TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

Gazebo love knot

The new Victorian-era inspired gazebo in Mill Race Historical Village became the setting for a romantic summer wedding at 6 p.m. last Friday. Janet Elizabeth Reber of Canton and Paul Cramer of Plymouth became the first couple to exchange vows in the pretty structure. Magistrate Louis M. Hopping of the 35th District Court, a Northville resident, officiated at the ceremony. Mrs. Hopping baked the cake for the buffet reception following in the adjacent New School Church which was attended by about 60 friends and relatives.

MARY DUMAS, Wayne County commissioner and a leader in the county reorganization campaign, was a guest speaker this week at a meeting of the Northville Kiwanis Club. She urged support of the petition drive that would enable voters to decide if the county should have an elected county executive. Presently, she said, the county is an archaic governmental organization with 27 legs and 9 arms but no head.

A RESOLUTION praising Kenneth Harrison and others for planning and constructing the gazebo in the Mill Race Historical Village was presented to Harrison at Monday's council meeting. Mayor Paul Vernon summed up council's pride in the new facility when he said he was emotionally moved upon hearing and watching the band play from the "beautiful gazebo" during the Fourth of July festivities.

IN THE WAKE of a petition signed by more than 50 persons, requesting a stop sign on North Rogers to slow traffic resulting from the recent opening of the north end of the street, city council has decided to implement an alternative measure — installation of speed bumps. The police department had advised against a stop sign, which is seen as an aggravating traffic control device.

A PUBLIC HEARING will be held by the city council on August 20 to consider a recommendation by the planning commission that lots 117 through 122a on Gardner be rezoned from LCD (local commercial development) to R-2 (second density residential district). The planning commission already has held its public hearing on the rezoning request of Frank Pauli.

WORRIED that the upcoming Yerkes auction may cause major traffic problems, city council has asked the police department to prepare a plan to accommodate the expected avalanche of traffic and parking in the vicinity of the late Edmund Yerkes home at 504 West Dunlap during the weekend of August 17. See story about the auction on 1-B.

COOKE JUNIOR HIGH seventh graders can pick up their 1978-79 yearbooks on Monday, August 13. Students can pick up the yearbooks in the junior high lobby, and should bring along their yearbook receipts if they have them.

With only three and a half weeks left until the current Northville teachers' contract expires, there may be a possibility of a strike if a new contract is not settled, said Barbara LeBoeuf, president of the Northville Education Association (NEA) on Monday.

Meanwhile, board spokesmen say that strike talk is premature and that the board will "work diligently" to conclude contract negotiations.

The teachers' negotiating team is dismayed at the part of a counterproposal put forth by the school district's negotiating team. Teachers view the counter proposals as no compromise, LeBoeuf said.

The current contract expires September 1. School is supposed to start by September 4, although that date is not yet firm.

"If no contract is reached by September 3, we'll go to the building representatives and say we have nothing to show them. Teachers then will have a choice: to withhold our teaching services, to go back to work without a contract, or to go back under the terms of a past agreement," LeBoeuf said.

"I don't think the teachers would go back without a contract or any protection at all. In my opinion, unless significant changes take place soon, teachers won't have any choice but to strike," LeBoeuf added.

Board chief negotiator Burton Knighton said that to make statements about a strike may be jumping the gun.

"I think it's premature for the association to be talking this way," Knighton said. He said that the negotiating teams were not meeting this week because the teachers' chief negotiator John Rennels was out of town.

"We hope to be able to work diligently and will be meeting every day beginning in a couple weeks," Knighton said. Both sides agreed they would be moving faster as the deadline nears.

Back in April, both negotiating teams put forth their basic demands. As in most contracts, teachers want a salary increase, cost of living and additional insurance. They want a strong grievance procedure, elimination of the no-strike clause and better teacher protection.

They are also aiming to get leaves-of-absence for Instruction Special Education Program (ISEP) teachers who work year-round.

The board, meanwhile, wants to stay within this year's tight budget, limit costs, keep the no-strike clause, increase accountability and responsibilities of teachers to management, limit the grievance procedures, protect the school system, and limit ISEP teacher absenteeism.

In theory, after original proposals are presented from both sides, compromise proposals are worked on and both sides edge closer together until they finally agree.

However, LeBoeuf said that the board's compromise contract contained new language about the ISEP teachers' leave-of-absence proposal which is unacceptable to the teachers. She said the teachers' compromise proposals would be equally tough.

Moving west

A new leaf in Northville Public Library's history was written last week as books and equipment were moved to a temporary location in the community building, a block west of the Northville Square at 303 West Main. Wheeling a shelf of books out of the old headquarters are Sue Heinzman, Denise MacDermaid and Mike Nielsen. The library opened Tuesday for business at the usual hours. Readers will be welcomed in the new location until the end of the year when the new library being built behind city hall is due to be completed. See other pictures on 11-A.

It's official!

Public library established

Enactment of an ordinance Monday officially established a Northville Public Library.

Northville has had a public library for many years, but the unanimous council action this week creates a library separate of the county library system.

Heretofore, Northville has been a branch of the larger system.

In recent years council and library advisory commission members had grown tired of having no direct authority in the hiring and firing of the librarians.

They were especially disappointed because when a new librarian gained experience and became well liked in the community, the person would be transferred to a larger library and a new person would be put in charge of the local library.

Northville, local officials noted, had become the training ground for county librarians.

With the adoption Monday, council also appointed members to the newly created city library board. This board, a requirement of state law, is primarily a "figurehead", officials have pointed out. The existing city-township advisory commission will continue its the day-to-day operational function.

Also, officials have emphasized that Continued on 8-A

Doctors fight to save man's severed hand

An 18-year-old Northville youth underwent surgery Tuesday afternoon at Harper Hospital to re-attach his right hand.

Todd Nadeau, 21217 Summerside Lane, severed his hand in an accident which occurred while he was operating a saw-equipped machine at Belanger, Inc., 455 East Cady street, Northville.

According to Mrs. Lee Belanger, company treasurer, Nadeau has been employed by Belanger's for the past two summers. He is a close family friend of Jim Belanger, company president, and Belanger's two high school-age sons.

Mrs. Belanger said the youth was transported to St. Mary Hospital in Livonia by Novi Ambulance. A hospital spokesman said he was examined and stabilized before being transferred to Harper. Jim Belanger accompanied the injured youth to St. Mary and urged the transfer because he is acquainted with a specialist in the field of such surgery at Harper.

Mrs. Belanger said Nadeau was a student at Catholic Central High School and "an excellent basketball player."

She told The Record at 3:15 Tuesday afternoon that she had just received word from Harper Hospital that Nadeau was entering surgery. "They say it will be a 10 to 12 hour ordeal ... we're all praying for him," said Mrs. Belanger.

Belanger's manufactures buffing and polishing wheels. The firm also makes equipment for car wash facilities and operates its own car wash on South Main street adjacent to its manufacturing plant.

At 83, he's on the move despite cancer

Smell the sawdust and the tools and the glue and the shellac.
Feel the slick surface of the freshly planed wood.
Hear the metallic whine of the tablesaw as it slices through the board.
Watch the craftsman as he squares the pine stock.
He's smiling...

...And he's enjoying the same woodshop symphony that has been giving pleasure to his senses for better than a half century.

Don Nutten, director of this orchestration, is a man in a race — determined to stay active and to keep a fast step ahead of the cancer that hit him in '69 and claimed a chunk of his intestines.

He is 83 years old but right now he is feeling like a young man with the world by the tail.

"Isn't this something?" he says, waving his hand around the shop adjacent to the two horse stables surrounded by trees and pasture. "A guy couldn't ask for more. It's paradise on earth."

Going like 60

He spunks to the door and watches the colt play. "He's a spunky guy; got out of the fence yesterday," comments the retired city slicker as he gulps a deep breath of the country fresh air.

BRIGHTON—"It's the law of averages. It's always on your mind, either in back or in front, depending on how close the last cut-off (by a car) was. You always know today might be the day," said Roger Ball of Brighton, driver of the gasoline tanker truck that rolled over and exploded into a raging fire recently in Detroit. Ball is being hailed as a hero by Detroit officials because he warned other motorists to flee seconds before the gasoline ignited.

GREEN OAK—A tight financial situation for the fiscal year beginning July 1 was predicted at the annual meeting here, and apparently it wasn't hot air. Rita Chenoweth, newly appointed treasurer of Green Oak Township has reported a general fund deficit of $3,154.60 at the end of August.

LYON—With the whole world looking for oil Qualex Corporation discovered it by accident. Originally drilling for natural gas, Qualex has announced that it has a successful oil well on its hands on a site in Lyon Township, north of Eleven Mile and west of Pontiac Trail. The firm says the well could produce 500 barrels per day.

SOUTH LYON—Downtown merchants favor regulated three-hour parking instead of meters in municipal parking lots, the business persons decided at a meeting recently.

SOUTH LYON—The city council here has approved a rate hike for the city's volunteer ambulance department in an effort to make the department self-sufficient. City residents will now pay $50, and non-residents $60 for emergency transportation to area hospitals.

SOUTH LYON—A two-year veteran of the South Lyon Police Department has been named officer of the year for 1978. He is Robert T. Hammerman.

NOVI—As promised C&O Railroad finally completed repairs to the crossing on Novi Road last week. The road had been closed for several days because of the reconstruction work.

NOVI—Area residents are being advised that traffic congestion created by construction projects on Novi Road is going to get worse before it gets better. State Highway Department officials have announced that improvements to the intersection of the road at Grand River are scheduled to begin this week. The improvement project calls for all four legs of the intersection to be widened to five lanes. The relocation of Eleven Mile also is included in the project.

WALLED LAKE—If you see some young men and women cruising around Walled Lake's city-owned park and beach in a suspicious-looking white car, don't be suspicious. The car resembles a police vehicle—that's because it used to be one—and its occupants are the "eyes of the police department, looking out for the community," according to Police Chief Wilford Hook. They are members of the Walled Lake Youth and Recreation Patrol.

WIXOM—Residents in Wixom's Hidden Creek subdivision are not at all happy. And the source of their displeasure is what they perceive to be poor construction quality in their $60,000 to $80,000 homes. Mayor Assistant Stephen Bonczek confirmed that there has been "an exorbitant number of complaints about workmanship" from residents in the subdivision.

WALLED LAKE—The proposed Lake Drive Manor, a 100-unit elderly housing project that may be built here, has not been selected for a federal rent-subsidy commitment for the current fiscal year, according to a spokesperson for the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

COMMERCE—The Michigan State Transportation Commission probably won't make a decision on an alternative for a north-south state trunkline road for western Oakland County at its August 22 meeting, but Commission Chairperson Hannes Meyers Jr. says the panel is "still on target for getting a decision by late summer or early fall."

WIXOM—Councilman Dennis Andrews renewed his efforts to bring about the dismissal of Planning Consultant Charles Leman. His motion to dismiss was defeated 4-2. The last time, in February, a similar motion was defeated 4-1. "He (Leman) has withheld information from us," he charged, stating that Leman had failed to keep Wixom officials informed of the problems that Novi was experiencing with its cluster housing option.

Park residents say

Control of 'rowdyism' improved

Park survey

A survey of Edward Hines Park residents by four teams of Wayne County Sheriff Deputies last week drew a number of comments, most of which indicated they thought there had been a vast improvement in controlling park rowdyism. Here Dora Rubenstein of Jamestown Circle in Northville Township tells Sheriff Deputy Charles Wiggins, "People who want a complete crackdown on the park are the same people who only want law and order when it affects them personally. Young people need a place to go."

If a house-to-house survey of homeowners living along the perimeter of Edward Hines Park is any indication, the good guys in the white hats are winning their struggle to control rowdyism in that area, Richard E. Manning, chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners commented Monday.

The survey, conducted by four teams of Wayne County Sheriff deputies and lead by Officers Melvin Hertzfeld and Charles Miller, contacted more than 100 homes during the first two days of the project and came away with a healthy 85 percent positive comment.

"Even a majority of the other 15 percent agreed there had been considerable improvement," Hertzfeld said.

"Construction of a new sheriff's ministration at Newburgh Road, rerouting of traffic by the road commission, a tougher attitude by local judges, and a beefed-up park patrol have all been contributing factors in regaining control of the situation," Sheriff William Lucas explained.

Wayne County Commissioner Kay Beard (D-Inkster) regarded the sheriff's action as extremely commendable.

A last-minute grant of $100,000 provided funds to renovate the new ministration, organize a five-person mounted patrol and purchase a mobile ministration for the Telegraph-Hines section.

County Commissioners Mary Dumas (R-Livonia), Alex Pilch (D-Deerborn) and William Joyner (D-Plymouth) were instrumental in obtaining the legislative assistance through their

Township tables action on Stage II plat

Action on the Stage II preliminary plat for the proposed Hills of Northville subdivision was delayed by the Northville Township Planning Commission July 31.

The subdivision developer, Elro Corporation, is currently at odds with the Wayne County Road Commission over a number of related issues.

The planning commission received a letter from the road commission July 26 describing plans to extend Curtis from Sheldon to Beck. The developer and the planning commission are opposed to the extension of the road and feel strongly that the paving of Six Mile is a viable alternative.

In its letter, the road commission said that there are "no plans to pave Six Mile in the near future."

"We don't agree that Curtis should be extended," said William Bohan, planning commission chairman. "The proposal to eventually extend it from Sheldon to Beck is completely without merit."

"There are severe topography and soil problems in the proposed paving area and the added traffic on Sheldon Road would cause severe problems."

Geoffrey Orley, representative for the developer, asked township planners to take a stand against the road commission and get involved in discussions between the two groups.

Members of the planning commission chose to "stay out of it."

"I don't think that we should recommend the approval of a plan that we know needs a number of revisions," Bohan said. "And I don't think that we are in a position to take issue with the road commission. I think we should let the developer and the road commission settle their differences and then take action on Stage II."

Planning commission members did agree to draft a letter to send to the road commission stating its feelings on Curtis and Six Mile. Bohan said the letter expressed the planners' deep concern that the additional traffic flow on Sheldon would cause a "very serious traffic hazard."

The road commission and developer were scheduled to meet last week.

If the planning commission does approve the Stage II preliminary plat, the plan must then be approved by the Northville Township Board of Trustees. Then final plat approval must come from both the commission and the board before the project can proceed.

In other action the planning commission:

—Gave final approval of a modified site plan for a showroom and fire equipment store to be constructed by Hatt Fire Incorporated on Northville Road.

—Rejected a preliminary site plan submitted by Wil-O-Mac Corporation. A bowling alley is proposed by the corporation as well as additional parking at the existing Oasis Golf Center on Five Mile at I-275.

—Approved the proposed project site for the Mil-O-Mac Project. (Though the commission found some problems with the plan, it did not have any objection to the proposed site.) Funding for the project is being handled through Wayne County Economic Development Corporation, rather than the Northville Township EDC.

—Approved the Stage I preliminary plat for the proposed Abby Homes Maple Hill Subdivision to be located on Six Mile adjacent to the township hall property. Commissioner Kenneth McLarty cast the only opposing vote, citing possible sewer capacity problems as the reason. Northville Township sewers are currently being used to capacity, according to the township engineers and once the new subdivisions' homes are occupied there likely will be a serious sewer capacity problem, they say. Other members of the commission felt that since the other government bodies which deal more specifically with the plan also must approve the plan such as the Wayne County Drain Commission and Department of Natural Resources) and did so the planning commission is not the body to approve or deny a plat on the basis of sewer capacity.

—Rejected the final site plan by George Varilone for a warehouse to be built on Gerald.

State Representative Robert Law of Livonia and Richard A. Young of Dearborn. "The county's current fiscal position made it impossible to provide the necessary funds," Mrs. Dumas said, "so the State money was a real lifesaver."

Survey teams, in addition to having each resident fill out a questionnaire, also passed out a special booklet on recent Park Task Force findings and invited each to visit the new mini-station Friday, August 10.

"Initial results of the poll proved quite interesting," Officer Miller said. "Nine questions were asked and a personal comment requested."

In looking over the comments, Commissioner Joyner observed, "The majority appear to feel that conditions in the park have improved." Answers to the first group of questionnaires indicated: they were not aware that Representatives Law and Young had obtained the state grant; that they knew of the new mini-station; did not know there is to be a mobile mini-station at Telegraph; knew of the mounted patrol; were aware the road commission had blocked off certain entrances and rerouted traffic; only half questioned knew the road commission had donated the mini-station; the majority did not want the park closed; wanted more police; wanted the mini-station kept open year-around; wanted the mounted patrol expanded; wanted no-parking signs posted along the park; and felt the park should be closed at 9 P.M.

Some of the personal comments indicated there were still some trouble spots particularly at the Wallaceville entrance and the Nature Center area.

Delores Greiner, Northville: "The horse patrol is a great idea." Katherine Powers, Northville: "Deputies are doing everything possible to help." John Mack, Plymouth: "We should expand the mounted patrol to 20 officers and let the public use the park as it was intended." John Martin, Plymouth: "Whatever it takes to improve the park, so be it. Continue the progress, but I'm not taking my family there, yet."

Lottia Kuras, Westland: "Keep the park under control so we can picnic and use facilities." Frances Hayes, Westland: "More police officers." Robert Ross, Westland: "Sheriff's department is doing an outstanding job." Karin Milovich, Livonia: "Still a lot of noise, we need more officers." Mrs. J. Gawura, Dearborn Heights: "Park has improved 100 percent. Take tickets and funnel money back to park improvements." Mrs. Gabriel, Dearborn Heights: "Noise has disappeared."

"The results of this survey appear to be very heartening," Pilch commented. "But this is no time to relax. We've got to keep such areas as the park for family use and not allow it to be taken over by irresponsible youngsters."

School board study

Where are we? Where headed?

There were a few things the Northville Board of Education wanted to know at a discussion of "goals and objectives" for the coming year.

They all agreed, eventually, that what the school district needs to know is: Where are we? Where ought we to be? Where are we going? How are we going to get there?

In the free-wheeling three hour study session Monday night, the board talked about the universal problems of education in general.

What they finally agreed upon was that what Northville needs is a profile of the schools and a good educational audit.

But it all started when Treasurer Charles Peltz asked the rhetorical question, "How do we know if we are serving the needs of children in this community?"

"We can say, gee, we're doing a great job. But do we?" he asked.

Three hours later, the topic was still being debated.

All one has to do to see how the school district is faring is go to the schools and talk with parents, teachers and students, said Vice-President Marjorie Sliger. She cited the recent honors convocation ceremonies as an example of seeing students' achievements.

But Secretary Richard Barron disagreed. "Look, the bright kids are going to make it. I'm not worried if 50 percent go on to become great successes at University of Michigan. I'm worried about the other 50 percent. I'm worried about the allocation of our resources.

"What kind of education do we need to provide? I'm not so convinced we've been meeting the educational needs of the community. We've got to find out what is needed," Barron said.

Superintendent Larry Nichols said the discussion was reaching global proportions. "We're really talking about cliches, the mission of public education — to provide the best educational opportunities to all of the people in a community," he said.

He challenged the concept that one could collect quantitative "evidence of excellence" in the Northville school system. "You can present graphic evidence of quality in an educational program and identify and analyze the areas of weakness ... But what about excellence that doesn't show up in high grades or championships or trophies?" he said.

Peltz answered the concern. "I'm just concerned that we find out about the whole process. I've been here two years and it is frustrating not being able to tell how good a job the school is doing. We've got to find out where we are, where we ought to be, where we are going, and how we are going to get there," he said.

"What I'm hearing is that you want some direction about where we are going," said President Karen Wilkinson.

"What I want to know is, why don't you know where we are going?" Sliger asked Peltz.

"I share Charlie's (Peltz's) frustration that I am unable to measure progress in the school system as well as I'd like," said Trustee Douglas Whitaker. He suggested that parents be given more opportunity to say what they want out of a school system and that the decisions concerning a system be made closer to the actual people it affects.

"Decisions are being made too far away. Washington is too far away, Lansing is too far away. Sometimes even the board office is too far away."

Trustee Chris Johnson said that they need to look at the "health" of the district. "Not that it's diseased, but if the data could be translated into something usable..."

Director of Instruction Nancy Soper then suggested that what the board really wants is a profile of the district and an educational audit.

The board agreed to put these items on the list of "goals and objectives."

The board also decided that items of a more limited capacity such as study of closed campus, study of school safety, health education, building maintenance, the superintendent's staff reorganization, superintendent evaluation and financial studies were also to be placed on the list.

"We not only want to know where we are, but where do we want to be," Wilkinson said. "We want to get input from parents and attitudinal surveys. We want to hear about successes, and we want the educational audit as a vehicle for implementing changes and for strategizing," she said.

Promotions announced at state police post

Michigan State Police report two changes at the Northville post.

Sergeant Reuben R. Johnson, 42, has been promoted to lieutenant IV with the traffic services division here.

Lieutenant Gary L. McGhee, 36, of the traffic division has been transferred to division headquarters in the secondary complex at Lansing.

The changes became effective July 22.

Johnson joined the state police in April, 1961. In 1971 he was promoted to corporal at Blissfield where his rank was later changed to sergeant 10. On promotion in 1972 to sergeant 11 he was assigned to the Detroit post (which was moved in 1976 to Northville).

In April of this year Johnson was transferred to the traffic division.

Usually you would have to tie up your savings for years to get a dividend that begins to compete with inflation. And it seems it would take years to save the amount needed for one of those fancy $10,000 Money Market certificates. Until now you've had to content yourself with choosing between long-term savings accounts or low dividends. But if you consider yourself a serious saver, you'll welcome this news from your credit union.

NOW YOU CAN EARN THE SAME DIVIDEND RATE IN 3 YEARS AT YOUR CREDIT UNION THAT BANKS AND S & Ls PAY IN 4.

Look at the charts above and compare: with a Community Federal 3-Year Certificate you can earn the same or HIGHER DIVIDEND for LESS TIME. Now you have greater flexibility to plan your savings and to save for the things you want to buy. And before you know it, you've saved the amount needed for a 'fancy' money market certificate.

The maximum rate on Certificates is determined monthly by the U.S. Department of the Treasury. The rate you are quoted the month you purchase is paid for the term of your 3-Year Certificate. Dividends are compounded quarterly and the term and minimum balance, like most credit union savings certificates, are designed for the serious saver who isn't rich.

So if you've got money that's "just sitting" in a bank or savings and loan, bring it to your credit union. Our 3-Year Certificate is just one of many savings programs that can help you beat inflation.

Instructor Richard Norton evaluates a student after her driving lesson

They risk lives teaching drivers

By ELLEN SPONSELLER

Meet the guys who risk their lives to teach your kids how to drive — the driver's education teachers at Northville High School.

While most of us would be clenching our teeth, pounding the car floor for some imaginary brake and screaming sweaty foul language at a frazzled son or daughter at the wheel, these teachers know how to keep cool in all driving situations.

Take Richard Norton, a 17-year veteran of the driving range and a Cooke Junior High social studies teacher in real life.

Last year he sat calmly on as a student hung a left from Main onto North Center, spun the wheel to the right, floored the accelerator and drove the car over three parking meters and into a building.

"It was fortunate it was only 8 a.m. and no pedestrians were on the sidewalk," he says philosophically, of the narrow miss from disaster.

This cheerful attitude is echoed by other teachers.

Recently instructor Jeff Lightfoot acted quickly when a student lost control of the car after hitting a bump on Eight Mile.

He grabbed the steering wheel just in time to avoid a head-on collision with another car. After scraping off the headlights and sides of both cars, the student drove the car off the road. She stepped on the accelerator instead of the brake and flew through a ditch at 35 m.p.h.

"When I finally got the car stopped the kids in the back just kept saying, wow, this is really neat, just like in the movies," Lightfoot said.

Teaching driver's education is not all high-speed adventure. Teachers must conduct classes and test 240 students this summer alone on driver safety and laws.

Norton, Lightfoot, instructor Harry Rosinski and instructor Norm Hannewald all have special certificates allowing them to teach driver's education classes.

By the time summer sessions end this week, each instructor will have ridden nearly 3,500 miles with student drivers, all within a few miles of Northville.

In the Northville driver's program, students practice all driving, parking, figure-eights, cloverleaves and backing up right on the streets of Northville in heavily insured cars the district rents for $450 per month. Teachers criticize programs that use driving ranges or simulators, saying that the real thing is best.

"We take them straight into a baptism of fire," Lightfoot said.

The only problem with driving immediately on the road are the other drivers who are often inconsiderate of student drivers

Board to hear grievance Thursday

The Northville Board of Education will hear the grievance of Robert Williams, Northville High School Band teacher, at a public meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p.m.

The board agreed to hold the hearing after the Northville Education Association (NEA) filed an appeal of the grievance Monday morning on Williams' behalf.

Both Williams and NEA President Barbara LeBoeuf will appear before the board to protest Williams' involuntary transfer from NHS to Cooke Junior High.

The open hearing before the full board, to be held at the Main Street School board offices is a final destination of the grievance against that transfer. The grievance was denied in writing by Superintendent of Schools Larry Nichols late last week.

If the school board does not satisfy the NEA's grievance, the matter could be taken before an impartial arbitrator for a final decision, according to the Northville contract.

The NEA grievance was filed after Williams, band teacher at NHS for 22 years, was informed that he would be transferred to Cooke Junior High. Michael Rumbell is scheduled to become the band director at NHS.

The grievance has now been turned down by NHS Principal George Aune and by Nichols, both orally and in writing.

In his written reply, Nichols said the grievance was being denied because the transfer was not in violation of the teacher contract.

So this is America

Chris Boethius, 16, of Kunglav, Sweden enjoyed some American activities foreign to his native country during his stay with the Kilvari family of Northville Township's Highland Lakes. Mark Kilvari (left, below) stayed with Chris' family recently when his hockey team traveled to Sweden for an invitational tournament. During his three weeks in Northville (July 16-August 4) Chris learned a little about the game of baseball (below), became proficient at throwing and catching a Frisbee — which is a very expensive item in his country — and enjoyed some television programs that are not shown in Sweden. The Kilvaris also treated their guest with trips to Cedar Point, Fairlane Shopping center and Detroit's Renaissance Center. But the thing Chris liked best was the scenery at Kensington Beach.

Proposed ISEP budget presented

Administrators presented the Northville Board of Education a slimmed-down preliminary budget for 1979-80 for the Instruction Special Education Program (ISEP) Monday night.

"We tried to cut every budget 30 percent across the board," Director Leonard Rezmierski told the board at the Monday study session.

The whole program is belt-tightening. We saved money, theoretically. But the cost to run programs is increasing. The costs hit us," he said.

As with everyone else, ISEP finds that the same amount of money is not going as far, he told the board.

The ISEP program will hire 69 special education teachers this year for the estimated 525 students in the program.

Last year, the program had 77 teachers for 632 students.

In addition, proportionate cuts will be made in the numbers of special education aides, from 154 to 126 this year.

Major proposed budget increases are in the areas of salaries, utilities and facility rental and maintenance, said John Flaughner, coordinator of business and operations for ISEP.

Decreases will come in the areas of "hard" budgets like teaching supplies, Flaughner told the board.

He said every teacher who had control of a budget was asked in January to write down all estimated expenditures for this year for supplies, travel, operations, postage, field trips, and all other expenses in their departments.

Flaughner said the teachers would be held to these estimates for the coming year.

The figures for 1978-79 in the budget are still unaudited but are helpful in comparing the past year with the coming year, Flaughner said.

Seventy-seven teachers' salaries totalled $1,253,066 for 1978-79. For 1979-80, it will cost $1,332,390 to pay only 69 teachers, an increase of nearly $80,000 although the number of teachers has decreased.

The average salary of an ISEP teacher, including substitutes, is $19,000, Flaughner said.

The seven ISEP school supervisors have received a 13 percent increase in salary for 1979-80, Flaughner said.

Utility costs to the district will leap from 48,197 to $80,000, according to the preliminary budget. The huge increase is due partly to the extra buildings the system will temporarily be operating while they move and consolidate facilities. It is also partly due to a 32 percent increase in utility costs, Flaughner said.

The total estimated 1979-80 budget for ISEP is $6,770,360. This compares with the unaudited expenditures of $6,069,083 for the 1978-79 year.

If the unaudited figures are accurate, ISEP spent $333,000 less than its budget for 1978-79.

No-fault reform urged by Geake constituents

An overwhelming majority of State Senator Robert Geake's (R-Northville) constituents favor re-writing the no-fault insurance statute.

In response to a district-wide survey that Senator Geake sent to approximately 71,000 homes in April, 89 percent of the respondents favored having the insurer of the driver clearly responsible for the accident, reimburse the innocent driver in the amount of the insurance deductible.

"There has been a great deal of controversy surrounding no-fault insurance since it was first implemented," commented Geake. "And I understand why those who responded to the survey in this manner, did so. Anyone who has been an innocent victim of an automobile accident since no-fault was instituted in 1973, understands why the statute needs to be re-written."

In another insurance related question, 92 percent of the questionnaire respondents were opposed to permitting insurance companies to even out the costs of insurance by reducing the cost of insurance policies for high risk drivers while raising them for everyone else.

"One of the first bills the senate will consider when we return in the fall will deal with changes in the auto insurance law. The results of my questionnaire reconfirm in my mind the pressing need to make some changes in that law," explained Geake.

Though residents of the 14th Senate District in Northwestern Wayne County are not quite as affected as some in the state by land resource questions, they still voiced their opinions in this survey. A majority of 65 percent of the respondents favored a wetlands protection bill. At the same time almost the same percentage (64) opposed the establishment of a land resource advisory board to discuss land use planning.

Energy related questions elicited the most even split among respondents. While 46 percent favored creating a Michigan Department of Energy, 47 percent were opposed. Likewise, 44 percent encouraged the use of nuclear power as an alternative energy source and encouraged the construction of more plants. Fifty-one percent were opposed to using nuclear power.

"When one considers these survey results, you realize just how difficult it is sometimes to be a legislator," remarked

Geake. "My constituents are practically evenly split on how to deal with the energy crisis and I have to vote in a way which is most representative of my district — it's not always easy."

A final question on whether to construct a toxic waste disposal facility elicited an 86 percent positive response.

Geake indicated that responses to other questions relating to crime control and public education are being tallied and will be announced as soon as they are available.

Geake urges veto of Headlee tax implementation

State Senator Robert Geake (R-Northville) sent a letter to Governor Milliken this week urging his veto of Senate Bill 460. SB 460 is the legislation implementing the mandated cost section of the Headlee Amendment.

According to Geake the bill would exempt many state mandates allowing for large increases in costs to be unconstitutional passed on to local units of government across the state.

In Geake's opinion if SB 460 does go into effect, local governments will be forced to sue the state government for unconstitutional incursion into local government activities and services.

Despite the Republican caucus' best efforts to fairly implement the Headlee Amendment, we saw our version of a mandated cost bill soundly defeated in the senate," commented Geake.

According to Geake, the majority party pushed through a very weak bill bearing little relationship to the actual implementation of the Headlee Amendment. For example, the definitions of "service" and "activities" in SB 460 are worded so as to exclude many major personnel costs. These oftentimes are a large part of the cost of new programs. Another section of the bill exempts those costs which apply to a "larger class" of persons or corporations and do not apply exclusively to a local unit of government.

If for instance, the state were to mandate an expansion of unemployment compensation benefits to new classes of citizens, local units of government would have to pick up the increased costs for their employees. This would be a significant increase in their budget and would require either cutbacks in other services or increases in local property taxes.

"Republicans were successful in amending parts of the mandated cost bill, but the final result of our efforts was only to turn an objectionable piece of legislation into legislation merely a little less objectionable," concluded Geake.

Governor Milliken is expected to make a decision on SB 460 early next week.

Teacher talks bog down here

Knighton, meanwhile, said the fact that the board even recognized problems of year-round teachers in the ISEP program is a step in the right direction.

"I'm eager to see what their counter-proposals will be," he said.

Both sides have agreed only upon two things — the negotiating procedures themselves and board rights and responsibilities.

Two major differences between the board and teacher negotiators remain, predictably, in the areas of teacher responsibilities and in salary structure.

Neither side has yet issued compromise proposals on these areas.

LeBoeuf said the board's proposal for teacher responsibilities includes such functions as performing all duties assigned by the building supervisor, attending all school-community functions and to meet with parents, administrators and students upon request.

LeBoeuf criticized the list, saying that no such list existed in the current contract. "Our contract is to teach," she said. "If our responsibilities increase, we should be paid accordingly."

As it is, teachers have asked for a cost of living allowance plus a 10 percent pay increase in their original proposal. Top salaries for teachers now are at about $24,000.

The board is proposing a two percent increase and the elimination of the "step" system of raises, where a teacher is paid according to length of teaching time and professional degree.

The board's proposal is that after one more year with the step system, the board would begin paying on merit alone. Under the board's proposal, teachers would get raises according to sanctioned travel, education, teacher competency tests and other criteria.

Under the proposal, a teacher could also lose money if he or she were evaluated to be a less than effective teacher.

LeBoeuf warned that teachers will not compromise in negotiations as long as the board won't.

"The Williams thing has increased anxiety about what administrators will do. If you give them the power they use it," LeBoeuf said.

The NEA has recently filed a grievance against the transfer of NHS band teacher Robert Williams to Cooke Junior High, saying the transfer violates the teaching contract.

The NEA and board negotiating teams will meet again August 16.

Geake to serve on science board

Senator Robert Geake (R-Northville) has been appointed to the special Senate Committee on Science and Technology.

The committee will oversee the operation of the newly created Legislative Office of Science Advisor and through it familiarize itself with the scientific and technological matters which come before the Michigan Legislature. "I am very pleased to have the opportunity to serve on this special committee so that I can become more knowledgeable on some of the more technical issues before the Senate," commented Geake. "Un-

At 83, he's still on the move despite cancer bout

many years was sold three years ago. Selling that home — including Nutton's little makeshift woodshop in the garage — was not an easy decision. A lot of memories were wrapped up in it for both Don and Sally.

Sally would miss her flowers and Don, well Don found giving up his woodshop and the tools just too painful to think about.

That's when Don Bouret came to his rescue with a magnificent proposal that resulted in Nutton's "paradise on earth."

Nutton would not sell his tools but rather move them to Bouret's expanded woodshop where he could use the tools and the shop any time and any day he wished. The free-standing shop is attached to the stable at the rear of the Bouret home off Napier, opposite Green Ridge Tree Service where Bouret is an owner.

Fast friends today, Nutton and Bouret met shortly after Nutton advertised for someone to share his (Nutton's) shop and his work. In turn, Nutton would teach the person the skills of a cabinetmaker.

"A lot of people wouldn't put up with an old cuss like me," observes Nutton. Why have an old fool around the place?

"But Don and his family aren't like that at all. They couldn't treat me nicer. They let me come and go as I please. I just love coming out here in the country, away from the rat-race, and putter around the shop early in the morning. And sometimes, on Sunday morning, I go up to the house to have a cup of coffee with Don.

"He's a peach of a guy; a workhorse who is a good craftsman. He doesn't have much time to come out to the shop himself... too busy with the tree business, but occasionally he'll come out."

The setting is perfect.

But it is the woodworking, the building of a table or grandfather clock, the challenge of an intricate cut that is so totally satisfying for Nutton, who admits that without this avocation he would wither and die "as quick as you please."

Just why or how he fell in love with woodworking is a mystery.

But Nutton thinks he developed an interest about the age of five when he used to buy wood boxes — "two for a nickel" — and come home to build things.

His father was a superintendent of schools in the Kalamazoo area. Two older brothers and two sisters would grow up to become teachers.

And Don Nutton himself would have a brush with an educational career.

He was graduated from Western Michigan (University), becoming a shop teacher. He taught "for a spell" in Lapeer and Detroit, but soon (after about three years) gave it up because it was too confining. "The walls started closing in. Getting in a room filled with kids didn't leave me much breathing room," he laughs.

While teaching at Lapeer High School, he also coached baseball. Recalls Nutton: "We had a pretty fair country ball club."

Nutton joined the "balloon corps" during World War I, fully expecting some exciting assignments. To this day he's never been near a balloon. "They stuck me in the medical corps," he says, "and I became a craftsman making artificial limbs."

After the war, he took up carpentry in the Birmingham area. He was house building most of the time. He and Sally were married in 1924.

Then along came the Depression, which financially crushed the Nuttens and their two baby girls. They lost everything. "I couldn't buy work. I had to take whatever odd jobs came along, and there were very few of them. We came close to losing all hope."

Finally, while visiting Maybury TB sanitarium here (now Maybury State Park in Northville Township), Nutton's skill as a carpenter helped him to a job earning $9 a week.

"At least it kept food on the table."

He stayed on at Maybury for 30 years, eventually becoming Maybury's maintenance supervisor. He retired in 1961.

Four years later, already depressed by a bout with sugar diabetes, Nutton was stunned to learn that he had cancer.

At first he adopted a "what's the use?" attitude.

"I was walking around in a daze most of the time, not really caring what happened to me. Then gradually I got over that initial shock and started thinking straight again."

Eventually, a thoroughly positive reaction took place as Nutton became determined to lick the disease as had his wife four years earlier.

"I sure as heck wasn't about to give up my wood working."

Today, Nutton neither looks nor acts his age. He's a younger, positive thinking man, who despite some aches and pains, isn't about to sit out the remainder of his life.

"I can't wait 'til morning to go out to the shop, to smell that country air."

Don Nutton, who is going like 60 at age 83, sights down a pine board in his woodshop

Williams' grievance

The NEA is protesting that Williams was transferred without the school board giving its "opinion" and that Williams was wrongfully transferred because of extracurricular programs rather than because of a regular teaching program.

Nichols said that after discussing the issue with administrative staff he found that the NEA's protest against the method of Williams' transfer was not legitimate.

"I found that it was not a legitimate grievance on their grounds," Nichols said. "We found that the provisions in their contract had not been violated."

LeBoeuf said that Nichols told her and Williams in a meeting that Rumbell would be the best man to lead a "turnaround in the band program."

GOOD TIME FOR WINE
by Jim Roth

Wine has had a checkered history in terms of its prestige value. Since it was one of the very first alcoholic beverages consumed, for many years it was available to all. Somehow, things changed, and wine took on an aristocratic tinge. Even now, wine connoisseurs often think of themselves as people of taste, although, wine remains one of the most popular beverages. Wine societies are growing more numerous and reflects an aristocratic bent. Ceremonies of these organizations are filled with pomp and circumstances, sometimes sumptuous costumes and meals that would suit the visit of royalty.

Your meals can take on a festive feeling with a bottle of wine. To be sure you always have a complete choice, browse through our wide collection at GOOD TIME PARTY STORE, 567 Seven Mile Road, 349-1477. If you have a preference for a wine we don't have, we will special order and stock it for you. We also receive a fresh supply of lobsters every week. You can pick your own from our tank and we will explain how to cook and serve. Open: 9 a.m.-10 p.m. Mon. thru Sat., Noon-6 p.m. Sun.

WINE WISDOM:
Traveling with wine? Try to cushion the bottles, especially red wines against too much jolting.

creation of a separate Northville library does not affect the Wayne-Oakland Federated Library services enjoyed by the local library. Interloans, book purchasing and binding services will be continued with the federated system on a contractual basis, officials said.

Even if it were not important to control library personnel locally, the fact that creation of the independent local library will result in considerable financial savings is reason enough to warrant the switch, the city manager has advised.

Robert DeHoff, chairman of the advisory commission, has estimated the savings at $14,000 annually.

Besides DeHoff, other members of the existing advisory commission include Carolann Ayers, Barbara Gougeon, Shirley Davis, Louis Hopping, Dora Rubenstein and Fran Mattison.

Members of the newly created city library board, which includes only city residents, are:

Ayers, Davids, Gougeon, Lois Winter and Councilman J. Burton DeRusha.

The library, which presently is temporarily housed in the "community building" adjacent to the city hall, continues to be jointly financed by the city and township.

Research facilities are open for public use at the Schoolcraft College library

Yes, you can do your research at Schoolcraft College library

Northville scholars take note: you can use the research facilities at the Schoolcraft College Eric J. Bradner Library.

You cannot check out books if you are not a student or employee of the college. But you can make use of the excellent research facilities there.

And among the 62,000 volumes and 600 periodicals at the library, you just might find the important piece of information you need.

For example, you may discover important quotes, like "The Press is the best instrument for enlightening the mind of man" (by Thomas Jefferson in 1823) in the "MacMillan Book of Proverbs, Maxims and Famous Phrases."

In the same book, you may also stumble across not-so-vital proverbs like "It is better to appear in Hell than in the newspapers."

At any rate, whatever you wish to research, the resources available at Schoolcraft's library may be a convenient source of information.

The library periodical stacks include both obscure professional journals and popular magazines. Bound periodicals date back several decades, such as the National Geographic which dates back to 1933. Back issues of most political, scientific and educational journals are available.

On current shelves are many new magazines like Woman CPA, Today's Health and Horizon.

The New York Times is on microfilm for issues dating back to July, 1918. The Christian Science Monitor is on microfilm back to January 1962. Also on microfilm are the Harvard Business Review, Time, Newsweek, the Detroit News back to 1966 and many other publications.

The library has the New York Times, Index, the New York Times Book Review Index, Facts on File, the Dictionary of National Biography and the Monthly Catalog of U.S. Government Publications.

It has many business reference materials including Moody's Standard and Poor's, and the Thomas Register.

In addition, the library contains many more specialized reference books on city/county data, demographic analysis and, social science. It has Ayer's Directory of Publications the Encyclopedia of Bioethics, maps, atlases, pictures and recordings.

The library has the Reader's Guide to Periodical Literature and a variety of general and specialized encyclopedias on architecture, music, art, chemistry, geology and medicine.

The Schoolcraft College Bradner Library has government documents a technical documentation room which contains most government publications including the Congressional Record back to 1941. The room, which is kept locked, also contains the Encyclopedia Britannica from 1911. The library is an official U.S. Government document depository.

Newspapers from the U.S. and England are available in current and back issues. The Washington Post, New York Times, Manchester Guardian Weekly, Christian Science Monitor, Advertising Age, the Chronicle of Higher Education and the Northville Record are all available.

Although books cannot be checked out, the library stocks many specialized books which can be used for reference. The collection contains more than 62,000 volumes.

Phone books from many major cities are also available.

The library is open during the summer Monday through Thursday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. and 6 to 9 p.m. It is open Friday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. It is closed Saturday and Sunday.

Beginning in the middle of September, the library will have longer hours, from 7:45 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday; and from 7:45 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Friday. Beginning in mid-September, the library will also be open 1 to 8 p.m. Sundays.

The Bradner Library was named for President Emeritus Eric J. Bradner, founding president of Schoolcraft College.

It is located on the southwest corner of the college campus on Haggerty Road between Six Mile and Seven Mile. Parking is available on the south side of the campus.

There were none.

PUBLIC HEARING TO ADOPT THE 1978 BOCA CODE BY REFERENCE:
The City Clerk read the notice as published.

Mayor Vernon opened the hearing and asked for any comments from the audience, there being no response, the Mayor closed the Public Hearing.

He asked for comments from Council.

The City Manager explained the standard rules the City should incorporate in the adoption of the Code. He would have these for the August 8 meeting.

Motion by Councilman Nichols support Councilman Johnston to refer action to the next regular meeting on August 8.

Motion Carried Unanimously.

ADOPT AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND CHAPTER 1 OF TITLE 5 TRAFFIC OF THE CODE OF ORDINANCES OF THE CITY OF NORTHVILLE.

The City Manager explained that changes in traffic law had been adopted by the State and would become effective August 1, 1979. The City should adopt the proposed as an emergency which would require posting in three public places in each Precinct in the City.

Chief Cannon commented on the Ordinance and how it would affect the Courts. He mentioned the violator would have more options open to him, also there would be more paper work involved. He has attended a seminar and concluded with the fact that the State has mandated the Ordinance, thus the City has to adopt the Ordinance.

Motion by Councilman Nichols support by Councilman DeRusha to adopt an Ordinance to amend Chapter 1 of Title 5—Traffic—of the Code of Ordinances of the City of Northville.

Motion Carried Unanimously.

Motion Carried Unanimously.

ESTABLISH PUBLIC LIBRARY:
Communication from the Northville Library Advisory Commission re their recommendation for local staffing of the library rather than Wayne County employees and the steps necessary to achieve this.

It was recommended that a local public library be established as provided by state statute in Act 164 of Public Acts of 1977 as amended. The procedures for accomplishing this were explained. The idea of a local city library was referred to the township.

Motion by Councilman DeRusha supported by Councilman Johnston to publish for Public Hearing to be held on August 8, "an Ordinance to Establish and Maintain a Public Library and Reading Room, Pursuant to Public Acts of 1977, as amended; and to Repeal Article II, Chapter 6, "Library Advisory Commission," in the Code of City Ordinances.

Motion Carried Unanimously.

DOWNTOWN DEVELOPMENT PLAN:
Communication from the City Manager with comparison between the bond payment requirements and the revenue from the captured taxes. He explained the more positive picture since the recovery of the Northville Square tax base in 3 years earlier than projected in the plan.

Mayor Vernon read a letter from N. C. Schrader stating he would improve his three buildings if the DDA project is approved.

Mr. Dennis Spiker, 412 W. Dunlap, stated he was retired and talks to people up town. A topic of concern was where the $1.6 million was coming from. Mr. Spiker thought too much money was being spent on the DDA project.

Councilman Johnston explained about the costs and what was proposed to be built.

Mr. Spiker stated the average citizen feels he can not trust a politician. He also mentioned the fact of the people feel the parking deck was a waste of money since not too many cars park there. He stated a great many people will not believe the DDA project will not cost them any money.

Mayor Vernon explained the parking deck is not used because not enough people are coming downtown to use it. Council is trying to get people to come down to it. When downtown is vibrant again, there will not be any vacant parking spaces.

Mayor Vernon mentioned relative costs of the Wing Street and repair of the parking deck. He mentioned the City's property has to be maintained. He would hope the DDA would have the vote of the people which would make interest rates cheaper.

Mr. Spiker stated he would recommend doing the job piecemeal rather than the whole thing at once, if voter approval is not given. He mentioned his sincerity in coming to Council to talk to them.

Councilman DeRusha asked Mr. Spiker if he liked what he saw at the Main Hutton parking lot, which is a sample of the proposed DDA project concept.

Mr. Spiker answered he did. Discussion followed re the DDA and the improvement of the downtown area.

Councilman DeRusha complimented Mr. Spiker for speaking up.

Mr. Spiker asked Council to think about doing the improvements piecemeal if the G.O. bond issue is defeated in the Election.

Mayor Vernon thanked him for coming and expressing his viewpoint.

RESOLUTION RE NORTHVILLE-PLYMOUTH JOINT APPLICATION FOR SENIOR SERVICES:

Communication from the City Manager to the Township Supervisor re the Plymouth-Northville Joint Application Title II—Old Age Assistance Act and advising him that Plymouth-Canton YMCA is terminating its Senior Citizens Service Program in the Plymouth and Northville areas when funding runs out in September, and does not intend to apply under the Old Age Assistance Act, Title II.

The City of Plymouth has proposed a joint application to be filed with the Wayne County Office on Aging, on behalf of those areas affected.

The grant would be for one year, and would include no local contribution. An in-kind contribution of 10% would be required, which would be satisfied by the office and meeting facilities provided by the City of Northville.

The City of Northville along with other facilities which might be included in the program by Northville Township and Plymouth Township. Motion by Councilman Johnston support by Councilman Nichols to adopt a resolution authorizing the City of Plymouth to act on our behalf to make the application and include the fact the grant would be for one year with no local contribution of funds.

Motion Carried Unanimously.

RESIGNATION-ZONING BOARD OF APPEALS:
A letter of resignation was received from John Sanders with regret.

Council asked that a letter of appreciation be sent.

An application has been sent to Mr. Eugene Maloney.

MISCELLANEOUS:
Mayor Vernon stated a vote of thanks to Ken Harrison who is an instructor at John Glenn High School and on the Historical Society for his contribution towards the gazebo at the mill Race Village.

It was suggested that a community band might be a good idea.

Councilman Johnston suggested asking the Recreation Department about a Community Band.

EDC:
The City Manager suggested the EDC Public Hearing should be reset for the second meeting in August because of the time limits involved.

Motion by Councilman DeRusha supported by Councilman Nichols to cancel the Public Hearing for the EDC Projects, Marquis Theatre and Positivity Mainstreet (Old Mill) and hold a Public Hearing on August 20, 1979, at 8:00 p.m.

Motion Carried Unanimously.

PRELIMINARY YEAR-END FINANCIAL STATEMENT:
The City Manager explained there will be a small surplus for the year to offset the deficit of two years ago.

Meeting adjourned at 10:45 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,
Joan G. McAllister
City Clerk

Open for business

Northville's temporarily relocated public library is now open for business in the "community building" where the Northville school administrative offices were most recently housed. The building is located west of the city hall. Earlier, back in the days when the community and school used the building for recreation, the west portion of the building now housing the library was used often as a banquet or cafeteria area. Above, the stairway at the left goes to the old stage area, which the city-township recreation department hopes to reactivate. Below, transferring books are (left to right) Margaret Dawson, Vera Mapous and Val Cook. The library will move to permanent, new quarters when the new addition to the city hall is completed.

CITY OF NORTHVILLE EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

Applications are being accepted by the Northville Police Department for School Crossing Guards.

Applicants must be at least 18 years of age and the salary is $4.00 per hour.

Applications may be picked up at the Police Department, 215 W. Main, Northville, Michigan, on or before August 18, 1979.

Additional information about the position may be obtained by calling the Northville City Police at 349-1280.

SPEAKING for The Record
By BILL SLIGER

There's a lesson in determination to be learned from the council career of W. Wallace Nichols.

Wally is the dean of the Northville city council with more than 10 years of service. He has decided at a very young-looking age of 70 that he will retire to warmer temperatures when his current term expires in November.

Getting elected to the council wasn't easy for Nichols. And staying on became a chore, too.

In his first effort to become a member of the city's governing body in 1965 Nichols was defeated rather soundly.

But he continued to contribute his considerable talents as a member of the planning commission. And when Councilman Fred Kester moved from Northville in January, 1967, Nichols was appointed to take his place — until an election less than three months later.

Nichols won a four-year term in 1967, but four years later he lost out by a margin of two votes to Paul Vernon.

In 1973 Nichols came roaring back to lead the ticket and recapture a seat on the council. "I learned my lesson in 1971," he noted in his 1973 campaign. As an incumbent, Nichols lulled himself into believing he didn't have to work to gain something he wanted.

He really didn't have to campaign in 1977. Nichols was unopposed for the two-year term which he is currently completing.

So now comes November 1979 and another city council election. There's one vacancy for sure, and two other seats are up for election. There is reason to believe Councilman Stanley Johnston will run again and so will Mayor Vernon.

But as Nichols can attest, incumbency is no guarantee of election. What really counts is a desire to serve and a determination to keep trying until you win. It helps, of course, if you have qualifications and ability. Certainly, Nichols did.

Anyway, council hopefuls have from September 1 until October 1 to file nominating petitions. Then it's time for campaigning right up until the November 6 election.

Mainstreet 78 should become a reality by the fall of 1980.

That's the happy outlook for elated committee members who have worked more than two years trying to win public support for a program of downtown improvement.

Last week's whopping reversal of the February election provided the community self-help program with the important ingredient it needed: citizen endorsement.

Now Mainstreet 78 is a community effort, not simply a city council project.

It's reasonable to believe, says the manager, that surface improvements on parking lots, sidewalks, streets and landscaping touches can be completed in 1980.

In the meantime several merchants have announced plans to make major improvements in their business places.

For downtown Northville 1980 should introduce a decade of promising prosperity.

The sudden departure of Friendly Ice Cream hardly served as a dessert to the downtown enhancement effort. The nearly-new facility is for sale and most certainly will make a successful comeback.

I honestly believe that local ownership and management of any appealing business enterprise in the Friendly Ice Cream location can be profitable.

It isn't often that the non-daily press can surpass Detroit's metropolitan newspapers in on-the-spot coverage.

But the twice-weekly Eccentric newspapers certainly scooped the News and Free Press on final day coverage of the PGA golf championship at Oakland Hills.

Because the renowned facility is located in an Eccentric community (Birmingham), the Observer and Eccentric newspapers went all out. My old friend, O & E Editor Tom Rioridan, reports that their photographers took more than 300 full color photographs at the event.

They used the five best color photos in their Monday editions plus three more black and white action pictures on their sports pages.

Page one of the Eccentric and Observer showed winner David Graham being congratulated by runner-up Ben Crenshaw and hugged by his caddy in living color on the third hole of the exciting sudden-death playoff.

The Monday edition allowed O & E to match the dailies in timing, while the touch of color and overall news coverage of the event were superior.

The Record tips its hat to one whale of a reporting job. We know how hard the O & E team had to work to wrap it all up late Sunday night.

Speaking for Myself
Should gas be rationed?

CARL MCKEE

YES

A gas rationing plan should be adopted at both the national and state level. This plan should only be used during an interim period for the distribution of gas to meet the needs of people — rather than distribution based upon physical regions of the nation.

The gas plan should not only deal with the here and now, but also with preparing people for a future of economic and energy uncertainties.

To make an analogy: "Cheshire Puss," she began, rather timidly... "would you tell me please, which way I ought to go from here?"

"That depends a good deal on where you want to get to," said the cat.

"I don't much care where," said Alice.

NO

There's a saying in business, "Let the market establish itself," and that's what I think should be allowed to happen in handling our gas problems.

Instead of gas rationing, let the free enterprise system go to work.

Usually, in these matters, competition will set in and control the market in a short time.

Let's say gas goes from $1 a gallon to $2 a gallon. Station owners may discover that people aren't buying as much gas at the $2 price. Petroleum companies then would be forced to reassess the situation and bring the price back down.

It's obvious the American consumer is purchasing more gas than he really needs. Higher gasoline prices will force consumers to conserve.

"Then it doesn't matter which way you go," said the cat.

Lewis Carroll
Alice's Adventures in Wonderland
In America we seem to have the laissez faire attitude of Alice based upon our indifference toward governmental leadership during this "energy crisis."

So the government is like the Cheshire Puss — giving no clear path for the American people to follow.

The gas plan, when needed, should be done in order to allow equality of distribution and yet be flexible enough to bend with changing needs. I realize this will require some compromise between the ideal and what is possible.

Dave Larwa
South Lyon

And I say let this conservation occur through the free enterprise, competitive system. When purchasing other items, we're usually offered a price choice. You can buy a 98-cent bottle of wine or a $3.98 bottle; you can buy a house for $35,000 or for $150,000.

Let the gas market apply itself in the same way — through competitive prices. But there's only one way this will happen. The government must assure that no monopolies exist. If all the petroleum companies get together and decide when to lower and raise prices, then that's monopolistic. There must be competition, because that's the American way.

Dear Marcia:

I'm sorry, your poem was not a poem so we did not use it in our Poet's Corner.

It had no rhyme, no meter, only reason.

And the experts tell us that reason without meter is a thought without expression. Phooey on them. Your thoughts had plenty of expression.

But your poem was not a poem so we did not use it in our Poet's Corner.

Mom

I never appreciated my mother. I always led myself to believe I did, but I truthfully, didn't. I simply took for granted that she would always be there. Her face was the first thing I woke up to every morning; her hug was the first thing that greeted me after a hard day at school; and her kiss was the last moment of my day before I drifted into slumber each night.

I never appreciated the little things she did, like offering to drive both ways when a friend and I wanted to go shopping and their parents couldn't drive, or spending her last ten dollars on a new skirt for me for Susan's party because "I didn't have a thing to wear."

Sometimes my mother would make me so mad. I would think to myself, "I hate her," or "she doesn't understand me." I know that she always understood me — almost as well as I understood myself. I guess at one time or another we all hate our parents. I did — but never for more than a couple hours, until I had sulked it off, or my mom offered to buy me a sundae if I went shopping with her.

I was very close to my mother. Although we never seemed to agree on the latest styles, movies or books, we were very much alike. I could talk to my mom about almost anything. Some of my problems must have seemed so small and silly to her, but she never laughed at my tears. I could always count on her to be there — in my good times and my bad. She was a friend as well as a parent.

There were so many times when I wanted to throw my arms around her and tell her how much I loved her, but then a moment would pass, and then another and another until I had forgotten. I took for granted that she knew I lov-

News from Lansing

By R. ROBERT GEAKE
State Senator

Next month school doors will reopen. And after a lengthy summer vacation when students are exerting boundless youthful energy, one would think that they would be ready to crack their books and begin a new year devoted to studying. Unfortunately, in the past, we have seen a number of students in Michigan resort to violence and vandalism rather than to studying.

During the 1978-79 school year we saw an estimated 11,000 teachers nationwide who required medical attention after being physically attacked by their students. In one instance two students were clubbed to unconsciousness as the result of two school rivalries. In another, there was sadistic clubbing of a pig; the hanging of rabbit carcasses in school halls and letting loose a flock of chickens in the school parking lot. And the problem is not limited to urban schools. There have been increasing reports of student violence in rural schools as well.

A report released by the National Institute of Education revealed that 25 percent of American schools have experienced acts of vandalism, violence, personal attack and theft. In Michigan alone, we have received reports of such violent activities as burglary, arson, and assault of school properties.

But why? Don't students today have just about everything they could possibly need to keep themselves occupied? Besides classes all day long, there are a number of extracurricular activities students can be involved in.

What could be more aggressively satisfying than playing football, field hockey or even basketball? There are marching bands, choirs and school plays. Those in student leadership roles in the student council are also able to make themselves known or famous among their peers by just saying a few words.

So why the vandalism and who is responsible for it? In Michigan we have tried to address this problem.

A 40-member task force on school vandalism and violence consisting of educators, parents, students, law enforcement officers and legislators was established by Governor Milliken earlier this year.

The responsibility of the task force is to develop and submit recommendations for action that will reduce and prevent more school violence and vandalism and to conduct a state-wide conference on the issue of school violence and vandalism to learn and share the studies about this serious problem.

The task force has met monthly to organize itself into working committees and develop background information, conduct public hearings throughout the state and gather information and insight from experts in the field of eliminating school violence and vandalism.

The task force is divided into five subcommittees each dealing with a specific aspect of the overall problem. The subcommittees include 1) student concerns; 2) Educational Personnel Concerns; 3) Police and Security Concerns; 4) Social and Community Organizations and 5) Family Concerns.

Each committee is preparing a report with three sections including a problem statement, a description of current practices and recommendations for improvement.

Several of the recommendations that the task force is considering and may include in their report to Governor Milliken will be a requirement for every local school building in the state to have a parental community involvement council; encouragement of school districts to work with local police and courts to deal with procedures for appropriate responses to student behavior; establishing a large scale media campaign to support family and educational unity; and student evaluations of teachers, administrators, et.

When the task force meets for its state-wide conference in November they hope to come up with some solutions to the problems of school violence and vandalism. When they come up with their solutions to these serious problems, wide support in implementing them will be needed. Without our support, students may just continue to crack windows instead of their books.

Sidewalk sale ode

To the Editor:

The sidewalk sale last Saturday was something to behold.

Most of the merchandise did not remain unsold.

I never thought I would see so many folks in town.

And everyone was happy; I never saw a frown.

So let's give credit to the guys who made it a success.

The Chamber of Commerce, the firemen and police, and all the merchants in our town, no less.

And now to end the story, these guys deserve some glory.

The cleanup gang from Northville were really on the ball.

Within a half an hour there was no trash at all.

Band director issue still hot

To the Editor:

In regard to the letters over the past few weeks, it has come to my attention that the recent band issues have been combined. Issue number one: Allocating money for the music program to cover the $10,000 worth of electronic equipment and instruments stolen. Issue number two: The transferring of Mr. Williams to the jr. high and Mr. Rumbell to the high school. Did the board approve of this transfer so the public would forget the real issue, money for the music department?

As a former student of both instructors, I benefited from their diverse teaching methods. However, I am saddened to see board politics pit two of Michigan's finest music instructors against each other. Straighten out community and don't let the board's back street finagling cloud up the real problem; MONEY.

Sincerely,
Lisa Faye Raycraft
A former band member

To the Editor:

After reading two letters in last week's paper I have been prompted to write wishing to clear up some misunderstandings and state my views on the recent transfer of band directors.

In reply to Mrs. Younquist, "Graduate Band Member" was not confusing professionalism with elite. Of course if you are going to be a professional in the music field you must be the very elite. It is one of the most competitive fields. But on the lower scale, the wind ensemble is the top band in the high school. It is supposed to contain the finest music Northville has.

Of course music groups exist to serve the need of all students. And students with less ability and motivation get their chance to express themselves musically in concert and symphonic bands. If a student is in wind ensemble he/she is there to work hard, learn, and sound excellent. Why should these people who have been playing their instruments from fifth, sixth (and now seventh) grade settle for anything less than excellence?

For something so "arbitrary" as festival ratings, they sure have been doing something right at the junior high. You can't argue the simple fact. The junior high bands have consistently achieved better results than the high school. This is largely due to rehearsal techniques and hard work by both teachers and students.

There is no way in which you can compare a group effort such as a good performance at festival, to expecting students to win prizes at art exhibitions. Individually, students can, if they wish, be rated at solo and ensemble festival. Getting a I at festival is a good feeling and something for a group to be proud of such as winning a football game. But both of these objectives take hard work and hard practices. You can say they are hashing educational philosophies but are you qualified to comment on the educational abilities of both men? Have you played under both of them dear?

To Sharon Salisbury, I for one am too concerned to sign my name. Besides my right to be anonymous, I also have better things to do than sit around, provoking people, hurting feelings and making enemies. Also AI is an excellent performer. A II is listed in the official adjudicators form of the MSBOA as follows:

"Represents a good performance, but not worthy of highest rating because of minor defects in performance or ineffective interpretation. Shows much accomplishment and promise."

I think we deserve better.

To the Editor:

Many people are concerned about our school band and teacher layoffs as is evident by recent letters to the newspaper. May I offer a basic explanation of what is happening from this boardmember's point of view?

Library thanks

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Northville Library Commission, I would like to publicly thank the many people who assisted in moving the library from Northville Square to the community building. Our appreciation especially goes to Lili Grazulis, librarian, Ann Mannisto, community service librarian, Kathleen Springer and Jane Hannert, library aides, Val Cook and the Friends of the Library, the library pages, Ted Mapes and the D.P.W., Ed Kritz and the recreation department people, and the many others who gave time and arduous labor.

Please visit the library in the new, temporary quarters in the community building next to city hall.

district. The procedures contained in the union contract, although sometimes confining, are followed to the letter or the board is called to account. In case the procedure we follow is questioned a grievance may be filed and that process, also written within the contract, is followed to settle the difference of opinion.

This orderly process is what is happening now in the case of Mr. Williams. Layoff procedures are also clearly defined in the union contract and were followed to the letter as the union leader, Ms. LeBoeuf, has publicly stated.

The board can propose or change policy. The administration, headed by Mr. Nichols, follows these policies in making daily decisions in running our schools. Obviously, not everyone agrees with the decision made to resolve the problems in our band programs. I suggest we give the administration decision time to succeed or fail before we conclude it is not correct.

Sump building

Though it looks as though these Wayne County workers are building concrete block turrets, they are actually constructing sumps — the space in a sewer structure just below the outlet which picks up sediment. The tower-like objects will be placed in catch basins near the intersection of Haggerty and Seven Mile in Northville Township. The workers are currently paving the stretch of Haggerty between Seven and Eight Mile. Projected completion date is October 1.

They risk lives teaching drivers

Student cars have been tailgated, passed, jeered at and cut off by other cars, teachers said. Some cars even play "chicken" with student cars, heading straight for the student then veering off at the last minute.

"People should realize what the sign on top of the cars mean and give us a little extra distance," Lightfoot said.

How do teachers have the nerve to let the student get himself out of some jams alone but be able to grab the steering wheel in a single bound when a student is driving faster than a speeding bullet?

"You mostly rely on experience and quick reflexes to get ahold of the steering wheel if you have to," Norton said.

"We just use a kind of sixth sense," Hannewald said.

Under-confident students who grip the steering wheel with white knuckles and develop a glaze on their eyes can be taught to relax, but it is difficult to teach an over-confident student who drives like a maniac to drive correctly, Hannewald said.

"We have to continually undo bad habits some students have learned from their parents," Norton said.

Some parents need a refresher course in good driving themselves, the teachers say. "They teach their kids by their example to roll through stop signs and everything else," Norton said. "The kids can't understand why they should drive any differently." And some of the students are outraged when they flunk driver's education, they said.

Not all the kids pass driver's education, though most of them do go on to get their permits and licenses.

One student, just issued his permit, misjudged and scraped off the passenger's side door handles as he was driving into a garage to the distress of his teacher.

Still, the teachers agree that there is one thing more dangerous than teaching teen-agers to drive.

That's teaching slower, scared adults to drive. "The adults are worse," Norton said.

By the way, Norton teaches adult classes in his spare time.

Spectacular Yerkes collection goes on sale

By JEAN DAY

"We've never had anything like this before — you have to say he was an eclectic collector."

This was the comment of Frank Boos last week as the job of cataloging the belongings of the late Edmund P. Yerkes continued in preparation for an auction here beginning August 17.

There's excitement in Boos' voice as the member of the well respected Birmingham firm of Stalker and Boos, Incorporated, tells of "finds" in the home of the late attorney at 504 West Dunlap.

Mr. Yerkes, who died May 16 at the age of 72, was known to be a devoted collector of historical memorabilia on Northville, but not everyone realized the descendant of pioneering families of Northville and Novi also was a collector of paperweights, coins, stamps, Avon and liquor bottles, plates, glassware, original art — and most everything.

The Birmingham antiques firm has been sorting out Mr. Yerkes' possessions for a month. His home, to which he admitted only close friends, is crammed with bookcases and boxes, making it almost impossible to get through the rooms.

Boos and James Babcock, the firm's expert on books, as well as other members of the staff have been bringing boxes from the third floor and basement to catalog.

"And we haven't even touched the garage," Boos comments as he tells of the difficulties in sorting out items.

"He was not a sophisticated collector," Boos explains as he points out three wood "Santos" or mission church figures from South America that are among contemporary African carvings on display in the dining room.

He also points out hundreds of old bottles of liquor, still full, in the house. It's been clarified that they can be auctioned full. "They have to be worth at least $5 for the contents," he smiles.

Judy Yerkes, wife of Edmund Yerkes' son Charles, disputes Boos' assessment that her father-in-law did not know what he had.

A first cousin once-removed, Ruth Burkman, also thinks "Edmund knew exactly what he had, but he often would buy a glass reproduction instead of an antique," she warns.

Boos, whose firm handled the Dodge Rose Terrace auction in Grosse Pointe a few years ago, says this will be "slightly different" as the staff for the first time in memory isn't able to say how long the auction will go on.

"We keep finding more and more," Boos says, investigating a just-uncovered portfolio of some 100 or more pieces of art that range from a "very

They chat with Rosalynn Carter for an hour

By JEANDAY

"The White House is calling!"

Not too many people pick up the telephone and receive this message from the switchboard. But former Northville resident Steve Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. H.O. Evans of Woodhill, recently did.

The call, made to Evans at his IBM office in Little Rock, was an invitation for Steve and his wife Linda to meet First Lady Rosalynn Carter on her visit to Little Rock. She was scheduled to make a speech and receive some 3,000 people Sunday, July 22, at the state mansion of Governor and Mrs. Dale Bumpers.

The young Evanses thought that was what they were attending; so were surprised to be ushered into a room for an hour's chat with Mrs. Carter, Mrs. Bumpers, an aide and Mrs. Carter's secretary. They sipped lemonade until time for the speech when the young couple had front-row seats, Evans told his parents in a telephone recap.

The visit happened because of a friendship that began at the University of Michigan with Jonathon Kempner, now an attorney with the Washington, D.C., law firm of Sergeant Shriver. Kempner is a friend of Mrs. Carter's secretary. Now they have an invitation to visit the White House.

Columnist McWhirter's coming — twice

Detroit Free Press columnist Nickie McWhirter has agreed to speak at the opening luncheon of Northville Woman's Club October 5. She earlier had signed to appear November 8 at Northville Town Hall's sell-out season.

Glenna McWhirter, whose by-lined column under the name Nickie McWhirter is widely quoted, has promised two different talks. As has become a tradition, the Northville Woman's Club luncheon will be at Meadowbrook Country Club.

The cake does it

Take a coffee break

A coffee cake get-together is a great way for new neighbors to get acquainted. It's also a welcome break for families getting their yards and gardens in shape.

Here's a locally tested tube cake to try some Sunday morning soon.

This is the kind of cake that goes without saying is "homemade." For an ultimate touch, top it with a thin, lemon-flavored icing.

MOLLY'S COFFEE CAKE

¼ C. Vegetable shortening
¾ C. granulated sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
3 eggs
2 C. sifted flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. baking soda

1 C. dairy sour cream
6 Tbsp. butter or oleo
1 C. firmly packed brown sugar
2 tsp. cinnamon
1 C. chopped nuts

Beat together shortening, sugar and vanilla until fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Stir together flour, baking powder and baking soda. Stir into creamed mixture alternately with sour cream, blending well after each addition.

Spread half the batter in a greased 10-inch tube pan with bottom lined with waxed paper. Beat butter, brown sugar and cinnamon together. Stir in nuts. Sprinkle half the nut mixture evenly over the batter. Cover with remaining batter. Sprinkle remaining nut mixture on top. Bake at 350 degrees for 50-55 minutes.

Musical marvel built in grandmother's living room

By JEANDAY

Malcolm Manley of Northville wanted to build a harpsichord for more than 10 years — long before the current renaissance of what is being termed "early music."

He recalls talking about buying a kit to his wife Molly and son Steven, with the conversation always concluding with the statement that the $900 price tag was prohibitive.

The idea became even more appealing during the last two years as Steven was gaining musical expertise in piano technology while studying composition and theory at Michigan State University.

Then, last winter a fairy godmother in the person of Manley's mother, Esther Manley, offered to finance the venture on condition that the construction take place in the living room of her home in Plymouth. The wise 86-year-old figured correctly that in this way she would be seeing her son and grandson regularly.

By this time Manley had interested his friend, Fred Riebling of Galway Drive, in the idea.

The project got under way February 2 and more than 400 hours later was completed and on view at a July 15 "open house in honor of a harpsichord."

"It was a first for us all," Malcolm Manley recalls, saying that at times the project "scared the hell out of me."

Arrival of the kit in three separate boxes with a book-size manual for assembling was one of the times. The Manleys selected the kit from Burton company in Lincoln, Nebraska, after studying a Kit of Kits Catalogue. It stated that several harpsichord firms produced good kits.

The Manleys chose theirs partly because it has a longer keyboard. It's 37 inches wide, 83 inches long and weighs 165 pounds.

Manley ruefully adds that the manual suggested that the three-legged, keyboard instrument could be assembled in 200 hours. These assemblers are doubtful — at least if it's a first try.

"It was a terrific learning experience," Manley continues, telling of the delicate positioning of the strings.

While Manley and Riebling did the construction, Steve came home as much as possible from MSU to help. It was he who did the "voicing" of the instrument.

Manley calls himself and Riebling the mechanics of the project but says it wouldn't have been possible to accomplish without "the ear of the musician." Fred Riebling is a drafting checker at Ford Motor Company while Manley, who studied psychology, is an insurance adjuster who doesn't play piano or harpsichord and doesn't read music.

One of the handicaps, he mentions, is that the kit was written for musicians. The workers had a life-size drawing taped to the wall.

Night after night Mrs. Manley prepared dinner for the men, who poured over the instruction book, constructing the case, sound board and the hundreds of parts of the instrument.

"The authors of the construction manual tried to be funny," Manley says, feeling that the tone of the instructions was intended to keep the builders encouraged.

He admits that at times he looked at the partly completed harpsichord and wondered how he had gotten into such a project.

"We would count the pages of work we had to do and wonder if we would make it," Manley recalls, adding that "Fred was the brains of the outfit and kept going. The wine (with dinner) loosened us up. If you can survive building a harpsichord, you can survive anything."

As the instrument of birch veneer was being constructed, the Manley family continued to pour over old books, looking up harpsichords in antiquity to decide upon appropriate painting.

Molly Manley called the music custodian at Greenfield Village-Henry Ford Museum. A professor of music at Schoolcraft College was contacted.

"Actually," Manley sums up, "anything went. We decided upon rust, but they were green and they were ebony. They have been built for three centuries."

"We have pictures," Manley illustrates, "showing banding detail. Often under the lid there was a mural."

Yerkes collection goes on sale

good" 19th century Daumier piece by the French artist best known as a cartoonist to an original Dr. Snytax signed by Rowlandson and dated 1819.

But mixed in are recent reproduction prints of antique cars that are worthless.

There's also a girl done by Dali in 1942.

"We're finding coins, including gold pieces," Boos continues, mentioning a box of 100 or 150 Indian head pennies.

His most exciting find?

Boos holds up a bulbous-shaped gold faience vase dated and signed by Durand. Durand, he explains, was the founder of Steuben Glass Company and his work usually is in museums.

He also points out a Chinese vase he believes to be 1,000 years old.

A few years ago Edmund Yerkes donated an antique to the Michigan Historical Society, saying it had belonged to General Lewis Cass (1782-1866), Michigan Territorial Governor.

His family and others have been told by the attorney that it was one of five pieces of the general's. The carved-back davenport in the living room is thought to be one of the others, but the rest aren't known.

"All the furniture is good Victorian," says Boos who admires a delicate side table in a bedroom as well as the spool beds. Dining room chairs look like duplicates of those in the Yerkes House in Mill Race Historical Village. They have the carved-heart cut-out and, like most pieces, are in fine condition.

The Yerkes House in the Mill Race was named for an early relative of the Yerkes clan. Edmund Yerkes, a lawyer and Novi justice of the peace from 1935-59, was the only child of Clement C. Yerkes who lived in a farmhouse on Eight Mile. Yerkes lived there until 1959 when he and his late wife moved to Dunlap to a home ordered built by his maternal grandfather, Edwin B. Thompson.

"Here's a nice Oriental carved chest," Boos mentions as he tours a bedroom.

His firm is compiling a catalog that it hopes to have ready by August 13. It will be available at $3 in Birmingham or by mail. He stresses, however, that it will not be complete.

The firm that recently refused to conduct the Bill Kennedy auction knows that it is impossible in the short amount of time to chronicle all the house contains.

Boos confides there will be more than the usual number of bargains as the staff cannot possibly go through everything and will have to sell much by box lots.

Announcements of the sale are being made as far away as Connecticut and Ohio, the firm says, hoping to alert collectors of such items as early Playboy magazines and even erotica. The latter, Boos assesses as "good items of their type," including pictures and even gold weight measures from Ashanti, Africa. A teapot, cream and sugar have whimsical erotica spouts.

Sorters last week found a box of Christmas plates that Mr. Yerkes bought in the early days of their popularity.

Americana lovers will appreciate a pastel of a family homestead from Upper New York State depicting the white house with fence and horse and rider going by.

The auction will begin with books that include a "nice signed, limited edition by John Steinbeck and a signed Ansel Adams book on photography."

"There are good Michigan histories, illustrated books and many books on how to collect — nothing much passed him by," observes Babcock.

Because it will be impossible to conduct the auction in the house, the firm is erecting a tent in the yard for the auction which will begin at 6 p.m. Friday, August 17. There will be inspection of books an hour beforehand.

General contents will go on the block Saturday with the auction starting at 10 a.m. with an hour preview starting at 9 a.m. It will close for an hour at 5 p.m.

From 5 to 6 p.m. books again will be previewed with the book auction continuing Saturday night. Sunday preview is scheduled for 11 a.m. with the auction to begin at noon.

Boos anticipates it will continue Sunday night and into the next week.

"When you keep uncovering such things as a collection of signed Wallace Nuttings, American Indian pictures and Oriental wood blocks as well as military pictures by Ackermann, one of the oldest firms in London that has been in business 150 years, it's difficult to know how long the bidding will continue," says Boos.

Citing Rookwood pottery being placed on a shelf in the living room, Boos speculates that Mr. Yerkes would have purchased it inexpensively.

"He bought at a time when things were relatively inexpensive, and I would be surprised if he paid a $1 a vase. Today they should bring at least $50," says Boos.

Next to the pottery sitting on the floor is a gray stoneware jug with typical blue marking. "There's a basement full of them," adds Boos.

But mugs on the plate rail in the dining room are today's variety and windows are hung with contemporary sun-catchers. Paper weights that fill his desk in his office and other table tops also catch the light. "There are hundreds of them," mentions Boos.

Some are good; some are not. That could be said of almost everything the collector had. It is the reason Dr. Russell Atchison, who was a friend of the family, suggested to Yerkes' sons Charles and William, now in the service in Italy, to turn to the Birmingham auctioneers.

That's also the reason auctioneer Boos advises that "this will be an auction to come to and stay until the end."

Built harpsichord in the living room of grandmother's house

We decided in the interest of economy to forego that."

He has great praise for Henry Rasmussen, owner of Rasmussen's Antiques on Grand River, who did the painting and finally the gold banding.

"We thought we had sanded well," Manley relates, but the finisher considered their work just a start. Ten clear coats were individually sanded down before 20 color coats, each also sanded, were applied to create the professional finish.

Rasmussen also added the stretchers that make the three-legged instrument more stable. The bench received the same paint treatment.

The freshly painted instrument was returned to the senior Mrs. Manley's home where it's a center of attention in the living room.

"It's only proper," Malcolm Manley told his mother, "since you made it possible."

It also insures that Steven will be a frequent visitor. He already has composed what he calls a "quick ditty." Untitled, it imitates Bach. Before coming home from MSU for summer vacation, he combed the music library at the university, going through "tons of junk that nobody plays" to find old harpsichord music.

One piece by William Byrd, a composer at the time of Shakespeare, now is in Steven's repertoire. He doubts that anyone else is playing it today. Steven plays from memory.

kit, Steven comments, but smiles as he says, "I'd rather have this one than any other."

His attachment has grown as he has continued to tune the harpsichord. Many have a rather brittle, harsh sound also described as razor thin, but the young man has invested hours upon hours of his time in tuning or "voicing" the harpsichord with expertise to achieve the tone he wants. He is spending his summer tuning pianos to earn money for fall expenses at MSU.

The piano and the harpsichord differ, the expert points out, in that a piano has a single set of strings while the Manley harpsichord has two sets, a four-foot and an eight-foot. Either can be played by the harpsichordist to create either a thin, tinkling tone or a mellow one. The two can be combined by use of a lever on the instrument and the tone can be "buffed," dampening the sound.

Steven makes all this seem simple as his fingers illustrate the explanation, eliciting music that evokes visions of drawing rooms and formal musicales.

"Tuning," Steven observes, is supposed to reflect the composer's intentions." His seems to.

Appropriately, the Manleys have an inscription that fits the project on the keyboard in gilt block letters.

The quotation from "The Beggar's Opera" by John Gay was translated into Latin by a Wayne State University professor. It reads:

"Si Musica Cibus Est Amoris, psalle."

"If music be the food of love, play on."

It says it all.

Two local girls compete at Bob-Lo in Scottish dancing

Two Northville girls will compete in Scottish dancing competition at Bob-Lo Island on August 18.

Leslie and Elizabeth Grover, 20826 Chigwidden, will compete for trophies and medals at Bob-Lo along with about 200 other Scottish dancers, pipers and drummers from the U.S. and Canada.

The event is sponsored by the St. Andrew's Society of Detroit. The public is invited to watch from noon to 6 p.m. August 18.

Leslie, 12, and Elizabeth, 21, will dance the Sword Dance, Highland Fling and Sean Truibhas. Individual bagpipe and drumming competitions will be held, as well as a dart-throwing contest.

Leslie and Elizabeth have won many other medals and trophies but Elizabeth said this competition will be one of the biggest they have competed in.

The hardest dance they will do is the Sword Dance, Elizabeth said. Done by dancing and leaping around crossed swords on the ground, a dancer is immediately disqualified if he or she touches the swords with the feet.

The sisters will also compete in dancing of the Highland Fling, a traditional dance of the Scottish Highlands which goes back more than 2,000 years.

Originally performed only by men, the fling has been taken up by many women, many of whom are among the finest performers in the world.

The Highland Fling is said to have been inspired by the prancing and rearing of the wild stag in the forest. The dancer's upraised arms and hands represent the animal's antlers.

St. Andrews Society is a Scottish fraternal organization dedicated to fostering Scottish culture through literature, music, games and dancing. The society is 130 years old.

They're battling a killer

It's third annual bluegrass benefit

Huntington's disease is a killer. And the people who drop in for a day of fun and outstanding music at the Northville High School football field on Sunday, August 19, will be helping to fight this dreaded disease.

The event is the Third Annual Folk and Bluegrass Festival which will run from 1 p.m. until dark. Featured performers at the all-day affair will be internationally-known Josh White, Jr.,

The Michigan Consolidated Grass, Home Grown Grass, Phoenix, and many more.

Proceeds from the festival will be donated towards researching a cure for Huntington's disease, an illness that strikes down people in the prime of life.

Local Northville businessman, Tom Rice, who lost a sister to Huntington's disease, is sponsoring the event.

"During the first two years of our festival," said Rice, "we've raised more than $5,000, and we hope to do even better this year."

Rice pointed out that the festival is not just for the young although young people are encouraged to come. "We had many senior citizens and people from all age groups enjoy the outstanding talent along with the younger generation last year. We invite everyone to bring their family and friends for a day of enjoyment for a very worthy cause."

"Bring a picnic lunch and frisbee and make it a day," says Rice. "Everyone is welcome to stay and enjoy as long as the daylight lasts."

The Northville High School football field is on Eight Mile west of Center (Sheldon). Donations will be accepted at the gate. Minimum donation is $3 per person.

Museum features lace exhibit

A special exhibit showing samples of many kinds of lace is on view at the Plymouth Historical Museum through September 20.

The museum points out that lace making may be traced from primitive man's experimentation with knotting and netting to beautiful, fine needlepoint and bobbin laces centuries later.

The exhibit shows samples of crocheting, tatting, filet lace, open work on linen, embroidered lace, needle-made lace, pillow or bobbin lace and machine lace.

The museum has an Irish lace blouse, jabots worn in the early 1900s, collars and cuffs, and a fashion show of dresses from the 1800s to the 1940s.

The museum, located at 155 South Main in Plymouth, is open from 1-4 p.m. Thursday, Saturday and Sunday. Admission is $1 for adults; 50 cents for youths 12-17; 5-11.

Special educational tours may be arranged in advance by calling 455-8940.

New legislators take stock

Looking over first six months

Dillingham

"The opportunity for me to get my feet on the ground, politically," is the way State Representative Fred Dillingham (R-Fowlerville) described his first session in Michigan's House of Representatives.

Dillingham, whose district covers most of Livingston County, said his biggest asset in going into his first session in Lansing, was his ability to listen to the debates on the House floor, and not get involved unless he has something to say that is well thought out and prepared.

"You get a lot of new reps in here who can't resist the temptation to get out of their seats and give their opinions in front of the rest of the House. Most of those guys have not taken the time to organize their thoughts before they get up there and open their mouths."

"What happens to new reps who do that day in and day out is that their credibility becomes severely undermined because they say the same thing every day. After a while, no one listens anymore. When it gets to that stage, the rep either changes his ways or begins to think that state politics is really not his bag anyhow."

Dillingham, who professes to aspire to higher office, said the way to achieve the most influence in the House is to listen and watch the older, seasoned representatives at work.

"Some of these reps have been here for 16 years or more and know how to go about taking care of business. They get their proposals passed quickly and with the least debate possible."

"After I was elected last year, I figured it would be to my best advantage to watch these guys at work and see how they accomplished as much as they did."

The results of his observations have been an appointment as Minority Vice-Chairman of the House Mental Health Committee, a position on the Affirmative Action Committee and increased respect from his colleagues in the House, Dillingham said.

The Fowlerville native said that respect was initially hard to come by since he had succeeded powerful Representative Thomas Sharp, a 16-year veteran of the House.

"The reaction I got from the guys who had been here for several years was 'Fred who?' Many of them wondered if I had the experience to take over from Sharp. But I think I've proved, after six months of hard work, that I can handle the job."

Dillingham, a former Livingston County commissioner, began his career in the Michigan House as a page boy at age 13. His interest in state politics began to grow as he came to understand the ins and outs of the House.

As page, Dillingham did "anything and everything" for the representatives. He performed a lot of menial tasks, including licking and stamping thousands of envelopes, and attending hundreds of meetings where he was able to "pick up a lot of information on how the system works."

His first public political challenge was issued to a group of representatives whom Dillingham was acquainted with. At 13, he told the legislators that he would run for and win Sharp's seat if the Republican floor leader ever decided to retire. Fortunately for Dillingham, the prediction proved to be true.

FRED DILLINGHAM

Pierce

"In all reality, I'm the poorest doctor in the state, and I'm not too happy about that. In fact, this is the first job I've had in years that has any type of retirement benefits."

State Senator Edward Pierce, a licensed physician, looked to be truly sincere as he commiserated about his present financial status.

Pierce, widely described as one of the more liberal members of the Michigan Legislature, said that although his economic situation has worsened since he quit his practice to enter politics, he is unsure whether he would do it all over again if he had the chance.

"To tell the truth, I don't know. I imagine if I had a chance to do it all over, I would probably still choose to enter politics. But I just don't know. It's not too much fun being poor."

Pierce, whose district covers

Washtenaw and part of Livingston County, spoke about his perception of the Michigan Senate after serving his first session, his past and about his plans for the future, both politically and personally.

"I entered politics in response to the times. I was involved in the anti-Vietnam War Movement, the civil rights struggle and the anti-poverty movement. I found I had a skill as a physician that could help in these causes, so I thought I would apply that skill. I'm not sorry I made the decision to enter politics, but it has been a very costly decision — both personally and professionally."

Pierce founded Summit Medical Center in Ann Arbor in the late sixties, which was a rather unique approach to medical services. Instead of charging standard rates for treatments, Pierce adopted a "pay as you can afford to" principle in running his clinic. His patients included both the well off and the very poor, who received medical care at Summit that they could not afford elsewhere.

"At Summit, however, I probably was just putting band-aids on when surgery was needed. What I mean by that is that although I was able to help people with their immediate health problems, I was unable to do anything about their lifestyles, which was the reason for a lot of their health disorders."

"I hope as a state senator, I will be able to do a lot more to improve the lifestyles of the type of people I treated at Summit. Poverty and all its ramifications can cause a lot of problems, both mentally and physically, for those who must live in it."

Pierce first began his political career by serving on the Ann Arbor City Commission. In 1976 he lost a bid for a seat in the U.S. House of Representatives to Carl Pursell, by 250 votes, in what turned out to be the closest congressional race in the country.

Pierce began his Michigan Senate career last November when he defeated William Colburn by a wide margin and became the first Democrat to represent the 18th Senatorial District in years.

The Ann Arbor native said he plans on dividing his second session in the Senate into three main parts. The first would deal with changing current Medicaid laws, the second would involve housing for the poor, and in the third Pierce plans on taking "a good hard look" at the state-supported institutions in his district.

"I'd like to be able to set a month by month period for each issue I plan on dealing with in this next session, but I know that could very well be impossible. In any case, I do plan on dealing with these three issues, and hopefully producing some meaningful legislation on each."

Although he has not ruled out future participation in national politics, Pierce, 49, said he was primarily concerned with state-wide issues, since "most of the laws that govern our day-to-day behavior are state laws."

Pierce proposed to offer financial incentives to people who receive Medicaid treatment if they frequent relatively inexpensive neighborhood clinics instead of hospital emergency rooms.

"A lot of recipients simply take their kid to the emergency room and it costs the state $50 to attend to the kid's earache. If the recipient had taken their child to a doctor's clinic, he might have been able to receive the same treatment for $10 or $20. It might not sound like much of a savings, but added together it comes to a considerable amount."

As far as the issue of low-cost housing is concerned, Pierce would like to see legislation that would promote a

DOUG ROSS

EDWARD PIERCE

Ross

In his first six months as a state senator in Lansing, Doug Ross said he has attempted to achieve a balance between his desire to handle constituent concerns, and his need to acquire enough influence in Lansing to "make things happen."

One without the other just does not get the job done, Ross said. But being at both are very time consuming, the most effective politician strives for, and obtains a balance between the two, which enable him to become "effective and informed."

"I've continued my practice which started in my campaign to go to virtually every door in my district and introduce myself to my constituents. I've also held several town meetings in this area, which I feel have been very informative and beneficial to everyone who has attended."

"These town meetings give people a chance to voice their concerns and find out how I plan on taking care of their problems. I also maintain an office in Farmington Hills which I support out of my own expenses and money obtained in campaign contributions. Having an office like that really opens me up to my constituents."

Ross said he has developed a "plan to make this vote in the Senate mean something." He said his plan is centered on establishing citizen committees which provide him input into pending legislation.

"I've gone out of my way to seek out people who can give me the kind of expertise I should have, but can't afford. I've found that if you know how to go about it, you can get that kind of knowledge for free. People are willing to serve on these committees because they feel they are getting a direct voice into the legislative process."

Ross currently has three operating committees, one on mental health, one on senior citizens and one on nuclear power. Participation in all three committees has been very active to date, Ross said.

The Oak Park native has also set a goal of talking to 10,000 constituents in the next few months while the legislature is on summer recess. He also plans on re-visiting several of the groups he talked to before he was elected, in order to establish a "continuity between myself and the people I represent."

The worst type of politician, according to Ross, is one who only visits his district when election-time rolls around.

"The way I look at it, the people who live in the 15th Senate District are my employers, and I feel I owe them something for hiring me."

Ross said he intends on informing people as to where they can find him, and how to use him and his office to take advantage of the services they are paying for. One way he will attempt to do this is to invite everyone within his district to a coffee house before his four-year term is up.

"I'll accomplish this by sending out invitations to about 500 households at a time. The invitation will include the time, place and reason why I would like to meet with my constituents. Not everyone will attend, of course, but at least by the end of four years, I'll be able to say that all my constituents have had a chance to meet and talk to me."

Ross said he will become effective within the senate by taking the time to fully understand each problem he handles before he brings it to the full senate.

"Right now I'm like the new kid on the block, but that will change with time. It is not my goal to make a lot of speeches before the senate simply to get my name in the newspapers. I intend to demonstrate to my colleagues that I know what I am talking about when I get up to address them."

"In that way, I can best gain the respect I will need to accomplish the goals I have set for myself."

One of those goals is to reform current senate rules of procedure, Ross said. Another one is to enact a "sunset law" in Michigan which will require that programs be re-evaluated throughout the state before they are funded each fiscal year.

Ross would also like to see the implementation of instant property tax relief in Michigan, which would allow residents to collect their property tax credit along with their income tax refunds. Also, the passage of the Wetlands Bill sponsored by Senator Kerry Kammer is very important to Ross.

"Fortunately, Western Wayne County is not totally a paved-over parking lot. And the passage of Kammer's bill would help to assure that it never becomes one either."

Ross, a former director of Common Cause, the powerful citizen's lobby, said he intends to succeed in his efforts to force the Senate to "clean up its act."

"I've met a lot of resistance in the senate, partially because I beat out a member of the club, and partially because I have some hostility from some of the older members. One of them, Basil Brown, threatened to punch me in the nose the minute he set eyes on me in the senate."

One thing that helped Ross to adjust to the Michigan legislature is that he had some political experience under his belt before he became a senator.

"I knew how this legislature worked. I was not a babe in the woods. I've worked in the U.S. Congress, and I've worked here before I was elected, also."

"With the experience I've had, and my desire to succeed in what I set out to do, I feel confident that I can become one of Michigan's most effective state senators."

Although he said he "never intends to get involved" in national politics, Dillingham has left the door open on higher state office.

"I think that since the majority of legislation affecting Michigan is passed within the state, that my future is tied to state politics. I might somewhere down the line decide to run for Governor or Secretary of State, but as of now, I just cannot imagine myself pursuing a career in national politics."

In order to increase his effectiveness within the state, Dillingham has decided to remain working in Lansing throughout the summer recess. He plans on utilizing the summer months to catch up on office paperwork which has piled up due to his involvement with the state appropriations bills, which were last on the legislative agenda.

Dillingham also plans on using the recess to get "more in touch" with his constituents in Livingston County.

"I feel the only way for me to do a good job in Lansing is to be in constant contact with the residents of Livingston County. If they don't tell me their feelings and opinions on different issues, there isn't any way that I can adequately represent them in Lansing."

"That's why I'm planning on working through the recess. Our office receives about 75 letters a week, and at least a hundred phone calls, which I have not been able to answer due to the appropriations bills. However, I will now be able to get back to each person and try to deal with their concerns."

To Fred Dillingham, being successful in establishing himself as a force to be reckoned with in Lansing, and as a politician who does not turn a deaf ear on his constituents' concerns, is the prime reason he sold his successful hardware business and became the 51st District Representative.

Pierce

change in the current manner such housing is constructed.

"When you put up a low-cost project, it seems you always build them in the same area, so you have severely, economically deprived people all grouped together. This in itself, causes a lot of problems for all of us. I think it's time we begin to build housing for the poor in scattered areas around the city."

"This would improve the attitudes and have a definite effect on the financial status of the poor in the long run," Pierce said.

The Senator would also like to begin an investigation into the state-run institutions within the 18th district to determine if similar conditions exist that have been documented in the Plymouth Center for Human Development and Northville State Hospital.

"I don't want to cause a lot of fuss, but I would like to inspect the care given to residents of similar institutions in my area. As a doctor, I'm naturally concerned for their welfare. And as a legislator, I feel I can now do something to improve conditions through legislation."

Whatever legislation Pierce decides to pursue, his unique combination of physician and legislator should make him an interesting and probably very effective politician in the years to come.

Chris Jordan, owner of Brighton's new Create-a-Cake Shoppe, displays an elaborate wedding cake decoration complete with lighted waterfall.

CREATE-A-CAKE SHOPPE, at East Grand River and Old U.S. 23 in Brighton is a hobby that grew into a new business for owner Chris Jordan.

She started with a cake decorating class out of curiosity and graduated to creating extravagant wedding cakes for special orders, one serving 400 guests.

Many newcomers to the area she met in her job as new accounts clerk for the First National Bank Brighton branch, asked about where to get cake decorating supplies, Ms. Jordan explained. So she decided the area needed such a specialty shop. Ms. Jordan continues to work part-time at the bank.

"A lot of people were going as far as Livonia for supplies," she said. "I didn't realize the demand."

The new shop offers liquid and paste colors, sugar and candy molds, wedding cake top pieces, books about cake decorating, and a full line of Wilton products.

Classes in cake decorating will also be offered at the Create-a-Cake Shoppe, starting the third week in September, with both day and evening hours. Times will be announced later.

Summer hours are 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Tuesday through Friday; 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., Saturday; closed Monday. Telephone 227-3672.

WINNER of the second $100 shopping spree in Northville Plaza Mall is Gordon Gruenwald (above) president of Industrial Distributors on Eight Mile in Farmington Hills.

The drawing was held on Friday, June 20, in the mall corridor. Present to select the winning entry was Margaret Tegge, first deputy clerk of Northville Township.

Gruenwald had one surprise after another, since he was also a winner that same day of a contest sponsored by radio station WPON. All business men were encouraged to send in a business card. The winner would be awarded a dozen donuts. On his card Gruenwald wrote, "I've got the coffee on. Send the donuts!"

Soon after the call from disc jockey "Ron" at WPON, the call came from Dave Pottinger, co-owner of Northville Vacuum and Appliance, reporting Gruenwald's winning Northville Plaza Mall entry. He must have felt, "When you're hot, you're hot!"

The third and final drawing will be held Friday, August 17. "If you have not entered, hurry on down to any merchant in the mall. Like Gordon Gruenwald, maybe you're due for a 'lucky day!'," a small spokesperson said.

Mr. Don Y. Main, chairman of the board of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Livingston County, has announced that Mr. Wilfred H. Erwin was elected to the new position of vice-chairman of the board of directors at First Federal's 23rd annual meeting held July 25, 1979.

Mr. Erwin was one of the local business people who was instrumental in starting First Federal and has served on its board of directors since its inception in 1957.

Re-elected to the board of directors at the meeting were James F. Boyd and David L. Bredernitz.

Other staff promotions and assignments announced at the meeting were Mr. Alfred J. Sliwinski, assistant vice-president and branch manager Pinckney branch, Mrs. Helen Skates, director of business development; Miss Theresa Glover, assistant branch manager, Pinckney branch; and Mrs. Nancy Finch, administrative assistant.

SOUTH LYON PRINTING opened July 1 at 22930 Pontiac Trail, next to Nugent's Hardware. Owners are Dave Smith of Livonia and Ken Voigt of Belleville, who work as printers at the Ford Data Distribution Center at Dearborn.

The firm prints job work, business forms, business cards, and wedding invitations as well as T-shirts in bulk quantities.

BETTY HOYE, a Northville resident, recently has joined the organization of Kelman, Levitsky and Rollins, P.C., certified public accountants. It is a small established public accounting firm located in Southfield.

The firm is the accountant for the co-owners of the Old Mill Restaurant and Coney Island, soon to be renamed "Positively Mainstreet."

Hoye was graduated this spring from Michigan State University with a B.A. degree in accounting. She lives in Lexington Commons on Clement Court with her husband and two sons.

Modernized Memorabilia

Do you always know what
You do with each line?
I asked the Artist —
He added yet another
Bold red stroke to gold,
Smiled, turned his back
To my world; to know

Those bars apart, to make
My pen become his brush...
Trying not to say and say 'the old.'

Tomorrow's Hope

Sometimes we ride the night, lonely if no one is present.
Fog creeping in to take over dreams.
A battle comes to meet with the spirit within a web of unfulfilled hope...
knowing the earth is sometimes a home waiting to be released unto peace... untied to freedom...
yet we sit back, too, realizing tomorrow is new...
fresh...
and night may not fall so bad...
to await this...

Sports

A future at the Indy 500?

By JIM HAYNES

Brian Steinhebel is a race car driver. He has competed in races around the Midwest and has won a number of trophies and ribbons. Brian Steinhebel is also a student, at Meads Mill Junior High School in Northville.

Steinhebel, 13, races quarter midgets. These little buggies are like James Bond go-carts in design. Although the engines are only 2-5 hp (horsepower) and usually travel only 30-40 mph on the average, they are equipped with safety and handling features that make a go-cart seem Neolithic in comparison.

Quarter midgets have a suspension system for steering as opposed to the rigid axles of go-carts. The cars have metal roll-bars and protective bumpers. Each driver must wear leather gloves and jackets, helmet, seat belts and harness strap and the drivers aren't allowed to have gum or candy in their mouths while racing.

Brian's father, Keith, works as his son's "handler", or translated; mechanic, coach, strategist and inspiration. Even Brian's mother Joyce gets in the act. She helps raise money for quarter midget racing by working in the concession stands at the Oakland County Sportsman's Club race track.

"It's a family affair," Keith said. "We race every Tuesday evening and on weekends we sometimes race out-of-town. We make it a family outing."

BLACK BEAUTY—Brian Steinhebel (right) holds his quarter midget race car up for a better view of it. Brian is a two year veteran of the race circuit which includes not only Michigan but Ohio as well. Quarter midgets aren't as fast as go-carts but are designed more for safety than speed. With roll-bars and rubber bumpers and a fluid suspension steering system, drivers trade the thrill of acceleration for the pace of mind that if there is an accident, chances are they won't be hurt.

FAMILY AFFAIR—Shelley, Brian, Keith and Joyce Steinhebel (below) are proof that quarter midget racing is a family affair. Brian races the car while his father Keith is his 'handler' or mechanic/strategist. Brian's mother Joyce helps out by working the concession stand at the Oakland County race track and his sister Shelley gives moral support. With campgrounds near each race track, the Steinhebels make racing a weekend activity, one they all enjoy.

'Rollerball' our future?

I saw "Rollerball" on television last week. It was more than a movie. It was a vision of what sports and our society could blend into in the near future.

For those who didn't see it last week, and missed it when it hit the big screens a couple of years back, "Rollerball" is a film that depicts the earth in the future, a future that seems frightening, yet familiar.

Instead of countries, the earth is composed of six corporations. There is no poverty anymore, no hunger or want. Everything is provided by the corporations. Marriage is an institution that was abolished during the Corporation Wars years in the past. Partners are intermixed random and the concept of lasting love is as antiquated as automobiles.

In a world of "perfect" peace such as this, there has to be an outlet for the baser human emotions that even the corporations can't control. This outlet is rollerball.

Imagine Attila the Hun and the Hell's Angels doing battle with Charles Manson and a squadron of kamikaze death pilots, all on roller skates, and you have some idea of what the sport is about. Based loosely on the principals that governed roller derbies of the past, rollerball players wear spikes on their gloves and each team has a motorcycle that is used as a weapon in battles on the boards.

A large metal ball is shot along the circular wall by a cannon-like machine. The teams vie to catch it, circle the track a few times, and try to slam-dunk it into the goal-mouth. Like pinball, when a goal is scored lights flash, bells ring and the crowd goes wild with excitement. The best goal scorer in rollerball history is Jonathon E.

Because he is the best, the corporations hate him. They invented the game partly as an outlet for the populations' emotions, and, since it is the only sport in existence, can be used to show that no one person is better than a team, that individualism just can't work, that the corporate concept of teamwork is what makes the world go round. That's how they devised the game. And it worked until Jonathon E came along.

Jonathon is the O.J. Simpson-Mohammed Ali-Mickey Mantle of rollerball. He scores all of his teams goals and without him, they are merely average. Before the corporations realize it, the population of the world adopts Jonathon as a hero. As an individual his heroics on the rink send shivers of rage up the spines of those who run the corporations. So they decide to eliminate him.

When he refuses to retire, they try to get rid of him by changing the rules of rollerball. Instead of legalized mugging and assault and battery, the rules are changed to allow fights to the death. Specifically, no substitutions and no time limit. The two teams "play" until there is nothing left of an opposing side. These rules are changed just in time for the world championship.

The changes are made with the hopes that Jonathon will either retire and play it safe, or play and get killed. He chooses to stay with his team and play. He is, after all, an individual and no silly corporation can tell him what to do.

The game goes on and before long the rink looks like the shores of

Ask the expert

Dear Expert,

I've been working out with weights now for about six months. I can really see some development overall, but I'm having trouble shaping up my mid-section. What exercises are good for that area of the body?

A. S., Walled Lake

If it's just fat tissue, a high protein/low carbohydrate diet may be all you need. However, here are four exercises you can do that should help. Situps with your knees up as close to your body as you get them; leg raises (legs straight, bring them up and over your head while lying in a prone position on your back); side bends with a five-pound weight (hold the weight in one hand, put your free hand behind your head and lean sideways to the side of the weight and back up. Do a set of these and repeat using the other hand); kickbacks (sit on the edge of a bench and straighten your legs out in front of you. Now draw them up to your chest, bending your knee.) If you've been working out for only six months, don't let it bother you that you haven't seen any progress in your mid-section yet. It takes more than a few months. It takes years. Good luck and stick with it.

Steve Johnson, bodybuilder

Wheelers beat Lab

Jocks stay on top

Doc's Jocks maintained its dominant hold on Northville's Women's League with wins over E.D.M. Special Tees and Sheehan's Little Caesars. The Northville Lab, only two games out, was held up in its bid to catch the Jocks when the team split its two contests, losing to the Choo Choo Water Wheelers but beating Joe's Little Bar.

DOC'S JOCKS 25,
EDM SPECIAL TEES 5
Doc's Jocks scored nine runs in the first inning, seven in the second, three in the third and six in the fourth to defeat EDM 25-5. The Tees scored all five of their runs in the third inning. Cindy Martin hit a home run and a single and knocked in three runs to lead the winners. She scored three times. Tina Angelelli and Leslie Nadeau also hit home runs for the Jocks. Lynne Sylvestre and Kathy Phillips each had three hits. Sylvestre scored three times and Phillips twice. Annae Belton had two of the six EDM hits. She scored once.

NORTHVILLE RECORD 11,
DAVE'S TRIM SHOP 8
The Record scored once in the first, three times in the second, seven times in the third and then hung on to beat Dave's 11-8. Trim Shop scored twice in the third, once in the fourth and then mounted a five-run rally in the fifth inning in an effort to catch Northville. Lorri Stanford smacked three hits for the Record and Judy Orr hit a triple and a single to score three times. Judy Higbee and Susan Bello each had two hits for the winners and each scored twice. Jodi Gatteri hit two triples and knocked in three runs to lead Dave's. Linda Justice had three hits and scored three times.

NORTHVILLE LAB 29,
JOE'S LITTLE BAR 4
Cindy Martin hit a home run and a single, was safe on errors twice and hit into a fielder's choice play to lead the Lab to a 29-4 win over Joe's. Martin scored three times and knocked in five runs. Laura Bruke hit two home runs for the winners and knocked in six runs. She also scored twice. Denise McDermid and Colleen Brewer each hit a triple and two singles for the Lab. They scored four runs apiece. Joe's scored all of its runs in the fifth inning. Karen Marzoni hit a three-run triple for Joe's.

CHOO CHOO WATER WHEELERS 6,
SHEEHAN'S LITTLE CAESARS 2
The Wheelers scored five runs in the first three innings to beat Sheehan's 6-2. The winners added their final run in the sixth inning. Sheehan's scored once in both the fourth and seventh innings. Mary McKnight and Sheila McIntosh each scored twice for the Wheelers. Kim Nichols hit a double and a home run to knock three Wheeler runs in. For Sheehan's, Pam Metz hit a home run in

Keith and Brian Steinhebel look over the engine of race car

... Racing

There are campsites at the race tracks and we love to camp. We get to travel and meet a lot of people, we're not stuck in one place."

Brian got into quarter midget racing two years ago. He started in the novice class, as all beginners, regardless of age, must do. He won 12 trophies and various ribbons at tracks around Ohio and Michigan. This year, with a new car and a year of experience under his belt, Brian jumped up to the heavy-modified class. The heavy refers to Brian's weight, which is over the 95-pound limit for the light-modified class. Brian has only one trophy in this class. The competition and skills of the drivers are a bit more intense than in the novice class.

"I bought a car and engine from a club member whose boy got too big," Keith said. "The price was right so I took it." Keith does most of the modifying of the engine. There are strict modification specifications that the teams have to follow. These are set by the Quarter Midgets of America, a national group that may hold its 1980 Grand National for quarter midgets at the Oakland track.

The track is a standardized 1/20-mile oval. The cars have inflated tires on the right side for making the ovals banks easier. A novice has to drive at least five races to be eligible for a higher class. The other classes are junior and senior stock, modified or B and AA. The B and AA classes are allowed to burn alcohol in their engines for more horsepower.

There is only one other quarter midget track in Michigan and that is in Lansing. In order to race at the Oakland facility, the driver's family must be a member of the Oakland County Sportsman's Club. And there is a fee to join the Quarter Midgets of America. Combined, Keith estimated, the cost is under $100. But the cars are somewhat expensive.

"A good, used stock car can run from $400-500," he said. "It depends on what's for sale. A friend of ours at Oakland just bought one for $125 from a family that has been trying to get rid of it for two years at a higher price. Why, the engine alone is worth more than that."

As for Brian, he is learning a great deal about mechanics while having a lot of fun at the same time. "I'm learning a lot about engines and about driving," he said. "You're more alert as a driver because of accidents on the track. You have to be on your toes."

If anyone has any questions about quarter midgets, such as how to purchase one, or what the whole racing business entails, call Keith Steinhebel at 349-4613 in the evenings and he will be glad to answer questions.

"I'd like to see more quarter midget races out of Northville," he said. "But before someone considers buying one, I'd advise them to go to a race or two just to be sure the kid is really interested. It's a lot of money to spend and then have the kid lose interest."

With dreams of the Indy 500 going through their heads, how can kids lose interest?

Sheehan's tops race

The Blues continued to dominate the American League as they stretched their unbeaten mark to 14 games last week with a 14-11 victory over Rizzo Real Estate. In the National League, Sheehan's Little Caesars has a two-game hold on first place with Custard Time/Culter Realty following close behind.

THE BLUES 14,
RIZZO REAL ESTATE 11
Gerald Dettler hit two home runs and Bill McDonald hit one to lead the Blues past Rizzo's 14-11. Rizzo jumped out to a 3-1 lead after the second inning, but the Blues picked up six runs in the third to go ahead. They added two runs in the fourth, three in the fifth and two more in the sixth inning. Rizzo picked up one run in each of the third and fourth innings, four in the fifth and two in the sixth. Dettler had a single and a walk besides his two home runs and scored three times. Jim O'Brien added two singles and a double to score twice for the winners. Charles Johnson hit two home runs and a double for Rizzo's. He scored three times. Jim LaPlante had three singles and scored once for the losing team.

WINNER'S CIRCLE 12,
RIZZO REAL ESTATE 11
Rizzo scored six runs in the seventh inning to tie the game at 11-11. Winner's Circle then came back to score a run in the top of the eighth to break the tie. Rizzo got one runner on with one out in the last of the eighth but he died there as the next two batters went down in order. Bob Gerlach led Rizzo with three singles and a triple. He scored twice. Keith Trumbull hit two singles and a triple and also scored twice. Jeff Moon hit a three-run home run for Winner's Circle. He scored twice in the game. Stand Nirider had two singles and a double for the winners. He scored twice.

SHEEHAN'S ON THE GREEN 7,
JOHN MACH FORD 5
John Mach Ford scored four runs in the sixth inning to wipe out a 3-1 Sheehan lead. Sheehan's answered in its half of the inning with four runs of its own to re-take the lead 7-5. That remained the final score as Ford failed to score in the top of the seventh inning. Nick Hamp hit a home run, a triple and a double to lead the winner's attack. He scored three runs and drove in three. Paul Wren hit a double and a single for John Mach. John Mach added a two-run single for the losing team.

LONG-ZAYTI 14, SPICER TOOL 10
John Sinclair hit a home run and two singles to lead Long-Zayti past Spicer Tool 14-10. He scored twice and knocked in four runs. Larry Michalak had four singles while Bill Sinclair had a double and a pair of singles for the winning team. Joe Watson hit a single and a double while Roland Tarrow and Bill Puckett each hit two singles and scored once.

SHEEHAN'S LITTLE CAESARS 7,

Stingers keep title

The Northville All-Stars softball team, defending champions of the Nov 4th Annual Invitational Softball Tournament, successfully defended their title in the 5th annual tourney last weekend.

The All-Stars, many of them 17- and under members of the Northville Stingers Traveling League softball team, went undefeated in four contests to win the tourney.

The All-Stars beat Walled Lake 6-3, Novi 14-1, Jake's Harley Davidson 11-3 All-Stars 8-7. Northville's Cindy Martin was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player while she and two other Northville players were named to the tourney's all-star team. They were Kim Kurzawa and Kathy Phillips.

Northville's Annette Isom was named as co-home run queen for the tourney along with Walled Lake's Margaret Grubb. Each hit two home runs. Garden City placed second with a 2-1 record. The team had a bye in its first match. In all, six teams took part in the tourney. They were Northville, Garden City, Novi, Walled Lake, South Farmington and North Farmington/West Bloomfield.

Open swim closed

Open swimming for the summer is no longer in session. The pool has been closed until September for cleaning.

There will be a regular commission meeting on Wednesday, August 15 at 8 p.m. in the community center.

Registration for fall recreation soccer is on a waiting list basis now.

Call the rec department at 349-0203 for more information.

Women's slow-pitch softball playoffs will take place on August 24, 25 and 26 at Thomson Field. Co-ed softball playoffs will take place on August 18 and 19 at Thomson Field.

The rec department is looking for persons who have Michigan Athletic Association Referee cards or experience as volleyball referees for the winter rec volleyball season. The pay is $10 per match.

If there is anyone interested in men and women's basketball and men's touch football, call the rec department at 349-0203 for information concerning fall leagues.

EASY RIDERS—David Behrstock, Starr Droogker and Cathy Palmer (l-r) are on their way to California. The trio started out from New York City a month ago and have given themselves another three months to reach San Francisco. All three are from New York but Palmer's mother is a Northville resident. They stopped here for a week's rest and resumed their journey Monday. All three have just been graduated from high school and decided to have an adventure before starting college.

Trio on route to 'Frisco

By JIM HAYNES

They sit in Cloverdale's amidst the hustle and bustle of a sunny ice cream summer day, world weary travelers, relaxed, used to fielding questions from curious townspeople.

Starr Droogker, 17, tall and reddish-blond, looks like a Rod Stewart clone in cut-offs. He answers questions quickly, looking at his companions as if to gauge their reactions to his answers. Every now and then he bends over to look out the window; a visual security system monitoring their bicycles, a habit ingrained after too many stops in too many small towns like Northville.

David Behrstock, 17, with long dark hair and a far-away look in his eyes as he thinks before answering a question. He is a quiet one, looks at the ground as he forms his reply in his mind, goes over it mentally before testing it through air, and finally, answers.

Cathy Palmer, 18, tall and willowy, straight brown hair to her shoulders with almond eyes and a quick smile, eagerly answers questions but takes a quiet back stage when the boys talk. Whether this is from habit, convenience or just experience, she seems more comfortable when Starr or David do the talking.

Who are these people? Where are they going? Those are some of the questions that kids and reporters asked them as they sat absorbing sundaes and chocolate chip mint ice cream cones at Cloverdale's Monday.

"I'm from Brooklyn," Starr replied. "I'm from New York City," said David. "I'm from all over," Cathy answered, "but right now I'm from New York City also."

All three are on their way via 10-speed bicycle across America. From New York City a month ago to California within the next three months, these three just-graduated high school seniors decided to take a year off before attending college. And what better way to take up part of a year than to bike your way across the country.

"Our basic destination is day to day," said David. "We wake up in the morning and decide where we want to go. We're trying to develop a pattern where we get to our destination in half of a day so we can take the rest of the time off to see some things."

"We hope to end our trip in San Francisco. Starr wants to go to Washington State, so we may go there and then take a course down along the coast to Frisco. That's supposed to be very pretty."

"Most of our friends are going to school or working," Starr said. "We wanted to take a year off first. Our destination is San Francisco as we have friends and relatives there."

"We've been very lucky with the weather. We only got rained out one night. I've had a few flats but we each carry a couple spare tubes and patches."

And how do three friends in school, used to secure surroundings, get along after a month on the road? "We're getting more familiar with our ins and outs, our individual tendencies," Cathy said. "Overall we get along."

"We've set a budget of $45 for the three of us per week with $1 per day per person personal expenses," said David. "We end up eating ice cream cones all day and not much of anything else."

"We're bored with our pace, not with our trip," Starr said. "Our best so far is 170 miles in two days, with 120 of those coming in one day. We stay anywhere, campgrounds, fields, with people if they'll put us up."

"Campgrounds are a luxury," Cathy said. "They have showers and we usually don't stay there unless we start to feel too grungy."

"The worst part was Ontario," Starr said. "All the dogs in Canada are big and they all came after us."

How did their parents feel about the three later-day Lewis and Clarks trekking off across country?

"Our parents felt that 'we might not think it's a good idea, but there's nothing we can do to stop you'. They're not perfectly thrilled with the idea but they support us," David said. "My parents wanted me to call home every other day. I do call home, but not quite that often."

And what would their advice be to someone who has similar ideas of bike travel? "Get a motor," Starr said with a smile, "and take more money than we did."

"I think that a person should plan very well before they go," David said. "Know where you're going and how to get there."

"Don't do what we did to get in shape," Starr said. "And that was to load up the bikes and ride around the block twice the night before we were to leave. You can't get in shape that way."

One thing is for certain. When these three finally pull into San Francisco, they'll be in shape. Oh yes, how are they going to get back? "We are going by train," David said. "That way we can stop where we want to for a week and ride our bikes in one location."

Nets hold record

The 1976-77 New Jersey Nets made history of a sort that year when they put together for the first time in NBA history an all left-handed lineup. Tim Basset and Al Skinner were the forwards, Robert "Bubbles" Hawkins and Dave Wohl were at guards and the center was Kim Hughes.

Hughes set an infamous record the year before when he rewrote the record books for free throws. He made only 19 of 69 attempts for a mediocre .275 shooting percentage, the lowest in NBA history for an entire season. The most accurate free throw shooter in NBA history is Rick Barry. He has a lifetime percentage mark of .893 for 11 seasons.

Ted St. Martin gave a demonstration of free throw shooting that has yet to be equalled. On June 25, 1977, he scored 2,036 consecutive free throws in a demonstration.

SUE CAHILL

Cahill swims in Sportsfest

Northville's Sue Cahill competed in the recent national Sports festival sponsored by the United States Olympic Committee, taking two second-place finishes and a third.

Cahill, 17 and a senior at Northville High School, finished second in both the 200-meter I.M. (Intermediate Medley) and the 400-meter I.M. She placed third in the 200-meter fly. Cahill was competing against other swimmers from the ages of 14-21, college athletes as well as high school swimmers. Cahill was a member of the Midwest swim squad, which defeated the three other regional teams to take first place in the competition.

Cahill, who this summer has swam for the Cincinnati Pepsi Marlins, one of the top AAU swim teams in the country, was named this year as a 1979 All-American high school swimmer by the National Interscholastic Swimming Coaches Association. She will next swim at the AAU Senior Nationals on August 15 at Ft. Lauderdale.

Meadowbrook on top

The Meadowbrook Country Club swim team, coached by Dave Seagraves, won its fifth consecutive Suburban Inter Club Swimming Association league title Saturday, August 4. The Birmingham Country Club, Pine Lake Country Club, Bloomfield Open Hunt, Forest Lake Country Club and Orchard Lake Country Club are also in the league.

Times for Saturday's events were senior 200 medley relay (Kevin Knight, Sally Schueler, Paul Peterson and Kerry Hall) 2:04.5; girls 52-yard free relay (Trisha Settles, Jo Smith, Wendy Sayre and Amy DeMattia) 2:02.3; senior 200 free relay (Ron Bonantz, Karen Petersen, Dave Uzelac and Amy Edwards) 1:52.7; 25-meter backstroke (girls 8-and-under) Susan Settles, 20.7; 50-meter backstroke (girls 12-14) Jo Smith, 30.6; 50-meter backstroke (boys 15-17) Kevin Knight, 29.7; 25-meter breaststroke (girls 9-10) Angela Harrison, 20.0; 25-meter breaststroke (girls 13-14) Trisha Settles, 39.5; 25-meter breaststroke (boys 13-14) Mike Weber, 35.2; 25-meter breaststroke (15-17 girls) Sally Schueler, 36.4; 25-meter breaststroke (boys 15-17) Paul Peterson, 31.4; 100 I.M. (boys 13-14) Mike Weber, 1:08.6; 50-meter fly (boys 15-17) Paul Peterson, 27.4; 50-meter free (boys 11-12) Jay Weaver, 30.5; and the 100-meter free (boys 15-17) Kevin Knight, 56.9.

Northville Blue returns

The Northville Blue, this area's entry in the Sandy Koufax baseball league, returned from regional play in Birmingham, Alabama recently. The team had earned the right to represent this region by finishing first in its division. In Birmingham the Blue were knocked out of competition after three games.

The Blue went up against the Birmingham team first and took a 13-8 win. Willie Newman had two hits in the game and knocked in two runs. Andy Dimitroff and Leo Lanigan each knocked in two runs also.

Right after that contest, the Blue were packed into a van and hustled off to another field where it was their misfortune to face one of the top teams in the tourney, from Atlanta, Georgia. The Blue played valiantly but lost 6-3.

The next day the Blue had to go up against the eventual winner of the tourney, Dayton, Ohio, and lost to them 8-4. Dayton then beat Atlanta for the regional championship.

"We played good but lost," coach Jim Newman said. "We didn't hit that well as we only averaged six hits per game. It was very hot there and we had the misfortune of facing the top two teams in the affair one after the other. The game against Atlanta was close. We led 3-1 going into the fifth inning when they

This story about a softball team that should have stayed home was reported recently in Sports Illustrated. It turns out that there is a California women's softball team that calls itself Animal Power. Whether its members are jinxed or their bio-rhythms just warped-out on this particular day is open to conjecture. Consider what happened to them.

Debbie Young, the team's second baseman, was warming up prior to Animal Power's game with the Budweiser Brewers when she was scored four runs to win."

Dave DeMattos hit .500 to lead the team in that category. Mark Kormanis and Willie Newman each hit .300.

"The trip was just a great experience for the kids. They got a chance to play against their peers from across the country," Newman said. "If we're lucky and have another good season, maybe we'll go back next year."

On the field again, a Brewer smacked a ball to Young at second, but the ball popped out of her mit and hit teammate Doreen Baker in the face. Plyler, a nursing mother, felt enough discomfort that she had to leave the mound to go home and feed her 3-month-old daughter.

Budweiser won the game 10-5 after the contest was called in the fifth inning. The words printed on the back of Animal Power's jerseys are THE RIGHT TO SURVIVE.

Tennis practice starts

All girls interested in trying out for Northville High School's tennis team should be at the high school tennis courts on Wednesday, August 15 at 3 p.m. Uta Filkin is the coach and if you have an questions, call her at 349-6697.

Cards for physicals can be picked up at the high school office. They should be completed by a doctor and returned to the office as soon as possible.

Colts practice set

Final registration will take place for the Northville/Novi Colts football program on Saturday, August 11 at the First Presbyterian Church on Main Street in Northville. Registration will take place between 9-11 a.m. for boys between the ages of 9-13. There is a 130-pound weight limit. The football season will begin on August 13.

Stingers take second in traveling league

The Northville Stingers, this area's entrant in the Inter-Lakes Girls Slow Pitch Traveling League, swept a doubleheader from Fairlane Friday night to secure second place in the league standings. The two wins raises the Stingers' season tally to 16-6. South Farmington has wrapped up the league title with an 18-3 mark with one game to go.

Northville took the first game of the twinset 10-0. Julie Abraham hurled the shutout. The Stingers opened the game with three runs in the first inning. Judy Orr was safe on an error, Kathy Phillips singled, Kim Kurzawa was safe on an error, and Abraham delivered a double that cleared the bases.

In the third inning Orr led off with a single and came home on Phillips' home run.

Northville picked up three more runs in the fourth inning as Sue Russell was safe on an error, Annette Isom hit into a fielder's choice play, Cindy Martin singled, Orr singled and Phillips hit a ball that the pitcher bobbled, then threw away.

Five straight singles by Isom, Martin, Orr, Kurzawa and Cheryl Stasak provided Northville with two more runs in the sixth inning.

The second game was an extension of the first. Abraham allowed just the one Fairlane run to score while Northville scored eight times.

Cindy Martin opened the first inning for Northville with a walk. Orr was safe on an error but was erased when Phillips hit into a fielder's choice play. Kurzawa then hit into another fielder's choice, eliminating Phillips from the base path. But Abraham and Stasak both hit singles to follow, driving Martin and Kurzawa home. Abraham scored on Stasak's hit also.

The third inning saw two Stingers score. Phillips singled to lead off. Kur-zawa and Abraham then followed with singles to load the bases and Stasak delivered a two-run single to make the score 5-0 for Northville.

Martin singled in the fourth inning and went to third on Orr's double. Phillips then drove both runners home as she hit a double.

In the sixth inning, Martin again led off with a single and was eliminated as Orr hit into a fielder's choice play. Phillips then singled and Kurzawa followed by knocking Orr in with a single.

On Friday Northville and Novi were involved in a rain-out/forfeit contest. Northville coach Roger Stasak said that the league president has awarded the Stingers the game as even though the regularly scheduled umpire failed to show, there was a qualified off-duty umpire in the stands who Novi didn't allow to take over because he played on the same Co-ed League team as the Novi coach. League playoffs begin Friday in Garden City.

This year there will be just men's and ladies' doubles. The first two matches will be on Saturday and the last two rounds will be on Sunday.

Morning matches will begin at 9 a.m. Participants should report to the Northville high school courts at 8:45 a.m. on Saturday.

inning, two in the third and three in the fifth to down Green's 7-4. The Carpenters scored twice in the third inning and once in each of the fifth and sixth innings. Jim Overby smacked two doubles and a single to lead the attack for Sheehan's. Paul Steckley and George Borth each scored twice for the winners. Ted Moharonoff and Butch Kuptz each scored second-inning runs for Green's.

SHEEHAN'S LITTLE CAESARS 19, JAYCEES 10

Little Caesar's scored twelve runs in the last two innings to come from behind and win 19-10. The Northville Jaycees were ahead 10-7 when Sheehan's came to the plate in the bottom of the sixth. Stand Tarnowski was a superman for the winners as he hit three singles and a home run, scored three runs and knocked in eight. Rob Phebus hit a single and a triple and added a walk as he scored three times. Don Phillippi hit a home run for the winners. Ron Barnum, Jim Hepler, Alan Kinnelly and John Cranias each scored twice for the losing team. Kinnelly hit a home run.

NORTHVILLE PLAYERS 11, OLV 7

The Northville Players pushed nine runs across in the third inning against OLV last week and that proved to be the brick that broke the team's back. OLV scored once in the second inning, four times in the fifth and once in each of the sixth and seventh innings. The Players scored once in the first, nine times in the third and just once more, in the seventh, to win 11-7. Steve Harmon had the big blow for the winners as he powered the nine-run inning with a bases-loaded triple. Carl Harmon had a two-run double while Mike Horvath banged out a double and a single. Bill Brielmaier hit two singles and a triple to lead OLV. He scored once. Paul Freiwald added two singles to the losing cause.

BREWHOGS 9, ST. PAUL'S 6

The Brewhogs scored in just two innings, but it was enough to beat St. Paul's Lutheran last week 9-6. The Brewhogs scored three runs in the second inning and six runs in the third. St. Paul's drew blood twice in the first inning, once in each of the third and fourth innings and twice in the sixth. Bill Norton and Rusty Kemp each scored three times for the Brewhogs. Norton had a triple and a double and was safe twice on errors. Kemp added two singles and was safe on a fielder's choice play in the third. Ed Maas had three hits for St. Paul's and scored twice. Reginald Carveth added a single and a double to the Lutheran tally. He scored once.

Sokalexis is namesake for Cleveland club

Ever wonder how the Cleveland Indians baseball team got its name? Probably not. But just in case you're wondering, here's the story.

At the turn of the century there was a baseball player who was tearing up the local leagues in Maine. His name was Louis Sokalexis and he was an American Indian. He belonged to the Penobscot tribe.

Baseball scouts from the big leagues got wind of the young man and soon one team, the Cleveland Spiders, decided to give him a shot in the big leagues. And he was spectacular. His play and leadership abilities soon made him the top player on the team. The Cleveland management, in honor of Sokalexis' contributions to the team, eventually renamed the club the Cleveland Indians.

Sokalexis was the first American Indian to make it to the major leagues. He died when he was 42.

... 'Rollerball'

Two Jima. Bodies and burning motorcycles are lying in heaps around the rink. Through the smoke a lone figure can be seen clinging to the rail on one side of the oval. Jonathon. On the other side of the track is an enemy motorcyclist and a companion. The crowd is silent.

The enemies attack. Jonathon calmly breaks one man's neck and knocks the other from the bike. As the crowd watches in silent fascination, Jonathon, with hands around the fallen man's neck, stands and lets him live. He finds the ball, skates to the goal and scores. His team wins 1-0. The corporation man is having epileptic fits while the crowd begins a chant that is echoed throughout the world ... Jonathon, Jonathon, Jonathon...

A fantasy? A nightmare? Reality? Surely not, you say. Maybe, I say. The true meaning of sport has long since given way to the attraction of violence. The average man never experiences violence. Except for childhood, when was the last time you had to fight to protect yourself? And when was the last time you had to fight for your life? Blood and guts are like Playboy bunnies and profits. Few ever get to really experience them. That's why television is so popular. All of the violent fantasies we have can be actualized through as close to real-life as possible through the movies and programs on the tube. The only other alternative to real violence (war is not included because that is violence that is forced on us, not a form of recreation the sports fans crave, or a safe fantasy like a movie for the average Joe) is sports.

The modern athlete is a gladiator. Sure hockey is a thrilling sport and the battle to score goals is action-packed and exciting. But watch the audience's attention really perk up when the players toss their gloves and go at each other. You could almost see the crowd's thumbs turn up or down like the ancient Romans did.

Football is organized violence. The more explosive contact there is the more fans there are. Car racing is a mixture of high speed and constant danger. While baseball isn't violent like the other sports, there is a hint of danger at standing in to face Nolan Ryan with a howitzer arm ... who is known to be wild occasionally. Athletes are gladiators and we live our danger-filled fantasy lives through them. They are paid exorbitant fees to live the violence that we only dream of.

As for corporations, who runs this country, the government or the oil companies? And where is it leading to? Do you think it will ever go back to the way it used to be decades ago? Do you think our situation changed overnight? Of course not. Today is the result of a long progression of events and tomorrow is an extension of the same. Business, through the government, is dictating our lives more and more. The days of the rugged frontiersman who carved America out of the wilderness and was not affected by the fledgling government much is long, long gone.

I wish sometimes that there was an island I could go to be alone. Travel to Canada and carve my own space from the wilderness. But it would be fruitless. The population is increasing geometrically on the earth and today's forest is tomorrow's shopping center. As long as business can give us money and ways to spend it, the corporation nightmare that is "Rollerball" can very well become a reality. And as long as people crave violence then today's sports will be "Rollerball" in disguise.

Long-time farmer dies at age 89

ORVILLE H. VANSICKLE

Service for Orville H. VanSickle, a retired farmer and livestock dealer who began farming in the area more than 50 years ago, will be held at 10 a.m. Thursday at Casterline Funeral Home, Incorporated, with the Reverend Guenther C. Branstner of First United Methodist Church of Northville officiating.

Mr. VanSickle, who was 89 years old on March 23, died August 5 at Botsford Hospital. He lived at 45640 Twelve Mile in Novi.

When he first came to the area about 1925, he lived in Salem on Six Mile near Currie. Later he moved to Seven Mile and Napier on property that became the LeMaster farm. For a time he operated a large farm at the northeast corner of Ten Mile and Wixom roads. Later he began hauling livestock by truck. He worked for a time, too, in the automobile industry in Detroit, staying active until 1976 when he suffered a back injury.

He was born in South Dumfries, Ontario, Canada to Emery and Martha S. (Tansley) VanSickle and was preceded in death by his wife Marie in August, 1961.

He leaves two sons Orville E. of Novi and Donald W. of California, two brothers Nelson of Westland and Park of Garden City, two sisters Mrs. Isabelle DeWitt of Redford and Mrs. Jessie Wolfrom of Westland, 11 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren. He was preceded in death by one son.

Interment is to be in Oakland Hills Memorial Gardens.

PERRY McLEAN

Perry McLean, who moved to the area six years ago from Fairhaven, Michigan, died unexpectedly August 3 at his home at 33919 Novi Road in Novi. He was 80.

The Reverend Lloyd G. Brasure of First Presbyterian Church of Northville officiated at the service at 10 a.m. Monday at Casterline Funeral Home, Incorporated, in Northville. Interment was in Forest Lawn Cemetery in Detroit.

Mr. McLean, a World War I veteran, was retired from Motor Products, a firm that used to operate downriver. He was born February 25, 1899, to Archie and Rose (Stonehouse) McLean. He was preceded in death by his wife Marie in 1975.

He was the father of Jack McLean of Northville. He also leaves six grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

EDWIN HANCOCK, Sr.

Edwin Hancock, Sr., of Plymouth Township, a retired auditor of passenger accounts for the New York Central Railroad, died August 4 at Presbyterian Village. He was 88.

Service was held at p.m. Tuesday at Ross B. Northrop and Son Funeral Home in Northville with interment following in Maplehill Cemetery in Mullett Lake, Michigan.

Mr. Hancock had been a life member of Waverly Lodge No. 517, Free and Accepted Masons. He was born May 13, 1891.

He leaves daughters Janet Gerrish of Plymouth Township and Jean Clark of Rockford, a son Edwin A. of Plymouth, a sister Alice Gorton of Macon, a brother William of Birmingham and 14 grandchildren.

LUDWIG BERNARD KLADES

Ludwig Bernard Klades, a Northville resident for 50 years who lived at 513 Rouge, died August 3. Funeral service was held at 11 a.m. Monday at Ross B. Northrop and Son Funeral Home with the Reverend Victor F. Halboth of Grace Lutheran Church officiating.

Interment was in Bethlehem Cemetery in Ann Arbor.

Mr. Klades had been a planning engineer with Ford Motor Company for 40 years before he retired.

He was born July 1, 1908, in Illinois. His wife Louise B. preceded him in death in 1978, as did a son Maurice L. Higenmaster in 1965.

He leaves two daughters Mrs. Altha I. Braun of Baldwin, Michigan, and Mrs.

Phyllis Wagner of Brighton, seven grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

LEONARD E. KEITH

Memorial service for Leonard E. Keith, 80, of 15709 Haggerty in Plymouth, was held at 2 p.m. Sunday at First Presbyterian Church of Northville where he was a member.

Mr. Keith, who had been ill for the past year, died August 2 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor. An area resident for the past 30 years, he was a retired tool and die maker from American Screw Products.

The Reverend Lloyd G. Brasure officiated at the service. Interment followed in Evergreen Cemetery. Arrangements were by Casterline Funeral Home, Incorporated. It is suggested that memorials may be made to the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

Mr. Keith was a member of the Northville Senior Citizens Club and the Creditors Association of Plymouth.

He was born November 15, 1898, in Chicago to Leonard and Lillian (Barnes) Keith.

He leaves his wife Ellen; a son, Leonard E. Keith Jr. of Kinnelon, New Jersey; a daughter, Mrs. Jean Sunden of Park Forest, Illinois, and three grandchildren.

Police Blotter

Cadillac sought in hit and run

Northville police are investigating an apparent hit and run accident which occurred August 2 on Eight Mile near Lanthorn.

Elizabeth Budry, 55, of South Lyon told police that she was driving her car westbound (going the speed limit) when her vehicle was hit from behind.

She said she did not see what hit her car and saw no vehicle after the collision.

Police found a number of items in the road where the accident allegedly occurred, including a piece of clear glass lens with a Cadillac emblem, pieces that appear to be from the front grill of a car, and a broken, yellow plastic lens.

Gray or silver paint was discovered on the victim's car bumper.

Because of the evidence gathered police believe a gray or silver 1977 Cadillac is responsible for the accident. Local bump shops have been notified.

A dollar bill change machine was broken into August 6 between the hours of midnight and 4:30 a.m. at the Foundry Flash, 456 Cady, police reported.

A torch had been used to cut the padlock off and the machine was emptied, police said. The amount of money taken is not known.

There was no evidence of forced entry to the building, police said, but an employee discovered that the lock on the gate to the maintenance area had been pried off and a torch head was found missing.

Propane tanks which could have been used in the torching were found near the vending machine. None of the other machines appeared to be tampered with, police said.

A 55-year-old Redford woman was ticketed for making an improper turn following a traffic mishap August 3 on Northville Road, township police reported.

A vehicle driven by Alice Duvall was traveling southbound on Northville in the left lane. The driver attempted to make a right turn and hit a car traveling southbound in the right lane, driven by Mark Waynick, 17, of 18293 Jamestown.

No one was injured in the accident and the vehicles' damage was minor, police said.

Township police are investigating the apparent arson of a parked car August 3 on Scenic Harbor near the Pulte developer's office.

Police and fire fighters responded to a call concerning a house fire, but when they arrived found a 1975 Pontiac Firebird completely engulfed in flames.

No license plates could be observed, police said.

The owner was identified as Russell Knight of Southfield. Southfield police later report the car was reported stolen.

The resident caller claims to have heard a car racing up and down the street just prior to the fire, police said. But he did not see a car or persons in the area.
