TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

Building slumps locally in 1980 to a record low

Housing construction in the Northville area slumped significantly in 1980, city and township building departments reported last week.

The one-two punch of rising prices and record-high interest rates combined to lay the housing market down for one of its worst years of recent record.

Northville Township, which recorded a "good" year in 1979 with 196 single family home starts fell to a dismal 75 single family starts in 1980.

The situation in multiple family dwelling units was more depressed, with no building permits issued. The previous year had been marked with construction of the Swan Harbour apartment complex of 266 units.

The situation was turned around in the city, where no new single family dwellings were begun in 1980. Lexington Commons Condominiums opened construction on 36 new units while four condos were built in a new complex on Fairbrook.

Tree Top Apartments, on Novi Road, added another 32 units to the 1980 count by getting permits in late December, bringing new construction in the city to a total of 72 multiple family dwelling unit starts.

Troy Milligan, township building inspector, said that the 75 permits for single family units included a number of models and houses built "on spec" — without a buyer in sight.

The best year for single family home construction in the township was in the housing market boom year of 1978, when 205 new houses were begun. By comparison, 1980 was the slowest building year in over a decade. Even 1975, generally recognized as a poor year in the industry, surpassed 1980's output.

Occupation permits, issued on completion of construction, offered a slightly less grim view of township growth.

The building department issued approximately 125 occupancy permits on single family homes in 1980. In addition, all 266 units of the Swan Harbour apartments were issued permits and one building in Northridge Apartments was occupied in the year just ended.

Township activity centered on the Lakes of Northville subdivision, an Elro Corporation development on the north side of Six Mile Road east of Northville Road.

New construction in the subdivision totalled 28 new houses. Elro Corporation is preparing another development, to be called Hills of Northville, located at Six Mile and Sheldon Roads, with activity to begin when the housing market revives.

Other relatively active building spots included the development by Spagnoli Associates, a builders consortium, at North Beacon Woods subdivision on Eight Mile near Beck Road where 20 building permits were issued. Many of the houses were built "on spec" township building department spokespersons said.

Quail Ridge subdivision, on Eight Mile near the city-township eastern border, was the third most active township building site with 15 permits issued.

Builders are optimistic for '81, predicting as much as a 50 percent improvement in the new year. The poor showing in 1980, they predict, will result in release of "pent up" housing demand with any decrease in interest rates.

Northville Township, Novi, Farmington Hills and Plymouth Township, are generally cited as the hottest building spots in the Detroit metropolitan area for the near future. Exact growth rates are dependent on the timing of installation of more sewer capacity in the communities, builders say.

Sheriff asked to ticket ban violators

By KEVIN WILSON

Responding to a rash of sledding accidents, including one fatality, Wayne County Road Commission last week ordered sand spread on two tobogganing hills in Middle Rouge Parkway.

Sand was spread to prevent use of the two hills, which were closed earlier in the week. The county sheriff's department has been asked to increase deputies' patrols in the parkway and to ticket those found ignoring the "No Coasting, No Sledding, No Tobogganing" signs.

The parks were closed January 3 after Jeffrey Solak of Livonia was killed when his "Super Tuber" sledding device jumped a small barrier at the Cass Benton hill in Northville Township, hurling him head-first into a tree.

Tobogganing hills were supervised by road commission employees and lined with haybales until three years ago when the services were ceased as a cost-cutting measure in the financially-strapped county's budget.

Road commission spokesman Lou Sugo said the county still does not provide the commission adequate funds to supervise the hills, leading to the sanding in an attempt to prevent accidents.

Reports of broken legs, backs and arms preceded the fatal accident but area residents discovering the sanding crews at work disagreed with the method chosen as a preventative.

"This is the most ridiculous thing to happen in this area in my memory," said W. A. Smith of Plymouth, parked at the edge of Hines Drive near the Cass Benton facility.

"What are we paying county park taxes for? They have four guys out their spreading sand, by hand yet. How much is that costing, I'd like to know?"

Another Middle Rouge Parkway tobogganing facility on Hines Drive between Middlebelt and Inkster roads was also sanding Thursday.

Garden City Hospital, nearest to that hill, reported over 20 injuries handled by its emergency room as a direct result of sledding activity.

Northville Township police cited a dozen injuries reported at the Cass Benton hill.

Crew foreman Chuck Simpson, a long-time Plymouth resident whose responsibilities included supervising activities on the hill until he was transferred to another department when the service was ceased, was clearly unhappy with his task.

"You know, this is one of the biggest parks in this area of the state and what have you got?" he asked, throwing another shovelful of sand onto the coasting area. "Eighteen miles of parkway with no winter recreation."

Foreman Chuck Simpson of Plymouth and worker Adolfo Scopone of Livonia spread sand on hill

Hines Drive, a toboggan atop the car, and shouted obscenities at the workers. Simpson shouted back in kind, distressed at taking the brunt of people's disappointment.

"I was told to come out here with 15 cubic yards of sand and lay it down," he said. "And that's what I'm doing."

"We used to use 125 bales of hay and we'd have four guys out here in each shift. Four from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. and another group from 4 p.m. to midnight. Sometimes there'd be six."

"They'll probably have us out here with another 15 yards of sand next time it snows. I'll guarantee you, the 125 bales of hay costs less than this one load of sand."

Simpson said he worked at the hill every winter from 1955 until he was transferred from the parks service to the forestry division, where, he explained, "I cut down trees."

Wayne County Commissioner Mary Dumas, whose 19th district includes Northville and the park, said she does not foresee any action by the board of commissioners to fund supervision for the hills. The road commission, she said, should accept the responsibility for operating the park on its own.

"The park was put under the park trustees, which is the road commission, before there was a county board of commissioners," she explained. "The park trustees should accept some of the financial responsibility for operating the park. The idea that it should be totally county-funded is just wrong."

Past disputes over responsibility for the park have not resulted in any firm determination of park ownership and responsibility, she said.

The road commission has contended in the past that its only revenue source is gasoline taxes which are legally bound for use only on roads. It has argued that the county board of commissioners must operate the park from general revenues.

"It's simply not true to say all they have is gasoline taxes," Dumas argued. "They have leases, property rentals and investments that could be used to supply what's needed."

She said she would like to see the park open since it is one of the few recreational facilities in the western end of the county, but that the general fund simply cannot bear the expense.

"We (the county board) are being pretty much restricted to mandated functions," she said. "We've had to cut out far more important functions, as far as mandated services are concerned, and I simply think the road commission is going to have to accept some of the responsibility for those parks."

Leaky roof at NHS chills administrators

At Northville High School the snow and ice appear to be giving administrators more of a headache than a chill.

Last week, high school staff members discovered two leaks in the ceiling in front of the library.

The leaks, apparently caused by last week's severe freezing and thawing conditions, appear to be coming from a seam in the roof, according to Principal George Aune.

Aune said buckets have been placed below the leaks to catch the water and that there has been no real inconvenience to either staff or students.

However, Aune mentioned that he was surprised by the problem considering the recent $121,000 re-roofing job completed last year by Chaffee Roofing Company.

He said the roofing contractors would be examining the problem sometime this week and would assess the repair cost.

The problem was brought to the attention of the board of education at its meeting Monday by high school student Phil Benstein.

Board members, who have spent a considerable amount of time and money on building renovations, were unaware of the problem.

Yet roofing problems are not new to Northville High School. During the roofing renovation in October 1979, the roof collapsed due to excessive rain. The collapse caused flooding in 12 classrooms and offices, as well as considerable inconvenience to staff and students.

Aune said the leaking is not a serious problem and probably will be alleviated when the weather conditions improve.

Reception on A-14

RESERVATIONS for the annual dinner meeting of the Northville Chamber of Commerce to be held January 29 in the community building will be taken through January 23, Kay Keegan, executive director, announces. Nominations still are sought for the chamber's Citizen of the Year Award to be given at the meeting. The chamber may be called at 349-7640.

PUBLIC HEARINGS of proposed uses for community block grant money in Northville Township will be Monday, January 19 and Wednesday, January 28. Both hearings will be at 7:30 p.m. in township hall.

MOTHERS' MARCH against birth defects again this year will be a mail campaign in Northville. Postmaster John Steimel, long-time local chairman, announces. Residents will receive appeals during the week of March 1-9.

THE DOWNS will finish its current racing season on April 4 before any action can be taken on the bid to lift Michigan Sport-service's liquor license at the Northville track. President Herb Ring told the Downs that any action will be appealed, taking at least 90 days. An Ingham County circuit judge has ruled that the Liquor Control Commission has the right to revoke four concession licenses if the firms have alleged underworld ties, a longstanding allegation of the attorney general.

Financial aid workshop set

The Northville High School Counseling Department will sponsor a free financial aid workshop for suburban area high school students, parents and guidance counselors from 7-9 p.m. January 22 at Northville High School.

The workshop will be conducted by the Kalamazoo College Admissions and Financial Aid Offices and will be hosted by the NHS Parent Advisory Committee and Joellen Sirotti, Kalamazoo College director of financial aid.

The workshop is designed to help families complete the standardized Financial Aid Form which is due in January.

Financial Aid Forms may be picked up from high school counselors or requested from the Kalamazoo College Admissions Office and should be reviewed prior to the workshop.

Reservations for the workshop should be made at least one week in advance. For further information and reservations, call toll free 800-632-5757 or contact Northville High School at 349-3400.

Culinary Arts addition

Groundbreaking held on campus

At noon Tuesday Harry Greenleaf, chairman of the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees, picked up a chrome-plated engraved spade that was being used for the eighth time in groundbreaking ceremonies at the college.

On this occasion the spade symbolically scratched the frozen ground as the new addition for the college culinary arts program was begun officially on the north side of the Waterman Campus Center.

It was the first time since December 13, 1972, that the shovel had been used on the campus. That groundbreaking was for the Liberal Arts addition.

In addition to President C. Nelson Grote and other officials the man who has made the culinary arts program one of the college's most successful, Master Chef Robert Breithaupt, was on hand for the long-awaited event.

The way was paved for the awarding of the $1.3 million contract last month as the college was assured of enough state funding to begin construction.

Cronk and Tocco, Incorporated, general contractors, are expected to have the addition finished in mid-1982. The firm was awarded the bid at the December meeting of the college trustees.

The addition of approximately 11,000 square feet will provide demonstration kitchen space, classrooms, laboratories and offices for the culinary program — which will then double in size to accept 130 students. Some have been waiting as long as four years to be accepted into the program, which is recognized for its high quality.

Since the college opened in 1964, Breithaupt has developed and headed the culinary arts program, using the current cafeteria kitchen, Waterman Center as a teaching kitchen.

Faculty members have had their offices in storage rooms, where textbooks shared shelf space with bottles of cat-snip and other supplies.

The college has found to pay its share of the addition costs from a 1968 bond issue, amounting to about $632,000, plus interest earned.

The state's share is $700,000. State money was assured in the 1980-81 capital outlay bill, and Governor William Milliken had promised not to veto this.

With this assurance in December, the trustees awarded the bid. It included four alternates that will provide parking for 10 handicapped persons, replace condensation units in the present center and include power exhaust fans.

The shovel dusted off for the ceremony for the eighth time symbolically reflects the continued expansion of the community junior college founded in 1961 at 18600 Haggerty just east of Northville in Livonia between Six and Seven Mile roads.

The Schoolcraft district is comprised of the K-12 districts of Clarenceville, Garden City, Plymouth-Canton and a small part of Novi as well as Livonia and Northville.

The first groundbreaking with the brand new shovel was June 8, 1963, when the initial campus complex which included the administration building, Bradner Library and the Forum Building were begun.

Ground was broken for the Waterman Campus Center June 16, 1965.

The third time was June 25, 1965, for the Applied Sciences Building. The Liberal Arts Building was begun April 28, 1967, and the Physical Education Building October 21, 1968. The Applied Sciences addition came on May 4, 1972.

Schoolcraft board chairman Harry Greenleaf shows ceremonial spade for groundbreaking held Tuesday to President C. Nelson Grote, right, and David Heinzman, director of public relations.

Delay sewer until March for inquiry

Final determination of whether or not a sewer will be built in Beck Road was postponed until March by the township board of trustees Thursday.

A special assessment district was created to fund the sewer link to serve six homes on Beck Road that are apparently connected illegally to sewers already running through the area.

Public hearing of protests to the distribution of sewer costs among the houses to be served preceded the board's regular meeting.

At the hearing, residents contended that there was evidence that many of the sewer connections currently used are, indeed, legal.

At the time former township supervisor Donald Thomson, owner of the largest parcel in the affected area, circulated a petition to construct a legal connection it was thought that all the houses had been connected illegally.

Michelle Fisher, of 17907 Beck Road, asked the board to table approval of the assessment district to allow residents who may be connected legally to seek legal counsel.

Engineering consultant William Mosher pointed out to the board that it had already invested over $4,000 of township water and sewer monies in surveying and researching the proposed sewer.

The board voted unanimously to table the matter until its March meeting to allow time for inquiry into the legality of the connections and whether or not all the houses originally placed in the assessment district were properly included.

Business owners find gas additive is mileage saver

By KEN KOVACS

Some say it is the answer to outrageous gas prices. Others call it a rip-off. It may not be a cure-all to the high cost of fuel, but at least one local business claims to be getting increased mileage and better engine performance from a fuel additive developed by Bell Laboratories of Orlando, Florida.

Fendt Transit-Mix of Novi has been testing DEE-ZOL, a diesel fuel supplement, since early last summer. And owner Roger Fendt says he has noticed some gratifying results.

"We have used it in about 18 trucks and I have noticed a positive change in about half of them," he said. "On some it improves mileage and on others the engines have more horsepower."

"I think the additive breaks down the water in the gas tank and cleans the engine, resulting in better performance," he continued. "I don't think we are going to save thousands of dollars or anything like that, but it does seem to be helping."

Fendt has ordered enough DEE-ZOL to treat some 16,000 gallons of diesel fuel for his trucks. (One ounce is used for every five gallons of diesel fuel).

The Bell additive, which has been around more than 35 years, costs about $15 per quart-bottle and is available through numerous Northville area distributors.

Fendt said he also has tried the gas additive Mix-I-Go, also produced by Bell Laboratories. (Only one ounce of this product is needed per 10 gallons).

But he is not nearly as pleased with its results.

"I don't see any advantage to the gas additive," he stated. "I used it in my Bronco and saw no increase in mileage or performance."

"I wouldn't recommend it to anybody."

But Mike McGuire of Guernsey Farm Dairy in Northville disagrees.

He said when he used Mix-I-Go in two separate trucks recently, they gained one mile per gallon and two miles per gallon, respectively.

The mileage increased from six to seven miles per gallon in the first vehicle — which contains a 300-cubic inch six cylinder engine — and from four to five miles per gallon in the second truck — which contains a 389-cubic inch V-8, McGuire said.

"It does seem to be working for us," he said. "But I want to see how it works on a larger scale. We are testing it in our 55-gallon drum and when that gas is used up I will know a lot more."

According to Bruce Hackmann, Northville distributor of the Bell products, both fuel additives increase car or truck mileage and do a number of things to increase engine performance.

Hackmann claims that Mix-I-Go removes gum from the carburetor, cleans and frees sticky valves, reduces the amount of unburned carbon in the exhaust, eliminates water and condensation from fuel tanks, lines and filters, cleans spark plugs and even fights air pollution.

It can be used with both leaded and unleaded gas, he said.

Though the Bell products have been around for more than 35 years, only recently have they become a hot item.

Companies which have numerous commercial vehicles to maintain and pay fuel bills for have been using it for years, he said.

But individual car and truck owners haven't really had a need for it, until now.

"When gas was 25 or 30 cents a gallon nobody cared about getting better mileage," Hackmann said. "But now that we are paying almost $1.50 a gallon people are seeking help in increasing mileage."

One ounce of additive treats 10 gallons of gas

Experts' focus: housing, aging

Fair housing issues and needs of the elderly will be discussed at the two-day winter conference of the Michigan Chapter of the National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials being held Thursday and Friday at the Plymouth Hilton Inn.

Frances R. Yoakam, director of Northville Housing Commission, and Sharon L. Thomas, director of Plymouth Housing Commission, with help of their staffs and communities are co-hosting the conference.

The conference is to begin at 9 a.m. Thursday with concurrent sessions.

Speaker for the opening day luncheon will be Steven L. Walters, Northville city manager.

The general meeting from 9:30 a.m. to noon Friday will focus on fair housing issues. Real estate boards have been invited to attend this program.

Participants in a "rap session" dealing with issues commonly faced by realtors and NAHRO members include Irene McCabe, realtor known for her anti-busing stand, Dr. Joe T. Darden, professor of urban and metropolitan studies at Michigan State University, and Valerie Vintres-Weatherly, senior equal opportunity specialist, HUD-Detroit.

Two concurrent sessions are slated from 9 a.m. to noon Thursday. The first on housing management includes Common IPA and HUD audit findings, ACC requirements and HUD regulations, tenant-landlord relations.

It will be moderated by Lou Teceno, director of Big Rapids Housing Commission. Speakers will be Rick Wears, Housing Management Office, HUD-Detroit; Tom Jones, assistant housing management branch, HUD-Grand Rapids.

Rehabilitation is the second topic of the concurrent series.

Topics include Section 312 rehabilitation program issues and block grant rehabilitation issues.

Homer Saunders, relocation director for the City of Detroit, is moderator. Speaker will be Dennis Manning, rehabilitation specialist, HUD-Detroit.

Charles Snyder, president of the Michigan NAHRO Chapter, will preside at the luncheon program Thursday.

Henry E. Graper, Jr., Plymouth city manager, is to introduce Walters. Plymouth Mayor Mary B. Childs will give the welcoming address.

Physical, mental and social needs of the elderly will be the topic of the Thursday afternoon general session from 2-5 p.m. Yoakam will be moderator.

Speaking will be Norman K. Blackie, coordinator National Policy Center on Housing and Living Arrangements for Older Americans, University of Michigan. His topic is "Behind the Scenes Look at Federal Policy."

Also on the program is John Keeler, supervisor of the Older Adult Unit at Oakland County Catholic Social Services. His topic is "What you always wanted to know about aging but were too young to ask."

Raquel L. Flores, vice president, Director of Community Development, Phipps Houses, New York.

A Friday breakfast precedes the Friday morning session on fair housing, beginning at 9:30 a.m.

Carol E. Husband, equal opportunity chairperson for the Michigan Chapter of NAHRO, will be moderator.

Under discussion will be fair housing practices with regard to ethnic minorities, blacks, single parents and non-married couples.

Also, what community development communities are doing in the area of fair housing.

What cities have entered into affirmative market agreements.

And, actions of community resource boards.

The conference is open to anyone in the area interested in attending. Yoakam states. Fee including Thursday lunch and Friday breakfast is $35.

Community service officer named

"It's not like I watched 'Starsky and Hutch' on television and decided I wanted to be a police officer. I just saw the ad in the paper and it sounded like a good opportunity so here I am."

Kenneth VanDam may never become a police officer. But the Criminal Justice classes he currently is taking and 18 months as a Community Service Officer (CSO) for the Northville Township Police Department will certainly help him if he decides to take up law enforcement as a career.

The 25-year-old township resident is serving as a CSO for the township under a Comprehensive Employment Training Association (CETA) program.

His duties include enforcing all local ordinances — including animal complaints, parking violations, etc. — and assisting township police officers in other capacities, according to Ronald Nisun, township police chief.

"The biggest thing he will do is animal control," Nisun said. "Our officers just don't have the time to spend tracking down stray dogs and VanDam will be taking over this job.

"He also will issue tickets when we have parking problems," Nisun continued. "And possibly help solve this census mixup."

A graduate of the Plymouth school system, VanDam currently is taking classes at Eastern Michigan University.

He began his CSO training December 16 and says he soon will be patrolling the township on his own.

"Up to now I have just been learning the procedures and the territory," Van Dam said. "I haven't issued any tickets yet."

A bachelor, VanDam currently lives with his parents at 19738 Dearborn Court in Highland Lakes.

Council appoints DeRusha

City Council member J. Burton DeRusha agreed to be the council's officially designated coordinator for the 1981 legislative session.

The request to have such an appointee came from the Michigan Municipal League which sends the designated official background materials and the league's Legislative Bulletin.

Council member Carolann Ayers also agreed to be named a Michigan Municipal League legislative coordinator, at the request of Mayor Paul Vernon.

Police Blotter

Assault charge filed in Glass Crutch fight

A 23-year-old South Lyon man was arrested for felonious assault following an incident at the Glass Crutch Lounge, 18730 Northville Road, January 2, township police reported.

Malcolm Dedes is charged with striking Kenneth Zeuner, 26, of Novi, over the head with a toilet seat during a fight in the restroom, police said.

A township resident, Ricky Maricki of 20921 Napier, also was involved in the altercation, police said and a warrant for his arrest has been issued.

Zeuner was taken to Botsford Hospital where he was treated for head injuries and released, police said.

Witnesses told police the victim had had previous run-ins with the accused.

They told police Dedes and Maricki followed Zeuner into the restroom just prior to the incident.

Dedes, who pleaded not guilty at his arraignment at the Wayne County Circuit Court January 3, was released after posting 10 percent of $1,000 bond, police said.

Examination is set for tomorrow (Thursday) at the 35th District Court in Northville.

Michael Arthur Lee of 18607 Innbrook Road pleaded guilty to second degree sexual assault in front of visiting Wayne County Circuit Court Judge James Garber January 3.

He was sentenced to two years probation.

The 32-year-old Lee originally was charged with two counts of first degree sexual assault involving the five-year-old daughter of his girlfriend on various occasions between March 1 and March 15.

Township police arrested Lee in December following several months of investigation.

Police were first alerted to the crime when the victim told a friend about the incidents while she was in the northern Michigan community of Kalkaska last summer. The parents then related the story to Kalkaska police who, in turn, told Northville township police.

Two women drivers were hurt January 6 in a two-car collision on Sheldon just north of Five Mile, township police reported.

Catherine Persichini of Plymouth was driving her vehicle southbound on Sheldon when her car went off the pavement, police said.

In an attempt to return her car to the roadway, the woman lost control of the vehicle, skidded across the center line and struck a northbound vehicle driven by Marilyn Donovan, 20131 East Whipple.

Both drivers suffered minor injuries, police said.

Road conditions were extremely slippery and visibility was poor due to heavy snowfall, according to police.

No citations were issued.

Several tools valued at $350 were reported stolen from a 1974 pick-up truck parked in the driveway of a Fairbrook Court residence sometime between January 3-5, city police reported.

Among the items taken were three cement trowels, a brick hammer, two aluminum brick line bars, two wooden levels, two tape measures, a plastic tool belt, two roofing knives, a tool bag, three brick chisels and four wire brushes.

Police said the vehicle had been left unlocked.

A 1979 Oldsmobile parked at the corner of Delwood and Rayburn streets, was destroyed by fire January 2, township police reported.

The owner, Sandra Kemp, and her 16-year-old son, Robert, told police they exited the vehicle when they saw smoke coming from under the dash board.

No injuries were reported. Estimated value of the car was $7,000.

Two wire wheel hub caps valued at $100 were taken from a 1978 Chevrolet parked in a downtown Northville shopping area December 24, city police reported.

There are no suspects in the theft.

A Maple tree in front of a Yorktown residence was broken off at ground level January 7 (apparently by a motor vehicle, city police reported).

The tree, which was eight inches in diameter, was valued at $450.

Four wire wheel hub caps valued at $250 were taken from a 1978 Monte Carlo parked in a lot near 18517 Innbrook January 8, township police reported.

A 46-year-old Flat Rock man was arrested January 8 in connection with the use of three bad checks at T, G & Y in the Northville Plaza Mall, township police said.

Harley Bolick is charged with attempting to use three checks on which the accounts had been closed in a 10-day period in November, police said.

The checks were valued at more than $150. Bolick currently is being held in the Wayne County Jail pending bond.

Fatality hill gets the dust-off

Foreman Chuck Simpson (above) tossed sand over the toboggan runs at the Cass Benton facility last week after receiving orders from the Wayne County Road Commission to close down the hills. Simpson and his crew, (below) Ali Hussein, Robert Turner and Adolfo Scopone spent two days with shovels and sand trying to make the hills impassable. (Below left) New signs with barricades now line the entrance to the hills.

Picture Story

by Steve Fecht

Sledding hills at two locations in Middle Rouge Parkway were closed last week following a fatal sledding accident January 3 on a portion of the Cass Benton facility shown in these photographs. Wayne County Road Commission workers were ordered to spread sand on the hills to ensure the closing. Although the fatality occurred on another portion of the hill, the toboggan runs also received the sand treatment due to a rash of accidents involving broken bones and cuts reported by emergency rooms near the hills. Until three years ago the hills were supervised and lined with bales of hay. Cost cutting measures by the county eliminated those services. There was no supervision on the hill, no hay bales, and no signs indicating the park was closed on the day of the fatal accident.

County EDC reviews first full year

"We have had a good year," said Robert Fitzpatrick, director of the Wayne County Economic Development Corporation, commenting at the conclusion of the EDC's first full year of operations.

His summary delivered to the board of directors at its December meeting made clear, however, that there is much work left to be done.

"As long as Wayne County and its municipalities continue to have fiscal problems," he continued, "and as long as the unemployment rate remains so high we will not be satisfied."

Fitzpatrick heads the 18-month old non-profit corporation intended to induce businesses to locate and expand in the county, providing jobs and tax revenues for the region.

In its first full year of operation the EDC provided $8.48 million in tax-free revenue bonds to finance six projects. The six created 135 jobs and retained another 108 that would have been lost had businesses moved out of the county.

When those projects are completed, the EDC predicts, tax revenues to the county, municipalities and school districts will increase $315,370 overall.

The EDC enters 1981 already involved in projects expected to generate another 3,500 jobs and $4 million in tax revenues.

Premier among these is a proposed elderly housing project to be located on county child development center property in Northville Township.

Once developed, the currently idle, non-taxable 101-acre site would produce $1.4 million in new taxes overall while creating over 500 permanent jobs.

Development itself would bring $50 million into the region during construction and temporary construction work.

The EDC is awaiting transfer of title from the county in order to search out developers for the project.

Another township project receiving county EDC support is a new 48 lane bowling alley on the south side of the community to be developed by Wil-O-Mac Inc. Bonds totalling $3 million for construction of the facility have been authorized.

EDC projections are that the bowling center will produce 60 jobs and nearly $100,000 total tax revenues — $17,000 of which would go to the township and $64,500 to local schools.

The EDC also has four active projects in Plymouth Township, where it has closed four others previously.

Other neighboring communities in which EDC-backed projects are either active or completed include Livonia, the City of Plymouth and Canton Township.

The EDC board of directors is made up of 11 members, all of whom are businessmen in the county. Wilson Grier, former township supervisor and vice-president of Art-Wil Inc., is a member of the board.

Rogers Street residents appeal to city council

Northville City Council heard three appeals of residents in the North Rogers Street area at its first meeting of the new year January 5.

The Norman Frids and Malcolm Manleys, who had written letters to the council, were in the audience as the problem of water run-off on North Rogers came up. The problem began with the paving of Potomac Street on the north.

The letters stated both families had raised the ground level at their homes 18 inches after their property was flooded. The Manleys said their family room in the walk-out basement was filled with mud and water.

In a letter to City Manager Steve Walters Ted Mapes, Department of Public Works superintendent, explained that the rain water is unable to enter catch basins as designed. He said that, when Potomac Street was cut through, the intent was to construct a sub-base until all new homes were completed.

Since only one has been built, the final layer of asphalt has not been laid.

The council agreed to discuss the situation and damages incurred by the residents at the next meeting January 19 if a report requested from the city's new engineering firm of McNeely and Lincoln Associates is ready.

The council set a public hearing for January 19 on the request of Mark Frid of 374 Rogers for permission to park a one-ton dump truck and two three-quarter ton pick up trucks in the city.

Frid said he had permission of Cyril Frid to park at 515 Dubuar, Norman Frid at 374 Rogers, and Helen Hay at 383 Rogers.

The city asked the recreation department for a report on needs for area parks after hearing the request of Dolan Sievert of 677 Dunlap to consider selling lot 374 in Simonds, Dubuar and White's subdivision.

Sievert said he owns the adjacent lot 373 which has an easement to Rogers at Dunlap. The lot he is asking be placed on the market is landlocked.

Mayor Paul Vernon and City Manager Steve Walters recalled that in the past the city has purchased pieces of property when it could do so advantageously. This, they stated, was such a purchase. At times there has been consideration of using the property for recreation.

Councilmember J. Burton DeRusha asked for a report from the recreation commission to see if there is a recreational need for the property, saying that if there is not, the city should get rid of it.

Member Carolann Ayers stated she would like to review an inventory of all city-owned property.

City Manager Walters said this would be happening as the master plan update is about to be completed.

City Attorney Philip Ogilvie told the council that the property would have to be advertised for bids if sold.

Builders anticipate 50 percent improvement in '81

By TIM RICHARD

After a modest 1981 recovery, house builders are looking forward to "pent up demand" being unleashed during the rest of the decade.

But buyers will have a tough time finding smaller, cheaper houses because suburban communities adamantly refuse to zone for smaller lot sizes.

"We're looking for an improvement of 50 percent over 1980," said Dave Pink, 1981 president of the Builders Association of Southeast Michigan (BASM) and a resident of the Novi-Northville area at 49680 West Eight Mile. That would mean 15,000 housing starts this year compared to 10,000 last year.

Hosting the press at lunch January 6, BASM board members freely used the word "depression" to describe the current market, in which 80 percent of construction tradesmen are out of work.

Despite high unemployment, builders looked at the other side of the coin.

"Some 80 or 85 percent are employed. They have the money and the need for a larger house for the family," said Jeff Spoon, of the J. D. Spoon Development Corporation.

"There's no question the consumer is out there. People want to buy," added Paul Robertson, Jr., of Robertson Brothers Company.

Building hot spots will be the Oakland County communities of Novi, Farmington Hills and Avon Township and the Wayne County communities of Northville Township and Plymouth Township with some activity returning to Canby Township, they agreed.

BASM lost 10 percent of its 1,200 members during 1980, but Pink was confident they had only stopped paying dues and most still are in business.

"There was not a great increase in bankruptcies," said Don Pratt of Wake Pratt Construction Company. "Most of us saw it (the recession) coming. We tightened our belts, cut crew sizes and cut overhead."

The availability of loan funds will be a big factor in recovery, but builders say the picture is not as bad as broadcast news reports indicate.

Herb Lawson said broadcasters talk of the 20 percent prime rate charged top corporate customers for short term money, but house buyers confuse it with actual mortgage rates, which are in the 13-14 percent range.

"The public should know that builders have commitments below current rates," Lawson said. "Shop around — some builders had the foresight to line up mortgage money from lenders."

Zoning ordinances in communities were seen as the chief impediment to smaller, cheaper housing. Novi, Plymouth Township and Avon Township were cited by Frank Winton of FJW Corporation as "absolutely against smaller lots."

Realtors have predicted builders will respond to the needs for energy conservation and high costs by putting up smaller and more compact homes, but Winton said "right now the situation is hopeless. "Communities have zoning laws. It's not economically sound to have large lots and small houses. There are a minimal number of areas with small lots."

"The 2,400 square foot house will be cut a bit, but not too greatly," Communities, he said, are "staunch and difficult. Most (governing) boards are made up of people who have lived in the communities some time. They object to innovation. Laymen on these boards speak not from the civic and public point of view but from their selfish point of view."

Board examines education theory

Since the beginning of the 1980-81 school year, the Northville Board of Education has been focusing a good deal of its attention on the district's educational programs and curriculum.

Throughout the years, the board's aim — to make curriculum decisions based upon what happens to children in the classroom — has taken a back seat to decisions not necessarily based on classroom impact such as, budget cuts, building improvements, etc.

However, this year for the first time, "the board is sinking its teeth into curriculum," according to board president Chris Johnson.

In order to make curriculum decisions based upon classroom impact, the board has taken a "back to the basics" approach, Johnson said.

This approach has been outlined in the district's Philosophy of Education Policy — to be used as a framework in helping the board and the community evaluate and measure the success of Northville's educational programs.

The philosophy, drawn up by the board, has eight specific goals to be used by administrators in developing curriculum policy for the district.

A discussion of the Philosophy of Education will be held at a special meeting of the board of education at 7:30 p.m. January 22 in the board offices.

The meeting, open to the public, will give members of the Northville community a chance to share their opinions about the policy.

Johnson said the board is especially interested in community feedback and suggested that persons who are unable to attend the special meeting but wish to share their views should write to the Northville Board of Education at 501 W. Main, or call the board offices at 349-3400.

The following is an outline of Northville's Philosophy of Education Policy:

"The Northville Public School District shares with the family and the community the responsibility for developing young people who are prepared to participate as responsible citizens of society."

Legal charges pile up in charter court fight

Wayne County Communities for Equal Representation, a legal entity comprised of many suburban municipalities organized to fight the make-up of the county charter commission is eyeball-to-eyeball with the costs of justice.

WCCER was formed to press legal challenges to the charter commission's composition as unfair on the basis of the one-man, one-vote principle.

The communities argue that population shifts from the inner city to the suburbs in the past decade mean the distribution of the commission representatives, based on the 1970 census, is inherently unjust.

Its members, including Northville and Northville Township, paid an initial share toward legal costs and agreed to an additional assessment at a rate of .035 cents per capita.

In the township's case, the needed monies computed out to $444.50 in addition to the initial $635 share.

With its request for payment, WCCER sent a financial statement indicating it had spent $89,884.55 from March through December on legal fees. Of its receipts of $50,124.70 in December it had paid out $50,074.84, leaving a balance of $49.86.

Outstanding debt of nearly $39,800 would be paid from the added assessments. Highest costs occurred in April, when legal activity began in earnest.

Grant money hearing set

A public hearing on possible uses for Wayne County Community Block Grant funds was set for January 19 by city council at its January 5 meeting.

Council acted after receiving a request from Wayne County asking its plans for a special needs program.

The planning target for Northville's special needs project was given as $30,000.

The memo noted, however, that congress mandated a three percent cut in HUD spending.

"It is questionable where the cuts will be made and whether they will be made by the current or new administration. Therefore, it may be some time before the county is notified of the firm 1981 entitlement figure. The final amount is also contingent on the unexpended 1978 funds which are to be withdrawn from communities effective December 31, 1980," the memo stated.

It was stressed that the dollar amount indicated ($30,000) is only for planning purposes and is not an allocation nor obligation.

As in the past, the proposed activities of the special needs program must meet one of the program objectives:

To increase housing for low-moderate income persons.

To provide direct benefit to low-moderate income persons.

To provide physical development activities for a specific area with over 50 percent low-moderate income persons.

To provide programs to provide benefit to special segments of the total population.

To provide economic developments which will insure retention or increased employment of low-moderate income residents of the area.

To provide economic developments which will insure retention or increased employment of low-moderate income residents of the area.

Township gets revenue sharing

Northville Township's long-awaited state revenue sharing funds finally arrived last week, but a snafu in computing the amount due the community only added to the frustration level in township hall.

Due December 1, payment of the funds was delayed when the legislature failed to pass a budget until late in the year.

Payment, on a per capita basis as a proportion of sales tax revenues, was fouled up when it finally came through, however.

"They sent us our share based on 1970 institutional census figures," clerk Susan Heintz said. "That meant we were shorted about $4,508."

The state computes revenue sharing for local governments on a population basis. One-half the population of state institutions within the community are counted as population for revenue sharing purposes.

The U.S. Census Bureau counts such residents fully in its count, so the state subtracts one-half the institutional population from the census figure when computing revenue sharing checks.

In 1970 the institutional population was significantly larger than in 1980, so when 1970 institutional figures are divided in half, then subtracted from the later census figure, the township's share is lessened, she explained.

"My figures aren't hard and fast," Heintz added. "It just gives you a rough idea of what happens when your census figures get fouled up."

The township received $68,028.15 in regular revenue sharing. The state also bases part of the payment on "relative tax effort" — a percentage of the average taxes levied by local governments as an indication of the degree to which the communities are self-supporting.

"Our relative tax effort, they say, is around 18 percent, meaning we tax our people at a rate only 18 percent of the average," Heintz said.

The RTE is used in combination with population figures when the state computes the amount of its income tax revenues to be distributed locally. The township's share in this portion was $4,531.97.

The latter figure, too, Heintz said, is based on incorrect institutional population.

"They (state department of management and budget) said they hadn't received our 1980 institutional figures when they made out the checks," Heintz said. "They said they found it right afterwards."

The 1980 statement was sent June 20, 1980. It reports 808 residents of Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital, 513 residents of Plymouth State Home and Training Center, and 94 students at the partially-state-funded Our Lady of Providence School.

There were no inmates housed at Phoenix Correctional Facility at the reporting date, but the township reported it anticipated 320 inmates after July 21.

The 1980 institutional figure of 1,735 compares with the 1970 number of 3,150.

"They'll be hearing from us," Heintz said, adding that she is not optimistic about receiving the missing monies.

"I was told the department's computer is not set up to run corrections and that our correct institutional number cannot be entered until late June," she said.

Since revenue sharing payments are made quarterly, at least one more payment will be based on the incorrect

City accepts Bowden bid

As it unanimously awarded its umbrella insurance bid to low bidder Les Bowden and Associates at a special meeting Thursday, city council also decided to have all its insurance reviewed by a professional consultant.

The board accepted the bid of Les Bowden and Associates of $4,750 which had been submitted as an alternate bid for $500,000 coverage.

The premium for the umbrella coverage is based on insuring the city in excess of a primary limit of $100,000 to the umbrella limit of $5 million.

The council acted after the low bidder gave the

Our opinions

Spoiling slopes

At first blush, the Wayne County Road Commission's decision to sand sledding hills in Middle Rouge Parkway appears to be the only affordable method by which to cease the injuries that have occurred there recently.

In the cold light of day, however, nothing could be more absurd. Granted, the county is about the most financially-strapped entity in a depressed economy. Granted, paying for supervisors and haybales is expensive. But it may be more expensive to ban sledding.

The combination of hills, with which the parkway is amply endowed, snow, and children spells sledding. Putting up signs and spreading sand as counter-measures is like throwing water in the air to stop the rain.

The road commission, charged with overseeing the park, has asked the county sheriff's department to increase patrols in the park and to ticket violators of the sledding ban. Now there's cost efficiency for you, and public relations to boot. If the road commission is pinching pennies, the sheriff's department is looking for them under the carpet.

We would hope the sheriff's department has higher priorities than ticketing children for sliding down a hill. Not to mention hauling them into court, should their parents choose to fight, with all its attendant costs.

Even the argument for safety falls down in the clutches. Aware that the designated sledding areas are being patrolled, young sledders will be tempted into more remote areas of the park, where it could take hours to recognize that an accident has occurred. Worse yet, they could take to sliding down the hills that lead directly onto Hines Drive. Closing the legitimate sledding areas brings us from the frying pan to the fire.

Professionalism

The welcome given Northville Township's first business manager David Lelko last week was a warm one. Most importantly, it truly was community-wide. City officials joined with township officers and members of boards and commissions in greeting the township appointee at a reception Wednesday at the township hall.

As Supervisor John MacDonald introduced Lelko, he was greeted by Northville Mayor Paul Vernon and council members Carolann Ayers, Burton DeRusha and Dewey Gardener who had attended to offer their best wishes in a spirit of cooperation.

Pouring money into sand (every time it snows?) and signs (torn down by angered sledding fans), is not going to do it.

But accusing the county of mismanagement will not solve the problem. After all, with very limited funds available, recreation cannot and should not be given the priority over other more critical county services. There are, however, other alternatives to sanding.

We are reminded of what a Plymouth businessman suggested last summer when he voiced concern about the unsightly condition of the park landscape in the vicinity of his community. "If the county has insufficient monies for park maintenance why not mobilize the services of volunteer citizens or groups to mow the park periodically?" he asked.

The same sort of questioned could be asked this winter. Why not enlist the aid of citizenry in supervising winter activities in the park?

And if volunteer citizen supervision isn't the answer, why doesn't the county charge a fee for snow enthusiasts? A quarter-per-person fee probably would pay the salary of county personnel supervising the toboggan run in Cass Benton Park, for example. If fees can be charged for other county services, why not for tobogganing or sledding?

If the county is doubtful it can finance supervision by fee, we'd bet there are a variety of enterprising, non-profit organizations which could and would take on such a project if they were allowed to use fees collected for their civic endeavors.

The point is that there are alternatives to park closing, sanding and ticketing. Let's explore them.

This cooperative attitude was most evident as city and township officials chatted over refreshments. It appears that a new era in city-township understanding and relationships is at hand. To be able to discuss problems without accusations on a professional level has been the aim of the new leadership both in the city and township.

We congratulate all those who attended — both communities have problems and concerns that are different, but both also have many similar ones (as well as cooperative ventures in recreation and ambulance service) which can benefit from shared thinking.

John MacDonald

Speaking for Myself

Six-year terms for president?

Kathie McNally

YES

I believe we should seriously consider having the president of the United States serve one six-year term.

It would, to a great degree, eliminate the president from having to make many of his decisions on a political basis rather than on a "what is good for the country" basis.

In addition, we would eliminate the necessity for the president to begin campaigning for re-election at least one or two years before the end of his term. The trend toward earlier campaigns keeps the president from paying full attention to the nation's business.

It seems pretty obvious looking over the past several years that the incumbency is not what it used to be. Not since Eisenhower has an American president served two full terms. The reasons vary, and include assassination, war and Watergate.

We may be headed toward an era in which we no longer will tolerate our leaders for more than four years. We have many high expectations of the presidency and when these expectations are not realized we put presidents out of office.

The recent election is a classic example. No one could honestly say all of our problems were of President Carter's doing.

We still feel that if the right man is in there, we suddenly will be buying American cars, inflation will disappear and the hostages will come home.

The arguments that if a person is elected for only one term he can become a dictator are without merit because there can be safeguards in the law (as there currently are) that would remove a president from office if he is not fulfilling his duties.

John MacDonald
Northville Township

NO

No, I don't think we should have a single six-year presidency. What happens when we get the Hoovers and the Carters and other inept men?

Then you're stuck with these people for a full six years. I don't think this country could survive six years of inept leadership.

I am impressed with the way Canada chooses its leaders. Under a parliamentary system, when the government can't function well, the citizens can do something about it.

I think we've lost what control over government we ever had in this country. On the state levels, we have lost a lot of control. On the federal level we have virtually no controls left.

Certainly there is the argument that a single term means the president doesn't have to campaign his last few years in office. But with a six year term, perhaps the president would not be so conscious of serving the people, knowing they don't have to run again.

I feel that with the a six year term, if you get a good guy in there, you're all set; but if you get a bad person, they can do a lot of damage in six years.

I think that's why I like the Canadian system. It seems our two-party system is so aware of its image, of trying to make the party or the man look good, that somewhere along the way they lose sight of what is good for the country.

In Canada, they have to gather a cooperative group to get control. It is more representative of the entire country and I think that's what we need here.

JACK W. HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

Historical materials suggest that this area possessed some of the finest debaters in Michigan — partly because of the schooling some of them received in the "West Novi" school, located near the intersection of Grand River and Wixom Road in what now is the City of Wixom and in the Northville Academy, which now is a handsome home on Randolph near Wing.

In 1899, for example, a picture of the West Novi school was carried in The Record with this observation:

"Many who received their early education here and who afterwards were members of the West Novi Debating Club have since graced our legislative halls, become superintendents of schools, teachers, well known civil engineers, prosperous farmers, businessmen and valuable citizens."

Similarly, the the Northville Academy, taught by Sylvester Cochrane (a minister who had the church building constructed that stands now in the Mill Race Historical Village and who is credited with formation of the "maple sugar town" of Vermontville near Lansing), was noted for its fine debating. So much so that Governor Kingsley S. Bingham, campaigner for President Lincoln and an organizer of the Republican Party, sent his two sons to the academy.

Public debating, it appears, was quite popular in this vicinity in the 19th Century.

Recently, an old minutes book from the collection of the late Max Hulett was loaned to the Novi Historical Society, containing information about the formation and activities of still another debating organization — this one called the Novi Literary Society. Hulett's father is listed as the clerk of the organization.

Organized January 8, 1876, its constitution was drawn up by the Reverend Isaac W. Lamb, a wealthy inventor (Lamb knitting-machine) who was pastor of the Novi Baptist Church — ordained there six years earlier; Norman H. Gage, who served as township

'Force Five' organized to fight arson increase in area

By KEN KOVACS

An arson investigation team called Force Five has been organized to battle the increasing number of intentionally set fires in the City and Township of Northville, City and Township of Plymouth and Canton Township.

Though a formal pact has yet to be finalized and approved by participating governmental bodies, an informal okay has been given, according to Tim Ford, Plymouth police chief and head of the task force.

"We have not spent any money, since we do not have final approval yet," he stated. "But it is going very well even without a formal pact."

"We are operational right now," he continued. "In fact, Force Five was instrumental in the securing of a search warrant in the recent arson case (at Swan Harbour Apartments Christmas Day) in Northville Township."

Three members of the Northville Township police department — Chief Ronald Nisun, Lieutenant Kenneth Hardesty and Sergeant Philip Presnell — recently graduated from an arson training school held at Schoolcraft College in conjunction with Force Five.

Twenty-three of the 28 officers in the graduating class represented one of the Force Five communities.

"There is no question in my mind that the schooling helped our officers clear up this Swan Harbour thing so quickly," Chief Nisun said. "Because of this training they determined that the cause definitely was arson after only a couple days of investigation. And they probably will be making an arrest very soon."

The object of Force Five is to draw from the available expertise in each of the communities to form an efficient team which can go to the scene of an arson and concentrate that particular case, according to Nisun and Ford.

"We can get in and do in about 48 hours what it took our regular officers two months to accomplish," Chief Ford said. "And sometimes that can make the difference whether or not the arsonist is caught."

The idea of an arson task force was first discussed in September, 1980 when three of the five police departments met in an effort to coordinate their disaster sirens.

A Northville Township resident who happened to live within the sounding area of three different sirens — Northville, Plymouth and Plymouth Township — didn't know what to do when she heard each at a different time.

"The poor woman didn't know what was happening," Chief Ford said. "We figured there probably were other residents in a similar situation, so we got together and discussed this problem."

While together the police representatives discussed the great increase in the incidences of arson and what could be done to curb it.

"We decided there was an immediate need for a training program at the very least," Ford said.

Chief Ford, who organized a Downriver police task force following the Detroit riots in the summer of 1967, was chosen to head the task force because of his experience and success.

The Downriver group dealt with disasters, riot situations, illegal drug operations and many other crime fighting activities, including arsons.

"We're doing the same thing here, except Force Five will deal only with arson," Ford said.

Currently, Ford is working on the final draft of an aid agreement which will be presented to the five governmental bodies in the near future, he said.

Though Plymouth Township currently does not have its own police department, Nisun said that will not exclude the community from the program.

"It does make it a little more difficult because of that, but if the fire department has a problem we can help them," he said. "And conversely if we have a problem they can give us a hand."

The first priority of the task force when (and if) it gets approval from the five governmental units, while be to attempt to secure a van and to equip it with needed materials — including flood lights, ropes, axes and other items.

Ford said he is working with the grants coordinator in Plymouth in an attempt to seek federal funding if and when the final pact is approved.

Protest end of guild-theater pact

To the Editor:

I am writing this to express my extreme disappointment over the cancellation by the Marquis Theater owners of "Grease" — to have been produced by the Performing Arts Guild.

As a theater participant, I have been impressed with the professionalism and high level of talent and direction shown by all members of the guild in their first two productions.

But the treatment received by the company from the theater management since the start of the association together has at times made it nearly impossible for the shows to ever reach production.

The total disregard by the Marquis Theater for any type of contract or written agreement has been proved many times over for anyone associated with "Man of LaMancha" or "Count Dracula."

During the course of these two shows, publicity was not arranged and then paid for by the theater, as agreed; lighting was almost not provided because the theater refused to honor the contract with the guild and lighting supplier.

At times the theater has even refused to pay the agreed percentage of each sold ticket as stated in the contract.

And, despite all of this, the cast and crew of these shows have worked when heat or air conditioning was not provided during rehearsal, and prepared for performance in dressing rooms and bathrooms with four to six inches of water on the floor during rain storms.

The reason given to the guild for the cancellation by the theater owners was doubts that the show would result in a profit. "Grease" was the longest running musical in the history of Broadway, and the royalties were just released.

Performing Arts Guild was one of the few companies in the U.S. to be granted the rights to this show, and there is a great demand in this area, as well as all of Michigan, to see this show, which is further shown by the range of talent that auditioned for the show — students from Wayne State's theater department, professional actors and even people who had worked with the New York Metropolitan Opera.

However, none of this was ever understood by the Marquis Theater.

The community of Northville and in fact all of this area have lost something very special and magic, a living and growing theater.

Thank you,
Janice L. Murphy

She's concerned for today's youth

To the Editor:

Recently, I saw a group of children, seven to eight years old, on the steps in front of Amerman Elementary School.

An elderly woman, an acquaintance of mine who is always pleasant and friendly, was walking toward me. The children were swearing at and making fun of her. Although she ignored them, she was so shocked and upset she did not even notice me when we passed each other.

I am concerned about the children, and the future children, of our community.

The decay in their morals and manners is appalling. I wonder what the children of the next 10 years, maybe my children, will be like?

Sincerely yours,
Karen L. Leavy

To the Editor:

As of last June the community of Northville was quite privileged in obtaining its own resident theater guild: the Performing Arts Guild.

This group, consisting of M.A. and Ph.D. graduates from Wayne State University and the Hilberry Theater, was responsible for producing the live on-stage musical "Man of LaMancha" and the suspense-comedy "Dracula" at the Marquis Theater in downtown Northville. Both shows received much community response as well as great reviews from the audiences viewing the plays.

I myself have heard many comments from local residents stating how pleasing it was to finally have a professional group of people to provide a cultural entertainment — the kind of entertainment this community until now has lacked.

This group has provided the opportunity for local and other area performers to display their talent.

Unfortunately, due to adverse opinions held by the owner, the Performing Arts Guild is forced to leave the Marquis Theater. Having been a cast member of the two previous productions, I am very resentful that this opportunity is no longer available here, due to the stubbornness of the owner.

I feel this is a great loss, not only to those involved, but also to the many who have been entertained.

I am very grateful for the experience and appreciate having been associated with the directors: Bill Ward, Walter Hill and Phil Michael.

Thank you,
Michael Groves

clerk in 1872; and Harrison Yerkes, who was born in Novi in 1841 and who in 1865 following his marriage moved to a farm on Novi Road near Northville.

Although the society read poetry, listened to music and engaged in other such activities for the "improvement, culture and refinement of the members," its weekly (7 p.m. on Monday) meetings centered around debates on burning issues of the day. Some of those issues burned on for many years.

For example, the subject of debate at the second meeting was, "Resolved that the practice of reading the Bible in public schools as an exercise ought to be prohibited."

Still other topics included:

Resolved, that persons unable to read and write who pay no taxes ought not to have the right of suffrage; Resolved, that general amnesty ought at this time be granted to all who were engaged in the late rebellion (Civil War); Resolved that under our form of government the right of suffrage ought to be extended to females; and Resolved, that the system of paying ministers of the Gospel regular and stated salaries is wrong and contrary to the teachings of the Bible.

The society met in the Novi school that stood next door to the former Methodist Church on the south side of Grand River, east of Novi Road.

Incidentally, that's the same school, "embracing the Novi Corners," where at the time of the society's organization male teachers were employed for the winter term at $45 a month. Female teachers, on the other hand, taught the summer term and were paid less than half as much — $5 a week.

Self-serve gas law proposed

With two gasoline stations in Northville Township already converted to self-serve operations, Fire Chief Robert Toms is seeking an ordinance regulating fire safety at such stations.

"I had hoped to have the law before you before we had any of the stations in," Toms told the board of trustees Thursday. "But the Boron stations just converted last week."

The two stations Toms referred to are at Northville Road and Seven Mile and at Six Mile and Haggerty roads.

Toms said he would like to see the township adopt an ordinance similar to the one in Plymouth Township.

That ordinance requires fire extinguishing equipment installed above the self serve pumps. It also requires that stations with combined operations — a self serve island and a full service island — locate the self serve pumps closest to the attendant.

"Most of these operations put the self serve pumps way out from the attendant," Toms said. "They should be the closest pumps so that the people who know about them can keep an eye on what's going on. People aren't supposed to pump gas into glass containers, for instance."

The City of Northville will consider revoking its long-standing ban on self service gasoline stations. The city also is expected to regulate the stations if it decides to allow them.

"I'd like to see us bring some fire safety into these operations," Toms said.

Offer classes for gifted

Registration in classes for talented and gifted children at Schoolcraft College will be held from 5-8 p.m. today in Schoolcraft's auxiliary gym.

The college is offering nine classes this winter for academically gifted children, ages 7 through 14. There also will be one course for parents.

Classes run for eight weeks beginning February 2 and include computer programming, astronomy, biology, writing, French, German, Spanish, art and math.

The parents' class is entitled "A Potpourri For Parents of the Gifted and Talented" and will focus on the parent's role and provide a better understanding of the nature, needs and characteristics of the gifted child.

city assurance that the insuring company, Mead Reinsurance Corporation, would include in its coverage "property in the insured's care, custody and control."

The assurance also is to be submitted in writing by the firm.

The council had delayed awarding the bid at its regular session January 5 because of concern whether the community building was covered under the policy. The city attorney was requested to review the proposed policy and that of the second low bidder, Northville Insurance Exchange, which was $2,200 higher.

In taking action Thursday the city was under a deadline as Bowden, who currently insures the city, had warned the present policy would have expired at midnight Sunday.

City Attorney Philip Ogilvie recommended taking the low bid, but said he had talked to an insurance advisor and strongly recommended having a complete review commissioned of all city policies, including the one for Allen Terrace Senior Center.

State foul-up reduces revenue sharing check figures unless some way is found to correct them, she said.

An incorrect census count in 1980, which credited the township with only 12,970 people as opposed to approximately 16,000 the township says is reasonable, could prolong revenue sharing shortages indefinitely.

If the township is not successful in getting the census bureau to change its figures, Heintz said, a special census will be called for, paid for by the township, in order to get a correct count.

The time span between now and an eventual correction of official township population reportedly will cost the township thousands of dollars in revenues due it.

The lateness of the current payment prompted the township board of trustees to borrow $90,000 from the water and sewer budget for use by the general fund. Bearing a 14.8 percent annual interest rate, the loan was expected to be repaid with the current revenue sharing payment.

The payments, however, are tied to state sales tax receipts, which have dropped in the current recession, cutting into the amount expected when the loan was made.

Sun Katzbeck with daughters Lisa Ann and Susan

Lisa Ann wins First Baby title

Lisa Ann Katzbeck, born January 4 at 12:21 p.m., has captured the 1981 First Baby title in Northville's 25th annual competition.

Lisa's arrival was called in to The Record January 5 by her proud grandmother Mary Katzbeck of 906 Novi Street.

Born at Botsford Hospital and weighing six pounds, eight ounces, Lisa is the second daughter of Michael and Sun Katzbeck.

The couple's first daughter Susan will be three-years-old in March.

According to Sun Katzbeck, Lisa's arrival came just in time.

Her husband Michael, a serviceman in the U.S. Army, was scheduled to leave for Panama the day after the baby's birth.

The couple lives with his parents here.

Mrs. Katzbeck said she will be joining her husband in Panama sometime in March.

A native of Korea, Mrs. Katzbeck said she met her husband in 1976 when he was stationed there.

Michael Katzbeck, a 1972 Northville High School graduate, has been in the army for almost seven years, according to his father Louis.

Mrs. Katzbeck's family still lives in Korea and she said she hopes to visit sometime later this year with baby Lisa in tow.

In the meantime, the new mother and first baby of 1981 will be enjoying the many gifts to be bestowed upon them by a dozen area merchants.

Gifts include a Carter's gift set from Brader's, a Country Sunshine baby blanket from the D & C, an Oneida stainless baby set from Carl Johnson Real Estate, a gift certificate from the Little People's Shoppe, an 8 by 10-inch baby portrait from Fox Portrait Studios, three cases of Luv's disposable diapers from Northville Pharmacy, a pair of baby shoes from Del's Shoes, a Burlington Bassinet from TG and Y Family Centers and 10 half gallons of milk from Guernsey Farms Dairy.

For baby and mother there also will be an arrangement of fresh flowers from Four Seasons Flowers and Gifts.

A special gift for 1981's First Mother will come from Fredy's Ladies' Wear while a hair cut and blow dry is waiting for her at Fashion Cellar.

This year's first baby had some stiff competition from Thomas David LaPrise, Jr., who came in a close second.

The son of Thomas and Diane LaPrise of 153 Fairbrook, he was born January 6 at Garden City Hospital and weighed seven pounds, 15 ounces.

The baby's paternal grandparents are Lois and Ole Hodvold of St. Helen. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. William Gearn of Northville.

Everett and Irene Ullock of Dearborn are paternal great-grandparents.

Thomas' birth came on the same day as his brother Andrew's birthday. Andrew, 5, along with his brother Jonathon, 11, and sister Tracy, 7, is anxiously awaiting the baby's homecoming.

Proud owners commission house portraits

By JEAN DAY

Call them house portraitists — not house painters.

At least three local artists who will create a likeness of your home in pen and ink, oils or water colors are finding there is an increasing demand for their talents. Proud homeowners happily are paying to have their houses sketched or painted.

The cost, ranging from $50 to $150 depending on size and medium, is a lot less than the charge of the conventional house painter who brushes on white or yellow or blue paint.

While Northville abounds with Victorian houses whose gingerbread details artists love to capture, it is not only these houses that are "sitting" for portraits. Owners of contemporary ranch houses are just as eager to have their houses reproduced, the artists report.

Such pictures often are given as mementoes to residents departing the community. The Raymond Riddells were presented with a picture of their Queen Anne home on Dunlap when they were transferred to Greece.

Realty firm commissioned Donald Fee

C. Phelps Hines sketched Victorian details

Interestingly, the Riddells have returned to Northville and currently are renovating the home of the late Joe Denton a few blocks from their previous one.

The Riddell home was painted by Donald Fee of Northville, a fellow mover in the Northville Historical Society with the Riddells.

Caroline Dunphy, who has worked from her present studio, Painter's Place, at 142 North Center since September, 1975, may hold the record for "doing" the largest number of house commissions locally.

Another long-time Northville resident on Ely Drive, Phelps Hines, has been working for some time on house commissions also.

Most recently, local residents were seeking out artists to commission sketches that could be reduced for Christmas greeting cards.

Rizzo Realty commissioned Don Fee to do a pen and ink sketch of its office for the firm's stationery. The office is headquartered in a picturesque Victorian frame house at 506 North Center.

An exhibit industrial designer, Fee and his wife Heather moved to Thayer last year after living for many years on Rayson where they renovated one of the Victorian homes. She reports that her husband "draws just because he loves to."

Fee also painted a water color of the gazebo in Mill Race Village for Ken Harrison as well as one of the handsome Victorian home of the James Harries on Main Street.

His average charge for such a water color is $80.

Many home pictures have come from the studio of Caroline Dunphy, who was painting home portraits years ago in Plymouth.

As a result of their popularity, she was commissioned by the City of Plymouth to create 10 sketches of that city's buildings and scenes for a Plymouth Bicentennial calendar.

She was asked to do so when she was a partner in Gallery 12. It then was located on Penniman but no longer exists. When the family first moved to Northville Mrs. Dunphy had her studio in the Eves Art Forum.

An art education major from Wayne State University, Mrs. Dunphy began her first teaching experiences in her

First, State Farm is INCREASING its life insurance policyholders! As a result of a newly adopted dividend scale, $154 million dollars have been earmarked for policyholder dividends in 1981. This represents a 40% increase or an additional $45 million dollars over the amount which would have been provided by the former dividend scale.

But that's not all! Interest paid or credited to policyholders on dividends and other funds left with the Company has been increased from 6 1/2% to 8%. This increase is effective with interest paid or credited during 1981.

A dependable company, prompt, up-to-date coverage and personal service and now increased dividends and higher interest they're all part of life insurance the State Farm way. Call me for details.

These local artists capture house details

Northville studio. She and her husband are residents of Dubuque.

Mrs. Dunphy's charges range from about $50 for a black and white sketch and are $10 more for a water color.

Hines has reproduced houses of his neighbors, including the Eugene Cooks, former neighbors now living in Lexington Condos, and has sketched the Foreman Orchards store.

He likes to say he's an "artist-in-residences" and charges from $50 to $150 for pen and ink drawings, depending on size.

One of the best ways to decide upon the artist to portray your home, all recommend, is to look at the work the artist already has done.

It's a satisfying, sentimental way to be "house proud."

Nancy Soper wed at Christmastime

By JEAN DAY

Christmas season 1980 brought special scholastic romantic news.

Nancy Soper, assistant superintendent for instructional services in the Northville public schools, became the bride of Plymouth's superintendent of schools, Dr. John Michael Hoben, in a December 19 ceremony at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church. Father Kenneth MacKinnon was the officiant.

A dinner at Hillside Inn followed the family service for the couple. Both had been widowed. Dr. Hoben's daughter Michele and son John attended the festivities. The bride's sister Lula Nyman of Dearborn and his brother Richard Hoben of Adrian were the couple's attendants.

The bride's street-length, champagne-hue dress was a designer original purchased in New York.

After the ceremony the newlyweds left on a two-week Caribbean cruise that included stops in Venezuela and Caracas.

The couple is living temporarily in her home in Farmington Hills until a home they are building is completed in Plymouth. It is to be in Plymouth Meadows near Beck and Joy roads. Mrs. Hoben says she intends to continue in her career.

Silver Springs Principal's wearing a ring

For Marcia Wiss, principal of Silver Springs Elementary and a Southfield resident, New Year's Eve 1980 always will hold a special memory. She received her engagement ring that day from Mark Scarr. He is a member of the Livonia Board of Education and a resident of the Livonia-Westland area. He is industrial relations manager of the Ford Wixom plant.

They are planning a small family wedding in late June after school recesses. Miss Wiss has been busy reassuring her elementary pupils that she certainly plans to continue her career here as the school's principal.

They're receiving inaugural invitations

Some of our residents who have worked for the Grand Old Party are being rewarded. Their mails have contained the handsome ivory-colored commemorative invitations to

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Pohlman of Novi announce the engagement of their daughter Cheryl Ann to Roy B. Groesbeck of Walled Lake.

He is the son of Jim Groesbeck of Troy and Mrs. Dorval Robinson of Farmington Hills.

The bride-elect is a 1975 Novi High School graduate and is employed by National Bank of Detroit. Her fiancé was graduated from North Farmington High School in 1974 and is employed by Birmingham Chrysler Plymouth.

A wedding date has been set for August 1.

CHERYL POHLMAN

the inauguration of Ronald Wilson Reagan and George Herbert Walker Bush on January 20.

"I love it! I love it!" agrees Township Clerk Susan Heintz who was an enthusiastic campaign worker. Admitting she is impressed with the invitation from the presidential inaugural committee that boasts a gold seal, Mrs. Heintz isn't sure on what basis the mailing list was compiled. No one seems to be.

Former Northville Mayor A. M. Allen and his wife also were recipients of the commemorative invitation. They had been active assistants during the convention, housing a member of the California delegation. Also on the presidential mailing list were the Philip Jeromes of Westview Road.

Lansing reception's for Bill McLaughlin

The William McLaughlins of 592 Reed also were invitation recipients and have attended past presidential inaugurations, but this year their big day is the day before the Washington, D.C., festivities.

January 19 McLaughlin begins his new job as president of the Detroit Convention Bureau. He will be "commuting" to the Renaissance Center on the Detroit River rather than heading for Lansing.

He is being honored at a reception Friday in Lansing on his last day as Michigan Commerce Director.

His wife Janet will attend the luncheon. After 16 years of commuting to Lansing, she says, she's delighted to have him right in Detroit. He's been there a great deal this year, anyway, she adds, working on the organization of the Republican convention. She's also pleased with the comment of their good friend, Governor William Milliken, who told her husband, "It's a loss to the state, but fortunately not a loss to all of Michigan."

Quilters covered with quilts

When Baseline Quilters meet at 1 p.m. Thursday, the topic will be quilts — of yesterday and today. The meeting has been changed to the Six Mile home of Betsy Northrop, which is a replica of the family's original Michigan farmhouse on the hilltop site. Program chairman Lynn Paquette has planned a program on quilts by Suzie Braund.

Novel art show needs residents' participation

Art works owned by local residents will form the basis for the first show of the new Northville Arts Commission. Called "Off the Wall," it will be held from 1-5 p.m. Sunday, January 25, in the Mill Race Village.

"Your favorite single piece of art, now inhabiting your home, be it a painting, a drawing or a print, a sculpture or a ceramic piece, is sought," explains Phelps Hines, one of the organizers of the show.

The commission emphasizes that it is seeking the art that pleases local families, adding that the principal purpose of the show is "to demonstrate the variety of tastes to be found in the Northville community."

The show is planned also to be an opportunity for art patrons to talk with each other.

The commission says there will be security for the art work on display, asking owners to bring their works to the New School Church in Mill Race Village between 10 a.m. and noon on the day of the show and to pick them up at its close at 5 p.m. Owners are invited to remain with their art if they wish, and commission members will be on hand. Hines says the commission also plans to arrange to have city police protection at the show.

The commission, Hines says, especially is hoping that those willing to loan their art works will remain at the show to talk with visitors and other donors.

The commission asks donors to send the name of the art piece, the artist (if known), where it was acquired, size, shape and weight and such information as whether it is framed or free-standing. It also wants to know if the piece is one of a collection or if it was acquired as a happy chance.

The information should be sent to Off the Wall Show, c/o Northville Arts Commission, Northville City Hall, 215 West Main.

The commission requests that the information be sent to city hall by January 21.

Entries are to be brought by the owners directly to the show on January 25.

Everyone, the commission invites, is welcome to attend. An entrance donation of $1.50 is being asked to defray costs.

At AAUW Tuesday

Poet Joan Gartland speaks

The Northville Branch of AAUW will be guests of the Livonia AAUW at its January 20 meeting with poet Joan W. Gartland.

Gartland, a prominent Michigan poet, will discuss the influence of several American women poets and will read selections from their works.

Her lecture, entitled "Looking Out/Looking In: The Experience of Four American Women Poets: Emily Dickinson, Louise Bogan, Sylvia Plath and Adrienne Rich," is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. at Hoover Elementary School in Livonia.

Gartland has been editor of Moving Out, a feminist literary and arts magazine, and a member of the board of directors of the Poetry Resource Center of Michigan.

Her poetry has appeared in several publications including The University of Windsor Review and Christian Century. She also is the recipient of several poet-in-residence awards from the University of Detroit.

Volunteers essential to scouting

Have you tried volunteering recently? Some local residents with time to spare have discovered there are waiting lists for certain kinds of volunteer work — especially those which require training. However, despite the recent popularity of volunteering there are still many agencies and organizations which need volunteers.

This, therefore, is the second in a series on exploring both the kinds of volunteer work local residents have signed up for and volunteering opportunities available in the community.

Since its establishment in the United States in 1912, the Girl Scouts has provided girls with ample educational, recreational and social opportunities.

Yet the maintenance of this almost 70-year-old organization can for the most part be attributed to the thousands of volunteers who devote their time and energy to scouting.

Though scout volunteers are generally mothers with daughters in the scouting program, Judy Williams, Girl Scout Troop Service Director for Our Lady of Victory School, emphasized that scout volunteering is open to anyone interested.

"We're always in need of volunteers," Williams explained. "If someone wants to volunteer their time," she said, "all they have to do is call."

For many people, the image of a Girl Scout volunteer brings to mind the ever-patient troop leader chasing after a group of 10-year-olds at Camp Maybury.

However, this image couldn't be farther from the truth.

To begin with, troop leaders are not the only types of volunteers in the scouting program.

A scout volunteer may be a pizza parlor owner teaching scouts the art of pizza making or a member of the high school swim team instructing a troop on water safety.

Volunteering for the Girl Scouts can be as simple as driving scouts to the local skating rink or helping out with cookie orders.

Carol Jean Stockhausen, a troop leader at OLV, said she always needs volunteers for various activities — whether to make phone calls, drive to meetings or lend a hand at bazaars.

Stockhausen said she became a Girl Scout troop leader before her children were born — emphasizing that scout volunteers do not have to be scout family members.

However, a point which both Williams and Stockhausen made perfectly clear is that Girl Scout volunteers are not babysitters.

Stockhausen explained that persons interested in volunteering should be willing to share ideas, talents and experiences with scouts.

This is especially true of troop of leaders, according to Williams, who said she believes that being a troop leader is "much more involved and time consuming than people are aware of."

In addition to the time spent with the troop and coordinating activities, troop leaders also are required to follow specific guidelines, attend leadership training sessions, and participate in monthly service meetings.

"They do a lot of behind-the-scenes type of things, too," she added.

Williams said she believes that the hardest part of being a leader is delegating responsibilities.

She said that once a leader can begin to rely on committee members, volunteers and assistants, the job becomes a lot easier.

Williams described her current position as OLV's Troop Service Director as a link between the school and the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council, with which Northville is associated.

Williams explained that each of the elementary schools in Northville has a troop service director who meets with the school's troop leaders on a regular basis and serves as a liaison between the school and the council.

Persons interested in volunteering should contact one of the schools to find out who the troop service director is.

Williams said directors can put volunteers in touch with troops who may need help.

Williams said Girl Scout volunteering is a "good out for a mother with just sons" and for new people moving to the area.

"It's an excellent way to get to know people in the community," she said.

Like their female counterparts, the Boy Scouts also depend mostly on volunteers to help with various activities.

Northville Scouting Coordinator Warren Stoddard said interest is the only requirement needed for becoming a Boy Scout volunteer.

Though there is only one Boy Scout troop in Northville at the present time, Stoddard said anyone interested in forming a troop should contact the Boy Scout Detroit Area Council at 897-1965 for information.

Patti Troth's in Plymouth Guild production

Northville resident Patti Troth will appear with the Plymouth Theatre Guild in its upcoming production of "Night of January 16" by Ayn Rand.

Performances of "Night of January 16" will be at 8 p.m. February 6 and 7, 13 and 14, and 20 and 21. The subject of the play is a murder trial with the jury selected from the audience with their individual permission. The play will be performed in the Plymouth Court Room in City Hall.

Tickets are $3.50 for adults and $2.50 for individuals under 18 and over 64. Group rates are available, but must be made in advance. For seating reservations in the Plymouth Court Room call Karen Groves at 420-2161.

Church Women United hear bishop

A Christian Unity Service for the communities of Northville and Novi will be held at Faith Community Presbyterian Church on Ten Mile in United Methodist churches of Northville and Novi are sponsoring the service for which babysitting will be provided.

Bishop Gumbleton represented American bishops in a Christmas visit to the American hostages in Teheran, Iran, in 1979.

His responsibilities in the Catholic church include serving as auxiliary bishop of Detroit, assistant bishop for the west region, vicar general, administration of the office of ministry to councils and pastoral ministry to the handicapped.

He has been actively engaged in current social issues, such as poverty problems in the United States, civil rights, questions of war and peace, rights of the oppressed — especially political prisoners in South Vietnam.

He is a board member and president of Bread for the World; board member, Clergy and Laity Concerned; executive committee member, International Consultation on Non-Violence (Camera Conference); member Pax Christi, International and U.S. sections.

As assistant bishop for the west region of the Archdiocese of Detroit he oversees 86 parishes, largely urban with many Black parishioners. He is a member of the Committee for J.P. Stevens Workers and an active supporter of Michigan Welfare Reform Coalition and other similar justice concerns.

YOU GET GREAT GIFTS AND HIGH INTEREST AT STANDARD FEDERAL SAVINGS

Check Accounts

Until now, you've never had interest paid on your checking account. But on January 1, 1981, you'll have the chance to take advantage of a brand new service from Standard Federal Savings — checking accounts with interest. In addition to providing savings accounts which pay the highest rate available on insured savings, Standard Federal also offers the opportunity to earn the highest interest allowed on your checking account.

These accounts will earn 5 1/4% annual interest — continuously compounded — adding interest every month to your account for an effective annual yield of 5.467%. This is the highest interest allowed on checking accounts.

You may open an account in any amount. However, with a minimum balance of $500.00 OR an average daily balance of $1,000.00, you may write all the checks you wish, with no monthly service charge. (A $5.00 monthly fee is assessed if you go below the minimum or average requirements.)

• Each month you'll receive a detailed statement of your account which lists your checks in numerical order, your deposits, any service charges assessed and the interest earned during the statement period.

• Personalized checks are printed free of charge if you choose not to have your checks returned with your monthly statement. There will be a charge for printing personalized checks if you wish to have your checks returned to you. With either option, you may select a style that provides a carbon copy of each check for your records.

• A permanent record of each check will be kept by Standard Federal Savings. If you need a copy for any reason, microfilm copies of as many as 25 checks per year (or all checks relating to an IRS audit) will be provided at no charge.

5 1/4% ANNUAL INTEREST

Slick driving!

Here's how to combat winter's ice

By KURT MADDEN

You've just buckled in the last of your three kids. You drop into the driver's seat nearly out of breath, turn on the engine, and, with the noise in your car reaching ear-splitting proportions, you head for a doctor's appointment about 15 minutes behind schedule.

Less than a block from home, you discover that a sucker is stuck to the front of your coat, you catch a glimpse of your daughter biting her sister, and the gentle snowfall that you appreciated early in the day has turned into a virtual avalanche.

The snowfall be damned, you say to yourself, I've got to make it to the doctor's office on time.

As a man of means, you can afford to live with your family on a farm in the country and commute to work daily. You are sheltered from the elements by a large, comfortable, quiet and luxurious automobile.

You close the door of your car, and you are in another world, a world far removed from the sounds of tires spinning and whining on ice and snow and the incessant sound of wipers thumping against the windshield.

After tuning into an AM radio station and adjusting your power seat, you head out to the freeway. The roads are slick in spots and other motorists seem to be overreacting to conditions.

You continue to drive at normal speeds. After all, you are in a large car riding on large tires and you have driven before in conditions like these.

It's a long trip, but the roads are beautiful. You are struck with the majestic beauty of the mountains and the pastoral fields.

You've just eaten, and you are sipping coffee and talking with your wife.

It's a warm feeling you have. You're having fun and you are on your way to Florida for a two-week vacation.

Suddenly, a curtain of snow drops on you, the roads are covered with the white stuff, and without warning, the snow becomes rain.

You slow down. But you're feeling confident and gradually you build up to a normal speed ... after all, the sun, surf, and relaxation awaits.

Richard "Doc" Whitworth, manager of the traffic safety department at General Motors Proving Ground, Milford, says people who do not make dramatic adjustments in their driving to accommodate changing weather conditions are practically begging to become a highway accident statistic.

Whitworth, a member of a National Safety Council committee on winter driving hazards, says that most drivers who find themselves spinning helplessly in heavy traffic on the freeway make the same incredible mistake.

"They simply do not slow down...they drive as if the pavement is bare. John Q. Public gets out on the road and drives 55 or 60 miles per hour no matter what the conditions ... he just does not adjust to conditions," he said.

Whitworth has been deeply involved in driver education programs for law enforcement officers, bus drivers and emergency medical personnel for years.

He has developed an advanced driver education program to teach police, firemen, ambulance drivers and bus drivers what to do when things go haywire on ice and snow.

"But there is a lot a driver can do even before he finds that he's lost it...the first thing he can do is slow down to between 20 and 30 m.p.h. when conditions are icy or snowy.

"Anytime there is any type of lubricant between the tire and the road, the braking distance becomes gigantic.

"I don't know what it is, but drivers think the brakes are the world's greatest cure-all...hitting the brakes on ice and snow is just the worst thing you can do.

By far, the most dangerous situation in the wintertime is when an automobile leaves its lane and crosses in front of oncoming traffic.

"That's when serious injuries and fatalities occur most often," Whitworth said.

"When your car does break loose, you take your foot completely off the brake and keep it off. Then you simply try to keep the front of the car pointed down the road...once you've lost it, that's really all you can do."

The relationship of the tire to the ice and snow is indeed tenuous. A car can be travelling along smoothly and serenely one moment and the next moment can be a wildly spinning projectile.

"All that is needed to cause the car to break loose sometimes is the slightest turning action, braking or acceleration ... the best way to avoid losing it is to slow down," Whitworth said.

Another key word in avoiding a spin-out and crash in the wintertime is "anticipation," Whitworth emphasizes.

"When you are going to stop during snowy and icy conditions, start slowing down long before you think you have to, and when you start out in the morning, be aware of surface conditions and test them," Whitworth explained.

The great influx of compact cars in the U.S. car market creates a new dimension for drivers living in the frost belt of the country.

The Highway Safety Research Institute at the University of Michigan reports that when a lighter car collides with a heavier car or truck, it stops very abruptly; therefore, the occupants of the lighter car face a higher probability of being injured or killed.

Hitting the brakes is not the answer

According to Ross G. Wilcox, executive secretary of the Safe Winter Driving League, "an examination of statistics of crashes in which subcompacts collided with full-sized cars found that the occupants of the subcompact vehicles were eight times more likely to be killed than the occupants of the full-sized vehicles.

The National Highway Safety Advisory Committee enumerates several problems with compact and subcompact cars—problems which are heightened during wintry and icy conditions when road conditions and visibility increase the prospects of a collision.

•Reduced car size lowers the driver's eye height. Visibility is thereby reduced at hillcrests, intersections or by roadside sight obstructions.

•Concrete barriers designed to guide straying vehicles safely back into the roadway may cause smaller cars to slip over, increasing the severity of the crash.

•Signposts and lamps designed to break away in crashes may not perform as designed when struck by lower, lighter cars.

•Cars and truck bumpers may actually be too high or too low to do any good in crashes between different size vehicles.

Douglas M. Fergusson, vice-president for traffic for the National Safety Council and director of safety services, Nationwide Insurance Company, contends that drivers in smaller cars will have added hazards in the winter.

Fergusson, who has served as chairman of the Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards and has had first-hand experience in the Council's winter test programs, said, "While the economy and gas saving benefits of downsized cars are established facts, the added hazards of winter driving—reduced visibility and inadequate traction—create a new dimension to the special problems associated with smaller cars."

When trying to get started from a stop on slick road surfaces, the smaller, lighter cars have a notable difficulty getting back into motion. This is particularly true at warmer ice temperatures or when ice has become highly polished, such as at intersections, and chances are increased of being rear-ended by vehicles that can start more quickly, Fergusson contends.

Whitworth, who has also attended and participated in the Council's winter test programs at Stevens Point, Wis., agrees that smaller cars present a different situation, but argues that the driver must make adjustments.

"You can't just hop into a smaller car and drive it as if it were a larger car...it reacts much more quickly to turning actions. A driver simply has to adjust his driving habits to not only the conditions, but to the vehicle he's driving," Whitworth said.

Destiny What?

Have you ever wondered why we are here?
Living on this earth, year after year?
Is there a purpose, is there a plan,
For today's woman or tomorrow's man?

Doing our best, day and night,
Working, loving, living and waiting for the light.
Some make it to the top and feel fulfilled,
Others plod on until life is stilled.

Questions go unanswered,
Though wise men do try,
How many generations will come and go
Before we know
The reason why?

Flight Away

Memories.
They are songs of long ago.
Through the back woods of time they've lived and walked, prevailing, in the truth and wisdom of understanding.
Yet we've flown forward ...
away ... away ...
to lands of future ...
sun warmed places in people's hearts ...
taking that which is of importance with us ...
leaving some of time behind in the woods ...
to survive alone ... and these memories
are still back there, waiting.

At anchor and rest

"Dad I Love You"

I thought there would be so many days that I could tell him I loved him in so many ways.

I always said "I'll tell him tomorrow" — but I didn't get the chance now I'm filled with sorrow — For on the 22nd of July he suffered a stroke but he did not die.

The doctor said it damaged his brain — and that he will never ever be the same.

Now I look at him lying there — and all I can do is say a prayer — that our Heavenly Father up above will let him hear my words of love.

*"Oh Dad I really love you so" — and I cannot let you go.
You mean so very much to me
Life without you I cannot see.*

I pray each night to God above — to give you back to the family you love.

*For all of you who read this prayer
Please tell your Dad that you care
For tomorrow could be too late
For only God knows your father's fate.*

Don't be afraid to say "Dad I love you" for like me your days could run out on you.

*I won't give up hope for that is all I have
That and my memories of a real loving Dad.*

Just flew right up and buzzed right in —
I kept driving and let him stay,
Miles away from his kith and kin.*

Buzzing and bumping his head again and again,
A short rest, a walk up and down,
Gazing out at another strange town.*

*Homeward bound, I had to admit,
He had overstayed his welcome a bit,
A red light, a swat with my hand
And he was back in his own homeland.*

June Breeze

*A soft June breeze that brushes the cheek
Ruffles the curtain and ripples the creek
Then dances through the leaves and grass
Leaving no trail when it has passed*

*It bends the boughs of the stately trees
And softly sighs as it takes its leave
To lift the white sails on the calm of the lake
So the boats glide away leaving only a wake*

*Then off to the blue of the soft summer sky
Where the woolly white clouds go scampering by
And away into the nowhere the little breeze goes
And where it ends nobody knows.*

*But all through the winters' long deep freeze
We remember and long for the little June breeze.*

WILLIAM PINTER, RPH, has announced the opening of Wood Center Pharmacy in the new Woodland Medical Center on West Twelve Mile in Novi.

Wood Center Pharmacy is located right inside the front door of the Woodland Medical Center and is adjacent to parking.

Pinter said the pharmacy has full prescription service and honors all major insurance plans. The pharmacy also contains cosmetics, gifts, cards, other drug store needs and hospital supplies. Photo finishing services also are available.

"We are a totally computerized operation which is imperative in this age of technology but at the same time we are trying to preserve the personal service which was offered in early day 'small town' pharmacy operations," said Pinter.

"Our pharmacists and personnel will provide pleasant, courteous service," he said.

The pharmacy is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

PARTICIPATING IN LIVONIA mall's winter antique show that begins January 21 and ends January 25 during mall hours will be several area residents. Antoinette Tassoni of West Bloomfield will be in the show for the first time with an ornate display of art pottery and fine china. A display of antique clocks, featuring school clocks, will be in the booth of Donna Brown, a newcomer from Plymouth. Gerry Sharp of Livonia, another first-timer, will feature oak furniture with a corner chair upholstered in red velvet, an old dough table and a round oak one.

The show is coordinated by Marjorie Kulifay and Gloria Siegert. There is no admission charge.

COUGAR Cutting Products, Incorporated, and Cougar Contracting Sales, largest maker of diamond cutting blades in the state according to owner R. J. Schmitt, has expanded into larger quarters in Novi. The firm moved from Livonia to 25100 Novi Road near Grand River, directly north of Caterpillar Tractor, just in time to decorate the new headquarters for the holidays.

The firm works with industry and municipalities, Schmitt says, noting that "they're using our (diamond concrete-cutting) blades in Northville." Workmen have been working to place wiring conduits underground in downtown Northville before the winter freeze in a Mainstreet '78 downtown beautification update.

With a staff of between 25-30 Schmitt says the move to the larger facility was needed for expansion. He and his wife are Howell residents. They have five children and are anticipating a second grandchild before Christmas. Secretary-treasurer of the firm is James N. Holton of Pinckney. He is a partner and part-owner of the business.

NHS wrestlers suffer two more losses, one in league

By KEN KOVACS

The new year began just the way 1980 finished — with a pair of losses for the Northville High School wrestlers.

Christmas vacation did not help the ailing Northville High School wrestlers prepare for the stiff competition they knew they would be facing in 1981.

And it showed last week as they dropped a dual meet to Plymouth Canton, 40-18, and finished last in the Brighton Invitational Saturday.

The Mustang grapplers, saddled with major injuries to six key wrestlers prior to the holiday break, encountered even more difficulties when a few could not make weight against Canton.

Though two of the injured grapplers have returned to the lineup — Mike Ross at 114 pounds and Brian Mance at 105 — one, Steve Platte, has quit the team and three others remain sidelined.

Some bright spots in the Canton match were Dan Sackllach at 167 and Neil Young at 185. Each pinned his respective opponent.

Meanwhile, heavyweight Vince Candela won his match by forfeit.

In other matches versus Canton: Neil Hartshorne lost 8-6 at 105, Mike Ross lost 6-0 at 112, Frank Nieto was pinned by his 119-pound opponent and Greg Marshall was pinned at 126.

Bromley Kelley was pinned at 138, Steve Hamilton lost a 7-1 decision at 145 and Neil FitzPatrick was pinned at 155.

The Mustangs forfeited three weight classes — 198, 98 and 132.

Junior heavyweight Vince Candela led the Mustang wrestlers in the Brighton Invitational, as he battled two giant opponents.

The Northville grappler took on Mark Cook of Pinckney in his first match, dowing the 6-foot-3, 350-pounder in a 5-3 decision.

Mustang cagers escape with pair of victories

By KEN KOVACS

Despite some shaky shooting, poor passing and generally sloppy play, the Northville High School cagers' defense netted them two wins last week.

The Mustangs boosted their record to 7-1 overall and 3-0 in the Western Six Conference, claiming victories over Novi (58-53) and Walled Lake Western (52-44).

A hustling Novi squad led Northville several times in a contest January 6, the home team nearly handing the favored Mustangs a defeat.

"First of all their (the Wildcats' 0-5) record is deceiving," explained Northville coach Tim Lutes. "Two of their starters played only a few of the first four games and those contests were very close."

"Having those two (Steve Wright and Mike Rentner) in the lineup against us gave them a big boost," he continued. "But we were overconfident, too. They really wanted the win and we just couldn't get our rhythm going."

"They are a fairly good ball team," he said. "And it is always hard to win on the road."

A career-high 18 points from forward Tim Wagner and a 17-point performance from center Dave Ward were key factors in saving the victory for the Mustangs.

Point guard Dave Greer made six of eight crucial free throws and sank a pair of field goals to add 10 points to Northville's cause.

The Mustangs shot 57 percent at the free throw line — 16 of 28 attempts — and 45 percent from the field, while the Wildcats hit 67 percent from the foul line and 38 percent from the field.

Western also gave Northville a scare Friday, posting a 14-6 lead late in the first quarter.

But Lutes went to an all-senior lineup in the second quarter — inserting Gary Kucher and Kevin Swayne at the guard spots, moving Greer to forward along with Greg May and 6-foot-7 Ward at center — in an attempt to squelch the Warrior attack.

The senior Mustang squad fought back to claim a 23-19 lead at the half and held the Warriors to 10 points in the

NHS spikers split contests

By KEN KOVACS

The tone in coach Steve McDonald's voice told the story.

His Northville High School volleyball squad did not play to its potential.

"We just weren't the same team out there Wednesday night," said the puzzled McDonald. "In the first game (a two-game sweep of Livonia Ladywood, 15-8, 15-3) the girls played very well. But they seemed like a different team against Walled Lake Western."

The Mustangs suffered the same punishment they had inflicted on the Ladywood squad two days earlier — losing in straight games, 15-10 and 15-8.

Against Ladywood everything seemed to go Northville's way.

Nearly 95 percent (42 of 44) serves were accurate and 61 percent of the Mustangs' spikes (14 of 22) were winners.

Kim Maguire led the team in spikes, scoring on three of six attempts, while Melinda House lead in the serving department, with all 12 attempts falling within the boundary lines.

Stacy Hoover added nine good serves in as many attempts.

"Last year we had a problem with consistency," McDonald said. "So the Ladywood game was a very good indication that we improved in that area."

"And the girls played very aggressive as a unit," he added. "I don't think the setters (Diane Hrublak and Lori Mitchell) had a bad set all night."

But in the loss to Western, things did not go nearly as well.

The team seemed unmotivated and at times even lackadaisical, McDonald said.

"It was their (Western's) first game and they played very well," he said. "But I think we can beat them."

"I think it is just a matter of time before we come around."

Senior Sandy Knauss provided one of the few bright spots in the match, coming to set the ball well and adding some winning serves.

And Lori Mitchell continued her consistent good serving and steady play.

Maguire also had a fair game, hitting five winners in 12 serves.

The Mustang spikers were scheduled to take on Plymouth Canton Monday.

Senior gymnast Holly Raycraft took second on the balance beam

Mustang gymnasts win big in first two meets

Jack Townsley considers himself a very lucky man.

If you were the Northville High School gymnastics coach and had the talented performers Townsley does, you more than likely would be quite pleased, too.

The Mustang gymnasts swept their first two matches last week, downing Southfield Lathrup 94-59 and Farmington High, 98-78, amassing the highest point totals in Northville gymnastics history.

But the third-year coach thought the judges were quite generous.

"I thought the judges were a little lenient in the first match (against Lathrup)," Townsley said. "And in the Farmington match there were some ridiculously high scores."

"My problem is to make sure the girls understand that this isn't the real world yet," he continued. "The league competition is going to be a lot stiffer and the judges also should be tougher."

Townsley did admit that the success in the first two meets is evidence of how the Northville gymnastics program has advanced over the past few years.

Three years ago the Mustangs were scoring around 62 or 65 points per meet.

Last year the scores averaged in the 70's and occasionally jumped into the 80's.

"I take no credit at all for the progress," Townsley insisted. "It is just a result of all the talent that we are getting in here. Northville is going to be a gymnastics power to reckon with in the near future."

Paul Broderick posted the highest scores in the win over Lathrup. The senior gymnast scored 8.5 in vaulting competition, 8.35 on the uneven parallel bars, 8.2 in floor exercises and 7.6 on the balance beam.

Sophomores Pam Stephens and Amy Aaron also had impressive performances against Lathrup.

Stephens scored 8.35 in vaulting, 7.9 on the beam, 7.4 in the floor exercises and 7.3 on the bars.

Aaron, who just recently joined the team, scored 8.25 on the bars and 8.05 in vaulting.

Others who scored well against Lathrup include Anita Hodge, who took a 7.5 on the bars and Holly Raycraft, who finished with scores of 7.6 and 6.85 in floor exercises and balance beam competition, respectively.

Broderick, Stephens and Raycraft led the Mustang performers in the win over Farmington.

Broderick took first place in the floor exercise with a near perfect score of 9.55 (on a scale of 10); swept the balance beam event, finishing with 7.95 points and won the uneven parallel bars with a score of 8.25.

She also finished second in the vaulting competition with a score of 8.75.

Stephens claimed a first place in the vaulting event, winning a judges' score of 8.95, and finished third in the balance beam competition and floor exercises with scores of 7.55 and 8.95, respectively.

Raycraft finished second to Broderick on the balance beam with a score of 7.65.

Others who scored well include Aaron, who finished a close third in vaulting with a score of 8.7 and Hodge, who claimed a third place finish in the uneven parallel bars with a score of 7.3

JV cagers claim easy wins

While the Northville High School varsity basketball team was scraping and clawing for its two recent victories over Novi (58-53) and Walled Lake Western (52-44), the junior varsity Mustangs were cleaning up.

The young Northville squad ripped Novi, 56-47 January 6, then humbled Western, 68-51 Friday.

They now boast a 6-2 mark overall and stand at 2-1 in the Western Six Conference.

The young and inexperienced JV Mustangs were expected to do fairly well this year. But no one, not even coach Omar Harrison, was prepared for the great early season success the team has enjoyed.

"I really didn't know what to expect at the beginning of the year," Harrison said. "We have some big kids, but some of them haven't played much organized basketball and have a lot to learn.

"But they are coming around real well."

Well, indeed.

Junior forward John Foley — who averaged 20 points a game prior to Christmas vacation — scored 12 in the win over Novi and added 18 against the Warriors.

Six-foot-four center Tim Hendra led all scorers against Novi, collecting 16 points. He also led the team in caroms with 15.

Forward Dave Bach

pulled down 13 rebounds in the win over the Wildcats, while Foley had 10.

Sophomore guard Ray McDonough, though not adding many points, drew Harrison's praise for his five assists and all-around play.

"He is really coming along," Harrison said. "He brings the ball up the floor well, penetrates the middle and gets the ball to the big men up front."

The Mustangs cruised to a 20 points lead at the half against Western, before having a slight let-down in the third quarter, allowing the Warriors to come within nine points.

But Northville put on a scoring display, tallying 22 points in the final period.

Hendra added 15 points and 13 rebounds to Foley's 18 points and nine rebounds and junior guard Tom Hansen collected 13 points and three rebounds.

Bach led the Mustangs in caroms with 16 and added 10 points.

Harrison also praised the play of Paul Havalala, a sophomore center who started against Western. "He shows a lot of potential," his coach stated.

OLV cagers cruise to seventh straight win

Our Lady of Victory's fifth and sixth grade boys basketballers downed a stubborn Livonia St. Collette squad 23-10 in a non-league CYO contest at the Northville Community Building Sunday.

The visitors shut down the Cougar offense in the first period, holding the OLV squad to a 6-6 tie.

But Sean McLaughlin scored seven of his game-high 15 points in the second period to give the Cougars a 15-8 lead at the half.

Following the intermission, St. Collette could manage only one field goal as the OLV defense rescued the sputtering offense.

Joe Briellmaier and Doug Martin joined McLaughlin in the scoring department, adding five and three points, respectively for OLV.

The win boosted the Cougar's season mark to 7-0.

Top of the Key

The scramble for the top of the key has taken on a new look following the holiday break.

Not only has Northville's Dave Ward regained his status as the number one scorer in the Sliger Home Newspapers circulation area (he leads Milford's Rob Sharpe, 18.1 to 18.0), but three new faces have jumped into the fray. Hot-shooting Todd Parsons of Novi has come from nowhere to claim the number seven spot; Milford Lakeland's Dean Danek has overcome injuries to rank eighth; and Northville's Dave Greer made the 10th position for the 7-1 Western Six Conference leaders.

Then there's Erin Hill, who might be the hottest of them all. The Walled Lake Central forward now stands within easy access of the number one spot after 25 and 16-point outings last week.

Hill is every coach's dream. Besides being the team leader — and an unselfish one — he was averaging 60 percent from the floor and 11.7 rebounds per game through last Tuesday's action. Central Coach Steve Emert calls him "one of the most underrated forwards in the state."

Here's a look at where Hill and the others stand after Friday's action (at least five games played):

1. DAVE WARD, NORTHVILLE: (Games 8, Total Points 145) Average 18.1.
2. ROB SHARPE, MILFORD: (Games 8, Total Points 144) Average 18.0.
3. DAVE RICHMOND, WHITMORE LAKE: (Games 7, Total Points 121) Average 17.3.
4. ERIN HILL, WALLED LAKE CENTRAL: (Games 7, Total Points 115) Average 16.4.
5. KEITH HODGENS, SOUTH LYON: (Games 8, Total Points 120) Average 15.0.
6. MIKE XENOS, WALLED LAKE WESTERN: (Games 7, Total Points 96) Average 13.7.
7. TODD PARSONS, NOVI: (Games 6, Total Points 76) Average 12.6.
8. DEAN DANEK, MILFORD LAKE: (Games 5, Total Points 60) Average 12.0.
9. MIKE KELLEY, WHITMORE LAKE: (Games 7, Total Points 82) Average 11.7.
10. DAVE GREER, NORTHVILLE: (Games 8, Total Points 90) Average 11.2.

NHS matmen sooth wounds, suffer two losses

Candela's next opponent was number one seed Duke Virtue of Haslett.

Candela had a 2-1 lead over his 6-foot-5 opponent going into the last 30 seconds when Virtue scored a reversal to gain two points and win the match.

The junior Mustang wrestler has won the majority of his matches thus far this season, but Northville coach Gary Emerson says things are going to get a little more difficult.

"It's going to be a lot tougher for him in upcoming league matches," Emerson predicted. "The heavyweights are strong in the Western Six. But I think Candela can compete with them."

In other matches: Hartshorne was pinned by the tournament first seed at 105 in his first match, then lost a decision to his next opponent.

R.S. Wolfgram beat his first opponent at 112 pounds when the match was called due to an injury; he lost his second match, 7-2, won his third matchup 13-7 and lost his final consolation match, 9-0.

Nieto was pinned by the first seed at 119 pounds and lost by points to his second opponent.

Marshall, wrestling at 126, was pinned in his first matchup and lost to his second opponent by a decision.

Kelley was pinned twice at 132 pounds.

Northville forfeited at 138, 198 and 145, because of injuries and one wrestler didn't make weight.

FitzPatrick lost his first match 10-0 to the first seed, won a 7-4 decision in his second match at 155 pounds, and lost 4-3 in the consolation match.

FitzPatrick wrestled to a 2-2 tie with 20 seconds to go in the final match when his opponent let him up for an escape (one point), then scored a takedown (two points) to clinch the victory.

Sackilach, wrestling at 167 pounds, won his first match, 4-3, then lost his second

R. S. Wolfgram (right) won this match by default when his opponent suffered a cut above his eye cond contest, 10-8, and was pinned in his third outing.

Young finished second at 185 pounds, claiming a bye and a 4-2 win before being pinned in his final match.

Haslett won the invitational with 197.5 points, Pinckney finished second with 115, Linden was third with 96.5, Walled Lake Central was fourth with 81, Brighton followed with 75, Fowlerville had 75 and Northville scored 45 points.

The Mustang wrestlers were scheduled to host a three-way meet with Howell and North Farmington yesterday.

Neil Hartshorne (on top) was beaten by Todd Gattoni of Canton

WET the BED?

FREE INFORMATION ON BEDWETTING

Send for a FREE booklet on how to stop bedwetting in the privacy of your home

All Inquiries Are Confidential

"Bedwetting is Serious and Harmful. . .

If you have a bedwetter in your home, I strongly urge you to take steps at once to end it. The correction of bedwetting is an important mental health aid. It is very harmful to the child, distressing to the parents and can lead to very serious complications later on in life. Don't be blind to this problem no matter what you have been told by anyone else. Do something about it and do it now.

Joseph G. Molner, M.D., Master Public Health

BEDWETTING IS CORRECTABLE

Many procedures such as restricting liquids, taking a child to the bathroom on a schedule, scolding, etc. do not end bedwetting. It can be stopped as early as 3 years of age. It should definitely be stopped before school age.

For the same reasons you would not think of waiting for your child to outgrow diapers, you also should not wait for your child to outgrow bedwetting. Millions of adults never outgrow it.

Mustang cagers count on defense to win two third period, while scoring 14. Ward and Greer led the Northville scoring attack with 18 and 16 points, respectively, while May added five and Todd Jennings, Kucher and Tim McLaughlin collected four apiece.

Ward also led the Mustangs in the rebounding department, grabbing 10, while Greer had seven, and May and Kucher pulled down five apiece.

But the name of the game was defense, according to Lutes.

"It was a super defensive performance," he praised. "Our opponents have averaged less than 40 points a game and I think that is a good indication of how well our defense has played."

The Warriors had problems in that area, particularly when it came to the task of defending Ward inside. Western double-teamed the talented center throughout most of the game and even put three men on him at times.

"It is going to become increasingly important for us to starting hitting from outside," Lutes said. "I think we will see more and more teams keying on stopping Ward and we are going to have to adjust by getting more scoring from the other guys."

Overall, Lutes said he is very pleased with the squad's performance thus far and extremely happy to win two on the road.

"I don't care if we win by 20 points or by one, it's just great to win on the road."

The Mustang cagers were scheduled to take on Clarenceville last night (Tuesday).

They will host Waterford Mott in a Western Six contest Friday.

Northville youth soccer tryouts set at Silverdome

Never mind the snow and ice, it's time for soccer tryouts.

Skilled youth soccer players are invited to try out for the Bonanza Express Soccer League spring teams Sunday, January 18 at the Pontiac Silverdome.

Players born from 1962-1970 (12 to 19 years old) are eligible.

Tryouts for youngsters 12 and under are scheduled to begin at 9 a.m., while under 14 will start at 11 a.m., under 16 at 1 p.m. and under 19 at 3 p.m.

Players should show up a half hour early to register, dressed to play.

Further information is available by calling Kitty Grundy, administrative coordinator, at 575-9246.

Huron wins college meet

New Boston Huron amassed 226.5 points to claim the championship of the 11th annual Schoolcraft College high school wrestling invitational Saturday.

Huron bested 18 competitors including Fraser and Wayne Memorial, which finished second and third with 141.5 and 111 points, respectively.

Following close behind were West Bloomfield with 108 points, South Lyon with 103, Walled Lake Western with 92.5, and Thurston with 86.

Claiming eighth, ninth and 10th places, respectively, were Livonia Stevenson (81.5), Southfield Lathrup (78.5) and Livonia Clarenceville (76).

Other schools which participated include Dearborn Heights Crestwood and Edsel

Ford; Farmington Harrison; Garden City West; Livonia Bentley, Churchill and Franklin; Redford Union and Southfield.

(The Northville High School wrestling team did not participate in the Schoolcraft invitational, as the Mustangs were competing in the Brighton Invitational tourney. See story in today's sports section.)

ducted by Naturalist Steve Horn, will include stops along the tour to examine animal tracks and plant life in winter.

Participants in the two and one half hour program should bring skis and meet at the Nature Center.

Advance registration is required.

Further information is available by calling the Nature Center at 685-1561.

BEFORE YOU
OPEN AN INTEREST-EARNING CHECKING ACCOUNT...
COUNT TO TEN.

If you think all interest-earning checking accounts are the same you haven't been reading the fine print. Just one example: Major financial institutions in this area require minimum balances ranging from $500 to $2000 for such an account. In order to avoid monthly service charges, First Federal Savings of Detroit requires only $300.

So if you're about to open an interest-earning checking account, count the advantages you get at First Federal. You may get some of them elsewhere. But only at First Federal do you get all ten. Count 'em.

1. Your First Federal interest-earning checking account earns 5 1/4% annual interest.

2. First Federal compounds this interest continuously and pays it monthly providing an effective annual yield of 5.467%.

3. There is no monthly service charge as long as you maintain a minimum balance of just $300.

4. First Federal offers overdraft protection. (You must apply for this benefit separately.)

5. First Federal gives you your first 50 personalized checks free. No strings attached.

6. First Federal returns your cancelled checks with each monthly statement. Free.

7. First Federal has over 60 offices conveniently located near where you live, work or shop. You can transact your First Federal business at any one of them.

8. First Federal provides fifteen 24-hour Night Owl Windows (automatic teller machines).

9. First Federal's Prestige® Emergency Cash Feature entitles you to nationwide, out-of-town emergency cash withdrawals from your interest-earning checking account.

Ten advantages that explain why thousands upon thousands have already opened their interest-earning checking accounts at First Federal. Join them. Just drop in at any First Federal office, and one of our friendly staff will help you open your account almost before you can count to ten. You'll find it a very interesting experience and one more reason to make First Federal your Center for Family Financial Matters.
