

Standing-room-only salutes opening of Marquis

A shining moment that was not only "Camelot" but an elegantly reopened Marquis Theatre (the former P & A) occurred Saturday night in Northville and was repeated Sunday.

Local residents as well as visitors turned out to fill the theater both evenings of the champagne opening.

Long before the curtain rose on the live production adapted from the legend of King Arthur and his Knights of the Round Table, new owners of the theater, Inga and J. J. Zayti, were receiving enthusiastic congratulations from city officials, business people and residents.

Bill Premin, co-producer of the musical with Andrew Henderson, stepped to the front of the stage at the conclusion, wearing his costume as the Knight Pellinore, and summed up the feeling of the first-nighters as he said, "Thank you, Inga, for wanting to restore a theater that in other places would have become a parking lot."

The musical will be repeated this Friday through Sunday and next weekend, October 27-29, at 8 p.m. with a special senior citizen matinee scheduled for Sunday, October 29, at $3.50 instead of $6.

A radiant Mrs. Zayti in rose-print black chiffon greeted the festively dressed crowds. She explained that the theater, which had its beginnings in vaudeville days, would continue to feature live theater in the future but that movies would be shown regularly beginning next month.

Among the Saturday night first-nighters was E. Ray Scott, executive director of the Michigan Council for the Arts, who represented Governor William Milliken. He said the governor still is hoping to attend one of the upcoming performances.

Other first-nighters included Northville City Mayor and Mrs. Paul Vernon.

At Monday night's council meeting the City of Northville officially extended its appreciation to the Zaytis for their restoration and reopening of the theater.

A letter composed by Mayor Vernon received the unanimous support of all council members. It expressed the city's pride and pleasure in what the Zaytis had done to the theater building and congratulated them upon the opening production of "Camelot" last Saturday evening.

The rich red carpeting of the lobby is repeated in the theater where new, plush red seats were installed just last week. Red draperies with gold ties are used in the side alcoves. Six triple-tier brass chandeliers of Williamsburg design light the theater.

Champagne opening guests also could admire the restored elegance of black walnut doors and box office. Solid brass door handles had been polished and returned to their original places on the doors.

Theater-goers had the first hint of what was ahead as they were greeted by the sight of the theater marquee itself, again illuminated with bright bulbs. The theater program announced that the marquee is one of only 36 still functioning in the United States. It and the theater date to 1925.

The production of "Camelot" with attractive sets and fresh costumes as well as its delightful singing was almost a "plus" on the opening evenings.

Budget adopted

$8.3 million for schools

A record $8.3 million Northville school budget will provide the same programs offered in the school district year ago.

But despite a 15 percent increase in revenue and a five percent drop in enrollment, there is no money to reinstate programs that were axed during the financial crisis of the early 1970s.

"There truly is nothing else we can add in there the rest of the year," Superintendent Lawrence Nichols told the school board when he presented the budget Monday night.

The budget will be the topic of a public hearing next Monday night (7:30) at Moraine Elementary School. Afterwards, the school board is expected to give it formal approval.

As recently as two weeks ago, school officials thought that increases in the millage rate, property values and the state aid formula would provide $7.9 million for the 1978-79 school year compared with $7.2 million spent last year.

But even though revised revenue estimates have raised the figure by some $400,000, Nichols said the budget was still extremely tight.

"We thought there might be some dollars left and they are not there," he said.

Much of the increased revenue, he said, is $230,000 from the state and county to finance the education of 63 mentally retarded youngsters formally educated by the intermediate school district.

Another big chunk — more than $100,000 — comes from upward revisions of state and county reimbursements for running special education programs and for anticipated higher interest rates on investments.

But Nichols added that this year's enrollment loss of 233 students will cost the district about $250,000 in state aid.

Last summer, Northville voters approved a 2.6-mill increase that provided about $460,000 to maintain current programs and purchase textbooks. Nichols said those commitments would be met.

The Northville district is in a vise-like bind because property values are increasing (from $160 million to $177 million) while enrollment continues to decline (from 4,219 students last year to 4,052 this year including about 80 new special education students).

When the state school aid formula is applied to districts in this situation, it results in the local taxpayer shouldering a larger and larger share of the financial burden.

More than 92 percent of the $1 million increase in revenues is coming from local sources, primarily in the form of higher property taxes.

City to start collecting dollar fee for bettors parking at Square

The city council Monday night approved a pay-for-parking plan for the municipal parking lot south of the Northville Square shopping mall.

Actually the new system is being introduced during the harness racing season only and between the evening hours of 6 to 9 p.m. Racing starts at Northville Downs next Monday and continues through April 7.

City Manager Steve Walters explained that the dollar parking fee is being initiated because last year racing fans filled up the 260-space lot south of Cady and between Center and Wing streets evenings from about 6:30 until midnight.

The dollar charge, which is the going price at most lots surrounding the track, may discourage some who have become accustomed to parking free at the Square lot. Even if they continue to park at the lot the city will at least realize some revenue, Walters points out.

Customers of Northville Square will be charged, also, Walters notes, but they may exchange their parking ticket either for a dollar's worth of merchandise or a dollar refund.

The system will work like this: Beginning at 6 p.m. the north entrances to the parking lot will be barricaded and attendants at the south entrances on Center and Wing streets will issue dated parking tickets for one dollar.

The "shopping dollar" ticket will explain that customers of Northville Square, or a city or township patron of the library, may receive a refund of one dollar for the ticket (on the same day it is dated) or may use the ticket as a shopping dollar for any purchase.

The manager of Northville Square will collect each day's supply of parking tickets (Shopping Dollars) and take them to city hall the next day where they will be refunded. The merchants, therefore, will be fully refunded for each parking ticket cashed.

The city manager estimates that the cost of operating the lot and providing booths for attendants will amount to $10,000 the first year. He anticipates

Is this death knell? Center loses its heat

County officials say it is not a death knell, but others believe the decision to cut off heat to the Wayne County Child Development Center signals the beginning of the end for the massive but largely unused facility.

"It's a very bad mistake," said one source who requested anonymity but who is very familiar with the sprawling, 700-acre, 40-building complex that straddles both sides of Sheldon Road, north of Five Mile, in Northville Township.

"They are sacrificing a multi-million-dollar housing project that is (now) going to have to be demolished. If they take the heat off for more than a year, there is going to be serious damage."

The financially-pressed county decided not to steam heat the center this winter to reduce the annual $200,010 maintenance costs. According to one estimate, it costs $12,000 a month to heat the empty buildings.

Only four buildings are used and two tenants — the township offices and the fire department — are in the process of moving to new quarters. The county health department uses a building one day a week and there is a building set aside for the maintenance crew.

The county can no longer afford to run the antiquated heating system, according to William Ashley, director of buildings and grounds for the Wayne County Board of Auditors.

"It (cutting off the heat) is a long-range decision unless we come up with some means and ways of getting money. You don't buy steak if you don't have steak money. It's an austere program that we must adhere to."

Although he said there have been no recent offers to buy, the county still is trying to sell the center property whose value was pegged last year at $14 million.

He denied that the heat cut-off was a planned first step toward demolishing the buildings.

"With the construction of those buildings, there is very little that can deteriorate," he said.

Such an opinion came as a surprise to County Commissioner Mary Dumas who represents part of Northville.

"Two years ago, when we (commissioners) suggested doing the same thing, they (the auditors) said it would cause too much damage. Now they are claiming that it won't."

"They said they had changed their minds."

Local officials fear that an abandoned child development center would suffer the same fate as the former Maybury Sanatorium on the township's west side.

Closed in 1969, the buildings steadily deteriorated and were frequently vandalized. In 1973, the buildings were destroyed by the Department of Natural Resources who have since turned the area into a state park.

Ashley said the vandalism will not be a problem at the center because it will be patrolled by Wayne County Sheriff's deputies and Northville Township Police.

Local law enforcement spokesmen are not so sure.

Deputies, they said, are only frequently seen in the township.

Township police, they added, have been able to control vandalism thus far because the department is located at the only entrance to the center.

But the police, who are now working in an unheated building, are scheduled to move soon to the new township civic center on Six Mile Road, leaving the center virtually unprotected.

The center was built in the 1930s to school and house trainable mentally retarded youngsters but was phased out in 1974.

Since then a number of uses have been proposed — including an alcoholic rehabilitation center, a college campus and a prison — but all have been rejected either for financial reasons or by public pressure.

Township Supervisor Wilson Grier, who has long wanted to get the land out of government ownership and onto the tax rolls, said it could be a "tremendous senior citizen complex."

The township, he said, is hoping to prove that such a project is financially feasible.

"It's just too nice of a complex to let it die in the long run," he said. "There are trees there that you won't get for 150 years."

"It certainly seems better if the heat would be left on at the facility."

But, he added, he understood the decision in light of the county's fiscal situation.

The county has had severe money problems for a long time and to meet a negotiated settlement for deputies, must lay off hundreds of employees.

Center suit delayed

The disposition of Highland Lakes Shopping Center's $2 million lawsuit against Northville Township officials has been delayed for the third time since the suit was filed August 29.

At a Friday hearing Wayne County Circuit Court Judge George T. Martin set November 6 as the date for a 9 a.m. evidentiary hearing on the lawsuit which attempts to force the Northville Township Planning Commission to approve a proposed site plan.

The lawsuit might face still another delay.

Township Attorney Nels Carlson said he will try to get the November 6 hearing adjourned to a later date. Because of the election the next day, it would be difficult for Township Clerk Clarice Sass, who is in charge of the township's election, to attend the hearing.

Mrs. Sass and Planning Commission Chairman William Bohan were present at Friday's hearing, but the plaintiffs were not. Stewart C. Oldford, Howard A. Oldford, Thurman W. Autry and Milton Lebenbom — partners of Highland Lakes Shopping Center — were represented by Attorney Vaughn L. McClain.

It was a switch from the first hearing September 14 when three of the plaintiffs were standing by to testify, but no township officials were present. At that time Circuit Court Judge Harry J. Dingeman Jr. scheduled hearings for October 10 and 11, but they were delayed after a new court ruling required the case to be assigned to Judge Martin.

HAUNTING FEELING—March of Dimes volunteer, Detroit Tiger outfielder Ron LeFlore (in casket), and the Northville Jaycees were part of the March of Dimes Monster Bash Haunted House Kickoff on — what else? — Friday the 13th. The group that gathered to mark the opening of the Northville Haunted House included Jaycees Bill Zapke (left), President John Stilson (center) and Vice President Ron Brasgalla.

Haunted house

Ghoulish Jaycees set

A haunted house has mysteriously materialized in the Northville Plaza shopping mall, according to usually reliable ghoulish sources.

Strange sounds and weird noises have been heard wafting through the air from a room located near the Secretary of State's office, the sources said.

Further investigation by The Record revealed that the spooky happenings were the work of the Northville Jaycees who have erected Northville's first haunted house in many years.

Beginning Saturday, October 21, ghosts and goblins will descend upon the house, according to Jaycee President John Stilson. From then until October 30, the day before Halloween, howling screams will echo through the Plaza.

"Brave souls may visit between the hours of 7-10:30 p.m. on Monday through Friday and 3-10:30 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday," said Stilson.

"We selected the Plaza because of its convenient location, parking and indoor facilities."

The March of Dimes is co-sponsoring the haunted house and will receive a portion of the proceeds to aid crippled children.

It costs $1 to tour the home and Stilson said the eerie trip will be worth every cent.

"Mark Burnette, the Jaycee chairman, has built seven other haunted houses and guarantees that this is the best yet," said Stilson.

"Mark has added several new touches in electric gadgetry with special and unusual effects. Seven horror-filled rooms and two bloodcurdling mazes will provide a truly haunting experience."

Refreshments and snacks will be available through the Northville Jaycee organization. They will be serving coffee, doughnuts, caramel apples, cider and other tasty treats with the proceeds going to the Detroit Zoo.

"Each concession patrol can make their choice of a selection of animals for zoo sponsorship," said Stilson. "The Jaycees will donate the proceeds and a plaque that says, 'From the Children of Northville, to the zoo.'"

The Northville Jaycee haunted house is located near the Secretary of State's office in the Northville Plaza on Seven Mile Road east of Northville Road.

Because of the Plaza arrangement, all waiting can be done inside, away from the cold and rainy weather.

'Human dynamo' to speak here

Few people can squeeze more productive activity into a 24-hour day than can Diane J. Edgecomb.

And yet, she's found some extra time to appear as the guest speaker for the upcoming annual Northville Chamber of Commerce dinner.

Billed as one of the 10 most influential women in Detroit, Ms. Edgecomb's address will begin following the 8 p.m. dinner to be held at Meadowbrook Country Club on Thursday, October 26.

The annual event will be kicked off with a cocktail hour at 7 p.m.

Besides serving as executive vice-president of the Central Business District Association headquartered in Detroit, a position that places her in the center of the downtown action, Ms. Edgecomb serves in a number of civic appointive positions.

She is president of the Municipal Parking Authority for Detroit, an officer in the International Downtown Executives Association, has been director of Music Hall Center for the Performing Arts since 1973, is a member of the Urban Land Institute, director of the Economic Growth Council, is a monthly contributor to WJR Radio's "Point of View" program, serves as director for the Downtown Development Authority of Detroit, is associate chairperson of the University of Detroit's Centennial Fund Campaign, and is a member of the Mayor's Special Task Force — one of six citizens selected to assess city problems on a monthly basis.

First recipient of the Human Rights Award, isn't just a recent civic participant. She's been at it for years.

It was Ms. Edgecomb who in 1955 created DDDays, considered the most successful on-going retail program in the United States.

Samplings of her other past involvements include:

Serving on the Governor's Commission the Status of Women (1966); serving as chairman of the educational study tour behind the Iron Curtain in 1969; serving as vice-president of the SEMP-TA Citizens' Advisory Board in 1972; serving as director of Friends School in 1975; and serving as co-chairman of the Detroit "Get Out the Vote" Committee.

Although her principal emphasis has been in the field of business, Ms. Edgecomb's mark has been made in numerous other fields as well.

She was the person, more than any other, who was responsible for developing and implementing the concept of Riverfront Ethnic Festivals — a highly successful project that has been picked up in numerous other cities across the nation, including Northville.

Although her principal emphasis has been in the field of business, Ms. Edgecomb's mark has been made in numerous other fields as well.

She created the Jazz Religious Services in downtown churches, she was responsible for bringing the first two Russian Child Art Exchange programs to the United States and she developed and implemented the Child Art Program in metropolitan Detroit schools.

Besides Ms. Edgecomb's address, guests Saturday will be entertained by a professional accordionist, they'll have an opportunity to win some door prizes, and they'll see the awarding of the annual Citizen of the Year citation.

The latter award, made on the basis of contribution to the community of Northville by a local citizen, went last year to the former Northville mayor, A. Malcolm Allen. A year earlier it went to Jan Reef, Northville industrialist-inventor and philanthropist.

Tickets for the dinner, which cost $12.50 each, may be purchased from any officer of the chamber.

Attorneys seek Beacon Woods settlement

Negotiations are in progress for an out-of-court settlement in the North Beacon Woods lawsuits.

Attempts to settle out of court began last Tuesday during the sixth hearing before Wayne County Circuit Court Judge John D. O'Hair.

As court was reconvening for the afternoon session, Attorney David L. Nelson, representing Spagnoli Associates, asked to proceed in chambers, where he presented an out-of-court proposal.

Judge O'Hair, who came to Northville Township last Sunday to walk the controversial subdivision site, has urged out-of-court settlement since hearings began four weeks ago.

Attorney Michael Billmeyer, representing Whipple Estates resident Thomas Dasher, said, "Both sides realize the importance to Spagnoli of a final decision on this matter. We're trying to be as diligent and speedy as we can in arriving at a decision."

The number of persons involved in the lawsuits — all of whom must be consulted concerning any proposal — has caused delays in negotiations. Besides the Dasher lawsuit, seven plaintiffs from Whipple Estates sued jointly, charging that the subdivision's plat violates Northville Township ordinance.

Both Northville Township officials and Spagnoli Associates — the North Beacon Woods developers — are named in the lawsuits.

Negotiations have centered around trying to save the remaining trees on the site and attempting to have lot sizes increased. All proposed plat changes have been studied by two engineers, one working for Spagnoli Associates and the other representing the plaintiffs, to determine the cost and engineering feasibility of the proposals.

If negotiations fail to lead to out-of-court settlement, the parties will return to court to finish testimony.

The plaintiffs' testimony was completed after several days of witnesses showing before-and-after pictures of the subdivision's site south of Eight Mile Road, surrounding three sides of Moraine Elementary School.

Friday the 13th

Break-ins plague Northville area

Superstitions may come and go, but Friday the 13th was definitely an unlucky day in Northville.

At least five homes were broken into in the city and township. Police believe that as many as three were done by the same people.

The three thefts netted five television sets and follow the same pattern that has plagued the area in a rash of recent break-ins.

"We feel there is a connection between them but we have not found our common denominator," said Northville City Detective Alan Cox.

Friday's thefts, on Rogers in the city and on Bloomcrest and Curtis in the township, have similar characteristics.

Police believe that someone cases neighborhoods, finds out who is not at home — perhaps by knocking on doors — and then walks off with items that can be easily fenced.

Entry to homes is usually made by prying open a sliding door or through locked doors.

All of the break-ins that police believe are related have occurred during daylight hours when occupants are at work, school or shopping.

"It's not unusual," said Township Investigator Phil Presnell. "B & E's are popular in the suburbs. There are better pickings in the well-to-do homes and not enough police."

Not all of Friday's robberies are thought to be the work of the same people.

In the township, a Highland Lakes woman who left her condominium briefly Friday night, returned home to surprise a would-be burglar.

Both the intruder, who did not steal anything, and the woman fled the house.

City police arrested a Ypsilanti man in connection with the theft of more than $1,000 in stereo equipment.

Police said that Dale Curtis, 24, was at a late-night party in a First Street residence. When one of the occupants, who left the home at 4:30 a.m., returned an hour later, she found the equipment missing.

Friday morning, police said, Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputies found the equipment in Curtis' van.

Curtis was arraigned Friday on a charge of entering without breaking with intent to commit larceny. He pleaded innocent and was freed on $1,500 cash bond.

His preliminary exam will be Monday.

A Flint man was killed Friday when his semi-truck and trailer rig ran off I-96 near Novi.

Killed in the mishap was Harold Childers, 46, of Flint. According to State Police from the Brighton post, Childers' truck suddenly veered off eastbound I-96 just east of Old Plank Road.

The truck went off the road and traveled approximately 1,000 feet before crashing, State Police said. Childers was pronounced dead at the scene.

The accident occurred in an area of heavy highway construction, where I-96 eastbound traffic was limited to only two lanes.

GOOD TIME FOR WINE

by Jim Roth

Throughout literature and mythology, wine has been associated with freedom, love and spring-time. Bacchus, an early Greek God, was beloved for his wine drinking and cavorting habits. Bacchus festivals usually took place in the hills in spring and fall and featured dancing nature figures, intoxicated on the fruit of the grape, nymph-like women and young men. The festivals were celebrations of life and love, wild festivals of drunken joy where people drank to dance with the gods. It is really not known if Bacchus and his gang ever really existed, but wine still can give a lift and feeling of freedom to the spirit.

For a complete selection of wines and help from knowledgeable people, stop by and see us at GOOD TIME PARTY STORE, 567 Seven Mile Road, 349-1477. Wine appreciation can be a beautiful experience. 'Camelot' opens Marquis Theatre

The audience obviously was enjoying songs as, "How To Handle a Woman," "What Do the Simple Folk Do," "I Loved You Once in Silence" and "If Ever I Would Leave You."

Accompanying the cast of Performing Artists Unlimited were 20 musicians from Oakway Symphony Orchestra and Eastern Michigan University.

Such lines as, "Love and marriage — they're two different things — don't scramble the two," brought laughs from the audience.

"There isn't a bad seat in the house," observed Mrs. Robert Brueck, a friend and neighbor of Mrs. Zayti's who served as a theater hostess. Mrs. Brueck, a past Northville Town Hall chairman, also recalled how apologetic she felt when town hall hosted such celebrities as Vincent Price in the old theater.

Its green walls and torn curtain, which town hall replaced at that time, she pointed out, were a sharp contrast to the elegant red and white theater today.

Long-time residents smilingly occupying first-night seats included Ed Yerkes, Mr. and Mrs. John Burkman, George Lockhart, both the senior and junior Charles Freylds, the Charles Laphams and their son, Scott and his bride.

Others were the Blake Northrops, John Millers, Glenn Longs, Stanley Sonks, John Genittis, Philip Ogilvies, Keith Wrights, William Mirons, Robert Nortons, John Steimels, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Nichols, the David Ryans and the Stanley Johnstons.

"I sold my seat," admitted Mrs. Zayti, who didn't have time to watch the acting as typical first-night details claimed her attention. She says "everything is going to go smooth" as acoustic problems that surfaced after carpeting and seats were installed are being taken care of.

Like "Camelot," the Marquis Theatre appears to have a "happy ever aftering" future.

Rezoning requests

Township board tells planners to take second look

The Northville Township Planning Commission will take a second look at the possibilities of rezoning two parcels of land for which it previously denied rezoning.

At their meeting Thursday, the Northville Township Board of Trustees voted to ask planning commissioners to consider possible uses other than R-1 (one-family residential requiring one-acre lots) for the Wayne and Ruby Claypool property on Seven Mile Road. They also referred National Bank of Detroit's petition for rezoning an L-shaped parcel abutting both Six Mile Road and Haggerty Road back to the planning commission for further review.

The action came after both petitioners presented reasons supporting their requests for rezoning.

The Claypools requested rezoning of four lots from R-1 to B-2 (general business). The property consists of three lots on Seven Mile Road between Maxwell and Fry, and one lot on the west side of Fry.

Commissioners recommended denying the petition after Planning Consultant George Vilican said rezoning these lots for business would open the door to other rezoning requests and could lead to strip zoning on the north side of Seven Mile Road to Haggerty Road.

At Thursday's board meeting, Bill Riley, the Claypools' attorney, withdrew the lot on Fry from consideration for rezoning, saying the lot was being sold to an adjacent property owner.

Many of Claypool's neighbors then assured board members that they avored the rezoning.

Brent Ashby, who purchased the Claypools' lot on Fry, also said he had no complaints about business zoning, adding that he intended to construct a residential home on the adjacent property.

Realtor Bob Atchison said many prospective buyers had looked at the property, but found it infeasible for single family homes. He said contractors who build speculative homes were not interested in building on the property because of the proximity of the Northville State Hospital.

The property is directly across the street from the hospital's entrance.

Township Supervisor Wilson Grier expressed sympathy for the Claypool's problem in selling the lots as residential. "It may be an injustice if we don't consider the alternatives," he said.

He pointed out that Claypool had been paying sewer assessments on the lots since 1974, as well as taxes throughout the years, saying if he were Claypool's attorney, he'd at least sue to get the sewer assessments back.

Joseph Petro, 19601 Marilyn, said some people would give their left arm for the chance to build homes on the property. He said the property had not sold as residential because it was listed at an unreasonable price with a realtor under speculative rezoning.

Saying he had priced the property several times, Petro said it was listed in November 1977 for $125,000, was later brought down to $95,000 and later to $75,000. He pointed out that the City of Livonia has residential property on Seven Mile Road and that the planning commission had recently recommended rezoning another Seven Mile Road parcel from office services to R-M (residential multiple).

"You'll be leaving yourself liable by not following through by keeping strip zoning off Seven Mile," Petro said.

Mrs. Clifford Smith, 19235 Maxwell, said, "Joe doesn't know what it's like to be living close to the hospital entrance. I would never buy one of those lots."

Mrs. Claypool said, "We have to keep our doors locked all the time. People come in and take hold of you, and they take things."

Discussing the possibility that a multiple zoning might serve as a buffer, board members agreed it would be an injustice to require the Claypools to pay $700 to petition again for rezoning. The board then voted to uphold commissioners' recommendation for denial of the rezoning request, but to ask them to investigate other possible zoning for the lots.

National Bank of Detroit's petition was to rezone two lots from R-3 (one-family residential) to B-1 (general business). One at 39449 Six Mile Road abuts with another on Haggerty Road, making an L-shaped lot. The parcels abut service station property at the corner of Six Mile Road and Haggerty Road.

The planning commission recommended denial of the petition after Vilican said rezoning would open the door for similar requests and that business zoning on several abutting lots would demand separate access points.

Sixton Larsen, representing National Bank of Detroit, showed board members a revised site plan which provided for a service drive on both Six Mile Road and Haggerty Road. He said the service drive, which could be extended for further development, should eliminate concern about too many curb cuts in the area.

He then showed site plans of other National Bank of Detroit branches, along with pictures illustrating landscaping to provide buffers to residential property.

Board members discussed how a bank on the site might affect future development of the area, indicating that shopping center development would be most desirable.

Mrs. John Auchincloss, speaking for property owners in the area, said residents there enjoyed their property and were not wanting to sell it for other development.

Her voice quivering with emotion, Mrs. Auchincloss said after she and her husband bought their property two years ago, they put on an addition increasing the value of their home.

She said if the board moves toward trying to develop the area as a shopping center, "then the township deceived us in giving us a building permit — to let us put money in our property and then try to force us out."

She said she was told that a septic

The two houses east of Caldwell across from the school are in the township, although the school itself is in the city.

The next six houses west of Caldwell are also in the township, although their neighbors across Main Street are in the city.

Confusing? Owners of these homes think so.

If one of them had a fire, they should call the township fire department, even though the city's fire department is only a few blocks down the street on which they live

If one of them had a theft, they should summon township police, even though city police are only a minute or two away.

On trash collection day, workers on city trucks empty their neighbors' barrels across the street, but these people must arrange for independent trash collection.

All that might be changed Tuesday when the State Boundary Commission considers the homeowners' petition for annexation to the city.

The petitioners were joined in their request for annexation by two other homeowners who live on either side of Caldwell, just north of Main Street.

Because fewer than 100 people live within the 10 homes, no election was required by law for their annexation. The procedure is easy: file a petition for annexation, present reasons at a public hearing before the State Boundary Commission and then wait until the commission decides the issue at a later adjudicative meeting.

Democracy in action — that's simple enough, right?

Wrong. When the petition was presented before the State Boundary Commission in Lansing, the commission decided to widen the proposed annexation area to encompass all 33 lots of the Hillcrest subdivision. The expansion included 23 homeowners who were not part of the original petition.

By law, the commission is empowered to deny or approve annexation petitions as submitted or to alter boundaries before approval.

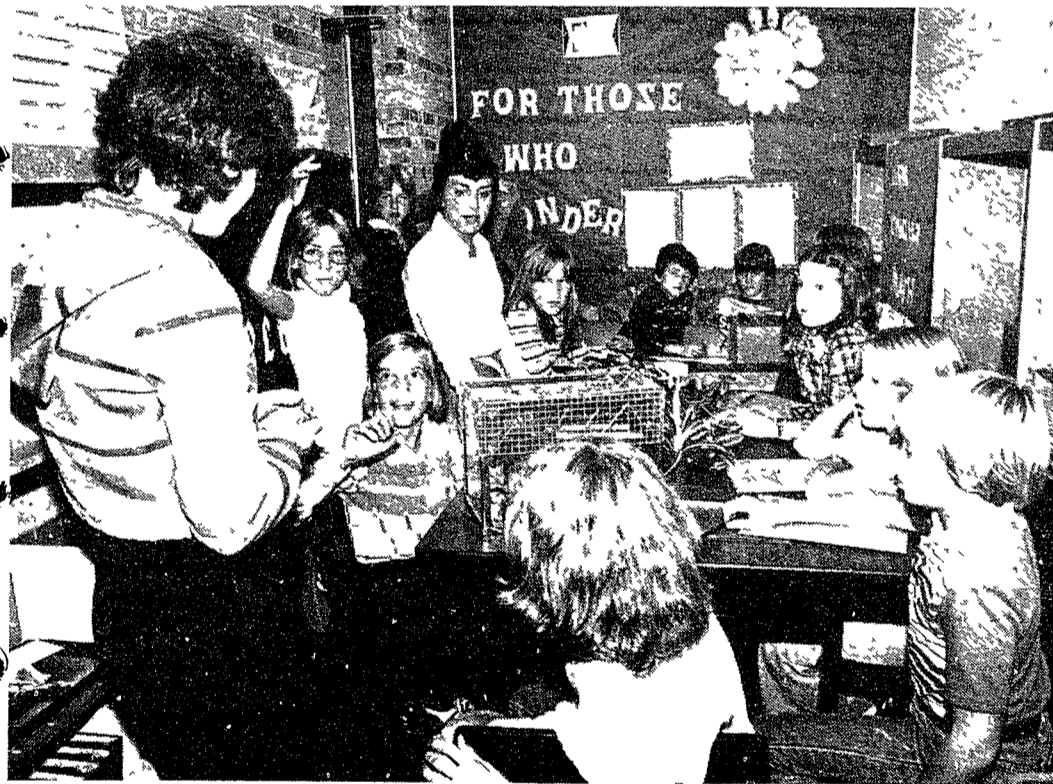

The commission ran a paid legal notice of the local public hearing in The Record. It read: "The commission welcomes any information relative to the annexation of this entire area in Section 4, east of Clement Road and north of Main Street."

see tape two. Many residents who opposed annexation showed up to be heard at the public hearing.

But then commissioners weren't sure if the March 14 public hearing would suffice as a legal hearing for annexation of a larger area than stated in the original petition. What's more, commissioners contended that increasing the area was the city's idea — not theirs.

Angry city officials denied the accusation. After listening to a tape of the commission's previous meeting, Robert Terry, the commission's criteria analyst, later admitted the idea came from a commission member.

Annual fundraiser

Decal sale is Saturday for Northville's bands

Northville High School band members will be combing the community Saturday, selling band decals to raise funds.

The decal sale, an annual band project, will start at 9:30 a.m. and last until 3:30 p.m. Members from the band will be selling door-to-door and downtown.

Band officials stress that all authorized sales persons will be wearing either their marching band uniform or band jackets.

Decals, which can be bought for a donation, should not be purchased from anyone not wearing the uniform or jacket, they said.

This year's decal was designed by Dale Fisher whose entry won the annual contest.

When not selling decals and playing in high school units, Northville band members have been making a name for themselves in other groups.

Dee Christian is first chair clarinet for the Michigan Youth Symphony.

Sharon Salisbury is playing bass clarinet for the Michigan Youth Band.

The Livonia Youth Symphony has three Northville representatives.

Drew Farkas, who also plays in the Plymouth Symphony, which is an adult group, is first chair trumpet for Livonia.

Thomas Nulty is first chair trombone and Alex Serwatowski is playing the tuba.

Mary Jo Augustine of Northville, a senior at Bishop Borgess High School, is one of three candidates for the school's homecoming queen.

Winner is to be announced at half-time ceremonies Saturday afternoon, October 21, at Garden City East High School stadium.

between Borgess and Catholic Central and begins at 2 p.m. The queen will be crowned at the homecoming dance Saturday night at Bishop Borgess High School.

Other candidates are Peggy Soborowski of Dearborn Heights and Roseann O'Rourke of Livonia.

Holiday gifts for Hawthorn

Hawthorn mothers will hold their annual Christmas gift, ornament and craft sale on two days this year.

It will be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. October 21 at Farmington Community Center and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. November 18 in L-building south wing lobby at Hawthorn Center.

Sale items have been made by children at the center as well as their parents.

Ballot proposals

Taxing choices will face voters in November

J Some have described it as a meat-axe approach to tax limitation. But whatever descriptive name it carries, the Tisch amendment, as proposal J is called, has very strong provisions which promise to emphatically alter the current methods of raising government funds in the state of Michigan.

The proposed constitutional change has six major provisions. It would:

- (1) Lower the ratio of assessed value to true cash value from a maximum of 50 percent to a maximum of 25 percent.
- (2) Limit the rate of increase of the property tax base to 2.5 percent in any one year.
- (3) Limit the income tax rate to 5.6 percent, one more than the state is currently levying.
- (4) Authorize the legislature to provide for a local income tax for schools not greater than one percent, and that one percent must be voted by the people living within a given district.
- (5) Require the state to provide full financing for required increases in local government services.

(6) Prohibit the state from shifting the tax burden to local governments or school districts.

Those, in a nutshell, are the main features of the amendment drafted by Robert Tisch, the Shiawassee County drain commissioner who spearheaded the petition drive to place the constitutional amendment on the November 7 ballot.

The ramifications of those provisions are not so easily identified. Confusion, in large measure, abounds.

One thing is certain. If the Tisch amendment is adopted, the most noxious tax in Michigan — the property tax — will have serious restraints put upon it. And there undoubtedly would be property tax relief for all property owners.

It's been estimated that the Tisch amendment would decrease property tax revenues by $1,800 million the initial year of application. The reduction would result from application of a maximum 25 percent assessment base, plus the 2.5 percent limitation on assessment increases each year.

But Michigan State University experts, based on past and expected future trends (namely inflation increases), have predicted that the loss would mount to $3,500 million by 1983.

Services, especially educational services, would have to be cut drastically, or the state must find new means of raising the lost revenues.

The Tisch amendment allows raising of the state income tax one percent to 5.6 percent. But it also places a constitutional lid at that amount (5.6 percent), whereas currently the legislature may raise the state income tax as it wishes.

The Tisch amendment also provides that the legislature may permit K-12 school districts to impose a one percent income tax by vote of the people for a period not to exceed 10 years.

The income tax route might be employed to raise some of the lost revenues. Almost assuredly, the state would increase the state income tax the proposed one percent. But gaining voter approval of a one percent income tax to be levied by the school district is dubious at best.

Most experts contend that other taxes would have to be raised to prevent any shortfall, taxes such as the single business tax, the sales tax, the cigarette or liquor tax.

Educators have come out against Tisch, as has the Michigan Chamber of Commerce. Educators, of course, fear the impact on local school districts, while the business community is concerned about the prospect of an increase in the single business tax.

What about the taxing ability of cities, villages and authorities? Their limitations are set by the legislature. One may imagine some city levies rising significantly to offset loss of revenues through diminishing assessments; some have estimated as high as 40 mills.

A Michigan State University evaluation of the Tisch amendment envisions the following repercussions if the amendment passes:

—If both the income tax and the single business tax rates are increased, those citizens renting apartments will tend to lose.

—Middle to higher income families owning their own homes would generally enjoy little or no tax saving, and many would pay higher total taxes after redistribution, if lost revenues were replaced.

—Owners of farms and other valuable land would tend to gain from the redistribution.

—Substitution of higher single business tax revenues for lost property tax revenues would result in higher taxes for businesses using little property.

—Millage would approximately double for debt service immediately.

—Senior citizens would tend to gain little from the Tisch property tax cut, because most would lose a generous homestead tax credit.

One other major concern of many observers is that by replacing revenue lost by the property tax with increased state taxes, the political power of the state would be enhanced and the political power of local units of government would be reduced.

E Governor William G. Milliken has endorsed the so-called Headlee amendment. So have many other politicians.

In a normal election year, it's questionable whether such a tax limitation amendment to the state constitution would have made it onto the ballot, let alone have gathered the backing of prominent individuals and groups. But 1978 is hardly your normal election year. Traditional gripes about taxes, especially the property tax, are being translated into action.

Ballot proposals

Michigan, sees the Headlee amendment (proposal E on the November ballot) as the least drastic of three tax proposals facing the people in November. Perhaps that's the perception of the politicians — better to go with a moderate proposal than oppose it and invite voter approval of more sweeping proposals.

Proposal E is called the Headlee amendment after Richard Headlee, Michigan chairman of Taxpayers United for Tax Limitation, the group which successfully petitioned to have the constitutional proposal placed on the ballot.

Headlee proponents argue that some limitation has to be placed on government spending, otherwise programs will continue to proliferate and expand and spending will continue to spiral upward. They point out that over the past 10 years government spending in Michigan has far outstripped personal income in growth.

The Headlee amendment would:

- (1) Limit state taxes and spending to a percentage of the state's personal income determined by the state budget for fiscal year 1979. The percentage is expected to be between 9 and 10 percent.

- (2) Require a vote of the people to change the personal income percentage, and in the event of emergency, require joint action of the governor and a two-thirds vote of both state houses to change the spending and revenue limits for one year only.

- (3) Prohibit the state from reducing the state-financed portion of the necessary costs of local government activities or services required by state law. New state requirements shall be accompanied by necessary funding.

- (4) Prohibit the state from reducing the proposition of state spending in effect in fiscal year 1978-79 going to all units of government taken as a group.

- (5) Limit the rate of increase of the property tax each year to the rate of increase of the Consumer Price Index.

- (6) Require an election to levy any tax or increase a tax rate not authorized by law or charter at time of ratification of this amendment.

- (7) If the base of an existing tax is broadened, the rate shall be reduced to yield the same estimated revenues as before.

Most experts agree that predicting consequences of this long and complex amendment is difficult. Complicating evaluation further is the fact that implementation of the proposal is left to the legislature. But there seem to be several observations which many share.

Al House, a professor in Department of Agricultural Economics and a specialist in the Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State University, says, "At the state level we would expect no budget limiting effect for several years if state revenues hold up through the first three quarters of 1979. This view assumes that we are at a peak in economic cycle."

Continuing, he says, "Most local government units in the state will not experience rates of increase in market values of land and existing buildings and improvements greater than the rate of increase of the Consumer Price Index. In only a few rapidly developing townships will the property tax limitation come into play."

Noting the personal income limitation on state spending and the consumer price index application to property taxes, the League of Women Voters of Michigan, in its assessment of Headlee consequences, says, "Local spending increases for services would be limited to increases in the Consumer Price Index. Expansion of existing services or creation of new services would have to be accomplished within these limits or cuts made in other programs to accommodate them."

The Headlee proposal, the league points out, places the CPI limitation on total valuation for a unit of government. Within this total, individual pieces of property could rise or fall in value.

Most observers agree that if a local unit of government could not meet the costs of services through assessed taxes, it apparently could substitute user fees in lieu of taxes.

The Michigan Association of School Administrators, in opposing proposal E, maintains, as have other observers: "One of the most criticized flaws of the proposal is its inability to control outside forces and costs which impact significantly on local government operations. For example, the proposed amendment does not allow for the impact of spending programs mandated by the federal government or by the courts. The effect will be that the funds available to continue existing services will be constantly eroded, meaning an inevitable reduction in services over the years."

Educators, as well as other observers, point out that although proposal E would prevent the state from reducing state-aid payments to local units of government below proportions of 1978-79, it would not prevent state shifting of amounts to the various units, such as counties, cities, villages, townships and school districts. They contend this could lead to warring between local government units for a greater share of the amount to be distributed locally.

The school voucher proposal which will appear on the November 7 ballot hasn't received as much publicity as two other proposed, constitutional revisions, the Tisch and Headlee amendments.

But make no mistake about it. If the school voucher proposal passes, it will shake up the current method of financing K-12 education in Michigan, and remove the current constitutional ban on use of public monies for support of private schools.

As the name indicates, the tuition voucher proposal (H) would require the legislature "to provide for the issuance of an educational voucher to each child in attendance at public and non-public elementary and secondary schools to be applied toward the cost of that child's education in the school of his or her parents' or guardian's choice."

This aspect of the proposal is likely to bring court challenges, if proposal E passes. Reportedly, attorneys for supporters of public education are waiting in the wings to legally battle on the grounds that the tuition voucher system would violate the United States constitutional provision for separation of church and state.

A council against parochialism has been formed to oppose the voucher plan. The council consists of about 15 educational organizations, including both major teacher organizations, some 10 civic organizations, including the Michigan League of Women Voters, the NAACP and several church and religious organizations.

Although the voucher proposal was put on the ballot through petition drive of a group called, Citizens for More Sensible Financing of Education, which reportedly includes church-school supporters, some religious organizations oppose the proposal on grounds that widespread state support of private schools would bring more state regulation of private schools.

Backers of the proposal maintain that there is legal precedent for public financial support of private schools. They point to the federal legislation that provides money for veterans' schooling at either public or private institutions. They also note that the state constitution provides for transportation of students to and from private schools. And the courts have allowed state monies to be used for auxiliary services and shared time.

The church-state dispute isn't the only controversial aspect of the tuition voucher proposal. It also would prohibit the levy of real and personal property taxes for local, intermediate, vocational and special schools—except debt retirement. In short, school operation costs could not be financed any longer through the property tax.

These provisions in tandem would force a shift in taxation. If the proposal passes, about two-thirds of the property tax would be eradicated and taxes at the state level would have to pick up the financial slack. The taxes likely to be hiked are the personal income tax, sales and use taxes, and-or the single business tax.

Prospect of the latter has led to Michigan State Chamber of Commerce opposition to the proposal.

Alcohol workshop at Meads Mill

"Parents don't want to think that their kids might be drinking in junior high — and that's part of the problem," said Meads Mill PTSA President Glenda Buist as she announced a workshop on alcohol and its abuse that will be held at 8 p.m. next Wednesday, October 25, at Meads Mill.

The workshop, entitled, "You and Alcohol," is being sponsored by Meads Mill and Cooke PTSAs.

It will be conducted by Professor Ben Warner, formerly educational consultant for the National Council on Alcoholism and presently Director of Social Services at Ardmore Acres.

Warner, who has a master's degree in social work, is a certified alcoholism therapist.

In his workshops he tells students, "You have the right to someday make a decision whether you're going to drink ... I just think you should know more about it."

He says he gives students the same information that is taught to nurses and social workers at Mercy College. He lays out for young people the history of alcohol, the decision-making responsibility they'll all face and the tolerance for it as well as family involvement.

The idea behind the workshop, explains Mrs. Buist, is to teach young teens everything about alcohol so they can make their own rational decisions.

Because parents find it next to impossible to think their 12- or 13-year old could be drunk, she's concerned that all Northville parents of junior high school students feel the urgency to attend the workshop with their youngsters.

Warner's workshops have been written up in The Detroit News and featured on television, she adds, as he is known for his ability to communicate with students. He has discontinued his workshops, Mrs. Buist says, but agreed to come to Northville because of the PTSA's concern.

The workshop will run for two hours until 10 p.m.

Still seeking sign

Northville Township officials will go in person to appeal to the Wayne County Road Commission for stop signs on Bradner Road at intersections which they consider hazardous crossings for school children.

At Thursday's meeting the Northville Township Board of Trustees directed Township Clerk Clarice Sass to obtain time on the road commission's agenda and to notify concerned residents to join officials in pleading for the needed signs.

The action came after board members considered Township Attorney Donald Morgan's written opinion that the township should not erect its own signs on the county road.

At the September board meeting, officials discussed the possibility of putting up signs without the county approval because of the county's repeated refusal to allow signs or traffic signals on Bradner Road. They also discussed the possibility of suing the county for the desired stop signs.

The board has requested that the county erect stop signs four times since 1976, the most recent request asking for a sign at the entrance to Whisper Woods subdivision on Bradner Road.

Recognizing the excessive time involved with a lawsuit, township officials decided instead to appeal in person to the road commission, which has jurisdiction over the area.

Township Supervisor Wilson Grier said that a crossing guard had been hired to help children cross at Steepleview and Bradner.

Board members also discussed other problems the township is having with the county, which has cut back services because of a fiscal crunch.

Grier pointed out that the county says it does not have the money, manpower or equipment to clean the many township ditches which overflow and cause flooding.

"We are stuck with flooding unless we are willing to expend our own money," Grier said, admitting that in establishing the precedent in cleaning county ditches, the township would be "opening Pandora's box."

He said about 2 1/2 miles of ditches on five roads off Five Mile Road and about three miles of ditches on six roads off Seven Mile Road needed cleaning. If the township decides to foot the bill, the township must get permits to work on county property.

Board members voted to refer the problem to Water and Sewer Department Superintendent Walt Hollinoty, who is to identify the areas that need cleaning and estimate the cost.

Board members also discussed the possibility of the township's assuming the responsibility for cutting weeds on properly bordering county roads, a service discontinued by the county in a budget cut.

Mrs. Sass said the attorney's report on the problem stated that the township would not only be trespassing on county property, but would also become liable if weeds blocked a driver's vision and an accident occurred.

In other action the board voted to have the township attorney write an amendment to the dog ordinance requiring persons to police after their dogs.

Newcomer wants club for singles to form

Singles, anyone?

That's what new Northville resident Owen Porterfield is asking. Since moving here from Ann Arbor a month ago, he has found that it is not easy meeting single people from Northville.

"There are plenty of ways to meet people from Southfield or Detroit," he says, "but I don't know anyone who lives within 15 minutes."

He feels there have to be others who share his predicament and he thinks they should all get together and form a club.

"It would be something for socializing among single adults," he said. "It could mean parties, dancing, recreation, sports or round-robin dinners."

Porter, 31, is a tree surgeon who operates out of the Northville and northwest Detroit areas. He moved to Northville this summer to be closer to his work.

"It's really a nice town," he says, "but it is kind of family oriented. Just about everybody I meet is married which always makes me a fifth wheel."

Like many singles, he has tried the bar scene but, again like many singles, he finds the atmosphere too artificial to be satisfying.

Northville does have a Parents Without Partners group for singles but that leaves out those who have never had children.

Starting his own Northville singles club was "just my idea," he said. "I thought, 'What the heck, there must be somebody else in this situation.'"

Interested people should call Porterfield during the evenings at 348-0956 to set up an organizational meeting.

"There is nothing planned," he emphasized. "If people like racquetball, we'll do racquetball. If they like parties, we'll party."

Board ends meeting with a sour note

The first public meeting at the Northville Township Civic Center ended on a sour note Thursday night.

Building Inspector Troy Milligan and Supervisor Wilson Grier exchanged angry words about the sewer under the civic center's driveway and the site's storm water drainage.

The argument erupted while the Northville Township Board of Trustees — after declining to discuss Milligan's written request for a salary increase — was considering his letter concerning the requirements for a certificate of occupancy for the new civic center.

Milligan's letter said a requisite for a certificate of occupancy was Township Engineer William Mosher's approval of the sewer. The letter further said that there is a danger of the sewer under the driveway breaking and freezing and that the entire site needed to be reviewed for drainage.

After some discussion among board members, Grier said the board was accepting the sewer and drainage as they were, and that Milligan would not have to make a decision on them.

Milligan contended the board didn't have the right to make that decision, saying "According to law, a site plan cannot be approved until the engineer approves it."

At the July board meeting Trustee James L. Nowka protested that the civic center site plan was not reviewed by Mosher. At Thursday's meeting he again expressed dissatisfaction that the board had assumed full responsibility for construction of the building.

Grier reminded the board that the engineer was by-passed because of a pressing need to meet the deadline of applying for the grant to fund the building.

When Nowka asked Milligan if many things in the building were not up to code, Milligan said "no," adding that only a few items remained on the list of violations he'd been trying to get corrected since April.

After more discussion, Trustee Dr. John Swienkowski said he'd like Mosher to review the grading of the driveway, and Grier said the board would also like him to look at the sanitary sewer.

When Mosher said he was reluctant to involve himself with the sewer, Grier assured him that the board was concerned only about the portion under the driveway.

In scheduled meetings alone, Rep. Pursell spent over 700 hours in hundreds of meetings here at home. That's a lot of listening to a lot of people. And doesn't count the endless hours of travel or the countless informal meetings with constituents. Carl's Washington schedule is equally rigorous: active member of two major committees and four subcommittees. Executive Boards — Environmental Study Conference and Suburban Caucus (which he co-founded). Steel Caucus. An unusual number of House-Senate conference committees. And Carl still had a solid 85% voting record on recorded votes in the House.

What's up, Doc? Mel Blanc, natch

What's up?

Mel Blanc, the man of almost 1000 voices, will appear at the Schoolcraft College Gym, 18600 Haggerty Road, Livonia, on Sunday at 8 p.m.

He will bring film clips and explain how he created such famous voices as Bugs Bunny, Tweety Bird, Pepe Le Pew, Foghorn Leghorn, Speedy Gonzales, Daffy Duck and Porky Pig.

For over 40 years, Blanc has been the voice of these and countless other cartoon characters. It is estimated that over 100 people throughout the world hear his voice each day.

He began his career in grammar school where he invented the laugh which was later to become the signature of Woody Woodpecker. He did Woody for a number of years in the cartoons until Walter Lantz had his wife, Grace, take over.

In January of 1961, Blanc had a catastrophic automobile accident and lay in a coma for 21 days and in a full body cast for one year. Word has it that when he emerged from the coma he uttered, "Eh, what's up, Doc?"

Tickets for his October 22 appearance are priced at $3 each and are available at the Schoolcraft College Bookstore. Phone the Cultural & Public Affairs office at 591-6400 ext. 410 for more information.

Pedestrian hurts back in mishap

A Northville pedestrian who was struck by a car last Wednesday afternoon remains in the hospital, apparently suffering from a broken back.

Witnesses say that William Ferguson, 29, 516 North Center, ran in front of a northbound car as he was crossing Center Street near his home.

He was taken to St. Mary Hospital shortly after the accident where officials said Monday he was in "satisfactory" condition. His mother told Northville City Police that he had broken his back.

The driver of the car, Susan Bunn, 29, South Lyon, told police that she saw Ferguson run into the street. She honked her horn twice, slammed on the brakes and swerved but was unable to miss him, she said.

A witness in another car substantiated that account, police said.

The accident occurred at 2:44 p.m., about 100 feet north of Lake Street.

In the late 1800's the phoropter (top left) was invented, greatly improving the speed and accuracy of the vision exam. Since then very few improvements or even changes have been made.

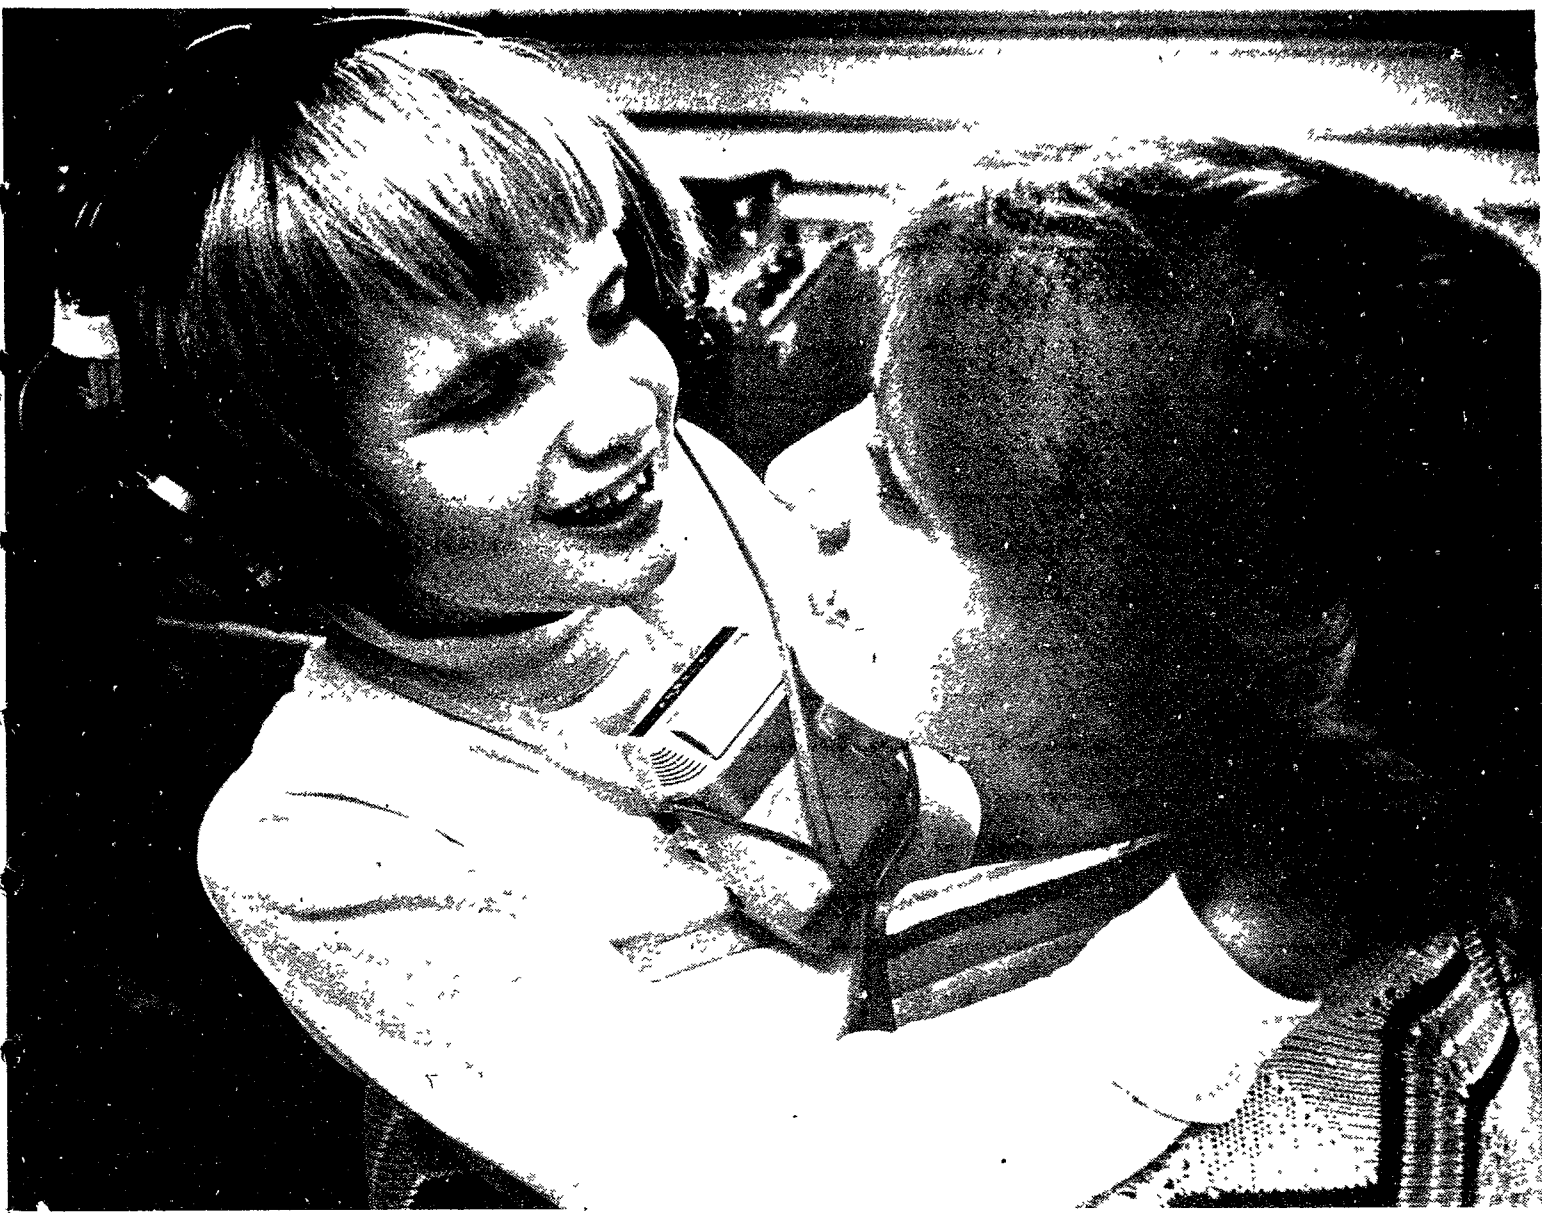

Now, after nearly 100 years, a radical change has been introduced into the field—the Humphrey Vision Analyzer 210. Instead of placing a 30 pound lens bank in front of the face, 20th century technology can focus a pair of phantom lenses just in front of the eyes, very much like a hologram. In addition, the prescription of the "hologram" can be continuously changed similar to a zoom camera, instead of the alternate click—click of the old style phoropter. Also, this steady change is constantly analyzed by a modern microcomputer throughout the refraction.

These are just a few of the many improvements incorporated in one instrument to help the doctor improve your vision. Optics and Optometry have come a long way since the phoropter was invented. The Humphrey Vision Analyzer—20th century technology making a difference you can see.

Old high school works for blind and retarded

By RICH PERLBERG

"Jenny took off her clothes when she went to the bathroom. Is that normal?"
"All her clothes?"
"Her pants. She took them off and threw them across the room."
"That's normal."

There is no such thing as a normal day at the Main Street Annex. Students roller skate in the hall. They scramble up rope ladders and pounce on trampolines. They listen to loud music in class and, even though some are 25 years old, they practice such basic skills as toothbrushing and buttoning a blouse.

But the most remarkable thing that happens may be when the final bell rings. Then, the students in the second floor file to their lockers and methodically climb down two flights of stairs to the buses waiting outside.

Why is this remarkable? Because they are not normal students. They are severely retarded. Most of them are also blind. As if two strikes weren't enough, many have other physical handicaps, including deafness. Yet most of them daily negotiate the stairs without assistance.

"When I first came here, I was amazed at the independence of the children," says Beth Flack who became Annex supervisor in September.

As institutionalized retarded — all but a few live in the Plymouth Center for Human Development — these 62 students are part of society's invisible people.

Ignored, neglected and sometimes abused, they have been hidden in institutions for most of their lives until a 1972 law demanded that they receive an education.

Even so, they have been relegated to a 60-year-old former Northville High School whose floors literally sag because of aging beams and whose use to the school district is so minimal that the school board has said it will not spend a penny of local money on its rehabilitation. State funds have consistently fallen through bureaucratic cracks.

The school and the children were made for each other.

Terry spent most of his 20 years in a wheelchair because nobody thought he could walk. He could and he does every day at the Annex.

"Look at him, he can't walk," says Carole Martin with a mixture of sarcasm and pride. A mobility specialist, Ms. Martin is helping Terry walk, slowly and painstakingly, down a flight of stairs.

"When he first came to the school, we had to physically carry him up the stairs and that was little more than a year ago," she says.

Now besides his daily walks, Terry "jogs" eight laps around the gym under the guidance of Gym Teacher Al Katsimpalis.

It's a tremendous gain for one year, but the 20-year habits of dependency are hard to break. Unless constantly chided, Terry is willing to revert to his old ways of helplessness.

"Of course, he'll sit down," says Ms. Martin. "It's easier to sit down."

The Annex, a modern-day architectural nightmare, is loaded with obstacles that at first glance would seem to prohibit its use by the blind, retarded or otherwise. But the stairs,

SPEAKING

By BILL SLIGER

I don't think I've talked to Art Jahn since August 3, 1972.

That's the week I editorially supported his opponent for Northville Township supervisor in the primary election. Among other things, here's what I wrote about Candidate Jahn:

"It troubles me that Jahn has a history of difficulties with the township over landfill operations adjoining his business, that he recently made application for a liquor license for a proposed restaurant, and that he chooses this time to run for the township board."

Jahn lost the election. But four years later his protege, Wilson Grier, upset the incumbent supervisor and demonstrated that he didn't need newspaper support to do it.

So I was understandably surprised Monday when Jahn called to say he would like to talk to me.

As most area residents know, Jahn is a hard-working businessman who developed the A & W Root Beer enterprise and later built the Park Haus Restaurant and a soon-to-be-opened office complex on Northville road.

He told me Monday afternoon that he had encouraged Grier to run for supervisor two years ago. And he explained that young Grier had been like a son to him and had worked in his business for many years.

But why had Jahn come to talk to me?

"It's this way," Jahn explained. "I'd like Wilson to be supervisor for two more years. I don't think he should be there any longer."

He emphasized that he thought Grier had been an excellent supervisor, that he was better qualified than Thomson, and that Grier did not know that he (Jahn) had come to my office to talk to me.

Then he made his pitch. Lay off Grier in the upcoming election when the supervisor plans to wage a write-in campaign. In return Grier will see to it that the city and township become one city.

Grier's the only one who can do it, explained Jahn.

I thought about this conversation all night Monday. And I've wrestled with the problem of what to do about it. I decided to write it just as it happened.

In retrospect I'm rather proud of my conduct in this instance. Usually my temper disengages my brain under such circumstances and I blow up. But I actually thanked Jahn for coming to see me. I didn't even mention the feeling of disappointment . . . that after all these years in Northville someone thinks I've got a price . . . in this instance, annexation or consolidation of the community.

No way, my friend. The people — not the press or Bill Sliger — decide who to elect. And at the primary in August they chose Thomson over Grier. Now the latter says he will try again as a write-in. And this newspaper gave him a most generous account in last week's edition of why the supervisor thinks he should be re-elected.

But I won't vote for Grier. And I'll encourage everyone I can to vote for Thomson. There's nothing more revealing than what I have written here to explain why I think we need a new supervisor.

It has nothing to do with talent, effort or time spent working at the job. It's something far more precious to grass roots' government. And I don't think I could ever explain it to either Jahn or Grier.

Voters will find a full ballot when they go to the polls on November 7. They will be selecting their favorites for U.S. Senator, Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of State, Attorney General, State Legislature, State Board of Education, U of M, MSU and WSU boardmembers, Supreme Court, Circuit Court, Court of Appeals and District Court.

In addition there are 11 different proposals ranging from a request to permit the deposit of state funds in savings and loan associations and credit unions as well as banks to the better-known tax-limiting and reduction issues.

Between now and election time this newspaper will attempt to explain the various proposals to help reduce voting booth confusion. Editorially, we'll also make recommendations on certain races and issues.

On November 1 a special "election guide" will be published covering all area ballot issues.

But one race where we find it easy to make a recommendation involves the district court judgeship.

We strongly support Philip R. Ogilvie for election to the newly-established second position on the district court serving the communities of Northville, Plymouth and Canton. Judge Dunbar Davis is the incumbent and is unopposed.

It isn't because Ogilvie lives in Northville and has been city attorney for more than 20 years that we suggest local voters should support his candidacy for judge.

Ogilvie has earned the right to be a judge in the community.

Beyond his qualifications, which include a long career in the practice of law and weekly involvement in the activities of the district court plus nearly two years of service as a municipal judge, Ogilvie has been a consistent contributor to programs of community improvement.

There are no instant-pills that can be consumed to achieve the experience and local knowledge that Ogilvie has acquired simply by being here and freely giving of his time and talent.

He is a typical smalltown lawyer who, in many ways, has operated much like the legendary rural family doctor who cared more about the welfare of the patient than their ability to pay.

Phil Ogilvie is no ball of fire. He can be exasperating if speed is demanded. He has one speed, a notch above neutral.

But he cares about people and he knows his territory. The district court is still operating a probation department to help people in need that was established by Ogilvie when he was municipal judge.

Without taking a thing away from his opponent for district court judge it would be unfair to award the position of judge to anyone but Ogilvie.

He's done his homework. He's paid his dues.

Vote for Ogilvie for district judge.

Speaking for Myself

Force reporters to divulge sources?

DAVID GEE

YES . . .

Basically, yes. Depending on the individual case, reporters should be jailed for refusing to turn over information to the court.

It would depend if the case were civil or criminal or if the reporter's personal health or welfare were in jeopardy. If the source is known to be violent, for example.

But in most cases, the courts are not interested in the identity of the informant. To say that news sources would "dry up" as a result, is an altruistic argument. If the informant's name is not revealed and he cannot be identified, sources would still come forward.

Journalists have the duty to come forward with important confidential information, especially in criminal cases. It's all or nothing. The minute any part of the information is used, it's no longer confidential.

If a journalist is to print accusatory stories, then an investigatory body is entitled to all of the information for its investigatory purposes, just as the reporter's used part of it.

It's an I-dare-you-to-knock-it-off-my-shoulder kind of thing between the courts and the media. But to take the sting out of the situation, the reporter's notes should be turned over to both the defense and prosecuting attorneys.

The judge and attorneys should sit down with the reporter and review the information in the proper context. And the notes, which are private property, should be reproduced so that the reporter may also retain them.

Recent publicized cases are isolated ones, they are not jeopardizing the journalism profession.

Judge Paul Mahinske
Livingston County Circuit Court

NO . . .

An emphatic no! Reporters should not be held in contempt of court, which exposes them to a possible jail sentence, for refusing to identify their confidential informants.

It is common knowledge that some of the very significant news which the public reads is received from confidential sources.

If reporters are forced to violate this confidentiality it not only jeopardizes their opportunities for more information but all reporters may find that their informants are no longer quite as willing. It is a distinct possibility that the exposure of Watergate may not have taken place if "Deepthroat" knew that Carl Bernstein and Bob Woodward would have to reveal their source of information.

The Constitution provides there shall be no abridgment of the freedom of speech or the freedom of the press. Our founding fathers deemed these fundamental rights so important that they were included in the first amendment. For the courts to interpret the Constitution in a manner which violates these rights is to place a form of self-censorship on reporters.

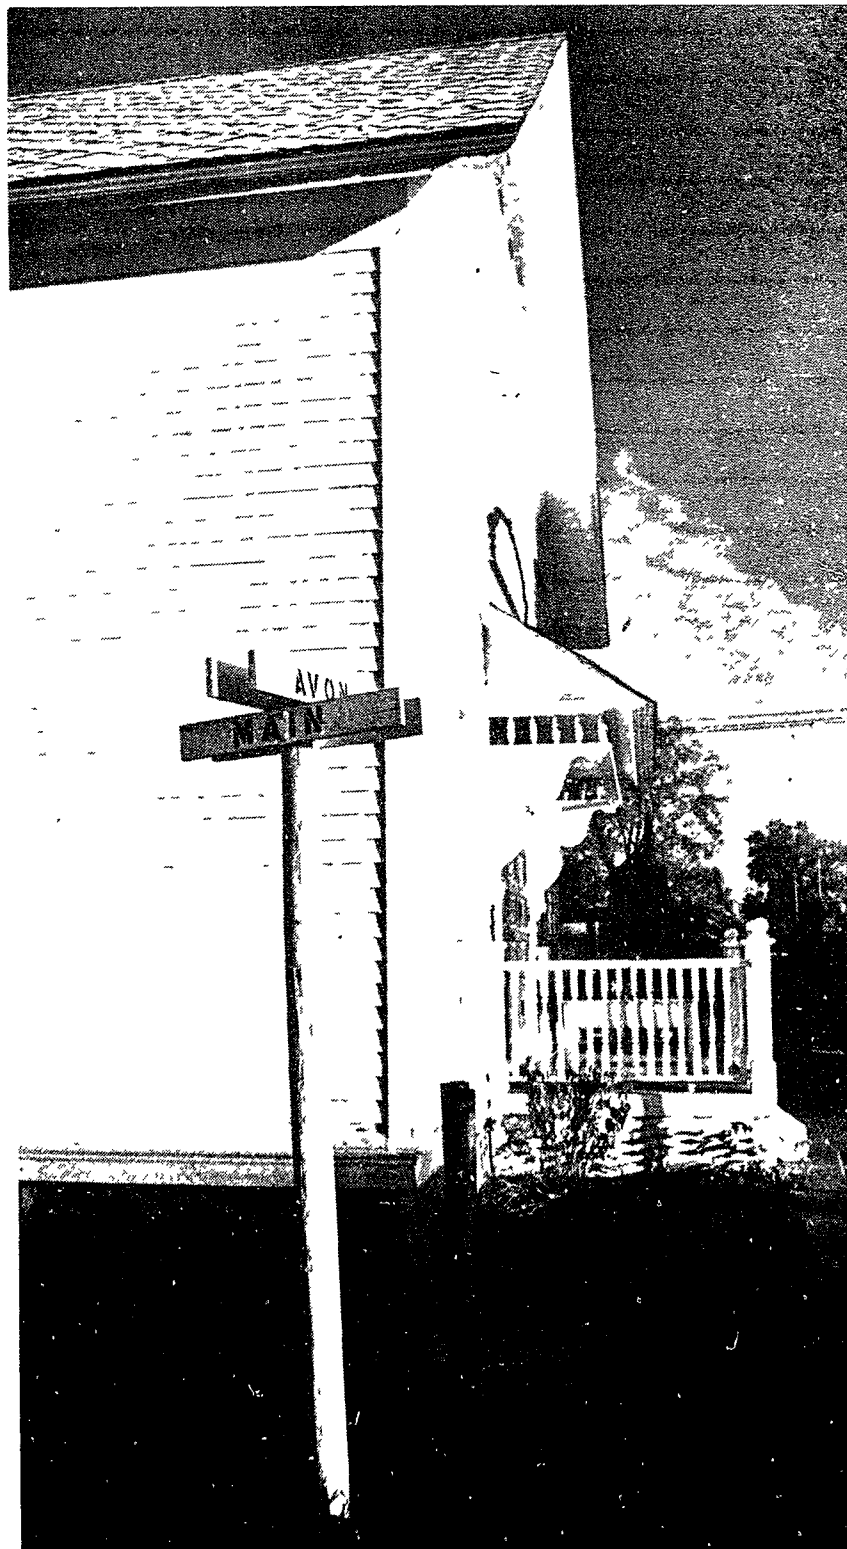

As a result reporters face a dilemma of whether to print news of great public interest and face a probable jail term if they keep their informant's identity confidential or remain silent, which actually is an abridgment of the public's right to the information.

Let's not make journalists a new type of investigative tool for the government.

HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

Some personal phooeys.

Phooey on all those "the sky is falling" alarmists, who are fighting the throw-away ban that goes into effect in December. To hear them tell it implementation by December will work a hardship on everyone concerned . . . even though it was two years ago that the people of Michigan voted in the new law. With two years to prepare for implementation of the ban, there's no excuse for procrastination.

Cost of the ban will be catastrophic, we are told, and that cost inevitably will be passed on to the public. So what's new? Who do they think has been paying for the cleaning up of all those throw-away bottles and cans? Either way the public pays, but at least with the ban we pay in a cleaner environment.

I'll vote for raising the drinking age to 21 . . . and I'll make no excuse for the unreasonableness of my position. If I had my way the age would be raised to 25.

To those who argue that the 18-year-old youth who can be made to fight for his country should be able to drink at 18 . . . or 19, I say phooey. For this unreasonable columnist, that argument makes no more sense that saying a person should be eligible to be President of these United States at the age he can lawfully start drinking.

Phooey on all the suddenly "fiscally responsible" public officials who are running scared in the face of the tax amendments on the November 7 ballot.

I won't vote for the Tisch amendment, but I sure like the way the "country bumpkin" drain commissioner has persuaded public officials to be a little more cautious about spending our tax dollars. His "club approach" may not be very genteel, but it sure beats the dickens out of the heretofore unheeded pleas of the tax-socked public.

And, finally, phooey on the elective process that makes partisan politics the key to election to the state board of education and the boards of our three major universities.

Readers Speak

Tisch would cost schools dearly

To the Editor:
Robert Tisch's presentation at Schoolcraft College, reported in last week's Record, contained one outright error and other soothing but questionable statements about how his proposal would affect the public schools.

Tisch stated that the assessment cuts contained in his amendment would not occur until 1980, thus, public officials would have a year to prepare for them. The Citizens Research Council of Michigan, a respected and non-partisan body which reviews legislation concerning the public interest, disputes this.

In COUNCIL COMMENTS, No. 901, they report: "The proposed amendment would apply beginning with the December 31, 1978 assessment date which is the base for property taxes levied in 1979."

Thus, the revenue loss to schools caused by passage of the Tisch amendment would impact in the schools' 1979-1980 budget year which begins July 1, 1979. That loss, according to the Wayne County Bureau of Taxation, would amount to $2,656,130 for the Northville schools.

How is this loss to be made up? Tisch says the state aid formula will make up for it. The formula being just a formula needs a tax source before it can operate. The question is, from what tax source will the state get the money for the formula to distribute? Not from an increased income tax says Tisch, as he denies that need to raise the personal income tax to the 5.6 percent limit his proposal imposes.

Next he takes away the single business tax as a formula source. "I don't think the business community is so weak they are going to lay like sheep before the wolves up there." Also, "I don't believe the single business tax is going to be increased. I think the legislature realizes it is at the end of the road being irresponsible."

So Tisch is telling us it is possible to cut the revenue of our school district by over two-and-one-half million dollars, without needing to increase either the personal income tax or the single business tax to raise money to compensate for that cut.

The Citizens Research Council isn't buying that. They say, "Basically, the state would be faced with the decision of whether to increase state or local taxes or non-tax revenues to offset the local revenue loss, or to absorb the loss by reducing expenditures at the state or local level, or some combination of these alternatives."

If the state chooses to reduce local expenditures our schools will not have their loss made up and the effects of this will be felt in every classroom in the district. If the state makes up the loss by raising other taxes, it is altogether likely that the state will also increase its influence and control over our schools. Still more educational decisions that should be made at home will be made in Lansing.

It is essential that voters understand the impact that the Tisch Amendment would have on their schools before they cast their ballots on November 7.

Yours truly,
Douglas A. Whitaker, President
Northville Board of Education

20 years olds. Now, in 1978 we're saying, "That's right, you are adults with all the legal responsibilities and obligations attendant with being adults. However, when it comes to drinking you're not ready for that so we're not going to allow you that privilege any longer." Shades of, "Blacks to the back of the bus!"

The real issue here is blatant discrimination on the basis of age! And all the statistics in the world on alcohol related traffic fatalities can't cover that up.

"There is no inherent right to consume alcohol", states Walters. Agreed. But what makes him and others who hold his view think they have the inherent right to deny legal adults, citizens, one of the privileges granted them by law? No matter that 24 other states don't allow drinking until age 21. How many of them grant legal status to 18-20 year olds?

This has become a movement based upon emotions and, as such, logic has been shoved aside. This is clearly a fundamental, constitutional issue and only rational, intelligent thinking should be allowed to prevail.

Tom Zimmerman

To the Editor:

Regarding Steven Walters' opinion concerning the drinking age expressed in, "Speaking for Myself" (Oct. 11). Arguments such as his are typical of those striving to impress others through use of statistics.

Rather than state that alcohol related auto accidents have increased by 20 percent among 18-20 year old drivers, why not use hard figures? Twenty percent of what number? 5? 100? 1000?

Certainly the increase in these mishaps is alarming. Almost as certainly, I'd be willing to say, the number of 18-20 year olds defaulting on loans has grown substantially. Yet no one is insisting we deny them the right to secure loans.

In 1972, we granted adult status to 18-

Welcomes new PTSO members

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Executive Board of the Northville High School Parent-Teacher-Student Organization (PTSO), I'd like to thank and publicly welcome all 72 new members who joined last Wednesday during parent-teacher conferences in the high school cafeteria. We hope many more teachers and students as well as parents will support the PTSO this year for what should prove to be an involving series of programs and activities.

Our first general membership meeting is scheduled for next Tuesday evening, October 24, when an informal reception will be held for new Northville School Superintendent Lawrence Nichols and for this year's exchange students and their local sponsors. The reception, together with a brief program, will take place at 8 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

A Sports Sell-Or-Swap-A-Thon is being arranged for Saturday, November 4, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., again in the cafeteria. All used sports equipment — ice skates, football or baseball shoes, ski poles, etc. — which members of your family may wish to dispose of may be sold or swapped during this event, with a portion of the proceeds hopefully being donated to the PTSO. Further details will be released to The Record as finalized, but in the meantime, if interested, contact Ted Marzonia at 349-2903.

I'd also like to point out that Executive Board meetings are now scheduled to be held on the second Wednesday of each month at 8 p.m. at the high school and that interested parents, teachers and students are invited to attend. While progress is being made in addressing school problems, there are still a great many questions being asked about curriculum concerns, need for maintenance improvement, discipline and attendance policies, and other matters related to our high school, and only by your personal involvement can you help bring about necessary change.

If you'd like to help us, please call me at 348-9818. The PTSO will greatly appreciate your involvement.

Sincerely,
Jim Lewis

From little walnuts do city-sized problems grow

Among other things the city council Monday night listened sympathetically to a businessman's problem with falling walnuts, and worried aloud about the heavy workload it has been piling on the city manager.

After having been turned down by the planning commission last month James J. Bress took his falling-walnut problem to the city council. He would like to remove the two huge black walnut trees that spread over his parking lot at his soon-to-be opened fast-food service business at Center and Rayson streets.

Bress explained that the falling walnuts completely cover the paved lot for a period of about two months. They create a hazard when they fall, he said, because they can hurt someone or damage a car. Also they create a slippery condition on the paved parking lot surface.

He said he had been told by nurserymen that the trees would die within two years because of the asphalt paving around the trees. He requested permission from the council to remove the trees and replace them with Moraine Locusts, which he said would grow well on the site.

Hesitatingly, Councilman Stanley

Johnston asked if "walnut trees can be ..."

"Do you mean 'fixed'?" asked Councilman Dewey Gardner.

"That's it," responded Johnston, "so they won't bear walnuts."

Councilman Johnston said that in his opinion if the city had the same problem with its own trees in parking lots creating a nuisance and liability consideration, that the council would probably have them removed.

The consensus of councilmembers was that this was probably true. But they decided that Bress should first explore all alternatives before reaching a final decision. The "falling" season is nearly over and it appeared that the council would approve removal of the trees if a better solution could not be found before next season.

It was Councilman Johnston who reminded fellow councilmembers at the close of Monday night's session that the city manager is overworked.

"How much longer can we continue to pile projects on the expect the city manager to keep up? I know he's burning the midnight oil"

Whodunit? Choices made for fall play

Whodunit? Was it Lettie? Or Flint? or Clive? Maybe it was Dr. Grayburn of Miss Tweed.

Whoeverdunit, he or she will be unmasked November 16, 17 and 18 when the curtains open for Northville High School's annual fall play, "Something Afoot".

The murder musical mystery has 8 p.m. showtimes on each night and a 1 p.m. matinee on Sunday, November 18.

Director Kurt Kinde announced the cast last week:

Lettie — Karen Toms, Flint — Steve Morgan, Clive — Doug McLaren, Hope — Jill Berquist, Dr. Grayburn — Vicki Beauchamp, Nigel — Scott Santos, Lady Grace Manley Prowe — Diana Perpich, Col. Grillweather — John Wagner, Miss Tweed — Lisa Willoughby, Geoffrey — Bob Daniels, Lord Rancourt — Francis Olewnik.

Toni Vadnais, choreographer; Sheryl Wissman, vocal director; Debbie Kunde, costumes; Carolyn Cover and Kay Chandler, stage directors.

Crew heads are Francis Olewnik, props, Tom Andrews, lights; Earl Renaud, special effects, Mary Hartmann, publicity; Allen Young, tickets; John Wagner, make-up, Nancy Orr, costumes and Brian Postma and Jim Cooper, set.

Again this year, two free tickets to the play await the winner of the poster-design contest.

All entries should be on 14-by-22-inch paper, include the name, dates, place, time and price of the play, and should be turned into Kinde at the high school by Friday.

The play will be staged at the high school auditorium. Tickets, available at the high school, cost $3.50 for adults and $3 for students.

The winning poster will be used to advertise the play.

House looking for lot

This vacant old house on East Cady Street, between Center and Church streets, is to be given to the Northville Jaycees and moved by John Carlo, executive manager of Northville Downs, "provided we can find a suitable lot for it," says Jaycee President John Stilson (foreground), who notes that Jaycees plan to use it as a clubhouse. If anyone has a lot that could be made available to Jaycees, Stilson would appreciate a telephone call at 349-3203. The house sits on property that eventually will become a parking deck serving the Downs. "We are delighted with Mr. Carlo's offer," says Stilson. "Not only would it make a suitable home for our club, but by moving and maintaining it we can save one of the community's old buildings."

carpets, and many concrete steps and room dividers have proven ideal for teaching self-reliance.

"It's not such a strain to go places with the kids anymore," explains Ms. Martin. "You can take them to circuses and places that demand a physical effort. It used to be that stairs or new kinds of floor surfaces would freak them out. Now they are used to it."

Todd, a diminutive 17-year-old, cries, screams and pummels his head with both hands when he is upset. The Annex staff thinks he is unnerved by new environments since he generally calms down after a half hour or so in a new room.

Frustration may also be the issue. Since most students cannot talk understandably, they are taught sign language. When Todd cannot remember a sign, he throws temper tantrums.

Nobody knows the reason for sure. "If we did, we could cure it," says his teacher, Sharon Phillips. Still, stopping self-abuse, in a positive rather than punitive way, is the main goal for Todd this school year.

Self abuse is a frequent problem among the Annex students. Deprived of sight and hearing, the students turn to pain as a source of stimulation. It is also a way to gain attention for youngsters who are often ignored at understaffed institutions unless they misbehave.

"We find it (self abuse) with students who live at home but not as often," says Supervisor Flack. Regurgitation, by as many as 80 percent of the students, is also characteristic.

Angie, 13, is the sweetheart of the first-floor room for students who are blind and deaf. She used to be so self abusive that her arms were physically restrained. Now she has found an alternate and unexpected stimulant — music.

Although presumed deaf, Angie, with the aid of an amplifier and earphones, apparently can sense the vibrations from a record player. "I think she likes rock and roll best, anything with a beat," says Aide Karen Marzonie.

When the sound is on, Angie — who has no father and who was visited at the Center only once by her mother — is in Seventh Heaven, bouncing on Ms. Marzonie's knee, hugging the aide and laughing gloriously.

A lovable child, Angie symbolizes a problem. There is a tendency to spend more attention on cute kids than on their less attractive classmates. "But they need hugs and affection, too," says a staffer.

Because most of these students are blind, have extremely low mental capacities and cannot effectively communicate, it is nearly impossible to know what they are thinking.

"Sometimes I really wish I knew what is going on in there," concedes one aide. Another aide, Bob Champion, adds somewhat wondrously that a girl named Tina laughs uproariously every time she is pushed on a swing.

"You have to remember that she has never seen a swing," he explains, and because she is deaf, she has never had it described to her. You have to wonder what type of contraption she thinks she

The staff also wonders what happens to their students when they return each day to the Plymouth Center. The institution generally lacks the manpower and the training of the Annex staff and was rocked earlier this year by stories of neglect, abuse and cover-up.

Most of all, teachers fear that the poor behavior they are combatting at school may be ignored or even reenforced at the center.

The students, they say, are often allowed to sit idly, doing what they please as long as they don't cause trouble. "It can be like spending 20 years of your life doing absolutely nothing," says a teacher.

Although there are exceptions — Terry has been tested as having normal IQ and efforts are being made to enroll him in the Michigan School for the Blind — most of the Annex students are severely retarded.

Even so, there is a wide disparity among their abilities. In the relatively higher levels, the year's goal may be to learn 100 sign symbols.

David, an active 12 years old, is rare. First, he was adopted by parents who knew full well that he was retarded. Second, he seems loaded with potential which Aide Champion thinks could be developed if someone could work with him on a one-to-one basis.

"He still tries to cut off his oxygen and punch his neck. I think he's sad over losing sight. He's always been deaf but he lost his vision a few years ago."

The chance for one-to-one attention seems remote. Already much better staffed and financed than the institutions — a class of nine may have a teacher and two or three aides — the special education program in Northville spends more than is spent on a normal child.

To work at the Annex demands patience, dedication and endurance. Success, when it comes, is barely perceptible and the students — who can appear grotesque to the uninitiated — are severe tests. Sometimes violent, the "youngsters" (many are over 20 years old), frequently have poor hygiene habits and often need assistance to go to the bathroom.

The daily drain can take its toll. The phrase "burn out" is well known to the staff.

"It's frustrating, don't let anyone tell you different," says Ms. Phillips, a teacher at the Annex since 1975, who is considering a change. "I think I need something where I could see more productive results."

The work can be rewarding. Denise Silver, who decided to get her special education degree after working at Plymouth Center, is now a substitute teacher.

"When they achieve something, it's just as happy for me as it is for them," she says. "Sure you get discouraged. Frustration is a better word. But I don't like it when people tell me I must have a lot of patience to work in special ed. It sounds so trite."

Paula, 16, sits motionless, responding only if someone puts his hands over her ears. No one knows why, but this brings a smile. And only hands, not earmuffs, will do.

She has been in the program for at least two years and one of her instructors was asked if he had seen any improvement. "Not really," he said.

Intensive work with retarded people is more than a noble experiment for Beth Flack, who has seen tangible results since coming to the Annex.

"I'm impressed with how the staff has shaped up behaviors," she says. "In three years, they have really come a long way."

Through the work at the Annex, she says, students will be better able to interact with their environment.

"We need to develop the goals that are appropriate. It's a lot of work but it's possible."

What is difficult, she says, is the students' mercurial behavior. The way they act in identical situations can fluctuate widely from day to day.

"The important thing is for the staff to consistently respond to the positive actions in the same way," she said.

"Reinforcement (for well-done deeds) has to be immediate, as soon as the response. The reinforcement might be food, music, gym, but we can't select it. It has to come from the children."

When things work well, the staff can notice behavior differences at the Annex and at the institution.

"There is a boy who wraps himself up in his shirt when he is at the center. He never does that in school."

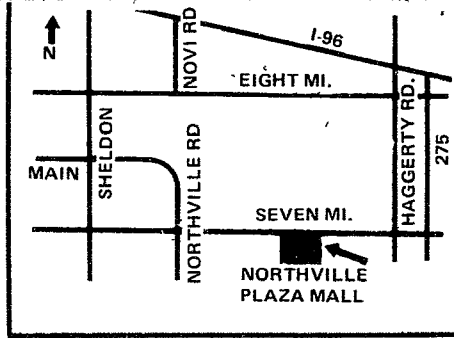

Still, there are many like Paula whose advances are slight if at all. They, argues Ms. Flack, deserve also the special attention afforded at the Annex.

"Whatever improvement you can make with their lives is what you are looking for with any child," she says.

Churchill rolls early to crush Mustangs, 27-7

The Mustangs went down to Livonia Churchill seeking Western Six football glory last Friday night, and came away wishing they'd never seen the place.

Stung by three first-half touchdowns within a span of just over 10 minutes, the local gridders lost just about any hopes they'd entertained of challenging for this year's league crown as the unbeaten Chargers and their overpowering ground game rolled on, 27-7.

"They just put it to us, that's all there is to it," Northville Coach Chuck Shonta remarked later. "They came ready to play football and we didn't."

The Chargers obviously came without any intentions of letting down after a tight, 21-15 victory over defending champ Farmington Harrison the week before.

And much to the delight of the packed homecoming crowd — and the chagrin of the visiting Mustangs — they were in control from the outset.

Churchill, in fact, scored the first three times it got its hands on the football, putting together touchdown marches of 80, 85 and 43 yards.

Doran Mason, a speedy tailback who's been the Chargers' workhorse in the backfield throughout the season, capped the first drive on a 12-yard run with just under four minutes remaining in the first quarter.

Quarterback Rick Coppola then tossed a perfect 37-yard touchdown pass to Split End Steve Zaborowski and kicked the extra point to give Churchill a 14-0 lead with 9:12 left in the half.

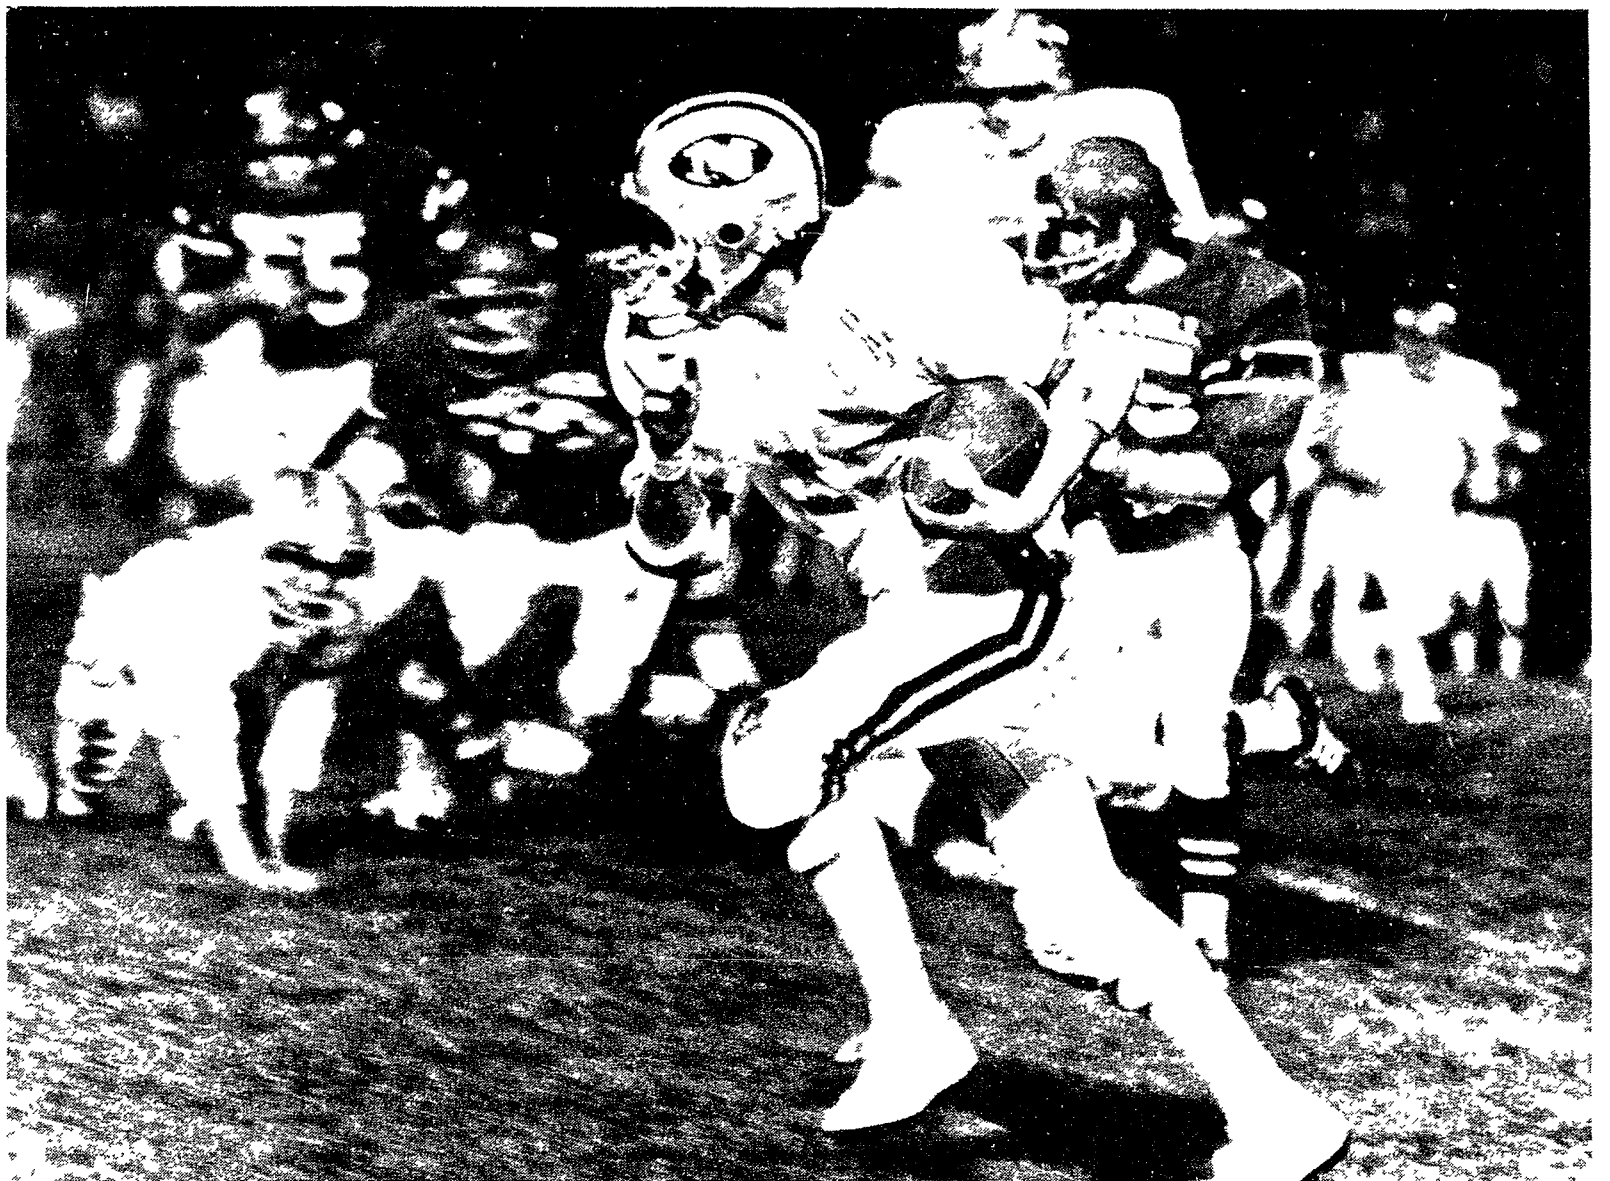

Three-and-a-half minutes later, not long after a 14-yard Northville punt plus an interference penalty gave them field position at the Mustang 28, the Chargers scored again on a 17-yard sweep by Mason. Coppola kicked the extra point, and before they ever woke up the Mustangs were down 21-0.

Still, Shonta wasn't completely disappointed by his team's efforts.

"I'll say this much," he asserted, "our kids came back. They could've quit right there and got beat 40-0, but they kept on fighting."

The Mustangs did bounce back from Churchill's third touchdown drive fairly quickly, taking the ensuing kickoff and marching 71 yards in just four plays to cut the gap to 21-7. Bob Crisan, filling in

Will Mustangs be 'in awe' of Harrison?

Northville will be fighting for more than just second place in its Western Six football finale against Farmington Harrison this Friday.

The Mustangs will be battling to overcome a jinx that's plagued them since joining the league seven years ago. It might be called the "Harrison hex."

Harrison has beaten Northville in all seven of the two schools' meetings, twice costing the Mustangs league championships.

"I would have to rate them (Harrison) as favorites," Coach Chuck Shonta acknowledges. "They have a very fine defense, and they always play well against us."

"But we can't be in awe of them because they're Farmington Harrison. I think it's happened every year to us — the kids don't think they can beat 'em because they're Harrison, or because they're Churchill.

"It's like these schools that go up against the University of Michigan sometimes. They don't think they can beat 'em because they're Michigan, but they're beatable."

Harrison will be led on offense by Quarterback Drew Norton and running backs Dave Turnquist and Jon Brancheau, while Jim Miller and Jeff Hagan anchor a defense that's given up an average of just 10 points a game and has shut out two opponents this season.

The game will take place at Northville beginning at 8 p.m.

Swimmers dunk Canton

Northville didn't set any school records during last week's girls' swimming meet at Plymouth Canton — somewhat of an oddity, considering how the Mustangs have been doing so far this fall.

But the local girls did accomplish something just as significant, as far as Coach Ben Lauber is concerned. Displaying the sort of teamwork that's characterized their efforts all season long, the Mustangs had nine girls set personal records on the way to an easy 108-64 victory Thursday.

"Actually, in some respects we didn't swim as well as we had been," Lauber observed, noting that Northville had only one time improvement among the eight events the team won. "But I think we tightened our depth up, which is shown by all the improvements by girls who didn't win."

One of the team's top performances came in the 500 freestyle. Although Northville didn't take a first in that event (Canton's Cheryl Massey won it in 42:6), all three girls who swam it had personal bests, giving the Mustangs a 2-3-4 finish.

Kim Storm, one of the top-ranked short distance freestylers in the state, took second place in 5:53.5, but she got some stiff competition from fellow sophomore Nancy Donovan. Donovan, who's been surprisingly strong in the 500 freestyle this year, finished third in 5:54.4, while Kristy Ifversen came next at 6:17.1.

Donovan and Ifversen also had personal bests in the 200 freestyle. Donovan finished third in 2:17.1, Ifversen fourth in 2:21.7), making them the only two Mustangs to improve their times in more than one event.

Other personal bests were registered by Tammi Selridge (individual medley), Laurie Sellen (50 freestyle), Janet Shaw (butterfly), Carolyn Brown (100 freestyle), Lori Hackmann (100 freestyle) and Sue Cahill (backstroke).

Cahill's 1:04.7 clocking in the backstroke was good for one of the team's eight first places. Northville also posted victories in the 200 freestyle (Allyson Farquhar in 2:04.4), individual medley (Cahill in 2:18.2), 50 freestyle (Kyle Roggenbuck in 26.0), 100 freestyle (Roggenbuck in 58.5), breaststroke (Farquhar in 1:11.0), 200-yard medley relay (Allyson and Leslie Farquhar, Cahill and Storm in 2:02.3) and 400-yard freestyle relay (Sellen, Hackmann, Laurie Leinonen and Roggenbuck in 4:11.5).

Turning in second-place finishes for the local girls were Shaw (butterfly and breaststroke), Sellen (50 freestyle), Storm (500 freestyle) and the 400-yard freestyle relay team of Brown, Storm, and Donovan and Kellie Kissel.

Their victory over Canton gave the Mustangs a 6-0 record overall this season, 3-0 in the Western Six. Last night they faced perhaps their toughest dual meet opponent of the season in a non-league clash against Plymouth Salem.

Tomorrow Northville returns to Western Six action with a meet at Farmington Harrison, then faces league newcomer Waterford Mott in Waterford next Tuesday.

'Soccer night' is coming

A featured match between the Northville Soccer Club and Livonia Stevenson, former state high school soccer champions, will highlight a "Soccer Night in Northville" to be held at the high school football field a week from tomorrow (October 26).

The soccer match will pit Stevenson's current varsity players against a group of outstanding local players, most of whom played for Northville Arsenal's championship 16-and-under Western Suburban Soccer League team last year.

During halftime of the game two Detroit Express professional soccer players will hold a clinic on the field.

Admission to the event is $1 for adults and $.50 for youngsters. Its purpose is to promote soccer in the Northville area.

State finals are next!

Netters place 2nd in regionals

From the beginning, this season has seemed like something special for Northville's girls tennis team.

They've been knee-deep in talent and free from injuries all season long, they've been walking through their Western Six opposition without so much as a stiff challenge, and they've been getting consistent performances from their singles and doubles players, from newcomers and returning lettermen alike.

But the Mustangs probably weren't quite ready for what happened last weekend.

Playing perhaps their best overall tennis of the season, the local girls finished second at the Class A regionals in Southfield Saturday, thus qualifying for the state finals in Midland this weekend. It was by far the highest finish ever for a Northville team in the regionals, and marked the first time ever that the entire squad has qualified for the state tournament.

"We had quite a fantastic bunch of matches," Coach Uta Filkin bubbled.

"I didn't really expect that at all, but the girls played their hearts out."

Although nine of the Mustangs were seeded higher than third, Northville came home with two regional champions plus a runner-up, and in all but two matches the local girls advanced beyond the second round and into the semi-finals.

They wound up with 16 points overall in the 15-school field, finishing runner-up to powerful Birmingham Groves (24 points) and just ahead of third-place Farmington Our Lady of Mercy (14 points). Only the top two regional finishers qualify for state.

The Mustangs' two regional champs were second singles sensation Lynn Herald and the third doubles team of Lisa Friel and Debbie Spade.

Herald, seeded third, won four straight matches to capture her flight, but it was far from being easy. After disposing of opponents from Henry Ford (6-4, 6-2) and Southfield-Lathrup (6-0, 6-4) in the first two rounds, Herald won a pulse-pounding two-set match over the second seed from Berkley in the semi-finals.

She not only won both sets on tiebreakers (7-6, 7-6), but went the nine-point limit in both tiebreakers, coming back from a 4-1 deficit to win the latter, 5-4. The unbeaten junior netter then knocked off top seed Wendy Allen of Birmingham Groves in the finals, 6-3, 3-6, 6-0.

"Lynn was really on, she was really hitting well," Filkin said of her second singles ace, who'd never gone three sets before the regional finals. "She just played fantastic tennis."

Friel and Spade, meanwhile, won three straight matches after drawing a first-round bye. Although seeded only fourth, the two Mustangs swept past all three of their opponents in straight sets.

After beating Southfield (6-1, 6-0) in the second round, they edged past the second-seeded team from Southfield-Lathrup (7-5, 6-4) in the semi-finals, then knocked off Birmingham Groves' top-seeded duo with surprising ease in the finals, 6-2 and 6-0.

Northville's lone runner-up was third singles player Eve Engelmeyer, who breezed past each of her first three opponents in straight sets before losing to top-seeded Liz Fuller of Birmingham Groves in the finals, 6-1 and 6-0.

Her victories came against girls from Southfield (6-0, 6-2), Farmington Harrison (6-0, 6-0) and Southfield-Lathrup (6-1, 6-1). Like Herald, she was seeded third but beat a second-seeded player in the semi-finals.

Both the Mustangs' other two singles players — number one singles Holly Sixt and number four singles Kelly Jamieson advanced to the semis before bowing out. Sixt, seeded third, beat opponents from Southfield-Lathrup (6-1, 6-2) and North Farmington (6-0, 6-0) before losing to league rival Nancy Green of Farmington Harrison (6-3, 6-4) while Jamieson shot past girls from Henry Ford (6-1, 6-1) and Farmington High (6-2, 7-5) before getting defeated by top-seeded Monica Shuck of Groves (6-2, 6-3).

Lynn Herald was a regional champion

Turn season around

Golfers have a big, big week

About this time three weeks ago, Northville's chances of capturing an eighth straight Western Six golf championship — or any other major honor this season, for that matter — seemed slim at best.

Midway through their dual match schedule they sported a mediocre 3-2 league record and were floundering in third place. They were inconsistent — once dropping 39 strokes from their team score in a matter of just six days — and they hadn't won either of their two non-league matches, indicating that perhaps they weren't even a .500 club against outside competition.

But oh, how those Northville golfers have a way of coming through when it counts.

Led by Jim Marcicki, Todd Mack and Bob Stephens, Northville finished its season with a flurry of honors over the past week, shooting its way to a second-place finish in Saturday's Class A regional meet and then storming to victory in the Western Six meet two days later.

The Mustangs' performance in the regional meet — held at the University of Michigan course, in Ann Arbor — gave them their first state finalist berth in two years (each of the top three regional finishers qualify for state) while their showing at the league meet earned them a tie with Waterford Mott for first-place honors in the Western Six.

"I'm very happy with the way these guys have played," Coach Joe Blake said after his team's performance at Monday's league meet at Hartland Glen. "I'm extremely proud of 'em."

"It's really something when you consider that four of the six golfers we took to the league meet this year didn't even play (on the varsity) last season." Stephens and John Pawlowski were the only veterans. They shot 79 and 80 respectively at Hartland Glen's 18-hole course.

Combined with a 77 by Mack, a junior, plus 83's by Marcicki, a senior, and sophomore Ted Seltz, that gave the local squad a 402 total. Mott, which beat Northville twice during the dual match season, finished runner-up at 45 while Farmington Harrison came in a close third at 406.

Based on a 6-5-4-3-2-1 scale according to a team's standing in dual match play and in the league meet, the Mustangs wound up with 11 points. Mott, which finished first during the regular season, also had 11 points, although for a few minutes it appeared as though Northville had captured the title outright.

"When the scores were turned in (at the league meet)," Blake recalled, "both Harrison and Mott had 405's, but there was a mistake made in adding up Harrison's." Had Harrison actually matched Mott's 405 total, the Waterford club would have compiled only 10½ points and finished second instead.

While the Western Six co-championship was enough of a feat to keep Blake smiling this week, it was particularly satisfying in light of the team's state qualifying performance at the regionals.

Thanks to an outstanding round of golf by Marcicki, the Mustangs headed a tight group of schools that were battling for second in Ann Arbor. They finished with a four-man total of 331 over the 18-hole layout, nine strokes off Ypsilanti's winning pace. Livonia Bentley placed third with a 334 total in the 20-school field.

Marcicki shot his best round of the season — a 78 — and finished just one stroke behind the tournament's individual medalist. Stephens and Mack followed up with 83's while Pawlowski had an 87.

"That was great," Blake said of Marcicki's showing. "A lot of credit for our doing so well in the regionals has to go to him."

Marcicki also had impressive outings in the team's finals three dual matches

Late drive downs Mustangs

Western stuns jayvee gridders

Northville's hopes for a perfect jayvee football season came to a shattering end last Thursday.

Beset by "fumble-itis" and an inability to take advantage of good field position, the Mustangs suffered a heart-breaking 13-12 setback at Walled Lake Western.

Western, trailing 12-6 with just over seven minutes left in the game, stunned Northville's normally airtight defense by marching 83 yards in four minutes for the tying touchdown, capping the drive on a 15-yard pass from Quarterback John Generous to Paul Burke. Mike Xenos kicked the winning extra point with just 3:02 remaining.

The loss broke a 10-game winning streak dating back to early last fall for Northville, and it marked the first time since 1976 that the Mustangs have given up more than 12 points in a jayvee game. In their first five games this year they'd outscored their opponents 189-14.

"Our kids just let up," a disappointed Coach Dennis Colligan remarked afterwards. "I don't know what the deal was."

"The biggest thing we've had all year has been our fine execution, but all of a sudden it just fell apart. We had all the chances in the world to score more, but didn't."

A 38-yard touchdown pass from Dave Greer to Paul Cooper on their first possession of the game gave the Mustangs a 6-0 lead that held up through the first half. But three other times they were stopped after penetrating Western's 15-yard line, twice by lost fumbles and once — on the last play of the half — when Tight End Dave Ford caught a pass just inches out of bounds in the end zone.

"If I had to sum it all up, I'd say that was the story of the game," Colligan said in reference to his team's inability to score from so close. "You just can't get inside an opponent's 15-yard line and not score."

Western tied things up on a one-yard touchdown plunge by Randy Shell on the last play of the third quarter, the first points scored on Northville's defense in 14 quarters.

The Mustangs regained the lead, however, on a 56-yard touchdown run by Rob Burnham with 7:36 remaining in the game, but failed to click on a two-point conversion attempt for the second time that afternoon. Western then put their winning drive together after the ensuing kickoff.

Northville piled up over 300 yards total offense in the game, far outgaining their opponents, but lost the ball five times on fumbles.

The Mustangs' rushing attack, which accounted for 214 yards, was led by Burnham, who had 129 yards in 17 carries plus the fourth-quarter go-ahead touchdown. Greer, though, completed only five of 18 passes for 87 yards, his weakest showing of the season.

Colligan's squad is now 5-1 on the season, with a home game scheduled tomorrow against Livonia Churchill beginning at 7 p.m.

"That's going to be a big game for us," Colligan said, noting that Churchill is the only Western Six squad still unbeaten this season.

"We have to beat them to gain a three-way tie for first place, so we're not out of it yet. But we'll have to forget what happened against Western and concentrate on playing the way we're capable of playing."

Athletes of the week

LISA FRIEL AND DEBBIE SPADE

Lisa Friel and Debbie Spade made for a very underrated third doubles team at the Class A girls' tennis regionals in Southfield last weekend. The two were seeded fourth in their flight, but stunned observers by waltzing past three opponents in straight sets on their way to a regional championship. They defeated the top-seeded duo from Birmingham Groves 6-2 and 6-0 in the finals. Going into the meet Friel and Spade had been 10-1 as a team this fall.

JIM MARCICKI

Without Jim Marcicki, it's safe to say Northville's golf team probably wouldn't be heading over to Battle Creek this week for the Class A state finals. Marcicki, who'd never played, the course before, shot an 18-hole round of 78 at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor last Saturday to lead the Mustangs to a second-place finish in the Class A state regionals. His effort was just one stroke off the top individual score of the meet, which included golfers from 20 schools. Marcicki had a nine-hole average of 39.8 over the course of the season.

Doug Wright steams towards finish line

Ayers wins contest

The horde of surprises that took place in the college football ranks last weekend was upsetting to more than just the teams who lost.

Practically all of the contestants in this paper's weekly football contest took a dive as well. Only 12 entrants, in fact, had less than five mistakes, and only four of those had as few as three.

When the dust cleared the winner was Carolann Ayers of 518 Morgan Circle in Northville, the only contestant with only two mistakes.

Three others had three errors, but only two could finish in the money. They were Pat Hanson of 1895 Greenmeadow in Walled Lake and Todd Bartling of 15866 Portis in Northville Township.

Hanson placed second and Bartling third by virtue of their closer guesses on the score of the Michigan-Michigan State tiebreaker game. Jon Plomer of Redford Township also had just three errors, but finished out of the money.

Eight contestants had four wrong picks. They included Mike Stratton, Chris Cole, Mark Holland, Doug Hansen, John Naar, Doug Eaker, and Rob Ade.

Twenty-three contestants had five wrong, 20 had six mistakes, 18 guessed bad on seven, and the rest missed at least half of the 16 choices.

The tiebreaker game wound up being the biggest villain of all. Only three entrants, in fact, — Bill Hopping, Gerry Gross and Kent Kratz — foresaw Michigan State's stunning 24-15 victory over Michigan. The other headache was Purdue's 27-16 upset victory over Ohio State.

Among last week's other most difficult games were Dartmouth's 10-3 victory over Yale and Novi's 35-29 triumph over Milan.

Hockey team splits a pair

Bob Boshoven continued his strong play at goalie, but Northville-
Novi was only able to come up with a split in a pair of Midget AA hockey games last week.

Bill Knauer scored one goal in each of the first two periods and Boshoven turned in his second straight shutout to lead the local squad to a 3-0 victory over Ann Arbor at Yost Ice Arena last Wednesday. Dean Rose added an insurance goal in the third period.

Four days later, though, Northville-
Novi suffered a 2-0 loss to the Melvindale Sharks despite another exceptional defensive showing.

That left Coach Doug Pattison's team, sponsored by Reef Manufacturing Company, with a 3-1 record going into its first Adray Community Hockey League game last night.

Mustangs take top 6 places, beat Western

It wasn't their best effort of the season, but Northville's cross country squad continued to look impressive in a dual meet victory against Walled Lake Western last Thursday.

Led again by co-captains Brian Turnbull and Jim Bedford, the Mustangs rolled to a 15-49 victory, hiking their league record to 4-0 and their overall mark to 8-1 in dual meets this season.

Turnbull and Bedford paced a 1-2-3-4-5-6 finish for Northville, the second straight meet in which Coach Ralph Redmond's squad has accomplished that.

Turnbull's winning time was 15:58 over the three-mile Cass Benton Park layout while Bedford finished second in 16:09. Behind them, in order, came Harry Couyoumjian, Joe Martin, Doug Wright and Myles Couyoumjian. Steve Bourne placed eighth overall.

"I didn't expect particularly good times unless they were called for," Redmond acknowledged later, explaining that his runners' times have been much better in the past, but that they weren't pushed in this meet.

The Mustangs' next meet takes place tomorrow, when they host Plymouth Canton in their final dual match-up of the season. Next Tuesday they'll attempt to defend their Western Six title in the league meet, which will be held at Cass Benton beginning at approximately 3:30 p.m. or 4 p.m.

7th-8th graders win

Tom Yanoschik's six-yard touchdown run in the first half was the only score in the game as Cooke Junior High's seventh-eighth grade football team defeated Belleville last Wednesday, 6-0.

With no score early in the second quarter, Andy Dimitroff recovered a Belleville fumble at the 21-yard line. Two plays later, following a 15-yard run by Andy Earhart, Yanoschik crashed over for the score.

Cooke rallied twice more — once on a fumble recovery by Jeff Anger at the Belleville 15 in the third quarter and once on a drive to the Belleville two-yard line in the fourth — but failed to score again.

Cooke's ninth-grade gridders weren't so fortunate last week, though.

In a penalty-marred game against Bloomfield Junior High, they suffered a 28-0 setback.

Bloomfield scored four touchdowns on three breakaway runs plus a long pass play.

Cooke had to play without the services of Chris Dimitroff and Dave Jackson, who were sidelined by injuries.

Colts sweep 3 from Garden City

Bouncing back from a 14-7 deficit early in the second half the Northville-Novi Colts Varsity football squad, led by Quarterback Dave Chickowski, rallied for a 21-14 victory over the Garden City Panthers last Saturday.

Chickowski scored all 21 points on three touchdowns and three extra-point conversions as the Colts, whose roster is made up of players from the Northville-Novi-South Lyon area, raised their season record to 5-1.

Chickowski's first scored came late in the second quarter, after the Panthers had jumped out to a 7-0 lead on a 14-play, 60-yard touchdown drive on their first possession. Chickowski rambled in for both the touchdown and the extra point, giving the Colts a 7-7 tie at halftime.

Garden City struck back quickly in the second half, though, scoring on the third play from scrimmage after the opening kickoff and going ahead by seven again.

Not to be outdone, the Colts evened things up later in the stanza on Chickowski's second touchdown and extra point run.

The Panthers almost regained the lead early in the fourth quarter on a 13-play drive, but outstanding defensive play by Shawn Tague, Chris Wagner, Kyle Johnson and Ted Sledz stopped the Panthers inside the Northville-Novi 30.

From there the Colts drove 73 yards in five plays for the winning touchdown, Chickowski scoring with just under five minutes left and adding his third extra point run.

The victory was the Colts' third straight and their fifth this season. They'll celebrate their 10th year of organized junior football competition this Saturday in a homecoming game against the Westland Rockets. The contest will take place at Northville's high school football field.

The junior varsity Colts, meanwhile, maintained their unbeaten record with a 12-6 victory over Garden City Saturday.

The Jayvees are not 5-0-1 on the season and have outscored their opponents 101-19.

After the two teams had battled to a scoreless tie in the first half, full back Doug Hartman and halfback Dave Denhof ran in for touchdowns behind some strong offensive line blocking.

The Colts' defense, meanwhile, limited Garden City to just three first downs in the second half, although the Panthers did manage one touchdown on the local squad.

Heading up the Colts' defense were Dan Perpich, Mike Wissman and Dave Trumbull.

Quarterback Jeff Bainbridge scored two touchdowns and Brett Gillick added another to lead the Colts' freshman squad past Garden City, 19-0.

The victory stopped the freshmen's two-game losing streak and lifted their season record to 4-2. All four wins have been shutouts.

Bainbridge opened the scoring on a two-yard keeper in the first quarter, capping a 60-yard drive that included key runs by Brad Abbott and Scott Peterson. Abbott ran in the extra point to make it 7-0.

One quarter later Gillick made it 13-0 on a three-yard touchdown plunge set up by 15-yard runs by Sean McClorey and Steve Cody.

Bainbridge then iced the game in the second half, returning the opening kickoff 75 yards for a touchdown.

to make it 7-0.

One quarter later Gillick made it 13-0 on a three-yard touchdown plunge set up by 15-yard runs by Sean McClorey and Steve Cody.

Cagers lose 2 more

Poor shooting continued to plague Northville's varsity girls' basketball team last week as the Mustangs lost games to Livonia Churchill and Plymouth Canton.

After keeping it close for two quarters last Tuesday, the local squad dropped a 41-22 decision to Churchill.

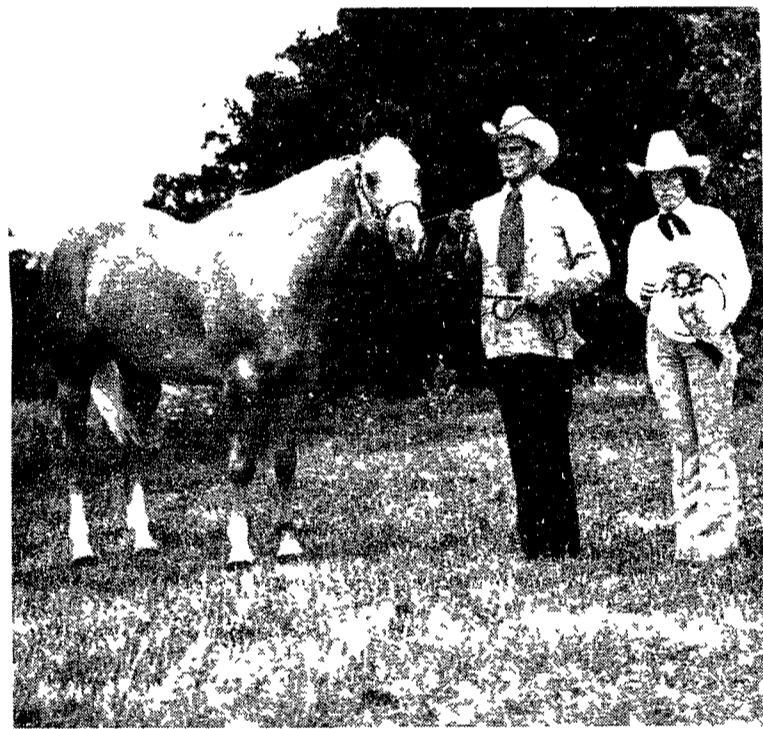

Diane Perpich had five points and 11 rebounds and Karen Goxem five points and nine rebounds for Northville, which shot only 19 percent from the floor during the game.

The Livonia school led 20-14 at the half before pulling away to a 29-18 bulge in the third quarter.

Two days later the Mustangs hit only four baskets in the entire game and suffered a 59-15 setback at Plymouth Canton, rated on of the top teams in the state this year.

Northville had 48 turnovers in the game and got only 19 shots off. Perpich had five points for the losers. The two losses left the Mustangs with an 0-4 record in league play, 1-8 overall. They travel to Farmington Harrison tomorrow.

Coaches are needed for the Northville Recreation Department's junior baseball and youth basketball programs.

The junior baseball program involves youngsters at all levels of youth baseball, from t-ball through girls' softball through Connie Mack and Mickey Mantle baseball. The season lasts from May through mid-July.

The youth baseball program involves youngsters in the third through eighth grades, with the season slated to get underway in January. Coaches are particularly needed for the third-fourth grade league.

If interested in helping out, call the recreation department at 349-0203.

Registration deadline for all youngsters interested in joining this year's youth basketball program is Friday, November 3. To register stop by the recreation offices, located at 215 W. Main Street and open weekdays from 8 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 5 p.m.

Teams interested in playing in Northville's recreation basketball league this winter can still join. For further details call 349-0203.

Registration is currently going on for a cross country ski clinic to be held at Maybury State Park this winter.

The clinic, sponsored by the Northville Recreation Department, will take place from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. on Thursday, January 4, and will include one-half hour of classroom instruction plus an hour and a half of outdoor time.

To register stop by the recreation offices, or call 349-0203.

Youngsters who want to join this year's recreation ski club should attend an organizational meeting slated for Tuesday, October 31, at 4 p.m. in the recreation offices.

The ski club is open to youths 12 through 18 years old at all levels of skiing ability. Trips to Alpine Valley or Mount Brighton will take place twice a week, probably on Wednesdays and Fridays.

Anyone interested in chaperoning ski club members on the bus rides to the slopes should contact the recreation department at 349-0203. Chaperones must be at least 18 years old.

RETURNING—Jackson Trotting Association President Nanette Slavin Rakieten, the only woman racetrack president, is bringing her trotters and pacers back to Northville Downs, October 23 to December 30.

Bach takes 1st again, advances to districts

Dave Bach, an eighth grader at Cooke Junior High, won for the second time in two weeks in the Ford Dealers of America's nationwide punt, pass and kick contest last Saturday.

Competing against nine other division champions, Bach captured the zone championship for 13-year-olds in Plymouth. Two weeks earlier he had taken first place during the local 13-year-olds competition in Northville, qualifying him for the zone contest

Bach has now qualified for the districts, which will be held in Dearborn this Saturday. Age-group winners of each succeeding contest advance to more widespread competition, and can eventually qualify for the national finals in January.

Downs racing starts

Jackson's Action at Northville Downs, Michigan's only race meet whose 1977 bottom line showed an increase in both attendance (up 8% over 1976) and parimutuel handle (up 19% over 1976), returns to Northville starting Monday, with faster racing and several plant improvements.

Across-the-board "qualifying times," the minimum official speed a horse must show before being permitted to race, have been lowered a full second from previous seasons. Aged pacers must show 2:09 or faster on a 1/2-mile track or 2:07 on a longer track; aged trotters must show 2:10 or better on a 1/2-mile oval, or 2:08 on a longer track. Younger horses are permitted an additional second. Faster qualifying times will weed out marginal horses from the outset, assuring race fans faster, more closely matched fields.

Inside the freshly painted and fully winterized grandstand and clubhouse, 1978 race fans will be able to review racing action on new full-color closed circuit TV. Along with live coverage of the races, Monday Night Football and other major sporting events will be available in color on the large screen (4' x 6') TV monitor.

Leading drivers and stables from both Hazel Park and Jackson will be racing at Northville until the close of the Jackson meeting when they head for Georgia, Florida or California to winter their horses. Among the stables fans can expect are: Bea and Charlie Farber, Boring Stables, Tom Harmer, Leroy Copeland, Wally McIlmurray, Don McIlmurray, Frank O'Meara, George Davis, Keith Crawford, Ted Smith and Lee Sattleberg, presently racing at Hazel Park; Carl Putnam, Jr., Rick Lake, Roger Edwards, Pete O'Hare, Larry Stone, John Moody, and William Watts — all leading drivers at Jackson, will also participate in the Northville Downs meeting.

The October 23 to December 30 racing action will feature the Future Pacing Stars of America Championship, showcasing this season's most successful 3 and 4-year-olds in a continuous and highly competitive elimination series, with the top 8 money-winners meeting in the final leg to decide the champion. The championship purse will be $6000 added to all the $300 entry fees received for each horse racing in the series. Earlier legs of the series race for $4000. Highlighting fall-winter weekend racing will be Invitational Class Trots and Paces with Jackson-At-Northville's highest purses ever, up to $7000, and are expected to attract Michigan's top caliber aged performers to Northville.

The success of last year's meeting as well as favorable legislation combined to increase Jackson-At-Northville purses by 36%, improving the quality of horses racing and providing a more competitive consistent program for handicappers. The 1977 statistics for "percentage of favorites finishing in the money" averaged close to 65% for the Jackson-At-Northville meet.

First doubles partners Tracy Ade and Sue Kaestner beat a Clarkston duo (6-1, 6-2) in the opening round before bowing to Berkley (6-3, 6-3) in the second while second doubles partners Lisa Aaron and Sue Pegrum lost to Southfield-Lathrup (6-4, 6-2) after drawing a first-round bye.

Earlier in the week the Mustangs had suffered a 7-0 setback against Plymouth Salem in a non-league match, ending the team's string of 10 dual matches without a loss this season.

Unless rained out, the Mustangs will be finishing up their season with a meet against Plymouth Canton this afternoon and one at Farmington Harrison within a week. Yesterday they competed in the Western Six meet.

They'll be heading north to take part in the state tournament tomorrow night, with the opening round slated for Friday and the finals Saturday in Midland.

YOUR Optometrist's CORNER

By DR. D. W. SCHIFF and DR. H. J. KUTINSKY

Dr. Kutinsky

About a half-million Americans are legally blind, although some of these may not be totally blind they have partial sight perhaps only enough to distinguish light from dark and certainly not enough to read with conventional visual aids.

For these unfortunates a closed-circuit TV adaptation called "Telesight" has been developed. It can magnify an image by as much as 32 times without losing clarity and sharpness. It includes a TV camera with controls and a monitor where the image can be viewed perhaps only a word or two at a time, but far better than nothing at all.

No one appreciates the blessing of good vision as much as those who have lost theirs. Why take chances with YOUR vision? Have your eyes examined regularly!

Relinquishing the relic.

It was a relic. The oldest car in town Mom prayed for a new one. But my father said, "No. This one runs like a clock."

Actually it ran like a clock that had to be constantly repaired.

A new muffler every year. Unending trouble with the transmission. The brake linings. The carburetor. Even the upholstery was shot. My sister Ginny called it "Clarke's Clunker."

A new car. It seemed possible only in the far distant future. Because Dad had six kids and a house to take care of. But without saying a word about it, he joined the Payroll Savings Plan at work. And started buying United States Savings Bonds every week.

Then one morning in the fall, he got up early and left without saying where he was going. We were still around the breakfast table when he came back in the door. Smiling.

"How'd you all like to go for a ride in a brand-new car?" he said.

It was light blue. My mother thought it was the most beautiful car she'd ever seen. And it was the first one they'd ever owned brand new from the factory. She polished it every chance she had and was forever bragging to the neighbors about all the options, even though she didn't understand half of them.

That was ten years ago and Dad is still driving it today. One of the oldest cars in town. But this one shames and drives like new. Dad has saved enough Bonds to put most of us through school and still buy another car, but Mom won't hear of it.

The way she sees it, "They just don't make 'em like that anymore."

Whether you're saving for a new car, or even a new home, U.S. Savings Bonds can make it happen. Buy Bonds. They're the dependable way to save.

Take stock in America.

It was light blue. My mother thought it was the most beautiful car she'd ever seen.

Northville City Council Minutes

Special Meeting September 25, 1978

The Special Meeting of the City Council was called to order at 6:00 p.m. by Mayor Vernon.

ROLL CALL: Present: Vernon, DeRusha, Gardner, Johnston, Nichols. Also Present: Planning Commission members, Wheaton, Buckland, Durst and Kissinger.

MASTER PLAN REVIEW: Mayor Vernon opened the discussion and remarked the present Master Plan was adopted in 1973 and Council might want to consider any changes that would be appropriate.

Councilman DeRusha introduced the newest member of the Planning Commission, Stewart Kissinger, to the Council.

Mayor Vernon reviewed discussions with representatives of the Race Track regarding additional parking. He also mentioned charging cars for parking at the Northville Square Parking lot during racing season. One area of parking expansion would be surface parking south to Fairbrook between Center and Wing.

Councilman DeRusha felt expansion in that direction might work against what the City hopes to develop in the downtown area. Mr. Carlo talked about parking structures along Cady and in another area which would park 1200 cars.

Councilman Johnston commented the Racing Commission told John Carlo that unless some major capital improvements were made, the Downs could lose some dates.

Councilman DeRusha stated the Downs has a dual problem, the grandstand and parking both have to be enlarged.

Councilman Nichols asked if it would be more expensive to develop a parking deck rather than by land and expand surface parking. It was concluded that surfacing parking on newly acquired property might well be as expensive as a deck built on property already owned.

Ownership of the area south of Cady and east of Center was then discussed.

Planning Commission Chairman, Wheaton, asked if the City has a plan to develop that area.

Mayor Vernon responded the parking structure is out of reach of the City Council at present, as proposed in the parking study.

Chairman Wheaton asked if a plan could be worked out to share the parking cost.

Mention was made of the controversy between the Downs and the Driving Club, and Mayor Vernon stated he is very concerned about the impact of this on future capital development.

Mayor Vernon mentioned one developer interested in the Northville Square would not consider parking across the street as meeting his needs as a tenant.

Councilman Johnston asked for comments on zoning S Center on the west side down to Fairbrook Street CBD and asked if there were many people at the Public Hearing.

Chairman Wheaton stated Mr. Steve Folino appeared to want the rezoning to raise the property valuation, which is not by itself a sufficient reason.

Councilman DeRusha felt the City should force development in the area already zoned CBD, by not expanding commercial zoning.

Commissioner Buckland stated that is why the rezoning on S Center was turned down, because other commercial property is available.

Councilman Johnston mentioned the following types of businesses are interested in locating in Northville two restaurants, an auto parts dealer, floor covering, financial institution, and a retailer.

Mayor Vernon stated the biggest challenge is finding tenants for the Northville Square, and the City is trying to help do that. Inadequate parking is a stumbling block.

Mayor Vernon concluded that concerns include additional parking for the downs, additional parking to accommodate major tenants at Northville Square, and property for commercial uses who do not want to locate in the downtown area.

Meeting adjourned at 10:00 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,
Joan G. McAllister
City Clerk

He stated in his letter he owns the building which houses the Old Mill and Maranatha Restaurants and would like to create a dining room on the upper level also. He asked that consideration be given to allow him to purchase parking spaces at $2,400 each.

Mayor Vernon commended him for the job he has done on his store on Center. Mr. Collins mentioned the building in question would be remodeled.

Mayor Vernon stated a Special Assessment would have to be created by December 31, 1978, as was agreed with Stone's Unfinished Furniture.

Councilman DeRusha responded it would be a tentative proposal passed on to the Planning Commission to act on as to the specific number of spaces.

Motion by Councilman Johnston support by Councilman Gardner to approve a Special Assessment Agreement for the building in question for parking at $2,400 per space, providing it is entered into prior to December 31, 1978.

Mayor Vernon asked if the specifications should be changed which require concrete.

The City Manager responded that this may have to be done in the future. He also mentioned that the street Mr. Rous is connecting to is 27' wide, rather than 30' as required by city policy.

Councilman DeRusha suggested putting the Downtown Development Project as the first choice.

Mayor Vernon instructed the City Manager to present the Downtown Development as the first choice and the library as second.

AMENDMENTS TO THE CITY MANAGER'S REPORT: The City Manager presented a report on the Headlee and Tisch Amendments and how they would affect the City.

The time schedule called for weed killing operation to occur the week of September 25-30. During the second or third week of October, 80 yards of screened topsoil would be added to the low areas.

The City Manager stated the time schedule was not realistic. He felt it would be more practical to postpone the operation until the Spring. The City Manager would like to reply back to the contractor on that basis and talk to the Subdivision further about the alternative of sod.

Mayor Vernon instructed the City Manager to notify Ann Arbor Construction the plan is unacceptable.

EMERGENCY PREPAREDNESS ACT: Communication from the Wayne County Office of Emergency Preparedness regarding rules requiring each jurisdiction in the State to have an Emergency Preparedness Plan to coordinate governmental response during major disasters or national emergencies. The time schedule called for weed killing operation to occur the week of September 25-30. During the second or third week of October, 80 yards of screened topsoil would be added to the low areas.

The City Manager stated the time schedule was not realistic. He felt it would be more practical to postpone the operation until the Spring. The City Manager would like to reply back to the contractor on that basis and talk to the Subdivision further about the alternative of sod.

Mayor Vernon instructed the City Manager to notify Ann Arbor Construction the plan is unacceptable.

EMERGENCY PREPAREDNESS ACT: Communication from the Wayne County Office of Emergency Preparedness regarding rules requiring each jurisdiction in the State to have an Emergency Preparedness Plan to coordinate governmental response during major disasters or national emergencies. Mayor Vernon commended him for the job he has done on his store on Center. Mr. Collins mentioned the building in question would be remodeled.

Mayor Vernon stated a Special Assessment would have to be created by December 31, 1978, as was agreed with Stone's Unfinished Furniture.

Councilman DeRusha responded it would be a tentative proposal passed on to the Planning Commission to act on as to the specific number of spaces.

for injured halfback Dan Davis, swept around left end and went the last 42 yards for the touchdown, while Russ ... booted the extra point.

Then, midway through the third quarter, Northville almost got back into the game when Matt Baker recovered a fumble at the Churchill 10-yard line. Two incomplete passes and one broken play later, though, the Mustangs were one yard further back than where they started and facing a fourth down.

Quarterback John Marzonia completed a pass in the right flat to Jeff Norton, but he was tackled two yards shy of paydirt and Churchill took over, eventually pushing out to its own 32 before being forced to punt.

"I think if we would've got that second touchdown (after the fumble recovery), our kids would've woke up and played ball," Shonta said. "The turning point was when we failed to hold them at their goal line after not scoring ourselves."

The Chargers iced the game on a short touchdown plunge by Jeff McCarthy midway through the fourth quarter, one play after a bad snap on a Northville punt attempt gave them possession at the one-yard line.

Most of the offensive damage came from the Chargers' vaunted running attack, which accounted for 230 of the team's 314 yards.

Mason picked up 142 himself on 19 carries, while Coppola added another 70 on 12 carries.

The Mustangs, on the other hand, picked up only 83 yards rushing and another 38 through the air, completing just five of 17 pass attempts. Crisan was the team's leading ground gainer with eight carries for 66 yards, 42 of them coming on his touchdown run. Joe Schimpf had three pass receptions for 23 yards to lead that department.

Defensively the Mustangs were led by Marzonia at linebacker, who had 11 first hits and four assists plus an interception, and Mike McClure, who had six first hits.

Jayvee cagers start 2-6

Despite strong performances by Percy Hoover, Julie Hunko and Kim MacGuire in recent weeks, Northville's jayvee basketball squad is off to a weak 2-6 start this season.

Last week the Mustangs lost 38-25 to Livonia Churchill and 49-32 to Plymouth Canton. Hunko had eight points in each of the games while MacGuire had eight points and 11 rebounds against Churchill.

But her top performance of the year — and the best of any jayvee girls this season — occurred two weeks ago against Walled Lake Western.

Hoover hit nine of 11 shots from the floor — an 81 percent accuracy rate — for 18 points, and pulled in 13 rebounds to boot, but it wasn't enough to prevent the Mustangs from falling, 49-40. Hunko added 10 points and Diane Hrubicki played an all-around aggressive game in the losing effort.

Both the Mustangs' wins this fall have been against non-conference opponents. Earlier in the season they defeated Ypsilanti Lincoln 40-8, and knocked off Howell, 35-30.

'Champs' look like it; they win again

The way Northville's 12-and-under Champs have been playing lately, they certainly seem worthy of their nickname. Competing in Division 3 of their Western Suburban Soccer League age grouping, the Champs have won five straight games since losing a 1-0 heartbreaker to the league-leading Plymouth Cosmos in their season opener.

And, like most winning teams, their strength lies in their defense. Thanks to players like goalie Curt Settino and halfbacks Jim McCulloch and Jerry O'Brien, the Champs have given up just three goals and registered three shutouts in their first six games this fall.

The trio came through again last week in helping the local squad to its second straight shutout, a 2-0 victory over the Farmington Flyers. Brian Dragon and Scott Greiner had one goal apiece as the winners maintained their grip on second another Northville team battling for second-place honors in Division 3, the Hot Spurs.

The Hot Spurs, for their part, are quite a defensive club as well. Sparked by goalie Joel Grasley, they racked up their second shutout in the last four games with a 2-0 win over the Livonia Orange Crush, leaving them a half game behind the Champs with a 4-1 record. Grasley made 17 saves in the game while Steve Dyer and Scott Gala kicked in one goal each, both in the first half.

In other local 12-and-under boys' action, meanwhile, Northville Arsenal duplicated the feats of the Champs and Hot Spurs with a 2-0 triumph over the Livonia Red Barons, the Cobras defeated the Farmington Bobcats 5-1, and the Tornados suffered a 2-1 setback at the hands of Westland no. 1.

Mickey McGrath, on an assist from Billy Butterfield, and Steve Starcevic each scored a goal in the first half in Arsenal's triumph, their third against one defeat and two ties this fall in Division 1.

Chris Hauser scored two goals and Dirk Nowka, Todd Hahn and Fred Cahill had one each for the Cobras, who are now 3-2-1 in Division 2. The Tornados' lone goal was scored by Cam Ramsey.

In 10-and-under boys' action the Black Knights picked up a 6-1 victory over Plymouth no. 4; United breezed past the Livonia Orange Crush, 5-2; and the Cosmos won a 1-0 thriller over Plymouth no. 10.

Bill Herguth had three goals, Mark Hoffman two and Mike Kelly one while Ken Neal added two assists and Mark Zayti one in the Black Knights' triumph. Goalie Wes Magnan made eight saves.

Brent Wasik tallied four goals, bringing his season total to eight, to pace United. Eric Gala also scored once and combined with Doug Martin for 22 saves in the goalie's slot.

Goalie Robby Huot made a diving save to preserve the Cosmos' victory, giving him three shutouts for the season. George Daraban scored the game's only goal on an assist by Eric Smolenski in the first quarter.

In 14-and-under action the Rowdies trimmed Westland, 4-2. The winners scored twice in each half, with John Robertson, Ray Green, Chris Koenig and Gary Metz kicking in one goal apiece. Goalie Bob Foster had 10 saves and was helped out defensively by Maurice Hill.

In another dramatic finish the 12-and-under Foxes wound up in a 2-2 deadlock with the Livonia Grape Crush, keeping those two clubs tied atop Division 1. The Foxes, on a pair of goals by Jane Moylan plus strong defensive work by Krista Kirby, had a 2-0 halftime lead, but Livonia roared back to score once in the dying seconds of the third quarter and once with only three seconds left in the game. Both teams are now 5-0-1.

In other 12-and-under action the Pink Panthers blanked Livonia no. 6, 3-0, while the Stars beat Gary's Girls of Livonia, 4-1.

Anne Schwartz, Kim May and Julie Nowka all scored for the Panthers in their triumph, with Schwartz and Nowka getting assists as well.

The Stars' front line of Becky Bauman, Holly Hubbard, Amy Nieuwkoop and Chris Hanson plus the defensive work of Chris White paced them to victory. Hubbard scored three of the goals and Bauman the other.

In 10-and-under action the Pink Panthers beat the Stars, 4-0, while the Aztecs came up with a 2-0 win over Livonia no. 6.

Laura Daly, Mary Beth Larabell, Heather Scarlett and Michelle Cross tallied goals for the Stars — all in the second half — while the defensive efforts of Amy Shimp and Laurie Ryba limited the Stars to just one shot on goal.

In the Aztecs' victory Kim Connery kicked in a second-quarter goal on an assist from Mandy Olgren while Kristin Kaczocha added a third-quarter score.

Totem pole testifies to scout handiwork

Scouts gather under the shade of an old tree to share experiences

Smugglers Cove. Lost Boy Lake. Old Stagecoach Road. Davy Crockett, Frontiersman, Daniel Boone, Paul Bunyan sites. The Dollar Sign Tree.

Sounds like Disney World, doesn't it? You don't have to go to Florida to find these.

All of the places, some of recent vintage, some as old as the Indians and pioneers who once roamed this territory, can be found just outside Brighton.

The fall winds now rustle through the brilliant old oaks, hickories, and red cedars, the newer pines and species that now cover the 658 acres known as the Charles Howell Scout Reservation.

But 40 years ago the area around the newly-created Brighton Lake was treeless farmland. "Since then scouts have planted hundreds of thousands of trees here — especially pine," said Larry Lacy, head ranger for the oldest of the Detroit Area Council of Boy Scouts' five camps.

"The first thing a scout master used to do when a troop arrived was hand each boy a couple of dozen pine seedlings and say, 'Go out and plant 'em,'" Lacy laughed.

They did a good job. Now it's Lacy's year-round job, along with Ranger Les Clairmont, to maintain and protect the property, much of which is being returned to its natural state.

Lacy, who's been ranger here five years and in scouting since he was 8 years old — a total of 23 years — says he's never bored with this work or watching the thousands of young people enjoy the camp every year.

"The most satisfying thing is when kids come back 10 years later and say, 'Remember me and when you taught us this or that?' Of course, you don't, but it happens often and it's a nice feeling."

These days, scouts aren't the only ones making use of the reservation's extensive facilities. Although scouts still come hundreds at a time, especially during summer camp, the reservation is increasingly used by school groups in spring and fall.

when school is in session.

The Charles Howell Scout Reservation, named after a Detroit real estate man who dammed up Ore Creek in 1928 and created Brighton Lake out of swamp and farmland, offers an interesting mixture of modern comfort and convenience and rustic charm.

It boasts 104 buildings, outpost camps, rifle ranges, trading post, museum, chapel, hiking trails and even a swimming pool. The outdoor pool was built in 1955 when Brighton Lake became too algae-crowded for swimming.

The 22 cabins, which can bed down a total of 454, are all heated and equipped with gas ranges and refrigerators; a few have running water. The main lodge includes meeting rooms, a huge kitchen and the dining room can seat 320.

But most of the buildings were constructed in the 1940's and exude a roughhewn hominess that mells in decades of boyhood memories of hikes and songs and late night

House committee delays tax scheme

By WARREN M. HOYT

A tax shift plan to lower the state's property taxes and pick up the lost revenues by increasing the income tax has been postponed by the House Taxation Committee until at least after the November election.

The proposed plan was delayed to eliminate any chance the shift to a higher income tax could give ammunition to proponents of the Headlee and Tisch ballot tax limitation and cut proposals.

Chairman of the House Taxation Committee Rep. George Montgomery (Detroit) said the one percent increase in the income tax rate although coupled with a property tax decrease could be used by Tisch and Headlee proponents as a reason to vote for tax limitation or tax reduction or both.

The original plan would have involved a total of $500 million, $400 million of that would have been cut from property taxes through an increased circuit breaker and another $100 million would have been cut through an increased personal exemption.

The money would have been recovered through increasing the income tax rate from 4.6 to 5.6 percent.

Montgomery told committee members to work on a tax shift plan during the campaign break, should either the tax limitation or tax cut measure be defeated, so the plan can be considered when the Legislature returns in mid-November.

The original tax shift plan was the latest effort by House Democrats to devise some type of property tax reform this year.

Before the September session began, House Speaker Bobby Crim said the plan, along with the transportation package (also including tax increases), lobbying reform and a conflict of interest bill, among the top priorities of the session.

However as the session began and the State Board of Canvassers certified both the Headlee tax limitation and Tisch property tax cut proposals, Crim said the plan could wait until January before legislative action is needed.

The attempts by the House leadership to develop a property tax plan began last spring when a special bi-partisan committee was appointed.

That committee proposed a plan to virtually eliminate property taxes for support of schools, shifted that responsibility to the state and allows aid to private schools.

That plan ran into strong Republican opposition and was permanently shelved.

The most recent plan was developed and introduced just prior to the opening of the fall session in the wake of Headlee and Tisch.

Crim said it was never his intent to develop a plan to defeat the Tisch amendment, but to offer a plan to make property taxes in the state more progressive.

Following a bitter dispute between the Legislature and the governor's office over providing state funds to county sheriff departments for road patrol, the parties have approved a compromise providing state funds but allowing more local control of the funds.

A gubernatorial veto stopped an earlier bill providing the funds with little control by county boards of commissions and no guarantee the powers of the state police would not be eroded.

The compromise version gives greater control to county commissioners and also guarantees no reduction in funding to the Department of State Police.

It defines a formula for reimbursing the counties for secondary road patrol and safety programs and in providing the role of county sheriffs in defining controls and related law enforcement on and near county secondary roads and on state highways within cities, if cities request county assistance.

Funding will be based on county road mileage and population.

fires in the great stone fireplaces.

The lodge, thought to be the largest free-standing log cabin in the country, was constructed of three-miles-worth of White Pine logs. They were shipped on six flat cars from Big Bay de Noc, Michigan, the gift of the late Henry Ford in 1944.

The older cabins are slowly being replaced, Lacy said, and two new ones have recently gone up. But today, the pre-cut logs come in sections and cabins and can be built in a day.

Scattered on the reservation are vestiges which still bear witness to the Indians, pioneers, trappers and farmers who used this land before the scouts.

Part of an old stagecoach road which was probably a link to the main Grand River highway between Detroit and Lansing can still be walked in the south end of the property.

Along the banks of the Ore Creek on this road are signs of a mill, thought to have been built by settlers about the time of the Black Hawk Indian War. It was probably used to make "wheat cradles," a tool designed to cut wheat.

Also on the creek bank is a gnarled old tree that has come to be known as the "Dollar Sign" tree. The story has it that it was bent as a sapling as an Indian trail marking and instead of dying continued to grow at right angles.

Has scouting changed over the years? Lacy feels kids are a little different, a little harder to handle now. But what concerns him more is the increased vandalism, mostly by non-scouts.

During cabin break-ins windows and mattresses have been destroyed and fire extinguishers set off. Recently, he caught some young smokers who almost set a stand of pines afire.

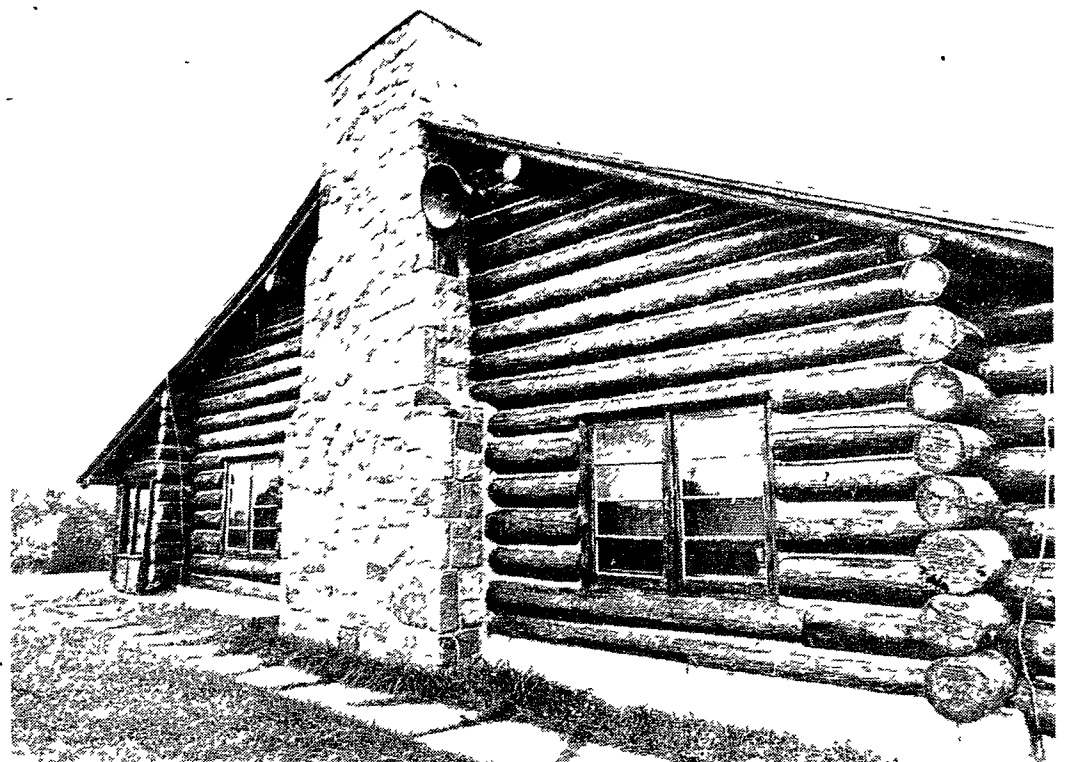

"We have no choice now; we'll have to prosecute," Lacy says of vandals.

But the Lacy's Howell Reservation welcomes visitors who want to tour the grounds if they check in at headquarters first.

Scout troops of the Detroit Council have first crack at reservations but other area troops are welcome to use the facilities, too, Lacy said, as are school groups.

For more information, contact Ken Poulson at the Detroit Area Boy Scout Service Center in Detroit; telephone 897-1965.

The main lodge was a gift of the late Henry Ford and seats 320 people.

Carry 'survival kit'

Brush up winter driving skills

Wintertime demands special driving skills and a vehicle that is properly maintained and equipped for sub-zero driving and survival in an emergency, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

Controlling a car on icy pavement can be a problem. If a car skids, turn the front wheels in the direction the rear wheels are headed. Slowly straighten the front wheels as the car corrects. When roads are slippery, do not downshift or suddenly decelerate. To stop on ice, pump the brake pedal lightly and rapidly.

Auto Club Emergency Road Service Manager Robert M. Smith adds that a home-made "survival kit" should be in every car trunk. It should cost $60 or less to assemble and contain a coffee can to radiate warmth from a lighted candle inside, newspapers for insulation when placed next to the skin under clothing and carpet strips for traction under drive wheels.

Other suggested survival items are a blanket, shovel, flashlight, jumper cables, tire chains, boots, flares, reflectors, tools, first aid kit, sand, a scraper-brush and food.

Smith notes, "Motorists who follow maintenance recommendations outlined in car owner's manuals can expect summer starts all winter without taking any other steps."

According to Smith, 85 percent of all "can't start" calls received by Auto Club Emergency Road Service contract garages are the result of vehicle neglect, not vehicle failure.

For motorists who have not followed maintenance procedures outlined in the owner's manual, Auto Club suggests this pre-winter program:

- Check the vehicle's fuel tank, fuel line, fuel pump, fuel filter, automatic choke and carburetor.
- Check the battery and replace it if necessary. Make sure it is fully charged, with fluid covering the plates. Terminals must be tight and corrosion-free.
- Check the fan and other belts and replace them if worn. A slipping belt can result in an undercharged battery.
- Replace spark plugs, points and condenser if needed. Inspect the radiator, heater hoses and clamps for leaks. Check antifreeze strength and levels. Effectiveness is reduced if water is added.

• Check and adjust or replace windshield wiper blades. Regularly add solvent to the windshield washer reservoir to prevent freezing.

Auto Club also offers these suggestions to help guarantee winter starts:

- Keep the car in a garage, or at least park the car with the hood against or near a building to keep it free of the wind. On very cold nights, place a blanket or tarpaulin over the hood, or place a lighted electric bulb under the hood.

• Before starting, be sure the transmission is in park with all accessories off so there is no extra strain on the battery. Push the gas pedal to the floor and let up slowly to set the automatic choke. The accelerator should not be pumped since that floods the engine. Engage the starter for 10 seconds. If you flood the engine, depress the gas pedal to the floor, hold and engage the starter. The accelerator should be kept down until the engine starts.

- Keep the gas tank full to avoid fuel line freezing.

Justice applauds court findings

Judge Alice Gilbert, non-partisan candidate for Michigan Supreme Court Justice, has applauded the findings of a Special State Bar of Michigan Committee Report on Court Congestion.

"The results of the study clearly identifies for the people of Michigan who must accept the responsibility for the clogged, cluttered, and oft times, chaotic court system in Michigan—the Michigan Supreme Court," she said.

Judge Gilbert's comments came in remarks prepared for delivery today to the Lansing Rotary Club.

According to Judge Gilbert, it is time for new justice on the Michigan Supreme Court. A new justice which will increase the accessibility of the courts to the people, by streamlining the operation of the courts through the use of modern-day electronic and computer techniques. A new justice which will restore the people's confidence in the administration of justice by rendering decisions based on the merits of the case rather than technical points of the law. A new justice which will accept the responsibility of, and exercise, the leadership for all our courts.

Pursell testifies on NCAA policy

Congressman Carl Pursell, of Michigan's second Congressional District, offered testimony before the subcommittee on Oversight and Investigation of the Committee of Interstate and Foreign Commerce regarding the enforcement policies and procedures of the National Collegiate Athletic Association. (NCAA)

The NCAA is an independent organization and its enforcement program is the means established by the NCAA membership for enforcing compliance with NCAA member institutions with rules relating to admissions, financial aid, eligibility and recruiting which have been adopted by the NCAA membership. There have been attempts by some members of Congress to discredit the NCAA.

Congressman Pursell's interest in the matter stems from his involvement and initiation of a study on organized amateur sports while he served as a Michigan state senator.

The focus of his study was to provide for problem identification and correction by the participants in the sports programs themselves. Congressman Pursell emphasized the same philosophy in his testimony before the Interstate and Foreign Commerce subcommittee when he said, "I believe that the role of Congress with respect to the NCAA is one of oversight and study."

Pursell cautioned against initiating legislation with regard to the NCAA on the principle that government regulation is not welcome by the public in this facet of American life. He continued to say that government regulation in this area would only serve to continue an apparent trend toward more court cases, and a greater emphasis on winning at any cost.

Forbes, Giese meet Thursday

Representative Joseph Forbes, Democratic floor leader, will join Elizabeth H. Giese, candidate for state representative the 24th district for a meeting with the Wixom Home Owners Association on Thursday.

The meeting will be held at the Leisure Co-op Clubhouse, 50200 Old Grand River at 1:30 P.M.

Representative Forbes and Elizabeth Giese will be discussing their views of the November ballot proposals, political reform, and current legislation of concern to senior citizens.

On Wednesday, October 18th, Congressman William Brodhead (17th Congressional District) will campaign with Giese in Novi.

Giese, who has been going door-to-door meeting voters of the 24th district every day as part of her grass roots campaign, will be walking parts of precincts 3 and 6 of Novi with Congressman Brodhead. They will be in the Ten Mile-Haggerty Road area between 5 and 7 P.M.

DOWNTOWN Center Street in Northville is sporting a handsome new dress, thanks to the efforts of Dan Collins, who recently completed exterior remodeling of his store building that houses a beauty shop and the interior decorating business of his mother, Lila, and his wife, Carole.

And the same kind of improvement is planned for a Main Street building recently purchased by Collins and Constantine Kittrakis, who owns Maranatha Coney Island.

Completely repainted, the building now features new window lines, new doors and rear, trim, awnings, and signs — all aimed at enhancing the Victorian theme of the downtown. A builder, Collins did the work himself.

The building houses the Mane Objective beauty shop and Lila's Interiors. The latter's shop's entrance is located in the building, while the beauty shop's entrance is off Center.

Lila's, though its specialty has changed, has been located in Northville for more than two decades. Previously, it featured flowers. The business originally was located on the east side of Center Street, later moving to Main Street.

Now specializing in reupholstering, custom drapes, painting and carpeting, Lila's has ordered a quilting machine that soon will be incorporated in the business. The expensive machine is now being custom made in Italy.

Recently appointed to Northville's Downtown Development Authority, Collins is proud of the exterior remodeling work on Center but he's even more excited about plans for remodeling of the building on Main Street that houses the Old Mill Restaurant and Maranatha Coney Island.

"It's going to be beautiful," says Collins, who notes that Donald Fee has been commissioned to come up with a drawing of what the building will look like when completed. He's confident the exterior remodeling, which soon will be presented to the Northville Historical District Commission, can be extended east to include the building housing Northville Drug.

Although the new owners of the building have not yet firmed up their plans, they are certain the second level of the building and at least a portion of the ground level will include exciting new restaurant accommodations.

The owners already have received city council approval for purchase of downtown parking spaces for the restaurant operation.

"I love this community," he says, "and I'm going to do everything I can to preserve and beautify our downtown buildings."

JOHN E. LOBBIA of Novi has been named manager of Detroit Edison's Oakland Division. He succeeds J. Philip Lenihan who has been appointed assistant vice-president in charge of marketing and customer relations.

Lobbia is responsible for electric service in an 862 square mile area covering 55 communities and serving approximately 357,000 customers in Oakland County. The division's 700 employees are located in the headquarters building in Bingham Farms, in eight customer offices, and in four lines service centers.

Lobbia, 37, joined Detroit Edison in 1964 after graduation from the University of Detroit with a Bachelor of Science degree in electrical engineering. His first assignments were in the marketing area as part of the company's professional manpower (training) program. In 1968 he was named acting assistant district manager in Lapeer County.

He also has served as director of service planning for the company, manager of a construction management implementation project, and director of the generation construction department. When Edison's Division Organization was initiated in April 1975, Lobbia was named manager of the Ann Arbor Division. He has been assistant manager of the Detroit Division since November 1976.

Before joining Detroit Edison in 1964, Lobbia spent five months working in a volunteer group in Mexico teaching hygiene, diet planning, and basic production techniques. The group constructed a small school and distributed foodstuff secured through a foreign aid program.

Lobbia is married and has three children.

DOREEN JAYKO, Realtor associate at Rymal Symes Realtors Novi office, recently achieved a new personal sales record by accomplishing over one million dollars in sales of residential properties during the first nine months of 1978.

In announcing Mrs. Jayko's outstanding record, Ben Skelton, Rymal Symes vice president, said her success is attributable "to her genuine desire to deliver a real service to her many customers and clients. The proof in that statement is easily recognized by the great number of satisfied former clients who return to Doreen and refer their friends to her for help with all their real estate needs."

Mrs. Jayko has been a resident of Novi since 1967 with her three daughters, Kelly, who attends Novi High School; Wendy, a student at Novi Middle School; and Maureen, who attends Village Oaks School.

A DROP in available listings, higher interest rates and rising average prices may have begun to make inroads into the record pace of the 1978 existing home market.

Sales reports from the 4,000-member Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors showed September was the second consecutive month of sales below 1977 figures after six months of increases.

"Finding qualified buyers has not yet become a problem even with higher average prices," said Conrad Jakubowski. "Our percentage of homes sold compared to listings is the highest it's been in the past 10 years."

"Many homes are going within a few hours after they first appear in our multi-list system, and others that may be priced over-priced when first listed a month or two ago, are now moving."

Jakubowski said sales by WWOBR members are still nearly two percent above the record pace of a year ago, despite a 12.5 percent drop in listings.

He attributed the listing decline to a number of reasons, including a dip in the percent of the population moving each year.

"Unless a move is forced by an immediate need for relocation, many homeowners now want to enjoy the lower mortgage interest rates on presently held properties while the values continue to climb," he said. "Others are being forced to delay moves because of material shortages and later completion dates for new housing."

Jakubowski said average prices in September for existing homes sold in the 1,700 square-mile WWOBR territory climbed to $46,698 compared to $38,414 a year ago, for a 21.5 percent increase.

"This is based on 1,500 sold units," he noted. "Year-to-date figures, based on 15,000 sales, indicate the average price through the first three quarters was $43,354, up 6,654 over 1977."

"We don't believe these housing prices have peaked yet and they are still well below costs of comparable homes in many other urban areas."

THE ALL-NEW 1979-model Ford LTD and Mustang are now on display at John Mach Ford Sales, 550 West Seven Mile Road, Northville.

Ford Motor Company invested more than $1.2 billion to redesign and re-engineer its full-size and sporty specialty car lines for 1979 — the first time in 14 years that Ford Division has introduced two entirely new and different domestic car lines during a single calendar year, according to Ray Taulbee, sales manager.

Only the ninth all-new full-sized Ford in the company's 75-year history, the redesigned LTD has more head room, leg room and shoulder room for 1979. There's a full range of two- and four-door sedans and station wagons with the LTD's traditionally long list of optional equipment choices.

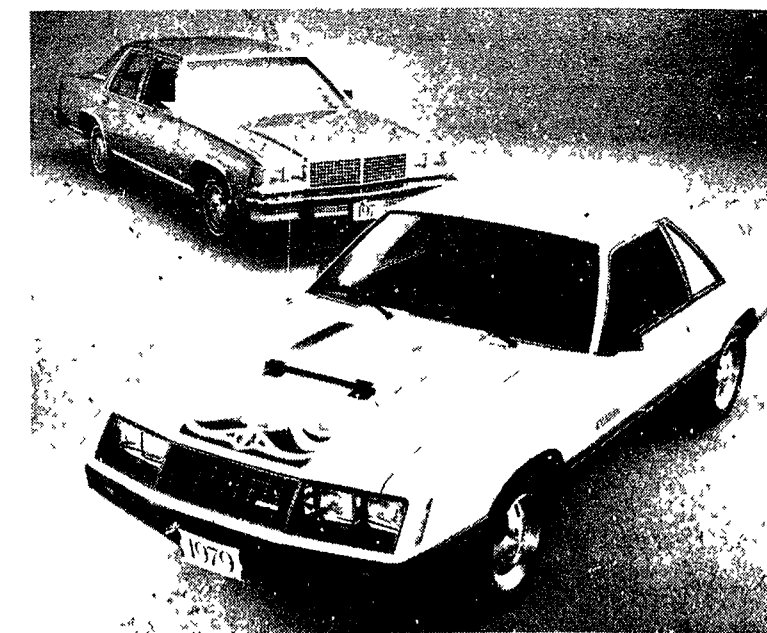

Standard LTD sedans and station wagons have single rectangular headlamps, while top-of-the-line LTD Landau models and Country Squire station wagons are distinguished by a unique grille treatment with dual rectangular headlamps. All models continue to offer a high level of standard equipment including power steering, power front disc brakes, steel-belted radial-ply tires, an automatic transmission and a V-8 engine.

"The 1979 Mustang is a fun-to-drive car with bodystyles, options and performance features that will appeal to a variety of new-car buyers," Taulbee explained. "It is one of the most versatile cars we have ever offered, and is sportier and roomier than last year's models."

Offered in two and three-door body styles, Mustang has four engine choices including a new turbocharged 2.3-liter powerplant, and a long list of convenience, decor and functional equipment options.

Several trim-and-equipment combinations are available, including top-of-the-line two and three-door Ghia models and a sporty three-door Cobra. All models are fully instrumented with a tachometer, trip odometer and gauges for fuel, temperature, oil pressure and alternator. Rack-and-pinion steering, front disc brakes, a front stabilizer bar and new strut-type front and four-bar link-and-coil rear suspension systems are standard.

Built on a 100.4-inch wheelbase, the "new breed" of Mustangs is only four inches longer than its predecessor, but has 20 percent more interior room. Back-seat passengers gain the most, including five more inches of leg room. Two-door models carry a full 10 cubic feet of trunk space and three-door models have a cargo volume of more than 32 cubic feet.

George Plimpton tells town hall why he's 'no mere spectator'

By NANCY DINDELDEY

Plimpton was fabulous! The man billed as a contemporary Walter Mitty opened the 18th season of the Northville Town Hall Series Thursday on a totally hysterical note.

He began by addressing his packed audience as "overlooking acres of lovely women." He left that same audience with raves of "fantastic" and "tremendous." One patron proclaimed, "He had me in tears, I laughed so hard."

George Plimpton, the author, the man on the flying trapeze, the quarterback "sneak," Plimpton in Africa, Plimpton in the boxing ring, Plimpton the "participatory journalist."

His exploits on the sports field, in college, in life, are transformed by the phenomenally witty man into colorful, remarkably funny sagas. Plimpton a treasury of anecdotes, says he plays out the daydreams of the average American male. He adds he doesn't always succeed in his adventures "Sometimes," he mused, "I fall short of perfection, but then, people need me to fail — it reassures them."

Plimpton, the "great imposter," says he never intended to become one, it just happened. Trying to gain a berth on the "Harvard Lampoon," the notorious humor magazine of the eastern college, he was instructed to run in the Boston Marathon as a sort of hazing.

He joined the race less than two blocks from the finish line, was later branded an "imposter" by officials, won his spot on the magazine, and launched himself on a career of "doing those things everybody always wants to do, but never does."

After Harvard and Cambridge, Plimpton joined "Sports Illustrated." "I literally extended the gimmick of the Boston Marathon. What does it feel like to pitch in the All Star game, to enter the boxing ring against Archie Moore, to play with the New York Philharmonic? How do you know what it feels like to be a champion, if you've never had the chance to try?"

Later answering questions at the celebrity luncheon, Plimpton confessed that he had second thoughts about some of his adventures. "Thinking about them was no problem, but I've always regretted them at the time of confrontation." He claimed soccer as the only sports arena he has not entered, but quickly added he would probably join the New York Cosmos at some point.

He's played goal with the Boston Bruins hockey organization, quarterback with the Detroit Lions and Baltimore Colts, even though last string, and golfed in tourneys with the greats. He admitted most of his time on the links "was spent lurking in the rough."

His "most terrifying, most frightening" participation was playing the triangle with the percussion section of the New York Philharmonic under Leonard Bernstein.

Claiming "skimpy" musical knowledge, Plimpton snuck his way into the concert scene during a Canadian tour. "If you can imagine Gustav Mahler's Fourth Symphony "done in," it was, completely by me. It sent Bernstein into a rage," he commented.

Plimpton got a second chance with the orchestra the following day in Winnipeg. "I played the gong in that one," he grinned. "Bernstein demanded that my eyes never leave his face during the entire symphony and that he would give me a cue like I had never seen before. I got the cue and whacked the gong.

"They have never heard since, the reverberating sound I unleashed in Winnipeg that night," he said proudly.

With a string of best sellers to his credit, including "Paper Lion," "Out of My League," "The Bogie Man," "Mad Ducks and Bears," and "Shadow Box," Plimpton says his key to success as a writer is his practice of writing three books at one time. And then, with a laugh, he told the luncheon audience,

"You're duty-bound to buy my books to compensate for my life style."

Queried as to future endeavors he might delve into, Plimpton pointed to tennis and quests — a series of looking for things such as the great Blue Whale or some bird, somewhere in the world.

Why does the tall, greying, slender man with the British-tinged New York accent persist in pursuing the unlikely? "Because," he says, "I am not content to be a mere spectator. I need to know the emotions, the mental and physical disciplines that the artist, the musician, the sports figure go through to achieve."

But when Plimpton participates, the outcome is rarely a serious event.

Popular LWV party's upcoming

By JEANDAY

It's been six years since League of Women Voter's members conceived the idea of having a wine and cheese party that would be a get-together for members and supporters and also help fund league projects. The first was so successful that it has been repeated every year.

This year's party will be held from 8-10 p.m., Friday, November 10. Laura and Dumont Hixson who opened their handsome Victorian home at 512 West Dunlap for last year's party also are hosting this one. Carolann Ayers, chairman, announces. Working with her on arrangements are Lesa Buckland and Sandy Walts.

Mrs. Walts is in charge of reservations. Invitations are going in the mail today.

It's Bud Hartner's Night

Herman "Bud" Hartner, who has worked for the City of Northville for more than 30 years, is leaving his dual position as director of the Department of Public Works and fire chief. There will be a dinner in his honor at 7 p.m. Saturday, November 4, in the Northville High School cafeteria.

Norma Vernon, wife of the mayor, and City Manager Steven Walters are in charge of arrangements. Friends, family and those who have worked with Hartner over the years are invited to come. Tickets are $6. Call Northville City Hall for reservations.

Quilts — their patterns and their makers

Northville's Jo Krause was a little girl six years old when she stitched her first patchwork quilt while living on her family's farm in Havana, Illinois. She remembers that she couldn't write yet; so her mother put her name and date on it. From that early start she has continued to quilt all her life and also is a collector of quilts.

She will be speaking on "Quilts: Today and Yesterday" at this Friday's meeting of Northville Woman's Club at 1:30 p.m. in the Mill Race Village. Harriet Wheaton, program chairman of the day, reports that Mrs. Krause will tell stories about quilts and will be bringing 10 examples with her. She invites members to bring quilts for which they would like to have age or pattern established.

The quilts to be shown will be different ones from those Mrs. Krause loaned for St. Paul's Lutheran display the day of the home tour. Mrs. Krause currently is teaching at the Lutheran school. She holds her master's degree as a medical technician.

She began teaching quilting at the Eves Art Gallery here and now has a class in the Northville Historical Society's fall program at the Mill Race and also is teaching advanced students through Plymouth Arts Council.

MR. AND MRS. GARY GRANT ALLEN

MRS. ROBERT CRANE

Robert Crane takes bride in Ohio

A reception at the Ohio State University Faculty Club in Columbus, Ohio, followed the September 30 wedding of Regina Marie Clark and Robert Michael Crane, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. Crane, former Northville residents of Woodhill Road now living in Worthington, Ohio.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Clark of Columbus.

The ceremony took place at St. Patrick Church with Father Jerome Riordan of Chicago officiating. Michael Crane, brother of the bridegroom, served as altar boy.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a lace-embroidered gown with high neckline and long sleeves. A lace cap held her illusion veil.

Kathleen Clark was honor maid for her sister. Meg Crane, a sister of the bridegroom, and Betsy Donahue of Wilmette, Illinois, were bridesmaids.

John Crane was his brother's best man. Ushering were two other brothers, Stephen and Mark, along with the bride's brother, Kevin, and Ted Fuertrges of Northville.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Dayton, Ohio, and is employed as a research chemist at Ohio State University in the College of Medicine.

Her husband is a graduate of Northville High School and the University of Dayton. He is a sales representative for NCR.

They will live in Columbus.

Susan Hill speaks vows in garden ceremony

Susan K. Hill, daughter of Kathryn Hill Anderson and the late George W. Hill, was married to Frank Kettonen of Pontiac July 29

The former Northville resident was married in an 11 a.m. garden ceremony at the home of Gary and Rosalie Daniel in Utica, Michigan.

The Reverend James W. Kelsor of Fraser Presbyterian Church performed the ceremony in the presence of friends and family. The vows for the marriage were written by the couple.

The bride's sister, Mary L. Henson of Westland and Karen L. Schadel of Saginaw, served as her attendants. Robert Davis was best man.

The bride wore an accordion-pleated, floor-length gown of ivory polyester with matching lace cape, which she made. She wore ivory silk and dried flowers in her hair and carried a matching bouquet.

Her sisters wore floor-length gowns and carried baskets of coordinated dried flowers.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Michigan and Michigan State University. The bridegroom was graduated from Central Michigan University.

The newlyweds are making their home in New Baltimore. Both presently are employed as high school teachers in the Fraser School District.

Gary Allen weds in Traverse City

Gary Grant Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Walker Allen of 844 Yorktown Court took Virginia Lee Wessbecher as his bride in an afternoon ceremony September 16 at Grace Episcopal Church in Traverse City.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Frank Wessbecher, Jr., of Brecksville, Ohio.

She has been employed as a secretary with Bay Motors Yamaha in Traverse City, and is a graduate of Brecksville High School.

The bridegroom, a 1972 graduate of Northville High School, is employed at Flapjack Shack, Incorporated, in Traverse City.

The Reverend John Coffey officiated at the ceremony for which the church was decorated with chrysanthemums, asters and pom-poms in gold, orange and yellow. Wisps of wheat and asters marked the church pews.

The blonde bride wore an A-line skirted gown with Empire bodice fashioned of Satalustre organza and accented with French chantilly lace. The high neckline and sleeves, which ended in flounced ruffle cuffs, were of lace. The skirt which extended into a chapel train was edged with a wide flounce. The bride's floor-length imported illusion veil was held by a Juliet cap.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and pink-tipped carnations interspersed with pink rose buds, baby's-breath, eucalyptus and rust-colored ferns tied with white satin streamers.

Marcia Wessbecher was maid of honor. Marilyn Klur and Megan Lowe were bridesmaids.

Bryan Allen was best man. Ushers were Keith Pryor and Albert Wessbecher.

A reception followed at the Traverse City Holiday Inn.

The bridegroom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner earlier at the Coach and Four Restaurant in Traverse City.

A two-week wedding trip to Disney World and Boca-Raton in southern Florida followed for the couple.

Local business women mark week

Members of the Northville Business and Professional Women are participating in the observance of National Business Women's Week, October 15-21, and are making plans for their October meeting at 6:30 p.m. next Monday at the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth.

Laura Hixson, a Northville resident and teacher as well as an expert in genealogy, will speak on the latter subject.

Judy Landau will be a guest and tell about her experience in roller skating all the way to world competition in Portugal.

Business Women's Week has been proclaimed by both President Jimmy Carter and Governor William Milliken. Intent of the week, the local club explains, is to give nationwide recognition to contribution of women to the economic, social and cultural life of the nation through their business and professional activities.

The BPW also will publicize its own objectives — to elevate standards, promote interests, develop cooperation and extend opportunities through education. This is the 50th observance of BPW Week.

Local BPW activities are to be shown in a display in the window of the Little People's Shop at 103 East Main. Saturday Northville members joined those from Novi and South Lyon to attend a "kick-off" banquet in Lansing.

Businesswomen interested in affiliating with the group are invited to call Jane Trapp, membership chairman, at 349-0014.

Mary Ross of Novi Street, Northville also won two medals in the dance competition.

Other students participating in the dance competition were Julie Berry of Livonia, Beth Ross of Northville and Victoria Brennan of Ann Arbor.

If you have to hang up your skates and retire from active competition, as Northville's Judy Landau just did at the young age of 19, it must help to finish at the top.

She and her partner of six years, Larry Chopp, 21, of Wayne, have placed second in World Roller Skating Competition held in Portugal.

Earlier they qualified by winning Michigan State Championship in artistic dance, as they had every year since 1973, and going on to win second in the nationals in mid-August in Nebraska. This qualified them for what Judy calls her "fabulous experience" in Portugal.

While Judy long had hoped to lace up her skates for the Pan-American games, foot surgery two-and-a-half years ago determined otherwise. Scar tissue from improper healing, she explains, has eliminated her from the rigors of daily, strenuous practice.

Now, instead of taking lessons, she's turned "pro" to give them as a teacher at the Bonaventure Roller Rink in Farmington Hills. This, she describes as "one of the most beautiful rinks — it's only two years old."

Judy also has other interests in the future. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Landau of 201 Fairbrook, are announcing her engagement to Mitchel Alan Staricha, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Staricha of Livonia.

She went to the world competition in Portugal with his ring sparkling on her finger. They have set an April 21, 1979, wedding date.

Since graduation from Northville

High School in 1977, the young skater was involved in weekly lessons, traveling to Akron for lessons with a world champion, as well as daily practices. She also worked as a waitress at the Northville Big Boy Restaurant.

Her fiance, a 1977 graduate of Bentley High School, is a toolmaker with Evans Corporation.

It was after she returned from the heady experience of having young fans mob her for three days after the competition in Portugal, her mother reports, that the medical decision was made that she retire from competitive skating.

She has a gold medal and porcelain vase as mementoes of the trip to Portugal. There she and her partner were second to Dan and Fleurette Littel from Arsonaut, New York. An Italian couple placed third.

Mrs. Landau was in Portugal to see her daughter win. Judy is the granddaughter of Mrs. Beatrice Carlson of Northville.

Her gold medal is the latest in a large collection of medals and trophies the young skater has amassed.

In 1974, at the age of 15, she passed the gold medal proficiency test for artistic dance in the United States Amateur Roller Skating Association.

At the close of the Great Lakes Regional Meet in July, 1977, she passed the gold medal proficiency test in artistic dance in the Roller Skating Rink Operators' Association, accomplishing the unusual feat of holding gold medals in both of the big roller skating associations.

And now she has the gold medal to remember the crowning experience in Portugal.

remarks Karen Poulos, who is in charge of a docent training session planned for 2 p.m. October 22 at the Mill Race Village off Griswold. Docents are on duty in the Northville Historical Society village from 1-4 p.m. Sundays while the weather is nice. They also serve as guides for school children and visitors.

It's a volunteering that is rewarding in that docents learn local history while assisting the historical society. Costumes are provided. Mrs. Poulos may be contacted at 348-2474 for more information.

She's teaching in Boulder

The C. Thomas Wheatons returned from helping daughter Wendy settle in Boulder, Colorado, much impressed with that western city. "The buildings look much like Northville's," they report, telling how a four-block downtown area has been restored — complete with streets paved with brick.

Their daughter, who had been teaching in the Wayne-Westland school system, also was working toward her master's degree in music at University of Michigan when she heard about the need for a vocal music teacher at Southern Hills Junior High in Boulder. She applied, and was hired as head of the music department. The Wheatons and her brother, Morgan, helped her settle.

Home Decorating with Howard & Lois Green

Keep in mind that it is important to buy an Oriental rug because you like it. This is especially so since a great Oriental rug will become the focal point of the decorating scheme. The fact is that clearly identifying the origin of Orientals is difficult and even the experts disagree. A well-designed Oriental will have straight borders or several borders, clarity of color, and sharp definition in the design. If it is an old handmade Oriental as opposed to a new machine-made rug of Oriental design, buy the former. Also, be aware that patterns, multi-colors, tweeds and medium tones show the least amount of dirt and footprints. Very light rugs show dirt and very dark ones show footprints.

Let us mix, match and coordinate your walls with our fine lines of wallcoverings, here at GREEN'S CREATIVE HOME CENTER, 107 N. Center St., 349-7110. You can paint walls, woodwork, window sills, ceilings, etc. Brushes of all sizes and for all purposes are available at reasonable prices. Library to refund parking charge

Beginning Monday, October 23, Northville Public Library patrons who park in the municipal lot south of the Northville Square after 6 p.m. will be charged $1, for which they will be reimbursed when they get to the library.

This is in keeping with the City of Northville's plan to charge a fee for people using the lot to park while at the Northville Downs race track.

By means of a simple voucher plan, all those who park in the lot either to use the library or shop at the square will receive back the dollar charged on entering the lot.

This will affect only those patrons who come to the library from 6 p.m. until closing at 8 p.m.

LaLeche meets today

Second in a series of four meetings on breastfeeding, sponsored by the La Leche League, will be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday, October 18, in the home of Ruth Sill, 24344 Hampton Hill, Novi.

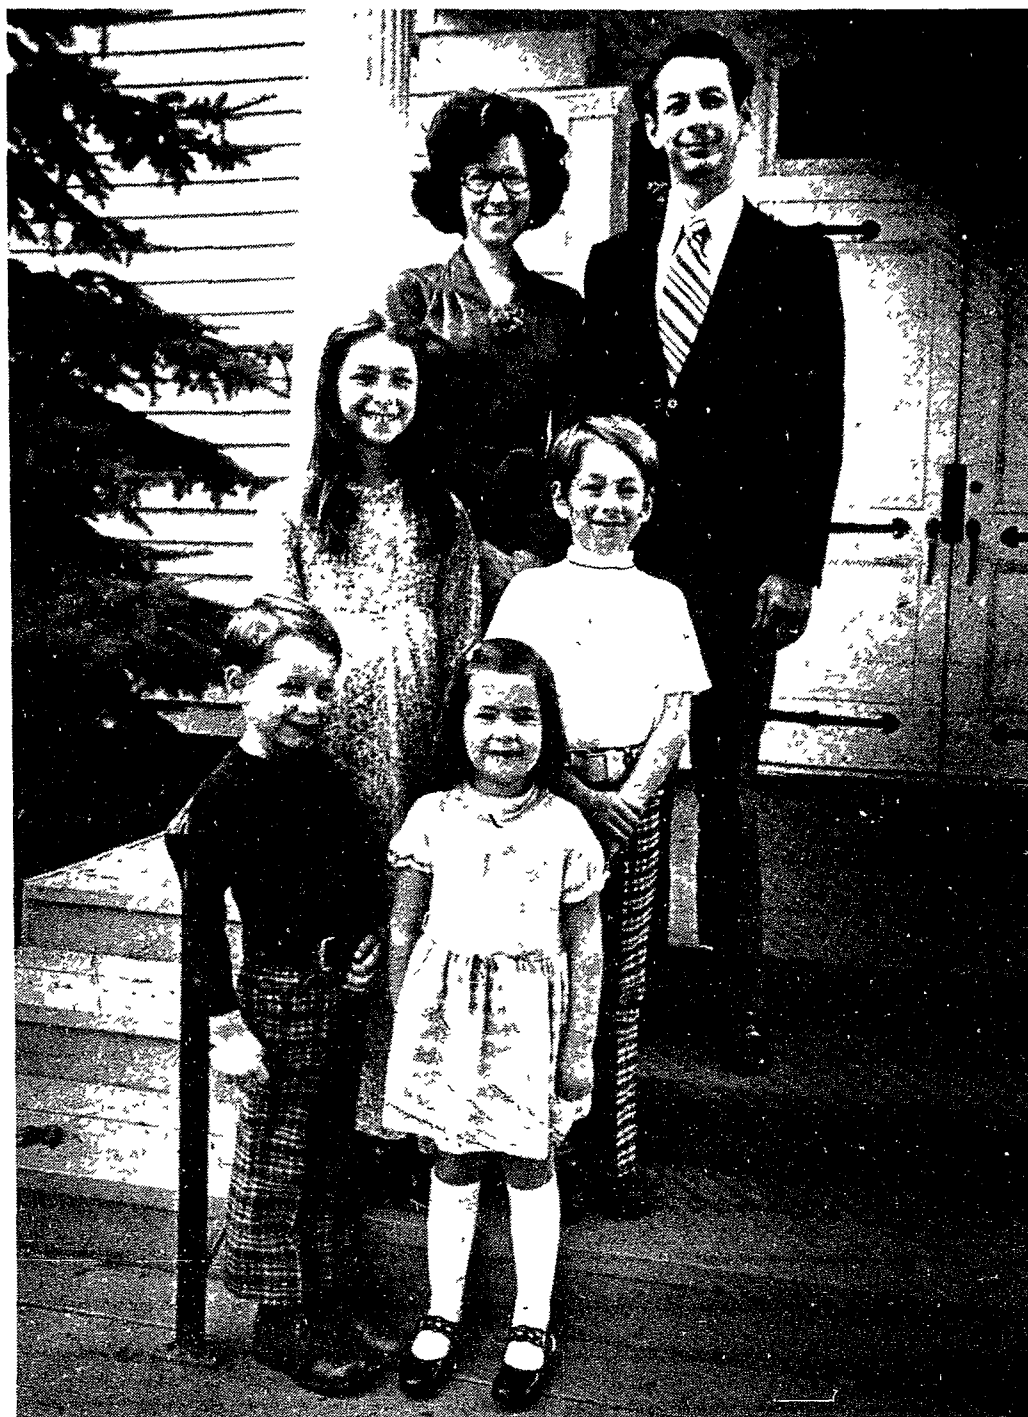

This session will deal with the art of breastfeeding and overcoming difficulties.

The importance of breastfeeding is stressed not as an end in itself, but as an integral part of the whole human relationship, the league stresses. Expectant mothers, mothers with nursing babies and other interested women are welcome.

Subsequent meetings at the same time and place will be November 15 and December 13.

For information or telephone help, call Charlene Frellick, 349-2840, or Kay Semion, 981-1028.

BAPTIST FAMILY—Dr. James H. Luther, Jr., who is being installed as minister of First Baptist Church of Northville Sunday, poses with his wife, DeLoris, and children, Jennifer, James III, Joel and Joy, on the church steps.

Baptist church to install pastor

As he talks about his dual career as professor-pastor, Dr. James H. Luther, Jr., new minister of First Baptist Church of Northville, declares he has "the best of two worlds."

Dr. Luther, who has served as the interim pastor of the church since February, will be installed in a service at 2:30 p.m. this Sunday at the church.

In his other role Dr. Luther is assistant professor of Biblical literature on the faculty of the Detroit Baptist Divinity School located in Allen Park.

"It keeps me current," he says of his four-hour course which will be doubled next semester, adding that he also thinks his congregation "gets benefit" from his teaching.

The tall, 35-year-old pastor is the son of a gospel minister, James H. Luther, who is preaching in Live Oak, Florida.

He also has three younger brothers in the ministry.

Dr. Luther completed his BA degree in 1965 at Bob Jones University. He continued his education at Central Baptist Theological Seminary in Minneapolis where he received his master of divinity degree.

During his seminary years he pastored the Immanuel Baptist Church of Menomonie, Wisconsin. In this time a parsonage was constructed and attendance of the small church nearly doubled.

He left to begin work on his Ph.D. degree. For three years he taught Bible at Tennessee Temple College of Chattanooga, Tennessee.

Most recently Dr. Luther has been

"I DON'T KNOW WHAT TO SAY. . ."

Does the question of knowing the "proper" thing to say at the visitation keep you from going to a wake or funeral? It shouldn't!

Your appearance at a wake or funeral is always a support and expression of love to the bereaved. The words you express as you embrace or extend the clasp-of-hand can add a sincere feeling of warmth and concern—but the words aren't nearly as important as your "just being there."

Here are some expressions you might consider.

"John was such a fine person. I will miss him"

"My warmest sympathy to you and the family"

"Mary was such a dear friend"

"Mary enjoyed life and shared her joys so often with others."

You may find it easier to say these words of comfort if you practice them beforehand when you are alone. Sometimes just hearing yourself say the words out loud makes them easier to express to others.

Are you going to vote for higher taxes on November 7?

The Levin Record:

The Griffin Record:

1. RAISE YOUR COMMUTER INCOME TAXES

"I urge vigorous and persistent efforts by our Council and Mayor to obtain from the legislature the right for Detroit to tax non-residents working in Detroit at the same rate as residents."

—Carl Levin

Detroit News

2. RAISE YOUR SALES TAXES

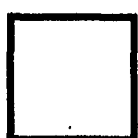

"He (Levin) urged... an increase in the state tax on cigarettes and alcoholic beverages which would raise an extra $40 million a year for Detroit..."

Detroit News
March 5, 1976

3. RAISE YOUR INCOME AND PROPERTY TAXES WITHOUT YOUR CONSENT

Detroit City Council Resolution: "Therefore be it resolved that the Detroit City Council go on record as opposed to an increase in the property or income taxes for the Detroit schools without the approval of a referendum vote of the Detroit voters." (LEVIN VOTED NO)

Detroit Legal News
March 8, 1973

I'd like to see higher taxes and a lot more give-away programs. I think Levin can do the job.

1. CUT YOUR INCOME TAXES

Senator Griffin, who favors a constitutional amendment to require the Federal government to balance its budget, is co-sponsor of legislation to cut individual income taxes an average of 30% over a period of three years. Taxes for a family of four earning $10,000 would be cut by 50%, earning $20,000 by 35%, and earning $40,000 by 34%.

S. 1860 introduced
July 14, 1977.

2. CUT YOUR INFLATION LOSSES

Senator Griffin is pushing hard for legislation to end government "taxflation." As it is now, a pay raise that is supposed to keep a worker even with inflation just winds up shoving him into a higher tax bracket. The Griffin-Hart proposal would automatically adjust the tax tables each year to offset inflation.

Proposed April 28, 1977 and August 25, 1978.

3. CUT YOUR EDUCATION COSTS

Senator Griffin has been fighting hard for tuition tax credits to relieve education costs. He thinks it's time the middle income family finally got a break.

Sponsor or co-sponsor of 12 bills since 1963.

I'm against higher taxes and inflation. I'm for Senator Griffin.

Baptist church to install pastor

living in Taylor, Michigan. His family moved into the Northville Baptist manse in mid-September. He is married to the former DeLoris Pehl, and they have four children, Jennifer, 2; James, 7, Joel, 4, and Joy, 3.

Mrs. Luther is a graduate of Pillsbury Baptist College and is a registered nurse. She also is a musician and a speaker at meetings of church women.

Dr. Luther was born in Pontiac and mentions that he is enjoying being back in Michigan. He says he hopes to become an active participant in the Northville community and is hoping that civic leaders and members of the community will attend the installation service as well as all members of the church.

Dr. Luther gave the baccalaureate address to the 1978 graduating class of Northville High School last spring. He said he's pleased that attendance has increased at the Northville Baptist church since he has been preaching.

In his teaching and in his sermons, he explains, he is concerned that people know "what the Bible really says" for he feels this is the answer to their needs. "The Bible," he declares, "does have meaning and relevance to 20th century man — it's very exciting."

In his courses, Dr. Luther explains, he is not necessarily teaching Bible content but interpretation. He will be instructing on the 12 minor prophets of the Old Testament.

After the 11 a.m. service Sunday there will be a church dinner in fellowship hall before the installation.

At the installation service at 2:30 p.m. Wade Waterman, chairman of the board of deacons, will give the welcome and introduction of the new minister.

Dick Ruffner, church director of music, will lead the congregation in song.

Invocation is to be given by Pastor Richard Duncan of First Baptist Church of Farmington.

Prayer of installation is to be by Pastor Richard Burgess of First Baptist Church of Novi.

Benediction will be by Pastor Robert Warren of Wixom Baptist Church.

Concluding the day will be a 6:30 p.m. Sunday evening service at which Professor Larry Overstreet, professor of theology at Detroit Baptist Divinity School, will be guest speaker.

Another special feature of the day will be the appearance of George Berryman, who will play his horn at a service.

Madonna expert to focus talk on reading

Sister Mary Martina, Ph.D., professor of education and director of Madonna College psycho-educational center will be guest speaker at the meeting of the Northville-Plymouth-Canton chapter of the Michigan Association for Children with Learning Disabilities (MACLD) at 7:30 p.m. today.

It is being held in the cafeteria of Plymouth Pioneer Middle School.

Sister Mary will discuss "What Parents Want to Know about Reading."

Sister Mary received her BA from Madonna College and did her post graduate study at Michigan State, U of M, and the University of Iowa.

She has had many years' experience in the field of education at the elementary and secondary levels in Michigan and Ohio, 1935-47.

From 1960-65 Sister Mary was the academic dean and professor of education and psychology at Madonna College. The guest speaker is responsible for many articles, consultations and presentations.

She is a member of PIRI (Psychologists Interested in Religious Issues - division of APA); International Reading Association; and Michigan Reading Association.

The MACLD meeting is free and all who are interested are invited. Parent advisors are at the meetings to aid new members.

The chapter invites the public to view its display in the foyer of the Dunning-Hough Library in Plymouth. Programs will be available on the literature table.
