TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

Downtown plan faces revisions

SOURCE OF CONTROVERSY—All the sore spots picked out by merchants Thursday night at a presentation of the revised Mainstreet 78 downtown improvement plan center around Main Street and the town square area. In the plan above, traffic can move along Main Street east to west full length, but parking has been removed on the north side at the west end of the Hutton to Center Street block. Walks have been extended into the street to permit substantial landscaping. Eastbound traffic on Main Street cannot get past the landscaped pedestrian island midway along the street at the parking lot converted to a town square. Westbound traffic can also enter the town square area off Main Street. Traffic at this point is directed southward to the parking deck or along Mary Alexander Court in either direction. Most of these features were abruptly changed this week as a result of criticism from merchants attending the chamber of commerce meeting.

Traffic flow, parking booed by merchants

It was back to the drawing boards this week for Northville's Mainstreet 78 downtown improvement program.

The message came through loud and clear Thursday evening at the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce meeting: the plan as presented was not acceptable to the vast majority of downtown merchants attending the First Presbyterian Church dinner meeting.

Chief among the objections leveled during the outspoken session were:

- the traffic flow proposal on Main Street;
- removal of most of the parking along Main Street;
- loss of parking spaces in the Main Street parking lot slated for conversion to a landscaped town square area;
- a revised traffic flow system for Mary Alexander Court.

The Downtown Development Authority (DDA) committee, probably more disappointed than surprised by merchant reaction, met in special session Monday at 7:30 a.m. and proposed major revisions in traffic flow and the treatment of parking in the Main Street area. The committee was slated to examine preliminary architectural changes at an early-morning meeting today (Wednesday). Time is a crucial factor. Mainstreet 78 will be presented to city voters Tuesday, February 20 for approval of general obligation bonds to finance the project.

Almost all of the criticism was aimed at the Main Street portion of the plan. About a dozen persons spoke up from the audience of more than 100 members and spouses of the chamber of commerce.

Proposed improvements for the parking lot area north of Main Street stores and south of Dunlap Street were unchallenged, as were the landscaped additions and parking treatment along Center Street.

But the elimination of 25 of 39 parking spaces on Main Street, the conversion of the Main Street parking lot into a town square, a proposed traffic flow that allowed vehicles to drive east-to-west the full length of the business district on Main Street but directed westbound traffic through the town square onto Mary Alexander Court were unacceptable aspects of the Mainstreet 78 plan to most merchants at the meeting.

In addition, the directing of traffic both east and west along Mary Alexander Court from the town square entrance off Main Street also met strong opposition.

City Manager Steven Walters unveiled the revised Mainstreet 78 plan to the chamber gathering. It had not been given its final approval until two days earlier at a Tuesday morning meeting of DDA. The handling of traffic along Main Street had undergone several revisions in previous DDA meetings as members struggled to find an acceptable compromise.

The vote Tuesday was 5-2 in favor of the plan that merchants were later to reject on Thursday night. In reality Mayor Paul Vernon cast a sixth supporting vote for the plan, but he was unable to attend the session when the formal votes were taken. DDA members objecting to the concept were Glenn Long and Barbara Black. Casting supportive votes were A. M. Allen, Dewey Gardner, Stanley Johnston, N. C. Schrader and William Sliger.

After Manager Walters' explanation numerous questions were fired from the floor.

Mrs. Carole Miller described the difficulty a shopper would have in finding a parking place on Main Street and criticized loss of the Main Street lot.

Gene Wagner said, "If I were a businessman in Northville, I'd be concerned" about the loss of parking in the Mainstreet 78 plan.

Mrs. Douglas Lorenz said the Mainstreet 78 plan would "discourage people from coming downtown."

John Genitt said, "I can't see how this plan will help any business in town."

Larry Sheehan criticized the compromise plan as "doing nothing" and suggested retaining parking in the center core of the downtown area and concentrating landscaping around the outside.

Douglas Lorenz wondered how fire protection could be provided for downtown stores with the proposed traffic pattern. He also criticized taking convenient parking from the theater with the town square. Lorenz said that customers shop in Northville because of convenience and personalized service. He was highly critical of the Historical District Commission, which approves exterior modifications in the business area, and accused the agency of "driving business away."

Lorenz also expressed his disapproval of the city council's practice of requiring new merchants to provide offstreet parking for their customers or to pay for such parking if sufficient number of spaces are not available at the business site.

Charles Lapham acknowledged that the town square concept "adds to aesthetics" of the downtown area, but said he could not "buy all the plan." Lapham wants two-way through traffic to be preserved on Main Street along with parking on the street. He suggested considering angle parking. Lapham also stated that he was bothered by the fact that all the applause from the audience was for criticism of the plan.

None of the spokesmen in behalf of the Mainstreet 78 proposal were received warmly by the audience.

DDA committee members responded to the critics by noting that Main Street parking would continue to be provided on the north side at the easterly end of the block and on the south side at the westerly end. It was also noted that the plan attempted to slow down Main Street vehicular traffic converting that portion of the street between Center and Hutton to an area intended for shoppers, either on foot or in cars intent upon parking and staying in the business district. It was also pointed out that improved parking would be provided at the rear of stores.

A landscaped pedestrian island midway along Main Street would function as a crossing as well as beautification and a method for slow-

For township board

Five in trustee race

Township voters will have five names to choose from to fill the vacant trusteeship in a special election Tuesday, February 27.

By the 4 p.m. filing deadline Tuesday five residents of the township had filed nominating petitions at the township hall for the trustee post vacated in November by Michael Wilson, who moved from the community.

They are:

Richard Henningsen, 42117 Banbury; Kenneth McLarty, 46660 Six Mile; Dorothy K. Gay, 19065 Neptune Court; David E. Mitchell, 42246 Old Bedford; and Robert K. Foust, 19777 Meadowbrook.

All but Foust had been considered earlier as candidates for appointment to the post by the township board. But the board, unable to reach agreement, decided to let the matter go to an election.

Under the law, when the board is unable to reach agreement on appointment, the governor of the state is empowered to set the election.

The February 27 election, therefore, is the result of the governor's action. He scheduled the February 27 election as the primary, and set March 20 as the special election to ultimately pick the winner.

Purpose of a primary election is to pick the political party representatives for the vacant post. In this case since all five of the persons filing nominating petitions are Republicans, the result of the primary will in effect determine the new trustee. Unless someone runs as a write-in candidate, the March 20 ballot will contain only the name of the winner in the February 27 primary.

Although the election process already has been set into motion, there appears to be some question about its legality: since the governor scheduled the election so early an insufficient number of days apparently were allotted for advertising the deadline for voter registration and nominating petition.

However, township officials were unaware of any challenge on Tuesday. The five petitions were turned in to Deputy Clerk Margaret Tegge, who said signatures had not yet been checked but that all had more than the minimum requirement of 34 signatures.

Foust had the fewest signatures with 41, while the others ranged up to 68. Mrs. Tegge said she did not anticipate any problems with validity.

Supervisor Donald Thomson said he feels, "They're all good candidates but I'm surprised there are not more."

The Foust and Gay petitions were filed Monday and the others well before the 4 p.m. deadline Tuesday.

Of the five candidates, Henningsen is probably the better known by virtue of the fact that he served as township treasurer before losing out to Lee Holland in a bid for re-election in November. A township resident since 1971, he works for Detroit Diesel Allison Division of General Motors as administrator of product cost.

McLarty, who has a law degree from the Detroit College of Law, is business service general manager for Michigan Bell.

Mrs. Gay, who was graduated from Wayne State University with a BA in political science, is a retired Detroit Police Department inspector.

Foster, a graduate of Springfield Business College in Springfield, Missouri, is district sales service manager for General Foods Corporation in Livonia.

Foust's petition was signed by many of his Meadowbrook neighbors. He and his wife, Gloria, are long-time residents of the area. They have two children, a son and daughter who attend Ferris College and Michigan State University, respectively.

NEWS BRIEFS

AN ALL-TIME record was set for betting at Northville Downs Saturday night. The old record of $678,000 was topped by a whopping $111,000 as 6,754 fans wagered $789,153. It probably didn't hurt attendance at the local harness track when Windsor Raceway closed Saturday due to labor disputes. Still Downs' officials feel the trouble could not be attributed to Windsor's closing. The big mutual handle also established a weeklong record for the 36-year-old track: $2,987,839, which tops the previous best betting week by $30,000. For the first 24 nights of its 84-night season Northville Downs is enjoying a 9.2 percent increase in betting and 8.1 percent hike in attendance.

PROPOSED PLANS by the City of Novi to pave Beck Road and, in cooperation with Northville, that section of the roadway inside the City of Northville, will be discussed at the Northville City Council meeting Monday night. Among other matters to appear on the Monday agenda will be the downtown development plan and an appeal by Northville Lanes of the ruling of the Northville Historical District Commission on its proposal for erecting a new sign on the South Center Street building.

Home for retarded

Same story: Don't put it here

It was a familiar theme. Yes, said the opponents, the project is necessary. But not in our backyard.

This time, the opponents were a couple of hundred homeowners who crowded into Livonia City Hall Monday night. They were protesting a home for 16 young adults proposed for their neighborhood.

Each of the young adults is mildly retarded but the neighbors said their objections were based on zoning requirements.

The meeting was significant locally because the Community Opportunity Center — a private, non-profit corporation that wants to build the house — wants eventually to find a Northville site for a similar home.

COC started a home in Plymouth 3½ years ago and will be also looking for sites in Garden City and Redford Township. Corporation officials said Monday that they would probably have to get the Livonia operation underway before seeking property in Northville.

The Livonia home is proposed for the intersection of Lyndon and Bainbridge, a residential area bordered by Schoolcraft, Middlebelt, Five Mile and Farmington roads.

Monday night, COC officials, their lawyer and their architect made a half-hour presentation to the Livonia City Council in defense of a zoning waiver needed to build the 6,300 square foot, one-story home.

The waiver won unanimous approval from the city planning commission. City council will make its decision on Wednesday, February 7.

COC officials argued that the home, while much larger than surrounding residences, would not disrupt the neighborhood or its character.

The residents of the home will be mildly mentally retarded — diagnosed as either trainable or educable — according to Jim Mies, chairman of the board for COC.

Mies, a district court judge, has a retarded child.

He stressed that the young adults are not mentally ill, psychotic or emotionally disturbed and are "semi-independent. They can't run an apartment by themselves. They need someone to supervise them."

The home would be financed with a 40-year mortgage through the Michigan State Housing Authority. Operating funds would come from rents paid by the residents.

Their source of money could come from jobs either in the community or in sheltered workshops, Supplemental Security Income payments, or program money from the Department of Social Services.

Mies said that in the 3½ years that the COC home has operated on Wing and Deer in Plymouth, there have been "absolutely no problems with the people in the community."

The neighbors of the prospective Livonia home were invited to an open house at the Plymouth site but no one attended.

The residents of these homes, said Mies, are no different than the average person except that they have lower than normal rates of learning.

"If they were here, you wouldn't know that they were handicapped," said Mies. "They don't have a label on their heads."

But the dozen or so who spoke against the home — to the instant but generally well-mannered applause of those sitting and standing in council chambers — were not impressed.

Neither were they moved by the petition bearing the signatures of 1,000 Livonia residents who support the home because, they said, those people don't live in the neighborhood.

Despite COC arguments that studies have shown similar homes have no effect on nearby property values, the neighbors said that the large building on a small lot would decrease their homes' worth.

"This is not civil rights but zoning," said a man whose last name is Yarlott. "They do have a right to live somewhere but not when they're the center of acid discussion."

Several of those who objected said they were long-time Livonia residents, 30 to 40 years, and objected to what they saw as the subversion of the community's character.

Their attorney, Thomas Jakuc of Warren, questioned the city's method of passing an emergency ordinance that allows for the necessary waiver.

Jon Holden is a 30-year Livonia resident and one of the few neighbors to tour the home in Plymouth.

"I was deeply moved," he said, "(but) there is no way these people can function and have a normal life" at the proposed location.

A woman who lives across the street from the home site said "definitely there should be a building, but not at Linden." Behind city hall or near St. Mary Hospital would be preferable locations, she said.

It was just that attitude that bothers the parents of retarded children who spoke at the meeting.

A cartoon is flashed on the Marquis screen as the new screen and projector are tested

Mark Ross, Dave Otlewski and Charlie Staples inspect new Marquis projector

Movies are back-at Marquis

Both the new projector and movie screen are in place at the refurbished Marquis Theatre where Owner Inga Zayti has chosen a family movie, "The Magic of Lassie," as the opening attraction February 7.

Mrs. Zayti says she waited a week to reopen the theater as a movie house in order to show the new Lassie release. "I wanted something the whole family could want to see," she declares, announcing that all seats will be priced at $1.50.

"The Magic of Lassie" is a musical adventure featuring the most famous dog in the world. The stars are Mickey Rooney, James Stewart, Pernell Roberts, Stephanie Zimbalist, Michael Sharrett and Alice Faye. New hits by Pat Boone and Debby Boone also are promised.

There will be performances at 7 and 9 p.m. Wednesday through Friday, at 3, 7 and 9 p.m. Saturday and 3, 5, 7 and 9 p.m. Sunday through the week-long run.

"Foul Play" will open on Valentine's Day, February 14, with "Heaven Can Wait," February 21 and "Saturday Night Fever," February 28.

Other future attractions include the "Body Snatchers" and "Lord of the Rings."

The former P & A Theatre at 133 East Main closed as a movie house. It had been built as a vaudeville theater with stage and orchestra pit in 1925.

It became The Marquis with a gala champagne opening October 14, 1978, when live performances of "Camelot" were given. Since then Mrs. Zayti has brought a series of musical attractions to the theater. Count Basie on January 20 was the latest.

During the renovation, the handsome brass fixtures and wood doors were refinished and put in place. The walnut box office was brought back to original condition with new carpeting, seats, lights and wallpaper installed.

Mrs. Zayti reports she and her husband Jay Zayti intend to have both screen and live entertainment in the elegant theater which seats about 550.

She also affirms that the $1.50 a seat price will continue for the movies.

In the all-new family adventure of Lassie, released last year, the collie dog who was first introduced to the screen 35 years ago is back. She returns in a story of suspense and excitement as Lassie struggles in a perilous journey across the country in order to be reunited with her rightful owners.

James Stewart, Stephanie Zimbalist and Michael Sharrett are her loving family living in a vineyard in California.

As the grandfather of the family, James Stewart is playing in his 77th motion picture. He even sings in the film.

Debby Boone sings "When You're Loved" and Pat Boone, "A Rose Is Not a Rose."

But, says Producer Jack Wrather, the real star is Lassie, played by a 2½ year old collie that is the great-great-great-granddaughter of the original Lassie who played in "Lassie, Come Home" in 1943.

If the Russians — or their bombs — are coming, Northville is going to be doing its part to make sure that the army is ready.

The Northville High School is now an alternate assembly site for the 301st Military Police Prisoners of War Camp Units in case there is a national emergency.

The high school — which at times in the not-so-distant past has been referred to as an emergency — was selected because it meets three major criteria: office space, cooking facilities and parking for 20 cars.

Northville School Board Trustee Charles Peltz wryly noted that Northville Charley's restaurant also meets those requirements.

Peltz's remark was typical of the bemused reaction by the school board and audience as Superintendent Lawrence Nichols and Central Office Administrator Michael Janchick explained how the army came to Northville High School.

It all started last May when then-Superintendent Raymond Spear received a letter from Captain Henry Burns of the United States Army Reserves.

"A recent assistance visit and IG inspection conducted by the Fifth U.S. Army noted that the 301st MP PW Camp did not have an alternate assembly area designated in the event of a national emergency," wrote the captain.

Janchick said a subsequent conversation revealed that Captain Burns wanted a secondary site west of I-275 in case the primary location in Livonia was not available in the event of a national emergency.

"I asked him what he meant by national emergency and he said nuclear attack," said Janchick.

Captain Burns has since inspected the high school, found it satisfactory and received permission to designate the 20-year-old school at Eight Mile and Center as the alternate site.

If there is a nuclear attack and the Livonia center is destroyed, there is still little chance that the 301st will use the high school, said Janchick.

There are only five such units in the country, he explained, and contingency plans call for the 301st to be transferred to California in case of an attack.

"In reality, the selection of an alternate site is nothing more than paper for the reserve unit," said Janchick.

Jim Spagnuolo marks his 92nd birthday

Northville's oldest former resident businessman, Jim Spagnuolo, celebrated his 92nd birthday Sunday.

Friends and relatives gathered at his home, above the downtown store, which he operated for many years and which still carries the name "Spagy."

He is the father of four children: Mary Ann and Joe of Northville, Pete and Theresa of Lansing. He has eight grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

He and Mrs. Spagnuolo (Josephine) will celebrate their 49th anniversary next summer.

Mrs. Spagnuolo reports that her husband, though in poor health, "is still able to get around" and occasionally "goes walking" for short distances.

Born in Italy, Spagnuolo purchased Spagy's Grocery in 1918; he bought the building two years later, financing it through the bank that once stood at the northeast corner of Main and Center.

Recalling the early store a number of years ago, he said, "When I bought the store I sold a nice line of candy, some good fruit and vegetables and I had a soda fountain. It was no grocery store then ... it was a confectioner's store."

He purchased the business from a second cousin, Frank Cascerelli. When Spagnuolo came to Northville in 1915, Main Street was unpaved, a rutted, dirt roadway some three feet below the level of the concrete sidewalks lining the downtown stores.

His son Joe remembers that years ago members of the Spagnuolo family — mostly cousins — operated a string of similar small stores between here and Zeeland, Michigan. "I remember when dad and I would go visiting — store to store — there were so many of them it would take a whole week traveling from one side of the state to the other and back home again."

7 cited at Madonna

Seven persons from Northville have been named to the dean's list for Term I at Madonna College in Livonia.

They are: Gary Kerstein, a freshman in biology-chemistry; Christine Suddendorf, a freshman in medical technology; Michael Horbaniuk, a freshman who is undecided on his major; Renee Rasak, a sophomore in history; Roxanne Teeft, a sophomore in law; Kathleen McGillis, a sophomore in nursing; and Johanna McLaren, a junior in art.

Township takes action to make appointments permanent—and legal Appointments to the planning commission and to the board of appeals were reaffirmed by the Northville Township Board last week Wednesday.

Named to the planning commission was Supervisor Donald Thomson, while Clerk Clarice Sass was appointed to the board of appeals.

The same two persons had been appointed to "temporary" positions earlier — but the board was forced to take action again a few days later because of a legal interpretation of the law that only full term appointments, not temporary ones, are permissible.

Supervisor Thomson had requested the temporary appointments to allow permanent appointments to be determined later by the full board of trustees — after the seventh member of the board is elected in March.

Presently a vacancy on the board of trustees exists, the position of Michael Wilson, who resigned last November, having not yet been filled. An election to fill the vacancy is slated in March.

Reaffirmation of the appointments took place at the conclusion of a public hearing on federal funds last week.

Thomson recommended to the board that the planning commission and appeals board positions be left vacant, pending the election of the seventh member of the board of trustees. He reminded the board that because the seventh member will be elected in March, the vacancies on the planning commission and the appeals board would exist only for a couple more months.

Trustee John Swienkowski, however, argued that he saw "no logic" in delaying the appointments, particularly in view of the fact that the board had been advised that it is important that the appointments be made.

Planning Commission Chairman

William Bohan said he felt it is important that the appointments be made because of important business that is likely to occur before the planning commission during the next two months and because it is sometime difficult to assemble a quorum of appeals board members.

Mrs. Sass, whose term on the appeals board had expired, confirmed the quorum problem, pointing out that had she not been present on a number of occasions there would have been insufficient numbers of the five-member board present to legally carry out business.

Thomson reminded Swienkowski that it was he, Swienkowski, who earlier had opposed appointment to the board of trustees in favoring an election instead.

Swienkowski, the supervisor explained later, "saw no urgency in the trustee appointment back when I was trying to get that seat filled. But now, in the case of these appointments, he takes quite a different position. He says he sees 'no logic' in my recommendation that we wait a few weeks; well, I don't see his logic either. If filling these posts wasn't important in November, why is it so important now with the election just a few weeks away?"

In the face of the argument for appointment, however, Thomson relented. He moved that he (Thomson) be appointed as the board's representative on the planning commission and Swienkowski supported the motion. It carried unanimously.

Immediately thereafter, Trustee William Zapke moved appointment of Mrs. Sass to the appeals board and Swienkowski supported that motion. It carried, with Treasurer Lee Holland casting the lone dissenting vote.

Seniors to get ID photos

Senior citizens who missed having ID pictures taken recently will have another opportunity February 20.

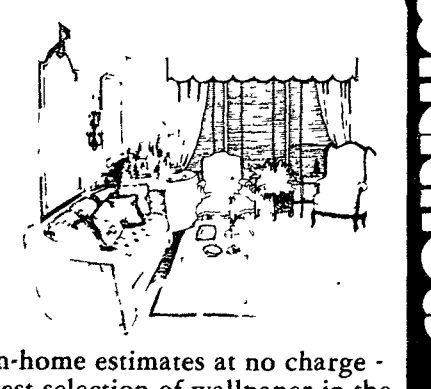

That's the word from John Steimel, chairman of the Kiwanis Club's "Golden Age" committee, who reports that pictures of 93 senior citizens were taken on November 15 and are now being distributed.

Those pictures taken in November may be obtained from Steimel at the Northville post office.

The new photo-taking session will take place on February 20 between 9 and 10:30 a.m. in the school administrative offices on the second floor of the former Main Street Elementary School.

Plan rejected

ing traffic, it was explained. It was suggested that the Main Street treatment could be converted back to the present two-way system complete with on-street parking if after sufficient trial it did not prove successful.

Joining Manager Walters in outlining the philosophy of Mainstreet 78 were DDA members A. M. Allen, Stanley Johnson, William Sliger and Mayor Vernon. The only businessman expressing approval of the proposed plan was Andy Piccoli, owner of Cobblers Corner, who said customers will walk from parking areas to the Main Street stores.

The only DDA committee member to receive a large round of applause was Glenn Long.

He pointed out that he objected to the concept as adopted because trucks would tie up traffic, parking would be lost on Mary Alexander Court and on Main Street, and that more traffic would be directed onto Mary Alexander Court thereby interfering with activities at the First Presbyterian Church. He also expressed a desire to retain two-way traffic the length of Main Street throughout the business district.

Mayor Vernon said he was disappointed by the reaction of merchants and wondered aloud why they had not attended the public hearing held on the plan before the city council.

"I'm sorry it had to reach this point. Apparently the plan is not acceptable," he said, asking for a show of hands.

The show of hands was overwhelming against the proposal.

City Attorney Philip Ogilvie appealed to the businessmen to get behind the plan for the February 20 bond vote. "If you vote down the bond proposal because there's something about the plan you don't like — the whole thing's dead. It can be changed. But you defeat everything if the bond proposal fails."

While architects must now decide what can be done, DDA committee members complied with just about everything the merchants asked Thursday night as they met Monday morning.

The committee proposed maintaining Main Street parallel parking, two-way traffic the full length, reducing the size of the town square and restoring some parking to the Main Street lot area, and retaining the traffic flow as it now exists on Mary Alexander Court.

Several of the same merchants who had criticized the plan Thursday night showed up at Tuesday morning's meeting to lend support and offer help to the committee.

One or two of the merchants even apologized for "coming on too strong" at the chamber of commerce session.

Plan dinner meetings

Trustees of Schoolcraft College will hold three dinner meetings with boards of K-12 school districts.

In each case, dinner will begin at 6:30 p.m. and the formal meeting will start about 8 p.m. Located in the Waterman Campus Center, the meetings are open to the public.

The Clarenceville board was scheduled for January 31; Northville, February 19; and Livonia, March 14.

Unlike most other community colleges in the states, Schoolcraft was created, not by a K-12 district or by a state decision, but by five K-12 school districts. The Schoolcraft Board is seeking improved cooperation with K-12 districts in several political and programmatic ways.

After a lengthy debate, the college board last week voted to send a delegate to the April 29-

May 2 convention of the American Association of Community and Junior Colleges in Chicago.

The debate was stirred by the fact that the Illinois Legislature has yet to pass the Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. Women's groups are urging conventions to boycott non-ERA states.

The delegate will be Rosina Raymond, who is pro-ERA and intends to be vocal on the subject.

Relatives of first telephone promoter gather here

"We've got a lot of pleasant memories about Northville," reminisced two brothers, whose uncle spearheaded the first telephone system here.

They and some 45 other persons gathered at the King's Mill clubhouse recently for a Porter family reunion — the first ever held here.

The Porter brothers are Roswell Howard, 65, and Edward B., 68, nephews of Marion A. Porter, a long-time prominent Northville businessman and official prior to his death in 1929.

Although they are not natives of Northville, their frequent early visits to Northville — the home of their uncle and for a few years the place where their father, R. H. Porter, worked — this community has long been "a pleasant place for us."

So pleasant, in fact, that last year Roswell Howard Porter moved here to take up residence in King's Mill. Edward B. lives near Pontiac.

He, his wife and his sister-in-law's family, the James Cowies, are the only members of the old Porter family residing in Northville.

Recalling that their uncle, along with Publisher F. S. Neal, had organized Northville's first telephone company, Roswell Howard Porter commented that "apparently my uncle's interest in telephones rubbed off on my father because after leaving Northville he moved to Idaho where he established the first telephone company in Julietta-Kendrick. That old company still survives as an independent phone system."

During the few years their father was in Northville he lived with his brother Marion in the latter's house at 537 West Dunlap, the home now of William Milne. He worked with his brother in his furniture business and for a time at the old Globe Furniture Company.

R. H. Porter met his wife Rachel Daker, a Detroit woman, at a party at the Yerkes home here.

He took his bride to pioneer in Idaho, where he was involved with establishment of the phone company and where he was a teacher for Indians. Later he homesteaded in Canada, where he owned and operated a coal mine. In 1922 he moved back to Michigan, living in Detroit. It was at the home of his son, Roswell Howard, where he died in 1949 at the age of 81.

Marion and R. H. Porter were two of 12 children, who lived on a farm in Blissfield, Michigan. Marion, the oldest child, was born in West Virginia. He moved to Northville in 1882. R. H. was the youngest of the children.

Soon after locating here, Marion married Belle Sands, the daughter of a pioneer Northville family, and became associated with John Sands in the furniture and undertaking business — located where Schrader's Home Furnishings is situated on North Center Street. The firm later became known as Sands & Porter.

When Marion's brother arrived in town, he purchased an interest in the business, which was then renamed Porter Brothers and eventually sold to Schrader in the early part of this century.

Marion Porter was president of the village in 1893 when he was instrumental in the construction of Northville's first water system, then regarded as one of the best in the entire state.

Besides establishing the telephone company, Marion also originated Rural Hill Cemetery and was its superintendent for many years. Upon his death in 1929, at the age of 73, he was buried in the cemetery.

Roswell Howard and Edward B. remember their uncle's funeral vividly. "We were pallbearers," they recalled.

Other recollections of the brothers was the fire that destroyed the historic old hotel that stood at the southwest corner of Main and Center streets, the Porter home on Dunlap and the early cars that their uncle drove here.

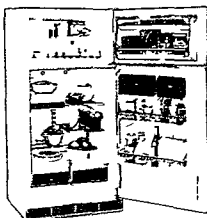

They also remember the "crow's nest" in their uncle's cottage on the north shore of Walled Lake.

"It was a two story structure, owned by our uncle and Dean Griswold. My uncle occupied one floor, Mr. Griswold the other. We spent some wonderful vacations there and on the Porter farm in Blissfield," said Roswell Howard Porter.

Their father, R. H. Porter, is buried in Blissfield near the Lenawee County homestead.

Here's one option you can't get from a car dealer.

Real rustproofing. A dealer can't order it from the factory because it has to be done after the car is completely assembled.

Some car dealers will do a so-called "rustproofing" job, but that's about all. They might even say it's the "same as Ziebart." That's not true because they don't have the training, equipment or know-how to give you complete rustproofing.

At Ziebart Rustproofing we've got the spray tools, the sealant, the manuals and the technicians to do it right.

If you're buying a new car, you should check us out. Why not give us a call?

GOOD TIME FOR WINE

by Jim Roth

A nice idea for a wine tasting party is to compare French wines with their American counterparts. Start with the light wines. Try comparing a French Alsatian Riesling with an California Grenache rose'. Go on to a French Beaujolais and a Cabernet Sauvignon; a white Burgundy to an American Pinot Chardonnay, and, finally a French red Burgundy to a Pinot Noir.

For help in selecting the wines for your wine tasting party talk to our friendly knowledgeable staff at GOOD TIME PARTY STORE, 567 Seven Mile Road, 349-1477. We have a wide selection of wines and will give a 10% discount off of our already low prices for wine purchased by the case, a mixed assortment or all of one kind. College sees deficit even if tax hike is approved

Even if voters approve a one mill property tax increase March 26, Schoolcraft College budget makers face a major deficit next July 1 unless there are either layoffs or a tuition increase.

"And if the millage doesn't pass, the picture gets worse," W. Kenneth Kindner, vice president for administration, told the board of trustees last week.

President C. Nelson Grote commented: "It's a relatively new experience to be working on a declining enrollment base and a declining state appropriation."

"We're in a levelling off period," said Trustee Richard Hayward. "We're no longer a growth industry."

Starting with the current budget base of $11.1 million, Lindner said, "In order to continue the present (1978-9) level of operation, an additional 6.8 percent new money, or approximately $750,000, will be required."

Instead, general fund revenues for 1979-80 looks as if they will increase only 1.23 percent.

"The state appropriation increased by six percent as an inflation factor. However, when the appropriation is adjusted to reflect our current decline in enrollment, a net loss is projected," he said.

Chief reasons for the enrollment loss appear to be smaller high school classes and the strong economy.

Economists would term community colleges a "counter-cyclical" industry. That is, when jobs are plentiful and there's a lot of overtime, enrollment declines. When jobs are scarce and workers (particularly the young) are laid off, enrollments shoot up.

The March 26 millage question is aimed at specialized construction, maintenance and equipment needs.

If it passes, trustees will be able to move a few maintenance and equipment items out of the operating budget. But the new money, if approved, will be unavailable for faculty salaries and heating bills.

Thus, if it passes, said Lindner, "The existing disparity between projected revenue and anticipated expenses is 5.5 percent or $614,000."

"A budget adjustment of this magnitude will require personnel layoffs and curtailment of services."

"No increase in tuition and fee revenues is projected at this time. However, an increase in tuition and fee rates is under consideration to increase revenue and to meet 'fair share' requirements," Lindner said.

There was little discussion of the tuition and fee hike idea. Schoolcraft charges residents $15.50 per credit hour; non-residents, $26; and non-Michiganians, $39. In addition, there are many fees for applications, student services, transcripts, commencement, locker rental, physical education uniform rental and so on.

On the millage question, Chairman Paul Kadish and Vice-Chairman Harry Greenleaf revealed they had held a preliminary meeting to map out campaign plans.

Greenleaf advocated a small group making campaign strategy. "You need to get on with the business. You can't make campaign decisions as a board. It can't be done that way!"

The board authorized the pair to act as a search team for a campaign manager and to set up a campaign committee.

What's worse than having your $45,000 house burn to the ground?

Having an insurance policy that only pays $25,000.

Every year, inflation and rising property values increase the value of your home. And make it that much more expensive to replace should something happen to make it a total loss.

But if you have an Auto-Owners homeowners policy with Adjusted Value Endorsement, you're protected. Because this modern Auto-Owners policy is designed to keep pace with rising values automatically.

If you aren't covered by Auto-Owners, well, maybe you should be replacing your present insurance. Let us fill you in before you have to replace your home.

Planners eye township growth

The possibility of controlling growth in Northville Township was discussed by township planning commissioners Thursday at a special meeting to discuss the area's planning goals and objectives.

Township Planning Consultant George Vilican told planners they would have to provide money for court cases if they tried to limit growth by township ordinance.

"As soon as a market demand for housing exists, the land owner can take it (a decision prohibiting him from developing his land) to court and win," Vilican said.

Commissioner Kenneth McLarty said the township's rate of growth was a subject that Northville Township board should consider. Planning commissioners are evaluating goals and objectives to present for further discussions with the board.

Referring to studies of growth in other areas, McLarty said, "Zoning is the only way to prevent growth."

Vilican pointed out that the township could also control growth by "giving or not giving utilities."

Vilican said the biggest

Chamber first

First of quarterly dinner meetings planned by the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce drew some 110 persons at the First Presbyterian Church Thursday evening. Chamber President Paul Folino, who moderated the downtown development plan question and answer session that followed the dinner, was delighted by "the big turnout." Folino was assured by those present that the "quarterly meeting idea" is a good one and he promised the meetings will become a regular feature of the chamber. Besides discussion of the downtown development plan, Thursday's meeting included a review by the chamber of events and activities planned this year — including a community garage sale in the downtown area in the spring. That sale, explained the chamber president, "will provide citizens of our community with an excellent opportunity to rent space downtown to sell their old discards in a central location." He called it the "biggest little garage sale in Michigan."

Actress to portray poet

tray the poet at Schoolcraft's Waterman Campus Center at 8 p.m. February 5, has spent several years researching Millay's life. She has studied her poetry and writings, relying heavily on letters written by Ms. Millay to her mother and sisters.

After obtaining permission from her only living sister, Ms. McCullough proceeded to create a one-woman, two-act, ten-scene drama, taking the audience through the poet's teen years, to New York, her loves, spirituality and her emotional death.

Ms. Millay's poem "Lament" describes a mother telling her children that their father has died. She tells her daughter to eat her breakfast and her son to take his medicine.

And added, "life must go on, I forget just why." Ms. Millay led an exciting but sometimes desolate life, experiencing a great love similar to that of Elizabeth Barrett Browning.

In addition to her evening performance, Ms. McCullough will visit English classes on campus throughout the day.

Her program is sponsored by the Cultural and Public Affairs Committee. General admission is $2 and $1 for students.

'Provost' candidate sought

"It gives me an unusual chance to re-think the administration of Schoolcraft College," said President C. Nelson Grote as he made two major announcements last week.

Grote will be seeking a person whose newly created title will be "provost and vice president of academic affairs."

Provost — Latin for "placed before (others)" — will often be in charge of day-to-day administration of the two-year college. Grote has sought more time for long-range planning.

Fred Stefanski of Northville, coordinator of the office of instructional affairs, plans to retire soon, Grote told the board of trustees.

Grote made permanent the appointment of Thad E. Diebel as dean of the college's Garden City Center.

Diebel had been acting dean there since the retirement last November of Robert Keene. Diebel's move opens up his post on the main campus as dean of applied science.

It's rare that the two most important instructional posts open up almost simultaneously at a college.

Wild gun shot scares family in township

An apparently random shot fired through a bedroom window of a new Northville Township home has struck a chord of fear in the owners who can't help but think what might have been.

"Someone shot off a gun and it went through the window and hit the wall over my son's crib," said Richard Shattuck. "If he had been standing, it would have hit him."

The Shattucks, who moved last September from Farmington to the new Northville Colony III subdivision in the township's southeast corner, were eating dinner when the shot was fired about 6:30 Saturday.

"I heard what sounded like a crackling noise in the garage which is right underneath the bedroom window," said Shattuck. "I went outside but I saw nothing."

The bullet went unnoticed that night when Jason, the youngest of three boys who will be two in April, was put to bed.

Sunday morning, Shattuck discovered a bullet hole in the window and the shade. Following the probable course of the bullet, he found a mark on an opposite wall and then the spent pellet.

"That's when the adrenalin started flowing," he said.

He said the bullet appeared to be of a small-caliber and he has no reason to think the shooting was intentional.

Shattuck said the south end of the subdivision is still under development and, because it is like an "open field," it is a popular place for snowmobilers and others. He said there is little chance that police can find the person who fired the shot. But, he said, he hopes people will read of his near-tragedy before fooling around with firearms.

"Whoever did it is not well acquainted with how to use a gun," said Shattuck. "Maybe (if he reads this story), he'll think before doing it a second time."

Revisions in plan don't change need for Mainstreet 78 support

Shot down!

That's how most of the members of the committee to improve Northville's downtown business district felt after last week's presentation of Mainstreet 78.

It was one of those situations where you had to try to convince yourself that there was nothing personal involved. It's just that what you've come up with after nearly two years of study is, quite frankly, lousy.

Suddenly you realize who the "they" is that we're always talking about: "look what they're trying to do to us."

My gosh. "We" are the "they" and we're outnumbered by a roomful of "wees" who have never before been able to corner one of the elusive "theys."

It really wasn't that bad. But if you get the idea merchants were less than supportive of the long-awaited downtown improvement plan, you are exactly correct.

Yet while the committee may have been temporarily discouraged by the turn of events Thursday night, Monday morning they were back at the table studying possible revisions in response to constructive criticism.

It's my personal opinion that Mainstreet 78 incorporated too many changes. And none of us really like to change old, yet tried and true, customs. Without trying, there can never be any way of proving if the proposed changes would have been advantageous to shoppers and merchants in downtown Northville.

At this point they may not be important.

The majority of the committee believes that what is important is to gain broad business and citizen support for an improvement program. And despite its compromises and revisions Mainstreet 78 promises to provide solid improvement for the community of Northville.

First we must recognize that the taxbase in the city's central business district has been slipping in recent years. This is not a healthy condition for any taxpayer — homeowner or merchant — in the city or school district.

The trend can be reversed. And tax increment financing under the downtown building authority act must certainly be the most painless method of accomplishing this.

What Mainstreet 78 promises for Northville is a hope for new business plus improvement and expansion of existing businesses. Introduction of the plan has already attracted such favorable response.

And under a most conservatively estimated financing schedule it is projected that within 15 years all bonds sold for the $1.7 million project can be paid off by tax increments captured from newly-created taxbase in the four-block business district.

In short, except for a minor amount of start-up support Mainstreet 78 will be financed by tax funds gained from reversing the downward spiral in central business district taxbase.

The law provides that under tax increment financing the added taxbase created by growth in a specific area can be diverted to retire bonds instead of going to support of schools, city and county government. These governmental agencies are not really giving up anything. Without the gains that can be attributed to Mainstreet 78 there would be less rather than potentially more taxbase.

There is a hitch to this marvelous-sounding plan of self improvement.

It requires voter support: a guarantee that if tax increments are not sufficient to meet bond payments, the city must make payments from its tax revenues.

Such a guarantee makes it possible to sell the bonds at a reasonable rate. Moreover, under the new Headlee amendment it would be impossible to undertake such a project without seeking voter approval.

Obviously, it is essential that Mainstreet 78 has enthusiastic merchant support. If they're against the plan, how in the world could anyone expect the homeowners of the community to lend support?

Frankly, it's my opinion that both homeowners and central business district merchants should line up solidly behind this community project.

If there are opponents from either sector, so be it.

Mainstreet 78 is a product of the city council that gives local taxpayers a chance to help themselves preserve and increase the city's taxbase. If it works, and it certainly should, all of us can believe we have helped reduce the tax burden on existing properties — both residential and commercial.

What's more, it will help create an atmosphere in the business district that may be more essential to the competition of the 1980's than some complacent merchants realize.

In my opinion aggressive businessmen and alert homeowners cannot afford to allow negative thinkers to decide such important issues.

They must support this self-help program for community improvement and encourage others to do the same.

Speaking for Myself

Environment vs. Economy

THOMAS FISHER

Environment

Environmental protection is good economics. Most of the more controversial measures can be shown to be cost-effective on a societal basis. Most of the complaints of industry can likewise be shown to be arguments about WHO pays the cost rather than if it has to be paid.

Business makes no bones about the fact that its sole purpose is to general profit, which is simply the excess of price over cost. It is obviously to the benefit of a business, for instance, not to pay the cost of cleaning up its smokestack and instead let the public literally absorb the hidden cost in the form of increased airborne sulfates and the resultant destruction of lungs, lives, soil, foliage, farmland and aesthetics.

Further, environmental protection creates jobs, both in the industries which are forced to clean up their acts and in the hundreds of businesses whose main purpose is pollution abatement.

Survey after survey has shown that the public is more than willing to pay whatever price is necessary to protect the fragile environment upon which we are all dependent. What is a fair price for an inhabitable earth? Arguments about the cost of environmental protection are largely bogus — the real costs will be paid regardless. What the fight is all about is who will pay them.

Richard L. Grow,
Chairperson, East Michigan
Environmental Action Council

Economy

Let me define economy in terms of cost to the consumer — the cost of government regulations. Is the consumer receiving a worthwhile benefit for the extra cost paid to meet such regulations as emissions, fuel economy, safety, anti-tampering, evaporative emissions, anti-theft and damageability?

Certainly, some of this regulation, but by no means all, is justified. In these inflationary times, our plea is that regulation be joined with reason. The "customers" of government are entitled to their money's worth, just as our customers are. New regulations or the calls therefore seldom point out the tremendous progress already made in such areas as safety and emissions.

In America, our industry has been compelled to invest far heavier sums than other countries which have legislation to protect the environment and promote safety and we appear to be headed toward even greater investment to meet environmental, health and safety rules. As a result, it has been estimated that our national productivity gains in recent years have not been as great as those of competing nations because capital which otherwise could have been earmarked for productivity improvement, greater competitiveness and more jobs has been diverted instead to the meeting of government regulation.

The automobile has caused problems; no doubt about it. And we may have been slower than we should have been in solving some of them. But we are solving them and, on balance, the automobile has done more to deliver us from drudgery and open new horizons and opportunities for us than any other invention.

JACK W. HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

"Congratulations, but we're a year older," chuckled Elmer White, former executive manager of the Michigan Press Association, back in 1969 when The Northville Record was celebrating its 100th birthday.

Although Elmer had a little data about the early years of the MPA, he based his strongest case on the number of annual conventions held by the MPA — 101 versus The Record's 100 years.

I'd suggested The Record might be older because one of The Record's early publishers, F. S. Neal, was elected secretary in 1899 of a then newly organized press association.

Convinced the 1899 association was a regional organization, covering only southeast Michigan, the matter was dropped. The Record was a year younger than the MPA.

But now I'm not so sure.

Thanks to inclement weather and a decision by the MPA administration, The Record may have gained a year on the state press association. It appears both are now 110 years old ... that is if the MPA still bases its age on the number of its annual conventions.

Last January a crippling snowstorm forced cancellation of the 110th convention, which is held annually in East Lansing on the MSU campus. In planning for last weekend's 1979 convention, MPA officials had to determine if it would be the 110th or 111th convention.

After much deliberation, it was decided that last year's 110th convention would occur this year — the 110th year of The Record.

All of which doesn't mean much to anyone except to a guy like John Harrington, a former advertising manager of our papers who now owns and publishes The Genesee

Mayor Vernon reacts to DDA plan objections

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is a letter to the Downtown Development Authority from the authority chairman, Mayor Paul R. Vernon, in the wake of last week's 'chamber' of commerce meeting relative to the downtown plan.

A prior business commitment prevents me from attending this first meeting of the Downtown Development Authority after our unfortunate and most unpleasant experience at the quarterly dinner of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce. I would like to be with you but it is impossible so this letter is my way of communicating my comments and suggestions.

My immediate reaction to the abuse and insults, especially the inconsiderate laughter and ungrateful applause that accompanied each negative comment at the Chamber of Commerce quarterly dinner, was one of disbelief because we had attempted to keep everyone informed of our activities through newsletters and other information distributed to the downtown merchants, through extensive publicity in the Northville Record, by word-of-mouth conversation and by a public hearing held by City Council that had been well advertised throughout the community.

My disbelief turned to anger because if we were highly paid executives listening to a group of aroused stockholders the treatment we received might have been understandable but we were only a group of people who have spent untold, and unpaid, hours during the past eighteen months responding to a challenge to help the downtown business community.

Then my anger turned to discouragement because apparently results of those numerous hours of labor were unacceptable to the businessmen we were trying to help.

Because of that discouragement it was difficult for me to sleep so I sat in the quiet darkness contemplating what had just happened a few hours before and these are my conclusions.

Many of the negative attitudes toward the "mainstreet 78" plan as expressed by those who spoke and supported by audience reaction were probably more emotional than they were intellectual. There is good reason to believe some of those emotions had been stimulated by self-serving subversive activities of a downtown merchant who distributed inaccurate information and questioned the credibility of at least some members of the Downtown Development Authority.

If we do not act judiciously his self-serving actions will succeed in perpetuating the uncooperative attitudes of some downtown merchants toward any plan, although they will readily admit they need one, and further alienate others toward the "mainstreet 78" plan which will jeopardize its acceptance by voters in the upcoming election.

Because many of those who spoke against the plan are those who are most desperately in need of help from outside their businesses, I ask that you accept my belief their comments were emotionally inspired but at the same time recognize there were some suggestions to change the plan that deserve our serious consideration to make it acceptable to the entire community.

So you will understand my position, I have no objection to changing the plan to accommodate two-way traffic on Main Street and adjusting the parking provided the sidewalks can be widened and an acceptable amount of landscaping planted but I believe abandoning the town square concept would be a disservice to downtown shoppers we are attempting to attract and consequently to the merchants we are trying to help.

In closing I'd like to offer this thought. When we don't feel well we ask our doctor for advice. We don't always like the medicine he prescribes but we trust his judgment so we take it knowing it will make us feel better. In prescribing the "mainstreet 78" plan we are the doctor but the voters will decide whether or not they will take the medicine.

'sloppy snow job'

To the Editor:

As a concerned citizen I normally am in sympathy with city and county crews during snow storms.

For nine years I have lived on Seven Mile and each winter my drive has been plowed in after I shovel it. I realize that the street has to be plowed and the snow has to go somewhere. Such is life.

This past Thursday (letter received last week Tuesday) as I was getting ready to turn in my drive I saw my neighbor's car stuck on one side of the road and an accident on the other side. I couldn't pull into my drive. The Wayne County Road crew had plowed the shoulder of the road so hard the snow and ice were driven completely over the sidewalk onto my lawn. A police officer investigating the accident remarked that the plow job was a damned shame.

At this time a foreman from the county pulled up and I went over to ask him what kind of job was done on this road. He informed me he had worked 40 straight hours and was tired and that "YOU people don't appreciate what WE do for you."

He forgot to mention that he is not doing this for free, and all this time is being paid at overtime premium. I work for a utility and have worked several times around the clock on outages and can understand being tired, but that is no excuse for doing a sloppy, negligent job.

I am in good health and the extra shoveling will probably do me some good, but there are older people around who cannot shovel themselves out. I would urge the county to do a better job, and if better training and/or supervision is needed we should find this out before somebody gets hurt.

To the Editor:

Once again the Northville Record did it again! I do not understand your reason when there is coverage on a special event with pictures you will always show one party twice and leave others out.

Our daughter has been very active in school and community and a number of times her picture has been in the paper. In the past seven years we have noticed the pattern you followed.

The article on homecoming and pictures this year for Northville High school featured two sisters and did not show the homecoming court until a week after the event.

This week the bridal show was covered and in the article you mention Northville high school seniors but when it comes to pictures you feature one girl twice and not one girl from Northville High School. It would seem if there were eight models in the show there would be no need to picture one twice.

I read the paper weekly and find this occurs regularly and perhaps it is time someone bring it to your attention.

Thank you.

Supports super sewer

To the Editor:

The current crisis in wastewater control requires my endorsement of the Huron Valley Wastewater Control System, Alternative A, which is commonly referred to as the Super Sewer Plan. It would provide necessary capacity for suburban communities in Northwestern Wayne County. Alternative D, Proposed by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, has many serious deficiencies.

My particular concern centers upon the inadequacies of the Walled Lake Plant which, under Alternative D, could ultimately result in severe pollution in Waterford Lake and Phoenix Lake. Increased nutrient load will adversely affect water quality in the Middle Rouge River. Consequently, residents of Northville and Plymouth Townships should be aware of the documented proof presented by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, about the weaknesses in the EPA's position on expansion of the Walled Lake Plant. Capacity allocations for Northville, Plymouth, and Novi communities appear to be inadequate under Alternative D. Furthermore, unsewered areas will sustain serious health problems, without the completion of the Super Sewer Project.

If Northville Township is at full capacity with our normal 2.6 cfs, plus the special 5.41 cfs reserved for state institutions, then we are obviously in deep trouble, if we consider future health needs. In effect we are relying upon the reserved supply provided for state institutions to make it adequate for recent township growth. Therefore, without the super sewer project, we might arrive at a crisis in wastewater management within the near future.

Sincerely,
Larry D. VanderMolen

Jaycee aid lauded

To the Editor:

I want to publicly thank the Northville Jaycees for moving my mother into the Allen Terrace Apartments this past weekend. They have been moving senior citizens every weekend since November — giving up their leisure time to help those who need it and they ask for nothing in return. They were all so willing and cheerful. Most people today are so caught up in the rat-race that they have nothing left to give others — especially "for free". But not so with these Northville Jaycees. I've always supported them in their efforts and urge everyone else to do so. Bless them all!

Jaycees seek ideas

To the Editor:

It is with great pride and pleasure that I want to confirm the commitment of the Northville Jaycee Chapter to continue our efforts to assist with the improvement of the Northville community during Jaycee Week, 1979. The U.S. Jaycees are celebrating the founding of the U.S. Jaycee Organization in 1920 during Jaycee Week from January 21 to January 27. In this time we recognize our many contributions over the years.

I want to thank your readers and the entire Northville community for their overwhelming support of our efforts to serve their needs. There are so many silent partners who have helped to make our job fun, easier and meaningful. I am talking to the several merchants, residents organizations and government officials who have contributed of their time and efforts to make the many projects enjoyable and gratifying. This year the Northville Jaycees can reflect on their many accomplishments:

- The raising of $30,000 for needy people through the 'Walk' with $8,000 being returned for community projects and local charities.

- 10,000 people celebrated our Jaycee sponsored July 4th celebration attended by the Governor William Milliken and State Jaycee President Bob Vining.

- 4,000 people were entertained with music and merriment at our 2nd annual 'Fest' here in Northville.

- 3,000 children were thrilled by our 1st annual Haunted House co-sponsored by the March of Dimes.

- Representation at the State Junior Miss competition by a young Northville lady who shared her talent with the community.

- Hundreds of Northville residents donated toys for our 'Toys for Tots' project which made handicapped children at the Plymouth Center happier during Christmas.

- Construction of a playground for children at the historic Fish Hatchery Park generated by funds from the 'Walk'.

The president of the Michigan Jaycees, Bob Vining, chose 'Pride in People' as this year's theme. The Northville Jaycees are proud of the people in Northville. We are proud to serve in a community that is strong, healthy and growing.

In our celebration of Jaycee Week we are reminded of our primary purpose of 'Service to Humanity' and 'Development of our Young Men' in Northville. Please join with us in our celebration. If you have any ideas on how we can serve you better please feel free to drop us a line. Write, Northville Jaycees, Box 241, Northville, Michigan 48167.

Thank you Northville, for helping to make our Jaycee Week a proud and delightful time.

Happy New Year
Northville Jaycees

To the Editor:

As a police and fire dispatcher for Northville Township, I take great exception to your recent editorial of January 17, 1979 in the Northville Record.

As to your allegations that, "our (Northville Township) department chooses to compete with the troopers (Michigan State Police)," and, "rare is the day when the local police ask for state police assistance," they are both very erroneous assumptions on the part of a person who should be presenting facts as they actually exist.

In my job I have had numerous occasions to contact M.S.P. for assistance or back-up and each and every time have been told they had no available car to send; that their only car on the road was in court; that all of their cars were tied up on freeway patrol; and, one time, for a two car accident in Plymouth Township, I was informed that their only troopers on duty in this area were "eating dinner at the new Chinese restaurant next to McDonald's and had no preps (portable radio units) with which to contact them." Now, I have been down Five Mile near Haggerty many, many times and am totally unaware of any Chinese restaurant anywhere near McDonald's. Northville Township has 10 professionally trained police officers who offer high visibility both on an off duty. They know the area and they know the

Porter clan reminisces

Although many of the Porter children moved away from the farm in Blissfield, all of them remained closely attached to it. Homecomings were frequent.

Marion Porter so loved the farm that "almost every weekend he'd hitch up his horse and buggy and ride all the way from Northville to Blissfield. Later he drove his cars."

Roswell Howard and Edward B. remember that it was "on the farm where we spent some beautiful summers. The real treat for us, as youngsters, was the farm and visiting here in Northville and at the cottage at Walled Lake.

"There's little left of the farm now, so about all that remains of that fond period in our lives are the memories... of the farm and of the Northville we used to know."

'Moonies' trigger citizens complaints

"It bothers me but there's nothing we can do about it," said Northville City Clerk Joan McAllister Thursday in fielding citizen complaints about door-to-door solicitations by members of a reported religious cult.

She said young members of the Christian Unification Church, sometimes referred to as Moonies, have been soliciting donations for candy here.

Although no city permit was taken out, the clerk said the city is unable to stop the activity because the local ordinance exempts churches. Mrs. McAllister was informed by the attorney general's office that the organization has tax exempt status as a church and therefore state law permits solicitation without seeking permission of a local municipality.

The clerk said citizens did not complain about the behavior or appearance of the solicitors but rather expressed concern that they may try to influence young people to join their organization.

"I think local residents should request identification of those appearing at the door. If they have no objections and wish to donate, that's their business. But citizens should know who the solicitors are.

Literature of the group shows a Clawson post office box address. The listed telephone number, reports Michigan Bell, "has been changed to an unpublished number."

According to a spokesman for a local industry, one of the solicitors was ordered from the premises when she made an unauthorized entry inside the factory to speak with employees.

When questioned, the woman identified herself as Mary Jo Brown with the Holy Spirit Association of Christian youth. She also listed a Clawson box office address.

people, and I'm sure the amount of calls we receive from our citizens will attest to the fact that they, as residents of Northville Township, have respect for and confidence in "their" law enforcement officers.

As to the use of the services and facilities afforded the township by having the M.S.P. complex located in the heart of Northville Township and the insinuations you made by stating that "our department chooses to compete with the troopers," let me enlighten you. We maintain our own services and facilities on Six Mile Road and house (as does the City of Northville) M.S.P. prisoners because the state has no lodging facilities of their own. Imagine the possible inconvenience for the city if we didn't also have facilities to offer the state police.

As a resident of Plymouth Township let me offer my opinion and view of services provided for those residents by the state and/or county. In the past seven years I have requested the assistance of the state police twice. The first time they never responded (we were holding a teenager in my home who was destroying property in the neighborhood at 2:00 a.m.) and we alternately called the county, who arrived after a forty minute wait. The second time I called the state police because of a bulldozer left running unattended on a path through a construction site which was the only access to the grade school and the daily route walked by many young children. M.S.P. finally responded after a second call and over an hour wait.

Based on these two incidents and others related to me in the past by various residents, you are correct when you say, "Plymouth Township has no police force," and I for one, as a resident of that area, don't like the feeling it gives me.

Your responsibility as a contributing member of the news media lies with presenting the public with facts based on accurate data obtained from reliable sources, not from fantasies you have conjured up in your own mind for whatever personal reasons you may have.

In closing, Mr. Sliger, may I say that I heartily invite you to publish this in your "Letters to the Editor."

Three Northville residents were among the 1,460 Western Michigan University students on the dean's list for the fall semester.

Valerie Ann Laponsey, 21116 Eastfarm Jo Ann Burghard, 20852 East Chigwidden Drive, and Brian Kramer, 16560 White Haven, all compiled a 3.5 grade point average or better for at least 14 hours of graded work.

Private Nathaniel J. Hay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Hay, 354 North Rogers, recently was assigned as a military policeman with the 385th Military Police Battalion in Augsburg, Germany.

He said planners should also consider their feelings about revising the township's holding capacity, as could be done by developing more non-residential uses of land.

Vilcan said he would like to see a control on density, rather than lot size, because such control could give better design, especially in the township's hilly areas.

Chairman William Bohan said he personally would like the lowest possible density in Northville Township. Vilcan suggested planners take a field trip to Bloomfield Township to see examples of density control in land uses.

Township Engineer William Mosher said, "In a way we are working in a vacuum because we don't know where we stand on the potential of getting rid of our sewage." He said he felt the township "must be optimistic" about future sewers availability and still go forward with plans for future development.

Chiefs explode in 2nd down Mustangs by 14

Butch King and the Plymouth Canton Chiefs proved tough in the clutch last Friday night, and Northville suffered the consequences.

Stymied by an uncharacteristic collapse in the third quarter, the Mustangs went down to a 62-48 defeat at the hands of league-leading Canton, costing them a chance to tie for first place in the Western Six basketball race.

The loss left the local squad with a 3-2 league record at the midpoint of the season, while the Chiefs remained unbeaten at 5-0.

Northville seemingly had things under control throughout the first half, edging out to leads of 13-12 and 28-27 in the opening two quarters. A pair of quick buckets by Bob Crisan and Dave Ward at the start of the second half made it 32-27, and moments later the Mustangs had the ball again with a chance to pad their lead.

But that's when the roof caved in on the local cagers.

Taking advantage of a series of Northville turnovers, Canton reeled off 13 unanswered points in the middle of the third quarter, and the Mustangs never recovered. King, the Chief's hot-shooting All-League guard, had a string of four consecutive baskets, all from well outside the key, during the surge and finished as the game's leading scorer with 24 points.

By the end of the third quarter Canton had a commanding 46-39 lead, and Northville never got closer than five in the final stanza.

"It looked like we just stopped moving the ball down the floor," Coach Tim Lutes said of his team's third-quarter breakdown, particularly surprising in light of the Mustangs' recent success in that period. Between Christmas and last Friday Northville had allowed just 50 points in five games during the third quarter.

"If we'd been able to keep up our first-half tempo, I feel we could have won," Lutes reflected. "The momentum of the game switched so completely around, it just deflated our kids."

"I think the key thing was that we started turning the ball over (Northville had six turnovers, including five bad passes, in the last six minutes of the third quarter). I felt that we lost our poise, we lost our control."

"We started thinking about our turnovers too much and forgetting to play aggressive defense. King is a good shooter, there's no doubt about it, but we were letting him shoot. Once a ball player like that starts shooting without having to think about it, without having a hand or arm shoved in front of his face, he's going to score a lot."

King wound up with 12 points in all during the third quarter, hitting six of nine shots from the floor. As a team the Chiefs were nine of 20 from the field during that time, while Northville was five of 12.

After falling behind by nine, 50-41, early in the fourth quarter, the Mustangs rallied to within five on two quick baskets by Crisan and Joe Schimpf near the six-minute mark. Canton went on an 8-2 scoring surge in the next two and a half minutes, though, to put the game on ice.

Northville dug its grave even deeper by missing the front end of three one-and-one situations during the last five minutes of the game.

The local squad had led during much of the early going, building a 15-12 edge in the second quarter before Canton raced off with seven straight points to go up by four, 19-15.

The lead see-sawed the rest of the quarter. Jeff Norton gave the Mustangs their one-point halftime edge on a driving lay-up with three seconds left, following a steal and a perfect feed by Chris Campbell.

Norton finished as the team's leading scorer with 14 points, while Schimpf added eight, Ward seven, and Crisan, Greg Suckow and Mike Wagner six each. Ward also snared nine rebounds.

"I don't think we played as well as we had in our last three ball games," Lutes said later in assessing the defeat. "I think the kids were ready to play, but we had a little bit of a breakdown in execution. I was a little disappointed with our offense."

"But the fact remains we lost to a real fine ball club, and we hung in there well. Canton is very quick, very talented, and they're a really good defensive club, better than I thought. Their zone was very effective, and we just weren't attacking it well."

The loss left the Mustangs 6-5 overall on the season. This Friday they'll begin the second half of their Western Six slate when they host Walled Lake Western, which won 57-43 when the two clubs met in early December. Western is 1-4 in the league and 2-9 overall this year.

Jayvees rally in 4th quarter

The junior varsity Mustangs put new life into their hopes for a Western Six basketball title last Friday, turning a fourth-quarter surge into a 61-52 victory over previously unbeaten Plymouth Canton.

Led by Dave Greer, Duke DuSablón and Greg May, the local cagers outscored the league-leading Chiefs 17-6 in the final eight minutes, wiping out a 46-44 deficit and posting their third triumph in five league games this season. Canton is now 4-1.

"It was a big win for us," Coach Omar Harrison said afterwards, noting that the Mustangs will get another shot at Canton in the season finale. "The key factor in the game was our defense."

"We came out in a 2-3 zone, and I think that might have surprised them a little bit. In the last quarter we used a half-court press part of the time, and that worked real well for us."

Canton, in fact, hit only one of 12 field goal attempts in the fourth quarter while Northville was five of nine.

The game was nip-and-tuck throughout the first three quarters. Northville had one-point leads after each of the first two stanzas (17-16 and 31-30), but fell behind by two (46-44) before turning on the steam in the final period.

Greer, DuSablón, and May combined for all but eight of the team's points.

Greer, getting back to full strength after suffering torn ligaments in his ankle early in the season, topped both clubs with 23 points, shooting 63 percent (10 of 16) from the floor. DuSablón added 16 points and May 14.

DuSablón controlled the boards with 13 rebounds, while Greer nabbed eight and May seven.

Harrison also credited Gary Kucher, Todd Jennings and Kevin Swayne with strong floor games.

The Mustangs, now 8-3 overall on the season, will be seeking vengeance this Friday when they host Walled Lake Western. Western upset Northville with a last-minute 70-69 victory in early December, the same game in which Greer was injured.

Next Tuesday the local squad will take to the road with a non-league contest at Livonia Franklin.

Mustang gymnasts start strong

Northville's gymnasts may not be rolling up the victories, but there's no doubt the local girls are an improved bunch over previous teams.

The Mustangs have lost three of their first four meets this season, but in two of those losses set school records.

After opening the season with a 77.05-62.40 loss to Plymouth Canton, the girls posted the highest score ever for a Northville team in a 95.5-68.6 defeat at the hands of state powerhouse Bloomfield Hills Lahser. Two vaulters — Sue Kinnaid (7.9) and Amy Missel (7.5) — cleared state qualifying marks for the Mustangs, while Joanne Hendricks (7.0) and Kinnaid (6.9) turned in impressive performances in floor exercise.

Last Monday Northville won its first meet of the year with a 65.2-41.4 victory over Plymouth Salem. The Mustangs swept the top three positions in all four events, with Kinnaid (7.1 in vault), Sally Nair (4.65 in uneven bars), Hollie Rayercraft (6.0 on balance beam) and Britt Evans (7.2 in floor exercise) leading the way. Evans became the third Northville girl to hit a state qualifying mark with her 7.2.

And last Wednesday the local squad shattered their own school scoring record again in a 79.75-69.90 loss to Dearborn. "We didn't have our best meet of the season, but our scores were very steady," Coach Jack Townsley said of the meet.

Kinnaid placed second (6.70) in vault, Rayercraft third (6.1) on the uneven bars, and Evans tied for second (6.7) in floor exercise to pace the Northville efforts. The Mustangs travel to Birmingham Groves this afternoon.

3 make finals

Grapplers 10th at Adams

Despite losing three wrestlers to injuries and going into the meet without anyone seeded higher than third, Northville's matmen came home with three second-place medals and a 10th-place finish at the tough 25-team Rochester Adams Invitational last weekend.

The Mustangs also had an important Western Six meet scheduled against Walled Lake Western last week, but that was postponed when Walled Lake bus drivers refused to drive to Northville because drivers refused to drive to Northville because of road conditions.

"We didn't do too bad, considering the competition," Coach Gary Emerson said of Northville's performance at Rochester. "Everybody was bunched in there real tight after the top three teams, and I think we would've had a good shot of finishing fourth had two or three more guys been healthy."

The Mustangs wound up with 95 points in the meet, 63 points behind tourney champion Montrose but only 23 points in back of fourth-place Howell. And they were competing without the services of Steve Morgan, Don Lucas and Matt Baker — all three were regulars with winning records totalling 50-19 — who came down with various ailments during the week.

Bill Blanchard, Mike Lurvey and Scott Morgan were the team's second-place finishers, while Jack Lancaster added a fourth medal by placing fifth in the heavyweight division.

Blanchard, seeded only fifth in the 105-pound bracket, swept through his first three matches on decisions, including an 8-5 upset over top-seeded Brian Crawford of Ann Arbor Huron in the semis, before losing 7-1 in the finals to Bloomfield Hills Lahser's Marty Moran, a 98-pound state champ last year.

Lurvey, meanwhile, won, his first three matches before dropping an 8-1 decision to Oscoda's Steve Gray in the 126-pound finals. Seeded only third, the senior co-captain knocked off the second seed en route to the finals and was actually leading 1-0 over Gray, the flight's top seed, going into the third period.

Perhaps the Mustangs' biggest surprise, though, came in the 165-pound flight, where sixth-seeded Scott Morgan advanced all the way to the finals before losing on a pin to Howell's Darryl Wellman. Wellman was third in the state last year and came into the tournament unbeaten. Morgan, now 22-11 this season, had beaten both the third seed (8-4) and the second seed (pin) on his way to the finals.

In the heavyweight division Lancaster finished fifth, matching his seeding, but just missed a shot at the finals himself. After winning his first match 8-0, the senior grappler lost a heartbreaker to unseeded Mark Vance of Waterford Mott, a wrestler he'd already beaten earlier in the season, on a pin.

Lancaster was leading 6-5 with less than 30 seconds to go in the match when he was pinned. He recovered by beating his next two opponents for fifth place, but Vance easily won his next match and may well have been the flight champion had he gotten the chance to wrestle "once more" in the finals. Because he was unseeded and had already wrestled four times, though, the Mott heavyweight was awarded second place without a shot at the finals.

Two other Northville matmen, 112-pounder Paul Raczowski and 119-pounder Steve Platte, also wrestled well but just missed placing among the top six (they both won their first two matches but then lost twice to high seeds), and all but two of the Mustangs' entrants managed to win at least their first match.

"I thought they did a real fine job out there," Emerson said of his team's efforts. "We're still coming along, improving all the time, and we'd like to be at our peak for the league meet (February 10)."

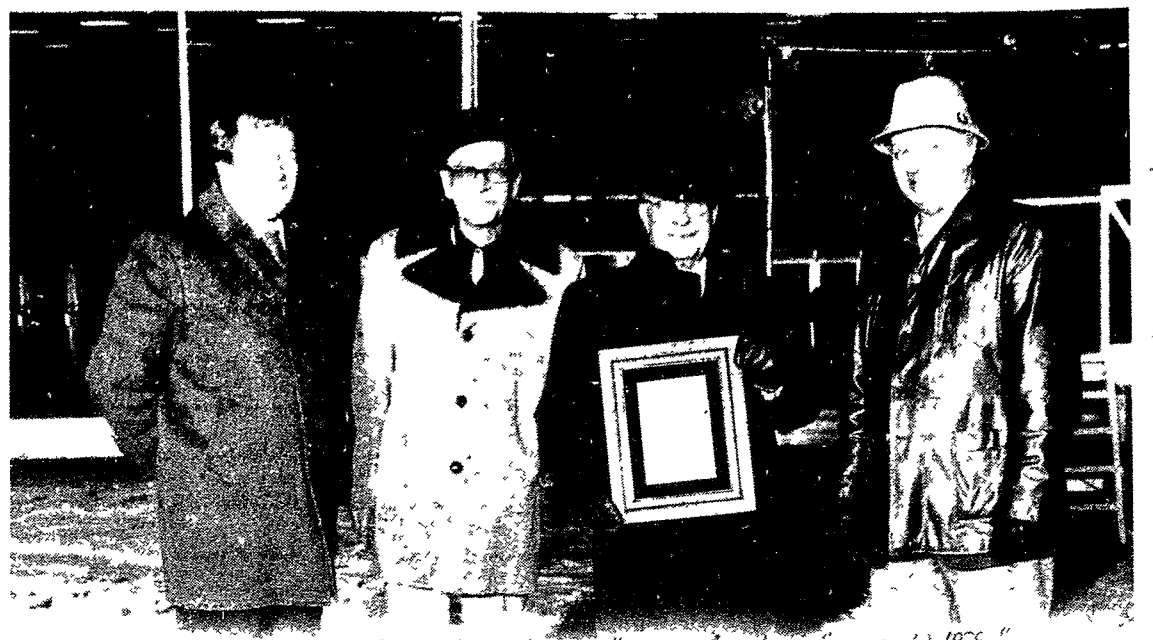

The Mustangs' next meet takes place tomorrow, when they host Plymouth Canton in their final Western Six dual meet of the season. This Saturday they'll host a quadrangular involving Novi, Mt. Clemens Chippewa Valley and Rochester Adams beginning at noon.

Wrestling meet is rescheduled

Last Thursday's Walled Lake Western-Northville wrestling meet, postponed because of poor road conditions in Walled Lake, has been rescheduled for next Wednesday (February 7) at 5 p.m.

Northville will host the meet, a key match-up in this year's Western Six title race.

The swimming meet scheduled with Walled Lake Western was also postponed, and has been rescheduled here for Monday, March 5, at 7 p.m.

Most valuable swimmer

Roggenbuck honored at banquet

Kyle Roggenbuck was one of several girls honored at the Northville girls' swimming team's annual awards banquet at Meads Mill last Tuesday night.

The senior co-captain, who's been competing for the Mustangs' varsity since her freshman year, was honored as the team's most valuable swimmer as well as Northville's top senior point-getter last fall. Her efforts helped the local girls to a perfect 12-0 record in dual meets, a Western Six championship and a third-place finish in the Class A state finals, the team's best season ever.

Other girls honored at the banquet included Sue Cahill (500-yard freestyle state champion and top junior point-getter), Allyson Farquhar (top sophomore point-getter), and divers Hollie Raycraft and Sue Kinnaird (most improved Mustangs).

In addition, the swimmers awarded Coach Ben Lauber with a plaque honoring him as the Detroit News' 1978 Coach of the Year.

She stars for Illinois

Vida Mikalonis, who set several school records with Northville girls' swimming team before graduating last year, helped Illinois State's squad to an easy 85-46 victory over Indiana State last week, lifting the Redbirds' overall record this season to 5-2.

Mikalonis won two individual events in the meet — the 50-yard butterfly and the 100-yard backstroke — and swam the fly on the team's winning 200-yard medley relay quartet. Teammate Ann Suau, who won three individual events and anchored the medley relay, was the only swimmer with more victories in the meet.

Mikalonis' school records at Northville in the backstroke and as a member of the Mustangs' medley relay unit in 1977 still stand.

Rafail leads 'Y' gymnasts

Beth Rafail of Northville Township helped the Livonia Family Y Twisters gymnastics team dominate the 10-and-under competition of an all-optional meet against Birmingham last Thursday, but the Class III girls lost in the overall scoring, 106.65-100.05.

Rafail captured first place on the uneven bars and balance beam, third in floor exercise and finished with a first place in all-around competition for the Twisters' top individual performance of the day. Jeannine Burgess and Lynsey Myers, both of Livonia, finished second and third respectively in the all-around competition.

Birmingham dominated the 10-12 and 12-14 year-old divisions, however. In the 14-and-over category Linda Caury of the Twisters, also from Northville, was uncontested.

OLV wins by 1 in last minute

Chris Wagner's driving lay-up with 27 seconds left to play gave Our Lady of Victory a dramatic 46-45 victory over the Falcons of Dearborn Divine Child Saturday night. The win kept the Northville squad on top of the West Suburban CYO league standings.

It was a close game until the third period, when Wagner and Ray McDonough blitzed Divine Child's solid defense for 14 points and a 36-29 lead.

But the Dearborn team refused to fold, and at the two-minute mark of the fourth quarter 6-2 center Mike O'Hagen rammed home a shot to give the visiting Falcons their first lead of the contest, 41-40. Two more Divine Child baskets were answered by a Wagner field goal and two foul shots that set the stage for the winning bucket.

Wagner scored 18 of his game-high 20 points in the second half, constantly driving through the Falcon defense for lay-ups and short jumpers.

McDonough scored six of his 10 points on offensive rebounds to keep the Cougars in the game against their taller opponents. Terry Nadeau chipped in 10 points and Dave Bach six to round out the scoring for the winners.

OLV's fifth and sixth graders, meanwhile, kept their league record unblemished with a 31-29 triumph over their counterparts from Divine Child.

The victors surged to a 12-6 halftime lead and were never headed. Fred Cook and Greg Wendel notched nine points apiece to lead the Cougars while McGrath added seven, Pat Wagner five and Mike Dewan one.

OLV controlled the boards as well, with McGrath snaring 15 rebounds, Wendel 13, Cook seven and Wagner six.

Earlier in the week the seventh and eighth graders had come up flat in a non-league contest, losing a 36-34 cliffhanger to Plymouth's Our Lady of Good Counsel in a game played at Redford Bishop Borgess High School. It was the third straight non-league defeat for the Cougars.

This time they lost the game when the Plymouth club netted two free throws with just four seconds remaining.

Down and out

The wheels of fortune just haven't been spinning in the Bobcats' direction in fifth-sixth grade youth basketball action this season. Maybe that's what Mike Bates is thinking about in the above picture, snapped by Record photographer Dave Turnley at a recent contest. The Bobcats have lost four straight games, including a 25-24 heartbreaker against the Rockets last Saturday, when the 'Cats saw a nine-point lead disappear in the fourth quarter.

Titans, Badgers win again

Youth showdown looms

The Titans and Badgers are heading for a showdown.

The two youth recreation basketball teams, both unbeaten in four games this winter, posted impressive victories in fifth-sixth grade action at Meads Mill last Saturday, setting the stage for a first-place battle this weekend. They'll square off at 12:45 p.m. Saturday.

The Titans, led by Matt Peltz, breezed to a 31-8 triumph over the Spartans while the Badgers, breaking open a close game in the fourth quarter, picked up a 21-14 win over the Sun Devils.

The Titans led all the way in their victory, storming out to a 21-0 halftime advantage and coasting the rest of the way. Peltz netted 11 points for the winners while Gary Lampela and Joe Vogt added six each.

The Badgers, meanwhile, needed a big fourth quarter to put the Sun Devils away. Leading 15-13 after three stanzas, the winners went on a 6-1 scoring run down the stretch to wrap things up. Scott Gray had 10 points to pace the Badgers while Scott MacLean notched seven for the Sun Devils.

In other fifth-sixth grade action last weekend the Trojans edged the Bulldogs, 23-20; the Rockets squeaked by the Bobcats, 25-24; and the Mustangs trimmed the Wolverines, 29-27.

Doug Hartman and Doug May tallied six points each in pacing the Trojans, now 3-1 this season. Kirk Morrison had eight points and Fred Cahill six for the losers.

Chris Hauser was the hero in the Rockets' triumph. With the Bobcats leading 20-11 going into the final stanza, Hauser scored 14 straight points — that's right, 14 straight points — to rally his team to its third victory in four games. Hauser wound up with 22 points in all, the top scoring effort by any fifth-sixth grader this season, while Bob Baird had 10 points for the Bobcats.

Churchill rolls over Mustangs

Northville's hopes for a volleyball upset over defending league champion Livonia Churchill apparently didn't set too well with the Chargers last Thursday.

Churchill, whose only league defeat last season came against Northville, breezed to an easy 15-6, 15-1 triumph, handing the Mustangs their second Western Six loss in three outings.

"There's not much you can say," a disappointed Coach Steve McDonald said of his team's performance. "The girls started off like they were going to play well, but they sort of fell apart after awhile."

Early last year Northville had edged Churchill in a dramatic 15-13, 15-17, 15-12 contest.

But the Mustangs somewhat offset last week's loss at Churchill with a 15-10, 15-6 home court triumph over Wall-ed Lake Western four days later.

"We played much better, we played with more intensity," McDonald remarked later. "It seems like we've

Recreation briefs

This Saturday is the final sign-up session for youngsters who want to take part in the recreation department's junior baseball program this summer.

Registration will take place between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. in the recreation offices, located at the corner of Wing and Main Streets. Anyone who missed last weekend's final soccer registration session can be put on a waiting list. Call the recreation department at 349-0203 for further details.

The rec department is still looking for coaches to help out with its junior baseball program this year.

Anyone interested in coaching in the program, which is open to youngsters aged 16 and under, should contact Wade Deal at 348-1129. Practices for the various junior baseball leagues will start in the early spring.

Anyone interested in helping out with the youth soccer program should contact Al Hauser at 349-1287.

Four coaches are needed in the program's eight-and-under division, three are needed in the 10-and-under girls' division, one in the 10-and-under boys' division, one in the 12-and-under boys' division, and one in the 14-and-under boys' division.

A total of 642 youngsters have registered for the program, which begins action this spring. Forty Northville teams will compete in the Western Suburban League, which includes squads from all over the western metropolitan area.

The recreation department's open swimming program is taking place between 8:30 and 9:30 p.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays now instead of between 7 and 8 p.m.

Open swimming is also being offered on Saturdays between 3:30 p.m. and 5 p.m. The fees are 50 cents for children, 75 cents for adults and $1.50 for families during the week and 65 cents for children, $1 for adults and $2 for families on Saturdays.

Organizational meetings for adults interested in playing men's, women's or co-ed softball this summer will take place next week.

The women's softball meeting will be at 7 p.m. next Tuesday (February 6), the co-ed meeting at 8 p.m. next Tuesday, and the men's meeting at 7 p.m. next Wednesday (February 7).

All three will be held in the recreation offices. For further information call 349-0203.

Athletes of the week

BILL BLANCHARD

Bill Blanchard has high hopes of going one step up on his second-place finish in last year's Western Six Wrestling meet, and on the basis of his performance so far his chances certainly look good. The senior 105-pounder is Northville's top match winner with a 28-8 record this season, he's unbeaten in league competition, and he's been particularly impressive in tournaments. At last weekend's 25-team Rochester Adams Invitational, for instance, Blanchard was seeded only fifth but placed second in the 105 bracket when he decimated three straight opponents, including the flight's top-seeded wrestler, before losing to a defending state champ in the finals.

SUZIE HEINZMAN

Susie Heinzman has been a definite plus for Northville's varsity volleyball squad over the past two years, and the senior co-captain showed why last Monday. Sparked by her strong all-around performance, the Mustangs knocked off Western Six foe Walled Lake Western in straight sets, 15-10 and 15-6. Coach Steve McDonald was particularly impressed with Heinzman's setting abilities, but noted she also played a strong all-around game. Heinzman was a starter for the Mustangs last year as well.

McDonald credited Susie Heinzman with a particularly strong game in both setting and serving.

Youth basketball round-up

Big scorers highlight cage action

Hauser wasn't the only hot shooter last weekend, though.

Todd Thomas matched Hauser's scoring output with 22 points of his own in leading the Mustangs to their first victory of the year. Eighteen of those came in the first half, staking the winners to a 24-14 advantage at intermission. Drew Paredes had eight points for the Wolverines.

In other youth basketball action, meanwhile, the Badgers took over sole possession of first place in the seventh-grade circuit with a 38-27 triumph over the Hawks while the Bullets stayed right on their heels by edging the Knicks, 21-17; and in third-fourth grade action the Cougars beat the Wolverines, 18-11; the Vikings knocked off the Warriors, 20-8; and the Falcons swept past the Spartans, 22-3.

The Badgers raced out to an 18-8 lead after one quarter en route to their victory, hiking their record to 3-1. Bob Pote had 12 points, Scott Bush 11 and Mike Weber nine for the winners, while Ernie Bock paced the Hawks with 12.

The Bullets, now 2-2, were led by Mike Wissman, who scored all six of his points in the second quarter to give the winners a 14-6 halftime bulge. John Quinn netted 10 for the Knicks.

The Cougars stayed unbeaten after four games with their third-fourth grade league victory. Sean McLaughlin notched 11 points and Phil Isom seven to account for all the Cougars' scoring, while (Doug) Ayers tossed in 10 for the Wolverines.

The Vikings remained tied for second place with the Falcons at 3-1 after their win over the Warriors. Doug Martin had six points to pace the winners.

Ron Decker gets B.S. music degree

RONALD DECKER

Ronald Decker has graduated from Bryan College with the B.S. degree in music education.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Dwane Decker, 23722 Heartwood, Northville, he was chosen choir member of the year at Bryan, and also sang with the madrigals and gospel messengers summer team.

Trooper Matz wins promotion

FREDERICK MATZ

Trooper Specialist Frederick Matz, 30, of Northville's Michigan State Police post was one of eight officers whose promotions were announced last week by Colonel Gerald Hough, department director.

Matz was promoted to Sergeant III as polygraph examiner with the forensic science division.

He will remain at the Northville post.

Salary miscue

The size of pay increases for two administrators in Northville's special education program was incorrectly reported in last week's Record.

Special Education Coordinator Clark Kelly, who is at the top step of the salary schedule, received a 6 1/2 percent raise.

Coordinator for Business and Operations John Flaughner, who was a half-step from the top level last year, received about an eight percent wage improvement.

Park Gardens sewers may get federal grant funds

Unless some major change occurs, Northville Township officials are expected to earmark nearly all of its anticipated block grant revenues for sanitary sewer development in the Five Mile Road area night.

In the first of two public hearings on uses for the federal block grant monies, the board last week indicated it probably will give first priority to the sewer development.

Purpose of last week's meeting was to hear public suggestions for the use of the estimated $99,000 the township will receive for each of the next three years.

Most of those suggestions revolved around the sewer project, although a few persons suggested some of the money might better be used for development of a comprehensive recreational master plan.

The township board last year also gave sewers for the Park Garden subdivision area top priority. A total of $216,000 already has been earmarked for the project.

According to township officials, the monies are to be used for development of the main trunkline and improvement of an existing booster station at the southeastern corner of the subdivision. Lateral lines and sewer taps within the subdivision, however, are to be paid by the property owners through special assessments.

Preliminary engineering and planning already is underway, and Township

Engineer Bill Mosher predicted that some of the construction or improvement work will get underway before the end of this year.

Mosher and other officials stressed that the pollution problem, resulting from inadequate drainage and sanitary disposal facilities, make this project an "absolutely essential" one.

When one citizen took the township to task for its slowness in using federal funds in the past to begin construction, the engineer pointed out that much of the delay occurred because the township had held out hope Plymouth Township would permit Northville to use its sewer system, thus substantially reducing the cost of sewer development in the Park Garden area.

Several times during the course of negotiations with Northville, Plymouth officials had "held out hope" that use of their sewer system might be possible. Eventually, those hopes were erased, however, and Northville had no other choice but to develop its own system for the subdivision, it was explained.

Nevertheless, township officials were reminded that last year's commitment to Park Gardens did not initially carry board urgency since there was a period when it proposed using the money for development of a township library building instead.

Public opposition to the library project persuaded the board to seek an alternative use for the monies.

Besides Park Gardens, last year's priorities included purchase of land for a township fire station in the western part of the township; site expansion for the township civic center complex; extension of Winchester Drive to Seven Mile Road; and reviewing of the township master plan.

Supervisor Donald Thomson expressed disappointment because so few persons from the subdivision attended last week's hearing. Seven persons said they represented the subdivision, but the supervisor said flyers concerning the meeting had been passed out to more than 100 persons.

Nevertheless, Trustee John Swienckowski, echoing the contention of officials, said "no other area carries a greater priority."

The fact that subdivision property owners will eventually have to pay an assessment for lateral lines is not likely to deter the subdivision's demand for sewers, one official observed.

"That's (assessments) the least of my concerns," said the engineer, "because they have been pleading for help year after year. It's a degraded area because of the sewer problem."

The engineer predicted that once sewers are installed values on homes located there will increase by $5,000 immediately.

Tonight's hearing will get underway at 7:30 p.m. in the township hall.

Geake gets Senate appropriations plum

State Senator Robert Geake has been appointed to the prestigious Senator Appropriations Committee for the new legislative session.

The Senate and House appropriations committees bear the responsibility for determining how state tax dollars are to be allocated each fiscal year.

The Northville Republican will also serve on the appropriations subcommittees on higher education, mental health, safety, defense and state police, and government computers coordination.

Due to the heavy and time-consuming workload which members of the appropriations committee must manage, Geake will no longer serve on the Senate standing committees on education, health and social services, energy, and Senate business. He said he will continue to remain actively involved in legislation pertaining to his former committee assignments, however.

In light of voter approval of the Headlee Tax Limitation Amendment last November, Geake said he expects the appropriations committee to review the budget requests of state departments "with a fine-tooth comb" this year.

Geake, who was recently elected to his second term in the Senate, was a major proponent of tax limitation. He was one of the founders of the citizens group which initiated the Headlee Amendment and frequently spoke in favor of the proposal to area organizations prior to the election.

"I intend to be a strong spokesman on behalf of fiscal responsibility," Geake emphasized. "The people of our state have clearly told the Legislature that they want state taxes and expenditures curtailed. I will be working to assure that our citizens' tax dollars are allocated wisely and efficiently."

Geake said he will continue to be a strong advocate of improved mental health services as a member of the appropriations mental health subcommittee. During his tenure in the legislature, Geake has become recognized as the Senate's leading spokesman on behalf of mental health.

GOOD YEAR ONLY AT YOUR "WAREHOUSE" TIRE DEALER

Old elixirs could cure what ails you

By NANCY DINGELDEY

A dried rhubarb root on a string around your neck will ward off the stomachache. Likewise, a clove of garlic around the neck will chase away demons and illness — as well as all close friends.

An even worse amulet is an aseptic bag, again hung around the neck, that is said to "stink like the devil" but believed to be a cure-all for everything and anything. Although a specific recipe for the evil smelling fetish lies in the hands of the maker, it is thought the stench comes from the rancid goose grease or lard that was its base material.

The actual medicinal properties of the hanging objects is questionable but to the wearers they imparted a mental state of well-being and security.

Although usage of home remedies tends to be frowned upon in the current state of medical technology, many of the composition drugs available "over the counter" today can trace their lineage to some of the time-honored home cures.

Even prescription drugs have their beginnings in the recipes handed down from generation to generation almost since the beginning of time. Far more sophisticated and refined than Grandma's tonics, elixirs and doses, most are compounded from synthetic chemicals based on simple herbs.

The extract of Foxglove, digitalis, remains now, as it has for centuries, among the most effective heart medications known. Some of the most powerful painkillers — opium and morphine are derivatives of the opium poppy. Half the herbs known and used by Hippocrates centuries before the discovery of America remain listed in the most modern editions of "Materia Medica."

With few doctors available, early Americans relied on their knowledge of herbs to prevent and cure illness and disease. The first gardens planted by Colonists contained both kitchen and medicinal herbs, the seeds of which were guarded during the long sea voyage to the New World.

Native plants were soon added to the list of remedies and included in the recipes. As the country grew, the trade of herbs grown in the north to those of the south was a priority item on the peddler's wagon.

The Shaker's became the first professional herbalists in this country. They made the growing and marketing of medicinal herbs and drug plants a profitable business. Converted into salves, ointments, pills, powders and patent medicines, the merchandising reached its pinnacle by 1820. The business grew into the harvesting of seeds which were in turn sold to the farmer — the beginning of the garden-seed industry in America.

Settlers learned to look to the fields, woods and forests for the products needed to prevent illness and cure their families. Spring became the time to refresh the spirit and tone the system with a tonic. Mountain people used teas as beverages and as tonics. Sassafras, a real favorite, was viewed as a blood purifier, tonic and "sweater-outer" of fevers. It was said that to drink Sassafras during the month of March would alleviate the need for a doctor all year.

Spring brought a fresh supply of "pothebs," "greens," "garden sass," or "sallet," a group of green plants high in vitamins and minerals.

Some of the gatherings brought with them their own problems that also instituted the need for a cure or remedy. Among them was the pokeweed. The shoots when very young and tender are edible but the plant becomes poisonous after it grows over a foot high.

"A mess of poke each spring," said one mountain doctor, "is worth all the medicine you can buy." Viewed as the best spring tonic ever, the weed is rich in vitamin C. But eaters were cautioned by the doctor "never to eat poke sallet raw — if you do you'll get poisoned." The remedy: drink lots of vinegar which will kill the poison and eat about a pound of lard.

Remedies were not confined strictly to the medicinal. Cosmetics and beauty concoctions for everything from removing wrinkles to curing pimples, warts, freckles and the like were common, items in each household. A host of beauty preparations today again have their roots in Americana history.

Beauty aids on the market today are not the result of scientific technology. Recipes for strawberry facials, lemon shampoos and rinses, cucumber packs, and milk baths are contained in books dating back to the late 1800's.

Even today, people are searching, concocting and trying the multitude of home remedy recipes in those books. Many claim them better than anything available. Some mothers contend that burnt flour as a cure for diaper rash brings far better results than any prescribed salve, ointment or powder. Mosquito bites are not a nuisance when treated with a dab of water and a dash of monosodium glutamate (Accent).

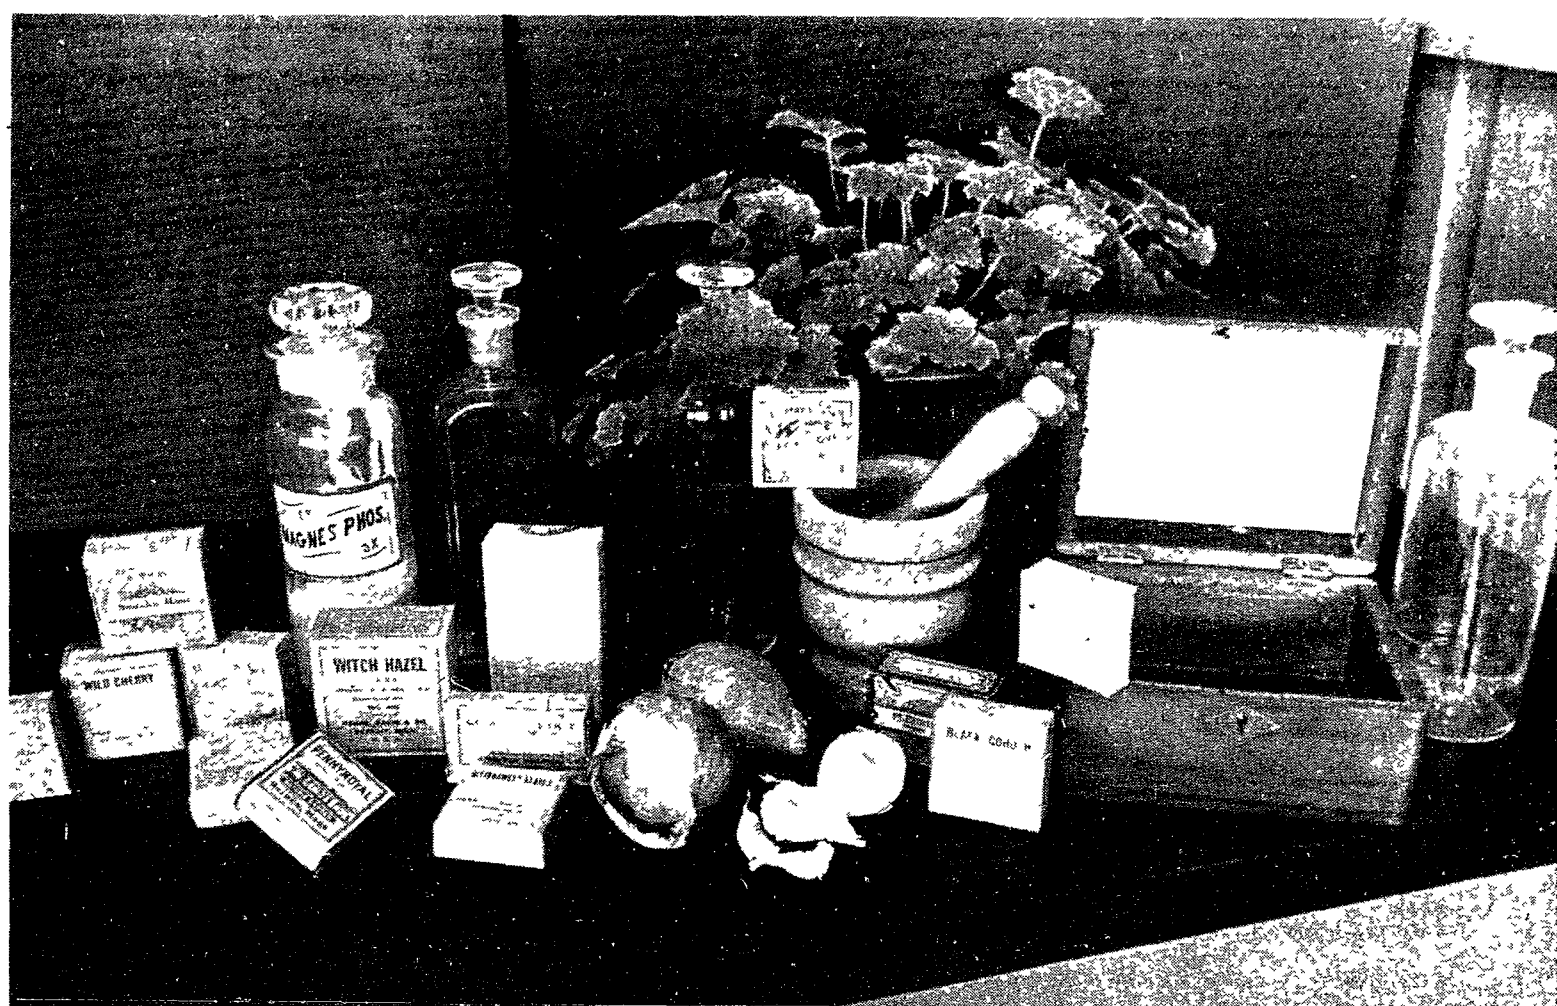

Research has confirmed the skin-softening qualities claimed for honey and egg yolks; floral waters along with cucumbers have special values for cooling, nourishing and toning the skin. Modern specialists have also recognized vinegar, herbs, egg white, oils, fruits and seeds for their useful properties. Camphor, mint and alum have special effects as astringents and toners.

Others maintain that an ounce of cognac in the morning and again at night substantially applied to a severe bruise removes the discoloration, while the edible fruit unclots the blood.

As for the old saying "an apple a day keeps the doctor away" there is little basis in fact. Appearing low on the list of vitamin and mineral content, the apple does little more than add necessary bulk or fiber to the diet.

One simple truth always followed the home remedy no matter the education of the person providing the cure: provide immediate and intelligent attention to the problem.

The home remedy also included diet, fresh air and exercise along the pathway to successful treatment.

'A mess of poke each spring is worth all the medicine. . .'

Michigan press contest

Sliger papers win 10 awards

The four Sliger Home Newspapers walked away with 10 awards — including three firsts — in the Michigan Press Association's 1978 Newspaper Contests, according to results announced last week.

The four community weekly newspapers — Northville Record, Novi-

Walled Lake News, Brighton Argus and South Lyon Herald — captured three first place certificates, two seconds, four thirds and one honorable mention.

Nearly 90 Michigan newspapers competed in seven classes determined by size of circulation.

The Northville Record won four awards including first place for use of pictures, first place for typography, second place for sports coverage and honorable mention in the "Enterprise" category for a story written by Lenore Bechtel.

Mrs. Bechtel's story involved a hypothetical criminal case that was presented to district court judge candidates who were then asked how they would rule on it.

The Brighton Argus won two awards including first place in use of pictures and third for a feature picture page by David Turnley about a new method of teaching children how to play the violin.

In its first year of competition, the Novi-Walled Lake News won three awards.

The News was second in use of pictures and third in typography. Sports Editor Alan Schultz took third for his "Enterprise" story about a girl basketball player who was injured in a locker room fight.

The South Lyon Herald took third place in use of pictures.

The contest was judged by Michigan State University School of Journalism graduate students and staff.

The judges received more than 300 entries from 64 weekly and 25 daily newspapers. They awarded 100 certificates of achievement.

A shoveling alternative

There's a lot more to winter than shoveling it out of your driveway, and Michigan can prove it to you.

Take Perchville USA, for example, a lot of people do, and have, since its founding in 1950 on Tawas Bay at Tawas/East Tawas. What is it?

It's one of the state's popular winter festivals dedicated to family fun and frivolity.

The "heart" of Perchville centers around ice fishing contests, but for those who are not attracted to hook and line, there's ice sculpting, helicopter rides, a big parade, demolition derby, pie eating and pie throwing contest, games and prizes for everyone. For those particularly hearty, daring or draft, there's the polar bear swim in the icy waters of Tawas Bay. Perchville USA, Tawas/East Tawas opens the month in festive fashion February 2-4. Snowmobiling drag races are on the agenda of the Tip-Up Festival on Baw Beese Lake at Hillsdale, February 3-4 with trophies and prizes for the winners.

Entrants in the fishing contests can vie for cash and merchandise prizes.

Next up, the Chain of Lakes Tip-Up Carnival on Tip Up Island, Marble Lake, at Quincy, February 10-11. In addition to the ice fishing contests, the bill-o-fare will include a parade, log sawing contests, snowmobile races and dancing at the Fisherman's Ball.

Golf and baseball are generally considered to be warm weather sports, but Michiganians have adapted them to winter's playground. While the form may be unconventional, the fun is unsurpassed.

Golf on snowshoes is one of the featured events at the Winter Carnival, Lewiston, February 2-4 along with sleigh rides, a moonlight snowmobile safari and an arts and crafts show.

For the "three strikes and out" crowd, a baseball tournament is scheduled for the Winter Carnival at Newberry, February 16-18. Again, no

Are you cut out to finish a Capp Home yourself?

Come to our Open House and find out.

In 32 years, Capp has made quality custom-built housing affordable for over 50,000 families.

You don't have to be a craftsman, either. Just crafty. You can act as your own general contractor, hiring local help, and still come out money ahead.

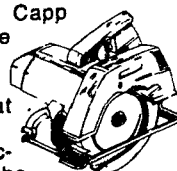

Either way, you'll get a home that's uniquely yours. A custom-built home, designed to your personal specifications.

One that will be worth far more than you paid for it the day you move in.

Capp Homes are such a good value they qualify for FHA, VA, Farm Home and conventional mortgages. If you can't get financing from another lender, Capp has millions in mortgage money available at conventional terms to "qualified buyers."

You may even be able to use the equity built up in your present home or building site to get started on a new Capp Home.

Come see for yourself at a Capp Open House. You'll have a chance to inspect a Capp Home that's partially completed, and decide whether you're cut out to finish a Capp Home.

HERE'S HOW TO GET TO THE CAPP OPEN HOUSE.

EFFECTIVE January 1, 1979, Jefferson F. Riddell has become a partner of the law firm of Hyman, Gurwin, Nachman, Friedman & Winkelman of Southfield.

Riddell was an English teacher at Northville High School from 1966 through 1970. He attended Wayne University Law School from 1970 through 1973 and began working for the law firm which was then called Hyman and Rice in January of 1973. For three years following graduation from law school, Riddell specialized in civil trial work and for the past two years he has specialized in real estate law with emphasis upon commercial developments including projects financed under various FHA programs and projects financed by the Michigan State Housing Development Authority.

He is also a licensed real estate broker and pilot. Riddell resides at 1041 Canterbury in Northville.

AS HOWELL TOWN & COUNTRY, INC. ENTERS ITS 20th YEAR, the board of directors looks forward to further expansion, according to Bob Fritch, chairman.

The year 1978 was the greatest in sales volume in company history. A total dollar volume of over $55 million in real estate transactions served nearly 1,500 families.

From one office in 1959, Howell Town and Country has grown to eight offices and 11 divisions with over 100 employees. In the recession years, 1974 and 1975, stable real estate investments were made including additions and office rental space at National Street and Grand River in Howell and further Brighton and Pinckney acquisitions.

Howell Town & Country's sales force is involved in constant in-house training to keep abreast of the trends in demands, financing and servicing the community, Fritch said.

Video training is being introduced into all of the branches by the end of January.

John Ward, president of the firm, attributes half the "phenomenal" 40 percent increase in dollar volume enjoyed in 1978 to continuing growth of the market and half to rapid inflation. His projection for 1979 is continuing growth with a lower rate of inflation but definitely higher prices in the last six months of the year.

He agrees with most economists who feel it is not a wise decision to wait the market out for lower housing cost.

E. ROGER EVERETT of Novi was elected 1979 secretary of Michigan Chapter Number 10 of the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers at the chapter's December meeting.

Everett earned his MAI (Member, Appraisal Institute) designation in 1967. He has held several chapter offices, including the chairmanship of the Education Committee. In addition, he also holds the SREA designation with the Society of Real Estate Appraisers.

The American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers is the largest and oldest organization of professional appraisers qualified to evaluate all types of real estate. It also is the only real estate appraisal organization affiliated with the National Association of Realtors.

Everett resides in Novi and is a member of the Novi Planning Board.

NANCY R. LIDDLE was named number one sales agent at Howell Town and Country Realty's South Lyon office for 1978. Mrs. Liddle turned in over one million in sales. She has been employed at the office at 209 South Lafayette for nearly three years.

COMMUNITY NATIONAL BANK'S Board of Directors elected new officers and promoted several others at its December meeting. The appointments were announced by Warren H. Eierman, president and chairman of the board.

Appointed to the post of vice-president and general counsel was James R. Pheley. Mark White was named vice-president and controller of the bank. Other promotions to the office of vice-president were Peter Beale (commercial loans), Daryl Donaldson (building and purchasing), Robert Gottschalk (investments), Burton Hauxwell (records), V. Michael Marotich (commercial loans), and Donald L. Morrow (airport office).

The board also approved the appointment of three assistant vice-presidents: Michael Dengate (mail office), John Kurtti (Walled Lake office), and William Rollo (personnel).

Community National Bank operates 28 banking offices in Oakland and Macomb counties and provides a full range of services to both retail and commercial customers. The bank employs a total staff of over 600 people.

ANTHONY V. RIZZO, President of Rizzo-Northville Realty will celebrate his fifth year as a Northville broker on February 8th.

It was on that date in 1974, that Rizzo officially opened a one-room office in Wes Henrikson's building at 311 E. Main Street coming directly from Schoolcraft College where he had taught for 10 years.

ANTHONY RIZZO

Within seven months, the company outgrew the office on Main Street and moved to 501 North Center Street next to Chatham Foods in a house which has since been moved to make room for a parking lot. In the summer of 1975, Rizzo moved into 505 North Center where the company is presently located. Old-timers remember this as the home in which Mrs. Schnute taught music lessons for so many years before she moved to Walnut Street.

In March of 1977, Rizzo purchased Northville Realty, the oldest active real estate name in Northville, and subsequently incorporated that company. Within one year, Northville Realty, Inc. absorbed Rizzo Real Estate, Inc. and began conducting business under the name of Rizzo-Northville Realty.

In those five years, the Rizzo name has become associated with many of the larger real estate transactions in the area, particularly in the commercial-industrial segment of the business. A few of these which would be recognizable by the public are: Eastlawn Convalescent Home where the Allen Terrace Senior Citizen Apartments recently opened; Joe's Party Pantry; land sites for Brookside Plaza and Novi-Matic, both on Novi Road; The Bedspread Place; The Hay estate at the end of Rogers Street in Northville where Denis A. Roux is presently developing a small subdivision, and in Green Oak Township, over one hundred acres of industrial land.

A look at 1979

New housing starts to decline

Housing starts in 1979 in the seven-county southeast Michigan area are expected to be down some eight percent compared to 1978 but the decline will occur only in scattered communities.

In fact, 20 of the active-building communities along eight growth corridors around Detroit actually will have increased building activity while only 15 will have less, members of the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan were told this week. (January 16 at Raleigh House in Southfield.)

Bruce W. Robinson, nationally known analyst specializing in housing trends, told a BASM general membership meeting that builders should not "psych" themselves into excessive caution "because the buyers are out there" and ready and able to be sold.

Robinson, principal speaker after installation of Clarkston builder James Raisin as BASM president, cited a national study which showed five Michigan communities out of the top 25 in the nation in general affluence. These were Saginaw, Flint, Ann Arbor, Detroit and Lansing in that order.

Robinson's company, Robinson Reports, of Southfield, surveys and analyzes buyer desires and areas supplied with lots for building, along with economic factors, to arrive at projections which have been surprisingly accurate in the past.

The principal growth corridors, he said, are along I-94 to St. Clair; M-53 Detroit to Utica; I-75 Detroit to Flint; M-59; I-696 Detroit to Toledo. Of a projected home-starts total of 21,200, 5,125 are expected to occur in the Detroit-Lansing corridor.

He included in this corridor Southfield, Farmington Hills, West Bloomfield, Bloomfield, Novi, Wixom, Milford and Brighton. Southfield, with 1,000 starts Vs. 939 in 1978; Farmington Hills, with 1,750 compared to 1,400, and Novi, with 750 Vs. 576, will show rises while the rest will have slight declines.

Second hottest building corridor, Robinson said, will be Detroit-Ann Arbor, with 4,000 of the total and 1,750 of these located in Canton, up from 1,600 in 1978. The Ann Arbor area will build 1,000 units, up from 721 last year. Romulus, Van Buren, Ypsilanti, Superior and Pittsfield all will also show increases to put all seven communities listed on the plus side.

Third in activity was projected to be Detroit-Utica, with Warren expected to build 1,000 units for a large gain over the 476 in 1978; Sterling Heights, 1,500 compared to 1,612 in 1978; Shelby, 500 Vs. 332 last year, and Washington, 250 or more than double 1978's 113. Total for area: 3,250.

Fourth most active strip will be Detroit-St. Clair. Chesterfield, with 400 Vs. 379 in 1978 is expected to be the only community listed to show a gain. The other are Roseville, 450 Vs. 474; Fraser, 300, down from 362; Clinton, still strong at 1,250 but down from last year's 1,481; Harrison, 250 Vs. 315; Macomb, 500 Vs. 537. Total for corridor: 3,150.

Fifth in building strength will be Detroit-Flint, where 2,450 units are expected to be built. Included active communities are Troy, 750 Vs. 1,013; Avon, 1,250 Vs. 1,370; Independence, 250 Vs. 244 and Orion, 200 Vs. 182. Thus only the last two will shown gains.

Skis' great at Maybury

Officials of Maybury State Park report cross-country skiing is good to excellent with an eight inch base.

Attendance, they said, is running behind last season — but only because this season's first snow was late in coming.

Skiing is permitted daily during park hours from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.

For those who do not own their own skis, a rental concession business is operated out of one section of the barn on the park's Living Farm located off Eight Mile.

Skis, boots and poles rent for $3 for the first hour, $2 the second hour, and $1 for each additional hour. Children ages eight and under are charged half price.

In addition, a $1 breakage insurance fee is charged, and a $10 deposit for individuals and $20 for a family are required.

Arrangement for group rates and lessons may be obtained by calling 348-1190.

Rental begins at 10 a.m. every day except Saturday and Sunday when it begins at 8 a.m. The concession rental closes at 6 p.m. except on Friday and Saturday when it closes at 10 p.m.

Most of the "big crowds" occur on Saturday and Sunday afternoon.

Here's how to total loss

By HOWARD RONTAL

EDITOR'S NOTE: An unexpected lack of space in last week's issue forced us to delete the chart which included the formula for calculating the total heat loss from your home. That formula is the subject of this week's article.

Over the last three weeks you've had a chance to crawl around your house, measure it, and calculate the heat you're losing through walls, floors, ceilings, windows and the cracks in the house which allow the inside air out and the outside air in.

This week you can find out how much heat your house is losing from all these sources put together.

Once this is done you will know the potential savings from various weatherizing projects, which you want to do first and which are worth spending the money to do at all.

Following the sample calculations chart included with this article, list the heating units required, potential heating savings and heating units to be saved by performing specific weatherizing operations.

Notice that in the sample chart, potential savings differs from units that will be saved because the hypothetical owner of this house was decided insulate only the worst heat loss areas.

Dividing the heating units to be saved by the heating units currently required to heat the house (592 divided by 1580) you can see that our hypothetical owner can save 31 percent of his heating bill.

The information, charts, tables, sample heat loss calculations were provided courtesy of the Ohio Department of Energy. The department is interested in finding out what you think of the program.

Tax credit proposed in 'solar' package

A major energy proposal which provides personal income tax credits for the purchase of solar, wind and water energy devices has been approved by Governor Milliken.

The law, sponsored by State Representative Perry Bullard (D-Ann Arbor) will provide large personal income tax credits for alternative energy devices, and will give Michigan (along with California) the strongest solar energy tax incentives in the nation.

Solar and wind tax credits will be available in decreasing amounts over the five-year life of the law. The state will offer its tax credits on the following schedule:

In 1979 — a 25% credit will be given on the first $2,000 of expense; a 15% credit will be given on the next $8,000 of expense.

In 1980 — a 25% credit will be given on the first $2,000 of expense; a 15% credit will be given on the next $8,000 of expense.

In 1981 — a 20% credit will be given on the first $2,000 of expense; a 10% credit will be given on the next $8,000 of expense.

In 1982 — a 15% credit will be given on the first $2,000 of expense; a 5% credit will be given on the next $8,000 of expense.

In 1983 — a 10% credit will be given on the first $2,000 of expense; a 5% credit will be given on the next $8,000 of expense.

For buildings other than single family dwellings owned by persons subject to the personal income tax (i.e. duplexes, small apartment houses, etc.), the same credit schedule with a ceiling of $13,000 will apply. Water energy conversion devices which use the differences between low and high water temperature levels will also qualify for the credits.

Representative Bullard said that the new law will provide strong incentives for homeowners to convert to solar and wind energy sources, and will create a strong solar industry in the state.

"We will soon see the benefits of converting to alternative energy systems, including more employment, more business revenue for the state, less pollution, and less citizen dependence upon the massive utility industries," said Bullard. "We must encourage the development of alternative energy sources. This new law provides strong financial incentives for people to convert to viable, non-polluting technologies."

The federal government enacted similar tax credits late last year, giving 30% on the first $2,000 of the cost of alternative energy devices and 20% on the next $8,000.

"It is important for people to realize that the Michigan tax credits are being offered in addition to those enacted by the federal government," said Bullard, "a fact which will make solar energy very attractive to many Michigan residents." Department of Commerce, which contains the Michigan Energy Administration, will be responsible for establishing guidelines to determine which energy conversion devices and back-up measures will be eligible for the tax credit.

Rules developed by the Energy Administration and the Department of Commerce will have to be approved by the Legislature.

Bullard proposals enacted in 1976 already exempt alternative energy devices from property tax as well as sales and usage taxes. Energy advocates have noted a need for additional energy measures which would encourage passive solar design, provide for solar consumer protection and protection of solar easements.

Governor's message suggests caution, no new programs

By WARREN M. HOYT

Governor William G. Milliken has opened the new legislative year proposing no new programs, and in fact, expressed caution re-emphasizing the "age of caution" theme his administration sounded late last year.

In his 11th state of the state message to the Legislature, Milliken continued with emphasis on reworking existing programs and laws, restructuring government agencies and restating previous proposals.

Politicians and government officials are tiptoeing into the new year before making any recommendations of changes in light of a possible recession during the current calendar year.

The governor's address was so matter of fact and routine that it was not once interrupted by applause. However, House Speaker Bobby Crim of Davison said that may have been by cleats, you 'round the bases on snowshoes. Other events include an ice show, cross-country ski races, icicle contest and a variety of games and events.

The Michigan Tech Winter Carnival at Houghton, February 5-11, is known nationwide for its imaginative, larger than life-size ice sculptures and original, highly entertaining skits lampooning just about any and everything from the snow to the University administration to the Finnish background of the community.

Other activities include skiing, snowshoeing, broom ball and sled dog races with a twist. In these races, the handmade sleds are pulled by people teams.

More frosty fun is promised at the Winter Fun Fest, February 10-11, Ludington and Northern Michigan University's Wintester, February 10-17, Marquette.

Michigan is probably the nation's favorite state for snowmobiling, and Michigan's Triple Crown of snowmobile racing is a household word among the sport's enthusiasts. The "biggie" of the tri-race competition — the I-500 — is set for February 10, Sault Ste. Marie.

Other snowmobile activity this month includes: a Poker Rally at Grand Marais, February 3; Snowmobile Ride-

In, February 17, Iron River; and the Gladwin "150", OMB Track, Gladwin, February 25.

"Mushers" are hot on Michigan trails in February with Sled Dog Races scheduled for February 10-11, Kalkaska and Baldwin; February 17-18 at Oscoda; and February 24-25 at Ranch Rudolf, Traverse City.

On the slopes, Crystal Mountain, Thompsonville will host the USSA CD Region 4 Junior Alpine Championships, February 9-11, and the MCSA Eastern Regional Championships, February 24-25. The Women's AIAW Midwest Championships will be held at Ski Brule, Iron River, February 17, and Indianhead, near Wakefield, welcomes the Central Division Championships, Mid-American series Finale, February 27-28.

Summer nomads getting a little itchy to hit the road can take a peek at what's new on wheels at the RV Show, Westmain Mall, Kalamazoo, February 5-10; Detroit Camper Show, Artillery Armory, Oak Park, February 16-25; and the Camper & Travel Trailer Show, IMA Sports Arena, Flint, February 20-25.

design in that the government must recognize limits and not make any promises that cannot be kept.

Any possible tax relief was removed from the address this year because of the expected pressures on the budget and an anticipated economic slowdown. Fiscal experts are, at least, predicting a fall off of economic activity if not a full scale recession.

A major effort is expected later aimed at revitalization in both large and small cities.

The governor announced his Lieutenant Governor James Brickley will head a community development cabinet and coordinate efforts at all levels of government to stimulate city development.

Further, the governor announced a nonprofit corporation will be formed to plan major neighborhood revitalization and industrial development project in southwest Detroit, with planning funds coming from the state.

Generally, the Milliken message exercised caution but emphasized there will be state assistance for local units of government to help themselves.

"Restraint need not halt progress. It provides an incentive to re-examine and revise. It's not going to hurt basic institutions to shake things up a bit," Milliken said.

The state is keeping a watchful eye on insurance companies doing business in the state to make sure the companies adhere to President Carter's anti-inflation guidelines.

Acting Insurance Commissioner Jean Carlson has announced that all rate applications filed by insurance companies after January 29 must indicate whether the proposals will cause rate increases for a company or group to exceed the federal guidelines.

All companies and rating bureaus must notify the state Insurance Bureau by January 29 whether they intend to apply the guidelines to companies' business expenses.

Carlson said premium renewal notices sent to policyholders after March 1 must state whether the company is complying with the guidelines.

A National Association of Insurance Commissioners' proposal allows companies to apply the guidelines to their nationwide business, thus allowing larger increases in some states if the overall effect is to stay within the inflation limits.

Exceptions will be allowed for changed coverages, classification changes, different experience ratings or other surcharges.

A task force to develop a program for a unified mental health system will be established by Governor Milliken. A report is due September 1.

Milliken said a unified system would have a set of uniform policies applicable throughout Michigan and include establishing mandatory services offered through either inpatient, alternative residential, partial day or outpatient status.

'79 boat show gains in size

The 1979 Greater Michigan Boat and Fishing Show, set to run February 3 through 11 at Detroit's Cobo Hall, will be one of the largest, most impressive marine exhibitions ever to be gathered in the state.

More than 750 brand new boats, motors, fishing gear and recreational boating accessories will be displayed on Cobo Hall's street level and river level. Boating enthusiasts will have the opportunity to preview the industry's latest entries for cruising, sailing, fishing, skiing, racing and much more.

"Our Show has emerged as one of the premier marine exhibits in the country," said Dick Adams, president of Freeway Sports Center in Fenton and board chairman of the Michigan Marine Dealers Association. "During the past several years we have devoted a great deal of energy to upgrading and improving virtually every aspect of the Show."

"Visitors will find that every boat and motor on display is a brand new model," Adams commented. "We simply do not allow old boats or demos into the hall."

According to Adams, the list of fishing-oriented exhibitions has been expanded this year, assuring anglers the chance to check out the latest gadgets and hardware. A wide variety of electronic equipment, rods, reels, lures and supplies will be available for inspection.

Many free attractions and services are offered to Show visitors. Such organizations as the U.S. Coast Guard, the Department of Natural Resources, and the Michigan Steelheaders Association will conduct seminars and distribute literature throughout the Show. Safety, security, compliance with regulations, and many valuable "how-to" tips can be obtained at no cost.

‘A whole person’

Three TOPS members shed 133 pounds

Last Thursday Northville Daytime TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) Chapter lost “a whole person.”

The announcement made by Leader Doris Srock was greeted with approval and admiration by the 18 members attending the morning meeting at First Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Srock made the statement as she added together the number of pounds shed by the club's three biggest losers. The total of 132¾ pounds, she commented, equaled “a whole person.”

Last Thursday's weekly meeting was a celebration to honor the year's big losers in the non-profit weight loss group that uses liberal amounts of sharing and encouragement to help lose pounds and then keep them off.

Ilene Watson, a resident of King's Mill, is the group's biggest loser, having achieved her goal of losing 57¼ pounds early last year and then keeping those pounds off. She now is known as a KOPS (Keep Off Pounds Sensibly).

Jeannette Stedman of Novi received a prize for her loss of 45½ pounds while Carol Baxter, who attends the meetings from Westland, was honored as runner-up. Her weight loss was 29½ pounds.

There also were awards for division weight loss winners. Evelyn Stern was cited for losing 13½ pounds, Lonna Lemmon, 20; Lilah Griffith, 12; and Barbara Troman, 11¼.

“We're surpassing ourselves,” Leader Srock declared as she made the loss announcements.

While the common goal of losing weight had brought out the TOPS members, the women also admitted that they gained friendship and fellowship at the meetings.

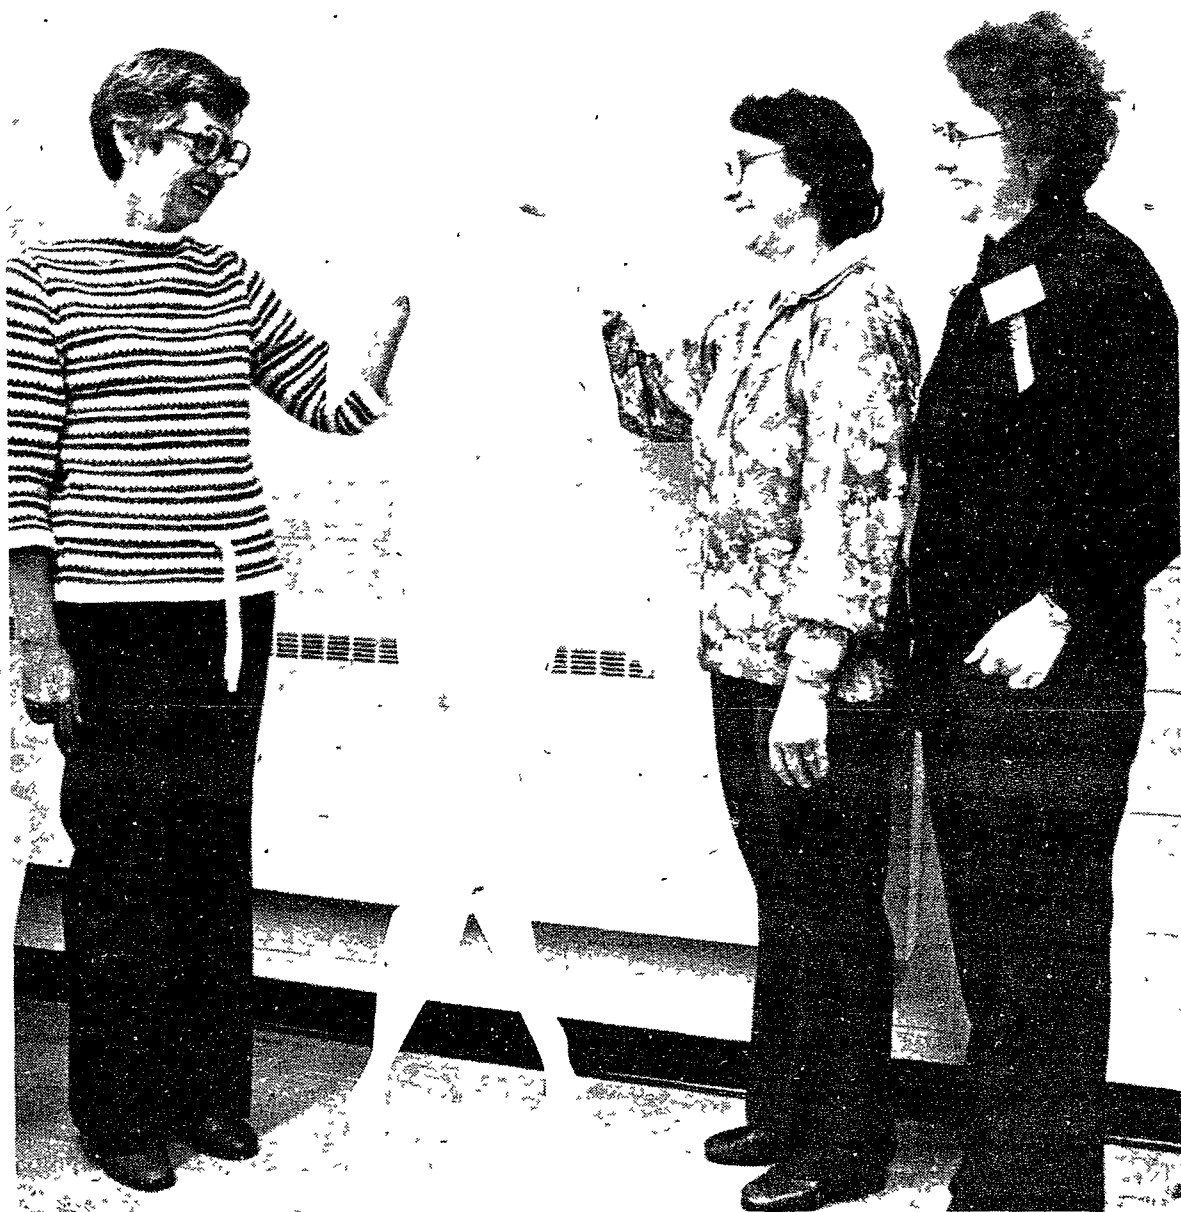

Members weigh-in at 9 a.m. They discuss weight problems and control with proper diets.

Because last week's meeting was a celebration, there were special treats. The pink punch with strawberries, however, was a low-calorie recipe. The snacks were raw vegetables, — carrots, broccoli and celery. In a crock pot simmered a low-calorie chili.

The chili was made by Harriet Kain for the group from a recipe in a TOPS publication. The local group is affiliated with the international organization.

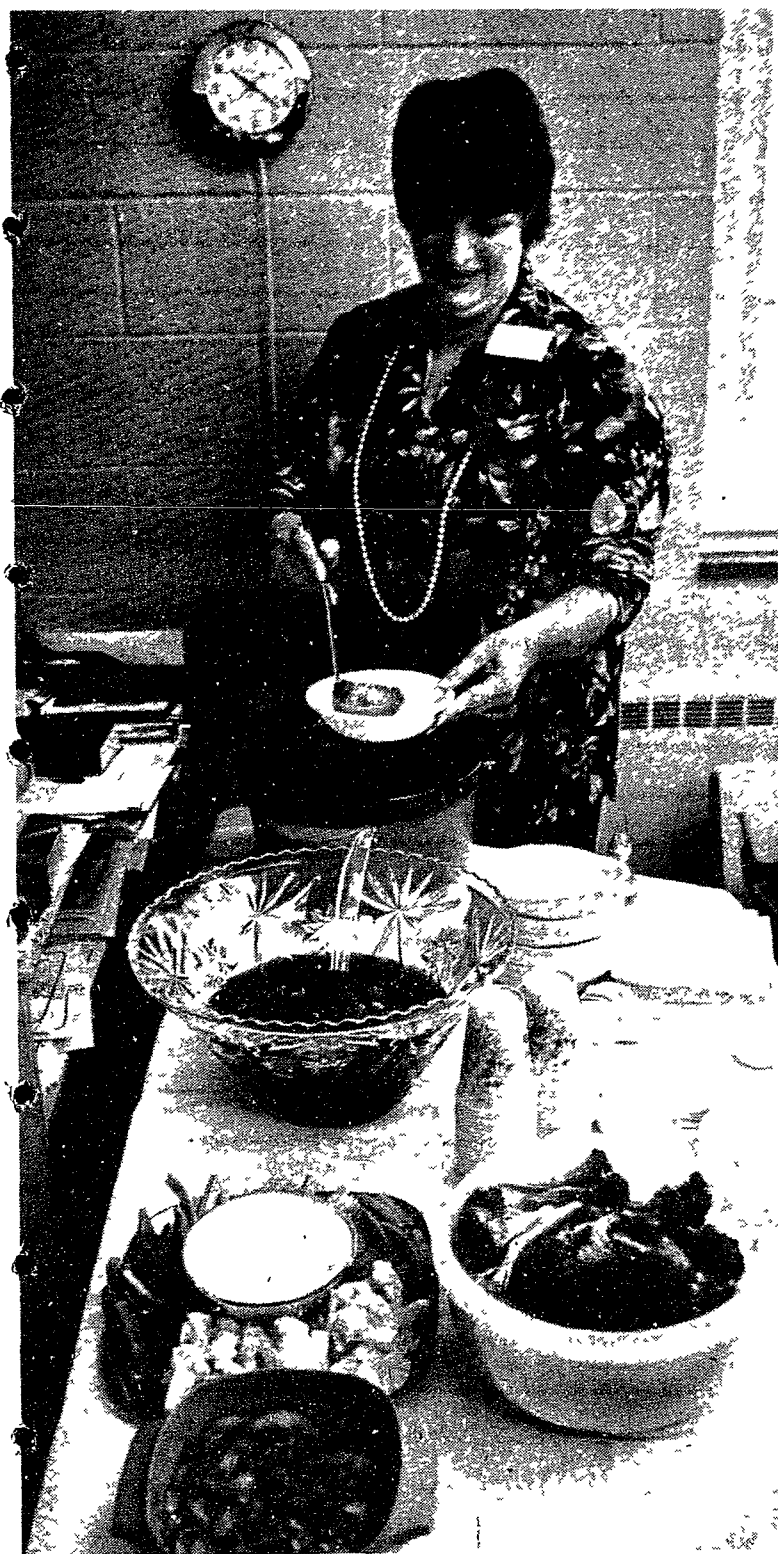

Mrs. Stern, a long-time member of the group, mentioned approvingly that attendance and membership were up. It was expected as members returned to active participation after the holidays to lose Christmas-season gains. Club members stress that anyone who would like the supportive help TOPS gives is welcome at the meetings.

In TOPS losing is winning.

LOST!—When Ilene Watson, Jeannette Stedman and Carol Baxter added their TOPS weight losses together, they found they had lost “a whole person.” Here they are having fun looking at that invisible 133-pound loss. They were among honorees at the club's celebration last week.

Harriet Kain dishes up a bowl of her low-cal chili

It's what you eat - and how much, say losers who cook low-calorie fare

When green beans are substituted for kidney beans, chili becomes a low-calorie dish.

“Try it. It's surprisingly good,” says Harriet Kain of Northville who cooked the recipe in her crock pot for fellow members of Northville Daytime TOPS chapter.

The secret is to serve it hot — and in not too generous helpings. Small helpings, as any weight loss groups knows, are one secret to reducing.

The recipe serves four.

LOW-CAL CHILI

¼ lb. ground beef
¼ c. green pepper, chopped
¼ c. celery, chopped

1 c. green beans
2 C. tomato juice
Pepper and chili powder to taste

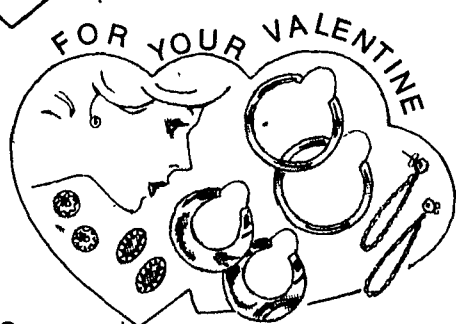

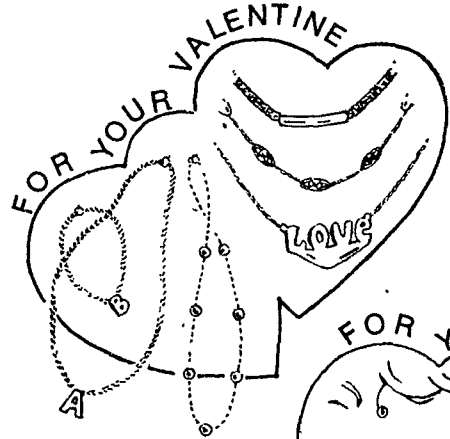

Brown meat and drain. Add all ingredients and simmer for a half-hour. Serve piping hot.

Volunteers help Allen Terrace residents move-in

By JEANDAY

Seventy-six apartments in Allen Terrace, the city's senior citizen complex, were occupied by last weekend. That the building now has three-quarters of its total residents warmly settled in the midst of winter is due in large part to the help of willing volunteers, says Manager Frances Yoakam.

Because last Friday was the end of the semester and a no-school day, senior class members and officers from the high school under the direction of Brett Blanchard and Greg Bach, class co-presidents, moved Florence Donovan from her Fairbrook apartment via rented truck to her new home in Allen Terrace. The former Detroit teacher also was helped with the packing and unpacking by Brett's mother, Mrs. Thomas Blanchard.

"My star volunteer, though, is Nancy Schoultz," declared Mrs. Yoakam, relating that Mrs. Schoultz, a member of the city housing commission, spends almost every afternoon at Allen Terrace "doing whatever needs to be done" so that the manager has been free to finalize leases with incoming tenants.

Mrs. Schoultz says she considers being on hand for the occupancy of the long-awaited senior citizen building a big treat since she has been part of its planning as a commission member.

This day at a spa's a bargain

Forty Northville Newcomers will have the opportunity to "spend a day at a spa," a new ladies day feature planned by the club. From 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Wednesday, February 7, they will swim in the pool and enjoy the sauna at the Plymouth Hilton Inn as well as meet Kitty Wagner, who has just opened a beauty salon at Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi, and will be giving one lucky member of the group a make-over and personal skin care advice. Mary Lee Hoxey from a Plymouth health food shop will be speaking and Joan Aikey will lead an exercise program.

The $10 total charge even includes lunch in the Terrace Restaurant. Reservations should be made by February 3 with Bev Felix, 348-1967.

PLEASEING YOU IS OUR PLEASURE

The Earth Stove

Check these facts before you buy any other stove!

- The Earth Stove burns 1/3 the fuel of many stoves because pre heating draft manifold promotes efficient and complete combustion like solid fuel power plants. Super heated air prevents cooling of fire unlike manual hole drafts do. Even large chunks burn slowly and completely—eliminates frequent ash removal.
- Even temperatures: thermostatic draft automatically maintains temperature you select. Levels out uneven cycle of wood combustion. (Manual drafts cannot do this). Home temperatures more even than furnace heat.
- Burns 14 hours on one wood load
- Converts to open fire instantly
- Cook top: just set thermostat to cooking heat desired — ideal for "Crock Pot" style cookery
- Wood gases not wasted: Secondary drafts introduce oxygen above primary fire zone to burn volatile gases such as methanol, pyrolytic acid, etc.
- Airtight: Prevents heat loss up chimney

'Lion in Winter' opens

"The Lion in Winter" promises to roar onto the Plymouth Theatre Guild stage as the second production of its 1978-79 season.

Performances will be February 1, 2, 9 and 10 in the Plymouth Central Middle School, Church and Main. All are at 8 p.m.

Scott Lee Hammar, a recent graduate of Central Michigan University where he was a theater major, is directing the production. By James Goldman, "The Lion in Winter" is known as an unusually fascinating comedy, Sandy McRae, guild publicist from Northville, points out.

The play takes place near the end of the 12th century during the reign of Henry II, King of England. The story evolves around the strange love bond Henry has with his "endangered" queen, Eleanor of Aquitaine, and with his young mistress, Princess Aalais. Abetted by Eleanor, Henry's three sons and the young French king plot to establish Henry's successor to the English throne.

Tickets may be purchased in advance at the Little People Shoppe in Northville. They will be sold at the door before each performance. Admission is $3 for adults and $2 for students and senior citizens.

PTA - PTSA News

Council programs focus on test scores, curriculum

EDITOR'S NOTE: This Northville PTA-PTSA column is compiled monthly during the school year by Volunteer Marge Ercoli, 348-9350. It appears on the last Wednesday of the month. Mrs. Ercoli is assisted by PTA mothers at each elementary and junior high.

PTA-PTSA COUNCIL NEWS

The PTA-PTSA Coordinating Council has been busy planning and conducting activities and programs. At the January council meeting Michael Burley gave a presentation of the Northville scores of the Michigan Assessment Test and the Stanford Achievement Test. It was a pleasant experience to see such positive achievement on the part of our students and teachers.

February 15, Mrs. Nancy Soper is planning to attend our meeting and discuss the curriculum with us. If you have any questions that you want answered, please contact your representative.

We are in the initial stages of planning a joint meeting of the school board and the council, to be held some time in the early spring. If you have any suggestions regarding this, please contact me.

The nominating committee has begun working on the slate of officers for next year.

COOKE JUNIOR HIGH

The Cooke PTA Board met Monday, January 29. Plans are being made to have a repeat of the film for parents of "What You Are Is Where You Were When." The weather was a detriment for a good turnout January 16. The parents who viewed the film were really enthused, and perhaps this will bring more parents to see the film when it is shown at a later date.

The 1978-79 Cooke Yearbook staff has been busy. The sales of the yearbook have been high. Many pictures have been taken of various groups and activities to insure a truly excellent memento for students.

The beginning of second semester will welcome back to Cooke two familiar faces. Karen Cotter will be back in the typing room and Bob Heldt will be in the shop classes.

Report cards will be sent home with students Friday, February 2.

The next curriculum day is February 19. Classes will be held in the morning only.

The ninth grade boys' basketball team as well as the seventh-eighth grade team could use some moral support at their following home games: ninth grade games; February 1, 6, 16 and 20; seventh-eighth grade games, February 8, 13 and 15.

Ronnie Abraham

MEADS MILL JUNIOR HIGH

After a nice Christmas vacation, classes and activities are once again in full swing at Meads Mill. The PTSA held its monthly board meeting January 17. Next meeting will be February 21. The student activity held in December was reported a success. Student Council President Ann Doyle read a thank-you note from the nursing home that received the students' gifts.

January 26 marked the end of the semester. Report cards will go home with students February 2. The next curriculum day is February 19. Students will be dismissed at 10:40 a.m.

The basketball teams will be busy during the next few weeks. The seventh-eighth grade team has games scheduled for January 30, February 1, 6, 8 and 15.

The ninth grade plays January 30, February 1, 6, 8, 15, 20, and 22.

Spirit week is scheduled for February 19-23.

A big pep rally is planned before the Meads Mill-Cooke ninth grade game February 22. The students are planning several other spirit activities for that week.

The staff has planned special field trips for Meads Mill students during the next few weeks. The ninth grade will visit the Ford Rouge Plant February 6. A trip to the Detroit Science Center is planned for the seventh graders February 22. The eighth grade will be visiting Henry Ford Museum March 13.

Judy Wissman

AMERMAN

Tuesday, February 13, the upper elementary students at Amerman will view a movie sponsored by the American Heart Association, entitled, "Heart to Heart." The movie deals primarily with care and respect for the heart and body.

Amerman PTA is sponsoring two swim nights at Northville High on Thursday, February 22, and again on Friday, February 23, from 7:30-8:30 p.m. each evening. Children must be accompanied by an adult. The charge will be 50 cents each or $2 per family.

Wednesday evening, March 21, has been set aside for Amerman families to see a feature-length film by Walt Disney. The specific film and other details are still in the process of finalization and will be available soon.

The art appreciation program at Amerman is again underway, thanks to the chairperson, Catherine Sellas. Several parents graciously volunteered their time to make this program possible. The volunteers present new art prints to each individual classroom and discuss both the art work and the artist.

MORaine

Our PTA is back in full swing again after our holiday break.

They made it

Biz McMillan, left, and Karen Longridge try out for places on the Cooke Junior High Forensic Team with Coach Mary Freydl. The two-day tryouts were so successful, Mrs. Freydl reports, that a 27-member team (24 with three alternates) began practice Monday for the first debate to be held March 17. On the Cooke 1979 Forensic Team are Pam LaMoreaux, Mike Pinkelman, Miss McMillan, Heida Schulz and Teresa Butler (serious interpretative reading); Brian Pinkelman, Amy Stuart, Beth Wendt, Kathi Norman and Lori Winters (interpretative reading); Elizabeth Bohan, Carolyn Dragon, Tisha Johnson, Kathy Montgomery and Lisa Trano (storytelling); Steve Ouellette, Kurt Hoffmeister, Diane Hinman and Sharon Campbell (informative speaking); Martha Alspaugh, Kaye Saurer, Stacy Stuart and Natalie Dichtiar (extempore speaking); Tom Yanoschik, Jim Phillips, Maureen Sullivan and Miss Longridge (impromptu speaking).

Library plans story hour

The Northville Public Library now is taking registration for the preschool story hour, which is open to children 3½ through five years old.

The story hour will be held in the library on Thursday mornings from February 8 through March 8.

Parents may sign their children up for either the 10 or 11 a.m. session. Story hours last about 30 minutes.

Registration can be made at the library or by calling 349-3020.

Mexico topic of scout program

Senior Girl Scout Troop No. 501 of the Plymouth-Northville-Canton Area Association will present a travelogue at the upcoming meeting of the association at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, February 7, at Plymouth West Middle School - on Ann Arbor Trail.

All registered adult scouts and Girl Scouts 14 and older are invited to view the program of the troop's trip to Mexico last summer.

The business meeting will include election of delegates to the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council from the association.

Jo Morse, area chairman, announces that the annual cookie sale, Junior Encampment and Michigan Clean-Up Campaign will be discussed.

She urges troop service directors, leaders and committee members as well as all Girl Scouts 14 and over to attend.

Two events were scheduled for the month of January — a sweatshirt sale and a square dance for the fifth and sixth graders. We sold sweatshirts, T-shirts and tote bags with the Moraine logo on them.

Last Friday all fifth and sixth graders were invited to attend a square dance at Moraine. Boys invited their moms and girls invited their dads. It was a great way to spend a winter evening.

Third and fourth graders are looking forward to a swim party at the high school February 9.

Carolyn Abramovich

SILVER SPRINGS

Let's make it a family event and bring your friends, too, to the second annual roller skating get-together at Bonaventure Roller Skating Rink located just north and west of Independence Green Apartments on Halstead Road. Skating is from 6:30-8:30 p.m. today (Wednesday).

An open invitation is being extended by the Silver Springs PTSA to anyone who would like to hear Sister Martina speak on "Everything Parents Want to Know about Reading" at 7:30 p.m. March 15 in the school media center. Sister Martina is director of the Psycho-Educational Center at Madonna College. Refreshments will be served after the program.

Teachers and students at Silver Springs engaged in a friendly basketball game January 10. Final scores of the three games played revealed the students won all by a substantial margin. Better luck next year, teachers. The event was sponsored by the student council.

Donna Viel

WINCHESTER

A cross-country ski outing is planned as Winchester's mother-son program February 15. A lesson and relays are to be part of the cross-country ski fun outing.

Fourth, fifth and sixth graders will be seeing a health film, "Heart to Heart," in February. Mrs. Betty House is making arrangements for the film and the instructional comic books to be given to each child viewing it. Arlene Frayne is busy counting labels for our Campbell Soup Contest which ends February 23.

Sue Eppers and her committee are investigating the possibility of holding a "Family Pictures" night as a money-raiser for the PTA.

Profits from last fall's book fair will be donated to the library to be used for needed materials.

Aspiring young authors and poets will have a school-published book for their efforts. We thank Mrs. Nichole Anderson. Heading up the publishing center, she held a workshop and training sessions. The center started January 23. The PTA purchase of a used sewing machine for the project is appreciated.

A nominating committee has been formed to select candidates for next year's PTA board.

Meets February 7 High school PTSO focuses on tests

"All the Things You Wanted to Know About Course Selections, SATs, ACTs and MEAPs but Were Afraid to Ask" is the subject of the February PTSO meeting at Northville High School.

The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, February 7, in the high school cafeteria.

The tests, Scholastic Aptitude (SAT), American College (ACT) and Michigan Education Assessment Program (MEAP), are taken by Northville High students.

James Lewis, PTSO president, invites all parents, teachers, students and interested citizens in the Northville School District to attend.

Representatives of the high school counseling department will be present to answer questions on when the tests are given, how they are scored and what they mean to the individual student.

There also will be explanation and demonstration of the new computer-based career selection program that is available to students.

Discussion is to include what courses should be charted by the college-bound or those interested in a particular career.
