Master plan change draws council ire

Northville City Council is less than enthusiastic about the planning commission's recent amendment of the master plan as it pertains to Bealtown. In fact some members, including Mayor protem Stanley Johnston, strongly object to pegging South Main properties for residential use.

Council member J. Burton DeRusha, himself a former chairman of the planning commission, represented a council concern when he noted Monday that planners have presented an amendment to council after the fact. Even though planners may have the final decision, they ought to have asked council for its suggestions and/or recommendations prior to making that final decision, he suggested.

Ironically, the commission which in the past has been critical of council for not soliciting its advice has itself failed to solicit the advice of council, he noted.

Some council members, including the city manager and the city attorney, appeared surprised that final decision on "something as important as a master plan" is made by the planning commission and not by council. Members believed planners would recommend the change to council, with council making the final decision as it does on zoning matters.

The planning commission knew when it took action two weeks ago that its decision was final. Its communication to council therefore was meant merely to solicit council support of the change.

The written communication from the commission to council, however, suggested planners were recommending the change to council and not just informing council of the final decision.

Newly elected council member Carolann Ayers reminded council that it was privy to planning commission minutes and that it could have attended the commission's public hearing on the matter if it wished.

However, Council member Dewey Gardner pointed out that council does not receive copies of the commission's minutes until a month or more after a decision is made.

Johnston said that he supports the general opinion of planners that the residential character of Bealtown should be preserved. However, concerning the existing houses along South Main, which are presently zoned commercial, Johnston said he objected to their return to a residential designation.

He acknowledged, however, that actual commercial development probably is effectively prohibited by the absence of sufficient parking space.

Johnston agreed with an observation by DeRusha that a more appropriate designation along South Main might be a professional office classification.

This kind of development, he reasoned, would be more attractive for this major entranceway to the city and that parking restrictions would be less intensive.

In the final analysis, council took no formal action to support or oppose the master plan change.

It was noted that the zoning of the area remains unchanged despite the master plan change.

In an unrelated matter but one involving the planning commission, council recommended that planners consider rezoning a small parcel of land near Griswold and the C&O Railroad from a multiples classification to a restricted industrial designation.

The owner, Levitt and Sons, is offering the undeveloped property for sale, and council contends the land — because of its close proximity to the railroad and nearby industrial property would be better suited for industrial development.

Council members prefer the PR-1 designation because it carries the greatest restriction for industrial development. A less restrictive zoning, they noted, might lead to less attractive development near an entranceway to the city.

Council is asking planners to consider its recommendation and to call for a rezoning on its own (planning commission) initiative.

City council blasts SEMCOG sewer vote

Action by the executive committee of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) to reduce new sewer construction in the suburbs was blasted this week by Northville officials.

In a resolution contesting the action of SEMCOG, the Northville council denounced the regional agency committee for playing big-brother for the suburbs without suburban concurrence.

Local officials see the executive committee's position, which calls for a five percent reduction in future sewer construction to prevent "suburban sprawl," as a potential killing blow to super sewer plans of western Wayne and Oakland counties.

The vote for the reduction was 15-1.

While SEMCOG has no legal power to direct member municipalities on what they can and cannot do, it can force compliance through control of federal purse strings. All federally funded projects, such as the super sewer proposal, are recommended for approval or disapproval by SEMCOG. The federal agency places heavy reliance on recommendations of regional quasi governmental agencies such as SEMCOG.

Council took issue with a statement by SEMCOG's executive director, Michael Glusac, who said existing sewer facilities in southeast Michigan already are sufficient to serve the population of the region through the end of the century.

Major opposition to the recommendation of SEMCOG's executive committee came from Washtenaw and Monroe counties.

Interim sewer pact gains township okay

Northville township could end up paying $252,540 for design costs for super sewer.

The township will dish out at least $151,712 for main project design costs and that figure does not include redesign costs which may be necessary.

Township trustees November 29 passed a resolution of intent to sign an interim financing agreement which would make the township liable for the monies.

The four board members in attendance at the special meeting voted unanimously to participate in the initial step of super sewer design, mainly because they felt they had no other choice.

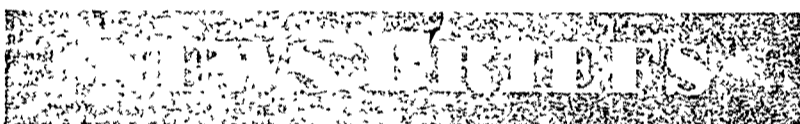

"If you do not participate in this program you will get no federal monies," Township Engineer William Mosher told board members. "We have to sign it so we can be part of super sewer."

Some 18 municipalities are also being asked to pass a resolution of intent to sign the agreement to provide interim financing for the project.

The county was initially going to provide interim financing but that approach became unfeasible because of the 8 percent interest rate limit imposed on county notes.

When construction bonds are sold the township and other municipalities participating in the plan will be reimburs-

MOVING DAYS are scheduled by the Northville Public Library staff. The library is to be closed the first three weeks in January for the long-anticipated move into the new building behind city hall. Volunteers are being sought to help with the move from present, temporary quarters in the community building. Anyone interested may sign up at the library or call 349-3020.

SALE of fruitcakes was announced this week by the Northville Kiwanis Club as a means of raising money for civic and charitable projects. According to Kiwanis Chairman Frank Skinner, the fruitcakes, which "make ideal Christmas gifts," may be purchased from any Kiwanian or at Genitti's Meat Market, the Hamlet market, or The Northville Record.

PHYLLIS ELY of 206 South Ely Drive has been appointed to the Northville Beautification Commission, replacing Beatrice Carlson who died recently. In other action, council reappointed William Milne to the board of review, John C. Burkman, A. Malcolm Allen and Francis Gazlay to the historic district commission, and Stanley Johnston and John Buckland to the recreation commission.

LEON BONNER of Northville has been notified by the county health department that he is in violation of law by dredging a swamp are adjacent to his home without first obtaining a soil erosion control permit. The dredging operation had been criticized by adjacent residents who saw it as a health and safety nuisance. Council has concurred with that observation.

City applies for loan to cover shortage

Northville City Council has approved an application for borrowing up to $150,000 to temporarily cover delinquent state payments to the city.

Officials acted quickly Monday in an attempt to head off the possibility of payless paydays here.

Although the financial pinch is not likely to be felt before late January or early February, council had to authorize the application now to allow time for it to be processed and approved by the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission.

To delay the application in the hope that the state might make up its delinquency sooner would place the city in a gambling situation — that is, the application might not be approved until after payless paydays occur, explained the city manager.

If the state does make up its deficits soon, the city need only decline to exercise the loan application if it is approved, he said.

BOOMING BUSINESS—Open less than a month, Genitti's "Hole in the Wall" sandwich shop already has become a popular place to stop and eat for downtown shoppers. Business is booming, especially at noon on weekdays and Saturday, according to the Genittis. The "Hole in The Wall" entrance is through the rear of Genitti's grocery market.

Offer soup and sandwich menu

Northville's newest restaurant, "soup and sandwich" menu, has opened next door to Genitti's grocery-meat store on downtown Main Street.

Called the "Hole in The Wall," the sandwich shop gains its name from the fact that a 'hole' in the wall between the rear of Genitti's store and the rear of Ellis Electronics was created to provide an entrance to the eatery.

Thus, entrance to the sandwich shop is available only through Genitti's. Owned and operated by John and Toni Genitti, the sandwich shop is open only during the hours of the grocery store. It features hot and cold sandwiches and soup. Baked goods, prepared by Frederick Spiker, also are available. There is no printed menu, and patrons order their sandwiches and soup on 'an honor system.'

"After eating, our customers just tell the clerk at the cash register in the grocery store what they had to eat.

They do not have sales slips. If they've forgotten their money they just pay the next time they come in ... no questions asked," said Mrs. Genitti.

Until the sandwich shop area was refurbished to accommodate the new business, the space was used only for storage of old equipment of Ellis Electronics.

"You wouldn't believe all of the junk we hauled out of there," said Genitti. "Much of it has been stored there since before Ellis Electronics was started." It was here that some old negatives of early Northville Boy Scout troops were found and later published in The Record.

McDonald's plan window dropped

The battle over a pylon sign which is in violation of the township zoning ordinance apparently has prompted McDonald's to abandon its plans to add a drive-thru window at its Five Mile restaurant.

McDonald's representative Robert Lawson told township planners November 27 that the corporation was withdrawing its preliminary site plan for the project.

The announcement came after planners told Lawson the plan would not be approved until the sign was brought into conformance with the ordinance.

The sign at the McDonald's restaurant — on Five Mile east of Haggerty — currently stands at 49 feet 8 inches.

Section 14.18-3 of the ordinance states, "pylon signs shall not exceed 20 feet in height and shall not be placed closer than 100 feet to any adjacent residential district."

The planning commission, under the ordinance, can refuse to grant approval of an addition until any nonconformity is corrected.

The township has been at odds with McDonald's over the existing sign for more than three years.

McDonald's thought it was on safe grounds when the corporation was granted a variance for the sign by the township board of appeals.

But sometime after the ruling it was discovered that no person or township governmental body can grant a variance to the sign ordinance.

The township, since learning of the mistake, has spent a great deal of time and money trying to get McDonald's to change the sign.

The planning commission October 30 tabled action on the preliminary site plan pending McDonald's response to the ordinance violation.

November 27 Lawson said McDonald's position had not changed. He said there were no plans to make any changes to the sign.

Immunizations lapse, high schoolers warned

Many ninth through twelfth grade students at Northville High school face exclusion from school February 4 if they do not turn in proper immunization records to the school, Northville schools health consultant Marie Robertson warned this week.

"If it is determined by the health department that a student has not been adequately immunized parents will receive a notice advising them what immunizations and/or boosters are required in order to remain in school after February 4," Robertson said.

She said that only about half of the requested forms were turned in by the November 26 deadline. She and her staff have been through about 2,000 student medical records at the high school. Some were complete but the district is still lacking crucial information on many students.

"Some students are graduating in January so they don't think they need the immunizations," Robertson said. "But that is defeating the purpose. They need those when they go to college. If it is taken care of now, they won't have to worry about it."

Immunization clinics will be set up, probably in January, at school by the Wayne County Health Department where students will be able to receive vaccines for diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, polio, measles, rubella and mumps.

Parents with questions may call Robertson at 349-3400, extension 273 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. each weekday; or the Office of School Immunizations at the Wayne County Health Department at 729-0210.

DUAL ROLES—John and Toni Genitti have dual roles now, having opened and now operating a sandwich shop next door to their downtown grocery market.

The interior of the room was gutted and cleaned, with parts of it being paneled. Much of the original brickwork, however, was left exposed to give the eating place an "old" motif. The walls were decorated with old family photographs and interesting American memorabilia.

The building in which Genitti's grocery store and the sandwich shop are located is owned by the Masonic organization. The Masonic Temple is located on the second floor.

The Genittis have owned the grocery store business for several years.

Active residents of the community, Genitti is a former member of the Northville Planning Commission and presently he serves as first vice president of the Northville Kiwanis Club.

Locker search has legal base

By ELLEN SPONSELLER

Northville's new locker search policy as approved by the Northville Board of Education last week is not unique a Record survey shows. But not every district has such a policy.

Novi and Livonia both have locker search policies similar to Northville's new one.

But Brighton killed a similar policy after a first reading last July, deeming it unnecessary.

And Plymouth has a policy which explicitly states that if evidence in a locker will be used in a criminal prosecution against a student a warrant must be obtained if the student will not open the locker himself.

Northville's new policy reads: "It is the policy of the Northville Public Schools that a student locker is the property of the school district and in order to protect the health, safety or welfare of the building and/or students, school personnel may enter the locker to inspect the contents contained therein without notice to or the approval of the student."

The policy reads further: "Illegal drugs, marijuana, alcohol, weapons or other dangerous instruments and stolen property contained in the locker shall be seized by school personnel and may be used as evidence in a suspension or expulsion hearing."

The policy was approved for immediate implementation November 26. It is virtually identical with that passed by the Livonia and Novi school districts. It is based on the premises, according to lawyers that 1) the lockers are school property; and 2) a policy puts the district in a stronger legal position if sued.

It was formally presented to the Northville High school student congress this week where the students vowed to support it.

The debate over such locker search policies began last spring in Michigan when Attorney General Frank Kelley

Pow Wow

Beans and cornbread were the feast of the day as Vale Hall's and Patty Atkinson's third grade classes celebrated Indian foods last Friday at Amerman Elementary. The class wore Indian placemats and wore Indian gear for the day, as shown by Cindy North (Sky Fox) from Patty Atkinson's class.

Wiley won't stay away from Amerman's door

By ELLEN SPONSELLER

He moves quickly through the hall, keys jingling off his belt, green work pants clean and pressed. There is a particular spring in his step, a vitality about the silver-haired man even as he "pushes the floor" at Amerman Elementary.

It is nearly Otto Wiley's retirement day.

Otto is 66 years old, already a year past the day on which he could have retired. Today Amerman is holding a special assembly where teachers, students and principal William Craft are gathering to pay tribute to one of the last of a special breed of workmen.

"I'm retiring, but not really," Otto says with a twinkle in his eyes. "The teachers know I'll be here every other week."

Otto has held the position of day custodian at Amerman for the past eight years but has been working in Northville for 40 years. He began as manager of the Chase farm near Eight Mile and Novi Road, he was a custodian at Northville High School from 1959-1969 and spent two years in Cooke Junior High before coming to Amerman.

Otto's official retirement day is December 28. He leaves this Friday for nearly four weeks of vacation but, in his own style, will return for that last day to make everything legal.

He'll continue to hold a part-time job at St. Paul's Lutheran school and will be an official substitute at Amerman. He admits, and everyone else is happy, that he just can't stay away.

"No one will ever take Otto's place," says Donna Veil, who will have Otto's job when he leaves. "I have small feet and Otto has big shoes to fill."

Otto will modestly say he has tried to do his best.

"One thing I've never said is no," he says. "A lot of them say, it's not their job. But I've always said I'll see what I can do about it. That's the thing."

In his years of "pushing the floor" at Amerman, sweeping, mopping, shoveling, raking, shining and polishing, Otto says none of these have been his favorite part of the job.

"My favorite job is waiting on the teachers," he says. "I really like delivering papers, getting dittos and supplies for them and just doing things for them."

Now that Otto is retiring he says he and his wife Faye will spend more time together visiting three sons and 11 grandchildren here and in Tennessee.

"I've been to Florida quite a few times but they ain't sold it to me yet," he laughs.

To look at Otto Wiley now, it seems hard to believe that in the early '70s he fell ill and spent nearly half a year at University Hospital in Ann Arbor.

"They didn't figure I'd be coming back. For a few days I didn't care if I came back either," he remembers. "But I came out of it."

State hospital security tighter

By KEN KOVACS

Township officials claim residents are living in "fear and paranoia" of escapees from Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital.

Hospital officials say their patients have not been involved in any serious incidents off the grounds in many months.

The fact is that the number of walkaways and "unauthorized leaves", as the hospital prefers to call them, have decreased significantly from last year.

Members of a hospital Security Advisory Board at the hospital were presented with comparative figures for each month in 1978 and 1979 at the group's monthly meeting November 30. In November alone the combined number of reported walkaways and persons on "unauthorized leaves" found off the grounds of the hospital is down 24 from November, 1978.

October and September comparisons show a similar decline of 31 and 26, respectively.

Jack Wuthrich, a security consultant for the hospital, said he felt the current figures — 32 in October and 40 in November — indicate great improvement.

"I don't think slightly over one a day is a bad record for an open campus hospital like this," he said.

State Senator Robert Geake, another member of the committee, did not agree.

"I think it is a terrible record," he stated. "And I think a fence around three sides of the hospital would bring the number of walkaways down even more."

"We have made some progress but we have a long way to go," the senator said.

Township officials are judiciously pushing for the erection of a fence at the hospital and Senator Geake has been aiding them at the state level.

One major roadblock in the township's bid for the fence, Geake said, is a letter sent by the Citizens Advisory Commission at the hospital.

The 12-member committee recently sent a letter to Senator Geake stating that it was adamantly opposed to any such fence at the hospital.

At a meeting November 26 the chairman of the committee, Kay Woods, reaffirmed her stand.

"A fence is the most regressive thing to mental health that I can think of," she stated.

The committee, according to Ms. Woods, has not dealt with the fence issue except to respond to the request for an opinion on the proposal.

The committee, formed in 1978 following the Plymouth Center reports of abuse, is concerned more with the treatment of the patients and their well-being, though they also deal with community-related issues, Ms. Woods said.

Locker search has legal base

issued an informal opinion in April to answer a request from State Representative Bela Kennedy of Bangor. Kennedy asked for the proper procedure to be followed when searching a school locker.

The Attorney General's opinion stated that students retain their constitutional rights under the fourth amendment against illegal search and seizure when they are in school. It stated further that school officials should have a warrant if they wish to use the evidence in criminal prosecutions.

Several districts, including Plymouth, then passed a policy which says that no school official could search a locker without a warrant if evidence will be used in court.

But legal firms representing state school districts (including Keller Thoma and Schwarze for Northville) quickly issued clarifying opinions which argued that school officials are empowered to search a student locker when 1) the official is acting to protect the health, safety and welfare of the school community and to enforce school rules; and 2) there is a reasonable suspicion that the search will produce evidence of a violation of school rules relating to health, safety or welfare of the student body or staff.

The Attorney General's office quickly replied that its opinion only concerned evidence confiscated for use in a criminal trial. It agreed that school officials are empowered to search a school locker if "exigent" circumstances arise.

Livonia, Novi and now Northville have passed policies using that stand.

But Brighton Area Schools decided last summer that since it already had protection under the law it did not need a policy.

"If there is a bomb threat, you don't go look at a policy, you evacuate the school," said Brighton's Communication Director Arnie Rubin. "A policy will not absolve your legal obligations. Our principals operate the schools so that they have just cause when they open a locker ... It all boils down to what happens in court."

Northville is considering getting students and parents to sign waiver forms starting next fall in which students agree to a "contract" with the district to use school lockers provided school personnel can search lockers at any time. Students who do not sign waiver forms will not be assigned a locker, school board members said.

Assistant Attorney General Michael Hodge said this summer that a parent's signature alone on a waiver form may not hold up in court since there is a question whether a parent can sign away a child's protection under the fourth amendment.

The American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) supports the position that students are protected under the fourth amendment.

Auto-Owners is for R.V. owners.

If you have an accident on your snowmobile, trail bike, or other recreational vehicle, what insurance covers you? Homeowners? Car? Medical?

Or none of the above? And what about your passenger? What insurance covers those medical expenses? Maybe you should talk to us at Auto Owners. We have a modern insurance policy for snowmobiles and other recreational vehicles. A policy that protects you, your family, your passengers. It even protects you while you're driving someone else's vehicle. And you'd be surprised at how little this coverage can cost. But not as surprised as you'd be to discover you weren't covered at all.

What's in a Name

You'll know where you are now as two new signs decorate both the city of Northville's Municipal building on West Main and the Northville Township Hall on Six Mile. Both are hand carved and painted, to be lit at night by ground lights. If they look strangely alike, it is because they were done by the same firm, Worthington Woodworks of Southfield. By the way, Worthington also did the Allen Terrace sign on Elm.

$281 million budget adopted by county; layoffs still seen

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has adopted a $281 million budget for 1979-80 which would lay off 418 employees but is still about $300,000 to $400,000 more than the county expects in revenue next year.

Voting 18-5, the commissioners approved the budget on November 29, 1979, just two days before the beginning of the new fiscal year on December 1. Approval of the budget halted layoffs of the county's entire work force, and board in addition extended planned layoffs until December 9 to allow more time for processing of those among the 418.

It took the board six hours to decide the budget that has been deliberated since September and been twice rejected. Board Chairman Richard E. Manning said the last minute changes account for the $300,000 to $400,000 imbalance which he said must be made up prior to November, 1989, to avoid another deficit then.

"We will be making adjustments throughout the year, trimming services wherever possible to reduce that amount," said Manning. He said he believes that careful expenditure next year could actually produce a budget surplus, although the deficit this year is $18 million.

"I don't consider the $300,000 to $400,000 critical among $281 million," Manning stated. "I imagine the next step is to put a freeze on all hiring of employees, and along with some other measures, I think we could regain that amount in six months." He continued:

"While we all realize that the budget is technically if only slightly unbalanced, it is the best budget we could reach under the circumstances. No budget is perfect, and despite the imperfections, this one meets the legal requirement that we provide a budget."

Manning said that the budget, despite any faults, puts the board in position allowing a year for appropriate adjustments. In the meantime, he said that any person who felt "grieved" could file a lawsuit.

"In fact, we expect a legal challenge from the Prosecutor," Manning noted. The Office of County Prosecutor, along with the County General Hospital and the probation departments were the chief obstacles against quicker adoption of the budget.

Manning pointed out that the new budget allows the prosecutor exactly the money and staff recommended by the county board of auditors, "$4.6 million and 20 people less than last year." He said he thought the auditors expected the board to revise those figures "but we did not."

In the county budget process, the auditors recommend appropriations and the commissioners revise and adopt. Initially the auditors proposed a $279.6 million budget, changed to $280.7 million by the board's ways and means committee, and finally the $281 million approved by the full board.

In the new budget the hospital is to be lump-sum funded with $25 million for six months for 235 beds, with all but a half million being generated by the hospital's own revenues from Medicaid and Medicare, Blue Cross-Blue Shield and payments from individuals.

During that period, a consultant will be hired to assess the feasibility of an alternate future for the facility, including an affiliation with the University of Michigan, sale to another hospital corporation, or conversion to a Public Benefit Corporation.

Commissioners Kay L. Beard from Inkster and Loretta Young from Detroit were leaders in arguing for favorable disposition of the hospital and uninterrupted employment for its employees. Mrs. Beard introduced the resolution for six-months-more funding and study.

The parks division of the county road commission was given $1.2 million to operate a severely curtailed program. The unit was first recommended for complete elimination by the board of auditors.

Township blaze guts three rooms

A November 30 blaze which fire officials believe started in the kitchen of a township home at 46236 Sunset gutted the attic, kitchen and two bedrooms, township police reported.

There also was extensive smoke damage throughout the house.

No one was home at the time of the fire.

"It probably burned for an hour or two before it was noticed by the neighbor who called us," Township Fire Chief Robert Toms said.

Firefighters battled the fire for about 40 minutes before getting it under control, Toms said.

The owner of the home, Rose Provencal told police she did not know how the fire might have been started.

Choir plans two concerts

Performances entitled "A Double Celebration" will be given at different locations by the Schoolcraft College Community Choir this Friday and Sunday.

The Friday concert under the direction of Dr. Marilyn Jones is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Livonia Grand River Baptist Church. The program will be repeated on Sunday at 4 p.m. in the Detroit Hartford Memorial Baptist Church. Organist Beverly Williams will be a featured soloist at both performances.

The concert will include works by J.S. Bach, Schutz, Scheidt, Gabrieli, Mendelssohn and Vaughn Williams. The entire first part of the program will be presented in double choir format. A special selection will be "Morning Star" by Robert W. Jones as performed by violinist Jean Braun with the composer at the organ.

Marilyn Jones holds a doctorate in music education from the University of Michigan and is organist and choir director at Hartford Memorial.

Winter's headache

Motorists using Center Street evening encountered real problems Saturday during a heavy but brief snowfall. The snow made Center Street hills (at Main above and at Eight Mile) too slippery to negotiate. Some motorists simply abandoned their cars until salt melted the snow.

Grants hearing slated

Public hearings on proposed uses of community development block grant monies channeled through Wayne and Oakland counties have been set for Monday December 17.

At that time council will consider proposed uses of federal monies the city expects to receive in 1980.

Specifically, the city anticipates receipt of $15,000 from Oakland County, $80,000 from Wayne County.

Concerning the monies channeled through Wayne County, however, it has been explained that these funds are part of a three-year program and that earlier were earmarked for financing of the library edition.

When you're enjoying a meal, you probably don't stop to think about the additives that may be in your food.

But, they're everywhere — for instance, take a look at a lunch of a sandwich, instant soup, gelatin and cola drink.

It's full of additives. And what these additives are, as well as many others, is spelled out in a new free reprint from the FDA magazine, the FDA Consumer.

For a free copy of Food Additives, write Consumer Information Center, Department 685 G, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Now back to that lunch. The bread is fortified with vitamins and an additive keeps it fresh. The margarine has been colored pale yellow. If you use salad dressing, it's made with emulsifiers to keep it from separating. The luncheon meat may contain nitrates.

There's an additive in the soup to keep it from becoming rancid. And, the gelatin contains food coloring and artificial flavoring.

Finally, if you take away the coloring, flavoring, sweeteners and artificial carbonation from your favorite cola, what do you have? Just plain water.

New authority for parks asked here in county

A proposal is under consideration to remove Wayne County from the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority and establish a separate Detroit-Wayne County authority to operate parks and provide other recreation services inside the county only.

The proposal from Commissioners Jarrette Simmons and Clarence R. Young was referred on November 28 from the board's general government committee and put under study by the Office of Corporation Counsel, the board's Parks Task Force, and the Parks Division of the County Road Commission.

The plan was also sent to the Huron-Clinton Authority for its review. Paul G. Citkowski, chairman of the general government committee, said the idea may have merit but that he would not presume a final conclusion until the requested reports are examined by the committee.

"Maybe there is something there, maybe not," said Citkowski. "We will just have to pursue it further."

He said he will favor the idea if it proves a way of improving services and saving tax dollars, but "that will be determined by the reports." He continued:

"Certainly the idea is an innovative one and represents the kind of approach we need in county government in times like these when money is short but services are still needed for our residents. I thank the two of them for bringing the idea to the committee."

The idea behind the resolution is that Wayne County does not get enough recreation service for the number of dollars it contributes. It further indicates that parks in Detroit and Wayne County "are jeopardized by neglect resulting from lack of sufficient local funds for their support."

GOOD TIME FOR WINE

All of the great red Burgundies are made from the Pinot Noir grape. Known for its superb balance, fruitiness and lightness, it is at its prime 10 years after vintage but is drinkable after 3 to 4 years. Sugar is added to fermenting grape juice increasing its alcohol content and fullness in French vineyards. California Pinot Noirs, since sugar is prohibited, have a lightness that is lacking in the French Burgundies and do not run the risk of imbalance that some sugar-added Burgundies seem to have.

For a fine selection of burgundy, as well as other wines, come to us at GOOD TIME PARTY STORE, 567 Seven Mile Road, 349-1477. Planning a party for the holidays? You can save 10% on your wine buying when you purchase a case, mixed assortment or all of one kind. Don't forget us for holiday gifts ... wines, beer and liquor. Hours: Mon. thru Sat. 9 a.m.-10 p.m., Sun. Noon-6 p.m.

WINE WISDOM:
Serve Burgundy as a second wine with cheese, after a Zinfandel or Gamay.

DISTRICT COURT: Judge Garber presented the Court Budget for discussion and mentioned there were other matters pertaining to the City of Northville and the Court he would like to touch on

He stated there are three prime areas in which the Court is asking for relatively large increases: Item No. 43, Court Clerks who will be receiving 6% raises, plus there will be three new clerks. He explained the workload is up by approximately 1/3

Item 421, Blue Cross & Blue Shield, a second prime area mentioned. The increased amount reflects the three new clerks plus increased rates

The third prime area was item 475, Probation Department, Judge Garber explained the $80,000 is what the actual expenditure will be

He also mentioned all non-union members received 6% pay increases

Councilman Gardner asked if the increased budget was due to the increased workloads in Canton

Judge Garber answered that was partly the reason since the Northville Court workload has gone up approximately 8 to 9%

He explained the increase in people in the area plus the new Canton Police Dept is another reason

He mentioned of the 20,839 total cases, 5,009 were from the City and Township of Northville

The hospitalization was discussed and the Judge commented he may seriously look into the City's plan

Councilman Gardner asked if Canton and Plymouth were also short on clerks

Judge Garber stated they were and the overtime is way up

He mentioned they had to switch over to a different kind of record keeping system which required a great deal of overtime

He stated they would need new desks and equipment for the clerks plus a cash register which was recommended by their auditor

Judge Garber explained the probation department will have a separate budget of their own

He also mentioned there have been no head-on collisions. He stated eleven people have gone through the guard rail or fence since he has lived there (29 years). All the accidents were caused by people going out of control, and not striking another car. He stated if the road is opened up it will increase the problem. He felt that while it was true that there was enough parking most of the time in the residents' driveways, he did not think it was fair in a residential area for visitors to have to park a block away

Councilman Gardner stated the traffic cop was pretty reliable, in one hour on a Saturday he counted 181 cars. He also commented the report stated the accidents occurred at the intersection

Mr. Wheaton stated the dates on the report were incorrect and felt on other streets the harassment has been put on the traffic. He mentioned other areas such as Dunlap, also the speed bumps

Nick's stunned by invitation with President

By ELLENSPONSELLER

Last Thursday Nick Serkaian hopped on a plane at Detroit Metro, flew to Washington, rode to the White House, and met with President Jimmy Carter. A dream? It all started when a couple weeks ago Serkaian got a telegram. "I couldn't believe it at first. It said, on behalf of the President you are invited to a SALT II briefing by Zbigniew Brzezinski and President Jimmy Carter in the East Wing of the White House. My hands were shaking. I couldn't believe I was being invited to the White House," Serkaian said. But he was. As the Director of the Armenian hour at WMZK-FM radio, he flew to Washington last Thursday morning where, as part of delegations from Michigan, Iowa and Indiana, he heard the President speak on the necessity for passage of the SALT II treaties with Russia. "I was absolutely thrilled. I have seen President Kennedy, Johnson and Ford, but from a distance. And this time, I was sitting 10 feet away. As President Carter finished his speech, he moved into the crowd. It was really something to shake his hand, nose to nose," Serkaian said. As the crowd milled outside the east room, Serkaian found himself face to face with Carter once again. "He noticed my nametag and asked if I knew the Manogians in Detroit, and I said yes I do Mr. President. It was nice to talk to this man," he said. Serkaian said the President and Brzezinski briefed the crowd on SALT II for about an hour. "They told us of the importance of the Senate to endorse the treaty. They told us of its merits and compared what we have to what the Russians have. They stressed the importance that the nations in the world respect one another.

SPEAKING
for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

Loneliness is dialing correct time service 68 times in one month.

The charge per call, which ranged from seven to 70 cents, was not too much for one elderly resident of an area nursing home to pay simply to have something to do and to hear a voice.

At Christmastime when the spirit of giving reaches its height there's an inclination to want to do something to help the lonely, unloved and helpless.

This week I talked to administrators of numerous area nursing homes and institutions and asked them what a person, suddenly stricken with an impulse to perform a deed of kindness, might do in the Northville area.

Some suggested it would be far more meaningful to wait until January, February and March, when the flood of benevolence subsides. And then, personal attention — an act of caring — on a regular weekly or monthly basis would be the finest gift.

Ruth Madigan, administrator at Whitehall in Novi, noted that there are many alert, but lonely residents in their seventies, eighties and nineties whose only visitor is an attorney or a church group.

"They've outlived their family and friends; they need affection; someone to take them outside for a brief period in the summertime ... to write a letter ... to talk and to listen. We can't provide staff enough to give this kind of attention. I'm talking about a half-hour per week," she explained.

The Wishing Well in Northville responded much in the same way. There's a great deal of activity planned for the holidays, but other months of the year the residents would always welcome a group singing session, bingo or just a visitor.

Jim Winkle, assistant administrator at Beverly Manor in Novi, says that visitors are welcome anytime of the year at the Meadowbrook-Ten Mile home for 144 residents.

He suggests that many enjoy being taken to a movie or shopping.

Christmas contributions are most welcome by Northville area institutions. For example, the Plymouth Center for Human Development can always use TV sets, record players, soap-on-a-rope (for blind), cosmetics for personal grooming, mittens, hats and other articles of clothing and toys.

It's possible that because of the highly-publicized operational problems at the Center that it will not receive as many contributions this year. But its children can still use them.

Sister Theresa, administrator at Our Lady of Providence on Beck road, welcomes help. The 100 residents range in age from six to 26 and they are either mildly or severely retarded.

Sister Theresa says her staff can always use volunteers to assist on field trips or "just to be a friend and show some interest" in one of the youngsters.

She points out that about half of the residents are admitted by parents, but that others come from agencies and have no interested parents.

Our Lady of Providence can use children's clothing — dresses and slacks — materials for arts and crafts ("they go through this like a house on fire"), plastic toys and simple puzzles.

Gifts for adult patients at Northville State Hospital are also welcome at Christmastime.

And the Salvation Army in Plymouth could use some Christmas help, too.

Mostly, they'd like to find someone with a pick-up truck willing to work on December 14 and 17 to pick up food baskets.

And the Northville Goodfellows would be pleased to accept contributions to its Christmas campaign to see that all Northville area families have food and gifts.

So here's what you can do if you wish to help others at Christmastime or throughout the year:

A LIST of gifts adult patients at Northville State Hospital would like for Christmas is available from Philip Ogilvie, phone 349-2600;

TO HELP the Salvation Army contact Lt. Bill Harfoot, 453-5464;

CONTRIBUTIONS to Northville Goodfellows (food, toys, etc.) may be made by either contacting the Northville Public Schools, either the city or township police department or C.A. Smith, 349-0854;

PETER SCHWEITZER is the man to contact at Plymouth Center for Human Development, 453-1500, extension 266;

SISTER THERESA will welcome your contributions to our Lady of Providence, telephone 453-1300;

AREA NURSING HOMES where visits more than gifts are needed include: Wishing Well, 349-4290, Roland LaPierre, administrator; Beverly Manor, Jim Winkle, 477-2000; and Whitehall, Ruth Madigan, 349-2200.

Birth control
in schools?

FLO MCDERMOTT

YES

Sexuality is an integral part of the human condition. An understanding of one's own sexuality helps the individual to formulate his self-concept and to relate in a healthy way to those he comes in contact with.

While there seems to be a high level of sophistication among teens regarding sexual information, it is more apparent than real. There are some very crucial gaps in the information store that many young (and not so young) adults have about reproduction.

What is very special about the teachers in the school system becoming involved in the provision of contraceptive information is that parents may be reassured that their children's questions will be encouraged by a knowing responsible adult instead of by another teenager. (It has been well documented that peers are the major source of sex information for most teens.)

Teaching about contraceptives is not synonymous with advocating their particular use. With knowledge of all of the factual information that is available, each individual can make his own "I should..." or "I should not..." decision based on his own value system.

For those who believe very strongly that pre-creative information should be taught in the home or in the church community — I agree. I think one very nicely complements and supplements the other. Together we can offer these young people all they so rightly deserve to develop responsible decision-making capabilities.

Mary Sieggreen

NO

The School Board voted to begin teaching (December, 1979) Fertility Control, commonly called Birth Control — also sex education k-12.

Many parents approve of sex education in the schools because they feel too inadequate dealing with the subject and appreciate someone else imparting "the Facts of Life" to their children. What such parents fail to understand is: if explaining the "facts of life" were the sum total of sex education, that could be accomplished in a very short time at any given stage of a child's development by parent, physician, or clergyman.

The fact that sex education will be given for thirteen years should give a "STRONG" indication that more than "mere facts" is involved in such a lengthy process.

Teaching the facts of sex does not take thirteen years. BUT developing a new "value system" may! In particular, developing humanistic values about sex is a lengthy process because it is in constant competition with Judeo Christian beliefs, as seen today in our Northville homes and churches.

Birth Control ENCOURAGES our young people to be dependent on a resource, rather than on their own discipline.

Think of ALL the positive values we have tried to teach our children ... think of ALL the things we have taught them to believe ... we did not give them options of choosing from alternatives.

Example:

A chair leg comes unglued and the husband is elected to repair it. But, inevitably, as the leg is returned to its socket the movement pulls loose another leg.

Example:

Moisture has caused the door to swell and stick. Elected to fix it, the husband tries to plane off some of the wood. The plane catches at the front edge of the door and splinters it.

Example:

The replacement piece of paneling fit perfectly. But it won't stay in place long enough to permit the glue to dry. The husband solves the problem by cutting off the broom handle and wedging it between the panel and the opposite wall. The broom handle punches a half-dollar size hole through the drywall in the opposite wall.

Example:

The hands on the clock come loose. Fix it, she insists. Before screwing them back into place, the husband decides to straighten the bent large hand. It breaks in half.

Example:

The drain pipe beneath the sink leaks. The husband removes pipe and fills threads with plumber's helper. In tightening the nut the force of the wrench rips the pipe from the bottom of the sink.

Example:

The light switch won't work. A new switch is wired into place, but now the fan above the oven won't work.

Example:

"There seems to be an occasional short in the ignition," she says. "Sometimes the starter won't even turn over." He disassembles the ignition, finds nothing that appears wrong and then reassembles it. Now the key won't fit in the ignition and all the other electrical gadgets in the car have died.

Raises questions about gifted children program

To the Editor:
Charles Peltz, member of the board of education, so succinctly phrased last week, "We (the district) put ourselves in the position of saying we have a program then not being able to offer the program." The parents of the gifted children do not want to see a repeat of this situation but we question the solution that has been offered. To set a time limit on accepting transfers is not dealing with the real problem. There are important questions that need to be answered.

Why did Rosemary Rondello feel she would be more effective promoting gifted education as a classroom teacher than as coordinator of the "Plus" program? Why did we have only two applicants for the position, despite the fact the posting period was extended? When Rosemary received the position many people had applied from within the district and outside of it. Why didn't any of the teachers that have worked on the Advisory Council for Gifted Education apply? Are the expectations for the person accepting this position unreasonable? Last year Rosemary had two part-time aides and a part-time secretary to assist her. This year Rosemary had to administer the program alone.

These questions need to be examined.

The board cannot reach an adequate solution to the problem without examining the underlying issues. The real problem must be known before you can find an answer.

One last question for the board members and administrators: Why wasn't Rosemary Rondello allowed to send the letter she prepared that informed the children and parents she was leaving? The announcement or lack of one was left to the discretion of each building principal. It's hard to believe there is any real concern for the children or their parents when a teacher transfer is handled so crassly.

We want to thank Rosemary for the fine job she did. She provided continuity to the program that was missing before and is now missing again. We hope by resolving the above issues, Gayle Fountain will be successful as the next coordinator.

'Charter doesn't give home rule'

To the Editor:
If Northville Township adopts the charter township proposal, the township board would be granted the power to determine the necessity of local or public improvements, "and to determine that the whole or any part of the expense thereof shall be defrayed by special assessment..." (MCLA 42.31) Public improvements would include installing sidewalks, garbage disposal systems, paving of streets, laying storm and sanitary sewers, street lighting, and a wide variety of other "improvements." Of course, accompanying these services comes the inevitable cost increases.

To finance these projects, the charter township may issue bonds therefore, in anticipation of the payment of special assessments, "which may be an obligation of the special assessment district or may be both an obligation of the special assessment district and a general obligation of the township..." MCLA 42.31 In other words, the residents of the entire township might be obligated to pay for the project, which would only be approved by resolution of the township board. Consequently, bonds issued for special assessments may be issued without a vote of the people. MCLA 42.14a increases, they are wrong in their assumption. The most recent opinion of the attorney general, on this subject, specifically states that the Headlee Amendment does not apply to special assessments. Op. Atty. Gen. 1979, No. 5562.

When township officials argue that the Headlee Amendment prohibits such

Furthermore, a charter township falls to provide home rule for Northville Township. Home rule is the power vested in a local government, usually a city, to draft or change its own charter and to manage its own affairs. Under home rule, the voters choose a commission to draft a charter, which may be approved or rejected by the voters. Under a charter township, we are not given the opportunity to vote for a charter commission or adopt our own charter. Instead, the Michigan state statute, regulating charter townships, is the charter of such a municipal corporation. As we have seen, the law is loaded with provisions and amendments, which reduce the power of local control over public officials. Voters and taxpayers give up more than we gain, if the charter township proposal is adopted.

Thanks, but no thanks

To the Editor:
Thanks for the publicity on my auto accident on November 20.

My father was an old newspaperman from away back; and he always told me "not to believe ALL you read in the papers." Your article certainly was a shining example of half-truths.

True, I was southbound on Sheldon. I came to a complete stop at the intersection, which the Northville Police Department records will indicate.

I misunderstood the officer's arm-swinging direction. I started forward. The semi was westbound on 7-Mile. The truck-driver told me that he struck me.

P.S. — I will be in court December 18 to answer to my ticket for "disobeying the command of a police officer." See what your ace-reporter can do with that.

a bachelor of arts degree in elementary education; Mark A. Ritchie, 37955 Rhonewood, with a master of business administration (MBA) degree in finance.

Also Julie A. Woods, 42138 Gladwin Drive, with a bachelor of science in urban planning; and Kathleen J. Zasuw, 601 Novi Street, with a bachelor of science in clothing and textiles, with honors.

Aid three

Three Northville children were recently patients at C.S. Mott Children's Hospital.

As such they were directly aided by the Northville Kiwanis Club through its contributions to the Kiwanis of Michigan Foundation which helps the hospital.

The children included John McQuire, Rodney Perry and Catherine Graves.

City council blasts SEMCOG sewer vote

ed the expenditures or will have the payment credited to bond debt allocations, county spokesmen said.

Duane Egeland, deputy managing director and directing engineer of the Wayne County Board of Public Works, explained the interim financing agreement to representatives from area communities at a special meeting at the township hall November 30. "Economically it will be a great benefit for all communities involved if it (the sewer) is as large as possible," he explained.

The township's payment of $151,712 is its share of the design costs for the southern section of super sewer. It involves basic design for the treatment plant to serve the southern area only but with interceptors sized to also include the north area.

The decision on whether the northern communities (including Canton township, Plymouth, Northville township and the City of Northville) will be part of the system has to do with some 61 studies which are being done currently, Egeland said.

Though the northern communities may not be part of the system, they are being asked to participate in the interim financing agreement. If a majority of the communities do not approve the agreement it could kill the agreement and possibly the entire project.

The financing agreement includes costs for the reduction of the interceptor capacity design if additional study concludes that the northern area should not be included (township cost $18,340) and an additional design cost of $100,828 for increase in the treatment plant capacity and extension of the interceptor design if the north section of the sewer is approved.

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has set July 31, 1981 as the deadline for completion of both plans and specifications for the approved facilities (south section) and the additional facility planning (north section).

Egeland said in order to meet this deadline federal and state grant offers must be made and the two projects authorized to proceed sometime in January, 1980.

He urged all communities represented to approve the interim financing agreement as soon as possible.

The federal government is financing 80 percent of the initial planning and design costs, while participating communities' payments will represent 20 percent.

state that are earmarked for cities of Michigan, the manager said such action at this time might only delay payment even longer.

Pressed by Councilman J. Burton DeRusha to put court pressure on the state so that similar delays do not occur next year, City Manager Steve Walters said there is a possibility that Michigan cities may join together in a lawsuit even if the state finally makes good on the payments just to get some legal interpretation on the matter.

Presently, the state is withholding monies from municipalities on the basis of an opinion by the attorney general that payments cannot be made, regardless of their backing by statute, until the state legislature amends the state budget, the manager reminded council.

In Northville's case, the biggest chunk of the delinquent state payment is represented by race track rebates of some $92,000, collected in April and owed the city since June.

These Christmas cards give double joy

Christmas cards, like presents bought from charitable organizations and at bazaars, can be two-fold gifts as they bring greetings while supporting good causes.

If you have run out of cards already or are just getting around to realizing that Christmas is less than three weeks away, some local organizations have cards on hand.

A little girl is standing on a chair in an old-fashioned scene pulling the December 24 date from the calendar on the card which benefits the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation.

A holly border outlines the picture, all done in brown ink on gold parchment.

The cards are available from Yvette Beebe, 519 Reed, a local chapter member. She may be contacted at 349-5603. Cost is $5 for 25 cards.

The verse reads, "Seasons Greetings to you and yours." The Juvenile Diabetes Foundation, Mrs. Beebe reports, is a nationally accredited, voluntary health agency dedicated to educating the public and through it, gaining the support needed to fund research to arrest the complications and, ultimately, find a cure for the disease itself.

A contemporary, original design of Mary and Joseph with Baby

Jesus is featured on the card that represents a donation to the Methodist Children's Home Society.

The home is located on Six Mile in Detroit, and the cards are being sold at Northville Methodist Church. Lois Strasser is in charge of the project. The cards are $3.75 for 15 and may be purchased at the church office at 777 West Eight Mile. It is open until noon weekdays.

Designed by Annette Goze, the scene and greeting are in brown on tan background. Verse reads: "May the Peace and Joy and Wonder of Christmas be with you now and throughout the coming year."

Children's Village is a private family-focused residential treatment center for emotionally disturbed boys and girls ages six to twelve with a trained staff that uses daily living as a tool for treatment.

Buyers have a choice of two cards, one with a "Wishing you Love" child theme and the other with an ornament cut-out oriented to business giving, from the Children's Leukemia Foundation of Michigan. They are $7.50 for a box of 25 and must be picked up at the foundation's Southfield office at 19022 West Ten Mile. It is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Both bear the notation: "This card bears a two-fold gift: an expression of happiness for you and a contribution to the Children's Leukemia Foundation of Michigan."

A colorful "Winter on the Farm" scene from an original by E. Jeffery is being sold for the benefit of the Leader Dog School for the Blind in Rochester, Michigan. Members of the Rochester Lions Club sell the cards, which are $7.50 for a box of 25. There is a 25-cent mailing charge when they are ordered through Box 27, Rochester, Michigan, 48063.

The Metropolitan Detroit Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis

Foundation is selling a card depicting a youngster mailing a greeting. Proceeds will benefit some of the millions of children who suffer with cystic fibrosis and other lung-damaging diseases. The disease is inherited and presently is incurable.

Cards are $5.50 a box of 25 plus a $1 mailing. They may be ordered from the Detroit office at 1528 Woodward, Detroit, 48226. For more information telephone 965-1721.

Children's Hospital of Michigan Auxiliary happily reports this week that its attractive card of a little girl opening a package is sold out but adds that previous years' cards are available at the hospital gift shop at 3901 Beaubien, Detroit, for $4.

Cookbooks arrive in time for giving

Brides-to-be or those newlywed, students and hostesses all usually welcome a good cookbook.

Both Northville Mothers' Club and the Women's Association of First Presbyterian Church have cookbooks filled with prize recipes of local residents.

"We've already sold over 1,400 books!" reports Diane Schrader as she announces a new supply, the fifth printing, of the choice cookbook is here and available for Christmas giving.

"It's like taking a hostess a bottle of wine," she suggests, adding that the books have been popular with students as they contain recipes, such as good hearty soups, that are basic cooking.

"They're not too gourmet," she explains.

The cookbooks are available at Schrader's Furniture Store or from any club member. Due to increased printing costs, the club has been forced to increase the price to $5. Mrs. Schrader notes that this is not a high price for a cookbook and is the first increase since the books were compiled in 1975. About 200 copies are available in the latest printing.

Copies of "Presbyterian Potluck" are available at the church office for $3. Secretary Margaret Nauman says she still has a small supply of the popular edition.

She adds that the zucchini bread recipe on page 18 won a blue ribbon at the Fowlerville Fair this year. Another blue-ribbon winner was the banana cake recipe on page 14.

Edison anniversary's memorable for descendants

BY JEAN DAY

Being named Thomas Edison Tanner because you're a direct descendant of the famous inventor recently resulted in a memorable evening for a Northville couple. Tanner and his fiancée Shelley Millard were among honor guests at an elegant banquet at Greenfield Village in celebration of the Centennial of Light and the 50th anniversary of Edison Institute.

Coincidentally, Shelley's third cousin was Roy Schumann, a good friend of Henry Ford. A carpenter, Schumann worked on early construction in the village.

"We were the youngest couple at the dinner," Shelley recounts, telling how the October 21 evening opened with candlelight until a reenactment of the historic lighting of the incandescent light of October 21, 1929, when lights in Lovett Hall banquet room were turned on.

Dignitaries on hand to mark Thomas Alva Edison's achievement included William Clay Ford and distinguished actor James Stewart. Guests enjoyed giant shrimp and oysters on the half shell, among other hors d'oeuvres, with champagne, going on to breast of pheasant Eugene main course and then baked Alaska jubilee.

The invitation came to Tanner's mother, Shirley Tanner, a resident of Big Rapids. Since she was unable to attend, Tom represented the family as Edison's fifth cousin.

During the evening the guests were presented with special mementos, including an 18-carat gold plated medallion of the occasion.

Certain to have a special place in the young couple's home after their marriage is the copy of "A Home for Our Heritage," the story of the building and growth of Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum from 1929 to 1979, received at the dinner. It includes a picture of Schumann and his description of the first of the old-time square dances given by Henry Ford as well as his recollection of bringing an old covered bridge to the village from Pennsylvania in 10 below zero winter weather.

Stellar days for Town Hall Committee

Two major Town Hall events are occurring back-to-back: Saturday at 11 a.m. Phil Donahue will be speaking in the TH program at the Plymouth Hilton Inn. The evening before Town Hall committee members are inviting husbands to the annual Christmas party, a potluck dinner, being held in the Lexington Condos clubhouse.

Donahue, who was scheduled to open the current season for TH, had to delay his lecture because his son was in an accident. He now is recovering, Carolyn DiComo, TH chairman reports, and Donahue is keeping his commitment. Mrs. DiComo will introduce the talk show celebrity to a packed TH house. His appearance is credited with making the 1979-80 season a sellout.

It's music for gardeners

Kelly Schulz, a Northville High School senior who has sung with the jazz band and was runner-up in the Junior Miss competition, will sing at the annual Christmas party of the Northville Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, Monday at the Mayflower Hotel. She will be accompanied by Karen Hague.

Members also will entertain with readings and songs. Karen Ross's horticulture therapy class has made favors for the event. Heading arrangements is Betty LeMaster, assisted by Katherine Schmidt, Lillian Herbstreit, Arlene Anderson and Mary Lou LaRue. A social hour at 11:30 a.m. will precede luncheon.

Tickets for the luncheon are limited to 90. Evelyn Harper is to be called for reservations.

Bentley Ensemble giving Yule concert

Holiday season music and Christmas delicacies are planned for the December meeting of the Northville branch of the American Association of University Women at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Cooke Junior High cafeteria.

Music will be by the Bentley Ensemble directed by Dr. Jerry Smith. The ensemble is a group of 16 talented young people, high school juniors and seniors, selected from the 100-voice Bentley Concert Choir.

In recent years the Bentley Concert Choir has toured 28 states and made several records. For the past seven years the ensemble has reached state finals competition in which top 10 ensembles in the state are selected.

Dr. Smith was chosen Teacher of the Year for Michigan for 1979. He has been a teacher for 21 years, holding bachelor, master and Ph.D. degrees in music from University of Michigan.

He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa. He frequently is asked to be a judge at vocal music festivals and is a popular guest conductor.

The program Tuesday will last for 30 minutes.

Each AAUW member is asked to bring a plate of "delectable delicacies" to share with members, guests and the choir. Refreshments will be at 7:30 p.m. with a brief business session at 8 p.m. and the concert following.

Members all are asked to bring a guest.

Yurie's here from Japan

By ELLEN SPONSELLER

For Yurie Miyahara, daughter of two professors, a year in the United States is a time to relax from the pounding pace of Japanese society.

The 17-year-old student from Kurume, Kyushu Island, Japan, is spending a year here on a Rotary scholarship at Northville High School. She stays with the William Raycraft family on Thornapple.

Yurie's impression of this country is that it is "very free. In Japan I must study very hard, even on Saturday and Sunday. People here take Saturday and Sunday off for time for themselves."

She says the difference between Americans and Japanese is that Americans are "tall and laughing."

This year is a change from serious Japanese society where she goes to school six days a week, 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. The schools are extremely different in Japan, she explains.

"When our teacher comes into the class we stand and bow and say good morning. The teacher says sit and we sit. The teacher speaks. We do not ask questions. In America if the bell rings, every student is running for the door. If the bell rings in Japan, we wait for the teacher to say class is over, we bow, say thank you and stand until the teacher leaves. Then we can sit down again," she says. Yurie attends 11th grade at NHS studying metals, typing, trigonometry, chemistry and composition.

Home life in America, too, is more colorful than simple Japanese homes. The food here took some getting used to, Yurie says, and she lost 12 pounds the first month she arrived.

Suburban Northville is not exactly what Yurie expected at first.

"When I thought of America, I thought of Los Angeles or San Francisco," she says.

Yurie says she wanted to come to the United States not only to speak English better but to get a better perspective on her country.

With trips to Windsor, Mount Pleasant, East Lansing and Detroit Yurie has learned some about how Americans live. In June she will travel through 23 states in three weeks with other Rotary-sponsored foreign exchange students.

In her observations so far she says she has enjoyed the holidays, especially Halloween and Thanksgiving (she ate turkey for the first time.)

But she fears she will be homesick when New Year's Day, Japan's biggest holiday, comes around.

"In Japan I love my parents and grandparents but when I came here I realized how much. When I arrived, there was the teacher's strike so about for one month I had nothing to do, and no friends so usually I thought about home. I appreciate my family much more now," Yurie says.

In December she leaves Raycrafts and moves to the Donald Willoughby family, also in Northville. She will be moving to a third, as yet unknown family in the spring.

Though clothes, school, customs and food may be very different for the Japanese girl, one thing — music — is the same as in Japan. Yurie's favorite singers, Billy Joel and Donna Summer, are there to bring her some of the memories of home — and of the United States.

Yurie Miyahara describes her native Japan to Northville Rotary hosts last week

Rotary seeks host homes

Want to have the experience of hosting a foreign exchange student in your home for four months?

Rotarian Charles Mann is hoping to find four Northville families who would like to share hosting duties for local exchange students in the coming months.

Northville Rotary Club is sponsoring its first exchange student from South Africa, Anna Magdalena Jooste.

She is 18 years old and will stay with three families, rotating every four months. The host family is responsible for board and room only, Mann says. The club provides a $40 monthly allowance. Insurance is provided, and clothing and medical expenses are the responsibility of the student's parents.

The club also still needs one host home for the final rotation of its current Japanese student by the beginning of May, 1980. Mann may be called at 349-5400 for more information.

Teacher to relate Christ story in art

"The Christ Story in Art and Music" will be told by Pat Dorrian-Sandbothe at Northville Woman's Club at 1:30 p.m. Friday at First Presbyterian Church.

The Northville High School teacher who developed the English department's outstanding humanities program will present the slide presentation that is part of the Christmas season experience for her students.

Sandy Cook, media specialist, will coordinate slides and music.

"Presentation of the Virgin" by Titian begins the presentation which includes 75 Madonna pictures. Music of the Messiah provides background of the program.

Both professional slides and those made at the high school are used.

The teacher warns that it is not intended to be a religious program, but it has given students an understanding of the annunciation.

She points out that art and the humanities are "so much influenced by Christianity" in work of the middle ages and renaissance times.

Mrs. Hugh Montgomery is chairman of the guest day program.

League of Women Voters focuses on Year of Child

Members and guests of the Northville, Plymouth, Canton and Novi League of Women Voters will hear a program focusing on the young as part of the International Year of the Child at the annual Christmas tea to be held from noon to 2:30 p.m. December 12 in Northville City council chambers.

"Alternative Programs Helping Troubled Children and Youth" will be the topic discussed by a panel of three.

They are Don Durham of the Outwayne County Youth Services Coalition, Ronald Scott, executive director Youth Living Centers, Incorporated, and Dale Yagiela, director of Growthworks, Incorporated, in Plymouth.

They will describe their organizations and their relationship to the revised juvenile code pending in the state legislature.

Tea, coffee and Christmas goodies will be served.

Anyone interested is invited. Baby-sitting is available by calling Mary Ellen McKercher, 455-4539.

Puppet show for children, film for seniors upcoming

A special Christmas puppet show will be presented at the Northville Public Library at 11 a.m. Saturday, December 15. The show will feature the story of "Rumpelstiltskin" and several skits with holiday themes.

Sponsored by the Friends of the Library, the show features the Brendel Puppets, a professional puppet troupe

Sharing the program will be Chuck and Connie Coggins, a husband and wife Gospel recording artists' team, from Durand, Michigan, who will minister in guitar and vocal arrangements.

The meeting at 8 p.m. follows dinner which is $8. plus 15 percent gratuity per person. Both dinner and talk are open to the public.

Beauty shop's bazaar scene

A beauty shop may not be the usual locale for a Christmas bazaar, but one is being held today through Friday at the Fashion Cellar at 102 West main. Calico trees, wreaths, stockings and even a magnificent 30-plus bloom poinsettia plant are on display and for sale.

Owner Krystyna Dziewit explains that the event came about as some of her customers and neighbors talked about their Christmas crafts "I thought of it as a service I could do," she says.

Many of the items, she says, are unusual ideas for Christmas giving, including metal sculpture and lamps with antique bases.

Resident heads Goodwill meet

Mrs. Herbert C. Path of Jamestown Circle is chairman of the program for the December 12 meeting of the Women's Association of Goodwill Industries to be held in the Goodwill Building on Brush near East Grand Boulevard in Detroit.

Following a brown bag lunch at noon Mrs. Path will introduce Mrs. Mary Derrick, known professionally as "The Merry Potter." She will present an inspirational monologue.

She will use her potter's wheel and ceramic clay to illustrate the resemblance between the potter's art and the formation of human character by God's hand and life's tools, which, she relates, sometimes are comfortable and sometimes harsh.

Mrs. Derrick is a resident artist working and teaching in her Wolverine Lake Village home. Her work has been exhibited in many art and craft shows in the Detroit area. She has spoken before many club, civic and church organizations.

The Women's Association of Goodwill Industries was organized in 1931 to provide supplementary emergency assistance to the handicapped employees and clients of the Goodwill Industries.

The December 12 meeting traditionally is a Christmas ingathering of funds to finance a special holiday dinner and gifts for clients.

Since the merger with the League for the Handicapped and the increased number of employees housed in several buildings, the Women's Association Christmas party December 19 will include 219 persons working in the former Goodwill Building on Brush near East Grand Boulevard, 22 from the Southwest Wayne Vocational Program in Taylor and 15 from the Macomb County Center.

Other League-Goodwill clients will be entertained at holiday time by other groups of volunteers.

Individually wrapped gifts will be distributed by Santa Claus after the turkey dinner. Music, a sing-along, entertainment and dancing will fill the afternoon hours of this holiday which for many who live alone will be their only celebration.

Throughout the year other fund-raising events keep the Women's Association Pantry Shelf-Medicine Chest supplied to meet personal emergencies as they are reported by the League-Goodwill nursing staff.

Association members meet on the second Wednesday of the month in the Goodwill Building.

Anyone who is interested in helping provide these emergency services is invited to become a member of the association and attend its meetings.

Courtesy parking is available next to the building.

President is Mrs. William Schneider; the Honorary President is Mrs. George Stark; the President Emeritus is Mrs. A. Warren Brock.

Mrs. Path is a past president, having served from 1965-1967.

Quester groups will celebrate

Antique Christmas ornaments will be the topic of the talk to be given at the Silver Springs Questers meeting at 12:15 p.m. Decembr 12 at the Sheldon Road home of Mary Beth Baxter, who will display her collection.

Sue Holstein will be hostess for this meeting of the antiques study club. A $5 antique gift exchange is planned.

A slide presentation-talk on "Period Furniture of Greenfield Village Homes" was given at the November 14 meeting by Margaret Freiwald of Royal Oak. She is a former school teacher and village guide, as well as a history buff. Jackie Kenyon was hostess for the meeting at the Commerce Lake home of Mickey Poor.

Husbands of members of Baseline Questers will be guests at the annual Christmas dinner party to be held at 7 p.m. December 14.

Special guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reed. He will show and speak on his collection of early firearms. Arrangements are under the direction of Eileen Sonk, program chairman.

Hunt goes on for hairy giant of forest

By BRYAN GRULEY

Wayne King is a hunter of a different sort.

Unlike deer hunters now hounding the Michigan wilds for their antlered game, King stalks a beast that isn't likely to be seen lashed to the hood of a car.

King's quarry is what the Indians call sasquatch, "hairy giant of the forest."

Better known as Bigfoot, in his basement office that serves as headquarters of the Michigan Bigfoot Information Center, King sits back and smiles confidently, lightly tapping himself on the chest.

"I am the predator," he says. "The sasquatch is my prey."

King makes this point perfectly clear, but on other points, the predator is nearly as enigmatic as his legendary prey.

It has been almost 90 years since the first recorded sighting of a sasquatch in Michigan, but the mystery surrounding the ape-like creature remains.

King, who directs the largest Bigfoot center in America, would have a listener believe differently.

"One guy wrote an article that treated this as if it were some kind of fantasy, a children's thing," he complains. "If this isn't treated on a serious level, I'd rather not be quoted on it."

Indeed, King's seriousness about hunting and killing a sasquatch is one reason why he founded the Bigfoot center with his own money in 1976.

Since then, King has filed hundreds of reports concerning the whereabouts of Bigfoot from around the state and the country, including physical sightings of the creature and footprint associations.

King's warehouse of Bigfoot information includes taped and written depositions in which people attested to having seen what they thought was a sasquatch, huge footprint casts, photos of footprints, fecal samples, hair samples, and notebooks filled with articles about Bigfoot sightings.

King's knowledge of sasquatch physical and behavioral characteristics is considerable.

King describes the sasquatch ("gigantopithecus," according to King) as a large, hairy, anthropoid animal that weighs about 700 to 900 pounds. It walks upright and can accelerate to "the speed of a deer."

An omnivorous, nocturnal beast, Bigfoot eats both meat and vegetation, and sees better at night than during the day. King says the creature is able to make sounds ranging from a low roar to a deafening scream, and can also mimic other forest animals.

With a gorilla-like brain, Bigfoot can reason for itself, King notes. However, the non-hibernating sasquatch rejects civilization because it is so well adapted to wilderness survival.

"These animals are far from being shy," King adds. "They are curious to a point, almost aggressive."

Tens of thousands of sasquatches roam many nations' wilds, according to King. Its American population resides mostly in the northern states, particularly Minnesota and Michigan.

King estimates that Michigan harbors as many as 500 sasquatches, most of which live in the Upper Peninsula.

But, despite King's vast sasquatch knowledge, he cannot adequately account for why (according to King) no Bigfoot has ever been captured, only a few have been killed, and only one has been killed and publicly displayed.

"They are extremely powerful creatures," King points out. "No one really tries to capture any."

But zoos around the globe house lions, bears, elephants and rhinoceroses — all powerful animals.

The one alleged sasquatch killed and publicly displayed did not tour American museums of science. Rather, it starred in a traveling carnival as the "Minnesota Ice Man" before it and its killer-owner mysteriously disappeared.

King thinks the sparse number of Bigfoot kills and captures is due to peoples' refusal to believe the creature exists.

"It's a predominant attitude in man," says the sasquatch hunter. "We call it negativism. A man says, 'What I don't see, what I can't touch, I won't believe.'"

King also feels that man wouldn't take time to stalk Bigfoot if he had it. He tells the story of a hunter who followed what he thought was a sasquatch trail.

"The guy told me he followed it so far and then turned around and went back," King relates. "I asked him why and he said, 'The further I went, the more I didn't want to catch up with whatever I was following.'"

Despite his willingness to reveal almost anything concerning Bigfoot, King nevertheless withholds some information that he terms "classified."

For example, King won't disclose what kind of sasquatch bait or what calibre of rifle he brings on a Bigfoot hunt.

King also won't say how many field representatives he has in Michigan.

More significantly, he claims that two sasquatches have consistently inhabited two Michigan areas for almost two years — but he won't say where.

That seems risky in light of King's assertion that the monstrous Bigfoot is not averse to killing people. Sasquatches have reportedly killed eight men, according to King.

But King insists that divulging sasquatch whereabouts can be nearly as dangerous. As evidence, he notes a 1964 Cass County occurrence in which people reported 15 sasquatch sightings in five days.

"It was a frenzy almost to the point of declaring martial law," King says. "There were people all over, in the fields, riding the roads, with guns."

The way King sees it, people hunting sasquatches have to be protected from themselves.

Ironically, this kind of protection is the basis for King's main objective: to obtain an ordinance legally protecting the sasquatch.

Don't laugh. Skamania County, Washington has had such an ordinance for 10 years.

In Michigan, though, law can protect only scientifically identified animals, according to King. Someone must kill or capture Bigfoot before scientists can identify it.

This, then, is King's self-appointed mission: to kill the sasquatch, in order to protect the sasquatch, in order to protect the people.

With this riddlesome purpose in mind, Wayne King pursues the mythical Bigfoot. In the night forest he crouches, spying the woods for a man-like beast, waiting for the chance to raise rifle and, with a single shot, stun the world.

"Killing Bigfoot would be the biggest thing in mankind's time," the smiling King declares. "The world will be beating a path to my doorstep when they realize I have it encased here."

That — like Bigfoot — remains to be certifiably seen.

Wayne King, Director of the Michigan Bigfoot Information Center, holds a cast of an alleged sasquatch footprint

Shortest day is on the way

December brings the shortest day and longest minute of the year, a lone planet in the evening sky, and an eclipsing "Demon star," according to University of Michigan astronomy Professor Richard G. Teske.

"The winter solstice, when the earth's northern hemisphere is tipped farthest from the sun, comes at 6:10 a.m. December 22. Our planet will be at that place in its orbit from which the sun is seen to be farthest south in the sky," he notes. "This day will be the shortest of the year, with only about nine hours between sunrise and sunset."

"But because of the complicated way our system of timekeeping is related to the sun's apparent movements on the sky, the earliest sunset of the year will actually take place on December 8, and the latest sunrise will be seen on January 3, after the new year begins," he says.

Also, an extra second of time, called the "leap second," will be added to our clocks this year.

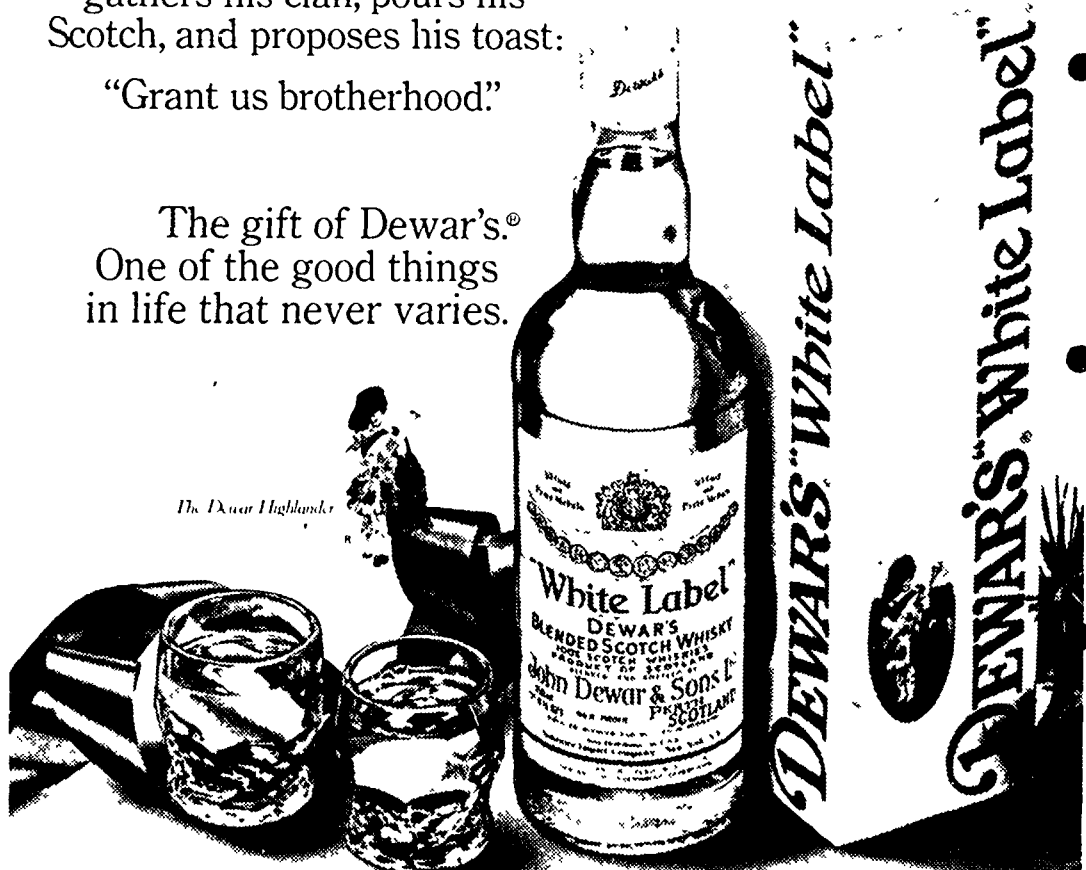

Teske explains that the nation's timekeeper, the National Bureau of Standards in Boulder, Colorado, maintains atomic clocks that keep track of intervals of time which are predetermined by international agreement.

EACH YEAR, Ewan Macdonald gathers his clan, pours his Scotch, and proposes his toast:

Grapplers down Ypsi in opener

Neal Young didn't win his match Monday night, but the 198-pound wrestler won the meet for the Northville varsity wrestling team.

The Mustangs beat the visiting Ypsilanti squad 34-31 to get the 1979-80 season off to a winning start.

Young's match was critical for Northville because the score at the time of his battle was 34-22. If Ypsilanti's wrestlers pinned Young and then won the heavyweight match by a pin also, Northville would lose.

Young's opponent happened to be the national high school champion at 198 pounds.

Young not only did not get pinned, but he even gave his opponent a run for his money, lasting the entire contest and losing 7-3. The win gave Ypsilanti just three points so it didn't matter what happened in the heavyweight division. Northville had won.

The JV matched gave a good indication of the night to come in the varsity arena.

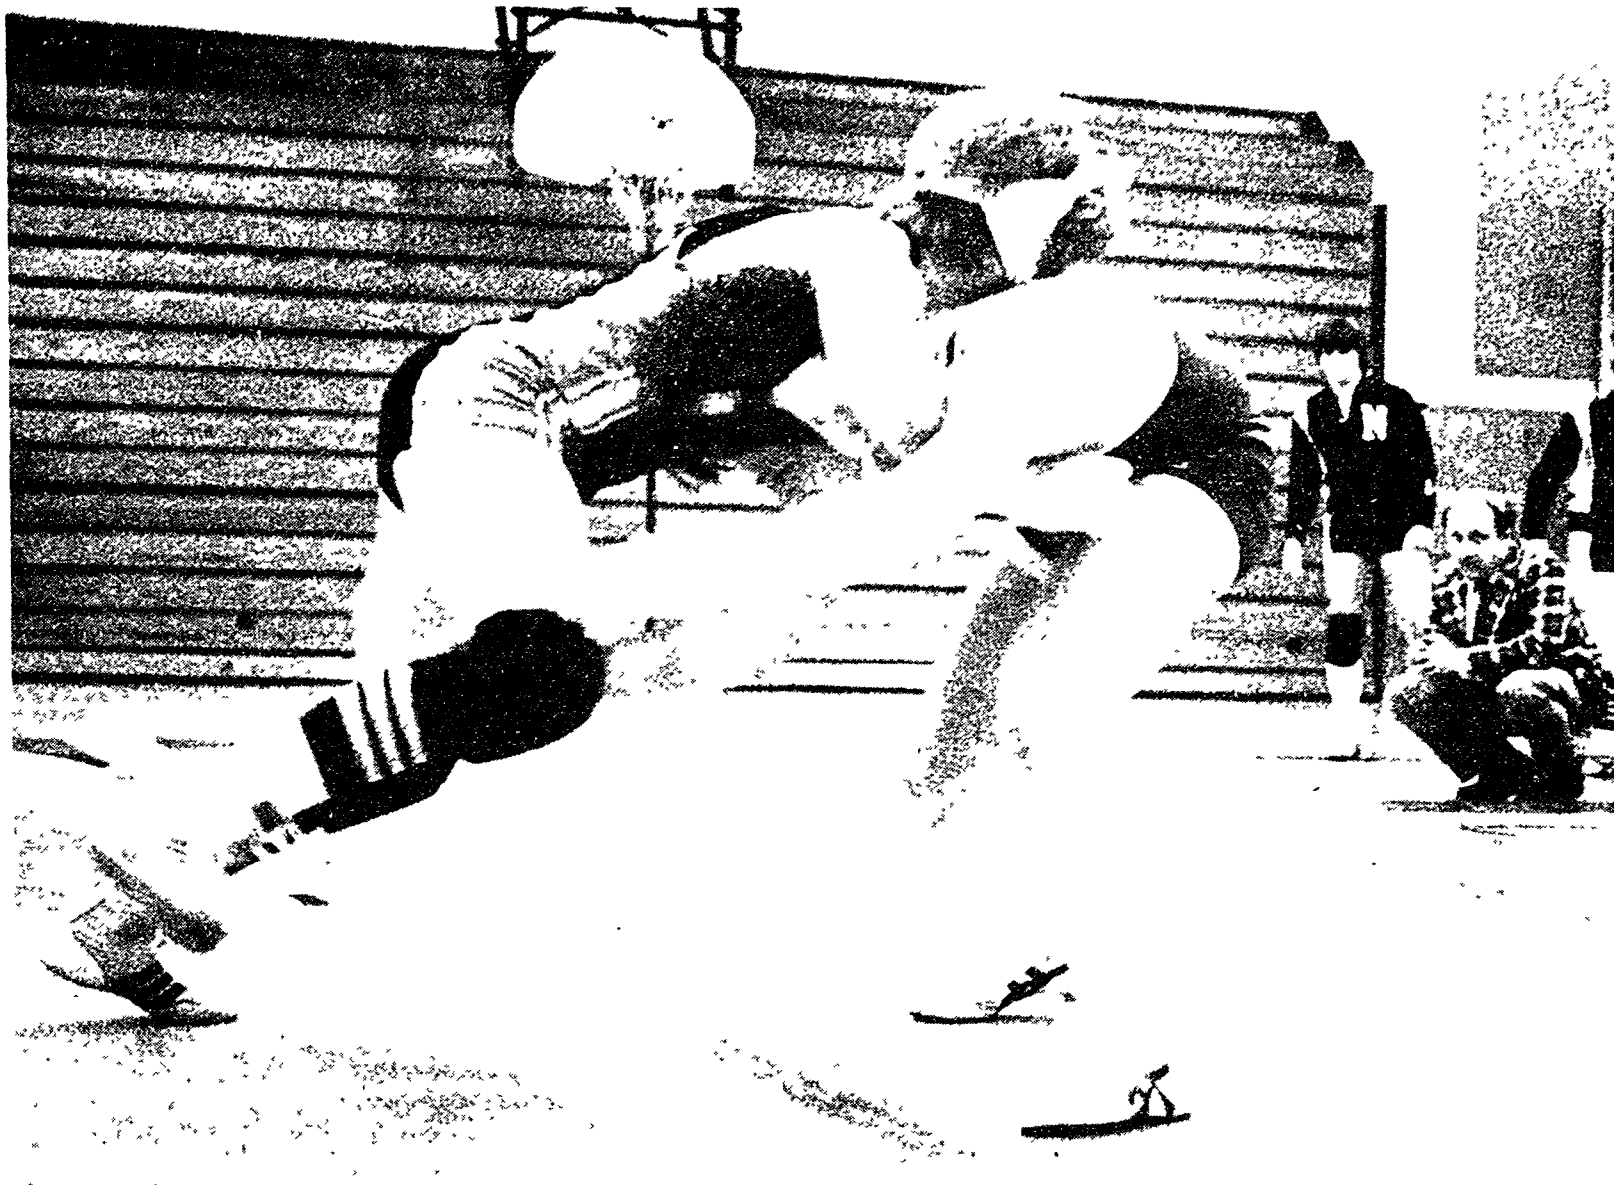

Northville won the first two weight classes on voids as the Ypsi squad failed to field wrestlers.

At 98 pounds, Neal Hartshorne won on a void as did John Naar at 105. That gave Northville a 12-0 lead.

But Al Hodgson was pinned at the 112-pound class and that made the score 12-6.

The next three Mustangs were vic-

Skiliftphobia strikes

When I was a student at Eastern Michigan University, one of my favorite classes was psychology. I took this class my freshman year and at that time I thought I had learned all the various phobias that modern thinkers could conjure up.

For instance, arachnophobia is the fear of spiders, acrophobia is the fear of heights and claustrophobia is the fear of being enclosed in small areas. Freud and Jung became famous for formulating these and other phobias.

Well, the ranks of the famed psychoanalysts should be increased by one more; I've discovered a phobia that wasn't covered in my freshman psych class or, to my knowledge, by either Freud, Jung, Skinner or any other psychologist. I call this mental disorder skiliftphobia.

Many people have this disorder, but unless you actually ride a ski lift, chances are you will never realize it. From my research skiliftphobia is closely related to acrophobia. Both have the fear of height at their core.

The main difference between the two is that skiliftphobia has certain concrete things your fear is focused on, while acrophobia is a vague, irrational fear of being off terra firma, be it in an airplane, on top of a building or just lying in bed.

I know so much about the disorder because I suffer from it. I not only suffer; I agonize. But my love of skiing overrides the fear circuits that explode in my brain everytime I ride up on a lift, and somehow, I manage to make it through each long, endlessly long, trip to the side of a mountain.

The amount of fear generated by skiliftphobia is proportional to the height of the lift. In my four years of skiing I have only partaken of the wintery joys of Mount Brighton. I am able to keep control because the lifts aren't that high.

I dread to find out what will happen when I ride one of the big lifts, such as those at Crystal Mountain near Traverse City. I will be skiing there this weekend and if I don't make it back in one mental piece, you'll know the reason why.

The agony starts while you edge your way up to the loading ramp. You watch the chairs swing in at 100 miles per hour and sweep the waiting skiers off their feet and up into the air.

Finally it is your turn and as you struggle to move up to a proper loading position, you don't see so much as you feel the incoming chair blasting through to hit you in the fanny.

By some miracle you manage to sit down, hang on, fall back and not fall off, and you're away. Up into the night. Or the day. But up is the key word anyway.

Before you know it you're high above everything. The skiers dash and swerve underneath you and if you're not careful, you'll lean so far forward watching them that you almost fall off. Or it seems that way.

If you are normally insane, you thoroughly enjoy the ride, looking around excitedly and pointing out all that there is to see. But for those of us who suffer from skiliftphobia, those long hour-minutes spent gliding high to the top of the mountain are among the most terrifying we'll ever experience.

The stretches between support poles aren't so bad. The ride is usually smooth and I can relax enough to glance about me with cornered-rabbit eye darts. But when the chair goes past one of the poles, that is when the sweat breaks out on my forehead.

You see, lift chairs are connected to a cable that moves up and then back down the mountain. The chair is connected to the cable by a small, ever so small, wheel with a groove in the middle that fits over the cable snugly. Just a small groove between me and frozen desert hundreds of feet below.

But when the chair goes past one of the support poles the wheel goes up and over a support arm attached to the pole. This arm holds the cable up and as the wheel goes over the cable that goes over the arm the chair also goes up and my stomach goes over and it's terrible.

And I have visions, if I'm sitting on the side of the chair closest to a support pole, that the tip of my ski is going to catch onto the great wooden girder and I'll be yanked from the chair like an apple in a wind-storm. My only hope (I have it all planned) would be to grab at the pole for all I'm worth and slide down like a South Sea islander coming down from a banana tree.

All of that is bad enough. But the worst part for me is when the whole lift stops while you're right smack dab in the middle of nowhere. The whole express is moving forward nice and steady and then it stops. The problem is that you are moving in the same direction and when it stops, you generally keep going. In preparation for such sudden halts I always keep both of my hands firmly secured to the side of the lift chair. If I go the whole thing will go, too.

Unloading is no problem. Whatever embarrassment I experience at falling on my face once I jump off the chair is more than balanced by the relief I feel at having my feet, er, skis, back on solid, frozen ground. In one piece.

Investigation on at Downs

An investigation into the possible drugging of horses at Northville Downs has been underway since Tuesday, November 27.

The investigation came as a result of race officials scratching two horses from competition Monday night, November 26. Both horses appeared to be tranquilized.

Seven other horses have been scratched since the harness season opened October 22. One of the horses, Major Bay, died, although it is unclear at this time whether the horse's death was a result of drugging.

Racing Commissioner Fedele Fauri ordered the investigation.

The investigators are waiting for complete lab results of blood and urine tests taken from the affected horses. As of this writing complete results weren't available.

Deputy Race Commissioner William H. Anderson said that some of the test results were complete but that they weren't conclusive.

"I think that it's a perplexing problem," Anderson said. "We can't rule out anything until we see conclusive results from the lab tests. When we get the results back we can see what was in the horses."

"We have a real good investigation under way. We're receiving a lot of cooperation from the horsemen."

Anderson said that one of the first actions taken was to increase security measures at the raceway. Extra security guards have been added and the horses are now being brought into the paddock area an hour and twenty minutes before race time. Effects of drugs usually wear off within an hour, so this move will discourage any possible tampering with the horses while out of the paddock area.

One of the first areas checked by officials was the horses' feed. It was thought that some sort of insecticide was the culprit. But Anderson said that after initial testing and a two week time period, none of the other horses became sick from eating the feed.

"We're proceeding with the assumption that they've been tapered with," he said.

One of the problems with lab tests on sick horses is that they are so big. It depends on the nature of the drug as to whether lab technicians can find it in the samples.

Often the same miniscule amount of a drug will be prescribed for a horse that would be prescribed for a cat; the affect is the same. The only difference is torious as Larry Wallace, wrestling at 118 pounds, won 6-1; Paul Rezcowski won 13-2 at 126 pounds; and Steve Platt pinned his opponent in a minute and eight seconds at 132 pounds. That made the score 25-6.

Then the situation reversed and the Mustangs lost the next three weight classes.

Todd Zoroya was pinned at 138 pounds and Northville had to void the 145-pound slot. Brian Hamilton was then pinned at 155 pounds and before you could say fireman's carriage, the score was 25-24.

Two football players had decided to join the team last week, and in order to give them experience, coach Gary Emerson wrestled them on the JV squad.

Wrestling at 167 pounds, for the first time in his life, all-area linebacker Bob Boshoven tackled his opponent and pinned him in just a minute and 19 seconds.

Northville had to void the 185-pound class but another football player, Dan Troher, stepped in to handle the 198-pounder and voided. So to give Troher experience, Emerson matched him up with Ypsi's 185-pounder in an exhibition match. It lasted 25 seconds as Troher picked him up and set him down, on his shoulders.

Heavyweight Vince Candela took just a little bit longer to eliminate his opponent; 38 seconds to be exact.

The JV had won 43-30.

By this time the crowd was large and yelling for more. The varsity didn't disappoint them.

At 98 pounds, Northville's Brian Mance won on a void. Jack Wallace, wrestling at 105, lost 9-0 and the score stood at 6-4.

Bill Blanchard got the Mustangs back on the winning track by pinning his opponent in two minutes and 37 seconds. It took the 112-pounder that long because right after the bout began, Blanchard suffered cramps in both legs. After a two-minute injury timeout, the Mustang captain gingerly manhandled his opponent.

Wrestling at 119 pounds, Northville's Mark Tomczyk won 6-3, followed by Todd Vincent's 9-5 victory at 126 pounds. These wins gave the Mustangs an 18-4 lead.

Rick Borthwick was pinned at 132 but Mustang Dale Presswood turned the table on his opponent in the 138-pound class by freezing him at the 40-second mark. The score was now 24-10.

Vilas Allen, wrestling at 145 pounds, pinned his victim just 55 seconds after the match began.

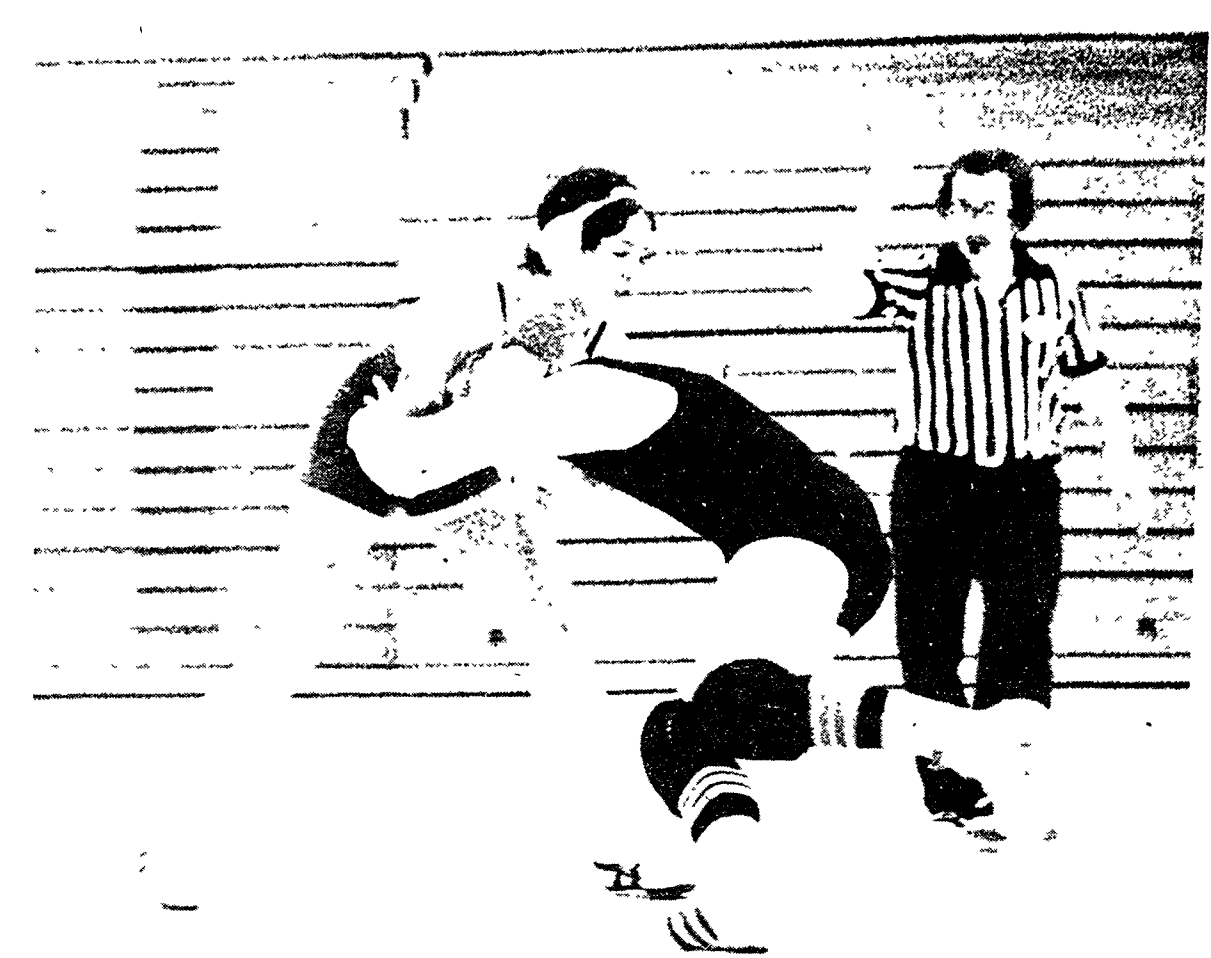

Steve Morgan then became a pin victim when he succumbed at the 3:30 mark of the match.

Don Lucas could have iced a Northville victory with a pin over his opponent in the 165-pound class, but he won by a 12-3 decision instead. That made the score 34-16 and kept the Ypsilanti hopes for a win not only alive but very much a possibility with their three top big men coming up.

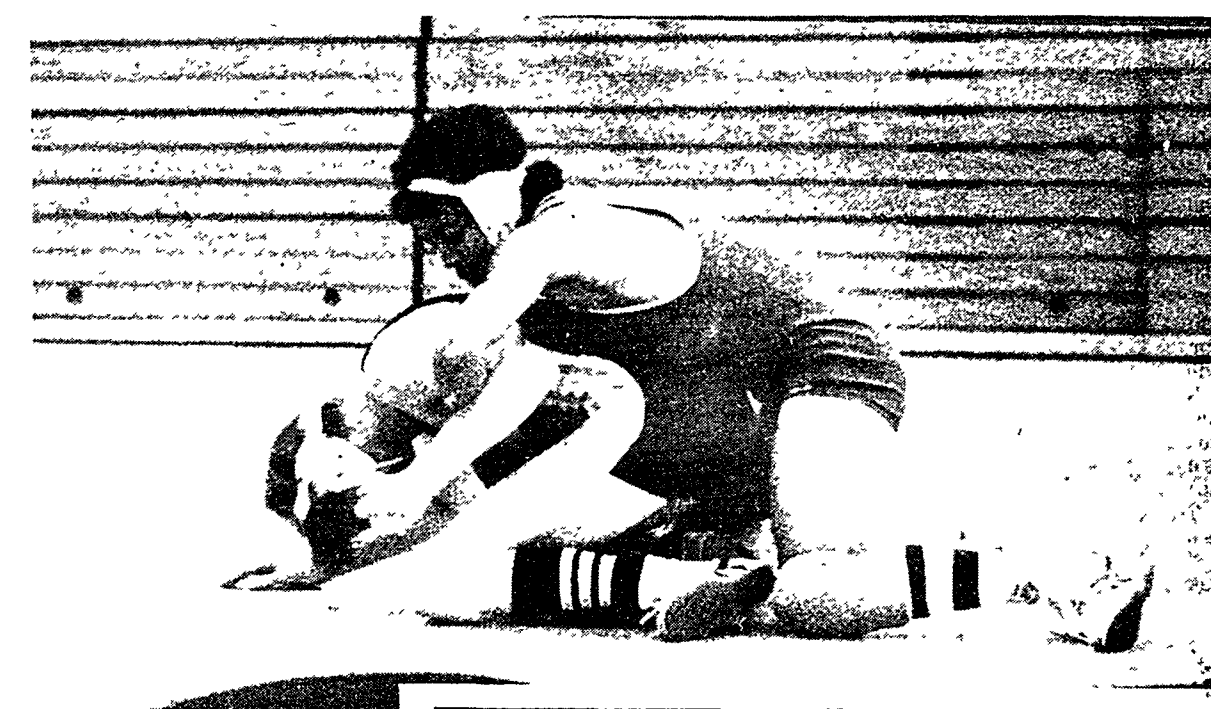

At 185 pounds, Northville's Lou Bustamante was pinned, setting the stage for Young's heroics.

Foster Freydl was pinned at the heavyweight class.

"It was a good win for us," Emerson

said. "We did what we are going to have to do to win. If we can get pins from our good guys and then keep the others off of their backs we're all set."

The Mustangs grapplers will take on Salem, Ann Arbor Pioneer and Milford tomorrow evening in a 5 p.m. quadrangular meet at the Northville High School.

The following Saturday, Northville will host Plymouth Canton, Crestwood and Stevenson in another four-way meet. This one will get underway at noon.

that a horse has gallons of blood and urine and because of this it is much more difficult to detect traces of drugs in random tests.

As for Major Bay, Anderson said that he wasn't certain whether or not to include him in with the other horses which are suspected of being drugged.

According to the vet that treated the horse, the cause of death was a twisted intestine. The cause for perplexion is that the horse died on a Friday, but officials weren't able to examine it until Monday. The horse died at its home stable in Pinckney after racing that same evening at the Downs. By not seeing it until Monday, it was too late to tell if the horse had been drugged.

There have been no changes in betting patterns that would indicate a connection with the horses' sickness and wrongdoing.

"It's perplexing," Anderson said. "My opinion is that they (horses) got something they shouldn't have had."

This 1967 Jaguar was purchased for $3,400 in 1969 but is worth $22,000 today

This Jag is hand-crafted

By ELLEN SPONSELLER

Ten years ago 22-year-old Steve Nichols, just back from Viet Nam, bought a car to work on for a hobby. He had never fiddled with cars before but by reading the service manual he stripped his car down, took it completely apart, inventoried the parts, itemized everything that was wrong with it, and then began the long process of rebuilding.

Today the 1967 E-type 4.2 liter grey-bodied Jaguar sits staring with almond-eyed headlamps in Nichols' garage on North Center. It will be painted in the spring and then it will be finished. But will it be for sale?

No way. Even though Nichols bought the car for $3,400 in October 1970 and it could sell for $22,000 when finished, "It is not for sale. It will never be for sale," he says.

Too much of Nichols' sweat and blood is in the fine machine.

"It took me three to four months to take it apart and then eight months to rebuild the floor and achieve structural integrity," he says. "After that, it was one piece at a time to inspect, clean, repair and replace. Everything in this car is perfect."

Nichols, 31, works at Forge Precision in Farmington restoring old milling machines. He says he got valuable job skills by working on the Jaguar.

"I first bought the car because I thought it would be a good investment. Only so many of the cars had been made. It was the best, sleekest, quickest car coming out of Europe, except for maybe the Ferrari, at the time. And aside from the fact that everybody wanted one, the Jags had a reputation that they don't work, they burn up and they fall apart," Nichols says.

His theory in rebuild the Jaguar is to keep the repairs consistent with the original. "My whole underlying theme is don't do anything unless it looks original," Nichols says.

He has made a few changes. He put three new gauges to measure temperature, vacuum and voltage where a radio had been before.

He has molded chrome on front and rear bumpers. Except for original metal on the car's trunk and gas lid, all metal, glass and chrome are new. In addition, tires are not the original whitewalls but black walls, which first appeared on the 1968 Jaguar.

"Very few changes were made in the E-type between its 1960 debut in Geneva and when the last six cylinder was made in 1972," Nichols said. "1968 saw all the Ralph Nader changes, when they took the glass off the headlamps, put in headrests and a complete bumper in front."

"The car is built like an eggshell, though. Bumpers are really only a psychological benefit," Nichols says.

He has come as close to the original as possible, he believes, in his rebuilt Jag.

"You can look at it two ways," he says. "The British don't make any two pieces alike. Everything is handmade. But also you just have to fit everything. You remember that the dimensions are constant throughout the car.

"When I bought the car I had just returned from being a radar operator in the army in Viet Nam. I had never put a car together. But I read the service manual. And all the things I learned from the manual have helped in my job. The techniques used to repair the car are universal."

Though Nichols knows the "language" of mechanics now, he says he'll not attempt to build another Jaguar from the ground up.

"I don't think I could do it again," he says. "The next thing I'll do is go back to Schoolcraft and get my journeyman's card as a machine builder."

And what of spare parts for about five E-type Jaguars which are piled in his garage?

"I'll use them to repair my car," he says. In fact, his amp gauge blew up last week while he was driving on Telegraph Road in Southfield. But no problem, he assures you. He had another one.

Our Lady of Victory boys win

Our Lady of Victory's 7th and 8th grade boy's basketball team opened its 1979-80 Catholic Youth Organization league season by crushing Livonia St. Michaels 30-23 Sunday.

OLV's Chris Wagner led the charge as he topped the team in scoring with 14 points. Wagner dominated the boards at both ends of the court as he hauled down 12 rebounds.

Bob Martin, Dan Nielson, Shawn Tague and John Daly each scored four points to back Wagner up in the scoring department.

The OLV squad played in the Farmington Our Lady of Sorrows Thanksgiving Tournament. The OLV Cougars downed Southfield St. Bede's 33-30 following an opening game loss to the eventual tourney victor, St. Scholastica, 46-39. Wagner was named to the all-tourney team.

OLV's 5th and 6th grade team lost to St. Michael's 36-33. The Livonia team had a decided height advantage over the Cougars as Joe Fandino stood at 5'9" and Nick Varejon is 5-7.

The Gaels were leading by 12 points at the end of the third quarter but the Cougars showed their gumption by notching 16 points in the final frame. But it wasn't enough to pull the victory out.

Sean McClorey sparked OLV with 14 points while Sean McLaughlin notched 10, Mike Hilfinger five and David Nadeau four. McClorey led the team with 11 rebounds.

At the holiday tourney the younger Cougars opened their season by defeating Plymouth Our Lady of Good Counsel 30-21 before falling to Royal Oak Shrine 23-20, in the semi-finals. McClorey was named to the all-tourney squad.

Twisters lose

Despite a second-place finish in the vaulting competition in the Class II Optional by Northville's Amy Aaron, the Livonia Family Y Twisters gymnastics team lost to the Mt. Clemens Y.

The meet was a Class III Compulsory and a Class II Optional competition.

Cathy Stafford of Livonia and Beth Raffail of Plymouth finished first and third in the same vaulting competition.

Also earning points for the Twisters were Debbie Skeppstrom of Plymouth, who placed third on the uneven bars, and Kathleen Boyle, also of Plymouth, who placed first in floor exercises. Both girls competed in the 10-and-under age group.

Dave Ward goes up for two points during an inter-squad scrimmage recently

... Will challenge for title

Cagers set for opener

After leading the Northville boys basketball team to its first .500 season in four years last season (11-11), coach Tim Lutes has his goals set on bigger fish this campaign. He wants the league title.

"We feel that we can have the best season Northville has had since 1974-75," Lutes said. "They were 19-2 that year and we want to record the best record since then. We're going to shoot to win every game."

"We feel that we can be contenders for the Western Six title."

What gives Lutes such confidence? For starts, two big men who can do it all.

Dave Ward is perhaps the key figure in the Mustang attack this winter. The 6-7, 195-pound junior is just coming into his own after being the only sophomore to receive a varsity letter last season.

Ward worked hard in basketball camps over the summer and added 20 pounds to his once thin frame during football season. It has paid off.

"He has shown tremendous improvement," Lutes said. "He could be a real key ball player for us in the next two years. He has excellent quickness and a quick, high jump. We will definitely be taking advantage of him inside."

The second big man in Lutes' plans is 6-4 senior forward center Mike Wagner.

"He will play some center, some forward, and some guard for us," Lutes said. "He's big and strong at 205 pounds and is an excellent shooter. He hit 51 percent from the free throw line last year. His strong point is shooting but he passes well and can play any position for us."

Those two along with senior Bob Crisan are tri-captains for this season.

Crisan started over half of the games last season but missed a lot of action due to illness and injuries. The 6-1 guard-forward averaged 11 points a game in Western Six play. He was an honorable mention all-area performer.

Other returning lettermen are Harry Couyoumjian and Craig Wisbiski.

Couyoumjian, a 5-7 senior, will see action as a guard. Lutes says that Couyoumjian's strengths are his quickness and excellent speed. He is battling for a starting guard position.

Wisbiski is 6-2 and is pegged as a forward-center. Lutes calls the senior a very hard worker.

The only other senior on the squad is Russ Gans. The 5-10 guard didn't play basketball last year. Instead, he swam with the Mustang tankers.

"Gans worked hard every day at summer camp and is competing for a starting guard position," Lutes said. "He is very strong and can play at forward. He is a good outside shooter."

Lutes' junior contingent holds a lot of promise. If JV stats mean anything then the Northville mentor has a handful of blue chippers at his disposal.

Topping the list is 6-2 Duke DuSablón. As a JV center last season the big man scored 23 points a game and hauled down 12 rebounds every time his team took the court. He will be moved to forward on the varsity.

Kevin Wayne is only 5-9 but he is the fastest man on the team according to Lutes. He has quick hands, a nice shooting touch and plays a mean brand of defense.

Dave Greer was burning the JV circuit up last season, averaging 20 points a game, until he severely injured his ankle. After that the 6-0 guard's average dropped to just 14 points per game. But the injured ankle is a-okay, if the past football season can be used as any sort of marker, and Greer is also

"You may find you've got two policies that provide the same kind of business protection—and that's one policy too many."

Your ski equipment will make or break your season

By JIM HAYNES

(Editors Note: This is the second of a four part series dealing with various aspects of cross-country skiing. The first segment discussed some methods one could use to get into reasonable skiing condition. This segment will discuss selecting the proper equipment.)

You've made up your mind. For too many years you've listened to your friends talk about skiing and the joys and wonders of the sport. You've decided to see what it's all about for yourself.

But traveling down a hill at light-speed isn't your idea of a healthy time, no matter what your friends say. Instead, you kind of like the idea of cross-country skiing.

Instead of running out to Trader Pete's and his easy-does-it no-fuss no-muss cross country ski sales, take a little time out to learn about the sport you're soon to fall in love with. And most importantly, take the time to learn about the equipment you are about to purchase.

Cross-country, or Nordic skiing, is very different from Alpine, or downhill skiing.

Downhill skiing is speed skiing and in accordance to the laws of physics, the equipment for that sport is designed to handle and produce speed, while at the same time, protect you.

For instance, the downhill ski is waxed with a gliding wax that covers the entire bottom surface of the ski. This promotes smooth, frictionless gliding down snow-covered slopes.

The Nordic ski, on the other hand, is waxed the length of the ski with a gliding wax, but in the middle, about a three-foot span with the foot as the center, the ski bottom is covered with a traction wax, which is much coarser and promotes firm traction for pushing-off when striding.

Another difference between the two sports' equipment is in the shoes.

Downhill ski boots are non-flexible casings made of plastic that lock your ankle in a safe position for the rigors of downhill speed. In Alpine skiing, gravity does all the work; you just hang on for the ride.

In Nordic skiing, however, the boot is much like a shoe. Only the tip is locked onto the ski. This gives you the ability to lift your heel for momentum in gliding. Nordic skiing is much like ice skating or jogging. The shoe is

Season opener

OLV girls win

The Our Lady of Victory girls 7th and 8th grade basketball team got its Catholic Youth Organization season off to a bad start last week by losing to St. Michael's of Livonia 16-15.

Down 16-6 at the end of the third quarter, the Cougars shut the Livonia team out the rest of the way and began a mad scoring dash to catch up. But their rally fell just short.

Mary Heslip and Kathy Dirwan each scored four points for the losing team. Jane Moylan tallied three and Mary Sullivan and Amy DeMattia each scored two.

The OLV 5th and 6th grade girls were victorious in their opening game action against St. Michael's. The Cougars won 22-14.

Jennie Nadeau led the winners with eight points. Mary Joy Kunczal notched six points and Colleen Kirwan had four while Mary Kay McClorey and Patty Kummer each scored two.

Divine Child will be the OLV girls' next opponent.

These cross-country skiers have formed a caravan and are setting out to see the country

Equipment

made of leather and is very flexible.

When purchasing Nordic equipment, especially at this time of year, it is advised that you buy a "package" as opposed to separate purchases.

When selecting equipment at this time of year, it is best to buy a package deal," Don Burch of "The Peak" said. "It is especially a good idea for a beginner because the equipment is matched. It is also relatively inexpensive."

A package usually contains skis, bindings, poles and shoes. Most beginner equipment packages start at around $90 and go all the way up to the most expensive racing equipment, which could go into the hundreds of dollars.

"One nice thing about cross-country equipment is that the quality goes up significantly while the price doesn't," Burch said. "For example, a package for an intermediate skier is usually around $130."

When buying skis, the length is the most important aspect to consider. Standing erect with your right arm held straight over your head, the tip of the ski should come to your wrist. But there are exceptions.

"The more athletic or the heavier you are, the longer the skis should be. This spreads out the force that comes from your kick," Burch said.

Another aspect to consider is whether to buy waxless models or ones that require waxing.

"Waxless skis are much more convenient," Burch said. "I would recommend these for the weekend skier; one who wants to have fun but not spend extra time in preparation."

"But someone who wants to learn about and prepare for the sport should buy skis you have to wax. These are for someone who takes pride in doing a good job, who gets increased pleasure from a sport by totally involving himself in it."

Next comes the poles. These are often your main source of locomotion. Nordic skiing is a sport with grace, but often you'll have to resort to brute strength to pull yourself along and this is why the correct height of your poles is important.

"Poles are measured by standing upright and placing them under your arm, with the tip on the ground. The top of the handle should just fit under your armpit," Burch said.

The next item is the boot. These are surprisingly expensive but when you consider that you couldn't buy an ordinary shoe with as much leather for the same price, the price sting isn't as sharp.

"The most important thing is to buy a leather boot," Burch said. "Leather breathes. Its flex won't change with the weather. It allows your feet to perspire. Vinyl boots don't flex as well, change with the cold and allow no air circulation so that your feet will sweat and eventually get very cold and wet."

It is also important to get a right fit because if you have to wear too many socks or the shoe is too tight, it will cut off your circulation and cramp your toes, therefore allowing your feet to get cold.

Shoes come in low and hightop models. The low tops offer less restriction to your movement while the hightops are more confining.

People with weak ankles or those who have problems with the cold should purchase hightops. Otherwise, go with the low.

Cagers ousted

The Northville girl's basketball team lost in its bid to advance from the second round of the Class A District basketball tournament last week as the Mustangs were trampled by Bentley 69-29.

Northville had advanced to the second round by virtue of a bye drawn in the first round. Bentley beat Farmington in the first round.

The two teams played close the first quarter, with Bentley taking a 14-5 lead. The score was 27-11 at the half. After that it was all Bentley.

The score at the end of the third quarter was 46-17 and the final frame saw Northville outscored 23-12.

Jacque Nixon, the Mustang scoring ace, was totally stifled by the Bentley defense. The sophomore made only two of 23 attempts from the field. She ended up with seven points.

Heidi Wagner scored six points and Melinda House added seven. Bentley's Carla Campbell led all scorers with 18 points.

"Bentley was too fast and got too many rebounds," Northville coach Dave Schoopp said. "We weren't hitting any of our shots."

Despite the post-season loss, Schoopp was pleased with the season.

"I'm much more satisfied than I've been in the past. The girls never quit during the year and they worked hard," he said.

Gift makers

Seventy-five young participants, enrolled in grades 1-6 in Northville schools, emulated their counterparts of an earlier day by spending last Saturday making their Christmas gifts in a new project of Northville Historical Society headed by Carole Jean Stockhausen and Lucia Danes. At the conclusion of the workshop the children wrapped their gifts before leaving New School Church in Mill Race Historical Village.

Police Blotter

Burglars take $1000 in goods

Over $1,000 worth of miscellaneous jewelry, wallets, watches, belt buckles, coin rolls and cash were taken from the Northville Saddlery, 200 S. Main during the early morning hours of November 26, city police reported.

Entry was apparently made through the north front door, police said, as the entire window of the door was knocked out.

A number of the stolen items have been recovered. A Northville man, claiming he found the goods near the spring across the street from the Saddlery, a day after the burglary turned over to police a plastic bag containing some items taken from the store.

The incident is under investigation.

Schrader's Home Furnishings, 111 North Center was broken into sometime between 6 p.m. November 27 and 9 a.m. November 29, city police reported.

The burglars apparently gained entry by cutting out a portion of the loading dock door with a power saw, police said.

Prior to a full inventory, nothing was believed missing from the furniture store.

The incident is under investigation.

Two Northville residents suffered minor injuries November 30 in a two-car collision at the intersection of Haggerty and Six Mile, township police reported.

Connie and Susan Geloff, passengers in a vehicle driven by Jane Wilson, 41826 Banbury, were hurt when their car, traveling westbound on Six Mile, was struck by a car which slide through the intersection, police said.

Ellen Carpenter of Plymouth, the driver of the vehicle southbound on Haggerty, said she tried to stop but couldn't because of snow and slippery conditions.

She was issued a citation for failing to stop at a red light.

The injured passengers were taken to St. Mary Hospital in Livonia, treated for injuries and released.

Township police reported three incidents of stolen hub caps during the past 10 days while city police recorded one similar theft.

Four wire spoke wheel covers valued at $383 were taken November 27 from a 1979 Oldsmobile parked on Neptune Court, police reported.

Four wire spoke chrome hubcaps were removed from a 1979 Buick Regal parked on Malvern Court November 27. All tires were flattened and all four valve stems were missing from the tires, police said.

Stolen property was valued at $350.

Four chrome wire wheel covers were taken from a 1979 Oldsmobile parked in front of a Jamestown Circle residence November 25, township police reported.

The value of the stolen property is estimated at $200.

Four silver wire spoke wheel covers worth $180 were taken November 27 from a 1978 Ford parked on Yorktown Court east of Lexington, city police reported.

There are currently no suspects for any of the hubcap thefts, police said.

A 1971 Ford LTD was destroyed by fire December 3 in an unusual mishap, township firemen reported.

Mike Sechler of 18153 was driving his 1971 car on Edenderry near his home when the muffler fell off, bounced up and punctured the gas tank, igniting the vehicle.

Sechler exited the vehicle and was not injured.

HAMMERING DOWN SALE—Charles Ely, Jr. (right) made it official Saturday, hammering down the sale of the hardware business that has been part of his family since its inception. The new owner is Marvin Snow (left), while the new manager is Jeff Van Buren. The business name has been changed to Snow's Pro Hardware. Snow also owns Nugent's Hardware in South Lyon.

Ely hardware sold

Ownership of the Ely hardware business changed hands officially on Saturday, thus ending another chapter in one of Northville's oldest family enterprises.

The new owners are Marvin and Louise Snow of the Whitmore Lake area, who also own Nugent's Hardware in South Lyon. They purchased the business from Charles Ely, Jr., who continues to own the property and the fuel oil business operating from the premises on North Center Street.

Operating now under the name, "Snow's Pro Hardware," the business is managed for the Snows by Jeff Van Buren of Brighton, who had worked out of the Snows' South Lyon store for five years.

Ely, who goes by the nickname "Clancy," bought out his cousin, "Chips" Ely, two years ago. The hardware business had been started by Clancy's father, Charles Ely, Sr., and by Chips' late father, Ivan, in 1960.

The Ely business activity in Northville began in 1919 by Carl Ely, grandfather of Clancy and Chips. Leaving a Ford agency in Farmington, Carl bought the coal and ice business here and set up shop in a small building on Center, between Main and Dunlap.

An ice house was located on the millpond (near what now is the Mill Race Historical Village), with ice being cut from the pond in winter and stored for summertime use. Later Ely installed an ice-making machine in relocated downtown quarters.

About 1931, the Elys stopped making their own ice blocks. Instead they constructed an ice shed for buying and setting at the present location at 316 North Center. Here also they built an office with increased parking area for customers and help.

Four years later, with his sons assisting him, Carl Ely expanded his coal business. This led, in 1939, to the establishment of a fuel oil outlet.

News Brief

AN $18 increase in monthly rental rate at Allen Terrace senior citizens apartments, as recommended by the housing commission, has been approved by the Northville City Council. The eight percent increase pegs the basic rate at $243 — up from $225. State and local subsidies, however, result in substantially reduced payments for many senior citizens, it was noted. State calculations suggest an acceptable rate for the metropolitan area would be $275.

SAVINGS PLANS

5¼% Daily-Interest Savings Security Bank's "daily interest" savings account earns 5¼% annually, from day of deposit to day of withdrawal. Minimum balance $5.00. The interest is compounded daily and paid quarterly, and statements are mailed to you semi-annually. Customers maintaining a $500 minimum balance qualify for a no service charge checking account.

CERTIFICATE PLANS

5½% Security Time Passbook Earns 5½% annual interest, compounded daily to yield 5.65% annually; maturing every calendar quarter.* Initial minimum deposit $5.00. Add $1 or more at any time. Customers maintaining a $500 minimum balance qualify for a no service charge checking account.

6% Certificate of Deposit $500 or more earns 6% annual interest, with 1, 1½ or 2-year maturities.* Interest paid every 6 months.

6½% Certificate of Deposit $500 or more earns 6½% annual interest, with 2½, 3 or 3½-year maturities.* Interest paid every 6 months.

7¼% Certificate of Deposit $500 or more earns 7¼% annual interest, with 4-year maturity.* Interest paid every 6 months.

7½% Certificate of Deposit $500 or more earns 7½% annual interest, with 6-year maturity.* Interest paid every 6 months.

7¾% Certificate of Deposit $500 or more earns 7¾% annual interest, with 8-year maturity.* Interest paid every 6 months.

4-Year Money Market Certificate $500 minimum, 4-year maturity.* Rate is 1¼% below yield for 4-year government securities as determined monthly by the Treasury Department. Rate at which you open your certificate remains fixed until maturity. Interest compounded daily and paid quarterly.

Money Market Certificate $10,000 minimum, 26-week maturity. Rate at which you open your certificate remains fixed until maturity. Rate changes every Thursday; call 478-4000 for current rate. Federal regulations prohibit the compounding of interest during the term of the account. Early withdrawal results in loss of interest on the sum withdrawn.

*Federal regulations require a loss-of-interest penalty for early withdrawal from time or certificate accounts. For deposits having an original maturity date of one year or less, the penalty is the loss of three months interest on the amount withdrawn. For deposits having an original maturity date of more than one year, the penalty is the loss of six months interest on the amount withdrawn.

CHECKING

A checking account is a convenient method of handling your finances. There are many good reasons for having a Security Bank of Novi checking account. You can pay bills by mail, or pay in person without carrying extra cash. Your statement helps you keep track of your budget and, unlike cash, you have a record of where your money goes.

Thrifty-150 Account This account requires a minimum balance of only $150 (or an average monthly balance of $400). Write as many checks and make as many deposits as you wish — with no service charges. A monthly statement is provided. If your balance falls below the required minimums, you pay a 75¢ monthly maintenance fee and 15¢ per check.

No Service Charge Checking Just maintain a $500 minimum balance in a 5½% Security Time Passbook account or in your regular 5¼% Savings Account and write as many checks as you wish with no service charges. If your balance falls below $500, you pay a 75¢ monthly maintenance charge and 15¢ per check on the checking account.

Dime-A-Time® Checking This is a most economical means of maintaining a checking account. A minimum balance is not required and you pay only for each check you write at 10¢ per check plus a monthly maintenance charge of 75¢.

Check Security This service adds overdraft protection to your Security Bank checking account. If you should need to write a check for more than your checking account balance, Check Security will cover it by adding money to your checking account (in increments of $100), and charging this "cash advance" to your Security Bank VISA or Master Charge account. You can apply for Check Security at our office.

Note. There is a $5.00 charge every time a check is returned for insufficient funds or for a stop payment order (A verbal stop payment order is good for 14 days and may be extended to six months when requested in writing. Stop payment orders can also be renewed for $5.00 per six month period.)

LOANS

At Security Bank of Novi obtaining a loan is convenient and simple. We can provide the money for any worthwhile purpose, and whatever the reason, we'll help you arrange the financing with flexible terms that suit your individual needs.

Installment Loans A regular installment loan is the easy way to manage the big expenditures in your life . . . a car, boat or camper; an improvement loan to modernize, expand or insulate your home; a personal loan for vacation, education or medical or other emergencies. If it's important to you, then it's important to us. Simply fill out an installment loan application at our Security Bank office.

Phone-A-Loan® For extra convenience in applying for your installment loan, simply call 478-4000 and ask for "Phone-A-Loan." A Security Bank loan specialist will take your application quickly and confidentially over the phone. Your request receives immediate attention, and you'll be able to pick up your money at our office . . . sometimes the next day.

Business Loans Loans specifically designed to serve the needs of businesses and professional people are available at Security Bank of Novi. Both secured and unsecured loans can be made with the amount and terms tailored to your particular needs. Ask for complete details.

BANK CARDS

Security Bank of Novi offers you the convenience of using both major world-wide charge cards, with just one statement and one monthly payment. Issued by Security Bank and Trust Company, the cards give you the purchasing power of both VISA and Master Charge in a convenient one-statement account. You pay only one monthly bill saving time, postage and checking account charges.

Security Bank of Novi also offers Check Security — which can turn your Security Bank of Novi checking account overdraft into an automatic loan on your charge card account. For information about VISA/BankAmericard, Master Charge and Check Security, call 478-4000.
