings of close to $300,000 placed her seventh on the all-time list, although she currently ranks 13th.

And while she still golfs part-time on the professional tour, she's found time to stay involved with the LPGA in several other ways as well. In addition to traveling throughout the country holding clinics and exhibition matches, she is currently a member of the board of directors for the LPGA, and she served as president of that organization for three years during the late 1950's.

Her clinic tomorrow will last about two hours, according to Brooklane pro John Koch. Immediately afterwards she'll compete in a nine-hole exhibition match with area professionals Bob Sillagy (Godwin Glen and Salems Hills), Gary Whitener (Whispering Willows and Idyl Wyld in Livonia) and Koch.

Brooklane is located on the corner of Six Mile and Sheldon Roads. For further details call the pro shop at 349-9777.

Blues win again, extend streak to 34

Northville's American League softball division may well be in for another "Blues" summer this year.

The Village Blues, easy winners of each of the last two local senior division titles, are off and running again. They picked up two more victories last week, upping their current record to 6-0 and extending their league winning streak to 34 games over the past three seasons.

Combined with Zayti-Long's 14-14 tie with the Kountry Katerers, last week's wins leave the Blues one full game in front of second place and two-and-a-half games ahead of the rest of the pack.

One big inning was the difference in each of last week's victories.

Sparked by John Boland, Gary Winemaster and Jerry Dettler the Blues erupted for 12 runs in the fifth inning on their way to a 19-6 romp over Spicer Tool Monday.

A two-run second-inning homer by Jimmy Watson had helped Spicer edge out to a 6-5 advantage in the first two innings, but a solo blast by Winemaster and a sacrifice fly by Bill McDonald gave the lead back to the Blues in the third.

Then, after a scoreless fourth inning, the Blues caught fire. Eight men reached base before Spicer even managed an out.

During the 12-run outburst the Blues sent 17 batters to the plate and smashed a dozen hits, including two-run homers by Boland and Dettler plus a single and double by Winemaster, and took advantage of four Spicer errors.

Boland wound up 4-for-4 in the game, including a home run and two doubles, and had four RBI's while Winemaster went 3-for-3 with a home run, double and two RBI's. Linn Walter, with two singles, was the only Spicer player with more than one hit.

Two days later the Blues broke loose for six runs in the first inning, added two more in the second and held on for an 11-5 triumph over Winner's Circle.

Winemaster, McDonald and Dave Conlin produced all six first-inning scores with home runs, McDonald getting a three-run blast to cap the rally.

Winner's Circle cut the gap to 9-5 with a pair of runs in the fourth and three more in the fifth, but the Blues' Jim O'Brien cleared the fence and Ed Kritch added a run-scoring single in the sixth to close the scoring.

Conlin went 4-for-4 to top the Blues while Dave Fendelet had two singles and Jeff Moon, a former Blues player himself, cracked a run-scoring double to pace Winner's Circle.

The Kountry Katerers, meanwhile, surprised Zayti-Long with a three-run rally in the last inning that earned them a 14-14 tie. Led by Bob McGuire, the Katerers scored at least once in every inning and recovered from an 8-1 deficit early in the game.

McGuire belted two home runs, a double and had three RBI's for the Katerers while Pete Wright added a single, a home run and four RBI's.

John Sinclair paced Zayti with three hits, including a three-run homer, and four RBI's while Bill Sinclair added a home run and a double. Zayti is now 5-1-1 on the season while the Katerers are 3-3-1.

In other American League action last week Dennis Rons blasted two home runs, a triple and six RBI's to lead Little Caesar's to a 13-10 come-from-behind victory over Sheehan's-On-The-Green, lifting Caesar's into a tie for third place. Rick Hunter added four singles and two RBI's for the winners.

Gary Lisowski belted two home runs and four RBI's to lead Rizzo Real Estate past Jim Storm Insurance, 20-10; Bill Staron cleared the fence twice and had three RBI's in Sheehan's 16-5 win over Cap 'n' Cork; Dave Austin stroked a home run and had three RBI's in Spicer's 10-0 skunking of State Farm; and Mike Richardson cracked a single, a double and a sacrifice fly to help Cap 'n' Cork beat the Cyclones, 6-0.

Schultz added two triples and a single to pace the victory, Carl's sixth straight.

Two days later Real Estate Two, now 7-0 this season, turned an 11-run second inning into a 17-9 triumph over St. Paul's. Joe Higgins went 4-for-4 and had two RBI's for the winners while Jerry Powell collected a home run, a double and three RBI's for St. Paul's.

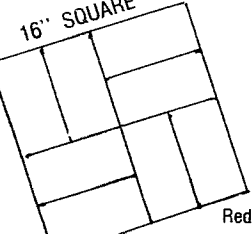

It's Custard Time and Sheehan's Little Caesar's, meanwhile, continued to fight it out for third place.

Custard Time handed Sheehan's its second loss in seven games this season with a 13-7 victory Tuesday. Led by Jim Honsinger, Gary Callender, Barry Long and Mike Frice the winners scored all 13 runs in the last four innings after falling behind, 2-0.

Honsinger went 3-for-4 and had four RBI's while Callender, Long and Frice each had three hits as well, hiking Custard Time's record to 4-2 and putting them a half game behind Sheehan's.

In other National League action a one-out error in the bottom of the seventh gave OLV a 7-6 victory over the Northville Jaycees; Mike Moyer and Paul McConnell had three RBI's each to lead the Eagles past St. Paul's, 12-8; Mike Theisen garnered three hits, including a two-run homer, and had four RBI's in Ely's 21-11 win over the Northville Players; Nick Proctor had four hits and four RBI's to pace the Jaycees' 13-9 victory over the Players; and the Brew Hogs and Eagles fought to an 8-8 standoff.

Alhambra hosts picnic

Successful picnic due to cooperation

What do you get when you combine 750 retarded youngsters, their hard-working teachers and aides, a strong volunteer effort from the community, 40 dedicated Alhambra men and a warm, sunny June day?

You get a giant picnic that everyone raves about for days to come.

That's what happened Wednesday when Northville's Manresa Caravan of the International Order of the Alhambra sponsored a fun-filled picnic for 1200 people at Hines Park in Northville Township.

Alhambra, a Catholic men's organization dedicated to assisting the retarded, put in hours and hours of pre-planning and the effort paid off.

Although it was the initial try at such a large outing, the youngsters from Plymouth center for Human Development, Northville Residential Training Center and Our Lady of Providence — all located in Northville Township — were transported to and from the picnic without a hitch.

Both Caravan Grand Commander Denis Roux and picnic chairman Ted Marzonie praised the volunteer help from the community for the huge success.

A few weeks ago, said Marzonie, local police agencies had never heard of Alhambra which was formed in Northville two years ago by Manresa's first Grand Commander Ken Kress.

But Wednesday, Northville City, Northville Township and Michigan State police were all on hand to help out.

City Police Captain Louis Westfall, Township Police Chief Ronald Nisun and Northville's Michigan State Police Post Commander Lieutenant William Tomczyk were among those in attendance.

The list of volunteers was a long one and vital to the day's success, said Marzonie. (That list can be found in this week's "letters to the editor" page.)

The youngsters were particularly entertained by the music of "The Spectrum," a rock band run by Scott Santos who just completed his freshman year at Cooke Junior High School.

One girl, blind and virtually deaf, hugged one of the band's amplifiers to sense the feel of the music's vibrations.

She literally had to be pulled away from the speaker when the music stopped.

Also guests at the picnic was the staff from Northville's Institution Special Education Program (ISEP) which is responsible for the schooling of many of the youngsters.

Once the picnic was over for the youngsters and they were on the buses back to their institution, the ISEP staff and other guests continued the picnic with the Alhambra men.

"We work hard and we play hard," said one staffer who said the picnic was much appreciated by ISEP.

Alhambra has been in existence for half a century but it was basically a fraternal organization until it became concerned with mental retardation in the late 1950's.

Now Alhambra is completely dedicated to the retarded cause, spending all of its money on projects for the retarded.

Except for the national headquarters, Alhambra has no buildings in the country.

Locally, the Northville caravan has adopted the Our Lady of Providence, a private home for mentally retarded girls on Beck Road south of Six Mile.

Once a week, Alhambra men do volunteer projects there and last winter they built a skating pond.

In February, southeast Michigan Alhambra's buy out the first night of the Shrine Circus for 7,000 retarded youngsters.

The tab for Wednesday's picnic was about $1,500. The caravan hoped to recoup some of that with a fund drive Saturday.

Students from Northville's Main Street Annex raced beneath a parachute for fun during the Alhambra picnic Wednesday

Schoolcraft offers time-saving info for veterans

According to its coordinator, Schoolcraft College's office of veterans' affairs has services and information which could save you a trip downtown.

That's the word from John Borenski who says, "In addition to answering questions and processing paperwork required for educational assistance under the G.I. Bill, the office has other information on all VA related topics."

"Our services are designed to assist Schoolcraft students, but they are also available to all veterans and their families within the college community. We have a good referral system and the capability to handle veterans' related problems and concerns."

The office also works with CETA administrators (comprehensive employment training act), unemployment offices and neighborhood services departments providing a referral service for various concerns. Information or directions believed to be available only at the downtown veterans' administration building can many times be obtained through the college's veterans' office.

On-going responsibilities of the office include admission and registration procedures at the college and assisting students applying for VA educational benefits.

Borenski is a Vietnam era veteran and holds an associate degree from Schoolcraft. He is an active member of both NAVPA (National Association of Veterans Program Administrators) and MACV (Michigan Association of Concerned Veterans).

These organizations provide information on recently enacted and pending legislation affecting veterans. Through effective lobbying they are also instrumental in effecting the passage of legislation beneficial to veterans and their dependents.

Schoolcraft's veterans' affairs office may be contacted at 591-6400, extension 330. It is open from 8:30 a.m. until 7 p.m. on Mondays and Tuesdays, until 4:30 p.m. on Wednesdays and Thursdays and until 3 p.m. on Fridays. Other appointment times are available by special arrangement. The office is located in Room 500 of the Forum Building. Schoolcraft College is located at 18600 Haggerty Road.

2nd certification reduces liability

If you are a person who has diabetes, epilepsy, a cardiac or back problem, you may qualify for a "Second Injury Certification."

That's the word from Frank Jablonsky, assistant district supervisor of the State Bureau of Rehabilitation, who is trying to reach qualifying Northville area residents.

Certification, according to Jablonsky, can reduce an employer's liability in the case of injury to an employee who has one of these disabilities.

The Livonia district office of the Bureau of Rehabilitation, which covers the city and townships of Northville, Livonia, Redford, Plymouth, Canton and parts of Westland, has certified 214 local employers during this period.

Northville U-D grads are honored by awards

Two Northville residents, Anthony Armada and Christopher Carbott graduated with Gold Key Summa Cum Laude from the University of Detroit High School recently at Ford Auditorium.

Both young men received National Merit and Phi Beta Kappa commendations, and are members of the National Honors Society.

Armada, son of Dr. and Mrs. Severo Armada, received a Michigan Competitive Scholarship and the University of Detroit Trustee's Incentive Award.

Earn degrees

Two Northville students are among some 332 graduate students receiving advanced degrees from Eastern Michigan University at its 125th spring commencement April 23.

They are Carol Ann Turnbull, 365 Eaton, and Patricia Ann Pokay, 1051 Allen. Both received master of arts degrees.

He has accepted a four year scholarship to the University of Detroit beginning in the fall.

Carbott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Carbott received a Michigan Competitive Scholarship and an appointment to the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, Maryland.

He will leave this summer to become a midshipman. He served on the Student Senate at U of D High.

2 law degrees for area men

Two local area men were awarded law degrees at Wayne State University's June commencement.

They are Timothy R. Busch, 24200 Hampton Hill and Roy W. Howard, 43922 Galway Drive.

Altogether Wayne State's 11 schools and colleges awarded nearly 4,000 undergraduate, graduate and professional degrees in the spring commencement exercises.

Writers-in-residence flock to Schoolcraft for workshop

Anyone interested in writing will be interested in getting to know Eric Greinke, Arthur Lindenberg, Daniel Minock, Deborah Richardson and John Woods.

They are the faculty and writers-in-residence who'll teach workshops, hold discussions and give readings during the Summer Writing and Arts Festival, July 3-28, at Schoolcraft College.

The workshops, and a symposium for new writers, include:

- Creative Writing, fiction and poetry (English 205) which meets 1-4 p.m. daily, except Friday, with Deborah Richardson.

- Poetry Writing (English 206) which meets 1-4 p.m. daily, except Friday, with Arthur Lindenberg.

- Poetry Writing and Analysis which meets from 7-9 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays with Daniel Minock.

- Creative Writing with fiction emphasis, which meets from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays with Lindenberg.

- Symposium for New Writers, to be conducted from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. on July 21-22. Open to all ages, it will provide a relaxed atmosphere in which resource persons can help new writers address their questions and concerns.

Poets John Woods and Eric Greinke will serve as writers-in-residence from July 10-13 and July 24-26, respectively.

A professor of English at Western Michigan University, Woods was the Robert Frost Fellow at the Bread Loaf Writer's Conference in 1962, and has given over 200 poetry readings including an appearance at the Moody Memorial Reading at the University of Chicago in 1977.

Michigan poet Eric Greinke lives in Grand Rapids and has written seven books of poetry. he is publisher of his own press, "Pilot Press," and has read his poetry at over 30 colleges and universities.

Daniel Minock is a former professor at Wayne State University and a widely-read poet particularly throughout the midwest region.

Deborah Richardson has published extensively in poetry and fiction and is a member of the Poets in Schools Program with the Michigan Council for the Arts.

Arthur Lindenberg is an English instructor at Schoolcraft and coordinator of the Summer Writing and Arts Festival, this year in its second season. For further information, he may be contacted at 591-6400, ext. 449.

Historical words

'Mightier than sword'

By JAMES CNOCKAERT

It is a curious case in American history that persons are often remembered more for what they said than for what they did.

Even more curious are the instances where persons have become famous because of what others have said about them.

Excellent examples of both can be found in the study of the era of the American Revolution. Many of the men who lived, fought, and (possibly) died in that conflict are remembered today precisely for one or the other of those two reasons.

Take the case of Patrick Henry, the erstwhile orator from the state of Virginia.

Without digging deeply into the pages of a history textbook, one might be hard-pressed to answer exactly what it was Henry did that made him so famous.

But now, think carefully. What was it Henry said to his colleagues in the Virginia Convention on March 23, 1775 — little more than one month after the battles of Lexington and Concord?

"Gentlemen may cry, 'Peace!'

Peace!' but there is no peace. The war is actually begun! The next gale that sweeps from the North will bring to our ears the clash of resounding arms.

"Is life so dear, or peace so sweet, as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery? Forbid it, almighty God! I know not what course others may take; but as for me, give me liberty or give me death!"

It is for those immortal and stirring words that Americans remember Henry. Few recall that he was later the governor of Virginia and an outspoken critic of the Constitution, calling it a threat to liberty because of its advocacy of a large standing army.

Paul Revere, on the other hand, will always be remembered, not for what he did, but for what the poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow said he did.

Born in 1807, thirty-two years after Revere supposedly made his famous ride through the Massachusetts countryside, Longfellow would have made a good public relations man had he lived today.

It was Longfellow's lengthy poem "Paul Revere's Ride" which endeared the Boston silversmith (and Son of Liberty) in the hearts of many.

"So through the night rode Paul Revere;
And so through the night went his cry of alarm
To every Middlesex village and farm,

A voice of defiance and not of fear,
A voice in the darkness, a knock at the door,
And a word that shall echo for evermore...

In the hour of darkness and peril and need,
The people will waken and listen to hear
The hurrying hoofbeats of that steed,
And the midnight message of Paul Revere."

It's clear Longfellow gave Revere a bit more credit than he actually deserved. The name "Revere", however, does have certain rhyming qualities to it.

In the early morning hours of April 19, 1775, Revere rode out into the Massachusetts countryside in the company of two compatriots — Samuel Prescott and William Dawes.

On their sojourn into the night, the trio was captured by a contingent of British soldiers. In an ensuing scuffle, Dawes alone escaped to warn the

Photographer David Turnley

Staffer wins top award

David Turnley, staff photographer for Sliger Home Newspapers, has won the top photography award in the 12th annual Hartland Art Show, held June 23-25.

His photograph, titled "McClellan Street," for which he was presented a $50 cash award at the show's opening ceremony Friday evening, was selected from some 130 entries in one of the state's most highly regarded art events.

Robert Vigiletti, judge of the photography competition, called the piece "a fine example of an environmental portrait" which shows human emotion and depicts the lifestyle of a neighborhood's residents. Vigiletti is chairman of the photography department at the Center for Creative Studies, Detroit.

Turnley's winning picture was part of a photographic essay on a poor neighborhood in their hometown of Fort Wayne, Indiana which he and his twin brother, Peter, created when they were 17-year-old high school students.

The series appeared in 35-mm Photography magazine in 1975 after Turnley, then a University of Michigan student made a scouting trip to New York City, hoping to introduce himself and his work to professional photographers, editors and agents. It worked.

Now 23 and a Sliger staffer since January, Turnley recalls that he and his brother, who both got turned on to photography in high school, discovered McClellan Street by accident and eventually made friends with the residents of the Appalachian and Mexican-American neighborhood.

"Our goal was just to portray the people and their environment. We enjoyed knowing these people. Some of them have been friends ever since and we go back to visit them when we are in Fort Wayne," Turnley said.

Turnley has also won Kodak National Newspaper and Scholastic Magazine National Photo contest awards. An annual photo award was named after the Turnley brothers at their Fort Wayne school, Elmhurst High School, because of the enthusiasm their picture-taking activity sparked there.

He has shown ingenuity and resourcefulness early in his photographic career. After meeting notables in the New York photographic world, Turnley later managed to do the same in Paris.

While in France, studying French at the Sorbonne in Paris for six months, he continued with his photography and met many whose work he had admired, including Henri Cartier-Bresson, who welcomed him into his home.

Some of Turnley's illustrations of French life later was published in two French language texts, written by University of Michigan professors. He also has been published in the Fort Wayne Journal Gazette and Michigan Daily newspapers.

His photographs have been exhibited in New York, Fort Wayne and Ann Arbor. Turnley has exhibited in the annual Ann Arbor Street Air Fair and plans to participate in this year's July event.

People are one of Turnley's favorite pictorial subjects, capturing them in candid moments of everyday life. "I always try to make my pictures compassionate, he said.

Turnley is one of three photojournalists for Sliger Home Newspapers, James Galbraith is chief photographer.

Canoe maps for Huron available

A new single-sheet canoe map is now available for the Huron River, one of the most popular routes for canoeing in southeastern Michigan.

The Huron River stretches over 100 miles from southwest of Pontiac to Lake Erie.

The Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority has three overnight canoe campsites, which are designed primarily for organized youth groups, individuals or families on canoe trips only. Adult supervision is required. Permits must be obtained in advance from the Kensington, Hudson Mills and Lower Huron parks. Canoe permit fees are $1 per canoe nightly with a $5 minimum. Metropark vehicle entry fees are required.

The new Huron River map is divided into four sections: from Proud Lake State Recreation Area to Kensington

Panda plant

It needs no pampering

Looking for an attractive plant that does not need a lot of pampering? Consider the panda plant (Kalanchoe tomentosa). This very slow growing succulent has velvety gray-green, spatula-shaped leaves with brown spots along the edges. Michigan State University horticulturists suggest it is a good choice for people who tend to forget to water their plants. In fact, overwatering is one of the few problems that beset it.

Pot the panda plant in any standard houseplant mix that provides good drainage. Water thoroughly, then allow the soil to dry out before watering again. Too

The Garden Corner

'What chewed up my corn?'

Michigan State University Extension specialists answer timely questions on vegetable gardening, houseplants, insect pests and related topics.

Q. I planted quite a bit of sweet corn this year. Just as it started to come up, most of it was chewed off at ground level. I want to replant, but not until I know what it was that ate my corn and what to do about it.

A. It sounds like a classic case of cutworm damage. These hairless caterpillars live in the soil, coming out at night to nip off tender transplants and seedlings. Homemade cardboard cutworm collars are often recommended for control of these pests. Cut a four-inch wide strip of cardboard, make it into a ring and set it down around a plant, pushing about one inch of the ring into the soil. Cutworms emerging from the soil and looking for a late night snack will be foiled by the barrier.

Q. I want to avoid using chemical pesticides in my garden whenever possible. Are there any biological controls for slugs?

A. Some snakes commonly feed on slugs. If you prefer snakes to slugs, try importing garter snakes. If the cure seems worse than the problem, try making slug traps instead. Water the garden, then throw some boards down on the ground between the rows. The slugs will crawl under them to shelter from the sun. All you have to do is pick up the boards and let the sun kill the pests. Slug traps work better if the slugs can't find an alternative hiding place, so be sure to remove garden mulches before you set out your traps.

Q. What's the difference between a pesticide and a herbicide?

A. "Pesticide" is a general term that refers to all chemicals used to control pests, whether they be weeds (herbicide), insects (insecticide), rodents (rodenticide), etc.

Q. I still have some of the potatoes I grew in my garden last year. They're sprouting all over the place. Could I use them for seed for this year's garden?

A. You can — but you might be better off not to. Many plant diseases can be carried over from year to year on seed. You might find that last year's minor problems readily become this year's major ones. You're better off to use certified seed potatoes to minimize your chances of disease problems.

Q. I recently bought a farm home. The spot I plowed up for my vegetable garden was a corn field last year. Now I'm wondering if planting vegetable after corn is going to pose any problems.

A. The most likely problem is carryover of herbicides. The herbicides usually used in field corn will not affect sweet corn but will cause dwarfing and stunting of broadleaved crops, which include vegetables. The vegetables would be safe to eat, but the plants would be misshapen and stunted and yields would most likely be low. Unless

Native American

Easy to grow from seeds, tough as a boot, heat and pest resistant, the American native gaillardia is surprisingly little known in gardening circles. Travelers through the southern Great Plains and upper South can see huge fields of gaillardia growing wild. But seedsmen have worked wonders with this rather plain wildflower. Above are the bud and blossom of the annual gaillardia, a double-flowered variety that blooms in midsummer from seeds sown in late spring. The sun-loving annual is quite different in blossom and plant form for its perennial cousin the "Blanket Flower". Stems on the 18-inch high annual plant are long and leafless. Regular harvesting will prolong bloom.

you know that no herbicide was used, or that one was used which does not carry over, it would probably be a good idea to hold off a year on your garden.

Q. Can I use lawn clippings as mulch in my vegetable garden?

A. Yes — provided you don't use them within two weeks of applying a lawn herbicide. The weed killer on the clippings can harm tomatoes and other sensitive garden crops. If you do mulch with grass clippings, use them in thin layers — 1-2 inches. Deep mats of clippings tend to get rather smelly.

Q. What can I do with the sprouting onions in my basement?

A. You could plant a few of them, just for fun. You won't get onion bulbs this year — they'll produce a flower and a globular seed head instead. You could even save the seeds and carry your experiment into next year by planting the seeds and harvesting a crop from them.

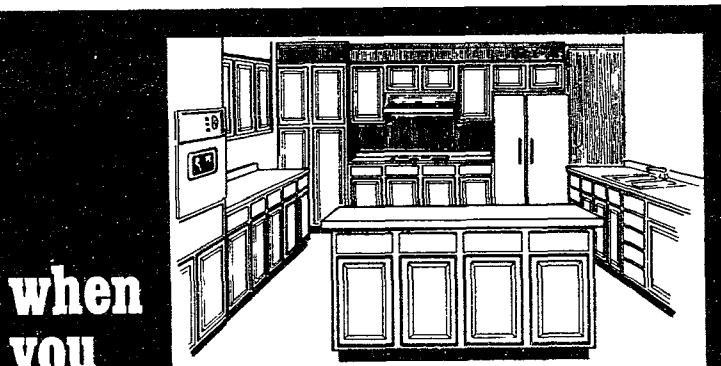

Q. What does it mean to pinch a plant?

A. Pinching means to break or cut off a portion of a growing tip or shoot. It is usually done to encourage the plant to branch.

Q. I put my jade plant outside last summer and it grew like a weed, but the edges of the leaves turned red. Is this a sign there's something wrong with it? It's gone all green again over the winter. Should I put it outside this year?

A. The edges of the leaves on the jade plant turn red when the plant is exposed to sunlight or lots of bright light. It's no cause for alarm. Go ahead and put the plant outdoors. Just be sure to keep it out of direct sun and protect it against wind. The jade plant is top-heavy and shallow rooted — it blows over easily.

RENDALL'S CYCLERY, a shop specializing in bicycles, mopeds, skateboards and other wheel toys, opened its doors on May 1.

The shop is located at 216 West Grand River in Howell. Owner Rick said his shop will service the entire Livingston County area.

Rendall takes eight years of experience into his venture — he was manager of the wheel goods department with the Circus World chain of stores.

Three-, five-, 10-speeds and coaster-brake bicycles are available in the brand names — Huffy, Concord and Fuji. Mopeds (motorized bicycles) are stocked from two companies — Batavus and Concord.

Tricycles, unicycles, wagons and rollerskates are also sold. In addition, the store is stocked with the latest in skateboarding equipment. Skateboards, and components to custom-build one, can be purchased, as well as helmets padding and other safety equipment.

TWELVE OAKS MALL in Novi has joined the list of camera locations for the Oakland Livingston Human Service Agency senior discount program. Senior citizens who wish to have photographs taken for identification cards may do there from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. July 18 and 19. Pictures also are being taken in South Lyon at the State Savings Bank of South Lyon from 1 to 3 p.m. July 5.

The identification cards enable seniors to receive discounts ranging from four to 40 percent on a variety of merchandise from more than 850 participating merchants in Oakland County. Eligible seniors must be at least 60 years old and live in Oakland County.

"WE FEEL SOUTH LYON has a tremendous potential for future growth," said Darrell Ashley, owner of Ashley-Cox Real Estate which recently opened a branch in South Lyon.

"It has a beautiful environment. It's countrified living. It is centrally located close to Ann Arbor, Detroit or Novi. Naturally, if you are in to real estate, you are interested in coming to a place like this."

Ashley and Cox, which has been in operation for 10 years, already has offices in Howell and Hamburg.

The firm has refurbished an old house at 345 North Lafayette, converting it into its new office while maintaining the original exterior of the building.

"We wanted to modernize the building but also to go along with countrified atmosphere and keep the proper theme of the place," said Ashley.

Ashley and Cox will have a grand opening in South Lyon, June 28 and 29 to show city residents why the firm feels it is one of the more innovative real estate agencies around.

Ashley-Cox also distributes copies of Homeseeker Magazine free of charge.

THE PROMOTION, of David A. Hartner, son of a Northville family, to dealer organization manager in Oldsmobile's sales department was announced by J. F. Mattox, divisional general sales manager.

Hartner joined the division in 1964 in the customer service department. Two years later he was transferred to organization and analysis as a senior clerk. In 1972 he became a supervisor in that department, a position he held until assuming his present job.

Hartner was born in Ann Arbor and graduated from Michigan State University. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hartner, Jr. of 416 South Main, Northville.

MEL ANDERSON was honored as a "Detroit Ambassador" for bringing the 1981 meeting of the National Association of Watch and Clock Collectors (2,000 delegates) to Detroit.

The Ambassador Award was given by the Metropolitan Detroit Convention & Visitors Bureau (MDCVB) at their annual meeting June 14 at Cobo Hall. Engraved medallions were presented to the Ambassadors at the meeting by Mayor Coleman Young.

The award, instituted in 1974, honors those men and women who have been instrumental in booking a major convention for the Detroit area.

Anderson, who resides in Northville, is owner of the Northville Watch & Clock Shop.

DR. ALLEN BALAY of South Lyon is the new associate veterinarian at Dr. Carl Welti's Dandy Acres Clinic at 56560 10 Mile Road. A 1977 graduate of Michigan State University, Dr. Balay has been associated with a small animal clinic at Auburn Heights for the past year.

Dandy Acres specializes in horses and small animals. Horse stalls at the new building are now in the process of completion.

FORD DIVISION of the Ford Motor Company recently announced that Mike Duffie has attained the status of master sales counselor in the Ford Society of Professional Sales Counselors for 1977.

The honor is awarded to sales personnel who display extraordinary achievement during the calendar year. Duffie is employed by Spiker Ford-Mercury in Milford, and has been a member of its staff since 1968.

Minute Men of Lexington and Concord... and every Middlesex village and farm.

For some unexplained reason, the Redcoat troop released Revere later that morning. But to make sure the Bostonian didn't cause further trouble, the British commander confiscated Revere's horse.

As it turned out, the night was not totally lost. Revere made his way to Lexington and arrived there in time to warn Sam Adams and John Hancock of the approach of British troops. Thanks to Revere's warning, those two rebel leaders were able to elude an enemy patrol which had been sent to capture them.

There were other Revolutionary heroes who opened their mouths at the right time and place in history.

Nathan Hale, the American spy executed by the British in New York City, was one such character. Some may contend that being under a tree with a noose around his neck was not the right place to be, but Hale did have the presence of mind to utter an immortal phrase:

"I regret that I have but one life to give for my country."

Two other men share somewhat the same distinction as Revere. In the cases of Ethan Allen and John Paul Jones, it wasn't what they said that made them famous, it was what onlookers thought they heard them say.

Allen was commander of a band of Vermont militia men who called themselves the "Green Mountain Boys." In May, 1775, he was ordered to capture Fort Ticonderoga, a British stronghold in northeastern New York, and bring back its artillery to the besieged city of Boston.

Allen and his troopers, accompanied by Benedict Arnold, surprised the sleeping Ticonderoga garrison. An aroused British officer asked by what authority Allen demanded surrender;

the Green Mountain hero is reputed to have responded with majestic grandiloquence:

"In the name of the Great Jehovah and the Continental Congress."

According to historians, Allen's response was totally out of character, if he did indeed address the British officer in that manner. Chances are, the response was more like: "Here, come out of that, you old rascal and give us the fort, quick, or we'll smoke you out like rats."

Jones got an ego boost from an anonymous poet of the period, who detailed the sea captain's exploits aboard the "Bonhomme Richard" while in battle with the British ship "Serapis."

"The battle rolled on, till bold Pearson cried: Have you struck your colors? then come alongside!

But so far from thinking that the battle was won, Brave Paul Jones replied, 'I've not yet begun! Hurrah!'"

Again historians agree that such eloquence was not Jones' strong suit. If he had stood still long enough to say everything he's given credit for, he probably would have been shot.

Chances are, Jones replied to British surrender demands in the more nautical fashion among sea captains: "Hell, no!"

There are other cases throughout this country's history where a person's words have spoken louder than his actions. This is not to say that the deeds they did were unimportant.

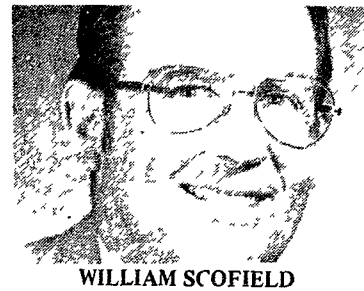

But true to the old cliché that "the pen is mightier than the sword," words are a powerful tool in the hands of a person who knows how to use them.

WILLIAM B. SCOFIELD was elected to the Board of Directors of Citizens Insurance Company of America at the annual meeting on May 15, announces Roy A. Westran, company president.

Scofield, who succeeds retired Walter F. Carey on the Citizens board, is president and treasurer of May and Scofield, Inc., a manufacturer of automotive assemblies in Howell.

Scofield is well known in the community, having served as board member and president of the Howell Area Chamber of Commerce, and was named Citizen of the Year in 1969.

He was a member of the Howell Recreation Commission for many years and was very active in the Junior Baseball Association, having been its first president. He is a member of and vestryman of St. John's Episcopal Church.

much moisture will lead to root rot.

The plant does best in bright light and temperatures between 65 and 90 degrees F. Because it is content with low humidity, it is well suited to growing in the home.

Fertilize every month if the plant is actively growing, and every two or three months otherwise.

Pests are not common on the panda plant because of hairy leaves. Propagation is by stem tip — leaves placed on soil.

DARRELL MURRAY, of Wilson Ford-Mercury Sales, Inc., Brighton, has attained the status of master sales counselor in the Ford Society of Professional Sales Counselors for 1977. This honor is awarded to sales personnel who display extraordinary sales achievement during the calendar year. Murray has been a member of the Wilson Ford-Mercury staff since July, 1975.

CHANGES in plant managers have been announced for two manufacturing plants of Ford Motor Company's Diversified Products Operations in nearby areas.

Gary R. Schoettley, formerly plant manager of the Sheldon Road plant near Northville, Plymouth Township, has been named plant manager of the Ypsilanti plant. He replaces Gordon P. McKay, who is being appointed to a position in another organization of Ford.

H. Gregory Wold, previously plant manager of the Green Island (New York) plant, succeeds Schoettley as plant manager of the Sheldon Road plant.

The Ypsilanti plant is a component of the Electrical and Electronics Division and the Sheldon Road plant is a facility of the Climate Control Division.

In becoming plant manager at Ypsilanti, Schoettley returns to the plant where he began his Ford career in 1962 as a production trainee foreman.

After completing his training, Schoettley carried out a series of production assignments and was appointed production manager in 1967. He served briefly as manufacturing engineering manager in 1968 before resuming the position of production manager.

In late 1971, he was named advanced manufacturing engineering and development manager of the former General Parks Division. He was appointed manufacturing engineering manager at the Rawsonville plant in 1973 and later that year became manufacturing manager at the Sandusky (Ohio) plant, holding that position until being appointed plant manager of the Sheldon Road plant in late 1975.

A native of Detroit, Schoettley studied architecture at the University of Michigan and received the B.S. degree in business administration from Wayne State University. He lives in Northville with his wife and two children.

Wold joined Ford in 1964 as planning analyst and chief analyst for custom car planning Ford Division and later headed the custom car forward program analysis section. After serving as Mustang and Torino planning manager for the Product Development Group from 1967 until late 1969, he held management positions in the former Industrial and Chemical Division.

In 1972, Wold was appointed executive assistant in the North American Automotive Operations Manufacturing Group, and a year later became current products and forward model control manager in the former General Parts Division. He was production manager and manufacturing engineering manager at the Sheldon Road plant from 1974 to 1976, when he was appointed plant manager of the Green Island plant.

Wold was born in Chicago and received the B.S. degree in science and engineering from the United States Military Academy at West Point, and the B.S. degree in industrial management from Rockford College. He is married and has four children and recently bought a home in Plymouth.

KAY ROTARIUS

KAY ROTARIUS, affiliated with Howell Town & Country Real Estate for two years, will transfer from South Lyon office to Brighton, July 1.

Rotarius, a 10-year resident of Lake of the Pines, Brighton, graduated May 15, 1976 from Russell Real Estate Institute, Southfield. She trained in the New Homes Division and is well versed in new construction activity.

Regarding her transfer, Rotarius said "It is easy for me to talk to people and I'm familiar with Brighton and its neighborhoods and surrounding communities."

She and her husband, Clement, have three children, Kandi, Gerard and Rod.

H JOSEPH PARISEAU of Walled Lake has joined the United Foundation staff as Director of Accounting, according to UF Executive Vice-president H. Clay Howell.

Pariseau formerly served as controller of Realtron Publishing Corporation in Redford. He is a 1973 graduate of the University of Detroit.

The United Foundation conducts the annual Torch Drive which supports health and community agencies in Wayne, Oakland, and Macomb counties.

NANCY VINEES has been elected group vice-president of Real Estate One, announces Michael J. Bartlett, general sales manager for the 36 metropolitan Detroit offices of Real Estate One.

In making the announcement Bartlett said, "Mrs. Vinees' district includes the Brighton, Westland, Plymouth, Ann Arbor, and soon to open Howell offices of the company. In addition she will continue to operate as line manager in the Brighton office, which she opened in 1973.

"Challenges are not unusual for Nancy," Bartlett added. "She entered the real estate business in 1969 from a position with the Livonia school system."

In 1971, Mrs. Vinees was appointed assistant manager of the company's west Livonia office. When she opened the Brighton office in late 1973 she was the total sales staff. In 1977, Mrs. Vinees and her 20 sales associates sold over $17,000,000 worth of business and ranked third in over all company production.

Nancy and her husband Bill, who manages the Ann Arbor office, have two daughters. They reside in Fowlerville.

SANDIE AND ROBERT MATHISON

RATZ HARDWARE at 331 West Main Street, Brighton, has a new owner. Robert and Sandie Mathison, formerly of Plymouth, purchased the business from Dean Sellman in early May.

The Mathisons now live in Brighton with their two children. Robert Mathison said he would retain the name of the store, a Brighton institution since 1897. The store will continue to specialize in general hardware and paint.

The store will be open Sunday, 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m., and daily from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Everybody comes to Northville's well

By JEAN DAY

Who stops at the Northville well for water, where do they come from, and why?

The last question is the easiest to answer about the constant parade of jug carriers at the historic well that has become the community's landmark at the bend in Northville Road just east of the Ford Valve Plant.

"It's good, cool water."

Almost any hour of the day or evening there's someone filling containers from the constantly flowing well, especially in summer. They come from Detroit and near-by communities in cars. Local residents, especially youngsters, pause for a drink, leaning their bikes against the wood supports of the well.

Not even City Manger Steve Walters has any idea of how many are enjoying the well water. A few 15-minute spot-checks during recent pleasant summer days indicate that from eight to ten people may stop by in that time period.

Among the most picturesque visitors to the well have been Muhyiah Al-Hakeem and Raquibah Bey who came from Detroit last Wednesday with enough jugs to obtain a three-month supply of water. Both Muslims, the women wore flowing garb and headpieces with Muhyiah even wearing the nose veil, which, she says, is a matter of personal choice.

"It tastes good and cooks well, she explains as her reason for driving from Detroit for the water. She adds that she makes the trip regularly about every three months, and, when there's time, goes into the woods beyond the well to gather herbs.

At the same time two Northville youngsters, Todd Schiftar and John McClure, had paused on a

These grads are launching business with a song

Judy Zimmerman and Lisa Raycraft deliver a sample "sing-o-gram" to April Jackson and Lisa Herzog. See In Our Town.

by JEAN DAY

Judy Zimmerman and Lisa Raycraft, two enterprising June graduates of Northville High School, are hoping that life's a song. The girls have formed a singing duet partnership and say they will deliver a singing telegram to anyone in the Northville area to mark a birthday or other special occasion.

"We call them 'sing-a-grams,' and we'll write original ones or sing whatever the sender wants for $5," says Judy, explaining that this is to be a part-time venture that they're launching today as Lisa returns from Jamaica with the Northville High Jazz Band. In addition to identifying straw hats, the girls will wear either painter's pants or shorts with knee socks and saddle shoes.

Lisa, daughter of the William Raycrafts of 44575 Thornapple, also is employed as a lifeguard and swim instructor at Novi High School. Judy is a pool attendant at the Lexington Condos' pool. She's the daughter of the Frank Zimmermans of 46380 West Main.

Earlier this month on June 11 Judy was honored in a triple graduation celebration which also marked the graduation of her brother, Paul, from Michigan State University where he majored in art-film making. Third honoree at the party at the Zimmerman home was Judy's cousin, Beth Kellogg, who had moved from Ypsilanti to Newbury Park in California and was graduating from Newbury Park High School. The Northville High Jazz Band, in which Judy's brother John is a member, saluted the trio at the party.

Loriann Steeber presents pupils

Another young lady who has created a job for herself is Loriann Steeber, who will be a senior this fall at Northville High School. For the past year she has been teaching piano to five youngsters, ranging from a preschooler to fifth grader.

Last Thursday 32 parents and friends gathered at her home at 41572 Ladywood Court for a recital with cake, coffee and punch afterward. In the recital were Beth and Dante Lamana, Heather Cross, Sandra Donnan and Kris Diehl.

Senator Robert Griffin was here

Dr. and Mrs. Gordon R. Forrer opened their home at 16995 West Main early last Sunday evening for a fund-raising party for U.S. Senator Robert P. Griffin of Traverse City. The Republican senator who is running for reelection was on hand with his family. Co-hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Al Wistert, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fonde and Mr. and Mrs. John MacDonald. Wistert is serving as the senator's local campaign manager. Guests attended the reception from both Northville and Plymouth areas.

Fountain, plant class earn NFGA laurels

Two worthwhile projects of the Northville Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association — the decorative water fountain for Allen Terrace and the plant class for retarded children — are gaining special recognition for the active Northville Branch. At the spring Michigan Division meeting in Battle Creek they brought the branch first place awards in civic improvement and horticultural therapy. Because of these involvements, she was one of seven branch presidents invited to speak at the state meeting.

"They're very lovable kids," she says of the youngsters who have been planting bulbs in downtown planters and at the Mill Race Village, "but you do have to have a good volunteers to make this happen for it requires a great deal of understanding." Women like Marilyn Donovan, who organized the activity, and Jamie Hove and Jo Krause, its new chairmen, are known to have this quality.

When Allen Terrace opens its doors to senior citizens in late summer the decorative fountain will be in place at the entrance, sending a ring of water 10 feet into the air. Basic parts of the fountain, for which the branch donated $3,000, are on hand with the cornerstone already dedicated.

"It's sculpture in water," Mrs. O'Brien enthuses, explaining that there's gunite bowl into which the water will go to recirculate. Four-hundred watt lights in the base will illuminate the dancing water at night.

Helen's seeking junk for the Fourth

"I'm looking for everybody's junk," asserts Helen Maki, chairman of the Northville Historical Society's flea market booth of Trash 'n' Treasures at the Mill Race Village July 4. From small appliances to remainders in a set of glasses or old jewelry, donations are wanted. Only exception is clothing.

"We need much more to sell for two bits," says Mrs. Maki, adding that anyone may call her at 349-6437 for pick-up. Donations also may be brought to the schoolhouse building in the Mill Race Saturday. Last year the project brought in $500 for the restoration. The booth also is a fun place to visit during the holiday activities at the Mill Race. You may find an antique plate — or half of a salt-and-pepper set to hold your stickpin collection, as some did last year.

Three June engagements announced

ALICE CLARKE

The engagement of Alice Whitson Clarke to James Nicholas Roe is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas N. Clarke of 20087 Caldwell. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen O. Roe of Ypsilanti.

The bride-elect, a 1975 graduate of Northville High School, presently is attending the University of Michigan.

Her fiancé, a 1970 graduate of Lincoln High School, is attending Eastern Michigan University and is employed as a manager by Bill Knapp's restaurants.

They have set a March 10, 1979, wedding date.

JANET LENNOX

Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Lennox of 41828 Sutters Lane announce the engagement of their daughter, Janet Kay, to M. Patton Moyer of Plymouth.

He is the son of Mrs. Ralph Moyer of Olathe, Kansas.

The bride-to-be is a 1976 graduate of Michigan State University with a BS degree in Interior Design. She also studied at General Electric's Lighting Institute in Cleveland in 1977. She now is employed by Smith Hinchman and Grylls as a lighting designer and is living in St. Clair Shores.

Her fiancé is a graduate of Wichita State University with a degree in economics and a master's degree in finance. He is employed by Ford Motor Company in Livonia.

They have set an October 7 wedding date and plan to be married at the Charlevoix home of Janet's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Willis.

LINDA BROWN

Announcement is made of the engagement and upcoming marriage of Linda L. Brown of Kalamazoo and Charles R. Cook, a former Northville man now living in Lansing.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Brown of Kalamazoo.

Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene K. Cook, longtime Northville residents of Ely Drive who recently moved to 20268 Longwood Court in Highland Lakes.

He was graduated from Northville High School in 1972 and Harvard College, where he majored in economics, in 1976. He now is on the Democratic staff of the Michigan House of Representatives in Lansing.

His fiancé is a graduate of Kalamazoo Central High School and has completed her third year at University of Michigan where she is affiliated with Alpha Chi Omega Sorority.

They are making plans for an August 12 wedding in Kalamazoo.

Andrea Torok wed in OLV rites

Andrea K. Torok and Kevin R. Goshorn exchanged rings and vows in a 2:30 ceremony June 3 at Our Lady of Victory Church. Father Alphonse Babonas officiated at the service which included the symbolic lighting of candles.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew A. Torok of 328 North Center. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Goshorn of Farmington.

As she was given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a traditional Juliet-style gown of satin fashioned with a deep yoke of French lace embroidered with pearls and sequins. The full, puffed sleeves were gathered into ruffled wrists with a matching ruffle at the neckline. The skirt extended into a full, cathedral train.

A Juliet cap of pearls and sequins held her lace-edged illusion veil. White and blue flowers formed her colonial bouquet.

Cayle Torok was her sister's maid of honor in a peach-hued floral print gown. She carried a single peach rose with greens and baby's breath tied with peach ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Diane Slowinski in a blue floral gown, Barbara Herter in green, Tedi Goshorn, sister of the bridegroom, in blue and white floral. Each carried a yellow rose with baby's breath.

Barbie and Donna Herter were flower girls in blue floral dresses.

Gregg Goshorn was best man for his brother. Ushers were Gary Lefler, Frank Tarwacki and Chuck Zammit.

Attending the reception afterward at the church were 150 guests, including out-of-towners from New York, Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky.

The bride is a 1971 graduate of Northville High School and a 1972 graduate of Plymouth Beauty School. Her husband is a 1971 graduate of Farmington High and a 1973 graduate of Ferris State College and is employed at Gannon Optical Company.

The newlyweds are living in Farmington Hills.

Pamela Hicks speaks vows in Troy church

A sailing cruise in the West Indies was chosen by Pamela Sue Hicks and Harry L. Manza, Jr., for their wedding trip. The couple had met on a sailing date and sail a great deal in Michigan.

They were married in a double-ring, candlelight ceremony at 7 p.m. May 13 in St. Alan's Church in Troy.

The bride is the daughter of Bruce Hicks of Rochester and Kay Hicks of Northville.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Manza of Birmingham at whose home the garden reception was held for about 130 guests, including out-of-towners from New Hampshire, Kansas, Louisiana, Alabama, South Carolina and Southern Michigan cities.

As she was given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ivory chiffon gown with lace capelet and wide-brim hat. She carried a sheaf of long-stem white roses.

Sally Pence of Troy was matron of honor for her sister in a peasant-look green-and-pink floral print dress and hat. She carried tinted green roses.

Laurie (Carpenter) Engleman of Milford, Lana Gendren of Pontiac and Jeannette (Marino) Brevik of Northville were bridesmaids in pink-beige floral print dresses and hats. They carried long-stem pink roses.

The bride's niece, Melissa Pence, was flower girl. Brooks Juneau, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring bearer.

Paul Gariepy of Jefferson, Louisiana, was best man. Ushers were Bruce Engleman, Michael and Dennis Manza.

The bride owns and operates a beauty salon in Southfield. Her husband is a financial analyst for Ford Motor Company in Dearborn. They presently are living in Troy.

Fashion store owner's report:

Everyone's wearing a blazer in London, Paris

"The velvet blazer is the uniform of the day in Europe — practically every man and woman in Paris had one on," reports Claire Kelly who returned June 15 from two weeks in London and Paris.

The owner of the women's fashion apparel store at 141 East Cady that bears her name says she had expected to see more fashion trends than she did and was surprised that the blazer, which Women's Wear Daily fashion publication, considered as an ultimate authority by American fashion professionals, has called passe, is so popular.

"I took a blazer, feeling ridiculous to be taking it in summer, but I was very glad I did," she adds, mentioning it was ideal for cool evenings.

"Men wear them with dress and casual pants — women with pants, skirts and dresses. They were most in evidence in the natural browns, beiges and grays that I love."

Only other trend spotted on the streets was young girls in Paris in skinny jeans and high heels.

"Their European jeans were so tight that I thought as I saw them getting into cars that they wouldn't be able to sit down, but they managed," she recalls.

Mrs. Kelly's main impression was that "everything is unbelievably expensive."

She estimated that London was twice as expensive as here and Paris five times higher for everything except antiques.

"I was surprised," she admits, "to find only a handful of really well-dressed women on the streets. 'You'll see as many extremely chic women at Main and Center.'"

Attributing this to Britain's sagging economy, Mrs. Kelly commented that the women who seemed native to London were especially badly dressed, mentioning that some were wearing coats that looked as if they might be 25 years old.

"It's been stated that Parisian women buy one good outfit and wear it a lot; I'm not sure that's true," Mrs. Kelly observed, "for people into clothes don't wear outdated fashion."

She added that this clothing philosophy doesn't work in the United States as "our lifestyle needs more variety."

It was a surprise to find French fashions costing more in Paris than in this country, Mrs. Kelly says.

In addition to the devalued dollar, she feels the explanation lies in the fact that a Yves St. Laurent French style is cheaper here because it is made in this country while the Parisian version is better-made. The French one has more interfacing, a different kind of fit, she explains.

In addition to observing fashions, Mrs. Kelly and her husband, Clark, who is an administrator in the special education program in the Northville schools, saw London and Paris highlights, including the French flea market.

In Paris they renewed acquaintances with former Northville residents, Fran and Jay DeMott, who have an apartment there. He is on an overseas assignment with Ford Motor Company. Mrs. Kelly relates that, because of the DeMotts, they visited "neat French restaurants" they probably never would have found on their own.

The Walter Wilhelms inspect a current art project in his studio

They're marking 50th year

Walter Wilhelms give talents to St. Paul's

Walter Wilhelm courted Eileen Moeller by mail, giving her a most unusual and romantic scrapbook of hand-painted envelopes and letters, while he was attending art school in Chicago and she was teaching school in Rock Island, Illinois.

The romance culminated in their marriage June 25, 1928, in Immanuel Lutheran Church, Rock Island. The bridegroom's father, the Reverend Phillip Wilhelm, married them.

Last Sunday, on their golden wedding anniversary, they were honored at a family dinner given at the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth with their two daughters, Mrs. Lydia Christofides of Seattle, Washington, and Mrs. Gretchen Green of Plymouth, and other family members, grandchildren and close friends attending.

Among the special guests were the Reverend and Mrs. Charles Boerger. He is pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church where both the Wilhelms volunteer a great deal of their time and talent in their retirement.

His art talent is seen throughout the community, but most especially at St. Paul's where he created the emblem of St. Paul and Luther's seal that decorate the double entrance doors of the church.

He also painted the nursery murals at the church and made the wooden cross in the narthex, the wooden Jesse tree used at Christmas and Bicentennial plaque for the rear door.

Mrs. Wilhelm spends at least two days a week keeping books for the church.

During the first years of their marriage they lived in Chicago but moved to Detroit on a transfer with the Jam Handy Motion Picture Company. In 1942 they moved to Orchard Lake to spend 25 years in what "really was the suburbs at that time."

In 1971 they retired and did not want the upkeep of a large home and an acre of land; so they moved to King's Mill in Northville. They were entertained by King's Mill residents at a party June 10 when they were presented with a 50th anniversary plate. Their King's Mill neighbors honored them at a dinner June 12.

'It's good water'

Everybody comes to Northville's well

bike trip just because they were thirsty. A few minutes later a Plymouth couple stopped to fill containers, saying this was the water they used for drinking.

The well that has been a Northville symbol for longer than even the oldest old-timer can remember isn't the artesian original. It was popularized nationally in a comic strip, The Nebbs, more than a half-century ago. Northville was the setting for the strip, created by the late Sol Hess. His chinless character, Rudy Nebb, extolled the virtues of the water, which he called "Nox'Age Water."

About 15 years ago the source of the original well began to dry up. After all efforts to revive it failed, Northville in 1966 tied a line to the well, and it flowed with Detroit water. But not even signs posted by the city convinced those filling jugs that this was the same water that came from their Detroit water taps.

So, Northville Rotary, which long has been overseer of the well, in 1968 paid for the drilling of a new well on the site. A good supply of water was found 47 feet deep, but it wasn't free-flowing. An underground pump was installed, and it has run ever since to insure a constant flow.

"If you have a well at home, it's exactly the same kind of water that you're getting," Walters stresses, and a lot of area residents do still have their own wells.

But Walters has to emphasize that "it's just a mechanically-pumped well common in the area" providing a cool drink for truck drivers and delivery people passing by.

The city's symbol has generated many stories in addition to its comic strip fame. Former Mayor A.M. Allen likes to tell how he saw a man filling containers with water during the period when it was tied into the Detroit water line. As mayor, he relates, he felt compelled to stop and enlighten the visitor.

"I don't care WHERE it comes from so long as it continues to help my wife's arthritis," was the response, leaving no doubt that the wife never would know the truth.

For local residents who have access to well water it's difficult to understand how visitors make the pilgrimage here to bottle it.

But the water from the shaded well is clear and cold — and without additives.

GOOD TIME FOR WINE

by Jim Roth

You don't have to buy the bottles labelled 'cooking wines' that you find in many food stores to get wine to cook with. These bottles often contain sugar or salt, and most good cooks prefer using real wine to cook with. But, this doesn't mean that cooking with wine has to be expensive. Keep the cork from bottles of wine you serve, and if there is any wine left-over after you serve it, recork the bottle and put it in your refrigerator for cooking use. Red wines can be stored for cooking for at least one week, and whites for much longer. Even sparkling wines that have gone flat in the refrigerator are fine for cooking.

Many dishes can be made more interesting with the addition of wines. When you need help in selecting wines for cooking talk to us at GOOD TIME PARTY STORE, 567 Seven Mile Road, 349-1477. We stock a large variety of inexpensive, but good half gallon and gallon table wines. Open: Mon. thru Sat. 9 a.m. - 10 p.m., Sun. Noon-6 p.m.

HELPFUL HINT:
Gourmets recommend serving the same kind of wine you cook with. For such an occasion, use the best.

Club aids OLP building project

Plans for three new buildings that are to be home-type cottages for retarded girls at Our Lady of Providence School, 16115 Beck Road in Northville Township, have been given a financial assist by the American-Italian Professional and Business Women's Club of Detroit.

The club, which has a membership of women from Grosse Pointe, St. Clair Shores, Detroit, West Bloomfield, Troy, Roseville and East Detroit, earmarked proceeds from its "Cantina Italiana" this spring for the building program at Our Lady of Providence.

Honor guests for "an evening of merriment" were Detroit Italian Consul Dr. and Mrs. Silvio Fagiolo and Chandellor and Mrs. Salvatore Favazza.

Our Lady of Providence Sisters Theresa Tamburo and Theresann were among the special guests at the club's closing luncheon of the year May 20 at Somerset Inn. They were presented with the gift from the fund-raiser for the building project.

Plans for the three cottage buildings, designed as double units for eight girls each, were approved by the Northville Township Planning Commission at its February 28 meeting.

The present dormitories are to be remodeled for classroom and other uses, it was explained.

It was hoped that ground-breaking could be this spring, but the school administration stated earlier in June that delays have made this impossible.

WHO, ME RETIRE?

There are hundreds of reasons for retiring. Here are just a few.

1. Your personal finances are adequately sufficient so you may live comfortably the rest of your years, but you want to change your lifestyle.
2. You're as energetic and alert at age 62 as you were at 40, but company policy requires retirement at age 65.
3. You're over 55 and the pressures and stress of the job are beginning to "get to you."

You'd be glad of a less demanding schedule. If you even think about retiring you should start planning your retirement now. If you would like some basic information on "how to retire", stop in or phone us.

Your questions and comments on this and other subjects are welcome — in private or publicly through this column.

Gifts to increase your pleasure while we increase your wealth.

We're having a little celebration to mark the announcement of two new First Federal savings plans—our Six-Month (26-Week) Investment Certificate Savings Account and our Eight-Year 8% Certificate Savings Account.

It's a party where everything is for you. You get to learn about these two new accounts, as well as all the other First Federal Cash-MasterSM Savings Accounts, and you also get to choose a gift (free or at substantial savings) when you make a qualifying deposit to any First Federal Savings Account.

We think you'll be very pleased with the selection of stylish luggage. There's a complete assortment to choose from, including overnights, weekenders, even month-longs. We're sure you'll enjoy using these bags.

And to make sure you get to the airport or grandma's house or wherever on time, we also have a wide selection of fine watches in a wide range of styles, including men's, women's, goldtone, silvertone, wrist models, pendants, even one for your suitcase.

So check the gift chart to see how easily you can get one of these fine gifts. And check the savings rate chart to see how you'll benefit by having a savings account at First Federal.

We know what money is for.

New fiction on the shelves of the Northville Public Library provides a variety of summer reading.

Adult fiction includes:

"Fool's Errand," by Marc Norman; a dedicated social worker-nurse flies a shipment of dynamite to South America to blow out a mine fire.

"Whistle," by Jeams Jones; successor to "From Here to Eternity" and "The Thin Red Line" completes the World War II trilogy. In it four NCO's are shipped home from the Pacific.

"Compromising Positions," by Susan Isaacs; a suburban housewife decides to turn sleuth when a local dentist is murdered and her neighbor is implicated.

"September, September," by Shelby Foote; a white gang kidnaps a black child in the segregated South of the 1950's — where can the parents turn for help?

"Stained Glass," by Frank William; CIA agent Blackford Oakes is on assignment in Germany. He's up against a German agent feared by KGB, CIA and everyone else.

"The Plague Dogs," by Richard Adams; two dogs escape from an experimental lab where they had been tortured in useless experiments. They enjoy their freedom until hunted by a man who fears they are spreading Bubonic plague.

"Jackson's Way," by Gerard Herzog; two competing teams are trying to scale Mont Blanc, but one by one they begin to die.

Adult non-fiction includes:

"Broadway's Greatest Musicals," by Abe LaFite; a complete story of musicals: theatrical, social and deomonic.

"Breeding, Whelping and Natal Care of Dogs," by Louis L. Vine; includes index and deals with selective breeding, prenatal care, whelping, postnatal care of the bitch and puppies, and do's and don'ts of training.
