

Spectacular fireworks conclude a glorious Fourth

Most spectacular ever! That's the assessment of spectators who filled Northville High School parking lot and lined Eight Mile to watch the annual Jaycee-sponsored fireworks on the Fourth of July.

The showers of falling stars and rocket-bursts that lit up the sky followed one another in quick succession as soon as dusk fell, concluding an Independence Day celebration that has become a Northville tradition.

While the largest crowd in memory turned out to watch the fireworks display, the fourth annual ecumenical worship at 8 a.m. in Mill Race Village brought out a small crowd about the size of last year's and far smaller than that for the initial service during the Bicentennial year.

The weather, which was uncertain and followed days of rain, was blamed in part for the small turnout. By the 10 a.m. parade hour, however, the sun was out and so were spectators who lined the curbs from downtown out Main and down Rogers.

Jaycees said the parade crowd was one of the largest in history.

The Mill Race service was held inside

Two fronts

It looks like a refurbished storefront and that's exactly what its owners intend as they finalize plans for remodeling the interior and exterior of their downtown restaurant building. Actually, it's a drawing of what will become the rear of the "Old Mill Restaurant," say Co-owners Daniel Collins and Constantine Kitrakos. "We want the rear of our restaurant to be as handsome as the front," emphasizes Collins, who expects construction to begin within a few weeks. The restaurant, to be renamed "Positively Mainstreet," calls for a nearly doubling in size - with a massive addition planned at the rear of the existing Main Street building. The "rear front" will face the municipal parking deck. The Main Street side of the building will look much like south side. Regular restaurant service will be provided on the expanded first floor, while private dining will be featured on the second floor. The "Coney Island" side of the restaurant is to become the restaurant's "Saloon." See drawing of the Main Street side of the building on Page 12-A.

Country Creek

New sub gets city nod

Site preparation for the first phase of Country Creek Subdivision on the north side of Eight Mile Road may be started this fall with initial street paving to follow next spring.

But the construction timetable for phases 2 and 3 - or about three-quarters of the subdivision to be located immediately west of Lexington Commons North - is still indefinite, said

Roy Russell, spokesman for Four Real Estate Developers, Inc.

The pre-preliminary site plan was approved by the Northville City Council last week with the stipulation that a satisfactory arrangement be worked out to provide "pay-back" utility lines to the planned new subdivision west of Country Creek, and that a modified sidewalk system along Eight Mile be provided.

The plan was approved last November by the planning commission.

Although council members pressed him for a more definite schedule of construction for Phases 2 and 3, Russell said it is impossible to be more definite because the project necessarily must be tied to the whims of the housing market.

Nevertheless, Russell emphasized that sewer lines can be installed across the rear two-thirds of Country Creek early to accommodate tie-in connections to the new Abbey Knoll subdivision, where construction is expected to get underway earlier than in Country Creek.

Councilmen worried that if Country Creek were delayed, it would necessarily delay the start of Abbey Knoll which is dependent upon sewer and water lines coming across Country Creek property.

Concerning the Eight Mile sidewalk, council agreed with the proposed substitute plan suggested by the developer.

If a sidewalk were installed along Eight Mile in the normal right-of-way it would require removal of a fine stand of trees, noted Russell. The developer, therefore, in order to preserve these trees has suggested that the sidewalk at Eight Mile on the west be curved north to run along the front of the first row of houses (facing north) and then curve back to Eight at the east edge of the subdivision.

Teacher transfer triggers criticism

By KEN KOVACS

Members of the Northville High School Marching Band have rallied in support of their musical leader Robert Williams.

More than 50 band members and their parents gathered at Monday's meeting of the Northville Board of Education to hear what board members had to say about the condition of the band equipment and what can be done about it.

But the discussion ultimately led to the students' most immediate concern: the transfer of Williams, the music instructor at the high school, to Cooke Junior High and Michael Rumbell, the junior-high instructor, to the high school.

"By moving Mr. Williams you are creating a problem," said Nancy Orr, spokesperson for the band. "Students' loyalties are going to be tested. He has done so much for us."

"I think you are going to cause a stress in the music program," she warned. "This could be the last straw and could kill the program."

When questioned about the transfer, Lawrence Nichols, superintendent of schools, said that it was done for the good of the music program.

"There are times when, for a combination of reasons, a change of assignment is necessary for the betterment of a program," he said. "The assignment was in no way a vindictive response. These matters were discussed back in May, even April."

"What appears to be an action or reaction response is in actuality a move for the future betterment of the music program," he concluded.

Other audience members, however, challenged the superintendent's statement saying that the transfer would hurt the program.

"I think this is an overboard thing to do," one audience member said. "They (Williams and Rumbell) both do a good job, but I believe that Mr. Williams is the better man for the high school job."

Barbara Leboeuf, president of the Northville Education Association charged that the transfer was in conflict with terms of the teachers' contract and said that a grievance will be filed.

She said that, according to the contract, such a transfer must be approved by the school board and in this case it was not.

Ms. Leboeuf also said that she felt the move was not in the best interest of the music program.

"He (Williams) has been living in this hell for 22 years," she said. "If there are going to be some positive changes made I think Bob deserves to be around when they happen."

"This (the transfer) is a political issue and I think it should be dealt with now."

Prior to the heated discussion about the transfer, Nichols read a response to a letter sent to board members by the marching band last month asking for some answers to their problems and stating that they would not march next year because of the "embarrassing" condition of band uniforms, sheet music and instruments.

The superintendent's report dealt with four specific areas: band uniforms, apparent lack of support for obtaining new music, condition of musical instruments and replacing stolen instruments.

In general, the report said that most of the claims of the students were valid and that replacement programs for uniforms, music and instruments were badly needed.

Specifically, Nichols said that the stolen instruments, about $3,500 worth,

Vote results stand

The vote differences changed slightly but the results of the recent Schoolcraft election were the same.

That's the word from county officials following completion of a recount last week because of two razor close victories posted June 11 in two races for the college board of trustees.

Surviving the recount and still winners are Richard Hayward of Livonia, whose narrow lead over Thomas Moore of Northville increased to three votes - 4,165 to 4,162 and Michael W. Burley, a Northville school administrator, who edged Robert Flcano of Livonia by 26 votes - 4,590-4,564.

In the recounting, Hayward increased his amazingly thin margin of one vote to three votes,

City eyes ladder truck for fire department

"It's something our community has needed for some time, particularly since the construction of Allen Terrace."

That's the position of Northville (city) Fire Chief James Allen in strongly recommending purchase of the city's first ladder truck that is expected to cost in excess of $150,000.

"We've got to have another class 'A' pumper anyway," the fire chief told city councilmen, explaining that the ladder truck he recommends be purchased also is a pumper and therefore is able to fill two roles. Under the mutual aid pact, two pumps are necessary to permit the city to keep one on call locally at those times when the other is being used to fight fires in another pact city. Presently, Northville (city) has only one class 'A' pumper, he said.

(The city has two pumps, but one of them - a 1956 LaFrance - is considered too old to be labeled a "Class A" pumper even though it is a good functioning vehicle, the chief explained later).

The recommended ladder truck, said Allen, "isn't just a tower truck. This one is a pumper and can be used as a first line attack vehicle."

Although it appears the American LaFrance manufactures the only single rear axle ladder truck that meets hous-

AN AUCTION of materials in the home of the late Edmund Yerkes is being planned, his son Charles Yerkes informed city council this week to alert the city to a potential traffic problem near the Yerkes house at Dunlap and Linden. The auction will be held sometime in mid-August.

THE CLASS of 1980 has received city council permission to solicit residents to take orders for painting of addresses on street curbs. Steve Bourne, treasurer of the class, has explained that donations will be asked for the work. The last time a project of this kind was undertaken it was done by the Northville Jaycees.

PARKING ASSESSMENT in lieu of actual provision of parking will remain at $3,000 for each parking space, city council has decided.

THREE TREES have been donated for planting at Allen Terrace, it was announced last week. One was donated by the Country Girl Garden Club, the two others by Mrs. Sidney Frid.

A COMBINED meeting of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce, Downtown Retail Merchants Association and the Downtown Development Authority will be held tomorrow (Thursday) at the Northville City Hall beginning at 7:30 p.m. Topic of discussion will be the Mainstreet 78 plan. The public is invited.

Should there be education for handicapped over 26?

Where do we go from here?
That is the question handicapped and retarded persons — or their parents — ask when they reach age 26.

The Mandatory Special Education Act (Public Act 198), passed in 1971, mandates that education be provided to all handicapped individuals until they reach the age of 26. But what happens to them after that?

"The majority of handicapped persons are put in an institution," said Leonard Rezmierski, director of special education for Northville schools. "Others return home to live with their parents."

"There are a few educational programs scattered around, but the few that there are are very inconsistent with one another," he said.

Rezmierski and others in the Institution Special Education Program (ISEP) are, along with many other concerned educational groups and parents groups, attempting to find out what can be done for these persons.

The Northville special education department has applied for a state grant to study the feasibility of educational programs for handicapped persons age 26 and older.

Rezmierski recently received notice from the Department of Mental Health that Northville passed the first stage of review, along with a number of other applicants, and should know sometime in August who will receive the grant.

"The first thing we would do if we got the grant," Rezmierski said, "is try to get a handle on how many handicapped people 26 years old and over live in a particular area."

"I know that there are hundreds, in the northwest area of Special Education alone — which includes North Plymouth, Livonia, Garden City, Cherry Hill, Redford Union and South Redford school districts, as well as Northville," he said. "I get many phone calls from parents asking what they can do for their handicapped child and right now I really don't have much to tell them."

The age of 26 was picked at random, Rezmierski said, with no real reasoning behind the decision.

"They (state lawmakers) could have chosen 21 or 22 just as easily, but they decided on 26."

In 1975 the Northville school district voluntarily took on the huge responsibility of running the Plymouth Center for Human Development and the Northville Residential Training Center, both of which are located in Northville Township.

The ISE program has made great strides since it was formed and members of the staff are concerned that all their work could be for naught.

"Theoretically, if their (handicapped students) educational opportunities end at age 26 we have to question the value of what they have been taught prior to reaching that age," Rezmierski said. "Certainly we feel that any education they get is beneficial, but who knows how much they will retain or use if they are put back in an institution and get no further learning."

The state grant would be strictly for a study to determine what could be done for handicapped persons 26 and older and Rezmierski says that this would only be a beginning.

"There currently are no laws or guidelines which stipulate who, if anyone, is responsible for educating handicapped persons 26 and over," he said. "If we can determine just how many handicapped people we are talking about and who is responsible for providing them with educational opportunities we will have somewhere to start."

Recreation plan now under study

A study of recreation needs in Northville and Northville township has begun and an extensive recreation plan for this area should be completed by January 1980, recreation officials said last week.

The $4,000 study is being done by Mark Horning and Associates of Grand Ledge. Horning is a planner who specializes in recreation. The study was jointly commissioned by Northville City and Northville Township.

Horning met with Northville Recreation Director Edward Kricitz June 3 to collect information about existing recreation programs in Northville.

Horning said his firm will survey current recreation programs and demands, get community input about what residents would like to see here, and evaluate existing recreation facilities.

Then, Horning will obtain data from city and township planners on census projections for the Northville area and current zoning rules. He will evaluate all the information and put together a final recreation plan for the community by 1980, he said.

The final recreation plan will coincide with the finalization of Northville township's revision of the Northville Township Comprehensive master plan, of which recreation is a part.

The city of Northville has a finalized comprehensive master plan at the present time. While there has been some discussion on revising it, there has been no action so far.

The recreation plan is for both the city and township. The city and township already have a joint recreation commission.

If Horning's study results in a recommendation that some kind of new recreation complex or facility be built, there are several sources of potential funding for such a project, Horning said.

One method would be to apply for federal matching funds through the state, he said, where the community would put up half the cost and the federal government would pay the rest of the bill.

Under this program, if a pre-application was made to the state by March, 1980, it would be evaluated in competition with other recreation projects in the area. If selected, the community would have to make a formal application to the state by September, with the final results known in January 1981.

There are other potential sources of funding as well, Horning said. Some communities have gotten total funding for their projects through the government or a private donor, while other communities have paid the entire cost of a project themselves.

Renovate county building?

Wayne County will continue pursuit of State and Federal funds for its own plan to renovate the Old County Building, rather than sell the structure for $1 under a restoration proposal from the City of Detroit.

The proposal from city council, meant to provide more space for Detroit Traffic Court, was turned down on July 2 by the public works committee of the County Board of Commissioners.

Instead, the committee referred the idea to the county planning commission and economic development corporation, asking both to explore further possibilities for grant funds the county has been trying to win for some time.

Committee Chairman Thomas Presnell said that, with adequate funding, the county can restore the building as well as the city could, and that the county needs the space there as much or more than the city.

"Neither would it make economic sense," said Presnell. In agreement was Commissioner Mary E. Dumas, the committee vice chairman, who estimated that the county receives about $2 million annual rent from tenants in the building. Most of the space is occupied by traffic court.

"Why trade $2 million for $1?" Presnell pointed out after the meeting. "This is very valuable property, either for its income, our need for office space, or its historical worth." The building is at 600 Randolph Street and its 19th Century-style architecture sharply contrasts with surrounding newer buildings.

Last year in its quest for renovation funds, the county was turned down by the history division of the secretary of state. Then the County was told that a new federal law affecting the national historic preservation program prohibited funds for public buildings still in use for governmental purposes.

In response, County Board Chairman Richard E. Manning asked Secretary of State Richard H. Austin for other suggestions for funding the refurbishing project.

"The Old County Building is not just significant historically; it is a magnificent structure that can be an asset both in terms of beauty and of utility," Manning told Austin.

This year Manning has also appealed for help from the two U.S. Senators from Michigan, Donald W. Riegle, Jr. and Carl Levin.

"Wayne county has need for financial assistance to provide for exterior restoration and cleaning," said Manning. "I request that you endeavor to identify other sources of federal funding that might be utilized for this wor-

"Not only does the Old County Building have significant historical value; it is located in an area being renewed as spin-off from construction of the Renaissance Center. It may qualify for rehabilitation funds other than historic preservation money."

Manning is also encouraging traffic court to move from the Randolph address to a vacant county-owned building at 640 Temple, which formerly housed the state dept. of social services Detroit office. The move would leave the Old County Building strictly for county needs, he said.

In a letter in May to Chief Traffic Judge William C. Hague, Manning pointed out that any necessary rehabilitation of the facility could be financed with building authority or economic development corporation bonds, and supported by rentals.

WAYNE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS took a dim view of selling the old 19th Century courthouse to Detroit for a $1 asserting the ornate structure is worth at least $2 million and is also a prized, historical piece of property with its massive statues and stately columns. The City of Detroit proposal was meant to provide more space for Detroit Traffic Court. Commissioners are asking the county planning commission and economic development corporation to explore ways to renovate the outbuilding. The modern outline of the Renaissance Building towers in the background vividly contrasting the young and the old and adding to the flavor of Detroit.

Police Blotter

Boy playing doctor sought

Northville township police are looking for a boy who assaulted a three-year-old girl in the Northville Colony park east of Robinwood last Saturday.

The girl, visiting from another state, was playing with her male cousin of the same age, on the swings in the park at 11:30 a.m., when two boys on bicycles rode up, they told police.

"One of the boys told the girl he was a doctor, and that they should play doctor," she said. When she returned home, the girl's clothes were torn and dusty and she was dazed, but not physically harmed, her mother told police.

The three-year-old told police the boy was between four and fourteen years old, taller than she was, had blonde hair, green shoes and was wearing a gold cross chain around his neck.

Police are continuing the investigation.

A 16 year-old Northville girl was arrested for stealing a bottle of vermouth from the Cap and Cork, 40644 Five Mile, on July 2, township police said.

Manager Ross McCartney and a stock boy caught the girl outside and called police. Police said she resisted arrest, breaking bottles and a mirror, and hitting the officer until she was placed in handcuffs and transported back to the station.

Her parents picked her up, and the Cap and Cork said no charges would be filed against the girl, police said. The unopened bottle of vermouth was returned to the store shelves.

Two accidents within two days at the same intersection last week left two drivers with tickets for hazardous driving, Michigan State Police reported

Michael J. McCusker, 20, of Westland, received a ticket July 5 for making a left turn from eastbound Seven Mile onto Silver Springs Drive in front of a car driven by Ann Leyson, 18, of Livonia. Ms. Leyson hit her head on the car windshield upon impact; McCusker hit the dashboard in his car, police said. McCusker said he did not see Ms. Leyson's car because of an abandoned car parked in the center lane of Seven Mile.

July 6, Eugene J. Fogel, 38, of Northville township, received a citation for hazardous driving after pulling out from Silver Springs onto eastbound Seven Mile in front of Sidney Omenke, 66, of Southfield. Both drivers and Fogel's wife sustained bumps and bruises from the crash.

Another accident last week left Helen C. Baldwin of Northville township with a ticket for failure to yield in a left turn. Ms. Baldwin was eastbound on Seven Mile, when she made a left turn onto Haggerty in front of William C. Gourley of Detroit who was coming at 45 miles-per-hour on westbound Seven Mile, township police said.

A Detroit woman escaped injury but her mentally ill son was hurt when she was transporting her son eastbound on Six Mile near Haggerty July 6, township police said. Her son tried to jump out of the car, she told police, and as she tried to stop him, she lost control of the car and it swerved off the road into a residential yard, police said. Her son, who succeeded in jumping from the car before the crash, was injured and taken to St. Mary Hospital for treatment, township police said.

Getting ready

Placing letters on a sign at Eight Mile and Novi roads, in preparation for the upcoming Sidewalk Sales day, is Scott Lapham, son of the Charles Lapham who organized and who has piloted the highly successful annual event for the last decade. City council last week gave its approval for blocking off traffic on Main (from Hutton to Wing) and on Center (from Dunlap to Mary Alexander Court) during the Saturday, July 28 event. A sell out of booth space along the street is anticipated. Persons or organizations still wishing to reserve space should call the Laphams at 349-5175.

Lease agreement ready for signing

Control of the Northville Community Building will change hands possibly this week with the signing of a lease agreement between the Northville schools and the Northville Recreation Commission.

The school district, which owns the property, has agreed to lease the building to the commission for 25 years for $1.

The agreement, drawn up by the school's attorneys, is expected to be signed by school officials, city officials, township officials and recreation officials sometime this month.

The multiple signing is required because the commission serves both the city and the township and therefore both must give their okay.

Two sections of the agreement have caused some concern by school board members and city council members, causing them to send the document back to their attorneys for revision.

One of the problem sections deals with sub-leasing the building.

School officials put a clause in the lease to insure that the commission would not lease the entire building for a profit.

City and recreation officials, however, point out that they only want the power to sub-let parts of the building to help offset operating costs.

Attorneys representing the school district, township and city met June 30 to revise the language of that section as well as another which concerns itself with indemnity.

The clause insures that the school district, its employees or anyone else affiliated with the schools cannot be held responsible in any legal action taken.

Revised drafts of the lease agreement were sent to all concerned parties Monday. The school board Monday night approved the final draft. Approval by the other parties is expected at their next respective meetings.

The community building, which currently is being renovated, will be used for a variety of civic and recreational activities and will also serve as a center for the Chamber of Commerce, information programs, community awareness and educational classes.

The renovation, according to recreation officials, will take two or three years to complete. It includes roof repair, floor repair, heating system renovation and other miscellaneous work — installing partitions, electrical wiring and extensive painting.

The original estimates for the renovation project totaled about $60,000, and despite some miscalculations, officials hope that the cost of the project will not go too much over that amount.

"The floor repair is going to cost a lot more than we had anticipated," said Edward Kricitz, director of recreation. "We estimated about $4,000 and the latest bid we received was $18,000."

"But the roof repair, so far, is a great deal less than we thought it would be, so it should work out to about what we said," he guessed.

The Northville library will be housed in the community building temporarily while the new library is being built at city hall.

The library is scheduled to move to the community center August 1 and will remain there until probably December.

Kricitz said that, hopefully, the floor repairs will be done this fall and the heating system repairs will begin then.

The city and the township have each pitched in $5,000 of "seed money" to help with renovation costs. The remainder will have to be raised through special programs by the recreation department, Kricitz said.

On 'high adventure' cruise

Two Northville boys explore Florida Keys

By KEN KOVACS

Two Northville Boy Scouts recently spent seven days skin-diving and exploring coral reefs and underwater parks in the waters of the Florida Keys.

Bob Clarke, a senior at Northville High School, Chris Hamell, a freshman, and 17 other scouts from Redford, Livonia, Southfield, Bloomfield Hills and Troy participated in the Florida Gateway High Adventure June 25-July 2. The trip was sanctioned by the Detroit Area Council of Boy Scouts.

Nine of the scouts, led by advisors Ron Hamell of Northville and Jerry Redouty of Livonia, sailed the Keys aboard the Pleiades, a 44-foot catch-rigged Gulf Star vessel. The others went on another sailing craft.

The boys — averaging in age from 14 to 17 — and their advisors traveled some 125 nautical miles in the week-long cruise, exploring various coral reefs, including those at the Pennekamp Coral Reef State Park — an underwater park.

The boys did a little fishing and almost landed a barracuda which measured close to 5 feet in length.

"We had him hooked and were in the process of bringing him in when the swimmer snapped the line with his teeth and swam away," Hamell said.

In preparation for their adventure, which cost $415 per participant — a portion of which was paid for by the Council — the boys did some vigorous swimming over the winter to get in shape and also took a short trip on the St. Clair River to learn some things about sailing.

The trip was sponsored by the Florida Gateway High Adventure Explorer Scout Station in Coconut Grove, Florida — one of seven such stations located in six different states.

Hamell said the scouts and two advisors are planning a potluck dinner prior to the beginning of school in September to tell other members of their troops about their experiences and to show them photos of the trip.

Plans are already underway for next year's trip — a canoeing trip to a High Adventure post in Minnesota.

Northville's Chris Hamell was among the adventurers

District, board reach agreement

Members of local 547, the operating engineers union for Northville school district employees, will receive a $1.35 pay increase per hour in three years under a contract agreement ratified Monday.

Union membership passed the tentative agreement by a 2-1 margin Monday, while school board members gave the pact a unanimous okay following an executive session Monday night.

Maintenance, custodial, transportation and cafeteria employees of the school district will get 40 cents more per hour this year, 45 cents next year and 50 cents in the final year of the contract.

Some 180 employees are covered under the agreement which will expire June 30, 1982.

Bargaining units for the union and board met nine times since May 10 to negotiate the contract. The membership rejected a tentative agreement June 29, but reportedly it was not for economic reasons.

"I don't think the objections had to do with money," said Richard Cross, chief negotiator for the board team. "Because we made some extremely minor non-economic changes in our other and the membership then accepted it."

Cross said that there were no sweeping changes in the contract but rather there was a lot of cleaning up of non-economic areas such as retirement age and maternity leave specifics.

U-M names three grads as scholars

Three Northville residents are among 866 Michigan high school graduates who were named by the University of Michigan as Regents-Alumni Scholars.

John M. Whelan, David P. Hooten and Brian N. Faustyn were among those selected for their "superior academic achievement and their potential contribution to the scholarly community of the University of Michigan."

A certificate has been sent to each of the scholar's high schools.

Hooten and Whelan were among 248 of the scholars to receive a $500 Regents-Alumni Scholarship when they enroll in the U of M in September.

The 'merit' scholarship (financial need is not a consideration in the selection) is awarded to first-year students residing in Michigan and is not renewable.

Fancy colors

While many students are out playing in the summer sun, members of the Northville High School band are hard at work adding some bright, cheery colors to the band room and practice rooms. The ambitious students have met twice so far and plan to work a few more days to get the entire project done before school resumes in September.

Commission powers are limited here

The powers of the Northville Township Water and Sewer Commission are broad but its actions must be approved by the Northville Township Board of Trustees.

The water and sewer commission was created for the purpose of "administering any water system or sewage disposal system which the township now owns or may hereafter acquire and to further supervise and control the installation of all storm sewers and drains."

It consists of five members, each appointed by the township board, each serving three year terms. Most recently Edward McNeeley was reappointed to another term on the commission. Other members of the board include: Harold Schmidt, Wilson Grier, John Morley and Robert Terwin, Chairman.

Township Engineer L.W. Mosher; Walter Holmby, water and sewer superintendent; and Germaine Cervin, water and sewer department clerk, also attend water and sewer commission meetings.

The commission has charge of the management, maintenance and operation of Northville township water and sewerage disposal systems.

It also supervises, inspects and controls the installation of storm sewers and drains not under the jurisdiction of the Wayne County Road Commission or Wayne County Drain Commission.

With the approval of the township board, the commission can acquire facilities, property and equipment for the water or sewer system.

The removal and disposal of sewage in Northville township. It establishes and enforces specifications for the design and construction of all water supply or sewage disposal facilities which will or may be incorporated into the system here.

With the board's approval, the commission can develop master plans for the water and sewer systems and can establish and enforce rules and regulations to protect and control the use of water and sewer systems.

The commission establishes and collects charges and rates for sewer and water services in the township, for connections to the systems. And it has the power to engage engineering, legal and management assistance for aid in carrying out commission duties.

The township board accounts for all monies received by the water and

For Thunderbirds

He's AF narrator

JIM JIGGINS

When the nationally acclaimed Thunderbirds — the U.S. Air Force precision flying team — performs for a show, its narrator is Captain Jim Jiggins of Northville.

A graduate of Northville High School, Jiggins also is the advance coordinator — the person who arrives in advance of the team to check on final details for each show. It was Jiggins, for example, who made the arrangements for the recent air show at Selfridge Air Force base on June 23 and 24.

"I review all details at the various stops before the Thunderbird performance," he explained recently. "Those details include everything from lodging to our briefing rooms and the Federal Aviation Administration waivers for our show."

Captain Jiggins, who lived on Beck Road while attending school here (his mother makes her home in South Lyon), entered the Army's Warrant Officer Rotary Wing Aviation Course in 1966. He served a tour of combat duty, flying 589 hours in the OH-6A Scout and AH-1G Cobra in 1968.

He returned from Southeast Asia to become an instructor pilot at the Army's primary helicopter school at Fort Wolters, Texas.

In 1971 Captain Jiggins was graduated from Eastern Michigan University with a bachelor of science degree. He then attended officer training school and later graduated first in his pilot training class at Moody Air Force Base, Georgia.

He returned to Southeast Asia, this time flying F-4s in combat.

Prior to his selection for the Thunderbirds, Captain Jiggins was assigned to Seymour Johnson Air Force Base in North Carolina as the chief of weapons and tactics for the 334th Tactical Fighter Squadron.

Jiggins attended the Air Force Fighter Weapons School at Nellis Air Force Base and has logged more than 1,100 hours in Air Force jet fighters and more than 2,600 hours total military flight time.

This is Captain Jiggins first year with the Thunderbirds. In 1980 and 1981 he will become one of the six man flying squad, either as left wing, slot position or as a solo.

Captain Jiggins and his wife, Barbara, are parents of two daughters, Jamie and Kayce. His in-laws, Edith and Fraser Forsyth, are residents of Northville.

Shoes for patients

"Thanks to the generosity of Sibley's Shoes, we're proud to be able to help provide shoes for patients at Northville State Hospital," said Northville Rotarian C. A. Smith during a brief ceremony last week. At the same time Smith said the local Rotary club is "trying to do all we can to improve the relationship between the public and the hospital." Sibley's, through its Area Supervisor Nate Weiner, donated 138 pairs of shoes to the hospital. The donation, arranged by the Rotary club, is but one of several made to the hospital over the past several years by Sibley's. On hand for last week's presentation ceremony were (l to r) Mrs. Frank Sladen, hospital Director John Reynolds, Nate Weiner, hospital Community Relations Director Jean Bachelder, C. A. Smith, and Rotary District Governor Frank Sladen.

Bidding open for repair work

Invitations for bids are out for major repair work on the city's parking deck on Cady Street.

The bids are due August 6.

The repair work primarily is to repair cracks and spalling of the concrete of the deck caused by expansion and contraction of the two-story concrete structure and by salt.

Also, the roof entrance to the internal stairway is to be removed. (Exterior stairways have been installed).

Damage to the deck, according to Uday A. Kirtikar of Carl Walker & Associates, has not affected the structural safety of the deck.

It has, however, caused major leakage and spalling.

The majority of the tee to tee flange connections have either rusted out or broken off from flange concrete," he said. "Tee flanges have broken edges or have spalled off at several locations exposing reinforcing which is rusting.

"Leakage at almost every tee joint is evident due to cracking of the concrete 'topping' up above. The leakage has caused extensive corrosion of all exposed connections and plates."

Besides calling for the repair of this damage, bid specifications require the build up of the asphalt on the top level to prevent ponding of water.

Kirtikar has recommended that in the future no salt be applied to the top surface of the deck for removal of snow and ice. He added that the amount of salt dropped from the underbodies of vehicles parked there is insufficient to result in the kind of damage caused by direct salt applications.

Asked if the construction of a roof over the top level might prevent future damage and thus justify the cost of such a roof, Kirtikar said it would not.

Wilkinson is president

Elect board officers

Karen Wilkinson has been elected president of the Northville Board of Education for the 1979-80 school year.

Other officers elected Monday night are Marjorie Sliger, vice-president; Richard Barron, secretary, and Charles Peltz, treasurer.

Christopher Johnson also was nominated for the office of president, but was defeated, 5-2, by Mrs. Wilkinson.

The new officers will serve until June 30, 1980.

Mrs. Wilkinson was elected to the board in 1974. She was re-elected last June to serve a four-year term.

Up to $4,000

Grants available

Certain homeowners in Northville township may be eligible for up to $4,000 in home repair grants, it was announced recently.

Under the federally-funded program, people who could not ordinarily afford home improvements will have a chance to do repairs which will bring their homes up to township building code.

Direct grants will be given to homeowners for home repair, electrical and plumbing installation and other improvements.

Expansion or room additions will be funded for large families who can prove they need the extra space.

Only Northville township residents who own and live in their homes and who meet certain low-income or fixed-income requirements can apply for grants, township officials said.

Homeowners with questions or who wish to make applications should contact the Township housing grant administrator at the Township Hall, 41600 Six Mile, 348-9000.

Sheriffs to stage terrorist attack

If, on July 15, you're driving by the Plymouth Child Development Center in Northville and spot a man in the distance who's dressed in jungle greens and a face mask — don't be alarmed. It's just a mock terrorist attack. This word of warning comes from the Wayne County Sheriffs Department where plans are under way for an extensive four-day exercise aimed at protecting high ranking officials from assassination.

Kristina Quinn and Matt Yanoshik, respective secretary and treasurer of Northville High's student congress, represented Northville at the week-long workshop which was held June 24-29.

The workshop is designed to teach principles of effective leadership and to provide for practical opportunities in applying these principles, says Marcia J. Cameron, coordinator of the program.

GOOD TIME FOR WINE
by Jim Roth

Chenin Blanc is made mostly from grapes from the Loire Valley of France. Perhaps the most popular of the valley grapes of this kind are the Vouvray. Most Chenin Blancs are sweet, fresh and fruity, though some are renowned for their dryness. Chenin Blanc is especially popular for cocktail parties but certainly complements chicken, crab and lobster. There are several different brands of Chenin Blanc so taste many to find your favorite. A good suggestion might be to choose the most recent vintages; Chenin Blanc is better when younger.

If you need suggestions on what wines would go best with what you are serving talk to us at GOOD TIME PARTY STORE, 567 Seven Mile Road, 349-1477. We are a complete party shoppe with a fine assortment of nuts, party crackers, potato chips, pretzels, keg beer, and even live lobsters. Stop by and see us from 9 a.m.-10 p.m. Mon. thru Sat., Noon-6 p.m. Sun.

the New School Church, and those who attended said the more intimate setting added to the worship.

Organist David Heinzman from First Presbyterian Church brought his own pump organ to the Mill Race for the service. He played and directed the ecumenical chorus.

The Reverend Lloyd Brasure of First Presbyterian Church, who organized the service in which eight area churches participated, said he felt the indoor service should be continued. The choir, he pointed out, sounded much better indoors with those attending able to hear the words to "Faith of Our Fathers" and "O Beautiful for Spacious Skies."

The Reverend Leslie Harding of Holy Cross Episcopal Church in Novi delivered the morning's message. He first mentioned that the service reminded him strongly of his father's pastorate in Canada where his father would play the organ, move to the pulpit to deliver the sermon and then serve Communion.

He encouraged worshippers to "stretch and grow" as he talked of enrichment of life rather than mere happiness for one's goal.

No one can be certain, but special service may have marked an historic first. It may have been the first worship service in the building in more than 100 years — since the mid-1800s. It was built by members of a splint group of local Presbyterians who later reunited with the original church.

Two of the biggest hits of the afternoon were the community band and the new Mill Race gazebo, which combined to present much-praised sights and sounds.

"It's beautiful" was an often overheard comment among the spectators who stood or sat on the ground around the Gazebo to enjoy the band playing from the picturesque bands-stand.

Despite only a few rehearsals, the band's performance was surprisingly polished, spectators seemed to agree. "It would be a shame if the band's existence could not be extended," said booster Jane Francoeur. "But presently there are no plans to continue it unless someone or some organization can give it direction and financial support."

Anyone interested in lending such support or who may have an idea of how to make the community band a permanent organization is invited to telephone Mrs. Francoeur at 349-8242 or Francis Gazlay, who made arrangements for its performance at the Mill Race, 349-0767.

Dancers on duty in the historic buildings in the Mill Race Village reported more visitors than ever. Many were repeat viewers interested in progress made during the past year.

They found the dining room of the Yerkes House had been papered with authentic-to-the-period Victorian stripe floral wallpaper and furnished with Victorian pieces donated by the Michigan Quarters Antiques Society. The small room behind, as well as the formal parlor, also now are furnished.

Overall, the number of persons attending the festivities at the Mill Race "was down slightly," a spokesman for the Northville Historical Society said.

Jaycees served about 850 chicken barbecue dinners — about the same number as they served last year.

Jaycee President Ronald Barnum was elated with the community support of the day-long activities. The turnout for the parade was "spectacular," he said, and the crowd at the fireworks was "unbelievably large."

Even though thousands walked to the high school area or watched the fireworks from their homes, the automobiles at or near the high school created a monumental traffic jam following the fireworks. Traffic was tied up for an hour after the fireworks.

Concerning the fireworks, Barnum said more money was pumped into the aerial display this year because "the ground displays aren't seen as well from many areas near the high school."

The big winner of the drawing conducted by the Jaycees was Richard McCally of 493 Morgan Circle. Instead of the 19-inch color television set, McCally chose five $100 savings bonds.

Winners of the watermelon eating contest at the Mill Race were:

David Martin, first place; Terry Nadeau, second; Brian Allen, third; and Doug Martin (brother of David), fourth.

Parade winners were:

Senior marching groups — Plymouth Salem Rockets, first; Alhambra Drill Team, second; and Northwest Militia, third.

North side

Above is the artist's conception of the planned remodeling of the downtown restaurant — now called the Old Mill and soon to be renamed Positively Mainstreet. As the site plan shows, the adjacent Coney Island side of the business is to house the restaurant Saloon. A large addition to the rear of the building is planned, carrying the building out to near Mary Alexander Court. This rear addition will feature a "front" appearance, much like the Main Street side, to make it attractive to customers entering from Mary Alexander Court and the adjacent municipal parking deck. Patrons entering from the Main Street side of the restaurant will be able to enter either directly into the first floor of the restaurant or through the saloon. Access between the restaurant and the saloon is to be provided on the second floor. New kitchen facilities are to be constructed in part of the addition. During interior remodeling, according to owners, the restaurant necessarily will have to be closed for business.

"But we hope construction can be concluded rapidly to minimize the inconvenience to our patrons," the owners said.

Council fuming as state withholds track money

technically it is $92,600 behind in its payments.

"It's a little bit like the state stretching its fiscal year beyond 12 months to make the state treasury look healthier," said City Attorney Philip Ogilvie. "It's only a paper remedy that makes the state look good but hurts the state's municipalities."

The Michigan Municipal League (the organization representing Michigan cities and villages) confirmed that municipalities throughout Michigan are adversely affected by the state's tactic. Delay in making payments may be helping the state's cash-flow problems but it is raising havoc with the budgets of Michigan cities, a spokesman said.

In Northville's case the state's refusal to pay $92,600 due the city is creating "a severe hardship," according to the city manager. He pointed out that because state monies budgeted to pay for local projects are being withheld, some planned projects — such as repair of the municipal parking deck here — may have to be cancelled this year.

The "excuse" the state is giving for not making the race track rebate payment of $92,600 is that it cannot legally do so until the legislature approves the appropriation, according to local officials.

What has happened this year, as it has happened in past years, is that the state makes a budget estimate of the amount of monies likely to be generated by state race tracks. Its rebates, therefore, are tied to this estimate. For example, it estimated Northville Downs would generate sufficient revenues this year to warrant rebate of $670,000 to Northville. It has rebated that much.

However, revenues generated by the Downs exceeded state estimates, producing therefore an additional $92,600 in rebates for Northville.

In previous years, the state treasury has promptly paid such additional monies to Northville. This year, however, it refuses to do so until approved by the legislature — even though it acknowledges the money rightfully belongs to Northville.

It is difficult to understand why appropriation action is necessary for race track revenues, said Walters, who pointed out that Public Act 143 specifically provides that "20 percent of the revenues received (by the state) shall be placed in a fund under control of the state treasurer and shall be returned to the city in which the track is located."

"While the $92,600 involved is certainly not significant to the overall cash flow of the State of Michigan," said the city manager, "it is critical to the City of Northville in meeting its obligations to encourage the development and growth of the Northville Downs race track, to the benefit of the State of Michigan."

The real motive behind the state's delaying tactics is to wait until after its fiscal year ends. That's when the base year formula of the Headlee Amendment becomes known.

Specifically, the amendment suggests the state may not reimburse municipalities a specified amount more than is paid out during the base year — the base year being the current 1978-79 fiscal year. Thus, if the state can hold off paying some of its commitments until after the fiscal year ends (September 30) it will have created an "artificially low" base upon which to calculate future year payments to municipalities, the manager explained.

"That's bad enough, but it could be even worse if the state delayed payment until next year and then refused to make up the shortage," he said.

It has been estimated by Senator R. Robert Geake's office that some $7 million in state sales tax reimbursement to state municipalities are being withheld by the state. Other monies owed municipalities, such as gasoline and weight tax revenues, reportedly are being withheld as well.

Although the city manager sent letters to state senators urging assistance in expediting payment of the $92,600, those letters were considerably milder than the resolution enacted by council last week. That resolution, which was to reflect council's rage over the state's "skulduggery," was to be sent area municipalities which also are being "shortchanged."

Interest rate and bidding details: The bonds shall bear interest at a rate or rates not exceeding 10% per annum, to be fixed by the bids therefor, expressed in multiples of 1/8 or 1/20 of 1%, or both. The interest on any one bond shall be at one rate only, all bonds maturing in any one year must carry the same interest rate and each coupon period will be represented by one interest coupon. The difference between the highest and lowest interest rates bid shall not exceed 2%. No proposal for the purchase of less than all of the bonds or at a price less than 100% of their par value will be considered.

paying agent; Both principal and interest shall be payable at a bank or trust company located in Michigan qualified to act as paying agent under State or United States law to be designated by the original purchaser of the bonds, who may also designate a co-paying agent, which may be located outside of Michigan, qualified to act as paying agent under the law of the State in which located or of the United States, both of which shall be subject to approval of the undersigned.

PURPOSE AND SECURITY: The bonds were authorized at an election held April 10, 1979, and are issued for the purpose of paying part of the cost of construction of an addition to the City's Municipal Building to house the Northville Public Library. The bonds will pledge the full faith and credit of the City for payment of the principal and interest thereon and will be payable from ad valorem taxes, which may be levied without limitation as to rate or amount. The rights or remedies of bondholders may be affected by bankruptcy laws or other creditor's rights legislation now existing or hereafter enacted.

GOOD FAITH: A certified or cashier's check in the amount of $7,400, drawn upon an incorporated bank or trust company and payable to the order of the City Treasurer must accompany each bid as a guarantee of good faith on the part of the bidder, to be forfeited as liquidated damages if such bid be accepted and the bidder fails to take up and pay for the bonds. No interest shall be allowed on the good faith checks and checks of the unsuccessful bidders will be promptly returned to each bidder's representative or by registered mail.

AWARD OF BONDS: The bonds will be awarded to the bidder whose bid produces the lowest interest cost computed by determining, at the rate or rates specified in the bid, the total dollar value of all interest on the bonds from August 1, 1979, to their maturity and deducting therefrom any premium.

LEGAL OPINION: Bids shall be conditioned upon the unqualified approving opinion of Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone, attorneys of Detroit, Michigan, a copy of which opinion will be printed on the reverse side of each bond and the original of which will be furnished without expense to the purchaser of the bonds at the delivery thereof. The fees of Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone for services rendered in connection with such approving opinion are expected to be paid from bond proceeds. Except to the extent necessary to issue their unqualified approving opinion as to validity of the above bonds, Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone has not been requested to examine or review and has not examined or reviewed any financial documents, statements or materials that have been or may be furnished in connection with the authorization, issuance or marketing of the bonds, and accordingly will not express any opinion with respect to the accuracy or completeness of any such financial documents, statements or materials.

Accrued interest to the date of delivery of the bonds shall be paid by the purchaser at the time of delivery.

CUSIP NUMBERS: It is anticipated that CUSIP identification numbers will be printed on said bonds, at the expense of the issuer, but neither the failure to print such numbers on any bonds nor any error with respect thereto shall constitute cause for a failure or refusal by the purchaser thereof to accept delivery of an pay for said bonds in accordance with terms of the purchase contract.

Crime dips here in city

Crime increased slightly during the first five months of 1979 over the same period last year in Northville, city police reported.

Larceny was up with 75 larceny complaints received by the end of May, while only 53 complaints were registered by May 31, 1978.

Most increased was larceny from motor vehicles with 36 calls, an increase of 13 calls over last year.

By May 31 of this year there had been one homicide, one case of armed robbery, five aggravated assaults and 15 burglaries reported. Last year there were no homicides or armed robberies.

Last year there was one reported rape, four aggravated assault complaints and 19 burglaries.

Assaults, arson, fraud, stolen property, weapon and sex offenses all increased slightly over the same period last year.

Vandals damaged more property this year than last — the monetary loss by May's end this year to private property was $25,755. Last year only $4913 worth of private property was damaged by May.

Liquor offenses were up in the city. By May 31, 35 persons had been arrested for driving under the influence of liquor, while last year 28 persons were arrested.

Disorderly conduct, vagrancy, narcotics violations and offenses such as bomb threats and firecrackers were all down.

In the first five months of both 1978 and 1979 there were no cases of kidnapping, riots, truancy, gambling or prostitution reported in Northville.

Total calls to the department by the end of May of this year reached 2,165. Last year, 2,086 calls were received in the first five months.

Sixty of those calls were related to damage caused by the ice storm which broke power lines and trees in April.

and sound equipment taken during the past school year would be replaced by the school district's insurance.

Nichols met with Dr. George Aune, high school principal, Nancy Soper, director of instruction, and Bonnie Wagner, president of the band boosters organization, on June 27 to discuss the problem and at that time it was agreed that a committee made up of students, parents, teachers and administrators would be formed to come up with some possible solutions. The committee is scheduled to meet July 17 and will bring some suggestions back to the school board sometime in August.

Whatever decisions are made, however, Northville High School will be without a marching band next year.

"We still stand by our original decision," Ms. Orr said. "We really can't march next year."

Sign Pact

Schoolcraft President C. Nelson Grote, left, Northville Superintendent Lawrence Nichols and Kathleen Dillenbeck, project director, at the recent signing of the formal articulation agreement between the college and the Northville Schools. The agreement assures that Northville students will gain additional vocational options and benefits by continuing their studies at Schoolcraft. Through the efforts of college and high school instructors, students can now gain college credit for competencies mastered while in high school.

In Touch

By Representative Jack Kirksey

The controversial school breakfast program came one step closer to reality last week when the House voted to add $1.1 million necessary to implement it to a $50 million department of education budget.

The breakfast funding was approved 87-39, after the house appropriations committee slashed it from the budget in an attempt to force legislation out of the house education committee which would allow local voters to approve or disapprove the breakfast program in their individual districts.

The issue will likely be worked out in a House-Senate conference committee since the Senate did not approve funding for the program.

The breakfast programs are primarily supported by federal funds, which will amount to $3 million in the 1979-80 school year.

A number of superintendents and school board members from throughout the state testified in opposition to the program at a hearing in Lansing recently. Northville School Superintendent Lawrence Nichols personally came to the Capitol on a second occasion to discuss the problems the district foresees.

A state mandated breakfast program does not recognize the need for local control. The state has established a formula to determine who would qualify for the program, but it is a formula that does not necessarily identify all the needy students in individual districts. Districts should be able to assess their own needs and establish their own criteria for a breakfast program. The breakfast program may also disrupt bus schedules and require additional supervisory personnel. Despite these arguments, a bipartisan coalition in the House was able to gain enough votes to begin the three-year phase-in of school breakfasts.

Under the program, breakfasts must be offered in all schools which have a certain percentage of needy students. The state must pick up all the costs not covered by federal subsidies, and the program cannot be implemented unless state funding is approved. State dollars are needed in about 30 percent of the districts whose costs exceed federal levels. State funds would also be used to support additional supervisory and custodial staff and to purchase some equipment.

But it is important to point out that federal subsidies seldom cover the real costs of a program. I introduced amendments that would have provided funds for districts that have already started a program and would have permitted the Northville schools to delay implementation of the program for a year. My amendments were defeated and I then led a floor fight to defeat the appropriation bill. This would have had the same effect as delaying the program for a year. But we were not successful.

This type of appropriation and state mandated legislation is a poor example of government attempting to dictate programs uniformly which may or may not be of value to all school districts in the state.

SPEAKING
for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

Years ago The Record ran a regular column called "Years Ago" which contained interesting events from the past. It was the kind of chore normally assigned to a new staffer.

From the newspaper's standpoint the feature held a couple of attractions other than how interesting it might be to the reading public.

Perhaps most importantly, it was a perfect "early copy" item. A reporter could start compiling "Years Ago" as soon as the week's publication was completed. There was no excuse for waiting until the deadline. All he had to do was dig back into the editions from five, 10, 15 and 25 years ago and pick out the interesting things that happened in Northville coinciding with the current date.

Additionally, it provided the new reporter with background information on the community. There were risks. A newcomer would not know for example, that a happy wedding announcement of 25 years ago might have gone up in smoke in the meantime. So editors had to be careful to screen material.

Most reporters disliked the drudgery and dullness of "Years Ago." But occasionally a new staffer would demonstrate ingenuity and make the old days come alive by comparing prices, lifestyles, dress, entertainment and governmental budgets and problems of three or four decades ago with life in Northville in the fifties and sixties.

Eventually, however, Years Ago disappeared along with "News Around Northville," a collection of local items mostly involving people and what they did on weekends or on vacations.

Some might say the modern Record is a better product. Certainly it enjoys the advantages of improved technology. No more casting mats, setting hot type or flatbed presses that frequently refused to complete a run without a series of newsprint web breaks.

But some of the old ideas are still valid.

What brought this to mind was an article in the June 20 edition of the Record in which Superintendent Larry Nichols expressed his belief that school board members should be paid.

My reaction is not unlike President Carter's when he responded with "baloney" to something or other Senator Kennedy had to say.

I recall covering Northville school board meetings in the late fifties when the money-squeeze was as severe as it is today. Teachers were under-paid, the new high school was being constructed, state aid payments were months in arrears ... dollars were scarce. In those days boardmembers like Nelson Schrader, Bill Crump, Bob Schafer, Don Lawrence, Bill Becker, Jim Kipfer and Ed Angove declined compensation. As small as the amount was, at least it represented a contribution to the educational welfare of the district.

Superintendent Nichols has set aside $10,900 for school board salaries — enough to pay each member the maximum of $30 per meeting.

If Nichols and his seven boardmembers can declare that our district can't use 10 grand for books, maintenance, band instruments or other educational improvements, then I'll withdraw my baloney.

Meanwhile, I'll continue to believe that oldtime common sense still holds.

When citizens become involved in their schools, they do so because of their interest in the education of their children. They become candidates knowing full well that meetings are held at least twice monthly for several hours duration. And they know the job pays nothing.

I find it difficult to believe that $30 per meeting will attract more or better qualified candidates.

And I hope the superintendent is expressing his own opinion and not that of boardmembers. If they're hung-up on personal compensation, they can't possibly be concentrating full attention on the needs of the district.

Speaking for myself
More moon trips for U.S.?

YES

Our first astronauts landed on the moon 10 years ago this month; the next flight is long overdue. Most look on such voyages as being financially prohibitive and of no practical benefit, but such is not the case. We must realize that Americans spent more on cosmetics than on moon flights each year of the Apollo program! By reinvesting funds into lunar flights, we can expect invaluable technological returns in fields such as medical technology, communications, computers and health care. In this manner, funds channeled into the Apollo flights actually showed profit.

Moon trips could carry instruments for monitoring "moonquakes" which would immeasurably increase knowledge of earthquake prediction and control. Trips to the lunar surface could serve to bring back samples of rocks and soil from locations not accessible to previous teams of astronauts. In studying these samples, we gain insight into the origin and future of the earth itself. Such ventures could be utilized to set up permanent earth observation stations in order to study our atmosphere in addition to scouting out rare ore deposits.

I foresee lunar flights dedicated to establish mining operations. These mines could produce ores not available on earth which are crucial in the construction of space stations and eventually space colonies. Cost-benefit studies have already been conducted and designs of such lunar operations have been submitted. Clearly, flights to the moon are a prerequisite to an era of man's expansion into space.

L. Wayne Brasure
Astro-physics major, U-M

NO

I could not rationalize a trip to the moon considering the desolate and barren condition that prevails there. I do not believe that within my lifetime the moon will be sufficiently developed to be a tourist attraction.

The main lure will be scientific examination and the main point of interest will be from an engineering viewpoint in a space-motion direction.

I cannot justify the expense and time spent in a lunar trip when I recall the beauty of the big island in Hawaii with the heady perfume of jasmine flowers; or the appetizing aroma of the street food vendors in Hong Kong; or the cute hobbles of kimono-clad Japanese girls along a cherry blossom avenue; or the experience and delight of seeing a wandering leprechaun over the Irish moors.

I cannot think of comfort in a congested space suit, eating liquid foods or vitamins for a period of days when I could be lolling in a houseboat in Kashmir and eating beautifully spiced lamb and chicken with frangi-pangi flowers on the table. I remember with relish throwing darts in a pub in London when I had to run back between every shot to get another mouthful of roast beef.

My heart beats faster when I recall all these lovely places and enticements on this earth — a trip to the moon, Hell, no.

HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

When Northville, the "Switzerland of Wayne County," bit off big chunks of Oakland County's "Town One North," it came away with more than just some valuable Novi lands. It also acquired what, in 1979, has become a perplexing jurisdictional question.

Unlike annexations in most other places in Michigan, those here produced a two-county city — the older part in Wayne and the new Novi part in Oakland.

Over the years, belonging to two counties has proved to be both advantageous and disadvantageous. For example, Northville's location in two counties means it has two sets of lawmakers, thus giving it more political clout in Lansing and Washington. But it also creates aggravation for the city dweller who can't vote for the same set of officials as his neighbors across the street.

Lately, the taxing differences between Oakland and Wayne counties have proved to be a real pain in the pocketbook. All of which has given fresh impetus for shucking one of the two counties.

But state law doesn't make it easy for a city to rid itself of one county. To do so, under present law, Northville must obtain permission of voters in both counties — from Holly on the north to Flat Rock on the south, from South Lyon on the west to Grosse Pointe Woods on the east. Thus, Northville is asking its two sets of Lansing lawmakers to make the law easier ... to allow Northville voters to decide for themselves what county they want.

Initially, Northville figured the new law should simply give local voters a choice of either Oakland or Wayne. But after closer examination, city council decided this choice wasn't fair to those desiring status quo.

Furthermore, council concluded that the three question ballot — Wayne, Oakland or status quo — is too cumbersome and potentially unsettling.

For example, the three question ballot could produce a winner by plurality of those voting. Hypothetically, if 4,000 voters cast

News from Lansing

By R. ROBERT GEAKE
State Senator

How would you like to have nearly $9.5 billion to spend? Sounds like it would be a dream come true, doesn't it? Believe me, however, it's not nearly as easy as you might think — especially when you've got to meet the needs of more than nine million people in the process.

That's exactly what the Michigan legislature must do each year in developing the state's budget. My colleagues and I must decide what state services our citizens deem most essential and what portion of state revenues should be allocated to each area.

Developing the state budget is actually much like figuring out your family budget. It is basically a process of determining priorities.

As a wageearner, you can usually predict the amount of money you'll have coming in each month and you must choose to set aside certain amounts for housing, food, transportation, utilities, clothing, and recreation. You know you can't spend too much in one area or you won't have enough left over to cover the other important area.

The same goes for the state's budget. Each year, the legislature must estimate how much revenue the state would have coming in from taxes and decide how much to set aside in each area of services provided our citizens.

Funds are annually allocated from the state's general fund to 18 of the 19 state departments so that they can provide their specialized services across the state. They are the Department of Agriculture, Attorney General, Civil Rights, Civil Service, Commerce, Corrections, Education, Labor, Licensing and Regulation, Management and Budget, Mental Health, Military Affairs, Natural Resources, Public Health, Social Services, State, State Police, and Treasury. (The Department of State Highways and transportation is supported by other specially earmarked state and federal funds.)

In addition, monies are allocated for kindergarten through 12th grade education, community and junior colleges, four-year colleges and universities, the three branches of government (executive, legislative and judicial), various special projects, and capital outlay (building projects).

Of course, when we are speaking of a state budget, we are talking about a budget on a much larger scale than one for a family. We are, in fact, budgeting for our state's entire population of nine million people!

The process of developing a state budget is a lengthy and difficult one. As I am writing this column, the legislature is approximately half the way toward completing this task.

Here's what has already been accomplished:

The governor presented his proposed state budget for the upcoming 1979-80 fiscal year to the legislature in late January. Individual budget bills, encompassing the governor's recommendations, were introduced in both legislative chambers shortly thereafter. (Traditionally, the initial review of the budget bills is divided between the senate and house appropriations committees, with each panel assuming primary responsibility for scrutinizing about half of the budget bills.)

Almost a month ago, the appropriations committees began seriously reviewing the budget bills for which they are initially responsible, holding hearings and making either upward or downward adjustments, sometimes substantial, in the governor's recommendations.

Approximately two weeks ago, each committee reported the bills its members had considered to their respective chambers for consideration by the full membership of either the house or senate.

Most of the budget bills have now been approved by their chamber of origin and have been referred to the appropriations committee of the alternate chamber where the committee review process is about to begin anew.

Here's what remains to be accomplished:

Once the budget bills win approval by the second chamber's appropriations committee, they are then reviewed by the members of the alternate chamber and ultimately approved.

Usually, the budget bills are passed by each chamber at different levels of expenditure, thus resulting in their being sent to specially-created conference committees where members from both the house and senate iron out the variations between the two chambers' versions. Before the budget bills can be sent to the governor for his signature, they must pass both houses of the legislature in an identical form.

A target date of July 15th has been set for completing the legislature's consideration of the budget for the 1979-80 fiscal year which begins this October 1st and runs through next September 30th.

It is likely that we will be working around the clock during the next two weeks to meet our self-imposed deadline for action on the budget. I feel it is important that we meet this deadline, however, so that school districts will be able to proceed with their teacher contract negotiations this summer and so that we will be able to turn to other pressing matters, such as workers' compensation reform, during the fall session.

If you have any questions regarding the budget process or specific appropriations, please feel free to write to me at the State Capitol, P.O. Box 30036, Lansing, MI 48909.

Here's a lesson for dog owners

To the Editor:

I wish to relate this experience to all pet owners and would-by pet owners.

While driving down Eight Mile Tuesday I noticed a dirty little puppy walking down the side of the road. I pulled over, and found the dog, with no collar, to be quite gentle and I decided to take it to some home for strays. I checked with a veterinarian who told me to take the dog to the police station. But the Northville police couldn't take it because I found it in Northville Township, not the City of Northville. They did, however, refer me to someone who could tell me what should be done. The man examined the dog and said it was in fairly good shape and was well fed. He was sure the dog just ran away.

So I took my puppy friend, who I had named Gloria Gainer, after the woman who sings "I Will Survive," back to the area I found him and knocked on the nearest door. Sure enough, he belonged there. I was almost sorry to say goodbye to Ms. Gainer, we'd been through so much already. But I left her at her home, and went about my business.

Later that day I drove past the farmhouse again. Ms. Gainer was dead at the side of the road. If you cannot take proper care of your pet, find someone who can. For all my efforts, I could not save a dog's life. Only an owner can, by caring for his pet properly.

We of the Northville Student Congress would like to acknowledge two very special people to us: Sheryl Wissman and Kelly Mikton. These two are not only full of love and understanding, they are also full of pep, spirit and lots of get up and go! We will sure miss these two! We will never forget all the spirit and unity they brought to our school! We wish them much happiness and success in all they do!

With fond memories,

P.S. With people like these the world will never fall!

To the Editor:

Boy am I steaming!! I am so upset with our school system. Being a student at Northville High School makes it even more upsetting. What's the matter with our school? I'll tell you, the way the money is handled at the board office. Checks are never issued on time. Next they cut teachers who are fantastic. They make it so we have no marching band. This really upsets me! Our marching band is the spirit of our school. Without our marching band there will be little enthusiasm at pep assemblies, homecoming and a variety of sports and parades. I am not a member of the band but I sure cheer them on! I have something to say to the board office: "Thanks for nothing."

ballots, winner "A" might receive 1,334, while losers "B" and "C" might receive 1,333 votes each. Council doesn't think one-third of the voters should decide such an important issue for the remaining two thirds.

So instead Northville is asking Lansing for enabling legislation that would give the Northville council permission to place its choice of a single question on the ballot. The question could be (A) "Shall we be entirely part of Wayne County?" Or it could be (B), "Shall we be entirely part of Oakland County?" And, presumably, it could be (C), "Shall we remain part of both counties?"

Whatever question is asked, it will produce a fair "majority," council concluded.

But would it really be a majority? Couldn't the "majority" also reflect a plurality? If the majority of voters said "no" to A, it may mean that a majority do not want Wayne County but it may also mean a plurality of the majority wants B or C.

Dear _____:

I am a member of this credit union which offers its membership share drafts. Congress is now considering legislation that would make share drafts and other dividend bearing transaction accounts legal for any credit union to offer.

I am strongly in favor of such action for the following reasons:

- Share drafts offer me a convenient way to make purchases and pay bills if I am not near a credit union service center to make withdrawals.
- A share draft account at my credit union pays me quarterly dividends on the average balance in my account. I appreciate and need this benefit because any other financial institution would charge me for depositing money and using a checking account, money that I could well use to earn dividends in these inflationary times.
- By making share drafts legal, credit unions can remain competitive with other financial institutions and offer its membership the services we are entitled to. Otherwise, I would have no choice but to use a checking account elsewhere that would charge me for its "service" and not pay me dividends. This obviously is not in my best interest.
- A consumer should have available the widest possible choices in financial services, and credit unions should be able to offer those choices.

It can be a chore writing a letter to your local representative in Washington. But this is an SOS letter—an important one to send if consumers are to continue to receive the benefits of share drafts. Unless your local officials receive your letter and more like it within the next 45 days, it will be illegal for credit unions to offer share drafts by January 1, 1980. News Briefs

CONTRIBUTION of $1,000 to the Northville Jaycees to help pay for July 4th festivities sponsored by the Jaycees was approved by the city council last week, with the understanding that a similar amount would be contributed by the township.

THREE MEMBERS of the Northville city planning commission whose terms expired June 30 have accepted reappointment to new three-year terms. They are C. Thomas Wheaton, presently chairman, Bruce Turnbull and Lesa Buckland. Luke Durst and Charles Ayers have been reappointed to the city zoning board of appeals. Frederick Jewels will join them on the board, replacing Charles Buttermore who now spends winters in Florida. They, too, are serving three year terms. In making the appointments the city council expressed appreciation for Buttermore's fine service in the past.

ANNUAL FARMERS' market in the Main Street parking lot by Northville Pharmacy will open for the season July 19. Sponsored by the Northville Chamber of Commerce weekly on Thursdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. during the growing season, the market this year will have regulars returning as well as new faces, including an egg lady, Essie Nirider, chamber spokesman announces. He promises an even bigger than usual market of farm-fresh produce and flowers.

ing requirements of the city, council nevertheless decided to seek competitive bids to be received by August 6.

The American LaFrance vehicle recommended for purchase by Chief Allen is the custom Century 75-foot Water Chief with Detroit Diesel engine and automatic transmission, 1000 GPM pump and a long list of accessories.

What makes this vehicle so ideal, explained the chief, is that even though it has a reaching height of 75 feet, it is only 32 feet long and can be housed in the existing fire station in the city hall building.

It is some 15 feet shorter than the conventional ladder truck, which would require the construction of an addition to the fire station, said the chief. The conventional ladder truck contains a more expensive, rear tandem axle chassis, he added.

To better illustrate the vehicle's aerial reaching height, City Manager Steven Walters noted that the highest point of Allen Terrace is 42 feet. Thus, the vehicle easily will be able to reach above any city building, it was pointed out, allowing firemen to direct streams of water directly down onto the roof.

Concerning the LaFrance's length, Allen said it would be a tight squeeze to get it into the existing station but he confidently predicted it can be done in the station's center bay.

"We're fortunate that we've had no major downtown fire (recently) requiring a ladder vehicle," said Councilman Stanley Johnston. (The last such fire destroyed the Eagles building. For that fire, the Plymouth aerial rig was called to Northville to assist).

Mayor Paul Vernon said such a vehicle would have been very helpful in the lumber yard fires on Base Line in recent years.

Added Allen: "It could have been used many, many times in the past."

Pop was late

The Faygo pop was late to area stores, but no serious damage was done when the engine of a Faygo truck caught on fire on North Center between Baseline and Eight Mile Monday. Driver Kevin Reed had trouble summoning help because nearby residents were not home. But a passing motorist drove through the rain to the Northville police station, and the entire city fire department was soon on the scene. Northville police blocked off the street until Reed's truck was moved.

Clerk Sass certified

Northville Township Clerk Clarice Sass has been designated as a Certified Municipal Clerk (CMC), the International Institute of Municipal Clerks announced last week.

Mrs. Sass, township clerk since 1974, received the CMC designation upon completion of over 100 hours of courses in public administration and functionally-related subjects over three years. She finished the course at Michigan State University.

She is one of the only 36 municipal clerks in Michigan to have received the designation.

Mrs. Sass recently was elected president of the Wayne County Municipal Clerks Association. She is also a member of the Educational Ad Hoc Committee of the Michigan Townships Association (MTA) and secretary of the Wayne County Chapter of MTA.

Mrs. Sass has an associate degree in business from Webber College, Florida, and has completed special courses in records management and governmental accounting.

Before assuming her present position in August, 1974, Mrs. Sass was administrative assistant to the mayor of the City of Detroit and was assistant advertising manager at Peninsular Distributing Company, Detroit.

'Country Creek' sub gets city council nod

Not only would such a sidewalk permit preservation of the trees, such a sidewalk is more likely to be cleaned of snow in the winter because it runs along the front of the houses rather than at their rear, council noted.

First phase of the subdivision will contain 60 houses; Phase 2, 84 houses and Phase 3, 63 houses. All will be single family dwellings, Russell said.

Based on approximate 2200-2400 square-foot sizes of the houses contemplated for the subdivision, Councilman Stanley Johnston observed that the houses probably will range in cost from $125,000 to $150,000 and perhaps more, dependent upon the amount of custom building desired Russell concurred.

Russell pointed out that while the ordinance permits some 350 units on the property (approximately 92 acres), only 207 houses are to be built under the Planned Neighborhood Unit Development Concept.

Exterior lots, he said, will be at least 90 feet wide, while interior lots will be 80 feet wide.

Some 17 acres of open space is to be provided on the rolling landscape. Country Creek will have some 2.5 miles of streets. It will have one entrance off Eight Mile but one of its internal streets will tie in with the subdivisions to the east and to the west.

Russell said small parcels of land have been excluded from the subdivision plan at the southeast and southwest corners. The latter contains an old home, while the former reportedly was not deemed buildable as part of the subdivision.

Although he said some "scalping" of the landscape undoubtedly will occur, Russell emphasized that every effort will be made to preserve the natural beauty of the property. His comment was sparked by council concerns that the landscape not be destroyed as has occurred across the street (south side of Eight Mile in the township).

Where major scalping occurs, said Russell, it will be done only to meet city ordinance restricting the grades of streets.

Attic slates 'steambath'

"Steambath," Bruce Jay Friedman's outrageous comedy in which the limbo between life and death is examined by God (a Puerto Rican janitor) and members of the Steambath, will be the summer feature at Detroit's Attic Theatre, opening July 13 and running through September 1.

Because of the normally sold-out houses on Saturday, Lavinia Moyer, artistic director of the theatre, announced that the usual, one 8 p.m. performance will be replaced by two shows — one at 6 p.m. and one at 9 p.m. — on Saturday only.

Other shows will be Thursday, Friday and Sunday at 8 p.m. For reservations and ticket information, phone 963-7789.

while Burley's original edge of 27 votes was sliced by a vote.

Actually, Hayward's original vote total of 4,165 was not changed by the recounting. But Moore, who had requested the recount, lost two of his votes - dropping from 4,164 to 4,162.

Both Burley and Ficano lost votes in the recounting, with Burley dropping from 4,592 to 4,590, while Ficano slipped from 4,565 to 4,564. Ficano, a Livonia lawyer, also had requested the recount.

Hayward won a two-year term, while Burley picked up a six-year seat.

The other loser in the election was Gerald Cox of Garden City, who was ousted after serving six years. Seeking one of the two six-year terms, Cox picked up votes in the recounting but still finished fourth. His final official vote total was 4,361, up from his original 4,353.

Dad becomes homemaker while mom is breadwinner at Northville High School, is home taking care of the house and kids and mom, Barbara, is working full-time as a pool supervisor.

The first week of the role change completed, dad slumps on the couch, tired but pleased with himself.

He has not only done the daily chores of washing, cleaning and cooking — not to mention taking care of the kids — but has also found time to bake six dozen cookies and some cupcakes.

"I really like cooking," the rookie housekeeper says. "I was the oldest in my family and did some cooking and baking while I was in high school. We always had some friends or relatives over, so I always had someone to eat my cooking.

"It's the vacuuming I don't like," he said.

After his first five days of housekeeping (weekends are not included in the role change) the enthusiastic homemaker says that it "really isn't too bad."

Barbara, however, criticized him for taking all the credit for the work done.

"I kind of eased him into it," she laughs. "But he really is doing a good job now."

Along with all his household work, carting the kids — Gerard, 6 and Brett, 3 — to their activities and doing a few extra projects around the house, Meteyer serves as the high school representative on the Northville Education Association negotiating team which is currently bargaining for a new contract.

The two teams have been meeting once or twice a week and the sessions could become more frequent as the debate over the main issues — salaries and benefits — gets underway.

Barbara, meanwhile is working 45 hours a week

A former AAU state champion swimmer in the backstroke, she is well-qualified for her job — a pool supervisor for the Farmington Hills Recreation Department

She teaches swimming and supervises three lifeguards and also helps organize activities.

In addition, Barbara teaches swimming to handicapped and retarded kids four times a week for one hour. Her BA degree in physically impaired from Eastern Michigan University and 14 hours of graduate studies in learning disabled and emotionally impaired make her more than adequately qualified.

Barbara once qualified for the Olympics, but broke her arm just prior to the games, shattering her dreams of participating in Olympic competition.

The Meteyers say that their decision to switch roles came as the result of many unrelated happenings. "I got this job offer back in February, just about the time that we decided we didn't want to return to the camp," she recalls. "Then Ron was elected to the negotiating team and we decided to try it, since he would have to be available for the meetings."

Meteyer, who has taught at Northville High for eight years, will return to his role as breadwinner this fall and will also take on the duties of head coach for the new high school soccer team.

But until school resumes, he will be washing, cooking, cleaning and babysitting.

"It isn't so bad," the happy homemaker says. "Besides, in six weeks of work Barbara will make more money than I did for the whole summer at camp."

For the past nine years summer has meant packing up the family and heading north to camp Mahn-gah-see for the entire three months. Dad was a camp counselor so the clan went north with him.

But this summer things are quite different for members of the Meteyer family.

Dad, Ron Meteyer, a biology teacher

... she will make more money than I did all summer. . .

Websters' anniversary party's epicurean repast

By JEANDAY

The strawberry torte inscribed "Happy 25th" was not your usual anniversary cake, but the silver anniversary dinner celebration for Sylvia and Harry Webster of 45893 Fermanagh, given by their son and daughter was a gourmet treat all the way.

Their daughter Lisa Dixon came from Bloomsburg, Pennsylvania, to join her brother Douglas Webster in hosting the semi-surprise Sunday afternoon event at her parents' home July 1. She explains that her parents knew there was to be some observance but had no idea 75 guests had been invited. They included Mrs. Webster's brother Louis Martella of Dallas, Texas, and sister Candy Martella of Dearborn. Others came from Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Also present were the couple's attendants, Dr. Clarence Schults of Dearborn and Edwinna Hennessey of Bloomfield Hills.

Guests were served top round of beef, carved by Mark Lisowski of Northville, a personal friend of Douglas Webster's since grade school at Our Lady of Victory. Assisted by Donna Canadara, Lisowski catered the meal which also featured broccoli Hollandaise, baked potatoes and salad. Lisowski now is a chef at the Golden Mushroom Restaurant in Southfield. He is a graduate of Schoolcraft's culinary arts program.

Father Gerard Hadad, former priest at Our Lady of Victory, returned to officiate as the couple renewed their marriage vows. They first spoke them July 3, 1954, at Sacred Heart Church in Dearborn.

For the celebration Mrs. Dixon had attached a big sign across the balcony of the house, reading "Happy 25th Mom and Dad." Not surprisingly, she now is doing public relations work with Press Enterprise newspapers in Bloomsburg.

Former co-workers reminisced

Eight former co-workers of Marie Knapp at Northville High School got together June 28 to help celebrate her retirement as schools' food services director. Having dinner at the Round Table Club in Plymouth with Mrs. Knapp were Marlene Miller, Rita Turnbull, Reva Shave, Yvonne Rollings, Courtney Mowat, Helen Hay, Marian Zayti and Bernice Juday.

Couple marks golden anniversary

Young people and civic involvement have been important in the lives of Myrtle and Wilson Funk who celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in June.

They have spent 39 of their 50 married years in Northville, living for many years on Grace Street before moving to their present apartment at 15450 Northville Forest Drive.

He served as one of the community's first recreation directors and was employed at Stone's Gamble Store (now Black's Hardware) here.

Mrs. Funk was fifth grade teacher to many Northville students, teaching here 22 years before retiring in 1969. She previously had taught in Livonia.

The couple's daughter Marilyn Howard arrived from Hawaii and their son John and his family from Columbus, Ohio, in time for a family dinner celebration June 23 at the Plymouth Hilton Inn.

A reception for friends was held the following day at First United Methodist Church in Northville where the Funks are members.

Brian Howard, the Funks' grandson, a student at the University of Michigan, also was on hand for the festivities. The Howard family lives in Honolulu with two other children attending the University of Hawaii.

The Funks' son, an attorney, and his wife have four children, bringing the total of grandchildren to seven.

As the family returned for the anniversary, Mrs. Funk recalled that both their son and daughter "went all the way through school in Northville."

During those years both the Funks were active in civic organizations. Wilson Funk served on the city board of appeals and still is a member of the Northville Beautification Commission. Mrs. Funk is a member of Northville

Woman's Club, Delta Kappa Gamma, honorary teachers' society, and Eastern Star.

One of the pleasures of retirement for the couple has been travel. They spent two months last winter in Florida

And, with their daughter and her family living in Hawaii, that island has been a special destination.

Helen Geisler displays 100 year old plates

British marks tell: her plates are 100

Helen R. Geisler used thought association to remember that the pair of blue plates hanging on a wall in her condominium in Lexington Commons would be exactly 100 years old last Sunday.

She bought the decorative plates during a stay in England and later researched the marks to find that they had been manufactured on her father's birthday.

"Father would be 91 now," Mrs. Geisler remarks, recalling that Charles Brady Ryan was born July 8 in Detroit.

She explains that when she checked the marking on the back of the picture, the date instantly registered as his birthday and she realized they would be 100 years old on his 91st birthday.

Octagon-shaped with an all-over floral pattern in cobalt blue, the plates were purchased from an antique dealer during the family's four-year stay in England, 1968-72, when Al Geisler was on overseas assignment for Chrysler.

He was working on Coventry and the Geislers with sons John and Dan were living in nearby Gibbet Hill. At that time, Mrs. Geisler recalls, dealers even called her when they thought they had something of interest.

Because British manufacturers marked their wares so precisely, it is possible to determine from the markings almost exactly when the pieces were made.

The mark on the Geisler plates is topped by a British crown and bears the letters BWM & Co.

To decipher the marking Mrs. Geisler used Geoffrey A. Godden's "Handbook of British Pottery and Porcelain Marks." Purchased in England, it is one of the standard references that collectors use. It contains charts to decode marks.

Declaring that she is a dilettante rather than a serious antiques collector, Helen Geisler says part of the fascination of the plates for her is being able to determine their origin.

The mark indicates they were made by Brown-Westhead, Moore and Company, a manufacturer of high grade earthenware and porcelain at Cauldon Place. The firm was in business from 1862-1904.

An "I" on the left of the diamond-shaped mark indicates the plates were made in July. A "Y" on the right stands for year of manufacture, 1879. And the "8" at the top, Mrs. Geisler notes, was the eighth day of the month.

The plates have a ridged outer edge and also a ridge on the inner circle. The pattern is very much like a current reproduction called "Calico"; it looks like a chintz or calico fabric.

The plates are hung with obviously-old holders that were on them when they were purchased. They must have hung on a wall earlier in England and been admired.

Helen Geisler likes the thought, but she also appreciates having the past survive and knowing about it.

She mentioned her plates' "anniversary" this week with the thought that "anyone who has old china with British markings also can learn a great deal of history from the charts available in reference books."

"It's fun to know," she sums up.

Father Ronald Thurner, left, and Father John O'Callaghan with Installing Bishop Thomas J. Gumbleton

Co-pastors installed at OLV

For the first time in its history Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church in Northville has two pastors

The church officially embarked on a new, dual pastorship June 30 as Father John O'Callaghan and Father Ronald Thurner were installed as church co-pastors Bishop Thomas J. Gumbleton, assistant bishop of the western region under Cardinal John F. Dearden, officiated at the installation at the 5 p.m. Saturday mass.

Father O'Callaghan has been at the church as a temporary associate pastor for the previous six months.

Father Thurner and he will be sharing full duties of the parish. Father Thurner explains that they applied for the co-pastorate when Father Gerard Hadad transferred to St. Conrad's Church in Melvindale.

A farewell reception was held for Father Hadad by the parish prior to his leaving.

The new co-pastorate will be a full sharing of duties, Father Thurner explains, recalling that both he and Father O'Callaghan had discussed working together in a shared pastorate.

Father Thurner had just finished a six-year term at St. Ignatius Parish on the east side. His previous churches were Christ the Good Shepherd in Lincoln Park and St. Peter in Mt. Clemens.

Of German descent, Father Thurner's home parish is St. Mary's of Redford in Detroit. His father still is a member of the parish. He also has two married sisters.

Father Thurner mentions he loves sports, especially golf, racquetball and skiing. He also enjoys playing cards and is delighted to be assigned to Our Lady of Victory Church.

The parish notes that the two new priests complement each other as Father O'Callaghan is Irish.

He attended school at Precious Blood and St. Frances de Sales High School, then Sacred Heart and St. John's Seminary.

He previously was at St. Fabian's Parish in Farmington Hills and St. Richards in Westland

His father also is a widower, living in Florida and Union Lake. His brothers and sisters all are married.

He enjoys swimming, fishing, jogging, music, travel, reading and cards.

She's music graduate of Hillsdale College

PAMELA COLBERT

Among the spring graduates of Hillsdale College is Pamela Arice Colbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton T. Colbert of 43300 Eight Mile.

A 1975 graduate of Novi High School, Miss Colbert received her BA degree in music performance. Her major was piano, but she also plays organ. A dean's list student for her senior year, she hopes to enter graduate school later. Graduation ceremonies were held May 19.

Miss Colbert was a member of the Hillsdale choir and Sigma Alpha Iota, national academic music fraternity for women. She served as corresponding secretary and then president, attending the national convention in Atlanta last year as her chapter's delegate.

Mizpah Circle's preparing for big sidewalk bake sale

A variety of homemade breads and lots of pies will be featured at the annual Mizpah Circle, King's Daughters, sidewalk sale booth July 28.

Chairman Marge Bolton reports that the circle is planning to have large quantities of home-baked goodies at its booth located in front of the Main Street parking lot by Northville Pharmacy.

"This is our one money-making project of the year that supports our projects for others," she emphasizes.

Members have been making five or six dozen pies with rhubarb, apple and cherry fillings. They will be baked just before the event.

White, whole wheat, oatmeal and fruit breads also will be sold, together with cookies and coffee cakes.

The circle has been holding baking workshops to make the treats, now frozen in members' home freezers.

The King's Daughters' circle is one of the community's oldest organizations and long has supplied holiday baskets to the needy. It also is a supporter of Mott Children's Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Members are requested to bring their baked goods to the kitchen of First Presbyterian Church for pricing the Friday before the sale.

Out here—in there

Northville Public Library user Sue Mehta, right, is encouraged by Librarian Lili Grazulis to check out a variety of books for summer reading. Books being borrowed now from the library in Northville Square may be returned at the library's new location in the community building next month. The area of the community building that in the past has served as cafeteria and then administrative offices will be temporary quarters for the library beginning the first week in August. It is expected that the new library building adjacent to city hall will be completed the end of the year.

Class of 54 to reunite in South Lyon July 28

It will be a "Happy Days" party all the way when the South Lyon High School graduating class of '54 celebrates its 25th anniversary with a reunion July 28. "Come stag or drag" read the invitations which list a buffet dinner, dancing to "discs" and a chance to get re-acquainted with friends as entertainment. The former class members will meet at the Oddfellow Hall in South Lyon at 7 p.m. with dinner scheduled for 8 p.m. The steering committee for this year's event includes Neil Braun, Gary Treganowan, Bob Gouin, Noreen and Jim Sheldon and Roy Herald. Reservations at $10 per person should be sent to Noreen Sheldon, 8535 Rushton Road, South Lyon, 48178.

The committee is missing current addresses for the following class members — Barbara Black, Doris King, Bill Fiedrich, George Hudson, Rosemary Minton and Robert Talbot. Anyone having information on how to reach them or with questions on the reunion arrangements may contact Mrs. Sheldon, 437-1047, evenings.

The habit

Here's ways you can quit smoking

BY NANCY DINGELDEY

Okay, Bunkey, so you want to quit smoking. You think you can do it — can you?

For some smokers, the desire to quit may be there, but the total will power may not be. For some, to "cold turkey" is relatively simple, for others it's an almost impossible dream.

Why? According to John Swanson of Better Living Seminars, the ability to quit depends solely on the person making the attempt. Some, he says, find pushing away the pack relatively simple, while others find it almost impossible.

Swanson, coordinator of the well-known smoking clinics originated by Northville's Dr. Arthur Weaver, equates cigarettes with Russian roulette. "Cigarettes are like a loaded pistol — time pulls the trigger," he asserts.

He has probably heard all the reasons ever given in favor of smoking and can zip off a dozen reasons each for stopping. The most important first step toward success he claims, is the genuine desire to want to quit. Understanding, supportive, sympathetic yet adamant, Swanson's goal is a one-way road.

Rule one: Plug in a total life-style change. "Nobody ever said quitting a habit that has been nurtured over the years was going to be simple. The hard-core smoker is going to have to change his life," he said.

For the smoker, the life-style change could be as difficult as dumping the cigs down the tube. Most smokers drink coffee — that, too, has to go. The combination of the two ingredients leads to a type of euphoria, according to Swanson. "One's an upper, the other a downer. Caffeine has to go."

Caffeine doesn't stop at the coffee pot either. It is an ingredient found in tea, cola drinks and even in aspirin. "The tiniest particle can trigger a reaction," Swanson continued.

Rule two: The smoker must break the pattern of conditioned responses so add to the list of no-no's all alcohol. "Most smokers trying to quit blame cocktail parties for their break down in will-power. Alcohol acts as a conditioned response."

Rule three: Some smokers trying to quit find themselves growing into virtual bears — tense, nervous, irritable. They feel ugly and do a good job of making others around them equally miserable. The problem, says Swanson, could very well be sugar.

"For those who may have tried in vain to quit smoking and have suffered the psychological trauma of tenseness and nervousness that sends them back to cigarettes, the answer could well be found in sugar." The clinic suggests a low sugar intake — besides, low sugar is helpful as far as calories are concerned.

Research indicates that sugar robs the enzyme system especially in necessary quantities of B vitamins. Those vitamins are essential for the well-being of the nervous system. Swanson said, all the B vitamins possible should be retained in the body to combat the stress of quitting.

The Weaver clinics are run in five daily sessions dealing with the cigarette, exercise and diet. "We said it would be a change in life style — we deal in all areas," commented the coordinator.

The program is not without tools. One such tool is a rubber band worn about the wrist. It serves a dual purpose. When the urge for a cigarette becomes overwhelming, clinic directors suggest a good snap of the rubber band as a "gentle" reminder to abstain. The same holds true for food urges.

Another clinic suggestion relating to food calls for the exclusion of spices in foods. Spices apparently trigger the brain to call for more food — not necessary at this step of the game. They are also considered a conditioned response to earlier habits.

During the first day, no food should be eaten, just fruit, fruit juices and water. "It signals a change in life style and not eating is a rather drastic change," said Swanson. The body, he says, will flush the nicotine from the system in the matter of three days. At the end of seven, the smoker should be well on his way to quitting.

Although the clinics offer a nerve-chilling movie of the ravages of the cigarette on the body, Swanson claims fear is a short-term stimulus. "The thought is there, but the usual belief is that illness always happens to someone else," he said.

"To quit smoking you have to have a reason, any reason. And the more reasons you can dream up to quit, the better off you are. If necessary, make lists of the reasons and reinforce your decision daily," suggested Swanson.

"Reasons are leverage," he continued. "Decide to be healthier, feel better, look better — there are plenty of reasons."

The weight gain suffered by many smokers after they quit is normal. Food may taste better, food becomes a pleasurable "treat" to replace the cigarette that used to be the "treat". Watching the diet and counting calories right at the beginning can help in reducing the battle of the bulge.

Even for the "hard-core" smokers who want to quit there is help available. Swanson said a health camp, a full five-day live-in seminar will be held beginning July 15 near Grayling. The seminar will deal with smoking, stress, drug and alcohol abuse, and weight control as well as offering recreation and instruction in vegetarian cooking. Requests for information on the camp or "urgent" reservations may be made by contacting Swanson at 459-0894.

If you are one of those smokers who has quit and then lapsed back into the old habit of lighting up, Swanson suggests trying again.

It may take a rubber band or lists, giving up the cocktail before dinner or even some grouchy days — and lots of determination. But proponents of kicking the habit say every step toward quitting is a step in the right direction.

Women and Smoking

The lung cancer death rate of women has doubled in ten years and will eventually equal that of men.

Pregnant women who smoke have a greater number of stillbirths than nonsmoking women, and their infants are more likely to die within the first month. Their babies more often weigh less than 5½ pounds — which is considered premature — and are exposed to more risk of disease and death. Women who abstain from smoking when they are pregnant do more than protect their own health. British Royal College of Physicians.)

Tips on Quitting

50% of successful quitters did it cold turkey, the other 50% quit gradually. The first 48 hours are critical for most people. Once you pass them, it will be easier each day. So pick the tips that suit you.

- Smoke one less cigarette each day
- Make each cigarette a special decision — and put off making the decision
- Don't give up cigarettes — completely. Carry one with you in case of need. You'll find you're saving it — permanently
- Don't quit "forever" — just stop for a day — and tomorrow try it for another day, and tomorrow, and tomorrow
- Tell your friends and family you're quitting. A public commitment bolsters will-power
- Pick Q (QUIT) Day — and quit
- Hide all evidence of cigarettes, ashtrays, matches, etc., so you aren't reminded of your renunciation

- Lay in a supply of chewing gum, cough drops, carrot sticks, etc.
- Nervousness, hunger, etc., are signs of the body's readjustment. If they're hard to manage, ask your doctor for help.

The Health Benefits of Quitting

Surveys show that millions more smokers would like to give up cigarettes but continue to smoke because they think that "the damage has been done."

The truth is, unless irreversible disease has begun, stopping smoking begins to pay immediate health benefits. After one year there is an important drop in the risk of heart attacks among those who quit, compared to those who continued to smoke. After ten years, death rates of ex-cigarette smokers from all causes are approximately as low as those of people who never smoked.

Between 1951 and 1965, about half of British doctors who smoked cigarettes quit, while the general population of Great Britain registered only a slight decrease in smokers. The death rate from cardiovascular disease dropped six percent among British doctors, it rose nine percent among British men in general. The lung cancer death rate dropped 38 percent among male British doctors aged 35-64, but rose seven percent among other men of the same age group.

Heart Attacks and Strokes

Cigarette smoking is one of the major risk factors in heart attacks (others include high blood pressure, obesity and high blood cholesterol). Cigarette smokers have 70% more heart attacks than nonsmokers. When other risk factors are also present, the risk goes up greatly. Cigarette smokers also have an abnormally high number of strokes.

Two basic types

Choosing garden spray equipment

Looking for spray equipment for your garden or landscape ornamentals? You'll find two basic types: compressed air — either hand-pumped or powered — and hose-end sprayers. Your choice depends on what you intend to spray and how accurate the application should be.

Nancy Butler, horticultural assistant for Washtenaw County Extension Service, says a 10-to-12-foot tree is about the maximum manageable height for a hand-powered sprayer. To spray standard-sized fruit trees and landscape ornamentals over that size requires power equipment.

For shrubbery, vegetables, flowers and small landscape trees, hand-pumped sprayers are usually sufficient.

These sprayers are available in a variety of sizes and styles. Some are small enough to carry in your hand easily. Others are heavier and need to be slung in a carrier at your waist or on your back.

Butler suggests that gardeners consider paying a little more for a sprayer with a plastic rather than metal tank.

It's hard to get sprayers completely clean and dry, she points out, and metal tanks tend to rust. Tiny rust flakes clogging the sprayer nozzle can be a nuisance, she says.

Hose-end sprayers are very convenient, but they don't always deliver the correct amount of pesticide. Some are more accurate than others, of course. This type of sprayer is best suited for use on lawns, small trees and shrubs when exact dosage is not critical.

Whether you choose to use a dust or spray formulation of a pesticide depends a lot on the plant you'll be spraying and whether the residue from a dust will be objectionable, Butler says. Dusts usually find greater acceptance in the vegetable garden, where appearance is not such a big factor, than in landscape ornamentals.

"Of course, some people find it comforting to see that dust on the foliage," she adds, "because they know it's there working for them."

Anyone who intends to use herbicides on his property should buy two sprayers, Butler advises: one for herbicides and one for other chemicals. Label both sprayers so there's no chance of a mixup.

"Herbicides are more than weedkillers," she points out. "they'll do the job on vegetables, flowers and ornamentals, too."

For fruit trees, homeowners are often well advised to use a premixed, all-purpose home orchard spray, she suggests. These usually contain a fungicide for plant diseases and an insecticide and sometimes a miticide.

"Just remember that this material tends to be more expensive than single-purpose sprays and that, if you don't have all the problems it's designed to control, you're wasting your money buying protection you don't need, Butler says. "You'll also be eliminating a lot of beneficial insects that might do you your pest control for you if you left them alone. If all you need is a fungicide, use a fungicide and let the ladybugs, predator mites and other beneficial insects go on working for you."

Butler recommends preventive spray programs only for high maintenance plants like fruit trees, roses and birch. Elsewhere on the home grounds, spray only when you need to, she advises.

No matter what pesticide you are using, follow all label directions, she urges. Observe directions for mixing, application rates and safety precautions. Use any chemical only on the plants and pest problems for which it is labeled. Store pesticide securely where children, pets and irresponsible adults cannot get into them. And dispose of empty pesticide containers properly.

Pepper, Ornamental
HOLIDAY CHEER
All-America
Selections
Bronze Medal 1979

Hot pepper's a hot garden flower, too

'Holiday Cheer' can bring the vibrant color of Christmas plants right into your summer garden.

This little hot pepper-turned-garden-flower is more colorful than many summer annuals and can endure high levels of heat and humidity for months.

Also, plants potted up in late summer can be brought along for winter holiday gifts if protected from frost.

Bushes top out at a height of six to nine inches and spread to a foot or more across. The arrival of warm weather starts an explosion of color, with fruits turning yellow-brushed-with-purple, then holly-berry red.

Mature plants are extravagantly colorful, with all three colors present on each bush.

Plants of 'Holiday Cheer' take on a low spreading, flat-topped shape when still young and begin setting on round, cream colored peppers the size of a robin's egg.

Gardeners who have tried 'Holiday Cheer' in gardens praise it for every use from edgings to groupings in formal beds, containers and planter boxes.

Rain and wind have little effect on the erect, deep rooted plants.

You'll have to get used to this little pepper's habit of shooting new fronds of foliage out through a solid canopy of fruits. Give it a few days and you'll see flowers and fruits forming on the "second story" of growth. Very shortly it will tidy itself up.

For home garden use, plant seeds indoors 10 to 12 weeks prior to usual date of the last spring frost. Seeds sprout in about three weeks at 70-75°F. soil temperature. Grow seedlings under a special plant lamp or on a sunny windowsill.

When plants have developed three sets of leaves, transplant to individual 3-inch pots. Set plants outdoors in early summer, 12 to 18 inches apart.

In cool summer regions set pots of 'Holiday Cheer' in sunny protected areas to promote early coloring-up.

Don't confuse 'Holiday Cheer' with the orange, round-fruited Jerusalem Cherry, a pot plant with inedible fruits.

You can eat the fruits of 'Holiday Cheer' but they may cause steam to come out of your ears.

A corn foliage look-alike

The corn plant (Dracaena fragrans massagana) gets its common name from its corn-like foliage. The arching, blade-shaped leaves bear yellow lengthwise bands.

Michigan State University horticulturists say this plant is durable and easy to grow in the home.

Pot it in any standard houseplant potting soil, they advise. Water whenever the soil surface feels dry to keep the roots moderately moist but not soggy at all times. Fertilize every two months with a houseplant fertilizer.

It will grow well in diffused sunlight or partial shade.

The most common insect pest on this plant is scale. Another common problem is loss of the lower leaves. This can be caused by improper watering, lack of fertilizer, low light or drafts.

Propagate the corn plant by stem tip cuttings or air layering.

Want to increase size of your pumpkins?

Bees can help boost pumpkin production

Research at University of Illinois indicates that the percentage of flowers setting fruit in pumpkins is increased by repeated visits of pollinators.

In their field research, honey bees, native "squash bees" and bumble bees proved to be the principal pollinators.

The researchers also found that the average fruit size increased when these pollinators paid multiple visits to pumpkin flowers.

So, if you want lots of good sized pumpkins on your vines, bees can help. They collect pollen from male pumpkin blossoms. Some of it brushes off as they visit the female pumpkin flowers.

Most home gardeners have no problems with fruit set on pumpkins and other cross-pollinated vegetables such as cucumbers and squash.

Enough bees and other insects visit their flowers to do the job. But other gardeners complain about poor fruit set. It could be due to careless spraying for harmful insects which also kills or repels bees, or it could be due to a shortage of bees.

If you do not keep bees yourself, encourage others to do so, and oppose local ordinances that would ban beehives from the area.

If you must spray, do so at nightfall when the honey bees are back in their hives, or at other times when the flowers are closed or otherwise unattractive to bees.

Here's how All-Americans are chosen

Each year, a group of new varieties of home garden flowers and vegetables is announced as the "All-American Selections" for the coming gardening season.

These new award winning varieties have been rated as the best for North American gardens by a council of expert, professional judges at trial grounds across the USA and Canada.

Experienced hobby gardeners like to try these superior varieties in their home gardens but beginners should also consider them because of the bred-in ruggedness and adaptability of these very latest varieties.

Award winning flowers are generally more uniform in plant size, blossom form, and color intensity. Bloom season and duration and weather resistance are considered.

Resistance to plant diseases and garden insects looms high. More and more, seed breeders are searching for fragrant flowers.

In vegetables, taste and texture are at the top of the list, followed closely by total crop yield. A combination of high yields and compact plants is especially appealing because of the current interest in intensive and container gardening.

Multiple disease resistance is an asset to an entry.

Novelty or uniqueness can earn points but only if the flower or vegetable would make a practical addition to home gardens.

An All-American award generates enough income for seed breeders to support breeding projects on kinds of lowers and vegetables that are outside of the top ten in popularity.

Nowadays, a single new hybrid can represent a substantial monetary investment in experimental crosses and years of field and laboratory testing for performance and disease resistance.

Should a limited-demand item such as eggplant, pentstemon or lavatera, for example, win an All-America award, it would enjoy far more attention and sales than if introduced through standard channels.

A good example is the dwarf hollyhock 'Majorette' which won a bronze medal in 1976. Without this award it might never have gained national distribution and a place in gardens across the country.

All evaluations and scoring are strictly on the basis of home garden performance.

If the home gardener chooses a new or recently introduced award winner, he or she can be assured that it is literally the best in its class.

Even though award points are given on the basis of superiority over the comparison variety, judges also plant hundreds of other flower and vegetable varieties as part of their ongoing quality control programs.

This gives them an even broader background for measuring the performance of entries.

Ease 'em outside

Don't shock plants!

Observant gardeners know the value of "hardening off" — conditioning indoor-grown flower and vegetable plants to the rigors of weather.

They've seen how tender, succulent seedlings can be badly shocked or killed by being moved directly from warm indoor growing areas to the garden.

Hardening off is a simply process of acclimatizing seedlings to the outdoors by degrees. The procedure requires about a week. Gradually give the plants less water, a cooler environment and more light.

A good vehicle for hardening off consists of a cardboard box about one foot deep. The box makes a handy carrying tray for plants, and the sides deflect the drying wind.

Move the box into full sunlight by stages over a four-day period to avoid sun-burning plants. Start with a shaded area such as the corner of a porch, away from the wind. Shelter the plants from frost at night.

Begin spacing out the watering interval. Slight daytime drooping of foliage is a good sign; just make sure that plants perk up at night.

The final two days of hardening off should be in full sun. If the weather turns bad and you can't transplant right away, don't worry.

Hardened off plants grow slowly and will keep for days with only an occasional watering.

Cabbage, broccoli and cauliflower plants usually develop a tinge of purple or bronze color when fully hardened.

Other kinds such as tomatoes or peppers just look weather-beaten, but never mind, they'll recover quickly. Remember, warmth-loving kinds of vegetables can only be hardened against wind-whipping and dryness, never to frost.

One final step before transplanting to the garden — give the plants a thorough watering an hour or so in advance. The plumped-up plant tissues can better resist transplanting shock.

KIM'S GARDENS, a new restaurant specializing in Cantonese and American foods, is now open for business in Novi.

Kim's Gardens is located at 26150 Novi Road. The restaurant is situated on the east side of Novi Road between Grand River Avenue and the I-96 expressway.

Owners of the restaurant are Kim Yen Wong and his wife, Garling Wong (pictured in the kitchen in their new restaurant in the photograph above). The Wongs have been in the restaurant business for more than 10 years and are the former owners of the Kim's Gardens restaurant located on Six Mile Between Greenfield and Southfield in Detroit.

Featured at the restaurant is a full line of Cantonese dishes, specializing in shrimp, pork, beef, chicken, seafood and seafood combinations.

The house specialty is a special dish called, appropriately, Kim's Special.

The restaurant is marked by Oriental architecture and decor. The exterior of the new restaurant has been made to look like a Chinese pagoda.

Kim's Gardens also features businessmen's luncheons, carry-out service and banquet facilities for up to 70 people. The restaurant also serves cocktails and has a complete line of exotic Oriental drinks.

Mr. and Mrs. Kim are Novi residents and live in the Meadowbrook Glens subdivision. Mrs. Kim's parents work at the restaurant and several cooks from the former Kim's Gardens in Detroit also are working in the new Novi restaurant. The restaurant is open seven days per week.

JEAN LAUWERS' NEEDLEPOINT, INC., is now open for business on Twelve Mile in Novi.

Mrs. Lauwers operates the business out of her home which is located on the north side of Twelve Mile, approximately one-quarter mile east of Meadowbrook Road. She said the home is recognizable by a sign which identifies it as "The Yellow House."

Jean Lauwers' Needlepoint specializes in needlepoint instruction, but supplies also are available. "If we don't have it, we'll order it for you," commented Mrs. Lauwers.

Mrs. Lauwers has been a teacher of needlepoint for the past nine years at The Golden Fleece in Farmington, Donna's Needlepoint in Northville and The Village Needlepoint, also in Northville.

She is president of the Mill Race (Northville) chapter of the American Embroiderer's Guild and has just completed a course in needlepoint color and design in Florida.

She teaches courses from beginner to advanced. The six-week beginner course teaches all the basics in needlepoint. Two of the most popular advanced courses are "Needlepoint Design" in which students are taught to make their own designs and "Your House in Needlepoint" in which students are taught to make a needlepoint canvas of their homes.

Individuals interested in more information may contact Jean Lauwers' Needlepoint at 348-6870.

Horse show set Saturday

An open and Buckskin horse show is slated for Saturday, July 14, at the Greg McKeon farm, 27567 Dixboro Road, South Lyon, between Eleven Mile and Silver Lake roads.

The show, beginning at 9 a.m., is sponsored by the Great Lakes Buckskin Association.

A similar show will take place at the McKeon farm on Sunday, July 15, with the New Hudson Jaycees as sponsors.

FORD DIVISION of the Ford Motor Company recently announced that Audrey Murphy and Doug Metcalfe have attained the status of master sales counselor in the Ford Society of Professional Sales Counselors.

The honor is awarded to salespersonnel who display extraordinary sales achievement during the calendar year. Both honorees are employed by John Mach Ford Sales, Ms. Murphy since 1977 and Metcalfe since 1975.

WINDOW CLEANING AND PRAYER. Harold Budry, of 12127 Limekiln Lake, South Lyon, has combined the two in his new business, Marantha Window Cleaning Service.

In business for a year on a part-time basis, Budry has gone full-time in order to keep up with the demand from his 120 regular customers. Budry says he does homes, store fronts and office buildings. Budry also offers a house cleaning service.

As a born-again Christian, however, his is a business with a difference.

In addition to cleaning, Budry said that he and his staff bless the people whose windows and houses they clean. "Whenever there is a need that people have and they request it, we will pray for them, but only on request," Budry said.

Budry was recently ordained as a minister by the International Bible Institute of Orlando, Florida. The name of the business itself indicates Budry's religious concerns. Marantha means, "The Lord cometh."

Budry said, "We're born-again Christians who believe that their business will continue until the Lord cometh — the second coming of Jesus Christ. When he comes we will no longer be in business because we won't be here."

Budry can be reached by calling 437-0450, preferably after 6 p.m.

Cheap Trick Live in Japan

The Biggest Thing Since Transistors!

Cheap Trick at Budokan

Yes, "Cheap Trick at Budokan" is the exact same album that was previously available only as a Japanese import.

Features the new smash hit single, "I Want You to Want Me," plus electrifying performances of "Surrender" and "Ain't That a Shame." And no, we couldn't hold this one back. Thousands of otherwise somewhat stable people were threatening to commit hara-kiri if we didn't release it now. So we did.

It was the only honorable thing to do.

‘Shrink’ encrusts a profession

Let’s squeeze the myth out of psychotherapy

What’s it like to visit a psychotherapist?

Does analysis really work? Don’t people get better on their own? According to Howard Shevrin, Ph.D., University of Michigan professor of psychiatry in the department of Psychiatry and director of the U-M Psychotherapy Clinic at the U-M Psychiatric hospitals, psychotherapy is alive and well and helping people deal with personal problems.

This is despite a loss of fad appeal in recent years and attacks on its efficacy. “Psychotherapy is real,” Dr. Shevrin asserted. “It works.”

However, decades of doubts, romanticizing and fantasizing have encrusted the profession with myth, he noted. This too often keeps persons who could benefit from psychotherapy from getting close enough to see what it really is.

(For example, the word “shrink,” from headshrinker, became popular in the 1960s. The source of the word, according to American Dictionary of Slang, is a short story, “High Pressure Girl” by Steve McNeil in the Saturday Evening Post, Aug. 10, 1957; “You sound like one of those headshrinkers — a psychiatrist.”)

Far from being a mysterious process, psychotherapy in some ways is akin to enrolling in a very special class.

There is the teacher and one student — you. The subject is whatever is bothering you. In addition to choosing the course, you also decide when you have graduated. And the only one who has to take notes is the teacher. The diploma is peace of mind and the ability to find satisfaction in your personal life.

Dr. Shevrin, a psychoanalyst who has practiced psychotherapy for 25 years and directs the training of 50 psychotherapists in the U-M clinic, described therapy as “entirely rooted in human experience. It’s a mutual thing (between therapist and patient). It’s not a psychological operation.”

“Nothing is more natural for a person to talk out his problems with a sympathetic listener. Many people benefit from this, but talking alone doesn’t always help,” the therapist explained.

If tensions, anxiety, anger do not go away at this point, the person may need to talk to someone whose training goes a step beyond the sympathetic listener, Dr. Shevrin said.

A psychotherapist is trained to recognize problems and conflicts which the patient is not aware of and then to lead the patient through a process of discovery so that he understands for himself the emotional forces which are giving him trouble.

Who benefits from psychotherapy? “Therapy can help when things have not been right for a long time in someone’s personal world. This doesn’t mean a person is greatly depressed or despondent, only that there is continual personal distress in life situations. These can involve problems in work, school or marriage which cannot be pinned on circumstances,” Dr. Shevrin said.

“People who need psychotherapy find that they are not only unhappy themselves, but they make life difficult for persons close to them,” he said.

While modern psychotherapists have deviated in theory considerably from Freud’s original rigid hypothesis, a belief in the unconscious remains a cornerstone.

Psychotherapy starts where conscious, rational efforts of the patient are not bringing results, Dr. Shevrin said. “For instance, there is the typical case of a man who has had an unhappy childhood, but who swears when his children are born: ‘It is going to be different with them. I’m not going to treat my kids like my old man treated me.’”

“Later, however, when problems arise in child rearing, a relative who knows both the grandfather and father often will point out that the father is raising his children in the same brutal manner in which he was brought up.”

“The man is astounded when he sees the truth in this,” Dr. Shevrin said.

“Despite all his good intentions, he is locked into a behavior pattern he both doesn’t understand and cannot consistently control.”

Myths, fostered by novels and such film classics as “Spellbound,” tout recall of childhood experience as the key to unlocking personal problems. “This is not true,” Dr. Shevrin said. “Many people have an excellent recall of every detail of their childhood, but this does them no good because they cannot make a present-day emotional link-up with the experience.”

“Experience is the key to successful therapy,” he said. The patient develops a relationship with his therapist and, during therapy, relates in his habitual way to the therapist as he would a friend or family member. Anger, fear, anxiety and frustration come out. However, the psychiatrists or psychotherapists, because of their training, do not react in the typical way when these emotions are directed toward them. Instead, they call attention to the patient’s behavior and try to get him to recognize his feelings and to see if they have a history.

Memories come back, but this is not so important as the patient’s present-day experience, Dr. Shevrin explained. Psychotherapy is emotional learning in the present by which the patient sees its relevancy to the past. Once the patient can understand his problems both emotionally and intellectually, he is then free to make a choice of what, if anything, he wants to change in his life in light of this new knowledge.

Do people run the risk in psychotherapy of really losing control of themselves or becoming too dependent on their therapists? Dr. Shevrin points out that one of the benefits of experiencing unwelcome feelings in psychotherapy is that for the first time the person can understand them in such a way that he or she is not overwhelmed and can, in fact, learn from the experience. “Changes are not forced on people. No one is compelled to quit a job or divorce a mate because of psychotherapy,” Dr. Shevrin said.

Does psychotherapy take a long time? In many cases, one to three years, Dr. Shevrin noted. But this is not a yardstick on how “sick” the patient is but merely indicates the amount of ground to be covered.

“You can’t go over the emotional milieu of a lifetime in a few weeks or months working one to three hours per week,” he said. For example, the man who finds out that he has been treating his kids in the same tough way as his father despite his best intentions may have to confront some unhappy things in himself and it may take awhile to absorb.

However, the patient generally begins to feel better shortly after starting therapy and continues to accrue benefits during the entire experience, the U-M psychologist said. “These benefits are primarily subjective (felt only by the patient) but to the person, for instance, who begins to enjoy sexual satisfaction for the first time in his life, success in his work, or feeling less anxious in general, they can be very real.”

“Psychotherapy is not like entering a long, dark tunnel and looking for a light at the end. The patient can often see himself or herself improving and decide to go on or quit at any time.”

How about the cost of therapy? For persons utilizing clinics sponsored by a governmental unit or a university, there is a true sliding scale of fees. Depending on income and other factors a patient can be asked to pay, from $1 to $5 per session up to the full $45 fee, Dr. Shevrin said. He emphasized that no one who needs and wants therapy is turned away because of lack of funds.

Most therapists begin with one or two, exploratory sessions in which the prospective patient outlines his problems and they decide together if therapy could help. “The result is nothing mysterious,” Dr. Shevrin stressed. “It’s one human being helping another.”

Amongst the Discard

Browsing the downtown salvation army store
I found more than one treasure
amongst the discard

Of course I could not buy them all so I settled for a fine AM desk top radio of the vintage 50's

The sheer luxury of its craftsmanship is an eye pleaser I could not leave
amongst the discard

It stands 10" high and is twice that in length with wood so shing brown
it seems to reach out and talk to me

The inner beauty is in its dual 8" speakers and ironical expulsion
Although the sound is uniquely old broken casually by the crackle of static
I wouldn't have it any other way and could not leave it
amongst the discard

For fear of accusal in respect to slipping in an advertisal commercial plug
I would only have you guess its company name

So there sits my "quality" vintage 50's radio talking to me as I write
amongst the discard

You should have seen the typewriter
I could only longingly gaze at for lack of monetary muscle downtown amongst the discard

Do you think my royal would be offended having to face the world in a salvation army store

Fears

We all have fears of shortened years — of death, the final foe —
and what there is that can dispell those worries
I don't know,
'cause all we've tried and all we've saved
is gone when we are done, and Life Insurance only benefits the lucky one.

Lovers Fool

My fancy for a man to love
Made me my lover's fool
My heart made me so blind you see
I was my lover's fool
He gave my heart a little crack
My lover was so cruel
He really didn't want my love
Now my lover is the fool.

Stepping-Stones

Up through the years we march along,
Steadfast in spirit all the way;
We hail the ever-changing scene
As a challenge to the problems of the day.

With assurance and with strength we meet the test
Of life, with its sorrows and its joys;
We reject the doubtings and misgivings
And replace them with courageous counter-poise.

The decisions and the sacrifice we make
Will be reflected in our deeds as overseen;
The conflicts of our days will surely pass
As the waters of our lives become serene.

Regardless of the turnings in the road
That test our metal as we journey on,
We shall hold the straight course until the end,
And thus provide a stone to build upon.

Of Silk Ideas

How interesting he is — newly divorced
aching to hold in his hand a flag of surrender to those who'd devour his aloneness.

They captivate his eyes but can't see that beneath his cover is a man of silk ideas.

The pages of his book are bound with silver and clasping tightly to the first editions of him
he perseveres, overlooking our slight indiscretions of words.

Bird
Benevolence

Little bird, little bird
Talk to me now;
I see you sitting
Upon the bough

Soon you are joined there
With friends, on next branch;
Did you call them to opine
In your open-air Ranch?

Little bird, little bird
Advise me now;
Calm and console me
As just you know how.

The Problem With Most 'Unfinished' Homes Is That They Look 'Unfinished'

A Centennial Home Looks Like This When 'Unfinished'!

The exterior of a Centennial home is completely finished, from the rough-sawn natural wood to the roofing shingles. (It's the inside that's 'unfinished'.)

We made the 'unfinished' home simple!

Why settle for someone else's plans and ideas when you can use your own - both inside and out. A Centennial home is designed and constructed to your specific needs and dreams by our professional sales representatives and architects. Centennial can bring the pride of home ownership to your front door - now!

Imagine saving 30%.

By finishing all or part of the inside yourself you'll realize savings up to 30% on construction costs. The more finishing you do, the less you pay - it's that simple.

Finish the inside yourself

When the exterior of your home is completed, you're ready to finish the inside yourself. Centennial makes this easy by providing diagrams for the installation of packages such as plumbing, heating, electrical materials and kitchen cabinets tailored to your taste. The great part is that they're all self-contained - you don't have to run to the hardware store for anything.

When it comes to financing, come to us

Your Centennial sales representative can arrange a loan for you even when the bank won't - and for less! Whether it's a construction loan or a permanent mortgage - our expert guidance will help you obtain suitable financing.

Ballooning is on the rise

By JIM HAYNES

They float across the summer sky like rainbow tear drops from Oz.

Reds and blues and yellows and greens, stripes and stars and checkered squares. Designs from the zodiac and of animal shapes are suspended on bubbles of solid color. Slowly and gracefully, at the mercy of the wind, colorful hot-air balloons drift across the sky.

Since the mid-1700's, when the first experiments with small gas-filled balloons were being conducted in France, to the present, the practice of ballooning has captured the imaginations of countless generations.

There seems to be something otherworldly about the huge, silent, drifting creatures that dot the sky. Like giant jellyfish afloat in a sea of blue air, these balloons can fill one with fear as well as awe. Indeed, one of the first flights of a large balloon, in France, gave vent to the primitive fear that these craft can induce in man.

On August 26, 1783, a balloon designed and constructed by Jacques Alexander Cesar Charles, and filled with the gas formed by pouring 498 pounds of sulphuric acid over half a ton of iron filings, was released from the field at Champ de Mars. It was estimated that the balloon reached a height of half a mile before it vanished into the clouds.

At the Champs de Mars, much cheering and celebration was taking place over the success of the launch. But fifteen miles away it was a different story.

A huge strange ball descended onto a field where a group of peasants were working. In utter terror they attacked the rolling sphere with pitch forks and brooms until it was deflated. Then they tied it to the tail of a horse and dragged it across the field to make sure it was dead.

The first manned flight took place on October 15, 1783 when Pilatre de Rozier rose to the height of 84 feet in a tethered balloon. After a stay of five minutes he was hauled back down. His obvious good health made the crowd cheer. Up to that time, it was believed that there existed layers of poisonous gases at that height. Rozier then untied the balloon and made the first manned free flight.

After a few more years of experimenting, man crossed the English channel by balloon and soon ballooning took off as a sport and as a science. Man used balloons to aid in reconnaissance work during wars, to study the atmosphere, and as a means of sport, with Fox and Hare races abounding in England.

A Fox and Hare race consisted of a

Let's fan the draft

There are two hot debate items raging across the country these days. One regards violence in sports and the other is on the topic of whether the United States should reinstate the military draft. I have a suggestion that may solve both arguments and make everyone happy.

First of all, there is no doubt that there is far too much violence in sports today. But not on the playing fields or ice arenas. The violence is in the stands and the parking lots. And it isn't the athlete that is causing the violence. It is the fan.

On Monday Night Baseball last week, the New York Yankees played the Boston Red Sox in Yankee Stadium. A Boston player lofted a high fly ball that slowly drifted foul. Reggie Jackson got a bead on it and followed underneath, concentrating intently on the descent of the ball. He ran into foul territory and saw that the ball would go just into the stands. He reached in and tried to catch it. Now, the ball was in the fans' territory and they had as much right to it as Jackson. And a fan caught it. But this young man and his three friends wanted to let Jackson know just how much better at fielding they were than he. While Jackson was still leaning over the railing, one fan tried to pull his glove off, another flipped Jackson's hat bill backwards and the one with the ball stuck it under his nose and tried to make it fit.

Jackson looked like he wanted to jump into the stands and do a Muhammad Ali imitation, but he didn't. He just walked away. The three fans guffawed idiotically as the camera panned in on their faces. Victory was theirs. They showed what better men they were than Jackson.

Ex-Tiger Willie Horton was leaving the ballpark in Seattle last month with his girlfriend and her two younger brothers. A bunch of rowdy fans confronted them and a scuffle ensued between the brothers and some of the fans. Horton tried to break it up and one of the fans has now brought suit against him for assault.

Just last weekend, Philadelphia pitcher Barry Lersch was walking to his car at the Phillie stadium when he was confronted by angry fans. Another scuffle broke out and Lersch broke his wrist defending himself. He is out of action indefinitely. Not only does it hurt the team (Philadelphia has now lost three of its top four pitchers due to injuries this season) but just because a fan didn't get an autograph, he caused a professional athlete to not only cease being able to perform, but to stand the risk of never performing again.

In New York this past weekend, Yankee Bucky Dent was standing in the on-deck circle waiting to bat. A fan decided to get his five cents in and threw a nickel at Dent. It hit him right behind the ear. Dent had to be taken out of the game due to the injury.

In New York during the same game of the Jackson incident, twice the contest was stopped because some demolition experts in the upper

Ask the expert

Dear Expert,

I've just started playing racquetball. I used to and still do play a great deal of tennis. I'm having trouble adjusting my swing to the arc that is best in racquetball. Do you have any suggestions to help me iron out the tennis wrinkles in my stroke?

E.B., South Lyon

In tennis your stroke should be started at a low point, with your point of contact out in front of your body and your follow-through coming up and helping the ball up over the net, remembering to keep your wrist firm. In racquetball the stroke is shorter. Since there is little time to prepare for a shot in racquetball, the backswing is much shorter; now the point of contact is even with your body to just out in front. The follow-through is shortened because of the time needed to prepare for the next shot. Your stroke should start at a high point and end at a low point because you want your shots to be angled downward towards the bottom of the front wall. Summing it up, the tennis stroke is started low and finished high with a firm wrist and in racquetball, shorten the backswing and follow through trying to hit downward with a much more flexible wrist.

Softball make-up games fill bill

Last week and this week are the make-up times in the softball schedule so action was limited.

Long-Zayti moved into second place in the American League on the strength of two wins last week. Long-Zayti belted John Mach Ford 25-4 and State Farm 22-2. The two wins give the team an 8-3-1 record over third place Winners Circle at 7-3.

Against John Mach, Long-Zayti was led by four hitters. Jim Long had three hits and a walk, scored three times and knocked in three runs. He had a single, double and a triple. Doug Wojay went five-for-five at the plate, scored four runs and knocked in five runs. He hit for the cycle, collecting a single, two doubles, a triple and a home run.

Bill Sinclair had three hits, scored three times and knocked in five runs. He collected a single, triple and a home run. John Sinclair scored twice and knocked in four runs on the strength of a single and a home run.

Tom Pardikes hit a double and scored one of the four Mach runs. Bob Ganzak had two hits for the losers.

Zayti then ran State Farm through the meat grinder. Long had a single and a double, scoring three times. Bill Sinclair hit three home runs and knocked in five runs. Ron Tini hit a double and a home run, scored twice and knocked in a run. John Sinclair had a single and two doubles, scored three times and knocked in two runs. Rex Balko had three hits and scored twice.

Rich Smolek and Rick Kovary scored the Farm runs. Rick Roman and Greg Semack had two hits each for the losers.

State Farm came back to beat Sheehan's on the green, whitewashing them 12-0. Charles Burke pitched the five-hit shutout for the winners. Roman had a single and a double, scoring twice. Scott Travers banged out three hits as he led the team in runs-batted-in with three. Burke also hit three times, scoring once.

John Kroll and Andy Bechtel each had two hits for the losers. Kroll had a double and a single while Bechtel bagged two singles.

In National League action, Sheehan's Little Caesars played twice and split. They won 9-2 over the Yankee Carpenters but dropped an 11-0 contest to O.L.V.

Bicycle safety day for kids at daycamp

School may have been out officially, but last Tuesday, 70 Northville children went to an outdoor classroom to learn some rules that just may save their lives someday.

The Day Camp Bike Safety Program, organized by the Northville Recreation Department under the supervision of Trinky Platte, had the children go on a pre-Fourth of July bike parade through town and then meet at the Northville Downs driveway. There the State Police conducted a safety program explaining traffic signs and rules that bicyclists should learn to follow. How to signal turns, drive on gravel, stop and yield and what various traffic signs mean were the main topics.

The kids then rode their bikes through a test course set up by the police to practice these newly learned rules. Trophies were given out to the best pupils in two different age groups.

Brian Norbach learned one rule of cycling the hard way. Before the police conducted their safety talk, Brian tried to make a sharp turn on the parking lot and fell, opening a gash on his forehead that required six stitches to close. Platte reported that he was soon up and on his bike again the next day.

Bryan Norbach banged his head before learning safety tips

Sheehan's banged out 10 hits against the Carpenters. Stan Tarnowski led the team with three hits. He scored twice and knocked in three runs with two singles and a double. Rob Phebus had two hits and scored twice, as did Mark Miller, who walked and doubled.

Frank Fremont and Chuck Staknis scored the Carpenter runs. Joe Stakins had a triple and Phil Stinson two singles in a losing cause.

Against O.L.V., Tarnowski again had three hits but he scored only once and knocked in only one run. Don Phillippi and Mike Taschner both hit triples and both knocked in two runs for the losers.

O.L.V. was led by Bill Briemaier, who had three hits, scored twice and knocked in two runs. Ed Naszardi and Paul Freiwald both hit triples. Freiwald scored twice and Naszardi once for the winners.

The Eagles impaled the Brew Hogs 11-10. The Eagles took a three-run lead after the first inning, increased it to eight in the second, added two more in the third and hung on as the Hogs made a valiant effort to win.

The Hogs scored twice in the second inning, and broke loose for eight runs in the third to tie the game. The score stayed that way until the last inning when Al Runge singled and scored as Jon Day and Pat Gerin followed with base hits.

Ron Ylitalo had a single and a home run to knock in two runs for the Eagles. Day banged out three hits and drove in three runs. Brad Westfall had three hits and scored twice in a losing cause. Mark Schroder had a two-run triple also.

The Jaycees roughed up St. Paul's 11-5.

St. Paul's jumped out to a four-run lead after they batted in the first inning, but that was to be the extent of their heavy hitting as the Jaycees answered with three runs of their own in the first, one in the second, three in the third, and two each in the fifth and sixth innings.

Ed Maas opened the game for St. Paul's with a single and was followed by Ed McIntosh and Kevin Peterson's singles. After Maas scored on Peterson's hit, Reggie Carveth unloaded a double that emptied the bases. Carveth scored on a sacrifice by Neal Simkins. In the fifth inning, Peterson hammered a home run for the last St. Paul run.

Jim Hepler hammered a double, a triple and a home run to lead the Jaycees. He scored once and knocked in four runs. Leo Kinsella had a double and a triple while Marshall Spinner had a single and a double, scoring twice. Ron Barnum had two hits and scored twice also.

Fans

decks tossed cherry bombs down into the seats below and they exploded, injuring those nearby. Ambulances and stretchers were needed to care for the wounded.

Ron LeFlore of the Tigers has been the target of some heavy artillery also. In his centerfield position on the Tiger Stadium turf, he has had to duck bottles and garbage and assorted other goodies, as the fans gave action to their displeasure or mental imbalance, or both.

In hockey, the players have enough to worry about with the opposing team, but a number of times this past season, whole teams have rushed the stands to defend themselves from drunk, second-childhood mentality fans who heave vocal and physical abuse on them.

Larry Bird, of Indiana State basketball fame, has learned to deliver a slam-dunk right cross to overbearing fans. Twice last year Bird had to set a disgruntled fan on his fanny for attacks on him while the Indiana team was leaving the court.

These are just isolated incidents. There are many, many more that I am just too disgusted to relate. I haven't even cited the attacks on each other the fans make, such as the young man who was stabbed and killed outside of Tiger Stadium last weekend, or the football fan on national television two seasons ago who was set afire by accident while goofing around with friends of his in the stands. The cameras showed him as he ran drenched in flames, screaming up the aisles until some quick-thinking ushers jumped on him and smothered the fire.

A psychologist might explain this aggressive fan behavior as merely each person's way of venting the pent up fantasies that make professional athletes heroes in our society. If Reggie Jackson is a hero as an athlete, then the fan who fought him for the foul ball, and caught it, can exult because he outperformed a recognized superstar — thereby becoming a superstar also, at least in his own mind. The same is true for the other incidents.

If a fan can display some power over an athlete of a superstar's status, then that fan can feel superior. The trouble is, the only power the fan has is violence. By throwing something like a metal object or a firecracker, they can hurt the very individuals who have been set up as deities in America.

A psychologist may suggest that these displays of violence are symptoms of mental sickness at the worst and childishness at best. Either way, some good can be had from the situation. Which is where the military draft comes in.

Let's reinstate the draft, but let's only select sports fans! We can even save the expense of boot camp because these people have been trained in what is rapidly becoming one of the finer assault schools in America. The stands.

These fans are people who love to hurt others; drink a great deal and are boisterous and bellicose; are well-versed in hand-to-hand combat, demolition techniques and artillery theory, small arms, (such as zip guns and knives); and whose intellectual lights glow a bit dim — perfect soldiers!

If all of these fans were drafted, then the military would be satisfied and well-stocked, and the athletes and athletic events would be safe once again. America, and sports, would be saved.

Ring strategy flops

Harvey Gartley of punches.

The night of the fight finally came. Excited and with thoughts of victory already dancing in his head, Gartley strode to the middle of the ring to meet Culette at the bell. It rang and Gartley put his strategy to work.

He danced and he weaved. He bobbed and ducked and strode circles around the cautious Culette. Gartley danced and dodged, side-stepped three of Culette's punches and fell exhausted to the floor. Culette was awarded the fight on 47 seconds.

SO LONG OLD PAINT, FAREWELL FUNGUS, TAKE OFF TERMITES

America is decking out the out-of-doors with unpainted wood that's beautiful to look at, yet doesn't need looking after.

It's called Lumberscaping. And it's done with Outdoor Wood — real wood deep-treated with Wolman preservatives to keep it handsome, sturdy and worry-free for decades.

What nature does for Tidewater Cypress and Heart Redwood, the Wolman Process does for Out-door Wood. Only cheaper. And you don't have to paint it or stain it, unless you want to.

Build yourself a beautiful backyard deck with Outdoor Wood. Leave it unpainted. Then, lay back and watch it blend in naturally with the landscaping. That's Lumberscaping. And that's living.

It's great for pole barns, machine storage buildings and garages.

Pirates and Giants slug it out in "G" league action

The top two teams in the "G" league battled it out last week. The Pirates took their perfect 12-0 record up against the Dodgers' 9-2. The result was a close, 3-2 win for the Pirates.

The Dodgers jumped out to a one-run lead when, in the first inning, Mark Stevens was safe on a lead-off error to open the game. He made it to third on the double by David Denhof, and crossed the plate when Paul Havalá rapped a one-out single.

That lead held up until the third inning when the Pirates broke through for two runs. Rob VanBuren was hit by a pitch to open the inning. After Greg Olson struck out, John Bugar was hit by a pitch. Don Norton struck out next but John Mynatt walked to load the bases. Fred Meyers followed with a walk to force VanBuren home with the tying run. Tim Ruffing was hit with the next pitch to force Bugar home with the go-ahead run. Dirk Nowka then grounded out to end the inning.

In the sixth inning, Stevens walked to lead off the Dodgers half of the frame, and came home on Havalá's triple. That score knotted the tally at 2-2. But the Pirates scored in their half of the inning to break the tie and gain the win. Mynatt walked, and took second when Myers walked also. Ruffing then cracked a single that sent Mynatt scurrying across the plate with the third Pirate run.

The Pirates were involved in another one-run contest last week. They went head-to-head with the Giants and managed to stay on top 7-6.

The Pirates scored three runs in the first inning, once in the second, once in the fourth and one each in the sixth and seventh. The Giants scored twice in the first, three times in the fifth, and once in the sixth to knot the score at 6-6.

Ruffing scored twice for the winners, walking both times. Don Norton had a bases-loaded triple in the first, knocking in three runs, and chipped in a single that turned out to be the winning run in the seventh. Greg Olson hit him in.

For the Giants, Jeff Bush had a hit and a walk in four trips to the plate. He scored twice. Doug Hartman walked twice and had a hit, scoring twice also. Tom Ross had a three-run home run in the fifth inning.

The Giants scored two runs in the fifth inning to take a close come-from-behind win over the Mets last week. The Mets scored in the third inning when, with two outs, David Nadeau singled and scored following hits by Kevin Downs and Fred Cahill.

The Giants had only one hit going into the fifth (a fourth-inning single by Jeff Bush). In the fifth, Joe Terrasi singled with one out. Kyle Boring followed with another single and there were runners on first and second. Dave Baird then hit a fly that was caught, but that allowed the runners to move up. Bush then rapped a two-run single into left field for the winning runs.

The Mets won both of their other contests last week. They took a 4-3 win over the Reds and a 10-7 win over the Padres. Against the Reds, the Mets scored once in the first, twice in the fourth and once in the sixth to break a 3-3 deadlock. The Reds scored once in the second inning, once in the third and once in the sixth.

Paul Stephens scored twice for the winners and rapped off three hits. Fred Cook had two hits and scored once. For the Reds, Eric Gala had two hits.

Against the Padres, the big innings for the Mets were the first, third and fifth. They scored three in the first, five in the third and two runs in the fifth. Kevin Down had three hits and scored three times. Nadeau and Stephens each scored twice for the winners.

The Padres scored three times in the second, and four times in the fourth inning. Ferde Sanders and John Regan each scored twice. Regan and Dwayne Hayes each had two hits for the Padres.

The Padres also dropped a 5-2 contest to the Indians last week. Hayes and Jeff King scored the runs for them. John Tasehner scored twice for the winners while George Daraban had two hits and scored once and Greg Abraham had a double and scored. Jeff Bainbridge scored the final Indian run.

The Indians had a two-game stand against the Reds last week. The first game was a 13-8 win for the Indians, but they dropped the second game 6-4.

The Indians picked up five runs in the second, two in the third, one in the fourth and five in the fifth in the first game. Rich Belanger, Daraban, David Trumbull and Bainbridge each scored twice for the winners. Daraban had a triple and double in three trips to the plate. Mike Tabaczynski added two doubles. The Reds scored four times in the first, once in the third and three times in the fifth. John Meadows scored twice for the losers. Tim Blanchard hit a triple and double while Mark Olsen added a triple.

The Reds came back to take the second contest 6-4 behind the Ron Demeter's two hits and two runs scored, and a double and single each by Olsen and Pat Isom.

The Phillies took the Braves 9-8 in a slugfest. Jeff Harp had a home run and scored twice for the Phillies while Russ Parker, Dave Beardslee and Scott Peterson each scored twice. Brian Friel had two doubles for the Phillies' cause.

The Braves were led by Tim Wendt, who scored twice, and Billy Murdock, who opened the game with a triple and scored. Chris Kaley had three hits for the Braves.

The Yankees stayed in third place in the division despite dropping both of their contests last week. They lost to the Astros 9-4 and to the Dodgers 10-2.

Against the Astros the Yankees led 2-1 going into the fourth inning. The Astros then scored twice to take a one-run lead, 3-2. The Yankees came back with two in the fifth to retake the lead 4-3. After picking up a run in the sixth to tie the game, the Astros exploded for five runs in the seventh to break the 4-4 tie.

Benji Evans and Robert Workman each had two hits and scored two runs to lead the Astros. Rob Cannon had two triples and scored once for the losers, and John Anderson had a triple and a double, scoring once. Scott Swienkowski had a double and a triple and Eric Donkers added a triple and scored once for the Yanks. Mike Davis had two hits and scored also.

Against the Dodgers, Gary Stobbe and Cannon were the only Yanks to Tennis on the decline?

By REID CREAGER

"Tennis, anyone?" That's a familiar cry in our culture. The mid-seventies have seen dramatic growth in the popularity of tennis, and the sport continues to be a popular one. However, while tennis was the "in" sport during recent years — especially among the more affluent — the trend these days seems to indicate that racquetball and soccer are gradually giving tennis a backhanded nudge. If nothing else, it is a certainty that these two newcomers are experiencing a more rapid rate of growth nowadays. Racquetball in particular is enjoying a lot of popularity at present. Membership in racquetball clubs throughout the country is constantly on the rise, and soccer is enjoying a surge of its own with kids and adults alike. Yet despite these general observations, tennis is by no means dead. The national excitement created by the recent Wimbledon play would seem to indicate that. And local tennis officials also contend that the sport hasn't suffered. Mike Binkley, Physical Director at the West Oakland YMCA, said recently that summer tennis lessons at the "Y" are going as strong as ever with no immediate end in sight. But he did admit to noticing less people out on the courts these days. "Our lessons are once again going well this summer," Binkley reported. "All six lessons have been filled, and we're staying the same as far as enrollment goes. "But while the lessons haven't died down," Binkley continued, "it doesn't seem like you see as many people out on the courts as you once did. There especially has been a drop-off among the men players, with mostly women and children out anymore." Bonnie Haight, Wixom Parks & Recreation secretary who heads a tennis program through the YMCA, also reports having no problems in getting people to sign up for tennis. In fact, she estimated that enrollment in the program was up about 10 percent. "Last year, we began a program where kids played against others in the same age group," she said. "It's been successful, and there's no reason to think its popularity would decline in the near future." As far as noticing less people getting out to play tennis, Haight said she hadn't had time to observe any prevailing trends. A similar sentiment was offered by Randy Kibloski, who is in charge of this year's Walled Lake Community Education Department Tennis

Tournament. Also, like Haight, Kibloski reported a slight increase in participation for his program. "We have five more entries in our tournament this year than last," Kibloski said. "It seems to me as if interest in tennis is just as strong as it ever was." Since it could be contended that the above interviewees might be a bit biased in favor of their respective programs, the question of tennis' current popularity was put to Walled Lake Western tennis coach Noah Gregory. As an individual with no public relations or profit motive for promoting the sport, the Warrior boss had the following opinions: "I think tennis is still holding its own in terms of popularity," he said, "but there's no increase in that popularity anymore. It seems to me that some people are becoming more interested in other sports, like racquetball. "I personally think racquetball has a little more momentum right now," the Western coach opined. "With racquetball, you can walk in as a novice and get the hang of the game much quicker

The Reds, with only eight players, lost 10-4 to the Phillies. Steve Schrader, Ernie Bock, Shawn Tague and James Cleveland all scored twice for the winners. Tim Keiser, Brian Jennings and Greg Anushagian scored for the Reds. Anushagian scored twice. The Reds were scheduled to play the Braves, but had to forfeit for lack of players.

The Angels played two other games last week. They lost to the Astros 15-4 and won by forfeit over the Pirates. Steve Smith led the Astro attack with four hits, scoring three runs. Mickey Newman and Willie Newman each also scored three runs. Dan Groves, Greg Young and Chris Doyle each scored twice for the winners.

For the Angels, Steve Frellick, Dan Neilson, Phil Majewski and Ray McDonough scored the runs. Deal, Nielsen, Majewski and Jim Rose all doubled for the Angels.

The Mets, behind five hits (four for extra bases) beat the Expos 5-3. Beather had a double and scored, Sledz had a double, Ray Stark a triple and Kevin Snyder a double. Gary Kavanaugh, Haggerty, John Moran and Snyder all scored.

...Ballooning

Continued from 4-E doesn't move, it just goes higher while the earth moves underneath. "There is no sensation of movement," Kathy Aaron of Whitmore Lake said. She has flown as an official observer at the Pinkney Balloon Festival for two years. "I was really, really scared the first time I went up. But not for long. The only sensation of movement you have is if there is a sudden change in breeze direction. Then you feel movement, but just for an instant before the balloon sets off in the new direction. I'd rather fly a balloon than pilot a plane. There is little that can go wrong in a balloon. They are still flyable even with big rips in them."

And you even have to forgive the balloon pilots if they brag about their sport a bit too much. After all, they're mostly full of hot air.

A basketball record; 2-0

Hillside High School came into the game with a reputation as a hard-playing, tough-shooting, tall and aggressive team. Person High School, Hillside's opponent, just wasn't in the same league in terms of ability or height. So Person coach Reid Davis vowed to slow things down a bit. And slow them down he did.

Hillside won the opening tip-off and scored a quick basket. But Person

High got the ball then and refused to give it up, dribbling and passing so that the taller team couldn't gain control. At the end of each quarter, Person High would shoot and try to tie the game and each time they would miss. At the end of the game, Hillside hadn't touched the ball except for the opening tip-off. But Person High couldn't take advantage of this. The final score for the February 1, 1977 game was 2-0.

Refs have it bad

While cherry bombs and fist fights plague players and umpires in America, consider what officials have to put up with in other countries.

In Italy, two carloads of soccer fans chased referee Pietro Nuova for six miles in a car chase after a match in which he ejected two of the hometown players. Nuova eluded his chasers for a while, but eventually they caught up to him and forced him off of the road where he overturned his car. He was in the hospital for 10 days

In Greece, referee Stavros Rammos was caught in the middle of a soccer riot at the end of a game. A fan, angry because all of the sod was gone and in need of a souvenir, bit Rammos' ear off and left.
