Burial will follow in Rural Hill Cemetery.

John Steimel, who had been a resident of Northville since 1951, was born to Henry and Elizabeth (Burke) Steimel on December 7, 1927 in New York City where he was raised in the tenement section of Manhattan.

Following his appointment as postmaster in May of 1965, succeeding the late Leland V. Smith, Mr. Steimel supervised the transfer of the local post office from Center Street to the then newly built quarters at the corner of Wing and Cady.

Previous to his appointment, he had worked for 13 years at Northville State Hospital and the Plymouth Center for Human Development in Northville Township.

More than just a postmaster here, Mr. Steimel was one of the most active citizens in Northville, serving in a variety of official and unofficial capacities to assist the community in general and children and senior citizens in particular.

For his service over the years, he was named Citizen of the Year by the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce in 1978.

Member of the Lloyd H. Green American Legion Post for nearly 30 years, he was its past commander and was chairman of the Legion's Wolverine Boys State program for two decades. He was past commander of the Legion's 17th District, past national committeeman, and he also had been a member of the VFW Post here, having served in the United States Navy during World War II.

At the time of his death he was chairman of the Northville March of Dimes campaign, having served in that capacity for several years. He was an executive committee member of the March of Dimes.

Reflecting his special interest in children, he had been a member of the Boy Scouts of America, serving several years on the Boy Scout committees. and he was a member of the Northville Kiwanis Club and a backer of the club's programs for handicapped children.

(Members of his family have requested that any memorials be made out to the Boy Scouts or to the Kiwanis Club's mentally and physically handicapped children).

He was a member of the Northville Housing Commission, with emphasis on assisting residents of Allen Terrace, and he was the Kiwanis Club's

Kids' Club gives working parents peace of mind

By MICHELE McELMURRY

When the dismissal bell rings at Silver Springs Elementary School at 3:30 p m most students make a mad dash to their lockers and scramble into coats and boots to begin the trek home.

After a long, hard day of figuring out arithmetic problems and memorizing spelling words, the sound of the dismissal bell is music to the ears of most tuckered-out little scholars.

However, despite the sound of the final bell, not all Silver Springs students are homeward bound

As a matter of fact, on any given day you probably will find at least 25 students staying after school.

For most students, the thought of staying at school an additional two or three hours is about as appealing as eating spinach.

But at Silver Springs, staying after school is a real treat — especially for those students in Kids' Club.

Kids' Club, an extended day program for children of working parents, offers students a chance to participate in everything from cooking projects to Children take part in arts and crafts demonstrations, roller skating, music lessons and scads of other activities.

However, the program's appeal is not only in the type of activities offered to children, but in its purpose - to provide supervised before-and-after-school support of parents, teachers and school administrators, Kids' Club appears to be Silver Springs' answer to the problem of childcare for the two-paycheck family.

As an increasing number of women return to the work force, the question of "who's watching the children?" has become a national concern.

And it is precisely this concern which prompted a group of Silver Springs parents and staff members to organize the extended day program.

Students in the Kids' Club program arrive at Silver Springs as early as 7 a.m. and stay as late as 6 p.m. Cost varies according to the number of hours children are there and weekly rates are $9 for the mornings and $12.50 for the afternoons.

According to Virginia Baumgartner, a school social worker and co-founder of the program, Kids' Club provides children with a secure place to go and gives working parents a peace of mind.

Kids' Club, though unique in the Northville school system, is an offshoot of the Latchkey programs which have been sprouting up across the country for the past few years. The term "latchkey" is derived from the image of children wearing house keys around Baumgartner said Silver Springs' extended day program was developed after examining successful programs in other districts such as Birmingham and Livonia.

However, she attributes the success of Kids' Club to the support of Northville parents, teachers and administrators. Throughout the past three

Wing Street application

Hearing set for group home

Notification has been received by the City of Northville that application for a license to operate a small group home at 364 Wing has been made.

Monday night city council set a public hearing for 8 p.m. February 16 to inform residents of the planned action.

The council was notified by the Michigan Department of Social Services that Homes of Opportunity, Incorporated, whose address is 28245 Goldengate Drive in Lathrup Village, has applied for the license.

The city has until March 4 to respond

To be called the Wing Group Home, the property in question is located on the west side of Wing south of the post office before Fairbrook.

The application was made January 14 with Tom Kennedy listed as consultant and Northville Regional Training Center at 41001 West Seven Mile listed as sponsor.

Proposed capacity for the group home is given as six persons.

The notice gives the city one of three dicate if the proposed facility is located more than 1500 feet from an existing similar facility, or another proposed similar facility; or, if so, it can recommend issuance of a license; or, if so, it can recommend not issuing the license.

In reviewing the provisions for response at Monday's council meeting Mayor Paul Vernon expressed concerns echoed by other council members. He noted that fire, police and health inspections are out of the city's hands with that authority delegated to the licensing authority.

Vernon said the group homes are known as a "wonderful concept" and that much has been heard from supporters of the group home living but little of any negative aspects.

He reported reading of a Detroit man freezing to death after wandering away from a group home.

"I am concerned about people wandering free and wonder how effectively the homes are policed," said Ver-City attorney Philip Ogilvie observed that it has been proposed that mentally ill as well as mentally retarded persons be placed in such homes. Ogilvie expressed the opinion that a movement to reduce the number of residents from six to three or four to a home was more workable. Aware that the only input asked of it was to fill out one of the three requested responses as to location of the proposed home, the council decided that it still could include any responses made at the hearing.

The notice to be returned to the department of social services in Lansing explains that "state licensed residential facility" means a structure constructed for residential purposes that is licensed by the state pursuant to Act No. 287 of Public Acts of 1972, as amended,"which provides resident services for six or less persons under 24hour supervision of care of persons in need of that supervision or care.'

The law provides that at least 45 days before licensing the city or village in which it is to be located must notify residents whose property lines are within a 1,500 foot radius of the property lines of the proposed facility.

The notice specifies this may be done by direct mailing or by publishing a notice in the local newspaper. The council voted to have the notice published in The Record, saying it felt the entire community should receive notification.

The council noted it had received a small group homes resolution from the City of Inkster objecting to the many requests for approval of foster care facilities and seeking a moratorium on the approval of adult, family and child foster care and residential setting

Inkster's resolution also stated it objected to the fact that the state "may be

Three proposed uses for $99,000 in community development block grant funds were discussed by the township board of trustees at a public hearing Monday night

The hearing was the first of two scheduled for public comment on township plans to use the federal funding for construction of a sewage system to serve Park Gardens, a review and revision of zoning ordinances and continued planning for a proposed senior citizens housing pro-

Funding has been accumulating since 1977 to finance the sewer project, which would serve an estimated 700 people in a 122 acre area near Five Mile on the southern border of Northville Township near Plymouth Township.

The Park Gardens area has been noted for extreme septic tank problems due to soil conditions unable to absorb effluent The condition has resulted in raw sewage sometimes floating at the surface throughout the area.

Some $600,000 in federal funds would be expended to construct of a main sewer line in Five Mile to serve the area. The lateral sewer lines connecting the houses to the main sewer would have to be financed by special assessment on residents of the area.

Only a handful of residents from the affected area appeared at the public hearing, which was attributed to their strong identification with the Plymouth grant "a dubious proposition. I think it will have to be done by special assessment."

Trustee Richard Allen suggested that the township begin to use the monies as soon as possible.

"At 12 percent inflation," he calculated, "you aren't making much of a gain each year toward the eventual cost of this thing. We should be spending the money while its still worth something.

Mosher noted that his cost estimates included an inflation factor of roughly 10 percent annually, but urged the township to begin construction while the dollars are still available.

Should the county, which administers the program for the federal department of housing and urban development (HUD), grant its approval as was done in the past, construction of the sewer line and pumping station could begin as Accumulated funds and previous expenditures make up a large part of the total cost, with a further $128,000 needed to meet projected costs. At the $85,000 annual allocation granted previously, complete funding would be achieved in time for the projected December 1983 completion date.

Mosher noted that Wayne County may soon begin engineering on a main sewer line in Haggerty, which the engineer said has been awaited 15 years and is a more logical connection for Park Gardens than is called for in current plans.

However, Mosher continued, "we have been promised this thing a million times. I would not count too heavily on the county having it done in time to coordinate with our project.'

sensitive areas in the township (mapping of which is becoming increasingly necessary to comply with environmental regulations) and a $5,000 update of subdivision regulations.

Special innovative project grants are also awarded and the township received one of these to finance planning activities for the proposed elderly village to be built on Wayne County Child Development Center property.

The grant of $100,000 would be divided between township planning consultants Villican-Leman Associates, special proiect consultants Zuchelli-Hunter Associates and engineering consultant William Mosher and Associates.

An agreement to lease or sell the 101acre child development center site to the county Economic Development Corporation will be considered by county commissioners soon. A search for potential developers would then be launched.

Council approves budget revisions

Local traffic controls and budget revisions were among the items city council acted upon Monday in a threeand-a-half hour session.

City Manager Steven Walters and Comptroller Betty Lennox presented a six-month general fund performance report and a tabulation of state-shared revenues based on actual December sales and income tax payments that now have been received by the city.

Walters reported that the new census population figures were used with stateshared receipts between $400-$500 higher than the city had been told to ex-

Council approved the revisions of the non-routine expenditures detailed by Walters in the six-month report, which, he observed, "amounts to about the same work as preparing the annual budget." It is now required under the Uniform Budgeting Act.

The biggest adjustment, council was aware, was in the absorbing of the cost of policing the Seven Mile-Sheldon light at the Downs. Under the new racing law provision and a city agreement with the track this cost now will be picked up by Walters said the police services account will need to be reduced by $15,500 to reflect this.

On the other side of the ledger, cemetery sales, budgeted at $12,000 for the year have reached $11,370 in the first six months.

Walters told council that the ambulance facility renovation contribution of $6,760 was $760 higher than anticipated but recommended the funds be appropriated from project reserves. The recommendations approved also provided appropriation from reserves of $9,000, an increase for the fire administration budget that reflected training wages and increased fire calls.

Relocating electrical service to the west side of city hall in building renovations as well as emergency generator switch system at a cost of $6,066, additional upper level heating at $3,830, and the employee lounge at $1,707, were among the revisions.

Walters explained that inflation is part of the budgetary problem, giving cost of gas for the police department as one illustration.

The council reviewed traffic reports compiled by the city police department regarding four-way stops in the city. Surveys were made after the city received notification last November 20 from the state department of transportation questioning if traffic at some of the intersections warranted multi-way

In question were stops on Baseline at Grace and Novi streets. While the traffic and safety bureau report by Officer William Harrison confirmed that there is not enough traffic to warrant the multi-stop, the council decided not to Members observed that speeding previously had been a problem and that residents had complained.

No other changes had been recommended of the stops surveyed.

However, the council did approved the request of Chief Rodney Cannon to designate 30 feet on the east side of North Center from Dunlap south as a "no parking here to corner" area. It was pointed out that there now are no meters on the street because of Mainstreet construction.

The meters previously regulated parking along this strip, Walters told Council also approved returning Park Place from East Main to Cady, a short connecting strip, to a two-way street, and Cady from Park Place to Griswold to two-way traffic.

Walters said the two-way designation is not likely to increase traffic and that employees of firms in the area have been using it for two-way traffic.

Northbound Park Place at East Main in the order was made a stop intersec-

As council considered the traffic matters, Council member Carolann Ayers requested that the police department take note of parking on the driveway entrance to Allen Terrace Senior Citizen Center off High as, she said, cars often are parked there on Sundays when the nearby Lutheran church has

She explained that it made it difficult to enter Allen Terrace and wondered if 'no parking" could be posted.

In other action, council gave permission after a public hearing for Mark Frid, 374 North Rogers, and his brothers to park three trucks, not larger than one ton, for one year at three specified locations with not more than one at the Rogers street ones. The locations were the family's home; 383 North Rogers, home of Helen Hay; and 515 Dubuar, home of Frid's grand-

The Frid brothers, their father Norman Frid told council, went into business as each graduated from high school under the name NorMar Landscaping. They have found another location for the business, he said, but are using the trucks as their own transportaon and for a time need the parking.

Audrey Becker of 543 Dubuar stated that she felt what "the young men are doing is fine" but had concern about what might happen if the business were

She said she had no objection if time limits were set for the permission. Rosemary Hagge, a resident of 700 West Main, reported to council that the rear of her property backing up to a ravine "is a flooded mess" all year long

She said the house was built in 1970 and that the 392-foot lot had been dry until this past year.

Walters said drainage in the area, discussed at the last council session, was being investigated by the city engineers and that a report should be forthcoming at the February 2 session. He also noted that the DPW was talking to the township about effects of North Beacon Woods subdivision on this

Conference told housing is prime concern of elderly elderly, housing officials from across the state gathering last Thursday and Friday at the Plymouth Hilton for a two-day conference of the Michigan Chapter of the National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials (NAHRO) were told Frances R Yoakam and Sharon L. Thomas, directors of the Northville and Plymouth housing commissions, respectively, hosted the conference with the help of their staffs and com-

John Keeler, therapist and supervisor of the older adult unit for Oakland County Catholic Social Services and one of the speakers at the winter conference, pinpointed the problem of housing for the elderly at the general

Yoakam was moderator for the session entitled, "Addressing the Needs of Our Elderly Chents.'

"We receive at least three calls a day about housing," said Keller. "We have 24 high rises in Oakland serving 5,000 elderly persons.

"But there are 100,000 persons in the county over 60 years of age, and we have 1,500-2,000 on the waiting lists for each high rise

In his four years as a therapist for the elderly, Keeler said his clients all are different

"When you consider the stresses of a 30-year-old, then have them multiplied by those extra years of living, you realize the challenge The highest suicide rate is among white males over

"Stress is relieved by an adequate housing situation."

The speaker sympathized with the resident managers of the housing facilities for the elderly and noted an increase in calls from these managers.

He said it was normal for the new tenant to be anxious and confused.

"Most of them have moved from a single dwelling. They don't take the same turn to the kitchen, to the bathroom, and they can't find things.

"For some, it is the first new place they ever had, the first high rise. Many are excited and happy. They say, 'I love it on the eighth floor. I thought I'd be afraid, but I can see all over.'

There are some who continue to talk about their old home and wish to return, but "the rest love it." said Keeler. He suggested the need for therapy if the original confusion continues for six or eight months. 'Be alert, don't shy away from it. What is the problem? Is this a cry for Keeler said older tenants are not hard on the physical plant, "but the ideal tenant may not be that well off. The tenant who begins to withdraw may have relatives die. As they lose friends, they make no attempt to make new friends.

"They have a narrow view of reality, and, as reality shrinks, they develop a tunnel vision. They hear things, believe people are talking about them. They need interaction and the contacts necessary to bring reality into their

"They all need support and they need to develop new friendships.'

Keeler cited illness as another concern of the residents.

'When they moved in, they signed a paper saying they were physically sound. When they become ill, they try to hide it. They don't want it known that they are having problems because they might have to leave.'

This is another case when a therapist can ease their worries, said Keeler.

'Then there are those who always find fault and have a negative attitude about everything. They re too hot or said Keeler. "Don't call me," They've always been that way, and I can't change them. Just learn to live with them.'

Fran Yoakam asked Keeler to comment on the failure to pass Senate Bill

"Bill 318 will be reintroduced and ground rules will be established to protect adults who need a guardianship. I have a theory about why there has been legislation to protect children from abuse, but none to protect the adult, the elderly.

"Here's my theory: either in fantasy or reality, as children we all believed that at some time or other we received abusive treatment. People can relate to that. So the child abuse legislation was passed. They can't relate to abuse of the elderly, they haven't been there "

Yoakam, speaking for the directors of housing, said, "We do become involved in human services. A great amount of our effort and energy is expended in human services and that should be included in our job descriptions. "But the HUD audits, our evaluations, are based on our paper work They do not address the human side."

Norman K. Blackie, coordinator for the National Policy Center on Housing and Living Arrangements for Older Americans at the University of Michigan, gave a behind-the-scenes look at federal policy.

Using a series of graphs to illustrate his figures, he told of what progress had been made. He said the primary goal of the federal government is decent homes in suitable living environments for its elderly.

Blackie said the $1 billion allocated was being channeled through 96 programs. The center at U-M may be reached by calling 763-1275.

Officer says 'neigh' to auto traffic

His job would likely make your head spin! And why not? For more than a year now, Dennis Thompson has spent his mornings waving to passing motorists at Sheldon and Seven Mile roads.

It is Thompson's job, planted squarely in the middle of the intersection, to direct automobile traffic around the horses travelling to and from the track at

The Redford resident thoroughly enjoys his work and, to his credit, there have been no accidents involving cars and horses when he has been on duty.

Thompson himself has almost been hit twice, however. He attributes the near-misses to drivers ignoring the "No Turn On Red" signs.

His antsiest moments, though, he said, come when a police or fire run comes through the intersection — adding speeding emergency vehicles to the alreadycongested auto and horse traffic. The sirens and horses don't mix well, he said.
"The horses get scared and some of the jockeys don't stop," Thompson ex-

Thompson, who is an auxiliary policeman, said his goal is to join the regular force. He has completed law enforcement training at Schoolcraft College and works nights as a security guard.

Art and engineering meet in work of Charlie Wise

There's a common belief that art is art, engineering is engineering and never the twain shall meet.

Not so for Northville resident Charlie Wise, creator of the puckish Huskies Hysteria dogs on football, hockey and basketball programs at Michigan Technological University.

The Huskies Hysteria campaign was designed to increase enthusiasm for MTU's sports teams. Wise walks with one foot in engineering and one in the theater as a student in theater technology. He was doing leg work for Bill Tembreull, graphic artist in the department of communications services, when he was asked by Dennis Hanks, sports information director, to do a new more aggressive student-oriented Huskie mascot.

Wise insists that the Huskie head is a group ef-

"I would do a sketch and take it around to everyone, the secretaries, Bill, everyone. I just held the pen and asked what looked good," he said.

In his curriculum, the former mechanical engineering student has the best of both worlds. He loves things like calculus (a dirty word to most artists) and yet "does theater."

Tembruell calls him a "very good cartoonist." Wise gained his knowledge of the arts by acting in various plays, including "Barefoot in the Park," Fiddler on the Roof," and recently, as Nat Miller in "Ah, Wilderness."

Wise has worked for the Thunder Bay Summer Theater in Alpena.

"Props are second to acting to me, but that's where the jobs are," he said. He relaxes by drawing and listening to PBS on radio.

Wise has worked at a downtown Detroit bookstore, acted, designed, done graphics for musicals and does a weekly cartoon for the Michigan Tech Lode student newspaper.

His letters to friends also contain cartoons.

"Some of my best work is for my friends," he boasted. "I like to communicate through my draw-

He walks to campus from Hancock daily and buys art supplies and food — in that order.

Wise gets a lot of help from Tembruell, who has worked with 14-15 students in his fours years at MTU. He said he loves both downtown Detroit and Cop per Country.

"It's hard to say which I prefer, the excitement and attractions of the city or the quiet beauty of the Copper Country," Wise stated. "There are no prima donnas up here. Everyone has too much fun working together for that."

The talented student said he likes the Calumet Theater and the University Theater for the challenges and friendships.

He spent a summer with the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit after his engineering classes at MTU. Wise is headed for New York or California next summer for whatever challenges await.

Township opposes Joyner resolution

Wayne County Commissioner R. William Joyner of Plymouth last week.

Joyner has introduced a resolution to support a federal move that would provide postage free absentee balloting. Under the proposal, absentee ballots could be obtained through the mails and returned that way.

Joyner contends the move would reduce abuse of the absentee balloting procedure by unscrupulous politicians. He argues that politicians or their representatives often stand over a handicapped or elderly voter and direct them in their

But township officials, with an eye toward the complications of such a system, voted unanimously to oppose any such move.

Northville Township "It's hard enough on took an official stand our township to handle against a proposal by and process these ballots for the people who have a legitimate use for them.' said Clerk Susan Heintz.

"This would allow ballots to be sent to 'any and all who wish to vote by this method,' That leaves the door open to far more abuse than exists now and creates an inordinate amount of paperwork to be done by our people."

Guild owners Bill Ward and Walter Hill argue that she has not split ticket proceeds, as agreed, and did not fulfill contract agreements.

Inga Zayti replies that, while very talented, the young producers "really struggled" but were operating without sufficient funds.

However, Ward contends that the guild has run of funds largely because of the theatre manager's outstanding

Industrial rezoning approved by trustees

Approximatly nine acres of land near Wallis Street previously zoned for multiple-family dwellings has been added to Northville Township's industrial

The parcel, owned by Jack Doheny, includes 6 93 acres of land and 2 05 ecres of Lake Success surface Doheny, who owns and operates Jack L. Doheny Supplies, Inc , adjacent to the site, has aid he intends to construct warehouses on the rezoned site

He has indicated to the township Conomic Development Corporation that he would seek its aid in financing the project through issuance of $1 : .nillion tax-free municipal bonds.

If approved, the project would be the first financed through the EDC - an organization intended to promote business growth in the area and increase the tax base.

The EDC will consider Doheny's application at a meeting February 10, if the application is made before that

When rezoning of the parcel, which has 100 foot frontage on Wallis Street, was considered by township planners it was noted that the warehouse project would provide a suitable "buffer" usage between the Gerald Avenue and Wallis Street industrial area and nearby multiple family dwelling units.

Culinary arts addition to begin in mid-March

Construction of the $1.5 million building for Schoolcraft College's culinary arts program will begin in mid-March.

Groundbreaking ceremony for the one-story addition to the school's Waterman Camous Center was held January 13.

Site for the addition is on the north side of Waterman Center on the campus at 18600 Haggerty in Livonia.

"It's been an up and down project for too many years," said President C. Nelson Grote at the groundbreaking luncheon attended by Schoolcraft trustees, other college officials, several state representatives, the project architect and contractor.

The legislature last month approved the state's 50 percent share of the construction cost, ending a 10-year effort to raise building money which included five special millage defeats and temporary setbacks at state level.

The 11,000 square-foot addition, scheduled for completion by April, 1982, will allow Schoolcraft to more than double its culinary arts enrollment now limited to 60

The building will provide specifically designed instruction space for the program, which has been using the college's cafeteria kitchen.

The addition was designed by architect Gene Ralls of Hoyem-Basso Associates of Bloomfield Hills. General contractors are Cronk and Tocco, Incorporated, of Oak Park.

John Tocco, president, said about 100 people will work on the project during the year's construction time. A foot-and-ahalf of frost will prevent construction from getting

Kids' Club's a hit at Silver Springs

man 120 Silver Springs students

Bacingartner emphasized that the purpose of Kids' Club is to provide activity oriented care to students and not to serve as a glorified babysitting ervice or day care center

However, planning activities for 30 or more students each day is not always the easiest job

Loraine Petro, director of the program, pointed out that not all children are expected to participate in any one activity

For instance, while some children may want to catch up on homework, others may be roller skating or watching TV

"It's a very open program," she explained, "the kids basically do what they want."

However, despite the open program atmosphere, Petro has developed many group-oriented activities such as Chinese cooking, museum field trips and making Christmas ornaments.

These activities offer the kids 'something a little different," she ex-

In addition to the regular activities offered in Kids' Club, Petro explained that beginning this week students will have an opportunity to take piano lessons.

Interested students will take piano lessons from a volunteer interested in sharing her talents with the students, she added

Petro said the club always is looking for volunteers interested in sharing a skill with students in the program. Whether it's cooking, weaving, storytelling, or any other skill, Petro said volunteers are vital to the program.

She emphasized that volunteers do not babysit for students, but share their experiences or talents with the children She said anyone interested in volunteering should contact her at Silver Springs at 348-8210

With approximately 45 children currently participating in the afternoon program, keeping track of wandering students could present a problem. However, Petro explained that 'security is our first priority.'

After the dismissal bell rings, students meet in the media center for roll call and a brief meeting. Snacks also are provided by the club for those who want them.

Petro said students who wish to leave the media center must have permission to do so and must always inform an aide of their whereabouts.

"The aides are there to make sure things don't get too rough," she explain-

For the students in the program, an afternoon full of activity is much more desirable than sitting alone in an empty

Students who would normally sit in front of the TV for three hours while waiting for their parents to return home from work are able to interact with other students and participate in activities usually not offered at home.

Northville resident Robert Czapski, whose children have been in the program for two years, said he believes Kids' Club is "like a typical home situation only a little better

"I think it's definitely worth the expense," he said, "it gives the kids a chance to do things after school with other kids - it gives them better ex-

Czapski explained that Kids' Club has been a "tremendous convenience" for both he and his wife, who also works.

Sandy North, whose daughter Becky has been involved in the program from the beginning, said she has seen "a tremendous difference" in her daughter because of the program.

"The program provides security and consistency for the kids," she explained "Once a child becomes school age they need something geared toward North, who also is a member of the Kids' Club Parent Advisory Board, said the unique aspect of the program is the variety of activities offered.

"A lot of activities the kids par-ticipate in are pre-vocational," she "this not only gives them something to do but teaches them a However, North said the the most appealing part of the program is that parents can be assured that children are secure. "It's hard enough working and having guilt feelings about leaving children at home," she said. "This puts parents at ease. Marcia Wiss, principal of Silver Springs, said the program has been supported by parents, teachers, the staff and the Northville Board of Education and added that she has "heard nothing negative.

"I see the program as providing a service for the community," she ex-

The fees charged to parents of Kids' Club participants are funneled back into the program and are used in purchasing toys, sports equipment, food, etc. Wiss explained that there are no additional costs in heating the building or keeping lights on after normal school hours because the building is usually open until that time.

Custodial schedules also are arranged around Kids' Club activities, she ad-

Critics of the program may argue that keeping children at school from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. is just too long a day for most little tykes.

However, Petro explained that "the activities are always changing. Children very seldom get tired of being

Many students participating in the Silver Springs Kids' Club said they agree with Petro. In fact, many claim that their time in Kids' Club just isn't long enough.

While shooting a game of pool, Jason Berryhill, 6, explained that he enjoys Kids' Club "because we have a lot to do here.

Jason, who has been in the program almost two years, said he also likes the interaction with other children.

"You make a lot of friends here," he Julie Heintz, 8, and Tammy Wells, 8, said sometimes the day seemed long but that they would "rather be here than at home.

However, Sandy North best summed up the general attitude about Kids'

We'll miss him

Northville lost one of its greatest assets Saturday with the death of John Steimel. More than a postmaster, he was a friend of nearly all who knew him and a splendid citizen of our community which just two years ago recognized him as our "Citizen of

We at The Record will especially miss his smiles, his warm sense of humor, and, of course, his valuable news tips.

He took delight in telling us when we failed to recognize a good potential story. "News is news, big or little," he reminded Typically, a year or so ago he scolded us for not writing something about street skating. "It's really big in the West," said, "and it won't be long before it's sweeping the country."

To prove his point he dragged the publisher to a local sporting goods store and asked the proprietor to confirm the streetskating craze. That done, he promptly bought a pair of skates for himself and promised, "As soon as I've brushed up a little, I'll skate right past The Record Building on my way to work some "You do that, John, and we'll get a picture of you and put it on the front page," we promised.

John never skated past our building but skated he did to the great delight of the children in his neighborhood. On their own skates, they followed this man they loved like lemmings following the Pied Piper.

Growing bolder as the "skating legs" of his youth came back to him, he tried some "runs" down the hill in front of his house in preparation for the skating trip to work. Lorraine, his wife, called us later: "You can forget the picture. John won't be skating for awhile; he broke his arm and maybe his nose.'

"News is news," we reminded the man with his arm in a sling as he often did us, "whether it's a postmaster skating past The Record Building on the way to work or a 50-year-old kid who does an accidental cartwheel on Hill Street. We published the picture on Page One, broken arm, fat nose and all.

That's the John Steimel we'll miss most — the one who made us laugh through his adversity and organization can prove itself an "instant success." But that's just what the new arson investigation team called Force Five, formed to battle the increasing number of intentially set fires in the cities and townships of Northville and Plymouth and in Canton Township, appears to have done.

While a formal pact still is waiting to be finalized and approved by the participating governmental bodies involved, Force Five went into operation to investigate the Christmas Day fire at Swan Harbour Apartments on Seven Mile in Northville Township. The search warrant was approved in the name of Force Five.

Township Police Chief Ronald Nisun, following the swift arrest and arraignment, stated, "There is no question in my mind that the schooling (an arson training program held at Schoolcraft College in conjunc-

It isn't too often that a new tion with Force Five) helped our officers clear up this Swan Harbour thing so quickly. Because of this training, they determined that the cause definitely was arson after only a couple days of investigation."

> The object of Force Five is to draw from the available expertise in each of the communities to form an efficient team which can go to the scene of an arson and concentrate on that particular case. "We can do in about 48 hours what it took our regular officers two months to accomplish, and sometimes that can make the difference whether or not the arsonist is caught," explained Plymouth Police Chief Tim Ford, head of the task force.

Congratulations are in order to all involved for putting their new expertise to work quickly and efficiently — and for the enthusiastic spirit of cooperation among the five participating governmental bodies.

Desk organized?

MIKE BURLEY

What do you mean — write about my messy desk?! A "mess" is a disorderly or confused collection of things, a jumble of hodgepodge.

I prefer to think of my desk as "full." A full desk does not just happen. Each new item is intentionally placed, according to its subject and urgency, in the appropriate pile and layer. This requires not only organization, but also a fairly good sense of balance. Paperweights are never used in this system because they make the piles top-heavy, and thus sudden breezes can be a problem.

When I am away from my desk, employees often sneak new items onto the top of the center pile on my desk, thinking this automatically endows it with priority 1. When I return, of course, these items are immediatly re-categorized. Occasionally, a department head will write me an especially urgent memo on a rock, so that if it slips below priority 1, it creates an attention — getting lump in in my system.

Each night, I go home with the peace of mind that comes from knowing that no matter what turns out to be needed the next morning, it will be there somewhere — on that 3 x 6 foot organizational monu-

A school system probably uses more paper in its day-to-day operation than any other organization or agency in the community. While at the same time, it seems natural for our school and community members to always want to evaluate how well a task is accomplished, such as "A's," "B's" and "C's."

With these facts in mind, I recall the words of an old boss of mine who insisted that it was better to get "D's" in desk organization than "A's"

"D's" in desk organization than "A's."

A person who gets "A's" Accepts all printed matter and Aggregates it on their desk, Aerating it in shuffled and scattered Aged stacks.

A person who gets the more preferred "D" in desk organization learns early to Dump useless information in the waste basket, Delegate other material to people who can deal with it, Delay the processing of materials which can be completed later by placing it in a reminder file, and finally, keeps on their desk only the tasks to Do that day.

If you are wondering what your grade is in desk organization and you don't deserve and "A" or a "D," check the following four grades. If you keep materials stacked on a Bookcase, you get a "B." You get a "C" if you hide your work in the Closet and an "F" if you File it. However, the worst grade is "G" for the person who organizes a desk by putting the mess in his or her "Criefcase" and takes it home every night

Landfill gas may benefit Salem

The Holloway landfill at Six Mile and Napier roads, which currently pays about $36,000 a year into Salem Township's general fund may, in the future, provide yet another source of income for the township.

Not only is it destined to become a ski hill which will be totally owned by the township, the massive landfill may be tapped to produce methane gas at a rate of approximately two million cubic feet a day

"That's a lot of gas," Philip Brandon, Salem Township supervisor, told the board and the audience at its January 6 meeting. He explained that the gas is formed by the decaying process which goes on within the landfill and which must be vented off in some manner.

If the methane production comes to pass, the township stands to receive the standard one-eighth, or 12.4 percent. royalties from the resource in the same manner as do owners of property containing other mineral rights.

Board makes erevisions to agenda

In an attempt to bring order to an ofttimes chaotic procedure the township board of trustees has reordered its agenda structure and created rules for public comment.

Supervisor John MacDonald had promised during his campaign to shorten board meetings, which had often extended until midnight and beyond.

He found his hopes dashed, however, with the adoption of rules calling for frequent (and time-consuming) rollcall votes and extensive public comment on agenda items.

All that may change with the revised structure. Citizen comment is the third item on the new agenda format, following the roll call and pledge to the flag (itself a new item).

Residents who wish to speak at board meetings will be asked to complete identification cards with name and address for board information and

Comment not directed to specific agenda items will be heard as the third agenda item which, the board said, will prevent a problem which occurred in the past when residents had to sit through a three-hour meeting to make a one-minute statement. Statements will be limited to threeminutes in an attempt to move discusalong and avoid time-wasting repetition. Comments on specific agenda items will be heard during board discussision of the item. Resident comments also will be limited to three minutes each in

The board adopted the new procedures by resolution at its January 7

Currently, the township owns about 70 acres of completed landfill in the Six Mile-Napier area where Holloway is still filling and building the hill on another 157 acres. That latter property is held in escrow and will be turned over to the township upon completion of the landfill operation. Holloway would receive the royalties on the 157 acres until it is turned over to the township as a completed landfill, Brandon said.

James Rawson of Getty Synthetic Fuels, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Getty Oil Company of California, had been expected to attend the Tuesday board meeting with a slide presentation explaining the process by which his company would tap the landfill to draw off the gas. Bad weather delayed his arrival until after the board had adjourn-

The board did, however, vote during its regular session to authorize Brandon to set and advertise a public hearing on the proposal as soon as a date could be fixed with Rawson. When Rawson did arrive the public hearing was set for 8 p.m, Tuesday, January 20, at the township hall. The hearing is advertised in this week's South Lyon Herald, official newspaper for publication of Brandon explained that the board does not have authority to enter into a lease agreement on the land owned by the township unless the electorate, after hearing the company's presentation, votes to give them that authority.

Just what Holloway would get out of the methane process other than its share of the royalties has not yet been determined, Brandon explained, adding that the board cannot really enter into discussions with Holloway until it receives permission from the electorate to proceed.

"Holloway is interested in seeing the landfill properly vented for the future and this would provide that venting," Brandon said. "We're fortunate in dealing with a company which carries on a good operation."

If the methane project comes to pass three-foot square holes would be bored into the landfill every 300 feet and plastic pipes inserted to draw off the gas, Brandon explained. He said the pipes would all be connected underground and would carry the gas to the processing plant which would contain a "couple of compressors and two storage tanks.'

The compressors and tanks would be contained in an approximately 150-foot square area. Neither the whole network of pipes, which would be underground, or the plant itself would interfere with either the landfill operation or the future use as a ski hill, according to the Brandon explained that in addition to the methane, a carbon material would be drawn off and used to run the compressors by means of a vacuum.

Getty, which formed its synthetic fuel division in 1973, has been operating a similar reclaimation project in Palos Verdes, California, since 1975, and has recently established a plant in the Chicago area, according to Brandon. "The Palos Verdes plant is right in a very exclusive subdivision and apparently is not objectionable," he add-

"This type of operation is only feasible within a mile of a high-pressure (gas) line," Brandon explained, adding that such a line is located close to the Holloway landfill.

"The cogeneration or production of resources must be used and purchased by the utility companies under the federal government's policy of encouraging recovery of material resources," Brandon said, "So a market for the methane is readily available."

"One of the nice things about methane is that it is odorless and it doesn't contaminate the air," Brandon said. "I look forward to this."

He also explained that the one drawback as far as he could see is the noise from the compressors but he added that, since the landfill occupies such a large area, the plant would be located where it should not cause a problem for

"I've looked into Getty and it is a very large national company-very quality." Brandon said, adding that he had met with representatives of both Getty Oil and Getty Synthetic Fuels in November when they began a preliminary investigation of potentially recoverable gas from the landfill.

The supervisor said he had also sent a copy of the proposed methane lease agreement to Jack Dobson, the township's attorney, for his opinion. 'Dobson said it was the acceptable standard gas lease," Brandon stated.

He also said that the lease would have no bearing on any mineral rights on the property below the landfill and that it provides for the return of rights to the township if the methane process does not prove feasible.

"They'd like to get underway this spring with a goal of going into production in 1983 since it will take quite a while to set up the network of lines," Brandon "There's a possiblity of 20 years productivity for the plant and after the process is completed, the whole thing would be returned to the township."

Brandon declined to say what estimates the Getty people had made on revenue from the plant but he did say it would be "significant" and would be further explained at the public hearing.

He added that, in view of the fact that the township board had to levy an operating millage this year for the first time, he is looking forward to another source of revenue for the township.

Pursell tours Africa on field investigation

Michigan Congressman Carl Pursell returned Saturday from a 12-day trip to Africa with other Appropriations Committee members in a field investigation of U.S. aid programs and defense agreements there.

The delegation, headed by Representative Clarence Long (D-Maryland) visited Morocco, Egypt, Somalia, Kenya, South Africa, Zimbabwe and Pursell, who represents Michigan's Second District, served as ranking Republican congressman in conferences wih foreign officials and U.S. diplomats in the African nations.

Prior to departure he conferred with Michigan Representative William Broomfield (ranking Republican on the House Foreign Affairs Committee), and members of the incoming Reagan administration to gain a better understanding of the new administration's policies in the region. He also had briefings in his office and en route from Appropriations Committee experts on foreign aid and defense expenditure decisions facing the committee.

Pursell also received extensive brief-Afroamerican and African Studies. maintaining world peace.

Leading those discussions was the center's director, world renowned expert on Africa Dr. Ali A. Mazrui.

The United States currently provides appoximately $140 million in direct foreign aid to African nations. Programs include agriculture and rural development, nutrition, populatin, refugee assistance, Food for Peace, technical assistance for energy development and other areas.

Another focus of particular concern to the congressional delegation, Pursell said, are proposed sites for use by U.S. Rapid Deployment Forces.

The Appropriations Committee will be considering money for development of those sites in the upcoming fiscal year 1982 budget.

Before leaving, Pursell said foreign aid policy should not be viewed strictly from U.S. self-interest. A mutual partnership aimed at improving health, education, nutrition, population planning and economic development is the best path to improved relations and long-term U.S. interests, he indicated.

Pursell also expressed his belief that the region from Africa to the Middle East has the greatest potential for inings at the University of Michigan from ternational conflict in the 1980s and specialists in the Center for beyond, making it the key area for

Township signs agreement for road dust treatments

Special police tax nixed, no longer to be considered

Township taxpayers will not have to worry about arbitrary tax increases for police services as a result of board of trustee action January 7. .The board removed from its agenda any further consideration of creating a special assessment district that would allow it to levy up to 10 mills of property tax for police purposes.

The item had been carried on the agenda since last summer, when the idea was first considered.

The special assessment district plan would have to go before the voters only once. If it passed, the board would be authorized to add taxes at a rate coinciding with rising police expenses.

Public hearings would be required before increases, but no further vote would be required and the board could ignore citizen protests of planned increases if it wished to do so The board rejected the idea by removing it from the agenda.

The current 2.5 mill levy for police services is up for renewal this year. Budget hearings which begin in March or April will determine whether the board will simply seek renewal or ask for an increase.

Voters will have to approve renewal or any increase in the police tax rate. Board members said January 7 that they had hoped to save money by "piggybacking" the renewal election on a ballot with school issues, but found that the school and township boundaries differ too much to make the idea feasible.

A special election will have to be called for voter consideration of millage renewal. The police millage makes up the major portion of township taxes.

While snow fell in heaps outdoors the township board of trustees met January 7 and spoke of roads and what to do about them.

The problem they were addressing, however, was not the snow accumulation but the dust raised by cars travelling dry gravel roads during the sum-

Up for consideration was a contract with the county road commission for treatment of those roads to keep the dust down. In the past, these contracts were sent later in the year, but the road commission has adjusted procedures and had requested an earlier approval from local communities.

The county selects a contractor to spread a dust pallaitive (calcium magnesium chloride) on dirt roads and the local community foots the bill for the contractor's work.

The road commission absorbs the costs of administering the program, barricading and scarifying the streets and inspecting the work.

Cost of the contract is dependent on the price offered by the low bidder to the county. A clause permits the township to withdraw from the program if the cost is considered too high.

The township also sets the number of treatments to be applied. In the recent past, two applications have been made over the summer.

Trustee Richard Allen, who lives on a road normally included in the treatments, gave the procedure high marks on past performances.

"It is generally effective, assuming the weather is right," he said. "The first application last year didn't last very long but the second one held out for the rest of the summer.

According to the agreement, the county will let the contract and notify the township, which will either pay the county the money it must pay the contractor or, within 10 days, notify the county it wishes to have none of the bids

Ambler predicts Chrysler survival despite problems guarantee, industrial consultant Richard Ambler of Northville predicts the Chrysler Corporation will survive.

The retire Chrysler executive, speaking to the Northville Kiwanis Club last week, declared that the loan guarantee is the least the government can do for an industry it has helped push to the brink of financial ruin

Labor costs, which are to be peeled back with the latest agreement proposal, are second to governmental restrictions in causing the automotive industry's financial problems, said

"The US Energy Policy probably has been the major cause, particularly when coupled with governmental regulations and social 'do-gooder' programs forced on the industry down prices and discouraged the purchase of fuel efficient cars which were a glut on the market only two years ago '

In January of 1979 a 100-day supply of subcompacts and foreign importants existed, forcing the first rebate plans by Ford, GM and Chrysler, he reminded Kiwanians "We couldn't build enough full size cars, but we had to offer incentives to move the smaller ones. The American public rejected the smaller cars because of the abundance of cheap gasoline imported and subsidized by the government

Then, about the time the rebates began working, "the Shah was run out of Iran and there was a cut off of Iranian crude oil in the spring of '79"

When Chrysler received its initial loan guarantee needed to continue in business, "it came out with a fine fuel efficient new car but ran into terrible trouble when the American public decided it wouldn't buy cars because of high interest rates."

Ambler, who before retirement was principal negotiator of wage and salary matters for Chyrsler and who recently teamed up with another Chyrsler retired executive to form a consulting firm, blamed part of the industry's problem on the prime rate, which he said has had a serious, negative impact on car sales.

"Keep in mind," he pointed out, "the prime interest rate had not exceeded 12 percent for 115 years prior to 1980 when it hit 20 percent twice. Just as car sales

started to improve, the rate jumped from 13 to 20 percent in six weeks. "With interest rates going up and down like a yo-yo, people become uncertain and, expecting them to come down, are reluctant to buy. What's more, the surge in interest rates has increased the federal government's interest cost $7 billion a year.

Needless governmental restrictions. coupled with labor costs, must share major responsibility for today's car prices, he contended, citing three examples of why the American prices keep going up: the "five mile per hour bumper" costs the consumers $800,000,000 a year; high altitude standards must be built into all cars, not just those in high altitudes, thus costing consumers $100 per car; $600 air bags, which require tooling costs of $500,000,000, are being forced onto the public that doesn't want them.

Concerning the loan guarantee, Ambler emphasized that Chrysler management and the managements of other domestic auto companies "believe in the free enterprise system, contrary to what anyone might say. "Loan guarantees such as those approved for Chrysler ($1.5 billion) are not new. Presently outstanding loan guarantees to American business, industry, farmers and others exceed $400 billion. So Chrysler's total authorization amounts to less than one-half of one percent of the total outstanding."

Why should Chrysler be saved? "Chrysler has 140,000 employees, over 4,000 dealers with well over 100,000 employees and 19,000 suppiers with 250,000 employees. Thus about two million people, including dependents, would be severely impacted by failure of Chrysler."

Studies by government agencies and independent study groups estimate the impact of Chrysler liquidation as high as $16 billion, said Ambler. It would increase U.S. unemployment by one-half of one percent, the GNP would decrease by one percent, the balance of payments would be adversely affected, and it would have devastating effects in Detroit, Kokomo and other cities where Chrysler is a major employer, he add-

Other points made by Ambler in his Kiwanis talk:

—The federal government is subsidizing employees displaced because of foreign imports to the tune of $2,000 per car imported from Japan.

-Not only does Japan have a labor cost of about one-half that of the United States and, correspondingly, a standard of living Americans would not accept, but it shows no restraint in disrupting American business. "They work overtime to produce cars to dump in America and, as you know, it is virtually impossible to deliver American cars to Japan due to various restrictions."

-Japan, Germany, France and other countries, which don't have to use their money to defend themselves ("we do that for them"), have programs to assist their major industries. For example, Volkswagon was in serious trouble seven or eight years ago but weathered the storm with direct government assistance. "I don't like it, but let's face it: France owns Renault and Renault, in turn, has majority holdings in AMC.'

-The United States has had a trade deficit every month since 1975, a marked contrast with the previous 50 years. The first quarter 1980 deficit was $13 billion; the same deficit is expected this vear between the United States and Japan on one commodity alone automobiles.

-Productivity increases during the past 10 years have been much greater elsewhere than in the United States. The increase was 107 percent in Japan, 72 percent in France, 70 percent in West Germany, and 27 percent in the United

-Both Lee Iacocca, Chrysler chairman, and Douglas Frazer, UAW president, get high marks. Iacocca is "brilliant, an impressive speaker and motivator" and Frazer is "an intelligent, reasonable labor leader." Having negotiated contracts for Chrysler with Frazer and his two predecessors, Leonard Woodcock and Walter Reuther, Ambler rates Frazer tops, Reuther second and Woodcock a distant third.

-Cost of living is perhaps the single greatest labor noose around the auto in-

-Few corporations have done more than Chrysler in trying to stablilize itself: sliced its labor force, reduced management salaries, and sold off holdings in Australia, Columbia, Argentina, Brazil, France, Venezuela, Spain South Africa, Holland and the United

-The proposed investment tax credit is desperately needed to boost car sales and to shore up the sagging American economy

-Fourteen percent of cars on the road today are Chrysler products: Chrysler has exceeded 12 percent of the market in eight of the past 10 years. -The domestic auto industry will spend $80 billion in seven years to mee.

federal requirements and regulations. -Monetary controls have not licked inflation in Great Britain or Israel.

Third generation quilter tells craft secrets, folklore

By JEAN DAY

"It wasn't until I married that I slept under a blanket — I grew up thinking everyone made quilts," says Susie Braund, a third generation quilter who today uses what she calls "hand-me-down techniques" to make heirlooms for her family.

Last Thursday the Brighton resident and member of Mill Town Questers shared her knowledge and love of quilts with Northville's Baseline Questers at a meeting at the home of Betsy Northrop.

"Like many crafts, patchwork was born out of necessity for early settlers Later it became the folk art we know today," she told her fellow Quester members of the antiques study society.

While most antique lovers now search auctions and house sales for old quilts. they probably won't find any like the star and Crescent pattern quilt in redand-black on white that was made and signed in 1932 — and bought for five dollars at a sale.

That was a few years ago, the quilter admits. Those rounded edges on the crescent pieces are difficult to keep uniform, she points out, warning against trying such a pattern as a beginner. For another reason, she says, the quilt is judged "prime" There are 6 stitches to the inch. The most I can do is 10, but the important thing is not the size but consistency in stitches.

She urges today's quilt makers to be sure to sign and date their work.

Quilts still are made the same way as they were in colonial times, the speaker says, noting that scraps and fabric no longer usable as a garment went into the rag bag to become quilts. She says she doesn't mix new and old materials, however, in the same quilt.

Early quilts were wide and short with ut-outs on the corners, Mrs. Braund shows, as the colonists seldom slept one-to-a-bed and used many pillows, lessening the need for long quilts. The corners were cut to accommodate bed

By the 1800s, she relates, quilts had shrunk to the three-quarter bed size. If an old quilt is wider, it probably was made about 1900 for the double bed familiar today.

County fairs contributed to making the quilt an art form, Mrs. Braund's research shows.

"Quilters created new designs and competed for prizes for workmanship and, since a quilt to be entered had to be made that year, the result was many pattern variations.

"Among the 300 quilt patterns recognized easily are the Log Cabin, Grandmother's Flower Garden, Star of Bethlehem and Jacob's Ladder (both Bible-derived), Union Star and Dolly Madison (political), Tulip and Peony (among the flower patterns) and Bear's Paw (animal-inspired)," she itemizes.

It's possible for a quilt pattern to have two names, the quilter notes, showing a Trip Around the World pattern that could also be called Sunshineand-Shadows because of the shading of the fabrics chosen.

'Patterns, like those for a bride's quilt, were designed for certain occasions," she says, "but you would never make the Drunkard's Path for anyone but the family. It would be questioned

"All bride's quilt patterns have no broken ends with joins fitting perfectly to insure against the marriage break-

Mrs. Braund continues, delving into the folklore of quilts.

Bride's quilt patterns that would be acceptable included, she says, the famous Double Wedding Ring, Crescent Moon (symbolizing virginity) and the Oak Leaf (longevity).

Susie Braund makes her listeners wish there could be a return to the 'good old days" as she talks about quilting bees.

'The quilting bees were a truly American custom, a social time with invitations never turned down. Women would get up from sick bed to attend a

"To receive an invitation meant that your work was of good quality. This was a time of very serious gossiping as women would quilt for a bride-to-be.

'The invitation 'to come quilt Mary Jane's quilts' was the official notification of an engagement. Young girls usually made a baker's dozen tops — 12 for everyday and a bride's quilt.

'They began with a basic running stitch when they were young, graduating to more difficult patterns, but the most difficult, the bride's quilt, was not started until a girl became engaged. It would doom her to spinsterhood to do otherwise."

Quilter Susie Braund shows her handwork to fellow Questers Lynn Paquette and Betsy Northrop

The girls stored the quilt tops until the engagement, Mrs. Braund's research shows; then her parents gave her the quilting bee, supplying the quilt bat and backing as a wedding present.

Parlor quilts, she says, came into being in the Victorian period with finer fabrics used. She owns a Crazy Quilt made by her husband's greattypical, decorative feather-stitching. Quilts may be pieced or appliqued. Some are a combination of both techniques. An alternative to quilting the coverlet, Mrs. Braund suggests, is tying. She shares her grandmother's technique of tying, making a double knot with a needle and simply continuing on to the next knot until the thread is used up. Then the connecting threads are cut to desired length.

Mrs. Braund made a quilt of red and blue bandanas for her sons that she tied. She feels that for this type of quilt machine stitching and tying is right.

Time consuming quilting is reserved for future heirlooms like her green-andwhite Irish Chain, or the brown and beige Sunshine and Shadows.

Mrs. Braund avoids tiring of quilting by working on more than one at a time. "I try to quilt one or two a year — and also make about 10 tied quilts," she

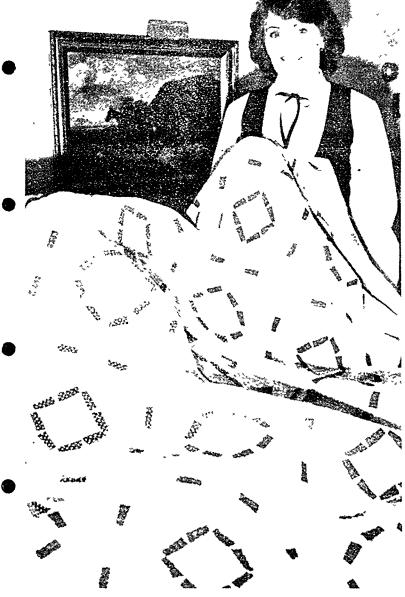

"If you want to make a new quilt look antique," she advises, "use a cotton rather than polyester batting.

"If you don't want to tackle a whole coverlet," she suggests, "try making a block design that can be a pillow, placemat, chair pad or hot pad."

Old quilts are washed by Mrs Braund in her bathtub using mild soap. After soaking she rinses out excess water in the washer and on a nice day places the quilts flat on sheets on the ground to

A family quilt that is Susie Braund's treasure is a tulip design in delicate pink and greens with beautiful, detailed quilting stitches. In one corner, she points out, is a dark green leaf applique that mars the otherwise perfect workmanship.

It was deliberately stitched there, she confides, by her Tennessee grandmother "as an admission that only God should be perfect.

A birthday gift of a piece of pewter from the Dutch Crafts Shop in Salem began a long association for Kathi Jerome and Ali Riddering, the shop's owner. The gift from the man who several years later became her husband— David Jerome - also started a collection of both pewter and delftware.

When the Jeromes built an addition to their home on Bloomcrest recently, they went to the shop on West Six Mile in the center of Salem to buy delft tiles depicting children's games and animals to frame the stove that is being installed in their family room.

This Friday at 1:30 p.m. Mrs. Jerome will introduce Mrs. Riddering who will be speaking on Dutch pewter and delft tiles at a guest day meeting of Northville Woman's Club being held in Mill Race Village New School Church.

pewter," Kathi Jerome reports enthusiastically as she recalls receiving her first pewter piece after she and Dave met while attending a Presbyterian summer conference at Alma College. The gifts and romance continued for seven years, culminating in their marriage.

Ali Riddering will answer questions and suggest ways to use pewter and delft in decorating. For several years now she has selected the delft tiles sold in Colonial Williamsburg.

She met her husband Donald in her native Netherlands when he was there on a Fulbright fellowship. A Detroit school teacher for 25 years, he is head of the foreign language department at Cooley High School. The Ridderings opened the Salem shop when they moved to that community in 1056. They are property of four daughters. in 1956. They are parents of four daughters.

Ali Riddering likes to return to the Netherlands on buying trips every couple of years. She grew up in the little village of Santpoort near Amsterdam and has visited her family often. For the 1976 Bicentennial she had an original delft tile commissioned depicting the first salute to the United States at Fort Oranje on the Dutch island of St. Eustatius. To do so Ali Riddering researched history in the Rex museum in Holland and then went to a factory to have the tiles made and hand-painted.

Town hall committee returns to mansion

It seemed most appropriate that Northville Town Hall committee ended its meeting January 13 by going to lunch at the new White House Manor restaurant at 43180 Nine Mile at Novi Road. It was opening day for the restaurant in the former residence. Almost 20 years ago — in April 1961 — the first official committee meeting for town hall was held there, only then the handsome white mansion was the home of committee member Marie Crusoe.

The original group of women from Our Lady of Victory Church included Fran Mattison, only member still actively serving on the committee. It was she who recalled last week planning the first series that opened with John Mason Brown and included Bennett Cerf. Mrs. Mattison served as

At her suggestion the committee for the town hall, now in the midst of its 20th year, lunched at the restaurant. Members added their praise to that of other local residents dining there opening week. There's admiration for the way the owners have retained the original architectural features of the home, including the magnificent stairway to the second floor where former bedrooms are dining rooms with outstanding wallpaper and other decoration.

While Mrs. Mattison wasn't able to join the lunch group, she did report at the meeting that, in her current post as chairman of the board of awards, she would like to begin receiving applications from local charities for grants or renewal of present ones. Town hall, since a successful beginning, has shared its profits with community charities. Any organization wishing funding is asked to write the board of its needs. The current season opened with Marlo Thomas. Economist Frank Cappiello will be the next speaker March

Think spring, think fashion shows

Country Girls Garden Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association is making plans to repeat last year's successful fashion show-salad luncheon. Again this year the women promise 100 salads for the March 14 event at First Methodist Church. Members under chairmanship of Mary Ann Batzka will model fashions to benefit scholarship and civic projects of the branch. Last year's successful civic undertaking — the Garden of the Month awards — will be repeated, they promise.

Tickets at $5 will be available from members or the chairman. Westchester Square dress and hair fashions will be featured.

Reagan inauguration brought out ball gowns

Washington, D.C., shops were filled with ball gowns in anticipation of the inauguration festivities last week-end, Ruth Klein reports on returning from a January visit. She watched bleachers being installed along the parade route while her husband Leonard attended a meeting of the National Highway Research Board in the capital.

Mrs. Klein was home in time for the January meeting Thursday of Baseline Questers at the home of Betsy Northrop. President Eileen Sonk told the membership that a former member, Jeanne Langtry, now a member of Fox Creek Chapter in New Baltimore, is nominated as first vice president for the state Questers organization.

BRUSHING A MATTER OF DEGREE

Q. What is the best way for me to brush my teeth?

A. Most dentists recommend using a soft bristle brush, and starting at right angles to the gums while using a massaging motion that comes down over the tooth. Also be sure to brush the biting surfaces. If you can, brushing after meals is best. However, brushing is only one part of oral hygiene. It is most effective in combination with the correct use of dental floss, stimulators, disclosing tablets and water spray devices. Your them the "brush-off."

Invitation to keep

Commemorative invitation to the inaugural ceremonies of President Ronald Reagan was sent to Northville Township Clerk Susan Heintz, among a handful of other local persons. Heintz was the only township officer to receive one of the honorary invitations, a fact she attributes to engaging in more extensive political activity than did other officials.

Films for kids scheduled

The madcap adventures of "Dr. Suess on the Loose," featuring the Sneeches, will be shown at 10 a.m. Saturday in the Northville Public Library meeting room

Musical opens Friday at Bonstelle

"Mack and Mabel," a musical lovestory by Michael Stewart and Jerry Herman, and a Black Theatre Produc-"Wine in the Wilderness," are about to open at Wayne State Universi-

Curtain goes up Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. and on Sunday at 2 p.m. through February 1 in the Bonstelle Theatre for "Mack," while the opening for "Wine" is slated January 28 at the Hilberry Theatre on the WSU campus

"Wine in the Wilderness" will continue, at 8:30 p.m., on January through 31 and February 4 through 7, with one matinee scheduled February 5 at 4:30.

The "Mack" story, billed as "the musical romance of Mack Sennett's funny and fabulous Hollywood," traces the careers of Mack Sennett, legendary director of comedy, and his greatest star, Mabel Normand. Sennett is best known for creating the Keystone Cops and discovering Charlie Chaplin.

Hollywood during the silent film era is the setting for the production, which includes such musical numbers as 'Movies were Movies" and "Tap Your Troubles Away.

'Mack and Mabel" first opened October 6, 1974, at the Majestic Theater in New York City. Starring in the production were Robert Preston as Mack and Bernadette Peters as Mable.

The show was directed and choreographed by Gower Champion. Clive Barnes in the New York Times praised the play for its "Tuneful music" and called it "a splashy musical." The Associted Press rated it as a "delightful, affectionate and tuneful salute to the era of silent movies."

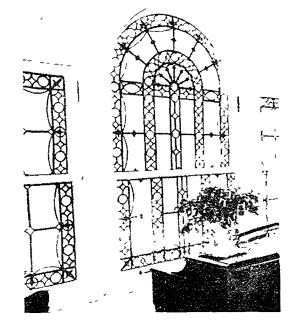

"Mack and Mabel" is directed by Russell Smith, with costumes by Marilyn Renaud, settings by Jules Tonus, and lighting by Marc Riske.

Heading the cast is Kevin McGee (Livonia) as Mack Sennett, Sheri Akey (Livonia) as Mabel Normand, Deborah Barwinski (Dearborn Heights) as Lottie and Bob Lambert (Detroit) as Frank Wyman.

"Wine in the Wilderness" was first presented by Television Station WGBH in Boston in 1969. As the first play in the series "On Being Black," Author Alice Childress explores the meaning of black womanhood. The play is set in a Harlem tenement during the disturbances of the summer of 1964.

A young artist, Bill Jameson, is painting a triptych called "Wine in the Wilderness;" three canvases on black womanhood. Two have been completed, one entitled "Black Girlhood" and the second the "African Queen." The un-finished third is of the black woman as

Ballot law up to supreme court

Live and Let Live

Come on, frog, out you go, I don't think you'll like it when I mow;

Alright, rabbits, leave my yard, Can't you see the fence, it's high and hard; '

Seasons

Hey, Caterpillar, off that flower.

Time to go, snake — SNAKE?

(O.K., you can stay).

Or I can kill you, I have the power;

By WARREN HOYT

The state supreme court has been urged to declare unconstitutional the state's political party ballot access law as being unfair to small political par-

It is argued that the 1976 law, which a lawyer said was enacted because state officials were fearful that too many parties would clutter the ballot, should not be maintained because those fears were groundless and previous ballot access requirements are adequate to keep frivolous parties off the ballot.

Robert Derengoski, the state solicitor general, argued the law was not preventing small parties from getting on the ballot. All those parties had to do was get a "measley" showing of support, he declared.

The case (Socialist Workers Party vs. Secretary of State) was filed last sum-

In 1976, the year the law was enacted, it was upheld by a federal district court and subsequently approved by the U.S. Supreme Court. When the case was filed, the circuit court said it could not overrule the U.S. Supreme Court.

Under the law, a party without a regular spot on the ballot can get one only by first petitioning for a place on the August primary ballot and by then reaching a benchmark of support in the primary election.

The petition must carry signatures equal to one percent of the votes cast for the current secretary of state and parties must get at least 3/10 of one percent of all votes cast in the primary to secure a spot on the November ballot. Affected by the provisions are parties not guaranteed November ballot status due to votes received in past general elections.

Derengoski said the requirements equalled a "measley three votes out of a thousand" to assure small parties a place on the November ballot.

In close questioning by justices, Derengoski admitted, however, "I am not enamored by this proposal. I just say I don't think it's unconstitutional."

The law does not prevent small parties from getting on the ballot, Deregoski said.

Ronald Reosti, attorney for the Socialist Workers Party, said the law's mechanics prevented people, interested in voting for candidates in other parties, from voting for the small parties.

Hence the parties must seek out party regulars to keep a place on the ballot, he said, and it creates a form of party registration.

The public may want the right to consider small parties, even if they do not vote for them, he said. Small parties can provide options and arguments the large parties do not, he added.

Reostic said there was no reason for the law to remain because the threatened explosion of small parties never materialized. And previous petitioning requirements always succeeded in preventing frivolous parties from getting on the ballot.

Mental Health Officials are still reviewing ways to achieve their goal of laying off at least 1,500 employees after a threatened loss of federal funds forced a major revision of earlier plans for layoffs at institutions for retarded persons.

Thomas DeLoach, a department spokesman, said the final decision may not be made immediately, but may be made at month-end reviews of department staff.

The goal, he said, is still to reduce the total department work force by 10 percent, or 1,500 persons.

HARVESTS

The beauty of tomorrow Grows in seeds we plant today. We then can reap a harvest From the fields along the way.

We originate displeasures By our attitudes toward life When our seeds are mostly measured By imaginary strife.

Even when the road is long, There is beauty, heard and seen In sky and earth and robin's song In our everyday routine.

ROBERT SKELLENGER

HOWARD CHANTER

HOWARD F. CHANTER of Holly has been named the new chief park ranger at Kensington Metropark near Milford, succeeding Robert L. Skellenger of Novi, who retired after 25 years service.

For the past 10 years, Chanter has been a lieutenant in charge of the Road Patrol Services with the Oakland County Safety Department.

Graduated from Holly High School, he was with the United States Air Force from 1965 through 1969. He has been active with the Michigan Law Enforcement Officers Training Council, where he was a police instructor and also taught courses on physical management and self defense.

Skellenger's early association at the park came as a scout leader and getting to know several persons on the ranger staff. At that time Skellenger and his father operated an aluminum shop in Novi, but he enjoyed the outdoors and meeting the public and first took a part-time job at Kensington in 1953.

Skellenger was appointed chief park ranger on January 1, 1955. Since then he watched the park expand its use from 1.4 million to over 2.6 million persons — and saw the addition of many new facilities.

"I believe the early park visitors were more aware of nature, while perhaps the urbanized visitor needs more information on how to use various park areas," said Skellenger, before retiring December 31 at age 60

Skellenger's duties included the supervision of the day to day operations of the ranger staff, with responsibility for the maintenance of a safe and enjoyable park for the public, providing permits for special activities, supervise employee safety programs, fire fighting techniques and park safety procedures.

The department employs 19 persons, including full-time, part-time year-around and seasonal workers.

Skellenger, who plans to continue outdoor activities of camping, fishing and hiking in retirement, has been active in several professional organizations, including being a board member of the Michigan-Ontario Juvenile Officer Association, the Inter-Lake Police Chief Association, Novi Fireman's Association, the Oakland County Medical Service and disaster Control Committee and the Michigan Chapter, International Assocaton of Arson Investigators.

•••• - RICHARD J. DeLAMIELLEURE has joined the corporate staff of Guardian Industries Corporation as Corporate Counsel and Assistant Secretary.

DeLamielleure received a Jurist Doctorate degree with distinction from the University of Michigan Law School in 1964. He also holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Michigan awarded in 1961.

Most recently, DeLamielleure was employed as Group Counsel for NL Industries, Inc., a manufacturer of petroleum, metal and chemical equipment. Previously, he was employed as Assistant General Counsel for Monroe Auto Equipment.

Guardian Industries is a leading manufacturer and fabricator of flat glass products used in construction and, to a lesser extent, automotive applications. Other building products manufactured by the company are fiberglass and mineral wool insulation. Guardian also services the amateur photography market through a nationwide network of 13 photo processing facilities.

STARR ADVERTISING, Incorporated, of Northville announces - that it has retained Frank J. Lipford as an independent marketing consultant effective immediately. Because of the agency's growing commitment to the automotive, industrial and heavy-duty aftermarket areas, the firm states it feels that Lipford's experience and expertise will add an extra dimension to the total strategic marketing services and communication planning it offers.

Lipford's most recent position was that of vice president-general manager at NAPA, the nation's largest automotive aftermarket parts programmmed distribution group. Prior experience also includes 17 years with Monroe Auto Equipment as vice president-sales manager.

Hank Starr, agency president, indicated that business development will begin immediately in areas where this affiliation will be most advantageous when addressing such critical issues as total distribution awareness and "defined market" advertising. In a special meeting for this announcement for January 15, Starr related, "This arrangement is one of many innovations tha has helped establish Starr Advertising as an agency offering a unique balance of solid marketing approaches and street-wise communications.

"Even without the economic climate we're in today, manufacturers are facing an ever-increasing level of sophisticated marketing problems that we of the service industry must overcome," stated Lipford. "Simple answers are not always totally identifiable at the communications level nor at the marketing level. It's going to require associations such as this to achieve real growth in the '80s."

"THE GREAT GETAWAY" fashion show with a travel theme will be presented at Twelve Oaks Mall on Saturday, January 31, at 1 and 4

The best-looking clothes for vacations and home, from sunny shores to snowy slopes, will be featured in the show. Nifty swimsuits, practical parkas, snappy sunglasses and goggles, pretty packables, racy raincoats and terrific travel agendas will insure a wonderful trip for shoppers as they are taken on an imaginary trip to London via the show

A lucky shopper will win a free trip to London during the show via Pan American Airlines with accommodations provided courtesy of Northyille Travel Plans.

Twelve Oaks Mall is open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Sunday from noon to 5 p.m.

JAMES STODDART has been named HVAC engineer for Twelve Oaks regional retail development in Novi. The appointment was announced by Robert C. Larson, president of The Taubman Company, Inc., developer and leasing/management agent of Twelve Oaks.

In this capacity, Stoddart will be responsible for the daily operation and maintenance of the 1.232 million square foot facility's mechanical and lighting systems, as well as related engineering matters.

Stoddart is a three-year veteran of the U.S. Army, having been stationed in California, Colorado and West Germany. He lives in Redford and is a part-time student at Schoolcraft College, majoring in climate control

Twelve Oaks features the merchandise selection of four major stores — Hudson's, Lord & Taylor, JCPenney and Sears — as well as a distinctive mix of specialty shops and services.

HAROLD HYLAND of Novi ranked fifth nationally among all Lutheran Brotherhood district representatives during December.

This achievement was based on the amount of life and health insurance protection and mutual fund investments he provided Lutherans in his area. Approximately 1,000 representatives are associated with the Minneapolis-based fraternal insurance society nationally Hyland is a member of the Karl Mueller Agency, headquartered in Rochester. He joined Lutheran Brotherhood in 1975.

Mustang cagers conquer Mott, remain unbeaten in Western Six

By KEN KOVACS

With half the season behind them, the Mustang cage crew couldn't be in a better

Currently alone atop the Western Six Conference with a 4-0 mark, following a 61-56 league win over Waterford Mott Friday night and a 68-53 win over an undermanned Clarenceville team earlier in the week, Northville boasts a 9-1 record overall.

The number one nemisis last season serious injuries — has stayed away from Tim Lutes' players, thus far.

Early season wins over Farmington Harrison and Plymouth Canton have given Lutes and his players the needed confidence which could carry them to the league title.

Harrison, which suffered its lone setback at the hands of the Mustangs, currently is in second place in the Western Six at 3-1.

Canton — which suffered a one-point defeat at the hands of Harrison Friday — is tied with Livonia Churchill (both have 2-2 marks) for

Rounding out the league are Waterford Mott at 1-3 and Walled Lake Western, which has not won a conference contest in four

The Mustangs, paced by center Dave Ward (who collected 19 points and 15 caroms in the contest), posted a 22-14 lead after the first quarter against Mott.

But Northville had its problems in the second period when the big man (6-foot-7) got his third personal foul and Lutes pulled the talented center.

Mott took advantage of Ward's absence, cutting Northville's lead to four at the half, 34-30, and kept it close throughout the third period which ended with a 47-44 Mustang ad-

But Northville held its opponents to 12 points in the final quarter, scoring 14 of its own to clinch the win.

Point guard Dave Greer added 13 points for the Mustangs and was credited with eight assists and as many steals.

Senior forward Todd Jennings also had a commendable performance, netting 12 points and muscling in for eight rebounds.

The Mustang reserves, who have contributed nearly 15 points per game this season, were up to their usual performance bench to score eight points and grab a pair of rebounds while Ward sat by and watched.

A former starter turned reserve, forward Greg May, also sparked the Northville offense collecting five points and four caroms before fouling out.

Rounding out the scoring for the Mustangs was starter Tim Wagner, who collected four points and pulled down three rebounds at his forward post.

The fifth starter for the Mustangs, guard Tim McLaughlin did not score, but hauled in two errant shots. He also was credited with two steals and a pair of assists.

The depth of the Northville squad this year was clearly demonstrated in the victory over Clarenceville Tuesday.

The Mustangs, led by Greer's 16 points, displayed a balanced scoring attack and walked away with the win despite Ward's poorest performance of the season.

The lanky leaper netted only 10 points and grabbed one less rebound.

"They played a sagging zone defense in an effort to stop Ward," Lutes explained. "But he just didn't play very well.

Gymnasts post three wins, still unbeaten

By KEN KOVACS

Though the competition has gotten tougher each week, the Northville High School gymnastics team has risen to the challenge in each contest and remains unbeaten.

The Mustang gymnasts scored their third win in as many outings Thursday, edging Southfield Lathrup, 88.85-85.55. And they managed to pull out the victory without the services of Anita Hodge, one of the Mustangs' top four performers.

'It was good to see that we could maintain our poise and win with one of our top scorers out," coach Jack Townsley said. "This is one of the luxuries we have this year.' Northville won all four events, but none by more than two points. Lathrup's Susan Bennett took first place in the vaulting com-

Stephens, who was suffering torn skin on her palms, still managed to finish sixth with a score of 6.1 to sew up the event for Northville.

After two events the Mustangs led by a mere 1.7 points. Stephens went on to tie for first place on the balance beam, scor-

So when the flu kept him out of school and practice Thursday, coach Omar Harrison knew his cagers would have a rough time against Mott Friday.

John Foley led the junior varsity Mustangs in both games, scoring 23 points against Clarenceville and pumping in 20 in a losing effort Friday.

Paul Havala tried to fill Hendra's shoes against Mott and did a fair job, claiming five rebounds.

Third-string center Bob Foster also got some playing time and his performance brought praise from Har-

"But these guys have adjusted very well, which I think indicates the type of individuals they are. There has been no complaining or change in attitude. They give 100 percent of themselves and are fine examples of what team effort is all about.'

Another senior, Gary Kucher, plays a similar role for the Mustang cage

A starter at various times last season, Kucher, a good ball-handler and excellent passer, ignites the team when he gets the call.

Though he has not scored much this season, the 5-foot-4 guard has 15 assists and numerous steals.

Another senior who has come off the bench to help the Mustangs a great deal is forward Duke Dusablon, the second leading scoring behind center Dave Ward in 1979-80.

Sidelined with knee injuries half of last season and the first few games this year, Dusablon has been working back into shape and has begun to show signs of his old self.

The all-around performer scored eights points — on three field goals and a pair of free throws - in the Mustangs' 61-56 win over league competitor Waterford Mott Friday.

"Duke gives us an extra dimension," Lutes stated. "He is such a force by himself he gives us something we don't otherwise have.'

Though Dusablon has a ways to go, Lutes said it is possible that he could work his way back to a starting position before too long.

Four juniors round out the Mustang squad, and each is valuable in his own way, Lutes said.

Dough Eaker a 6-foot-3 backup center was slated to be the seventh or eight man this year, but has not played up to

He averaged in double figures in both scoring and rebounding for the junior varsity Mustangs last year and has the potential to become a valuable member of the team.

Three other juniors - Steve Handley, Dave Malinowski and Rod Kurzawa also have shown spurts of talent throughout the season. Handley came off the bench to spark the Northville team in its early season win over Canton, scoring six points and hauling in five rebounds. The hustling forward also pulled down seven rebounds and collected two steals, while scoring two points in Northville's recent trouncing of Clarenceville. Malinowski, a reserve guard, tallied eight points in the Clarenceville game and claimed a pair of assists. And Kurzawa also contributed eight points and grabbed three caroms in

"Rod is a real hard worker," Lutes praised. "And he seems to have that rare talent of being at the right place at the right time. "I think he's going to be a good ball player for us next year."

If the Mustang cagers can continue their winning ways and clinch the Western Six title, a great deal of the credit must go to the guys who normally don't get the glory.

NHS spikers split

It was a sweet victory for coach Steve ed a starting spot for the Harrison McDonald, particularly since it came following a disappointing loss earlier in the week.

The Northville High School volleyball coach was quite upset when his girls had a mental lapse in the third game against Plymouth Canton Monday, January 12 and bowed 15-8.

The Chiefs bested the Mustangs 15-10 in the first game, while Northville took the second contest, 15-6.

So when McDonald's spikers rebounded Wednesday to claim their first win against a Western Six Conference team (a two-game sweep of Farmington Harrison), McDonald naturally was quite pleased.

"We played well against Canton, but had a letdown in the third game," he said. "There were some bright spots now that I look back at it.'

Lori Mitchell, a setter who scored on nine of 10 serves and 11 of 12 hits, was one of the bright spots.

Another was Kim Maguire who had 20 hits, 18 of which were good and Stacy Hoover who produced 11 good hits in 12 attempts.

Tammy Chew also played well, scoring on 10 of 13 hits.
"We had some breakdowns in serve returns," McDonald explained. "And we had five bad serves, four in the third and the match. "The girls played well when they had to," McDonald said. "I thought they played better against Canton, but when they needed it they came through against Harrison." Maguire again paced the Northville spikers, scoring on 12 of 13 serves and 16 of 17 hits. Irwin also performed well, claiming 10 good serves of 11 attemts and scoring on nine of 12 hits.

Chew also continued her steady play in both the front and back courts. Geri Grzena scored five points on six serves, all of which were good. McDonald also praised the consistent play of setters Diane Hrubiak and Lori litchell.

The pair has collected 48 good sets in 53 attempts.

Though Canton led almost the entire meet, beginning with a win in the 200yard medley relay, Northville kept fighting back and gained a 12-12 tie after three events.

Char Ramsey won the 200-yard free style with a time of 1:58.5 and Tony Nader followed with a win in the 200yard individual medley in the next event.

Now it's Rob Sharpe's turn.

The Milford scoring ace, who began the current cage season at the Top of the Key, now finds himself back in the number one position following last week's action. Sharpe and Northville's Dave Ward have been jockeying for the top spot all winter long.

A further look at this week's top 10 shows that another player from Milford Lakeland's John Lang — has crept from nowhere into the seventh slot. Lang had just barely failed to make the top 10 the previous week.

In addition, three Walled Lake players had a good time of it — at least scoring-wise. Walled Lake Central's Erin Hill moved up a notch to the number three spot, and teammate Tom Nicklin inched into the number 10 position as the Vikings split their two games.

Meanwhile, at Walled Lake Western, Mike Xenos contributed a couple of 18point outings to quietly move into the number five hole. Xenos has been the only consistent scorer on a team that presently stands 1-8.

Wrestlers grapple with injuries, lack of personnel

By KEN KOVACS

As the old saying goes "people need people.' And nobody needs people as badly as Gary Emerson, Northville High wrestling coach

"We just don't have enough bodies," the frustrated veteran coach said recently after his grapplers had lost four more matches.

"When you start the match by voiding at three or four spots you are 18 or 24 points down before you even begin wrestling," he stated "It's tough to win in that situation '

As a result of injuries (four Northville matmen still remain sidelined) and a lack of personnel, the Mustang grapplers voided at least three weight classes in each of their respective losses to North Farmington, Howell and Harrison and finished last in a tournament at Clio.

Northville started out 18 points in the hole against both Howell and Farmington in a three-way meet January 13 voiding at 98, 132 and 198 pounds. The first loss was a 46-15 trouncing by

Neil Hartshorne, R.S. Wolfgram, and Frank Nieto were pinned at 105, 112 and 119 pounds, respectively, while Greg Marshall lost a heartbreaker, 5-4, at 126

Jack Wallace pinned his man at 138 pounds, Brian Shake got pinned at 145 and Brian Hamilton posted a 6-4 victory

At 167 Dan Sackllach was beaten 11-0, while Neil Young was trimmed 5-3 and heavyweight Vince Candela, one of the Mustangs' few consistent winners, pinned his opponent.

Things didn't get much better in the next match as Howell came out on top, Hartshorne, Wolfgram, Nieto and Marshall suffered losses by falls before Wallace claimed the first match win for Northville - a 7-6 victory.

Shake was pinned at 147, as was Hamilton at 155.

Young was handed a 6-2 defeat.

The Mustangs could not produce wrestlers in four weight classes against Harrison Thursday, and suffered a 54-

Hartshorne lost 9-6 at 105 pounds, Dan Bergstrum was pinned at 119, Marshall dropped a close match 7-4 and Bromley Kelly suffered a fall at 132.

Wallace pinned his opponent at 138, Neil FitzPatrick lost 9-1 and Sackllach scored a pin at 167.

Young lost 10-1 and Candela won the heavyweight match on a void.

"Injuries have been the story of the season for us," Emerson said "Some of these kids should be wrestling at the junior varsity level, but we have to use them because of all the missing people.

'When we get injuries, someone fails to make weight or we get four or five kids out with the flu these first year wrestlers are thrown into the Lions'

The Mustangs' final setback last week came in an eight-team tournament at Clio Saturday.

"Once again we just didn't have enough ponies to run," Emerson said. Candela, who now boasts a 20-5 record, won his first match on a bye.

He pinned his opponent in the second match and lost a 3-0 decision in the Emerson said he has high hopes for the junior heavyweight.

'He has a good chance of becoming the best heavyweight Northville has ever had," the coach predicted. "He just has to get hungry enough to want to Hartshorne pinned his first opponent at 105, then lost his second match to the first seed, Craig Raschel of Hartland,
