School officials predict hard time without 9.5 mills

The increase in Northville's property taxes may be causing a stir among homeowners, but it's beginning to make waves for school administrators and officials.

Board of education members and school officials are expressing "deep concern" over the upcoming April 4 special election to renew 9.5 of the district's 26.5 mills.

Administrators claim the millage renewal is needed just to maintain current programs and that without those 9.5 mills, "there will be cataclysmic program reductions," as one official said earlier.

School Superintendent Larry Nichols explained that many of the administration's fears stem from the community's recent revolt over rising property taxes and the equity of the assessment system.

"It's hard to explain to someone whose taxes are going up 42 percent that the school district's revenues aren't going up 42 percent," Nichols said.

Though taxpayers are seeing an increase in assessments, school district revenues are not increasing, he remarked.

The Northville school district is composed of all or parts of six separate units of local governments — City of Northville, Northville Township, City of Novi, Novi Township, Salem Township and Lyon Township.

Nichols explained that because the District State Equalized Evaluation is composed of assessed valuation in the portions of those six units within the geographic boundaries of the school district, the composite total of the assessed valuation is not the same as any of the individual units.

With all six units lumped together into a single tax base, the district's SEV is a composite of all the units — with the rollback determined from that figure, he said.

In addition, Nichols explained that the school district revenues are limited to the previous year's Consumer Price Index (13.5 for 1980-81) exclusive of new construction or improvements.

Recreation budget opposed by board

"It's a little insensitive on the part of the city to do this," said Trustee James Nowka. "It annoys me because it points a finger at us as the bad guys."

Those were among the milder things the township trustee had to say about the City of Northville's decision to fund the shared recreation department at requested levels, instead of making the budget cuts recommended by the township.

The trustees discussed the recreation budget in the board's final budget session Monday night. The board will adopt its budget after a public hearing March 30.

Essentially, the recreation department will receive more money from the city than is called for under a formula devised to allocate costs on the basis of population. In order to make up the difference, township residents will be charged $2 more in participation fees levied by the commission.

The township allocated $59,000 each to the recreation department and library, an approximate $4,000 cut from the recreation commission's request. It assumed that the city would cut the budget proportionally and that the recreation commission would be funded at that level.

Generous gifts insure Mainstreet clock, trees, benches

"A community working together" is the way Northville Mayor Paul Vernon describes what happened at a meeting of the Northville Beautification Commission at city hall March 9.

More than 50 persons from the area interested in participating in the Mainstreet 78 project responded to an invitation by the commission to attend and participate in the Mainstreet program by making contributions, as individuals and organizations, toward landscaping portions of the project.

"The community spirit so much in evidence at the meeting was overwhelming," Vernon commented.

Pledges were received at the meeting for eight plaques on the clock, for 26 trees, 14 tree guards and five benches. Many others attending reported intentions to contribute, but would need approval of their organizations before making firm commitments.

Several months ago the present commission composed of Chairman Vernon, Vice-chairman Ann Brueck, Secretary Norma Vernon, commissioners Elroy Ellison, Phyllis Ely, Wilson Funk, Dewey Gardner, Milo Hunt and Ted Mapes unanimously agreed to develop and sponsor a plan that would enable interested individuals and organizations to participate in the popular Mainstreet 78 project by making contributions, Vernon recalls.

Plaques with appropriate inscriptions will be attached to the items purchased and will identify contributors.

Working with City Manager-Downtown Development Authority Director Steven Walters, the commission established items and contribution amounts needed and mailed invitations to attend to local organizations and individuals.

Items included: the street clock to be located midway between Center and Hutton on Main with a base for donor plaques each with a contribution value of $1,000; 115 street trees to be located on Main and Center streets with a contribution value of $100 each; 115 tree guards and grates with a value of $240 each; 15 old style benches to be located on Main and Center streets with a value of $420 each.

Following a slide presentation by Walters at the March 9 meeting in which he described the Mainstreet project, Vernon explained how individuals and organizations could contribute and select locations identified on a large drawing of the Mainstreet project area.

After announcing that the beautification commission would make a contribution of $1,000 from its stationery sales fund toward the town clock, Vernon asked those interested in contributing to come forward and discuss their choices with any member of the commission.

"The response was overwhelming," says Vernon.

He adds that the drawing identifying the locations still is available and a record of contributors is displayed in city hall for those who wish to be a part of the Mainstreet 78 but could not attend.

The commission is asking for pledges now, but the tax-deductible payments will not be due until the end of June when the installation of the landscaping will be fully underway.

City rejects library cuts

While acknowledging the township's budgetary problems, city council Monday night expressed concern that it would be depriving city residents of "services they are willing to pay for" as shared recreation and library service budgets were discussed.

Declaring that they felt the library board already had presented a reasonable budget and expressing concern that further cuts would "wind up with a second rate library in a few years," council members unanimously voted to restore the amount originally requested.

The council was looking at a total budget pared to $121,669 from $127,350, and which would have cost the township the $59,000 it had budgeted and the city as its share, $42,897.

Paul Dawson, new chairman of the library advisory board, appeared before the council to express his concern, pointing out that state aid would be lost if there is any staff reduction.

Council member CarolAnn Ayers, who long has served on the library board, said the reduction would be "a bitter pill to swallow" as the library never has seen a budget reduction and must have a basic budget.

Council member J. Burton DeRusha stated he would like to see the library budget restored as he felt "it was reasonable to start with."

Dawson pointed out that the reduction of $5,681 would come primarily from book funds ($3,608). The rest ($2,073) would have been achieved by restricting potential salary increases to three percent for the coming year.

"When you realize the average library book costs $17, you understand that when you cut this fund, you are really in jeopardy," Ayers stated, moving to reinstate the original request and to inform the township. "I think the suggestion should be given that they be informed of the legal responsibilities to receive state funding," she added.

The council unanimously approved the budget that would require a contribution of $45,192 from the city and $62,386 from the township.

The total library budget is on a cost-sharing formula. Beginning in 1981-82 state aid will be paid to the library directly, and shared on a per capita basis.

Township trustee James Nowka, who had been at a township budget meeting earlier, came to the council session to express his concerns.

He told the council that the township has committed itself to $59,000 for each of the shared services, stating it had difficulty coming up with even that sum from its revenues.

He said that every department in the township has been pared in a line-by-line review of its budgets.

Nowka said he had concerns about funding outside the budget.

Mayor Paul Vernon asked if Nowka disagreed with the city's solution to subsidize the recreation program for its participants.

Saying, "we do have a different situation," Nowka said he was worried that participation would be limited by adding to fees.

"The watchword of the year is that we are clearly governed by costs," Nowka told council members.

Questioned by Vernon, he said that former library board chairman Robert DeHoff had met with the trustees informally regarding the pared library budget and had indicated he could go along with it temporarily.

At the meeting with the township it had been stated that, if times improve, the budget could be increased to bring the book purchases up quickly.

To fund more police

Township seeks added mill

Township voters will be asked to add one mill to their property taxes while renewing a 1.5 mill levy in a May election. The township board of trustees decided Thursday to seek the added millage along with the renewal, both to be earmarked for police services.

The request for new millage will appear as the second issue on a May ballot. The first issue is renewal of a 1.5 mill levy for police voted in five years ago.

The one mill addition is tied to the 1.5 mill renewal in such a way that the addition will not pass unless the renewal is approved. Passage of both measures would allocate 2.5 mills to police.

The board said it had no choice but to seek increased millage, as the police department may suffer one layoff this year and the service already is unable to meet its goal of fielding two patrol cars around the clock.

The township currently collects one mill for general administration and a 0.5 mill levy for fire services that was approved by voters in August. Assuming that both police issues are approved in May, total approved millage would rise from 3.0 to 4.0.

Only 2.93 mills of the 3.0 approved is levied on current tax bills, due to rollbacks demanded by the 1978 Headlee amendment to the state constitution.

The board rejected a plan proposed by Police Chief Ronald Nisun to request 1.5 mills of new tax, rather than the single mill it chose. Nisun's proposal, in effect, would double police support to 3.0 mills from a total 4.5 mill tax.

Earmarked taxes, such as the current 1.5 mill police and 0.5 mill fire allocations can only be spent in the department designated.

Of the $427,116 police budget proposed for the 1981-82 fiscal year, about $253,000 comes from the current millage with the balance made up from the general fund.

The new millage would allow the addition of "at least three" patrolmen to the force, Nisun said, depending on whether or not the township is forced to lay off officers this year. No layoffs are planned until fall, but the department's current year budget does not include enough to maintain the full staff of 10 throughout the year. Added revenues, impossible to predict, may save that job.

With the renewal and the new one mill, Nisun said, his staff could grow from the current 10 of

Road treatment funds restored to township budget

The township board of trustees will include funds for at least one dust palliative treatment on dirt roads in next year's budget, following protests lodged Thursday against earlier plans to eliminate such treatments.

Originally eliminated to save an estimated $14,000, the road treatment program is funded at $7,500 in the most recent revision of the budget presented Monday night.

"I think the board is obligated to go back (through the budget) and search for the money for at least one treatment," Trustee Richard Allen said, following citizen comment addressing the topic at Thursday's board of trustees meeting.

In past years, through a contract with Wayne County, which hires a sub-contractor, two calcium magnesium chloride treatments are applied to dirt or gravel side streets in the township, at the community's expense.

Major dirt thoroughfares (Five Mile, Beck Road, etc.) are the responsibility of the county, which treats those roads three to four times during the summer regardless of township participation in the side street program.

Citing health and safety problems related to dust raised on untreated roads, maintenance expenses for automobiles, and anger at other expenditures, many residents turned out to protest cancellation of the contract and many more who could not attend the meeting called township hall.

Those who called had their message delivered by township clerk Susan Heintz, and included long-time planning commissioner Craig Bowby, who said he would be satisfied with a single treatment of the roads if the township could afford no more than that.

Those in attendance to oppose any attempt to cancel the contract included one-time clerk Margaret Tegge, who suggested reductions in the recreation budget to maintain the treatment contract.

"Recreation millages have been turned down twice," Tegge said. "And yet, the board doesn't listen to them. People don't want money coming out of the budget for recreation when they can't even get their roads treated."

"You've only cut the recreation budget about $4,000 from nearly $65,000 yet you want to completely obliterate a $12,000 (an earlier estimate) service that has been done here every year for ages," she continued. "You're not cutting the services equally and fairly. I think you should cut recreation further to restore road treatments."

Tegge's argument met with mixed audience reaction and no board member suggested making such a cut.

Meeting in a budget session following settlement day reports Monday, the board considered funding for the treatments at $10,000, which would allow one application to all side streets and "spot treatments" on those roads which receive most use.

The line item for treatments was trimmed back to $7,500 at the suggestion of Trustee James Nowka, who was upset that the township was only able to raise the salaries of six key employees by three percent.

"I'd suggest that we fund one treatment, and allocate the other $2,500 to those salaries," Nowka said. "It isn't much, but at least it shows our employees that we know three percent is not really a raise with inflation being what it is."

The six employees, it was thought in an earlier hearing, could receive eight percent raises. Those increases were trimmed back as part of the search for monies to allocate to road treatments.

The six employees range from administrative assistant and a building department clerk to the building official.

As part of the budget review, Clerk Susan Heintz said it is possible that the state may come through with a credit for revenue sharing payments that we short of what they were supposed to be this year, but that she could not predict what amount that might entail.

Any added monies available would first go toward restoration of the police budget (which does not have enough money to avoid laying off a patrolman some time this year), then to bring employee salary increases nearer the eight percent level originally sought, and, if any is left, to make spot road dust treatments.

"The people who were here at the board meeting Thursday indicated one treatment would probably be sufficient," Allen said Monday. "I think we should include enough in the budget to do that much and then, if things look better later, restore some spot treatment."

Allen was forceful in making the point that the six employees whose salaries were in question "have been low on the totem pole for years," and that the board must abide by its statement that extra monies would go toward raises first.

Senior village project nears reality

Conversion of 101 acres of unused Wayne County land in Northville Township to a senior citizen's housing complex probably will begin this fall.

Over a year of work through channels culminated in tentative approval of the plan by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, sitting as the Ways and Means Committee, March 12.

The committee, which includes all 27 commissioners, voted 17-2 to sign a 99-year lease with the county Economic Development Corporation, which will choose a private developer to execute the $50 million project.

The land, part of the former Child Development Center, has been unused for roughly eight years. The township already has rezoned the area with provisions specifically for the project.

The county has incurred an annual loss between $40,000 and $70,000 in maintenance alone since the facility was vacated. Expenses of liability insurance and vandalism are not included in that estimate.

During the lease arrangement, the county would receive nearly $15 million in rental fees while the property is restored to the tax rolls, generating income for the county, township and local schools.

In addition to 1,300 or more dwelling units, the complex would include a 200 bed convalescent center, shopping and recreational facilities. Three years will be required for demolition, renovation of some old buildings, and construction of the complex, the EDC estimates.

Ways and Means approval sends the contract on to the full board tomorrow (March 19) where 14 votes are needed to seal the agreement. The 17 votes garnered at the committee session have been taken as an indication that approval is a near certainty.

Commissioner Edgar L. Harris called the project "something we all need." He emphasized the tax value of the property once in use and the creation of new jobs in the county.

An estimated 750 temporary construction jobs would be created during the demolition and construction phases and a permanent 600 employees would be needed to operate the complex.

Commissioner Mary Dumas, of Livonia, whose district includes Northville, pointed out the sale, lease or rental of unused county property also is one of the recommendations of the County Efficiency Task Force, a group of private citizens appointed to recommend ways to save money and improve operations.

"It is time we restored the property to allow some good use for the community," she said.

Clemens E. Bykowski, vice chairman of the board, urged approval of the lease, saying, "We've been losing thousands while the property is idle." He cited insurance costs and the theft of the center's copper plumbing. The plumbing alone, he said, amounts to a $600,000 loss.

"We've got far more to gain than we have to lose," he said.

Cable TV franchiser to enter township soon

Will cable television be offered soon in Northville Township? Do property owners have to allow the cable company to dig to lay cable? What is an Omnicom and why is it sending letters to township homeowners?

"Tune in next month," for the answers to those and other questions, Supervisor John MacDonald told those asking at Thursday's meeting of the township board.

"Representatives of Omnicom will be speaking before the board at our April meeting," MacDonald advised E. Thomas Lee, president of the Northville Commons homeowners association.

"I can tell you right now that the previous township board signed an agreement with Omnicom in late 1979 that essentially gives the company the cable television franchise here.

cable has been hung, a report included in trustee's packets stated. The electronic system design to serve the township is 60 percent complete, design of overhead cable routes is done and underground design completion is due April 1.

Meetings are being conducted between Omnicom, Michigan Bell and Edison engineers, Cable Constructors (Omnicom's contractor) and Turner Construction (a subcontractor brought in by the contractor to lay underground cable).

Omnicom of Michigan is a subsidiary of Capitol Cities Communications and has offices in Plymouth. It currently offers cable services in Plymouth and Plymouth Township. It is the franchise holder not only in Northville Township, but also in the city.

It offers a wide range of televised services, including movie stations and a home alarm system.

The supervisor advised those interested in what Omnicom's township operations will entail to attend the April board of trustee's meeting.

"I can tell you for sure that once the cable is in they'll be coming to you offering to sell you the service," he said, "otherwise, you'll have to wait until next month."

"You mean 'Tune in next month,'" Lee asked.

"Right, tune in next month," MacDonald replied.

Long-time jeweler retires, finds time to go fishing

By KEN KOVACS

H. Ray Noder is ready to do some fishin'.

Owner of Noder's Jewelry at Main and Center in downtown Northville since 1962, the 73-year-old watch repairman said just 18 months ago that he wasn't ready to retire.

But now that his health isn't so good — Noder underwent heart surgery 11 years ago and suffers from high blood pressure — and he has found someone he trusts to take over his business, the farm boy from Edgetts (a northern Michigan community) is looking forward to his free time.

"Anywhere there's fish is where I'm going," he said last week. "As long as the doctor says it's okay, I'm going to be out catching fish."

Meanwhile, Gary Jeter, of Southgate, who runs Cher-Dee's Wholesale, Incorporated in Livonia, will be making sure that all Noder's old customers get the same personal service that they are used to.

"I don't plan to make any changes," the new owner promised. "We will keep the same name and provide the same services as Mr. Noder did including custom remounting, jewelry designing and the rest."

Noder nodded in agreement, saying that he hoped all his customers would continue to do their business at Noder's, despite the change in ownership.

The 34-year-old Jeter, who officially took over March 6, says he and his wife and two sons (age four and one) soon will relocate in the Northville area.

"I am very excited about the opportunity to be in Northville," he said. "We plan to make this our home. I look forward to many years of serving the Northville community."

Though there have been a few trying times for Noder in his 20 years in Northville — when he had to deal with burglars and vandals — he recalled only the good times

"I have spent the best years of my life in Northville," he reflected. "You can find some of the nicest people anywhere right here in this town. I will miss many of them. But as soon as the weather is nice, I'll be out fishing."

Noder says he also would like to do some traveling, if the doctor will let him.

When asked what made him decide to call it quits Noder said, "Well, I thought about it for three years, but I just never did it."

"Gary and I began talking about the sale last summer and then, with the health thing, I finally decided to do it."

Noder said his immediate liking of Jeter also was a factor.

"Why, he's a fisherman, you know," he said with a smile.

City to purchase Chryslers for police patrol vehicles

Northville city police won't quite be driving around in Lincoln automobiles, as their counterparts in Dearborn are slated to do, but officers occupying two new cars this summer won't be suffering.

City council Monday approved purchase of two 1981 Chrysler LeBaron four door sedans as replacements for vehicles that are reaching their maximum mileage and are due for annual replacement.

The council acted after hearing that the price for the two mid-size Chryslers — $7,280 each — is the lowest bid for police packages from this area. To receive this price the city is making a fleet purchase with Livonia.

However, the purchase had to be approved prior to April 1. The council did so after ascertaining that the local Ford dealer had been invited to bid. Since that bid was $8,541 per car, the Chrysler purchased was approved.

Chief Rodney Cannon in recommending the Chryslers noted that the city is saving the difference of $2,522. Delivery is expected in June with payment required on delivery.

The cars have small V-8 engines and have reinforcements to police specifications, including reinforced seats.

CBD zoning uses hearing slated

A public hearing on uses to be permitted under Central Business District classification has been set for 8 p.m. April 6 by Northville City Council.

The hearing is being held as the city and planning commission consider changes in the proposed zoning ordinance text.

The area involved in the study extends from Center to Wing and includes rows of houses on Wing and Dunlap.

At the March 2 council meeting Councilmember

J. Burton DeRusha questioned whether it would be necessary to include mortuary establishments in this ordinance classification.

City Manager Steven Walters reported that the main concern was better zoning use for the houses included.

It was pointed out that the gas station at Wing and Main also would be non-conforming under the CBD classification.

Baptists schedule film

The First Baptist Church of Northville will be presenting the film "Nite Song," at 7 p.m. March 20.

The film is designed to bring teenagers face to face with problems they encounter in their lives.

Admission is free and

Rising rates

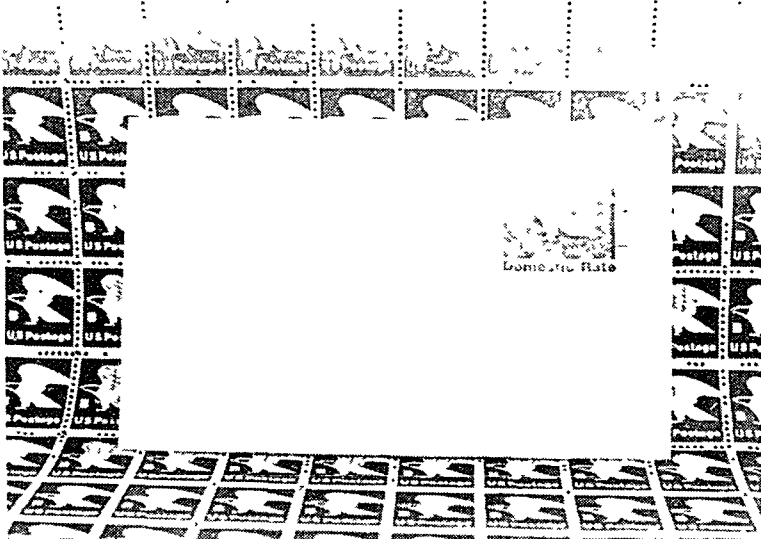

New postal rates take effect March 22, with first class mail going to 18-cents and post cards to 12-cents. New stamps are available at the Northville Post Office, as shown by Acting Postmaster Robert Arnold and Hazel Caudill (right). For only the second time in its history, Arnold said, the postal service has issued non-denominational stamps (below right). The light blue stamps had to be printed, he explained, before the new rate was determined — the post office had requested an increase to 20-cents — so no price was printed on them. A similar situation resulted in no price being stated on the first of the 15 cent stamps issued. Older stamps can still be used as long as the total postage paid equals the new rates. Sick leaves or other complications, however, might reduce the patrol to one car sometimes if the staffing was at 13. Nisun's proposal for 1.5 mills would increase staff to 14, assuring the township of two cars at all times and sometimes three.
The board, however, held the request for new millage to 1.0, Supervisor John MacDonald said, because it foresees considerable opposition to any increased millage and did not wish to draw further anger by exceeding one mill.
With the one mill additional, the township general fund would still have to increase its support of the police service by some $40,000 in order to increase staffing. Projected 1982-83 operating funds needed with increased staff is $625,000 Nisun reported.

No citizen opposition and much support was offered the new millage in the crowded meeting room. While supporting police millage, however, many people in attendance also suggested the board should find a way to prevent any layoffs this year.
Most common among suggestions about where to find the money to maintain police services at current levels was to reduce, or do away with, expenditures for recreation.
Approximately 40 people turned out Monday night to begin a campaign soliciting the new millage and the renewal, Nisun said. Calling themselves "Citizens for Township Police," he said, the group is composed of about 25 persons employed by or related to employees of the police department and some private citizen support.
The ballot issues will appear either in an already-approved May 5 special election or, if the legislature acts by Thursday, in a May 19 election called for consideration of tax reform issues.
At press time it appeared likely that the legislature would beat the deadline. "Piggybacking" on that election, Supervisor John MacDonald said, leaves open the possibility of state reimbursement for election costs.
At last report, the state had not yet paid authorized reimbursements for last November's presidential election, but MacDonald said it is still better to have the election on a date when costs might be covered than to conduct a special election paid for solely by the township.
Nisun said Monday he was concerned that placing the millage issues on the same ballot with tax reform issues could hurt the chances for approval, but said he understood the township must save money when possible.
Township officials are keeping a close eye on a 9.5 mill renewal issue coming up in an April 4 election for Northville Schools as an indication of the local receptivity toward such issues.
Should the township's 1.5 mill renewal effort fail, it would also kill the new millage proposal and leave the police with no designated funding at all. The township business manager and treasurer are examining the community's options in that case, but there is no question, they said, that all township services as well as police coverage would take drastic cuts.

Town hall analysis on state of the nation

Economist applauds 'new approach to government'

By JEANDAY

"There is a change in the air, a new approach (to government) that we have to try. And, given some luck, we will be God's chosen people. We can be the greatest, most powerful and still the most benevolent nation in the world."

This was the summation of economist-investment counselor Frank Cappiello, who assessed the state of the country for Northville Town Hall last Thursday.

He warned his audience that "this is the year; if we miss we will have a totally different world in 1986."

What is unfolding now, he said, was "put in place" last October by the Carter administration. The U.S. economy is in a slowdown in two major areas — automobile and housing industry — that will continue into the summer of 1981, the speaker said.

A regular panelist and sometime host of "Wall Street Week" as well as an investment company partner, Cappiello is a graduate of Notre Dame and Harvard Graduate School of Business. He is recognized as an authority on current economic affairs.

Last Thursday he covered a range of the country's problems:

Inflation — "The country's No. One problem that will take a number of years to wind down."

Japan — "An efficient economic colossus, but their (Japanese) strengths can be ours, too."

The Soviet Union — "An efficient military country that we can stop by becoming stronger, allying with China and using 'a proxy' just as Russia uses Cuba to do its fighting."

Energy — "We must be assured of a supply at reasonable price."

Aging of America — "There is no out on this for us. We are becoming an older nation."

Of the nation's economy he predicted that, while inflation will continue into the summer, in about six months there will be a decline in interest rates.

"We'll see them go down to about 12 percent. Banks that have been charging their prime customers 18 percent will be charging 12, and, with a little luck, it will be 10 or 11 by early fall."

In the market basket inflation index (what it costs a family of four to live), food costs will go up with beef and pork up as much as 25 to 30 percent in a reflection of last year's drought, Cappiello continued.

"But once we get through the rising bubble the consumer index will come down — maybe to single digit figures by the end of the year. But this can all be affected by President Reagan."

"The Reagan program is the beginning of a change after years of neglect. It is the first time since 1933 that there will be less spending, less deficit by the federal government. The country will be moving forward with incentives for businessmen."

"The attitude is that, if you give money to a businessman who has the ability to increase it, you are giving incentive to invest, to produce — to have jobs for those now on welfare."

Cappiello admitted that it is going to take a long time to turn the country around, saying, "But Reagan is making the first wheel turn."

Cappiello felt Reagan's program "has a very good chance of going through — 70 to 75 percent of it."

If it does, he said, "Wall Street will rejoice. The stock market will go up with part of the reason being psychological. It will be the beginning of a new era with some pain."

Investors, he tallied, have many things worrying them today, ranging from the political situation in Central America to the condition of Chrysler (he thinks the company will survive) to the "real danger" savings and loan institutions are in with money not flowing back.

"Things are worse than you possibly think," the economist warned.

"Washington is about to cross the fiscal sound barrier — the national debt is going to hit $1 trillion ($1,000,000,000,000), a sum that's almost impossible to comprehend."

"Since 1950, the budget has been balanced only four times. There is no indication that it will be now until the mid-1980s. Interest payment of $100 billion on the debt alone is a big part of the national budget."

"People have said this is a debt we owe to ourselves, but this is not true. Some 20 percent is to foreign entities, especially Saudi Arabia."

"Right now we have super high inflation, low productivity, national unemployment at an eight percent rate, slow business — and Russia challenging us militarily while Japan challenges us in business."

"When you're stuck in traffic, you switch lanes and hope for a clear stretch. I submit that is what Reagan is doing in turning the wheel."

Cappiello then predicted that if President Reagan only gets 30 to 40 percent of his program through Congress, inflation will continue, the economy will not grow and old liberals will come in and "you will see wage and price controls — none of which ever worked."

As an example of how the Reagan program could work, Cappiello cited Great Britain. "Things are improving but they are not clear cut yet. Eighteen months ago Margaret Thatcher put everything into the beginning, and it is starting to work as inflation has gone from 20 percent to 11 or 12. We are seeing a waiving on the part of labor and impatience may dampen the program, but it works. And it will work in the United States, but impatience does worry us (investors)."

He stressed that inflation has to be solved before the country can be on its way. Unless it is, he declared, nothing else can be.

Going on to the problem of Japan's productivity, Cappiello said last year the Swiss, traditionally watchmakers to the world, made 50 million watches while the Japanese made 60 million.

"Germany used to be the camera makers. Now it's the Japanese — and they're good. Your television probably is Japanese, or, if not, its components are. Last year they matched the U.S. auto industry with 10 million cars each."

"The one area in which the United States still leads is in computers."

Japan, Cappiello said, has gained its economic position through a disciplined work force, even though many workers are highly organized. They work, he continued, with efficient equipment and have the company's interest at heart.

The Japanese, he continued, save 20 percent of their disposable income — it is this savings that provides bond money for equipment.

"Japanese children," Cappiello said, "are better educated than U.S. children. Japan is concentrating its educational forces where it counts. Children there score highest in science. They are better oriented to modern techniques."

A major difference in Japan and the United States, the economist pointed out, is the alliance between industry and government.

In Japan industry sits down with bankers, labor and government — Cappiello illustrated — with the latter saying, "What can we do to help?"

"That would never happen here. In fact, it would be il-

Frank Cappiello and Northville attorney Herman Moehlman confer at town hall legal."

Cappiello recalled the furor created when a former president of an automotive giant (C.E. Wilson) was reported to have said something like, "What's good for General Motors is good for the country."

In the United States, Cappiello underscored, government is the adversary of business. He pointed out that the government has had under assault three major "efficient" organizations — American Telephone and Telegraph, Industrial Business Machines and General Motors.

"It's breaking up your best teams."

Can the United States compete against the Japanese?

Cappiello says "yes" — "Their strengths can be ours as well."

But, the economist warns, right behind Japan is Korean and Hong Kong, "coming with goods."

"Short of closing our doors, we have to make services more efficient, establish better relationships between government and business and have better savings."

"I'd like to see $1,000 interest on savings be tax free — I think that's coming in 1982."

Cappiello declared the economic enemy (Japan) can be beaten but warned it won't matter if, as a nation, the United States does not survive.

"World War III is almost over and we have lost."

"In 1947-48 there was the phase of containment in which we recognized the Soviet Unions attainments."

"In the 1960s was detente — cooperative co-existence — but at that point we were much stronger. Russia had been shattered by the Cuban missile crisis. She realized she could not project her strength without a navy and began to build. She now has the largest submarine fleet, nuclear superiority and an air force at least as good as ours."

Russian expansion can be stopped, Cappiello believes, in three ways:

- Become stronger. If we do we will never have to use it (military forces). If we don't, we WILL have to send soldiers.
- When Nixon recognized China, we were saying "the enemy of my enemy is my friend." The Soviet Union, Cappiello declared, worries more about China than anything else. He advocated "my proxy against your proxy" as he detailed Cuban moves backed by Russia. South Korea or Pakistan could be used the same way by the United States, he believes. Pakistan, he stated, has troops that were the most highly trained in the British Empire. Backing them, he stressed, is the way to stop erosion by Cuba.

By 1986, the speaker continued, we must be ready for brush fire wars — all because of the lack of energy.

He pointed out that oil at $34-38 a barrel today sold 10 years ago for $2 a barrel because today OPEC (Oil Producing Exporting Countries) sets the price. One country, Saudi Arabia, he pointed to as controlling the price. Saudis, he contrasted, lift out their oil at 30 cents a barrel.

The cheapest the North Slope can bring us from Alaska is $17-18 a barrel. It is a similar situation in the North Sea at $20-22.

To counter such cost difference Cappiello advocates decontrol of the price of gas and oil — "to let human greed work."

He said people will have incentive then to "go out to Montana and use those fields" and, as an even bigger step, will be interested in synthetics.

Cappiello, however, does not believe in solar power as an answer at this time. "There is no known law (on how to store) at this time, and in areas like this the sun just doesn't shine all the time."

The speaker strongly supported use of nuclear power, as "the one stop gap that can get us through." He added that "Mount St. Helens created more pollution than man-made wastes in 20 years — but Jane Fonda was not walking across the top."

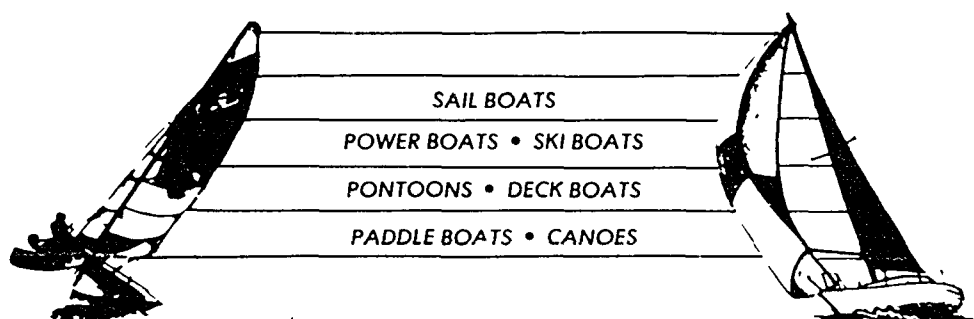

While this country is not doing so because of the risk, he noted that the French and Russians are.

A concern, which Cappiello stated frankly has no answer, is what he called the "aging of America."

"When Washington took office, the average age of an

Advise office zone at Six-Winchester

Long-standing plans by a township developer to place a commercial center near one of its residential subdivisions may be squelched by homeowners in the development.

The township planning commission will recommend that the board of trustees change the zoning on a parcel of land at Six Mile and Winchester from B-2 (general business) to OS-1 (office services) in part, at least, because residents of Lakes of Northville oppose business development on the site.

Elro Corporation was the primary developer of the subdivision, and also owns most of the parcel recommended for office zoning. The company has a suit pending against the township regarding the change.

The commission last year also voted to recommend the change to bring the site in line with the new master plan of land use created at that time. A petition from residents of Northville Commons subdivision, south of Six Mile, across from the site, asked that the rezoning be made to residential.

The board of trustees approved the change to OS-1, but failure to publish notice of the change within time limitations led to a revote which tied 3-3, essentially restoring the B-2 zoning.

The commission reconsidered the matter at the request of the new board of trustees, which will act on the results in its April session.

The decision to recommend office zoning on the site was in concurrence with a compromise reached last year between local homeowners who wished residential zoning, Robert Haas, who owns a small parcel in the area and wished to retain business zoning, and the planning commission.

Attorneys James E. Littell and George Zinn, both present for Haas, said they would abide by the earlier agreement, though not happily. Northville Commons and Lakes of Northville residents supported the change, but noted that they would still prefer residential zoning on the property. But Geoffrey Orley, representing Elro Corporation, had strong words of opposition.

"We've purchased the property on the basis that it was zoned commercial. We've done some things to improve the land for that use," he said. "I'm sorry to say that this meeting, or whatever may come of it at the board of trustees, is not likely to be the end of the matter."

Orley was referring to a pending law suit that claims the zoning change, together with denial of a request to build a convenience center at Six Mile and Sheldon, constitutes wrongful confiscation of the firm's property.

E. Thomas Lee, president of the Northville Commons Homeowner's Association, expressed a fear among residents that business zoning at the site would culminate in a strip of business zoning along Six Mile, from Haggerty to Sheldon.

He noted that the property was zoned commercial at a time when plans to make Winchester a main north-south artery were prominent. This would require connection through state hospital land and through other developments north of Seven Mile.

"Times have changed," he said. "It is time for a change in that zoning."

Jerry Chisnell, who lives near Seven Mile, compared the commercial zoning efforts along Six Mile to earlier ones along Seven.

"Seven Mile Road has been ruined already," he said. "I don't think Six Mile should go through the same thing."

As one homeowner after another rose to support a change in the zoning, a neighboring community took quite a pummeling for zoning practices there.

The phrase, "I don't think we need another Livonia out here," became something of a litany.

Original plans for the subdivision had called for a convenience shopping center on the location in question to serve the residents of the development, who now spoke vehemently against the plan.

"Who's going to shop there," asked Michael Miller, a Lakes resident.

"Over 600 people from Northville Commons signed a petition opposing it and if you went through our subdivision I think you'd find at least as many people who don't want it. It doesn't make much sense to develop something nobody wants."

Elro Corporation frequently was derided as "a speculator" which sought exorbitant profits from its subdivision. At various times, the words "carpet-bagging," "lack of moral responsibility" and charges of "concealing the actual zoning from people buying in the subdivision" were used in describing Elro.

Zinn, whose client has owned two acres of the parcel since the 1920s and Orley, whose firm bought the property from its original developer, Thompson Brown, defended their support of business zoning vigorously.

"We made an investment in this community just as you have made a commitment with your houses," Orley told the crowd. "We did not come into this community as speculators, as has been charged."

"We did not have to develop that area in single family homes, it was zoned for multiples," he continued. "If we were out to maximize our profits we would have developed it in multiples."

"We're here for the long haul, we're not here for the quick buck," he said. "A lot of developers wouldn't put up with what we have contended with here, but we plan to stay in the community. We have rights to our land, just like you do."

He noted that company developed the area with an 86-inch sewer interceptor in Winchester Road, sized for commercial and multiple development. "I wish someone had told us that Winchester wasn't going to become a main artery. It still might. We paid to upgrade it to that capacity."

Orley indicated that he sees little alternative but to take the township to court to resolve the zoning dispute, particularly if the board rezones the Six and Winchester site.

Zinn and Littell, on the other hand, said their client would abide by the earlier agreement, but made an indication that certain future actions could move them to take to the courts also.

Zinn told those gathered that the layout of homes in the two subdivisions, which have backyards, not frontage on Six Mile, was based on the plan to develop commercially on the site. He advised that homeowners easily could have checked the zoning in township hall, which abuts both Lakes of Northville and the B-2 district, prior to buying.

He also noted earlier advice from planning consultant George Villican that the township buy the B-2 district to allow expansion of township hall and perhaps add park land. Villican's firm, Villican Leman Associates, still represents the township, but Villican himself has been replaced by Claude Coates as adviser to the planning commission.

"We will abide by OS-1 because we agreed to it," Zinn said. "If you are talking of downgrading the zoning of the property, however, you are talking about downgrading the value of the land," he continued. "If the township, after making this move, then decides it wants to buy the property, you are talking about confiscation of property without due process."

Zinn left open the implication that such a combination of circumstances might change the attitude of his client regarding the rezoning.

Littell, too, unhappily agreed not to fight OS-1.

"I think it's wrong. I think once it failed to pass the board of trustees it should have been done with. I have never gone back on a promise. We are prepared to accept OS-1, for the reason that we did agree to it."

Both parties with ownership in the property were blamed again for failing to notify homeowners of the business zoning prior to their purchase of homes. Orley said his firm had no control over what appears in advertisements circulated by builders with which it subcontracted construction.

The planning commission closed the public hearing and went into special session. Commissioner Kenneth Sewell moved that the commission recommend OS-1 zoning to the board of trustees. The roll call vote was unanimous, no commissioners were absent.

Citizens told streets are county turf

Court judgments, trustee recommendations and citizen opposition notwithstanding, Wayne County will decide the future of three dedicated roads in Grandview Acres subdivision all by itself, residents were told Thursday.

Oppolo, Stoneleigh and Phillips roads are essentially nothing more than easements running through the development and abutting Northridge Apartments, but they have caused considerable turmoil as residents of the area tried to insure they would never be built.

A 1978 court judgment obligates Northville Investors, developer of Northridge and owner of a parcel zoned for single family dwellings north of the complex, not to use the roads for access to the multiple zoning adjacent. Several attorneys, however, have advised that use of Phillips or Oppolo for access to the single family zone probably is not prohibited by the agreement.

Attorney George Zinn, representing the developers, said his client would do anything the Grandview Acres residents desired to prevent access to the multiple from whichever road is used to enter the single family area, but that at least one of the roads is required for development of the northern parcel.

"We will put up a wall, build a berm, anything you people want, to prevent people living in those apartments from using that road," Zinn said, "but we have not agreed, and will not agree, to landlock our single family area."

"If all three roads are vacated, we will have no choice but to petition, and the township will have no choice but to grant, multiple zoning on the parcel north of Northridge."

The Wayne County Road Commission, in receipt of the township's recommendation to vacate all three streets, decided it would be better to close only two, leaving Phillips, most likely, open for access to the single family area.

The county is also in the process of engineering turn around areas for the closed streets, so police and fire vehicles can enter the area and not get blocked into it. The expense of constructing the turn arounds would be absorbed by the residents of the vacated streets, the county said. The only price estimate offered thus far is over $200,000 for each turn around.

Since the county is not a party to the agreement, the resident's question of whether or not the earlier judgment requires closing all three streets, regardless of proposed use, is moot, they were told because the county is the party which makes the decision.

Supervisor John MacDonald, a practicing attorney, advised the residents to seek legal advice, because there is nothing more the township can do.

"We have advised the county that we think all three streets should be vacated," the supervisor said. "The county really has all the decision-making power in this instance and it feels one of the streets should be open. Since they are not a party to the judgment, they are not bound by it."

Asked if all the legal fees paid by the homeowners were "wasted money," MacDonald said they were not.

"I wouldn't call it wasted money," he said, "You have prevented any access from the multiple development. I would suggest that you seek legal advice — not mine."

When Robert Littell, another attorney representing Northville Investors, pointed out that MacDonald is an attorney and could interpret the judgment decree, the supervisor balked at what might be construed as a conflict of interests.

"I am an attorney in my private life," he said. "Here, I am a supervisor of a township and nothing more."

Police Blotter

Walkaway cases draw police out four times

Township police were called in to assist Northville State Hospital security officers in four separate incidences involving hospital walkaways last week.

Police were called on three occasions March 7 to help escort patients back to the hospital.

One patient had wandered into the men's room at the Boron Gas Station, 39425 Six Mile; another was found walking on northbound Haggerty near Seven Mile and a third was picked up on Northville Road near Five Mile, police said.

Police also assisted security officers March 12, when a patient was located running in a field on Six Mile east of Whitehaven Drive.

In all cases the walkaways were returned to their living quarters at the hospital.

Philip Campbell of Lincoln Park suffered minor injuries March 6 when he was struck by his own vehicle in the main parking lot at Northville Downs, city police reported.

Campbell told police he exited his 1980 Oldsmobile to move a barrel out of the way.

While he was behind his car, Campbell said, it slipped into reverse, knocked him down and dragged him approximately 60 feet before coming to a halt.

The driver suffered bruises on his left leg and buttocks.

Mary Harshfield of Livonia suffered minor injuries March 6 in a two-car accident at the intersection of South Main and Seven Mile, city police reported.

Harshfield was a passenger in a vehicle driven by Vaughn Harshfield, which was stopped in a line of traffic on southbound South Main at Seven Mile.

A car driven by Paul Baez, 20132 Whipple Drive, struck Harshfield's vehicle from behind, witnesses told police.

Neither driver was hurt.

Baez, who was ticketed for failing to stop in an assured clear distance ahead, told police he was talking to his passenger and when he looked up it was too late to avoid the collision.

An electrical-system malfunction is believed to be the cause of a fire which destroyed a 1980 Volkswagen Rabbit March 7, township police reported.

The owner told police he was traveling westbound on Six Mile when he noticed smoke coming from under the hood. He pulled off the road and the car caught fire, he said.

Estimated value of the car is $7,000.

Police are looking for a man who reportedly exposed himself to a 37-year-old Jamestown Circle resident in Hines Park March 10.

The woman told police the naked man jumped out from some bushes across from the toboggan slide and began chasing her.

No description of the flasher was given.

A 27-inch Schwinn bicycle was reported stolen from a 1978 Ford parked at Sheehan's On The Green, 39500 Five Mile March 11, township police said.

The bike, valued at $250, was taken from the open trunk of the vehicle, police said.

Man who bought for kids sought by township police

Township police are seeking assistance in locating a man believed to have purchased liquor for four Northville High School students February 14.

One of the boys, Scott Friedman, 20101 Silver Springs Drive, died during the early morning hours of February 15, due partially to the amount of alcohol in his blood, according to Wayne County medical examiners.

The official cause of death was "exposure with contributing alcohol intoxication." The toxicology report showed .13 blood alcohol content and .26 urine alcohol content.

The body of the 15-year-old Friedman was found behind Silver Springs Elementary School Sunday, following a night of drinking with three friends Saturday, police said.

The boy's friends told police a white male approximately 21 years old with brown hair and a medium build bought them a bottle of whiskey at approximately 10 p.m. Saturday at a store in Highland Lakes Shopping Center.

The youths said the man was 5-foot-10 to 6 feet tall and spoke with a soft voice. He was seen driving a late model, full-size dark-colored vehicle.

Any persons having information which may assist police in their investigation are asked to phone Sergeant Philip Presnell at 349-9400.

Recreation budget opposed

In addition to the $59,000 allocated, another $2,500 is included in support for Fish Hatchery Park development.

Township Clerk Susan Heintz and Trustee James Armstrong were told Saturday that the city was going to pay the requested share rather than cut the budget (see related story). The city made its decision firm even as the township trustees were meeting and opposing the idea.

"It makes us the ones applying pressure on the people in the township to pay more than their neighbors in the city," Nowka said. "That, to me, is unconscionable."

Most of the board objected strenuously, too, that neither the city nor the recreation commission consulted the township on the matter before taking action and that neither party appeared at any of the four budget planning sessions conducted thus far.

"We approved three township people to that board," Treasurer Richard Henningsen said. "Where are they, why aren't they communicating with us?"

Nowka, a long-time recreation commission member who no longer is a member, objected most strongly to the city's part in the action, however.

"They either must be very flush with money or careless about how it's spent," he said. "As I recall, when we devised the formula for allocating our shares of the recreation department and library, we were hearing from the city these cries of poverty — that they didn't have the money — that they were being treated unfairly because their citizens didn't use the service as much."

Henningsen, Heintz and Trustee Richard Allen all voiced objections similar to those expressed by Nowka, particularly regarding the impact the budgeting process would have on township employee morale.

"We went through our whole budget and made everyone take a cut, trying to treat everyone fairly," Allen said. "The recreation department was supposed to make itself self-sustaining, through fees, as much as possible. I see at least two areas where that doesn't seem to be the case."

Adult softball appears to be subsidized more heavily than other sports, Allen said, and he would like to know why that is and whether it was just a quirk of the budget presentation.

"They don't have much detail here, and it's hard for us to understand it without anyone here to explain," he said.

Nowka, one of the strongest recreation program boosters on the board, strongly objected to the fact that the department will not have to curtail any services from its proposed budget, which makes it unlike any other township department.

"They (the recreation department) found it unnecessary to change their budget for expenditures because the city decided not to cut and they set the surcharge," Nowka said. "So, they didn't have to cut anything and we are left here trying to explain to all our other employees that we can only give them three percent raises, and we can't fund this or that program. This has me very annoyed."

Advised that the city council was to consider the item that night, Nowka went to the council session, but arrived after the council already had voted to fund the full request of the recreation department.

He was not told that the city also had decided not to cut the other joint service — the library.

Schools need 9.5 mills—officials

The millage rollback is based on the percentage of increase in the district's SEV vs. the Consumer Price Index exclusive of new construction or improvements.

Nichols said the district has rolled back more than two mills over the past two years and because of the state method of funding, district revenues have been less than the Consumer Price Index for the past two years.

In compliance with the 1978 Headlee Amendment — otherwise known as the Tax Limitation Amendment — if the assessed valuation of a school district goes up more than the preceding year's Consumer Price Index, the school district must roll back millage to a level no more than the revenue increase of the preceding year's CPI, he explained.

The current millage rate for the Northville Public School district is 40.1813, with 33.183 mills used for operating purposes and 7 mills going to the debt retirement fund.

Approximately 92 percent of the Northville school's districts $9.8 million in revenues is generated from local sources.

Approximately $8.3 million in total property taxes is used as revenue in comparison to this year's total state aid of $459,000, according to the superintendent.

In light of the current state of Michigan's economy and further executive order cutbacks forthcoming, Northville administrators aren't anticipating greener pastures for educational funding in the near future.

At a legislative breakfast with Congressman Jack Kirksey and Senator Robert Geake Monday morning, school administrators learned that further reductions from the state in categorical aid — which includes areas such as transportation, special education, etc. — appear inevitable for next year.

This year the district used up much of its additional revenue to make up for the loss of funds in categorical areas — which dropped from $600,000 last year to $130,000 this year.

Administrators also learned that within a few years, the district may be totally dependent on local revenues with virtually no funding coming from the state.

Nichols noted that over the past 10 years, the community has supported all school millage renewals — though voters have turned down some of the increase requests.

He emphasized that the April 4 special election will be a millage "renewal" request and not a millage "increase."

The mills up for renewal are the result of three separate mill actions — 3.9 mills passed in 1976, 2.6 mills passed in 1978 and 3 mills passed in 1979.

The board of education is seeking to renew the 9.5 mills for a period of five years.

Nichols pointed out that if the 9.5 mills are not renewed, the schools will be "facing cutbacks never experienced in this district before."

"We are not just talking about tightening our belts," he said, "but of cutting back programs and staff by more than 25 percent."

Senior citizens' trip set for March 25

Northville area senior citizens should make reservations today if they're interested in attending the March 25 trip to Colasanti's Cactus and Tropical Garden in Ruthven, Ontario, Canada.

The tour will include transportation by motor-coach with coffee and doughnuts served enroute, shopping and a tour of Colasanti's, a drive by Jack Miners Bird Sanctuary and a buffet lunch.

Tickets are $14.50 per person and reservations should be made today by calling Marie Knapp at 349-2230 or the community building at 349-0203.

Buses will pick up at Allen Terrace and Big Boy at 9:45 a.m.

Nichols to address LWV meeting

The Northville-Novati chapters of the League of Women Voters will hold a joint meeting at 12:30 p.m. March 19 in the Novi Library Meeting Room.

Northville Schools Superintendent Larry Nichols will discuss school related legislation and how it affects local school districts, what school administrators and school board members are trying to do to effect this kind of legislation before its passage and how citizens can do their part.

A discussion period will follow the presentation. The meeting is open to all persons interested in attending. Persons requesting further information should contact Lois Hoffmeister at 348-1016.

County charter issue pits suburbia against Detroit

By BOB WISLER

Detroit City Council President Erma Henderson carried the message to the suburbs: the majority of Detroit's council and Mayor Coleman Young oppose creation of an elected Wayne County executive.

Henderson appeared as a guest speaker before the Wayne County Charter Commission in a meeting and public hearing Thursday night in Livonia City Hall. It was one of 11 community meetings to be held throughout the county.

Suburban politicians have been overwhelmingly in support of an elected county executive, who would have veto power over county commission actions and function much like a strong city mayor.

Although Henderson made other recommendations, her statement on behalf of a new county charter calling for an appointed county manager rather than an elected executive was perceived as the most politically significant.

The issue of elected vs. appointed chief administrator is certain to become the biggest one surrounding voter adoption of a new Wayne County charter in the months ahead.

The 27 charter commissioners elected last November must fashion a charter — the first for any county in Michigan — by June 16. Commissioners expect that county voters will be asked to approve or reject a charter in a November 3 election.

Charter commissioners, however, do not have the option of writing a charter specifying only one of alternatives for choosing a chief administrator. Under state law they are obliged to write two charters, identical except that one must provide for an elected executive, the other for a manager appointed by the county board of commissioners.

If voters approve a charter, the new government will have either an executive or manager, depending on which alternative receives the most "yes" votes. Voters could reject both alternatives and adopt no charter.

The issue is shaping as one of the suburbs vs. Detroit. Last Thursday's public meeting was an example.

Speaking for an appointed county manager were Henderson and charter commissioner Darneau V. Stewart of Detroit. Speaking for an elected executive were Wayne County Commissioner Mary Dumas of Livonia, whose district includes Northville, State Representative Jack Kirksey (R-Livonia, Northville) and Tracy Salisbury, charter commissioner from Ecorse.

Henderson told the charter commissioners that "the legislative body (of the county) should be responsible for appointing the chief executive."

She said Detroit Mayor Coleman Young is on record as opposed to an elected county executive. Young, she said, feels that such an executive would be a "super mayor" of activities in Wayne County.

Henderson also downplayed the importance of county government, saying it had only one-third the budget of the city of Detroit and is essentially a "service provider" rather than a municipality. Detroit, she said, is a municipality which needs a mayor answerable to the public but the county does not.

Commissioner Stewart, also a member of the Detroit Board of Education, said it is possible to have a strong appointed county manager. He said the Detroit school system has a strong superintendent who is not elected but hired by and answerable to the elected board of education.

Suburban legislators who spoke, however, disagreed emphatically.

Dumas, a five-term county board member, was highly critical of county government.

"No organization the size and complexity of Wayne County, with a budget of over $300 million, could operate effectively and efficiently without an elected executive who had sufficient political clout to knock a few department heads together, deal on an equal basis with other constitutional officers of the county, the governor's office, Congress and the mayor of Detroit," she said.

State Representative Sylvia Skrel (R-Livonia), said an independently elected executive is necessary to even win credence for the county in the state legislature.

"I am concerned with the negative attitude of my colleagues" toward Wayne County government, the second-term legislator said.

Dumas harshest critic of county government

Critics of Wayne County government were much in evidence at the charter commission meeting conducted in Livonia last Thursday night.

Testifying before the commission on the inadequacies of county government were a variety of speakers ranging from elected officials to plain citizens.

Perhaps the harshest critic was County Commissioner Mary Dumas (R-Livonia, Northville) who made the longest presentation of 14 speakers in the nearly three-hour hearing.

Dumas lambasted county government generally and specifically singled out the civil service commission. She branded it "a private patronage system controlled by a select few, including the civil service commissioners themselves."

The system, she said, has "become the means of perpetuating mediocrity in carrying out the county's business and service to the taxpayers."

"By including most department heads themselves, it has placed county functions beyond the control of elected officials who must respond to the needs of Wayne County citizens," she said.

Dumas said later there have been a number of appointments which are evidence of the kind of patronage she had been talking about.

She said examples were the appointments of Joan Pettipren a $40,000-plus per year job with the county road commission after serving on the organization's civil service commission and of Martha Scott, ex-county commissioner who was appointed to Pettipren's old job.

"A few powerful (county) commissioners get to the civil service commission and get the appointments they want," she said. She said the structure of county government presently is "impossible."

She said the framers of the present Michigan constitution failed to understand the functions of county government and merely put together a patchwork which now includes 27 county commissioners and nine elected officials — three auditors, a sheriff, prosecutor, register of deeds, clerk, drain commissioner and treasurer — but no real administrative head of government.

Dumas urged the charter commission to deal with problems caused by "contradictions in the powers and duties to the county road commissioners and their relationship to the county executive."

She also said the powers of the board of commissioners should be strengthened to assure it's "right to establish programs and set budgetary limits for all departments . . . as well as to avoid the kind of conflict now occurring between the board of commissioners and the sheriff."

Dumas recommended eliminating the officer of drain commissioner and making the auditors accountable to the chief executive.

Other speakers included State Representative Jack Kirksey (R-Livonia, Northville) who urged an elected executive with strong powers and as few county commissioners as possible.

Suggestions from citizens included forcing the commission to vote on pay raises, rather than having them set by a compensation committee which would allow adoption by a "no action" decision; better use of fertile county lands adjoining Metropolitan Airport and the Detroit House of Corrections; creation of an ombudsman; elimination of the register of deeds and board of auditors as elected officials; and a four-year term of office for an elected county executive.

Federal dollars to pay for township benefits

All federal revenue sharing funds coming into Northville Township would be used to pay employee fringe benefits under a board of trustees proposal presented Thursday in a public hearing.

Rather than use the funds to support any one service or endeavor while the rest of the township struggles to meet budgetary restrictions, Clerk Susan Heintz said, the board would like to assign the moneys to pay fringe benefits costs currently absorbed by each departmental budget.

Such a use would free up each department to expand its services beyond what is included in the proposed budget.

Federal revenue sharing alone would not pay all of the fringe benefit costs. Projected federal funds were set at $65,305 early in the budgeting process while fringe benefits costs were projected at over $82,000.

The board's public hearing Thursday was the first of two required. It lasted only five minutes and there were no questions from residents in the meeting hall.

The next public hearing on the item will be March 30, prior to the general budget hearing and annual meeting.

Heintz noted this money previously has been used solely for the fire department, but voters approved a 0.5 mill earmarked tax levy for that department, increasing its revenues.

Heintz also reasoned that spreading the funds to all employees eliminates the political perception that one department is being favored over another and that a clearer audit trail, in compliance with federal regulations, could be followed with the proposed use.

She called the allocation of federal revenue sharing to fringe benefit costs "easily justifiable."

Planners, board to discuss budget

Budgetary concerns presently dominate the minds of township trustees, but they will soon turn their heads to future planning philosophies.

Library cuts rejected

Dawson said he understood "the budget for the library had been set by the township prior to discussion (with the library board)"

"It puts my board in a bad light," he said, "for it (the township) is totally unimformed"

As the recommendation to keep the budget as presented was made, the council requested the township to hear a library board representative at its meeting next week

The library's 1980-81 total estimated budget of $126,326 was very little below the requested sum ($127,350) for 1981-82, the council stated

DeRusha complimented the library board for heeding its request to present a restrained budget

Vernon suggested it might be possible to have a joint meeting on the shared services, considering reinstatement of the library request

Tuesday Township Clerk Susan Heintz, learning of the council's action, said, "We all understand this is a joint service with the formula governing the contributions. This is a bad time fiscally for the township, we are trying very, very hard to allocate limited resources. We have tried our best to make equitable cuts to all our departments and services, which include the joint service, and this is the best we can do"

She indicated she would ask business manager David Leiko to call the city.

Nowka noted that "the library has a lot less flexibility for adding to its budget than the recreation department (which can adjust fees)" and expressed concern that "the cuts we hated to do" will place a strain on joint services."

APPROVAL OF BILLS Motion by Councilman DeRusha supported by Councilwoman Ayers to approve the following bills: GENERAL FUND, $100,535.55 PUBLIC IMPROVEMENT FUND, $45,295.35 EQUIPMENT FUND, $4,742.29 WATER FUND, $6,195.72 MAJOR STREET FUND, $5,691.03 LOCAL STREET FUND, $5,495.10 ALLEN TERRACE CHECK WRITING FUND, $6,680.50 SHARED SERVICES FUND, $3,524.16 PAYROLL FUND, $11,692.71 RECREATION FUND, $9,492.88 Motion Carried Unanimously.

POLICE REPORT Communication from the Police Department to Reverend Boerger of St. Paul's Lutheran Church requesting that parishioners not park on the service drive leading to Allen Terrace.

COMMUNICATION FROM CITIZENS There were none.

AGENDA REVISIONS There were none.

PUBLIC HEARING TO CONSIDER THE REZONING FROM R-1-B TO PBO THE NORTH 259 OF LOT 278 FRONTING ON W. CADDY The Clerk read the notice of public hearing as published. Mayor Vernon opened the public hearing and asked if anyone wished to be heard. Mr. George Kohs 473 W. Caddy stated he had attended the Planning Commission hearing on this matter and that no formal action had been taken due to a lack of quorum of the members. He was informed it would be heard. He felt this was after the fact since the engineering firm already occupies the building. He did not understand two questions — 1) it apparently has been rezoned and 2) they are using part of the cemetery lot for parking. Mayor Vernon explained the lot had not been rezoned yet, that was the function of City Council at this meeting. Mr. Kohs asked if the engineering firm were using the building Mayor Vernon answered it was temporary. The City Manager explained there were two aspects — the engineering firm can be tenants of the City in the short run until next fall since they have surveys in the City and the zoning ordinance seems to suggest that City Offices can be located anywhere in the City. He felt a rezoning would be the more straight forward way of handling it. The engineering firm moved in in December and it was thought the rezoning would be the way to go. The Planning Commission did not have a quorum and the matter was delayed. He explained this was discussed with the City Attorney. The City Manager commented the Planning Commission is required by law to take testimony and make a recommendation to the City Council. This is what the meeting is for tonight. Mr. Kohs asked if a temporary permit was issued to park on the cemetery property. He had brought up the same point at the Planning Commission hearing. He stated it appears as all one lot, 278, and thought the fence had been moved over and permitted parking at the day school. He commented he did not know the cemetery was zoned. The City Manager commented that the fence was moved prior to his coming to Northville. He thought it had been moved 6' to 8' into the cemetery. He stated the rezoning does not deal with the Cemetery property. In answer to Mr. Kohs' question as to whether or not the portion were being rezoned also. He explained the whole area would be surveyed because of the post office expansion and the City would find out the fence belongs. Mayor Vernon stated the fence has been there and the parking lot was used by the day care nursery. Mr. Kohs commented it now becomes a commercial parking lot. He mentioned that there were approximately 200 cars in and out of the school parking lot and now this Mayor Vernon asked if anyone else wanted to be heard on the matter, hearing no response, he closed the public hearing and opened it for Council action. The City Manager commented on an idea that came up at the Planning Commission meeting that the City dispose of the remaining residential area to the residents who backed up to the property because their lots are so shallow. He suggested there might be some future potential to that idea and would be as practical as leaving it as open space. He stated there was no intent on the City's part to expand into the residential. Motion by Councilman DeRusha supported by Councilman Gardner to adopt the zoning ordinance amendment, Section 2-202, to rezone from R-1-B/Residential (First Density) to PBO (Professional Business Office District) the north 259 of lot 278 fronting on W. Caddy of Northville Assessor's Plat No. 3 TIS RBE L66, P43, WGR Motion Carried Unanimously.

PUBLIC HEARING (CONT'D) TO CONSIDER THE REPEAL OF AND SUBSTITUTION OF TITLE 4, CHAPTER 14, REGULATIONS AND SALE OF FLAMMABLE LIQUIDS OF THE CODE OF ORDINANCES OF THE CITY OF NORTHVILLE Mayor Vernon reopened the public hearing and asked if anyone in the audience cared to be heard on the ordinance. Hearing no response he closed the public hearing and opened it for Council's consideration. Mayor Vernon's comments were answered by Alderman David Servid. Islands. Councilwoman Ayers mentioned the new changes made the ordinance more readable and workable. Councilman DeRusha suggested the following word changes: Page 2, Section 14-05, "second from the last line the word fee should be inserted after the word renewal. Page 3, -B, last line the word all should be inserted before the word other. Page 4, Sec. 4-1411-E the word phone should be telephone. Mr. Cal Cross, Cal's Gulf Station stated that there is a very unique town and Council wants to change it. He asked why Council wanted to change this ordinance. Mayor Vernon stated he didn't think people should be obligated to drive out of town to buy self service gasoline. He stated the opportunity to purchase it in town Mr. Cross asked where the locations were that you could put this type of station. He commented that the Boron station was dead and the only other place was the closed Shell Station. Motion by Councilman DeRusha supported by Councilwoman Ayers to repeal Title 4, Chapter 14 Regulation & Sale of Flammable Liquids, Sections 4-1401 — 4-1406 adopted February 26, 1976 and adopt Title 4, Chapter 14, Regulation & Sale of Flammable Liquids, Sections 4-1401 — 14-1421 of the Code of Ordinances of the City of Northville. Motion Carried Unanimously.

PROPOSED ZONING ORDINANCE TEXT CHANGE SECTION 2-2-2 CENTRAL BUSINESS DISTRICT PRINCIPAL USES PERMITTED Mayor Vernon commented on concern raised about non-conforming use and asked if Council wanted to publish the ordinance as is for a change of use.

Councilman DeRusha wondered if it was necessary to include mortuary establishments in this ordinance.

The City Manager mentioned the real question raised by the Planning Commission related to the limited number of lots on Wing which are zoned Commercial. It was felt the houses would be more compatible under the CBD zoning rather than GCD. The recommendation of the Planning Commission was for Center Street and the row of houses on Dunlap and Wing. The one business rendered non-conforming they thought they had dealt with.

Discussion followed on the Commercial and Central Business Districts and conforming and non conforming aspects of the text change.

Motion by Councilman Gardner supported by Councilwoman Ayers to publish for a public development of the community and coordination of efforts between themselves and neighboring communities

The meeting was requested by the planning commission, which is in the process of determining several rezoning issues in preparation for finishing a map to include in a new zoning ordinance.

Some planners were under the impression the new township board might have development priorities different from those of the previous board

Commissioner Marvin Gans suggested that the idea of meeting jointly with new boards should be made a commission policy.

Supervisor John MacDonald said that he did not know why some commissioners were under the impression he and the board favor more industrial and commercial development, but that there were a number of procedural items he would like to discuss with the commission.

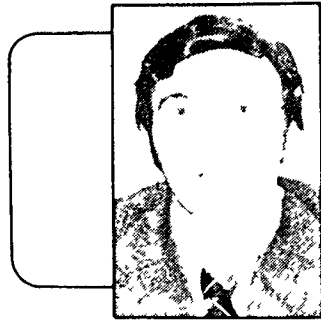

Also hovering in the background of the senate's consideration of this year's school aid are two factors likely to impact local school districts in 1982: property tax reform sometime later this year, and cuts in allocations from the federal education budget.

The issues surrounding this year's school aid bill are several.

The governor, reasoning that financially-strapped local school districts would benefit more from more flexibility with money received, recommended releasing funds previously allocated for "categorical" programs to non-designated use in the school aid formula.

The programs recommended for deletion from categorical funding are: academically talented, alternative juvenile, vocational education equipment, media centers, pregnant persons and school age parents, community schools and local district revenue guarantee. The action of the House of Representatives through committee action so far has been to replace all these programs back into the categorical funding mechanism.

Categorical aid is a method by which the state can financially encourage local school districts to offer specific programs the Legislature feels important enough to so designate. Besides the

News from Lansing

By R. ROBERT GEAKE
State Senator

programs already mentioned are many others, including transportation, bilingual education and special education.

The governor's recommendation did not subtract state aid per se from formula school districts offering these programs, as the districts could, at their discretion, continue the programs with the increased formula monies they would receive.

However, more and more school districts throughout the state are rapidly coming into a position called "out of formula." Northville is one of these. These districts cease to participate in the state's major funding mechanism of school aid, and receive state monies only through "categorical" aid for offering specific programs.

The basic membership aid, from which "out of formula" districts are excluded, is designed to guarantee an equal amount of revenue behind each school child for each mill that is levied by a school district for operating purposes. The state adds its dollars to local property tax dollars to arrive at a guaranteed yield for each local mill.

If a district reaches the point, through increases in the value of its taxable property, that its local mill yields more than the state's guaranteed yield, the district is "out of formula" and no longer receives basic membership bid.

For a variety of reasons, more and more districts are reaching this point. Michigan seems to be headed in the opposite direction that other states are taking towards their schools. Funding for schools in our state is becoming increasingly dependent on the local property tax for revenue, as Michigan provides less and less state funds to local school districts.

A few months ago, a law became effective expanding this trend. Categorical aid to out-of-formula districts is now "recaptured" by the state, if that district is so many dollars over the formula cut-off line of taxable property. In effect, these districts will not receive all the categorical aid previously allocated to each district for offering a specific program.

Another controversial aspect of this year's school aid bill concerns funding for adult education. The governor's recommendation, in this case, was to make it a categorical program. Department of Management and Budget reasoning for this recommendation is that formula funding for education of children should not be used by the school districts to fund adult programs. The house, through committee action so far, does not agree with this recommendation.

The Senate Education Committee, while awaiting final house action and reporting of the bill to the senate, is hearing testimony from educators and administrators across the state on how all the complicated aspects of this year's school aid bill will affect their school districts.

Legislators, homeowners voice opinions at tax forum

Surprisingly few people turned out here last week for a tax forum but the few who did made it crystal clear that they're angry, frustrated and insistent that property taxes be placed on the chopping block.

"I've had it up to here with taxes and your (legislative) rhetoric," a citizen snapped — reflective of the mood of about 50 persons attending the forum in the city hall.

The attendance contrasted sharply with the standing-room-only turnout a week earlier in the township hall where citizens blasted assessments, equalization and property taxes in general.

Four legislators and an aide to the governor expressed their views and recommendations and then answered questions of the audience at last week's non-partisan forum, sponsored by the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce, the Northville GOP Club and the Northville Kiwanis Club.

Former mayor A. Malcolm Allen chaired the meeting for the sponsoring organizations.

Freezing of assessments at the 1980 level, championed by Democratic State Senator Doug Ross of Oakland County, and the Tisch III proposal espoused by Republican State Representative Richard Fessler of Oakland County appeared to draw most public interest.

Douglas Roberts, state deputy budget director, argued in behalf of a governor-legislature compromise ballot proposal, while Republicans Senator R. Robert Geake of Northville and State Representative Jack Kirksey sympathized with taxpayers and attempted to background the property tax problem.

Here's a sampling of what they had to say:

Ross plugged for his thus far unsuccessful proposal to immediately freeze assessments at the 1980 level to curb tax increases this year while developing a longer-term solution of mandating automatic decreases in millage rates to offset assessment increases.

"My proposal puts control (of taxes) in your (taxpayers') hands," asserted Ross. "If Northville's average assessments went up by 41 percent the millage rate automatically would be decreased by 41 percent. I'd be willing to allow local governments small increases, up to five percent, but anything higher would have to go to a vote."

He labeled Tisch II "irresponsible," primarily because of its "devastating" assault on higher education and because "it shifted local control to the state."

Doubting the constitutional legality of an assessment freeze as proposed by Ross, Roberts instead pumped for a 35 percent reduction in property taxes and a spending restraint program while providing for a one-cent sales tax increase.

Roberts said the governor-legislature proposal will be put to state voters by May 19 or earlier, predicted there will be a Tisch III proposal "no matter what the legislature does," defended equalization by class, and admitted that even though "circuit breaker" offers significant property tax relief it's a "loser" because many people do not know it is part of their state income tax rebates.

"I supported Tisch before and I'm working on Tisch III now," said Fessler, who says his goal is to persuade both Republicans and Democrats "to give the people a choice" by placing both Tisch and the governor-legislature proposals on the ballot in May.

Fessler said Tisch III takes the sting out of opponents by proposing less severe tax cutbacks, namely rolling back property taxes 33 percent over a two-year period; freezing assessments until the end of 1983 and allowing a maximum annual increase of two percent of the 1980 SEV thereafter; requiring the state to make up all lost revenue to local governments; setting a limit on state taxes; forbidding increases of more than five percent a year for fees and tuitions at state institutions; and requiring only a simple majority vote on state tax proposals.

Geake explained there are three basic ways to tackle the property tax problem. He did so by blackboarding the property tax formula: SEV x millage equals tax bill. Of this formula, the assessment freeze is aimed at "SEV"; the legislature, himself included, prefers the "rollback" approach that affects millage; while the governor would address the "tax bill" element.

Kirksey, referring to the effects of the equalization by class act, noted that of the 83 counties in Michigan only Wayne County is "drastically affected" by it.

Like Roberts, he stressed the importance of "circuit breaker" relief now in effect, calling it "the greatest tax cutter in the nation. Unfortunately, it's hidden in income tax rebates."

Recognizing citizen anger over property taxes, Kirksey conceded that if Tisch II were on the ballot today "it probably would pass." Nevertheless, he said the proposal was irresponsible.

OFFICIAL NOTICE TO THE CITIZENS OF THE CITY OF NOVI OF PUBLIC HEARING TO CONSIDER APPROVAL OF A PROJECT PLAN AS SUBMITTED TO THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF NOVI BY THE ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF NOVI FOR FELDMAN PROJECT

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that pursuant to Act 338 of the Public Acts of Michigan of 1974, as amended, The Economic Development Corporation of the City of Novi has submitted a project plan to the City Council for its approval.

Said project plan deals with the acquisition, construction and operation of an automobile dealership facility, the site and furnishings, machinery and equipment therefor to be used by Martin Feldman or a corporation to be formed by him and details all information required by law relative to said project and its impact on the community. The project will not require the displacement and relocating of any persons. The location of the project plan area is 42355 Grand River Avenue, West of Meadowbrook Road.

The City Council will meet at 8 o'clock p.m., Eastern Standard Time, on Monday, the 6th day of April, 1981, at the Novi Public Library located at 45245 W. Ten Mile Road, Novi, Michigan, and will conduct a public hearing on the advisability of approving by resolution the project plan.

The City Council may approve, modify or reject said project plan. THIS NOTICE is given pursuant to the requirements of Sections 10 and 17 of Act No. 338, Public Acts of Michigan, 1974, as amended. Further information, including maps, plats and a description of the proposed project plan, are available for public inspection at the City Clerk's office.

All interested citizens are encouraged and will be offered an opportunity at said hearing to address the City Council concerning any aspect of said project plan.

City Clerk

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON PROJECT PLAN FOR KMART CORPORATION PROJECT INCLUDING ISSUANCE OF BONDS BY THE ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF NOVI

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the City Council of the City of Novi, pursuant to and in accordance with Act 338, Michigan Public Acts, 1974, as amended, shall hold a public hearing on April 6, 1981, at 8 o'clock p.m., in City of Novi offices, Ten Mile Road, Novi, Michigan.

The Public Hearing shall be held to consider whether the Project Plan recommended to the City Council by The Economic Development Corporation of the City of Novi constitutes a public purpose and whether City Council approval by resolution of the Project Plan is advisable.

Under the Project Plan the Project would consist of the construction and operation of a commercial facility and related improvements to be located at West Oaks Shopping Center located on the west side of Novi Rd., north of I-96 and across from 12 Oaks Mall.

The Project would be acquired by The Economic Development Corporation of the City of Novi (the "EDC") with the proceeds of approximately $3,285,000 of revenue bonds issued by the EDC pursuant to Act 338. The Project would be leased to Winthrop Leverage Lease Properties, a Massachusetts limited partnership (which would acquire title to the Project upon payment of the bonds) and would be subleased by Winthrop Leverage Lease Properties to K mart Corporation, which would guarantee payment of the bonds. The revenue bonds will be secured by the Project and will be payable solely and only from the rental payments received from the lease of the Project. The bonds will not be a general obligation of the City of Novi and will not be payable from the general or tax funds of the City of Novi.

No persons shall be displaced as a result of the implementation of the Project Plan.

The Project Plan, related maps and drawings and other information concerning the project and its financing are available for public inspection during regular business hours at the offices of the City Clerk in the City Hall.

THIS NOTICE is given pursuant to the requirements of Section 17 of Act 338. Further information concerning the matters set out in this notice may be secured from the City Clerk's office.

All interested citizens are encouraged to attend and will be offered an opportunity at said hearing to address the City Council concerning the Project Plan.

Geraldine Stipp
City Clerk

Our opinions

Circuit breaker and red tape

It has been estimated that seven out of eight people in some areas have never heard of the Homestead Act.

That fact would come as no surprise to local legislators who discussed taxes in a public forum here last week. Lawmakers contended this "circuit breaker," perhaps the finest act of its kind in the nation, is a tremendous boon to Michigan property taxpayers. But because it is part of the state income tax filing form, many fail to recognize it or its advantages.

Officials fear many people are missing out, therefore, on what could be a substantial tax break.

Basically, the act says that any time your property taxes or rent payments exceed 3.5 percent of your income, you are entitled to 60 percent of the difference as a straight tax rebate.

For example, a person with a household income of $21,000 who has a property tax bill of $1,400 would have a property tax credit of about $400. To obtain the credit, you make an application to the state on your income tax form. The state treasurer pays the cash rebate.

Unless people's returns are being prepared by persons familiar with the circuit breaker, local property owners and renters may pay higher taxes than necessary, officials point out.

Persons who may have questions about how it works should contact their municipal or state representatives.

During last week's tax discussion a salient point was made by one disgruntled taxpayer, namely that a lot of paper work and expense could be saved if the Homestead Act provided exemptions prior to tax payment.

Why not, he suggested, permit the "homestead" break prior to payment, thus eliminating the necessity of first paying the full tax and then requesting a refund for part of it.

Why not, indeed. The answer probably is that the suggestion is too simplistic and would dislodge some bureaucrats. After all, bureaucratic red tape sustains jobs and keeps the merry-go-round running.

Cooperation vital

The stakes are high: preservation of the quality of life residents were seeking as they moved to this community. Along with good schools and responsible government, families who live in both the city and township (our community) have desired quality library and recreation programs for both youngsters and adults.

Both of the latter two programs right now are in the midst of financial difficulties, partly because of the state's economic crunch — and partly because a new township board has taken hold and is trying to live within its resources (three mills collected). The township in a line-by-line budget study has pared every department — including funding for shared services.

This is where the problem ceases to be internal, or with its own residents, many of whom are concerned with lack of treatment for dirt roads and thin police protection. In downtown Northville at city hall the council is worrying that it, in the reduction of funding for shared services, is not offering its residents all that it can afford. In the case of recreation services this can be adjusted by having township residents pay an added amount for participation. Not so for the library.

City officials are feeling the township is being rigid. The township trustees consider the city (with its higher funding) is lacking in understanding.

Paul Dawson, who attended the council session at which the library's recommended budget was approved Monday, understandably was concerned as new chairman of the library advisory board about the proposed cut. But to say that the township had not really studied the problem was unfair.

With many reports coming second-hand it appears that the solution is first-hand. Large groups may take longer to conduct a meeting but, in this strained situation, the best thing possible would be for the city council, township trustees and library board (with the librarian) to meet. The same type of meetings should be held for the other shared service of recreation.

After all, the only concern of everyone is the best service possible today.

Plus and minus

One community's loss is another's gain when it comes to financially strapped industry.

To the relief of local residents who work at the Burroughs plant in Plymouth, the neighboring plant appears to have been saved.

Burroughs Corporation has announced it will keep the plant operating. However, it will close its city of Wayne plant and shift about 500 employees to Plymouth. Retention of the Plymouth plant, a major jobs and tax producer, is good news for Plymouth — but Plymouth's gain is Wayne's loss.

Now if only Ford Motor would have a change of heart and opt to keep the Valve Plant here humming we'd really have cause to celebrate. But, alas, like Wayne, Northville's loss is likely to become another community's gain this coming summer.

She's in advertising

SUZANNE DIMITROFF

Ads in a community newspaper are among the most well-read of any in the media because they tell what's available where we live. We think ours do this very well in an attractive way. Many readers may not realize that much local advertising is designed and laid out by the newspaper's sales persons — who may be well known to merchants and businesses for whom he or she creates — but who is usually most anonymous to readers.

Suzanne Dimitroff not only sells space for The Record, but she also creates promotional ideas and lays out ads, working with Michael Preville, advertising director. "I enjoy being on the road, meeting people and having the freedom to plan my own week. I guess I'm a real self-starter and this gives me the opportunity to work the way I do best," she observes as she tells why she likes her job.

Those she meets usually are surprised to find that the friendly, petite blonde (who looks like a cheerleader) is the mother of Chris and Andy, high school varsity athletes. She also is the mother of an Amerman sixth grader, Elizabeth. Suzie with her three children has lived in Northville for about five years, previously moving many times to many states.

However, as Suzanne Cowie, she was a 1962 Northville High School graduate. "I've been a senior in the last three universities I've attended," she relates, mentioning she attended Michigan State University for some five years, then Western Michigan University and Purdue University. She's just missed getting her degree with each move as each university had different requirements to be met.

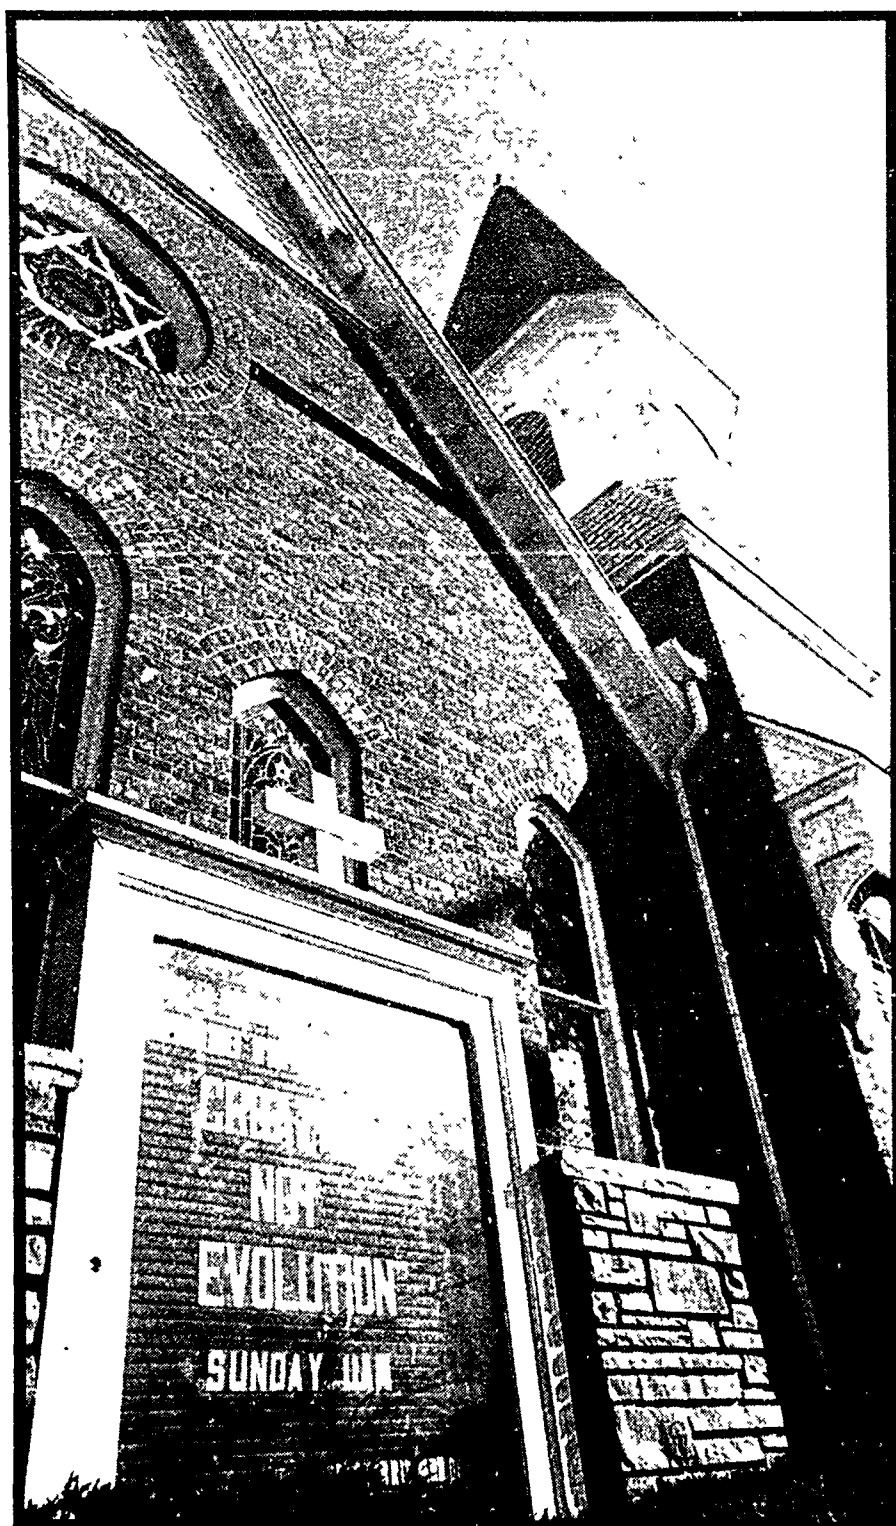

Besides her work at the paper, she has been a volunteer probation officer for the 35th District Court for two years and has just been appointed to the Northville Arts Commission.

Suzie adds that in her spare time she enjoys reading and playing a handmade dulcimer she bought a year-and-a-half ago.

JACK W.
HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

The lady of the house who has the delicate touch of a moose when it comes to flowers unearthed all her husband's tulip bulbs last fall and replanted them in a new location to surprise the family.

"Why, where and how?" she was asked.

"Because it is time for a change, that's why. As for the rest, never mind; it's a surprise."

She has an obsession for moving things, and inhabitants of the house have learned, painfully at times, to live with it. Flinging oneself into bed can be as dangerous as diving into an empty pool. Family members, in the dark, have belly-flopped onto the floor or banged a dresser that wasn't there the night before.

And it isn't just the furniture. She moves things on the furniture with equal frequency. Turn on the radio and someone's likely to twist the nose of the hamster.

But, praise be, she has not seriously tried relocate the fireplace, sinks and toilets. And seldom has she moved the power saw (although she regularly uses it as a drying table for wet clothes, which produces a nice even rust), or rarely has she dared venture into the flower beds where plants have been known to tremble and instantly wilt in her presence.

The family had forgotten the transplanted bulbs until one day in the cold of winter she asked, "Do tulip bulbs have tops and bottoms?"

The family knew, of course, that she had chucked the bulbs into holes any which way, and someone observed that tulips probably would come up in China. But last week she announced proudly, "Look in the front yard. All of your tulips are coming up."

By some amazing stroke of luck she had indeed coaxed new life from the "headless" bulbs in the middle of the yard.

Now the family awaits the flowering as it considers a sibling's question, "Can tulips have upside down blossoms?"

No flowers grow — parable on taxes

The following is titled "The Flowers No Longer Grow" by its author, Dr. Russell Atchison. It is, he states, a parable on taxation and was written because of his great concern for what he sees and hears about him today.

He mentions, specifically, that he was moved to comment after hearing that more than 400 city residents had called about their tax assessments and that some were crying. He is especially concerned because he feels many others do not know how their taxes are increasing.

This is a parable, and the title of the parable is "The Flowers No Longer Grow." This is the story, an everyday story, that could happen any place. It is the story of a young man by the name of Joe who moved into a small community, one in which he had studied and which he had liked, and where he would like to make his livelihood — and eventually where to die.

He was young, good looking and very strong. He had inherited a small estate from his father and mother and had decided to start his own business in this idyllic community which he had chosen — which he did. And he worked hard and long, and the business prospered. Then he bought a small home, a home that he could afford, and the years went by, but every once in a while someone whom he did not know, did not even know the name of, declared that certain things should happen.

First of all, the price of the license for his business went up. It went up yearly and yet he didn't know why, he didn't even know their name. And then the taxes, people whom he did not know said that his house was worth so much more than he had paid for it. And yet he was content, but he was still struggling to pay the mortgage on the price of the home that he had originally purchased.

So, in an ever greater effort to meet these these increasing costs, he decided to paint his place of business and make it more attractive. And he planted flowers around the entrance and everybody said how nice it looked, how attractive it made the place, and how it made them feel better. And so he continued to grow the flowers, many different varieties, and they were very beautiful.

But, the people whom he did not know decided that the prices of the licenses on his car and on his vehicles should go up. He recognized this, and so he worked harder in order to make enough money to pay these increased costs.

But the people whom he did not know said that his business had increased so much in value that they more than doubled and instead of closing his place of business on Saturday afternoon he stayed open. And by doing this he could make the payment on his taxes.

In the meantime his two children were growing up and were ready for college. He had saved his money and was sure he was able to afford these dependents a good college education.

But the people whom he did not know decided that his business had increased in value; so now they had to quadruple his taxes.

Since he wanted his children to go to school, he decided this year he would not buy a car. He was surprised to find that Jim who lived across the street was home more and the reason was that there was not longer any employment for Jim. Joe felt sorry, but he had to put his children through college.

And so the next year came and the people he did not know said the taxes should go up again. Besides, they needed an increase in salary; so they needed an increase in taxes. Joe did not even know who these people were,

and he did not even know their name.

Joe decided he should not even buy a new refrigerator. He was surprised when Alex down the street started spending more time at home, and realized Alex was employed by a refrigerator firm, and people weren't buying refrigerators any more because they had to pay their taxes.

And so he struggled and the flowers didn't look so pretty. He didn't have time to cultivate and even to water them.

And another year went by, and the people whom he didn't even know decided that his property had increased in value so much that the taxes went up over half. Joe talked it over with his children, and they decided that one child would drop out of college. The other didn't go to college and had no work.

Joe was worried and the flowers more than ever were neglected.

Finally, when it was imperative that he buy a new car because the old one was no longer trustworthy, he decided to buy a Japanese car because, in reality, what did he owe to the people whose name he did not know; so he bought a Japanese car and he was happy with the Japanese car. It was his way of fighting back at the elements, the elements that increased the pressures, the elements that took the joy out of accomplishment.

Finally the refrigerator gave out, and he bought one made by a foreign country. And now Jim and Alex who had been out of a job still remained out of a job.

Joe no longer felt allegiance to the country that he used to call his own, and when it was suggested there might be a conflict with a southern Isthmus country, he resolved that his son would not be sacrificed.

In the meanwhile all the flowers disappeared and died — and there are not flowers any more.

MSU student says protest needed

To the Editor:

I am a 1979 graduate of Northville High School, and a Michigan State University student who will be deeply affected by the proposed changes here. If this latest proposal is accepted, it will be likely that I will have to leave the state to get the kind of education I believe I need and is most appropriate.

My personal goals include an education that enables me to come back to Michigan and the Detroit area, but I am afraid events at MSU will preclude that option for myself and hundreds of other students. In the current state of the union and the community, I am afraid we cannot afford the loss.

I hope you can print this for the people of Northville. I believe that the people, once aroused and convinced of the need for high quality undergraduate education here will become active. I trust those who support us and who can act will act.

As a community which sends a major proportion of its high school graduates to MSU, we — those in the school system, graduates, parents and public leaders — should be very aware of some recent developments in the MSU system. I would like to discuss some of these at length.

Departments targeted for total elimination (not including cuts of 13 percent for every department) include the innovative residential colleges — Lyman Briggs and James Madison — the nursing school, college of urban development, urban planning and landscape architecture, astronomy, biophysics, astrophysics, medical technology, independent study and placement testing, and advising functions in counseling and residential areas.

In a student and faculty governance system which purports to be fully open to students and to those concerned participants, the president, the select advisory committee and other (although not all) administrative bodies from whom recommendations have come have not allowed for full public discussion and have acted with unwarranted secrecy.

They have advocated total elimination of some programs with minimum reduction in others, a negligible reduction in administrative positions and salary (at least for central administration, the highest-paid group in the "Big Ten.")

While maintaining that their goal is the elimination of duplicative programs, they have at the same time eliminated entire disciplines and majors which have no alternative available programs.

An example of the kind of incoherence that has resulted from this process is my own program, James Madison College. We educate 2.5 percent of the University's students with .25 percent of its budget. The program graduated 19 percent of the University's Phi Beta Kappa inductees; eight percent of the honors college enrollment; more than half of this year's Marshall, Truman and Rhodes scholars.

The recent round of budget proposals, scheduled for a final, deciding vote March 26, flies in the face of the university's stated purpose: to carry out the mission of the land-grant institution.

There is, of course, the hope that this will be halted or reversed in the next few years, or at the trustees' deliberations this month. I urge you to contact the appropriate state officials and university's elected trustees and to voice your concerns. Urge your elected representatives — city, state, judiciary — to make necessary changes in a way that distributes the burden equally and fairly.

Board is 'doing the best it can'

To the Editor:

The Northville Township Board of Trustees is committed to doing the best it can with the 2.93 mills which we are currently able to levy. This levy represents a little over five cents per dollar of your total property tax dollars.

As most of us know, the great bulk of the taxes go to the School District and Wayne County. The township, however, receives the brunt of the criticism for the simple reason that they are the ones who collect the taxes and they are the ones that have Wayne County do the assessments.

You can be assured that each one of the members of the board of Trustees also pays a great deal of taxes and that they are also unhappy with the amount of those taxes.

I for one have seen my taxes jump in 10 years from approximately $1,600 to almost $4,200. This board has sent communications to Lansing objecting to the higher assessments, has voiced its objection to Public Act 114, both in writing and in telephone communications to its legislators.

The treasurer and business manager conducted a meeting at which they took great pains to explain where the tax dollars go and the explanations for the increases. I personally know they spent a great deal of time in preparation for this meeting and took some abuse which I believe was undeserved.

It goes without saying that we are all living through frustrating times. Everywhere we turn the prices of goods and services are jumping dramatically. Meanwhile, our spendable income is lowered or we are not receiving any reasonable increase to meet rising inflation.

We are currently faced with a 1.5 mill renewal of the police millage plus additional millage to assist a police force already undermanned and understaffed. The question of whether or not to voters of Northville Township want to continue this police service is, of course, up to them.

If they do not we are left to rely solely on the State Police, who also have their financial problems and who have also cut back on their services.

What this board has attempted to do is to restore a business-like approach to the problems of government since we took office in November. I believe that we have succeeded greatly in doing this with the coming on the board of the business manager and the clerk putting in full-time hours (even though it is a part-time job). My wife can attest to the hours I have put in my job.

There are some citizens of the township who are constantly saying that every cooperative act that we conduct with either the City of Northville or other municipalities is an indication that annexation is "in the air."

This simply is not true. There is no desire on the part of myself nor any member of the board to institute an action to annex to any community. We do have to look seriously at cooperative efforts in government services to maximize the best use of your tax dollars.

In other words, cooperation with other communities should not be interpreted as annexation but merely as a cost savings factor to the people of Northville Township.

It goes without saying that we are all in this economic bind together and it will take all of the constructive criticism that we can receive to help us solve the problems of Northville Township and make it the viable community it is and will be in the future.

We encourage the public to attend the meetings of the Northville Township Board of Trustees and to observe for themselves the discussions and solutions of many of the problems that face township government.

Township should challenge factor

To the Editor:

As we have seen during the recent property tax debate, it will be tough to get township and city officials to take action because they are the direct beneficiaries of the assessment process adopted by Wayne County. If our supervisor represents the homeowners in our township, then he should challenge the unfair multiplier factors at the next meeting of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners. Moreover, if they refuse to correct the inequities, then the supervisor should appeal to the Michigan State Tax Tribunal. Certainly, unfair multiplier factors must be considered important during the qualification process.

Recently this writer has been criticized for having too much tenacity, assertiveness, aggressiveness, creativity, and audacity. Isn't it amazing that this newspaper (March 11 editorial) is now calling for these same characteristics to come forth from local officials to fight the property tax battle?

Board-up Whisper Woods houses?

Citing potential fire, vandalism and liability problems, township building inspector Troy Milligan Thursday asked the board of trustees for monies to board up five unfinished homes in Whisper Woods subdivision.

The housing market slump and the builder's financial problems have combined to leave the structures vacant for over two years, Milligan said, and the open buildings pose considerable risk.

A homeowners group from the subdivision, however, opposed boarding up the buildings because they would become "unsightly blights on the community."

Milligan suggested that a letter from the board to Impact Marketing

Associates might resolve the situation. "We (the building department) could use some help to try and get these four or five homes in the Whisper Woods closed up," Milligan said. "Impact Marketing has helped us out before by bringing in another builder to finish three houses last year I don't think they are inclined to help this time."

Impact Marketing held the land in the subdivision, selling lots to builders as subcontractors. Lawrence Landau is the builder whose houses are posing the problem, but his firm is in such dire straits it cannot afford to improve the situation.

"I think if the board were to write a very firm letter and pursue this matter, it would do some good," Milligan explained.

"All I really want Larry to do is finish up the exteriors, put some windows in, get doors that can be locked, and hang some garage doors," Milligan explained. "But he said he couldn't even afford to do that."

The building inspector cautioned that the township encountered a "rash of fires last year in the other unfinished homes that only ended when Impact brought in the other builder."

Liability for those injured in such a fire, or to children or others hurt while inside the unfinished structure could lay with the township, he added.

"I wouldn't let this go much longer," Milligan said. "Spring is coming and you know the first one (anyone hurt) would go after would be me, and then most likely you (the board)."

Trustee Thomas Cook, who lives across the street from one of the unfinished structures, said he would support the homeowner's group in not wishing to have the buildings boarded up.

The board decided to write a letter to Impact Marketing, sending copies to all boards and commissions of the township.

If no solution to the problem is found soon, (the homeowners group suggested it might be able to get some garage doors) the township will disburse the few hundred dollars Milligan requested for closing the buildings.

Economist interprets national policies

American was 16 Today it's 31 going on 32. By the end of the decade we'll push it into the mid-30s and by the end of the century we'll truly be middle aged as the fastest growing group today is the over 55.

"It is coming with a lower birth rate at one end and people living longer and enjoying life at the other end. Having children is tough on a pleasure-loving generation and they're not going to stand for it."

"If you don't think this is happening, just notice the market television is aiming at. Ten years ago aspirin was advertised for headaches — now it's for arthritis."

"It is a trend the market has not missed either. Oil stocks did well, but nursing homes did better."

Cappiello envisions a clash in the next three or four years between post war "baby boom" children who are highly motivated but not getting up the occupational ladder because many older workers are staying on it.

The economist also said he expected to see a change in Social Security within two years, saying "we're going to have to unhook the pension and welfare benefits."

While Cappiello had no answer for the greying of the country, he reiterated for his attentive audience that the measures he outlined can work to get America back to good times.

"We have to get tough (with Japanese and others) and say that open markets work both ways so that we can sell orange juice and agricultural products. Import quotas work in the interim, but in the long run tariffs hurt."

"We need to encourage productivity with government again encouraging investors."

"We need nuclear power as a viable commodity. We can bury (wastes) where there is no earth movement."

It was a top economist's view of how the world works.

Tax factor fight found too costly

Repeated suggestions that local governments refuse to accept the tax equalization factors assigned by the county assessor's office prompted Northville Township Clerk Susan Heintz to investigate that alternative.

She told the board of trustees Thursday that such a rejection is possible, but that the township is in no financial state to tackle the issue.

"Our attorney told me that we could take this matter to the state tax tribunal," Clerk Susan Heintz said, "but it would involve litigation."

"We would also have to provide all relevant data, which essentially means a study of all Wayne County communities, which we can't afford to do," she said.

Another means of opposing the tax multiplier assigned would be to take the issue to court, fighting the assessor directly, she said. That route would probably be even more expensive, Treasurer Richard Henningsen said.

"While we all dislike high taxes," Supervisor John MacDonald said, "state law requires that we maintain a balanced budget. We cannot take on something like this and maintain services while balancing the budget."

Heintz noted that the township also disagrees strongly with the U.S. Census Bureau and, although a correction of its figures would bring in more revenue from the state and federal governments, cannot afford to take the issue to court.

She said earlier that it would be more economical for the township to pay for a special census in the near future rather than paying court costs to fight the 1980 census.

The situation with the factors is similar, it was pointed out. The township cannot afford to take the factors to court, and decided the same night (see related story) that it cannot even afford to pay for new assessments that would bring the factors down to 1.0 and insure that township taxpayers pay only on a correct valuation.

No spare dollars for reassessment

New across-the-board assessments of Northville Township properties will have to await more auspicious economic times, the township board decided Thursday.

"One of the things there seemed to be support for the other night (during a tax protest meeting in township hall)," treasurer Richard Henningsen said, "is a complete new assessment of the community."

"I was wondering if we shouldn't make this an advisory question on our May ballot," he said.

An advisory question, Clerk Susan Heintz noted, would allow the board to gauge citizen support for new assessments while retaining the final decision to itself.

Henningsen said a new assessment across the community would cost at least $40,000.

Trustee Richard Allen expressed concern that, even if voters approved of the idea, there would not be enough money to pay for a new assessment.

"Whenever this happens, and it will eventually, there will be happy people, but there will be a lot of unhappy people, too," he said. "We just sat here and told people we couldn't find $7,000 for road treatments. Where are we going to get $40,000 to do an assessment?"

Allen and others nixed Henningsen's suggestion that perhaps the township could afford another kind of assessment, such as one adjusted by subdivision rather than house-by-house.

"It wouldn't come out fair," Allen said. "It would have to be across-the-board."

Henningsen said an advisory question would be useless in that light, and the board dropped the discussion.

Young Careerists

Patty Hoffman will represent Northville BPW

By MICHELE McELMURRY

She's come a long way since the days of working in sweltering kitchens, toiling over a sewing machine in a garment factory and clerking at the local drugstore.

There are many who remember her wearing long skirts, layers of petticoats, white kid gloves and a wide-brimmed hat.

Yet, she changed all that. One day she bobbed her long hair, shed her petticoats for short dresses and pants, smoked cigarettes in public and actually used slang words.

It seemed like one thing led to another. She suddenly wanted the right to vote, demanded to be admitted to once all-male colleges and universities and then had the nerve to go into the work place and do a "man's job."

The career woman. She's done everything from neurosurgery to flying on a trapeze. She's fought for her rights, her equality and most of all for her chance to prove that she not only can make it in a world once dominated by men but that she enjoys it.

Yes, she's come a long way. Since 1963, the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs has recognized the achievements of professional women through its Young Career Woman program.

The program, initiated to recognize the outstanding work of young professionals, is highlighted by its annual Young Career Woman Contest.

Local BPW chapters nominate young professional women for the contest and then select a winner — who appropriately becomes that chapter's Young Career Woman of the year.

For Patty Hoffman, the Northville BPW's Young Career Woman of 1981, the contest, held February 23 at the Mayflower Hotel, was more than a competition. It was, as the articulate 28-year-old explains, "an opportunity to meet other young career women" and "share ideas."

"I was really surprised when I won," she commented. "I don't see myself as being better — I guess you could say I just like to talk to people about what I do."

For the past three years Hoffman has worked as a speech and language pathologist at Cottage Hospital in Grosse Pointe Farms.

Her work includes diagnostic evaluations and therapeutic sessions on both an inpatient and outpatient basis with people of all ages and problem areas.

She explained that approximately half of her case load includes children and adults with delayed speech and language skills, stuttering, etc.

Hoffman said her interest in speech pathology stems from a course she took as a sophomore at Alma College in communications disabilities.

"One of the projects we had to do in the class," she explained, "was to experience a learning disorder. Of all things, I got stuttering."

As part of the project, she was expected to experience stuttering in public.

Hoffman describes that experience as "incredibly frustrating."

"I went to the drugstore and asked for a pack of gum," she reflected. "By the time I got around to saying it, I was so wrapped up in what I was doing that I couldn't even understand myself."

She said that experience, coupled with the fact that she's "always liked people and has always liked to help people," directed her into speech therapy.

Hoffman describes her job as a "toleration for error," explaining that every individual and every situation is different.

"With the type of people I work with," she explained, "I always have to give."

And though she admits that the job often is emotionally draining, she said she "feels completely comfortable" and has a tendency to become "really involved" with the people she works with — especially the kids.

"If you're going to do a good job, you've got to care," she said. "I don't think you can remove yourself from what you do."

In 1974, Hoffman received a bachelor of science degree in education from Central Michigan University.

She said she received her first professional training working in CMU's Speech and Hearing Clinic and at the Summer Remedial Clinics.

Though she said her education provided the basics, she described her training as her most valuable experience.

"I think in any profession you have to go by the seat of your pants," she said. "The teaching is good — but you have to learn to adapt. You've got to have adaptability."

After graduation she worked as a student teacher in the Southfield Public School System and later worked as a therapist in the public school system in Lexington, Kentucky.

She has worked at Cottage Hospital

PATTY HOFFMAN

At 29, she's a vice president

There are not too many 29-year-olds who can claim the title of vice president of their own company.

But for Christine Van Dam, vice president of Van Dam's Lingerie Shops, the title is more than just a status symbol on a stationery letterhead — instead it's a lot of hard work, dedication and long hours — especially when you're operating two shops.

Van Dam, a candidate in the Northville BPW Young Career Woman contest, teamed up with her mother Jean more than three years ago to go into the retailing business.

"When my mother and I first decided to go into this business," explained Van Dam, "we really didn't know a thing about it."

However, after a successful opening of their first shop in Old Village in Plymouth three years ago, the Van Dams decided to expand to another location.

Van Dam said about two years ago she got the idea about opening a shop in the Renaissance Center. However, she explained that at that time their Plymouth business was still relatively new and that it would have been too risky financially.

Yet last spring, after almost a year of negotiations with the Renaissance Center management, the Van Dams were offered a "good deal" on rental space and decided to open up shop.

The new store, located in the RenCen's World of Shops on Designer's Row, has been doing "really well," according to Van Dam.

"It was kind of tough going at first," she explained, "and January and February were pretty slow months."

However, things seemed to have picked up and she said they are "pretty busy right now."

Chris Van Dam said she and her mother decided to go into the lingerie business because at that time "many women were going back to wearing dresses".

She said that, as a specialty store, many of their items are less expensive than those which you would find in a department store.

She also commented that "there really aren't that many places which have fashion lingerie."

For Van Dam, managing her own company has been "fantastic experience."

She explained that her mother is managing the Plymouth store while she runs the shop in the Renaissance Center.

In addition to making sure the operation runs smoothly, the Van Dams also do all of the buying and take care of the bookkeeping.

For Chris, managing a business wasn't exactly a new vocation. She previously worked as manager of a bar in a seafood restaurant in Ann Arbor.

However, the 1974 Eastern Michigan University graduate did not start out in the working world with the intention of going into her own business.

At Eastern, she earned a bachelor's degree in secondary education and taught at a juvenile home in Washtenaw County for almost a year.

She said that she enjoyed teaching, but that "there weren't many jobs available in that field."

"It's not that I wanted to get out of teaching, it's just that I felt I didn't have a choice."

Van Dam, who said she is an ardent supporter of the ERA movement, described her candidacy for the BPW contest as "terrific experience for me."

"It was really a lot of fun and I got a chance to meet other business women," she explained.

Both Van Dam and her mother are considering joining the Northville BPW and as Chris explained — "It's not too often that you get an opportunity to get involved with young women in the business world — it's great exposure."

CHRISTINE VAN DAM

She loves to write — daily

As wire editor for the Ann Arbor News, it could be said that Northville resident Ellen Sponseller followed in her father's footsteps.

Sponseller, a candidate in the Northville BPW Young Career Woman contest, explained that her attraction to the newspaper business stems in part from the fact that "it's in my blood."

Her father was the former managing editor of the Rochester Clarion and also was an editor at the old Plymouth Mail.

Sponseller, who formerly worked for The Record covering the schools and the board of education, has been with the Ann Arbor News since May of last year.

Her switch from a weekly newspaper to an afternoon daily has brought with it a change in hours. Though Sponseller still works an eight-hour day, she arrives at the News copy desk mornings at 6:30 a.m. — and occasionally at 4 a.m.

For the 25-year-old journalist, the newspaper business has provided her with an opportunity to do what she loves to do best — write.

"When I first started working at The Record," she explained, "I couldn't believe someone was paying me for doing something I love to do."

Though she is doing less writing now at the Ann Arbor News, Sponseller said she is "trying to write a book."

"I guess you could say that my vocation is my avocation," she explained. Like many young journalists, Sponseller's first newspaper experience was on a campus newspaper.

While at Michigan State University, Sponseller worked on the city desk at The State News, covering the East Lansing City Council.

However, after graduating from MSU in 1977 with a bachelor's degree in journalism, she went to work as a script writer for Regan Productions in Detroit.

From there she went to Chrysler, where she worked as an audio-visual producer.

Sponseller explained her work in audio-visual as "very exciting" but hectic. "In audio you write the script, produce it and then go out when they're shooting it," she said. "You're involved in every aspect — but you can't really claim the work as your own."

She said she got her first exposure to audio-visual while working for a small film production company in England. She spent her senior year at the University of Surrey working on a cognate in British studies.

Sponseller was hired by The Record in March, 1979, and ironically her first story was on the BPW's Young Career Woman of the Year.

"I like journalism because it is the purest form of communication," Sponseller said. "I like the immediacy of when something happens."

Working the wires at the News provides ample immediacy. Sponseller, along with about 12 other copy readers, pours through scores of state, national and international wire service stories, as well as writing headlines and laying out pages.

As Sponseller explained, there is never a dull moment.

She was nominated for the BPW contest by her former neighbor Dr. Carol Geake and described the competition as a "tremendous experience" as well as a great opportunity to meet other young careerists.

Though she is not a member of BPW, Sponseller said she has attended meetings.

"I'd like to see more young women get involved," she said.

Sponseller, who started out as a pre-med student at MSU, said she will "probably stay in the newspaper field for a while" but would "eventually like to go into audio-visual again."

For those considering getting into the newspaper business, Sponseller explained that "a college degree is necessary but experience is the biggest help in this field."

British pub party precedes dance

By JEAN DAY

Before attending the Northville Historical Society dinner dance March 7, one group of friends congregated first in a British "pub" — at the Christopher Gazlays' home. When Chris and Cheryl Gazlay moved across town to 718 Grandview, they decided to build the recreation room pub, getting advice from former neighbors, the Donald Fees. Heather Fee was born in Britain. Pub, of course, in England is the abbreviation for Public House, or tavern.

"We're both English all the way back," explains Cheryl Gazlay, mentioning that while her father Louie Babbitt was a base commander in England, her parents had sent them quite a bit of memorabilia that they incorporated in the pub. (Her parents now are retired and living in California.)

Co-hosting the cocktail party were Chris' parents, the Francis Gazlays. The couples went on to Meadowbrook Country Club where more than 200 supporters of the society danced to aid restoration of the Mill Race Village schoolhouse. Chairman Judith Sechler reports that the event was a successful fund-raiser — as well as fun.

Dance into spring

There are lots of dancing evenings upcoming. Schoolcraft College Foundation is sponsoring a dinner dance beginning at 7 p.m. April 4 at the Waterman Campus Center. The prime rib dinner ($15 a person) will be topped off with a fresh strawberry Bavarian creme puff dessert. Joyce Ludwig, 591-6400, extension 213, is taking reservations.

Unfortunately, residents will have to choose between the foundation dance and Northville Mothers' Club's annual spring dinner dance, also April 4. It is being given at Meadowbrook Country Club. Club members have tickets, Marge Longridge, president, reports.

Meadowbrook fashion show avoids conflict

This year the annual spring fashion show at Meadowbrook Country Club will be April 2, a week earlier than the final Northville Town Hall program on April 9 featuring La Condesa de Romanones. (Last year club members who held town hall tickets had to make a difficult choice.)

Women from Meadowbrook will be the models in the show with Sharon Lineman the commentator on the fashions from Nista's of Farmington Hills. Julie Ball is show chairman with Barbara Williamson as co-chairman.

Travelers head east — and west to Hawaii

Town Hall chairman Carolyn DiComo's tan was acquired in Hawaii. She was back in time to introduce economist Frank Cappiello last Thursday. Economist-investor Cappiello proved to be a most personable speaker. His book, reports Berenice Ellis, will be in her shop, Bookstall on the Main, shortly. She made arrangements with Cappiello after his program and now is taking reservations for it.

The Donald DiComos, Robert Hodsons (she takes over as TH chairman next season), Charles Marinos and Father Gerard Hadad vacationed together on Maui on the trip, which included a stopover in Las Vegas enroute. They stayed at the Riviera — but saw the Hilton fire across the strip.

The group found Betty and Mike Allen also were Maui vacationers and all dined together one evening.

New York's publicized snowstorm earlier this month delayed Carol Forrer's return from a "shopping trip" with Mrs. John Archer is chairman of the day.

Mrs. Frederick Harper, president, will honor members who have belonged for 50 years during the program.

Bess Myerson will open 21st season for Town Hall

Bess Myerson will open Northville Town Hall's 21st season October 8 to be followed by psychic Char November 12, fashion arbiter Robert L. Green March 11, 1982, and veteran entertainer Dennis Day April 1, 1982.

Announcement of next year's lecture series was made last Thursday by Carolyn DiComo, chairman for the current series that last week featured economist Frank Capiello.

She also announced that town hall is "holding the line" with the season ticket price remaining at $20. Tickets will go on sale at 9 a.m. April 9 before the final lecture of the current season starring La Condesa de Romanones.

Lectures are at 11 a.m. at the Plymouth Hilton Inn on Northville Road.

Mrs. DiComo added that the hotel is cooperating by keeping the celebrity luncheon price at the current $8 each. Luncheon reservations will be accepted for individual programs or for the season at $32 beginning June 1. It is necessary to be a town hall ticketholder to attend the luncheons.

BESS MYERSON

Bess Myerson is a familiar face through her commentaries on television. She also has made a reputation as a leading consumer advocate and expert on urban challenges. She is an investigative reporter and newspaper columnist.

ROBERT L. GREEN

Her pioneering programs while Commissioner of Consumer Affairs of New York City have become a guide for consumer offices throughout the country. She has served on three presidential commissions — productivity and quality of working life, mental health and world hunger.

Since resigning as commissioner, she has resumed her media communication career hosting a daily program on the NBC radio network. Her articles have appeared in Reader's Digest, New York Times, Vogue and other publications.

CHAR

In 1980 she ran for United States Senate from New York but lost in the Reagan landslide.

Her early interest and skills in music resulted in a solo performance as pianist with the New York Philharmonic.

"With opportunities presented by the recognition she had gained as winner of a national talent contest," her publicity states, "she chose to concentrate on communications as a career."

She has won many awards for career achievement and has an honorary doctor of laws degree from her alma mater, Hunter College.

DENNIS DAY

(27) and pretty, she does not represent the traditional concept of a psychic.

Her real name is Charlene Brook, but she prefers just "Char." She lives in Southfield with two horses, three cats and a dog. Since her divorce, she has supported herself by giving psychic readings.

A former schoolteacher, she visited a psychic about four years ago on a "lark" and was invited to try her powers. She discovered she could, she recalls, tell things about people she never could have known.

She is the protégé of Joyce Thomas, a telephone coordinator for Easter Seals and a medium who has been giving seances for 17 years.

"People always think there's a gimmick," says Char, who has a degree in speech and drama from Wayne State University, "but I know I'm for real."

BESS MYERSON

You don't have to concentrate that hard. It's just learning to follow your gut feelings. Personally, I'm just not smart enough or wise enough to think half the things that come out of my mouth."

Char has worked with police in St. Clair Shores and in New York, giving her assistance without charge. For 40-minute readings in her home she charges $50.

To convince doubting Thomases, Char enhances her programs with some audience participation.

ROBERT L. GREEN

For 30 years Robert L. Green has made hundreds of appearances on talk shows, establishing his national reputation for consistently urbane, witty and articulate commentary on America's evolving tastes in fashion, entertainment and home design.

Last year alone, he appeared on more than 85 programs, including Dinah, the Merv Griffin Show, Mike Douglas Show and Tonight with Johnny Carson.

Green is quick to point out that style, taste and fashion are not synonyms.

After 18 years as fashion editor of Playboy magazine, Green soon is to unveil his own designer lines of jewelry, watches, accessories and men's and women's fashions.

Formerly an actor, Green was a star of the CBS-radio "Mystery Theatre" shows with Orson Welles, Mercedes McCambridge, Julie Harris and Helen Hayes.

Green also produces each year the Playboy Creative Menswear International Designer Collection, which is shown in New York and in an eight-city international tour.

He is a Knight in the Order of Merit by the Italian government and has been recognized and decorated by the French and Swedish governments for his contributions to the menswear industry. He produced the Royal International Fashion Gala in London with Her Royal Highness Princess Margaret as guest of honor.

A frequent guest on J. P. McCarthy's WJR shows, Green offers tongue-in-cheek anecdotes from the stratospheric world in which he travels.

DENNIS DAY

Youthful looking Dennis Day is a four-star performer having appeared on stage, screen, radio and television.

He has one of the greatest talents for mimicry in show business and can talk and sing in more than 25 different accents ranging from Italian and Yiddish to Swedish and German. "I grew up in a melting pot neighborhood in New York," he explains, "and all the different languages I heard became part of my everyday speech."

New York born, a graduate of Manhattan College, Dennis earned extra money during summer vacations by singing on a New York radio station and making records. One — "I Never Knew Heaven Could Speak" — was heard by a girl named Mary Livingston who thought it was just great.

Her husband, the late Jack Benny, needed a replacement for his immensely popular radio show. The 145-pound Dennis turned out to be the "perfect stooge type" and joined Benny in 1939, working with him for 24 years thereafter in radio and television.

Dennis Day is the father of 10 children and very much a family man. During 1979 and 1980, he toured the country in the hit, "The Big Broadcast." He will cover highlights of his 40 years in show business for town hall.

Newcomers alumni plan progressive fete

Newcomer alumni couples will hold their annual progressive dinner March 28, beginning with cocktails at 7:30 p.m.

Dinner will be pork loin with sweet-sour sauce. Reservations at $10 a couple are being taken by Karen Brown, 349-7976, through Friday.

Jean Pierman, Newcomers alumni coordinator, reports that the event is limited to 28 couples since they will be progressing from home to home. The evening is to conclude with assorted desserts and Spanish coffee at 11 p.m.

Engagements announced

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Turnbull of 365 Eaton announce the engagement of their daughter Carol Ann to Michael H. Norton of Lansing.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Norton of Lansing.

The bride-elect is a 1972 Northville High School graduate. She received her bachelor's and master's degrees in speech pathology from Eastern Michigan University and currently is employed as a speech pathologist at Our Lady of Providence Center.

Her fiancé was graduated from Eastern High School in Lansing and earned a master's degree in mechanical engineering. He currently is working in General Motors Oldsmobile Division.

A wedding date has been set for October 3.

Mrs. Albert G. Wilson announces the engagement of her daughter Jeanne Louise to Robert Arthur Barnes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Barnes of Jefferson, Florida.

The Wilsons are former residents of 340 Eaton Drive in Northville and now live in Port Richey, Florida.

The bride-elect is a 1977 graduate of Northville High School and will receive her degree as a registered nurse in June from Hillsborough Community College of Tampa.

Her fiancé is a 1973 graduate of Missouri State University with a BS degree in chemistry. He will complete his mechanical engineering degree at University of South Florida in 1982.

The wedding is to be at the First Presbyterian Church of Brandon in Brandon, Florida, August 8.

Speaker Frank Capiello applauds new programs announced by TH chairman Carolyn DiComo Thursday

Life of Elizabeth Stanton topic for live NOW drama

"For Humanity's Sake: a Celebration of the Life of Elizabeth Cady Stanton," a stage production written by Daryl Eubanks for the intimate theater, will be performed at the March general membership meeting of the Northwest Wayne County Chapter of the National Organization for Women.

It will be preceded by a short business session at 7:30 p.m. March 25 at Hoover Elementary School, on Levan between Five and Six Mile in Livonia.

The program is open to the public with the play beginning at 8:30 p.m. Directed by Hope Nahstoll of the Farmington Players, the play portrays the life and times of Elizabeth Cady Stanton, one of the earliest founders of the women's movement in the United States.

Mrs. Stanton was a close friend of Susan B. Anthony and was a co-worker with her in the effort to gain civil rights for women and other minorities. Elizabeth Stanton and Susan Anthony often are spoken of as "mothers" of the feminist movement.

Director Nahstoll is a charter member of the Farmington Players, founded in 1951, as an offshoot of the American Association of University Women membership in Farmington. She was fellowship head when she originated the idea of a community playhouse. She then served as president of Farmington Players.

She has 40 years of experience in community theater, both as an actress and as a director.

Anyone wishing further information or transportation to the meeting may call Janet Evans, 476-3352, or Betty Kelley, 453-2141.

Korodys mark silver year

George and Pat Korody of 19560 Meadowbrook were given a surprise 25th wedding anniversary party by their children February 22.

The party was held at the home of their son Mark and his wife Mary Korody of Plymouth. Their daughters Linda and Pam and their other son Donald helped plan the party along with Pat Korody's mother Mrs. Adeline Fitzpatrick.

Approximately 30 friends, neighbors and relatives attended the event.

Mothers of Twins slate clothing exchange

The Western Wayne County Mothers of Twins Club will be holding its semi-annual Buy and Sell from 2-4 p.m. March 21 at St. Matthew Lutheran Church.

Sale items will include used infants and children's clothing, toys, baby items and furniture.

Bake sale items also will be available.

Dental Dialogue

of A. Allen Tuchklaper, D.D.S.

TRAFFIC JAM IS MOM'S CONCERN

Q. My child still has his baby teeth and his permanent ones are coming in crooked behind them. I know this is not normal, what should I do?

A. Don't panic. The situation may look terrible, but it is normal. Your child now has a gallon of teeth and only half a gallon of mouth. Given time, things will even out. But see your dentist, he may want to relieve the crowding by removing the crowded baby tooth or by referring your child to an orthodontist, a specialist who straightens teeth.

This column is presented in the interest of better dental health. From the office of A. Allen Tuchklaper, D.D.S.

Mill Race Docents
plan training session

Area residents with an interest in Northville history who would like to become Mill Race Historical Village Docents are invited to sign up now.

The docents, or guides, are volunteers who serve as hostesses in Mill Race buildings when the village is open during the season

Background information on the Hunter House, New School Church and the Yerkes House has been compiled. Each docent has the information and presents it as she wishes for visitors.

A training session for new docents will be held at 1 p.m. April 4 in the village.

Helen Maki, docent co-chairman with Dorothea Shafer, reports that she already has applications from 10 who are interested "Docents make it possible for the village to be open Sunday afternoon from 1 to 4 p.m. from May 3 through October," Mrs. Maki explains, adding that more volunteers will be needed this year as Northville Historical Society hopes to have the schoolhouse open

The docents also guide groups through the village at other times by reservation

A general meeting of the docents will be held at noon May 2 at the Mill Race. It is to be a salad luncheon

Those interested in participating in this volunteer work are invited to call Mrs. Maki, 349-6437, or Mrs. Shafer, 349-1365.

The docents wear long skirts and shawls that have been made for them. The costumes serve as identification and add to the look of authenticity.

Patty Hoffman wins

since March, 1978, and completed requirements for her master's degree in speech pathology last spring

Hoffman said she now is finishing her thesis and should have it ready for presentation in a few months.

Hoffman has won a host of honors and awards for her work and is a member of the Michigan Speech and Hearing Association and serves on the Utilization Review Committee of Home Health Care Services of Macomb County.

Other interests include playing the piano and golf. In describing her golf game she said she "hacks around a lot and hits one good shot in a hundred — which keeps me coming back."

She said that she is "a real animal lover" and that her husky "Zeppelin" is very "therapeutic for me."

Though she is a Livonia resident, Hoffman was nominated for the BPW contest by Northville resident Louise Cutler, who is State Chairperson of the Young Career Woman's Program.

Patty Hoffman is the daughter of Betty Allen (wife of former Northville Mayor A. M. Allen), and Clarence Hoffman of Livonia. She is a Northville High School graduate.

"I was hesitant even to get into the contest," she commented.

"I wasn't really into the competition aspect of it," she explained, "but after I agreed to do it I just couldn't believe the talented people involved."

Hoffman described the contest as a "refreshing" experience. "I think women my age are limited in the amount of interaction they have with other young career women," she said

Patty, along with the two other contestants — Ellen Sponseller and Christine Van Dam — was asked to give a three-minute autobiographical speech followed by a five-minute interview with a three-judge panel.

The contest judges were Northville Mayor Paul Vernon, Northville Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Kay Keegan and Wayne County Commissioner Mary Dumas.

Contestants must be between the ages of 21 and 30, must be active in their community and show evidence of their ability to succeed in their chosen business or profession.

Contestants also must have worked in their business and profession for at least a year and must support the ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment.

Though Hoffman said she is not a full-fledged feminist, she said she supports the efforts being made to ratify the ERA.

Being a career woman for the past seven years, Hoffman said she believes that "the person best suited for the job should get the job — whether male or female."

On March 29, Hoffman will compete in the district Young Career Woman competition at Botsford Inn in Farmington. The district competition will include the local winners from Wayne, Westland, Redford, Novi, Northville, Plymouth, Canton, Farmington and Livonia.

Area students win EMU scholarships

Katherine C. Bemish of 8800 Napier and Tammy L. Jacobs of 21151 Centerfarm are among the 330 winners of the 1981-82 Recognition of Excellence Awards announced by Eastern Michigan University.

Winners of the $1,000 scholarships must have earned a minimum 3.5 grade point average in high school or at a community college and should demonstrate outstanding leadership.

One award has been designated for each high school and community college in Michigan.

Specialist to talk to MACLD

Sheldon Silverstein, a teacher-reading diagnostic treatment specialist with the Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital, will be guest speaker at the tonight's meeting of the Michigan Association for Children with Learning Disabilities.

Silverstein will speak on "Language Based Learning Disabilities" at the association's 7:30 p.m. meeting at Pioneer Middle School in Plymouth

The meeting is open to the public free of charge.

Novi's Fontaine Laing

She's chamber music booster

Fontaine Laing of Novi, prominent metropolitan-area pianist has been the inspiration behind Farmington Community Center's 1981 Chamber Music Series "Intermezzo."

Miss Laing believes that chamber music is the "creme de la creme of music" and is "thrilled that it is becoming more popular on a nation-wide level as well as in the Detroit area where audiences are requesting more and more concerts."

She attempted to begin a series at Northville's Marquee Theatre but the room proved to be too large for the delicate quality of chamber music. "We're lucky to be able to perform in the lovely living room of the historic 100-year old Farmington Community Center. It suits chamber music perfectly," adds Miss Laing.

First concert of the series was snowed out February 2 but the same program has been rescheduled for Sunday, April 5 at 3 p.m. at 24705 Farmington Road. Advance ticket information is available by calling 477-8404. Donation is $4 adults, $3 students and senior citizens.

Musical selections will include the Mendelssohn Trio in D Minor with Charlotte Merckerson, violin; Richard Piippo, cello; and Miss Laing, piano.

The three artists have impressive musical backgrounds. Miss Merckerson studied violin with Dr. Morris Hochberg, head of Wayne State University's String Department. She was the first violinist with the Salzburg, Austria Summer Festival Orchestra and concert mistress with the Michigan Opera Theatre Orchestra.

Piippo studied cello at the University of Milwaukee with George Soropkin and in Switzerland with Pierre Fournier. He won a National Federation of Music Clubs Competition. Currently, he teaches cello at Wayne State and conducts string workshops in the area.

Miss Laing, a U-M graduate, has travelled extensively throughout Germany and Canada as an accompanist. She recently has recorded with Ervin Monroe, first flutist of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

She accompanied Pierre Rampal, one of the world's great flute virtuosos, on February 24 when he presented a master class for six Detroit-area flutists at Orchestra Hall.

Miss Laing will be featured soloist Saturday with the Oakway Symphony Orchestra when she will perform Liszt Hungarian Fantasy.

She teaches privately in her Novi home and at the Detroit Community Music School. Presently she is completing graduate work in chamber music with noted University of Michigan professor Eugene Bossart.

The final concert of the 1981 season will be held Sunday, May 17 and features the "Liebeslieder Waltzes of Brahms" with artists John Guinn, Philip Mooney, Alona Moon, Carroll Strickland, Nancy Zanolli von Oeyen and Janet Young.

Concert stars

Francesco Di Blasi. Also starring but not pictured will be Novi pianist Fontaine Laing. The program gets underway at 8 p.m. in the college's activities building. See story on next page.

'Wheelchairers' to battle next week

Preparations are underway for the second annual wheelchair basketball game sponsored by the Class of '82 at Walled Lake Western.

Slated for Thursday, March 26 the 7:30 p.m. game in Western's gymnasium will salute "1981 — the year of the handicapped."

It will pit Western's faculty, in wheelchairs of course, in an exciting contest against the Pontiac Spinners, a "minor league" handicapped basketball team captained by Jim Sasser.

Halftime entertainment, according to Class of '82 vice-president Nina La Marca, will consist of performances by the Wranglers. Western's varsity co-ed cheerleaders will provide cheers throughout the game and Western's lively pep band will provide the music.

Concessions will be available during the game for spectators.

Tickets are $1.50 for students and adults and $1 for children under 12. They may be purchased at Western (11 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. in the commons), from the Spinners or at the door on the night of the game.

By LAWRENCE D. KORN
Attorney at Law

Questions for this column should be addressed to "Ask the Lawyer," Sliger Home Newspapers, Inc., 104 West Main Street, Northville, Michigan 48167. They will be answered on a space-available basis by the author, a practicing attorney.

Q. I was injured in the course of my employment while occupying a motor vehicle owned by my employer. Am I limited to recover only worker's compensation, or can I recover additional benefits from my own or my employer's no-fault insurance carrier?

A. You are entitled to recover worker's compensation under your employer's worker's compensation policy. You also are entitled to recover no-fault benefits from your employer's no-fault insurance company insuring your employer's vehicle. I doubt whether you can recover from your own no-fault insurer of your own private vehicle, as Michigan Compiled Laws 500.3114 (3)(N)(4) precludes recovery from the no-fault insurer of an employee's private vehicle under these facts. However, see an attorney to determine what your benefits are.

Q. I live in Oakland County where I understand the Oakland County Circuit Court judges have established a formula to help them in determining child support. Would you please advise what this formula is?

A. A percentage of your net pay (defined as gross pay list, taxes and social security) is set as support depending upon the number of children: one child, 20 percent; two children, 30 percent (20 percent plus 10 percent); three children, 40 percent (20 percent plus 10 percent plus 10 percent); four children and more, 50 percent (20 percent plus 10 percent plus 10 percent plus 10 percent).

This percentage expressed in dollars is divided by the number of children and written into the judgment as so much per week per child. You will be charged the amount stated in the judgment regardless of circumstances unless the stated amount is modified by the court.

The formula is only a guideline, and the circumstances of each case will determine how closely the formula will be adhered to.

Factors such as valuable assets, income producing property, and special needs of the children also will be considered. Support normally terminates at age 18, but can continue past the 18th birthday in special limited circumstances.

CAROL B. WHALEN has joined the sales staff of James C. Cutler Realty of Northville, it was announced this past week.

CAROL WHALEN

A full time salesperson, she lives in Walled Lake with her husband and daughters.

"We're delighted to have this talented woman on our team," said owner Cutler.

Previously employed as an estimator for a railroad manufacturer, she is a member of the Dixboro Methodist Church. Her interests range from collecting antiques and growing exotic plants to ice skating.

James C. Cutler Realty is located at the corner of Rayson and Center streets in Northville.

JOHN COLIZZI, a Northville resident for the past 10 years and a part-owner in the Sawmill Unfinished Furniture Store of Wyandotte, has purchased the partnership interest of Robert Boshoven in the former Stone's Unfinished Furniture stores in Northville and Warren.

Colizzi, who has a BS degree in mathematics from Michigan State University, was employed by Honeywell for 13 years before opening the Wyandotte operation in 1978.

The three stores now owned by Colizzi — in Northville, Warren and Wyandotte — operate under the name of the Sawmill and each features one of Michigan's largest and most varied selection of unfinished and custom-made furniture in pine, oak, maple, cherry and black walnut. The Sawmill handles exclusively in the metro area the Habersham Plantation Collection of finished antique reproductions of Early American furniture.

The Sawmill stores offer free finishing classes, expert finishing advice and custom finishing.

Colizzi and his wife, Joy, who is working in the Northville store, has extended a public invitation "to stop in and smell the aroma and view the beauty of natural wood."

AMERICAN SPORTSMEN are still just as interested in the best of the boating world as ever at Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi which will have a touch of spring as beautiful boats and sleek sailing ships are exhibited through this Sunday (March 22).

$2,500 toward the purchase of a boat from participating dealers as well as other featured boating items will be given away the last day of the show on Sunday at 4 p.m. in the center court. Entry blanks are available at the information desk in the mall, on store counters and at participating dealer showrooms.

JOAN J. HOFFMAN of Northville has been named corporate secretary of the R. A. DeMattia Company.

Announcement of the appointment was made by Robert A. DeMattia, president of the company headquartered in Livonia. Both DeMattia and Hoffman are Northville residents.

A member of the firm for the past five years as office manager and administrative assistant to DeMattia, Hoffman also has been appointed secretary of DeMattia & Associates, an architectural and engineering subsidiary of the R. A. DeMattia Company which is a design/build general contracting firm.

Born and raised in Zeeland, Michigan, Hoffman is the daughter of the late Lester DePree, police chief of Zeeland, and Margaret Antonides of Holland. She was graduated from Flint Junior College, studied at Oakland University, and served in the Air Force during the Korean War.

She is a member and secretary of the Northville Historical Society, charter member of a national Dutch heritage organization, and member of the American Historical Society of Germans from Russia. Mother of six children and a foster child, she is the wife of Jack Hoffman, publisher of the Sliger Home Newspapers, and lives at 573 Langfield.

Fat Bob to host cabaret concert

Oakway Symphony Orchestra's annual cabaret concert features an unusually wide array of talent as well as libation and snacks for its audience Saturday at 8 p.m. at Madonna College Activities Building.

Hosted by Fat Bob Taylor, local media personality, features lyric soprano Mabel Arvo of Novi, Mrs. Michigan; soprano Heidi Hepler, Miss Michigan; and pianist Fontane Laing of Novi (see story on previous page), as well as the Oakway Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Francesco Di Blasi and guest conductor Sister Mary Francilene Van De Vyver, CSSF, president of Madonna College.

Mrs. Arvo is the current Mrs. Michigan and the first grandmother to receive this award. Aside from her music accomplishments, she is a student at Oakland Community College, Orchard Ridge Campus.

Fat Bob, a Whitmore Lake resident, currently is with WAAM radio in Ann Arbor. A frequent concert performer, he is a winner of the Grinnel Vocal Composition and has been offered a contract with the Metropolitan Opera. Aside from his duties as master of ceremonies, Taylor will participate in duets with Mrs. Arvo and Miss Hepler and direct the audience in a sing along of selections from the "Twenties."

Bar service and snacks will be available to the audience from 7 to 11 p.m. Admission is $6 per person with discounts for advance service of full tables with a table of eight going for $40 and a table of 10 for $50.

014 In Memoriam

IN MEMORY OF CLIFF HILL OF SOUTH LYON WHO PASSED AWAY ON MARCH 8, 1980 From his wife and family "Always a smile, never a frown. Always a hand when someone was down. Happiness you gave to everyone you know. No better things could anyone do. Your presence brought joy to everyone's heart. Laughter and cheerfulness right from the start. God gave us a gift, then took it away. But your beautiful memory is here to stay. The blow was hard, the shock severe. We little thought your death so near. And only those who have lost can tell the pain of parting without farewell."

In memory of Nicole Morgan who passed away two years ago March 18, 1979

The loss of you so deep Your love though we keep

We miss you so much Our lives you touched

You've just turned eight We didn't forget the date

You've a new brother, you know He came nine months ago

Has blond hair like yours And he crawls on all fours

Michael often says to me "He misses you," sweet-pea.

Big men dominate Sliger 1980-81 All-Area first team basketball selections

By KEN KOVACS

Another exciting season of high school basketball came to a close last week. Several talented juniors and seniors led area teams to victory through the long winter season and, once again, the task of selecting the top players in the Sliger Home Newspapers' East area was a difficult one.

However, sports editors from the Northville Record, Novi-Walled Lake News, South Lyon Herald and Milford

Times exchanged information on players from their respective coverage areas and chose three teams consisting of the best area high school cagers, as well as awarding a number of players an honorable mention.

Players from eight schools were eligible for All-Area balloting. The schools include Northville, Novi, Milford, Milford Lakeland, Walled Lake Central, Walled Lake Western, South Lyon and Whitmore Lake.

Due to the dominance of talented big men, the editors agreed that players would be selected on the basis of all-around ability rather than the best at each position.

In other words, rather than choosing two guards, two forwards and a center for each squad, some players who may be the best at their position may appear on the second or third teams, due to the superior all-around play of other cagers — as judged by the editors.

Also selected were an area team of the year and coach of the year.

Leading the first team selections was Northville's DAVE WARD, a 6-foot-7 center, who also earned a spot on the 1980 Sliger All-Area first team. Ward, who led the Mustangs to a Western Six Conference co-championship and District 21 title, set a school single-season rebounding record with 283 in 23 games. The senior cager, who averaged nearly 17 points per game, also blocked 75 shots this season, an average of three per contest. Ward also received All-Western Six first team honors as a junior and senior and was named to the Detroit News All-Metro West first team and Detroit Free Press All-Suburban second team this year.

One of the premier forwards in the area, ERIN HILL led the Walled Lake Central Vikings in scoring and rebounding, averaging 13.9 points and 9.5 caroms per game. The 6-foot-3 cager was a first-team selection in the Inter Lakes Conference balloting this year and won second-team plaudits as a junior. Hill and the Vikings amassed an overall mark of 13-9 and were runners-up in the District 21 finals, losing to

Lutes, Emert share top honors

By REID CREAGER

With all of the heated discussion by Sliger Home Newspapers sportswriters regarding the selection of the 1981 All-Area Basketball Coach of the Year, it's no wonder this is the first time that one's been chosen.

The events of the past season left us with an especially difficult choice. On the one hand, you've got Walled Lake Central's Steve Emert, who in two short years brought a 1-20 team to the brink of a district title. Then you have Tim Lutes of Northville, whose 1980-81 Mustangs tied for the Western Six Conference championship before winning their first Class A district crown ever.

The only solution was to call it a draw, so Emert and Lutes are our choices to share Coach of the Year honors.

In a way, it's only fitting that the two opposing coaches in the District 21 final game should be recognized. Both had a long road to travel before reaching the championship tilt, which Northville eked out in a 45-43 spine-tangler.

Lutes has the edge in coaching experience by a year. The 32-year-old graduate of Alma College began his benchwork in 1970 at Midland, where he coached junior varsity ball until 1975.

From there Lutes moved to Alpena, where his teams compiled 8-13 and 9-12 records during the 1975-76 and 1976-77 campaigns. But the coach finally began to realize some concrete results the following winter, when his squad posted a 16-6 slate.

Ironically, when Lutes took the Northville job prior to the 1978-79 season, little did he know that the same pattern would develop. As in Alpena, his first two years weren't anything to get too excited about (11-11 overall and 5-5 in the conference, followed by 12-9 and 4-6), but the third year was a charm.

The Mustang cagers' success this season was a matter of good timing if ever there was one. Following league titles in baseball and wrestling the previous year and the improvement of the football team, sports at Northville High School are enjoying a rebirth in popularity. Now the future looks good.

"I felt that when I came here there wasn't a lot of enthusiasm for sports," Lutes explained. "But the overall athletic program is on the upswing now, as well as all extracurricular activities...the fan support has just been super this year. I'm really looking forward to next season."

The athletic program at Central is now flourishing as well since Emert — along with 1980 All-Area Football Coach of the year John Van Sicken — rode into town. After a one-year stint as ninth grade basketball coach at Walled Lake Western, Emert moved over to Birmingham Brother Rice, where he served under Bill Norton. That was an experience that will always stay with him, he said.

"Bill really had a big influence in my life," Emert said. "It's just the way he looks at things. He's been a major source of inspiration to me."

From Brother Rice, Emert graduated to the head coaching ranks at Central. He's compiled respective records of 8-13 and 13-9 in the past two years, rescuing a sinking program and helping it to new-found respectability.

And with the way the Viking cage program is developing, it'll soon be Emert's turn to be referred to as a "major source of inspiration" — if it hasn't happened already.

TIM LUTES

Unanimous choice

Amazing Mustangs are best in the area

By KEN KOVACS

Tim Lutes likes to set realistic goals. He doesn't put visions of state championships and undefeated seasons in his players' heads, but rather sets his sights on obtainable, but certainly not easy, marks.

The third-year coach impressed that philosophy on the members of his Northville High School basketball team at the beginning of the season and told them that they could win the Western Six Conference with an 8-2 record.

The Mustang squad, led by senior center Dave Ward and point guard Dave Greer — also a senior — took advantage of a strong team balance and tenacious defense to post an overall mark of 18-5 and claim a share of the league title — with an 8-2 conference record, of course.

"So we knew it would be a difficult task."

It took another overtime contest, but the hustling Northville cagers, sparked by the total team effort of seven seniors and six juniors, got by the Lakeland Eagles, 55-50 and went on to beat Milford (62-39) and trim Central 45-43 in the championship game.

The district crown was the first Class 'A' title ever won by a Northville High basketball team and first since 1973, when the Mustangs clinched the Class 'B' title at South Lyon.

Though Ward, who averaged nearly 17 points and 12 rebounds per game, and Greer, who scored 11 points and advanced four assists per contest were the leaders for Northville, it was the great bench strength that carried them through the season.

For the team's accomplishments, the four sports editors of Sliger Home Newspapers unanimously chose the Mustang cage squad as area Team of the Year.

After the Mustangs reeled off eight straight wins on their home court and tied with Farmington Harrison for the league title, a new goal had to be set.

"We knew we had a good chance at winning the district championship because we played so well at home," Lutes explained. "But we also knew that Milford Lakeland wanted to avenge the earlier loss (a 63-61 overtime defeat) and that Walled Lake Central was improving every game."

"We had seven or eight ball players who were good enough to start all the time," Lute said. "I never hesitated in going to the bench and never regretted it either."

Senior guards Gary Kucher and Kevin Swayne and junior Tim McLaughlin aided Greer in the backcourt throughout the season, while seniors Todd Jennings and Greg May and juniors Tim Wagner and Steve Handley were shuffled in and out of the front line.

The Mustangs' second leading scorer last year, Duke Dusablon, sat out the # Parents push soccer

A large group of Northville High School students and parents is expected to appear before the Northville Board of Education Monday, March 23 — at a regular school board meeting at 7:30 p.m. at Cooke Junior High School — to lobby for the addition of girls and boys junior varsity soccer teams.

Ron Meteyer, coach of both the girls and boys varsity teams, kept more than 25 players on his teams the past year, in an effort to give more students a chance to play.

He is in support of the parents' request to form the JV squads, since the cost would be minimal and the program is in his words, "badly needed."

"If we were to cut the varsity squads to 18 or 20 players like other schools, these other players would not be able to play, unless we formed JV squads," Meteyer said Monday.

More than 800 Northville youths participate in spring and fall recreation soccer programs, preparing for high school teams. If JV soccer programs are not added, the parents argue, these kids will have nowhere to play.

"Many fine, young athletes who have spent four or five years developing numerous skills required to play the game effectively will find that they can no longer play soccer in Northville," said Karen Ross.

first six games for Northville, due to knee surgery this fall.

But when he did finally join the team, the 6-foot-1, 210-pound senior subbed for Ward at center and also complimented the big man at the forward spot several times, strengthening the front line with his mere presence.

Lutes praised Dusablon as a "force all by himself" at one point during the season.

Other members of the successful 1980-81 Mustang basketball team include juniors Rod Kurzawa, Dave Malinowski and Doug Eaker, who Lutes will be counting on next year.

Big men dominate All-Area picks

Northville 45-43. Hill averaged 46 percent from the floor and made 66 percent of his free throw attempts.

DEAN DANEK, Milford Lakeland's 6-foot-7 center, also led his squad in scoring (16.3 points per game) and rebounding (10), while contributing 30 steals. The senior pivotman, a second-team conference selection as a junior, was a unanimous All-Inter Lakes first team pick this year. Danek made 48 percent of his shots from the floor and hit 40 of 72 free throws for 65 percent.

Milford's pivotman, ROB SHARPE averaged 19 points per game — including one 31-point performance — before being struck with mononucleosis in late January. The 6-foot-6 Sharpe was out until just before the districts, and when he did return, he had dropped 15 pounds. Still, he averaged 16.7 points and 9.2 rebounds in 13 games. The lanky senior connected on 43 percent of his shots from the floor.

The final first team pick, DAVE RICHMOND, was a Tri-County Conference first team selection. He led Whitmore Lake to a 17-5 record and the runner-up spot in its Class 'D' district. The 6-foot-2 senior averaged 15.5 points, 10 rebounds and 59 assists per game, to lead his team in all three categories.

Among the top selections on the second team were JOHN LANG and DAVE GREER.

Lang, one of only two junior players named to the three All-Area squads, averaged 14.8 points and 4.6 rebound per game for Lakeland. The forward sharp-shooter was second in team steals with 39 and added 32 assists. The 6-foot-4 Lang also was named to the Inter-Lakes second team this year.

Greer, a first team All-Western Six selection, led the Mustangs in assists (90) and steals (38), while averaging 11 points per contest for the league co-champions. The point guard also pulled down five caroms per contest and hit 65 of 98 free throws (66 percent). Northville coach Tim Lutes also praised the senior player's defensive talents and lauded him as a "great team leader."

Other members of the second team include MIKE XENOS of Walled Lake Western, Whitmore Lake's ROB GROSTICK and JIM KINNEY of Milford.

Xenos, three-year starter for the Warriors, led his team in scoring with 13.8 points per contest. The six-foot senior hit 44 percent of his shots from the floor and in many contests was Western's main offensive force. He also averaged 2.5 assists. The Warrior co-captain received a spot on the Western Six Conference second team for his efforts this year.

An All-Tri-county Conference first team pick, Grostick averaged 11.6 points and 9 rebounds a game for Whitmore Lake. These are significant statistics considering the fact that Grostick, at 6-foot-2, handled the duties at center, battling much taller opponents week after week. The senior pivotman hit 54 percent of his shots from the floor.

Kinney, a 6-foot-1 guard, was second to Milford teammate Sharpe in nearly every category. The senior averaged 13.6 points and 3.6 caroms in 19 games and also was credited with 27 assists. When Sharpe was forced to the bench by mononucleosis, Kinney took over as the team's leading scorer and floor leader.

Detroit Cooley cools cagers, 70-58

By KEN KOVACS

One of the most successful Northville High School basketball seasons in recent years came to an end March 10 at Livonia Franklin High School.

The Western Six co-champion Mustangs failed to stay with a super-quick Detroit Cooley squad and came out on the losing end, 70-58 in the opening Region Four contest.

It was only Northville's fifth loss in 23 games and ended a seven-game winning streak.

Cooley jumped to a 21-10 lead in the first period, cashing in on several steals off its full-court zone press and hitting just about everything it threw up.

The second period of play was much the same — though Northville center Dave Ward collected five field goals and hit one of four free throws — as the half ended with the Mustangs trailing 42-23.

But Northville gave the hustling

Cooley cagers a taste of their own medicine in the third period, closing the gap to five (45-40) at one point.

Ward, who led all scorers with 26 points, hit the first bucket of the second half and converted a charity toss to complete a three-point-play and begin the Mustang charge.

The Northville pivotman went on to score seven of the Mustangs' 15 third-quarter points, while the defense held Cooley to only seven. Guard Dave Greer and forward Duke Dusablon each added a pair of buckets for Northville in a non-stop, fast break series.

When the Mustangs reduced Cooley's lead to five points, neither team could manage a point for approximately five minutes. Cooley finally hit a jumper from outside the key to increase its lead to 49-40 at the end of the quarter.

The fourth period basically was an endurance test which the Detroiters handled better than the Mustangs.

Cooley exploded for 21 points, while Northville netted 18 in the "run-and-gun" final period.

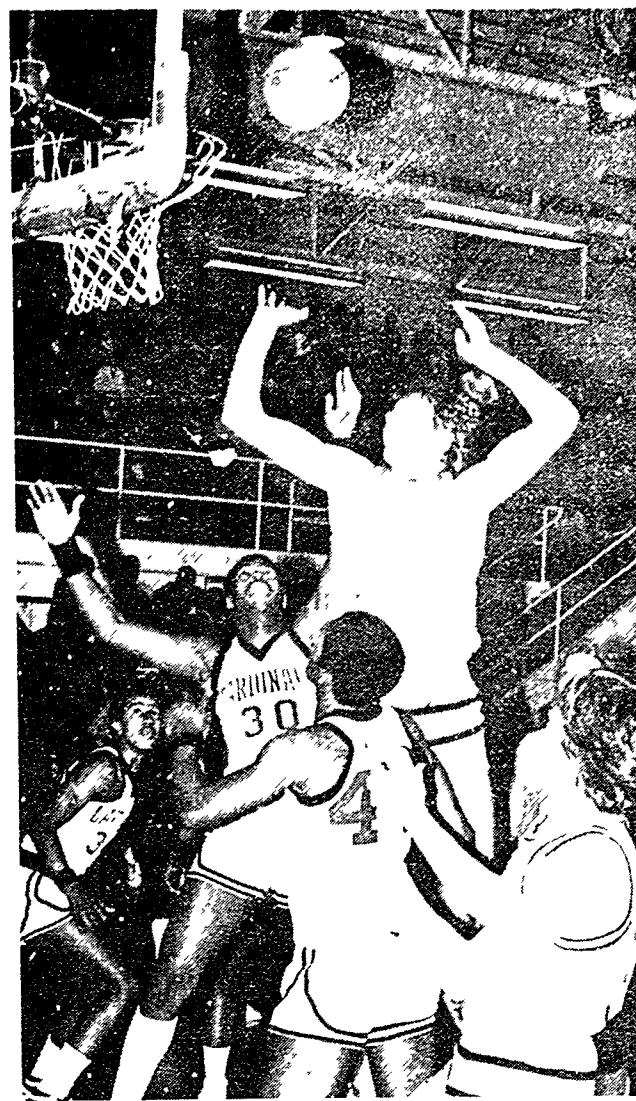

"The kids were just gassed," said coach Tim Lutes. "Cooley may be the quickest team in the state. They have forced a lot of teams to play fast this year."

Dusablon netted his season-high point total of 12 for Northville, while fellow senior forward Tim Wagner collected three field goals and a pair of free throws for eight points.

Rounding out the scoring for the Mustangs were Greer, who contributed eight points and seniors Steve Handley and Kevin Swayne who added a bucket apiece.

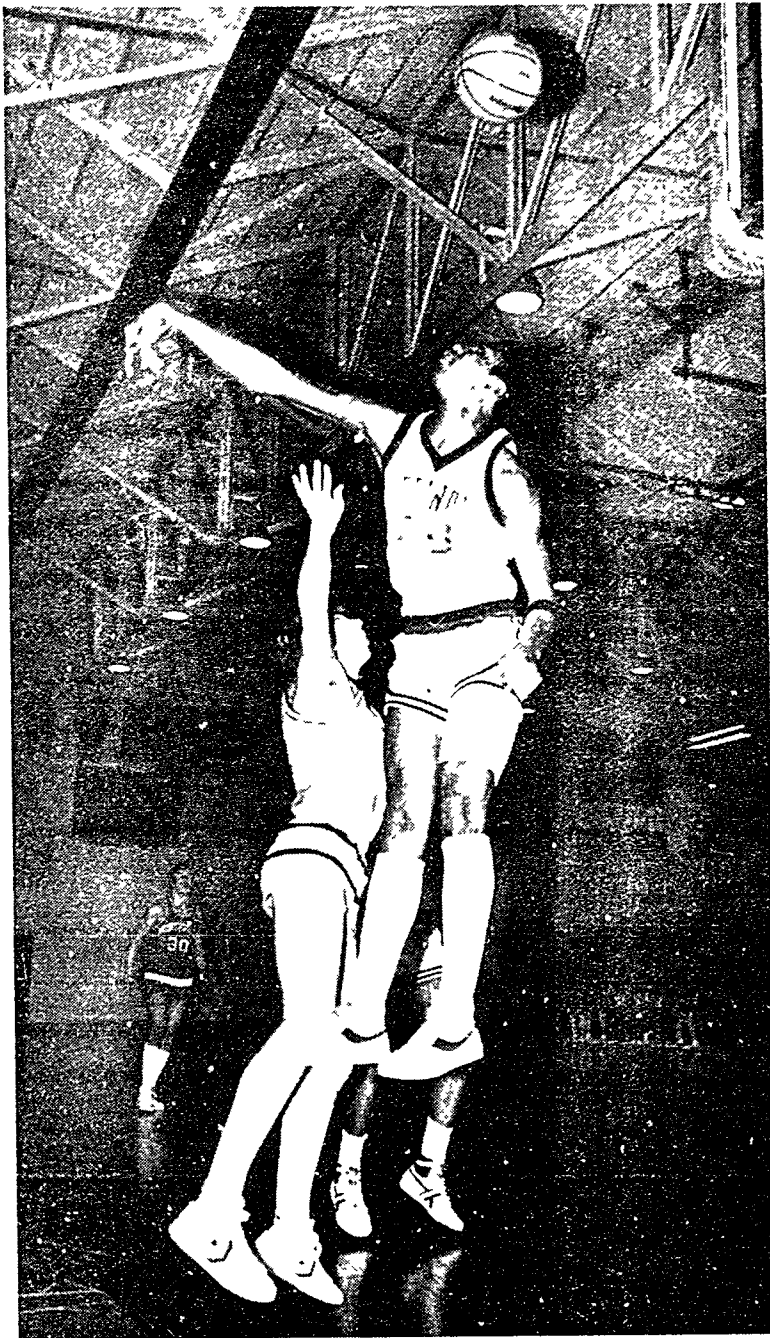

Dusablon led the locals in rebounds with 11, while Ward pulled down eight and Handley grabbed four.

Season totals for the Mustangs follow:

Ward scored 26 points in a losing effort

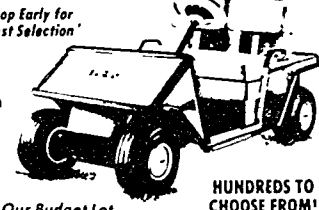

Though Tim Wagner (32) got this shot off, Cooley players reached to the rafters to block several Mustang attempts

Nancy May paces Bobcat swimmers

Nancy May claimed two first place finishes to pace the Northville-Novii Bobcat swimmers March 1 in a 'C' meet at the Southfield Swim Club.

Competing in the 11-12-year-old age group, May swept the 50-yard free style event with a time of 33.07 and claimed top honors in the 50-yard breast stroke, clocking in at 42.74. May also took a pair of second place finishes — in the 50-yard back stroke (40.0) and 100-yard individual medley (1:25.16). May posted all 'B' times.

Also in the 11-12-year-old category, David Wayne swept the 100-yard free style, posting a time of 1:08.76.

Wayne also took third in the 100-yard butterfly and sixth in the 200-yard individual medley.

All of Wayne's times were 'B' times.

Other Bobcat swimmers who achieved 'B' times against Southfield include Andy Wayne in the 50-free (35.9), 100-back (1:36.60), 50-breast (51.54), 50-fly (46.68) and 50-back (44.53) and David Felicelli in the 100-IM (1:37.86) and 50-fly (49.3).

Lone Mustang moves on to gymnastics state finals

Holly Raycraft

By KEN KOVACS

It was a memorable day for the Northville High School gymnasts. A few Mustang performers hit their best scores of the season in the regional meet at Ann Arbor Huron Saturday, while others suffered a few bad breaks.

Paula Broderick, Northville's junior all-around standout, amassed 32.05 points, including an 8.35 on the uneven parallel bars.

Though the talented gymnast missed qualifying for the state finals in the all-around by .05, Broderick will compete on the bars in the state meet at Troy, Athens Saturday.

Her other individual scores include an 8.15 in the vaulting competition, an 8.0 in the floor exercises and a 7.55 on the balance beam. It was a pair of mishaps on the beam that cost her a chance to participate in the all-around state finals.

"She just lost her concentration," explained Northville coach Jack Townsley. "She had earned 8.0 or better the last few meets, but just had a bad day at Huron."

Though no other Northville gymnasts qualified for the state meet, all five Mustang regional participants scored fairly well.

Anita Hodge ended her high school gymnastics career by posting her best score all season on the uneven parallel bars — 7.7.

The senior Mustang also participated in the vaulting competition, scoring a 7.0.

The only other senior representing Northville at the regional meet, Holly Raycraft, posted scores of 6.65 and 6.4 in the floor exercise and balance beam competition, respectively.

The two other Mustang regional competitors were sophomores Pam Stephens and Amy Aaron.

Stephens participated in all four events, scoring an 8.2 on the vault, 7.35 in the floor exercise, 7.1 on the bars and 7.55 on the beam.

Aaron, who joined the squad late in the season, competed in all events except the floor exercise.

She posted a score of 6.95 on the balance beam, earned a 6.9 on the uneven parallel bars, and averaged 7.55 in vaulting.

Though Townsley did not have all the team totals, he said his Mustangs finished about seventh or eighth, while North Farmington took the regional championship with 98.3 points, Huron was runner-up with 98.2 and Plymouth Canton, Ann Arbor Pioneer and Royal Oak Dondero also finished above Northville.

Former all-around state champ (1979) Kathy Temple of Farmington swept the regional all-around crown.

Broderick will compete with Temple and other regional winners Saturday at Athens.

Dave Ward (42) led the Mustangs to an 18-5 mark

Top of the Key

Some 15 weeks, 23 games and 389 points after the opening of the 1980-81 prep basketball season, we have a winner of the first-ever Sliger Home Newspapers' Top of the Key derby — Northville's Dave Ward.

The senior center, who led the Mustangs to their first Class A district title, nipped Milford Lakeland's Dean Danek to claim scoring honors among cagers playing for schools in SHN's circulation area. And fittingly, the scoring title was decided in the last game of the winter.

When the Mustangs met tough Detroit Cooley in regional competition at Livonia Franklin High School last Tuesday, Ward needed at least 13 points to edge out Danek in scoring average. Northville's main man responded with 26 points, leading a third-quarter charge that fell short in the team's 70-58 loss.

But Ward did more than just score for the 18-5 Mustangs this season. The graceful pivotman also hauled down 283 rebounds (a 12.3 average) to set a new school record, and blocked a whopping 75 shots.

Ward's Top of the Key honor will add to an already impressive collection of accolades piled up by the 6-7 standout. Ward was named to first-team kudos on the Western Six Conference and Sliger Home Newspapers' All-Area teams this year, the second straight season that he has netted both honors.

Here are the top 10 scorers in SHN territory for the 1980-81 season (minimum of 15 games played):

1. DAVE WARD, NORTHVILLE: (Games 23, Total Points 389) Average 16.9.
2. DEAN DANEK, MILFORD LAKE: (Games 13, Total Points 294) Average 16.3.
3. DAVE RICHMOND, WHITMORE LAKE: (Games 22, Total Points 341) Average 15.5.
4. JOHN LANG, MILFORD LAKE: (Games 19, Total Points 281) Average 14.8.
5. TODD PARSONS, NOVI: (Games 17, Total Points 245) Average 14.4.
6. MIKE XENOS, WALLED LAKE WESTERN: (Games 21, Total Points 290) Average 13.8.
7. ERIN HILL, WALLED LAKE CENTRAL: (Games 22, Total Points 303) Average 13.8.

WET the BED?

FREE INFORMATION ON BEDWETTING

Send for a FREE booklet on how to stop bedwetting
in the privacy of your home

All Inquiries Are Confidential

"Bedwetting is Serious and Harmful. . .

If you have a bedwetter in your home, I strongly urge you to take steps at once to end it. The correction of bedwetting is an important mental health aid. It is very harmful to the child, distressing to the parents and can lead to very serious complications later on in life. Don't be blind to this problem no matter what you have been told by anyone else. Do something about it and do it now.

Joseph G. Molner, M.D.,
Master Public Health

BEDWETTING IS CORRECTABLE

Many procedures such as restricting liquids, taking a child to the bathroom on a schedule, scolding, etc. do not end bedwetting. It can be stopped as early as 3 years of age. It should definitely be stopped before school age.

For the same reasons you would not think of waiting for your child to outgrow diapers, you also should not wait for your child to outgrow bedwetting. Millions of adults never outgrow it.

Dennis L. Hunter, Ph.D.
