TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

Jennifer's first

Now a week old, Jennifer Alice Taylor arrived at 6:27 p.m. January 2, capturing the First Baby of 1980 title in Northville. She is the first child of Dan and Diane Taylor of 21107

Students are pessimistic

By ELLEN SPONSELLER

It has been said that for the first time in American history children today cannot expect that their standard of living as adults will be higher than that of their parents.

At least three Northville high school seniors agree. Ask Kay Manley, 17, Lisa Moulds, 17, and Jim McGraw, 18, if they think they will be able to afford a house like their parents' and they look at you like you are crazy.

"We'll all be living in apartments," Jim said. "There is no way unless your relatives die and leave you the property. Look at all the people making $60,000 a year and living from paycheck to paycheck."

In an interview Monday at Northville High School the three students said they do not expect to be able to ever buy a house, aren't sure they will be able to get a job even with a college degree, aren't certain if they will even be able

better things get,
the worse they are* to afford a family and aren't sure whether ominous world events will leave them a world to live in at all.

In the face of an uncertain future they plan to get through it as best they can, live for today and cling to families as the only certainty.

The trio's comments are hardly the basis for scientific results but in many ways they are representative of their class.

Kay will attend Michigan State University in the fall and hopes to become a veterinarian, plans to stay single for a long while and isn't sure about having children.

Jim, on the other hand, is engaged, not interested in college, hopes to become a skilled tradesman and spend more time with his family than making money.

And Lisa is trying to decide whether to use money she saved for college to travel or to study, wants both a career and a family and can't see worrying about security.

Shyly, because someone asked them, they'll speak of their dreams. Yes, they are thinking about how the world affects them.

With the optimism of youth they want to travel, study, are pretty sure they will be able to make it themselves even though they think they will never be rich.

But with a pessimism and resignation strange for their age they predict severe energy and natural resource shortages in the coming decades will transform their lives and cut their standard of living. Most serious of all both Kay and Lisa agreed they would probably see a nuclear war in their lifetimes.

"It seems that progress is just leading to worse things rather than better things," Kay said. "It seems like the better things get, the worse they are."

The three gave good marks to the United States as "the best country in the world" even though it has "messed up a lot of things."

Township proposal on the line

Thrifty Acres owners to fight rezoning bid

If township planners have their way a Meijer Thrifty Acres may never be built in Northville Township.

At a public hearing January 22 at the township hall, 41600 Six Mile, planners will hear comments on the proposed rezoning of land parcels in three separate areas from various business and office designations to single family residential.

Meijers' 35-acre parcel makes up just a small portion of the area at Eight Mile and Haggerty, which stretches south to Seven Mile.

The other parcels are located at Six Mile and Winchester — adjacent to the township hall — and along Five Mile between Haggerty and Bradner.

The Meijers parcel currently is zoned B-3 (regional business), while the remainder of the property on Haggerty is OS-1 (office service).

The Six Mile parcel is zoned B-2 (general business) and the Five Mile property is B-1 (local business).

The planning commission, in its recently adopted revised master plan, designated the entire southwest corner of Eight Mile and Haggerty as single family residential.

"The planning commission is of the opinion that regional centers are not needed in the township, and in accordance with the planning policy goals endorsed by the board of trustees and stated in the master plan, it initiated action to remove such zoning," said William Bohan, commission chairman.

"Planning commission members opted for convenience centers rather than regional or comparison shopping areas."

Meijer purchased the 35-acre parcel in 1972 and has since spent over $500,000 to clear the land and build a base for a new Meijer Thrifty Acres.

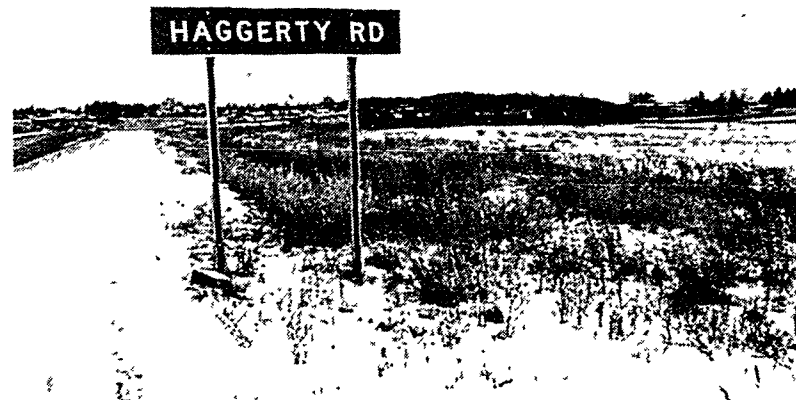

The corporation argues that it has an excellent location for such a shopping complex and it is strongly opposed to the rezoning.

"We have a substantial amount of money invested in that site in addition to the original cost of purchasing the land," Meijers spokesman John Stevenson told The Record last week.

"And the township would benefit greatly by the increased tax base and shopping opportunities."

Stevenson said he planned to meet with township officials to discuss the proposed rezoning and added, "you can be sure we will be at the public hearing."

X-rated movie here draws public criticism

The X-rated movie that played recently at the Marquis Theatre came under fire Monday night when a petition protesting the film's showing was presented to city council.

City officials shared citizen concern but played down their own indignation out of concern for the owners' financial problems resulting from poor public attendance at family-type presentations at the city's only theater.

The movie, "The Last Tango in Paris," starring Marlon Brando, played at midnight on Friday and Saturday, December 28 and 29.

Mayor Paul Vernon, who voiced disappointment that the film had been shown here, expressed certainty that such movies are not likely to become common fare. He suggested the recent showing represented an act of desperation on the part of the operators "who have their backs up against the wall."

The mayor hinted that the theater is in imminent danger of closing because it has been unable to attract the patronage needed to sustain it.

Ironically, it was the public, supported by the business community, that helped persuade the new owners — Inga and Jay Zayti — to invest many thousands dollars in the building and to reopen it, commented Council member Stanley Johnston during a council recess.

Despite the fanfare and public praise for the owners' enterprise, attendance — except for a relatively few shows — has been poor.

Thus, council softened its official reaction.

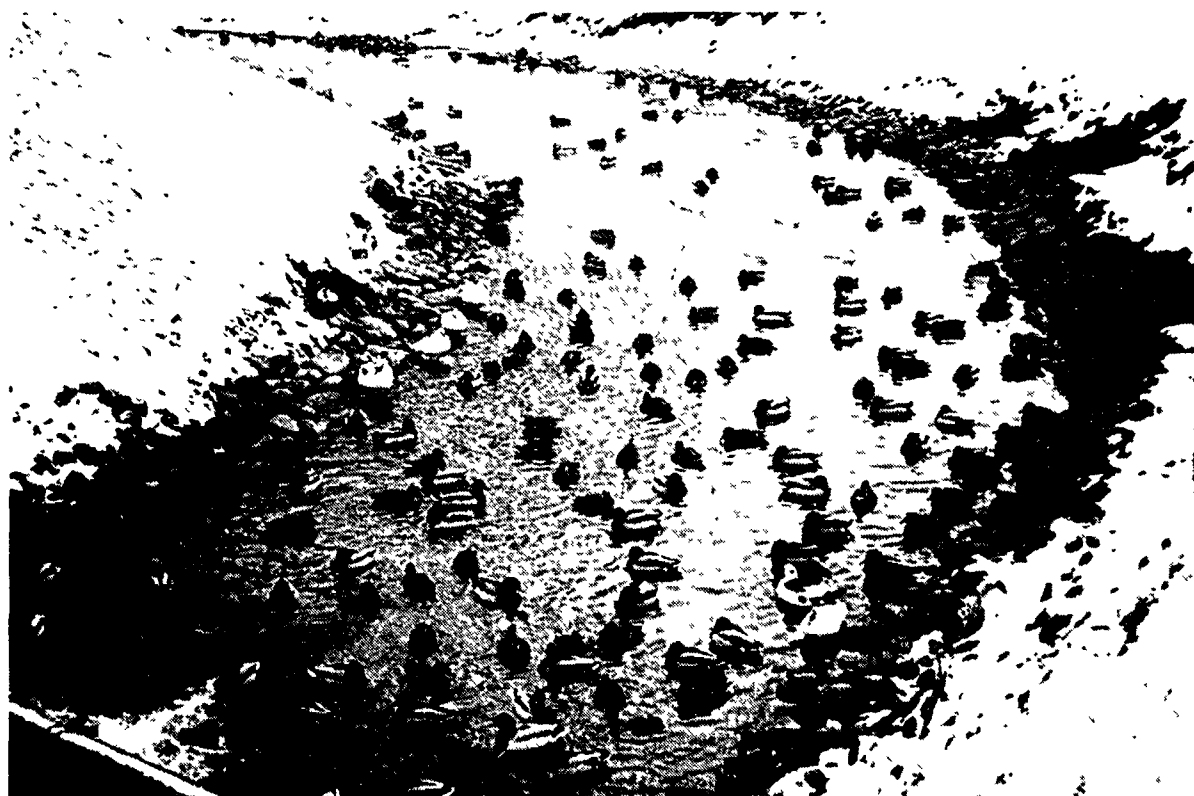

It authorized the mayor to speak personally with the owners and to point out that the film shown may have violated the city's ordinance. Vernon said he also would report to the Zaytis that a committee has been formed to study ways of making the theater an area-wide center for performing arts.

Relative to the film itself, none of the council members admitted having seen it. But some noted that the movie, which had been nominated for a major film award, is not the "hard core" variety the public generally associates with "X" ratings.

Nevertheless, officials voiced displeasure over the owners' decision to show the film.

"I've received more negative comment about it than I've received for any other issue since I've been on the council,"

Snowbirds' delight

Just when many people were beginning to think, hopefully, that Northville's unusually mild winter would slide right into spring, the weather suddenly changed producing one of the few snowfalls of the season and its coldest temperatures. But not everyone was disappointed — especially those who were gifted with skis, sleds, and toboggans for Christmas — and, apparently, delighted "snowbirds" at the Ford Valve plant millpond. Staff photo by Jane Hale.

'Square' makes second debut as wholesaler's showroom

The shops that sell to shops will open for business here January 20.

More than 90 manufacturer's representatives will hold their first sale for retail merchants from January 20 through the 24th at the Northville Square manufacturer's showrooms, formerly the Northville Square shopping center on West Main.

A group of gift and housewares wholesalers called Michigan Association of Gift Salesmen (MAGS) are the collective owners of Northville Square. They hope to draw Detroit-area retail merchants to Northville for once-a-month shows.

Sorry, but the public will not be admitted to Northville Square for a look at the changes, said Steve Gossard, president of MAGS. He said it would not be fair to retailers if the public were allowed to examine the wholesale prices of goods.

"This is a business," Gossard said. "We sell to the people here and if we let the public see our prices they would complain about the stores' legitimate markups."

Northville Square has changed drastically since MAGS bought it last summer. In place of the wide-halled mall both first and second floors are now a maze of halls with 92 showrooms, each about the size of a school classroom.

Ninety-one of the showrooms are rented and each manufacturer is responsible for finishing its own showroom. Consequently, rooms are a conglomeration of various styles and colors. Some thick-carpeted rooms give off the feel of ritzy elegance while others seem more like cheerful country shops.

This week the showrooms in various stages of completion are buzzing with workers. In one, kitchen utensils line the wall from floor to ceiling. In another, huge dried flower arrangements sit on cement until carpeting arrives.

One wholesaler will be selling nothing but gift boxes and wrapping paper. Another room with blue walls and carpet offers glimmering crystal ware. Still others are piled high with Italian and Oriental imports: dishes and globes, fans and fancy boxes.

There are basically two types of wholesalers who will be operating the shops.

Either manufacturers themselves—such as Hummelwerk, Ottagiri and Baker Store Equipment — set up

Is better life dream over?

They say if their generation learns from this generation not to be so greedy, wasteful, non-religious and selfish that the 80s and beyond can turn out well.

But by their own admission they call their generation selfish and hypocritical and say things probably won't change until people are forced to change because of energy shortages, inflation and war.

"It seems to me the world is going to end pretty soon anyway because of the war (in Afghanistan)," Lisa said.

"We're going to have a war but after it everyone who is left will appreciate things a lot more," Kay added. "Some nut is going to drop the bomb."

"I don't think it would be a nuclear war," Jim said. "It probably will be more like Vietnam or Korea. A lot of economists want a war. It would be good for business."

"If a war comes and if they draft me I'd go to Canada," Kay said. "Or I'd get pregnant. I'd have to see it as a really good cause before I would fight."

"In the 80s it seems like people will be just looking out for themselves when they should be looking out for each other," Lisa said. "A lot of things depend on how things go in the 80s. You should live to live, not to work. So many people just live for money when they have too many possessions."

The three students agreed that their own generation is no better at conservation than their parents.

"Americans are pigs. We waste so much," Lisa said. "We've got to do something about it. We'll ruin ourselves if we don't."

"Teenagers are so hypocritical though," Kay said. "If they don't suffer for it, they don't care."

The three students see ecology as only part of building a better future. They see a need for building families that won't fall apart in divorce, for better social security laws that will assure that money will still be there when they reach age 65 and for some type of medical insurance.

And though they agree that children cost a fortune to raise (Jim estimated $100,000 by age 18; Kay agreed that they had cost "at least that much") all three see children a probable part of their future.

"The family unit is shot to hell here," Kay said.

"Everyone should be required to go to counseling before they are married."

showrooms or manufacturer's representatives set up showrooms which feature several manufacturers' wares, explained Don McKrell, vice-president of MAGS.

"Some manufacturers are cottage industries and cannot afford catalogues," McKrell explained. "The gift business is so trendy. For example, when the smile face came in, by the time a small company would get a brochure out, the fad was over. A manufacturer's representative can represent several of these small companies. We work strictly on percentage. If we don't sell, we don't make money." He said that a group such as MAGS is beneficial to both manufacturers and retailers.

MAGS arose from the ashes of another such company in Detroit, McKrell said. The first group started in 1968.

In MAGS, every showroom owner is a member of the non-profit corporation that owns Northville Square, McKrell said. Each owner pays rent and an assessment for utilities.

To get into the merchandise show January 20 a person must be a legitimate retail merchant, McKrell said.

Police arrest methods prompt parent protest

It may be a case of being at the wrong place at the wrong time.

But township police say a 15-year-old student at Meads Mill Junior High will face charges of unlawful entry, despite protests by the boy's father.

The youth, a member of the school basketball team, was arrested by township police January 5 when he exited the junior high school located at 16700 Franklin.

He told police he went to the school to get some gym clothes that were needed for a church basketball game on Sunday.

The youth said some of the doors were locked, but he found one to be open.

When he entered the building a silent alarm was tripped and police responded. They found the boy inside the building and apprehended him when he exited, police reports said.

Nothing was found to be missing and no damage was found in the school, according to police.

The boy's father, Peter Khoury, said his main concern is the way the officers acted and "the cruelty he showed toward my son."

"One of the officers pulled a gun on my son and said he was lucky he didn't run or he may have shot him," the angry father said. "I want the charges dropped and someone to sit down with the officer and talk to him."

"This is no way to treat a young boy," he continued. "My son was scared to death and he didn't do anything wrong. The building should have been properly locked, then this never would have happened."

Township Police Chief Ronald Nisun said the officers were merely doing their job.

Two nine-year-old boys were arrested for vandalizing the school garage less than a week ago.

Township Supervisor Donald Thomson, who called the township trustees together Monday to review the situation, said "We are going to investigate it, but I haven't even had a chance to talk to the officers yet."

"We can't make any decisions until we talk to everyone involved," he said.

Chief Nisun said the youth will be required to appear in juvenile court to face the charges.

GOOD TIME FOR WINE

Getting into wine tasting? It is a good idea to know a little of its vocabulary. Wine drinkers speak of bouquet (original and acquired), body, depth and balance. The original bouquet, consisting of fresh smells, comes from a wine's cask life. Acquired bouquet is often mustier and comes from a wine's bottle life. Body has to do with water in the wine while depth refers to aftertaste and how long it lasts. Balance refers to the way all elements work together. So, a good wine is one where the wine tastes good; a great one is one that is great.

A wine tasting party can be a fun way to spend the evening with friends. # Trunk reveals 1909 "Farmer of the Year" saga

By BETTY MASSON

We may think that concern for clean air is a modern development, but a yellowed newspaper article found in the bottom of a trunk reveals that it was a consideration even in the early 1900s.

The article, from the New York Tribune Farmer of September 30, 1909, is an account of the career of a Plymouth farmer, Thomas Thompson. So successful was Thompson, he was chosen "Farmer of the Year," and thus won nation-wide recognition.

Written by N. A. Clapp of Northville, the story extols the beauty of Thompson's choice of location on a hill on North Territorial Road. Here, says Clapp, there was a good elevation, making not only for good land drainage, but also "excellent air drainage, which is conducive to good health."

Clapp felt that farming had other virtues. "It is becoming very popular for men who can command a sufficient amount of means to buy either a farm for a home or a suburban home in which to raise their families. The healthfulness of a properly arranged farm home surroundings and the freedom from alluring influences for children seem to be more and more appreciated."

In those days, living on a farm also meant that it was an advantage to have a lot of children to help with the work.

Thompson had 10, and it was in a trunk owned by his second daughter, 95-year-old Stella Nelson, that the article turned up.

Mrs. Nelson lived in South Lyon all her married life, and her daughter, Mrs. Bess Neifert of New Hudson found the clipping when her mother moved recently to a nursing home.

Mrs. Neifert is passing along a copy to the Plymouth Historical Museum as an excellent description of what farming was like at the turn of the century.

The Thompson farm, which Thompson called Fair View Farm, covered some 133 acres about one-quarter mile east of Beck. The original farmhouse was torn down, and a large brick home was built on the site in 1928. It was known as the Horton Farm, and the house is now occupied by Dr. and Mrs.

Gary Hall. The address is 46350 North Territorial.

Although the farm passed out of the Thompson family in 1911, Mrs. Neifert and her mother have driven by often to recall the good old days. So have two cousins who live in the area, Laura Hicks of Northville and Doug Bolton of Northville Township. Their mother was the eighth child, Elberta.

According to Clapp, their grandfather was born "of parents of limited means" in Durham, England, in 1847.

He worked on farms in England and "imbibed a love for farm life."

When he was 21, he "resolved to cast his lot in America."

He worked for farmers in the Rochester area, and seized his opportunity when "in the panic of 1873 and for a few years following, the prices for farm products were low and money was hard to secure." Thompson was able to run several farms on shares.

He spent two years in Washtenaw County "studying the capabilities of farms and the advantages for markets, as well as for social advantages."

According to the article, Thompson bought his farm in about 1884 for $3,000 down and a mortgage of $4,900. "By good management, the debt was lifted in a few years and improvements were begun."

Thompson practiced crop rotation, using first clover, then corn, oats and wheat and clover again. In another rotation, barley came after corn, and then clover again.

The article notes that at that time many farmers had given up growing wheat because it was unprofitable. Thompson differed, and considered it a good money crop. Furthermore, he found the straw almost indispensable.

In 1906, his books showed that he got 40 bushels to the acre; in 1907, 29; and in 1908, 35.

In 1908, he had 55 bushels of oats from nine acres; 190 bushels of barley from four acres; and 99 bushels of peas from three acres.

The large crops of clover and grain were fed to a herd of dairy cows and young cattle, the horses, a small flock of sheep and "quite a large number of swine."

Manure was "handled in a manner to get the greatest possible benefit from it." Thompson used commercial fertilizers "when conditions seemed to indicate that they could be profitably used."

To give some indications of the economics of farming in those days, the writer pointed out that Thompson kept 15 cows. Milk from the dairy was taken to the creamery in Plymouth. It was separated and the cream was sold. The skim milk was taken home to feed the calves and pigs.

Thompson estimated that his net income from the farm "during the excellent year of 1908 was over $1,800 over and above expenses."

The average income from cows was about $80 each, or $1,200 a year. Hogs sold from the farm brought in $760, and the income from the 25 sheep was between $150 and $200.

Other sources of income were sales of wheat, poultry and apples from eight acres of orchard.

"It is no wonder that Mr. Thompson refused an offer of $90 an acre for his farm during the last winter," concludes Clapp.

The writer calculated that the $1,800 net profit was more than 12 percent return on the value of the plant and its equipment. "The safety of the investment makes farming one of the best business ventures in which a man of the right tastes and executive ability can engage," he said.

He laid much of Thompson's success to his careful keeping of records. "I was told that any item in regard to any crop, the purchase or sale of any crop or part of it, or any stock during the 25 years that he has occupied the farm, can be looked up and the exact results of the transaction known if necessary."

He described the farmhouse as being very large, "much larger than most farm houses." There was a porch on the east side, looking over the village of Plymouth; on the south, looking across the farm; and on the west, looking towards the barns.

The barns were "among the largest and best in the country. The main cattle barn also held hay and grain and the whole basement was stables."

There also was a horse barn containing an area for the storage of farm machinery.

According to his descendants, Thompson sold the farm in 1911, and moved to one on Seven Mile in Northville, near the present site of the Fish Hatchery Park.

The family also owned a farm on Six Mile and Pontiac Trail. This was looked after by a son, with a daughter going along to look after the housework.

Farm life, as Mrs. Nelson recalls it, and as Mrs. Hicks learned from her mother, was hard work, but fun, too. The oldest child, Gladys, had to help her father with the work of the farm, while Mrs. Nelson was delegated to help her mother in the house. She became the seamstress of the family.

The third child was a daughter, too. She was named Isabel, and was followed by William, John (who died young, probably before 1909), Virginia, Walter, Elberta, Myra and Thomas.

Besides Mrs. Nelson, three others survive. They are William Thompson, 87, of Highland; Walter Thompson, 85, of Palo Alto, California; Thomas

First Baby of 1980

Jennifer Taylor captures title

Jennifer Alice Taylor, Northville's First Baby of 1980, also is the first child of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Taylor of 21107 Stanstead in Northville Estates.

Jennifer Alice was born at 6:27 p.m. last Wednesday, January 2, at Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak.

Mrs. Taylor is the former Diane Crain.

Jennifer's birth weighs the score even more heavily in favor of girls in the 24-year-old contest. There now are 15 girls to nine boys in the first baby derby.

Although Jennifer weighed a healthy eight pounds at birth and is 20½ inches long, she was not expected for two more weeks.

The birth was reported to The Northville Record last week by her dad, who is vice-president of finance for Federal-Hewitt Corporation.

Her mother previously had been employed in the brake division of Eaton Corporation.

Also welcoming our First Baby of the new decade are Greg and Kellie Taylor, the father's children by a previous marriage.

Grandparents are Mrs. Bertha Taylor of Pontiac and Allan and Joann Crain of Livonia. The baby has two great-grandparents, William DeHaan and Mrs. Minnie Crain, both of Livonia.

Dr. John Jennings of Royal Oak, an obstetrician, was the attending physician. His office confirmed that Jennifer arrived January 2.

A dozen gifts, in addition to the title, go to Jennifer and her mother.

Jennifer takes over the title from Michael Mickalacki, First Baby of 1979.

A girl, Ruth Ann Edgin, was the very first winner as the contest began in 1957. This may have been an omen that baby girls would continue to capture the title almost twice as often as boys.

Other winners through the years are:

1959, Timothy McDonald
1960, Danny Rolph
1961, Tamera Ann Macdonald
1962, Kimberly Ann Berger

Novi arrests man, 28 for shotgun murder

Novi police have arrested a 28-year-old white male in connection with the Saturday evening shooting death of his roommate.

Police reported Andrew Lalomia, 24, of 21150 Old Novi Road, was killed Saturday when he was shot through the neck with a 20 gauge "slug round" shot gun.

Identification of the man believed to be responsible for the shooting has been withheld pending the issuance of warrants. A third resident in the house on Old Novi Road reportedly was a witness to the shooting.

The incident apparently occurred at approximately 10:30 p.m. and is believed to have resulted from a disagreement regarding financial arrangements in the home shared by the three men, according to police.

Novi Police Detective Robert Starnes said the man believed to be responsible for the shooting "made certain statements on his responsibility for the shooting" when he was taken into custody.

However, "certain circumstances" require further investigation before the case can be presented to the prosecutor, Starnes said.

Police are taking statements and seeking additional witnesses who may have been at the scene of the shooting earlier in the evening, Starnes said.

The detective indicated he expects to conclude the investigation by the end of the week.

Northville loses case

Pay teacher, state rules

By ELLEN SPONSELLER

The Northville School district has been ordered to pay a former Northville school teacher 14 days back pay for sick leave she took when pregnant, the Michigan Civil Rights Commission has ruled.

The school district was notified Wednesday that it must "cease and desist from discriminating against female teacher Mary Ellen Shaughnessy" and pay her for time off she took to deliver her baby in October 1977.

Shaughnessy was an Institutions' Special Education teacher from October 1975 through May 1978. She filed a complaint with the civil rights commission against the school district in February 1977. Though she now resides in Colorado the case was heard in July 1979 and decided in her favor.

Director of Personnel Burton Knighton said the school district thought it was not legally obligated to pay pregnancy leave until a new state statute went into effect in May of 1978.

"Our interpretation is that we were not legally responsible to pay pregnant teachers sick leave until May 1978. But the Civil Rights commission ruled retroactively to October 1977.

"Since that time we have renegotiated the contract in compliance with the most recent state laws.

The new contract (negotiated in September 1979) is in accordance with the law so teachers can use sick days for pregnancy leave," Knighton said.

Shaughnessy had accumulated 17 days of sick leave and paid personal holidays, the commission discovered. It ruled that she should have been allowed to use those days for pregnancy leave.

The school district has no other discrimination cases pending at this time, Knighton said.

But both Knighton and Northville Education Association President Barbara LeBoeuf said that the retroactive ruling by the commission in this case could open the door for several similar cases.

"I would suspect that this might have some bearing on other cases where people asked for sick leave and could not get it," LeBoeuf said. "I would say there are lots of other similar cases."

"This ruling could be very costly to the school district," Knighton said. "We don't want to establish the principal of paying retroactively to 1978. This could open the door to all kinds of claims."

Federal courts are now hearing appeal cases similar to Shaughnessy's to determine whether it is legal to order an employer to pay restitution if the event happened before anti-discrimination laws took effect.

Ski tour planned at park

A naturalist-led ski tour will be held at Kensington Metropark near New Hudson on Sunday, January 20 at 9 a.m.

Park Naturalist Steve Horn will talk about various topics — park history, geology, and wildlife — during the short stops along one of the ski trails covering five miles.

The ski tour will begin from the parking lot of the nature center. Participants must provide their own skis.

Advance registration is required for this free program, and vehicle entry permits are required.

AARP to install officers

New officers will be elected and installed at the January 23 meeting of the Plymouth-Northville Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons at the Plymouth Cultural Center, 525 Farmer.

Frederick W. Bradley, current president, has served the maximum allowable term of two years.

The meeting follows a sack lunch at noon. The chapter is hosting the local Tax Aide training course, given by the Federal Internal Revenue Service and instructors from the State of Michigan.

The federal course will be held January 9-11 starting at 9:30 a.m. each day at the cultural center.

The state session will be at 9:30 a.m. January 15.

Non-members are welcome to the extent that seating will permit.

Old paper tells of farm

Thompson, 82, of Medford, Oregon.

Except for two brothers who went west, the rest of the family stayed in Michigan, and there are Thompson cousins in Highland, Brighton, New Boston and South Lyon, as well as in Northville.

Thompson himself became an invalid; both his legs had to be amputated, possibly because of diabetes, speculates Mrs. Hicks. He and his wife left the farm, and lived on Main Street in Northville until his death in 1927.

But the family has remained close, and both Mrs. Neifert and Mrs. Hicks reported finding many, many letters and postcards from brothers and sisters among their mother's possessions.

For the surviving children and the cousins, the "good elevation" on North Territorial always will have a special place in their memories.

City chooses insurance

Insurance contracts were let this week by the city in the wake of bidding on motor vehicle, general liability and umbrella coverage.

In naming the winning bidders, council expressed surprise and delight that the insurance cost increases were minimal given recent history of the insurance market for municipalities.

Of special interest to council, was the umbrella insurance package submitted by Les Bowden & Associates.

Bowden's winning low bid of $8,200 was on $5 million coverage. Last year's cost for $3 million coverage was $11,628.

Last year the premium on umbrella insurance increased so greatly that council dropped its coverage from $5 million to $3 million to minimize the increase. This year's bidding persuaded officials to return to $5 million coverage.

Had council stayed at $3 million, the premium quoted by Bowden would have been $7,000 — a substantial decrease from last year's cost.

Other bidders for the umbrella coverage, which insures the city against claims not covered by its other insurances, included R. Duane LaMoreaux, who did not bid on $5 million but quoted a price of $11,628 for $3 million, and Huttenlochers Kerns Norvell, Inc., which came in with a price of $7,956 on $3 million. Huttenlochers did not bid a $5 million package.

Bowden also was awarded the contract for general liability insurance, on the basis of its "more stable" three year package. The price is $20,803, with a $100 deductible.

Huttenlochers came in with a lower $18,594 bid, but it offered only one-year coverage on the liability line of the insurance with a $1,000 deductible. Breakdown of its price was $5,294 for property for three years and $13,300 for liability for one year.

The other insurance contract let by council was for motor vehicle coverage. The city's present carrier, Paul Folino's State Farm agency, was the lone bidder at $14,121.22.

In awarding the contract to Folino, council noted that the actual premium probably will be $1,000 or more less because of anticipated changes in some vehicle deductibles.

Last year's motor vehicle insurance premium was $11,730.

Relative to council's voiced concern over coverage of recreation department activities, Bowden said the problem has been resolved and that official letters from the insurance companies of the city and township would be received by municipal officials soon.

Basically, the letters well tell city and township officials that their insurance companies have agreed to split responsibility in the event of a claim. If the claim occurs in the city, the city's company will pay any loss and if it happens in the township the township's insurance will pay, he said.

Bowden also explained that the city's liability insurance covers non-paid commission and board members as well as paid city employees.

Patient hangs himself at Northville State

A longtime resident of the Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital took his own life January 3, hospital officials confirmed yesterday.

The black male patient hung himself with his own belt in his room late Thursday afternoon, for no apparent reason, officials said.

"It is no mystery," John Reynolds, hospital director told The Record Tuesday. "It was a typical suicide."

"But everyone was extremely surprised because he seemed to be doing so well."

"People who knew him found it hard to believe," Reynolds continued. "He was a working patient and got along well with everyone."

Officials would not release the name of the victim.

Northville State Police said they responded to a call about 5 p.m. Thursday regarding the death at the hospital, which is located just east of the Northville State Police Post on Six Mile.

When they arrived they discovered a "noose of some type" at the scene, police said, but could not be sure the victim had died by hanging.

Hospital officials later confirmed the suicide as a hanging.

No one even takes divorce or marriage seriously anymore," Lisa added.

All three said that out of economic necessity their spouses would work throughout the marriage.

"We'll both have to work," said Jim, who plans to marry after high school graduation. "I want a good-paying job but I want to be able to spend time with my kids."

"You'll have to decide who will work and who will stay home with the kids,"

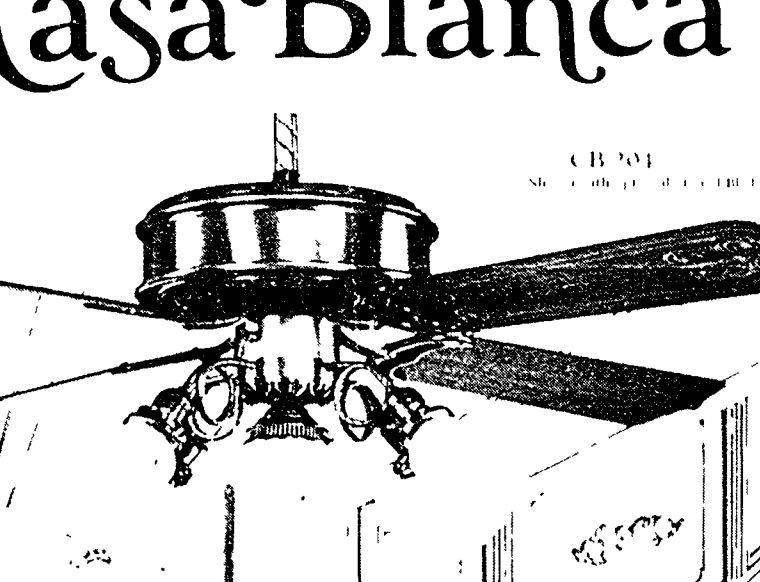

Lisa added. "If you stay home you have a closer relationship with your children. If you work, you are more self-fulfilled."

"It depends on how things go in the 80s. What happens is going to determine a lot about my life," Lisa reflected. "Sometimes I think it will be good. Other times I think it will be bad. But if it is good, I'm going to have kids. And I'll bring them up right so they care about ecology and not about being rich."

No reprimands for wall drawings

First the kids painted all over the gym walls. Then they painted in the walls. But they didn't get a reprimand, they got complimented. It's all part of the Plus program for gifted art students.

About 40 students from Winchester and Moraine Elementary schools are involved in painting murals on the school walls as part of their program.

"These children are gifted in artistic ability," said teacher Shirley Talmadge. "They are in fifth or sixth grades in this program. But I would be able to pick out the gifted as early as first grade. You can tell by their attention to detail and their talent. And even at that age you can see that they are always looking for new ways to do things."

Ten students from each fifth and sixth grade at the schools have been selected for the program. Sixth graders at Moraine painted a gym mural on the theme of the 1980 Olympics. Fifth graders and the sixth graders at Winchester are painting on the theme, "International Year of the Child."

Talmadge teaches both the gifted program and the regular art program at Winchester and Moraine.

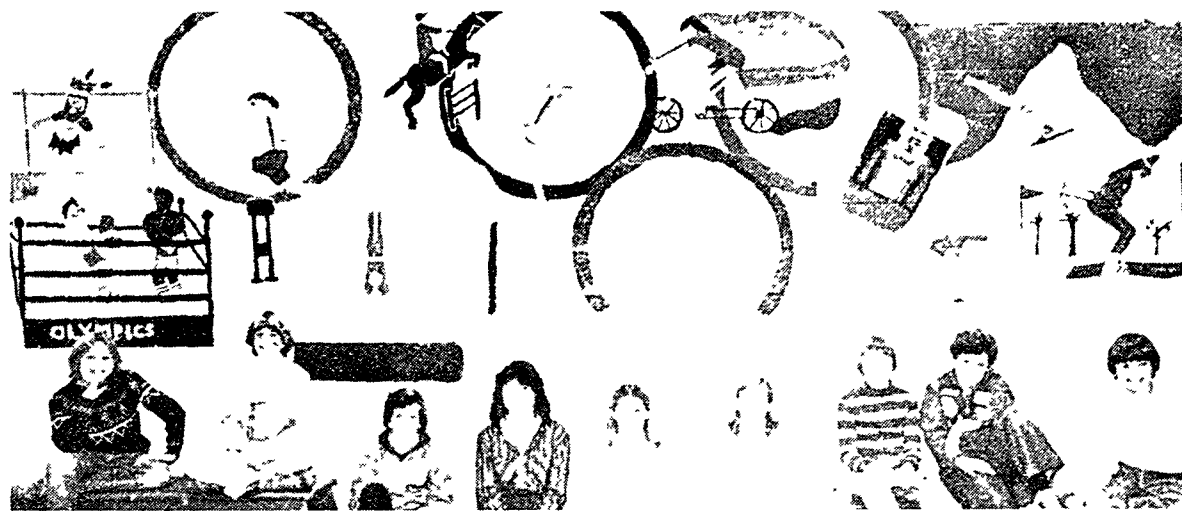

Alice Kipfer teaches at Amerman and Silver Springs.

Talmadge said that the one hour per week she spends with the students is not enough and that actually there are many more students who could qualify for the art Plus program if she had the time.

"If I could have an hour every day for each grade I could get more children involved in this," she said. "We just have more gifted students than we can take."

Teachers Bill Mills, Al Pat, Marian Petroff, Muriel Ross, Pat Keeler and Steve Sutherland have students from their Moraine Classes involved in the program.

Fifth and sixth grade students from Winchester who are involved in the program come from classes of teachers Ron Bird, Wendy Kelley, Jan Shetler, Bill Lentz, Gary Hukka and Rosemary Rondello.

GOOD EXCUSE—Students from Moraine and Winchester Elementary schools had a good excuse for painting on the walls recently. They are all gifted art students painting murals as part of the "Plus Program", taught by Shirley Talmadge. Moraine's sixth graders did a gym mural of the 1980 Olympics while Winchester students followed the theme, "International Year of the Child."

Township SEV causes 16 percent tax hike

Due to the "rapid and sizable" increase in residential values during 1978 and the first half of 1979, township residents will pay almost 16 percent more in taxes in 1980.

That's the word from the Wayne County Bureau of Taxation, which recently notified the township clerk's office of the factor increase.

The increased value of homes has forced a 15.79 percent increase in the State Equalized Valuation (SEV) unit factor, the letter stated.

The factor used to determine the amount of tax to be paid in 1980 will be 2.20 rather than the 1.90 figure used in 1979.

According to the Bureau, the residential true cash value in the township has risen from $192,408,350 in 1979 to $225,337,600 in 1980.

This tax hike does not include any additional millage which taxpayers might approve during the year.

The increase reflects only the taxes added due to the increased unit factor — which basically is the result of the increase in value of residential, commercial and industrial properties located in the township in 1978 and the first half of 1979.

For a township resident who paid $2,000 in taxes in 1979, the increased factor means he will pay about $2,320 in 1980.

Seeks efficiency

Hood takes school operations helm

Personnel and operations changes will be made soon to improve school district maintenance, said William Hood, new administrative assistant for operations for the Northville school district last week.

In an interview in his office in the Annex building on West Main, Hood described how he plans to run the office of maintenance and operations in the school district.

"There will be personnel changes but as yet I cannot say what they will be," said Hood on Thursday, two days into the job.

"I have to determine the efficiency of the current system: what are we doing, what we have. Do we need to replace things? Do we need more equipment? I need time."

Hood said a good appearance of the school district buildings is a major target.

"I like to put myself in the position of a parent," Hood said. "Let's say they pull into the school parking lot. What do they see? And then they walk up the path to the door. The doorway catches the parent's eye. And what is behind that door will form the first impression."

"I can't make the hall look good everyday. But somebody in the building can."

Hood feels strongly that talents and morale among maintenance workers should be boosted. "Too many custodians look at themselves as just janitors when they really are much more than that. We are the service people, but they are the pros," Hood said.

Operations Director William Hood

"I don't believe that school districts have given the maintenance and organization groups the good publicity they deserve. I have been told I am stupid to develop in-house talents. But if we have a painter, I don't want him pushing a broom. If we have a good custodian without skills for other jobs, we will make him the best custodian in the district. If they have other talents we will try to use them."

He takes a breath. "There are so many things that should be done immediately. There is some work that has been underway for some time. The annex remodeling is a major project. I imagine I will be involved with that."

As administrative assistant for operations, Hood will be responsible for transportation, maintenance, operations, custodial supplies, personnel evaluation of the service group, equipment needs and training programs within the department.

He also will be responsible for building improvements and safety.

Hood came from the Huron Valley school district where he held a similar job for three years.

"This is a smaller district but the problems are the same. School problems tend to be similar in every district," he said.

Architectural engineering is Hood's strong point. He honed skills with an architectural firm in Detroit and holds a degree in architectural engineering from Lawrence Institute of Technology.

Businessmen to hear priest

The Reverend Ronald Thurner, co-pastor of Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church, will be the principal speaker at the 7 p.m. dinner meeting Friday of the Northville-Livonia-Plymouth Chapter of the Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship.

It will be held at the Plymouth Hilton Inn.

A native of Detroit, Father Thurner completed his work at St. John's Seminary in Plymouth. He has 15 years of pastoral experience.

Since 1973 he has been active in the growth of the charismatic renewal and relates that he has witnessed a fresh move of God's spirit in the church, crossing all denominational lines and bringing excitement to Christians the world over.

The musical portion of the program will be a full gospel song and hymn festival of guitar and vocal, led by Larry and Diane Martin of the local chapter.

They will be joined by Dave Gibbons and Michelle Fournier of Plymouth and Dearborn Heights, respectively.

The meeting at 8 p.m. follows dinner which is $8 a person plus 15 percent gratuity.

Doing the job with 'derring-do'

The Northville school district operations office tucked away in the Annex building on West Main has become somewhat of a home for the district's Great Britain contingent.

New Administrative Assistant for Operations William Hood speaks with a fine Glasgow Scottish accent tempered by 30 years in America. His secretary Iris Langren is from London, England.

Together they add a distinct British flavor (and some would say, class) to school district affairs.

Hood was in the British army during World War II, first came to the United States "just for something to do," and never returned to Scotland except to visit. He lives with his wife and family in Royal Oak.

Langren came from South End, Essex, 14 years ago with her husband.

Langren, hired by the district six months ago, has plunged more than one caller into momentary disorientation when they are connected with her crisp voice speaking Queen's English.

She lives in Northville. By coincidence she was selected to work for Hood.

"It is really quite funny," Langren said. "Some people aren't quite sure they've reached the board of education offices when I answer the phone."

But don't be fooled. Hood's office has the promise of "moxie and derring-do." And Langren's office is hung, not with British flags, but with Pittsburgh Steelers pennants.

School exclusions postponed until March

The deadline for exclusion of improperly immunized students from school has been pushed back from February 4 to March 1, the school district announced this week.

Northville students in grades nine through 12 who have not filled out and returned immunization questionnaires to the school district by March 15 will be excluded from school, said Marie Robertson, school health consultant.

If students aren't immunized against polio, diphtheria, tetanus, measles and rubella by February 4 the district will send information home to parents, Robertson said, regarding free immunization clinics to be held next month at Northville schools.

Students will be able to receive proper shots at Meads Mill Junior High School February 27, Northville High School February 28 and Cooke Junior High School February 29.

For further information on the clinics call the Wayne County Health Department of School Immunization, 729-0210; or Marie Robertson, 349-3400 extension 273.

Mayor predicts fruitful 1980

By MAYOR PAUL R. VERNON
City of Northville

1980 will be an exciting year for the City of Northville because many projects that have been developing during the past several years will now come to fruition.

The Community Library will open for business in the new facility in the Northville City Hall addition.

Northville Square will be fully occupied by tenants who have signed a 10 year lease. The businesses in the completely renovated Square will bring to town many people who will require overnight accommodations and there may be a need for dining and lodging facilities in the City of Northville very soon.

On January 17 bonds for financing the Mainstreet 78 plan will be signed. This is the final step before contracting for work that will begin soon as possible in 1980.

Allen Terrace will be completed with paving of the drives and parking lots which will be done as soon as weather permits in 1980.

A financial institution has purchased the G. E. Miller property at Main and Hutton Streets. Construction of a beautiful new building where the present dealership building is located will begin early in 1980.

Several downtown merchants have committed to improving the exteriors of their stores as soon as Mainstreet 78 construction begins.

The Northville Community Center will be ready for use as a recreation center for the entire community.

The Northville Post Office will build a large addition on the west side of their present facility.

The Northville Driving Club, owner of the racetrack facilities, and management of Northville Downs who lease the property are discussing some major facility improvements that will increase attendance which will mean a larger tax base and more revenues for the City of Northville.

The new fire truck will be delivered in the third quarter of 1980.

Expansion of a local industry into a much larger facility in the City of Northville is in the initial planning stage with construction to begin in 1980.

These are some of the positive views toward 1980 but there also will be some uncertainties.

The faltering economy may defer development of three major residential building projects, but communities that rely heavily on development of open land and subdivisions will be more adversely affected by the faltering economy than will the City of Northville.

Concerns about gasoline will undoubtedly cause many families in the Northville community to curtail their driving and spend more time closer to home for recreation and shopping. Downtown merchants can capitalize on this change by aggressively promoting their merchandise and services at a time when the downtown will be in the limelight because of Mainstreet 78.

Federal revenue sharing will expire at the end of 1980 unless congress renews the program. We must solicit support from our representatives in Washington so that we will continue to get back for local use a portion of the taxes we pay to the federal government.

There is growing evidence there will continue to be efforts by both state and federal government to impose the "Big Brother" concept on local government and infringe on our right to control our own destinies by home rule. We must all constantly be on guard to resist these efforts. Exercising our right to vote and by careful selection of those we want to represent us in government is one way each of us can resist those efforts.

Inflation and rising costs will continue to plague all of us individually in 1980 as we provide for our personal needs but it will continue to plague those of us in government who must provide services to residents of the City of Northville, thus our challenge will be to maintain acceptable services at a minimal cost to the taxpayers.

Yes, 1980 will be an exciting year for the City of Northville and I look forward to it with great enthusiasm because I'm certain we will be able to look back at the beginning of 1981 and say once again that the City of Northville truly has a beautiful past and a promising future.

Backgammon class offered

As proof that backgammon is today's fastest growing board game, the American Backgammon Club of Plymouth reports that it has grown from a membership of 0 to 85 since it was formed last February.

more than a dozen Northville members, meets at 6:30 p.m. Sunday evenings in the Plymouth Hilton lounge.

Club President Michael Kloian will be teaching the game in a workshop at 7:30 p.m. February 6 in Northville. The workshop is sponsored by the Northville Recreation Department which should be called at 349-0203 to register.

He also is teaching the game in February at Cranbrook. A Beyond the Basics course is to be given in Plymouth.

Thieves nab tires

Four tires and rims and some 40 gallons of gasoline were taken January 5 from a dump truck parked near Varbee Excavating, 19275 Gerald, township police reported.

The thieves apparently siphoned the gas from one of two tanks the truck carries, police said.

The estimated value of the stolen goods is over $1,000, police said, the tires worth about $250 each and the gasoline some $40.

An aluminum awning worth some $550 was stolen from a storage area at 50595 Six Mile sometime between December 15 and December 22, township police reported.

The owner said the awning was so big it has to be transported by a pick-up truck or a similar size vehicle.

A 1976 Chevrolet station wagon was vandalized January 5 while parked in the lot at Northville High School, city police reported.

The left side and rear windows appear to have been shot with a BB-gun, police said.
Damage is estimated at $300.

A men's rest room at Northville Downs was set on fire December 4, city police reported.

Security officers, investigating a report of smoke, found a toilet paper dispenser had been set ablaze in a lower east grandstand mens room.

A damage estimate was not yet known, but was believed to be minimal, police said.

Tim stated he could not turn left from Baseline onto the driveway. Councilman Johnston asked if Tim's muffler was that low. Tim stated it was and he could not make the hill today because of the ice.

Mayor Vernon stated Tim had a special problem because his car was so low to the ground. He mentioned too, that streets could not be built to accommodate special cars nor can speed bumps.

Tim asked if the bumps could be adjusted on one side.

Mayor Vernon advised him that anyone coming down the street could cross over and use it. He thanked Tim for coming and sharing his views.

PUBLIC HEARING — PROPOSED ORDINANCE TITLE 7, CHAPTER 12, CITY OF NORTHVILLE CATV ORDINANCE Mayor Vernon stated the City Council did not make any decision and adjourned the Public Hearing to receive additional information. He reconvened the Public Hearing at this time on the proposed Ordinance Title 7, Chapter 12, CATV Franchise.

Mr. Raines, President, Omnicom, stated he had worked with the City Manager and the City Attorney in redrafting the ordinance which he felt accomplished many if not all of the goals of the Council.

He mentioned franchise fees of 5% which is consistent with other communities referred to in Section 29.

He stated Omnicom was pleased with the document. Councilman DeRusha asked about Section 22 — Channel Capacity, which refers to 35 channels while the brochure referred to 40.

He asked which figure was correct.

Mr. Raines stated 40 was correct and they may even build more than that. Some larger manufacturers are talking about 54 channels. He stated if 54 works right that would be put up. Councilman DeRusha asked if that could be stated in the Ordinance.

Section 22 was changed to read at least thirty five channel capacity.

Councilman DeRusha asked if there were a time limit to commence the project.

Mr. Raines answered twenty-four months.

The City Attorney asked if there were any conflict with the FCC on the Certificate of Compliance.

Mr. Raines answered no. Councilman DeRusha asked about Capitol Cities Communications.

Mr. Raines stated that Capitol Cities Communications which owns WJR Radio, owns the system. They have put up all of the monies. He explained they own 100% of the system.

Councilman DeRusha questioned Mr. Raines about the two-way system and how practical it might be.

Mr. Raines stated the two-way used to be minimal system however, in this area there would be 35 to 36,000 homes and at least half would take cable. Most of those would install the two-way system, i.e., burglar alarm, fire protection.

Councilman DeRusha asked about the charges.

Mr. Raines stated the basic service would be $7.00 and with the movies it would total $14.00 per month. The two-way would be additional. The installation would be $29 which would be waived during construction.

Councilman DeRusha raised the question of broadcasting facilities.

Mr. Raines stated there would be a studio somewhere in the area. It would be maintained by Omnicom, however, this could be leased by the school, etc. He mentioned they would supply a technician who, ultimately would be paid by the user.

Councilman Gardner asked if the City wanted a meeting on Cable TV, would the company have a technician there.

Mr. Raines stated not necessarily, they would attempt to do this so it would be somewhat automated. He also mentioned this could be part of on the job classroom training. Councilman DeRusha stated a volunteer group could also do this.

Mr. Raines mentioned another use would be a digital bulletin board from City Hall which could run the agendas. He also commented on another project they are working on is to have each community appoint a committee to criticize and suggest critique. Council could be updated through a member of the committee. Other areas who have signed contracts are Northville Township, Canton Township, City and Township of Plymouth, Mr. Raines advised. He also named several surrounding communities in Oakland County with whom they are talking at the present time.

The City Attorney asked for a clarification of the alarm system.

Mr. Raines stated there would be a central point which would have a computer with a monitor. He explained the steps which would follow when an alarm is turned in.

The City Attorney complimented Omnicom on the cooperation he has received. He mentioned there were seven changes made in the original proposal. He asked of Council would want to act on the Public Hearing on the original ordinance or set up a new Public Hearing on the revised ordinance.

Mayor Vernon stated actions have been taken on the recommendations from the first Public Hearing.

The City Attorney stated that legally the basic concept of the ordinance has not been changed and it could be adopted with the revisions.

Mayor Vernon asked if there were any more comments, there being none, he closed the Public Hearing.

Motion by Councilman Gardner supported by Councilman Johnston to adopt Title 7, Chapter 12, City of Northville CATV Ordinance as amended.

Motion Carried Unanimously. Mayor Vernon recessed the meeting at 9:35 p.m.

New county commission chairman calls for unity

Samuel A. Turner, a Detroit attorney, is the new chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners and the successor to Richard E. Manning of Livonia, another attorney.

Turner is serving his fourth two-year term on the board and has been chairman of the ways and means committee for the past three years. Ways and means is generally regarded the most important committee because it considers all matters involving expenditure and consists of all 27 members of the board.

The election by his colleagues was January 3, the first meeting of the new year and always the first order of business each year. Both the chairman and vice-chairman are chosen for one-year terms.

Clemens E. Bykowski, also from Detroit, was named vice-chairman during the same meeting. Each won by a 14-9 vote, with 14 votes being the necessary majority.

Nominated by Commissioner Thomas Presnell from Westland, Manning was Turner's only competition, and Presnell was Bykowski's only opponent. Presnell was nominated by Commissioner James J. Rashid of Dearborn.

Bykowski is retired from the Detroit police force and is in his third term on the county board. He is a current member and former chairman of the general government committee.

Besides serving as chairman of the ways and means committee, Turner also is a member of the public safety and judiciary committee, chairman of the financial crisis and corrections committees as well as a delegate to SEMCOG, the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments.

With SEMCOG, he has served on the executive committee, finance and budget committee, general assembly committee and the legislative committees. In addition, he is a former chairman of the County Board of Institutions, the governing body of the County General Hospital.

Turner said after the meeting that in his leadership he would concentrate on unification of the board and the elimination of friction between Detroit and out-county factions. He said that most differences between the two areas are imaginary and that he expects cooperation and support from all sides to resolve county problems.

Nevertheless, Turner emphasized that he did not expect an easy job seeking solutions for an $18 million deficit along with past reluctance from Governor William G. Milliken and some members of the legislature.

He was referring to demands on county reorganization that have caused withholding of funds from the county during periods of critical financial distress.

Emphasizing that 1980 will be a difficult year for him to preside, "He who wears the crown also wears a shaky hat," Turner commented. He pointed out that a major part of what he considers a serious economic recession has gone unnoticed but will become visible with closing of the Chrysler Corporation Dodge Main assembly plant.

Turner said the will rely heavily on the loyalty of county employees and the better cooperation he hopes to arrange with Milliken.

City Council Minutes

explained the steps involved in sending out the bids and the ratings from Standard & Poor's and Moody's.

RECOMMENDATION FROM PLANNING COMMISSION RE REZONING.

Communication from the Planning Commission re their motion to rezone the property located on 8-Mile east of Taft.

Planning Commission's motion is as follows:

Motion by Commissioner Buckland supported by Commissioner Turnbill to recommend to City Council to rezone the property (22-34-351-013) from R-3 to P-80 provided that the applicant guarantee to the City Council of his intentions to be within the parameters of the proposal and limit parking spaces of not more than 40 spaces and the building not more than 6,000 sq ft as designated on plan.

Mayor Vernon asked, Kissinger, Turnbill, Wheaton, Nays: Cutler, Frey, Mayor Carried.

The City Attorney advised that the State of Michigan does not recognize conditions which are placed on zoning which would be a part of ruling on such conditions.

Councilman Johnston asked why the restrictions were placed on it.

The City Manager stated it was the developers' proposal. The City Manager also mentioned the Master Plan indicated the area as multiple. He stated concern re rezoning to accommodate need.

Dr. Clancy asked if he could spend some time on the matter. He stated he was looking for a spot to build in Northville for approximately 6,000 sq. ft. space. He showed a plan with spaces for 38 car parking lot. He stated that because of the land he was offered to build 10,000 sq. ft. If he want 15,000 sq. ft., he would have to go to two stories. He liked the area and stated it offered him what he wanted. He also mentioned his facility would generate less traffic than multiple.

Mayor Vernon stated two questions for Council, 1 — can zoning be conditional, 2 — if it cannot does Council have any concern that a larger development may go in or Dr. Clancy coming back at a later date and attempt to put in a larger building.

Dr. Clancy commented on the possibility of having a 10% leeway.

Mayor Vernon asked him if Council rezones the property and he reappears.

Councilman Ayers asked if there were any way to restrict the property by dedicating it to some non-buildable purpose.

The City Attorney offered an alternative by creating an entirely new zoning classification which would apply to this particular parcel. If it were restricted to medical that is all that could be put in there.

Discussion of the traffic problem followed.

The City Attorney stated that ideally the property should be rezoned also. The two parcels together could be developed and exit onto Taft Road.

Mayor Vernon asked the City Attorney to appear at the next Planning Commission meeting to express his views on the conditional zoning. Council will take action after that.

Councilwoman Ayers commented the Planning Commission can review their recommendation and either stand by it or revise it.

Councilman DeRusha stated he would prefer to see all the property multiple. Northville is encouraging development in the downtown area.

Councilman Johnston asked Dr. Clancy if he had investigated space in the CBD.

Dr. Clancy stated his reasons for liking that particular area.

HORTON STREET PARKING REPORT:

Survey from the Police Department and concurrence that traffic control order 79-7 should remain in effect.

Councilman DeRusha mentioned that it seems all accidents have occurred going in or out of the curve, that there was no need to prohibit parking up the street.

Councilman Ayers mentioned cars parked on Randolph Street force traffic out across the yellow lines.

He asked if the traffic was a hazard why wasn't it diverted to perhaps Griswold.

Councilman Johnston asked how they could legally restrict cars from using the road.

Mr. Herman Krauter, 373 Rayson, stated he has lived at that address since 1942. He mentioned the residents used to skate there. He also commented on the accident between a Police Car and another car last week with the no parking in effect. He thought the cars were traveling faster now. He stated as a taxpayer he should be allowed to park on one side of the street in front of their home.

Mayor Vernon explained that Council and the Police Department do not want for accidents to happen before doing something about the problem. The volume of traffic and the curve have created a problem there.

Councilman Johnston mentioned if cars were parked it would tend to slow down traffic.

Mr. Krauter stated years ago when the street was restricted as a fire lane, there was a white line painted and parking on the other side of the street with no accidents occurring.

Councilman Johnston thought cars parked on the right side might be a problem.

Mr. Krauter stated the accidents were not caused by the curve.

Mayor Vernon asked for reaction to parking during certain hours.

Mayor Vernon DeRusha stated the high traffic times were from 7-9 a.m. and 3-6 p.m. weekdays.

Mayor Vernon stated he would like to recommend to the Police Department to restrict parking during certain hours of the day and parking permitted on the west side of the street.

He would like to find an alternative route.

547 FAIRBROOK: Communication from H. W. Penn, City Engineer updating Council on the problem re excavation on Leon Bonner's property on W. Seven Mile Road.

He stated in his letter that the DNR required a permit to excavate; the Wayne County Road Commission did not see any adverse effect upon Seven Mile Road, however, if he worked within the road right-of-way he would have to obtain a permit. The City Attorney will have a report on this January 7.

LEXINGTON COMMONS DRAINAGE PROBLEMS: Communication from Mr. Martin Rinehart, Secretary, Lexington Commons Association re a buildup of silt which has clogged drainage culverts and raised the flow line of the ditch through the Commons since construction of the Beacon Woods subdivision.

SOLUTION — RE PRECINCT CONSOLIDATION: Communication from the Election Commission recommending Precincts 1 and 2 be combined. The State law now allows up to 2,999 registered voters in one precinct. The combined precincts have 2,009. It would free up voting machines for AV counting and be more economical.

Motion Carried Unanimously.

DETROIT CITY WATER RATE SUIT: Communication from Township of Huron and the Charter Township of Canton re the Huron Valley Waste Water Control System.

Huron Township suggested all communities involved in the project to band together and hire an individual person with expertise in engineering and cost analysis to look after the interest of the participating communities to rid the region of the efficiency of the treatment plant, etc.

The City Manager thought it might be worthwhile to convey support on reasonable control and oversee the and audit the County.

Mayor Vernon was directed to write a letter to the Township of Huron with our views.

MISCELLANEOUS: Communication from St. Mary's Hospital re a state plan to debed community hospitals both in the Detroit area and suburban areas. They feel the plan is discriminatory and unfair and would like to discuss this at a breakfast meeting on December 27, 1979 at 8:00 a.m. in the dining room of the St. Mary Hospital.

Mayor Vernon and Councilman Johnston planned to attend.

Madonna College Newsletter, December 1979 containing an article about Senior student Fran Yoakam, Northville's Director of Allen Terrace.

Communication from the City Manager to Mr. Dorvil Shank re pending arbitration concerning Lynn Butler's grievance. He explained the grievance was settled out of arbitration process.

Councilman DeRusha talked with Gene Batchelder of Northville State at a recent Omnicom Meeting. Ms. Batchelder spoke against the fence because of the impact on the inmates. Councilman DeRusha did not agree with her view. She felt if a fence were installed it would make them feel like they were in a prison.

Councilman DeRusha stated an invitation was offered to Council to view the facilities and see what they offer. He mentioned there were only 18 to 20 beds for hard to manage people and that no convicted felons were housed there.

Our Opinion

Bealtown houses sparkle despite encroachments

Preserve it

Almost lost in the debate over the rezoning of the Eight Mile property near Taft is the important recent decision of the planning commission to bolster the residential character of Bealtown — the southeast section of the city between River and South Main — by changing the master plan.

We applaud the commission's decision.

But as long as the strip of commercial zoning exists along the west side of South Main, from Cady to Seven Mile, neither we nor the residents of Bealtown can be sure that the master plan change really means the dawning of a new era. The threat of encroachment remains.

What's more, we are aware that some council members — maybe even a majority of them — do not agree with the planning commission on this matter. If not commercial, the better development for the South Main area would be professional offices, some of them have stated.

We disagree with these council members. The area ought to be returned to its residential zoning, and we urge the planning commission to initiate the rezoning process soon so that the ordinance can reflect its commitment to preserve the residential character of this neighborhood and important entrance to our city.

Meanwhile, we ask both planners and council to re-examine the developmental potential of our city, giving special attention to the task of filling in those undeveloped pockets of commercial and professional office properties within the central business area. Find some satisfactory way to encourage this "fill-in" development.

Let's stop looking for new areas for commercial and PO zoning when we haven't even utilized properties we already have in the better suited central business area.

We can hardly expect developers to turn to the central business area when they can purchase less costly land elsewhere in our residential neighborhoods.

If parking restrictions do indeed make development of these pockets financially prohibitive, as one leading business proponent has stated, then perhaps some modification of these restrictions deserve serious consideration.

For example, it has been argued that to develop a single, small business on the west side of Center, just north of Randolph, would require the purchase of two or three lots just to meet the city's parking requirement. And if the cost is prohibitive today, it is not likely to become any less expensive tomorrow. Thus, the non-conforming dwellings in this prime commercial area are likely to remain while developers look elsewhere...in Bealtown or some other residential area.

What surprises and pleases us about Bealtown is that despite rezoning and threat of encroachment on all sides of the neighborhood over the years, its property owners have continued to maintain attractive houses. They could have given up and permitted their houses to deteriorate while waiting for some business to buy them out. But they have not done so.

We are grateful to them, and we hope they hang in there. Bealtown, Cabbagetown, Downtown...all are important to Ourtown and we ought to do all we can to preserve and enhance them.

Speaking for Myself

Whom should Lions draft?

CHRIS HOLMAN

Sims

Asking whether the Lions should use their number one draft pick to acquire Billy Sims or Charles White is like asking whether I want one bar of gold or one hundred ignots of silver. Both of these men are great college backs and will be standout performers in the pro ranks.

Given that this is the Detroit Lions, not the Pittsburgh Steelers, that have the first pick, it is obvious that the nod has to go to Billy Sims.

The Lions have developed the dubious tradition of not being able to block, therefore, a big, strong running back is the only type who has a reasonable chance of surviving the season. He can break tackles (which he will get plenty of opportunity to prove) while running both inside and outside. His quickness will allow him to get the ball at least back to the line of scrimmage and with any luck, he will be able to avoid the Lion interior linemen who made backfield play look like the single-wing formation is back in vogue.

Sims has averaged seven yards per carry throughout his career on a team that has at least three superior runners in the game at all times. Therefore, he has had to share (and out-shine) the running duties with his teammates. This superior yards-per-carry average was achieved on a team that opponents knew was going to run.

It has been mentioned that Charles White is a superior receiver. What has to be proven is that Billy Sims can't catch the ball. At USC, a back gets the opportunity to catch the ball, at Oklahoma, a back catches the pitchout on the triple option.

Now if the Lions could devise a plan that would enable Sims to play offensive tackle, defensive back, center and quarterback, as well as carrying the ball, it might be worth fighting the M-59 traffic to the Silverdome.

Dickey

Curtis Dickey, running back, 6-1, 215 pounds, runs the 60-yard dash in 6.15 seconds, "the fastest time in college football," runs the hundred meters in 10.11 (about one-tenth of a second off the Olympic gold medal time).

These are a few vital stats on Curtis Dickey, the Texas A&M phenom headed for NFL greatness. Dickey comes from a dirt-poor background. He was considered the number one high school prospect in 1976 and could have gone anywhere to college, but opted for A&M because it was only five miles from his home.

Both his high school and college coaches say of Curtis "while he was here he did all that we asked and more." Perhaps they were referring to that spring in 1978 when he gained more than 100 yards in a full scrimmage on Friday night and won the 100 meter dash the next day at the Texas Relays. He has also won the NCAA sprint titles in 1978 and 1979 and finished second in the outdoors in 1978.

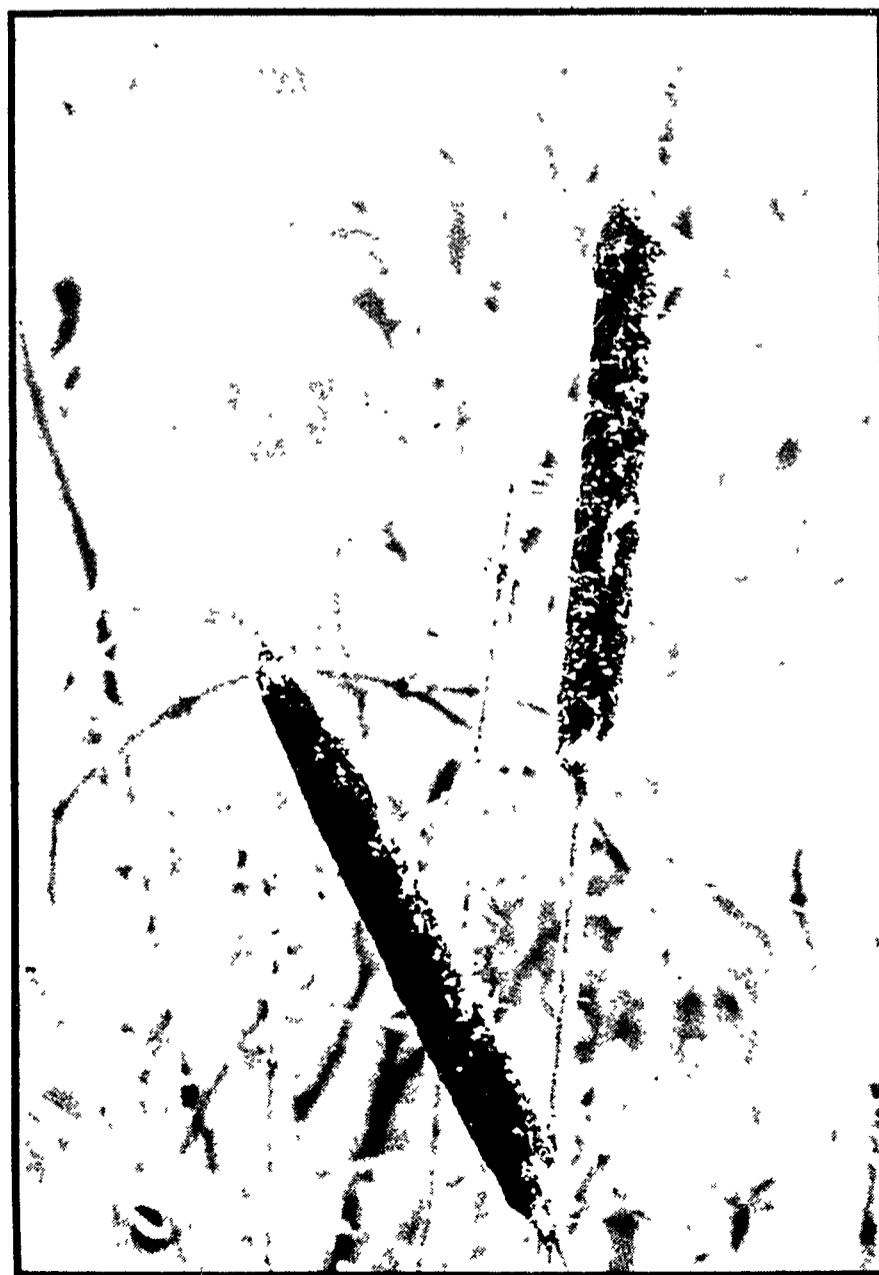

Dickey will graduate this year as the second-best rusher in the history of the Southwest Conference behind Earl Campbell and Curtis has carried the ball a great deal less than Campbell did. It should also be remembered that he has earned those yards against the best defensive teams in the nation — Texas, Arkansas and Michigan. Because of the speed that has brought him those rushing yards, if he were not getting drafted by the National Football League, he would most surely be training for the Olympic team.

The bottom line of all of this "who should the Lions draft" talk is that making the right selection is less than half the battle. The best talent in the world can be wasted by a poor football system; but for the Lions organization drafting Curtis Dickey will be a step in the right direction.

JACK W. HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

Son Number One has returned but only long enough, says his mother, to save enough money to rent Apartment Number Seven near Daughter Number Two's Apartment Number One.

His temporary live-in follows on the heels of Daughter Number One's temporary return before leaving for Apartment Number Six. He's the one who lived in Apartment Number Five, conveniently around the corner from our Number One Refrigerator.

Daughter Number One's the one who brought home Foster Daughter Number One, and soon thereafter Cat Number One that begat Cats Two, Three, Four...

Foster Daughter Number One brought home Car Number Three, which soon was joined by Daughter One's Car Number Four. When Foster Daughter Number One took up residence with Daughter Number One in Apartment Number Two, Cars Numbers Three and Four were replaced by Son-in-Law Number One's Motorcycle Number One and Wife Number One's newly acquired Company Car Number One.

Daughter Number One and Foster Daughter gave up Apartment Number Two, whereupon Daughter Number One moved to Apartment Number Four and Foster Daughter Number One took Apartment Number Three.

When Son Number One moved out and into Apartment Number Five, he left at home Clunker Number One that fitted nicely, he said, in our garage. Fortunately, it died peacefully and was removed, whereupon he bought Car Number Five.

Car Number Two was loaned to Son-in-Law Number One when his Car Number Seven was wiped out by unidentified Car Number X.

Fire victims praise firemen, police

To the Editor:

We're gradually getting back to normal after the fire that left our garage and contents a pile of rubble.

Your editorial describing the fire and praising the fire fighters was particularly apt. As you pointed out, the fire on Christmas Eve was a horrifying experience for us, with the fire fighters putting out the fire just as it started on the house. We're still amazed at how fast the fire was extinguished, a real tribute to the efficiency and professionalism of the fire department.

But what may not be as apparent or as dramatic is the help the fire fighters and police gave after the fire was put out. They stayed late Christmas Eve checking to see that every last ember was out. They were very polite and helpful in showing us the house after the fire, explaining the smoke and the minor water damage to us. They were careful not to scratch walls with their ladders while checking the attic. Finally, they watched the house until we were able to return. Perhaps it takes something like this to fully appreciate our police and fire departments. They are truly excellent.

Many thanks to our neighbors for all their help. Jill Gallagher who discovered the fire, her dad Don, who banged on our door to get us out, Tim Smith who helped the children to safety, to Al and Diane Hauser for letting us stay in their house during the fire, and to Bruce-Griggs and family for their caring. And to the many friends and neighbors who offered cars, a place to stay, tools, and all kinds of help. Thanks! It's good to live in Northville.

They rap theater for X-rated film

To the Editor:

As a resident of Northville I would like to express my feelings regarding the X rated movie at the Marquis Theater in Northville.

When the movie theater first opened The Northville Record wrote that this would be a place where families could come for entertainment. I assumed they meant they would be showing G and PG rated movies. The theater now regularly shows R rated movies and now an X rated movie.

I called some large local movie theaters to question the difference between an R and an X rated movie. I was told that there was much more nudity and swearing in an X movie than in an R movie. I again asked if there was really that big a difference. To quote the man, "Oh yes, there is a lot of scenery in an X rated movie."

Many people in our community are very concerned about our environment, keeping it free from litter and pollution. In my opinion this is pollution of the mind. We don't need this kind of movie to trash up our city. If people really want to see this kind of movie they can go somewhere else.

Lynn Ruffner
Senior, Eastern Michigan University

To the Editor:

As a strong supporter of the "Mainstreet" project to revitalize downtown Northville, I was disturbed to see an 'X' rated movie playing at the Marquis Theatre over the recent holidays.

Christmas is vacation time for our children and teenagers. The choice between the 'X' rated and 'R' rated second feature forced my family and many others to travel to other places for entertainment.

While I am hardly a prude, I don't think Northville needs an adult movie house.

News from Lansing

By Senator Robert Geake

The irresponsible action on the part of senate Democrats on rejecting Governor Milliken's appointment of Richard Hemmings as state insurance commissioner was a display of partisan politics at its worst.

It made a mockery of the advise and consent process in our governmental system and heightened the difficulty in attracting qualified professionals to such public positions.

Mr. Hemmings' appointment to a full four-year term was rejected on a near thirty-line vote of 21-13 and was the first rejection of a Milliken appointment to a full-time, full-salary position.

The only reason to reject a gubernatorial appointment is on the basis of qualifications. But the Democrats chose to inject partisanship into the process where the only criteria should be competence. They were unable to put forth any convincing argument challenging Mr. Hemmings's qualifications.

Is Mr. Hemmings qualified? Certainly. He was an attorney for the National Association of Insurance Commissioners and as such he understands the intricacies of the law, and what the job of insurance commissioner entails.

Was Mr. Hemmings affiliated with the insurance industry? Definitely not.

Was Mr. Hemmings affiliated with any special interest groups? No. As a result Mr. Hemmings would be neutral in regulating the insurance industry in Michigan.

Is Mr. Hemmings a Republican or Democrat? His political identification is not known.

Mr. Hemmings is more qualified for the position of insurance commissioner than any of the past three persons to hold that position.

Weak arguments used by the majority party in opposing Hemmings centered around an alleged lack of administrative experience and a perceived weakness in his enforcement of insurance laws to the detriment of consumers.

There is nothing in the insurance code description of the responsibilities of the insurance bureau and, specifically, the commissioner which refers to consumer advocacy, or, for that matter, nothing that indicates the insurance commissioner's job goes beyond the enforcement of those laws which are provided by the legislature.

The legislature has the power, if it desires, to require the insurance commissioner to be a consumer advocate or to impose any policy it wants in the insurance field to protect citizens. The legislature has not done so.

It is the governor's choice, not the legislature's, to choose who he wants to enforce the laws and policies which the legislature has imposed upon the insurance bureau and the commissioner.

Six months ago, before the senate administration and rules committee, Mr. Hemmings stated very clearly that he did not perceive the job of a regulator as one of an advocate for one point of view but rather one who listens to all points of view "independent of any particular interest group but responsive to all."

The Democrats apparently had no problem with that position then as the senate confirmed his appointment at that time to fill the remainder of an unexpired term left vacant by the resignation of Tom Jones. If the Democrats felt so strongly about consumer advocacy why didn't they say so before Mr. Hemmings quit his job, sold his home, and moved his family from Wisconsin to Michigan?

I believe Mr. Hemmings' qualifications had nothing to do with his rejection by the Democratically-controlled senate. It was a power play within the senate, a purely political move intended to embarrass the governor, with Richard Hemmings caught in the middle as the innocent victim.

I applaud the governor's decision to resubmit the appointment of Mr. Hemmings to the state insurance commissioner post. It will give Democratic members of the senate an opportunity to correct the crass political action they took earlier and give to people of Michigan a qualified enforcer of state insurance laws.

Voting precincts reduced

City of Northville's voting precincts has been reduced by one — from four to three.

Acting on a recommendation of the elections commission, the city council voted unanimously to combine Precincts 1 and 2 to form a single Precinct 1.

The action means Precinct 4 becomes 3 and Precinct 3 becomes Precinct 2.

No change in precinct locations is planned. Precincts 1 and 2 had been voting at the city hall and now, under the combined precinct will continue voting there.

"Combining the two precincts would give a total of 2,009 registered voters as of this date (December 17)," Clerk Joan McAllister pointed out.

Under state law a precinct may not have more than 2,999 registered voters nor less than one machine per 600 voters, she said.

Cannon announces police promotions

Two city police department promotions were recently announced by Northville Police Chief Rodney Cannon.

Corporals James Petres and Gerald Ryan were named executive lieutenant and lieutenant, respectively.

Petres, who joined the department in February, 1972, will be second in command. He will be in charge of the department in Chief Cannon's absence, and will assist the chief in the day-to-day operations of the department.

A Northville police officer since January, 1972, Ryan will be in charge of investigation and services. His duties include heading the detective bureau and dispatch operation, Chief Cannon said.

The two officers were the top finishers among seven who competed in written examinations given by the Michigan Municipal League and an oral test conducted by a panel consisting of the Pontiac chief of police, a State Police trooper and an area Director of Public Service.

Down's up

Northville Downs attendance is up 8.3 percent over last year's average at this time, according to Downs publicity director Dick Frederick.

The attendance average for the first five days was 3,086. The handle is up 6.9 percent with a daily average of $416,616.

These figures mark an increase over the same period from last year, in which the Downs enjoyed its most profitable season ever.

It was about this time, I think, that Daughter Number One came back home, temporarily, with Furniture Load Number One and Car Number Four.

Let's see, that leaves Car Number One for Husband Number One who gets to drive it occasionally when Son Number Two and Daughter Number Three aren't transporting Girlfriend Number One and Boyfriend Number One.

And that's only if can maneuver past Daughter Number Four's Bicycle Number One, Broken Bicycles Two and Three, Motorcycle Number One, Camper Number One, and often-visiting Daughter Number Two's Car Number Six.

Oh, yes, almost forgotten: With Son Number One's return, Car Number Five is back, too.

And wouldn't you know it, Son One's Furniture Load Number Two just arrived.

Now you know why Husband Number One always is on a Number One Merry-go-round.

X-rated film is criticized

cil," said Council member Dewey Gardner.

"I'm sure it was a trial run (by the owners) to test the public's reaction," said Johnston.

Asked if the city's anti-smut ordinance prohibits such films, the city attorney replied that he doubted exercise of the ordinance could prevent a one-time-only showing.

But City Manager Steven Walters, who noted the illogic of the film industry's rating system, argued that the question is not one of frequency or simply the "X" rating but rather if the content of the film is covered by the language of the ordinance.

Lynn Ruffner, who presented the petition to council, and Mayor Vernon said they were almost as disturbed by the public advertising of an "X" film as by the movie itself. Visitors to Northville who see a lighted billboard advertising an "X" film will question whether or not this is an ideal community in which to live, they suggested.

Ms. Ruffner said she would agree that this particular movie may not be a typical "X" movie but that she and those with whom she has spoken worry that it may signal more of the same.

She said she and others will boycott the theater and the owners' adjacent store, which she described as an excellent dress shop. Later, however, after hearing the discussion about the financial problems of the theatre, she modified her position by saying the boycott would occur only if the "X" films continue.

A financial problem, she said, is no justification for showing this kind of movie here.

In a Letter to the Editor this week, she called such films a "pollution of the mind. We don't need this kind of movie to trash up our city. If people really want to see this kind of movie they can go somewhere else."

She, too, said she had not seen the movie, but that the rating itself was enough to tell her it was distasteful.

If the theatre is boycotted because of this one film, said an official, "I'm afraid they will go down the drain (financially)."

"What is needed here," said the mayor, "is counseling, not threats."

Appointed

COUNCIL member Stanley Johnston has been appointed city representative on a 35th District Court Advisory Board to study, among other things, possible consolidation of district court facilities.

Meijer will fight proposed rezoning

Bohan said it was unfortunate for Meijer, but he added that planners cannot be concerned about the company's problem.

"I appreciate their concern but things change and when a person buys a piece of property they have no guarantee that the zoning will not be changed in the future."

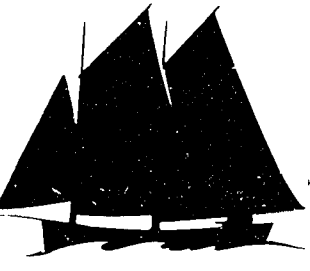

"In my opinion the township doesn't really need any regional centers located in its boundaries," Bohan said.

The scheduled public hearing is the first of many which will be conducted by the planning commission as members prepare to revise the township zoning ordinance.

After planners review the comments made at the public hearing they will make a recommendation to the township board of trustees which will take final action on the rezoning proposal.

Go slim: Eat your way to good health

Nutritionist-mother teaches 'snacking' class

Beans are sprouting in the kitchen of Paula Skuratowicz.

She also makes her own yogurt in her compact King's Mill headquarters where open shelves to the ceiling hold glass jars of wheat seed, pastry flour, cereal and nuts.

Because she believes completely that "you are what you eat" and that training should come early, this mother of four has become a dietetic teacher-author.

She also is a vegetarian.

Out of her concern for what young children have been eating has come the idea of conducting small "snack" workshops for parents.

She also has been teaching classes in creative cooking in her home.

With the assistance of her niece Yvonna Baginski of Ann Arbor last October she launched still another project, "Treat Factory" recipes for children, that are being sold by direct mail.

"There's such a need for this type of help," she declares while her "tester" Matthew Smolenski demonstrates how to make a peanut butter treat from the recipe. Since Matt is only four years old, he is most serious as he mixes the peanut butter, honey, powdered milk and cereal.

Of course, he gets to eat the result, which Mrs. Skuratowicz declares is "a good snack."

Her second publication is for cookies with only four ingredients.

"It's designed at eight-year-old reading level but a four-year-old can understand and follow the recipe if it's read to him," she explains.

Matt's mother, Mary Smolenski and Mrs. Skuratowicz both previously taught in Northville schools' plus program.

"We designed a top-notch nutrition program," they recall.

It was this program that convinced Mrs. Skuratowicz that children today are interested in good eating but that many are not learning it at home.

"Before World War II children were taught cooking at home, but this infant education has stopped and kids today are the product of a fast-food age," Mrs. Skuratowicz says regretfully.

As she tells of her plans to conduct two snack workshops for adults this month, she shares the core of her teaching:

"You can't teach nutrition until you understand why you eat. People eat to reward themselves, when they want a treat, as a part of a pattern of living and when they are sad."

"If you don't understand the psychological reasons, it can be disastrous to your health. Pop fills a need, but there can be a better substitute."

Mrs. Skuratowicz therefore developed her home workshops to teach better and healthier eating with reasoning.

The mother-teacher has her bachelor's degree in biology from Wayne State University and her master's in food and nutrition from Eastern Michigan. She also has completed all but her thesis for a master's degree in biology.

Even after a holiday season in which the Skuratowicz family "ate all kinds of things" Paula Skuratowicz looks slim.

Although she and her husband Victor, a chemistry teacher at Churchill High in Livonia, as well as their children, Eva, 15, Vicki, 12, Robby, 14, and

Dr. Weaver announces vegetarian cooking series

Dr. Arthur Weaver, a Northville resident of 49285 Ridge Court and an associate professor of surgery at Wayne State University, is enthusiastic about vegetarian cooking.

The doctor who became well known throughout the metropolitan area for his stop-smoking clinics now is supporting a series of "Better Living" seminars on vegetarian cooking.

"Every year," he points out, "thousands of families decide to change their eating habits."

"There are many reasons. For some, it is part of their health concepts; others are concerned about cholesterol, PBB and other additives fed to livestock.

"Other families simply can't afford to buy meat."

Most nutrition experts and dietitians, Dr. Weaver continues, agree that Americans eat too much meat and hard fat.

The way he recommends to change those habits is to exchange red meat for vegetables and other protein sources.

"If you or some member of your family is considering a vegetarian diet, it should be done with thought and planning," he urges.

Even those not planning to join the vegetarians can learn to add variety to meals through vegetarian cooking classes, he says.

The classes will be in four sessions, beginning at 7 p.m. Monday, January 14, and continuing at the same time January 16, 21 and 23.

They are being held in Dickinson Junior High cafeteria, 18000 Newburgh Road, Livonia.

Topics include: adequacy of proteins and meal planning; exciting ways with vegetables; nutritional balanced meals; low sugar desserts; cholesterol-free dishes; low-cost meal planning; and facts and fallacies about fats.

Each night will have food demonstrations, audio-visual explanations, food samples for tasting and latest nutritional information.

Outlook brightens for two hospitalized residents

By JEAN DAY

"To your good health" is the New Year toast and blessing of the many friends of two Northville women who have been seriously ill. Fortunately, 1980 is beginning to look better for Marion Sober and Jo Krause. While Mrs. Sober still is a patient at St. Mary hospital, she is out of intensive care after 44 days. And Mrs. Krause is recuperating at home, being released from St. Mary in time to spend Christmas with her family.

Artist-craftsperson Marion Burr Sober should get a boost, as she recovers, from knowing that her expertise in basket collecting is the focus article in the winter 1979 issue of The Antique Trader Price Guide to Antiques. Her baskets are featured on the cover in a color picture taken by David Albright of Northville.

"Years of basket collecting and weaving have given her an understanding and appreciation of the art of the basket weavers," the editors comment. Northville home tour visitors last fall saw many of the expert's collection as they visited the Greek-revival house she restored on North Territorial Road.

Mrs. Sober also canes and has taught classes in Mill Race Historical Village, as has Jo Krause who makes and collects quilts.

Mrs. Krause is an active member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church and has been teaching seventh grade math and social studies at St. Paul's school. Still weak, she's not sure when she will return to the classroom.

Both women entered the hospital with similar symptoms, including severe nausea and both have undergone dialysis. "It's very, very encouraging now," reports Mrs. Sober's husband Donald. He says his wife will welcome cards but not calls or visitors yet.

Come sing-along with chorus

Like the Marines, reports Northville post office employee Joe Hoppersberger, the Plymouth Community Chorus is looking for "a few good men." Tenor and bass voices especially are needed for the chorus whose membership is area-wide.

The chorus sang at Allen Terrace for senior citizens' enjoyment at Christmastime. And, Hoppersberger notes with pride, it had a sellout, standing-room-only audience for its own holiday concert.

Weekly practices start Tuesday. They are held from 8-10 p.m. in Plymouth East Middle School under the direction of Michael Gross. Men or women interested may call Mickey Kivell, 459-9894, about joining. There are no auditions required for those over 18. Young people under 18 are auditioned by the director.

How well do you know your flowers?

Members of the Northville Branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, will be wise to brush up on their knowledge of garden flowers before the 12:30 p.m. meeting Monday in Lexington Condos clubhouse. Ruth Whitmyer, who is planning the program with Annie Nichols, expects to show slides of local flowers and quiz the membership on what they are viewing. Pauline Kelly is chairman.

Branch publicity chairperson Vern Daraban is back in town this week, and is most enthusiastic about the holiday-season cruise she and her husband took with their family. They spent New Year's Day on St. Martaans.

BASKETS EVERYWHERE—Marion Sober uses baskets as room accents throughout the Greek revival home she restored. It was on the Northville home tour last fall. Indian baskets, market baskets and hamper types are described in the article she has written for the winter 1979 issue of The Antique Trader Price Guide to Antiques. The long-time Northville resident is known both as a craftsperson and artist.

For 70 years Mrs. Frank C. Myers has baked cookies for her husband

She's 'cookie grandma'

Couple marks 70 years in triple celebration

A dinner this Saturday evening will be a triple anniversary celebration, but the special guests of honor will be Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Myers of 732 Carpenter. They will be marking their 70th wedding anniversary this Sunday.

Their eight children with their spouses will be hosting the dinner for them at Camelot Inn.

The festivity also celebrates the 40th wedding anniversary of the couple's daughter Gladys and her husband William B. Smith of Livonia, which falls on January 12, and the 38th anniversary of their son Cloyce and his wife Dorothy of Northville. Theirs was January 7.

The senior Mr. and Mrs. Myers have been Northville residents for 49 years.

Both were born in VanWert County, Ohio, and attended school together there. Mrs. Myers was Chloe A. Baxter before her marriage January 13, 1910.

Mrs. Myers now is 87 and her husband 93.

They lived in Sturgis, Hillsdale and Shepherd, Michigan, before moving here. Now retired, he is a former farmer and builder. He also worked at Standard Oil bulk station for Ford.

Their children, in addition to Cloyce and Gladys Smith, are Alice Ackerman of Novi, Howard, Robert and Richard of Northville, Harold of Walled Lake and Clayton (Cabby) of Livonia.

They lost a son Walter in World War II.

Until two years ago, his family remembers, Mr. Myers went deer hunting, giving it up then after hunting for nearly 60 years.

Mrs. Myers always has enjoyed cooking and gardening.

"There are many people that call them 'Mom and Pop.' Mother has been known for years in her neighborhood as the 'cookie grandma' and she shares her recipes with whoever asks for them," her daughter Alice Ackerman relates.

"Dad saw to it," she recalls, "that dandelions and other such plants were removed immediately, and always was particular about shrubbery, his grass and the outside of their home."

She adds that the family is "very close-knit," gathering together for most holidays, birthdays and anniversaries as well as for reunions.

Her parents are great baseball fans and liked traveling and visiting friends through the years.

Mr. and Mrs. Myers also have 26 grandchildren, 29 great-grandchildren and three great-great-grandchildren.

In addition to being known for her "superb cooking and her love of gardening, especially flowers," Mrs. Myers, her daughter says in tribute, "is the most loving and understanding mother, grandmother, great-grandmother and great-great-grandmother."

That's one reason for the decorated cake and special celebration. Every five years the family has planned a festivity for the milestone. But the one that Mr. and Mrs. Myers still remember best is their golden anniversary at the Thunderbird Inn with Bud Guest on hand and Don Pablo playing for the dancing.

Paula Skuratowicz helps Matthew Smolenski with Treat Factory recipe that's good eating

She's teaching healthy snacking

David, 11, all are vegetarians, they do eat fish occasionally. They also eat out locally at Chinese food restaurants. "It's neat," Mrs. Skuratowicz mentions, "we can order baked potato and vegetables."

In her classes she stresses ideas for making vegetables attractive. In the new snacks classes she dwells on the importance of food in socialization of youngsters. "When someone won't accept your food, they aren't accepting you," she explains. "Children, especially at middle school level, show their sphere of friends by sharing food."

What is an acceptable treat at this early teen age?

While expensive, the nutritionist says, pistachio nuts are good and so is popcorn, which, she adds, also is a "tooth-brusher."

She has agreed to demonstrate good nut snacks for children at Lakeside Mall and also is conducting a workshop for parents at Selfridge Nursery School in that area. She has taught an adult education class in Farmington.

Paula Skuratowicz is hoping to reach people for her classes who are anxious to become vegetarians but want to do it properly, complementing the vegetables with grains that are protein. She keeps the classes in her home small, charging $35 plus a $5 food fee for six lessons.

Her Treat Factory recipes may be ordered for 60 cents accompanied by a self-addressed envelope sent to her home at 18667 Jamestown Circle.

It's all getting back to basics as she tells children in the newest Treat Factory recipe that "flour doesn't grow in a bag."

Meetings are led by trained leaders. Telephone counseling is available to mothers at any time.

Education's future here

School superintendent takes a look at new decade

What changes in fortune will the decade bring to the Northville school district?

Superintendent of Schools Larry Nichols dug out his crystal ball last week, stuck his neck (and 1990 pride) on the line and made these predictions:

—In 1990 the district should have about the same number of students it has now, about 3,400;

—Local control of schools will diminish in the face of stricter federal control;

—Electronics: computers, calculators and video will have a big place in instruction;

—Students will be more serious about finding a marketable career, vocational and career education will increase, and fewer students will head straight for four year college programs out of high school — unless the draft is re-instituted;

—More attention will be spent teaching basics but specialized courses teaching students to cope with an ever-faster world will continue to be offered;

—The elementary grades will show a slight increase in number of students by decade's end while secondary grades will drop enrollment. Northville will follow this pattern unless there is a major building boom here.

"The only thing I see in my crystal ball that would increase enrollment in the district would be a massive increase in building here," Nichols said. "The pattern has been fewer kids per home. A few years ago we figured on three kids per home. Now we estimate on .8 child per home."

"The economy, supersewer, zoning, federal legislation all could have a direct impact on school here. The potential for growth is here. But the growth isn't here yet."

Nichols said the school district will face problems during the decade such as what to do with the acreage it owns on Six Mile west of Sheldon, originally intended for a new high school, and whether to do a major renovation on the present Northville High School.

Nichols predicts that curriculum will stress "primary skill areas" such as reading and math in this decade but that newer courses which help students deal with change will continue.

"One fascinating thing to speculate about is the impact of electronics, some of which didn't even exist in 1970," the superintendent said. "I don't know where all that is going to lead but it is going to have an impact on education."

Financing education will remain a problem. "I'm afraid I will see local control of schools diminish," Nichols said. He believes (as most school administrators do) that state regulation of staff negotiations will be bad for the school districts.

Nichols does not see a return to a middle school format unless the student population changes significantly. He said the open campus at the high school will probably remain "as long as the basic job of educating the youngsters is getting done to the community's satisfaction."

He predicts that Northville's enrollment will probably stay about the same by 1990 but that smaller school districts like Harper Woods and North Dearborn Heights will be forced to consolidate with other districts.

Students themselves will change, Nichols predicts.

"I think we will see an increase in the seriousness of purpose on the part of kids in their desire to get specific skills," he said. "It wouldn't surprise me to see programs develop where the student is more involved with business and industry in the community."

"The percentage of the population going directly from high school into a four-year college will drop. Young people are going to begin to look at education as more of a life-long process," he said.

"People have a whole lot more options now than they did even 10 years ago. That is one thing students are going to have to learn to handle."

Nichols finds it tough to predict what will happen to the Institutions' Special Education program here.

"With the implementation of a recent court decision there can be no more than 100 residents at Plymouth Center by 1983. Clearly, if the state movement to put institutionalized handicapped in community placement continues then it is likely that ISEP will disappear as we know it," Nichols said.

"Still, special education will continue. It is entirely possible that Northville can draw from other districts and continue to get students. ISEP is a good program and it has been built with great care."

Community band names assistants here

Raymond Gaiss and Sherry Ellison have been appointed to positions of assistant director of the Northville Community Band.

Announcements of the appointments were made by Band President Jane Francoeur following the band's recent performance at 12 Oaks Mall.

Gaiss and Ellison will assist Band Director Robert Williams with conducting duties during rehearsals and performances.

Gaiss, a cornetist, is a native of Newark, New Jersey and has been involved with community bands and orchestras in Connecticut, New York and New Jersey. He was director of the Fort Cralo American Legion Marching Band of Rensselaer, New York, and co-director of the Franklin Village (Michigan) Community Band. Gaiss is a resident of Novi.

Ellison attended Northville schools and is a graduate of Adrian College with a degree in music education.

She is presently employed by Guardian Photo of Novi and as a substitute music teacher with five area school districts. An accomplished oboist, she is the daughter of former Northville High School principal and Mrs. E. V. Ellison of Northville.

The 60-member Northville Community Band is sponsored by the Northville Community Recreation Department. It meets on Wednesday evenings at Cooke Junior High School. New members are welcome.

Persons interested in the band or who may wish to learn more about it may call 349-8242 or 349-0376 for information.

AAUW-Alpha Nu

Film will show 'where we are'

"You are now the product of what you were when you were 10 years old."

This statement is the basis of an intriguing study made by Dr. Morris Massey when he was associate dean of the College of Business at the University of Colorado.

The study, related in special films, attempts to answer the question of why people are the way they are, reports Jay Ward, program chairman of the Northville branch of the American Association.

The films are to be shown at a joint meeting of the AAUW and the Alpha Nu Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma women teachers' society at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Cooke Junior High cafeteria.

The Massey films, she describes, show how value systems are created and the forces behind mass group programming.

Each decade, in Massey's theory, has certain factors that influence the development of individual value systems. People take on the value system in effect when they were 10 years old.

"This," Mrs. Ward continues, "is why Dr. Massey states that people of similar age have similar value systems. He tries to get people to accept others for what they are for what motivates them, rather than for what motivates you."

The film includes a summary of each decade's values as it tries to help people in dealing with different age groups.

Interested guests are invited to attend the meeting.

Membership in AAUW is open to all qualified women graduates of accredited colleges and universities.

The gigantic rip-off

Those cars that weren't really stolen cost public millions of dollars

By KEN KOVACS

According to automobile insurance companies' statistics, a car is stolen every 28 seconds.

But the really shocking news is that of the more than one million cars ripped off in the United States each year some 40 percent are never recovered.

Why such a low recovery rate?

One of the major reasons, say auto insurers, is the fact that some 30 percent of the cars reported stolen are fraudulent claims.

Furthermore, they say many of the cars reported stolen do not even exist.

Insurance fraud investigators call these non-existent automobiles "paper cars," since they exist only on paper.

Though the title may have been cleared through the Secretary of State and everything appears to be legitimate, it may be that no one has checked to see that the vehicle description is correct and that, in fact, such a vehicle exists.

According to David Bahm, property claim superintendent for State Farm Insurance, some 357 car thefts were reported in the Tri-county area in southeastern Michigan in the first nine months of 1979, costing State Farm some $1,293,000 in claim payments.

Nationally, insurance companies have paid out some $100 million in car theft claims.

The "paper car" method is only one of many used to defraud auto insurance companies, investigators say.

The "salvage racket" is another popular method of committing auto insurance fraud.

A veteran car thief will buy a junk car from an auto salvage pool and remove the vehicle identification number (vin) from the car. (The 13 to 16-digit number is located somewhere on the front dashboard of the car).

He then steals a similar model car of substantial value and pastes the vin over the stolen vehicle's identification number.

The thief's next step is to obtain an insurance policy and then ditch the car.

In a week or so he will report the vehicle stolen and recover a substantial claim for a car which had been junked.

"The salvage method is the most available to the car thief," said Richard Wedekind, division manager of the National Auto Theft Bureau. "He doesn't have to sell the stolen car. He simply files what seems to be a legitimate claim."

A method which is on the upswing, according to the investigators, is the filing of fraudulent stolen vehicle claims by the car's legitimate owner.

"As the state of the economy worsens, the number of owner fraud cases increases," said a State Farm investigator. "When people lose jobs and become short on cash, the temptation to commit fraud becomes much greater."

Most cases of owner fraud involve the destruction of the vehicle, usually by arson.

A vehicle owner may drive the car to a deserted area and torch it or he may have a friend do it for him.

He then files a claim that his car was stolen. Whether or not the car is found, the owner usually collects from the insurance company. Even though it is obvious the vehicle was intentionally set on fire, the company cannot prove that the owner was the one who destroyed the car.

Insurance companies are fighting car theft fraud in many ways and have made some progress in the past few years.

"We have recovered some $175,000 through our investigation in the past 17 months or so," said Frank Skinner of Northville, State Farm division claim superintendent. "But that hasn't enabled us to reduce premiums much, if at all, because of the increase in the number of car thefts in 1979."

According to figures released by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, motor vehicle theft is up 15 percent for the nation in the first three months of 1979 — as compared to the same time period in 1978.

Skinner, who recently was named chairman of the Michigan Anti-Car Theft Campaign Committee, said there have been a number of new developments which have aided in reducing the occurrence of car theft fraud.

Among these are two bills recently enacted by the state legislature. One tightens the laws surrounding vehicle registration and the other upgrades from a misdemeanor to a felony the crime of altering or defacing the vehicle identification number, he said.

The Michigan ACT committee consists of representatives from the Michigan Association of Insurance Companies, law enforcement agencies, auto manufacturers, the Michigan Bankers Association, the Jaycees, the Secretary of State and other related groups.

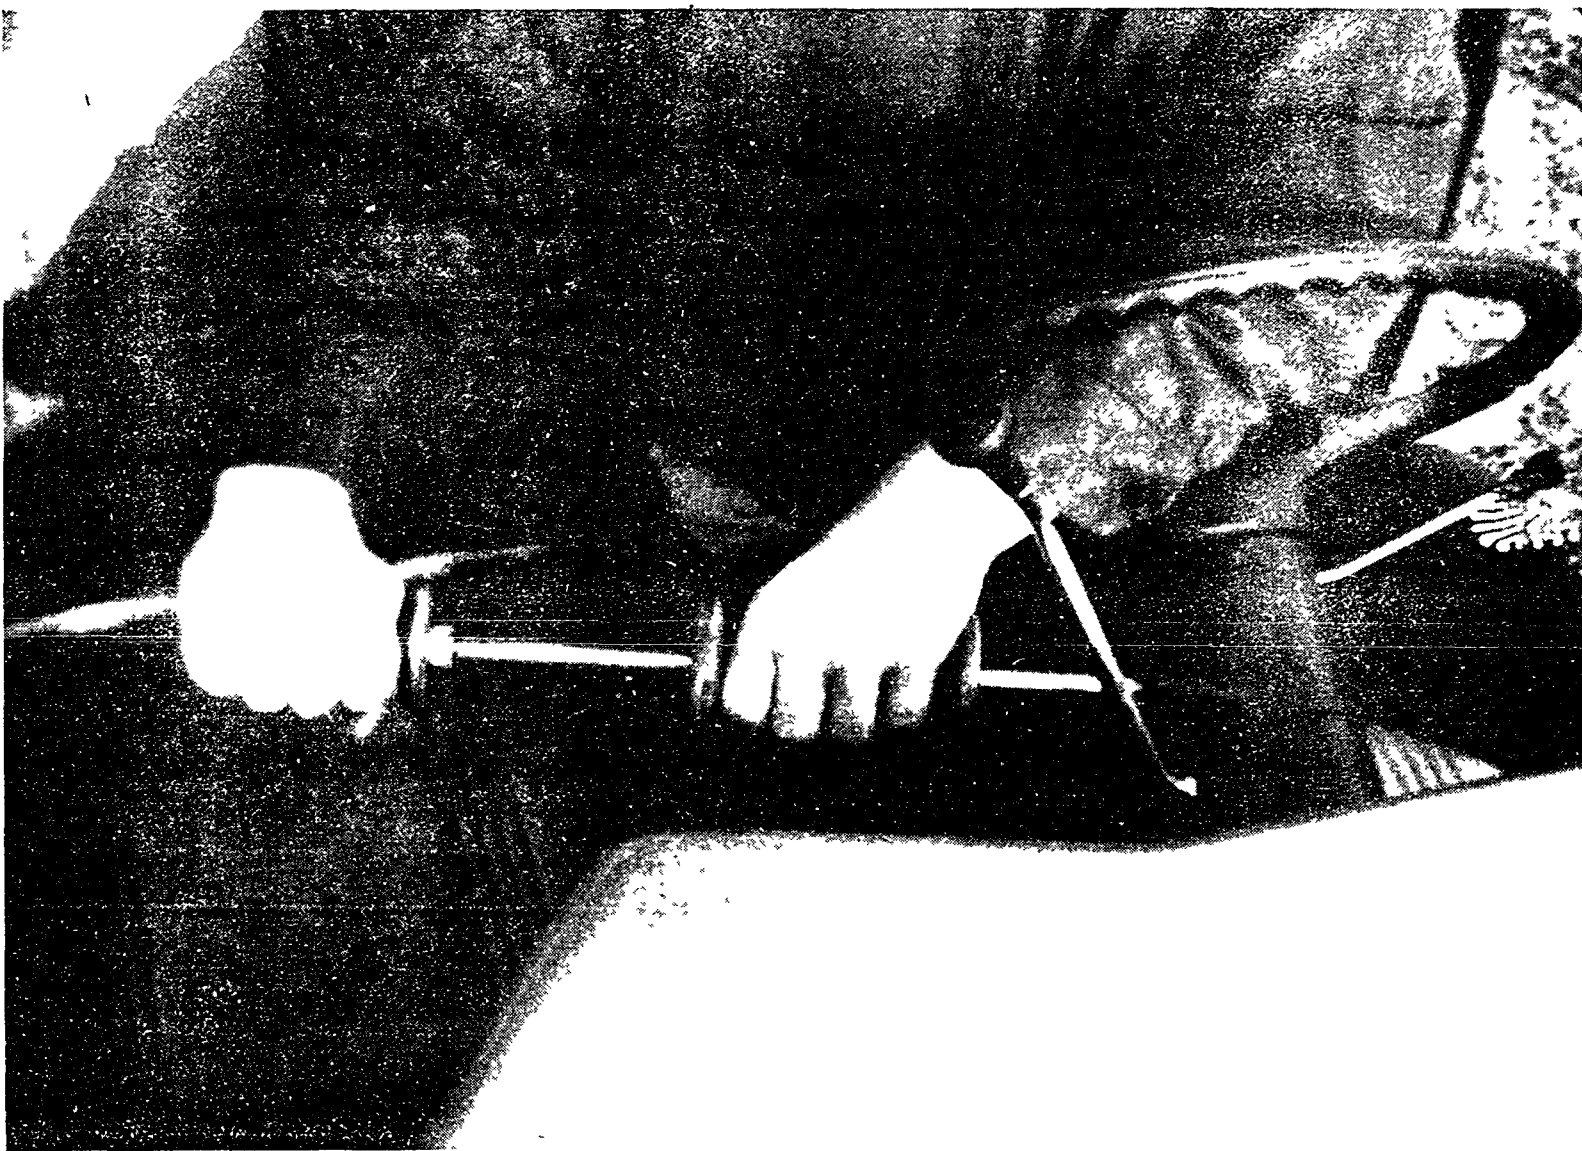

The committee's efforts are devoted to educating the public on the severity of the car theft problem in Michigan and what individuals can do to reduce it.

Michigan currently has the fifth worst record of stolen vehicles in the country, with nearly 50,000 taken last year.

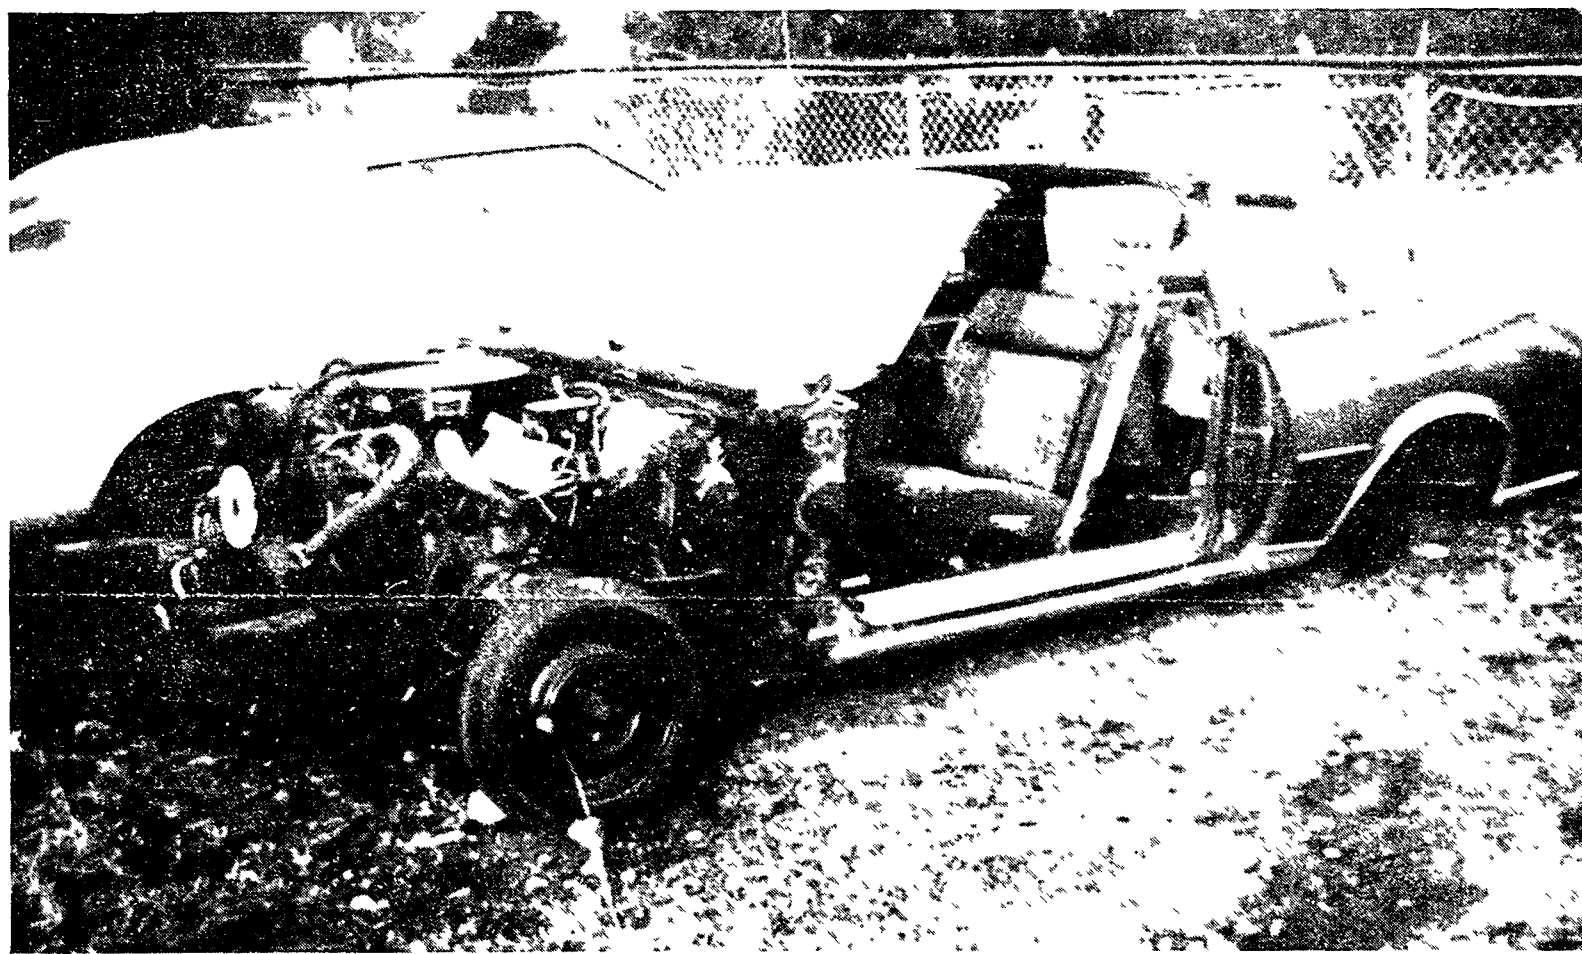

And according to former ACT chairman Thomas G. Bowman, those thefts represent nearly $110 million worth of property, which was paid for through taxes and auto insurance premiums.

Can we ever expect to stamp out fraud completely?

According to John Harper, executive assistant with State Farm, it is unrealistic to think that car theft fraud would ever be totally wiped out. "But," he added, "if we do our job and do it well, someday we will be in a position where we will no longer have to say it happens every day."

Professional car thieves can pop the ignition and start your vehicle in less than a minute

This car may have been stolen, stripped and reassembled twice

What does future

of 80th session hold?

By WARREN M. HOYT

The marks are now all in and the Michigan Legislature has received a mixed review for the 1979 half of the 80th session.

Legislative leaders — both Democratic and Republican alike — seem to be in agreement over the major accomplishments, but they are at odds on what was not done properly and what needs priority billing with the new session dawning on January 9.

The major accomplishments include legislation to deal effectively in the event of an energy emergency, enactment of the so-called essential insurance bill, presentation of the state's wetlands and Wayne County reorganization.

Also depending upon who is speaking, sunset legislation — requiring periodic reviews of state departments, agencies, bureaus and programs — is listed among the major accomplishments.

Democrats say the act will work to eventually reduce-to-limit any state agency or program that is no longer needed but Republicans say it will not work without actual termination dates to require positive action to maintain a program.

Minority Republicans say all the new act will do will be to increase legislative staff, thus increasing costs, for the ongoing review of all governmental programs.

This is a matter that will be decided by Republican Governor William G. Milliken. He has threatened to deliver a veto of the legislation without specific termination dates.

Left undone was legislation to restructure the state's giant health care insurance company Blue Cross-Blue Shield and reform of the campaign finance act and the unemployment and workers' compensation systems.

These items will be at the top of everyone's "hit parade" as the new session opens, but if 1980 is like every other year of partisan politics, these items are too great to solve to everyone's satisfaction.

Meanwhile, Milliken is again trying to break the logjam on workers' compensation reform with the presentation of another proposal to a special task force.

2 C—SOUTH LYON HERALD—BRIGHTON ARGUS—NORTHVILLE RECORD—WALLED LAKE-NOVI NEWS—Wednesday, January 9, 1980

ANDRIS RONIS

"In 1978 we built more than 63,000 housing units in Michigan and employed 100,000 workers," Ronis said. "If the Federal Reserve sticks to a policy of tight money and high interest rates, we expect housing production to fall by 50 percent in 1980 with nearly 50,000 jobs lost."

Ronis' projections were based on an analysis completed by the National Association of Home Builders, based on anticipated mortgage interest rates of 13 to 14 percent.

The study also concluded that the decline in housing activity in Michigan would cost $299 million in tax revenue and more than $3.5 billion in local economic activity.

In spite of projections for a difficult year for the industry, Ronis remains optimistic.

"Higher mortgage interest rates have slowed the market," he said, "but buying a house is still the best investment the American family can make. The cost of housing continues to climb faster than inflation and the increasing number of families requiring housing places demand at an all-time high."

"I expect housing prices to surge once again when mortgage rates begin to taper off," added Ronis.

Ronis came to America with his family when he was 18 years old. His father was a builder in Latvia and went to work as a carpenter in the Saginaw area. Seven years later, he started his own business, Ronis Construction, Inc., which has operated successfully for more than 20 years. This past year Ronis opened a realty office in Saginaw.

"Although the next few months may look a little rocky, our industry expects a very positive market over the next 10 years," Ronis said. "Now is the time to unite as a building industry and work to insure our future."

IT'S A POSITIVE ATTITUDE that has expanded the business of Hamburg Warehouse, 10588 Hamburg Road, over 20 percent in the last few months owner Matt Lyberg said recently.

"There's talk that there will be a recession," Lyberg commented, "and we've decided not to participate."

Lyberg said the increase in the dollar amount of business has been over 22 percent and is a direct result of increasing the inventory stock and volume of carpeting, linoleum and floor tiles that the company carries.

It is a positive attitude that will keep business booming, Lyberg insists. "There's a lot of business out there," he said, "if you just go out and get it."

EMERY AIR FREIGHT has expanded its overnight pick-up and delivery service to businesses in Brighton, Highland, Howell and Milford, regional manager John McAllister said, making it possible to deliver freight to 106 cities from these four mid-Michigan areas for the first time.

Emery is the world's largest air cargo company, McAllister said, and is part of a network that is supported by 300 local delivery vans and more than 50 aircraft. The company provides predictable next morning delivery by 11 a.m. to those 106 cities for all packages weighing less than 70 pounds and is often less expensive than regular air routes.

"Because pick-up and delivery will now be handled directly by Emery," McAllister said of the new expansion, "a customer will save about $7 to $22 on a normal shipment (and they) will also enjoy the reliability of using a single carrier from door-to-door."

THE BRIGHTON STATE BANK has entered into a trust relationship with Pacesetter Bank and Trust of Owosso, Michigan, Brighton State Bank officials announced recently.

The new arrangement offers Brighton customers and the community the services of estate planning, trust and estate administration, employee benefit plans, investment and property management and other miscellaneous trust services.

Three trust officers from Pacesetter—James P. Weller, Daniel K. Pierce and Elmer A. Doege—are available at the Brighton State Bank the third Wednesday and Thursday of each month to answer questions and provide information.

The three men are lawyers and experienced in various trust areas, a Brighton Bank spokesperson said.

Doege, probably the most experienced of the three, has over 40 years of work with larger trust departments to his credit. He has also held membership and faculty positions in numerous banking, professional and educational organizations. Doege was recently head of the trust department at Pacesetter and currently serves as a trust consultant. His areas of expertise include trust and estate administration, planning, investments and new business development.

Future of 80th session

Milliken said his so-called "balance package" is not a final solution, but it is needed to get some sort of agreement on workers' compensation.

The package would eliminate minimum benefits for general injuries, increase maximum weekly benefits but with no cost of living escalator, provide for coordinating benefits with pension plans and social security and pay for retroactive benefits from the state's general funds.

The plan was not received well by either business or labor. Labor said the plan would take benefits away from workers and business said it would be too expensive for business and industry to handle.

Milliken said the proposal represented a backing off from his position of reform. He suggested if the package could be adopted, the reform could go forward.

"At least, let us go and get this balanced approach. This will satisfy no one. It will not satisfy management and it will not satisfy labor. It is a limited and balanced approach," the governor said.

Under a bill approved during the final hours of the legislative session this year, the Senate approved a bill expanding renter credit for rent paid by senior citizens and low income persons.

With an annual estimated cost of $8.5 million, the bill would provide a credit for senior citizens for rent payments over 50 percent of their income. Other low income persons would receive a credit for 75 percent of anything over 40 percent of their income.

An income level of $12,000 was placed in the bill as a qualifier.

The House must approve the plan before it takes effect.

Remodeling 'tight dollar' answer

With home mortgages scarce and costly and the prices of houses soaring, many people find remodeling their present home the best solution to the need for more space.

Financing a home improvement depends on several factors, the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants say. These include the kind and amount of debt already on the property, a person's own financial condition and the type of improvements to be made.

To get the "remodeling dollar" back, say the CPAs, use this rule of thumb in determining which home improvements will add most to the resale value of the house:

—100 percent at resale if one adds new space to the present house.

—75 percent if one modernizes an existing room.

—50 percent if one adds swimming pools, barbecue pits, patios and the like.

In deciding on how to finance the home improvement, the CPAs suggest several ideas for this decision.

Don't accept the loan terms offered by a home improvement contractor without first comparing them with terms offered by local lenders. Ask a local bank, savings and loan association or credit union for the least expensive way to raise the cash that is needed.

When planning home improvements, CPAs advise seeing whether current mortgage contains a clause that would let the person borrow up to the amount already paid off at the same interest rate.

Even though a service fee will be charged, this could well be the most economical way to borrow what is needed.

Refinancing current mortgage may be another good way to raise cash for home improvements.

The maximum amount that one can borrow will depend on the appraised value of the property and the amount of principal already paid off. Maximum time for repayment can vary. Relative cost will be the current mortgage rate in the area, plus closing costs.

One little known source of cash for home improvements is the "little FHA loan." CPAs report it's available in limited numbers to lower-income homeowners in communities of less than 20,000 people.

These federally subsidized loans carry interest rates very low and are repayable over a period up to 25 years. Inquire at a local office of the U.S. Department of Agriculture for more information.

Sisters

Sometimes you make it hard to love you,
By screaming and yelling at things I do,
Flirting with boys you know are bad,
Constantly hurting and making me mad.

But little sister, I know I'm just as rotten
Doing things that are best forgotten,
I also scream and yell.
I hurt you too and make you mad,
I also flirt with guys I know are bad,
We both put the other through a little hell.

How alike but different we are as well,
I only wish that we could try
To let the by-gones go by.
Remember the good times we've had,
Our intimate talks of good and bad,
Going out together and having a ball,
With no care in the world at all.
Sharing heartaches of love and pain,
Trying to keep from going insane,
I guess we'll always have our spats,
Always to the other brats.
But no matter what, the love will stay,
Remaining forever to the end of the day.

UGH

In the summer-time—
There are house flies and horse flies,
Fish flies and dragon flies,
Vinegar flies and fruit flies,
Gnat flies, mosquito flies,
Ball flies and shoo flies,
Midge flies and butter flies,
Garden flies and blow flies,

And in wintertime—
The snow flies!

The Twelfth Day of Christmas

Two weeks after Christmas and all through the town
The street decorations are still coming down.
The paper-mache, bedraggled and torn
Is hanging in tatters, looking very forlorn.

The tired red bells are forgotten and weary,
The faded trees lie abandoned and dreary...
The dolls and the toys and presents galore
Are all scattered 'round the house, down on the floor.

Talk of St. Nick is no longer heard
And of reindeer prancing you hear not a word.
The old Christmas carols are now laid to rest
While "dreams of white Christmas" have all
Lost their zest.
The yuletide cards are now filed for a year,
And charge account statements are plenty and already here.

The twelfth day of Christmas is, as you must know
The end of the season and New Year's bright glow,
Those "week-end vacations" are now past and gone...
About all that is left is a sigh and a yawn.
Charles E. Hutton

Nikki, One of the Chosen Few

(For the Shekell family)

Into each life, heartache must fall.
We cannot understand why.
Some are allowed to continue their hate.
Some, young and living, must die.

Death. Is it final? Or is it release?
Freedom to go where you dream.
Freedom to be allowed to sing.
Freedom to catch a moon beam.

Somewhere over the rainbow.
A meadow where fairies dance.
Emerald city, a land of Oz.
Enchantment for those who advance.

Peter Pan, a world of play.
Peppermint, candy galore.
Fairytale do come true,
When you're chosen to open the door.

To depart this earth is a privilege bestowed.
To see what's ahead for us all.
Into our dreams, they place the hints;
Those who have opened the door.

At Ford Auditorium

Pianist to make debut with DSO

Herbert Blomstedt will be on the podium as pianist Ilan Rogoff makes his debut with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra (DSO) this Thursday and Saturday at Ford Auditorium. Both performances start at 8:30 p.m.

Born in 1927, Blomstedt completed his studies in conducting, piano, violin, organ and music education at the Royal Music Academy of Stockholm as well as music theory at the University of Uppsala.

In the following years, he received training through repeated visits to the International Summer Course for Conducting at the Salzburg Mozartium with Igor Markevitch and visits to the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, Juilliard School of Music in New York and Tanglewood with Leonard Bernstein.

He also participated in the International Summer Course for New Music in Darmstadt and studied the performance of old music at the "Schola Cantorum" in Basel.

Blomstedt debuted in 1954 in a concert with the Stockholm Philharmonic where he has since been regular guest conductor. In the same year, he undertook the direction of the Norrköping Symphony.

From 1962 to 1968 he held the position of Principal Conductor of the Oslo Philharmonic. Since 1967, he worked as Chief Conductor of the Copenhagen Radio Symphony.

In 1961, he was appointed to the Stockholm Music Academy as an instructor of conducting and, in 1965, he became professor.

Simultaneously to his activity in Sweden, which he carried on until 1970, he was involved in extensive guest activities. He led tours of the Stockholm Philharmonic and conducted in England, Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg, France, Spain, Greece, Austria, Hungary, Finland, Japan, the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, Switzerland, West Germany and the United States.

He has recorded with the Stockholm Philharmonic, the Stockholm Radio Symphony Orchestra, the Copenhagen Radio Symphony Orchestra and the Oslo Philharmonic.

Pianist Ilan Rogoff was born in Tel-Aviv to a family of musicians. He studied with Karol Klein at the Tel-Aviv Academy, making his first appearance with the orchestra at the age of 12.

He continued his studies with Stefan Askenase at the Royal Conservatoire in Brussels with Leonard Shure in New York where he was later coached by Claudio Arrau and Vladimir Horowitz.

In 1970, Rogoff debuted with the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, and that appearance was soon followed by engagements visiting European orchestras in the United States and with the Boston, Baltimore, Minnesota and St. Louis symphony orchestras.

Since taking residence in London in 1973, he has appeared regularly with the leading British orchestras in recital and on BBC radio and television.

He is best known to American audiences through his piano performances of the music of Frederic Chopin on the PBS-TV Masterpiece Theatre Series "Notorious Woman (the life of George Sand)."

Tickets for both the January 10 and 12 concerts are available at the Ford Auditorium box office at prices ranging from $5 to $11. Master Charge and VISA charge card customers may phone in orders at 962-5524. In addition, a limited number of tickets for students and senior citizens at $2 will be available one hour prior to the concerts.

Symphonic fireworks at concert

A "symphonic fireworks" is planned for the West Bloomfield Symphony Orchestra's first concert of the Eighties.

The music of composers Verdi, Beethoven, Stravinsky and Richard Rodgers has been chosen for the evening's performance on Sunday, January 27.

A symphonic scenario from the famed NBC television production of "Victory at Sea" is on the program's agenda. The music will place you on a submarine in a calm sea. Next, you're marching on Guadalcanal and, suddenly, you're leading an attack against the enemy.

Hear and feel the sounds of lifelessness about you, but fear not. Triumphant you conquer as the orchestra plays the "Hymn of Victory." This selection is only part of the "fireworks."

Beethoven is represented with his exciting Symphony No. 7. This symphony, written in 1812, is one of the few works of its kind that has no slow movement. The second movement, usually the slow movement of the classic four movement symphony, is marked allegretto, which means somewhat less than fast, but certainly not slow.

This absence of a slow movement seems to sum up the symphony itself — it never walks, but runs, moving constantly forward and propelled by a tremendous energy. Often its bold, vigorous melodies seem to dance, and Richard Wagner went so far as to call this Symphony No. 7 "the apotheosis of the dance."

Beethoven himself called this work "one of my best."

To add flame to the "symphony fireworks," the orchestra will play Stravinsky's "Firebird Suite." The Russian folk tale takes the listener into direct contact with the Firebird. Its feathers blaze with a golden sheen, its eyes shine like crystal, and it dwells in a golden cage.

In the depth of the night, the Firebird flies into a garden and lights up as brilliantly as could a thousand burning fires. The Firebird is special because it has the power or bestowing youth and beauty. Musically, the tale depicts young prince Ivan capturing the Firebird and, upon releasing the bird, is rewarded with a golden feather. Thus the adventure begins.

Opening the evening's concert is Verdi's Overture to "La Forza del Destino (The Force of Destiny)." This composition was written in the rich period of Verdi's creative life. Allow him to set the stage for a drama of murder and ill-fated love.

The orchestra's regularly-scheduled concerts are held in the West Bloomfield High School auditorium at 4925 Orchard Lake Road. Concerts begin at 7:30 p.m.

Tickets are priced at $6 for adults and $3 for students and senior citizens. Tickets may be reserved ahead of time by calling the symphony office at 626-1560. Any tickets which remain will be available at the door beginning at 6:30 p.m. before the performance.

The West Bloomfield Symphony Orchestra is a non-profit organization supported in part through a grant from the Michigan Council of the Arts.

'Tip Up Town' highlights winter festivals

Contrary to some opinions, winter in Michigan is a season of exciting events and exhilarating fun. It's every kind of winter sport you can think of — and some we thought up — plus a full program of family-style festivals and events.

Probably the best known, and surely one of Michigan's most popular ice-covered events is Houghton Lake's "Tip-Up Town, USA" which is scheduled for the weekends of January 18-20 and 26-27.

"Tip-Up Town" was originated some

While activities still center around ice fishing contests and prize-winning catches of pike, bass and panfish, the list of "non-fishy" things to do is long and varied.

There are parades, dances, golf tournaments on the ice, balloon rides, parachute jumps and the "largest snowmobile safari in the world." There is something for everyone and all with one purpose, as stated in the Tip-Up by the hardest — or fool-hardest — festival goers.

Town by-laws: "to promote bigger lies, hilarity, Tom Foolery and good will."

Perchville USA, scheduled for February 1-3 at East Tawas, is another event that originally was inspired by ice fishing. The most popular tradition of Perchville, however, is the Polar Bear Swim, an invigorating dip in the frigid February waters of Tawas Bay

In the beginning, participants "took the plunge" on a dare for a reward of $20. Today it's all for the "goose bumped" honor of membership in the Polar Bear Club.

Depression era photos on exhibit in Detroit

Recognizing that 1979 marked the 50th anniversary of the start of the Great Depression, the Detroit Historical Museum has a special exhibition: "Dorothea Lange: Her Collection."

Lange, who died in 1965 at the age of 70, is best remembered for her photographs of Depression victims, especially the landmark image, "Migrant Mother."

Photographing people as they were — living and working — was the most noteworthy aspect of her work. However, she also was sensitive to the needs of her subjects and felt it was her responsibility to make their plight known through her work.

Not only did the directness of her photographs awaken the nation to the dire straights of the poor and homeless, but the simplicity and strong composition of her work also have profoundly affected American photojournalism.

According to Robert Kothe, the museum curator handling the installation of the exhibition, Lange's works should be of particular interest to photographers and historians of photography.

"As the nation pauses to reflect on the 50th anniversary of the Great Depression, it is significant to note that many of our images of that period in American history have derived directly from the photography of Dorothea Lange," commented Kothe.

The exhibit will be at the Detroit Historical Museum until this Sunday. The museum is located at Woodward and Kirby in the Cultural Center and is open from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday and from 1-5 p.m. on Sunday. More information is available at 833-1805.

AT A TIME WHEN Michigan's home building industry is facing great uncertainty, Andris Ronis of Saginaw has been elected president of the 5,400 member Michigan Association of Home Builders.

ANDRIS RONIS

"In 1978 we built more than 63,000 housing units in Michigan and employed 100,000 workers," Ronis said. "If the Federal Reserve sticks to a policy of tight money and high interest rates, we expect housing production to fall by 50 percent in 1980 with nearly 50,000 jobs lost."

Ronis' projections were based on an analysis completed by the National Association of Home Builders, based on anticipated mortgage interest rates of 13 to 14 percent.

The study also concluded that the decline in housing activity in Michigan would cost $299 million in tax revenue and more than $3.5 billion in local economic activity.

In spite of projections for a difficult year for the industry, Ronis remains optimistic.

"Higher mortgage interest rates have slowed the market," he said, "but buying a house is still the best investment the American family can make. The cost of housing continues to climb faster than inflation and the increasing number of families requiring housing places demand at an all-time high.

"I expect housing prices to surge once again when mortgage rates begin to taper off," added Ronis.

Ronis came to America with his family when he was 18 years old. His father was a builder in Latvia and went to work as a carpenter in the Saginaw area. Seven years later, he started his own business, Ronis Construction, Inc., which has operated successfully for more than 20 years. This past year Ronis opened a realty office in Saginaw.

"Although the next few months may look a little rocky, our industry expects a very positive market over the next 10 years," Ronis said. "Now is the time to unite as a building industry and work to insure our future."

IT'S A POSITIVE ATTITUDE that has expanded the business of Hamburg Warehouse, 10588 Hamburg Road, over 20 percent in the last few months owner Matt Lyberg said recently.

"There's talk that there will be a recession," Lyberg commented, "and we've decided not to participate."

Lyberg said the increase in the dollar amount of business has been over 22 percent and is a direct result of increasing the inventory stock and volume of carpeting, linoleum and floor tiles that the company carries.

It is a positive attitude that will keep business booming, Lyberg insists. "There's a lot of business out there," he said, "if you just go out and get it."

EMERY AIR FREIGHT has expanded its overnight pick-up and delivery service to businesses in Brighton, Highland, Howell and Milford, regional manager John McAllister said, making it possible to deliver freight to 106 cities from these four mid-Michigan areas for the first time.

Emery is the world's largest air cargo company, McAllister said, and is part of a network that is supported by 300 local delivery vans and more than 50 aircraft. The company provides predictable next morning delivery by 11 a.m. to those 106 cities for all packages weighing less than 70 pounds and is often less expensive than regular air routes.

"Because pick-up and delivery will now be handled directly by Emery," McAllister said of the new expansion, "a customer will save about $7 to $22 on a normal shipment (and they) will also enjoy the reliability of using a single carrier from door-to-door."

THE BRIGHTON STATE BANK has entered into a trust relationship with Pacesetter Bank and Trust of Owosso, Michigan, Brighton State Bank officials announced recently.

The new arrangement offers Brighton customers and the community the services of estate planning, trust and estate administration, employee benefit plans, investment and property management and other miscellaneous trust services.

Three trust officers from Pacesetter—James P. Weller, Daniel K. Pierce and Elmer A. Doege—are available at the Brighton State Bank the third Wednesday and Thursday of each month to answer questions and provide information.

The three men are lawyers and experienced in various trust areas, a Brighton Bank spokesperson said.

Doege, probably the most experienced of the three, has over 40 years of work with larger trust departments to his credit. He has also held membership and faculty positions in numerous banking, professional and educational organizations. Doege was recently head of the trust department at Pacesetter and currently serves as a trust consultant. His areas of expertise include trust and estate administration, planning, investments and new business development.

Pierce, vice-president of the Owosso bank, has approximately seven years background in a larger Michigan-based trust department where his responsibilities included estate and account administration, supervision over additional staff, tax planning and new business development. He currently heads the trust department at Pacesetter.

Weller has had two and a half years of trust department experience consisting mainly of trust, estate, and employee plan administration along with new business development.

The package would eliminate minimum benefits for general injuries, increase maximum weekly benefits but with no cost of living escalator, provide for coordinating benefits with pension plans and social security and pay for retroactive benefits from the state's general funds.

The plan was not received well by either business or labor. Labor said the plan would take benefits away from workers and business said it would be too expensive for business and industry to handle.

Milliken said the proposal represented a backing off from his position of reform. He suggested if the package could be adopted, the reform could go forward.

"At least, let us go and get this balanced approach. This will satisfy no one. It will not satisfy management and it will not satisfy labor. It is a limited and balanced approach," the governor said.

Under a bill approved during the final hours of the legislative session this year, the Senate approved a bill expanding renter credit for rent paid by senior citizens and low income persons.

With an annual estimated cost of $8.5 million, the bill would provide a credit for senior citizens for rent payments over 50 percent of their income. Other low income persons would receive a credit for 75 percent of anything over 40 percent of their income.

An income level of $12,000 was placed in the bill as a qualifier.

The House must approve the plan before it takes effect.

Remodeling 'tight dollar' answer

With home mortgages scarce and costly and the prices of houses soaring, many people find remodeling their present home the best solution to the need for more space.

Financing a home improvement depends on several factors, the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants say. These include the kind and amount of debt already on the property, a person's own financial condition and the type of improvements to be made.

To get the "remodeling dollar" back, say the CPAs, use this rule of thumb in determining which home improvements will add most to the resale value of the house:

—100 percent at resale if one adds new space to the present house.

—75 percent if one modernizes an existing room.

—50 percent if one adds swimming pools, barbecue pits, patios and the like.

In deciding on how to finance the home improvement, the CPAs suggest several ideas for this decision.

Don't accept the loan terms offered by a home improvement contractor without first comparing them with terms offered by local lenders. Ask a local bank, savings and loan association or credit union for the least expensive way to raise the cash that is needed.

When planning home improvements, CPAs advise seeing whether current mortgage contains a clause that would let the person borrow up to the amount already paid off at the same interest rate.

Even though a service fee will be charged, this could well be the most economical way to borrow what is needed.

Refinancing current mortgage may be another good way to raise cash for home improvements.

The maximum amount that one can borrow will depend on the appraised value of the property and the amount of principal already paid off. Maximum time for repayment can vary. Relative cost will be the current mortgage rate in the area, plus closing costs.

One little known source of cash for home improvements is the "little FHA loan." CPAs report it's available in limited numbers to lower-income homeowners in communities of less than 20,000 people.

These federally subsidized loans carry interest rates very low and are repayable over a period up to 25 years. Inquire at a local office of the U.S. Department of Agriculture for more information.

Sisters

*Sometimes you make it hard to love you,
By screaming and yelling at things I do,
Flirting with boys you know are bad,
Constantly hurting and making me mad.*

*But little sister, I know I'm just as rotten
Doing things that are best forgotten,
I also scream and yell.
I hurt you too and make you mad,
I also flirt with guys I know are bad,
We both put the other through a little hell.*

*How alike but different we are as well,
I only wish that we could try
To let the bygones go by.
Remember the good times we've had,
Our intimate talks of good and bad,
Going out together and having a ball,
With no care in the world at all.
Sharing heartaches of love and pain,
Trying to keep from going insane,
I guess we'll always have our spats,
Always to the other brats.
But no matter what, the love will stay,
Remaining forever to the end of the day.*

UGH

*In the summer-time—
There are house flies and horse flies,
Fish flies and dragon flies
Vinegar flies and fruit flies
Gnat flies, mosquito flies,
Ball flies and shoo flies
Midge flies and butterfly flies,
Garden flies and blow flies,*

*And in wintertime—
The snow flies!*

Intervalled Identity

*Apples perfuming the counting air,
The breath of Fall measuring selves—
To space smell, interval, and time
To stalinglass jars on winter shelves.*

The Twelfth Day of Christmas

*Two weeks after Christmas and all through the town
The street decorations are still coming down.
The paper-mache, bedraggled and torn
Is hanging in tatters, looking very forlorn.*

*The tired red bells are forgotten and weary,
The faded trees lie abandoned and dreary...
The dolls and the toys and presents galore
Are all scattered 'round the house, down on the floor.*

*Talk of St. Nick is no longer heard
And of reindeer prancing you hear not a word.
The old Christmas carols are now laid to rest
While "dreams of white Christmas" have all
lost their zest.
The yuletide cards are now filed for a year,
already here.*

*The twelfth day of Christmas is, as you must know
The end of the season and New Year's bright glow,
Those "week-end vacations" are now past and gone...
About all that is left is a sigh and a yawn.*

Charles E. Hutton

Nikki, One of the Chosen Few

(For the Shekell family)

*Into each life, heartache must fall.
We cannot understand why.
Some are allowed to continue their hate.
Some, young and living, must die.*

*Death. Is it final? Or is it release?
Freedom to go where you dream.
Freedom to be allowed to sing.
Freedom to catch a moon beam.*

*Somewhere over the rainbow.
A meadow where fairies dance.
Emerald city, a land of Oz.
Enchantment for those who advance.*

*Peter Pan, a world of play.
Peppermint, candy galore.
Fairytale do come true,
When you're chosen to open the door.*

*To depart this earth is a privilege bestowed.
To see what's ahead for us all.
Into our dreams, they place the hints;
Those who have opened the door.*

At Ford Auditorium

Pianist to make debut with DSO

Herbert Blomstedt will be on the podium as pianist Ilan Rogoff makes his debut with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra (DSO) this Thursday and Saturday at Ford Auditorium. Both performances start at 8:30 p.m.

Born in 1927, Blomstedt completed his studies in conducting, piano, violin, organ and music education at the Royal Music Academy of Stockholm as well as music theory at the University of Uppsala.

In the following years, he received training through repeated visits to the International Summer Course for Conducting at the Salzburg Mozartium with Igor Markevitch and visits to the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, Juilliard School of Music in New York and Tanglewood with Leonard Bernstein.

He also participated in the International Summer Course for New Music in Darmstadt and studied the performance of old music at the "Schola Cantorum" in Basel.

Blomstedt debuted in 1954 in a concert with the Stockholm Philharmonic where he has since been regular guest conductor. In the same year, he undertook the direction of the Norrköping Symphony.

From 1962 to 1968 he held the position of Principal Conductor of the Oslo Philharmonic. Since 1967, he worked as Chief Conductor of the Copenhagen Radio Symphony.

In 1961, he was appointed to the Stockholm Music Academy as an instructor of conducting and, in 1965, he became professor.

Simultaneously to his activity in Sweden, which he carried on until 1970, he was involved in extensive guest activities. He led tours of the Stockholm Philharmonic and conducted in England, Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg, France, Spain, Greece, Austria, Hungary, Finland, Japan, the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, Switzerland, West Germany and the United States.

He has recorded with the Stockholm Philharmonic, the Stockholm Radio Symphony Orchestra, the Copenhagen Radio Symphony Orchestra and the Oslo Philharmonic.

Pianist Ilan Rogoff was born in Tel-Aviv to a family of musicians. He studied with Karol Klein at the Tel-Aviv Academy, making his first appearance with the orchestra at the age of 12.

He continued his studies with Stefan Askenase at the Royal Conservatoire in Brussels with Leonard Shure in New York where he was later coached by Claudio Arrau and Vladimir Horowitz.

In 1970, Rogoff debuted with the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, and that appearance was soon followed by engagements with European orchestras in the United States and with the Boston, Baltimore, Minnesota and St. Louis symphony orchestras.

Since taking residence in London in 1973, he has appeared regularly with the leading British orchestras in recital and on BBC radio and television.

He is best known to American audiences through his piano performances of the music of Frederic Chopin on the PBS-TV Masterpiece Theatre Series "Notorious Woman (the life of George Sand)."

Tickets for both the January 10 and 12 concerts are available at the Ford Auditorium box office at prices ranging from $5 to $11. Master Charge and VISA charge card customers may phone in orders at 962-5524. In addition, a limited number of tickets for students and senior citizens at $2 will be available one hour prior to the concerts.

Symphonic fireworks at concert

A "symphonic fireworks" is planned for the West Bloomfield Symphony Orchestra's first concert of the Eighties.

The music of composers Verdi, Beethoven, Stravinsky and Richard Rodgers has been chosen for the evening's performance on Sunday, January 27.

A symphonic scenario from the famed NBC television production of "Victory at Sea" is on the program's agenda. The music will place you on a submarine in a calm sea. Next, you're marching on Guadalcanal and, suddenly, you're leading an attack against the enemy.

Hear and feel the sounds of lifelessness about you, but fear not. Triumphantly you conquer as the orchestra plays the "Hymn of Victory." This selection is only part of the "fireworks."

Beethoven is represented with his exciting Symphony No. 7. This symphony, written in 1812, is one of the few works of its kind that has no slow movement. The second movement, usually the slow movement of the classic four movement symphony, is marked allegretto, which means somewhat less than fast, but certainly not slow.

This absence of a slow movement seems to sum up the symphony itself — it never walks, but runs, moving constantly forward and propelled by a tremendous energy. Often its bold, vigorous melodies seem to dance, and Richard Wagner went so far as to call this Symphony No. 7 "the apotheosis of the dance."

Beethoven himself called this work "one of my best."

To add flame to the "symphony fireworks," the orchestra will play Stravinsky's "Firebird Suite." The Russian folk tale takes the listener into direct contact with the Firebird. Its feathers blaze with a golden sheen, its eyes shine like crystal, and it dwells in a golden cage.

In the depth of the night, the Firebird flies into a garden and lights up as brilliantly as could a thousand burning fires. The Firebird is special because it has the power or bestowing youth and beauty. Musically, the tale depicts young prince Ivan capturing the Firebird and, upon releasing the bird, is rewarded with a golden feather. Thus the adventure begins.

Opening the evening's concert is Verdi's Overture to "La Forza del Destino (The Force of Destiny)." This composition was written in the rich period of Verdi's creative life. Allow him to set the stage for a drama of murder and ill-fated love.

The orchestra's regularly-scheduled concerts are held in the West Bloomfield High School auditorium at 4925 Orchard Lake Road. Concerts begin at 7:30 p.m.

Tickets are priced at $6 for adults and $3 for students and senior citizens. Tickets may be reserved ahead of time by calling the symphony office at 626-1560. Any tickets which remain will be available at the door beginning at 6:30 p.m. before the performance.

The West Bloomfield Symphony Orchestra is a non-profit organization supported in part through a grant from the Michigan Council of the Arts.

'Tip Up Town' highlights winter festivals

Contrary to some opinions, winter in Michigan is a season of exciting events and exhilarating fun. It's every kind of winter sport you can think of — and some we thought up — plus a full program of family-style festivals and events.

Probably the best known, and surely one of Michigan's most popular ice-covered events is Houghton Lake's "Tip-Up Town, USA" which is scheduled for the weekends of January 18-20 and 26-27.

"Tip-Up Town" was originated some

30 years ago by a handful of ice fishermen. Today it is rated among the top 10 winter festivals in the nation.

While activities still center around ice fishing contests and prize-winning catches of pike, bass and panfish, the list of "non-fishy" things to do is long and varied.

There are parades, dances, golf tournaments on the ice, balloon rides, parachute jumps and the "largest snowmobile safari in the world." There is something for everyone and all with one purpose, as stated in the Tip-Up by the hardest — or fool-hardest — festival goers.

Town by-laws: "to promote bigger lies, hilarity, Tom Foolery and good will."

Perchville USA, scheduled for February 1-3 at East Tawas, is another event that originally was inspired by ice fishing. The most popular tradition of Perchville, however, is the Polar Bear Swim, an invigorating dip in the frigid February waters of Tawas Bay

In the beginning, participants "took the plunge" on a dare for a reward of $20. Today it's all for the "goose bumped" honor of membership in the Polar Bear Club.

Perchville also encompasses a host of less daring activities and events.

Depression era photos on exhibit in Detroit

Recognizing that 1979 marked the 50th anniversary of the start of the Great Depression, the Detroit Historical Museum has a special exhibition: "Dorothea Lange: Her Collection."

The show is traveling nationally by arrangement through the Smithsonian Institution. It was organized by the Oakland (California) Museum.

This major retrospective of Lange's works covers the years from 1919 to the 1940s, including her documentary photography with the Farm Security Administration in the mid and late 1930s.

Lange, who died in 1965 at the age of 70, is best remembered for her photographs of Depression victims, especially the landmark image, "Migrant Mother."

Photographing people as they were — living and working — was the most noteworthy aspect of her work. However, she also was sensitive to the needs of her subjects and felt it was her responsibility to make their plight known through her work.

Not only did the directness of her photographs awaken the nation to the dire straights of the poor and homeless, but the simplicity and strong composition of her work also have profoundly affected American photojournalism.

According to Robert Kothe, the museum curator handling the installation of the exhibition, Lange's works should be of particular interest to photographers and historians of photography.

"As the nation pauses to reflect on the 50th anniversary of the Great Depression, it is significant to note that many of our images of that period in American history have derived directly from the photography of Dorothea Lange," commented Kothe.

The exhibit will be at the Detroit Historical Museum until this Sunday. The museum is located at Woodward and Kirby in the Cultural Center and is open from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday and from 1-5 p.m. on Sunday. More information is available at 833-1805.

Gymnasts bounce Groves in opener

By ELLEN SPONSELLER

The elusive dream of getting to the state girls' gymnastics finals may be coming into focus if the Northville High School gymnastics team can do to other teams what it did to hapless Birmingham Groves Thursday night.

Groves didn't have a chance as Northville's seven-member team racked up a cumulative score of 72.5 for four gymnastics events to win its season opener. Groves' cumulative score was only 49.8.

Northville was led by Sophomore Paula Broderick who took an 8.3 on the vault, 7.15 on the uneven parallel bars, 7.0 on the balance beam and 7.9 on floor exercises with her strong and graceful execution.

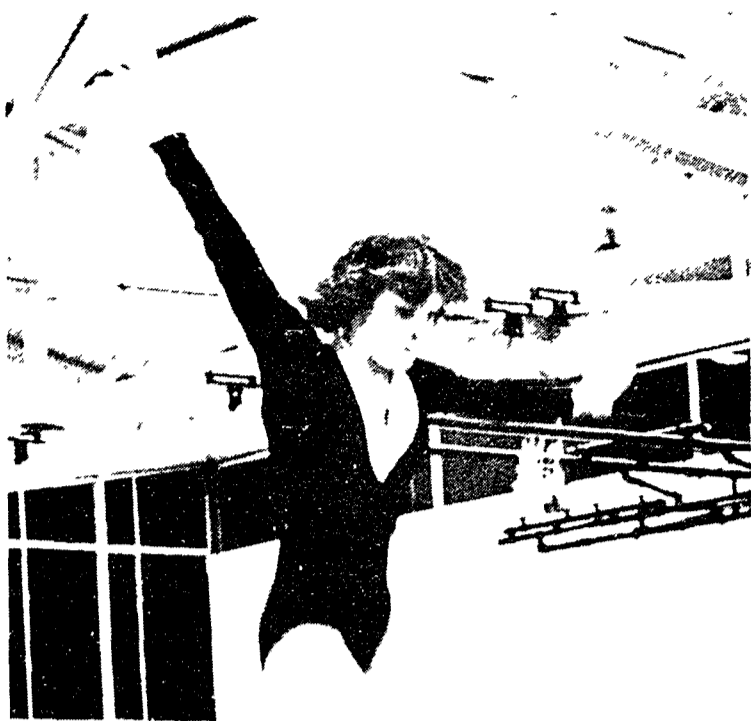

Fine performances by Senior Amy Missel, captain, with a 6.75 on the floor exercises and Junior Anita Hodge with a 6.6 on the vault served to secure the win for NHS.

Coach Jack Townsley said Northville's main advantage over Groves was the extra practice his girls had over Christmas vacation.

"We put in a lot of work over the holidays," he said. "It might have been a closer meet but that made the difference. We worked. Their girls didn't."

Townsley hopes the team's persistence pays off in a trip to the state finals in the spring.

Olympics our swansong?

What a vacation. After three years of skiing the less than challenging slopes of Mt. Brighton, I decided to head north to the land of mountains, where the big boys and girls play. I wanted to see what skiing was really all about.

I probably would have, too, if there had been any snow.

In September, when I first asked for last week off, the least of my worries was whether there would be enough snow. By January, I reasoned, the main problem would be finding huskies and sleds to get me to the resort. Ha.

There was no snow. At Boyne Mountain, supposedly the home of the most challenging skiing in Michigan, there were isolated patches of the artificial variety. But there was just as much brown and green. In fact, skiing there was like maneuvering down the face of an albino with leprosy.

Poor attempt at humor, I know. I shouldn't be so negative. I was able to relax in a nice little cabin near Houghton Lake, curl up by a fire and read for a week. It was a welcome change of pace from the hectic finale of 1979.

I guess I'm negative because this morning, as I was driving to work on the highway, amidst the hurricane winds and howling snow, I heard a loud bang on my car's roof. Looking in the rear view mirror, I spotted half of my ski carrier careening on the pavement 30 yards behind me.

The traffic was slow, the weather was bad and my mood was worse. I couldn't stop and pick it up. It seems a fitting end to my ski vacation.

And now for a journalistic no-no. You are not supposed to change your subject halfway through a story. But rules are like wishbones; made to be broken.

While enjoying the roaring northland fire, I read an article in the Detroit Free Press in which the subjects of Russia's recent invasion of Afghanistan and the upcoming 1980 Olympics were discussed.

What have the two in common? Plenty, regretfully.

You see, some British politicians are pushing rather vigorously for a Western boycott of the competition, in order to protest the Russian military action.

The idea has caught on with other nations. There is a growing feeling of helplessness in many Western countries. How do you stop communist aggression without waging war? The Communists know that we don't want war and that we will go so far to prevent it that we may even turn our eyes away when they invade other countries. Which, in turn, gives the communists more reason for boldness.

America can stop grain shipments and even yell loudly for the Russians to stop. But what of the other, smaller Western countries that don't have the weak, albeit useful lever of economic pressures that America can pit against the Russians?

The one area where they can apply pressure is in the Olympics. By boycotting, these small free countries feel they can somehow hurt the Soviet Union. Maybe so.

But I for one don't want to see this important athletic event be used as a tool for politicians. The spirit of the competition is above nations' political hatred and aggression. It is special.

The Olympics transcend all that is non-sports. The Greeks started it as a means of friendly and true athletic competition between city-states that went to war with each other more often than Archie yells at Edith.

The competition was revived at the turn of the recent century and has done more to preserve mutual respect and friendly feelings between nations than any United Nations decree or SALT agreement could ever hope to achieve.

Perhaps the greatest challenge to the Olympics existence was posed by World War II. Incredibly, the competition was held in Germany, which was under the demented leadership of Adolph Hitler.

There was talk of boycotting then. But we didn't. Instead, Jesse Owens led a contingent of rainbow Americans (white, red, yellow and black) to a decisive and shattering victory over Hitler's Arian "supermen".

More than a victory for the good guys over the bad, Owens and his fellow athletes won the respect and admiration of the Nazi participants. Americans were great athletes, not the enemy. German participants weren't Nazis anymore, but very excellent athletes.

If the world hailed America's win as a blow for democracy, the athletes and those who really knew what competition is all about hailed it as a great win for sport's sake, nothing more.

When the Israeli athletes were killed by terrorists in the 1972 Olympics, there was talk of abandoning the Olympics because the spirit of athletic brotherhood wasn't there, or so the critics yelled. Instead, the competition took place and the spirit of cooperation lifted the affair above the petty squabbles of nations.

And so must this 1980 Olympiad. There may be war soon. There may be hatred and killing. But let's not abandon the one noble deed that our world can accomplish together. It may just be our swansong.

OLV boys win eighth

Our Lady of Victory's seventh and eighth grade boys demolished St. Robert Bellarmine 46-20 Sunday to roll to their eighth straight victory.

Playing his regulars less than 10 minutes, Coach Gene Wagner saw his charges put on their most impressive offensive show of the year.

Chris Wagner's strong board work triggered a blistering fast break attack that saw the Cougars rush to a 20-4 lead midway through the second stanza.

Wagner and Dan Nielson accounted for all of the points during the surge. Even with the reserves playing most of the remainder of the game, St. Robert's never could narrow the margin to less than 12.

Wagner led all scorers with 15 points. Nielson netted 11. Tom McSweeney, Mickey McGrath and Dan Sheehan each notched four and Mike Dewan, Fred Cook, Pat Wagner and Dan Quint collected two points apiece.

In the preliminary game, OLV's fifth and sixth graders notched their second win in six outings as they downed St. Robert's 32-20.

Coach Bernie McClorey's team won the game in much the same manner as the older Cougars. The young Northville squad blitzed St. Robert's early and held a 24-10 half time lead. McClorey substituted early and the bench played most of the second half.

John Lobbia and David Nadeau scored six apiece to pace the Cougars. Sean McLaughlin notched five, and Mike Hillfinger and Sean McClorey four each. John Regan, Tim Isom, and Jeff Stuart scored two apiece and John Larabell notched one.

Grapplers finish 4th at Brighton Invitational

To some wrestling coaches, Northville's fourth place finish at the Brighton Invitational Saturday would be a cause for elation. After all, there were eight schools involved in the affair.

But for Northville's Gary Emerson, satisfaction was not to be had. "I'm not satisfied with fourth place," he said. "Our weight hurt us. We didn't get people in the weight classes where we wanted and that hurt us."

For instance, there are three 98-pound wrestlers on the squad. Brian Manse, who has had a good season to date, was sick all week and couldn't participate. John Naar, who is perhaps the strongest of the small men, couldn't make weight. That left the duties to Neal Hartshorne, who is the smallest of the three.

A fighter, Hartshorne nevertheless lost both of his matches Saturday to start his team's competition.

At the 105-pound weight class, Emerson's problems were even more apparant. He didn't have anyone who could make that weight. So the team had to sacrifice the points.

At 112 pounds, captain Bill Blanchard continued his unbeaten streak by narrowly defeating Holly's Bruce Robinson in the finals, 4-3.

Drawing a bye in the first round and downing Linden's Scott Rowe in the second frame 9-6, Blanchard knew he had a tough match coming up with Robinson.

The two had met twice last year, with Robinson winning both matches.

It looked like more of the same for the Mustang as Robinson managed to score three points in the third period to take the lead 3-0. But with 20 seconds left in the match, Blanchard broke away for two points and then got two back-points for position to take a dramatic 4-3 win.

Paul Raczkowski finished fourth in the 119 pound class. He won his first match, against Brighton's Jim Hatch, 11-2, but lost in the second round 6-1 to Derrick Standzyk of Holly. In the third frame Raczkowski downed Darrell Farquhar of Portage Central but then lost to Linden's Steve Newville 13-6.

Steve Platt won his first match at 132 pounds. He won a referee's decision in overtime over Pinckney's Andrew Rangal. But Platt was pinned in his next two matches, to Holly's Dave Hatch and Haslet's John Christi.

At 138 pounds, Vilas Allen, who was seeded second in the affair, finished in that position.

He drew a bye in the first round and then beat Holly's Britt Borella 12-8. But in the finals, Rob Hershey of Portage Central downed the Northville grappler 12-3.

In perhaps the most exciting three-match series for the Mustangs, unseeded Steve Morgan, wrestling at 145 pounds, not only placed for Northville but won his weight class.

Morgan pinned Tim Towles of Pinckney, the third-seed, in just three minutes and then clobbered the second-seed, Haslet's Steve Bennet, 8-4. In the finals Morgan twisted Brighton's Chip Nestor into a pretzel and won by a pin.

At 155 pounds, Mustang Don Lucas took a second, losing in the finals to Randy Schultz of Holly. In the first round, Lucas beat Russel Bruce of Portage Central 17-6. He came from behind with 20 seconds left in the second match to beat Scott Loveland of Brighton, 9-8. That set the stage for his contest with Schultz.

Bob Boshoven, wrestling at 167 pounds, was pinned in the first round and lost 3-1 in the second.

At 185 pounds, Neal Young took fourth. He wasn't seeded for the Invitational.

Young started out on the wrong foot, losing to Pinckney's Gary Darrow by a pin in the first round. But Young muscled his way back in the second round, beating John Loveland of Brighton 8-6. In a rematch, Darrow just escaped with a 2-0 win over Young in the finals.

Dan Troher also finished fourth. The 198-pounder pinned Linden's Eric Herholz in the first round, then lost to Carl Wilder of Haslet in the second. Troher was pinned.

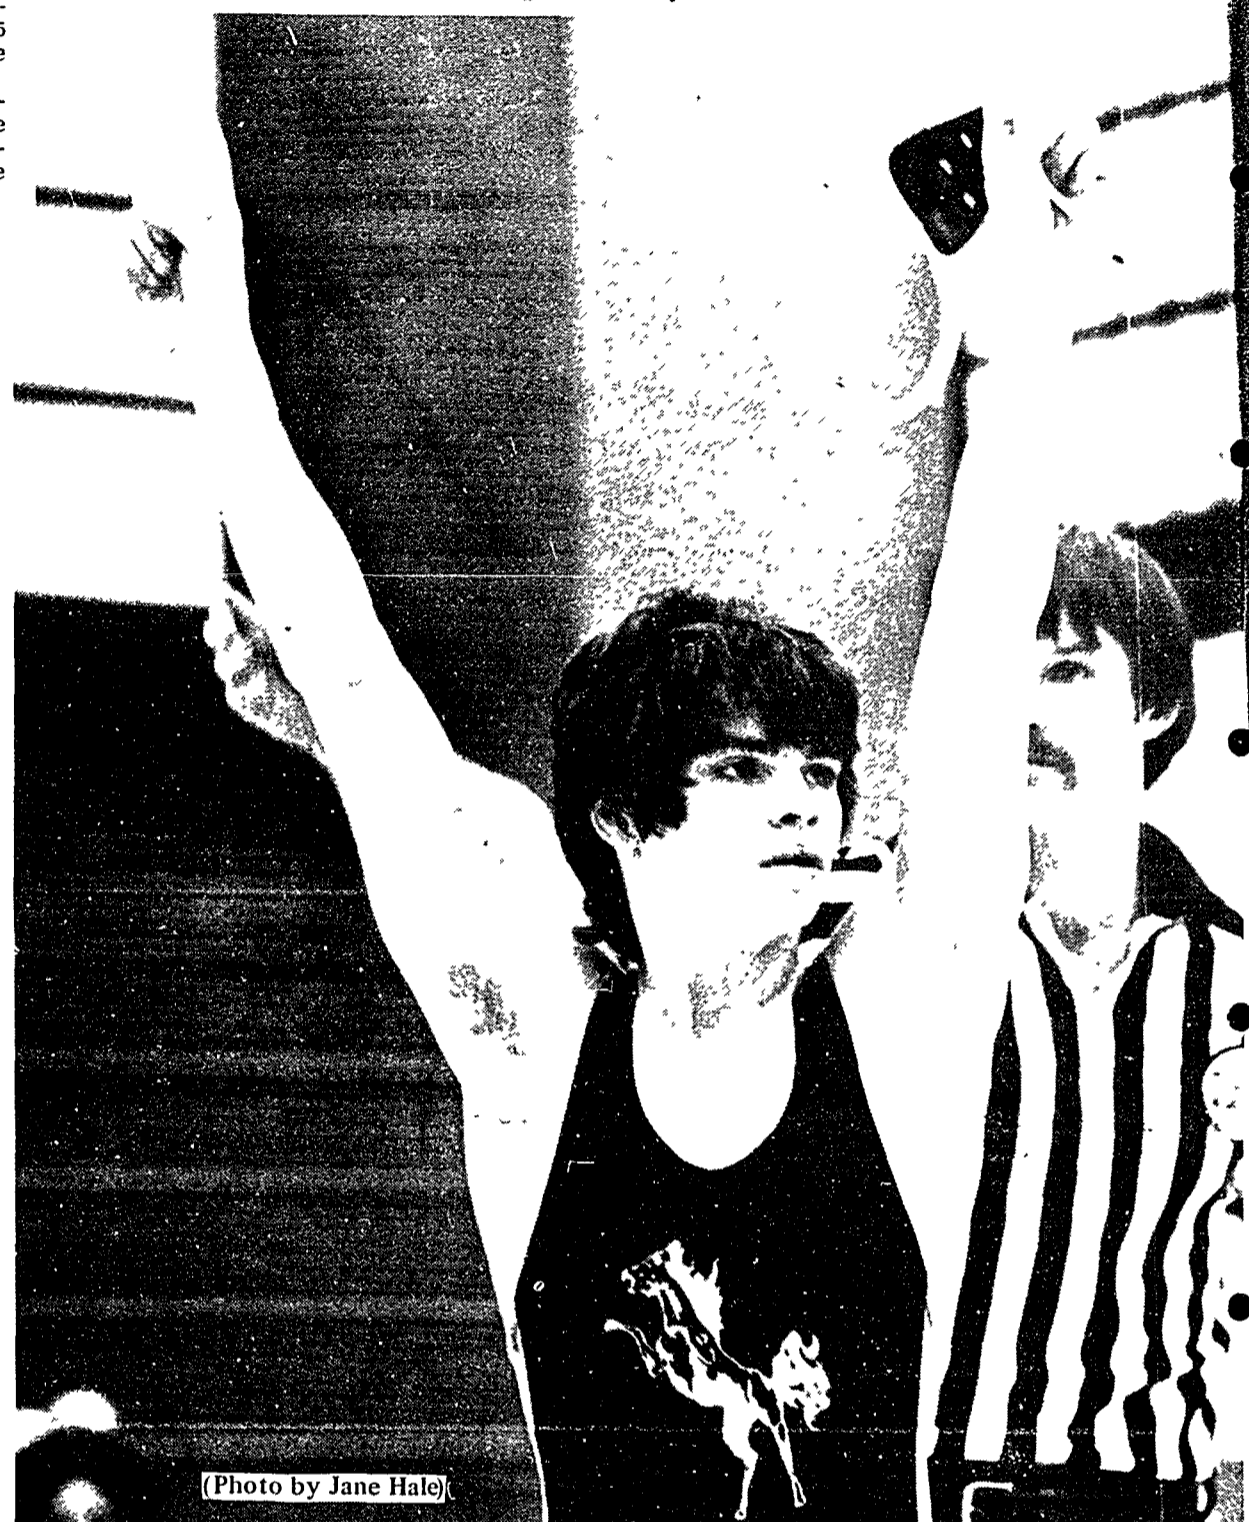

Brian Whitley came up against Troher in the third frame and was squashed to the mat in a pin for his efforts. But Mark Barrett turned the tide on Troher in the finals, pinning the Mustang for a Pinckney win.

Heavyweight Vince Candela got off to a good start by pinning Holly's Russ Robbins, but then lost 3-1 to Richard Virtue of Haslet.

In the third frame Candela pinned Brighton's Scott Underwood but lost to Pinckney's Mark Cook.

Haslet won the Invitational with 173 points. Portage Central was second with 147, Holly third with 122.5, Northville fourth with 107.5, Pinckney fifth with 66, Linden sixth with 50.5, Wall Lake Central seventh with 47 and Brighton brought up the rear with 10 points.

Northville's next action will be against Harrison on Thursday, January 10.

Winter rec programs offer variety of interest

Are you tired of spending your spare time in front of a television set? Do the kids drive you crazy with their boundless energy? Do you feel ready to learn new skills? To have fun meeting new people?

If your answer is "yes"...or even if it isn't, the Northville Recreation Department has something for you.

There are many classes being offered to the community for the winter session. These classes are diverse, inexpensive and educational, department officials emphasize.

If you see something that you think you are interested in or you want to register for immediately, just call 349-0203.

Registration for these classes will take place for one week: Monday, January 14 through Friday, January 18. Register at any time between 8:30 a.m. to noon and 1-5 p.m.

The rec department must have your registration in advance of the class so it can determine how many people will be in each class. Instructors will not accept fees. They must be mailed to or brought to the rec office, located in the new Community Center.

Some of the classes are for children only and some for just adults, while others are for both.

For example there will be a cheerleading class offered beginning

January 20. It will meet on Mondays from 5-6 p.m. and will last 10 weeks. It is for anyone from the age of seven up. The fee is $10.

A women's conditioning class emphasizing music, dance, fitness and exercise will meet in three sessions: morning, afternoon, and evening. The morning and evening session will begin on January 22 and meet either Tuesday or Thursday. Meeting time is 10-11 a.m. and will last 10 weeks. The fee is $12 a day or $16 for both.

The afternoon class will meet starting January 21 and convene every Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 1-2 p.m. The cost for this session is $22 a week. All three sessions will meet at the Community Center.

A variety of dance classes will be offered: everything from disco, tap and ballet to jazz. For more information concerning the times and places for these dance classes, call the rec department.

Each type of dance has sessions for beginners and advanced students. All sessions will take place at the Community Center.

Beginning gymnastics will be offered this winter. The emphasis will be on tumbling and floor exercises. Amy Missel, top gymnast for the Northville High School varsity team, will be the instructor.

This class will begin January 26 and meet every Saturday from noon to 2 p.m. for six weeks. The fee is $12. The lessons will be given at the Northville High School wrestling room.

Many people get involved with karate merely to learn self-defense. Others are involved out of a desire to learn about a different culture, a different way of thought.

If you have thought about taking lessons, but but never have taken them, hesitate no longer. The rec department is offering lessons in Isshinryu Karate.

"This art teaches you all aspects of the martial arts; such as Judo, self-defense, Aikido and weapons. Master Bob White, 4th degree black belt, teaches the course," recreation officials said.

It will meet every Monday and Wednesday from 7-9 p.m. at the Community Center. The fee is $12 per month.

There are a variety of programs for senior citizens.

For example, a daily nutrition program is conducted at the Allen Terrace. This program offers seniors a well-balanced meal. Sign up for the program by calling Mary Schnell between 10 a.m. and noon at 349-9661. The program is free.

Also, there is an art program for senior citizens. It teaches the basics in drawing and painting, and it doesn't require any previous experience. The classes are at Allen Terrace. For more

A senior citizens women's exercise class is also being offered. Lola Alexander is the instructor.

Square dancing for senior citizens is planned. The dancers will meet on Tuesday afternoons from 2:30-4:30 p.m. in the Community Center. Call Marion Campbell for more information. Her number is 545-2337.

Ice skating is offered, both outdoor and indoor. For indoor enthusiasts, call the Plymouth Cultural Center at 455-6620 for information on lessons and openskating hours.

For those interested in outdoor skating, the rec ice skating area is located behind the Community Center.

It is open to the public and is non-supervised.

There is a ski club offered through the rec department. Trips to Alpine Valley on Fridays will start as soon as the snow gets here. Every member must take at least one lesson to be rated for hill assignment. Group rates for tows, rentals and lessons are given as part of membership. The club will provide bus transportation. Call the rec department for more information.

A large swimming program is being offered this winter. Matt Sullivan is the program director.

Classes are held at the Northville High School pool. All classes are on Saturday unless a different day is specified.

Jobs offered for umpires

Winter won't last for ever and once the snows melt and school lets out in June, it will be time to hunt for a summer job.

If working outside, making important decisions and earning a relatively good salary interests you, here is the job you'll be looking for: umpiring.

The Northville Jr. Baseball Association is looking for anyone over 14 years of age, boys and girls or men and women, who might be interested in umpiring the Jr. Baseball season this summer.

The association will furnish all the equipment and will pay each umpire every Saturday, with payment averaging about $10 per game.

Depending upon age and skill level, umpires will be assigned to boys and girls baseball and softball games with players ranging from 9 years to 16 years of age.

Several clinics will be held for instructional purposes prior to the beginning of the season. Interested people should contact Jim Behan at 349-8709 or Dave Longridge at 349-0551. A meeting is scheduled at Cooke Junior High School on Wednesday, January 30 at 7:30 p.m.

There are approximately 1,000 children who participate in this baseball program in the summer, so there is plenty of umpiring work to be done.

Hollie Raycraft in the midst of her balance beam routine

... Gymnastics

"They all did as well as could be expected for our first meet. They were terribly nervous. Last year a major problem was that the girls had a low estimate of their abilities. We have some good athletes here. And they're beginning to realize that they don't have to be satisfied with doing simple routines," he said.

"We're trying to generate a certain amount of excitement for this kind of sport."

Northville fans did not have to look far for excitement as they watched two independent judges give the Mustang girls a 21.35 cumulative tally in the vault event with three top scores of 8.3 by Broderick, 6.6 by Hodge and 6.45 by Missel. Junior Holly Raycraft gained 6.15 on the event. Senior Kris Quinn scored 4.8.

Groves' best category wasn't quite good enough as it gained only 17.2 points on the vault. Julie Murphy scored high for her school with a 6.8 on the event.

Northville battered its opponent 11.70 to 9.00 on the uneven parallel bars even though NHS entered only two competitors and Groves entered three.

Broderick's 7.15 and Hodge's 4.55 point totals outstripped the combined efforts of three Groves gymnasts.

Broderick also topped the balance beam event with 7.0. Raycraft took 6.1 and Missel 5.4 for a cumulative score of 18.5. Senior Nadine Lester scored 3.5.

Groves gained 13.75 points on the event.

The floor exercises iced win for Northville's gymnasts as all four Mustang entrants scored over 6.0 on the event for a total of 20.95.

Broderick took 7.9, Missel 6.75, Raycraft 6.3 and Sophomore Sherri Robins 6.25.

Groves, which entered only three girls in the event captured a shaky score of 9.85.

To get to the state finals Northville has to score at least 84 points in three or more meets. Townsley thinks his team can do it if he can enter enough girls in each event.

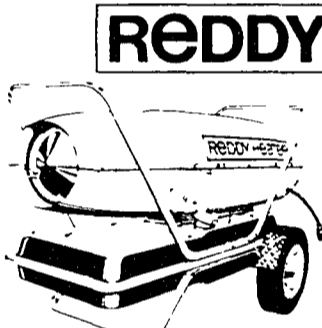

"This week we were just 12 points away so we've got to improve by 12 points. That's our goal," he said. "We have set goals this year, not only to improve our scores but to win more meets."

Last year the team won only one meet so Townsley points out that the girls already have matched last year's win record.

The team started practicing November 12. Its next meet is tonight, January 9, against Farmington High School at 7 p.m. at NHS.

Two other dual meets against Clarenceville January 16 and Dearborn January 23 will be played at home before the team plays Southfield and Farmington Harrison away at the end of the month.

The team goes to the Saline Invitational meet February 2.

Beat South Lyon, lose to Canton

Spikers split first two games of 1980

The 1980 volleyball season started out on a promising note that quickly diminished into the blues.

The Mustang netters opened their season last Friday against South Lyon. Northville stuffed the Lions 15-9 and 15-10 to win the match in the minimum two games.

Seniors Kathy Phillips and Pam Metz were singled out by Coach Steve MacDonald as having played exceptionally well.

Phillips was good on 12 of 13 serves for the winners. In one of the two games she ran off a string of eight straight serves for points.

Metz served 10 times without an error. In the two games she ran off two strings of four straight points.

"Overall our team serving was good," MacDonald said. "We were very consistent. We had 40 good serves out of 45 attempts."

Another potent offensive weapon for the Mustangs was Stacey Hoover, who smashed six spikes for points.

Kim Kurzawa and Lori Westphal, the team's setters, were singled out by MacDonald for their good play.

An area of concern for the Mustang mentor was his defense. "We need to improve on our defense, although we moved with the ball better than I thought we would."

MacDonald's unease at his team's defensive shortcomings was prophetic. Last Monday the team traveled to Canton to face what MacDonald thinks is one of the area's most powerful squads. The result was a quick, two-match loss for Northville. Canton downed the Mustangs 15-7 and 15-7.

"We didn't play with enough intensity to win," MacDonald said. "Canton has four or five girls who are close to six feet tall. We just weren't aggressive enough at the front line."

Kurzawa was hot as a setter, however. The senior co-captain had seven good serves, two dinks (soft taps over the net) and one spike. MacDonald praised her good, all-around play.

Geri Grzena was also singled out for recognition. She arched in five good serves after coming into the contest as a replacement. She also played good defense in the back row for the Mustangs.

"We should have given them a lot better game," MacDonald said. "I think we could have won. We had good sets from Kim and Lori but we didn't spike well. Defensively we moved well again but Canton had a lot of soft shots fall in against us."

The JV netters were a bit more consistent. Too consistent as far as coach Barb Falk is concerned.

The little Mustangs have played two contests so far and each outcome has been identical. What concerns Falk is that her team always seems to lose the first match.

For instance, the Northville squad took on South Lyon in its first taste of action this season and lost the first match 12-15. But the Mustangs came back to win the last two matches of the game 15-6 and 15-12.

Then against Canton the Mustangs lost 15-17 before turning the tide and winning 15-4 and 15-6.

Kevin Swayne comes down with a rebound

Down South Lyon 83-41

Mustangs rip Lions for cage win

Showing outstanding offensive balance and a potent full-court press on defense, the Northville boys basketball team resumed its winning ways after the holiday break with a devastating 83-41 win over South Lyon.

Even though the winners scored over 80 points, only one Mustang finished in double figures. Big Dave Ward, the junior center, slammed the hoop for 24 points and dominated the backboards with 12 rebounds.

Russ Gans and Mike Wagner were next in line offensively. Each tallied nine points. Wagner hauled down six rebounds for the winners.

Duke DuSablon cracked the net for eight points and had five caroms come his way. Doug Crisan, Greg May and Kevin Swayne each scored six points for Northville while Dave Greer and Gary Kucher each tallied five.

Todd Jennings and Craig Wisbiski brought up the rear. Jennings popped in four points while Wisbiski scored one but hauled down five rebounds to solidify the Northville defense.

One of the reasons Northville won so handily was a consistent defense that pressed the Lions for three quarters and caused numerous turnovers that were quickly converted into Mustang points.

The Northville JV weren't so adept. The little Mustangs dropped their contest to South Lyon 55-36.

The Lions jumped out to a quick 25-7 lead after the first quarter but Northville fought back to within nine by the half, 30-21.

OLV girls third

Our Lady of Victory's girls seventh and eighth grade basketball team captured third place in the recent Ladywood High School Christmas Tournament.

The Cougars won their opening match of the tourney against St. Linus of Dearborn Heights, 39-5. OLV then dropped its second-round game against St. Robert Bellarmine, 23-17.

In the consolation contest for the third-place trophy, the Northville squad downed St. Valentine of Redford 34-13.

There were eight teams participating in the tourney. Beth Tabaka was the leading scorer for the Cougars. In the three-game series she canned 19 points, which was good enough to earn her all-tournament honors.
