

Series of good fortunes team up to save man's life

Rick Ambler can thank his reputation for reliability, an alert uncle and a new process for treating carbon monoxide poisoning for being alive today.

The 25-year-old Northville youth teetered on the brink of death for several hours Wednesday, October 25, the victim of a clogged chimney at his home in Jackson.

For the Richard W. Amblers of Northville the terrifying episode involving their son began with a telephone call to Ambler's office at Chrysler Corporation from Dave Marino at 4 p.m.

Marino, also of Northville, heads up Exotic Rubber and Plastics Company in Farmington, the company for which Rick Ambler works. When Marino received a call from his Jackson office that young Ambler, a salesman out of the Jackson office, had not reported for work he immediately instructed Jackson personnel to go to Ambler's home and investigate.

"Something's wrong," Marino insisted. "Ambler is too reliable not to report his absence."

And when it was discovered Ambler's car was at his house and he did not respond, Jackson police were summoned.

Rick Ambler was found face down on the floor of his bedroom with his head near a heat register. Later it was to be determined that the chimney was clogged and when Ambler attempted to get up, he fell.

At first police suspected suicide because young Ambler provided a touch of mystery to the setting by having a pair of rubber gloves tied on his hands. This puzzled authorities. Later it was to be discovered that

Thomson tops Grier by big margin

Dispite a big turnout of voters Tuesday, the long ballot failed to produce forecasted election bottlenecks

Planners say no even to bosses

Northville Township planning commissioners said 'no' to Thomson Sand and Gravel's request to expand their Seven Mile Road operation. They said 'no' to a landscape plan for Highland Lakes Shopping Center, to John Hamilton's request to divide 20 acres on Six Mile Road and to Long's Plumbing final site plan for a warehouse on Gerald Avenue. Commissioners indicated they probably will say 'no' to Ross Northrop's request to add eight racquetball courts to his Brooklane Golf Club facility.

And they even said 'no' to their bosses, the Northville Township Board of Trustees who had asked commissioners to review the zoning of the Wayne and Ruby Claypool property on Seven Mile Road. Commissioners voted to defer their review until the study of the master plan is completed. Commissioners and board members plan a series of joint meetings to evaluate possible changes to update the 1974 plan.

At their meeting last Tuesday commissioners only once said 'yes' in approving both a new preliminary site plan and a temporary trailer site plan to be built by Manufacturer's National Bank on the northeast corner of Six Mile Road and the future Winchester Drive. The site plan for the temporary trailer, which the bank expects to occupy for one year, already had been approved by the board of appeals.

Commissioners also scheduled an 8 p.m. December 19 public hearing on another bank's petition to rezone three lots from R-3 (one-family residential) to B-1 (general business).

Commissioners previously had voted to recommend that the board of trustees deny a similar petition presented earlier by National Bank of Detroit for a Six Mile Road lot which abuts with another on Haggerty Road, making an L-shaped parcel.

The board sent the petition back to the planning commission for reconsideration, but in the meantime National Bank of Detroit acquired an additional lot and petitioned for rezoning on the basis of an expanded site plan.

New chief seen by Christmas

The Christmas present for the Northville City Police Department may be its first chief in five years.

Oral interviews before a four-man board, the last step toward filling the long vacant position, should be conducted the week of November 20, said City Manager Steven Walters last week.

A new chief would then be selected within a week, said Walters. The ten men still under consideration have indicated that they could start working fulltime in Northville within two to four weeks.

Northville has been without a police chief since 1973 when Sam Elkins retired.

The position was not filled immediately, said Walters, because MAYOR PAUL VERNON has proclaimed November 12-18 as American Education Week in Northville, in cooperation with the American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary, which are celebrating the 58th annual observance of the week.

THE FIRST occupant of Allen Terrace senior citizens apartment is expected to move into the new facility on Friday, with other initial occupants to follow next week, according to City Manager Steven Walters.

Ogilvie goes down to defeat for judge

Republican Donald Thomson fought off the brisk write-in campaign of Incumbent Wilson Grier to easily win the supervisor's post in Northville Township Tuesday.

The hotly contested race proved to be not nearly as close as some were predicting going into the election, as voters gave Thomson a nearly three to one edge.

The Republican incumbent was thumped in all 10 of the township precincts. In the August primary he won in six of 10 precincts.

In another key local race, Northville's city attorney, Philip Ogilvie, failed to build up a sufficient bulge of Northville votes to overtake James N. Garber's lead in the Plymouth-Canton area, thus losing in his bid for the new judgeship in the 35th District Court.

Incumbents - Congressman Carl Pursell, State Senator R. Robert Geake and State Representative Jack Kirksey, all Republicans, won election handily, as did Congressman William Broomfield, State Senator-elect Doug Ross, and Representative Richard Fessler of Oakland County. Only Ross is a Democrat.

If the election proved anything it is that write-ins are difficult to win no matter how vigorous the campaign. Not only did Grier lose his write-in battle, but so too did Canton's Supervisor Harold Stein, who was beaten easily by Noel Culbert.

By 3:30 a.m. it was all over but the shouting in the Thomson camp, with absentee ballots pushing his margin to 1,835 votes, 2,844 to 1,009.

Here's the unofficial count by precinct, excluding absentees:

1—(286 to 44); 2—(229 to 75); 3—(273 to 28); 4—(27 to 12); 5—(236 to 85); 6—(259 to 95); 7—(204 to 96); 8—(176 to 56); 9—(201 to 89); and 10—(197 to 100).

On absentee ballots, 756 votes were cast for Thomson, 329 for Grier.

Thomson will officially assume the supervisor's post on November 20. It will mark his first elected office. Grier has been supervisor for two years.

At 3 a.m. Wednesday in the city, election workers were still counting votes and there were indications that the final vote count might not be determined for two or more hours. City Clerk Joan McAllister said "there's just no telling how long it will take to finish up."

It appeared Ogilvie might win in the city by a two to one margin. In the township, he won by 469 votes, 1,845 to 1,376.

Unopposed in Tuesday's township election were Clerk Clarice Sass, Treasurer Lee Holland, Trustee James Nowka, Trustee-elect William Zapke, and Constable James Schrot.

All of the township winners are Republicans.

In neighboring South Lyon voters recalled Mayor John Noel, that community's political heavyweight for nearly two decades. Also ousted was Councilwoman Louise Anderson. But two other council members barely escaped recall.

Although there were no local candidates in the city of Northville except for district court, the 11 ballot proposals probably helped produce a good turnout at the polls. A total of 2,426 or 65 percent of the 3,724 registered city voters cast ballots. Only 27.5 percent voted in the August primary.

There were 511 absentee ballots in the city.

In the township, a total of 4,487 or 65 percent of the 6,884 registered voters cast "punch card" ballots. The township had 1,209 absentee ballots.

Turnout in the township's August primary was 38 percent.

Washington, Lansing representation intact

With only one exception, the men who represent Northville in Lansing and Washington will remain unchanged next term as the result of yesterday's elections.

The only newcomer is Democrat Douglas Ross who unseated Incumbent Daniel Cooper in the August primary and went on yesterday to win the general election in Oakland County's 24th state senatorial district.

Statewide, voters gave only narrow approval to the most moderate of three tax reform proposals and soundly rejected two more drastic proposals. Voters also raised the legal drinking age to 21.

Congressman Carl Pursell, who went to Washington two years ago after winning one of the nation's closest elections, rolled over Democrat Earl Greene.

Northville State Senator Robert Geake easily won his first full term in Michigan's upper house by a 2-1 margin over Democrat Paul Kadish, chairman of the Schoolcraft College board of trustees.

Jack Kirksey, who won a special election to the state house last year, steamrolled to victory over his young and outgunned Democratic opponent, Joseph Horvath, Jr.

In Oakland County:

Republican Congressman William Broomfield continues his quarter-century Washington tenure by virtue of an easy win over Democrat Betty Collier, a Waterford Township housewife.

Ross dumped his Republican challenger, crusty Republican Marcus Simon of Oak Park. A Republican, Incumbent State Representative Richard Fessler defeated Milford Democrat Elizabeth Giese.

In an Oakland County Commission race, Incumbent Republican Dennis Murphy outpolled Republican-turned-Democrat Lewis Coy.

The Headlee Amendment, which merely put a cap on government spending, appeared to win by a small margin.

Michigan State Police troopers apparently won the right to collective bargaining (Prop. G); parole may be restricted (Prop. K) and bail may be denied (Prop. B) for certain crimes, there will be no constitutional convention (Prop. A); state funds may be deposited in savings and loan associations and credit unions (Prop. C); at least 90 percent of motor vehicle taxes apparently will be earmarked for roads (Prop. M); and the state's railroads will not receive up to 175 million in loans from the sale of general obligation bonds (Prop. R).

That's WCJH on your radio dial

CKLW may have Dick Purtan but WCJH has Buddy Holly.

Holly, sometimes known as Mike Pinkelman, joins Andy "Wolfman Jack" Dimitroff, Ed "If You Ask Me, I'm the Best DJ" Bergstrom and a score of other eighth and ninth graders who man the mikes of southeastern Michigan's newest radio station.

Twice a week, over an intercom system that rivals any 2½-watt station around, WCJH (as in Cooke Junior High) broadcasts national and school news and sports, features, interviews, music and gossip that would make Shirley Eder blush.

At 7:15 every Tuesday and Friday morning, the air waves reverberate with the "Rocky" theme song, signaling the beginning of another 20-minute broadcast direct from WCJH's very own Golden Tower in Principal David Longridge's office.

What follows might be a story about Mickey Mouse's birthday, an interview with Cooke's star quarterback, a dubious recipe from Grandma Tillie, an editorial, a mystery story and a closing record.

"They write everything themselves and choose what record to play," said Pat Milliken who teaches the class where the four broadcast teams prepare and practice their scripts.

National news stories are culled from previous day's newspapers with emphasis placed on special interest stories that may have been overlooked by the casual reader.

In the best tradition of Byron McGregor, the students at first tried to select sensational sex and violence stories.

They were quickly quashed by Miss Milliken.

In their place has come a vortex of rumors and gossip called the Hot Box. Much of the information is volunteered by anonymous listeners.

"Lisa is going with Dave," is one tidbit. "Jeff is conceited," is another.

Unlike this straightlaced publication, the WCJH Hot Box uses last names to the embarrassment but not dismay of the vast audience in Cooke's radio land.

"The kids just love to hear their names over the PA," said Miss Milliken.

The four radio teams rotate the live broadcasts, each getting a turn once every two weeks. In the works are plans for mystery productions ala "The Shadow".

Although none has ever been to a radio station and few have even met a radio personality, most come quite naturally by the stereotyped DJ image.

No fewer than 17 modestly admitted to being the best DJ in the class.

A couple who stood out on the bold-and-brash charts — no easy task — were Pinkelman, who does resemble Buddy Holly, and Bergstrom.

"They can run the class on their own," laughed Miss Milliken.

The two young DJ's would love to have the chance.

Winter's on its way ...
And that's a good time to plant large shade trees.

Here's why: Trees enter a state of dormancy in the winter season; their vascular systems are frozen and inactive. Careful hand-digging and moving at this time of year is much easier on the tree than when it has foliage and an active vascular system. In general, trees dug in the winter will produce more foliage the following summer.

Tribute to Bud

Relatives, friends and acquaintances paid tribute Saturday to Herman (Bud) Hartner, Jr., who retired recently after 32 years of employment with the City (and formerly village) of Northville — 1947-78 as superintendent of the department of public works and 1964-78 as fire chief. The two-hour dinner program was held in the high school cafeteria, which was filled with guests. Master of ceremonies was Mayor Paul Vernon, with City Manager Steven Walters hosting a special humorous slide program on the "Life of Bud Hartner." Also participating was the Reverend Fr. Gerard Hadad, who gave the invocation; Theodore Mapes, who succeeds Hartner as superintendent of the DPW; James Allen, who succeeds him as fire chief; and A. M. Allen, long-time former mayor of Northville for much of the time Hartner was employed by the city. Gifts were presented by Mrs. Donald DiComo on behalf of the municipal secretaries and clerks; by Mapes on behalf of DPW employees; by Allen on behalf of volunteer firefighters; by Mike Allen on behalf of guests; and by Vernon on behalf of the city council. Gifts included an engraved watch, an engraved, white fire chief's hat, a chrome-plated fire ax, an electrical tool, and a shirt for Hartner, and a gold chain for his wife, Marguerite. Hartner responded to the words of praise and gifts with a touching "public thank you" to his wife, who he noted knows more about the city's catch basins than most anyone in town. Another touching moment came as Hartner pinned a corsage on a special guest who received a standing ovation, Mary Alexander, long time former municipal clerk with whom Hartner had worked. Another special guest was former city manager, Frank Ollendorff. Also, a letter adding another tribute for Hartner was read from former long-time police chief, Joseph Denton. The floral centerpiece at the speaker's table was topped by a miniature tractor, a magnificent cake, in the shape and design of a red fire truck was prepared and presented to the Hartners by the Holloway Bakery.

Winterizing home pays in comfort, costs

The warm flow of summer has departed. And the crisp autumn days and nights should help remind homeowners that now is an ideal time to prepare homes against the ravages of winter.

Much of the damage often encountered by homes during severe weather, such as that encountered last year, can be prevented by simple and inexpensive safeguards.

The following steps suggested by the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors can help cut heating bills as well as avert the need for costly repairs next spring:

CHECK around all windows and replace dried, loose caulking that wastes energy and may let moisture in. Make a similar inspection of weather stripping around doors and replace deteriorated sections that may let warm air out and cold air in.

REMOVE window air conditioners and install weatherproof covers over others to eliminate air leakage and protect the units.

DEFECTIVE siding can make it easy for moisture and insects to enter the home. Check for loose or warped sections that may leave air openings. If left uncorrected, defective siding can bring rot to other sections and structural members.

CHECK the roof for broken shingles, loose nails or flashing out of place. Leaks and subsequent wood rot and rust will develop if the roof is not watertight. Moisture gathering under shingles may end up as growing chunks of ice that cause further gaps in roof integrity.

CRACKS in sidewalks and driveways could become much larger by next spring if left unattended. Inspect these areas carefully, especially joints between concrete areas and the home. Readily available products now on the market make such repairs much easier than a few years ago.

TEST heating equipment thoroughly if not already checked by a professional service. In preparation for heavy use, make sure filters are clean, motor is lubricated, belts are in good repair and properly adjusted, and humidifiers are in working order.

TO AVERT freeze damage, shut off outside faucets and drain pipes after last use.

GUTTERS and downspouts should be cleaned when leaves stop falling. Debris left in such areas can halt needed drainage and cause damage by ice and snow build up. Mesh leaf protectors running from shingles to outside gutter edge can help keep debris from accumulating.

The Realtors also point out that now is a good time to test run any snowblowing equipment and to prepare power lawn mowers for storage by draining out gasoline, changing oil, and disconnecting the spark plug. The motor should be turned by hand after oil change to help coat parts with clean oil. Many manufacturers also suggest removing the spark plug and squirting a few drops of oil on the cylinder head.

Preventive maintenance now should help assure more comfortable homes even in severe weather conditions and will help hold down the utility bills.

December 1 take-over target for DeHoCo

Contemplated state take-over of the Detroit House of Corrections, along with alternative sentencing programs, is the chief plan being pursued by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners for incarcerating male misdemeanants and minor felons after December 1.

That is the date announced months ago by Detroit for closing the facility, located in Plymouth Township at the Five Mile border of Northville Township. The facility, located on the south side of Five Mile Road, is not to be confused with the closed female division of DeHoCo located across Five Mile Road in Northville Township. The latter facility has been proposed for purchase by the state for conversion to a minimum security prison for more serious male inmates. Female prisoners formerly housed there have been transferred to a new state prison near Ypsilanti.

As yet, however, monies for purchase and conversion of the women's division of DeHoCo in Northville Township has not been appropriated by the state legislature. Its purchase and conversion was proposed by Governor William Milliken in the wake of strong citizen opposition to an earlier plan to buy and convert the vacant Wayne County Child Development Center, located at Five Mile and Sheldon roads. Taunted by crowd

Nazis find resistance here

Four members of a neo-Nazi group passed out racist and anti-Semitic literature in Northville Saturday before leaving in the wake of taunts and threats from an unruly crowd.

There were no fights during the noon-time confrontation in Northville's downtown business district but city police had to clear away several menacing men who surrounded the Nazis as they sat in their car in a city parking lot.

The Nazis, who were wearing storm-trooper helmets, army blouses and armbands bearing swastikas, were apparently members of the Livonia chapter of Detroit's National Socialist White People's party.

After leaving Northville, the four Nazis—including the group leader who was not in uniform—drove to Plymouth where they distributed more of their publications without incident.

Although police kept a close eye on the quartet and ran their names through a statewide computer to check for outstanding warrants (there weren't any), officers said the Nazis stayed within their legal rights.

In fact, said police, it was the gathering, downtown crowd, including many from a local bar, who contributed to a crisis situation.

"I just happened to be downtown when I heard there was another disturbance at the parking lot (at the corner of Main and Wing)," said Detective Alan Cox, who was off duty at the time and not in uniform.

When he got there, he found the three uniformed-Nazis sitting in the car, staring straight ahead, while several men surrounded the car and challenged them to fight.

"One of them was pulling off their rear license plate," said Cox. "I showed him my badge and told him he better put it back."

Earlier, the stern-looking, relatively young men strode up and down Main and Center streets, giving newsletters to those who would accept.

The material attacked Jews, blacks, and homosexuals as Communist-supported and unAmerican. One sheet touted a book written by an electrical engineer who claimed that stories of the Jewish holocaust in War World II concentration camps are untrue.

One person who wasn't impressed with the literature was Bas Tillema, a 16-year-old exchange student from The Netherlands who was working at the Marquis Theatre on Main Street.

Tillema tore up the material given to him by the Nazis "as a sign that I don't like it."

Tillema said he had Jewish friends in Holland whose family had suffered in concentration camps.

Although some who saw pictures of the Nazis thought they looked "arrogant," others thought they were comical.

"I thought, 'What is this, Halloween?'" said Mark Elker, a Northville High School senior who was working at Northville Pharmacy.

He said the Nazis gave him literature and told him the information was all supported by facts.

The Detroit chapter of the National Socialist White Peoples Party made headlines earlier this year when angry neighbors protested against a bookstore it opened in Detroit.

Computer communication

Now they can tell what they always longed to say

by RICH PERLBERG

"How many boxes do you see?" asks the teacher.

"Three," the student answers.

"That's correct. You are very smart," says the teacher. The student smiles and nods his head vigorously in agreement.

The student is mentally retarded, physically handicapped and cannot talk. But he can communicate with the help of his "teacher," who is really a computer that speaks via a voice synthesizer.

The scene takes place daily at Northville's Moraine Elementary School which is the home of what one expert calls the most advanced computerized communication enhancement program in the world.

The immediate benefactors are seven students who live in the Plymouth Center for Human Development but who attend Moraine as part of Northville's state-financed institution special education program.

Established in 1975, the Communication Enhancement Program — with the cooperation of Michigan State University and Wayne County Intermediate School District — leaped forward technologically this year with the addition of a roomful of computers and supporting equipment.

Basically, the computers give youngsters who have always had something to say a way to say it.

Using video scanners, voice synthesizers and strike-on keyboards, the students can effectively "talk," answer questions, make their needs known, complete individualized lesson plans and even compose tunes that are dutifully played back by the computer.

Before, all that was available were language boards, cumbersome devices where the student points to letters, words or phrases on a large plywood in front of him.

These are inadequate because the boards must be large to contain even a limited vocabulary and because they require some control of hand and arm movement which many of the students lack.

But computers can store vast amounts of information in a small space. And special education staffers are constantly devising new types of switches which allow even severely handicapped students to operate the systems.

Woodward, an obviously receptive youngster whose eyes light up when his instructor mentions ice cream, is so handicapped that, before computers, he could communicate only by using his eyes — once for "yes" and twice for "no"

— as his teacher pointed to words and symbols on the language board.

Now, thanks to a head switch that is attached to his chair, Woody can spell out words on a video screen merely by moving his head back and forth.

The promise of communication for these youngsters is the result of the same technology that produces hand calculators and digital watches.

"Ten years ago, the hardware required for this would fill a room," said Clinton Bennett, the computer manager for the program.

Bennett, who has a background in both computer technology and special education, was holding a gadget called a phonetic handvoice which is about the size of a loaf of bread.

With this box, students can punch three-number codes — just like a touch-tone telephone — and a word or phrase is "spoken" by a voice synthesizer with more than 60 sounds and four intonation levels at its disposal.

"The kids are amazed because it's the first time they have had speech," said Northville Special Education Director Leonard Rezmierski.

"Language is a mastery of power over your environment."

The cost of this technology is as staggering as it is exciting. That "loaf-of-bread" sized voice box alone costs $2,250 and the research and development cost for developing pocket-sized models is prohibitive for the foreseeable future.

Although the voice box was on loan, the rest of the impressive array of computer hardware and software at Moraine is owned by Northville's special education program.

Beside cost, there is the practical question: Can most of these kids, who after all are retarded, be expected to learn a meaningful vocabulary much less how to use the computers?

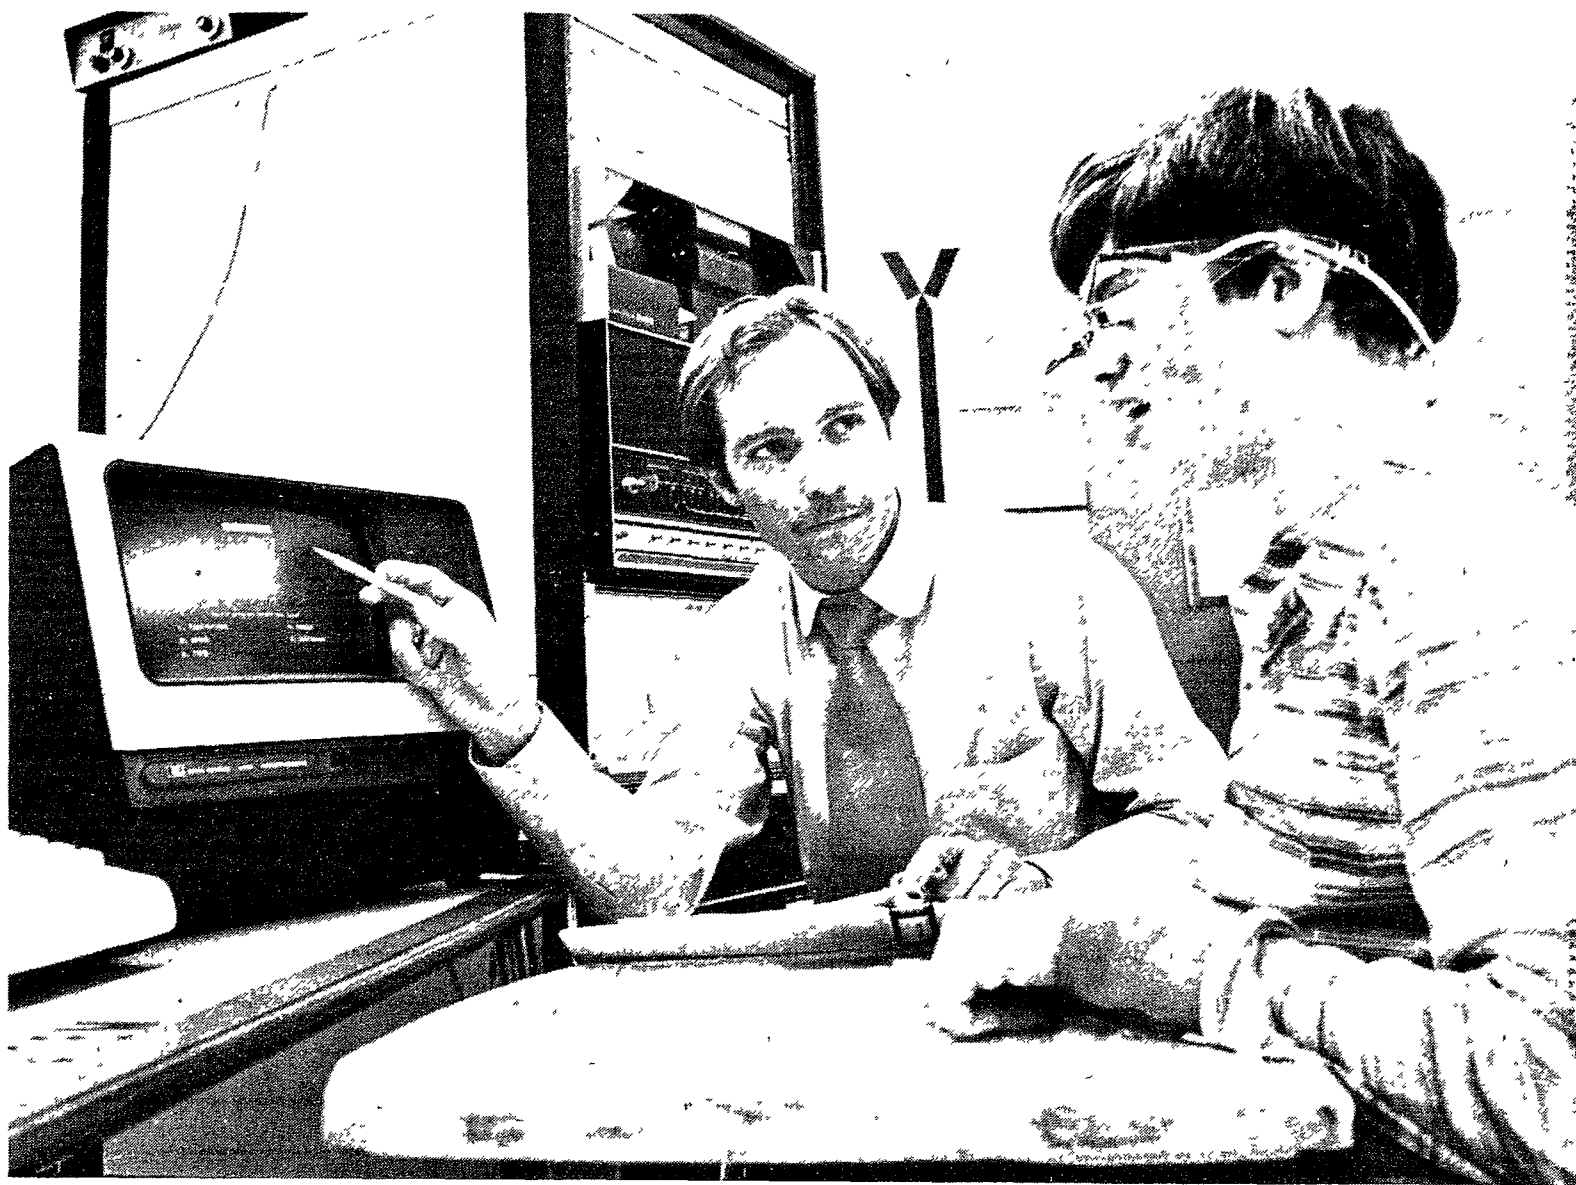

"Could I remember all those numbers if it was the only way I could communicate?" asks Rezmierski. "Sure."

But he is frank when he is asked how many retarded residents at the Plymouth Center can realistically be expected to benefit from the computers.

"We don't know. We honest to God don't know. But this may be the key to getting through to them."

There is no better time than now to talk about James Remuk. Remuk has had cerebral palsy all his life but he has been a victim not of his illness but of society's inability to deal with someone who cannot communicate in traditional methods.

Remuk now talks through a voice synthesizer attached to the arm of his wheelchair. Treated once as though he were retarded, the curly-haired, good-looking 24-year-old is now a candidate for his doctorate degree at Michigan State University.

It was Remuk that attracted Dr. John Eulenberg to Michigan State and eventually to Northville where he was instrumental in establishing the Communication Enhancement Program.

"The future is in this room, in this school," the linguist told a grand opening audience at Moraine last week.

"Northville has the most advanced computerized enhancement program in the world. It's also a very sad thing."

"We have space-age technology that allows us to play with the sands of Mars and the promise of technology for kids to have life, goals and to be in this world."

Eulenberg is a man who has little use for clocks and wristwatches but who has a very deep sense of time.

"Ten years ago, my father died of an illness that left him unable to speak to me for too long.

"He had a great deal to say. If I knew then what I know now, how different that last chapter in the Eulenberg family would be."

As great as the advances have been, they are still coming too slowly.

The Grand Opening to celebrate the computer room was short one expected guest, a Moraine student named Glenn who inexplicably became ill this year and died two weeks ago.

His death did not go unnoticed by his classmates, one of whom surprised the staff by typing "Glenn went to heaven yesterday," on his computer screen.

"Glenn had within him the promise of writing and talking that we weren't able to fulfill," said Eulenberg. "His time ran out. He was 18 years old."

"We can talk about our grandiose future, but this workshop here is where that kingdom comes from."

'Discipline' is topic for 2nd workshop

Lynn Gall, directress of the Northville Montessori Center, will speak here on "Discipline" on Thursday, November 16.

The program, second in a series of parent workshops, will be held at Winchester Elementary School at 8 p.m.

Ms. Gall has had extensive training in elementary education and has been directress of the Northville Montessori Center (located at Winchester Elementary) for three years.

Parents and teachers of the Northville community are invited to attend and join in a question and answer period to follow the lecture.

Scale in the design of any room means among other things that all furniture have some relation to each other and to the size of the room. Everything otherwise would seem large or small in comparison with other objects in the room. It's a good idea to keep sizes and shapes of all furniture and spaces nicely related. Also, geometric sections of each piece of furniture should be related in such a way that the whole creates a pleasing picture. Remember that two areas or lines have the most successful effect if one is more than a half and less than two thirds of the others.

At GREEN'S CREATIVE HOME CENTER, 107 N. Center St., 349-7110, we are more interested in helping our customers decorate their homes beautifully and in good taste than in just selling merchandise. Rick Ambler's alive

Ambler had contacted a rash from handling plastic materials. A doctor had prescribed a salve and suggested the use of gloves to cover the application.

When Ambler was rushed to Foote Hospital in Jackson, he was comatose and did not respond.

Meanwhile, his father and mother were preparing to leave Northville for Mrs. Ambler's brother and Rick's uncle) if he would care to go along.

Naturally, Dr. Nemiroff rushed along to Jackson with the Amblers.

The staff at Foote Hospital had detected a high level of carbon monoxide in Rick's blood. And although progress had been achieved in restoring him to consciousness, his condition was still near death.

It was at this point that Dr. Atchison, the family doctor who was fated here last May for his 40 years as a community general practitioner, used his persuasion to have Rick rushed by ambulance to University of Michigan Hospital.

Dr. Atchison remembered a new procedure for the treatment of carbon monoxide poisoning developed by Dr. Martin Nemiroff of the U of M.

It involves entering the victim into a compression chamber to clear the carbon monoxide from the red blood cells, where the poison attaches itself.

Miraculously, Dr. Nemiroff was at the U of M Hospital when the Amblers and the ambulance arrived from Jackson. Throughout the 35-mile trip from Jackson in the ambulance Rick was administered oxygen by a Foote Hospital nurse.

In addition to being a world-renowned expert on the compression chamber procedure, Dr. Nemiroff is himself a deep sea diver.

So after discussions with Dr. Atchison on Rick's condition, Dr. Nemiroff advised placing Rick in the compression chamber, a small submarine — like tank.

The U of M doctor warned the Amblers of the possible dangers of being in the compression chamber for 90 minutes. In the tank the pressure on the body would be the same as that experienced at 66 feet under water. Burst eardrums, loss of hearing, collapsed lungs, were among the injuries that could be suffered by Rick in the compression chamber. The doctor assured the Amblers such injuries were not likely, but possible. "And I'll be with him in the tank, added Dr. Nemiroff.

So Ambler signed the release for his son to be taken into the diving tank. And Dr. Atchison was permitted to witness the procedure. But the Amblers had to wait outside the building, which was located on the engineering campus — not at the hospital.

For Dick and Jeanne Ambler what followed was the "longest 30 minutes of our lives."

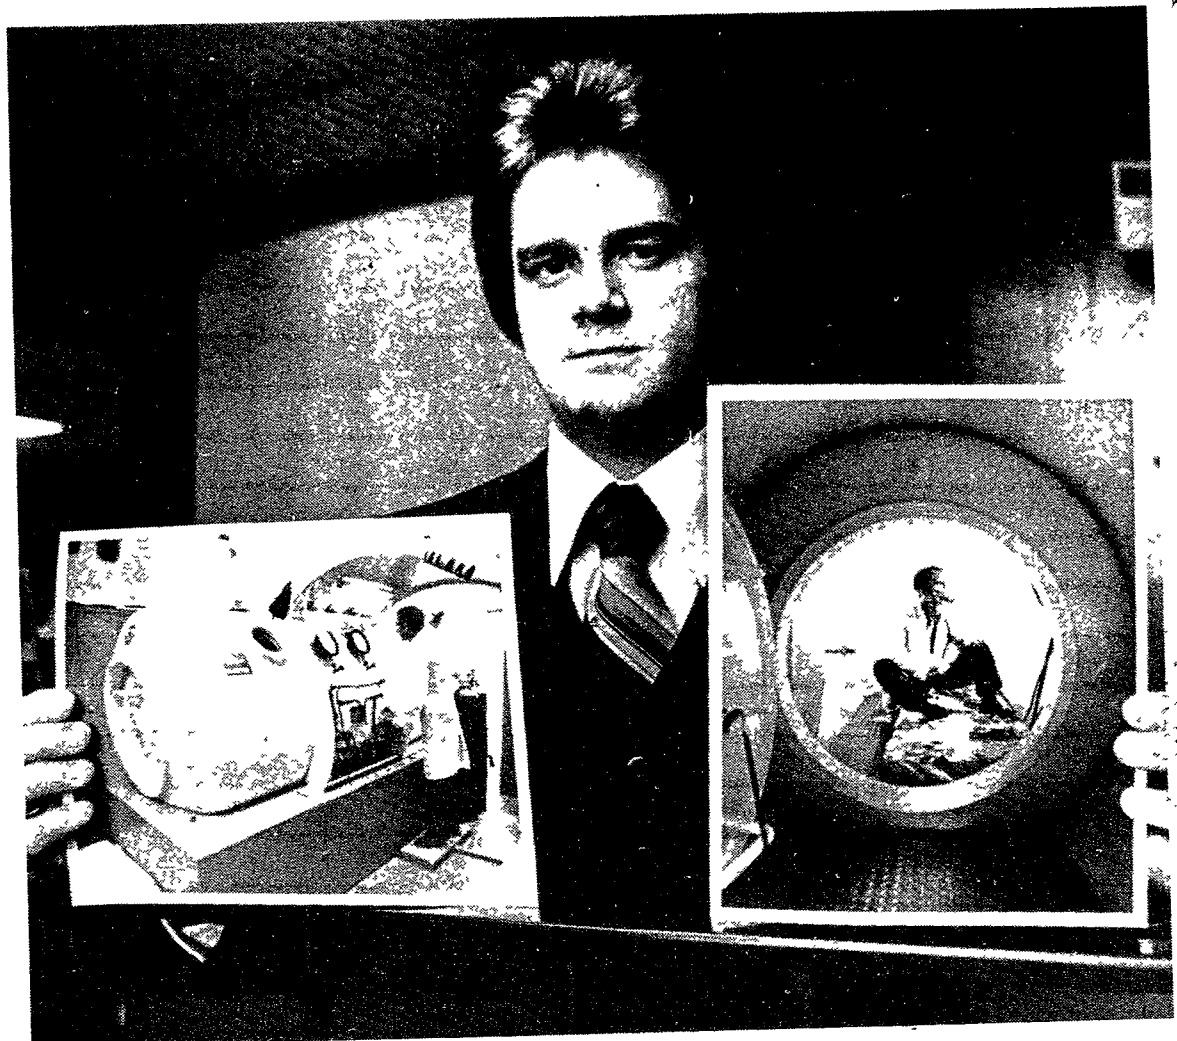

Then they saw Dr. Atchison come out of the building. Ambler ran towards the doctor, who reported that after 20 minutes in the tank Rick sat up, looked out the porthole window, and said: "Hi, Uncle Russell."

He said a conversation with Dr. Nemiroff, who was still in the tank, concluded that Rick was "one hundred percent!"

It was 11 p.m. The frightening experience had begun seven hours earlier. Rick was returned to the U of M hospital for two days for observation and then spent Friday evening with his parents at their Timberlane road home in Northville.

A couple of young volunteers who assist Dr. Nemiroff at the diving tank would accept nothing more than "thanks" for their efforts.

But they won't ever be forgotten by Rick Ambler. And neither will the friend (and boss) who was certain of his reliability, or the uncle, who had done his homework so well that he knew where to turn in an emergency.

'It's still hard to believe it happened....even harder to believe it happened to me,' says Rick Ambler

Plain and simple, chamber is lifesaver

There's nothing fancy about the decompression chamber used to save the life of Rick Ambler, the young former Northville man who nearly died of carbon monoxide poisoning recently.

It looks a little like a section of sewer pipe, painted white and fitted with gauges and valves. Inside its restricted crawl space is a single cot covered with left-over material from a child's nursery.

Most visitors, says Dr. Martin J. Nemiroff, M.D., assistant professor of internal medicine and staff member of the U-M pulmonary division of the department of internal medicine, expect to find something much more elaborate ... "something more out of Star Trek."

But simple though it may appear, the hyperbaric chamber has saved lives — mostly the lives of divers suffering air embolism and decompression sickness

It also has been used successfully in carbon monoxide poisoning and in gangrenous infection cases.

The steel cylinder is 12 feet long with an inside diameter of 54 inches. A hatch with a thick steel door at one end gives hands-and-knees access to a four-foot-long outer chamber, from which a second hatch opens on the eight inner chamber.

The outer air lock allows transfer of personnel and medical supplies without affecting the inner lock pressure. Primary air for pressurization and ventilation is provided by two high-capacity, low-pressure compressors, and emergency air is contained in a series of high-pressure cylinders.

Pressure in the chamber can be increased to equal that encountered by a diver at a depth of 230 feet.

It is equipped with facilities for administering oxygen and with telephone communication. Portholes allow outside operators to view what is happening inside.

Located in an engineering building on the University of Michigan's North Campus, the U-M chamber was obtained in 1972 by Dr. Lee H. Somers, Ph.D., associate scientist and the university's diving safety coordinator. Costing $6,500, it was financed through the U-M Sea Grant Program with monies from the U.S. National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

Today the same chamber would cost upwards of $18,000, guesses Dr. Somers.

Nemiroff and Somers share responsibility for the chamber's use in emergency cases and in training others in its operation.

They keep a list of volunteers who rotate on standby duty to operate the chamber in emergency cases. The two volunteers who were called in for Ambler's treatment were Patrick Blackburn, a diving instructor and a research assistant, and Phred Peterson, a part-time chemistry instructor and also a research assistant.

The chamber is operated from the outside, although it does have controls which allow operation from inside if that becomes necessary. In addition to the large compressors housed in the building, large tanks of compressed air are on hand in case of power failure.

In a cabinet next to the chamber is a mini-hospital containing supplies needed to handle medical emergencies ranging from heart attacks to major bleeding.

In case of carbon monoxide poisoning, explains Blackburn, high-pressure oxygen is diffused through the lungs and dissolved directly in the blood plasma. It skirts the hemoglobin molecules, which are already chemically clogged with carbon monoxide, and moves directly in solution to supply the brain. Gradually, the carbon monoxide is diffused out the victim's red cells through the lungs, allowing a return to normal gas exchange.

Patients with gangrenous infections can benefit because the high pressure oxygen makes an abundance of oxygen available to affected tissues, he points out. Oxygen diffuses rapidly and deeply into tissues, turning living flesh pink and revivifying it. Dead tissue remains discolored and is easily distinguished from the living, and surgeons can see quickly how much tissue must be amputated and how much can be saved.

Although many divers are aware of the chamber's availability to them in emergencies, the general public is not, says Dr. Somers. Fortunately, in Ambler's case, Dr. R. M. Atchison, the young man's uncle, remembered its existence and its use in a similar case. While the chamber can be used in a variety of ways, its small size restricts its wider uses — especially for research and experimentation, says Dr. Somers. "Sometimes we've had patient, physician and chamber operator in (the chamber), and I can assure you that it gets pretty crowded after a while." That's why Dr. Somers says, "We really would like a big, walk-in chamber. It could be used in a larger number of research programs as well as serving in life-saving situations." He estimates the walk-in chamber would cost about $100,000. Efforts to secure a grant for it are under way now, he adds.

County looks to state for DeHoCo takeover of DeHoCo in Plymouth Township holds about 550 male prisoners who are a county responsibility. Costs to Detroit for their keep has been reimbursed by the county on a yearly basis, more than $7.5 million annually.

Emphasizing the county's financial plight in their meeting on October 31, the county board of commissioners authorized Jarrette Simons to open negotiations with Governor William Milliken and other state officials to assume total responsibility for the facility.

With the transfer of the women from DeHoCo more than a year ago, the state assumed responsibility for female prisoners.

"Full assumption by the state (of both male and female inmates) would be ideal," said Commissioner Arthur M. Carter after the meeting. "There couldn't be a better solution, inasmuch as the administration is determined to get out of what it calls the prison business, and we in the county are leaning toward other sentence options, such as half-way houses or work-release programs, which we think may offer advantages over DeHoCo."

Carter is chairman of a special corrections committee established by the board to handle DeHoCo prisoners after the Detroit announcement leaving the county in search of quarters and perhaps more expense despite severe financial problems.

In the recommendation for state take-over approved by the Board, the corrections committee noted discussions with the joint City-County Criminal Justice System Coordinating Council on possible half-way house and work-release programs for males guilty of minor offenses.

"At this point I think that most of the committee is committed in that direction, because it gives us and the court system some possibilities that extend beyond mere warehousing of offenders," said Carter. He continued:

"A favorable half-way house and work-release system would amount to some stage of treatment and rehabilitation, something progressive rather than just a lock-and-key operation."

The report also called attention to a half-way house program already established for female misdemeanants through the Recorder's Court Probation Department and that an expansion of that program is under study.

In addition to the request for state take-over of DeHoCo, the board authorized Mrs. Simmons to engage in separate bargaining with state officials for financial relief — reimbursements, grants, etc. — especially for half-way house programs and other alternative incarcerations.

"Regardless of what happens with DeHoCo, we will still be in need of money to put the half-way concept into effect, even on a minimum level," said Carter. He added:

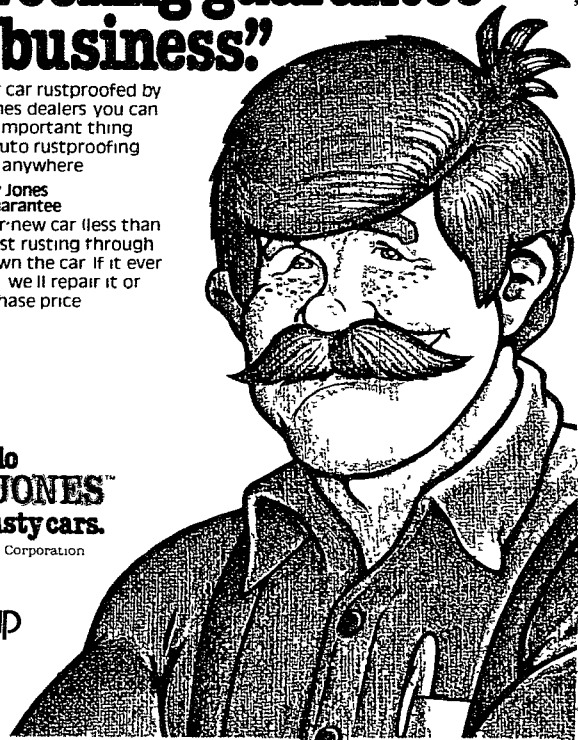

The corrections committee toured the facility Tuesday.

Something's Afoot

There is indeed something afoot at Northville High School. Cast members such as Lisa Willoughby (left), Bob Daniels and Jill Berquist are rehearsing for the fall play, a murder musical mystery entitled "Something Afoot." Showtimes are Thursday, Friday and Saturday, November 16-18, at 8 p.m. with a matinee at 1 p.m. on November 18. Tickets are $3.50 for adults and $3 for students. Photo by Greg Bach.

Progress is slow in district talks with principals

More than four months since their first-ever contract expired, Northville school principals still have not reached agreement with the school district.

And, from comments issued this week by the heads of the two bargaining teams, a settlement does not appear to be imminent.

Barbara Campbell, head negotiator for the Northville Association of School Administrators said that her bargaining team was very discouraged after a session with a state-appointed mediator last Wednesday.

Dr. Campbell, an assistant high school principal, said the district's bargaining team was unwilling to settle what she called relatively unimportant language issues so that negotiations could advance to more crucial items.

"We're really only interested in two issues — job security and the economic package," she said.

NASA, which represents 15 K-12 principals and special education supervisors, wants two-year contracts that are renewed annually for all members who have passed their probation period, said Dr. Campbell.

It also wants a pay scale improved by seven percent which would be in line with the last year of the teacher's salary package.

Economic issues have not reached the bargaining table and the school board has yet to make a wage proposal.

Burton Knighton, Northville's personnel director who heads the district's bargaining team, said he was surprised to learn that NASA consider the language provisions as non-essential.

"I think they ought to tell the mediator that," he said. "It didn't come through (Wednesday) that there were only two main issues."

NASA members have been working without a contract since July when their initial two-year pact, which was not settled until last fall, expired.

Dr. Knighton said that NASA's proposal has "opened up the whole contract as if there had never been a contract before."

"It's my understanding that this language is still important to them. If they feel they are ready to get back together again, the best thing for them to do is contact the mediator."

Negotiations are stalled until the mediator calls the two sides back to the table.

Dr. Campbell maintained last week that NASA is eager to get past the language barrier and get onto the security and economic issues.

The two-year, annually renewing contracts, she said, is essential for the district's principals in an era where declining enrollment could eventually mean administrative cutbacks.

A stronger teachers' contract now prohibits principals whose contract will not be renewed from returning to the classroom unless there is an opening.

Thus, said Dr. Campbell, a principal whose only fault is to be working in a declining enrollment district could find out in March that he has no job as of June.

The annually renewable provision would require principals to get more than a year's notice that their contract will not be renewed.

As for salary, Dr. Campbell said NASA only wants to keep pace with the teachers.

Board members, she noted, sometimes contend that higher paid employees should not always get the same percentage pay increases because their salaries — and, thus, their raises — are greater.

But, she noted, there are principals in this district who make less money than teachers in their building.

Federal road funds are sought for Northville

Wayne County commissioner who serves part of Northville is attempting to secure federal funding for several improvements in this area. Commissioner William Joyner of the 27th District has requested the Congressman Carl Pursell of Plymouth in obtaining the funds for several roads in western Wayne County that "are in need of major repair work."

The roads needing work were identified for Joyner by the Wayne County Road Commission. They include:

- Half mile of Eight Mile Road, from Center

Street to Novi Road, needs widening to 62-feet at a cost of $400,000.

- Half mile of Northville Road, from Hines Drive South to Hines Drive North, needs widening to 48-feet at a cost of $600,000.

- Six-tenths of a mile of Northville Road, south of Seven Mile Road to Griswold inside the City of Northville, needs resurfacing at a cost of $77,000.

- Mill Street, Plymouth to Wilcox roads in Plymouth, needs resurfacing at a cost of

- Plymouth Road, from Lilley to M-14 in Plymouth, needs resurfacing at a cost of $472,000.

Kids find pins in candy bars

Although there were no injuries, two Northville City girls discovered metal straight pins that had been plunged into their Halloween candy bars last week.

The youngsters, aged nine and ten, did most of their trick-or-treating north of Eight Mile and west of Sheldon roads.

Northville City Police have not been able to determine where the girls got the small-sized "Milky Way" candy bars.

Earlier in the evening, the girls planned to have their candy checked by a metal detector run by police at the fire department's annual party, but they left because the line was too long.

The girls discovered the pins when they were unwrapping the candy at home.

One girl pulled the pin out and then ate the candy bar. The other told her parents who contacted the police.

Police said the pin had been stuck through the wrapper and into the candy.

X-ray triggers cancer

University of Michigan physicians are warning people who had x-ray treatments from 20 to 40 years ago to be on the lookout for signs of skin cancer.

"X-ray treatments for a variety of ailments was an accepted practice until 20 years ago," said William C. Grabb, M.D., head of the University Hospital plastic surgery service. He says there are many people who had these x-ray treatments decades ago who now must be on the lookout for problems.

One such person is Mary McKenny a current patient of Dr. Grabb. She developed basal cell carcinoma 40 years after she had x-ray treatments for acne.

Mrs. McKenny, a native of Toledo and a U-M School graduate, is undergoing a series of surgical procedures on her face to remove the cancer.

In Mrs. McKenny's case, she noticed a tiny break in one of the capillaries on her cheek. When she washed her face, it would bleed slightly. She went to many doctors over a period of years, but her real problem was never property diagnosed. "I know x-ray treatment was an accepted procedure and it did help me, but I can't help thinking that if the effects are known now, why didn't someone ask me if I had had x-ray treatments?" asks Mrs. McKenny.

William B. Taylor, M.D., professor of dermatology says it is difficult to separate the effects of both sunlight and x-ray on an area of skin, from the effects of x-ray alone. He says that x-ray treatments were an accepted and approved method.

Hunters to clog roads

Although northbound traffic prior to the opening of firearm deer season should be heavy from Friday through the morning of the November 15 opener, hunters should encounter few traffic problems to slow them down, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

"Previous midweek openings indicate that the bulk of Michigan's 700,000-plus hunters should travel to the northern two-thirds of the state on Tuesday," stated Joseph Ratke, Auto Club Touring manager.

"Traffic on major roads leading north will be heavy that day, but barring any weather problems, hunters should be traveling at maximum speeds everywhere, with two possible exceptions," he said.

In Metropolitan Detroit, right hand lanes of I-96 are closed in both directions between Novi and Milford roads for pavement repairs.

In East Michigan, northbound I-75 is reduced from three to two lanes near the Zilwaukee Bridge north of Saginaw. Weekend traffic headed for deer country should be slightly heavier than normal Friday through Sunday (Nov. 10-12). Volumes should be near normal Monday.

"Northbound traffic should be heaviest at these times:

Friday (Nov. 10)—between 3 and 10 p.m.

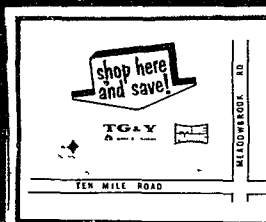

Saturday (Nov. 11)—between 11 a.m. and 8 p.m.

Sunday (Nov. 12)—between 8 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Monday (Nov. 13)—between 3 and 8 p.m.

Tuesday (Nov. 14)—between 2 p.m. and midnight.

Officials say high school will clean up housekeeping

High school complaints about unkept classrooms and dirty locker rooms should subside within the next two weeks, say school officials.

Beginning Monday, they said special efforts will be made to remedy the situation at the swimming pool where coaches have complained about a consistently uncleaned pool and locker room.

Bringing up the housecleaning in the classrooms to acceptable levels will take a bit longer but steps are being taken to shore up an understaffed custodial crew, said Michael Janchick, administrative assistant for operations.

It has been a manpower shortage that is at the root of the problem, Janchick said in an interview last week.

The condition at the high school has been an irritant to teachers but hasn't reached the crisis situation of two years ago.

Then, during a swine flu clinic, much of the general public was incensed at a high school whose halls and walls were cluttered with scrap paper, built-up wax and cobwebs.

Plastic garbage cans dotted the halls and classrooms to catch rain water that sometimes cascaded from leaks in the roof.

By last year, however, conditions had turned around culminating with an open house last spring to show off the same high school.

This fall, teachers have complained that rooms — which are supposed to be cleaned daily — have often gone untouched from one day to the next for periods, in some cases, of up to three or four days.

A particular sore point were rooms, the gym and pool that were used late at night for special events but were not adequately cleaned for school the following day.

Janchick, whose position was created at the start of the 1976-77 school year, said the custodial staff has been working shorthanded most of the year.

The current authorized staff of nine, he said, is six fewer than the 15 that were assigned to the high school as recently as three years ago.

A high turnover rate and illnesses have meant that there usually were fewer than nine people on the job most of the fall, he added.

And, he said, he only recently received the authority to reinstate a position cut when a millage failed in April.

The high school present special cleaning problems because of the large number of athletic events, plays, concerts and adult education classes that take place there at night, said Janchick.

Although school officials don't like to talk about it, another problem is that students at the high school are older, more creative and more destructive than at other schools.

"A kid in an elementary school may mess up the bathroom with a magic marker. At the high school, they tear a door off the stalls," said one observer of the scene who asked not to be identified.

Janchick said conditions should noticeably improve once the custodial staff begins working at full level but he added that more changes may be necessary.

A night-time supervisor and additional staffing for the 11-p.m.-to-7-a.m. shift may be required, he suggested.

Maintenance and operations, however, have been areas that suffer the most from several years of financial belt-tightening.

In the area of capital outlay, for instance, the general budget has allocated exactly zero dollars for several years.

Deaf boy struck by truck

An eight year old deaf boy remains in a Livonia hospital after he was struck by a pickup truck Friday afternoon as it backed from a Northville driveway.

good" condition Monday, according to spokesperson at St. Mary Hospital.

The boy reportedly suffered back injuries when he was hit by the pickup while standing in a driveway near his home.

The driver of the truck, Denis Roux, 41, 21130

East Chigwidden, told Northville City Police that he didn't see the boy and stopped when he heard a noise and felt a bump.

No tickets were issued.

Alex, the son of Robert and Dorothea Hay, is the youngest of six children.

A "first step" for women

The Schoolcraft College Women's Resource Center will offer a New Horizons Workshop beginning Monday.

The four-part workshop is scheduled from 1 to 3 p.m. in Room 200 of the Liberal Arts Building through December 4.

According to facilitator Jane Kaake, the workshop is a positive, supportive small group experience in self-awareness which has proven to be a good "first step" for many women. It provides an opportunity for informal exchange of ideas, personal re-evaluation and goal setting.

Individuals may pre-register by calling the Center at 591-6400, extension 430. A $5 fee is payable at the first class session.

Tulip time

Tulips will grace the grounds at Moraine Elementary School next spring thanks to the bulbs given by the Country Girl's Branch Garden Club, a division of the Women's National Farm and Garden Association. Helping Club member Pat Eden with

Northville High School seniors have tons of bird seed to sell at bargain basement rates. It's the third year the class has gone door-to-door with this sale which has been a big money maker. Some of the salesmen are Greg Bach (left), Brett Blanchard and Rob Holloway.

Walled Lake Casino

Memories of past glory

By STEVE BELL

When you stepped out to the Walled Lake Casino, you stepped out in style.

Although the dance hall, which was located at the corner of 13 Mile and Novi roads, was in operation from 1917 until 1965, it enjoyed its heyday in the late 40's when big bands led by such greats as Glenn Miller, Tommy Dorsey and Guy Lombardo entertained thousands.

For six nights a week during the summer, couples would dance on the polished maple dance floor with chandeliers dangling from the ceiling and spotlights waving to and fro.

And the men and women came dressed to kill.

"You weren't even allowed in there without a suit and tie," Northville's Ed Yerkes recalls. "You had to be dressed properly."

No liquor was served, with Coca-Cola the strongest drink in the house.

The first casino was constructed by Judd Taylor and his sons, Jake and Ernest, in 1917. In the mid-twenties, a fire consumed the structure and a new, larger building was built by Louis and Leona Tolettene in 1928.

The casino was a pretty rough place in the 20's, according to Yerkes.

"The Oakland County Sheriff's Department was always there," he says. "They were running a shuttle service between the casino and the jail."

In 1946, Leona Tolettene leased the building to her nephews, Albert and Elmer Tolettene. Under the management of the brothers, the casino became an entertainment landmark in the nation. The dance hall rivaled the Glen Island Casino in New York and the Meadowbrook in New Jersey as the most glamorous in the country.

Although the popularity of the big band sound began to wane in the late 50's, the casino drew large crowds throughout its long history. And during the boom years, the casino was jammed nightly with headliners such as Les Brown, Jan Garber, Wayne King, Sammy Kaye and Ralph Flanagan featured.

"Ralph Flanagan and his band set the attendance record at the casino," recalls Elmer Tolettene, now a supervisor in a tool and die factory in Deckerville. "There were more than 4,000 people there and I remember we had to turn more than 2,000 people away."

With such big-name talent appearing, the Walled Lake Casino became the place to go in the Detroit area.

"When the place was really cleaned up and going, half of Grosse Pointe would turn out," Yerkes says.

Perhaps because of the no-liquor policy, few, if any, problems of disorderly conduct were encountered by police, during the years the Tolettene brothers were in charge.

Elmer Tolettene says the best years were right after the Second World War.

"That's when everybody came out of the service," he recalls. "The big bands were really booming."

But in the late 50's, the big band business began to drop. In 1960, the brothers decided to close up the dance hall.

Mrs. Edmund Yerkes succumbs

As she had requested, a simple cemetery gathering of only immediate family members marked the death and burial of Margaret Buzzard Yerkes.

The 61 year old native of Plymouth, wife of Edmund P. Yerkes of 504 West Dunlap, died last week Wednesday at John Knox Village Convalescent Center near Ann Arbor where she had been ill for the past two years.

Cremation and burial arrangements were made through the Ross B. Northrop Funeral Home. The ashes were buried in the Yerkes family cemetery in Northville Township off Eight Mile Road.

Mrs. Yerkes had suffered a cerebral attack two years ago that left her body and speech mechanism completely paralyzed. It was the third such attack suffered during her lifetime, the second in 1959 leaving her left side paralyzed.

"When I go," she had instructed her family three years ago, "I want everything kept simple. Just a few words at the graveside, then some happy conversation at home."

Although she was born in Bay City on March 14, 1917, Mrs. Yerkes was taken by her parents, Claude H. and Lucile Buzzard, to Plymouth soon afterward.

A 1934 graduate of Plymouth High School, Mrs. Yerkes lived in Plymouth until her marriage to Edmund on June 24, 1939.

She was graduated from Michigan State University in 1938, and in 1961 began part-time studies at Eastern Michigan University where she received her MA degree in education.

At MSU where she majored in journalism, she was a member of Alpha Phi and in her senior year was named the honorary colonel of the ROTC's military ball.

Mrs. Yerkes worked at The Plymouth Mail for a period, during the publishing tenure of the late Sterling Eaton. She also taught briefly in Northville at Our Lady of Victory school.

One of the papers she wrote for her MA degree concerned an historical view of the old U.S. Fish Hatchery that existed here for many years.

She was a life member of the Northville Woman's Club with more than 35 years in the club, a member of the Presbyterian Church of Northville, a member of the now defunct Nellie Yerkes Women's Club, and she had been active for a number of years in producing the annual Northville Hobby Show.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Yerkes is survived by two sons, Charles E. Yerkes of Plymouth and William D. Yerkes, a member of the United States Navy now stationed in Sicily; four grandchildren, Giancarlo, Renee, Eric and Michael; her mother; and a sister, Doris B. Lewis of Virginia Beach, Virginia.

Mrs. Yerkes took humorous delight in reminding friends that she was the first person in the world to have her gallstones medically dissolved. That experience, which received nationwide attention in the news media, made her a "celebrity" research subject at St. Mary's Hospital and the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minnesota where she periodically returned for follow-up observations.

Her family has asked that any memorials be sent to St. Mary's Hospital Development Fund in Rochester.

DOUGLAS M. MOYE

Services for Douglas M. Moye, 80, who died November 5 in Tampa, Florida, will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at Ross B. Northrop and Son Funeral Home in Northville. Dr. Thomas W. Kirkman, Jr., is to officiate. Interment will be in Grand Lawn Cemetery.

A 40-year resident of Redford who had been employed with General Motors for 32 years in personnel, Mr. Moye was a member of Redford Presbyterian Church and Redford Lodge No. 152, F & AM.

He was born July 19, 1898, in Michigan to August L. and Isabella (Murry) Moye.

He is survived by his wife, Margaret E.; daughters, Charlotte Osborne and Margaret Ann Chandler; brother Alexander Moye; sister, Edwina Holmwood; and two grandchildren.

IRENE KAHRL

Funeral services for Irene Ella Kahrl, 74, were held Monday at Casterline Funeral Home, Incorporated, in Northville with the Reverend Karl Zeigler of Novi United Methodist Church where she was a member officiating. Interment followed in Oakland Hills Memorial Gardens in Novi.

Mrs. Kahrl, a former resident of the Novi, Northville and Walled Lake area, had been living in Seminole, Florida. She died October 26 in Oak Manor Center in Largo, Florida, after a year's illness.

Mrs. Kahrl was a member of Novi Rebekah Lodge No. 482. The lodge held a memorial service for her Sunday evening. She also was a member of Walled Lake Eastern Star Chapter No. 508 and VFW Auxiliary of Seminole.

Mrs. Kahrl was born September 24, 1904, in Northville Township to Robert and Ella (Kator) Thompson.

She leaves her husband, George; a son, Jack R. Kahrl of Walled Lake; sister, Mrs. Eve Behrendt of Novi; sister-in-law, Mrs. Marjorie Thompson of Ypsilanti; and 10 grandchildren.

BETTY K. DEATON

Betty K. Deaton of 25325 South Wixom Road, Novi, a homemaker and area resident for 35 years, died October 30 at St. Frances Hospital in Indianapolis after an illness of several years.

Funeral services were held at 11 a.m.

Thursday at Casterline Funeral Home, Incorporated, with Pastor Richard Burgess of First Baptist Church of Novi officiating. Interment was in Oakland Hills Memorial Gardens in Novi.

Mrs. Deaton was born February 1, 1919, in Montgomery, Alabama, to Broadus and Margaret L. (Tremble) Benson and married Ollie Deaton July 6, 1943.

She leaves her husband, her father, six children, Mrs. Patricia A. Dozier of Indianapolis, Michael of Brighton, Mrs. Mary J. Valentine of California, Ronald of Virginia, John and Julie of Novi; four sisters, Mary Conaway, Ruby Price, Priscilla Dozier, Donna Raine, all of Indianapolis; two brothers, Fred Benson of Kansas and Harry Benson of Florida; and seven grandchildren.

Councilman Johnston noticed trucks parked along 8-Mile also cars marked for Sale. Captain Westfall asked the Police Department be called when this occurs.

COMMUNICATIONS 1. Resolution from Brownstown Township objecting to reduced services by the Wayne County Road Commission and asking them to reconsider their action.

The City Manager had previously written to the Wayne County Road Commission objecting to the cut back in services and had not yet received an answer.

Motion by Councilman DeRusha support by Councilman Gardner to adopt a Resolution similar to the one adopted by Brownstown Township and send copies to surrounding areas in Wayne County that would be affected by this, and the Wayne County Commissioner Motion Carried Unanimously.

6. Communication from Governor Milliken regarding the two cent increase in gasoline and diesel fuel and the increase in vehicle fees and that the City of Northville will receive $23,043 in additional monies for maintenance and road repair.

7. Communication from Mr. James J. Bress regarding his property at 110 Rayson St. and the existing liability problem.

Mr. Bress stated he wanted to remove two walnut trees on either side of the driveway into Rayson Street and would replace them with two moraine locust trees. He explained the hazardous condition created by the falling walnuts. Mr. Bress had his request denied by the Planning Commission.

Councilman Nichols asked why these trees weren't a hazard before.

Mr. Bress stated the increased traffic flow because of the new business establishment and the entering and exiting from the rear of the lot. He mentioned the amount of traffic generated by the newspaper station was not a nuisance. He also mentioned when the walnuts are driven over they become slippery also. If they fall on a car and break open they will stain it.

Discussion followed on the life expectancy of the trees now that the asphalt is so close to them and what could be done to save them.

Mayor Vernon told Mr. Bress the Council tends to agree with the Planning Commission's opinion, and does not want to override them.

Councilman DeRusha asked what kind of liability of insurance would have to be carried.

Mr. Bress stated he would have to carry a $1,000,000 and does not carry that much now.

He was asked if he would have to increase his liability insurance because of the new business anyway.

Mayor Vernon stated the Council is sympathetic with Mr. Bress's problem and will try to help him resolve it in a mutually satisfactory way.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM CITIZENS Mrs. Louise Cutler, Grace St., President of the Business and Professional Women's Association read a proclamation proclaiming October 16 thru 22 as National Business and Professional Week and asked Mayor Vernon to do so in Northville.

It was suggested the specs for the Subdivision be reduced from 8" to 7", (8" was being used for the Wing Street paving) a base coat of 5" sand and a surface course of 1.5" fines, and all other Wing Street specs to be adhered to.

Mayor Vernon complimented the City Manager on the plan.

Councilman DeRusha asked if anyone had complained. Mayor Vernon commented it would be a subject for another meeting.

The changes which were requested, and which the auditors agreed were valid and warranted a revision in the audit were explained.

LIBRARY BUDGET REQUEST FOR ADDITIONAL APPROPRIATION The Library Commission requested an additional appropriation of $4,100 to cover the rental difference for the remainder of the year. Since the Library will be renting in the Northville Square rather than being in their proposed new facility, this request is necessary.

Motion by Councilman Nichols support by Councilman Johnston to pay the City's share of the Library rental bill. Motion Carried Unanimously.

HOUSING DIRECTOR RETIREMENT CREDIT RESOLUTION Resolution to the Municipal Employees' Retirement Board to credit the amount of service in the City of Plymouth by Frances Yoakam Housing Director. Allen Terrace. The City Manager commented on the cost to the City to credit her retirement accrued with the City of Plymouth. He stated five years was the minimum vesting period and Mrs. Yoakam had 2 years and 3 months of service with Plymouth. The cost to the city would be $160.00 per year, but averaged with all other annual adjustments.

Yoakam and the required forms be prepared. Motion Carried Unanimously.

Councilman Nichols stated he would like to study the proposal more carefully.

Mayor Vernon mentioned the Council had been invited to view the Recreational facilities on Wednesday night.

The City Manager commented on a decision which would have to be made as soon as the Board of Education are willing to relinquish the building.

The comment was made that there was much need for this type of facility in the area.

Mrs. Louise Cutler asked what the rental prices would be as her group, BPW, might be interested in renting a room.

Ed Krutcz, Recreation Director, read the proposed price list at $10 per hour or $25 a night, and slot time could also be purchased.

Mayor Vernon stated the City Council would review the Proposal.

SEWER SYSTEM EVALUATION GRANT PROPOSAL Mayor Vernon and Councilman Nichols attended the meeting last Thursday in Northville on the Super Sewer.

It was mentioned certain areas would be using the Walled Lake Treatment facilities and adding effluent to our area.

Northville and Northville Township, Plymouth and Plymouth Township would use the Detroit System.

Canton and all below would be a part of a new treatment plant on the mouth of the Huron River.

A trip is being planned to Washington DC with interested representatives who will plead their case to the EPA for a change.

A Cost Estimate for the Finkbeiner Pettis & Strout, Limited to prepare the local Step 1 Facility Plan for the City was presented. The total estimated cost of $56,800, was itemized on the enclosed. Cost of Price Summary format: 75% Federal grant and 5% state grant left the local cost to be $11,360.00. If the cost was acceptable to the City, the firm would proceed.

Mayor Vernon asked if the lines could be studied, televised and grouted at the same time, and if the cost estimate included this. The City Manager would find out about this for the next meeting.

One other item to be looked at was the meter rental figure, they will probably propose contracting for meter analysis.

The Cost Estimate Proposal will be acted on at the next meeting.

REQUEST RE-ALLOCATION OF WAYNE CD BLOCK GRANT FUNDS The City Manager explained the proposed letter to Mr. Terrence M. Jarvis, CD Coordinator, Wayne County Community Development Block Grant Program, concerning allocation of $13,769.00 to the City of Northville under the Special Needs Program.

Motion by Councilman DeRusha support by Councilman

Nichols to adopt the CDBG Resolution for Re-allocation of 1978 funding. Motion Carried Unanimously.

DETERMINE STATUS OF FORD FIELD PRIORITY FOR OAKLAND CD BLOCK GRANT FUNDS Letter to the Oakland County Community Development concerning the acceptance of the Ford Field Project for funding under the 1978 CDBG program.

Motion by Councilman Gardner support Councilman Johnston to reaffirm the priorities for the Funding of Ford Field under the 1978 CDBG Program. Motion Carried Unanimously.

MISCELLANEOUS Councilman Johnston commented on the many hours the City Manager is working and wondered how much longer the City Council could expect him to do all that he is doing. He asked about hiring a full time engineer to take some of the work from the City Manager.

Mayor Vernon commented he has thought about this and extra space would be needed to house them.

The City Manager commented when and if the Recreation Department and Senior Citizens program leave the City Hall, there will be more space available.

Discussion followed, also discussed was the possibility of hiring an Administrative Assistant.

Councilman Dewey mentioned changing auditors and thought it would be good to change. This should be acted on by early 1979.

Mayor Vernon commented on the Marquis Theatre and stated the entire community owes Igna and Jay Zayti a debt of gratitude for the outstanding job in refurbishing the Theatre. He asked permission of City Council to write to the Zayti's expressing the City's gratitude.

Meeting adjourned at 10:35 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,
Joan G. McAllister
City Clerk

Bacon nitrites harmful?

Are nitrites in bacon harmful? What is the nutritional value of artificial eggs? Can pesticide residue be detected in the food we purchase?

These are some of the questions more than 30 scientific experts will discuss during the telephone "Dial-ogue" on Food Safety to be held November 8 and November 9.

"Dial-ogue" is a coast-to-coast, toll-free telephone network wherein consumers and high school students can talk directly to scientific experts on food safety, dietetics, nutrition, food production, and the use of modern additives.

The telephone number for "Dial-ogue" is 800-424-5161. The telephone lines will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. both days.

Food safety "Dial-ogue" is being sponsored by the Council for Agricultural Science and Technology (CAST), an association of 25 scientific societies in food and agriculture.

The National Agricultural Chemicals

Association is providing the facilities and is distributing lesson plans and other information supplied by the Council.

The CAST program will bring more than 30 of the nation's most distinguished university and government scientists to Washington to answer questions on food safety. Among the scientific disciplines represented will be toxicology, agronomy, nutrition, food science, climatology and entomology.

CAST Executive Vice President Dr. Charles Black hopes that thousands of Americans will take advantage of the opportunity to gain firsthand knowledge about the American food supply and the nation's ability to produce food in abundance.

"We're making it possible for students and adults concerned about food safety, production and modern agricultural technology to talk directly to our distinguished panel of experts," Dr. Black said.

Walled Lake Casino: memories of past glory

In 1961, the casino was sold to O. J. Kraemer of Union Lake. Kraemer tried in vain to keep the sound of the big bands blasting out, but, like the Tolettene brothers, found it an uphill battle.

"I renovated it, put heat into it, redecorated it and I tried to bring the big band era back. I thought the bands could make a comeback, but television kept the people home."

Kraemer finally gave in to the times and converted the casino into a teenage rock and roll palace.

Although many of the oldtimers looked on such a transformation as a betrayal of sorts, the casino did enjoy several years in the early 60's catering to the younger set.

Jerry Sutton, now with the Walled Lake Schools Recreation Department, remembers going to the casino to see famous — or soon to be famous — entertainers such as Dionne Warwick, Little Stevie Wonder, Chuck Berry, Fabian and Del Shannon.

Sutton recalls wearing pegged pants, points, (pointed shoes) and greased-back hair when he made the scene at the casino.

"The building was filled just about every night," he says.

Although no liquor was served, Sutton admits the crowd did sneak a goodly amount inside and trouble was more than uncommon.

Novi Police Chief Lee Begole says he posted about 30 special officers at the casino every weekend, but sometimes even that number was unable to cope with the crowds.

"I remember when Fabian arrived," BeGole says. "I'd put 12 officers in the front of the entranceway. Well, those kids swept past those officers like they weren't even there."

"We got Fabian in by way of the back door, but let me tell you, that Fabian disappointed me. He was pantomiming. He wasn't singing his songs."

But Sutton, and about 3,000 other teenagers on hand, didn't notice or seem to mind that the singer was lip-syncing his songs.

A local group, The Barons, was playing on Christmas Night of 1965 when the casino burned to the ground shortly after closing time. Firefighters from seven area departments responded to the scene, but not soon enough to save the building. Two explanations have been offered as to the cause of the fire: either a careless smoker dropped a cigarette or a rusted out fuel line to an overhead heater ignited the blaze.

Either way, the fire ended the 48-year reign of the Walled Lake Casino. No longer would the sounds of Lawrence Welk or the Dorsey brothers or Fabian ring out along the shores of Walled Lake. The casino was left just a memory of glories past.

26 Autos towed away near Downs

Coming home from the race track a few dollars ahead was even more difficult than usual Saturday night when, in an hour's time, Northville City Police ordered 26 illegally parked cars to be towed away.

Most of the cars are believed to belong to patrons of the Northville Downs horse racing track where the "Jackson's Action" season began last month.

The cars, which were towed between 10:30 and 11:30 Saturday night, were parked in "No Parking" zones along Fairbrooks, across Center Street from the race track.

Police said it cost $26 for the owners to retrieve their cars. One car was still impounded Monday.

Police said the number of tow-aways was greater than usual, possibly because betters were shying away from the parking lot behind Northville Square where race track patrons can no longer park for free.

Counselors get copies of classes

Advanced copies of the Schoolcraft College winter class schedule are now available for use at the counseling office on campus.

Students wishing to get a head start on class selection should make an appointment with a counselor to consult the schedule. They may also obtain mail registration materials at that time.

Printed schedules in quantity will be available on campus and mailed to all district residents the middle of November.

Persons planning to attend the college for the first time this winter will need to complete an application and be admitted, formally, prior to registration.

For information, visit the admissions office on campus or telephone 591-6400, ext. 340.

Kensington waterfowl in spotlight

A special program entitled "Kensington's Waterfowl" will be presented at the Nature Center of Kensington Metropark near New Hudson on Sunday, November 19 at 9 a.m.

Swans, geese and ducks migrate through Michigan in impressive numbers in November. Many pause at Kensington Metropark to rest and feed before the waters freeze over. Naturalist Bob Hotelling will present a 2-hour program of discussion and observation of waterfowl.

Dress for the weather and bring binoculars. We will probably be driving to various sites within the park to locate the birds. Meet at the Nature Center building.

Registration is required. Vehicle entry permits are required.

Interest/Checking Plans. What they are. What they aren't. Are they right for you?

What they are.

You've been hearing a lot lately about the new Interest/Checking Plans that are available to bank customers. These new plans have come about because of revisions in Federal banking regulations that permit banks to automatically transfer funds from a savings account to a checking account with the customer's prior approval. With this change two new benefits are available to bank customers. They are:

- The Interest/Checking Plan combines the features of a $0 balance checking account with those of a regular savings account. With it 5% annual interest can be earned on the money you would normally keep in your checking account. As checks are written, funds are automatically transferred from savings to checking.
- The other new plan assures protection against the occasional checking account overdraft by drawing on funds in an especially designated savings account.

These advantages may sound good to you and they can be. But before you decide to sign up for either account, read a little further.

What they aren't.

First of all, the Interest/Checking Plan is definitely not for everybody. Accounts offered by most banks will carry a different level of service charges than in the past.

To understand the reason for this, it will be helpful to know the two basic ways in which a bank compensates its customers for the use of their funds. Up to now the majority of bank customers have received "indirect interest" on their checking account; that is, the amount paid in service charges was probably less than it cost the bank to service the account, especially if the customer kept a relatively small balance and wrote a great many checks. In absorbing this cost, the bank has really been paying "indirect interest."

Under the new Interest/Checking Plan customers will be earning "direct interest" paid at a fixed rate for the use of their money. Because of this, your bank will be more likely to charge for the expenses incurred in servicing checking accounts. Typically, this charge will be a fee for each check written plus a flat fixed monthly charge for the statement. The bank may also establish an average balance above which service charges are waived. This method of charging for the service is not too unlike some methods presently used. However, the level of charges and required balance can be expected to be somewhat higher than in the past.

With this explanation of the Interest/Checking Plan you may wish to evaluate its advantages from your own particular situation.

Are they right for you?

Evaluation is largely a matter of comparing what the new service will cost you in charges and fees with the amount you will earn in interest on your deposits. Just follow these simple steps:

INTEREST/CHECKING WORKSHEET

1. Determine the number of checks you typically write each month.
2. Figure the amount of checking service charges you would pay each month. (To compute this, determine how much your bank will charge for each check and the monthly statement charge, if any. Multiply the check charge by the average number of checks you write. Finally, add the statement charge to get your monthly service charge.)
3. Estimate your average checking account balance. (One easy way to approximate this in many cases is to add the beginning balance on your statement to the ending balance and divide by two.)
4. Estimate the interest you would earn in one month. (Multiply your average checking balance by 5% and divide by 12.)
5. Subtract your service charges from the amount of interest earned.

If the amount of interest earned is less than the service charge; you will not benefit. If the amount of interest is greater than the service charge, the plan may be to your advantage.

If the comparison above indicates that interest/checking will not be beneficial, you can continue with your present checking account plan or you may want to make some adjustments in the way you manage your money by following these simple suggestions:

- Combine the balances from other checking and savings accounts. This may give you the necessary funds to cover your checking account charges. A larger average balance in your interest/checking account assures a greater return.
- Pay as many bills as possible through pre-authorized automatic payments, reducing the number of checks you write. Examples include payments on mortgage and installment loans, and insurance premiums.
- Arrange with your employer for direct deposit of your paycheck into your savings account. Since all the money is deposited and probably sooner, it will earn you more interest.
- Avoid writing numbers of small checks for minor purchases — miscellaneous groceries, hardware or drug store items. Instead, write a single check for the amount of cash you know you will need.

Even though you've analyzed interest/checking, and perhaps have not found it suited to your needs, there is still the Overdraft Protection Plan to consider.

This plan simply covers overdrafts in your checking account — up to the balance in your savings account — by automatically transferring funds from savings to checking as needed. A minimum balance is required by some banks and a fee is normally charged for each such transfer. This plan's principal advantage is to eliminate the embarrassment and inconvenience of returned checks.

If you have further questions about the plans described above, or if you would like to inquire about the Interest/Checking Plan and Overdraft Protection Plan offered by National Bank of Detroit, stop in at a nearby NBD office. One of our representatives will gladly help you determine what is right for you.

SPEAKING for The Record By BILL SLIGER

Senate Majority Leader Bill Faust is looking for support for his proposed new rules for the Michigan Senate.

In a letter to his old friend, Record Editor Jack Hoffman, he recently described the Michigan Senate as having the "image of a fraternity house on Saturday night."

And what Faust would like to accomplish with his new rules is a conversion of that image to one reflecting the Senate as an open, accountable and responsive public body.

It should be admitted that Democrat Faust is a favored legislator around The Record, probably because he is well known to us as a former newspaperman.

Senator Faust quietly and ably took over the majority leadership two years ago from the more flamboyant Senator William Fitzgerald. And he has, we believe, gained the respect of legislators from both parties.

But he may face an uphill battle in gaining support for some of the reforms he'd like to institute in rules originally adopted in 1903.

He wants strong restrictions placed on travel by senators, their mailing and office furnishings. In all cases he suggests that such expenses should be made public and printed in the Senate Journal.

And Senator Faust would place the responsibility for administration of Senate rules in the office of the Majority Leader — an elected representative of the people, rather than a hired staff person.

And for the first time in the history of the Michigan Senate, Faust has proposed a code of legislative conduct describing the "responsibility of members to conduct themselves in a manner to justify the confidence placed in them by the people." He describes an important cornerstone of this confidence as a rule which mandates each senator to be in the Chamber and to vote on each question before the body.

Other changes called for by Senator Faust in updating Senate rules include streamlining of procedures, clarification of language to aid comprehension and "demystify parliamentary procedures."

I wish Bill Faust well in this most important effort to increase the accountability of the Senate to the people. And we will watch with interest the reaction of the elected senators from our area to the Faust proposals.

I recently received a letter from Mary Rave, chairperson of the committee appointed by Governor William Milliken to find a new director of Michigan's Mental Health Department.

She is seeking input for criteria that should be considered in making a choice.

Certainly, I am not qualified to develop any extensive list of prerequisites. But it just happens that I do have some thoughts that I'll gladly offer free-of-charge to the search committee.

Look for a psychiatrist with common sense. Make sure he has had some administrative experience. And for heaven's sake, take a second look at the "revolving-door" philosophy which would have patients roaming the streets minutes after they have entered the hospital for treatment.

Somewhere in between barb-wire fences and an open-door policy that cringes at infringement upon patient rights there's a studied, professionally — determined point at which freedom can be awarded patients for the sake of their well-being and safety, as well as the general public's.

Finally, pay a salary that is commensurate with the immense responsibility of the job.

As a matter of fact, I could even suggest a candidate who might be the best choice the state could make.

He has demonstrated his ability at Hawthorn Center in Northville.

But I doubt very much if the highly-talented Dr. Harold Wright could be lured away from his youngsters at Hawthorn.

In 1946 the village of Northville hired an assistant to the director of public works. The next year the assistant became head man and he's been that ever since.

Bud Hartner was honored last Saturday night for his service to the community and I regret very much being out of town and missing the long-deserved recognition event.

Ask Bud if a job can be done and inevitably his answer is the same: "you betcha."

Although he has been director of the DPW for more than 30 years and fire chief since 1964, Bud Hartner was never an administrator.

He is a leader by example. He has dug ditches, repaired water line breaks, cleaned sewers and fought fires. And he was always on duty 24 hours a day.

Bud Hartner gave Northville the best years of his life, every year. In 22 years in the community I have never known anyone more congenial, more willing to lend a hand than Bud Hartner.

Despite the naming of able and well qualified replacements, it just won't seem the same without Bud wheeling around town in his DPW truck.

He was the best ... "you betcha."

Public school teachers are prohibited by law from striking — striking is defined as the failure to report for duty, the stoppage of work, etc. The law permits public employees who strike to be disciplined by firing.

In my position as superintendent of schools, it is my responsibility to protect the rights of the students of the school district and provide them with a continuous, uninterrupted education. The education of a child is a very essential and serious part of his/her development. Thus, we cannot have his/her education interrupted by unlawful strikes.

The only effective sanction a board of education has available to it in a strike situation to guarantee a continuous education is possible firing. Boards of education are required to have 180 days of school. Thus teachers

NO

Public Act 379 of 1965 contains the statement "No person holding...employment in...the public school service... shall strike." The Act, however, provides no relief for these employees in the event of impasse. Fireman and policemen are forbidden to strike but they can demand binding arbitration by an impartial umpire. School employees cannot.

Employees in the private sector have used the strike for over a century. It must be noted, however, that striking employees in the private sector suffer financial loss for the time that they are on strike. So should school employees. And this would necessitate legislative changes in the State aid bill to school districts.

The no-strike provision in the existing legislation appears to be without significant meaning. School do not lose salary as most people do when they are on strike, as they will still work the required number of days and be paid for a full contract year.

The only people who lose out are the students who have education interrupted and days made up during normal vacation periods. If firing teachers is bad or unacceptable, then the law should be changed to permit teachers to strike. It is my responsibility to uphold the law as enacted whether it be concerning teachers, students, other employees or citizens of the district.

employees do strike (the term "withholding services" is merely a subterfuge) and yet no penalty is incurred. One of the basic rules I learned in thirty years in the U.S. Navy is never to issue an order or promulgate a rule that you do not intend to enforce. If you don't intend to enforce it, don't issue it.

We should enact appropriate legislation to permit school employees to strike at a financial penalty to the strikers just as in the private sector.

JACK W. HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

In 1959 the crusade of a young area couple, the Jerri Wills, touched me deeply. Sitting in their little Nine Mile home, listening to their commitment to pioneer in Alaska, I was filled with their contagious enthusiasm.

That evening I carried their story home to my wife, seriously proposing that we accept an invitation to join the "Fifty-Niners" on their adventurous trek to Alaska.

Her eyes blazed. Her lips twitched.

Over the years we followed the Wills' adventure closely. Their letters were filled with a romanticism; the Alaskan mountains, the forests, the land, the Wills themselves were as close and real and as lovely as the words that tripped off the handwritten pages.

Northville's senior councilman, Wally Nichols, owns a piece of an island off the coast of South America. He dreams of one day basking in this romantic place. I share his dream.

Wally suggested the Hoffmans also could purchase a piece of this paradise at a reasonable price.

Each time the subject is broached, however, her eyes blaze, her lips twitch.

Having romanticized in my mind Marvin Fluelling's 26 years of living alone with his wife and nature on North Manitou Island in Lake Michigan, the thought occurred once again Sunday of fleeing journalism and taking up residence in some similar idyllic preserve.

It tugged at my mind until finally I made the grievous error of carrying the idea to my wife.

"It would be marvelous," I said, "but of course it would require an irrevocable commitment."

Township hall's hard to find

To the Editor:
On Tuesday, the 31st of October, I drove to the Northville Township offices on Sheldon Road, to deliver my absentee ballot.

After parking, I walked to the building that houses the township offices. I tried the door marked 'Public Entrance' and found it locked. I tried the other door and found that locked. I climbed the stairs at the side of the building and found that door locked.

I then walked to the rear of the building and found that door open and went in. All the doors in this vestibule were locked. Then I went up the stairs and a young woman in that office told me that the offices had moved to a new building on Six Mile Road.

When you drive east on Six Mile Road, you will be in trouble if you turn onto the first driveway. It is only partially paved and seems to lead nowhere. The second driveway is a two-lane road that goes north for a short distance, then takes a 90 degree west turn — up a grade and then a 90 degree turn north into the parking area.

I told the receptionist that I felt that the township officials were treating those who had business with the township as 'second-class' citizens. I thought that I felt they were adopting a public-be-damned policy, by not posting signs at the old location — notifying people that they had moved their offices.

The receptionist called another employee over and this person did some work with me and said that signs should have been posted and that she would notify the police to do so.

As you know, Six Mile Road is a two-lane road that carries a lot of traffic at high speeds. There are absolutely no signs telling the public just where the new offices are located and there are no provisions for making a left hand turn from a heavily traveled two lane road into a more dangerous road!

A remarkable thing is that there is a short strip of extra pavement for those wishing to make a right hand turn.

Investigation will show that the potentially most dangerous road in Northville Township is the one leading to the new township offices. No two cars can pass on the 90 degree curve at speeds of over 10 miles per hour.

Some way should be found to force the township officials to post signs. Signs with the street number of the new offices. Signs that will force them to identify this as the location of the new township office and to see that a left-turn lane is installed, not for the thoughtless elected officials, but for their peers — the public.

It must have taken a genius, at poor planning, to design that new S-shaped road that leads up the hill to the new building that houses the township offices.

I believe that your paper would be doing the people in this great community a worthwhile service if you could find out just who is the one responsible for this sad and regrettable condition. If the public knew, they could get rid of them, come the next election.

Respectfully yours,
Richard T. Cooney

'Clothes closets' lose a friend

To the Editor:
I would like to thank all the people in Northville who have so generously donated clothing to different projects with which I have been involved over the past 10 years. First it was the annual Hawthorn Rummage Sale, then it was the FISH Free Clothes Closet when it existed, and then always it has been the Open Door Clothes Closet at the Northville State Hospital.

Now because of illness I must ask you not to leave donations on our porch at 605 Grace. If you would just take adult clothing and shoes to Northville State Hospital (the switchboard operator will accept them and if you would like a letter for a tax deduction, please put your request, together with your name and address, in one of the plastic bags with your donation).

Children's clothing are being accepted at St. Paul's Lutheran Church or the Plymouth State Home, also.

Over the years we have enjoyed meeting many of you when you brought your donations. Thanks to those of you who were kind enough to accept jars of homemade soup also because I never learned how to make a small pot of soup. Some of you were good enough to take a few jars when I had, as usual, too much to store in our freezer. I hope you enjoyed eating it as much as I enjoyed cooking it and sharing it.

We were fortunate in meeting lots of very kind citizens of Northville trying to help those less fortunate than we are.

I hope you will understand why I cannot accept donations any longer. The spirit is still willing but all of a sudden by body has become uncooperative. I think I am really getting old and don't want to acknowledge the fact.

Many, many thanks again.

Metal detector aid to children

As officer in charge of the program, I would like to publicly thank those responsible for its existence and success:

She said nothing and for a brief, exasperating moment it appeared she might be giving this oft-repeated idea serious consideration. But her eyes blazed, her lips twitched.

"Fluelling's wife made the commitment," I stumbled on. "She loved the solitude as much as her husband. The sequestered life of an islander was beautiful. Fluelling gave his wife a choice between a fur coat and a rifle, she chose the rifle. What would be your choice?"

A wicked smile curled across her twitching lips. "Why, my dear, of course I'd choose the rifle. I could use it to shoot the idiot who took me to the island."

Ah, the dreams of romanticists are pocked by blazing and twitching realism. It will be forever so, I guess.

Like my wife, Mrs. Nichols cannot bear the thought of leaving behind her grandchildren; the Fluellings are being kicked off their island; and the Wills have divorced.

Township planners say no even to their bosses

Shirley Auchincloss, who owns a home near the proposed bank site, protested a bank located among residential properties south of Six Mile Road, West of Haggerty Road.

Mrs. Auchincloss — who has spoken out against the proposed bank at a previous planning commission meeting, a public hearing and a board of trustees meeting — said she and other nearby residents would attend the December 19 public hearing to present arguments against the bank's proposal.

Sand and gravel

Thomson Sand and Gravel's petition asked for a renewal of its operational permit which will expire in March, along with an expansion of the permit to include additional acreage.

The sand and gravel site presently being mined has two permits, one issued to the A. M. Thomson estate and one jointly to the Thomson and Harry Pickett estates. The petition asked that the two be combined into one and the slope required for rehabilitation of the land after mining be changed.

After refusing to consider an expansion permit at this point, commissioners expressed concern that the company had done little rehabilitation of land already mined.

"Some areas are graveled out, and we should have some knowledge of what's planned to be there," Commissioners Bernard Baldwin said. "We don't want a crater with a subdivision in the middle of a crater."

He pointed out that not one piece of mined-out property had been sloped, seeded or sodded as required by the company's previous permits which have existed for more than 25 years.

Attorney Jack Ashton said all rehabilitative work done to date had been done by the A. M. Thomson estate.

"We have claims against the Pickett estate for work we've done in good faith," he said, explaining that the Pickett estate stopped mining their interest in the land seven years ago.

Commissioner Marvin Gans said perhaps escrow payments of $1,000 per month should be increased to insure that the land will be rehabilitated. Township Engineer William Mosher expressed doubts that the approximate $200,000 in escrow would be enough to provide slopes around the gravel pit's boundaries, along with top soil and seeding.

After commissioners discussed the possibility of issuing a permit for fewer than five years, with renewal contingent upon progress toward the land rehabilitation, Ashton said several hundred thousand dollars were involved in negotiations with the Pickett estate.

"We can't commit ourselves on the basis of a permit less than five years," he said. "The risk is too great to buy Pickett out."

Commissioner William Zapke moved to recommend that the board of appeals issue a five-year permit, changing the slope requirement as requested by the petition, with the permit being contingent on the purchase of the Pickett property. His motion further required the company to present a master plan for rehabilitation of the land within two years.

The motion, seconded by Gans, passed unanimously. Commissioner Mark Lysinger was absent.

Commissioners said the company could petition at a later date for expansion onto additional acreage, adding that they would expect the petition to be accompanied by plans detailing how the land would be rehabilitated.

Racquetball courts

Ross Northrop, president of Brooklane Golf Club, asked commissioners for guidance in steps required for approval to build a 90 by 110 foot clubhouse addition for eight racquetball courts.

Nothing in the ordinance deals with racquetball courts, but the ordinance does allow "golf courses, country clubs, private recreational areas and institutional recreation centers when not operated for profit" to exit in residential areas.

The Brooklane Golf Club at the southeast corner of Six Mile Road and Sheldon is in a residentially zoned area.

Commissioners and Attorney James Littell, representing Northrop, discussed whether or not allowing racquetball courts on the site would require an ordinance amendment or a petition for rezoning.

Littell asked for clarification of the meaning of the ordinance, contending that expansion of recreational areas shouldn't be confined to non-profit golf courses. He pointed out that Meadowbrook Country Club had added a swimming pool and tennis courts to their facility.

Gans objected to commercial racquetball courts, saying, "We would end up with a commercial corner in a residential setting."

Littell protested that the indoor courts would not hurt the surrounding area.

Planning Commission Chairman William Bohan said for racquetball use Northrop should ask for rezoning to commercial. Commissioners agreed when Littell said they would turn down a rezoning request.

Baldwin pointed out that a golf course enhances the value of property, but with racquetball courts, which could open at 6 a.m. and operate to 2 a.m., "It's an entirely different ballgame."

Northrop, who explained that the addition would be aesthetically designed and operated without harm to the community, said, "It's most discouraging. I take offense to it — really I do."

Zapke said he was concerned about where to draw the line between what is recreational and what is not. He said it bothered him that Meadowbrook could expand while a profit-making golf course could not.

Commissioner J. Craig Bowby moved to request a legal opinion of the ordinance and ask Township Planning Consultant George Vilcan for a feasibility study of the proposed use. After Zapke supported his motion, the vote split, with Gans, Bohan and Commissioner Kenneth Sewell opposing the motion.

Sewell said he thought commissioners should address themselves to whether or not they want the racquetball courts. "I voted against it because I don't want the facility on that corner," he said.

Baldwin explained that he also had apprehensions about approving the courts, but he felt Northrop should be given more consideration, that a decision should not be made after only one discussion.

Sewell then asked that the motion be given a second vote, and he voted in favor of it. With Gans and Bohan still opposed, the motion carried.

Other action

For the second time commissioners turned down the landscape plan for an addition to the Highland Lakes Shopping Center. Even though the plan was rejected before because it had only 10 trees while ordinance requires 12, the re-submitted plan still called for only 10 trees.

Commissioners also rejected John Hamilton's request to divide a 20-acre Six Mile Road parcel, asking Hamilton's attorney to correct legal descriptions and provide a 50-foot diameter cul-de-sac on the plan.

They also rejected Long's Plumbing site plan for a warehouse on Gerald Avenue, instructing Jim Long that he needed board of appeals approval for the proposed parking area, as well as other minor changes in the site plan.

Orchard Ridge disclaims filming

To the Editor:

I am writing to correct an erroneous impression generated by your article, "The Script Was Nearly a Tragedy" printed on page 5A of your October 11th edition.

The three youngsters involved were not making a film for an Orchard Ridge film class as your article stated. One of them is a former cinematography student.

I might also note that all students studying film at Orchard Ridge are briefed extensively on numerous safety precautions and legal requirements film production necessitates.

Chief among those are permission to use others' property and notification of the local authorities when "exceptional" events are staged.

I would appreciate your printing this letter to set the Record straight.

Record editorial triggers suit

Legal action against Publisher William C. Sliger and Sliger Home Newspapers, a division of Suburban Communications Corporation, has been initiated by Wilson Grier, Northville township supervisor.

Sliger was personally served with the summons on Monday, October 30, by a bailiff for the Wayne County Circuit Court.

In the complaint Grier charges the "Speaking for The Record" column written by Sliger in the October edition contained "false, malicious and defamatory matter."

new chief until this year.

Walters, as city manager, has served as acting chief and recently told city council that police-related duties took about four hours of his time a week.

Captain Louis Westfall has been the top-ranking police officer in charge of daily operations.

City officials have been unclear as to the reason for the long delay in filling the position.

Even when applications were accepted earlier this year, the interview process has dragged out through the summer and fall.

Walters said last month that two other projects — completing the Allen Terrace senior citizens complex and establishing a Downtown Development Authority before the end of the year — received higher priority than a new chief.

He said he hoped that the list of ten would be reduced to five or six who would be interviewed by a board that includes Northville State Police Commander Lt. William Tomczyk, a representative from the Wayne County Sheriff's Department and two area police chiefs.

Walters said he would consider the board's report when he made his selection.

Mid-rise back on Novi agenda

For the fifth time, the massive mid-rise complex rezoning at Haggerty and Eight Mile has been placed on the agenda of the Novi City Council.

The council is set to consider the matter November 13 at 8 p.m. at the Novi Public Library.

Orchard Hill Place Representative Joe Gerak first requested the rezoning at the June 27 council meeting, but the request was delayed in order for changes to be made in the requested OSC (office-service-commercial) zoning district.

Orchard Hill Place Associates, the developers of the proposed 89-acre office-commercial development, are asking that 40 acres of land presently zoned B-2 (community business) and 43 acres of land presently zoned RM-1 (multiple family residential) be rezoned to an OSC classification.

Another five-acre parcel located between Haggerty Road and I-275 will retain its B-2 designation, according to the developers.

The rezoning would make way for the development of a major office-commercial complex on the site.

According to the original plans of the developer, the 89-acre complex would include:

— a four-story office building that would serve as regional headquarters of a major United States corporation presently located in New York;

— a five-story hotel;

— 400,000 square feet of office space in a series of buildings;

— a recreation complex that could include a theater, bowling alley and racketball courts; and — a series of retail stores.

Throughout the months that the council has been wrestling with the $49 million proposal, the recurring stumbling block has been in securing changes in the OSC zoning district.

The first meeting was delayed in order to make wholesale changes in the OSC district, such as making a height limitation of five-stories and substantially increasing the setback requirements.

At the July 24 meeting, the council officially approved these changes and Orchard Hill Place representatives balked at proceeding, saying they had to review what the changes meant to their overall plans.

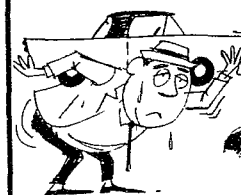

At the August 14 meeting, action on the rezoning request was delayed a third time after City Planning Consultant Charles Cairns told the council the new regulations were excessively strict and might not withstand a court challenge.

The council then reversed its decision on setback requirements, giving the developer more land to develop.

Defense stars in season finale

Mustangs hang on to nip Novi, 20-14

Take a bow, defense.

Northville's gutsy tacklers bent but didn't break in the clutch last Friday night, and it was their efforts — plus a solid running attack sparked by Don Borthwick — that gave the Mustangs a tight 20-14 victory over Novi in a season-ending battle of old backyard rivals here.

The triumph gave Northville a final overall record of 5-4 this season, the sixth straight year the Mustangs have had a winning season under Coach Chuck Shonta and the fifth straight time they've beaten Novi.

But last week's victory didn't come easy.

The turning point came with just under six minutes left in the fourth quarter. Facing a fourth-and-one situation at the Northville three-yard line and trailing 20-14, Novi tried running an option to the left side.

Big Defensive End Toby White, though, came barreling through the Wildcat offensive line and grabbed Quarterback Jeff Laverty before he had a chance to take two steps, sacking him for a 12-yard loss.

During a timeout before the play, Shonta said he just told his players to tighten up and be ready for anything.

"The play caught me by surprise," he acknowledge, "but we told the kids to just stay at home and they did. White did a real nice job of getting to the quarterback."

Actually, Novi had one more shot at winning the game after that. After stopping Northville at its own 17 in three plays, the Wildcats took a short punt at the 34 with 3:30 remaining.

Pressured by the Mustangs' defensive line, though, Laverty threw three incomplete passes and hit on another for only six yards as Novi failed on downs and Northville took over again, running out the remaining two minutes on the clock.

The Wildcats drew first blood in the contest, scoring on a 10-yard touchdown run by Laverty early in the second quarter. The score was set up three plays earlier, when Defensive Back John DeBrule intercepted a pass by Northville Quarterback John Marzoni at the 32 and rambled back to the 11. Magnus Andersson's extra point kick made it 7-0 with 9:22 left in the half.

The Mustangs bounced right back after the ensuing kickoff, though. With Don Borthwick, Bob Crisan and Marzoni picking up valuable chunks of yardage, Northville drove 71 yards on the ground and scored on a three-yard sneak by Marzoni with 5:58 remaining. Russ Gans booted the extra point to tie things up, and that's the way it was at intermission.

The Mustangs then took the opening kickoff in the second half and marched 79 yards in 11 plays, with Borthwick going the final 22 yards on a brilliant run around right end. Borthwick, in fact, carried four times for the last 46 yards of the drive, just after a leaping 16-yard pass reception by Flanker Jeff Norton. Gans made it 14-7 with seven minutes left in third quarter.

Five minutes later Marzoni, who doubles as a linebacker for the Mustangs, made the second of his two interceptions in the game to set Northville up at the Novi 26 for its third touchdown. On the very next play the multi-talented senior hit Norton with a 26-yard scoring pass, with Norton stretching out to make the grab at the right-hand corner of the goal line. A 15-yard penalty forced Gans to try a 36-yarder for the extra point and he missed, leaving the Mustangs with a seemingly safe 20-7 bulge.

Refusing to fold, however, Novi scored again on the following series to cut the gap in half. Duanne Pohlman returned a short kickoff from the Novi 35 to the Northville 47, and from there the Wildcats marched in five plays, scoring with 11:24 left in the game.

Halfback Jeff Arbour set up the touchdown with a sparkling 32-yard run down the right sidelines to the Northville three, and two plays later fellow Halfback Keith Crosslin dove over from a yard out. Andersson's boot proved to be the final point of the game, however.

Two minutes later Novi took a 39-yard Northville punt at the midfield stripe and moved down to the three-yard line before White's quarterback sack. The big play during that drive was a third-down, beautifully thrown 33-yard pass from Laverty to Crosslin, setting the Wildcats up at the Mustang 12.

Reflecting on the victory, Shonta figured his team "thought they had it won after that third touchdown."

"I think we had a letdown in the fourth quarter, but our defense came through just as they have been all year."

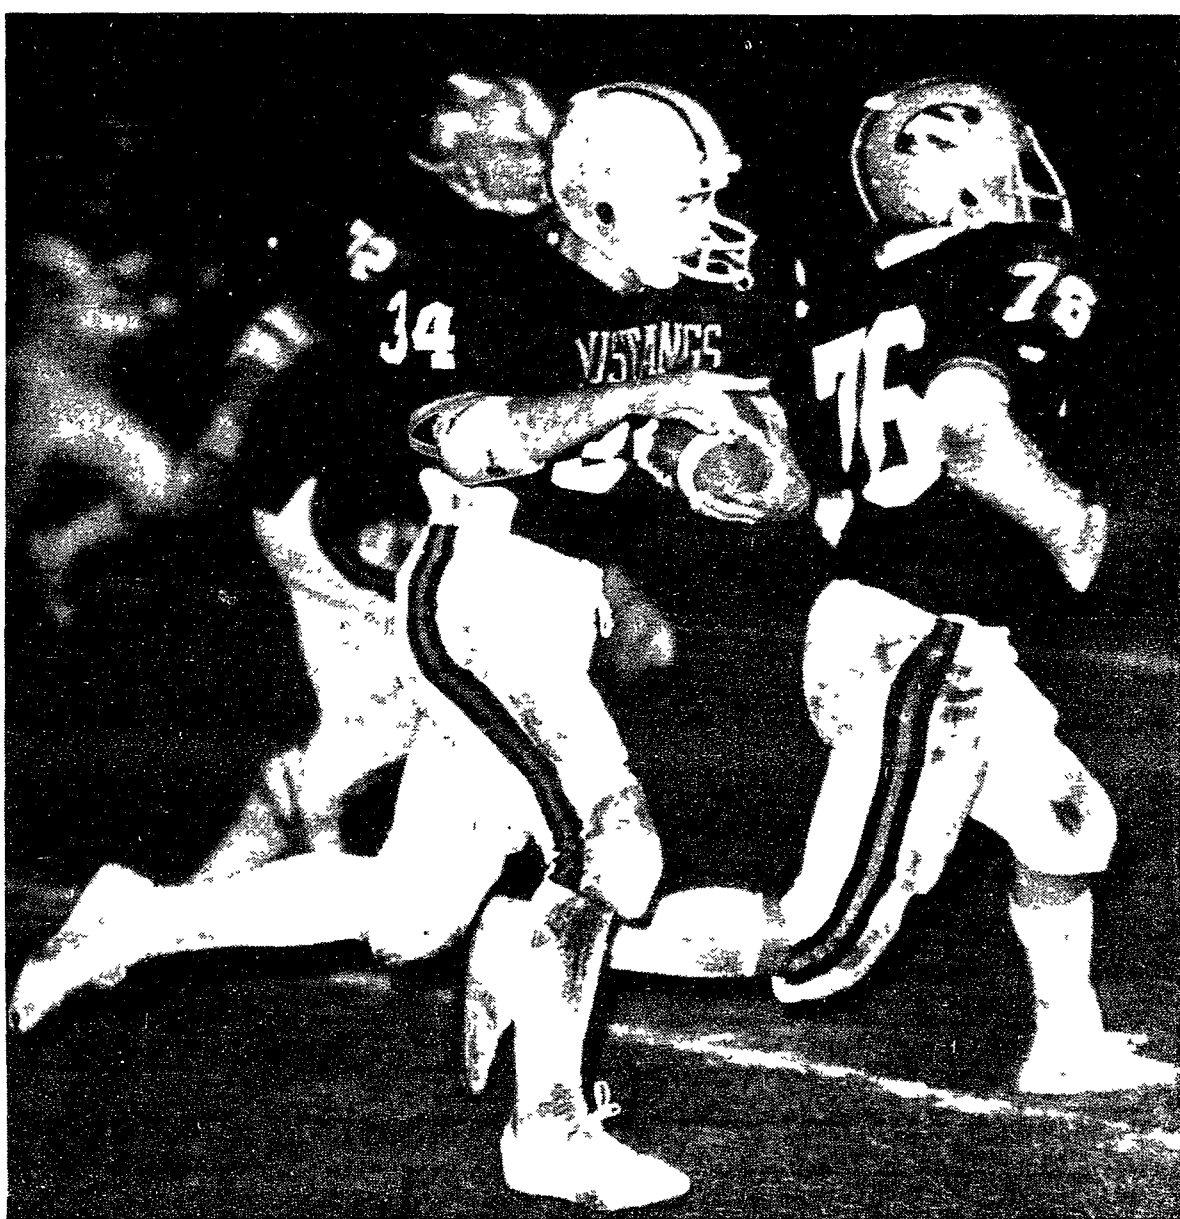

Shonta also credited his coaching staff — Offensive Coordinator Darryl Schumacher and Defensive Coordinator Steve McDonald — for helping make some key adjustments in the game. One of them was a 5-2 weak side, 4-3 strong side defense the Mustangs used on Novi, a set-up Shonta felt helped his team shut down the Wildcats' strong outside running game.

Statistically the two clubs were fairly even in the contest. Northville outgained the Wildcats 191-116 on the ground, but Novi had an 81-40 edge in passing yardage.

One big difference was that the Wildcats had three turnovers in the game (two interceptions by Marzoni plus a fumble recovered by Defensive Tackle Matt Baker) while the Mustangs had only one (DeBrule's interception).

Offensively the Mustangs ran the ball on all but six plays (Marzoni was 2-of-6 passing). Borthwick was the workhorse of the backfield, carrying 23 times for 118 yards for his best showing of the year. Arbour had 64 yards in 13 carries to lead Novi.

Defensively Northville was led by Marzoni, who had 10 first hits and 10 assists. Defensive Tackle Norm Tiilikka added seven first hits and six assists while Nose Guard Dan Troher had eight first hits.

Northville CC team places 9th at states

Considering all things, Northville's cross country squad has plenty to be proud of this season.

That wasn't too apparent after last Saturday's Class A state finals, though. Hoping for a top five finish in the team race at Howell's Faulkwood Shores, the Mustangs instead placed a distant ninth in the elite 24-school field.

But despite the disappointed looks and grumblings of Northville's runners afterwards, Coach Ralph Redmond felt "they gave us everything they could have," in the meet.

"We felt let down after the race," Redmond recalled. "I know the kids are a little let down."

"But when we sat down and assessed the race, we found that timewise as a team we were just eight seconds off what we did at the regionals, which was our best effort of the year."

"When it comes down to the nitty-gritty, it not only takes dedication, desire and sacrifice to be a high finisher in the state finals. It also takes a lot of talent, and I think we were just a little shy in that area."

"It wasn't the dedication that was missing, and it wasn't the commitment. We just came up a little short on talent. All in all our kids have just had a fantastic season."

The Mustangs wound up with 285 points in the meet, which involved the top three finishers from each of eight regional meets the week before. Northville won its regional at Marshbank Metropark with 52 points.

Brian Turnbull paced the local squad's effort in the state meet with a 26th-place finish out of some 165 runners. His time was 15:38.

Next came Harry Couyoumjian, who finished just two seconds behind Turnbull and in 31st place, while Jim Bedford (63rd in 16:04), Joe Martin (72nd in 16:09) and Doug Wright (93rd in 16:22) followed. Rounding out Northville's varsity were Myles Couyoumjian (115th in 16:38) and Steve Bourne (152nd in 17:10).

That marked the second straight year the Mustangs have finished as the ninth-place Class A cross country team in the state. Last year they wound up with 274 points.

This year's state champion was Brighton, the only team to beat Northville in a dual meet this season. The Bulldogs, whose runners finished 9-10-11-14-41, edged out defending state champ Grand Blanc by 10 points.

In third place was Royal Oak Kimball (194 points) followed by Grosse Pointe North, Flint Kearsley, Kalamazoo Loy Norrix, Jackson, Portage Northern, Northville and Grand Haven.

The team race's individual champion was Doug Tolson of Wayne Memorial, who ran the course in 14:47.4 and exactly matched the time of individual race winner Jim Miller of Adrian.

Northville's efforts in the state meet capped a season that saw the Mustangs win league and regional titles plus the Schoolcraft and University of Michigan — Dearborn Invitational championships. Their dual meet record was 9-1.

Drop cliffhanger to Livonia cagers

When you're talking about real heartbreakers, you're talking about games like the one Northville's girls lost to Livonia Stevenson in basketball action last Tuesday night.

After leading throughout the second half, the Mustangs lost a 37-36 cliffhanger on a pair of free throws after a wild scramble for a rebound at the buzzer.

The incident began with about 15 seconds left in the game and Northville leading, 36-35. Stevenson took a shot and missed, and the ensuing scuffle for the rebound continued right up to the final buzzer, when Northville was called for a foul underneath the basket.

Stevenson's Pat Dotson, who'd only collected one point up until then, calmly sank both her free throws to give the Spartans the victory.

Coach Dave Schopp questioned the foul call afterwards, noting that "in a situation like that you either call the foul right away or not at all."

But he also felt the Mustangs had their chances to sew things up much earlier in the quarter.

"It was a game the girls know they should have won," he said.

Recovering from a 22-20 halftime deficit, Northville took a 47-42 lead into the fourth quarter and had a seven-point advantage with five minutes remaining.

Stephanie Colovas and Diane Perpich fouled out in short order, though, opening the doors for Stevenson's comeback.

The Mustangs were also hurt by poor free throw shooting (4 of 14 compared to 15 of 23 for Stevenson) and 41 turnovers, including two crucial ones in the final minute of play.

Karen Goxem led all scorers in the game with 14 points and grabbed 11 rebounds for Northville while Perpich added 10 points and Liz Pixley six. Pixley also nabbed seven rebounds while playing a strong defensive game.

Two days later the Mustangs dropped their seventh straight games without a victory in Western Six competition this season, losing 58-42 to Walled Lake Western.

This time the Mustangs were out-muscled from the start. By halftime Western had a 36-14 bulge.

"The difference between us was that we just couldn't handle their press," Schopp observed afterwards.

He also pointed out that Western's Connie Murphy, who had 18 points in the game, was "a dominant player" and "an excellent ball handler."

Goxem shared top scoring honors with Murphy by netting 18 herself while again picking off 11 rebounds. Perpich and Kim Kurzawa pitched in seven points each for Northville, with Perpich grabbing 10 rebounds and Kurzawa six.

The Mustangs are now 1-13 overall this season with a game scheduled at Livonia Churchill tomorrow night. Next Tuesday they'll host Plymouth Canton.

JV's lose, too

Northville's jayvee girls' basketball squad dropped two more games last week, lowering the team's record to 3-9 overall and 0-7 in the Western Six this fall.

Despite Lori Mitchell's 15 points, the Mustangs suffered a 38-31 setback against Livonia Stevenson last Tuesday. Julie Hunko contributed seven points and five rebounds in the losing effort.

Two days later Kim MacGuire scored 12 points and Stacy Hoover nabbed 12 rebounds, but it wasn't enough to stop Walled Lake Western from overcoming a three-point deficit in the last two minutes for a 35-33 triumph.

Northville's girls shot only 23 percent in Tuesday's loss and had only 16 percent in Thursday's setback.

Dave Greer hunts for receiver while Brian Mullen (53) and Scott Brown (68) provide protection

Junior Mustangs edge Novi, 12-6

It wasn't their most impressive game of the season, but Northville's jayvee football squad nonetheless capped an outstanding season with a 12-6 non-league victory at Novi last Thursday night.

The win left Coach Dennis Colligan's team with an overall record of 8-1 this fall, including a 4-1 mark and a co-championship in the Western Six.

Thanks to a pair of lightning-quick touchdowns early in the second quarter, the Mustangs raced off to a 12-0 halftime lead, but had all they could handle in the last 24 minutes before pulling it out.

Northville's first touchdown came on a 55-yard toss from Quarterback Dave Greer to Paul Cooper near the start of the second quarter, but a bad snap on the extra-point attempt kept the score 6-0.

Moments later Gary Kucher recovered an outside kick at midfield, and Halfback Scott Robins dashed 50 yards for the Mustangs' second score on the following play. A two-point conversion pass failed, and Northville never got on the board again.

Novi's lone touchdown came on a 10-yard pass from Quarterback Jeff Szuma to Tight End Steve Wright with seven minutes left in the game. The Wildcats threw a scare into the local squad, though, when they marched down inside the Northville 30 during the last two minutes but failed to score.

"They were hungry," Colligan said of Novi's surprisingly strong performance. "I hate to say it, but I think they wanted it more than we did."

"But hey, when we had to hold them we held them. It wasn't one of our better games, but it ended up in the win column and it gave us an 8-1 season, and that's more than respectable."

"Overall it's just been a super season, and those have been a great bunch of kids to work with."

Leading the Mustangs' powerful ground game against Novi was Robins, who carried nine times for 105 yards. During the season Robins carried the ball 67 times for 449 yards, averaging close to seven yards a crack.

Other leading rushers for Northville this fall included Rob Burnham, who piled up a whopping 838 yards in 118 carries for a 7.1 average and scored nine touchdowns, and Fullback Bob Thomson, who carried 72 times for 360 yards and eight touchdowns.

Greer, whose 2-for-9 passing performance against Novi was among his worst of the year, rushed for 386 yards in 59 carries this season and completed 48 or 99 passes for another 796 yards through the air.

Among Greer's favorite targets were Dave Ward (17 receptions for 177 yards and two touchdowns), Cooper (14 receptions for 403 yards and six touchdowns) and Todd Jennings (12 receptions for 165 yards and one touchdown).

The Mustangs' strongest suit, however, was defense. Led by Linebackers Steve Norton and Brian Mullen and Defensive Backs Greer, Kucher and Joe Millen, the jayvee club allowed just 47 points in nine games and registered four shutouts.

Northville, coached by Colligan and Lee Holland, beat its opponents by an average score of 30-5 in tallying eight victories for only the second time since joining the Western Six in 1971.

Athletes of the week

JOHN MARZONIE

Good all-around athletes are hard to come by, especially in a sport like football, but John Marzonie certainly fits the bill for the Mustangs. The senior linebacker-quarterback had another in a long line of outstanding games against Novi last week, picking off two interceptions and getting in on 20 tackles on defense while throwing for one touchdown and running in for another on offense to lead Northville to a 20-14 victory over the Wildcats. Marzone was also recently selected as a linebacker to the All-League squad.

KAREN GOXEM

If any one girl could be credited with the Northville basketball team's gradually improving offense in the past two weeks, it would have to be Karen Goxem. The 6-0 senior forward-center has been exceptional in each of her last five outings. Last week she scored 32 points and had 22 rebounds as the Mustangs scored 78 points in two games, the most they've scored in back-to-back games all year. In her last five games she's scored 65 points and had well over 50 rebounds.

Swimmers deck Churchill

Northville's swimmers did a lot of switching around, but that didn't stop the Mustangs from posting their 10th straight dual meet victory of the season last Thursday night.

Led by a balanced effort, Northville swamped Livonia Churchill 102-60, hiking its record to 10-0 overall and 6-0 in the Western Six this fall.

Almost all of Northville's swimmers competed in events outside their specialties, with Allyson Farquhar and Kristy Iverson even trying their luck at diving.

The Mustangs won seven events in the meet, including both relays. Northville's only double individual winner was Nancy Donovan, who won the 200 and 500-yard freestyles.

Other Mustang winners included Sue Cahill (butterfly), Laurie Sellen (100 freestyle), Janet Shaw (breaststroke), the medley relay team of Jody Lauber, Farquhar, Cahill and Kyle Roggenbuck, and the freestyle relay team of Cahill, Roggenbuck, Allyson and Leslie Farquhar.

Churchill's winners were Jeanne Gessler (individual medley), Dee Reid (50 freestyle), Janie Stewart (diving) and Jackie Rudolph (backstroke).

Tomorrow night the Mustangs will swim their final home meet of the season. They'll take on powerful Farmington Harrison while honoring their senior swimmers in their annual "Senior Night" ceremonies.

Chris Eden holds album given to him by Bob Ufer as he listens to the taped interview

Interview with Ufer is 'excellent'

By MIKE LASH

Bob Ufer isn't your average, everyday football radio announcer.

For those who've never heard of the man, Ufer is a colorful play-by-play commentator for the University of Michigan football network.

Colorful? Why, Bob Ufer has maize and blue blood running through his veins — or so he claims.

For 33 years he's been broadcasting the Wolverines' games each and every football Saturday without fail. And there isn't a person in the world who enjoys his work more, because Bob Ufer is probably the biggest fan Michigan football has ever had.

Screeching at the top of his lungs as the Wolverines score a crucial touchdown, almost breaking down into a particularly tough loss, rattling off statistics and recalling games from 20 years ago with the authority of a computer, Ufer is like no other broadcaster around.

He is, in a very real sense, totally wrapped up in his work during Michigan's annual chase of the Big Ten title — so much so, in fact, that his doctor recently advised him to avoid outside public appearances that might stir up his emotions and aggravate a recurring heart problem.

Three weeks ago, however, a 16-year-old Northville High School senior had the fortune of capturing him at his best in a special interview at the office where Ufer works — Kleinschmidt Insurance in Ann Arbor — during the week.

Chris Eden, who once worked at Michigan Stadium with his father Earl, did the interview as a project for a class he's taking in broadcasting and writing. He'd originally hoped to have Ufer visit the school, but when that wasn't possible he arranged to meet the popular broadcaster at his insurance office.

And his reaction?

"It was excellent. You had to be there," Eden said with all the fervor of a true blue Wolverine fan. "That was quite the interview. He was really a casual guy."

"Casual might not be the best choice of words — perhaps 'right at home' would have been a more accurate description — but Eden certainly had no problem getting Ufer to talk.

For half an hour the man sometimes referred to as "Mr. Michigan" himself answered questions with the uninhibited ebullience that hundreds of thousands of fans hear every week across the state.

"It was supposed to be a 10-minute interview, but it turned out to be almost 30," Eden recalled, adding that at one point Ufer stopped and apologized for rambling so long in answering one question.

But despite the length of the interview, Eden said he "loved every minute of it."

And why not? He and his family have been loyal Michigan fans for years, and between 1973 and 1977, while his father was employed with the university, Eden would help open the doors leading out of the locker room tunnel before each of the Wolverines' home games.

The local high school senior, who also plays football with the Mustangs' varsity this year, recalled that Ufer's tiny office was crammed with Michigan football relics, including old pictures, souvenirs and even a lamp whose shade was once former defensive back Jerry Zuver's helmet.

3 win with single mistake

It was one of those weeks when football fans had a good handle on supremacy.

No fewer than 51 persons in the weekly football contest submitted entries containing three or fewer errors.

And while none had perfect scores, five persons had entries containing only one mistake.

Of those five, three were declared winners because of their closer guess of the Northville-Novl score Friday night.

First place went to Tom Bryson of 598 Morgan Circle, Northville, who was just three points off the actual score of 20-14. He guessed the Mustangs would win 21-12.

Sharing both second and third place monies because of their guessed scores were Finn O'Leary of 43663 West Six Mile Road and Tom Hanson of 41864 Sutters Lane, Northville.

Both were eight points off the score, with O'Leary having Northville on top 21-7 and Hanson giving the Mustangs a 22-8 victory.

Also with just one error but finishing out of the money because of the tie-breaker were Ted Seltz, 42271 Sunnysdale, Northville, and Robert Brown of Ann Arbor.

Most difficult game for contestants proved to be the clash between the two Walled Lake teams, Central and Western.

Meads Mill trips Cooke in finale

Bob Townsend scored two touchdowns, including one on a long kickoff return, to lead Meads Mill to a 28-6 victory over Cooke in the annual season-ending battle between Northville's two ninth-grade football squads last Wednesday.

Cooke got on the scoreboard first on a 50-yard touchdown pass from Chris Dimitroff to Mark Olgren in the opening quarter, but Townsend squashed any momentum that might have built up by returning the ensuing kickoff 65 yards for a touchdown. Meads Mill added the two-point conversion for an 8-6 edge and never trailed again.

On the first play of the second quarter Sean Cook scored on an 11-yard run, and by halftime Meads Mill had a 16-6 bulge.

Townsend helped ice the game with his second touchdown of the day early in the second half, and the winners finished their scoring on a short jaunt by Greg Burnham in the fourth quarter after recovering a fumble at the Cooke 10-yard line.

The victory gave Meads Mill a final overall record this year of 2-5.

Cooke wound up 1-5, but played with a severely depleted team throughout most of the season. One week earlier, for instance, the local ninth graders were outnumbered 38-14 when they suffered a 39-6 loss to Brighton.

Cooke had played even up through most of the first half in that one, with Dimitroff rambling 40 yards for a touchdown that gave his team an early 6-0 lead. At intermission Brighton scoreless until the second stanza, when a 20-yard touchdown run plus a two-point conversion gave Belleville an 8-0 halftime lead.

The winners scored again on a 37-yard breakaway in the third quarter before Andy Dimitroff broke through the line for a 53-yard touchdown run for Cooke's only points.

Belleville's final touchdown came on a 25-yard run with just 22 seconds left in the game.

Ocelots win in soccer playoff

Claudio Mancini and Jon Licata scored one goal each to lead Schoolcraft College's soccer team to a 2-0 playoff victory over Lakeland (Ohio) last Wednesday, giving the Ocelots a berth in this weekend's Inter-regional tournament at Triton College, Illinois.

Ocelot Goalie John Stavros recorded the shutout in the game, played at Bowling Green University in Ohio. The victory was the seventh in nine games this fall for Coach Larry Christoff's squad, which now must face Lewis & Clark (Illinois) in the Inter-regional opener on Friday. Lewis & Clark is the top-ranked community college soccer team in the nation.

Friday's other Inter-regional contest pits Macomb Community College, ranked 17th in the country, against Bethany College of Minnesota. The two victors will then play on Saturday, with the winner of that one advancing to the national tournament in Miami the week of November 20.

Schoolcraft College's cross country team capped a successful season with a third-place finish in the Eastern Collegiate Conference championships at Delta College in Saginaw last Wednesday.

Led by Phil Reed of Northville and Doug Vorbeck, the Ocelots wound up with 75 points in the five-school field, finishing behind Macomb and Oakland Community Colleges. Reed, a 1978 graduate of Northville High, finished ninth out of 35 runners with a time of 26:42, while Vorbeck placed 10th in 26:46.

Other top finishers for Schoolcraft were Paul York (16th), Mark McKenney (17th) and Brian Hanna (23rd).

Reed paced the Ocelots throughout the season and set a school course record at Northville's Cass Benton Park with a five-mile time of 28:04.5 last month.

Schoolcraft, coached by Dan Reynolds, would up 3-1 in dual meets this fall.

A wrestling clinic for athletes and coaches as well as phys-ed students and teachers will be held this Saturday (November 11) at Schoolcraft College.

The clinic will be conducted by Doug Blubaugh, wrestling coach at Indiana University, and will start at 9 a.m. The cost is $3 per wrestler and $3 per coach. Registration takes place between 8 and 9 a.m.

A volleyball clinic has also been scheduled at Schoolcraft the following weekend. Conducted by Mike O'Toole, whose 1975 Schoolcraft women's squad won a state title, and current Ocelot mentor Tom Teeters, it will take place on Friday evening (November 17) and Saturday.

For further details on either clinic contact Dr. Marvin Gans, Schoolcraft's athletic director, at 591-6400, extension 480. Schoolcraft is located at 18600 Haggerty Road, just south of Seven Mile near Northville Township.

Local youth talks to Bob Ufer

Responding to a question about how he gets up for the games all the time, Ufer, in typical fashion, didn't hesitate at all.

"Chris, I'm gonna tell you — when that band steps out on the field, when those 250 strong start across the hole that Yost dug, Crisler paid for and Canham carpeted (Michigan Stadium) ... THAT'S when the chills begin to run up and down Ufer's spine, THAT'S when I get goose bumps all over by body ... and baby, I'm turned on and ready to go."

Ufer later noted that it actually takes him two days to fully recover from a game, and he rarely sleeps on the nights after the Wolverines lose.

Some of the other interesting tidbits Eden picked up from the interview were that Ufer hasn't talked to Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes in almost eight years (Hayes apparently became miffed when Ufer wrote a poem satirizing the death of Hayes and Ohio State's football team after Michigan's stunning 24-12 upset victory in 1969), that his wife doesn't really like football but "has become adjusted to it," and that Ohio State's stadium attracts "4000 Michigan grads, 10,000 Ohio State grads, and 74,000 truck drivers" every time the Wolverines go down there to play.

And does Ufer himself have a favorite opponent for games at Michigan Stadium, the Northville youth asked?

"You bet I do. It's when old Doctor Strange Hayes and his legions ... from down in the snakepits of Ohio ... come to bury Michigan, all wrapped in maize and blue. The words were said, the prayers were read, and everybody cried; But when they closed the coffin, there was someone else inside; Oh, the Buckeyes came to bury the Wolverines, but Michigan wasn't dead, And when the game was over, it was someone else instead; Twenty-two Michigan Wolverines put on the gloves of gray, And as Revelli played the victors, they laid Woody Hayes away."

"That should answer your question, Chris."

It did, Chris Eden agreed.

Betting's up at Downs

The second week of harness racing in the Jackson-at-Northville meet at the Downs saw attendance continue to sag below last year's levels, but betting continue to climb.

The local track attracted an average of 3331 during the six nights of racing ending last Saturday, down 4.1 percent from last year's figures, but it took in an average handle of $423,660 per night, up 3.6 over last year.

Top night of the week was Saturday, when warm weather brought out 6002 people who bet $649,048. The Jackson-at-Northville meet continues through December 30.

This is the ideal planting season!

Northville Soccer Club wins 10th

The Northville Soccer Club ended its season with a flourish last week, knocking off high school powerhouse Birmingham Groves by a score of 4-1. Groves entered the game with three straight shutouts, but by halftime the local squad had tallied three goals already. The first came on a kick by Bob Paul with 10 minutes gone. Greg May scored another midway through the first half, and Mike Muzzin added a third with just 18 seconds left in the half. Muzzin collected his second goal of the game early in the second half. The victory gave Northville an overall record of 10-1 this season, including wins over Livonia Stevenson, Livonia Bentley, Livonia Franklin, Detroit Catholic Central, Orchard Lake St. Mary and Groves. Since forming a team four years ago, the local players — now all high schoolers — have compiled a remarkable 52-3-1 record.

Cinderella team wins

Northville's 10-and-under Cosmos, once the cellar dwellers of the Western Suburban Soccer League, completed their fairytale-like rise to the top of their division last week. Sparked by Eric Smolenski and a typically stingy defense, the Cosmos rolled to a 4-1 victory over the Livonia Sodabusters to win the Division 3 championship. It was a fitting close to a remarkable season for Coach Don Bisdorf and his 10-and-under Northville squad. Bisdorf, who began coaching the Cosmos two years ago, saw his team suffer through a 19-game losing streak that ended last spring. But this season's club was a champion all the way. The Cosmos tied just once in eight games all year, and allowed only four goals total. The team's championship trophy wasn't the only one awarded last week, however. In a touching moment at the Cosmos' team banquet last weekend the players presented Bisdorf a trophy inscribed with the words "World's Greatest Coach." According to Bisdorf it was the first trophy he'd ever won in his life. The Cosmos, who only last spring had suffered through a 2-5 season, led all the way in last week's championship match. Don Potts and Smolenski got the winners off to a quick lead with a pair of goals in the first quarter, and Smolenski added another in the second on assists from Jeff Terwin and Dave Townsend to make it 3-0 at the half. Smolenski got his hat-trick in the third quarter on an assist from Dave Frayne, while the Sodabusters' lone goal came with just five minutes left in the game. Leading the team on defense were Goalie Robbie Huot plus Fullbacks Tim Hixon, Pete Lehr and Doug Ayres. In other 10-and-under boys' WSSL action last week, meanwhile, the Champs beat Westland 3-1, the Black Knights knocked off the Farmington Wildcats 2-0, United blanked the Rovers 2-0, Arsenal lost to the Livonia Foxes 5-0, and the Tornados were edged 2-1 by Plymouth no. 9. Matt Peltz had two goals and Mike Reitega one in the Champs' triumph while mark Zayti and Billy Herguth scored one goal each to pace the Black Knights, who out-shot Farmington 32-0. United got one goal each from Brent Wasik and Eric Gala. Wasik's goal was his 20th of the fall, the highest total in the seven-season history of United. The Tornados' lone goal was tallied by Mike Moylan, his first score of the season. In other local boys' action Chris Hauser scored his seventh goal of the fall, but the 12-and-under Cobras bowed 3-1 to the Livonia Hornets, while John Robertson scored his seventh goal of the season as the 14-and-under Rowdies lost 2-1 to the Farmington Falcons. In the only local girls' match reported the 14-and-under Stars trimmed the Livonia Express 1-0, with Marianne Moylan kicking in the game's lone goal.

Mainstreet 78 plan goes to hearing December 4

Newly printed copies of the Downtown Development Plan, titled "Mainstreet 78", will go out to downtown merchants this weekend.

Meanwhile, Northville City Council has set Monday, December 4 as the public hearing date on this development and tax-increment financing plan for the Northville downtown area.

Between now and the hearing date, council members probably will be meeting with school officials to discuss the plan's proposal to "capture" increasing assessment values resulting from improvements.

Other taxing units of government, such as the county and Schoolcraft College, also will be informed of the planned use of some tax monies for financing improvements in the downtown area.

The development district is bounded by Griswold on the east, Cady on the south (except between Center and Wing where the district extends south of Cady to encompass the municipal parking lot), Wing on the west, part of Randolph on the north (excluding lots 524, 575, 576, 551, 550 and 549), extending east across Center to Hutton, and Hutton south to a point along the rear property lines of the buildings on the north side of Main from Hutton to Griswold.

Under the plan, public improvements made by the city as well as improvements made and financed by property owners are contemplated.

The public improvements include:

- Renovation of the municipal parking lot on the south side of Dunlap between Center and Hutton, with placement of utilities underground, creation of landscaping and lighting, improvement of traffic flow and access to rear entrances of stores, and resurfacing of the lot.
- Development of a "Town Square" in the parking lot on the south side of Main Street, between Northville Drug and Northville Insurance Exchange. A vehicle access drive from Main Street to Mary Alexander Court and the parking deck is to be maintained through the town square.

• Main Street, from Hutton to Wing, and Center Street, from Dunlap to Cady, will be improved by widening sidewalks and providing landscaping improvements including decorative use of brick and concrete, plantings, benches and lighting.

The concept of Main Street one-way eastbound from Wing to Hutton, as proposed in the Mainstreet 78 master plan, is being revised to provide two-way traffic while attempting to retain the landscaping improvements. Some street parking will be retained.

• Landscaping will be provided for Mary Alexander Court, with better organized parking being considered, such as reversing the one-way traffic flow from the parking deck west to allow traffic entering from the town square to exit at the Presbyterian Church.

Those projects envisioned for private development, in cooperation with the Downtown Development Authority and the city, include:

- Creation of a pedestrian and shopping arcade joining the Dunlap parking lot with Main Street, approximately equidistant from Center and Hutton.
- Renovation of the theater as a main downtown attraction (already accomplished).
- Remodeling of various store fronts to restore them to their original architectural appearance.
- Renovation of rear building faces and creation of rear entrances which are attractive and convenient to shoppers using the improved rear parking areas.
- Redevelopment of key privately owned sites in cooperation with present or future owners, including Miller's Dodge; Stone's Unfinished Furniture; Excess parking lot area of Arbor Drugs; Northville Lanes/Winners Circle corner; northeast corner of Center and Cady, and residential properties within the district.

• Redevelopment of city-owned parking lot north of Northville Square, along the lot's Main Street frontage.

Assistance is to be made available to private property owners in the form of architectural advice; location of buyers, developers and tenants; provision of loans by local financial institutions; and sanction by the city's Economic Development Corporation to obtain favorable interest rates through EDC bonds.

Public improvement costs have been pegged at $1,425,000 — including $362,000 for the Dunlap lot, $112,000 for the town square, $610,000 for Main, Center and Mary Alexander Court improvements, $94,800 for architectural engineering work, $109,700 for contingencies, and $136,500 for capitalized interest.

Of this amount, city officials project that $125,000 will come from federal grant monies and $1,300,000 from tax increment financing (TIF).

The latter is the key to the entire downtown development project, of officials stress.

Basically, what it means is this: Increased taxes generated by downtown improvements will be used to pay for the improvement bonds.

In other words, improvements by both the city and property owners will increase the value of downtown property. As this value increases, so too do taxes. Under the TIF plan, for the next 15 years, the city would use the "extra" taxes produced by the improvements to retire (pay for) the improvement bonds.

The Astonishing Neal

Mentalist billed for college show

Schoolcraft College student activities will present The Astonishing Neal at 8 p.m. on Friday in the Waterman Campus Center.

Neal is a mentalist who holds a Bachelor of Science Degree in Psychology from Pennsylvania State University. He has appeared on such national television shows as The Mike Douglas Show and To Tell The Truth.

Neal has made hundreds of accurate predictions including the winners of two Superbowls, the capture of Patty Hearst, the disappearance of Jimmy Hoffa, the outcome of Earl Kniel's Snake River jump, the Johnstown flood of 1977 and the blackout in New York City.

In 1975 at the Schaefer 500, he drove the official pace car of the race 100 miles per hour while blindfolded.

Although Neal claims he is simply an entertainer, his apparent mastery of clairvoyance, mental telepathy, sightless vision, and sense of prediction are clearly a unique entertainment phenomenon.

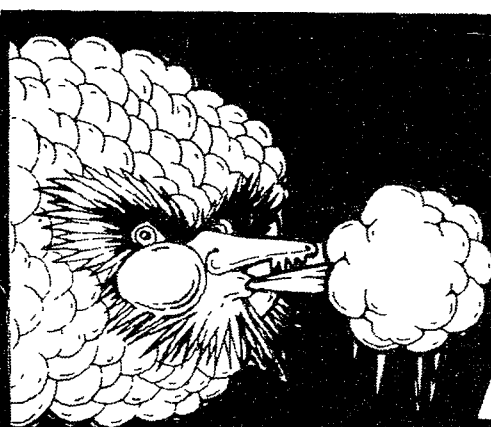

Tickets are on sale now at Schoolcraft's student activities office. Schoolcraft students in advance $1, general public and all door sales $2. Further ticket information may be obtained by calling 591-6400, Ext. 380. Schoolcraft College is located at 18600 Haggerty Road in Livonia.

Tickets still available

A number of tickets are available for the dinner-dance at Schoolcraft College on Saturday.

Sponsored by the Board of Trustees, Greek foods will be served including Tania Me Ryzi, Psita Paldakia, Dolmathes, Moussaka, Gemisti Kotta and much more.

Special birthday

A volunteer worker with more than 15,000 hours of time put in at the Plymouth Center for Human Development celebrated her 70th birthday recently by taking 70 center residents to a birthday party at the Old Mill Restaurant. She is Faye Sills, who has been volunteering her time since 1962. Her husband (left) also is a volunteer worker. Cooperating in the unusual party, which delighted those attending, was the Old Mill Restaurant management and staff.

Chamber project

'Christmas window' contest slated here

This year, for the first time, in conjunction with the annual Northville Christmas Walk the Sunday before Thanksgiving, November 19, Northville Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a Christmas window decorating contest.

Three judges will be viewing windows of local merchants to choose the best in each of five categories and a best-over-all.

Dewey Gardner, who is contest chairman for the chamber, explains that citations will be presented for the best-decorated windows in each of the five following merchandising classes — clothing and shoes; gift, florist and decorating shops; general merchandise (jewelry, drugs, furniture and needlework); services (travel, grocery); and professional (realtor, banks, insurance).

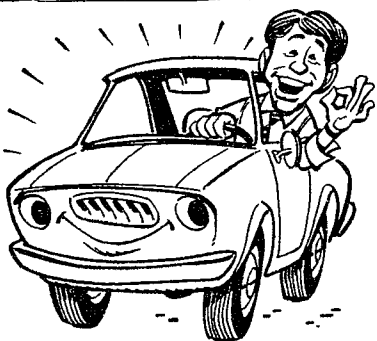

The top point-getter will be named best of all, he said.

It's not necessary for merchants to enter the contest officially as judges will be joining Christmas walk visitors viewing the beginning of Christmas locally.

Judges are City Manager Steven Walters, Phyllis Slattery, a past president of the Northville Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association and a member of the national association board; and a high school art student being selected by his teachers.

Letters are being sent to local merchants explaining the contest and rules for the judging.

Windows are to be judged in three areas: Overall theme and appropriateness; best use of color; and best use of merchandise sold by the merchant. The final point, Gardner emphasizes, is to be considered most important in the judging.

World's most famous fruit a winner here

Whenever someone anywhere in the United States bites into an apple there's a fairly good chance the fruit came from Michigan.

Third largest apple producer in the nation, Michigan has just produced one of its finest crops in history so the odds are even better this year, particularly when it comes to Jonathan, McIntosh, Northern Spy and Delicious.

This "big four," which makes apples Michigan's King Fall Fruit Crop, accounts for 75 percent of all apples produced and supplied to 32 other states, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Despite its high standing, neither Michigan or any other state can claim credit for the apple.

Apples have been around a lot longer than this nation and, in fact, it's a pretty good bet green apples were giving some pre-historic bellyaches.

Five thousand year old fossils show that primitive lake dwellers in Switzerland gathered and stored apples, probably to supplement winter diets.

The apple is indeed the world's most famous fruit. Even the Greek historian, Plutarch, concluded that the apple tree was "the bearer of splendid fruit because of all fruits only the apple could please all the senses at once."

Early colonists of this continent found native crab apples that were beautiful in bloom but yielding poor fruit, which prompted the Massachusetts Bay Colony to send for seeds and cuttings of English apples, and these were brought on later voyages of the Mayflower and other sailing vessels, according to the International Apple Institute (IPI).

"Similarly, planting stock was brought to the Virginia Colony around Williamsburg, and by Spanish missionaries into the Southwest."

When the frontier was pushed westward across the Ohio Valley and Great Lakes areas, an honest-to-goodness person by name of Johnny Appleseed did actually devote his life to starting apple trees in the new settlements.

Later, in the westward migration across the prairies and mountains to California and the Pacific Northwest, a few young apple trees made that long journey in wagon boxes of earth.

Eventually, there was hardly a farm anywhere in the United States that did not grow apples, although by today's standards they would be labeled poor quality.

It was only after greater attention to care of trees and the crop and experimental reproduction that this ancient fruit achieved today's standard.

Because there are so many apple varieties today, the smart homemaker will match variety with use.

Although many varieties are good for all purposes, others are best for specific purposes. For example:

- Tart, firm apples cook quickly and are best for applesauce, pies and apple desserts.

- Apples that hold their shape are best for baking.
- For fresh eating out of hand, the apple varieties that are sweeter and more attractive serve best.

Michigan's "big four" have these characteristics and uses:

Jonathan — Solid deep red, small to medium size (medium apples are 2½ to 2¾ inches in diameter), firm and fresh, sweet-tart flavor; the Jonathan is the state's most versatile apple, excellent for eating fresh, baking and pies, and good for salads and sauce.

McIntosh — Deep red sometimes striped with green background, white flesh, juicy, medium to large size. McIntosh is excellent for eating fresh and sauce, and good for baking, pies and salads.

Northern Spy — Bright striped and mottled red on yellow, large size. The Northern Spy is excellent for pies, sauce and baking, and is unequalled for slicing and in pies.

Delicious — Yellow colored skin washed with dark red to solid dark red, conical shaped with five points on bottom, medium to large size, mild sweet flavor. The Red Delicious is excellent for eating fresh and for salad, good for sauce.

The Red Delicious is unrelated to the Golden or Yellow Delicious. The former was first found growing in Peru, Iowa in 1872, while the Golden Delicious was found growing in West Virginia in the early 1900's.

Both varieties are indeed "delicious" and excellent for eating fresh, although when handled and stored properly the Golden is considered the finest of all apples for fresh eating.

Here are the characteristics and uses for some of the other popular varieties:

Wealthy — Bright red when fully colored, marked with red splashes over greenish skin, medium size. The Wealthy is good for pies, sauce and eating fresh.

Idared — Bright red, smooth finish, firm, white flesh; juicy, medium to large size, stores very well. The Idared is good for baking pies, sauce, fresh eating and salads.

Rome Beauty — Bright red with yellow undercolor, round, large, firm, coarse skin, stores well under home conditions, considered the best store-by-the-bushel apple. The Rome Beauty is excellent for baking and in pies.

For those interested, here are some observations of the experts:

- Medium size apples are the best choice for general use.

- Three medium size apples weigh about a pound.
- There are 35 medium size apples in a peck, 125 to 150 in a bushel.

- Small apples, often called "schoolboy" or "trick-n-treat" apples, are good choices for school lunch boxes or snacks.

- Large apples are excellent for eating fresh, also for baking and other dessert uses.

- One medium apple supplies approximately 87 calories of food energy.

- Apples uniquely help correct both constipation and diarrhea.

- The "Apple a day" adage may be as relevant to modern diets as it was to our ancestors.

- Apples are filling but not fattening.

- Two pounds of apples make three cups of applesauce, one bushel of apples makes 16 to 20 quarts of applesauce, and a nine inch apple pie requires six to eight medium sized apples.

- And, finally, for those that have bad breath, eating an apple actually removes more bacteria from the mouth than a three-minute brushing and gargle.

First ladies' choices

Apple custard, apple bread

Just like most local housewives, Michigan's first ladies have favorite apple recipes. Betty Ford offers Apple Custard for dessert, and Helen Milliken likes Raw Apple Bread.

APPLE CUSTARD

2 Tbsp. butter, melted
4 peeled, thinly sliced, tart apples
4 C. milk, scalded
4 eggs, well beaten
¼ tsp. vanilla extract
½ tsp. sugar

make a smooth past. Add rest of milk mixture, stirring well.

Pour over apple slices in buttered dish. Set filled dish in a pan with some water in it, creating a double boiler. Set double boiler on a shelf in middle of preheated oven at 400 degrees. Bake for 30 minutes.

The custard should be firm to touch. Sprinkle lightly with confectioner's sugar and serve warm or cool. Betty Ford's favorite.

RAW APPLE BREAD

Saute apple slices in melted butter for two minutes. Spread sauteed apple slices on bottom of a well-buttered 9-inch square pyrex baking dish. Gradually add scalded milk to beaten eggs, mixing with wire whip. Add vanilla extract. Mix flour, sugar, salt in bowl. Add a little of milk mixture, stirring well to

¼ C. butter or margarine
1 C. granulated sugar
2 eggs
2 C. all-purpose flour
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. baking soda
1 tsp. double-acting baking powder
2 Tbsp. buttermilk or soured milk
1 C. coarsely chopped, unpeeled apples

¼ C. coarsely chopped walnuts or pecans
1 tsp. vanilla extract or grated lemon rind

Cream butter or margarine, add sugar slowly and continue to beat until light and lemon colored. Beat in eggs. Sift flour with salt, baking soda and baking powder. Add to the creamed mixture alternately with milk, beginning and ending with dry ingredients. Stir in apples, nuts and vanilla or lemon rind.

Butter a 9 or 10 by 5 by 3-inch loaf tin. Spoon batter into tin and bake in a pre-heated oven at 350 degrees 50 to 60 minutes, until loaf pulls away slightly from sides of pan.

Cool in pan for about 5 minutes. Loosen and turn out on rack to cool before slicing. This keeps very well and will be better if left to mature at least 24 hours, reports Helen Milliken, who found the recipe in "Beard on Bread."

GRAND OPENING of Woodcock Art Studio/Gallery will be held tomorrow (Thursday) in the Northville Square shopping center in downtown Northville. The new studio is located near the door to the Big Boy restaurant.

Owned and operated by George M. Woodcock, a primarily self-taught artist, will feature mostly landscape and still life oil paintings of the owner. In addition, he will conduct oil painting and basic drawing classes.

A Northville resident, Woodcock formerly taught classes in Dearborn.

Although he is self-taught, he took lessons from a Michigan landscape artist, Arthur Hartman.

Woodcock, who has exhibited his oils in many juried shows in the United States, is the winner of numerous awards. His style has been described as "restful. His works are symmetrically balanced and the colors are soft. The natural outdoor scenes focus on houses, streams, woods, and rolling meadows. He seems to capture America's past by highlighting its rural beginnings.

KNOCKS AND PINGS.

Two horribly annoying reasons to introduce Mobil Super Unleaded Gasoline.

That's why we're introducing new Mobil Super Unleaded Gasoline with a higher octane level.
Not only does it help knock the knocks and pings out of your engine, it could also give your car more power than most other gasolines. (In fact, millions of cars on the road today are being cheated of peak engine performance.)
And what's more, if your car is properly tuned, and still shakes, sputters and backfires after you turn the key off, using Mobil Super Unleaded may help eliminate all that. And that's whether your car is new or old.

And even if you've been using leaded premium gasoline you'll be glad to know that Mobil Super Unleaded's high octane level is high enough to meet anti-knock requirements of most cars today.
Mobil Super Unleaded. Because when you're driving, one of the nicest sounds in the world is the sound of absolutely nothing.

Washington Hostess Allison LaLand gives party rules at Northville Town Hall

Creative hostess tells secrets at town hall

By JEAN DAY

"Giving parties is a great amount of work," Allison LaLand, currently known as Washington's "Hostess with the Mostess," says seriously, leaving no doubt that hers, which she described last Thursday for Northville Town Hall, are indeed the result of detailed planning.

"I've never had a disaster so far," she adds, but she leaves little to chance, saying, "I rehearse everything and taste the menu on a trial run."

A most attractive blonde with a pleasant, artful manner, the speaker had a trace of the South in her voice. She had attended Agnes Scott College in Atlanta where she lived for many years and gained a reputation as one of that city's successful hostesses.

She was a friend of the late Perle Mesta, a fellow Christian Scientist, who reigned as an outstanding party-giver in Washington until her health and a broken hip caused her retirement.

The two have been compared, but Hostess LaLand at town hall seemed more reserved. She did confide, however, that she was dating Mrs. Mesta's nephew at the time of her death about three years ago.

"I used to give a party every month or so, and it took one month to plan and another to recuperate," she told those attending the celebrity luncheon following the lecture at the Plymouth Hilton Inn.

"Now I don't have as much emotional stamina or the finances to carry them off; so I limit my parties to two or three big ones yearly and smaller things in between."

She admits that she spends much of her money, the result of several inheritances, to give parties that are different and fresh.

She was written up in Washington newspapers last year for her ability to survive a change of political administration and to get top names and foreign ambassadors to attend her parties.

"I was thrilled," she told her town hall audience, "when Dr. Henry Kissinger was at someone else's party, and I was rather shy about starting a conversation but said, 'you probably won't remember, but you were at a party of mine.'"

"He immediately recalled that Muskie and Scoop Jackson were there and that 'you served a whole lobster for the first course.'"

"When someone who's wine and dined all over the world remembers, I must be doing something right."

She stresses that she considers party-giving "an art-form."

"It all started back in Atlanta, and Atlanta is a party town; I could tell mine were going over well, and I dreamed of having ambassadors, senators and cabinet members as guests. I felt that the point where they came together, even socially, could help work out international problems."

The top party-giver does believe anyone giving a party should follow a few rules and shared with town hall her top 10.

She did not include it among her rules (although she often mentioned for whom she was giving certain parties) but the fact that this hostess "honors" someone is a secret of her success. This has meant that invitations can be sent to other top names in the capital.

To illustrate her first rule that a party should have a "creative theme" she told how she planned a southern dinner dance at the historic City Tavern Club for Attorney General Griffin Bell who is from Atlanta.

Guests were seated at round tables ("for warmth") where shrimp-pink napkins were folded like fans and place cards were real, shiny magnolia leaves with names inscribed with gold foil paint — all 100 of them.

"Guests were given little dance cards and instructed to find partners for four dances, which insured the dancing," the speaker recalled.

Her second rule is to search out new places for a party. One of the most unusual LaLand ones was a sightseeing boat.

"I bought the locale at a charity auction," she revealed, telling how the boat was used for sightseeing until 4 p.m.

Then, she had the seats removed, Ficus trees and little tables and chairs brought in as well as a French menu with salmon. An orchestra played French tunes to carry out the French cafe theme, but, she smiled, "it began with 'Anchors Away'."

This party was a real trauma," she states, "as I had to find a florist who would not only rent the Ficus tree but would also remove them at 10:30 as the boat had to be ready to get back in service hours later."

"While the seats were being removed and the food and trees brought aboard, it was raining in hurricane-like sheets. I didn't know it, but there was a hurricane alert out. It all stopped, however, just five minutes before the party was to begin."

As a third rule, the party-giver urges envisioning the party as a "whole, complete work of art with a beginning,

Allison LaLand lists party-giving rules

1. Have a creative theme. Develop it with invitations, food, music and decorations.

2. Search out new places for your parties — your rec room, garage, swimming pool — or move the party to a restaurant or club.

3. Envision your party as a whole, complete work of art with a beginning, middle and planned ending. Don't let your party run down to nothingness.

4. Establish a rhythm. Move from room to room, table to table.

5. Plan the timing of each segment of the party so that it ends at its peak. Keep the party moving from one high point to another.

6. Use lighting to create a mood. Use fairly bright lights for cocktails and dim them progressively as the evening unfolds.

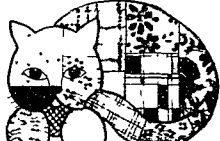

7. Add to the excitement of the party by having an exchange of toasts.

8. Plan music even if it's just a record player. Position it where it can be heard.

9. Test your menu in advance. Have rehearsals with those serving even if they're your own children.

10. Once the party's started, give your guests your full attention.

Mark Education Week

Lloyd H. Green American Legion Post and its Auxiliary will be marking the 58th annual observance of American Education Week November 12-18.

Education Week is important to the schools and all people living in the school district, they point out, as this is the time set aside for all interested people, parents, grandparents and others to visit schools.

"This is the right time to show the teachers, principals, school boards and children you are interested and concerned about the welfare of the schools and your children's education," states Laura McDougall, education chairman.

"A strong education program should emphasize the importance and significance of the American tradition and should instill a sense of personal obligation and responsibility to take an active part in American citizenship," she continues.

The American Legion and auxiliary's interest in young people of this nation goes back to the first Legion national convention when it reacted to information from draftees into WWI.

Almost one-fourth were found to be illiterate and physically unfit. Leaders of the American Legion met with officials of the National Education Association and the United States Office of Education and launched the first American Education Week, December 4-10, 1921.

The Congress of Parents and Teachers (PTA) joined this group in 1938. This relationship has continued for the intervening 40 years.

The Legion stresses that it believes education begins in the home with preschool-age children.

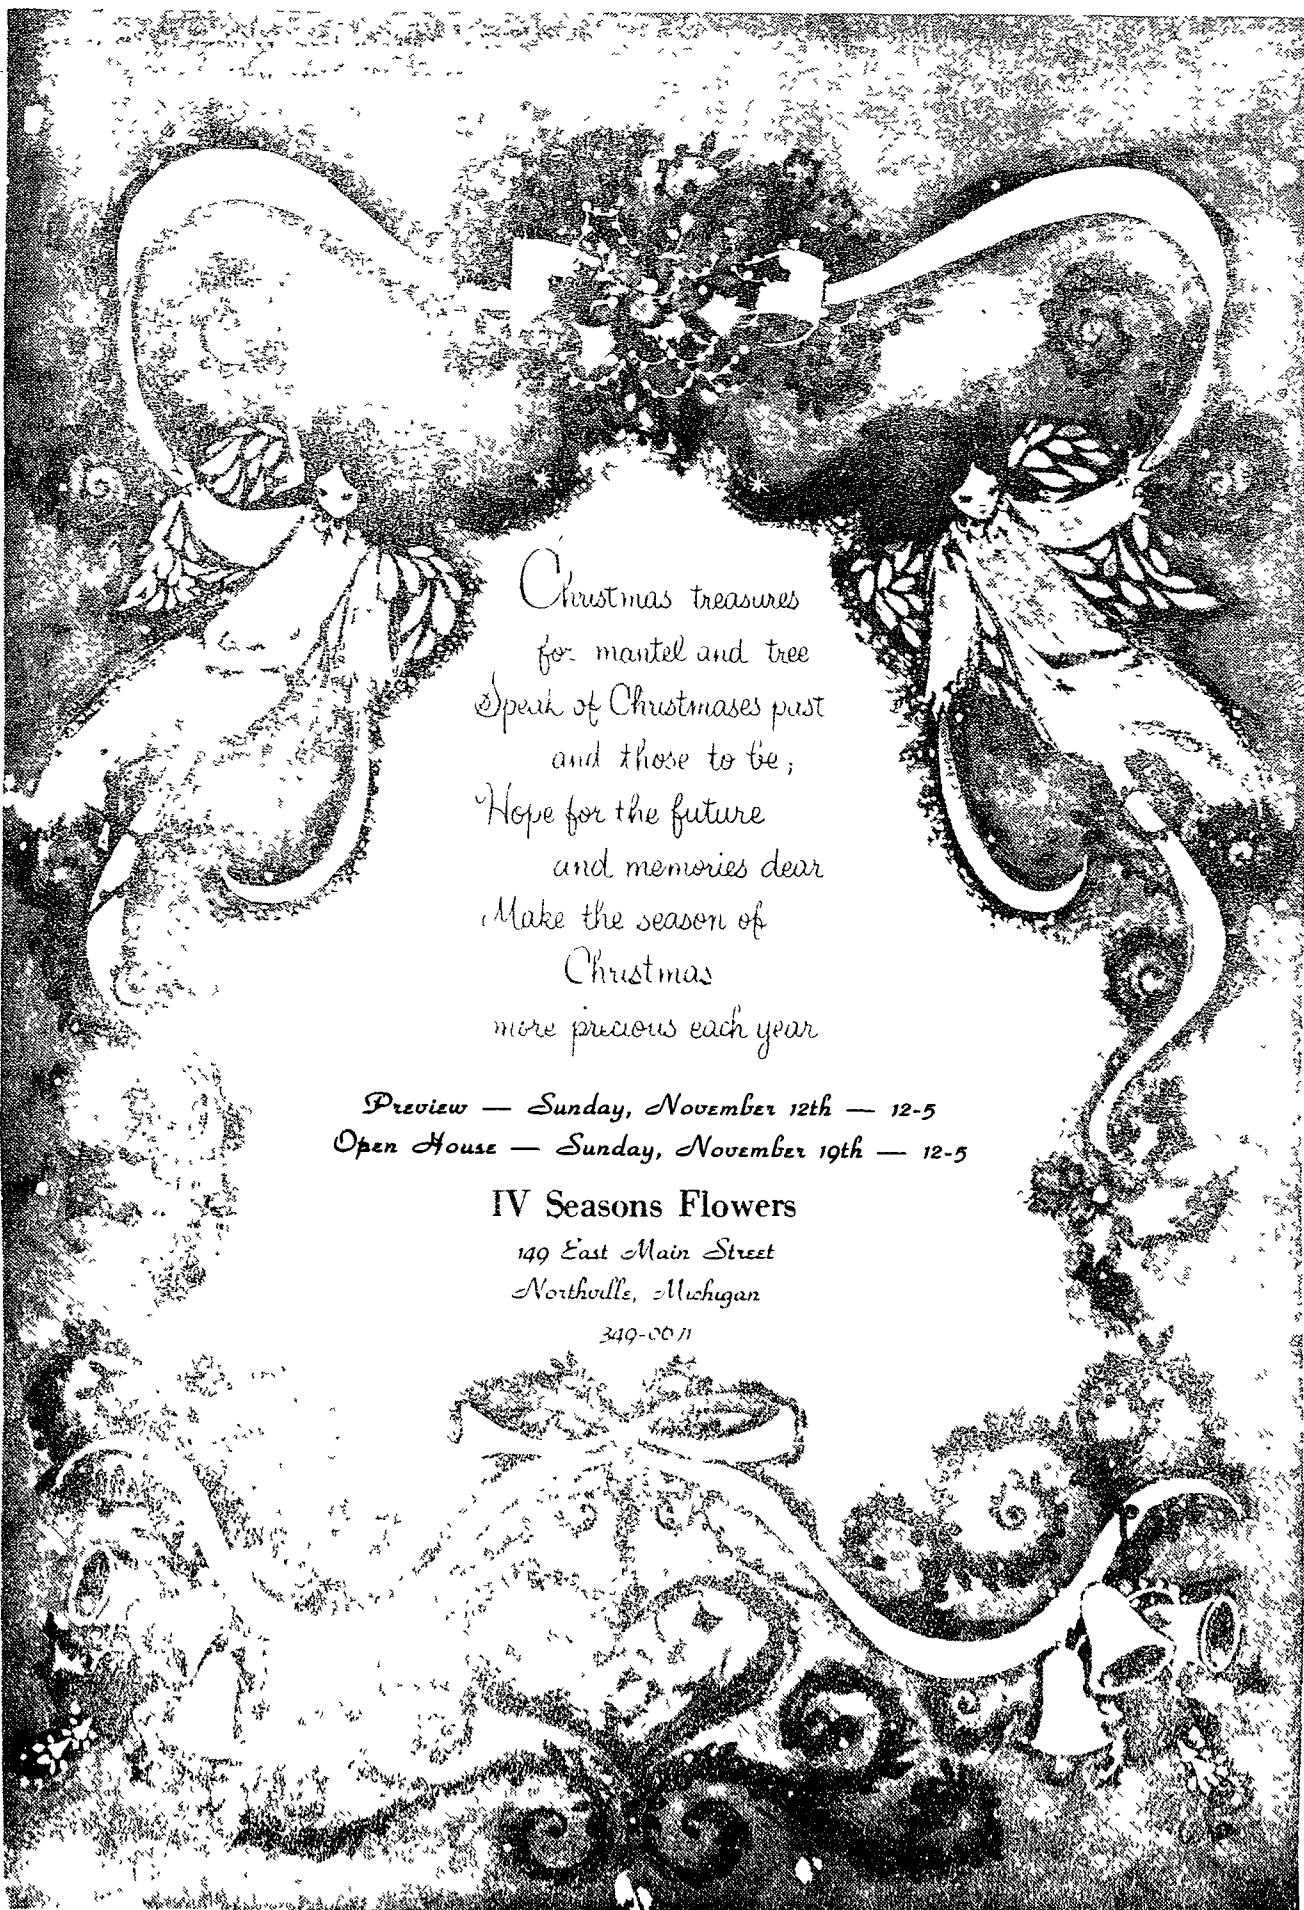

It asks, "Do they know where, when and how to cross the street?"

"Have you taught them not to talk to or accept goodies from strangers?"

"Have you discussed smoking, the use of drugs and alcohol or violence with them? Their young minds are very receptive to the beliefs and actions of their parents and elders."

There are college scholarships available for sons and daughters of veterans that need financial aid. A booklet, "Need a Lift," has been placed in every high school in Michigan. It explains what scholarships are available.

"Our country's future is in our youth, and the quality of the education they receive is the responsibility of all of us. Our children's education is our business — become involved," Mrs. McDougall urged as she announced the observance.

In Our Town

Everything's homemade at AAUW auction Tuesday

By JEAN DAY

Auctions are becoming as popular as annual bazaars as ways to raise money for good causes in our community. One that's been a success from the beginning is the "Make it, Bake it, Grow it, Sew it" auction of the Northville Branch of the American Association of University Women which will be held next Tuesday, November 14, in the cafeteria of Cooke Junior High on Taft Road.

As in the past, workers promise, only homemade items made by members will be in the auction, which is open to the public. After coffee at 7:30 p.m. there will be a business session at 8 p.m. with the auction beginning at 8:30 p.m. Stitchery, beaded Christmas ornaments, Christmas wreaths, wooden tables, baked goods and plants will be included. A special feature will be the prize of a quilt made by two members.

Auction night, planners add, offers an excellent opportunity "for prospective members to have fun and look us over."

Two-day Tivoli Fair's upcoming

Another event that promises lots of different gifts for Christmas giving is the two-day Tivoli Fair sponsored by Northville Historical Society November 18 and 19 at the high school. In addition 19 special prizes have been garnered by historical society workers with the top one a night for two at the Detroit Plaza.

This year's fair is especially important as a fund-raiser as proceeds are earmarked to build a gazebo in Mill Race Historical Village.

Branch focuses on environment

Because everyone's becoming ecologically aware of environment, the Northville Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association has invited Harold Leitz, manager of building and roads at the General Motors Proving Ground, to be its speaker at the guest-day meeting at 12:30 p.m. Monday at the home of Vern Daraban, 18220 Laraugh.

He will describe the proving ground, which covers hundreds of acres and includes ponds and lakes, and speak on environmental protection from his firm's viewpoint.

Lillian Nelson, chairman, is assisted by Dorothy Frew, Elaine Bergel, Patti Laffler and Mary Lou Laruwe. At this meeting members will be able to buy their tickets for the Christmas luncheon from Mrs. Laruwe. It is to be December 11 in the Miles Standish Room at the Mayflower Hotel and is a guest day also.

She's aiding Ski Prix

Joanne Steele of Onaway Drive in Northville is among planners for Ski Prix '78 being sponsored by the Michigan Ski Association beginning at 7:30 p.m. this Saturday at Alpine Valley. Stein Erickson, winner of both gold and silver medals in Olympic competition and three gold medals in World Championship Alpine events, is host for the sixth annual Ski Prix benefit for the U.S. Ski Team.

Ski Prix is an auction that draws many sports world notables as well as television and radio personalities. Ski enthusiasts will be bidding in a continuous silent auction from 8 p.m. until midnight. Buffet dinner is included in the $20 tab to attend. Ticket information is available by calling 626-9500. Mrs. Steele and other workers, including Nancy Dingeldey of Wixom, point out that the U.S. Ski Team is funded only from the private sector and that the United States is the only major skiing nation whose team is not state subsidized.

They dined well

When you're Northville Town Hall chairman and entertaining the next day's speaker who is an outstanding Washington hostess, where do you take her for dinner? To Florence Booms and her husband, Richard, the answer was obvious — the London Chop House. Its famed food was appreciated fully by Allison LaLand, last Thursday's Town Hall speaker, who even couldn't resist dessert. The attractive, blonde Washingtonian admits she often has to overeat — and then cut down to keep so trim.

Smiling Kim McRae sings and dances in "Cheaper by the Dozen"

Opens Friday

'Cheaper by the Dozen' has Kim dancing

Eleven-year-old Kimberly McRae of Northville will be singing and dancing in the Plymouth Theatre Guild's new production, "Cheaper by the Dozen."

It opens this Friday and continues Saturday and on the following weekend, November 17-18. Performances are at 8 p.m. with Saturday matinees at 2 p.m. at Plymouth Central Middle School, Church at Main in Plymouth.

Kim, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McRae of 16748 Old Bedford, last season appeared in the Plymouth Theatre Guild's production, "Tom Sawyer."

The young singer has sung several solos at St. Timothy's Presbyterian Church and is a member of the Winchester School choir and plus program in music.

She became interested in acting through John Roberts, her piano and voice teacher. She also has training in ballet, jazz and gymnastics.

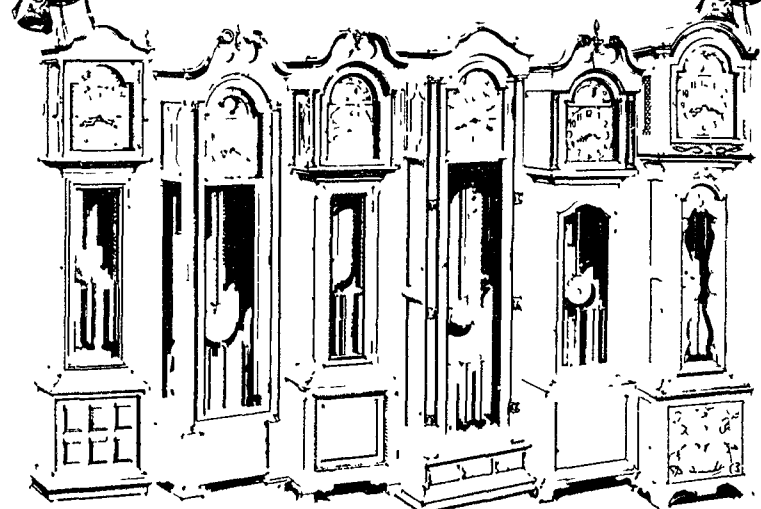

"Cheaper by the Dozen" is a musical comedy based on the best-selling book by Frank B. Gilbreth Jr., and Ernestine Gilbreth Carey.

The play, set in the 1920's, concerns Frank and Lillian Gilbreth and their family of 12 children. Father Gilbreth was a famous man at the time, known for his methods and ideas that helped to make companies more efficient.

Trouble begins as he tries to run his large family in the same efficient ways. The story is based on the true account of two of the 12 children.

Tickets will be sold at the door and are $3 for adults and $2 for children under 18 and for senior citizens.

JANETTE GREENWAY MOLL
JAMES HORNER GREENWAY, JR.

MR. AND MRS. MICHAEL E. CABLE

Ann Arbor rites unite couple

Janette Marie Moll became the bride of James Horner Greenway, Jr., in a double-ring service at 2 p.m. October 21 at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church in Ann Arbor with the Reverend Gordon Jones officiating.

After a wedding trip to Toronto they are living in an apartment in Ann Arbor where the bride is attending Washtenaw Community College and working for University Microfilms. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Moll of Plymouth.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Horner Greenway of Ann Arbor. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan, a four-year student of classical guitar, and is working at SYCOR of Ann Arbor.

In their wedding ceremony all four parents gave verbal consent and the congregation gave approval and support.

The bride's gown of white chiffon was fashioned with sweetheart neckline and full sleeves gathered into deep cuffs. She carried dried and silk flowers in peach tones with maiden-hair fern.

Mrs. Cindy Cunningham of Redford Township was matron of honor in a rust dress of crepe-backed satin and carried three long-stem silk roses. She read from Kahlil Gibran "On Children."

Mrs. Kimberly White Hill, Lynid Wadsworth Moll, the bride's sister from California, and Betsy Greenway, the bridegroom's sister, were bridesmaids in dark brown crepe-backed satin and carried three long-stem peach silk roses.

Roger Clark of Ann Arbor was best man. Ushers were Thomas Golden, brother-in-law of the bridegroom and Krystn Lutey of Paradise, California.

For the service the organ music was supplemented by guitar played by Helene Rottenburg.

A reception followed at Weber's Inn for 120 guests including out-of-towners from California, Oklahoma, Kentucky and Indiana. A special feature was the wedding cake made by Beverly Pixley of Northville. It was a carrot cake in marble layers with light and dark chocolate frosting. It was decorated with rust-colored flowers, almond slices, merange mushrooms, and baby's-breath. The cake top was a glass mushroom with silk peach rosebuds inside.

The couple had met as the bridegroom is a friend and music partner with the bride's brother-in-law. The bride is using Janette Greenway Moll as her married name.

Patricia Aenchbacher marries

From the south comes announcement of the marriage of Patricia Aenchbacher to Michael E. Cable. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Aenchbacher, former Northville residents now living in Marietta, Georgia.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. K. E. Cable of Clearwater who formerly lived in Pontiac.

The couple exchanged vows September 12 in a lawn wedding at the bride's family home with a reception following. Altar for the 7:30 p.m. ceremony was an archway of greens and white carnations.

The bride, who attended Northville High School, wore a white seersucker gown with sleeves of imported lace designed for her at the Jo Ann Shop in Marietta where she is fashion coordinator. She carried a nosegay of white carnations, white rosebuds, blue silk flowers, stephanotis and an orchid. She carried a white prayer book. Her headpiece was a side-comb with flowers to match her bouquet.

Her husband, who attended Clearwater High School, is an interior decorator in Marietta.

Matron of honor was Sandra Aenchbacher, the bride's sister-in-law. A blue-and-white theme was used for the reception in the dining room of the bride's family home. A white crocheted tablecloth made by her late grandmother Aenchbacher was used with blue tapers in silver holders. A blue and white cake was topped with love doves.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID PEJSA

Judith O'Brien buys wedding gown in Ireland

The gown that Judith Murphy O'Brien wore as she became the bride of David E. Pejsa October 14 was an Irish import that carried out the theme of the wedding.

Of cream-colored Irish lace and silk chiffon in a simple Victorian design, the gown and satin-edged fingertip veil were purchased by the bride in Dublin, Ireland, while she vacationed there in August with her family. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. O'Brien of 18341 Laraugh.

The travelers bought an extra suitcase and carried the gown to London and then home.

With it the bride wore a headpiece of fresh orchids and clover.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ervan Pejsa of Garfield Heights, Ohio.

The couple had met through mutual college friends. He is a graduate of Kent University in Ohio and will be graduated from University of Michigan School of Natural Resources in December. His bride is a Northville High School graduate and attended Ferris College.

Both Father Gerard Hadad of Our Lady of Victory Church where the 8 p.m. candlelight service was held and the Reverend Lloyd G. Brasure of First Presbyterian Church officiated at the ecumenical, double-ring rites.

An all-white arrangement of roses and chrysanthemums decorated the altar. Cream tapers with flowers and satin streamers lined the sides of the main aisle.

A friend of the bride's family, Mrs. William Kelly, coordinated the flowers for the wedding and reception, incorporating Bells of Ireland, clover and kale.

The bride's cascading bouquet contained white orchids of several varieties and Bells of Ireland. Smaller versions were carried by her attendants.

The bride's granduncle, John Meddaugh, who attended with his wife from Elizabeth Lake, Michigan, and Port Saint Lucie, Florida, sang Schubert's "Serenade" and "I Love You Truly" at the service. The latter is a family tradition at weddings.

The bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. Elaine Perin, was organist.

Julie O'Brien was maid of honor for her sister in a waltz-length, ivory silk organza gown strewn with greenery and flowers in muted colors. Her headpiece was fresh orchids.

The bride's cousin, Susan Strong, was flower girl in an ivory toe-top gown edged in velvet. She wore a circlet of baby white orchids in her hair.

Richard Ranalli of Pittsburgh was best man. The bride's brothers, James and Jerry O'Brien, and the bridegroom's brother, Robert Pejsa, ushered.

A dinner reception followed in the English Room of Western Golf and Country Club in Redford. The Quantas, a popular disco group, played. Decorations included a bird cage used by many Northville Edenderry friends. It was filled with orchids and ferns and placed on the mantel of the glowing fireplace.

Among the 200 guests were the bridegroom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hladik of Maple Heights, Ohio, and the bride's cousins, Jerry Timmis of Georgetown University in Virginia, Greg Cole of Marquette University of Wisconsin, Jeff Cole of the University of Arizona in Scottsdale, and the bride's girlhood friend, Betsy Ballash of Santa Monica, California.

The newlyweds are living on Portage Lake and are postponing their honeymoon until the bridegroom completes his studies in December. They plan to live in Ann Arbor.

Parties precede O'Brien - Pejsa rites

Judi O'Brien, who became Mrs. David E. Pejsa October 14, was honored at a series of fall showers and parties.

James Moran of Troy hosted a toga party for more than 20 young couples September 23.

The bride's aunts, Mrs. Truman Strong and Mrs. Gerald Timmis, entertained 30 relatives and long-time friends at a luncheon shower September 27 at Pine Lake Country Club.

Twenty-two young friends of the bride were invited to a shower and buffet dinner September 29 hosted by Sue Northrup and Laurie Hills.

Mrs. William Kelly gave a champagne luncheon shower October 10 for 35 Northville friends and neighbors.

An after-rehearsal cocktail party was given by the bride's granduncle and-aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John Meddaugh of Elizabeth Lake; for the bridal party and family. He sang a medley of love songs to the young couple and "Beautiful Ohio" for the bridegroom's family, accompanying himself on the piano.

The rehearsal dinner was given by the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ervan Pejsa of Garfield Heights, Ohio, at Mountain Jack's.

Socha - Fones troth told

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold P. Socha of Livonia announce the engagement of their daughter, Jean Kathleen, to Craig Steven Fones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. White of Plymouth.

He is a 1967 graduate of Northville High School and is employed by Ford Motor Company.

His fiancée is a 1973 graduate of Bentley High School in Livonia and is employed by the Community Commission on Drug Abuse.

They plan to be married December 2 at St. Bernard Seminary in Dearborn Heights.

GOOD TIME FOR WINE

by Jim Roth

In the United States, wine manufacturers make up the names of their wines as they are created. The name of an American wine gives you no information about where the grape was grown and what kind of grape it might be. There is no guarantee of quality because the wine comes from a great vineyard. With American wines, you have to know the taste and quality of individual names. In France, it is different. The wine industry is much more controlled and the name of the wine must tell the area in which the grape was grown, and thus the grape type.

Shelley Mitchell wed in Copper Harbor chapel

Our Lady of Pines Chapel in Copper Harbor in Michigan's Upper Peninsula was the setting for the October 7 wedding of Shelley F. Mitchell and John Elliott Parry III.

Father Faran Boyle officiated at the 5 p.m. ceremony at which the bride's mother, Mrs. Jane Carson Mitchell of 18376 Jamestown Circle, gave her in marriage.

Pamela F. Mitchell was her sister's maid of honor. The bridegroom's sister, Carol Parry, and Janice Perry were bridesmaids.

The bridegroom's father was best man. His other attendants were John Cabaness and Il Hyong Kim.

Jackie Cliff was soloist.

After a buffet reception at Keweenaw Mountain Lodge in Copper Harbor, the newlyweds left on a two-week wedding trip through the southern states ending in Williamsburg, Virginia.

They will be living in Pinconning, Michigan.

The bride and bridegroom both have their BS degrees in forestry from Michigan Institute of Technology. She presently is working at Dow Gardens in Midland where she is in charge of the visitors' center. She also is working toward her MS degree at Central Michigan University.

middle and planned ending."

To illustrate her meaning here, Ms. LaLand recalled a party for which she borrowed a friend's plantation, taking her guests there by chartered bus. To be sure the party didn't wind downward on the return trip she asked a friend, then-Senator William Saxbe, to bring his guitar and lead singing on the way back.

"Toasts," she told town hall, "are a good way to honor someone and also to introduce someone new."

Her final rule, "Give your guests your full attention," she emphasized, "is a wonderful way to give pleasure to others and to express yourself."

To begin her talk the speaker traced the history of entertaining by first ladies from "Martha to Rosalynn."

Many, like Dolly Madison, entertained almost regally, "but Dolly," she said, "was winning and warm."

Michigan's Betty Ford, she observed, "brought and took away with her a fresh, bright spirit." She noted that the Fords loved to dance and had music in the White House.

"At first the Carters," she mentioned, "had no ruffles and flourishes and no hard liquor, but champagne has begun to appear."

"The president has kept his campaign promise and fund-raising groups now may have receptions in the White House.... they have genuine warmth and friendliness and will stand for hours to help a charity."

Entertaining, she admits, "was most glamorous during the Kennedy administration. Jackie came down from her pedestal and brought style to Washington."

Allison LaLand's turn came to shine as a Washington hostess during the Nixon administration. In India she had met Senator Saxbe and Senator Charles Percy. When Saxbe was appointed attorney general she entertained for him.

Five years ago she resurrected the tea dance concept, adapting it to Washington by issuing invitations for a 6 to 8 p.m. cocktail dance.

The Meyer Davis orchestra was placed in the same room with the food "and I told them to play music of the twenties and thirties so loud that no one had a choice except to dance."

Admitting that entertaining in Washington is different from that in other parts of the country, the speaker told her luncheon audience that "it's an after-work thing on week nights only and ends early — at least by 11 p.m."

But it's the guests that are exciting. "I find achievers interesting guests," she concluded, "and politicians have to achieve."

Robbie Clarke to give 'Poetry and Parody'

A program titled "An Evening of Poetry and Parody" will be presented Saturday by Robbie Clarke of Northville who goes by the name of Raghudas.

First of a monthly poetry series to be given at the Guild Communications Center at 19731 Forrer in Detroit, the reading will begin at 8 p.m. with open readings following.

A donation of $2 is requested, with herbal tea and "healthy munchies" included. In addition, a buffet dinner at 6 p.m. is planned at a cost of $3.

Raghudas, a native of Northville, also is an instructor for the Integral Yoga Institute in Detroit. Translating his Sanskrit name as "Servant of the Shining One," he describes himself as a "hopeless romantic and Egyptian yogi."

The coordinator of The Lotus Poetry Series, he will read from two forthcoming books: one comprised of serious verse called "God and Cliches," and a collection of satirical verse titled, "The Joy of Weird."

Raghudas was in Egypt during the time of the Cairo Peace Conference and was able to meet both the Egyptian and Israeli delegates. A life-long devotee of ancient Egypt and a student of metaphysical phenomena, he spent much time within the pyramids of Giza. He is scheduled to teach a course in the "Mysteries of Ancient Egypt" at Schoolcraft College in the winter term.

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD BROOKES

Pastor plans Greek class

A class in Greek will be taught at First Baptist Church in Northville by its pastor, Dr. James H. Luther, Jr., who also is a professor at Detroit Baptist Divinity School.

Class will begin at 6:45 p.m. next Wednesday, November 15. It is open to anyone in the community. To register call the church office, 348-1020.

In announcing the class, Dr. Luther said, "It will be practical and major for anyone studying the New Testament and for Sunday School teachers."

Dinner to feature full-gospel speaker

Richard Brookes, radio and television evangelist, is featured as the principal speaker by the Northville-Plymouth-Livonia Chapter of the Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship at the 7 p.m. Friday dinner meeting in the Plymouth Hilton Inn.

Brookes, best known for his Channel 62 daily television program, "Faith for Miracles," had left home at age 13 to make his way in the world.

After achieving what he thought was financial success in owning his own insurance agency, he accidentally came in contact with a 440-volt electric line and subsequently, received a "miraculous healing."

He says he was led to the Cross of Jesus where he gave his life "completely to God."

His testimony is that of a man having found happiness by being "totally in God's will."

Sharing the program will be recording artist Lee Thomas, minister of the Word and song from Ashland, Ohio.

Born in a Lutheran home, Lee developed his own rock and roll group and began singing in night clubs and dance halls while serving in the U.S. Navy.

In 1959 he received the Baptism of the Holy Spirit after which he and his wife Nancy were led into a full time ministry of music and have since been singing for many Christian denominational fellowships, seminars and civic organizations throughout the United States.

The meeting is open to all men and women by reservation only.

Checks for reservations at $8 per person should be made payable to "FGBM" and sent to P.O. Box 5332, Northville, Michigan 48167.

For further information call 349-0006 or 421-2111.

After completing three years of undergraduate studies at Colorado State University, she entered Northwestern's 15-month physical therapy curriculum in July, 1977.

This year 79 students were graduated in physical therapy from Northwestern. Miss Urban is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Urban of Northville.

Taking care of all the family's special needs requires an extra effort on our part.

But the family's convenience, rather than our own, is our first concern.

SEEK OUT A PROFESSIONAL!

"It is a truism in the legal profession that the vast majority of widows lose a substantial part of an uncontrolled bequest within seven years." So states Ma Theresa Morse in her book, "Life is for the Living."

She points out that a team of experts (a lawyer, accountant, and investment counselor) can provide the professional advice that well-meaning friends and relatives simply cannot. All of us may need some or all of that "team." Ms. Morse counsels a widow, especially, to seek out a lawyer with whom she can communicate frankly and comfortably. He must be "right" for her, and he and the other counselors must earn her confidence and trust. Only through this trust can they help chart her short and long-range courses of action.

So, too, must we earn your trust. You should be comfortable discussing your funeral wishes with us. As with your lawyer, we conduct our affairs on a professional level. We want you to consider us as members of your "team," ready to help make pre-planned arrangements or provide information in advance of need.

Top chef comes from San Francisco to China Fair

"In the Chinese community, he's probably the top chef in the nation," beams Sam Chan, owner of the newly opened China Fair restaurant in Northville Township.

The new restaurant is located in the Northville Plaza shopping center on Seven Mile Road.

It occupies the space once used by the defunct Papa Geppeto's restaurant. The interior has been completely rearranged and refurbished, and complete new equipment and furniture have been installed.

Although he's proud of the facility, it is the chef that Chan promotes most in this his second restaurant. The chef is Wong Ng, who formerly was chef in a widely acclaimed Chinese restaurant in San Francisco.

"Ask any person of Chinese background who knows good food and you'll find the Mr. Ng has one of the finest reputations in American and in Hong Kong," said Chan. "It was the same in Hong Kong; his (Ng's) reputation was known by all."

Ng came to the United States from Hong Kong about six years ago. His specialty, and now the specialty of China Fair, is "Cantonese, Hong Kong style cooking." He has been cooking for 34 years.

Several reputable Detroit area Chinese restaurants, said Chang, have ordered food from China Fair "because they want to enjoy Mr. Ng's specialty."

Chan has also owned Ten Yen Restaurant on Wayne Road in Livonia for the past 3½ years. Previous to becoming owner of Ten Yen, Chan worked in the restaurant business with his brother-in-law, who now owns and operates Hoi Ken Lau restaurant in Detroit's Renaissance Center. Chan has been in the restaurant business for some nine years, having learned to cook in Hong Kong.

China Fair is a "family restaurant" in that all members of Chan's family — including five brothers and a sister, as well as sister-in-laws all have a hand in its operation.

Altogether China Fair employs a dozen people.

The restaurant facility has been divided into two rooms — one for main dining and the other for private parties.

China Fair, which expects soon to receive its liquor license, is open seven days a week: Monday through Thursday from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m.; Friday and Saturday from 11 a.m. to Midnight; and Sunday from noon to 11 p.m.

GOOD EATING—One of the nation's most — if not the most — reputable Cantonese chefs, Wong Ng, above, has joined Sam Chan's new China Fair restaurant in Northville Township. Among those assisting him in the all newly equipped kitchen are (l to r) his wife, May Ng, Ray Choi, and Wing Cheung. That's Ng in the center, background.

DAR salutes veterans

Veteran's Day '78 is the theme of the 37th birthday luncheon of John Sackett Chapter, DAR, at noon Saturday at Meadowbrook Country Club.

The focus is to be on national defense with Lieutenant Colonel Howard Ebersole, U.S. Air Force, Retired, as speaker. He is the son of Mrs. Gladys Stufin of Plymouth, a past regent of John Sackett Chapter.

Colonel Ebersole, with bachelor and master's degrees from University of Michigan in electrical engineering, currently is employed by Ford Motor Company.

He enlisted in the Air Force in 1942 and flew B-24 bombers over Europe while stationed in England during World War II. He flew 100 missions in fighter planes in the Korean conflict.

From 1965-69 Ebersole was a staff officer in the Tactical Air Command, helping to establish operational requirements for fighter aircraft during the Vietnamese conflict.

His speech is entitled, "Operation Requirements and National Defense."

Among the 10 area chapter regents who have been invited to attend is Mrs. Albert Heindryckx of Sarah Ann Cochrane Chapter.

Behavior modification

MACLD workshop topic

A workshop on behavior modification will be conducted at the November 15 meeting of the Plymouth-Canton-Northville Chapter of the Michigan Association for Children with Learning Disabilities.

It will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Plymouth Pioneer School Cafeteria.

Guest speakers at the workshop will be Harold E. Weiner, Ph.D., and Judith B. Weiner, M.A.

Their presentation will focus on the development of a behavior management system that parents can utilize immediately with their children.

Development of appropriate rules and procedures at home along with concomitant reinforcement procedures will be discussed.

Weiner received his BA, MA and Ph.D. degrees from Michigan State University and has been an assistant professor in special education at Oakland University since 1975.

In the course of his working experience, he has dealt extensively with parents of exceptional children. He has counseled and also developed training programs for parents.

Judith Weiner has had a background of 11 years in education, ranging from junior high math teacher in Detroit to her current position of regional learning specialist for Western Wayne County.

The meeting is free and open to the public.

MACLD meetings are the third Wednesday of each month, excluding December and April, with the local chapter dedicated to finding and helping children with hidden handicaps.

The chapter explains that often "this is the child whose learning performance does not measure up to learning capabilities."

Parent advisors are at the meetings to aid new members

Your Christmas Twelve Oaks

Thousands of tiny "lights of Christmas" will begin to glow on the 22 Ficus trees throughout Twelve Oaks Mall, signaling the beginning of "Your Christmas Season at Twelve Oaks," this coming Wednesday.

The nativity scene will be in place in the Lord & Taylor Court.

Santa is to arrive to make his Nov headquarters in the Center Court next Friday, November 17. The Jolly Gentleman will remain until Christmas, ready to hear whispered wishes of young visitors who may have Polaroid pictures taken with him.

Stores on both levels of the spacious mall will be decorated for Christmas and brimming with holiday merchandise.

For shopping breaks, families can stop at restaurants and snack bars throughout the mall and in each of the four major stores.

Music of the Yule season will be heard beginning Tuesday, November 21, as the Renaissance Wind Quintet will be playing from 7-8:30 p.m. in the JCPenney Court. Special music will continue throughout the holiday season to help shoppers enjoy Christmas at Twelve Oaks.

Remember those Twelve Days of Christmas that have become a tradition? Visitors will see them in scenes in each of the four courts.

Three days will be lavishly depicted in each court as part of the 1978 Christmas celebration at 12 Oaks.

Not 12, but 40 days of Christmas are planned for families to enjoy together in the new 12 Oaks Mall — Your Merry Christmas place.

Food & Drink

Shopping at Twelve Oaks is a lot more than just shopping.

It's an occasion. An excursion. An adventure.

The shopping center has been carefully designed to make it that way — a place where someone can spend the entire day in a comfortable, attractive setting.

Not the least of the amenities which add to the special atmosphere of the mall are the restaurants which have been carefully planned to provide for the desires of the visitors to Twelve Oaks.

Those restaurants run the gamut from fine sit-down dining places to fast-food service. Restaurants featuring various types of ethnic cuisine are also represented.

In short, whatever your dining pleasure, you'll find it at Twelve Oaks.

Here's a rundown of the restaurants you'll find at Twelve Oaks:

THE GREENERY in J.L. Hudson's is decorated with a setting of light woods and mounds of live plants. Shoppers from the very young to the more mature can choose from a large menu which features special salads and desserts. Liquor is available.

Tucked in a lower-level corner of Lord and Taylor's is THE BIRD CAGE. The tiny restaurant caters to the lunch crowd. Slow-paced and quiet, the restaurant is a tradition with the prestigious Lord and Taylor chain. Bright with greens and wood decor, the restaurant's main fare is sandwiches and salads.

THE COUNTRY KITCHEN in Sear's offers cafeteria-style service with a wide variety of hot and cold selections. The upper-level restaurant is a haven for shoppers seeking fast, convenient service.

JCPenney's Restaurant stresses good food and fast table service. The menu features a wide variety of hot and cold items for the hungry shopper. It's set in bright, pleasant surroundings. The cheese cake is a feature.

The shopper on the go can stop by the PIZZA PLACE for a slice of pizza at the stand-up counter. If you have more time, head for one of the bright green booths and choose a full pizza, a great big sandwich, minestrone soup, or spaghetti served with a tangy sauce.

The American hot dog dressed with special chili is a house specialty at the KONEY ISLAND INN. Breakfast, lunch, and supper are served in the conveniently located restaurant. Another feature is the Athenian salad.

BURGER KING, the fast-food specialist, is well-known for its special hamburgers and french fries. The restaurant is built on levels and features a light wood decor with plenty of greenery for rest and relaxation. ideal for the shopper looking for an inexpensive, quick, and tasty meal.

Have you tried OLGA'S KITCHEN yet? Both take out and sit-down service are available. Slices of lamb, onion, tomato, and yogurt wrapped in pita bread is the house specialty. Or, sample the other Olga creations: spinach pie and various types of souvlaki. A frozen yogurt dessert, called "Olgurt," is another feature in this restaurant with its Greek-flavored fare.

You can get breakfast, lunch or dinner at THE BIG BOY RESTAURANT. The well-known restaurant chain features a full menu with everything from scallops and spaghetti to omelets and eggs benedict. And, of course, that American institution — the Big Boy hamburger — is a main stay.

Steaks and lots of them are the featured item at the BONANZA FAMILY RESTAURANT. The cafeteria-style eatery is geared toward family dining and quick service. The comfortable Western-style setting offers steak, baked potatoes, and all the accompaniments at budget prices.

JONATHON B's PUB near the entrance to the cinema offers intimate atmosphere in a jolly old England-style pub. It's a late night meeting spot as well as a popular spot for shoppers and businesspersons during the day. Griffens perched on pedestals, a pressed tin ceiling, electrified gaslights, and the English dart board complete the inviting setting. A full bar, blue points from the oyster bar, homemade soups, and a tempting array of sandwiches are features of the menu.

European country-style is the decor theme at THE MAGIC PAN CREPERIE with its beamed ceilings and polished wooden floors. The menu, of course, is geared toward French cuisine and revolves around the crepe. Special soups and salads set the stage for the entree crepes which are available with a wide variety of unusual and taste-tempting fillings. Crepes St. Jacques, spinach souffle crepes, and crepes ratatouille are just a few of the special items on the menu. Just as exciting are the dessert crepes with their fresh fruits, ice cream, and special sauces. Liquor is also available at the restaurant.

'Arch of Prometheus'

As Lord & Taylor celebrates its first Christmas in Twelve Oaks Mall, shoppers at the store will gaze at "The Arch of Prometheus," the painted steel sculpture by Barry Tinsley of Chicago, in the Lord & Taylor Court. The arch weighs 18,000 pounds, is 22½ feet high and 38 feet wide. It cost $25,000 and is the work of a Virginian who received his BA degree from the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg.

Thousands of gift items are in stock in Twelve Oaks stores ready to bring smiles as youngsters empty Christmas stockings on Christmas morning.

They range from soft, nature-hand puppets, such as a Koala bear or muffy mouse at $4 or a hippopotamus at $5, to a ducky rattle at $2.75.

For under one dollar smart shoppers will find fancy-design sticky tape and stickers that elementary students will

Eyelet And Velvet

It will be a green Christmas season this year, at least for fashionably dressed youngsters.

Dark forest-green velvet is used for eyelet-trimmed dresses that little girls will wear on Christmas Day while young boys will be handsome in four-piece matching velvet suits.

Short-pant suits come complete with vest, shirt and matching velvet bow tie for $25 in one children's department at Twelve Oaks. Long-pant outfits with tapestry suspenders are $26. Velvet sugared with white eyelet or lace for little girls may run about $21.

Running close to velvet in popularity with grandmothers, and mothers, are knit outfits. One early arrival has a train motif that youngsters like. The soft, warm knits run about $18 to $27.50.

Like adults, young people in the seven-to-fourteen size range can be fashionable in French imports — but such items as a girl's pleated gray flannel jumper from Paris can be purchased for about $25, a price not equaled in mother's size.

Because children jog right along with their parents, manufacturers have brought out jogging sets in time for Christmas buying. Sister can be outfitted in yellow or pink satin pants for $4.50 while the bright satin top is $6.

And for all children, from small-sized babies and upward, clothes with the Snoopy motif are sure to be welcomed.

Also new and rising in popularity among the motif fashions this holiday season are the items with Beatrix Potter bunnies.

Grandmothers will love the nightie sets for little granddaughter made by Lounges, who are known for their grown-up designs. Blue check robes as pretty as mother's are $24.50 with matching nighties at $15.

It's a family Christmas at Twelve Oaks

The beauty and warmth of glowing, tiny lights in lace-leaved Ficus trees in the courts of Twelve Oaks Mall will be enjoyed by everyone from toddler to grandparent during this Christmas season. Santa will be welcoming young visitors in the Center Court, and there are many resting places throughout where shoppers will be able to listen to holiday music and people-watch.
