

EPA mum but super sewer announcement due soon

EPA may have made its decision on the super sewer but it's keeping mum until after meeting with Wayne County's DPW director.

Meanwhile, there's no indication that EPA has changed its mind in opposing the super sewer, and it appears to be unmoved by mounting pressure from state, regional and local governments.

"We've already made our decision," Douglas Ehorn of the Environmental Protection Agency's regional office in Chicago declared when this newspaper asked for a date when the EPA decision might be made. But he refused to disclose the decision.

"We're making arrangements now to meet with Royce Smith (managing director of the Wayne County Board of Public Works) to discuss it," he said. "We'll make our announcement following the meeting."

However, Ehorn's boss denied a decision had been reached when contacted later by Congressman Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth).

John McGuire, director of EPA's regional office, told Pursell some internal staff discussion about the ultimate decision had occurred but that he (McGuire) was not yet satisfied with that discussion and that more input would be needed before rendering a formal conclusion.

He confirmed, however, that a meeting in Wayne County is in the works with "local officials." That meeting, he said, would occur within two weeks and he promised Pursell to notify him so that he and Congressman William Ford or their representatives could be present.

Royce Smith, attending a conference in Tucson, Arizona, was unavailable for comment, but the deputy director, Duane R. Egeland said EPA has not yet contacted the DPW about any meeting.

"I would be very surprised if EPA has reversed" its anti-super sewer position, Egeland said, adding that if Ehorn has anything to do with the decision "there's no way it (EPA) will back down" from its drafted recommendations in the environmental impact study.

That study recommended abandonment of the super sewer plan and substitution of an alternative that has been found unacceptable by virtually every suburban community in western Wayne and southwest Oakland counties, the State Department of Natural Resources (DNR), the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG), Wayne and Oakland counties and local area congressmen such as Pursell.

EPA is the "biggest, most powerful bureaucratic agency" in the federal government," said Egeland, and "it seems to be entirely insulated against any outside pressure."

Despite pressure from various levels of government in Michigan, EPA "hasn't even been willing to consider a compromise," the deputy director said.

At this point even if EPA sees good cause for all the negative reaction to its recommendations, its staffers appear to be standing firm on those recommen-

David Mitchell wins easily

Tops four opponents in township primary

David E. Mitchell, 39, easily topped the field of Republicans in winning the special primary election in Northville Township yesterday.

And with that victory he becomes the favorite in the final special election on March 20 in quest of the vacant seat on the township board.

But apparently he will not be unopposed. Former Supervisor Wilson Grier, a Republican, picked up 13 write in votes as a Democrat which, according to the clerk, qualifies him for the March ballot as a Democratic candidate.

Mitchell, who has been active in Northville's recreation program, defeated four other Republican challengers for the vacancy in Tuesday's primary. He garnered 372 votes in topping his next closest rival, Dorothy K. Gay, who picked up 261 votes.

Third highest vote-getter was Richard M. Henningsen, former township treasurer, with 63 votes, followed by Kenneth A. McLarty with 42, and Robert K. N. Foust at 24.

As in last week's city election, this week's township primary produced a poor turnout of voters. Only 782 votes were cast out of the 6,680 registered voters for just under 12 percent turnout.

Fifteen percent cast ballots in the city's special election last week on the Mainstreet 78 plan.

As in the city election, the township ballot contained only one issue — that of picking a winner from the slate of five Republicans. There were no Democrats names on the ballot.

Mitchell, who is seeking his first political office, is after the board seat that was vacated by Michael Wilson in November. Wilson moved from the community. Since then the board has operated with six members instead of the usual seven.

A resident of 42246 Old Bedford in Northville Commons Subdivision, Mitchell will be sworn into office immediately following the March 20 election — provided, of course, he wins.

Mitchell won in six of the township's five precincts, tied in one, and lost in three. Mrs. Gay's strongest showing was in Highland Lakes where she lives. She won easily in the two 'Lakes precincts.

Although he finished third, Henningsen's vote was surprisingly poor for having been a former official whose name is familiar to many. He picked up only 26 votes in Northville Commons where he lives.

Mitchell's greatest strength was in Precinct I (Whipple Estates) and Precinct III (Edenderry).

Township budget

Police increase on deck tonight

Having tentatively pegged income at $920,844 in its proposed 1979-80 budget, the Northville Township Board takes up expenditures tonight in its second round of budget sessions.

Tonight's 7 p.m. session will zero in on the police department budget, with spokesmen from the township police department, the Michigan State Police, and the Wayne County Sheriff's Department invited to be present to answer board questions.

Township Police Chief Ron Nisun is vacationing for three weeks and will not be present to review his proposed budget with the board, but a command officer will be present.

That police budget suggests an increase of $137,557 over the current year's outlay of $260,369, as estimated by the chief. The amended 1977-78 budget, however, showed an outlay of $238,944.

It proposes the addition of four police officers and one part-time clerk.

Nisun suggests that three existing patrol officers be promoted to the rank of sergeant and that the three existing patrol positions plus an additional be filled.

Presently the department has one sergeant's position. So this command level would be increased by two, with the present sergeant being promoted to a new position of lieutenant.

If the township board goes along with the chief's recommendation, the department will have nine patrolmen (up one), three sergeants (up two), one lieutenant (up one), and the police chief.

The budget proposal calls for the chief's salary to be increased 15 percent, from $20,207 to $23,238 to bring it closer to, but still under, police chief salaries in neighboring communities.

The new lieutenant's position would carry a salary of $21,800.

Part of the chief's budget pertaining to the purchase of police vehicles already has been implemented and given the green light, since the board last week granted him permission to purchase three new replacement patrol cars.

The proposed budget, however, calls for four replacement vehicles and one additional vehicle for a total outlay of $36,723 (up $30,723 from the current year).

In tonight's meeting, the board will attempt to determine what services are or could be offered by the state police

Principals' pact draws approval

A three-year contract described as "not great" but "fair and respectable" has been ratified by the Northville school board and its principals.

The settlement, calls for 6½ percent improvements to the salary schedule for the first two years of the package. The contract will be reopened for wage and fringe benefit negotiations for the third year.

Tentative agreement was reached Thursday evening at the bargaining table when both teams accepted a mediator's recommendation for solving the last remaining roadblock.

The Northville Association of School

Administrators (NASA) ratified the contract Friday. Monday night, the Northville school board unanimously ratified the agreement.

NASA is the three-year-old bargaining unit for Northville's principals, assistant principals and special education supervisors.

They have been without a contract since their first-ever agreement expired last summer.

A tentative agreement was first reached on December 26 but was rejected a few days later by the NASA membership.

At the time, their objection was described only as a problem with the language concerning fringe benefits. As it turned out, they were concerned that another bargaining unit — the teachers, most likely — would negotiate a fringe benefit not offered to NASA.

The compromise reached Thursday was to increase the administrator's allowance for professional growth by $100. That increase may be applied to any group insurance fringe benefit plan established for professional staff.

That change, recommended by a state-appointed mediator, was the only

NEWS BRIEFS

Assessments up substantially here

Board of review hearings are coming up in March. Chances are some Northville property owners will want to attend. Assessments have been hiked nine percent in the township, seven percent in the Wayne county section of the city and 14 percent in the city's Oakland county portion. What's more, the city may have to consider levying two different tax rates for its two-county taxpayers! See "Speaking For The Record" — page 14-A.

FINAL HEARING on proposed used for the $52,496 that Northville Township expects to receive in federal revenue sharing this year has been set for March 15 at 7 p.m. Last week the board decided to allocate $30,000 of these monies for land acquisition and $22,496 for the fire department.

ANOTHER Northville Township Board budget session has been slated for noon Sunday at the township hall. Also the board is scheduled to meet tonight at 7 p.m.

PARENT-TEACHER conferences at Northville High School are Tuesday, March 6, from 12-3 p.m. and 6-9 p.m. No appointment is necessary for the sessions which are conducted in the cafeteria. There is no school for students on that day.

Township vetoes proposal to hire recreation planner.

A proposal by the Northville Recreation Commission to hire a professional planner to update the recreation comprehensive plan was scuttled this week by the Northville Township Board.

In unanimously rejecting the proposal, however, the board—

Promised to bird-dog an application for state funds through the State Department of Natural Resources (DNR) by utilizing the expertise of the township's planning consultant.

Informally committed the township to making sure recreation planning becomes an integral part of the township master plan updating this year.

Earlier, the Northville City Council gave the green light to the hiring of a planner (independent of the city and township planners), subject to concurrence of the township board.

Specifically, council authorized the expenditure of $250 to retain the planner for preliminary work.

Since the recreation department is jointly financed by the city and township, the recreation commission's proposal appears to be dead with the township's rejection.

With several township planning commissioners present at Sunday's special board meeting, township officials concluded:

• Without development of new data relative to township projections any major overhaul of the recreation plan would be premature and inaccurate.

• The township already has scheduled the updating of the township master plan that would produce the data necessary for an accurate recreation plan overhaul.

• Township officials have been assured by DNR spokesmen that an application for grant monies would be acceptable without a major recreation plan overhaul at this time because the township is working on its own master plan update.

• Development of a new recreation plan could mean duplication of some work on the township master plan.

• Refinement of the recreation plan to ensure qualification of grant applications can be accomplished without major, immediate overhaul.

It was estimated the recreation plan overhaul by a professional, who also would assist the department in perfecting its grant applications, would cost approximately $4,000 — a cost that would be shared by the city and township.

Recreation Director Ed Kricitz and other recreation officials had made these key points in recommending the plan overhaul:

• The DNR has indicated that the plan is so old and imperfect that it no longer is adequate to qualify Northville for any DNR funds.

• The recreation program serves both the city and the township, thus an independent professional would develop a broader recreation plan encompassing both communities.

• The new plan would not simply concern itself with future needed facilities, based on population projections, but equally important also would deal with long range programming.

Because township officials had gotten different information about what would be and would not be acceptable in the eyes of the DNR, Township Supervisor Donald Thomson, Clerk Clarice Sass and the township's planning consultant, George Vilcan are slated to meet with DNR officials to pin down grant requirements.

Furthermore, Clerk Sass reported to the board that Vilcan had agreed to assist in readying a formal application for DNR funds without cost.

Recreation officials are anxious to apply for DNR funds to help finance construction of a recreational building at the Fish Hatchery Park.

Although he agreed with other board members that an overhaul of the recreational plan may be premature because the township master plan data may be obsolete, Trustee James Nowka expressed concern that delay of the recreational plan not be extensive.

In view of the rapidly growing recreational services along with growing demand, it is essential, he said, that sound planning for the future should begin as soon as possible. To shelve such planning with little intention of taking it up later would be a mistake, he concluded.

Planners, however, indicated they expect the master plan update to be completed by the end of the year.

Furthermore, because of growing demands for recreational services, planners assured the board that recreation will become an integral part of the updated master plan.

Veteran Planner Bernard Baldwin reminded board members that very little mention was made of recreation in the current master plan — not because the consultant did not think it was important but because there was no demand for it when the master plan was developed.

Kiwanis Club to equip Allen Terrace library

Preliminary planning for the annual Kiwanis Club ASHAM Horse Show are well underway, reported Club President Robert Massell this week.

"This year's three-day show will again be held at Northville Downs through the courtesy of the Downs' executive manager, John Carlo," he said. It will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday, May 25-27," he said.

Representing the club's biggest annual fund-raiser, the show's profits will be used this year to furnish the library area in the new Allen Terrace senior citizens apartment complex.

"The club is delighted to undertake sponsorship of this important library project which means so much to senior citizens of our community," the president said.

He also announced that the club, which sponsors the on-going Golden Age identification program for senior citizens, is issuing free passes to the show for all senior citizens of the community who present their ID cards.

Children of the community who are involved in the club's recreational program for handicapped also will be guests of the club together with those persons and their families who provide prizes for winners in each of the horse show classes.

According to Kiwanian David Ryan, horse show competition will be expanded this year to include Morgan Horses — an especially popular breed in this area.

Entries from throughout Michigan and neighboring states are expected, he said in predicting that some of the finest horses in the Midwest will be competing.

Meanwhile, another Kiwanis member, Ray Casterline, said arrangements are being made now for a special added attraction involving hot air balloons.

School frets governor will slash state aid

Word that governor-ordered education cuts are likely has Northville school officials scrambling to avoid, or at least reduce, the damage.

Superintendent Lawrence Nichols has been notified by the Michigan Association of School Administrators that Governor Milliken will probably order across the board reductions of 1/2 to 1 1/2 percent of the public schools' "gross membership revenue."

Depending on the definition of "gross membership revenue" and the size of the reduction, Nichols said the action could cost the Northville system anywhere from $7,500 to $123,000.

"This could be a devastating kind of action for the district," he said Monday at a school board meeting.

Nichols said he would be contacting sources in Lansing to try and get a closer picture of the anticipated cuts.

The question is whether "gross membership revenue" refers to only the state aid payments made to the district or whether it refers to most of the operating funds — including those generated by local property taxes.

Burned out

Officers from the Michigan State Police Post are continuing their investigation into the cause of the fire that severely damaged the Northville headquarters of the Novi Ambulance Service. Arson is suspected in the fire which began at about 1:30 a.m. on Friday, February 16. The private firm provides ambulance service for Northville City and Township in the Fairbrook headquarters provided by the city. Novi Ambulance Service Owner James Early said as much as $15,000 worth of equipment may have been lost in the blaze.

From school board

Schoolcraft millage gets support

Northville's school board, which will soon be seeking millage approval itself, has endorsed the additional millage request proposed by Schoolcraft Community College.

Schoolcraft, which has not increased its 1.77 mill levy for operation since 1966, is seeking a one-mill increase for five years at a special election on Monday, March 26.

Schoolcraft President C. Nelson Grote has asked each of the five major school districts in the college's service area — Northville, Livonia, Plymouth-Canton, Clarenceville and Garden City — to endorse the millage.

The Northville board, which last week was guest of the Schoolcraft board of trustees at a dinner meeting where the millage election and the college's accomplishments were discussed, complied with Grote's request Monday night.

Board members referred to Schoolcraft's vocational and adult education programs as two main reasons for their support.

Vice President Christopher Johnson, noting that the board recognizes deficiencies in Northville's vocational education program, said he was impressed with the career-oriented curriculum at Schoolcraft.

Trustee John Hobart added that not only Northville High School graduates take advantage of the nearby Schoolcraft campus, located between Six Mile and Seven Mile east of Haggerty.

The average age of a Schoolcraft student is 30, he said.

The one mill will raise about $2 million for capital expenditures.

Schoolcraft would use the money to double the size of its highly-touted culinary arts program, expand other vocational-technical facilities, construct a learning resource center and improve and replace various facilities ranging from obsolete equipment to parking lots and lighting systems.

The money from the millage increase would also let the college take advantage of matching state funds already appropriated by Lansing.

Although Northville voters have been generally supportive of Schoolcraft millage requests, the college has had several failures at the polls.

This year, officials are hopeful that the lack of competing issues on the ballot, a time limit on the tax levy and the listing of specific projects that will be undertaken will help pass the issue.

They have also adopted a campaign strategy designed to concentrate only on voters that will probably vote for the millage.

In his letter requesting the Northville board's endorsement, Grote wrote:

"With the assistance of countless volunteers from both on and off campus, we hope to identify and motivate enough potential 'yes' voters to offset the 'no' voters which can be anticipated whenever a tax increase is put to public vote."

"There will be a general publicity effort early in the campaign."

"After the second week in March, however, and until the election is over, we will be concentrating solely on personal contact with positive voters."

"It would be extremely helpful to us if you would prepare and send us a letter of endorsement which can be printed in our local papers."

"We would be like to coordinate their release and hope to have them in time for editions published during the week of March 5."

The Northville board, which scheduled its own millage request so it will not conflict with Schoolcraft's date, unanimously endorsed the college's issue.

Northville's millage election will be Saturday, April 28. At that time, the district will seek renewal of three mills that expire this year and may decide to ask for additional millage.

College tax proposal to be aired

A general information night for persons wishing details about the college's millage proposal has been set for Wednesday, March 7 at Schoolcraft College.

Co-chairmen Paul Y. Kadish and Harry G.

Greenleaf will make brief presentations at 7:30 p.m. in Rooms B-200 and B-210 in the Liberal Arts Building. There will be a question and answer period.

Classes will be in session that evening, but persons wishing to tour the campus are invited to come early or to remain after the presentations.

Schoolcraft's request for a one-mill tax increase for five years is for capital expenditures.

When godfather talks, these kids listen and learn

By EMORY DANIELS

Jim Glasgow is the godfather to many special children throughout the metropolitan area.

He barks and they jump. He commands and they respond. He smiles and they relax. He praises and they feel fulfilled. He loves and they love.

Glasgow is a gym instructor for dozens of youngsters who travel to his classes once a week for special help. But he's much more than a gym teacher. He's their godfather.

During the day, Glasgow works for Northville Public Schools as a physical education instructor at the special education center in the former Burger Junior High in Garden City.

On Tuesday and Thursday nights, Glasgow conducts special classes in perceptual motor training for various chapters of the Michigan Association of Children with Learning Disabilities (MACLD).

(Note: These classes have since been discontinued because of concerns about liability insurance. See related story in this issue.)

Parents who are members of the MACLD are so pleased with the work Glasgow has done that they've adopted him as a fulltime godfather over their children's physical development.

Watching the godfather at work is an experience in itself.

When the students first enter the gym they immediately walk to a sign on the floor with their name on it, sit down and wait for the godfather's first words.

The youngsters speak only if spoken to and raise their hands to gain the godfather's attention.

Glasgow speaks crisply and slowly — allowing time for each word to be absorbed and translated by little minds which many times become confused by too many directions.

And there's always warning given before a command is spoken. "All right, listen up," he barks, pausing while every ear awaits the next word.

"We are not here tonight to have fun. We are here because we all have problems. And we are going to do something about these problems. Right?"

"The first thing we are going to do is try. Maybe you can't do a backward roll the first time — but you can try. Don't e-v-e-rrr let me hear you say, I can't. Not many of us can do everything the first time we try. But all of us can try. Right?"

"Right, Mr. Glasgow," a chorus of voices answers — almost in unison.

Before starting the physical activity for the evening, Glasgow asks students a few questions to provide an opportunity for verbal interaction.

He asks questions such as the month, season, date, day of the week and temperature. He expects each student to recite, when asked, his height, weight, name, age, address, school and teacher's name at school.

Each student is assigned a shape (triangle, square, etc.) and must tell what it is when asked.

During the preliminary warm-ups between the godfather and his children, then, attention is given to personal information, self-concepts, special relationships and time. Not any heavy academic stuff — just stuff which helps a kid relate to who he is and things which help define his narrow place in the wide universe.

A point system issued with points awarded for correct answers during the warm-ups, for good behavior, for "trying" on the equipment and during exercises.

Glasgow uses points as a reward system — not for competition. In fact, no cumulative total of the points earned is kept. A child is told when he earns points but a tally isn't kept so no one knows who earns the most. Thus effort — not final achievement — is rewarded.

Glasgow's stern demeanor not only gains and keeps the attention of students but also insures there is no horseplay — a necessity because of the equipment used: Balance beams, trampoline, parallel bars, bicycles, ropes and rings.

"Each child must abide by strict rules and regulations pertaining to use of equipment," Glasgow said.

"Since beginning my program in 1965 and having worked with thousands of handicapped and multi-handicapped children, no one has ever been injured in this program."

Glasgow's sternness, however, is mixed with smiles of approval which the children strive hard to earn. And, when appropriate, Glasgow treats students with samples of his corny humor to entice laughter.

All children, after all, need to laugh — especially children living with handicaps that often make it hard to laugh.

After a series of exercises, the youngsters are ordered to different locations in the gym to work either with young adult assistants or with Glasgow.

Some youngsters will be running through an obstacle course. Others will take turns swinging a bat at a ball on a stick.

One child will climb into a harness to jump on the trampoline; another will mount the exercise cycle. Another will be working on the balance beams while other students are using the ropes, parallel bars or rings.

Glasgow will walk from one location to another, providing individual instruction, encouragement, prodding and praise.

A while he blows and all activity halts. Every eye turns toward Glasgow who then begins shouting out names.

"John, get over to the trampoline now. Lisa go to the cycle. Bobbie, you take a turn on the balance beam. Mary, Shawn, Freddie, Lyle and Peter report to the obstacle course."

The whistle blows again and every one promptly reports to the next work area.

At each area the kids are involved in an almost super-human effort, trying to accomplish what the unsuspecting might view as a simple task.

A young boy who cannot run without falling is working on the treadmill. Another youngster, who can only see with one eye, struggles courageously to hit a ball with the bat.

A young girl who is too uncoordinated to skip struggles to do a jumping jack. Glasgow watches and is pleased because all have the courage to try.

Glasgow continually builds up the self-image of his pupils. Self-confidence is preached and practiced each minute. "You can do it. Come on now."

Because of this emphasis on confidence building there is only one "real mistake" which can be committed, and that's to laugh at oneself.

"I would like to stress one point on punishment. Almost all the children agreed, if anyone degrades themselves by making the following remarks: 'I'm stupid, fat, dumb, etc.' they would do the following punishment on their own time: 50 jumping jacks or sit ups or four laps. This has been very effective with almost all of the classes. Degrading has almost come to a complete stop."

And who are these children?

Some are normal children enrolled in the class to serve as positive models for the handicapped youngsters. Some have physical handicaps or problems with vision, hearing and some may be emotionally impaired.

Many are learning disability youngsters which explains the involvement of the MACLD chapters in the metropolitan area.

Learning disabled children need the physical training to help them differentiate between left and right, to develop spatial concepts, to sharpen motor development in hopes the child in later years will be able to learn to read.

The learning disabled child has a handicap which was discovered in the 1960s. The child's problems have been described as the "invisible handicap" because the child looks normal but yet deviates enough that academic achievement will be very difficult to obtain.

The learning disabled child often is described as lazy, stubborn or immature, and feels confused and defensive about this judgement because he so often tries — too often without success of any kind.

The child often is of average or above average intelligence and is best recognized for the real gap between expected and actual achievement.

While learning disabilities cover a wide variety of specific physical, mental and neurological defects, most LD children share these problems which interfere with learning:

Difficulty with concepts of time and space, poor sense of rhythm, poor awareness of their own body, poor ability to combine movement and vision, visual inefficiency, poor listening ability, poor understanding of concepts of numbers or time or space, inattention, poor sensory integration.

Most of these learning problems are touched upon, directly or indirectly, with the activities, exercises and operations used in Glasgow's gym classes.

The result is not that any of these problems is solved.

The result is one step toward a solution, one small advance, one "sample" achievement for a child for whom success almost is a miracle.

Insurance woes peril helpful gym course

Insurance problems have halted an innovative gym class for Northville children with learning disabilities. Unless sponsors can find an inexpensive way to provide liability coverage, the program probably cannot resume.

"It's a crying shame that this should happen because it's such a worthwhile program," said Jean Bicknell, a Northville woman who is co-president of the Northville-Plymouth-Canton chapter of the Michigan Association for Children with Learning Disabilities (MACLD).

It is the local chapter that sponsors the hour-long classes for 40 youngsters, including seven from Northville, that met weekly at Garden City's Burger School until the insurance problem forced suspension on December 15.

Burger is rented by the Northville Public Schools as part of its education program for mentally retarded youngsters who live in two area state-run institutions.

But the gym class is not part of the Northville schools program and the students are not mentally retarded but they do have learning disabilities.

This means they have average or above-average IQ's but, for various reasons, are not functioning as well as they should.

The gym class, taught by Specialist James Glasgow (see related story), has proved to be an effective way of dealing with some of these difficulties as well as improving the youngsters' coordination and self-esteem.

The local MACLD received permission from the Northville school board to use the Burger gym and its equipment for its class one night a week.

That ended in December, however, when the local chapter learned that the state chapter carries no liability insurance.

"We always assumed that we were covered," said Mrs. Bicknell. "We have the parents sign (injury) waivers and the parents must be on hand during the sessions."

"We did much agonizing over it. If there were an accident, you don't think people would ever sue. But if a child of 8, 9 or 10 had an incapacitating injury, what would a parent do?"

"Our own families and our own homes would be in jeopardy."

Glasgow, whose full time job is gym instructor for mentally retarded youngsters, has said that there has never been an injury in his classes since he began them in 1965.

Nevertheless, local MACLD representatives say the cost of insurance premiums are prohibitive.

They have asked the Northville

Community Family YMCA gets new name, home

The Canton-Northville-Plymouth Family YMCA had a good year in 1978. Good news outshone the bad news at its annual meeting February 19 at Plymouth West Middle School. Retiring President Dwight Mathews summed it up in his annual report: "The YMCA has accomplished a reevaluation of its future goals, strengthened communication channels to our surrounding YMCAs, expanded its services to senior citizens of our community, and continued its history of successful programming. "During the past year, we also had a first for our Y. Judge Dunbar Davis very graciously donated the Fralick House to our organization. It will be the responsibility of your new board of directors to decide upon the use of this greatly appreciated gift."

The Y, which serves three communities, also received an official new name. Last October it became the Canton-Northville-Plymouth YMCA.

One of the low points of the year was a disappointing cut in federal funding and a redefinition of services for the senior citizen program. Mathews credited Janet Luce, executive director, with saving the program.

"Due to her excellent effort in replacing the loss of federal funds with community-acquired funds we will be able to continue our very successful service for the next year."

Membership in the Y totaled 724 persons of all ages. Winter, spring, summer and fall classes attracted 2,208 participants.

This included the Indian programs. There are 12 tribes of guides, two trailblazers tribes, two Indian princesses, six Indian maidens and one Indian Trailettes tribe.

Ken Holmes showed slides of Indian programs which involve parents and children. There were floats and marchers in the Plymouth and Northville July 4 parades, a spaghetti dinner, a family picnic in late August, the Indianorama in October.

"The winter camp was one of the best ever with more than 200 persons attending," said Holmes.

New board members were introduced by Janet Luce.

Dwight Mathews will become a member at large. Mike Barnes of Plymouth is the new president. Smith Horton will replace Peter Schweitzer as vice president. Lynn Hoehn will continue as secretary and Paul Bieritz will serve another term as treasurer. Hoedel replaces Dan Campbell of Canton Township at Title III treasurer.

George Johnson of Plymouth and Dr. James Tsoucaris of Northville will continue as members at large.

New to the 1979 board are members Michael Caffery of Plymouth, Dorothy Chandler of Northville, Elizabeth Folger of Plymouth, Russ Hoisington of Plymouth, Harvey Johnson of Plymouth, Larry Kennedy of Canton, Marian LeFevre of Northville, Margaret Merritt of Plymouth, Betty Urquhart and Margaret Wilson of Plymouth, and Hank Dawson of Canton.

Barbara Bruce of Canton will stay on as office staff and Jean Campeau will continue as senior citizen coordinator. Working with her will be Betty Weiser. Samm Durante and Marge Stacy will head the Indian programs, replacing Fred Clement and Carole Mathews.

General board members who are filling out their terms are Linda Anderson, Lorna Badendiek, Sam Durante, Jeffrey Goldsmith, Tom Healy, John Howe, Mary Lou Reichenbach, Peter Schweitzer and William Sliger.

Goals for the upcoming year were listed as well as the ultimate goal of having a facility or facilities in the three communities to serve as "a center and meeting house for the entire family — to have a home away from home for the three areas."

Guest speaker was Ray Hoedel, assistant superintendent for business for the Plymouth Canton Community Schools. He will serve at Title III treasurer on the new Y board of directors.

Hoedel discussed the problems of a growing school district. The present enrollment of 16,000 is expected to reach 20,000 by 1983. The present budget of $29.6 million may hit the $33 million mark in five years.

Student and faculty growth, need for more space, maintenance of present buildings, energy conservation, and requirements of barrier-free schools to accommodate the handicapped are compounded by inflation.

LeFevre and Dorothy Chandler, join Dr. James Tsoucaris as Northville members on the board at the annual meeting February 19.

school board to "sponsor" the gym program for the seven students who attend Northville schools.

"We're not asking them to pay for the teacher," said Carolyn Beyer, the gym coordinator for the local MACLD. "We'll pay for the teacher. We're just asking to use the building."

But the school's insurance agent, Les Bowden and Associates of Northville, has advised against making gym space available to an organization that does not have liability coverage.

In case of a lawsuit, "the courts tend to collect from the people who are easiest to collect from," explained John Flaughner, an administrator in Northville's special education program.

Since MACLD is not insured, the logical target would be the school system, he said.

The district's practice has been to require outside groups to provide proof of insurance before being allowed to use school property.

Such was the case earlier this year when local soccer supporters sponsored an exhibition match at the high school football field.

Representatives from the local MACLD, stymied because their state chapter does not provide the necessary coverage, are becoming frustrated.

"Time is going by. These kids need this class," said Ms. Beyer. The children go to Northville schools, she said, and should be allowed to use Northville facilities.

President Bicknell was more upset with the policies of insurance companies that set high rates for youngsters with learning disabilities because "immediately they think it is a high risk element."

"These are bright kids who know there is something wrong. After awhile, they begin to wonder, 'What's the matter with me?'"

"(The gym class) boosts their self-esteem. They feel so good and will go on trying to read rather than feeling like a failure and not trying."

"I don't know if you've ever met an 8-year-old who feels he's a failure but it's just tragic."

Flaughner said the school system was looking into alternatives that might save the program, but he said he could not elaborate.

AARP offers tax help to seniors March 15

Free income tax clinics for senior citizens are scheduled throughout the area this month and next as a service of the Plymouth-Northville Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons.

A clinic is set for 1-5 p.m. Thursday, March 15, in the Northville Public Library.

A clinic will be conducted from 2:30-3:30 p.m. February 28 at the Plymouth Cultural Center and from 1:30-4:30 p.m. March 7 in the same location.

The clinics are provided by the chapter and are available to any senior citizen whether a member of the AARP or not. There is no charge.

A team will attempt to answer questions or, if the senior wishes, fill out the federal and state returns. Appointments are not necessary.

The AARP reports that there has been a misunderstanding regarding the necessity of filing a federal return before preparing a state return. In general, AARP says, this is necessary. The adjusted gross income shown on the federal return is used in preparing the state return. However, if the total income is relatively low, it is not necessary to file a state return. Hence, says AARP, no federal figures need to be quoted.

A property tax and home heating credit, if warranted, may be requested from the state even if the person does not file an income tax return.

School sees cut in state funding

When Milliken ordered a similar cut three years ago, the amount was cut from state aid payments (or, in a few cases, from categorical payments such as transportation), but the amount was determined by virtually the district's entire budget.

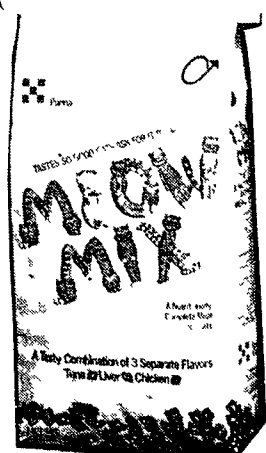

If that is the method used this year, when the loss to the district would be from $41,000 to $123,000.

The cuts at the state level are envisioned as part of wide-scale belt tightening to balance the budget. The "rainy day" fund established recently for such purposes cannot be used because the state economy is not in a recession.

School officials said Monday that they wanted to insure that education wasn't carrying an unequally large burden of the tax cuts.

"If these cuts are necessary then they at least should be spread with some equity," said Nichols.

Trustee Zapke wants township to acquire portion of prison land

A suggestion of Trustee William Zapke to try to acquire Detroit House of Correction acreage from the state drew positive reaction from the Northville Township Board Sunday.

The possibility that some land might be obtained by the township requires immediate attention and concerted planning, Zapke told board members meeting over the proposed 1979-80 budget.

Zapke suggested a committee be established to prepare plans for use of such land should it ever become available.

"There is property conceivably available at little or no cost," said the trustee, "but we must act now and begin lobbying to get it."

Zapke said that in a telephone conversation with State Senator R. Robert Geake, he came away with the distinct impression that if Northville pressed the state for excess prison land and gave the state a positive plan for its use the township stands a good chance of receiving it.

Geake's position on the senate appropriations committee, plus the influencing positions of State Representatives Jack Kirksey and Robert Law, puts Northville in a "good position."

The state has proposed purchasing the now vacant women's division of the Detroit House of Corrections and turning it into a state prison. Monies for the purchase from the City of Detroit, however, have not yet been appropriated.

If the state acquires the land, it very likely will not need all of it, reasoned Zapke.

"In the past several weeks, I have observed that as a board we have repeatedly discussed five areas of concern to the township:

"1. Fire protection in the West Township.

"2. Expanded recreation facilities.

"3. Land acquisition for future township expansion.

"4. Master plan update.

"5. Office space at Township Hall.

"As I personally assess these areas, a common solution although somewhat idealistic begins to unfold.

"Imagine if you will, a large parcel of land in the western township with a relatively inexpensive metal frame building in its center. This building could house the water and sewer department and all of its equipment. It would also temporarily store fire equipment to service the west.

"Add large restrooms with outdoor access, surround the building with soccer and baseball fields, and you have our first recreation complex. At the time when the Beck road fire station becomes a reality, the fire department vacates the space to the rapidly growing water and sewer (public works) department."

Zapke urged the board to "avoid eleventh hour planning" by beginning feasibility studies now. He suggested a committee made up of board members, the planning commission, water and sewer commission, recreation commission, Fire Chief Robert Toms, the superintendent of the water and sewer department and at least two residents of the township.

Although the board was enthusiastic about Zapke's recommendation, it deferred appointment of any committee until township officials have met with Senator Geake to first determine if acquisition of such land is a real possibility.

Entertaining Rotary

There was music and song at last week's Northville Rotary Club luncheon at First Presbyterian Church as some 50 members of the Amerman Elementary Glee Club came to entertain with Mary Price, their director and music teacher. The fifth and sixth graders sang a variety of popular selections, including "It's a Small, Small World." As a special feature, Amy Coltrane played a violin solo during the program. ## Symphony concert's Sunday

The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra will present its March concert at 4 p.m. Sunday, March 4th in the auditorium of Plymouth Salem High School, Joy and Canton Center roads.

Guest artist will be harpist, Maria Royce. Ms. Royce began harp lessons at the age of eight with Suzanne Litscher in Grand Rapids. The following six summers (1969-74) she attended the National Music Camp at Interlochen, where she was a student of Clementine White.

After receiving her high school education at Interlochen Arts Academy, as a student of Elisa Dicken, Ms. Royce graduated with the Young Artist Award. She was the recipient of the National Federation of Music Clubs Biennial Student Award in Harp in 1977.

She has performed as soloist with the Grand Rapids Youth Symphony, Michigan Youth Symphony and the World Youth Symphony, as well as three consecutive years with the In-terlochen Arts Academy Orchestra.

In February, she was soloist with the Grand Rapids Symphony, performing "Concert For Harp" by Carlos Surinach, composed for and dedicated to her. She is now a student of Alice Chalifoux at the Cleveland Institute of Music, and she will perform Handel's Harp Concerto & Debussy Danse Sacree and Profane.

Tickets are available at the door or at Beitner Jewelry, Plymouth Book World, Heide's Flowers, Audette Office Supply, Arnoldt Williams Music in Canton.

Cost of tickets are $3.50 for adults, $1.75 senior citizens, students k-12 free. Baby-sitting is available by Girl Scouts for preschoolers. Senior citizens bus pick up at Tonquish Creek at 3:15 p.m.

This concert is made possible in part by a grant from the Michigan State Council for the Arts & the Plymouth Symphony League.

GOOD TIME FOR WINE
by Jim Roth

You don't need to make elaborate preparations for a wine tasting party. One glass per person is enough. You need pitchers of fresh water for rinsing glasses and dry crackers or bread for clearing palates between wines. One bottle of wine usually contains 24 ounces, and for a good tasting of 8 wines or so, plan on a half bottle per guest. One good idea is to taste different brands of the same type, for example, different Beaujolais. Try comparing French wines with their American counterparts. Or just try the wines you've been curious about for a long time. Any way you do it, a wine tasting makes a good party.

Whether you want to taste different brands of the same type of wine, compare French and American counterparts, or try a variety of different wines, we can help you at GOOD TIME PARTY STORE, 567 Seven Mile Road, 349-1477. # Can solar power work in cold, cloudy Michigan?

By CHRIS GOLEMBIEWSKI

The day dawned bright and clear — and cold — in Brighton. It was 7 degrees below at 6 a.m. and never reached more than 15 degrees all day.

Inside the new house on Main Street in the shadow of the water tower the thermostat was set at a cozy 70 degrees but the furnace wasn't on.

How did they do that?

With solar power. And you thought you just read that Michigan was short on practical solar potential?

A group of young businessmen in Brighton is out to disprove that belief with a solar heating system they say has never been distributed in Michigan before, which is practical for home use today.

And two solar energy experts who haven't seen the Brighton solar equipment yet say they are intrigued by the claims made for it.

While the Detroit Edison Company has installed monitoring meters at the modern, two-story structure on Main at School Street, it's much too soon to analyze any results since the heating system has only been operable this month.

But it seems off to a good start. And the Michigan tax credits just approved may make it more attractive.

The house with the reflective glass facade you've been wondering about was designed and built by Joseph A. Malik of Apollo Builders. He is also the local dealer for solar energy equipment introduced to the state this fall by the Brighton-based Southward Solar Systems distributor.

Southward partners Charles Thompson, another county builder, and Michael Messer have big plans for the solar system, the components of which are made by Pittsburgh Plate Glass (PPG), Goodyear and DuPont. Thompson says he has plans to build several solar heated residences around the metropolitan area as well as a commercial warehouse for their own business.

The Apollo house was introduced to the public during an open house in October at which Governor Milliken's office was represented; the Michigan Energy Commission has remained interested in the project, Thompson said.

Since October, Malik, son of builder Joseph Malik, Jr., and his wife have occupied the 2,400 square foot home. The PPG solar hot water system — with an 80 gallon tank — has been operational since then, along with an electric heat pump heating system which acts as a back-up for the solar collectors.

Malik says the whole system cost $14,000 to install, but was "overbuilt" for demonstration purposes as a model home. With 600 square feet of collector surface on the front wall — the southern exposure — the solar system is supposed to provide up to 80 percent of heating needs.

Malik's home, which contains many luxury extras, like a giant sunken bathtub with whirlpool and skylit garden, is appraised at $110,000. But Thompson maintains that a 1,500 square foot home can be solarized for less than $10,000, including hot water, and can provide at least 50 percent of heating needs.

He added that he plans to construct a 1,200 square foot house with solar collectors on Hughes Road in Livingston County at a cost in the low $70,000 range.

Southward Solar Systems distributes equipment from Solar Marketing Company, based in Omaha, which is said to be the most efficient system available, making use of Michigan's cloudy winters.

Basically, the automatic heating system works by collecting the sun's infrared rays — even on cloudy days, claims Thompson — by heating the air trapped inside the glass collector panels. The air is then moved by fans to a 7 x 8 foot insulated storage room where the heat is stored within plastic-sealed eutectic salt trays. Malik's house will have a five-day heat storage capacity.

The thermostatic system automatically shifts as needed, providing heat directly from the solar panels on a sunny day, or from the energy storage area, or from the electric heating system if no stored energy remains.

Hot water for the house is provided by pumping water to the roof's four energy collectors. The space heating system is more efficient, however, because wall collectors easily collect the winter sun's low rays and snow cover on the glass is no problem, the Southward partners claim.

Bill Dowsett recalls

By MARILYN HERALD

Bill Dowsett of Eight Mile is watching developments in Iran almost as closely as President Carter.

No, Dowsett's not understudying for a political post, he just happens to be a little more knowledgeable about that beleaguered country than the average area resident and consequently a lot more interested.

Dowsett spent 1977 in Iran and found it a fascinating area of contradictions. Rumors when he left indicated that the country would soon go Communist.

It comes as a surprise to the American that the news media talks so much about the hatred of the Iranians for the embattled Shah. He says he saw only love and reverence for the ruler among the people he dealt with.

A horticulture and agriculture managerial graduate of Michigan State University, Dowsett went to Iran at the request of the Seamourgh Company of Tehran to show the people there how to farm "the American way." He was hired to act as advisor for seven huge "farms" scattered throughout the country.

Previously, he had been managing 24,000 acres of sugar cane in Florida.

While the primary crop on most of the farms was chickens, Dowsett supervised the farm work such as 200 hectares (500 acres) of sugar beets, 20 hectares (50 acres) of apples and a wide variety of other crops on the 3,300 acre farm at Quchan. Much of his time was spent on this farm located near the northern border between Iran and Russia.

Dowsett commented that Russian planes made daily flights in the area where British, American and Russian-built military equipment got mixed use by the Iranian Army. He said that every little mud-hut village had its own detachment of soldiers.

Dowsett predicts a long battle between the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini forces and the Communist backed people and he wouldn't be surprised to see the Shah returned to power.

Temperatures in the mid-east country were even more unpredictable than those of Michigan, Dowsett reports. At Kerman where he also spent a great deal of time, the heat varied from 40 degrees at night to 105 degrees in the daytime. The climate is extremely dry and the rainfall averages about four inches per year.

Dowsett endured temperatures of 122 degrees in Kuwait on the Persian Gulf during his stay there.

Water for the crops is provided by pumps and irrigation ditches which crisscross the land. They are connected to tunnels at the base of the mountains and the tunnels are cleaned out by men crawling through them.

Iran advisor

Back in the Northville area after a year in Iran, Bill Dowsett holds a map of that war-torn country.

Although Dowsett learned to be reasonably fluent in Farsi, the Iranian language, he had great difficulty persuading his farm workers that there is a better way to thin and weed sugar beets than doing it laboriously with a putty knife.

As Dowsett points out, the task is done by machines in this country. All he wanted to do was to get the Iranians to use hoes. They told him there were no hoes and he said, "then we'll find a blacksmith to make some".

The Iranians took a fancy to "Mister Bill" and the big Case tractor he purchased for the farm at Quchan. In fact, he had to keep the tractor key in his pocket in order to prevent the Iranians from attempting to drive it away.

He taught a frustrated would-be soldier, Taghee, to drive the big Case which pulled five 18-inch bottom plows with ease.

Dowsett was unable though to persuade the farm managers that men like Taghee who could drive the tractor should receive more than the standard $3 per day in wages.

"Here he was driving a $25,000 tractor and if he goofed he could wipe out a whole irrigation pumping station and engines. Yet he made the same as the ditch digger who couldn't do much more than break a shovel handle if he got unhappy.

"Shovel handles come cheap and break easy because they're nothing but willow branches. Shovels there don't come with handles at all. The people just go out and cut a branch to make one and some of them are pretty crooked."

The tractor, which attracted much attention everywhere, was driven by Dowsett the 62 miles from the warehouse in Mashhad to the Quchan farm. At a maximum speed of 18 miles per hour, that took the American from 8 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. with stops along the way for Pepsi, a popular drink in Iran.

The tractor was simply too big to be transported on any of the equipment available.

When the tractor was out working in the fields, people stopped along the roads to watch since it was so much larger than any they'd seen.

When Dowsett first arrived in Iran with a book of Farsi as his only help with the language, it was like playing a game of charades all day long. He made motions, he drew pictures and pointed to get his meaning across.

"I never went anywhere without a pad of paper and a pencil to draw pictures on," explained the man who now sells real estate for Bruce Roy Realty in Northville.

Although Dowsett had a table and chairs in his farm home, he sat on the floor on handmade antique Persian rugs most of the time when he visited in the homes in the area.

He recalls well dining with a very wealthy man where they lunched in an approximately 12-by-20-foot bedroom with a big bed, table and mirror.

"We sat on the floor and my host was all dressed up in a suit and tie. He had taken off his coat and was cutting up pieces of lamb into cubes on a board on the floor. We sat around a tablecloth spread on the floor.

"He cut up the lamb and the servant took it outside to cook it over a charcoal fire. We had rice with it and a salad of grass and clover with no dressing. That type of salad was usual in Iran."

The farms Dowsett acted as planner for were located roughly in a huge circle around the Dasht-e-Kavir and Kavir-e-Lut ranges in eastern Iran. The cities near them were Kerman, Rafasanjan, Yazd, Isfahan, Tehran, Qazvin and Quchan.

In addition to sugar beets and apples, they raised corn, soy beans, alfalfa and sunflowers. "We even tried some pistachios but I don't know how that worked out. The climate might be too cold for them."

Chickens were the big industry on most of the farms where eggs were produced in huge quantities as were broilers.

Ranges for layers consisting of nine houses totaling 40 by 400 feet in length housed 25,000 chickens. There were 10 such ranges on one of the farms.

Some 750 feet away from the layers, the broilers would be housed. They were kept separate because of the chance of disease.

Eggs from the layers traveled completely on conveyor belts from the hens to the cases which were filled by machine. The eggs were not candled or washed, according to Dowsett.

Safe and comfortable here in the States, Dowsett often wonders what has happened to the friends he left in Iran and the farms he supervised.

Are they still there and is Taghee still driving the Case or has he finally made it into the fighting.

Well over six feet himself, Dowsett still had a sympathetic understanding for the little tractor driver who had been refused entry into the army because of his diminutive height — less than five feet.

Novi film series

California is next travel stop

The Novi Adventure Travel Series continues tonight (Wednesday) with a 90-minute color film trip to California.

Showtime is 8 p.m. at the Novi High School Fuerst Auditorium at Ten Mile and Taft. Tickets cost $3 and are available at the door.

The narrators for tonight's show, Sherilyn and Matthew Mentis, will highlight the historic Mission Trail, the sights of Los Angeles and San Francisco and natural wonders ranging from the Pacific shoreline to the giant Redwood forests.

This is the fifth of nine programs in the travel series which is sponsored by the Novi Linos Club.

The line-up of speakers and films was arranged by George Pierrot, well-known Detroit personality and worldwide traveler.

Pierrot is helping the Lions in the opening season of the travel series in the hopes that the series will become an annual event as it has in Grosse Pointe and Birmingham.

Pierrot started the World Adventure Travel Series which is now in its 33rd season at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Lions Club officials reported good season ticket sales when the series began in October.

Following tonight's show, there are programs about Mexico on March 28, Germany on April 11, Hawaii on April 22 and Canada on April 29.

All proceeds will be spent on Lions Club project to assist the blind.

Don't want it, but what's price?

"We don't think we want it ... but what's the price anyway?"

That appeared to be the position of the city council this week upon hearing that Denis A. Roux, owner of 1.15 acres of land between the new hardware at Novi Road and Allen Drive and the apartment building on Novi Road, wants to either build on it or sell it.

Most council members took the position that the vacant land would not be a particularly important addition to the city-owned adjacent park lands.

"If it's buildable we probably couldn't afford it," said Councilman J. Burton DeRusha, who agreed with Councilmen Stanley Johnston and Wallace Nichols that the property does not appear to be of particular value to the city.

Nevertheless, council directed the city manager to find out how much Roux is asking for the land.

March of Dimes fund drive gears up tomorrow

Doorbells will be ringing throughout the community in the annual March of Dimes Mothers' March on Birth Defects beginning this Thursday and continuing through March 8.

Postmaster John Steimel, who is serving as Northville March of Dimes chairman for the sixth year, reports that Northville will be joining other communities in and around the metropolitan area in holding the march.

This year, he explains, volunteer marchers received their kits directly from the Metropolitan Chapter of the National Foundation for the March of Dimes. It has its headquarters at 20100 Greenfield in Detroit. At the conclusion of the march the funds will be mailed to a depository.

Both local and national programs to fight birth defects are supported by the march, Steimel states.

Traditionally, volunteers of the Mothers' March held their drive in January, March of Dimes Month, as it originally was launched in Phoenix, Arizona, in 1950. However, 29 years later, volunteers' suggestions that it be held later because of weather conditions were heeded, and the march moved to March.

Volunteers this year, the Detroit office reports, have been recruited with the theme, "You don't have to be a Mother to March." Students, Girl Scouts, senior citizens, husbands, church groups and other interested citizens have been contacted.

The Metropolitan Detroit Chapter points out that, because much of the money raised stays in the area, the chapter has been able to contribute to birth defect centers, such as the C.S. Mott Center at Wayne State University, and to supply intensive care equipment for infants and monitoring equipment for high-risk mothers for major hospitals in the Detroit area.

It assists the Sickle Cell and Tay Sachs clinics and the Spina Bifida Association (parents whose children have open spines), has given 60 health career scholarships to area high school students last year, operates genetic counseling programs and provides a health department nutritionist and gives research grants.

March of Dimes may be called at 864-6000 about the programs.

Helen Hayes was the first National Mothers' March chairman. Opera Star Beverly Sills is present national chairman.

March volunteers

Postmaster John Steimel, Northville March of Dimes chairman for the sixth year, checks Evelyn Mahoney's Mothers' March kit as she prepares to be a March volunteer for the 17th year. The door-to-door campaign in the fight against birth defects begins this Thursday.

Senior party will go 'Around the World'

"Around the World in '79" is the theme chosen for the all-night Northville High Senior Party given by parents on graduation night.

Committee chairpersons met Monday night to discuss plans for the traditional party.

"The committees are anxious to begin working on their various assignments."

Any parents of graduates interested in helping with the party are invited to call Jean Boll at 349-5863.

The party is funded by donations from the families of graduating seniors. This year, a $12 donation has been requested.

Checks should be made payable to Northville Senior Class Party 1979.

They may be mailed to Barbara Willoughby, 790 Springfield Drive. The donation helps cover the expenses of a buffet dinner, breakfast, decorations and entertainment.

Kirksey tax aid is coming

State Representative Jack Kirksey will be available Friday, March 9, to assist Northville Township area senior citizens with preparation of forms for property tax rebates and home heating credits.

Kirksey will conduct the help session at the Northville Township hall, 41600 Six Mile Road, beginning at 11 a.m. Volunteers will be on hand to fill out the credit claim forms on behalf of area senior citizens.

"Sometimes the forms are confusing," Kirksey said, "so I urge any eligible senior citizen who has not yet filed for tax relief to take the time to come to the meeting."

Persons wishing assistance with their property tax credit form should plan to bring a statement of their sources of income in 1978, as well as copies of their tax bills.

New site?

With the U.S. Postal Department planning to expand the post office here, quite likely adding an addition to the west, city council is looking ahead to what might be done with the Kerr House that stands on Cady Street where the post office addition would be built. Rather than demolish the house or sell it to someone to move, council has concluded that it would be financially wiser to purchase a lot, move the house and sell lot and house as a package. That's why it has offered to buy the lot at the northeast corner of Randolph and High. It sees this as an ideal site for the house, which senior citizens have been using and who now are centering their activities at Allen Terrace.

March is busy time, morning and night, for Northville board

On paper, the Northville school board meets only twice in March.

In reality, the school board's meeting schedule comes on like a lion.

Including its regularly scheduled meetings on the second and fourth Mondays of the month, the board has six morning and night meetings on its March schedule.

Here's the line up:
—Monday, March 5. Joint PTA-PTSA Council-school board meeting at high school cafeteria beginning at 7:30 p.m.
The meeting is designed to encourage discussions among board members and representatives from the parent-teacher groups.

Board President Douglas Whitaker said there is a full agenda of topics.

—Wednesday, March 7. Evaluation meeting for first-year Superintendent Lawrence Nichols beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the board of education offices on the third floor of Main Street Elementary School.

Board members have been issued evaluation forms which they are bound to turn into Committee Chairperson Marjorie Sliger who will tabulate the results prior to Wednesday's meeting.

This is the first evaluation at Northville for Nichols who was named superintendent last summer after a 19-year career in the Livonia school system.

The meeting is open to the public but Nichols, under terms of the state's Open Meeting Act, has the right to request closed discussions of certain items.

—Monday, March 12. Breakfast meeting for school board and K-12 administrators beginning at 7:30 a.m. at the Plymouth Hilton. Two as yet undetermined topics will be discussed at what appears to be becoming an annual meeting.

—Monday, March 12. It's a busy day for the school board since its regular monthly meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at the board offices.

—Monday, March 26. The "regular special meeting" of the school board begins at 7:30 p.m. at Northville High school. During the school year, the second scheduled meeting of each month is rotated among the various school buildings.

—Wednesday, February 28. Another breakfast meeting at 7:30 a.m. at the Plymouth Hilton. This time, the administrators will be from the Institution Special Education Program (ISEP) schools.

ISEP is responsible for the education of mentally retarded persons under the age of 26 who live in two area state institutions.

Don't count your chickens...

The days grow longer and there's a warmth in the sunlight despite the lingering remnants of a long winter. Tomorrow

March takes over and then, believe it or not, there's just 21 days to go to spring. But before you start getting that gardening urge, keep in mind some of Southeast Michigan's most rugged weather has occurred in the waning days of winter. Photos by Jane Hale and David Turnley.

Solar homes test state sun power

What's more, the distributors maintain, the hot-air system works at lower collector temperatures than the water collectors. Warm air starts circulating to the house when the temperature reaches 90 degrees in the collector wall, while water collectors must reach 150 degrees before they begin storing energy, they say.

"This system can collect heat in Michigan almost every day," Thompson claimed. "Even on mildly overcast days. It also picks up heat rays reflected from the white snow."

On a recent visit to the Main Street house on a 15 degree day, Malik flicked a switch on a monitor to show that current temperature within the collector wall was 165 degrees, while the temperature inside the energy storage room was 130 degrees. The system was providing heat directly from the outdoor collector panels.

Thompson disputed a recent story in a Detroit newspaper which noted a government report putting Michigan on the low end of the solar energy rating scale. That study gave Michigan a 1.4 rating, with Florida a 6.

He cited another study by the National Heating and Cooling Information Center which gave Lansing a 53 percent sunshine rating.

George Murray, Edison engineer and leader of the utility company's solar research group, who was quoted in the Detroit newspaper, said in fact, that Edison was not discounting solar energy applications in Michigan.

He noted that a model solar home in Northville is being readied by Edison for a February openhouse.

Murray said cost effectiveness is the major drawback to domestic solar energy systems currently available. "A solar collector costs as much as a deluxe refrigerator, yet it is much less complex," he observed.

The federal and state tax credits on the cost of alternate energy systems — perhaps as much as a total of $3,000 — should help make solar energy more attractive in Michigan, Murray said. But the investment still means a 15-year payback period — how long it takes for the system to pay for itself — and many people, including builders, bankers and home buyers are not yet taking the gamble.

Murray and another solar expert, Professor John Clark, of the University of Michigan's mechanical engineering department, agree that Michigan' winters yield about 30 percent sunshine on the average. And both note that does not mean Michigan must be written out of the solar energy picture, but just that it's more expensive.

With increased popularity, home solar energy systems should come down in cost through mass production, improved technology and reduced installation costs. Professor Clark said that installation costs up to one-third or one-half the total project because specially trained workers are necessary.

At the Edison solar home in Northville, Murray said a water storage system will be used because he believes it to be the simplest to maintain.

Professor Clark said he is enthusiastic about systems using warmed air in this region, because it won't freeze up and is non-corrosive.

County says state should bail it out of money hole

Wayne County officials has announced a request for $12.2 million in immediate cost relief from the state and warned the alternative is layoff of up to half the county's permanent workforce.

Richard E. Manning, chairman of the county board of commissioners, released a comprehensive package of proposals designed to eliminate the chronic budget deficits which the county has incurred in recent years.

Edward E. Bobowski, the county fiscal advisor, declared that state failure to implement any of the package could force the layoff of up to 2,524 of the county's 5,380 permanent employees. The number of layoffs would depend on when they occurred.

Manning attributed the chronic budget crisis primarily to cost increases mandated by the state and courts, especially in the criminal justice system.

He cited five-year cost increases of 81 percent in court law enforcement costs, 58 percent in court-related costs and 42 percent in general county costs, with the latter figure representing the general increase in the consumer price index.

"But during the same period," Manning emphasized, "the county's property tax revenues have increased only 15 percent."

The cost relief package was sent to all state legislators from Wayne County, to the appropriations committees of the House and Senate, and to the governor.

Manning told the state officials in an accompanying letter that Wayne County faces a $14,055,000 budget deficit by the November 30 end of this fiscal year. He pointed out that the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission has ordered that the deficit be eliminated this year.

"The last option available to us is a sharp reduction in personnel in the areas of so-called non-mandated services," Manning wrote.

Manning said the layoffs would have to include some 400 job trainees who are paid with federal funds because the Federal CETA program requires layoff of all trainees in any job classification in which regular employees are laid off.

Bobowski calculated that in order to reduce the budget deficit by $13,255,000 this year it would be necessary to lay off from 946 to 2,524 employees, depending on whether the layoffs were effected as early as April 1 or as late as September 1.

His monthly figures between those two dates are: May 1 — 1,082 layoffs; June 1 — 1,262; July 1 — 1,514; and August 1 — 1,893.

Bobowski said mass layoffs were avoided last year only because a hiring freeze had left hundreds of jobs vacant and court suits blocked or delayed some eliminations. Last year's budget deficit amounted to $13.8 million.

In the cost-relief package, Manning proposed that the legislature provide $12,263,000 this year and a minimum of $24 million annually in the future. The package includes Governor William G. Milliken's proposals for state assumption of probation costs and court reorganization in Wayne County at an annual savings of $6.9 million to the county.

He asked that the supplemental appropriations bill now before the legislature be amended to include: $3,125,000 for operation of the Reuther Long-Term Care Facility through February 28; $3,516,000 for interim State assumption of court probation costs; $1 million for indigent medical care; $1,650,000 to maintain Circuit Court operations at present levels; and $272,000 indigent defense costs in Probate Court.

Manning noted that the courts will run out of operating funds before the end of the year and warned that without the requested interim funding, their probation departments "will have to be terminated in the very near future."

Manning emphasized that the county is seeking state help in meeting state and court-mandated costs.

Manning told the state officials that cutbacks would fall most heavily on 17 County agencies which are not mandated by law, including Wayne County General Hospital and the County Parks Division.

Total elimination of the 17 agencies, plus elimination of the county's contributions to six non-county agencies, would eliminate 1,931 jobs at an annual savings of $13.7 million.

However, he questioned the wisdom of such drastic action, citing the hospital and parks as examples.

"The annual net savings from closing the county's outstanding medical complex, which renders some 200,000 patient services per year and provides employment for 1,500 persons, would only amount to $3.5 million," Manning stated.

He said elimination of the 128-member parks division could turn 4,000 acres of county parks, including the 26-mile Edward Hines parkway, into "blighted, dangerous no-man's lands."

Among the proposals submitted to the state is one that the state operate a correctional facility similar to the Detroit House of Correction (DeHoCo) for southeast Michigan. This would save the county the anticipated $5.8 million annual cost of taking over when Detroit closes DeHoCo as planned.

The request for $3,125,000 from the legislature to fund "an orderly phase-out" of the Reuther facility took on added urgency following the refusal by the Municipal Finance Commission last week to allow continued county funding of the facility on the basis of a promise by state legislative leaders to reimburse the county when the state acquires the building at Eloise. The request anticipates State use of the building by October 1.

Included in the county's proposed cost relief package is a request for a one-time payment of up to $8.9 million which the county claims is owed for psychiatric care, the Reuther building, state revenue sharing and boarding of State prisoners at the jail.

Bobowski's $14,055,000 budget deficit estimate for this year includes $6.2 million in budgeted revenues which will not be realized, the largest of which is $4.5 million in federal counter-cyclical funds.

Principals sign pact with school district difference between the agreement ratified Monday and the tentative agreement reached two months earlier.

The 6½ percent improvement of the salary schedule will be retroactive to the beginning of the 1978-79 school year and will also be applied for the 1979-80 school year.

Personnel Director Burton Knighton said the cost to the school district of the improvements and increment raises for experience steps would be 6.42 percent for this year and 7.37 percent next year.

The reason that this year's cost to the budget is less than the total salary schedule improvement is twofold, he said.

First, because of the merit-pay method used in the pre-NASA days, some principals last year were paid above the contract maximum. The contract salary schedule is now catching up to those wages.

Second, an administrator resigned last year and was replaced by someone at a lower step level. Most of Northville's principals are at the fifth, or top, step.

Barbara Campbell, an assistant high school principal who was NASA's chief spokesperson at the bargaining table, had generally favorable comments about the contract.

"It's not a contract that brought hoorays from either side," she said. "Sometimes those are the best."

"It's certainly not a great contract but it is fair and respectable. It think it has some flexibility which provides for the individual needs of the administrators."

The professional growth allowance was increased from $400 to $500 a year for assistant principals and from $600 to $700 a year for principals.

Some observers saw this move as NASA's anticipation that the teachers union may seek a group dental plan during their negotiations which should begin in March.

In another language change, building administrators will be eligible for two-year contracts after their fourth year in the district rather than six years as is the case now.

Here is the wage package ratified Monday. For each position, the number in parenthesis represents the working days in a year, the next two numbers are the salary range for that position during the 1978-79 school year, and the final two figures are the pay range for 1979-80:

Assistant senior high school principal (212) — $22,638 to $27,165; $24,109 to $28,931.

Elementary school principal (207) — $23,805 to $28,566; $25,352 to $30,423.

Junior high school principal (212) — $25,425 to $30,510; $27,078 to $32,493.

Senior high school principal (217) — $26,739 to $32,086; $28,477 to $34,172.

IESEP (Institution Special Education Program) assistant supervisor (232) — $22,007 to $26,409; $23,437 to $28,125.

IESEP supervisor (232) — $25,674 to $30,809; $27,343 to $32,812.

The work year for the ISEP administrators includes 35 six-hour days during the summer.

Ice takes toll on truck

Ice is a mean cudgel of winter — just ask the dozen or more motorists who spun out of control on ice covered roads here last week.

But it's just as mean for vehicles not running.

And for that ask William Turner of 1683 Farmington Road, a Ford Valve Plant employee here, whose truck suffered some $500 damage while parked in the little parking lot of Northville Square on the south side of Main Street.

A sheet of ice, loosened by a thaw, toppled onto his truck from the next door building — the Winner's Circle Bar.

Turner reported the damage to the police department, but from the Winner's Circle Bar he learned that the firm's insurance "would not cover this act of God," he said.

SPEAKING for The Record By BILL SLIGER

It's that time of year again when assessors remind us that the property we own is more valuable than it was last year.

So property valuations are increased either by hiking the equalization factor, the property assessment or a combination of both.

Whichever, the result is a higher tax bill even if the millage levy remains the same. Frequently, of course, the millage rate as well as the assessment on property goes up.

Annually in March local governments conduct board of review hearings at which time property owners who contend that their property assessments are too high can appeal. The boards have the authority to reduce assessments if evidence supports the arguments.

These hearings are advertised in the newspaper. They are held beginning March 6 in the township and March 13 in the city.

Here's what property owners in the community of Northville can expect will happen to property values:

In the city (Wayne County) — an across-the-board hike of seven percent in the state equalization factor (SEV) of from 1.23 to 1.32.

In the city (Oakland County) — an across-the-board hike of 14 percent in property assessments with the SEV remaining at 1.0.

In the township — an across-the-board increase of nine percent in SEV with the equalization factor being increased from 1.74 to 1.89.

The assessed value of a piece of property may or may not be the same as the SEV. If county tax authorities believe the assessments represent approximately 50 percent of the market value of the property, then the assessment figure stands as the SEV. If they do not, then an "equalization factor" is applied and the assessment is multiplied by the factor to determine the SEV. Taxes are levied against the SEV with one mill representing one dollar per thousand dollars of SEV.

For some reason when assessments are raised as the result of an increase in the equalization factor it is not necessary to notify the property owner. Presumably, the rationale is that the assessment is not being increased, just the factor.

So most property owners in the township and the Wayne county portion of the city will not receive a notice. If they do, it means that their assessment as well as the factor is being increased. This can happen when significant improvements have been made to a home or business building. The notice will indicate that the assessment of the building has been increased from $21,000 to $23,000, for example. It would also note that the factor had been changed from 1.23 to 1.32 (in the Wayne county portion of the city), or from 1.74 to 1.89 in the township.

In this example the property owner would find that the SEV of his property had been increased from $25,830 to $30,360 (in the city) and from $36,540 to $43,470 (in the township).

In the Oakland county portion of the city all property owners will receive notices. That's because the county is increasing all the assessments by 14 percent across-the-board and leaving the equalization factor at 1.0. (If you understand the difference between hiking the factor versus the assessment insofar as the need for notifying the property owner of the change, explain it to me).

Anyway, the city of Northville with its two counties faces a unique problem. I tried to explain it in an earlier column without much success. The problem didn't go away, so here's another attempt at an explanation.

Oakland county's 14-percent boost exceeds the new limits imposed by the Headlee amendment. The Headlee adopted law says that if the SEV increase exceeds the consumer price index for the year then the millage rate must be reduced so the tax hike is not more than the increase in the consumer price index.

The price index is tabbed at nine percent. Oakland county hiked its SEV by 14 percent; Wayne county only seven percent in the city. Because the law says the "millage rate" and not the SEV should be reduced to comply with the hike in the price index, it could mean that the city of Northville must adopt two tax rates — one for Oakland county property owners and another for Wayne county.

Or should the reduction in rate applied in Oakland county also be used in Wayne county? Or should an average be struck between the SEV hikes in Wayne and Oakland counties?

Or should the tax equalization departments of Wayne and Oakland counties have communicated and cooperated to avoid such a problem?

Reportedly, they made a weak attempt at trying and failing.

Frankly, I don't envy the city manager and council when they undertake to explain the potential inequities in this arrangement to taxpayers.

Speaking for Myself

Schools teach birth control?

REVEREND JULIUS BALZS

YES

I am in favor of teaching birth control in the public schools.

I am aware of some disagreement in our community on this topic. It seems some parents feel it is their personal duty to teach their children about birth control. I can only respect this group of parents for their concern but how many parents actually have the time, knowledge and rapport with their teenagers to effectively teach them about birth control? Proof of this negligence is the overwhelming number of unwanted teenage pregnancies.

Who pays for the mistake of a parent whose teenager is not educated in birth control? First of all, the teen who is burdened with either a child or the decision to have an abortion; secondly, often the parents; but equally, our community. We have no place in our society for 13-year-old mothers.

I urge Brighton citizens to offer teenagers birth control information taught by certified instructors. Birth control information may neither encourage nor discourage sex among teens but it will definitely promote responsible sex. I feel that any step toward creating responsible young people is a positive step and one our community can be proud.

NO

It is never wrong to do what's right, but it is never right to ignore what's wrong. The present issue concerning the teaching of contraception in the public schools is a case of trying to build something right on the wrong premise. It can only lead to more and diverse programs of sexual "know how." That in turn will continue to promote the liberal attitudes of sexual conduct so prevalent today, with the widespread reaping of heartbreak that we are already experiencing.

God is against the permissiveness and attitudes of our day, and so states it in His Word, the Bible. "Marriage is honorable in all, and the bed undefiled; but whoremongers and adulterers God will judge." (Hebrew 13:4.)

The National Center for Health Statistics reveals that a record 14.2 percent of all births during 1975 were illegitimate. The percentage of illegitimate births has been increasing since 1952. Nearly 3,000 infants are aborted daily in our nation. Since 1970 the number of unmarried couples sharing a household has doubled from 654,000 to 1.3 million. There were 1,036,000 divorces recorded in the U.S. in one year; 48,000 women in the U.

S. are arrested each year for prostitution.

Has it ever occurred to anyone to promote chastity? It's a good alternative; it's foolproof; it's not hazardous to your health; parental permission is not needed; it is non-discriminatory between the sexes, as either can practice this form of birth control.

It's cheaper than any other form of birth control; it's energy saving; it's tax-free and does not require billions of dollars in federal spending; nor is any red tape involved. We might add: it also eliminates much of the danger of contracting venereal disease.

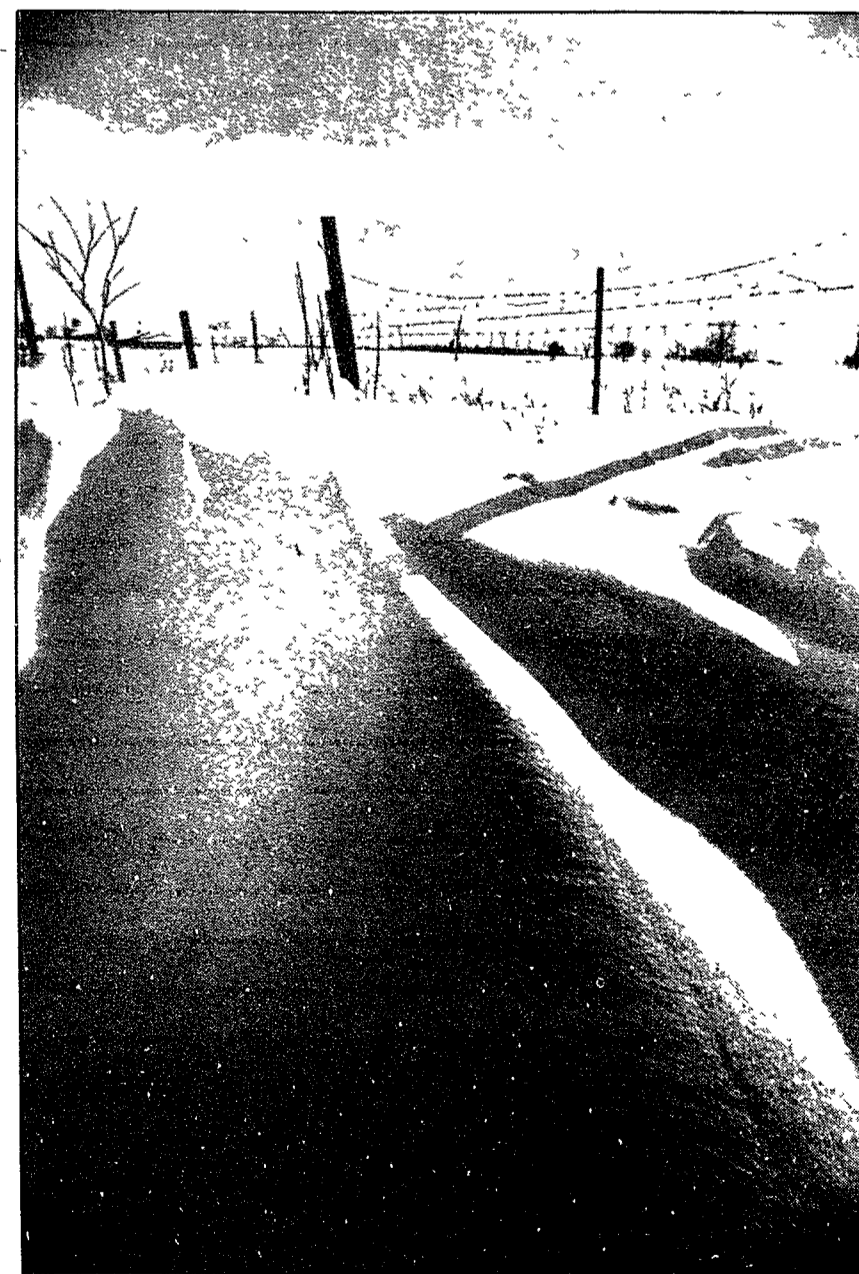

May we ask: What's the problem? Is this too simplistic an answer to the problem? It's Biblical in its approach. It's medically sound and safe in its practice. There is no question about its moral implications.

It is possible that this form of birth control is no longer taught because it does not require a bureaucratic payroll and might put too many folk out of work?

JACK W. HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

Greenfield Village is one of my favorite places to visit ... so along with many thousands of others I'm saluting the golden anniversary of this internationally famous pet of the late Henry Ford.

Each visit we make, our family seems to discover something "new" and exciting missed earlier. But this year — the 50th anniversary — promises to be extra special.

To mark its anniversary as well as the 100th anniversary of Thomas Alva Edison's invention of the first practical incandescent lamp, the Village has scheduled a year-long variety of special tours, activities and exhibits. They'll culminate with a re-enactment of the observances of October 21, 1929, at which Thomas Edison repeated his creation of the incandescent lamp and dedicated the Village and Museum.

Besides the October 21 event, two others will highlight the anniversary year: In June, they'll mark completion of the redesigned eight-acre Henry Ford Museum Hall of Technology — the largest such project ever attempted within the existing museum, and in December, they'll have a re-enactment of the first demonstration of incandescent lighting for the general public on December 31, 1879, to be conducted at the Sarah Jordan Boarding House — the only surviving residence of the first homes in the world to be lighted by electricity.

As exciting as it will be, it cannot match the excitement of 1929. And nowhere, except perhaps in Dearborn itself, was that excitement more keen than in Northville and Wixom where over the years Mr. Ford spent so much of his time.

In Northville, where he and his wife, Clara, had spent their honeymoon, stories about the Village were carried in The Record

An Analysis

Tax fear, not plan seen as Mainstreet 78 defeat

By BILL SLIGER

A handful of the members of the city's Downtown Development Authority (DDA) sat around a table Tuesday morning looking badly hung-over.

The shock of the 318-260 defeat of their bond proposal to finance the Mainstreet 78 downtown improvement program was still sinking in.

"Where did we go wrong? What do we do now?"

You have to understand that these people have been living with the plan for months. They have agonized through a long series of revisions. Their minds have been zeroed-in on the plan itself.

They had come to totally believe that the proposal was the very best compromise could produce. And because of their close working relationship with activities in the business district, there exists in the DDA the firm belief that financing of the project would not burden the local taxpayer.

But somewhere this enthusiasm for Mainstreet 78 did not pour over into the community. Only 15 percent of the voters bothered to go to the polls when DDA asked for its plan to be endorsed by the faith and credit of the city. About eight percent were responsible for the defeat of Mainstreet 78.

Were the no votes directed at the plan itself?

Or were these no votes saying that they did not believe the $1.6 million project could be financed without levying higher taxes?

The majority of the DDA members believe that most no voters simply did not trust the financing plan.

"It isn't that they object so much to fixing up the downtown shopping district as it is the belief they will get stuck with the bill. They just don't trust us," was one of the rationalizations.

A lot of soul-searching took place as four of the committee members and four staffers discussed the issue. Two DDA members are on vacation, two others were absent.

But those who did meet Tuesday morning were not ready to roll over and play dead. Their enthusiasm for the plan has not diminished. Neither has their conviction that tax increment financing can pay for the project without levying new taxes.

Had they worked hard enough to get out the vote? Obviously not. Should they take the question back to the voters? If so, when? Is there another way... a way to complete Mainstreet 78 without voter approval, or financial guarantee?

Councilman Stanley Johnston takes the position that the welfare of the community is at stake and that the council should push very hard to achieve Mainstreet 78. In his hardest stance he suggests that the council could simply levy an additional two mills or so and finance the project on a piecemeal basis over the next few years. More practically, however, he believes that voters must be convinced of the importance of Mainstreet 78 to them.

"If we can convince them it could cost them more if we do nothing than it will if we complete Mainstreet 78, they'll vote for it," he stated.

While it would be possible to place the Mainstreet issue on the April 10 ballot with the library proposal, DDA members believe it would be preferable to wait until June, or possibly the regular November city election.

It isn't clear whether or not a summer election can be called. The council is limited to calling two special elections per year and the April library election will be the second. But City Manager Steven Walters suggested that another special election might be possible if petitioned by voters. An opinion on this question will be sought from the city attorney.

DDA members reasoned if city voters would get behind Mainstreet 78 and petition for another election, this might insure its success at the polls. At least 400 to 500 signatures would be required for such an election. And if one can assume that most of the negative votes were registered last week, the plan would be approved.

It was noted that it might be possible to sell bonds without voter guarantee. But interest rates would probably add another $200,000 in costs. The possibi-ty of proceeding piecemeal with the project was also discussed. Perhaps a smaller bond could be issued to improve the parking lot north of Main street as a first step. This procedure would cause delay, thereby increasing costs. But it would demonstrate determination to complete the project.

Another idea tossed around by DDA members involved getting community lending institutions to buy the bonds under the tax increment financing plan, perhaps as an indication of their interest in community improvement.

As the meeting broke up you could feel the old enthusiasm boiling up again; almost enough to erase the expression of defeat that a loser just can't lose.

Mainstreet 78 isn't dead even though 318 voters lowered it into a coffin where it is resting comfortably waiting to be buried or resurrected.

Budget talks tonight

Police on agenda

and the sheriff's department that would affect the service level of the township department.

In preliminary discussion at the first budget session Sunday afternoon, Trustee John Swienkowski reiterated an earlier expressed philosophy that the township department should be primarily a patrolling agency and not be involved extensively in investigative work — at least during this stage of the township's development.

In a broader observation, Swienkowski suggested that in looking at salaries in the 1979-1980 budget (not only for the police department) he will be aiming for increases that do not exceed President Carter's wage guidelines.

However, Clerk Clarice Sass said those guidelines may be inappropriately low given cost of living increases.

Concerning salaries, the board also indicated it will re-examine the salary levels for job descriptions to be sure that salaries of employees are comparatively fair based on work requirements and years of service.

Trustee William Zapke also asked that the board be given an organizational chart so that it knows who reports to whom in the township hall. Such charts, he said, are basic to any well operated company in private industry and ought also be basic to the township employee organization.

Clerk Sass, who said she would supply such a chart at tonight's meeting, emphasized that because employees are interchanged among departments the township has tended to operate informally and cooperatively.

Supervisor Donald Thomson has contended that the township's current policy relative to organization is too vague, leaving him as the township's chief executive with very little control over employees and their assignments.

In estimating revenues in the proposed new budget at $920,844, the board concluded the figure is a conservative one and could possibly go higher dependent in part on the amount of carry-over funds in the current budget. Presently, that carry-over is pegged at $50,000, although officials believe it might go as high as $85,000.

The budget purposely does not reflect anticipated CETA funds because of their uncertainty. It suggests receipts of $52,496 in federal revenue sharing, however, and the board last week proposed that the bulk of this money be used for land acquisition adjacent to the township hall.

General administrative income is put at $68,940.

Taxes, the budget estimates, will produce $303,666 (up from $268,469 in the current budget), and state shared revenues are expected to hit $341,499 (up from $303,558).

Licensing and enforcement is expected to produce $18,665 in revenues, and building department permits — based on anticipated construction — are expected to produce $85,078 (up from $65,500).

In an unrelated matter prior to Sunday's budget session, the board gave the supervisor authority to assign a small back room in the new township hall to the fire department for storage purposes.

Chief Nisun had proposed that it be given to the police department for investigative work, but Fire Chief Robert Toms argued that the room is being used for storage of valuable fire equipment.

Tap fees increased by $200

Cost of water tap fees in Northville may be increased by $200 — from $500 to $700

Public hearing on the increase has been slated for Monday, March 5.

The proposed fee increases an outgrowth of a recent council meeting in which citizens protested city water-sewer rates. Increased tap fees were seen as a way of increasing the water-sewer fund without further increases in rates to customers.

Tap fees are charged when new customers tie into city utility lines. The proposed new houses in the planned subdivisions along Eight Mile Road, for example, would have to pay the higher fees.

Although analysis of neighboring communities suggested the city's fee were not particularly low in comparison, DPW Superintendent Ted Mapes noted that some neighboring communities are considering increases of "at least 20 percent this year."

She'll tour with chorale

A Northville student at Northern Michigan University will be a member of the university's Arts Chorale making a spring concert tour March 5-12.

She is Cynthia Todd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Todd of 488 Welch.

The 32-member chorale will be giving concerts in Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa and Missouri enroute to a major performance at the American Choral Director's Association conference in Kansas City, Missouri.

Over the past seven years the Arts Chorale has performed throughout the Midwest and Eastern U.S., and it has had tours of Canada and Scandinavia.

Jack's column

and its publisher, Elton R. Eaton, editorialized on occasion.

Here's a sample of what The Record had to say as the day approached:

"With the famous old-time wood burner locomotive pulling the Edison Day Special, President Herbert Hoover, Thomas Alva Edison, Harvey S. Firestone, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, Henry Ford, and a host of other notables will step from passenger coaches used in the early history of American railroading onto the platform of the Smith Creek depot within the grounds of the American Museum, on the morning of October 21 at Dearborn.

"Coming to Dearborn from the Michigan Central station in Detroit, their feet will touch for the first time upon landing in this city, the planks upon which a rude conductor years ago tossed Thomas Edison when his experiments in a coach went awry, causing an explosion.

"And from the time the guests of honor arrive in Dearborn, until their departure, all of the activities of that day, Monday, October 21st, will be centered around the fiftieth anniversary of the invention of the incandescent lamp and its inventor, Thomas A. Edison.

Within the walls of the second American Independence Hall, President Hoover will deliver his address, with the entire world listening in by means of the radio. Thomas A. Edison will not only be congratulated by his fellow Americans, but by radio will receive the congratulations of England from the Prince of Wales; of France from Premier Aristide Briand; and of Italy from Premier Benito Mussolini."

Incidentally, the mayor of Dearborn also spoke. But it wasn't Orville Hubbard. He hadn't begun his long-time reign as yet — although an E. E. Hubbard (no relation) was a member of the council and the man who introduced the resolution making it a holiday.

The mayor was Clyde M. Ford... a cousin of Henry.

Only one precinct said yes

Only one of Northville's four precincts indicated support for the Mainstreet 78 bond issue that went down to a 318-260 defeat.

That was in Precinct 4 where voters favored the issue by a vote of 32 to 20. In another area, Precinct 1, the vote ended in a 119 tie with three ballots being spoiled. Biggest edge against the issue was registered in Precinct 2 where the vote was 60 to 18 against. Precinct 3 defeated it by a vote of 119 to 91.

Readers Speak

Test scores scored

To The Editor:

Recently in the Record, you reported that Northville students "aced" the Michigan Assessment Test. What you failed to report, was that one of the elementary schools had its "aces" trumped.

The elementary school in question, Silver Springs, scored 66 percent on the reading section of the test. This is 9 percent below the recommended 75 percent required by the state for being adequate or passing the test. Silver Springs was 11.6 percent below the average for the district and 18.9 percent below the highest scoring school. (Amerman scored 84.9 percent). Silver Springs even scored lower than some of Detroit's disadvantaged schools.

The fourth graders tested, are a product of four years of the open classroom philosophy. In my opinion, the test scores of these children are indicative of the success of the open, multi-aged philosophy. It is very sad that these children are not being given a "full deck" with which to learn.

It is a disgrace that one of Northville's schools cannot meet the very minimal of educational objectives. It is more of a disgrace that the children are being cheated and no one seems to care.

Vote's disappointing

To The Editor:

I couldn't believe that so many people "don't care" about Northville and didn't vote, or that the majority who did vote don't want Northville to progress.

At this time in life I don't shop Big like I did when raising my family so the business district won't boom or disappear because of me, but looking ahead to a thriving, beautiful Northville for posterity, I voted "yes."

Let's keep on trying. "Where there's life there's hope" so the saying goes.

With admiration for the (Mainstreet 78) committee's efforts and many hours of dedication.

Sincerely,

EPA mum but super sewer announcement due soon

dations to save face, suggested Egeland. They'd rather ride their horse over a cliff than admit they were wrong.

McGuire, the man at the top responsible for the ultimate decision, could have mutinous staff on his hands if he goes against their wishes, suggested Egeland.

The county, he said, had been expecting the EPA decision by about mid-March.

Ehorn, who is in charge of the Michigan project for EPA, said the announcement probably would be delayed somewhat because of the meeting first with the county DPW head.

Meanwhile, in a letter to the EPA, DNR Director Howard A. Tanner warned EPA that its stand may kill any chance of solving the pollution problems in Western Wayne and Oakland counties.

In view of the fact that voter passage will be necessary under the Headlee Amendment no matter what sewer plan is picked, Tanner said, "It may be easier to pass a referendum vote with local political support of the project. Conversely, it appears it would be virtually impossible to solicit any support for a referendum vote in those communities for a proposal that is not accepted by the local political leaders."

While earlier the DNR had given only soft support for the super sewer as the suburbs waged their fight with the EPA, it now strongly endorses the super sewer and criticizes EPA's draft recommendations.

Of interest locally is the DNR's re-emphasis that the branch of the Rouge River here already is being contaminated by sewage effluent from the Walled Lake area and its contention that the EPA plan will increase rather than erase that problem.

Tanner sent EPA a copy of a recent notice of noncompliance issued for the Walled Lake-Novu sewer treatment plant, which showed the discharge from the plant into the water that flows through Novi and Northville is contaminated.

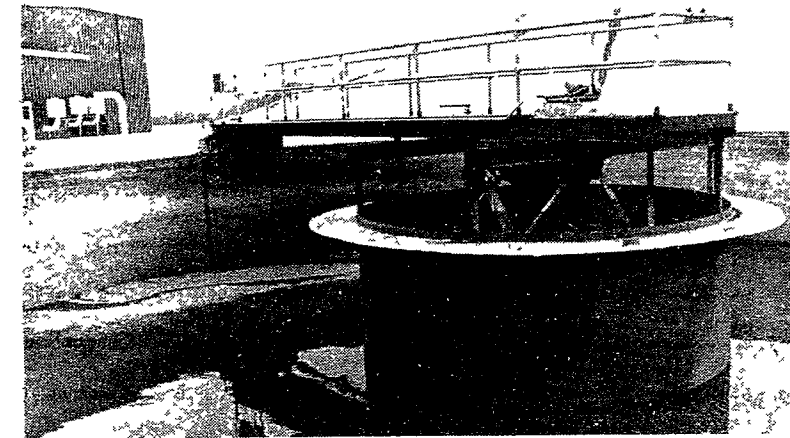

Contending that expansion of the Walled Lake plant, as recommended by EPA, will result in additional pollution, Tanner took the EPA to task for making its recommendation without any cost data.

"In addition," he declared, "we question the legality of EPA proposing a new alternative in the form of Alternate D which was not considered in the facility plan. It is our understanding that the purpose of a Federal EIS (Environmental Impact Study) is to examine impacts of the various alternatives addressed in the facility plan."

In concluding his letter, the DNR director said the EPA study "does not describe any significant environmental reasons why (the super sewer) should not be selected.

"Because of the technical considerations discussed above, the strong public desire to construct (the super sewer), the almost unanimous opposition to (EPA's recommended alternatives), and the low cost difference based upon the estimated average annual cost per sewer capital, this department supports (the super sewer) as the best of the six alternatives."

DNR says plant discharge is polluted

Treatment plant will be studied

An independent study of the Walled Lake-Novu Waste Water Treatment Plant requested by residents of Meadowbrook Lake subdivision will probably be conducted by a professor from the University of Michigan, according to city officials.

Novi City Manager Ed Kriewall said the city hopes to complete negotiations with professor Jack Borchardt this week so that he can begin a review of plant operation.

The city engineer has been gathering background material for the professor to cut down on the amount of work he will be required to do and hopefully reduce the salary the man will require, Kriewall explained.

"We don't want to invest an unlimited amount of funds in this," Kriewall said. He indicated the city hopes to be able to keep the cost of the study somewhere between $500 and $1,000.

Borchardt is a professor of civil and sanitary engineering and is familiar with the operation of wastewater treatment plants, according to Kriewall. He has indicated he would be interested in undertaking the review and the city hopes to reach an agreement with him this week.

Novi was requested to hire a third party to undertake the study of the wastewater plant by Ron Birou of the Meadowbrook Lake Homeowners Association after he received information he believed showed the plant could be responsible for polluting the lake.

Information from the Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) study on the so-called "super sewer" states that a 1976 study at a sampling station on Twelve Mile revealed the state guidelines for water quality and levels of dissolved oxygen, phosphorus, nitrate ammonia and dissolved solids were exceeded. The test results were blamed on the treatment plant.

Birou came before the council in January requesting a study be conducted on the operation of the plant to determine whether it could be polluting Meadowbrook Lake. Residents of the subdivision have been fighting pollution in their lake for more than 10 years.

The lake has been declared unfit for swimming since tests have shown coliform bacteria counts exceed the safety limit of 2.00. Coliform bacteria is a potentially hazardous group of bacteria associated with the intestinal tract.

Bud Corwin, chief of the water and sewerage operation at the plant, refuted the EPA study and any possibility the plant could be polluting Meadowbrook Lake. He said it was more likely that agricultural run-off was draining pollutants into the lake rather than the plant.

He agreed to have a third party investigate the operation, however. He invited the inspection, saying his employees believed they run an excellent operation and would enjoy displaying its workings.

The plant has recently come under attack from another front, however. A recent letter from the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has cited the plant for inconsistencies in meeting the sewage discharge limitations. The plant was cited further for removing less than 80 percent of the phosphorus from the effluent as required.

Corwin responded to those charges, saying "We have not denied violations but we have explained them. They are minor and one actually is not a violation."

He explained one violation actually occurred because the plant was operating under the direction of the DNR. In trying to lower the level of chlorination the plant made some miscalculations which resulted in the violation — but adjustments were being made because of instruction from the state, according to Corwin.

The operations chief compared the citations to making a "big issue" out of a ticket for jay-walking for a man who never before committed a crime.

He blamed the citations in part on a loss of rapport that once existed between the plant and the DNR officials due to a regular turnover in the agencies' ranks. The chief explained the Walled Lake-Novu plant was once used as a training ground for inspectors to give them an example of the quality of operations to look for as they examined treatment plants across the state.

The citation was somewhat insulting, Corwin said. The plant can and does regularly meet the requirement for treatment of waste water. He said he and his employees are proud of the operation of the plant and have invited the agency to visit the plant to see its capabilities.

Local cagers lose a heartbreaker to Hawks, 60-59

It was a winner's dream, and a loser's nightmare.

Farmington Harrison was the winner, and Northville the loser last Friday night in what had to be one of the most dramatic, albeit sloppy, Western Six basketball games of the season.

Harrison, taking advantage of a series of Northville turnovers, rallied from a three-point deficit in the final 25 seconds of regulation and went to post a pulse-pounding 60-59 overtime victory over the Mustangs.

The loss dropped the local cagers' overall record to 10-9 and their league mark to 5-4, and barring an upset win against Plymouth Canton this Friday it probably cost them a winning record and a second-place finish in the Western Six.

The game wasn't decided until Harrison's Brian Burgess tipped in a missed free throw with 11 seconds remaining in the first overtime, giving the home-court Hawks a 60-57 advantage. Harry Coudyounjian swished a 30-footer eight seconds later, but Northville was unable to recover in time for another chance in the last three seconds.

Actually, though, the Mustangs had dug their graves late in the fourth quarter. After Mike McLaughlin sank a technical foul shot with 25 seconds left in regulation to give Northville a three-point lead, 52-49, and possession of the ball, Northville committed four straight turnovers.

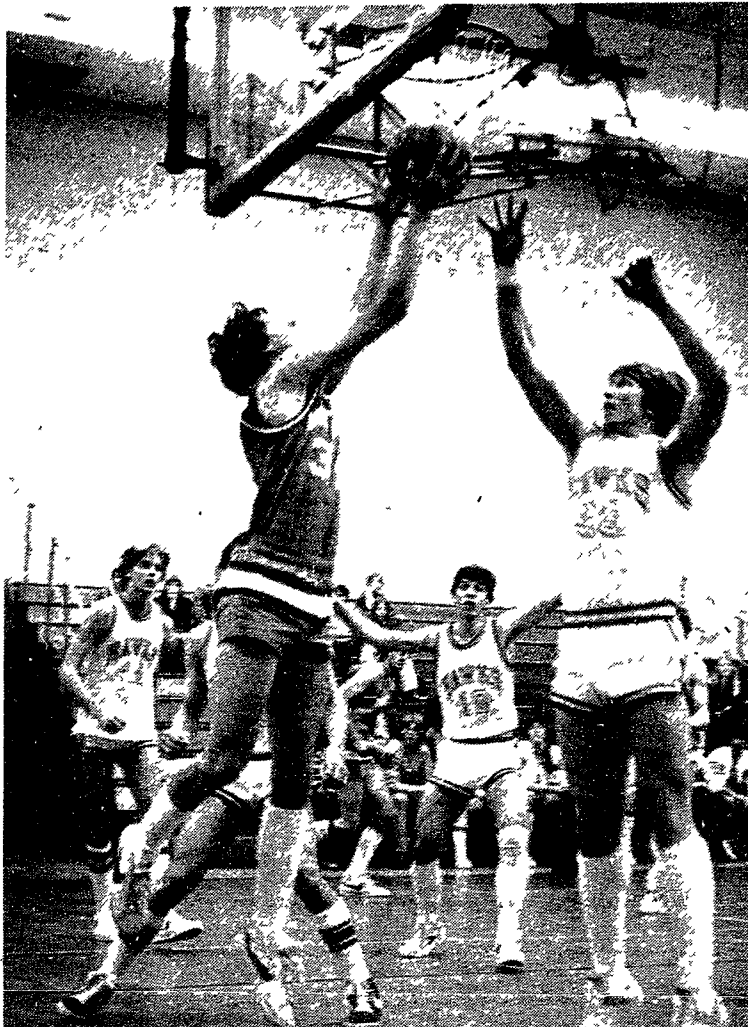

The first one, an inbounds pass following the technical that was stolen by Tom Cundy, allowed the Hawks to cut the gap to 52-50 on a free throw with 22 seconds left.

The last one came with less than a second left. Following a Harrison turnover with three seconds left in regulation, Greg Suckow, playing for the first time since injuring his knee two weeks earlier, received an inbounds pass but couldn't find an open man. With two Harrison players swarming over him he tried passing anyway.

Cundy blocked it and, in one motion, swooped up to score the tying basket at the buzzer, sending Harrison's bench into a frenzy.

Then Burgess took over. The tall,

Districts, league meets begin

Big action's brewing this week

The winter high school sports season is rapidly drawing to a close, and that means plenty of important games and meets are going to be taking place in the next couple weeks.

State tournament competition is already underway in wrestling, and volleyball and basketball playoffs are right around the corner.

This weekend marks the close of the wrestling season. The Class A state finals — which will include Northville grapplers Mike Lurvey and Matt Baker — will take place at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo this Friday (March 2) and Saturday, beginning at 11:30 a.m. both days.

Saturday is also district tournament day for volleyball teams throughout the state. Northville, which drew a bye in the pre-districts, is scheduled to take on the winner of the Farmington-Plymouth Salem pre-district game in an eight-school single elimination tourney at Westland John Glenn High

The Mustangs are scheduled to play at 10 a.m., and will advance to the semifinals in the early afternoon should they win that one.

Northville's basketball squad, meanwhile, will open its state tournament hopes with a Monday night (March 5) game against the host school in the Livonia Churchill district. The game gets underway at 8:30 p.m., with the winner playing Livonia Franklin on Wednesday night at 8:30 (see below for complete bracketing).

The local gymnasts will finish up their regular season this Saturday with a league meet at Bloomfield Hills Andover, with competition beginning at 12 noon. Two of the team's members, however — Sue Kinnaird and Britt Evans — will have at least one more meet the following week. Both girls have qualified for the state regionals, which take place on March 10 at Troy High School.

And in boys' swimming, Northville's defending Western Six champs will be aiming for their fifth straight title in the March 8-9 league meet at Farmington Harrison. The Class A state finals are slated for the following week (so far breaststroker Tim Cahill is the only Northville swimmer who's qualified).

Listed below is the bracketing for next week's district basketball tournament at Livonia Churchill. Team records as of this past weekend are given in parentheses.

MONDAY: Redford Thurston (9-10) vs. Livonia Bentley (16-3), 7 p.m.
Northville (10-9) vs. Livonia Churchill (6-13), 8:30 p.m.

WEDNESDAY: Thurston-Bentley winner vs. Livonia Stevenson (16-3), 7 p.m.
Northville-Churchill winner vs. Livonia Franklin (12-7), 8:30 p.m.

FRIDAY: District championship game, 7 p.m.

Goat Farm knocks off Pack, ties for lead

Northville's recreation basketball race is beginning to look like something out of the Big Ten.

With just three weeks remaining in the regular season, first place is up for grabs among three of the men's league's four teams.

Goat Farm saw to that last Thursday night. Sparked by Mark Lisowski's 32-point performance, the defending champs rolled to an easy 66-50 victory over Wack Pack, throwing the race into a three-way free-for-all.

The win gave Goat Farm a share of the top spot with Wack Pack (both have 5-2 records), one game ahead of Little Caesar's (4-3), which eked out a victory over Long Plumbing.

Goat Farm raced out to an 11-0 lead in the opening minutes of play and never looked back in last Thursday's triumph. By halftime the winners had a 15-point bulge, 42-27.

Lisowski's 32 points matched the highest output of any player this season and vaulted him ahead of teammate Howard Inch for the league scoring leadership (Lisowski is averaging 19.2 per game, Inch 15.8). Almost half Lisowski's points came on free throws — he was 14-of-22 from the charity stripe.

Russ Olsen added 10 points and Inch and Gary Lisowski seven each for Goat Farm, which takes on Little Caesar's in another key battle tomorrow (Thursday) night. Wack Pack was paced by Hank Bodiya, who tossed in 20 points, while Mark Kleimola and Doug Rooney chipped in seven apiece.

Little Caesar's, meanwhile, kept its title hopes alive with a tough 48-47 victory over Long Plumbing.

Long, winless in seven tries this season, edged out to a 29-27 lead at the half but couldn't hold on. The cellar dwellers, who've now lost all three of their match-ups against Caesar's this year by five points or less, had a change to pull it out in the waning moments of play, but missed a potential game-winning basket with five seconds left.

Caesar's, playing without team-leading scorer Ed Kritch, was sparked by Tom Eis, who topped both clubs with 20 points. Teammates Todd Eis and Bill Wood added seven points each, while Jeff Moon with 14 points and Mark Smolenski with nine paced the losers.

Wrestlers qualify

Lurvey, Baker will go to states

For the first time since becoming a Class A school five-and-a-half years ago, Northville will be seeing action in the state high school wrestling tournament this season.

Mike Lurvey and Matt Baker saw to that last Saturday. The two seniors, competing in the regionals at Walled Lake Western, both finished fourth in their respective flights to earn a long-awaited trip to Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo this weekend.

They were among four Northville wrestlers who had qualified for last Saturday's regionals. The others were Bill Blanchard and Jack Lancaster.

Lurvey, who'd placed second in the Walled Lake Western districts the week before, lost a first-round match to Dave Drouillard of Dearborn Heights Annapolis, 8-4, but then bounced back for a 13-3 win over Livonia Stevenson's Frank Piano and a pin against Livonia Franklin's Andy Herman to clinch the state berth. Southfield's Rob Parent defeated him, 8-3, in the consolation finals.

"Mike was probably competing in the toughest 119-pound region in the state," Coach Gary Emerson observed, noting that the flight's top three finishers — Joe Justine of Belleville, Drouillard and Parent have only five losses combined this year. "He did a real good job."

Baker, meanwhile, lost his opening 191-pound match on a pin but recovered by winning on a pin and then edging an old rival, Farmington Harrison's Eric Kerastas, by a score of 3-2 to gain the consolation finals, where he was pinned.

Kerastas, who beat Baker for the Western Six 191-pound championship two weeks ago, suffered only three losses this season, but two of them were to Baker.

Blanchard, went down to defeat the hard way, suffering a 3-2 overtime loss to Troy's Dan Gaides in the second round of the 105-pound bracket after dropping his opener.

Lancaster, too, lost both his matches, including an 8-1 decision against an Ann Arbor Pioneer opponent in the second round.

"All in all it was a pretty good meet for us," Emerson remarked. "Really, I think we had a shot at getting all four of our guys through to the states."

Lurvey and Baker will take part in the state preliminaries sometime around mid-day on Friday. Should they win one of their first two matches Friday, they'll compete again on Saturday. Sixteen wrestlers in each weight class qualify for the state finals, which is run as a double elimination tournament.

Cagers bow at Harrison

lanky junior scored all eight of Harrison's points in overtime, hitting from all over the court. Northville took a brief 54-52 lead in the opening seconds of the three-minute overtime, but Harrison bounced back with five straight points and hung on for the win. Earlier in the contest Northville had lost three key players. Late in the first half Mike Wagner sprained his ankle and had to be helped off the floor. Then, in a span of 30 seconds midway through the final stanza, the team's leading scorers — Jeff Norton and Joe Schimpf — fouled out. Later in the game the Mustangs lost two more players on fouls — Mike McLaughlin and Bob Crisan — as a pair of somewhat whistle happy referees called a total of 54 fouls, 30 on Northville and 24 on Harrison. But Coach Tim Lutes, admittedly disgusted, felt his team should have won the game anyway. "It's a darn shame," he said later, noting that a victory would have put Northville all alone in second place

(Waterford Mott, which had been tied with the Mustangs before Friday, lost in a 65-64 upset against Walled Lake Western.) "We just threw it away. "We just played really dumb, stupid basketball. It doesn't matter who we had in there, we should have been able to hang onto the lead. "I figured we could go into a four-corner stall (during the last 25 seconds of play), but we couldn't even get the ball past mid-court." Harrison had led throughout the first half, getting ahead by as many as eight, 32-24, by intermission. Northville roared back and actually held a brief lead, 38-37, in the third quarter before falling behind 41-38 by the end of the stanza. Norton and McLaughlin then combined for five straight points at the outset of the fourth quarter, giving the local team a 43-41 edge, and from there on it was a see-saw battle. Norton wound up as Northville's leading scorer and rebounder, netting 12 points and snaring 12 rebounds. Crisan added 11 points, Schimpf 10 and McLaughlin nine while Ward had nine rebounds. But the Mustangs lost the game at the free throw line, hitting only 13 of 27 from the charity stripe, including one of their last four. They also had 26 turnovers, nine of them in the final stanza. Harrison wasn't much better, hitting 48 of 55 from the free throw line. Scott Hendries topped the Hawks' scoring attack with 20 points and also had 20 rebounds, while Burgess wound up with 18 points. Three nights earlier the local cagers, unlike Friday, had played one of their finest games of the season in rolling past Milford, 77-58. With Norton leading the way the Mustangs raced out to leads of 19-12 and 40-28 in the first two quarters, then expanded their cushion to 58-36 by the end of the third stanza. As a team Northville shot over 58 percent from the field (35 of 60), their best showing of the year and added seven of eight free throws. Norton blistered the nets for 27 points, shooting 72 percent (13 of 18) from the floor, and dished out five assists to boot. Joe Schimpf added 24 points, hitting six of nine shots from the floor, while Wagner was eight of nine from the floor and 2-2 from the free throw line for 18 points. Schimpf also had seven rebounds and four assists. The Mustangs close out their regular season at Canton this Friday, then travel to Livonia Churchill next week for the start of the Class A state tournament. They'll face the host school in Monday's opening round, with the winner going against Livonia Franklin in the district semifinals Wednesday. Both games get underway at 8:30 p.m.

Vida Mikalonis

She's ISU champion

Vida Mikalonis, a four-time league high school champion during her years with Northville's swimming team, is now a state college champion in Illinois. The 1978 graduate of Northville High capped an outstanding season with Illinois State University last Saturday by setting a new state record in winning the 50-yard backstroke at the annual IALAW state swimming and diving championships. Her time was 28.745 seconds. She also placed fourth in the 200-yard backstroke, fifth in the 100-yard butterfly, and helped the team's 200-yard medley relay unit to a second-place finish. Mikalonis' efforts helped the Redbirds to a third-place finish behind Northwestern and Southern Illinois in the nine-school large college division of the meet. The Redbirds, who'd never before broken a record in the state meet, wound up shattering five records for the day. Mikalonis swam at Northville High for four years, helping the Mustangs to three league championships and a pair of top ten finishes in the Class A state meet. In addition to setting several school records, she was a Western Six champion in various events — including the backstroke, butterfly, individual medley, and as part of the medley relay unit.

For 4th straight time

OLV wins district crown

Our Lady of Victory captured its fourth consecutive CYO district title last Sunday by defeating a taller Detroit St. Vincent's squad, 42-31. The Cougars, trailing 29-27 at the end of three quarters, came to life in the final stanza. Terry Nadeau scored six of his game-total eight points and Dave Bach hit three of four free throws as the local team outscored its opponents 15-2 down the stretch. Rick Palar wound up leading all scorers in the contest with 15 points while Chris Wagner netted 10, Ray McDonough four, Shawn Tague two, and Bach snagged 10 key rebounds to go with his three points. One day earlier the Cougars had begun their quest for the Metropolitan Detroit playoff championship with a convincing 44-30 triumph over Detroit St. Girard. Coach Gene Wagner's charges started slowly, and the game see-sawed until Bach's rebounding midway through the second quarter triggered OLV's fast break and shot the Cougars to an 18-11 halftime lead. This time Nadeau led the winners with 16 points, while Wagner added 12. McDonough and Palar chipped in with six apiece while Bach and Dan Nielson each scored two. Bach also snared 11 rebounds. The local seventh-eighth grade cagers move on to the regionals this Saturday at Dearborn Divine Child High School, where they'll meet Plymouth Our Lady of Good Counsel. The game is slated to begin at 2:30 p.m.

Girls nab trophy, too

Our Lady of Victory's fifth-sixth grade girls won a trophy themselves last weekend. Sparked by a balanced scoring attack, the Cougars bounced back from an opening-round defeat to win the consolation bracket of the Ladywood Invitational Tournament in Livonia. After suffering a 10-8 setback against Plymouth Our Lady of Good Counsel, the tourney's eventual runner-up, in Friday's opener the local girls defeated Dearborn Heights St. Mel's on Saturday, 26-9, and Hamtramck St. Florian's on Sunday, 18-13, for the consolation title. Jenny Nadeau led all scorers with six points in the victory over St. Mel's, while Colleen McGillis added five points, Mary Joy Konczal four, Colleen Kirwan three and Amy Demattia, Marueen Zeleznik, Mary Duwel and Mary Kay McClorey two each. In the St. Florian triumph DeMattia topped the winners with seven points while McGillis and Naduau added four each, Konczal two and Zeleznik one.

He's All-American

Bill Johnson, son of Neal and Jean Johnson of Northville, earned All-American honors in the two-mile relay at the NAIA National Indoor Track and Field championships in Kansas City earlier this month. Johnson, a graduate of Inkster Cherry Hill High School who now attends Hillsdale College, contributed to the relay team's fifth-place finish in a time of 7:56.6. He is a junior at Hillsdale. The Johnsons reside at 19735 Hayes Court in Northville.

Athletes of the week

JEFF NORTON

SUE KINNAIRD

As the captain and veteran member of Northville's basketball team, Jeff Norton has been a major factor in the Mustangs' fortunes this season. That was particularly clear last week, when the senior forward put on a pair of his top performances of the year. On Tuesday he shot a blistering 72 percent from the field, wound up with 27 points and added five assists in leading Northville to a 77-58 victory over Milford. Three nights later he scored 12 points and added 12 rebounds, topping the club in both categories, before fouling out in a crushing 60-59 overtime loss to Farmington Harrison. Norton, hit with a pair of questionable fourth-quarter personals, fouled out with 5:38 remaining in regulation time and the score tied 43-43. Sue Kinnaird is closing out a brilliant three-year career with Northville's gymnastics team in style this winter. The senior tumbler capped another impressive season by recording some of her highest marks ever in vaulting, balance beam and floor exercise during the Mustangs' 82-25-76.75 loss to Livonia Clarenceville last Wednesday. Her 8.15 score in vaulting not only clinched her third straight regional qualifying berth in that event, but apparently set a school record as well. Kinnaird also received a 7.2 mark in floor exercise — tying her second-best effort of the season — and topped Northville with a 5.40 on the beam. She finished the meet with a first place in vaulting and fourth places in both the beam and floor competition.

Betting's still high at Northville Downs

If last week's figures are any indication, the Northville Downs has apparently won over a few fans as a result of a recent strike at Windsor Raceway.

When the strike began in January, Northville immediately began feeling the effects with a series of record-breaking nights at the betting windows. Since Windsor resumed normal activities, though, the Downs has continued to enjoy remarkable prosperity.

Last Monday through Saturday (February 19-24) the local track's mutuel handle totalled $2,944,046, the second-highest week on record. During the waning days of the Windsor strike three weeks ago the Downs took in $3,339,307 for the all-time mark.

Last week's attendance, which totaled 21,022, was also the second highest of the season.

The week came to a climax last Saturday, when a crowd of 5712 wagered $704,191, the second-highest betting night on record (the all-time record is $789,153, set on January 24 of this year).

Through the first eight weeks of this year's 84-night program the Downs is now averaging $446,097 per night in mutuel handle, up a very healthy 14.4 percent over last year's record-setting pace, while attendance is averaging 3167 per night, up 10.5 percent over last year's figures.

This winter's meet will continue through Saturday, April 7.

Rick Bergert had best Northville freestyle effort in years against Western

Swimmers healthy, but struggle past Western

Northville's swimming squad is finally beginning to return to full strength after a season filled with injuries and sickness, but you couldn't have told Walled Lake Western that last Thursday night.

Coach Ron Meteyer switched his lineup around to give his swimmers a chance to try a few different events, and the strategy almost proved costly as the Mustangs had to battle from behind for a 90-82 victory at Western's home pool.

"We went in with the idea of putting one good swimmer in each event, and letting our other good swimmers try new events, and we almost got caught looking," Meteyer admitted.

In fact as late as the backstroke, the meet's third-last event, the two teams were tied before the Mustangs finally pulled away with 1-3 finishes in both the backstroke and breaststroke.

Northville wound up winning only five of 13 events in the meet, but had enough depth to pull it off.

Brady Kramer's winning 1:03.4 clocking in the backstroke, matching his season's best effort, highlighted the team's four individual victories. Tom Cahill (24.3 in the 50-yard freestyle), Tim Cahill (1:04.1 in the breaststroke) and Paul Cooper (187.15 points in diving) were Northville's other individual winners, while Kramer, Dean Guard Tim Cahill and Rick Bargert combined to capture the medley relay in 1:51.4.

Two of the Mustangs' top performances of the meet, though, were Bargert's second-place finish in the 100 freestyle and Tim Cahill's second-place finish in the individual medley.

Bargert had a 51.8 clocking, the best 100 freestyle time of any Northville swimmer in several years, and wound up 2 seconds behind Western's Tom Muhlfield. Cahill matched his best time of the season with a 2:10.8 in the individual medley, but Western's Mark Hughes won the event in a school record-setting time of 2:10.0.

Other second-place finishes for Northville were turned in by Kramer (50 freestyle), Fisher (diving), Guard (butterfly), Char Ramsey (500 freestyle) and the freestyle relay team of Tony Nader, Ramsey, Tom Cahill and Bargert.

Third-place finishers included Ramsey (200 freestyle), Nader (butterfly), Tom Cahill (100 freestyle), Bill Lockwood (backstroke), Lorne Demrose (breaststroke), and both of Northville's relay units.

Three days earlier the Mustangs, stung by a tough second-place finish in the medley relay, lost 45-38 in a non-league meet against North Farmington.

Both teams posted 1:50.0 clockings in the medley relay, but North Farmington won the event on the touch. Tom Cahill, back after a long illness, anchored the relay for Northville and almost made up a lot of lost ground with a 23.5 freestyle split. Other members of the relay unit included Kramer, Tim Cahill and Dan McMan.

"If we would've won that, I think it might've turned things around and helped us win the meet," Meteyer mused.

Among the Mustangs' winners were Kramer (backstroke), Cooper (diving), Bargert (100 freestyle), Tim Cahill (individual medley and breaststroke) and the freestyle relay team of Tom Cahill, McMann, Ramsey and Bargert.

The local tankers also got strong performances from Bargert in the backstroke (24.0) and Fisher in diving (169.3 points, his top effort ever).

The Mustangs, now 5-1 in the Western Six and 7-4 overall, next see action tomorrow night when they travel to Plymouth Canton for an important league match-up. Next Monday (March 5) they'll close out their dual meet season with a make-up meet against Walled Lake Western.

Recreation notes

The Northville Recreation Department is looking for volunteers for its senior citizens shopping program.

The volunteers would be responsible for helping senior citizens carry groceries from a bus to their homes on Tuesdays between 1 and 2 p.m.

Anyone interested in helping out should call the recreation office at 349-0203.

No cash refunds on bus tickets will be given to ski club members this winter.

Members who want to exchange their tickets for future trips, however, can do so by informing the recreation department at least one week in advance of the trip. For further details call 349-0203.

Coaches are needed for the junior baseball program's Sandy Koufax league this summer.

The Sandy Koufax league involves youths aged 14 and under, and begins competition in May. If interested, call Wade Deal at 348-1129.

Organizational meetings for men's, women's and co-ed softball league teams will be taking place next week.

The men's league meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. next Wednesday (March 7), while the women's league meeting will be held at 7:30 and the co-ed league meeting at 8 p.m. next Thursday (March 8). All three meetings will take place in the recreation office, located on the corner of Wing and Main Streets.

This Friday will mark the end of this year's ski club program. Buses for the final trip to Alpine Valley will leave from the Scout Recreation Building at 4:45 p.m.

The Northville City and Township Recreation Commission will be holding a special meeting this Thursday (March 1) to discuss the fish hatchery pond project.

The meeting will take place in the recreation office beginning at 8 p.m.

Cheryl DeHoff sets up against Howell

But they're improved

Spikers lose 4 more

Northville's volleyball play took a turn for the better last week, but the Mustangs' fortunes didn't.

Despite Coach Steve McDonald's observation that the local girls were playing "well enough to win," Northville lost four more games, leaving them in the depths of a six-game losing streak.

A week ago Monday the Mustangs dropped a tough three-setter to Waterford Mott (15-12, 7-15, 15-7), then lost a 15-3, 15-12 decision to Livonia Churchill two days later in a pair of Western Six contests.

Last Thursday Howell was the villain, 15-9 and 15-8, and this past Monday Plymouth Salem handed the local team a rough 15-12, 16-14 setback. "It's been kind of tough this year, especially the last couple of weeks," McDonald remarked. "The girls have been playing well all week, but they just couldn't get a 'W' (win)."

Kim Kratz was the squad's most consistent player during the week. She had eight serves, seven of them good, and added 10 spikes, all of them good, against Mott.

Kim Kurzawa was Northville's leading server in that one, with 15 good serves in 17 tries. Stephanie Colovas added six good serves, six good serve receptions and two good spikes.

Diane Perpich also had a strong showing against Mott. The senior co-captain had five good serves, 10 good serve receptions and eight good spikes.

Two days later Kratz topped the Mustangs with five good spikes, three of them for points, while adding six good serves. Kathy Phillips was the team's leading server with seven good serves, including two for points, while Cheryl DeHoff added six good serve receptions and Perpich five good spikes.

Perpich had eight good serves, four of them for points, during the Howell loss, as well as three spikes and five serve receptions. Kurzawa chipped in with four good serves and six serve receptions.

And against Salem,

Perpich, with eight good serves, was the team's leading server while Kratz had six good serves and 10 good spikes. Kurzawa added five serve receptions.

"They played well as a team," McDonald said of his team's performance against Salem, noting that the Mustangs held a 14-9 advantage in the second set before folding. "We just didn't get any breaks to speak of."

Northville, now 3-8 overall and 3-5 in the Western Six, closes out its regular season slate with a non-league game against Novi tomorrow and a league game against Plymouth Canton next Monday.

Jayvees win 2 thrillers

Duke DuSablou dumped in 58 points in two games last week and Northville's bench came through when it counted, helping the jayvee Mustangs to basketball victories over Milford and Farmington Harrison.

DuSablou poured through 33 points last Tuesday, but it was his free throw with less than 15 seconds remaining that gave the local cagers an 81-80 triumph over Milford.

The lead see-sawed throughout the game, with Northville blowing a 26-18 first-quarter lead and falling behind 44-42 at the half. At the end of three quarters it was all tied up at 64-64.

Milford then took an 80-79 edge into the final minute of play but Mark Holland, coming off the bench, tied it back up for the Mustangs on a free throw before DuSablou sank the winning point. Jim McDonough, another reserve, then preserved the win by stealing a Milford pass seconds later.

Both clubs shot over 50 percent from the field, although Coach Omar Harrison felt his team's defensive play was somewhat lackadaisical. DuSablou added 11 rebounds to his game-high point total, while Dave Greer tossed in another 20 points.

Three nights later the Mustangs had another cliffhanger, but came out with a 48-46 victory over Farmington Harrison.

The win gave Northville sole possession of second place in the Western Six, with a chance to win a league cochampionship this week. The Mustangs now sport a 6-3 league record with a game against league-leading Plymouth Canton in Friday's season finale.

Canton is 7-2 going into the contest while Harrison and Livonia Churchill are tied for third place with 5-4 marks.

DuSablou pumped in 25 more points and grabbed 11 rebounds to pace Northville's triumph over Harrison. Dan Swayne chipped in nine points and Greer nine rebounds.

Thomas scores 44 to pace win

It isn't anything new that Todd Thomas led his team in scoring in fifth-grade basketball action last Saturday afternoon.

And it isn't anything new that the Mustangs' scoring pace more than doubled the output of any of his teammates.

But this time the hot-shooting youngster outdid himself. Sparked by a sensational 18-point scoring outburst in the fourth quarter, Thomas erupted for 44 points in leading the Mustangs to a 56-38 victory over the Badgers, the highest-scoring game recorded in any of the three local youth basketball leagues this year.

His output almost doubled the previous season high for one player in one game — Thomas himself scored 24 points three weeks ago — and it helped the Mustangs even their record at 4-4 this year, while dropping the Badgers to 5-3.

It also overshadowed an outstanding 22-point effort by the Badgers' Scott Gray, who scored 14 of those points in the last half. The Badgers had fallen behind, 30-18, at halftime, but rallied to within four, 38-34, before Thomas took over and scored all 18 of the Mustangs' last-quarter points.

In other fifth-grade action, meanwhile, the Titans remained tied for first place with a dramatic 27-26 overtime victory over the Bobcats; the Rockets knocked off the Wolverines, 29-23; the Spartans nipped the Trojans, 27-25; and the Sun Devils edged the Bulldogs, 23-19.

Matt Peltz scored seven of his game-high 15 points in overtime to spark the Titans to victory. After trading leads throughout the contest, the two teams battled to a 20-20 deadlock at the end of regulation.

Peltz then took control, scoring all seven of his team's overtime points.

Joel Vogt supported the winners with eight points total, while Bob Baird with 10 points and Paul Newitt with five paced the Bobcats.

The Rockets won their game by rallying from a 15-12 halftime deficit, outscoring the Wolverines 11-4 in the third quarter. Chris Hauser topped the winners with 16 points while Randy Eppers added six. Rob Cannon tallied 14 points and Don Norton seven for the Wolverines.

Matt Lotarski's 13 points led the Spartans to their sixth victory in eight outings. Doug Hartman with eight points and Doug May with seven paced the Trojans.

The Sun Devils, who broke a 19-19 tie after three quarters by holding the Bulldogs scoreless down the stretch, were led by Jeff King with eight points and John Mynatt with six. Fred Cahill scored eight for the Bulldogs.

In last week's seventh-eighth grade action, meanwhile, the Hawks and Badgers both picked up victories to remain tied for first with 6-2 records.

The Hawks, sparked by Ernie Bock, raced out to a 12-6 halftime lead and beat the Knicks, 31-24. Bock topped both clubs with 13 points while teammate Jim Willoughby added seven. Pat Bissett netted 10 points and Scott Gala seven for the Knicks.

The Badgers stormed out to a 34-10 halftime cushion and never looked back en route to a 45-32 win over the Bulldogs. Scott Bush tallied nine points and Dan Nyquist and Pat Campbell added eight each for the winners.

In third-fourth grade action the Falcons retained sole possession of first place with a 30-11 victory over the Wolverines; the Cougars recorded the first shutout of the season by defeating the Warriors, 26-0; and the Vikings remained tied for second with the Cougars by downing the Spartans, 17-6.

Gymnasts set record again

The win-loss record may not reflect it, but Northville's gymnastics team is finishing up its most successful season ever.

Going into this weekend's league meet at Bloomfield Hills Andover, the Mustangs have broken school team scoring records three times this year, including last Wednesday's dual meet finale at Livonia Clarenceville.

Sparked by Sue Kinnaird's record-setting performance in vaulting, the Mustangs piled up 76.75 points, breaking a two-week-old team scoring record mark by two points, but lost for the eighth time in nine meets this season. Clarenceville scored 82.25 points.

Kinnaird was awarded an 8.15 in vaulting, her best score by far this season, leading Northville to a 21.75-20.70 team scoring edge in that event. That effort also qualified her for next week's state regionals in Troy, making this the third straight year she'll be appearing in the state tournament.

Britt Evans, meanwhile, became the second Northville girl to qualify for regional competition by posting a 7.20 in floor exercise. Gymnasts qualify for the regionals in vaulting and floor ex by hitting a 7.20 or better at least four times during the season.

Evans wound up tied with Kinnaird for fourth place in floor ex, while Amy Missel had the team's highest mark with a 7.25.

Other top performances turned in by the local girls included Missel's 6.90 in vaulting, good for third place; Kinnaird's 5.40 and Anita Hodge's 5.05 on the uneven bars, good for fourth and fifth place respectively; Hollie Raycraft's 6.55 and Joanne Hendricks' 6.35 on the balance beam, good for third and fourth place respectively.

County employees contract

It's $14 million labor settlement

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has tentatively approved a labor contract settlement affecting the nearly 4,000 county employees who went on strike for five days this month.

Sitting as the ways and means committee on February 22, the commissioners approved a two-year $14.3 million package subject to a financial report to the full board on March 1. In the interim, the commissioners asked its fiscal crisis committee and fiscal advisor to study potential revenue sources and recommend a means to fund the agreement.

The employees affected are members of Council 25 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) who have already ratified the proposal.

Included in the proposal is a four percent retroactive pay increase, effective October 1, 1978; a further two percent raise on July 1, and an additional three percent raise effective December 1. On January 1, 1980, half the cost of living allowance would also be folded into base wages, in effect an additional pay increase amounting to 50 percent of the prevailing cost of living. The contract would expire June 30, 1980.

According to Fiscal Advisor Edward E. Bobowski, the $14.3 million cost of the contract is calculated on salary and cost of living increases as well as social security taxes and contributions to the county retirement system.

Bobowski told the ways and means committee that more than $3 million is needed to fund the labor agreement through November 30, the end of the fiscal year, and $1.9 million of that is lacking.

Already faced with a potential $13 million deficit prior to the labor settlement, Bobowski and county commissioners have repeatedly warned of extensive reduction of services and severe employee layoffs without state aid.

Depending on the date layoffs would occur,

JAMES ECHOLS

His department credits include a citation for honorable mention. This was for his part in solving a case in 1956 in the Lansing area involving three subjects on assault and robbery charges.

Echols was born at Hardy, Kentucky. He graduated from high school at Detroit, later attending the Wayne School of Business Administration for two years. Beginning in 1951 he was in the U.S. Army for 22 months, including four months on duty overseas.

OLHSA polishes gold of those golden years

By CAROLYN "PETE" DeMARCO

If we believe the image being pushed on us by national advertisers through television, the most pressing concerns of our senior citizens today are constipation, slipping dentures and deceiv-ing their visiting families into thinking the packaged lemonade, pancake mix and gravy they use are homemade.

While the above may actually be cause for slight concern among some seniors, their most serious problems are much more basic: how to stretch a fixed monthly check to cover the ever-rising costs of food, shelter, utilities, taxes, health care and other necessities. For many the "gold" of the golden years is slightly tarnished.

One agency which addresses these problems of senior citizens is the Oakland Livingston Human Services Agency (OLHSA), a federally funded, non-profit organization whose headquarters are in Pontiac.

OLHSA administers the Lakes Area Multi-Purpose Center exclusively for senior citizens at the Old Novi Elementary School on Novi Road, south of Twelve Mile.

The center provides comprehensive services for adults 55 and older who are residents of Oakland or Livingston County. As one of eight similar centers in these counties, it draws participants chiefly from the communities of Novi, Walled Lake, South Lyon, Wixom, Wolverine Lake Village, West Bloomfield and Milford.

There are no dues or red tape associated with the center. To participate in its activities for the first time, all one need do is drop in and fill out a brief form with name, age and other pertinent information. According to Anna Gargalino, center supervisor, nearly 700 oldsters are currently on the roster.

A variety of activities is offered between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, year-round.

Most popular of these is the nutrition program. (This one program is limited to those 60 and older.) At noon each day a filling, well-balanced meal, including dessert and beverage is served. Although technically there is no charge for the meal, a fifty-cent donation is suggested. Some pay; some don't. Visitors are asked to pay $1.35 for the same meal.

Mrs. Gargalino, an ample woman, stated the meal is usually too large for her to finish, but the members have no such difficulty. For many of them, according to Mrs. Gargalino, it is their only substantial meal of the day.

"Dinner at home for many," she stated, "is often a cup of coffee or tea and a cookie."

For those home bound because of illness, meals are delivered to their doors by volunteers. All that is necessary is a doctor's verification that they are unable to come in.

Other services for the home bound provided by volunteers include a daily telephone reassurance program to check on these shut-ins.

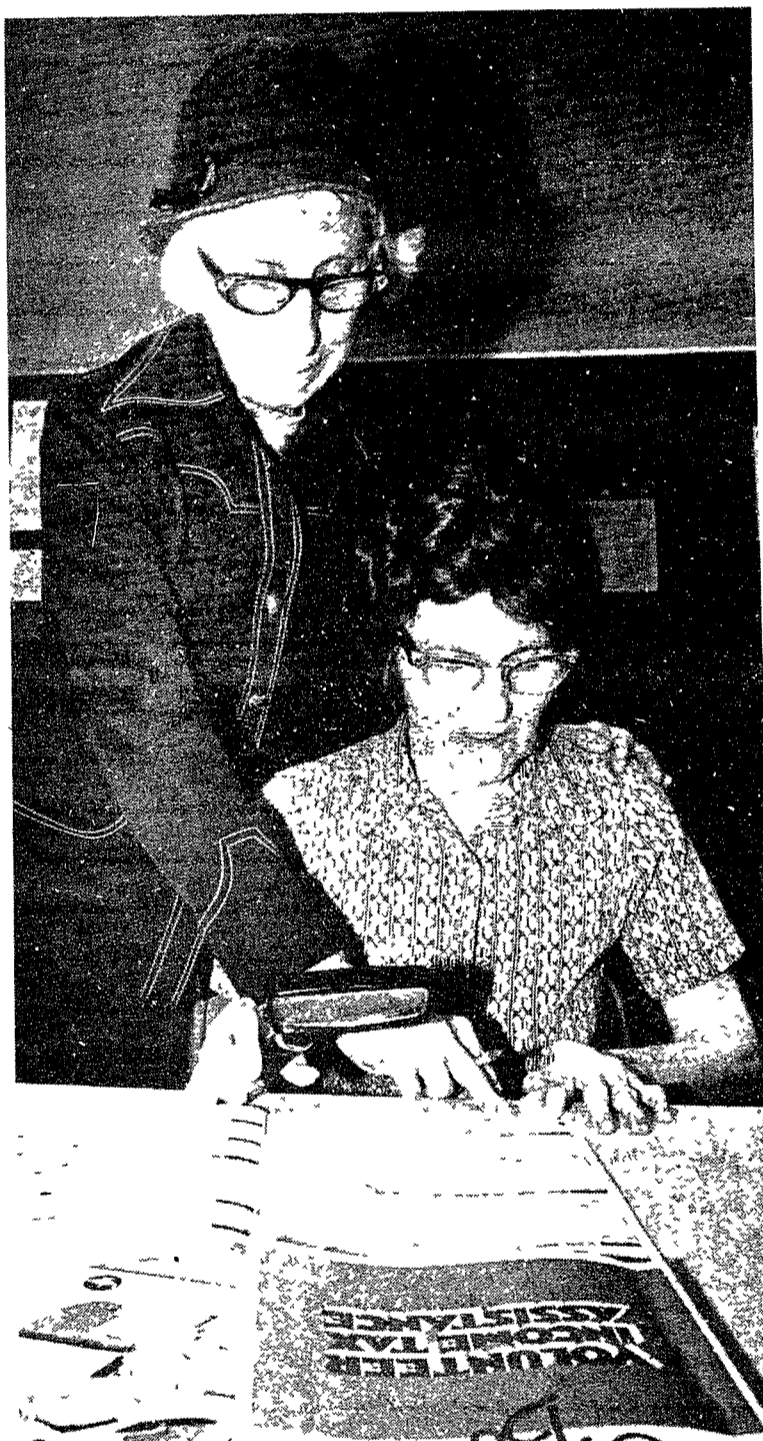

Mrs. Gargalino is assisted in her work by Helen Fust, community resource worker, and Maria Spence, site hostess. Viola Lamontagni serves as a part-time senior aide.

A good friend of the center is the City of Novi. In addition to the support of the Parks and Recreation department in planning trips and projects, the city

Numerous other individuals volunteer their services.

Social activities offered on a regular basis include quilting, exercises,

Minding the store at the new Bucky's Pharmacy are (l. to r.) Rex Ross, Lori Gardner, Cookie Newton and Cindy Buti

A NEW BUCKY'S PHARMACY has opened in Pinckney. Located at 1337-East M-36 between Spadafore's Foods and the Ben Franklin Store, the new store is a service-oriented pharmacy also offering a variety of non-pharmaceutical merchandise, according to Earl "Bucky" Sawisch, who also operates Bucky's Pharmacy in Brighton.

"We're a team-concept pharmacy and we emphasize that we care, because we have to," Sawisch noted. Managing the new store are Rex Ross and Lori Gardner. Floor managers are Louanna "Cookie" Newton and Cindy Buti.

JIM THURMAN of Salem, formerly of South Lyon, has opened a glass installation and repair business in Salem. Residential mirrors, custom shower doors, storm doors and windows and custom fireplace doors are in his line. He also specializes in repairing insulated windows and works with builders on glass installation for new homes.

"I offer certain services direct from my truck without the overhead of a storefront business in order to do the work at lower costs," Thurman said. His business number is 459-0846.

Symbols
I looked at a steeple
So stately and tall,
And then, at a belfry
So modest and small.

One to be seen
And one to be heard;
One for its sheen
And one for its word.

Both in the service
Of guiding mankind,
Each by its forte
To gently remind

The high and the low
To pause on their way
The better to know and humbly to pray.

Man
With winding roads, and silvery streams,
green green meadows,
and towering trees,

Birds singing their sweet sweet song, and elk grazing in the tall grass,

Then man comes with crazy machines, and super freeways,
gooped up streams,
and dingy lots,
towering skyscrapers,
and the screech of the lunch whistle, but there's no more peace.

My Life Poem

he's a toy.
I have a cat
he's not fat

I have a dog he's not a hog he hates smog.
Now me
I'm alerject to any BEE

Wetlands law possible

By WARREN M. HOYT

Environmentalists have improved hopes this year to win approval of legislation designed to protect the state's wetlands from elimination through development.

Such legislation would go only as far as the Senate Conservation Committee where, then chairman Senator Joseph S. Mack (D-Ironwood), would never let any so-called environmental bill out of the committee for debate on the senate floor.

Mack, a supporter of the development of the Upper Peninsula to provide jobs for residents there, saw environmental legislation as an infringement on future development and an attempt by the state to control uses of private property.

Such opposition to environmental legislation brought about Mack's removal as chairman of any standing committee considering such legislation.

Already both committees of the house and senate have considered separate legislation dealing with the identification and preservation of the state's wetlands.

Major opposition continues to pour in from the agricultural community and fears continue that such legislation and the prohibition against using such designated lands could work against the agricultural community. Developers also fear the legislation could also deliver the final blow to an already staggering economy.

Experts estimate that during the past 100 years, some 60 to 75 percent of the state wetlands have been eliminated

They are currently disappearing at a rate of 6,000 acres per year.

The legislation provides for a liberal definition of wetlands to include swamps, marshes, bogs and flood plains. It would prohibit a deposit or removal of materials from the designated areas, prohibit operating or maintaining any development in a wetland and prohibit draining surface water from such an area.

Environmentalists and legislative leaders feel the bill is so important to preserve these diminishing areas, that they are considering a method of compensating private owners for land so designated as it would be removed from production or development possibilities.

A collective sigh of relief went out from the legislature after a lobbyist registration and reporting bill was approved, but the bitter debate is not over as the first public hearing on administrative rules opened in Lansing recently.

Administrative rules set departmental policy in administering and enforcing legislation after it is signed into law.

Often, as it appears in the present case, rules are written by bureaucrats who completely change the legislative intent of an act. The rules ultimately have to be approved by a joint legislative committee which operates as a check on the rules-writing process.

The reaction to the rules, as it surfaced during the first public hearing on them, foreshadows a vigorous battle, similar to the original one staged in the legislature.

Meanwhile, the law will not become effective and enforceable until six months after the rules are adopted.

The act regulates activities of lobbyists who spend at least $1,000 for lobbying purposes in a 12-month period or more than $250 on a single official in that same period. Detailed records are required to be kept with quarterly filings with the secretary of state's office.

Testimony, on behalf of a Committee to Protect the First Amendment Right to Lobby, declared the rules went far beyond the intent of the legislation.

A spokesperson for the group suggested anyone appearing before a committee, including private citizens, would have to have an accountant follow him around and report conversations, both personal and telephone, and time spent making suggestions.

The final answer will be given by the legislative committee, but it could take months before the rules are approved leaving the state, again, without a lobbyist control act.

movies, arts and crafts, dances, painting, bowling, bingo, cards, puzzles and other table games.

Monthly outings by bus planned in cooperation with the Parks and Rec department will include trips to several sporting events, Fairlane and Greenfield Village, the Renaissance Center and Sault Ste. Marie.

Twice monthly a medical clinic is sponsored by Henry Ford Hospital. Dr. Joseph Gadbaw, M.D. and his nursing assistant, Beth Foster R.N., provide complete physicals and other medical attention on a drop-in basis. No appointments are necessary. If further tests or attention are needed, appointments are set up at the hospital's West Bloomfield facility. Medicare and insurance cards are accepted as payment.

Blood pressures are read on a regular basis, and flu shots and hearing screenings have been given in the past.

A "Package of Life" is distributed to all those who want it. The kit consists of a box containing a form listing medical problems, doctor's name, etc. The kit is taped to the inside of the senior's refrigerator and is available to firefighters or paramedics in an emergency situation.

Aid in preparing tax forms is provided on the premises by Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA), a service of the Internal Revenue Service.

Help in filling out the Michigan Department of Treasury "Homestead Act" form, which provides credits on property tax and heating costs, is also available.

A food co-op is set up from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. on the second and fourth Thursdays each month. Fresh fruits and vegetables may be purchased "open counter" style — the buyers may pick exactly what they want in any quantity. Meats and cheeses may be bought, but must be taken in bulk because of health restrictions.

Extremely popular is the county-wide discount program. A large number of merchants offer discounts of 10 to 40 percent on merchandise and services to any senior presenting an identification card issued by OLHSA.

A current directory of all participating merchants has been compiled and is being printed. Until it is ready, seniors may call the center to see if a merchant is listed, or may merely ask the merchant if he participates.

Guest lecturers are brought in twice monthly to speak on assorted topics. Past speakers have discussed cardiopulmonary resuscitation, home security, fire prevention and detection, breast cancer and podiatric problems.

February's lecturers included Dan Dirks, community relations specialist with Southeastern Michigan Transit Authority (SEMTA), and Doris Schuchter of the Oakland County Division of Health, whose topic was "Hypoglycemia."

One feature which is offered but seldom taken advantage of is job placement. The Community Employment Service, which shares the building with OLHSA, often places job descriptions on the bulletin board, but they are seldom filled. The seniors evidently are fulfilling themselves right where they are.

While transportation is not provided by the center, SEMTA operates the Oakland County Advanced Reservation Transit (OCART) in the area served by the center. By contacting the OCART dispatcher, arrangements can be made to be picked up by a small bus and delivered to the center's door (Novi-Walled Lake residents may call 348-9220.)

Although there is a charge for the ride based on distance, those 65 and older may travel at half price.

Many of those using the center provide their own transportation, and even inclement weather does not deter them from attending regularly.

"One day the staff couldn't even get into the lot," Mrs. Gargalino reported. "The road plows had piled the snow and blocked the entrance to the parking lot." But the seniors were undaunted — they merely parked across the street and "trudged over."

"Nothing stops them!" she said with pride.

Although Mrs. Gargalino considers the center a success, she states there is always room for more participants. Although an estimated 260-300 persons make regular use of the facilities each month, many more times that number are eligible to. She said figures show there are at least 1,000 senior citizens in the City of Novi alone.

Marty Kinsella, public information coordinator for all of OLHSA, feels pride keeps a great many oldsters away. Many of them feel anything for which they do not pay is charity. They should realize, she added, the taxes they have paid in the past more than covers the costs, and erases any idea of charity.

A good number more are simply unaware of the program Mrs. Kinsella said, although the Lakes Area site is now into its third year of operation.

To obtain more information about the Lakes Area Multi-Purpose Center, or to volunteer services, call Mrs. Gargalino at 349-3780.

It's great fun, says Mildred Strong

Here's five thrillers

Tobogganing enthusiasts seeking a sledding thrill should try the iced runs at one of five specially groomed facilities in southern Michigan, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

"The exhilaration of hitting speeds of more than 50 miles per hour over a steeply banked bourse such as Echo Valley near Kalamazoo is a fast-paced activity the whole family can enjoy," stated Auto Club Touring Manager Joseph Ratke.

"Tobogganing also requires a minimum of athletic skill or expense," Ratke said. He emphasizes that tobogganers should wear layered clothing, insulated boots, gloves or mittens and a hat or cap covering the ears to protect against frostbite.

Auto Club lists four public facilities in Southeast Michigan and one private operation in Southwest Michigan with special toboggan runs, as follows:

Echo Valley, 8495 E. H. Avenue, Kalamazoo. Eight lighted, steeply banked, curved runs measuring one-quarter mile each. Entrance fee is $3.50 for adults and $2.50 for youngsters 12 and under. Toboggans provided. Runs groomed daily. Warming house, refreshments. Open 7-11 p.m. Friday, 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. Saturday and 1-8 p.m. Sunday. Closed Monday-Thursday. PH: (616) 349-3291.

Kensington Metro Park, one mile south of Milford. Five banked, curved runs up to 850 feet long. Entrance fee is $2 per car or $7 annual charge. No toboggans provided. Runs groomed daily. Warming house, refreshments. Open 10 a.m. to dark daily. PH: (313) 685-1561.

Middle Rouge Parkway, Edward Hines Drive between Six and Seven Mile roads, Northville. Two lighted, straight, banked runs about 400 feet long. Free admission. No toboggans provided. Runs groomed daily. Warming house. Open 5 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily, weather permitting. PH: (313) 224-7733.

Baldock Park,

Chandler Park Drive and Canyon, Detroit. Two lighted, straight, banked runs about 130 feet long. Free admission. No toboggans provided. Grooming as necessary. Warming house. Open sunrise to 10 p.m. daily. PH: (313) 822-5467.

Murphy Park, East Boulevard between Auburn and South Boulevard, Pontiac. One lighted, straight, banked 900-foot run. Free admission. Toboggans rented for 75 cents per hour. Grooming as necessary. Bonfire. Open 4-10 p.m. Friday, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Closed Monday-Thursday. PH: (313) 857-7780.

Area women to worship together Friday

A new Novi Methodist Barbershop Quartette will be providing music at the 1979 World Day of Prayer service at 10:30 a.m. this Friday at Novi Methodist Church at 41671 Ten Mile.

Women from eight Northville-Novi churches are participating in the service for which Harriet Hull of the Novi Methodist host church is chairman. All women of the community are invited to attend.

A gospel arrangement, "If I Can Help Somebody," will be one of the quartette's selections.

Ruth Anne Zimmer, Novi Methodist choir director who organized the quartette, wrote the song for the group and it has become its theme song. Other members of the quartette are Esther Kerr, tenor, Marty Trudell, lead, Eddie Scovill, baritone. Ms. Zimmer is the bass.

Joyce Smith of Northville Methodist Church will be worship leader.

Speaking on "Spiritual Growth" themes will be members from the area churches: Kay Russell of Northville First Presbyterian Church, "Growth in Knowledge"; Corinda Brown of Living Lord Lutheran Church, "Growth in Faith"; Mary Jo Machias of Holy Family Catholic Church, "Growth in Hope"; and Annebelle Gotts of Northville Methodist Church, "Growth in Love."

Other churches participating include Faith Community Presbyterian, Episcopal Church of the Holy Cross and Our Lady of Victory Church.

Women of Africa have written this year's service to emphasize growth in knowledge, faith, hope and love of Christ. They state it is their hope that "voices of women will be heard in solidarity in the 140 countries and 33 islands where World Day of Prayer is being observed."

It is hoped that the "services and offerings will go a long way toward fostering growth among women." Offerings made on World Day of Prayer are designated by Church Women United to go to intercontinental mission programs.

REHEARSING—Novi Methodist Barbershop Quartette will provide World Day of Prayer music Friday. Practicing are Esther Kerr, Director Ruth Anne Zimmer and Marty Trudell. Eddie Scovill, fourth member, was on vacation when the picture was taken.

'Epilepsy' won

Junior highs spell way to regionals

"Epilepsy" was the word that made Gary Metz spelling champion for the second year in a row at Meads Mill Junior High.

He and first runner-up Kim Terwin will represent Meads Mill while Jan Roberts and Mike Pinkelman will represent Cooke Junior High as winner and runner-up in regional competition to be held April 4.

Students in seventh and eighth grades at both junior highs competed to go to regionals in spelling bees utilizing words that students in those grade levels are expected to know.

Monique de Corbiac as second runner-up at Meads Mill. Grade winners were Don Riffenburg, eighth, with Kathy Bainbridge runner-up and Kathy Legner, seventh, with Kim Terwin runner-up.

Other eighth grade winners in Cooke classes were Tina Alexandris, Cathy Austin, Craig Brown, Kelly Gray, Vicki Grice, Kurt Hoffmeister, Doug Hulick, Trisha Johnson, Cindy Jordan, Chrissy Kreutzberg, John Kroll, Leslie Kucher, Darrin Lane, Sue Peters, Katy Sherman, Leigh Ann Spaman, Rod Wendell and Kathy White.

WINNING SPELLERS—Because they could spell down their fellow students in junior high, these spelling bee winners will represent their schools in regional competition in April. In the rear are Jan Roberts, top speller at Cooke; Gary Metz, title holder at Meads Mill; Mike Pinkelman, Cooke runner-up. Kim Terwin, Meads Mill runner-up in front.

Green-checked ribbon and paper lace doilies are fashioned into decorations and programs for the Northville Newcomers' spring fashion show-dinner by, from left, Kay Carbonari, Jacki Mathis, Deb Bergren and Peggy Gettig who met last week at the home of Pat Gossard to work on "The Wearin' of the Green" arrangements. # Anne Lang weds AMC executive

By JEAN DAY

Only family members attended the wedding of Anne Lang and William Hotchkiss at 4 p.m. last Saturday in St. Christopher's-St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Detroit.

Receptions for friends are planned for this Saturday and the following one at Detroit Boat Club. The dinners will give their respective friends opportunity to wish them well.

Anne was an active Northville resident before she moved to a Hyde Park Condominium in Detroit. She served as a Northville Town Hall chairman and was associated with Stan Johnston as a real estate salesperson. She was the widow of Robert Lang. Her husband, who is personnel manager at American Motors Corporation central headquarters, was an associate of Mr. Lang's at AMC. He also was widowed.

The couple's four grandchildren attended them in Saturday's ceremony.

The new Mrs. Hotchkiss wore an eggshell chiffon Schrader-design gown with long sleeves, fawn suede belt and matching shoes. She carried an orchid bouquet. The granddaughter attendants also carried nosegays. Michelle and Douglas Lang are the children of the bride's son, Michael Lang of Huntington Woods, an assistant prosecuting attorney in Wayne County. Jill and Harry Wells Jr., are the children of the bridegroom's daughter, Joan Wells, who attended from Boston with her husband, Harry Wells.

The bridegroom has another daughter and son-in-law, Jill and Paul Basherian in Canton. Mrs. Hotchkiss also has two daughters, Barbara Lang and Karen Kristoff, who is married to Dr. Zaklika Kristoff, a Wayne State University staff member. The newlyweds will be living in the bride's home.

Newcomers plan Wearin' of the Green fete

Last week members of Northville Newcomers' spring fashion show committee were "thinking spring," making emerald-color programs and arranging to have shamrock plants on hand for the spring fashion show-dinner at 7 p.m. March 15 at the Plymouth Hilton Inn. There will be a cash bar before dinner at eight. Kaye Carbonari, ladies day co-chairman, reports the dinner menu will feature Caesar salad, chicken Mornay, rice, broccoli and chocolate eclaire. Price for the evening is $10.

Models for the "Wearin' of the Green!" fashion show by Claire Kelly, who will commentate, will be club members. Local merchants are supplying door prizes. Reservations may be made through March 9 with Peg Gettig, 348-9529. Alumnae and guests are invited. Planners remind newcomers that their check to the reservation chairman confirms the reservation.

You're invited to become a Friend

The Friends of Northville Library will be meeting at 10 a.m. next Wednesday, March 7, in the library to hear Head Librarian Pat Thomas propose several projects which she would like the Friends to support.

Val Cook, Friends president, suggests that all who can attend bring their engagement calendars in order to set aside some time for the projects. Anyone not currently a member of the Friends who would like to discover what the Friends of the Library do is urged to attend by Mrs. Cook. She says this is a good way to decide "whether you could contribute."

Mrs. Cook would like to have other service organizations with subgroups committed to community projects become interested in making the library and the Friends' projects an ongoing part of their own. Area groups are invited to send representatives to the meeting. Coffee, tea and home-baked goods will be served. Anyone interested who can not attend is asked to call Mrs. Cook at 349-2158.

Class of 1969 sets reunion date

"We didn't get around to a five-year one," says Stacey Becker, explaining that plans, therefore, are being made to make the 10th special. As Stacey Evans she was a member of the Northville High School Class of 1969. The first reunion is to be a dinner July 14 at the Mayflower Meeting House in Plymouth. Planners are anxious to have members of the class contact them. Mrs. Becker may be called at 348-0463, or Greg Marshall at 348-0622.

Mothers' Club plans dance

Northville Mothers' Club will hold a business meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at the home of Marge Longridge at 20360 Woodhill.

Plans will be finalized for the club's annual spring dinner-dance April 28 at Meadowbrook Country Club.

It's a tradition

Mother Goose ballet to entertain Saturday

Nursery rhymes will come to life at 1:30 p.m. this Saturday when the Junior Corps of the Down River Civic Ballet entertains special guests of Northville Woman's Club at First Presbyterian Church.

In a tradition begun in 1974, once a year the club changes its meeting date from Friday to Saturday in order to bring daughters of all ages (and grandmothers, too) to a mother-daughter tea program.

This year, Mrs. John Brown, president, announces, the familiar characters beloved in Mother Goose are coming to enchant.

Miss Muffat, Three Little Kittens Who Lost Their Mittens, Mary and her Little Lamb, Jack and Jill along with Mother Goose herself in colorful costumes will dance here.

Mrs. D. B. Hiller, program chairman for the day, reports that 20 young dancers will perform during the program. They are under the direction of Enid Ricardeau, artistic director of the Wyandotte-based troupe.

The Down River Civic Ballet, a non-profit group, had its premiere in 1973. It was formed to develop and educate a local dance audience, bring dance movement education and experience to area youngsters and to encourage and develop talent of ballet students in the Down River area.

The Down River Civic Ballet serves as a performance outlet for the professionally-minded student in the classical ballet idiom, Ms. Ricardeau explained. Mrs. Hiller, Young people of the Down River area, she said, audition to join the group.

In addition to the Mother Goose Ball, the ballet group has performed Peter Pan, a full-length ballet in 1975; Bicentennial Ballet with the Allen Park Symphony Orchestra in 1976; and ballets for young people, Les Patineurs, Disneyland Dream Waltzes and Con Brio in 1977. For the past three years the City of Wyandotte has had the ballet present its "Christmas Fantasy."

Saturday's program will be followed by tea under the chairmanship of Mrs. Roy Kuckenbecker and her social committee. The meeting is the next-to-the-last of the year for the club, which meets twice monthly from October through March.

Mrs. Hiller, in announcing the young dancers' appearance, emphasizes that members are invited to bring daughters, granddaughters, grandmothers or young neighbors to enjoy the presentation.

Help's needed

'Rough winter' drains FISH

"We're having a rough winter," confides Rita Byrd, Northville-Nowi area chairman of FISH, the emergency Christian help organization.

"We are in dire need of volunteers who will transport people to dental and doctor's appointments, and we would welcome financial donations," she reports.

A long-time volunteer for FISH, Mrs. Byrd urges others to assist. "There are people here with needs," she stresses.

In return, she says, anyone who belongs to FISH "gets a lift from being able to help others." The help organization takes its name from the ancient symbol of Christianity. The letters do not stand for specific words.

For those who are not aware of local needs, Mrs. Byrd declares that "there are area residents with real emergency needs." As an example, she cites a call a couple of weeks ago from a mother trying to care for three teen-age boys on $25 a week.

"We found them winter jackets and took them to the grocery store," she recalls.

FISH ascertains only the immediate need, not the long-term situation, Mrs. Byrd continues, explaining, "It's not our business to ask, it's really emergency help." She admits that it is possible with this feeling for the organization to be imposed upon, but says it doesn't happen often.

"And once in a while," she says, "when someone gets back upon his feet, we do get a thank-you letter and a donation. Some even become volunteers."

FISH receives most of its financial support from local churches. It does not have a clothing closet but relies on Northville State Hospital's for assistance. Mrs. Byrd suggests that residents with clothing donations give them to the hospital.

Anyone willing to aid in transporting those who need rides or by making a financial donation is asked to call the FISH answering service that also takes calls for help. The number is 349-4350.

Knights of Columbus give donation to Marillac Hall

Northville Knights of Columbus have made Marillac Hall on Inkster Road, Farmington, the recipient of a collection of maternity wear, baby clothing and equipment for infants.

Marillac Hall, a care facility for young women who choose to have their babies, was chosen for the gift as the Knights wished to support its work, Robert Krueger, Deputy Grand Knight, explains.

The clothing and equipment collected by the Knights were taken to the facility February 7 by Krueger, Richard Formella of Salem, Grand Knight, and William Cole, K. of C. program director. Sister Mary Patricia, administrator of Marillac Hall, accepted the gift and expressed gratitude for the aid, Krueger reports.

The Knights meet on the second Wednesday of each month at 430 North Center.

Our Lady of Victory lists 'Renewing Love' seminar

"Renewing Love" is the theme of an adult education seminar being offered at Our Lady of Victory parish.

Beginning Wednesday, March 7, classes will be held from 9-11:30 a.m. for 12 weeks.

"With almost one of every two marriages ending in divorce and with extra-marital affairs becoming more and more accepted by society, the seminar is designed to help marriage and the family survive," it is explained.

"Because most people, even committed Christians, do not know how to apply Christian principles to their own family situation, the seminar is designed to teach their application," the sponsors announce.

The course, for which there is a $12 fee, has lessons taught from tape by Mrs. Jo Anderson of Washington, D.C., founder of "Renewing Love."

Mrs. Anderson, who began the seminars in 1973, directly applies spiritual principles to family life and marriage.

Lessons include: what men enjoy in women, effects of criticism, art of conversing, giving of self, from doormat to dignity, submissive independence, children are a blessing, becoming optimistic, enjoying your home and being solution minded.

To register, members are to contact Don Kuester, 349-2559 or Mrs. Judy LaManna, 348-1761. Baby-sitting will be provided at a cost of $1 per child.

"Renewing Love is about daily renewing your live with God so that you can be to all people you come in contact with what God wants you to be," they report.

"It's the kind of love that God gives us that we can exhibit. We hear a lot about love today. It gets down to the practical, every day principles that God gives in the scriptures for us," states Mrs. Anderson.

The course, sponsors report, is not "one that teaches that women are 'doormats' and slaves of their husbands. One lesson deals with building dignity in women who have allowed themselves to be run over most of their lives, teaching that it is important to be a God-pleaser instead of a people-pleaser."

Mizpah Circle slates potluck

After a two-month winter recess Mizpah Circle, King's Daughters, is resuming meetings with a spring potluck at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 6, at Northville Methodist Church. All members are especially urged to attend.

During the winter several members have been sewing and knitting for Mott Children's Hospital in Ann Arbor. The circle supplies bibs, robes, blankets and soft toys for children there.

Musical missionaries bring Lenten message

Musical Missionaries Norris and Margaret Greer will be bringing a Lenten message in song and recitation of the scriptures at the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services Sunday at First Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. H. O. Evans, Lenten series chairman at the church, explains that Norris Greer had been a professional singer in New York City, as well as in other major cities, where he had sung leading parts in opera companies. He also taught music for 14 years in Christian colleges.

He attended college in Michigan and holds a degree also from the Academy of Vocal Arts in Philadelphia. His wife accompanies him during his program.

In 1967 the couple began a full-time ministry with the Friends of Israel Gospel Ministry, Incorporated, of Collingswood, New Jersey. The Greers currently live in Westmont, New Jersey. Her mother, Mrs. Blanche Kenyon, is a resident of King's Mill while his mother lives in Flint.

Winchester mothers ski cross-country with sons

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Northville PTA-PTSA News is compiled monthly during the school year by Volunteer Marge Ercoli, 348-9350. It appears on the last Wednesday of the month.

PTA-PTSA COUNCIL

This month the PTA-PTSA Area Council is holding a combined meeting with the Northville School Board to exchange information and ideas pertinent to the school system.

We hope that all council members, all local PTA boards and all interested citizens will attend.

It will be held Monday, March 5, at 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

Please mark this date on your calendar and plan to attend. We believe that it is very important to keep lines of communication open between the school board and the parents and citizens of the district, and this is one opportunity we have for direct discussion.

At our meeting on February 15, Mrs. Nancy Soper presented the films and tentative program for fifth and sixth grade girls and boys on Human Growth and Development.

Dolores Yanover
Council President

WINCHESTER

Our Winchester PTA mothers are super busy and having super fun, too! Fourth, fifth and sixth grade fellas and their moms had a fantastic cross-country ski outing February 15. Appreciation and thanks go to our program co-chairmen, Carol Halverson and Andrea Lenzi, and their committee people, Syd Harral and Shirley Klokenga. These gals are planning a fathers and daughters night, to be held March 8. And the theme is disco dancing. Limber up, all you Dads!

The Board of Education held its rotating meeting at our school, Monday, February 26. Community minded-parents who attended found this meeting to be very enlightening.

Winchester will be transformed into a smug emporium of smiles, as of March 12 when family portraits are scheduled to begin. Sue Eppers headed the monumental task of making the detailed arrangements. We salute Sue for her fortitude!

The PTA nominating committee will be presenting the 1979-80 officer slate at the March 14 general meeting, at which a movement education presentation is scheduled to be featured.

For their safety, please, parents, remind your youngsters to walk as near the edge of the road as possible, when walking to and from school.

SILVER SPRINGS

Every Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings strange voices can be heard throughout the halls and in the classrooms of Silver Springs School. If you listen closely, you will find that the voices belong to Mrs. Lynne Sherman's third and fourth grade students.

These students are operating their own radio station. Their call letters are WKID. The students' broadcast consists of news, commercials they have written themselves and riddles. They interview teachers and report on any special events going on during or after school.

We all say the radio station is "even better" than last year's post office, which was a great success. Keep up the good work!

Silver Springs PTSA wishes to extend an invitation to all who are interested in Sister Martina's lecture, "What Every Parent Wants to Know About Reading," to attend. It is to be given at 7:30 p.m. March 15 in the Silver Springs media center.

Sister Martina is in charge of the Psycho-Educational Center at Madonna College.

Refreshments will be served after the program.

Remember the family skate night is from 6:30-8:30 p.m. tonight (Wednesday) at Bonaventure Roller Skating Rink on Halstead Road one block north of Grand River.

"Welcome back" to our School Secretary Mrs. Nancy Bock. She broke her wrist at the last skating night, but is doing well now. I'm sure Nancy will be with us, too, in spirit, anyway.

MORAINE

February appears to be a slow month for us. We are just taking a brief rest before we shift into high gear for March and April.

A swim party for third and fourth graders was held February 9 at the high school. A good number of parents and children turned out for the fun. For one glorious hour it almost seemed that summer was here.

Carolyn Abramovich

AMERMAN

Winter seemed like a forgotten memory for a few hours for Amerman parents and children last week. The PTA held two consecutive swim nights at Northville High on Thursday and Friday evenings and a splashing good time was had by all.

Tuesday afternoon, February 27, the Amerman students viewed a gymnastics program made possible by the Junior Entertainment Series.

Amerman PTA is presenting a Family Movie Party at 7 p.m. Tuesday, March 20. Walt Disney's "Rescuers," a full-length animated adventure, will be viewed in the gymnasium. Popcorn will be on sale, and all families are invited.

There are still a few PTA board posi-

Uphill

Winchester Elementary mothers joined their sons on a cross-country ski outing held on the school grounds February 15.

A lesson and relays were part of the fun.

COOKE JUNIOR HIGH

Cooke's Clarinet Quartet took first division ratings at the Instrumental Solo and Ensemble program at Franklin High School in Farmington in January. Greg Gillum, Lolly Francoeur, Kathy Leavy and Melissa Mc

Daniel make up the quartet that performed so well.

The week of February 12-16 was full of activities at Cooke because it was Spirit Week. The ninth grade took first place with a total of 888 points. Ninth Grader Scott Spaman helped accumulate points by winning the cookie-eating contest.

The eighth grade won the poster contest which helped them take second place with 770 points.

Close behind were the seventh graders coming in third with 767 points. Everyone agreed that "Spirit" was really evident at Cooke.

The Student Council sold carnations for Valentine's Day. The sale was so successful that they sold out before first hour began. A Valentine's Day dance was held after classes to climax a fun day.

A letter was received from the Cavalry Senior Citizens Center/Lutheran Social Services thanking Cooke students for the canned goods received. William Dicks, Marian Burg and Carlee Stewner were the teachers who coordinated this drive and delivered the canned goods. Students enclosed handmade valentines in the packages.

We are happy to announce that the movie, "What You Are Is Where You Were When," will be shown again April 24 at 7:30 p.m. in the Cooke cafeteria.

If your student is missing a hat, gloves, scarf, jewelry or whatever, he or she should check the Lost and Found in the office because items not claimed from the Lost and Found will now be bagged each month and given to the Goodwill.

February 19 was the beginning of the girls' volleyball practices. The girls are being coached by Cy Nichols.

Bob Simpson is coaching the inter-mural basketball teams for the girls.

Cy Nichols treated his seventh/eighth grade boys football and basketball teams to a party after school February 15.

MEADS MILL

Meads Mill spirit was abounding last week as the students celebrated "Spirit Week". Prizes were awarded for the most authentic costumes worn on the "20's" day and the "50's" day. Prizes were also awarded on "hat" day. Mock elections were held February 20.

Thursday, February 22, was "School Color" day. A pep assembly was held in anticipation of the ninth grade basketball game with Cooke. Meads Mill defeated Cooke in an exciting game.

The seventh grade went to the Science Center on Thursday also. The visit to the Space Theatre with its dome movie screen was especially interesting.

Friday, February 25, was a busy day at the school. "Spirit Week" ended with a "dress-up" day. The High School Jazz Band performed for the students, and the French classes took a field trip to the Art Institute.

The School Spelling Bee Champs at Meads Mill are: Gary Metz, Kim Terwin, and Monique De Corbiac. Congratulations to these smart spellers!

The Intramural Girls' Basketball program has some champs too. The "Blues" captained by Sharon Knauss put together four straight wins at the end of the season to win the '78-'79 Meads Mill Intramural Girls' Basketball Championship. The "Blues" finished second during the regular season with a 3-3 record, then won two playoff games to clinch the championship. Team members consisted of Chris Hanson, Chris Kozloski, Kathy Legher, Terri Marion, Jennie Mao, Jane Moylan, Lisa Symula, Jenny Yanover and Sharon Knauss.

A new forensics group is starting at Meads Mill, under the direction of Mrs. Wilma Castillo. Twenty-three students have signed up for the club, and all of them are looking to their first practice tournament at the University of Michigan.

Parent Conferences will be held March 6, noon-3 p.m. and March 7, noon-3 p.m. and 6-9 p.m. There will be no school in the afternoon March 6 and no school all day March 7.

On March 10 the Meads Mill band will participate in a Band Festival at Plymouth Central. The PTA Executive Council Meeting will be held March 21 at 9:30 a.m.

DR. MURRAY BANKS

Town Hall brings back Dr. Banks

Dr. Murray Banks, who believes in the "sugar coating" of laughter to administer mental therapy, is the first Northville Town Hall speaker in the 18 years the series has been in existence to be invited for a return engagement.

His message that "you have to be able to laugh at yourself" was given here at the opening Town Hall in October 1967. It will be repeated at 11 a.m. next Thursday, March 8, when Dr. Banks speaks at the Plymouth Hilton Inn.

So many Town Hall ticket holders remembered his talk, "What To Do Until the Psychiatrist Comes," and asked to have the lecturer-author appear again that the return engagement was scheduled, Chairman Florence Booms explains.

It is possible to make reservations for the celebrity luncheon following the lecture through this Friday with Mrs. Frank Shokaluk, 349-4714. The usual, lively question-and-answer session will follow the luncheon, also at the Plymouth Hilton, says Mrs. Booms.

Town Hall and Our Lady of Victory School also cooperate to make baby sitters available. Mrs. Robert Hodson, 349-7888, should be called to make arrangements. The Town Hall series is sponsored by Our Lady's League of Our Lady of Victory Church.

Calling laughter "God's greatest blessing," Dr. Banks brings his audiences the message that "the human body cannot be angry and laugh."

His talk is cited as the second most frequently given in the world, placing second only to "Acres of Diamonds" by Dr. Russell Conwell.

Dr. Banks in his 1967 talk discussed the basic human wants, psychology of marriage and rules for mental health. "The secret of marriage," he said, "is know what you want out of life and select your mate accordingly."

† Federal regulations require a substantial interest penalty for early withdrawal from certificate savings accounts.

Take a very close look at the interest your savings account has been earning. If your account is at First Federal Savings of Detroit, interest is earned at the highest rate any savings association or bank can pay on insured savings. If your savings account isn't earning that much, you owe it to yourself to be dissatisfied and to do something about it.
