TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

Spoiled for parade

Northville Postmaster John Steimel had been toying with the idea of skating in tomorrow's Fourth of July parade. Now, however, he thinks he'll "wait a bit longer" before going public. Last week while practicing on Hill Street in front of his home, the self-appointed captain of Northville street skating enthusiasts admittedly "got a little too cocky." He came shooting down the hill, hit something near the bottom, took off like a bird and spread-eagled onto the pavement, his neighbors report. But he's already back on the skates. The accident prevents participation in this year's parade, he says, "but I'll be ready next year." Meanwhile, insisting through puffed lips that the accident "was nothing," Steimel has invited his stick-in-the-mud Kiwanis club buddies to come over and join him. "Street skating's a great activity. There's nothing to be afraid of...why, you could break an arm typing, too."

Fourth of July celebration

Runners to kick off tomorrow's parade

With the crack of a starter's pistol, several hundred marathoners will begin their yearly run to Plymouth, and thus begin this year's July 4th parade in Northville.

The parade will assemble at nine a.m. sharp at Northville Downs, and will leave the parking lot there at precisely 10 a.m. The theme for this year's Independence Day extravaganza will be "Northville: Progress with Tradition."

The marathoners will lead the parade north on Griswold from the Downs to Main, where they will pass the judges stand at city hall, and on down to Rogers where they will turn south, and then turn east on Cady and proceed to Wing where they will head south again and go to Fairbrook, where they will turn east and cross Center and return to the Downs.

The grand marshal of the 1979 parade will be former Mayor Jim Allen. He will be accompanied by Wayne County Sheriff William Lucas, Mayor Paul Vernon, District Judge, James Garber, Township Supervisor Donny Thompson, State Representative Jack Kirksey (R-Livonia), State Senator Robert Geake (R-Northville), Wayne County Commissioners Mary Dumas and Bill Joiner, Township Police Chief Ron Nisun, Michigan Jaycee President Alex Arends, and Northville Jaycee President Ron Barnum.

Parade Chairman Jim Abbey said this year's entries will include some of the best participants of past Northville parades. They include the First Michigan Colonial Fife and Drum Corp, the Plymouth Fife and Drum Corp, the Tri Club Lions Youth Band from Amherstburg, Canada, the Northville Community Band, The Plymouth Community Band and the Farmington Community Band.

The Marching groups will include members of VFW Post 4012, American Legion Post 147, the Northwest Territorial Militia, the Plymouth-Canton Pom Pom girls, the Plymouth-Salem Rocketts, the Northville Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and Brownies, the Northville Montessori Center, the Highland Lakes Citizen Group and members of Northville Co-op Nursery.

Floats will be entered by the Northville Co-op nursery, the Canton-Plymouth-Northville YMCA, the Highland Lakes Citizens, The Northville Republican Club and the Northville Recreation Department.

Two groups of antique autos will be in the parade, including 12 from the Northville Antique Car Club, and 10 from an unnamed Northville area car club.

The Jaycees will don clown outfits and follow behind the equestrian groups, which will include members of Copp's Riding Academy and William

Ecumenical service

a moving experience

"A very uplifting way to start off the 4th of July celebration", is how long time Northville resident Jack Blackburn describes the ecumenical church services which have started at 8 p.m. in the Mill Race Historical Village on Independence Day for the past four years.

"It's quite an experience to be out among all different types of people from different churches in Northville," Blackburn said.

"My wife and I have always enjoyed being there. We haven't missed a one since they started them in 1976. I would recommend them to anyone who's interested."

The morning service will begin with a call to prayer by the Reverend Lloyd Brasure of the First Presbyterian in Northville. The unison prayer will be delivered by Reverend James Andrews of Full Salvation Church.

A choral response will follow the unison prayer, with the combined choirs from the seven churches singing under the direction of First Presbyterian Choral

Mill Race activities to focus on 1900

"Turn of the Century Independence Day Celebration" will be the theme of this year's July 4th activities at the Mill Race Historical Village.

Included in the events which will begin after the parade ends at 11 a.m. will be a chicken barbecue, a watermelon eating contest and a dunk tank, sponsored by the Northville Jaycees; an arts & crafts fair, tintype photographer, Weaver's Guild demonstration in the Cottage House, Northwest Territorial Militia encampment and a white elephant auction, sponsored by the Northville Historical Society.

In addition, an ecumenical church service will be held in the Mill Race at 8 a.m., two hours before the parade starts. (see related story.)

Cheryl and Chris Gazely, chairpersons of the historical society's share of the Mill Race Celebration, said they decided to create a theme for this year's activities to remind people that "July 4th is a celebration of our nation's independence," and to stay within the atmosphere of the 19th century buildings in the Mill Race.

Cheryl said there will be no admission to the celebration charged, although there will be cost of $4 for the chicken dinner, which will include a half portion of chicken, a scoop of cole slaw, a handful of chips and a soft drink. In addition, the Jaycees will be offering a hot dog dinner that will cost $2 and include the same items as the chicken barbecue. Both dinners begin at 11 a.m., and will continue until the day's events end at 5 p.m.

Jaycee President Ron Barnum said the local celebrities for the Jaycee sponsored dunk tank which starts at 1 p.m., will include city police chief Rodney Cannon, employees of Cutler Real Estate and Real Estate One in a special grudge match, Northville's Junior Miss Chris Stevens and her first runner up, Dina Irwin, Northville Township officials, ("except Don Thompson who chickened out," according to the Jaycees), city fire officials, and members of high school athletic teams.

A community band will serenade the celebrities from the newly constructed

Water board members get vote of confidence

Edward McNeeley was reappointed to the Northville Township Water and Sewer Commission by the Northville Township Board of Trustees at a special meeting Wednesday night.

Another vacancy on the commission will be filled July 12, Township Supervisor Don Thomson said.

The board also voted to reconfirm Robert Terwin as chairman of the water and sewer commission for another year.

Both votes came in the midst of apologies from the board that McNeeley and Terwin had been subjected to any question of their integrity, charges of conflict of interest by neighbors, and exposure in the press.

William H. Conrick, 20120 West Whipple, Nate Whiteside, 20173 West Whipple, and Thomas Dasher, 20180 East Whipple, had appeared at a public meeting before the board June 21 to ask that the board address itself to a potential conflict of interest Terwin and McNeeley might have had with the North Beacon Woods subdivision.

Whiteside was the only one of the three to appear at the special meeting Wednesday. Conrick and Dasher did not attend.

To open Wednesday's meeting, Township Engineer L.W. Mosher made a statement to the board. Part of his statement (see related story) dealt with the conflict of interest question.

"I read a story that certain persons alleged publicly that two members of the water and sewer commission have exercised a conflict of interest for their personal benefit in regard to the development of North Beacon Woods Subdivision and the construction of its sewer system," he said.

"I stand here to report, with all the emphasis I can command, that I am totally cognizant of all arrangements and developments in this matter and that any persons making such allegations are either vicious, venal liars or are so ignorant of the facts as to have no justification for offering any opinions," Mosher said.

Terwin, McNeeley and all the board members criticized conflict of interest charges being without foundation and irresponsible.

"This is preposterous," Terwin said about the conflict of interest question.

Terwin said he did not know his contractor, Statewide, had won the sealed bid to put concrete pipe from his company into the North Beacon Woods subdivision.

Terwin told the Record recently that he had not supplied "one penny" of the pipe in any Northville Township subdivision; Mosher said his office did an analysis and found that the company Terwin works for, National Concrete Pipe Company, supplied only nine percent of the pipe in North Beacon Woods.

"Knowing the situation with Jack (McNeeley), the same thing applies," Terwin said. "He had a personal matter that had nothing to do with his relationship on the commission or anything else. I really can't believe that people would pick up on something like that

PINCKNEY—If the Howell Fire Department had not arrived so quickly at the scene of the recent fire at Lavey Hardware in Pinckney, the "whole damn block could have gone up in flames," Pinckney Police Chief Bill Smith said. "Without the ladder truck that Howell has, the fire could have been a lot worse than it was. When you have a second story fire like that you need a ladder truck to get up high enough to discharge the water directly into the flames."

BRIGHTON—Conrad Cook of Home Lake in Brighton Township has learned his lesson. He tried to ride his backyard of an insignificant little snake and it bit him. Bitten on the middle finger, Cook would have ignored the bite if visiting relatives hadn't suspected the worst. That's right. It was a rattlesnake, later identified as a massasauga, better known as the "pigmy rattler."

SOUTH LYON—Accused of failing to tell South Lyon citizens and two members of council the results of a suit against three other council members for alleged violation of the state open meetings act, City Attorney Arnold Shifman said the law did not require him to make such a public report. Meanwhile, Assistant City Attorney Phil Seymour was saying it was an "oversight" that he had not told council of the state attorney general's opinion that council discussion about its disputes with the police department must be held in public.

NOVI—Plans for the development of a major subdivision on 58 acres of land immediately south of the Novi Woods Elementary School have been announced by the Val-Mar Company. The property extends along the west side of Taft to a point 400 feet north of Ten Mile to the Novi Woods school site.

WALLED LAKE—Mayor Gaspare LaMarca thinks the Walled Lake City Council should designate an acting city manager to fill in when the city manager is on vacation or out of town. The mayor made the suggestion during a recent council meeting, but action was delayed because only four of the seven city council members were present.

NEW HUDSON—A memorial service was held here Sunday for Sergeant First Class Gary LaBohn, who was shot down over Laos on November 30, 1968. "You just can't have a son vanish and not do something," she says, explaining why a service was held. Despite the service, Mrs. LaBohn said she would not give up efforts to find definite proof of what has become of her son, who has been missing ever since being shot down. Mrs. LaBohn has been president of the Michigan chapter of MIA-POW (Missing In Action and Prisoner of War) for the past six years.

NORTHFIELD—The Northfield Township Board voted unanimously to forbid its attorney from accepting any more calls from township residents concerning a planned bluegrass festival or proposed festival ordinance. Each call to the attorney is charged to the township and the township has already spent the entire amount budgeted this fiscal year for attorney fees, officials pointed out.

SOUTH LYON—Jeanne Asch, 15 years an employee of the South Lyon Community Schools, has been named director of transportation. She has served as a secretary in the school system since 1964, much of the time as secretary in the transportation department. Her salary was set at $17,000 plus benefits.

Elizabeth's restaurant

French cuisine its trademark

If French food is your passion, you'll want to visit Elizabeth's.

A full French menu, offering everything from soup to escargots (snails), is available at the new restaurant in Wares Square in Northville.

Even the decor has a French flavor, from the table settings to the wall hangings.

Doug and Elizabeth Campbell took over what formerly was the Crichton House and have been open for business about three weeks.

Elizabeth does all the cooking, while Doug takes care of the business matters.

The owners, who formerly ran a catering service in the Farmington Hills, Birmingham area, day that they have drawn some of their old customers to Northville and also claim to have already established some new regulars.

"We have had people come back three and four times already," Elizabeth said last week. "Things are going very well, so far."

One of the new customers who is very pleased that the Campbells came to Northville is Mrs. Paul Vernon, wife of Northville's mayor.

"The food is really a gourmet's delight," she said. "Everything is perfection plus."

Mrs. Vernon, a member of the city's beautification commission, said that her organization has chosen Elizabeth's as one of the restaurants which will be presented with 'keep Northville beautiful' coasters. The new eatery should receive about 500 of the green and white table protectors, she said.

Some of the specialties de la maison (specialties of the house) include tournedos les triomphe (prime filet mignon served with whole shrimp); veal tenderloin champignons (medallions of prime veal in a light Champagne cream with fresh mushrooms); coulibiac of lamb (boned leg of lamb stuffed with spinach and duxells, sliced and wrapped in a light pastry); and shrimp gaugin (sauteed whole shrimp in French pea pods with a delicate sauce and glazed tenderloin of pork, served with sauteed fresh vegetables).

Elizabeth's also offers a number of French salads, crepes, quiche and strudel.

Elizabeth's serves a complete menu from 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. to 9 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday. The restaurant is closed Sunday and Monday.

'Good luck' name stuck for Glass Crutch

Stan and Kathy Pearson like their trade name so well they've brought it with them for their Northville lounge.

The Glass Crutch Lounge, 18730 Northville Road, is the third such enterprise taken on by the Pearsons. The unusual name, suggested to them by a friend has stuck by them for 12 years.

"Everyone always calls their bar Bobby's, Charlies, Sunnyside, or something like that," Pearson said. "We wanted a more unusual name. The name Glass Crutch has been good luck for me."

The lounge is open from 11 a.m. to 2:30 a.m. every day, Pearson said. Food fare is casual — the grill is always open and sandwiches are served. There is entertainment featuring top-40 and middle-of-the road music starting at 9 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays.

A banquet room is available for parties and meetings, and can accommodate up to 200 persons, Pearson said.

The Pearsons have been in the business 12 years, first with a Glass Crutch in Detroit, then with a Glass Crutch on Merriman and Ford in Garden City. Those bars sold, the Pearsons are trying to fill what they see as a gap in Northville area entertainment spots.

"We used to come to Northville after dinner and find there was no place to go," Pearson said. So we are trying to make the Northville Glass Crutch an intimate pub, trying to serve a good crowd," he said.

City charter's residency requirement on thin ice

Durational residency requirement for holding office in the City of Northville may one day be challenged in court.

City Attorney Philip Ogilvie conceded this much but little else upon learning that a similar charter requirement in Walled Lake is being questioned by a candidate for the city council.

It is possible that Northville's charter could be constitutional even though other city charters containing similar but slightly different wording have been invalidated, said Ogilvie.

The State Attorney General's office concurred with Ogilvie.

However, an assistant AG said that generally the federal courts have found that residency requirements of five, three and two years are unconstitutional. These court findings concern both elective and appointive offices, the AG said.

Northville's charter requires that anyone seeking an elective office must have been a resident of the city "for at least two years immediately prior to the last day for filing petitions for such office."

The charter also provides that members of board and commissions "shall have been a resident of this city or village for at least two years prior to the day of his appointment..."

The irony of the Walled Lake situation is that the man questioning that city's requirement is the same man who challenged and won a court test of the Plymouth residency requirement.

Mahlon D. Green, who has lived in Walled Lake since March 1978, picked up petitions June 19 and left a copy of the 1972 federal court order that invalidated the City of Plymouth's charter requirement.

Seven years ago Green challenged Plymouth's residency rule. While he won the court order to have his named listed on the election ballot, he was unsuccessful in his bid for the council seat.

Concerning the Plymouth decision, Ogilvie said it would be wrong to conclude that Northville's similar charter requirement is automatically illegal. He noted that the Plymouth charter not only required the two year residency it also required the candidate to be a property owner.

Northville's charter does not require property ownership for eligibility, he emphasized.

Even though it lost the court test of its charter, Plymouth has not changed it, the wording remains the same as in 1972. However, Plymouth no longer enforces either the residency or property ownership requirements, a deputy clerk said.

If there is to be a test of Northville's residency requirement chances are it will focus on the requirement for appointive offices. It is for appointive offices that residency most often comes up.

Rarely is residency for elective offices discussed. That's because most persons who decide to seek an elective office have lived in the community for several years.

According to Ogilvie, the residency requirement is based on "good reasoning." A person who assumes an elective or appointive office should have lived in the community a minimum of two years to better understand the community, he said.

The argument against durational residency is that it denies the potential candidate his constitutional "equal protection" guarantee.

Receives Skidmore honor

Mary E. Petersen of Northville, a member of the class of 1980 at Skidmore College, has received honors for the spring term.

Highest honors are awarded for a quality point ratio of 3.6 or higher on a 4-point scale. Honors are awarded to students achieving a ratio of 3.2 or higher.

"We are extremely proud of those students who achieve academic honors," said Skidmore President Joseph C. Palamoun Jr. in announcing the honor students. "Maintaining an honor average under Skidmore's high academic standards is indeed a noteworthy achievement."

Skidmore, a 2,000-student coeducational liberal arts college in upstate New York, offers its students a unique mix of arts and sciences courses, professional programs, and visual and performing arts studies.

Emphasis is placed on allowing each student to experience all segments of Skidmore's diversified curriculum and to determine the program mix that will prepare each individual for postgraduate career work or study.

In addition to its regular programs, Skidmore offers five-year cooperative programs with the Thayer School of Engineering at Dartmouth College and the School of Management at Clarkson College.

Ms. Petersen is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Frederick Petersen of 18786 Jamestown Circle.

Survey wrong school!

A recent surveying mistake will cause further delay in the renovation project of the Annex building Northville school officials learned at a meeting June 25.

School board trustees and audience members tried to hold back laughter when Leonard Rezmierski, director of special education, informed the board of the error.

"It seems that the Main Street building was surveyed instead of the Annex," he said. "Either the surveying company was misinformed or they made the mistake on their own. We are not sure what happened."

The muffled laughter ceased when board members were told that the error will cause a four to six-week delay in the bidding procedure.

After the correct building is surveyed — sometime this week officials hope — the state fire marshal must come from Lansing to inspect the building and the final plans. This will not happen until at least the middle of July, Rezmierski said.

The renovation project, which has been in the planning stages for almost two years, is being funded by a $1.2 million state grant. The school district recently received $365,000 of the grant monies.

Melford is chosen to lead 'Mainstreet 78' campaign

Northville merchants have elected Michael Melford to serve as chairman of the campaign committee to win voter approval of the public improvement program for the city's downtown business district.

The "Mainstreet 78" proposal, which lost at the polls on February 20 by a vote of 318 to 260, goes back to city voters on July 31.

Melford, 28, is co-owner of the Weskonson Company, building contractors with offices at 142 North Center street.

The plan to improve lighting, sidewalks, parking lots and beautify the business district through landscaping techniques will be financed from revenues derived from anticipated tax-base increases. But the proposal must have voter approval for improvement bonds to be sold.

Mainstreet 78 has been given the enthusiastic support of the city council, which views the project as a means of stimulating private investment in the business.

Local merchants have rallied together to carry the message to voters in the city. "We want them to understand and believe, as we do, that Mainstreet 78 will benefit the total community and strengthen the local tax-base," Melford stated.

Most observers contend the issue failed to gain voter support in February because of taxpayer fear that the tax increment financing plan would not be sufficient to pay off the proposed $1.6 million bond issue.

Supporters of the project argue it will generate enough new taxbase to pay off the bonds within the 15-year period with surplus funds to spare. In its start-up years City Manager Steve Walters points out the city's normal public improvement budget can carry costs without any additional levy in property taxes.

Melford said a concentrated campaign will be conducted beginning in mid-July to inform the public and encourage positive turnout at the polls.

He announced the following committee chairmen for the campaign:

Paul Folino — Informational campaign at July 28 sidewalk sale;
Dan Collins and Andrew Piccoli —

Organization of neighborhood educational campaign;

Scott Lapham — Speakers committee for local clubs;

Stanley Johnston — Program to inform residents of Allen Terrace senior citizens complex;

Toni Genitti — Telephone campaign to get out the vote;

Caroline Dunphy — Campaign literature.

8 Mile sub gets plat ok

Quail Ridge subdivision on Eight Mile got final plat approval at a special meeting of the Northville Board of Trustees Wednesday night.

This clears the way for 65 new homes to be constructed in the subdivision. Houses will be large — 3,100 to 3,500 square feet, and prices for the new homes will start at $170,000, a spokesman said. Many lots in the new subdivision have already been claimed, he said.

Impact Marketing Services, Southfield, will handle the sales of homes in Quail Ridge.

The township board and building inspector Troy Milligan warned Impact Marketing that it hoped not to see building problems similar to those in Whisper Wood Estates off Bradner Road, another Impact Marketing project.

In Whisper Woods 10 homes have building permits over a year old and are still not finished, Milligan said.

Quail Ridge will employ two builders — James Compo and Italo-American, a spokesman said.

'69 Northville grads' reunion set for July 14

Plans for a dinner-dance to mark the 10th reunion of Northville High School's Class of 1969 have been announced.

The dinner-dance will take place on Saturday, July 14 at the Mayflower Meeting House in Plymouth beginning at 6:30 p.m.

The next day, on Sunday, July 15, members of the class will attend a picnic at Kensington Metropark.

Police Blotter

Two drivers hurt in recent car crash

Two drivers were injured in a three-car collision at Eight Mile and Lexington June 13, Northville City police reported.

The 17-year-old driver of one of the cars received a citation for hazardous driving when he attempted to pass the car in front of him on eastbound Eight Mile and hit a third car head-on.

He hit the left rear fender of the car in front of him, which was driven by James Rabaut, 18, of South Lyon. Driver of the third car, Timothy Hogan, 20, of Northville, was taken to St. Mary Hospital.

Tools worth $300 were stolen from the Asher 76 service station at Rogers and Seven Mile June 26, Northville City police reported.

Owner William Asher told police someone had broken the bay door 36 x 20 window at the south end of the garage and stole $300 worth of tools, including a tune-up kit, wrenches, and ratchet.

A bicycle was stolen from the rear yard of a Northville home June 25, Northville city police reported.

The Ramper 24-inch blue ten-speed bike was stolen between 8 and 9 p.m., owner Max Robertson told police.

Liquor and money were stolen from a home in Northville June 25, police said.

Robert Ely, 18, told police that $150 and several bottles of liquor were stolen from his home between June 22 and 23. Whoever stole the items was so neat that he put an empty whiskey bottle back in the cupboard even though he had taken the whiskey, police said.

A battery worth $60 was stolen from a 1973 Chevy pickup truck during the night of June 26, Charles Nichols told Northville city police. Also, an FM-converter was stolen from a 1969 Triumph, Marth Szczepanski told police. The $30 converter was taken from the car through the torn vertible top June 27.

In Northville township, enough hubcaps were stolen last week to make two complete sets.

Two 15-inch spoke wheel covers with red centers worth $150 were stolen from the left side of a 1979 Pontiac June 24, Kenneth Rodney Kovac, of Novi, told police. The larceny occurred sometime during the afternoon, he said.

The same day, two hubcaps were stolen from a parking lot on Haggerty Road from a 1978 Ford LTD belonging to Graham McCue of Plymouth. Description of the wheel covers: 15-inch, spoked, with red centers, worth $140.

Four 15-inch chrome hubcaps worth $300 were taken June 25 from a 1979 Oldsmobile belonging to Gerald Barefoot of Northville in the parking lot of Federal Mogul, police said.

A Northville woman received a citation for reckless driving following an accident June 27, Northville township police reported.

Virginia Huard was driving 10 m.p.h. on Scenic Harbor Drive when her five-year-old daughter tried to touch her toes to the ground off an open tailgate. The girl flipped out of the car hitting her head, police said. She was taken to St. Mary hospital.

No charges have been filed following a disturbance on Northville road June 23, township police said.

Michael Cayley, 31, of Detroit, and Steven Bowers, 21, of Howell, both appeared at the police station, Cayley saying he was driving south on Northville road at 3:45 a.m. when a spotlight was shined into his car, and that Bowers had come at him with a baseball bat.

Bowers said he thought Cayley was someone else and had shown the spotlight to attract attention. When Cayley stepped out of the car yelling, Bowers said he grabbed a baseball bat from the car, police reported.

When Cayley tried to drive away Bowers got back into his car and the cars collided, police said. No charges have been filed, they added.

Advanced degrees earned

Five Northville residents were recipients of advanced degrees at Eastern Michigan University's spring commencement April 21.

Jacque Lynne Downs of

579 Morgan Court and Patricia Mary Troth of 18149 Jamestown Circle were awarded MA degrees, while Suzanne A Kaminski 415 Easton Drive and Terry Wayne

Krug, 510 Randolph received MA degrees. Steven L. Stittle, 22242 Connemara Drive was presented a MBA degree.

DeHoCo may stay after new prison is built

Though the state intends to close a 320-bed prison at the Women's DeHoCo site after a new 550-bed regional prison is erected there, both sites may stay open if the space is needed, said William Kime, deputy director of the Bureau of Programs for the Michigan Department of Corrections.

Kime and four other corrections officials appeared before a group of local officials Thursday night to discuss the state's plans for the women's DeHoCo property which the state bought for $1.6 million from the city of Detroit in May. Local officials said they wanted to make sure the "rules of the game" aren't changed and the state's current plan for the site will be adhered to.

The state's plan is to spend $2.9 million to renovate the crumbling DeHoCo buildings so they are usable as a prison by 1980, officials said. The state will house 320 male medium-security prisoners there.

Meanwhile, they will spend $27 million to construct a new 550-bed regional men's prison directly east of the present DeHoCo buildings.

Kime said that the Women's DeHoCo is scheduled to be torn down when the new building is complete, but that it may stay open awhile for prisoners if the system is crowded.

Prison population in state institutions has risen from 8,000 in 1968 to 15,000 in 1979, Kime said. "This doubling in a decade has put a great strain on the system. We have new sites but we are still 2,000 beds short."

Though state officials said the prison site and facilities are non-negotiable, State Representative Jack Kirksey (R-Livonia) said Friday the community had the right to make them negotiable. "This project will affect the lives of the people here," he said. "They have a right to be involved in major decisions."

Kirksey said the state should clean up its act with the other state institutions in Northville before it starts a new project here.

Even with the state's current plan, officials had many questions Thursday.

"What would prevent prison overcrowding here?" Township Clerk Clarice Sass asked after viewing slides which showed 6,000 people squeezed in to the 5,000-bed Jackson State prison.

It could happen," Kime said. He said that because of the high prisoner population in Michigan, the state's newest 600-bed facility in Muskegon has been stretched to hold 700.

"How do you intend to have a positive impact in this community?" asked Trustee John Swienkowski, Northville township trustee. "The state doesn't need that much land. Probably the best public relations move you could make would be to donate some of that land to Northville township for recreation or a fire department."

Northville Township Trustee James Nowka added that if the state does not use the additional land or give it to the township, it should sell the land to industry or business. "We have state institutions everywhere you look," Nowka said. "It would be nice if the Department of Corrections could direct that the balance of land be put to another use."

But Kirksey said he thought the community should not be satisfied with just a piece of land or a say in small matters concerning the prison. He said the community should not agree to look at plans for a prison until the state corrects what it already has in the community — Northville State Hospital, Plymouth Center for Human Development and other institutions. He said the citizens should fight the plan to put 100 "close custody" prisoners at Northville.

Kime said the prison plan itself is non-negotiable, but that the state would work closely with Northville to discuss concerns about the prison and its affect on the community.

When the 550-bed prison is completed, it will look somewhat like a community college with an electronic double fence around it, Kime said. It will be the first of several regional prisons to be constructed in the state. It will house prisoners from Wayne and Monroe county.

Of the 550 prisoners, 50 would be "minimum custody", 400 would be "medium custody" and "100 would be "close custody," Kime said.

The custody classification depends on the prisoner's behavior and length of prison stay, Kime explained.

Very disruptive prisoners would be housed at Marquette or Ionia, Kime said.

No one has escaped yet from the double-fence microwave barrier system which surrounds the Muskegon facility and federal penitentiaries around the country, Kime said.

The regional prison system is the Michigan Department of Correction's plan called for under House Bill 4106, recently passed unanimously by the House and now before the state senate.

The plan calls for 21 regional prisons to be built during the next century around Michigan. One provision of the plan is that after Northville and Rockwood prisons are built in Wayne County, no further prisons will be built until one is built in Detroit, Kime said.

Powerful political forces have kept prisons out of Detroit, even though three-quarters of the prisoners come from there.

The regional prison concept is better than the old "state" prisons because it allows a prisoner to be housed in a local area close to jobs, family and church, Kime said.

Other regional prisons the state wishes to build would be located in Rockwood, Detroit, Oakland County, Lansing and Saginaw, Kime said.

PRISON—The state has announced plans to rehabilitate the former DeHoCo prison for women (foreground) as the first stage of a major new prison development here. The facility is located in Northville Township, just north of Five Mile and the male division of DeHoCo (top right).

Police elect officers

David P. Fendeleit has been elected president of the Northville Police Officers Association.

Along with Patrolman Fendeleit, William Har-ison was elected vice-president and Susan Hatch was elected secretary-treasurer.

The association is the

Gibson completes Navy training

Navy Seaman Recruit Darrell R. Gibson, son of John Grzema of 42066 Queen Anne Court, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Orlando, Florida.

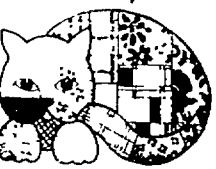

During the eight-week training cycle, trainees studied general military subjects designed to prepare them for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic occupational fields.

Included in their studies were seamanship, close order drill, Naval history and first aid. Personnel who complete this course of instruction are eligible for three hours of college credit in Physical Education and Hygiene.

gazebo, as they learn the true meaning of being 'all wet'. The band will be led by Eric Horner and is made up of Northville residents, Barnum said.

Chris said the weaver's demonstration will include a tapestry loom set up inside the Cottage House for children to try their hand at. The weaver's, which include Wanda Huber, Ruth Whitmayer, Connie Wagenschutz, Martin and Margot Maki, Heather Fee, Carol Nobby and Carol Fortin, will be demonstrating their art from nine a.m. to three p.m.

In addition, the weavers also will be weaving and spinning in the Cottage House every Sunday in July from 1-4 p.m. The Sunday demonstrations are free and open to the public.

"A lot of general miscellaneous junk" will be sold at the White Elephant auction, according to Pat Meyers, auction chairman. The auction will be handled by Mike Egnash, auctioneer, and will begin at 1 p.m. in the old Wash-Oak Schoolhouse. Several antiques also will be sold.

For 50 cents a pitch you will be able to enter the horseshoe throwing contest with a chance of winning $10 only three ringers away. The horseshoe event will begin at 1 p.m.

The sound of musket fire in the Mill Race may not be 'shot heard around the world,' nor will it mean the British are invading Northville, although the muskets fired will include several of the 'Brown Bess' used by the British in the Revolutionary War. The guns belong to members of the Northwest Territorial Militia.

The militia will construct an encampment at the village, where they will demonstrate knife throwing, musket shooting and cooking in an iron pot over a flame all day long. The 24 militia men come from all parts of Michigan and will dress in revolutionary uniforms. The arts and crafts fair will feature 30 booths in the center of the village, over the bridge on the grass. A small flea market will accompany the fair, which will be held all day.

Those attending the Mill Race activities are advised to park in the Ford Motor Company's lot, across the street from the historical village. The lot inside the village will be reserved for the arts & crafts dealers and the popcorn and lemonade concessions. The celebration will go on even if it rains.

Northville's first bandstand in more than 40 years will ring to the tunes of a local community band at the Mill Race on July 4th.

The group organized and directed by Robert John Horner and his brother Eric Horner, continues the tradition of the Northville Community Band. Members who have been practicing for the past week are:

Robert Chapman, David White, Sharon Salisbury, Brian Buckmaster, Amy Fargo, Sharon McFadden, Lolli Francoeur, Betsy Buckmaster, Holly Egner;

Lisa Youngquist, Drew Farkis, Cathy Hildebrandt, Mike Stratton, Nancy Orr, Rick Smith, Mary Jo Marburger, Randy Casteel, Bill Lockwood, Rick Balck, Steve Munsel, Jill Mason, Bill Hopping, Greg Gillum, Robyn Georgoff, and Dee Christian.

The band selections of eight numbers will begin at 1 p.m. during festivities at the Mill Race and will last about an hour.

Director Dave Heinzman. The choir will then sing an anthem

The lessons from the Holy Scripture will be given by the Reverend Father Ronald Thurner of Our Lady of Victory Church. The sermon will be given by the Reverend Leslie Harding of the Church of the Holy Cross Episcopal in Novi. A hymn sung by the audience will follow the sermon.

The benediction will be offered by the Reverend Richard O. Griffith of First United Methodist of Novi. Ushers in the program will be drawn from Girl Scout Cadet Troup 636.

Reverend Harding said he would speak on "the fact that we are very ignorant of our history and our historic past. We try to build on our future, which is shaky at best."

Father Harding said he would stress the "importance of knowing what the past is about so it can help all of us cope with the future." He said he would show the relationship between the historic and the religious past of Americans.

"We need roots and bases to build our lifestyles upon. So many times today, people forget their roots, and suffer for doing so."

The morning service will be held out in the open, weather permitting. In case of rain, Mr. Brasure said the service would be conducted in the old library, located on the grounds of the historical village. He suggests that anyone planning to attend should bring along a chair or a cushion to sit on, as seating will not be provided at the village.

The seven congregations participating in the service include, the Northville and Novi First United Methodist churches, Faith Community Presbyterian, First Presbyterian of Northville, Church of the Holy Cross in Novi, Holy Family Catholic in Novi, Our Lady of Victory in Northville and Full Salvation Union in Novi.

Parade set tomorrow

Lute's pony carriage.

Abbey said this year's theme was chosen to illustrate the rapid rise in home building in the township, and the continued success of Northville's Main Street business district.

Abbey said raffle tickets will be sold by Jaycees along the parade route and in the Mill Race Historical Village after the parade. The tickets cost $1 apiece, or three for $2. The revenue from the tickets will help defray the cost of the parade and the events at the Mill Race. The winner of the raffle will receive a 19 inch color television.

Novi ambulance given approval for new service

Novi Ambulance, Inc. has received approval from the Michigan Department of Health to provide advanced life support services to the cities of Novi and Farmington and to communities in the surrounding area.

The new service, effective July 2, is being implemented in cooperation with Providence Hospital in Southfield. Seven paramedics, trained as advanced emergency medical technicians, are assigned to the Novi Ambulance life support unit to render immediate stabilizing care at the scene of a heart attack, drowning, serious accident or other severe medical problem.

Physicians at Providence Hospital will monitor the vital life signs of the victim which are transmitted to the hospital emergency department over telemetry equipment. They then recommend appropriate treatment to the paramedic on the scene. Once the victim's condition is stabilized, he or she can be transported to a hospital for further treatment.

The advanced life support paramedics will provide service to the residents of Novi, Farmington, Northville and Northville township. Initially, one unit will be based in Novi with a second unit to be based in the city of Farmington in the near future.

The response time for an advanced life support unit to reach the scene of a life-threatening emergency will be less than seven minutes, according to John Early, manager of Novi Ambulance, Inc.

Novi Ambulance has served the Novi-Farmington area with basic life units since 1974. These units will continue to respond to calls for first aid and to transport patients to hospitals. When necessary, they will also act as backup units to the advanced life support unit, providing care at the scene of a serious emergency until the advanced unit arrives.

The paramedics assigned to the new life support unit have all received advanced emergency medical technician training and have passed state examinations for advanced EMT certification. In addition, they have received training in various phases of emergency care through an orientation program at Providence Hospital.

In partnership with the city of Southfield, Providence Hospital was the first hospital in southeastern Michigan to train advanced paramedics and to operate a life support program. Currently, the hospital is supervising six other advanced life support units servicing Southfield, Lathrup Village and West Bloomfield Township.

The hospital's emergency department has also been designated as the Oakland County medical control center for all advanced life support services in the county.

Seniors' picnic set July 12

Rain or shine, Northville Senior Citizens' Club will hold its annual picnic at noon Thursday, July 12.

If the weather's fair, seniors are to bring their own beverage, food dishes, card tables and lawn chairs to the park at Six Mile and Northville Road.

In the event of rain, the picnic will be held in the fellowship hall of First Presbyterian Church. Bob Hennings and Hank Dankert will supervise bingo games at the picnic, Clarence L. Harsch, club president, announces.

Florence Orr and Carrie Barnes, he adds, have volunteered to assist Hazel Sharon, trip chairman, who has been ill. They are planning trips for July and August.

July 19 the bus will leave Northville Square parking lot by Big Boy Restaurant at 7:30 a.m. for Eastern Market. There also will be a dinner.

"When you're sick or hurt, I can give you some old-fashioned attention."

Zoning change is topic for July 17 hearing

A public hearing has been scheduled for 8 p.m. July 17 by the Northville City Planning Commission to consider the request of Frank G. Paul of 508 Gardner for rezoning from Local Commercial District (LCD) to residential (R-2).

Commissioners in the motion agreed to consider rezoning for lots 117-122A on the south side of Gardner in Northville City Plat No. 1.

The hearing previously had been scheduled for the commission's June 26 meeting. It was delayed, however, as there had been insufficient time to give legal notice.

Planning consultant Ronald Nino, who had recommended the hearing for the June 26 meeting, explained that state law reducing number of days' notice required for a hearing applies to township but not city government.

The commission then set the hearing for its next meeting. Previously, members had discussed the area known as Bealtown, which had been rezoned in the master plan to the current LCD use as it was expected there would be race track expansion in the area that would make it less desirable as residential.

The reverse has occurred with homeowners upgrading their property. Paul's rezoning request, the commission was told, is to build a smaller home on property he owns next to his present home on a lot where he now has a swimming pool.

While the commission agreed to hold the public hearing for Gardner Street lots, it voted plan Nino's suggestion that a master plan revision hearing be held in conjunction with the Bealtown rezoning.

Stewart Kissinger proposed the motion and voted for it, as did William Tucker. Opposing and defeating the motion were Chairman C. Thomas Wheaton, Luke Durst, Charles Freydl and Bruce Turnbull.

In discussion, the commissioners indicated they were not opposed to consideration of a new master plan study but did not feel it should be in conjunction with the specific Gardner Street request.

In other action the commission unanimously granted the request of Carl Kneip representing Novi Road Coin Laundromat for a second extension of construction time. The 1,800 square foot building to be constructed at 1067 Novi Road first was brought before the commission in December, 1976.

Kneip said that energy problems and then investment money had caused delays. He told the commission the firm now has a gas permit and plans construction this year with no changes from the original request. Approval automatically is for a year under city regulations.

Commissioners questioned lack of a green belt in the original approval and were told by Wheaton that the obscuring type fence is considered equivalent.

An extension of time was granted also to William Craft for planned East Street apartments due to distress conditions caused by excavation construction arrangements.

Township planners delay transfer to county EDC

The Northville Township Planning Commission has delayed approval of a jurisdiction transfer from the Northville township Economic Development Corporation (EDC) to the Wayne County EDC until township attorneys can review the agreement.

The cautionary move came June 26 despite assurances from Wayne county EDC spokesmen that the township would retain its authority over the proposed $2.7 million bowling alley to be constructed in Northville township by the Wil-O-Mac Corporation.

The Wayne County EDC is attempting to get the authority to issue low interest bonds for the Wil-O-Mac corporation and must have the approval of the planning commission to have jurisdiction over the project rather than the local EDC.

"We're not trying to pre-empt the local authorities," said Bob FitzPatrick, Wayne County EDC executive director. He added that on the Wil-O-Mac or any local project the county EDC would take on would include two citizens of Northville township to sit on their board and monitor the EDC.

Any individual or corporation desiring the build a new business or industry which would cost more than $300,000 is eligible for EDC low-interest bonds, if the new business will generate employment in a community FitzPatrick said.

Wil-O-Mac went to the county EDC for help with its $2.7 million project. Last week, the local EDC agreed to step aside and transfer project jurisdiction to the county EDC.

But when the issue of "transfer of jurisdiction" from local to county EDC came up at the June 26 meeting, planning commissioners questioned whether this means local authorities don't have control over the project anymore, or if by agreeing to that they would be subject to financial liability.

FitzPatrick and Hanson said that the township has final say over the project, and that they need the formal transfer so they can start with the site plan.

Besides the Wil-O-Mac project, FitzPatrick defended the Wayne County EDC's involvement in the future plans of putting a senior citizen center at the vacant Wayne County Child Development Center on Sheldon.

Some local officials wondered how Wayne County got ahold of a senior citizen feasibility study commissioned by the township last fall.

"The reason we have it is because I started a senior citizens advisory committee when I was president of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners," FitzPatrick told the board. He said that group first suggested that Northville township commission the study of the feasibility of putting a senior citizens center into the old Child Development buildings.

He said fast progression was necessary on the senior citizen village plan because under a 1978 Supreme Court ruling the state can build a prison anywhere it wishes without the approval of communities. The state had plans to put a prison on the child development site in 1977 but dropped them after substantial local furor.

"We would like to see a senior citizen city there, with the cooperation of Northville township officials," FitzPatrick said.

Huffman doesn't want takeover of Downs

A proposal to initiate state takeover of thoroughbred tracks in Michigan will not include Northville Downs, the bill's sponsor said Friday.

State Senator Bill Huffman (D-Madison Heights) said Northville was not being considered in his proposal to takeover Detroit Race Course and Hazel Park Raceway.

"Northville is the richest race track in the United States. It makes the most profits, has the highest purses and runs some pretty clean races. I don't envision the state taking over Northville Downs," Huffman said.

He said he was proposing legislation to takeover DRC and Hazel Park because "they are in deep trouble. Admissions are down, betting is down and the size of purses awarded have declined."

"These tracks have been involved in doping horses, in racing sick and tired horses, in fixing races and in running sloppy, shabby races. The betters have a right to be on an honest race, and these tracks are taking away this right."

Huffman said he would model his proposal after similar state takeovers of race tracks in New Jersey and New York. He said that since the two states took over the tracks, the races run there have been the most honest, have had the highest purses and have the "best betting public in the world."

Huffman said since the racing dates were expanded five years ago, the race tracks have "totally neglected their physical operations."

"When the pigeon dung gets so deep that you can't sit down at the race track, then it's time to clean the stands and paint the seats. We don't allow bars with state liquor licenses to serve watered down alcohol, why should we allow race tracks with state racing licenses to operate in this manner?"

Huffman said the conditions at the two tracks have gotten so bad "the state should either run them or close the damn things down."

Huffman's only criticism of Northville Downs is that the barns used to house the horses are made of wood, which he said is a fire hazard and should be improved.

In other commission action:

- Preliminary site plan approval for a new subdivision just east of Township Hall on Six Mile was denied for the time being because Abbey Homes, Incorporated engineers did not present enough information about changes they would make in land contours. The township is interested in buying some of the property for future expansion of township offices, planning commission members noted.
- A lot split was approved for Frank A. Baus — to divide 4.52 acres into four parcels. The new lots are located on Seven Mile and Francis Avenue, just west of Valencia.
- Another lot split was denied by the commission because of a lack of a legal description of the location of the lots in Meadowbrook Estates subdivision.

Ms. Miriam Peterson wanted to split her 5.3-acre lot into three parcels with an easement driveway up the side of her property. Several local residents at the meeting expressed concern about whether it would affect drainage from a pond behind the lot.

When the legal description omission was discovered, Ms. Peterson said she would hurriedly obtain one and call a special meeting of the planning commission.

She said she already sold the house and one third of the property to a young couple, in the mistaken belief that the property could easily be separated into three lots by the township supervisor. The couple, was in the audience.

SPEAKING for The Record By BILL SLIGER

It's an all-too-familiar set of circumstances.

Certain allegations are made at a public meeting. They are reported in the press. There's an uproar and denials. The newspaper is accused of being irresponsible. It's almost as though the charges had never been made; that, in fact, the newspaper had fabricated the entire episode.

The latest example occurred in Northville Township when certain citizens wondered aloud at a meeting of the township board of trustees about the role of a couple of members of the water and sewer commission.

Enough interest was aroused that the board placed the matter on the agenda of its next meeting and invited the two members to attend.

The press reported the circumstances. And in reviewing the tapes of the recorded session it can be reported that the story was accurate. The Record reporter also contacted the two water and sewer commission members and discussed the charges with them directly before writing the story.

Now comes the special meeting with the accused and one of the accusers on hand before the township board.

From the attitude of the township boardmembers one would have to wonder how the issue ever got on the agenda.

Trustee James Nowka declared he had seen or heard nothing to give him concern. Amazingly, he even suggested that the newspaper "should get deeply involved and find out just what the situation is," almost as though the press is an investigative arm for local government.

The newspaper made no charges. It did much more than the township board in that it did contact the accused for comment. And it did report the facts.

If the board was so all-fired certain that there was no validity to the charges why didn't it dismiss the allegations immediately. Then the original story would have provided the township's defense for its appointed water and sewer commission members.

In my opinion there is validity for criticism of the manner in which the press handles stories involving such allegations. I agree with critics that many people read headlines and draw whatever conclusions might result.

In retrospect I believe The Record could have exercised greater wisdom in its choice of headline and its selection of position for the story.

I must emphasize that I firmly believe the facts were properly handled by the reporter. And I have no patience with the tired game of blame-the-press that boardmembers and at least one of the accusers are playing.

But it is not enough for a responsible press just to hang its hat on having the facts right. It must take the time with every story it handles to consider the public impact. A newspaper cannot change the facts, nor can it decide for itself that an action that has taken place is unjust or inaccurate and therefore not fit to be reported.

It must, however, use its very best judgment in how it deals with stories involving people. I honestly believe that the press in our nation does perform its job responsibly. Unquestionably, it makes mistakes. But not nearly as many as those looking for a scapegoat would have the public believe.

The Record was the target for another arrow last week. My old friend Township Engineer Bill Mosher contends that a story on a report he made regarding the township's sanitary sewer situation was "misleading, stupid and ridiculous."

Strong words. And uncalled for, too. I'm surprised at the long-time engineer. And I told him that. Admittedly, the story contains a couple of errors, one dealing with sewer sizes and another with capacity to handle sewage.

Essentially, the facts were correct. It's not unlike reports Mosher has given previously. I can't believe he would issue such a statement (see story elsewhere).

But I do know Engineer Mosher is deeply concerned with the township's lack of sewer capacity to provide for future development. And, obviously, he doesn't want any newspaper making him look like he doesn't know what he's talking about.

He does. The Record knows that. And we share his concern. He insists that Northville Township is already pressing its sewer capacity, particularly when lots that with sewer service available contain houses. And this capacity decreases when leakage of ground water into the system is considered.

Mosher believes it could be 1985 before relief is provided if we wait for EPA approval of the long-standing county plan. The federal Environmental Protection Agency has called for another study on the county sewer plan that isn't scheduled for completion until August, 1981. (And there's no guarantee it will be approved by EPA).

Meanwhile, Mosher predicts there could be a ban on building in this area unless relief is provided either with some kind of a holding tank to control sewage flow, a Haggerty road relief sewer, or a pumping station to force sewage to the larger Wilcox road main.

None of these alternatives is inexpensive. But what happens to local development, especially when institutions like DeHoCo and the old Wayne County Child Development Center again start using more capacity?

Speaking for Myself

Disco fever?

BRIAN STEIMEL

Healthy trend. . .

All hail, "Disco Fever" is here to stay! A new era of high fashion and up-beat dancing begins. From the booming bass, to the pounding drum beat, to the flashing colored lights, we have the phenomenon known as the Disco Revolution!

All ages from 3 on up to 86 are all learning to disco. The Latin Hustle, the Freak, or even the Bionic Boogie are all dances which have originated at an earlier stage in time.

Disco has definitely taken over where Rock and Roll left off. We see the trend of kids who were wearing the patched jeans in the late 60's to the high fashion war now in the late 70's. Disco bars have sprung up all over the nation, and everyone seems to be getting involved.

The disco trend is somewhat of a relief from the loud acid rock of the early 70's. Instead of the loud amplified guitar, we have the up tempo, driving beat that has caught the hearts of millions of people. It has persuaded many kids to dress up and enjoy a night on the town at the local disco. Disco has become a way of life for those once apathetic, indifferent kids. Now they have something to become involved in, from a form of dressing, to a way to spend leisure time, keeping them off the streets.

Disco is here to stay for years to come, it won't last forever, but the change is a welcomed one for now. As the brothers Gibb, famously known as the BeeGees, put it, "This ain't no jive talkin'."

Joe Spiteri
Northville

Awful malady . . .

Disco is no longer just music. It has become a boring, plastic fad that has invaded every aspect of daily life. Kids are being sent to disco dance lessons instead of tap or ballet. Department stores advertise black, shiny disco pants and slinky shirts. While you walk through a sleek clothing store, like "the Alcove," disco tapes are playing on a subliminal, low volume, infiltrative level. It is mass mind control. Even the neighborhood roller rink is changing from a rinky-dink organ sound to a slick-skating disco sound.

The music behind the disco trend is poor to begin with. It is limp music, lacking in energy. Disco has taken fast moving rock and eased into a style that is washed out, that hides behind lights and a fashion show. Few bands have been able to avoid slipping into the selling, disco sound. Some Detroit area bands are following in the tradition of hard driving rock. "Flirt", the "Mutants", and "Sonics Rendezvous Band" are moving ahead in the precedent set by the "Mc-5" and "Iggy and the Stooges" during the late 1960's in Detroit.

Disco is canned music, mass produced, marketed and sold according to a blase, standard formula. Anyway, "I like it fast and hard."

A little advice

JACK W. HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

"Why didn't somebody tell me?"

For some of us amateur genealogists that question often is asked rhetorically upon discovering something that others have known all along.

Perhaps it is the middle name of an unfamiliar relative which one of your children points out is written on the back of the picture in the family album; or perhaps it is the date of a great uncle's birth — an uncle your mother knew all along was the twin of a man for whom you had a birth date.

This column, therefore, is about the "obvious" in the hopes that it may save others some wasted time and money.

If you're involved in researching your family tree, chances are you've had the experience of writing to Lansing for the record of a death.

And if so, from time to time you've received a note from the office of vital statistics informing you that the state files were searched but that no record of the individual in question could be found.

The search cost you $3 just the same.

That's because the state charges $3 for searching through three years of its records — whether or not the death certificate is found.

Over the years, in researching one person or another, I figure I've paid $50 or more for futile searches.

Last week upon receiving the form indicating that no record had been found, I complained to my wife, "It isn't the loss of $3 that bothers me. It's that I always have this nagging feeling that no one really looked for the record. Oh, if only I could get into those records and look for myself."

Well, you can't, despite what the Freedom of Information Act says. At least that's what I've been told.

But Saturday I discovered something

News from Lansing

By R. ROBERT GEAKE
State Senator

What business does the State of Michigan have subsidizing the Pontiac Stadium?

Absolutely none, in my opinion, yet for each of the past four years, $800,000 in taxpayers' dollars have been spent for this purpose.

Why? Because the Michigan legislature has deemed this expenditure to be for the public good.

I think the legislature's perception of the public good is ill-conceived in this instance and I intend to oppose continuation of the Silverdome subsidy this year.

There is no justification, in my estimation, for the state to continue bailing out the Silverdome year after year. We are living, as I have pointed out many times before, in an age of limits. I believe we must establish our priorities and fund them accordingly. In light of the tremendous needs we have in the area of human services, I do not perceive the Pontiac Stadium as a state priority.

Proponents of the Silverdome subsidy argue that the grant must be continued to fulfill a commitment made by the Legislature in 1975. That commitment called for the state to provide an annual subsidy for the Pontiac Stadium for the next 30 years, or until the Silverdome could carry itself financially.

I would assert that, as long as the state continues subsidizing the Silverdome, the facility will never be able to stand on its own financial feet. Subsidies clearly promote poor management. What incentive is there, therefore, for the Stadium management to utilize its funds more efficiently when they know they will continue to receive state funding if they don't and will lose this support if they do?

A total of $2.4 million has already been allocated to the Silverdome in the past four years. If the 30-year commitment is fulfilled at the rate of $800,000 per year, the total allocation will amount to an incredible sum of $24 million. These are funds which could be put to much better use in meeting the needs of our state's elderly and poor, for example, who were recently targeted for drastic cuts in their medical services and home heating assistance.

There are those who would also argue that the funds for the Silverdome subsidy are drawn from horse racing revenues, not the general fund, and could not legally be used for any other purpose. Under a 1959 state law, this is true, but this law is not irreversible. As a matter of fact, legislation has been introduced to repeal the requirement that race track monies must be used to help subsidize stadiums, sports arenas, state fairs, and so forth. I intend to support this bill because I believe it will enable the state to allocate these revenues for items of far greater priority.

During each of the past four years that the Pontiac Stadium subsidy has come up for debate in the legislature, a major battle over its continuation has been waged. It appears that this year will be no exception, but it appears equally clear that those of us who oppose this give-away program will be able to convince a majority of the members of the legislature to discontinue this misallocation of state funds this year.

My vote will be among those cast in opposition to the Pontiac Silverdome subsidy. I firmly believe the state has no business subsidizing the Silverdome at a time when so many worthwhile programs are in danger of being cut to the bone.

Senator seeks to relieve fuel shortage in state

In an effort to avoid a severe shortage of gasoline, food and other products in Michigan, State Senator R. Robert Geake (R-Northville) has co-sponsored a package of three resolutions designed to help resolve the concerns of independent truckers.

"We simply cannot afford to bury our heads in the sand and merely hope that the shortages we have been experiencing in recent weeks will subside," Senator Geake asserted.

"While I recognize that it will take the combined efforts of the federal and state governments to resolve our energy problems, I believe it is the Legislature's responsibility to take whatever action possible in Michigan to assure adequate supplies of fuel and other products for our state's residents."

Specifically, the resolutions would:

- urge all states to adopt uniform weight and length requirements, to institute reciprocal permit systems, and to review log and gasoline permit requirements;

—request the Public Service Commission to review and revise its rules concerning "dead-heading," the practice of prohibiting truckers from carrying loads on return trips; and

- create a special legislative committee to review all state procedures, rules and laws relating to deregulation of the trucking industry.

The resolutions covering the first two points passed the Senate last week. The third resolution, establishing the special legislative committee, has been referred to the senate committee on administration and rules.

Senator Geake said he believes the concerns expressed by independent truckers are "legitimate and merit prompt consideration by the Legislature."

"It is apparent to me that some type of uniform regulatory procedures must be implemented on a national basis," Geake stated.

"It is my hope that this special legislative committee will be able to reach a consensus on what needs to be done here in Michigan and that other states will join with us to head off a severe nationwide shortage of fuel and other products by resolving the concerns of the independent truckers."

that others have known all along, something that might have saved me a good part of the wasted $50.

In the files of the Burton historical section of the Detroit Public Library are microfilms of alphabetized names of all those persons for whom death certificates are housed in Lansing. If a name appears on this list it means the records at Lansing carry the death certificate. Furthermore, the Burton list gives the book and page number where the death certificate may be found.

Names are listed by years of death; first names in old records are not alphabetized. Therefore the search is long and tedious. But worthwhile!

$12.8 million outlay

Schoolcraft College budget ok'd

The Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees has put its seal of approval on a $12.8 million budget for fiscal 1979-1980, which began July 1.

More than $11.8 million will be spent to operate the college. The remaining $1 million is for debt retirement, major maintenance work on the Haggerty Road campus and special equipment purchases.

The budget, which expires June 30, 1980, was approved unanimously.

The Schoolcraft property tax levy of $2.06 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation will provide $4.1 million for college operations and $675,000 for debt retirement. It is virtually unchanged.

A Western Wayne County resident with a $50,000 house ($25,000 equalized value), would pay $51.50 in taxes for Schoolcraft this year. The Schoolcraft district includes the Plymouth, Canton, Northville, Livonia, Clarenceville and Garden City K-12 school districts.

More than $4.9 million in state aid is expected during this budget year. Student tuition and fees will provide $2.6 million in budget revenue.

While there are no instruction cuts, eight positions in other departments were removed from the budget.

All but one was cut in the past year through layoffs or attrition. They include one administrator, two secretary clerks, one custodian, a security officer and two supervisors in the physical plant and maintenance department.

The college's cultural and public affairs events in the next year will likely be reduced due to budget cuts.

Schoolcraft will have the same number of full time faculty (about 160) as last year, but won't guarantee that the same number of part-time faculty will return.

Personnel salaries and fringe benefits comprise 80 percent of the budget, according to W. Kenneth Lindner, vice president for business. The college plans to spend $6.9 million on instruction this budget year, $280,000 more than during 1978-1979.

The physical plant (operations and maintenance) budget of $1.6 million is slightly reduced and the $1.1 million to be spent on student affairs represents a $44,000 increase.

Because of two voter rejections of proposed tax increases this year, the college's major maintenance and special equipment purchase budgets have been reduced.

Lindner said $540,000 is needed to replace equipment and make new acquisitions, noting $124,636 is all that's budgeted.

For several years, the board has tried to allocate $250,000 each for major maintenance and special equipment.

The major portion ($85,470) of the $148,000 special equipment budget is for a Six Mile access road that won't be connecting to the campus.

The college must build the road because of a land exchange agreement made in the early 1970s with Trinity Baptist Church. The church is building a nursing home north of Six Mile and west of I-275 which may be completed in February.

College officials said the land swap was made under the assumption the college would expand and need land for a campus access road. But tax increase defeats and an enrollment expected to remain stable make college expansion at the southeast corner of its property unlikely.

The board has authorized bids to be taken on the 950 foot road that will extend north from Six Mile. The college must extend the road if the church builds proposed senior citizens housing north of the nursing home.

Road widening still years away—county

Substantial widening of Novi Road is still three, or four possibly more years away, the Oakland County Road Commission stated this week in response to concerns raised by the Northville City Council.

Northville council members had expressed concern over the county's planned widening of Novi Road to five lanes — an "unnecessary" move that Northville officials feel would aggravate traffic congestion at the Eight Mile-Novi Road intersection.

"Novi Road from Eight Mile Road to Grand River is one of six or eight major two-lane roads we have shown on our annual programs for 'preliminary engineering and environmental review' for the purpose of widening to five lanes in some future years," said Paul Van Roekel, county highway engineer.

"At this time there does not appear to be any sentiment in the road commission to actually program it for construction at any time during the next three or four years. My guess is it will be at least that long, or longer, depending on what happens to traffic volumes, adjacent development, other priorities, etc."

Van Roekel agreed with Northville council members that I-275 has relieved traffic on Novi Road, thus minimizing the need for expansion to five lanes.

Some expansion work is near, however.

Van Roekel said the county is now taking bids to widen to five lanes a short section of Novi Road from I-96 south to about one-eighth of a mile south of Grand River.

"The only other work we are currently planning on is to widen the Novi-Ten Mile intersection to five lanes. The principal reason for this is the relatively high number of accidents at this location."

We share your concern for some improvement at Novi Road-Eight Mile-Center Street."

Chief Toms draws praise

To the Editor:

We would like to thank Chief R. Toms and his Northville Township Firefighters for donating so much of their time and effort to help make our Highland Lakes Harbor Day a happy event for everyone, especially the children.

Sincerely,
John Clemente

There in the multi-page 1877 listing was the name of the person whose death certificate I had sought. The Burton listing told me the death certificate could be found in "Book 2" on "Page 3" of 1877. I had paid $3 to the state to have it tell me that no such record existed.

Naturally, it was with a good deal of vindictive pleasure that I wrote the state, giving them the page on which the "non-existing" death certificate could be found and demanding that a copy be furnished me without an additional $3 charge.

You can do the same. Just don't take the state's "we don't have it" form letters for gospel.

Reject mini-station

judiciary committee after two public hearings are already in effect. Except for the mini-station lease proposal, all were also approved by the Board on June 28.

During that meeting, however, Manning said that the road commission insists on a lease agreement to relieve it of liability while the property is being administered by the sheriff.

"It is still their property, and otherwise they are still responsible," Manning pointed out. "Up to this point we have been using the facilities on a day-to-day agreement on the premise that we would enter into a lease."

Manning said after the meeting, "At this point it is conceivable that the mini-station will have to go. The next step is to try to work out some other arrangement, perhaps one that does not need approval of the full Board."

"It seems a shame. The lease was for only $1 per year for three years. I plan now to confer with the road commission and their legal staff on some other possible arrangement."

Although Manning afterwards said there is "obvious personal aggravation involved between the suburbs and Detroit," the commissioners from Detroit spoke in general against possible unforeseen costs during the meeting. Said Commissioner Rose Mary C. Robinson:

"We don't know of any costs yet. We don't know how much will be required to bring such a facility up to construction code."

"I am also concerned that any money for this project, for labor and otherwise, might have to come from proposed legislation that would instead go toward probate and juvenile court needs." Commissioners Jackie L. Currie and Arthur M. Carter expressed concern for staff expenses.

Obituaries

ALBERT T. PEARSALL

Albert Thomas Pearsall, who had been head cook at Maybury Sanatorium for 22 years, died June 29 in Gladwin, Michigan, at the age of 82.

A Northville resident for 54 years, he moved to Gladwin 11 years ago. He died at Clare Osteopathic Hospital after an illness of two months.

Funeral service was at 11 a.m. Monday at Casterline Funeral Home, Incorporated, in Northville with the Reverend Guenther C. Branstner of First United Methodist Church of Northville officiating.

Mr. Pearsall was a life member of VFW Post 4012 in Northville and a veteran of World War I. Pallbearers were members of the post. Interment was in Rural Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Pearsall was born November 10, 1896, in Silverwood, Michigan, to Thomas A. and Caroline (Calkins) Pearsall. He was preceded in death by his wife, Pearl E., on October 1, 1977.

He leaves a brother Lee of Drayton Plains, a sister Mrs. Annabelle Huttenhower of Lake Orion and several nieces and nephews.

GENE MARCEL TROMBLAY

Gene Marcel Tromblay, 21 of Plymouth Township, died June 24 in Detroit.

Born August 8, 1957, he was the son of Roy and Theresa (Wisbiski) Tromblay. His mother survives him as do four sisters, Mrs. Rita Secord, Mrs. Judy Smith, Mrs. Gerri Mohny, Mrs. Pat Breelove; and six brothers, Robert and Richard Gomoluch, John and Morris Steshez, Louis and Gerald Tromblay.

Funeral service for Mr. Tromblay, who was a house painter, was conducted June 28 from the Ross B. Northrop & Son Funeral Home of Northville, with the Reverend Father James Jagielski officiating. Burial was in Rural Hill Cemetery.

Water board members get vote of confidence

and do what they've obviously done I can't believe the people. Nor can I believe the press."

McNeeley, who received compensation for an easement the developer put through his property, reiterated that there was nothing to vote on at the water and sewer commission which could have affected the North Beacon Woods sewer.

"And I very frankly am greatly distressed, not only from the personal affront but also because I'm in an engineering business and I deal with people in this entire area. This is a very direct affront to my reputation-my professional reputation," he said "And for something like this to be even voiced about without even the most basic checking is just utterly ridiculous. I mean it's criminal, that's what it comes down to "

Whiteside said he had been misinterpreted by the press.

"I had the impression that the water and sewer board had to accept the sanitary sewer system. I find I'm wrong," he said. I think the way I presented the subject at one point I said they may have served the township well. So I was inquiring about this and it may have been if I was right if you did have to approve this, that I could be your very best friend by bringing this out before you approved it, not realizing what the implications would be and you might have thanked me years from now," he said.

Whiteside read a transcript of what he had said at the June 21 meeting. "I made no charges," he said, as he finished reading the statement

"Sounds like a charge to me," Terwin said.

But Mrs. Sass said they should remember that both Conrick and Dasher had been with Mr. Whiteside at the June 21 meeting.

Conrick made several statements during the June 21 public meeting critical of the water and sewer appointment of McNeeley. Dasher did not speak.

At the June 21 meeting, Trustee John Swienkowski warned Conrick that his comments were on tape and that he was making allegations at a public meeting with the press in attendance.

Wednesday, Trustee Bill Zapke made the motion to approve McNeeley's reappointment to the water and sewer commission. Though Trustee David Mitchell and Thomson said they would rather wait until the July 12 regular meeting of the full board, McNeeley's reappointment was approved 4 to 2.

A few minutes later Zapke made the motion to reconfirm Terwin's appointment as chairman of the Water and Sewer Commission. This motion was passed unanimously.

Mitchell said it was unfortunate that the personal attacks were ever brought up in a public meeting.

"It's an age old problem — you don't attack personalities, you attack things and acts. You don't speak unless you have facts... No matter what we say or do out of this everybody loses some, most of all the people involved. And that is wrong. you can't undo memories...in peoples' minds, they interpret it as a negative reflection on the part of the township government. Many people don't delve beyond a few sentences at the head of a newspaper article...

"I think we've put to rest any doubts about Mr. Terwin's and Mr. McNeeley's integrity. I hope we learned a lesson," Mitchell said.

Record article blasted by township officials

The Northville Record got it from all sides last week at a special meeting of the Northville Township Board of Trustees Wednesday night.

First Township Engineer L.W. Mosher read a statement which said that a story which appeared last week in the Record about the sanitary sewer was "erroneous as to facts, confused as to concept, and apparently attributes audience comments to me, to the point that it is misleading, stupid and ridiculous."

Next, Nate Whiteside claimed he had been misinterpreted by the press, saying he had made no charges against Robert Terwin or Edward McNeeley (see related story.)

Then, Trustee James Nowka suggested that the Record get "deeply involved and find out just what the situation is. Because that is very harmful because we have a very local paper and these people are very well known ..."

Finally, criticized that when "people arbitrarily make statements" at a public meeting, "the press picks it up, in the newspaper, on the front page."

However, Mr Terwin said he had been accurately quoted in the front page story last week.

Trustee David Mitchell said it was unfortunate because "many people don't delve beyond a few sentences at the head of a newspaper article."

Mitchell also said that when William Conrick began making statements about Edward McNeeley at a public meeting, on tape, with the press in attendance, that although Trustee "John (Swienkowski) did a good job of shutting it off, it should have been done before "

Completion of M-14 seen by fall of '79

By W.W. EDGAR

If you have been wondering when — if ever — the M-14 highway would be completed through Plymouth, you need wonder no longer. It is to be finished by fall

And you have the word of G J. McCarthy, deputy director of state highways for that.

In a letter to Congressman Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, who had requested the reasons for the long delay, McCarthy explained that much of the trouble was due to the fact that the job was being done by five different contractors and that it has been difficult for them to dovetail their work

The portion that has caused the trouble is that stretch which runs from the C&O railroad just west of the Sheldon Road interchange to the easterly connection with I-275 at Haggerty Road

In this portion of the highway that has been under construction for more than a year, the Hull Co. has completed the C&O railroad bridges and the Toebe Co. has completed the bridges in the Hines Park Drive area.

Meanwhile the M&B Co. is just about complete with the grading project through the entire area and the Eisenhour Co. is preparing to place sand sub base and concrete pavement within the next few weeks

ONE OF the major problems encountered in this portion of the highway concerns drainage

A good share of the area, according to McCarthy, contained extensive ground water seepage which presented many stabilizing problems.

The weather, some staking difficulties, and local hauling restrictions contributed heavily to the delay.

In his explanation, McCarthy emphasized that the contractors' lack of prompt performance and the method of hauling dirt from the excavations and constructions of the fill area didn't help in trying to meet the contract schedule

As he added up all of these problems, McCarthy then called attention to one of the major concerns — the difficulty in getting cement. This all happened in the closing months of 1978 and made further expedition of the project impossible.

The deputy director offered a pleasant note that the paving of the troublesome area is expected to be finished during the months of July and August.

If this is accomplished, he predicts that the road could be completed and opened in fall. And he emphasized this fall.

MANY OF the people in the area, especially the football fans, are hopeful that the highway will be open by the time the University of Michigan opens its football season

This is especially true because the Wolverines play both Notre Dame and Ohio State in Ann Arbor this year, and the new highway would ease the traffic problem

When the highway was started several years ago and know as the Jeffries Freeway from Detroit to the intersection with I-275, it was stated that the Haggerty Road interchange at the dividing line between Livonia and Plymouth would one of the largest in the entire state system

Muzzle loaders: Reeds keep past alive

By JEANDAY

"Ready on the right?"

Displaying the form that more than a quarter of a century of shooting together has perfected, Robert J. Reed and his wife Clayton Jacqueline shouldered their guns last week much as pioneers must have done.

As they and Reed's brother, Don Reed, also of Northville, did at the Muzzle Loaders' Festival June 16-17 at Greenfield Village-Henry Ford Museum, they wore appropriate costumes from the past for their pictures.

The three were among 10 at the Greenfield Village meet to receive certificates of recognition for having participated in 25 meets there. The certificates and medals were awarded during the institution's 50th year celebration.

The Reeds will be sharing their interest with parade watchers tomorrow morning as they add color to the annual Fourth of July parade in downtown Northville.

Mrs. Reed, who still has a trace of her native Alabama accent, has made both her costumes and the militia one worn in the picture by her husband, for Wednesday's parade, however, she plans to wear a more formal ball gown.

She says, if the weather isn't too hot, she will march through the downtown area.

Bob Reed will be marching with the Northwest Territory Militia, the group that is a Fourth of July favorite at the Mill Race as members demonstrate in a roped-off area by the pond.

The Reeds' son Douglas is drummer with the militia, which Reed refers to as the "fun" group in a more serious organization. They are part of the Potawatomi Muzzle-Loaders.

Another member of the militia from Northville is Joseph O'Doherty.

Don Reed is a member of the Huron Rangers. At the Greenfield Village

He decorated for Smithsonian

By JEAN DAY

When the invitation came to Jack Smith of Northville to help create floral displays for the opening of the Victorian hall of horticulture at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C., there was no question of acceptance.

Smith, who is a member of the Society of American Florists and its honorary affiliate, the American Academy of Florists, relates he was delighted to participate as one of five outstate florists who designed and made displays for the hall and the Victorian ball held June 15 in the Victorian garden of the Smithsonian. Proceeds from the lavish ball will assist the Smithsonian office of horticulture in developing a major new exhibition, "1876: Horticultural and Floricultural Arts and Crafts," which is to open in July, 1980.

"It was a great thrill to see Washington society," Smith, who owns French's Flowers and Gifts on Five Mile in Livonia, observes. Many of the 327 who paid $75 each to attend the benefit came in period costume. Among the most striking, Smith adds, was Mrs. Hugh Dudley Auchincloss, mother of Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis.

Smith spent five days touring the castle, as the original portion of the Smithsonian is called, and taking notes on areas where arrangements were to be placed. Then he and the others invited to participate with Washington florists selected flowers from the Smithsonian greenhouses for the hall and the tent erected for the ball.

"Victorian designs are very big, somewhat gaudy," the florist explains, telling how pedestal arrangements of multi-colored roses were combined with peacock feathers to use with candelabra on round tables for the ball. The tent was carpeted, and guests sat on gold chairs at tables covered with ivory cloths. A French menu was used for the elegant evening at which guests received replicas of a Victorian ball program that now is one of Smith's souvenirs for his generous donation of time.

Smith and his wife, Verna, who live at 42132 Westmeath Court in Northville Commons, feel the experience was well-worth Smith's trip to Washington. Last year the couple opened their Northville home for the annual home tour.

The florist-designer thinks he was tapped for the honor because he was familiar with Victorian designs. He admits, however, that he did some "boning up" before leaving for Washington.

It's cancer time

Garage sales not only get rid of accumulated clutter but can help a good cause. The one June 16 at the home of Thelma Goleski on Orchard was a benefit for the Michigan Cancer Foundation. At the end of the sale Mrs. Goleski, local chairman for the foundation, sent a check for $150 to Dr. Michael Brennen, area head. As an incentive to attend the sale the volunteers again this year offered a chance to win a Timex watch. Ten-year-old Alison Kugler was the lucky recipient. Early in the day she had come to the sale with her mother and bought a book.

Richard Martin wed in Illinois ceremony

Seventy friends and relatives attended the marriage of former Northville resident Richard G. Martin and Shirley Ann Turco of Chicago June 16 at the United Presbyterian Church of Schaumburg, Illinois.

He is the son of Richard T. Martin, a former Northville resident now living in Lake Havasu City, Arizona, and the late Mrs. Martin. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Turco of Chicago.

Robert R. Norton of Northville attended his brother-in-law while the bride's attendant was Rosemary Wilson.

Guests also included Mrs. Robert

Norton and the Norton children William, Beth, Amy, Susan and John from Northville. The bridegroom's brother Francis and his wife Vesna of Westmont, a Chicago suburb, also attended.

His uncles and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Martin, former Northville residents now living in Traverse City, and Mr. and Mrs. George Martin of Bloomfield Hills, were present.

Attending from Hinsdale, Illinois, were a cousin, David Kheil and his wife. After a reception at the bridegroom's home in Roselle, Illinois, the newlyweds left on a trip to Greece.

A September wedding is being planned by Jennifer Lindley whose engagement to Jon Wesley is announced.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Damon P. Lindley of 20910 East Glen Haven Circle.

Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Wesley of Houston, Texas.

A 1971 graduate of Northville High School, Miss Lindley attended Ferris State College and Northwood Institute. She presently lives in Houston and is self-employed.

Her fiancé is a customer engineer with IBM.

Fall wedding plans are being made by Patricia Adams, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Adams of 960 Allen Drive, are announcing her engagement to Patrick Hensler.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hensler of Warren.

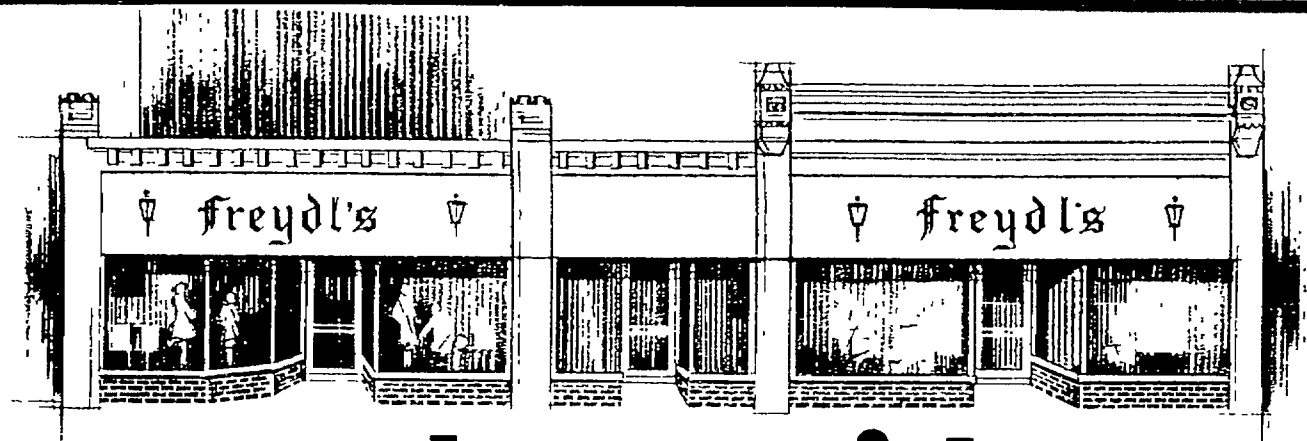

The bride-elect, a 1976 graduate of Northville High School, attended Kalamazoo College for two years and now is at Wayne State University. She is employed at SMC Corporation in Livonia.

Her fiancé is a 1976 graduate of De La Salle Collegiate. He also studied two years at Kalamazoo College and now is attending Lawrence Institute of Technology. He is employed as a carpenter with Kumis Brothers. They have set an October 6 wedding date.

Former Jaycees reunited for fun

Hosts Lane and Dick Norton, center, above, who opened their home at 21633 Beck for the first reunion of former Northville Jaycees and their wives June 23, reminisce with Dave and Karen VanHine, left, who came from Frankenmuth, Lesa and John Buckland, co-planners of the get-together. It brought out about 60 Jaycees who had become overage, or, as the planners said, "exhausted roosters."

Lisa Willoughby, center, greets Elisabeth Willen and Jan Sylvan of Sweden at Rotary

It's Svenska welcome at Rotary as club hosts exchange students

Swedish exchange students Elisabeth Willen, 19, and Jan Sylvan, 17, have a busy schedule for the next two weeks while they are on a month-long exchange to the United States sponsored by Rotary Club. Arriving in Northville June 16, they will stay until July 17.

Jan is staying with Robert Burnham, 19565 Marner. Elisabeth is the guest of Lisa Willoughby, 790 Springfield Drive. Lisa and Rob both will fly to Sweden in August and spend a year at a Swedish high school, or "gymnasium." Another Northville student, Shelly Stephens, will spend a year in South Africa.

All the students are part of an International Rotary Club exchange program. The Northville students were selected by a Rotary Club district selection committee

So far, Elisabeth and Jan have seen the state capitol, the Ford River Rouge assembly plant, Battle Creek and Jackson. Lisa said she will take them to Greenfield Village and downtown Detroit before their visit is over.

What is the most striking thing about America to the newly arrived visitors? "The big cars," Elisabeth said. "At first I felt like I was in a movie."

Learn to drive this summer

Teen-age and adult driver education classes are being scheduled throughout the summer by the YWCA of Western Wayne County

Next teen class beings July 9 with a choice of morning or evening schedules. Classes meet Monday through Friday for three weeks.

Classroom, range and road work are included at $110. Adult driver classes at $98 begin the first Saturday and the third Thursday of the month.

The schedule includes four hours of classroom instruction, six hours of lab observation in the car and six hours behind the wheel. Call the Y at 561-4110 for information.

Summer enrollments are being taken at the Western Wayne YWCA for golf, yoga, slim-trim, tennis and disco instruction

A perceptual motor development program for early elementary children will resume July 10 with eight sessions at $20 aimed at improving children's motor abilities through a series of movement activities, exercises, games and simple gymnastic moves

The Y is located at 26279 Michigan between Beech Daly and John Daly.

Library stars Sinbad in first summer film

The Northville Public Library will be showing two short films about "Sinbad the Sailor" as part of the Superheroes Summer Reading Program, at 2 p.m. this Thursday. The film program will last for about 45 minutes. The Northville Public Library will be closed July 4 for Independence Day.

International marketing manager to talk to Businessmen's Fellowship

Don Correira will be principal speaker at the 7 p.m. July 13 dinner meeting of the Northville-Plymouth-Livonia Chapter of the Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship at the Plymouth Hilton Inn.

He is international product manager for SYBRON, a New York-based manufacturer of medical and dental products.

Correira's international travel started with eight years in military service and nine in the aerospace program during the time of America's rise to leadership in space exploration.

A resident of Livonia, he currently is responsible for worldwide marketing activities for plants in Romulus and Germany.

The first son of Portuguese-speaking Catholic parents to be born in the United States, he says he received Jesus Christ as Lord at a Billy Graham Crusade in 1951 and a year later the infilling of the Holy Spirit in a small Pentecostal church. He then served as a lay preacher in several Baptist churches in this country and abroad.

He now is a member and active supporter of the Northville-Plymouth-Livonia Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship.

Sharing the program and furnishing music for the evening will be Correira's daughter Debra, a former nightclub entertainer, who also has said he has "found the Lord" and now specializes in Gospel music.

Dinner is $8 plus 15 percent gratuity. The meeting follows at 8 p.m. Both are open to the public.

Reservation checks should be sent to the Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship, Box 5332, Northville, by July 11.

For additional information call 349-0006 or 421-2111.

Northville Girl Scouts march in parade

Scouts at play

Northville Girl Scouts were among 2,000 girls participating in a day of Girl Scout games at Eastern Michigan University stadium.

The June day's events included softball throws, running and standing jumps, a tumble dash for Brownies and a mile race for Seniors.

Mayor George Goodman of Ypsilanti welcomed the girls and volunteers to the host city at noontime.

Following a parade of girls in troop formation, Huron Valley Girl Scout Council President Pat Levos read a message from Mrs. William Milliken.

She encouraged the girls to develop their bodies as well as their minds so that they will be able to meet the challenges in the world today.

Barb Boelter of Belleville, chairman of the first-time event, said that, because the girls had such fun, a similar event would be planned for next year.

The Huron Valley Council now serves nearly 12,000 girls in the area that includes Northville.

Edible remembrance

Children in Northville's ISEP program appropriately used such edible materials as spaghetti and soda crackers to create "Marie's Place," a retirement house for Marie Knapp who has completed 25 years as Northville's food service director. The gift was presented at a retirement party in her honor at the Plymouth Hilton Inn June 13. ISEP Aide Kaye Hill on the Burger School staff, left, admires her students' work with Mrs. Knapp, who has been displaying the imaginative piece in Northville High cafeteria as she ends her year.

Muzzle loaders cited at village

Muzzle Loaders' Festival, one of the oldest and biggest events at the village, Don Reed, who lives at 46049 Neeson, participated in the eight-man team military shoot. The Robert Reeds were in the first day individual shoot of the invitational event.

Mrs. Reed, who posed with a gun that is an accurate replica of a vintage firearm, says this is a sport in which "you get dirty and your fingernails are never clean until you wash dishes."

But she leaves no doubt that she enjoys the activity she and her husband have shared for 29 years. The Reeds, who live at 545 Randolph, met when she came to Northville on a visit. They were married the next year in 1941.

Mrs. Reed tells of attending meets, such as the national one in Friendship, Indiana, in August that now attracts thousands.

"At one time you knew everyone who shot, and before the shooting there would be a pie supper. Afterward there would be 'pitch-in' dinners. In our club, the Potawatomi Valley Loaders, there were a lot of women. I got tired of watching the children, and we began to take turns shooting," she recalls.

Her husband also is a member of the 24th Michigan Infantry, a replica of a Civil War unit composed entirely of men from Wayne County.

Reed became interested in the muzzle-loader groups as a collector of antique guns. Now retired 10 years from the Dearborn engineering division of Ford Motor Company, Reed says he marches and shoots in the hope that the study of guns and early-day life will lessen people's association of firearms with crime.

One of his most prized guns is a fusil, an original dating to the American Revolution and the 1760s.

"In those days officers bought their own weapons. My gun is this type of privately owned equipment. An enlisted man would have one issued by the government and bearing the official insignia."

As she posed with her husband, Mrs. Reed stressed that her costume dated "a little later" than her husband's militia garb.

"It was made for comfort," she asserts. Her gun is a reproduction of the 1850-60 era, too.

Her leather shoulder bag is strictly utilitarian. Like those of pioneer women, it's a convenient place for powder measures, patches to clean the gun, an pick and bag of bullets.

The Reeds have involved their daughter Susan, now Mrs. Michael Gleason of Manchester, as well as their son in their interest.

And years ago they bought land in the Pinckney area for their own rifle range. Reed mentions that is almost is a necessity today as there are few public places to shoot.

As parade watchers will see tomorrow, the Northville Reeds are all involved in a participant sport that also offers a glimpse of the past to spectators.

In business

Post office offers tours

Ever thought of taking your scout troop or summer play group through the main Detroit post office?

As of July 2 tours of the Detroit General Mail Facility at 1401 West Fort can be arranged for groups wishing to see the mail processing operation.

Northville Postmaster John Steimel says that many groups have toured the local post office, and the tour of the main facility will enable them to "see what happens to mail after it leaves us."

Tours will be conducted Monday through Friday between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. Special arrangements may be made for groups needing tours outside this schedule.

All tours must be scheduled one week in advance. They are restricted to groups of 50 or fewer.

Steimel adds that visitor parking is available in the main post office area.

Tours may be arranged by calling 226-6305.

The later the harvest, the better the grapes. This could well be an axiom for the wine industry. With a long growing season, grapes have a chance to ripen fully and most sweetly. But there are risks to late harvests. As the fall proceeds, frosts and rain may come, and either could devastate a crop. Grape growers have to keep their eyes on the grapes, the skies, and the thermometers to determine the best possible time to pick their grapes.

Any time is a good time to visit with us at GOOD TIME PARTY STORE, 567 Seven Mile Road, 349-1477. We're always happy to assist you in making your wine selection. This is the time of year for cookouts ... and we have genuine draft beer available in both ¼ and ½ barrels. Let us know your needs, we're here to help you. Hours: 9 a.m.-10 p.m. Mon. thru Sat., Noon-6 p.m. Sun.

PLAY MICHIGAN'S DAILY LOTTERY

First Federal Savings of Detroit is offering savers this great variety of beautiful Timex gifts. Make a qualifying deposit to a new or existing First Federal savings account and you can take home the Timex of your choice. Either free, or at big savings. Choose from decorator wall clocks, alarm clocks, 24-hour timer, women's and men's watches. It's our way of introducing some great new savings account features.

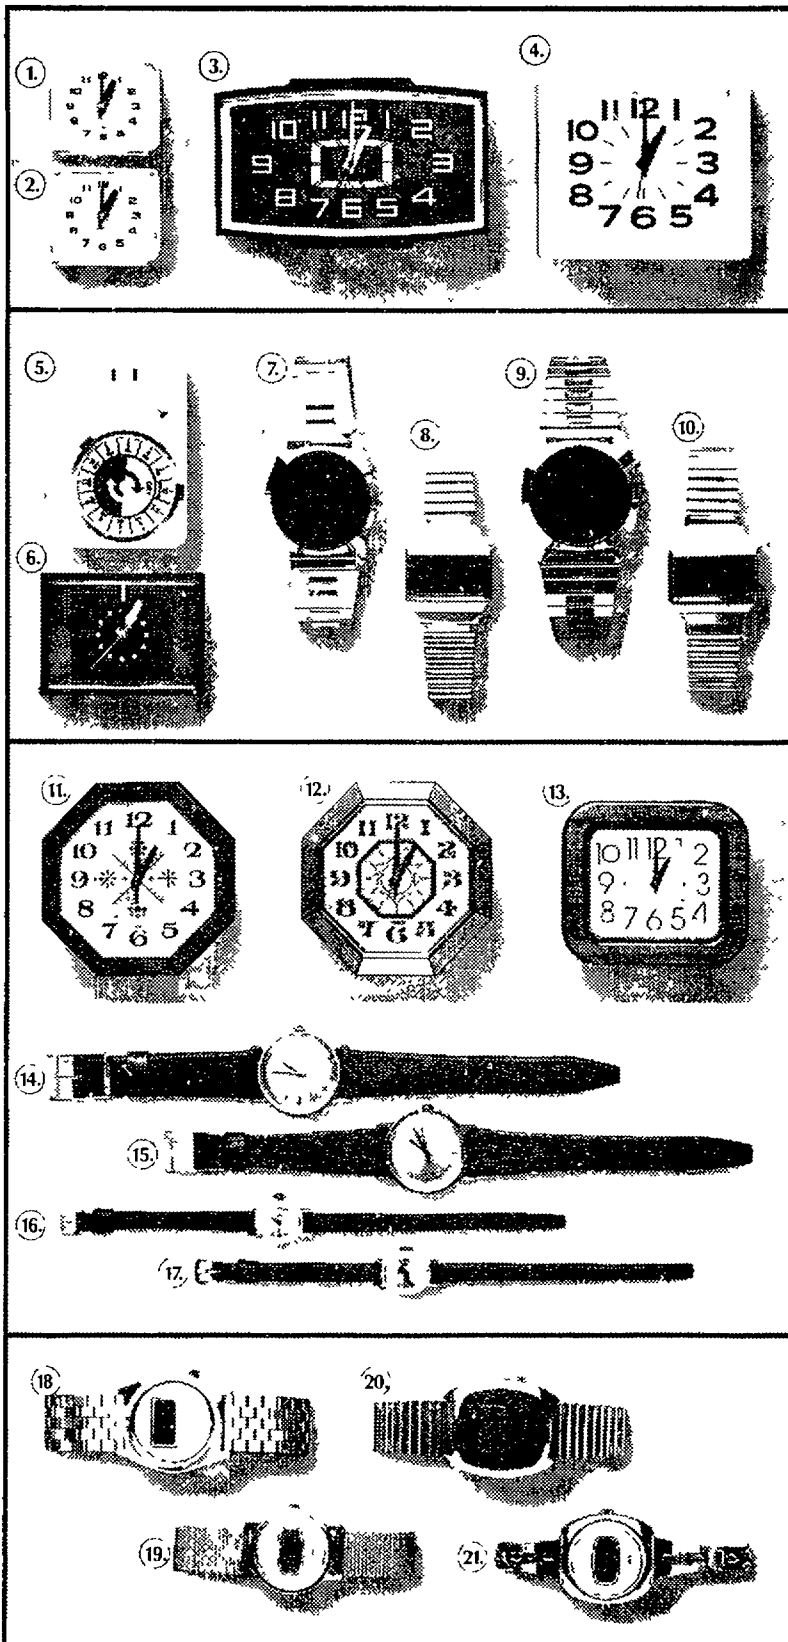

We've increased our interest rate on regular savings. To a full 5½% per year daily interest, paid and compounded quarterly. One-quarter percent more than any bank is permitted to pay on an annual interest rate basis.

We're offering a brand-new Four-Year Money Market Certificate that features a high rate of interest never before possible in so short a time with a deposit of only $100 or more. The interest rate for this account is established monthly. However, the rate in effect when your certificate is issued is guaranteed for the full 4-year term.* July's rate for this account is 7.850% annual interest, compounded continuously for an effective annual yield of 8.284%.

Type of Account	Minimum Amount	Annual Rate	Effective Annual Rate
Regular (Daily Interest)	No Minimum	5.50%	5.61%
One-Year Certificate*	$100	6.50%	6.66%
2½-Year Certificate*	$100	6.75%	6.92%
4-Year Certificate*	$100	7.50%	7.71%
6-Year Certificate*	$100	7.75%	7.98%
8-Year Certificate*	$100	8.00%	8.24%
4-Year Money Market Certificate*†	$100	The interest rates for these accounts are determined on the date the account is opened. Call 965-2020 for the current rates.
182-Day Money Market Certificate*	$10,000

*Federal regulations require a substantial interest penalty for early withdrawal from certificate savings accounts.

†Interest on all First Federal savings accounts (except 182-Day & Four-Year Money Market Certificates) is compounded quarterly. Interest on this account is compounded continuously.

On top of that, we've reduced the minimum deposit on most of our other certificate accounts, too. Now you only need to deposit $100 or more to open any of our high-interest certificates (except our popular 182-Day Money Market Certificate which pays an even higher rate on deposits of $10,000 or more).

And the penalty for early withdrawal has been modified for certificate accounts opened after July 1, 1979. On our One-Year and our 182-Day Money Market Certificates, the penalty is no more than 90 days' interest. On our longer term certificates, the maximum penalty is now 180 days' interest.

Check the gift chart, visit any First Federal office, make your qualifying deposit and take home your Timex gift. Of course, our Timex offer is limited, so open or add to a First Federal savings account today. While money is time.

Michigan landscape bedded in seas of the past

By BRIAN DEMING

Most of the lakes in southeast Michigan were carved out by glaciers

Southeastern Michigan has been a stopping place for fur trappers, Indians, farmers, soldiers, factory workers and business people, all struggling in their turn to survive on this corner of our sometimes pleasant, sometimes not-so-pleasant peninsula.

The land, it seemed was patiently waiting all along for us to dam its rivers, gouge its hillsides, till its plains, and bury its features beneath highways and skyscrapers.

But the land, too, has not always been here, at least not in the ways we have found it. It has changed at a rate imperceptible next to man's furious pace but with a power that belittles all of man's precocious efforts combined.

The history of this land really begins two billion years ago with the formation of the Precambrian rock that underlies the bedrock in this portion of the state. This rock is made up of hardened magma and volcanic lava that once flowed over the young earth. Erosion of this ore-rich rock was responsible for the creation of the massive iron ore deposits in the western part of the Upper Peninsula.

In southeastern Michigan that rock is buried beneath bedrock which was deposited between 280 and 405 million years ago. The pattern of bedrock in Michigan is such that the most recent bedrock deposits form the bedrock in the middle of the lower Peninsula, and the oldest deposits form the bedrock toward the Great Lake coastlines.

Most of the bedrock in Oakland and Livingston counties was deposited during the Mississippian period 310 million years ago, at a time when southeastern Michigan was nothing more than an ocean floor.

The Mississippian Sea was only one of six seas that alternately covered Michigan leaving the six tell-tale layers of sediment that now are bedrock.

The largest of these seas was the Cambrian, 460 miles in diameter and perhaps three miles deep. Later seas were smaller until the final Paleozoic Sea, the Pennsylvanian Sea, was only 125 miles wide and 180 meters deep.

One of these seas, the Silurian Sea, was responsible for the salt deposits beneath metropolitan Detroit. This existed for 25 million years with warm salt waters that supported coral growths. Michigan still has 66 trillion tons of salt in reserves.

The Mississippian Sea covered the Lower Peninsula south of Cheboygan and Alpena counties. Arid winds of a desert climate evaporated it leaving deposits of shales, limestone salt, alabaster and the so-called Marshall sandstone. That sandstone was an important factor in determining the location of the original state prison in 1837. Jackson was chosen because the stone to construct the prison was easily quarried there.

Whatever oil and natural gas deposits Michigan possesses are a result of plant and animal life from the Paleozoic Era. Unfortunately the concave shape of the Michigan Basin and the rock that overlays it is not conducive to trapping natural gas and oil and thus Michigan has not been a big petroleum producer. Folds and minidomes in the rock layers have, however, provided a minor source of petroleum. Michigan, in fact produces about 25 percent of its crude oil needs. And, in spite of shortages in meeting daily demands, Michigan's bedrock still holds a huge quantity of petroleum. Based on yields per cubic mile of sedimentary rock, the oil reserves under the peninsulas are estimated to be 1.25 billion barrels.

Michigan has a greater import need for natural gas. In fact old gas fields near Howell are used for storage of gas. During the summer months Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Company pumps gas from Texas into the old gas fields between Howell and Brighton. The gas is then pumped back for use in southeast Michigan over the peak winter season.

Michigan's bedrock was at one time quite active as earthquakes marked the faulting and the folding of the earth's surface. Now Michigan is not known for quakes because it is a great distance from the edge of Tectonic Plates which have produced most of the tremors in this century. However, earthquakes do occasionally occur including one on February 2, 1976, registering 3.25 on the Richter Scale, and affecting ten southern Wayne County communities between Trenton and Rockwood.

The Paleozoic Era ended when the last of the Paleozoic seas dried up over 220 million years ago. Then, until quite recently in geologic terms, the sun and wind and rain weathered ancient Michigan's surface and sculptured Michigan into the three highland areas which formed in the western Upper Peninsula and the northern and southern parts of the Lower Peninsula. The modern day Great Lakes are, geomorphologists believe, valleys of the ancient North American continent's preglacial river system.

Then, relatively suddenly and for reasons still debated, a huge ice sheet one to two miles thick moved southward from Hudson Bay and buried the northern part of the continent under ice to the margins of the Ohio and Missouri rivers and east to Long Island. Four times during the million or more years of this age glaciers advanced and retreated over Michigan leaving distinctive deposits.

The last stage of the latest glacier melted away from the shores of Lake Superior 10,000 years ago. Prior to its retreat, the ice sheet had advanced across Michigan with an uneven front consisting of several principle lobes. As these lobes pushed forward by pressures of accumulated snow and ice, they slid, skidded, ground and mixed soil with rock fragments and also carved the exposed bedrock in their paths with their transported load of debris.

The rock and soil debris was dumped by the ice lobes when the glacier stopped movement because of reduced pressure on the front edge and melting due to warmer weather.

Rapid melting of glaciers caused the formation of outwash plains leaving sediments segregated with heavier rocks dropping out of the meltwater first and gravel and sands spread farther out. Today, these plains are mined for gravel in eastern Livingston County, for example.

The glaciers also left valley trains, where fast flowing glacial rivers hemmed in by steep slopes collected heavy boulders in their riverbeds. One example of a valley train is just south of Northville.

The glaciers shaped the face of Michigan we see today and which includes the 11,000 inland lakes, 447 in Oakland County alone. The lakes filled depressions as the glaciers retreated.

Today many of these lakes show signs of eutrophication, a natural process of filling with sediment and decaying organic matter.

Man, in many cases, has accelerated that process as lawn fertilizers and septic wastes increase plant growth in lake water. Also the practice of cutting water weeds and letting them drop to the bottom of a lake tends to speed the process.

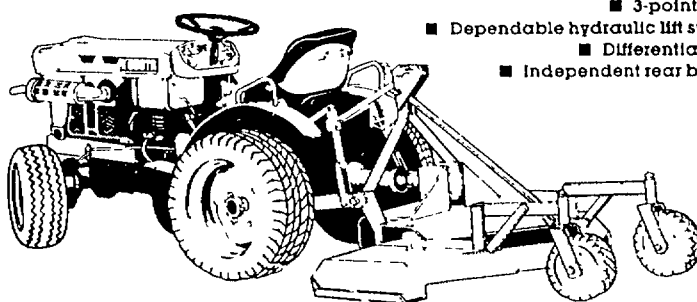

The process is a bane to water recreation but has been beneficial to farming. Former shallow ponds and lakes now filled with rotting organic matter have provided valuable soils for truck farming of such vegetables as celery, onions, potatoes and sod farm operation.

Gardening success enhanced by simple practices

Experienced horticulturists who visit vegetable gardens all over the country can tell you that a few simple practices make the difference between successful and "so-so" gardens.

Your first garden can be an unqualified success if you follow this check list:

- Draw up a rough plan of what goes where
- Select varieties adapted to your climate
- Start early and plant at the proper time
- Dig in plenty of organic matter for good drainage
- Cover seeds to the recommended depth
- Thin and space plants as directed
- Water every week during dry spells
- Feed plants occasionally
- Use insect controls where and if necessary, but sparingly
- Harvest when vegetables are at their peak

Garden plans are not strait jackets.

All gardeners modify plans to fit the season and availability of seeds and plants.

The major purpose of a plan is to tell you how many packets of seeds you will need and how to arrange them so that the little stuff is in the front and the tall plants are in the back.

Your County Cooperative Extension Service office can supply you with a list of vegetable varieties proved by trials to perform well in your climate.

Planting time is not so critical when summers are cool. But, over much of the country, hot summer enters almost as soon as winter cold departs, and the "fudge factor" on planting dates is greatly reduced.

The most common mistake by novice gardeners is waiting too late in the spring to plant cool-loving crops: green peas, cabbage, cauliflower, broccoli and mustard greens, for example. The plants get about half grown and summer heat forces them into flower.

First-time gardeners often balk at spading and mixing-in a two inch layer of organic amendment each year because of the apparent cost or effort. Once you see the results of this practice, you won't question it again.

Soils soak up water rapidly, the excess drains off, and the soil mass warms up quickly. The microbiological population thrives on the organic matter and releases nutrients that speed rooting and top growth.

After a few years of adding compost, rotted manure, pulverized and composted bark or sawdust, your soil will become so crumbly that cultivating and weeding go very rapidly.

The old adage "cover the seeds to three times their diameter" still holds. Old-time gardeners work up the soil, lay an one inch x six inch board down the center, then walk on it, making a wide depression. They scatter small seeds thinly on the firmed soil, then sprinkle sand or vermiculite to cover.

Larger seeds can be planted in deeper furrows made with the corner of a hoe.

Late and inadequate thinning of vegetable plants is almost a hallmark of beginning gardeners. They hate to pull out and discard excess seedlings. Some vegetables never fully recover from severe crowding when young.

You can lessen the required thinning by planting sparingly, but as soon as all seeds have sprouted, you should begin pulling out the surplus every time you walk through the garden.

Virtually all gardens, even where summer rains are frequent, require occasional watering. Irrigations are needed once or twice a week in arid areas. Sprinkling with a fine mist once or twice a day is the best way to sprout seeds in a hurry.

However watering at the base of plants is preferred to overhead sprinkling for maintenance watering.

Most garden soils benefit from occasional light applications of manufactured fertilizers containing nitrogen, phosphorous and potassium. Manure and other forms of organic matter are not fertilizers.

Organic gardeners prefer to use natural mineral or by-product fertilizers to provide essential plant nutrients, but plants don't seem to know the difference, or care.

During some years you can get by with virtually no pest controls, except in warm, humid areas where pests multiply rapidly. Most gardeners lean toward spot applications of mild insecticides and fungicides when and where needed.

Harvesting vegetables at their prime helps your garden to produce maximum yields and you get vegetables at their peak of flavor and nutrition. You will be amazed at how many vegetables you can harvest from even short rows.

Be ready to freeze, can or dry the surplus.

'Prince' thumbs nose at frost

Pansies are a frost-hardy cool weather flower, grown for spring and fall color in most gardens and for winter landscaping in mild climates.

During these cool periods, cloudy, grey weather often prevails and strong, bright flower colors are needed to lift one's spirits. Orange is a particularly lively color.

Orange-hued pansies are not new, but older types suffered from rather small blossoms. Now you can have an early blooming, large flowered pansy with blossoms the luscious color of ripe apricots.

'Orange Prince' Hybrid

'Orange Prince' has blossoms 2½ to 3 inches in diameter with a splash of brown-black in the centers, a stylish combination of colors that comes alive when backlit by morning or afternoon sun.

A bed of 'Orange Prince' enclosed within an edging of blue pansies or violas can draw attention and admiration. Blue or violet lobelias combine beautifully with 'Orange Prince' in containers.

The stems of 'Orange Prince' are a little taller than some of the ultra-compact varieties but hardly enough to be noticeable when varieties are combined.

Home gardeners will appreciate the slight extra stem length when harvesting 'Orange Prince' for arrangements.

Most pansy colors tend to fade as hot summer approaches. 'Orange Prince' has the happy faculty of retaining its characteristic deep orange color even when hot weather begins to force a reduction in flower size.

Late summer or fall seed planting directly in the garden will produce seedlings that will winter over reliably except where winters are long and intensely cold.

For spring bloom pansy seeds are usually started indoors in late winter to produce budded plants for transplanting to the garden.

Light afternoon shade and a consistently favorable soil moisture level can carry plants through the summer in areas where heat is moderate.

'Just right for two large servings'

This Butternut yields plenty

Butternut squash are attractive, and taste even better than they look. Blond and bulbous, the fruits turn tan as their skins harden.

The name 'Butternut' covers a large and varied class of winter storage squash. Certain butternut varieties bear fruit that are too large for some families.

Others mature so late that gardeners in northern states keep an anxious eye on early winter storms that can freeze squash while vines are still green.

'Early Butternut' Hybrid solves both problems. Its fruits average only 3½ lbs in weight; just right for two large servings when split and baked.

Fruits can also be peeled, steamed and pureed for pies and soups.

The vines of 'Early Butternut' spread 5 to 10 feet and are more open than regular Butternut. Yields are very heavy. Intensive gardens where space is limited can accommodate 'Early Butternut.'

Vines can be run up sturdy tripods, six to seven feet in height. Strings alone can't support the burden of vines and heavy fruits.

'Early Butternut' fruits develop hard shells and are ready for picking and storing ten days earlier than standard Butternut.

Fruits vary from light tan to bronze in color, are smooth-skinned, and have thick 'necks,' solid and fleshy. They resemble fat light bulbs.

When harvesting Butternut squash leave an inch or so of stem on the fruits and brush off soil rather than washing. Handle carefully to avoid bruising.

The seed cavity of 'Early Butternut' fruits is small. Virtually all of the seeds can be washed, dried and roasted. 'Early Butternut' squash is relished for its light flavor and firm texture that doesn't become mushy in baking.

'Early Butternut' matures in approximately 85 days in warm climates, 95 days where summers are cool.

When spring-sown across the South and warm West, it can be harvested several weeks before sweet potatoes are ready to dig and will fill the need for a baking and pie vegetable. Second crops can be sown in mid-summer in long season areas.

Fall harvested storage squash is especially sweet because the cool weather intensifies natural sugars. 'Early Butternut' fruits will keep in dry storage for several months.

Look for mites

Honey locust problem!

If your honeylocust is putting on its fall color early, the cause is probably a tiny, eight-legged mite.

When the weather is favorable — as it has been this summer — mite populations begin to build up in late July and reach high numbers in August. Heavily infested honeylocust trees take on the appearance of fall color as the mites' feeding on leaf juices extracts the green chlorophyll.

To determine whether your honeylocust — or any other ornamental — has mites, Michigan State University entomologist Keith Kennedy suggests shaking a few leaves over a sheet of white paper. A vigorous shake will dislodge some of the tiny pests, which will be visible to sharp eyes as they scuttle across the white background.

Very high populations of mites may result in premature leaf drop. Older, established trees will probably not be seriously harmed, Kennedy says, but young, recently planted trees may be damaged, especially if they are already under drought stress.

Some varieties of honeylocust, including Skyline and Moraine, are more susceptible to mite injury than others. Homeowners who have had mite problems in the past might consider spraying every year in late July and again 10 days later to prevent population buildup.

To control a severe infestation, spray with a miticide like kelthane or an all-purpose home ornamental spray that contains a miticide and a combination of other insecticides, Kennedy advises. Good control will probably require two sprays about 10 days apart.

FRANK J. FORCE of Brighton has stepped down as vice-president legal for Ford Motor Credit Company after nearly 20 years of service with Ford Credit.

FRANK J. FORCE

He will be succeeded by Ramon A. Von Drehle who comes to Ford Credit after 12 years with the Office of the General Counsel of Ford of Europe.

Force retires from Ford Credit after playing an important role in its 20-year history. He joined Ford credit as its first attorney in October 1959 and shortly thereafter became secretary and associate counsel. He was elected vice-president legal in 1966.

Force is a member of the American Bar Association and the State Bar of Michigan. He has represented Ford Credit on the board of directors of the National Consumer Finance Association the past two years. He is also a member of the general committee of the conference on personal finance law and a member of the advisory council of the Credit Research Center at Purdue University.

A graduate of the University of Michigan Law School, Force holds a BA from Central Michigan University.

Von Drehle has been vice president, general counsel and secretary of Ford of Europe for the past four years. He joined the Ford Motor Company as a staff attorney in 1957 and moved to England to join Ford of Europe as senior attorney in 1967. He then served as associate counsel and assistant general counsel before being elected vice president, general counsel and secretary in 1975.

He holds a law degree from the University of Texas and a BA from Washington University in St. Louis, Missouri.

MICHIGAN ENGINE POWER (MEP) unveiled its new, million-dollar parts, service and sales facility on Novi Road at an open house recently.

Over 2,000 visitors toured the new 30,000 square foot facility and examined more than 40 displays. Engine-related businesses represented at the open house include MEP's Principal suppliers: Caterpillar Tractor Company's engine division, Ford Motor Company's industrial engine operations, Isuzu Diesel of North America and Gillette Manufacturing Company.

Also among the exhibitors were truck component manufacturers (Eaton Truck Components, DANA Heavy Truck Merchandise) as well as 14 medium and heavy duty truck dealers representing virtually all the major manufacturers.

MEP's Top Manager Paul Mooney said the purpose of the open house was to show engine-users "the size and scope of our commitment to the engine business and our expanded capabilities."

MEP acts as a "wholesaler" of engines, replacement parts and service expertise to two networks of dealers: the 45 Caterpillar TEPS (truck engine parts and service) dealers and the 60 Ford Power Products dealers in the lower peninsula. These dealers retain these products and services to the engine user.

MEP, a division of Michigan Tractor and Machinery Company, also retails engines and related services through their new facility in Novi and through Michigan Tractor branches in Grand Rapids and Kalamazoo.

MEP also maintains an in-house application engineering staff to assist with specifying industrial engines and generator sets for special "custom" installations.

GROUP 7 BANKERS of The Michigan Bankers Association elected Whitney R. Kimble as chairman for the year 1979-80.

Kimble is currently first vice-chairman of the Brighton State Bank, where he has been since 1952. He is a member of the banks board of directors and prior to his appointment as 1st vice-chairman, was the bank's president.

Kimble's professional, trade, and civic associations include member and past president of Michigan Bank Examiners Association; member of Wolverine Advisory Council, Boy Scouts of America; member Robert Morris and Association; member of Michigan Ski Area Safety Board; member Board of Review, City of Brighton; member board of directors, Pacesetter Financial Corporation, as well as other civic and trade groups.

Group 7 of The Michigan Bankers Association consists of all banks located in Clinton, Eaton, Genesee, Ingham, Livingston, and Shiawassee counties.

NORTHWESTERN MUTUAL LIFE AGENT BILL KRAUSE of Brighton has been designated "Agent of the Month" for the fourth consecutive period.

Krause has now received this designation for the 1979 months of February, March, April and May. Another Northwestern Mutual agent, Carolyn Foss, received the honor for the month of January.

The award encompasses several criteria for qualification: a maximum performance on lives, volume and premium for two categories, both life insurance and disability income.

It was recently announced that Krause ranked fourth in the nation for total volume in the month of May. This is the third time in nine months that Krause has placed nationally in the top 20 for this category.

Krause received earlier recognition for a statewide Northwestern Mutual competition. His performance, recording professional sales of $1,500,000 of permanent insurance and 1856 percent of quota for the two-month period captured the state crown.

Krause specializes in personal and business financial planning and has offices located in the Woodland Office Center, Suite B, 8137 West Grand River in Brighton. He may be reached by phone at 229-5155 or 229-5136.

THE SPEEDY PRINTING CENTER at 107 East Grand River Brighton, was honored recently for its May sales volume, the third largest among the 47 Speedy Printing Centers currently in operation. Vernon G. Buchanan, president of Speedy Printing centered in Farmington Hills, made the award. Fred Niel is the manager of Brighton's Speedy Printing Center.

KEVIN ROONEY of Livonia and Richard Ferdinand of Los Angeles have left Oakland, California, on a 3,000 mile Trans-America bicycle trip. Name of the coast-to-coast odyssey is "Wheels across America."

Rooney, 24, is a sales representative for the Hansen Corporation in Wall Lake. The Hansen Corporation is one of the sponsors of the cross-country tour.

Objective of the ride is to achieve a higher level of consciousness among Americans regarding cures, symptoms and prevention of cancer through a combined public awareness and fund-raising campaign.

The ride also is designed to promote the importance of nutrition and physical fitness in our daily lives, incorporating the benefits of bicycle riding and touring.

July sky features 3 stars

In July, the night side of the earth faces outwards from the sun towards the summertime constellations where three bright stars appear just after dark, notes University of Michigan astronomy Prof. Richard G. Teske.

All three — Arcturus, Vega and Antares — are larger and brighter than the sun.

"Shining brightly just west of the overhead point, or zenith, in the constellation of Bootes is the yellow-red star Arcturus," Teske says.

Now 36 light years away from the earth, Arcturus is traveling at "a fast pace by astronomical standards. The star is drifting in a southwesterly direction with a speed that will carry it across the sky a distance equal to half the width of the full moon in 400 years," he explains.

Rusty in color because it is slightly cooler than the sun, Arcturus is 20 times larger and 100 times brighter. Teske says astronomers refer to stars of this size as "giants."

"Arcturus makes a fine sight in the night sky," he says. "But if we were to put our sun in its place, the sun would seem very faint and would be difficult to pick out from among other dim stars."

The U-M astronomer next points out Vega, located "just east of the zenith, dominating the otherwise unimpressive constellation of Lyra." This bright, whitish star is 26 light years away.

Although 70 times brighter than the sun, Vega is only about three times as large. "Astronomers refer to it as a 'main sequence' star to denote that it belongs with the great majority of ordinary stars in our galaxy," Teske says. "Our sun also is a type of star that is rather commonly found in space."

The third bright star, low in the southern sky, is ruddy Antares, the heart of the constellation of the Scorpion, he continues. "A star much cooler than the sun, Antares is nearly 6,000 times brighter."

"Even though it lies so far away that its light takes 425 years to cross interstellar space to our eyes, its great luminosity makes Antares one of the more brilliant objects in earth's sky. Such stars are so luminous that astronomers can easily photograph them in nearby galaxies."

Feelings

Feelings are something that everyone has,
Feelings are mushy and all of that jazz.
But feelings are very important to me,
Although they're not always exactly what I want them to be.
And that's why we cry, when we're feeling quite sad,
Friends cheer you up, and you don't feel so bad
But if my feelings do what I want,
They are just one of the things I would flaunt.
'Cause feelings are something to be proud of,
my friend,
So I hope that our friendship never will end.

Becky Williams

It's Later Than We Think

What is time? What is space?
Man, convinced he has conquered them and more
That comprises this mad race
Is overcome by powers that he must face
Before he passes on to mysteries yet in store.
We but smile in apathy and disregard
Of warnings on our way to realize our destiny,
Our fate;
Until the time arrives too late
To prepare for ordination of that day!

I released you with the wind hollowing in the background... you left swiftly on your way to where another way.

So it was goodbye to the yesterdays.
Someone had to forget them... and your

My body's not in prison
Like that man behind the bars
But my soul's in prison non-the-less
It even bears the scars
My heart a prisoner of love gone wrong
My spirit of loneliness
My mind, a prisoner of pain so strong
I weep and beg for death,
When will these bars of torture break
Will my spirit make them bend
Can my body pull me out of here?
When will my sentence end?

1-1 Happy Ads

HAPPY 4TH
McNEELY!

As so many roses are pink,
And the sun shines bright,
While the beach boys play their tunes and fireworks ignite;
Remember that real soon,
at last, our dream will be.
Because of one true fact:
I love you! And you love me.

With love, guess who?

The Problem With Most 'Unfinished' Homes Is That They Look 'Unfinished'

A Centennial Home Looks Like This When 'Unfinished'!

The exterior of a Centennial home is completely finished, from the rough-sawn natural wood to the roofing shingles. (It's the inside that's 'unfinished'.)

We made the unfinished home simple!

Why settle for someone else's plans and ideas when you can use your own - both inside and out. A Centennial home is designed and constructed to your specific needs and dreams by our professional sales representatives and architects. Centennial can bring the pride of home ownership to your front door - now!

Imagine saving 30%.

By finishing all or part of the inside yourself you'll realize savings up to 30% on construction costs. The more finishing you do the less you pay - it's that simple.

Finish the inside yourself

When the exterior of your home is completed, you're ready to finish the inside yourself. Centennial makes this easy by providing diagrams for the installation of packages such as plumbing, heating, electrical materials and kitchen cabinets tailored to your taste. The great part is that they're all self-contained - you don't have to run to the hardware store for anything.

When it comes to financing, come to us

Your Centennial sales representative can arrange a loan for you even when the bank won't - and for less! Whether it's a construction loan or a permanent mortgage - our expert guidance will help you obtain suitable financing.

The Centennial Homes Promise

Our expert staff represents many years of experience, reliability and quality service. Let us show you how to make the most important investment of your life - the best investment of your life. And that's a promise.

Hey Kid!
Whatcha
doin'
WEDNESDAY?

We've got a
for you.

Once a week, on Wednesdays, our community newspapers are home delivered by young people just like you (minimum age eleven years old). They're earning money every week and are eligible for our contests for prizes and vacations. More people are reading our newspapers in Northville, Novi, Walled Lake and South Lyon and therefore, we need additional carriers. So if you live around here and aren't doing anything on Wednesday.....

RECOMMENDED READING

Best sellers come and go. A current novel may enjoy a brief burst of fame as it hits the best seller list, only to be forgotten in a few short months. But the classics are with us always. And they find popularity with each new generation of book lovers. They are recommended reading down through the years.

The classified pages of your weekly newspaper are classics in their own way and belong with every wise person's recommended reading section.

start a grapevine

Just say the word to the right people and soon it's all over town. That's how the grapevine works. But there's one way to spread the word even faster — with a Sliger Home Newspaper Want Ad.

When you are looking for something to buy, or have something to sell, tell about it with a want ad. Your story will go out to a million people just the way you tell it. And that's SOME grapevine.

Bicycles flourish as gas supplies decline

By Jim Haynes

This vehicle is lightweight, easy to handle, and gets the best mileage of anything on the road today. In fact, this vehicle doesn't use any fuel and can get you to where you're going at an average speed of 15 to 20 m.p.h. Use of this vehicle can result in a better heart condition, muscle tone and loss of calories. With proper maintenance, this vehicle will last your lifetime. And it costs about what you would spend on an average weekend outing.

An amazing new scientific invention? A product of NASA space research? No, this vehicle has been a part of our society for over a hundred years. It is a bicycle.

Bicycles have been with us for a long time and yet it seems that people are just discovering the practical advantages these two-wheel modes of transportation have to offer.

While not practical for long trips to work everyday or in inclement weather, bicycles are still a gas saver for shorter trips around town, or for recreation.

"With inflation, bicycles are still one of the few things that will last a lifetime and cost only a couple of hundred dollars," said Larry Gillelan, owner of the Town and Country Cyclery in Northville. "With proper maintenance, bikes will last and last. They are one of the least expensive recreational toys available. Take televisions. They'll burn out in four years. With bikes, just put new tires on when they need them and they'll run forever."

Gillelan has noted an increase in bicycle sales and thinks that there is a correlation with the increase and the gas problem. "Bicycle sales are way up," he said. "People aren't going on vacations as much because of the gas shortage. Because of that they are spending their vacation money on bikes and riding around their home towns."

Steve Tushis of the Colony Bike Shop in Walled Lake is experiencing a different sort of sales boom than Gillelan. "I'm not experiencing an overall increase in bike sales. What I'm experiencing is a tremendous increase in parts sales," he said. "People bought bikes during the bike boom in 1974 and when the novelty wore off, they stored them away. Now that gas is so tight, people are bringing them out and dusting them off. They are coming in for tires and cables and to replace rusty chains."

When buying a bike for the first time, Tushis says, it is important to find a dealer who is willing to spend the time with customers that is required to learn their needs.

"I usually advise a first-time buyer to purchase a less expensive model. A person can't really experience why a more expensive model is better unless they have experience on a cheaper model. Most people don't really need the more expensive models," Gillelan said. "The average person doesn't use their bike as a main mode of transportation. They just like to ride around town with it."

"A good touring bike will run about $250-300," Tushis said. "Good refers to the amount of alloy in the bike; the rims, hubs, handle bars, nothing fancy in the frame, good construction, a sophisticated steering system. A bike like this used to be only $170-180 a few years back. I almost feel guilty because it's hard to justify a $50 increase in cost. But the price increase has been passed on to us by the wholesalers."

"A Raleigh Record for instance will cost about $170," Gillelan said. "Bikes made in Taiwan and Japan cost a lot less but they aren't nearly as good as English models."

"A good rule of thumb is that as the weight goes down in the bike, the price goes up. The less expensive ones are heavier."

As biking increases in popularity, the safety equipment that bicyclists use are an important consideration for new cyclists.

A bicycle can be used for work, as this industrious paperboy shows, or just for fun, as his pal tags along.

Ideas and opinions

This is kind of a lull period in Northville sports. It gives me a chance to expound on some of the sports happenings in the outside world.

The only really exciting event in Northville sports was the upset of the previously unbeaten Doc's Jocks by the Northville Record team last Tuesday. I think it is worth writing more about but I haven't seen the score cards yet, wasn't at the game and when I walked into the Northville Recreation Office Wednesday, I was greeted with a loud chorus of "we won, we won!"

I stayed there for 10 minutes and could only decipher that the record had won and Mary Minor had hit a home run and some scattered bits about an after-game bar episode. The people who work at the rec department are on a number of different teams in the league, but the way they were jibbering and exclaiming what a great and exciting game it was, it was hard to pick out details.

The big news last week was the NBA draft. The Detroit Pistons are taking a lot of heat for picking Michigan State's Gregory Kelser first. Johnny Orr, the head basketball coach for the University of Michigan was the loudest critic. In an article in the Detroit Free Press, he said that Kelser couldn't carry Clark Kellogg's shoes (Kellogg is a highly touted freshman who will play for Ohio State next year).

Perhaps Orr was so critical because the Pistons used their last-round pick to nab the Wolverines' Phil Hubbard. He is only a junior but since his graduating class departed in April, he is eligible to sign with the Pistons. He is also eligible, if he chooses, to go back to Michigan and play another year as he sat out last season with a knee injury.

Picking Kelser first is also a question mark. He stands only 6-feet-6, which makes him too small to play the role of dominating forward that the Pistons need so badly. He isn't the adroit ball-handler that Magic Johnson, at 6-feet 7 is, so he can't play the role of tall guard. What can he do? The Pistons may just hope that he will draw enough fans from Lansing to make the move to the Silverdome profitable.

The Pistons will say that they have strengthened themselves with their first three picks (the other first-rounder was Roy Hamilton of U.C.L.A.) but there is a good chance that M.L. Carr and Kevin Porter will be with other clubs next season. Both are playing out their options. If they go, then Kelser and Hamilton will have to fill their shoes. That is trading experience and skill for unproven (against professional level competition) and inexperienced talent.

As for Hubbard, the doctors say that his injury is healed and his poor year last season was due to the psychological aspects of his injury. Perhaps a couple hundred thousand dollars will juice his batteries up a bit. I think of Phil Hubbard as the Mark Fidrych of basketball.

Ask the Expert

Dear Expert,

I have arthritis in my right knee that flares up every time I try to exercise. I really want to get in shape and firm myself up. Is there any type of exercise I can do that will get me in shape but not aggravate my knee?

S. D., Northville

To strengthen the knee, it depends on whether or not you have rheumatoid or degenerative arthritis. If you have rheumatoid as opposed to degenerative, you will be able to do a significant number of exercises. Straight leg lifts, isometric settings such as ham string lifts and quad drills and other range of motion exercises. Range of motion is just taking the joint through its normal range of motion which tends to loosen it. Degenerative or traumatic arthritis responds best to contrasts. Use a hot towel pack for five to ten minutes before you start exercising. Then, while you are exercising, massage it with ice packs (fill Dixie cups up and freeze them). Do leg lifts with five-pound ankle weights and do a large number of repetitions with this weight as opposed to a larger weight with fewer repetitions. This ice massage prevents secondary edema or swelling. For general all-around exercise, swimming is best as the buoyancy helps take strain off of your knee. Weight-lifting such as bench presses, flexion curls or even push-ups and sit-ups would be good for you. Running would be the worse exercise.

John Swienckowski, D.O., Northville

*"We pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes and

The Declaration of Independence heralds the birth of our nation — and backs it up with something more than noble sentiment. The document ends with a mutual pledge, in which the 56 signers made a sweeping commitment—putting everything they had on the line ... reputations, property, even life itself ... in support of justice and freedom as God-given rights ... the guiding principles of a new American way of life "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness." It's 200 years now since those words were written, and men of each generation have given their lives to protect them. Others have lived their lives to affirm them ... and to renew the pledge that freedom is worth taking risks for, since nothing is safe without it

Sheehan's shuts down Storm; Blues win

Sheehan's Little Caesars moved into first place last week in the National League with a convincing 13-3 win over Jim Storm.

Sheehan's poured it on from the start, scoring seven runs in the first inning. Sheehan's added five runs in the second inning and one in the fifth. Jim Storm managed to push across one run in the fourth and two in the fifth.

Stan Tarnowski opened the game with a double, Jim Overby, John Osborne, Don Phillippi, Mike Taschner, and Bob Martin all singled and Paul Steckley walked to score the first seven runs for Sheehan's. In the second inning Overby doubled and scored when George Borth doubled. Borth came home on a sacrifice fly by Osborne. Taschner, Martin and Steckley all followed with singles. After John Baumann was safe on an error, Sheehan's had a 12 run lead.

Jim Storm got on the board in the fourth inning when Dale Garrow was safe on an error and scored after singles by John McAllen and Gerald Wheeler. In the fifth, Albert Boyce and Tim Wykert singled. Jim Cabron hit into a fielder's choice play to eliminate Wykert. But Ted Nelson rapped a single to score Boyce and Cabron.

Sheehan's scored its last run in the fifth inning. Martin was safe on an error and came home on Steckley's double.

The Yankee Carpenters nailed the Jaycees 15-2. They opened up the scoring in the first inning when, after there was one out, Bob Macide singled. He took second on a single by Bob Moe and scored when the Jaycees booted Joe Stakulas' ground ball.

In the second inning, Bill Stuson singled, was forced at second on a fielder's choice off of the bat of Chuck Stakulas. Jim Irving singled sending Stakulas to second. He scored when Bob Freedman singled. Bob Macide then cleared the bases with a home run giving the Carpenter's a five-run lead.

Joe Stakulas opened the third inning with a home run. And then John Tuz, Tom Pausea and Dave McNally followed with singles, but McNally was out at third on a fielder's choice off of the bat of Pausea. Stuson then cleared the fences with a home run.

In the fourth inning Moe tripled, came home on a single by Joe Stakulas. McNally then doubled, followed by singles from Tuz, Pausea and Irving. This rounded out the Carpenter scoring.

The Jaycees scored twice in the second inning. With one out, Leo Kinsella was safe on an error. He scored on Alan Kinnelly's double. After Kinnelly was out trying to make it to third, Lewis Tillman doubled. He scored on a single by Glenn Fogle.

The Northville Players came from behind with three runs in the seventh to down St. Paul's Lutheran 13-12. The Players scored twice in the first inning, once in the second and the third, twice in the fourth, the fifth and the sixth and three times in the seventh.

St. Paul's got off to a slow start, scoring only one run in the first four innings. But they erupted for nine runs in the fifth to take a 10-8 lead. They added two runs in the seventh but they couldn't hold the Players off.

Carl Harmon had two singles and a home run for the winners, scoring twice and knocking in two runs. Pete Darocha had two singles and a double and Paul Krause singled three times and scored three times.

For St. Paul's, Ernest Edick had a double and two singles, knocking in three runs. Bob Agrinski hit a double and a single while Ron Maas had a two-run double.

The Brew Hogs ripped off six quick runs in the first inning to stun the Northville Players, 10-5 in their contest.

Bill Norton had a single, double and triple in four trips to the plate. Rusty Kemp smacked three singles and scored twice. Both Jammi Moore and Ed Bagdon batted out a single and double apiece, and both scored once.

Carl Harmon had two singles and a home run for the losers. Delaine Harmon had three hits.

The Eagles won a 9-0 forfeit over O.L.V. and the contest between Custard Time/Cutler Realty was called in the third inning due to rain with the Jaycees leading 5-3.

In the American League, the Blues and Long-Zayti slugged it out in a softball version of World War III. Zayti blasted out to a nine-run lead after the first inning. Rick Riegley singled, Jim Long singled, Doug Wojaw doubled. Bill Sinclair hit a home run, Ron Tini doubled, John Sinclair singled, Larry Michiak singled, Rex Balko walked. Jim Sadler hit into a fielder's choice, Riegley singled again as did Long, and nine runs were across the plate. They added three more in the fourth and two more in the sixth. Against any other team, it would have been enough for a victory. But the Blues aren't just any other team.

It's a record; 222-0

Cumberland College will never go down in the record books as one of the more powerful football schools in history. It has gone down in the record books for the opposite reason though.

In 1916, Georgia Tech had an open date on its schedule and decided to invite the smaller school to a game on Tech's field. Cumberland had no official team, but accepted the challenge and rounded up a squad to play.

midway through the third quarter. One Cumberland player reportedly said that the longest gain the team made during the game was a 5 yd. loss around right end. Another yelled back to a teammate who fumbled the ball that he should pick it up because he was the one who dropped it.

The final score was Georgia Tech 222, Cumberland 0.

Northville Lab in first place

Doc's Jock victory string broken as Record posts 10-8 win

NORTHVILLE RECORD 10
DOC'S JOCKS 8

Previously unbeaten Doc's Jock had its string of victories snapped last week as the Northville Record beat them 10-8.

The Jocks jumps out to a five-run lead in their half of the first. Cindy Martin led off the game with a single, followed by hits from Chris Suddendorf and Kathy Phillips, walk to Jan Kaestner, singles by Lynne Sylvestre, Katie Ruddon and Mollie Behan and a fielder's choice off of the bat of Leslie Nadeau.

The Record didn't score in its half of the inning. The Jocks came back to score once again in the second inning. Martin got another single and scored on an error on a ball hit by Suddendorf.

In the second inning, the Record went to work and the Jocks stopped. Using five Jocks errors, two walks and three hits, the Record scored eight times in the second inning to take an 8-5 lead.

Stephanie Colovas and Lorri Stanford were both safe on errors, Barb Bushey singled, Kathy Wolyniak and Joanne Colligan were safe on errors, Kathleen Cantline hit into a fielder's choice, Leslie Cook singled, Kim Kurzawa doubled, Sue Heinzman and Mary Minor walked and Colovas hit a sacrifice fly to complete the scoring.

The score stayed that way until the fourth inning when Northville added two more runs to its tally. With two down, Heinzman singled. Mary Minor stepped to the plate and gave the first pitch a ride over the left field fence for two more runs and a 10-6 Northville lead.

Doc's threatened in every inning but scored only in the sixth. Alisa Krinsky was safe on an error and Martin cleared the fences with a home run to narrow the gap to 10-8.

NORTHVILLE LAB 8,
E.D.M. SPECIAL TEES 5

The Northville lab took over first place in the league with an 8-5 win over E.D.M. Special Tees.

Cathy Martin opened the game with a single for the Lab and was followed by Laura Burke, Eve Williams and Pat Brown, all of whom were safe on errors. Louise Hopping singled and E.D.M. committed another error, this time on a ball hit by Kimm Adams. The result was a four-run lead for the Lab. They picked up two more runs in the second when Burke belted a home run with Martin on base.

E.D.M. didn't score until the third inning when Chris Redmond walked and came home on an error. They picked up two runs in the fifth and two in the seventh on hits by Normajeane Hagelmire, Sue and Cindy Booth, Judy VanNewkirk and Karla Prather.

Denise MacDermaid tripled for the Lab in the fifth and scored on a single by Brown.

SHEEHAN'S LITTLE CAESARS 7,
DAVE'S TRIM 6

In a close match, Sheehan's handed Dave's Trim Shop a 7-6 loss last week. Dave's scored first as in the second inning Anne Raney singled and scored on a base hit by Sue Vezina. Sheehan's came back in the third to score three runs.

For Sheehan's in the second inning Sue Kinnaird singled, Pam Metz walked and Barb Reber hit a home run. In the fourth, Donna Schlacter doubled, Kathy Eysich tripled and Sue Johnson singled. Marge Metz hit a sacrifice fly that brought Johnson in with the third run of the inning.

Pam Soncrant, Linda Justice, Vezina and Jodi Gatterl all scored for Dave's. Soncrant scored twice, once by hitting a home run in the fifth with Gatterl on base.

Pam Metz and Judy LaBron scored the final two runs for Sheehan's.

C.C. WATER WHEELERS 11,
JOE'S LITTLE BAR 1

The Wheelers waited on Joe's last week to the tune of 11 runs and 11 hits. Debby Kempe and Judy Korte each had three hits, both smacking two singles and a double to lead the Wheelers. Kemp scored three times and Korte twice.

For Joe's, Sharon Filips singled to lead off the fourth and scored as she was followed by singles from Karen Marzonie and Marie Flack.

...Men's softball

The Blues had scored one run in the first, but broke loose for seven in the third, eight in the fourth and one in the sixth.

Greg Phillips had a double and two singles, Joe Ets had a double and a home run, Ed Kritch had four singles and scored three runs, Bill Staron had a single and two doubles, Mike Theison and Bruce Griggs each hit home runs and Jimmy O'Brien had a double and scored two runs.

Rizzo Realty and Sheehan's on the Green engaged in a softball slugfest last week with Rizzo emerging the victor, 21-15.

Sheehan's led 4-2 after the first inning, but Rizzo got eight runs in the second to Sheehan's four, and that was as close as the Green team came to the winners the rest of the game. Rizzo added five runs in the third, four in the fourth, and two in the sixth. Sheehan's had three runs in the fourth and four in the sixth.

Jim Laplante had a triple and two singles, Lisowski had a single and two doubles, Mark Lisowski two singles and a double, Bob Gerlach two singles and two doubles, Dan Gougeon two doubles and Pete Talbot two singles and two runs for the winners.

For Sheehan's, Rob McGuire had two home runs and scored three times, Greg Armstrong had three singles and scored twice and Nick Hemp had four singles and scored twice.

Winners Circle, behind two home runs by Jeff Moon and one by Steve Terpevich, beat Spicer Tools 12-8. Moon had a double also and scored three runs. Mike Kantor had three times.

For Spicer's, Jim Manderville had a two-run home run, Craig Barrowcliff belted a home run, Andy Walters had three hits and scored three times and Jim Daniel scored once.

Little Caesar's rocked State Farm 12-2. Dennis Rons had a home run and a double, knocking in three runs and scoring twice, Bob Kain had a double and two singles, scoring three times, and Tom Rustin had three hits, scoring twice.

For State Farm, the big gun was Mike Nave who had a double and a triple, scoring one run and knocking in another. Ted Gores scored the other Farm run.

John Mach outlasted Belanger's 12-11. Mach's took advantage of six Belanger errors to score eight runs in the first three innings. Art Mach scored four times for the winners, as he walked twice, hit a single and made it safe on an error. John Mach had three singles and scored twice.

Belanger's was led by Dave Sparling, Pat Houlihan and Bob Wentworth, all of whom scored twice. Mike Belanger hit a two-run double.

Soccer meeting set

There will be an organizational meeting for any boys interested in trying out for Northville High School's new varsity soccer team. The meeting will be on July 12 at 10 a.m. in room A-6 at the high school. The meeting is open to boys in their sophomore, junior and senior years.

Ron Meteyer, former varsity swim coach at Northville, has been named head coach of the new Mustang team. Meteyer played on the soccer team at Schoolcraft Community College in the late 1960's and has played and coached on a number of city league teams since then.

At the meeting, topics such as practice schedules, clinic dates, and training procedures will be discussed. A schedule has been partially completed for the fall. The first contest is a 12-team tournament at D.C.D.S.

Meteyer said that he has uniforms for 20 athletes.

... Opinions

Now for Sparky Anderson. I had enough of his kind while I was in the navy. He spouts teamwork and how all of the Tigers should look alike, dress alike, and act alike so that they will radiate the proper image of a team. That's ridiculous.

How in the world does the length of a person's hair or the presence or non-presence of a moustache affect the quality of that person's work? But that line of reasoning is answered by Sparky as it is answered in the military. It isn't the actual work that the coach or general is concerned with. It is the breaking down of individualism, (really breaking down of spirit) the forced respect craved, the orders followed, that those like Anderson and the military desire.

Sparky wants players who will do just as he says, when he says it, no questions asked. He wants rock-em sock-em robots who look alike and play alike. He wants a bunch of Fred Lynn clones.

Perhaps if he devoted half as much time to the coaching of baseball that he does to the dictating of personal behavior and dress, the Tigers wouldn't lose so often, as they have under heir Anderson. After all, didn't Sparky say that the only time a manager can take credit for a win or accept blame for a defeat, is in one-run ball games? I'm not sure of the exact figures, but I think the Tigers have lost at least nine one-run games under Sparky.

What difference does it make if an athlete wears blue-jeans on the flight to the next game or dresses "like a professional" in a suit and tie? I would rather have blue-jeaned winners who have a little individuality than well-dressed clones who lose. But that's neither here nor there. Sparky is in charge of the Tigers and that's how it will be. Just let it be known though, Sparky, that if you expect me to sign in time to help the Tigers to a world series, you'd better let me wear my jeans and sandals.

Finally, my last jab. Why not just let Al Kaline and George Kell do the Tiger ball games on television? Why does Channel 4 insist on including a third party on the broadcasts. If they are trying to copy the Monday Night Football/Baseball formula, they aren't succeeding.

Kaline offers a bit of wit and insight that few others can match, and he doesn't hesitate to criticize an umpire's call or a player's action if the situation calls for it. Kell is a Tiger institution. The games wouldn't be the same without his southern drawl and trivia knowledge of the game and the Tigers.

But the third member of the team has invariably been a waste of air-time and listening power for the audience.

Mike Barry offers nothing by way of insight, or knowledge of baseball history, or of entertainment value. He isn't joking Dandy Don Merideth, or big-mouthed Howard Cosell. He just takes up space.

Pirates win 4-2

“G” league action continues

The Pirates stayed atop the “G” league standings with a close 4-2 victory over the spunky Mets last week.

The Pirates scored first in the opening inning when Frank Meyers singled and went to second on an error by the catcher. Met's pitcher Mark Wheeler then retired the next two batters but Kirk Nowka hit a ball to the rightfielder who bobbed it, allowing Meyers to score.

The Mets struck back for two runs in their half of the first as Kevin Downs hit a ball to the Pirate third baseman who bobbed it allowing Downs to make it safely to first. With two down, Paul Stevens sent Meyer's, the Pirates' pitcher, first offering deep to left field for a home run. That put the Mets up 2-1 after the first. It was the last time they would score in the game.

Meyers got tough after that and didn't allow a hit the rest of the game. He recorded 14 strikeouts and walked only one batter.

The score stayed 2-1 until the fourth inning when Rob VanBuren and Gregg Olson hit back-to-back singles putting runners on first and third. Tim Ruffing walked with one out to load the bases. Both VanBuren and Ruffing scored when Rick Van Buren hit a ball to the third baseman, who mishandled it.

Dino Candela led off the fifth inning with a triple and came home on a sacrifice fly by Olson.

In another close game, the second place Yankees barely got by the Cubs, 2-0. Scott Swienkowski hurled a one-hit shutout for the victors, striking out 14 and walking one.

The Yankees struck first in the third inning. With one out, Mike Davis was hit by a pitch and proceeded to steal second and third. John Anderson then rapped a single to centerfield that scored Davis with the first and winning run. The Yankees added their second run in the fifth inning when Gary Stobbe walked, took second on a single by John Bales and scored when Mark Hoffman cracked a double.

The Cubs came back to beat the Mets 5-1 in another contest. Keith Dutkiewicz, Billy Kirsh, Brad Lembuhl, Joe Clark and Kelly Bell all scored in the first inning to give the team a 5-0 lead.

The Mets scored in the first when Downs was safe on an error to lead off their half, was erased on a fielder's choice on a ball hit by Fred Cahill. A walk and an error followed which allowed Cahill to score.

Joel Grasely, Matt Eaker, Chris Hauser, Kurt Morrison and Mark Deal all scored in the first inning for the Cardinals in their game against the Reds last week. The final score was 6-2 in favor of the Cardinals.

Grasely walked and came home on Eaker's triple. Hauser knocked Eaker in and went to second when Morrison walked. Deal then dealt the Reds a crippling blow when he belted a home run to make the score 5-0.

The Reds, who collected only two hits, scored both of their runs in the fifth inning. Rick Demeter singled with one out and went to second on a wild pitch. Tim Blanchard then smacked a home run to make the score 5-2.

The Cardinals picked up their last run in the sixth when Eaker singled, went to second on a ground out by Hauser and scored when Morrison hit a long fly ball.

The Astros blazed the Giants 10-4 last week. Mike Hilfinger, Ron Lisowski and Danny Blanchard each scored two runs. Jared Cole had the big blow for the Giants as he hit a grand slam home run in the third inning to account for the four Giant runs.

The Dodgers handed the Padres a 12-2 defeat to round out “G” League action last week. For the Dodgers, Mark Stevens banged out a double and a triple, scoring twice. David Denhof had two hits and also scored twice. Todd Mai had a double and a single and Mike Colaluca got on base twice, as both athletes scored twice.

Jeff King and Dwayne Hays scored the Padre runs. Ferdie Sanders and Hays were the only members of the losing team to get hits.

Stingers win; 7-0

The Northville Stingers raised their record to 3-2 with a 7-0 win over the Novi Wildcats in Inter-Lake Slow Pitch Softball action last week.

The game, which was played on Wednesday, was stopped by rain once in the fifth inning, but was completed after a short delay. The double-header between the Stingers and Southfield, slated for last Friday was cancelled due to rain.

On Wednesday, the Stingers scored five runs in the fourth inning and one in each of the next two. Overall the Stingers collected 15 hits in the game.

Don't call emperor king

Many people have died for their beliefs, but few probably have died for the games they played. Take the two chess players in ancient China. Emperor Wen-Ti was out walking one day when he came upon two travelers playing a strange board game.

He asked them to teach him how to play. When he was informed that the main piece was called a rajah or shah, meaning emperor in Chinese, Wen-

Ti's royal dignity was so bruised and offended he had the two travelers beheaded. Moral to the story: next time you play chess with an emperor, inform him that the main piece is called a peasant.

Soccer has a home in U.S.

By REID CREAGER

Soccer isn't just their game anymore. After years of popularity in foreign countries, trends in recent years would indicate that the sport is finally catching on in America. And soccer's popularity has far from reached its peak in this country.

As recently as a couple of years ago, a casual glimpse through any sports section in America would fail to produce any evidence that soccer was even being played in this country. But now it's not at all unusual to see a soccer story prominently displayed in a newspaper, especially with the growth of the North American Soccer League (NASL).

In addition, soccer games are now being televised nationally, and attendance figures continue to grow. Locally, the Detroit Express soccer club has done surprisingly well at the box office, perhaps offering proof that the sport is here to stay. Recently, the Express drew over 17,000 fans for a home game — and on a night when the always-popular Detroit Tigers were playing in town.

Even closer to home, youth soccer is enjoying a surge of popularity unparalleled in recent years. And, after discussing the growth of the sport locally with soccer enthusiasts like Mike Waterman, it's not that hard to see why. In fact, it makes one wonder why soccer has taken so long to catch on.

Waterman is associated with the Lakes Area Youth Soccer League, an organization for 6-18-year-old boys and girls. The circuit, which is in action during fall and spring, is affiliated with the American Youth Soccer League (AYSO).

Growth in the Lakes Area League, according to Waterman, is picking up at a rapid pace. He said that as of last spring, 45 Oakland County teams were members in the league, including squads from Walled Lake, Union Lake, West Bloomfield, Waterford and Milford, with more entries expected in the fall.

"Originally," Waterman explained, "the league was offered as an alternative for football, and we didn't know who we were going to get. But it's turned out to be a very worthwhile experience for all concerned."

Waterman said that soccer seemed to be available alternative for football for number of reasons, primarily related to parental

"There's two big advantages that soccer has over football that really sold the parents," he said. "For one, there's very little injury involved in soccer. I've worked with little kids and junior high kids alike, and I've never seen one. While contact is involved, it's not the nature of the sport to make contact."

"Parents are also leaning toward soccer because it's so inexpensive."

day mornings.

On Tuesday evenings Family Rides take place. The first eight to 10 miles are slow and easy, according to Rueban Chapman of the Touring Club, and then those who want to go further and faster can.

On Saturday, July 14, the Touring Club is sponsoring a Hell-Of-A-Ride.

There will be three routes, all of which will go through Hell, Michigan. The routes are of various lengths; 50 and 100 kilometers and 100 miles.

Membership in the Touring Society costs $5 and can be sent to Chris Marble of 7895 Huron River Drive, Dexter Michigan, 48130, or for information, call 426-8694. Members receive a calendar which lists all of the upcoming Society events.

Johnson honored

Bill Johnson, son of Neal and Jean Johnson of Northville, earned All-American honors in the 1,500 meter race (coming in 4th) at the N.A.I.A. National Outdoor Track and Field Championships in Abilene, Texas on May 19, of this year.

This is the second time that Bill has made All-American. He competed in the Indoor Track and Field Championships in Kansas City in January. In addition to Bill's running, he earned an all A-average this past semester. He also served as a Resident Advisor and was the Intra-Mural Sports Commissioner.

Johnson, a graduate of Inkster Cherry Hill High School will be a senior this year at Hillsdale College.

The Johnsons reside at 19735 Hayes Court in Northville.

WHATEVER YOU'RE BUILDING OUTDOORS, YOU NEED

Anything you build will have extraordinarily long life — if you build it with ordinary lumber or plywood pressure-treated with Wolman preservative chemicals.

It won't rot, and termites won't bother it — even if you don't stain or paint it. Considering how long it lasts, Outdoor Wood is surprisingly inexpensive. And if you don't have a project in mind, ask us for a suggestion.

INVEST YOUR WORK, TIME AND MONEY IN A HABITANT FENCE THAT WILL LAST & LAST & LAST

Many fences sold locally are made from spruce and other woods which have a very limited lifetime outdoors — even when painted or stained. Habitant fences are manufactured from northern white cedar — a wood which has a natural resistance to rot and decay, much like pressure treated wood. It will last 5 to 6 times as long as spruce or other untreated white woods. It costs a little more but ITS WORTH IT!!!

... Soccer in U.S.

Waterman added. "You don't need $100 to $150 worth of equipment just to put someone on the field, like you do in Waterman said that it costs only $24 per season to put a child on the soccer field. That money goes toward uniforms (which the players get to keep), insurance and field maintenance. There are 15 players per team in the Lakes Area League, he added, and each season runs "a couple of months", involving some eight or nine games.

The children themselves are thankful for soccer, Waterman said, because of the fact that the sport is available to kids of all different sizes and athletic abilities. "This isn't a sport where you have to have a physical advantage to be successful," he said. "With soccer, all kids have a chance to get in some recreation and exercise, as well as contribute to a team game."

Since Waterman is a parent, with a son and a daughter both interested in soccer, he has expressed disappointment that more area schools still don't have soccer programs. He said that Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills, Warren and Troy schools — to name just a few — have cheap-to-operate, successful leagues going.

No Novi or Walled Lake schools currently have a soccer program. But, despite the relative inexperience involved with soccer, apparently some schools still have difficulty finding the money to fund the sport.

The case of Walled Lake is a good example. As Walled Lake Athletic Director Tom Evans explains it, the recent millage defeat in the city has made the financial burden greater than ever.

"We really want to get into it (soccer)," Evans said. "We're all for it. But right now, money is tighter than ever after the millage vote, and we just can't include it in our program for the coming year."

"It takes money to pay coaches' salaries, transportation costs and officials," he added. "Sometime we'll have it ... it's just a matter of money."

The matter of money is much easier to deal with in the Walled Lake Community Education Department's soccer program, which also runs in the fall and spring. Cost in that circuit is only $6 per person, largely because no regular uniforms are used. The league offers its services to boys and girls from grades three to six.

John Slattengren, Program Specialist for the Community Education Department, said that every child plays at least eight minutes per half in the league, with awards presented and patches available to all participants.

Slattengren also noted that the league, which has 170 participants last spring and "3-400" the previous fall, has been received well.

"We've been getting a lot of positive comments from parents," he said. "They like the fact that their kids have a chance to get some good exercise, not to mention that there's not a lot of contact and that the kids don't need to spend so much time at practices."

"The big thing that the program has to offer, though," he continued, "is the fact that anyone can play. No matter what skills you have or don't have, you know you'll have the chance to participate and be a part of a team."

Indeed, participation seems to be the name of the game. In Northville, for example, approximately 1,500 to 2,000 kids get involved in the West Suburban Soccer League, which is in action during the spring and fall months. It's estimated that some 600 kids — representing 15 teams — from Northville are in on the fun. There are 60 teams in the league overall.

In fact, Northville may end up being somewhat of a pioneer for soccer in the area. It was announced recently that Northville High School will add boys' and girls' soccer to its sports program next year, lending hope to soccer enthusiasts everywhere that more area schools will find a way to get the sport included in their regular activities every year.

Further information may be obtained by calling the tennis house at 591-6392. Schoolcraft College is located at 18600 Haggerty Road in Livonia.

Bowling blind

Bowling a perfect game is like pitching a non-hitter. It's not done very often. But Bill Knox proved one day that in theory, a perfect game is easy to bowl, if you know the right spots.

It was at Olney Alleys in Philadelphia in 1934 that Knox set out to prove that spot bowling was a credible way to go about getting strikes. He had a special screen placed just above the foul line so he couldn't see the pins or the lane. He released the ball on the spot at the foul line he wanted and the result was 12 frames of continuous strikes.
