

HISTORIC HOUSE OF WORSHIP-First Presbyterian Church at 200 E. Main in downtown Northville, standing on the location of the first church to be erected after organization in 1929, reflects "a constancy of worship" as it was photographed this summer from Hutton Street by D. James Galbraith, chief photographer for the Sliger newspapers. He did so for Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Allen. The former, long-time mayor and his wife, who are members of the church, commissioned him to take meaningful scenes of the community. The present church facade, completed in 1970, is classic with six Roman Doric columns facing Main Street and a delicate belfry pointing 83 feet into the blue sky.

First councilwoman, Bea Carlson succumbs

Shortly after learning that a woman had been elected to city council - the first since she herself had served, Beatrice Belle Carlson apparently died in her sleep Wednesday morning at the age of 83.

A champion of women's rights long pfore it became fashionable, Mrs. Carlson had expressed pleasure upon learning that Carolann Ayers had been elected to the Northville council - the first woman to hold the post since Mrs. Carlson ended two consecutive fouryear terms in 1969.

Contacted by The Record Tuesday night following the election, Mrs. Carlson said she was "very pleased" to have learned of Mrs. Ayers' victory rom the winner only minutes earlier.

Presbyterians mark 150 years

First Presbyterian Church of Northville, now one of Michigan's oldest and most renowned Presbyterian churches, officially is marking its 150th year this Sunday at services at 9:30 and 11 a.m. and at a sesquicentennial dinner at 6 p.m. at Vladimir's Restaurant.

Michigan still was a territory, not gaining statehood until 1837, when a meeting was held on November 28, 1829, at the home of Joseph Yerkes to found a new Presbyterian Church under sponsorship of the Farmington Presbyterian Church.

The new church building which was planned in 1835 and on which construction later began was located on the site of the present church at 200 East Main, the Reverend Lloyd G. Brasure, who became minister in 1961, recalled Monday as he sat in his study, which would have been part of the original struc-

The present church contains no physical portion of the original, he says.

Unchanging, however, is the prayer and faithfulness inherited from pioneer pastors who preached in the small community on the edge of a wilderness.

This awareness of a church begun "in an era quite different from what we know today" is cited in a tribute from the 80th Michigan Legislature signed by R. Robert Geake, who is a 17-year-member of the church, and Jack E. Kirksey.

It is among the proclamations and letters that will be read at the dinner to which interested members of the community as well as church members are invited. Other tributes come from Representative Carl Pursell, President Jimmy Carter, Governor William Milliken and Mayor Paul Vernon,

Public hearing planned on 'charter township' here

Northville township will not adopt the charter form of government in the near future.

Trustees decided at their regular meeting November 8 to postpone any action on the charter system until after an informational meeting to help educate community residents and board members.

Some 55 townships in Michigan have gone to the charter system including neighboring Plymouth Township Township officials have invited. Michigan Township Association representatives to speak at the meeting which likely will be held in late November or early December.*

There has been a doubling in the number of charter townships in Michigan in the past year.

The main reason for this, is the passing of the Headlee Ammendment which destroys the biggest negative as far as township residents are concerned.

Prior to Headlee a charter twonship could levy up to five mills without a vote of the people. Most township residents were opposed to this power since they didn't believe the additional monies were needed.

Though the ramifications of

But Township Attorney Don Morgan told board members they could adopt the professional manager or superintendent form as a general law township. Morgan also mentioned some of the advantages the township would gain under the charter form.

They include: increased flexibility in land acquisition for public purposes; reduced publishing costs; protection from annexation and others

Later, she attended a victory celebration for Mayor Paul Vernon, a close friend, at the American Legion headquarters. She remained only a short time and, after growing tired, she returned home, watched TV news, and went to bed

"Norma (his wife) and I have lost a dear friend, as has 'the community," said Vernon. "We and the community will miss her."

The mayor, who indicated Mrs. arlson had been particularly cheerful Tuesday night because a woman had outmoded customs which act as a barbeen elected along with himself, said her contribution to the community will live on.

'When she wanted something she put her heart and soul into it. Beautification of Northville is an example, but certainly not the only one. Her influence on our community and on our lives will be felt for a long time to come. Northville is a etter place in which to live because of ner."

Four years ago when potential can-didates for vice president were being considered, Mrs. Carlson was strongly supporting the idea that a woman ought to hold the post.

BEATRICE CARLSON

"Today not only in our nation, but throughout the world, there are highly educated women in all fields, law, finance, education, health, the sciences, etc., and I believe the time has come to demolish prejudices and rier to the full partnership of women in our great country," she said.

Politically active most of her life, Mrs. Carlson was proud of her Republican affiliation. She was friend of many prominent Republicans at state regional and local levels. None was more important to her, however, than former mayor A. Malcolm Allen who, like herself, was a political force in the community.

Widowed since her husband, Arthur, had died December 12, 1962, "Bea" Carlson showered her love on her children and her grandchildren and great grandchildren.

If she wasn't boasting about her community, she was unashamedly bragging about her children.

She had a delightful humor, giggling like a schoolgirl when she found something amusing. She took particular delight, for example, in telling a Record reporter several years ago that she operated a massage parlor here in Northville. She smiled while watching the reporter's stunned reaction before adding, "Of course, that was long before massage parlors were X-rated." Born October 4, 1896, in Athens, Wisconsin, she was the daughter of Henry and Ida B. (Lightner) Bauman. She was married to Arthur C. Carlson on May 29, 1917.

The Carlsons came to Northville in 1934.

Once here she steeped herself in a multitude of activities, besides raising her five children.

She was a volunteer and official in the community Red Cross and its blood bank program, a member of the Lloyd H. Green Post 147, American Legion auxiliary, past president of the VFW Post 4012 auxiliary, founder of the Nor-are not yet clear, most attorneys agree that the levying of any tax in addition to the one mill allowed under a general law township is prohibited without a vote of the people.

Trustees came close to adopting the charter form of government at a meeting October 11. A motion to become charter by resolution was defeated by a tie (3-3) vote. One trustee was absent.

Strong proponents of the charter form of government, Clerk Clarice Sass and Trustee William Zapke drew support from Trustee David Mitchell, while Supervisor Don Thomson, Treasurer Lee Holland and Trustee James Nowka were hesitant to adopt a charter system at this time.

At the October 11 meeting trustees also discussed the possibility of changing to a professional manager type of government, which is an option under the charter township.

Familiar setting

Construction of the addition at the northeast corner of the city hall required the removal of the huge evergreen tree that had graced the property even before the city hall building was constructed. The tree was decorated with lights each Christmas season. With the exterior completion of the addition, a replacement-blue spruce was planted at the corner last week - compliments of John Miller and Green Ridge Nursery. Besides the tree, other landscaping greenery was planted along the addition wall. The main floor of the addition, which is not yet completed inside, will house the public library while the upstairs will ac-commodate city hall offices. The facility is expected to be completed before January.

Broken for three years, fire alarm to be fixed

The district will spend $6,000 to replace a fire alarm system at Northville High School which has been broken since March, 1977, the Northville Board of Education voted Monday.

State Fire Marshal Walter Davenport will examine NHS this week for viola-tion of state fire regulations.

Several board members were incredulous that the fire system at NHS has not been fixed since a short circuit blew out the alarm horns in March,

"This is really incredible," Trustee Chris Johnson said. "Here it is three years later and we are approving money to fix it now. It's inexcusable. I'm very upset about it."

Other board members called for safety checks of all the schools.

"We should do safety checks throughout the school system," said Vice-President Marge Sliger.

Personnel Director Burton Knighton gave a report on the system to the board. In a memo he called the system, installed 22 years ago, as "outdated and . potentially dangerous, even if epaired.'

He said electricians who examined the system last Wednesday said it will be cheaper to re-wire and replace the system rather than try to find the short circuit in the system, for several reasons.

First, no one can find the electrical wiring diagrams for the high school alarm system.

Second, all the pull stations are broken and electricians said the alarm panel is "outdated and (even if working) does not possess capability of providing an efficient and safe alarm system for the high school."

Instead, workmen will install a "dou-

 But don't ever call him a sissy.
 'Cause Wild Bill Bailey, at 81, will smack a fist into the pálm of his hand and remind you that some of the toughest cusses in the world are dancers.

Tough, certainly. But mean? Hardly.

Picture this: It's April, 1935. Bill's driving over to the Detroit House of Correction to umpire another ballgame. He passes an oak tree and, suddenly, an idea hits him. After the game he buys a bag full of lollypops, drives back and stabs them into the trunk of the tree near the corner of Ridge and Five Mile. Then he drives home and stirs up the house by telling his kids he's taking them out to an honestto-goodness lollypop tree. The excitement at the tree was tremendous The trips to the lollypop tree grow increasingly frequent. Word spreads about this marvelous tree. And soon nephews and nieces are joining his own excited children on the trips to the lollypop tree.

Years pass and eventually the children grow up. And the lollypop tree is forgotten. But not by everyone. A branch from the oak, which still grows, is made into a memorial. On it is attached plaque containing the name of the children who enjoyed it and the name of the "mean old cuss" who discovered it. Naturally, it sprouts lollypops.

And then, recently, it is presented to Bill, who almost is rendered speechless. It and the memories it evoked makes his wife, Elsie, cry. Her husband, she insists, has been creating lollypop trees for her all 54 years of their marriage.

The Baileys, who were dancing professionally before their marriage in her hometown of Altoona, Pennsylvania, began teaching dancing in Northville nearly a half century ago. They continue to do so today.

Born in Lithuania, Bailey was about three years of age when his family "escaped" from the Baltic country.

"I remember climbing under a fence. I remember we came to some little boats, and we had to row out into the ocean about a mile and transfer to a bigger boat.

"My mother and two sisters were in the boat ahead of me and I guess I thought they were leaving me behind because jumped out of my boat into the water. I probably would have drowned if someone hadn't grabbed me. Sometimes, later, my mother would tease me, 'Too bad we didn't let you drown in the ocean'.'

The family traveled to Massachusetts, joining the senior Bailey who had arrived a year earlier and who had sent for his family after having secured himself in the United States

Bailey, who quit school after finishing the elementary grades, left home at an early age, working at a variety of jobs in a number of different places.

It was during this period, with the outbreak of World War I, that Bailey and a chum decided to enlist in the Navy. He lied about his age. Proud of what he had done, Bailey came home to tell his mother. She said, 'Where are your papers?' I handed them to her and she ripped them up and said, 'You'll go when they call you.' And that was tĥat.'

Bailey landed a job in a machine shop and it was here. that he learned the tool and die trade that he would utilizethroughout much of his early life.

Smiling, he recalls one of his first learning mistakes." "I was given a job on a lathe and had to take a piece of steel down to within a few thousandths. Well, I took off tod much. I was sick. I would have rather lost ten dollars than spoil a job. But my boss said, 'Oh, that's okay, Bill. We can take care of that. You just go to the tool crib and they'll' give you a put-it-on tool.' I went to the crib and asked for the put-it-on tool, and the guy didn't crack a smile but told me the guy in the mill had it. I went to the mill and from the mill to the shaper and pretty soon I realized that it was a joke, that there was no tool that could replace steet, removed by a lathe. Live and learn."

To supplement his income, Bailey and a friend began singing in ballrooms.

My friend's uncle was a song publisher. To give ä newly written song a better send-off they'd have it sung in public. That was our job. We'd go from ballroom to ballroom and during the intermissions we'd come out and plug the new songs.

Bailey continues: "Massachusetts was a blue law state. On Sundays they had nothing to do. Even baseball was not permitted on Sunday. No shows or anything. So what they'd do to get around the law was to rent a grove on some farm outside the jurisdiction of the town. They'd have a few musical instruments, sell pop and sandwiches, and have dancing.

"I was a member of the YMCA, wrapped up in boxing and swimming, and didn't care about dancing. So I never went to those things. One day there was a dance out there and my sister wanted to go but my mother wouldn't let her go alone. The only way she could go was if I went along. So I went. All the girls were surprised to see me, of all people; at a dance.

"So one girl by the name of Helen Adams grabbed më by the arm and pulled me out onto the floor. We danced awhile and she said, 'Bill, you hop like a rooster.' But being a born show-off, I thought I was pretty good."

The experience prompted him to dance more regularly, and he was soon learning new steps on his own. He also kept up his boxing (he once boxed world champion Jack Sharkey, who was training at the South Boston Lithuanian club where both young men were members).

Bailey soon learned that there was prize money to be made by competitive dancing about the country. After that he was on the road much of the time.

"I danced everywhere and with all kinds of famous people, some of whom didn't become famous until later. I remember dancing in the same ballroom in Cleveland where Bob Hope was playing. Once, after winning a $10 prize for a waltz, I danced with Irene Castle."

Eventually, he ended up in Altoona, Pennsylvania, managing the Danceland Ballroom. For added revenue, Balley was permitted to give dance lessons at Danceland.

"The first week I had 58 students, so many of them I didn't know what to do with them. I couldn't dance with the men and there were just too many women. So I advertised for instructors. A hundred girls showed up. I spotted this lovely thing. She was really something, only 16. I said to myself, "There's the girl I'm going to marry. Keep in mind I'd been dancing with a lot of pretty girls by now, but this one was extra special."

Following their marriage they toured the country, Continued on 5-A

Charter action delayed

While trustees debate the pros and cons of a charter township, state officials are preparing for a December 12 public hearing to discuss the incorporation of a city.

Though the idea hasn't drawn much support, the State Boundary Commission November 7 determined that a petition for incorporation filed November 7, 1977 and signed by some 1,000 persons is valid, therefore a public

"It may be months before the commission meets due to the large backlog of consolidation, annexation and incorporation petitions to be reviewed and judged," said James Hyde, excecutive secretary of the State Boundary Commission.

"There are 40 items to be judged and 25 more waiting after that."

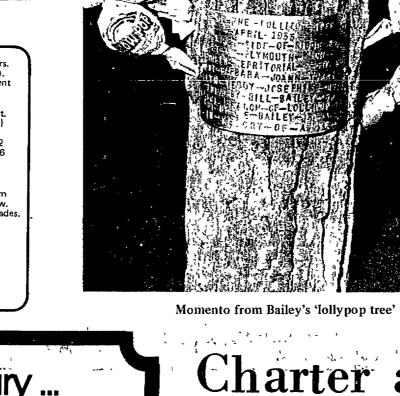

A public hearing must be held within 220 days of the filing of the petition, until the prior petition is acted upon and the more recent petition returns to active status," Hyde explained.

The former petition called for the annexing of 10 lots in Hillcrest Manor Subdivision in the township to the city of Northville.

The petition was approved in July, 1979 and the township residents' petition again became active.

Hyde said it is likely no final decision hearing must be held.

The petition was filed during the fight over township annexation with the city of Northville, as an attempt by township residents to block such action. The issue of annexation is all but forgotten, but the petition must be carried through the process.

The boundary commission is obligated to make a judgement on whether the township should be incorporated as the city of Northville Hills as the petition requests and if so, what the boundaries should be.

The hearing panel, which will consist of three or four State Boundary Commissioners and two representatives from Wayne County, must wait at least 30 days before it can conduct an ajudicative meeting to discuss the input from the public hearing.

And it will probably be much longer than that.

WINTER IS BIG TREE SEASON!

Why wait? Now is a great time to select a large shade tree for planting in your yard this winter

Here's Why: Trees enter a state of dormancy in the winter season; their vascular systems are frozen and inactive. Careful digging and moving at this time of year is much easier on the tree than when it has foliage and an active vascular system. In general, trees dug in the winter will produce more foliage the following summer.

Parents choose parochial schools for firmer hand

By ELLEN SPONSELLER

More structure, discipline and religious training are among the main reasons Northville parents choose private or parochial schools for their has noticed a difference. "He seems to children over the Northville public be doing much better," Nielson said. schools, a Northville Record survey found last week.

The Record's informal survey of 10 Northville families who have chosen to send one or more of their children to non-public schools revealed no stirring exodus from the public school system.

Though perhaps those interviewed were conservative in what they were willing to say in public (two persons agreed to talk only off the record) most would not directly subscribe to the classical rumour that the public school system is going downhill. Rather, they each cited highly personal reasons for their decisions.

. There were some sharp criticisms of the school district here. Almost all said they believe their children would have a more structured learning environment, more discipline, get more attention and motivation in the non-public school. They charged that the public school system is fine for the self-motivated student but often lets less-motivated kids fall by the wayside,

No one school in Northville was selected for criticism. Some said the elementary schools in Northville were fine but they wanted a more structured high school environment.

Others felt their children were doing well at the junior high and high school level but wanted their child to have a Firm elementary education in the private or parochial school.

The 10 families represent 20 children, approximately half attending parochial high schools and half parochial elementary schools.

There are no firm statistics which show how many Northville students attend private or parochial schools although Superintendent Larry Nichols said he will be conducting such a survey to be finished next spring.

Donna Wendt is happy to send her daughter to ninth grade at Our Lady of Mercy, an all-girl's Catholic school in Farmington.

"There is more discipline, higher ex-, pectations and a greater variety of subjects," Mrs. Wendt said. "They are more college oriented. I was unhappy with what is going on here."

1. She said her daughter was forced to take two sessions of shop at Cooke Junior High last year because "there was no other place for her to go that hour.'

Mrs. Wendt said at Our Lady of Mercy the girls "either abide by the rules or are out." She said the dress code, where girls wear uniforms in class colors, helps provide a structure. She said her daughter gets tutoring- and learns-"more responsibility for her work."

"Bright kids are survivors at NHS," Mrs. Wendt said. "But those who need more prodding and help need a different environment."

Her words were echoed by Dennis Nielson who sends his son to Our Lady of Victory. "Most kids need to be told what to do. My son needs discipline.

The open classroom is no good unless a child has self-motivation and selfdiscipline," Nielson said.

Since Nielson moved his son from Cooke Junior High to OLV he said he Nielson credits OLV's success to 'having a whole different feeling." He said the dress code insures that students don't "look like bums and relish it."

"Now some teachers (in the public schools) are disciplinarians but they are not as professional as they used to be," Nielson said. "And teachers don't get support from the school board. When a child is disciplined, the board has to back up teachers. The school board can't always side with the parents," Nielson said.

Three families said they send their children to parochial schools primarily for religious training. Jean Storm said all six of her children have been through parochial elementary school, either here or in their previous home, St. Louis. She has two children at Our Lady of Victory elementary, one at Cooke Junior High and one at NHS.

"My main reason is religious training," Mrs. Storm said. "I'm not saying that the public school is bad. I have been satisfied with the junior high and high school here. But I made the decision many years ago. I think my children receive a better education at Our Lady of Victory. They learn good study habits. They learn to be disciplined with homework. When they get to the high school they are treated as adults and they're prepared for it."

Betty Lang has sent all six of her children through parochial sxhools. "We are parochial-school oriented," she said. She has three boys attending Catholic Central and two children at Our Lady of Victory.

"I feel there isn't enough discipline in the public schools," Mrs. Lang said. They need a structured environment. With this open campus, students are roaming the town. There is not a serious enough attitude here. You can get a good education in Northville but the parents have to be right there to make sure their child is getting college prep courses. If I want vocational or college prep, I should not have to fight o get it," she said.

'My main reason (for sending my children to Catholic school) is for a Catholic education," said Jean Pichelman. "I had one student in Cooke and they did a superb job with him. I was very pleased. The Northville junior high and elementary schools have excellent math departments. My kids were all ahead in math when they entered (parochial) school."

Two Pichelman boys attend Catholic Central. Her daughter attends Our Lady of Mercy "because they had a nothing negative to say about the Northville schools.'

Other people, however, had plenty to say. Mrs. Carol Romanik said that she is pleased her daughter is at Mercy and her son is at Catholic Central.

"There is too much hodge-podge going on in the schools here and kids can't get basic courses," Mrs. Romanik said. 'We were very dissatisfied with the school system. There just are not enough college prep courses. The high school itself is in terrible condition. I'm glad my kids don't want to go there."

Mrs. Romanik described her children's education at Moraine Elementary and Cooke Junior High as "fair, not anything tremendous. Things are going fairly well there.'

The Romanik's choice had nothing to do with religious reasons, although they are Catholic. Mrs. Romanik said they would have considered private schools other than Catholic Central or Our Lady of Mercy had they been close by.

"The discipline is much better than in public school," she said. "They motivate kids better. Once they're there, they are encouraged. Nobody slides over them. The school and children are clean and neat. The teachers are more dedicated and more stern.'

Elizabeth Romanik, 17, is taking Rus-

the same things but they are more dedicated," Elizabeth said. "You can ask them anytime you need help." Carol Townsend sent her boy from Moraine to St. Paul's Lutheran school fourth grade this fall and put her first grader at St. Paul as well.

EGG NOG

"My first child was losing selfmiddle reading to lower reading groups," Mrs. Townsend said. "I have never been happy with the lower elementary school. I sent him to St. Paul and he is doing excellent work. Mr. VanIngen (principal of Moraine) is a super principal. But there is just something about the lower elementary grades My son needed a lot more concentration. We didn't send him to St. Continued on 5-A

The operator can play around with the sounds until the Votrax voice synthesizer sounds almost human. Its brain, a Nova 210 computer, knows math, spelling, speech and games and the Votrax can tell you all about them. Its voice may not be perfect but like Braille to the blind, it is opening up new ways of communication for the handicapped.

Two rooms at Moraine are the center of what is known as the Communication Enhancement Resource Program (CERC) sponsored jointly by Michigan State University and the Northville Public Schools.

At CERC they are creating computers that react to a touch, a flash of light, blink of an eye, head movements and even, perhaps soon, brain waves.

These computers give those who have never spoken a way to talk. They give those who cannot hold a pencil a way to do mathematics. Even those who have never sung a song can, with computer aids, compose music.

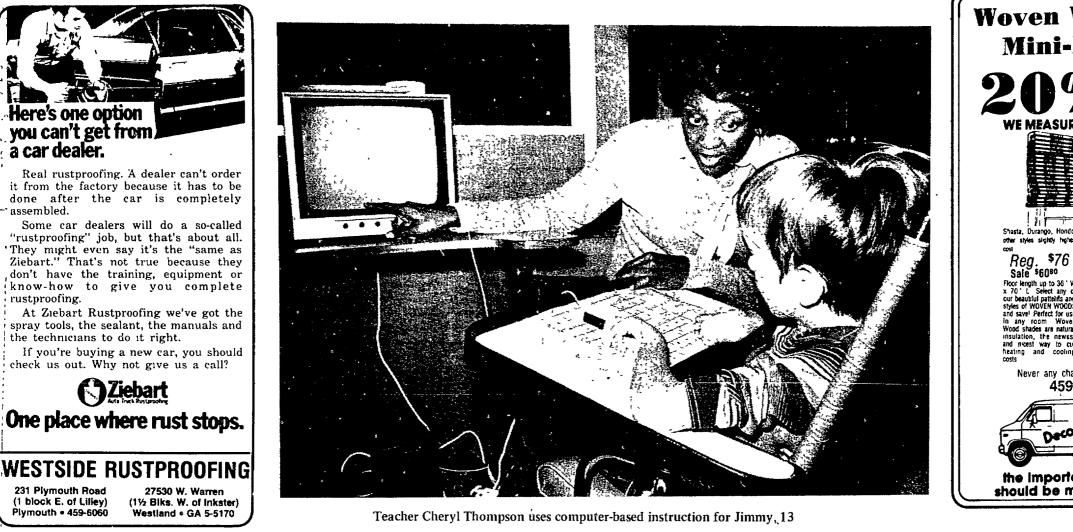

To parents and teachers the chance for a multiply handicapped child to finally be able to express himself through these complex machines is still awesomely close to a miracle.

"Many individuals have long been denied access to the principal channels of human communication: spoken and written language," wrote John Eulenberg, first director of the MSU project. "The recent advances in communication aid technology have held out the promise that the right to communicate may one day be secured for all."

Using the same technology which is spawning the most trendy computer conveniences, CERC Program Director Clinton Bennett and Room Manager Bill Custer invent new communications

They did exhibition dancing with the country's top Lance bands, including those of Fred Waring, Phil Spitalney, and Guy Lombardo.

Eventually, Elsie Bailey tired of the ballroom circuit. Although she loved dancing, she did not like the life of the performer. "The women were too loose, the back stage talk pretty bad," explains Bailey. "I should have seen it right off; my wife wanted a more regular life. So she left me and went home."

Bailey missed her terribly but kept dancing anyway. Finally, after having visited Elsie, Bailey's brother talked him into making up and he returned to his wife. "I made a ecision. She was more important to me than the stage. esides, the stage is a mightly lonely life, let me tell you.

"I've never regretted giving it up. Elsie blames herself for ruining my career. But she didn't. Not at all. Her love and the children she has given me is a lot more Important."

The Baileys followed his tool and die trade to Michigan where they took up residence in Plymouth and a short time later in Northville.

They have lived on Cady most of their 51 years in Nor-

His first job was in the Ford plant in Waterford (Norhville Road, south of Six Mile), later he took a tool and die job at Burroughs from where he eventually retired.

From the outset they operated a dance studio in their home. In addiditon they gave dance lessons in many of the schools in the vicinity.

Over the years many hundreds of children (and adults) took lessons from the Baileys. "I wish we would have kept some records of the kids. There were so many of them. Many of them became parents and their children also received lessons from us," he says. Today, the Baileys continue to operate their studio.

"There's little call for ballroom dancing anymore," he explains: "It's mostly disco."

A bowler himself, Bailey says it was the rise of bowl-ing that cost them much of their dancing clientele. "People suddenly became more interested in bowling than in dancing. I don't know why. Why do I bowl? Because it is fun, just the way dancing is fun."

The Baileys have five children, 15 grandchildren ("at least that was how many we had when I left home this morning") and one great-grandchild.

"I'm 81 but I don't think I'll ever grow up. I'm still a big show-off. My wife is just the opposite. This lovely little thing is one of the greatest dancers but you'd never know It from her. She always stays out of the limelight.

"I remember something she told me 50 years ago. We had gone with my brother Jack on the Bob-Lo boat. He knew there would be dancing on board but he didn't tell us. So when we got on there the music started and a couple, who obviously knew dancing pretty well, started performing. Any my brother Jack whispers, 'Are you going to let them get away with that?' So I begged my wife and finally she agreed to dance with me. Pretty soon we were the only ones dancing and everyone was watching and clapping.

"Afterwards a man came up and offered us a job, believe it or not, at $165 a week for me and $65 for my wife. All we had to do was dance as a team. That kind of money 50 years ago was remarkable.

"I said, 'Well, honey, it's a lot of money. What do you think, shall we do it?' And the girl who could have been a star anywhere looked me in the eye and said, 'I'd rather scrup, your floors and wash your dishes than go back on stage."

"Now do you see why I want to go on forever? Why three cancer operations aren't about to stop me? Her love just keeps this old showboat going."

Paul out of anger, but he needed stronger discipline. The public school could expect better behavior. I don't think they're being challenged enough.'

Mrs. Townsend said the religious education her sons receive at St. Paul is not the main reason, but a side benefit of their education there. She said she was satisfied with the high school and Mead's Mill Junior High.

Stacy Morgano said "a combination of many things" made them decide to send their daughter to parochial school.

"There were just some confidences I don't have in the high school," Mrs. Morgano said. "It would be extreme to say the high school is not good. But based on what friends have said, school people, meetings and secondhand, it seems the NHS program is better for certain students, those who are totally self-motivated.

'We just felt the smaller personal approach (of the parochial school) was attractive. My daughter did not follow or run away from friendships. She jis under the understanding she could come back.

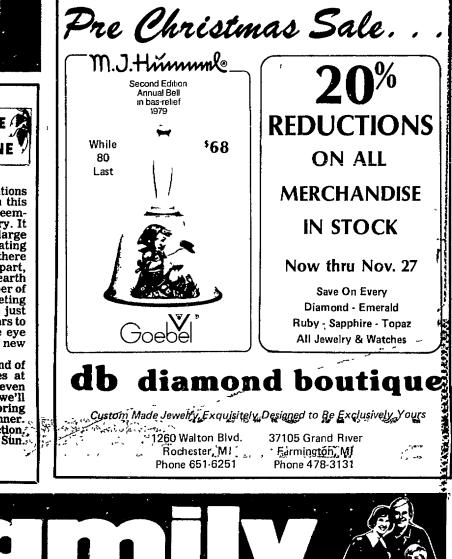

"Of course there has to be some disillusionment to do it at all. How do you put your finger on a general lack of confidence?

Mrs. Morgano said the current Nor thville Board of Education has in herited many problems.

"I don't want to do a disservice to this year's board members. And parents can't have it both ways. If they pull in, tighten teaching and accountability, there are objections. Parents are anx-ious to get rid of the open campus. But you can't do it overnight.

Mrs. Morgano said over the years she has been involved in the schools, she believes that the system "has come a long way.'

It is hard to give a specific reason why (she moved her child to a parochial school) she said. "It depends on so many things. I can just picture my daughter better in this particular situation," Mrs. Morgano said.

Board okays fertility control classes at NHS

Gertain Northville High School classes will begin next month teaching reproductive health and fertility controj, the Northville Board of Education votěd Monday.

The teaching of the two subjects is now legal under Michigan Public Act 225, which was signed into law in November 1977.

A comprehensive K-12 health education program is due to be implemented next fall. But the board agreed to implement the reproductive health and fertility control segment of the program by January since it is the only segment of health education which is currently not being taught at any grade level.

School board President Karen Wilkinson called for ample public education about the program before it is implemented.

This is potentially more controversial than teaching algebra," Wilkinson said

No student will be taught the units without parental notification and permission, Soper told the board:--

NHS student congress representative Neil Young stressed the need for 'student input into the advisory committee.

"We've had a chapter on reproduction but our teacher's hands are tied after a certain point. Students know what they need to know and what they want to know. The way things are now, it's like the teacher is starting a sentence and leaving it half done," Young said.

Subjects which will be covered in the segment are: female and male anatomy, puberty, menstrual cycle, menopause, gamete formation, conception, contraception and sterilization. fetology, birth, sex roles, sexually transmitted diseases, sexual preferences, methods of fertility control and methods of sterilization. By state law, abortion may not be taught as a method of family planning. A more comprehensive health education curriculum is being finalized by Soper's office and a 28-member community advisory committee. Many committee members were at the board meeting Monday night. During the past year the committee has collected information about what exactly is being taught in each grade about health. The committee has defined what students should be learning in each grade about health.

A working outline of health areas which will be taught includes: growth and development, personal health prac-tices, disease prevention and control; nutrition, safety education, reproductive health (being implemented at the high school by January); community health, consumer health, substance use and abuse, and emotional and mental health

The committee has a wriften philosophy which states that all students should have "knowledge of what constitutes good physical, mental and social health practices; awareness of resources and procedures available to solve health problems; and skills Continued on 9-A

Wally Nichols honored by council resolution

W. Wallace Nichols, who retired from the city council this week, was honored by resolution adopted by council members.

Presentation of the framed resolution took place Monday evening with the official swearing of the newly elected (or re-elected) council members.

Nichols, who decided not to seek reelection, has been succeeded by Carolann Ayers. Re-elected were Mayor Paul R. Vernon and Council member Stanley Johnston.

The resolution reads: 'Whereas, W. Wallace Nichols servthe City of Northville from September, 1961, to July, 1963; and "Whereas, he served on the Northville City Planning Commission from , July, 1963, to January, 1967; and "Whereas, he was appointed to fill a vacancy on the Northville City Council on January 9, 1967, upon the resignation of Councilman Fred Kester; and

"Whereas, he was subsequently elected to the Northville City Council for three terms, and served as City Councilman for more than 10 years, until November 12, 1979;

"Now therefore be it resolved, that the Northville City Council, on behalf of all its citizens, does hereby recognize and thank Councilman W. Wallace ed on the Board of Zoning Appeals for Nichols for his outstanding dedication and effort for the betterment of our City, during fourteen and one-half years of service to his City Government."

Classes in which the subjects will be taught at NHS are: biology, health, BSCS science, child care, sociology and family living.

Township planners alter proposed Master Plan

It's as predictable as snow in January.

Any discussion of the proposed Master Plan for Land Use in Northville Township will lead ultimately to a vera battle over the location of shopping convenience centers.

And the last regular meeting of the township planning commission October 30 was no exception.

the plan. The commission agreed to change a section of land of Five Mile near Haggerty from commercial to residential. The land is located in the Park Gardens Subdivision. The second change affected land on the north side of Seven Mile. Edward Wilkiemeyer a relative of the Planners approved two changes in owner of a portion of the 32-acre parcel, asked the commission to consider changing the parcel's designation from a single family residential to multiple. Land to the east and west is currently zoned multiple and Wilkiemeyer was concerned that the land could not be developed effectively as residential.

(The master plan designation does not necessarily mean that the zoning nience center debate.

will be changed.)

The commission voted 6-1 to designate a portion of the parcel (about 50 percent) as multiple and leave the remaining portion residential. Commissioner Kenneth McLarty cast the dissenting vote.

Trustee James Nowka then launched the commission into the familiar conve-

"I am not sure that Beck and Six Mile is not a better location for a convenience center," he began. "I feel uncomfortable about Six Mile and Sheldon."

A parcel of land located at the corner of Six Mile and Winchester (near the township hall) also has been a parcel involved in the convenience center debate.

it to residential in the proposed new plan.

The commission, at a special meeting on the master plan in August, voted to change the location of a convenience center at Six Mile and Beck to Six Mile and Sheldon.

Members of the commission were not, in total agreement on the change, however, as the vote was 3-2 in favor with one commissioner abstaining and one being absent.

In favor of the change were Chair-man William Bohan and Commis-

Kenneth Sewell were opposed to the change, while Commissioner Craig Bowlby stated he was undecided. Commissioner Nowka was absent.

Orley, owner of properties at Six Mile and Sheldon, as well as at Winchester and Six Mile, told the planners that he would be willing to at least discuss the possible sale of his Winchester property to the township.

The planning commission, which has spent some two years preparing the proposed master plan, has called a special meeting December 4 at 8 p.m. to discuss other possible changes.

Festival of Lights

An invitation to the community to join in a Festival of Lights at 5:30 p.m. Sunday at Mill Race Historical Village located off Griswold is issued by Northville Historical Society. The 18 newly installed brass hurricane-type lamps officially will be turned on in ceremonies following the annual Christmas Walk. Herb Fisher and his son Jim completed installation this week of the lamps on wooden poles throughout the village. Installation was a city project funded by a Wayne County Community Development Block Grant. Cider and donuts will be served after the ceremony and visitors may view crafts made in fall workshops in the New School Church. The installation, which includes security lighting on the outside of village buildings, cost approximately $16,000. It completes a three-part total development costing $36,000 that gave the village a water distribution and sewer system.

Sunday, introducing the Reverend Harold Fredsell, former minister of the church, who is returning to deliver the sermon at each service.

He was minister here from 1941-44 and from 1946-54.

He presently heads the Ecumenical Church of Pueblo West in Colorado, a cooperative ministry of eight historic churches of that area including Baptist, Lutheran, Disciples of Christ-Christian, Episcopal, Congregational, Methodist, Presbyterian and Roman Catholic.

To continue the ecumenical theme at the Northville church, Mr. Brasure announces, Fathers John O'Callaghan and Ronald Thurner of Our Lady of Victory Church each will attend one of the morning services as honor guests.

At the 11 a.m. service special music, including instrumental selections, is planned.

The Carolers Choir, a youth group, will be singing at the 9:30 a.m. service.

The Reverend John Mishler, assistant minister of the church, will be assisting at both services.

The sesquicentennial celebration is planned to be month-long, starting November 4 when Donald G. Lester, head of the 110church Presbytery of Detroit, delivered the sermon. The church is the sixth oldest in Detroit Presbytery.

Last Sunday 50-year and more members of the church were honored at services with the Reverend Richard Henderson, former associate pastor and now minister of Faith Community Presbyterian Church in Novi, participating in a dialogue with the Reverend Brasure.

Marie Congo, who joined the church in 1910, was honored as member with longest affiliation. Other honorees were Lydella Ely, 1913; Alice Barber and Elizabeth Chapman, 1914; Elizabeth Beard and Jack Blackburn, 1918; Vance Masters and Emma Parmenter, 1920; Ada Bloom, 1922; Mae Babbitt, 1925; E.

A. Chapman, 1928; and Arline Biery, 1929.

In the fellowship hall a special display depicts the history of the church, focusing on its music, socials, rituals, worship and education, buildings, pastors and people and service groups.

Historic items were loaned by church families and are displayed with pictures and clippings. It was arranged under the direction of Peggy Thies. Others working on it include Lynda Heaton, Gerry Dodds, Dianne Bish Velky, Delores Boyd, Sherry Meyer, John Berry, Norm Postma, Karen Stephens, Carl Stephens, Sr., Terry Heaton, Troy Milligan and Chad Ramsey.

Also open after each service in November is the church columbarium. James Cowie is in charge of arrangements. Anyone who desires may see the special chapel containing funeral urns.

Mayor and Mrs. Vernon are among honor guests from the community invited to attend the dinner at Vladimir's for which baby sitting is being provided by the women of Faith Community Presbyterian Church. Reservations for this should be made now with Arline Biery, who coordinated arrangements for the dinner.

David Jerome has been in charge of program at which Chris Gazlay and Martin Rinehart will be presiding Sunday.

During the evening the church pictorial directory will be distributed. James Richardson was in charge of this project.

Dinner reservations at $9 should be made now with church secretary Margaret Nauman. Charlene Frellick, Sue Wright, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Allen and David Longridge are members of the arrangements committee.

"It is appropriate," comments Mr. Brasure, "that the dinner, planned as a happy time of rejoicing, comes at Thanksgiving. "It is a time of appreciation for what others have done.'

Thirty-four pastors, associates and assistants served the needs of a congregation following the Reverend Erie Prince, first minister who served from 1829-1830.

Bennett and Custer have rigged up different switches to operate Omnicom programs which can be turned on by touching, blinking, sucking, puffing and head, throat, wrist and foot movements.

When a student presses a block or button, moves a stick or pushes his head against a spot on a headset, for example, he can make the screen follow his instructions.

'We are hoping this method allows students to learn more quickly," Flack said. "It enhances the teacher's instruction."

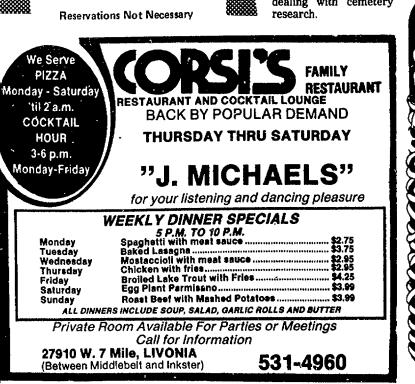

The program is in its fifth year of research, second year of actual instruction, and is paid for by a yearly $69,000 grant from the federal government Title I funds.

CERC is still in the stage of applied research, Flack said, where each student is carefully evaluated and monitored throughout the program. CERC plans to expand its operations eventually to become a regional center for communication aids, Flack said.

12-A-NORTHVILLE RECORD-Wednesday, November 14, 1979

... A page for your expressions and ours

FOR A CHANGE of pace: A 'this and that' column this week.

I received a telephone call Monday morning from an old friend, the Reverend John O. Taxis, now of Fort Lauderdale. Florida.

The same enthusiasm is evident in the man who ran the sidelines with the yard sticks at Northville High School football games when he was pastor of the First Presbyterian Church here.

His "retirement" includes some teaching, serving as a field representative for Eckerd College and acting as interim pastor for Peace United Church of Ft. Lauderdale.

And in his spare time he brags that he has just finished making a hand-rubbed, Early American cradle out of cherry wood "with no nails." Naturally, it was for his grandchild ... daughter Lynda's the mother.

"Tell Susie I can't make the sesquicentennial celebration, but I'm sending a 17-minute eassette, unedited with all the sahs' in it," he said.

He was talking about Susie Dimitroff, a Record advertising staffer, who is contacting former pastors concerning the local First Presbyterian Church's observance of its 150th anhiversary this Sunday.

Seventeen minutes. Reverend John hasn't changed.

IT'S AMAZING when you consider that Michigan was nine years away from statehood when Northville's First Presbyterian Church was founded in 1829. And it wasn't until two years after the first church was erected here (at today's site) that the territory attained statehood.

last night was designated as Band Night at the races. What is most important to band members seeking new uniforms is that Rakieten allowed the band to sell all the tickets it could to the races and keep the proceeds.

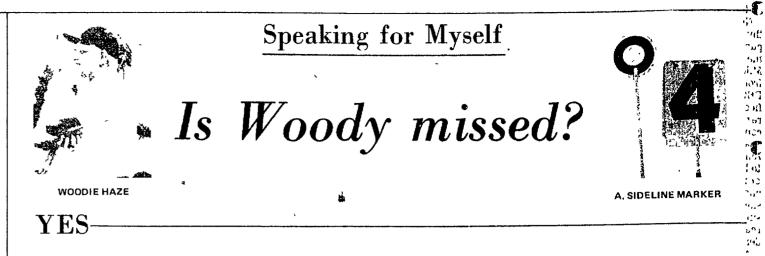

Next week we'll learn just how much that was. Meanwhile, thanks to the "Jackson-at-Northville" meet for its generous donation to the Band Boosters.

GOODBYE BEA. I covered many, many city council meetings when Beatrice Carlson served as the only woman ever to be a member of the council. She died the evening the city's second woman councilmember was elected.

She added more than just the woman's touch to the council. She brought pride of community and an "it-can-be-done" attitude that frequently challenged her male counterparts into action. She was chairman of the city's beautification commission when it won national recognition for its efforts. And to compile a huge scrapbook full of pictures and stories, Bea constantly encouraged Record staffers to cover the activities of her beautification committee.

Her whole life she was a woman of action. And mostly she worked for the welfare of the community.

IT'S JUST NOT SO. Only occasionally do we comment on statements made in "letters to the editor." These are, after all, opinions of the writer and they may or may not contrast to the newspaper's beliefs.

Wayne Woodrow Hayes, head coach of the Ohio State University Buckeyes for 28 years was, in a word, an original.

Here was a man who recognized our great gridiron game for what it is, an allegory to true battlefield victories. Yes, Woody was a military historian, a strategist and, above all, a winner. He prepared his players for life, which explains why so few ex-Buckeyes made it big in professional football.

Woody was a patriot and a true American. When President Nixon was looking for a director of the selective service system in the years when the Vietnam War was winding down, he almost drafted Woody.

Woody was a realist. He knew that on a pass play three things could happen and two of them were bad, Ultimately, it was an errant pass that brought the great man down.

Woody was an original all right, and that's why he was so thoroughly loathed in the State of Michigan.

The University of Michigan, as most of you know, has a head football coach by the name of Glenn "Bo" Schembechler. An animated Meechigan broadcaster likes to call him Bo "General George S. Patton" Schembechler. The Wolverines coach, too, is a strategist and a winner, except, of course, for the last game each season.

Schembechler may be a "Little Woody" or a chip off the old blockhead to some, but he is not an original.

Wayne Woodrow Hayes was an original. He will be missed.

Woodie Haze

NO

Speaking for sideline markers and, if I may be so presumptuous, camerapersons, reporters and an occa-sional student, no, we don't miss Woody.

For too many years, the Buckeye buffoon terrorized people and helpless inanimate objects. In the last few years, Ol' Woody was even known to punch himself in the face when he became frustrated at his not-toofrequently inept footballers.

How ironic it is that the ogre of the Olentangy escaped punishment for his escapades against defenseless sideline markers and other sideline fixtures only to be canned for slugging a fully-equipped, wellprotected football player twice his size.

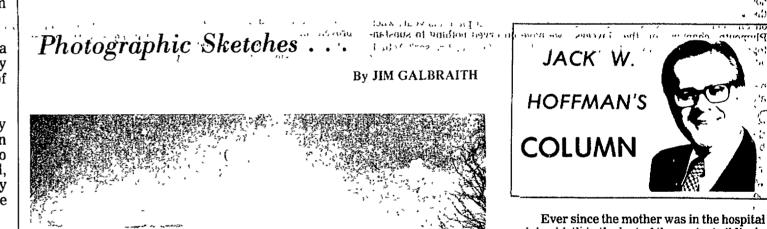

And talk about your poor loosers, remember it was Haves who blew the whistles so to speak, on our sacred Spartans for alleged recruiting violations after State topped his top-ranked Bucks in 1974. That loss was almost enough to give poor Woody another heart attack, although he found enough strength to give an MSU fan the back of his hand after that game.

Who can forget the 1977 game against Michigan when Hayes literally punched the lights out of an ABC cameraperson moments before OSU went down to ignominious defeat. They also couldn't go to the Rose Bowl that season.

Some people thought Woody was a good sportsman; unfortunately, he picked the wrong sport. Boxing is more his style.

A. Sideline-Marker

giving birth to the last of the upstart siblings, the father has been the target of abuse whenever he dons an apron.

While the membership pauses this week to commemorate its history, I'd like to write something I've long thought, but never expressed.

The pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Lloyd Brasure, is an exceptional person.

In low-profile manner he has involved himself in countless community projects and problems. He has not been reluctant to take a position in controversial issues and he has worked to improve conditions rather than merely joining the chorus of complainers.

Lloyd Brasure's name might be overlooked by those who would compile a list of community leaders. But that's because he helps without fanfare.

So in this week of recognition for the First Presbyterian Church of Northville, it seems fitting, too, to pay tribute to the man in the pulpit.

NANETTE RAKIETEN deserves credit for being one of the community's leading "band boosters."

She's owner of Jackson Raceway, which is currently conducting its harness racing meet at Northville Downs. And

But when an obvious, harmful error appears, it cries for clarification.

Last week a letter-writer alleged that "the school district lost $300,000 as a direct result of the Main Street 78 project in downtown Northville. Consequently, other local taxpayers were forced to make up this loss of 1½ mills.'

Even if one were to accept the philosophy that a gain in downtown taxbase represents a loss to the school district, the figures are still far, far offbase.

The increase in tax dollars this year from the business district that did not go to the school district is $33,000. This represents about two-tenths of a mill in school district taxes, not 1½ mills.

Further, most of the gain in taxbase in the downtown area this year comes about as a result of the new tenant at Northville Square. And many of us believe that the fact Northville is planning a program to upgrade its business district contributed to the decision which brought a new tenant into Northville Square.

So it depends upon how you look at the facts — once you get the facts straight. But in my opinion Mainstreet 78 is turning Northville's business district around and will be responsible for bringing more dollars into the school coffers. Which, by the way, is a reversal of the previous trend.

Just around the corner

Your letters welcome

This newspaper welcomes Letters to the Editor. We ask, however, that they be limited to 500 words and that they contain the signature, address and telephone number of the writer. Deadline for submission is noon Monday. Names will be withheld upon request. We reserve the right to edit letters for brevity, clarity and libel.

Even the stove treats him unkindly.

"You big lommox, the knob on the right is for the front right burner," someone fumes upon discovering the still cold kettle sitting next to the cherry red burner.

His excuse, "The stupid knobs ought to be labeled like hot and cold faucet handles; does little to evoke their sympathy.

Instead, they belittle his culinary talents.

"Oh, oh," one of them squeals, "dad's in the kitchen again pretending he can make toast."

The tattle-tale brings her mother on the run. "I wish you would leave the kitchen. It took me a week to clean up your last mess."

"Nobody was complaining when they were gobbling down the 'mess'," he counters.

"The only thing that did any gobbling was the disposal. Now get!"

The disrespect began that afternoon moons ago when five kids, like hungry baby birds, waited with their mouths open as their father concocted his first kitchen expendent ment.

"See, I told you your grandma wouldn't have to come and cook for us. Your daddy can do the cooking," he reassured them while ladling out their lunch.

In truth, he was nervous. His only cooking experience was holding wieners over a campfire with a stick. So he had followed his parental instincts: Make it simple; pick something all of them will like, mix it with something less tasty but healthful, and serve it hot.

He had whipped it up in a jiffy soon after dropping off his pregnant wife at the hospital door.

"What is it?" they chorused.

'PO zoning's no better'

the Editor:

Next Tuesday, November 20, the Nor-thville Planning Commission will hold a public hearing on a petition to rezone the property on the north side of Eight Mile Road and east of Joe's Pantry from R-3 (Third Density Residential) to PBO (Professional and Business Offices). This is the second request for rezoning this property received by the commission during the last several pars. The previous request, seeking a zoning change to allow for small stores to be built, met with substantial citizen concern and protest and was unanimously rejected by the commission. The present request deserves a similar fate for many of the same reasons the previous request was denied.

An office development would be inconsistent with the residential consistent with the residential character of the surrounding area and would jeopardize one of the more autiful areas along Eight Mile Road. The existing commercial development at Eight Mile and Taft roads was a past mistake and should not be expanded. We should encourage such businesses to locate in the Central Business District as part of the Mainstreet 78 Project instead of developing small local commercial/business pockets.

Concern has been frequently expressed by local residents and by city council garding existing traffic dangers and insafe conditions on Eight Mile Road near Taft. The proposed development would only compound the present problem and would result in vehicles turning onto and from Eight Mile Road at a point just over the crest of the hill near the high school.

I urge all Lexington Commons and surrounding area residents to attend the November 20th Public Hearing (8 p.m. in the City Hall) in order to voice beir opinions. Let's keep business evelopments in the downtown area and retain the residential nature of our neighborhoods.

> Sincerely, Jerome J. Mittman

Jaycees say thanks

To the Editor:

The 1979 Jaycee's Haunted House was a raging success with three times the number of people viewing the house. Kids and grownups alike visited the dark and eerie rooms of the building on Sheldon-Road. The Northville and Plymouth chapters of the Jaycees together raised thousands of dollars for. our community action programs.

This is the first time a joint venture between two Jaycee chapters has been attempted.

The magnitude of this year's success due to Wayne County's approval of the Training School property and building used for the haunted house project. With the backing of Northville Township the Jaycees were able to gain Wayne County's acceptance of our proposal.

Chief Ron Nisun of the Northville Police Department and Chief Bob Toms the project throughout negotiations assisted in planning the security layout but had men on patrol to direct traffic every night throughout the project. The Northville and Plymouth Jaycees wish to thank the following people and organizations for contribution to our 1979 haunted house success: Wayne County Board of Auditors President Richard P. Kelly, Vice President Ted Mrozowski, Secretary Leonard Proctor; Wayne County Commis-ioners Mary Dumas and Bill Joyner; orthyille Township Police Chief Ron Nisun; Northville Township Fire Department Chief Bob Toms; the Mountain Top Tree Company and the Goodtime Party Store.

Northville's voting population. However, they did have an affect on the student population, the football team, and, most of all, on themselves. Their nine week absence from the football games has been one of the most devastating blows ever to hit the spirit of NHS. Cheerleaders were forced to lead cheers to the beat of the other school's pep band. Spectators listened to the National Anthem as played from a recording. In my view, recordings are for swim meets, bands are for football games.

I agree with the band's complaints and I believe that they should be supported, but what's to support? It's hard to support something that doesn't even have a working plan of action (To my knowledge, no format with costs, figures, number of uniforms, etc., was ever brought before the school board.) When you think about it, it's pretty easy to complain about an issue and cut down the present system. But next time, let's have a plan before we leap. Sincerely,

Neal Young 43775 West Nine Mile Road

Protests salary hikes

To the Editor:

Recently the Wage and Salary Review Commission reported its recommendations to the Northville Township Board. Most of the suggested increases in salaries are reasonable and fall within the guidelines of a 6 percent to 8 percent increase to compensate for inflation. However, there are some discrepancies. For example, why should the supervisor receive an 8 percent increase this year, while he received a 9 percent increase last year, for a grand total of 17 percent in two years? Meanwhile, the commission suggests the clerk's salary should remain the same as last year. Why?

Not surprisingly, the commission recommends that a salary, between the range of $28,500 and $32,000, be established for a township manager or superintendent, if the charter township proposal is adopted. We now discover that the additional millage will provide more funds to increase the size of the bureaucracy in our township.

While the salaries of township employees remain reasonable, the salaries of our administrators in the Northville School District continue to escalate. Why does the new salary scale introduce a merit plan this year, when we have observed nothing to substantiate the need for merit raises? Actually some received a salary increase of 14.5 percent and the superintendent's salary is $42,727. Remember the con-troversial merit plan which seemingly held up negotiations with the faculty? We now know who really wanted merit and extra bonuses! Add, on top of that, $15,400 budgeted for travel for administrators, and we can easily observe where wasted mills are going. Where do we send our administrators for that price?

As we have seen, our school district was recently placed under great stress of the fire department provided support by a former suprintendent. Now our township board is attempting to s th the county. Chief Nisun not only charter township proposal, within which they want to establish a township superintendent with power to increase the size of the bureaucracy. Why doesn't the township learn from past mistakes?

their children would not be harmed by any foreign objects that might be present in the candy they collected.

We would like to thank Al Zielinski and three members of Michigan State Explorer Post No. 214 for testing all the candy that the children brought in, with the use of the metal detector.

Thank you to Novi Amublance who donated the 1.000 caramel apples, 1,150 popcorn balls and 6,400 suckers that were passed out to the people who came to the Fire Hall.

Thank you to Casterline Funeral Home for donating 20 gallons of apple cider which quenched the thirsts of trick and treaters young and old.

Thank you to the Northville Police Department for donating 1,000 cotton candy cones and renting the machine to make them.

A special thank you to the people of the community, for donating $28.00 to be given to the Ann Arbor Burn Center. And last, but certainly not least, thank you to all those dedicated and fun-giving people who donated their time and effort to make this a successful Halloween treat for the Northville community.

Band strike flunked

To the Editor:

Congratulations to the NHS Marching Band. They have just successfully completed the most unsuccessful protest in the history of Northville High. The band went on strike during the summer to protest the condition - lack of sheet music and uniforms. It probably seemed like a good idea at the time, but obiously the band did not take the most practical route. Who did they hurt? Certainly not the administration or the school board, or even a percentage of Double our township taxes, increase the size of the bureaucracy, give a new superintendent absolute power, and propose additional acquisitions of land: all of these proposals are currently emerging as a part of the movement for a charter township.

Obviously, I am opposed to the adop-tion of a charter township. Therefore, I have requested equal time to debate the issue, when the public hearing is held, and I have notified the township clerk about my intention.

It's grand events

To the Editor: As members of the Northville City Fire Department, we would like to take this opportunity to thank all the following people for their generous contributions in making this year's Halloween Party a grand event. First, a very special thank you to IT&T of Plymouth. They are applauded by us for the loan of the metal detector. Under the direction of Ray Lipan, who donated his time to observe the operation of the machine, parents taking advantage of this service felt assured that

Colorful renaissance for old buildings

There was a time, 20 years ago, when the only proper color to paint traditional house was white with green shutters. Somehow, the deep Slate blues, tans and browns of an earlier era, now seen in restored historic Williamsburg, fell out of favor.

But a look around our streets and roads today proves there's a renaissance of color. As young owners, in many cases, refurbish homes, they're selecting tones of browns, blues and tans. The rich caramel and cream color of the Hunter House in Northville Historical Village was applauded by many Fourth of July visitors.

Work also is being done to restore homes and buildings to more-pleasing early day looks. One of the most recent renovations has taken place on the north side of downtown Main Street where "modern" panels have been removed from the facade of Black's Hardware to reveal original brick fronting. The building also is regaining a cornice in the refurbishing.

Out west Eight Mile at Maybury State Park the original Michigan farmhouse occupied by William Maybury has received a reconstruction-facelift. Now the home of John Beemer, park farm manager, the house had the Insul-brick siding removed and during the past couple of years was "torn down to the studs" and rebuilt, leaving only the old flooring. It's now insulated, has new wood siding and a cedar shake roof. Most of the work was done by the park staff, John Pettis, assistant manager, reports proudly. David and Lucia Danes really "agonized" over historic Williamsburg color chips, she recalls, before making the decision to paint their handsome home at 121 High deep brown with mahogany red trim. The result, she says with relief, has been pleasing to them and has drawn much favorable comment.

Nearby at 218 West Dunlap the William Stockhausens have had the gray paint removed from their Victorian house to reveal mellow pink bricks.

Do look around. There's much to appreciate in our town.

Hear music on Christmas Walk

By JEAN DAY

By this Sunday it will be just five-and-a-half weeks until Christmas. In a long-standing tradition, Northville merchants officially will mark the beginning of the holiday season locally with the biggest Christmas Walk ever. Windows will be decorated and about 30 stores will be open from noon to 5 p.m. with many offering refreshments to those dropping by. Adding to this year's festivities will be a free potpourri concert during those hours at the Marquis Theatre. Artists, in-cluding students, from Northville and surrounding areas will be presenting a program of musical favorites, says theatre owner Inga Zayti. She invites families taking the Christmas Walk to stop by during the five hours to hear any part of the program.

Fontaine Laing, coordinator for the afternoon of music, is serving as accompanist.

Peformers include Richard Piippo, cellist and Wayne State University faculty member and first cello at both the Fisher Theatre and Michigan Opera Theatre; Faith Foster, soprano whose most recent area performance was in the Performing Arts Sixth Gate series at Novi High School who also is a performer at the Marygrove College chamber music series.

Others are Heidi Heppler, soprano, who has appeared with Michigan Opera Theatre and currently is the reigning Miss Livonia of 1979; Charles Gary, violinist, an outstanding graduate student at University of Michigan; Jan Martin, tenor with Michigan Opera Company; and pianists Doris Fubank, Sheila Stephenson, Ruth Neville and student pianists Carolyn Edwards, Joyce Wong, Diana Wong and Scott Nelson.

New businesses join old ones

Newest business to be open on the Christmas Walk is the Bookstall on the Main, which is having its grand opening during the walk. Unofficially, it opened a week ago in the former Sunflower Shop store next to Freydl's at 116 East Main. Owners are Berenice Ellis, who formerly was emplyed in the Bookmark in Northville Square, and Madelon Rathburn.

Geritti's "Hole In the Wall" Sandwich Shop will also celebrate its Grand Opening for the Christmas Walk. Located in the rear of Genitti's Meat Market, it will feature sandwiches and soups.

Another new-this-year business that will be open for the first time this holiday season is West End Lamps at 144 North Center, reached by a passageway from Center to the rear of the store. It's worth investigating to find one-of-a-kind lamps made in most cases from antiques and boasting coordinated shades. Gitfiddler Music Store will be open in its renovated building with expanded facilities at 302 East Main. Other newcomers are Racquet Connection at 124 North Center and Gifts by Marison at 115 Main. Across the streat Sandials Hellmark Shawe (1997) at 115 Main. Across the street Sandie's Hallmark Shoppe at 124 East Main will be displaying Christmas ideas. The Weskonson Company at 142 North Center will welcome visitors.

The newcomers are joining with store owners who have ushered in the holiday season for years with the walk. They include Lapham's Men's Shop, Freydl's Men's and Women's Shop, Del's Shoes, Brader's Department Store, D&C Stores, Schrader's Home Furnishings, Green's Creative Home Center, and IV Seasons Flowers, which this year again will have open and IV Seasons Flowers, which this year again will have open the 5th Season Trims in Ware's Square. Also open in Ware's Square will be Connie's Corner Stit-chery. Traditional Handcrafts and Village Needlepoint in Mary Alexander Court are participating. Claire Kelly will be open on Cady while Northville Watch and Clock Shop at 132 West Dunlap will be decorated and welcoming visitors. Northville Claured ale at 134 North Center is participating, as is the Vausa Cloverdale at 134 North Center is participating, as is the House Antiques down the street at 422 East Main.

, Others on Main include Foltyn's Bakery, Northville Phar-macy, Black's Hardware, Little People and Little General Shoppe, Marquis Boutique and Long's Fancy Bath Boutique.

Christmas parties set for December 1

Another benefit that traditionally begins December entertaining is Northville Mothers' Club Christmas cocktail parties held concurrently in nine local homes on the first Saturday in December, which this year is December 1.

Invitations are in the mail inviting residents to members' homes. Hostesses this year are Mrs. William VanBuren, Mrs. Ray J. Casterling II, Mrs. Richard Lyon, Mrs. Gary Sixt, Mrs. Tom Schaal, Mrs. Ron Housman, Mrs. Charles Ayers, Mrs. Paul Baetz and Mrs. Gordon Forrer. Mrs. Forrer will be hostessing the life member group of the club composed of women who have worked in the Mothers' Club for at least 10 years.

Women of China

Betty Lennox early this year was one of 19 American Women in the Delegation for Friendship Among Women in one of the first groups of Americans to visit the People's Republic of China after the "normalization" of relations with the United States. This Friday at 1:30 p.m. at Northville Woman's Club meeting in First Presbyterian Church she will describe the life of Chinese women today. She plans to show slides and relate conversations she had with the women on their roles and goals. Mrs. Lennox now is controller for the City of Northville. A township resident, she is a former township supervisor. She will be introduced by Ruth Klein.

Proceeds from the parties are used for projects in the Northville Public Schools. Mrs. Nelson Schrader is in charge of arrangements for parties this year. Plans will be finalized at a club meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at the home of Judy Somershoe.

Saima Clark wed Saturday to William Upham

Upham, who were married in a 1 p.m. ceremony last Saturday at First United Methodist Church of Northville, are going to be making their home in Dallas, Texas.

The bride, who had been living in Kalamazoo, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Clark of 20142 Valley Road.

Her bridegroom, also of Kalamazoo, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Buford Upham of East Grand Rapids.

The Reverend Guenther C. Branstner officiated at the double ring service. As she was given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a daytime-length dress in pastel lavender fashioned with a soft cowl neckline and long sleeves. She carried a nosegay of baby pink

Saima Helena Clark and William H. sweetheart roses with baby's-breath. She is a 1970 graduate of Northville High School and a 1974 graduate of Western Michigan University

Her husband is a 1968 graduate of Ottawa Hills High School in Grand Rapids and a 1972 bachelor of arts graduate of Albion. He received his master's degree in journalism from the University of Missouri.

Attending the couple were Mrs. Donald Harrell of Kalamazoo and Chris Root of Galesburg, Michigan

Columnist at town hall: need honest relationships

By JEAN DAY

Ever since, early in 1977, an ex-ecutive editor of the Detroit Free Press thought there was "an audience out here" for Nickie McWhirter's voice, her observations and opinions have been challenging column readers four times a week.

Now syndicated in 85 newspapers in United States and Canada, her column won the top award for column writing from the Michigan Associated Press last year. This was only one of several citations.

Last Thursday Glenna McWhirter old a packed Northville Town Hall au-dience at the Plymouth Hilton Inn why she thinks the column has been so successful.

"One of the reasons, I think, is that we threw away the idea that the newspaper audience is comprised of those with a 10-year-old mentality."

Her aim has been to "challenge peo-ple to think." Her goal is not just to entertain.

"I have emotional responses and the feeling that I want to share them," she old her audience, saying she was susceptible to outrage against the absurd, unjust, irrational and the lazy.

As an example of the absurd, she cited a Clairol Company Christmas promotion of electric tweezers a couple of years ago.

"I feel sorrow and was saddened by the death of Chad Green in Mexico of leukemia. I'm sure his parents thought they were doing the right think taking im there for treatment, but I'm saddened that they will carry to their graves the hint that they didn't do what was right.

"Don't dump more on them," she urged, mentioning that there had been talk of prosecution for taking the child out of the country.

She described her feeling of joy as she rose at 7 a.m. one morning last June to drive to Grand Rapids to attend her son's commencement at Grand Valley State College.

"I suddenly realized that these traditional rites of passage exert pressure on family members to think of this child. It's a celebration of blood and family."

Ms. McWhirter had written a column responsive chord with many readers. country." Last Thursday she also identified with She em many in her audience as she talked of her daughter's upcoming wedding December 1.

Her daughter and twin sons, as well as her divorce about eight years ago, have been a basis for column observations

Questioned at the luncheon, she said that she and her husband, Ed McWhirter, had had a "Doris Day and Rock Hudson marriage for 20 years with never a single fight or argument."

Their concern during the divorce, she said, was to give minimal danger to the children. Her sons were high school seniors then and her daughter Suzanne was in college.

"What is my value system; what do I stand for? I don't know," she told her audience with the candor readers have come to expect.

"I have one constant: honesty. I believe honesty in relationships is the most important single thing we can try to teach our children.

"I see such a lot of dishonesty in marriage. There's the housewife who abides what she dislikes because she feels it's her duty. "There's dishonesty in extramarital affairs. They cheat all parties involved. It's terribly unsatisfactory for the woman who can't dial him at 3 a.m. and say 'I can't sleep. Talk to me a while.' He lives with guilt and there's a part of himself that is not his to give.

"With children we gloss over human sexuality. As a society we need to face up to what it is to be a sexual human and make sure our children understand and value it.

"We also don't share insecurities and fears with children. If the dog is ill, we can't seem to say, 'I really don't know what is going to happen.' We have to say it will be all right. And often it isn't. Then what do we say when the dog dies?'

The speaker continued that she feels honesty also is important in the world of work, noting that employers get a great deal of cheating today.

She added that she feels more honesty is needed in the Equal Rights Amendment discussions. "I advocate ratification. It's important not only to about that graduation day that struck a women but to men and society and the

She emphasized that in some states it still is illegal for a woman to own property. Such laws, she said, may have been passed in the past to protect women, but today they work against them.

However, she pointed out, if women want to be recognized as total human beings, they will have to give up some rights for others.

She observed that she felt women "have done a terrible job of raising sons. We tell them, 'don't cry' and then when they're grown we complain that they aren't demonstrative husbands."

In the new feeling of feminism, she believes it is important for a woman to feel "I will be strong," but it also is necessary for a man to be permitted to be weaker.

She suggested that everyone should have short and long-term goals.

"First and last, we have to be most accountable for ourselves," she declared. "We waste an awful lot of time dreaming, and, after all, time is life."

She defined this as having a good feeling about oneself and refusing to be exploited - as well as never exploiting others.

Marcia Pickren wed in October ceremony

Marcia Lynn Pickren and her Could Never Promise You." bridegroom, Stephen James Smith, held hands and faced each other while repeating their marriage vows in a 7 p.m. service October 13 in Lake Pointe Bible Chapel in Plymouth.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Pickren of 21184 East Chigwidden. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Smith of Zeeland.

As an elder of the church, the bride's father officiated at the double ring service in which the couple symbolically lit a unity candle. Pastor Ross Rainey made the introduction of the couple to the congregation before turning the remainder of the service over to the bride's father, who first escorted Marcia down the aisle.

Ivory lace decorated the bodice and formed the high neckline and long sleeves of the bride's gown. It featured pearl trim. The skirt extended into a chapel train. A pearl and lace cap hèld the fingertip veil, which was edged with lace.

The bride's nosegay bouquet was composed of ivory roses, miniature carnations and stephanotis with touches of blue angel lace.

For the candlelight service ivory candles with bows marked the family pews and seven-candle candelabras flanked the altar.

Mrs. Dewey Gardner was organist. The bride's brother, Richard S. Pickren, sang "The Wedding Song" and a special favorite song of the couple, "I

Dr. William D. Mercer, senior presented early Sunday morning minister of Nardin Park United religious newscasts. Methodist Church since 1963 and an extensive traveler, will talk about women in Europe, and in Russia in particular. at the 7 p.m. dinner meeting of the new Mayflower Chapter of American Business Women's Association (AB-WA) Tusday at Hillside Inn in Plymouth.

Organized this fall, the new chapter of the national organization is open to all presently employed business women.

Guests are welcome at the meeting and may call Jan Campbell at 349-6042 to make reservations. The new chapter, she says, has members from Nor-thville, Novi, Plymouth and Canton. She especially is anxious to have younger working women attend.

Lottery's more popular than ever

By REID CREAGER

Certainly, we've all heard those timeworn sayings for as long as we care to remember. Familiar adages like "Money can't buy happiness" and "The best things in life are free" urge all of humanity to abandon money concerns and materialistic inclinations - even in these days of epidemic inflation.

But try telling that to anyone who has ever bought a Michigan State Lottery ticket.

Of course, not everyone who takes a shot at the lottery game is preoccupied with their financial situation. Some like the excitement and anticipation that accompanies the venture into the world of chance, while some, admittedly, are turned on by the idea of a potential "get-rich-quick" situation. Others say being haven't anything better to do with their money.

Regardless of the motivational factors involved, the lottery is more popular today than ever. Since its inception seven years ago, it has been responsible for some $725 million in monies deposited into the state's general fund budget. In addition, lottery officials estimate that ticket sales are up'some 26 percent over last year. when receipts totaled approximately $410 million.

Michigan's lottery sweepstakes became a reality in August of 1972 when Governor William Milliken passed the Lotfery Act, thus making the chance event an official entity. Milliken's action came three months after a state referendum in which voters chose by a two-to-one margin to allow the lottery The first ticket was sold on November 13 of that year.

The 1972 decision made Michigan the venth state in the country to adopt the itery format. New Hampshire started the ball rolling in 1964 when it became the first lottery state; now the lottery is legal in 14 states. Vermont most recently, joined the bandwagon a year ago.

Lottery officials say that these days, over $4 million in cash prizes are awarded each week. What's not given away goes, by law, into the general fund budget, where the state's elected representatives decide what to do with e money based on the popular choice their respective constituencies.

Naturally, just where those funds should be allocated has been a source of continual debate throughout the years. According to Roger Clough, a State Lottery public relations official, the loudest cries for money have come from the field of education, although public sentiment has not yet been strong enough to dictate that all the funds go there. There have been attempts to funddesignate for education," Clough said, "but they've been unsuccessful in the past. Still, we're state employees and we'll go by the mandate of the people, whatever they decide."

monies or over $1 billion per year. Social services programs are next on the state's money list, receiving 34 percent of the lottery total, and health and medical programs receive 10 percent of the funds to rank third.

The largest portion of the entire lottery pot (45 percent) goes to the winners, according to official tabulations. And, while a great majority of winners collect "small" prizes ranging anywhere from $5 to $50 some are fortunate enough to cash in on the dream of a lifetime.

One such individual is David Shepherd. A simple carpenter from rural Onstead, Shepherd enjoys the distinction of winning the largest cash prize in the history of the lottery. Playing the Instant Game, he was awarded $1.89 million in January, 1976 at the ripe old age of 22.

However, contrary to the popular notion that sudden wealth automatically changes people, Shepherd's lifestyle has stayed the same in the three-years plus since his good fortune. He still calls Onstead home, has the same job and even "goes to coffee" with the same people. Oh, he may have built a new two-story home with the winnings, but reports indicate that he's still the same old David Shepherd. Surprisingly, the Shepherd case seems to represent the rule rather than the exception. According to Clough, 'most big winners, we've found, have no drastic changes in their life or lifestyles. They do things like put money aside for their kids' educations, add a few home improvements, or maybe buy a new car. But we find that very few of the big winners wind up quitting their jobs and taking off on some expensive cruise or something like that."

Clough also enjoyed recounting the tale of Hermus Millsaps, a 53-year-old Taylor resident employed as a Chrysler woodworker when he won the state's first million-dollar drawing in 1973.

The colorful, guitar-playing Ten-nessee native — who by Clough's account had purchased a 29-cent lucky rabbit's foot shortly before his newfound millionaire status — apparently traveled by bus with his wife to Lansing for the purpose of collecting his money, since his car, was broken and he'd had no money for repairs.

Poor Hermus. He got his check all right, but then discovered that he had no cash with which to hail a taxi to get back to the bus station. Somehow he made it back to his modest home, though, and won a $1,000 lottery check four years later.

Most recent reports indicate that Millsaps still resides in that simple Taylor frame home. He did, however, splurge for a new television set with his winnings - bought on installment payments, of course.

Lottery officials say more than S4 million in cash prizes are awarded each week

Millsaps, Frolich also hails from Taylor.

With the incredible number of lottery participants, such coincidences aren't that hard to find. Still, every once in a while there comes along a lottery happenstance that simply defies logical explanation, as Clough explained.

"But three months went by, and the big prize still hadn't been claimed," he continued. "Finally, in February of 1976, a two-man lottery club claimed their prize after all that time.

"The strangest part of it all, though, was when we found out that these bicentennial winners lived in Concord

He cited the example of a Kalamazoo club called Mursch's Breakfast that has won three times, most rcently collecting $200,000. Another club, the AC Six from Flint; won the sum of $205,000 twice in the same year.

Lottery clubs have reportedly become more popular in the state Green Village on Paul Revere Street. recently, especially since chances of winning increase in direct proportion to the number of members. However, such clubs must be registered as such with the State in order to collect, Clough said.

of a December, 1977 Detroit News survey, which found that the average individual ticket purchaser only spends five dollars per week or less on the lottery So there just may be safety in numbers if you've got nothing against dividing up the winnings

Other times one has no choice but to divide the jackpot because state or local taxes must be paid on any lottery winnings, 20 percent in federal taxes have to be paid on any amount over $5,000. Still, that should leave the happy winner(s) with enough left over to buy a The advantages of being a club number of things - even if happiness

As things stand now, education gets the largest chunk of the state's lottery

Then, on the last day of October this year, 74-year-old Joseph James Frolich continued what Hermus Millsaps started by becoming the state's most funds, receiving 40 percent of the recent million-dollar winner. And like

"We had our bicentennial game in 1976, selling tickets at five dollars apiece with the top prize being $1 million," he said. "There was a grand drawing in October of 1975 where the winning number was picked. We then publicized that number all over the place - in the papers, the radio, everywhere.

They'd bought 13 tickets — one for each of the original 13 colonies -- and won on the 13th ticket."

Oddly enough, Clough said that lottery "clubs" such as the above had enjoyed notable lottery success, particularly in becoming repeat winners

JOHN McLELLAN of Wolverine Lake has been appointed new car sales manager at John Mach Ford in Northville.

McLellan formerly was associated with Shuman Ford in Walled Lake where he was a salesman for 10 years before being promoted to the position of sales manager last April. Shuman Ford closed last week.

John Mach, owner of John Mach Ford, said that the Northville dealership will assume responsibility for all service warranties on cars sold by Shuman Ford prior to its closing. Mach also reported that anyone who has ordered cars from Shuman Ford should now contact his dealership for follow-through on the orders.

McLellan is moving to the John Mach Ford dealership after a long career in the field of automotive sales. McLellan is president of the Wolverine Lake Village Council. He and his wife Susan have four children: Kimberly, 15; Cheryl, 12, John, 9; and Christine, 6.

LIMITED EDITION prints of scenes that David and Cindy - Albright of Albright Photography, 200 South Main, Northville, plan to .- take in Africa, Italy and Greece may be pre-ordered at discount at the studio.

The young couple with their daughter Charity, who will be three years old in December, will be leaving after Christmas for Nairobi. They intend to stay with missionary friends and live with people in the country as well as tour the area by land rover.

Signed prints, each limited to 50, will be sold in advance with a 40 percent discount. They add that customers may request them to take special views. They plan a show of their photo essays on their return after first week in February.

The studio will remain open during their absence.

GILBERT V. KINSLER

GILBERT V. KINSLER of Walled Lake has been named district manager for the Welcor, Inc. Oak Park office in the northeast section of Oakland and Macomb counties.

He will be responsible for selling and distributing Minolta copiers. He is an 11-year resident of Oakland County and a graduate of Denby High School with two years at Wayne State University.

Before joining Welcor, Kinsler was a senior sales counselor with Real Estate One in Farmington Hills and also was employed for 25 years as a detective sergeant in the Detroit Police Department.

He is an avid classic car collector, bowler and jogger. He and his wife Peggy have three children: Cindy, Linda and Mark.

DAVID P. PORTA, Brighton, has qualified as a member of the 1979 Star Club of New York Life Insurance Company.

The Star Club is composed of New York Life agents who achieved significant sales records in 1978-79, according to General Manager Fred E. Rogers, CLU of the company's Northland-Detroit general offices.

REPRESENTATIVES FROM Michigan National Bank—West Oakland made a special visit to the Happy Hour Day Care Center in Walled Lake recently to present the children with cookies and balloons and give the youngsters a chance to meet some "real, live clowns."

The visit was held in conjunction with Michigan National Bank's grand opening celebration of its new branch offices in Wolverine Lake Village and Highland Township. The visit also marked the introduction of personal service banking at all branch offices.

MNB-West Oakland spokesperson Jane Bevin explained that "personal service banking" is designed to increase convenience for the customer.

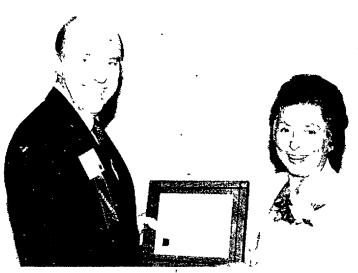

"All our tellers have been trained to be personal service bankers," she said. "As a result of the special training they have received, they will be able to handle all transactions except loans. Since our customers can transact just about all their business without having to go from office to office, desk to desk, there should be a significant savings in time and improvement in services."

PAT ROBINSON, a Brighton resident who is president of Global Mobile Homes, has been re-elected to the 1979-80 board of directors of the Michigan Manufactured Housing Institute (MMHI).

The MMHI is the state-wide association of mobile home park owners, dealers, manufacturers and suppliers.

Robinson, whose company is head-quartered in Livonia, has offices throughout Michigan. In the industry for 12 years, he has been active in MMHI affairs including the chairmanship of the dealers' advisory commit-

JOHN BOSCH (L), PRESIDENT OF THE MICHIGAN ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS, PRESENTS PLAQUE TO SALLY NOEKER OF BRIGHTON.

THE LIVINGSTON COUNTY BOARD OF REALTORS has chosen Realtor Sally Noeker as the recipient of its "Realtor of the Year" award. She represented the board at the Michigan Association of Realtors' quarterly meeting in October at the Renaissance Center in Detroit.

Mrs. Noeker, the 1979 president of the Livingston County board, was selected for her many contributions to the board, as well as to her family and community. She has served on many committees, was the first woman president of the board in 1969 and will serve her third term as president in 1980.

Her years in real estate, the past three as associate broker and manager of the Brighton branch of Crandall Realty, Inc., and the fact that she has lived for the past 40 years in the Brighton area, have given her the knowledge and experience to serve on the Brighton City Planning Commission and the Brighton Tomorrow Committee.

Noeker and her husband, Jim, have five children and three grandchildren.

ON THURSDAY, November 15, National Bank of Detroit will celebrate the official grand opening of its new Novi office located at 43100 Grand River Avenue.

During the celebration, a cash donation will be presented to the City of Novi that will go toward the purchase of a new intercom system to be used in the Novi Čity Hall.

The new full-service office features four drive-in banking lanes expandable to six, eight inside teller stations, safe deposit boxes, a night depository and an Instant Loan Center incorporated in the facility.

The new branch has fifty percent more interior space, with an additional 575 square-feet in the bank lobby and a larger customer waiting area in the management section. The parking area of the branch can accommodate 123 vehicles.

Lobby hours for the Novi office are 9:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. Monday through Thrusday and 9:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. on Friday. Drive-in hours are extended, 8:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. daily and 9:00 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturday. Hours for the new Instant Loan Center are 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 9:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. on Friday.

PAWL INVENTIONEERING CORPORATION of Walled lake has announced the "Windstar," a recently patented windmill design that has achieved a rated power coefficient of .54 in a 12 mile-per-hour wind.

The "Windstar" is 1½ to two times more efficient than present commercially available windmills and constitutes a major breakthrough in windmill technology.

The "Windstar" is a horizontal axis type windmill, as are the traditional American farm windmills. However, the blade arrangement is of a new type known as a helical multi-blade. The windmill blades are set in helical fashion about the shaft and derive maximum power from the wind much like a flapped airfoil achieves superior lift at low speeds on airplanes. The various diameters of blade pairs along the shaft provide further velocity augmentation.

The "Windstar" boasts patents not only on the unique blade ar-

Novi Mayor Pro Tem Martha L. Hoyer (second from left) and Councilwoman Patricia Karevich congratulated Gary L. Cortner, second vice-president and operations officer (left) and Bank President Charles E. Wood at the recent opening of Manufacturers Bank of Novi The bank is the eighth subsidiary of Manufacturers National Corporation.

MANUFACTURERS Bank of Novi opened its headquarters at 26222 Novi Road recently. On hand to congratulate Bank President

Tankers finish dual slate at 12-0

The Northville girls' swim team clos- 200-yard medley relay race. The ed out its dual meet season with two wins last week to go undefeated. The team goes into the league meet, scheduled for Thursday and Friday of this week, with a 12-0 record. The meet will take place at Livonia Churchill.

Northville downed Churchill 65-15 last Tuesday and then sank Canton 103-69 on Thursday.

Northville took both wins and will have to face the league competition without the services of ace swimmer Sue Cahill, who is out indefinitely with a flu-like ailment.

Coach Ben Lauber juggled his lineup a bit for the meets. His logic was to give everyone on the team a good warmup for the upcoming league meet.

The team of Caralyn Brown, Allyson Farquhar, Tammy Selfridge and Lori Hackman combined to take first in the squad's time was 2:08.1.

Laurie Sellen and Diane Hrubiakfinished one-two in the next event, the 200-yard freestyle. Sellen's time was 2:08.4 and Hrubiak's was 2:27.7.

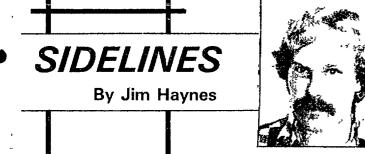

Leslie Farquhar and Carolyn Schrot went one-two in the 200-yard individual medley. Farquhar swam a 2:28.6 while Schrot clocked in at 2:46.5.

Hackman and Kristy Ifversen made it a three-in-a-row one-two finish as the duo swept the top two positions in the 50-yard freestyle. Ifversen notched a :28.6 for first while Hackman swam a :29.3 for second.

Hollie Raycraft recorded 177.45 points to finish second in the diving competition. The winning total was 181.7.

Wait until next year

The season was a long hard one. I think back to the summer days when the team first started conditioning practices out on the baseball field. Hot, dusty. The players milling around in small groups waiting for the coaches to tell them what to do: The seniors, juniors, sophomores and freshmen talking in separate groups. Back then hopes were high and the league title a mere thought away.

Today, a week after the season has finished, the rain is coming down like a Philippine monsoon. Sheets of grey wetness ripple in the wind and soak body and spirit alike. Thoughts of cold snow and January whiteness seem like heaven compared to bleak November showers. And the thoughts and dreams of a football league title have long since sank into the earth, like the cold, wet rain, only to rise again next year with the August sun.

The Mustangs finished this season with a 4-5 record. If the team had truly been of championship timbre it would have finished 7-2. There was a stretch in the second-half of the schedule when Northville played, in a row, the top three teams in the Western Six league. And one by one Livonia Churchill, Farmington Harrison and finally, Walled Lake Western beat the Mustangs. Three tests of worthiness and the Mustangs failed. But let's not be depressed. It just wasn't meant to be Northville's year on the gridiron.

The season had its moments. There were a number of reasons to be proud and there are a number of reasons why we should look towards next year with hope.

Injuries played a big factor in the Mustangs' season. Four key members of the team were out with various bangs and bruises for at least one game.

1 Paul Luiki, Bob Crisan and Ken Weber were senior co-captains who had to overcome injuries. Luiki broke a finger and missed two games, Crisan also broke a finger and battled a flu bug while Weber hurt his leg and missed a few of the last games. Luiki was a mainstay on the offensive and defensive lines for Northville. Crisan, when healthy, was a big weapon on offense for the Mustangs. He was a quick, powerful runner who hammered runs up the middle with regularity. He was also one of the better defensive backs, when healthy, in the area. Weber was also a member of the Northville defense and just never played up to the season he had last year when he was healthy. Imagine the kind of season Northville would have had if Weber had been at 100 percent the whole season.

The fourth key person who missed action due to an injury and then came back to play hurt was senior scatback Joe Hamp. Short and wiry with a broken nose that gives him the look of a blonde Jean-Paul Belmondo, Hamp was the catalyst that made the Northville attack go.

Not blessed with great breakaway speed, Hamp was, however, gifted with a cat-like quickness that allowed him to make more moves quicker in a small area (such as the line of scrimmage) than most humans are capable of. His body seems to be joined at the navel by a swivel joint. On a typical play he would burst around end at full speed. Then, all of a sudden, his lower half would turn 180 degrees while his upper half was still facing the original position, and dart away into the clear up the middle. The offense will miss Hamp next season.

But the person who will be missed most of all will be senior linebacker/center Bob Boshoven. If he were larger and/or his team

Hoopsters record fifth win, 60-50

Sue Townsend lays the ball up for two

The fifth win finally came. When Nor-thville girls' basketball coach Dave Schoopp set that marker as his goal during a pre-season interview, many thought it was too high for his young team. The past few years hadn't been kind to the Northville hoop program.

But last week the Mustang mentor showed these critics what a little hard work and a little faith can do. Schoopp's Northville squad handed Walled Lake Western a 58-42 drubbing to notch its fifth win of the campaign. Northville and Western ended the first quarter tied at 15-15. The second quarter was just as close as Northville retired to the lockerroom at halftime with a one-point advantage, 26-25. Then the poise of the Northville team showed through.

"We were ahead by one point at the half," Schoopp said. "it was the kind of game where we thought we had to play good every quarter. The girls showed that they had confidence. In the clutch, our kids showed they had a lot of poise.

What that poise and confidence translated out to was a second half that saw Northville outscore Western 12-6 in the third quarter and 20-11 in the fourth.

The scoring for Northville was balanced between four players primarily. Sophomore Jacque Nixon pumped home 22 points to lead the Mustangs in scoring. She hit seven of 18 shots from the field and canned eight of 11 from the charity stripe.

Senior guard Sue Townsend added 13 points. She was successful on three of two.

nine shots from the floor but hit on seven of nine shots from the free-throw line.

Senior guard Kim Kurzawa banged home 10 points for the winners. She hit four of nine shots from the field and looped two of five free-throw shots. Heidi Wagner notched three of six twopointers and made one of three freethrows for seven points.

"The team just came together. They peaked," Schoopp said. "I've finally found a group of six players that played well as a group. The whole team has a great attitude. I was aware that the win was our fifth. Now I want the sixth, or seventh or eighth. We have three tough games left but I want them,'

Earlier in the week things weren't so rosy for the Mustangs. Northville got chewed up and spit back out again by a tough Brighton squad. The score was 64-45. One Brighton player, Peg Harte, almost matched the entire Northville point output single-handedly. She scored 42 points. Northville's Nixon did her best by scoring 14 to lead the Mustang attack, but she had no support offensively from her teammates. The next high scorers were Wagner and Melinda House, each of whom scored six points.

Brighton fell behind 9-6 after the first quarter but outscored Northville 20-12 in the second period. Brighton kept up the pace in the third quarter by outscoring the Mustangs 21-10. The fourth quarter was a bit more competitive as there was just a 17-14 gap between the had had a better season, Boshoven would be a cinch all-stater. From his post behind the middle of the defensive line, Bosh made an almost unbelievable 83 solo tackles and assisted on 71 others. Those figures are a new school record. When he wasn't nailing enemy runners to the turf, he was roaming the flats in search of pass receivers. On four occasions he managed to step in between the ball and the offensive end. The result was four interceptions. He also recovered four fumbles. Another senior who will be missed is Danny Goehman. He flared in the beginning of the season like a berserk Roman candle and even though the defenses got wise to him and ended up double and tripleteaming him in order to sidetrack his zone express, Goehman managed to haul in 15 passes for an outstanding 376 yards, or an average of 25.2 yards every time he caught the ball. Goehman crossed over into scoring territory six times with Mustang aerials.

Probably the biggest reason to smile when thinking about next season is junior quarterback David Greer. After leading the JV to a great season last year, Greer came up to the varsity this season and put new meaning into the phrase "long distance."

Greer didn't connect with his receivers as often as he would have liked (a result of Goehman's coverage throughout most of the season) but the junior slinger made the most of the throws he did complete. Greer had 35 completions in 111 attempts for 698 yards and 10 touchdowns. He also rushed for 238 yards in just 48 carries. With Greer and Todd Jennings, his battery-mate in JV ball who was 3 out all but the last game with a broken leg, returning, the sky above the Northville football field should be filled next season with long-distance messages for the other team. Namely, that seven-point heaven is here to stay.

1979: A disappointing year

The 1979 football season has come to a close with the Mustangs finishing a disappointing 4-5 on the year. But the season wasn't without its bright spots. The Northville defense was one of the best in the Western Six (above). Big Dave Ward filled in for in-jured Rob Marzonie at defensive end and did a good job (left). Paul Cooper didn't run the ball often from his flanker position but when he did he picked up good yardage (below left). Joe Hamp was the spark plug that made the Mustang offensive engine go. His flashy runs from the halfback slot always set the crowd on the edge of its seat (below right).

COUGARS 1, PINK PANTHERS 0 This game was a defensive struggle from the beginning. Cougar goalies Laura Daly and Sheri Woener and Panther net-minder Kathy Korwin were outstanding as each team stopped numerous scoring attempts by the other. The Panthers were the first to come close to scoring as Julie Moylan banged a shot off of the goal post in the first quarter. Then in the fourth period Panther Jill Jensen also hit the cross beam with the ball. It was up to Michelle Cross of the Cougars to finally score. She took the ball with four minutes left in the game and shot the ball past goalie Korwin for the win. With the victory the Cougars won the Larabell assisted on both scores. NORTHVILLE RECORD—WALLED LAKE/NOVI FOOTBALL CONTEST

HERE ARE THE RULES

Tim Evans on the victory stand

Contest winner named

Although Doug Ayers incorrectly close. figured Minnesota would down Micialgan State, he correctly predicted Purdue's victory over Michigan to win last week's football contest. Ayers, who lives at 518 Morgan Circle, came up with just two mistakes on his entry — the same number as three, other contestants. But his tie-breaking score in the Houston-Oakland game was closer than the others. In fact, it was very nearly the actual score. The first place winner guessed Houston to win by a score of 30-17. Houston actually won 31-17.

In second place, nine points off the mark, was from Alkire of 316 South Wing. The third place winner was Dave Bach of 20336 Woodhill. Bach was 11 points off the tie-breaker.

Bob Pode also had but two mistakes but he finished out of the money four, 11 missed five, and the remainder because his guessed score was not as missed six games or more.

Seventeen contestants submitted entries with three mistakes. They were:

Nearly all contestants missed Purdue's victory over Michigan. Other difficult games for contestants included Texas' win over Houston, Tennessee's triumph over Notre Dame, Denver's win over New England, and Houston's win over Oakland.

Altogether, four contestants missed two games, 17 missed three, 21 missed

Evans makes big on race circuit

Ex-Formula Ford ace Tim Evans, running in his rookie season of Can-Am racing, became a full fledged professional driver when he captured the 2liter Championship at Laguna Seca in his Champion Trans Star Lola T-290 Cosworth. This stunning victory was capped off at the season's final race in Riverside, California, when he once again out-maneuvered a field of 31 cars, easily beating the 2-liter drivers and most of the 5-liter cars to finish 8th overall ... no small feat for a rookie.

Tim, a resident of Northville, is definitely one of auto racing's rising new stars, with the promise of becoming a future world champion. Before Michigan.

entering the Can-Am series, Tim spent several years honing his skills as a Formula and Production car driver, with a track record that brought him closer to the forefront each year.

With his quiet, reserved manner, Tim is far from the typical racer type. At 29, the soft-spoken Evans smiles about his biggest problem ... getting his 6'5" frame into the cars. Having to lengthen a Formula Ford to fit didn't deter him from winning a Championship in his first racing season after completing the SCCA (Sports Car Club America) race drivers school at Waterford Hills,

Next year, Tim will again challenge in selected Formula Atlantic and the Can-Am series. He also plans to run Championship races.

Wednesday, November 14, 1979-NORTHVILLE RECORD-7/E

Because some overseas Christmas mailing deadlines already are here, it's none too early to be aware of post office mailing schedules, warns Northville Postmaster John J. Steimel.

The post office now has on sale the two 1979 Christmas stamps. As in previous years, one features a religious painting and the other a holiday design.

The post office notes that both are being printed this year in the regular stamp size rather than the standard commemorative size to reduce printing costs of the 15-cent stamps.

One design depicts a Santa Claus Christmas tree ornament using yellow, green, light tan, red, dark brown and black. The stamp was designed by Eskil Ohlsson, who heads a graphics design firm in New York. It is his first stamp design and "is intended to convey the message of happiness at Christmas time."

A Flemish artist's painting titled "The Rest on the Flight into Egypt" is the basis for the Gerard David stamp. The painting hangs in the National Gallery of Art.

Gerard David, who died in 1523, was the last great master of the 15th century Bruges School. He was rescued from oblivion in 1860 by W.H.J. Weale, who was researching in the archives of Bruges. David's distinctive style of painting shows great restraint and seriousness as well as his personal and beautiful skill as a colorist, it is explained as the stamp is issued.

The post office adds that colors used in the stamp are yellow, flesh, magenta, cyan, black tone and line.

It's already deadline to mail military parcels to the Mid East, Southeast Asia, Central and South America, Australia, Africa and (surface) to Europe, the Caribbean and West Indies.

Military mail should be sent within the next few days to those countries by parcel airlift and space available as well as to Iceland, Greenland, Europe and the Far East.

December 1 is the deadline for surface parcels to Alaska and Hawaii and for parcel airlift to Greenland, as well as space available mail to Alaska, first class and priority to Australia, Cenbral and South America and Southeast Asia.

Military deadlines for first class and priority mail to other areas are: Mid East, December 5; Africa and Greenland, airlift to Alaska, December 8; to Europe and the Far East, December 12; and to Alaska and Hawaii, December 14.

Civilian surface mail to Southeast Asia, all of Africa, Australia, the Far and Mid-East, Central and South America, Europe and the Caribbean and West Indies should be sent by now.

Air parcels to North and Northwest Africa, Australia, Mid East and Southeast and West Africa should be sent by November 28.

Air parcels to Central and South America and Southeast Asia should be mailed by November 30.

December 1 is the suggested deadline for surface mail to Canada and Mexico and for airmail fletters and cards to Australia, Central and South America and Southeast Asia.

December 5 is the deadline for airmail letters and cards to the Mid East.

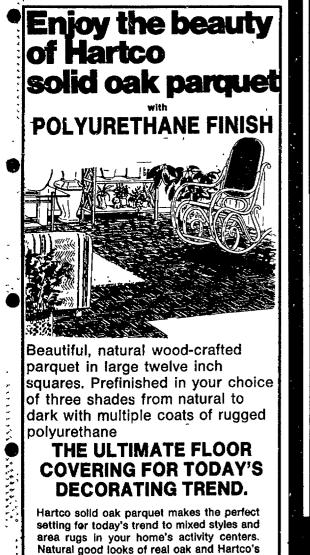

December 8 is mailing deadline for air parcels to Europe and the Far East, as well as for airmail letters to Africa.

December 12 is deadline for holiday parcel delivery to the Caribbean and West Indies, Europe and the Far East.

BRIGHTON-Two men held up a county's historic courthouse in Brighton jewelry store last week and then shot themselves as they tried to éscape from pursuing police officers.

BRIGHTON-City officials here will be pulling out all stops this month to prepare their arguments for the scheduled November 27 public hearing in Howell on the proposed phosphate level for the city's sewage treatment plant.

BRIGHTON-The first of two prehearings for major reconstruction projects within the City of Brighton was held last week. And the project, widening of Rickett Road from two to four lanes from the railroad tracks to the city limits, encountered stiff opposition.

HOWELL-They don't talk about paving paradise in Howell. Instead, they talk about paving the courthouse lawn. A three-member committee of the county board of commissioners has asked its staff to draw up a plan to build a parking lot on the front lawn of the downtown Howell.

BRIGHTON-The parents of a Brighton middle school student have filed suit against the school district here after their son crashed into a wall while playing basketball at the Maltby Middle School.

GREEN OAK—Some quick thinking and coordination between citizens and police resulted in the rescue of two Livonia duck hunters whose boat capsized in the freezing waters of Nichwagh Lake.

HOWELL-Facing a budget deficit of more than a half million dollars, the Livingston County Board of Commissioners voted to freeze personnel and capital expenditures.

FOWLERVILLE-Fire swept through a Fowlerville barn recently destroying antiques and causing an estimated $30,000 as firefighters battled the blaze for 14 hours.

SOUTH LYON-Joel Allen won reelection as mayor of South Lyon in a tight race over Councilman Claude Danielson. Allen's running mates, Councilman Andy Rajkovich and Jack Sellers, had easy going in winning fouryear terms on the five-membr council.
