Square to get new, giant tenant

After nearly six years of semi-occupancy Northville Square will soon become a hub of activity.

The downtown shopping mall has been leased to Michigan United Gift Salesmen (MUGS) for its new location of the state's only merchandise mart.

MUGS is a non-profit organization composed of 100 independent wholesale representatives and the same number of associate members. It operates the merchandise mart to display to retailers throughout Michigan, Indiana and Ohio.

MUGS President Steve Gos. Thomas Dailey, owner of N Square, announced that agree been reached on a 10-year lease

Library must find temporary new quarters

By DAN GUIDO

Although construction already has started on the city hall library addition, it looks as though the library will be forced to vacate its present quarters months before the new addition is completed.

The library, currently housed in Northville Square, has been asked to move by July 1 in order to enable the Square's owner to remodel the interior of the first floor of the mall.

Tom Dailey, owner of the Square, has decided to lease the entire mall to Michigan United Gift Salesman, a wholesale "merchandise mart" which sells advertising displays to Detroit area businesses. (See related story)

City Manager Steven Walters said he was aware of the library's predicament, and is exploring several alternative solutions to the dilemma.

"Although we (the library) have been asked to move out in July, I'm sure the owner of the mall is fully prepared to continue to try and work with us on this," Walter said.

"In the meantime, we have been looking at several alternative, temporary facilities that could be used to house the library in between moves," he added.

The three places being considered as possible quarters for the library are the recreation building located in the old board of education offices, the Scout house and the second floor addition of the city hall.

"I think we may be able to house the library on the second floor of the new addition until the downstairs area is completed," Walters said. "I have to talk to the contractor on this, but I am sure we could work it out."

The second floor addition will extend from the current balcony of the recreation offices (formerly the library) to the existing wall of the city hall, on the south side Walters hopes to have the builder complete this part of the addition first so the library can be housed there for a short while.

When the addition to the city hall is completed, the library will occupy the first floor while the second floor will be used for city offices.

"We realized from the beginning that we would not be able to house the library in the Square for ever, but we did not figure on having to move as quickly as it looks like we are going to have to," Walters said.

"The price at the Square was so low we were content to stay there as long as possible," he explained. "It only cost us $14,000 for the first year and $18,000 for the last two years, which works out to $3 a square foot."

Walters said he received a call from Dailey May 24, which was the first time he had heard about his decision to rent the mall to United Gift.

"The city's posture on this is that Dailey has done a lot for us and has Voter apathy prevails on the eve of Monday's annual Northville school board election.

With only three candidates vying for two four-year posts and no millage proposals on the ballot, voters didn't bother to show up for last week's PTSSO candidates' night — the only opportunity the electorate had to meet and ask questions of the candidates, since the League of Women Voters did not run a candidates' night this year.

The spouses of the candidates, one high school administrator, one school board member, four PTSSO members and a representative from The Record were the only ones attending the session.

The district voters who do visit the polls between 7 a.m. and 8 p.m. Monday will choose between Douglas Whitaker, Gerald Munro and David Llewellyn.

In addition to picking two Northville school board members, voters Monday will also elect three members to the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees and decide two college tax hike proposals appearing on the ballot. (See college millage story on 8-B).

Six candidates — Nancie Blatt, Michael Burley, Gerald Cox and Robert Ficano — are seeking two six-years terms on the board, while Richard J. Hayward and Thomas S. Moore of Northville are battling for a two-year post. (See college candidate sketches on page 10-A).

The millage increase proposals — a half a mill each for one year — are for a culinary arts addition and remodeling

Officials meet to defuse Hines park rowdiness

By ELLEN SPONSELLER

Ways to stop thousands of teenagers from partying "out of control" in Hines Park will be discussed at a public meeting tonight at Northville township hall.

While Hines park in Northville township has been quiet so far this year, trouble has broken out at the other end of the 17.5-mile-long park system in Dearborn Heights.

The trouble is so bad there that 400 residents converged on Dearborn Heights city hall May 22 demanding the park be shut. And some public officials are declaring the area near a stage of anarchy, where police are no longer able to control the 40,000 youths who congregated there every warm night.

"We need a quick answer to the problems being created by thousands of unruly youths running amok along the

HAGGERTY ROAD, from Seven to Eight Mile, will be closed June 11 to October 1 for paving construction, the Wayne County Road Commission informed the township supervisor this week. Only a portion of this one mile stretch of Haggerty is paved at present.

WHIPPLE ESTATES subdivision residents cleaned out homes and garages and baked enough goodies to raise "a little more than $1,000" at a community lawn sale last Saturday to pay off remaining balance in legal fees incurred in the lawsuit on the development of adjacent Beacon Woods Subdivision.

A SEWAGE RATE hike due to go into effect June 1 was waived by the county. However, county officials have suggested that an even greater rate increase is likely to be charged user communities because of increase wholesale treatment costs charged by the City of Detroit.

New city budget ok'd/4-1

A record high budget — reflecting a tax increase despite a slight cut in millage — was approved by a 4-1 vote of the Northville City Council last week.

The budget was unopposed at the public hearing.

Casting the lone dissenting vote was Councilman Wallace Nichols, who opposed the millage reduction from the current level of 14.4 to 14.13.

Nichols called the millage reduction "imprudent." Earlier he warned council that in previous years that council has cut the millage it has later regretted doing so because costs generally exceeded income.

Other council members, however, saw the millage-cutting action as an honest effort to meet the moral requirements of the Headlee Amendment — even though legally council was not obligated to reduce the millage levy.

Despite the millage reduction, taxpayers can look for an increase in their city taxes because of the state equalization factors imposed by the counties.

City-wide, the average tax increase is 7.7 percent. But because under the law the city cannot set different millage rates for the two differently assessed sections of the city (Wayne and Oakland counties), the percentage of increase in one is greater than in the other.

Taxpayers in the Wayne County section, which received an average assessment increase from the SEV factor of 6.5 percent, will therefore experience an average tax increase of 5.3 percent. Those in the Oakland County section, where the average assessment increase is 13.7 percent, the average increase will be 11.6 percent.

The newly approved 1979-80 budget calls for a total outlay of $1,865,302 — about $60,000 more than the city expects to spend in the current fiscal year that ends June 30.

Basic categorical outlays within the new budget include:

Administration, $297,585; public safety, $731,337; city-township joint services, $84,900; and insurance, fringe benefits, supplies and other, $380,480.

Also approved were expenditures in a number of other funds:

Major street fund, $95,500; local street fund, $90,500; equipment fund, $180,550; sewer & water fund, $591,600; public improvement fund, $961,670; and Allen Terrace operating fund, $343,250.

City-wide tax set for drain work

By DAN GUIDO

Northville city council members have decided to levy 1.62 mills to pay for repairs to the Randolph storm drain.

The city officials determined at the May 22 budget meeting to go with the city-wide millage instead of special assessments to pay for the drain repairs.

City manager Steven Walters said council decided to spread the cost over the entire city because the Randolph drain is "quite large and drains about 60 percent of the low lying areas in the city."

"The high school, Cooke Middle School, Amerman Elementary, Allen Terrace and all the streets near Randolph empty into the Randolph drain. It's a benefit to all to have the Randolph drain repaired so it can be used to its fullest" Walters said.

If the council had decided to go with special assessments to fund the repair work only those residents and businesses in the immediate area of Randolph would have paid for the repairs.

Walters said spreading the cost of the project among all of the city's residents is the fairest way to fund the project.

341 seniors to graduate Tuesday

For the 341 seniors hoping to graduate from Northville High School next week it is a time of excitement and anxiety.

Those who make it through this last week of exams will receive a diploma Tuesday night from Dr. George Aune, high school principal.

Superintendent Lawrence Nichols will present the class of '79, the first graduating class since he has come to Northville, preceding the granting of diplomas by Dr. Aune.

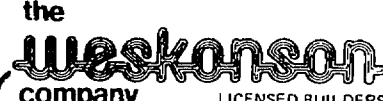

at the high school. Parents of the graduates, who have been preparing for the event for many weeks, will chaperone the event, which will include a dinner buffet at 10 p.m., swimming, dancing to a live band, free caricatures and a breakfast at 2 a.m. No one will be admitted after 9:30 p.m.

CHARLES W. CURRY

Sunday's baccalaureate service at 9 a.m. will kick off the graduation week activities. Reverend John Mishler, assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian Church will address the graduates. Class officers Greg Bach, Brett Blanchard, Sue Pegrum and Lynne Oliver will reflect on some of the class' finest moments.

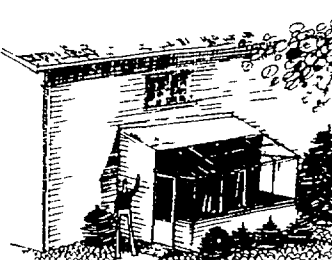

Commencement ceremonies will take place beginning at 7 p.m. Tuesday. Words of wisdom by salutatorian William Lockwood and valedictorian David Hooten will precede the commencement address by Charles W. Curry, associate director of admissions and scholarships at Michigan State University.

Curry, who holds B.S. and M.A. degrees from Denison University in Granville, Ohio, and a M.A. from MSU, has been a high school teacher and coach and a counselor. He has worked at various administrative positions at MSU and Hope College and has held his current position since 1971.

Quizzed by Record

School board candidates respond

1. Are you satisfied that the cuts made thus far in the preliminary 1979-80 budget are necessary? Explain.

Douglas Whitaker — Yes, I am satisfied. The first wave of cuts were staff reductions based on reductions in enrollment and that was unavoidable. We can not afford to staff our schools at the level that they were with so many fewer students than we had a few years ago.

The other wave of cuts were budget reductions caused by the basic fact that we are prohibited by law from adopting a deficit budget and are required to adopt a balanced budget. There are some areas that have been cut consistently for the number of years, such as capital outlay for replacement of worn out equipment and funds for necessary maintenance of existing grounds and buildings and equipment. None of us wanted to cut that area again because we had already dug ourselves a maintenance hole which we have to get out of.

There are very few places in the school district budget where it is easy to cut. And those were very quickly exhausted. That left us with the need to reduce the teaching staff and other areas of the staff such as custodial, bus drivers, secretaries, clerk typists and one administrative position. These cuts we knew would hurt, but we felt there was no alternative.

David Llewellyn — Based on the preliminary projections of income for the next school year and the Headlee tax limitation assumptions and based on the enrollment projections, it appears that all the cuts are necessary. In fact more cuts may be necessary if any of the assumption are not right.

Gerald Munro — I think they are. It is really a hard decision to make. As I view the board I don't think it is really interested in laying off any more people than it has to. A year ago they should have cut some teachers but didn't. The circumstances at that time, maybe they could have, maybe not. It is a very well thought out judgment.

2. How do you justify the proposed hiring of a junior high assistant principal while enrollment declines and teachers are being cut?

Gerald Munro — You have a job that must be done. You have an educational system and obviously, part of that is the instructional process. Realistically, you have to have buildings, you have to have teachers in the classrooms and somebody has got to run this educational system. You have to have buildings opened and closed and maintained.

It is not just a matter of employing of teachers and transferring knowledge. Realistically, I think it is a needed function. It is going to be there for the improvement of the entire educational system. I think it is going to help provide for a better system.

David Llewellyn — The cutting of teachers is directly related to declining enrollment and unrelated to the need for a stronger administrative staff at the junior high level. By increasing the administrative staff the principal will be able to spend more time reviewing classroom work and therefore will be able to insure or encourage improvements in quality of teaching and insure that the curriculum is balanced.

Douglas Whitaker — Very easily. One of the things people in the district want most is improvement in the quality of the classroom instruction. The only way we can do that is to get administrators into the classroom to observe what is going on and to determine which teachers need assistance or need to have their skills upgraded through one means or another.

With current class loads administrators cannot get in there. And the teachers want them in there. And the only way we can get them in there is to provide the time so that they can visit the classrooms on a regularly scheduled basis. I think that the return on this investment for the district will be noticed by many parents who have students in the junior high schools. I think when they recognize it they will support this issue.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Each of the three Northville school board candidates responded to a number of different questions during a taped interview conducted by The Record. Here are some of those questions and answers.

3. Why are you better qualified to serve on the school board than your opponents?

David Llewellyn — Well first of all, I am certain that all three of us are well-qualified for the positions. And any two of the three would do an excellent job. I would say the fact that I am essentially an outsider as far as school administration is concerned, that my total exposure to school has been approximately 22 years of being on the receiving end, and also that being a parent with two students in elementary schools, I have an outlook that is not constrained to "the way we did it last year" or "the way we should do it now." I don't know the apparent 'rules of education.' True, many of them are good rules, but I think there are probably some that are more habit than actual essential requirements.

Douglas Whitaker — I won't answer that in a comparative sense. But I will say that I think that my two years of experience can be put to use. I have gone through the learning period which they will have to go through, which any new board member has to go through. I think I can be more effective during these next four years than I have been because I have a lot of background information. Schools are complicated operations.

It is not nearly as easy to bring about change as one might think it would be before he gets involved in something like this. Change moves very slowly and that is probably a good thing. One of the things that has negatively affected education over the years has been these bandwagons that come rolling through from time to time, horns blaring and sirens sounding things like modern math, modular scheduling, etc., that are adopted before they are evaluated properly. As a result we rush into things that aren't proven and we end up with a negative effect.

Gerald Munro — I don't know if I am. I think Doug (Whitaker) has done a fine job in his two years on the board. My neighbor, Dave (Llewellyn) has a good position at Ford Motor Company and I am sure that he has talent. So, I really can't say that I am better than anybody. I am just another candidate that is qualified, providing a choice for the citizens.

4. What is your chief criticism of the Northville School System?

Douglas Whitaker — I don't think I have a chief criticism. That implies that there is something very wrong. There are some things that need improvement, but I don't want to flag one criticism over the others. We have worked in many areas, some of which are very apparent. Maintenance of our buildings and grounds is one. The need for a better way to evaluate our employees is another.

We are making some changes in our curriculum that will eliminate some duplications that now exist and close some gaps that now exist. We need to bring our capital equipment up to modern levels. We need to do something about that high school — in more than one way. The building is a very poor planned and conceived building. It is very difficult to work in. We need to bring it up to the level of a modern high school. We need to begin to change attitudes and begin to expect more of our students, faculty administrators.

David Llewellyn — My chief criticism — and this is not a big one because I don't have any major criticisms — is that I am not convinced that the quality of education is necessarily as good as it could be, considering the expenditure being made for education.

Gerald Munro — I guess apathy would have to be my chief criticism. Only two candidates ran last year for two positions. There are three this year. The candidates' night sponsored by the PTSO was a real disappointment with only the candidates' wives, the newspaper and some PTSO members showing up. Education is something of paramount importance to me and the end result is an educated, responsible citizen. It is too easy to say that it is too much bother or trouble. We all have a thousand reasons why we can't get involved. People should be involved.

5. What do you most admire about the Northville School System? Be specific.

Gerald Munro — The one thing I admire is the size. It is not large and yet it is not tiny. The potential is there for a real cohesive force where everyone knows everyone. I went to a high school of 6,000 and everyone got lost. The possibilities are tremendous. There ought to be more things happening. There should be more involvement.

David Llewellyn — The one point that I admire more than any other is the financial administration. In light of the tremendous question marks that hang over next year's income in the budget, I think the way that the budget reductions have been made, each step brought out to the public is admirable. I think it shows great skill, conscience and insight on the part of the board and the administration.

Douglas Whitaker — I think one of the things that I have come to believe over the years is that it is very difficult to make accurate comparisons among schools. One of the things we all tend to do is compare schools of today with schools of the past. You can't compare schools then and now any more than you can compare societal values then and now, courts then and now or anything else. Things have changed a great deal and our schools have changed with them. One of the things we can do is compare our school now with other schools now. And in the districts that are comparable I think we come out quite well.

Generally speaking I think we are doing a very good job in our elementary schools. And I have heard good things about some of the junior high programs, too. Out of 86 schools in the Macomb, Oakland and Wayne counties our fourth graders, measured by the state-wide reading progress tests, did well. There were only about 12 districts that scored higher than Northville. Over the last few years it has been rather unfashionable to say anything good about the Northville schools. I think we have to recognize the good as well as the bad.

6. Do you advocate any particular changes in school administration or program offerings?

Douglas Whitaker — The school administrative structure is under study right now. The board is waiting for a report and recommendations from administrators as to how it might be changed. And I think that each of us is watching in some particular areas where we think change might be advisable. As far as curriculum offerings are concerned, again, we all perhaps are looking at some areas more than others.

One of the board members made an interesting comment recently, which I think we have to keep in mind. What kind of school district do we want the Northville school district to be? What

The City's orphaned liquor license finally has found a home.

Northville City Council last week unanimously approved the transfer of the license from William Boyd to the owners of the Old Mill Restaurant for use at the restaurant.

The license has been held in escrow by the State Liquor Control Commission for nearly a year pending satisfactory search for a new user.

Originally used by Boyd in the now non-existent Ramsay's Bar, Boyd later sold it to the owners of the Drawbridge Restaurant. However, when the Drawbridge went bankrupt, Boyd regained ownership of the license.

Shortly thereafter he decided to reopen Ramsay's (on the west side of Center, north of Main), making plans to remodel the building.

Council, however, refused to grant a transfer of the license to the old establishment, contending that the downtown area had enough bars.

His plans thwarted, Boyd searched for another potential buyer and user, almost satisfactorily reaching a sale to a fast-food restaurant proposed on North Center. The deal fell through, however, and the license remained on ice.

Recently, however, Boyd sold the license (contingent upon the transfer) to Daniel Collins and Constantine Kitrakos, new owners of the Old Mill.

Council appeared to favor the use of the license in a restaurant setting, but building code violations found at the Old Mill and an incomplete police investigation delayed the transfer approval.

Last week, with a satisfactory police report in hand and satisfied that the code problems would be resolved with the planned renovation of the restaurant building, council voted unanimously to recommend to the state that the license transfer and use be approved.

Police Blotter

Monuments upended

Almost $14,000 worth of damage was done at Allen Monuments last week when several grave markers were tipped over by midnight pranksters, Northville city police reported.

A 38-year-old township man reported that his wife, 36, was missing May 31. She had taken the family gun, left a parting note to the family and took the car, he told Northville township police.

On May 24, nine markers were tipped over during the night at the shop at 580 South Main. The markers were chipped and cracked. Owner Jim Allen said $930 worth of damage was done.

An all-points bulletin issued by township police was cancelled after the woman called home from a Kentucky hotel room on June 1, saying she was safe and had only taken the gun for protection.

Less than one week later, 35 markers were tipped over between 8:30 p.m. on May 29 and 6 a.m. May 30. Again, the markers were damaged, Allen told police.

A man was arrested at Fairlane Towne Center in Dearborn for using credit cards belonging to Eugene Entz of Northville township.

The cards, along with a rifle, shotgun and fishing pole were stolen from Entz's home May 29, Northville township police reported.

A 62 year old woman attempted suicide last weekend by swallowing 30 valium and two shots of whiskey, but was saved by her husband and daughter, Northville city police reported.

Entz left his home that day at 10 a.m. but when he returned at 8 p.m. a window was open, a screen was out. His telephone cord had been cut as well. Value of the missing property was $160, Entz told police.

The woman was treated at St. Mary hospital, then released to Northville State Hospital for tests, police said.

Charged with fraud and using stolen credit cards was Anthony Shewcraft, 27, of Detroit. The charge is a misdemeanor.

At the high school level, courses are offered that are worth five credits for each completed class.

The classes will meet five days a week, Monday through Friday for the six weeks. Classes will be held at Silver Springs Elementary at 19801 Silver Springs Drive, located in the Highland Lakes subdivision.

Square stores must close doors

By DAN GUIDO

The leasing of Northville Square to Michigan United Gift Salesman has come as a surprise to several of the store owners still operating in the Square.

The store owners have been asked to vacate the mall by August 1 in order to enable the Square's owner, Tom Dailey, to remodel the mall for United Gift (see related story).

Tom Zuyus, owner of Trader Tom's Smoke Shop, one of the five surviving businesses in the Square, said he expected the mall to be rented, but did not know when.

"We have heard so many different things lately, that we don't know what to believe anymore. All I'm trying to do right now is locate another place to do business in within Northville," Zuyus said.

He said it was his intention to stay in Northville, because "the people here have been so nice to me."

"We have a business here now which is just beginning to show signs of becoming a good business and now this thing (the new lease) comes up," Zuyus said. "I've been looking all over for a place within the downtown business area, but nothing seems to be available."

Zuyus said he has looked at a smoke shop in Plymouth which is for sale but said he would only buy that as a last resort since he wants to stay in Northville.

"I'm really in trouble now since I went out and ordered a lot of stock for next Christmas, and now I don't know where I'll be doing business," Zuyus said.

"But the big thing is that I have really grown attached to Northville and would hate to leave," he said.

George Woodcock, owner of Woodcock Art Studio and Gallery, said he already had decided to move his business from the Square before he heard of the new lease arrangement.

"The people here seem to be in debt ... and not able to afford some of the finer things like art and antiques," Woodcock said. "So I have decided to head East and see what I can find in Massachusetts or New York."

Woodcock said the business climate in Northville seems to "be on the decline generally." He said he has discussed the climate with several other shop owners in Northville and all agree that business is on a downswing in the area.

"You see all these new homes being built in Northville, but I wonder if the people who are buying them can really afford them. What with the car and house payments, it seems they are unable to buy other things like art and jewelry."

"Or it could be that people in Northville just don't like to spend their money in town. Instead they prefer to go to Twelve Oaks or some other place and forget about the stores in town."

Woodcock, who also teaches art at his shop, said his students have told him they will miss him. He said he was unable to tell them where else to go for art lessons since "nobody around here paints the way I do."

Woodcock said he would remain open for business until the end of June. After that, he will travel to New York and Italy, before coming home to Northville and deciding where to re-open his shop.

Berry Hyman, owner of the Book Mart, decided "sometime ago" to close his store and not re-open in the Northville area.

"Northville has not been a very good area for us. We've been here for four and a half years now and it's clear that we can not continue to do business in this area," Hyman said.

Mim Gorman-Prohl, owner of the Et Cetera Shop, said she has decided to relocate her store in the West Bloomfield Plaza.

Mrs. Gorman-Prohl, cited a poor business relationship and a shabby downtown appearance as her main reasons for leaving Northville.

"There are some lovely people in Northville, and I'll miss them. But there are also a lot of diehards who would not accept me since I'm not a Northvillian."

"Northville looks like an old fashioned run-down town. The money is there to remodel but no one wants to do it because they (the business owners) can't get along. There is no community spirit among them."

"I feel you have to keep your stores up, and be pleasant to the other business owners. Love thy neighbor and that sort of thing. But the merchants in Northville don't seem to feel that way. Everyone is pulling against each other."

"I gave it five years, so I'm no quitter. But I've had enough. I'm just sorry it worked out this way. I hope my customers will understand."

The only business in the mall that will not be evicted is Elias Brothers Restaurant. Frank Music, director of operations for Elias Brothers, said the move by Dailey to lease the mall to United Gift "should do nothing but good for us."

"We expect our volume will increase with the influx of United Gift in the mall."

Getting new tenant

library story elsewhere).

MUGS was formed in 1964 by 13 representatives to establish a "satellite" merchandise mart in Detroit. Presently it occupies some 44,000 square feet of display space.

At Northville Square MUGS will have 68,000 square feet for its show rooms.

Gossard explained that the Northville merchandise mart will have at least one show per month with the exception of December.

"Our major shows are in January, March, July and August. These attract as many as 1,000 buyers from up to 400 different shops," Gossard stated.

The shows are held to display new merchandise to merchants some 30 to 90 days in advance of the selling season. Each of the shows can last up to four days.

Gossard noted that the merchandise mart would never be closed. He said several representatives, including himself, would have offices in the building. And on many occasions, perhaps daily, sales representatives will be bringing clients to the merchandise mart on an appointment basis for individual showings.

Both Dailey and Gossard expressed enthusiasm for the proposal.

Dailey, of course, is relieved at long last that the mall he owns can be converted into a profitable investment. Although not an original partner of the shopping center, Dailey became the owner and has struggled to convert it into an active retail center.

Northville Square opened its doors in the fall of 1973. In June, 1974, it conducted a grand opening with 25 stores — about two-thirds occupancy.

Like many other centers opened during this economic recessionary period, Northville Square never reached its full potential. With business slumping stores began to move out. About two years ago the entire Main street level of the Square was closed. Presently, only five businesses and the library are open in the lower level of the building.

Dailey's firm, R. E. Dailey Construction Company, will renovate the building for merchandise mart use. Gossard said MUGS plans to move into the building in November and conduct its first major show in January.

The MUGS' president said he was particularly pleased to bring the merchandise mart to Northville, not only because it is near his home, but because he believes the area provides an ideal setting for the operation.

"These satellite merchandise marts are relatively new. We're one of the first to undertake such a project. But they are becoming very popular with many retailers who prefer not to travel to Chicago, New York or Los Angeles. That's particularly true in view of the energy crunch," Gossard noted.

He pointed out that another similar merchandise mart recently moved from the city of Boston to New Bedford. Gossard believes the additional floor space in Northville Square plus convenient parking and smalltown setting will appeal to MUGS' customers.

"We're examining potential hotel and restaurant facilities for our clients," Gossard said. He expressed the belief that traffic generated by the merchandise mart could provide new business for area merchants.

The wholesale firm has annual sales of $70 million, Gossard stated.

The Gossards — Steve and Patricia and their daughter, Stacey — moved to Northville three years ago. They reside at 44915 Galway Drive.

Few turn out to hear Schoolcraft candidates

There was no air of excitement and very few people — about two dozen or so when the Leagues of Women Voters put on a Schoolcraft College candidates night May 30 in Livonia's Frost Junior High School.

Not even all the candidates' spouses showed up.

And it prompted someone to ask the six candidates: Since many community colleges face declining enrollments, what two recommendations would you make for Schoolcraft?

The four candidates for two six-year terms and the two candidates for a two-year term all had a crack at it. Here are the answers in order:

GERALD COX, incumbent board member from Garden City who teaches in Detroit:

"Work to publicize what we have. And I would put a sign on I-275 that identifies Schoolcraft College."

MICHAEL W. BURLEY, a Northville school administrator who lives in Canton Township: "Several things. 1) Offer as many programs in as many school districts as possible (to bring them closer to students). 2) Seek an alliance with one or more four-year universities where the universi-

Workmen lay the pipe across Center Street—one of the toughest jobs in installation of the Randolph drain

Tax will pay for drain

"Also, with the millage method, every citizen taxed will be able to declare the millage on his income tax and receive about 60 percent of the millage back. Senior citizens will be able to get 100 percent of the millage back," Walters said.

The city manager explained that the millage would cost $48.60 on a Northville home with an assessed value of $30,000. After declaring this on their income tax forms, most city residents will be able to get $29 of the drain tax back. Seniors would get the entire $48.60 back.

The millage has a life of 20 years, Walters said, but it will decrease in size with each passing year due to expected increases in the city's tax base.

"As the tax base increase with all the new homes being built in the area, the millage will decrease, he explained. "This is because the new houses will pick up a share of the taxes needed to pay off the project."

The repairs to the Randolph drain include replacing a section of pipe which is buried under Center with a larger pipe to help reduce the problem of water back-up in that area. The work on the pipe under Center has temporarily interrupted the flow of traffic, which must now detour around the construction area via Dunlap and Rayson.

Walters said the Center construction should be finished in a week to 10 days, depending on the weather.

"If we get a lot of rain, it could foul things up for awhile," he said. "Otherwise, they've been moving right along, and have yet to experience any major problems."

He said the Randolph drain project is the culmination of plans started in the early 1970's when an agreement was reached between Northville, Novi and the Wayne and Oakland County road commissions.

Voter approval was not needed for the millage, due to the fact that it was approved and accepted by city officials before the Headlee Tax Amendment came into existence, the manager said.

"I do believe that these types of bonds will be subject to voter approval in the future under Headlee. However, there is a state law concerning county drains which states that funding for such projects does not have to be voter approved, but I don't know how that stands up under Headlee."

He said the Center construction was the next to the last for the drain project, with the last work being done on Beck near Eight Mile.

"That should be relatively easy since the crews can just dig their trenches and lay the pipes without having to break through an asphalt road which has lots of utilities running underneath it like Center does," Walters said.

The city manager said the entire project cost about $1.6 million and should be completed this summer.

A call to Johnson-Anderson consulting engineers in Pontiac confirmed that the project is on schedule and should be finished on time.

Walters said the first billings for the drain project would start in December, and would be an itemized part of regular winter city billing. The millage will continue to be billed in December of each year until it has expired.

Walters said he expected to hear a lot of complaints about the millage in December when city residents, who have not kept up with the issue, discover the increase on their city bill.

He said Northville must fund 62 percent of the project, with Novi kicking in 32 percent and the difference shared by the Wayne and Oakland County road commission.

Library to move by July

cooperated with us many times. He is a reasonable owner, and we are glad to see the Square finally occupied."

Walters said the occupation of the mall by United Gift would help dispel the feeling that something is wrong with the downtown business community in Northville, and it should help to increase business investments in the area.

"The fact that there will be no more available space left downtown has to be beneficial to the city," Walter said.

Returning to the library situation, Walters said the move to the second floor of the new addition would limit the library to 2,600 square feet from its present 6,000.

"If we have to operate a check-out only library, then we will until we can move into the first floor of the new addition. Things will be somewhat cramped until we but I imagine we will get by. After all, we are only talking about five or six months."

If the Scout building is pressed into service as a temporary library, the majority of the books will have to be kept downstairs, as the first and second floors of the building would not be able to withstand the tonnage of books involved without collapsing.

If the new recreation headquarters is used, it would mean that the library would have to occupy the stage-cafeteria area of the building, which would not allow the recreation department to use those facilities as planned.

Walters said he is opting for the second floor for a temporary site for the library, but he is also keeping the recreation building in mind.

However, Walters implied the Scout building would only be used as a last alternative.

"If we move the library into the recreation building, it would give us 3,500 square feet of floor area, which would be a lot better than the Scout building's 2,000 square feet," Walters said, adding that he will be meeting with the city hall contractor this week to determine if the second floor can be finished in July and used for the library.

"When we first decided to move the library, we considered several alternatives, including the recreation building and the city hall addition. We also considered constructing a free standing building (not connected to city hall) in the driveway behind the city hall but the bids for that came in too high.

"So we decided to go ahead with the city hall addition, since we did not want to remodel the old board of ed building because we plan on using that as is, for the recreation department."

Walters said he did not expect the city hall addition to be the ultimate solution to the library's location, but he figures it would occupy the addition for at least five years.

"After that we might want to build a bigger, free standing library, or even add on to the city hall again," he said.

If a decision is made in the future to move the library again, Walters said the new addition could be used as city office space, or it could be rented to private businesses.

"This is not unusual to find that sort of relationship between local government and businesses in a city office building," Walters said. "That way, we would be able to take the area off of the taxpayers expense, and thus be able to rent it and tax it."

Walters said he would contact a professional moving firm to move the library to one of the three alternative sites, but would ask for volunteer help to move the library to its permanent quarters.

He also mentioned the city has shelved plans to construct an addition to the fire and police offices due to increased construction costs.

Walters said the temporary quarters may cut down library usage but that the move to the new city hall addition should offset the decreased library use.

"The key factor in library usage is the square footage of the library. Every time you increase the square footage, you're going to increase use," Walters said. The new addition, however, will be less than a 100 foot increase over the existing square footage in the mall, he noted.

Meanwhile, construction on the library is moving right along. The strike by Detroit area cement haulers has slowed things a bit, but should not delay the scheduled opening of January 1, the city manager said.

Bill Bishop, project coordinator of the city hall addition for the contractor, Feiler Construction Company, said he does not anticipate any further building delays.

"Everything is going along really well and as of right now we have no foreseeable setbacks ahead," Bishop said.

He said his crews already have torn out the sidewalk where the building will stand, and currently they are digging the foundation for the building. After that is finished, Bishop said he would move on to pouring slabs for the floor, constructing the exterior shell and roof before moving to the interior about September.

17.5-mile park system," said Kay Beard (D-Inkster), a Wayne County commissioner.

More than 1800 non-traffic-related arrests have already been made so far this year, said Lieutenant Thomas Harrett, head of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department's park patrol.

Problems came to a head two weeks ago when 400 members of the Rouge River Homeowner's Association jammed the Dearborn Heights city Hall demanding action.

They told of drunken brawls in the park, sex on their front yards, teens urinating in the river and on their lawns, stabbings, harassment of themselves and their children, loud music, roadways blocked by buses and cars, obscene language, vandalism and drug trafficking.

"It was a litany of horrors," Ms. Beard said.

The problems are not confined to Dearborn Heights, but extend all the way out to Plymouth, Harrett said. But only in Dearborn Heights do residences directly border the park.

"There used to be worse people in the park, like hard-core drug pushers," he said. "Now the number of the people in the park is the problem. If they were spread out along the park we could probably handle it."

"But it seems like they're all after a giant, continuing graduation party and parade," Harrett said.

The park is generally quiet and safe in the Northville area, township police reported. In fact, it may be even quieter than usual because Edward Hines Drive is closed between Seven Mile and Five Mile for road repairs, they said.

Hines Park in Northville has been relatively calm since about 1976 when police arrested 50 persons on "Beer Hill" in the park for drug violations.

As problems quieted down here, they grew in the southern half of the park, Harrett said.

Actions taken to disperse the multitudes may be as severe as closing the park or as mild as banning left turns.

Last week the Northville City Council endorsed a resolution by Dearborn Heights urging immediate action to resolve the park problem. J. Burton DeRusha appeared to echo the sentiments of most Northville council members when he observed that he is a non-liberal when it comes to rowdies who endanger the lives or disturb the peace of park users.

"I guess I'd put them all in jail," he said. The homeowners association wants to close the park entirely, but Ms. Beard said the park cannot be truly "closed."

"Even if vehicular traffic were banned, people would still walk to the park," she said.

To really close the park it would mean a need for more police officers than the county can afford to pay, she said. Besides tonight's meeting which starts at 7:30 p.m., another meeting was held in Dearborn Heights last night. A formal hearing will be held tomorrow morning at the City-County building in Detroit.

Solutions to come out of these meetings may include:

—Instituting a mounted park patrol. The Wayne County Sheriff's Department recommended this for police mobility in park crowd control. It is expensive, but the department already has 38 volunteers for duty and several offers of free horses and equipment, Harrett said.

—Closing certain entrances to the park, including the Woodbine entrance off Telegraph Road. The Dearborn Heights fire department has reservations about this plan since it would limit access to the park in an emergency.

—Asking for state police aid in patrolling the park.

—A ban on road-shoulder parking while increasing off-road parking to ease the traffic jams.

—Banning left turns so that people would be forced to drive straight through the park and could not block the road.

—Increasing physical arrests rather than just issuing appearance tickets.

—Limiting the number of people in the park by issuing park stickers.

—Banning the use of alcoholic beverages.

These ideas will be discussed at the meetings and certain or all of the changes may be implemented, Ms. Beard said.

GOOD TIME FOR WINE

by Jim Roth

When the word "mountain" is printed on a bottle of wine, it usually means that the wine came from grapes grown on hillside vineyards, rather than in the valleys. Hillside vines generally get better sun and have more drainage than do those from the valley and so may often be better than their cousins from low lands. But there is no assurance of that either. For the most part, "mountain" is simply a marketing term. We suggest that you rely on the advice of your wine expert for guidance. Although individual tastes are personal, broad categorizations are easy to make.

Long gas lines of '74 not likely to be repeated

By DAN GUIDO

Five years ago, during the Arab oil embargo, motorists had to line up for blocks to get gas in Northville. Today, with the nation experiencing another major gasoline crunch, Northville appears to be avoiding line-producing shortages.

In fact, most area service stations report they have yet to be affected by gasoline shortages which have plagued other parts of the nation.

While regular gas sells for $1.20 a gallon and more in California where people line up for blocks to buy it, there seems to be plenty of gas in the Northville area with prices hovering around 87.5 cents for regular.

Although they have been cut 10 to 20 percent under their gas allocation for last year, most station managers and owners in the area have said they have not experienced shortages as yet and don't expect to in the near future.

Most, like Bill Asher, owner of Asher 76 Service at 357 South Rogers, expect to be able to make it through the summer without running short of gas.

"We are only allowed to pump 80 percent as of right now, and that tends to make things a little tight, but if they (his supplier) hold us to 80 percent we should be able to make it through the summer," Asher said.

Asher said he has instituted a $10 limit on gas purchases, but stated he has not had to curtail his station hours.

"It's been close at times, but we got through this spring, and I figure we should make it through the summer without too much difficulty," Asher said.

Andy Sambrone, manager of Cal's

Gulf at 202 West Main, said he has been cut back to 70 percent of his gas allocation but figures he should be able to stay open the entire summer.

"We have had enough gas so far and I expect we'll be all right in June but we might be a little short in July," Sambrone said, explaining that Cal's did not sell much gas last July, and with the 30 percent reduction this year, his supply could be a little tight.

Don Walton, manager of Northville Shell on 575 Seven Mile, said he might have to close on Sundays and cut his week night hours in June in order to stay open the entire month.

"We have been cut 75 percent starting this month," Walton said. "We hope we'll be able to stay open all of June but it's going to be close."

Walton said his pump prices are about 27 cents higher this year than at the same time last year. He expects the prices to continue to escalate and predicted gas prices in Michigan could hit $1 a gallon in a "couple of months or so."

"My supplier's been raising the price to me every week or 10 days, Walton said. "And every time he raises my price I have to pass it on to my customers or else I'd have to take it out of my own pocket."

Chris Williams, an employee with Boron Oil at 19090 Northville Road, said his station has been cut 10 percent under last year's allocation. Williams ty would offer the last two years of a degree on the Schoolcraft campus. 3) Examine non-resident tuition to make it less punitive."

NANCIE BLATT, incumbent board member and assistant to the president of an oxygen service firm:

"I don't believe enrollments are declining. There was a slight decline at Schoolcraft last year. But we no longer base our enrollments on 18-22 year olds (recent high school graduates). Our average age is almost 30."

ROBERT FICANO, Livonia attorney and political activist: "I don't agree with Nancie. There is a serious problem on the horizon. Schoolcraft has lost enrollment. We need to make a critical analysis of our programs — now 71 percent vocational and 29 percent general — and achieve a balance."

"We need to do heavy recruiting in the high schools."

Cox, Burley, Mrs. Blatt and Ficano are all seeking full six-year terms.

RICHARD J. HAYWARD, incumbent board member (through appointment) from Livonia and executive vice-president of a structural steel firm:

"It's a phase we're going through."

THOMAS S. MOORE, Northville resident and in management at Ford Motor Co.:

"More effort on marketing. Selling more continuing education programs. More businesslike tuition and fee structure with a view to having higher charges in highly popular programs."

Hayward and Moore are seeking the two-year term.

June 20 has been designated "Alhambra Day" in Northville in a proclamation authorized by the Northville City council and signed by Mayor Paul Vernon.

Alhambra — specifically the Manresa Caravan 217, Order of Alhambra — is made up of Catholic men dedicated to the care of mentally retarded and handicapped persons.

The Manresa group will hold its second annual picnic on June 20 in the athletic area behind John Mach Ford. It will be assisted by the Northville city police and fire departments, township police, Michigan State troopers and the Wayne County Sheriff's Depart-kind of program will best serve the needs of the students? The point is that we can't have everything. We can't afford to have everything. We would be diminishing our resources and our efforts if we try to have a little bit of everything. We need to take a look at what we need most of all and then go about building that program.

David Llewellyn — No. At this point I don't think that I am well enough informed to make any blanket recommendations — especially since a recommendation at this time could be considered a campaign promise and as a member of the school board I will be a member of a team. Any suggestions brought forward now would certainly become meaningless.

Gerald Munro — Not really, except that, and I know that this is being looked at right now, the possibility of more involvement with community colleges. I think the high school could make good utilization of college teachers and class offerings at the high school level.

Here's how Schoolcraft board candidates see the key issues

Voters on June 11 will elect three trustees to the governing board of Schoolcraft College, a two-year community college in northwestern Wayne County.

On this page are the six candidates' answers to questions prepared by the League of Women Voters.

Four candidates are seeking two full six-year terms: Nancie Blatt, Michael W. Burley, Gerald L. Cox and Robert A. Ficano. Mrs. Blatt and Dr. Cox are incumbents.

Two candidates are seeking one two-year term: Richard J. Hayward and Thomas S. Moore. Hayward was appointed to fill a vacancy a year ago.

SCHOOLCRAFT COLLEGE was founded in 1964. It encompasses the kindergarten-12th grade school districts of Clarenceville, Garden City, Livonia, Northville, Plymouth-Canton and a portion of Novi.

With this election, the board will be reduced from eight members to seven. Chairman Paul Kadish is not seeking re-election, and his post will not be filled under terms of a new state law.

The board meets in public session an average of twice a month at 8 p.m. Wednesdays. Most meetings are held in the board room in the Administration Building on the campus at 18600 Haggerty, Garden City. Trustees are not paid.

Trustees employ a president as chief operating officer, approve a budget in the $11 million range and oversee a physical plant worth about $16 million.

Enrollment is about 8,300 students, two thirds in vocational technical programs and one third in so-called "transfer" programs to four-year colleges. In addition, Schoolcraft offers a number of community service courses.

THE LEAGUE OF Women Voters is a nonpartisan organization open to all. Its main purposes are to study, inform its members and the public, and take action on selected issues of local, state and national importance.

The League does not endorse candidates.

It prepared questions, sent them to the candidates and processed their responses as a voter service. Candidates were asked to limit their responses to 500 words. They were asked about their occupations, education and qualifying experience. Then they were asked these seven questions:

1. In which direction should Schoolcraft College go — de-emphasize off-campus classes or further develop centers in such places as Garden City and Plymouth?

2. Schoolcraft students take an average course load of seven or eight credit hours. Should the college try to encourage more full-time study by a graduated rate for tuitions?

3. Schoolcraft has about as many part-time instructors as full-time faculty. Would you prefer to see more full-time faculty hired?

4. If the June 11 millage proposal loses, would you prefer to see the college (a) scale down major maintenance and equipment purchases and have a few layoffs or (b) make major maintenance and equipment expenditures as planned and have a greater number of layoffs?

5. Was the board of trustees wise in putting the current one mill for one year proposals on the ballot, or should it have taken "no" for an answer on March 26?

6. The Faculty Forum last year proposed that one of its members be a "non-voting advisory member to the board of trustees." What is your reaction to the proposal?

7. As a trustee of Schoolcraft College, what special competence or skill will you bring to improve its decision-making process?

Answers are in the candidates' own words and have been edited only when they exceeded the word limit.

The Administration Building is the scene of nearly all Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees meetings.

Nancie Blatt

19482 Parker, Livonia B.A., M.A. in elementary education, University of Michigan. Administrative assistant to the president, Stewart Oxygen Service. 6½ years as a trustee at Schoolcraft. Board treasurer and secretary. Four years as director of Michigan Community College Association, last three as officer, president-elect of this organization. Delegate and participant at various state and national trustee workshops and seminars.

1. Continue with present center and using school district facilities when necessary. Maybe someday looking at a center in the Plymouth-Canton area. Idea is to offer classes where citizens want them.

2. Doubtful that this would change pattern of students taking less than full load, but it is an idea we should investigate because part-time students cost more, and funding from the state does not recognize this.

3. Yes, when possible. But full-time faculty is much more expensive and at the present we can't afford it. Some specialists will only teach part-time.

4. We will possibly have to do both. Some major maintenance and equipment replacements must be done, all that we plan from the millage cannot be taken from the budget. Some personnel may have to be laid off. Buildings and equipment are getting older and obsolete and must be repaired and replaced.

5. I feel we had nothing to lose by putting it on the ballot. An election was being held anyway. The funds are badly needed. The scaled-down version, both in amount and time, is different from what we asked for in March.

NANCIE BLATT

6. I do not feel that at this time it is necessary. No vote would be allowed. There is complete access to the board. Open Meetings Law requires all meetings to be public and all staff have the opportunity to address the board at all meetings.

7. The experience that I have gained as a trustee for 6½ years. Add to that the additional skill that I have gained by being part of and participating in the state and national trustees organizations. The offices that I hold now or have held are proof of my leadership capabilities.

My education and interest in the field of education are also a help. I have a deep personal commitment to the availability of quality education at all levels. I hope that this allows me to make a contribution to the college. I feel that I have done so in the past and will continue to do so in the future.

Michael W. Burley

45168 Patrick, Canton B.S. in industrial management, Lawrence Institute of Technology, master's of arts and specialist in arts in educational administration, Eastern Michigan University, Ph.D. candidate in administration-supervision, University of Michigan. Curriculum coordinator for Northville public schools. Teaching experience at Washtenaw Community College and EMU. Administrative experience in budget projections and board of education role and process.

1. Maintain a strong program on campus while utilizing available facilities in Clarenceville, Garden City, Northville and Plymouth-Canton school districts.

2. If this means that the basic charge per course hour would start at the present rate and would decrease as the student increased his or her course load, this would benefit both the college and the students, thus should be researched and evaluated.

3. More full-time faculty should be hired where need exists and budget allows.

4. Maintain student services while seeking other sources of funding through state and federal grant assistance.

5. The board of trustees had no choice but to place the millage issue back on the ballot, for without the revenue which would be generated for the culinary arts addition, Schoolcraft College will lose $750,000 which has been appropriated from state sources.

MICHAEL BURLEY

The building repair and equipment millage is needed just to maintain present programs and facilities.

6. Any measures that improve communications within the college between the students, teachers, administrators and trustees is an acceptable idea and a move in a positive direction.

7. My years of experience as a director of state and federal programs have provided me the opportunity to develop my skills related to research, analysis and evaluation of statistical data. In addition, I have developed a knowledge and understanding of educational methods and techniques which are currently being utilized, plus the budgeting process in effect in the State of Michigan.

Gerald L. Cox

32761 Maplewood, Garden City. Contract teacher, Detroit public schools. B.A. in business administration, MSU, M.Ed. in business education, WSU, Ph.D. in education, University of Michigan, also Columbia University, University of Tennessee and WSU College of Lifelong Learning.

As a business educator and student of urban education, I have learned much about contemporary American life in the Detroit area since leaving Southern Pacific Lines in Pittsburgh in 1953. Living at the corner of Maplewood and Venoy for 22 years helping my children grow with their coping abilities, their social consciousness and strength of character has been for me a fine exercise in my citizenship, sharpening up answers to the question, "What is the good life?"

Working with the Detroit public schools, I have experienced changes of leadership patterns and the decay of school board leadership when citizens become disinterested in public education and the institutions contributing to self-government are eroded by minor dictators unaccustomed to power.

I'm a union activist in Detroit and school board member in the suburbs. What better preparation for understanding institutional forces and power structures in American society?

1. Schoolcraft's Garden City Center is clearly a plus for those of us living in the southern portion of the district. A comparable program, including construction, should be designed for Canton Center and its growing families.

2. This idea should be developed by administration, the board of trustees, faculty and student assembly as a means of recruiting more students at the college. Concern for a higher number of participants in Schoolcraft programs is one of my priorities.

GERALD COX

3. My preference is an increase in full-time faculty.

4. Personnel considerations outweigh physical plant needs and yet, if the roof leaks, the floor will rot, and the building will fall down.

5. Board members must take responsibility for adequate funding if assets are to be protected and modest growth assured. The college is like a home, plant or garden in that repairs and fertilizer are necessary at times. Apathy is the college's worst enemy. Voting is a citizenship responsibility. I ask for a yes vote on maintenance and the culinary arts addition June 11.

6. No. Faculty, like other citizens, can work through the Schoolcraft College Foundation and attend open board meetings.

6. Conflict resolution, theoretically and in "for real" situations is intellectually stimulating for me and a great context for understanding how family feuds and suppressed and oppressed personalities become Hitler's Humor, too, has its place in improving Schoolcraft College and contributing to morale.

Robert A. Ficano

35883 Pinetree, Livonia Attorney with Wilson, Deremo & Raymond, P.C. B.A. cum laude, Michigan State University, J.D. University of Detroit Law School.

Served on the following boards: Chairman of Community Education Advisory Council, Task Force on Declining Enrollment, School Board Advisory Council.

1. The consumers of education, students, are the same as consumers of any product. They would rather have a business close and convenient. Schoolcraft should certainly explore building use in all of its school district communities. Some districts are suffering declining enrollment and would be ideal to supply buildings.

2. The average age of the Schoolcraft College student is approximately 30. A person who decides to go to Schoolcraft does so for one of three reasons: to obtain an associate's degree, to obtain vocational skills, to participate in a lifelong learning experience.

Since many students at Schoolcraft are older and working at the same time, there would really be no advantage to a graduated rate for tuition.

3. Part-time instructors fill a critical need, but full-time instructors are a commitment by the college to its students. A full-time instructor has time to assist students in class work, curriculum selection and counseling. Therefore, the college should be encouraged to have more full-time instructors.

4. The main purpose of any college is to serve its students and its community. The best way to accomplish this goal is through human resources. . . . Therefore, I'd rather scale down major maintenance and equipment purchases and have fewer layoffs.

5. In regard to the half-mill for the Culinary Arts addition. . . . Without any additional millage, the college has $500,000 committed. . . . The State of

ROBERT FICANO

Michigan is willing to supply matching funds for the project.

Last March 26, the voters told the college that culinary arts should not be the top priority. The college should have trimmed down its plans to fit the immediate budget of $1 million. The board should not have put up the half-mill for the culinary arts program.

In regard to the half-mill for maintenance, the board was wise in pursuing it again on June 11. The college has been in existence since 1961. It is only logical that major maintenance is needed at this time.

6. The board of trustees has a duty to receive input from as many sources as possible. An advisory member of the faculty is a good method for the board to receive additional input.

7. The special skill I would bring to the board of trustees is that of an attorney. Except for myself, there is no attorney on the board or running as a candidate. My legal skills would allow me to examine questions in a precise and logical manner. On complicated problems, I would have the capacity to raise the board's consciousness to recognize the potential legal issues.

Richard J. Hayward

Able Toastmaster in Toastmaster's International; senior high coordinator of religious education program at St. Aidan's Parish, alumni representative of long-range planning committee at Madonna College.

1. The direction to be chosen should be dictated by the needs of the community and the funds available to implement the programs.

2. The graduated tuition rate should be used to defray the added costs of maintaining the institution for so many part-time students. If the graduated rate encouraged more people to study full time, it would be an added bonus for the college.

3. The decision as to more part-time or full-time faculty will have to depend on enrollment trends. More full-time faculty would probably be desirable in certain disciplines.

4. If the millage loses, the steps to be taken would have to be decided at that time with an open mind to the best interests of the college and the students.

5. It was the board of trustees' responsibility to make the people who they represent aware of what is required for the college and request that they support it.

6. All of the board meetings are open, and the Faculty Forum can make their wishes known to the board of trustees.

I do not believe there should be any advisory seats on the board of trustees.

7. I would bring 25 years of varied business experience, education, and the experience gained by having already served on the board of trustees for one year, after being appointed to fill a vacancy.

Thomas S. Moore

42035 Sutters Lane, Northville. Engineering Supervisor, Light Truck Product Engineering office of Ford Motor Co., Dearborn. Associate of arts pre-engineering, Paris Junior College, B.S. and M.S. in Mechanical Engineering, Texas Tech University, M.B.A., Michigan State University. Instructor at Schoolcraft College evening program, 1967-1970.

1. I believe continued expansion of additional off-campus centers, in portions of the district substantially distant from the main campus, is an excellent policy. This expansion is needed to provide more convenient services to the community, particularly in the continuing education field.

2. I do not feel that graduated rates would be effective in increasing overall enrollment. Although some part-time students might be motivated to take a larger course load, I think many others will be discouraged from attending at all, since they lack time to take a greater course load. I do, however, feel tuition and/or fees should be adjusted by individual programs on the basis of demand and course costs.

3. Yes, to a limited extent. I think enough part-time instructors should be retained to avoid full-time instructor layoffs in the face of declining enrollments. I also feel that part-time instructors bring an added dimension of job-related experience into the classroom which is beneficial. However, when equally qualified people are available, a full-time instructor is preferable.

4. If the millage proposal loses, which I strongly feel would be a serious loss to the community and to the future of Schoolcraft College, I would favor a compromise which scales down the major maintenance and equipment purchases and results in fewer layoffs.

5. I think the board of trustees' action in resubmitting the millage proposal was appropriate and necessary. I think the modest increase is a reasonable request in light of no previous millage increases, and the urgent need for funds to maintain the college facilities and expand in the high-demand culinary arts program.

6. With the "non-voting status," I believe the proposal to have a Faculty Forum advisor to the board is an excellent idea which should provide improved communications and added knowledge.

7. My training in the MSU M.B.A. program was principally from a management viewpoint. This training, coupled with managerial experience at Ford Motor Co., will provide improved decision making skills for the board of trustees. I feel improvements can be made in the areas of employee relations, marketing of the college and its benefits to the community, and programs to encourage increased enrollment.

In addition, my experience as a community college student and as a community college part-time instructor will provide increased insight into problems dealing with student and faculty issues and result in improved decision making by the board.

The regular Biennial election of Schoolcraft Community College will be held in conjunction with the Northville school election Monday. On the Schoolcraft ballot, voters will select two members for the office of trustee for terms of six years and one member for a two-year term. Among the candidates for the two six-year terms is Northville schools Curriculum Coordinator Michael Burley. A resident of Canton, Burley has been an educator since 1965. He has taught in Garden City and Livonia. Burley earned his BS degree in industrial management from Lawrence Tech, a masters and specialist of arts from Eastern Michigan University and is presently working on a doctorate of philosophy at the University of Michigan. Northville resident Moore, of 42035 Sutters Lane, is challenging incumbent Hayward of Livonia from the two-year term.

Public Notice Summary Available of FY1979-80 Budget

All Interested persons are hereby notified that a summary of Fiscal year 1979-80 budget of the Township of Northville including the intended uses of federal revenue sharing funds is available for public inspection.

The budget summary and documentation necessary to support the summary are available at Township of Northville, 41600 Six Mile Rd., from 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on Monday thru Friday

Clarice Sass, Clerk

Publish: June 6, June 20, 1979

The 12th Annual Highland Festival and Games at Alma College May 25-27 drew the attendance of this area's contingent of Scottish dancers. This gathering is considered one of the largest such events held outside Scotland.

The William Weaver School of Scottish Dance in Northville sent 10 students to compete. They are Jeri Brundage of New Hudson, Elizabeth and Leslie Grover, Beth and Mary Ross, all of Northville, Heather Neil of Novi, Chris Townsend of Plymouth, Kathy and Julie Berry of Livonia and Victoria Brennan of Ann Arbor.

The group won seven individual dance medals.

Jeri's string of victories was broken when she lost the Best of Class Trophy by a 23-19 score. She took two first place medals and one third place medal in four Highland dances.

The winner of the Best of Class Trophy was Theresa Graham of Owen Sound, Ontario, who took one first place medal and three second place medals in the dances.

The Highland dancing competitions attract the largest number of contestants in the two-day event. The dancers are required to perform four traditional Scottish Highland dances which are always done dressed in Scottish kilts.

The first of these dances, the Highland Fling, was inspired by the prancing of a young deer. It was originally performed as a victory dance by ancient Scottish soldiers on their shields.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO ISSUE INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT REVENUE BONDS BY THE CITY OF NOVI, MICHIGAN AND THE RIGHT OF REFERENDUM

TO ALL ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF NOVI, MICHIGAN:

TAKE NOTICE that the City Council of the City of Novi intends to issue Industrial Development Revenue Bonds of the City in a principal amount not exceeding One Million Dollars ($1,000,000) maturing up to forty years from issuance and bearing interest at not more than 10% per annum, or such other rate as may be permitted by law, for the purpose of financing the cost of acquiring and constructing an industrial building, and acquiring the necessary site therefor together with the acquisition of industrial machinery and equipment to be located therein (the "Project"), as defined in Act No. 62, Public Acts of Michigan, 1963, as amended, and costs incidental to the issuance of said bonds. The Project will be leased to a Michigan co-partnership formed or to be formed by Albert Weiss, Daniel S. Weiss, Robert Weiss and Leonard Soltar (hereinafter such co-partnership is referred to as the "Company"). Upon payment of said bonds (or provision therefor being made), the Company shall have the right to purchase the Project for a nominal consideration.

SOURCE OF PAYMENT

Said bonds will be issued in accordance with the provisions of Act No. 62, Public Acts of Michigan, 1963, as amended. Said bonds and the principal and interest thereon will not be a general obligation of the City of Novi, and will in no event be payable from any tax revenues of other general funds of the City of Novi, but will be payable solely and only from payments to be received from the Company and other revenues, if any, derived from the Project.

RIGHT OF REFERENDUM

This notice is given to and for the benefit of the electors of the City of Novi, in order to inform them that said bonds will be issued without submitting the question of their issuance to the electors of the City, unless within 45 days from the publication of this notice, a petition signed by not less than 5% of the registered electors of the City requesting a referendum upon the question of the issuance of said bonds, is filed with the City Clerk of the City, in which event the bonds will not be issued unless and until approved by a majority of the electors of the City voting thereon at a general or special election.

THIS NOTICE is given by order of the City Council of the City of Novi, Michigan, pursuant to the requirements of Section 12 of Act No. 62, Public Acts of Michigan, 1963, as amended. Further information with respect to the Project, the revenue bonds to be issued and the right of referendum may be obtained from the undersigned.

Rides cost 50 cents to $1.10, depending on how far you travel.

Blistering walk

Except for 650 cases of sunburn and 1,300 sore feet, last Saturday's annual Walk for Mankind in Northville was without incident, Jaycee President Ron Barnum reports. Typical of those who put up with sore feet and sunburn to raise money for needy families are Steve McLaughlin (above) and John LaPrise (below). While the number of walkers, mostly students, was down from the 800 of last year and the 1,100 of three years ago, most of those who started the 2 1/2 mile walk from Northville Downs finished it, Barnum adds. The walk actually was measured this year at 33 kilometers under instructions from sponsoring Project Concern. The first walkers completed the route shortly after noon: They were the "trotters" — the "strollers" finished about 5:30 p.m.

For school board

Whitaker, Llewellyn are our top choices

Two years ago we were impressed by Douglas Whitaker's credentials as he sought a position on the Northville Board of Education. Today as he seeks re-election we remain impressed, and we are pleased that during his first two years in office Whitaker's performance has fully justified the trust placed in him by voters.

Because he has proved to be a productive, effective board member, Whitaker is our top choice in the slim field of three candidates seeking two board seats. We strongly recommend his re-election.

Of the other two candidates seeking office — David Llewellyn and Gerald Munro, obviously both are intelligent, capable individuals.

However, based on his clearer, more direct comments and responses to questions at the recent PTSSO candidates night and during taped interviews by The Record, and because of his demonstrated, active involvement in the community through the Jaycees, Llewellyn becomes our second choice in this election.

Elect Douglas Whitaker and David Llewellyn.

'Yes' on college proposals

For the fifth time since 1966, Schoolcraft College will attempt to win approval for a tax increase at the polls on Monday. We hope it is successful this time.

Last March, despite pleas from many quarters, voters turned down a one mill increase for five years.

The total turnout for that election was the smallest in the 18-year history of the college. Even more voters cast ballots in forming the college in 1961 than voted three months ago.

Since that March millage defeat, the financial problems at Schoolcraft College have grown even sharper. The college programs simply cannot be maintained without additional capital.

Almost in desperation, therefore, the college board of trustees slashed the lifetime of the millage proposal from five to one year and it specifically earmarked the manner in which the requested tax increase may be used.

Thus, two millage proposals will appear on the ballots, each for a half mill for the 1979 tax year only.

One proposal for a half mill will produce monies which, combined with funds from the state, will permit expansion of the Waterman Campus Center. More specifically, it will permit the doubling of the college's nationally acclaimed culinary arts program, and it will provide facilities for other programs as well.

The second proposal for a half-mill will raise money for major maintenance and equipment purchases. Replacement and/or repairs of roofs, boilers and lighting systems in buildings used since 1964 will be possible. In addition, instructional equipment for classrooms, shops and laboratories may be purchased.

In our opinion both millage proposals are deserving of voter approval. We urge a "Yes" vote on each.

Certainly the agreement to lease Northville Square for 10 years for use as a merchandise mart is a good news, especially to Square owner, Tom Dailey.

It is not the perfect ending to a long story involving the efforts of a community to help itself. But very little is perfect in this world. Nonetheless, the conversion of the shopping center into the trade center for the Michigan United Gift Salesmen (MUGS) marks a big plus for the community.

Ironically, the president of the non-profit MUGS organization is a Northville resident, Steve Gossard. His Detroit-based group has been seeking a new location to gain more floor space for many months. Gossard explains that he just happened to see the "for lease" sign in the Square window one day on his way to the post office.

It is a unique operation. It started out a decade ago as the idea of a handful of independent sales representatives for giftware and home accessories to establish their own showrooms, or merchandise mart, to display wares to their retail customers scattered throughout Michigan and northern Ohio and Indiana.

The handful of charter members has grown to 100 and the annual business volume is $70 million.

This satellite merchandise mart provides displays of perhaps 10,000 lines to merchants much closer to their home base. It will attract hundreds of business people to Northville monthly with peaks at four big shows per year.

Most of these visitors will be staying overnight. They will be eating at area restaurants, attending shows, the races and visiting our shops.

What's more, Northville Square will once again become a solid part of the city's tax-base.

It is unfortunate that the modern mall did not become the center for retail shoppers as envisioned when members of the community economic development committee acquired the site piece-by-piece and assembled the package for downtown improvement.

Speaking for Myself

WILLIAM MILLIKEN

Is throwaway ban working?

EDWARD DEEB

Yes

I appreciate this opportunity to comment on Michigan's recently implemented ban on throwaway beverage containers.

Michigan's new deposit law is working and Michigan is proud of its new law.

There have been reports around the state and the country that Michigan was experiencing widespread problems with the law but frankly those reports are not accurate.

The record shows that the doom sayers who had said that outlawing will not clean up litter and would not contribute to a better state have been dead wrong.

Our law has had a tremendous impact already reducing litter. Driving along our highways or stopping along street corners it is clear that we are already experiencing a reduction in roadside litter and my contact with citizens around the state reinforces that impression.

No

Michigan's bottle and can bill is not working because it takes a public nuisance (litter) and converts it to a serious hardship on a smaller segment of our society (retailers).

Documented studies now show that it will cost our food and beverage industry nearly a third of a billion dollars annually (or more than $1 per case) just to handle empty cans and bottles.

For what? To improve only 18 percent of the little problems, which comprises only five percent of our total solid waste! This is ridiculous.

Since newspapers account for 40 percent of our solid waste, it appears the environmentalists missed the target. They should have voted a deposit on newspapers instead.

The bill has succeeded in removing vermin-attracting beverage containers from the woods and parks and concentrated them in food stores, creating an unsightly health hazard and a very unsanitary situation.

One northern Michigan couple recently wrote me to say "the whole northern part of the state is clean. It's great."

Another man from southern Michigan said that in years past he has picked up from one to two bushel baskets of cans and bottles thrown on his lawn by passers-by each spring. This year he found two cans.

People young and old are participating in the effort to keep Michigan clean by picking up the few bottles or cans that do get carelessly littered. They are proving it is not necessary to build ever larger landfills at taxpayers' expense to dispose of valuable resources which can be recycled.

In short it is clear to me that the people of Michigan were right when they voted by a 2-1 margin in 1976 to impose a ban on throwaway containers in our state. Our law will lead to a cleaner and better Michigan.

Governor William G. Milliken

The Michigan law has caused Michigan retailers to see beverage sales drop by up to 50 percent and even more on the bordering states of Ohio, Indiana and Wisconsin, where beverages can be purchased for an average of $2.50 less than in Michigan.

This same law has caused the reduction of beer sales and consumption to where it is now even costing our state government a half million dollars per month in lost beer excise taxes, not considered before.

Our view is we should scrap the Michigan beverage law and start all over. For starters we should emulate the best litter and beverage law around, that used in the State of Washington. Then we can solve the litter problem in Michigan at a cost of only five cents on the dollar!

JACK W. HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

Sure enough there he was, striding down the sidewalk while two youngsters, also on skates, trailed after him.

John Steimel, the guy who white-knuckled our drive through the mountains last winter, has climbed into a pair of roller skates to risk his neck on flat terrain.

Not ordinary clamp-on skates, mind you; but an $80 pair of black hightops with big yellow wheels.

Wearing a grin a mile wide, the postmaster dragged me off to the sporting goods shop to look at skates last week. When he tried on a pair and said, "I'll take them," I couldn't believe my ears.

"John, you're really not buying those for yourself," I said. "Who are they for?"

"Me!" he insisted.

His wife Lorraine, who has learned to take her husband's eccentricities into stride, confirmed his story. "Yes, he told me he was going to buy them. It's no surprise. He says he's going to roller skate to work."

John, it turns out, cut a fancy glide while growing up on the sidewalks of Manhattan. "After a few days of practice it'll all come back to me ... just you wait," he explained. "Then I'll start skating to the post office. Honest. Look at the money and gas I'll save and all the exercise I'll get."

"You're kidding," I said. "A grown man's going to roller skate to work?"

"Sure, everybody's doing it. Don't you know anything? Street skating's a craze in California and it's sweeping eastward and northward fast. Over in Plymouth the merchants are already skating regularly in College-school elections, gas crunch trigger comments

To the Editor:

I have traditionally opposed local school millage increases because they represent a greater cost to do the same job. My children gain nothing from the increased cost of their education, but they lose because we have less after tax money for the necessities of life.

Next Monday, June 11th, we will be asked to vote for a one year millage for Schoolcraft College, and I am strongly in favor of the passage of these millage requests. Schoolcraft College operates on a very small millage and does much for the entire community. This college offers educational opportunities to everyone, from the high school graduate who cannot afford a big name university, or perhaps does not want to spend four more years in school when in fact all he needs is specific vocational training, to the adult who wants to add to his or her knowledge of a few specific subjects of interest. The students attending Schoolcraft College are people who want to learn and are learning while living at home and many times working at full time jobs.

The real key to the value of Schoolcraft College is that students attend because they want to learn, and it is this learning that makes them better and more productive citizens who can contribute more to the improvement of our community.

The millage request next Monday is for one mill for one year only. It will provide for specific maintenance and facility needs, not for continuing operation. We need Schoolcraft College — let's give it our support and vote yes for both proposals next Monday, June 11th.

Donald C. Young, Jr.

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Northville High School P.T.S.O., I would like to thank all three candidates for the Northville School Board for appearing at our "Candidates Night" meeting last Wednesday evening. While the turnout of interested citizens was disappointingly small, it's to be hoped that The Record's coverage of this forum and of the upcoming school election will be helpful to voters in making up their minds.

I must confess my personal disappointment in the position taken by all three candidates in opposing the concept of "open negotiations" between the board of education and school employee unions. It seemed to me that all three men took the rather narrow view that because open bargaining was not deemed appropriate or workable in management-labor negotiations at the corporate level, it couldn't work in a school district such as ours.

My suggestion is that the candidates read and consider the viewpoints contained in "The Community at the Bargaining Table," a report written by a study team of the Institute for Responsible Education and published in January, 1975 by the Education Resources Information Center of HEW's National Institute of Education.

For me, the report contained one particularly significant paragraph which read as follows:

"The traditional management-labor approach was designed to resolve differences about wages, fringe benefits, and the rules, rights, and responsibilities of employers and employees. Automobiles and barrels of oil have no rights. Children, parents, and taxpayers do. The 'products' in schools are our children, each with rights of his or her own. The questions which need to be asked are, 'How can the interests of children be represented in the bargaining session?' and 'How can the diverse interests of the community best be represented?'"

From personal experience, I know it's all too easy for board of education members to become immersed in the very real money problems and the details of day-to-day procedure that are common in every school district today. But I would still hope that each and every school board member would consider his or her most important charge to be not only the preservation of the rights of children, parents and taxpayers, but also the improvement — despite all obstacles — of the education to which our children are entitled.

Sincerely,
Jim Lewis

To the Editor:

Schoolcraft College has two, one year, one-half mill proposals on the June 11th ballot that are reasonable in cost, and practical in nature. Both issues will return a specific tangible benefit to residents of the Schoolcraft College District. Both issues deserve the support of the voters of the district. Proposal one will provide the remaining funds needed to be put with approximately 1.25 million that has been raised already to construct a vocational technical building. The facility is needed to expand the college's culinary arts and food services instruction. This program serves a rapidly growing industry with many job opportunities.

Proposal two is needed to maintain the college's buildings, grounds, parking lots, streets, and mechanical equipment, and to replace equipment that is out-of-date or worn out. This kind of need won't go away if not met, it will just become more expensive.

These proposals are for one year only. Please give them your most careful consideration.

Sincerely,
Douglas A. Whitaker
President,
Northville Board of Education

To the Editor:

1. Why are we told by the oil companies to expect a shortage of gasoline because they will be producing fuel oil so that we will have enough for our winter heating needs?

The process used in refining each barrel of crude oil yields (propane gas, which is not presently kept but burned immediately), gasoline, kerosene, fuel oil, gas oil, medicinal oils, lubricating oil, wax, coke, asphalt and other compounds used in plastics.

2. How does our President justify additional taxes on gasoline as a means to energy savings? The only thing this really does is to inflate the cost of gasoline and put another burden on the working citizen. The tax will not shorten the distance from a person's home to his place of employment.

3. What has happened to the words "Thank you?" Places of business back a few years ago gave you service and a "thank you" for your business. But in the last couple of years we have been faced with more and more of self service and the only thing the business establishments do now is take your money with no "thank you."

4. Why are our representatives in Washington now thinking of legislating a raise in the allowable profit of the service station and gas producers?

The profits of the producer are at an all time high. The so called service stations have become serve yourself but they have no air pumps or water available and many times no oil. Besides this they have no public restrooms. I wonder if these people representing the public really know what the average citizen is faced with these days.

Aid appreciated

To the Editor:

The Northville Mustang Booster Club would like to thank all the parents and friends who sent baked goods for the sale at the concession stand of the Northville high school boys and girls track meets last Wednesday and Thursday. Their support and time is greatly appreciated. We could not have done it without them!

Supervisor, candidate talk here

Don Thomson, Northville township supervisor and Michael W. Burley, curriculum coordinator for Northville Public Schools, recently spoke to senior citizens at a pot luck dinner at the First Presbyterian Church 200 Main Street.

Thompson and Burley, a candidate for the Schoolcraft College Board of Governors, informed seniors that information on the new SEMTA bus service will be available through both of their offices.

Identification card applications are now available at Burley's office.

County reorganization essential

By JACK KIRKSEY
State Representative

Well behind the normal schedule, the House Appropriations Committee has approved and sent to the full house a bill recommending that the legislature appropriate $349.5 million for the operation of six state departments, the legislature, the judiciary, and the governor's office during the 1980 fiscal year.

This recommendation is about $10 million less than the level of spending which the governor recommended when he submitted his proposed budget earlier this year.

Understandably, this budget contains many, many individual items which would be impossible for me to discuss in detail with you.

Two items, about which I think you should know, however, go to the heart of how this state government of ours operates.

The first is a recommendation that the state spend $8.2 million to fully fund the operation of the Wayne County Circuit Court System. This appropriation was originally intended to be the first of a series of State-financed courts which would eventually lead to the State paying the full costs for all court operations.

A number of Republican state representatives took exception to the appropriation. The basis of their concern was that the guidelines for the use of the $8.2 million were not fully developed, that the granting of the money was premature, and the feeling that the reorganization plan should be further developed and approved before the granting of the funds.

There is also the feeling that if the state is going to pay for the reorganization of the Wayne County court system, some consideration should be given to giving that appropriation to an agreement with Wayne County officials to reorganize their governmental structure.

I agree with the governor that the county should go to a county executive form of leadership. This type of reorganization would provide a stronger leadership mode of operation, thereby ensuring more direct decision-making power and better control over the county budget.

Presently, the state government and county governments share the costs of operating the circuit courts. For example, the state sets a minimum level for circuit court judges' salaries, and individual counties may choose to supplement those salaries within limits.

While the situation in Wayne County's government is complex, including the court system, there is general agreement that reform of the method by which the Wayne County court system operates is needed.

There are, in effect, two court systems in Wayne County. One system operates exclusively for the City of Detroit, and the other operates for the remaining portion of Wayne County.

The issue we face in the Legislature is whether the state government should fully fund the operations of the Wayne County Circuit Court before the two systems are combined into one system.

I believe that before the state assumes 100 percent of the burden for the operation of the Wayne County courts, the county should guarantee it will follow the governor's recommendation and change to a county executive form of government. Only then can Wayne County get a hold on its budget and make responsible decisions.

Secondly, I am also concerned that the state not treat Wayne County any differently than other counties in our state. The legislature needs to be assured that the estimated $200 million necessary to fund the operation of all circuit courts in Michigan will be available in the near future.

I am, therefore, pleased that the governor and the members of the appropriations panel agree that money should not be awarded for the operation of Wayne County Circuit Courts until and unless the reforms are accomplished.

Another troubling item in the general government appropriations bill approved by the house committee is found in the proposed 1979-80 budget for the secretary of state's office.

The Appropriations Committee proposes spending $1.1 million for the hiring of approximately 73 individuals to help the state transfer to a birthdate system for the re-issuing of license plates.

Last year the legislature approved a plan that would change the present date for issuing annual license plates or tabs from March 31 each year to the vehicle owner's birthdate. As you probably know, each year there are long lines of individuals needing licenses at the secretary of state's branch offices as the March 31 deadline approaches.

Under the new system the license plates of each automobile, truck and motor-bike owner will expire on his or her birthdate. This should reduce the jamming of the branch offices near the deadline and, the legislature was told, reduce costs.

What is troubling is that the general appropriations bill calls for the hiring of 73 individuals to accomplish the transfer to the new system.

The 1979-80 costs of $1,159,000 to pay for these individuals is not as troubling as the past history of "one-year-only" hiring. Too often, in the past civil servants, supposedly hired for a single year, find ways to perpetuate themselves in office. This program can be easily facilitated by existing employees, and I plan to introduce an amendment to the present public act that requires the secretary of state to make the change without additional employees.

Speaking for The Record

But Steve Gossard is excited about MUGS' new home and he's convinced me that the merchandise mart — while it is not open to the public — will become a genuine asset and valuable addition to the business community of Northville.

Finally, I'm happy for Tom Dailey. Although a non-resident of Northville, as owner of Northville Square he has made innumerable attempts to develop it as a retail center. Financially, it has been a burden to Dailey.

While a merchandise mart may not bring as many shoppers to town, it does attract attention and bring business to Northville. And the facility will be maintained as an attractive structure.

If not perfect, it is at least a happy ending.

(The big yellow wheels on his skates are indeed specially made for concrete and asphalt and, in truth, I've since learned that street skating has become an "in-sport" elsewhere and that storeowners are skating regularly in Plymouth.)

But why would a postmaster nearing retirement age, who is afraid of cars and bicycles and most other forms of transportation and who religiously shuns physical labor and most sports requiring more than bending elbows, suddenly develop a craze for skates?

Second childhood? I doubt it.

The way I figure it, John's either become a moonlighting sales rep or he is part of a secret U.S. Postal Service experiment to speed mail delivery.

Long gas lines unlikely said the station has not had to close early on week nights and has been open on Sundays, although he expects things to tighten up some next month.

Duane Luton, manager of Duane's Texaco Service Center, 43601 Grand River in Novi, said he has been cut 20 percent, but expects that he will be able to continue on normal hours all summer.

"I don't see any real problems in the near future," Luton said. "I've had more than enough gas, mostly because Texaco was charging top dollar for their gas, which scared off some of my customers. They (Texaco) quit upping their prices about three and a half weeks ago when they were caught gouging the public."

"Since Texaco got caught, everyone else is raising their prices and now mine are starting to be competitive again," Luton said.

Most of the managers surveyed agreed that Northville residents should not count on gas stations being open on Sundays, and advised those who need gas on weekends to fill up by Friday.

Turnbull ninth at State

Mustangs fourth in league

The Northville boys' track team sent two representatives to the Michigan Class A Track and Field Championships at Flint Saturday, June 2.

Brian Turnbull and Harry Couyoumjian were the only Mustangs to qualify for the meet. Turnbull ran in the mile race while Couyoumjian raced in the 880-yard dash.

Turnbull ran a 4:24 to place ninth in the state in the mile but Couyoumjian didn't run as well as he wanted, recording a 2:02 in the 880. He didn't place.

On Wednesday, May 30, Northville hosted the Western Six league track meet. Northville went into the meet sporting a 2-6 record. It managed to earn 95 points at the meet to place the Mustangs fourth in the Western Six.

Churchill won the championship with 117 points while Walled Lake Western came in second with 108. Mott claimed third with 99 points, then Northville followed by Harrison and Canton, both tied with 33.

Ray Coram captured the only Mustang first in the field events. The senior scored 20-feet-11½ to take top prize. Miles Couyoumjian came in third with a leap of 19-feet-2.

Tim Ellis earned points in two events for Northville. He placed third in the discus with a toss of 131-feet-5 and fifth in the shot put, recording a season best of 45-feet-7. Luigi Folino took fourth in the discus with a heave of 120-feet while Dave Ward threw it 119-feet, good for sixth.

Ward came back to take second in the high jump, clearing the bar at 6-feet.

Northville took two firsts in the distance events as Jim Bedford captured first in the two-mile run with a time of 4:24, breaking the old meet record of 4:26. Joe Martin came in fourth in the two-mile run, recording a personal best with his time of 9:55.

Harry Couyoumjian finished first in the 880-yard run with a time of 1:57.7, a new school record. Turnbull took third in the race with a time of 2:02.

In the 440-yard dash, Ken Koppin took fifth with a time of :53.4. Coram came back to take sixth in the 220-yard dash with a time of :24.2. Miles Couyoumjian took sixth in the 100-yard dash, clocking in at :11.0.

Raay Marzonie crossed the finish line at :16.4 in the 120-yard high hurdles, good for third. He also ran a :42.2 in the 220-yard low hurdles, placing him in fifth place.

CHECKING OUT—These are the seniors who anchored the Northville track team this season and for the most part, the last four years. From the left are Miles Couyoumjian, Luigi Folino, Ray Coram, Brian Turnbull, Jim Bedford, Joey Martin and Tim Ellis. Turnbull recently placed ninth in the state in the mile run as the State Track and Field Championships, while Bedford and Croam are league champions in the two-mile run and the long jump, respectively.

Mustang soccer a plus

These are hard times that we live in. Not hard like my grandfather knew, when he lost his built-from-scratch meat packing business in Ann Arbor during the depression, or the hard times my grandmother knew as a child growing up on a farm, thankful for what little she could have by way of luxuries, such as books or an occasional piece of candy. Those times were different. People went from very little to hardly anything at all.

In present times, people are learning to go from a lot to a little less. Resources are dwindling and if we don't cut back on our present level of consumption, soon it will be too late to stop our self-destruction. But that is an old story, a depressing one. Preached too often and too loud, people are becoming immune to its truths. So I won't continue. Instead of dwelling on the depressing side of our problems, I'll point out one of the bright points.

Soccer.

True beauty is simplicity. Nature proves this hypothesis. The simplest things in the world (usually manmade) are the most intricate, complex and clustered of creations. Witness cities, factories, strip mines, and even our real attempts at beauty, art. Compared to the simplicity of nature, our art is a weak imitation.

Using simplicity as beauty for a guideline, soccer is one of the most beautiful of sports. And I find it very encouraging that in these times of cutbacks and shortages, of going without and learning to live with less, that we were able to claim a jewel like soccer for our possession while giving up a little of everything else.

Recently the Northville Board of Education decided to make soccer the next varsity sport, both for girls and boys. This is a ray of sunshine on a bleak horizon.

At first, due to budget cutbacks, there was fear that other sports would have to be dropped in order to implement soccer into the athletic program at Northville. But Ralph Redmond, the Athletic Director, thinks that it won't be necessary to make any cuts. That's fine, icing on the cake.

I would never force a Dali painting on anyone, merely because it is an acquired taste and chances are, instead of making someone appreciate surrealism, they would hate it without giving it a chance. It is the same with soccer at Northville.

If the sport came at the expense of another, then it would risk the wrath of at least a segment of the student body. This way, with no cuts, soccer can work its wonders without risking instant disfavor. And work its wonders it will.

It already has for the smaller children of Northville. This inexpensive, highly demanding sport has caught on like free candy.

When I was small, Little League baseball was our big summer sport. But times have changed. All around the area soccer is replacing baseball as a summer sport for children.

At that age, a child who is more advanced physically will be made pitcher and have an unfair advantage over the others. Only the one or two advanced kids on the opposing team have a chance to do well against these pitchers. In essence, baseball at that age is made up primarily of a few gifted children and a lot of others who don't really have a chance to "get into the game."

With soccer it's different. No heavy bats to wield, no frightening fastball thrown with a minimum of control and a maximum of velocity, no emphasis on individual action to the degree that baseball demands. It's the batter against the pitcher, the outfielder and the fly ball, the shortstop trying to throw accurately to first, and the catcher trying to handle wild pitches.

While just a game in theory, in our society, those that don't do well are labeled, even subconsciously, as less than heroes. And kids pick up on that and build complexes when they don't do well against the few individuals who are growing faster and can play better. Poor self-images are a result.

I'm not saying the same thing doesn't happen in soccer. The bigger

Softball team ousted in semi-finals; lose 10-0

The Northville Mustangs' dreams of a state softball championship were dashed Saturday as they lost 10-0 to Plymouth Salem in district play-off action at Brighton.

The game was called on the "mercy rule" at the end of five innings of play.

The contest was a scoreless tie for the first two and one half innings. Both sides appeared to be adjusting to the opposing pitchers.

The Salem hurler threw a fastball that seemed to baffle the Mustangs for the better part of the game. "She is by far the best pitcher we've gone up against," coach Tim Lutes said. "Salem's record is under .500 because she has been injured for most of the year. We managed to get a few hits off of her and I'm pleased with that."

Northville's Julie Abraham, who is known more for her control than her speed, seemed to be giving the Salem hitters just as much trouble but for the opposite reason. The Salem hitters were swinging too soon on her slow pitches and kept pulling the ball foul past third base.

It became apparent that the team that could solve the enemy pitcher first would eventually win. And Salem did just that.

The Plymouth coach recognized that her players were having trouble timing their swings and instructed them to bunt the ball.

With one out in the third inning Abraham walked the second batter. The third hitter managed to dump a single into center putting runners on first and second. The fourth batter bunted, which caught the infielders napping.

Nancy Schlachter, the Mustang catcher, picked the ball up and threw it to first, but Pam Metz, the first baseman, had charged in to make a play on the ball. Schlachter's throw landed in right field. Sandra Flannigan picked the ball up and threw to Kathy Phillips at third base. But the ball sailed over her head and by time it was retrieved, Plymouth had crossed the plate three times to take the lead.

The shutout was surprising considering the scores of the last two Mustang games. Lutes had commented before the Salem game that he thought his team had finally come around in their hitting attack.

On Thursday, May 31, the Mustangs walloped Lakeland in the pre-district contest, 16-6. On Wednesday, May 30, the Northville team beat Franklin by an even bigger margin, 18-4.

In the two games Abraham collected two doubles, a home run and a single, knocking in seven runs. Against Salem she didn't have a hit in two at bats.

Orr, the leading Mustang hitter with a .370 batting average going into Saturday's contest, failed to hit in three attempts. During the week she had four hits.

Schlachter was three-for-four in the two games during the week, collecting a triple, a double and a single. Against Salem she managed a walk in two trips to the plate.

Kurzawa was the only consistent Mustang. During the week she had seven walks, a bases-loaded triple and a single. Against Salem she had two of the four Northville hits.

The Mustangs finished their campaign with a 9-8 season mark. Last year they were 8-6.

In the fourth inning Plymouth picked up two more runs. With one out, the second batter blooped a single into left-field. The next hitter lined a double down the third base line. On the throw to third the ball got past Phillips allowing the runner on second to advance. The fourth Salem batter bunted the ball but there was no throw on the play as Schlachter bluffed the runner back to third. On the next pitch the runner on third stole home when Schlachter threw to second trying to snuff the theft attempt there.

In the fifth inning Salem scored five runs to end the game. The lead-off hitter smacked a single to open the inning. She kept running instead of stopping at first and made it all the way home as the Northville defense kept throwing the ball away in an attempt to stop her at each base.

The next batter then hit another single. The third Salem hitter walked and the fourth bunted the ball for a single to load the bases. The fifth batter hit the pitch on a line just inside third base for a double, but the defensive throws were wild again allowing all of the Salem runners to score.

Northville threatened to score twice in the game. In the second inning, with two out, Flannigan hit a double down

Sue Kinnaird was named first-team All-League

Take fourth tennis crown

Mustangs win

Barry Ouellette is one of the top four tennis players in Class A competition in the state of Michigan. The junior from Northville earned that distinction by making it to the semi-finals in the Class A State Tennis Match which took place last week.

Ouellette lost in the semi-finals to Scott Appledorn from Holland, Michigan, 6-3 and 6-2.

On Thursday, May 31, Northville defended its league championship at the Western Six league tennis match and came away with its fourth consecutive title. The Mustangs have now gone undefeated in league action for the last four years.

Ouellette won at first singles in two rounds, defeating his opponents 6-0, 6-1 and 6-0, 6-2.

Lance Carter lost at second singles in the opening round 6-0 and 7-3. Doug Horst, at third singles, also lost, but in three sets, 6-0, 3-6, and 6-3. Dave Herbel dropped in the opening round also, losing 6-1 and 6-0.

The first doubles team of Greg Bach and Jeff Williams won 3-6, 6-4 and 7-6 to help the Mustang cause, but the second team of Ian Wild and Andy Orlando dropped their match 6-3, 4-6, 6-3.

The third team of Jim Herbel and mark Swayne won at third doubles to ice the victory. Their scores were 3-6, 6-4 and 7-5.

Boys' team fourth

The 880-yard relay unit of Coram, Ken Weber, Ken Swayne and Miles Couyoumjian combined to run a 1:35.8, good for fourth. The mile relay team of Doug Wright, Koppin, Swayne and Weber finished at 3:33.4 for their best time in the event. They finished third.

"Our seniors did well," coach Ed Gabrys said. "We'll be losing quite a few. I had picked this to be a pretty good year but we just couldn't put it together. We had a real lack of depth.

"If we had had just a few more points in the field events and in the sprints and hurdles, it could have changed the whole outcome of our dual meets and this league meet.

"We're going to be losing our discus and shot people and our long distance runners but we have some good people coming up from our junior high schools. Runners like Scott Dayton. They won't be competitive for a year or two, but they should give us some good sophomore times."

Birthday triumphs

Mary Cole celebrated her 20th birthday Saturday by taking six blue ribbons at the May 26-27 Saddlebred-Arab-Morgan horse show at Northville Downs. Aboard her Morgan horse, Kane's Ambassador which she calls Danny, Mary won the open western class, for geldings and stallions, the amateur English pleasure, English pleasure stake and Western pleasure stake classes. Riding War Lord, another Morgan from Cozy Cole Farm in Salem, Mary won the open park saddle class, was chosen reserve champion park saddle, and took second in reserve park saddle. This was the first year that Morgan horses were included in this annual Northville show.

All-leaguers named

A number of Mustang athletes were named to their respective All-League teams this past week.

In baseball, Jeff Norton and Don Borthwick were the representatives. Norton played third base and shortstop much of the season. He hit .265 on the year. Borthwick split his time between second base and the outfield. He hit .302 for the Mustangs.

In softball, Sue Kinnaird was named to the All-League first team. The diminutive centerfielder impressed rival coaches with her super-glue glove and gymnast's moves on defense. She hit .300 in league play this year. Kim Kurzawa and Judy Orr were named to second team berths. Kurzawa played a solid second base, hitting .367 on the year while Orr, a sophomore, lead the team in hitting with a .370 average. Sue Heinzman, recently named as co-Athlete of the Year at Northville, earned a berth on the third team. She hit .318 but earned her position on the team with her laser-like arm from shortstop.

Nancy Schlachter, the rock wall behind the plate for the Mustangs all year was named to the honorable mention team. She hit .327 for the Mustangs.

In track, Brian Turnbull, Jim Bedford, Harry Couyoumjian and Ray Coram were named to the All-League squads. Turnbull and Couyoumjian competed this year in the State Track and Field championships.

On the girls' track team, Ann Dayton was the only one to garner All-League honors. This came on the strength of her win in the 440-yard dash at the Western Six league meet last week.

In tennis, Barry Ouellette, Jeff Williams, Greg Bach, Jim Herbel and Mark Swayne all made All-league honors by winning at the Western Six tennis match that took place Thursday, May 31.

Ouellette won at first singles, Bach and Williams won at first doubles while Herbel and Swayne won at third doubles.

TURNBULL'S NINTH SYMPHONY—Senior Brian Turnbull is shown crossing the finish line in ninth place at the recent Michigan State Track and Field Championships held in Flint over the weekend. Turnbull has been a consistently strong runner for the Mustangs and topped off his performance at the State meet by winning the league championship in the mile at the Western Six meet which took place at Northville last Thursday.

Northville horses show well

Horse show a huge success

Jeff Norton and Sue Heinzman share award

Athletes of the year

For the first time in the history of the award, Northville High School has given Athlete of the Year honors to a girl.

Sue Heinzman was named co-Athlete of the Year along with senior Jeff Norton during honors ceremonies which took place Thursday, May 31.

Heinzman played basketball, volleyball and softball in her four year athletic career at Northville. She spent two years in the basketball program, receiving a varsity award once. She lettered twice in varsity volleyball while spending three years in that sport. In softball, Heinzman lettered all four years she was with the varsity.

In her freshman year she received honorable mention in All-League competition as a shortstop. She garnered All-League honors her junior year in the sport. This season Heinzman was named to the third-team All-League squad

She plans on going to Central Michigan University to major in Special Education in the field of Parks and Recreation. Her minor will be in Conservation. She plans to try out for the Chippewas' softball team.

Norton has earned varsity letters twice in three sports. He has lettered in basketball, baseball and football. He earned All-League honors twice in basketball, and made that select team in both football and baseball this past year

Norton plans to attend the Northwood Institute of Technology in the fall with plans to major in marketing. He would like to play basketball for Northwood also

The May 25 weekend dawned wet and cold as the gray overcast sky hung like smoky shrouds of storm. The rain was a steady presence, shifting from mist to monsoon and back again, all in the wink of an eye.

But that didn't stop hundreds of hearty horse fanciers who descended on Northville Downs for the three-day annual ASHAM (American Saddle Horse Association of Michigan) Horse Show, co-sponsored by ASHAM and the Northville Kiwanis Club. The show was substantially larger than last year's as more than 450 horses competed, compared to 350 in 1978. Horses from throughout the Midwest participated in the weekend affair. These are indications that the show is becoming one of the major ones of the Midwest.

Here is a list of all the first place and championship horses from the weekend competition. In each class the horse is listed first, the rider second and the owner third.

Lady tracksters third in league

Ann Dayton capped off her Mustang track career by placing 18th in the 440-yard dash at the Michigan Class A Girls Track and Field Championships at Brighton Saturday, June 2.

Dayton ran a :60.0 in the event. Delisa Walton of Detroit's Mackenzie High School won the race in a time of :55.2. Dayton was the only Mustang to qualify for the meet.

Flint Northern won the meet with a final score of 52. Detroit Mumford was second with 38 while Mackenzie took third with 36 points.

On Thursday, May 31, Northville hosted the Western Six league track meet.

Walled Lake Western won with 136 points. Churchill was second with 104 points while Northville finished third with 70. Harrison earned 64 points to finish fourth and Canton copped fifth with 50 points. Mott brought up the rear with 39 points.

The third place finish topped off what had to be termed a remarkable season for the Mustangs. They finished with a 7-2 overall record. Last year they were last in the league as they failed to win a meet.

On Thursday, Lissa Carter and Dayton combined to score 42 of the 70 Northville points.

Carter captured second place in the long jump with a leap of 15-feet-5, third in the 110-yard low hurdles in a time of :16.5 and third in the 220-yard low hurdles, clocking in at :32.8.

Dayton placed first in the 440-yard dash, finishing in :59.6, third in the 220-yard dash with a time of :27.2 and helped the mile relay team set a new school record on its way to a third place finish, crossing the finish line at 4:18.0. Michelle Hayes, Tammy Selfridge and Kathy McMillan rounded out the squad.

Two other Mustangs scored points in the field events. Audrey Riegner jumped 4-feet-8 to place sixth in the high jump competition, Lisa Youngquist threw the discus 92-feet-11, also good for sixth.

Chris Spigarilli finished in :12.6 in the 100-yard dash, good for sixth, while Anita Sledz set a new school record in the mile run, finishing third with a time of 5:34.0.

The 880-yard relay team of Sheila Harrison, Hayes, Lis Mossolan and Spigarilli combined to finish in a time of 1:54.5 which was good for fourth.

Hayes took second in the 880-yard run, clocking in at 2:24.4.

Sledz crossed the finish line in the two-mile run at 12:35, which gave her third place.

"I haven't a regret or negative thought at all about this season," coach Bob Prom said. "I just hope we created enough of a feeling of accomplishment among the girls of Northville that we will have an even stronger team next year. We are losing some people and I'll search the hallways if I have to find replacements."

MAGNUM FORCE—Barry Ouellette is the ace of the Northville tennis corps and he proved it this weekend when he placed within the top four Class A competitors in the State Tennis finals. Ouellette also led the Northville Mustangs to their fourth consecutive league championship and helped them preserve their four-year unbeaten streak in Western Six conference play.

Soccer a plus now

kids may have a slight advantage over the less developed kids. But not as much as in baseball.

There isn't the emphasis on individual action that baseball has. Team work is more the key to soccer. Soccer relies more on running and stamina, good passes and craftiness. The small child with an alert mind can do just as well as the big strong kid who relies more on strength than cunning. And if a mistake is made, it's not as evident to those watching, therefore, the self-image problem is not as acute.

High school varsity soccer is a step forward for Northville. Other schools in the Western Six Conference have the sport, so don't look for an outstanding first year from the Mustangs. Give the program time to develop. Be patient.

But do give it a chance. American football, baseball, basketball and hockey are fine. Expensive, violent and over emphasized, but just as worthy of existence as soccer is. But if the beauty of nature, simplicity is appealing to you, watch a soccer match or two.

Go to an Express match and learn about the game, then come out and root for the Mustangs in the fall. Like many acquired tastes, it might take a while to get your interest, but once gotten, you're a fan for life.

Reasons why SNAPPER owners wouldn't own any other:

- 1 Walk-behind models, with inexpensive accessories, will mow, discharge cuttings evenly, vacuum, bag, mulch cuttings and shred leaves
- 2 Riders and walk-behind models deliver a smooth, professional cut, even during tough conditions. They also cut more, faster, because of the efficient transfer of power from their engines
- 3 Large capacity grass catchers need emptying less frequently, especially those with the 30 bushel Bag-N-Wagon
- 4 The floating cutting unit on riders minimizes scalping and damage to the mower
- 5 A wide selection of mowing speeds gives flexibility for varying lawn conditions, without loss of cutting power

Before you buy a mower, compare the quality and performance features of a SNAPPER. You'll find SNAPPER is worth more because it does more. And, its price is competitive with other quality mowers

Registration set for day camp

The Northville Recreation Department will start its Summer Day Camp program on June 25. It will run through August 10.

The camp consists of daily craft projects such as making leather purses, glass paper weights, egg carton caterpillars, puppets and pot holders and many more related items.

Every Wednesday will be a special event day. The first week will feature an open swim time; week two is a safety parade with trophies and ribbons; week three is bowling; four is puppet show put on by the Melikin Puppet Theatre of Chicago; week five is a trip to the zoo; week six is an outing to the Mayberry Petting Farm and a picnic; and week seven will be an eventful, gayla picnic combining all the daycamps to wind things up.

In all, the children will attend the camp seven weeks, which will total 105 hours. The fee is $25.00 per child, which when divided by the total amount of hours, comes out to about a 25 cents an hour. That's quite a bargain.

The children will be divided into three groups, with different times and locations for each. Two groups will meet from 9 a.m. to noon at either Winchester or the Scout building, and the third group, meeting from 12:30-3:30 p.m., will be at Silver Springs. The camps are open to children from the ages of five to 10.

Registration begins June 18 and will run through June 22.

Van Patrick Invitational

Bourne helps tourney

John Bourne of Northville is a member of a committee assisting with the Van Patrick Invitational Golf Tournament on behalf of the Michigan

Cancer Foundation. The tournament, which honors the memory of Sportscenter Van Patrick who died of cancer in 1974, will be held on Monday, July 16 at the Dearborn Country Club. Some 45 celebrities will lead a field of 200 invited golfers for the day's competition.

Sign-up scheduled for Colts

The Northville-Novl Colts, this area's representative in little league football, will have its registration period on Saturday, June 9. The period is from 9:30-11 a.m. and will take place at Our Lady of Victory Church located on Main Street in Northville.

The team is for boys between the ages of nine and 13. There is a 130-pound weight limitation. Practices will begin on August 13. For more information, call John Collins at 349-7582.

Racing crowd rioted

Horse racing has been called the sport of kings, but not always do the crowds that attend horse races act kinglly.

At Gravesend Race Track in New York in 1873, two horses, Bing Aman and Mart Jordan, finished in a dead heat. It was summertime and the heat was devastating but that didn't prevent race officials from making the horses run around the 1 1/4 mile track again to determine a winner. But again they finished in a dead heat.

Once again they were sent around, and once again they finished in a tie. On the fourth time around, it again appeared they had finished at the same time, but the judges ruled that Bing Aman had won by a nose.

The crowd disagreed and let their displeasure be known by rioting and finally, burning down the track.

College millage proposals go to voters on Monday

By TIM RICHARD

Schoolcraft College has about $1.3 million "in the bank" toward a Culinary Arts addition to the Waterman Campus Center.

The community college is asking voters on June 11 to approve a half-mill for a single year to raise about $1 million toward the nearly $2.3 million project.

But what if the ballot proposal fails, as have four others during the decade of the 1970s? Can the project simply be scaled down to the $1.3 million available?

"It just doesn't make sense to cut back further," answered President C. Nelson Grote, who, with board Chairman Paul Y. Kadish and Vice-Chairman Harry Greenleaf, spent an hour answering reporters' questions last week.

Not only would it mean re-designing the project, but it would mean going back through both the administration and legislature in Lansing to re-approve a landmark program, they agreed.

"We had to submit a program statement to the Bureau of Management and Budget (to get about $800,000 in state funding). The project statement described the functions of the building and the size in square feet," Grote said.

"Following that, we had to submit our preliminary plans — so they could make sure the plans are consistent with our program statement."

To scale down the program to $1.3 million, Schoolcraft would have to repeat the entire process, wondering also whether the legislature would agree to it.

Schoolcraft has $556,000 left from a 1968 bond issue. The state has been "matching" community college funds at less than 50 percent, said Greenleaf. Thus the college could expect the state's $800,000 would be scaled down to perhaps $500,000, and the total available would be less than $1.1 million instead of the current $1.3 million.

"The other side of the coin is that we've already scaled down the project," Grote went on. "It just doesn't make sense to cut back further. We considered a one-story building, but there are heavy utility costs in this project — air conditioning, venting, and so on. We can get the second level at a very nominal cost."

Politically, it might be difficult to get re-approval of the Culinary Arts addition, he said, because "this is a most unusual project for the state to fund anyway. They (legislators) have a concern about anything that raises revenues."

"Well, in culinary arts, you prepare food, and you have to have an outlet — you have to have feedback," he said, not really intending a pun. "Culinary arts has become almost symbolic to Schoolcraft," Kadish said. "We are using facilities (the serving kitchen of the Waterman Center) that were not designed for that purpose."

"We've got employers all over the state — hotels, motels, restaurants, country clubs — waiting in line for our graduates. Tourism is a major industry in our state."

Greenleaf added, "Competition is not limited to restaurants. Supermarkets are looking into on-site food consumption."

If the construction millage is passed, would the college have enough in its $11 million budget to operate the facility without asking more tax money?

Yes, replied Grote. "The credit hours would generate state revenue; that, the tuition and fees students pay and the service charges would give us enough to adequately operate the building."

What about the size of the investment? A $2.3 million building for a doubled enrollment of 120 culinary arts students amounts to nearly $20,000 a student. Isn't that a lot?

They had five answers to that question.

1. "It's ongoing every year," said Greenleaf, meaning that as capital equipment it will be used for many years.

2. "This will allow us to go into such areas as hotel and restaurant management," Greenleaf said. Grote added that such a program is being pondered by the college's Curriculum Development Committee but has not yet been approved by the board of trustees.

3. "We will offer short-term conferences and clinics for the food service industry" in addition to the full-time culinary arts program, Grote said. Thus, the number of students would be far in excess of 120.

4. "There will be space in the lower level for conferences and workshops for continuing education programs," the president said. These, along with programs for the food service industry, would bring in fees.

5. "It enhances the reputation of Schoolcraft College. It attracts people here for other things," said Kadish, recalling Schoolcraft has literally an international reputation in culinary arts.

The college district's tax base has grown in the years since it was opened in 1964, said Greenleaf, but the nature of the program has changed.

"Ten years ago, less than 50 percent of our students were in vocational programs. Today it's 70 to 75 percent."

"Those vocational programs are expensive. They take equipment, labs."

"Back in 1971, the board began to set aside a portion of the budget — $250,000 — for major maintenance. But we haven't been able to get ahead."

"We've had electrical problems that forced us to shut down a building (the Forum) twice in two years," Greenleaf said.

There has been an equipment revolution in one particular vocational area, he said — word processing

Said Grote: "It used to cost us $500 to create a learning station in a secretarial class. Today it costs $15,000 to equip a station with word processing equipment and a CRT (cathode ray tube)."

In industry, said Greenleaf, who is in management at Ford Motor Company, a secretary no longer simply types letters. A secretary uses electronic equipment that edits them, lays them out and makes duplicate or modified copies rapidly.

He cited other programs. New diagnostic equipment is needed in automotive programs.

Classrooms have to be made accessible to the handicapped.

Book prices for the library have soared. An Encyclopedia Britannica which cost $299.50 in 1974 costs $529 today — "that's a 102 percent increase," he said. A music text jumped from $14.83 to $24.83 in the same time.

Here are some of the major needs and estimated costs on Schoolcraft's list of uses for the millage:

- Repairs to parking lots and drives, $60,000.
- New fire alarm system, $60,000.
- Modified boiler piping in the Liberal Arts Building, $15,000.
- Exterior doors, exterior painting, floor replacement and repair, a total of $45,000.

- Dampers in the Physical Education Building, $8,000.
- Heating, air conditioning and ventilating modifications and repairs, $42,000.
- Replacement of lighting diffusers, $10,000.
- Instructional division equipment, $140,000.
- Business division equipment, $45,000.
- Student affairs division equipment, $20,000.
- General administration equipment, $10,000.
- Physical plant vehicles, $34,000.
- Athletic equipment, $1,000.

Vacations for singles are getting better, cheaper

By EVELYN BAGWELL

Ever since Noah, it seems, people have been traveling in couples, and those who attempted to go it alone found vacationing not only lonely, but expensive.

Nowadays, however, with singles taking three times more vacations than their married counterparts, resorts and cruise lines are making an effort to make the single person feel more at home away from home.

To be sure, some excursions still cost more for the person who doesn't have a traveling companion.

But now, not only do some resorts appeal specifically to the single traveler, but some travel clubs specialize in offering the solo vacationer companionship and lower prices too.

Area travel agents say that for the most part single vacationers these days are limited only by their imaginations in the type of get-away available to them.

Irene Schultz of Glynn Travel in Novi, who says about one-fifth of the people she assists in planning vacations are alone, says anyone can take any vacation alone.

She's helped arrange vacations for single travelers for everything from a weekend in Toronto to gala cruises in the Caribbean.

Cinda Coe, of Phyllips Travel in South Lyon, says which vacation she recommends for the solo traveler depends on what type of activity a person is looking for.

Jill Raney, of Leader Travel in Brighton, says a travel agent will recommend an excursion and then smooth the way for a good time.

Ms. Raney says she would recommend a Club Med vacation to single people, but stresses that though the program appeals to younger singles it also attracts other types of people.

"It appeals to 40 and 50 year olds as well as young people in their 20's," she said.

Club Med has villages all over the world, some of which are ski villages, some of which are summer resorts, and some of which are open all year long.

The resorts are in such places as Guadeloupe, France, Israel, Hawaii, Mexico and the Bahamas, to name just a few locations of the 77 clubs.

For one price, Club Med offers three meals a day, and a choice of sports including water skiing, scuba diving, tennis, judo and yoga, horseback riding, deep sea fishing and golf. Entertainment at the village also is included.

Accommodations vary from hotel rooms to bungalows and cottages. The club arranges for the solo traveler to share a room with another member of the same sex.

Depending on the Club Med site, prices this year range from about $380 to $540 a week.

Ms. Raney said she has sent quite a few vacationers to Club Med, and they have not only enjoyed themselves but frequently have returned to other Club Meds around the world.

Mrs. Coe said though Club Med has a carefree, swinging singles reputation, some have activities for children. And newlywed couples have gone there for their honeymoons.

Mrs. Coe said that ever since the ABC television hit "Love Boat," cruises are popular with both singles and married and such cruises need to be booked six to eight months in advance.

The cruises have activities aboard that do not require partners, including parties, table tennis tournaments, swimming and other entertainment, Mrs. Coe said.

Many of the cruises, however, can be more expensive for the single traveler. One cruise line, for instance, says all rates per person are based on double occupancy.

Single occupancy is available upon request for selected cabins at 1½ times the room rate.

Some cruise lines, though, will take requests for a roommate and will try to find a suitable person and therefore provide a cheaper rate, Mrs. Coe said.

Cruises are available to just about any place in the world and range in price from about $600 to $1,100 for one week and about $1,000 to $2,300 for two weeks, depending on the accommodations and the season.

One price includes the room, all meals and entertainment while on board.

The younger single person often enjoys the Windjammer Cruises, less expensive, more "down to earth" cruises, Ms. Schultz said.

For one price, the Windjammer sailing ship offers all meals and entertainment on board free. Accommodations are not as luxurious, but the single traveler is not penalized monetarily for being alone.

As many as six single travelers can sleep in one cabin. Those who do not have a companion are simply placed in a cabin with others of the same sex.

Activities aboard the Windjammer are not planned for couples, but are open to anyone. And there is a camaraderie on board ship.

But Ms. Raney cautions travelers on their preconceived notions from the "Love Boat" show.

The crew is friendly and you'll have a wonderful time, but don't expect to fall in love and live happily ever after, she says. Mr. (or Miss) Right may well have missed the boat, as they say.

Ms. Schultz recommends Gramercy Singleworld travel club, which calls itself the "together way to go it alone."

Singleworld is designed to fit the needs of the single traveler and is not a lonely hearts club, Ms. Schultz points out.

But because the group schedules a large number of tours and cruises, it can pass the savings on to its members.

Singleworld offers the freedom to mix among your own group or with others while providing companionship and a lower cost to vacationers.

Singleworld offers tours and cruises around the world to three age groups — under 35, over 35, and a group of mixed ages.

The travel agents all agree that they can only do so much for any traveler. What kind of time the single vacationer has will often depend on himself, but he shouldn't stay at home just because his friends can't afford or can't get time off for a vacation.

"You can meet people anywhere,"

Ms. Schultz said, "on a bus, train, plane. Anywhere there's time and people to talk."

"But if you just stay in your room, never mix, you're not going to have a good time."

Mrs. Coe agreed. "You have to be aggressive" when you're on vacation by yourself, she said. "You can't expect people to come up to you and make friends."

"Be adventuresome."

Here's tips for raising vegetables

Constant supply

In this tiny plot, only 3 x 12 feet, this gardener planted three blocks of sweet corn two weeks apart. Each block he will harvest eight to 10 ears, enough for six or more meals for two people over a six-week period. For long season areas, you can plant the same maincrop hybrid in all three blocks. In short season areas it would pay you to plant seeds of early, second-early and maincrop hybrids and all at the same time. "Succession plantings," with fresh crops succeeding the blocks you harvest, are an intelligent way to utilize garden space. Large blocks maturing all at once can be wasteful unless you are prepared to can or freeze surplus.

Garden need not fear vacation

A common complaint of the home gardener: "My flowers and vegetables were in beautiful shape until I returned from vacation."

The Fertilizer Institute suggests a number of measures you can take to limit the effect of lack of gardening care during an extended absence.

1. First of all, make sure that needed plant nutrients are provided early in the season for vigorous growth.

Healthy, thriving plants have greater resistance to disease than those which suffer from lack of nutrients. Today's commercial, specially-formulated fertilizers for flowers and vegetables are labeled as to percentages of nutrients in the mixture, as well as directions for amounts and application for specific crops. Use them as directed by the manufacturer.

2. Before you leave on vacation, get rid of weeds. Weeds not only look unsightly, but compete for nutrients, water and light, three essentials to keep your garden vigorous while you're away.

3. Water soil well. Make sure soil is moist to root depth. There may be little or no rainfall while you're gone. Apply mulch around flowers, vegetables and shrubs. Many items can be used for mulch — straw, leaves, shredded bark, even shredded or torn newspaper. Full sheets of newspaper can be used if weighted with soil of other material so papers do not blow away. Mulch will keep weeds from returning and also discourage loss of soil moisture.

4. Plan your regular insect and disease spraying program so that you do this job just before you leave, if possible. Insects and disease never take vacations, so take time to give this added protection to your plants.

5. Clean up and harvest — Pick fruits and vegetables that are ready for harvest and those that will ripen during your vacation. Clean up old stalks and rotted vegetables or plant parts before you leave. They merely pose an invitation to insects, disease and other pests during your absence.

6. If you're going to be gone during periods of likely frost, you may wish to set out some boxes and prevail on a neighbor to cover susceptible plants, such as tomatoes, on chilling nights.

A pleasant part of any enjoyable vacation is to return home and find all in good order. A few garden-care precautions, such as these, can help assure that your flowers and vegetables will make it through your absence in healthy, productive shape.

There is no one formula for a successful vegetable garden. Everyone has his own goals and defines success according to them.

There are some tried-and-true techniques, however, that gardeners can adapt to reach their gardening goals. Nancy Butler, the horticultural assistant at Washtenaw County Extension Service suggests a few below.

When gardening space is limited, concentrate on crops that will produce a lot in a small space, like tomatoes, lettuce, greens, turnips, radishes, bush squash, pole or bush beans, and onions. Avoid crops like peas, vine squash and melons, sweet corn and potatoes, which need lots of room to produce much.

Choose varieties carefully. If you want to grow squash, beans and cucumbers, plant bush varieties rather than the vining types that spread all over the ground. Or grow vine squash, cucumbers and melons on trellises — make them take up vertical space rather than ground surface.

Practice successive cropping — growing two or more crops in the same space one after another. For example, after an early harvest of lettuce, plant a late-maturing crop like beets. Or follow early beans with cabbage.

Try companion cropping. This means growing two kinds of plants in the same space at the same time. The idea is to combine a quick-maturing crop like radishes, lettuce, spinach or beans with a late-maturing crop like cabbage, broccoli or winter squash.

Weed control is important because weeds rob crops of water and nutrients, and they may harbor insects, nematodes and disease organisms that can infest crops.

Use black plastic or hay, straw or other organic materials as mulch to discourage weed growth. Mulching also helps the soil retain moisture, so you get by with less watering. And that's an energy saver.

If you're going to remove weeds mechanically, decide before you plant your garden whether you'll be weeding by hand or whether you'll cultivate between the rows with a rototiller or garden tractor. These machines require more maneuvering room between rows, and you have to take that into account when you draw up your garden plan.

Cleaning up the garden at the end of each gardening season will help reduce the number of bugs that carry over from season to season. Checking the garden regularly for invading insects and taking immediate action against pests should help keep them under control. Insect control is important in preventing many insect-borne plant diseases, such as bacterial wilt of squash and cucumbers, as well as damage to plants caused by insect feeding.

Many plant diseases can't be cured, so the best strategy is to prevent them by choosing disease-resistant varieties whenever possible. Tomatoes that are resistant to soil-borne diseases like fusarium and verticillium wilt, for instance, are strongly recommended.

Where you put your garden can influence the likelihood of disease. Avoid low-lying areas with poor air circulation and soil drainage. Crops whose roots are standing in water a good deal of the time and whose foliage remains wet for extended periods are more susceptible to invading disease organisms. If soil drainage is a problem, consider gardening in raised beds. Old tires or wood treated with copper naphthenate can hold soil for vegetable gardening.

Cuttings can extend life of flowers

This summer's flowering bedding plants can become winter's blooming houseplants. All you have to do is take cuttings from plants now, and root them.

Three of the most popular summer annuals — impatiens, fibrous-rooted begonias (Begonia semperflorens) and coleus — are easy to propagate from cuttings. Michigan State University horticulturists advise taking more cuttings than you think you want. All cuttings won't necessarily root and grow into new plants, they explain.

Each of these three plants can be grown from stem tip cuttings. A stem tip cutting, the experts explain, is the growing end of a shoot. Choose healthy-looking stems free of insects, they advise. Then use a sharp knife to remove stem tips just below a leaf. Cuttings should be from one to four inches long.

Remove the lower leaves of the cutting, leaving at least two leaves, if possible. Then insert the cutting in moist sand, vermiculite, perlite or some other sterile rooting medium.

Cover the container and the cuttings with clear plastic to hold in the moisture. Then place the container in a warm spot where it will not be exposed to direct sun. Heat would build up under the plastic and harm the young plants.

When the cuttings begin to develop new leaves, transplant them into new containers of potting soil.

Calendulas are set in their ways

Gardeners in the East, Midwest and Midsouth don't understand why their calendulas look different from the low growing plants with huge blossoms that they see in mild climate areas.

There, calendulas are planted in late summer for winter bloom and the cool temperatures favor the development of large flowers.

Over much of the country, hot humid summer weather arrives before spring planted calendulas have had time to show off.

Calendula plants respond by growing 16 to 18 inches in height, with numerous blossoms 1½ to 2 inches in diameter. The yellow, gold and orange blossoms are colorful but not as large as those grown in the West and South.

SMALL BEAUTY—The modern Dianthus or "pinks" mature at only six to nine inches in height. In shades of red, rose, white, lavender and salmon, the faintly fragrant blossoms last for days in arrangements or nosegays. Space the small plants on nine-inch centers and they will fill beds solidly with color, or wrap edgings of them around beds of taller flowers. Start early from seeds out of doors; dianthus transplants easily. Ideal for pots and boxes.

FRED SIMPSON OF BITTEN BROTHERS, Brighton, was among the nine member class of dealer service managers who completed a seminar training course recently at J.I. Case Company's Service Training School, in Racine, Wisconsin.

Simpson, who lives at 60820 Lillian Street, South Lyon, further developed his supervisory skills for managing his dealer's service shop during this participative seminar.

The training sessions are conducted by professional instructors of the Case Construction Equipment Division. Service managers, representing Case dealerships throughout North America, receive experience during role playing and guided discussions aimed at increasing shop efficiency, the effectiveness of the shop operation and scheduling, to provide increasingly better customer service.

J.I. Case Company is an international manufacturer and marketer of construction and agricultural tractors and related equipment.

JOHN DWYER

JOHN M DWYER has been appointed manager, manufacturing studies for Ex-Cell-O Corporation. In this newly created position, he is responsible for all phases of manufacturing projects and studies for the corporation.

Dwyer joined Ex-Cell-O in 1976 as an industrial engineer. Since then he has served as manager, manufacturing services at the Manistee operations and more recently, as senior corporate industrial engineer.

Dwyer was graduated from the University of Michigan with a B.S. degree in industrial engineering and is presently working on his M.B.A. He is a member of the Society of Manufacturing Engineers, American Society for Metals and Engineering Society of Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwyer reside in Northville.

WHEN THE DUST, mud and sand settled at Rose City recently, Steve Hermansen, service manager at Moore's Motor Sport on Pontiac Trail, South Lyon, had won a silver medal for his outstanding effort in a national motorcycle endurance race.

He was only 73 points from becoming the national champion after racing his stock Suzuki PE 250 through a total of 297 miles of forsaken up-north woods country. It was a rather impressive finish since this is only his second racing start.

"If this is what he's like after taking second place, I hope he never wins," says his boss at Moore's, Mark Kozak.

Hermansen quips that he's available for autographs and racing tips.

FINISHING TOUCHES BY MARIE, a school of modeling and visual poise for women, has opened for business in Wolverine Lake Village.

Finishing Touches is located next door to Pat's Cut and Curl on Glangary Road.

The school is operated by Marie Saxton, a professional model and instructor for 13 years.

"What we're attempting to do is provide area women an opportunity to learn all about the different techniques for self-improvement," commented Mrs. Saxton.

"The girls and women who enroll in one of our classes will be taught everything from skin care, hair care, cosmetics and body toning exercises. We'll also tell them how to select and wear clothes which highlight their best attributes.

"The whole concept really involves teaching women poise and confidence," she continued. "If they know how to present themselves to their best advantage, it does a wealth of good for their own self-esteem."

Presently, six-week courses are available for females of any age for a fee of $25. Also available is an advanced course which costs $30 for a six-week session.

An integral part of the course is professional modeling experience. Presently, Finishing Touches puts on fashion shows at the Holiday Inn, Sears, JCPenney's, Morey's Country Club, Laneson's and other area restaurants.

Mrs. Saxton reported that women who enroll in the course are encouraged to develop their modeling potential by participating in the shows. Students generally receive their first modeling experience after three weeks of training.

Finishing Touches also does benefit fashion shows for non-profit organizations. Any organization interested in having Finishing Touches putting on a benefit fashion show at nursing homes, convalescent homes, or homes for underprivileged children is encouraged to contact Mrs. Saxton at 624-3010.

Mrs. Saxton emphasized that Finishing Touches has a twofold purpose. Although a primary objective is to provide training for women interested in a professional modeling career, the school also hopes to provide basic instruction for women interested in improving their general poise and appearance.

My Day!

"Let's make a cake!" she beamed without warning.
"Er — yeah" I mumbled. (It was eight in the morning).
"Well first, get the bowl, the cups and the spoon. If we start right now, we'll be done before noon."
"Now hand me the eggs and the small beater, too;
Oh, get me the cocoa — this cake is for you!
And hand me the baking dish and safflower oil
And turn on the teakettle, get it to boil."

By then, I was ready to rest for a spell;
There's more to this business than I know of to tell!
"Now carefully slide this dish in the oven
And be sure the grid is well spaced and even."

"The pots and the pans I then had to wash.
"Don't bang them" she cried "or the cake will go squash!"
When at last things were ready to celebrate
"my day"
I'd almost forgotten it was the thirteenth of May!

P.S. She opened the oven for an expertise look
And found part of the grid had jumped off the hook.
Even so, the thing had continued to bake,
But we wound up eating a lop-sided cake.

Has Anyone Seen John Doe?

The composite person — how would he be?
This person that's made from you and me?
From whom would he draw qualities of us?
Here are a few of the people we trust:

The Mountain Dweller, calm and serene, a rugged, landlocked human being
Of quiet yesterdays and tranquil tomorrows simple pleasures and simple sorrows.

The City Dweller, grey-hatted, pasty-faced pursuing the mediocre, too fast paced.
Hunching over morning coffee and rolls so sure (so wrong) of what he knows

The Poor Man (mix well there's plenty) beat down by rent and weekly collections.
Yet to the best of our recollections his rueful grin and laughing eyes
Make him one of the world's most remarkable guys

The Rich Man not so bedeviled by minor trouble
Withers and worries in ways quite subtle
When a shifting fate waves its magic wand he fears for his world of stock and bond.
So each recession he suffers as profoundly as those whose darts it hits so soundly.

The Banker who extends a helping hand to the strong (but not to the weak or floundering long)

The Postman who has a secret, toothsome word for fourth class mail he considers absurd.

The businessman, the plumber, the seller of lumber, the dentist, the bait seller, and neat little bank teller, the carpenter, the builder and baseball's holdover

The strong, the weak and marginal winners
Listen America, the soup. how it simmers.

HOWELL TOWN & COUNTRY, INC., has already made its trademark on the real estate world in Livingston County when over 500 guests recently participated in the celebration of the company's twentieth anniversary.

Howell Town & Country, Inc. was incorporated in 1959 by Robert Fitch, Ralph Nauss and Roscoe Eager. They began in a converted service station at the corner old Grand River and National in Howell.

The headquarters of the now eight-office firm is still there, although the sprawling, modern office complex belies the modest beginning. The original automobile hoist lies unused and all but forgotten beneath the new reception area.

Howell Town & Country, Inc. has a salesforce of over 70 men and women distributed between eight locations in Livingston, Oakland and Ingham counties. To further serve the growing needs of the service areas, the company is projecting two additional branch office locations in 1979.

During the 1978 calendar year, Howell Town & Country served some 1,500 families by assisting them in the purchase or sale of real property. That represents about $55 million dollars in real estate transactions during 1978.

After reviewing 1979 first quarter figures, it appears that despite mild recession-type thinking, the high demand area of Michigan's "Golden Triangle" may not feel any adversity.

"Howell Town & Country, Inc. has become a dynamic force in Livingston County real estate and is continuing to grow at a rapid rate," a spokesman for the firm said.

"Management feels that the success of the company is due to the efforts of team-work and a rapport with their associates that is seldom found in the business world," she added.

PAT EDMONDS, a Union Lake resident, has recently been promoted to Detroit area manager for Tuckerman Optical.

She is now supervising store operations and personnel for their five locations in the metropolitan area: Fairlane Town Center, Twelve Oaks, Lakeside, Northland and Eastland.

Ms. Edmonds has been with Tuckerman Optical for one year and has advanced steadily with this fast growing company, moving from store manager to area manager.

FROM SHIPPING CLERK to account executive in charge of industrial sales is quite a step in one year, but 22-year old Mike Burskey of White Lake has done just that.

Burskey joined the Solve Needs Company of Union Lake one year ago and quickly moved up the ladder promoting the Solve Needs Company line of storage equipment. The Solve Needs Company specializes in steel shelving, bin boxers, and warehouse racks used by factories, warehouses and parts departments.

Before joining Solve Needs, Burskey was employed by Food Town Incorporated, of Union Lake.

The Solve Needs Company has been in business for over 10 years advising industry on ways to efficiently handle storage problems.

TWO NEW STAFFERS have joined Century 21 Suburban Realty Inc. of Northville, it was announced this week.

CAROLA CAROSELLI

DIANE STOCKING

They are Carola Caroselli of Northville and Diane Stocking of South Lyon.

A resident of Northville for three years, Mrs. Caroselli returned to her native Detroit after a seven year stay in Nevada. Her husband, Richard, is employed at K-Mart International Headquarters in transportation management.

Mr. and Mrs. Caroselli have three children — Kathryn and Paul who attend Cooke Junior High, and Sylvia, who attends Moraine Elementary.

A U-M graduate, majoring in biology and German, Mrs. Caroselli taught junior high science and math in East Detroit for eight years and more recently substituted in the Northville school system. She chaired the science fair committee at Moraine and she is active on the PTA board at Moraine and the parents' advisory committee on curriculum.

She is a member of the Northville Newcomers Club and she sings in the Our Lady of Victory Church choir.

Mrs. Caroselli successfully completed the Century 21 training course and the advanced sales training program. Because she speaks fluent German, she is especially prepared to assist those persons who feel more comfortable speaking German.

Mrs. Stocking recently returned to the Detroit area after an absence of 3½ years. The last two years the family lived in Rota, Spain where her husband, Barry, served with the USS Conopus AS-34 as 3-M coordinator and substance abuse counselor (CODAC). He now is employed with Ford Motor Company as a manufacturing engineer.

While living in Spain, Mrs. Stocking worked with Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts of America on foreign soil. She also was active with church and Red Cross volunteers.

The Stockings live in South Lyon where their children, Deborah 11 and Steven 9, attend South Lyon Elementary. The Stockings are members of the youth guidance counsel and camp committee, and Mrs. Stocking is very active in church and PTO work.

Keeping busy and serving people has been an important part of her life, the new Century 21 staffer explains, pointing out that this activity should be helpful in meeting the needs of people through real estate.

MORE THAN 140 EMPLOYEES and their families recently joined in celebrating the third anniversary of operation for Cars & Concepts, Inc. The festive occasion took place at the company's research center in Brighton.

The highlight of the event was the display of current and future Cars & Concepts projects and programs. Of special interest to many of the employees was the Fire-Am (Firebird-American), the Corvette Hatchback, the 1980 Cordoba T-Road and the 1979 Mustang Indy Pace Car.

The purpose of the employee open house and celebration is to keep employees abreast of what projects the company is working on and has planned, according to Ron Rosenzweig, media relations.

Cars & Concepts has experienced tremendous growth and expansion in the past three years, as the demand and interest in specialty vehicles continues to climb. The Brighton based firm is the number one supplier of T-Roads to the automotive industry, according to Ward's Automotive Reports. The company maintains three facilities in Brighton as well as one in Los Angeles, and employs more than 200 people.

Cars & Concepts installs the Skylite T-Road as original equipment for Ford Motor Company in the Thunderbird, and for Chrysler Corporation in the LeBaron, Dodge Diplomat, Dodge Aspen and Plymouth Volare.

Valedictorians of past— where are they today?

By JEANDAY

Valedictorians — those students who graduate at the top of their high school class — are looked upon as having a bright future.

Do they? To find out The Northville Record went back two decades to see what Northville High School valedictorians of past years are doing.

As might be expected, they have been education-oriented with all entering college. Like David Hooten, this year's Class of 1979 NHS valedictorian, the majority of the valedictorians back to the Class of 1960 entered University of Michigan, although he is the first to begin at the Dearborn campus.

Considering that students of 1975-78 would not have graduated yet, the number who have gone on for additional degrees is impressive. A dozen have master's degrees or are working toward them. Six have or are working toward doctorates. Duna Penn is the only one for whom information is incomplete.

But these valedictorians, in the majority, are not living in suburbia with spouses and children. Only six currently are married, although two are engaged. Three are divorced. And in the entire list only five have children — four have one each and one has two.

Valedictorians of the past are living in places considered exciting while working in varied fields. Most distant is Kristin Deibert Ramsey in Saipan.

Three are lawyers — Reese Lenheiser, Gary Glenn and Anne Hembrey Hiemstra. Frederick Steeper is vice president of Market Opinion Research. Several are teachers, and Paul E. Beard is a university professor.

Many have traveled and studied abroad.

Read for yourself about the top-of-the-class graduates of past years:

DIANE KLECKNER, '78, has completed her freshman year in the natural resources program at Michigan State University where she plans to continue. She was recipient of the Northville branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, scholarship and also received a freshman scholarship from MSU.

ELIZABETH HARRISON, '77, is completing her sophomore year in telecommunications at Michigan State University and will be a resident advisor at McDonel Hall in the fall. She is a disc jockey at WMCD-radio on campus and also is involved in a video workshop.

As a member of Tower Guard honor society, she reads to a blind student four hours a week. She will be a psychology teaching assistant in the fall. She is head guard at Northville Swim Club this summer.

KATHLEEN BROWN MAROTTA, '76, attended Oakland University for a year-and-a-half and since has taken classes at Wayne State University toward a nursing degree, but presently she is "having a ball" as the mother of six-month-old Gia and the wife of John Marotta. She also happily reports she's expecting a second child next year.

The Marotta family now lives at 532 Fairbrook while he is working in motor hotel management at the Plymouth Hilton Inn. Previously the couple lived at the St. Regis in Detroit when he managed the restaurant operation there.

DIANE WILKINSON, '75, is continuing in the Inteflex medical program at University of Michigan. She received a BS degree in December and will be taking pharmacy boards in June. Then she will begin medical school rotations, entering Henry Ford Hospital as a third year medical student. In the U-M Inteflex program, students continue into medical school on a concentrated program.

LEE ANN HACKMANN, '74, is employed in Ford Motor Company systems analysis in computers. She chose the position from several available to her on graduation from Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, in 1978. She has an apartment in Dearborn and is planning a fall wedding to a fellow Ford staffer.

VIKKI BROWN, '73, has her RN from Harper School of Nursing and is employed at Detroit Children's Hospital. She has been actively interested in cystic fibrosis, visiting children hospitalized with the disease on her own.

She has a leave of absence to backpack through Europe with nursing school friends. Her future plans include a wedding next year to a Detroit-area artist. She says it will be a park ceremony with picnic reception.

REESE LENHEISER, '72, was graduated May 20 from University of Virginia Law School and will be working for the Detroit law firm of Dyheme, Gossett, Spencer, Goodman and Trigg in Renaissance Center. He has contracted for a Country Place condominium on Eight Mile.

GARY R. GLENN, '71, has been an attorney with the Manhattan law firm of Hughes, Hubbard and Reed since January 1978, first serving a clerkship with a California-based law firm. Now

Kathleen (Brown) Marotta, Class of 1976 with Gia is one of only five valedictorians who are parents

Fred Holdsworth, valedictorian of Northville High Class of 1970 is pictured as he began to play for the Tigers. He's now trying to pitch his way back into the majors and has just been promoted to Evansville.

Lee Ann Hackmann, left, Class of 1974, is into computers in systems analysis at Ford Motor Company. She took the position after graduating from Miami University.

Enchantment overrides cost of Europe in spring

By JEAN DAY

A trip to Europe in the spring almost always results in a love affair for those involved. Even with inflation taking prices "out of sight," this was true for Betty and Norman Faustyn last month.

Vivid memories of English gardens with "no fog — just flowers" would take Mrs. Faustyn back for another trip any day, she relates. She also describes such spots as the Mermaid Inn in Rye "restored in 1416."

The Faustyns visited Northville residents Joseph and Marie Macura of West Main who currently are finishing up a two-year assignment in England with Ford Motor Company. They are living in Hornchurch outside London.

The four visited Scotland and toured Edinburgh castle just as a piper was piping in a bride. In London the Faustyns were able to get tickets to see the hit musical, "Evita," based on the story of Eva Peron. She predicts we'll all be singing the hit song, "Don't Cry for Me."

"I've never enjoyed four days so much in my life," Betty Faustyn says of their sightseeing in Paris where a hotel room was $112 a night and breakfast rolls, coffee and juice came to $6 each. But memories of the beauty of Paris and such stops in Britain as the pub where Dickens wrote "Oliver Twist" are priceless, concludes the traveler.

The Faustyns returned just in time to help her parents celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary in Detroit. They're in process of seeing daughter Julie graduate from Michigan State University and son Brian from Northville High. He's enrolled at University of Michigan in the fall term.

Attraction's gardens and plants

The beautiful gardens of Mrs. Andrew Paredes will be viewed by those who can best appreciate them Monday as members of the Northville branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, gather at the Paredes home on Arselot for the annual picnic and plant auction.

Mrs. Donald Ware continues as auctioneer for the plant and white elephant sale. On the day's committee are Mrs. Arthur Palarchio, chairman, Mrs. Richard Cooper, Mrs. Howard Hill, Mrs. Charles Brosius and Mrs. Daraban.

They gave $4,000 of video equipment

As Northville Mothers' Club ended the year at a picnic May 21 at the home of Barbara VanBuren, members learned they had earned $4,000 for purchase of video recording equipment at both junior high schools. Proceeds from the local telephone directory now being typed are earmarked to go toward a greenhouse for the high school.

At the picnic Luanne McCurdy became president. Other new officers are Marge Longridge, vice-president; Diane Schrader, recording secretary; Mary Whiteside, corresponding secretary; and Connie Conder, treasurer.

Named to committees are Sarah Deal, finance; Barbara Willoughby, social; Martha Veselenak, program; Evelyn Maguire, publicity; Carol VanSoest, telephone; Sue Anger assisted by Joanne Kissel, marathon bridge. This year's marathon chairman, Carolann Ayers, reports that play is just being completed and scores will be announced soon.

Carol Forrer's prexy

As the Life Member Group of Northville Mothers' Club (composed of women who had served at least 10 years in the club) began its third year at a picnic last month, Carol Forrer became president, succeeding first president Ruth Mary Atchison.

Rae Deibert was hostess for the spring meeting. Other new officers are Barbara Yoder, vice-president and treasurer and Jeanne Ambler, secretary.

Plans were made for an October auction and a Christmas cocktail party. Among those attending were Gertrude Hatchett and Lillian Duerson, both charter members who had helped found the original club in 1936.

Tivoli Fair dates set

Preparations have begun for the 1979 Tivoli Fair, annual fund-raising event for Northville Historical Society. It will be held September 21-22 at Northville Downs, Patricia Meyers announces. She is serving as chairman for the second year.

Helping with the popular Country Store will be Cheryl Gazlay. Lynn Pacquette is in charge of publicity and Ellen Clark is securing prizes. Anyone willing to help or who would like to rent booth space for handcraft items is invited to call Mrs. Meyers, 348-1456.

Kelly Jamieson, who will be a Northville High senior in the fall, is the latest Northville student to participate in the Ann Arbor-based Youth for Understanding exchange program. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Jamieson of 41718 Ladywood, she leaves for Sweden June 20 for two months. She will be staying with a Swedish host family.

They'll sing your greetings

"Call us anytime," invite Lisa Raycraft and Judy Zimmerman, Northville collegians who are resuming the Sing-A-Gram business they began during last summer vacation. Wearing their "business garb" of straw hats, imprinted T-shirts and saddle shoes the girls marched in the Memorial Day parade to announce they will deliver singing telegrams for birthdays or any other occasion.

Both now are sophomores, Judy at University of Michigan and Lisa at Central Michigan University. They launched the business last summer and report "lots of calls" for the $5 a song telegrams. Most exciting was the one sung in the air from the riggings of a parachute for a parachute manufacturer in Novi. Judy, 349-4454, and Lisa, 349-9128, welcome requests.

40-year reunion

Romances bloomed in NHS Class of '39

In the 81-member Northville High School Class of 1939 there were three couples "going steady" who later married.

All three were among the 37 class members attending their 40th reunion May 19 at Saratoga Trunk Restaurant in Novi. With spouses, 63 were present for the event.

The couples were Richard and Jeanne (Atchison) Ambler, Jack and Geraldine (Johnston) McCrumb and John and Betty (Carlson) Gibson. The McCrumb's now live in Plymouth while the Amblers and Gibsons are Northville residents.

The reunion brought class members from across the country. Tom Martino came from San Jose, California; Kenneth Martin from San Antonio, Texas; Don Armstrong from St. Petersburg, Florida; Kathryn Marburger Dienhart from Menominee Falls, Wisconsin; and Mary Helen Tesch Towle from Leamington, Ontario.

Honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Amerman. He is retired superintendent of schools.

Laura Bolton Hicks, who was on the arrangements committee, said many letters and pictures were received from class members unable to attend. Eleven members have died, but, planners found, many still live in the area.

Where are valedictorians today?

divorced, he has a high-rise apartment in New York.

He is an honors graduate of University of Michigan Law School. After receiving his bachelor's degree from U-M, he took time out to serve with VISTA for a year in New Orleans.

FREDERICK W. HOLDSWORTH, '70, completed one semester at University of Michigan, where he plans to continue, before making it into the major league pitching for the Detroit Tigers from 1972-74. He then played with the Baltimore Orioles and Montreal.

Righthanded starter Holdsworth has just been promoted from Montgomery (Alabama) Rebels Class AA affiliate to Evansville Class AAA in the minors.

His promotion came after he led the Southern Association in complete games (six), innings pitched (56) and strikeouts (47).

He's hoping to make it back to the majors and his arm, which has been a problem, is "good," his parents report.

Holdsworth married his high school sweetheart, Laura Guider, and they have a year-old daughter, Elizabeth Ann.

PAM WITZKE, '69, headed the 100th year class at NHS and went on to get her bachelor's and master's degrees from University of Michigan in mathematics. She now is working in the applied physics research laboratory that is a branch of Johns Hopkins University at Laurel, Maryland, where she has an apartment.

CHARLES G. KEEGAN, '68, has been teaching science and ecology for six years at Clarkston Junior High while coaching track. He was graduated summa cum laude from Central Michigan University with majors in mathematics and science. He received his master's in conservation instruction from Michigan State University.

He is single and currently remodeling a home he purchased on Dollar Lake.

KATHLEEN A. ERWIN, '67, received her BA in literature from University of Michigan and expects to receive her master's in art history this summer from Wayne State University. She is working at the Detroit Institute of Arts and living nearby.

After graduation she worked at U-M, taking a leave to study art restoration in Italy.

SUSAN HILL KETTONEN, '66, married a fellow teacher last summer and is living in New Baltimore. She teaches secondary school mathematics in the Fraser School District. She was a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of University of Michigan and received her master's from Michigan State University on a mathematics fellowship. She also has done computer work at Wayne State University.

KRISTIN DEIBERT RAMSEY, '65, is married and living on Saipan in the Pacific where she is employed with the U.S. government and doing contract work in library science with the local government. She recently was sent to Washington, D.C. for a conference.

She reports loving Saipan's "beautiful climate year round." Her husband, whom she married last year, is manager of six Duty Free Shopper stores in a chain.

She has her bachelor's degree and teaching certificate from University of Michigan where she received her master's in library science. She earlier served two-and-a-half years in the Peace Corps in Malaysia and then came home to sell cars here for John Mach Ford for a year-and-a-half.

ANNE HEMBREY HIEMSTRA, '64, is an attorney affiliated with the Southfield law firm of Schluskel, Lifton, Simon, Rands, Kaufman, Lesinski and Jackier, which has a staff of 25 lawyers working in corporate, real estate and banking law.

She received her BA degree with distinction in English literature from University of Michigan in 1968 and her JD law degree with distinction in 1976. Now divorced, she is living in Livonia. Her son, Charles H. Hiemstra, is 10.

"I have friends who consider my love of horses an obsession," she confesses, as she presently is recuperating at her parents' Northville home from a horse accident that resulted in a fractured skull. She calls it her only accident of consequence. The Hembrey family raises and shows Arabian horses.

DUNA PENN, '63, attended Oakland University through June 1964. Her parents moved from the area at the time. The university reports it has since sent her transcript to several medical schools, but it is not known what has happened to her since.

PAUL E. BEARD, '62, is teaching political science on the Boston campus of the University of Massachusetts. He and his wife live in Watertown, Massachusetts.

He received his bachelor's degree from University of Michigan and his master's and doctorate from Columbia University. He had been a fellow at Brookings Institute in Washington, D.C., working on a political science project.

FREDERICK STEEPER, '61, as vice president of Market Opinion Research heads the political science division. He has just completed working successfully on the Canadian campaign of Joseph Clark and the Progressive Conservative Party that unseated Trudeau, according to his father, who still lives here.

He is a cum laude graduate of Western Michigan University, has his master's from University of Michigan and is working on his doctorate. Now divorced, he has an apartment in Detroit. His son, Geoffrey, lives in Florida with his mother.

At Northville High Steeper played varsity baseball.

EDWARD PROCTOR, '60, is product coordinator for heavy truck sales and marketing group of Ford Motor Company. He works in Renaissance Center and lives in Livonia with his wife and two sons. They attend St. Paul's Lutheran School in Northville.

Sponsored by Detroit Diesel Division of General Motors, he attended General Motors Institute in Flint, receiving a bachelor of mechanical engineering degree. He also was recipient of a GM fellowship for a master's degree in mechanical engineering at University of Michigan. He presently is working toward his MBA at U-M.

On graduation from NHS he was recipient of a Northville Woman's Club grant.

DEADLINE
MONDAY—3:30 P.M.

Leo Nehrt, executive pilot for a Pennsylvania electronic engineering firm, will be principal speaker at the 7 p.m. June 15 dinner meeting of the Northville-Plymouth-Livonia Chapter of the Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship.

The dinner meeting will be at the Plymouth Hilton Inn.

Dreams of flying were the highest aspirations of his early life in Indiana, Nehrt recalls, saying they led him to serve four years in the Navy at Parks Air College in St. Louis, and then as a flight instructor for U.S. Army officers.

Finally he took a position as an executive pilot in private industry.

From a nominal

Presbyterian, he states, he became a born-again Christian and subsequently received the Holy Spirit through the ministry of his Presbyterian pastor.

Currently he is an ordained deacon of the Presbyterian church. He also is vice president and field representative of the Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, chapter of the Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship.

Sharing the program and furnishing music for the evening will be J.W. Turney, radio and television personality and gospel singer.

He appears on the Richard Brookes "Faith for Miracles" program aired daily on Detroit WBBF radio and WGPR-TV television.

Dinner is $8 a person plus 15 percent gratuity. The meeting is at 8 p.m. Both are open to the public.

Reservation checks should be made payable to the Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship and sent to

Our Lady of Victory scouts capture trophy for growth

A trophy from the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council is proof that "Girl Scouting is really alive at Our Lady of Victory School," Judy Williams, troop service director, announces with pride.

OLV school received the trophy from the council at the recognition night meeting of the Plymouth-Northville-Canton area association May 9. Of approximately 20 schools in the area, OLV had the highest increase in membership for 1978-79. It totaled 52.2 percent.

"We believe watching girls grow within this program is really a fantastic experience," Mrs. Williams commented as the trophy was presented to Mrs. Sharalene Thompson, OLV principal, to be placed on display at the school.

The presentation was made at a joint final meeting of Junior Troop 702 and Brownie Troop 204 May 29. The event also was a mothers' tea. The girls received their pins and badges earned during the year at the program.

Mrs. Williams congratulated leaders Monica Diehl and Sue Coseo of Troop 702 and Diane Roslinski and Maurine Lautzenheiser of the Brownie Troop for their efforts and hard work. Mrs. Thompson's "terrific cooperation and support" also was lauded.

At the area association recognition night six first class scouts, five outgoing seniors and outgoing troop service directors were recognized. Kathy Landrum, Winchester service director, and Margaret Sweet, Amerman director, were presented with felt wall hangings from their troops.

Ann Fowler, currently director of day camping, received a Special Person in Scouting Award. Mrs. Williams received the Unsung Heroine plaque while Mrs. Landrum was given a certificate of appreciation.

Mill Race mischief

Visitors to the Mill Race Historical Village off Griswold are finding that some things don't change with time. Youngsters still consider an outhouse an invitation for a prank. This one is behind the double-wing Greek Revival Hunter House adjacent to the New School Church. The open sign is out from 1-4 p.m. Sundays.

Program starts June 14

Library's signing up student readers

The spotlight will be on Superheroes at the Northville Public Library this summer as the summer reading program begins June 14.

All young readers, from elementary through junior high school age, are invited to join the program.

The library maintains a reading record for each participant. All those who read 10 or more books during the six-week program will receive a certificate on the final day, July 26.

During the course of the six weeks, several film programs are planned, including films on such heroes as Superman and Sinbad the Sailor as well as American Folk heroes.

Anyone who wishes to participate should sign up at the library beginning June 14 and no later than June 28.

Join Our Gala Grand Opening

Visit us Friday, June 8 through Friday, June 15 and help us celebrate the grand opening of our new branch office.
There are gifts and refreshments for everyone,
a special T-Fal Cookware offer, and a chance to win one of two great door prizes!

We've opened a new office at Nine Mile and Novi Road, and you're invited to help us celebrate! Visit us during our Grand Opening, June 8-15, and join in the fun. You could win a Tappan microwave oven or a Marantz Superscope Stereo just by entering your name in the special prize drawing. Plus, every adult visitor will take home a pocket knife/keychain, and there will be free balloons for the kids.

Most exciting of all, you'll have the opportunity to buy the fabulous T-Fal Cookware at very special prices. Just deposit $50 or more to a new or existing savings account, or open a new checking account, and take your pick of the four attractive items in the picture. T-Fal is the non-stick cookware that lets you cook the modern, low-calorie way, without fats or oils. It's different from other non-stick cookware because it isn't coated. Instead, T-Fal's super slick surface is forced into the metal base of the pan by a patented process, so there's no flaking, no peeling, and no sticking. T-Fal is made of heavy-duty aluminum and cleans with just a rinse. Discover what other cooks have discovered: T-Fal is a great way to cook.

So stop by! Be sure to enter your name in the drawing, pick up your free gift, and have some refreshments. We'll look forward to seeing you June 8 through June 15.

SPECIAL T-FAL OFFER

Just open a new checking account, or deposit $50 or more to a new or existing savings account, and you may purchase one item of T-Fal Cookware at the special price shown. T-Fal offer also available at main office. (Only one item per new checking account or savings deposit. Sorry, cookware cannot be mailed.
