

Idle treasure lies dormant in Northville Township

By RICH PERLBERG

Long, wooden planks lead out of the window wells of the 18 cottages that dot the campus-like landscape of the Wayne County Child Development Center.

Although the protruding boards look not unlike the bayonets of sentries in the trenches, their purpose is a much more compassionate one.

They serve as escape routes for the ground hogs, squirrels and skunks who leap into the four-foot wells seeking warmth and then can't get out.

Not long ago, when the center was in use, the permanent planks would have been unnecessary for the animals would be spotted and freed by one of the nearly 1,000 employees and children on the grounds.

Today, there are only five people who tend to the 40-odd buildings and more than 700 acres that is the child development center. A trapped animal would likely die before being discovered.

The child development center was virtually deserted four years ago when the last of the retarded children who lived there were transferred to smaller, group homes.

It is a present day example of the after effects of a neutron bomb. The people are gone but the buildings remain intact and largely unscathed.

An enigmatic blanket of land, often shrouded in controversy and politics, its future is as clouded today as it was four years ago.

Beacon Woods suits continue in court today

Hearing on two lawsuits involving North Beacon Woods subdivision continues in Wayne County Circuit Court today (Wednesday).

The opening hearing before Circuit Court Judge John D. O'Hair was recessed early yesterday afternoon without a decision being made.

There were some indications that the hearing may continue for several days before Judge O'Hair reaches a decision.

The controversy pits property owners living near the subdivision against township officials and the developers as the neighboring property owners seek to force changes in the proposed subdivision, which is located on the south side of Eight Mile Road surrounding Moraine Elementary School.

Northville Township officials and Spagnoli Associates, the developing firm, were served Thursday with the second lawsuit which was combined with the first.

Plaintiffs in the latest suit are Whipple Estates residents William Conrick, N. H. Whiteside, Mitchell S. Pitak, Chester Dasher, Robert G. Byrd, Lanning C. Mattingly and Robert M. Donovan.

Earlier, Thomas Dasher filed suit against the Northville Township Board of Trustees, the Northville Township Planning Commission and the subdivision developers, charging that the development's open space is located improperly, the natural character of the land is not preserved and proper run-off and retention areas have not been provided.

Circuit Court Judge Roman S. Gribbs issued a restraining order preventing the planning commission and the board from granting approval for the subdivision's phase three. Nothing in the restraining order, however, prevents Spagnoli Associates from continuing work on the 166-lot subdivision.

In his opening remarks yesterday, David M. Fried, Whipple Estates attorney, argued that "He (Spagnoli Associates) has taken all of the vegetation off (the land), has leveled the hills, has provided no recreational areas. The areas reserved are used for retention basins, a drainage area for all the lots."

Fried painted a picturesque setting for the area, pointing out that the pleasant character of the land has now been virtually eliminated by the developer. He showed an aerial picture of the areas, stressing that the beauty of the land no longer exists.

Basically, Fried argued that if the builder is to develop the subdivision he must provide for 110-foot lots because he had not provided "the right kinds of open space."

Concurring with Fried was Michael Billmeyer, attorney for Thomas Dasher.

Township Attorney Donald Morgan argued that the plaintiffs had no right to be in court since they had been adequately heard at the township board level and that the developer had been persuaded to make changes in his plan to accommodate many of the citizens' objections.

He disputed Fried's contention that some of the plaintiffs were from Taft Colony, making the point that all of them are from Whipple Estates.

Fried replied that his clients were in the process of adding plaintiffs to the lawsuit that would include Taft Colony residents.

Only two witnesses were called in yesterday's hearing.

Whiteside, who showed nine pictures of before and after conditions on the subdivision site, said trees and hills had been removed from what previously was a beautiful place.

He described the trees as well-grown, mostly hardwood. Some of them, he added, were 75 to 100 feet high 14 to 18 inches in diameter. They included maples and beeches and, in the area of Taft Col-

New name given 8 Mile city sub

Changes in the planned city subdivision for property on the north side of west Eight Mile known as the McDonald farm include a new name and fewer but larger lots.

In a review prior to a public hearing set for 8 p.m. October 3, the city planning commission last week Tuesday learned that the subdivision will have 14 fewer lots and be called Country Creek Subdivision instead of the previously named Apple Ridge.

Ernest Fournier, one of the developers, explained that the change from 226 to 212 lots and the redesign of the street plan, eliminating a continuing road on the east side of the development, were made to reduce mass grading and to keep street grades to a minimum.

The new plan won praise from city planning consultant Ronald Nino who pointed out it was a substantial change from the original and was "much better than the original." He recommended the commission give tentative preliminary approval of the new design. The motion passed unanimously.

Roy Russell, planner for the developer, said that the name change was necessary as the Oakland County Register of Deeds office already has an Apple Ridge Estates subdivision in the Rochester area on file and will not permit name duplication.

Name change for the subdivision also resulted in street name changes with the main north-south road being called Country Creek Drive.

Open space area was reduced from over 22 acres to 17 in the new plan.

Fournier said that this is explained in the addition of two cul-de-sacs, bringing the number of cul-de-sacs and circles to 13, and the changes in lot layouts in an attempt to keep lots on the back ridges of the property and avoid grading.

Lot widths remained at a minimum of 80 feet but depth was reduced from 120 minimum to a 110 minimum. Fournier stated this was noted as "a few lots on Elmsmere Court would have this depth, but others would have more."

The five or six area residents attending were assured that the layout changes were made to help avoid "scalping the land." In response to concerns about the trees, Russell replied that "we want trees as much as STATE SENATOR R. Robert Geake joined several other key legislators last week in successfully removing an amendment from the proposed state transportation package that would have exempted a tax increase on diesel fuel. Geake, however, has indicated he will oppose the total package when it comes up for final vote because his mail from private citizens has been running almost unanimously against it. Last week the city council unanimously urged support of the House approved bill that would raise gasoline tax from nine cents to 11 cents and diesel fuel tax from seven to nine.

ELECTION of officers and assignments to committees of the Northville City Planning Commission, scheduled for the September 19 meeting, was delayed by chairman C. Thomas Wheaton until all members could be present. Next meeting on October 3 will be a public hearing for proposed Country Creek subdivision on West Eight Mile.

NORTHVILLE TOWNSHIP officials hope to start the move late next week from the township hall on Sheldon Road to the new Northville Township Civic Center north of Six Mile Road across from Winchester. Township Clerk Clarice Sass said the clerk's office will be the first to move to the $782,683 administrative-fire department complex. Other departments will follow, with the move expected to be completed by mid-October, she said.

Plan revisions ok'd

Two major revisions to Northville's Mainstreet 78 downtown improvement project along with new cost estimates have been enthusiastically endorsed by committee members.

Under intensive study for more than a year the central business district plan was initially introduced to the public in May. Nearly all details of the project have since been returned to the drawing boards with the newly-retained firm of Kamp-DiComo Associates Architects in charge of design.

Whereas initial Mainstreet 78 project cost estimates were placed at between $1.2 and $1.5 million, it would now appear that the total improvement program can be completed for one million dollars.

Most costly of the individual projects is the improvement of the northeast parking lot (bounded by Main, Center, Dunlap and Hutton streets at the rear of Main street stores).

Under the revised plan the "service court" concept at the rear of stores has been removed allowing customer and delivery traffic to intermix. The plan converts the difficult-to-manuever lot into one providing for easier traffic flow and systematic parking. A theme of landscaping is introduced and a hodge-podge of utility poles removed.

Installation of underground utility lines in the northeast parking lot is a costly provision which the committee hopes can be retained for the sake of traffic convenience and esthetics. Total estimated cost for complete improvement of the public parking area designed to accommodate more than 125 cars is $432,500 with underground utilities accounting for some $125,000 of the total.

A revised Town Square plan now provides for one-way southbound traffic off Main street alongside the Square as an entrance to Mary Alexander Court and the adjoining Cady Street parking deck.

Originally, the proposed Town Square had occupied the total area now used as a parking lot on the south side of Main Street between Northville Drug Co. and Northville Insurance Agency buildings.

A landscaped walkway will serve pedestrian traffic adjacent to Northville Drug and west of the traffic lane. The eastern portion of the Square will include planters, benches, colorful brick-like surface and a covered structure about 15-feet square for exhibits, etc.

Committee members envision the landscaped Town Square as a focal point for the central business district that can be functional as a site for downtown activities, including the popular farmers' market which now occupies the parking area on Thursdays. It is suggested that farmers' products can be merchandised in both the Square and the adjoining parking deck.

Estimated cost of Town Square is $133,800.

Mainstreet 78 improvements will along Main Street from Wing to Hutton and on Center street, Main to Dunlap. New brick-like paving stones will be used for sidewalk treatment as well as throughout the landscaping theme in the parking lots and Town Square.

Architect Donald Di Como, a Northville resident, is heading up a team of consultants which includes the firm of McNeeley & Lincoln Associates, civil engineers, and John Nagy, a city planner and landscape architect.

College strikers in court

With Schoolcraft College teachers continuing to defy a court order by refusing to return to work, a hearing was scheduled in circuit court this morning on whether a permanent injunction should be issued.

Despite the circuit court's temporary injunction issued Friday, teachers failed to return to their classrooms Monday and Tuesday. Picketing continued.

The teachers union's reasoning in defying the temporary injunction was 1) to assure that it gets its day in court (today) and 2) to bargain with clout for a couple more days.

A few teachers and secretaries crossed the picket lines Tuesday, but there simply were not enough teachers or students to conduct classes, a college spokesman said.

Continuation of the strike into a second week brought the prospect that some students will ask for refunds of their tuitions and fees. The college board of trustees last week authorized the administration to make full refunds in hardship cases if the strike went into a second week.

A college spokesman said Sunday night, "The college's official position is that teachers are under court order (to return to work), and we will be open for class (Monday) morning."

The Faculty Forum, bargaining agent for 350 instructors at the two-year college serving Northville, reportedly was split on whether to work but "nearly unanimous" in its resolve that the majority's wishes would rule. Members met jointly with the secretaries union, also on strike, for four and one-half hours Sunday night.

College President C. Nelson Grote said Friday the college had obtained a temporary restraining order from Wayne Circuit Judge Thomas Roumell telling the Forum to cease its strike and return to work Monday.

It was to possibly give this order permanency that today's hearing was scheduled.

Although the teachers refused to return to work earlier this week and despite heated negotiating rhetoric, some observers were predicting that a settlement is imminent.

According to Grote, the college unilaterally requested that a state fact-finder enter the dispute.

At a special Sunday evening meeting of the board of trustees Richard Arlen, spokesman for the Faculty Forum bargaining team, asked the college to "accept" the fact-finder's report; in other words, that the fact-finding be binding on terms of a new contract.

"I don't think your attorney will recommend you accept," Arlen predicted, "but your attorney doesn't have to live here."

He was right. Ninety minutes later, trustees emerged from a closed session and said they had rejected the Forum's proposal. The reasoning: Voters had elected trustees to make budget and contract decisions, and trustees shouldn't delegate that authority to a fact-finder, who might also be a non-resident.

Fresh in their minds was the experience of Wayne County government: The county is seeking to lay off 1,200 general government employees for two months to save enough money to pay an arbitrator's award to 650 sheriff's deputies.

Fact-finding, binding or otherwise, will take seven weeks, Arlen said. "You

Decline appears great

Plunging enrollment hurts school

Northville's plummeting school enrollment will drop even further than expected this year, costing the district an undetermined amount of state aid and possibly forcing the board of education to make last-minute budget cuts.

As of last Friday, one week before the official Fourth Friday count, Superintendent Larry Nichols said the district had enrolled 4,065 students.

That's 86 students below the projected figure of 4,133 and 154 below last year's enrollment of 4,219.

The drop would be even lower except that Northville is counting for the first time more than 80 special education students who previously were educated by the county or the Plymouth School system.

If the figures hold through the end of this week, it means that Northville will have an enrollment of fewer than 4,000 non-special education students for the first time since 1972.

Enrollment figures are crucial because state aid payments are based proportionally on the number of students in a district.

"The impact will be felt," said Nichols Monday. "Projected revenues will be lower than expected."

Last year, when enrollment came in 50 students lower than anticipated, the school board had to make $70,000 in cuts a month into the school year.

This year, the formula works out to $1,474 per student but the district's actual loss will be moderated by two factors.

First, the state aid bill that was passed was more liberal than the one school administrators used in preparing preliminary revenue estimates.

Second, the state's formula for declining enrollment school districts has improved this year.

Nevertheless, the board undoubtedly will be in the unenviable position of having to consider cuts to make ends meet.

Last summer, district voters passed a 2.6 mill tax hike after the board promised that existing programs could be duplicated with the money.

As bad as the projected enrollment decrease is, it could have been worse.

Were it not for the special education students counted for the first time this year, Northville's enrollment would fall to about 3,980 or some 240 lower than last year and more than 150 below projections.

Superintendent Nichols had no immediate answers as to what is behind the enrollment drop. He said he and his staff would be analyzing the last three years to find out where the students are going.

Since the largest difference between actual and anticipated enrollment was in the elementary school grades, he suggested that the families moving into new subdivisions may have few if any school-age children.

In some districts, as in Novi, school officials are now estimating a school-aged student for every house under construction. Not too long ago, that figure was 2.4.

Also to be determined are the number of students still living in the Northville district but who are enrolled in private or parochial schools.

Northville, once one of the fastest growing districts in Michigan, is now facing its third straight year of decline.

From 1970 to 1973, the district increased by one-third as it grew by 1,000 students from 3,231 to 4,266. In both 1974 and 1975, the district grew by more than 10 percent.

Growth continued the next two years but at a much slower rate, slightly over two percent, until enrollment reached its peak of 4,475 students at the start of the 1975-76 school year.

Now, only three years later, the K-12 enrollment has fallen by about 500.

First plan talks focus on parking

In its first review of the master plan with an eye towards possibly updating the 1973 document, the Northville City Council focused most of its initial attention on parking needs for Northville Downs Monday night.

Meeting with council were several members of the city planning commission.

Specifically, officials considered but reached no agreement on whether or not the area between Wing and Center streets from the south edge of the existing municipal parking lot and Fairbrook should be designated for future parking.

What concerns council, emphasized Mayor Paul Vernon, is that if the city does little to convince the state that it is preparing for the future growth of track patronage it faces possible loss of the annual $600,000 plus in betting revenues received by the city from the state.

"We came very close to losing our racing dates last year," he said.

Such a loss, suggested Councilman Stanley Johnston, would be catastrophic.

They and others warned the state racing commissioner could decide to award Northville's racing dates to one of the more financially attractive tracks in the metropolitan area. Many citizens fail to understand, they said, that in return for the revenues received by the city from the state the city must demonstrate that it is accommodating the needs of the track.

Compounding this threat, said the mayor, is the growing split between Northville Downs and the Driving Club, tenant and landlord respectively. If this breach is not arrested, it portends disaster for the city as well as the local racing interests, he warned.

There appears to be a growing reluctance by the Driving Club, city officials observed, to invest the kinds of money needed for Downs improvements — at least for the kinds of improvements envisioned by the Downs' executive manager, John Carlo.

Carlo, who plans enlargement of the track grandstands to the east, has voiced displeasure with the Driving Club for its cool acceptance of his proposal for decked parking on the south side of Cady Street, between Griswold and near Center. Parking structures in this area, Carlo has stated, would accommodate all of the future parking needs of the track.

Since the Downs and the Driving Club are at odds, the city "must take the lead," said Vernon.

Concerning the idea of parking between Wing and Center, Vernon said such a project would serve a threefold purpose: 1) it would provide additional parking for Northville Downs; 2) it would provide additional parking for Northville Square and potential adjacent new development; and 3) it would be an adjunct to parking requirements of the central business district.

Councilman J. Burton DeRusha and Planning Chairman C. Thomas Whelan wondered aloud why parking in this vicinity would be more advantageous than parking on the south side of Cady, as envisioned by Carlo, or a shared type parking-commercial development at the southeast corner of Center and Cady streets.

The latter location, they argued, appears to provide the same three solutions outlined by the mayor.

According to Vernon, Johnston and Councilman Dewey Gardner, all three who serve on the downtown improvement committee, pointed out that a parking structure at the southeast corner of Cady and Center would not be satisfactory to potential major tenants of Northville Square shopping center.

Year-round treat

In past years, the living farm in Maybury State Park has closed in the fall but not so this year. Now being managed by the park itself, the farm is to be open year-round. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday through Sunday. And according to farm manager, John Beemer (above) school groups are encouraged to tour the facility that has a variety of farm animals, including the donkey. Teachers or class sponsors wishing to make reservations may call either the park office, 349-8390 or Beemer at 349-0817. Says Beemer: "Fall is a delightful time of the year to visit the farm."

Greene wins—to oppose Pursell

He won the skirmish but now the fight begins for Earl Greene, Ann Arbor councilman, who will battle incumbent Congressman Carl Pursell for the second district seat in the November 7 election.

"His name (Greene) will be on the ballot by order of the court; we're not in the habit of contesting court orders," said a spokesman for the Michigan Board of Canvassers.

Thursday the Michigan Court of Appeals ruled in favor of Greene, who had protested an earlier refusal of the board of canvassers on August 29 to certify his write-in votes cast in the August 8 primary.

Without the court ruling, Pursell would have been unopposed in November and Greene would have been forced to mount a massive write-in campaign.

Democrat Greene, who teaches music at Willow Run High School, had been denied a spot on the November ballot despite a ruling by Michigan Attorney General Frank Kelley which said that Greene could be nominated in the primary by getting a majority of the write-in votes cast in that election.

The basic issue in court was merely one of fairness and giving voters a chance between two candidates, said Greene.

Actually, the court ruling was doubly sweet for Greene. Initially, upon submitting nominating petitions to have his name placed on the August ballot, the board of canvassers ruled that he had an insufficient number of names on his petitions to qualify. His name, therefore, was not on the ballot and Greene was forced to run as a write-in.

It was those write-in votes that finally persuaded the court to declare that his name should be on the November ballot.

Pursell had no official statement relative to Greene's ballot victory.

"It makes little difference to us because we have fully intended to run a vigorous campaign all along," spokesman Robert Webber said. "Certainly, it will mean more mailings and advertisements than we might of had otherwise, but we were in this race to win no matter what happened."

Webber said Greene has intentionally tried to give the impression that it was Pursell who was working to keep him off the ballot. "That's absolutely untrue; we took no active interest in the matter. We had no attorney, and we didn't go into court. Our position was a hands-off one, let the board of canvassers and the court decide what was best."

Greene, who was expected to begin a leave of absence as a teacher Monday for the remainder of his campaign, lashed out as his opponent as a "lackluster" congressman. He criticized Pursell for his anti-labor voting record, absenteeism, and European junkets.

Greene was re-elected to his second term on the Ann Arbor council in April. Republican Pursell, who lives in neighboring Plymouth, was elected to congress two years ago.

Council discusses parking

DeRusha and others appeared unconvinced, however.

While city officials may see the corner parking structure as accessible or more accessible to the Square than parking between Center and Wing, large stores which the city has been trying to get to occupy the Square do not see it that way, Vernon said. The Center Street crossing, he explained, is seen by those interested in the Square as unacceptable.

If the city is really interested in filling the Square with a major tenant and possibly interesting someone to redevelop the area east of the Square (including the Winners Circle bar and the bowling alley), it must at least listen to what potential tenants and/or developers are saying, the mayor said, who added that at present those with whom the Square owner and the city are negotiating are not willing to risk their investments upon city assurances that parking on the east side of Center would accommodate their needs.

Thus, the city faces the dual problem of finding a satisfactory parking area for both the Downs and the Square, said Vernon, who urged council members and plans to consider the matter for continued discussion at the second session on the master plan. Date of that meeting has not yet been set.

Meanwhile, the mayor left officials with this thought:

"We're (city) very concerned about losing our racing dates. We must take the initiative, the lead, so we can say to the Downs and to the Driving Club 'this is what we are doing, now what can you do?'"

Fall play tryouts set

You don't have to be a star to try out for one of 10 parts in Northville High School's annual fall play.

In fact, you don't even have to have prior acting experience.

"New people should feel free to try out," said Director Kurt Kinde. "Each year, about 50 percent of the parts go to the new membership."

Tryouts for this fall's play are today (Wednesday) from 3-5 p.m. and Thursday from 3-5 p.m. and 7-8 p.m.

This fall's play, a murder mystery musical entitled "Something's Afoot," will open in November shortly before Thanksgiving, said Kinde.

Those who would like to work backstage should meet at the high school auditorium Monday after school.

Hot Fudge

Larry Santos of television's Hot Fudge Show will be one of the guest celebrities during the Chamber of Commerce's upcoming International Festival. One of his duties is to emcee a "gong show" involving talented and not-so-talented performers in this area. There's still room for more performers, says Santos, who urges those wishing to sing, dance or what have you to contact him immediately at 349-8465. The festival will be held at Northville Downs October 6-8.

Festival to feature Scottish dancing here

One of the features of this year's International Festival will be the performance of Scottish dances, it was announced this week.

The festival, sponsored by the Northville Chamber of Commerce will be held at Northville Downs during the weekend of October 6-8.

Starring in the Scottish dancers will be members of the Bill Weaver School of Dance. They'll perform Friday, October 6 at 5:30 p.m.

All medal winning students who have competed throughout the Midwest, the dancers will wear their traditional Scottish kilts and other national dance costumes.

Accompanying them on the Scottish Highland bagpipes will be their teacher, Bill Weaver.

First traditional dance will be the Highland Fling performed by Jenney Henderson of Northville, Victoria Brennan of Ann Arbor, Kathy Berry of Livonia and Mary Ross of Northville.

Second feature will be the Sword Dance, starring Dayna Bolla of West Bloomfield, Heather Neil of Novi, and Heather Brennan of Ann Arbor. They'll be dancing to the song, "Gillie Callum."

Julie Berry of Livonia and Beth Ross of Northville will perform the first of the national dances — the Scottish Lilt. Their dance teacher will accompany them on the bagpipes, playing "Battle of the Somme."

A very entertaining Irish Jig dance will be done by Elizabeth Grover and her sister, Leslie. They will dance to the tune of "Paddy's Leather Breatches."

Jerry Brundage of Northville and Chris Townsend of Plymouth will do the Sailor's Hornpipe dance. This salute to the English sailor's life of 200 years ago will be performed to the song entitled, "My Love Is But A Lassie Yet."

Last dance in the program is a beautiful and graceful Strathspey and Highland Reel done to the two sons, "Rose Among The Heather" and "High Road to Linton." Victoria Brennan, Mary Ross, Dayna Bolla and Heather Neil will perform this dance while still wearing their traditional Scottish Kilts.

The Scottish program will kick-off what chamber officials are promising will be a lively and entertaining festival.

Performances by a variety of "old world" artists are planned throughout the three-day event. Ethnic foods, crafts and art forms will be on sale.

State police I-96 patrol set to start

Michigan State Police round-the-clock expressway patrols in Novi, Wixom, Lyon Township and Farmington Hills will begin Sunday.

Patrol cars from the Northville post of the state police will be assigned to two stretches of interstate expressway, according to Post Commander Lieutenant William Tomczyk.

The cars, manned by one trooper during the day and two at night, will be assigned to I-696 from the Southfield Expressway to its termination point at I-96 in Farmington Hills and to I-96 to the Livingston County border.

This is the second stage of a freeway patrol based out of Northville that will eventually include 55 miles of expressway in Detroit's western suburbs.

In June, troopers from the Northville post began patrolling the Southfield Expressway and the results have been "super good," said Tomczyk.

Troopers have averaged more than 600 traffic arrests for each of the first three months of the Southfield patrol, said Tomczyk.

They have also made a total of 37 drunk driving arrests, more than 300 arrests stemming from reasons other than the initial stop of the car, and assisted other departments more than 500 times.

The I-96 and I-696 patrols will be non-stop, "24 hours a day, seven days a week," said Tomczyk.

The size of the Northville Post continues to grow to meet the demand of the freeway patrols.

Northville victims of old con job sought by police

Detective Sergeant Gordon Nelson of the Novi Police Department is conducting a nationwide manhunt for a former Northville couple who operated an antique store in Novi.

The objects of the manhunt are Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Smith whose last known address was 218 West Dunlap Street in Northville.

But before you get the wrong impression about the Smiths, understand that Nelson is attempting to locate them simply in order to hand over $200.

The Smiths, who formerly owned and operated the Four Sails Antique Shop at 43546 Grand River in Novi, were victimized by a fast-talking con artist back in June of 1971.

Now, seven years later, Novi Police have apprehended the perpetrator of the scam and received $200 in restitution for the damages suffered by the Smiths.

"We'd like to give them (the Smiths) the money, but we have no idea whatsoever where they are," commented Detective Sergeant Nelson.

"We thought we had them traced down to Miamisburg, Ohio, but we haven't been able to locate them there. We found one person named Gordon Smith in the phone book, but he told us he had never even heard of Novi, Michigan, when we gave him a call.

"The Miamisburg police have been trying to help us, but they haven't been able to find the right Gordon Smith either," continued Nelson.

Novi Police are asking that anyone who might know of the whereabouts of Mr. and Mrs. Smith contact Detective Sergeant Nelson at 349-2983.

"It will help the Smiths and it will help us," commented Nelson. "I'm sure they'd be happy to get their $200 back and we'd be happy to give them the money. We have no idea what we can do with it if we're unable to locate them."

The Smiths need not feel sheepish about being victimized by the scam artist. According to police, the man who took them in was a master of his trade.

The Smiths told Novi Police on June 19, 1971, that they had turned over a total of nine antique watches to a man to be repaired and never seen the watches nor the man again.

According to police, the operation worked something like this:

A man came into the store and presented the owners with a card which identified him as an employee of the Watch Arsenal in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

He told the merchants that he repaired antique watches for a living and then proceeded to repair several watches in the store. Explaining that antique watches in working condition would draw a higher price, the man convinced the owners to let him take several watches with the understanding that he would repair them in his motel room and return them the following morning.

The Smiths told police the man was approximately 20 years old, five feet-seven inches tall, and weighed approximately 300 pounds. They also reported that he was driving a 1973 Chrysler with Pennsylvania license plates.

The Smiths contacted the Novi Police after the man took nine watches and never returned.

Nelson reported that subsequent investigation revealed that the man would take the watches to another antique dealer and attempt to sell them. At the same time, the man would work the scam perpetrated on the previous dealer: fix a few watches in the store and then convince the owners to give him some additional watches with the understanding that they would be repaired and returned the following day.

Police estimate the man was making between $1,000 and $2,000 per day.

Investigation further revealed that the Pennsylvania license plates were registered to someone altogether different and that the address of the Watch Arsenal was a vacant lot.

Police were able to obtain a warrant, however, for the arrest of a Jerome Katz, charging him with obtaining goods under false pretenses over $50—a felony.

The warrant was placed on both the state and national crime intelligence networks, but nothing was heard on the case until police in Mt. Clemens arrested Katz on a routine traffic violation on August 30 of 1978.

The suspect was turned over to the Novi Police on the outstanding felony warrant and appeared in the 52nd District Court in Walled Lake on September 8.

The felony charges were dismissed, but Katz pled guilty to the misdemeanor charge of obtaining goods under false pretenses over $50, according to police.

He was ordered to pay fines and costs of $75 and make restitution of $200 for the items taken from the Smiths.

Katz paid the fine and turned over the $200 in restitution to the Novi Police.

"Everything's beautiful now except that we don't know where the Smiths have moved," commented Nelson. "We're just hoping that somebody out there might know where they are so we can turn over this $200 to them."

Property taxes foot school bill

Nearly three out of every four dollars spent on Northville schools comes from the pockets of local property taxpayers.

That's the word from Plante and Moran, the school's auditing firm which presented its annual report Monday night.

Northville schools received a "clean opinion," according to Pearl Holforty of Plante and Moran.

In a slideshow presentation, she used graphs and charts to indicate how the burden of school financing has been shifting to local property taxes and away from the state.

Since 1973, the property taxes paid per student has risen from $700 to $1251. During that same time, the state aid per student has stayed relatively constant. It is about $380 this year.

Relief for the local property tax owner does not appear near under current school financing methods.

As property values climb in the Northville school district and enrollment decreases, the resulting ratio — called SEV per student — increases.

Under the current state aid formula, the higher the SEV per student, the lower the state aid.

Last year, property taxes accounted for 72.4 of Northville's revenues. The state provides, 21.2 percent and other sources, mainly federal and intermediate school district funds, supply the remaining 6.4 percent.

On the expense side of the ledger, instruction ate up 55 percent of the $7.2 million pie.

The business category — which includes maintenance and operation and busing — was the second largest expenditure at 22.8 percent.

Other breakdowns: pupil services 6.3 percent, school administration 5.3 percent, instruction staff 3.8 percent, general administration 1.9 percent and other 5 percent.

Harding stars at Ferris State

Northville's Doug Harding is proving to be one of Ferris State College's prize football freshmen this fall.

The 6-3, 200-pound linebacker came off the bench to register seven tackles and three assists in the Bulldogs' 28-7 victory over Michigan Tech two weeks ago. He also came up with a key quarterback sack that stopped a Tech drive deep in Ferris territory.

The former All-League Mustang linebacker is the son of Louis and Janet Harding of Northville. Ferris State, coached by Nick Coso, is an NCAA Division II school playing in the Great Lakes Conference.

He's directing Chrysler renovation

Vic Intihar of Northville is a man who pays a lot of attention to details, both on the job and at home.

As manufacturing engineering manager at Chrysler's Lynch Road Assembly Plant, Intihar led a team which coordinated the recent renovation and conversion of the 50-year-old plant. The plant is now producing the new energy efficient, full-size Chrysler New Yorker, Chrysler Newport, and Dodge St. Regis passenger cars.

Taking apart an entire auto assembly plant and putting it back together again seems to be a far cry from what Intihar does in his spare time. But, his hobby — building model airplanes and military miniatures — demands the same attention to details his job requires.

Intihar, 52, was given the job of redesigning Lynch Road Assembly in September of 1977. He had been involved in building projects at five other plants, including the start to finish design and construction of Chrysler's St. Louis Assembly Plant. But, the Lynch Road project was by far his biggest challenge.

"We had only three months to complete the Lynch Road project from tear-down to production of the first car," Intihar said, "and it was this time factor that made the job so difficult."

With a budget of $57 million, Intihar and other management personnel toured various auto assembly plants, familiarizing themselves with the most modern auto assembly equipment in the world.

Once the design for the new plant was completed and the construction contractors were hired, the day to day coordination of the project became the major challenge.

"We developed a computer monitoring system to trace the progress of all facets of the renovation and conversion," Intihar said. "Without the ability to tell instantly whether or not we were falling behind on any phase of the project, we couldn't have finished it in the time allotted."

Intihar and his team attacked the renovation and conversion like it was a military operation. They established a "war room" where strategy and tactics were developed on a huge wall chart.

The major part of the renovation was the complete retooling of the body shop, where the assembly process begins. Most of the former manual welding operations were replaced by 14 computer-controlled automatic welders and 31 automatic sub-assembly welders. More than 80 per cent of the welds at Lynch Road are now machine made. The computer-controlled welders are a "first" for a Detroit area auto assembly plant.

To make room for the automatic welders and other incoming new equipment, six miles of floor conveyor systems had to be relocated. It took enough concrete to pave a two-lane road more than a mile long to fill in the old conveyor channels and drive-motor pits.

Just getting rid of the scrap metal generated by the project was a mammoth task. It took more than 150 rail cars to haul away 26,600 tons of scrap.

The pressure of rebuilding an entire auto assembly plant in just three months contrasts with the leisurely pace Intihar follows in his hobby. He takes as long as three months to build one model airplane or military miniature.

The military miniatures are plastic or lead cast soldiers, both infantry and cavalry. Intihar does extensive research before painting the models in historically authentic colors. He concentrates on the Napoleonic era. His models have been displayed at numerous modeling shows.

Intihar worked for both General Motors and Ford before joining Chrysler in 1957 as an equipment designer for the St. Louis Assembly Plant. He has been at Lynch Road Assembly since 1961.

A graduate of the General Motors Institute in Flint, Intihar has a Bachelors degree in Industrial Engineering. He is an Air Force veteran.

Intihar and his daughter, Carrie, a Whitmore Lake school teacher, live at 19757 Hayes Court.

EDC signs pact; to get $129,000

Wayne County Economic Development Corporation (EDC) has signed a contract with the state enabling the newly-formed independent corporation to receive a $129,000 setup grant beginning Oct. 1.

Wilson C. Grier, chairman of the EDC and supervisor of Northville Township, and Norton Berman, director of the Office of Economic Expansion for the Michigan Department of Commerce, signed the contract at a regular meeting of the EDC Board of Directors, September 20.

Michigan Economic Development Incentive Concept (MEDIC) grant money has been set aside by the state to finance the staffing and start-up costs for the Wayne County EDC.

Prior to the contract signing, the Wayne County Board of Commissioners approved a $43,000 allocation of money and services to be set aside as the required match necessary for grant approval by the State.

"While the County is in a state of financial crisis, this allocation was necessary in order to begin EDC projects in Wayne County," said Jarrette Simmons, chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

"This initial allocation will more than pay for itself by attracting new businesses and encouraging the growth of current industry. Such growth will result in more jobs and increased property taxes," she explained.

Under terms of the contract, the Wayne County EDC must supply 25 percent of the matching funds during the first year; 50 percent of the matching funds the second year and 75 percent of the funds the third year. The grant expires at the end of the third year and the local EDC is expected to be financially self-sufficient at that time, he said.

Could your glasses withstand the impact of a steel ball, ¼ inch in diameter, dropped from a height of four feet, without shattering? If not, you're not wearing modern shatter-resistant lenses, which are treated to withstand such a test.

Even if you are not engaged in a hazardous occupation and you think there is little danger, why take unnecessary chances? Any accident that shatters your glasses could put jagged pieces of glass in your eyes and endanger your eyesight. If your present eyeglasses are more than a few years old, the lenses are probably NOT the safe, shatter-resistant type, which are now required in all new lenses.

If your eyeglasses are several years old, you're probably overdue for an eye examination.

ony, some black walnuts. He described the terrain — before earthmoving began — as "very hilly."

Whiteside said he is familiar with the area because he had used it for cross country skiing. He said he did not ski in the southwest corner of the site reserved, in the plan, for open space. He described this open space area as "low, undesirable, and impassable." The terrain, as it now exists, was likened to a "tilted table." The rolling terrain has been eliminated by the developer, he said, and none of the aesthetics of the land had been preserved.

Morgan and David L. Nelson, attorney for Spagnoli Associates, reserved the right to cross examine Whiteside later.

In his turn in the witness chair, Township Planning Consultant George Vilican said the 7.2-acre area designated for open space, was picked because it had the most merit for preservation.

Citing section 13.2 of the zoning ordinance, point by point, to show that the open space met all ordinance requirements, Vilican said the character of the designated open space was best suited for preservation because of its rugged topography, slope, its "substantial stand of trees," and a meandering stream which he labeled "a natural resource detail of great value."

Under cross examination by Fried, Vilican admitted that he had never walked the open space area and that he drew his conclusions from studying aerial photographs and topographical materials provided by the developer.

Nelson, attorney for defendant Spagnoli, expressed anger in his opening remarks that brought objections from both Attorneys Fried and Billmeyer.

Nelson told the court that Spagnoli had spent $100,000 on engineering plans and could document $1,000,000 in costs to date. He said that his client stands to lose $45,000 paid to obtain a commitment for $2,500,000 from a lending institution at an interest rate of 10.25 per cent. The commitment, he said, expires in January.

"Can the court justify such a monetary loss by second guessing the planning commission and board of trustees," asked Nelson.

"This is not the issue at all," declared Judge O'Hair.

Ground clearing of the subdivision began September 1 on the subdivision, which has already received board approval on the first two phases of the development.

The most recent lawsuit asks for injunctions both restraining the township from approving the final plat and restraining the developers from constructing any residences on lots having less than 16,000 square feet and widths of 110 feet.

The township ordinance requires that lots in property zoned R-2 (one-family residential) meet these specifications. However, developers using the ordinance's open space plan are allowed to reduce lot sizes by 20 percent.

The suit charges that because the planning commission failed to apply the ordinance's criteria for granting open space approval, the subdivision's plat is in violation of ordinance and therefore is a public nuisance.

Section 23.2 of the ordinance states that any land use in violation of any of the ordinance's provisions is declared to be a public nuisance.

The suit says the ordinance's criteria for granting open space require a plat to preserve the natural character of open fields, stands of trees, brooks, topography and similar natural assets. It further states that in granting open space approval, commissioners are required by ordinance to encourage the provision of open space within a reasonable distance of all lot development of the subdivision recreational facilities.

The plat approved for North Beacon Woods is in violation of the ordinance — the suit charges — because the plat provides for elimination of the natural character of open field and stands of trees, the leveling of all hills, no recreational facilities and the open space located in the southwest corner of the subdivision, approximately one-half mile from some lots.

The open space location has been the subject of controversy at several planning commission and township board meetings.

Residents of Whipple Estates and Taft Colony, whose subdivisions are adjacent to North Beacon Woods, gathered 299 signatures on a petition asking the township board to deny approval for the subdivision. The petition contended the plat does not meet the open space requirements of the zoning ordinance because it is a swampy area located in the development's southwest corner.

At the July planning commission meeting, commissioners received the petition and listened to objector's complaints, but they stood firm in their approval of the subdivision's site plan, saying the plan meets the ordinance's requirements.

When the petition was presented at the township board August meeting, the board voted 'yes' to trustee Dr. John Swienkowski's motion that the board support the petition by contacting the developer and asking him his reasons for not changing the open space location.

Trustee James L. Nowka also received an agreement from the board to question the planning commission about the reasoning employed in permitting lot averaging while reserving a swampy area for the open space.

Angelo Spagnoli replied to the board by enumerating several meetings with the planning commission during which no objection to the open space was voiced.

He said township planning consultants, Vilican, Leman and Associates, Inc., wrote two letters to him stating that the green space location meets the intent of the ordinance.

Is it a $14 million white elephant?

Impassive to all commotion, the center hides swimming pools and gymnasiums within its regal walls while ground hogs scurry undisturbed between the maple trees, burrowing homes aside the underground utility tunnels.

Sprawling expansively on both sides of Sheldon between Five Mile and Six Mile roads, the immense center is seen alternately as the county's $14 million white elephant, a public resource with great untapped potential, a developer's delight or, as brought home last summer, a sleeping giant whose very existence is to some a threat to the peaceful, upper-middle class environment of Northville.

A year ago, the financially pressed county — eager to both sell the land and shed the annual maintenance cost pegged at between $200,000 and $300,000 — began negotiating with the state which wanted the facility for a medium-security prison.

The Northville community — alarmed by the spectre of prisoners in a residential area which, they thought, could jeopardize safety and property values — mobilized, lobbied, belted and demonstrated before Governor William Milliken relented and changed his mind.

The public hue and-cry quickly diminished, but those working closest to the center say the relief is temporary as long as the center lies in government hands.

"As long as there is a municipal tie to it, it can come back and haunt us in many ways," warns Northville Township Supervisor Wilson Grier, whose office is in one of only three center buildings still regularly in use.

If not prisons, then perhaps low-income housing might be the nightmare to arise from the center.

"I see that as a real possibility for Northville Township since we have no low income housing," says Grier. "But now you're guessing."

He wants the property sold to a private concern, thereby removing the governmental monkey from the township's back and adding substantially to the tax rolls in a single stroke.

"Any buyer would have to come equipped with a Texas-sized checkbook for the purchase price and — even though the buildings are in remarkably robust condition — renovation costs will be astronomical.

During the prison debate, the land was appraised at a cool $14 million.

Funding, in fact, has been the bane of the many suitors who have been wooed and won by the seductive facility only to be rejected by its shrewish price tag.

Father Vaughn Quinn was ready to ink a purchase agreement for an alcoholic rehabilitation center when the state yanked the funding rug away; Schoolcraft and Wayne State colleges proposed a joint campus but couldn't find the money; financial backing has not appeared for a suggested senior citizen complex; a man representing the U.S. Olympic Committee said the site was perfect for a midwest training center but he never returned.

And, as always in an area where home costs start at $70,000 and people have long quit blinking at $100,000 abodes, there is talk of a giant subdivision.

"I suppose it wouldn't cost that much to tear the buildings down," Clint Miron was saying last week as the sweltering mid-morning sun burned off the last of the fog that had draped across the center.

"But they would have to fill in the tunnels and I don't know if they could afford that."

Beneath the green and rolling land at the CDC are nearly two miles of walkable tunnels, lined by concrete walls, and carrying steam heat and water to the 39 mostly two- and three-story buildings on the east side of the road.

Miron, who heads the five-man work force that maintains the buildings, has a comfortable 22-year love affair with the center and does not want to see it destroyed.

He has seen the center as a bustling self-contained city, caring for as many as 800 retarded youngsters, employing a full security force and fire department, raising beef cattle across the road, and providing living quarters for a cadre of teachers, administrators and psychiatrists.

Today, nearly half a century after it was built, the center's only permanent residents are the township's hall, and police and fire departments. All leave in November. The county health department uses a building one day a week. The carpenter shop, which once employed 17 skilled tradesmen belongs solely to Miron.

He and his crew see that the center's paved roads are plowed in the winter, that the 700 acres are mowed in the summer and, as much as possible with a skeleton work force, that the buildings stay in good repair.

"The bad part is that the buildings are not occupied," he says. "There is no way I can check every building every day. There can be a leak in a radiator for three-four days before I find it unless it's so obvious that there is steam rolling up through the windows."

Miron takes a fatherly pride toward the center, boasting of its attributes and shaking his head when he enters a room where several acoustical ceiling tiles have fallen to the floor.

"It's drying out," he says. "You need toilets flushing, water running, people perspiring, moisture in the air. It's nothing serious, though."

There are 18 identical cottages where 30 to 50 boys and girls used to live. Each has two floors, a basement and, with one or two exceptions, needs only patchwork repair to be in tiptop shape, he says.

"The walls are 13 inches thick — bricks, plaster and hollow tile. Basically, these buildings are very, very sound. But there's a limit to how long they can stay that way without use."

There is an administration building, a clock tower, and a director's mansion which, with very little imagination, could be a lavish headquarters.

But the pride and joy of the center, its most impressive structure, is the huge, august school — a giant monument to 1930-style architecture with graceful arches, stately pillars and a treasure chest of unused facilities.

Inside is a 75-foot swimming pool with diving areas at both ends, surrounded by ornate ceramic tile; a gigantic basketball court overlooked by two balconies; an auditorium whose main floor and balcony use courtroom benches for seats; large rooms graced with tiled fireplaces; a two-lane bowling alley complete with semi-automatic pinsetters and rows of dust gathering bowling balls; even a three-chaired barbershop with mirror-lined walls.

The school once housed well-equipped machine, auto, wood and printing shops. There are still several presses sitting idly, including an offset press that was nearly new when the center closed.

For someone with a use and the money to purchase the center and bring the 40-year-old buildings up to present day fire, electrical and barrier-free codes, the property has all the lure of the legendary Sirens. In this case, the ship-smashing rocks may be the county board of commissioners.

There are those in the county, particularly in the planning department, who think the cost of holding onto the land is minimal compared with the gem it would be in 20 years when, conceivably, it could be the last 700 undeveloped acres in Wayne County.

"I am against that, period," says an adamant Supervisor Grier. "We have enough (government-owned land) in Northville Township. We've got too much, in fact."

The county, which just announced lay offs of more than 1,000 employees, may have to sell, he says.

"They need the money. I believe they would be receptive to anything that does not make them look bad."

Grier said the county could negotiate with private enterprise — whether it be home developers or a consortium of religious groups sponsoring a senior citizens complex — if the commissioners would relinquish the center's responsibility to the Wayne County Economic Development Corporation.

Grier, who is president of the Wayne County EDC, said businessmen understandably shy away from 26 separate thinking commissioners, several of whom would be taking pot shots at developers for not starting projects in Detroit.

"They (businessmen) do not need that kind of grief," said Grier. "The commissioners should turn it over to the EDC to manage and to dispose of expeditiously."

NHS congress off 'n running

By SHERYL WISSMAN
Student Congress President

Student Congress has skyrocketed this year. Only two weeks into school, the group has already organized three main events.

First, Student Congress sponsored a "Welcome Back, Teacher" day in which teachers were served coffee, doughnuts and milk. Several Student Congress members decorated the colorless teachers' lounge with streamers and signs.

Their second major event was the annual Sophomore Party, held at Northville High School. The pool, gym and cafeteria were open for swimming, games and dancing to the beat of DJ Frank Allen, Jr.

The party was a smash thanks to the many chaperones and Student Congress helpers.

Thirdly, Student Congress hosted sophomore elections including speeches on September 18. The results are as follows:

President, Pete Blanchard; Vice President, Carol Wissman; Secretary, Kay Wolf; Treasurer, Brian Shake; Representatives, Cathy Ciskowski, Annette Coram, Neal Young and Jana Holloway.

Student Congress' biggest project is Homecoming Week, October 2-6. The parade and the game are on the 6th and the school dance on the 7th.

This year's theme is a "Salute to Rock and Roll." Lunchtime activities, such as an Elvis Look-A-Like and Name That Tune, will bring excitement to the fun-filled week. More details will be announced later.

Although Student Congress takes each day at a time, it also plans for the future.

November will experience a candy sale and some bake sales. The Dance-A-Thon and the blood drive will be discussed in the future.

If you are interested in joining in the fun, contact Sheryl Wissman or Kelly Mikton. Student Congress thanks you for your support.

At Schoolcraft

Strike continues

could get burned or we could get burned," he said.

The situation left the second striking union up in the air.

The 62 secretaries and clerks were unaffected by the court order. They walked out Sept. 18, the same day as the Faculty Forum.

As far as students were concerned, things were in a quandry. If a student wishes a tuition refund because of the faculty strike, it will take secretaries to handle the paper work, but the secretaries are still on strike.

Only a small number of Schoolcraft's 9,000 students are expected to ask for refunds. Refunds are not automatic. A college official said some hardship must be shown — for example, if extension of the school semester interrupts a student's chances for necessary Christmas season work or prevents a student from enrolling in a four-year college in winter.

The new disruption — defiance of the court order — occurred at the end of a week in which progress was made at the bargaining table.

John Graves, chief of the college team bargaining with the faculty, said the health insurance question was resolved by agreeing to stay with "current language" and no change in the carrier.

That was a victory for the faculty, which opposed the college's proposal that employees pay part of the increase in health insurance costs.

Graves said there was agreement to expand the college day from the current 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. to 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. This lengthening of the work schedule was a victory for the college, which sought more flexibility in class scheduling.

Two other questions — the counselors work year and the status of a reading lab assistant — were resolved by compromises.

On economics, the two sides' positions were last reported to be $100,000 to $150,000 apart. The college's annual budget is in the neighborhood of $11 million.

The Faculty Forum contract expired August 25.

The secretaries' contract expired in mid-1977. They worked without a contract until the joint strike with the faculty began last week. There are more unresolved issues with the secretaries than with the faculty, bargainers reported.

MAIN STREET

MARY ALEXANDER COURT

Main Street plans revised

The team of consultants is currently re-studying traffic flow and landscaping of sidewalks for Main street. Originally, one-way traffic eastward had been proposed for Main street. This concept may be changed to provide for two-way traffic through the business district.

Trees, benches, planters, decorative paving and ornamental lighting posts will be among the features employed throughout Mainstreet 78 theme. An example of some of these will soon be seen at the site of a new parking lot currently being completed at Main and Hutton streets.

Improvements are also scheduled for the city's northwest parking lot, Wing and Dunlap streets. But priority has been given the northeast lot, where the surface as well as the parking arrangement are poor.

Mainstreet 78 also envisions an arcade leading from the northeast parking lot to Main street. Exact location and plan for such a pedestrian hook-up between Main street and the public parking area remain to be solved. But the arcade is still very much a part of the downtown improvement proposal.

Headed by Mayor Paul Vernon, the downtown improvement committee is composed of Councilmembers Dewey Gardner and Stanley Johnston, City Manager Steve Walters, former mayor A. M. Allen, Herman Moehlman, Glenn Long and William Sliger. The committee continues to meet almost weekly with project consultants.

It is still the intention to finance Mainstreet 78 through the Downtown Development Act which permits recapturing of taxes levied against new private development resulting from the public improvement program.

"It was fantastic," said Greg Dawson, chairman of the Northville Jaycees Septemberfest last weekend.

"We sold out and even had to make another trip for more beer," he said, noting that while "it was a little slow Friday night because of the cool weather" the turnout Saturday was "just great."

More than 500 gallons of beer, 50 pounds of sauerkraut, and 1400 knockwurst and bratwurst were served up in the Septemberfest tent located on the parking lot of the Northville Plaza shopping center on Seven Mile Road.

Two bands performed, giving Septemberfest an extra German flavor. The bands — the Klancnik Brothers and the Tune Mixers — provided "all the music we needed, and their members came dressed in the appropriate costumes," the chairman said.

During the Septemberfest an arts and crafts flea market was held in the mall of the shopping center.

Monies raised by Jaycees will be used to help sponsor the group's civic projects throughout the year such as the annual Fourth of July parade and fireworks.

Family hurt as cars hit in Northville

A Northville family suffered broken bones and cuts but survived what could have been a disastrous two-car collision Sunday evening on Eight Mile Road just west of Sheldon.

The Northville car was struck nearly head-on by a wrong-way car whose driver and lone occupant apparently lost control while passing a van.

Ronald Strolberg, 40, 582 Morgan Circle told Northville City Police he tried in vain to avoid the oncoming car by swerving to the road's shoulder.

Strolberg was admitted to St. Mary Hospital for treatment of a broken left shoulder, a broken rib and contusions to his head and left arm.

Also injured were his wife, Joyce, 34, and their two children, Jason, 3, who was sitting in his mother's lap in the front and Garet, 6, who was in the back.

The three suffered a variety of cuts but were all released from St. Mary on Sunday.

The driver of the wrong-way car, Michael Lemon, 29, Detroit, told police that he had just left the Jokers Motorcycle Club a few miles to the west and was heading to Detroit.

Lemon, according to police, said he remembered nothing except finding himself on the grass near his car following the accident. The crash occurred at 7:09 p.m.

Police said Lemon admitted to having three drinks at the club. Blood samples were taken at St. Mary Hospital and police are waiting for lab results to return from Lansing.

Witnesses, including the Strolbergs and several passersby, said that Lemon was traveling east and had just passed a van near the high school overpass when he apparently lost control of his car.

It was while trying to gain control of his car as it was fishtailing off the north side of the road that Lemon hit the Strolberg car, said witnesses.

Police said that witnesses, including a couple of joggers, saw the accident because they heard the tires squealing on Lemon's car as he passed the van.

Lemon was treated and released from St. Mary.

A thief broke into a Sunnydale home while its occupants were sleeping, took a wallet and keys from a table and drove off in a car parked in the garage Sunday night.

Township police said Monday that the car, a 1978 four-door Chevette, had not been located.

Police were uncertain how the thief gained entry but they suspect that he entered through the home's attached garage or a side door.

None of the doors showed signs of forced entry but the doors did not have dead bolt locks, police said. Instead, the doors had locks that were easily shimmed.

No one was awakened during the robbery which was discovered at 6:40 Monday morning.

Indian meeting Oct. 6 NCFD is taking Town Fire course

One of three Indian-A-Rama orientations for the Canton, Northville, Plymouth YMCA parent-child Indian programs will be held in Northville from 7-8 p.m. Friday, October 6, at Silver Springs Elementary.

A summary of the seven programs being offered for participation by fathers or mothers and sons or daughters will be presented and an opportunity will be given to sign up for "tribes" that evening, Janet Luce, program director, announced.

If there is sufficient interest, there will be a new Indian Braves program for mothers and sons ages five to nine.

Other Y-Indian programs based on the lore of the American Indian through work in tribes that meet once or twice a month in homes of members include:

Indian Guides for fathers and sons ages five to nine;

Trailblazers for fathers and sons ages nine and up;

Indian Princess for fathers and daughters ages five to nine;

Indian Maidens for mothers and daughters ages five to nine;

Traillettes for mothers and daughters nine and older.

Those who are not able to attend the orientation may call the YMCA at 453-2904 for more information.

Registration forms also are available at The Northville Record office at 104 West Main.

The City of Northville Fire Department will begin a 30 hour Town Fire School on September 28. Classes are three hours long and continue for 10 weeks.

Instructor for the class is John Reardon, a Detroit fireman and instructor for the University of Michigan Extension Service.

Among topics to be included are hose practices, ropes, operation of pumps, First Aid, CPR and mutual aid pacts.

Completion of the course, plus completion of 36 hours last year, will give city firemen certification for the 66 hour Basic Firemanship course as recommended by the State of Michigan, according to James Fyfe, coordinator for Michigan State Firefighters Training Council.

SPEAKING for The Record By BILL SLIGER

The North Beacon Woods subdivision controversy belongs exactly where it is this week: before a judge.

And as this is being written — well before the scheduled circuit court hearing on Tuesday (results of which may be received in time to report on page one of this Wednesday edition) — there exists an appreciation of the wisdom required to zero-in on justice.

Where judgments must be rendered, and certain choices are available, it is not always possible to arrive at justice by following the letter of the law.

In this particular instance anyone who can come down hard in a "solid 'right or wrong' position must certainly be suspect.

Under question is the development of a subdivision as provided by the township's open space plan. The 83.6-acre site is zoned R-2 (single family residential) and is adjacent to a development of R-1 homes.

If the open space concept were not being employed, the new development would be restricted to lot sizes of 16,000 square feet (110-foot wide). Using all 83.6 acres the developer could build 166 homes.

But by reserving an open space area (in this instance 7.2 acres) the ordinance provides that lot sizes may be reduced to 12,800 square feet with a minimum of 100-foot frontage widths.

The ordinance also provides that the density (number of homes) shall not be greater than allowed by the R-2 zoning. In this instance, therefore, the developer may construct 166 homes in the area remaining after extracting the 7.2-acre open space site.

The neighbors (Whipple Estates, Taft Colony) have objected vehemently to several aspects of the new North Beacon Woods subdivision. And in some instances their wishes have been granted. There will be no access roads from the new into the old subdivision as previously proposed, for example.

But the reduced lot sizes, drainage and massive tree removal activity have remained as sources of irritation.

Added to an already sensitive situation was the 12-hour-per-day onslaught of bulldozers systematically levelling hills, removing vegetation and trees, and filling the air during unseasonably hot and dry early September with choking dust.

The stage was set for what now exists: a court fight.

The biggest single issue around which hangs a very real cloud of doubt is the designated open space area. The 7.2-acre site is located in the extreme southwest corner of the subdivision and serves as a natural swale.

It is the contention of the objecting residents that the site does not comply with the intent of the subdivision open space plan as provided in the township zoning ordinance.

It is the opinion of the township's planning commission and board of trustees that it does.

At stake is the size of the lots (12,800 vs. 16,000 square feet), or relocation of the open space if the reduced lot sizes are to be retained and the swale area thereby developed into lots.

A cynic might conclude that any development short of one-acre lots constructed without disturbing a single tree or pheasant would fall short of satisfying those who have enjoyed the benefits provided for so many years by a single neighbor, Mother Nature.

In fact, however, the Whipple-Taft residents have known for years that one day development would take place next door. And they knew it would come under the existing R-2 zoning. What they had not envisioned was the open space concept, the stripping of trees, and sudden frustration of seeing it all happen.

There's a judgment call involved. And from the very outset it appears that the township's planning consultant advised that the remote swale site did, in his opinion, qualify as an open space area and satisfy the intent of the ordinance provision.

In detailing the reasons why modifications to residential zoning restrictions should be permitted under the open space plan, the ordinance states: "to provide a more desirable living environment by preserving the natural character of open fields, stands of trees, brooks, topography, and similar natural assets; to encourage the provision of open spaces within a reasonable distance of all lot development of the subdivision recreational facilities."

Another provision of the zoning ordinance to which critics of North Beacon Woods point comes under site plan review procedures in which it states planners should consider "satisfactory and harmonious relations between the development on the site and the existing and prospective development of contiguous land and adjacent neighborhoods."

It is difficult to fault either planning commissioners or board members for granting approval of the site plan. In their best judgment it complies with the township's ordinance.

But it is perfectly proper for citizens to become involved and take whatever action is provided under the law to let their objections be known, and change the course of development, if possible.

Personally, I find it most difficult to accept the remote swale area as a site fulfilling the intent of the open space plan. On the other hand, it would be tragic to allow the area to be filled and developed into lots. It should remain natural. And certainly this alternative must have weighed heavily upon the judgment of the township's consultants and officials.

Another alternative is available, however. It is hardline. And in instances such as these where forever-lasting development character is established, such a stance should be taken.

The 7.2-acre swale should remain untouched. The remaining 76.4 acres should be developed under the provisions of strict R-2 zoning, no open space.

The developer could still build 155 homes. It is inconceivable to me that the loss of 11 houses and 7.2 acres could not be recouped in appreciated sale prices of the improved subdivision.

If this is not possible, then planners should stand fast on the provisions of the ordinance insofar as location of open space is concerned. Such compromises could return to haunt them in future proposed developments.

DIANE CATTON

YES . . .

Harry S. Truman once said, "I have little patience with people who take the Bill of Rights for granted. The Bill of Rights, contained in the first ten amendments to the Constitution is every American's guarantee of freedom." Are we not taking freedom of the press for granted when we deny the "crook" his right to publish a book? Are we not chipping away at the foundations of freedom?

Democracy depends upon a free marketplace of ideas and information which enables an individual to arrive at his or her own version of the truth.

Freedom of the press does not belong exclusively with the media. Are we to rely solely on the versions provided by the reporters in their books, while shouting, "Foul!" when the politicians offer us their story? Do we really want to hear the other side, or are we paying lip service to our Bill of Rights?

There are lessons to be learned from these books. By reading them, we begin to understand how power corrupts, and unchecked power corrupts even more. If, democracy is to remain healthy in the future, then we must benefit from the lessons of the past. Do we only learn from the good, the moral, and the just?

Speaking for Myself

Buy books from crooks?

KIM FAWCETT

NO . . .

Buy Nixon's book? No way, absolutely not. Read it perhaps, but buy it — never. Nor should anyone.

Under the first amendment to the federal constitution it would probably be a form of censorship for publishers to refuse to print books like Nixon's. And such books should be published.

People should have the same opportunity to read Nixon's apologia as they had to read Hitler's "Mein Kampf," see how the big lie is told and to learn how to guard against it.

People who agree with that trash are welcome to buy those books. But people who don't agree should remember that such a purchase is a political alignment, an endorsement.

Money lines the author's pockets, new editions are issued, the uninformed public buys even more copies, assuming that if it sells, that there must be something to it.

More money lines the author's pockets, money that can be used to perpetrate more lies. Ultimately the whole vicious cycle proves nothing more than crime pays.

Look, the books of many dishonest people are in libraries all over the country. And if I read Nixon's books, that's where it will be, in the library. I wouldn't buy it on a bet.

JACK W. HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

For the life of me I can't understand all of the fuss about our state and interstate highways, which have been labeled a menace to cars and limbs by a pyramid of "experts."

Perhaps my vision has deteriorated more rapidly than supposed, but Michigan highways appear to me to be as good or better than the highways in other states where I have traveled.

As a matter of fact, members of our family invariably agree upon returning to Michigan, "It's great to be back on decent highways again."

Other non-experts, but not all, with whom I have spoken offer similar observations. These include some non-Michigan residents. Lest some motorist point to a pothole to dispute me, let me emphasize that it is the overall condition of our highways that impresses us. Certainly, the cracks, broken concrete and patchwork here and there upset me as much as they do the next guy, but in comparison to what I've seen elsewhere Michigan highways are mattresses of comfort.

Even our northern Michigan two-laners are delightful to travel.

And we drive them free of toll. To me it's infuriating to be forced to pay to drive over washboards as we did this summer in neighboring states.

While I cannot understand the fuss over our highway conditions, neither can I understand why so few are bothered by the appearance of the medians and shoulders of our highways. They are jungles of weeds and trash.

"I'm ashamed of them," a Northville Township woman told me after having voiced her displeasure about the median appearances with the state authorities. I share her shame. It's disgraceful.

Yet, ironically, the same officials who condemn privately owned billboards as environmental pollution (I think they're eyesores, too) do little or nothing about cleaning up the state's own property. The so-called regular mowing schedules are a farce. There are parts of I-96 — the highway over which lawmakers and highway officials drive to and from Lansing — haven't seen a mowing machine in two years!

Traffic lights needed at 2 'Lakes entrances

To the Editor

As a new resident of Highland Lakes after living many years in the city of Northville, I wonder if Highland Lakes people are going to wait until someone is killed before they get upset about the lack of traffic lights at the Seven Mile and Eight Mile entrances to Highland Lakes.

Many of the 600 residents here have two cars and two family members working, and a great many of these cars exit during morning rush hours. When I turn left on Eight Mile to go toward Northville at 7:15 each morning, there are often six to eight cars waiting for their chance to slip into the steady stream of traffic. This traffic moves fast, and it is only a matter of time until there is a serious accident when someone misjudges the speed of an approaching car, when a car motor hesitates, or when car wheels slip on icy pavement.

Several school buses loaded with Highland Lakes' children also face these dangers each morning. A traffic light on Eight Mile would also aid Country Place residents who face these problems each morning and evening.

It is true that Wayne County must put in the traffic signals, but pressure from Northville Township officials and citizens is the only thing that will cause Wayne County to move. Highland Lakes' residents were heavily wooed by those seeking township offices during the recent primary election, and this is a matter that deserves continuous attention by those township officials. Residents of Highland Lakes, make yourselves heard.

Sincerely yours,
Joanne Cook
(Mrs. E. K. Cook)

'Picture misleading'

To the Editor:

I wish to publicly thank the Northville Department of Public Works and the Northville Beautification Committee for their prompt response and action with regard to my complaint concerning the condition of Fairbrook Court.

However, I would call attention to the completely misleading picture and article which appeared in the September 20 issue of the Record.

The picture you published did not, of course, show the brush, weeds, fallen trees, limbs, and trash that had accumulated on the right of way of Fairbrook Court. It naturally couldn't — because this mess on the right of way was cleaned up by the City's DPW crew within five days of the time of my complaint, and your picture was taken after the clean-up.

Further, the picture did not cover the area involved, which is now cleared of brush and trash, but rather showed an excellent view of the presently improved part of the court and of the professional landscaping work done by Green Ridge Nursery when the duplex shown in the picture was built — and which landscaping has been maintained and kept in order through much arduous work on the part of Mrs. Severance over the years.

Consequently, your picture and article gave the impression that I had little, if anything, to complain about.

Despite this excellent start by the city, there is much work to be done. The clearing of the brush has left a right of way consisting of clay and soft dirt which will become a virtual bog if the area is not properly gravelled and graded. The clearing of the brush has also disclosed the fact that the fire hydrant serving the area is located almost in the middle of the right of way.

I expect to be consulting with City Manager Walters regarding steps which can or will be taken to correct these conditions so as to give the area a usable street and to rid the area of the jungle that has grown up in the southeast quadrant of the court.

Very truly yours,
Donald Severance

To the owner these spreading black walnut trees are considered a "liability"

'Liability' for business

Bress asks to cut Walnut trees

To most people black walnut trees on their property would seem an asset, but to James J. Bress they appear as a liability on his property at Rayson and Center streets.

The problem is two huge black walnut trees, on his property, which Bress says measure about 26½ inches in diameter. They are located so that they overhang a driveway and parking area to be installed for the fast-food operation slated for 340 North Center.

Bress told the city planning commission at its September 19 meeting that it had been brought to his attention that the falling walnuts "will create a hazard to pedestrian traffic, which will be made even worse when driven over the crushed by automobile traffic. The crushed walnut will create slippery spots on the drive."

After pointing out that the walnuts "don't fall all year long" and that they have "sincere misgivings" about cutting such trees, the commissioners voted four to one against giving Bress the requested permission to cut them down.

Bress was requesting permission to change the initial site plan approval for the property by removing the trees and replacing them with Moraine Locusts in the available three-to-four inch size.

In his landscape revision request Bress expressed the fear that "customers of the fast food operation at 340 North Center may choose to go elsewhere after being inconvenienced by the condition of the driveway surface and the walnuts that may fall on their cars."

In addition, he said, "Green Ridge Nursery has indicated that the asphalt being so close to the walnut trees will probably cause the trees to die within two years. They also recommended a Moraine Locust tree as a low maintenance tree that will grow well as a replacement."

New commission member Stewart Kissinger questioned whether it wouldn't be possible to get water to the trees' roots or to relocate the blacktop.

Bress said he had been led to believe that the chemicals in the blacktop will kill root systems underneath.

Kissinger said he felt the problem of falling walnuts exists only for a month or two of the year. During that time, however, Bress countered, about eight to nine parking spaces would be involved.

Bress presented a letter from Paul F. Folino, State Farm Insurance agent, recommending that, if the trees are not removed, the Bress acquire a Success Protector Policy for $1,000,000 liability limits.

After the commission denied his request Bress wondered if the city would assume this liability and compared the situation to snow liability, saying that "residents get tickets for not removing snow and you ought to do the same for walnuts."

Chairman Thomas Wheaton stated he doubted if the city would assume liability and questioned if there weren't a monetary aspect to cutting the trees whose wood is considered valuable.

Bress denied this, saying the trees were "just a liability" to him, and added that "there's only 14 feet in both trees that they're interested in as lumber... the rest is firewood."

When Bress stated he wanted to cut the trees that week, the commission voted to deny permission with Wheaton, Kissinger, Donald Fee and Lesa Buckland voting against and James Cutler the lone yes vote.

up trash and mowing was given as an excuse this non-expert offered a solution. It was quickly shot down as unworkable. I'm not so sure.

The solution: lease medians and shoulders to farmers; let them grow and harvest alfalfa or other forage crops in exchange for keeping them mowed and cleaned a couple times a year. Even if leases were "free" and farmers were paid for seed the state, it seems to me, would benefit financially and aesthetically.

Since alfalfa was first suggested, I've learned that California is experimenting with an alternative solution: farmers are permitted to graze sheep along the highway.

Sheep or alfalfa... either one would be preferable to what we have now.

Planners approve Ole Village sub

Final preliminary approval for a 12-lot subdivision, Ole Village, in the City of Northville was granted Denis Roux by the city planning commission September 19.

On the former Hay property at the north end of Rogers, the residential subdivision will adjoin Lexington Commons south on the west.

Request for site and architectural plan approval for a warehouse addition to Anger Manufacturing was referred to the site plan committee headed by James Cutler with Bruce Turnbull and Donald Fee for study and recommendation for the next meeting October 3.

Northville Laboratories' request for site and architectural approval for a warehouse at 100 Rural Hill, which already has a variance from the zoning board of appeals, drew objections from the planners as they viewed the plans submitted as incomplete and not accompanied by a check-list as required.

Herman Moehlman, attorney for the firm, said new plans would be given Ronald Nino, planning consultant, and the site committee in time for study before the next meeting.

Because the present city ordinance has no research classification (as the former had) the business is considered non-conforming. City Manager Steven Walters told the planners that it is possible to add up to a limit of 50 percent to a non-conforming structure and that the addition falls within the limit.

Commission member James Cutler questioned whether "a viable business in our community should have to be designated as non-conforming" and suggested that perhaps the ordinance should be changed.

Nino said that non-conforming uses generally were the type a community wished to retain without expansion or to relocate.

Cutler observed that he was "sure there would be no objections to the addition" from the area adjacent.

Revamp sub Plan

anybody," indicating that they add to property value.

Frederick Joels, president of the Lexington Condominiums Association, asked about drainage patterns. Russell said there will have to be a gravel filter at the southeast corner with an earth berm.

Joels complained that the drain for the adjacent area becomes mud-filled and is unsightly.

Russell said the drain at the end of Springfield in this subdivision will be picked up.

"We will work to save any large tree," Russell promised, citing a previous cost of $400 to take underground utilities around a tree's roots and saying the developer will do the same in the new subdivision.

Explaining that the subdivision will be done in phases, Russell announced that the first part will be the area closest to Eight Mile on the west side of the new plan.

Commission chairman Thomas Wheaton pointed out that this is the section that was an old apple orchard.

"We are trying to create a subdivision with great appeal," Fournier told the area residents and planners. He added that the park (open space) area is greater than required by ordinance.

Nino stated that the tentative approval under Act 288 of the state law confers for one year approval of lot sizes, their orientation and the street layout.

Later Nino reminded the planners that the Planned Unit Development under which they are being asked to approve the subdivision was not intended originally to be used for 100 percent residential development of single family homes.

It was designed, he said, to permit a mix of multiple and single family, giving open space for lot size reduction. But with this concept, he continued, developers really are finding a loophole.

By city ordinance a public hearing must be held before a subdivision can receive final preliminary approval from the commission. The developer then may proceed to get his approvals for sewers, streets, soil erosion, etc.

Stressing that he and his associates are land developers and not builders, Fournier estimated that a base price house in the new subdivision will cost about $90,000 including lot, and possibly may be $100,000 with others ranging up to $150,000 on some of the large, wooded lots in the natural area backing onto the park.

The excluded lots in the original plan that front on Eight Mile at the east and west sides of the subdivision remain in the new design.

Novi hosts Pierrot travel series

George Pierrot, who has made a career out of wandering the globe, is venturing into Novi to bring travel highlights to the northwest Detroit suburbs.

Pierrot has arranged a travelogue of nine films which will be shown at Novi High School's Fuerst Auditorium beginning Wednesday, October 25 and running once a month through April.

The Novi Travel Series, sponsored by the Novi Lions Club, is based on the World Adventure Travel Series that was started by Pierrot in 1933 to boost Sunday attendance at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Last year, the travel series passed the 1.5 million attendance mark.

Pierrot, a television and radio landmark in Detroit for 42 years, has prepared the Novi series in a fashion similar to successful programs he started in Birmingham and Grosse Pointe.

Pierrot will kick off the series on October 25 when he will introduce Chris Borden's show on Ireland. Other film lectures will center on Japan, California, Hawaii, Brazil, Germany, Mexico, Alaska and Western Canada.

Season tickets, which cost $15, can be purchased by calling 348-3200 Monday through Friday from 10-6 or by writing Travel Masters, 43546 Grand River Avenue, Novi. Hudson's is also serving as a ticket outlet.

Individual tickets cost $3.

Pierrot, 80, nearly bubbles over with irrepressible enthusiasm when he talks about his list of lecturers.

"For goodness sake, bring your children to it," he said. "I get the statement so often from a teacher who says, 'My pupil has begun doing independent research since seeing the World Adventure Series.'"

"And that's what I like to hear. Unless I send a person home thinking, then I haven't accomplished much."

Needless to say, Pierrot, nearing his 81st birthday, has accomplished a lot.

As Michigan's premiere world traveler, he and his wife Helen have literally crisscrossed the globe, setting foot in 117 countries where he consistently serves as he nation's unofficial good will ambassador.

"My feeling is we're kind of a foundation for better understanding between the U.S. and other countries," he said. "The best hope for peace lies in tourism."

"Treaties are broken right and left, but if you can get acquainted with the other countries, you can realize the other guy is just the same as you."

"One of the most common questions we get is, 'Are you well treated abroad?' I find myself saying, in complete honesty, I'm always treated as well as I deserve and sometimes better."

"I agree with Will Rogers and that may sound naive, but it is not naive to me. It is impossible to dislike a man you really know."

Novi's showcase high school, which opened last year, is located on Ten Mile and Taft roads, about a mile west of Novi Road.

Marzonie leads the way, 27-6

Mustangs trip Canton in league opener

Northville may have found the spark it's been looking for on offense last Friday night. His name is John Marzonie. Marzonie, the Mustangs' veteran linebacker and co-captain, tried his hand at quarterback in Northville's Western Six opener at Plymouth Canton, and the results couldn't have been more gratifying for coach Chuck Shonta.

Starting in place of injured starter Bob Crisan, the 5'11" 165-pound senior pitched and passed the Mustangs to a 27-6 victory over the previously unbeaten, unscored-upon Chiefs.

"They finally played as well as they were capable of playing," Shonta said of his team's offense, which had scrounged up a grand total of only six points in a pair of season-opening non-league defeats. "They were blocking the right people, they were executing well, and hey, Marzonie had a heckuva game at quarterback."

The Mustangs, in fact, had things pretty much under control before they even started their second series on offense. After receiving the opening kickoff they marched 59 yards in 13 plays and scored their opening touchdown midway through the first quarter on a three-yard run by Don Borthwick.

Marzonie directed Northville's option almost flawlessly during the drive, with Borthwick, Dan Davis and Scott Millard sharing the rushing duties and accounting for all 59 yards. Russ Gans booted the extra point after the score to give Northville a 7-0 lead.

Moments later, with Canton facing a third-and-two situation on its own 20 after the Northville kickoff, Marzonie scooped up a fumbled ball jarred loose by defensive back Ken Weber behind the line of scrimmage and rambled the remaining 10 yards for the Mustangs' second score.

Gans again converted, and with less than eight minutes gone the visitors were sporting a commanding 14-0 lead.

It was a sad start for the Chiefs, who'd gone into the game with two straight shutout victories under their belts, the best start in the school's six-year football history.

But for Marzonie and the Mustangs the day had just begun. On Northville's second offensive possession Marzonie, whose brother Doug quarterbacked the team last year, began taking to the air.

He completed three straight passes, two to Joe Schimpf and one to Jeff Norton, in directing an 82-yard drive in seven plays. The last completion went for 40 yards and a touchdown by Norton with 7:58 remaining in the half, and Gans made it 21-0.

Minutes later Marzonie completed his fourth consecutive pass, and 18-yarder to Borthwick inside Canton's 40, before an interception by Jay McKinley in the end zone prevented Northville from adding yet another first-half score.

The Mustangs stayed on the ground the rest of the way, adding a third-quarter touchdown on a five-yard sweep by Borthwick to cap a 51-yard drive in eight plays.

Canton, meanwhile, was unable to get off the ground offensively until the second half. The Chiefs picked up only 52 yards total in the first 24 minutes against a Northville defense anchored

Northville's 'pack is back' — Mustang harriers dump Hawks

The pack is back on Northville's cross country team this year, and it's helping them to a surprisingly strong start.

With the top three runners all finishing within five seconds of each other, the Mustangs opened their Western Six season in the same style they ended it last year, when they won the league championship.

Paced by co-captains Brian Turnbull and Jim Bedford, Northville knocked off Farmington Harrison 16-45 at Harrison's home course last Thursday.

Turnbull won the tightly packed race in 15:53 while Bedford followed in 15:55. Close behind them was teammate Harry Couyoumjian, who placed third in 15:57, and he was followed by yet another Northville runner, Joe Martin, who finished fourth in 16:19.

Harrison's top finisher was John Anderson, who wound up fifth in 16:21.

"These kids really surprised me," coach Ralph Redmond said of his team's effort. "Harrison is a team that has one very fine runner in John Anderson, and yet we managed to put four guys in front of him."

"Coming off the Schoolcraft Invitational (which Northville won the week before), I thought the kids might be looking past Farmington, but they ran exceptionally well instead."

The Mustangs, in fact, had six of the top seven finishers in the race — despite the absence of Tom Doyle, one of the team's top five runners who didn't compete because of an injured foot.

Placing sixth and seventh overall were Northville runners Doug Wright (17:00) and Myles Couyoumjian (17:06). After that Harrison came in with two runners, while Steve Stuart rounded out the Mustangs' top seven with a 10th-place finish in 17:31.

The victory was Northville's second straight in dual meet action this fall and its first in Western Six competition. The Mustangs' next meet takes place tomorrow afternoon, when they host Waterford Mott in a 4 p.m. race at Cass Benton Park.

Mott is expected to be the chief challenger to Northville's Western Six crown this year.

In the first state ranking of cross country squads last week, meanwhile, Northville polled the ninth position. Ranked ahead of the Mustangs (in order) were Grosse Pointe North, Flint Kearsley, Portage Northern, Jackson, Brighton, Grand Blanc, Royal Oak Kimball and Walled Lake Central. Detroit Kettering was ranked 10th.

Jayvees get revenge on John Glenn, 22-8

Avenging their only loss of the 1977 football season, Northville's jayvee Mustangs came from behind for a 22-8 victory over Westland John Glenn last Thursday.

The win was Northville's third straight this season and the team's eighth straight dating back to last fall's 12-7 loss to John Glenn.

Trailing 8-0 at halftime, the Mustangs exploded for two third-quarter touchdowns to take the lead for good. The first came on a nine-yard run by halfback Rob Burnham, capping a 60-yard march on the local squad's first possession of the half.

Moments later Dave Ward recovered a fumble at the John Glenn 30, and soon afterwards quarterback Dave Greer drove over from one yard out to give Northville a 12-8 advantage. Greer's two-point conversion pass to Paul Cooper in the end zone made it 14-8.

The Mustangs' last touchdown came on a two-yard run by Bob Thomson in the fourth quarter, set up by a 39-yard breakaway by Scott Robins. Greer bullheaded his way into the end zone on the conversion attempt for the final two points.

"I think we played extremely well in the second half," Northville coach Dennis Colligan said of his team's performance. "We gained 185 yards in the second half after getting only 55 in the first, and that kind of told the story."

The Mustangs, in fact, had picked up only 13 yards on three possessions during the first quarter. John Glenn scored its only point in that stanza on a one-yard touchdown plunge set up by a razzle dazzle 45-yard pass play, and a two-point conversion play.

Leading rusher for Northville was Burnham, who gained 109 yards on 21 carries. The Mustangs also got a sparkling defensive performance from linebacker Steve Norton.

Their next game takes place tomorrow night, when they host Plymouth Canton beginning at 7 p.m. "It should be another good, tough battle," Colligan said, noting that Canton is 2-0 this season.

PP&K competition scheduled for Saturday

Youngsters from this area who want to compete in Northville's annual punt, pass and kick contest have only two days left to register.

Sponsored locally by John Mach Ford Sales, the contest itself will take place this Saturday (September 30) at the Plateau, located behind Cooke Junior High School, beginning at 10 a.m.

Registrations will be accepted through Friday at the John Mach showroom, located on Seven Mile just east of Northville Road. Entrants can register simply by stopping by, accompanied by a parent or guardian, and filling out one of the forms available there.

The punt, pass and kick contest is open to youngsters aged eight through 13 and is divided into six age categories. Trophies will be awarded to the top three finishers in each category.

Winners advance to zone competition next month, and from there can go on to the district, area and division contests, possibly qualifying for the national finals in January.

Each entrant will receive a free booklet at the showroom containing rules and suggested conditioning exercises as well as tips from NFL stars Ray Guy, Bob Griese and Errol Mann.

The contest, sponsored nationally by the Ford Dealers of America in conjunction with the NFL, is now in its 18th year.

Mott's 20-stroke win cools down Northville golfers

Northville's golf squad, plagued by inconsistency, suffered a tough setback to their hopes of winning an eighth straight Western Six league championship this season.

Six days after apparently shattering a school record, the Mustangs lost a 198-218 match to Waterford Mott at the Pontiac Country Club this past Monday. Combined with a season-opening defeat at the hands of Farmington Harrison three weeks ago, the loss left the local linksmen with a 3-2 league record midway through their Western Six schedule.

"We really can't afford any more losses," Coach Joe Blake acknowledged after watching his team shoot its worst score in at least two years.

"We may have to win the rest of our meets and count on somebody knocking off Mott in order to win it this season."

Northville's top effort was turned in by Bob Stephens, who shot a 38, but nobody else cleared 40. Todd Mack shot an even 40, Mike McNamara a 45, John Pawlowsky a 47, and Jim Marcicki and Mike Seltz 48's.

Ironically, the Mustangs had apparently set a school record just six days earlier when they knocked off league rival Walled Lake Western, 179-209, at Brae-Burn. To Blake's knowledge it was the first time any Northville team has ever shot under 180 using the scores of the top five finishers.

Stephens and Pawlowsky tied for medalist honors in that one, both shooting 34's. McNamara followed with a 36, Mack with a 37 and Marcicki with a 38.

"It's really amazing that all those guys could play so well on the same day," Blake said of the Western victory. He attributed part of the team's collapse Monday to the fact that it was an away meet.

"That was our first match away from Brae-Burn in quite a while, and I think that hurt us," Blake said. "We had become too accustomed to Brae-Burn."

In between the two lopsided matches, Northville had beaten two other league foes and lost to a non-league one — all at Brae-Burn.

Last Wednesday the Mustangs knocked off Plymouth Canton, 192-205, then beat Livonia Churchill 193-219 on Thursday.

Pawlowski won medalist honors both times, carding a 36 against Canton and tying Mike Seltz with a 37 against Churchill.

Northville's other top finishers in the Canton match were Stephens and Mack (38), Marcicki (39), and McNamara and Ted Seltz (41). In the Churchill match they were Stephens (39), Mack and Marcicki (40) and McNamara (43).

In Northville's only other match last week, Plymouth Salem beat the Mustangs 157-160 in a non-league, four-man total meet on Friday. Ed Thomas with a 38 and Craig Stevens with a 39 topped the winners.

Bob Stephens led the Mustangs with a 39 while Marcicki and Mike Seltz followed with 40's, McNamara with a 41 and Pawlowsky and Mack with 42's.

The Mustangs' next meet takes place tomorrow, when they travel to Farmington for a key match-up against Harrison. Harrison's only league loss this season came at the hands of Mott.

Mustang tankers swamp North Farmington

Pool records fell one after another at North Farmington last Tuesday as Northville breezed to its second straight girls' swimming victory, 106-64.

A record was broken in each of the meet's first four events, with the Mustangs picking up four of them and North Farmington one.

Sue Cahill, Allyson Farquhar, Kyle Roggenbuck and Kim Storm got the local squad off on the right foot by winning the 200-yard medley relay in 2:01.0 for one pool record. Placing second behind the record-setting foursome were another group of Northville girls — Laurie Leinonen, Carolyn Schrot, Tammi Selfridge and Caralyn Brown — who swam the event in 2:21.1.

North Farmington's lone record setter was Maureen Jewell, who shattered pool and school marks in winning the meet's second event, the 200-yard freestyle, with a 1:59.4 clocking. Jewell's performance overshadowed a strong showing by Northville, which finished 2-3-4 (Farquhar, Janet Shaw and Lori Sellen) in the 200 free.

Cahill came back with the meet's third straight record-shattering performance by winning the 200-yard individual medley in 2:16.5, 16 seconds ahead of teammate Leslie Farquhar, who finished second.

And as if that wasn't enough, Storm set yet another mark by swimming the 50-yard freestyle in 25.0 seconds. Roggenbuck, who finished second, was just .6 seconds behind Storm.

All told the Mustangs won only six of 11 events, but took seconds in 10 of them. Cahill (butterfly), Storm (100 freestyle) and Allyson Farquhar (breaststroke) captured the other two first places for Northville.

Second-place finishes — outside the first four events — were turned in by Hollie Raycraft (diving), Leslie Farquhar (500 freestyle), Roggenbuck (butterfly), Selfridge (backstroke), Shaw (breaststroke), and the 400-yard freestyle relay team of Leslie Farquhar, Kristy Iversen, Sellen and Shaw.

"I think they performed well," coach Ben Lauber said of the Mustangs later, "although you could see the team relax a little bit after the diving (by which time Northville had a 51-26 bulge).

"But I think that's understandable. The girls aren't being rested much for these meets — they'll be working out the day of the meets until later in the season — and that has some effect, I'm sure."

The Mustangs were 2-0 going into last night's non-conference meet at Livonia Franklin. Tomorrow they'll begin Western Six competition when they travel to Walled Lake Western for a 4 p.m. meet.

Cooke wins grid opener

A strong defensive effort plus two first-half touchdowns helped Cooke Junior High's ninth-grade football team to a 22-0 victory over West Hills in its season opener at Bloomfield Hills last week.

Chris Dimitroff opened the scoring on a 22-yard touchdown burst in the first quarter, then ran in again for the two-point conversion.

Scott Spaman added a second-quarter touchdown and Vince Candela ran in for the two-point conversion to make it 16-0 at the half. Cooke's final points came on a 42-yard touchdown sprint by Dimitroff in the fourth quarter.

Athletes of the week

JOHN MARZONIE

It didn't take long for John Marzonie to prove his worth on Northville's offense last Friday. The team's senior co-captain, playing his first game as the Mustangs' regular quarterback, directed a 59-yard touchdown drive on Northville's first possession, then scooped up a loose ball moments later while playing linebacker and went 10 yards for a touchdown, giving the local team a quick 10-0 lead on its way to a 27-6 victory over Plymouth Canton. Marzonie not only wound up completing 4-of-5 passes for 98 yards, but led the Mustang defense as well with seven first-hit tackles and two assists. He's now been in on 57 tackles this season, and has led the Mustangs in that department in each of their first three games.

HOLLY SIXT

Holly Sixt has done everything asked of her, and then some, for Northville's girls' tennis squad this season. Only a sophomore, she's playing with the best of 'em at number one singles. Nonetheless, she's undefeated in the Mustangs' first six matches this fall, and she's only had to go three sets once so far. Last week she won matches against Western Six rivals Walled Lake Western, Livonia Churchill and Plymouth Canton in straight sets, losing only 13 games in the process — and she's getting better all the time.

by Marzonie, who doubled as a linebacker and led the team with seven first hits and two assists.

Canton's only score came with 28 seconds left in the game, when quarterback Scott Dawson tossed an eight-yard touchdown pass to McKinley. Those points were the first the Chiefs have scored on Northville since 1975, when the Mustangs eked out a 27-20 triumph.

Canton's only other threat came midway through the second quarter, after Rusty Mandle had returned a kickoff 51 yards to the Northville 34. The Chiefs got as far as the 23 before a penalty and a sack put them out of range.

The Mustangs wound up with 295 total yards in the game to Canton's 147. All but 98 of those yards came on the ground. Borthwick had 81 yards in 18 carries and Davis 79 yards in 11 carries to lead Northville's rushing attack.

On defense Shonta's club was led by Marzonie, who had seven first hits and two assists, and Matt Baker, Toby White and Bob Boshoven, who had four first hits each.

Canton's running game, which accounted for only 78 yards, was paced by Mandle. Mandle had 45 yards in 11 carries but had to be taken out of the game late in the third quarter with a hyperextended shoulder.

Dawson, for his part, completed eight of 10 passes for 69 yards, but threw two interceptions — one to Norton and one to Jerry Sherwood.

The Mustangs will travel to Waterford Mott this Friday for an 8 p.m. game against the Corsairs. Northville beat Mott 17-9 last year, and the Waterford cub opened its Western Six season with a 24-0 loss at Farmington Harrison last Saturday.

Ernie Harwell: 'I like broadcasting because I like meeting people.'

Ernie Harwell recalls career

He still loves baseball and radio

By MIKE LASH

Ernie Harwell remembers the day well. The site was the Giants' baseball stadium in New York; it was early fall of the year 1951.

There were two men on and two men out in the bottom of the ninth inning of an extremely important baseball game between the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants. A youngster named Bobby Thomson stepped to the plate, and with one mighty stroke emblazoned his name forever in baseball history.

Thomas's three-run homer that day gave the Giants a miraculous 5-4 victory, particularly significant because it occurred in a playoff game that decided the 1951 National League pennant.

Thirty-seven years later it's still considered the single most dramatic moment in baseball history.

And Ernie Harwell was there. Harwell, in fact, was making a bit of history on his own that day. He was calling the play-by-play of the first baseball ever broadcast live over national television.

But then, Harwell's had quite a few fascinating experiences in his colorful 32-year career as a TV and radio broadcaster.

The Georgia-born father of four, well-known around these parts as the easy-going veteran radio announcer for the Detroit Tigers, has traveled to practically every corner of this country, and then some.

He's been a baseball broadcaster in Atlanta, New York, Baltimore and Detroit, and he lives in Florida during the winter months.

When springtime arrives, though, Harwell and his family pack up their gear and head for Northville, Michigan.

"We just like the area. It's quiet and sort of away from things, but still close to Detroit," the likeable Georgian says in explaining the reasons he and his wife Lulu spend the baseball seasons out here. They first came to Northville three years ago, partly on the recommendation of minor league coach Hoot Evers, while looking for a place to stay near Detroit during the baseball

Colts fall to Romulus

The Northville-Novi Colts remained unbeaten in freshman and junior varsity competition last Sunday, but the local varsity gridders went down to their first defeat of the season in a 21-13 thriller at Romulus. The freshmen beat Romulus 13-0 while the jayvees won 19-0.

Romulus scored first on a short touchdown run, capping a 59-yard drive after the opening kickoff, to take a 7-0 lead in the varsity contest. The Colts bounced back minutes later to tie the game, though, on a touchdown pass from Dave Chickowski to Ray McDonough, capping a 50-yard march.

The game remained deadlocked until just before the half, when Romulus took a 14-7 lead on a 50-yard touchdown run plus the extra point.

Early in the third quarter the local squad cut the gap to 14-13 on a pass from quarterback Eric Deline to Chickowski, but failed to convert the extra point. That's the way it stayed until the last minute of the game, when a spectacular 35-yard pass play gave the Flyers their final touchdown.

The Colts' next game takes place this Saturday when they host the Ypsilanti Braves at the Northville High School field. The freshman game starts at 5:30 p.m., followed by the jayvee and then the varsity clashes.

The Colts' jayvee squad found the going a bit easier in their 19-0 victory over Romulus.

All three Colts touchdowns came on runs. John Quinn scored on a two-yard plunge, Steve Smith on a 15-yard burst up the middle and Dave Denhof on a three-yard gallop off tackle.

Lending support to the local team's running attack were offensive linemen Greg Ryba, Dve Dafolla, Mike Bates and Rod Bragg while the defense was led by John Klakkenga, Dave Trumbull, Doug Hartman, Jeff Tomanik, Chris Sixt and Quinn.

The Colts' kicking game, with Dan Perpich punting and Mike Wissman kicking off, also played a big part in the victory. Perpich boomed one punt 65 yards, from the Colt 30-yard line to the Romulus five.

The local freshman squad, meanwhile, picked up its third straight shutout victory by downing Romulus 13-0 Sunday.

John Tashner, taking a pitch from quarterback Jeff Bainbridge, scored the Colts' first touchdown on a two-yard sweep in the first quarter to cap a 55-yard drive in nine plays, all on the ground. Brad Abbott made the extra point on an off-tackle run.

After two scoreless periods, the winners added one more touchdown in the final stanza. With one minute remaining the Colts defense stopped Romulus on downs at the Flyer two-yard line.

Abbott then crashed in off tackle on the following play.

Dramatic last-half comeback earns Stars a tie

The Stars, Northville's 14-and-under Division 2 soccer team in the WSSL, provided a classic example for the underdogs of the sports world last weekend.

Trailing 3-0 at halftime, the Stars refused to say die in a game with the previously unbeaten, untied Farmington Fillies. Instead they bounced back from the early deficit to tie the Fillies, 3-3.

The Fillies had entered the game with a perfect 2-0 record, while the Stars had lost their only previous game. Mary Ann Boylan scored two goals and Chrissy Kreutzberg one to pace the comeback.

The Division I Pink Panthers, meanwhile, picked up their second victory in three games this season with a 3-0 shutout over the Aztecs in an all-Northville showdown. Kelly Coutts scored from 10 yards out on a pass from Khrist Korwin to give the Panthers a 1-0 halftime lead, and Angie Butterfield and Karen Berlin added goals in the second half.

Another all-Northville girls' contest saw Mandy Olgren score three goals and halfback Ann Marie Petroski make three defensive saves in leading the 10-and-under Aztecs past the Stars, 5-0. Kristin Spigarelli and Jill Werdel also had strong defensive games for the winners while Linda Bacigalupi and Colleen Kirwan scored one goal each.

In other local girls' WSSL action the 12-and-under Foxes, behind Lisa Cahill's four-goal effort and the defensive play of Patty Payne and Mary Orlandini, knocked off the Farmington Celtics, 5-0. Kathy Kirwan also had a goal as the winners took 17 shots on goal.

The 19-and-under Stars, though, lost a 4-2 game to West Bloomfield despite Cindy Martin's penalty kick goal in the first half and Nancy Pinkelman's breakaway tally in the second.

In boys' action, meanwhile, Northville's 12-and-under teams lost only one of five games over the weekend.

Chris Cole scored his first two goals of the season to lead the Hot Spurs past the Livonia Phantoms, 2-0; Mickey McGrath had two goals and Chris Sefic one to pace Arsenal's 3-0 triumph over Livonia no. 10; and the Champs, getting two goals each from Brian Dragon and Scott Greiner plus an exceptional effort from goalie Curt Settino, blanked Livonia's Orange Crush, 4-0. Settino had 10 saves, including an early penalty kick block that preserved a 1-0 Arsenal lead.

The Cobras came from behind for a 1-1 tie with the Livonia Golden Eagles while the Tornados suffered Northville's lone 12-and-under setback, 2-1, at the hands of Plymouth no. 4.

Chris Hauser scored the Cobras' only goal on a pass from Todd Hahn and Bill Robert Bohan while Fred Cahill and Matt Lamb combined for 36 saves in the tie game. Cam Ramsey scored for the Tornados in a losing effort.

Fate was against the local 10-and-under boys, though, as Northville lost six of seven games in that age division. Two of those losses were by one goal.

United, after taking a 1-0 lead on Brent Wasik's third-period goal, lost 2-1 to the Livonia Grasshoppers on two last-quarter scores.

The Hot Spurs lost their third straight game, 4-3, to the Farmington Bobcats. Garret Stolberg scored one of the Hot Spurs' goals on a perfect pass from Jeff Anderson to Robbie Ketola to Stolberg, while Ketola and Kenny Kossak tallied the other two.

Results from last week's other local games are listed below, with Northville scorers in parentheses.

Bell wins football contest

Fourteen out of sixteen picks isn't bad... and for Russell Bell of Westland, it was good enough for first place in the second installment of this newspaper's weekly football contest.

Second and third places were won by two Northville residents, Rich Balek, Jr. and Tom Alkire, respectively.

Balek and Alkire were two of nine contestants who missed three games. They garnered the prize money by virtue of their closer guesses of the Michigan-Notre Dame score. The Wolverine won the game 28-14, and Balek had Michigan winning 24-14 while Alkire picked the Ann Arbor squad 28-21.

Bell, whose first place earns him $10, wasn't as close in guessing the Notre Dame-Michigan turnout, but for him it didn't matter. He made only two errors—incorrectly guessing UCLA to win over Kansas and the Lions over Seattle.

The seven other contestants who came close but not close enough to win this past week were Tony Hamp, Philip Tweedie, Dave Hooten, Bob Bell, Steve Alföldy, Steve Sayre, and Chris Cole. Each of them missed three games.

Hamp was just nine-points off the Michigan-Notre Dame score, two points from tying Alkire.

The two most missed games in last week's contest included Southern California's 24-14 victory over Alabama and Kansas' 28-24 triumph over UCLA.

Only a few contestants figured Notre Dame to defeat Michigan. One contestant predicted a tie, which would have made for some interesting post game chatter.

On the local front, Walled Lake Central's loss to Waterford caused most problems for prognosticators. Also, quite a number of entries figured Novi would bounce back to win over Saline. The Hornets, however, failed to cooperate.

Five contestants missed four games: Anne White, Scott Schaal, Chuck Ayers, Tom Bryson, and D. Chamberlain.

Twenty entries contained five mistakes, 24 had six errors, seven had seven wrong, 13 had eight mistakes, and the remainder contained nine errors or more.

For this week's line-up see the advertisement in this section of the newspaper.

Contestant are reminded that contest rules require inclusion of the sponsoring business as well as the listing of the winning team.

Netters win 3 more; they're still unbeaten

Northville's powerful girls' netters swept past three more Western Six opponents last week, giving the Mustangs a perfect 6-0 record in their first three weeks of the season.

Coach Uta Filkin's squad lost only one match, a three-setter at that, in sailing past Walled Lake Western (7-0), Livonia Churchill (6-1) and Plymouth Canton (7-0).

The squad's top three singles players — Holly Sixt, Lynn Herald and Eve Engelmeyer — all posted two-set victories in a 7-0 victory over Western last Wednesday, as did the first (Tracy Ade and Sue Kaestner), second (Lisa Aaron and Sue Pegrum) and third (Lisa Friel and Debbie Spade) doubles teams.

Only Kelly Jamieson, who edged Karen Reeves 3-6, 6-3, 6-2, was forced to lose sets for the winners.

Two days later Churchill became the first league team to get a point against Northville this season, but still lost 6-1. This time all four singles players — Sixt, Herald, Engelmeyer and Jamieson — won in straight sets.

The Mustangs' only loss occurred in first doubles, where Ade and Kaestner lost 4-6, 6-1, 6-2 to Karen Reardon and Sue Kowalski. Aaron and Pegrum at second doubles and Friel and Spade at third doubles won in straight sets.

Closing out the week, Northville traveled to Canton on Monday and handily beat the Chiefs, 7-0, winning all seven matches in straight sets.

The team's most impressive performances were turned in by Jamieson at fourth singles, who won both sets without losing a game; Sixt at first singles, a 6-0, 6-2 winner; and third doubles partners Friel and Spade, who won 6-0 and 6-1.

Radio's his career, but Ernie is multi-talented

Ever since then they've spent the spring and summer months in an apartment on the outskirts of town.

Sitting back on a chair in his bare feet, his hair still sleepily ruffled but his eyes wide and bright, Harwell is a perfect portrait of the friendly, down-home Southerner. His smile and his hospitality are genuine.

He was born in a little town called Washington, Georgia, but spent most of his youth in Atlanta, and he still retains a Southern accent. His eyes light up somewhat as he recalls his start in broadcasting.

It began with the Atlanta Constitution, a major daily newspaper in the city where he grew up.

"I wanted to be a newspaperman," he remembers. While still in high school he wrote a letter to the editor of the Constitution asking for a job, "but I didn't tell him I was 16 years old." He signed the letter "W. Ernest Harwell" — and he got the job.

He worked there through his college years, and had intended to stay in journalism. After spending four years in the Marines, though, he took a radio job with WSB in Atlanta, where he did the play-by-play for a minor-league Atlanta team in the Southern League.

Two years later, in 1948, he got his first major league break in what must be one of the most unusual baseball swaps ever made. Brooklyn Dodgers owner Branch Rickey, who'd "scouted" Harwell as a radio announcer, wanted him to take the place of the popular Red Barber, who suffered an ulcer in mid-season.

Atlanta team owner Earl Mann, though, demanded a player in return. And so it was that Harwell came to Brooklyn in exchange for Cliff Dapper, a catcher for the Dodgers' farm team in Montreal who — as it turned out — became player-manager of the Atlanta club.

In 1950 Harwell moved on to the New York Giants organization, where he broadcast for four years. It was during this time that he announced the famous Dodgers-Giants playoff game on NBC-TV, the first baseball series to be seen live coast-to-coast.

"It's hard to realize it now," he says, "but to have things happen simultaneously all over the country on TV was really something."

Because TV broadcasts weren't taped in those days, though, the announcer generally associated with the game is Russ Hodges, who was doing the taped radio broadcast. But for hundreds of thousands of Americans, the voice coming into their homes that day belonged to Ernie Harwell.

Twenty-seven years later he still considers Thomson's home run his "greatest thrill," above even some of those moments during Detroit's race to the pennant and World Series championship in 1968. "There's nothing as exciting as a pennant race going right down to the last day of the season," he asserts.

When the old St. Louis Browns franchise moved to Baltimore in 1954, Harwell became the Orioles' announcer and stayed there until 1960, when the Tigers picked him up to replace Van Patrick.

Since then he's become one of the best-known sports personalities in Detroit, as familiar as the radio itself around most homes in the area during the summer. Along with George Kell he did both radio and TV broadcasts until 1965, when Kell became the regular TV announcer and Harwell stuck with radio. He currently works the games with Paul Carey, who took over for Ray Lane in 1973.

And after all those seasons and all those miles of travel, how does he feel about broadcasting now?

"I like broadcasting because I like meeting people, I like the people associated with baseball," he says.

He's also glad that, unlike TV announcers, he's able to work every day — it helps him "become more a part of the team," he figures.

Broadcasting in general, he says thoughtfully, "is a challenge because you go out there and you never know what's going to happen next. It's a challenge to see how you're going to tell a different story every day.

"And you're talking to all kinds of people, from every type of background. You're talking to college professors, and you're talking to people from foreign countries, you're talking to kids and to adults, to people who know very little about baseball and to people who know it inside out.

"I have to try talking to all those people without talking down at them, without insulting their intelligence." His aim, then, he says, is "to tell what happens in the simplest, most descriptive way I can. People don't tune in to hear me, they tune in to hear the game, to find out what the score is."

But while Harwell has spent most of his career in the radio booth, his interests range far beyond just baseball and broadcasting. One of his favorite pastimes is songwriting.

Harwell, in fact, has written about 25 songs for several top-notch recording artists in recent years. Among them are B. J. Thomas (who recorded a Harwell song called "I Don't Know Any Better" not long ago), Barbara Lewis, Merrilee Rush, Dionne Jackson, and Philippe Wynne, former lead singer of the pop group the Spinners.

His interest in music was piqued around 1965, when he and his wife composed a little New Year's song.

"I kind of got the bug in me after that," he recalls. "I think deep down inside everybody likes to write songs. It's just sort of a fun thing for me."

He's written his most recent songs with Sammy Fain, a 78-year-old composer who's won two Oscars for songs he's written for movies ("Love is a Many-Splendored Thing" and "Secret Love").

Harwell has also done free-lance writing for such national publications as the Saturday Evening Post, Esquire, Collier's and Parade, and recently put together a collection of Detroit baseball information in a booklet called "Tiger Trivia."

"I've always been interested in words, in using them in all sorts of ways," he explains.

It's almost hard to believe he finds the time for so many other interests with all the traveling he does. And Harwell admits the travel does affect him at times.

"When you travel as much as I do, you really appreciate coming home to your family," he says. "But Lulu's been great about going places. We've lived all over (including a one-year stay in Spain), and she's never complained."

His knack for saving things, though, did create somewhat of a problem when the Harwells moved from their home in Grosse Pointe in 1967, where they'd resided for several years before moving to Florida.

Seems Ernie had a collection of old baseball paraphernalia dating back to the days when he first became associated with the sport — including valuable old bats, gloves and other equipment as well as literature.

The veteran Tiger broadcaster, who says the loyalty of Detroit fans is one reason he likes his job here so much, decided to donate his carefully-organized collection to the Detroit Public Library.

The idea seemed reasonable enough — until the Harwells discovered just how extensive Ernie's love of baseball was. It took two large moving vans to complete the transfer.

Visiting Red Wing

Kids who came to Novi Ice Arena last Saturday morning had a chance to meet a real Red Wing. Perry Miller, a defenseman with Detroit's pro hockey club, signed autographs and talked with youngsters in helping to promote the Farmington Hockey Association's youth hockey program. Pictured

55 new employees slated for state hospital, NRTC

An additional 55 personnel are being hired by the Department of Mental Health and assigned to the Northville Regional Training Center and Northville Regional Psychiatric Center (Northville State Hospital) to fill unforeseen staffing requirements at the two institutions.

The hiring was directed by Acting Mental Health Director Vern Stehman through the use of discretionary funds provided by the Legislature to meet needs which arise throughout the mental health system.

"The establishment of the discretionary funds was a positive step by the Legislature to give the department more flexibility in meeting needs as they arise," Governor William Milliken said. "They are allowing the department to meet new staffing needs at both Northville institutions in a timely manner."

Fifteen of the new staff will be assigned to safety and security work at the hospital and 40 will be assigned to direct patient care at the training center.

Because of the increasing demands for service in the metropolitan Detroit region, Milliken last July directed Stehman to identify problems the region is experiencing and to develop means to deal with those problems, whether through further use of the discretionary funds or through legislative or other administrative action.

"I am concerned about recent reports I have received from workers regarding problems of lack of staff and overcrowding at Northville," the governor said. "This appears to be part of an ongoing problem caused by the heavy demand for services placed upon our southeastern Michigan institutions.

"I have directed Dr. Stehman and members of my staff to visit Northville, review the situation and report back to me. I am prepared to take the necessary action to correct any deficiencies."

"I have also directed the department to formulate long-range plans for staffing and facility requirements to insure we can continue to meet our needs in the mental health field in the future."

The governor said he will receive a report shortly from Stehman and members of the executive office staff which will be used to determine any other short-range actions which are required. In addition, he said, the information gathered will be used in the budgetary process as preparations begin to draw up the budget for fiscal 1980.

"We have a commitment to provide the best treatment and care possible for each person served by our mental health system," he said. "Through continuing study and evaluation and through such new provisions as the discretionary funds and the new flexibility they provide, we are better able to meet that commitment."

Police department post

City may get chief soon

If Northville City Police had a bureau of missing persons, it's top-drawer case would be finding a police chief.

For five long years, since Sam Elkins retired for the hills of Kentucky, the position has been unfilled.

That may change shortly. A search that began last spring is nearing fruition. Soon, perhaps early in October, a panel of Detroit-area police chiefs will begin interviewing 10 to 15 finalists who are competing for the job.

How is it that a city has been five years without a police chief?

"The delay originally was kind of a natural kind of thing," explains City Manager Steve Walters. Here's how he describes it:

When Walters came to Northville in the fall of 1973, a few months after Elkins retired, the possibility of the city annexing the township appeared likely.

It seemed logical not to appoint a new police chief until the annexation was a fact. That way, the new chief would not have ties to either community.

In other words, it would not look as though the city's police chief were taking over the township or vice versa.

To make a short story long, the boundary commission dragged its feet and the annexation election was not held until 1975. Annexation was defeated.

Even then, there was no move to find a police chief. Captain Louis Westfall was, and still is, running the daily operations.

Finally, the ball was picked up again this year, but other projects such as the Allen Terrace senior citizen housing project and the downtown plan have taken up the city's time.

Now, with the assistance of Lieutenant William Tomczyk, commander of the Michigan State Police post in Northville, a list of finalists is nearly complete.

"It's dragged out longer than I anticipated," Walters said last week. "But it really hasn't been a critical issue."

"I think the police department will be better off with a full fledged police chief. We'll get better results from returning to a more conventional organizational structure."

After five years, the department is used to working without a chief, he said. The drawbacks of not having a chief have been "mainly practical aspects" such as not having someone with the "status that is inherent with the title."

6 new troopers assigned here

Six graduates of the second largest trooper recruit class ever have been assigned to the Michigan State Police post in Northville.

Another of the 113 graduates was Northville resident Wayne Enders who was assigned to the Flat Rock post.

The 94th recruit class, which graduated September 15 in Lansing, was only one shy of the record 114 who graduated in April of 1956.

Those assigned to Northville are Duane Avery of Reese, James Cameron of Ecorse, Victor Cole of Traverse City, Don Fowler of White Cloud, Arnett Gadson of Detroit, and Marc Schoeneich of Saugatuck.

Previous classes this year graduated 53 officers in February and 63 in May. Another class of 200 candidates will start this week.

The most recent class started with 184 candidates. Of the 113 who graduated, 27 had bachelor degrees, 19 had associate degrees and 18 had some college training.

Thirty-two had some prior police law enforcement experience.

stitute certificates from Northville City Police Captain Louis Westfall.

City policemen never stop going to school

School is becoming a way of life for Northville City police.

Before they reach patrolman status, they must graduate from a certified police academy as two did this summer.

The pair, former cadets James Marks and David Fendelet both finished the course with high honors.

Marks recorded an average score of 92.54, the fourth highest in a class of 31 at the Criminal Justice Institute in Detroit.

Fendelet, whose 82.34 average ranked 17th among 40 graduates, literally shot up the firearms course.

His 246 out of a possible 250 was the best in his class and earned him a "distinguished expert" recognition on the pistol range.

Once they get their officer's uniforms, city police are far from through with school.

Recently, Sergeant Alan Cox and Officer Gerald Ryan returned from two seminars at Kalamazoo Valley Community College. One, for three days, dealt with juvenile laws; the other was a search warrant seminar.

Likewise, Captain Louis Westfall and Officer Donald Lancaster attended a similar search warrant seminar at Lansing Community College.

Seminars such as these are often federally funded so the only cost to the community is the time given to the officer to attend the classes, said Westfall.

He said he encourages his officers to attend these seminars to make sure they are up to date on the latest law enforcement techniques and court decisions.

Workshop slated

The Women's Resource Center of Schoolcraft College is sponsoring a workshop in practical management techniques and problem solving October 19-20.

The workshop is intended to provide an opportunity for women managers to discuss their common concerns and become part of an informal, supportive resource network.

Participants will focus on management skills, including how to increase self-confidence and effectiveness on the job, expand career options and deal with sexual and cultural stereotypes.

Facilitated by four experienced trainers from Grand Rapids Junior College, the day and one-half workshop will meet from 6:30-10:00 p.m., Thursday, October 19, and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Friday, October 20, at the Plymouth Hilton Inn. Friday's luncheon is included.

Interested individuals may register by mailing their check for $55 made out to Schoolcraft College with their phone number to: Bursar/Management Skills for Women, Schoolcraft College, 18600 Haggerty Road, Livonia, Michigan, 48152.

Registrations must be received by October 5; enrollment is limited.

'Kidding' does well

The club, which came home with a lot of ribbons from the Oakland County 4-H Fair, will be entering its last show of the year this weekend at Belleville. The show is sponsored by the Michigan Dairy Goats Society.

"As our name implies, basically we're a goat club, but we welcome any others who are interested," said Sharon Krauthaim, club spokesperson.

Those interested in joining Kidding Around, which includes several Northville-area members, should call Mrs. Krauthaim at 348-1544.

At the Oakland County Fair, Kidding Around members did well.

Becky Hamilton, 13, won a blue ribbon and best of breed with her Jersey calf. She also placed high with art and cooking exhibits.

Chris Scheldenbrand, 11, won a blue ribbon in junior grade kid competition and did well with cooking and fruit and vegetable exhibits.

Melba Hock, 16, won a blue ribbon in best of breed with her senior grade doe. At the State Fair, she took ninth in showmanship and third in best of breed.

Julie Inglis, 16, took second in Toggenburg dry yearling division. She also took third in the State Fair and seventh in showmanship.

Vaughn Krauthaim, 8, and Gege Krauthaim, 5, won blue ribbons in junior showmanship in the rabbit and poultry divisions.

Lake levels

Rise and fall tied to weather

By DAVID RAY

Square Lake in Oakland County's Orion Township "disappeared" last year.

Two years ago, several Highland Township families abandoned their homes which had been flooded by Woodruff Lake. Long-time residents say Woodruff was on the verge of drying up only a few years before their neighbors found muskrats swimming in their living rooms.

There are other tales of Michigan's inland lakes fluctuating almost as dramatically as the stock market — up one year and down the next.

Experts say, however, that there is no predictable cycle to the rise and fall of lake levels.

Lake levels vary from place to place and area to area, says Leon Cook of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources' (DNR) Water Management Division, depending largely on the weather.

Lakes that are fed by streams and other surface water fluctuate more noticeably when it rains or during a dry spell than kettle lakes which are affected by ground water, he added.

Last summer, for example, the weather was dryer than usual and had a "more pronounced" effect on lake levels, Cook said. The dry weather caused lake levels to drop.

Wayne Schmidt, staff ecologist for the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC), also had a "general impression that lake levels were really down last year," but added that conditions appear to be close to normal so far this year despite another dry summer.

And, when lake levels change, people notice.

With lake levels near normal this year, the MUCC's Schmidt said he hasn't received many calls or letters about low or high water problems. A year ago, however, there were a number of complaints on low lake levels that apparently were made greater by farmers who drained the lakes for irrigation.

In addition to the weather, another factor that affects lake levels — and is becoming even more important in urbanizing areas — is people, Cook said.

Development around lakes can change the levels in both ways, he said.

The installation of wells draws on the supply of ground water, which could lower the lake level, while the construction of roads and buildings can pose high water problems resulting from the added or accelerated runoff.

"We run the gamut of complaints of both kinds," Cook said, adding that, as a result of development around the lakes and the increasing demand for recreational use of the waterways, "people are more aware of lake levels."

While there has been a trend of more complaints because of low lake levels, Cook said the "majority still come from people who are concerned with high water."

"People can put up with low water," he said. "It may be an inconvenience, but we've found that high water problems bring out the more vocal (people) because they're flooded out and have to put up with property damage or loss."

Also adding to flooding problems, Cook said, is construction in "some areas on lakes that never should have been built on."

Oakland County Health officials say the flooding on Woodruff Lake two years ago resulted from construction of the homes on low lying land that had been dry for almost 20 years before the problem occurred.

State laws now regulate the filling of lakefront property, Cook said, and that could prevent some of the problems.

One solution for dealing with low and high water problems is the establishment of a legal lake level.

Oakland County has 1,700 lakes — 400 of major size — according to Jack Portman, lake level control engineer in the drain commissioner's office, and 42 of those waterways are under some legal control.

Most of the requests for a legal level were prompted by low water problems, Portman said, although he has noticed a trend of more inquiries for control of high water and flooding.

Dams are used to solve most low water problems, Cook said, by slowing the flow of water from the lake to a stream, river or another lake. Pumps also may be utilized to feed the lake, he added, but that method is not as common because of difficulties in moving the water to a higher elevation.

Lake outlets usually are enlarged to accommodate an increased flow and ease flooding problems, he added.

In order to create a legal level, Portman said, at least two-thirds of the lakefront property owners must file a petition with the drain commissioner's office. The county agency then commissions an engineering report on the lake and prepares an assessment roll for the residents to pay for the control equipment and its maintenance. The legal level is set following a circuit court hearing.

The process takes about a year to complete, he said.

Lake levels are monitored on a regular basis and recorded weekly by the drain commissioner's office, Portman added. Depending on the weather and other factors, the levels fluctuate on a weekly — and sometimes daily — basis.

Battle that wasn't beckons

A battle that never made the history books, a festival honoring long Johns, a chicken race, and gorgeous autumn scenery provide a kaleidoscope of things to do this October in Michigan, according to the Travel Bureau, Michigan Department of Commerce.

The Civil War returns to Michigan as the fictitious Battle of Cider Ridge is staged by a troupe of 300 blue and gray garbed performers during the Four Flags Area Apple Festival in Niles, October 5-8. You can try your hand at the questionable art of seed popping and enjoy hot coffee and fresh apple pie in the apple tent.

Anyone not wearing red in Cedar Springs on October 7 may run the risk of arrest by the Keystone Cops during the town's Red Flannel Day.

It all started back in the winter of '36 when a New York feature writer bemoaned the fact that there were no red flannel long Johns available for insulation against the cold winter. The Cedar Springs newspaper replied that their town's stores were well supplied even if Saks Fifth Avenue was not, and Cedar Springs was on the map.

Three years later the town set aside a special day to honor the "drop seated" undergarments and the tradition has continued through the years.

Red flannel weather is not too far off, but before it arrives you're invited to attend Michigan's annual autumnal spectacular. Some choice seats for the show are aboard the motor ship Beaver Islander for a color cruise on Lake Charlevoix.

Cruise dates are October 7-8 and 14 from Charlevoix, and you must make reservations. If you prefer to go by land and "captain" your own automobile, guided Color Tours of Gladwin County are scheduled for October 14-15 from Gladwin.

Many areas of the state will have marked color tour routes.

Greenfield Village recreates the way the crop was harvested in days gone by, and the good times that went with it, during Autumn

Harvest Weekend, October 6-8, while the Fall Festival in Clinton features crafts from yesteryear October 6-8.

Ethnic food booths, arts, crafts and two parades perk up the Festival of the Forks in Albion, October 7, and Bellaire heralds the fall colors at its Autumn Festival with Paul Bunyan Days lumber demonstrations and contests.

Another way to enjoy the autumn air is at the Oktoberfest in Big Rapids, October 1. The festival comes complete with German bands, dancing, and German food, beer and wine.

The Coldwater Historic Homes Tour, October 15, offers a smorgasbord of 19th Century architecture, enhanced with stained glass windows, stately staircases and impressive woodwork. In conjunction with the tour, the Antique Car Club will provide a shuttle service for those desiring to travel from house to house in vintage style.

Behind the footlights, Kevin McCarthy portrays our 33rd president in "Give 'Em Hell, Harry" at Michigan State University October 3, and America's Goodwill Ambassador, Pearl Bailey, speaks at Whiting Auditorium in Flint, October 17. Center for the Arts, Midland, presents "Sound of Music" October 20-22 and 26-28; and the Music Hall, Detroit will swell with the melodies of "Showboat," October 27-29 and 31.

Feeling pretty discouraged with the work his new secretary was getting out, the boss decided to test her intelligence. "Did you ever hear of Harding?"

"No."
"Hoover?"
"No."
"Lincoln?"
"Is his last name Nebraska?"

They were rather late in starting for the station and his wife said, "You run ahead, dear, and hold the train."
"Yeh!" he answered sarcastically, "and what particular hold would you like me to use — the headlock, scissors or hair-nelson?"

GROUND BREAKING CEREMONIES for the Ronald McDonald House at Children's Hospital of Michigan in the Detroit Medical Center were held recently. The Ronald McDonald House is a 20-family home-away-from-home for families with children being treated for cancer, leukemia, and other serious illnesses at Children's Hospital of Michigan.

The 10,000 square foot, $500,000 structure will be owned and operated by the Children's Oncology Services of Michigan, Inc. (COSOM), a non-profit group formed for that specific purpose and made up primarily of parents of children who have been treated at Children's Hospital.

Present at the ground breaking ceremonies were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Katz, Walled Lake McDonald's owner-operators; Ronald McDonald, and Dr. Jack H. Hertzler, president of COSOM.

Ronald McDonald House will serve families from throughout the state. Principal funding will be by owners-operators of McDonald's Restaurants from the entire lower peninsula of Michigan who have pledged $300,000 over a three-year period.

The home will enable families to live together in a home environment and to gain strengths and share experiences with other families staying there while their children are being treated. Occupancy is scheduled for the summer of 1979.

THE MAGIC PAN CREPERIE, which originated in San Francisco, has opened at the Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi. The Magic Pan is a unique restaurant which offers a variety of more than two dozen entree and dessert crepes for lunch, dinner, and weekend brunch.

The name of the restaurant is taken from the patented wheel, holding upside down crepe pans, that rotates over a gas flame. Each pan is dipped in batter and placed on the rotating wheel. After one revolution, the crepe is perfectly cooked and ready for a variety of fillings.

The thin delicate entree crepes are filled with beef, chicken, seafood and other hearty fare. For dessert, the crepes include fresh fruit and ice cream, covered with tempting sauces.

Salads and soups are popular complements to the luncheon or dinner entrees. Fine house wines and cocktails are also available.

The Magic Pan has a decor reminiscent of an elegant European country inn with beamed ceilings, brick walls, and polished wood floors. The informal atmosphere is enhanced with fresh daisies on every table, an abundance of live greenery, colorful fabrics, and hand-some antiques.

The new restaurant will be open seven days a week, serving favorite entree and dessert crepes, soups and salads, wines and cocktails.

The Twelve Oaks Magic Pan is the fifth in the Detroit area. The other are located at the Fairlane Town Center in Dearborn, the Somerset Mall in Troy, Lakeside in Sterling Heights, and the Renaissance Center in Detroit.

Kenneth J. Trapasso has been appointed manager of the Twelve Oaks Magic Pan. Trapasso served most recently as manager of the Lakeside Magic Pan.

Editor's Note: Johanna Cafolla enjoyed Charles Hutton's poem, "Arf! Arf!" on some of the old comic strips and characters. It served to jog her memory into recalling some more. This poem is directed to Charles Hutton... perhaps he remembers:

"JOTS"

(To Charles Hutton)

*As the world is ever-changing
Day by day and year by year
There's a bit of ol' nostalgia
For these things which disappear.*

*"Arf! Arf!" brought back some memories
And some sentiment, 'tis true,
But when we start recalling "comics"
I have a few for you.*

*Let's go back to "Smokey Stover"
And the "Toonerville Trolley" then Bet you forgot "Ella Cinders"
And her crowd a way back when.*

*"Napoleon and Uncle Elby" was My favorite for a while
And "Red Ryder and Little Beaver"
Very often brought a smile.*

With "Princess Minnehaha" fair?
Then they changed it to "Steve Roper"
With his pal "Mike Nomad" there.*

*We always read "The Phantom"
And we flew with "Smilin' Jack"
"Li'l Abner" was so "country"
And we pitied poor "Sad Sack".*

*The one which seemed to set the stage
For the "Sci-Fi" of today
Was the spaceship man "Buck Rogers" Thrilling kids in every way.*

*There's one more that I can think of (Tho' I racked my brain till looney)
'Tis the interesting adventures
Of a gal named "Annie Rooney".*

*With your sentiments on the "funnies"
I do heartily concur
For the modern ones we have today Cannot beat the ones which "were".*

Johanna M. Cafolla

A Monkey Called Work

It seems that when I have nothing to say and when my memory has gone astray or I can't decide about deciding because I'm scared and feel like hiding there are chores I've left undone in pursuit of having fun

Sam Paco

Night Life-(in "free verse")

*Beside my pad is a little black bug.
He is darting in all directions,
Fast, for him, with invisible legs.*

*Wonder where he came from, and why,
At this time of night.
Off a plant, maybe.
What's he do besides explore
This kitchen table in these wee hours—
At three a.m.?*

*He may wonder the same about me.
But he seems to have a purpose;
Appears to be going somewhere
If he can find his way.*

Except trying to get sleepy.
Too much coffee.*

Charles E. Hutton

Haunt Hunt

Respeak the white-tails you've jumped long ago.
Hear ancient hound music and cold track it new.
Relive old magic on yesteryear's snow.*

*Search past worked out uplands for thrills you can flush.
Resight the ringnecks and partridge long shot.
Recycle Octobers, Novembers, no rush.
Revisit cover no game for the pot.*

By WARREN M. HOYT

With recent certification of three more initiative ballot proposals and the Legislature's adoption of two additional questions, it has become even more imperative that voters prepare themselves before entering the voting booth on November 7.

Besides statewide elections, legislative and local issues, voters will be asked to decide no fewer than 11 proposals, nine of which amend the state constitution.

The proposals will widely vary, but the questions which will undoubtedly draw the most attention are the tax questions — Headlee tax limitation and Tisch property tax cut.

ballot proposals is as follows:

PROPOSAL A: Whether a new constitutional convention should be called. As a result of the ratification of the current state constitution, in 1962, voters are automatically asked every 16 years whether a new convention should be called to completely rewrite the document. Recent estimates indicate a convention could cost taxpayers as much as $10 million.

PROPOSAL B: An initiated act by Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson, this proposal requires that persons convicted of crimes serve a minimum sentence before they are eligible for bail or parole. This would not amend the constitution but initiate and enact a new statute attempting to guarantee persons convicted of a crime will serve a prison sentence and not be able to plea bargain and avoid any formal punishment.

PROPOSAL C: A proposal to allow the state to make deposits in banks, savings and loans, and credit unions. The amendment would increase options of the disposal of officials responsible for investment of public funds and allow officials to seek out competitive or advantageous rates of interest, regardless of the type of institution.

PROPOSAL D: To return the legal drinking age to 21. The Legislature has already enacted law to change the age from 18 to 19, but the so-called Coalition for 21 said that law does not go far enough and now, following circulation of petitions, voters will have the final say.

PROPOSAL E: One of the hot tax-oriented issues. The Headlee tax limitation amendment would limit increases in state spending to actual increases in personal income. Voters will have to pay particular attention to this proposal as it will be hotly debated over the next few weeks. Proponents argue the proposal will finally place a check on frivolous spending by government while opponents say it would actually provide no tax relief, freeze into place the unfair property tax system and limit flexibility of government to respond to demonstrated but unanticipated needs.

PROPOSAL G: Giving state police troopers collective bargaining rights.

PROPOSAL H: The so-called Voucher Plan, this proposal would remove school financing from local property tax efforts. It would raise school revenues through other taxes and issue vouchers to all parents which could be redeemed at the school of the parents' choice — either public or private.

PROPOSAL J: The Tisch property tax cut proposal slicing tax assessments in half. This will be another hotly debated issue as taxpayers will get a shot at protesting, increasing property taxes, but opponents will argue it will be an unfair tax shift to the income tax and the main benefactor will be business and industrial properties.

PROPOSAL K: Another shot tough on crime issue, voters will be asked to remove the right of bail for repeat offenders of serious crimes in an effort to get the repeat offender off the streets.

PROPOSAL M: Part of the overall transportation package, this proposal officially changes the name of the state department to the Department of Transportation and creates a distribution formula for road and transportation funds.

PROPOSAL R: Provides for the creation of a railroad redevelopment authority and the issuance of up to $175 million in revenue bonds to rebuild the railroads in the state.

About covered bridges, waterwheels and mills ...

The creaking sound of waterwheels and the echo of horses' hooves against hand-hewn timbers still can be heard in Michigan's mills and covered bridges, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

Products from livestock feed to tangy apple cider continue to be produced by mills scattered throughout Lower Michigan while a few have been converted to other uses, including a theater and a restaurant.

Although more than a century old, some of the covered bridges listed by Auto Club still carry light vehicles. Others have only recently been built as part of parks, picnic areas and resorts.

The tiny community of Ada near Grand Rapids is home of the 125-foot Ada Bridge, which in 1867 was the first to span the Thornapple River. It now is open to foot traffic only.

Visitors to Fallasburg Bridge park north of Lowell will see a 100-foot structure built in 1871 across the Flat River.

And, just two miles north, a roadside table near White's Bridge is a favorite stop for picnickers and photography buffs. The 116-foot span was built with wooden pegs and hand-cut nails in 1869 and carries auto traffic across the Flat River.

At 282 feet, Langley Bridge on the St. Joseph River near Centerville is the state's longest covered span. Constructed in 1887, it, too, can be driven by auto and seen from a nearby riverside park.

Those wishing to photograph the 46-year-old Morris Bridge, a 40-foot-long structure on private property near Niles, must call (616-683-3329) a week in advance.

Five other bridges are of more recent construction. Newest is at Bay Valley Inn near Bay City. Until 1972, when sides and roof were installed, the 72-foot structure was a railroad bridge.

Alpena County's 60-foot-long Fletcher Park Bridge near Long Rapids was built in 1968 with hemlock timbers from the park's own groves.

Tourists can feed goats, deer and elephants and see other animals at King's Animaland near Richmond in Southeast Michigan, where a 20-foot covered bridge was built over the Salt River in 1965.

Reserved for golfers, the covered bridge on Detroit's Belle Isle Golf Course can be seen from the island's Oakwood Drive. The 70-foot span was built in 1913 of wood and concrete.

The only covered structure not original to Michigan is the 146-year-old Ackley Bridge in Dearborn's Greenfield Village (313-271-1620). Moved from Pennsylvania in 1937, it is used by the Village's horse-drawn carriages as well as persons on foot.

The Village also is home of what may be the oldest mill in America. The Cape Cod Windmill, moved there in 1936, was built in the early- to mid-1600s and is one of a dozen mills on display.

The oldest state business on its original site is Manchester's E. G. Mann & Sons Feed Mill (313-428-7077). Tours of this water-powered mill must be arranged in advance.

Holland's Windmill Island is the site of a 200-year-old Dutch windmill still grinding flour that visitors may purchase.

In fall, tangy apple cider is enjoyed by visitors to several water-driven mills. Two are in Rochester and Parshallville.

In Rochester, the historic Clinton-Kalamazoo Canal is carried over the Yates Cider Mill (313-651-8300) by a picturesque wooden flume.

Power for cider making at Tom Walker's Grist Mill (313-629-9079) near Parshallville comes from a turbine turned by water from Ore Creek.

Anglers can fish for trout alongside another Rochester-area mill, the Paint Creek Cider Mill (313-651-8361).

Other mills have been saved from the wrecking ball and are now serving a variety of other purposes.

A 90-year-old flour and grist mill at Homer now is home of True Grist Ltd. Dinner Theatre (517-568-4151). In Rockford, a mill more than 100 years old has become the Old Mill Restaurant (616-866-4306) in that city's restored Squires Street Square.

Three mills at Milan, Dundee and Tecumseh formerly were owned by auto pioneer Henry Ford and now are community centers used for meetings and senior citizen programs. The mill's waterwheel remains at Tecumseh while only the millraces are left at Milan and Dundee.

A waterwheel adorning the Ford Motor Company's Northville Valve Plant formerly powered office lighting. Although no tours are offered, visitors can feed ducks at the plant millpond.

Two mills presently under restoration can be visited at the Wolf Lake State Fish Hatchery (616-668-2147) near Mattawan and in Flint's Historic Crossroads Village (313-785-7803). Both projects should be completed in two years

Purebred winner!

Carole Milne of 54280 Eight Mile proudly displays LeNoffar, purebred five-year-old Arabian stallion that won a prestigious first place in Get of Sire Class at the half-Arabian futurity show held in Mason, Michigan, this month. Foals have included Dave's Angel owned by Wendy D'Haene; Lee's Premier owned by Laura Butler; Lee's Pepsi owned by Beth Milne; and Les Tiffany owned by Darlene Sullivan, all of the Northville area.

Autumn patchwork quilt

It's a great time to hike, bike

Leaves of bright red, yellow and gold form a patchwork quilt of autumn color that is at its vivid best on hiking trails and bike paths in city parks and urban nature centers, reports Automobile Club of Michigan.

Animals at the state's many fine municipal zoos can be a little friskier with the arrival of autumn's cooler temperatures. Arboretums, scenic gardens and island parks within city limits or easily accessible to urban dwellers become a riot of color at this time of year.

The Detroit Zoo is a lush, wooded sanctuary for people and animals alike. Visitors in autumn will find the colorful fall foliage an attractive backdrop for photographing some 500 species of mammals, including the largest collection of polar bears in captivity.

Lansing's Potter Zoo on the banks of the Red Cedar River is another favorite spot for all color watchers, while visitors to Clinch Park Zoo at Traverse City see not only animals native to Michigan but also beautiful Grand Traverse Bay — at its sparkling best.

Deer, timber wolves, coyotes, bear cubs and a bobcat are the animal attractions at the zoo on Marquette's Presque Isle Park. Perhaps an even bigger lure is the riot of color awaiting motorists on a drive through the heavily forested peninsula jutting into Lake Superior.

At the 90-acre Fernwood Inc., near Niles, visitors who take the half-mile, 45-minute, self-guided nature trail can see 88 different ferns, a rock and bog garden and native trees in varying hues of crimson and gold.

Ann Arbor's Nichols Arboretum is a 138-acre tract of land situated along the Huron River in the center of town, and a winding trail leads hikers through lush foliage of rainbow colors.

Five miles of self-guided nature trails await fall color watchers at the Carl G. Fenner Arboretum in Lansing, where all the trees are labeled for easy identification. Battle Creek's Leila Arboretum contains not only native Michigan trees but many rare plantings on its 205-acre tract.

Combine fall color viewing with bird watching at the Wildfowl Sanctuary in Alpena, where a nickel buys corn from a machine to feed the ducks. Kensington Metropark near Milford is a photographer's dream. Its scenic overlooks capture a panorama of Canada geese swooping gracefully over lakes bordered by foliage in glorious color.

Two well-known Michiganders are responsible for the lush gardens which are among the state's most famous. The Gardens of Cranbrook surround the family home of publisher George G. Booth in Bloomfield Hills, near Pontiac. Dow Gardens at Midland were started in 1899 by Dow Chemical Co. founder Herbert H. Dow.

Some city-owned island parks give visitors a chance to combine fall color viewing with ship-watching. Belle Isle in the Detroit River and Ojibway Island in the Saginaw River are tree-lined with paths for walking and benches for sitting while watching giant freighters or pleasure boats pass.

Best color viewing in Michigan this year will be Sept. 22 to Oct. 15 in the Upper Peninsula and in the Lower Peninsula north of a line from Ludington to Standish. Advancing south to a line from Muskegon to Port Huron, fall color is at its peak in Michigan's mid-section Oct. 6-22. Extreme southern Michigan will have its best color viewing Oct. 13-22.

The fall color schedule was earlier the past couple of years because of lengthy summer dry spells, but with better rainfall last spring it is almost back on target.

Rain — or the lack of it — plays a major role in fall color. Chlorophyll, one of the many kinds of coloring matter in trees, makes it possible for trees to absorb energy from sunlight and turn carbon dioxide and water into sugars and starches. It is those sugars that help create the trees' colorful pigments.

Chlorophyll keeps leaves green but with less water in the soil, less of the chemical forms, allowing the other colorful pigments to take over.

Three vintage homes among five to be open on Northville tour from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Thursday

Five homes and a Victorian house that now is a real estate office will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. this Thursday on Northville's 12th annual home tour co-sponsored by Northville Historical Society and the Women's Association of First Presbyterian Church.

Tour tickets will be available at the Mill Race Village off Griswold Street near Main the morning of the tour. They are $3.50.

Village Needlepoint, Four Seasons, Edie's, Et-Cetera Shop and Claire Kelly's in Northville have advance sale tickets. They are available in South Lyon at David's Head Start Salon.

One of the oldest homes on Sheldon Road, located on the hill just south of Northville Downs race track, will be included in this year's tour. Now owned by artist Mary Beth Baxter and her husband, Donald, it is furnished with antiques.

Visitors will see Mrs. Baxter's outstanding collection of baskets displayed throughout the home. In the kitchen they hang from open rafters. The family's old toy collection also will be on view.

A brass and iron bed and a distinctive French marble-top antique dressing table are features of the master bedroom. A footed tub has been retained in the adjacent bath.

In Cabbagetown, an early Northville name for the area off Center north of Main, the home of the Donald Fees will be open. Mrs. Fee, a weaver, also will have her studio, located behind the house, open. In tribute to the country of Mrs. Fee's birth, the family room ceiling boasts a painted British flag.

Flowers will bloom in every room of the Jack Smith home in Northville Commons. He is a florist and also has decorated with plant clusters. A clock collection is displayed in the family room.

Decorating scaled to a condominium will be viewed at the Lexington condominium of the Kenneth Clums. The Clums, who moved back to Northville from retirement in Florida, will be displaying his shell pictures as well as the charming shore birds he whittles in his basement workshop.

The Center Street real estate office of James Cutler, often noticed for its Victorian details, is to be open. The yellow-painted building is noted for its porches decorated with baskets of hanging plants.

Tour chairman Cheryl Gazlay suggests a walking route in the downtown area if the day is pleasant.

Tour visitors may park in the Northville Square or Main Street parking lots and walk west on Main to the Pa-

Registration for the classes, which also include basketry, chair caning, genealogy, quilting and weaving, is being held in the Mill Race during the home tour and from 1-4 p.m. Sunday; or Mary Jane Brugeman, 349-2659, may be called.

ANTIQUE—This tall case clock with distinctive shell inlay will greet visitors to the Louis Paquette home on West Main.

A MINIATURE—This dollhouse in the pink and white bedroom of Susan Paquette will be one of two on view in homes open during the 12th annual Northville Home Tour this Thursday. There's another in the family room of the Donald Baxter home where old toys also are displayed.

Grandparents welcome six babies—all 'firsts'

By JEAN DAY

Despite those zero population statistics, Northville area families seem to be in the midst of a baby boom — and nobody's happier than the proud grandparents.

Elizabeth Lee, first child of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Edwards of Yarmouth Port, Massachusetts, was named for her two grandmothers. Mrs. Edwards is the former Joyce Stoddard of Northville. The baby was born August 24 and weighed seven pounds, six ounces.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Warren Stoddard of Northville and Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Edwards of Central Lake. Great-grandmother is Mrs. Ellen Patton of Asheville, North Carolina. The Stoddards had visited in August and Mrs. Stoddard hurried back to see her granddaughter.

Joyce Edwards, she reports, intends to continue the yarn shop she opened in April, 1977, in Barnstable, on Cape Cod. Called Madame LeFarge, after the knitter in Tale of Two Cities, it features special knitted designs, needlepoint and imported yarns that are unusual, Mrs. Stoddard says. The young businesswoman, a former legal secretary in Boston, "just loves the shop" and first became interested in artistic design in Roy Pedersen's Northville High art classes.

Brooke's a first daughter, too

Brooke Hayward Heckaman's the first child of Mrs. Lare Heckaman, the former Penny Scantlin, and her husband, who live in Indiana. She was born September 7 in Elkhart General Hospital and weighed six pounds, 15 ounces. Mrs. Barbara Scantlin of Northville and Jack Scantlin of Ypsilanti are maternal grandparents. Paternal ones are Mr. and Mrs. Ivo Heckaman of Nappanee, Indiana.

The mother-to-be was honored recently at a shower given by Mrs. Scantlin's friends, Anne Pyett and Mary Esther Fountain, here. Mrs. Scantlin is delighted that she will be seeing quite a bit of her new granddaughter as she has purchased an 1837 Greek Revival-style home in Syracuse, Indiana, and is in the process of restoring it. This summer she has been an herb expert on the staff of Greenfield Village-Henry Ford Museum. She's also teaching wreath and corn-husk doll making in the fall workshops being sponsored by Northville Historical Society.

He's David Riley

David Riley Horsfall also is a first. He's the new son of Mr. and Mrs. David Horsfall of Farmington Hills. She is the former Karen Skinner. The baby was born September 17 with a weight of six pounds, 11 ounces.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Owen Horsfall and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Skinner, all of Northville, and maternal great-grandmother is Mrs. Geraldine Peters of Houghton Lake.

Jason Timothy's welcomed

Tim and Sue McMann of Highland Lakes are parents of a first son, Jason Timothy, born September 2 with a weight of seven pounds, 12 ounces. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Jack McMann of Northville and maternal ones are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Heinzen of Wilmette, Illinois, formerly of Farmington Township.

Grandmother Carol McMann has been involved with the annual fall fashion show at Meadowbrook Country Club for which she is co-chairman with Nancy Blay. The show, "Harvests of Fashions," by Chudiks of Birmingham will be presented at a luncheon for members and guests October 5. Members, including Mary Ann De Mattio, Joan Roth and Barbara Chenot of Northville, will be models.

Fondes have a new Henry

Benjamin Henry Fonde was born September 16 to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry Fonde of Indianapolis. He is their first child and weighed eight pounds, three ounces at birth. Mrs. Fonde is the former Linda Coe of Northville.

Visiting them this week is the baby's paternal grandmother, Mrs. Henry Fonde. The Fondes recently moved from West Main to a condominium on Washington Circle in Lexington Condos. The proud grandfather reports that this is the fourth generation Fonde baby boy to bear the name Henry, although the new parents broke with tradition to add the name Benjamin.

Maternal grandmother is Mrs. Charles Lawther of Allen Drive. The baby also has a great-grandmother on each side of the family.

Tahnee Wright's visiting

Dr. and Mrs. Dexter Wond of Kailua, Hawaii, were due in Tuesday with their two-month-old daughter, Tahnee, for a visit with her parents, former Northville Township Supervisor Lawrence Wright and Mrs. Wright of Fairway III Drive. Mrs. Wong and the baby will be here until October 18.

Birds of a Feather sale

Mill Race Weavers' Guild will hold a juried show and sale at the Mill Race September 28-29 with 20 guild artists displaying creations on their interpretation of "Birds of a Feather." Clothing, wall hangings and decorative items will be on view and for sale from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. both days.

When selecting new curtains, think of the likes and dislikes of others in your family. This of course, is in addition to consideration of color coordination for the entire room. Each, for example, may like a particular color. All the favorite colors may go well together and this simplifies the problem. The whole family may like a patterned fabric of those colors for the living room. Dislikes should not be ignored either. Have accurate measurements when buying or having curtains made. Hardware should be installed before the measurements are taken. Use a yardstick, a folding rule, or a steel tape for measuring.

When thinking of decorating your home, think of us first at GREEN'S CREATIVE HOME CENTER, 107 N. Center St., 349-7110. We carry quality major paints—FULLER O'BRIEN PAINTS, wallcoverings, custom-made window shades, woven woods, etc. Here you will find a full line of unpainted furniture too. At GREEN'S, we are more interested in helping our customers decorate their homes beautifully and in good taste, than in just selling merchandise. We are open from 9 until 5 daily and Thurs. & Fri. until 9. Master Charge and VISA welcome.

HANDY HINT: Wooden poles with rings often serve well for curtain hardware, and can be cut to size when you move.

Hours—Mon.-Tues.-Wed.-Sat. 9-5; Thurs.-Fri. 9-9

Be sure to stop in and visit the YANKEE CARPENTER in our Lower Level. He has QUALITY UNFINISHED desks, rockers, chairs, plant stands, wall hangings and much more.

Church supper leads off homecoming

For many years, two traditions have added to the excitement of the homecoming football game at Northville High — the pre-game parade and the community pancake supper at First Presbyterian Church.

Thomas Curl, president of the Presbyterian Men's Club which serves the supper at the church, stresses that "everybody's invited" to come to the pancake, sausage, applesauce treat. James Cowie is in charge and promises that serving will begin promptly at 5 p.m. and continue next Friday until 7 p.m.

At that time families find viewing vantage points along Main and Center streets for the parade of floats and cars carrying the homecoming queen and her court.

In this year's game Northville Varsity is playing Walled Lake Western at 8 p.m. on October 6.

Art auction's for good cause

In addition to helping a good cause, there's the opportunity to win an appealing painting of an old lighthouse at the benefit art auction being given for Growth Works at 8 p.m. this Thursday in the Mayflower Meeting House in Plymouth.

Growth Works helps both senior citizens and youth in the area, explains auction chairman Nancy Petrocelli.

Donation for the event is $2.50 with tickets to be on sale at the door or at the Pendleton Shop, Green Thumb or Hillside Inn.

Presented by Classic Studio of Utica, the auction will feature local and international artists and will include sculpture, original oils, lithographs, water colors and etchings.

There will be a preview at 7 p.m. before the auction.

Carolyn Kugler of Northville gets assist from daughter, Kristen, 7, in setting up library display

Depression Glass Society to hold annual show here

If you have a piece of clear glass a relative may have given you, saying it was "Heisey" or "Fostoria," or if you bought a pretty pair of pink glass candlesticks at a garage sale and would like to know more about them, the Michigan Depression Glass Society is offering the opportunity.

The society's sixth annual show and sale is being held at Waterman Center on Schoolcraft College campus Saturday and Sunday, October 14-15, from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. each day.

Anyone interested in depression era glass is welcome to attend, says Carolyn Kugler, an active member of the society and a Northville resident.

"It's really an opportunity," she feels, for learning about colorful glass manufactured in this country. The $1.25 donation entitles anyone to bring pieces to be identified.

Judith Olert, a representative of the Fostoria Glass Company, will be on hand to talk about Fostoria and to show movies and slides. She also will have literature about the company and its glass.

Nora Koch, editor of the Daze newspaper, national depression glass purchasing newspaper, will be present.

Twenty-five dealers from Michigan and from the east and south, including New York State, will have booths, Mrs. Kugler reports. In addition to 10 outstate dealers there will be five local dealers, members of the society, who will have booths.

A new feature is a members' booth at which society members will have glass for sale. All pieces, Mrs. Kugler stresses, will be in good condition and unchipped. There is to be an opportunity for area residents interested to join the group which meets in Livonia.

The society recently presented the Northville Public Library with a copy of the book "Fostoria — the First 50 Years," by Hazel Marie Weatherman.

Mrs. Kugler, who has copies of the author's books, points out that she is considered the authority for this type of glass.

"It's an all-glass show — with no pottery and no china," she notes emphatically.

The society has arranged that the college will have the cafeteria open both days so that those attending can spend time at the exhibits and that the workers will not have to leave to eat.

To help promote the Michigan Depression Glass Society show here and illustrate examples of depression glass contained in the book, Mrs. Kugler has filled the exhibit case at the Northville Public Library with pieces from her own collection.

She joined the society in January of 1977 and has been an enthusiastic collector.

The society itself was formed in 1972 by a group of the glass collectors to educate, assist and encourage other glass collectors, and to aid in the preservation of depression glass.

It recently has needed little help in preservation as the pink, blue, green, clear and even black glass has been discovered by many.

Collectors, Mrs. Kugler points out, differentiate between glass produced by mechanized glass companies and that produced by hand work companies, such as Cambridge, Heisey and Fostoria.

Mrs. Kugler emphasizes that the mass-produced cheap glassware is generally known as depression glass while the work of other companies specializing in finer quality, handmade glass is known as depression era glass. This is what will be displayed at the show.

While many depression peices came as premiums with cereal in the 1930's, not all glass was a "give-away," she states.

Fine items available range from delicate stemware and matching dinner sets to candlesticks and console bowls.

League to discuss ballot at Meads Mill meeting

Eleven ballot issues will be discussed at the League of Women Voters, Plymouth, Northville, Novi and Canton, meeting on Wednesday, October 4, at 7:30 p.m. at Mead's Mill School:

Should the drinking age be raised from 18 to 21?

Should bail be denied to certain "career criminals" or repeat offenders?

a minimum sentence before becoming eligible for parole?

Should a new constitutional convention be called to rewrite Michigan's basic laws, last revised in 1963?

Should property taxes be cut by half, while allowing a one percentage point increase in the state income tax? (Tisch Amendment)

Should we eliminate the use of property taxes for financing schools and provide for state funding of public and private schools? (the voucher plan)

These are some of the questions voters will be asking themselves.

The League, as a part of its Financing and Government Services Study, will be discussing the pros and cons of issues that Michigan voters will decide in the November election.

The Public is invited and encouraged to come.

PTA-PTSA

Council announces new 'awareness' program

Editors note: This column of PTA-PTSA news is compiled monthly during the school year by volunteer Marge Ercoli.

PTA/PTSA COUNCIL NEWS

Council welcomes Lawrence Nichols to our community as the new superintendent of schools. We also welcome all other new school personnel and send a welcome to the teachers, administrators, school secretaries, parents, and, most of all, the children. The main goal of the council is to support our families, teachers and school officials, and to help strengthen and unite all of us to better provide a growing environment for all of our children.

In keeping with this, these are some of the more specific projects we have planned:

Awareness program in the general meetings to cover a variety of areas asked for by council.

Invitation to the SEP parents to join us; a closer working association would benefit all of us.

A program of enrichment developed by the Junior Entertainment Committee to provide additional experience in the arts.

Last week the council hosted a luncheon for principals and supervisors of the district. It was good to say hello to everyone and exchange ideas for the school year.

Thank you to Marge Ercoli for having this function in her home, and thanks to Glenda Buist, Mary Anne Russell, Sue Foster and everyone else who helped to make the occasion so successful.

Dolores Yanover
Council President

MEADS MILL

Meads Mill PTSA board held its first meeting of the year September 20. At the annual open house following on September 26 parents were urged to support the PTSA. Memberships now are available. The school and children benefit from funds brought in by this organization.

Bagel sales soon are to begin during lunch hour.

A teacher appreciation luncheon will be given by the PTSA October 20.

Ben Warner, expert in the field of alcohol and its abuse, will conduct a workshop for parents and students at Meads Mill from 8-10 p.m. Wednesday, October 25. Cooke parents and students will be attending also.

Boys' football teams and girls' basketball team have started practice, and are looking forward to an exciting season. Seventh grade cheerleaders were to be chosen last Monday.

Judy Wissman

COOKE JUNIOR HIGH

The Cooke PTA Board held its first meeting September 19. Bagel sales, starting this Thursday, will be the main fund raiser again this year. Our next board meeting will be at 1:30 p.m. October 17.

The Cooke Open House tentatively is scheduled for tonight. A letter has been sent to each child's parents giving all the information.

Parent-Teacher conferences are scheduled for October 11 and 12. The next curriculum day is October 20, with classes being held in the a.m.

Aside from the new faces of the seventh graders, there are many new teachers. The math department has (Mr.) Jan Janigan and Donna Todd, while the science department has Larry Martin and William Dicks. In the language department there is Gail McDonald teaching French and German and John Campbell is handling the learning disabilities.

Upcoming sporting events: The ninth grade football team will meet East Hills today at 7 p.m. at East Hills.

The seventh/eighth grade team will play Meads Mill at home at 3:30 p.m. today.

The girls' basketball team will begin its season Friday with an away game against Meads Mill at 3:15 p.m.

AMERMAN

Students at Amerman were eagerly welcomed back to school by the faculty September 6. New teachers joining in the welcome were James Honey, sixth grade; Edith Pegrum, art; Mary Kay Markovich, soon to become Mrs. Price, fourth, fifth and sixth grade music.

The new PTA board held its first meeting September 18 with Cindy LaChance and Pat Baird as co-presidents; Stacey Morgano, vice-president; Shair Clason secretary; Jan Bayley, treasurer; and teacher vice-president, Pat Lyons.

The first traveling school board meeting of the school year was held at Amerman Monday.

An open house, an annual event at Amerman, was September 26. Parents again had the opportunity to meet the teachers and see the classrooms during the evening. Lawrence Nichols, superintendent of Northville schools, spoke and installed new officers.

Plans and ideas are being formulated for the pancake supper at 5:30 p.m. October 18. Roseene Richcreek will again be chairing this successful event held each year.

It is planned to have the library open again for a Book Fair.

Parents who attended the PTA lecture and those who might have missed it by Sister Karen Hawver on the Goals of Children's Misbehavior, will be delighted to learn that Sister Karen will be giving a series of six lectures at the Our Lady of Victory Social Hall.

For details watch the Northville Record or call Cindy LaChance at 348-9077.

MORaine

The new school year has begun very smoothly. Our new PTA officers energetically are planning many fun activities.

New officers for 1978-79 are Shari Daniels, president; Chris Gala, vice-president; Carolyn Abramovich, recorder; ding secretary; Michelle Buelow, corresponding secretary; and Sue Todd, treasurer.

Tomorrow night, September 28, at 7:30 p.m., we will be having open house. All parents are invited to come to meet the teachers and the new board, and also become a member of PTA.

Plans are underway for our room mothers' luncheon October 4 and a pancake supper October 26. More details on this next month.

Carol Abramovich

SILVER SPRINGS

New officers for Silver Springs PTSA Board want to welcome back students and staff and to introduce ourselves:

Co-presidents, John and Judy Hollingsworth; vice president, Ellen Louis; secretary, Donna Veil; treasurer, Mary Alice Lazar; and teacher representative, Lynne Sherman.

As usual we have been busy this summer setting up various activities which we hope will make a fun year for everyone.

Our first special event was the "New Parent's Tea" September 19. This Tea gave the new parents a chance to meet the PTSA Board, the staff and Nancy Fieldman, principal.

Other events being planned are:

Our open house-potluck supper for the first week of October, which everyone enjoys.

Instead of the Annual Christmas Bazaar, we will have a new "Children's Shopping Day," December 1, which will enable children to shop for reasonably priced gifts for parents, or friends, or themselves.

The new year will start out with a pancake supper/garage and bake sale.

For those who enjoyed the swim and roller skating nights last year more of the same this year.

The Science Fair that did so well last year promises even to be better this year.

The Big Fun Fair will round out the year's activities.

Donna Viel

WINCHESTER

Winchester Elementary School welcomes students, teachers and parents back into the swing of school schedules, bell systems and PTA meetings.

Our incumbent president, Bette Lynn Nowka, incumbent vice-president, Lee Baumann; secretary, Judy Kramer; and treasurer, Anne Guldberg; are off to a terrific year.

The first month of the 78-79 school year has been a flurry of activity. The calendar included a parent coffee, and a room mothers' tea. The third, fourth and sixth graders have experienced two weeks of scholastic testing.

Membership chairman Sue Siegert is heading up a super successful membership drive this year. Sue will be selling membership into our PTA at the open house to be held this Thursday, in the multi-purpose room.

It is at this open house that Principal Milton Jacobi welcomes new families to Winchester and introduces the faculty to the community.

The staff includes five additional members. They are Donna Jennings, second grade teacher; Gary Hukka, fifth grade teacher; Donna Hicks and Cynthia Henders, who are with the E.M.I. department; and Joanne Coligan, teacher consultant.

The kindergarten classes will be going on a fantastic field trip October 2 to McDonald's. Everyone is geared for a great year and enjoying the activities.

Northville Senior Citizens will be attending their last ball game of the season Saturday when the Tigers play Boston.

Scouts plan car wash

First activity of Northville's newest Girl Scout troop, a group of 16 Cadettes, will be a car wash this Saturday being held from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in the Main Street parking lot across from Northville Square.

Leader Dorothy Sanders is hoping for a nice fall day and lots of customers so that the girls "will have a treasury."

The new Cadette troop, which has not yet been assigned a number, meets at Mrs. Sander's home on Eaton Drive and is composed of eight Junior High girls.

Mizpah Circle to meet

Mizpah Circle, King's Daughters, will have a business meeting at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday, October 3, at Northville United Methodist Church.

The Wayne County King's Daughters convention is being held again this year at First Presbyterian Church of Northville October 16.

Coffee will be served at 9:30 a.m. The meeting is to convene at 10 a.m.

Luncheon reservations may be made with Lena Hammond, 349-1039.

OLV parish plans mission week

Our Lady of Victory parish is sponsoring a mission during the week of October 7-13. Theme of the week will be renewal, which, the church points out, is a key word in the church since the time of Pope John XXIII and the promise of the Lord in the Book of Revelations: "Behold I will make all things new."

There will be reflections on the love of the Father, the mission of Jesus Christ, reconciliation, forgiveness, healing within marriage and family, as well as personal healing, and practical guides to develop everyday prayer life.

The mission will be directed by Father Jim Burke, O.P., and Father George DePrizio, C.S.C.

Father Burke has just returned from India and Pakistan and has been involved full time in missions and retreat work since 1971. Father DePrizio has been serving full time in the renewal ministry since 1970. He has gained international recognition as a speaker and retreat director and is well known to Christians of all denominations.

They will be preaching the weekend masses October 7 and 8.

Their mission talks will be at 1 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, October 9-13 at Our Lady of Victory Church.

Everyone is welcome.

Learning

Learning is something that ends with high school or college. It should be an ongoing process. At least that's the way we feel. For as long as we're privileged to serve this community, we want to go on learning new things and finding new ways to make what we do truly helpful to today's families.

Luncheons, exhibits add to home tour day

From Dunlap, tour-goers may cross Center and walk south to the Cutler office, going around the corner to the Fee home on Rayson.

Since there has been construction in the area, this could avoid much congestion, sponsors point out.

Both St. Paul's Lutheran and Northville United Methodist churches will be serving luncheon the day of the tour. Tickets may be purchased at the Mill Race the morning of the tour. The price of each is $2.50.

Methodist tickets may be reserved by calling 349-1144. Quiche Loraine is being served with rolls, beverage and dessert, Pat Eden and Shirley DeHoff, co-chairmen report.

As typical of the entire community, they add, Four Seasons Flowers called and offered to provide "a unique centerpiece."

A tradition at the Lutheran church, the menu will be Maurice salad, rolls, beverages and dessert.

A feature here will be some of Jo Krause's quilt collection on display.

In the Mill Race Village the Northville Historical Society will be holding a bake sale. Breads, cakes, pies and brownies will be featured, chairman Elizabeth Joslin states.

Mill Race Weavers will have a juried show and sale, "Birds of a Feather," in their brick red craft building in the village. Twenty artists' work will be displayed, both the day of the tour and the day following from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Clothing, wall hangings and decorative items will be for sale.

Docents meet

Northville Mill Race Docents who have been guiding visitors through the Mill Race Village's historical buildings from 1-4 p.m. Sundays and on specially scheduled tours will have a general meeting at 1 p.m. Sunday, October 8, in the village's New School Church.

Docents not able to attend should call Sharon Lineman, 349-6679.

HILLTOP ACRES—The antique filled home of the Donald Baxters at the crest of the Sheldon Road hill south of Northville Downs has been painted and decorated throughout by its new owners. Mrs. Baxter's pillow collection graces the living room, as well as other areas of the home.

Shrine smorgasbord set

Everything's homemade at the annual smorgasbord dinner planned by the Ladies of the White Shrine from 5-7 p.m. this Saturday, September 30, at the Plymouth Grange Hall, 273 Union, in Plymouth.

An extensive menu includes roast turkey, Polish sausage and baked ham for the $4 for adults and $1.75 for children. Reservations may be made with Violet Bradford, 349-7222, or Juanita Smith, 422-4397.

Even if the grapes are handled the same way, each lot or group of grapes will have slightly different qualities.
