

Traveling cat's missing

'Sammy come home. . .er. . .just come back'

An eight or nine-year-old cat, whose owners claim once walked from near Cleveland to Northville, is missing.

And a young Northville woman in whose care the cat was placed is heartbroken. Sammy, the cat, belonged to her boyfriend and his family, who moved to Maryland two weeks ago.

Sammy, whose real name is Samara, turned up missing from the home of 19-year-old Hannah Williamson of

According to Hannah, Sammy's had a spectacular life ... "right from the beginning when one of the Meinicke children, who was in junior high then, saw someone throw the kitten out the window of a car and took it home."

In 1976 the family moved to Strongsville, just outside Cleveland. They took along the cat, which soon disappeared. It reappeared later at the Meinicke house on Wing Court.

"So help me it's true," said Hannah. "The whole family has been telling the story for years."

Last year the family moved to Maryland for a few 862 Yorktown — in the condo development on Eight Mile near Taft.

Her boyfriend Eric Meinicke had given the cat to Hannah with instructions to care for it until he returned to Northville in a few weeks to pick up furniture from the family home on Wing Court.

Hannah let the cat out of her home for a few minutes and it disappeared. "I'm really sick about it," said Hannah, who has been talking to her boyfriend by telephone each day. "At first he was sure Sammy would return. Now he's not so sure."

months and took along the cat. Sammy took off immediately. "They thought he was headed for Northville but she returned in three days," she said.

What concerns Hannah, who has offered a reward for Sammy's return, is that the cat could be headed for Maryland or perhaps she's trying to get back to Wing Court. The latter possibility worries Hannah most. "She'll have to cross Eight Mile Road and the traffic's awful."

Sammy is a spayed female; its stomach and paws and white, and its tail, back and head are striped tabby.

TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

In record low vote

It's Whitaker, Llewellyn

As expected, the majority of voters in the Northville school district did not cast a ballot in Monday's annual school election.

Less than six percent of the district's 12,844 registered voters — possibly the smallest turn out ever for a Northville school election — elected David Llewellyn and Douglas to four-years terms on the school board. Llewellyn is a newcomer, while Whitaker is a board incumbent.

Whitaker, president of the board this past year, was the top vote getter with 535. Llewellyn drew 473 votes, while the third candidate, Gerald Munro, tallied 250.

Whitaker was the leader in four of the six precincts, Llewellyn getting more votes than his two opponents at two voting locations.

Llewellyn will join Whitaker, Charles Peltz,

Karen Wilkinson, Christopher Johnson, Marjorie Silger and Richard Barron on the board when his term begins July 1. Board members will elect officers sometime next month.

There were no local millage proposals on the ballot, a probable reason for the extremely light turn out, school officials suggested.

"I am sure that the fact that no tax dollar issues appeared on the ballot was part of the reason very few voters came out," Lawrence Nichols, superintendent of schools said Tuesday. "However, other districts in the area also had very light voter turnouts."

Nichols said that he was "always disappointed" when such a small number of voters came to the polls at school elections, but said that he "was not too surprised" at the turnout.

College millage fails despite local support

In a light voter turnout, two incumbents and a Northville school administrator were elected to the Schoolcraft Board of Trustees Monday while both of the tax hike proposals went down to defeat.

Failure of the two half-mill proposals to win approval represented the fifth time since 1966 that voters have axed college tax increases. Northville was the only K-12 district to approve the millage proposals.

Elected to the board of trustees in a squeaker for the two-year seat was Incumbent Richard Hayward of Livonia, who edged out Thomas Moore by 10 votes — 4159 to 4149.

That race was so close officials won't know for sure who is the winner until after Thursday's vote canvass.

In the race for two six-year seats, Incumbent Nancie Blatt of Livonia and Michael Burley, curriculum coordinator in the Northville school system, were the winners. Robert Ficano of Livonia and Incumbent Gerald Cox of Garden City were defeated.

In March all five of the K-12 districts making up the college district said "no" to the tax increase proposal. This time all of them but Northville voted "no."

The other districts include Plymouth, Livonia, Garden City, and Clarenceville.

Even a small corner of Novi School District, which is part of the college district, turned down the proposal by a vote of 2-1. In March, only one Novi voter showed up at the polling place to a "yes" vote.

In Northville, voters approved Proposition One 390 to 369 and Proposition Two 416 to 342.

Elsewhere the proposals came closest to winning in Clarenceville, where voters defeated Proposition One 111-92 and Proposition Two 107-95.

Roughly 16 percent of the more than 80,000 registered voters of the school district cast ballots. In March when voters last cast ballots on college millage about eight percent turned out.

College officials expressed extreme disappointment with the defeat, which could mean the loss of $750,000 in promised state funds.

The promised monies, which were dependent upon matching local funds, are earmarked for culinary arts building and equipment improvements.

Proposition One would have provided the local matching monies.

The defeated propositions each were for a half mill and carried a one-year lifetime. In March a single proposal for a one mill increase with a lifetime of five years was defeated.

While the half-mill Proposition One

IT APPEARS the requested July 31 election date for reconsideration of bonding for Mainstreet 78 probably will be granted. Although the Wayne County elections commission had not formally approved the date early this week, the commission's director saw no problem with it. A light turnout of voters defeated the downtown revitalization project in February, but council members agreed the project is too important to the community's welfare to let it die.

TONIGHT the Michigan Mental Health Code will be the topic of the second of a series of public informational meetings to be held at Northville State Hospital on Seven Mile, in A-Cafeteria at 8 p.m. A panel consisting of hospital staff will make a brief presentation then open the floor to discussion.

RESERVATIONS are being taken now for the annual sidewalk sales here on Saturday, July 28. "We're hoping people don't get this popular event mixed up with the recently concluded downtown garage sale," said Charles Lapham. "The sidewalk sales is for arts and crafts as well as sales promotions by downtown merchants — not used goods. Anyone who may wish to reserve space should call 349-5175."

Gazebo's up

The gazebo that students at John Glenn High School have been laboring over for several months was transported in sections from Westland to Northville last week and assembled in the Mill Race Historical Village. Designed by the high school's drawing classes and built by its shop classes, the gazebo represents an unusual contract between the historical society and the high school. For approximately $7,000 the Mill Race has received a picturesque "bandstand" while the high school earned a little money for school equipment and its students got some practical building experience. The idea of utilizing the high school classes was conceived by Kenneth Harrison, vice president of the Northville Historical Society and a teacher at John Glenn. Trim work and painting is expected to be completed by the Fourth of July when the Mill Race becomes the community's center for a variety of activities.

Single county status for Northville?

Placement of the City of Northville entirely within one county — either Wayne or Oakland — appears to be the "only practical long term solution" to the city's taxing inequities.

That's the conclusion reached by Northville's four state legislators who met in Lansing last week after hearing a detailed explanation of the local problem by city officials.

Constitutional amendment to Headlee to resolve Northville's peculiar assessing taxing problem appears impractical.

The lawmakers, therefore, are offering to sponsor legislation enabling Northville alone to decide county choice without also involving the at large county electorate of Wayne and Oakland.

Presently, the only way multi-county cities of Michigan (there are four of them) can detach themselves from one county and assign themselves entirely to the other is by referendum involving the entire electorate of both counties.

Thus, should council or petitioners want to locate the city entirely in Wayne County, voters throughout both counties would have to approve the measure before it could occur. Failure to achieve simple majority in either county would defeat it — even if every voter in the city preferred assignment to Wayne.

City Manager Steven Walters, who with Mayor Paul Vernon met with lawmakers here last week, said that very likely council will consider the legislators' offer at its Monday meeting.

Northville officials have considered the possibility of single county status in previous years, but the matter was shelved because officials concluded benefits of two-county status outweigh disadvantages.

Now, however, with the new Headlee Amendment and state laws placing peculiar restrictions on the city, Northville may find the single county proposition worthy of fresh, more intensive consideration, said the manager.

The last time a legislator tried to push through a measure to make it easier for a city to take one county status, the bill got bottled up in committee and eventually died.

The author was Roy Smith (R-Saline), a state representative who wanted to aid the City of Milan located in Washtenaw and Monroe counties.

Recalling his proposal, Smith told

Ask return to residential zoning

Northville city planners, accustomed to requests to rezone from residential to usually more valuable commercial, received a petition at their June 5 meeting that is a reversal of this trend. Frank G. Pauli, 508 Gardner, is petitioning to have his property rezoned from Local Commercial District (LCD) to residential. He intends to build a smaller home on the adjacent lot that now contains his swimming pool.

The planning commission set a public hearing for 8 p.m. June 26 to consider rezoning the entire block on Gardner to Residential-2 classification.

Chairman Thomas Wheaton voted against the motion, stating he would prefer to refer the request to the commission's zoning committee for clarification and recommendation.

He pointed out that the petitioner was not present and had not specified in the request whether he was seeking R-1 (single family) or R-2 (multiple) zoning.

Wheaton and other long time members of the commission, including Charles Freydl and James Cutler, recalled that the once-residential property had been rezoned when it appeared the race track would be expanding and would make the area less desirable for residential development.

At recent meetings the commission has commented that the area not only has stayed residential but has been one in which homeowners have upgraded their properties.

On recommendation of Planning Consultant Ronald Nino, the commission voted to set the hearing for P-2 and for all lots fronting on Gardner. Nino said that it was possible to delete any not wishing the change at the hearing.

In other action at the brief meeting the planners unanimously approved the request of O. D. Hayes for an extension of time for construction of a new, eight-unit building at Little Hill Apartments, 235 Hutton. Approval had been granted in June, 1978, and has lapsed.

Hayes in a letter to the commission explained that legal problems relating to a land contract and financing had caused the delay. The commission was assured that there would be no change from the originally approved plans.

LOOKING BACK

On February 10, 1977 the Northville-Northville Township Community was included in the expanded charter of the Plymouth Community Federal Credit Union.

This change was the result of interest and hard work by Northville citizens who wanted to see the benefits of credit union membership extended to Northville citizens.

In September, 1977, the credit union opened its Northville service center on the Main Street side of the Record Building. By October, 1978, to meet the demands for growth, the credit union had expanded to the corner of Center and Main, occupying half of the ground floor.

Behind two years of quick growth in Northville was more than luck, however. In neighboring Plymouth, the groundwork of experience had begun 28 years before. The knowledge and expertise culled from those 28 years of financial experience built the foundations for Northville's credit union.

How did the credit union begin? On May 10, 1951 a federal charter was approved for the Daisy Employees Federal Credit Union to serve those working for the Daisy Air Rifle Plant in Plymouth.

In May, 1958 the charter was amended to serve the Plymouth community when the Daisy Company moved south. The credit union name was changed to Plymouth Community Federal Credit Union then. Assets were almost at the $100,000 mark.

In June, 1977 the name was again changed. Now COMMUNITY Federal Credit Union is a name that reflects the three-community field of membership.

Today, with 12,000 members and $15 million in assets, COMMUNITY Federal Credit Union is proud of the financial services it is able to offer the residents and workers of Northville, Plymouth and Canton. As your financial alternative, you can benefit from these (and other) credit union services:

- The simple interest method of computing interest on loans was begun by your credit union more than 18 years ago.
- The dividend paying share draft account started at your credit union in 1976, a few years ahead of the banks' transfer from savings to checking' idea.
- Dividends on your savings at the credit union are competitive with any other financial institution has been higher than other financial institutions.
- Complete savings programs to suit your needs and dividends that are competitive.

With membership in Northville now approaching 1,000, we hope you'll soon take the time to find out what other Northville members have at their credit union: that as your financial alternative, COMMUNITY Federal Credit Union in Northville is worth telling your friends about.

Northville hosts special ed talks

Over 100 special education teacher, therapists, psychologists, administrators, consultants, curriculum coordinators and parents attended a special education workshop last Friday at the Plymouth Hilton.

The all-day seminar, which was organized by the Northville Public Schools Special Education Program, was entitled Close-up: a look at Programming and Curriculum for the mentally/multiply impaired.

Leonard Rezmierski, director of special education for Northville schools, was very pleased with the workshop and said he has high hopes that this type of seminar can become an annual event.

"I think the timing was bad, since a number of people who were interested in attending could not because of other school-related commitments," he said. "But I think that people who did attend really got something out of today's sessions."

"We wanted to make it short and sweet and all business," he continued. "Not like some of the other seminars that go on forever and nothing is really accomplished. If we get some positive feedback from the evaluations we will try to conduct more workshops of this type."

Those attending the individual sessions throughout the day — which covered various topics including legal problems, vocational education for the handicapped, pre-school handicapped programs and others — filled out evaluations of each session, rating them poor, fair, good or excellent.

Workshop participants also rated the keynote address by Attorney Lyn E. Beekman — a talk on the current legal problems in special education — and a panel discussion at the end of the day.

Participating in the panel discussion, which centered around Administrative Considerations in Curriculum Implementation, were Rezmierski; Robert C. Dietiker, director, Western Wayne County Learning Center; Elizabeth Lockwood, consultant, Wayne County Intermediate School District; and Viola Dougherty, supervisor, Parkway School, Special Education Program, Northville Public Schools. Serving as moderator was Michael O'Leary, supervisor, Ancillary Services and Infirmary Program, Special Education Program, Northville Public Schools.

Panel members attempted to answer question from those attending, which dealt with state funding, education past age 26, new rules and regulations for special education, group home projects, the concept of graduation for special education students and a few other subjects.

Work for a future, not just a job

Finding a job is hard and keeping a job is harder.

For some teenagers, it is almost impossible because of troubled personal and home lives, bad grades, failures and lack of marketable job skills.

Growth Works, an agency operating out of 271 South Main in Plymouth which serves the Northville area, is giving some help to those teenagers who may be overlooked in most social programs.

Among other services, the agency offers two job programs for teenagers designed to help them get a job, keep it and develop career goals.

"We train these kids in interpersonal and employment skills," said Paul Chamberlin, director of the job programs. "The idea here is not just to give the kids a job. We want to help them explore job opportunities — non-menial opportunities like management, so they can develop goals."

Growth Works has recently been held up as a model for this kind of counseling/job program by the state of Michigan, which is a contrast to what was a self-admitted "rag-tag's" organization at its start in 1975.

In the last few years, Growth Works has developed four main programs using substantial federal, state and local grants.

The two job programs it offers are for young adults ages 16 through 24.

The Youth Community Conservation and Improvement Project (YCCIP) serves 23 youths aged 16 to 19. About five Northville students are involved, Chamberlin said.

Starting last November, the teens worked after school, 20 hours throughout the school year on conservation projects.

In Northville, they just completed painting the Northville DPW buildings. They will continue working with the program until next September, Chamberlin said.

Other projects in Northville may include work at the Mill Race Historical Village on Griswold.

Each participant received minimum wage — $2.90 per hour — for his or her labors. But they also receive extensive training in employment, interpersonal and self-management skills. They learn to set goals for their careers and realistically plan for the future.

"It is a transitional employment phase designed to ease kids into the adult working world," Chamberlin said.

Students receive three hours of credit in Northville, Chamberlin said. Enrollment is closed until September, when more applications for the program will be taken, he said.

Criteria for admission are generally economic need, a history of difficulty in coping in a traditional school setting, or personal and family problems, Chamberlin said.

The other program, the Michigan Employment project (MEP) is one of only nine funded by the Michigan Department of Labor for 18 to 24 year-olds who are unemployed or have trouble keeping a job.

Under this program, participants are given extensive counseling and taught job-getting skills such as resume-writing and interviewing techniques, Chamberlin said. They are also taught job-retention skills through counseling.

Participants are then put into jobs where they receive extensive on-the-job training. Companies participating are reimbursed by Growth Works for the trainee's wages. The staff also closely monitors the trainee's progress and provides constant counseling throughout the 60-day program, Chamberlin said.

Growth Works also runs a counseling/crisis intervention center (455-4900) and a program for senior citizens.

State buys DeHoCo for regional prison

A medium security prison with 320 male prisoners will be operating on the site of the now unused women's Detroit House of Correction by June, 1980, state officials said last week.

Officials came to Northville June 4 to ask that a local citizen's committee be formed to serve as a liaison between the state and local community to keep track of prison progress and operations.

After long negotiations, the state has bought the 155.43-acre DeHoCo plot on the northwest corner of Beck and Five Mile for $1.6 million for the city of Detroit. The purchase was final May 21.

The state will spend $2.9 million to renovate the crumbling DeHoCo buildings so they are usable as a prison by next June.

Meanwhile, the state will construct a new $27 million prison directly east of the present DeHoCo buildings. When the new 550-bed prison is finished, DeHoCo will be torn down, officials said. Although the men's section of DeHoCo is still operating on the south side of Five Mile, the women's section has stood vacant since August 1977.

A community relations group would smooth the way for the state operation here, said Eric J. Berry, in charge of state and local programs for the Michigan Office of Management and Budget.

"We never want to surprise the local officials with our actions," Berry said. "We're not suggesting they they would be public relations for the state. They would represent community concerns."

One such community group already monitors the Sault Ste. Marie prison in Chippewa County, Berry said.

Volunteers spread a mountain of wood chips along Schoolcraft jogging trail

Volunteer muscle creating a trail

As the mile long jogging trail inched along Saturday, the college athletic director turned on his biggest smile and said, "Look at all those beautiful people. Have you ever seen anything like it?"

Marvin Gans, Ph.D., who heads up the athletic program at Schoolcraft College, was watching his idea of a campus jogging trail take shape as volunteers from all walks of life sweated over shovels and rakes.

By the time the day ended and the volunteers put away their equipment, the trail was still incomplete.

But Gans was pleased, "really pleased."

"They really put a dent in it," he said, confidently predicting that the trail will be completed by the end of this week. He's planned another workday this coming Saturday from 8 a.m. to noon.

"Anyone who wants to lend a hand is welcome to come out," said the athletic director, who lives in Northville township and serves on the township planning commission. "Just bring a shovel or rake."

When completed the trail will wind around the east side of the campus. It starts at the south parking lot, near the tennis courts, swings eastward and overlooks the I-275 freeway. It passes a geese inhabited pond and then circles back past the athletic building and tennis courts.

The trail hits the one mile marker at the east door of the athletic building, but it continues on for another three-tenths of a mile, past the archery range, to the starting parking lot.

Gans' idea of a jogging trail took shape in 1955. But it ran into a financial roadblock; the college couldn't afford to pay for it.

Although the athletic director was forced to shelve his idea temporarily, he dusted it off from time to time and eventually expanded it to include a number of exercise stations.

"It just seemed to me that with all the people involved in our physical education program a jogging-exercise trail would be a natural extension of the classes," said Gans. "We had members of the public who were regularly playing handball and paddleball here, as well as people involved in karate and other activities, who voiced interest in such a trail.

Finally, during a paddleball tournament at the college sufficient numbers of people voiced interest in lending their muscle that Gans began in earnest to enlist volunteer support.

Aware that the National Jaycees had made physical fitness a national project, Gans took his idea to Northville Jaycees and persuaded them to make the construction of the jogging trail a local chapter project. JCPenny joined with Jaycees by donating materials for trail signs.

And from a variety of contractors and businesses, Gans and Jaycees secured trucks, tractors, backhoes and a small army of laborers. The City of Livonia contributed mountains of wood chips. And even concrete to hold sign posts in place and the refreshments for the volunteer workers were donated.

Those workers included Jaycees, senior citizen members of Fitness After Fifty, teachers from several school districts, college executives, businessmen, members of handball, paddleball, karate and soccer organizations using Schoolcraft facilities.

"It's what you would call a real 'self help' project," said Gans. With half of the trail completed and the other half to be finished this coming Saturday, the first phase of Gans' dream is about to come true.

"The second phase will be developing the exercise stations — chinning bars, incline boards, balance beams, those sorts of things. With the kinds of cooperation we've been getting, don't be surprised if the stations are in before the end of this year."

State prison to have 320 inmates by 1980

chiefs Rodney Cannon and Ronald Nisun all agreed to the concept of a community group.

The quick renovation of the present DeHoCo buildings will ease the strain for prison facilities in the area, said Rudolph Stahlberg, regional administrator for the Michigan Department of Corrections.

"With renovations, we expect DeHoCo to have a life of five to eight years," Stahlberg said. "But eventually we will replace the institution with the new regional 550-bed institution." Prisoners in the short term 320-bed DeHoCo facility will be held in medium security custody.

"They may be parole violators, returnees from halfway houses, people who cannot control themselves in a minimum security operation," Stahlberg said.

When the 550-bed prison is completed, it will be the first of eight regional prisons to be constructed in the state, Stahlberg said. It will house prisoners mainly from the Detroit area. Of the 550 prisoners, 50 would be "minimum custody," 400 would be "medium custody," and 100 would be "close custody" prisoners, he said.

Other regional prisons may be constructed in Rockwood, Oakland County and Lansing, Berry added, in time to replace older prisons in Ionia and Marquette.

A second meeting will be held between state and local officials June 28.

Grade school gardeners

Students from Amerman Elementary School recently added beauty to the school grounds by planting petunias in the front of the school. Below, third grade teacher Vayle Hall shows her students how to plant the flowers. Above, Jennifer Borin diligently digs a hole for her petunia. The flowers were donated by Carmen Kuckenbecker, a mother of one of the third graders.

Area high schools involved

Schoolcraft program to aid Voc students

By KEN KOVACS

Jim wants to be an auto mechanic. He has taken all auto shop classes offered at his high school and is now starting his first term at Schoolcraft Community College.

Excited and a little nervous, the ambitious student is eager to learn more about automobiles and how they work.

But when the teacher outlines what will be taught in the class, Jim's excitement turns to disappointment. He has learned it all in high school.

The disillusioned young man runs to his counselor and pleads to be put in a more advanced class. But she says he is required to stay in the class in order to get credit before moving on to the more advanced class.

Many students have had an experience similar to Jim's and have become so frustrated that they changed fields or quit school to take a job.

A new program starting this fall at Northville High School and four other area high schools will eliminate this problem of overlapping.

The Northville Board of Education recently approved an articulation agreement with Schoolcraft, which will interface the vocational education programs offered at the high school and the college.

This program came about as a result of a meeting between a group of administrators and vocational education instructors from Clarenceville, Garden

City, Livonia, Northville, Plymouth high schools and Schoolcraft College in 1976. They met in an effort to improve the programs between the high schools and the community college.

The committee observed that student interest in vocational programs was diminishing and felt that this may be due to the overlapping of skills in college courses.

About the same time, the State Department of Education mandated the use of performance objectives in all vocational technical programs.

Members of this committee began to develop a common base of objectives and competencies relating to like programs within the five area high schools and the requirements in those programs at Schoolcraft Community College.

As a result of the committee's work, a proposal was written, which was funded by the State Department of Education in 1977. The program funding runs through the 1979-80 school year.

Kathleen Dillenbeck, named project director at Schoolcraft, has been working with the teachers from the five high schools over the past two years.

Dillenbeck, an education teacher at Livonia High School for 6½ years, has secured articulation agreements with all five high schools.

Though a few students from Northville and other schools will make use of the articulation program as early as

At Northville hearing

Teens enter park debate

By ELLEN SPONSELLER

Teenagers turned out in force for the second of two public hearings last week on the crowd problems in Hines park.

Last Wednesday's meeting, held at Northville Township Hall on Six Mile, was to hear concerns from Northville area residents who live along the generally quiet northern-most section of the 17-mile-long Hines Park.

In contrast to the Dearborn Heights hearing June 4 which consisted mostly of irate homeowners, the Northville hearing consisted of mostly irate teenagers.

However, few Northville residents attended the three-hour meeting of 100 persons.

Recommendations resulting from both public hearings were rejected Friday by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

Both residents and teenagers who attended the Northville meeting gave suggestions on how to curtail the traffic congestion, noise and alcohol abuse in the park, particularly in Dearborn Heights and Westland.

As in previous meetings, the homeowners advocated the closing of the park for a limited time to disperse teenagers and allow families to use the facilities.

The teenagers argued that they are being discriminated against and that they have nowhere else to go for fun except Hines Park.

Both sides spoke before a six-member sub-committee of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

Some speakers preached dire warnings for Northville.

"I would like to dispell the notion that a few bad apples are spoiling the fun for all the good little kids," said Bill Pinkenboch of Dearborn Heights. "You may not think you have problems here in Northville but once the kids get word that they cannot appear down in Dearborn, they'll come right here. Let's get this park back to the decent people," he said.

Jim Irwin, 17 claimed that teenagers have a right to use the park because many of them pay taxes.

"I wish I had the ability to judge who the 'decent people' are," he said.

Bikers urged to enter July 4 decoration contest

With plans for the annual Fourth of July parade well underway, sponsoring Northville Jaycees are reminding area youngsters about the decorated bicycle contest.

Bike decorations will be judged the morning of July 4, an hour prior to the parade, said Michele Buelow. And after the judging, contestants will be invited to participate in the parade through town.

The bikers will follow one of the police vehicles in the parade.

As in past years, the July Fourth parade will get underway at 10 a.m. Bike judging will take place at Northville Downs at 9 a.m.

Who may enter the contest?

Anyone who can ride a bicycle that is decorated, officials explained. Contestants will be judged by age groups to make competition fairer. Prizes will be awarded winners.

Persons wishing additional information are urged to call 348-2246.

Obituaries

Distinguished U-M dentist was Northville native

Dr. Donald Kerr, 70, a 1926 Northville high school graduate and a prominent retired University of Michigan professor, was killed in a two car crash near Grayling on Sunday.

He had been a faculty member in the U-M School of Dentistry for 40 years.

Three passengers in Dr. Kerr's car were injured in the crash on M-72 some 16 miles east of Grayling. One person was killed and eight others hospitalized in the other car.

Years ago the Kerr family lived in the house on Cady Street, now owned by the city, called the Kerr House, and used for senior citizens activities.

One of Dr. Kerr's brothers, Frederick, still lives in Northville at 121 West Street. Another brother, Dr. Richard Kerr of Northville, died in 1970.

Other survivors include his wife, the former June Slot; two sons, Richard of Acme, Michigan and John A. of Chicago; a daughter, Mrs. Downs (Sondra) Herald of Ann Arbor, four grandchildren; and another brother, Kenneth of Redford.

A memorial service is to be held at the auditorium in Kellogg Center at the U-M dental school on June 23. Dr. Kerr had requested that his body be donated to the U-M Medical Center for scientific purposes.

"His contributions in oral pathology and periodontics were extensive and brought great changes," said Dental School Dean William R. Mann of Dr. Kerr.

"His extensive contributions resulted in great improvements in oral pathology, and those in periodontics resulted in considerable changes in the private practice of that specialty throughout the country."

Dr. Kerr received the Michigan Dental Association's highest award in April ceremonies. He was cited for playing a "key role" in development of the U-M School of Dentistry, and for organizing its departments of periodontics and occlusion, both of which are recognized as among the best in the nation.

He was co-founder and past president of the American Academy of Periodontology.

Dr. Kerr had received the Pierre Farchard Gold Medal "for outstanding contributions in oral pathology," and the U-M's Distinguished Faculty Award in 1972. He also was cited by Tufts University for leadership in oral pathology, and by the Michigan Dental Association as developer of "an internationally recognized successful program for the management of irradiated oral cancer patients."

He established and directed the oral pathology biopsy serve at the U-M, one of the earliest and largest dental-school based biopsy services for detection of cancer.

Although he had retired two years ago, Dr. Kerr continued to visit and make contacts with the faculty and he continued his private specialty practice in Ann Arbor.

Dr. Kerr's cancer research over many years was extensive, and he had served as chairman of the Michigan Cancer Registry. He also had served on the U-M School of Dentistry Executive Committee.

He was a consultant to Walter Reed Hospital in Washington, D. C., to the U.S. Navy, and to various other government agencies.

Dr. Kerr was a past president of Omicron Kappa Upsilon, the national honor society in dentistry.

Born June 28, 1908 in Detroit, he was the son of Archibald and Bertha (Learned) Kerr, both of who preceded him in death.

After graduating from Northville High School, Dr. Kerr entered Eastern Michigan University where in 1931 he was awarded his degree. He received his U-M master's degree in 1943.

Funeral arrangements were handled by Muehlig's Funeral Home of Ann Arbor.

"Serving Your Area over 31 Years"

EPA: super sewer planning can go ahead

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) will recommend construction of a new sewer interceptor and wastewater treatment plant to serve the southern tier of Wayne County communities in the so-called super sewer project area and, at the same time, make grant monies available for concurrent facilities planning in the remainder of the study area from Van Buren to commerce townships.

That was the word last week from EPA Project Officer Douglas Ehorn, who said the final environmental impact statement (EIS) on the controversial regional sewage treatment plan would be a "fairly faithful parrot" of the federal agency's March 28 position paper on the proposed project. The impact statement should be available in about a month, he added.

Meanwhile, Wayne County public works officials and representatives of some local communities are in Washington, D.C., today through the end of the week to discuss the super sewer project and other concerns with U.S. Senators Donald W. Riegle Jr. and Carl Levin and U.S. Representatives Carl Purcell, William D. Ford and John D. Dingell, according to Duane R. Egeland, deputy managing director and director of engineering for the Wayne County Board of Public Works.

In its March 28 position paper, the EPA said it would approve a grant for design work on the Brownstown to Sumpter interceptor line and a modular treatment plant. A facilities planning grant also will be made available to Wayne County in order to provide data that could justify expansion of the super sewer facilities to northern Wayne, and possibly southern Oakland, county communities.

Timetables for the two studies must be coordinated over a two- to three-year period, according to the federal agency, in order to make sure that the interceptor and wastewater facilities can be designed to provide capacity for the remainder of the study area, if necessary.

The EPA also said in its position paper that the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and Wayne County will have to enter into negotiations to change national pollution discharge permits for five existing wastewater treatment plants that do not comply with federal regulations. If Wayne County fails to reach agreement with the state on a program to comply with permit requirements, the federal agency said it would push for construction of interceptor and wastewater treatment facilities "with capacity sufficient only for the service area from Brownstown to Sumpter township ... based on providing service to the southern area at the earliest possible date."

Facilities planning for the remainder of the study area "must demonstrate a water pollution control need, examine the alternatives mentioned (in the draft environmental impact statement), and evaluate the costs and environmental impacts of these alternatives," the EPA stated.

The federal agency says the "existence of water quality problems in the southern portion of the service area is well documented. These problems include the five existing wastewater treatment plants which are violating their NPDES permits, as well as groundwater contamination in Sumpter township caused by failing septic tanks."

The EPA also concluded that there isn't sufficient documentation of existing water quality problems nor a completed facilities plan for the northern service area, especially Northville, Northville Township, Plymouth and Plymouth township, as well as Canton and Van Buren townships.

In the draft EIS released last fall, the EPA recommended construction of an interceptor and wastewater treatment facilities to serve the area from Brownstown to Sumpter and northerly through Van Buren and Canton, which were supposed to sell their capacity in the Middle Rouge system to Northville, Plymouth and southern Novi. The area from northern Novi through Walled Lake and Commerce was proposed for further study of other possible alternatives, including expansion of the Novi-Walled Lake wastewater treatment plant.

At public hearings on the impact statement early this year, though, officials from Canton and Van Buren indicated their opposition to trading capacity in the Middle Rouge system for inclusion in the super sewer facilities. As a result, the EPA stated in its position paper that the stand taken by Canton and Van Buren made its recommended alternative "unimplementable."

Several meetings were held between county DPW officials and the EPA regional staff, as well as representatives of local communities and environmental groups, in an effort to discuss what Egeland described as "problems in the draft EIS."

The Wayne public works official said last week — before he was notified of the EPA's decision to stick to its position paper — that Canton and Van Buren officials have informed the federal agency that their stand against negotiating capacity trades was not "absolutely rigid." Egeland said, however, that the local officials "got nothing back" from the EPA.

"They didn't change their position much," Egeland said last week, adding, though, that the EPA indicated that the design work on the facilities for the southern communities "could be sized for the whole thing."

Egeland said Monday that he hasn't had a chance to discuss the EPA's final EIS recommendation with the agency's regional staff.

"We worked a couple of months to try to get them to change it," he said, "so I don't know how much luck we'd have now."

Environmental groups such as the East Michigan Environmental Action Council (EMEAC) and the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC) have opposed the original super sewer and EPA-recommended proposals because the new facilities could encourage urban sprawl and be so extensive that they may not be cost efficient, in addition to impacting the environ-

Both the MUCC and EMEAC have endorsed an alternative that calls for upgrading existing wastewater treatment plants, if necessary.

Richard Grow, chairperson of EMEAC, said his group still is concerned over the EPA's apparent recommendation in the final EIS because the proposed Brownstown to Sumpter facilities will be designed so that capacity could be available for other communities, based on the results of the facilities planning study.

Wayne County public works officials have supported the original super sewer plans and have criticized the EPA, charging that the federal agency has interpreted President Carter's urban policy to call for assistance to central cities as a program to restrict its suburban development.

Circulation decline?

Temporary relocation could cut library use

A move to temporary quarter could upset the library's circulation and usage, which would be hard to recapture, a library official said recently.

Lili Grazulis, head librarian, said the order to move the library to a temporary site could severely undermine the number of people currently using the facility.

"When something like this happens a lot of people decide to travel to a nearby city and use their library," Mrs. Grazulis said. "Once they get into the habit of traveling to the other library, it becomes part of their routine. Sometimes they never return."

"Our overall circulation has been going up recently but this move could alter that considerably," Mrs. Grazulis said.

The move from the mall to the new library facilities at the city hall could be disruptive enough, Mrs. Grazulis said, but the move to temporary facilities and then to the new facility could be very bad for the library's circulation.

"One of the measurements of a library's success is the circulation (the number of books the library has loaned out in the area).

But if the square footage of the library is cut down the circulation is bound to drop also," she said.

Mrs. Grazulis said it would be up to the library board to find temporary facilities for the library. Of the three alternatives mentioned by City Manager Steven Walters, only the recreation building seems feasible to her.

"The Scout building is extremely small, and I doubt we would be able to operate at 100 percent efficiency there. The second floor of the new addition might work out, depending on any construction delays."

"However, I feel for my staff in any move they may have to make in the future. One move is enough but two is really asking a lot."

Mrs. Grazulis said the community in Northville seems to be very interested in the library and the services it provides. She said that while the move may be very inconvenient and distressing, the citizens of Northville would be more distressed if they had no library.

"We're definitely going to lose a few people because of all of this but that cannot be helped. Overall, however, the move back to the city hall should be better for us, since it's been really eerie here in the mall recently," Mrs. Grazulis said.

"When you're sick or hurt, I can give you some old-fashioned attention!"

Dr. Bernard Bach chosen by Harvard

Bernard R. Bach, Jr., of Northville received his MD degree with honors from the University of Cincinnati College of Medicine in graduation ceremonies June 10.

DR. BACH

Announcement was also made that he is one of 12 graduating MDs in the country to be accepted into the premier combined orthopaedic surgery training program at Harvard where he will begin serving his internship July 1.

Bach, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Bach, Sr., of 20336 Woodhill, is a 1971 graduate of Northville High School where he was president of his class in his freshman, junior and senior years.

He was graduated from Harvard cum laude in biology in 1975 where he was a dean's list student for four years and a teaching fellow in biology.

He was named senior class marshal at Harvard, the highest elective class office. As such, he will have lifetime responsibilities to represent his class and help organize the fifth reunion.

At Harvard, Dr. Bach was the first non-senior, non-varsity letter winner to receive the Jack Fadden Award for "overcoming physical adversity and contributing to the team."

At Northville High he earned eight varsity letters and honors in football, basketball and baseball.

His interest in ortho-

650 kids Mankind Walk yields big pledge surgery began, he recalls, due to a knee injury in high school and subsequent surgery three times.

Throughout his high school years in Northville Dr. Bach began a collection of antique patent medicine bottles, a hobby he still pursues.

The turnout of 650 kids from 36 grade, junior high and high schools makes the Northville Walk for Mankind the "largest human development project of the year."

That's the word from James Luterek, Jaycee treasurer for the walk. More than $20,000 will be donated to Project Concern if only an average of $3 is attained, he said.

"The personal strength and fortitude of our kids kept each one going for up to 20 grueling miles," said Luterek. "The commitment by our local community action groups are totally responsible for the 1979 walk being a success."

Thirty five groups contributed to the 1979 walk, he said, noting that with the "backing and organizing power of the community — from Mayor Paul Vernon and the city council to Brownie Troop 116 — our kids 'turned on' collecting 8,600 pledges."

Luterek offered the Jaycees thanks to everyone who contributed, extending special thanks to the city and township police and fire departments, and the Northville CB Club for "making possible an incident free walk."

GOOD TIME PARTY STORE

FOR WINE

by Jim Roth

The Germans need not settle for second best when it comes to wine making. Their grape of renown is the Riesling and most of the great, sweet, white German wines are made from it. But, the Germans continue to experiment with their grape growing and wine making techniques. Some of the new varieties of grapes being tried in their sweet white wines are Muller-Thurgau and Kerner. Some experts say that these sweet wines, though good, do not match the strength of the Rieslings, but give them a try for yourself.

You'll find many different wines to try when you come to us at GOOD TIME PARTY STORE, 567 Seven Mile Road, 349-1477. We handle brands from all the wine producing countries of the world. Pick your own live lobsters from our tank. We will explain how to cook and serve them. Cold beer, wine and champagne are available. Open: 9am-10pm Mon thru Sat, Noon-6pm Sun.

New subdivision proposal gets preliminary ok

The proposed Hills of Northville subdivision was given formal Stage I approval by the Northville township planning commission May 29.

Developers of the proposed subdivision on the northwest corner of Six Mile and Sheldon can now seek approval from the Northville Township Board of Trustees for their project.

Once the board approves it, the developers, Elro Corporation, can make more detailed plans and seek final approval from the commission and the board.

Hills of Northville had been given a conditional State I approval at the commission's April meeting, providing certain changes were made with the plan. The changes were made so Elro Corporation could proceed.

In other planning commission matters:

- The township master plan will be discussed and finalized at a special meeting of the Northville township planning commission June 19.
- The master plan, a guide for the future development of Northville township, has been discussed at length during previous months.
- A rezoning request by Will-O-Mac Corporation will be debated in a public hearing June 26. Will-O-Mac wants to rezone part of its Oasis Golf Course on Five Mile and Haggerty so a bowling alley can be constructed there.

Geake participates in Gasohol Day

Senator R. Robert Geake (R-Northville) announced he will be participating in "Michigan Gasohol Day" activities and is inviting constituents in his district to join in.

June 20th has been named "Michigan Gasohol Day" by proclamation of Governor Milliken supported by a senate resolution. An all-day meeting is planned in the Lansing Civic Center featuring presentations by recognized state and national authorities on Gasohol. A legislative panel discussion of proposed legislation will also be conducted.

Among those scheduled to speak are Lieutenant Governor James Brickley, and chairman of the National Gasohol Commission Representative of the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Bureau of Firearms, Tobacco and Alcohol, as well as spokesmen for Farm Bureau. The American Agriculture Movement and various other agricultural and manufacturing organizations will appear. A number of legislators who have introduced Gasohol legislation will also be participating.

Gasohol is a blend of nine parts gasoline and one part ethyl alcohol made from agricultural products and by-products, which may be used as fuel without carburetor adjustment. It is currently being marketed on a limited basis in Michigan and in several other states with good test results.

"Proponents of Gasohol claim it holds great promise as a renewable, efficient and clean-burning alternative energy source," Geake pointed out. "It can benefit consumers and farmers alike — if we generate the support necessary to encourage further development, increased production, and more widespread usage of ethyl alcohol as a gasoline additive."

Those wishing to participate in Gasohol Day activities are urged to contact Geake or write Michigan Gasohol Day, P.O. Box 16158, Lansing, MI 48901 for further details and a preregistration form.

A $10 preregistration fee ($15 door registration) is requested to cover the cost of facility rental, speaker expenses and a noon luncheon.

Hines Park saga; a place to relax

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following story was written by Dan Guido, a Northville High School graduate who now is a journalism student at Central Michigan University. This summer he is an intern with the Sliger Home Newspapers. His story about the problems at Edward Hines Parkway are based partly on his own experiences there as a high schooler and upon the observation of himself and another staffer, Ellen Sponseller, who visited the park Saturday afternoon on June 2.

It used to happen in Northville. It would take place every Friday and Saturday night at "Beer Hill" in Cass Benton Park. Hundreds, sometimes thousands of kids, mostly 16 years of age or older, would converge on Beer Hill for a night of partying and relaxation. Each night there was a big crowd, a half dozen Wayne County Sheriff squad cars would race up the hill at dusk and deputies would arrest anyone they could apprehend.

Residents who lived near the hill were scared and complained frequently. They said they could not use the park like they used to. They were afraid of their safety, and that of their kids.

What really bothered local residents was the widespread use and sale of drugs at the hill. It was easy to buy almost any kind of drug you wanted. All you needed to do was walk slowly up the hill and listen to the cries of the drug merchants selling their wares.

Guys, with shopping bags under their arms would wander around yelling, "Bags for sale, I've got bags of Columbian" at the tops of their lungs. Or you might hear "Speed-White Crosses-$25 a hundred," as if the seller was hawking roses in the town square.

Finally, after several stabbings and one killing in Cass Benton, the Wayne County Sheriffs decided to concentrate their efforts on eliminating the drug trade at Beer Hill. Several large busts later, (complete with police helicopters and police vans), and the park was once again open for families to use on Saturday afternoons.

But what happened to the kids? They simply packed up and moved down the parkway towards Plymouth, where they converted the Nature Center into a miniature Beer Hill. But, after a couple of summers of intense police pressure, the kids moved to Woodbine Street, near Telegraph.

And they are still there today, on warm Friday and Saturday nights.

May 25, police estimated the crowd of young people at the Woodbine exit to be in excess of 40,000. Residents of the area, complained of kids trespassing and having sex in their backyards. Commuters, who use the parkway to get to and from work, complained of the heavy traffic congestion which made travel through the parkway difficult. Heavy drug traffic was reported in the area.

At the request of local politicians, the Dearborn police erected no left turn signs at the Woodbine entrance to the park and began to ticket those who did not see the signs on Saturday of last week. The Wayne County Sheriffs have begun patrolling the area more heavily, and plans are being formulated by area police to initiate full-scale police busts in the area. Plain-clothes narcotics men have begun to merge with the crowd.

Wayne County Patrolman Larry Cornish said the massive influx of kids in the Woodbine area was not expected by area police. He said the area is populated by hundreds of 17-year-old kids looking for fun on weekend nights.

"The residents of this area would like to close this section of the park, since they have begun to be afraid of the kids who frequent this area," Cornish said.

"We've been making more and more arrests of kids out here every year. The kids come down here to party and have a good time, but some of them also like to cause trouble, which is unfortunate for the rest. Most of the kids who come out here are just seeking a place to relax in. They don't want trouble."

Cornish said the majority of arrests made in the park are for misdemeanor offenses, such as minors in possession of alcoholic beverages. Those arrested are usually ticketed, released at the scene, and given 20 days in which they can contact the court. Fines range up to $500 and 90 days in jail, although Cornish said the maximum fines are rarely handed out.

"Some people believe that there are more kids out this year because of the 21-year-old drinking age, but I think the park draws them in itself.

"It's hard to say what we will eventually have to do to control the situation, but it might become necessary to conduct full scale busts in this area if the kids keep going like they are."

Most of the young people who use the park near Woodbine contend there is no problem in the park. Several of them, like John of Southfield, feel the issue has been blown way out of proportion.

"Sure, there's a lot of folks coming down here, but they ain't here to make trouble, they just want a place to relax. Most of the kids that come here work and are very responsible folks. They don't want no trouble," he said.

"I've been coming down here for years, and the only problem I see is the sale of hard drugs. Get rid of that and the park and the people in it will be cool. It costs a fortune to go out to bars anymore, and besides that, we pay for the park through our taxes. Why shouldn't we be able to use it?"

John said he has not seen much trouble in his four years of visiting Edward Hines. He said the real problem is in the residents' outlook on the park.

"People who live around here are scared, man. And of what? They can come out here and enjoy the park anytime they want. We aren't going to bother them. What are they scared of?"

"Sure there are some jerks that run loose around here, they kinda ruin things for all the rest of us, which isn't fair. But what can you do? Your always going to have a few weirdos in every crowd."

Mark, also from Southfield, agreed with John's assessment of the situation at Woodbine.

"Look, there are a lot of happenings out here that draw a lot of people. Like the WABX softball game last week that got a lot of attention. And you got to figure that a lot of folks are going to show up for that sort of thing. But they aren't there to hurt anyone, just watch a baseball game."

The park has been described by area residents as one "big singles bar," which prompted Wayne County Commissioner Kay Beard to call special hearings on the subject. One of the hearings was held last Wednesday at the Northville Township Hall.

Wayne County Commissioners have stated the park has gotten out of hand and that quick action is needed to keep things under control.

But despite claims made by commissioners and area residents concerning the poor safety conditions at the park, several families were seen having picnics in the park June 2.

Cheryl and John of Redford, said they visited the park frequently with their two kids, aged nine and six. The couple said they do not feel threatened by the young kids in the park, who they say are "into their own things."

John said the park is still safe for anyone who wants to use it, no matter what the local residents have claimed.

"Sure there are a lot of kids in here," John, 32, said. "But so what? They aren't here to hurt anyone, they just want a place to party. Why should that cause any problems?"

Several little league teams and family reunions were also evident in the Woodbine area of the park Saturday afternoon. Most participants agreed they did not feel threatened by the presence of young people in the park.

A problem cited by many concerned the difficulty in traveling through the park. Dave, 24, of South Lyon, said it sometimes takes "hours" to travel through the park due to the large number of vehicles parked on the shoulder of the roadway.

"People park their cars near the road and sit on them and watch you drive by, which is plain stupid," Dave said. "Or they throw frisbees across the road which sometimes hit cars. You got to be careful when you drive through or you might hit one of them."

Most of those interviewed Saturday said the park is safe and available for anyone who wants to use it. Area police said they have the situation under control and urged more families to use the parkway.

"Edward Hines Park is for everyone, and everyone should be able to enjoy it. All you have to do is get in your car and come out. It's your park," Patrolman Cornish said.

JAMES SCHROT

Constable wins sixth in shooting

Northville Township Constable James Schrot captured sixth place in a sharpshooting competition at the annual Constable Officer's Association convention in Kalamazoo last weekend.

Schrot took sixth out of 46 in the pistol range firing competition where silhouette targets were shot at from seven, 15 and 25 yard distances.

This is the fifth year in which Schrot has placed in the pistol shooting competition. Last year Schrot also won the Michigan Constable of the Year award.

Schrot and Northville township's other constable Carrie Mitchell attended the three-day convention June 8, 9 and 10. They passed courses on liquor law enforcement, firearm instruction and court officer's duties.

Free directory of officials available now

A concise directory of state government officials and departments has been prepared by State Senator R. Robert Geake (R-Northville) for distribution to Northwestern Wayne County residents.

The brochure, entitled "Michigan Government Directory," provides a listing of:

—the names, capitol addresses and telephone numbers of all state senators and state representatives;

—the standing committees of the senate and house and the names of the members of each panel;

—the members of the Michigan Supreme Court and how to contact them, and —the Lansing addresses, telephone numbers, and names of the directors of the 19 principal state departments.

Senator Geake explained that he compiled this information in an effort to help his constituents know who and how to contact state governmental officials.

Park hearing sparks tempers

"Although I am a teenager, I am an honor student at Canton High School, and some people do consider me to be a decent person. Yet I go to the park with friends."

Commissioner Mary Dumas from Livonia urged that alcohol be banned as it is in state parks. "Granted, you may be arresting everyone on foot the first year but by the second year everyone would have gotten the idea," she said.

Many teens advocated the banning of alcohol as well, since they cannot legally drink anyway. But Wayne County Sheriff's Department Lieutenant Thomas Harrett said that with a limited staff they would have trouble enforcing the law.

"You can't say to one person, well, you have long hair so we'll arrest you for having a beer in your hand and then say, well, you have a little bit shorter hair so we'll let you go free."

"We would have to enforce the law equally, not selectively," he said.

Many teenagers said they did not deserve the degenerate image portrayed by the media.

"Believe me, the people who party in Hines Park don't deserve the reputation some people have given us, said Maureen Thomas, 20, of Westland. The people who are comparing it to the riots in 1967 and who want to call out the National Guard have probably not been to the park in years.

"They are just building story upon story, making the situation sound worse than it is," she said.

Recently, the Wayne County Sheriff's department said Hines Park in Dearborn Heights was "out of control." Over 1800 arrests have been made so far this year, the Sheriff's Department reported.

Steven Baker, Allen Park, said he had been using Hines Park for ten years, and that he, like most teenagers there, didn't cause trouble.

"I run in Hines Park and I picnic there. I go there to look at the beautiful women and nice cars," he said. "It doesn't cost money, and it doesn't use any gasoline. Any violence down there is between gang members."

Baker urged the commissioners not to ban on-street parking. "I realize the officers are doing the best they can, but it's going to be worse if you force everyone into a closed parking lot and hem them in one place. Then you are going to have trouble."

A group called People United to Save Hines Park urged the closing of the park for two weeks, the banning of alcohol, increasing police protection, and the elimination of parking near to residents' homes.

Northville Mayor Paul Verma said strong police protection was the key to dispelling problems.

"My memory is not so short that I cannot remember when we had problems in Hines Park in Northville. Beer Hill (a park location near King's Mill) was a disgrace. The way it was solved was all the police forces went en-masse and arrested all the violators," he said.

In 1976, 50 persons were arrested for drug violations on Beer Hill by a combined force of local, county and state police.

Class of '79 praised

Graduates and their parents and relatives withstood the hot, sticky weather Sunday morning and listened attentively as the Reverend John Mishler spoke of faith, hope and love.

"These gifts can only be given by God," he said. "May you at this point in your life and in the future find the opportunity and courage to use them well."

Mr. Mishler, assistant pastor at the First Presbyterian Church, praised the 341 graduates calling them "a special group of amazing people."

The baccalaureate address was preceded by a piano solo by graduate Cheryl Wissman. Her performance followed a responsive reading led by seniors Donald Gallop and Lynne Oliver.

The 110th baccalaureate service, which lasted approximately one hour, also included reflections by class officers Greg Bach, Brett Blanchard, Sue Pegrum and Karen Boll; opening and closing prayers and a welcome of all in attendance by Dr. George Aune, high school principal.

Commencement for the class of '79 was held last night on the high school football field.

'Y' offers 'roots' class

Chateau Estates Mobile Home park in Novi is similar to what the owners want to construct on Six Mile in Northville township

Protest rezoning

Citizens resist mobile home park

Complaining that they already have the prison and the gravel pits nearby, residents of the western part of Northville township have rallied to protest a proposed mobile home park on Ridge and Six Mile.

More than 35 residents crowded into a planning commission public hearing at Northville township hall May 29 to protest the proposed rezoning of 87 acres in west Northville township from residential to industrial-mobile home zoning.

The property owner has been trying for the past six years to convert the parcel on the Southwest corner of Ridge and Six Mile into a Chateau Estates mobile park with 400 to 800 lots.

"Look at us past Beck Road — we have the prison, a mobile home park on Ridge, and the dump already," said Shirley Millard, 49401 Ridge Court. "Another mobile home park would decrease our property values."

DeHoCo and Thomson's Sand and Gravel are both in western Northville township.

Chateau Estates spokesman, John Seibel, tried to convince the group that mobile home living has changed and that their development would not be a haven for the transient or poor.

Our communities have strict restrictions as to the age, size and conditions of the homes," Seibel said.

Chateau Estates has other developments in the area including Novi and Howell.

Seibel said that mobile homes cost as much as ordinary homes so that most buyers are middle class from all walks of life.

"Mobile homes are not mobile," he said.

Under Chateau Estates' plan, 5,000-square-foot lots would be rented out to tenants for $150 per month. Tenants would put up their own mobile home units. Leases would last a minimum of six months, but Seibel said most mobile home dwellers stay five to seven years and are required to maintain their property to the standards of the park.

Still, the audience remained unconvinced.

Some questioned whether there would be adequate sewer capacity to serve 400 to 800 units. Seibel said the company was trying to contract with the city of Detroit to get an easement to connect with the now-unused sewer at DeHoCo.

Planning Commissioner J. Craig Bowby asked Seibel to check more closely into what sewer capacity the park would need.

Residents also questioned whether a mobile home park would pay as much revenue in property tax to the township or support the schools with as much money.

Seibel told the group that the company would pay ample property tax to support school children and would give the township a good source of revenue.

But most of the residents seemed opposed to the project.

"The west part of the township is underrated," said Leonard Walle, 49525 Seven Mile. "The entire township should be developed on a top level. All we ask is that the planning commission give us the same consideration as it does the rest of the township."

Chateau Estates has been trying to put a mobile home park on the site since 1973. That year, it sued the township for refusing to rezone the property.

In a consent judgement, the court did in fact rezone the parcel from residential to industrial, and gave the company one year to submit a building plan.

When the company missed the one-year deadline because it could not get a sewer easement from DeHoCo, the zoning reverted to residential in 1975.

The current petition before the board would zone 87 acres for the mobile home park, and 13 additional acres for apartment buildings to surround the park.

The planning commission may take further action on the petition at the June 26 meeting at Northville township hall.

Articulation program helps Voc Ed students

this fall, the wide-scale use will begin in September 1980 when graduating seniors will have criterion reference test results stating their vocational competencies.

The overlapping skills problem which Jim encountered will therefore be eliminated, the student being placed in the appropriate class.

The Schoolcraft project is among five in Michigan, all fully-funded by the state and running through next year.

Of the 29 community college districts in Michigan, 18 have submitted proposals for similar projects and in five years program proponents hope to have the articulation program working in all of them.

"By 1984 we hope to have the program standards statewide so that a student from any Michigan high school could go to any of the state's community colleges with his or her task level criterion-reference test and use it to get placement in the appropriate class," Dollenbeck said. "Students will be able to save time, money and redundancy."

Northville High offerings included in next year's articulation program are accounting, auto mechanics, child care, electronics, distributive education, graphics, drafting and office occupations.

Northville Director of Instruction Nancy Soper is very happy with the articulation program and believes that it will help bring a link between the high school and junior high programs.

"It will be very helpful in our efforts to establish a vocational education program in junior high which would sequence with high school's," she said. "This has not been done in the past, and I think the vocation educational articulation program is a big step in that direction."

Carla Tibble, a Child Care instructor at Northville High has been very active in promoting the articulation program since she came to the district about 18 months ago.

The enthusiastic teacher has met with child care teachers from the five involved districts and says she has gained immensely from the contact.

"While attempting to coordinate our programs, we have learned a great deal from each other," she explained. "I think we can stir student interest a lot more by interacting and using each others ideas. This program got us together."

"This coordinating of programs is not intended to destroy creativity," she continued. "It just gives teachers a good base on which they can build."

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

I must admit I am a Henry Ford freak. Both I and II.

They are the live flesh and blood symbols that sets Ford Motor Company apart from General Motors, IBM, ITT, etc., etc.

In my opinion it would be a serious mistake for Henry II to turn the reins of top leadership in Ford Motor Company over to anyone other than a Ford. The name belongs at the helm as well as on the hubcaps. In fact, Henry ought to hang in there for as long as he's mentally alert.

I'm sure throughout the inner-circles of the automobile industry everyone knows who runs General Motors, Chrysler and American Motors. But out in the boonies where cars are bought and sold, the corporate names are almost unknown. Even the popular guy (what's-his-name) whom Ford fired and Chrysler hired is just another hired hand to the man-on-the-street.

The Ford magic demonstrated itself recently by coverage given a speech by Henry at the University of Chicago Business School Management Conference.

Obviously, Ford didn't write the speech. But it contains what he believes. He talked about capitalism. It's a subject that should rank alongside motherhood and apple pie everywhere in this nation. But more frequently than not it attracts scorn from those who have benefited most from it.

Ford points to the positive and negative aspects of capitalism. It has increased the world's wealth, encouraged arts and sciences, strengthened democratic institutions, sustained liberal values, provided a free and prospering society.

Contrary to critics who would portray capitalists as conservatives, Ford contends that capitalism is one of the most revolutionary forces of all time. It thrives on ideas and change. It is its tendency to uproot and change for the sake of progress that stands as one of its built-in imperfections.

Capitalism, in fact, has been a double-edge sword that has provided the individual with freedom and material things while seemingly ignoring the more subtle values associated with tradition of life style.

Ford readily recognizes this and wonders if his grandfather did not create Greenfield Village as a "kind of monument to a lost world ... a slower place than ours, where men were governed by the seasons and not by the time clock, and where families were held together by values that many modern people, to their sorrow, no longer respond to."

Yet while the pre-industrial society may have had roots, Ford notes, it was also a place of poverty, squalor and disease. On balance, freedom and industrialism have been a boon to mankind.

But the system must be made better, he warns. And, understandably, Ford believes that when capitalism fails to deal with its problems and government steps in ... problems are created that are worse than the ones it (government) tries to solves.

Ford points to the issues of consumerism as an example of where business failed to react properly. He says the automotive companies, for example, had safety devices but failed to sell them to the public. Subsequently, action taken by the government in response to the consumer movement resulted in added costs and troublesome regulations for both the industry and its customers.

In the face of critics who associate capitalism with "excess profits", "exploiters" and "polluters", and praise anti-business interests as those working in the "public interest" and for "consumerism" and "social justice" Henry Ford says that he believes the cause of capitalism is the cause of public interest.

And I believe he is right.

The problem is there are too few Henry Fords willing to speak up and take the flak from those who profess to represent the best interests of the "little guy."

Too often, in my opinion, we associate one kind of bigness (business) with what's bad in our world and assume that anything that is not big ... or is big but says it represents what is little ... must be good.

There is the possibility that bigness is achieved as the result of dedication to ethical principles of operation and development of a good product. Smallness, unless by choice, could be the result of failure in these areas.

There aren't many huge industrial complexes remaining in our nation headed up by a person bearing the name of the founder. Instead we have become a nation of conglomerates.

Henry Ford represents a direct tie to tradition that capitalism sometimes sweeps aside in its revolutionary rush for change. True, he has reaped many rewards. But he has also taken the unmerciful flak that comes with a position of such responsibility.

Stick around, Henry. You're the only connection to the past that isn't on display at Greenfield Village.

Speaking for Myself

Health care for U.S. needed?

John Steimel

Philip R. Ogilvie

Yes

Meeting the ever increasing costs for health insurance as a result of the spiraling costs for medical and hospital care presents the greatest challenge to employers today. Being able to provide adequate coverage for employees at reasonable cost becomes more difficult each year. If those costs continue to rise at their present rate the cost for coverage will soon approach the actual wages many employees receive.

The problem is even greater for the elderly and for the self-employed who are not eligible for participation in a group plan.

The government's track record for administering such programs is certainly not good and it is possible the proposals for National Health Insurance that are being made are politically expedient but the fact remains that some type of coverage that will be uniform and attainable regardless of individual circumstances is absolutely necessary.

John Steimel
Northville

No

I am opposed to a National Health Service, particularly as proposed by Senator Edward Kennedy for the following reasons: 1) It's unnecessary. Under our present system of private insurance, Blue-Cross-Blue Shield, Medicaid-Medicare, etc., persons can receive all necessary hospital medical care even though they may own a home without regard to the value of same. If a person has substantial personal property — cash, stocks, etc. — there is available catastrophic medical insurance at reasonable rates that give virtually unlimited coverage.

2) It would cost more. Unfortunately, experience shows that governmental operation of any project costs more than if it is operated privately. No matter what mistakes are made in governmental operations there appears to be no accountability and no one is ever fired for making mistakes or acting illegally. In private industry, competition is an adequate safeguard (because of complaints about Blue Cross-Blue Shield, competing plans are springing up).

3) The quality of medical care would decrease. Presently we pick our own doctors and hospitals and, where not covered by insurance, pay for routine medical and hospital care. I believe this makes for a better doctor-patient relationship than if the government paid for same.

JACK W.
HOFFMAN'S
COLUMN

Some people are calling him a crackpot, who is wasting the state's important time with frivolity.

Not so this writer. I happen to think that State Representative Casmer P. Ogonoski (D-Detroit) is championing a sensible measure that, unlike much of what comes out of Lansing, won't cost me an arm and a leg. He's not a crackpot, he's a nutcracker.

Ogonowski is the guy who is sponsoring a resolution suggesting that "Michiganian" be used as the term of reference for people living in Michigan.

The measure has passed the house and is now holed up in the senate.

Good substitute monickers are hard to come by and shouldn't be taken lightly. They must slide off the lips naturally, without contrived manufacture. Take "Hoffman," for example. Friends and enemies alike have identified me, from time to time, as Hoff-nagle, Hofferman, Hoffer and Halfman. All are contrived.

Personally, I prefer the nickname used regularly by All-American Michiganian, Al Wistert: "Hi, Hoff, how you doing?" Hoff. Short and sweet and uncontrived.

But back to Ogonowski.

"This is deadly serious business," explained the lawmaker, who may or may not have been biting his lip when he discussed his resolution by telephone. "It's so serious a matter that I'm going to introduce a bill mandating the use of 'Michiganian.' And I'll do it even if the senate doesn't pass the resolution."

Good for you Ogo!

The Detroit lawmaker said he is sick and tired of hearing people stumble over the lack of a good handle or gag on a bad one.

Particularly obnoxious to him are those handles that transform Michiganians into birds.

By R. ROBERT GEAKE
State Senator

If you discovered that your expenses exceeded your income, what would you do?

You could borrow money, but that wouldn't really solve your financial problems in the long run. Or you could review your budget to pinpoint areas where you could spend less, but still get by.

This latter approach would force you to make some difficult decisions, to be sure, but I think you would agree that it represents a much more responsible course of action.

This same theory applies to state budgeting, but the alternatives are fewer. Our State Constitution mandates a balanced budget, and wisely so, in my opinion. (If you doubt the rationale for a balanced budget, just take a minute to consider what a devastating impact deficit spending by the federal government has had upon our nation's economy in recent years.)

The state cannot simply go out and borrow money, therefore, to avoid operating in the red. If we find that state expenditures are exceeding revenues, the only course of action open to us is to revise the amounts we are allocating for certain programs so that the balanced budget mandate is honored. And, the choices in this case are no less difficult than they are in the case of an individual's budget.

In an attempt to fulfill this obligation during the upcoming 1979-80 fiscal year, however, Governor Milliken has recently become the target of intense criticism, particularly from special interest groups. He proposed that the budget proposals he offered last January be revised to reduce state expenditures by approximately $100 million.

Let me make clear from the onset that most of the budget revisions called for by the governor are not cutbacks in state funding. Rather, they are reductions in the original funding increases he proposed earlier this year. Out of a total of 19 state departments, only one would receive less funding during the upcoming fiscal year, under the governor's proposed budget revisions, that is currently being allocated. All other 18 would still receive more next year.

Among the budget revisions recommended by the governor were reductions in Medicaid benefits, cancellation of scheduled increases in welfare benefits, elimination of the home heating assistance program, delays in construction for higher education, reductions in the urban redevelopment land bank program and in state aid to the Detroit Institute of Arts, and hiring freezes in state agencies.

I can state with absolute certainty that the Governor did not relish finding himself in a situation where he had to ask the Legislature to appropriate less for these programs than he had originally recommended. I would assert, however, that he simply had no viable alternative.

As we are all very much aware, Michigan's economy, like the nation's, is not particularly rosy right now, and it looks like we're in for a recession, mild or otherwise. The revenues we thought were going to be coming in next year simply aren't going to be available in the amounts we anticipated. Reducing the scheduled pay increase for state employees, as the governor previously recommended, would have saved some money, but the legislature did not deem this approach appropriate.

Not only are revenues virtually certain to be less, but state government is going to be operating under the "Headlee Philosophy" which the voters so clearly mandated last November in passing the Tax Limitation Amendment. It has become crystal clear to many lawmakers, including myself, that our citizens want the legislature to exercise some fiscal restraint, to set priorities, and to be even a little stingy with their tax dollars.

Add to these two factors the constitutional requirement, also mandated by the Headlee Amendment, that state aid to local governments must be maintained at its present level of about 40 percent of the total state budget. Under this provision, 40 percent of all state revenues must be allocated to local governing units for such services as education, police protection, sewage construction, and so forth. No ifs, ands, or buts. Local units are now constitutionally entitled to 40 percent of the state budget.

Once the 40 percent local government commitment is fulfilled, therefore, that leaves about 60 percent of the total state budget which can be adjusted to assure the books come out balanced.

In light of the problems we've encountered with our state's mental health system, for example, would you approve of reducing funds for this service? We are also required to implement the new Public Health Code. And we can no longer avoid the need to build new prisons, particularly in light of voter approval last November of the proposals to limit parole and bail.

A mixture of praise and criticism

To the Editor:

This is an era in which space travel has shown us that the earth is merely a global village in the vastness of our universe and that all of us must take an interest in the welfare of mankind.

Project Concern salutes the citizens of Northville for showing the warmth and generous nature of their community. With pleasure and sincerity we extend our thanks for your overwhelming support of this year's Northville Walk for Mankind.

We are especially grateful to Walk Directors Richard Scarlett and Joan Fogle, the members of their committee, the Northville Jaycees, and the many dedicated individuals who volunteered their time to organize and execute such an inspired walk. Your community should be proud of the hard work and sacrifices made by these dedicated individuals.

Project Concern applauds the youth of Northville for your willingness to show that you can make a difference in the lives of so many less fortunate young people. A special thanks goes to your parents, neighbors, and friends whose generous contributions made your efforts and this year's Walk so successful.

As planned, some of the proceeds from the Walk will go directly toward vital local community service organizations and charitable causes in Northville.

You saw our patients as individuals, welcomed them as neighbors, and responded to their needs as friends. We are one — all of us together — and to this end Project Concern pledges its best efforts

In shared concern,

David R. Duplanty

To the Editor:

On behalf of everyone in Northville who is connected with the soccer program, I would like to say a big "thank you" to Carole Kellogg who has coordinated the refereeing for all the "home" Northville soccer games.

Carole, who moved to Northville just over a year ago, plunged right in and accepted this job last fall and has scheduled Northville boys and girls who attended refereeing clinics at soccer referees. She has done a tremendous job seeing that the various age groups have one or more qualified refs, making sure that all the scheduled games at all the various fields in Northville are assigned a ref, and making many telephone calls to see that all these plans are carried through. The recreation department pays these referees and again Carole carries the responsibility of keeping track of hours worked and amounts owed.

Carole and her family are going to be moving to Lansing soon. We wish her well and we shall miss her great effort to make the soccer program in Northville such a good one!

Sincerely,

Shirley and Norm Davis

To the Editor:

Tell me if your think the following makes any sense. They sell mini-bikes in Northville, yet it is illegal to ride them within the city limits. But why?

The Ruttman mini-bikes that my 10 year old son just got and that of a neighbor boy are fairly well muffled. For the most part they were riding under adult supervision in our yard and in the alley. But, by the second day — complaining neighbors called police ... Complaining about the noise. Ridiculous! The noise level in Northville, as everywhere else, caused by cars, trucks and motorcycles make mini-bikes sound like a whisper by comparison.

Did the officer calling at our house (6-8-79) two days after we got the bike tell us of any city provisions for those kids with motor bikes and go-carts. NO! Probably because there is none. But, the officer's PR raining (or lack of it)

Single county status?

The Record that "Northville's case is different. It's not so politically explosive. I think you'd find less legislative opposition to it (the new bill) and I for one would wholeheartedly support it. I really believe that issues affecting local people should be resolved by local people. If Northville's having a real problem, voters of the two counties shouldn't be allowed to countermand Northville's decision."

Smith's bill would have permitted any multi-county municipality to decide the matter without the counties also voting on it. The proposal suggested by Northville legislators would deal only with Northville and none of the other three two-county cities in Michigan.

Other cities are Lansing, Milan and Memphis.

New Baltimore, which had been the fifth two-county city in the state, successfully garnered a majority vote of two counties to win single county status.

According to Smith, he went to bat for Milan at the request of its mayor. But before he could conclude his work, local officials were fighting over the move. He said he won't reintroduce his bill.

Milan is a unique place in that 80 percent of the land area is in Monroe County while 80 percent of the population is in Washtenaw. Monroe County officials were worried that they might lose Milan's Ford Motor tax base. So they went to their legislators and persuaded them to fight my bill.

"In Northville's case I don't think either county would be hurt if Northville withdrew from one or the other," said Smith. "The county, for example, doesn't get any of the rebate from the race track."

Northville's population is very nearly equal in the two counties, with the edge in voter registration shifting from one side to the other, according to City Clerk Joan McAllister. Presently, Wayne County has a few more voters than does Oakland.

In a letter to the city manager, Northville's legislators — Senators R. Robert Geake and Douglas Ross and State Representative Jack Kirksey — said that if the city council wishes to have them pursue special legislation it (council) should adopt a resolution making the request.

"However, we would want the members of the city council to understand that we may encounter considerable difficulty and delay in attempting to secure passage of the bill," the lawmakers said.

When questioned about the legislators' suggested solution, Kirksey admitted that single county status would solve only the problem within the city. Inequities in that portion of the Northville School District in Novi would not be erased, he said.

For the city, the problem basically is this: despite tax limitations of the Headlee Amendment, Northville's legal inability to levy different millage rates for the two sections of the city produces a disparity in taxes. Thus, Oakland County taxpayers are receiving a 13.4 percent increase in city taxes this year while Wayne County taxpayers are paying a 6.4 percent increase.

Permitted only to levy a single millage rate for the entire city, Northville's only other way of producing equal tax rates would be to adjust assessments. But the county and state won't permit such an adjustment, pointing out that Headlee limits only millage and not assessments.

Because the Northville School District also is located in Wayne and Oakland counties, the tax disparity will show up there, too, according to the city manager. Only in the school's case, the cost of that disparity to the taxpayer will be significantly greater.

certainly came through. For as he was leaving and in earshot of my wife, he turned around and said to my little Joe, "If I catch you riding that bike around here again I will impound it." Well, I can truthfully say that such comments do not help the image of the police department among the youngsters.

So between the petty neighbors and lack of nearby facilities for kids and their motorized toys — they really have it rough.

One Nation —, Oh how does that go now?

A Northville Resident.

To the Editor:

As a coach in the Northville soccer program, I was initially pleased with the excellent coverage provided soccer when our season began in April. However there has been a decline in the quality of coverage over the last month, culminating the week of 6-6-79 with no write-up at all and only partial WSSL standings printed.

This was particularly disappointing since my girls 12-and-under Pink Panthers played their best game of the year, a 7-0 whitewash of Livonia 1. Julie Nowka and Kathy Korowin sandwiched three goal hattricks around Lisa Crawford's first goal ever — a beautiful high arching shot from 20 yards out.

The kids really enjoy seeing their names and standings in print, so please try to resume the early season level of coverage.

Yours truly,
Bert Schwartz

The college's culinary arts program, which has a waiting list of two years or more, is recognized as one of the nation's finest. But cramped quarters and aging kitchen equipment has begun to adversely affect the program, officials have noted.

Graduates of the program are in high demand as cooks and chefs and food specialists in hotels, motels, restaurants and country clubs throughout the state.

Among the repairs and equipment purchases that the additional monies would have funded are these:

Repairs to parking lots and drives, $60,000; new fire alarm system, $60,000; modified boiler piping in the liberal arts building, $15,000; exterior doors, exterior painting, floor replacement and repairs, $45,000; dampers in the physical education building, $8,000; heating, air conditioning and ventilating modifications and repairs $42,000;

Replacement of lighting diffusers, $10,000; instructional equipment, $140,000; business equipment, $45,000; student affairs equipment, $20,000; general administration equipment, $10,000; physical plant vehicles, $34,000; and athletic equipment, $1,000.

Borthwick named to Sliger All-Area team

Four members of the Northville baseball squad were named to the Sliger Home Newspaper's All-Area Baseball Team this week.

Don Borthwick was named to the first-team squad while Jeff Norton and Roland Tarrow were named to the second team. Dave Austin earned honorable mention recognition.

The Sliger All-Area Team covers the communities of Northville, Novi, South Lyon, Walled Lake, Brighton, Hartland, Pinckney, Howell and Whitmore Lake.

Borthwick, a senior, hit .302 for the Mustangs this season, leading them to an 11-13 season mark. He collected 19 hits in 63 trips to the plate, knocked in 10 runs, scored 18 and tallied two doubles and a triple. Borthwick started the season at second base, but coach Bob Kucher moved him to the outfield because "he is one of the best in the area at that position." Names to the All-

Western Six conference team, Borthwick plans to attend Miami of Ohio University in the fall.

Norton split his time between third base and shortstop last season, hitting .268. He was named to the All-Western Six team also, and was named this year as the Northville Co-Athlete of the Year. Tarrow hit .300 for the Mustangs and led the team in stolen bases with 12. Austin was hitting a solid .348 for Northville, but had to drop off of the team at the end of the year for personal reasons. All four athletes are seniors.

Tim Burgin of Brighton heads the All-Area pitching staff. Burgin finished the year with an incredible 10-0 record. He notched 103 strike outs in only 63 innings and had an earned run average (E.R.A.) of just 0.46.

Jeff Minock of Howell won five games and lost two. His earned run average was a respectable 1.91. He allowed only nine runs on 17 hits.

Jim Gardiner was Burgin's battery mate. The big catcher powered the Brighton offense with a .330 batting average. He hit two triples and six doubles on his way to knocking in 19 runs. He also displayed a laser arm as he moved down runners 19 times this year.

Wayne Whitney, Brighton's stellar second baseman, was a unanimous All-SEC (South Eastern Conference) selection this year. He hit six doubles, two triples and a home run on his way to a .409 batting average.

Jon Mack of Howell hit .391, knocked in 16 runs, scored 21, stole base 24 times, hit four doubles and cruised into

Orr is named 'all-area'

Northville's Judy Orr was the lone Mustang to be named to the Sliger Home Newspaper's all-area softball first team this week, but four others were selected to other categories.

Sue Kinnaird was named to the second team, while Sue Heinzman, Kim Kurzawa and Nancy Schlachter were honorable mention selections.

The Sliger all-area team is made up of athletes from Northville, Novi, Walled Lake, Brighton, South Lyon, Hartland, Brighton, Pinckney, Howell and Whitmore Lake.

Selections were determined by position, and not on the best athlete each team possessed. In many cases the selections were difficult, but the selection committee, made up of the Sliger chain sports writers, thought this process to be the fairest.

Orr, a sophomore, led the Mustangs in hitting as she finished the year with a .370 mark. She knocked in 12 runs and scored 12. She was also named to the Western Six All-Conference second team. In Western Six play, Orr hit a solid .444.

Kinnaird hit .286 overall, and was named to the first team All-Western Six squad. She knocked in 14 runs and

Lets rec Hines Park

The Hines Park affair is just a sore on the surface of this area's complexion. And as a sore it is only a symptom of a deeper sickness within the community.

Like a dread deadly disease, if this sickness isn't stopped from spreading, the community will surely die. For this sickness affects youth, and the youth are the hope of any community's future. The sickness is apathy.

Hines Park isn't really the issue. The issue is what in the world do kids do for recreation? There isn't any excuse for some of the things that happen at the park, I will be the first to grant that. But let's not become so wrapped up in the emotions of a single symptom that we forget to diagnose and cure the disease.

Apathy's roots form at a very early age in a youngster's life. Once these roots are formed it takes a lot of work to weed them out. Parents are one cure. But in today's society, the term parent is more of a biological expression than a sociological one.

Why is it that the "happy family" situations of the Donna Reed Show, Leave It To Beaver, or the Nelson Family only inspire laughter and ridicule from kids today? Because it is as foreign a concept to them as would be holography to the croonin-swoonin Ricky Nelson of the early 60's.

The situation only worsens when you stop to consider that today's youth are tomorrow's parents.

But take heart. The situation isn't hopeless. At least subconsciously today's parents have recognized the need in their kid's lives of some sort of direction, of guidance. That's why city recreation departments were created. To become surrogate parents. And sports work, to a degree.

By involving children in situations of team play, where cooperation with others is learned, as well as deeper human qualities such as honesty, self-reliance, and the formation of a positive self-image that comes as a result of success, sports perform some of the functions that used to be associated with parenting. Some is better than none at all.

Now to the point. If rec programs are all we have left to channel children's energies, to stifle and thwart the seeds of apathy, then why in blazes are we letting the Northville rec program die a slow death while complaining about the young hooligans at Hines Park?

While the student population at the high school level may be declining, the elementary and junior high populations seem to be growing at a steady rate. Growing so rapidly, in fact, the facilities that the rec department have to offer these youngsters just aren't adequate anymore.

For example, the youth soccer program in Northville was started a few years ago with only four teams participating. Today there are 800 kids playing. Baseball has close to a 1000 children in its program.

The rec department owns only four fields to house all of these kids. It leases a number of other fields that at present are just barely adequate to meet the needs of the teams. And each year there are more kids that want to play, not to mention the growing men and women's softball programs.

Of the fields that the rec department leases, the ones at Meads Mill are going to be taken away to form a new high school track and football field which will help ease the pinch at that level. But where does that leave the rec department?

At the Wayne County Training Center, one of the three soccer fields there has been closed due to a lack of money on Wayne County's part and some vandalism. Ed Kricz of the Northville rec department feels that the one field closed is just a sign that the others are to follow.

A solution? More land. It's there, but it will take money. It will take a commitment on the part of the Northville community to open its coffers and purchase land to meet the needs of the youth of this town, and of the adults who also use the rec facilities.

Kricz estimates that about 20 acres of developed land will meet the needs of the Northville community at its present rate of growth for the next five to six years. Without the land, the rec program will have to be reduced significantly in the near future.

Next door at Novi, the rec department is working on a complex that will put their program years ahead of ours. That's great, really. I'm glad they have the foresight to do what Northville hasn't. I'll wager that if they have any Hines Parks to worry about now, they won't in a few years.

What will Northville have? Just a lot of affluent people who sit in their expensive homes and drive their big cars and complain mightily when their kids have no place to go other than a Hines Park.

America was built on the energy of its youth. This energy was harnessed to tame the land and make it their own. Now that that is done, sports is one of the last viable channels left for this energy. (Oh, I know, let them find a job. But when was the last time you looked for work? There isn't much being offered to kids in or just out of high school, and even less to children who are younger.)

Finally, I know that I shouldn't really be harping on like this because I don't live here, I don't pay taxes here and I don't have children who will be harmed or helped by whatever Northville has to offer by way of recreation. But I do know this. When I decide to settle down and have children, one of my first priorities in selecting a home will be the type of community involvement I find, typified by the community rec department.

And the community will have to have a good one because I'll probably turn into the classic modern parent; full of ideals but without the slightest idea of how to teach them to children. Thank God for sports.

Soccer season drawing to a close

If league records are being kept for most goals scored in a single season, then Northville Cosmos' Eric Smolenski has to be closing in on it. The high scoring athlete notched his 15th goal last weekend in a losing cause as the Farmington Flyers downed the Cosmos 6-4. Don Potts scored twice and Jeff Terwin once for the losers, who were down 4-1 at the start of the third period.

The Northville Arsenal, behind two goals apiece by Chris Corcyca, John Larabell and Pat O'Rourke, defeated the Livonia Stingers 7-1. Matt McGrath notched the other Arsenal goal.

Doug Martin scored a goal for the Northville United team, but it wasn't enough as the Livonia Rowdies won a thriller, 1-0. The Farmington Flames shut out the Northville Black Knights 5-0 to close out 10-and-under action for the week. The Tornado-Express, Champs-Livonia 11, and Hot Spurs-Wolverines contests were all postponed.

In 12-and-under action last week, the Northville Arsenal took a 1-0 lead on a penalty shot by Brant Nicholas but lost it in the third quarter as the Plymouth Rockers scored three goals to win, 3-1.

Two Northville teams went at it this weekend as the Cobras and the Champs met in a rough-and-tumble game that ended in a 2-2 deadlock. Scott Greiner notched both goals for the Champs while Scott Turner and Fred Cahill each tallied for the Cobras.

Chris Hauser banged a goal past the Livonia 23 team's goalie, but the Northville Express lost the game 2-1. The Northville Black Knights lost 4-0 to the Livonia 21 team. There was no score available from the Tornado-Cardinals match, while the Hot Spurs-Livonia 5 game was postponed.

Craig Zollars set up a goal by Mike Ross in the first five minutes of the game, and that concluded the scoring in the contest as the Northville Hot Spurs shutout the Farmington Bobcats 1-0, Saturday. Bob Foster notched the shutout in goal.

On Sunday, Foster, who has allowed only nine goals to go past him all year, whitewashed the Livonia Raiders 3-0 to win the 14-and-under championship for the Hot Spurs. He has a goals-against-average of 1.5. Chuck Keller with an assist by Andrew Romanik notched the first Spurs goal. Scott Gala with assists by Ross and Keller got the second. Gala came back to score the third goal in the game unassisted.

Bill Butterfield rammed a shot past the startled Farmington Flyers' goalie to give the Northville Arsenal team a 1-1 tie. Livonia 4 scored four unanswered goals to beat the Northville Rowdies 4-0. The United-Livonia 6 contest was postponed.

In 16-and-under action, the Northville Arsenal's Dave DeMattos had never played goalie before but got a step in the right direction as he won his debut in the nets by beating the Plymouth 2 squad 5-1. Ken Winters with three and Steve Gribbel with two combined to score all of the Arsenal goals.

The Farmington Falcons ripped the Northville United team 2-0.

Northville Arsenal remained undefeated in 19-and-under action this weekend when they beat previously undefeated Lahser 3-1. Bobby Paul, Mark Wayne and Jim Pinkleman all tallied for the winners, who are now in sole possession of first place in their league.

In 10-and-under girls soccer action, only the Northville Aztecs could manage to get on the scoreboard. They lost to the Plymouth Blue Strikers 3-2 on Saturday. Kristin Spigarelli and Amy Spaman each notched goals for the Northville team.

The Northville Foxes and the Livonia Blue Jays battled for over three quarters of the game but the Jays scored twice in the fourth quarter to win 2-0. The Plymouth Gems took a 4-0 contest from the Northville Pink Panthers while the Farmington Furries won 7-0 against the Northville Stars.

The Aztecs used three goalies but the result was all the same as they combined to beat Dearborn Heights 1-0 in 12-and-under action. Kim McRae, Elaine Larou and Mandy Olgren were the wonders-in-net for the Aztecs. Olgren also scored the winning goal.

Amy DeMattia and Jennifer Richardson combined for three goals in leading the Northville Foxes to a 3-1 win over the Plymouth Sunshine Girls. Richardson notched two goals for the winners.

Lisa Trano scored the only goal of the game, but it gave the Northville Stars a 1-0 win over the Plymouth Demons in 14-and-under action.

The Northville Panthers went up against the Northville Aztecs last weekend and the result was a 3-1 victory for the cats. Jody Brummett, Khris Korowin and Sharon Campbell all tallied goals for the Panthers while Lisa Cahill got the lone Aztec Marker.

Marianne and Jane Moylan scored goals for the Northville Fillies, but they couldn't do it all as the Livonia Gold-diggers won 3-1.

In 19-and-under action, the Northville Aztecs and Livonia Superstars' game was postponed.

Men's softball league is underway

The Blues managed to hold off a late-inning rally that saw Winners Circle score eight times in the last two innings in a battle of the top teams in the American League. The Blues won 13-11 and with the loss the Circle dropped down into third place behind Long-Zayti.

The Blues powered out six home runs in the contest, with Tom Els leading the way with three. Bill McDonald, Jim O'Brian, and Gerald Detter added the other three. O'Brian, Detter and Els combined to knock in 10 of the 13 Blues runs. Mike Kantor had a home run for Winners Circle. Jeff Moon and Kantor combined to knock in six runs for the losers.

In the only other Blues game, they whipped Rizzo Real Estate 19-2. Bill Staron knocked in six runs in all while Todd Els banged in four. Ed Kricitz pitched and won both games. Long-Zayti, in second place in the American League with a 5-2 record, beat Belanger's 14-5 in their only action. Bill and John Sinclair each whacked home runs in leading the team to victory. Larry Michalak had three home runs in as he went three-for-three at the plate. Pat Hoolihan had two hits for the losers.

Belanger's took it on the chin twice as they were rocked 19-3 by Little Caesar's. Chuck Casaker knocked in five runs with a double, triple and home run, while Chuck Wren added two triples, driving in two runs. Graig Nabozny had a home run for Belanger's.

Spicer Tool, behind the three home runs by Jim Manderville beat Little Caesar's 12-8. Dave Austin cracked a round-tripper for the winners also. Chuck Wren had a home run for the losers, while Mike Leahy knocked in two runs with two singles. Winners Circle took on Sheehan's on the Green and came out 13-4 winner. Joey Bishop and Stan Nirider each knocked in two runs for the winners. Rob McGuire had a home run in the fourth for the losers.

The Winners Circle then dropped a 9-5 contest to State Farm. Ted Jones had a home run and knocked in four runs for the winners. Bishop and Nirider each cracked home runs for the losers.

Little Caesar's won against John Mack, 16-6. Dennis Rons had a home run and a triple for Caesar's. Mike Handcock added a round-tripper and a triple to the cause as well. Art Mach powered out a home run and a triple but it wasn't enough to prevent the loss.

In National League action, O.L.V. whipped the Yankee Carpenters 16-8 behind triples by Bill Johnston Sr., Jerry Snapp and Bill Johnson Jr., Ed Nazaradi, Snapp and Tom Freiwald each drove in two runs apiece for the winners.

Next O.L.V. took on the Brew Hogs and won 15-5. Bill Brielmaier had two home runs for the winners, knocking in three runs. Bob Turon had three hits and scored three runs for O.L.V.

O.L.V. then handcuffed the State Police team 14-4 as Bill Johnston Jr. belted a home run and Ron Renault added three hits.

The Eagles beat St. Paul's 5-3 as they scored four runs in the fourth to offset a 3-0 deficit. Dave Vaughn had three hits for the Eagles while St. Paul's could manage only three hits in total.

The State Police arrested the Northville Players 13-8 behind Ed McAllen's home run in the third. McAllen knocked in five runs in the game. Don Barrett had three hits for the losers, including a triple in the second inning. Vernon Teaker had three hits for the Players also.

Sheehan's Little Caesars scored four runs in the first two innings and hung on for a 9-7 win over Custard Time-Cutler (C/C) Realty. John Osborne belted a home run for the winners and knocked in two runs. Charles Callender had two hits and drove in four runs in a losing cause for C/C.

The Jaycees split their two games this week, losing to Custard/Cutler 5-3 and beating the Eagles 6-5. Against C/C, Bob Nix had two hits and drove in two runs to offset the home run by Bill Perche.

Record tops Wheelers

The Northville Record banged out 28 hits and pushed across 26 runs in stomping Dave's Trim Shop 26-6 last week.

Sue Heinzman led the Record to victory by knocking in four runs on three hits, including a bases-loaded double. Leslie Cook and Wendy Gross hit home runs for the winners. Jody Gatterl was the big gun for Dave's as she knocked in three runs. One of the runs came on a third-inning triple.

The Choo Choo Water Wheelers outhit Sheehan's Little Caesars 12-9, but lost the game 9-6 when Sheehan's managed to push even runs across in the last three innings of the game. Jane LaBron and Barb Reber combined to drive in five runs for the winners. LaBron drove in three with a bases-loaded triple in the fifth. For the Wheelers, Terrie Birk used a single and a double to drive in three runs for the losers.

The Northville Lab team experimented with Joe's Little Bar and the result was a loss for Joe's, 15-1. Pat Brown and Denise MacDermaid teamed to drive in five runs for the Lab. Brown had a triple and single to drive in three while MacDermaid belted a two-run home run in the third. Ann Dropkowski and Sharon Filipis each had two hits for the losers.

EDM was ruled the winner by forfeit over Doc's Jocs last week when the manager switched his pitcher to another position and then brought her back to pitch a little later. The umpire cited the new re-entry rule and called the game.

An appeal was made by Doc's Jocs and they have won it, which means the game will be played from where it was left off, sometime in July. The score in the sixth inning was 5-4 in favor of the Jocs. Jane Kaestner had a solo home run in the fourth to tie the game for the Jocs.

Ask the expert

Dear Expert,

What exercises can I do to get my golf game into shape? What are the most common mistakes that beginning golfers make? How can they be corrected?

The best exercise for a beginning golfer would be to stand with your back to a wall about club length away from it. Make sure you're in the proper stance, which is with your left foot about a quarter of a turn out towards the target and your feet two to three inches wider than your shoulders. The ball, or in this case, a whiffle ball, should be about two inches off of your left heel. Your grip should have the left hand always in front of the ball, no matter what type of club you're using, with no part of the club's grip facing the center of the body. Now practice your swing bringing the club up over your right shoulder and then down through the ball and back over your left shoulder. This way, standing next to the wall, if you spin your body out of position where the club hits the wall, you're doing the exercise wrong.

The most common mistake that beginning golfers make is to not take lessons. They should get professional help from an instructor in the PGA, who has gone through extensive training sessions to learn to teach.

Private camps help save fuel

Since nearly all Michigan private campgrounds are within a gas tankful of the state's major metropolitan areas, staying at a private campground is one of the best ways of conserving fuel and enjoying Michigan in summer, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

And to help campers conserve energy this summer, nearly 60 percent of the private parks listed on Auto Club's guide also offer off-site trailer storage for as little as $10 per month, a feature not available at any state park.

Parks on Auto Club's guide charge an average $5.07 nightly for a reserved site with electricity compared to a state park campground charge of up to $6. That price includes $5 for the campsite and $1 daily or $5 annual entrance permit. There is an additional $3 charge for campers making reservations at state parks.

Private campground fees range from $1 at Anderson's Park near Vassar, which has a playground, boat launch, trailer storage and site leasing. Those attractions and more, including electricity, showers, laundry, swimming pool and beach, park store and water and sewage hook-ups, are found at Northport's Timber Shores Resort near Traverse City, which lists the state's top nightly fee of $12.

Some campgrounds also offer unusual family drawing cards, Auto Club stated. Campers can visit a replica of an old west town at Dodge City Campground near Marysville, take a hot air balloon ride at Pinckney's Hell Creek Ranch or explore that state's only natural limestone cave at Bear Resort near Buchanan.

There are farm animals for children at 15 parks, nature trails at 13, and trout ponds or streams at 27 others.

Other private parks may not be as elaborate, but they offer features many campers want.

All but 16 list at-site electricity and nearly 70 percent have swimming in pools, ponds or lakes. Eighty-four are national-AAA inspected and 33 are highest-rated "approved" facilities.

Auto Club's guide lists 394 privately operated parks with 36,301 sites, more than half the 70,000 campsites in the state. State park campsites total 13,912, up 52 from last year. There are 3,300 state forest campground sites, a reduction of 127, while federal park sites total 2,522, up 175 from last year. County, township and city park sites total 8,200.

Half the nearly 14,000 campsites at Michigan's 72 state parks can be reserved for stays of four to 15 nights. Applications must be at a park at least 15 days before arrival and must include a $3 fee plus all camping fees, which range from $2 to $5 nightly.

Campers can obtain applications at all Department of Natural Resources district offices and park headquarters or by writing to: Department of Natural Resources, Parks Division, P.O. Box 30028, Lansing, MI 48926.

Sites at most county, township and city parks and at all state and national forest campgrounds fill on a first-come, first-served basis.

The latest in state park campground availability can be obtained from the DNR May 25-28 and from mid-June through Labor Day during normal working hours by dialing (313)256-2760 in Detroit; (517)275-5151 in Roscommon, or (517)373-1220 in Lansing.

Auto Club's members can obtain weekend campsite information by calling the organization's Travel Information Center Tuesday through Saturday between 6 a.m. and 8 p.m. and Sunday and Monday between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. from Memorial Day through Labor Day weekend.

Campers can improve chances of obtaining a site by:

- Arriving at government facilities before noon Friday.
- Obtaining reservations whenever possible if planning to stay at a private campground.
- Choosing several alternate campgrounds if traveling without a reservation.

Heinzman and Kurzawa made up a sparkling double play duo for Northville, but competition was so heavy at shortstop and second base for positions on the all-area team, that they finished as honorable mentions instead of on one of the two teams. Heinzman hit .318 on the year while Kurzawa blasted the ball at a .367 mark. Nancy Schlahter hit .327 for the Mustangs. Delores Thomas was the ace for the Howell High School team. The senior hurler finished the year with a 17-3 mark. She weaved five no-hitters, five one-hitters, four two-hitters and seven shutouts this year. In 134 innings, she allowed only 36 hits.

Kelly Hunter, a freshman, has an even better season mark. At press time she was 18-1 with her Hartland team still alive in regional playoff action. She has twirled one no-hitter, four one-hitters and nine shutouts so far this year. She also sports a .348 batting average.

"G" league in action

The Pirates remained the only unbeaten team in the "G" league with a come-from-behind 8-6 win over the Dodgers on Saturday. The loss dropped last year's league winners to sixth place. Earlier the Dodgers had lost to the Yankees 4-2. Greg Ryba and Paul Havalala had combined on a 1-hitter up until the sixth inning, but in the seventh, a series of walks and a double by Eric Donkers drove in four runs for the Yanks. On Saturday, the Yankees squeezed by the Reds 2-1 to climb into second place in the standings. The Reds earlier dropped an 8-6 contest to the Giants, who went on the whip the Phillies 11-3 to claim third place. Indian pitchers George Danaban and Chris Dominique combined to beat the Cubs on a four-hitter, 5-2. Alan Griffith had two of the four Cub hits. Taking advantage of a five-run sixth inning, the Indians also beat the Astros this week, 10-7. Jeff Bainbridge had two doubles and Mike Alexander a home run in leading the Indians to victory. For the Astros, Mike Hiltfanger, Ron Lisowski and Benji Evans chipped in seven hits to the cause, but it wasn't enough. The Astros turned around and beat the Phillies 7-5. Scott Peterson's home run in the game made it close for the Phillies. The Phillies beat the Mets 9-4 earlier in the week. Paul Stevens had a home run for the losers.

"F" league race is on

The Astros took advantage of a five-run fifth inning last week to beat the Cardinals 8-7. Gregg Young and Mike Ross paced the Astro attack with four hits. Tom Yanoshik had 19 strikeouts in the losing cause, while Doug Hulick and Mark Leinonen combined to whiff 12 Cardinals.

The Phillies kept up the fifth inning jinx against the Cardinals as they scored five times that inning to blow out to a 6-3 lead. The Cardinals came back to score four runs in their half of the inning, but couldn't hold the 7-6 lead as the Phillies scored three more runs in the sixth and two in the seventh to take an 11-7 win. Scott Worden, Chris McCormick and Dave Temple had two hits apiece for the winners while John Bradley got the only hit for the Cardinals.

Shawn Tague went the distance in leading the Phillies to a 13-4 win over the Expos. Tague gave up only six hits in notching his victory. Ernie Bock scored three runs for the winners. The Phillies turned around and dropped a 13-5 decision to the Braves next. Neal Carnes went the distance for the Braves. The game was a mixture of errors and walks as neither team managed much of an attack. The Braves had but two hits while the Phillies got three. Carnes scored three of the Braves' runs to support his own cause.

The Giants scored five runs in the fourth and six runs in the fifth to take an 11-1 win over the Mets. John Collins had two hits for the winners and Andy Dimitroff a home run. Mike Sylvestre went the distance for the Giants. Ted Sledz scored the lone Mets run.

Todd Lincoln, Jeff Cramer and Randy Kraft each collected two hits in leading the Padres over the Pirates, 12-2. Gary Metz scored three hits for the winners. Ed Bowman had two of the three Pirate hits. The Padres scored three times in the second, four times in the third and five times in the fifth.

The Reds scored three runs in the first inning to take a 3-0 lead over the Angels and it looked like they were on their way to their first win of the season. But the Angels came back to score three in the second, three in the third, three in the fourth, five in the fifth and one in the seventh to win 15-3. Phil Majoewski had four hits to pace the winners' attack.

Vince Shimp, Danny Sheehan, Tony Craig and Dwayne Hayes all combined to pitch a 1-hitter as the Padres downed the Braves 11-0. The Cardinals then beat the Padres 4-1.

The Cardinals also walloped the Mets, 14-6. All was not lost for the Mets, however, as they had earlier beaten the Braves 8-5. Fred Cahill and Fred Cook each collected two hits in pacing the Mets. They combined to score four of the Mets' runs.

The Cubs continued to thrash the pitiful Braves as they took a 12-6 win over them.

all she gives softballs are black eyes. This year she hit .461. She was named to the all-star team for Ingham County.

Shirley Dinser is one of three four-year starters for the Eagles. At second base, she has only committed four errors this year. At the plate she hit .500 while knocking in 12 runs. She belted three doubles and three triples. Sue Huff is "the best shortstop I've ever seen," according to her coach Ernie Sweeten. She hit three home runs, four doubles, four triples and knocked in 16 runs on her way to a .495 batting average. Nada Obrenovich and Nannette Nelson are no strangers to athletic accolades. Both capped their senior years by being named to the Southeastern Conference all-league team for the third straight year. Nelson, a centerfielder, was a unanimous choice which qualifies her for possible all-state recognition. The slugging senior batted .269 on the year with three doubles, two triples and a home run to her credit. She also led South Lyon in runs-batted-in with 19. Obrenovich was one of the conference's top hitters with a .447 average which included three triples and a pair of home runs. She was also one of the conference's premier pitchers with a 6-2 mark. An all-around athlete, Obrenovich was a first team selection last year on the Sliger Newspaper all-area basketball team. Cindi Dreffs turned into one of the top hitters in the Tri-County Conference. The Whitmore Lake junior batted .436 on the season with a team high 10 doubles and 26 runs knocked in. A solid defensive player, Dreffs committed just three errors at first base on the season. Patti Limb, a centerfielder from Walled Lake Central, committed only two errors at her position. She rapped the ball at a .419 clip and knocked in 15 runs. She also managed to swipe 18 bases in 19 attempts. She is a first-team selection to the Inter-Lakes Conference all-league team this year.

Passage of wetlands bill likely this year

By DAN GUIDO

The consensus of several Michigan legislators and members of professional lobby groups in Lansing, contacted by Sliger Home Newspapers, is that the wetlands bill will be passed in some form this year.

The lobbyists and legislators all agreed that there is a need for a wetlands bill in Michigan, although most said they were unhappy with parts of the current wetlands bill, Senate Bill 3.

Lining up in favor of the strong wetlands bill proposed and passed by the senate are the bill's sponsors, State Senator Kerry Kammer (D-Pontiac), Senator Robert Geake (R-Northville), Senator Ed Pierce (D-Ann Arbor), State Representative Perry Bullard (D-Ann Arbor) and members of Michigan United Conservative clubs.

Those opposing the Kammer bill are State Representative Fred Dillingham (R-Fowlerville), Representative Jack Kirksey (R-Livonia), and members of various county board of realtors, who contend that Kammer's bill is too vague and needs to be put "into better focus."

The need for a strong wetlands bill, according to Kammer, is best illustrated by the state's annual loss of 6,500 acres of wetlands per year to housing developments and agricultural uses.

"The wetlands in the state have been eliminated by 75 percent in the past half century," Kammer said. "These wetlands are a vital economic and environmental resource which we can no longer continue to destroy."

"Wetlands act as water purifiers in that they take in polluted run-off water and cleanse it. Without wetlands, the state is forced to build waste water treatment plants."

Geake agreed. "Wetlands are not wastelands. In fact, they serve many purposes. Acre for acre, for example, they produce more wildlife in numbers and variety, and more plant growth, than any other habitat. In addition, wetlands serve as filters for silt-laden run-off water and as traps for phosphates and pesticides, thereby resulting in cleaner water entering lakes and streams in our state. They are also a strong deterrent to soil erosion."

The bill as proposed will set aside approximately three million acres of wetlands in Michigan as protected lands, which cannot be developed without prior state approval.

Approval from the state is given through permits which allow wetlands owners to dredge or fill a wetland, construct and maintain a development, or drain surface water.

According to Geake, permits could be granted if the user could show that the proposed activity would not permanently disrupt the wetland, if the project would be of great economic benefit, and if it could not be performed elsewhere. Maximum penalties for first-time violations would be $10,000 a day for each day of the violation and a year in jail.

The dangers of destroying the remaining wetlands in the state include the possibility of increased river flooding and additional pollutants in our lakes and streams, Kammer stated.

"The problem with filling in wetlands is that you eliminate their potential to act as a holding pond for rainfall. Without them, the possibility of flooding is greatly increased," Kammer said.

"It happens regularly throughout the state, when we have lots of rain. When the wetlands have been filled, the run-off enters area rivers and streams which results in flooding and possible economic and personal destruction in the populated areas surrounding the flooded rivers."

Without the wetlands acting as water purifiers to strain out chemical and other forms of pollutants, the ecosystems of the streams and rivers could be permanently damaged, Kammer explained.

"Wetlands are best described as soggy areas with enough water to support vegetation and aquatic life," Geake said. "An estimated three million acres of Michigan can be defined as wetlands."

"Most of us pay very little attention to the wetlands surrounding us, but we all benefit from them. They serve as temporary basins for excess rainfall, thereby diminishing the threat of flooding and are obviously important from an environmental perspective," Geake added.

Most of the intense controversy concerning the wetlands bill involves the penalties for abuse of wetlands and the state's method of designating a wetland as such, which restricts the owner's use of the land.

"Given Michigan's unique topography, it is inherently unreasonable to insist that each and every parcel of low-lying ground which is even seasonally wet is environmentally critical. Yet legislation pending before the Michigan Senate does exactly that," Oren F. Nelson, legislative chairman for the Livingston County Board of Realtors, said.

"It's absurd that anyone could approach the Michigan legislature and call for an absolute moratorium on development, conversion, and use of millions and millions of acres of land without making any effort whatsoever to determine exactly how many acres or what parcels they are talking about."

"Proponents of the current wetlands legislation want to strictly curtail the ability of millions of citizens to use and develop their property without any idea as to what property and what people they will affect."

"The inequity of the pending legislation is greatest on the person who owns a small parcel of land. Persons developing large tracts are very familiar with the cost of ways of bureaucracies."

Nelson said the wetlands legislation would "add to the growing cancer of the bureaucracy. It's just 'Uncle' telling us how to do something else." Nelson said his group, like most real estate boards, is in favor of a wetlands bill, although the one proposed by Kammer is too strong.

"We think only large parcels should be included in the legislation, 10.1 acres

Proposed new law would protect state's diminishing wetlands of wetlands or less should be excluded, and there should be some sort of compensation for the land owners who are not allowed to develop their lands. This bill will only add to inflation and create lost jobs and revenues in the real estate profession."

Nelson's contention that property owners should be compensated for their wetlands did not sit well with Kammer.

"That's just an argument they (the realtors) are using to try and kill the bill," Kammer said. "The state will not be confiscating property, so why should we have to pay for the property designated as a wetland? This is primarily a zoning law."

Senator Edward Pierce agreed with Kammer.

"There is no way the state could compensate the wetlands owners for designating their property as protected land. This is a zoning measure, it's just like if we decided to zone a parcel of land in Northville as a single-family residential and someone comes along who wants to build an industrial park on the site."

"Well, the zoning law does not allow the developer to do that. But that is not confiscation of private lands any more than the wetlands bill is," Pierce said.

Bullard pointed out that the wetlands legislation does not take the privately owned land away from the owner and make it into public land, so it should therefore not be seen as a state takeover. Bullard said there was no reason to compensate the private wetlands owner since the bill is "more or less a zoning act which protects the life systems of the wetlands areas."

Dennis Fijalkowski, a field representative with Michigan United Conservations Clubs, said that although a wetlands bill has a good chance of passage this year, it may be that the bill finally passed is weak and unable to do much to really protect wetlands.

"There are a lot of state senators and representatives in Lansing that would like to get their names on a wetlands bill. But the problem is that many of these elected officials want to pass an ineffective bill which won't make waves in the real estate industry," Fijalkowski said.

Kammer agreed there is a possibility that such impotent bills could be passed, but said he doubted it, due to the fact that there are legislators like himself that are lobbying "intensely" for a strong wetlands bill.

"If it (the bill) dies this year, I will introduce it again next year. But I don't think that will happen, since the majority of Michigan residents want a strong bill. They won't accept an ineffective one, and neither will I."

It's the sultan of the garden

Cucumber
SALADIN Hybrid
All-America
Selections
Bronze Medal 1979

Saladin, a Saracen sultan and fabled warrior from the era of the Crusades, would doubtless chuckle over a cucumber bearing his name.

Actually "Saladin" cucumber was developed in Europe and could possibly bear middle eastern "blood" in its heritage. But its name is intended to evoke its use — for salads as well as for pickling.

"Saladin" has a nonbitter skin gene in its inheritance. These cukes can be crosscut, skin and all, for salads.

The bright green skin is so tender that you'll find yourself eating young "Saladin" cucumbers whole. Seeds are small and develop slowly, so the fruits can be eaten fresh or pickled before they begin to turn yellow with age and develop hollow centers.

"Saladin" forms medium-short-pickling type fruits — not the long, slicing fruits you see in markets.

Pick "Saladin" at any stage up to four or five inches in length for baby sweets, dill, sour or bread and butter pickles. The fruits brine well and are of a good size for packing into quart jars.

A moderate amount of wrinkling may occur in smaller sizes when pickling but this does not affect the eating quality. Spines are white and inconspicuous; fruits taper slightly at both ends.

You may see a small percentage of "pollinator" seeds in packets of "Saladin". The hybrid plants of "Saladin" bear mostly female blossoms and the pollinator variety insures a good set of fruit, providing insects and wind do a good job of distributing pollen.

Don't thin out cucumber plants that grow and look different from the others; these are plants of the pollinator variety.

Fruits of "Saladin" are ready for harvest in about 55 days from seeds sown in the garden. Vines are vigorous and spreading and provide good foliage cover to minimize sunscald. Vines can be run up strings, fences or trellises to save space.

Organic gardeners will appreciate the multiple disease resistance bred into "Saladin;" it resists scab and cucumber mosaic virus, and it is tolerant to both powdery mildew and bacterial wilt. This rugged constitution gives "Saladin" a real edge when it comes to surviving with few or no insect or disease controls.

"Saladin" should produce from five to seven heavy pickings, especially if vines are grown on soil fortified with manure or well-decomposed compost.

PINCH OF DELIGHT — Why limit yourself to just one kind of lettuce? You can live up salads and sandwiches with different colors, textures and flavors. Plant pinches of seeds of leaf lettuce, left; butterhead, foreground; and cos, right. Saving the remainder of seeds in the packets for planting successive crops at three-week intervals except during hot weather. This will assure a continuing supply of garden fresh lettuce.

Knowing your soil is key to good garden

To make the best use of the soil in your garden, you should know its properties.

Before you can improve it, you must know its difficulties. You can have your soil tested professionally at agricultural stations and universities, or do it yourself with soil-test kits.

Slightly acid soil is best for most plants. A soil's pH balance is a measure of its acidity for alkalinity.

Few plants will survive in soil more acid than pH 4 or more alkaline than pH 9, pH 7 is neutral. Most garden soil is somewhat acid and tends to become more so as fertilizers and humus are worked in and various chemicals are leached out.

To increase alkalinity, use finely ground limestone. To increase acidity, use flowers of sulfur. Both cures are available at most garden supply centers, as is peat moss, which is mildly acidic.

This plant is string of beads

The string of peas (Senecio rowleyanus) is a succulent with bead-like leaves on trailing stems like beads on a string.

Michigan State University horticulturists point out that this novel plant is easy to grow.

Pot in standard houseplant potting mix, and water thoroughly. Then allow the soil to dry before watering again.

A new book for gardeners, the Reader's Digest Illustrated Guide to Gardening, points out that of the 16 elements known to be necessary to plant growth, three — carbon, hydrogen and oxygen — come from the air and water. The rest are from the soil.

Nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium are needed in the largest amounts, are used up the fastest and are therefore the chief ingredients of most fertilizers.

Keeping the right amount of the right chemicals in your garden soil can make a better garden more of a sure thing

Plant Doctor

'It's an insect, but not Dutch elm pest'

Dear Plant Doctor:

I have hordes of small, greenish beetles in my home. A neighbor said that they are elm beetles that spread Dutch elm disease. What can I do?

M.T. — Clarkston

Dear M.T.:

Your neighbor's diagnosis is only partially correct. This insect, called the elm leaf beetle, does indeed feed on elms, but it is not the insect that spreads the fatal Dutch elm disease.

The elm leaf beetle and the small, caterpillar larvae feed on the leaves by eating away the green tissue, which leaves a lacy network of veins. A very small bark beetle spreads the elm disease. You are finding the beetles in your home because they overwinter in attics and walls. When the trees begin to leaf-out, the beetles become active and start to search out nearby elms. They feed briefly and then lay eggs which hatch into the hungry caterpillars. After feeding for about two weeks, they complete their life cycle and more beetles are produced. The whole process is repeated again before fall.

To reduce your problem, spray the elms with Sevin in early June when the young larvae are feeding. This spray will drastically reduce the number of insects in the fall. Of course, there are then fewer to enter your home. Spraying indoors is not usually satisfactory in controlling this pest, which is really an outside pest problem. The insects are confused and are really just passing through.

Dear Plant Doctor:

We have an older home with Kentucky bluegrass and fescue lawn that has been established for years. Right now the lawn looks fine, but by June the entire lawn starts to turn yellow even though we water, and during the summer some thinning of the lawn occurs. What can we do to keep our lawn healthy?

T.J. — Southfield

Dear T.J.:

I believe your lawn problem is caused by a fungus called Helminthosporium leaf spot. This disease overwinters in the thatch and becomes active as soon as the grass begins to green up in the spring. At first, the fungus attacks the grass blades and produces small black dead areas or lesions as they are called. These black spots should be visible now if you look closely.

In a short period of time, these leaf blade infections cause the blades to turn yellow, and if the infection is severe, the entire lawn can appear sick.

As the season progresses, the disease works its way into the crown area. When this happens, plants begin to die and the lawn may be thinned. Since leaf spot is favored by cool, wet weather, the severity of the infections can vary from year to year. However, we usually have conditions that are favorable. This disease can be controlled with fungicides, but it is important to remember that we protect plants from disease but seldom can we cure them.

Good control of leaf spot can be obtained by applying Dyrene, Fore, Dacnil 2787 or Acti-dione-thiram. Since prevention is the key, the first application should be made as the grass greens up. Repeat every two or three weeks as long as cool, wet weather persists. One or two applications in the fall are also helpful. Midsummer treatments are not very helpful because the disease is well established by this time. Fertilization will aid recovery, but excessive fertilization early in the spring can make the problem worse.

Fortunately, all of the improved bluegrass selections such as Nugget, Baron, Adelphi, Galaxy and Victa are resistant to leaf spot. Merion, the first improved bluegrass selected over twenty years, was originally noticed because of its resistance to leaf spot. Unfortunately, Merion has become susceptible to several other serious diseases, and solid Merion lawns are no longer recommended.

Dear Plant Doctor:

Our peach trees develop a lot of fruit, but they are always very small. How can I increase the size of the peaches?

W.N. — Farmington

Dear W.N.:

When pollination conditions are favorable, most fruit trees will set more fruits than they can mature to a desirable size. In addition to reducing fruit size at harvest, excessive fruit-set retards the development of fruit buds for the next year's crop and increases branch breakage. Alternate year bearing may result.

During late May and in June, hand thin the peaches to average six to eight inches apart. If there are two fruits on a branch 12 to 14 inches long, leave both fruits, even if they are close together. Apples and pears should be thinned to the same spacing. Plums and apricots should be thinned to about 2 to 3 inches apart. Most people tend to underthin because once a fruit is removed, it cannot be replaced. I suggest you thin several branches and compare the fruit with the unthinned remainder of the tree.

They'll hunt wildflowers

WHEN THE CONTRACTOR required a cut through the pavement on Center Street in Northville so that giant new pipe could be installed for the Randolph Drain he called on a local firm — International Concrete Drilling & Sawing Company—to do the job. The company is operated by Marian Szczepanski and his son, Victor (above). The parent company, International Diamond Tool Company, 21141 Novi Road, is one of the nation's leading diamond tool research and development firms.

DR. JOHN SWANSON, practicing optometrist of Walled Lake was a participant in the 83rd annual convention and spring education seminar of the Michigan Optometric Association at the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island.

The four-day program included optometric continuing education lectures by Drs. Freddy W. Chang and Merle K. Pickel, professors at the Indiana University Division of Optometry, and an update on matters of national optometric concern by Dr. Jack Von Bokern of Minnesota, vice president of the American Optometric Association.

Optometrists in attendance also visited displays of the suppliers of ophthalmic materials and services and participated in the annual meeting of the 700 member association.

"WE'RE NEW, WE CARE" is the motto of the new All Tire and Service Center at 4131 Union Lake Road in Union Lake.

The All Tire and Service Center is located in the former Lakeside Tire and Service Center building.

Manager Tom Phillips (pictured below) reported that the name describes the business.

"We carry all brands of tires and do all types of automotive service," he commented. "We have two full-time mechanics who do everything from brakes, shocks, exhaust, alignment, tune-ups and anything else you can think of."

Phillips reported that All Tire has been designated an official B. F. Goodrich and Michelin franchise. Additionally, the company will stock Firestone, Uni-Royal and all other brands of tires. "If we don't have it, we'll get it," said Phillips.

Phillips also reported that an extensive clean-up, spruce-up, paint-up campaign has been underway since the company opened for business April 1. The interior of the building has been completely remodeled, three new hoists have been installed and new air compressors have been added.

Phillips was born and raised in Pontiac and graduated from Pontiac Central High School. He has been in the tire business for the past 10 years. He presently resides in Ortonville and is president of the Waterford Optimist Club.

The All Tire and Service Center is open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday. More information may be obtained at 363-1541.

Poets' Corner

Hands Across the Border

There are hands across the border,
There are hands across the sea,
But the hands I long most to touch
Are beloved hands to me.

They are hands of soil and hardship
They are hands of toil and care,
But when I need to touch them
They are always, always there.

And the older those dear hands may grow,
The older they may seem,
Though they may lose life's great battle
And fashion naught but dreams—

They cling unto my heart-strings
And brighten sky and sea,
And for ever and for ever
Are beloved hands to me.

On the Brink

You've been through the backwoods of time and life ...
knowing love ...
loving.
The feeling and reality.
Now it seems that you stand on the brink of knowing ... not knowing where to go.
Or if there really exists this shelter of meaning ... or a heart one can climb into Your mind and soul will toss about continually with the waves of perplexity until the right hideaway is found to hold the secret to your life ...
that you may know your destiny upon the earth.

Pat Kotlarczyk

Time

Time passes through our lives and clocks pass time through the seasons ...
silent testimony to where our lives have gone.
Do we speak, then to the face of the clock ... and go on or shy away ... forgetting a thought or a glance ... riding away.
No matter that time will keep on turning ...
pleasures, pain, solitude or chaos will keep everyone living ... and we'll come face to face with the mechanism within all of us telling us we'll keep on.

Pat Kotlarczyk

Setting Sun

An arrow of birds
Sharp darting at the sky,
Then suddenly curve
To a magician's silks
Thence back to a dart ...
Shoot down a setting sun.

Marie Knapp's cafeteria staff is partying, too

BY JEANDAY

Marie Knapp, Northville schools' food service director for 20 years, arranged her last special school function, the buffet reception at honors convocation, on May 31.

Her own retirement party is being held from 3-6 p.m. today by the pool at the Plymouth Hilton Inn, and her staff isn't making the hot and cold hors d'oeuvres.

"You're not going to cook for me," she told her staff after working for 16 hours on the honors reception. The expert, in addition to maintaining her regular schedule of planning student meals, has arranged food for "everybody's retirement since Superintendent Russell Amerman's."

It was former Superintendent Amerman who called Mrs. Knapp to ask if she would like to be in charge of food service as the present high school opened. Her first work day was June 19, 1959.

He had learned of Mrs. Knapp from his son who was on the staff in the Livonia system. She was at Jefferson school then, but 11 years earlier began her school foods career at Wilcox school when the Livonia superintendent called, saying, "I understand you can cook."

Marie Knapp remembers she was washing clothes at the time.

The decision to accept turned out to be a good one. Mrs. Knapp and her husband, Jim, who died 10 years ago, had no children. "I love children," she says, "and have enjoyed working around them I like to be with people."

Mrs. Knapp continued to work in the Livonia recreation program, teaching cake decorating and party cooking until 1975 when Northville's Year Round School program and then the ISEP program made demands on her summers.

"I can look at something and bake and decorate it," she says proudly of her cake decorating, adding that she never took a cake decorating lesson in her life.

She did take classes to become a certified food services director, however. The wall of her office off the high school kitchen is lined with awards.

Most recent addition is the "Good Cook Award" from the ISEP program for institution children attending classes here.

Mrs. Knapp has just completed serving as Wayne County representative to the state committee on school food services. Six years ago she was president of the Northwest School Food Service Association.

When Northville School District became responsible for the ISEP program, Mrs. Knapp's staff increased from 15 to the present 44. And Marie Knapp admits she won't miss the paperwork that multiplied 50 times over from a single sheet sent to the state as a report.

She knows she will miss the rest of the job and says she "always has enjoyed it tremendously."

She still works with some staff members she hired 14 years ago.

"They don't leave unless there's a reason like sickness," she declares, mentioned that Beverly Pratt, high school cook-manager has been on the staff 14 years while Bernice Wisika, the baker responsible for rolls at the high school and Meads Mill Junior High also is a long-time staffer.

The homemade rolls, pies, cookies and cakes at Northville High have become a school legend.

"A lot are my own recipes," Mrs. Knapp relates, calling the cinnamon rolls the most popular.

Are they different from most cinnamon roll recipes?

Mrs. Knapp says not, except that she early learned students wanted them plain, without raisins or nuts.

"They do want them hot — and, oh, what a holler if we should run out," she declares.

In contrast to year's past, food service is an ongoing process now at the high school.

Beginning at 7:30 a.m. cinnamon rolls, cereal and coffee all are available at 25 cents each until lunch hour which continues until 1:30 p.m.

In case you think a food services director does the cooking, Mrs. Knapp says that's not her job today. She makes out menus, does all ordering and organizing and then puts together her staff payroll ready for the computer.

Each day's menu at the high school includes hot dogs, sloppy Joes, cheeseburgers, hamburgers, barbecue beef sandwich, soup and chili in addition to a state-specified type-A lunch.

Most popular type-A lunch, Mrs. Knapp reports, is the meat loaf served with mashed potatoes, vegetable and fruit.

"You have to offer a choice," she explains, saying that beef noodles or chicken are other offerings.

A type-A luncheon costs 75 cents. If students buy a la carte, the cost of lunch usually is about $1, says the food supervisor.

"Our kids don't go downtown too much to eat," she points out with some pride, noting that "we're doing as well though spring as we did in winter."

What's the most popular menu?

There's not a doubt that it's the annual Thanksgiving dinner served just before the holiday. That has long been a Knapp tradition.

When she and her late husband were married 39 years ago, they lived in Livonia and then Northville. As one of the new residents of Allen Terrace, she again will make her home here.

As she prepares to begin her retirement, Marie Knapp says she plans to "do something different each day and just enjoy life."

Surprise! There's lots of reasons for partying

By JEAN DAY

A first reunion of Northville Jaycee alums, those young men who turned 36 years old and are called "exhausted roosters" by the civic-minded, fun-loving organization, is being planned for June 23 at the Beck Road home of Richard and Lane Norton.

So far 25 couples have signed up to attend what is being billed as the "Relic Roosters' Reunion," reports Lesa Buckland. She and her husband John and the Nortons have been contacting former Jaycee members. They already have acceptances from the Dave VanHines who now live in Frankenmuth and from Bill and Mary Jane Broadbuss, who promise to come from Ohio.

It's $5 a person and "bring your own steak," says Mrs. Buckland. The evening's entertainment will include Jaycee film clips. Anyone who ever was a Northville Jaycee and now is over 36 is invited to attend. Mrs. Buckland may be called for information at 349-0773.

Smith-Cowie vows read in home ceremony

Shirley Smith and James B. Cowie, Ph.D. exchanged vows and rings in a 7 p.m. ceremony May 18 attended by their families at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Cowie of 845 Horton.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.J. Winkler of Albuquerque, New Mexico.

The bridegroom's birthday was chosen for the candlelight service at which the Reverend George Jerome officiated. The Cowie home was decorated with bouquets of spring flowers for the wedding and reception following.

The bride wore a long, Victorian-style ecru gown and carried a bouquet of peach-hue roses tied with matching ecru ribbon.

Suzanne Dimitroff, sister of the bridegroom, was honor attendant. She and the bride's daughter, Adrienne, and the bridegroom's daughter, Sarah, carried yellow sweetheart roses.

Other special attendants were the bridegroom's son, James and the bride's sons, David and Eric.

Andrew Florence, a Cowie family friend who had been best man at the wedding of the senior Cowies, was best man for their son.

Dr. Cowie presently is completing a summer term as professor of sociology at Delta State College in Cleveland, Mississippi, where he has been teaching for seven years.

In the future the newlyweds will be living in Northville.

'Hobbies' topic for DAR picnic

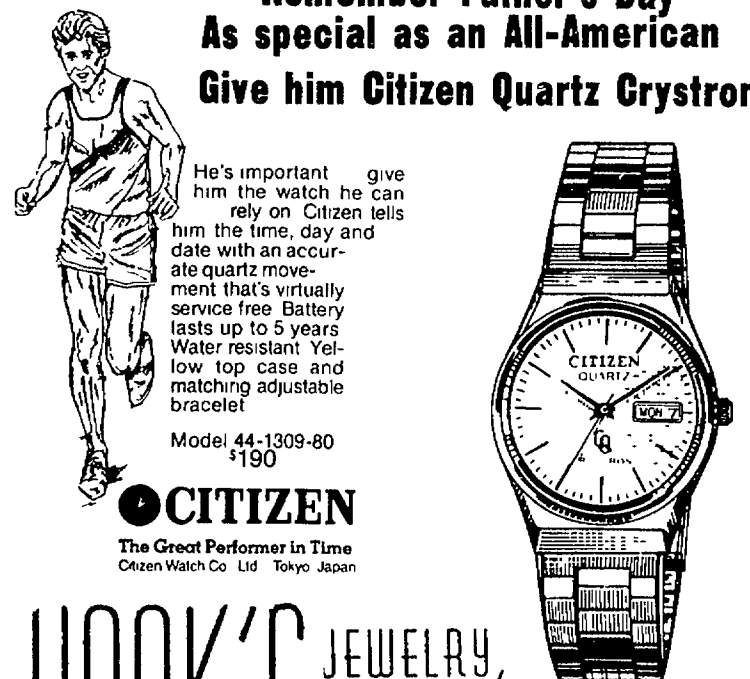

Members of Sarah Ann Cochran Chapter, DAR, Plymouth home of Mrs. Barbara Saunders, will meet at noon Monday for a picnic buffet at the "Sharing Hobbies and Developing Friendships" will be the program topic. Those attending are to bring examples of their hobbies.

Birthdays, babies reasons for parties celebrate her 85th birthday at a surprise party June 1 arranged by her granddaughter, Carole Lower at her home on Winchester in Northville Commons. Mrs. Fawley had just flown north from St. Petersburg, Florida, where she spent the winter. Former church and girlhood friends who had kept in touch by letter were on hand to welcome Mrs. Fawley, who is a member of Northville Senior Citizens Club.

It's a birthday tradition

This week is Louise Angove's birthday. An early birthday celebration was given Friday by Pearl Parmenter and Jeanne Ambler at the Parmenter home on Thayer. Ten attended, mostly long-time friends of the honoree. The potluck luncheon was a repeat of a party held for Mrs. Angove a couple of years ago. Lou Angove was presented with a group gift of a dress and her favorite cigarettes. Because she is limited in her smoking at Whitehall Convalescent Center where she is a patient, the cigarettes were an especially popular gift, as the party-givers anticipated.

Shower was for 'future boss'

Prospective fathers as well as mothers-to-be are being honored with baby showers. Jeffrey Lightfoot, a teacher in the Northville School District for 11 years and presently teaching fifth grade at Amerman Elementary, was a surprised father-to-be at a shower given by his students at school June 4. He and his wife, Debbie, are expecting their first child in August. To make the event a complete surprise, students dropped off their gifts with Carol Slattery who brought them to school along with a cake for the party. The week before the popular teacher had just completed a year-long assignment with his class that covered day-to-day budgeting, "the economics of living with inflation." At the end he treated his top six students in the project to an outing to Toronto.

She paints butterflies as freedom symbols

"I adore butterflies," declares Maria Trapani, member of Three Cities Art Club whose work is on display throughout June at the Northville Community Credit Union office at Main and Center. That statement doesn't mean that Mrs. Trapani's work is "pretty," however. "I lean toward surrealistic and tend to stay from the photographic," the artist explains. In one of the most-commented upon pieces, titled, "The Mind...The Character ...", butterflies surround a head embodied in a tree trunk. "As I saw it," Mrs. Trapani says, "butterflies mean freedom. There is in man the strength of a tree and freedom of the mind." Among Mrs. Trapani's 10 pieces on display, however, are some very appealing pictures. There's a delicate watercolor of trees and an oil painting of a field of daisies. Her trees, she says, "have a feeling of loneliness." Two other pictures are mixed media while another is a pencil interpretation.

"I strive to get a certain response from the viewer. It's all right no matter whether it's good or bad. I just don't want them to think, 'It's pretty'." Mrs. Trapani adds that she refuses to title some of her work in order to avoid "putting an idea in the viewer's head." Mrs. Trapani has been a serious artist for three years. Two years ago, her husband, Nick, and children, Cristina, 11, Paul, 10, and Toni, 6, moved from Northville to Canton. This fall Mrs. Trapani is enrolling at Eastern Michigan University to begin studies toward a fine arts degree. "He's been backing me all the way," she says of her husband. This is especially important to her as she was born in Sicily, coming her 20 years ago with her parents. She confides that she returned to Sicily 13 years ago after finishing high school in the Detroit area. But she found that she and her friends in the little fishing village no longer had things in common. She came back to Michigan, met and married her husband, who is American of Italian parents.

Thriving cooperative may expand

After several years of suffering through declining enrollments tied to lower birth rates, Northville Cooperative Nursery reports it is in "a nice position" with membership for the 1979-80 school year blossoming.

In fact, says Linda Smith, president, prospects for the new school year are so bright that the new board is considering an expansion of the current program that operates five mornings a week during the school year.

Three afternoon programs are being studied for implementation in September.

1. A play group for an hour and a half to meet twice a week for younger "not ready for prime timers."

2. An additional three-day session of the same size and format as the present Monday, Wednesday, Friday program now meeting in the mornings for the afternoons.

3. An enrichment program for those children who will be five before March 1, or by special arrangement; this would be a small group of no more than 15 in which emphasis would be placed in kindergarten readiness, creativity, individual activities and long-term projects, meeting probably three afternoons a week with a proportionately higher tuition.

Mrs. Smith stresses that the cooperative cannot implement but wishes to have a response from prospective members.

If there is sufficient response, she states, with enough children for a sustaining enrollment, programs will be arranged.

The morning programs already have good enrollments for fall. The Monday, Wednesday, Friday program has 27 youngsters signed up and the Tuesday, Thursday program also is popular, Mrs. Smith says.

Mrs. Smith, the former Linda Darnell of Northville, is the mother of three young sons and a nursery school teacher herself. She is University of Michigan graduate. She may be called at 437-0362 for more information.

At library Thursday

Program for summer readers begins

Young readers from elementary through junior high age may begin signing up for the summer reading program at Northville Public Library this Thursday. The library will maintain a reading record for each participant with all who read 10 or more books during the six-week program receiving a certificate on the final day, which will be July 26.

Participants must register for the program at the library between this Thursday and June 28.

"The sooner you register," Ann Mannisto of the library staff tells readers, "the more time you will have to add to your list of books read."

Superheroes will be the 1979 topic. The library is planning several film programs during the reading program focusing on such heroes as Superman and Sinbad the Sailor.

Learning

Learn how to read, write, and think. This is the goal of the Northville Public Library's summer reading program. The library will maintain a reading record for each participant with all who read 10 or more books during the six-week program receiving a certificate on the final day, which will be July 26.

Hair stylist to speak to Christian Women

A talk on hair styles by Alan James of the Novi salon by that name will set the theme of the Christian Women's Club "Headlines" luncheon at noon Thursday.

It is being held at the Mayflower Meeting House in Plymouth. Judy Slade is soloist for the musical portion of the program. An inspirational talk, "Crowning Glory," will be given by Peg Rankin, an author. Reservations must be made with Dorothy Mowry, 420-0472, or Jo Cone, 477-3825. A nursery is available. Luncheon is $5.25.

Past Matrons plan luncheon at restaurant

Members of Orient Chapter, Past Matrons, will enjoy their yearly "luncheon out" at noon June 20 as they gather at Mountain Jack's Restaurant in Farmington Hills.

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL

You are invited

An exciting program has been prepared by First Baptist Church of Northville for Vacation Bible School, to be held June 25th through June 29th.

"JESUS, I'M HIS ... HE'S MINE" is the theme for the school, to be held each day from 9:15 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. for pre-school children (2 years old) through 6th grade. The time for Junior and Senior High students will be 6:45 p.m. to 9:00 p.m.

The central goal of Vacation Bible School is to lead young people to know the Lord and to understand more of His Word. There will be Bible-based lessons — Missionary emphasis time — song time — contests — prizes and crafts. For information regarding Bible School call 348-1020 or 474-4039. This is a program carefully geared for each age group which provides spiritual growth and fun for all. All are invited.

Martinized?*

ONE HOUR
"MARTINIZING"
THE MOST IN DRY CLEANING

For that fresh, new look, don't just dry clean your clothes. Let us Martinize them. Because at Martinizing, we're as fussy about your clothes as you are. That's why we try to make sure your clothing leaves our store looking as though it were brand new. And because there are times when everyone needs an outfit back fast, one hour service is available at no extra cost. Martinize your clothes for that good as new look. Once you do, you'll never go back to ordinary dry cleaning again.

Jane Kaake, Schoolcraft Women's Resource Center volunteer, shows children's art

Center focuses on Year of the Child

"The walls dance with a charming collection of children's drawings," reports Schoolcraft College Women's Resource Center volunteer Jane Kaake of the display created to help celebrate the International Year of the Child.

Smiling kids run, hop, skip, jump and play ball "in vigorous affirmation that life is fun" in the exhibit on view at the center located in the Community Services building on Haggerty south of the college.

Children have drawn eagles, whales, hippos, houses, trees and pets, says Mrs. Kaake. The drawings were made by children ranging in age from a two-year-old who scribbled a message of joy to work of a 16-year-old and its promise."

Among the pieces on display is art by Mrs. Kaake's granddaughter, Cheryl Lynn Hooper, whose drawing was chosen from among 2,143 entries in a Seattle contest to be placed on a billboard.

Cheryl is the daughter of the former Janelyn Kaake and Jack Hooper. In further tribute to children during International Children's Year the center is planning four open forums to be held in the fall.

They are Positive Parenting, 9:30-11:30 a.m., September 11; Children of Single Parent Families, 7:30-9:30 p.m., September 18; Between Mothers and Daughters, 9:30-11:30 a.m., September 25; and Coping: Children of Employed Mothers, 7:30-9:30 p.m., October 2.

All forums will be open to the public with no charge and no registration necessary.

The staff under Director Jean Christensen and volunteers at the center, in planning the International Children's Year events, affirm the United Nations Declaration of Children's Rights.

They include rights to affection, love and understanding, as well as right to adequate nutrition and medical care, free education, opportunity for play and recreation, and right to special care, if handicapped.

The United Nations, they add, also includes rights to a name and a nationality and to be brought up in a "spirit of peace and universal brotherhood."

"Incapable of insincerity, and with eyes as yet unhampered by prejudices and fears, these child artists have looked at life and found it good," explains Mrs. Kaake.

Some drawings were brought to the center in response to an invitation in the resource center newsletter. The majority are products of children and grandchildren of center volunteers.

"These proud parents and grandparents," Mrs. Kaake says, "happily attest to their convictions that children are special people. Though tiring, trying, frustrating and tiresome at times, they add a dimension and depth to our lives that cannot be measured, computerized or communicated. They are the stuff of life; its essence,

Sandcastle...creating up-to-the-minute fashion for the post-mastectomy figure. Here, shown in two potentially very alluring pieces, the bra-top and bikini-like bottom. Join Our Gala Grand Opening and help us celebrate the grand opening of our new branch office.

There are gifts and refreshments for everyone,
a special T-Fal Cookware offer, and a chance to win one of two great door prizes!

SPECIAL T-FAL OFFER

Just open a new checking account, or deposit $50 or more to a new or existing savings account, and you may purchase one item of T-Fal Cookware at the special price shown. T-Fal offer also available at main office. (Only one item per new checking account or savings deposit. Sorry, cookware cannot be mailed. For your convenience, Security Bank of Novi has paid the State sales tax.)

10" Fry Pan	$ 8 00	5-quart Dutch Oven with Lid	$14 70
12" Fry Pan	$ 9 35	Rectangular Roaster	$14 70

We've opened a new office at Nine Mile and Novi Road, and you're invited to help us celebrate! Visit us during our Grand Opening, June 8-15, and join in the fun. You could win a Tappan microwave oven or a Marantz Superscope Stereo just by entering your name in the special prize drawing. Plus, every adult visitor will take home a pocket knife/keychain, and there will be free balloons for the kids.

Most exciting of all, you'll have the opportunity to buy the fabulous T-Fal Cookware at very special prices. Just deposit $50 or more to a new or existing savings account, or open a new checking account, and take your pick of the four attractive items in the picture. T-Fal is the non-stick cookware that lets you cook the modern, low-calorie way, without fats or oils. It's different from other non-stick cookware because it isn't coated. Instead, T-Fal's super-slick surface is forced into the metal base of the pan by a patented process, so there's no flaking, no peeling, and no sticking. T-Fal is made of heavy-duty aluminum and cleans with just a rinse. Discover what other cooks have discovered. T-Fal is a great way to cook.

So stop by! Be sure to enter your name in the drawing, pick up your free gift, and have some refreshments. We'll look forward to seeing you June 8 through June 15.

Door Prize Coupon

Fill out this coupon and deposit it in the entry box at the new branch office of Security Bank of Novi, Nine Mile at Novi Road or mail to Security Bank of Novi, P.O. Box 353, Novi, Michigan 48050. Only original entries permitted and must be received by the close of business Friday, June 15, 1979.
