TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

Make up delay

Delayed initially by late delivery of concrete and steel, the library construction at the city hall is rapidly gaining speed, leading the contractor, Felker Construction, to predict that it will be able to make up lost ground. It is quite possible, said City Manager Steven Walters, that the original late December or early January completion date can still be met. Presently, workmen such as Brian Brunt, an employee of subcontractor Wally Korsorski, are putting up the framework. While construction of the city hall addition goes on, the library is being temporarily housed in the community building immediately west of the city hall. The library was moved recently from Northville Square (see in the picture above). Photos by Dan Guido.

Firm seeks franchise

City studies cable TV proposal

Already under study by the township, a proposal for cable TV is now being investigated by the City of Northville.

The city council, after hearing an outline of proposal by Omnicom of Michigan, has referred the matter to City Attorney Philip Ogilvie who will be meeting with legal advisors of other municipalities approached by Omnicom.

Specifically, Omnicom seeks a 15-year, non-exclusive franchise with the city that would permit it to install and operate a cable TV system here.

John Raines, Omnicom president, and Jeff Dorn, vice president of sales and franchising made a pitch for the franchise at last week's council meeting.

"As soon as you grant the franchise, we will commence building the system within six months," said Dorn in a letter to council. He told The Record the system would be here in '86 months.

Omnicom already has secured franchises from the City of Plymouth and from Canton Township, the men said. It has requested franchises in the townships of Plymouth and Northville, and it plans to seek franchises in Novi, Livonia and Farmington, they told council.

Their aim is to develop a cable TV system covering the entire western Wayne County area.

Omnicom is "joint venture" of Hoarty & Raines Associates, Inc. of Toledo and the Black Hawk Broadcasting Company of Waterloo, Iowa. Black Hawk, council members were told, is the financial investor in the venture.

Omnicom has no operation cable TV systems at the present time. The system here apparently would be the first, although its executives have experience in managing cable television operations.

"Initial plans call for construction of a cable network utilizing leased space on power and telephone poles and capable of delivering 36 channels of broadband communication services," said Dorn. "In keeping with the latest state-of-the-art technology, the system will have two-way interactive capabilities, thereby allowing interconnection to school, municipal buildings and other institutions within the entire city via the cable system."

Omnicom would rent utility poles,

Decide soon on transfer of Williams

By ELLEN SPONSELLER

The Northville Board of Education will hand down a decision on the grievance of Northville High School band teacher Robert Williams August 20 after a board sub-committee reviews the facts of the case, the board decided Thursday night.

Williams and Northville Education Association (NEA) President Barbara LeBoeuf appeared before the board at a hearing Thursday. Superintendent of Schools Larry Nichols and approximately 40 members of the public also attended.

The hearing was the next step in the grievance procedure for Williams. He is protesting an involuntary transfer from Northville High School (NHS) to Cooke Junior High. NHS Principal George Aune and Nichols have both turned down the grievance in recent weeks.

If the board denies the grievance, the NEA and Williams will take it to binding arbitration, LeBoeuf said.

The personnel sub-committee of the board met last night to review the grievance with input from Nichols and Aune. Both Williams and LeBoeuf were on call.

The personnel committee will draft alternatives to the full board. The board will write a single decision, to be presented at the regular board meeting August 20.

Sitting on the personnel sub-committee are: President Karen Wilkinson, Vice-President Marjorie Silger and Trustee Richard Barron.

The section of the teacher's contract that was grieved is part of Article 11, section C. It states: "When, in the opinion of the board, an involuntary transfer is found to be necessary..." The rest of section C reads: "...a teacher will be consulted and notified in advance of the transfer. Volunteers will be considered first."

"It is incumbent upon the district to show why this transfer was necessary and unavoidable," LeBoeuf told the board Thursday night.

LeBoeuf and Williams argued that the transfer was in fact not necessary because Williams, a 22 year veteran teacher here, has consistently had positive teacher evaluations.

LeBoeuf read out loud last year's evaluation, written by NHS principal George Aune.

Williams told the board this year's evaluation contained only good comments. "I was not given one direction to improve. The evaluation was supportive and complementary," he said.

In addition, Williams told the board that he was not "consulted and notified" of the transfer in advance but was taken completely by surprise. He also said the board violated the contract by not soliciting volunteers for transfer first.

"The contract clearly says the teacher shall be notified and consulted in advance," Williams told the board. "I was called into Dr. Burton Knighton's office on a Friday morning at 8:30, given a cup of coffee, and was told I was transferred...To this moment I do not know why. At the very least, I should have been consulted beforehand. I need to see you people do justice," he said.

"It is clearly the burden of this board to answer the NEA and Mr. Williams. It has not been done," LeBoeuf said. "An individual not only deserves to know why this is happening, but if he is doing wrong, he should at least be given a chance to correct it. If he is not doing wrong, he should not be forced to change assignments," she said.

While board members made no decisions at the hearing, many members did agree that the board has delegated responsibility for staff assignments to Nichols.

"The contract says 'when in the opinion of the board an involuntary transfer is found to be necessary...'"

Surgery appears successful

Doctors, prayers may have saved his hand

Things are looking up for Todd Nadeau.

Doctors are "very pleased" with the progress he has made since a second operation Friday. He can move his fingertips and the circulation in his hand is good, Mrs. Nadeau said Tuesday.

The 18-year-old Northville youth, whose right hand was severed August 7 while he was cleaning a machine at Belanger's Inc., in Northville, described himself as being "very confident" and in good spirits during a telephone conversation with The Record.

Doctors removed two veins from his legs and inserted them in his hands during the seven-hour operation Friday, as well as doing some skin grafting and other tissue repair. They say it will be a few months before Todd will get any feeling in his re-attached hand but they are very happy with his progress so far, Mrs. Nadeau said.

Doctors credit Jim Belanger, president of the manufacturing company where the accident occurred, with the apparent success of the hand re-attachment.

"Doctors said that something kept that hand alive," Mrs. Nadeau said. "They say that it was a very big plus when Jim took the proper steps to preserve that hand when the accident occurred," she added.

Larry and Joan Sheehan, friends of the Nadeaus, held a mass on the front lawn of their home on Bloomcrest in Northville Friday evening, when Todd was undergoing surgery. Some 100 people attended and offered prayers, Mrs. Nadeau said.

"A lot of faith and a lot of prayer helped the doctors," she said.

One of the doctors on the team which worked on Todd said that Todd may need additional surgery to repair damaged nerves and tendons, Mrs. Nadeau said, but he wasn't sure when it would be done.

Todd has received numerous cards and letters, which Mrs. Nadeau says has helped keep him in good spirits.

His basketball coach from Catholic Central High School has visited Todd a number of times as have many other friends.

Todd says that he still has some pain at times, but he is sleeping well now and can't wait to go home.

Louese Cansfield

Ex-publisher keeps on 'getting the job done'

Suddenly thrust into the publishing business upon the death of her husband, this home ec major met the challenge with the same quiet determination that typifies her life 30 years later.

Today, two months short of her 79th birthday, Louese E. Cansfield continues to "get the job done" in a variety of organizational activities — especially those dealing with her church, the First United Methodist Church of Northville.

Her husband, William H., was publisher of The Northville Record when he died of cancer in 1948, leaving his widow to care for their two teen-age children and to manage the newspaper.

His death, though not unexpected, hurt Louese Cansfield terribly and left her with an emptiness that she has never gotten over. But she refused to cave in to despair.

Because Mr. Cansfield had known of his terminal illness, although short in duration, he was able to smooth the path for his wife. Before he died he arranged to have his brother, Arthur, a school principal in Bay City, assist Louese in publishing the paper. He also provided financially for the education of his two children.

Despite the fact that her husband had been in newspapering for years, Mrs. Cansfield says she was ill prepared to assume the publisher's role.

"Without him (Arthur) and without the dedication of The Record staff I wouldn't have been able to do it," she says today. "I didn't mind managing the editorial end of the newspaper but I just wasn't any good at managing the business. Arthur would come down on weekends to help straighten things out."

Born in Vassar but raised in Lapeer, she spent two years at UCLA and her final two years at Simmons College where she earned a degree in home economics in 1924. A year later she was married.

The Cansfields met through relatives in Lapeer. A native of Howell, Mr. Cansfield took his bride to Howell where he served as postmaster — the youngest postmaster in the state at the time.

There were two newspapers in Howell — one Republican and the other Democrat. Ironically, Mr. Cansfield, a rabid Republican, bought into the Democrat. Eventually the two papers were merged, forming today's Livingston County Press. He was editor several years and was very active in the community, serving as the first president of the Howell Rotary Club.

In February of 1939, Mr. Cansfield purchased The Record from Richard T. Baldwin and later that summer the family moved to Northville, living for a time in a house on Rogers and then, later, moving into the Dunlap Street house that would be their home for the next 30 years.

The Cansfields' two children, Helen and William, grew up in Northville — both graduating from Northville High School. Helen became a journalist, but now assists her minister husband and cares for their four sons in Florida. Like his sister and their father, the younger William graduated from Albion College and now serves as assistant superintendent in charge of curriculum at Grand Haven.

Louese Cansfield has six grandchildren. Mr. Cansfield owned The Record during the lean war years. Financially the going was rough, recalls his wife. Advertising, a newspaper's lifeblood, was scarce.

Despite the meager revenue coming in, William Cansfield contributed much of his newspaper to non-profitable war efforts. Near total pages were devoted to stories, pictures and letters about military personnel from Northville serving throughout the world.

There were stories about the war, about scrap drives, rationing, paper drives, fat collection, "V" mail, bond drives, victory gardens, and a host of other war related activities in the community.

Although she was not active in the business, Louese Cansfield was familiar with the operation and its personnel. Often her husband would bring home his troubles and discuss them with his wife, seeking her advice and support.

Thus, upon his death, she was not totally unaware of either The Record's personnel or the newspapering operation. So in relatively short order she was assuming a management role, despite admitted shortcomings.

Looking back on it now, she says simply and matter-of-factly, "The job had to be done, that's all." She had no time to feel sorry for herself; there was just too much to keep her body and mind occupied. She managed a business, a home and kept up her own organizational activities.

Her daughter, then a freshman at Albion, continued with her schooling and her son, a junior at Northville High, went on to graduate.

"Thank goodness for the people who worked there (at The Record). They're the ones that kept it going, not me. I just offered a little advice now and then."

Among the staffers Louese Cansfield recalls with special fondness were Eleanor Breitmeyer (now society editor of The Detroit News), who together with Barbara Defina, handled the news desk, while Taylor Ball served as advertising manager and S. H. Robinson managed the newspaper shop.

"Eleanor really grew up at The Record," she smiles proudly. "She told me once that had she not been able to work summers at the paper she would not have been able to complete college."

"Of course you know that one of the long-time employees of The Record and a very dear friend was Hazel Boyden, now one of my neighbors."

Later, Helen Cansfield joined The Record news desk.

Three-and-one-half years after she assumed the publisher's role, with the assistance of her brother-in-law, Mrs. Cansfield sold The Record in 1952 to Glenn H. Cummings, and N. W. Hopkins, both of whom are still residents of Northville Township.

(It was from Cummings that William S. Sliger, the current publisher, purchased the paper in 1956).

"I was really ready to sell," says Mrs. Cansfield. "Neither I nor Arthur (Cansfield) were comfortable in the newspaper business so when Mr. Cummings approached me about selling it was really a blessing."

Mrs. Cansfield gave up the business, but not her devotion to the community and to the organizations for which she has worked since arriving here in 1939.

Now, although some days "can be pretty quiet with very little going on," she is still going like 60. She may not be quite as active as she once was but she nevertheless is still a contributor.

She is a past president and life member of the Northville Woman's Club, has served and continues to serve in church groups (she was once conference president of the Methodist Women's Society for the eastern half of Michigan), is past president and member of the Northville Historical Society, and she continues with special fondness her work with the King's Daughters, a charitable, non-denominational organization.

Now a resident in an apartment on First Street (she sold her Dunlap Street house 10 years ago), she says her hobbies are those things that keep her busy — church work, baking bread and knitting for the King's Daughters... "and, oh yes, a good novel now and then."

Usually you would have to tie up your savings for years to get a dividend that begins to compete with inflation. And it seems it would take years to save the amount needed for one of those fancy $10,000 Money Market certificates. Until now you've had to content yourself with choosing between long-term savings accounts or low dividends. But if you consider yourself a serious saver, you'll welcome this news from your credit union.

NOW YOU CAN EARN THE SAME DIVIDEND RATE IN 3 YEARS AT YOUR CREDIT UNION THAT BANKS AND S & Ls PAY IN 4.

Look at the charts above and compare: with a Community Federal 3-Year Certificate you can earn the same or HIGHER DIVIDEND for LESS TIME. Now you have greater flexibility to plan your savings and to save for the things you want to buy. And before you know it, you've saved the amount needed for a 'fancy' money market certificate. The maximum rate on Certificates is determined monthly by the U.S. Department of the Treasury. The rate you are quoted the month you purchase is paid for the term of your 3-Year Certificate. Dividends are compounded quarterly and the term and minimum balance, like most credit union savings certificates, are designed for the serious saver who isn't rich. So if you've got money that's "just sitting" in a bank or savings and loan, bring it to your credit union. Our 3-Year Certificate is just one of many savings programs that can help you beat inflation.

Hogs championship

Jon Visnyak of 5855 West Nine Mile grabbed the reserve championship with his 235 pound hog in the market class with 45 hogs in the competition. Member of the South Lyon 4-H Club, Jon has been showing swine several years at the annual Oakland County Youth Fair. He and his younger brother Joel also participated in livestock judging and they will

Township still calling for hospital fence

An 82-year-old Northville Township woman was killed April 4 at her home near the grounds of Northville State Hospital.

Johnny Crumpton, a patient at the hospital, who was on leave was accused of murdering the woman. He was found incompetent to stand trial.

Since the widow's death, hospital security has been tightened and a number of other steps have been taken to reduce the number of walk-aways.

But township officials are not satisfied.

Despite assurances by John Reynolds, hospital director and James Jordan, executive assistant to the governor, that security is improved substantially, the board of trustees wants a fence put up.

A fence is the best way to increase security, they say. It will deter patients from trying to leave the hospital grounds and will make the community residents feel safer, they contend.

Jordan does not agree.

"We don't think a fence is the best way to good security," he told board members at a meeting last Thursday. "We are in the process of developing a good security system. And if our figures are correct we are indeed improving the problem."

"The number of patients leaving the grounds without authorization is being reduced," he said. "The security improvements at the hospital are high priority with the governor's office. We are concerned with the preservation of the patients' rights as well as other citizens' rights and protection."

In a letter to the board of trustees dated July 26, Jordan explained that the number of hospital security personnel has been increased, hospital patrols have been expanded and an improved communications system has been established with the township police chief.

He also related that a series of community education meetings were being presented to acquaint the community with programs being developed for the patients and to promote a greater understanding between the hospital and the community.

The increased security measures include the creation of a security advisory committee, which along with consultant Jack Wurthrich will make suggestions and recommendations to the Governor's office and hospital officials.

The committee members are Sergeant Richard Shoenberger of the State police, Northville Police Chief Rodney Cannon, township Chief Ronald Nisun, and Charles McQueen of the hospital security staff.

Visnyaks end Washington 4-H journey

Two Northville students recently returned from a week-long 4-H program in Washington D.C.

Ann and Jon Visnyak, 50855 Nine Mile, Northville, returned home July 29 after completing "Citizenship - Washington Focus" at the National 4-H members from Michigan. Six delegates from Oakland County were selected for the national program.

In Washington, Ann and Jon spent a day on Capitol Hill meeting with U.S. Representative William Broomfield, Senator Carl Levin and an aide for Senator Don Riegle.

They took field trips to Mt. Vernon, the Smithsonian Institute, the White House and the Washington Monument.

In workshops at the National 4-H center, Ann and Jon participated in discussions of the gasoline situation, energy conservation and the Vietnamese boat people. They discussed ways in which they could apply the skills and knowledge they learned in Washington to their own 4-H programs.

Citizenship - Washington Focus is conducted by the National 4-H Council on behalf of the cooperative extension service of state Land-Grant Universities and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Ann and Jon were selected for the program on the basis of age, 4-H activities and citizenship. The Northville Jaycees sponsored the Visnyaks.

GOOD TIME FOR WINE

by Jim Roth

1976 was one of the best years for French Beaujolais. It was so good in France that at this point there is nary a bottle left. On the other hand, 1977 was not what could be called a good year. As a matter of fact, it was a rather poor year. So one old wine adage about Beaujolais being better the younger it is, is being turned around this wine season. Now, if you can get your hands on 1976 Beaujolais, you probably will have a better bottle of wine than a 1977. But, in case you can not get 1976, 1977 still has some potentially great untasted Beaujolais.

You'll find most of our American wines consistently good. For a complete selection of American and imported brands see us at GOOD TIME PARTY STORE, 567 Seven Mile Road, 349-1477. WINE WISDOM:
Strong cheeses have a tendency to overwhelm the taste of many white wines. Avoid them at a wine and cheese party.

Steam engine retired to museum

An old familiar steam locomotive will reach its final resting place on Labor Day.

But area residents who rode the American Freedom Train, pulled by ol' Number 2101, during its several trips through this community, will be happy to know it is to be retired to a permanent showplace.

Locomotive 2101, at one time the pride of the Reading Railroad, is being donated to the B&O Railroad Museum in Baltimore, Maryland as a permanent display by Ross E. Rowland, Jr., a New York commodities broker who rescued the steamer from a Baltimore scrapyard.

Rowland located 2101 on a scrap heap in late 1974 and directed her restoration to running condition for the Freed Train's April 1, 1975 kickoff, with the help of volunteers selected from the nation's rail fans.

Rowland, founder of the non-profit American Freedom Train Foundation and chairman of the Steam Locomotive Corporation of America which now owns 2101, called the locomotive the "centerpiece of an American Freedom Train exhibit" to be assembled at the museum.

The locomotive was painted in the patriotic red, white and blue colors for its 10,000 mile Bicentennial journey and then was repainted in Chessie System colors for the Chessie Steam Specials, excursions operated in 1977 and 1978 in celebration of the oldest railroad's Sesquicentennial.

Last spring, a roundhouse fire destroyed No. 2101's operating capabilities but not her appearance. Repainted in her American Freedom Train colors, the giant 4-8-4 type coal burner will be given to the museum in a gala ceremony on Labor Day attended by rail fans from across the nation, corporate and civic officials and other dignitaries.

In turn, another 4-8-4 locomotive now on display at the museum, C&O No. 611, will be given to Rowland to be restored to operating condition for future excursions run by the Steam Locomotive Corporation of America.

No. 2101 will be on display thereafter, along with her own mini-museum, a converted rail car packed with relics and memorabilia relating to her three-year career as America's best known and most-viewed iron horse.

The old engine passed through Northville, Novi and Wixom several times during its cross-country tour. The train was ridden by dozens of area residents and seen by hundreds of spectators.

No. 2101 off to find resting place

Food director hired

Yvonne Rae Stephens has been appointed supervisor of food services for the Northville Public Schools by the Northville Board of Education.

Her appointment was approved Monday night, retroactive to her starting date of August 3. Her appointment fills the vacancy created by the recent retirement of Marie Knapp.

Mrs. Stephens, 46778 Grasmere in Northville, was previously food services director for three years for Novi Public Schools. Before that, she was food services director for an Iowa school system, and assistant food service director at Stanford University.

Mrs. Stephens is finishing a master's degree at Wayne State University. She received a bachelor of science degree in administrative dietetics from Iowa State University in 1957.

Principal search continues

The search for a new principal for Silver Springs Elementary School is in full swing as eight applicants will meet with a panel of teachers and administrators Monday.

The eight were selected from a field of 40 applicants, Personnel Director Burton Knighton told the Board of Education Monday night.

The vacancy at Silver Springs was created when Principal Nancy Fieldman resigned to accept a new job with Traverse City Public Schools.

The eight people will be interviewed by Knighton, Director of Instruction Nancy Soper, Instruction

Special Education Director Leonard Rezmierski, an elementary principal, and two elementary teachers.

Out of the eight, three to five will be called back for a final interview with Superintendent Larry Nichols. Nichols will make the final selection, Knighton said.

Township master plan polished

Final revisions of the master plan of land use for Northville Township were made August 6 at a special meeting of the planning commission.

The changes included the relocation of a major "shopping convenience center" and the deletion of the Six Mile and Winchester intersection as a commercial site.

The planners voted 3-2 (Commissioner James Nowka was absent and Craig Bowlby abstained) to designate the intersection of Six Mile and Sheldon as a shopping convenience center rather than the one at Six Mile and Beck.

The change will be made on the future land use map to be included in the master plan booklet.

William Bohan, planning commission chairman voted in favor of the change along with commissioners Marvin Gans and Kenneth McLarty. Commissioners Kenneth Sewell and Bernard Baldwin were opposed, while Bowlby said he was undecided.

The changes in the master plan were urged by developer Graham Orley who told the commission the change would be "the best thing for the community as well as us. And we are very interested in the good of the community because what is good for Northville Township is good for us."

Orley, who owns property at the Winchester and Six Mile intersection as well as at Six Mile and Sheldon said that Six Mile and Sheldon would be the "ideal location" for a shopping convenience center.

Commissioners supporting the change agreed. Despite his personal interests, he is right in saying that Six Mile and Sheldon is the prime location for a shopping convenience center, they said.

Those opposed to the change agreed that people would not come to the stores at Six Mile and Sheldon when they had shopping areas in the city and in outlying areas of the township.

George Vilcan of Vilcan-Leman Associates, planning consultants for the township supported the changes.

"Physically it is an ideal location," he said. "From a planning standpoint Six Mile and Sheldon is a much more desirable location for a shopping convenience center than the intersection of Beck and Six Mile."

The revised master plan, which the planning commission has worked on for almost two years, was financed through the Community Development Block Grant Program monies.

The plan is a product of a continuing planning process and is the second revision of the township's first comprehensive plan published in February, 1966. The original plan was updated in 1973.

The 19-page report includes a summation of: existing land use, development capacities by residential units, community facilities, commercial development, industrial development and thoroughfares.

The master plan, along with the township zoning ordinance, represent the general guide for future development in the township.

The planning commission has decided to conduct a special meeting for local government bodies, including the Northville school board, city council and others to hear their comments on the master plan.

The commission is hoping to set a date for this meeting and the public hearings which must be held at its next regular meeting August 28.

William Dudley, 89, of Detroit died August 12 at Southfield Rehabilitation Center. For much of his life he had been a farmer in Western Wayne County areas of Northville, Novi and Livonia.

Funeral service is at 1 p.m. today at Ross B. Northrop and Son Funeral Home in Redford with the Reverend Earl E. Mehl of Redford Lutheran Church officiating.

Interment is to be in Clarenceville Cemetery.

Mr. Dudley was the brother of Alvin (Theodore) Dudley of Northville; and the father of Walter of Farmington Hills, Harold of West Bloomfield, Raymond of Milford, Roy of Highland. He had 19 grandchildren and 22 great-grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by his wife Anna in 1954 and by one son.

He was born February 20, 1890 in Michigan to William and Sara (Gardner) Dudley.

ELETHA B. HARDESTY

Eletha B. Hardesty, 79, of Hamburg

died August 2 at St. Joseph Hospital in Ann Arbor after a year's illness.

A long-time area resident, she formerly lived in Salem and Whitmore Lake. She was a member of Green Oaks Free Methodist Church of Brighton and Entre Nous Chapter No. 298 of Eastern Star in South Lyon.

Funeral service was held at 1 p.m. Monday at Casterline Funeral Home, Incorporated, in Northville with the Reverend Earl McDonald of Green Oaks Free Methodist Church officiating. Interment was in Washtonong Memorial Park in Ann Arbor.

Mrs. Hardesty was born January 18, 1900, in Montpelier, Ohio, to George and Alla Jane (Deilinger) Mullen.

HARRY A. JACKSON

Harry A. Jackson, of 876 Allen Drive, a life resident of the community who had served with the fire department and Northville Auxiliary Police, died August 13 at Botsford General Hospital after an illness of several years. He was 51.

Funeral service is at 1 p.m. today at Casterline Funeral Home, Incorporated, with the Reverend Lloyd G. Brasure of First Presbyterian Church officiating. Interment will be in Rural Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Jackson was retired from Ford Motor Company. He was a member of the Fraternal Order of Eagles No. 2504 of Northville.

He was born here September 14, 1927, to Harry A. and Regina (Lozon) Jackson and married the former Sandra Schoof who survives.

He also leaves daughters Mrs. Patricia Osaer of Westland, Vicki and Lauri at home; a son David at home; and two grandchildren.

ROY A. WARNER

Roy Arnold Warner, 64, a graduate of Northville High School who came to the community 60 years ago and lived here until moving to Plymouth and then Westland, died August 7 at University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor after an illness of six weeks.

Funeral services were held at 1 p.m. Friday at Casterline Funeral Home, Incorporated, with the Reverend Frank Lyman of First United Methodist Church of Plymouth where he was a member officiating.

Interment was in Oakland Hills Memorial Gardens in Novi.

Mr. Warner retired from Dym Steel Company of Plymouth two years ago.

He was born October 4, 1914, in Opelheim, Montana, to Benjamin E. and Elmira Bell (Cole) Warner. He married Marion Coleman who survives.

He also leaves his mother Mrs. Alice B. Warner of Northville; daughter Mrs. Patricia Wyman of Westland; a son Marvin of Westland; sister Marguerite Ruttan of Detroit; and one grandchild, Krista.

CLYDE W. WYATT

Funeral services are being held at 10 a.m. today for Clyde W. Wyatt, a Novi resident until 1968 when he moved to Plymouth. The Reverend Richard O. Griffith of Novi United Methodist Church is officiating at the service at Casterline Funeral Home, Incorporated, in Northville.

Interment is to be in Oakview Cemetery in Royal Oak.

Mr. Wyatt, a retired tool and die maker for Star Tool and Die Corporation, died August 12 at home after an illness of three years.

He was a 33rd degree Mason of Moslem Temple, Masonic Lodge No. 506, Free and Accepted Masons of Ferris, and member of Shrine Club of Detroit.

He was born June 23, 1894, in Topeka, Kansas, to William and Alice (Finch) Wyatt. He married Florence Nitz who survives.

Mr. Wyatt also leaves several nieces and nephews.

Tense emotions prompt Board hears Williams grievance reaction at hearing Audience witnesses to the grievance hearing had a chance to speak as the hearing drew to a close Thursday night.

Parents, band students and even a former band teacher stood and spoke their minds in the tense, crowded atmosphere. Some were near tears.

"You keep saying the transfer is for the good of the program," said Mary Farquhar, mother of two band students. "I would like Mr. Nichols to give his definition of the program. Who are you saying it is for the good of? If it is not for the students, then who is it for?"

Board members said it was not appropriate for the superintendent to answer questions until the board had the opportunity to meet with him. They also said they had asked not to be informed of the details of the case previously so they could remain objective during the hearing.

"Obviously, kids don't think Mr. Nichols' decision was based on the right information," said Nancy Orr, band co-president. "Not only is this hurting the program, it is splitting kids up. This charge will hurt morale so much. It has already caused tensions we don't need in the music program," she said.

Band Booster president Bonnie Wagner said she understood that two issues — the grievance itself and the rationale behind the decision — were involved.

"It would be easier to address only the grievance," she said. "But the reasons behind it are important not only to the teacher but to the public. Unless both issues are decided and fed back to the public, this issue will never be settled."

The audience clapped after her statement. Then John Mason, rose to speak. Mason recently accepted a high school band teacher's position in Saline and resigned from Mead's Mill Junior High.

"For six and a half years I worked with Mr. Rumbell and Mr. Williams, and all three of us have different styles of teaching. But my personal feeling is that the problem is not with the teachers," Mason said.

No matter what you do, or who you put where, you have butchered the music program from fifth to sixth to seventh grade. I don't care who you put in which building — you have screwed the whole program."

The audience clapped for a solid minute in the emotion-strained room.

said Trustee Douglas Whitaker.

He said that according to the contract, it is not debatable whether or not the transfer was actually necessary, but only whether it was actually the "opinion" of the superintendent, acting for the board, that the transfer was necessary.

"The only justification has to be in the mind of the board's agent," Whitaker said. "We ought to settle the grievance first, then find out whether the justification was correct."

Wilkinson reminded Williams and LeBoeuf that they were only grieving the first part of section C.

They were not formally grieving that Williams was not "notified and consulted in advance" or that no volunteers were considered first.

"I feel badly, but it was not grieved on that level," Wilkinson said.

Trustee Chris Johnson said both the grievance and the rationale behind the transfer should be discussed.

"The board has to delegate responsibilities in situations. However, in my opinion we have to review the decision itself and the reasons for it. Nobody should be making any kind of decision in this district without us being able to review the merits of the decision," Johnson said.

Other board members, however, said that the reasons behind Williams' transfer were not for public forum.

But Williams and LeBoeuf continued to press for those reasons.

She argued that Williams should not be transferred because of the administration's feelings about marching band.

"Evaluations should be made on his teaching assignment. It is clear that a coach does not lose his job when he leaves an extracurricular assignment. Evaluations should be made on the basis of teaching assignments," she said. "Involuntary transfers are not to be used as punishment."

"You have still not answered our question Why was this transfer necessary? Why was it unavoidable?" Whitaker said the contract language says that involuntary transfers should be "minimized and avoided whenever possible."

"But what if a different set of talents or a different direction is desired?" he said. "Perhaps two people are equally excellent in different ways. Maybe that is a reasonable cause for an unrequested transfer," he said.

"But think of the skills that are important in teaching. What skills do you have as an individual?" LeBoeuf said. "The most important are creating and the inspiring of children. Bob has those. What skills are you thinking of in shifting Bob? That he doesn't have any leadership or compassion so we'll give him to the junior high?"

Whitaker replied that the board has designated the power for such evaluation of goals and objectives to Nichols. "It is part of a superintendent's job."

In rebuttal, Nichols told the board the transfer was necessary "for the good of the program" and the decision to transfer Williams had not been arrived at "lightly or quickly."

Nichols also said he understood that the board has given him the power to make staffing assignments and realignments. And he said he could not seek volunteers for transfer first because Michael Rumbell and Williams are the only band teachers in the district since John Mason quit to take a position with Saline Public Schools.

The board asked Nichols to review his decision timetable.

"This decision was arrived at not lightly or quickly," Nichols said. This decision was not based on the fact that Mr. Williams was doing something wrong, or on a whim. Rather the decision grew out of a series of meetings on the best possible way for leadership for improvement of the music program at the Northville Public Schools," he said.

Nichols said he had discussions with Aune about various programs at the high school in January to search for "trouble spots."

He met with band boosters, the Langfield fund group in the spring, then got several phone calls from Band Booster parents, he said.

Nichols said Aune told him that Williams had not taken the proper procedure in deciding he would not take on the marching band director's position again.

After Williams and LeBoeuf called a meeting, Nichols realized that Williams had in fact followed the correct procedure, Nichols said. It was at that meeting that Nichols "alluded" to the fact he may have to make staff reassignments, he told the board.

After discussions with Director of Instruction Nancy Soper, Knighton, and Aune, he made the decision to trade Rumbell and Williams.

LeBoeuf told the board Nichols never alluded to reassignments in the meeting she and Williams had called with Nichols. Nichols did mention it to her in a private meeting later, "But" never even saw a transfer as a possibility," she said.

City tables single bid for new fire truck

Although it was not totally unexpected, the fact that only one bid was received on a new ladder truck for the fire department has prompted a delay in its purchase.

Upon the suggestion of Councilman J. Burton DeRusha, council tabled the $166,077 bid of Halt Fire, Inc. pending a study of recent other municipal bids made by the firm on comparable vehicles.

Council is expected to make its decision on Monday.

DeRusha said he fully expects the study to show that the bid of Halt was a good one, yet he said without such a comparison he would feel uncomfortable. Other members concurred.

Two other firms, Michigan Fire Rescue Equipment Corporation and Fraser and Youngs Equipment Company, submitted letters expressing regret that they could not bid on the unit as required.

Specifications called for the vehicle to fit inside the city's existing fire station adjacent to the city hall. Only the vehicle offered by Halt Fire, apparently, met this requirement.

Since most ladder or aerial rigs are longer, the city's only alternative would have been to enlarge the fire department. In addition to the cost of such enlargement, the fact that the longer rigs are more expensive persuaded council to specify the shorter vehicle even if it meant elimination of other truck bids.

Although it is shorter than other aerial rigs, Fire Chief James Allen has emphasized that it is a totally satisfactory rig and will serve the community admirably.

The vehicle, an American La France, is the custom Century 75-foot Water Chief with Detroit Diesel engine and automatic transmission 1000 GPM pump and a long list of accessories.

What makes this vehicle so ideal, explained the chief, is that even though it has a reaching height of 75 feet, it is only 32 feet long and can be housed in the fire station.

It is some 15 feet shorter than the conventional ladder truck, which contains a more expensive rear tandem axle chassis.

To better illustrate the vehicle's aerial reaching height, City Manager Steven Walters noted that the highest point of Allen Terrace is 42 feet. Thus, the vehicle easily will be able to reach above any city building it was pointed out, allowing firemen to direct streams of water directly down onto the roof.

Concerning the LaFrances' length, Allen said it would be a tight squeeze to get it into the existing station but he confidently predicted it can be done in the station's center bay.

Cable TV proposed

stringing its separate wire adjacent to telephone and electrical lines above and below ground.

It would pay the city three percent of its gross revenues, as a fee for the franchise. Under the proposed franchise, the city also would have the right to review rates charged customers by Omnicom.

Omnicom spokesmen said the company would be offering a variety of services — including an all sports, news, religious and news channels via satellite, local services such as governmental and education channels; and auxiliary services such as fire and burglar alarms.

It would provide optional entertainment services such as full first-run movies. Suggested cost of the latter would be $7.95 per month. The basic TV service with converter also would be $7.95 per month.

It would provide TV reception from Detroit, Lansing and Toledo, with imported distant signals from New York, Boston, San Francisco, Chicago and Atlanta.

School administrator changes top structure

The change in organizational structure is needed, said Nichols, because Northville district really has the work of a much larger district because of ISEP.

Under the new structure, responsibility for the ISEP budget will be transferred from the ISEP director to the finance office under administrative services.

This transfer will allow the ISEP director to concentrate on program and planning, Nichols said.

Under the new structure, the assistant superintendent for administrative services will oversee the business office, personnel office and operations office.

The assistant superintendent for instructional services will oversee the principals, coordinator of instruction, supervisor of movement education and facilities for the gifted.

The director of special education services will direct the coordinator for K-12 special education, the ISEP principals and the staff support positions in curriculum, grant writing and media services.

Salary structure will be reviewed as the new organizational structure is implemented, Nichols told the board.

The organizational structure of top-level Northville school district administrators has been changed so that three instead of five administrators report directly to the superintendent of schools.

The Northville Board of Education approved the change Monday night, saying the consolidation of positions would clarify lines of communication, identify lines of support, responsibility and authority within the administration.

Although only the structure itself was approved, Superintendent Larry Nichols told the board which administrators he wished to place in what positions.

Under Nichols' plan, Director of Instruction Nancy Soper would become assistant superintendent for instructional services. Director of Personnel Burton Knighton would become assistant superintendent for administrative services.

Director of the Instruction Special Education Program (ISEP) Leonard Rezmierski would become director of special education services.

Signing ceremony

The community building on West Main was formally turned over to the city and township recreation department Monday afternoon in a formal signing ceremony. The lease will last 25 years and is costing the recreation department one dollar for rent. From left: City Manager Steve Walters, Board of Education President Karen Wilkinson, City Clerk Joan McAllister, Recreation Director Ed Krietz, Northville Mayor Paul Vernon, Township Supervisor Don Thomson and Superintendent of Schools Larry Nichols.

Mapes at DPW meeting

Ted Mapes, superintendent of the Northville Department of Public Works, has been named the city's delegate to a Public Works Advisory Council.

The council, which will hold its first meeting September 5, seeks to keep municipalities informed about implementation of Headlee, finance options for public works projects, sewage treatment rates, restructuring of the Detroit Metropolitan Water Board, etc.

Plan evening cruise on lake

An "Evening Nature Cruise" aboard the Island Queen excursion boat on Kent Lake in Kensington Metropark near New Hudson will be held on Wednesday, August 15 at 8 p.m.

Naturalist Dave Moilanen will explain the natural history of the area. Persons should bring binoculars and cameras. There is a charge of $1 for the evening nature cruise, plus vehicle entry permits (Daily - $2).

Police Blotter

Auto mishap injures South Lyon woman

A Plymouth woman was seriously injured August 9 in a single car accident on Northville Road at Five Mile, township police reported.

A vehicle driven by Lynn Rochon, 22, hit the guard rail near the southbound lane of Northville Road at Five Mile.

The driver, who police said admitted she had been drinking, said she was going to fast to maneuver the car through the curve in the road and lost control of the vehicle.

She was taken to Botsford Hospital. Details of her injuries were not available.

A Northville man and South Lyon woman suffered minor injuries when their cars collided August 9 on Eight Mile in Northville Township, police reported.

A vehicle driven by Andrew Bertoni, 66, of 40640 Eight Mile was stopped in the left hand lane, waiting to turn into the driveway when the car was struck from behind by a vehicle driven by Donna Gill, 34.

The woman said she did not see the car. No violations were issued.

The drivers were treated for minor injuries at St. Mary Hospital and released.

A number of residents of Kings Mill Subdivision in Northville Township told police they were shot with a BB gun August 9.

Mary MacGillivray, 60, said she was hit in the upper left arm while walking from the Kings Mill Clubhouse at about 8:50 p.m. She has a bruise on her arm, police said.

Two other residents also reported being hit.

A witness who was with Mrs.

MacGillivray says she saw three juveniles, hiding behind some parked cars, run away. No weapon was observed and the subjects escaped.

Some unknown persons kicked in the back door of Cloverdale's Restaurant, 134 North Center August 9 and stole numerous items from the business, city police reported.

Police said $18 in change, 12 cartons of cigarettes, six cases of candy and eight cartons of Coca Cola were taken from the restaurant between the hours of 10:30 p.m. August 9 and 6:30 a.m. August 10, when employees arrived and found the door kicked in.

Police are investigating the incident.

A variety of sports equipment was taken from a residence on North Center in Northville between August 4 and August 6, city police reported.

A Wilson tennis racket, Wilson baseball glove, 20 softballs and a racquet case were taken from the home, along with a Panasonic radio and a pair of Levi blue jeans, police said.

The theft is still under investigation.

A 16-year-old youth attempted to short change an employee at Dino's Pizza, 1053 Novi Road, Northville August 12.

The female employee told police that the boy tried to exchange a roll of dimes for paper money, but when she opened the roll it was pennies, not dimes.

She said she wished to file a complaint since the boy tried to cheat her out of $5.

The youth, when contacted, admitted trying to short change her, saying many others had told him how easy it was, police said.

Still behind others

By KEN KOVACS

They say they just want equality.

To be paid the same wage that their counterparts in surrounding communities are compensated is their goal.

A two-year contract recently signed by Northville Township officials gives township patrolmen a 15 percent wage hike this year and a 9 percent increase in 1980.

This brings the salary of a township patrolman to within $900 of city police pay. But city police currently are negotiating a new contract and when they reach an agreement, township officers say the difference in pay will likely grow to over $3,000.

In addition to the lower pay, township patrolmen are without cost of living, dental, optical and obstetric benefits—all of which are currently included in city patrolmen's contracts, township officers noted.

"We understand that they (township officials) cannot give us everything in one contract," said John Sherman, president of the Northville Township Police Officers Association. "But even with the wage increases in this contract we are still way behind. And the difference in benefits between us and city police is ridiculous."

Under the new agreement, which runs from April 1, 1979 to March 31, 1981, a first-year patrolman will be paid $13,685, second year officers will get $15,495 and third year men will receive $17,063. After three years township officers will receive the top patrolman's pay—$18,591.

Under their current contract, patrolmen employed by the City of Northville receive top pay of $19,500.

Contract negotiations between the township police and representatives of the township began in December, 1978. The two parties hoped to reach an agreement by the March 31 expiration date of the former contract.

But there were problems getting all the members of the bargaining units together and when they did meet, not much was accomplished.

The two groups had a number of unresolved issues when the old contract expired and during the next few months the teams were at an impasse.

A state mediator was brought in June 29 and she helped the two sides work out some 18 resolved items in one day, at the end of which a tentative agreement was reached.

The five township patrolmen ratified the contract agreement July 1 and township officials gave it their okay at a meeting July 12. The two-year pact was signed July 31. The patrolmen recently received retroactive pay from April.

In addition to the salary increases and the promise of an improved Blue Cross medical plan, the new contract gives the township police officers gains in a number of other areas.

Officers can now take advantage of a more flexible vacation plan. Where they could only take a week at a time, they can now take 10 or 11 days in a row.

Under the new agreement patrolmen will be reimbursed for books and tuition payments for any college classes leading to a degree in law enforcement.

Other minor changes in the contract include:

—An increase in minimum court time pay. Any officer required to appear in court was paid a minimum of one hour's pay. He will now get two-hour's pay guaranteed for a court appearance.

—Holidays will now be paid in one lump sum rather than individual days, if preferred by the individual officer.

—Uniform allowance was increased by $25. Officers will now get $525 a year for maintenance of his uniform.

—Residency requirements were stretched. Officers formerly had to live within 8 miles of the station, but now may live 15 miles or a 30-minute drive away.

Township police say they are pleased with the gains made in their new contract, but feel they should not be paid any less than their peers in other communities.

Of future contracts Sherman said, "If they (township officials) want professional police work they are going to have to pay professional wages and benefits."

Board, teachers try negotiations Thursday

Teacher contract negotiations will start rolling again this week when Northville's board and teacher bargaining teams meet Thursday morning.

With 16 days left until the current teacher contract expires, teams have agreed upon only two articles. More than 30 issues in eight articles of the master agreement remain to be settled. Most of them concern compensation and teacher rights and responsibilities.

Some counter-proposals have already been presented by the board team. Teachers said they will be presenting their counter-proposals Thursday.

Teams have met 13 times since April 26. There have been no negotiations since August 2 because teacher chief negotiator John Rennels was out of town.

The Board of Education voted Monday night to obtain a legal opinion on whether they could file an unfair labor practice complaint against the teacher's union for failing to negotiate in good faith.

"The Board of Education's negotiating team has declared its willingness to meet at any time in an effort to move negotiations along at the bargaining table," Personnel Director Burton Knighton told the board.

Contacted yesterday, Northville Education Association president Barb LeBoeuf said they had no apologies to make for their side.

"I'm sure Dr. Knighton's statement was a ploy to gain community support," she said. LeBoeuf said Rennels had vacation time coming and that their side had not seen much movement toward compromise from the board.

A summary of both teacher and board positions on the contract will be in next week's Northville Record.

School to start September 6 here

School for kindergarten through twelfth grade students will begin Thursday, September 6, the Northville Board of Education voted Monday night.

The 1979-80 school year for students in the Instruction Special Education Program (ISEP) will begin on September 5.

All teachers for both K-12 and ISEP will report at 8 a.m. September 4, the board decided.

Starting times and the rest of the school year calendar have not yet been established.

The board decided on the starting dates because the board's and teachers' bargaining teams could not agree on the starting date. Teachers wanted the K-12 school year to start a week earlier.

The board voted unanimously to accept the starting dates after the district's chief negotiator Burton Knighton declared an impasse on the starting date issue with the teachers.

The bargaining team said it would continue to bargain in good faith with the teachers on the other issues on the school calendar.

By the end of this week, information on school times, and bus routes should be available from the school district. The Northville Record will print all school information in next week's issue.

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

Credit Ted Mapes with a super idea for the city of Northville.

The soft-spoken DPW director suggested to City Manager Steve Walters recently that the Cady street scout-recreation building ought to be converted to district court offices.

"It's such a natural that as soon as he said it I knew he was right and wondered why I hadn't thought of it," confessed City Manager Walters.

The council is enthusiastic about the idea, too. Right now councilmembers are awaiting reaction of the district judges, which most certainly ought to be supportive considering crowded conditions at city hall where court is currently held.

Originally constructed by the city, the scout-recreation building served as a center for both scouting and recreation activities. The community recreation department is now headquartered in the more spacious, and suitable, ex-community and ex-board of education building on Main street. Presumably, it's now known as the recreation building.

Meanwhile, activities at the Cady street scout-recreation building have dwindled down to little more than cooperative nursery use. It has been proposed that space for this day-care operation could be provided at the Main street recreation building.

The halls of city hall and its council chambers are jammed with people and confusion when court is in session on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Lawyers, their clients and police officers frequently holding handcuffed prisoners stand around waiting for justice to be served. The activity is known to intimidate some visitors to city hall. And it can't help the working atmosphere for city employees.

Additionally, four employees of the court and probation department work in city hall all week long. Frequently, probation officers make use of the offices to meet with persons they are helping both during the day and in the evenings.

With little renovation the scout-recreation building can be converted to court use. The parking problem at city hall will also be resolved by the switch. Limited space is available next to the Cady street site for routine days, while on the busy court session days the little-used parking space behind the Main street recreation building along Cady street can be reserved for court visitors.

And there's no extra expense involved for the city. It already must maintain the scout-recreation facility. And it must provide district court space. In return the city receives some $125,000 from fines levied in both city and township cases. Because it provides the court, the city receives 100 percent of its own fines and two-thirds of the township's.

Congratulations to Ted Mapes for coming up with an excellent suggestion for improved use of existing facilities.

Community organizations seeking a good, half-hour program would not be disappointed in a film recently obtained by Northville's Downtown Development Authority.

Entitled "Mainstreet" the color film was produced by the National Preservation Trust, as its name implies an organization devoted to preserving a community's historic representations.

Most of the action centers around the community of Galesburg, Illinois. And the leading characters of the film are local merchants. The setting is typical and so is the dialogue.

There's the morning coffee sessions, the anti-parking meter talk, the controversy over night shopping hours and the differences in opinion concerning whether or not an old building is worth preserving or the space it occupies should be put to other use.

Many buildings in the community were stripped of their "modernization" shells and beautifully restored to original status. It's also pointed out that the character of the buildings being preserved may have no specific architectural significance (or beauty) other than the heritage of the community itself.

Danny Collins of the Old Mill deserves credit for obtaining the film for its initial showings. But it is so popular nationwide that it is booked for the next two years. To have it available for local showing a copy of the film has been purchased.

Call the city manager at city hall (349-1300) if you would like to reserve this most interesting documentary for your Northville community organization.

Speaking for Myself

Ratify Salt II?

SEN. HOWARD BAKER

YES

The question before us is not whether we like or trust the Russians; SALT doesn't depend on liking or trust. The question is whether we will be more secure with SALT II or without.

Beyond a shadow of a doubt we will be more secure with the treaty. SALT II is the result of years of patient and painstaking negotiations by the very tough and capable U.S. negotiating team. It's a good deal for both sides, and a particularly good deal for the U.S.

It limits the number of Soviet missiles and heavy bombers to hundreds less than they can and probably will build if the treaty is rejected. It limits their warheads to thousands below potential. In contrast, all new U.S. strategic programs — the Trident Submarine, the cruise missile, the MXICBM — are allowed by the treaty to proceed as planned. At the same time, by limiting the Soviet threat SALT II relieves us of the need to spend an additional four billion dollars per year on crash programs. It will also contribute to a relaxation of international tensions, thereby decreasing the probability that these terrible devices will ever be used.

In short, it gives us more security for less money.

Congressman Bob Carr
Michigan's Sixth District
East Lansing

NO

I am opposed to the SALT II Treaty submitted to the Senate by President Carter.

The treaty is vague where clarity is required, particularly with respect to our right to develop and deploy new weapons systems according to our interpretation of the treaty, and not according to the Russian interpretation.

The treaty fails to provide for adequate monitoring and verification of Soviet adherence to the terms of the treaty.

Most importantly the treaty is inequitable in that it provides a substantial strategic superiority for the Soviet Union.

This treaty as presently written would let the Soviets catch up with our missile technology while also allowing them twice the destructive nuclear power of United States.

Combined with their massive force of conventional arms, this treaty would give the Soviets an overall military advantage over the United States which we simply cannot afford to give them — especially since the Soviets have made it clear they intend to translate their growing military strength into more and more provocative influence throughout the world.

Rejection of the treaty as submitted would say to the Soviet Union that we intend to have strategic equality as an irreducible minimum, that we will never agree to their strategic superiority, and that arms control can be truly meaningful only if it is truly mutual.

Rejection would say to the world that we will look first to our own defenses, for it is in the strength of the United States that the peace of the world and the freedom of our allies are preserved.

I believe in strategic arms control. I voted for SALT I, and I would like to support SALT II — and III and IV and V until we have reduced substantially the threat of nuclear war.

The question should not be whether we support a SALT treaty but whether we support this SALT treaty. I do not, and I cannot without substantial amendment.

JACK W. HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

"They're easily recognized," insists John Carson, despite the fact that I easily flunked a recognition test of the safety symbols mandated in cars and trucks by the federal government.

But then, of course, the late Grocho Marx used to stump me with his "Grant's tomb" question.

Carson, national traffic safety standards engineer for the U.S. Department of transportation, says DOT has received some negative reaction to the new symbols but "the preponderance of reaction is very supportive."

A variety of international symbols have been mandated for American cars and trucks by September 1980. Most foreign cars carry the symbols, and many American cars already carry some of them, notes Carson.

In addition to the 1980 mandated symbols, DOT has also proposed use of seven others.

All of the symbols were developed and tested over the last seven or eight years by an international standards organization. Although the symbols have a distinctly foreign flavor, Carson emphasizes that Americans had a lot of input into their selection. A General Motors executive was chairman of the standards committee, he points out.

The picture symbols have been mandated in Canada, too.

Although manufacturers will have to carry only the symbols in their cars and trucks, they may also accompany the symbols with words if they wish. But Carson doubts they will use both.

Purpose of the symbols, he explains, is to provide something internationally recognizable.

"If you get into a car in Belgium, for example, you'll see the symbols carried in your

Detroit man drowns in Lake Success

The body of a 19-year-old Detroit man was pulled from the depths of Lake Success in Northville Township near midnight Sunday.

Police said Richard Eads drowned at approximately 8:45 p.m. while he and two friends were swimming in the former gravel pit, which is located near Griswold and Eight Mile, adjacent to Highland Lakes Subdivision.

Janet Vaughn, 19, of Dexter and Richard Lewandowski, 21, of Detroit said the three were attempting to swim across the lake when they realized they couldn't make it.

They turned around and headed for the north shore where they had entered the water. Vaughn and Lewandowski said Eads yelled that he couldn't make it back.

Lewandowski said he tried to help Eads but had to let go of him to save himself from drowning. Eads tried to latch onto a floating piece of wood (a log or piece of telephone pole), they said, but could not.

A number of youths, most from Detroit, had been drinking and partying in the area, the witnesses said.

The lake is on private property and is fenced. But the fence is down in a number of places, making access to the lake very easy.

According to Northville Township Police Chief Ronald Nisun the owner of the property, Pulte Homes of Michigan Corporation, does not maintain the fence properly.

"I have screamed and hollered about this more than anything else," Nisun said of the downed fence. "We are willing to help patrol the area and give trespassing tickets to violators, but we can't keep a man there 24 hours a day."

"The owners have an obligation to maintain the fence and they just don't do it," he continued. "We issued 900 tickets in one year before the fence was erected. When it was put up last year, the problem subsided somewhat. But now that the fence is down, kids can drive their cars right in there."

Car fire takes life

A West Bloomfield man was killed Monday in a bizarre car fire on Griswold in Northville.

Peter Donaldson, 51, an executive of the ARA Corporation in Livonia, was driving his 1979 Camaro eastbound on Griswold near Eight Mile when a can of gasoline in the front seat ignited, police said.

The inside of the vehicle was engulfed in flames and the victim was still in the vehicle when police arrived on the scene.

Donaldson, who was badly burned, but still alive, was taken to Botsford Hospital. He died at 8:30 p.m., hospital officials said.

Why the gas can was inside the car and what ignited the fuel is not yet known, police said Tuesday, but "we have no reason to believe that the fire was anything but an accident."

Town Hall awards $3,350 for charitable causes

Orthopedic shoes and braces, socks and underwear, bean bag furniture, roller skates and fishing equipment, and a portable puppet stage all are on the shopping lists of organizations that are recipients of Northville Town Hall awards.

Camperships, emergency aid for the needy and Mill Race Historical Village restoration work also are among the requests honored by the board of awards this year.

Nineteen area organizations are sharing $3,350, Frances Mattison announces. A matching sum has been presented to Our Lady's League of Our Lady of Victory Church which sponsors the Northville Town Hall series.

Mrs. Mattison, who succeeded Eliza Wagenschutz, long-time head of the awards board, says that checks have been issued to the 19 organizations from Northville, Novi, South Lyon, Plymouth, Livonia, Farmington and Canton — areas from which the town hall audience comes.

As required, the 19 were among 22 making formal requests for funding from the board, which held its annual meeting June 8.

Eight Northville organizations were among the recipients with Open Door Clothing Center at Northville State Hospital receiving one of the largest sums so that used clothing donations for patients may be supplemented with new underwear, socks and other items not usually donated.

Another large grant was awarded St. John's Episcopal Church in Plymouth to supply orthopedic shoes and braces for children at the Plymouth Center for Human Development.

Other Northville organizations receiving grants include:

Manresa Chapter No. 217, International Order of Alhambra, to help support work with retarded children;

Mizpah Circle, King's Daughters and Sons, to help needy in the Northville area;

Friends of Northville Library to purchase a portable puppet stage; Northville Historical Society for restoration work at Mill Race Historical Village;

Northville Kiwanis Club to provide bowling for girls at Our Lady of Providence;

Hawthorn-Northville Chapter of Michigan Association for Emotionally Disturbed Children to help purchase fishing equipment, roller skates and a bocci ball for children at Hawthorn

NEW RECIPIENT—Northville Kiwanians John Genitti and Salim Abraham receive an award to provide bowling for Girls at Our Lady of Providence from Frances Mattison, Greek Revival house star of tour

By JEAN DAY

An architectural gem.

Lovers of basilica-type Greek Revival houses built in the early 1800s and unique to Michigan seek out Cliff-Calla House on North Territorial as an excellent example of a portico house reminiscent of a Roman Temple.

Visitors enter through a gate in the picket fence to be welcomed at the handsome portico which features four anta piers, or square columns, instead of the more typical round ones. Painted white with a new shake roof, the house and garden reflect the care of owners Marion and Donald Sober.

This house was not always in prime condition, however. Mrs. Sober rescued it from destruction, moving it from the center of Plymouth to its present location in 1971.

At the time, she recalls, the house was being used as three apartments. Earmarked for demolition, it had been stripped of doors and moldings. The Sobers have had to find replacements from other houses being demolished.

"It was just terrible," Mrs. Sober relates, mentioning that she was given $500 to move the house 10 miles west.

Northville Home Tours visitors will have a rare opportunity to see the inside of this much-admired house on the 13th annual home tour to be held from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, September 29. While the house is not located in Northville but in the west part of Plymouth near Beck Road on North Territorial, it is included in the tour as an historical treat.

Marion and Donald Sober years ago moved from Ann Arbor to a house at Church and Cady in Northville. They were married and lived in Massachusetts before coming to the Midwest.

He has been one of Northville Historical Society's most devoted workers in Mill Race Village, donating hours of time with Jack Burkman and E. A. Chapman.

Just retired from a career as manufacturers agent, Don Sober now is joining his artist-craftsman wife in chair caning. They do Shaker caning as well as genuine rush weaving and splint seats. He handles minor repairs.

Barbara Benson flies solo from west for wedding

By JEAN DAY

"Could I have taxi service?"

That Friday night call came to the Robert Brueck family of 47129 Dunsany about 9:30 p.m. August 3 from daughter Barbara Benson at Salem Airport.

She had piloted her Beechcraft Baron solo across the country all day, leaving about 6 a.m. from the Sonoma County Airport in the heart of the California wine country. Mrs. Benson, who has a commercial pilot's license, made the trip to attend her sister Mary's wedding last Saturday. She gave a reading in the service at Our Lady of Victory Church.

The Bruecks had not expected their daughter until the following day, not realizing she would be flying straight through with only refueling stops. At Twin Falls, Idaho, she refueled and dropped off a GM sales manager who had been a part-way passenger. Her husband Robert is a Buick and GMC truck and Honda car dealer in Petaluma. A refueling stop also was made in Omaha.

Because Salem is an uncontrolled airport, it is not necessary to give advance notice of landing. The windsock was flying on the runway, and the pilot used the intercom to make contact. No comment was made about her solo flight there, but, she smiles, mention was made at the Idaho airport that "we don't see many Lady Baron drivers."

Mrs. Benson, who learned to fly in a two-passenger Cessna that her husband still owns, belongs to the international group of women pilots known as the 99s. "There are just more instruments to learn," she explains of the six passenger craft, pointing out the dual dial system for the twin engines.

Having her pilot's license makes it possible to take people or cargo for hire, Barb Benson explains. In order to become a pilot in commercial aviation, she would have to triple the 450 hours she now has logged, probably by becoming an instructor, she says. This right now is just "thinking" for the former medical records secretary. She says she still works in that field "maybe eight hours a week" during the winter. She had been on the staff at Providence Hospital before going to California.

Westerly winds enabled her to maintain a speed of 210-220 miles and hour on her cross-country flight. She kept radar contact during her journey and followed Highway 80 and the North Platte River. Her return trip won't be alone, however, as her husband arrived Thursday on a commercial flight. They and his son and daughter were going to vacation in Vancouver on return. Then the couple has a jaunt to Europe planned — a commercial flight, though.

One hundred pies and 40 loaves add up

Mizpah Circle of King's Daughters had sold 70 dessert pies, 30 little ones, 40 loaves of bread and some 30 coffecakes by noon on the Saturday of the annual Northville sidewalk sale July 28.

President Marge Bolton was delighted that the circle had netted $552 by the noontime sellout. She doesn't add, however, that the sum which will make possible circle charity projects also represents a generous donation of time and ingredients by circle members.

Yerkes gives Mill Race memorabilia

The late Edmund Yerkes, an attorney and member of a pioneering Northville family, was known as an avid collector of memorabilia and history of Northville. His sons have presented many of his collections of historical material to the Northville Historical Society. His first cousin once-removed, Ruth Burkman, reports they have been placed in the Yerkes House in the Mill Race Village.

Mary Brueck becomes bride of Mark Korody

Mary E. Brueck and her bridegroom Mark A. Korody were escorted down the aisle of Our Lady of Victory Church at 2:30 p.m. last Saturday by both sets of parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brueck of 47129 Dunsany and Mr. and Mrs. George Korody of 19560 Meadowbrook.

The Reverend Gerard Hadad and the Reverend Allen Bergman officiated at the service which included special readings by Barbara Benson and Linda Korody, sisters of the bride and bridegroom, respectively.

David Heinzman was organist. "Wedding Song" was sung to the couple, with guitar accompaniment, by Linda and Pam Korody, sisters of the bridegroom, and Lori Steeber.

The bride had made her gown of white taffeta with lace overlay. It was fashioned with a scoop neckline and long sleeves of lace gathered at the wrists. A cap held her fingertip veil that had been made by a friend, Carol Tuz.

She carried a white cascade bouquet with the prayer book that had belonged to her late maternal grandmother, Eva Weadock.

Kathleen McNeely was honor maid in a floor-length mint green gown trimmed with white eyelet lace. She carried a wicker umbrella streaming with silk pastel flowers.

Flower girl Annie Brueck, niece of the bride, carried a basket of pastel flowers trimmed with pink ribbons. Her floor-length pink dress was trimmed with white eyelet lace.

The bride's nephew, Bill Brueck, was ring bearer.

Gary McDonnell was best man. Ushers were Donald Korody, George and James Brueck, brothers of the couple, and Kraig Brueck, nephew of the bride.

A reception immediately followed the ceremony for 200 guests, including out-of-town visitors from Penningsville, California; Sarasota, Florida; Brooklyn, New York; Chicago and New Jersey, Kentucky, Pennsylvania and Ohio.

A wedding trip to northern Michigan followed for the couple who had met when both worked at Meadowbrook Country Club in the summer of 1975.

The new Mrs. Korody is a graduate of Our Lady of Mercy in Farmington and Eastern Michigan University. She currently is employed with the Northville Public Schools in the ISEP program.

Her husband is a Northville High School graduate. He will graduate from Lawrence Institute of Technology in the spring of 1980 with a mechanical engineering degree. He is employed at Adams-Trans-Aid in Detroit as an engineer in research and development. They will make their home in South Lyon.

Baby names hold meaning

Newborn sons and daughters are the center of attention in these area households.

Allisa Anne is the first child of Dr. Riga W. Krueger and her husband William C. Krueger of 42708 Lyric Court. She was born July 30 at St. Mary Hospital weighing eight pounds, nine ounces.

Her name is the Finnish spelling for Alice. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Wanhainen of Tell City, Indiana, and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Krueger of Reading, Pennsylvania.

Great-grandmothers are Dr. Norma Elson of Maple Rapids, Michigan, and Mrs. Helen Potteiger of Reading.

Dr. Krueger, a dentist, has reopened the practice of her grandmother, Dr. Elson, in Maple Rapids and plans to continue it.

Mr. and Mrs. James Abbey of 526 Langfield are parents of a new son, Jeremy Jack-Edward, born July 31 at St. Joseph Hospital in Ann Arbor.

He joins a little brother Eric, 3, at home. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Chmielewski of Detroit and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Abbey of Ypsilanti. Mrs. Gertrude Blades of Ann Arbor is the great-grandmother.

Suzanne Antigone Gramas, born June 19, is the first child of Mr. and Mrs. Ilya Gramas of Bowling Brook, Illinois, and the first grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Selfridge of Northville. Mrs. Gramas is the former Margaret Selfridge.

Mrs. Gramas and her new daughter were scheduled to arrive for a visit early this week on Amtrak. They will be joined by the baby's father later in the week.

Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. George Gramas of Downers Grove, Illinois. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Conrad of Hamilton, Ohio, are great-grandparents. They also will be coming for a visit with the new parents and baby.

Theodore Fuertges takes bride in Bedford, Ohio, ceremony

Theodore V. Fuertges, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Fuertges of 1012 Grace Court, took Cheryl Ann Sabol as his bride in a 2 p.m. ceremony June 16 at St. Mary's Church of Bedford, Ohio.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Sabol of Walton Hills, Ohio.

Father Norbert Burns, a priest and professor at the University of Dayton, officiated at the nuptial mass in which the couple exchanged rings. Music was provided by "The Singing Nuns." The bride's aunt is a member of the group.

The bride wore a white Qiana gown with lace yoke and collar embroidered with seed pearls. Lace also adorned the sleeves and hemline. The skirt extended into a cathedral train. Her illusion veil was edged with lace and seed pearls.

She carried a colonial bouquet of pink and white flowers.

Andrea Kalfas was matron of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Sharon Fazio, Paula Basta, Kathy McCabe, Kate Fuertges and Lisa Stem-nock.

They wore rainbow-hued Qiana gowns and carried nosegays of carnations, daisies and baby's-breath made to match their gowns and tied with white streamers.

Sarah Kain and Cortney Kalfas, nieces of the couple, were flower girls.

Farhat, John Kain, Robert Kalfas, Bruce and David Sabol.

A dinner reception followed at Four Season Party Center in Northfield, Ohio, for 300 guests.

After a wedding trip to Treasure Island, Florida, the newlyweds are living in Trenton.

Both are 1978 graduates of the University of Dayton. The bride has her BS in special and elementary education and is a learning disability teacher in Trenton.

Her husband has his BS degree in marketing and is working for Royal Business Machines as a sales supervisor.

U-M seniors to wed

Mr. and Mrs. David Burnett of Flint, Michigan, announce the engagement of their daughter Linda to Mark McDaniel. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George McDaniel of Ely Drive.

The wedding is planned for May 10, 1979, in First Presbyterian Church in Flint.

Both the bride-elect and her fiancé will be seniors this fall at University of Michigan. She is in the school of Literature, Science and the Arts while he is in aerospace engineering.

She is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority.

After the wedding they will be making their home in Ann Arbor while the bridegroom continues work on a master's degree.

Girls staters capture posts

Four Northville High School girls who attended the 39th American Legion Auxiliary Girls State Program held on the Olivet College Campus in Olivet, Michigan, captured political offices during their week's experience.

In the program designed to emphasize the importance of government through actual participation, the participants nominate, elect and appoint girls to various city, county and state offices.

Upon arrival June 16 each girl was assigned to a mythical political party, a county and a city. They then campaigned for offices.

Nancy Joslin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burr G. Joslin, 44866 Byrne, became a supreme court justice.

Like all six girls sent from Northville, she will return to NHS this fall as a senior, using her new knowledge.

She was sponsored by the Northville Jaycee Auxiliary to the program administered through Lloyd H. Green Post 147 American Legion Auxiliary.

She works on the high school paper, in forensics, marching band, church and high school student congress.

Julie Abraham, daughter of the Salim Abrahams of 590 Morgan Circle, became a city road commissioner at the program. She was sponsored by the Northville branch of the American Association of University Women.

She also was elected to city council.

At NHS she is active in softball, basketball, school newspaper, pep club and Girls Athletic League of which she is president.

Michelle Stephens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Stephens of 46778 Grasmere, was sponsored jointly by Northville Woman's Club and Business and Professional Women.

She became a city party chairperson.

At NHS she is involved in student congress and is a member of the swim team.

Holly Rinehart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Rinehart of 45764 Clement Court, sponsored by the Caterline Funeral Home, Incorporated, was elected to the county board of commissioners.

At NHS she is active in pep club, swimming and forensics.

South Lyon Area Youth Guidance received money for camperships for children.

Also receiving funds in Plymouth were the Plymouth Woman's Club to support Plymouth Opportunity House and Girlstown in Belleville, and Plymouth Symphony Society for symphony support.

Livonia Family Y Branch received funds for a swim program for handicapped and for a camp program.

New Horizons of Oakland County received money to help achieve higher levels of development and specialization so that impaired persons may reach their highest potential.

Community Living Centers, Incorporated, in Farmington was granted funds for community living centers for retarded adults.

Farmington Community Center was given a contribution to its annual fund drive.

Silent Citizens received money to support film program for the deaf held in Dearborn and Southfield and attended by Silent Citizens of the Greater Detroit area.

Good Hope Literacy Council of Canton received funds for postage, publicity material, purchase of adult-level reading material and for a tutor-training workshop.

"Large awards are becoming usual," the board noted with satisfaction, as the sums are only slightly under last year's.

Since the upcoming season starting in October with Phil Donahue is a sellout, the profits seem assured for another year.

Other Board of Awards members are Herman Moehlman, Northville attorney and Northville representative with Anne Brueck; Jean Proctor, Farmington representative; Gladys Deyo, Plymouth representative (for 1979 only) with Margaret Hough; Frances Hensley, Livonia representative.

Mrs. Wagenschutz was serving for the last time on the board. She was thanked at the annual meeting for her dedicated service.

Norma Vernon was named to replace her on the board.

In distributing the checks to recipients of grants Mrs. Brueck, board secretary, was instructed to ask for accounting of the distributions.

Marion Sober adorns house with her art, antiques

By JEANDAY

"This house has no boundaries" declares owner Marion Sober of the basilica Greek Revival that will be a highlight of the 1979 Northville Home Tour September 29 sponsored jointly by the Women's Association of First Presbyterian Church and Northville Historical Society.

The artist-craftsman who rescued the house from oblivion means by the statement that it is like the many houses built during the 1800s of this style located throughout the state. This is on North Territorial near Beck.

Antiques ferreted out for the house by the artist and her husband Donald fill rooms with walls hand-stenciled by Mrs. Sober.

In the study-office to the right of the entry are more formal mustard color stencils with a dragon design showing Chinese influence. In the entry is a Chinese laquer reading stand.

In a sitting-tea room behind the office are bird stencils Mrs. Sober calls "more naive" in design. The front parlor boasts a floral stencil. Mrs. Sober says she did all with skim milk mixed with dry paint in two weeks.

But most unusual are the walls of the large room used as a dining room and centered with a Queen Anne table with Empire chairs. Sixteen women from Godey prints have been enlarged almost to life size on the walls. Those on the front wall are from a French engraving and date to 1862.

The military influence is seen on clothing worn by the ladies painted on the back wall from an after-Civil War print of 1867.

"I did them to make the room seem more friendly," smiles the artist. She adds that she is "recycling" to create curtains from elaborately embroidered and tucked petticoats from the past.

A corner cupboard contains some of her collection of sprigware china. A chaise lounge in another corner she says is "early second hand."

This may be true, but it blends comfortably with other fine pieces.

In the parlor is Mrs. Sober's grandmother's doll from 1880 sitting in Aunt Sarah's chair on a tabletop next to a fine hooked rug in with a peacock as the Historic house will star on tour

This is accomplished in the basement built for the home. It is a great improvement over the original Michigan dirt basement. To retain the original look, a cement block foundation has been faced with stone.

The same procedure was followed in the Hunter House in Mill Race Village. That house, too, is a basilica type. It does not have the portico of the Sober house.

"Whoever drew up the plan for this house made it the basilica type, like a Roman temple, with wings extending the length of the house. Historian Talbot Hamlin is the authority who states these houses are exclusive to Michigan," explains owner Sober.

A plaque placed on the front of the house on Heritage Day 1973 says it is the "Old Birch House," a Plymouth landmark, and dates it 1845.

Mrs. Sober points out that there are no written records to tell when Cliff-Calla House was built, who designed it and who first lived in it. It is called Cliff-Calla House in memory of Mrs. Sober's father and mother, Clifford and Calla Burr.

"One can speculate," she says, as research has shown that in the 1820s and 1830s this area was being given land grants to people who migrated from the southern and eastern parts of the country.

"They brought with them memories of grand homes and understandably wanted, as soon as they could afford it, to build their own. One such man must have been the first owner of this house."

"He could have hitched up his horse and buggy and taken the day-long trip to Detroit to visit the architectural school there run by Robert T. Elliot from Rochester, established in 1836. As Elliot came from New York State where there were many Greek Revival houses, he was interested in that style."

It has been explained to Marion Sober that the columns on the front of the house are square because it was cheaper and easier to build these than round ones. They are nicely tapered at the top, "just like the columns of the Parthenon," observes the owner.

Most unusual are "rabbit ears" over the front door and flanking the windows.

"One historian said they very probably were inspired by the shell-like shields on the corners of Greek temples," Mrs. Sober confides. There is a house like hers in Dexter, too. Especially attractive are floor-length windows that can be raised in summer, she says, to let in cool breezes.

In the late 1800s, when Robert Birch moved from New York State and bought the house, the Sobers think the ell was added. It may have been a barn, they note, as joists are of logs with bark left on, unlike the massive hand-hewn oak joists of the original.

This ell contained the kitchen and hired man's room with a stoop-over attic running the full length. There are eyebrow windows that open and a large tank for rain water that still is there.

"With nine children Robert Birch needed plenty of room. A generous man, he took in a homeless family with three children, making a total of 12," relates Mrs. Sober.

When his youngest daughter, Nancy Warner, visited her, she asked how they accommodated so many. "Three in a bed," she responded.

Home tour visitors will see that the tiny bedrooms are big enough for not much more than a bed. The only closet in the house in those days was located at the top of the stairs.

They'll also note that houses of this period contained no fireplaces but were heated with room stoves. Mrs. Sober can point out patched up holes in the ceilings for pipes. Today there is baseboard heat, a pleasant addition to a house with a past worth keeping warm.

Area church boycotts Nestles products

Faith Community United Presbyterian Church in Novi has joined a national boycott of all Nestle Company products

Pastor Richard Henderson and his wife

Shella, who live in Northville, said their church is following the lead of district and national Presbyterian Synods in boycotting all Nestle's products until Nestle stops promoting powdered infant formulas to mothers in Third World countries.

The boycott's sponsors charge that Nestle is promoting powdered formulas to mothers in poor countries despite the fact that mothers can often not read the directions, have no clean water to mix the formula with and have no sterilized bottles in which to put the formula.

In addition, the boycott's sponsors say mother's breast milk has dried up by the time initial free sample tins of formula have run out. Because mothers cannot afford to buy the formula, they dilute it and use it anyway because they are told by Nestle "nurses" (product promoters) that powdered formula is the "modern" way to feed a baby, boycott sponsors say. Nestle is the largest promoter of formula in the Third World. Nestle spokesmen have denied charges of irresponsibility.

Many Michigan churches have followed the boycott or written letters to Nestle, said Paul Dotson, director of the Ecumenical Center in Ann Arbor.

The U.S. Presbyterian Church General Assembly joined the boycott in 1978 after hearing evidence from missionaries about child malnutrition and death as a result of the formulas.

The National Council of Churches, World Council of Churches, American Lutheran Church, Los Angeles Episcopal Archdiocesan Council, United Church of Christ, the United Methodist Church and certain archdioceses of the Roman Catholic Church have all endorsed the boycott.

No Northville church has taken a stand on the issue.

"There is enormous concern among Christians that if the reports are true, that if it is that bad, then it is our business to get involved," Dotson said.

President, Nestle Company, 100 Bloomingdale, White Plains, NY 10605; or by contacting the group INFACT, 1701 University Ave. SE., Minneapolis, Minnesota 55414.

Nestle products involved in the boycott include: Nestle chocolate, central design. Another hooked rug in the dining room has a horse motif. Friends have told Mrs. Sober it should be on the wall, rather than the floor.

Nescafe, Taster's Choice, DeCaf, Sunrise Coffee, Nestea, QUIK, SoupTime, Libby's, Crosse and Blackwell, Stouffer foods, hotels and restaurants, L'oreal and Lancome cosmetics, Toll House chocolate chips, Ionax skin care products and Beringer Bros. wines.

The present-day kitchen behind the dining room is complete with warm orange cupboards which Mrs. Sober has decorated with meadow flowers done freehand in oils.

Upstairs with the help of her husband Mrs. Sober is creating "Cleopatra's bath" with a large tub complete with carved pyramid corners.

She's also working on a small bedroom where curtains will enclose the bed in the manner of Thomas Jefferson's

As visitors descend to the basement they will see exposed stair wall showing horsehair plaster. In addition to her looms and caning work, Mrs. Sober will have a gallery there of pastel portraits on loan from the families whose children sat for them 25 to 30 years ago.

They include Greig Chapman, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Chapman; Katie Kampf Howe, daughter of Mrs. Theodore Kampf; Robert Shafer, Susan Shafer Carson and Nancy Shafer, children of Mrs. Robert Shafer; Stephanie and Dan Brown, children of Dr. and Mrs. Phillip Brown; Wendy Cummings Hearn, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Cummings; Elsa Couse Stuber and Barbara Ann Couse Allen, daughters of Mrs. William Chase.

Cliff-Calla House is one of five on the annual tour. Marquis Theatre and the Mill Race Historical Village also will be open. Tickets will be $3.50.

Teacher learns about government working in Congressman's office

Teacher and former Northville resident Gail Sturgell has been living what she teaches this summer as a staff assistant in the office of Congressman Carl Pursell, who represents the area where she lived and went to school before her career took her to Arizona.

The daughter of Essie and Marie Nirider of 985 Grace, she is a social sciences teacher at Fremont Junior High in Mesa, Arizona.

"This may be the most productive summer I've spent since I started teaching," Ms. Sturgell comments.

"It's invaluable experience for explaining to our students how the government really operates. I've been involved in a variety of congressional activities, had extensive contact with bureaucratic offices and participated in projects involving cooperation between federal and local agencies."

After completing a "hectic" year of double duty as American history-geography instructor in seventh and ninth grades, as well as tennis coach, Ms. Sturgell signed on as a Pursell staffer for the summer.

The 1965 graduate of Northville High School received her BA in history and MA in curriculum from Michigan State University. Prior to teaching in Mesa she taught in Virginia and Michigan.

She had heard of the summer openings from her sister, Nancy Nirider, who is legislative assistant in the congressman's office and his liaison to the District of Columbia subcommittee. Ms. Nirider first worked for Pursell in Lansing and then joined his Washington staff in January, 1977.

"Gail had decided she would like to do this and applied," recalls her mother, telling how Gail was able to get away for a visit here over the Fourth of July.

"I think I'm better equipped now to communicate how the actual process differs from our traditional textbook models."

"One of the most important factors in the kind of subjects I teach is to mobilize student interest. The firsthand knowledge I've gained this summer will enable me to make the material much more alive and personal for students," she says. The congressman relates that Ms. Sturgell was placed in the position of being a full-fledged member of the staff. She immersed herself in the intricacies of the "real" American government system.

One of her primary assignments was to take charge of Pursell's effort to gain funding for a pilot preventive health program for school districts. This involved working with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and other health agencies to generate support for the cardiovascular fitness-health program. She believes the program (called Project PREVENTION) could serve as a guide for improving the general health of both students and staff in school districts throughout the nation.

"In this program," she explains, "the school district is actively promoting good nutrition and physical fitness, as well as value and attitude changes designed to head off heart attacks and other serious physical problems. Grade school students are involved in a comprehensive fitness program to establish life-long health practices."

Fair feature

Among the 94 area craftspeople working, displaying and selling their wares at the annual Tivoli Fair sponsored by Northville Historical Society September 21-22 at Northville Downs will be John Groot of Plymouth, pewterer at Greenfield Village, shown here finishing a candlestick. Chairperson Pat Meyers announces that the fair will run from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on the Friday and until 4 p.m. on Saturday. Patchwork and applique designs will be featured at the society's own Country Store booth headed by Cheryl Gazlay who is seeking donations of homemade breads, pickles and jams for the fair which benefits Mill Race Historical Village. There will be no charge for parking but a small admission of $1 for adults and 50 cents for children will be asked.

As the intermediary, Ms. Sturgell learned about the web of HEW department's bureaucracy, considered perhaps the most complex in Washington. The staff comments that she now should be well equipped to teach about "bureaucratic influence."

Congressman Pursell, as a member of the House Appropriations Subcommittee which sets budgets for the Labor and HEW departments is involved in a variety of education-related projects. He was in a perfect position, the staff relates, to give Ms. Sturgell experience and to gain from her professional expertise.

One of Pursell's other chief projects concerns programs for gifted and talented students. Ms. Sturgell has taught an American history course for gifted students at the Arizona school, and thus gave insights Pursell feels are valuable.

Congressman Pursell and New York Senator Jacob Javits recently collaborated on new legal language and improved funding for gifted and talented programs nationwide.

In addition to her education-related work the teacher also was assigned to work on legislation specifically relevant to women.

Some of the topics she has dealt with include the legal rights of both pregnant women and rape victims, benefits for working spouses, and the inequities for women in the social security system.

In addition to the assignments termed "high-profile and issue-oriented" she also purposefully was involved in some of the tedious detail and research work that forms a major part of the output of a congressional office.

For example, she was in charge of organizing background material from Pursell's earlier career as a state senator. The papers eventually will end up in the archives of the University of Michigan, which is forming a collection of Pursell's documents.

In off duty hours, Ms. Pursell was recruited as a starter on the softball team drawn from Pursell's staff and those of two other Michigan congressional offices.

She took on a variety of tennis opponents, including the congressman. Tennis is his main recreational activity. He says he considers his game "pretty fair" as he holds his own against the teacher who displays considerable talent on the court.

The visitor's cultural activities were concentrated on museums and other low-budget items as her salary for the summer didn't come close to matching expenses. She did stay with her sister, who lives in Maryland.

Both sisters have amazed their parents with their political orientation. Mrs. Nirider reports that Nancy Nirider will be beginning law school classes in two weeks at the University of Baltimore law school. Ms. Nirider also was graduated from Northville High and then attended Miami University in Ohio for two years before transferring to MSU.

Ms. Sturgell will return to Mesa and teaching her fourth year in that system in September. To her other accomplishments she can add, "Congressional staff member, Washington, D.C., 1979."

'County government has 27 legs, 9 arms, no head'

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the text of a talk made before the Northville Kiwanis Club by Wayne County Commissioner Mary Dumas on county reorganization.

County reorganization and court reorganization are the "hottest games" in town next to the Chrysler problems, and everybody appears to have his own theories about what is best for Wayne County, only nobody can get together on solving the problem.

The fact is that Wayne County government, as presently constituted, is archaic and framers of the new Michigan Constitution evidently did not understand the functions of county government too well and merely put a patchwork over what already existed. P.A.s of 1968 & 1969 replaced the old boards of supervisors with boards of commissioners elected from geographic districts (currently 27 in Wayne County). Prior to that time, the supervisors most of them representing the cities, townships and school districts and more concerned with their own local problems than with county-wide issues were the policy-making body for the county.

The day-to-day administrative duties and budgeting were directed by the board of auditors and carried out by the sheriff, prosecutor, register of deeds and drain commissioner — in a county whose tax base was growing rapidly.

The functions and responsibilities of Wayne County government were not as extensive or complicated as they are today. The county collected taxes, conducted elections, enforced the law, built sewers, operated a hospital, administered welfare programs and supported the courts. As long as there was plenty of money to meet rising costs and the sheriff wasn't involved in ticket scandals nobody paid too much attention to county government.

Unfortunately, about the time that elected boards of commissioners as policy makers took over, the federal and state governments were beginning to pass laws making counties responsible for additional functions — water and air pollution; community mental health, substance abuse, economic community development; problems of the aging. Crime rates rose, unemployment increased, public employees organized and became increasingly militant. Courts decided that prisoners had rights, the indigent had rights to medical assistance and legal counsel. Compulsory arbitration laws, workmens compensation and unemployment compensation benefits were increased. The courts themselves went to court to prove that they and not county boards of commissioners were their own bosses.

Unfortunately, for Wayne County all these things occurred at a point in time when major growth in Wayne County was beginning to level off, when the cost of managing government was catching up with and beginning to surpass available revenues. At first this was not noticeable because Washington was suddenly making available huge quantities of supposedly free money (LEAA dollars, HEW dollars for public and mental health), dollars for crime fighting (organized crime task force), sewers, roads, computer systems improvement, consumer protection.

Every county agency and department jumped on the free money bandwagon for new programs — many of them worthwhile, a few just a means of empire building.

A little recognized fact is that only one third of the county's revenue comes from property tax dollars. The balance comes from fees charged for some county services and from federal and state grants, reimbursements and pass through dollars such as revenue sharing and social services funding.

The bad news came when the free money ran out and the county had to begin to pick up the whole bill or cut back services. That is when the board of commissioners had to start to set priorities regarding mandated and necessary services and where we finally had our donnybrook with every department head and every other elected official in Wayne County — each of whom thought the functions of his bailiwick deserved top priority.

That is when the impossible structural form of Wayne County government became obvious to everyone. Wayne County was a gigantic organizational monster with no head, 27 legs and 9 arms. A government with a judiciary, a legislature, several small empires but no chief executive.

Several of us had argued for some time that no organization of this size and complexity — with a budget of over $300 million — could operate effectively and efficiently without an administrative head to handle the day to day operations of such a gigantic corporation and without an elected executive who has sufficient political clout to knock a few department heads together, deal on an equal basis with other constitutional officers of the county, the governor's office, and the mayor of Detroit. Someone who can sit on the employer side of the bargaining table without serious conflicts of interest, who can adequately represent the needs and interests of nearly three million people and not have to respond to the narrower constituency of a single commission district of 100,000.

From 1974 on a number of us have conducted an uphill fight to get the county executive proposal on the ballot. This year the battle has been not so much "Does Wayne County need reorganization," but how and when. Approximately half of the commissioners (Detroit Commissioners) support the County Charter method under PA 293. However, most of those same commissioners do not favor an elected county executive but propose instead a county manager whose decisions would still be subject to the approval of the board of commissioners.

The out-county caucus supports the election of a strong county executive with well defined powers whether by PA Act 139, which allows for creation of an elected executive, or by the home rule charter approach. Unfortunately, several commissioners from both groups oppose the elimination of certain other elected county officers.

In addition, the out-county commissioners opposed a proposed amendment to the County Home Rule Charter Bill which would make the charter districts (ranging from 50,000 to 100,000) contiguous with the present county commission districts now very unequal in population. This would leave Detroit-elected charter commissioners in control of the charter commission and could produce a charter which would not include a county executive and might not be otherwise acceptable to voters outside the City of Detroit.

Early this June, by a very close vote, the board of commissioners adopted a report calling for a charter commission election at the Presidential Primary with the provisions that the legislature not delete the requirement for an elected county executive and would leave open the possibility of combining or eliminating other elected officials. Since then those elected officials and the Detroit Commissioners have spent much of their time running back and forth to Lansing lobbying the governor and the legislature against the majority position.

Gentlemen, I know that PA 139 is not perfect — I also recognize that Wayne County reorganization must start somewhere and I believe it requires an elected county executive to strengthen county government. That is the main reason Commissioner Pilch, Commissioners Joyner and I are supporting the ballot proposal to Provide A County Executive (PACE).

Area Newsbeat

PINCKNEY — The Pinckney school district suffered a crushing defeat last week when voters handily defeated for the second time this summer a request for 5.95 additional mills. The defeat means the school cannot open a showcase elementary school completed this summer on M-36 east of Pinckney.

HOWELL — Human services agencies in Livingston county clashed again last week over government funds available under the Title XX of the Social Security Act for the elderly, handicapped and low-income citizens — anyone receiving public assistance. As it stands now, no agency — and no needy citizens — will benefit from the $64,000 allocated to Livingston in 1980.

BRIGHTON — Headstones, busted off their foundations, lie broken and useless on many gravesites. On the east side of the cemetery, two crypts, one with remains of people buried there in the late 1800s and early 1900s, have been vandalized. Bones lie among the fast-food cups and wrappers on the floor.

BRIGHTON — District Court Judge Michael Merritt, after a three and one-half hour preliminary examination, has refused to bind over any federal "DOT" personnel for trial on charges that they illegally dumped salt brine into the Huron River in Green Oak Township.

SOUTH LYON — To avoid making major budget cuts, the South Lyon Board of Education voted 6-0 to tentatively set mid-October as the time to ask district voters for a millage increase. The board has not yet specified the amount of the tax increase.

SOUTH LYON — In the interest of preserving history and their investment, the owners of the South Lyon Hotel have given the historic building a bright new look. Dark redwood paint now covers the weathered bricks and a soft cream trims the porch posts and entrances. Although the exact date of its construction is not known, it at one time was named the Whipple House and for years was the center of community activities. It occupies the site of a former South Lyon cemetery.

NOVI — Voters eliminated Russell Button and William O'Brien from the running for three Novi council seats in the city's first local primary election Tuesday. Six contestants — Robert Schmid, Martha Hoyer, Harry Densmore, Michael Duchesneau, Dwight Teachworth, and John Chambers — will now advance to the November general election.

NOVI — The school board here has adopted an official position that allegations in a suit pending before federal district court filed by former employee Dr. Patrick Best "are without merit of foundation and that in due course the court will so determine." Best is seeking $500,000 in damages, his reinstatement and all back pay. He has alleged that exercising his right to free speech cost him his job.

NOVI — Negotiations between the teachers and administration of the Novi schools have gone public. Assistant Superintendent William Barr detailed positions of both bargaining teams in a school board meeting, making good an earlier board promise that the talks would be aired before the public if a contract were not settled before August 1. So far the school district's position has been to offer a 15 percent salary increase to be split over two years. Teachers have asked for 22.5 percent increase, which includes a cost of living adjustment.

NOVI — Soon the steel will be going up on the new police building on Ten Mile and then, the architect reports, "you will really see a difference on the hilltop." So far workers have put in the foundation, masonry and underground electrical work. Completion of the new police headquarters is scheduled for late spring next year.

NOVI — An ordinance aimed at regulating adult bookstores and other forms of adult entertainment has been adopted by the city council.

WALLED LAKE — Walled Lake and Oakland County officials are looking into the city's records in an effort to account for some $14,000 in federal comprehensive employment and training act (CETA) funds for 1974-76.

WALLED LAKE — The city and police chiefs here have been named as defendants in a lawsuit filed against nine law enforcement officials for their part in a May 1978 raid on the Camelot Inn that resulted in the arrest of 11 bar employees and patrons.

WIXOM — Developers of a proposed motel restaurant-bar complex on the northwest corner of Grand River and South Wixom Road received some good news from the Wixom Planning Commission. Specifically, the planners unanimously approved the site plan for the proposed development.

College offers help for secretarial exam

Schoolcraft College will offer a new two-part series of courses for secretaries who want to prepare for the Certified Professional Secretary (CPS) examination scheduled at the college each May.

Developed by Schoolcraft secretarial instructor Christine Covert, the series is entitled Professional Development for Secretaries. The Saturday morning sessions will meet from 9 to 11:40 and will cover the six subject areas included in the CPS examination.

Part I includes the first three courses. Behavioral Science in Business will be taught by Jan Jacobs a Ph.D., part-time Schoolcraft instructor and Redford superintendent of schools on September 22, 29 and October 6.

Schoolcraft accounting instructor Candis Martin will present Accounting on October 13, 20, 27, November 3 and 10.

Business Law will be taught by attorneys Renard Kolasa, Alan Roeder and Kathryn Gilson from the Southfield law firm of Bassey, Selesko, Couzens & Murphy, on November 17, December 1, 8 and 15. A mini-exam on Part I is scheduled from 1 to 3:30 p.m. on December 15.

Part II is scheduled during the winter semester and will cover Office Procedures & Administration, Economics and Management, and Business Communications & Decision Making.

Resident tuition for each part is $34 and non-residents pay $55. The mail-in registration deadline is August 24. Walk-in registration is scheduled on September 10 and 11 and late registration is on September 19 and 20. Registration brochures and further information may be obtained by calling the continuing education office at 591-6400, extension 404.

Application deadlines for the 1980 CPS examination are December 1 for new candidates and February 1 for those retaking exams. Individuals may apply by writing the Institute for Certifying Secretaries, 2440 Pershing Road, Suite G-10, Kansas City, MO 64108.

Manikin helps save lives

Anne's a real 'wonder woman'

By KEN KOVACS

Anne has arrived.

Complete with blond hair, blue eyes and red, green and yellow performance gauge lights, the CPR 'wonder woman' has arrived in Northville with her companion Resusci-baby.

And according to Patrolman James Marks of the Northville Police Department, the cardio pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) training manikin will soon be getting around town.

"We want to re-certify members of the police department and fire department and then begin training other city and recreation employees," he said.

"After that we will make the training program available to citizens and interested groups.

"Everyone should know how to perform CPR," he continued. "Situations may arise where a victim's living or dying could depend on whether or not someone can perform CPR."

Members of the police and fire departments are trained in CPR, Marks said, but prior to the acquisition of Anne, Northville had to borrow a training manikin from Detroit General Hospital, which made it difficult to conduct training sessions.

Resusci-Anne and Resusci-baby were purchased jointly by the Northville police, fire and recreation departments, each paying one third of the total $662.

Marks, a certified CPR instructor hopes to get at least one other person certified to teach — possibly a member of the fire department — so that he will have some assistance in conducting training programs to various groups.

Police and firefighters received the Basic Cardio Life Support course, which includes one-man CPR, two-man CPR, obstruction of airway passages and infant resuscitation.

Citizens groups and individuals will receive Heart Saver training certification, which includes one-man CPR only. This course takes about three hours to complete (with a class of 10 or 12 people) while the basic support training can take six hours or more.

Upon completion of the program, which includes a lecture, movie, demonstration and performance by the trainees, each person who performs CPR to the satisfaction of the instructor will receive a card from the Michigan Heart Association verifying their proficiency in CPR.

Northville Fire Chief James Allen said that citizens are very eager to learn CPR.

"I get many, many phone calls from people who want to be trained," he said. "Now we can facilitate them."

Plumber wants more money

A demand for additional monies, in excess of $80,000, for its work at Allen Terrace by U.S. Refrigeration has been turned over to City Attorney Philip Ogilvie for his recommendation.

After reading the plumbing firm's request for additional money and after hearing the firm's attorney explain that request last week, Allen Terrace architect Donald DiComo and City Manager Steven Walters called it "preposterous" and "unwarranted."

U.S. Refrigeration, citing the architect's own day-to-day field reports, blamed other trades and poor construction scheduling for delays that forced up labor and materials costs far beyond U.S. Refrigeration's bid price.

DiComo, on the other hand, noted that U.S. Refrigeration failed to disclose that the same field reports detailed repeated construction delays by U.S. Refrigeration itself.

He and the manager suggested to the Northville Building Authority that evidence exists to show that delays by the plumber cost the city as much or more than that claimed by the plumbing firm.

Because of U.S. Refrigeration's claim and its warning that unless quick settlement is made a lawsuit or arbitration petition will be filed, the building authority voted to withhold final payment to the plumbing firm until after it hears from Ogilvie.

Some $12,000 is still owed U.S. Refrigeration. It was held back by the building authority pending satisfactory completion of the project.

Authority members agree that the work by U.S. Refrigeration has now been completed, but in view of the firm's demand for substantial additional monies beyond what was originally contracted, the authority has decided not to pay the $12,000.

That money could be part of the city's own claim should the matter go to court, officials have stated

School crossings

Policemen attend seminar on safety

Northville and Northville township police were among 105 law enforcement agencies attending a school crossing guard workshop Monday (August 13) sponsored by Automobile Club of Michigan and the Michigan Department of Education.

The half-day seminar, one of eight held throughout the state this month, took place at the Southfield Holiday Inn.

The program was designed to help police comply with state requirements that all adult school crossing guards receive four hours of training and two hours of annual review from local officers in traffic control, first aid and other areas.

Persons attending also reviewed formulas to determine where guards are most needed and will receive new federally mandated reflectorized hand-held stop signs and highly visible orange-and-white-striped guard vests.

Banners may go up here

The Northville Historical Society has been granted permission to erect banners publicizing the September Tivoli Fair.

To be hung across Northville Road at Seven Mile and across Sheldon north of Seven, the signs will go up two weeks prior to the September 21 event.

Camping's no longer beef jerky 'n dirt

By BRIAN MARTIN

When Roy Rogers rode the lonely trail and decided to bed down for the night, he just fluffed up Trigger's saddle under his head, pulled a blanket out of his saddlebag, stuck a chew of beef jerky in his cheek and hummed "Happy Trails."

When Ed Thelen and his family decided to camp out for five days, they set up their four-person tent, rolled out four sleeping bags and fired up some coals for some instant coffee.

When Paul Alvarez and his relatives arrived at Bishop Lake State Park for a one-week stay, Alvarez pulled up his customized van next to his 10-person mosquito net tent, cranked up the stereo and turned on the television so he wouldn't miss his favorite shows.

You've come a long way, camping equipment.

The camping industry has boomed from a metal coffee pot sale to a multi-million dollar business. No longer is beef jerky acceptable around the campfire.

The main entree now includes freeze dried beef stroganoff, freeze dried beef noodle soup, freeze dried orangeade, freeze dried banana cream pudding all included in a packet for four that sells for $8.49 at your local camping store.

No longer does a saddlebag suffice for comfort. Instead, goose down sleeping bags in decorator colors by Peter Max lay inside luxurious roving vans equipped with quadraphonic sound systems and catalytic heater units.

And woe be it to be caught with a fire started only with tinder: no camper should travel without his super-duper triple burner propane gas stove.

All of this advancement in the camping accessories has developed only within the last couple of years. Camping specialty shops have every accessory imaginable for the camper to provide all the comforts of home.

And some of them make camping even more comfortable than the average home.

For instance, in the sleeping bag department, the old lined bags have been replaced by goose down numbers that are guaranteed to keep the camper warm up to temperatures of -35 degrees. Coleman has developed its stove line all the way from a Bunsen burner flame to a three-burner propane or white gas unit featuring variable temperatures for all three burners, and certainly radar ranges aren't far from reality for the weekend camper.

Tents stretch from the standard pup tent variety to a gargantuan 10-person structure with front and back entrances, mosquito netting and catalytic heating units that maintain the infer atmosphere at a cozy 72 degrees without warming up itself.

Obviously, everyone who camps does not run to the Camping Boutique for the latest line in fall fashions. Normally only the most advanced backpacker bothers with the hand held stoves, comparing weight and size with distance to be covered and type of terrain.

Approximately 80 percent of the retail market in camping sales go to the beginner to intermediate level camper, similar to the snow skiing market.

Thus, most of the sales go to the occasional camper who goes out maybe four to five times a summer. If that be the case, the sport is moderately cheap and downright economical after the initial expenses have been surpassed.

For a family of four planning a little weekend trip, a store with a decent variety of goods but not necessarily a specialty shop is the best bet for the family with an eye on the pocketbook.

The children can get by with a suitable sleeping bag which will keep its occupant comfortable down to 30 degrees and can be had for under $15. The parents may wish a little nicer bag, one in the $20-$25 range.

There won't be much need for elaborate backpacks or large cooking units as most will simply drive up to the campsite in the family car and pack the clothes in suitcases.

The family can bring along a frying pan and dig a pit for a charcoal or wood fire plus pack some food from home in a large cooler, which is a necessity. Plan on catching enough fish for at least one meal to save on the hassle of transporting large inventories of foodstuffs from the kitchen pantry.

For a tent, most salespersons would suggest an eight-by-ten umbrella tent, which is large enough for four to sleep comfortably and still allow enough headroom to stand up and walk in and out easily.

Thus, a family can probably get away with only a cost around $100 for the very basic of equipment that will last for a couple of years until they decide to upgrade their equipment or invest in elaborate accessories.

"The accessory department is where the big sales are," said a salesman for Hermans World of Sporting Goods in Ann Arbor. He showed sleeping bags that cost up to $190 and backpacks up to $400 in the basics, but then exhibited the wide world of accessories.

In accessories, items such as portable toilets to fit in backpacks with disposable plastic bags and fire sticks "for the guy who can't light a fire" line the shelves of large camping departments.

Coleman Corporation, which is the largest camping equipment manufacturer, produces stoves, lanterns, coolers, tents, family tents, sleeping bags, lanterns, guns (Coleman owns Winchester), and mess kits, along with replacement parts and many more extras.

The latest craze in the accessory boom has to be freeze dried food. A genuine smorgasbord is available, ranging from a 90 cent package of crunchy banana chips to the $3.15 package of potatoes and beef with onions to the aforementioned beef stroganoff family pack that feeds four, which costs $8.49.

Other delicacies such as different flavored ice creams, cinnamon coated dried apple chunks, scrambled eggs, homefried potatoes, lasagna and spaghetti dinners are available on your favorite freeze dried food grocer.

Of course, it is up to the individual camper to decide what his or her wants and needs are.

For the Ed Thelen family camping out at the Rustic Camp in the Bishop Lake State Park in Brighton, the basics sufficed adequately along with a rural setting.

"We didn't want to go to the other place (a camp a mile away with electricity and roving vans) where everyone's so close. Heck, you might as well stay home," Ed drawled.

His wife Connie concurred. So did his two children, Cory and Denise, who seemed perfectly content sitting around the campfire in the middle of the day last week.

However, Paul Alvarez and his family group of ten chose the "other place," or at least Paul appeared relaxed in the setting.

There he could relax in the sun in a lounge chair within earshot of the stereo in the van and also have electricity for the portable television, the stove, the radio, the blender, and all the other "kitchen" appliances.

"It's much better here than at Proud Lake," Paul said. "That's where all the crud from Detroit hang out...that's the truth," the Detroit resident said.

State industry offers fascinating adventure

Regardless of where tourists go in Michigan, it's more than likely that a product famous nationwide is being made nearby, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

The list of goods stamped "Michigan-made" is almost limitless, ranging from edibles such as butter, wine, cheese and fudge, to shoes, canoes, archery equipment and automobiles. Many of the state's manufacturers have extended tourists standing invitations to view their operations.

To see how white-hot steel is molded into the family automobile, take an auto plant tour. Contact Ford Motor Company 313-322-0034 in Dearborn, or go through any of several General Motors plants in Flint, Saginaw, Kalamazoo and Lansing by calling its Detroit headquarters at 313-556-4444.

Visitors to Frankenmuth can get a taste of chicken or German food and then enjoy Christmas in July at Bronner's, home of America's largest year-around yuletide decoration display. For operating hours, call 517-652-9931.

What began as Dr. John H. Kellogg's health food sanitarium in the late 1800s made Battle Creek the nation's cereal capital. Visitors to the Kellogg Company complex can see how tons of grain are transformed into Corn Flakes, Bran and Rice Krispies and get a free sample by calling 616-966-2000.

Food for younger palates is made at Gerber Products Company in Fremont, the country's top baby food producer. Visitors are given free juice and product samples on tours, arranged by calling 616-928-2614.

Anyone who's ever visited Mackinac Island knows of its most famous export, fudge. Each summer tourists jam main street fudge shops to watch as the sweet treat is ladled, scooped and kneaded into loaves.

Visitors can taste free samples of Michigan's home-grown wines at any of eight West Michigan wineries. Those offering samples with tours include Lakeside Winery near Harbert (616-469-0700); Tabor Hill Vineyards near Buchanan (616-422-1161); Bronte Winery near Hartford (616-621-4419), and Fenn Valley Vineyards near Fennville (616-521-2396).

Three wineries offering tours in the Paw Paw area are Warner Vineyards (616-657-3165); St. Julian Wine Company (616-657-5568), and Frontenac Vineyards (616-657-5531).

Only two years old, Traverse City's Leelanau Wine Cellars (616-946-1653) presently offers no tours, but has a tasting room.

What goes better with wine than cheese, especially the made-in-Michigan variety bought fresh from the wheel at Pinconning, the state's cheese-making capital since 1915. Free samples of various cheeses are offered at all cheese stores.

Michigan also is famous for its farm products. It is the nation's top blueberry producer, with most productive fields in southwest Michigan near South Haven, site of the annual National Blueberry Festival in July. The five county region around Traverse City also is tops in the country in tart cherry production. The harvest is celebrated each July during the National Cherry Festival.

The state also is among the top 10 producers of plums, apples, celery, pears, sugar beets, peaches and dairy products.

Anyone who has eaten or drank too much of Michigan's goods can take a Midland product for headaches. Dow Chemical Company, a major manufacturer of plastics and cleaners, is one of the world's largest aspirin producers. The raw product is shipped in bulk form to drug firms for processing. For tour information, call 517-636-2591.

Michigan's forests produce more by volume now than in the 1800s, when lumbering was the state's biggest industry. Most trees now are harvested for paper production.

To see how paper is made, tour the Brown Company in Kalamazoo (616-383-5071). It produces folding cartons, parchment and specialty papers. Muskegon's S.D. Warren Company (616-755-3761, ext. 261) turns out glossy printing paper.

For other forest products, visit Grand Rapids, the nation's major producer of school, church and theater seating. The site of the world's only museum devoted exclusively to furniture is in nearby Holland. The Baker Furniture Museum there (616-392-8761) offers daily tours.

While other plants can't be toured, they contribute much to the state's economy. A Hastings plant turns out Pro-Line archery equipment while thousands of canoes used by families and wilderness campers alike are produced by Oscoda's Sawyer Canoe Company.

Keglers across the country know of Brunswick bowling equipment but not many know it's made in Muskegon. Niles is home of Simplicity Pattern Company's clothing patternmakers and municipal castings are manufactured by the East Jordan Iron Works in East Jordan.

A Consumers Power Company plant at Marysville changes gas too dangerous for home use into safer natural gas while Alma is home of the Total Petroleum Corporation, the state's second largest oil refinery.

Wolverine World Wide, Incorporated, at Rockford, produces millions of pairs of Hush Puppy pigskin shoes each year.

Old forts paint colorful past

To relive Michigan history, take a trip to a restored army fort or 19th Century village, explore the mysteries of an Upper Peninsula ghost town, buy some penny candy in an old-time country store or visit an Indian burial ground, suggests Automobile Club of Michigan.

Fort-hopping will take travelers from Detroit west to Niles and north to Mackinaw City, Mackinac Island and Copper Harbor.

At Detroit's Old Fort Wayne, completed in 1851, visitors can see the original stone barracks and powder magazine while touring exhibits depicting the city's military history.

While not a fort, Niles' Fort St. Joseph Museum contains artifacts of a one-time military post built in 1691 and held at various times by French, British and Spanish troops.

A trip to the Straits of Mackinac brings travelers to Mackinaw City's Fort Michilimackinac, where the 1763 capture of the British fort by the Indians is re-enacted every Memorial Day, and to Mackinac Island's Fort Mackinac, dating from 1781.

At Michigan's northernmost tip, Fort

Wilkins State Park near Copper Harbor holds the last original wood fort east of the Mississippi River. Built in 1844, the stockade's whitewashed buildings are filled with furniture, tools, clothing and other relics of the past.

Horse-drawn carriages and a steam locomotive take visitors back through time at Greenfield Village in Dearborn. Nineteenth Century buildings in this famous collection of Americana include the home where Noah Webster completed his first dictionary and an inn from the old Detroit-to-Chicago stagecoach route.

More than a dozen buildings from the last century plus a recreation area and lake are seen by visitors who take the steam locomotive ride at Crossroads Village near Flint.

Michigan's logging era is the subject of one of the displays at Lake City's Guest Country Store Museum, a complex of three old school buildings.

The elegant homes of two 19th Century lumber barons can be toured at Muskegon's Heritage Village. Another one-time home of lumber barons, Huron City in the Thumb, was destroyed by fire in 1881 and rebuilt. Today, its Restored Lumber Town boasts a museum, 19th Century general store and Coast Guard station.

Charlton Park Village and Museum near Hastings has 10 buildings from the 1800s, including a stagecoach inn, blacksmith shop and bank. Northville's Mill Race Historical Village features a cottage where visitors can purchase work by the Northville Weavers' Guild. Highlight of Livonia's Quaker Acres is a museum in a Quaker house built in 1846 for religious worship.

Ludington's first home is included in Pioneer Village, which sits atop a Lake Michigan bluff. Also in West Michigan are three attractions with windmills. Fremont's Windmill Gardens has nine restored mills, including a century-old windmill.

A 200-year-old Dutch windmill is the center of Windmill Island at Holland, and both miniature windmills and wooden shoes are among the souvenirs available at nearby Dutch Village.

Two Upper Peninsula ghost towns which tell the history of Michigan's mining era are Victoria, south of Ontonagon, and Fayette, in Fayette State Park near Garden. Victoria is a 100-year-old copper mining town with three restored log cabins open for tours.

Fayette, an 1880s iron smelting center, has five restored buildings, including an opera house and lime kiln.

Penny candy is only one of the items for sale at Rockford's Squires Street Square, a collection of restored shops offering everything from handmade candles and furniture to quilting supplies and antiques. Hungry shoppers can dine at the Old Mill on the Rogue River.

The country store atmosphere is everywhere at Apple Barrel Farms near Washington, where buildings dating back to the 1860s have been made into shops selling home baked goods, stained glass items and antiques. Center of attention is the Octagon House, an eight-sided home which has been designated a National Historic Landmark.

Indian artifacts from the Ottawa, Chippewa and Potawatomi tribes are displayed in the Great Lakes Museum at Cross Village near Harbor Springs. Nearby is an Indian burial ground. The town was named for the rustic white cross which was raised on the spot where Father Jacques Marquette came ashore 300 years ago.

AG to C&O: beef up lake ferry service

By WARREN M. HOYT

Attorney General Frank Kelley has filed suit and a formal complaint to compel the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company to add a third auto ferry across Lake Michigan during the peak summer season — August 1 to September 4 — while the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) reviews the railroad's plans to discontinue service completely.

The suit, filed in the Ingham Circuit Court, would require the railroad to increase its auto and passenger ferry service from Ludington to the three Wisconsin cities of Milwaukee, Manitowoc and Kewaunee.

It would further require the railway company to abide by the schedules it had previously published for the peak tourist season.

Traditionally, the railroad added a third ship to the Ludington to Wisconsin service during the seasonal period to accommodate vacationers. Previous published schedules show three boats during the period. Kelley charged the railroad changed its plan and recently announced that the third ship would not be added.

Upon a request of Kelley, the ICC has agreed to review a previous order giving the railroad the authority to discontinue all ferry service from Ludington to the Wisconsin cities.

He will argue the case before the ICC contending that allowing the railroad to discontinue service will work an economic hardship on businesses and individuals who rely on the ferry service.

Additionally, in a complaint filed Monday in U.S. District Court, Kelley argued that reduction of the scheduled sailings not only deprives the traveling public of reasonable service but also adversely impacts on the public and the economy as a whole. He also said the ferry service saves millions of gallons of gasoline that would otherwise be used by the motorists.

Consumers can now get loans for energy conservation programs from, believe it or not, utility companies themselves.

Rules regulating loans utility companies can make interest free loans to home owners for installing fuel conservation devices as long as those devices can be paid off within seven years.

The devices can include insulation and furnace and fuel modifications.

As originally proposed, the rules would have allowed the utility companies to charge a modest interest rate, but consumer groups came up in arms saying to charge interest was in violation of the act permitting the loans.

At that time the rules produced much controversy and were modified to eliminate any interest charged.

PSC Chairman Daniel Demlow, declared the rules will help save natural gas in Michigan at a time when energy conservation is America's number one priority.

The approved rules allow the utilities to recover the cost of their loan program by putting a surcharge on all customers bills.

The rules also require that only qualified contractors install conservation devices if home owners do not self install them.

So, if consumers are looking for a source of funds to install energy savings devices, the best place to look is within the utility companies themselves.

A state official has called for federal disaster aid to be made available to urban or industrial states that would be particularly hard hit by a recession.

Testifying before a U.S. Senate Committee, John Dempsey, director of the state Department of Social Services, said the federal government should pay a greater share of the cost of social assistance to the unemployed and poor during a recession.

Under current funding formulas for Medicaid and Aid to Families with Dependent Children, the federal government bases its payments on historical data rather than current expenditure, Dempsey charged.

He noted that with the formula, a state often gets higher federal payments when the need is not as great.

Dempsey said the extra funding is particularly needed in Michigan during a recession when revenues from income taxes, sales and single business taxes go down but expenditures for assistance to the unemployment and poor go up.

The social services director asked the committee to consider lifting the allowable 4 percent error rate on assistance payments.

Under the funding formula, states are penalized for having error and fraud rates greater than 4 percent of the total payment.

He maintained that during a recession, errors go up because persons receiving payments often do not report changes in income that would lower or end their assistance.

Dempsey also asked Congress to raise the limit on food stamp expenditures during recession periods in large urban and industrial states.

Most areas in the state could have public transportation facilities to state parks and recreational areas if a Muskegon County pilot project is successful.

Under a grant from the state, Muskegon County is operating a 10-week project to determine the usefulness of providing the transportation to people who otherwise would not be able to enjoy state outdoor recreational activities.

Michigan residents may now call their state senators direct on a state toll-free line.

Two lines have been installed in the secretary of the Senate's office where messages will be received and transmitted to individual senator's offices.

In turn, that senator or a member of his staff is to return the call immediately to receive concerns or answer questions of citizens.

Your elected representative is in Lansing to serve you so let them hear from you. Call your senator at 1-800-292-5891.

Attorney General Frank J. Kelley has ruled that public school administrators may not search student lockers or cars without first obtaining search warrants.

In an opinion to Rep. Bela Kennedy, (R-Bangor), Kelly said school administrators may want to search lockers or student cars on school property in an effort to find weapons, narcotics or other illegal substances, but court opinions have clearly established that students have constitutional rights while at school.

"It's indeed unfortunate that the presence of narcotics, weapons or other materials may prompt school administrators to want to search lockers or cars, but the law clearly protects the constitutional rights of students and requires a search warrant," Kelley said.

JANET E. BAKER of Northville is working as a student trainee this summer at Westinghouse Hanford Company, a firm involved in advanced reactor technology in Richland, Washington.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Baker of Northville.

The training program is sponsored by the Northwest College and University Association for Science (NORCUS) which administers a laboratory cooperative program for the Department of Energy.

Six Hanford contractors are participating in the 12-year old program which enables students and faculty members from 48 colleges and universities to engage in specialized research activities this summer.

Ms. Baker is involved with developing a computer model for predicting power requirements for future water use and the resulting impact on water availability.

JANET E. BAKER

She has a bachelor's degree in resource management from Michigan State University in 1979. Westinghouse Hanford has been a NORCUS participant since 1972, employing 12 trainees in the program this summer.

WHAT'S LARGER than a breadbox, looks like a TV set and can discover in two seconds if the catalog item you order is available?

It's Sears Order Entry computer system which has just been installed in the Sears, Roebuck and Company Store in Novi's Twelve Oaks Mall.

"This new system has been tested extensively in company stores and facilities around the country," said Robert P. Lane, Sears local manager, "and has received favorable reviews from both customers and employees because of the speed, accuracy and the completeness of information it gives shoppers."

The key to the system is a cathode ray tube (CRT) with a television-like screen. After a stock number is entered on the CRT, all pertinent information about the item is flashed on the operator's screen. Not only is the customer told if it's available, but also which styles, sizes, colors, etc. are ready to be shipped.

If the item currently is out of stock, the computer gives the details about alternate selections that are available.

"The Order Entry system allows the customer to make an on-the-spot decision — based on detailed information — whether to wait for a specific item or order an alternative," Lane added. "Other benefits include reduction of paperwork and simplification of order-taking."

"The computer literally refuses to accept a wrong stock number," he continued. "This alone is a great boon to a business so dependent on accuracy and service. The fact that we can now tell our customers instantly if we can ship their selection is a source of great satisfaction."

John E. Conder Jr., 20455 Woodhill Rd., Northville, has been promoted to the position of regional marketing manager of the Maytag company.

JOHN E. CONDER

Conder, a native of Detroit, has been associated with the Iowa-based appliance manufacturer since 1959. During this time he has worked with Maytag dealers in the promotion and sale of kitchen and laundry appliances in the Detroit area.

A graduate of Wayne State university, Detroit, with a bachelor of science degree, he and his wife, Constance, have three children.

CALLING IT a first for a registered dietitian in the Detroit area, Katharine Crossman has opened a private practice in dietetics at 29200 Vassar Drive in Livonia across from Livonia Mall.

CAROL O. LONG, R. N. of Novi, has recently assumed the position of director of professional services of the Home Care of Southeastern Mich., Inc., a private non-profit voluntary agency.

The agency's services benefit residents in Washtenaw County and extend north to I-96, east to Inkster Road, south to M-50 and west to the Washtenaw County line and M-36.

Long's background includes a B.S.N. from Marquette University in 1974 and an M.S. in nursing health services administration from the University of Michigan in 1978.

She views this as an opportunity to continue the provision of outstanding home care services to the community as was established by MaryLou Connolly, her predecessor and the entire agency health care team.

Home Health Care of Southeastern Michigan, Inc. provides skilled services, including nursing, physical therapy, speech pathology, occupational therapy, medical social services and home health aides for the home bound patient requiring intermittent, comprehensive health services as an alternative to long term institutionalized care. The primary goal is directed to increase each patient's independence and rehabilitation to their fullest potential by utilizing a health team approach for coordinated, quality care.

Since its inception, over 300 patients have been admitted requiring over 3000 home care assistance by agency staff through their own physicians plan of treatment.

Patients may be referred by their physicians, hospital discharge planning office, health care professionals, family members or interested members of the community.

"We are also pleased to announce that our fine quality home care is now extended to subscribers of the Blue Cross/Blue Shield coordinated home care program as was recently approved by the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Southeastern Michigan," a spokesperson said. The automobile companies, as well as many other companies, include home health care as part of their health insurance benefits.

As a result of this change, Home Health Care of Southeastern Michigan can now accept patients who have Medicare, Medicaid, Blue Cross/Blue Shield and all other third party health insurers whose reimbursement mechanism include benefits for home health care.

DIANE VON FURSTENBERG, the designer-celebrity known for her wrap dresses in the early seventies, now is designing bedsheets, comforters, shower curtains and towels as part of an exclusive collection for Sears. Her "Paisley Fantasy" slumber and bath collection is about to debut in the Sears fall and winter catalog that may be viewed soon in the catalog order department of Sears at Twelve Oaks.

The Paisley Fantasy collection is based on a simple paisley print offered in both topaz (gold) and wisteria (pink). The bedsheets are pale, with the more colorful comforter a medium tone and the bedspreads and draperies a deeper tone. "The message," says the European designer, "is color tonality. The collection was designed to be flattering to the skin." She also designed a matching lamp, a brass headboard and brass bed.

In announcing the new collection, Sears notes that the designer known previously for women's wear and accessories is one of only a few famous persons admitted to the pages of the catalog, considered a product primer and chronicler of trends for nearly 20 million households.

PACESETTER FINANCIAL CORPORATION, a multi-bank holding company, has announced net income of $0.58 per share for the second quarter of 1979 compared to $0.49 per share for the same period a year ago. For the six months ended June 30, net income was $3,895,000, versus $3,237,000 during the same period in 1978 for an increase of 20 percent. On a per share basis this amounts to $1.13 compared to $0.94 for the comparable period last year. All per share figures are based on the average number of shares outstanding and have been adjusted for the 7 percent stock dividend to be paid August 15, 1979 to stockholders of record July 13 and the 3 for 2 stock split in August, 1978.

Loan demand pushed total net loans to $537.9 million on June 30, 19 percent higher than a year ago. Deposits continued to grow and were $726.6 million at the end of the quarter, for an increase of 10 percent over June 30, 1978 level.

Pacesetter Financial Corporation has announced that it has agreed to purchase 11,363 shares of the outstanding common stock of Dearborn Bank and Trust Company at a price of $28.00 per share.

Poet's Corner

Word Flowers

*I bring the flowers of my rhyme—
They grow most any place and time;
All look best in native lore
Just growing wild around the door.*

*My flowers have no cultivation—
They come from every humble station
Of seed that sort of just dropped in
In search of soil to settle in.*

*The daffodils are sunny words
That match the songs of April birds,
The violets in purple hue
Have simple beauty, just for you.*

*Warm words are the columbine
Or most any flowering vine,
Like morning glories, full of cheer,
Or creeping vines, this time of year.*

*As random thoughts that come to mind,
Wild flowers of most any kind
Are with us all throughout each day
To serve their purpose, come what may.*

Charles E. Hutton

God and His Love

*The love that God gives us is a very special gift, for the gift of love is always there whenever you need a lift.
God gives us each day to try to improve, He wants us to stand up and get on the move.
God wants us to spread His love all around, so people will notice the joy that they've found.
God answers all our prayers in His very own special way, although we might not notice,
He answers them everyday.
God filled this world with peace and joy, it's here for everyone, get off that chair and get on out, share it with needy ones.
Our lives aren't always happiness, there is so much sadness too, but remember God's always beside you so the peace of the Lord is with you.
Everyone is born sometime, and everyone always dies, you are judged by the Mighty God with His understanding eyes.
God created this world for us to share, for someone who carries His special gifts is someone very rare.
The poems I write mean much to me, for the things on this paper are true and free.*

The Answer

*The other day he asked, that son of mine,
"In the whole world, where is the fishing the best?"
Like many a parent, it was ignorance I pleaded, Though I sought in my mind at this earnest behest.
But all through the day, while making a dollar,
The question he asked, persistently stayed,
And then came a memory from out of the past,
So dimly it came, so far had I strayed.
It was then that I remembered that farmland stream,
Of careless and lovely boyhood's day,
The sun-lit water so bright, so serene,
The willow-hung pool where the grass-pike lay.
And then I knew as only memory can tell,
The far away days of a summer's sweet spell.
The very best fishing, son of mine,
Is wherever you are when you are nine.*

Charles D. Gallarno

Seeing Inside

*Looking into a pool of dark water seeing inside, but not knowing not truly seeing, seeing inside
I see what is there what I really want to see, but yet what I want to see may not and never really be Oh how I wish it was what I truly do want
I want it to be love a love so true
a love between two.
Looking into a pool of dark water
I want to walk in
To look and really see
To touch and really feel
To love and be loved.*

Sheila McDonnell

Gossip

*Growing ever rapidly
Out of control and Swaying the decisions,
Spreading rumors
In different ways that People don't realize.*

Danette Kolarsky

Hills of Life

they slope and roll
upon all the lands of existence... lands of joy or pain, eternal one life.
We reach and give and need the moments of being able to share...
moments of freedom or moments of just being ecstatic over honesty through all turmoil and space... time.
To eternally risk all living to find our meaning.*

Patricia Kotlarczyk

Birth to death, river reflects man's life as it continues its winding course

By JANE FRANCEUR

The course of man's life is reflected in that of a river. In its infancy the river has its beginning in the heights. It hurls itself helter-skelter down the rough gradient of rapids, cascades, and whirlpools. It travels without choosing the best course, using the most direct route.

If it encounters some difficulty, such as a granite, it doesn't avoid it, but submits it to ruthless blows rendered by the rocks and pebbles always carried by the young, until conquering the obstacle, foaming and shouting as it collides with impediment. The thundering waters precipitate turbulently, filling its deep valley to the brim.

By the time it is entering maturity, the river has calmed itself. Gone the persistence and obstinacy of youth, its way is no longer direct, but branching and curved. The continual erosion of many years has reduced the gradient, which is smoother now. The river has extended across its flood plain, and the diminished waters, which can no longer sustain heavy objects, carry smaller material, now that it has carved a more comfortable bed. When it meets impediment in its route, it moves them if it can, and if not, goes around them.

In its full maturity, the river has eliminated most of the obstacles, and can move with grace and ease. Softened is the landscape that once was mountainous and rolling. The river wanders over its wide flood plains, which were nonexistent in its childhood, with a basin only half full.

And what a moving thing, the river in its old age! When its waters break upon the banks of the valley, the river leaves its residue, which, through the waning years, constructs levees that function to hoard water. Swamps with moss and reeds result from the water trapped outside the levee. Its gradient is near sea level, a fact which causes very slow movement. The river has extended itself into tributaries, trying to accumulate its rapidly escaping lifeblood. When it is provided with vernal reinforcements from the youthful heights, it squanders them on its shores as if on trinkets.

The landscape is so eroded that its original features are hardly recognizable. In a final effort of its decline, the river meanders frantically, following the route of least resistance, and plugs the mouth with deltas, which eventually give it death.

Weightlifting

By JIM HAYNES

What do we all have in common with Hercules, Sampson, Atlas and Arnold Schwarzenegger? Muscles. That's right. As hard as it is to imagine, you and I have the same basic equipment that these legendary strongmen did. The difference is that these four men and others like them worked hard to develop their allotment while, if you're like this reporter, the only exercise you get is the basic arm-bent-at-elbow lift to the wide open mouth. Instead of barbells, you lift forks and spoons.

Hercules got his workouts wrestling hydras, which was worse than a tag-team wrestling bout, because for every head he destroyed, two more popped up to replace it. After a hearty afternoon workout with a hydra, and a couple high protein/wheat germ malts, Hercules' muscles were bulging at the seams.

Sampson didn't use barbells. He lifted heavy donkey jaws. In fact, one day he got so carried away in his workout that the local army was called out because he was breaking up the gym. He was so engrossed in his workout that before he knew it, he had destroyed the entire force.

Atlas had a unique training method. According to legend, he lifted the earth instead of dumbbells. Schwarzenegger is the modern muscleman hero. He has inspired thousands of men and women across the world to start weightlifting programs. After winning every major and most minor body-beautiful contests in the world, he cashed his name in to write books and star in movies. He has three films under his belt and two books. And they all center around one theme. Weightlifting.

In the old days, all men had to work out with were cast iron weights and buckets filled with sand or cement. At the turn of the century the purpose for training with weights was to increase a person's strength. Strongmen made great circus curiosities or blacksmiths.

Today, weightlifting is a method of exercise used by athletes in a number of sports. The circus strongman has given way to the powerlifter; athletes, either men or women, who compete against each other to see who can lift the most weight.

Weightlifting is also associated with bodybuilding. In this sport, the athlete uses weights as a sculpture would use a chisel. The bodybuilder works different exercises to develop different parts of his body. The goal is large muscles in a harmonious balance.

Athletes from all sports use weightlifting as a way to gain strength. Football players lift weights a certain way with the idea of adding bulk to their bodies while at the same time, increasing their strength.

Volleyball players use weights to increase their jumping ability and hitting strength. Baseball players use weights to increase their overall strength and to make their wrists stronger.

Weights have advanced in technology from the days of cast iron balls on both ends of an iron rod. Today, besides barbells and dumbbells, athletes use Universal Gyms and Nautilus Machines. These apparatus combine

Kids' football a learning time

By REID CREAGER

To football enthusiasts, the idea would seem to be a natural.

Since professional, college and prep football are all so popular, why not organize a league on the children's level? After all, the stars of the future have to start somewhere, right?

And so, these days, kids' leagues have become pretty popular across the country — not to mention this area. Northville, Novi and Walled Lake are all represented with football loops for the very young.

But there is a marked difference between these children's leagues and the more established circuits. For one, kids' football is not preoccupied with the idea of showing a profit or drawing huge crowds, although the latter is not an unwelcome occurrence.

Also, winning is not necessarily the utmost concern of those involved, and the all-too-familiar scene of a player going back into the game after suffering an otherwise debilitating injury is unheard of.

Vince Lombardi would turn in his grave.

However, despite the Lombardi types who like to see football players willing to maim or kill for the sake of winning, children's leagues tend to place an emphasis on teaching instead. At least that seems to be the consensus of three area kids' league coaches interviewed recently.

"The best way to approach these leagues," Northville-Novis Colts Football Coach John Collins said, "is to teach the kids the right virtues and values they'll need, as well as instructing them regarding the basics of the game. We try to stress sportsmanship and fair play — things like that — while showing the kids the importance of doing one's best and having fun at the same time."

Although Collins noted the importance of good, clean competition, he added that the league his Colts are in (Western Suburban Football) doesn't emphasize winning all that much.

"Everybody likes to win," he said. "It's nice; there's no question that you'd rather win than lose. But some people get carried away with that notion, and forget that we're just dealing with kids. They're here to have fun and learn how to work together."

To learn how to work together, however, the children have to play together. That's why Collins' team operates with total participation in mind. "Every kid plays," he said. "We try to get every kid in."

the Western Suburban Football League keeps no standings, and there are no league playoffs.

Union Lake Hawks General Manager Al Gregart agreed that the emphasis should be placed on instructing the participant. His squad, a member of the eight-team Midget Football Conference, is there to learn the game, he added.

"On this level, the game is played for the kids — not the coaches or managers," he said. "Winning is nice, but nobody gets chewed out for losing."

In nearby Walled Lake, Walled Lake Eagles Public Relations Director Tom Crillo was a bit more philosophical about the service that children's football performs, although Crillo was in basic agreement with his local contemporaries.

"We try to teach kids the value of getting along, of working together and learning discipline," he said. "And really, football is a great way to do this because it's a lot like life. You have ups and downs; sometimes you win and sometimes you lose; and you have to learn to pick yourself off the ground if you get knocked down."

As far as the importance of winning on this level, Crillo also played it down.

Trevor Francis is a wizard. Trevor Francis is a god. No man can dominate a soccer game the way Francis can. He can do things with a ball that physical laws say are impossible. Trevor Francis is soccer incarnate.

Or so they would have me believe.

I had heard so much about Francis that my curiosity was aroused beyond the possible-to-ignore level. Last year when Francis descended at mid-season to salvage the Express season and lead them to the playoffs, the Detroit sports media immersed itself in Francis. It was as if Babe Ruth had been reincarnated to come back as a soccer star. Detroit had its first world-wide sports hero since Denny McLain's glory years.

Partly because of this media coverage and partly because of the interest in soccer that the Northville community had that rubbed off onto me, in April I attended my first soccer game. And I was hooked. But the one thing that impressed me was that if ever there was a total team game, soccer was it. Each man had certain skills that he was better at than another, but the ideal soccer team is a blend of such individual skills that no one man can dominate totally.

O.J. Simpson can break through the line at the five yard line and run the length of the field dodging tacklers to score a touchdown. But in soccer it is virtually impossible for one man to break at one end of the field with the ball and dribble it the length of the field and shoot it past the goalkeeper.

The Detroit media would have me believe that Francis could do it, however. I found this extremely hard to believe.

Francis plays soccer for a team in England for half of the Express season, and couldn't join the team until halfway through the current campaign. (Next year he won't be allowed to play in America. His team won't release him.) So I bided my time until he returned to Detroit, attended as many Express games as I could and became increasingly more convinced that Francis' act would have to be remarkable indeed to top the brand of soccer I had grown accustomed to seeing — particularly by the other side, who consistently made the Express look like amateurs.

Ask the Expert

Dear Expert,

My family just got back from camping on a lake up north and while we were there we got into some arguments about swimming. Is it true that you should wait an hour after you eat before you go swimming? Also, what should you do if you're in water over your head and you get a cramp in your leg or arm and it hurts too much to swim?

M.S., Northville

I don't know about the hour time limit. I've heard that rumor but I really don't know if it's correct. As for the cramps, if it is in your arm, roll over on your back and rub it out while you float. If it is in your leg, float on your stomach and rub it out. The key is not to panic. Stay relaxed and try to smooth the cramp out. If you panic there's a chance you'll drown.

many different exercises on one large frame. On the same basic framework an athlete can use various parts of the apparatus to exercise each part of his or her body.

"With the Universal Gym we can have up to 16 people working out at once," John Osborne, Novi athletic director and head football coach said. "It takes less than five seconds to change the amount of weight for an exercise. There is little chance of hurting yourself with a Universal Gym because the weights aren't free. With barbells you have to balance them while doing the exercise. You could pin yourself if the weight is too great, or worse."

"We lift weights to increase our bulk and strength," Dennis Colligan, head football coach at Northville, said. "On alternating days we do slow repetitions with heavy weights for strength, and as many reps as the athlete can with 50 percent of the maximum weight. For twenty second periods, to develop speed and quickness. We use a knee-machine to increase the strength of muscles around the knee.

"The basketball players use the machine to work on their legs. They have increased their jumping ability tremendously."

Athletes are just now wholeheartedly jumping on the weight-lifting bandwagon. For years there were stereotypes associated with barbells and bodybuilders that still linger.

"I don't know what caused them (the stereotypes)," said Steve Johnson, an Ypsilanti bodybuilder. "Bodybuilders are infatuated with the male body. Not sexually, but because he spends all his time developing his own body to beat another's that there is bound to be some interest."

Bodybuilders consider their endeavor a sport and all competitors are fascinated, maybe even jealous of another's abilities, or in this case, body. And for the ancient stereotype that all girls melt at the site of a gigantic man with rippling muscles strolling down the beach, Johnson had this to say. "Most girls think it's gross. A few really like it but most don't," he said. "Most girls enjoy being looked at so if you become the center of attention, they're jealous. You can't do it (lift weights) for girls. If that's the only reason you're doing it, the rewards aren't great enough for the amount of work you put in."

"Powerlifting consists of three main exercises," Johnson said. "The bench press (lifter lies on his back and lifts a weight off of supporting arms, lowers it to his chest and lifts it back up); the squat (lifter carries weight on his shoulders, squats down and then stands); and the deadlift (lifter picks up weight from the floor to thigh level). Powerlifters aren't concerned with their looks as much as they are with their strength. They concentrate on increasing the combined amount of total weight they can lift in the three events."

"Bodybuilding is an overall shaping that is done to make the body appealing. We work every single muscle in order to develop it. We're not concerned with strength although bodybuilders are strong too."

"I prefer bodybuilding to powerlifting because its one of the few ways in the world to change yourself. It's neat to see your body change. It's a change of image too. You could have been a 150-pound average guy in high school and then, after working out for a few years, you can be up over 200 pounds and look real good. It's good mentally for you also. Lifting helps to relieve stress. You can work out all of your frustrations on the weights. A weightroom is the only place I've found where there are no racial prejudices. Everyone is treated equally there. We're all striving for the same goal. Even a beginner is treated the same. We don't make fun of them. We were all beginners once, too."

One of the objections to body building is that you grow into middle age and older these large, once powerful muscles tend to become large, sagging bags of flab. Johnson has an answer for this too.

"Everyone's muscles sag when they get older. When I'm 60 I'll still be bigger and stronger than the average person at 60. I'll still be healthier, hopefully."

"Lifting lies on your self-concept. You become confident in yourself," he said. "It's self-rewarding."

"When you start a bodybuilding program, you should give yourself at least six months to a year to build a solid foundation," Johnson said. "Bodybuilding or powerlifting requires a solid foundation," Johnson said. "Bodybuilding or powerlifting requires a solid foundation. When you first start out, you have to be very careful not to over-train. Results are slow in coming. You don't get huge muscles overnight. I've been working extremely hard on developing my calves and in a year's time they've grown a quarter of an inch. It takes time, you just have to be patient."

Johnson outlined a basic program of exercises for the beginner. These exercises, if followed for a year Johnson said, would give you the foundation you need to start really working on a Schwarzenegger physique.

1) Bench Press: develops the chest and upper body.

2) Bent-over Row: using a barbell, lean over and grasp it, keeping your legs slightly bent and head held up, pick the weight up to your chest and lower it. Repeat. Develops the latissimus dorsi (your side muscles.)

3) Behind-the-neck Press: hold barbell high over your head, lower it behind your head to shoulder and press high again.

4) Barbell Curl: hold barbell in hands, palm up. With weight touching your thighs, curl it up to touch your chest. Develops arm muscles.

5) French Press: lay flat on a bench and grasp the barbell with hands about six inches apart, bring the weight down till it touches the middle part of your head. Bring it up in a half circular motion but don't bring your muscles forward. Develops the triceps.

6) Squat: develops the legs.

7) Toe-raises: stand on a two-by-four with toes on board and heels on the floor. Lean over and place hands on something sturdy like a bench. Have someone sit on your rump as if they were riding a horse. Raise your legs lifting the heel off the floor and stand on your toes. Develops calves.

Your training routine, according to Johnson, should be light at first. "Do one set of 10 reps of each exercise the first day," he said. "On the second day, do two sets, the third day, three sets. You should not do more than three sets, ever. During the first week, use a little weight, but not enough to strain you. On the second, the same. On the third week, you should use enough to weight to strain and then increase the amount slowly as your strength increases. You should only work out three days a week, say Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The rest of the time you should rest."

"A bodybuilder is concerned with getting bigger. Besides lifting weights, you have to have a good diet. This is very important. A training routine should consist of 10 percent sleep, 15 percent exercise and 75 percent diet. You should always eat some kind of meat each day. Chicken is economical nowadays. Milk is very important, eggs, tuna fish, cheese, peanuts, cottage cheese, lots of green vegetables, all the fruits, cheese pizza, fish. You should try to gain as much as you can. Eat daily. If you have to have sweets, eat ice cream. You have to have fuel for your growing muscles."

Running and swimming are good exercises for the cardiovascular system, but Johnson tends to think they aren't the best for bodybuilders.

"The idea is to put on muscular weight and to shape it into an attractive physique. Theoretically you are going to exert yourself so much during your workout that you won't have the energy to run," he said. "Running or swimming would tend to thin you out, to take away the weight you are trying to put on."

"The important thing is to be consistent. Your muscles start to deteriorate after three days of non-work. It takes years, not months. Just be patient and work hard."

When Francis finally arrived this season, his brand of miracles worked again. The Express started to win at least as many games as they lost. And there was an outside chance that the team could make the playoffs again. Home game after home game went by and commitments prevented me from attending, to see for myself the Francis phenomenon.

Finally on August 1 I was able to make it to another game. The Express were hosting the Houston team and Francis was recovered from the groin injury that had sidelined him for a week. I was going to see for myself what all the hubbub was about.

It was unbelievable. Francis was a wizard. Francis was a god. I've never seen a man do before what he did with that soccer ball. Why, he did things that I was taught in physics class were impossible. I'd say that Francis is soccer incarnate.

The Express won 2-0. Francis scored both goals. If any man could take a soccer ball on a run down field and score ala O.J. Simpson, it would be Francis. His feet move so fast, incredibly faster than the other players, that he makes the opposition look as if they are standing stone-still. The only reason he doesn't score more is that the opposition have taken to placing at least one man on Francis for the entire game. This man's (or men in some cases) job is to concentrate solely on stopping Francis. This man doesn't have to worry about playing offense, about stopping other players on defense, only sticking onto Francis like a shadow. And still he scored two goals. It is a comment on the ability of the other Express players that if Francis is drawing one or more players who concentrate entirely on him, and the remaining Express team get shutout, then perhaps they should stay up late at night watching Francis soccer films instead of populating the local pubs.

Other players get more country-wide ink than Francis. Pele and Giorgio Chiagli are two. But both of these players come from the New York team, the Cosmos. The New York press will make you a great player even if your ability can't. Francis holds the record for most goals averaged per game played than any one else in NASL history. He played in only 19 games last season but scored 22 goals. Chinaglia played in 30 games and scored 34 goals. This season Francis has played in 12 games and has scored 12 goals. Chinaglia has played in 26 games and has only 23 goals.

During a soccer match there will be many very small skirmishes between players, with one athlete tripping another or pushing discretely, all in an effort to rile the other to the point of open anger. If one player swings at another he will be ejected. Everyone takes a part in these minor warfares. Except Francis.

I watched closely and while everyone else was concentrating on trying to trip the other guy up or get in a dirty punch here or a hidden shove there, Francis was a true pro. His job is to score goals and that is what he was concentrating on. He was never once tried to trip-up an opposing player other than by clean soccer methods.

Sheehan's Caesars top the National League

The Blues remained the only undefeated team in both the American and National Leagues as they survived a red-hot rally by Winner's Circle last week. Sheehan's Little Caesars kept its top position in the National League even though the team dropped a contest to Custard Time/Cutler Realty. Sheehan's now has a one-game lead over CT/CR.

THE BLUES 12, WINNERS CIRCLE 11
The Blues took an 11-2 lead into the sixth inning of last week's game with Winner's Circle but nearly lost it as the third-place team rallied for six runs in the frame. The Blues managed to pick up a run in its half of the seventh and it turned out to be the winner as the circle scored three times in its half of the inning before the Blues could get three outs and end the game. Pete Wright and Bill Starnon both hit three-run home runs for the Blues. Ed Kritch had two hits, and scored three runs for the winners. Joe Bishop hit two home runs, one a grand slam in leading Winner's Circle. Bishop drove in six runs. Jeff Moon hit a home run and scored three times in a losing cause.

RIZZO REAL ESTATE 14, JOHN MACH FORD 4
Rizzo started out like a tank on the loose by scoring 13 runs in the first three innings then coasted to a 14-4 win over John Mach. Ford scored all four runs in the fourth inning. Rizzo added its final run in the fifth inning. Dan Christy hit a solo home run in the second inning for Rizzo. Jim LaPlante singled on the next pitch and came home when Bob Gerlach hit a home run for the third run of the inning. Christy had three singles and scored four runs to go along with his home-run heroics. Gerlach scored three times and Gary Lisowski, who hit three singles, also scored three runs for the winners. Paul Wren's two-run double was the big blow for John Mach. Bruce Mach walked to follow Wren's hit and then he and Wren both scored on the second big hit for Ford, a two-run triple by Bob Ganzak.

LITTLE CAESAR'S 24, BELANGER'S 2
Little Caesar's scored 15 runs in the third inning to squash Belanger's last week. Caesar's added three runs in the first, four in the fourth and two in the fifth. Belanger's picked up both of its runs in the fifth inning. Dennis Rons blasted two home runs, knocked in six runs, scored four times and walked twice. Rick Hunter hit a grand-slam home run, two doubles, knocked in six runs and scored three times. Chuck Casakker hit two doubles and a single, and scored four runs for Caesar's. George Lantagious and Karl Schager hit back-to-back doubles in the fifth inning for one run, then with two outs, Charles Dickey knocked Schager in with a single. Those three hits were all that Belanger's could muster.

WINNER'S CIRCLE 18, SHEEHAN'S ON THE GREEN, 5
Jeff Moon led Winner's Circle to an 18-5 win over Sheehan's on the Green last week as he hit a three-run home run, a two-run double and an RBI-single for six runs-batted-in. He scored three runs. Steve Terpevich had two singles and a grand slam home run for the winners. Jim Hostetter hit a triple and a single, was safe on an error and a fielder's choice and scored four runs. Rob McGuire hit two home runs for Sheehan's. He and Don McDonald each scored three runs.

LITTLE CAESAR'S 14, JOHN MACH FORD 4
Little Caesar's scored 10 runs in the first two innings to knock John Mach Ford dizzy in the beginning of the game. Caesar's added two runs in the fourth inning and one run in each of the fifth and sixth innings. Ford scored three runs in the first, one in the second and five runs in the sixth inning. Chuck Cosakker led Caesar's in offense as he hit two singles and two triples, knocked in three runs and scored four times. Jay Foran, and Jay Rustin each scored three times for the winners. Harry Webster hit two home runs for John Mach. He knocked in three Ford runs. Ray Taulbee had three hits in a losing effort.

LONG-ZAYTT 36, BELANGER'S 13
In a slugfest that saw 49 runs cross home plate, Long-Zaytt proved to have the most firepower as the team took a 36-13 win over winless Belanger's. John Sinclair provided the heavy artillery as he blasted three home runs, a triple and a double. He knocked in five runs and scored five times. Bill Sinclair hit two home runs, a double and a single. He knocked in three runs and scored four times. Rick Bingley hit four singles and two doubles to score five times for the winners. Doug Calvin hit two singles and a fielder's choice to score three times for Belanger's, Karl Schager had three hits.

STATE FARM 12, BELANGER'S 8
With Belanger's leading 8-7 going into the fifth inning, State Farm scored five runs in the frame to win 12-8. Al Parran, Dan Delaney, Tim McGorey and Greg Semack each scored twice for the winners. Bob Wentworth, Scott Bacon and Karl Schager each scored runs for Belanger's.

GREEN'S YANKEE CARPENTERS 16,

CSTD TIME/CTLR RLTY 10
Joe Staknis hit three home runs and a double to lead the Carpenters to a 16-10 win over CT/CR last week. Staknis knocked in five runs and scored four times. Tom Kuclo hit a home run and a single and Bob Macione hit a three-run home run for the winners. Jim Ervin smacked two triples and a double while scoring three times. For CT/CR, Al Cox, Mike Richardson and Dick O'Hare each scored two runs. Gary Callender hit three singles for the losing team.

O.L.V. 15, JIM STORM 2
O.L.V. scored one run in the first inning, two in the second, five in the fourth and seven runs in the fifth to blow Jim Storm off of the field last week, 15-2. Storm scored both of its runs in the third inning. John Renault hit a triple and a double and was safe on a fielder's choice play to scored three runs for

O.L.V. Ed Naszardi, Paul Freiwald and Art Northover each scored twice for the winners. Dale Garrow hit a home run for the Storm and Gregg Cook followed with a double. He scored when Wayne Etue was safe on an error.

CSTD TIME/CTLR REALTY 16, SHEEHAN'S LITTLE CAESARS 6

CT/CR scored 10 runs in the first inning to deal a mortal wound to Sheehan's chances of winning. The win moved CT/CR to within two games of Sheehan's in the standings. Sheehan's leads the National League with an 11-3 record while CT/CR is in second place at 11-5. Gary Batzloff hit a three-run home run for CT/CR in the first inning. George Danis, John Sherman and Fred Yankee each scored three runs for the winners. John Osborne hit a double and was safe on an error to score two runs for Sheehan's. Stan Tarnowski, Paul Steckley, Jim Qyerby and Mark Miller scored the other Sheehan runs.

BREW HOGS 12, O.L.V. 5

Behind 5-3 going into the fifth inning, the Brew Hogs scored three runs to take a 6-5 lead and then scored six times in

Jocks almost beaten

Doc's Jocks held on to first place in the women's division by winning a one-run ball game against Dave's Trim Shop and by scoring six runs in the last inning to tie another.

DOC'S JOCKS 11, NORTHVILLE RECORD 11

The Jocks were down 11-5 going into the seventh inning. But three singles, two errors and a double later, the team had scored six runs to tie the Record at 11. Kathleen Cantine hit a two-run home run for the Record and scored three times. Mary Minor had three singles and Julie Abraham hit a single, triple and a double to score three times. For the Jocks, Chris Suddendorf, Tina Angelelli, Diane Rubiak and Sherrie Mammana each scored twice.

DOC'S JOCKS 10, DAVE'S TRIM SHOP 9

Kathy Phillips had a grand slam home run and two singles to lead the Jocks to a 10-9 win. Dave's held an 8-7 lead going into the seventh inning. The Jocks scored three times in the inning and were answered by just one Trim run. Nancy Pinkelman had three hits for the winners. Jodi Gatterl had three hits for Dave's. Wendy D'Haene had a double and a single. Connie Soncrant scored twice for the losing team.

NORTHVILLE LAB 11, E.D.M. SPECIAL TEES 4

The Lab scored six times in the second inning, twice in the third and three times in the seventh while E.D.M. scored twice in the second inning and once in each of the fourth and sixth innings. Eve Williams hit a single and a double for the Lab, scoring twice. Jean Greis had two hits and scored twice for E.D.M.

SHEEHAN'S LITTLE CAESARS 5, DAVE'S TRIM SHOP 5

Dave's Trim Shop scored one run in the first, two in the third, one in the fifth and one in the seventh while Sheehan's scored three times in the third and twice in the seventh to tie at 5-5. Jodi Gatterl hit a single, double and a triple to score four runs for Dave's.

Dave's Trim Shop scored one run in the first, two in the third, one in the fifth and one in the seventh while Sheehan's scored three times in the third and twice in the seventh to tie at 5-5. Jodi Gatterl hit a single, double and a triple to score four runs for Dave's. She was also safe on a fielder's choice play in the third inning. Jan LaBron hit a single and a triple and scored twice for Sheehan's.

CHOO CHOO WATER WHEELERS 23, JOE'S LITTLE BAR 10

The Wheelers scored 18 runs in the second inning to hold off the valiant tries of Joe's and win 23-10. Joe's didn't roll over and die but fought back vainly scoring once in both the first and second innings, three times in both the third and fourth frames and twice in the fifth inning. The Wheelers scored three times in the first, 18 in the second and twice more in the fifth inning. The highlight of the second inning explosion for the Wheelers were back-to-back home runs by Cathy Austin and Sheila Kemp. Kim Nichols also hit a home run for the Wheelers that inning. Cindy McKnight, Sheila McIntosh and Judy Korte each scored three runs for the winners. Korte had a three-run first-inning home run. Karen Marzonie had three hits and scored twice for Joe's. Sharon Filips also had three hits and scored three times in a losing cause.

CHOO CHOO WATER WHEELERS 8, NORTHVILLE RECORD 7

Sheila McIntosh hit two singles, walked once and hit a three-run home run to lead the Wheelers to a victory over the Record. McIntosh scored three times. Lynn Butler also scored three times for the winners. Mary Minor had two singles and a triple for the Record and Lorri Stanford hit two singles and a double. Both scored one run a piece.

JOE'S LITTLE BAR 10, E.D.M. SPECIAL TEES 9

With the score tied at 7-7 going into the sixth inning, Joe's scored three runs to the Tees' two to win 9-7. Lynn Eilber, Sharon Filips, and Linda Butler each scored two runs for the winners. Susan Booth hit a single and two home runs for E.D.M. She scored three runs.

NORTHVILLE LAB 9, SHEEHAN'S LITTLE CAESARS 0

Stingers forfeit tourney hopes

The Northville Stingers beat themselves at the League Championship Tournament that took place last weekend. The Girl's Inter-Lakes Traveling League regular season second-place finishers won the first game they competed in by downing Jake's Harley Davidson 4-3 on Friday night. But not enough players showed up to play on Saturday so Northville had to forfeit the tournament.

"I really thought we were going places," coach Roger Stasak said. "But people had to work and things just didn't work out."

On Friday Northville scored a run with two out in the seventh inning to defeat Jake's. Northville had scored three runs in the third to tie the game at 3-3. Jake's scored a run in the second inning and added two more in the top of the third. Northville got its three when Sue Heinzman singled to lead off the bottom of the third, Stephanie Colovas singled, Sue Russell singled to knock in Heinzman, Sherrie Robbins hit into a fielder's choice play, and Judy Orr hit a double to score Russell and Robbins.

In the seventh inning Kathy Phillips singled to open the last half of the seventh. The next two batters made outs and set the stage for some Chris Suddendorf magic. She hit a towering fly that the centerfielder caught but dropped. Phillips took off from first at the crack of the bat and didn't stop running till she crossed the plate with the winning run.

The Stingers will wrap up their season this weekend when they take place in the 3rd Annual Shag Invitational Softball Tournament at Walled Lake. Their first game is slated for 7:30 p.m. on Friday night.

Doug Crisan is the ace of the Huron backfield

Crisan a leader

At 6-foot-2 and 230 pounds, Doug Crisan has some pretty big shoulders. But are they big enough to carry the Eastern Michigan University Huron football team out of the cellar of the Mid-American Conference (MAC)?

Last year the Hurons, suffering from devastating injuries and a coaching change that took place right before the season began, finished the year in last place with a MAC record of 1-5 and an overall tally of 3-7.

One of the casualties that hurt the Huron cause was Crisan. The former Northville grid star was knocked out of action twice with knee and ankle injuries. When the injury situation became so bad that head coach Mike Stock had to convert defensive backs into offensive halfbacks, Crisan ignored the considerable pain he was feeling and played in the last few games. He finished the season as the Hurons' leading rusher with 485 yards on 103 carries.

This year Crisan is feeling fit and has plans to make the 1979 season his best yet. And if the Hurons are going to climb out of the cellar, he will have to have a tremendous campaign.

For the last four years the Huron ground game has centered on the slashing dashes of Bobby Windom. But this year the speedster decided to pass up his final season of eligibility and signed to play Canadian football. Last year's starting quarterback, Burt Beaney, retired due to injuries. His replacement is sophomore Scott Davis. That leaves Crisan as the only proven offensive weapon in the Huron arsenal. And he's glad.

"I feel great this year," he said. "I'm looking forward to some big things. My weight is up to 230 but I'll keep it at my playing weight of 215. I'll be carrying the ball as much as I did in high school which means I'll be carrying it a lot more here than I have in the past."

"My speed is as good as it's ever been which is about 4.6 in the 40. I worked hard on weights all summer and I feel strong. I think that's helped my speed."

"I hated to see Bobby Windom leave but it was a blessing for me. Now I can

"Winning is not everything," he said. "We've never placed an emphasis on winning. We value the fun of the sport, physical conditioning and participation."

"But we are competitive," he added. "We have some pretty big rivalries, but they're friendly, and everybody knows each other."

Crillo, who has been associated with children's football since 1960 as a coach, assistant coach and even president last year, closed by saying that "above all, kids should be there to have fun, and we try to make sure they do so if possible."

And the Vince Lombardi of the world need not apply.

SPORTS TALK

Baseball has long been regarded as the national pastime. But football, basketball, hockey and now soccer are hitting it big in the United States. Which sport (not just those listed) is your favorite and why?

"Basketball is my favorite. It takes more skill and is more fun to watch than baseball. I like playing basketball." Dawn Wagner

"Table tennis because it's challenging and its fun. You have to be in somewhat good condition to be able to play in competition." Al Augustinaitis

"I don't watch sports that often. My favorite would be wrestling, I guess. I've wrestled ever since I was in the fifth grade. I think it's a good sport because it requires strength to do it." Tim Goxen

"I like football because it's the most exciting sport. You're more into the sport when you're outside watching it and you have to watch football outside. Besides, everyone's there." Laura Trumbull

"Running is my favorite sport. Not jogging, there's a difference. I feel relaxed and good after I'm done. Plus there's a good feeling involved in winning races." Doug Wright show people that I can play. I've been playing in Bobby's shadow. Now people are going to see what I can do."

...Crisan

Crisan is determined to make this season, his last, his best yet. During the spring practice sessions he was named the winner of the Frosty Perzacca Award as "Most Valuable Player". He was also named as a captain of the Huron team.

"It's a great honor," Crisan said of his leadership role "I feel better as a captain here than I did in high school. There's a great attitude here towards the incoming people. It's just a real honor. I hope I can come through."

For Crisan, coming through is a big order. That's because he has set high goals for himself. "I'm shooting for my first 1000-yard season in college," he said. "I would also like to go to a bowl game, and if not with the team, then a senior bowl. I also think that I am in a good position to go to the pro's after this year." The key for Crisan is his health. If he can do that and have the kind of year he and everyone else at Eastern hopes he'll have, Crisan may reach all three of his goals.

"Doug Crisan has tremendous talent at fullback, is a good blocker and receiver, and we think he is going to be a tremendous football player for us this fall," coach Stock said. "I hope he has a super year. If we have a good year it will be because Doug Crisan is having a good year. I just hope he'll stay healthy. Last year he wasn't healthy. He came back in the last three games and really sparked us."

In three years with the Hurons, Crisan has gained 1,474 yards on 353 carries for a 4.2 yards-per-carry average. He has caught 34 passes for 324 yards. He has scored 13 touchdowns in the three years, 10 on the ground and three through the air. Crisan was "red-shirted" his freshman year. That means he was injured and didn't play so he had this, his fifth year, of eligibility left.

On describing himself as a runner, Crisan had this to say. "I'm not a finesse runner. In the open field I can put a move on a guy but I'd just as soon run him over. I'm the kind of runner who operates between the tackles. I've always wanted to run outside, to show my speed. Maybe now I'll be able to do it."

Coach Stock and the Hurons don't doubt that Crisan has speed. They just hope he can display it while carrying the offense on those big shoulders.

MSU cheerleader

Neff tops

It took months of preparation and a grueling five-week tryout camp but the true competitive spirit of Marianne Neff of Northville came through to earn her a position on Michigan State's No. 1 nationally ranked cheerleading squad.

Neff began in April along with 109 other candidates and by May she made it through the three cuts that narrowed competition down to the final 18.

Former MSU cheerleaders judged the basic skills required for first cut and selected the stunts to be evaluated throughout competition. They also assisted candidates on cheering techniques and gymnastic proficiency.

Two distinct panels of judges assessed Neff during second and third cuts. Each 10-member panel used an accumulative point system for scoring.

By third cut Neff was being judged on her ability to execute difficult stunts, partner-mounts and pom-pom routines. Overall appearance and enthusiasm were also taken into consideration.

"The competition was very keen," said squad adviser Edward Rutherford.

"Those who made the squad should be very proud, but they have a big job ahead of them."

Before the cheerleaders return to campus to begin preparations for the busy football season they will travel to Muskegon, Michigan, on August 24 and perform an exhibition show in a local mall.

The weekend of August 31 will find the squad out in Las Vegas, Nevada, performing on the Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon.

When they return to MSU they will jump right back into regular workouts and begins practicing a halftime show with the MSU Marching Band. This fall will be the first time the two groups have performed together on the field.

The squad can also look forward to being seen on the Big Ten Television Network twice during basketball season and possibly twice on ABC's "College Football Game of the Week" this fall.

Mt.

Marianne Neff

Neff, a senior majoring in biology, is a member of MSU's Pre-Vet Club and Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Kaeding of 42946 Richards Court.

Perry an Olympian

Rodney Perry is a quiet young man. Dark, with large questioning eyes, his right forearm thick with corded muscle, he thinks about his answers before he talks. "I practiced every day," he said. "The slalom was the hardest." His fingers play with the two ribbons pinned to his chest, grateful and proud that they are there but like any athlete, wishing the cold, hard feel of medals could take the place of the soft, satiny cloth.

The slalom that Rodney speaks of is one of the two events he participated in at the Special Olympics that took place last weekend in Brockport, New York. The Special Olympics are different from the one that put Bruce Jenner on back of Wheaties. The Olympics that Rodney Perry participated in are for the handicapped, both physically and mentally.

Rodney is confined to a wheelchair. He cannot walk. He only has one hand. But he is a gifted athlete and proved it by winning both county and state competitions to earn a spot on the Olympic team. In fact, Rodney was the only Michigan wheelchair participant in the affair.

He is 17 and from Detroit but he lives and trains at the Plymouth Center for Human Development outside of Northville. He started training on May 4 for the county and state meets. When he was selected for the Olympic team in July, Rodney started training even harder.

At Brockport he competed in two race events, the 30-meter slalom, which entailed weaving in and out between five obstacles placed in a straight line, and the 25-meter dash.

In the 25-meter dash Rodney won a fifth-place ribbon for his heat. In the 30-meter slalom he won a fourth-place ribbon for his heat. Medals were awarded to the top finishers. In all there were 50 wheelchair participants.

This was the first Special Olympics for Rodney. Will he go again next year? A look of determination comes into his eye. "I'm going to try," is his answer.

NORTHVILLE JAYCEES 10, EAGLES 9

The Eagles took a 5-0 lead into the fourth inning but gave up three runs in that frame and three more in the next to fall behind 6-5. The Eagles tied the game in the sixth inning when Ron Ylitalo hit a home run, and went ahead 9-6 in the seventh inning by scoring three times. But the Jaycees scored four runs in the last half of the seventh to win 10-9. Alan Kinnely hit two doubles and scored twice for the losing team.

the sixth inning to win going away, 12-5. Ed Bagdon hit a two-run home run in the third inning for the Brew Hogs. Rick Norton and Steve Firman each scored three runs for the winners. Norton hit a double and two singles while Firman hit two doubles and a single. John Renault hit a single, double and a triple, and Richard Ryba a triple and single to score twice in leading O.L.V.

Joe's Little Bar wins

Co-ed softball champs crowned

In a playoff to decide which team would finish number one in Northville Co-ed League standings, Joe's Little Bar defeated J.C. Laplante 19-17.

Joe's hit six home runs to one round-tripper for Laplante's, but the game was close right down to the wire.

Laplante's scored six times in the first inning and five times in the second to score seven runs. Laplante's picked up another run in the third inning to make the score 12-7 but Joe's answered with three runs in its half of the inning and added five more in the fourth and one in the fifth to take a 16-12 lead. Both teams were blanked in the sixth inning.

Laplante rallied for five runs in the top of the seventh to retake the lead 17-

16. All the team had to do was hold Joe's scoreless for half of an inning and the league championship would be theirs. But Joe's had other ideas.

Bill Potter opened the last half of the seventh with a triple. Kimm Adams sent him home with the tying run when she lined a hit to centerfield. Carl Towne then hit a home run to give Joe's the victory.

Denise MacDermaid hit three singles and a home run for Joe's, Bruce Griggs hit a double and a home run, Bill Potter hit two triples and a single, Carl Towne hit a double and two home runs, Dave Brewer hit two triples and a home run and Bill Hopping hit a double and a home run for the winners.

For J.C. Laplante's, Pete Talbot hit a home run and a single, Val Bezrutch hit three singles, Mark Lisowski had three hits, Gary Lisowski hit a double and two singles, David Zima hit three singles and a double, and Donna Schade hit two singles and a double.

Rotary tennis set

The Northville Rotary Club will be sponsoring its 8th Annual Doubles Tennis Tournament on Saturday, August 25 and Sunday, August 26. Only people living or working in Northville are eligible to participate in the event. Each team is to furnish a can of new yellow balls with the winner getting the new can of balls and the losers the used balls.

Morning matches will begin at 9 a.m. Participants should report to the Northville high school courts at 8:45 a.m. on Saturday. Tournament applications can be picked up at Northville Sporting Goods, the Racquet Connection, from Dutch Van Ingen or at the Henrikson Agency.

All proceeds from the tournament will be put back into the Northville High School's tennis program. In past years the proceeds have been used to purchase wind screens, benches, trash receptacles.

J.V. cheerleaders 2nd

The Northville J.V. cheerleaders traveled to Michigan State University recently and competed with 10 other junior varsity teams for cheerleading honors. The Northville squad came in second in the competition.

Members of the squad are Erin

McGowan, Leslie Bennett, Laurie Campbell, Karen Longridge, Elizabeth Bohen, Kelly Morrison, Jeanne Stoddard and Heidi Schultz.

Karen Longridge was chosen as "Outstanding Cheerleader" of the competition.

Munson had heart

Thurman Munson may have had a reputation as a gruff, win-at-all-costs monster while with the New York Yankees, but there was an incident that was reported in Sports Illustrated that may provide a clue as to what he was really like.

A few years back, the Detroit's Ron Le Flore was in the midst of a 30-game hitting streak. The Tigers were playing the Yankees and Munson was calling the game from behind the plate. Munson called nothing but breaking stuff and Le Flore had been retired three straight times. In the eighth inning, with the Yanks ahead 9-5 and an 0-2 count on Le Flore, Munson called for a fast ball right down the middle. Le Flore took the pitch for a called third strike. Munson later admitted to the Sports Illustrated reporter that he had called the pitch for Le Flore's sake.

Pin it

Did you realize that 10-pin bowling that we enjoy today was invented because bowling in its original form was considered unlawful?

Bowling used to be a 9-pin affair and in the 19th century was associated with gambling. So it was outlawed. An ingenious fan, however, invented the 10-pin version. In 1895 the American Bowling Congress was created to lend authenticity to the "new" sport and it has grown in popularity since.

the Redcoat Answer

EVERYTHING YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT GENERIC DRUGS

1. YOU SHOULD KNOW WHAT THEY ARE

You see, when your doctor names a drug on a prescription form, he doesn't always write down the scientific name of the drug. Instead, he'll write down a specific brand name for the drug that may turn out to be very expensive. Now "generic" means "of the same kind". So a generic alternative is the same drug your doctor has specified, but with a different name. What does that mean to you?

2. GENERIC DRUGS CAN SAVE YOU PRESCRIPTION DOLLARS

Often times the brand name your doctor writes down on his prescription form is much more expensive than the other brand names (made up of the exact same active ingredients) that are available. Now, with your permission, what a Perry Redcoat can do is substitute the less expensive drug for the costly brand name. That way you'll save money and your Perry Redcoat will have fulfilled his Perry pledge-to save you money without sacrificing quality. How do you get the generic alternative to a brand name drug?

YOUR EYE DOCTOR MUST GIVE YOU A COPY OF YOUR NEXT PRESCRIPTION.

As of July 13, 1978, the Federal Trade Commission ruled that your refractionist (anyone who can perform an eye examination to determine whether or not you need glasses) must give you a copy of your prescription.

- Immediately after your eye examination.
- In written form, whether you ask for it or not.
- Even if the examination shows you don't need a new prescription.

Bring your next eyeglass prescription into a Perry Prescription Eyeglass Center for professional service and low Perry prices.
