Six-hour day curbs NHS vandals, but 213 dropped for absences

Vandalism at Northville High School has been "cut down considerably" since the implementation of the six-hour day this fall, NHS Principal George Aune told the board of education Monday.

In a report to the board, Aune stated that the high school has met its purpose in implementing the six-hour day — to remove the amount of unassigned time for students.

He said that since the inception of the six-hour day, student hall traffic, loitering and consequently classroom disruptions has decreased considerably from last year.

However, Aune also mentioned in his report that the high school staff "appears to be somewhat split in their perceptions" of its success.

Some of the staff concerns include a shift in preparation time and the lessening of available casual contact time between students and staff during the day.

Another concern has been student schedule conflicts. Aune said that "schedule conflicts will have to be worked on," but added that student reaction has been "minimal."

However, though student hall traffic and loitering may have decreased from last year, there were still a number of uncommitted students with free time last semester.

In an attendance report presented to the board at its meeting at Wirchester Elementary School, NHS Assistant Principal Barbara Campbell reported that 213 students — approximately 13 percent — were dropped from classes first semester because of poor attendance.

Though the figure appears high, Campbell said the attendance record is a definite improvement over last year when approximately 16 percent of the students were dropped for attendance reasons.

She said the improvement is due mostly to the attendance policy implemented at the high school last year.

Though the attendance policy has been criticized by some students and parents as being too strict, Campbell said she feels it is fair.

"We operate on the basis that if a student is well, we expect him to be in class," she said.

Under the policy, students who have two unexcused absences are referred to Dr. Campbell, who issues them a warning. Four unexcused absences result in a drop from the course.

However, Campbell emphasized that students who have excused absences, such as illness or other personal reasons, are only referred if there are more than six absences and are not dropped if all absences are excused.

However, problems can arise when a student has accumulated two unexcused absences and six excused. In this situation, the student is usually dropped from the class.

"If a student skips class twice and then comes down with the Bangkok flu — that's just too bad," Campbell said.

Campbell said the majority of students dropped from courses are in the 10th grade.

"Some hard knocks are learned at the 10th grade level," she said.

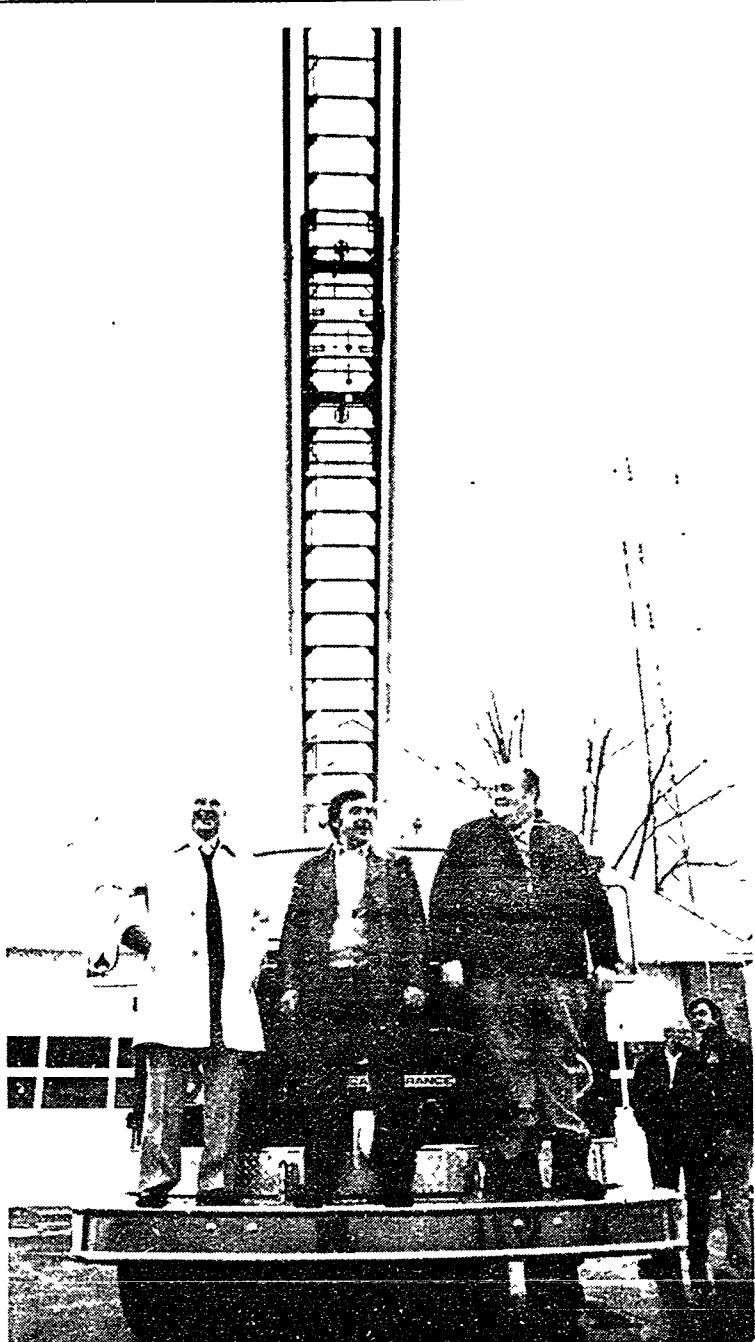

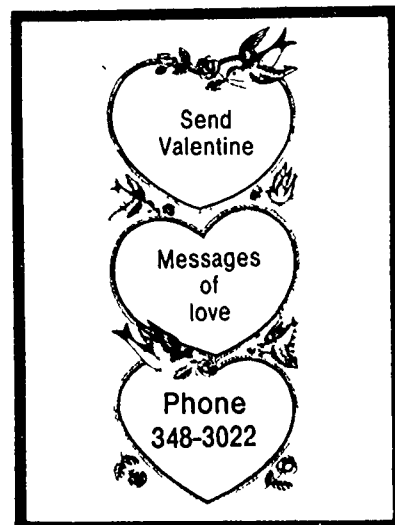

She added that "students with attendance difficulties first semester very rarely have those same difficulties second semester."

Yet, the problem of dropping students from courses results in a large majority of those students having uncommitted time on their hands.

Campbell said schedules are sometimes shuffled to help students occupy their free time but added that "the best we have to offer the dropped student is counseling and support."

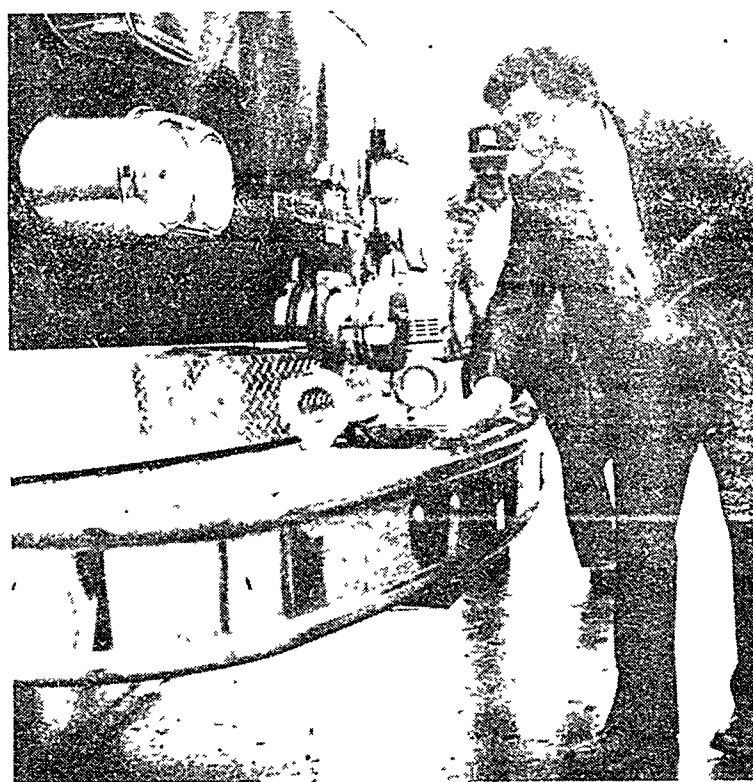

Students dropped from classes have

Library budget slash less than county first expected

What first appeared to be calamitous news for the Northville Public Library has become a minor irritant due to a change of heart in Lansing.

State budgets had indicated a 45 percent cut in state support to local libraries was on its way, but revisions made in early January resulted in a more palatable 13.3 percent reduction.

"The earlier proposals were a very, very drastic 45 percent cut that would have done considerable harm to library acquisitions," Leo Dinnan, director of the Wayne-Oakland Library Federation said. "The question was raised as to the equitability of that, and the reductions were changed to a figure more proportionate to those made in other services."

The Northville Library is a member of the Wayne-Oakland Federated Library System, which consolidates services to many local libraries and spreads the costs of major programs.

"The impact of the budget reduction to the Northville Library is probably minimal," Dinnan said. "Only about five percent of the Northville Library's budget is directly from state aid. When you're talking about a reduction of 13 percent from five percent of the budget you're not going to see a big impact."

The cuts will hurt, however, he explained. The federation is cutting its own costs administratively to absorb some of the reduction. It plans to cut as little as possible from its support of local libraries.

As an example of the impact, Dinnan noted that the federation has ceased all purchases of 16-millimeter films, which tour the libraries.

"We can do that for one year, put off our purchases and live off our inventory, so to speak," the director said. "We can let it coast one year, but if it continues it will force other cuts and deplete the program."

Outside of the loss of some service from the federation, such as the lack of new films, the Northville Library will not be hurt substantially, he said.

Book and magazine purchases may be reduced somewhat from the levels planned, but it is too early to predict, Dinnan said.

"Locally, you probably won't see any reductions in acquisitions directly from the state aid cut," he said, "but through the combination of state aid cuts and inflation, there may have to be some trimming back."

The library serves both the city and township, and both local governments support the venture. When the it looked as though budget cuts were going to be severe, it was thought the governments would be asked to increase their support.

That may still happen, but the gap they would be asked to fill may be more manageable. Both city and township, however, are hard-pressed financially.

City Manager Steve Walters explained that his concerns had been somewhat relieved.

"It turned out not to be as serious as we feared," Walters said. "They're losing not $4,000 but $1,500 and I understand they will absorb that through adjustments in their book-buying."

It will be further into the year before the library will be certain it can weather the storm, but for now, library-lovers everywhere are breathing sighs of relief.

Two injured in Novi Road crash

The driver and passenger of a 1973 Chevrolet pickup truck suffered serious injuries Friday evening when their vehicle went off the road and struck a Detroit Edison pole, city police reported.

The driver, Michael E. Nissen, 26, of Caro, and Douglas Fleming, 24, of Ypsilanti were taken to Botsford Hospital for treatment.

Police said the truck, traveling northbound on Novi Road just north of Eight Mile, went out of control, crossed the median and struck a pole on the east side of the highway.

The city fire department was summoned when police noticed gas leaking from the damaged vehicle, but no fire resulted.

A major portion of the city was without power just after the truck hit the pole, police said, but it was restored within minutes in most areas.

Police said no citation was issued, pending further investigation.

They have been unable to question Nissen, who reportedly was trapped in the vehicle temporarily.

Nissen suffered incapacitating injuries, according to police, while Fleming, though seriously injured, was treated and released from the hospital.

Police said they have not determined what caused the driver to lose control of his vehicle.

Council discusses Mill Race fees

While taking note of the "tremendous work and number of hours" contributed by members of Northville Historical Society to the Mill Race, Historical Village, Northville City Council at its January 19 meeting expressed concern about fees and administration of the buildings.

Council members wondered if the city should not have a voice in village financial affairs after Mayor Paul Vernon reported that he was surprised to find earlier this month that the fee for the use of the New School Church in the village for a wedding was $100.

Fees for the use of the building are set by the historical society board although the village is owned by the city.

Until a raise by the board last fall, the fee for using the New School Church for an hour-and-a-half had been $60 with an additional $50 charged for a second hour-and-a-half.

Historical society president Robert Daniel confirmed the new rate structure Tuesday, stressing it had been a board decision.

The new rate is a minimum of $100, covering the first hour-and-a-half. Each additional hour-and-a-half is $60.

The church is the only building available for public use in the village. The weavers' cottage is used by Mill Race Weavers' Guild for its meetings with that group responsible for its renovation and maintenance.

Mayor Vernon also reported to council that there had been criticism of the use of Yerkes House by other than the historical society which holds its annual Christmas party in the home.

The particular instance, he said, was the opening of the home for a reception for visiting women Egyptian dignitaries.

While expressing great appreciation for the volunteer work that has gone into restoration of the village buildings, the council noted that the city carries insurance to protect it and legally owns the land and buildings.

City Manager Steve Walters said that city taxpayers' money is used for maintenance and that funds had been appropriated for street lighting and other improvements there. The city realizes it is an attractive asset to the community through efforts of both city and township residents, the council concurred.

Vernon recalled that the property was given to the city by Ford Motor Company as a site for the historical village.

The awareness of present charges came, Vernon reported to council, when he suggested to a couple who asked him to marry them that the ceremony be held in the New School Church in the village. They returned to say they did not wish that much expense.

The $100 fee seemed high to Vernon, too, he said. After discussion with the society, the fee for a simple ceremony was reduced, at the society's last board meeting, he reported, to $35.

The $35 fee, he said, is to be for use of the building for not more than an hour, providing the ceremony is attended by not more than 10 people.

Some local organizations, such as the Northville Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, have not been charged rent for use of the building if they are significant con-

Stuart Oil factory closed, operation moved to Ohio

D.A. Stuart Oil Company, a handful of industrial concerns operating in Northville in recent years, has closed the doors of its local plant and moved the operation to Ohio.

A company spokesman in Chicago said the plant, which employed five people, was closed in November and is now up for sale.

"We bought another factory in Columbus, Ohio and we feel we can penetrate that market (southeast Michigan) from Columbus," the spokesman said. "We would like to sell the Northville plant, if we can."

The factory, at 175 Railroad in the industrial park, was built in 1947 with the founding of Mergraf Oil Company, and produced industrial oils for the auto industry. It was later sold to the Stuart firm, which has headquarters in Chicago.

Part of the production operation was reclamation of used oil. The plant has expanded from its original configuration and some of the storage tanks appear to be in like-new condition. The refining and storage tanks are visible from Northville Road where it meets Main Street near the Ford valve plant.

The factory made news recently as the suspected source of oil which spilled into Waterford Pond, causing problems for water fowl migrating south last fall.

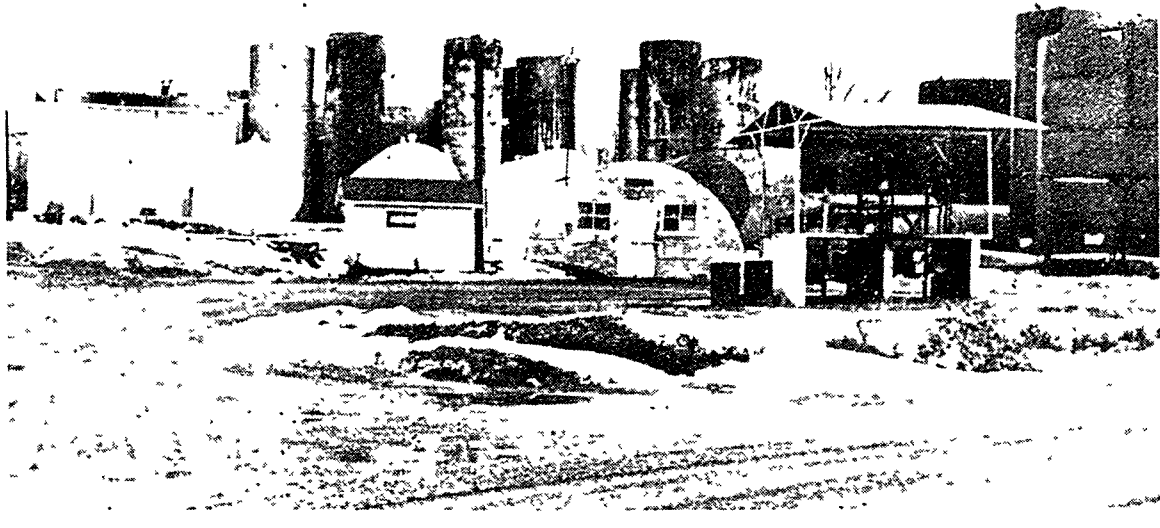

The spill, which occurred over the weekend of September 26, was blamed, by Stuart Oil manager Glenn Doyle, on vandals releasing 500 gallons of waste oil from a storage tank. Doyle filed a police report the following Tuesday.

The Department of Natural Resources investigated the incident and reported to the state attorney general in December that it had evidence it thought provided sufficient grounds for criminal prosecution.

Robert Hutchinson, inspector with the DNR's environmental enforcement division, said Monday no decision on prosecution had been made by the attorney general as of that morning. The DNR is not releasing the identity of its suspect.

The Stuart Oil spokesman said the closing of the plant was not related to pending legal action and was based solely on business considerations.

The Ohio plant is newer and more efficient than the Northville one, he noted. The regulatory climate in Ohio also is more attractive to industry than is Michigan's.

Planners probe CBD non-conforming uses

The ongoing battle over conforming and non-conforming uses in CBD (central business district) zoning in Northville surfaced again at the January 20 meeting of the city planning commission.

Planning consultant Ronald Nino again made known his belief that non-conforming uses would not cause a problem in this particular zoning.

He also said that the body shop and gas station across from city hall — two businesses which would be considered non-conforming uses under CBD zoning — were "not compatible with other downtown uses."

But Commissioner James Cutler took exception to the planning consultant's statements.

"I think we would be doing the businessman a injustice by making his business non-conforming," he stated.

Commissioner William Tucker supported his fellow member.

"I think we should protect these businesses and not put them at the mercy of the zoning board of appeals," he said.

Both Tucker and Cutler said they were afraid that a fire could wipe out either of the businesses.

(Under the current ordinance, if 50 percent or more of a building considered a non-conforming use is destroyed by fire, it cannot be rebuilt without the approval of the zoning board of appeals.)

Two other Northville business operations — Casterline Funeral Home and Chatham Supermarket — also would be non-conforming under CBD, but an ordinance amendment recommended by city planners would make them conforming.

Recent measures in Lansing, such as worker's compensation reform, have been made in an attempt to retain some of the industrial concerns migrating elsewhere.

The impact on the city of the plant closing could be virtually nil if a buyer is found soon. City manager Steve Walters said the plant does not provide a large property tax base.

He noted that, unlike the Ford plant, the Stuart factory does not have a large investment in taxable capital equipment, so the city does not stand to lose a large portion of its income.

In fact, he said, should the plant not be sold, the city only stands to lose around $300 in tax receipts this year. Schools and county taxes paid would have been larger however.

The Ford plant, by contrast, constitutes five percent of the city's tax income.

But here a second problem is revealed.

The city council, which is the body of government which has authority to enact such an amendment, never received the planners' recommendation.

This lack of communication, apparently, is the reason for the confusion between planners and city council members.

The proposed amendment was intended to be attached to planners' September, 1980 recommendation to rezone to CBD all areas designated GCD (general commercial district).

The city council followed planners' recommendation and approved the zoning change, deleting two small areas from the proposal — property bounded by Randolph, Center, Dunlap and Wing (including the clock shop, funeral home and American Legion post) and another block bounded by Main, Wing, Dunlap and High (including the gas station).

"I think the city council's main concern was not whether the gas station and bump shop were conforming, but rather that the all the businesses located in the new CBD district were made conforming," said Steve Walters, city manager.

Councilman J. Burton DeRusha echoed Walters' words.

"The only concern I have is that we make sure all businesses located in CBD are conforming," he stated.

Planners agreed to update their original amendment and send the proposal to the city council for consideration.

The new information could prompt further rezoning action by council.

City planners' next meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. Tuesday, February 3.

Self-serve station hearing scheduled

Northville City Council will hold a public hearing Monday to consider rescinding the ordinance prohibiting self-serve gas stations within the city and allowing self-service at full service stations.

As a result of a request from Richard Truzzi, Shell Oil Company representative, at its January 5 session, the council instructed City Attorney Philip Ogilvie to research ordinances and contact the Michigan Municipal League about self-service regulation.

At the January 19 meeting a proposed ordinance permitting split-island operations and regulating self-service from Ogilvie was referred to fire department Chief James Allen for his recommendation and comment.

Ogilvie said he had drafted the requirements for partial self-serve operation after studying ordinances of Novi, Plymouth and Canton townships.

In scheduling the hearing, council members observed that doing so could bring out arguments for and against lifting the ban imposed by the current ordinance. It was adopted in 1976. Mayor Paul Vernon recalled that one of the main reasons for prohibiting self-serve stations was safety.

Ogilvie outlined provisions that include a canopy over the self-serve pumps that would be located closest to the station console. Signs warning against smoking and instructing drivers to turn off engines, he said, would be required to be posted.

Provision for an emergency close-off control switch at the console could be required, he continued.

Truzzi made it clear to council that even the ordinance is passed permitting partial self-serve at the station in which he is interested, it will not be up to him to decide whether the station continues in operation. At the January 5 meeting he told council that the Shell station at Seven Mile and Northville Road definitely cannot continue without the split-island operation.

"I think the updating (of the ordinance) will be beneficial to the city, anyway," he said, noting again that self-serve is a way to lower gas station operation cost factors. He had stated that this will be necessary for future economic survival of stations.

Council member Carolann Ayers asked how many stations would be affected by the change. The council felt there would be four — the Shell station at Seven and Northville, the adjacent Clark station, Boron station at Eight Mile and Taft and Asher 76 station at 357 South Rogers.

It was felt that Cal's Gulf and Phil's 76 on Main were too small to be affected.

That city residents might be going out of town to buy from self-service stations if there is a price differential was one of the concerns mentioned.

Mayor Paul Vernon noted that changing the ordinance "would provide (city stations) with the opportunity to be competitive." He said he had noticed as much as seven cents difference for full service.

Station operators, Truzzi said, pay the same for gas with dealers themselves choosing the price charged up to the legal maximum.

Board seeks assistance in civil rights lawsuit

The Michigan Civil Rights Commission has appealed a Wayne County Circuit Court decision to dismiss an alleged sex discrimination suit filed against the Northville Public Schools in February 1977.

The district, which was notified earlier this month of the commission's decision to appeal, has requested financial aid from the Michigan Association of Schools Boards Legal Trust Fund in the matter.

"This is the only individual school district that I know of where the Michigan Civil Rights Commission has pursued a case to this point," Personnel Director Burton Knighton said.

The case involves former ISEP teacher Mary Ellen Shaughnessy who filed a civil rights complaint with the Michigan Department of Civil Rights against the Northville Public Schools in February 1977. In the complaint Shaughnessy alleged sex discrimination because she was not allowed to use her accumulated sick leave to cover her 14-day absence from work due to pregnancy.

However, Knighton explained that at the time of Shaughnessy's absence it was not the district's policy to allow the use of sick days for time off during pregnancy. There also were no provisions for such sick bank utilization in the Master Agreement with the Northville Education Association.

In May 1978, however, the Michigan Civil Rights Act was passed and stated that pregnancy has to be treated as a disability.

Though anti-discrimination statutes affecting pregnant teachers did not go into effect until May 1978, the Michigan Civil Rights Commission ruled in Shaughnessy's favor in December 1979.

The Northville school district was notified by the Michigan Civil Rights Commission in January 1980 that it "must cease and desist from unlawfully discriminating against female teacher Mary Ellen Shaughnessy" and pay her "monies she would have received by using 14 of her accumulated sick leave days for the time she was off work during her pregnancy."

The district maintained that it was not legally obligated to pay pregnancy leave until the new statute went into effect and appealed the decision to the Wayne County Circuit Court of Appeals in January.

In September, Circuit Judge Benjamin D. Burdick ruled in favor of the district and ordered the "Michigan Civil Rights Commission order of December 19, 1979, must be dismissed in its entirety."

In his decision Judge Burdick ruled that "the Northville Public School's policy of differentiating pregnancy from other temporary disabilities by denying use of accumulated sick leave for purposes of pregnancy and childbirth did not constitute unlawful sex discrimination in violation of the Fair Employment Practices Act."

The Michigan Civil Rights Commission and the Michigan Department of Civil Rights have appealed Burdick's decision.

Knighton said he was "surprised" with the commission's decision to appeal but added that the district will continue to pursue the case.

"If we dropped it we would set a precedent," he said.

If the district pays Shaughnessy, administrators fear that it could open the door for other similar cases dealing with discrimination previous to May 1978.

Knighton said the case could have ramifications for other districts throughout the state as well.

Though the United States Supreme Court is looking into a similar case, Knighton said he knows of no other case of this nature at the state level.

Knighton said the district's attorney John Gierak of the law firm Keller, Thoma, Schwarze and Schwarze, has notified the district that it will probably be a year before the case goes to court.

Mary Ellen Shaughnessy was a Institutions' Special Education teacher from October 27, 1975 until her resignation May 12, 1978.

City's ladder truck delivered

Seventeen months of waiting finally came to an end January 20 as the American LaFrance fire truck, equipped with a 75-foot aerial ladder, pulled up to city hall.

Originally ordered in August, 1979, the shiny, stainless steel fire-fighting giant was driven to Northville by Clifford Havens, delivery engineer, from the home of American LaFrance in Elmira, New York.

Havens said it took approximately 15 hours to make the trip.

Weighing 31,000 pounds without equipment and with an empty 500-gallon tank, the bright red and silver truck barely fits into the fire station at city hall.

The costly cruiser — $169,750 — is being paid for through a combination of Northville Downs' revenues and a loan (at 8.5 percent) from the National Bank of Detroit, according to Steve Walters, city manager.

Though he had to wait more than a year and a half to get the valuable piece of fire-fighting equipment, Jim Allen, city fire chief, said it was worth it.

"Now that we have it I can honestly say it was more than worth the wait," the excited Allen said. "And I am glad we ordered it when we did. The exact same truck now runs at least $25,000 more."

The truck is powered by a Detroit Diesel engine and is equipped with a two-way radio which enables a fire-fighter atop the extended ladder to communicate with the operator of the truck.

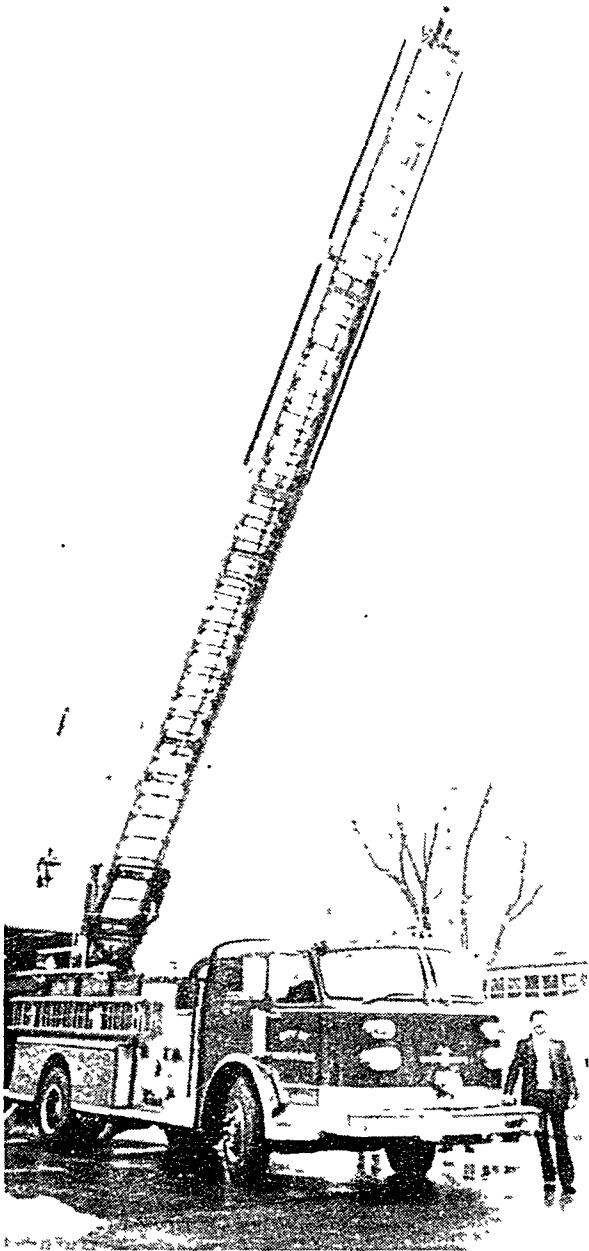

Allen said the new ladder truck is a vital piece of equipment which has two main uses.

"It can be utilized as a rescue unit at buildings like Allen Terrace," Allen said. "And in fire-fighting it can be used to spray water on a fire from the top. Sometimes men can't get into a building because the fire is too intense and if you can shoot water from above, you have an advantage in putting it out."

The ladder truck could be very valuable in fighting fires at some of the taller buildings in the city — Allen Terrace, the grandstands at Northville Downs, and the Marquis Theater — as well as to reach over buildings in the downtown area, Allen said.

These buildings vary from 50-60 feet tall.

The city's part-paid firemen currently are being trained to operate the new piece of equipment.

City residents are invited to view the truck at an open house scheduled for noon to 2 p.m. Saturday, January 31 at city hall.

City council members will be treated to a demonstration of the new truck at 7:30 p.m. Monday, February 2, prior to their regular meeting.

City earmarks fund to DDA

Following a public hearing for the Wayne County Community Development Block Grant Special Needs Program in an expected amount about $30,000, Northville City Council January 19 accepted the recommendation of City Manager Steven Walters to assign the grant money to the Downtown Development Authority revolving fund.

The fund, Walters told council, has about $33,000 in 1980 grant money. With the added amount, he said, 25 to 30 small business projects could be handled.

The funds will be available as loans to local businesses for renovations and improvements.

'Speak up for your rights,' Allen Terrace seniors told

By JEAN DAY

You finally have a night to yourself, and you're looking forward to putting on your favorite slippers and watching television. The phone rings and it's your son — or your daughter — asking you to baby sit. What do you say?

There were slight nods among senior citizens at Allen Terrace Friday to indicate this was not an unknown situation that was being outlined by Ann Baker, Schoolcraft College senior forum coordinator.

It was the first of two programs called "Speaking Up" being presented last Friday and again at 1:30 p.m. this Friday in the activities room at the senior citizen center.

"If you answered, 'You always manage to ask me at the last minute, don't you? Well, all right, I'll do it for you,' you exhibited aggressive behavior," Baker said, noting that "nobody would be happy."

If you merely said yes, without indicating your feelings, you would be

However, said the speaker, an assertive but right answer could be, "I won't be able to help you out, I just want to stay home tonight."

Widowed three years, you've decided to sell your house and are comparison-shopping for senior housing. Your son Chuck is helping you check out places. He says, 'Mom, these lease agreements are getting pretty complicated these days. Better let me handle it.'

"If you say, 'Okay, Chuck, I haven't done anything like this in years,' you are exhibiting non-assertive behavior."

"If you smile and say, 'I understand your concern, and I'd appreciate your reading it, but I want to make the final decision,' you are being assertive."

"If you state, 'Do you think I'm too old, don't you think I've been making my own decisions for years?', you are being aggressive," Ann Baker told her audience.

There is a key point in this example, she said, that if you let others make choices for you, things will build up and make you feel aggressive

But Mary Penrod disagreed with the above example, telling Baker she "didn't want to be bothered" with those details.

The speaker agreed that she was right — because she felt comfortable with her situation.

It's the person who resents her affairs being taken out of her hands who has the need to speak up, she explained.

You've been sitting in the doctor's office for 45 minutes in an open-backed gown and, thoroughly chilled, are beginning to feel annoyed. The doctor comes in and says, 'How are you today, Mrs. Smith?'

"Fine, thank you, Doctor," is non-assertive, Baker said.

"How do you think I feel after waiting 45 minutes in this gown?" — that's a reply sure to make the physician feel defensive and explain how busy he is, the speaker continued.

"I know you must be very busy, but frankly I'm annoyed at waiting 45 minutes." That, Baker told the seniors, is an emphatic statement that acknowledged "the way you really feel."

A lot of older people, she said, have to work on being assertive and standing up for themselves.

She quoted Alex Comfort's comment in "The Good Age," that, "the big American Lie is that the typical aged person is white haired, makes no demands, lives in boredom and on a pitance, mainly interested in religion, grumbling and attending funerals."

Lies about aging, she said, are particularly hard to get rid of — being able to speak up about things is the way to dispel the lies.

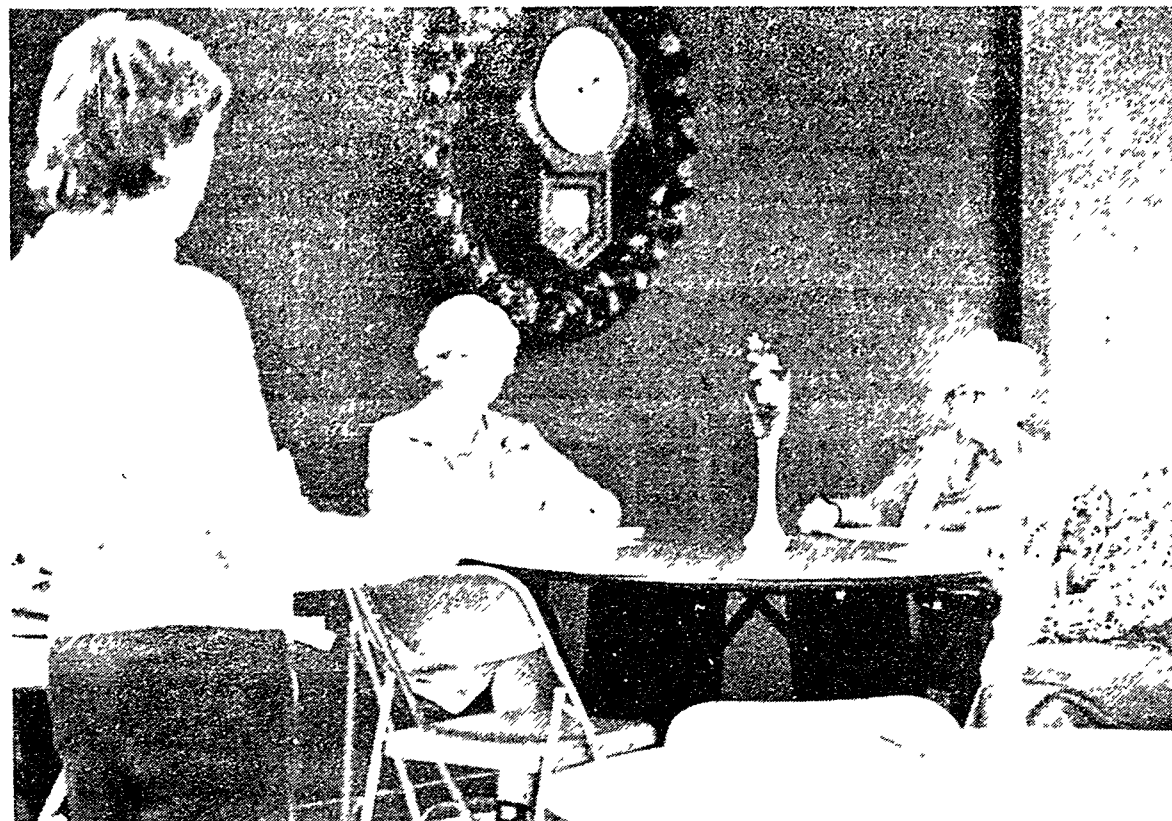

"By making some changes in our behavior we are able to speak up on things we want to say to others and on what we want them to listen to. By communicating better, we help build a belief system in ourselves to give us confidence."

Ann Baker emphasized that by "assertive" she meant being able to express an opinion in direct, honest, straightforward and appropriate ways without infringing on others' rights or having others infringe on ours.

The last part, she said, is the difference between assertive and aggressive behavior. Harsh, aggressive behavior "makes us defensive."

Nearly every afternoon Agnes pops over for an hour. She's a good friend, but it's hard to get your reading or cleaning done. How can you tell her not to come every day?

This time the speaker sought answers

Grace Egeland, Mary Asher and Emma Parmenter listen intently as Ann Baker urges speaking up from the 11 women and one man in the audience.

After one Allen Terrace resident mentioned that she "always does her work early," Emma Parmenter observed thoughtfully that it "depends on the person."

A suggested reply, "I really appreciate your visit, but I have to get my housework done today" brought the observation that "it would only work for one day."

A direct comment was "don't answer the door."

Ann Baker then suggested a statement like, "I have a schedule and I'm often busy at this time. I wonder if we can get together at a different time?"

She also threw out for consideration that it could be possible that Agnes may be feeling an obligation to come over because she had started the practice and feels it is expected.

Communication could in this instance help the situation, she pointed out.

But Grace Egeland said she could never discourage visitors. "I think it's a compliment they want your company," she explained. "I wouldn't feel right about it."

The speaker again agreed, saying that only when a situation is resented is there need for speaking up.

You've gone to hear a talk. The room is cold. You're cold now and even with your coat around your shoulders you know you won't be able to concentrate with the window open. But you have to walk in front of five people to close it. You keep hoping someone in the audience of 100 people will do it because you're embarrassed to get up.

That posed situation brought response indicating most were familiar with it.

"You might ask the person on the end if they would close it."

"I'd say she'd better move," suggested Louise O'Keefe.

As the example was discussed, Ann Baker thought that the reason seniors have trouble speaking up is that "we've been taught all our lives that it is selfish to put our own needs above those of others."

"All healthy people have needs. We strive to fulfill them to make our lives satisfying."

She said compromise can be a way of speaking up and satisfying both persons' needs.

"If she wants to go shopping at nine, and you want to go at 11, maybe both of you can go at 10."

Changing behavior to become more assertive is hard, she told the seniors, because sometimes there's a concern — "If everyone doesn't like (or love) me, I'm a failure." That's wrong, she declared.

When she asked, "Are you a bad person if you lose your temper?" the response was immediate.

"That's baloney — it's impossible always to be kind and good."

"But you can always try."

Ann Baker also challenged the seniors about the oft-made comment — "I can't help the way I am."

That's not true, she said. But, she continued, it takes rethinking, being aware of our general rights.

A questionnaire detailing the gains by staying non-assertive, losses by being non-assertive and asking if gains outweigh losses was passed out.

The seniors, all from Allen Terrace except for the Cy Frids who dropped by, also privately took an assertiveness inventory.

As "homework" for this Friday Ann Baker asked each to return with one or two situations they would like to change, writing down their "rights" in a situation.

In addition to a review, she promised, Friday's workshop will be exercises in speaking up.

The program is open to all seniors in the Northville area without charge.

Planners support rezoning for Cady Street building

The proposed rezoning of the Scout Recreation Building property on West Cady (adjacent to the Kerr House) received the unanimous support of city planners January 20.

Objections raised by George Kohs, a Cady street resident, at a public hearing December 16 did not deter planners from voting 7-0 (Chairman Lesa Buckland and Commissioner Thomas Wheaton were absent) in favor of the proposal to rezone to PBO (professional, business and office) the north 259 feet of the property currently zoned R1-B (residential).

Kohs, whose home is located directly west of Oakwood Cemetery (which borders on the Scout Building property), was concerned that the value of his property might decrease with a change in zoning.

The rezoning petition, recently filed by the City of Northville—owner of the property—now must go before the city council for its consideration.

Council approval is a sure bet since the city already has agreed to rent the building to McNeely and Lincoln Associates, in exchange for a specific amount of engineering services.

The firm is in charge of the Mainstreet '78 downtown redevelopment.

McNeely and Lincoln replace H. W.

Penn Engineers, the firm which has provided engineering services for the city since 1961.

Ronald Nino, city planning consultant, told planners the rezoning proposal was merely a "minor extension which certainly is a consistent and logical use for the land."

"There are a lot of planning justifications to support the rezoning of that land to PBO," he said.

The only concern expressed by planners was the duplicate zoning of the lot which would be created, should the rezoning be approved by council.

"This basically will become a piece of property with two uses," surmised member James Cutler.

Another member, Stuart Kissenger, wanted to know if this was a normal practice.

"It is not unusual," Nino assured him. "Personally, I think the best solution would be if the city and property owners bordering on that piece of property could come to an agreement."

"If I were a property owner there I would jump at the opportunity to increase the depth of my lot," he said.

The Scout-Recreation Building no longer serves original needs as the recreation department now has its headquarters in the Community Building on Main Street.

Under the agreement reached with McNeely and Lincoln, the city will gain $9,000 in engineering services in return for rent.

The tenant is required to maintain the interior of the building and pay all utilities.

The firm will supply 15 hours consulting services per month at no charge to the city, or $750 per month hourly billings based on agreed upon fees.

In other action city planners:

—Unanimously approved an extension of the building permit for the Little Hill Apartments, 235 Hutton, for at least another year.

(The original site plan approval came in June, 1978. At least three extensions have been granted previously.)

—Set a special meeting for Tuesday, February 3, to meet with University of Michigan graduate students who currently are updating the Northville Master Plan.

Mainstreet, music slated for annual chamber dinner

In addition to presentation of the Citizen of the Year Award at its annual banquet at 7:30 p.m. this Thursday in the Community Building, the Northville Chamber of Commerce will elect three members to the board.

The evening will feature a report on Mainstreet '78 downtown Northville renovation project by City Manager Steven Walters and entertainment by Father Joe Dustin on his banjo.

The nominating committee has recommended re-election to new three-year terms of Dewey Gardner, Scott Lapham and Antonia Genitti. Terry Fraser, nominating committee chairperson, announces that nominations also may be made from the floor by chamber members.

President Paul Folino says the emphasis Thursday will be on the program and that the business session will be brief. He adds that the chamber welcomes guests and that late reservations may be made today by calling Kay Keegan, executive director, at the chamber, 349-7640.

The flaming beef buffet dinner is $12.50 a person and is preceded by a cocktail hour beginning at 6:30 p.m. with a cash bar.

On the present board, in addition to the three with expiring terms, (and their term expirations) are Folino, 1982; Betty Allen, 1982; Ed Jamieson, 1982; Clancy Ely, 1983; Fraser, 1983; and Dale Merrifield, 1983.

The annual Citizen of the Year Award last year was presented to retired chamber director Essie Nirider. The previous year John Steimel, Northville postmaster who died this month, was honored.

During the program Walters will show slides of Mainstreet progress as he brings the chamber up-to-date on the downtown renovation project on which work continued until winter set in. He will detail what the spring thaw will bring.

Then the popular banjo-playing priest will lead chamber members and guests in a sing-along.

Police Blotter

Construction site theft includes two furnaces

More than $2,000 in building materials and equipment was reported stolen from two homes being constructed on Concord sometime between January 16 and January 19, city police said.

Sixty-six pieces of plywood (each four feet by eight and a half feet), three metals doors and two furnaces were among the stolen items, police said.

Two of the doors were physically removed from the two homes, the other had not been installed, according to police.

The furnaces, still in boxes, were taken from the basements, police said.

There are no suspects.

Police are investigating the theft.

Four multimeters valued at $500 were stolen from a classroom at Northville High School, 775 North Center, between 12:30 p.m. January 20 and 9 a.m. January 21, city police reported.

There were no signs of forced entry and the room was locked, according to police.

A number of persons are known to have keys to the room, school officials said.

period, she related, also saying that he "wasn't kidding."

The building was searched. No explosive device was found, police said.

Perpetrating a bomb threat is a misdemeanor punishable by up to 90 days in jail and/or a $100 fine.

A steel 'T' beam frame—constructed with three steel beams—was reported stolen from The Adistra Corporation, 16580 Northville Road, sometime between December 30 and January 20, township police reported.

The stolen frame is valued at $300.

An unknown suspect reportedly saw a blue four-wheel-drive pickup truck leaving with the frame, police said.

Police are investigating the incident.

Four wire-wheel hub caps were reported stolen from a 1977 Chevrolet four-door January 22, while the vehicle was parked in a downtown lot, city police said.

The stolen hub caps are valued at $350.

The wheels, tires and hub caps were stripped from a 1979 Fiat January 22 while the car was parked in a lot in front of an apartment at 725 Randolph, city police reported.

The stolen property is valued at more than $160, police said.

Several subjects apparently were involved, police said.

Sewage hearing Monday

A hearing to consider a proposed industrial waste surcharge ordinance has been set for 8 p.m. February 2 by Northville City Council.

Action was taken as a result of the request of Wayne County Board of Public Works that communities affected adopt either an ordinance or include it as part of their municipal code.

The board is seeking the action as a result of the requirements in a settlement agreement under Federal Law, Public Act 92-500, United States versus City of Detroit.

The object of such an ordinance is stated as imposing sewage charges reflecting the cost of treating sewage strength factors as well as sewage volume.

The charges to commercial and industrial users will be in the form of a surcharge reflecting equitable costs in excess of domestic sewage.

NORTHVILLE CITY COUNCIL MINUTES January 5, 1981

Mayor Vernon called the meeting to order at 8:00 p.m. ROLL CALL Present: Vernon, Ayers, DeRusha, Gardner, Johnston

MINUTES OF PREVIOUS MEETING The Minutes of the December 15, 1980 meeting were approved with the following corrections:

Page 2, 6th paragraph should read: On southside of West Main Street from seventy feet west of Center Street to west end of Center Street, one-hundred twenty feet west of Center Street."

"Motion Carried Unanimously. Should be inserted after the motion."

COMMISSIONS The Northville Planning Commission Minutes of November 18, 1980 were placed on file.

Councilman DeRusha attended the Planning Commission meeting and mentioned the joint meeting on January 20, 1981.

APPROVAL OF BILLS Motion by Councilman DeRusha supported by Councilman Gardner to approve the following bills:

GENERAL FUND, $106,811.30,
EQUIPMENT FUND, $17,429.74,
WATER FUND, $43,421.37, MAJOR STREET FUND, $5,195.59,
LOCAL STREET FUND, $5,177.44, PUBLIC IMPROVEMENT FUND, $7,790.00, TRUST & AGENCY FUND, $103,258.57,
CONSTRUCTION FUND, $238,393.22, SHARED SERVICES, $5,505.38, RECREATION FUND, $5,527.51, ALLEN TERRACE OPERATING FUND, $10,160.80, PAYROLL FUND, $11,277.22.

POLICE REPORT It was noted that crimes were up over last year and Chief Cannon mentioned this was a sign of the times.

Mayor Vernon mentioned an article in the Record which called the Police "Scrooges" for ticketing cars and, in his opinion, was unfair and a very inappropriate comment. He thanked Chief Cannon for a very comprehensive report.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM CITIZENS Mr. Richard Truzzi stated he works for the Shell Oil Company, who are the basic lessors of the Shell Gas Station at 7-Mile and S. Main. He stated their lease expires in February. He mentioned their main concern was, they did not think it was economically feasible to operate the station with that type of operation. He also mentioned the City's Ordinance prohibits their lease stations and asked what the feelings of Council were toward revising it.

Mayor Vernon asked what was the advantage of self serve stations.

Mr. Truzzi stated the advantage was to the dealer and would allow more flexibility and to be more competitive. He mentioned the Company does not feel that a station has a long future without self serve.

Mayor Vernon explained the Ordinance was adopted because of Council's concern for safety and lack of control.

Mr. Truzzi mentioned the Shell Oil Company does not have any full self serve stations. He commented that Shell and the State are also concerned re safety and most of the concerns have not developed.

The City Manager asked about some stations who have fire extinguishing systems.

Mr. Truzzi thought that it was a local ordinance and discussed the problems the gas station had with the system.

Discussion on the Shell Station, their mini-serve and their desire to stay in business with full serve and self serve operation followed.

Council was in agreement to take a look at the ordinance and discuss this further.

The City Attorney stated he could contact the Michigan Municipal League re obtaining ordinances from other areas pertaining to self serve operations.

Another concern mentioned was the lack of control or concern of a cashier at the self serve stations.

Mayor Vernon instructed the City Attorney to contact the MML and discuss this at the next meeting.

Mr. Truzzi thanked Council and appreciated their interest.

AGENDA REVISIONS There were none.

LOT 37A The City Manager stated he did not find any restrictions on the property or deed and there was nothing in the files or older minutes as far as formal use of the property.

Mayor Vernon asked if there were access to the property.

The City Manager commented he did not see an easement right in the deed and the property was projected as a park because it was a flood plain.

Councilwoman Ayers asked if it were considered in the Recreation Plan Study.

The City Manager stated it was just listed in the inventory.

Councilwoman Ayers mentioned the problems in not being able to patrol the open park area in the Lexington Commons and thought this property similar in that aspect.

Councilman DeRusha commented he would like to hear what the Recreation Department would have in the way of a practical use for it, if they do not have any, he saw no reason to keep it.

City council minutes

WATER RUN OFF. N. ROGERS & POTOMAC Construction from Ted Mapes, DPW Superintendent, stating that when Potomac Street was put through, the intent was to install a sub-base until all the new homes were built. However, with only one house completed, the final layer of asphalt has not been laid. Consequently, rain water is unable to enter catch basins as designed. The letter also mentioned that the new City Engineer, Jack McNeely, of McNeely & Lincoln Associates, was investigating the problem and would have a workable solution within the next few weeks.

Discussion of the problem followed.

Mayor Vernon asked if there would be a recommended solution that could be had for the next meeting.

The City Manager thought it would be.

Councilman DeRusha mentioned that consideration be given of the expenses of the people trying to correct the condition.

TRUCK PARKING PERMIT — An appeal by Mark Frid, 374 N. Rogers, of Title 5, Chapter 10 Restrict the Parking of Certain Commercial Vehicles Upon Residentially Zoned Private Property was received.

Three locations were designated for parking area for his trucks.

The City Attorney stated the City should have signed agreements for the property owners stating the trucks can be parked on their property.

Mark Frid had the agreements and presented them to the City Attorney.

Motion by Councilman DeRusha supported by Councilman Gardner to set a Public Hearing for January 19, 1981 to consider the appeal and send notices to all property owners within the designated areas.

MOTION CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY.

WAYNE COUNTY CO BLOCK GRANT SPECIAL NEEDS PROGRAM Notification was received from the Wayne County Community Development Block Grant Program that the City would receive approximately $30,000 for the 1981 Special Needs Projects. The final dollar amount is contingent upon the FY 1981 Entitlement figure.

Motion by Councilwoman Ayers supported by Councilman Gardner to set a Public Hearing for January 19, 1981 to hear proposals for use of the Special Needs Project funds from the public.

Motion Carried Unanimously.

1981 LEGISLATIVE COORDINATOR — MML Mayor Vernon appointed Councilman DeRusha as the Legislative Coordinator and asked that the MML be so notified. He also asked the Councilwoman Ayers be sent the same information.

A MML 1981 Region III Meeting Reservations. Mayor Vernon, Councilwoman Ayers, City Manager Walters and the City Clerk would attend the Region III meeting on January 21 but would not attend the dinner.

Meeting recessed at 9:35 p.m. and reconvened at 9:45 p.m.

BIDS — Excess Liability — Umbrella. The following Umbrella Insurance Bids were received and opened at 11:00 a.m. on December 29, 1980 by the City Manager, Controller and the City Clerk.

Insurance Exchange, 180 E. Main, Northville — $5,000,000 coverage, $8,950 bid.
Les Bowden & Assoc., 120 N. Center, Northville — $1,000,000 coverage, $5,000 bid, $3,000,000 coverage, $7,500 bid, $5,000,000 alternate coverage, $4,750 bid.

Maplewood Ins. Co., 42825 Itham Ct., Northville — $1,000,000 coverage, $5,000 bid, $3,000,000 coverage, $7,000 bid, $5,000,000 coverage, $8,000 bid.

Insurance Center, 19335 Beech Daly Road, Detroit — $1,000,000 coverage, $3,270 bid, $3,000,000 coverage, $6,955 bid, $5,000,000 coverage, $9,235 bid.

Advanced Underwriters, 33333 West Twelve Mile, Farmington Hills, Mi. — $1,000,000 coverage, $5,000 bid, $3,000,000 coverage, $6,813 bid, $5,000,000 coverage, $7,813 bid.

The alternate bid was explained as follows: The primary policy was a liability limit of $500,000, however, only $100,000 is carried by the insurer, the Transamerica Company. The excess of $400,000 is reinsured. The reinsurance charge last year was $10,250.00. Adding the 1980 five million dollar Umbrella liability premium of $8,000, thus equalling $18,250.00.

This would allow the Transamerica Company to insure only the primary limit of insurance and remove the reinsurance charge of $10,250 equals $4,750.

The policy exclusions are property in the insured's care, custody and control, Directors or Officers liability, Public officials liability, E. R. I. S. A. Illegal discrimination and coverage for operations of school system.

The City Manager stated it had been clarified that the alternate bid was the same commercial umbrella coverage. He explained that Northville Insurance Exchange had called and asked that the City verify that this was the case.

John Maloney of the Northville Insurance Exchange thought the exclusions were significant.

Discussion on the exclusions followed and whether the Recreation Building would be excluded under the umbrella policy. It was the City Attorney's opinion that anything covered under the primary would also be covered under the umbrella.

Mayor Vernon asked the City Attorney to get copies of the policies and clarify the matter and asked that a special meeting be called for Thursday, January 8, 1981 to award the insurance bid.

Motion by Councilman Johnston to schedule a special meeting January 8, 1981 at 6:00 p.m. for the purpose of considering the umbrella-excess liability insurance bids.

Motion Carried Unanimously.

Motor Vehicle Insurance Bid The following Motor Vehicle Insurance Bids were received and opened at 11:00 a.m. on December 29, 1980 by the City Manager, Controller and City Clerk.

Insurance Exchange, 180 E. Main, Northville, Insuring Co. — $19,568, $1,603 Inland Marine Schedule.
Maplewood Agency, 42825 Itham Ct., Northville, Insuring Co. — Home Insurance Co. — $12,849.

Motion Carried Unanimously.

DISSENTING RECORDS FOR BOARDS & COMMISSIONS Discussion on the attendance records of the Council, Zoning Board of Appeals and the Planning Commission was held. Section 5.2 in the Charter dealing with attendance of boards and commissions at regular meetings was read as follows:

The Office of any member of any board or commission created by, or pursuant to, this charter shall be declared vacant by the Council.

(c) If such officer shall miss four consecutive regular meetings of such board or commission, or twenty-five per cent of such meetings in any fiscal year of the city, unless such absences shall be excused by such board or commission and the reason therefor entered in the proceedings of such board or commission at the time of each absence.

Mayor Vernon asked if Council were in agreement, a letter would be sent and a copy of the attendance records to the boards and commissions at the time of their regular meetings.

He directed the City Manager and City Clerk to do so.

ALLEN TERRACE REPORT Communication from Fran Yoakam re the Allen Terrace Waiting List with a report indicating their application process and length of wait experienced by new tenants. She noted that priority was based on length of residency, therefore, if a new application were received with long city residency, that application would be placed at the top of the list. This action would result in the bumping of applications to a lower status on the list.

COMMUNICATIONS a. Letter from James Karoub re HB4747. Mayor Vernon read Section 14 which read an amendment to the Act. He discussed a meeting he attended with owners of the Downs re interpreting the Act. Under this Act the City provides certain services and it was agreed that the City would pick up the crossing and pay the traffic light policemen when the horses are crossing Seven Mile during the day. Mayor Vernon mentioned the Downs made a tremendous concession to the City and suggested the City accept the offer. g. Wayne County Board of Commissioners Agenda of January 5, 1981 meeting.

h. Local Governmental Conference of Western Wayne Workshop, January 29, 1981, Westland (all-day).

Meeting adjourned at 11:45 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,
Joan G. McAllister,

Commission had blue ribbon idea

Last Sunday two dozen local residents, some of them artists themselves, became patrons for a new local event. They loaned personal works of art from their homes for the first show sponsored by the Northville Arts Commission called appropriately "Off the Wall."

Held in the afternoon in the New School Church in Mill Race Village, the show did not draw as many visitors as commission members hoped, but they should not feel it wasn't a success. Anything on Super Bowl Sunday (even though it began earlier than the game) had stiff competition for attention.

The arts commission itself is just in its first year but is proving it has fresh ideas to enrich the community. It deserves congratulations for trying something new. We're glad to hear that the commission intends to repeat the show and hopefully make it an annual one. The next time it will have the advantage of being more familiar.

The very fact that 24 residents were willing to exhibit their paintings, sculpture and weavings qualifies the event as a success.

Thanks, Jaycees for great events

Northville Jaycees received a public "thank you" last week from the Northville Jaycettes, as the local auxiliary to the chapter is known. The women, with city council permission, used the city entrance signs much like billboard proclamations.

Occasion for the "thank you" was that it was National Jaycee Week, honoring young men 18-35 who work throughout the year on a variety of non-profit, civic projects for the community.

The event with which the Jaycees have become completely identified — and for which they deserve the entire community's appreciation — is the Fourth of July celebration. From lining up participants for the parade to the barbecue in the Mill Race and, finally, to the fireworks that bring many hundreds to the hillside along Eight Mile annually it's an outstanding contribution to life in our town.

The Jaycees, however, also contribute time, talents and funds to such projects as the Walk for Mankind, Easter egg hunt, Halloween haunted house, Santa visits and Toys for Tots. During the 20 years the Jaycees have been a chapter in the community the list has grown.

Times have changed some of the emphasis, as is right. This year the Junior Miss pageant was discontinued for lack of interest, but one of the newer projects, community CPR, is bringing lifesaving knowledge to residents. Happy 20th birthday, Jaycees.

The Record solicited local reactions to last week's release of the 52 Americans held hostage in Iran since November 4, 1979. Here's what you said:

ROBBIE ANDREASEN said it with a window full of yellow ribbons at Bruce Roy Realty, 150 North Center, where cars go by and toot their horns.

WILMA SETTLE — I'm glad they're home, but I wouldn't like to be Reagan and have to decide whether to honor the agreement. We're not dealing with an honorable country, but it's our honor.

ANN ROY — I feel great that they're back and that we didn't cave in to their terms, their blackmail. I think it happened because Reagan started talking tough.

MIKE BURLEY — I really think it's kind of neat — not only from the stand point of relief that they are home, but the national unity which has developed. Everywhere you look you see yellow ribbons.

ELLIE KNELLER — It is great and I'm glad they're home, but I wouldn't compare them with the astronauts. They're getting the same welcome, but astronauts did something no one ever had done. It was different.

What You Said About...

Former hostages coming home from Iran

MARCIA WISS — I felt overwhelmed that it finally happened, annoyed with the way it happened (waiting until after Reagan's inaugural address), but really, thrilled that we finally had them back.

CHARLIE BAKKILA — I'm glad they're home. It's been about 443 days too long. The United States really has to take a stronger stand against this sort of thing, or institute some preventative measures. When a country can occupy neutral territory it's gone too far.

BARBARA CAMPBELL — I think I felt incredible relief. I was so afraid — and am afraid — that those types of incidents can turn into widespread encounters and I have a son who is draft age. I'm glad they handled things in a negotiations manner rather than resorting to military force.

EUNICE SWITZLER — I'm much relieved that they're home, but it's been much too long a time. Everyone wishes they'd been home earlier but no one really has the answers.

GEORGINA GOSS — You have to be delighted that they're home. I feel sorry for them that they have to be subjected to so much press coverage. I'm sure they'll be happy to be home and have some privacy with their families.

When you're 94, it really doesn't matter if you're birthday's January 25 or today, January 28. Either way you've come a long ways.

That's the way Jim Spagnuolo looks at it as his family celebrates his birthday Wednesday even though he thinks it really was last Sunday. "I'm pretty old, I know that," says the patriarch of a Spagnuolo family that has produced almost as many stores in America as he has children, grandchildren, and great grandchildren.

One thing's for sure...Jim's the only survivor of the family members who gave up their farmlands in Italy to look for the pot of gold in America at the turn of the century.

When Jim left behind his parents on a farm containing an olive orchard, a mule, three goats and 20 sheep, and arrived in America in 1903 at the age of 16, a few other "Spagys" were already here "but not many," says this man who lives above the Northville store now owned by the grandson who carries on his name and the business.

Besides the Northville store only a few of the others that were owned by "first and second cousins" along the Grand River corridor — from Detroit to Holland — are still operated by family members.

Those in Holland, Grand Haven, and Lansing are believed to be among the last. At one time relatives ran stores in more than a dozen Michigan towns, all pretty much like the grocery-candy business in Northville that the senior Spagnuolo purchased in 1918. There were so many, in fact, that it took Jim and his son, Joe, several days of travel, going from one to another, just to say hello.

All four of Jim's children are living. His first wife died a few years after he purchased the Northville store and he remarried in 1934. His second wife, Josephine, lives with him.

"I'm pretty good," he says slowly of his health. "Oh, I'm tired...and I can't move so easy. But I'm okay."

And then he tugs the arm of his visitor, inviting him to lean closer, and adds in a whisper, "It don't make no difference, but it's January 25."

Lauds police, fire efforts for seniors

To the Editor:
I would like to publicly commend the fine job the (City of Northville) fire and police departments are doing regarding the protection they provide for the senior citizens at Allen Terrace.

My mother and a very dear friend of mine reside at Allen Terrace, and a few weeks ago, while talking to an officer, a silent alarm went in from Allen Terrace. Within minutes, the building was swarming with men from the fire department and police department.

They were very busy checking every possibility and when it was determined there was no fire, they continued to check for the reason the alarm was sent in.

Thank you, men, for your concern to respond so quickly. Your city has every right to be proud of you.

I know I feel much better knowing my mother and other senior citizens are well taken care of.

Sincerely,
Sharon L. Young

wants to thank all the folks who helped make this event possible — their first all-out effort.

We want to thank the Northville Record for the fine stories on the show, the Northville Police Department for having Auxiliary Officer (Pat) McLaughlin present to provide security and the Northville Historical Society for so generously providing the lovely setting.

We have learned a great deal from this first show and look forward to next year's second annual "Off the Wall Art Show."

— and folks, you notice we managed to close the doors a good hour before the start of the Super Bowl!

Very truly yours,
C. Phelps Hines

Fish needs aid

To the Editor:

The Northville-Novi Fish held its fall meeting Tuesday, November 4, and we want to express our thanks to all the churches, community organizations and individuals who have helped Fish financially and by personal involvement.

For almost 13 years our aim and purpose has been to reach out and assist in emergencies and help care for many needs of people in our area. Fish has been able to do this free of bureaucratic indifference, political pressure or discrimination.

To keep Fish a vital and active organization we must ask for new volunteers to fill in the gaps created by the loss of helpers who have moved, returned to work or left because of ill health. Although volunteers can help in many ways we especially need new drivers so that we can continue to answer our transportation calls.

If you would consider becoming a part of Fish, we can only promise a warm glow of inner satisfaction, and perhaps a shy "thank you" from someone you've been able to help — but you will be richly blessed knowing you had "Willing Hands, A Committed Heart."

Please call 349-4350 and someone will contact you with more information and answer any questions you may have concerning Northville-Novi Fish.

Sincerely,
Judy LaManna

To the Editor:

In reference to the letters written concerning the Marquis Theatre and the cancellation of the play "Grease," I have attended many meetings on the pros & cons of producing this play. Bill Ward attended these meetings and was in full accord with the final decision of cancel this production.

A contributing factor was the lack of interest shown by the public. Furthermore, the Performing Artists Guild asked that Ige Zayti AGAIN pay all royalties because of its lack of funds and this payment is the responsibility of the Performing Artists Guild. The promised repayment of royalties for "Man of LaMancha" and "Dracula" never materialized. The community and all concerned are fully aware of our own financial struggle to become profitable.

Neither Janice Murphy nor Michael Groves attended these meetings because they included only management. One can only speculate as to where their mis-information originated.

Sincerely,
Fern R. Kogut

Thank you to all those people who

A project like this cannot succeed without community support, which, I'm proud to say, we have in Northville.

Park a concern

To the Editor:
(copy of letter to Governor Milliken)

As a result of the action of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners curtailing the Patrol and Investigation Division of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department, the communities bordering Hines Park as well as the unincorporated areas of Wayne County are faced with the very real possibility of having little or no police protection.

With the 40,000 to 50,000 people who populate Hines Park during peak summer months, there is a need for adequate police protection. I am very seriously suggesting that the National Guard be made available to patrol Hines Park during the summer.

I make this suggestion recognizing the laughter that it may very well generate; however, I feel very strongly that Hines Park is a very unique situation that will require the utmost attention during the summer and that any attempt to solve the problem once it has already begun will be too late.

I would like to ask your cooperation in attempting to resolve this very serious problem. I look forward to a response as to the availability of the National Guard to protect the residents along Hines Park during the summer.

Yours in community service,
R. William Joyner
Wayne County Commissioner
27th District

Show a success

To the Editor:

Whether they realized it or not, many Northville art buffs missed an opportunity on Sunday — they didn't manage to get to the Northville Arts Commission's "Off the Wall" show. If they had, they would have seen some very fine pieces of art — from a painting by Henry Miller, the writer of joyous eroticism, to a print by Salvador Dali or a lithograph by poster great, Peter Max — all these along with top-notch work by local area artists.

All the favorite artwork in their possession was on loan for four hours in the New School Church at the Mill Race. A fine time was had by all the patrons. Conversations on this exhibition as well as other shows seen by the group were common. Admiration was expressed for the variety of tastes of Northville residents.

Township gets tax rise with factor

Not all the economic news facing Northville Township officials recently has been bad, although at times it seemed that way.

What is perceived as good news in township hall does not represent pleasant tidings for homeowners in the community, however.

Wayne County set the assessment factor in the township at 15.2 percent, causing a significant rise in property taxes. Current tax bills, mailed in December, reflect the increased property valuations created by the factor.

The bills, due February 27 after an extension granted by the township board, are based on valuations adjusted by the assessment factor.

The county assessor's office set a total valuation (state equalized valuation) in 1980, according to former township clerk Margaret Tegge, who now acts as a consultant to the government.

Each year since, a factor is used to multiply the previous years valuation to reflect increased land and property values and rising development.

"The state valuation for the township is set by law, and we have to collect taxes on that amount," Tegge said. "The factor used is applied to last year's valuations throughout the community."

Homeowners who feel their property assessments are too high, and who can supply specific reasons why it should be lowered, get an annual opportunity to appeal the assessment to the township board of review.

The board meets four times this year in March.

Treasurer Richard Henningsen said the increased tax receipts come at an opportune time for the township — with state and federal dollars on the decrease and costs on the rise.

Township receipts are expected to increase from approximately $350,000 in 1980 to an estimated $425,000 in fiscal 1981. In releasing the figures, Henningsen cautioned that the 1980 number was compiled "before my time, so I can't vouch for that figure."

He began as treasurer November 20.

Although the assessment factor increased, tax bills also show a decrease in tax rates of 2.7 percent. The decrease was mandated by the Headlee amendment to the Michigan Constitution which requires rate declines to offset valuation increases. The rate change does not fully compensate for valuation rises as it is computed with an allowance for increased taxes to meet inflationary pressures and program improvements.

Local schools receive the lion's share of property tax payments, with the township acting as the collection agency. The schools levy over 40 mills ($1 per $1,000 valuation is one mill) while the township collects three mills.

Other property taxes are levied by the county and local community colleges.

William Sliger assumes full-time corporate role

After a year in a part-time role as vice president-editorial on the corporate staff of Suburban Communications Corporation, William Sliger has assumed a full time status.

Former publisher of this newspaper, Sliger will continue on the corporate staff as vice president with a variety of responsibilities, announced corporation president Richard Aginian.

"He will be involved in planning with corporate for all subsidiaries, continuing to concentrate efforts at Lansing Suburban Newspaper Network assisting management there to implement its program and achieve goals," said Aginian.

"He also will assist in the process to select a new editorial department organizational structure proposed for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers; he will work weekly with the management team of the newly organized Sliger/Livingston County newspaper division in providing whatever assistance might be needed; and he will become acquainted with the management team at Queen City Division in Cincinnati, Ohio, offering assistance in the editorial products, if required."

Sliger said he is anxious to get back to work full time and to join the corporate staff in providing planning and assistance to all SCC newspapers.

Bids: Mayor Vernon explained the Special Meeting was called in order to give the City Attorney time to investigate the bids.

The City Attorney stated he had received copies of the Umbrella policies from Northville Insurance Exchange and Bowden's Agency. He also mentioned a letter he received from Bowden's Agency, dated January 7, 1981, confirming that anything covered in the primary policy is automatically covered under the umbrella policy.

The City Attorney stated he had talked to Wade Waterman, who had been recommended and was an impartial insurance consultant, and who pointed out the problems. It was Mr. Waterman's suggestion and the City Attorney's recommendation that they award the insurance to the Bowden Agency conditionally upon receiving from the Mead Reinsurance Company in writing what has already been stated, i.e., that if it is on the primary policy it is covered in their policy.

Mr. Bowden explained the only exclusion the City has is the Water hazard. Discussion followed.

Mr. Ron Barnum, representing the Northville Insurance Exchange, suggested the City may be jeopardizing their claims in the future by reducing the limit down to $100,000 on the primary, and secondly, the insurance specifications were released asking for quotes of a base limit of $500,000. His belief was, when you submit something it should be on the bids. The specs called for $500,000 and that is what they based their quote on.

Mayor Vernon stated he appreciated what Mr. Barnum was saying but it was not unusual to receive an alternate bid, and the City appreciates the alternate bid. He explained that when a bidder can point out to the City that something else should be considered the City appreciates this.

More discussion followed. Councilman DeRusha reminded everyone of the expiration date of the insurance policies and stated he has to rely on the expertise of Wade Waterman.

Mr. James Talbot of the Bowden Agency stated he would get in writing from the Mead Reinsurance Company that if it is covered in the primary it is covered in the umbrella policy. He stated he had received a phone call to that effect.

Councilman DeRusha stated his concerns had been answered and was willing to accept the lower bid of Bowden. He also complimented Mr. Bowden for getting the alternate bid.

Mayor Vernon voiced concern with the "conditional" and explained. The City Attorney stated they should award the contract to the Bowden Agency and accept their statement the City is covered and request that the City receive in writing from the Mead Reinsurance Company that all is covered under the primary is covered in the umbrella.

Councilwoman Ayers agreed and suggested the City, in the future, have a consultant look at our insurances.

Mayor Vernon stated that Council was in general agreement that an insurance consultant was needed.

Motion by Councilman DeRusha supported by Councilwoman Ayers to accept the low bid of Bowden Agency in the amount of $4,750 and to receive in writing from Mead Reinsurance Carrier that the care, custody and control was covered.

Motion carried unanimously. Meeting adjourned at 6:45 p.m. Respectfully submitted, Joan G. McAllister City Clerk

Reconsider Michigan Week

"Let's ask her for a budget," suggested city council member G. Dewey Gardner at the council's January 19 meeting as Mayor Paul Vernon reported that Mrs. Robert Brueck was willing to serve as Michigan Week chairperson again this year.

Popular Michigan Week festivities, including the mayor exchange with another participating Michigan city, were scrapped for 1981 in budget reductions taken earlier.

At the meeting a week ago, the discussion pointed out that it might be possible to participate in Mayor's Exchange Day at minimal expense. The council also indicated it felt the annual tribute to city employees during the week was worthwhile.

Council moved unanimously to contact Ann Brueck to seek her proposed budget.

Council members noted that, if the city were to observe Michigan Week in May with the annual mayor's exchange, time was growing short to contact another city if Northville wishes to have a voice in the choice.

attention, he explained, as a result of his authority under state statute to marry couples.

Noting that the practice began with former Mayor A. M. Allen, he said he had officiated at six ceremonies since Christmas.

"I don't charge for this," he told council, "but I suggest that in lieu of a fee a contribution may be made to the Mill Race."

He said that he had been suggesting it as an appropriate location for the ceremony before he realized what the fees were. For the service in which the fee was brought to his attention, he told council, the wedding was moved to the clubhouse of the Lexington Condominiums. Three have taken place in the offices at city hall.

Vernon added that he understands the fee for the famous Martha Mary Chapel in Greenfield Village is substantially higher. Daniel said it now is $350.

Katherine Mock, who was hired by Northville Historical Society to schedule events in the New School Church and on the village grounds, no longer is doing so, Vernon told council.

Mock confirmed that she resigned from the scheduling position after she fell and broke her leg November 12. She had held the post for three years.

"After the fee was raised," she commented, "I didn't have anyone make a reservation — although this time of year is the slow season for weddings anyway."

She added that she had understood the fee increase would be to $75, not $100. Those who had made reservations with her and who had been quoted the $75 rate, she understands, will have that rate honored by the society.

While the grounds, including the gazebo, are public property that can be used without charge, it is difficult to do so, Mock explained. She said those who have made reservation — paying the $100 fee — are given preference. It is possible to plan a wedding in the gazebo and to reserve the parking lot this way.

However, she pointed out that most couples in the past who chose to be married in the gazebo wanted the assurance that the ceremony could be moved inside the church in event of rain. To do this, it was necessary to make and pay for the reservation.

Daniel said he hopes to have a replacement shortly for Mock as he and his wife have been doing the scheduling. He denied that there had been a decrease in use of the building since the higher fees were implemented, saying, "We have a very, very busy schedule and many have used it since the $100 fee was set."

Council members approved Vernon's suggestion that he talk about the situation with Daniel and then report back to council.

the option of making up lost credit at the Livonia Career Center or the Plymouth Vocational Education Program.

The board of education seemed generally satisfied with the improvement in high school attendance but board members indicated that they will be looking for future reviews of the policy.

In other action the board: — approved $52,477.47 in instructional capital outlay allocations for the seven Northville public schools.

City adopts building codes

Northville City Council took action at its January 19 meeting following a required public hearing to update its building and inspection codes to conform with those of the City of Plymouth.

Conformity of codes and fees is needed in a shared building inspection agreement that has been made with the City of Plymouth.

The amendments to the code ordinance updated the basic building code, electrical code, reciprocal heating code, plumbing code and refrigeration systems requirements. The Michigan Energy Code also was adopted.

It was noted at the meeting that Plymouth Township also has opted to join in the shared program of building inspection services.

Northville had initiated the move last year after terminating shared building inspection with Northville Township last summer.

City Manager Steven Walters had explored associations with other communities and also a part-time inspector but ended recommending the alliance with the City of Plymouth as both communities had many similarities.

Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen had said the move to share building inspectors will go into effect immediately and will be for six months.

Under the contract the community performing the inspection will receive 75 percent of the fees as well as 75 percent of permit fees.

Plymouth Township's plumbing and heating inspectors — specialized personnel not on the staffs of Plymouth or Northville's departments — will be used in the pact.

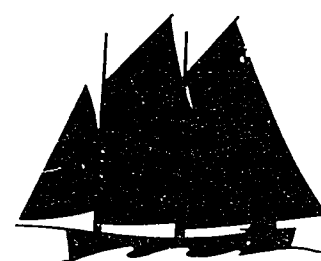

The move, Plymouth LWV sets workshop

The League of Women Voters of Northville, Novi, Plymouth and Canton will hold a workshop on "Intergovernmental Relations in Michigan" at 7:30 p.m. February 12 in West Middle School Cafeteria in Plymouth.

Members will be examining county structure, home rule and the question of whether or not to separate the legislative and executive powers in county government. Annexation, incorporation and consolidation also will be studied.

Township reported, would avert layoffs in its building department. All three communities have agreed to make all ordinances and fee schedules as nearly identical as possible.

Story hour — pure fun for young

By MICHELE McELMURRY

It's 1 p.m. at Northville Public Library and as usual, everything is quiet. The silence provides the perfect sanctuary for those wishing to slip away into literary oblivion.

There are a few people browsing among the bookshelves and others lounging comfortably in chairs — looking totally absorbed in the latest best-seller. Just a typical Tuesday afternoon at the library.

Yet, the silence is soon broken as the pitter-patter of little feet are heard scuffling across the carpet.

For those relaxing in the library, the sounds of tiny sneakers and rubber boots padding across the room may trigger a frown of disapproval. After all, where there are sounds of little feet, there must be little children. And in the library that means an end to the quiet repose, right?

Wrong. The 20 children who gathered at the library last Tuesday were anything but loud and unruly.

Instead they talked in hushed whispers as they discarded jackets and mittens and said their goodbyes to moms and dads. For these little tykes, ages 3 to 5, there was good reason for being quiet. It was time for story hour.

For the past few years, the Northville Public Library has been sponsoring a pre-school story hour once a week for 3 to 5 year olds.

Last Tuesday marked the first week of the winter session and for many of the little story hour participants it also was the beginning of a long association with the world of books.

Story hour begins with the children donning nametags and forming a straight line.

Under the direction of librarian Melanie Robinson, the children are guided into a reading room where they are then put to the task of choosing a carpet square to sit on.

Though many of us might regard a half-hour of story telling as somewhat inconsequential, it is nevertheless an important part of the day for these kids.

Robinson explained that story hour not only offers kids a chance to hear stories, but also gives them a chance to mix with others their own age and learn to adjust to group situations.

Besides, when you're 3 or 4 years old and haven't quite mastered the alphabet and sentence structure, story telling can be the next best thing to watching Sesame Street.

Robinson began Tuesday's session by reading the story of "Gregory the Terrible Eater."

Gregory, a goat with bad eating habits, has his parents worried because all he eats is junk. Sound familiar?

The story obviously had a familiar ring to it as many of the children poked each other while trying to squelch giggles.

After the saga of Gregory, the children were taught a finger game which combines rhymed verses with hand movement.

Robinson referred to this as a warm-up exercise. Essentially it teaches the children to keep rhythm and concentrate on the words.

This seemed to be a favorite among most of the kids as they coordinated hand motions with the story.

Brad Smith, who is a veteran story hour participant, seemed to bellow out the words to the game and lead the rest of the group through five verses.

Brad explained that he knew the game from the previous story hour session held in the fall.

After reading the book about "Sam Who Never Forgets," Robinson told the story of Old Monkey Face by using felt and a flannel board.

Old Monkey Face is the story of a little monkey who draws a picture of himself to give to his mother. While walking to his house on Center Street, he runs into many of his Northville friends — giraffe, elephant, rabbit and frog.

To make sure that his picture is good enough for his mother, the monkey asks his friends what they think of the picture.

Being true friends they suggest only minor improvements.

For instance, the giraffe suggests that the monkey make a longer neck and the elephant thinks he should have a longer nose.

By the time the monkey reaches home, he is a composite of all the other animals. Of course his mother thinks it's the best picture he's ever drawn and puts it on the refrigerator.

Old Monkey Face, like the finger game, is representative of the many different types of story telling which the children are exposed to.

Robinson admitted that at times attention spans run a little short but that for the most part the kids are very patient.

However, she said the real attention-getter comes during the showing of the filmstrip "Angus and the Ducks."

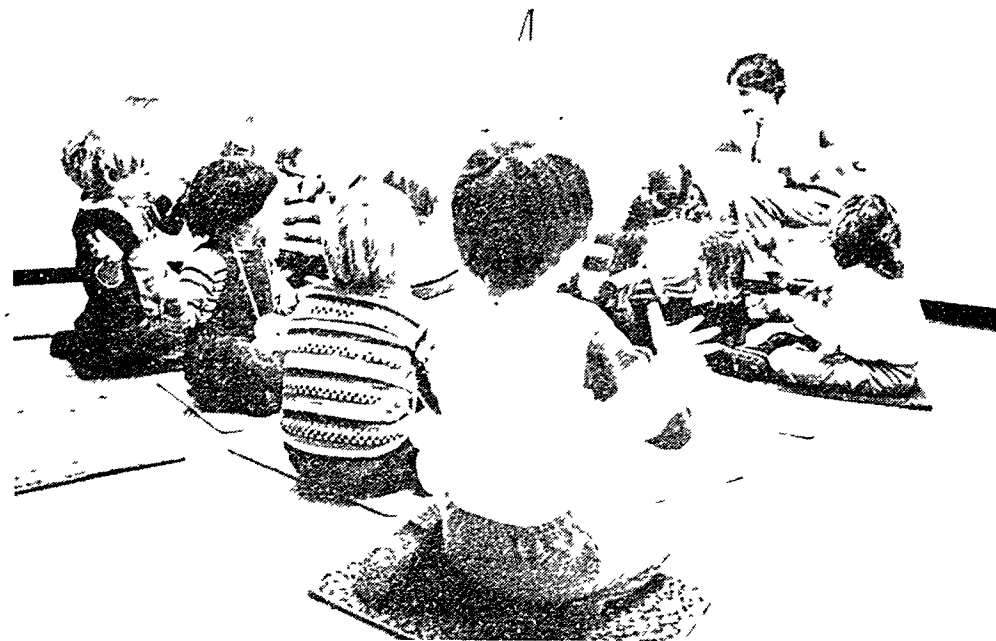

When the lights go out, all fidgeting stops.

By the end of the story hour, each child is given a dot to put on their nametag. The dot indicates how many story hours the preschoolers have attended.

After nametags are collected, the kids once again line-up to get ready to leave.

After meeting their parents, who have been patiently waiting, there is only one thing left to do.

Before going home they race to the shelves to check out their favorite books.

Ski trip follows Franklin service

A romance that began on the campus of Eastern Michigan University culminated in the Christmas-season wedding of Kathryn Ann Teagan of Franklin and William Wayne Beason of Northville.

They exchanged vows and rings in a candlelight ceremony at 6:30 p.m. December 28 in Franklin Community Church with Dr. Samuel Stout officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Allan Teagan of Franklin. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Leon Beason of 18740 Valencia. Escorted by her brother Michael Allan Teagan, the bride wore a floor-length gown she had made of white silk-satin. It was fashioned with a chapel train with delicate Chantilly lace forming the yoke inset and banding the scalloped hemline. A matching cap held her illusion veil.

She carried a silk cascade bouquet of white roses, dusty rose lilies and apple blossoms.

The bride's sister, Mrs. William (Linda) Aichinger, came from her home in Littleton, Colorado, to be matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert Tremonti, Mrs. John Forsythe, Lori Ostezan, Amy Harris and Lori Marsik.

All wore floor-length gowns in dusty rose and carried colonial bouquets of silk containing burgundy roses, white azaleas and dusty rose baby's-breath.

Dennis Keegan was best man. Ushers were Norbert Spinski, Timothy Zink, William Aichinger, Jeffrey Guider and Robert, Ron and Gary Beason.

A dinner reception followed for 170 guests at Botsford Inn.

After a wedding trip to Banff in Alberta, Canada, to ski, the newlyweds are living in their home in Sterling Heights.

The bride, a senior at EMU, is completing her field placement work in occupational therapy at Sinai Hospital. Her bridegroom is a graduate of EMU where he affiliated with Kappa Phi Alpha fraternity. He is employed with Alexander and Alexander in the Fisher Building.

Couple to live on base in Hawaii

Officiating at the candlelight service was the Reverend Charles F. Boerger. Organist was Christine Lehl.

MSU student attends inauguration

By JEAN DAY

Northville was represented at the inaugural festivities in Washington, D.C. — by at least two young men.

Luigi Folino, a sophomore in pre-law in James Madison College at Michigan State University, drove to the capital when one of his classmates received four tickets from Democratic Congressman Dale E. Kildee of Flint. Paul Novak had served an internship with the congressman who also was their luncheon host in the House dining room.

After lunch, Luigi reported to his parents, the Steve Folinos of 726 West Main, the four with Congressman Kildee went through the building tunnel to a vantage point at the entrance to watch the inaugural parade. With other congressmen they had a prime viewing location. Luiji found himself standing beside South Carolina Senator Strom Thurmond, he later related to his father. President Reagan's car passed directly in front of the group.

After the ceremonies the Northville High School graduate and his fellow MSU classmates attended congress-sional office parties during the afternoon. He signed Carl Pursell's register but was disappointed in not making personal contact with his representative in Washington who had just stepped out. (He mentioned the biggest celebrations were given by Minnesota and Pennsylvania congressmen). Folino also visited Congressmen William Broomfield and Guy VanderJagt before the students took off on a straight-through trip back to East Lansing, arriving at 8:20 a.m. in time for classes.

John Forrer sang at Kennedy Center

Former Northville resident John Forrer, son of Dr. and Mrs. Gordon Forrer of 46995 West Main, now works for the Department of Labor under a presidential two-year managerial internship in Washington. Since moving to the capital he has become a member of the Choral Arts Society based at the National Cathedral.

The group was invited to sing for then President-elect Reagan and his wife Nancy during pre-inaugural festivities Sunday evening at Kennedy Center. John and his wife Sharon enjoyed the spectacular firework displays, he reported to his parents. Sharon saw many famous personalities in the media as she is employed in personnel at the Washington Hyatt.

They are enjoying living and working in Washington, his mother adds. They're enthusiastic about such "pluses" as being able to spend their lunch hours taking mini-courses at the Smithsonian based on art in the National Gallery.

Annual Florida reunion's popular

Former Northville resident Barbara Scantlin who moved to Syracuse, Indiana, last year is among those anticipating the annual Florida reunion of Northville vacationers and former residents in the south. It's February 20 at Crown House Restaurant between Bradenton and Sarasota. Former Northville Kroger manager Ed Barnes of Ellenton, Florida, is chairman.

When she returns to Indiana, Mrs. Scantlin says, she will be busy getting ready for an April opening of an herb and antiques shop by her home on Main Street in Syracuse.

Danny, a junior at Catholic Central, and Maureen and Brian, OLV students, also have been having last get-togethers. Mary, the oldest, will be finishing her studies at Ferris Institute before going east.

The location in Connecticut is great, Mrs. Williams says, as they will be 10 minutes from Long Island sound and 65 miles from New York City. "We love Northville, though, and all the family wants to keep in touch," she adds.

Jeri Brundage busy dancing

Jeri Brundage of New Hudson, formerly of Northville, provided the half-time entertainment at the December 27 high school holiday basketball tournament at Anderson, Indiana.

She was invited to the tournament to present a program of traditional Scottish Highland dances, such as the Highland Fling, during half time of the final game. Attired in a kilt made from the tartan Red Dress McPherson, with matching socks, a lace blouse and red vest, she gave her usual top performance.

Her next few appearances include traditional and national Highland dance competitions in Orlando, Florida, and Southfield, Michigan. She will appear in the parade and a show at Disney World in Orlando.

Newcomers, historical society set dates

Date for the Northville Historical Society's annual benefit dinner dance is March 7. It will be held at Meadowbrook Country Club with ticket price remaining the same as last year — $32 a couple. Judith Sechler is heading arrangements.

Highlighting the February calendar for Northville Newcomer couples is the popular progressive dinner. Shirley Klokenga and Jane Young are planning the February 21 event, selecting a menu that includes hot-cider punch, wine, cucumber soup, Braciolo-with-linguini as the entree and Greek salad. Each of the 50 couples participating will progress to three different homes during the evening. Cost is $10 a couple. Reservations opened Tuesday and will be taken by Jan VanderBok, 420-3219, and Mrs. Young, 420-2506, through February 6.

PTA-PTSA News

Schools focus on varied winter reading programs

EDITOR'S NOTE: The monthly Northville PTA-PTSA column which appears on the last Wednesday of each month September through June, is compiled by volunteer Jackie Payne. She coordinates material from the publicity persons in each elementary and junior high school.

COORDINATING COUNCIL

The PTA-PTSA locals are inaugurating a new year of activities. Each local unit is assisting in the preparation of the first annual Northville Coordinating Council Founders' Day Dinner to be held at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, March 26, 1981, at the high school cafeteria.

The entire project is chaired by council vice-president Sandy McRae and committee personnel from the local units are tackling this community-wide endeavor which is unique for Northville residents.

We ask you to keep this date open on your commitment calendar. For ticket information contact Judy Kramer at 348-1586 or Cindy LaChance at 348-9077.

AMERMAN

Books of all kinds are making news at Amerman these days.

The upper elementary classes are looking forward to their Book Swap next week. On February 3, the 4th-6th graders will bring their own books to swap and will be credited with points for the books they bring in. The following day they'll be able to select books totaling an equal number of points. Karen Brown of the PTA Library Committee is arranging for parents to work with students, crediting points and sorting the books.

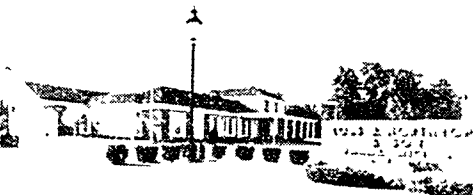

The Young Authors Program is getting into full swing as many students have begun writing their own books. Standards for acceptable books include creative, thematic and grammatical aspects. The program will result in some proud young writers seeing their stories and poems in book form and will give them greater understanding of these components in the books they study. The PTA is scheduling parent volunteers to help assemble the books.

The Sustained Reading Program reached its first goal last week. Students were rewarded for their great reading efforts by none other than Captain Book, who brought appropriate prizes — books for everyone. A fine selection was delivered to each classroom so everyone could have a choice.

MORAINE

Camp Chiyesa in Holly will be the site of a three day "Outdoor Educational Experience" February 11-13 for sixth graders, teachers, volunteer parents and Moraine Principal Donald Van Ingen. Nature observations, compass classes, pioneer crafts, archery, cross country skiing, ice fishing, tobogganing and ice skating are only a few of the fun-filled activities planned for the students.

A PTA Square Dance for fifth and sixth graders and their parents was a big success January 22. Dave Palmer was the caller and instructions were given to those new to square dancing. Karen McCreadie, parent child activity chairperson, is credited with scheduling the event. A Bowling Party for the third and fourth graders and their parents has been set for February 21 at the Northville Lanes.

An all-school Roller Skating Party has been scheduled by the PTA from 6:30-8:30 p.m. February 4 at the Bonaventure Rink in Farmington. Shari Daniels, fund raising chairperson, anticipates another big turnout for this popular activity.

The PTA is sponsoring a return visit of Mona, the star puppet of the Sunday morning TV program "Hot Fudge," on February 20. The program is entitled "Mona, Music and Mime."

The Publishing Center, which was such a great success last year, will begin February 16. The center is run by librarian Mernie Hines, library aide Jean Angell and volunteer parents. The center makes it possible for young authors to have their stories and poems typed, illustrated and bound into a book. The completed books are available in the library for borrowing.

The Campbell Soup label contest will end February 20. The Student Council has set a goal of 18,000 labels to be redeemed for electronic games. Chairperson Bev Warren reported a total of 14,000 labels has been collected to date.

SILVER SPRINGS

Donna Viel and Joy Rice report plans are well underway for the February 17 Pancake Supper. In conjunction with this event, the PTSA has planned a Used Book Sale. Donations now are being accepted in the office for children and adult books on any subject.

The Campbell Soup Label Drive is coming to its conclusion. Cher Ash has announced the final date will be February 20. We still need labels desperately in order to provide the types of equipment needed. Ask your friends and neighbors to help out.

The PTSA has announced the top four prize winners from the fall spice sale. Winners are Courtney Casterline, Suzanne Lanphear, Noma Lakir and Tracy Eschbach. Congratulations.

The December 5th Holiday Shoppe was a huge success. Chairperson Karon Spradlin reports over 3,000 items were offered for sale and at closing time almost everything was gone.

The Holiday Shoppe would not have existed except for the faithful service of Karon Spradlin and her co-chairman Linda McMillan, who spent hundreds of hours organizing parents and workshops to make the holiday season special for our children.

Special considerations and donations were given by T.G. & Y., Snow Hardware, IV Season's Flowers and Guernsey Farm Dairy. These establishments offered discounts and materials that allowed us to offer a larger quantity of quality items that otherwise could have not have been afforded.

The league will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Kathy Burek in Novi.

WINCHESTER

Some new and exciting items are on the agenda at Winchester for 1981.

February 3 is the opening of the Publishing Center. Any child interested in having his or her stories published in book form may do so. This is a marvelous opportunity for children to see their work in print.

There will be an evening of entertainment for the 5th and 6th grade students and their families at 7:30 p.m. February 11. A mime group will be performing and it promises to be an enjoyable time for all.

Valentine's Day will be here soon and students will be having their class parties on February 13.

Mrs. Morantes is offering Spanish classes to interested second graders once a week during the lunch period. This has just begun and we are all grateful to her for giving the students this wonderful opportunity.

A program called Junior Great Books soon will be available to 4th and 5th graders. This also will be a lunch time activity and will be geared towards helping students read for enjoyment.

The Campbell Soup drive will be ending February 20. Let's all make a grand effort during these last few weeks to get our labels to school.

Bake gets recognition for book photographs

"Mr. President, the photography by William A. Bake is stupendous."

This statement, in the Congressional Record, was made by Senator Jennings Randolph, D-West Virginia, in reference to photographs taken by former Northville resident William A. Bake and printed in "The American South: Four Seasons of the Land."

Bake, a graduate of Northville High School, collaborated with columnist James Kilpatrick in preparing the volume commissioned by Southern Living Gallery.

Bake, a disciple of Western photographer Ansel Adams, currently is an artist-in-residence at Appalachian State University in Boone, North Carolina. He also is photographer-editor for the National Park Service Division of Publications.

His photographs have appeared in Reader's Digest, Life, National Geographic books, Southern Living books, Audubon Society books and Sierra Club calendars.

It is the first time a photographic study of the 14 southern states — all in will be competing against Best Dearborn School here at home.

The pizza dinner has been postponed until February 25. A student-teacher volleyball game and the Pepsi Challenge also have been planned for the evening.

January 22 was the date of the exciting Cooke-Meads Mill basketball games. As usual, both the 9th and 7th-8th grade teams played great games.

Bagels still are being sold every Thursday under the supervision of Diane Schrader and Betty Hoffman.

Sue Hinds

MEADS MILL

The musicians at Meads Mill are busy. The Solo Ensemble will perform at Franklin High School January 31. The Beginning Band has just completed a concert at Meads Mill. A future band concert is planned for February 17.

Spirit Week begins February 9. Monday is dress-up day with a dance immediately after school. Tuesday will be hat day, Wednesday Fifties Day and Thursday is school colors day.

The ninth graders are planning a field trip to the Detroit Science Museum on February 12. Career Day has been planned for March 18.

Meads Mill PTSA is helping plan for the Founders' Day Dinner March 26. An individual from each school area will be honored at the event.

On December 23, an assembly was held by the Northville Township Police and the railroad company to inform students about the dangers of explosives.

The "Money and the Teenager" class was very busy during December. They had a variety of lectures on topics such as credit unions and insurance. The class went to the Money Museum in Detroit on December 15.

On December 7, Mr. Stover's ninth grade English class went to the Marquee Theatre in Ann Arbor to see "Romeo and Juliet." Afterward, the class went back stage and met Claribel Baird, one of the play's stars.

Bagel sales continue twice monthly. Volunteers have been generous, but more always are welcome.

MILAN STITT

The scene: a dimly lit theatre, empty except for actors, a director and the author of the show they're producing.

A moment in the life of a Broadway play? No, we're at the Farmington Players barn theatre, where author Milan Stitt of Northville recently spoke to the cast which will perform his play, "The Runner Stumbles," beginning Friday.

"This is one of the most incredible things that ever happened to the Players — or to any group of amateur actors," said director John Powers of Royal Oak. "We're very, very lucky."

"The Runner Stumbles" is the story of a priest, Father Rivard, accused of murdering a nun in 1911 in a small town near Traverse City. The play is composed of scenes from his trial, interspersed with flashbacks to the months before the murder, showing the love that built between him and the nun, Sister Rita.

Other characters in the play are the priest's housekeeper, the country attorney who defends him, a monsignor from the archdiocese and residents from the town known in the play as Solon, Michigan.

"This play is not about Catholicism," Stitt began. "It's about people, about loneliness, about love and a little about the nature of God."

He sat on the edge of the barn theatre's stage, with the cast grouped around him in a semi-circle. While they listened intently, he chain smoked and talked as casually about the characters in the play as if they were old friends.

He glowed when he described the

The playwright, a Northville resident, spends hours explaining why he wrote as he did; why characters do what they do housekeeper's relationship with the priest and nun.

"Father Rivard and Sister Rita are her best buddies," Stitt said. He described the childhood he imagined for the housekeeper, Mrs. Shandig — sold to her "husband" as a child and abused and lonely until she came to work for Rivard.

Sister Rita's childhood was another cruel experience, according to Stitt. He expanded on the scattered details in the play, describing to the cast Rita's unhappy foster home and the silent treatment she received that makes communication so important to her as an adult. It is her need for conversation that creates the love between herself and Rivard but ultimately destroys it.

"Father Rivard is Sister Rita," Stitt said. "They did the same things, made the same mistakes. Now she is fulfilling his dreams."

Rivard spent a lifetime suppressing his emotions in the order of the church, according to Stitt. It provides simple answers and clean starts, but Sister Rita's view of love and life is even simpler, creating more conflict for Rivard than he can bear.

Stitt talked on, spending as much time as needed discussing the smallest parts as well as the leading roles. As members of the cast came to understand the people they would portray, they began talking about the characters as Stitt did — as if those characters were real people and real friends.

"Actors usually have to use their imagination about the characters they play," said Sharlan

Douglas, who portrays one of the town people of Solon. "They have to make up lives and histories that help explain the things that happen onstage. But instead of guessing ... to have the playwright's advice ... well, it was incredible."

"I've never had this much insight into a character," said Dale Feldpausch as Father Rivard. "As an actor and a director I know that the things we've learned here tonight will bring a realism to this show that other groups might never find."

"It was just wonder," said director Powers. "Milan's been a real help to me in designing the set and interpreting this play. His description of the characters was so clear that it's made my job a heck of a lot easier."

Powers met Stitt as a University of Detroit student when the Theatre Company there was producing "The Runner Stumbles." Stitt was a Michigan resident when he wrote the play and has tried to become involved in all the Detroit-area productions of the show.

Currently, he divides his time between Ann Arbor, where he is teaching at the University of Michigan, and New York, where he writes for the stage and television. A PBS special, "Ephraim McDowell's Kentucky Ride," written by Stitt, is scheduled to air this month. He will begin shooting another TV special soon.

Curtain goes up at 8:30 Friday and Saturday, at 7:30 Sunday.

The play will be repeated February 6-8, 12-15, and 19-21.

Outdoor treats coming next weekend

Two different and widely separated winter outdoor events are slated the weekend of February 7 — one on White Lake in Oakland County and the other in Mancelona southwest of Gaylord.

A number of residents from Milford, including the Beers family, and from Wixom, Novi and Brighton, already are registered to take part in the White Pine Stampede — the premier event of the Michigan cross country ski season — at Mancelona on Saturday, February 7.

Relocated entirely within the boundaries of Antrim County, this year's Stampede includes 20 and 50 kilometer races that will start near the Mancelona airport on the west side of town. The 20 kilometer race ends at Schuss Mountain and the 50 ends at Hilton Shanty Creek.

Upon completing the Stampede, races will be able to dine at either Schuss Mountain or Shanty Creek.

The Stampede starts at 10 a.m. Racers may pick up their race packets between 5-8 p.m. the night before at 103 State Street in Mancelona. Following the races, at 6 p.m. in the Bellaire Room at Hilton Shanty Creek, an awards ceremony will be held.

Much closer to home, the first White Lake Winter Carnival, sponsored by White Lake Inn, 3955 Ormond Road, will provide a mixture of outdoor fun from 9 a.m. to 2 a.m. on both Saturday and Sunday, February 7 and 8.

And all of it is being offered for just $1, with 50-percent of the proceeds going to the muscular dystrophy association.

Softball games on ice, hot air balloon rides, and mixed drinks are planned.

Elected officials and TV personalities will be on hand.

JEROME A. DELANEY of Northville has been appointed manager of the new Plymouth office of Weir, Manuel, Snyder and Ranke, Inc., a Birmingham based Realtors organization. The new branch office is located at 498 South Main, immediately south of the Mayflower Hotel. The 30-year-old company presently has offices in West Bloomfield, Birmingham, Troy and Rochester staffed by 100 sales persons and generating more than $150,000,000 in business annually. A continued growth in sales volume prompted the company to enlarge its service area to include Plymouth, Northville and surrounding areas of Canton, Livonia and Novi. The Plymouth facility contains 4,600 square feet, approximately one half of which the company will use immediately to accommodate 16 salespeople. The remaining portion will be leased and utilized for further expansion. Delaney has been in sales with the company, at its West Bloomfield office, for the past five years. Prior to that he was with Del E. Webb and Chrysler Realty at their Wabek Development in Bloomfield Hills.

PRESTON'S SPORTS DEPARTMENT is now open for business at 3187 Union Lake Road in Union Lake, one block south of Commerce Road. The store is owned and operated by Thomas and Joyce Preston of Commerce Township. Preston's Sports Department offers all types of team and individual sporting goods, and specializes in uniforms and equipments for teams and schools. Available at the store are uniforms for softball, baseball, soccer, basketball and hockey teams; and the store also features cheerleading uniforms, cheerleading equipment, including pon poms; and varsity jackets. In addition to team-oriented uniforms and equipment, Preston's also offers sporting good items that include baseball, racquetball, volleyball, track and weight-training equipment as well as hockey skates. Also available is a "transfer department" for putting pictures, numerals and lettering on T-shirts. Pat "Doc" Barry is available for customized airbrush artwork on T-shirts. Preston's Sports Department previously was located in both the Lake Plaza Shopping Center in Union Lake and Highland Township before moving into its new quarters on Union Lake Road.

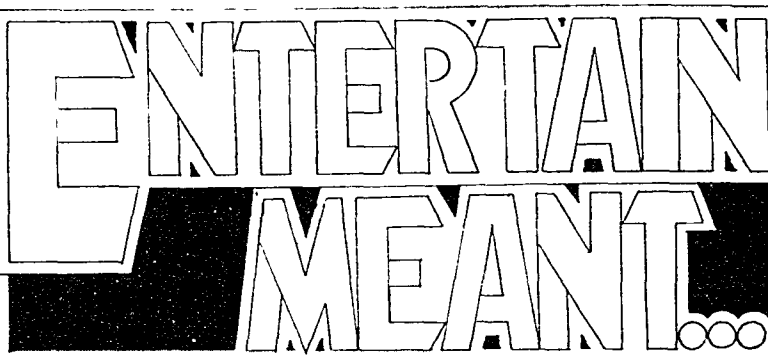

WOODLAND MEDICAL CENTER has officially opened its new 90,000 square foot facility in one of the largest and most comprehensive outpatient centers in the Midwest. The architecture and design of the building incorporate both the latest design technology and 25 years of outpatient experience that Woodland has had in southeastern Michigan. The waiting areas, examining rooms, location of laboratory facilities and overall patient flow are planned for efficient patient care and patient satisfaction. The new medical center is located on West Twelve Mile, just east of Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi. It is an extension of the original Woodland Medical Center on Eight Mile in northwest Detroit. Dr. John Mucasey said Woodland Medical has a staff of over 50 doctors, fully qualified in approximately 25 specialties to serve the area's growing population. "We are fully committed to the idea of group practice," Mucasey continued. "By that we means tests, diagnoses and treatment for all people, of all ages, all in one place. And each patient selects and remains with his own regular physician."

The first Woodland Medical will continue to serve patients in northwest Detroit. "But so many of our patients had moved to Oakland County, and the trip back and forth for them was time and energy consuming that we felt the time was right for a new Woodland in the Novi area," Mucasey said. Both Woodlands are affiliated with Independence Health Plan, a two-year old Health Maintenance Organization (HMO) plan which has administrative offices in Southfield. Independence also has two other medical centers: Associated Physicians in Taylor and Memorial Medical Center in Sterling Heights. Independence now has over 17,000 subscribers in the tri-county area. "We are confident that the new Novi medical center will be one of the real strengths of our plan in the future," said Bruce Mullican, president of Independence Health Plan. "In fact, in our recent enrollment drive for Ford Motor Company salaried employees, 1,000 of our 2,954 new subscribers selected the Woodland-Novu facility." The new Woodland-Novu Center is like the other Independence medical centers in that it is an established group practice with a wide variety of specialties practicing in a very comprehensive facility. All of the centers have their own laboratory, complete x-ray department, on-premise pharmacy and optical service. Finding
The Sun

Sorrow wells up
Inside of me
And stays for an Eternity
Behind the clouds
Mom used to say
You'll find the sun
If you only pray
So when I want
To find the sun
I look to God
My number one.

Before the Civil War, Vandalia served as the junction of two important lines of the Underground Railroad. More than 25 underground railroad stations were located in Michigan.

Tax reform top priority for 1981

By WARREN M. HOYT

Anticipating yet another petition drive to get a property tax cutting constitutional amendment back before the voters, Governor William G. Milliken and legislative leaders have wasted no time listing property tax reform as a top priority for the 1981 legislative session.

State government narrowly missed having the voters reduce property taxes 50 percent at the last general election. Such voter approval would have crippled state government's ability to provide basic human services.

Voters gave governmental leaders "one more chance" to do something about the spiraling property taxes with the defeat of the proposed constitutional amendment.

However, taxpayers will be closely watching governmental leaders and if they return to "business as usual" in Lansing, voters probably will reverse that decision in November, 1982.

The property tax reform question is so important that Milliken decided to give a "reform" proposal special coverage and made his plan public two days before his all-encompassing State of the State address.

A $785 million homestead tax reduction proposal, which includes a $250 million reduction in state and local spending, was unveiled by the governor and he called upon the legislature to approve a special statewide election on June 8, to present the tax proposal only to the voters.

The proposal includes a sales tax increase of one percent, a provision that will replace $535 million of the $785 million cut in property taxes.

The $250 million not made up would be absorbed by $125 million in spending cuts by the state and $125 million in cuts by various local units of government.

Under the governor's proposal, the average Michigan household would see a cut in property tax bills of $335 in 1981, but would pay about $135 more in sales taxes, producing a net tax savings of about $200 per household.

The governor and his aides said they hope the net tax cut will help to both pass the proposal and to defuse any further moves for a massive tax cut plan as has been before voters in both the 1978 and 1980 elections.

The Milliken proposal would include home property tax reduction of 35 percent, beginning with the July bills, up to a maximum of $1,400. Senior citizens would get a complete exemption on the first $1,400 of property taxes to be adjusted annually for inflation.

Renters would be able to credit 25 percent of their rent as property taxes, instead of the current 17 percent.

The state would reimburse local units for 89 percent of the revenue lost from direct property tax cuts, reflecting the $125 million in spending cuts to be absorbed by those units.

At the special election, voters would decide only on a constitutional amendment to increase the sales tax and earmark lottery revenues to education. The other provisions would be contained in separate bills which would only take effect upon approval of the amendment.

Officials said all the bills and the constitutional amendment must be approved by the legislature by April 1 in order to have the special election on June 8. That date is necessary to have the reduction affect the July tax bills.

Meanwhile, the legislative leaders, during the opening sessions of the 81st legislature, also listed property tax reform as their top priority. They generally seemed to be in agreement with the Milliken proposal and called for early action.

Mustangs beat Lakeland in OT, are handed first league loss by Churchill

By KEN KOVACS

Everything was going their way.

The Mustang cagers were undefeated in the Western Six, had beaten a talented Milford Lakeland squad 63-61 just three days before and were sitting on top of the world with a 10-1 overall mark.

They seemingly could do no wrong.

But when coach Tim Lutes and his charges were enroute to the Livonia Churchill gym Friday for the first of five consecutive road games, he admitted he was more than a little concerned.

Lutes was hoping his team wouldn't suffer a letdown, but the stage was set.

"We were ripe for an upset," the Mustang mentor admitted. "After the big victory over Lakeland Tuesday things just didn't go right the rest of the week."

"We had beaten taller teams like Lakeland and Howell — whose starters average better than 6-foot-2 — by controlling the tempo of the game."

"But we did not execute our game plan well against Churchill," the coach stated. "We weren't sharp mentally."

The result: Churchill 59, Northville 50.

One of the major problems the Mustangs had was ineffectiveness at the foul line.

The Northville cagers made only 21 of 50 charity tosses for 42 percent. And it would have been much worse if the Mustangs hadn't made eight of 14 in the final period.

Dave Ward, who has been averaging more than 17 points a game, was held to 11. The 6-foot-7 center did manage to pull down 17 caroms — half of Northville's total rebounds.

The Mustangs' floor leader and second leading scorer Dave Greer hit his average of 12 points, but made only two of seven free throws and collected just three rebounds.

Forward Greg May was one of the bright spots for Northville, accounting for nine points, netting three field goals and sinking three of five free throws.

The senior also grabbed four rebounds and sparked a fourth quarter comeback attempt before collecting his fifth foul, which forced him to the bench.

Guard Tim McLaughlin also put forth a valiant effort, collecting 10 points, while snaring four misdirected shots.

Senior forwards Todd Jennings and Duke Dusablon rounded out the Mustangs' scoring, netting six and two points, respectively.

Against Lakeland Northville fought, scraped and clawed its way to an overtime victory, scoring when it had to.

Ward netted 21 points and Greer added 17 in what was undoubtedly the most satisfying win for the Mustangs this season.

Northville led 52-48 when Ward collected his fifth personal foul, forcing him to leave the game with 1:12 left in regulation time.

Then the Mustangs missed five straight charity tosses — including the first shot of three one-and-one situations — and it looked like the Northville team was doomed.

Lakeland scored to make it 52-50, when the Mustangs took a time out with 11 seconds left to play.

The hustling Northville defense, paced by Gary Kucher's three steals, kept Lakeland from scoring until the Mustangs eventually committed a foul, giving the Eagles an opportunity to tie the game.

Lakeland made both shots to knot the score at 52 and time ran out before the Mustangs could score.

But they were not to be denied.

Greer sank a field goal to break the ice in overtime and added two free throws before fouling out with less than a minute to play.

The Mustang reserves then took over, working the four-corner stall to perfection, forcing Lakeland to foul. Northville made seven of nine charity tosses to secure the win.

Kucher and May netted two apiece and forward Steve Handley added one more.

Lakeland pushed a shot through the hoop just before the final buzzer to come within two points.

The Northville cagers will travel to Farmington Harrison Friday.

The Hawks and Mustangs currently are tied for first place in the Western Six with 4-1 marks.

Top of the Key

Ladies and gentlemen, meet Dean Danek.

The 6-7 Milford Lakeland senior center scored 25 points against Livonia Stevenson Friday to introduce himself to the Spartans, and consequently he's the new kid on the block in this week's Top of the Key feature. Danek is now one of the Sliger Home Newspaper area's top 10 scorers — currently ranking sixth — and would have been there all season had not an ankle injury sidelined him.

Danek can take some bows along with another Milford standout this week. Milford High's Rob Sharpe retained his number one ranking at the Top of the Key by pouring in a career-high 31 points Friday as his team upset first-place Waterford Kettering.

Also jumping back into this week's Top 10 is Novi's Todd Parsons, who scored 25 points in his team's double-overtime win Friday.

Coach Gary Emerson counsels Dan Sacklach

NHS wrestlers finally on road to recovery

By KEN KOVACS

The injuries are healing and the Northville High School wrestling team is starting to become more competitive.

Though the ailing, fiery few lost dual meets to Dearborn Fordson and Waterford Mott and had only one wrestler place at the Rochester Invitational Saturday, the determined grapplers nearly tripped Mott Thursday.

After 10 matches — which included a void by both teams at 98 pounds — Northville actually was ahead 28-24 and had a shot at winning the meet.

If Dan Sacklach could score a pin, the Mustangs could claim their first dual meet victory since the Holiday break.

The 167-pounder did manage to win his match, but could not pin his opponent. He won 8-4.

Northville still had a slim chance to win.

Coach Gary Emerson chose to void at 185 and entered Neil Young, who normally competes at that weight, one weight class higher — 198 pounds.

If he could somehow manage a pin, the Mustangs could still eek out a victory.

Though Young gave it his best effort, he got down 5-0 in the first three-minute period and couldn't recover. The final was 7-3.

In other Mott-Northville matchups: Neil Hartshorne was pinned at 105 pounds, as was R.S. Wolfgram at 112.

Frank Nieto won on a void at 119 pounds and Greg Marshall also picked up six points when Mott could produce no competitor at 126.

Bromley Kelly suffered a fall at 132 pounds, Jack Wallace pinned his 138-pound opponent, and John Collins — coming back off a broken foot — was pinned at 145.

Neil FitzPatrick lost 10-0.

Six voids put the Mustangs down by 36 points before any wrestlers took to the mats Monday against Fordson.

The final result: Fordson 60, Northville 9.

Mike Ross and Wolfgang were pinned at 98 and 112 pounds, while Nieto battled to a near win at 119 pounds, only to fall 4-3 in the final seconds.

Wallace lost 7-2 at 138 pounds, while FitzPatrick triumphed 8-6 at 155 and Sacklach lost by a fall at 167.

Candela, who has pushed his season record to 22-6, scored another pin.

Candela was the only Northville wrestler to make it past the first round Saturday at the 22-team invitational meet at Rochester.

The junior heavyweight won his first match 1-0, then got pinned in his second contest by Glenn Grigar, a 350-pounder from Clio.

It was the first time this year that Candela lost by a fall.

He bounced back to beat his next opponent, Dan Robinson of Clintdale, 4-1.

In his fourth and final match, Candela beat Ron Schimon of Rochester Adams, 6-2.

In other first-round matchups: Wolfgram, Nieto and Marshall suffered pinned and Wallace lost 14-8 to the third seed at 132 pounds.

Collins wrestled his 138-pound opponent to a 10-10 tie but lost on a referee's decision.

At 145 pounds Brian Shake was ahead 8-6 going to the final period, but could not hold on for the win.

Sacklach lost 8-5 at 167, and Young lost 4-3 at 185.

Northville voided at 98, 105, 155 and 198.

The Mustang matmen were scheduled to taken on Walled Lake Central and Western and Ann Arbor Huron Tuesday at Central. They are scheduled to visit Livonia Churchill tomorrow (Thursday).

JV squad drops pair

Junior varsity Mustang basketballers dropped to 2-3 in the Western Six Conference and 7-5 overall last week, suffering losses to Milford Lakeland and Livonia Churchill.

The Eagles swooped into the Northville gym Tuesday and stuck the Mustangs, 64-46. Friday at Churchill the final was 66-46.

Northville's leading scorer, John Foley, who was ill with the flu the day before, tallied only four points in the Lakeland game.

The Eagles led throughout the contest, pouring in 20 points in the third quarter and as many in the final period.

Forward Dave Bach and center Tim Hendra collected eight points apiece in the losing effort.

Bach also pulled in eight rebounds, while Hendra had five caroms.

A healthy Foley netted 18 points against Churchill, but his teammates went cold. The next highest scorers were Bach and Mike Kaley, who added six apiece.

Bach led in caroms with eight, while Hendra pulled down six.

Northville was outrebounded 59-37, a statistic that didn't please coach Omar Harrison.

"We didn't play with intensity," he said. "Churchill had three big kids, but we shouldn't have been beaten that badly on the boards."

"When you get outrebounded by 22 you know you are in trouble."

Schoolcraft athletes experience wins, losses

Phil Blevins, Schoolcraft College freshman, was named Eastern Conference Player of the Week last week for his performance in Ocelot victories over Oakland and Washtenaw community colleges.

The 6-foot-6 Blevins was selected by the Michigan Community College Athletic Association (MCCAA) because he helped Schoolcraft move out of the cellar, as he contributed a total of 45 points and grabbed 25 rebounds.

He currently holds a 19.7 point average in seven games.

The Ocelots downed Oakland 56-52 and Washtenaw 86-70.

Coach Rocky Watkins said his cagers played their best game of the season against Oakland.

He praised the floor play of guards James Harkrader and Manual Smith, as well as Blevins' efforts.

Blevins scored 19 points in the win over OCC and 26 against Washtenaw.

The Schoolcraft basketballers currently boast a 9-7 mark overall and stand at 4-5 in conference play.

Schoolcraft women's cage team still is looking for its first win after three recent defeats.

The Lady Ocelots were beaten 65-41 by St. Clair of Windsor January 12, 100-41 by St. Clair Community College January 14 and 98-19 by Henry Ford Community College January 17.

The squad has suffered eight conference losses and 10 setbacks overall this season.

The Schoolcraft gymnasts beat Sinclair Community College of Dayton, Ohio 141.6-124.1 January 16.

The Ocelots' score set a new team record as did Kevin Watson of Detroit King with 38.85 points in all-around events.

Mustang gymnasts' streak ended by Viking sensation

By KEN KOVACS

It was inevitable. Coach Jack Townsley knew it would happen. His Northville High School gymnastics squad knew it would happen. It simply was a question of when it would happen. And Friday Walled Lake Central — and more specifically senior gymnast Celeste Harrington — made it happen. What happened was the Mustang gymnasts, who downed Ypsilanti 87.4-79.25 earlier in the week, suffered their first loss in four meets. The talented Viking gymnasts, led by Brighton transfer Harrington — who took first place in each of the four events — triumphed 93.55-91.15 to boost their season mark to 3-0. Northville managed to win the vaulting competition despite Harrington's 9.1 performance, by taking second, third and fourth. Paula Broderick scored 8.3 and Pam Stephens and Amy Aaron had identical scores of 8.15 to clinch the event for the Mustangs. Then came the uneven parallel bars. Once again Harrington, a United States Gymnastics Federation (USGF) Class 'A' state champ, led the pack, posting an 8.3. Broderick was second with a 7.75, Stephens third at 7.15 and Anita Hodge fourth at 6.9. At the end of two events, Northville had the edge, 46.4-46.35. A fancy dismount and a nearly perfect routine resulted in an 8.8 for the Vikings' talented gymnast in the balance beam competition. Broderick was runner-up with 7.7, but the Mustangs faltered, losing the third and fourth spots as well. Stephens managed to finish fifth at 7.05 and Aaron was sixth at 6.8, but Northville had lost its lead. With one event to go Central was up 69.75-67.95. Broderick posted her best score of the night — an 8.45 — but it was enough to top Harrington's 8.6. Again the Mustangs gave up third and fourth places. Stephens finished with a 7.5, good enough for fifth place, while Aaron and Holly Raycraft tied for sixth at 7.25. The final damage: Central 93.55, Northville 91.15. "Their team matched ours, man for man, except for Harrington," the Northville coach said. "She really was something to watch." When the Mustangs matched talents with Ypsilanti January 19, they again had one very talented gymnast to reckon with. But this time the Mustangs triumphed. "As good as she was, she didn't win even one event," Townsley boasted. "We beat her by a fraction in each event." Stephens edged the talented Ypsilanti sophomore, Grechen Weikart, 8.4 to 8.05 in the vaulting competition. Aaron took third at 7.85 and Hodge and Broderick matched scores at 7.55. Both Stephens and Broderick topped the Ypsilanti talent in the uneven parallel bars, posting respective scores of 7.75 and 7.7. Weikart took third with 7.6, while Mustangs Aaron and Hodge were fourth and fifth at 7.05 and 7.0, respectively. Broderick took the top honors on the balance beam, posting a 7.95, while Weikart was second at 7.55. Stephens followed with a score of 7.1. Northville was in the driver's seat with a 65.65-59.95 going into the final event. And the Mustangs didn't let up. Broderick, Stephens and Aaron finished, one, two, three with scores of 7.85, 7.2 and 6.7, respectively. Raycraft and Tammy Selfridge followed at 6.5 and 6.0. Despite the loss to Central, Townsley is very optimistic. "We are doing very well," he said. "We scored an average of 90 point per meet and are improving as we go along. "If injuries don't get us we'll be in pretty good shape," he said. The Mustang gymnasts were scheduled to host Plymouth Salem Monday. They will participate in an invitational meet Saturday at Saline.

Tankers take lumps, suffer two setbacks

By KEN KOVACS

A pair of losses last week didn't do anything to brighten the spirits of coach Pete Talbot.

His Northville tankers bowed to a powerful Plymouth Salem team, 60-23, January 19 and followed with a 47-53.75 defeat at the hands of Redford Union Thursday.

"Salem was even tougher than I thought they would be," Talbot stated. "I knew they were going to be good, but I didn't expect to get blown out."

Northville managed to win only three of 11 events and finished second in only two matchups.

Char Ramsey took the top honors in the 200-yard free style with a time of 1:54.60.

He also clinched the 500-yard free style, clocking in at 5:24.55.

Talbot was quite pleased with the senior's performance.

"I really didn't think that he was going to have this good a year," the coach admitted. "He has a chance to break team records in both events. But his best shot is probably in the 200 (-yard free style)."

"He has come within three seconds of the record in the 200 already and is improving his time with each meet."

Senior Tony Nader grabbed Northville's other first place finish, covering the 100-yard breast stroke in 1:06.2.

Sophomore Jim Burchard captured second place in the 100-yard butterfly with a time of 1:07.37, while the 400-yard free style relay team of Doug Iverson, Burchard, Dave Copp and Ramsey was runner-up at 3:52.52.

The Mustangs took four first places and as many seconds in the loss to Redford.

The 200-yard medley relay team of Gary Lauber, Tom Moore, Mickey Nader and Copp won with a time of 1:55.5.

Lauber also claimed top honors in the 50-yard free style (24.6) and 100-yard back stroke (1:04.1).

Mickey Nader swept the 100-yard breast stroke, clocking in at 1:14.2.

Among the second place finishers were Ramsey in the 200-yard individual medley; Tim Frader in the 100-yard free style; Ramsey in the 500-yard free style; Mike Klein in the 100-yard breast stroke and the 400-yard free style relay team (Pantier, Iverson, Burchard and Ramsey).

CHAR RAMSEY

The Mustangs sorely missed the services of senior Tony Nader, one of their top performers, who had to attend to some personal matters, according to Talbot.

"We could have used him," the coach said. "It certainly would have made a big difference. Another first place and a few more seconds and the outcome might have been different."

Talbot is hoping Nader will be back when Northville travels to Livonia Churchill Thursday for a league meet.

"We shouldn't have a problem with Churchill," Talbot predicted. "They aren't as strong as expected from what I have heard."

The Mustangs currently stand at 1-1 in the Western Six. They scored their only league win against Farmington Harrison and suffered their lone setback against Plymouth Canton.

Equally important, savings accounts at First Federal are insured to $100,000 by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation. And with multiple ownership of accounts, it's possible to provide insurance coverage for a whole lot more. We'll gladly show you how.

Your money—and our people—are working close to you.

Spikers claim comeback win

By KEN KOVACS

The road proved rocky for the Northville High School volleyball team last week.

The Mustang spikers did manage a comeback victory over Novi Monday, but they dropped another contest to Waterford Mott and took a beating at a 67-team tournament at Battle Creek Saturday.

Only eight of the 13 team members made the trip to Battle Creek, due to the last minute scheduling and illness.

And despite the fact that his team won only one game in eight tries — a 15-10 trouncing of Dominican, a Catholic school in Detroit — coach Steve McDonald said the trip was very worthwhile.

"Although we only beat one team, we didn't get blown out against any of the teams we played," he said. "It was a super tournament and everyone got to play a lot," he said. "They got to see some of the best teams in the state. I think they gained a lot of experience by participating in the tournament."

Among the teams Northville faced in the all-day tournament were Lansing Waverly, Bloomfield Andover, Saginaw Eisenhower and Dominican.

Monday, January 19, the Northville volleyball squad traveled to Novi for what was to be a stirring come-from-behind victory.

The Mustangs fell to the Wildcats, 15-10 in the first game, and things looked bleak for the visitors.

But then the Northville spikers decided they were going to give it a go.

Down 12-5 in the second game, the Mustangs turned things around completely, scoring 10 points to the Wildcats' one.

"The starters weren't getting the job done, so I started substituting and the girls really went to town," McDonald said. "And when it came time for the third game, I think Novi was psyched out. They couldn't believe what had just happened."

Northville took the deciding contest, 15-5.

Melinda House, who played in the two final games, had 23 good hits in 28 attempts, while Kim Maguire posted 44 good hits in 53 attempts in three games.

Others who contributed to the Mustang victory were Tammy Chew, who had 36 good hits in 43 attempts, Stacy Hoover, who collected 20 in 23 (two games) and Karen Irwin with nine of 15 in one game.

McDonald also praised the consistent setting by Sharon Knauss.

Northville took Mott to three games, but came up short, losing 14-16, 15-9, 13-15.

"The girls played well enough to win," McDonald said. "But they couldn't get the winners when they really needed them."

Maguire again led the Mustang hitting attack, cashing in on 20 of 23 attempts.

Hoover also had her share, chalking up 14 good hits of 19 tries.

But Jeri Gerzuna was the spark plug for Northville, according to McDonald.

"She really got the team going when she was in there," the coach praised. "She probably played the best all-around game against Mott."

The sophomore scored aces on five of 18 serves, all of which were good.

Chew added 10 good hits on 13 attempts for the Mustangs.

The Northville spikers are scheduled to take on Livonia Churchill — one of the Western Six powers, according to McDonald — today.

Melinda House came in to give the NHS spikers a needed boost

But on January 1, 1981, you'll have the chance to take advantage of a brand new service from Standard Federal Savings — checking accounts with interest. In addition to providing savings accounts which pay the highest rate available on insured savings, Standard Federal also offers the opportunity to earn the highest interest allowed on your checking account.

You may open an account in any amount. However, with a minimum balance of $500.00 OR an average daily balance of $1,000.00, you may write all the checks you wish, with no monthly service charge (A $5.00 monthly fee is assessed if you go below the minimum or average requirements).

- Each month you'll receive a detailed statement of your account which lists your checks in numerical order, your deposits, any service charges assessed and the interest earned during the statement period.
- Personalized checks are printed free of charge if you choose not to have your checks returned with your monthly statement. There will be a charge for printing personalized checks if you wish to have your checks returned to you. With either option, you may select a style that provides a carbon copy of each check for your records.

- A permanent record of each check will be kept by Standard Federal Savings. If you need a copy for any reason, microfilm copies of as many as 25 checks per year (or all checks relating to an IRS audit) will be provided at no charge.

You are probably using more electricity, gas, and oil than necessary. By using the Big Ten Checklist, you can identify ways of reducing energy use and costs, and help the nation conserve energy. The first six items include actions which you can undertake with little or no expense. Other measures involving expenditures also may result in long-term savings of money and energy.

- ☐ 1 Weather-stripping/caulking — look for air cracks around doors, windows, and other openings, such as around pipes and ducts. Seal them by caulking* or weather-stripping. Heat and air conditioning escape through cracks.
- ☐ 2 Thermostat — set at 65 degrees in winter and at least 5 degrees lower when sleeping or away. (Higher heating temperatures are recommended for homes with sick, elderly, or infants.) Set at 78 degrees in summer. Consider a clock thermostat*.
- ☐ 3 Water heaters — this is a major energy user in the home. Try a lower thermostat setting. Consider an insulation wrap*. Install water flow restrictors in showers and faucets. They cut hot water use without affecting family comfort. When replacing water heater, choose an energy-efficient model.
- ☐ 4 Heating/cooling system — clean or replace filters as needed. Close vents in unused rooms. Insulate* ducts and pipes in unheated spaces. Consider devices* which can increase the efficiency of your existing system. When replacing, choose an energy-efficient model.
- ☐ 5 Sunlight — keep direct sunlight out in summer, let it in during winter. Drapes, shutters, awnings, shade trees, glass with reflective film,* and solar screens* help.
- ☐ 6 Appliances/lighting — fully load dryers and clothes and dish washers. Turn off unnecessary lights. If replacing, buy energy-efficient appliances and lighting. Look for appliance efficiency labels—compare operating costs.
- ☐ 7 Attic insulation — check to see if your attic has the recommended level of insulation*, including the attic door.
- ☐ 8 Floors and foundation walls — check for adequate insulation* under floors, around basement, crawl space, and foundation walls.
- ☐ 9 Windows and doors — consider storm windows* doors,* or double-paned glass* to keep in heat and air conditioning.
- ☐ 10 Exterior walls — consider adding insulation*, particularly when remodeling or re-siding your house.

After completing this checklist, you may want to call your utility, state energy office, or Agricultural Extension Service to obtain general advice on doing the job safely and correctly. For information about energy-efficient products, contact building material retailers, contractors, fuel dealers, manufacturers, or appliance dealers. Shop for best prices and values.

* You may qualify for federal income tax credits of 15 percent of the first $2,000 spent on the items marked above. You may also qualify for tax credits up to $4,000 for approved solar devices.

These recommendations are presented as a service of the National Institute of Building Sciences and the United States Department of Energy to encourage you to save energy and money.

Save this "Big-Ten Checklist." It is your guide to the ten major ways you can reduce energy waste in your home. It has the latest information on tax credits and places to contact for additional information in your community.

Even Vapors Help

energy. In fact, the Department of Energy estimates that homeowners can save up to $100 a year in heating costs and $35 in central air conditioning costs by insulating ducts.

In the heating season, the water vapors emanating from bathing and cooking are beneficial because they help humidify the home. So use the kitchen and bath exhaust fans sparingly.

Fireplace Damper

Check your fireplace damper. Don't be surprised if you find an air gap of an inch or more, even when the damper is closed. And a gap here can be especially costly because the chimney is literally designed to encourage a strong draft.

Choosing TV Set

When it's time to shop for the next color TV set, look for the label "100 percent solid state." Solid-state designs draw about one-third less current than tube sets and, because they dissipate less heat, put lighter burden on the cooling system.

Here's some advice on how to sharpen your buying skills

Recognizing the best buys among the many choices available is not easy; but with some instruction and practice, you can sharpen your skills and learn to shop wisely, advises Money Management Institute of Household Finance Corporation.

When buying goods, be a season-conscious shopper.

For example, January is a good time to be looking for an air conditioner. Watch for sales.

While in the midst of a snowstorm, you may dream of warmer climates, but that sunny resort vacation may fit your budget better during the off season months.

Seasonal clothing, sports equipment, garden tools and gifts are available in greater quantity and variety early in the season, but the prices will be lower at pre-, mid- or end-of-season sales.

Try to shop when stores are well stocked and least crowded, although it's not always possible. Buy from stores which specialize in specific products; non-food items are usually more expensive when purchased in a grocery store, for example. If you are tired, hungry or hurried, the chances are you will spend more and end up dissatisfied with your purchase.

The following points may help you increase your purchasing power:

1. Consider the time, energy and transportation costs you must invest in careful shopping. The saving of small amounts of money may not justify large expenditures of these important resources.

2. Read and keep labels, seals, hangtags and instruction booklets. Ask questions. You will need all the information you can get on the performance, use and care of items you buy.

3. Check guarantees and warranties. Find out what is promised...who stands behind the promise...what responsibilities you must accept to benefit from a guarantee or warranty. Be sure you fill out and send in the warranty card that comes with any item you buy and save your sales receipt as proof of purchase.

4. Buy low-cost substitutes when they meet your needs. An area rug which costs less than wall-to-wall carpeting probably is a better buy if you are renting and plan to move in a year, for example.

5. Consider used merchandise if it is in good condition. Second-hand goods of high quality can sometimes be a better value than new items of low quality. Check your want ads. Inspect used goods carefully — there usually are no guarantees or returns.

6. Figure the extra costs of maintenance and upkeep before buying. Major appliances may involve additional charges for delivery, installation and/or servicing. Light-colored carpentering and upholstery may involve additional cleaning.

When buying food consider these tips:

—Combine shopping trips with other errands to save energy.

—Buy the larger size or in quantity if this offers real savings and if you have the storage space.

Some stores offer unit pricing, which states the product's cost per measurement. For example, you get more for your money if you buy 12 ounces at 89 cents (7.4 cents per ounce) than eight ounces at 67 cents (8.4 cents per ounce).

Unit pricing tells you at a glance which size product offers you the best buy. It does not, however, indicate the quality, taste or appearance of the product.

—Buy fresh food only in amounts you can eat, freeze or can before it spoils.

—Check the expiration date on perishables before purchasing.

—Watch the register as the cashier rings up your sale.

When buying clothing:

—Inventory your closet to determine what you need.

—Extend your wardrobe by purchasing separates which can be mixed and matched.

—Spruce up last year's wardrobe with new accessories.

—Look for clothes which fit your lifestyle.

—Consider color, style, fit and fabric.

A The lower prices recently paid for natural gas were admittedly due to a temporary surplus. As the surplus dwindles and price deregulation proceeds, higher and higher prices are forecast. One large power company has already requested permission to raise its natural gas rates by 85%!

B The cost of converting to gas heat may run $2,000 or more—a loss impossible to recover as natural gas prices rise.

On the other hand, an older oilheat system can be modernized to increase efficiency...at a cost that can be recovered in two years or less, just in fuel dollars saved. Uncle Sam smiles on such energy-saving decisions by allowing substantial tax credits to homeowners who invest in new oilheat equipment...a saving not offered to those switching to gas.

Utilities give loans to do jobs

Edison and Consumers Power companies offer financing for home insulation.

Here's how it works:

Detroit Edison Customers

If you are a Detroit Edison customer and want to install ceiling, sidewall, basement, or floor insulation, Detroit Edison may be able to help by lending up to $750.

The loan may be paid back in monthly installments added to the utility bill. If the loan is repaid within three months, there are no interest or finance charges. If the homeowner chooses to make monthly payments (over a period of up to 48 months), the interest rate is 11.13 percent per year.

A 15-percent down payment is required.

Under this program, Detroit Edison pays the contractor, while the homeowner repays Edison according to the terms of the loan agreement.

Consumers Power Customers

If you are a Consumers Power gas customer and want to install ceiling insulation, Consumers may be able to help by lending up to $300.

The loan may be paid back in monthly installments added to the gas bill. If you repay the loan within three months, there are no interest or finance charges. If you choose to make monthly payments over 12, 24, or 36 months, the interest rate is 12 percent per year or one percent per month.

A 25-percent down payment is required.

As in the case of Edison, Consumers Power pays the contractor, while the customer repays Consumers according to the terms of the loan agreement.

Try on clothes to be sure of proper fit.

—Consider your priorities — high fashion, top quality, classic styles.

—Read the fabric care label and take into consideration the cost of cleaning the garment before making the purchase.

—Request a care label for your finished garment when buying piece goods.

When buying home furnishings:

—Select furnishings that harmonize with the furniture you already have.

—Use fabric and color samples to coordinate new purchases with those made previously. Check colors in natural daylight.

—Inspect merchandise — try doors, drawers and all movable parts...sit in sofas and chairs...check inside, underneath and in back for construction details...rock furniture to test sturdiness.

—Find out if finishes have been applied to the wood or fabric and if so, their purpose.

—Compare the size of the new furniture with available space.

—Read the fabric care labels.

When buying appliances:

—Compare dimensions with available space.

—Compare the installation requirements — electric, water and gas connections — with your existing facilities.

—Consider construction details — inner and outer finishes, controls, insulation, doors and handles.

—Determine the capacity you need.

—Select the model that best meets your needs — freestanding, built-in, portable.

When buying medicine:

—Compare prices for prescription drugs.

—Request that your doctor use the generic name of the drug when writing prescriptions.

Humidifier pays off

Protect home value

Equipping your home with a humidifier can help protect its value and save work in preparation for resale, according to Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors (WWOCBR).

The Realtors point out that humidity control in the home is especially important in winter months when cold air holds far less moisture than warm summer air. As the cold air enters the home and becomes heated, its moisture-holding capacity is increased.

If moisture is not introduced into the warmed air by a humidifier or other means, moisture is drawn from every available source to correct the imbalance. This is why during winter furniture may warp and loosen its joints, plastered walls and painted surfaces may crack, wallpaper peel and floors creak.

Problems can arise, says the WWOCBR, with any substance that holds moisture — paper, plaster, carpets, leather, or wood. This often leaves the material brittle and speeds its deterioration.

Lack of humidity in the home also can cause a great deal of personal discomfort and indirectly add to heating costs, the Realtors say.

Drying out of skin may cause it to itch, sting or crack and you may awaken with mouth and nose parched and irritated.

You will be more sensitive to cold with a tendency to dial up the thermostat or drop another log on the fire. While helping keep you warm, these added degrees of heat also will add substantially to your heating bill.

A wide range of humidifying equipment is available from units built into furnaces to portable electrical models. Through preservation of the home interior and furnishings, most will pay for themselves over a few seasons. The proper size and type depends largely on the size of the home and the amount of cold air induced by leakage of heating air.

Energy audit can save bucks

How much money can realistically be saved through energy conservation?

Savings to small businesses can be quite substantial because conserving energy can mean lower out-of-pocket costs for heating and cooling and some significant tax savings allowing the business person to recover some of his or her energy-related investments.

Certified Public Accountants have developed an analytical technique, called an energy audit, that answers four critical questions:

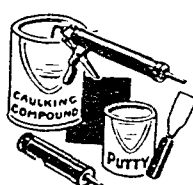

How much energy does your business use now? What does it cost? What types of energy are being used and for what purpose? How can you reduce your energy usage to save on monthly utility bills?

"An energy audit can bring a minimum savings of 10 to 20 percent to a small business," says Robert O. Redd, CPA and national director of energy management for the CPA firm of Seidman and Seidman.

"Such an audit gives you good leverage since you spend one dollar and you can realize $20 in benefits." Of course, he points out, the less energy efficient the business is now the more money an energy audit can help save.

There are many operation changes that can be made to decrease a business energy usage. One way is to use a setback thermostat lowering the temperature from 68 degrees during the day to 60 degrees at night. This can saving about 10 percent in heating costs in most areas of the country.

Other ways to save on heating bills include covering windows with insulating material since this can cut need for space heat by as much as 10 percent.

"If you insulate the roof and walls of your business, this will reduce heat loss by about 25 percent," says Redd. "Heat loss can be decreased by another 15 percent when storm windows, weatherstripping to doors and windows and door closers are installed.

When cold air enters a heated businessplace or hot outside air comes into a cooled area, these "infiltration losses" mean a loss of money. Redesigning space so that hot outside air will not blow directly into the air conditioned area may help, suggests Redd.

Be sure to check to see that lighting levels are not excessive because this runs up the electric bill by using more wattage and thus making the air conditioning system work harder. The businessperson also can save electrici-

Test the door seals

Want to cut down costs of operating the refrigerator in your kitchen? Then consider some of these tips:

1. Don't keep refrigerator or freezer too cold. Fresh food compartment should be 38 to 40 degrees fahrenheit. Freezer should be 5 degrees fahrenheit. (A separate freezer used for longer term storage should be 0 degrees).
2. Keep condenser (located on bottom or back) clean. A crevice tool attachment of vacuum works well.
3. Maintain adequate room for air circulation around refrigerator.
4. Locate refrigerator away from heat-producing equipment, such as a range, and out of direct sunlight.
5. Make sure door seals are airtight. Test them by closing door over piece of paper. Pull on paper. If it slides out easily the door needs adjustment.

These times were furnished in the Homeowner's Almanac furnished by Claudia Cauley of the Northville office of Real Estate One.

Ketchup works

Everyone — or nearly everyone uses ketchup to enhance their food.

But few take advantage of this popular household kitchen commodity's cleansing properties to stretch its value.

Ketchup can be used to clean tarnish off copper pots. Try it and you'll be surprised how effective it can be.

Audit can save big

ty by using timers to shut off unneeded equipment at night.

"Are you using a lot of electricity during peak usage hours? If so, your utility may be levying 'demand charges' on your business which means you have to pay higher rates for electricity. An energy audit could show a way to control demand charges by using your system more efficiently," according to the CPA.

As an example, the business person may save money by having the water cooler or air conditioner run on cycles instead of constantly. Or he or she can heat a day's supply of water during off-peak hours and store the water in an insulated tank.

The payback period, or the time it takes for lower energy bills to pay back the owner for any energy-savings expenses, will vary depending on the improvements made.

Comparison shopping for credit, insurance can save dollars, too

Wise car shopping begins with a careful investigation of the kind to buy — before visiting a showroom or a used-car lot.

The primary rule is to have a good idea of what you want at the outset. Knowledgeable customers who know their own minds are less likely to buy more than they can afford and make fewer buying mistakes.

Many don't realize they should shop for credit and insurance, too — before deciding on the automobiles to buy, notes a Money Management booklet distributed by Household Finance Corporation.

Costs of these two items vary considerably, and in paying unnecessarily high rates for either one, you can quickly spend the money so carefully saved on the car's purchase.

Once you have decided to purchase a car, how will you pay for it? Will you take the money out of your savings and pay cash, or will you borrow and repay it in monthly installments?

Whichever method you plan to use, a certain amount of preparation is in order before you go to the first showroom.

CASH

The least expensive way to buy a car is to use cash reserves to pay the difference between your trade-in allowance (if you have one) and the price of the automobile. The interest you lose by taking the money out of a savings account is less than the interest you would pay on a consumer loan.

By paying cash, you have full use of future income and are free from monthly credit payments.

If you don't need a car immediately, you might put a fixed amount of money aside each month in a special savings account. After accumulating the desired amount, pay cash for your car.

Even if you have the cash in hand, you may prefer to use credit. Many people know they will pay a bill on time each month, but are not as certain they will regularly replenish their savings.

CREDIT

There are two major types of credit available for car purchases.

A single payment loan is repaid all at once at a specified time. These loans carry a lower interest rate but are more difficult to obtain. If you are paid on commission or receive a lump sum of money regularly, you might consider a single payment loan; but if you must save the sum and are lacking in will power, an installment loan is the answer for you.

An installment loan is repaid in equal monthly payments over a set period of time. An installment sales contract is an installment loan, but you obtain it through the dealer rather than a lending institution.

As condition for obtaining a loan, a creditor may require that he hold the title of the car as security or collateral for the loan. This means that the financing agency will own the car until you pay off the loan. If you default in your payments, the creditor can legally repossess the automobile and sell it to cover your debt.

In such a case, if the creditor doesn't receive enough from the sale to eliminate your debt and pay the legal fees involved, you most likely will be charged the difference.

Today, the majority of car buyers choose to pay for their automobiles through monthly installments. Just as the price of the car you hope to buy varies from dealer to dealer, the cost of borrowing money varies from lending institution to lending institution.

By shopping for credit, you can borrow from the source offering the lowest rates and most favorable terms. Consider the following sources:

Commercial banks offer both single payment and installment loans. They usually require a down payment and use the car as collateral. If you have enough money in a savings account to cover the cost of the car, many banks and savings and loan associations will offer passbook loans.

In this case, your savings is the security — you are in a sense borrowing from yourself and paying for it at a lower rate than a regular bank loan. Your savings account remains intact, earning interest. The interest rates for

A recent temporary surplus of natural gas is already disappearing. Even the American Gas Association forecasts that supplies will be inadequate in the 80's unless supplemental sources are found. Meanwhile, the price of natural gas is being deregulated and requests for price hikes — sometimes as high as 85% — are already in the news.

The fact is that since 1970 the price of natural gas has risen at a phenomenal rate and the trend is expected to continue. Conversion to gas heating is a cruel hoax. The cost could run to $2,000 or more. There is little likelihood all things considered that the cost of conversion could ever be recovered.

secured and passbook loans are lower than on unsecured loans.

Consumer finance companies offer personal installment cash loans, often to those without established credit ratings. Because they make a higher number of small loans than other institutions, and because their risks are greater, they are allowed to charge a higher interest rate for their loans. The car is usually used as security.

Credit unions may make unsecured personal installment loans up to $2500 to their members, and make secured loans for amounts over $2500. In most cases, collateral is required for an auto loan, regardless of the amount.

Because they are cooperative, non-profit organizations that rely on volunteers for their governing boards, they can offer members lower rates than most institutions. Some credit unions may require a down payment.

Dealers may offer their own credit arrangements to buyers, or sell the installment contract to a bank or finance company and receive a commission for it. In the latter case, the buyer makes payments to the financing agency, signing one contract for the financing of the car and another contract for the car's purchase and warranty against defects.

If the dealer chooses to finance the car himself, his interest rates are governed by those regulating the state's installment sales act.

Life insurance companies make single payment loans to policyholders up to the cash value of the policy. If death occurs or the policy matures before the loan is repaid, the amount of the loan and interest is deducted from the face value of the policy.

Do you know the toaster's EER?

When you shop for a major appliance you probably compare prices, but do you find out which model will cost less to operate?

By comparison shopping for an energy efficient appliance the customer's electric bills should reflect the energy savings.

"Prior to a shopping trip look at your last electric bill to find out the cost of each kilowatthour," advises the Michigan Association of CPAs as a means of managing money. "This will help determine the operating cost of each appliance you consider."

In the store check the EnergyGuide label which gives a number called an Energy Efficiency Rating or EER, suggests the association.

The government requires that EnergyGuide labels be displayed on refrigerators, freezers, clothes dryers, water heaters, ranges, ovens and room air conditioners.

The EER usually ranges from seven to 12 and the higher the number the more efficient the unit.

At a rate of 12 cents per kilowatthour, a 5,000 B.t.u. air conditioner with an energy efficiency rate of 7.0 could cost $59 in electricity each year while a similar unit with an EER of 8.8 could cost $47 annually to run. If the second unit had a higher purchase price than the first it could still be the better buy in terms of energy efficiency.

The EnergyGuide label also gives EERs for the least and most efficient models of the brand of appliance the customer is considering. As an example, the customer should look at a refrigerator with an EER of nine and the label indicates that the least efficient model has a rating of eight, while the most efficient model is rated 10. The customer can then judge the efficiency of the model he or she is looking at.

Also included on the EnergyGuide is a chart showing how much it will cost to run the appliance each year depending upon how many hours it is used and the cost of the electricity in the customer's area. Once the electricity rate is known, the customer can locate it on the chart and note what the energy cost for that appliance will be for various amounts of usage.

The kilowatthour is a measurement unit that shows how much energy an appliance uses. To determine how many kilowatthours each appliance in a home uses, multiply the number of watts of power the appliance requires by the number of hours it is used, then divide by 1,000. Check the appliance's nameplate for the number of watts.

If a coffeemaker is 600 watts and is used one hour each day, the coffeemaker is using six tenths of a kilowatthour daily. For determining the month's rate, multiply that rate by 30 and the coffeemaker is using 18 kilowatthours. At 10 cents per kilowatthour the coffeemaker is costing $1.80 monthly in electricity.

Home Heating Fuel Prices Up for Month

Gas and oil burners waste up to 55% of your fuel dollar

Homeowners will be surprised to learn that they could be wasting as much as $50 out of every $100 they pay for oil or gas. With home heating costing as much as it does, that could amount to well over $1,000

The average gas or oil burner is, in fact, often no more than 45% to 55% efficient in delivering heat. Much of the waste in these burners occurs because heat has to travel lengthy distances through ducts and Want to make 300 percent profit?

The homeowner who hesitates to make a home more energy efficient because of expense should think about it again.

Improving the home in this way is an investment with one of the the highest returns imaginable, says the Michigan Association of CPAs

Considering the savings in fuel, tax credits and appreciation on the value of the house, the owner may be able to realize a 300 percent profit.

About half of an average home energy bill is for heating and cooling. By adding insulation to the attic these bills can be reduced from 30 to 50 percent.

Even more money can be saved by insulating ceilings with cold spaces above then such as an attached garage, floors above cold spaces such as an open porch and exterior walls. In addition, three-fourths of the cost of insulation is recoverable when the house is sold.

A well-insulated home still allows some heat to escape. Plastic storm windows can cut heat loss up to 32 percent. Glass storm windows can reduce heat loss up to 50 percent, saving the owner about $87 in gas heating bills each year. Summer electricity bills also will be lower, since storm windows keep the home cooler to reduce the need for air conditioning.

The homeowner can save about three percent on heating bills by plugging up "leaks" in the home with weatherstripping. Entrance doors, window sashes and attic and basement doors should be weatherstripped on all sides on top and bottom.

Drafts also can be sealed out by caulking windows and doors where the frame meets the wall, around outdoor faucets and cracks in exterior walls. Be sure to caulk wherever there is a building joint, for example, where the porch joins the house.

Insulation, storm windows and doors, weatherstripping and caulking qualify for the energy tax credit. This credit is limited to 15 percent of the first $2,000 spent on the improvements and their installation.

If a person spent $2,650 on making the home more energy efficient, he or she could claim the maximum credit of $300.

If a home was financed with an improvement loan of $2,000 over two years at an annual percentage rate of 17 percent, and the purchaser was in the 40 percent tax bracket, about $150 in taxes could be saved by deducting the total finance charge of $373 on the federal income tax return.

The first year after the improvements were made, the homeowner would save $350 in energy costs; the second year, $315 and in the third year, $284. Thus, the homeowner already has cut the initial investment to nearly half with energy savings of $949.

Energy improvement loans available for vets

For veterans who wish to make home improvements that will help save energy, the Veterans Administration offers combination mortgage/home improvement loan guarantees.

The combination guarantee eliminates the need for a separate application for a mortgage loan and home improvement loan.

The guarantee program works in the following way:

Each veteran is eligible to receive up to $27,500 in guaranteed loans.

This eligibility is called an entitlement, which may be used all at once, or a little at a time for either home improvement loans, mortgages, or a combination of mortgage/home improvement loans. Often, lenders will loan up to four times the amount of this guaranteed loan.

If the veteran decides to make home improvements that would save energy, the appraised value may be increased so that the guaranteed loan will cover the cost of the planned improvement, in addition to the cost of the home.

These improvements include:

Caulking and weatherstripping; furnace modifications; clock thermostats; insulation; water heat insulation; storm windows and storm doors; heat pumps; and solar space heating, water heating, or cooling equipment.

To apply, veterans must first obtain a certificate of eligibility from the Veterans Administration. Apply for a certificate by writing to:

Veterans Administration; 477 Michigan Avenue; Detroit, Michigan 48226.

PRE-ENGINEERED FIREPLACES are being designed with energy-saving features in the energy-conscious 1980s.

Stoves gaining popularity here

With limited energy resources and skyrocketing costs, many homeowners are returning to the use of fireplaces and stoves as an auxiliary source of heat.

Sales are expected to hit $1.2 billion this year.

This wave of nostalgia is having a very positive affect on Walled Lake which is rapidly becoming a hub in the fireplace industry. With Republic Fireplace Corporation, Freedom Stove Works, and the Grate Fireplace Wholesaling and Retailing Company all headquartered in the area, Walled Lake provides a complete energy package.

Republic Fireplace offers zero clearance fireplaces which many builders are putting in local homes. The consumers and developers that choose these fireplaces obtain the aesthetics, warmth, and romance of a traditional fireplace without the efficiency associated with a conventional masonry fireplace.

Doug Thal, president, states, "the demand for fireplaces has never been better. However, people are no longer willing to sacrifice efficiency for aesthetics. This is why we have designed and built a supplemental energy system. As an indication of the demand for such a unit, we are installing 98 of our units on Decker Road for a Walled Lake developer."

Jeff Pierce, president of Freedom Stove Works, is perfecting the latest trend in the energy business, the airtight stove.

The Franklin Stove, a pioneer in the industry, laid the foundation for the wood stoves that heated our parents' homes. The airtight stove takes the basic principle of the Franklin and other wood stoves and builds on it to surpass their heating efficiency.

Freedom Stove Works goes one step further in refining the technology of the airtight; a step burning chamber and an interchangeable manual, room, or electronic thermostat compliment each other by first promoting total combustion and then controlling the heat of that combustion.

With a solid product to back him, Pierce is predicting national distribution of his stove within two years.

These products are available at The Gratest Fireplace Shop. Owner Bill Benson is something of a good Samaritan, helping local residents "dial down."

"Five years ago our biggest sellers were the accessory and decorator items," he says. "Today, however, our customers demand energy efficient units."

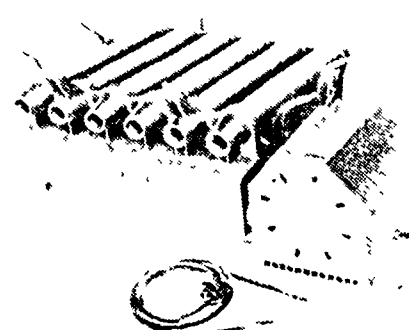

Benson contends that any national energy package will be ineffective without consumer education.

"Most people have never used a stove for home heating, the public must be reeducated in the principles of wood and coal burning. The collage of stove manufacturers only reinforces this. To make an intelligent consumer decision, the customer must be knowledgeable in the basics of fire and heat transfer. This is especially important from the standpoint of safety."

Maximum tax credit: $300

It pays to save energy — even in your tax bill, says the Energy Extension Service of the Michigan Department of Commerce.

That's because a federal income tax credit is allowed for insulation and other energy-conserving measures installed in or on a taxpayer's principal U.S. residence.

The credit amounts to 15-percent of the first $2,000 spent. The maximum credit is $300. The credit may be claimed on insulation and other energy-conserving materials that were installed on or after April 20, 1977.

Items that qualify for tax credit include:

Insulation

"Insulation" means any item that is specifically and primarily designed to reduce heat loss or gain of your home (or water heater).

"Insulation" does not include items that are primarily structural or decorative. For example, carpets, wood paneling, drapes, and exterior siding do not qualify although they may have been designed in part to have an insulation effect.

Energy-Conserving Measures (Other Than Insulation)

Furnace replacement burner; a device for modifying a furnace flue opening; an electrical or mechanical furnace ignition system which replaces a gas pilot light; an automatic set-back thermostat; caulking and weatherstripping of outside doors and windows;

A meter which shows the cost of energy used; storm doors and windows; and other "approved" items that increase energy efficiency.

The Energy Extension Service emphasizes that tax credit can be claimed only on a taxpayer's principal U.S. residence.

Taxpayers wishing to apply, may claim this credit when you file your federal income tax, using IRS Form 5695.

300 percent profit seen

Adding in the $300 tax credit and the $150 income tax saving, the initial investment has been cut from $2,650 to $1,251.

Should the homeowner decide to sell the house, even more benefit is realized. Because of the improved energy efficiency, it could appreciate an additional five percent, or $3,750, which is three times the actual energy related expenses of $1,251. The return is 300 percent.

Gain popularity

Walled Lake, the home of a total energy system, is actively participating in one of the fastest growing and most talked of industries today.

The Wall Street Journal quotes the home improvement industry, of which the fireplace industry is a part, as having expanded at an annual rate of 11.5 percent in the last 10 years, more than a 10.8 percent growth in new residential construction.

Eighteen percent of all New England households rely on wood fuel as their primary heat source, reported the January 1979 Time.

In the recent Professional Builder survey of homeowners, fireplaces ranked number one as the most desired amenity in $65,000-plus homes.

Statistics such as these support Jeff Pierce's optimistic prediction for the growth of his company. And they back Bill Benson's claim of a consumer trend toward energy alternatives. The realization that our energy situation is a permanent obstacle is beginning to take hold.

Detroiters are getting ready to fight the energy crisis, and Walled Lake is ready to provide them with the necessary ammunition.
