

Kiwanis horse show, children's fair set this weekend

Harness racing won't resume until fall, but don't be surprised when horses will begin moving onto the Northville Downs premises tomorrow.

They (some 400 of them) and their owners are getting ready for the sixth annual Kiwanis-ASHAM horse show slated Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

"We're really excited about this show," says Kiwanian David Ryan, show chairman. "Unless bad weather hits, we should have the biggest turnout in history."

Besides the officially sanctioned horse show, to be held on the track in front of the grandstands, the sponsoring

Kiwanis club will host a children's fair inside the grandstands — with games booths operated by local organizations.

Also, on Sunday morning beginning at 8 a.m. Kiwanians will hold a pancake breakfast for the public and show participants.

The children's fair will be operated throughout the three-day horse show. Admission to the fair area is free; admission to horse show is $1, with a free beverage available for each horse show ticket-holder.

Tickets may be obtained from Kiwanians or at the gate during the show, which opens Friday afternoon and closes at about 9 p.m. Show time is 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. on the final two days (Saturday and Sunday).

According to Ray Casterline, Kiwanis fair chairman, organizations operating booths will include the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce, Northville (city) Fire Department, Alhambra, Northville Montessori School, Northville Explorers Post, Rotary club, the Greater Northville Republican Club, and the Kiwanis club.

"This (fair) is a first for us," said Casterline, "and while we don't have as

NHS eyeing brighter future

By ELLEN SPONSELLER

Things are looking up at Northville High School, NHS administrators told parents last week at a PTA-sponsored get-together.

"We have a nucleus of students who are really interested," said Ralph Redmond, assistant principal. "We are in an old building with a lot of scars. For a while everyone was looking more at the scars than how the scars could be fixed. But now we have more people thinking positively."

Principal George Aune, Assistant Principal Barbara Campbell and Redmond talked to about 20 parents at the Northville Board of Education offices Thursday evening about counseling, scheduling, attendance, athletics, drugs and the general atmosphere at the high school.

"High school is a time for students to prepare themselves... and it can be a trying time for them and their parents," Aune said. "Our high school is like a small community, where people have ups and downs, anger and joy, frustrations and satisfaction."

"It is a time where young people want to be adults but still want the security of people watching out for them."

The parents in the audience had most questions about the security procedures in the locker rooms (see related story.)

Other issues discussed were:

Counseling

Three counselors work with high school students, Campbell said. Counselors stay with the same class throughout students' three years at NHS. Counseling offices, busy all day, are open to students at any time to help with scheduling, college plans, career or individual problems.

"Counselors are in a relatively invisible position," Campbell said. "Their position is that of a student advocate." Parents may talk to counselors at any time.

Scheduling

NHS has college-type arena scheduling for its students, Campbell said. It is complicated but provides students with a chance to have a say in what classes he or she will take and when.

One parent in the audience pointed out that sophomores often do not get the classes for which they pre-register. But Parent-advisory committee member Ann Cook said that any student who is willing to be flexible can usually get most classes except physical education and physical sciences.

Although students complain about the procedure, they would "have a stroke" if the district went back to computer scheduling, Campbell said.

Attendance

"Our district operates under a new attendance policy which says four unexcused absences and you are dropped; eight absences with one unexcused and you are dropped," Campbell explained.

The policy is working well now that students understand it, she said. "Frankly, we have more problems with parents than with students. We don't have a lot of drops. It's a pain in the

Seek school board seats

Candidates on stump

As the Northville Board of Education election approaches on June 9, the Northville Record has interviewed the three candidates for the two seats open on the board of trustees.

Christopher Johnson, an incumbent, is seeking his second four-year term. Age 24, Johnson is working as a summer law clerk for Cummings, McCloy, Davis and Aho in Livonia. In September he will begin his final year at Detroit College of Law.

On the board he has served as board vice-president and secretary and has been chairman of the policy subcommittee for two years.

Johnson lives at 47234 Dunsany with his mother, sisters and brothers.

Candidate Gerald Munro is making his second election bid. He was unsuccessful in a June 1979 race. Age 42, Munro has a bachelor's degree in business administration and a master's in personnel administration. For the past 10 years he has been personnel director for Schoolcraft College.

Munro lives at 21831 Connemara with his wife Hazel and stepdaughter Connie.

Candidate Ronald Barnum is running for the first time for the board of trustees. He is chairman of the board of the Northville Jaycees, having served previously as president, secretary and director. An insurance agent with Northville Insurance Exchange, Barnum, age 30, has a bachelor's degree in secondary education.

He lives at 515 Reed with his wife Martha and son Greg, age 3.

Each candidate was asked the same six questions by the Record editorial staff. Though the comments below were edited slightly due to space considerations, each candidate is given a similar

Three filed in township

As of 4 p.m. Monday only three township residents had filed as candidates for an elected office in the August 4 primary election.

Larry VanderMolen, 41848 Ladywood, has collected the necessary signatures on nominating petitions to be a Republican candidate for township supervisor; Thomas Cooke, 42672 Steepleview, is a seeking the GOP nomination for trustee; and William Gaul, 42809 Itham Court is a Republican candidate for township constable.

According to the clerk's office, several petitions have been picked up and currently area being circulated.

Filing deadline for the August primary election is 4 p.m. June 3.

Parade set for Monday

Those who died in our country's wars will be remembered in a special program sponsored by Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4012 assisted by American Legion Lloyd H. Green Post 147 Monday.

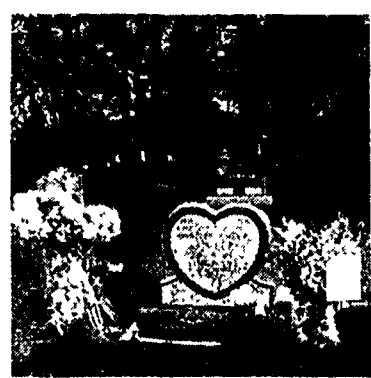

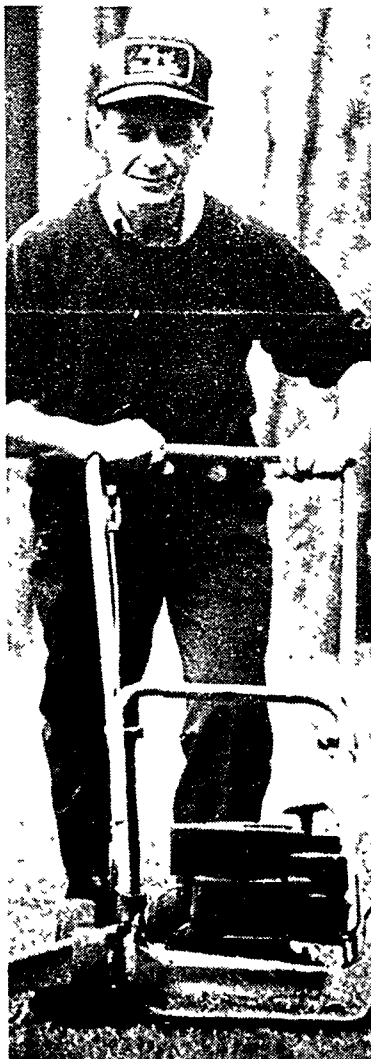

The traditional Memorial Day parade will start at 10 a.m., continuing through town to Rural Hill Cemetery.

Following the parade and program the Northville Community Band will play in front of the American Legion Post Home at 100 Dunlap. Ice cream will be distributed free to children during the concert.

It's not only on the day of remembrance that those who care visit local cemeteries. Graves in Rural Hill Cemetery already are decorated with plants and flowers. The veterans' plot with uniform white markers is being tended by local post members who have asked for that duty. The service traditionally is held here on Memorial Day.

In addition the entire cemetery last week was mowed by William "Scotty" Raeburn and assistants from the DPW. As he carefully maneuvered his small power mower around individual headstones, Raeburn explained that he used to use a riding mower but prefers the hand one "to do a nice job."

The tree-shaded cemetery on the rolling hillside off West Seven Mile just east of Clement indeed does "look nice" because Raeburn and loved ones care.

Fire code may cost ISEP time, dollars

School administrators are fervently hoping that a little-used rule in the state fire code will not end up costing the Northville special education program more than $90,000.

The rule in question is 29.71 (6) of the School Fire Safety Code of 1973 which states, "An exterior door shall be provided for a room housing physically handicapped children on a group basis when the handicap impairs mobility."

The Institutions' Special Education Program's (ISEP) beef is that if that rule is enforced it will mean interminable delays for the opening of the remodeled Annex building on West Main.

"The original drawings for the Annex renovation were approved by the State Fire Marshal's office two years ago," Special Education Director Leonard Resmierski told the Board of Education recently. "The rule was not pointed out to us at the time."

Annex renovations were progressing nicely all winter. Resmierski and architects expected the building could be re-opened for ISEP's severely mentally retarded program in June.

But in February, the fire marshal's office notified the district that it must comply with rule 29.71, meaning that either every room in the Annex would have to have an outside door or a sprinkler system would have to be installed.

The district issued an informal appeal, which was denied the first week of May.

"We're still not out of the woods," Resmierski said. "We have reviewed another plan we hope will be acceptable to the Fire Marshal. But we don't know; this is the first time this rule has been enforced in any district to my knowledge. We are taking the approach that only 16 of our group are non-ambulatory, that most of our kids can walk."

ISEP's new plan is to have two staff members responsible for each non-ambulatory student in case of a fire.

Making of Eagle

When a Boy Scout sets out to earn the coveted Eagle award, he must demonstrate poise, ambition and leadership. And in those areas Scott Munerance of Troop 755 is well on his way towards the award. He appeared before city council recently to outline a community improvement project as part of his Eagle requirement. Scott proposed cleaning out the stream that runs through the northern part of the city, from north of Eight Mile to the millpond. He enlisted the aid of city DPW equipment, recruited other members of Troop 755, and started work early Saturday. He and his helpers kept up a muscle wrenching pace throughout the day. They removed tons of debris, cut brush and otherwise enhanced the stream and its shores. Assisting him were Scouts Charlie Gross, Mike Lapham, Marty Broderick, Steve McLaughlin, Chris Jones and Ray St. Clair.

Effective July 1

Rent hike ahead at Allen Terrace

Because the city trust fund has not covered rent subsidies and the base rental rate at Allen Terrace is below actual operating costs, a rent increase looms for residents of the senior citizen complex.

Executive director Frances Yoakam presented a new schedule to take effect July 1 to the city council at a special meeting May 12.

She explained that she had reached four of the five members of the Allen Terrace Housing Commission and that all had responded favorably. With council approval, the new schedule would be taken to the residents' council. It was last week.

While a base rent of $306 a month would be necessary to cover completely operating costs, it is not expected that Allen Terrace operate without a subsidy, City Manager Steven Walters stated.

A new proposed monthly top unsubsidized rate of $275 is to replace the present $243. The tenants received an increase in February to bring the top to this amount.

The base rate was increased in February from $257 to $275, and minimum subsidized rent was raised from $225 to $243. The present subsidy cost, Ms. Yoakam told the council, is $52,608.

Since the city trust fund is producing only about $12,000 a year an additional operating deficit of $40,600 results from the rent subsidy policy.

The new schedule to go into effect July 1 eliminates an automatic $32 subsidy and provides for a varying city subsidy for all tenants with annual incomes below $7,500.

The subsidy program is being extended to 11 former city residents and parents of city residents, increasing the cost approximately $4,380.

The new table provides a rent increase of 4.9 percent for tenants with annual incomes below $3,500 and a maximum increase of 13.2 percent for those with annual incomes of $7,500 or more.

There are seven tenants who have an income below $3,499 who presently pay $162 a month. There will be 10 in the new schedule who will be paying $170.

Rates on the schedule will go up $8 a month also for those tenants in the bottom five steps up to an income of $5,999 at which point the $243 rent remains the same.

For those with incomes of $6,499 (6 tenants) rates will increase to $251 from $243.

Sharper increases come to those with incomes of $6,999 (2) from $243 to $259. Three with incomes of $7,499 will have an increase from $243 to $267 while the remaining 52 tenants (including 10 with Michigan state certificates (MSHDA) who pay less than maximum with MSHDA picking up the difference) will go from $243 to $275.

In presenting the new rent structure Ms. Yoakam supplied a table of local rents in Northville area apartments.

Base rents were: Innsbrook, $341; Northville Forest, $295 — $325 with increases every six months; Novi 26 Apartments, $275; Northridge, $285 and $5 carport; Fairbrook, $260 — $270; Brookside, $280 — $290; Still others are Little Hill, $245 — $325; Northville Green, $275; Swan Harbor, $365.

In addition, all have extra charges for electric and/or gas, the director said.

It's spring spruce-up time for your mailbox, too, says Northville Postmaster John Steimel, pointing out that this is Mailbox Improvement Week, May 19-24.

He urges local residents to examine their mailboxes to determine whether they have been damaged during the winter by weather or vandalism, particularly those on rural routes.

Steimel notes that a damaged box makes it difficult for carriers to leave letters or packages. The Postal Service does not restrict customers to a specific type mailbox, but does say that all boxes must meet certain specifications for size, strength and location. The post office has specifics.

"You should not use massive farm equipment or heavy objects like plows and milk cans filled with cement to hold up mailboxes," Steimel warns.

By KEN KOVACS

What is a convenience shopping center?

How big is it?

What type of businesses can be located in such a center?

According to Claude Coates, of Vilcan-Leman Associates, township planning consultants, it is a "small center with small shops or one anchored by a food store normally having a drug store."

But the current zoning ordinance for Northville Township does not address itself to convenience shopping.

If a parcel of land is zoned B-2 the owner of the land may develop "any business or retail activity which is not of industrial or manufacturing nature."

In the Master Plan of Land Use adopted in December, the planning commission designated certain areas as preferred sites for commercial development in the township.

One of these is the intersection of Six Mile and Sheldon.

Planners April 29 recommended — by a 4-3 vote (new members Dorothy Gay and Pat Wright did not participate) — that the township board approve a petition to rezone approximately 16 acres at the northwest corner of the intersection from R-2 (single family residential) to B-2 (general business).

Currently in the process of updating the township zoning ordinance, planners now are attempting to find a way to insure that the businesses will serve the "convenience" needs of township residents.

"I would like to see B-2 restricted to businesses that provide what we define as convenience needs," Kenneth McLarty, planning commission chairman said at a study session May 17.

"We just recommended that a corner be rezoned under B-2 and we did it because we believed that it would be a convenience center," he continued. "And, as I understand it, the only way we have to define that in a particular manner is through the zoning ordinance."

"I want B-2 to be very restrictive in a sense that it defines convenience in a very restrictive manner," he said. "The policy statement that we have in our master plan limits business development in the township to the convenience needs of township residents and I want to define under B-2 these convenience needs."

"I have a feeling that this (current B-2 zoning) is inconsistent with the intent of our master plan."

Planners at a study session in April tentatively agreed to do away with the B-3 (regional shopping) district.

But Saturday some planners felt retaining a three-district system might be the answer.

"I can't disagree," said Commissioner Kenneth Sewell. "I would hate to see them (Six and Sheldon property owners) have carte blanche on that corner to put in anything they want, which they do."

"But I think we need three districts," he continued. "I don't think we can totally prohibit certain types of developments."

Coates told planners they could set up three districts, designating one district strictly for convenience shopping.

"You could have a B-2 district and distinguish the type of businesses by uses and property size," he said. "And your B-3 district, which I think you have to have, would be for general business."

Planners agreed to further discuss the matter at a future meeting, the date to be determined at the regular meeting May 27.

Bikers, mostly youngsters, turned out Saturday for the VFW safety program

Officer William Harrison checks Karim Durham's bike

Focus on bike safety

Rain or the threat of rain failed to dampen the spirits of those who turned out Saturday for the bike safety clinic at Northville Downs, sponsored by the Northville VFW post.

Called the Perpetual Light-A-Bike Program, the clinic drew scores of bicyclists who had their bikes inspected, registered and "lighted" with reflectorized tape.

The VFW began its program with a flag ceremony and then, with the assistance of Northville and state police, got down to the business of bike safety. On hand to help kick off the program were State Senator R. Robert Geake, County Commissioner Mary Dumas, Jaycee President Doug Boor, and VFW Fourth District representative George Fursik.

"We are very appreciative of the assistance we received," said a VFW spokesman, who noted that deputy sheriffs furnished patrols at the entrance to the Downs. "A special thank you goes to John Carlo for so graciously allowing us to use the Downs parking lot."

For those who were unable to take advantage of Saturday's program, the VFW post has scheduled other inspections on the third Saturday of each month. The next one will be June 21 from noon until 2 p.m.

"We would like to remind citizens that these clinics are not only for children. Any person who rides a bike should have these reflector tapes attached to his or her bike," the VFW spokesman emphasized.

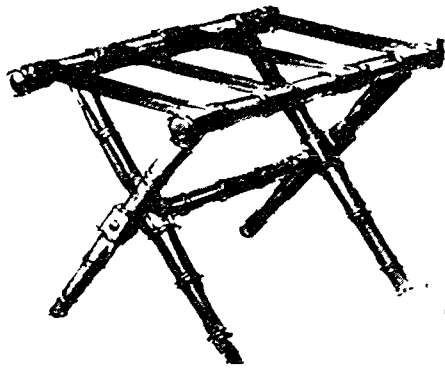

As part of the initial bike safety program, the post gave away a 10-speed bicycle at Saturday's clinic. Winner of the drawing was Joey Bress of 44736 Galway Drive.

School board candidates face the issues

amount of space for the total interview's answers

What are the most important issues facing the Northville school district in the next four years?

Barnum: Other than the financial issues which of course affect all school districts, not just Northville, I think the most important issue will be to get quality education out of the money the taxpayers put into the system. Maybe it is time for some new people to come in and take a look and say it is time to re-invent some pride in the Northville school system. You have to start with the administration and pass it down all the way to the students and parents.

Munro: I think you've got a problem with the physical plant. I've heard lots of complaints. The high school is old. Renovation is going to cost a lot of money. The question is, where is it going to come from? With buildings you've got perhaps 10 years or so free ride and after that things start falling apart. If you put an expenditure of a dollar off today, you're going to have to spend two dollars and a quarter next year.

Also, the quality of education will be an issue. Some people I know are sending their children to private schools, saying Northville schools are not good. That's an attitude. I don't believe that's true, but if everyone believes it is true then it becomes so.

Johnson: Money is critical. How we finance schools will be a big issue...there has been a real shift with individual taxpayers paying the greater percentage of the share of the total education here in Northville...I don't think the state is doing its fair share in helping us the way they help other districts.

For the district, too, we're going to have to come to grips with what we're going to do with the high school. The school needs more than the kind of repairs we've made...We've got to look at long range plans for the junior high and high school.

Also important is employee evaluation. Progress has been very slow. It is hard to make the staff realize how important evaluations are for its own benefit. The evaluations should explain to the individual what needs to be improved...with the budget as tight as it is... it is important that we are making sure that our staff is working as well as we want it to.

How are you qualified to deal with the issues you have mentioned?

Munro: I've worked in higher education 10 years, have a master's in personnel administration. I've worked in industry. At Schoolcraft I am used to bargaining, negotiating the master contract with the board of trustees. I'm used to relating with all sorts of populations.

Johnson: My experience through law school and study in employment labor law are probably my best qualifications. Also the fact that I am probably the youngest candidate and have been through Northville High School most recently and have a fairly good rapport with the staff there.

Barnum: I have been living in Northville since I was four and a half and I've been through all the schools, from elementary to high school, so I can see the district as a student. I have a secondary teaching degree, so I have seen things from the teacher's standpoint. And now I can sit back and look at the district as a businessman and individual citizen. I love Northville and the surrounding area and I wouldn't trade living in this town for anywhere else. The school system in the past has been a drawing card. I don't know to what extent it still is.

School board duties fall roughly into two categories: administration and instruction. Which is your strongest area of expertise? Why?

Johnson: I think the two issues are closely tied. Dealing with finances, for example, really reflects on instruction. But I prefer sitting on the policy and curriculum committees rather than on facilities or finance.

Barnum: Probably my strongest will be an instructional standpoint. I have gone through the teaching aspect. I don't think, however, that finances would be a weak point.

Munro: Administrative, because that's what I do day in and day out. I deal with policy, procedural questions. As far as dealing with students, I think you deal with them in line with your established policy and procedures. As long as you have policies and methodologies set, you can administrate. You've got that type of dynamic.

In your opinion, what needs improvement in the Northville school district?

Barnum: A lot of things could be improved. Especially instilling some pride in the educational process, in the high school and students. I think we have to establish a sense of pride and understanding. Yes, the kids have to be in school but they should want to be there to get an education and have some fun doing it. They are going to get some freedom, as long as they don't abuse it. If they abuse it then I think you ought to restrict it...The school system is the property of everyone in Northville and during the time you are in the schools you are really just haphazardly the building which rightfully belongs to everyone. I'm sure nobody writes graffiti on the bathroom walls at home. If they do, I'm sure they're reprimanded for it.

Munro: Image. The district needs a more positive image. In any situation you will have people who closely identify with the system. We have got to work primarily with the elementary schools and let it flow up to build identification with the system. If I start out in kindergarten knowing that this is a nice place, then I will grow up with that feeling.

Johnson: Communications. We've got to make sure that what we do is in line with what the community is asking us to do; and then what we do has to be more effectively communicated.

The Institutions' Special Education Program takes up about half the school board's time. What are your feelings about the place of special education in a school system?

Munro: When I grew up I guess I knew there were people around on crutches and in wheelchairs but I never saw them. Mainstreaming...has problems but it is the best way. There are examples of kids who were basket cases...who are now able to communicate. The potential is there. The handicapped are better off being merged into the real world. And the real world is better off... If you shunt them aside, the entire society suffers.

Johnson: Our own special ed program has benefited from the personnel and expertise we have in the ISE program. Unfortunately our regular special ed program suffers from the same kinds of problems our K-12 program has, with lack of staff and not being able to do what we'd like to do because of lack of funds...but overall I think it has been a really good thing to have ISEP connected with the district.

Barnum: I think any type of special education program is good. In the past the handicapped have been shunted away. I think it should work hand-in-hand with the regular educational system. The educational process belongs to everybody and they shouldn't be second rate because their mental capacities or physical impairments make them different from anybody else.

School board meetings are twice a month but there are many committees and other sessions which, as a board member, you will be asked to attend. How much time are you willing and able to devote as a school board member?

Johnson: I am certainly willing to devote the time I have in the past.

Barnum: I'm willing to devote as much or more time than my year as president of the Jaycees. I wouldn't be running if I wasn't willing to devote the time to it. I think anybody who has ever met me knows I don't do something half way.

Munro: I am willing to devote the time it takes and I know it is busy. I'll just have to allocate Monday nights for the system. It's a situation where you just block your time.

Holy cow! It's Guernsey Farm's 40th year

Guernsey Farm Dairy, one of only two remaining family-operated dairies in southeastern Michigan, is celebrating its 40th anniversary this month.

And "family operated" means just that — not just one or two persons — but 18, count 'em, 18 members of the John McGuire family.

Father of 14 children, John McGuire acquired the business in May of 1940 back when the dairy occupied the northeast corner of Center and Cady streets — across from what now is a bowling alley.

Only a small concrete block building still occupies the original dairy site, the business having moved in 1965-66 to Novi Road, just inside the City of Novi.

"We (McGuire's children) literally grew up in the dairy," says Thomas McGuire, who is one of the children managing the business today. "When I was a baby, according to my mother, they put me in a crib on top of the Batch Ice Cream Freezer and the vibration would rock me to sleep," he laughs. "The dairy, for all of us, has been both home and business."

The senior McGuire purchased the business from John A. Applehof who today, at the age of 84, recalls with particular fondness his early association with McGuire. "I can't think of anyone I've more admired than John," says Applehof, who has been retired since 1957. "He's a special person in my life."

A manufacturer, Applehof was operating a dairy farm on 10 Mile near Napier as "a hobby" when he began looking around for a place to process the milk produced on his farm.

Mr. Frank B. Ainger, who was in the printing business in Detroit, owned a small creamery in Northville. He had closed up the place, so I put an ad in The Michigan Farmer and John McGuire answered it. That's how our association started.

"My farm had a large herd of guernsey cows. That's why we decided to name the dairy 'Guernsey Farm Dairy.' And they've kept the name all

'The dairy business,

which includes our

stores, is a tough,

time-demanding

these years."

The purchase from Applehof was made by McGuire and a partner, Fred Russell. Seven years later McGuire bought out his partner's interest.

In the early years most of the milk came from dairy farms in this area, explains Hugh McGuire, who is in charge of the dairy processing plant. "Dad used to pick it up from the farms, pasturize it and then delivered it himself."

As the dairy farms in the area disappeared, the business had to secure its milk from farms many miles from Northville. Today, the bulk of the milk comes from Grand Rapids-Kalamazoo area. And, of course, the milk long ago ceased being exclusively milk from guernsey cattle.

Numerous other changes have occurred in this greatly expanded business, according to Hugh. A major change, he explains, is in the delivery service. Although Guernsey Farm Dairy still operates a few retail delivery routes, the bulk of the sales are made to stores and other milk outlets in the metropolitan area.

"The stop and go retail deliveries are just not profitable any longer, particularly in view of the cost of gasoline."

The Novi Road dairy includes a store-restaurant, and Guernsey Farm Dairy also has a store at Plymouth Road and Sheldon. A third store, which was located in Westland, no longer operates.

Today the dairy is buying about 27,000 pounds of milk daily, which means about 3,300 gallons of milk are bottled each day. (The word "bottled" is no longer correct because the dairy quite some time ago discontinued the use of bottles and replaced them with cartons).

Throughout the years, one thing has remained constant: "We've always produced the best product possible," says Tom McGuire. "We're proud of what we produce."

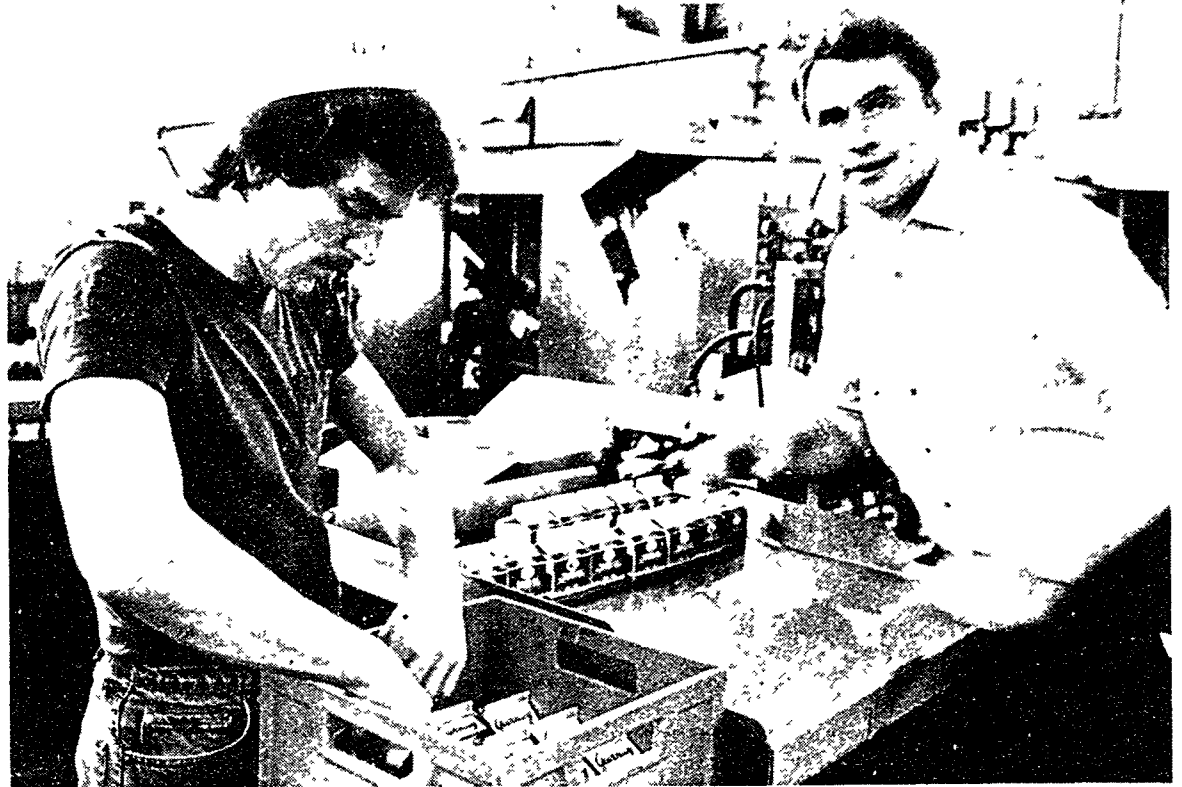

Besides pasturized, homogenized milk, the dairy continues to produce the "old fashion" standard milk (milk with cream on top), sour cream, buttermilk, chocolate milk, whipping cream, and ice cream.

Only one other dairy in the state, besides Guernsey, still produces standard milk.

Besides its wholesale distribution, Guernsey also is the supplier of milk for nearly 40 schools in the area.

It operates a fleet of trucks and today employs some 50 persons, including family members.

"The dairy business, which includes our stores, is a tough, time-demanding operation," says the McGuires, "but we love it and we intend to be around — given the number of people in our family — for a lot longer. This is just the first 40 years."

Slagle is treasurer of EDC

The newly elected treasurer of the Northville Township Economic Development Corporation (EDC) is not a member of the corporation.

But according to law, Connie Slagle, township deputy treasurer can serve in that capacity.

The five EDC members in attendance at the regular meeting May 14 voted unanimously to select Ms. Slagle.

Members also approved corporation bylaws, action which had been delayed pending a revision.

The revision prohibits the chairman of the EDC from being a member of the township board, planning commission or an employee of the township.

Governor names Grote

C. Nelson Grote has been appointed to the newly created Local Government Claims Review Board by Governor William G. Milliken.

The Schoolcraft College

president is one of nine persons named to the board in late March, and the only one confirmed to date by the state senate which cast a unanimous ballot in his behalf earlier this month.

Dr. Grote is the designated representative of the Michigan Community College Association (MCCA) and his term runs through March 26, 1982. He is the only resident of Southeastern Michigan to be named.

The Local Government Claims Review Board has been created in accordance with Public Act

101 of 1979 and implements Section 29 of the Tax Limitation Amendment (Headlee Amendment) popularly known as the "mandated costs" section.

The board has responsibility in two general areas:

1. Assisting the director of the department of management and budget in the administration of Act 101.

2. Serving as an appeals body in hearing and deciding on disputed mandated cost claims brought by local units of government, including community colleges.

The Woodsums prepare for the 'fun run'

Woodsums race against disease

The Woodsum family will have pretty stiff competition when they enter the a charity "fun run" next week at Greenfield Village.

The Northville family is in a race — a literal race — against scleroderma, a progressive crippling disease which afflicts their six-year-old daughter, Kelli.

Greenfield Village in Dearborn is holding the run, sponsored by the Livonia Family Y.M.C.A., on Saturday, May 31. All proceeds will go to the Michigan Chapter of Scleroderma for research.

Scleroderma, which is also known as "the disease that turns people to stone" has no known cause and no cure. It attacks the connective tissues, restricting the flexibility of its victims. Kelli has it in her legs, making it difficult for her to move.

Runners will be admitted free to the historical village after running a 1, 3 or 6.2 mile-course around the village. Registration starts at 7:15 a.m. for the 8:30 run.

Cost is $8 per adult (age 13 and up) and $5 per child. A special family rate is available only if the family pre-registers at the Livonia Family YMCA, 14255 Stark, Livonia (261-2161).

The entry fee includes a tee-shirt, refreshments and village entry fee. Pre-registration deadline is May 28.

Students at Our Lady of Victory school got the chance to get their fingernails dirty for a change as they participated in the annual OLV beautification day Friday. Flowers were sold at a

John Chedrick hangs up his shears

After 25 years of cutting the hair of Northville's finest, John Chedrick has retired and sold his barber shop on North Center.

Chedrick bought his shop in 1955 from Lee Shipley, who had barbered in Northville for 67 years.

"Lee worked for me part time after that for about 10 years," Chedrick said. "I wouldn't let him retire."

It was while working with Shipley in 1958 that Chedrick had his most memorable experience working in Northville.

"This couple drove in from Minnesota with their baby boy. They wanted Lee to give the boy his first hair cut. He was the fifth generation of the family that Lee had cut hair for."

Chedrick learned to barber while serving in the military and from a barber college in Pennsylvania.

Before he purchased Shipley's shop, he worked at the Maybury Sanitarium as a protective maintenance employee and cut hair two days a week at the Wixom Ford Plant.

He has seen many hair styles come and go, but he is convinced that the style of long hair is here to stay.

"I don't think long hair is passing. It may be shorter than it was a few years ago, but it will stay long and full. It's like rock and roll music. It's here to stay."

Chedrick has made many friends in his 25 years in Northville.

He leaves with fond memories of them all.

"I've made so many good friends. There is a real variety of people here. Some you can't talk to at all and there are some that if you don't get into an argument about politics with them they feel shortchanged."

Chedrick will stay active in retirement. His son owns a lawn mower sales and service business in Milford and Chedrick plans to help him.

Chedrick wants to make sure his old customers get continuing service, so he has sold his shop to David Lobbstaal, who owned a shop in Detroit before coming to Northville.

Lobbstaal has been barbering for 20 years. The only change in service, Lobbstaal said, would be that he will offer styling as well as hair cuts.

After cutting hair for 25 years, John Chedrick (right) has sold his shop to David Lobbstaal

Long-time school employees retire

Approved for NHS

New textbook tells about birds and bees

A new textbook which includes chapters on human sexuality and birth control has been approved for use at Northville High School by the Northville Board of Education.

The book, "Finding My Way," will be used by tenth, eleventh and twelfth graders in elective reproductive health classes. The classes, now legal in the state of Michigan, were approved by the board last fall.

The book was unanimously approved by the board at its May 12 meeting.

A health education parent advisory committee reviewed "Finding My Way" along with several other books before agreeing upon the final choice.

The 1979 text is by Riker and Riker. Any parent who wishes to review the book may contact the Northville Board of Education office of instruction.

The board also approved other new texts, including: "Modern Physical Science" Holt, Rinehart, Winston 1979; "Modern Physics" Holt, Rinehart, Winston 1980; "Gregg Shorthand Series 90" Gregg-McGraw Hill; Gregg Shorthand Series 90, Dictation, Gregg-McGraw Hill.

The choices were reviewed along with other texts by teacher committees.

Northville welcomes Davison guests

The sun shone on Davison visitors as they joined local city officials to begin Mayor Exchange Day of Michigan Week with a flag-raising ceremony at city hall Monday.

Davison Mayor Robert R. Davis, right, told officials and Rotarians at the noon luncheon at First Presbyterian Church that the two communities have many similarities but that Davison would "love to have" a business like the MAGS in Northville Square which the group toured. They also viewed the new city hall, Mill Race Village, Northville Laboratories and Northville Downs during the day.

Annual Beautification Awards were presented at the Rotary luncheon to 49 local businesses, schools and churches, below.

The Northville hosts traveled north to Davison for a dinner meeting with other Davison officials and a Northville delegation of Mayor and Mrs. Paul Vernon, Councilman and Mrs. Dewey Gardner and DPW head Ted and Mrs. Mapes.

49 win city beautification awards

Northville businesses, schools and industries were honored Monday by the Northville Beautification Commission for exterior appearances.

In all, 49 awards were presented in five separate categories.

IV Seasons Flowers and Gifts was the grand award recipient, scoring 69 of a possible 72 points.

Anne Brueck, chairman of the Northville Michigan Week activities, presented the awards at the noon luncheon of the Northville Rotary Club at the First Presbyterian Church, 200 East Main.

Attending were Mayor Robert R. Davis, his wife, Roberta and other visiting Davison dignitaries.

Industries honored included Belanger Waterwheel and Ford Valve Plant.

Asher's 76 Service Station won in the auto service category, while special awards were presented to Our Lady of Victory, Amerman School, St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Northville Downs and the First Presbyterian Church.

Praised for attractive sidewalk store fronts were: IV Seasons, Long Bath Boutique, Del's Shoes, Marquis Theatre, Marquis Boutique, Green's Home Center, Manufacturer's Bank, The Northville Record, Fox Portrait Studios, Traditional Handcrafts, Village Needlepoint, Lapham's Men's Store, Rivard's, Giftfiddler, Century 21 Real Estate, Lila's Interior's, Albright

Photography, Northville Saddlery, Freydl's and Sandie's Hallmark Shop.

Receiving awards for landscaping features were: Cutler Realty, Brookside Hardware, Northville Station, Real Estate One, Elizabeth's, Fifth Season, Connie's Corner Stitchery, Rizzo Real Estate, Burger Chef, Earl Keim Realty, Casterline's, Paul Folino Insurance, Professional Center, Detroit Federal Savings, Allen Monuments, Stone's Furniture, Vac's and More, Michigan Bell Telephone, and Dr. Jahangir Mohtadi.

Many of those honored also have been praised for their beautification efforts in past years.

Fun run set

The 1980 Northville girls track team will sponsor a "Fun Day Track Meet" on Friday, May 30.

The meet will be for all alumni of the Northville girls track program. The alumni will compete against the current Mustangs.

The meet is slated to start at 3:45 at the Northville High School track.

Focusing on stamps

"Collect the Spirit of America," a new program designed to acquaint postal service customers with the educational benefits of stamp collecting, is being launched this month at area post offices, including Northville's.

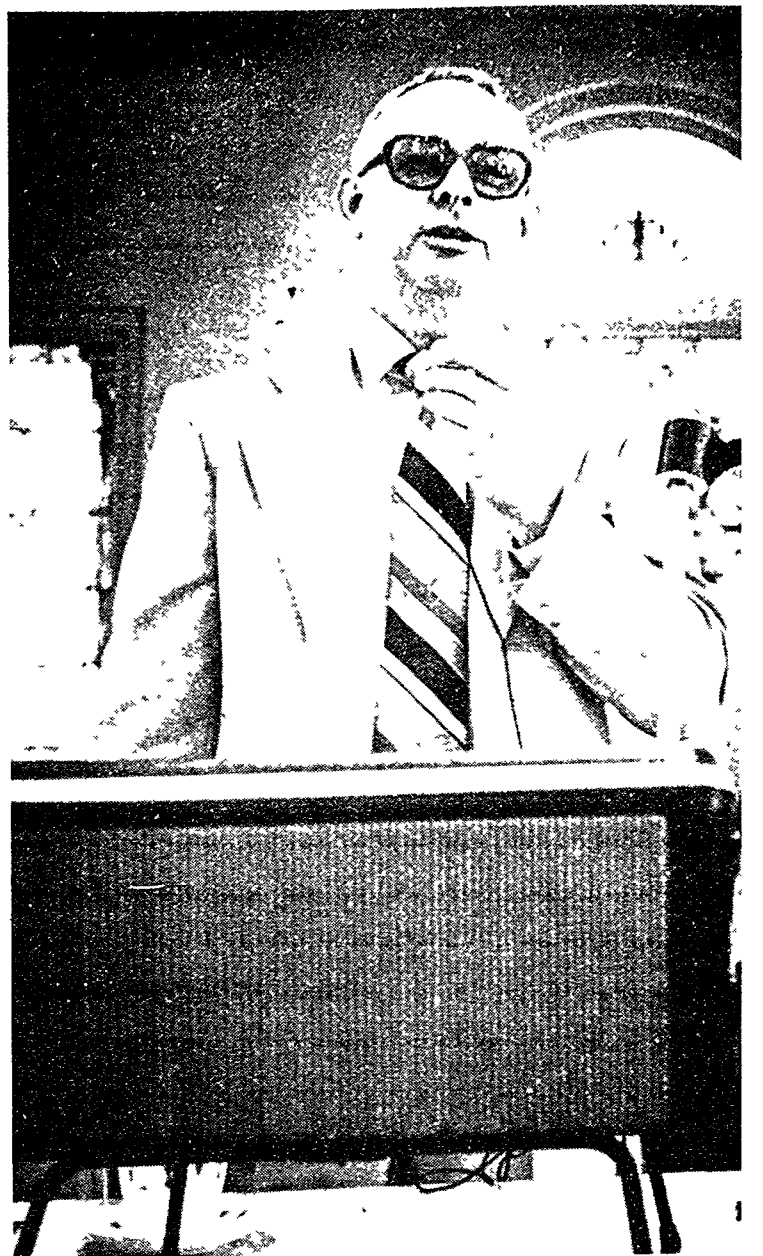

Postmaster John Steimel says the campaign is focusing on stamps issued in recent years that commemorate various aspects of American life and history.

"Our window clerks will show various philatelic products to customers and will answer questions about stamp collecting," he states.

Philatelic products offered by the Postal Service in the current two-week campaign include "Stamps and Stories," a 256-page book designed to introduce non-collectors to stamp collecting.

Other products include the 1978 and 1979 mint sets containing all commemorative and special stamps issued by the Postal Service during those years. New collectors also can obtain several topical stamp collecting kits being offered during the program.

Special day

It was a day of very special gratification for everyone involved in the Very Special Arts Festival at Bryant School in Livonia on Saturday. Above, left, State Representative Silvia Skrel presents LorRaine Thompson Jones and Viola Dougherty (seated) with a state resolution commemorating the Very Special Arts Festival (not pictured is organizer Lynne Thompson). Above, right, student Claude Toensfeldt dances the wheelchair Bunny Hop. The festival, which came off without a hitch, was in the planning stages for a year. Northville Public Schools was one of only nine districts in the state selected to host festivals of music, art, drama and dance by the mentally handicapped.

Study session promotes questions, not answers

It was one of those wide-ranging discussions with no beginning or end, but the Northville Board of Education tackled it nevertheless.

The topic was: "what is the role the board, professional staff and public should play in the development of curriculum?"

The Saturday discussion was, as expected, a brainstorming session which contained more questions than answers.

Among the topics the board and administrators will discuss in another session June 12 are these:

How do you teach students in an atmosphere of mutual respect and dignity? Should the school district educate for college or for "life"? How much and when should the board be involved with curriculum planning?

Should the district teach children cognitively (subjects) or affectively (how to think)? Should there be more vocational education in school and if so, where is the money going to come from?

How can the district get better input from the community? What about minimum competency objectives? How are schools going to alter because of the changing energy and environmental situations? And how can the district assess its progress?

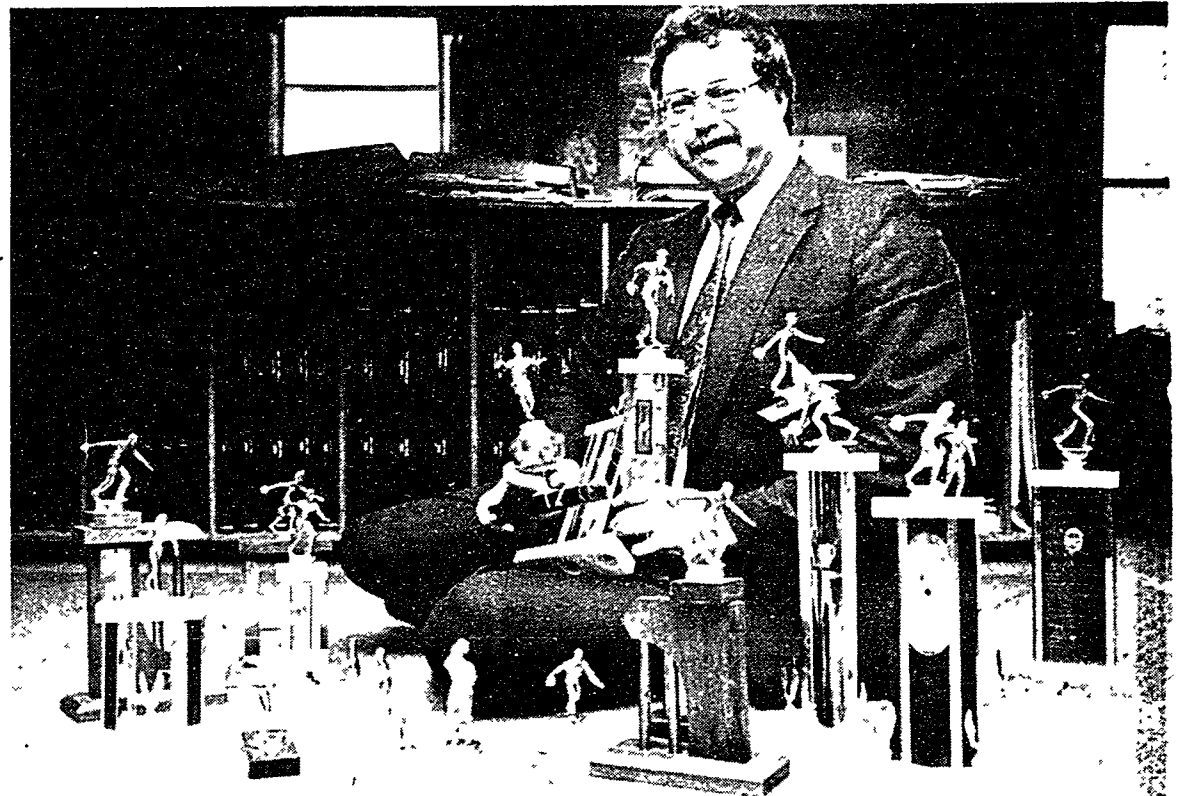

These and other prickly topics will be dealt with one by one at other study sessions.

many booths as we had hoped it's a good start — an excellent outing for children. The games will be inexpensive and fun."

Referring to the horse show, Ryan points out that entries are booked from throughout the Midwest, with show performances by "some of the best horses in the country" scheduled on each of the three days.

Although the horse show is co-sponsored by ASHAM (American Saddle Horse Association of Michigan), it will feature Morgans and Arabians as well as saddlebred horses and ponies, Ryan emphasizes.

"It's the kind of show enjoyed by spectators...something for everyone in the family," says the chairman, who points out that the Northville-ASHAM horse show has become the largest of its kind in Michigan."

NORTHVILLE KIWANIS CLUB, which this coming weekend will sponsor its sixth annual horse show, uses proceeds from this event — largest of its kind in Michigan — to finance local civic and charity projects. One of its ongoing programs is providing a year-round bowling program for handicapped children. First of its kind in Michigan, the bowling program is now recognized nationally and is growing steadily. Recently, Kiwanian Frank Skinner (above) accepted a donation of old trophies from Dr. and Mrs. Ben Schwartz. He's refurbished them and they are to be awarded to children following a bowling tournament in June.

NHS policies discussed

neck but it works."

Athletics

The district operates a $38,000 athletic budget for 18 varsity sports, 10 JV sports and nine teams at the junior highs, Redmond said. Out of about 1,000 students at NHS, 600 participated this year in at least one sport (250 girls and 372 boys, spending $4,000 more on boys' sports than girls'). NHS is working with the Booster Club, contacting colleges for scouting, and sending coaches to clinics.

"Next year, we will have to adopt coaches' orientation," Redmond said. "We want to have a coaches' handbook. Ticket prices for athletic events will go up because of higher costs of equipment and transportation but we will probably issue more season passes for families. And NHS should begin to develop an intramural sports program along with local merchants."

Drugs and Alcohol
"I know this is a concern for parents," Aune said. "Just like a community, there is a drug circle at the high school. But we don't ignore it. We deal with facts, and issues as they arise. If a student is selling, we follow the recommendation of the student code of conduct for suspension or expulsion.

"We find alcohol abuse, too, sometimes during the day or at events. Sometimes parents say they are glad it isn't marijuana or worse. But young people take a different look at it. As parents we put a trust in our young people and hope they don't participate. If the trust is broken, we deal with it. We don't cut off their hands, but we don't minimize the issues, either."

Parent Advisory Committee

The committee works with NHS staff to deal with problems, explained Ann Cook. "The administration is very open. They take criticism well — and they get a lot of it." She explained that parents can call the committee to ask them to help with problems.

"Everyone who has worked with this group is aware that there are no easy solutions," Cook said.

Locker room queries

A contingent of parents at Thursday night's meeting came to talk about security in the locker rooms at Northville High School.

Several students had valuables stolen from the boy's locker room recently by vandals who broke in the back door and smashed lockers from the bottom.

"We are concerned with security measures," said Jim Newman. "What are the coach's responsibilities?"

Ralph Redmond, NHS assistant principal and athletic director, said the coach is supposed to be the last to leave and should make frequent visits to the locker room while boys are changing.

"I have paid a monitor to be in the locker room between 3 and 5 p.m. and so far nothing has been stolen during that time," Redmond said.

The district is expecting new tamper-proof lockers for the boys' locker room. The lockers were due to arrive May 5 but have not yet come, Redmond said.

"When they do come we will also have a caged area where valuables can be stored. Only the coach will have the key," he explained.

Redmond said that until the new lockers come, students can give the coach their valuables instead of putting them in the lockers.

Parents protested that their children had never been notified they could give their valuables to the coach.

Newman suggested that Redmond should meet with every team at the beginning of the year to explain safety procedures and Redmond agreed.

Seek a pleasant peninsula: try your own back yard

By R ROBERT GEAKE
State Senator

This is Michigan Week!
It isn't often that I write about special observances. That is usually best left to the promoters. However, I feel compelled to make an exception in the case of Michigan Week, especially this year. For if ever our great state needed a "moral boost," it is now. So I will offer whatever help I can.

In recent weeks and months, statewide and national media have been chronicling Michigan's problems — financially troubled Chrysler Corporation, massive layoffs in the automobile industry, long unemployment lines, high workers' and unemployment compensation rates, businesses either closing or leaving Michigan for neighboring states, and predictions that the auto industry won't fully bounce back from this recession.

In addition, as a major industrial state, we face energy and transportation problems. Any changes in the climate have been creating hardships on the recreation industry.

But despite what, at times, seems to be insurmountable obstacles, Michigan still remains a great state in which to work, play and raise a family.

As all of us go busily about earning a living and tending to life's many necessities, we often tend to overlook the many enviable qualities that Michigan has to offer as a state. Thus, Michigan Week serves as a week-long rallying point for Michigan's more than nine million citizens to extoll the virtues of our state.

With the emphasis that is being placed on energy conservation and with summer vacation time fast approaching, I would urge that you spend your vacation in Michigan this year.

Our Great Lake State has breathtaking beauty for those who love the outdoors and plenty of activity centers for those who seek other areas of recreation.

All 9,300 miles of state trunkline highways, including 1,685 miles of expressways and more than 500 miles of other four lane roads provide an easy toll-free access to all of Michigan's many recreational activities.

For campers, Michigan leads the nation in the number of state parks and prepared campsites. There are 83 state parks with 13,466 campsites, 31 state forests with 3,285 campsites, and a national park with nearly 400 campsites. In addition, Michigan has 5,787 county campsites, 1,217 township and 3,075 municipal campsites, plus 49,550 privately-operated campsites available for family and group camping.

Those with "rod and reel" fever will find more fresh water coastline (3,126 miles) in Michigan than any other state and it takes less time to get there. You are never more than six miles from one of Michigan's 11,000 inland lakes or 36,000 miles of streams, and no more than 85 miles from one of the Great Lakes. Because of our many lakes, Michigan has 7.5 percent of the total registered pleasure boat in the country.

Michigan also sports many winter sports areas for snowmobilers, tobogganers, and skiers, including the world's highest man-made ski jump and the only ski flying hill in the western hemisphere.

But not only is Michigan a great place for vacations and recreation, it is also a major center for business and industry.

Michigan is the hub of the rich Great Lakes industrial market area. More than 75 million consumers are within 500 miles of Lansing. Three of America's top five industrial corporations and 22 of its top 500 businesses are headquartered in Michigan. In fact, our state ranks first in 20 manufacturing categories including motor vehicles and cereals.

Michigan also ranks at the top in agriculture. Our farmers grow almost all of the country's navy beans and 100 percent of the cranberry beans. We are fourth nationally in grape production and fifth in wine making. Michigan leads in the production of red tart cherries, dry edible beans, pickling cucumbers, and eastern white winter wheat. And we lead the nation in growing plantation Christmas trees.

So as you can see, despite her faults, Michigan has a lot going for which we can be extremely proud.

Remember our state motto: "Si quaeris peninsulam amoenam circumspice," or "If you seek a pleasant peninsula, look about you."

Mom can damage fetus by drinking

Alcoholic mothers now account for the third most common recognizable cause of mental retardation in the United States, according to a study presented at the American Association for the Advancement of Science recently and reported by the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Southeastern Michigan.

This phenomenon, called Fetal Alcohol Syndrome, is characterized by retardation, shortened features and eyes placed too close together.

"Although the connection between maternal chronic alcoholism and retarded offspring has been substantiated for some time, there is new evidence that moderate or binge drinking by pregnant women can result in babies who are less than normal and healthy," the report stated.

In addition to drinking mothers, smoking mothers have also been proven to cause significant harm to their babies. Doctors reported at the AAAS meeting that heavy maternal smoking causes spontaneous abortions, stillbirths and as many as 35 percent of the premature births in the U.S. Babies of smoking mothers have lower birth weights, develop more slowly and are more often ill after birth than children of women who do not smoke or quit smoking when pregnant.

The problem is on the rise, doctors said, because the number of young women who smoke and the amount of smoking have increased in the last 10 years.

They reported there is increasing evidence that babies born to mothers who smoke, drink or take sedatives are not only smaller and slower to develop, but that they never catch up to babies of non-smoking mothers.

Montessori holds open house May 29

Experts in the Montessori method of pre-school education will speak Thursday at the Northville Montessori Center.

The center will hold its fourth annual (free) open house at the Main Street Elementary School, 501 West Main, at 7:30 p.m. on May 29.

Administrators Lynn Gall and Elizabeth McHugh will be available to answer parents' questions on the primary and pre-school programs the school offers.

Jaycees elect officers

George Buelow, 47237 Battleford, has been elected president of the Northville Jaycees.

Former president Ron Barnum will serve as chairman of the board.

Buelow and five other newly elected officers, who officially took office May 1, will be installed May 30 at the Plymouth Hilton.

They include: Kevin Callaghan, administrative vice-president; Jonathon Cox, chapter activities vice-president; Jim Abbey, community action vice-president; William Hartmann, secretary; and Bruce Hackman, treasurer.

Serving as directors at large will be Doug Boor, John Danules, Jim Luterek, Matt Sullivan and Mark Catron.

Montessori is a method of teaching involving a "carefully prepared environment which allows the child to test his understanding through the use of materials designed to be self-correcting, promoting a feeling of success....(and) encourages a love of learning."

The Northville center has been open since 1976.

Marquis shows watercolors

Original watercolors by a thumb-area artist, Pat Mutton, are on display and for sale at the Marquis Theatre.

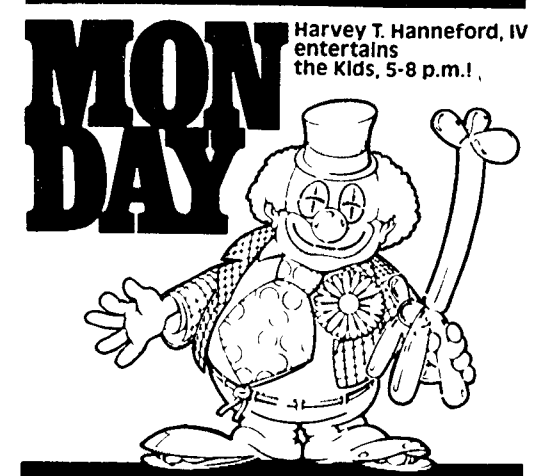

Ms. Mutton teaches adult education in Caro, Michigan.

Joan Smith, a friend of the artist and Marquis employee, is sponsoring her work locally. Theatre owner Inga Zayit offered display space for the watercolors, Mrs. Smith explains.

The watercolors are priced from $35 to $135.

Local EDC questions role in senior village project

By KEN KOVACS

The role of the Northville Township Economic Development Corporation (EDC) in the development of a senior citizen village at the former Wayne County Child Development Center remains undetermined.

Township trustees, following a recommendation from the Wayne County EDC, recently applied for a $127,000 federal grant to be used for further "planning, engineering, and financial analysis and development strategy."

Members of the local EDC—the body which originally proposed the senior citizen village and yet has not been included in recent meetings concerning the proposed project—at their regular meeting May 14 questioned the value of further study at this time.

"Why the hell do we need this additional study," said James Littel. "If we really need further study, fine. But if it (the funding) is just to fill someone's pocket, I don't think it is worth it."

If the grant is approved, three separate firms would do the study.

Township planning consultant Villcan-Leman and Associates would do planning and economic impact studies; Mosher Associates, township engineers would conduct engineering studies and the firm of Zuchelli, Hunter and Associates (of Washington D.C.) would handle financial analysis and development strategy.

The federal funds would be in addition to an initial grant of $47,000 of which, thus far, only a portion has been spent on planning and engineering studies.

The local EDC, which has yet to handle a project, is concerned that it may get caught in the middle.

"We are being used some way by somebody," Littel said. "I think if we let them (Wayne County EDC) grab it (the project) they will."

The township EDC last year waived jurisdiction of a project calling for construction of a bowling alley on Five Mile in the township.

Members are wondering whether they will be asked to waive this project, which the local EDC originally suggested, to the county EDC.

But Larry Sheehan, chairman of the township EDC, is confident that the local body has the last word.

"It cannot be a project if they do not come to us and we chose to handle it or waive jurisdiction," he said.

"I have given nobody authority (to waive project)," he continued. "The Wayne County EDC has said it would be receptive to a joint project. But we have had no formal request at this point."

Planners, trustees and township EDC members, though apparently not aware of one another's actions, have all indicated they would like to see a joint project between the township and county EDCs.

But local EDC members feel the county organization is moving a bit too fast.

"It seems to me we have the cart before the horse," Chairman Sheehan said last week. "It would seem to me

Police Blotter

15-year-old boy hurt severely in accident

A 15-year-old Northville youth remained in stable but guarded condition Tuesday at Botsford Hospital following a car-bike collision Monday, city police reported.

Police said John DeSantis, 18361 Pinebrook, was riding his bicycle eastbound on Seven Mile near the intersection of West Eaton when it collided with an eastbound automobile driven by Dianne Skinner, 19620 Clement.

Mrs. Skinner told police the bike pulled in front of her and she could not stop in time to avoid the collision.

Witnesses told police the vehicle appeared to be traveling in excess of the speed limit when the accident occurred.

Police said yesterday the youth suffered no broken bones, but did have internal injuries and a possible concussion.

Five band instruments valued at more than $800 were reported stolen from the band room at Northville High School May 15, city police reported.

Band instructor Mike Rumbell told police the room was locked when he left at the end of the day and when he returned the following morning the instruments were gone.

Police are investigating the incident.

Burglars escaped with $125 in bills and miscellaneous change and a Smith and Wesson revolver taken from Primo's Pizza, 41112 Five Mile, May 14, police said.

The thieves pried open a screen door to gain entry, police said.

A six-year-old resident of Innsbrook Apartments told township police he started the fire which destroyed the interior of a 1972 Ford truck April 15.

The boy said he opened the unlocked vehicle, used a lighter to start a small fire and when the flames got bigger he got scared and jumped out of the vehicle.

He said he ran home and asked his mother for a glass of water to put out a fire.

Township firefighters were called and extinguished the blaze.

A five-year-old township resident suffered minor injuries May 13 in a three-car accident at the Boron Gas Station on Six Mile at Haggerty.

Matthew Golden, 15889 Winchester, received minor cuts and bruises when the car he was in was hit from behind.

While waiting in line a vehicle driven by Margaret Flechtner of Livonia rear-ended a vehicle driven by Virginia Hiller of Plymouth, which, in turn, struck a car driven by Mary Bommarito of Livonia.

A second passenger, Mark Golden, and the three drivers were not hurt.

Ms. Flechtner told police her vehicle was stopped and the engine turned off.

She said when she started it up the transmission slipped into drive and the gas pedal stuck to the floor.

She was ticketed for failure to stop within an assured clear distance ahead.

More than $2,000 worth of building materials was taken from two building sites in the Quail Ridge Subdivision on Eight Mile May 13, township police reported.

Approximately 40 cedar panels, 50 pieces of floor paneling and some 200 building studs were reported missing.

Police are investigating the incident.

A homemade trailer, a lawn mower and snowmobile engine were reported stolen from a vacant Six Mile residence sometime between May 1 and May 15, township police reported.

Value of stolen items is estimated at $351.

An AMFM in dash stereo cassette player worth $179 was taken from a 1968 Mercury Cougar parked in front of an Eddington residence May 12, township police reported.

Police are investigating the theft.

Value is estimated at $400.

Four radial tires on silver rims were reported stolen from a 1976 Dodge Colt parked in the driveway of a Seven Mile residence May 18, township police reported.

Value of the stolen items is estimated at more than $500.

Four wire wheel covers were taken from a 1980 Mercury parked in the driveway of a Rayson residence May 17, city police reported.

Value is estimated at $150.

A purse containing $12 in cash and a number of credit cards was taken from a coat rack at the First Presbyterian Church, 200 East Main, May 14, city police said.

Total value is estimated at $147.

Police searching for a man who allegedly threatened a gas station attendant with a 12-gauge shotgun May 17.

An employee of the Clark Gas Station on South Main told police the man opened his trunk and took out the shotgun following an argument over the amount of gasoline received.

A sand compactor located in the basement of the former Main Street School, 405 West Main, was torched May 17, police reported.

The damage is valued at $1,500, police said.

A plexiglas sign in front of First United Methodist Church, 777 Eight Mile, was destroyed by vandals May 17, city police reported.

Police said a half-full bottle of wine apparently had been hurled at the sign, causing approximately $200 worth of damage.

Vandals smashed the windshields and some side windows of five vehicles parked at Bump Shop Charlie's May 16, city police reported.

Damage, which appeared to have been done with a ball peen hammer or similar instrument, according to police, is estimated at more than $1,000.

A South Lyon woman suffered minor injuries May 18 in a traffic mishap on Eight Mile at Sheldon, city police reported.

Paula Dodds received minor cuts and bruises when the vehicle in which she was traveling, driven by Mary Dodds, collided with a car driven by Ann Wick, also of South Lyon, police said.

Wick told police she was making a left turn from westbound Eight Mile onto southbound Sheldon when she was struck by the car traveling eastbound on Eight Mile.

Dodds said she tried to avoid the collision but could not.

The drivers were not injured.

A 12-volt battery value at $100 was taken from a 1980 Lincoln Continental parked in the driveway of a Northview residence May 5, township police reported.

The battery cables had been cut, police said. Nothing else was reported missing.

Police said the vehicle was left unlocked.

EDC's role unknown

That before we go on with additional planning we have to get a commitment.

"At this point I would think developers should be brought in."

But the county EDC apparently does not agree.

In a letter to Chairman Sheehan, dated May 9, Robert FitzPatrick, executive director of the Wayne County EDC, wrote, "The scenario that we envision as to regards to the necessary steps to be taken in the near future are as follows:

The completion of the preliminary proposal to enable us to make a presentation to the township officials and planning commission as well as their counterparts in the county government, sometime in June. This, of course, is the first step critical to the transfer of property by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners to the Wayne County Economic Development Corporation. This would be in a form necessary to begin committee deliberations by the Board of Commissioners in this long procedure.

"As you can see, we are preparing to provide all the necessary tools that will enable us to bring this project to its conclusion," the letter continued. "All of this being done with the approvals of the local and county government, including waiver of project jurisdiction of the local EDC when this becomes necessary."

Holiday picnics use Kensington entrance

The Academy Drive entrance to the Island Lake State Recreation area east of Brighton was permanently closed Thursday, according to new park Manager John E. Odell.

Future vehicular traffic to the park, including this weekend's Memorial Day holiday traffic, must use the new entrance road off Kensington Road which leads directly to both the Kent and Island Lake units, Odell said.

"The new road, which will be blacktopped by late summer or early fall, has eliminated the need to maintain the old Island Lake Unit entrance from Academy Drive," said Odell.

"The Island Lake Recreation Area will continue to be open to the public as new facilities are under construction."

At the Kent Lake Unit, temporary toilet facilities are available until a new building is completed next year. Two other toilet buildings are still available in the area.

A motor vehicle permit is required for park entry. The annual permits are $7 and the daily permits are $2. The camping fee at the rustic campground is $2 a night.

NOTICE OF HEARING 1980 FEDERAL REVENUE SHARING 1980-81 CITY BUDGET

Notice is hereby given that the Northville City Council will hold a public hearing on the proposed 1980 City Budget, including use of Federal Revenue Sharing Funds, at 8:00 p.m. on Tuesday, May 27, 1980, in the Municipal Bldg., 215 W. Main Street.

At this hearing, citizens of the City of Northville will have an opportunity to provide written and oral comments, and to ask questions concerning the entire budget and the relationship of Federal Revenue Sharing Funds to the entire budget.

General revenue sharing (GRS) is a program of general fiscal support from the federal government to state and local governments with only limited federal requirements about how the money should be spent. Decisions on the use of these funds are made at the local level, by the government and people closest to local problems. The revenue sharing regulations require a hearing on the proposed use of these funds in relation to the overall budget before the budget is adopted each year.

The City intends to use its Federal Revenue Sharing Funds for Entitlement Period 12 in the estimated amount of $44,000 for the purchase of a fire truck.

All interested citizens, groups, senior citizens and organizations representing the interests of senior citizens are encouraged to attend and to submit comments.

A summary of the proposed budget follows:

ALLEN TERRACE OPERATING FUND
Revenues	$ 327,200

OPERATING LEVY
The tax levy for the General Fund is proposed to be $932,825, which is a millage rate of 13.36 mills applied to the estimated State Equalized Valuation of $69,807,450. This is a reduction of 0.77 mill from the 1979 levy of 14.13 mills.

However, because of the increases in 1980 assessed values compared to 1979, the proposed millage rate will result in a City-wide average tax increase of 11.3%. The State tax law and the Headlee Amendment procedure require a single millage rate to be levied throughout the City. As a result, City taxpayers in Wayne County have received an average assessment increase from the SEV factor of 19.7%, and thus would have an average City tax increase of 13.2%; whereas City taxpayers in Oakland County have received an average assessment increase of 16.0%, and thus would have an average City tax increase of 9.7%.

LEVY IN LIEU OF COLLECTION FEE

In addition, because of the court challenge presently being made to the 1% collection fee, which has normally been added to the winter (County & School) tax bill to pay for assessing and tax collection costs, the City proposes to levy 0.52 mill for these costs on the summer bill in lieu of the 1% collection fee on the winter bill. This does not result in any tax increase over the normal collection fee amount.

RANDOLPH DRAIN LEVY

In addition, in compliance with the Randolph Drain contract with Wayne & Oakland counties, the City proposes to levy 1.50 mills for the Randolph Drain project, to be collected on the Winter tax bills. This compares to the 1979 Randolph Drain levy of 1.62 mills.

A complete copy of the proposed 1980 City Budget is available for public inspection in the City Hall during regular business hours, and a limited number are also available to borrow to take home overnight.

Our Opinions

Air it first

Two city officials were flown to North Carolina at Detroit Edison expense to attend a seminar on street lighting two weeks ago. There is no question in our mind that the community benefited by this "freebe," but we wish the trip had been publicly discussed at the council table before it occurred.

As it is, the matter filters back to the public, giving some appearance of impropriety even though we personally believe the city officials were motivated properly and were wise in attending.

According to the city manager, the matter was not placed before the council because it was handled through the Downtown Development Authority which has a special interest in lighting because of what is planned in the way of a new lighting system for the downtown area.

Both the manager and a Detroit Edison Company spokesman emphasized, when questioned by the newspaper, that since Detroit Edison is the only supplier of electricity here this trip cannot be viewed as an influencing gift. We tend to agree, but we still think it was a matter that should have been publicly discussed first.

Attending from the city were Mayor Paul Vernon and DPW Superintendent Ted Mapes. Both remained only for the work sessions, missing a scheduled banquet. Their lodging and some of their meals were paid by the DDA, said the manager. Some of the luncheon expense during the work sessions was paid by General Electric on whose property the seminar was held, Edison said.

Both Northville officials were logical persons to represent the city; the mayor is chairman of the DDA and Mapes is the public works expert for the city.

Perhaps Detroit Edison, which says it regularly sponsors such seminars (40 officials attended this seminar, including representatives from Novi and other area communities) in North Carolina because General Electric has the only outdoor lighting demonstration center in the country located there, could avoid future questions by directing its invitations to the governing bodies in the municipalities rather than to individuals.

Perhaps then Edison wouldn't find itself in the embarrassing position of having invited Township Clerk Clarice Sass and Trustee William Zapke without the knowledge of other board members, including the supervisor. According to Edison, Sass and Zapke had been scheduled to attend but for some unexplained "last minute" reason were unable to do so.

Perhaps, too, Edison ought to re-examine its policy of providing free transportation. We find its defense that "we do so to encourage attendance by some public officials who are reluctant to spend taxpayer dollars" a little fuzzy. After all, whether it is tax dollars or utility bills the money comes from the same pocket.

One's enough

Also in flight recently were Northville Superintendent of Schools Larry Nichols and Board President Karen Wilkinson. Both attended the National Conference of School Administrators in San Francisco April 14-23 at an estimated cost of between $1,000 to $1,200 each. This time it was taxpayers' dollars.

President Wilkinson states she feels the double expenditure to send two representatives is "worth it" as they went to different workshops and attended separate meetings, getting national contact and bringing back new ideas. It is pointed out that this is the only "big" trip board or staff members take each year.

In fact, at its March 25 board meeting this year the board established policies for board and staff attendance at workshops, seminars and conferences and has budgeted for them, stating that it "recognizes the contribution to the school district that may be gained from staff attendance at selected conferences." The board policy stresses that attendance will help members "become better informed and more effective."

We agree with both policy statements and laud the guidelines that require making advance arrangements, keeping the attendance in the staff person's field and requiring financial and meeting reports. We are fortunate to live in an area where education is considered important — a plenitude of workshops, meetings and conferences are held at county and state level. We think teachers, administrators and board members should be urged to attend those that pertain to their posts. This cost is relatively minimal.

However, in the spirit — if not necessity of current budgeting — of today's economic situation in Michigan, it does seem that one representative attending the west coast meeting would have been a realistic concession to the times.

Speaking for Myself

Bring back mini-skirts?

JACKIE LAWRENCE

YES

Sure!
I've worn mini-skirts before. I'll wear them again.
That's the nice thing about fashion, it changes. We all tire of wearing the same 'dictated' styles. The skirt lengths have been fashionably longer for the past few years, now they are heading back up. Why not take advantage of the chance to vary one's look and be stylish at the same time?
The workplace, some may say, can not retain its businesslike atmosphere if a woman dresses in short skirts. Others argue that it's too distracting (for men, I assume). Well, I'd have to agree, judgement and taste should prevail.

A mini-skirt is far less revealing than a pair of short shorts or a bathing suit, both of which have shared public acceptance for a long time.
Fashion, like most everything in this world, comes in and out of vogue utilizing the same, basic ideas. It's either long skirts or short skirts or some variation in between. It's time again for short skirts to claim their place.
Ideally, it would be terrific if we all could wear whatever length skirt we feel like without being labeled out of style.

Michelle Jasinski
Walled Lake resident

NO

No.
If mini-skirts do come back into vogue, they should be worn by the young, not those seeking a return to youth.
I have passed through that portion of my life which mini-skirts represents. I do not wish to recapture it.
Not only would I look foolish with my varicose veins showing, I would also feel foolish. I wore mini-skirts when they were in fashion in years past for they represented me at that time — young, impressionable and easily persuaded.

But I'm not that person any longer. I have a family, a profession and a direction to my life not so easily influenced by current trends. I have no desire to go back to what I used to be.
Indeed, I look forward with anticipation to what I have yet to become and — for that very reason — I could never again return to my old mini-skirted self.

JACK W. HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

Good ol' Ben Franklin did a lot more than fly kites and write witticisms. He was a great "quibbler" as well.

As we celebrate Michigan Week we ought to remember that this state's existence is due in large measure to Ben's astute negotiations.

It was Franklin who struck such a hard bargain in cementing the peace — ending the Revolutionary War and forging the boundaries of what became Michigan — that his exasperated adversaries were anxious to wrap things up... "these Americans," sighed Britain's boundary negotiator, "are the greatest quibblers I ever knew."

During the negotiations, boundaries for what became the Northwest Territory and eventually Michigan were proposed, redrawn and withdrawn so often Franklin's adversaries jumped at anything just to be able to report progress. At one point they came close to giving away most of Canada.

Franklin toyed with the British negotiators until everyone was quarreling and the talks came close to breaking up. When he figured he had pushed them as far as they could be shoved, ol' Ben suddenly agreed to take his winnings and run.

An hour before midnight, on November 11, 1782, Britain's Henry Strachey agreed to accept "Franklin's treaty," greatly relieved to end the confrontation. Strachey came away with his shirt, but little else.

"Now we are to be hanged or applauded for thus rescuing you from the American war," he wrote. "I am half dead with perpetual anxiety, and shall not be at ease till I see how the great men receive me. If this is not as good a peace as was expected, I am confident that it is the best that could have been made."

Strachey added later: "God forbid that I should ever have a hand in another treaty."

Yes, indeed, Franklin was a quibbler. He was sick and 76 years old during the talks. Had he been healthier Canada might now be part of the Upper Peninsula.

Sales success despite rain

Before the rain hit Saturday hundreds of shoppers jammed Northville's downtown to take advantage of the bargains offered in the second annual garage sale, sponsored by the Northville Chamber of Commerce.

The sale was "a complete sell out," with no curbside space available for additional booths, reports Chairman Scott Lapham. "Far more wanted to sell this year than last," he said. Several persons from other cities were so impressed with the turnout, they've asked advice on how they can sponsor similar events in their towns.

GOOD TIME FOR WINE
With summer coming, it is time for picnics again. If you want to have something besides hot dogs, hamburgers and beer, try chicken, quiches or even salads well packed in plastic containers. Then, pick out a nice bottle of wine. If you do not have a cooler, pick a red wine that can be served at more or less room temperature. Often, roses are nice because they can be served chilled but not cold. They also are not bothered too much by the travel and are nice and light.
Find wines and beer for picnics, bar-bques and other summer parties by coming to us at GOOD TIME PARTY STORE, 567 Seven Mile Road, 349-1477. Genuine draft beer can be served to your guests. We have keg beer in 1/4 and 1/2 barrels and all the equipment you need. Hours: Mon. thru Sat. 9 a.m.-10 p.m., Sun. Noon-6 p.m. Buy early for the long holiday weekend.
WINE WISDOM:
For picnic wine drinking, use plastic rather than paper cups.

He appreciates tribute

To the Editor:

Just a letter of thanks to the wonderful people of Northville who contributed to our Poppy Sale. Some asked, what is the sale for?

The Poppies are made by the veterans of our V.A. Hospitals and they are paid a few cents for each Poppy. The balance of the money collected is retained by our post and spent right here in our own community. It is placed in a "relief fund" which is kept separate from our post money. This fund is used exclusively to help veterans and the families of veterans who are in need.

Our post uses the fund to provide interim help for veterans and their families until we can obtain help for them through the Veterans Administration or other agencies such as the Veterans Trust Fund, the Soldiers and Sailors Relief Fund or another charitable agency. Our sales were not quite what we expected this year, undoubtedly because of the depressed economic condition in this area. If any reader missed our sale and would still like to contribute, they may make a check payable to "Relief Fund," Northville Post No. 4012, VFW, and mail it to 438 South Main, Northville 48167. The donation is tax deductible and would be greatly appreciated by the members.

Sincerely,
Northville Post No. 4012, VFW

George and Murilla say thanks

To the Editor:

So as not to forget anyone, we will thank everyone in this way. How can we ever begin to thank everyone for this most generous gift that we received from all of you in the Northville community through the Northville Community Band at the special concert given for me on April 23rd.

We appreciate the effort that went into the organization of the concert, for all those who participated as musicians, those who attended the concert and those who could not attend but supported it. I would also like to thank Bob Williams, the director who played a most influential role in my choice of becoming a band director, which was a most rewarding and enjoyable career for 11 years.

The special tribute given by Representative Jack Kirksey was also very special to me. It is wonderful to be remembered in this way. It has been five years since I was forced to leave teaching and to be remembered in this way is a wonderful thing.

We are so blessed to have such wonderful friends.

Thank you all again.
George and Murilla Berryman

Courtesy due kids' coaches

To the Editor:

I have a question for parents of a child playing any recreational sport. Do you extend to your child's coach the courtesy of informing her-him when your child won't be at a practice or game?

These coaches give of their precious time in order that your child may participate. Some of the coaches don't even have a child in the program. Imagine your indignation if a coach just didn't show for a practice or a game without informing you!

Please let him/her know as soon as possible, especially about games.

Marlene Danol and her boss William Breckwoldt admire tributes

'The Long and Winding Road' for Class of 1980

It's prom time again and another crop of seniors is readying fancy duds for the bash on Friday at the Dearborn Hyatt Regency Hotel. The tuxedo rental service promote their tuxes by having Rob Ade (left) and Steve Bourne model them in school, while Amy Missel (second from left) and Jennifer Wilkinson give their nod of approval.

It's Marlene's year

She's state prexy of 5,500 BPWs

By JEAN DAY

"Join — or I quit."

Faced with this ultimatum from her babysitter, Marlene Danol went to her first meeting of the Northville Business and Professional Women in 1968.

That was a dozen years and hundreds of club hours ago.

Today the woman who needed Hester Gow to sit with daughters Linda and Sue so that she could keep her job at Ford Motor Company is state president of the 5,500-member organization.

She received her badge of office with the BPW emblem along with congratulations from such dignitaries as First Lady Rosalynn Carter, Governor William Milliken and Philip Caldwell, chairman of the board of Ford Motor Company, May 3 at the state convention in Lansing.

Mrs. Danol's boss in the Ford Export Division in Wixom where she has been employed for 23 years is William Breckwoldt, its general manager. She is his executive secretary.

It was Breckwoldt who engineered the tribute from the head of her company and the congratulations from Mrs. Carter.

"My boss really has been the most supportive person I could have," the new BPW state president declares, saying he had urged her to continue at state level after she twice had been president of the local club in the early 1970s.

She was a District 9 secretary, then state expansion chairman, chairman of state BPW Week and of nominations, second and then first vice-president.

For the past year as president-elect she has been planning seriously how she will "give my all" this year.

The tribute from Mrs. Carter was an appropriate one, Mrs. Danol explains, as the First Lady is a charter member of the Americus (Georgia) Business and Professional Women.

Dorothy Guido of the Northville chapter was responsible for the congratulations from the governor, lieutenant governor. Senator Robert Geake, Representative Jack Kirksey, Senators Carl Levin and Donald Riegle, Jr., and Mayor Paul Vernon.

"Marlene, we are proud of you — the honor is richly deserved."

The tributes from people like Vernon whom she knows, the new state president confides, mean a great deal.

On hand for the occasion in Lansing were both daughters and her husband Terry. Sue is a graduating senior and honor student at Northville High and Linda is finishing her first year at Schoolcraft College. Mrs. Danol's mother, Mrs. Freda Trick, 80, of Livonia, also was in the proud family group.

One of Marlene Danol's goals as state BPW president is to work for passage of ERA. She began work 23 years ago before the women's movement had such organization.

"My girls grew up with my working, and they are much more independent because they have been responsible for their own actions."

"Also," she adds with pride, "both are going into business. Linda is interested in international business while Sue is starting to model and wants to combine this with a textile business background."

She agrees that having a supportive husband during the years of ever-increasing activity with the business and professional women's organization made a great deal of difference.

"He loves it," she says happily, relating that she introduced him at the convention as "a man of quality who is not threatened by a woman of equality."

As she points out that her daughters gained role models through BPW, Marlene Danol also recalls that she was introduced to "a delightful group of women" as a new resident of the community.

"She (Hester Gow) knew I needed to get acquainted."

Within the year the new BPW member had been made treasurer.

Acknowledging that "you have to be able to commit the time," Marlene Danol says that doing so developed her administrative and leadership abilities.

She's already into a busy year as she immediately was off to the ERA march in Chicago and then to the Canadian national BPW convention held in Windsor May 17.

She still plans to be active in the 50-member local club headed by Berenice Ellis and will be working with Louise Cutler of the Northville club who was appointed to the state board as Young Career Woman chairman.

All will be following the national BPW theme, "Decade for Decision — Time of Action."

Mrs. Danol plans to expand the state slogan with "Action for You and Action by You." The action will be in the areas of economics, energy, health and ERA. She also hopes to strengthen the state's 136 clubs through such activities.

She's pleased that more young women are joining the BPW organization.

The new Michigan BPW president is the first from the Northville club. If she has a regret, she says, it is that early leaders like Grace Reed, Mabel Cooley and — most of all — Beatrice Carlson, charter president and organizer, are not here today to share her honor.

There's no doubt they would have been delighted with Marlene.

Deadline nears to apply for Town Hall awards

While the Northville Town Hall Board of Awards has received applications for funding from area organizations, many who previously have applied have not done so yet this year, Fran Mattison, chairman, reports.

Deadline for applying for grants from the board is May 31.

Mrs. Mattison adds that the Board of Awards expects to be able to fund projects of many organizations this year as Northville Town Hall's sellout season was a most profitable one.

Town hall, sponsored by Our Lady's League of Our Lady of Victory Church, divides its profits equally between the sponsor and community charitable organizations.

Organizations that benefit have included King's Daughters, Northville Historical Society, Kiwanis, and others in surrounding communities that support the town hall program.

Application letters should be sent to Mrs. Mattison's attention, care of Northville Town Hall, Box 93.

In Our Town

Baby Margaret born on M-14

By JEAN DAY

Tiny Margaret Jean McClintock is too busy sleeping and growing to care about how she came into the world less than three weeks ago, but it's going to be a good tale for the rest of her life.

She was born to the Douglas McClintocks of 44915 Thor-napple Lane, her mother relates, "in the car on M-14 at the Ford Road overpass."

The McClintocks are wondering how the birth certificate for their third child will read. Mrs. McClintock mentions that the baby was a week late.

"I was in the back seat, and we just pulled over and then put her on top of my tummy and kept going to St. Joseph Hospital," she recalls. Margaret Jean turned out to be a healthy eight pounds, 13 ounces.

The McClintocks had taken LaMaze lessons for their first child who also was born quickly. Coleen, now 6, and her brother Billy, 3, now are welcoming their new sister, as are grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William McClintock of Detroit and Dr. and Mrs. Gaillard McCarty of Dearborn.

Margaret Jean's father is a partner in Arthur Anderson accountants. Her mother has taken the summer off from her work as an interior designer specializing in library designs with Design Associates of Plymouth.

Stephanie Rae's doing well, too

Stephanie Rae Evans, who caused her family concern when she was born April 24, now is home from the hospital in Little Rock, Arkansas, and is doing fine, thank you. She weighs six pounds and 12 ounces and is the daughter of Steve and Linda Evans.

The family, which also includes Steven, almost 3, will be visiting Steve's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Evans of 20311 Woodhill, early in June.

They're all out and mending

Several of the community's most active citizens have been hospitalized recently. Among them was Russell Amerman, active Rotarian and past superintendent of schools. He now is home recovering well from hand surgery. Another Rotarian, attorney Donald Severance also is recuperating from minor surgery and will be home convalescing for five weeks.

Judge Dunbar Davis expected to be released from St. Joseph Hospital last weekend and back presiding in the 35th District Court this week. A resident of Plymouth well known here, he was hospitalized May 7 after suffering an asthmatic attack while on the bench. Mrs. Davis reports that doctors

Local man takes bride in Wayne

Fecelia Marcellino of Wayne became the bride of Fred Bueter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bueter of 502 Morgan Circle, in a 3 p.m. ceremony April 26 at St. Mary's Church of Wayne.

The couple met at the Wayne bank where the bride is a teller. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Marcellino of Wayne.

Father Timothy Pelc officiated at the double ring service.

The bride's gown of organza was fashioned in an old-fashioned style with a deep ruffle over the shoulders and across the back. Lace edged the ruffle and the hem of the A-line skirt. Matching lace trimmed her wide-brim hat and attached illusion veil.

She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses with baby's-breath and trailing ivy.

Cicely Ostlund was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Denise Marcellino, Patricia Human, Patricia Bueter and Lisa Hurley. Melisa Davis was flower girl. They wore baby blue gowns with matching hats and carried baskets of spring flowers.

Pat Downs was best man. Ushers were Jim Sexton, Chris and Jim Bueter and Charles Human. Ring bearer was James Davis.

A reception followed at Karas House in Westland for 280 guests.

After a wedding trip to Florida the newlyweds are living in their home in Westland.

The bride is a graduate of Wayne Memorial High School. Her bridegroom is a graduate of Benediction High School and Michigan State University.

MR. AND MRS. FRED BUETER

Mill Race to glow for gala evening

A springtime opportunity to spend an evening in Mill Race Historical Village on the Friday of Memorial Day weekend, strolling paths illuminated by the new post lights to open buildings and dining in New School Church, is being offered by Northville Historical Society.

It is "Swinging into spring" with a gala buffet dinner to be held in conjunction with the annual meeting May 23.

It's the first time such an event has been scheduled and is a benefit for the society's 1980 project — completion of the Wash-Oak School in Mill Race Village.

The evening will begin with punch served in the Mill Race gazebo. All buildings will be open for members to inspect progress.

Buffet supper will be at 7:15 p.m. Catered by Genitti's, it will feature antepasto, appetizers, tossed salad, baked chicken, breaded country steak, vegetables, rolls, dessert and coffee.

After a brief annual meeting, those attending will be able to stroll through the village illuminated now with handsome period lights.

Reservations at $12.50 a person are required as the church can seat only 100. They may be made by calling 420-0336 or 349-0767.

Mothers' Club elects

Marge Longridge president

Marge Longridge assumed presidency of Northville Mothers' Club at the annual picnic Monday held at the home of Roxanne Casterline on South Rogers. She succeeds Luanne McCurdy as head of the 35-member group dedicated to supporting and assisting Northville Public Schools.

Other officers for the coming year are Diane Schrader, vice-president; Barbara Willoughby, treasurer; Sharon Lineman, recording secretary; and Carol VanSoest, corresponding secretary.

Co-hostesses Monday were Mrs. Willoughby, Phia Johnson and Barbara VanBuren.

Nellie Dayton honored

Mrs. Nellie M. Dayton, a long-time Northville resident before she moved to South Lyon, was honored at a surprise 80th birthday party on Mother's Day.

A potluck dinner was hosted by her five children and held at the Canton home of her granddaughter.

Thirty-two family members were present with children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren coming from New York, Ohio, Kentucky, Texas and Michigan locations.

FLYING UP — Girl Scouts participating in the Brownie fly-up at Silver Springs are, rear, Theresa and Julie Gatti, Lisa and Lori Archibald, and, sitting, Julie Ibach, Morgen Conquest, Karen Picard and Renee Viel. Mother leaders are Michelle Conquest, Deedie Killgore and Barbara Ibach. As scouts when they were girls, they're bringing up a "second generation" of Girl Scouts.

Honors for leaders, too

They're Girl Scouts now

"Girl Scouts Together," the song sung at a Brownie fly-up ceremony May 11 in the multi-purpose room of Silver Springs Elementary, could be enlarged to add "with their mothers."

Twelve Brownie scouts from Troop 473 were honored as they joined Troop 737, a few days earlier on May 7 a large group of Northville women received recognition for leadership at the spring meeting of the Plymouth-Northville-Canton Area Association.

Among them was Barbara Ibach, leader with Michelle Conquest, of Troop 473. Mrs. Ibach received a Faithful Service to Scouting Award from the area association. In addition to being the Brownie leader at Silver Springs she serves on the volunteer personnel committee of the Huron Valley Council. All Northville scouts are part of the council.

Also honored at the meeting was Judy Williams, troop service director for Our Lady of Victory Elementary, an area Brownie consultant and Cadette troop leader. She has been involved in many area activities, especially the Girl Scout Day Camp.

"She inspires everyone with her enthusiasm," declares Kathie Landrum, press representative for Northville Girl Scouting.

Mrs. Landrum adds that the community has a number of "outstanding" leaders.

Ten-year pins were presented to Karen Hill, Betty Abraham, Carol Stockhausen and Mrs. Williams. Gloria Talbot and Diane Roslinski received five-year pins.

In addition, 28 new leaders in Northville were presented with New Leader pins.

As the dozen Brownies became Girl Scouts in last week's ceremony, their leaders also flew-up to become Junior leaders next year. Deedie Killgore, present leader of Troop 737, next year will lead the Brownie troop.

They presented badges and awards in the program.

Brownies Lisa Archibald, Sherry Brett, Morgen Conquest, Julie Gatti, Julie Ibach, Lisa Szymanski, Renee Viel, Kristin Czapski, Amy Mallory, Sandy Karavitis, Becky Bajorek and Michelle Brooke entered the "magic tunnel."

Each was met halfway by a Junior scout and led out to be presented with a badge sash complete with insignia.

Mrs. Landrum announces an important upcoming event for all girls at Silver Springs interested in scouting. A cluster round-up will be held at 7:30 p.m. June 11 in the school multi-purpose room.

All girls should be accompanied by a parent and be dressed for fun and games.

Pre-registration for troops will be held in the fall.

Jet lag may shorten life

By JEAN DAY

Ticking away inside each of us are biological clocks.

Most of us are aware of the daily one because our routines are on a 24-hour repeat.

However, there also are seasonal and lunar clocks reacting.

Scientists like David C. Njus, Ph.D., Wayne State University biology professor, study these "clocks" in nature to learn more about humans.

Jet lag may be more than just a tiring annoyance for regular travelers, those attending a series of April health-focused seminars at Schoolcraft College learned.

A German scientist, Jurgen Aschoff, experimented with fruit flies, simulating weekly flights back and forth across the ocean to find that the flies suffered permanent jet lag, Njus reported. Those used in the experiment lived 98 days instead of the normal 125-day lifetime of the fly.

The conclusion might be that jet lag also shortens human life, but Njus didn't go so far as to draw the parallel that jet lag could shorten human life 20 percent also.

He did explain that the experiments are done by changing light cycles every six hours and reversing them to create the "jet set" situation.

"Your body has to reset its clocks to be in sympathy with its environment," he said, describing how flying to Hawaii across several time zones requires a series of adjustments.

And with some, there never is complete adjustment.

Roger Sutherland, Schoolcraft professor who hosted the lecture, said that formulas even have been devised to help travelers "get into the new time zone beforehand." The traveler, he illustrated, uses a rather complicated process to adjust. He changes to a high protein diet and eats and goes to bed on a different schedule.

"In shift work," Njus related, "those who work night must reverse their sleep rhythm, but many other rhythms may remain normal."

An internal synchronization is necessary so that all happens in proper order. When the system breaks down, Njus explained, things go wrong.

Illness, he continued, also can change rhythms, as can medications used for the illness.

Sutherland reported that maintaining rhythms is being found to be more important as we age. Older people who force themselves to maintain a regular routine, he said, "keep their act together" better. He added that it is not what they do as much as that it is done on a regular basis.

Njus, who did his graduate work at Harvard in bio-chemistry, explained that simpler organisms in nature like the marine algae and the fruit fly are studied because their rhythms are easy to monitor. Photosynthesis, the process by which chlorophyll-containing cells in green plants convert light to chemical energy, and luminiscence, the process that derives light from nonthermal sources, are charted from glow peak to glow peak.

Collegians study biological clocks

Phases, he stated, correspond to particular times of the day.

"They are keeping their own time, but it may be 23 hours, instead of 24," he said.

The single cell Gonyalax and the Drosophila (fruit fly) keep circadian (approximately 24-hour) time and are used in the time clock experiments for this reason, the scientist said.

Other things the experimenters are finding, he related, include the effects of temperature on our biological clocks.

"When you raise the temperature, the rhythm runs slower," he said.

"It has been found that as temperature is increased, your sense of time runs shorter."

The scientists may even be able to tell by a person's biological clock whether he or she is an introvert or an extrovert.

Introverts, reported Njus, tend to have a higher morning temperature while extroverts register higher in the evening.

Herb sale upcoming

Just in time for spring planting, reports Pat Kitchen of Northville, the Michigan Unit of the Herb Society of America is offering its sale of herb plants.

She and other members of the unit will be selling them from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. May 30 at Franklin Community Church in Franklin.

A variety of plants for culinary use and for fragrance will be featured. Dye plants and such old favorites as chives, thymes and mints.

There will be information sheets for customers, and herb society members will answer questions.

Proceeds will be used for the scholarship fund of the Herb Society of America.

This 'girl next door' makes $70 an hour

By ELLEN SPONSELLER

"You wanna look beautiful? Hang around with ugly friends."
—traditional advice

If you want to look beautiful, sister, don't hang around with model Teri Van Buren because you'll fade into the proverbial woodwork.

In person, she's pretty but not glamorous, talkative and healthy like a lot of other Michigan women.

But, ah, take a photograph, and Teri has that something extra that makes an advertiser's eyes twirl dollar signs. In photographs, she displays a practiced smile and pose, polished in front of thousands of cameras over the past seven years.

At five feet, seven inches tall, 120 pounds, people say Teri VanBuren looks like a young Cheryl Tiegs. She gets $70 an hour for her "girl next door" looks. Some girl next door.

"I started modeling when I was 18, when my mother took me to the Leslie Fargo agency. I wasn't ugly in high school — I went to Northville High School — but I was tall, skinny and flat-chested. I never wore makeup, had straight brown hair, and I didn't even get asked to the senior dance," she says, shifting in her chair with catlike grace in the library of the VanBuren home on Nine Mile.

"But a lot of people told me my body was right for modeling. Each agency has a day when they will talk to you and look at your pictures. It's free. If you have potential, they'll tell you what you have to do."

Steering away from modeling schools ("unless you're a hunchback or wash your hair once a month, you should go to an agency, not a school; I hate to see girls with natural beauty spend a lot of money taking a course; they should pay you, not vice versa") Teri's mother, Barbara, took her down to the Leslie Fargo agency in Detroit.

"I had visions that there would be all these glamorous New York types towering over me but when I walked in it wasn't like that at all. I was signed to the agency that day."

As a model, Teri gets jobs through her agency and photographers. Using a "head sheet," clients pick the face they want to sell a product. Often times, very often, they pick Teri.

She spends eight months a year here shooting commercials for advertisers. The rest of the time she spends in Florida, working out and keeping a golden tan. She keeps in shape, she says, by exercising at least once a week, drinking lots of water, and not getting too much sun.

She had her first job — a national magazine advertisement for Pinto — in 1973. Recently she has been national poster girl for Cars and Concepts, Inc., headquartered in Brighton. She travels the country as a Cars and Concepts representative, autographing her picture for the men who swarm to automobile parts conventions. She has modeled for Datsun, Ford, Coca-Cola, and hundreds of other clients in Detroit.

What is life like when your livelihood comes from your external appearance? Teri says she walks a narrow line between flirtation and coolness. At places like auto shows, she must be friendly, but not too friendly, with the visitors.

"That's where having six brothers comes in handy," she says. "Most of the men are nice, but you get guys who crawl up out of the woodwork and you have to know how to handle them. I've heard every line."

While women run modeling agencies, it is men who do the hiring, men who shoot the pictures and men who select the models.

"You especially feel that as a female that they're looking at your body and don't care what's between your ears," she says. "But honestly, if you are a model, you have to some extent play the game. You have to play up to their egos. Realize you're attractive and use it. They know this is my job. So it's not all fake. You have to be friendly and open, but not throw yourself at them. As long as you can flirt and respect yourself."

"It's a shame to be on display, in a way, but that's what it's about — selling the product."

Depending on the automotive market here next winter, Teri plans to try her hand at the cut-throat New York modeling world. At age 25, she's the right age, the right shape, the right look. It's now or never.

"I've got to try New York. If I don't go within the next 12 months, I'll never be able to do it. Detroit is infinitely more relaxed and comfortable," she explains. "But in New York they care more about the model and less about the product. In Detroit they don't care if the mascara is running on the model as long as the windows in the car are clean."

Modeling sometimes goes to people's heads, Teri admits. "It's nice being attractive, but when you are constantly getting pampered and ogled at and getting $70 an hour, lots of girls think they're God's gift. People are telling you all the time you're beautiful, and 75 percent of it is bs. Thank goodness I have my family to fall back on."

Teri recently persuaded three of her younger brothers to become models. Michael, 16, Ricky, 13 and Robbie, 11, all model for Detroit advertisers.

"This is an unstable business. You can be so popular one day, then be a nobody the next," the blond-haired model admits. "I don't push myself as much as I should, but as much as I enjoy modeling I don't think of it as life and death. I don't worry too much about it. There is more to me than just my looks. There are other things I could do."

But beware of the dangers

Mushroom hunting can be year-round fun

Michigan mushroom madness begins in May with the morel season. And for many wild mushroom fanciers, it ends there.

But those who know how to identify some of Michigan's other edible mushrooms can collect and enjoy fresh fungi from spring through fall.

The key, of course, is proper identification.

Everett Beneke, professor of botany and plant pathology at Michigan State University, points out that the state has some 2,500 types of large mushrooms that could be collected in sufficient quantities for eating. The problem is that this number includes at least 50 poisonous mushrooms that can be mistaken for edible species.

And there's no rule of thumb or kitchen test that can be used to determine which mushrooms can be eaten and which should be avoided. Poisonous mushrooms grow alongside edible ones throughout Michigan during spring, summer and fall, so where and when a person hunts is no guarantee that they're safe to eat.

There are some excellent edible wild mushrooms in Michigan, however, than anyone can learn to identify and harvest. Each has certain traits or a combination of traits that can be used to distinguish it from other species.

For an introduction to mushroom identification, Beneke suggests a series of publications available from the MSU Cooperative Extension Service.

The series includes a bulletin on morels, one on avoiding poisonous mushrooms, another on the family mushrooms known as Boletes, and publications on mushrooms that grow in lawns and grasslands, on the forest floor, on wood waste and on stumps.

Beginners might concentrate on learning about the mushrooms to be found in a certain environment, Beneke suggests.

Focusing on mushrooms that grow on stumps, for instance, immediately limits the number of species encountered and so reduces the change for misidentification. Learning when to look for the various edible species also may prevent potentially tragic mix-ups.

These bulletins are packed with valuable information on the structure and growth of mushrooms. They describe only a few of either the edible or the poisonous mushrooms to be found in Michigan.

The mushroom hunter who masters the identification of these probably will want to invest in a good field guide to mushrooms.

Beneke notes that studying the color photographs that such books contain is only the beginning. A person must also study the detailed written descriptions of the various species, which spell out exactly what to look for to get a positive identification of an individual specimen.

Even the best book comes with no guarantees, Beneke cautions. Ultimately the hunter is responsible for the decision to eat or not to eat the mushrooms found. If he's not willing to make that decision wisely, he should probably stick with the mushrooms from the market produce counter.

The result of carelessness or inattention when selecting mushrooms from the wild for eating can be fatal.

Annuals Make Eyefuls Out of Eyesores

The garden hot spot. The one location that never seems to look anything but awful. Year after year, the only plants to flourish are weeds.

The eyesore can become an eyeful when careful selection becomes part of the gardening process. Many annual flowers do not thrive in hot, dry locations, but the exceptions will provide unceasing bloom in this most inhospitable environment.

Verbena 'Sangria'

Verbena and vinca are two annuals which will perform colorfully in the hot, dry garden environment. Plant breeders, conscious of the worth of hardy annuals, have developed two new varieties for the 1980 growing season.

Premiering in seed catalogs and as started plants at greenhouses and garden centers this spring, are 'Little Rosie' vinca, and the All-America award winner, 'Sangria' verbena.

'Sangria,' recipient of a bronze All-America award for 1980, boasts a rich wine-red color unique to the verbena family. Other outstanding attributes of this new introduction include a very uniform height and increased resistance to heat. The spreading trailer will extend 2 to 3 feet in the home garden setting.

Use 'Sangria' as an edging plant, add summer color to the rock garden or try it in a hanging basket. The warm burgundy overtones will enhance a variety of landscape settings, plant colors and forms.

The virtues of vinca 'Little Rosie' are also headlined by its resistance to sun and hot weather. The compact 8- to 10-inch plants produce deep violet-rose flowers, however hot or dry the summer. This newest addition to the 'Little' series boasts the same lustrous green foliage and hybrid vigor found in 'Little Blanche,' 'Bright Eyes,' 'Pinkie' and 'Delicata.' All are ideal as bedding plants in the most droughty and sun-sizzled of locations.

While vinca and verbena can both be started from seed, many home gardeners find these species somewhat exacting to germinate indoors. They can be readily purchased as bedding plants at garden centers and greenhouses.

Poet's Corner

Dad
loving, poetic
Writes beautiful poems
He helps me understand
Father

Judy Shemetulskis

Rondelet

I wonder why
I cannot get to sleep tonight...
I wonder why!

Whether my word-pot has run dry—?
Can lack of rhyming be my plight?
I wonder why...
I wonder why.

Charles E. Hutton

Annual's End

Dragonflies,
nabbed squarely home
(by icy facials)
crouch low...
now, stationary, freeze
on those sediments likely utilized—
where eventually,
they'll be beat back to earth.
Yes; as they intended.

Margaret O'Brien

Stuck Together

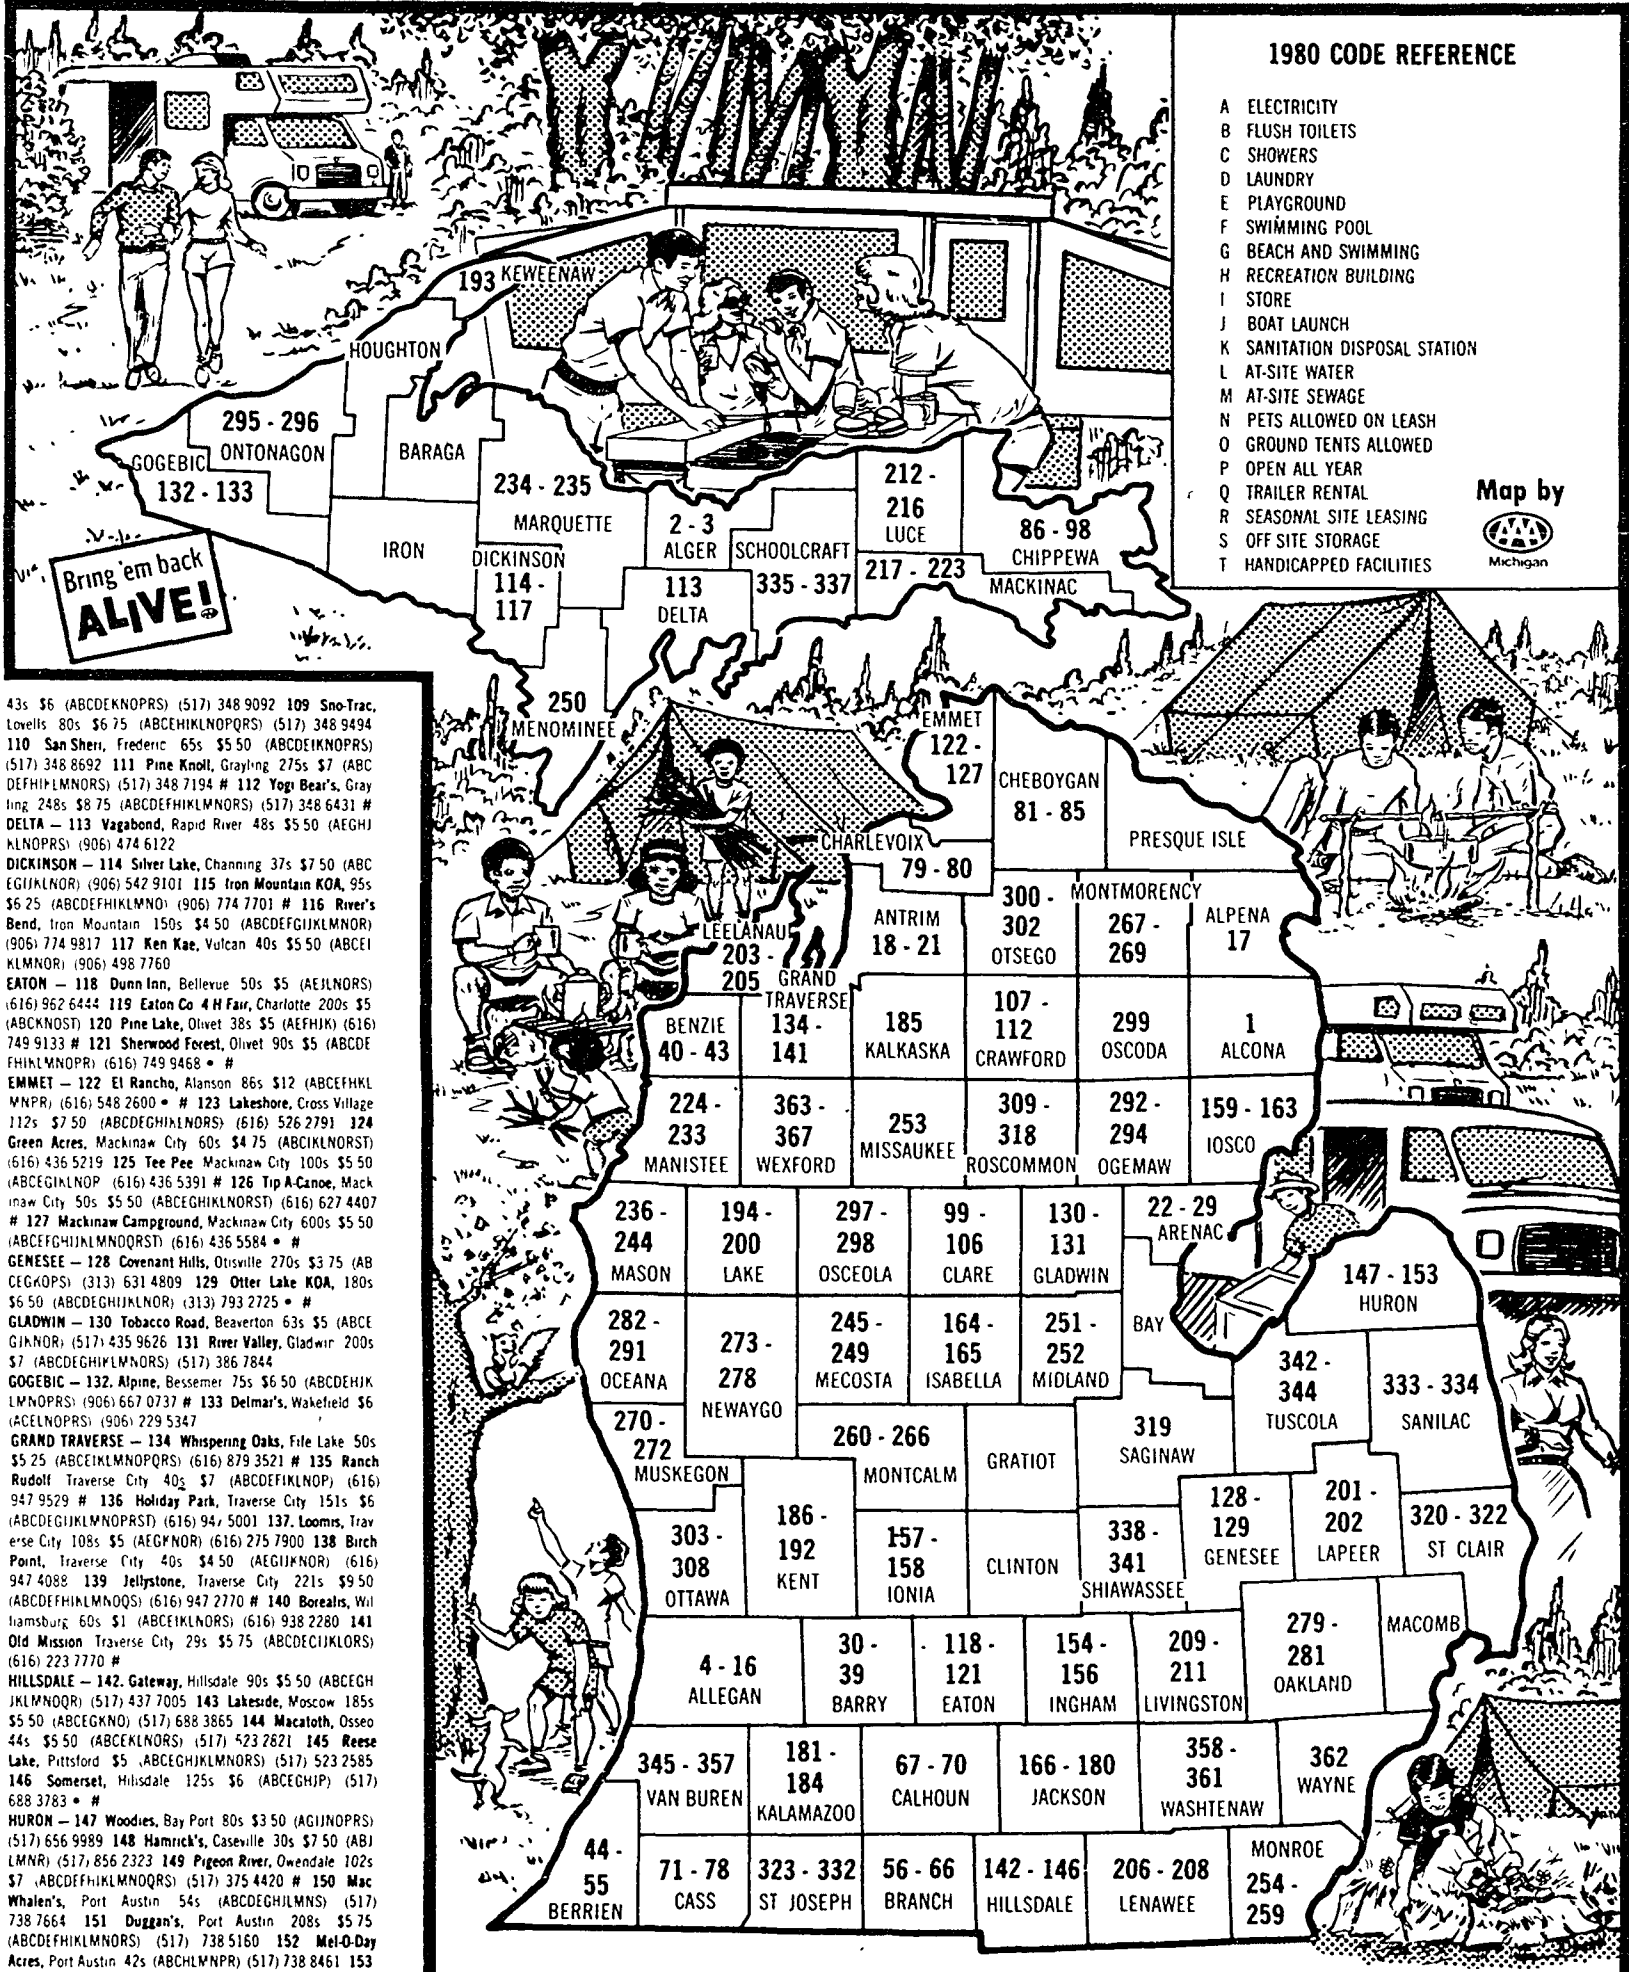

We are 3 Musketeers.
Stuck together like glue,
Where ever one goes,
the other goes, too.
I love them dearly, and
"God keep them safe, and good health is my Prayer at the end of the day for them."
May "God Bless", as Red says.
LOVE, Mom and Grandmother.

Couyoumjian earns trip to state in 880

Harry Couyoumjian qualified for the upcoming state track meet by winning the 880-yard dash at last weekend's regional track competition.

His time was 1:58.4, tying his best time of the season.

The state meet will take place on Saturday, May 31 at Grand Rapids' Houseman Field.

The running events will begin at 1:30 p.m.

Couyoumjian was the only Mustang to qualify for the meet. Others turned in good times, but didn't qualify.

Ross Grover ran his best time of the season in the mile to place seventh. But his 4:35.2 clocking wasn't fast enough to qualify him for state.

Scott Dayton ran a 4:42 in the race.

Doug Wright ran his best time in the 440-yard dash, a :51.8, and the mile relay unit of Clark and Harry Couyoumjian, Wright and Ken Weber ran a 1:33.5, the second fastest of the season for the four.

On Thursday the Mustangs hosted powerful Livonia Churchill and lost 94-38.

Dave Ward won the long jump (19'7") and the high jump (5'10") and took third in the shot put (41'0").

Pete Blanchard finished third in the high jump (5'6") and Todd Vincent was third in the pole vault (10'0").

Grover won the mile (4:40) with Dayton coming in second (4:43).

Wright placed second in the 440-yard dash (:52.4) and Clark Couyoumjian was third (:54.0).

Harry Couyoumjian won the 880 (1:59.6) and Grover came in second (2:07.5).

Dayton doubled back to win the two mile run (10:15.5) to complete the Northville scoring.

Northville will take on Walled Lake Western today in a 4 p.m. meet at Western.

Harry Couyoumjian finishes far ahead of the pack in the 880, the event he qualified for State in

Northville nine hobbles Harrison

Kim Kurzawa hit the first home run of her high school career last Monday to lead Northville to a 9-3 win over Harrison.

The blow, an inside the park homer, came with Jill Mateucci on base. Kurzawa, in a batting slump the past few weeks, broke out of it in big style Monday with a triple, single and walk to go with her circuit blast.

Julie Abraham did her part to earn the win as she held Harrison scoreless until the sixth inning.

She also knocked in a run and scored once. Laurie Stasak had two hits for the winners.

The win was the first in a long while for the Mustangs. Riding the crest of the Harrison win, Northville took on Farmington in a pre-district matchup on Tuesday.

The game was called due to rain after four and a half innings. The score was deadlocked at 10-10.

Northville was lucky to escape with the tie. The Mustangs spotted Farmington a 6-0 lead in the bottom of the second inning before scoring twice in their half of the inning.

Northville added four runs in the third to tie the game but Farmington bounced back to take the lead by a run in the fourth.

In answer, the Mustangs took a 10-7 lead with three runs in their half of the inning.

But in the bottom of the fifth, Farmington combined two hits and three Northville errors to score three times to tie the game.

At this point the game was called. Northville and Farmington met Thursday to finish it.

The Mustangs were unable to score in their at-bats and Farmington used a single, a stolen base and another single to push across the winning run, 11-10.

Amy Abraham had two singles, Kurzawa a double and a single and Julie Abraham added a two-run double in the losing effort.

The Northville team lost a double header to Waterford Mott on Wednesday.

The Mustangs collected 10 hits but gave up 11 errors in the first game, losing 16-8 (Mott's first win of the year) and dropped the second 4-1 despite a fine pitching performance by Stacy Hoover.

Hoover, up from the JV, went the

Les Neal (serving) and Dale Fisher won at third doubles against Mott

Netters slip by Mott

Barry Ouellette's dreams of a Class A tennis title ended when he was eliminated in the semi-finals of the regional tennis meet last week.

Northville's ace beat foes from Farmdale and Livonia Stevenson before running into Bloomfield Hills Andover's Chip Bagley.

Ouellette lost 6-7, 5-7 in a tough match, having led in both sets.

Ouellette's semi-final showing was as far as any Mustang netter got in the regional meet.

Doug Horst at second singles, Jeff Williams at third and Russ Gans at fourth each made it to the second round, but was eliminated there.

The doubles teams of Rick Marshall and Ian Wild (first), Mark Swayne and Jim Herbel (second) and Les Neal and Dale Fisher (third) were all eliminated in the first round.

It was a less than successful week for the Mustangs as the team dropped its first league match of the season, losing to Farmington Harrison 5-2.

Ouellette won (6-1, 6-3); Horst (5-7, 1-6), Williams (3-6, 1-6), and Gans (1-6, 4-6) lost to round out the singles action while Wild and Swayne (1-6, 6-4, 6-3) were the only winners in the doubles play.

Neal and Herbel (4-6, 1-6) and Russ Horst and Mark Holland (2-6, 1-6) lost the remaining two doubles matches.

Northville survived a close match against Mott on Thursday, winning 4-3.

Ouellette (6-1, 6-1) and Doug Horst (7-6, 4-6, 6-4) won but Williams (6-3, 5-7, 6-8) and Gans (5-7, 6-3, 3-6) lost to split the singles action.

Swayne and Wild (5-7, 4-6) lost at first doubles but Herbel and Holland (6-2, 6-4) and Fisher and Neal (6-2, 6-2) posted victories to lift the Mustangs past Mott.

Northville is now 9-2 overall and 7-1 in the Western Six Conference.

The Mustangs are tied with Farmington Harrison for the league lead.

Northville will take on Walled Lake Western today in a 4 p.m. home contest. The Western Six league meet is a week from today.

'H' League Review

David Merrick had two hits and scored a run, while Michael Kelley cracked a two-run double to lead the Astros to a 5-3 win over the Mets in the only "H" League action last week.

Todd Kormanis, Kelly, Todd Yaekie and Steven Workman scored the other Astro runs. Scott Belliston added a double for the winners.

For the Mets, Shyu Siegfried smacked a two-run home run to lead his team in offense.

Brian Frellick, who had led off with a triple, was on base when Siegfried cleared the fence.

Phillip Lickman scored the other Mets run.

Soccerfest 1980 Saturday

Upwards of 2,600 young athletes will be playing soccer at Schoolcraft College the weekend of May 24-25.

The competition is called

"Soccerfest 1980."

According to Marvin Gans, Schoolcraft's director of athletics, 10 fields will be utilized across campus with games every 40 minutes, 8:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. both days.

The players will be boys and girls ages eight through 19, their teams drawn by lottery to be invited.

JV softball team loses

The Northville JV softball team seems to have learned the key to potent offense. Now if it can just unlock the secrets to good defense, the Mustangs will be unbeatable.

Northville scored 39 runs in three games last week, but lost all three. Salem topped the Mustangs 23-19 last Monday and Waterford Mott took both ends of a double header, 20-16 and 10-4, on Wednesday.

Stacey Hoover led the attack against Salem. She had a triple, a double and walked three times.

Linda Schneider had three hits for Northville. Linda Dearing and Jill Mateucci each collected two hits.

"Overall we played well, but we had trouble defending against the steal," Northville coach Joe Blake said. "We're starting to hit the ball better and we are running the bases well, but we have to improve our defense. Except for that, I think we played Salem even-up."

The first game of the Mott twin bill was an extra inning affair.

The score at the end of seven innings was 12-12. Mott managed to break lose in the ninth for the win.

Sharon Knauss, who pitched the entire game, also was the big gun on offense, collecting four hits.

Schneider and Diane Ciskowski each had three hits and Marcie Lovelace, Karen Cassaday and Sandy Searles each had two hits.

The second game marked the pitching debut of Mateucci, who Blake felt did a worthy job.

Lovelace and Ciskowski collected two hits each in that game.

The squad now stands at 1-9 on the season.

Mustangs clinch Western Six tie

The Northville varsity baseball team has clinched at least a tie for the Western Six League title.

Northville has one league game remaining, against Walled Lake Western Wednesday, while Plymouth Canton, the Mustangs' closest rival for the title, plays Waterford Mott the same day.

Northville currently is 7-2 in the league while Canton is 6-3. If Northville loses to Western and Canton beats Mott, the two teams will have 7-3 league marks, tying them for the crown.

But if either Northville wins or Canton loses, the Mustangs are assured of their first Western Six title.

On Monday evening it didn't look nearly so rosy for the Northville team.

The Mustangs blew a 2-0 lead with one out in the final inning against Churchill to lose 3-2.

But the team breathed a unified sigh of relief, when arriving back home at Northville, it learned that Canton had split a double header against Western, assuring the Mustangs of a tie for the crown.

John Hale was the pitcher of record in the Churchill loss. He was cruising along in control of what looked like a sure win, when, with two outs to go for the victory, the world fell apart.

He gave up his first walk of the game, then two straight singles to load the bases.

He reared back and tried to blow the ball past the next Churchill batter, who swung and sent the ball dribbling weakly to first base.

Firstbaseman Paul Luiki fielded the ball and threw it to Hale, covering the base. But the ball scooted by under Hale's glove and two runs scored.

The next batter sent the ball deep to centerfield, allowing the runner on third to waltz home with the winning run.

Hale went seven innings, scattered five hits, gave up one walk and struck out five Churchill batters. Only one of the three runs were earned. His pitching record is now 6-2-1.

Northville scored both of its runs in the first inning. Gary Kucher and Hale walked to put runners on first and second, when Luiki sent a double screaming into the gap between right and center fields. Both runners scored.

Northville started the week by sweeping Waterford Mott in a double header.

Northville won the first game 6-0 and the second 10-7.

Rick Borthwick (6-2) tossed the shutout in the first contest and Hale chalked up the win in the second.

Dan Goehman had five hits in six at-bats in the twin bill. Jim Behan hit a two-run double and scored twice in the first game while Luiki hit a double, knocked in three runs and collected three hits in four at-bats in the second.

On Thursday Rob Ade survived a rocky third inning to beat Howell 5-4.

Northville took a 2-0 lead in the first inning, but in the second the Highlanders touched Ade for three runs.

In the fifth the Mustangs struck back for three to take the lead and Ade held Howell scoreless until the final inning.

His record is now 2-1.

Northville may win the Western Six crown, but its hopes of a state title were dashed Friday by the laserbeam arm of Plymouth Salem's Paul McNamara.

Salem eliminated Northville from the state tourney by beating the Mustangs 7-0.

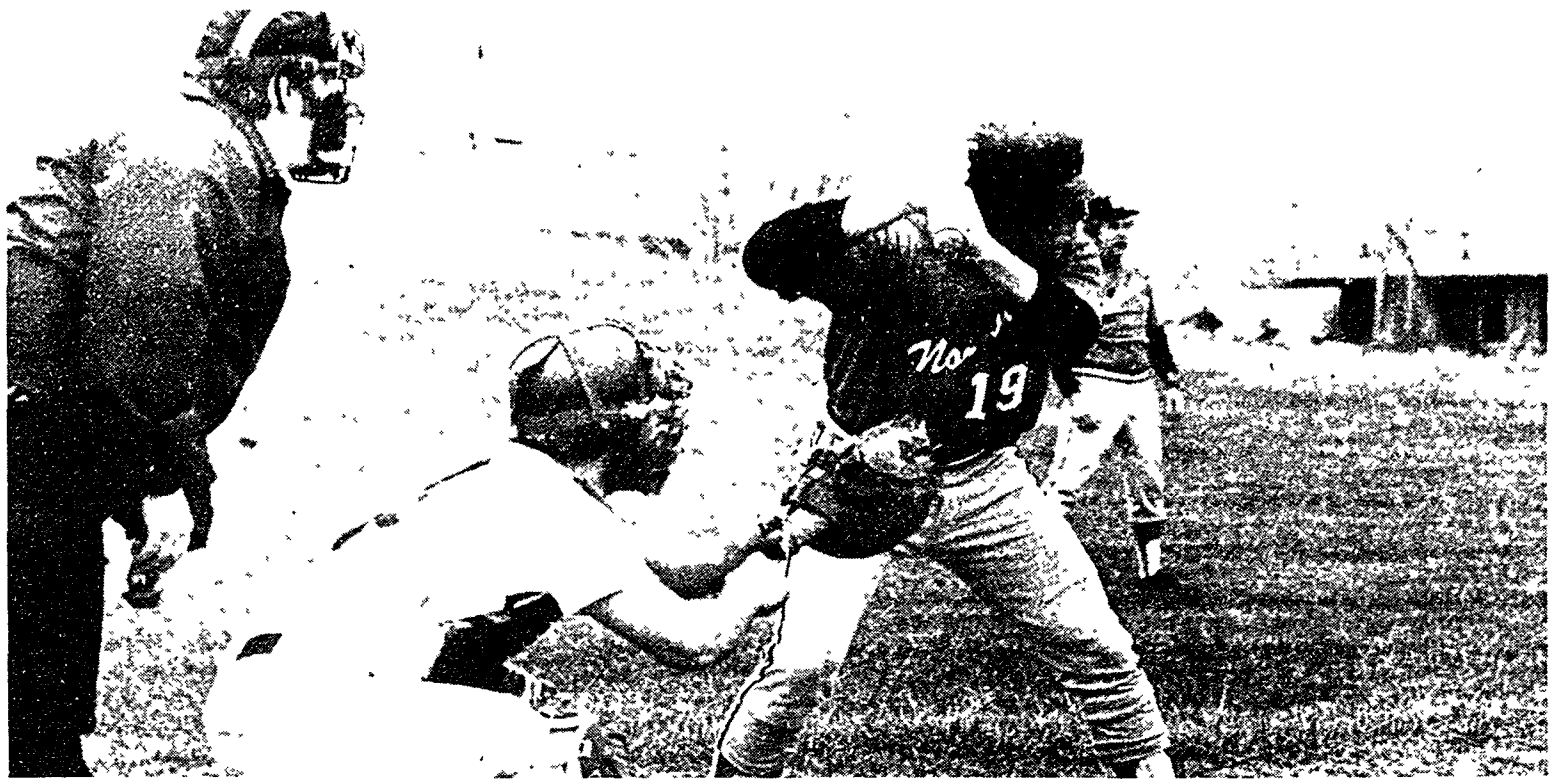

McNamara struck out 17 Mustangs en route to victory. Goehman and Luiki, both hitting singles, were the only Northville batsmen able to get hits.

The Salem cause was furthered by five Northville errors in the game, three of which came in the first inning allowing Salem to jump out to a 3-0 lead.

Borthwick took the loss in that game, although the senior hurler did some fanning of his own, sending eight Salem batsmen back to the dugout frustrated.

Northville will host Western this afternoon in a 4 p.m. contest, and tomorrow will close out its season by hosting Franklin in a make-up game of a rainout earlier this season. That game also will begin at 4 p.m.

Northville is now 14-5-2 overall.

Bob Boshover has been a mainstay in the Mustang outfield

Bentley edges kickers

Livonia Bentley survived the first half shock of falling behind 1-0 to the Northville girls varsity soccer team Friday to rally for two second-half goals for a 2-0 win.

Bentley had beaten the Mustangs earlier in the season. It and Livonia Stevenson comprise the top two teams in the league.

Northville's goal two minutes into the game seemed to disorganize the Bentley contingent, according to Northville coach Ron Meteyer.

It took Livonia the majority of the period to regroup.

Kathy Montgomery got the wheel rolling when she banged a long shot which bounced off of a Bentley defender, straight to Liz Bohan, who was waiting patiently by herself five feet from the goal.

She calmly kicked the ball past the diving goaltender to give Northville a 1-0 lead.

"Leading 1-0 at the half, I had the option of falling back into a strong defense, or to keep on the attack," Meteyer said. "Because I thought one goal wouldn't be enough against Bentley, I chose to keep attacking. Bentley came out for the second half organized and scored two goals to beat us."

Bentley used one of Meteyer's favorite plays to score both of its goals.

The first came two minutes into the second half. The ball was passed from the right wing to the left wing, who shot it past the out-of-position goalie.

Bentley used it twice and scored both times. Their last goal, the winner, came 15 minutes into the period.

Except for the play of Jane Mao, who Meteyer said completely dominated the middle, Northville was unable to mount much of an attack against the Bentley Squad.

Northville had nine shots on the Livonia goal while Bentley peppered goalie Karen Irwin with 15 shots.

Northville had two other games last week and won them both by identical scores, 2-0.

On Monday the Mustangs beat Farmington Harrison. Marge Muller rang the bell with only 30 seconds to go in the first half. She rocketed home a centering pass from Leslie Koenig.

The second goal came on a direct kick into the left corner of the net by Jane Mao. This goal came at the 20 minute mark of the second period.

Harrison managed only seven shots against the Mustangs, while Muller alone had that many for Northville. In all, Northville had 13 shots on goal.
