Sammy's back

Sammy, the nine-year old cat that purportedly once walked from near Cleveland to its Northville home, is back after having disappeared from the house of 19-year-old Hannah Williamson, girlfriend of the cat's owner who has moved to Maryland. Hannah, in whose care the cat had been left, was distraught last week but now is bubbling with happiness. After reading about the missing cat in The Record, a woman telephoned Hannah last week to report that a neighbor had taken in a stray and later had given it to a friend in Birmingham. A few hours later, following a drive to Birmingham, Sammy and Hannah were reunited. "Oh, thank you, thank you," she repeated. Her boyfriend, Eric Meinicke, will be in town soon to pick up the family pet that has a penchant for long distance trips. Four years ago when the Meinickes moved to a Cleveland suburb, taking along their cat, Sammy disappeared. It reappeared later at the Meinicke house on Wing Court in Northville. "So help me it's true," said Hannah. "The whole family has been telling the story for years." And now they'll add a story about Sammy's latest adventure — a side trip to Birmingham.

EDC bypassed here; county gets requests

The Northville Township Economic Development Corporation (EDC) struggled for coherence and authority last week in the face of the powerful Wayne County EDC.

After just barely raising a quorum at a meeting Wednesday, two members submitted resignation letters, the election of officers fell apart and the nine-member board found it was the last to hear about the developments on a senior citizen village at the Wayne County Child Development Center on Sheldon.

To add insult to injury, the local EDC heard about a $3 million EDC-funded project in Northville township and then was asked to waive its rights of jurisdiction and transfer administration of the project to the Wayne County EDC.

"Somebody drew the curtain on us about six months ago," said Ross Northrop, Northville township EDC member.

The Northville township EDC was formed in July 1977 to fight a proposed state prison at the vacant Child Development Center.

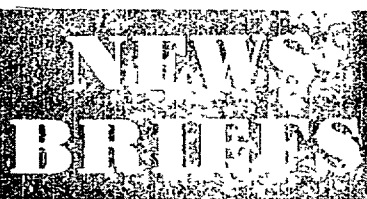

EDCs are made up of local business persons and are supposed to encourage the development of desirable local business and industry. Northville city has an EDC. So do many other communities.

But some Northville township EDC members are perturbed at what seems to be wholesale indifference to the local EDC's existence.

Both Northrop and William Bohan submitted resignations. Bohan cited personal reasons and a heavy work load and his resignation was accepted. But Northrop was persuaded to stay on the board.

At Wednesday's meeting, Wayne County EDC Executive Director Robert FitzPatrick announced he would present a plan for a senior citizen's village at the Child Development Center to the

IT'S OFFICIAL — the warmest season of the year — time for ice cream cones, swim suits and vacations will arrive Thursday. With 80-degree temperatures predicted for today, it doesn't take an astronomer to know that the sun is reaching its northern most point on the celestial sphere, and that summer's here. Enjoy it!

ANYONE interested in participating in the annual Fourth of July parade is urged to contact Jaycee James Abbey at 348-2793. This year's parade theme is "Northville: Progress with Tradition." Floats, musical groups, old cars, etc. are welcome, said Abbey, who noted that the parade will get underway at 10 a.m. on July 4.

THE MASTER PLAN of Northville township will be discussed Monday at 8 p.m. at the Northville township hall on Six Mile. The planning commission postponed the discussion until then about planning goals, future developments, and the shaky sewer capacity of Northville township.

Moore loses 4105 to 4164!

Who says single vote doesn't count?

Two election recounts were requested this week in the wake of a razor close battle for seats on the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees.

Filing for recounts are Thomas S. Moore of Northville, who lost by only one vote out of more than 8,000 cast, and Robert Ficano, who lost by 27 votes to Michael W. Burley, a Northville school administrator.

"That's incredible!" Moore gasped in his office at Ford Motor Company when informed that Schoolcraft Trustee Richard Hayward had been certified by the canvassing board late Thursday as the victor by 4,165 to 4,164.

Hayward and Moore had sought a two-year term in the June 11 election.

A second Schoolcraft election was almost as tight, with Burley of Canton township winning over Ficano, a Livonia lawyer, 4,592 to 4,565.

The Schoolcraft results were literally some of the tightest in Michigan history.

In 1950 G Mennen Williams retained the governor's office over Harry Kelly by some 8,000 votes or one per precinct statewide.

Ficano's margin was one quarter of a vote per precinct, and Hayward's was less than 1100th of a vote per precinct.

Moore asked a recount of votes in Northville, three Livonia precincts and all absentee ballots. Ficano requested recounts of all 115 precincts in the college district.

Of the precincts in the college district, six in the Northville school district voted by paper ballots. In addition, absentee ballots in the Clarenceville, Garden City, Livonia and Plymouth-Canton school districts are generally cast on paper.

Applications for recount were filed with Clara Rousseau, associate secretary of the board of trustees and administrative assistant to the college president.

Mrs. Rousseau said a recount would cost the candidates $5 per precinct. It will be refunded if the recounts change the results.

Mrs. Rousseau predicted the recount would take "at least 30 to 45 days" to complete the recount.

Prior to filing Monday, Moore said he owed it "to my supporters to run until the last out."

His near success had been a surprise to everyone. Hayward had run in 1975 and 1977 and was appointed to a vacancy last September. So when he sought the remaining two years of that term he was making his third appearance before the voters.

But whereas Hayward said he spent nothing on the new campaign and in fact had burned his signs after his 1977 loss, Moore waged a modest $220 effort. "The trustees all told me you had to run once (before winning). I figured I would do a lot better job next time based on what I learned," he said.

Political differences between Moore and Hayward are practically nil. Neither has a party affiliation. Both come from industry; Hayward from structural steel and Moore from light trucks and tractors.

On election night, vote totals showed Hayward a winner by 10 votes and Burley by 101. The official canvass conducted by a four person board showed Moore picked up 15 votes in Garden City and Hayward added six.

The election total gave Burley a 101 vote victory, but the canvass gave Ficano approximately 70 more votes in Garden City.

Top vote getter in the six-year race was incumbent Nancie Blatt, who gained a handful of votes in the canvass and was still nearly 1,000 votes ahead of the rest of the pack.

Unchanged was the 4,353 vote total of incumbent Gerald Cox of Garden City. He finished fourth and lost after one six-year term.

The recount is expected to take "some time" to complete, according to a college spokesman. Meanwhile, the college has been advised to go ahead with the seating of elected members at the July 2 election — even if it means a change later.

SEEK RECOUNT—Thomas S. Moore of Northville (right) has requested a recount after his one vote loss to Incumbent Richard Hayward (left) in the Schoolcraft College race for a two-year trustee position.

Mainstreet 78 back to voters

Informed this past week that its requested July 31 election date has been approved, the city council unanimously adopted a resolution placing the Mainstreet 78 bond issue back on the ballot.

The controversial proposal, which calls for borrowing $1.6 million and issuing general obligation bonds to finance a downtown improvement project, was defeated by a 318-260 vote last February when only 15 percent of the city's nearly 4,000 registered voters turned out at the polls.

City council members, three of whom serve on the Downtown Development Authority which developed the improvement plan, remain convinced that the project is necessary to maintain and improve the financial stability of the city.

"I think our members (DDA) feel so strongly about Mainstreet 78 that they probably will favor another vote," said Mayor Paul Vernon immediately following the February election. "The poor turnout simply does not reflect a good sampling of the people."

Council members have made it clear that they intend to improve the Dunlap Street parking lot (east of Center) with or without voter approval of the overall plan.

The parking lot, members have emphasized, is in such bad repair that it is a disgrace to the city and is

August library move slated

Northville's public library will be moved temporarily to the community building during the first week of August.

That's the word from Library Commissioner Carolann Ayers, who said the move is being made because renovation of the Northville Square interior — the present library quarters — is to begin soon to accommodate a new shopping center tenant.

The community building, which formerly housed the Northville school administrative offices, is located immediately west of the city hall.

Eventually, the library is to take up quarters in the city hall building, which is being enlarged. Construction is underway and is expected to be completed by the end of the year.

According to Mrs. Ayers, the move to the community building will be timed so as not to interfere with the summer reading program or other functions of the library.

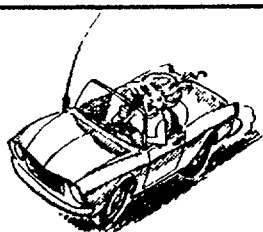

The move of books and equipment will be handled by a professional mover, she said. Some volunteer, non-moving help will be used during the transition, she added.

Leo Dinnan, director of the Wayne Oakland Library Federation, has studied the community building and has concluded that it contains adequate space to accommodate the library. A plan that will utilize all of the shelving and furniture has been developed, Mrs. Ayers said.

Remodeling of the community building (removal of partitions, etc.) has begun.

The library will occupy that portion of the community building where administrative offices were located and where earlier — before the school occupied the building —

BRIGHTON — A dam on privately owned land south of Woodland Lake is seeping and could give way, allowing flooding of nearby Hilton Road, I-96 and the City of Brighton with potentially hazardous results, including possible loss of life.

BRIGHTON — New millage proposals fell on hard times in annual school elections, with voters rejecting new taxes in Hartland, Pinckney and Howell school districts. The only millage passed was Brighton's 12.8 mill renewal.

BRIGHTON — The appointment of a new postmaster to replace Al Bosworth, who retired from the Brighton office in December, hasn't been made yet.

SOUTH LYON — Although the project is going to cost more than they had thought, South Lyon city council members have voted 5-0 to spend some $15,000 to wire the downtown historical lights.

SOUTH LYON — The voters of the school district here have sent Nicholas Akemann and Mary Stevens to represent them on the school board. In a higher than normal election turnout, Akemann and Mrs. Stevens each beat out two other candidates — including two Novi teachers — by narrow votes. He will serve for four years, she for one year.

BRIGHTON — Keeping a watchful eye on limited capacity at its sewage treatment plant, the Brighton City Council put a temporary lid on all site plans that would generate additional sewage flow and have not been submitted to the city planning commission.

WHITMORE LAKE — A gloomy picture caused by decreased student enrollment and the effect of the Headlee tax limitation amendment has convinced school board members here that they'll need a larger millage increase than expected.

NOVI — A "wait and see" attitude has been accepted by the Novi City Council as its stance toward the implementation of an Economic Development Corporation (EDC).

NOVI — "Close, but not quite there," is the only way to describe the preliminary figures from the Novi special census. Out of 21 census districts into which the city was divided only one remains uncompleted. The count for the completed districts is about 19,650.

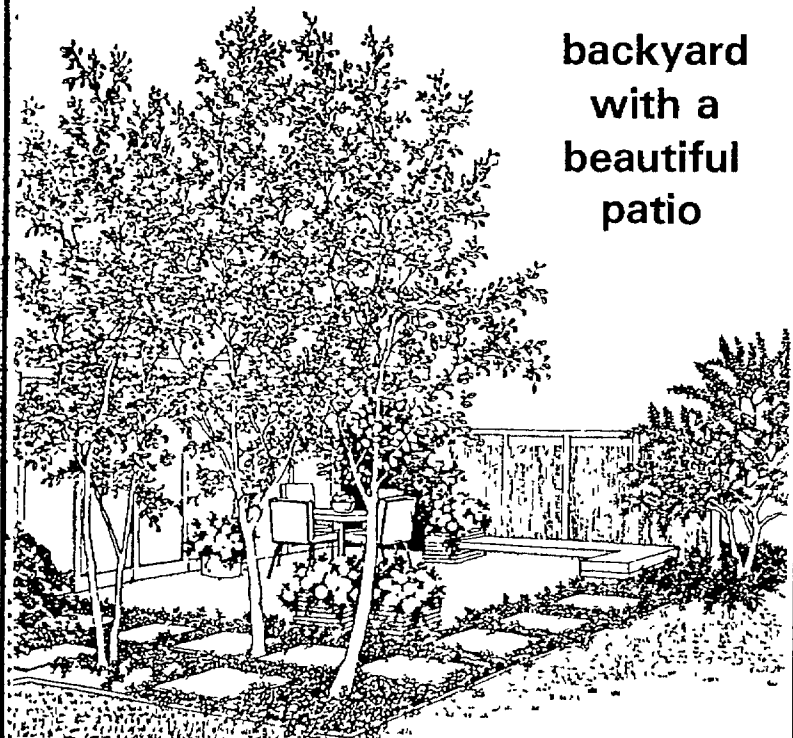

WIXOM — The Conklin Forging Company has announced plans for construction of a major industrial facility here. The company, which was founded in Detroit in 1946, is involved in the forging of rod connector clamps for the automotive industry, primarily Ford and Chrysler.

WALLED LAKE — Voters in the Walled Lake School District once again have rejected a request to levy four additional mills for a period of one year for the operation of schools.

NOVI — Raises for fire fighters and officers in the Novi volunteer fire department have been approved by the city council. Firemen, who are paid hourly depending upon the number and length of fire calls to which they respond, will receive $7 per hour now — up $1 from last year.

GOOD TIME FOR WINE

by Jim Roth

The 1977 French grape harvest, claim wine growers, was one of the best ever. The weather, which was not too promising during the summer, with few sunny days to bring grapes to their full ripeness, held on to give late fall sunshine and beautiful grapes. Wine growers predicted wines as good as those of other great vintage years, like the 1966 and 1970 Bordeaux, and they were right. Since 1977 wines had to be bottled and aged, we had to wait for 1978 for our first tastes. As you know, the wait was worthwhile.

You'll find the best of wines, for 1977 and other vintage years, available from us at GOOD TIME PARTY STORE, 567 Seven Mile Road, 349-1477. There is always a complete selection of wines for your choice, and if you purchase them by the case we will give a 10% discount off of our already low prices. Hours: Mon. thru Sat., 9 a.m.-10 p.m., Sun. Noon-6 p.m.

Novi to get big medical center

Construction of a major medical facility near the Twelve Oaks Mall is slated to get underway this year.

Representatives of the Woodland Medical Group received preliminary site plan approval from the Novi Planning Board last week for a three-story facility which will be constructed on a 12-acre site on the south side of Twelve Mile between Novi and Meadowbrook roads.

Proposed is a 96,000 square foot facility with a complete line of health care services.

James Carmody, administrator of the Woodland Medical Group, reported that provisions have been made for construction of a second 96,000 square foot facility which has been described as a "mirror image" of the initial building.

Carmody cautioned, however, that plans for the second building represent nothing more than contingency planning at the present time.

"We're merely making provisions for the future," he said. "We can double our capacity at the Novi facility if the need arises."

The initial 96,000 square foot building would make the Woodland Medical Center the largest medical facility in Novi. Providence Hospital presently is constructing an ambulatory care facility at the corner of Ten Mile and Haggerty Road.

The initial phase of the Providence facility will consist of two 10,000 square foot buildings in a one-story configuration. Providence officials have a contingency plan to add four additional 10,000 square foot buildings on the site, bringing the ultimate size of the facility to 60,000 square feet.

The appearance of Woodland Medical Group representatives before the planning board last week marked their second attempt to secure site plan approval.

Woodland representatives submitted a request for approval of a four-story facility in February, but the planners rejected the site plan on the basis that parking was proposed in the front yard.

The facility is to be developed under the city's PD-2 (planned development — "professional offices") option which prohibits parking in the front yard.

Woodland representatives subsequently went to the zoning board of appeals where they obtained a variance which waives the restriction on front-yard parking. As a result, the site plan which received preliminary approval from the planning board last week contains parking in the front yard.

Carmody reported that the only other major change in the site plan is that a three-story — instead of a four-story —

Detroit Country Day School founder dies at 93

Funeral service for F. Alden Shaw, the nationally respected educator who founded and then devoted much of his life to Detroit Country Day School, will be held Friday morning.

F. ALDEN SHAW
In his garden in 1976

The service will be held at the school he founded at 22305 Thirteen Mile at 10 a.m.

Mr. Shaw died Saturday in Ann Arbor at the age of 93. His long time home had been in Lyon Township on Nine Mile.

Born in Detroit Lakes, Minnesota, on December 26, 1885, he was the son of Charles Joseph and Elizabeth Luella (Gehring) Shaw. Early in life the family moved to Revere, Massachusetts, where he spent his childhood.

After graduating in 1905 from Boston Latin School, he studied at Harvard College in Cambridge. Following graduation in 1909 he taught on Long Island.

He attended Ecole des Hautes in Paris and in 1912, following a trip through Europe, he settled in Detroit.

In 1914 he placed a small ad in the local newspaper, announcing the opening of a small school for boys. Four students answered the call and Mr. Shaw, tutoring at his home then on Ferry Avenue in downtown Detroit, was joined by his mother who became in effect, the mother of the school.

In two years the school moved with the Shaws to Euclid Avenue. Soon after came World War I, and he enlisted in the field artillery, leaving the school in the hands of his mother. Upon his return from the war, he plunged into the redevelopment of the school. He rented the Senator Palmer Estate at Second Avenue and Six Mile, and 80 students and a faculty of six had a new school.

Assisting Mr. Shaw and his faculty were his bride, Elizabeth Amy Ellis, who became the bookkeeper and business manager of the growing school. Mrs. Shaw preceded him in death. They had been married on June 21, 1923.

In 1926 personal friends, the late Walter O. Briggs and Luman Goodenough, assisted him in forming a corporation for purchasing land on Seven Mile at Wyoming.

The next year the first graduating class received diplomas. One of the three graduates was the late Oliver Burke, Jr., world acclaimed chemist and creator of the synthetic rubber process.

The Shaws' three sons also attended the school. Their daughter, however, attended school in Ann Arbor since Country Day was not yet co-educational.

In 1956 Country Day moved again — this time to a 33-acre site at Thirteen Mile and Lahser.

In 1961, after Country Day had settled into its new site and things were moving smoothly, Mr. Shaw retired and became headmaster emeritus. Nevertheless, he taught a philosophy course every fall since then and had served as a member of the board of trustees of the school.

Mr. Shaw was an eloquent spokesman for the Essentialist movement in education, emphasizing importance of formal teaching methods — mastery of basic subjects, self discipline and education of the whole person. In his lifetime of two generations he watched education through several cycles.

He was past president of Independent School Association of the Central States, past commander of American Legion Post 147 of Northville, vice president Harvard College Alumni Association, Member of Country Day School Headmasters Association of the U.S., the Emerson Society, Thoreau League, the Detroit Historical Society, Harvard Club of Eastern Michigan and the Unitarian-Universalist Church in Detroit.

The Shaws lived on Nine Mile for more than 45 years before moving to John Knox Village in Ann Arbor in 1977.

Survivors include four children and 14 grandchildren. His sons are Charles of New York, Daniel of Virginia and Joseph of North Carolina. Mrs. George (Betsey) Bobrinsky of Chicago is his only daughter.

It was Mr. Shaw who inspired Edgar A. Guest, acclaimed American poet and father of Bud Guest, to write an impressive accolade titled, "The Headmaster." Bud Guest had been one of his students.

Numerous other boys who later would become prominent, such as "Bunkie" Knudsen, were members of his classes. Four years ago they honored him at a special testimonial dinner.

Visitation will be from 5-9 p.m. Thursday at Casterline Funeral Home, Incorporated, in Northville.

The family suggests that memorial tributes may be made to Detroit Country Day School.

OLIVER MAIN DIX

A former Salem resident, Oliver Main Dix, of Monroe, died June 14 at the Monroe Convalescent Center. He was 93 years old.

Mr. Dix had come to Salem in 1910 from Ohio. A longtime farmer at Five Mile and Salem roads, Mr. Dix was also a fur dealer and owner of the Lakeland Fur Exchange in Salem.

He was born July 1, 1885, in Paulding, Ohio. His first wife, Mary Ellen, preceded him in death on December 24, 1963. His second wife, Hassie, also preceded him in death. His only son, Chester Dix, died April 11, 1972.

Survivors are three granddaughters, Mrs. Ralph (Rose Marie) Kranz of Plymouth, Mrs. Edward (Marjorie) Kranz of Canton and Mrs. Mary Cutlip of Monroe; nine great-grandchildren, and four great-great-grandchildren.

The funeral took place June 16 at Schrader Funeral Home in Plymouth. Interment was at Highland Cemetery in Ypsilanti.

THOMAS E. JOHNSON

Funeral service for Thomas E. Johnson, 48, of 47234 Dunsany, Northville, was held June 15 at Our Lady of Victory Church where he was a member. Father Gerard Hadad and Father Ronald Thurner officiated.

Interment followed in Rural Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Johnson, who was an accountant with Michigan Bell Telephone Company of Southfield, died June 12 at University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor after being ill for five months. Rosary was held June 14 at Casterline

Funeral Home, Incorporated.

A resident of the community for 11 years, Mr. Johnson was the father of Christopher Johnson, Northville school board member who won election while a student at U-M. He now is a law student.

He also leaves his wife Joan Karlek Johnson and four other children, Sally, Greg, Tim and Tisha, all of Northville, a brother William of Plymouth and a sister Mrs. Helen Nichols of Greenville.

He was born June 15, 1930, in Detroit to James J. and Jane (Pyburne) Johnson who also survive.

FLORA EMILY KOPPITCH

Funeral service for Flora Emily Koppitch, 83, of Allen Park, was held June 5 at Harry J. Will Funeral Home in Livonia. Mrs. Koppitch was the mother of Lewis E. Koppitch of Northville.

She died June 1 at Whitmore Lake Convalescent Home after an illness of six years.

The Reverend Elmer Bever officiated at the service. Mrs. Koppitch was a member of the Angelical Lutheran Church. Interment was in Woodmere Cemetery in Detroit.

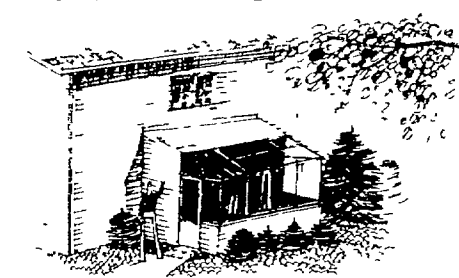

Mrs. Koppitch retired in 1969 with 40 years service as a salesperson with Wright Kay Company. She was born September 5, 1895, in Detroit to August and Augusta (Dittmer) Engel. Her husband Emil preceded her in death in 1932.

Two brothers and a sister also preceded her in death. In addition to her son she leaves three grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Novi to get large medical center building is now proposed. The Woodland administrator explained that the square-footage numbers remain the same, however, in spite of the one-story reduction. He said the proposed facility has been "spread out instead of up" to provide the same number of square feet.

Under the PD-2 option, the site plan will now be forwarded to the city council which also must grant preliminary site plan approval. The site plan will then go back to the planning board for final site plan approval before being returned to the council for final approval.

Carmody said plans call for construction to begin this summer. The facility will be completed approximately 15 months after groundbreaking.

The Woodland Medical Group currently is located in a 60,000 square foot building on Eight Mile near Lahser Road in Detroit. A total of 40 physicians are associated with the group which provides a total diagnostic outpatient center.

The Eight Mile facility contains approximately $1.5 million worth of equipment which includes medical sonar and nuclear medicine.

Carmody described the Woodland Medical Group as a multi-specialty practice which utilizes a team approach to health care services.

Each patient has his own internist who more or less serves as a family physician, according to Dr. John Mucasey, president of the Woodland Medical Group.

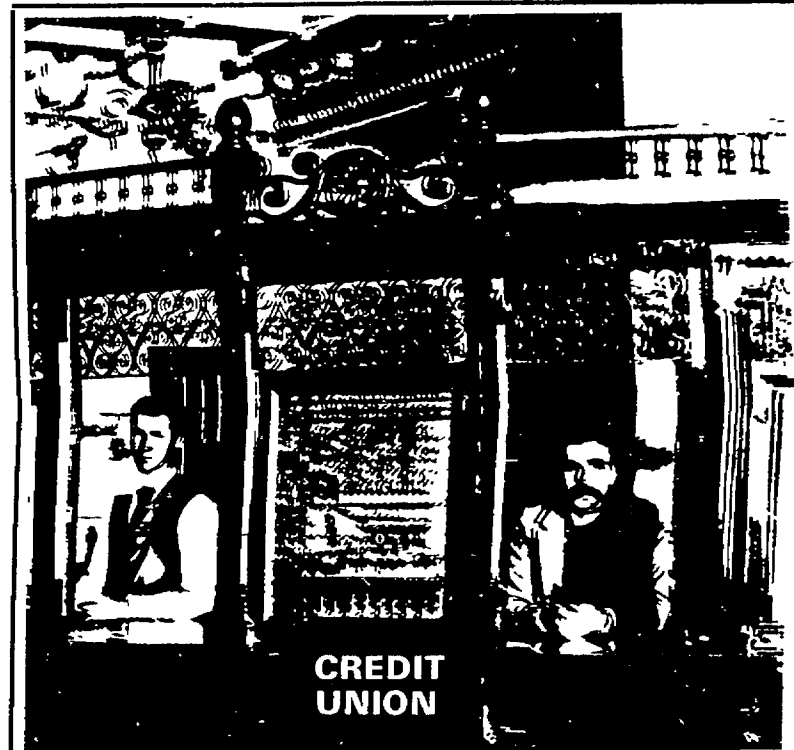

Because all the specialties are located in one building, the internist can refer his patient to the proper specialist whenever specialists are required.

The Novi facility will contain a full range of health care specialties, according to Carmody. The range of specialties includes obstetrics, cardiology, radiology, neurology, ophthalmology, pediatrics and hematology.

Carmody said the Woodland Medical Group currently contains 40 physicians and specialists. He said that number is expected to rise to 80 by January 1984.

The decision to construct a new facility in Novi is based in part of changing population trends. Mucasey indicated that the Woodland Medical Group already has numerous patients in the Novi-Farmington Walled Lake-Northville area. The Novi facility will be designed to make services more convenient to an existing patient load.

LOOKING BACK

On February 10, 1977 the Northville-Northville Township Community was included in the expanded charter of the Plymouth Community Federal Credit Union.

This change was the result of interest and hard work by Northville citizens who wanted to see the benefits of credit union membership extended to Northville citizens.

In September, 1977, the credit union opened its Northville service center on the Main Street side of the Record Building. By October, 1978, to meet the demands for growth, the credit union had expanded to the corner of Center and Main, occupying half of the ground floor.

Behind two years of quick growth in Northville was more than luck, however. In neighboring Plymouth, the groundwork of experience had begun 28 years before. The knowledge and expertise culled from those 28 years of financial experience built the foundations for Northville's credit union.

How did the credit union begin? On May 10, 1951 a federal charter was approved for the Daisy Employees Federal Credit Union to serve those working for the Daisy Air Rifle Plant in Plymouth.

In May, 1958 the charter was amended to serve the Plymouth community when the Daisy Company moved south. The credit union name was changed to Plymouth Community Federal Credit Union then. Assets were almost at the $100,000 mark.

In June, 1977 the name was again changed. Now COMMUNITY Federal Credit Union is a name that reflects the three-community field of membership.

Today, with 12,000 members and $15 million in assets, COMMUNITY Federal Credit Union is proud of the financial services it is able to offer the residents and workers of Northville, Plymouth and Canton. As your financial alternative, you can benefit from these (and other) credit union services:

- The simple interest method of computing interest on loans was begun by your credit union more than 28 years ago.
- The dividend paying share draft account started at your credit union in 1976, a few years ahead of the banks' "transfer from savings to checking" idea.
- Dividends on your savings at the credit union are competitive with any other financial institution. Compare us!
- Complete savings programs to suit your needs and dividends that are competitive.

With membership in Northville now approaching 1,000, we hope you'll soon take the time to find out what other Northville members have at their credit union: that as your financial alternative, COMMUNITY Federal Credit Union in Northville is worth telling your friends about.

16 teachers recalled, staffing levels set for next school year

Sixteen of the 38 teachers recently laid off by the Northville Board of Education were notified last week that they will have a contract for the 1979-80 school year.

Of the 16, five are tenure and 11 are probationary employees of the district.

The majority of the recalled teachers will be full-time equivalency — 13.2 — but a few will be part-time employees.

The 23 probationary and 15 tenure teachers laid off since April — due to declining enrollment and insufficient funds — have been in a state of limbo, not knowing if they would have a job with the district come September.

School officials had said previously that there would be some recalls, but the number was not known until after a board meeting June 11 when staffing levels for the next year were approved.

Board members unanimously (Trustee Richard Barron was absent) okayed a total staff of 180.4 full-time equivalency teachers for the K-12 program — 26.1 less teachers than this year.

The board also approved the Institution Special Education Program (ISEP) staff at 118 for next year — eight less than last year.

All of the 24 probationary teachers in the ISEP program were laid off in April. The majority of these instructors will likely be recalled, school officials said, with notification to be sent out as early as next week.

The number of recalls in the K-12 program was higher than officials had expected because of some unanticipated openings.

"We had three requests for leaves of absence and two resignations," Dr. Burton Knighton, director of personnel said. "This enabled us to recall a few more teachers."

Despite the fact that some financial unknowns still hang over the school district, officials remain hopeful that these staffing levels for K-12 will be final.

"We can nearly 100 percent staff the program," Lawrence Nichols, superintendent of school said. "We are fairly sure that these staffing levels are final, barring any drastic financial blows to the district because of Headlee (the tax limitation amendment)."

The breakdown in K-12 staffing for the Northville schools for the 1979-80 school year is as follows:

Elementary: classroom teachers, 57(68.5 last year); special subjects, 7.1(8.0 last year); reading teachers, 4.0(4.0 last year).

Secondary (junior high and high school): classroom teachers, 83.4 (92.5 last year).

Support staff: special education, 18(18 last year); librarians, 3.4(6 last year); counselors, 6.0(8.0 last year); talented and gifted, 1.0 (1.0 last year); and movement education, .5(.5 last year).

Tap Kirksey

Task force established

State Representative Jack Kirksey (R-Livonia, Northville) has been appointed to the governor's task force on workers' compensation reform, it is announced.

Kirksey, vice chairman of the house labor committee, was appointed by House Speaker Bobby Crim to the joint house-senate group.

"This task force will deal with one of the most important issues facing the legislature in recent years and I am gratified to be a part of it," Kirksey said.

"Our findings hopefully will influence the resolution of the nagging problems embodied in our present workers' compensation act — problems that diminish the desire of employers to do business in our state and rob workers of benefits comparable to those in other states. We hope to agree on proposed legislation by September 30."

Kirksey was also a member of the house Republican task force on workers' compensation, which recently compiled a 24-point discussion agenda and is in the process of scheduling public hearings throughout the state.

"The work my Republican colleagues and I already have done will certainly be valuable in continuing to deal with the issue in the joint task force," Kirksey said.

"We all agree that our workers' compensation law is inadequate, costly and unfair to everyone involved, but we can't seem to agree on any reform."

Employers, employees and third party interests all share a vital concern in seeing this critical issue resolved," he continued. "It's not a partisan issue, nor is it an issue which has to pit business against labor."

Kirksey said the task force will meet at least twice a week during the summer recess. One representative each from the AFL-CIO, United Auto Workers, Michigan Manufacturers Association and Michigan Chamber of Commerce will be invited as advisors to the task force.

"This advisory group will participate directly in the negotiations and represent their own interests, although they will not vote," Kirksey said.

"I think it's a good representation of business and labor and the input these advisors offer will be reflected in the final legislation."

"The task force," Kirksey said, "intends to negotiate and reach agreement on balanced reform legislation to submit to the governor and the four legislative leaders in the two houses."

"We want their approval before we introduce the legislation," Kirksey explained. "That way we will increase our chances of seeing reform finally instituted."

EDC ignored by business

Wayne County Board of Commissioners within two months.

The plan the Wayne County EDC will present is a development of the same one worked on by local EDC members and commissioned by Northville township for $10,000 last fall.

"We are pleased that Wayne County saw fit to go along with the same plan because their EDC has more clout with the Wayne County commissioners," said local EDC member William Miron. "We just have not been kept up with developments."

FitzPatrick also said the Wayne County EDC has authorized the Wil-O-Mac Corporation of Northville township to issue $3 million of industrial revenue bonds for construction of a bowling alley on Five Mile and Haggerty.

FitzPatrick asked for a waiver of jurisdiction from the local EDC since the paperwork is already in progress.

Reluctantly, the local EDC members agreed but expressed annoyance over the apparent snub of its authority.

"It seems like everyone has just gone right around us," Northrop said. "The people that Wil-O-Mac talked to certainly knew about our EDC."

But Wil-O-Mac owners and Wayne County EDC officials claim they did not know a local EDC existed at the time they approved the bonds.

"Our board took this action without being aware that Northville township had an EDC," said a May 23 letter from Paul Hanson, Wayne County EDC deputy director.

Most local members found this claim hard to believe since former township supervisor Wilson Grier, a founder and member of the local EDC, is also chairman of the Wayne County EDC.

"It is incomprehensible to me that Wilson Grier did not tell Wayne County that a local EDC existed, Miron said.

"How this could happen when Wilson Grier was on both boards, I don't know — it sounds crazy to me," Bohan said.

Grier could not be reached for comment.

Hanson said it was an honest oversight on the part of the Wayne County EDC, which was formally organized when Hanson and FitzPatrick came in February.

"We went merrily along, thinking we were doing something that Northville township would be proud of. Wilson (Grier) didn't make any mention of the fact that there was a local EDC so we thought there must not be one," Hanson said.

By the time the oversight was realized it was too late to soothe the annoyance of the local group.

Hays Wilson, a co-owner of Wil-O-Mac, said he went to Wayne County EDC first because he met member Gary Bingaman who encouraged him to apply for EDC bonds.

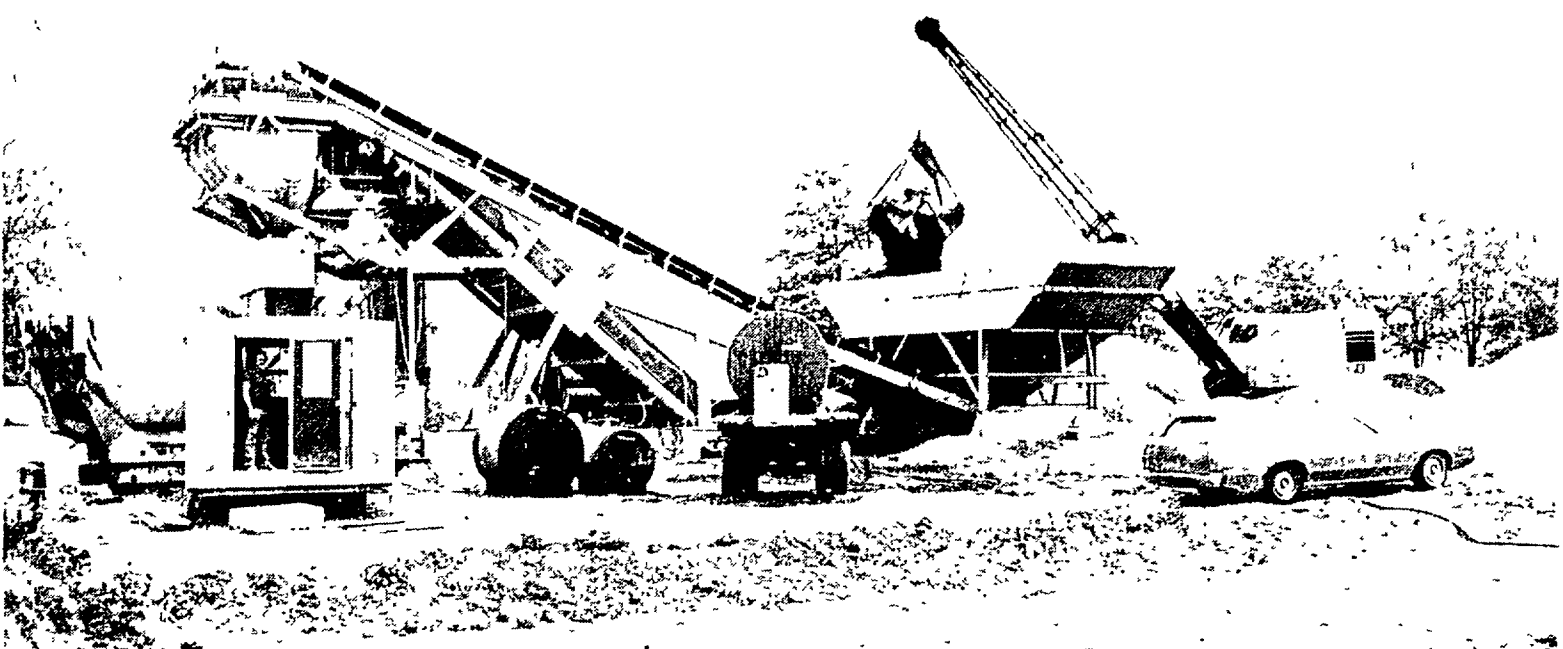

"The way I hear it, the local group is disorganized anyway so it was probably a good mistake we made," Wilson said.

Not all the local EDC members are upset with the bypassing of the local group.

"We have the best of both worlds because we have top authority but we do not have to hand carry a project through the township," said Larry Sheehan, Northville township EDC chairman. "We have not really been visible. We don't have the staff. We've never acted on another request."

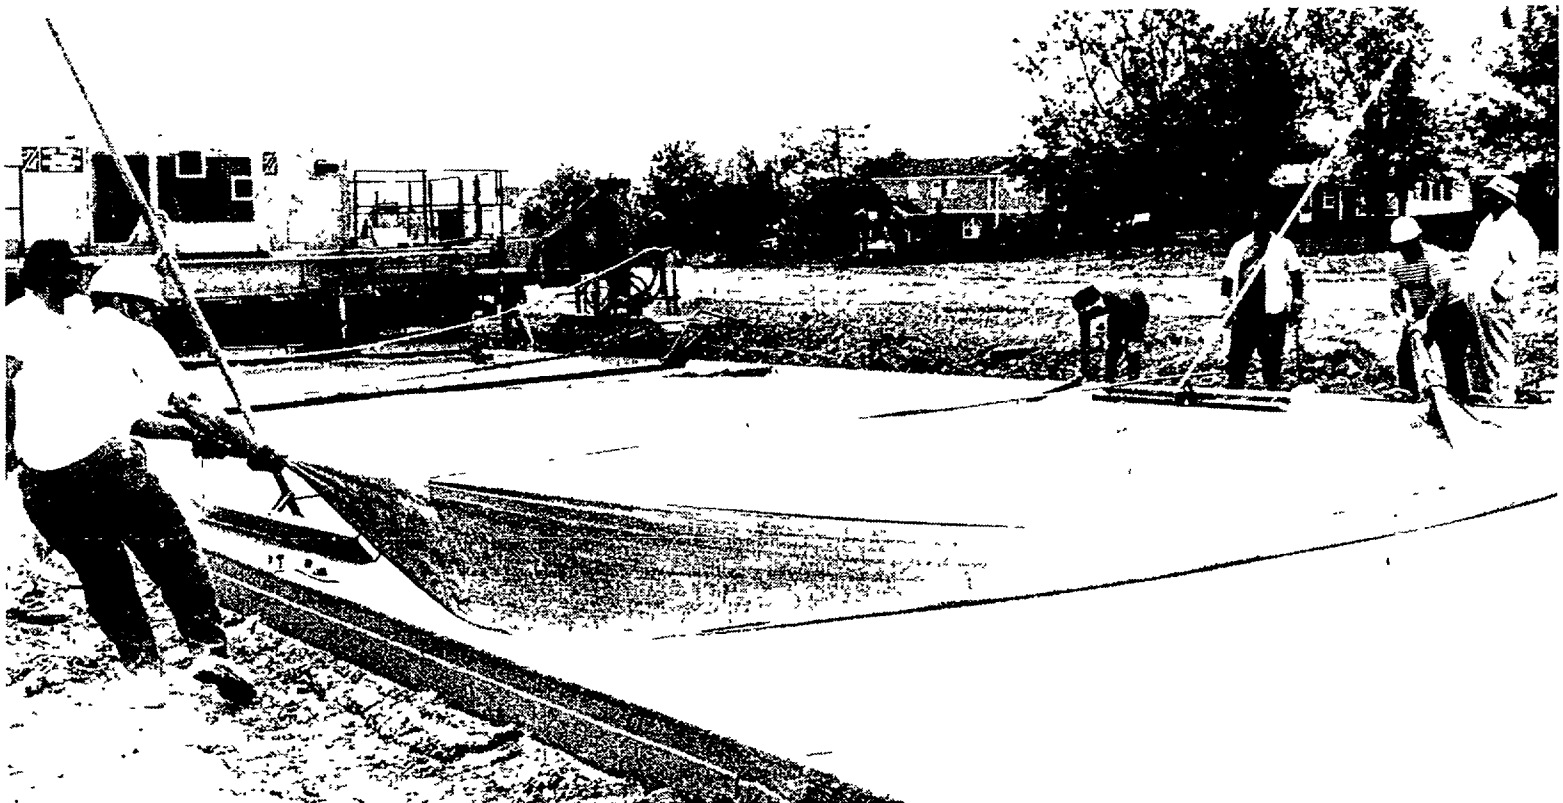

"I don't truthfully believe at this time that we want to be involved in all commercial or retail development in the township anyway. We would have to have more money or staff," he said.

Wayne County EDC staff members will have to accompany Wil-O-Mac through the Northville township planning commission and township board approval of the project.

Birthday present: plates in '81

License plate lines near last hurrah

A program which will eventually revolutionize Michigan's method of issuing license plates will get underway this fall, but the long, last minute lines will endure for one "last hurrah" in 1980.

Secretary of State Richard H. Austin said that after the 1980 phase-in years, the state's new "birthday" registration program "will smooth out and vehicle owners will be paying for 12 month registrations."

Why change to "birthday" license system?

The answers are manifold, according to Austin, but the main reason is better service to the public in making the job of obtaining plates easier. The system is designed to eliminate the long lines which have plagued Michigan motorists for years and have been a source of inconvenience and annoyance.

"This is not the only benefit," Austin noted. "It will help the Michigan Department of State maintain a (1) more even level of service to the public through the entire year; (2) reduce the extra costs of last minute plate buying; and (3) allow registration files to be updated more rapidly, increasing their usefulness to law enforcement agencies."

It should save more money in the long run, as well, because it will eliminate hiring and training temporary employees by the Department of State to handle the last-minute "rushes". And the much less hectic system should result in a significantly lower error rate in processing registrations, Austin said.

Birthday registrations will affect the vast majority ... estimates are well over 95 percent ... of Michigan's 7.5-million vehicles. It will take in all privately owned passenger vehicles and all individually owned pickup trucks, vans and trailers.

Excluded are commercial vehicles such as large trucks, semi-trucks, buses, and trailers owned by a company or other non-individual owners. Expiration date for these vehicles will continue to be the last day of February. Expiration date for motorcycles, ham radio operator plates and personalized plates will continue to be March 31 and are also excluded from the "birthday" system.

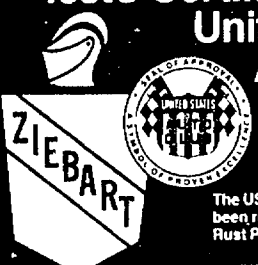

According to Austin, the birthday expiration date was chosen because it is easily remembered. Every fourth year, too, persons will be able to renew their driver license at the same time. It also provides for a more even number of registrations each month which make the issuing process quick and efficient.

Austin anticipates only one possible time where there might be some confusion on the new system and that is during the phase-in period during which a person's registration may vary from seven to 19 months, depending on birthdate. Fees, while unchanged, will vary based on the number of months the vehicle is registered.

The amount a person will pay for a registration will be plainly marked on the prepared applications to be sent out to all motorists this Fall. Mail sales which have proven so popular in the past will also be continued.

After conversion, estimates place yearly savings at about $400,000 besides streamlining the system.

County EDC joins push for senior village here

A senior citizen's village may soon be built on the property of the Wayne County Child Development Center on Sheldon, the Wayne County Economic Development Corporation (EDC) said Wednesday.

Wayne County EDC members will present a plan for the large apartment complex to the Wayne County Board of Commissioners within 60 days for approval.

If approved, the senior citizen village will be one step closer to reality for those who have only dreamed about it during the past few years.

Though details have not been finalized, Wayne County EDC officials estimate the project will cost more than $10 million. The 135 acres at the Child Development Center will be developed first as a senior citizen complex.

The rest of the 735-acre parcel may be developed as single-family dwellings and a commercial industrial park in stages 2 and 3 of the project.

The announcement was made when

Wayne County EDC members met with the Northville township EDC Wednesday at Northville Township Hall. Local EDC members were surprised the project has progressed this far. They expressed some irritation at not knowing about the progress, but were pleased with the plan itself and vowed to support it.

The plan Wayne County EDC will present to the commissioners is a more detailed version of a $10,000 feasibility study worked on by local EDC members and commissioned by Northville township from Vilcan-Leman planners last fall.

Many local EDC members are happy to see Wayne County EDC take over the project.

"Since Wayne County owns the Child Development property, we think it was fortunate that the Wayne County EDC became interested in the project," said William Miron, Northville township EDC member.

"The Wayne County EDC will have more clout with the commissioners. There was a political problem of a local EDC telling Wayne County what to do. But we are pleased that Wayne County EDC saw fit to go along with the same use plan," he said.

If the commissioners approve the plan and the sale of the long-vacant Child Development Center, the Wayne County EDC will act as the third party source for low interest bonds for construction and renovation of the site.

Even after the commissioners approve it, the plan will have to be approved by the Wayne County planning commission, the Northville Township planning commission, the Northville Township board of trustees and the local EDC.

Bob FitzPatrick, Executive Director of the Wayne County EDC said they already have a developer in mind for the project, a specialist in large senior citizen complexes.

FitzPatrick will also meet soon with Lieutenant Governor James Brickley to discuss the tight sewer capacity situation in Northville Township. He said he will try to get a promise of additional sewer capacity for the project.

Although final plans have not been detailed, the 19 cottages currently standing at the Child Development Center will most likely be renovated and converted to six dwelling units each. A two-story building on the property would house one-bedroom, two-bedroom and efficiency apartments.

The present administrative buildings would include a swimming pool, arts and crafts areas and an activity center.

Additional buildings for senior citizen apartments would be constructed on the 135-acre site.

The buildings would be 75 percent senior citizen housing, 20 percent homes for the aged and five percent nursing care facilities.

The complex would be one of the only large facilities in the country designed for house healthy, feeble, and sick elderly persons.

A demand for such housing exists, according to the feasibility study reported to the township in January.

Vilcan-Leman planners said there are only 4,000 elderly housing units in the market area, but the demand will increase to 6,000 by 1985.

A large waiting list now exists for all homes for the aged in the market area. A waiting list of 16,000 exists for buildings currently under construction.

Alhambra hosts retarded at picnic

ENTERTAIN RETARDED—The Spectrum a local musical group, was slated to entertain retarded children this morning at the annual picnic sponsored by the Alhambra Caravan - Manresa No. 217. The four are (l to r) Scott Santos, keyboards, lead guitar, lead vocals; Rob Martin, drums; Paul Barrow, lead and rhythm guitars; and Craig Raymond, bass.

Some 1100 retarded and handicapped persons from the Plymouth Center for Human Development and other local areas were to be feted this morning (Wednesday) by the local Alhambra Caravan - Manresa No. 217.

A picnic was slated in the Northville athletic area of Cass Benton Park.

Assisting the Sir Nobles of Alhambra were the Northville city and township police, Michigan state police, city and township auxiliary police, and many local businessmen and friends.

Musical entertainment was provided by Scott Santos' band, the "Spectrum." The group is made up of four young men of exceptional talents, said Alhambra spokesman Ted Marzonie. They include Scott Santos, Rob Martin, Paul Barrow and Craig Raymond.

"This was the second year Spectrum gave of themselves and their time making this a super day for all who attended."

The retarded youngsters also were entertained by the Alhambra clowns from Galacia Caravan of Dearborn Heights.

Some 3,000 hotdogs and sloppy joes, cookies, pop, milk, ice cream, and potato chips were expected to be consumed before these "special" people were returned to their homes by bus. Each carried a banana treat specially packaged for their snack at a later time.

Anticipating another big success, Marzonie expressed appreciation to "the Northville people, businesses and city folks for their contributions towards providing Manresa Caravan with assistance — whether financial or physical, to help make this day more enjoyable for our less fortunate friends."

Summer reading workshop offered children

Schoolcraft College will offer a six week summer reading workshop for children beginning June 27.

According to reading specialist and instructor Lorraine Thrush, the workshop is designed to provide strategies and materials to help children enjoy reading.

Intended for youngsters entering grades three through seven, the workshop will meet on Wednesdays and Fridays from 9 to 11 a.m. in Room 140 of the Liberal Arts Building. Students will participate in individual and group activities designed to strengthen vocabulary and comprehension skills.

Ms. Thrush holds a specialist certificate in teaching the emotionally impaired and learning disabled as well as a master's degree in reading. She will be assisted by Margaret Nelson who is a retired reading specialist and a volunteer at the college. Participating families are asked to have an adult family member available to assist the workshop for one morning session.

Registration information may be obtained by calling the registrar's office between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. at 591-6400, extension 307. Schoolcraft College is located at 18600 Haggerty Road in Livonia.

New student group at Schoolcraft means business

By TIM RICHARD

If Schoolcraft College's new Student Assembly is a clique, "then it's a clique of persons who care about this college."

Added Patti Funke, one of the seven organizers: "we decided to work at the grass roots. The other student government did things for themselves. That's the reason we got into the millage campaigns."

After being without a student government for a year, Schoolcraft has an organization that will be officially recognized and ready to function in September, according to Edward McNally, vice president for student affairs at the community college.

McNally last year lifted recognition of the old Student Senate after it was unable to elect members, agree on a budget, develop an on-campus program, make appointments to college standing committees and even to meet regularly.

At the moment, the Student Assembly is still an ad hoc group of volunteers. The group built up a solid reservoir of good will with the administration and board of trustees by joining the campaigns in the March 26 and June 11 millage elections.

"Three of us were deputized as clerks and registered voters on campus," Miss Funke said. "We ran the telephone center. Some nights I had 13 or 14 people there. We posted the campus, distributed flyers and made announcements at all scheduled functions."

Patrick Newman, the college's counselor for student activities, pointed to another reason why the Student Assembly is likely to be more successful than its predecessor.

"It's less complicated," Newman said. "The previous structure was excellent — for political science students to practice political science, one-upmanship and table games. The previous constitution was too time-consuming and sophisticated," he said citing a cumbersome meeting structure.

Another problem was that some Student Senate members were heavily into off-campus political lobbying. The new group, said Secretary Diane Jablonski, wants to "promote enthusiasm for the college."

• Miss Jablonski listed Student Assembly's main jobs:

• "To recognize campus clubs and organizations and review their constitutions."

• "To serve as a forum for students' concerns."

• "To make recommendations on student participation on standing committees." Among the committees which have student participation are academic probation, alcoholic beverages, disciplinary standards, financial aids, curriculum and instruction, cultural and public affairs, athletic, and college council. The college council is a group of faculty, staff, administrators and students — three of each — which meets with President C. Nelson Grote.

• "Review college policies and procedures" in such areas as registration, discipline, graduation requirements and dress code."

No one elected Student Assembly. It was formed last year from interested students pulled together by Vice President McNally. Some moved on, some stuck. A couple of members were added by the group's appointment.

"It doesn't look like elections do very well," said Miss Funke, bemoaning to October 1977 when nine of Schoolcraft's 8,300 students turned out to elect student senators.

"We interview applicants and pick officers from within the group," said Chairperson Ruth Myers.

Campus politics is a hard thing to get students worked up about at a community college. Member Cindy Price noted Schoolcraft's average age is near 30, many students are married, the average class load is 7.4 hours (about half the full-time load), and many have jobs. Two-thirds are in vocational and technical curriculums while campus politics tends to draw liberal arts students.

The student Assembly activists are these four women and three men:

Chairperson Ruth Myers, 22, is in liberal arts and will go on to business administration. She professes to be the group's lone Republican. She served on the old senate and has been on the disciplinary standards and academic probation committees.

Secretary Diane Jablonski, 20, is a business major who has served on the student disciplinary standards committee. The administration urges her to keep complete records of the assembly's work during the last year for accreditation review by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Cindy Price, 21, is a former student senator who is majoring in secondary education and psychology.

Patti Funke, 23, is the best known publicity of the group. She is majoring in accounting, plans to attend law school, is gearing up a 1981 bid for the board of trustees, eyeing future races for the U.S. Senate and Beyond. She managed trustee Nancie Blatt's first place finish in the June 11 election as well as the telephone center and spends so much time at the college that she threatens to bring her sleeping bag and move in.

Ed Fehlman, 24, is photo editor of the Campus Globe, the student newspaper. The lone engineering student in the group, he has served on the student senate, the disciplinary standards committee and the college council.

John Adam, 19, is the recognized philosopher of the group. He plans to major in labor relations. He has served on the alcoholic beverages committee and is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa honors group.

Myron Mavretich, 20, is a business student who plans to go on to Wayne State University. This is his first campus activity. He was appointed recently on the basis of his hard work.

The last qualification is important because if you ask the Student Assembly members what makes their group different from their predecessors, they will answer in a chorus:

"We work."

Attic prowler leaves trail

An apartment attic prowler was reported to Northville township police June 11 when a young woman said a trap door leading into her attic from a bedroom closet had been opened. She noticed it opened late in the evening. It had been closed earlier that day, she said.

Officers checked the attic and observed a matted path through the insulation across the attic floor, which was a common attic to all apartments. A trap door to another apartment had been opened as well, police said.

A bicycle was stolen from the patio at a townhouse complex last Friday, township police report. Erma Claus told police her 27" Raleigh Rampar R-1027 was stolen sometime during the night. The bike worth $145, was not locked, she said.

A rowboat was stolen from Silver Springs Lake between March and June, owners Harry and Jean Weaver of Northville township told police.

The boat, worth $430 was cut from its chains and lock. The Weavers found the boat lying nearby with a jagged hole in the bottom. The chain and lock were missing, police said.

Another boat was stolen from under the nose of a 15-year-old would-be fisherman last Wednesday. Joe Humphries left his grandparent's 10-foot rowboat by the water for fifteen minutes Wednesday morning while he went inside to get tackle and bait. When he returned, the boat was gone, police said. Neighbors said they did not see or hear anything.

No charges have been filed following a fight in Northville township June 10, township police said.

Ronald Lutermoser, 40, and Marlene Bondie, 40, both of Livonia, were treated at St. Mary Hospital — Lutermoser for a broken nose and Ms. Bondie for cuts on the back of the head.

Debra Jean Maxam, 21, of Northville township, received cuts on her arms, police reported.

Robert James McKenna, 33, of Northville township, was uninjured.

More than 20 complaints were received about excessive noise resulting from Saturday's motorcycle races at Northville Downs, Northville city police reported.

One motorcycle was reported stolen.

Part of Miller deal

City council sale of 'dump' land without bid process draws flak

With the preliminary agreement already signed, the sales exchange of three acres of former dump property by the city in the G.E. Miller dealership deal came under attack this week.

down payment for purchasing the Miller property at Hutton and Main was Leon Bonner of 547 Fairbrook.

Bonner criticized council for selling the three acres without public bidding, contending that the $30,000 figure fell far short of the "dump" property's value.

Challenging the propriety of giving up three acres of city land adjacent to the DPW yard as $30,000 worth of the

A most in the same breath, Bonner offered council $40,000 for the three acres.

Alone, "the property's not for sale," snapped Mayor Paul Vernon, who bristled when Bonner questioned the integrity of the council. "It's part of a total package deal."

City officials want to acquire the Miller property along Hutton, between Dunlap and Main, so that it can be redeveloped commercially as part of a downtown revitalization program. Once it has acquired the property, council plans to resell it to that developer it deems most advantageous to the city.

Several developers reportedly have voiced interest.

According to the mayor and other council members, it was the three acres of undeveloped land — at the south end of the former dump, adjacent to the railroad — that helped persuade Miller to sell his property to the city.

A member of the Miller family will operate an auto repair service and a recreational vehicle storage facility on the Gerald Avenue site, according to City Attorney Philip Ogilvie.

Miller will continue operation of his new-used car business on Dunlap, possibly up to May of next year, where upon the dealership will be moved to a new location in Plymouth.

As the agreement now stands, Miller will sell the property for $225,000, with a $62,500 down payment requirements. Annual payments thereafter will be $62,500 plus six percent interest.

Negotiations for the purchase of the Miller property had been in the works for more than a year, with former mayor A.M. Allen representing both the city and the Northville Area Development Corporation, the non-profit corporation through which the city negotiated the deal.

If the city had not been willing to "exchange" the three acres, Miller simply would have increased the base price, argued the council.

When Bonner suggested it is unlawful to sell city property without either open bidding or a vote of the people, Councilman J. Burton DeRusha read a portion of the city charter which permits such sales provided they are deemed in the best interest of the city.

If city statutes do not mandate open bidding then it ought to, responded Bonner.

Bonner continued to argue the matter, repeating that the city council ought not have sold the property without public bidding, whereupon the mayor cut him off.

"You are entitled to your opinion," said Vernon. "We will end this discussion now."

New living quarters

Construction started at Providence center

Six new apartments now are under construction at Our Lady of Providence residential center at 16115 Beck.

They are replacing larger residences at the home for about 100 developmentally disabled youngsters ranging in age from 6-26.

"Each apartment will be built as home-like as state regulations permit and will be home for eight youngsters," Sister Theresa explains.

February, 1980, is the target date for completion of the new living facilities. When plans were approved for the apartments, it was announced that present dormitory facilities then would be used for classrooms and offices.

Students at the center range from mildly and moderately disabled to severely so. They are accepted with no restrictions of race or creed for a complete program of academics, self-care techniques, behavior management, pre-vocational and vocational training.

"Most of the residents are much involved with family and community and will possibly return to their own homes. Foster homes or visiting homes still must be found for some of the youngsters," Sister Theresa adds.

"Our Lady of Providence has as its aim the providing of a positive environment for the development of the whole human person, leading to lives of dignity, productivity and happiness," she states.

Grounds of the facility on the western edge of Northville township provide outdoor recreational facilities, including a pool.

In addition to living areas, there is a colonial-type main building for administration offices, special services, kitchen, library and classrooms and chapel.

Don Borthwick contemplates his future

Members of the Northville High School graduating class of '79 basked in the bright sun last Tuesday evening as commencement speaker Charles Curry spoke about their futures. Superintendent Lawrence Nichols, attending his first graduation in Northville, shook hands with the graduates as they came forward to receive their diplomas. As the last of 341 documents was presented by Dr. George Aune, high school principal, a huge hot-air balloon — compliments of grads' parents — could be seen rising above the bleachers outside the football stadium. Ready to take on the world, the new graduates let loose with screams of joy and headed out to face the world.

Parasites inhabit waters in 5 counties

Swimmer's itch can ruin relaxing weekend at lake

By DAN GUIDO

If you are like most people in the Detroit metro area, you probably enjoy taking a weekend off and heading to one of the many lakes in northern lower Michigan, for a weekend of fun and relaxation.

But if your trip takes you to a lake in Cheyebogan, Muskegon, Mason, Manistee or Grand Traverse County, there is a possibility that your vacation could be ruined by schistosome dermatitis, also known as "swimmer's itch."

The five northern counties were identified by Steve Sadewasser, an aquatic biologist with the Inland Lake Management Unit of the DNR, as those that have numerous lakes in which swimmer's itch is prevalent in the summer.

Swimmer's itch has been a widespread problem throughout the Great Lakes region for several years. It is caused by non-human schistosome parasites which exist in the bloodstreams of ducks, red-wing blackbirds, grackles, goldfinches and other birds common throughout Michigan.

The ducks and other birds pass the parasite into lakes through their feces. Once in the water, the parasites burrow into small physid pond snails, which inhabit many of Michigan's lakes and streams.

When a human enters a lake infected with schistosome parasites, he comes in contact with the parasites and they float in the water in search of a snail to feed on. When the human leaves the lake he carries the parasite with him.

The result is that the parasites enter the human "host", but only up to the second sensitive layer of the skin called the dermis. The parasites then die, since they are non-human, and unable to survive in the human body. As they die, the body through its anti-infection system rejects the parasites.

Large red bumps soon begin to form on the infected person's skin, which are generally accompanied by severe itching. The infection is not dangerous, but severe infections can cause a person to lose sleep and sustain a high temperature.

One of the best ways to prevent swimmer's itch is to rub off briskly with a towel after swimming in a lake you suspect as being infested with schistosome parasites. Since the parasites are contained in the film of water you wear when you leave the lake, it takes up to 15 minutes before they can enter the skin.

The parasites are microscopic and impossible to see with the naked eye. If swallowed, they will be destroyed by the digestive system.

Fortunately no human schistosome parasites exist in the United States, although they are quite numerous in other parts of the world.

In its normal host, a duck, or other bird, the non-human parasite enters the blood stream soon after penetration and becomes a full fledged worm. Its eggs travel out of the blood stream and into the feces of the bird before eventually entering the snail.

According to Sadewasser, there has been no reported cases of swimmer's itch in Oakland County since 1973.

Sadewasser's records were "not complete" and he was unable to put a date on the only two Oakland County cases he said were reported since 1929 up until 1973. He did say the complaints received in that period involved White Lake in Highland, and Kent Lake in Milford.

Robin Ward, chief lifeguard at Kensington Metro Park, said there has not been a reported case of swimmer's itch at Kensington in "years and years." Ward said the parasites tend to inhabit larger bodies of water, or stagnant pools, and not lakes the size found in Kensington.

However, Dick Mikula, also an aquatic biologist with the DNR, stated that the presence of schistosome parasites in lakes has nothing to do with water quality of the lake or its size.

"You can come in contact with swimmer's itch at most any lake around, as long as you have the right species of snails in the lake which can support the parasite," Mikula said.

Mikula said a severe swimmer's itch problem exists in Glen Lake in Leelanau County. He also said swimmer's itch is a problem in lakes he referred to as "your better quality lakes," such as Houghton in Roscommon County.

Swimmer's itch has also been a recurring problem at Dunn Lake in Barry County, Sadewasser said. There has also been reports of a severe infestation of parasites in Duck Lake, located in Calhoun County, where the residents of the area have asked the owner of the public beach to close down until the problem is corrected.

Swimmer's itch occurs most heavily in June and July when the parasite leaves the birds and begins to seek out its snail host, Mikula said.

The most common way to rid a lake of schistosome parasites, Sadewasser said, is to kill the "host" snails with copper sulphate. Copper ions, suspended in the sulphate seep into the snails and kill them.

Unfortunately, the copper ions "kill essentially anything they come in contact with," according to Sadewasser, and therefore must be used carefully or they could wipe out many of the other forms of life found in parasite infested lakes.

Sadewasser said state crews of biologists from the DNR used to apply the chemical in the affected lakes, but are no longer available due to the elimination of funds for the program.

He said people who live on an infested lake could apply the sulphate themselves, provided that they contact the Inland Lake Management Unit and obtain a permit.

"There is no charge for the permit," Sadewasser said. "However, the permits are necessary in order to enable the DNR to regulate the dosage of copper sulphate and the methods in which it is applied," he added.

"The sulphate must be used at its point of maximum concentration, which when done correctly, leaves the copper ions right on the bottom of the lake," Sadewasser said.

"Also, in order to be the most effective and least destructive to other aquatic life, the sulphate should only be applied in areas where there is a large snail concentration. Many people just use the sulphate in a small area in front of their beach, which only stops swimmer's itch for a short period," Sadewasser said.

Persons wishing to rid their lakes of schistosome parasites should contact the DNR in order to receive their permits and learn the proper way to handle and use copper sulfate. Those who use aquatic chemical pesticides without a permit are guilty of a misdemeanor, Sadewasser said.

William Hoeft of Whitmore Lake said his Honda 750cc. motorcycle worth $850 was stolen from the Northville Downs parking lot during the show Saturday evening, police reported.

Several pieces of graphics equipment were stolen from the Graphics Department at Northville High School, it was reported Monday.

Sometime during the past week, $150 worth of Craftsman tools, a verigraph machine and a calculator were taken from the graphics room, police said. They have a suspect.

Two 14-year-old girls reported seeing an elderly man expose himself to them as they walked past his house on the way to Cooke Junior High school last week, Northville city police reported.

There have been several other complaints about the same occurrence from other young students. Police are investigating the case.

Two Northville young men have been charged with the larceny of two marble grave markers from Allen Monuments, 80 South Main, Northville City police reported.

Timothy John Cahill, 18, and Allen Barrow, 17, were spotted by a police surveillance van as they picked up two grave markers and put them into the trunk of their car just after midnight June 6, police said.

In the process, the two knocked over and chipped two other grave markers.

Police, who have been keeping regular surveillance on Allen Monuments since May 29 when $13,000 worth of damage was done there, witnessed the entire incident from a police van parked nearby.

A Livonia man has been charged with felonious assault for threatening another man with a knife June 2, Northville township police reported.

James Wilson, 21, of Livonia, pleaded not-guilty to the charge of assaulting William Rinole, 19, with a pocket knife at 11:50 p.m. June 2 in the parking lot at McDonald's restaurant on Five Mile.

Wilson posted $2,000 bond. A preliminary examination is set for June 21.

A trial date of July 10 has been set in district court for Terrance Cairnes, 21, of Northville township. He is charged with assaulting a police officer and for disturbing the peace. He has plead not-guilty.

State cautions youths on summer job pay

The State Labor Department advises youths looking for summer jobs to be wary of employers that abuse summer-time employment.

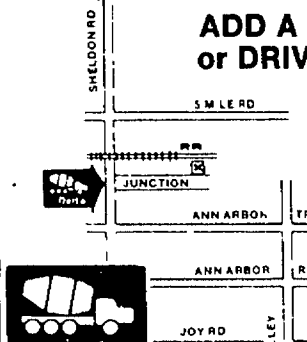

Don McGrath, head of the labor department's Wage Hour Division, which is responsible for monitoring violations of the wage hour law, said the majority of the state's employers follow the regulations, but those few that don't create problems.

McGrath suggests youths looking for summer jobs should know the "costs" of their summer job, or they can end the summer with a deficit.

"Youths should be particularly careful of jobs that send them away from home," McGrath said.

"These are the kinds of jobs where most often you can end up with a deficit at the end of summer."

"The ad that reads, 'Waiter, waitress wanted, spend summer in beautiful surroundings, play free tennis, and have access to pool,' some times means that you'll also be doing the gardening, be expected to play tennis with guests and wait on pool side customers."

Between now and the Sidewalk Sales, volunteers will be sorting books on Wednesdays and Thursdays, from 1 to 4 p.m., in the storage room next to the library in Northville Square. Volunteers would be appreciated, a spokesperson said.

Cairnes was arrested June 8 in the Perry Drug Store at the Northville Plaza mall on Seven Mile.

An off-duty state police detective made the arrest after Cairnes used repeated profane language against the Perry Drug pharmacist, the police report said.

Cairnes and his mother both fought off the state police officer until township police arrived. Cairnes is free on $150 bond.

discouraging shoppers.

The proposed bonding issue would cover the cost of this parking lot improvement together with a large number of other public improvements.

Without the bonding, the city is unable to finance the overall project but it could, perhaps, finance the parking lot improvement out of the city's budget, according to council.

Council members, however, have their fingers crossed that voters this time will approve the overall project, which provides for sweeping improvements in the business district — including among other things, parking lot resurfacing, new sidewalks and lighting, and landscaping.

The parking lot landscaping, lighting, bench, tree skirting and sidewalk brickwork at Hutton and Main are examples of the kind of improvements planned elsewhere in the downtown, explained city council, which authorized the Hutton-Main project dramatize the overall plan.

Mainstreet 78 does not provide for any improvement of private property, officials have emphasized after learning that some voters last February thought public monies would be used to "fix up downtown buildings."

All of the improvement will be on property owned by the taxpayers, they explained.

Mainstreet 78 was inspired two years ago by council when it became alarmed at the declining taxbase in the city's central business district.

Although the city plans to issue general obligation bonds, it proposes no tax increase to pay off those bonds. Rather it has introduced a tax-increment financing plan that "captures" tax dollars produced by private development and improvements.

The question as it will appear on Tuesday, July 31 will read:

"Shall the City of Northville, Counties of Wayne and Oakland, Michigan, borrow the principal amount of not to exceed $1,600,000 and issue its General Obligation unlimited tax bonds therefor, for the purpose of paying the cost of improvements to the Downtown Development district of the City, including parking and street improvements, creation of a Town Square and all necessary related costs?"

The estimated life of the improvements to be financed from the bonds is 20 years or more.

There may be more life in the old town than the casual observer would suspect.

But quite possibly it has taken some cutting (too-close-to-the-truth) remarks and a second chance election to awaken merchants in downtown Northville.

This week 22 local business persons responded to a call from Danny Collins to sit down at his Old Mill Restaurant and talk about what's happening to downtown Northville.

Admittedly, the energetic young man and his partner, Kosta Kitrakis, have keen personal interest in the welfare of the business district. They have just purchased the Old Mill and they intend to spend thousands of dollars more in the development of a second floor restaurant. Additionally, they acquired a liquor license at considerable expense to go along with the new restaurant.

So they are staking their own future on Northville. It is not surprising that the comments of a shop owner forced to close by circumstances at Northville Square are a little bitter for the likes of Danny Collins to swallow.

Northville's business district was described as an "old fashioned run-down town" ... where merchants don't remodel their buildings "because they can't get along ... there is no community spirit ... everyone is pulling against each other."

At the same time the city council has just decided to call for another election — July 31 — on the question of making public improvements in the downtown business district. The "Mainstreet 78" project failed to win support of voters last February by a 318 to 260 vote.

The questions at the hastily-called Monday afternoon meeting became: "What is wrong with Northville's downtown? Are we fighting one another? Is it true we have no community spirit? Is business really bad?"

Chamber Secretary Essie Nirider said he couldn't recall a more spirited, better attended merchant meeting than Monday's. There was a positive attitude. Many of the merchants revealed plans to improve their stores; others expressed solid confidence in downtown business; everyone said they wanted to work to gain full community support for Mainstreet 78.

They intend to form a campaign committee to get out the vote for Mainstreet 78.

Most of all they want to inform residents of the city that Mainstreet 78 is not a boondoggle to spend public monies to make private improvements.

In fact, the dollars to make improvements in sidewalks, public parking lots and provide beautification through landscaping will come from added tax revenues generated from the private-money investment in the downtown business area.

The objective of Mainstreet 78 is to reverse the taxbase trend in the city's central business district so that instead of increasing taxes to residential property owners it can be expected that the additional downtown taxbase will ease pressure on residential taxes.

On a small scale an example of proposed Mainstreet 78 improvements exists at the corner of Main and Hutton streets on the sidewalks and in the parking lot.

Most Northville merchants would probably agree that the downtown has its share of grumblers who would resist any improvement simply because it represents change.

But a strong nucleus exists that sincerely wants to see Northville become a better community in which to live and shop. And they are determined to overcome the negative obstacles that face anyone trying to do anything.

They are quite willing to invest their own money in the future. And they are fortunate to have a city council and manager who can see the advantages of a healthy business district. These officials are making the effort to use the tools provided by the state (tax increment financing) to finance the project without jeopardizing the city's normal, nonimprovement fund tax dollars.

To accomplish this it requires the understanding and support of all city taxpayers. They must vote their approval of the plan so that lower interest bonds may be sold to pay for the public improvements.

And these taxpayers must be convinced that repayments of the bonds will indeed come from private improvements made by property owners in the business district.

At least 22 merchants say it can be done. They are pulling together.

Speaking for Myself

Acupuncture therapy?

Dr. Ali Shafqat

Yes

I appreciate the opportunity to comment on acupuncture and I am for it.

First, it is an ancient art of the practice of medicine, dating back probably to 3000 years ago. If acupuncture doesn't work it would have been abandoned years ago.

Second, acupuncture is part of the Eastern medicine. If Western medicine has contributed a great deal to the east, why not let the Eastern medicine serve the west as well.

Third, some one argued that it is not a cure but what about aspirin? Does it cure the headache when you take one? Acupuncture does not cause side-effects or reactions as medications can do. Why not use it when necessary?

Fourth, does acupuncture hurt? Needles do hurt but not like injections. In comparison with the pains or sores one suffers from illnesses, it is insignificant.

Fifth, does acupuncture cover a major illness when the pains or other symptoms are free? A thorough examination to rule out any serious disease such as cancer is indicated prior to acupuncture when necessary.

Sixth, what does acupuncture do to the medical economy? Does it hurt or help it? To a factory or shop, any way to relieve the pain and restore the function of the joints or organs of an employee will reduce generally the excessive money otherwise used in clinics and hospitals. This applies especially with chronic ailments. Therefore, acupuncture is a savings to both the victim and the public.

Last month I spent two and a-half weeks visiting China especially to see my healthy mother-in-law who is 98 years old now. As both my husband and older son Paul are physicians, we traveled 2,000 miles by train inside the main-land China, the land of panda and pagoda. We visited the cities such as Peking, Shanghai, Nanking, Sian, Chengtu and Canton. We found the people usually have their choice as to being under the care of either western or eastern medicine and that acupuncture is a much more prevalent practice in China. It has helped and is still helping the millions in that big nation there, why not also in America?

Stella K. C. Wang, M.D.
Acupuncture Clinic
Brighton

No

Traditional acupuncture is placement of needles at strategic points rigidly defined by texts with 2000 years of authority as specific therapy for either acute or chronic conditions.

The claim that acupuncture can cure many acute and chronic illnesses like pneumonia, asthma, heart attacks and strokes has been found to be without any scientific data to support it.

However, acupuncture as a mode of inducing anesthesia in patients undergoing surgery and also for relief of pain has some validity.

On May 19th a study group formed by the National Academy of Sciences visited the Peoples' Republic of China to gather data about modern applications of an old remedy — namely acupuncture. The group found that many patients tolerated surgery with little or no discomfort. It was found that acupuncture does not abolish pain totally.

By all appearances acupuncture anesthesia provides control of pain in only 15 percent of all surgical patients. When prolonged undermined time (30-40 minutes) is coupled with uncertainty of ultimately satisfactory pain relief, acupuncture anesthesia loses much of its appeal.

This observation in no sense denies potential benefits from simple and safe methods of analgesia. Rather it needs further refinements and clinical trials.

JACK W. HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

As the messenger handed her the telegram, she trembled a bit, certain that something awful had happened to her husband.

"All it said was that he had been wounded in action," recalls Kathryn Bachert on this the 35th anniversary of the invasion of France and the wounding of her husband.

It was months before the government would say any more about his injury, and Hadley Bachert carefully avoided mentioning anything about it in his letters.

"I guess I was a little suspicious, but like a lot of wives I was praying it wasn't serious."

Kathryn tried only half-heartedly to dig out more details.

Then one day she was notified that her husband was being sent to a hospital in Atlantic City — a converted hotel along the boardwalk.

"I bought a ticket and hopped aboard a train," she recalls. It was an anxious trip. She so wanted to see her husband but she worried about what she might find.

When Kathryn, a registered nurse, walked into his hospital room, her surprised husband looked at her in painful embarrassment and said, "Well, Kate, you can see what happened."

One of his legs had been blown off and the other was terribly shattered and doctors were still uncertain if it could be saved.

Probably because of her nursing training, Kathryn was better able to cope psychologically with the injury than was her husband. She became his crutch physically and mentally.

Many months later Hadley was released.

Mayor, soccer players, class party draw praise

To the Editor:

In this day when knocking government officials is the "in" thing to do, I want to tell you about a mayor of a small city who is so wise, hard-working, cares about people, is a good Christian (puts his money where his mouth is), is very much loved by his wife and family, gets paid practically nothing for serving as mayor, is cheerful, and a true friend.

His wife is no slouch either! She plants flowers in the city, takes homemade goodies to the police who have worked on Christmas, is always cheerful, plants flowers at the senior citizens home, loves her husband and family.

And we here in Northville are so lucky to have these people, Norma and Paul Vernon, living and serving the citizens of Northville. I know from personal experience what great people they are. I am truly grateful I live in Northville and I hope I can consider them as friends.

Thank you, Mayor Vernon, for everything you've done for me and my family and for the City of Northville.

Thank you and other city officials for finding suitable tenants for the white elephant known as Northville Square. The new tenants are not in competition with our good merchants on Main Street but will generate business on Main Street by eating at our local restaurants, buying something for their children at the Little Peoples Shoppe or Braders, and by taking home gifts for their wives from one of our very fine gift shops.

Paul, you are a great man. I am only one of your grateful citizens of Northville. You are doing a super job for all of us. Thank you for being the type of person you are.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Shirley Matthews

To the Editor,

The senior class party, Around the World in '79, was truly an outstanding endeavor. The creation of decor, which was mostly designed by Bill Dayton and produced by so many parents, was so professionally done, a sight to behold. It was a pleasure, for the first time, to have the party viewed by the public. Due to the length of graduation the viewing was cut very short and we are sorry about that, but I am sure that those of you who did see it enjoyed it tremendously.

My heartfelt thanks goes to all the committee chairmen and to all of those parents who put so much time and effort into making the party such a huge success. To the many merchants and business people in the community, who made so many contributions, thank you, too. And Ted Mapes of the DPW, you were great.

The biggest success of any party, however, is the guest list. And you, the seniors of '79, made all the effort worthwhile. You were appreciative and delightful. You are a wonderful group of kids, a credit to the community, and it was a pleasure for all of us parents to plan the party and entertain you.

By Representative Jack Kirksey

Since there has been much confusion generated by recent questions concerning the gasoline allocation system in Michigan during the current energy shortage, an explanation of which outlets and businesses get how much gasoline and why is offered in this week's column.

The Emergency Petroleum Allocation Act of 1973 set up a program to take care of problems when supplies drop below suppliers' obligations. The allocation system is based on historical purchases. Two special rules now in effect set up partial controls governing sale and distribution of gasoline.

Heating oil and diesel fuel are generally exempt from the allocation program.

Under the program, individual retailers, distributors or wholesale purchasers are entitled to a volume of gasoline each month based on purchases during the corresponding month of a base period, November, 1977 — October, 1978.

If there is not enough gasoline to go around, suppliers will divide up the fuel according to an "allocation fraction." For instance, if a company has enough gasoline to equal only 85 percent of its obligations, each customer would receive 85 percent of his purchase of the corresponding month of the base year volume.

There are, however, two types of priority users. One category includes emergency vehicles, energy production firms, sanitation services, telecommunications services, passenger transportation services, aviation services and cargo and mail trucks. Customers wanting gasoline in these fields will receive their total current requirements less the allocation fraction.

The second group of priority users includes agricultural users and the

Again my thanks to all who put so much effort forth, you, the parents were fantastic, too.

And to the class of '79 may you always have the best of all successes.

Sincerely,
Jean Boll
Senior Class Party Chairman

To the Editor:

It should be noted, Northville, that the Northville Stars 19 and Under Girls' Soccer Team completed the season undefeated, with a 9 win, 2 tie record. This is the most outstanding team ever to compete for Northville in this tough division of the Western Suburban Soccer League. The Stars swept everything — the division title and the tournament cup in post-season competition. This effort was duplicated only by the Northville Hotspurs 14 and Under boys' team. They, too, deserve appropriate recognition.

I am most proud and delighted because, as their coach, I respect efforts by talented athletes and quality team performance. I am grateful to soccer for girls, since it gives girls' teams the opportunity to share a great struggle for the joy in victory or the thoughtful character building evaluation in defeat.

Our Stars were the victors for Northville, and they are listed as follows:

called insulting

To the Editor:

As parents of a graduate from Northville High School, Class of 1979, we felt it a must to remark about the commencement program of June 12, 1979.

The students conducted themselves in a manner that all parents could be proud of. The salutatory and valedictory addresses given by William Lockwood and David Hooten were excellent.

Unfortunately, the dignity of the program was marred by the commencement address given by Charles W. Curry, asso. director admissions and scholarships, Michigan State University. His remarks were embarrassing and insulting to graduates, their families and friends.

We hope that in the future the speakers are screened more thoroughly, so that graduation will be a ceremony instead of a nightclub act.

Sincerely,
John and Carol Romanik

Jack's 'friend' packages defense

Editor's Note: Hugh Lockhart, Ph.D., former resident of Northville, presently is a professor of packaging at Michigan State University. Here he responds to a column written by Jack Hoffman, which decried "needless" packaging of today's goods. Dr. Lockhart used to be Hoffman's friend.

Dear Jack:

Congratulations! In your May 30 column you identified one of the most important features of the motivation function of the package. In today's nearly clerkless stores, those chunks of cardboard and plastic provide a message surface on which to motivate you and me to buy. At the same time, they provide, at minimum cost, a package large enough to demotivate the less than honest from swiping the razor blades and hiding them in purse or pocket. Imagine the cost of doing all of that with a glass milk bottle — or a clerk at $3 — $5 an hour.

True, the convenience function of the package is not well served by these cardboard and plastic wonders — they are buggers to get open. But think! By the time the wayward shoplifter has opened one to make off with the razor blades, he will have made so much noise and taken so long, that the cashier and the manager of the store will have had ample time to note the problem, plan strategy, call the police, and have the pinch made in time for an early lunch. However, the wily shoplifter, knowing all of this, will avoid the razor blades and the pinch, once again demonstrating the demotivational power of this particular package.

Now, as to fishhook packages: after an exhaustive survey of the Lansing market, I can find no fishhook package longer than eight inches — longer than the fish we catch? Speak for yourself Jack Hoffman! Here again is the motivational function at work, for surely such a package will challenge the prospect to buy the fishhooks in hope of catching a fish bigger than the package.

Jack, you are right. For me it is a bread and butter issue, since I earn that, and some jam, teaching ways to make the package perform its function better — i.e. to be easier to open or harder; to be a little smaller or larger, depending on the need for protection, convenience and motivation in response to the vagaries of the complex distribution system that more or less serves our economy.

Former friendly professor from the hospital and he learned to walk again with an artificial limb. But even so, walking was painful and difficult because his natural leg was permanently crippled. Thus, during the ensuing years when Hadley served as clerk and as supervisor of Novi township and later as owner of a real estate firm, Kathryn happily and lovingly served as his legs.

In this anniversary month of the invasion and on the fourth anniversary of Hadley Bachert's death by heart attack (four years ago yesterday), I am reminded that courage takes place on and off the battlefield.

Throughout their marriage, Kathryn suffered circulation problems in her legs. It made her own walking — for herself and her husband — difficult and painful. But no one remembers her complaining, just as no one remembered her husband complaining.

Two years ago, the circulation problem became so painful that she could no longer walk. Her physician ordered her into the hospital where she was so sedated with drugs that she recalls nothing except waking up one day to discover that both of her legs had been amputated.

Guide slices grocery bills

If you're looking for ways to reduce your grocery bill, you may want to try picking your own fresh fruits and vegetables or buying them from roadside markets now that the weather is warming up here in Michigan.

State Senator Robert Geake (R-Northville) can help you locate the pick-your-own farm or roadside market closest to your home by providing you with a copy of the 1979 edition of "Country Carousels," a guide to pick-your-own farms and roadside markets throughout the state, which is published by the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

"Picking your own fresh fruits and vegetables, or buying them from roadside markets, is an economical way to assure that your family receives the nutrition these foods provide," Senator Geake noted.

The directory lists approximately 900 farms and markets in alphabetical order by county. It gives the name of the farm or market, directions for getting there, produce available, and a telephone number to call for information on product availability.

Also included in the directory are a map of the state by county and a list of Michigan's crop calendar indicating the approximate opening dates for about half of the state's 50 agricultural crops.

Senator Geake encourages anyone who wishes to obtain a copy of the "Country Carousels" directory, available at no cost, to call his State Capitol office at (517) 373-1707, or to write him, c/o State Capitol, P.O. Box 30036, Lansing, MI 48909.

Dislikes ridicule in sports story

To The Editor:

We are writing this letter in reference to the article which appeared in the June 13, 1979 Sports Section of the Northville Record concerning "G" league teams in recreational baseball.

In this article one team was singled out as being, and I quote, "pitiful." Mr. Sportswriter, these are eleven and twelve year old boys you are talking about, NOT the major leagues. We were under the impression this was an instructional league for boys to learn the fundamentals of baseball and to enjoy the game of baseball. Every team cannot be a winner, therefore, you certainly did not have to criticize a group of boys who try to play baseball to the best of their ability but have a losing record.

You not only have "labeled" these boys among their peers but also have demeaned and demoralized a whole team. And we repeat, this is not the big league. We only hope this letter helps to keep some other team from being publicly ridiculed in the future just because they have a losing season.

Before you ridicule eleven and twelve year old boys again, Mr. Sportswriter, perhaps you should remember the old saying: "If you can't think of something nice to say about someone, don't say anything at all!"

All night party—parents' gift to grads

By KEN KOVACS

The last diploma was awarded as the sun set in the background and a hot-air balloon rose above the stadium bleachers.

The 1979 graduates of Northville High School stripped themselves of caps and gowns and prepared for a trip "Around the World in '79". This, the 15th all-night party put on by parents of the graduates, was the most spectacular of all.

Entering the cafeteria — through a hallway lined with artistic reproductions of business establishments in downtown Northville — the graduates were greeted by a painted scene of San Francisco's Chinatown and a miniature Golden Gate Bridge — complete with flashing warning lights.

Hanging from the walls were scenes from well-known cities in Italy, France, Spain and other countries. Outside in the courtyard, which was set up as a sidewalk cafe, spot lights illuminated the Eiffel Tower — a wooden structure about 25 feet high.

Parents, dressed in western attire, tended bar at the "Longbranch Saloon" — serving only Coca Cola, of course.

The band played rock and roll and disco music as the graduates kicked up their heels in celebration.

The food — chicken and pizza — was plentiful and the music loud.

Parents, who had paid $12 a student and worked on decorations for the party for countless hours, said they were very pleased with the bash.

"It was a labor of love," said Bill Dayton, who was instrumental in creating the many detailed wall decorations. "I think the kids really enjoyed it."

Dayton estimated that the cafeteria decorating committee alone spent some 400-500 hours on the decorations.

"We weren't planning to get quite as elaborate as we did, but the enthusiasm was so great, we just kept going," he said.

The wall decorations were so impressive that many of the students took them down and carted them home. Two boys, who will be rooming together at Michigan State University this fall, took the Golden Gate Bridge to put up in their dorm room.

Some 300 graduates — about 88 percent of the total class — attended the party this year — more than in recent years.

Approximately the same percentage of graduates came to the first all-night party — following the commencement exercises of the class of 1964. The theme was similar, too, as parents said "Bon Voyage" to the graduates as they walked up the gang plank to the party.

The all night party idea, which some say came from Walled Lake schools, was initiated to keep the graduates from going out drinking and getting into trouble.

Over the years the event has grown and become the 'thing to do' on graduation night. And the graduates seem to appreciate the efforts of their parents.

"I was very much impressed with the gratitude expressed by the students," Barbara Willoughby, treasurer for this year's parent group, said. "There wasn't one graduate who passed by me after the party that didn't stop and say 'thanks.' And I am only one of the many parents."

Along with the Northville High School graduates, Marie Knapp, food service director at the Northville schools for 20 years, will not be coming back next year.

The retiring Mrs. Knapp said that of the all-night parties she has served, the class of '79 was "the best eating class". Eat, dance and party as the graduates did, Dayton said that he believes the parents offered their kids much more than just a party.

"Through our theme showed them what the world has to offer," he said.

Whipple Estates golf open's strictly for fun

By JEAN DAY

"Adversity" in the form of a planned adjacent subdivision only has served to bring together already compatible neighbors in Whipple Estates Subdivision.

On the first Saturday of this month neighbors hauled their garage sale wares to the front lawn of the William Secord home. Husbands as well as wives became salesmen welcoming browsers and buyers throughout the day. Neighbors also bought generously from each other, and more than the $1,000 needed to pay off remaining legal fees connected with a law suit filed against the North Beacon Woods developer was raised.

The following Saturday, June 9, the subdivision held its third annual Greater Whipple Marching, Drinking, Eating and Golf Open beginning at 10 a.m. at Brooklane Golf and Country Club.

Under established rules, winners of the previous year plan the next outing. Therefore, a few weeks ago "Herman Schl-ingdingle" and "Katrinka Yabits" who turned out to be Bill Secord and Cheryl Mattingly sent out a flyer on this year's party.

At the end of the day of golf, participants gathered at the Mattingly home. Trophies were presented to the new winners, Lanny Mattingly and Judy Somershoe.

Cutler farewell for Weisses

When you've lived in a community for more than 40 years, there are many, many friends to bid good-by. A final farewell for George and Gladys Weiss will give their friends this opportunity before they move to their new home in Arkansas June 27.

Louise and Jim Cutler are hosting an open house from 5-9 p.m. this Sunday at their home at 965 Grace for their neighbors, the Weisses. All friends of the couple have an open invitation to drop by.

On June 10 long-time friends gathered at a party given by two former Northville couples, the Donald Schwendemanns and the Edwin Langtrys at the Schwendemann home in Algonac.

Dohenys brush up on German

When the Jack Dohenys invited Frau Elizabeth Lorek to be their house guest for a month, Edie Doheny found a German tutor and brushed up on the language she used to speak as a child. She explains that she knew Frau Lorek speaks only German and that she would be serving as interpreter.

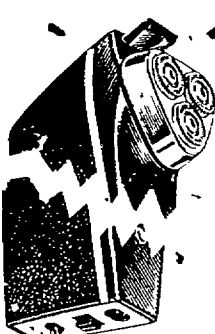

The Dohenys met their guest, who left Sunday for Chicago and home, when they spent Christmas in Germany with their daughter, MaryJo. From last September through this March the Kalamazoo College junior had been on a foreign study program at the University of Erlangen near Nuremberg.

Anne Mannisto of the Northville Public library staff signs up Ann Marie Whitmer and Georgia Kontos

Library's seeking Super Heroes for summer reading program

A party "for readers only" will be one of the rewards at the conclusion of the Northville Public Library's summer reading program geared to elementary-age youngsters.

Registration now is being taken at the library through June 28 for the program which has as its theme "Kids are Super Heroes."

Participants may read either fiction or non-fiction to reach the minimum of 10 books required to receive a certificate at the conclusion of the program July 26, reports Anne Mannisto of the library staff.

In previous years, she adds, at least one third of the participants read more than 10. Some read as many as 40 or 50. "We only stipulate that the books they read be not-too-easy and at their grade level," she explains. Youngsters report on what they have read when they return the books.

Mrs. Mannisto explains that the librarians won't have time to hear complete reviews of what has been read, but they hope parents will assist by becoming involved in what younger readers choose.

The library will be maintaining a reading record for all who sign up and will chart each reader's progress on the bulletin board.

The Super Heroes theme was chosen by the Wayne County Federated Library System in observance of the International Year of the Child.

At the final party refreshments will be served and participants will see a film, "Mr. Magoo's Favorite Heroes." This will be open only to readers earning certificates.

Three other film programs will be held at 2 p.m. on upcoming Thursdays and are open to all youngsters using the library.

This Thursday "Superman: the Bulletproof," "Superman in Jungle Drums" and "Superman in the Mechanical Monsters" will be shown.

July 5 "The Voyage of Sinbad the Sailor" will be featured.

July 19 will have two attractions, "The Legend of Johnny Appleseed" and "Paul Bunyan."

Daughter born to Armstrongs

Becky and Randy Armstrong of Plymouth are proud parents of their first child. Their daughter Courtney Ann was born May 12 at St. Mary Hospital with a birth weight of 6 pounds, 12 ounces.

Mrs. Armstrong is the former Becky Wangeman of Northville.

The baby has two happy sets of first-time grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Wangeman and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Armstrong, all of Northville.

Marriage ceremony follows graduation in East

One week after his graduation from Berklee College of Music in Boston Herman A. Wedemeyer, Jr., exchanged marriage vows with Chansonette Buck in a 2 p.m. ceremony May 26 at historic Christ Church in Cambridge, Massachusetts.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman A. Wedemeyer of Nine Mile Road, who have returned from a two-week stay in Boston. They attended both their son's graduation and the wedding.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Melene Dorn of Gloucester, Massachusetts, and the late David Buck.

Officiating at the double ring, Communion service in the 220-year-old church was the Reverend Cal LeMon, pastor of Cambridge Christian Center.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother Fred Buck and mother at the altar decorated with baskets of spring flowers.

A special "Wedding Trilogy," composed by the bridegroom for the ceremony, was played for the first time in public by two violinists and a cellist.

A vocal group of Susie Ziegler, Cora Bond, Siri Wannamaker, Robin Schuman and Tanya Colmant from Cambridge Christian Center sang "Charity," a spiritual song by James Owen Colin, inspired by and based on I Corinthians, Chapter 13.

Mark Baldwin of the Christian Community Center played a guitar and sang "Communion Song" by Barry McGuire.

The bride's floor-length gown of ecru voile was fashioned in Empress style with square neckline and long sleeves.

A lace cap held her illusion veil.

Mrs. Rose Carr of Cambridge was matron of honor in a rose gown with cream lace bodice. Aileen Tierney and Kristine Strong were bridesmaids in apricot gowns in a miniature floral print.

Flower girls were Susan Barrows, niece of the bridegroom, Niva and Keturah Buck, nieces of the bride. They wore cape-collared, floor-length peach gowns and carried bouquets of white daisies.

The bride and her attendants carried sprays of gladioli.

Ronald Wheatley of Northville was best man. Ushers were Paul Buck, brother of the bride, and Randy Carr. Groomsmen were Bob Tennant and Bruce King. The bridegroom, who is known as Gus, and his attendants wore burnt sienna tuxedos.

After a reception for 150 at the Cambridge Christian Center, the couple spent a week at a cottage at Martha's Vineyard and toured the coast of Maine. They met at the center where the bridegroom is choir director.

He was graduated magna cum laude from Berklee May 19, receiving his bachelor's degree with his major in musical composition. He plans to study music conducting in the fall at Boston Conservatory. He was a 1969 graduate of Northville High School.

His bride, a 1969 graduate of Gloucester High School, attended University of Michigan for a year and the Museum School of fine Arts in Boston. She currently is majoring in painting at Massachusetts College of Art and expects to be graduating in the spring.

The newlyweds will live in Cambridge until they complete their studies.

The Reverend Irving Mitchell in the new sanctuary of Christian Community Church where first services were held last Sunday

Services begin in new sanctuary

For the first time in seven years members of Christian Community Church worshiped in their own sanctuary last Sunday as they occupied the newly completed building at 41355 Six Mile in Northville Township.

The Reverend Irving M. Mitchell delivered the morning worship service at 11 a.m. and the evening work worship at 6:30 p.m.

The new sanctuary is the second phase of a five-year building program of the church, a $1.2 million expansion that included a previously completed fellowship hall — educational unit in which services have been held.

The new sanctuary has a seating capacity of 650 and was designed in the beige and brown earth tones. A rainbow of color is provided in two columns of stained glass windows that reach from floor to ceiling. There are blue carpet inlays on the platform.

Provision has been made for a balcony which, in future expansion, could seat 250.

The Reverend Mitchell has been pastor of the church since February 1958. Under his ministry the church purchased the 15-acre parcel of land in October 1969, on Six Mile near Haggerty at a cost of $75,000. Also in 1969, a parsonage was acquired on Portis.

Until the Christian education building was constructed on the site in 1975, the congregation held services at Holmes Junior High in Livonia.

Christian Community Church, formerly known as Revival Tabernacle, began in January 1943 in rented quarters on Grand River. Within 15 months there were 37 charter members and the building was purchased.

The following summer, property was purchased at 17617 Plymouth Road near Southfield. In 1945 the congregation moved into a new building on the site.

In 1949 Revival Tabernacle became affiliated with the General Council of the Assemblies of God in Springfield, Missouri. In 1951 the congregation of Highland Park Emmanuel Church merged with the greater Revival Tabernacle. In 1973 the church name officially was changed to Christian Community Church (Assemblies of God).

Recital features Indian dances

Artistic movements that are part of religious and prayer dances were performed in a South Indian dance recital by Sumi Philips last Friday at First Presbyterian Church in Northville.

The 10-year-old dancer is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Philips who teaches chemistry and geometry at Northville High School. They are Westland residents.

Sumi is a pupil of Subha Chandrasekar of Southfield. She is one of the foremost dancers of India and has performed at the University of Michigan. Six of the recital dances were classical. A folk dance also was included.

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL

You are invited

An exciting program has been prepared by First Baptist Church of Northville for Vacation Bible School, to be held June 25th through June 29th.

"JESUS, I'M HIS ... HE'S MINE" is the theme for the school, to be held each day from 9:15 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. for pre-school children (2 years old) through 6th grade. The time for Junior and Senior High students will be 6:45 p.m. to 9:00 p.m.

The central goal of Vacation Bible School is to lead young people to know the Lord and to understand more of His Word. There will be Bible-based lessons — Missionary emphasis time — song time — contests — prizes and crafts. For information regarding Bible School call 348-1020 or 474-4039. This is a program carefully geared for each age group which provides spiritual growth and fun for all. All are invited.

What Really Counts

Columnists, comedians, and commentators all seem to have something to say about funeral service.

What's important to us, how ever, is what's said about us by the families we serve.

Christian Scientists report on Centennial

Christian Scientists marked the centennial year of their denomination June 4 by acknowledging an increased public interest in Christian healing, reports Dorothy Shaw of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Plymouth whose congregation includes Northville residents.

Harvey W. Wood, chairman of the Christian Science board of directors, speaking to an overflow audience at the annual meeting in Boston's mother church, stated that new interest has been expressed by people of different faiths.

It is an awareness, he said, "that the quality of life hinges more on improvement of thought than on accumulation of things."

He stated that in the course of the 100 years since the founding of the church in 1879 by Mary Baker Eddy "we've learned there are no easy shortcuts to spiritual growth."

Members learned there is a slight increase in the number of members seeking accreditation as full-time practitioners. There also is a new interest in church membership in Africa and Latin America.

The church, says Mrs. Shaw, was reported free of indebtedness and is well-supported by contributions

During her stay in Germany she lived with Frau Lorek, a widow. Mr. and Mrs. Doheny, their other daughter Kay (a student at Ferris State) and son Michael (a student at Grand Valley) and Mrs. Doheny's mother Mrs. Henry Roeder of Kohler, Wisconsin, met Frau Lorek at Christmas when they visited MaryJo and toured Germany and Austria.

During her visit here Mrs. Doheny drove with her guest to Vero Beach, Florida, spending two weeks at the Dohenys' new condominium there. They also visited Mrs. Roeder in Wisconsin.

Starrs are visitors

Former Northville residents Dale and Linda Starr with their son Brian who now live in Scottsdale, Arizona, were in town last weekend visiting the James Armstrongs, who were their neighbors on Thornapple. Monday morning Mrs. Starr saw friends from her Quester and Junior Women's Club groups at a coffee get-together given by Mrs. Armstrong and Virginia Hayward at the latter's condominium on Washington in Lexington Commons.

Mrs. Starr has been doing television commercials in Arizona.

Summer exodus

Gas shortage won't slow down increase in number of boaters

Marine safety officials don't expect a gas crunch to have much — if any — effect on boating and other recreational activities this summer.

In fact, Sergeant Tom Lendzion, head of the Oakland County Sheriff Department's water safety division, believes lake use probably will continue to increase by the seven-percent average hike experienced in his county over the past several years. Lieutenant Richard Vinsett, of the Livingston County Sheriff's Department, added: "Our lakes are getting busier every year, no doubt about it."

The increasing popularity of water skiing, especially training and participating in competitive events, is one reason for the upsurge in boating activity, Lendzion said, noting that state-designated ski courses have "gone up 10 percent in the last couple of years," of a total of 15 in Oakland County.

And, in order to tow skiers, larger, faster and more expensive boats are being launched in area waterways, the sergeant said, including an increasing number of "California drag-type boats."

"It used to be that a good speedboat cost about $3,000," Lendzion said, "but today many people don't give a second thought to paying $8,000 to $10,000 for a new boat."

So far in the young 1979 boating season, the high price of gasoline and concern over availability of fuel apparently hasn't dampened boaters' spirits, he added.

"If gas goes to $3 a gallon it won't cut recreational use that much, especially when you've got a $10,000 investment in a boat," Lendzion said.

Winsett said his department hasn't noticed less boating activity due to the gas crunch, but added, "We've only had the active weekends since Memorial Day."

The Oakland sheriff's department estimates waterway usage on the basis of boat registrations; last year the county had 52,000 registered vessels, an increase of seven percent over 1977. Lendzion also estimated there are 3,000 watercraft that aren't required to register under state law and another 10 percent of the Oakland lake use is from boats registered to owners who live in neighboring counties. Winsett said his department doesn't keep statistics on registration.

Despite the increasing activity on area waterways, both Lendzion and Winsett said accidents have not been a problem.

The Livingston lieutenant said accidents have been minimal in the last three to four years.

"We probably average less than five a year," Winsett said. He reported two major boating mishaps last year, but added there were no deaths as a result of the accidents. One of 1978's three or four drownings in Livingston was boating related, Winsett said.

In Oakland, the boating accident rate has gone down in recent years, Lendzion reported, although the severity of some of the mishaps has been greater, including three deaths last year. Almost all of the accidents were related to skiing, the sergeant added, but none were linked to drinking.

Ranking high on the list of complaints received by the law enforcement agencies is speeding.

While most boats aren't capable of exceeding the 55-mile-an-hour speed limit on inland lakes and streams, Lendzion said a major problem is "speed too high for conditions" due to heavy use of the waterway or conflicting uses such as fishing, swimming, skiing and diving.

In order to meet differing water sport needs, local units of government and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources' (DNR) Law Enforcement Division may impose special local watercraft controls.

The most common watercraft controls prohibit high-speed boating, defined as the speed at or above which a motorboat reaches a planing condition, or impose a slow no-wake speed.

An increasing number of lakefront subdivision groups also are asking state and local officials to ban motorboats, except those with electric motors. The DNR's 1978 watercraft controls pamphlet lists two Livingston lakes — Osborne in Brighton Township and Dunham in Hartland — that have prohibitions against motorboats. (The 1979 booklet is now being printed.) Lendzion said there are 20-30 Oakland lakes with motorboat bans.

Some rules also prohibit water-skiing or set certain hours for high-speed boating or skiing.

Next to speeding, the sheriff's department receives many complaints about noise from powerboats, "especially the jet boats," adds Winsett. Other common complaints include careless or reckless operation of boats and coming too close to the shore, docks, swimming areas and other vessels.

According to Winsett, the Livingston sheriff's department has two full-time deputies assigned to its marine safety division and 10 other deputies who work late patrols on weekends, in addition to a part-time employee on weekends. Three boats are used for routine patrols, supplemented by shore watch, on Livingston's 30-35 main lakes, the lieutenant said. There are well over 100 lakes in the county, Winsett added, but only about half of the waterways that are actively patrolled are "quite busy."

Oakland County has some 1,600 bodies of water, Lendzion said, 400 of those are big enough for boating activities. The department has four full-time deputies assigned to the water safety division and another 27 part-time officers are added for the summer months, Lendzion said, noting that his 18-boat division has been the same size for 10 years despite the annual increase in boat registrations and lake usage.

The DNR operates 31 boat launching sites in Oakland County and 14 in Livingston, while the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority has a public access site on Kent Lake in the Kensington Metropark near Milford.

Copies of the "Michigan Boat Launching Directory," "Local Watercraft Controls" booklet and "A Guide to Safe Boating in Michigan" are available from the DNR by contacting the Law Enforcement Division at Box 30028, Lansing, Michigan 48909.

The DNR also offers the following boating safety tips:

- Make sure your boat is properly registered and equipped for safety each time before you start out onto the water.

- Sharp high-speed turns and other reckless boating could cause serious accidents.

- Learn the basic "rules of the road" on water, including proper methods of crossing, meeting and passing.

- Life preservers aren't much good unless you use them.

- Standing in a boat can get you wet.

- Watch the weather for changing conditions.

- Watch your boat's wake; you are legally responsible for it.

- Give the other person a chance by staying at least 100 feet away from docks, rafts, anchored and moored boats, swimmers and diver's flag; even farther if you're towing a skier.

- Overloading your boat with too large a motor, too many people or too much weight is the first step to disaster.

- Riding on the bow or gunwale of your boat is dangerous and illegal.

Multi-colored sailboats are an increasingly common sight on the area's many lakes

Touring the Upper Peninsula

Copper Country recalls another time

Michigan is a land of many moods. Heavy industrial areas are balanced by tracts of ancient wilderness; green pastures contradict barren sand dunes, and yesterday melds dramatically with today and tomorrow. Travelers soon learn to expect the contrasts.

Nevertheless, they are usually somewhat astonished by their first journey into the Copper Country of Michigan's Upper Peninsula. They are enveloped by an aura of another time.

At practically every turn in the road and crest of a hill, the traveler encounters a sensational view that cannot be hurried past.

The four counties that form the region (Ontonagon, Baraga, Houghton and Keweenaw) encompass grand forests populated by deer, bear and various other species of wildlife. There are historic landmarks, picturesque waterfalls, hundreds of inland lakes and thousands of miles of streams bordered by the unpredictable waters of Lake Superior.

At the southern edge of the area, the Porcupine Mountains rise to 2,000 feet at their highest point. They too seem somewhat contradictory to the rolling flatlands characteristic of midwestern states.

The base of the "Porkies" is formed by rocks considered to be among the oldest in the world with a geologic age of more than one billion years.

The most scenic route to the Copper Country is from Michigan's Tower Peninsula, across the majestic Mackinac Bridge, then west across the upper peninsula via US-2 or M-28 to M-64 in the western end of the U.P.

M-64 winds north to White Pine, a resurrected copper mining town built in 1952. The colorful history of the White Pine Mine, however, extends over more than a century. The Nonsuch Shale, which contains the White Pine orebody, was officially discovered in 1865 by Frank Cadotte.

Cadotte later sold his interests for a barrel of pork, a barrel of flour and some other grocery items.

Porcupine Mountains State Park, northwest of White Pine, is composed of 58,000 acres of primitive forests, secluded lakes and miracles of nature. In the summer the park attracts campers, hikers, nature lovers and those simply seeking a quiet retreat. In winter, it becomes one of the State's most popular skiing meccas and winter playgrounds.

Roughly 15 miles north of the park is historic Ontonagon. Here, in the 1700's, French missionaries reported the existence of a 3,000 pound boulder of pure native copper. The Ontonagon "nugget", as it is called, is now displayed in the Smithsonian Institute in Washington D.C. South of Ontonagon is the ghost town of Victoria. A relic of the copper boom, Victoria is now being claimed by the surrounding forest, but the spirits of bonanza days cling like early morning mist to the crumbling buildings.

The Michigan Mine, another ghost of the copper era, is also in this area. Originally the Minesota Mine, — spelled with one "n" — was reorganized and its name changed in 1872. It was at the Minesota Mine that the largest single piece of mass copper ever known was discovered in 1856.

It weighed 527 tons and required the labors of 20 men, using long handled chisels, 15 months to separate it from its position.

The old Adventure Mine at Greenland in Ontonagon County, offers true adventure to today's Copper Country traveler. Visitors can follow the long, devious paths of the adit and explore caves and caverns left by the early day miners.

Deposits of the reddish-brown ore are visible, here and there, along the walls and ceilings of the mine's cavities. Geologists say the Adventure's veins still contain more copper than was ever removed.

North, at Houghton, is Michigan Technological University, one of the outstanding engineering universities in the country. The annual Michigan Tech Winter Carnival is a unique event that attracts visitors from all parts of the nation. Here too, the Portage Lake Bridge connects Houghton with the Keweenaw peninsula across the Portage Canal.

This structure is the largest of its kind in America with a vertical lift center span that raises the roadway to a height of 100 feet to allow Great Lakes ore carriers to pass beneath.

Across the bridge, at Hancock, is Suomi College founded in 1896. It is the only college level education institution founded by Finns outside their European homeland. Just east of Hancock, at Ripley, Copper Country travelers can tour the Arcadian Mine and get a first hand look at the tools and methods employed to extract the red metal during the 19th century boom days.

Further north is the centenarian Calumet and Hecla mine, whose shafts burrowed more than a mile into the earth. Once the monarch of the area, the shaft houses now stand silent and rusting. And the village of Calumet, once thriving and sophisticated, urban cultural center of the Copper Country.

The Calumet Theatre has been restored to its former elegance when its stage was graced by the greatest of stars. Immortals such as, Lillian Russell, Sarah Bernhardt, Maude Adams, Caruso and Douglas Fairbanks. John Philip Sousa and his band played the Calumet on more than one occasion.

Past Calumet, town markers identify Ahmeek, Mohawk, Helltown and Cliff, mute and aging witnesses to a flourishing, bustling time past.

Still further north, the traveler has a choice of scenic routes around the Keweenaw Peninsula. One follows the twisting, rocky shoreline and the other — Brockway Mountain Drive — runs along the sheer cliff edge of the Keweenaw Fault, rising some 740 feet above the waters of Lake Superior.

The highways terminate at Fort Wilkins State Park. The Fort has been restored to appear as it did when it was built and garrisoned in 1844.

The heritage of the "Cousin Jacks" (the early miners from Cornwall, England) and the rugged Finns contribute greatly to the individuality of the region.

Add remnants of the nation's early history, the color of a booming mining era, a profusion of ancient pines, white birches and wild thimbleberries and you have Michigan's Copper Country, a perfect place to discover an unforgettable vacation.

For additional information on the Copper Country and other interesting areas in Michigan, write the Travel Bureau, Michigan Department of Commerce, Box 30226, Lansing, Michigan, 48909.

Michigan islands offer vacation variety

Michigan's more than 500 islands provide a unique variety of vacation possibilities ranging from wilderness camping to picnicking within view of city skyscrapers, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

Most of the state's nearly 1,000 miles of island shoreline surround remote and uninhabited wilderness areas that are favored by sportsmen. Others — such as Belle Isle and Mackinac Island — are among Michigan's most frequented tourist areas.

The 35 Les Cheneaux Islands provide outdoor enthusiasts with some of this state's most scenic boating and fishing areas. Located near Cedarville and Hessel in the eastern Upper Peninsula, the islands are heavily timbered with pine, cedar and balsam and offer excellent hiking trails. Summer cottages and cabins are available.

Nearby Drummond Island is lined with high, rocky cliffs that face 30 irregular bays and coves. With its heavily wooded trails and 34 inland waters, it is a favorite spot for sportsmen. There is also a crumbling old British fort there. The island is reached by ferry from De Tour.

The state's most remote and largest island is Lake Superior's 42-mile-long Isle Royale, which is accessible by boat or seaplane from Houghton and Copper Harbor. A rugged coastline and numerous crags and ridges add to the beauty of this national park, which is famous for backpacking.

Michiganians more interested in strolling along the shores of the Detroit River and watching giant ships from around the world will find Belle Isle and Grosse Ile a tremendous contrast to the nature islands.

Detroit's 1,000-acre Belle Isle has the Dossin Great Lakes Museum, a children's zoo, concert shell, conservatory and aquarium. Grosse Ile is mainly a residential community where many persons live to be near the water. There are several yacht clubs on the island.

Visitors to Mackinac Island are whisked by ferry from Mackinaw City or St. Ignace to this jewel of a tourism attraction in the Straits of Mackinac. Historic sites, such as Old Fort Mackinac, fine old hotels and shops and a state park are part of the charm of this island, where automobiles are prohibited. Travel is on foot, by bicycles or horse-drawn carriages.

Within view of Mackinac Island and only a six-mile ferry ride from Cheboygan is Bois Blanc Island, a place ideally suited for hiking and backpacking because of its miles of trails and shoreline. Farther south are False Presque Isle in Lake Huron and Thunder Bay Island, near Alpena.

The northern one-third of Lake Michigan is dotted with interesting and unusual islands, such as Beaver, North and South Manitou, and North and South Fox.

Beaver Island, which is reached by plane or ferry from Charlevoix, is a popular vacation island surrounded by sandy beaches. The island includes a museum housed in an old print shop built by the Mormons in 1847, with accommodations and shops in the town of St. James.

Both North and South Manitou islands are accessible by ferry from Leland. Deer and wild turkeys roam North Manitou, where a restored Coast Guard station is used as a lodge. Cottages also are available. Most of South Manitou is owned by the National Park Service and operates as part of the Sleeping Bear Dunes National Lakeshore. Camping is permitted there.

North and South Fox islands are 85 and 90 percent forest areas, respectively, and only sparsely developed. Three-fourths of South Fox is privately owned.

The remaining islands in northern Lake Michigan are mostly inhabited by wild animals and receive only sporadic vacation activity. They are used mostly for wilderness camping.

The waters around Saginaw Bay's Charity Island are popular with perch fishermen.

Kelly sees problems with PSC

By WARREN M. HOYT

Attorney General Frank J. Kelly has offered what he thinks is a solution to holding down utility rate increases.

Under a plan devised by the attorney general, members of the Public Service Commission would be directly elected and staff members of the PSC would come under control of the legislature.

As now constituted, Kelly charges the commission does not serve the public, but guarantees profits to the utilities and "in many cases (the staff) ask for high rate increases for the utilities than they petitioned for."

Kelly noted currently the commissioners are appointed by the governor for six year terms and they "become faceless bureaucrats." Instead, the commissioners should be directly accountable to the electorate and elected to their posts, he said.

Fourteen states currently provide for the election of public utility commission members.

If the commissioners still become "faceless" even after being elected, then it's the people's fault.

Kelly indicated the commission staff should be put under legislative control to ensure its independence from the utilities. He said now several commission staff members are former utility employees who seem to favor the utilities over the public.

In previous years, measures have been introduced requiring election of commissioners and prohibiting commission staff members from being employed by utilities, and have failed. Kelly, however, said he believed his proposal will pass the legislature this year because consumers are fed up with utility rate increases.

Other proposals offered by Kelly aimed at holding down utility rate increases would provide a $5 per day credit for all utility customers whose service is disrupted for more than three hours on any day and require utility stockholders to assume the costs of "white elephant" power plants that cost more than originally estimated.

Michigan is losing a valuable public servant at the end of June with the resignation of Gus Harrison, the developer and director of the Michigan State Lottery — the nation's most successful state-run lottery.

Harrison, who will embark on a new career as a consultant to state lotteries, has now completed two successful public service careers. For 19 years before taking over the helm at the lottery, he was director of the Michigan Department of Corrections and served as warden of the Southern Michigan Prison.

Under the direction of Harrison, the lottery is averaging well over $1 million a week in profits and has added funds to the state's general fund that would have otherwise had to come from taxpayer's pockets.

Since November 13, 1972, when the first state lottery ticket was sold, Harrison's leadership has produced numerous new games to continue to hold the interest of Michigan citizens.

Never has such a dedicated state employee single-handedly brought more funds into state coffers to prove his worth as director — often referred to a czar — of the Michigan State Lottery.

Law aims at summer job shortage

A state law which went into effect last year should make it easier for youths to find summer jobs, State Labor Director Pat Babcock said.

The Youth Employment Standards Act of 1977 which replaced the Hittie Juvenile Act of 1947 last year did away with many bureaucratic practices which were a deterrent to youths finding jobs, Babcock said.

The law, for example, eliminated discriminatory standards between males and females, including a provision of the Hittie Act restricting employment of female minors in manufacturing establishments after 6 p.m.

Other changes included:

- Exempting high school graduates, those who have completed high school requirements and "emancipated" minors, including married youth and those in military service, from coverage under child labor laws.

- Strictly limiting grounds on which work permits, which are required for minors, may be revoked, and affording a minor the right of appeal if a work permit is refused or revoked.

- Allowing minors to work on farms as long as no state or federal safety standards are being violated.

- Giving authority to issue work permits to local school officials. Previously, employers had to obtain occupational approval from the State Labor Department.

The Labor Department developed the law with the assistance of school officials, the state youth commission and the Governor's office.

The Youth Employment Standards Act retained a number of protections for youthful employees which were contained in the Hittie Act including prohibiting youths under 14 years of age from employment except in specific cases.

Also, employers planning to hire minors no longer are required to get occupational approval numbers for routine nonhazardous work like baggers, stock clerks, and waiters or waitresses, Babcock said.

Employers are still required to get occupational approval numbers from the department for hazardous occupations. Hazardous occupations generally include jobs that involve power-driven equipment or where toxic chemicals are used.

Minors 14 through 17 still must obtain a work permit from the local school authority in order to hold a job. The work permit authorizes minors to work in specific occupations for specific hours.

Work permits are not transferable. If a minor changes jobs a new permit is required for the new job.

To get a work permit, a minor must have the prospective employer complete a form — offer of employment — which details the job, including hours and wages. The minor then submits this with proof of age to the school.

Work permits are routinely granted but they insure that a minor is treated fairly and works reasonable hours.

Minors 14 and 15 are limited to a maximum 48 hours of combined school and work attendance. This is based on a six day week. During the summer, youths must remember to take into account any summer school attendance.

For example, if a minor was in school seven hours a day, five days a week he or she could work an additional one hour a day on weekdays and work a full eight hour day on Saturday.

Youths, 14-15, can only work until 7 p.m. when school is in session and until 9 p.m. when school is recessed for summer vacation.

Minors 16-17 have the same 48 combined work/school limit, however, they can work until 10:30 p.m. when school is in session and 11:30 p.m. during summer vacation.

All minors can work and attend school no more than an average of eight hours a day and absolutely no more than 10 actual hours a day.

Employers wanting to receive approval for minors to work hours other than those provided by the law, or in occupations declared to be hazardous by the department, must apply to the Wage Hour Division, Department of Labor.

Deviation from standards or hours can be granted when it is in the best interest of the minor, Babcock said.

I Have to Hurry

I have to hurry if I'm to get done
the things I wanted to do.
To finish that quilt, to paint that scene, to write a line or two.

I have to hurry if I want to keep those friends I've had all my life To drop a line to those far away and not lose the new in the strife.

I have to hurry and set my goals for the last great lap of the race,
For I soon shall hit the big "seven O,"
The three-quarters mark I'll face.
I've lived my life and loved my life,
I don't want to let it go, but I have to hurry and beat the clock before
It strikes that blow that says,
"Time's run out, you've done your thing, now it's time to go."

Giant zinnias

Gold Sun harnesses uniformity

"Gold Sun" is sister to "Red Sun" zinnia, winner of an All-American Selections award in 1978.

Giant zinnias are among the most popular garden flowers; gold, the cheerful color, always has been a favorite among zinnia lovers. However, the old-style golden zinnias were uneven in plant size and blossom form, with a scattering of single, daisy-like blossoms.

"Gold Sun" harnesses hybrid uniformity to produce plants as uniform as a clipped hedge, about 30 to 36 inches tall. Its hybrid vigor pushes plants into blossom five days earlier than standard giant zinnias and supports huge blossoms of 3 1/2 to 4 1/2 inches in diameter.

Flower stems are long enough for use in arrangements and strong enough to stand up to windy weather. Cut flowers will last for a week if stems are stripped of leaves before immersing in a vase.

In northern states, high altitude and coastal gardens where summers are cool, "Gold Sun" will develop somewhat shorter plants with blossoms up to five inches or more in diameter. The central blossom or "crown flower" usually will be the largest.

Blossoms of "Gold Sun" have the form of double dahlias and are golden yellow. The intense color does not fade under summer sunlight and is light enough to radiate the sun during early morning and dusk, when dark colored flowers fade into the surrounding scenery.

Hybrid vigor decreases problem with mildew and sustains bloom beyond the date at which standard giant zinnias are past their prime.

Zinnias' blossoms are formed of so many layers of petals that two weeks can elapse between the opening of a bud and full maturity of the flower. If you will snip off old blossoms before they become unsightly, new branches and flower buds will quickly form.

Peter Pans are great for hiding lanky legs

The name "Peter Pan" is enough to make any middle-aged person smile.

It evokes memories of the stage musical with the irrepressible Mary Martin flying in from the wings, supported by almost invisible wires. So magical was the spell of Peter Pan that an entire generation came to love the wee people of the fields, forest and gardens.

You will smile, too, when you see the wee "Peter Pan" zinnias. Only half the height of giant zinnias, they manage to support large blossoms and sustain flowering for months.

As with the wee people, everything about the "Peter Pans" is perfectly proportioned and in scale.

The newest of the class of "Peter Pan Gold," with clear, light gold blossoms. Neither pale nor harsh, the gold hue co-exists amicably in beds of mixed colors or, when used alone, sparkles vivaciously.

Plants are 12 to 14 inches high at maturity. First blooms appear when plants are only six to eight inches high, and as they gradually fade are covered by new green shoots and fresh blossoms.

When grown where good air circulation can keep foliage dry, "Peter Pan Gold" will bloom for up to three months before succumbing to mildew or fall frost.

While they were shortening "Peter Pan Gold" plants, the breeder programmed it for producing golden blossoms of 3 to 3 1/2 inch diameter that hold their color despite summer sun.

Petals are curled with turned up tips which fluff the blossoms and add depth.

Use "Peter Pan Gold" as a divider between taller flowers or for edgings to hide the legs of lanky, long-stemmed flowers.

Five other colors of "Peter Pan" zinnias have won All-American Selections awards in past years and are widely available.

Bugs can damage your vegetables

The beginning of the outdoor gardening season means the beginning of the annual battle of the bugs. Nancy Butler, Washtenaw County Extension Service horticultural assistant says you're likely to see the following pests in the vegetable garden in May and early June:

— Cutworms. These plump, hairless caterpillars live in the soil but come out at night to feed on tender transplants and seedlings. The most destructive are those that clip plants off at or slightly below soil level. If you see them in the soil as you till your garden or if damage begins to occur, protect young plants with cutworm collars made of soup cans with both ends cut out or cardboard cylinders placed over plants.

— Wireworms and white grubs. Wireworms are the slender, dark brown, tough-skinned larvae of click beetles. They are great pests of carrots and other root crops. White grubs are the fat, white, C-shaped larvae of the common June beetle. Both these pests are likely to be problems in a new garden spot where sod was recently removed. Tilling the soil several times to turn the insects up where birds can get them will help reduce their population. Avoid planting potatoes where these pests occur in large numbers — the crop will be severely damaged.

— Flea beetles. These tiny beetles get their name from the way they jump from plants when disturbed. Gardeners are less likely to see the insects than the damage: a peppering of tiny holes in the leaves of tomato, pepper and eggplant transplants, new potato sprouts and radish and turnip foliage. (Larvae feed on plant roots.)

— Cucumber beetles. These hard-backed, one-fourth inch, striped or spotted beetles overwinter as adults, so they're ready and waiting when cucumbers, melons and squash arrive in the garden. They are the only source of bacterial wilt, a devastating disease of these vine crops.

— Cabbage maggot, seed corn maggot, onion maggot. The adult flies lay eggs on their respective hosts, and the larvae feed on the roots, killing or damaging the plants. Cabbage maggot is a pest of all cole crops (cabbage, broccoli, Brussel sprouts, radishes, etc.). Seed corn maggots damage germinating seeds of beans, corn and cucurbits (cucumbers, melons, squash, etc.). Onion maggot is a serious pest of onions, killing young plants and damaging bulbs later in the season.

You can make cut roses last longer by recutting the stems before inserting them in water, and by using a floral preservative.

Roses that develop a weak stem just below the bud can be revived and replaced in the arrangement. Recut the stem about one inch from the base — underwater — then submerge the bloom, foliage and stem in warm water (about 100 degrees F) for about 20 minutes.

Straighten the angle of the flower head while the rose is under water to eliminate the "bent neck."

Cool temperatures and freedom from drafts will help cut roses last longer.

Cosmos: has few pests, grows virtually carefree

She loves me; she loves me not.

Many a cosmos blossom has been methodically plucked by lovesick swains. Its large, long-stemmed daisy-like blossoms are held at waist-to shoulder level for easy picking, and sun-loving cosmos has a habit of peeking over or through fences where passersby can "borrow" blossoms to relieve cases of extreme love pangs.

Next to rugged sunflowers, cosmos may be the easiest flower on earth to grow from seeds. Its large seeds sprout in 7 to 10 days. Within a few weeks the tall, ferny plants are covered with three to four-inch diameter blossoms and fat, shiny buds.

Cosmos has few pests and is virtually carefree. It can be grown anywhere in the USA.

Cosmos: She loves me . . .

On dry sandy or gravelly soils cosmos will not ordinarily reach the heights given in descriptions but the compact plants will show an improved ratio of blossoms to foliage.

Cosmos is available mostly in mixed colors; wine, lavender, purple, pink, rose and white. Plants grow to heights of three to five feet, depending on how early you plant seeds, and on average soil moisture levels. In rainy, windy areas staking is advised.

Cosmos is used principally as a temporary flowering shrub or hedge or as graceful background flower. It is no great shakes as a cut flower because the blooms are not long-lived. In landscape situations this is no great detriment because hordes of new blossoms are waiting to cover the spent blooms.

Of all garden flowers, cosmos is perhaps the best for attracting wild birds, particularly finches and other seed eaters.

Good reliable cosmos! No flower garden is complete without it.

Don't be misled

Weeds do harm gardens

You hear all sorts of excuses for letting weeds grow among vegetables. They all boil down to "a few weeds won't hurt."

Even a few weeds can be pushy. A few more can begin shading and strangling vegetables. When your vegetable garden starts looking really weedy, you are watching murder take place.

The evidence for the crime is in Cornell Bulletin 521. New York State scientists planted 12 plots of vegetables. Two plots each of six kinds were planted at the same time side by side.

Each plot was given the same care except that one set of six was regularly scraped clean with a hoe. Weeds were permitted to grow in the adjoining comparison plots.

The lesson was clear: If you want to harvest maximum crops from your vegetables, get rid of weeds! Here were the results of the test:

	Scraped	Weedy
Carrots	503.3 lbs.	27.9 lbs.
Beets	240.3 lbs.	45.6 lbs.
Cabbage	233.6 lbs.	129.1 lbs.
Onions	67.7 lbs.	3.6 lbs.
Tomatoes	164.0 lbs.	23.3 lbs.
Potatoes	148.3 lbs.	52.7 lbs.

SIDELINES

By Jim Haynes

Softball detente forever

Softball has become a great sport. It is great because softball may just save the United States from destruction.

Softball was invented by Lewis Rober, a Minneapolis firefighter, about 1895. It was known as kittenball back then. The first softball league was formed in Minneapolis around 1900. At that time the sport was played indoors. In 1930, two Chicagoans, Leo Fischer and M.J. Pauley decided that the game should be played outdoors where the increased playing area would lead to a faster, more exciting sport.

The Amateur Softball Association was formed in 1933 and the first national tournament was won by the J.L. Gill team of Chicago. But softball never really made a dent in the iron-walled popularity of the nation's favorite pastime, baseball, until recently. Softball is now spreading like a tide with thousands of leagues forming all over America. But back then softball was considered primarily an activity for girls' physical education classes.

In that time era, baseball was king, with kids starting out in Little League ball, then moving up to the Pony Leagues, then to Babe Ruth ball and on into high school and American Legion play. And if they were good enough after that, they would go on into professional ball.

Baseball players became national heroes, with the likes of Ty Cobb, Honus Wagner, Babe Ruth, Ted Williams, Mickey Mantle, Hank Aaron and Al Kaline receiving the worship of America.

The only drawback to baseball as the fact that the majority of players left the game after their high school careers simply because few were good enough to play as professionals and there were no leagues to play in after high school age.

That meant that from the turn of the century until the late sixties there were a lot of young men who were resigned to watching or listening to baseball games, storing up all of the competitive energies that they had learned to nurture while growing up, without a release for it sportwise. That's why sports became such an institution in America. These now-armchair quarterbacks and baseball managers transferred their aggressions and energies into mentally studying and embracing the games that they used to play so avidly.

So how has softball saved out country? Well, I have sort of a far-fetched hypothesis. But perhaps not too far out.

From the time that baseball and softball were first invented at the turn of the century until the late sixties, this country had gone through two World Wars, a "skirmish" in Korea and an "engagement" in Vietnam. Is it any coincidence that since the rise in popularity of adult softball (i.e., a channel for all of the aggressive instincts developed in high school sports) in the late sixties and early seventies, we haven't had a war?

Could our rabid involvement in wars have been to a large part merely an outlet for all of the youthful energies that were cut off once young men became too old to play competitive sports? Now that softball has provided an outlet for this energy, war is no longer as popular, er, noble, as it once seemed. I think any sane person would rather take out their frustrations on a softball instead of an enemy. For one thing, softballs don't shoot back.

It is becoming more and more apparent that if there ever is another war it won't be the Sands of Iwo Jima or the Battle of the Bulge. It will be Private John Smith, following the orders of the president, pushing a large red button that will result in the total destruction of a city or two in Russia. And then Private Vladimir Nobosky in turn will retaliate by pushing a button of his own, and so on. Thank God President Carter enjoys softball.

Ask the expert

Dear Expert, How can I strengthen my backhand tennis shot? What exercises will help me to hit that stroke more effectively? K.K., Flat Rock

In practice, try and hit more balls from the backhand side making sure you hit the ball sooner than the forehand. Concentrate on turning the body (side onto the net), planting the right foot, bending the knees and continually watching the ball. Try working with the ball under your right armpit (if you're right-handed) to keep the elbow close to the body, forcing the right shoulder back to produce a smoother stroke or try the uncoiling motion of throwing a frisbee which helps improve a longer follow through giving more directional control.

Kurt ranked second nationally

By JIM HAYNES

Kurt Romberg is one of the top hydroplane racers in the country. What is a hydroplane? Who is Kurt Romberg? These are questions that Kurt has learned to live with. Hydroplane racing isn't one of the most well-known sports around.

"People turn their heads a lot when I tell them," Romberg, ranked second nationally, said. "It's not that big a thrill for me. Most of them don't even know what a hydroplane is."

He may be right. The most well-known name in hydroplane racing is Bill Muncie, who seems to always win the big summer race on the Detroit River in his Atlas Van Line boat. Muncie's boat is a much more powerful version of the 15-cubic-inch engine superstock that Romberg races with.

Hydroplanes are specially-built boats that ride atop a cushion of air, with only a small portion of the rear and the lower part of the engine actually in the water. The hull of the boat has a tunnel built underneath that traps air. The faster the craft goes, the more air is trapped which lifts the boat higher out of the water.

During the winter, Kurt, 19, and his father built their own boats in the basement of their house. Gary is an aeronautical engineer with Chrysler Corporation, while Kurt, who presently is designing a new boat, is an engineering student at Schoolcraft Community College. That makes for quite a think-tank when it comes to new ideas for building their craft.

"It usually takes all winter to complete a boat," Gary said. "We are working on one of our own design right now. The boats we build are made from scratch out of wood, which is lighter than fiberglass. Each boat has to be a certain weight. This weight is established by the APBA (American Power Boating Association).

"We average about two hours a day during the winter, sometimes 20 hours a week working on them. It's cheaper if you build your own."

The cost is about $500 for materials for the hull, while the APBA approved engine costs about $850.

The Rombergs first got involved with hydroplanes back in 1966 when Gary sent away for the plans to build one. It was just a means of recreation back then. But in 1976 Kurt started racing.

"I'm 44 and I always thought I was too old to race," Gary said. "But when Kurt and his brothers (Leif and Val) started, I used to constantly tell them what they were doing wrong and offer advice. Finally, out of exasperation, they challenged me to race once."

"So I did and I stopped giving them advice after that. I saw that they were better at it than I was. But I continued racing and I love it."

Kurt feels much the same way about racing.

"Boat racing is a lot of fun," he said. "It takes up most of my time during the summer. That and girl-watching. I race just about every weekend. There's a spirit involved among drivers and people who watch that I don't think is in any other sport."

"You see a lot of the same people at races and everyone knows everyone else. People who come to watch can come right down to the docks and talk to the drivers and look at the boats. I can't think of any other sport that allows that much freedom."

There is a pile of them among drivers and that is that they want to beat you in the water, but not on the beach. We help each other a lot with parts and things."

"It is a dangerous sport. People are killed every summer. Last year one of the best drivers around was killed. He was the high-point man up until then."

National ranking is established through the sanction of the APBA and is determined by a point system. Each time a driver finishes first, he receives 400 points. Second place gets 300, third 200, and on down to fourth at 100. At the end of the year, drivers total their

Dodgers overtake Giants

Race a seesaw in "F" league baseball

In a battle of Titans, the top two teams in the "F" league went at each other with no holds barred last week. The Dodgers managed to beat the Giants 10-6 to take over the top spot in the league with a 6-0 mark while the Giants, at 7-1, dropped down to second place.

The Dodgers got to their position by winning all three of their games this week. Besides the Giants, the Dodgers beat the Angels 12-3 and the Braves 18-9. In all they scored 40 runs to their opponents' 18.

Against the Giants, the Dodgers had only seven hits, but were aided by 14 walks given up by Giant pitchers. Steve Hamilton walked three times and scored twice for the Dodgers.

Against the Angels, Steve DeMatto had two doubles and scored three times, while Jim Phillips scored twice for the Dodgers. Dave DeMatto pitched and held the Angels to one hit, Todd Deal's first inning single.

DeMatto came back and held the Mets to just three hits. He also scored twice to help his own cause. Bob Pegrum and Dan Murray each collected three hits in support of DeMatto.

The Giants came back to win their two remaining games during the week. They beat the Reds 13-9 and the Phillies 8-1. Ted Behen scored three times and John Collins, Andy Dimitroff and Bob Craske twice each in leading the Giants past the Reds. Dimitroff had a single and a triple while Behen and Collins also contributed two hits apiece.

For the Reds, Greg Mcsbigian, Rob Wilerer and Steve Marrone each scored twice. Brian Jennings had two hits in the losing cause.

Against the Phillies, Mike Sylvestre and John Collins combined to strike out 12. Dimitroff rapped out two hits, scoring once. Dave Selso also had two hits, and scored twice.

The Astros, in third place with a 4-1 record, won twice last week. They beat the Phillies 3-1 and the Reds 23-11. Willie Newman pitched the whole game and scored one of the three Astro runs. Dan Groves and Mike Ross had the only hits for the winners.

The Reds were the victims of an Astro-nomical attack as the winners parlayed 15 hits, 12 walks and two hit batsmen into 23 runs. Ross had three singles and Greg Young two in leading the winners.

The fourth placed Padres beat the Angels 11-6 to raise their record to 4-2. Randy Kraft and Mike Hayes each scored twice in leading the Padres to victory.

The Pirates dropped two of the games they played last week. They lost to the Mets 7-5, beat the Braves 7-2 and lost to the Cubs 7-4. Against the Braves, Woody Hoyer, Brian Bidwell and Ed Bowman all scored twice. Jeff Metz, Jeff Jamieson and Chris Baetz all scored for the losers.

The Mets, behind Mike Haggerty's two singles and the Cubs, with Scott Pence and Bob Orlowski each scoring twice, dropped the Pirates record to 2-5.

The Cardinals split the two games they played last week. They beat the Cubs 8-2 but dropped a contest to the Braves 8-6.

Steve Harrison and Craig Brown each scored twice to lead the Cardinals past the Cubs but Alan Carnes and Bruce Meininger combined to score six times to lead the Braves to the win. Carnes crossed the plate four times in the game.

The Reds ended their eight game losing streak by beating the Expos 14-7. Ron Greer, Gregg Anusbigian and Steve Marrone each scored twice for the victors. Anusbigian had four hits in the game. For the Expos, Dave Longridge had three hits and scored three times, Todd Bartling and John Crampton each had two hits.

Pirates still atop "G" league

Rob Cannon blasted a two-run home run to break a 3-3 tie and give the Yankees a 5-3 victory over the Cardinals. The win helped the team stay in second place with a 7-2 record.

In first place, the Pirates, remained undefeated with wins over the Giants and the Braves, 8-3 and 20-2, respectively.

The Cardinals came back to win two other games last week. The Braves were the first victim, losing to the Cardinals 7-1. In a rematch with the Yankees, the Cardinals came up with eight runs in the last inning to beat them 10-9.

The Phillies won twice last week, beating the Mets 8-3 and the Reds 10-9. The Reds, without a win this season, fought desperately for the victory, but home runs by Tim Blanchard and Jerry O'Brian weren't enough. Blanchard and O'Brian each had three hits in the contest.

The Mets came back to take a 7-5 win from the Indians. Fred Cook drove in two runs in the sixth to win the game for the Mets.

The Dodgers won twice last week to climb from sixth place to third. The Dodgers beat the Astros 14-6 and the Indians 8-6.

George Daraban hit two triples to knock in five runs in leading the Indians to a 14-3 victory over the Padres. David Kurzawa and Danny Sheehan each tripled for the losers.

The Padres came back to beat the Giants 11-6. Only eight players competed for the Padres.

The Astros beat the Mets 7-0 behind the no-hit pitching of Ron Lisowski, Benjie Evans and Bobby Workman.

The Cubs played only once this week and made it count, beating the Reds 11-4. Brad Lehmkuhl and Keith Dutkiewicz combined to hurl a two-hitter for the winners.

points up from their best 15 races, and then divide that number by 15 to get a ranking index.

The boat, nine feet long, can attain speeds of up to 57 mph. The race track, set up on either lakes or rivers, is an oval with a mile or a mile-and-a-quarter lap. The races are three laps long.

"It is very dangerous," Gary said. "You drive the boats while kneeling, going around an oval track. It's very easy to dump yourself. One small error and you're upside down at 60 mph.

"It looks worse than it feels," Kurt said. "I've dumped it before, but I've never been hurt."

The one drawback to hydroplane racing is that it is a very expensive sport to participate in. Professionals make little money, and amateurs none. Yet it takes a lot of capital to make your own boat and keep it up.

"There is a definition of a hydroplane that we use," Kurt said. "A hydroplane is a hole in the water, surrounded by wood into which you pour money."

Bruce Griggs (left) and Ed Kricitz help to move the Northville Recreation office to its new quarters

Registration is this week

Summer rec programs begin soon

It's summertime and with school out, those high voltage packets of energy called kids are free to wreak havoc with your carefully planned routine of work around the house. Trying to get them to help is often an impossible task, what with the call of the wild working on their young spirits.

There is one way to harness all of that energy though. Get your children involved in the summer programs offered by the Northville Community Recreation Department. They have programs for everyone, be it the rough-and-tumble kid who would love to learn rock climbing or kayaking, or the more reserved child who would be challenged by techniques of back packing or life-saving.

These programs are a chance to learn a little about things we often only read about or watch on television. There are classes for beginners and novices alike, so no one can feel out of place.

Here is a listing of all of the programs available this summer. If something strikes your child's fancy, or yours, as there are programs for adults

John Boland heads home after hitting a home run for the Blues

Belanger's bombed

Blues romp in first

Belanger's picked on a team that was bigger than they were and the result was not only a bloody nose, but fractured limbs, cerebral hemorrhaging and just plain total disaster. The Blues bloodied Belanger's 34-3 in what was probably the worst beating suffered since the days of Custer.

The Blues had only 29 hits to show for their 34 runs. The first 24 batters for the Blues crossed the plate. Dazed and confused, Belanger's didn't retaliate until the third inning when they pushed across a run by Dave Dennington. They added two more in the last frame.

For the Blues, Greg Phillips, Mike Theison and John Bolan all had home runs. Bolan had two while knocking in six runs. Jim O'Brian had five singles and a double as he accounted for five runs batted in. John Mach Ford was the next victim to be decimated by the Blues. Burt Mach and Jim Rogers were the only Ford's to get hits. For the Blues, Ed Kritch pitched the shutout.

Rizzo Real Estate took a 15-13 win over Long-Zayti. Bob Gerlach powered out two home runs for the winners, knocking in three runs. Charles Johnson and Pete Talbot also hit home runs for Rizzo. For Long-Zayti, Bill Sinclair had two hits, one a home run, while knocking in five runs.

Long-Zayti came back to take a 7-6 win over Spicer Tool. John and Bill Sinclair were the big guns for the winners as each hit home runs. Bill had two, knocking in four runs. Jim Manderville belted two roundtrippers for Spicers, but it wasn't enough to gain a victory.

Sheehan's on the Green went on the rampage in the fifth inning of its game against State Farm. Up until that time, Farm had a 4-2 lead. But then the dam broke. Sheehan's crossed the plate 16 times before it was over. Farm managed to push two more runs across in the fifth but it was too little too late.

Sheehan's hit seven doubles and two

Doc's Jocks still on top

Doc's Jocks kept their hold on first place with a 10-3 win over third place Sheehan's Little Caesars last week. Chris Suddendorf parlayed two hits and a walk into three Jock runs in leading Doc's to victory. Leslie Nadeau scored once and had four hits, including a double. Katie Rudden added a home run in the first inning. Sherry Metz, Pam Metz and Barb Reber scored the three Caesar runs.

Dave's Trim Shop played like anything other than a fifth place team as they clobbered E.D.M. Special Tires 27-8. Dave's had 27 hits in the contest with Jodi Gatteri, Gayle Richardson, Wendy D'Haene, Linda Justice, Pam Soncrant and Cheryl Cook all collecting three hits. Gatteri had a home run. Conle Socrant went four-for-four with a triple for the winners. Jean Greis had a two-run single for E.D.M. while Sue Booth contributed a two-run home run.

The Northville Record blasted Joe's Little Bar off the field 16-6. Kim Kurzawa had four hits for the winners including a double. She scored three runs. Leslie Cook had a double and a triple, while Wendy Gross, Julie Abraham and Judith Higbee had two hits each. Mary Bruek had two hits for Joe's.

Northville Lab held off a furious rally in the final inning to beat the Choo Choo Water Wheelers 21-20. The Wheelers scored 11 times in the final frame to make the game interesting. The Lab had scored 10 times in their half of the last inning to seemingly pull away with the win.

Denise MacDermaid and Pat Brown had home runs to help the Lab's cause while Eve Williams and Colleen Brewer had three hits each. Brown also had three hits. Cathy Martin, MacDermaid, Williams, and Brown each scored three runs.

For the Wheelers, Judy Korte parlayed three hits and a walk into four runs for the losers. Betty Kemp had four hits for the Wheelers and Sheila McIntosh three.

Spurs win

Chuck Kellar led the Northville Hot Spurs to the 14-and-under league championship last week by scoring eight goals in four games. He had scored only four goals during the regular season.

In the first game, against Livonia 8, the Hot Spurs won 10-1. Scott Gala canned five goals and Kellar got two. Mike Ross also scored twice and Joel Grasley once in the lopsided victory. That game was on Tuesday.

On Thursday, the Hot Spurs tangled with the Farmington 1 team and came away 6-3 winners. Gala scored twice as did Kellar. Ross and Andrew Romanik each tallied once.

In the quarterfinal game on Saturday against the Northville United team, the Hot Spurs won 3-1. Joey Arwady, Ross and Kellar were the fire-power for the Hot Spurs that contest.

On Sunday the Hot Spurs met the Livonia 3 team for the championship. The Spurs went into the second half trailing 2-1. Kellar had scored in the first half for them.

In the second half he went to work again, scoring two more goals to give the Spurs a 3-2 win and the league championship. Gala and Arwady got assists.

Bob Foster was in goal the whole playoff series. In 11 games this year, he has given up just 16 goals.

Gala finished the year with 17 goals, Kellar had 12 and Ross eight.

Yearly Fuel Cost is based on what you would pay for fuel in 1 year if you drive 12,000 miles and pay 90 cents per gallon for gasoline. Daily fuel costs are based on dividing the yearly cost by 365.

Remember, compare these estimates to the estimated MPG of other cars. You may get different mileage depending upon how fast you drive, weather conditions, and trip length. Source: US Environmental Protection Agency.

Reed helps Schoolcraft to All-American honors

College athletics have come under fire recently for recruiting violations that have pointed out the fact that some schools will lower their academic standards in order to obtain the services of superior athletes.

It is refreshing to be able to show the opposite side of the coin. Northville's Phil Reed and his teammates on Schoolcraft Community College's cross-country team prove that the image of the "dumb jock" isn't always true.

Schoolcraft's cross-country team was recently ranked eighth in junior colleges across the nation scholastically with a combined grade point average (GPA) of 3.28.

Eastern Oklahoma State College is ranked first with a 3.818 standard, with the College of Southern Idaho, Hutchinson Community College, Spoon River College, Barton County Community College, Oakton Community College, Lane Community College and Gloucester County College all finishing ahead of Schoolcraft.

Schoolcraft was the only school that had two athletes with perfect 4.0 GPA's. Mark McKenny of Novi and Randy Schacht of Livonia were the scholars.

Reed is a sophomore majoring in Industrial Welding and Technology while working towards an Associates Degree in Applied Science.

Reed finds that combining running and studies isn't hard at all. In fact, he thinks that the combination is beneficial for him. "My grades go up when I'm in season," he said. "After running, I'm relaxed and I can study well."

"It's not hard to divide my time during the season. It is just a matter of depending on yourself for discipline," he said.

Besides running, Reed has another hobby worth note. He constructs model ships. "I used to belong to the Master Modelers Club of Michigan and at the time, I read in their magazine about a guy who had over 57 models. I now have 153 so I guess that puts me in the top 10 in Michigan." He has been making the ship models for 11 years, starting when he was 10.

Reed said that the team didn't do well in competition because it was made up of great runners in other events, such as hurdles and shorter races, but not long distance people.

"I solved that problem though. I recruited Northville's number-two distance man, Jim Bedford for the team next year."

Just one thing Phil. Don't forget to study.

Rizzo shows power

triples in the fifth to get its runs. Tim Doyle had three hits for the winners, knocking in two runs. For State Farm, Tom Mallon belted a home run.

Rizzo-Reality won its second game of the week by beating Belanger's 34-3. Belanger's managed just five hits to the winner's 29. Rizzo had five home runs from three different players. Dan Christy and Gary Lisowski each had two while Johnson belted one. Lisowski had nine runs batted in during the contest. Belanger's must have thought it had entered the twilight zone after the two identical losses to the Blues and Rizzo.

Despite a fourth-inning home run by Manderville, Spicer Tool went down to defeat at the bats and gloves of Sheehan's on the Green. Rob McGuire and Don MacDonald had home runs for the winners.

Each team had two triples to their credit but Winners Circle made its count as Little Caesar's went down to defeat 8-5. Jim Hostetter and Norm Kubitsky each belted three-baggers for the winners while Dennis Rons and Chuck Wren hit triples for Little Caesar's. Both Hostetter and Kubitsky scored on their hits, but only Rons crossed the plate from third on his.

In the National League, first place Sheehan's Little Caesars won twice last week. Sheehan's beat the Northville Players 6-3 and the Eagles 14-11.

Against the Players, Sheehan's scored twice in the first inning, once in the second and three times in the third. Big blows for the winners in that game came in the third when Don Phillip hit a triple knocking in George Borth who had singled, then came home on a double by Mark Miller. Mike Taschner then doubled to bring Miller home for the third Sheehan run of the inning. Delaine Haromon hit a home run for the Players.

Jim Overby, Steve Gossard and Taschner all hit home runs in the fourth inning to provide the margin for victory against the Eagles. Rick Dodson had four hits for the Eagles while Gary Pitcher had three.

Jim Storm shutout second place Custard Time-Cutler Realty (C/R) 5-0 behind the three-hit pitching of Gary Sauer. Victor Cole had three hits for the winners while John Sherman led C/R with two.

In their next game, Jim Storm dropped a 13-10 contest to St. Paul's Lutheran. It's said that walks will kill you and in Storm's case, this was true as pitcher John Fullford gave up seven walks and all the runners scored. Ross Hahn's double was the only extra-base hit for the winners, who parlayed 17 of them into 13 runs. For Jim Storm, John McAllen had a double and a single while David Haire and Steve Hartwig each collected two singles.

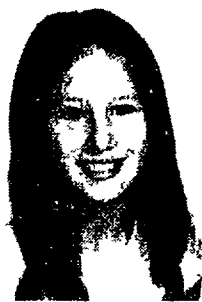

The Northville Jaycees handed O.L.V. an 8-6 loss last week. Scoring five runs in the fifth inning, the Jaycees gave third place O.L.V. a 6-3 mark for the season. Jim Hepler had three hits for the winners as did Mark Kaufman. O.L.V. had a five-run inning of their own in the sixth but it wasn't enough for the win. Ron Renault, Bill Brielmaier and Bob Turon each had two hits for the losers.

Custard Time-Cutler Realty played the Northville Players and came out of the melee 18-17 winners. C/R had 26 hits in the contest with Gary Callender, Mike Price and George Danis all collecting four hits apiece. For the Players, Carl Harmon and Don Barrett both smacked home runs. Barrett also had two doubles.

The Brew Hogs played twice last week, dropping an 8-2 game to the Yankee Carpenters and tying the Eagles 11-11.

Against the Carpenters, the Hogs were led by Jim VanGrieson. He had a double and a single and scored a run. The Carpenters countered with Butch Kuptz' and John Stankin's home runs. Kuptz had four runs batted in during the game.

The Hogs got a home run from Brad Westfall in the seventh inning to help them finish with a tie against the Eagles. VanGrieson had three hits, scored twice and knocked in two runs during the game. For the Eagles, Al Runge smacked three hits including a double, scored four times and knocked in two runs. Don Ylitalo scored three times for the Eagles, collecting two hits.

Northville's Beth Rafail helped her Twisters Gymnastics club from the Livonia Family Y to a second-place finish at the state championships for 10-and-under which took place in early May. The contest took place at the Whitlock Gymnastic Club in Birmingham.

Rafail, one of four members who qualified for the meet from the Twisters team took a fourth place finish in the floor exercises, defeating over 60 other gymnasts. Barb Minney placed

HOW COME SOME PEOPLE CAN WALK UP TO A BLACKJACK TABLE AND ALWAYS WALK AWAY A WINNER

They are probably Graduates of the GUARANTEED program at the Stanley Roberts School of Winning Blackjack. A school that is so unique, and so effective that people have traveled from far and wide to attend the classes. They completed the training over a four-day period, and were then able to return home with new confidence, new skills, and a potential new way of life.

What a life! Our Graduates lead! More than 500 of our students have now learned the joys of freedom from worry about money. They don't have to work they know how to play. They know how to win. They know how to win the freedom that comes from knowing that you can earn up to $500.00 per day, by using the skills taught at the Stanley Roberts School of Winning Blackjack. GRADUATES ARE OUR MOST EFFECTIVE ADS.

In spite of extremely limited advertising we have steadily maintained a 4-5 week waiting list, almost from the time that our doors first opened in July of 1976. Why are people willing to wait? The answer is simple. Our graduates living proof that the most effective advertising that exists. Because, they are consistently, but also that the system that it takes to do it can be learned by the average person — quickly and easily — at the Stanley Roberts School of Winning Blackjack. Yes it can be done, and it is being done, every week, by people like you.

There are two positive reasons why the instruction is so successful. First the method for the Stanley Roberts School teaches the most effective, workable system is based upon a game of Blackjack that has been developed. The data which was then refined and simplified by Stanley Roberts into the most practical, easy-to-use method that would yield substantial winnings when used at casino Blackjack Tables. There are a number of Blackjack Systems on the market today, and it is becoming general knowledge that some of them can beat the game of Blackjack, if they are correctly applied. However, the fact is that the most of the more highly complex systems cannot be learned and used by the average person, especially in a casino environment. And this fact makes them and effectiveness and that is why it has earned its reputation as the finest available.

The second success factor is the unique program of instruction at the Stanley Roberts School of Winning Blackjack. The only legitimate educational institution of its kind in Michigan. Our facilities include a comfortable classroom equipped with a genuine casino Blackjack Table as well as real casino chips and they will later use it to win.

A 100% MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE

Classes are generally kept to a maximum of seven students so that you are assured of receiving all of the individual attention and tutoring that you require. The instruction is administered by the Michigan Director of the Stanley Roberts School — Blackjack Expert, Bill King, who now divides his time between drawing huge sums of money from the Blackjack Tables of Las Vegas, and teaching others to do the same thing at the Stanley Roberts School in Southfield. The tuition for the entire program, including all text materials, is $495. This fee is less than a fraction of what other professionals (e.g. doctors, attorneys, etc.) pay for their education. And you can earn far more than they do — up to $500.00 per day! This means that you can more than cover the cost of your education in one day — on the job.

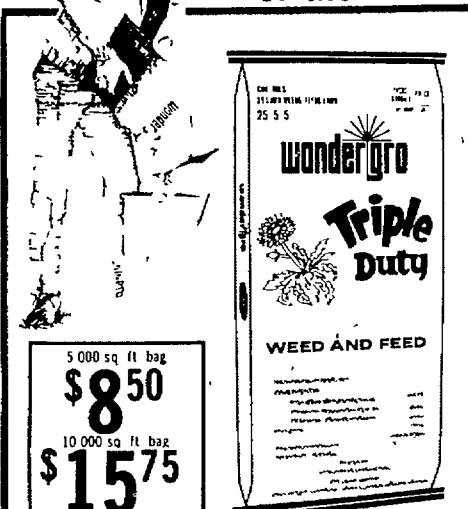

But the best thing of all about the instruction at the Stanley Roberts School of Winning Blackjack is that it is backed by a 100% Money-Back Guarantee. That's right! We are so proud of our success rate, that we can guarantee that you will be able to use the Stanley Roberts System to WIN, and that you will experience this very fact right in our classroom — before you ever walk into a casino. If you are one of the few people who need an extra session or two in charge. And if you simply cannot learn, we will give it to you — absolutely free of charge. And if you could not possibly ask for a fairer deal than that! We offer this warranty to you for your peace of mind — but we are sure that you will not need to take advantage of it. In over 500 students, nobody has ever been unable to master the system. And no one has ever asked for a refund. Our Graduates have been, and continue to be, thoroughly successful in winning with the techniques that they have learned at the Stanley Roberts School and are reaping their rewards in casinos around the world — from Las Vegas, Reno and Atlantic City, to Monte Carlo, London and the Caribbean.

THOSE REWARDS CAN BE YOURS AS WELL

Yes, as a Graduate of the Stanley Roberts School of Winning Blackjack, you can win up to $500.00 per day playing Blackjack, easily. The opportunity is yours, and the choice must be yours as well. Do you want to experience what it means to be a winner? Do you want to know the thrill, the excitement, the security, and the incredible lifestyle? Then, telephone the School at (313) 569-1063, Monday through Friday between 9 A.M. and 6 P.M. Or save time! Send $150 as a tuition deposit to the Stanley Roberts School, 17000 West Eight Mile Road—Suite 73A, Farmington, Michigan 48075 and we will enter your name, immediately, on our waiting list for the first available session. Either way, you will have taken the first step towards realization of your high-est goals.

Michigan Bell

Michigan Bell... people who enjoy serving people.

If you have children at home, would they know who to call in case of a fire, accident or sudden illness? Be sure you have listed near your phone the numbers of your doctor, hospital, poison control, police, fire department and other emergency numbers. Show your children how to find those numbers, how to dial them (if they don't already know), how to call the operator; let them know if 911 can be dialed for fire, medical or police help in your area. Write down your home address near these numbers, too, so your children or your baby-sitter can give it to people who need to find your home in a hurry. (But, for safety's sake, you should instruct them not to give your address or other information to strangers on the phone.) Your telephone can be a lifesaving help in an emergency. DETROIT EDISON OFFERS EIGHT IMPORTANT TIPS TO HELP YOU GET THE MOST OUT OF YOUR AIR CONDITIONER THIS SUMMER.

Fortunately, Detroit Edison customers have plenty of electric power available. Now and in the future. It's the result of planning, development and investment and the fact that over 81 percent of Detroit Edison's power is generated from coal, the nation's most abundant fuel. The balance is generated from other fossil fuels. Even so, none of us should waste energy. So follow these tips and stay cool and comfortable all summer long.

1 Keep your air conditioner on moderate setting. When it's hot, set it to 78° or higher.

2 Pull down shades and close draperies to keep out the hot sun.

3 Be careful not to block the flow of cool air.

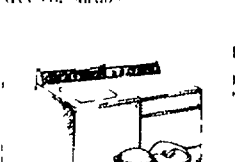

4 Shade windows from outside with vented red awnings, solar screens, trees or shrubs.

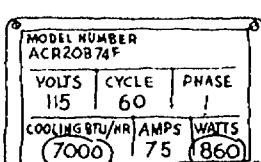

5 Keep air filter, coils, registers and return ducts clean.

6 Cool off hot attic at night with an attic exhaust fan.

7 Use heat and humidity producing appliances such as your oven, washer and dryer only in the morning or in the evening.

8 If you're buying a new air conditioner, you'll save electricity if you select one with an energy efficiency rating (EER) of 8 or higher. The EER is figured by dividing the Btu's by the watts.

City residents to get break on summer sewer bills

City property owners will get a 20-percent reduction in their rate bills this summer.

Council enacted the unique "summer break" Monday, recognizing that increased use of water for lawn sprinkling does not necessarily mean similar increased use of the sewer system.

Also persuading council to give city residents a break on their summer bills was a report that the deficit in the water and sewer fund is rapidly diminishing.

"The water and sewer fund will have repaid all but $20,000 of the previous deficit as of June 30, 1979," reported City Manager Steven Walters.

"This is somewhat ahead of the projection, mainly because of the substantially increased water consumption by the Ford Valve Plant because of the temporary failure of their well which normally supplies water for cooling."

In painting a brighter picture of the water and sewer fund, Walters added that a summer rate rebate is therefore feasible.

The 20 percent reduction in the sewer rate for two billing periods is both financially realistic and practical to implement without computer programming changes, said the city manager, who noted that the reduction would result in a total rebate to customers of approximately $19,300.

Walters emphasized that since billing occurs at different periods, based on two routes in the city, some customers will enjoy the rebate at different times:

Route 1-For the months of May and June use, bills will be mailed out at the end of July; for July and August useage, bills will be mailed at the end of September.

Route 2-For the months of June and July, bills will be mailed at the end of August; for the months of August and September, bills will be mailed at the end of October.

For a family of two, the two month useage of 8,000 gallons would result in a $1.97 rebate, while a family of five with a two-month usage of 31,000 would get a $6.64 rebate.

Novi firm may get paint job

Although council has not yet acted, it appears to be leaning towards awarding the exterior painting contract at Allen Terrace senior citizens apartments to the second lowest bidder.

According to City Manager Steven Walters, the low bidder — Uni-Flow Inc. of Pontiac — has withdrawn its bid of $9,750 on grounds that it made a calculation error.

The second low bidder, which is likely to get the contract if investigation into its past projects proves satisfactory, is Paint-tract Inc. of Novi. It bid the project at $13,550.

Nine bids were received — four of them under $20,000. The others ranged upward to $28,500.

In a related Allen Terrace matter, council urged immediate temporary installation of "rest benches" along side the steep drive to Allen Terrace.

Permanent benches are planned, said Mayor Paul Vernon, but their installation awaits completion of the drive paving.

Vernon said benches are planned elsewhere along the route to the downtown area for senior citizens walking to, and from Allen Terrace.

Day camp to start here soon

Registration for the rec department's summer day camp program began Monday, June 18 and will continue through Friday, June 22.

The day camps will be offered at three different locations. From 9 a.m. to noon, camps will take place at Winchester Elementary and at the Scout Building. From 12:30 to 3:30 p.m., a camp will take place at Silver Springs Elementary.

The cost of the camps, which are for youngsters 5-10 years old, is $25. Each camp will run seven weeks, Monday through Friday. This works out to over 100 hours of camp time, or under 25 cents an hour. This is quite a bargain these days.

The seven weeks will consist of organized games on the playground, arts and crafts, special events including a trip to the Detroit Zoo, a puppet show, a safety parade, an open swim, a bowling day, a Maybury picnic and at the end of the session, a gala picnic for all three camps.

Two men receive degrees

Two Northville men have been awarded degrees in the 143rd annual commencement exercises at Kalamazoo College.

They are Phillip Pasquale Dagostini, son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Dagostini of 37520 Eight Mile, and Thomas Kelley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Kelley Jr of 22279 Haggerty.

Jacquelyn Anderson Mattfeld, president of Barnard College, delivered the commencement address on June 9.

INVEST YOUR WORK, TIME AND MONEY IN A HABITANT FENCE THAT WILL LAST & LAST & LAST

Many fences sold locally are made from spruce and other woods which have a very limited lifetime outdoors — even when painted or stained. Habitant fences are manufactured from northern white cedar — a wood which has a natural resistance to rot and decay, much like pressure treated wood. It will last 5 to 6 times as long as spruce or other untreated white woods. It costs a little more but ITS WORTH IT!!!

Relief a sign away

Crews are shown above installing signs at Newburgh Yard in Edward Hines Park designating it as the new Wayne County Sheriff Mini-station. Richard E. Manning (D-Redford/Livonia), Chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, far left, said the new police mini-station will not only help facilitate handling of rowdy youngsters currently causing problems for local home owners living near the park, but it will also remind would-be trouble-makers that law and order is just a step away. Members of the Wayne County Road crew putting up the sign are (l-r) George Hornshaw, Judy Rinaldi, Mike Stearnes, and foreman Earl Davison (kneeling) and Edward Wojciechowski.

Is solicitation fair?

The police won again when businessman Del Black took on the Police Officer's Association of Michigan (POAM) last week.

Black, owner of Del's Shoes, 153 East Main, complained of constant telephone calls from POAM callers soliciting donations and advertisements for the policemen's ball brochure.

When he asked the caller if she had a license to solicit she said she was not a member of POAM but just working for them.

"I asked if she was licensed. How do I know if this, or other calls I get, are legitimate? I am called weekly by intimidating organizations asking for money. They ask, 'Can we count on you to do your share?' I have to have a license to solicit. Why don't they?" complained Black.

But a check with the Michigan Consumer Protection Agency affirmed that while Black, a businessman, can't ask for money or sell without a license, the POAM and other non-profit corporations can.

And no one can tell telephone solicitors what to say, said Burt Yunker, chief investigator of the consumer protection agency.

"POAM is a legitimate union and registered as a non-profit organization in the state of Michigan," Yunker said.

Though a local ordinance can require such corporations to get a license to solicit, there is no such ordinance in Northville.

Thus, Black and other businessmen have to put up with the calls — unless, Yunker said, the caller is totally misrepresenting himself.

"In most cases, an organization will hire a publishing company who sells advertisements for the organizations brochure or magazine, which is perfectly legitimate," Yunker said. "If a businessman has a complaint or question about the legitimacy of the caller, he should contact us."

Yunker's office is at the Attorney General's Office in Lansing.

Pursell to hold 'town hall'

Congressman Carl Pursell will hold an informal "Town Hall" meeting this Saturday for residents of Northville and Plymouth.

Pursell asked residents to drop in between 9:30 and 11 a.m. at Tanger School, 40260 Five Mile, Plymouth, for coffee and conversation with the lawmaker.

Pursell said the Town Hall meetings allow him to hear local opinions and concerns on state issues.
