TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

Township budget changes reflect policies

By March 16, the Northville Township board of trustees thought it had a 1981-82 fiscal year budget almost completed and ready for presentation at a public hearing next Monday night.

The figures to be presented March 30 were pinned down yesterday, business manager David Leiko said, and are available for public review anytime between now and the hearing.

As usual, Leiko noted, the budget figures are only a planning document subject to revision as the fiscal year continues.

A rough idea of the board's intent for the next year, and the spending priorities, can be obtained by examining the figures and by comparing them with previous year projections. The document was not available at press time in its final form, so the figures below are still subject to change prior to the hearing.

Projected revenues are pegged at $1,091,268, with $483,000 of that amount from property taxes. It compares to $987,686 in revenues last year with $425,000 in property taxes. All tax figures are approximate. An earlier, smaller projection, was expanded by expected reimbursements for underpayments from the state last year and carried-forward federal revenue sharing.

(Note: Any new tax approved by voters this year, such as the one additional mill for police, would not be collected until next winter and would pay for 1982-83 operations. The state is supposed to reimburse the township for any revenues lost as a result of the May 19 tax reform proposal ballot, so that vote should have little effect on the budget).

Highlights of where that money is budgeted, as compared to the previous year projections offered by township auditors Plante and Moran are:

— Trustees will be paid $25 per regular meeting. They were unpaid in 1980-81 but were budgeted at a higher figure the previous year. Total payments would be $1,200 (four trustees, 12 meetings). No payment is indicated for special meetings, of which there are many.

— The consulting engineer is budgeted at $2,500, only half the projected 1980-81 figure of $4,900.

— Legal fees will increase significantly this year, the township projects. Supervisor John MacDonald said last week there are a number of legal cases the township is involved with that have not been settled because the money has not been allotted. The township spent well above the $25,000 it budgeted last year.

— Township memberships in various organizations have been dropped, cutting dues costs from $2,000 to $670. This includes continuation of membership in SEMCOG and other regional organizations. A $400 membership in a western Wayne County community group is still in question.

Senior village

Giant complex gets okay

By KEVIN WILSON

Work could begin this fall toward construction of a senior citizens housing complex on 101 acres of Wayne County land, unused for the past eight years, in Northville Township.

The county board of commissioners approved a 99-year lease on the site Thursday.

Wayne County Economic Development Corporation will hold a lease to a portion of the former Child Development Center between Five and Six Mile off Sheldon Road.

The board's action came on a voice vote, with no dissent. It had discussed the issue a week earlier while meeting as the Ways and Means committee.

The EDC is seeking a private developer to begin work on the $50 million project, perhaps as soon as this fall.

Under the lease agreement, the county land would charge from an annual drain on the treasury between $40,000 and $70,000 to the source of nearly $150,000 annually in lease payments ($15 million over the term of the agreement). Lease charges are tied to a cost of living escalator.

In addition to 1,300 or more dwelling units, arranged both in traditional apartment buildings of three stories and in cluster townhouse developments, there would be recreation facilities, shopping, a clinic and nursing home beds totalling 200 under the EDC's proposal.

The township, which used one of its community development grants to launch study of the proposal several years ago, has already rezoned the site RME (multiple residential, elderly) specifically to accommodate the provisions of the village.

Demolition of some of the structures on the property could begin this fall, if the EDC can tap a developer in time. Some 750 jobs during the demolition and construction phases would be created, the EDC estimates, and between 500 and 600 permanent employees would be needed to staff the operation.

The lease calls for renovation of three community buildings on the site, which were once a school, a school annex and an assembly hall. The child development center was built in the 1930s as an institution for retarded youngsters.

The lease requires the first payment, of $29,700, be made one year after demolition begins. If the EDC is unable to receive revenue from the site immediately (from the developer) the payments may be deferred up to five years. January 1 of the fourth year following first payment, rent goes up to the full figure of nearly $150,000.

Once the full rent is due, the rate is governed by the percentage of the project for which dwelling permits are issued. A minimum of 1,290 units for senior citizen living is required upon completion.

The lease absolves the county of virtually all responsibility in regard to the land, making the EDC the administrator of the property. Utilities, maintenance and

Settle disputes

Council, board agree to meet

Northville city and township officials will meet soon in an effort to resolve their differences regarding financing arrangements for library and recreation services shared by the two communities.

Supervisor John MacDonald requested the meeting in a letter to city officials after the differences came to the fore last week. Mayor Paul Vernon agreed in a letter sent last Friday. The township and city managers were trying to arrange a mutually agreeable date as The Record went to press.

Concern was raised on both sides

March 16 when both city council and the township board met the same night. The township was moving toward completion of its budget that evening, while the city considered budget submittals from the recreation department and library.

The township, which must conclude its budget by next Monday, wished to decrease its support to both services to $59,000 each, but council last week voted to maintain full funding.

The two services are financed jointly, with responsibility determined by a formula which incorporates weighting by population.

The recreation commission proposed, and the city accepted, an alternative to making the cuts requested by township officials. The city would contribute the full amount requested by the commission, the township could reduce its contribution in the manner it wished, and township residents participating in the department's programs would pay an additional $2 registration fee.

The township's proposal would cut approximately $4,000 from the share the recreation department budget requested. If computed on the formula, city funding would drop proportionately (but by a smaller amount).

Angered that the city had moved to accept the budget submittals without first discussing the issue with the township, Trustee James Nowka rushed from the township board meeting to the council meeting, only to find the action already had been taken.

Council members had been particularly angered by the township's proposed cuts to the library, which would necessitate delay in new book and periodical purchases and, perhaps, a reduction of library hours.

During earlier budget sessions, however, township officials had been told book purchase delays would not affect services for about five years, and increased budgets in the meantime would allow the library to recover.

Township officers expressed displeasure with the recreation commission, which did not appear before the board during any of its sessions.

All these differences of opinion, MacDonald and Vernon said, might be resolved by a joint meeting of council and the trustees, perhaps including representatives of the two services in question.

Township Business Manager David Leiko said board members would like to schedule the meeting later this week, prior to adoption of the budget Friday, but would agree to a date next week if the earlier time is inconvenient.

"Budgets are not engraved in stone," Leiko said. "We could adjust if it becomes necessary."

Local election line-up clustered around May

Northville area voters may begin to think they are spending the spring and summer in the polls instead of out in the sun.

First on the agenda is a Northville School District 9.5 mill renewal issue April 4. May, however, is seemingly the favorite of those choosing to ask the voters about issues.

The city of Northville recently was denied its request to seek voter approval of a bond issue to repave South Main May 19, but was given Tuesday, May 5 instead. That is also, coincidentally, the day the township has reserved for voting on a 1.5 mill police tax renewal and 1.0 mill police tax addition.

All of which may be thrown out of whack by the state legislature's decision to submit a tax reform bill to the voters May 19.

Local communities are often allowed to "piggy back" on a state election, saving them the expense of running two elections. The township already has stated its intent to do so, if allowed, while the date in question is actually the one the city sought originally.

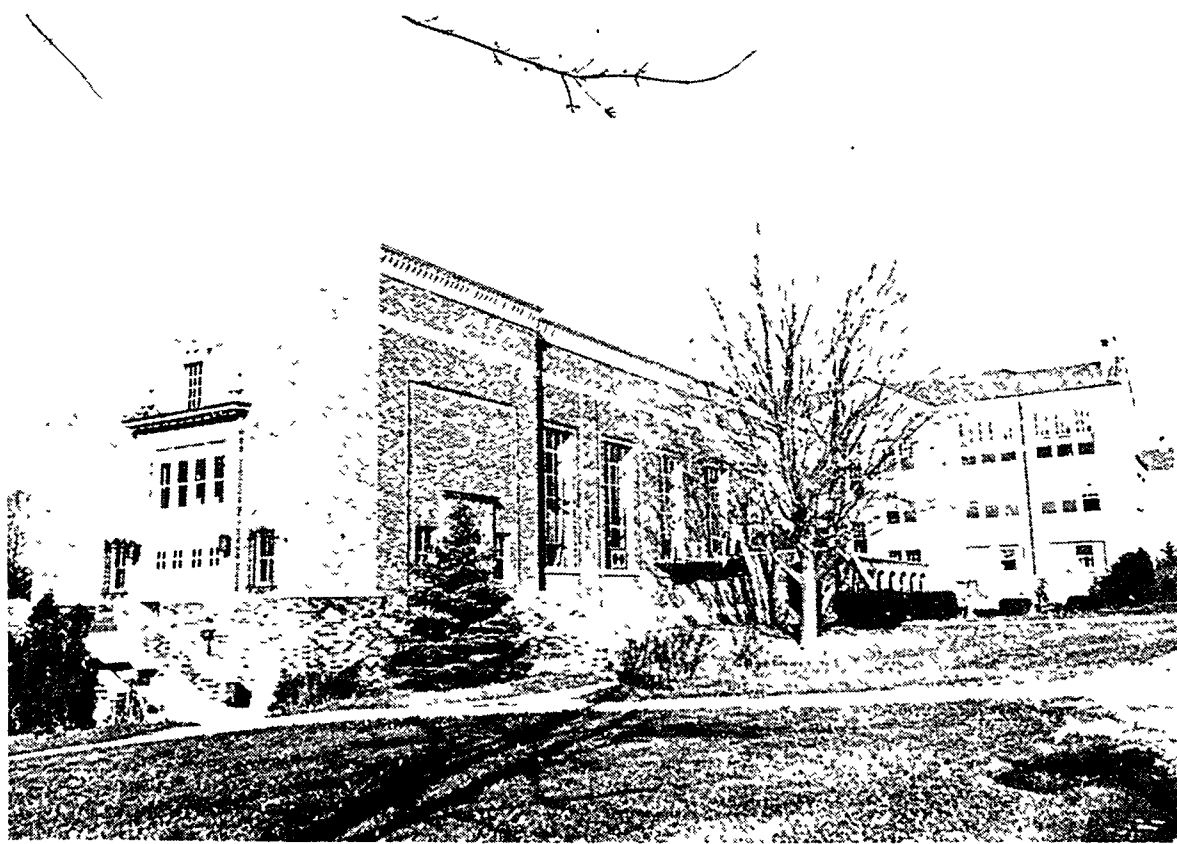

The township has been told, informally, that its application was submitted early enough that it will likely be allowed to shift to the May 19 special election. But Governor William Milliken is opposed to adding local millage questions to this particular ballot, and that may hamper efforts of those communities with later applications.

When the Wayne County Board of Canvassers grants approval for an election date it looks for other issues requiring action by the same group of voters within one month of the date in question. Generally, elections that close together do not gain approval.

The school district annual election comes up June 8, a mere two weeks after the May 19 date. The dates will probably stand as follows:
April 4, school millage renewal;
May 5, city bond issue;
May 19, special election and township police millages;
June 8, school board election.

The schedule is subject to change, but the only shift likely to occur is in the city bond issue, which may be allowed on the May 19 ballot as originally requested. Meanwhile, the voters will have to watch carefully to make sure they don't miss anything.

New lease on life given vacant township center

Super's pay hiked to $51,000

A nine percent increase, boosting the salary of the superintendent to $51,000, was approved along with terms of a new two-year contract by the Northville Board of Education Monday.

Action boosting Lawrence Nichols' salary for the 1981-82 school year was by unanimous vote.

The superintendent's current salary is $46,787 — a 9.5 percent increase over his 1979-80 salary rate of $42,728.

Other changes in the terms of Nichols' contract approved by the board upon the recommendation of the board's personnel subcommittee include an increase in the annuity fringe of 3.2 percent, 22 days vacation per school year, a required board approved physical examination annually with the results to be submitted to the board president prior to the annual evaluation and the cost to be paid by the district, and the replacement of the school district automobile as needed with need to be determined by the board of education.

Personnel Subcommittee Chairperson Karen Wilkinson emphasized that the final terms and language of the contract currently are being examined by the board's legal counsel and should be completed in the next few weeks.

In a separate motion recommended by board vice-president Charles Peltz, the board voted 6-1 to approve the length of the new contract to two years.

Nichols, who is completing the third year of a three-year contract, will be awarded a contract for the period of July 1, 1981 to June 30, 1983.

The board agreed to make the duration of the contract a separate motion from other terms of the agreement after finding some dissention among board members.

President Chris Johnson told the board he objected to granting new administrative contracts before the current contract has expired. Nichols current contract expires June 30.

Mobile home living increases as housing prices escalate

By KATHY JENNINGS

Where can you get a home with a cathedral ceiling in the living room, three bedrooms, a fireplace, sunken bathtub, central air conditioning, carpeting, a dishwasher, microwave and washer and drier — in essence a loaded home in the suburbs — for under $50,000 these days?

For an increasing number of prospective home buyers the answer is a mobile home.

Singles, young marrieds and a host of others who are finding themselves priced out of the conventional housing market are turning to mobile homes as an affordable alternative.

And the trend toward mobile home living which has been noted across the country is no different in Novi where in some corners the average sales price of a home has been pegged at $63,000.

Tom Darling of Darling Mobile Homes reports that since he started his business 13 years ago he has noticed the market for mobile homes has expanded.

"It used to be the very young couple or the older people — under 25 and over 65 — but that really is not the case anymore. In the past three to four years the homes have been appealing to families as well as young and old marrieds," Darling said.

"Now these homes have three bedrooms, two baths and shingled roofs. Once you get inside you don't even know you're in a mobile home," Darling noted.

For those who remember the 10-foot trailers of yesteryear, Darling's claims may seem fantastic. But to become a believer all it takes is a tour through a home like Nancy O'Neil's in the Country Cousin Mobile Home Park on Haggerty Road.

The front door opens onto a fully carpeted, oak-paneled combination living and dining room with a cathedral ceiling. The gold carpeting which sets off the oak-paneled walls came with the home when O'Neil ordered it three years ago.

Both ends of the home have bay windows, and one of the bedrooms has been converted to a flower room. The home came complete with all-wood cabinets, a wallpapered bathroom and a patio off the back door.

Another feature of the home — it's cheap to heat. O'Neil reports that due to the outstanding insulation features of the home there are no cold windows. The home has six-inch walls and 12 inches of insulation. Gas bills run $29 per month.

The home was purchased three years ago for $28,000. And that is not a fluke.

Darling reports the average selling prices of homes such as those in his dealership are "slightly more than $20,000." Financing is conventional — 12-20 year mortgages, FHA and VA loans and simple interest mortgages are arranged through the home dealer, he noted.

Once cost and the available options for a home have attracted the prospective home buyer they are likely to find other reasons that will recommend such a purchase, according to Stephen Zamiara, director of the mobile home commission.

Modern mobile homes are larger and better built than their predecessors. The homes can range in size from 850 square feet to the homes with multiple sections which have an many as 2,000 square feet.

Reportedly the most popular home now is 14 feet by 75 feet, but the home with multiples units, with up to four sections which are trucked separately and bolted together at the site, is growing in popularity.

Since requirements imposed by the federal government went into effect in 1974, construction standards for the homes have been upgraded. Materials used in the construction of a mobile home are comparable to those of a site built home, Zamiara said.

Safety features now are built into the homes. Combustible areas of a home, such as around water heaters, have been redesigned to meet federal requirements.

"The new models are even beginning to look like site built homes," Zamiara contends.

Another plus is that mobile homes now offer equity.

"Contrary to what Sylvia Porter said in 'The Money Book' mobile homes no longer depreciate in value as they once did," Zamiara said. "Prices of older homes are the same as new homes. Newer homes are appreciating in value, due to inflation, the same as site built homes."

"Factors which affect the price of site built homes also affect mobile homes. The community and the quality and location of the park is important. Houses in Novi are selling for more than in other communities so mobile homes located in Novi are worth more too," Zamiara noted.

As the market has changed, predictably so has the makeup of mobile home park residents.

As Robert Pelky, executive director of the Michigan Manufactured Housing Institute put it buying a mobile home is "buying a way of living."

600 tickets issued

Illegal parkers beware

Parkers who forget to keep feeding downtown parking meters and those who overstay their three-hour limit in posted areas of downtown lots — as well as visitors to Northville Downs who park in fire lanes — have been receiving tickets from a vigilant city police force these past months.

The January, 1981, monthly police activity report presented to city council at its March 16 meeting showed that officers had written 600 tickets in the downtown area the first month of this year.

The number is a marked contrast to January, 1980, total of 155. Chief Rodney Cannon told city council that 80 citations were written at the track in January, contrasting with 46 last year.

The report for the first month of 1981 also showed crimes of robbery, burglary, motor vehicle theft, arson and larceny were up from 23 in January, 1980, to 35 this January.

Moving citations, too, were up — 146 versus 115.

However, the police also had offered more assistance this January than last — 110 to 65 calls.

Employee sick time was up sharply the first month of this year with 328 hours logged against 142 last January.

Arrests were up slightly for the month, 36 to 32.

Balloon-lift highlights Scout Week

It was up, up and away for Northville Brownie, Junior and Senior Girl Scouts March 14 at Waterford Bend in Hines Park.

In celebration of Girl Scout Week (March 8-14), approximately 300 Scouts gathered at Hines Park for a sing-a-long, cook-out and balloon-lift.

The festivities at the park capped a week full of events for Girl Scouts throughout the Northville area.

For most of the Scouts, the balloon-lift seemed to be the highlight of the week. Balloons bearing each girl's name, troop number, address of meeting place and a message, were launched at 11 a.m. sharp.

Punctuality was crucial, as Northville Scouts synchronized their balloon launching with a thousand sister scouts from Plymouth and Canton who released balloons at

Milford tax protest draws over 1,300 homeowners

By STEPHEN CVENGROS

They came from Commerce and Milford, Highland and White Lake. They were businessmen and unemployed auto workers, township officials and housewives. They sat on the floor, stood on tables, hung on a scaffold, squeezed into an adjacent room and even sat on each other's laps — anywhere they could find a seat. It was standing room only. But more than 1,300 frustrated homeowners, who crammed into Milford's Muir Junior High School last Thursday night, many never having met before, shared one thing in common — every last one of them was seeking solutions to their spiraling property tax assessments. The message that the Western Oakland County residents poured out to local and state officials was clearly spelled out by one of the rally's organizer's, Commerce Township's Martha Klemmer: "We want our elected officials to know we cannot and will not tolerate these nightmare increases. We do not want a tax shift. We want a tax cut! "We demand immediate relief. "We've had enough," she pointedly remarked to positive audience reaction. On hand to witness the spirited property tax revolt demonstration and respond to irate questions were State Representatives Richard Fessler (R-24th District) and Claude Trim (D-60th District), State Senator Douglas Ross (D-15th District), Oakland County Equalization Director Herman Stephens and Commerce Township Assessor Wynn Berry. The predominant focus of Fessler, Ross and Trim's presentations was the controversial battle over state property tax relief proposals. Each outlined their views of the ongoing battle to get the proposals back on the ballot in a special election this spring. (For more on the proposals discussion see story below).

As an immediate solution, Fessler and Ross emphasized the need for angry homeowners to follow the proper channels toward appeals. "I urge you to appeal your tax assessments if you think its assessed unfairly," Fessler said. He suggested residents questioning their assessment should investigate and compare their tax to similar property and buildings' taxes.

"You must appeal to the local Board of Review if you expect to appeal to the state tribunal," Fessler urged. However, he forewarned property owners who may proceed to the tribunal level that they must choose between handling the state appeal themselves or having an attorney's representation prior to the appeal's initiation and stick with it.

Fessler also told the audience he had discovered that "three of five appeals to the state tribunal were decided in the citizen's favor" last year. But Berry defended an accusation that local assessor's were making mistakes, saying, "less than one out of 10 (tribunal decisions) have gone to the taxpayers."

Stephens issued more bad news to Commerce residents. Responding to a question from the audience, the county official informed the rally that "it appears that the notice you (Commerce property owners) received in the mail could be about 10 percent shy."

All three legislators agreed that the state tribunal was the best relief currently available to property owners.

"I heard a 'Boo' tonight for the tribunal," Trim said. "The tribunal is the best friend you have."

One of the continuing themes of the night was "Write the Governor."

Fessler was adamant about such action telling the rally, "We're going to need you to write the governor." And even admitted later that he believed Michigan Governor William Milliken was "susceptible" to letter-writing pressure from constituents.

"You've got to write to someone that represents you," Ross told the crowd. "No need to write to Representative Fessler or write to me, I support you. Who else represents you?"

"Write to the governor." Even Klemmer came prepared to do battle with Milliken.

"If this demonstration isn't enough to let Lansing know, we have these postcards — 1,000 of them," Klemmer informed the rally. But the pre-addressed postcards to Milliken were handed out quickly — with organizers soon finding out many supporters would have to create their own.

Throughout much of the demonstration, frustrated property owners heckled their legislative representatives.

"You have a right to tell me what to do with your tax dollars," Ross began seriously, before adding tongue-in-cheek, "And I think by the end of the night everyone of you will."

Heated exchanges between officials and constituents were common and at one point the forum turned into a shouting match between Fessler and the crowd after he told someone in the audience to "shut your mouth."

Prior to the rally's start, many protesters were open about their frustration, admittedly positioning themselves so they could "yell and be heard."

Klemmer's partner in organizing the rally, Paulette McKesson, also of Commerce Township, gave the demonstrators an opportunity to blow off steam and brought loud unison response from the aggravated taxpayers with a litany reminiscent of '60s anti-war protests.

"Are you happy with your state officials?" she asked.

"No!" a loud refrain rose from the crowd bringing uncomfortable looks to both Fessler and Ross' faces.

"Are you happy with your property taxes?"

"No!"

"Are we going to sit on our duffs and take it?"

Again the exchange brought a negative chorus.

"We want our representatives in Lansing to know that if they hear from us and do nothing — they will see us in Lansing with recall petitions," McKesson proclaimed.

Bell system proposes new telephone billings

A new method of charging for local business calls based on the number of calls customers make, the time of day they are made and how long they last has been proposed by Michigan Bell.

Charges for local business calls now are computed solely on the number of calls.

Some 70 percent of the businesses affected by the proposal would save money, about 10 percent would break even and 20 percent would pay more, Bell said.

Of those who would save, the average decrease in local calling charges would be three to five percent a month. The average increase in local calling charges for those who would pay more would be about 10 percent a month.

Michael D. Robb, Michigan Bell district manager, said the proposal would not involve residence customers — nor is it designed to increase company profits.

Purpose of the plan, submitted to the Michigan Public Service Commission for approval, is to relate charges for local business calls more closely to the actual costs of handling them and to give customers greater control over the size of their local telephone bills, he said.

Under the company's plan, the charge for local business calls that last up to five minutes would be reduced to 6.8 cents. There would be a charge of 1.2 cents a minute after that. The present charge is 7.3 cents a call, regardless of its length.

The plan also would introduce a 50 percent discount for local business calls made anytime on Saturday, before 5 p.m. on Sunday and after 11 p.m. daily.

Under Michigan Bell's proposal, about one month after MPSC approval, the company would begin timing local calls made by some 190,000 businesses in the Detroit metropolitan area and in other telephone exchanges with the largest number of phones in their local calling areas, Robb said.

The program is designed to help senior adults utilize their own strengths to develop fuller relationships with family and friends.

The programs will be held from 2-4 p.m. each Thursday of the month at Allen Terrace. The topics and program dates are:

April 2 — Understanding Human Behavior
April 9 — How to Change People

April 16 — Positive Mental Health for Later Years

April 23 — How to Always Be Right

The program instructor will be John Keeler, a mental health therapist who teaches at Madonna College and also is supervisor for the Senior Citizens Work Experience Program at Catholic Social Services of Oakland County.

The forums are presented without charge by Schoolcraft College and the Northville Housing Commission. Further information may be obtained by calling community services at 591-6400, extension 409.

Shampoo and set

They come and go in a variety of shapes and sizes, but they always seem to leave in much better shape than they came.

That's because Carol Schmucker prides herself in her grooming abilities, but more than that, she loves dogs and cares about their health.

"Grooming is a skill and you never stop learning," she said, "Every day is different, but you rely on your experience to guide you."

With the help of her assistant, Leanne Hurley, Carol manages to groom approximately five to seven canines each day in her dog grooming shop at 138 North Center.

Take a little off the top and easy around the ears please.

(Clockwise from the top) Carol Schmucker received a big kiss from her own dog Yogi Bear who was in for a bath and a trim last week; Mandy, a mixed-breed owned by the Hollis family seemed rather apprehensive about the whole ordeal; while Gwen, a sheepdog owned by Pat and Bob Neff spent part of her morning in the tub getting lathered-up by Leanne Hurley; finally, Schmucker added a few finishing touches to Abby's (owned by the Eis family) coat. Schmucker has been grooming dogs for almost 11 years, the last year at her shop in Northville.

Calandro honored for campaign work

Northville resident John Calandro was among the honorees receiving recognition at the Oakland County Republican Committee's bi-annual awards night program.

The program featured Lieutenant Governor James Brickley. Calandro, in addition to being the elected Precinct Two Republican delegate and an active member of Northville Republican Club, was cited for his contributions to the campaigns of local, state and national Republican candidates.

A member of the Oakland County Reagan-Bush election committee, Calandro also is on the Oakland County Republican Executive Committee. He serves as the 19th Congressional District northern area coordinator and as a grassroots worker in election campaigns.

He and his wife Peggy often can be found raising money, knocking on doors or distributing literature for Republican candidates, the Oakland County Republican Committee stated as he was cited.

Kevin Martin, executive director of the Oakland County Republican Committee, in commenting on Calandro's contributions said, "It's amazing that John can coordinate and organize so many activities during a campaign."

"He makes things happen. He has helped bring many new workers into the Republican party and represents the type of person that is needed to keep our momentum going from election to election."

Final Settlement Day passes, few residents notice

By KEVIN WILSON

Settlement Day in Northville Township passed March 16 without notice. Which may be why the state legislature decided to eliminate the law mandating that the session be conducted in future years.

The day was created as an annual provision for general law townships in the state. In the pioneer days of democratic processes, it held a sense of purpose and public participation in local government rarely, if ever, seen today.

Settlement Day was designed for the township board of trustees to close its books on the year preceding, and resolve long-standing issues. In recent years it came to replace the annual meeting, a town meeting of the type conducted in colonial America.

Among the provisions of the act creating the sessions was that the township officers deliver annual reports.

In accordance with the law, on the last settlement day, the Northville Township board met in open session to conduct those matters of business.

Trustee C. James Armstrong was absent, held late at work. There were not enough members present until 15 minutes after schedule to begin.

Present were the six other board members, administrative assistant Eunice Switzer, present to record the minutes, and this reporter. Otherwise, the hall was empty.

Supervisor John MacDonald delivered his annual report, not reading it out loud but asking that it be inserted in the minutes.

"Significant developments" of the past year, he reported, included launching operations under the new business manager form of government — moving elected officials to part-time and hiring David Leiko as full time business manager; three elections (presidential primary, township primary and general election); passage of 0.5 mills for the fire department.

Other developments were the hiring of more CETA employees than had ever been used by the township, progression toward senior citizen housing at the child development center, updating of building codes, a drastic reduction in new home construction, increased water rates, "a dramatic increase in the residential tax factor and many complaints regarding the same."

The township also, he noted, receive eleven new rezoning petitions including three major new subdivisions (Highland Pointe, Ravines of Northville and Lakes of Northville) and is nearing completion of a new zoning ordinance and map.

Goals for the coming year were succinctly stated.

"This board's one and only goal is to do what is best for the citizens of Northville Township."

MacDonald expanded that statement slightly to emphasize tightening operational procedures.

"...with the institution of the office of business manager great strides have been made toward servicing the current and long-range needs of the citizens of Northville Township in a business-like fashion."

Treasurer Richard Henningsen read off his list of figures showing the financial status of each township account, including payments to be made between that date and the April 1 official start of the new fiscal year.

The board concluded the session by soliciting public comment as is required. There was no one to make comment so the meeting was adjourned and the board went into its fourth review of the 1981-82 budget.

ISEP faces possible personnel reductions

Three administrators in Northville's Institution Special Education Program are faced with a possible non-renewal of employment contracts for the 1981-1982 school year due to the declining enrollment of the ISE program, school administrators announced Monday night.

The ISE program will be forced to cut three administrators next year if the enrollment continues to drop and revenues decrease, Assistant Superintendent Burton Knighton told the board of education at its regular meeting.

The board unanimously voted to consider the non-renewal of contracts for ISEP Building Supervisors Beth Flack and Dan Hull and Title I Coordinator Loraine Jones at the board's April 27 meeting.

School Superintendent Lawrence Nichols told the board that the administration's decision to consider the non-renewal of the contracts was based on the declining enrollment and revenue factor and not with the job performance of the administrators.

The enrollment in the ISE program has dropped drastically over the past year. In September 1980 approximately 505 students were enrolled in the program. There are now 403 students and enrollment projections point to even fewer students next fall.

The drop in enrollment is a direct effect of a 1979 decree by U.S. District Court Judge Charles Joiner. The decree mandated that the population at the Plymouth Center for Human Development must be reduced to no more than 100 persons by March 1983.

Through a steady reduction over the past year, students at Plymouth Center have been placed in group and foster homes in other areas to adhere to the August 1979 decree.

In compliance with the Michigan School Code, the school district must notify personnel 60 days prior to the expiration of their contract and must have 30 day pre-notification of non-renewal of their contracts. The administrative contracts will expire in June.

Nichols told the board that "if it were not for the law, we wouldn't be bringing it to the board at this time."

"If cuts don't take place," he said, "we may not have to go through with this — but because of the law it's necessary to protect the district."

The board will consider the non-renewal of the ISEP administrators' contracts at its April 27 board meeting.

In addition to the three ISEP contracts, Movement Education Project Director Linda Kowalczyk's contract also is being considered for non-renewal due to declining revenues.

Kowalczyk's position is funded through a state grant and administrators are anticipating a possible reduction in funding for the program next year.

However, the board of education agreed in November to submit Northville's Movement Education Program for inclusion in the "Educational Programs that Work" bank of the National Diffusion Network.

The NDN bank sponsored by the Joint Dissemination Review Panel of the United States Department of Education would appropriate monies for the program if it is accepted.

Administrators said they have not been told whether or not the program has been accepted and are waiting to hear about possible funding.

County millage bid unlikely to appear

A three mill tax proposal to finance the Wayne County Sheriff's road patrol, county hospital and mental health programs was approved for inclusion on the May 19 special election ballot by the county board of commissioners Thursday, but its chances of reaching the ballot appeared slim.

The idea was raised by Commissioners R. William Joyner of Plymouth and Thomas Presnell of Westland as a one mill issue to fund the road patrol.

Joyner and Presnell have been trying to find a way to insure police patrols of Hines Parkway in place of the county sheriff's patrol, recently trimmed extensively by the board of commissioners and unable to continue its surveillance of the park. Their proposal was broadly stated as for support of police services, without mentioning the road patrol specifically.

They proposed the question solely on those grounds, but their motion was amended by Commissioner Mary C. Robinson of Detroit to include one mill for each of the health measures as well.

The amended package was approved by the full board 15-8. Mary Dumas, the commissioner from Livonia whose district includes much of Northville, said she doubted the question will ever reach the May 19 ballot.

Prospects for preparation of paper work in time to meet the 60 day advance deadline for inclusion are slight, she said, and in addition, Governor William Milliken is not receptive to the addition of local millage requests to the ballot including his pet proposal to cut property taxes while increasing the sales tax.

Should the issue fail to meet the deadlines for inclusion on the May ballot, Presnell said, there are no alternate plans right now. He conceded that the proposal might be placed on some future ballot.

Budget changes reflect township fiscal policy

— The total legislative category, which includes the above items and others, leaps from a 1980-81 budgeted amount of $54,959 to $74,820, largely due to the increased legal fees. Spending exceeded the budget by a great deal last year, so treasurer Richard Henningsen said the current year number is less of a rise than it appears to be. "It is a realistic projection," he said. It also includes a $40,000 item carried elsewhere in the budget last year.

— All categories of the budget which include paid personnel now include the costs of fringe benefits for those employees. Direct comparison of these categories becomes deceiving, as cuts from year-to-year seem smaller than actual and increases seem larger than actual. Overall, fringe benefit costs drop from year ago levels, partially due to lowered benefits for elected officials (described later) and partially due to the lay off of a police man sometime later in the year, if needed.

— The supervisor's operating fund drops from $19,329 to $13,844, even after absorbing the cost of the supervisor's benefits (which were not included last year). His salary falls from $23,000 as a full-time position to the $11,000 paid as a part-time supervisor. He is allowed $600 for auto and expense allowance and the rest of the item is fringe costs of a little over $2,000, which are less than paid the previous supervisor.

(Note: The $23,000 allotted the supervisor last year was not all paid, as the shift from full-time to part-time occurred at the election. The cut in the supervisor's salary, together with cuts from the clerk's and treasurer's compensation are used to pay the business manager who came aboard this January).

— The clerk operating fund drops from $43,913 to $38,517 while absorbing the benefit packages of three employees. Without benefits, the budget is $31,962. Clerk salary drops from a budgeted $19,500 last year (only $15,346 was actually paid) to $7,500. Hired part-time clerical help (only a $400 expense last year) is eliminated, as is the clerk's auto allowance, education and training fund. Salary increases here, as in other non-unionized departments, are limited to three percent.

— Treasurer activity totals $33,417. Last year's total was $34,565 without the benefit package included this year. Actual comparative expenditures fall to an even $30,000, largely accomplished through reduction of two salaries. The treasurer himself is paid $4,000 instead of $4,500. The deputy treasurer, who was at the top of the pay scale at $16,000, is leaving and will be replaced with a new person at the bottom level — $11,500. Benefits also decline commensurately. The expense of tax roll preparation is expected to rise from this year's figure of $9,749 to $12,000.

— The business manager expense is a new item, uncomparable to last year. His salary, drawn from the decreases elsewhere, is pegged at $22,725 as top administrative official. Hired at $22,500, his contract runs one year and expires January 1, part way through this fiscal year. He receives an auto allowance of $250, dues of $75 and receives a benefits package worth $4,378. Early in the budget process, Henningsen said Lelko is "worth every penny" of this expense.

— Major savings occur in the elections area, where last year's $20,500 expense is trimmed to $7,700. Last year included a presidential primary, an August township primary and millage vote, and November presidential, township and county election This year's activity was projected to cost $9,700 but $2,000 of that is to be recouped by giving employees compensatory time off instead of paying overtime for election days.

— The police budget total remains almost rock steady, but only because the projection involves laying off at least one officer by late September. The money saved would be used to meet rising costs in gasoline (from $13,500 last year to $19,500 this year), equipment maintenance (up $1,100), computer services (up $700) and the purchase of new cars (up $1,468 from last year).

Overall, the police budget rises from $369,146 to $427,116. Again, the increase is deceptive due to benefits expenses that exceed $54,000. Directly comparable items give a budget of roughly $373,204. The overall township budget remains $13,000 short of being able to rehire a laid off policeman, Henningsen said March 16. Income from the current 1.5 mill police tax comprises a little under one-half the budget, with the remainder coming from the general fund.

— Road maintenance, which includes only the dust treatment agreement, falls from $11,500 this year to $7,500. Maintaining equivalent service would cost roughly $14,750.

— Recreation-related expenses fall from $65,441 to $61,500. Exactly $59,000 of that amount is through the contract with the city (last year — $63,065) and $2,500 goes toward Fish Hatchery Park (last year — $2,376). These figures may be subject to an immediate change. City and township disagree on funding for this department and meet soon to resolve the differences. In any case, the city fiscal year begins later and governs the department's year.

— Fire department expenses are budgeted at $82,740. Direct comparisons are deceptive, not, this time, due to a relatively small benefits package but because this department previously was paid for with federal revenue sharing funds. Now, it is backed by a 0.5 mill tax levy voted in in August, but the federal revenues are distributed throughout the budget to help defray the expenses of fringe benefits. The federal revenues are included in projected revenue figures.

— Major fire department points of interest; last year's budget total was $71,893. Rising costs are registered for a three percent increase in the fire chief's salary, an increase in the paid-volunteer employment arrangement for firemen to $10 per run, bringing them in line with neighboring community pay, and purchase of radio equipment to assure fire protection in the event of power failure in township hall. A projected $10,000 expense to renovate a pumper was trimmed to a bare minimum of $1,000 to keep it in service. The department budget also tackles a $9,000 loan payment previously paid from the general fund. The one-half mill given over to the department very nearly covers the total expenses.

The water and sewer budget has minimal impact on the township budget because that service is self-supporting through fees and charges.

The board of trustees will adopt a budget at 8 p.m. Monday, following a required public hearing regarding use of federal revenue sharing monies slated at 7:30 p.m.

City site plan procedures, fees become stricter soon

Builders required to submit a site development plan for review in the City of Northville, apparently, have been getting off pretty cheap.

In fact, the most any applicant currently is required to pay for a review is $15, approximately $85 less than the average fee collected in other similar communities, Ronald Nino, city planning consultant told planners March 17.

"In several communities that I am involved with, site plan review fees begin at $100 and go as high as $500 depending upon the scope of the project," the planner wrote in a memo to the planning commission. "In addition, some communities pass on (to the applicant) any consulting charges from the planner or engineer or other professional engaged to assist the community in its review of a site plan."

Nino submitted a fee schedule which would increase the minimum fee for the first application for a new building/vacant site plan inspection to $100 when construction value is less than $100,000. The fee would increase $50 per $50,000 value, according to Nino's suggested schedule.

The planner also suggested that city planners discontinue the practice of reviewing separate architectural, landscaping and overall site plans.

"There is nothing in the ordinance that says each area must have a separate review," Nino said. "You shouldn't be approving these things separately."

Nino offered a new site plan review application which clarifies that only one review is needed.

Planners unanimously approved Member Thomas Wheaton's motion to accept the new application form and tabled the suggested fee schedule until next month.

"Since we will be using the Plymouth system for building fees, I would like to see what they charge for site plan reviews," said Chairman Lesa Buckland.

In other action, planners agreed to extend the preliminary plat approval of Abbey Knoll Estates, (located on the north side of Eight Mile, west of Lexington Condominiums) for a period of one year.

The plat originally was approved by city planners May 1, 1979.

Planners also discussed the recent Michigan Supreme Court rule freeing mobile homes from trailer park sites, but recommended no action to city council.

"I don't think we have to worry about a trailer park coming to Northville," said Wheaton. "It (the mobile home situation) is an entirely different problem now than it was when we last discussed it a few years back."

Nino reminded planners that the current ordinance does not prohibit the building of a mobile or modular home, as long as it meets the other requirements.

family centers

Development center ideas have checkered history

Approval of a lease arrangement for the Wayne County Child Development Center brings a somewhat tentative conclusion to over eight years of attempting to find some use for the property.

The 40 building center, sprawling over 700 acres, was completed in the early 1930s as an institution for mentally retarded children. It was virtually closed by 1974 due to the effects of then-new state guidelines emphasizing community placement of retarded youngsters rather than institutional care.

Even before it was fully closed, the portion east of Sheldon between Five and Six Mile roads had been proposed as the site of a state police post and crime lab.

That proposal died early and was replaced, in succession, by suggestions that the parcel become a joint campus of Wayne State University and Schoolcraft Community College, an alcoholic treatment center, a state prison, a training ground for state police and a campus of Faithway Baptist College.

The idea of a nearly self-contained senior citizen "village" was first put forth in 1977 by the Wayne County Council on Aging. It stayed on the back burner for some time because the county board of commissioners had, in 1974, determined that future use of the property would be confined to "not for profit" ventures in the public interest.

As the county encountered fiscal difficulties, and the cost of maintaining the property became a constant drain, the commission's outlook changed, and the possibility increased that the senior citizen housing proposal might gain approval.

In the meantime, the state's bid of $9 million for the entire center to be turned into a prison, backed by Governor William Milliken, had drawn vehement opposition locally, at one time drawing over 2,000 persons to the site for a protest rally.

While the county pondered the state offer, and considered going to the open market with the property that it estimated as worth over $14 million, Northville Township began to move.

It formed an Economic Development Corporation in late 1977, with purchase of the property in mind in order to stop the prison. When that proved out of reach, the township gathered up $10,000 of its federal block grant monies (then earmarked for a library, but shifted to a sewer project) and conducted a market feasibility study.

By the time the study was completed in December, 1978, the state prison proposal had died under the citizen pressure, though Phoenix Prison on Five Mile Road was eventually located in the township.

The newly-formed Wayne County Economic Development Corporation picked up on the senior citizen project almost immediately in 1979 and, with its more extensive contacts and closer relationship to the county was able to secure the 99 year lease arrangement approved last week.

The process was not without snags. The 101 acre parcel, which includes most of the buildings in the center, was valued at $14,400 per acre by the EDC when it proposed buying it rather than leasing, but at $33,000 an acre by the county auditors.

The auditors claimed the higher value, ironically, because the township had changed the zoning on the parcel to a class developed specifically for the project. The township action had been intended to indicate its support for the project to the county.

In October 1978 the county stopped heating the buildings in the center, a move that had not been taken earlier because the auditors had suggested that much damage would result. The auditors "changed their minds" and recommended the heating be shut off in 1978. The steam heating system was consuming roughly $12,000 a month at the time.

Under preliminary plans drawn up in proposing the village project most of the structures would be torn down because they would cost too much to repair.

A large school building and assembly hall might be renovated for use in the village. They contain gymnasiums and swimming pools that might prove useful as recreation or shopping areas for the residents; and may also be the location for administrative offices of the development.

While the lease arrangement is expected to be the first step toward development of the senior village, it does not assure that the project will be built.

The EDC must locate funding and find a private developer willing to take on a project of the magnitude in question. Phased development over many years is part of the plan.

The lease contains strict guidelines governing the development, together with a schedule of deadlines. Failure to progress in accordance with the deadlines could result in an end to the project.

Still in question are future uses of the remaining hundreds of acres located in the heart of the township. All of the area is zoned for residential use, but the county has not yet indicated any willingness to release the property from its ownership.

It is the last remaining undeveloped parcel owned by the county and commissioners have long argued that waiting 20 years or more to sell it might result in significant long-term profit. At some point, these commissioners have argued, the center land might be the last remaining undeveloped parcel in the entire county and would fetch a considerable price.

Equestrians cop recognition

Several equestrians from the South Lyon area recently received awards as part of the American Horse Shows Association (AHSA) zone competition sponsored by the Insilco Corporation.

Highpoint Priority in South Lyon, was named the reserve champion.

Dunhaven Royal Aire, owned by Donna and Edward Smith of South Lyon, was the champion in the Shetland Harness Pony section of the competition.

In the Morgan Pleasure Horse section, Penn's Nutmeg, owned by Karen and John Harvie and

Sugar Run Triumph,

owned by Suzanne and Luanne McCurdy of Northville, was named champion in the Morgan Park Horse section.

Rounding out the awards is Esquire's Cute Trick, owned by Muriel N. Haxer of South Lyon. The local award winners competed in zone five, which includes Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and

Johnson, who has held firm in his opposition to rolling contracts during his years on the board, said he did not disagree with the other terms of the contract and had no objections of Nichols' job performance, but could not agree with "the length of the contract and will have to go against it on that condition alone."

"My position on the terms and length of the contract is different in philosophy from the board's," Johnson said. "My position is that we should go to the end of the contract before awarding another."

The new contract terms approved by the board were based on various factors including the board's recent superintendent evaluation, collective bargaining agreements with other employee groups and the salary rates of superintendents of other districts relative to the size of the district and the operating budgets.

City worker COLA cuts still in negotiation stage

Conversion of Cost of Living Allowance (COLA) adjustments to compensatory time for city union employees in the Northville Command Officers Association and the Association of Federal, State and County Municipal Employees has been negotiated, City Manager Steven Walters reported to city council at its March 16 meeting.

He said he is still working with the police officers' association to reach a similar agreement.

The city had requested adjustments to avoid employee layoffs.

The letter of understanding with the two groups states the city shall pay only 60 percent of the normal COLA payment scheduled to be paid to the association members in June in order to provide relief to the city in the present fiscal year.

Each employee concerned will be credited with compensatory-time hours calculated by dividing the COLA (40 percent) not paid by the employee's straight time rate as of June 3.

Each employee will receive a statement detailing the number of compensatory-time hours credited.

Beginning July 1, employees may take the compensatory time off, subject to the approval of department heads and consistent with the operational needs of the department. Vacation scheduling is to be given priority over compensation time.

The agreement also stipulates that if the city's financial condition has improved during the 1981-82 fiscal year, it may pay off unused balance of time to any employee requesting payment.

The council officially expressed appreciation to city employees for cooperating in dealing with the projected 1980-81 general fund deficit, noting that it is facing serious financial limitations in the present economic conditions.

Walters also told council the city's budget adjustments brought the amended budget from state shared revenues to $253,000 — within a few hundred dollars of what it needs.

He said no additional adjustments in the 1980-81 budget appear necessary in terms of state-shared revenues to the general fund.

He also reported that the Northville Downs 1980 meet in January and February produced a two-month average city share of $5,947. If this rate is maintained, the 1981 downs meet will provide $470,000 to the city for a fiscal 1980-81 total of $785,000. The city has estimated that it would have to produce $750,000 to provide the $800,000 maximum city share allowed by the state presently.

County okays village lease any other costs are to be borne by the EDC or its developers.

Another clause of the lease guarantees that no "tax breaks" will be offered developers as an incentive to construction. Full property tax, and any other taxes, will be levied.

It also prohibits the EDC or the developer from seeking such a break from the township. Earlier versions of the lease did not include this clause, but the board of trustees passed a resolution opposing such concessions "unalterably" last year.

If the demolition phase of the project is not completed within two years, the lease will end and the EDC will be required to clear any remaining debris.

Legislative tax proposal beats deadline for ballot

State lawmakers will offer Michigan voters one property tax relief proposal in a special statewide election May 19.

The proposal, based on a plan that state Governor William Milliken suggested, was heavily amended and approved by both the state house and senate by the March 19 midnight deadline during legislative sessions last week.

Tisch III, a more drastic tax slashing proposal, was killed at least until 1982. The property tax relief plan prepared by Shiawassee County Drain Commissioner Robert Tisch was the only proposal of many circulating that offered a clear and unmistakable overall tax cut.

All such proposals are actually amendments to the state constitution, which prescribes taxing policies and limits.

Opponents of the current proposal charge approval will only gain a tax shift.

When voters go to the polls May 19 they will be faced with staying with the current taxation system or approving the following changes:

- reduce residential property taxes by 50 percent
- reduce income taxes paid in 16 state cities by 50 percent
- raise the state sales tax from 4 to 5.5 percent placing Michigan as the fourth highest sales tax rate in the nation. Connecticut leads with 7.5 percent and both Rhode Island and Pennsylvania charge 6 percent.

—reduce government spending by as much as $300 million.

—make a $1,400 maximum amount of property tax relief available to individual homeowners and farmers annually.

State cities' local income tax rates would be cut in half. Taxpayers in the 16 cities that levy local taxation would have a $100 maximum for every 5 percent levied.

Among the amendments to the tax proposal:

—Local governments and school districts are to be reimbursed for all lost revenues by the state.

—A ceiling will be placed on local tax revenues gained from different classes of property — residential, industrial, commercial or agricultural. Targeting in on classes and not individual homes, businesses or farms, such taxes would have a six percent maximum hike placed on them annually.

—Millage rates would remain protected even if class assessments and evaluations were determined above the 6 percent ceiling. The proposal maintains those class assessments above the maximum could not be collected.

How local lawmakers voted:
Senator Robert Geake (R-Northville)

avored the proposal placed on the ballot and opposed putting Tisch III before voters.

Representative Jack Kirksey (R-Livonia, Northville) favored placement of the proposal and opposed the move to put Tisch III on the same ballot.

Lawmakers generally agreed that the issue is a very complex one and that most explanations can only scratch the surface of its impact.

Those supporting the proposal contend that it is a genuine overall tax cut while admitting that various factors make the reduction smaller than it would first appear. Mitigating factors include:

—Smaller deductions for homeowners on state and federal income taxes. Property tax deductions and the state's "circuit breaker" will have less impact on reducing the income tax burden due to the 50 percent property tax cut.

—The increased sales tax, which could eat up tax savings in a year when many large purchases were made.

—Removal on the millage cap allocated to various units of government. Limits currently are set on a maximum number of mills communities may levy (it varies with the type of government and size). The limits would be abolished by the amendment, but no new millage could be levied without voter approval.

Recreation by-law clause annoys township board

Northville Township apparently has not yet signed a set of proposed bylaws for the joint community recreation department shared with the city, citing three portions of the document that have not been resolved in the year since the revised form was submitted.

Foremost among these, Clerk Susan Heintz said at Thursday night's board of trustees meeting, is a clause giving recreation commission employees fringe benefits equal to those of city workers.

"Our people have protested that we pay for COLA (cost of living allowance) and dental insurance plans for recreation employees but they (township employees) do not receive these benefits," she said.

The proposed bylaws state that recreation commission employees will receive the same benefits as those of the city or township "whichever is more beneficial to the employee." The city has asked its own employees to forego COLA payments this year, and the recreation employees would presumably do without also, but dental insurance would continue.

The bylaws have been carried on the board agenda for over a year without the township signing the agreement. Township files include only an unsigned version of the document dated February 25, 1980. Heintz said the issue should be considered while the board is in its budget planning stages.

Space for signatures at the end of the bylaws still reflects the previous township administration, calling for signatures by former supervisor Donald Thomson and former Clerk Clarice Sass — neither sought re-election last November.

The board tabled the matter yet again last week, because its liaison with the recreation commission, Trustee James Nowka, was unable to attend the session.

It will be considered again in April, the board agreed, when the trustees will decide whether or not to accept the proposed arrangement in its current form or seek to have it modified.

Minor objections are to a clause stating that the recreation commission should seek to address "emotional needs" of residents in addition to physical ones, and inclusion of the word "township" in an organization description.

"We'll table this one more time, with the understanding that we will not continue to carry this issue from month to month without action," Supervisor John MacDonald said. "This should have been resolved long ago."

Gifted student's meeting set

Parents and children are invited to see the latest in computers, electronic games and other activities at 7:30 p.m. April 7 at Silver Springs Elementary School at a special meeting sponsored by the Northville Association for the Academically Talented. The program, entitled "Accommodating the Gifted, Talented and Creative Child at Home," will feature representatives from Head of the Class in Northville and from Science and Things and The Computer Connection in Farmington, who will demonstrate activities to challenge the exceptional child. The meeting is free and open to the public.

Auxiliary cops seek union They receive Alma degrees

After receiving a letter from Thomas G. Werner, attorney retained by some members of the Northville Auxiliary Police who would like to organize a collective bargaining unit, city council decided to discuss the request at its April 6 meeting.

The letter stated that the group would like to organize as the Northville Auxiliary Police Officers Association.

It said that "well over 30 percent of the members desire a collective bargaining unit."

The letter also asks the city to consider certifying the request without the necessity of calling an election.

Four earn MSU degrees

Four Northville residents were among the 1,483 students awarded degrees at Michigan State University's winter term commencement exercises March 14.

Students awarded degrees were Suzanne Babich of 336 North Ely, bachelor of science in dietetics; Lawrence McDougall of 22074 Cumberland, bachelor of arts in telecommunications; Kathi Orr of 41792 Broquet, bachelor of arts in social science and Timothy Schacht of 18490 Jamestown Circle, bachelor of science in zoology.

Dean's list

Northville residents Kevin Carney, Kenneth Dominique and M.J. Smith have been named to the Dean's Honor Roll for the winter term at Lawrence Institute of Technology.

To be named to the honor roll a student must maintain at least a 3.5 grade point average to be a full-time student.

Earns degree

Christopher Edward Prim of 16615 Old Bedford was among the nearly 1,300 persons who received degrees from Western Michigan University at its recent commencement.

Prim received his bachelor's degree in business administration.

Seasonal hazard

'Tis the season for grass fires, as Township Police Chief Robert Toms will attest. He and his crew of part-paid firefighters extinguished a small blaze in a field near the Thomson Gravel Pit on Ridge Road south of Seven Mile Tuesday afternoon. The March winds can cause a small grass fire to spread very quickly over a field of dried, tall grass and several such fires crop up every spring. Fortunately, this one was put out before it reached any homes.

Board studies lawsuit

Litigation related to the construction of Northville Township Hall will be the topic of a closed-door session of the board of trustees March 30 at 7 p.m.

Discussion of litigation is one of the few topics allowed in closed session under the state Open Meetings Act.

The legal actions under discussion include a suit filed against the township as a result of disputes between Hillier Construction Company, contractor for the construction of the building at 41600

Six Mile Road, and Smith Brothers Electric, a subcontractor.

The suit dates back to a 1977 strike that halted construction of the building and caused various stages of the process to miss deadlines for completion.

The suits reached the deposition stage last year. The township has allowed for increased legal expenses in the 1981-82 fiscal year, partially in anticipation of the suit in question reaching court.

Schoolcraft sets business seminar

Schoolcraft College will offer a Small Business Management Seminar entitled "Borrowing Money for Your Small Business" from 7-10 p.m. March 30 and April 1 at the Forum Building on campus.

The seminar will be taught by Livonia attorney Robert Thompson. Topics to be covered include bank, private and government loans, the types of loans that are available, what they cost and for how long they are made.

The seminar will demonstrate techniques for properly approaching a bank, appropriate financial development of loans and getting the needed amount of money at the right terms.

Registration information may be obtained by calling Community Services at 591-6400, extension 411.

Reagan cuts could cost township several CETA jobs

Ronald Reagan barely has been in office two months, but the effects of his economic program already have filtered down to the local level.

The March 1 freeze on hiring under the CETA (Comprehensive Employment and Training Act) program has deprived the township of one previously-approved hired hand, and replacement for another who left just after the freeze took effect.

Overall, the township stands to lose five employees, which previously were wholly-compensated by the federal program and had been counted on to do certain jobs, by the end of September.

"I don't know what it's going to be like around those administrative offices when that happens," said David Leiko, business manager. "We'll be down to myself, Susie (Heintz), who is supposed to be part time (she makes $7,500 as township clerk), Eunice (Switzler, administrative assistant) and the deputy clerk (Georgina Goss).

Lost from that office already was Susan Neighbors, who operated the word processing machinery. By the end of September, if the CETA cuts recommended are approved, two more clerical aides will be lost by the township.

A community service officer working with the police department has over a year of already-approved time to serve, but by union contract would have to be laid off before any police could be let go, even though he is paid by the federal government and not the township.

Treasurer Richard Henningsen

noted, when the freeze on hiring came down, that the township is not in as bad shape as some communities.

"We've stuck to the guidelines, basically," he said, "We didn't hire a bunch of police on CETA like some cities, so we don't stand to lose as much."

Leiko, however, said the clerical workers will be sorely missed.

"We were forced, by fiscal constraints, to hire some key people in this office under that program," he said. "It won't be easy if we lose them."

Leiko cautioned that the freeze on hiring is not necessarily permanent, and he held out some hope that not all the

CETA employees will be cut.

Just prior to the new administration's announcement of CETA program cuts, the township received approval to hire an apprentice carpenter under the program to do some work in township buildings.

No one has yet been hired under the approval, and the township is now limited to finding a person who received CETA certification prior to the hiring freeze if it is to fill the slot.

The person would have to be already certified to meet CETA low income guidelines and live in the township. Chances of finding such a person are slim, Clerk Susan Heintz said

FREDERICK W. BRADLEY

Funeral service for Frederick W. Bradley, past president and former member of the Northville chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons, was held March 19 at Schrader Funeral Home. The Reverend Philip Gentile officiated.

Mr. Bradley, 76, died March 16 at St.

Joseph Mercy Hospital.

He was born in Detroit June 16, 1904. He was a 1918 graduate of the University of Michigan School of Engineering and played the baritone horn in the U-M Band.

He worked in the engineering department of Michigan Bell Telephone Company for 43 years and eventually became personnel supervisor.

In addition to his involvement in the AARP, Mr. Bradley was an active member on the scholarship committee of the Michigan Society of Professional Engineers, was involved in the grand-children program at Gallimore Elementary School for four years and the Bucket Brigade at Fiegel Elementary School for two years.

He initiated the tax-aid program for senior citizens in Plymouth and was involved in a host of organizations including the Plymouth Historical Society, Plymouth Rock Masonic Lodge 147, Past Patron of Plymouth Order of the Eastern Star 115, Salem Farmer's Club and the University of Michigan Marching Band Alumni Association. He also was a member of the Central Methodist Church.

Mr. Bradley is survived by his wife Louise, his two daughters Mrs. Jack (Jo Louise) Seidler of Capac and Trudy of Westland and his granddaughter Beth Seidler.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Central Methodist Church or the Plymouth Historical Society.

CHARLES FREDERICK SCHROEDER

Funeral service for Charles Frederick Schroeder, 73, was held March 23 at Nardin Park United Methodist Church. The Reverend William A. Ritter officiated. Burial was in Grand Lawn Cemetery.

Mr. Schroeder died March 19 at Mt. Carmel Hospital after a lengthy illness. He was born in Detroit July 24, 1907 to Frederick and Anna (Studier) Schroeder.

He was preceded in death by his wife Mabel in 1973.

He is survived by his sisters Mrs. Marvel Kerr of Brighton and Mrs. Shirley Bonenfant.

Mr. Schroeder was a retired ticket seller for the Penn Central Railroad and a member of the Nardin Park United Methodist Church.

Funeral arrangements were made by Ross B. Northrop and Son Funeral Home.

HARTLAND — Reaffirming a commitment to six-hour days at the middle and high schools, the board of education here has decided to place an 18.5 mill issue on the ballot in May.

FOWLERVILLE — With cost saving in mind, the members of the Fowlerville village council unanimously voted to continue to allow Robert Krichke to serve in a dual role as village manager and chief of police.

PINCKNEY — Two state legislators told a large Pinckney crowd that the state is drastically cutting spending and trying to provide significant tax relief. But the 400 people who gathered at barely a moment's notice weren't buying the whole package.

HOWELL — A Livingston County circuit judge has ordered the county board of commissioners to pay $500 in punitive damages for failing to respond to a Freedom of Information Act request filed by a fired county employee.

MILFORD — Nearly 400 angry people from this section of Oakland County marched on Lansing last week to vent their frustrations and anger about skyrocketing property taxes in a day of legislative confrontations, cynicism, anger and some old-fashioned cheerleading.

MILFORD — Leaders of a property tax revolt in the Milford area promised to submit petitions signed by about 1,000 residents who demand that the township board act illegally and rescind the 1981 assessment roll.

HIGHLAND — Raises amounting in total to $5,000 for executive members of the township board have been removed from the township's proposed budget.

MILFORD — After an informal inquiry, the chief assistant county prosecutor has begun formal investigation of alleged sexual activities of a Huron Valley elementary school teacher with a student.

NOVI — Cable television in Novi could move one step closer to reality when city council members are asked this week to approve a proposal which will go out to cable companies for bids.

Tax proposal pleases Representative Kirksey

Racing against a midnight deadline, the house of representatives Thursday gave final approval to a sweeping statewide property tax proposal.

That proposal, said State Representative Jack Kirksey of Livonia, who represents Northville, "will save most homeowners 50 percent on all operating property taxes on their homesteads, limited only to a $1400 maximum exemption."

Kirksey said the proposal is a net tax cut of one-quarter billion dollars and limits tax increases to six percent a year unless there is a vote to allow a greater increase.

In addition, Kirksey explained, taxpayers in the 16 cities which levy a municipal income tax will receive a 50 percent break on top of the property tax relief, and low income families will see even more reduction under the state's improved circuit breaker program.

"Voters will go to the polls May 19 to accept or reject this plan," Kirksey said. "A change in the constitution is needed to limit tax increases to six percent and to raise the sales tax from four percent to five and a half percent to partially pay for the program."

"But despite a sales tax increase, the state must still shoulder about $260 million in spending cuts, because the legislature was determined that all lost local revenues from the 50 percent homestead exemption would be reimbursed to local governments and schools. This is definitely a tax cut package."

One of the key elements of the package, he said, "is the cap on increases in taxes on residents and other property classes at six percent unless the voters of the unit agree to a higher cap or more millage. The six percent is now about one-half the inflation rate, so this feature will greatly restrict property tax increases."

Kirksey said the house spent hours of discussion in committee, on the floor and in party caucuses on the plan.

"Frankly the question of how we could best sharply limit the growth of property taxes was a primary concern. I think we arrived at a workable solution that will minimize the ravages of inflation on our citizens and protect the 50 percent exemption. Another long range protection is the indexing of the $1400 homestead exemption maximum."

The plan was altered considerably from that proposed by the governor, increasing relief from his proposed 35 percent to 50 percent, doubling the net cut cost to the state, assuring 100 percent reimbursement to locals and restricting tax increases. The house named the proposal the Brown-Smith proposal after its two prime authors.

Under the provisions of the proposal, homeowners, including farmers, could receive maximum relief of $1400 in property tax relief, plus up to $160 for each half percent local income tax, if they pay city income tax.

The one-and-a-half cent sales tax increase will raise about $800 million in revenues to pay for part of the more than $1.2 billion package. The state must cut about $260 million from its budget to make up for the rest of the tax cut.

"All in all — although there are features I would have liked to change — I think this is a very positive plan that gets to the heart of the property tax problem, and I intend to urge people to vote for it," Kirksey said.

Reagan cuts could cost township several CETA jobs

Ronald Reagan barely has been in office two months, but the effects of his economic program already have filtered down to the local level.

The March 1 freeze on hiring under the CETA (Comprehensive Employment and Training Act) program has deprived the township of one previously-approved hired hand, and replacement for another who left just after the freeze took effect.

Overall, the township stands to lose five employees, which previously were wholly-compensated by the federal program and had been counted on to do certain jobs, by the end of September.

"I don't know what it's going to be like around those administrative offices when that happens," said David Leiko, business manager. "We'll be down to myself, Susie (Heintz), who is supposed to be part time (she makes $7,500 as township clerk), Eunice (Switzer, administrative assistant) and the deputy clerk (Georgina Goss).

Lost from that office already was Susan Neighbors, who operated the word processing machinery. By the end of September, if the CETA cuts recommended are approved, two more clerical aides will be lost by the township.

A community service officer working with the police department has over a year of already-approved time to serve, but by union contract would have to be laid off before any police could be let go, even though he is paid by the federal government and not the township.

Treasurer Richard Henningsen

noted, when the freeze on hiring came down, that the township is not in as bad shape as some communities.

"We've stuck to the guidelines, basically," he said, "We didn't hire a bunch of police on CETA like some cities, so we don't stand to lose as much."

Leiko, however, said the clerical workers will be sorely missed.

"We were forced, by fiscal constraints, to hire some key people in this office under that program," he said. "It won't be easy if we lose them."

Leiko cautioned that the freeze on hiring is not necessarily permanent, and he held out some hope that not all the

CETA employees will be cut.

Just prior to the new administration's announcement of CETA program cuts, the township received approval to hire an apprentice carpenter under the program to do some work in township buildings.

No one has yet been hired under the approval, and the township is now limited to finding a person who received CETA certification prior to the hiring freeze if it is to fill the slot.

The person would have to be already certified to meet CETA low income guidelines and live in the township. Chances of finding such a person are slim, Clerk Susan Heintz said.

HARTLAND — Reaffirming a commitment to six-hour days at the middle and high schools, the board of education here has decided to place an 18.5 mill issue on the ballot in May.

FOWLERVILLE — With cost saving in mind, the members of the Fowlerville village council unanimously voted to continue to allow Robert Krichke to serve in a dual role as village manager and chief of police.

PINCKNEY — Two state legislators told a large Pinckney crowd that the state is drastically cutting spending and trying to provide significant tax relief. But the 400 people who gathered at barely a moment's notice weren't buying the whole package.

HOWELL — A Livingston County circuit judge has ordered the county board of commissioners to pay $500 in punitive damages for failing to respond to a Freedom of Information Act request filed by a fired county employee.

MILFORD — Nearly 400 angry people from this section of Oakland County marched on Lansing last week to vent their frustrations and anger about skyrocketing property taxes in a day of legislative confrontations, cynicism, anger and some old-fashioned cheerleading.

MILFORD — Leaders of a property tax revolt in the Milford area promised to submit petitions signed by about 1,000 residents who demand that the township board act illegally and rescind the 1981 assessment roll.

HIGHLAND — Raises amounting in total to $5,000 for executive members of the township board have been removed from the township's proposed budget.

MILFORD — After an informal inquiry, the chief assistant county prosecutor has begun formal investigation of alleged sexual activities of a Huron Valley elementary school teacher with a student.

NOVI — Cable television in Novi could move one step closer to reality when city council members are asked this week to approve a proposal which will go out to cable companies for bids.

Tax proposal pleases Representative Kirksey

Racing against a midnight deadline, the house of representatives Thursday gave final approval to a sweeping statewide property tax proposal.

That proposal, said State Representative Jack Kirksey of Livonia, who represents Northville, "will save most homeowners 50 percent on all operating property taxes on their homesteads, limited only to a $1400 maximum exemption."

Kirksey said the proposal is a net tax cut of one-quarter billion dollars and limits tax increases to six percent a year unless there is a vote to allow a greater increase.

In addition, Kirksey explained, taxpayers in the 16 cities which levy a municipal income tax will receive a 50 percent break on top of the property tax relief, and low income families will see even more reduction under the state's improved circuit breaker program.

"Voters will go to the polls May 19 to accept or reject this plan," Kirksey said. "A change in the constitution is needed to limit tax increases to six percent and to raise the sales tax from four percent to five and a half percent to partially pay for the program."

"But despite a sales tax increase, the state must still shoulder about $260 million in spending cuts, because the legislature was determined that all lost local revenues from the 50 percent homestead exemption would be reimbursed to local governments and schools. This is definitely a tax cut package."

One of the key elements of the package, he said, "is the cap on increases in taxes on residents and other property classes at six percent unless the voters of the unit agree to a higher cap or more millage. The six percent is now about one-half the inflation rate, so this feature will greatly restrict property tax increases."

Kirksey said the house spent hours of discussion in committee, on the floor and in party caucuses on the plan.

"Frankly the question of how we could best sharply limit the growth of property taxes was a primary concern. I think we arrived at a workable solution that will minimize the ravages of inflation on our citizens and protect the 50 percent exemption. Another long range protection is the indexing of the $1400 homestead exemption maximum."

The plan was altered considerably from that proposed by the governor, increasing relief from his proposed 35 percent to 50 percent, doubling the net cut cost to the state, assuring 100 percent reimbursement to locals and restricting tax increases. The house named the proposal the Brown-Smith proposal after its two prime authors.

Under the provisions of the proposal, homeowners, including farmers, could receive maximum relief of $1400 in property tax relief, plus up to $100 for each half percent local income tax, if they pay city income tax.

The one-and-a-half cent sales tax increase will raise about $800 million in revenues to pay for part of the more than $1.2 billion package. The state must cut about $260 million from its budget to make up for the rest of the tax cut.

"All in all — although there are features I would have liked to change — I think this is a very positive plan that gets to the heart of the property tax problem, and I intend to urge people to vote for it," Kirksey said.

Kemp talks for Broomfield

Congressman Jack Kemp will be the main speaker at the testimonial breakfast honoring Congressman William S. Broomfield (R-19th District) Friday morning, April 3 at the Silverdome in Pontiac.

Congressman Kemp (R-New York) is the co-author of the Kemp-Roth tax cut proposal which is the focal point of the Reagan administration's new economic program. The event will raise funds for Broomfield's 1982 re-election campaign and celebrate his birthday.

The party will be held in the Main Event Restaurant at the Silverdome beginning at 8 a.m. and will conclude by 9:30 p.m.

SEMCOG to hear Pursell

Congressman Carl D. Pursell of Plymouth will be the featured speaker at SEMCOG's general assembly meeting Thursday.

President Ronald Reagan's extensive budget cuts on the Southeast Michigan region.

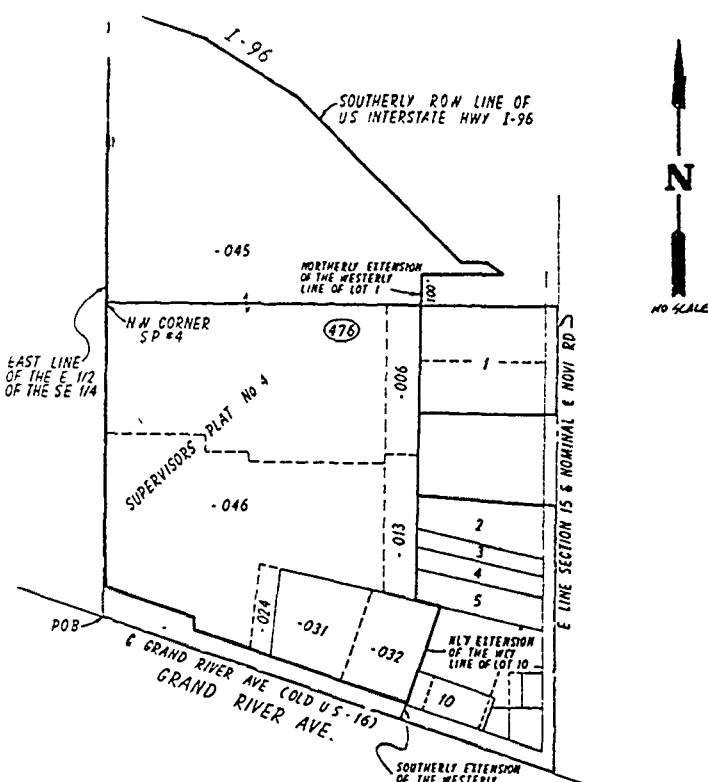

The meeting will take place at 5 p.m. at the Michigan Inn in Southfield.

Members of the general assembly will also consider the status of Wayne County's membership, and they will consider upcoming policy determinations about an air quality and economic development management process.

REQUEST FOR BIDS VINYL WALLCOVERING CONTRACT POLICE HEADQUARTERS

The City of Novi will receive sealed bids for a Vinyl Wallcovering Contract for the Police Headquarters Building in accordance with City specifications.

All bids must be submitted on forms provided by the City and available at the offices of Coquillard, Dolgner, Dundon & Argenta, 3000 Town Center, Suite 1515, Southfield, Michigan 48075.

Bids will be received until 2:00 P.M., EST, Thursday, April 2, 1981 at the Office of the City Clerk. Bids will be publicly opened and read at that time. Envelopes must be plainly marked "VINYL WALLCOVERING CONTRACT."

The City reserves the right to accept or reject any or all bids, to waive any irregularities and to make the award in a manner that is in the best interest of the City of Novi.

Geraldine Stipp
City Clerk

Our opinions

They're owed moral support

Reacting to a Record editorial urging official municipal opposition to the known inequities in assessments for many homes in this area, officials plead poverty as an excuse for doing nothing. They argue that only a complete reappraisal would help and that such a reappraisal is too costly and too late to effect any change this year.

Thus, apparently, property owners will get little help — not even an official protest — from their officials who admit the existence of glaring inequities. They are left to fend for themselves at board of review meetings.

We find this "do-nothing" posture reprehensible — first because an official refusal to accept the SEV multipliers need not necessarily require a costly reappraisal and second because doing nothing may have a very negative impact on the millage issues (school and township) to be put to voters soon.

What bothers us about the situation is that, at least in the case of the city, officials here were given a very specific guideline by an assessing expert as to just how and when the municipality should officially contest the SEV multiplier. What's more they heard the expert say, based on examples of inequities he saw, that the regional tax tribunal office could and quite possibly would force the county to consider evidence of inequities if the county failed to do so.

His advice to the local officials: lodge an official objection, on behalf of the municipality, at the first meeting of the board of review. (Neither the city council nor the township board did so, we are told).

If the county failed to act on this objection, officials were advised to carry the municipal appeal directly to the county board of commissioners. (It remains to be seen if the council or the township board will exercise this option). And if the county still refused to budge, despite evidence to the contrary, the municipality could carry its appeal directly to the state tax tribunal on behalf of its taxpayers, the expert said.

Although individual local officials have argued with the county, the governing bodies of our municipalities appear reluctant to take on big brother, Wayne County. They accept, with hardly a whimper, contentions of Wayne County that its field studies support the local SEV multipliers — even though gross errors have been noted and even though Wayne County advice on related assessing matters has proved false.

It was Wayne County, for example, which told local officials they cannot use land contract sales as evidence of property values because such sale prices cannot be documented. The fact of the matter is that either the county or the municipal assessor can legally obtain, by threat of fine and/or a jail sentence if need be, such data.

And it is Wayne County which contends it cannot update local assessments without written request of the local municipality. The fact of the matter is that Oakland County has been annually updating its assessments here without such request. What's more the Oakland County assessing department has stated that the law requires the county assessing agency to do so.

The point of our argument is that even though local government has no legal obligation to challenge the SEV multiplier on behalf of its citizenry, it certainly has a moral responsibility to do so when it acknowledges the existence of inequities produced by that multiplier.

Lucked out or locked out?

Commercial property owners who think they are to enjoy a property tax break this year could be in for a real shocker if city officials are successful in boosting equalized commercial assessments back to their 1980 levels or higher.

You'll recall that Wayne County contends that commercial properties here are overassessed. Therefore, the county ordered a tentative negative SEV multiplier for commercial properties. City officials, on the other hand, are arguing that the values of properties in the downtown area have increased, not decreased, and that the SEV reduction is therefore unrealistic and should be changed upward.

Understandably, the city is not anxious to see a reduction in the state equalized value of commercial properties because such a reduction would have a negative impact on the downtown rejuvenation project financed by "captured taxes."

City officials, therefore, are trying to persuade the county to increase the commercial multiplier here. And if officials are successful, commercial property owners could find themselves in a Catch 22 situation.

That's because the multiplier could be increased after the board of review has closed its hearings (the last scheduled hearing is today — 1-4 p.m. and 7-10 p.m.). If the multiplier is increased after the hearing the commercial property owner will have lost his opportunity to appeal locally.

What's more, the commercial property owner also would be locked out of any appeal at the state level. That's because only persons who have first appeared before the local board of review are permitted to appeal to the state tax tribunal.

To make matters worse, the commercial property owner has nothing really to appeal at the local board of review level until after the multiplier is increased (if indeed it is increased).

The situation is clearly unfair to commercial property owners and we hope it is addressed by the city officials, who are well aware of the problem, prior to the conclusion of today's last hearing.

MOLLY MANLEY

All of us who work with Molly Manley realize she is under-employed — but we're glad she is. One of two part-time office receptionists (sharing a full-time post), she holds a master's degree in education. She prefers to be the face across the counter in The Record office at 104 West Main and the voice at 349-1700 as she likes working only part-time.

Our receptionist since November, 1977, she is the person callers usually encounter Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Molly happily points out this schedule allows time for long weekend outings. "It also give me energy to expend on garden club activities (she's VP of the Northville Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association), reading, handwork and when I have to, house cleaning," she confides.

Obviously, we aren't using Molly's wit to full advantage, but we surely do enjoy it.

"I find a special challenge in researching answers for queries, such as, 'If my cake recipe calls for three cups of flour, how much baking powder do I need?' and 'How did my state representative vote on H.B. 2104?'" says Molly.

Molly Manley was born in rural Ohio and spent her elementary years attending a one-room, 13-student country school. "My spare time was devoted to roaming the countryside and helping to tend our mink farm," she adds.

She earned a BS degree from Bowling Green State University. Her ME degree is from Wayne State University; she began it in counseling and actually received it in curriculum development. (We use the counseling in our office.) Molly previously taught school in Ohio, Michigan and Puerto Rico. If she could find a teaching job in a one-room schoolhouse, we probably would lose her, she warns.

Her husband Malcolm is owner of City Claims Company. They are parents of three children — Eric, a recent graduate of Central Michigan University now working in Troy, Steve and Kay, both students at Michigan State University.

"My daily routine varies because of the diverse nature of my public contacts — both across the counter and over the telephone," says Molly, as she explains why she likes her job. We appreciate her ability to decide where to refer a caller, and, if you're a regular voice, be aware that Molly will be able to identify you. She's also the keeper of our reference files and the helper with your want ad at the counter.

She and Marge Ercoli (our other part-timer whom we'll write about next) make a good team.

JACK W.
HOFFMAN'S
COLUMN

"The family that saves together sticks together."

Don't you believe it. This splinter of an old adage may be true for some families but not for all of them — and certainly not for ours.

A long time ago the mother superior at our place was voted keeper of the bankbook. There wasn't a whole lot to save and therefore not a whole lot to do. As time passed she grew restless and took it upon herself to broaden the role.

She began saving burned out light bulbs. Saving eventually was extended to cracked crockery, rock-hardened paint brushes, lipstick tubes, and hair curlers.

Eventually deposits grew so ponderous that she began liquidating some of the family's less desirable assets. Her husband's favorite frayed shirts were among the first to go. His rusted tools (the ones, it is claimed, that were left outside in the rain by the dog), a ribbonless typewriter, unused nails and boards followed.

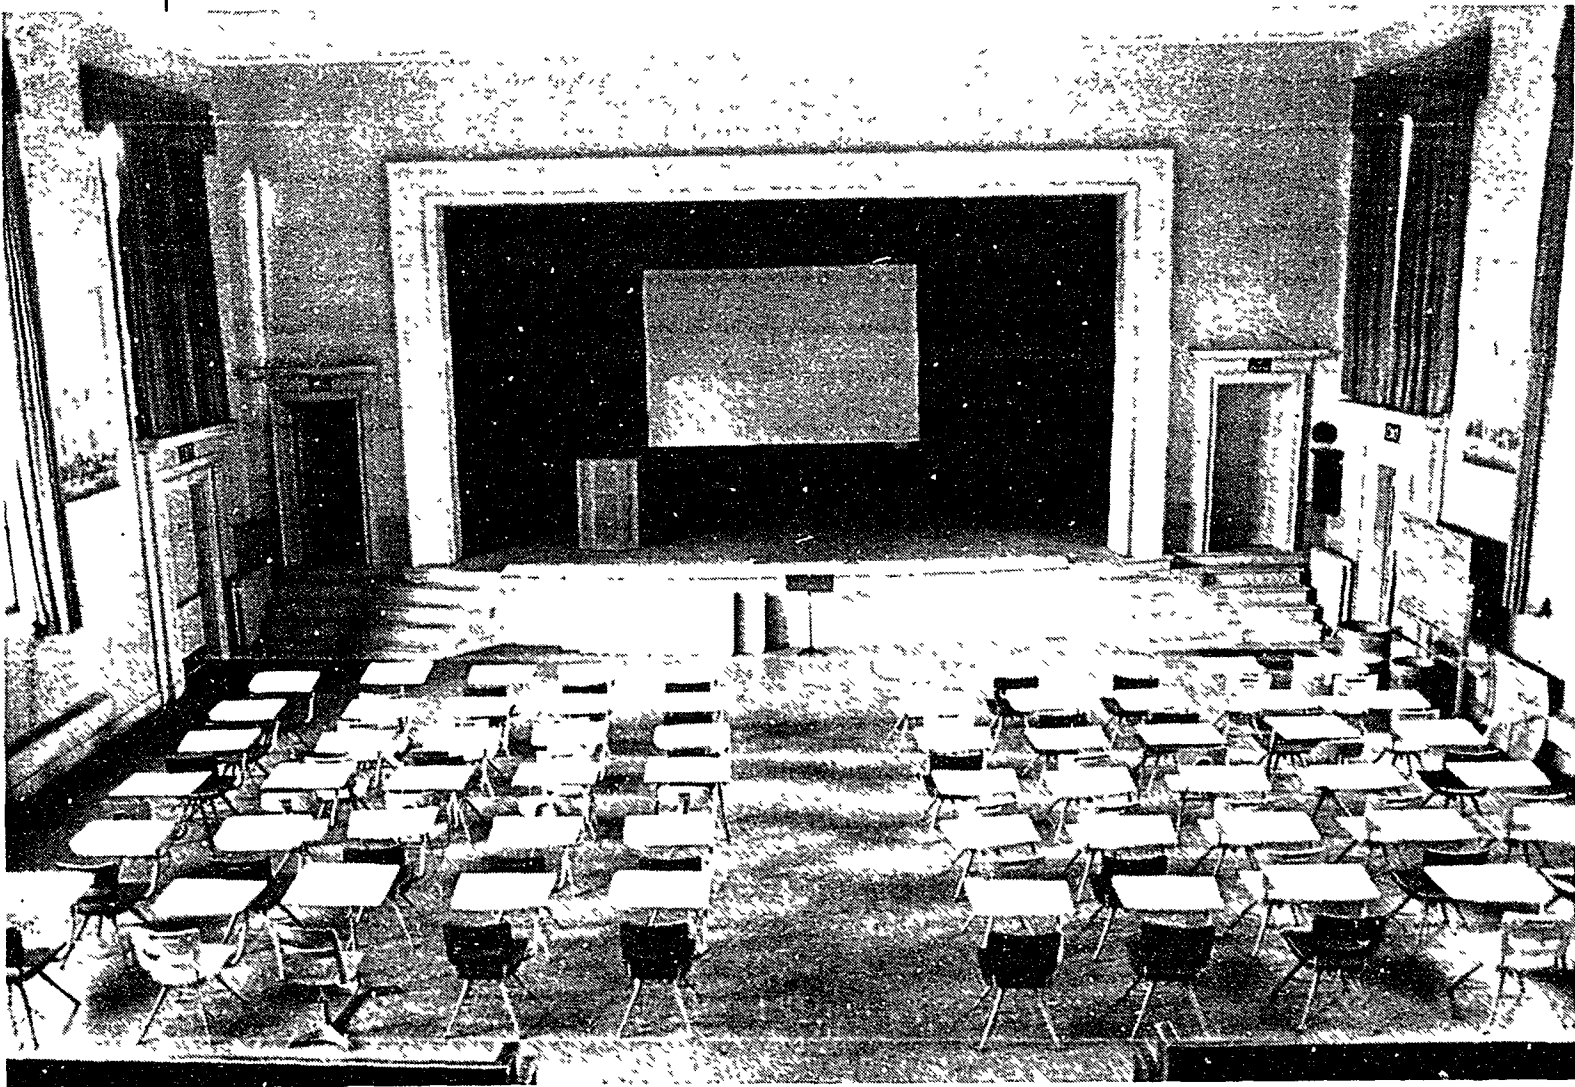

Her personal savings account continued to grow, however, especially when she began speculating in precious metals — wire clothes hangers to be specific. Like gold coins, metal hangers have a lasting, intrinsic value, she reasoned.

We became a Fort Knox for hangers. Someone calculated that we could supply the entire garment industry and still have enough hangers left to unplug the super sewer.

One day, in a fit of anger, the nearly displaced husband bundled up a pile of hangers and placed them at the curb with the other trash. She must have spotted them because they were back the next day. Thereafter, he began carefully stuffing a few at a time into the weekly garbage bags. Within a year he had reduced her metal cache to a manageable size.

But, alas, she struck it rich overnight.

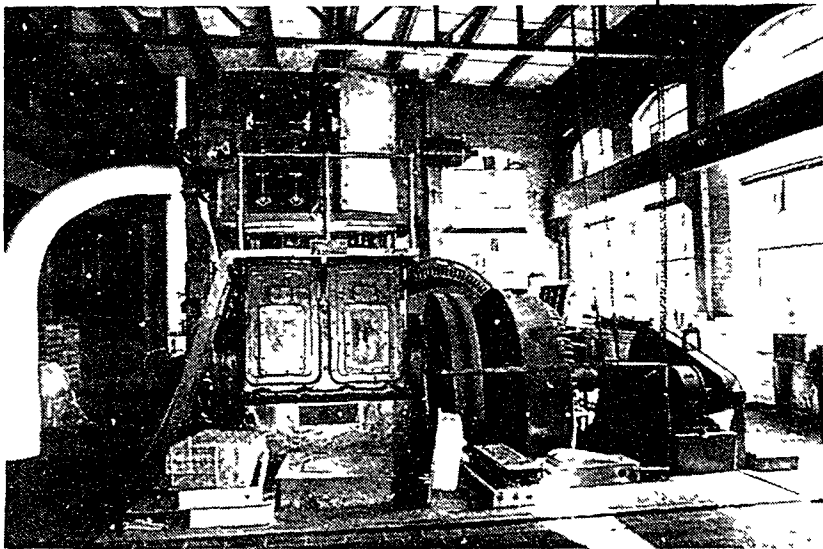

An excited youngster arrived home and proudly proclaimed, "Mom, look what I've got for you! Someone down the street threw them out with their junk."

Hidden treasure

Approval of a lease arrangement for Wayne County Child Development Center is the first step toward making use of a property that has quietly lain idle since 1974, when the aerial photo at top was taken. The cluster of large buildings at the center left of that photo will be renovated and the rest torn down to make way for the senior citizens housing complex. The heating equipment at above right was turned off in 1978, when that photo and the one of the assembly hall above were taken. The assembly building is one of those to be restored due to the useful facilities available (such as gymnasiums and swimming pools) for the senior village. The entire complex depicted here, and slated for use, is merely 101 acres of over 700 that the county used for the development center, originally called the Wayne County Training School.

School election coming

Thanks for the tour

To the Editor:

Voter turnout for single issue elections is often low. It is easy to forget to go to the polls when a number of candidates and/or issues are vying for your attention. An election is your opportunity to express your opinion on issues confronting the citizens of the community.

Saturday, March 21st, was an especially exciting day for a group of children from several communities who are interested in establishing student newspapers in their own schools.

The purpose of the League of Women Voters is to encourage active and informed participation of citizens in government. We urge you to study the issue, make your decision and vote in

Nutrition basics

Fast food or health food — attitude makes the difference

BY MICHELE McELMURRY

If the old adage "you are what you eat" bears any truth, it's no wonder many Americans are obsessed with diets.

For a generation raised on everything from fast food to TV dinners, as well as a host of other delectable delights, a "wholesome diet" and mom's home cooking are taking a back seat to what many would term "convenience eating."

It's a known fact that one of America's favorite pastimes is eating.

However, more and more doctors and dietitians are questioning the nutritional value of many of America's favorite foods.

In the hopes of making consumers more aware of the nutrient contents in the foods they eat, the American Dietetic Association has been sponsoring National Nutrition Month since March 1.

Though one might consider the association's move as an attempt to sway people towards eating bean sprouts, yogurt and dried apricots, the ADA is essentially trying to get basic nutrition facts to the public, according to nutritionist Kathy Crossman.

Crossman, who operates a private practice out of her home on Pickford, is a devout advocate of good nutrition and founder of Creative Diets, a consulting firm for persons interested in nutrition or requiring special diets.

Though many of her patients have specific medical problems such as diabetes or high-blood pressure, which require a modified diet, others are interested in basic nutrition facts and weight control information.

"I'm finding a lot of people are just interested in knowing what types of foods they should be eating," Crossman explained.

In addition to prescribing special diets, she also writes her own menus and recipes and puts out a monthly newsletter — the Creative Diet News.

Crossman, who received her bachelor's degree in dietetics from Michigan State University and her value but also is high in calories, she remarked.

Crossman said her first task when prescribing a weight-loss diet for a patient is to find out that person's food likes and dislikes as well as their current eating habits.

"You have to gear the diet to the person," she explained. "You can't force someone who hates spinach to suddenly start eating it twice a day."

She explained that "eating is an attitude" and that the key to losing weight attitude and behavior traits are associated with the types of foods they eat.

For example, ask yourself this: do you often find that a hot fudge sundae or a handful of chocolate chip cookies boost your spirits when you're depressed or upset?

If so, you're probably no different than a lot of other people experiencing those same feelings.

The study conducted by Baird and Schutz shows that depression, loneliness, immaturity and anxiety are traits which have a negative affect on nutrition and that persons suffering from these traits often have an emotional dependence on foods such as candy, pie and potato chips.

On the other hand, the food attitude and behavior traits of persons who are educated about nutrition, health conscious and generally positive leaned more towards nutritious foods such as cottage cheese, liver and chicken.

Though the study is by no means conclusive, Crossman pointed out that it does present some interesting data.

She also mentioned that where a positive attitude lends itself to a more nutritionally balanced diet, a well-balanced diet most likely will cause behavioral changes as well as improve a person's health status.

In counseling people on changing their eating behavior, Crossman said she follows a few rules of advice.

To begin with, she said persons interested in losing weight should stay away from alcohol, limit dessert in-master's degree in nutrition from Western Reserve University in Cleveland, said much of her work entails interpreting medical information from various doctors and prescribing diets for their patients.

She also works with the Macomb-Oakland Regional Hospital compiling menus and recipes and "educating staff members as to what to look out for" when planning meals.

Crossman explained that for the most part, her work involves educating people about what they "should" be eating.

"One of the biggest problems people have is that they don't eat enough fruits and vegetables," she remarked.

Many people opt to snack on junk food which not only has less nutritional and keeping extra pounds off is to "change your eating behaviors."

"If you don't get rid of those old habits you're never going to stay down," she said.

Crossman also mentioned that an individual's personality and behavioral traits also play a large part in their eating habits.

In a study conducted by Pamela C. Baird and Howard G. Schutz of the University of California Department of Nutrition, some interesting data was compiled on how life styles, attitudes and behavior correlate with a person's dietary intake and nutritional status.

The exploratory study, published in the Journal of The American Dietetic Association, indicates that a person's

In Our Town

Residents are packing up for springtime moving

By JEAN DAY

With spring comes moving vans. Local residents are sorting out household goods while jelling plans to move across town — and across the country.

Mrs. Theodore Kampf's move from her home on Haggerty to one of the four new townhouses being completed by Tony Bauss on Fairbrook was scheduled for this week. A long-time committee member of Northville Town Hall, Iris Kampf was telling friends last Thursday as she served as lecture hostess that the new address will be just 505 Fairbrook.

Florence Turner (right) describes her pottery to Quester members Jewel Luckett, left, and Jackie Ridell. Turner, who is working on her specialist degree at Oakland Community College, demonstrated her work with wet clay to the group last Wednesday at Mill Race Village. The meeting was hosted by the Baseline Questers.

Jerry and Aurelia Powledge of Shadbrook have purchased a new home across the country in California. Located in Stoneridge, a subdivision of Poway, near San Diego, it will take them to warm weather and golfing. They plan to leave this summer.

He is selling his computer business here and plans to either open his own firm again in California or have a branch office.

Aurelia Powledge admits she is going to miss her Detroit Symphony involvement and her piano pupils but plans to become active with the San Diego Symphony. When she moved to Shadbrook six years ago, she became an organizer for local women to attend symphony coffee concerts in Detroit. The Powledges still are Saturday night ticket holders.

Mrs. Powledge mentions they found their home in the west as a result of visiting former residents, the John Allans and Beverly Ballash, all of whom live in Lake San Marcos — located about 20 minutes from Poway.

Questers gather at Mill Race Village

Baseline Questers hosted an annual meeting of area chapters of women interested in antiques last Wednesday at Mill Race Village. President Eileen Sonk welcomed members and guests, including two new Baseline members, Ruth Mary Atchison and Phyllis Slattery. She introduced Florence Turner, a potter who explained and demonstrated her craft. She is presently working on a specialist degree at Oakland Community College.

A friend of Lynn Paquette, Baseline vice president, Ms. Turner demonstrated her work with wet clay as she outlined the different stages required in the development of pottery pieces.

Her fellow Baseline members learned that craft chairman Emily Miller had broken her arm and is remaining at Fort Myers, Florida.

The chapter made plans to lunch at Moross House in Detroit and to visit DuMochelle's antique gallery in April.

Chamber market, garage sale dates set

Annual flea markets sponsored by the Northville Chamber of Commerce during warm weather will be starting at Northville Downs parking lot Saturday, April 11. It will last from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Spaces for exhibitors, Kay Keegan, executive secretary, announces, will be $5 a parking space on a first-come, first-serve basis without reservations.

Date for the annual City Garage Sale will be Saturday, May 16.

Eating right means breaking bad habits

take, eat a lot of fruits and vegetables, cut down on salt intake and avoid skipping meals.

She said most people should only wait three to four hours between eating meals. She explained that after long periods of time a person's blood sugar goes down which causes them to overeat.

She advised that limiting food intake can be achieved by using smaller dishes and preparing smaller portions. Crossman said people should condition themselves to use foods which have fewer calories, such as low calorie salad dressing or thin sliced bread.

She also mentioned that as people get older they don't need as many calories, which explains why most people "can't eat like they used to when they were kids."

As people get older they also tend to be less active and burn off fewer calories. Crossman said exercise is an important part of weight control and mentioned that even simple exercises such as walking can help keep people active.

For persons seriously considering losing weight, "fad" diets are not the route to take, Crossman said.

Not only are many of these diets nutritionally imbalanced but also cause excessive weight reduction in only a short period of time.

"There's medical evidence that massive weight fluctuation is hazardous to your health," Crossman said. "It's not only bad for you, but you gain back all the lost weight when you return to your regular eating habits."

She also said that vitamins do not necessarily take the place of eating a well-balanced meal.

"If you eat well, you don't really need vitamins," she explained. "The only people we really prescribe them to are those who are extremely vitamin deficient."

For persons interested in finding out about a more nutritious diet, Crossman suggested starting with a good diet book. She recommended "Basic Nutrition Facts," a booklet published by the Michigan Department of Public Health as a good reference guide.

Persons interested in obtaining a copy of the booklet should write to the Michigan Department of Public Health in Lansing.

Crossman emphasized that "eating right" does not mean giving up all your favorite foods. Learning to moderate food intake and becoming aware of what foods are high in nutritional content is the key to a well-balanced diet.

As a gourmet cook, Crossman said she constantly is trying out new recipes — which of course are high in nutritional value as well as delicious.

For a well balanced meal, Crossman suggested the following menu — with recipes included: Italian Spinach Casserole, Whole Wheat Honey Cheese Bread and Pineapple Coconut Bars.

Italian Spinach Casserole

1 pound ground beef
1-8 ounce can tomato sauce
1-6 ounce can tomato paste
½ cup chopped onion
1-10 ounce package frozen spinach
1 pint dry cottage cheese
1-8 ounce package partially skim milk mozzarella cheese

1. Cook spinach according to the package directions, but do not use the salt. Drain it after cooking by using a flour sifter with fine mesh and a tablespoon to press the spinach against the mesh. The spinach should be as dry as possible.

2. Brown the meat using vegetable pan spray. When done remove it to drain on paper towels and saute the onion. Mix the tomato sauce and paste together and add it, the meat, and the seasonings to the onions. Stir and simmer for 10-15 minutes.

3. In a separate bowl mix the spinach and the dry cottage cheese. Spoon this mixture around the edge of a 2 quart casserole and put the meat mixture into the center. Layer the mozzarella cheese in strips across the top.

4. Bake in a 375 degree oven for 20-25 minutes until it is heated through and the cheese has melted.

5. Divide into eight servings. The casserole makes eight servings and has 274 calories.

Whole Wheat Honey Cheese Bread

1 ½ cup water
1 cup 1% cottage cheese
½ cup honey
¼ cup margarine
5½ to 6 cups all purpose flour
1 cup whole wheat flour
2 tablespoons sugar
3 teaspoons salt
2 packages active dry yeast
1 egg

1. Mix together water, cottage cheese, honey and margarine. Heat until very warm, 120-130 degrees.

2. Measure flour by lightly spooning it into the measuring cup and leveling off with a flat knife.

3. Combine warm cheese mixture with 2 cups all purpose flour and the rest of the ingredients except the egg.

Mix well and then add the egg. Beat the entire mixture 2 minutes at medium speed.

4. Stir in 3 more cups of all purpose flour either by hand or by using a dough hook. When the dough becomes thick and less sticky, turn out on a well-floured surface. Knead until smooth and elastic.

5. Place in a greased bowl (large enough for the bread to double in size). Cover and place bowl in a warm place and let it rise until doubled. Check after one hour and then every half hour until the doubled size is reached. This bread may rise slower because of the cottage cheese.

6. When doubled, punch dough down, divide in half (a scale helps to be more exact) and roll each piece to 8" x 12" rectangle. Then roll up starting with shorter size. Pinch bottom and ends to seal into form of a loaf. Place in two greased 9" x 5" loaf pans. Cover and let rise until bread is an inch above the pan rim.

7. Bake at 350 degrees for 40-50 minutes until golden brown and hollow when tapped. Remove from pans and cool on wire rack. When thoroughly cool, slice each loaf into 20 slices.

The recipe makes two loaves of bread, 20 slices each. Each slice has 111 calories.

Pineapple Coconut Bars

Filling:
Pineapple, crushed, in unsweetened juice — 1 cup (undrained)

Liquid sweetener — ¼ cup sugar
1 tablespoon flour
1 egg, beaten

Crumb mixture:

¾ cup flour
¼ teaspoon baking powder
1/8 teaspoon salt
Liquid sweetener — ¼ cup sugar
½ cup melted margarine
1 tablespoon maple flavoring

Topping:

1 egg, beaten
Liquid sweetener — ¼ cup sugar
¼ cup melted margarine
¾ cup shredded coconut

Method:

Filling: Combine pineapple, sweetener and flour. Cook until thick. Gradually add 1 tablespoon of this fruit to the beaten egg, stirring egg constantly. Then add egg to fruit mixture, stirring constantly. Cook and stir five minutes longer.

Crumb mixture: Combine ingredients for crumb mixture. Press into 7 x 11 baking pan coated with vegetable pan spray. Pour filling over and spread evenly.

Topping: Mix topping and spread it evenly over fruit layer. Bake at 375 degrees for 25 minutes. Cut into bars by cutting cookie dough once lengthwise and nine times across the short side. Cool. Store in refrigerator before serving.

Party plans underway

For the Northville High School Class of 1981, the theme of the annual all-night party will be "The Untouchables" and plans already are underway for this ever-popular event.

Ann Lindemier recently was named general chairman at an organizational meeting. The all-night party has become a tradition in Northville and is given by parents of graduating seniors following commencement exercises.

This year a $15 donation per family for graduating seniors is being requested to cover party expenses.

The committee asks that checks be made payable to Northville Senior Class Party. Checks should be sent to Mrs. Helen Schneider, 47105 Stratford Court, as soon as possible. Mrs. Schneider is treasurer of this year's committee and can be reached at 349-5352 for further information.

Other committee chairmen include: Lane Norton, breakfast, 349-2467; Cheryl Wayne, buffet, 349-5682; Pat and Don McNamara, check room, 349-6695; Norris Shake, clean up, 348-9841; Carolyn Nieuwkoop, publicity, 349-0933; decorations, Fran Greer, 349-8231 and Jay Ward, 349-3456; security, Charles May, 349-0049 and Dan Swayne, 349-5682; and Kathy McLeod, telephone, 349-3092. The committee is still looking for an entertainment chairman. Interested persons should contact Ann Lindemier at 349-5260.

All parents of graduating seniors are invited and encouraged to participate in the planning and preparation for the all-night party. Parents interested in working on a committee should contact the committee chairman.

A meeting of all committee chairmen will be held at 7:30 tonight at Northville High School.

KEITH ASSENMACHER, LISA MARIE MINEAR

Families welcome Sarah, Scott, Susan

Mr. and Mrs. David Nash of Lake Forest, Illinois, announce the birth of their daughter Sarah Rhodes February 24.

She weighed seven pounds, 14 ounces. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Nash of Northville. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wavasek of Burlington, Wisconsin.

Scott Andrew Orphan was born March 1 in Naples, Florida, to Dale and Lynne Orphan of that city.

Paternal grandparents are former Northville residents Andrew and Faith Orphan who now divide their time between Fort Myers, Florida, and North Branch, Michigan. Maternal grandfather is Charles Swineford of Phoenix, Arizona.

The baby also has four great-grandmothers and two great-grandfathers, Ella Liebetreu of Northville, Emma Reeves of Kentwood, Michigan, Wilbur and Marie Swineford of New Concord, Ohio, and Charles and Vera Townsend of Estero, Florida.

The new arrival's uncle and aunt, David and Georgia Orphan, of Vienna, Virginia, were visiting in Fort Myers at the time of his birth and were able to welcome Scott.

His paternal grandfather retired from Michigan Bell December 19, 1981, with 41 years of service. After a retirement party at the Mayflower Meeting House, the senior Orphans left for Fort Myers, arriving in time for Christmas after a stop in Virginia.

He reports he has been enjoying golf, walking the beach and swimming in the pool, and whirlpool, ever since.

Former Northville residents David and Catherine Pevovar of Port Orchard, Washington, announce the birth of their daughter Susan Catherine March 12.

She weighed six pounds, 14½ ounces. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Steven Molner of Southgate. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pevovar of Wyandotte.

Marie Thurlby of Wyandotte is paternal great-grandmother. The couple's daughter Dana, 6, is waiting at home.

David Pevovar is a former Northville High School math teacher. The couple moved from Northville in August 1979.

Schoolcraft schedules gourmet dinner-dance

A dinner-dance to benefit the Michael Bulger Scholarship Fund has been set for April 10 by the Gourmet Club at Schoolcraft College.

The event will be staged in the Waterman Center on campus with a champagne reception at 6 p.m. and a gourmet roast beef dinner at 7. Tickets are $15 and reservations may be made by calling 591-6400, extension 592.

According to the Chef Robert Breithaupt, Michael Bulger was active in the Gourmet Club as a culinary arts student when he died his first year in the program in 1977. A scholarship in his name was established by his parents Mr. and Mrs. Frances Bulger, former Detroit residents now living in Sun City West, Arizona.

During the past three years, these scholarship funds have been awarded specifically to Schoolcraft culinary arts students needing financial assistance. The funds are replenished by an annual event such as the April 10 dinner-dance.

Music for the evening will be provided by the Wayne State University Jazz Band and a cash bar will be available.

Symphony league meet set

The Plymouth Symphony League will hold an All League Meeting from 7:30-9:30 p.m. April 1 at West Middle School cafeteria.

Members of the Nightingale and Vivace groups will provide refreshments and special entertainment will be provided by the Symphony String Quartet.

The quartet will present its "Excursions in Music" program which they regularly perform for Plymouth-Canton school children.

Apply now

Christian Community Preschool at 41355 Six Mile currently is taking applications for fall enrollment.

Persons interested in scheduling a visit or requesting more information should call 348-9030.

Past Master Herman Wedemeyer congratulates John Long

Masons install John Long

John Long of Plymouth was installed as Worshipful Master of Northville

Lodge No. 186, Free and Accepted Masons, in a brief ceremony March 16 at the Northville Masonic Temple.

The installation which was originally scheduled for December 15, had been postponed when Mr. Long suffered a heart attack shortly before the event.

Approximately 50 friends and guests attended the ceremony which was conducted by Past Master Herman A. Wedemeyer of Northville, who served as proxy for the Most Worshipful Grand Master of the Grand Lodge, Free and Accepted Masons of Michigan.

He was joined by Past Master Martin E. Sommers of Northville, who served as Worshipful Grand Marshal and Past Master Paul Mullen of Detroit, who served as Right Worshipful Grand Secretary.

Retiring Worshipful Master Robert E. Williams of Plymouth served as Right Worshipful Grand Chaplain.

Music for the occasion was furnished by Betty Wedemeyer, Past Matron of Orient Chapter No. 77, Order of the Eastern Star. Refreshments were served in the dining room following the program.

Engagement announced

Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Minear of Livonia announce the engagement of their daughter Lisa Marie to Keith Robert Assenmacher of Northville.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Assenmacher of Traverse City. The bride-elect is a Stevenson High School graduate and currently is attending Madonna College. She is employed at Coiffures Unlimited.

Her fiancé attended Northville High School and is employed by Northville Wood Floors.

A wedding date has been set for May 16.

Fashion show benefit scheduled tomorrow

Tickets now are available from Northville resident Nancy Fischer for the Jacobson's fashion show benefit entitled "A Touch of Spring Fever," to be held March 26 at the Livonia Civic Center.

The show is being sponsored by the Friends for the Development of Greenmead, the fund raising arm of the Livonia Historical Commission.

A gourmet buffet will precede the show in the Civic Center Auditorium.

Guest celebrity models John Kelly, Marilyn

Turner and Jimmy Launce will be modeling the spring fashions along with Jacobson's professionals to the music of the Broadway show "Evita."

Dessert and coffee will be served after the show along with a raffle and door prize drawings which include a get-away week-end at the Traverse City Hilton.

Proceeds from the show will go for the restoration of the Newburgh Methodist Church which is now located at the Historical Village at Greenmead.

Tickets are $25 and are tax deductible. For more information call Nancy Fischer at 420-2853.

Newcomers set road rally

Northville residents are advised to start gathering their maps and filling their gas tanks for the Northville Newcomer Annual Road Rally April 11.

Last year's road rally winners Jim and Diana O'Flynn, George and Chris Schlonsky and Marty and Lynn Zwiesler have planned this year's event for Newcomer couples and alumni.

Starting time for "the great race" will be 7:15 p.m. at Cooke Junior High School.

Cost for the event is $11 per couple and includes dinner and cash prizes for the first, second and third place winners.

Reservations are limited to 50 couples and may be made until April 4 by calling Diana O'Flynn at 349-8527 or Chris Schlonsky at 348-9347.

MD program set tonight

Fred Palarchio of the Detroit office for Muscular Dystrophy will speak to the Northville City Fire Department Auxiliary meeting at 7 p.m. today (Wednesday) in city hall council chambers.

Movies will be shown and there will be a coffee discussion.

Organizations and individuals interested are asked to call Joanne Gears, 348-9696. There is no charge.

The auxiliary also is making plans to sell Easter baskets filled with homemade candy.

Applications accepted

Tomorrow is the last day Our Lady of Victory School will be accepting applications from students in grades 1-8 who are planning to attend the school in the fall.

Registration will be held from 9:30-11:30 a.m. For further information call OLV at 349-3610.

Founders' Day Dinner highlighted tomorrow night

The monthly Northville PTA-PTSA column which appears on the last Wednesday of each month September through June, is compiled by volunteer Jackie Payne. She coordinates material from the publicity persons in each elementary and junior high school.

COORDINATING COUNCIL

We eagerly await tomorrow evening — it's our first annual Founders' Day Dinner to be held in the high school dining room.

All ticket holders will be welcomed by the PTA-PTSA hostesses at 6:30 p.m. in the high school library.

This entire project has been chaired superbly by Sandy McRae. Ticket distribution chairwomen were Judy Kramer and Cindy LaChance.

We thank each and every husband and family member of all our PTA-PTSA members who have patiently endured and supported their wives and mothers during the course of this year.

We thank the central administrative personnel, the building principals and above all the community of Northville for supporting our endeavors.

Thank you Northville and see you tomorrow evening.

MaryAnne Russell
President

AMERMAN

Tomorrow night the first annual PTA Founders' Day Dinner will be held honoring those in the schools and in the community who've been exceptionally supportive of our schools. Amerman has chosen three honorees: Sylvia Gucken, former president of Amerman's PTA, past member and president of the board of education and presently a teacher at Moraine; Cindy LaChance, PTA president for two years and presently Amerman's representative to the Coordinating Council; and Ron VanHorn, an Amerman teacher who served two years as teacher vice-president of the Amerman PTA, is in charge of the safety patrol and is always ready to do the extras that make a school special.

Next week our students will see "Catalog Capers," a program focusing on the library card catalog system. This is an entertaining learning experience presented by students from the Michigan State University Theatre Department. Its appearances in the Northville schools are part of the Junior Entertainment Series.

Last week during parent-teacher conferences, the library was the scene of Amerman's Annual Science Fair. Upper elementary students set-up their science projects so that other students and visiting parents could enjoy their efforts. Projects this year included studies of the working of the human eye, eclipses and transmitters, plus displays of rocks, fibers, dyes and early cultures. Several displays invited participation, so many visitors were busy working the electronic question board and transmitting Morse Code.

The late winter blazes were relieved last week by the PTA, which provided a mid-year gift of learning activities and games for every classroom. Kathy Scrade and her committee did some judicious shopping based on lists submitted by the classroom teachers and the results are being enjoyed by all the students.

"Time Machine" is the theme of the Spring Music Concert to be given April 2 at 7:30 p.m. Students in grades 1-3, fourth graders in a split class and Plus Music will perform under the direction of Ann Jarvi and Sandra Craig. In addition to the vocal music, rhythm and Orff instruments will be played. A piano solo will be played by Branden Jones.

The PTA is sponsoring another Roller Skating Party at the Bonaventure Rink on April 6 for students and their families. Skating will be held from 6:30-8:30 p.m.

An all-school Talent Show is scheduled for April 10. Auditions will be held by the first week of April.

A Carnival will highlight the afternoon of April 16 which is also the last day of school before Easter vacation. Jackie Burkowski, Kathy Elick and Bill Mills are chairing the event. Games of skill and chance, makeup centers, nutritional snack counters and cartoons will appear throughout the school.

A JES program entitled "Catalog Capers" will be held March 30. Students from Michigan State University's Theatre Department present an entertaining approach to the use of the library's card catalog.

With the arrival of spring, Shari Daniels, plant sale chairperson, reminds parents that the PTA will again be selling flats of flowers. Order forms will be sent home.

Congratulations to Evelyn Zeuner, our school secretary, who has been selected as Moraine's Honored Guest for the 1981 Founders' Day Awards Dinner.

Last week's Science Fair was a big success as 4th-6th graders displayed projects dealing with categories of life science, earth and space, physical science and math computation. First place winners were Bill Schulz, Mike Nuechterlein and Robert Jameson. Second place winners were Dan Clark, Charles Kepner, Pat Beemer and Paul Yoon. Third place went to Carol Nelson, Diana Eusebi, Scott Stephens, Greg Poulos, and Mark Stephens.

Students in Karen Turner's 1st-4th grade physical education classes were recently given a non-competitive physical fitness test sponsored by the Amateur Athletic Union and Nabisco, Inc. Every child that participated in the program will receive a Certificate of Participation and an iron-on patch. A Certificate of Attainment will go to 59 percent of the 208 students that scored at or above the fitness standard in all five tests. High achievers who scored 150 points or more will receive an Outstanding Achievement Certificate. They are Todd Daniels, 200 points, Jay Griffith, 183 points, Mark Stephens, 164, Jim Storm, 163, Scott Donnelly, 160, Ricky Abramovich, 157, Christine Samull, 156 and Kristie Everman, 155.

Parents assisted their children in making kites at a "Kite Night" held Tuesday. A kite flying contest will be held when weather permits.

The McFerrans Studio of Garden City in conjunction with the PTA took colored family group portraits at Moraine last week. Finished portraits will be returned to the school for Mother's Day delivery.

Pat Keeler's fifth grade won the Campbell label contest by collecting 2,700 labels. The total collected was 20,000 which will be redeemed for electronic educational games.

The next monthly PTA meeting will be held April 6 at 10:30 a.m. with a luncheon following the meeting. All members are welcome. Call Karen Poulos at 348-2474 for details.

WINCHESTER

The Northville Founders' Day Dinner will be tomorrow at 6:30 p.m. It is being held in the High School cafeteria and it is hoped that this will be the first of a tradition of Founders' Day dinners. There will be musical entertainment before and during the meal by various talented students. Two persons have been chosen as honorees from Winchester — Marge Riker and Milton Jacobi. The speaker for the evening will be Melvin Laughlin.

During the lunch period this week and next, Ms. Kathy Leo, a poet, will be working with our students in the 3-6 grades to help them develop skills in writing and appreciate poetry. This is a wonderful opportunity for those who are interested and we hope many students will participate.

The Winchester fifth and sixth graders enjoyed a real cultural experience March 3 and 4 by going to hear the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. Many thanks to Mary Pryce for making special arrangements for our students to hear this very impressive performance.

A speaker from Triple A spoke to sixth graders during a Safety Workshop. A film was presented to help inform the school safety patrols on how to relate to the younger students when arriving and leaving the school, walking close the curb and obeying safety rules and regulations. In keeping with the safety program, we want to mention our new STOP sign on Sunnyside. Hopefully this will be an added safety precaution for our children.

The sixth grade musical program was wonderfully entertaining and fun for everyone. Costumes were used to enhance the theme of the evening — which was medieval. As we have come to expect, the musical talent displayed by Ms. Pryce's students was delightful.

COOKE

Tomorrow night the first annual Founders' Day Dinner will be held. Many members of our community who have actively supported our schools will be honored at the dinner. Activities will begin at 6:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

The Blue Pigs, the Detroit Police Public Relations band, entertained our students March 13. The band members, playing in Northville for the first time, were very pleased with the enthusiastic reception given to them by Cooke students. This was a PTA sponsored event with a donation given to the Police Athletic League in exchange for the entertainment.

On March 17, St. Patrick's Day, the Cooke Band Boosters sponsored an after school dance. Everyone attending had a great time.

Show to feature Indian art

The Southwest Indians are coming to Detroit — at a show of modern Indian art that will be a benefit for Indian college students. The show is the inspiration and result of hours of effort by Marion Sober, a long-time Northville resident and a recognized artist herself.

The show will be held at the Dalglish Cadillac showroom, 6160 Cass Avenue in Detroit, during showroom hours from April 5-11.

There is to be an opening reception from noon to 6 p.m. Sunday, April 5, with admission by ticket, which is $10 for adults with children free. Punch and cakes will be served.

Admission after the opening is free with no ticket needed.

The art visitors will see represents the work of prize-winning, world famous Southwest Indian artists which is in private collections and museums.

Mrs. Sober has written western sources and assembled 53 colorful, exciting posters and prints. Subjects are horseback riders, hunting scenes, portraits of Indian chiefs, cowboys and graceful Indian women.

Prices, Mrs. Sober states, start at $15 and range upward to $50.

She also plans to have the bright patchwork of the Seminole Indians and one-of-a-kind pieces of modern Indian jewelry.

For the serious print collector, she says, there will be a number of rare and valuable signed lithographs.

The show officially is sponsored by the American Indian Services whom Mrs. Sober contacted when she decided to aid the Indian student program. She doesn't want the focus to be on her part in the unusual show, but it would not be happening without her interest.

She recalls that she originated the concept as she lay ill last year in the hospital. "I vowed if I got out," she says, "that I would make it happen."

She has — by contacting the Indian Services, lining up seven Southwest Indian artists' works and by walking into the automobile showroom and convincing the owner to offer it for the event. The showroom is located two blocks from the Wayne State University campus.

Another artistic Northville resident, Carol Jean Stockhausen, has assisted by creating silk screen posters for the show.

Works include eerie cowboys and shadowy chiefs in brilliant abstract shapes painted by Veloy Vigel, a half-Spanish, half Pueblo Indian. He had been a rodeo rider, a Marine and commercial artist before becoming a full-time artist.

Marion Sober, Carol Jean Stockhausen with silk screen poster for show

Earl Biss, a Crow Indian, relives hunting scenes in clear, lyrical colors.

Clifford Beck, a Navajo, paints his people, Mrs. Sober observes, with sensitivity and understanding showing in his portraits.

Another realistic painter, Jon Lightfoot, a Cherokee, weaves pattern through his Indian figures in soft, clay colors.

Probably the most famous of the artists, says Mrs. Sober, is R. C. Groman, a Navajo, who has exhibited in Europe and this country.

"His langorous Indian women are drenched in rich colors, making you think of Picasso and Chinese art with their economy of line to define a shape," reports Mrs. Sober.

The dean of these painters, she says, is Fritz Scholder who is preoccupied with cowboy and Indian figures, painting them in startling colors and sometimes with tragic overtones.

"One of the artists is a maverick, an Indian pop artist, and when you see his 'Mrs. Fritz,' you will say, 'shocking' but you will look again because he is an accomplished painter," Mrs. Sober continues as she enthusiastically talks about "her Indians."

The Seminoles in Florida are sending patchwork in brilliant colors and abstract designs. Through not usually called art, their potholders make miniature wall hangings of great style, says Mrs. Sober, and at $5 are attractively priced for young collectors.

The Ojibway Indian silversmith Mark Silver is bringing a selection of exceptional jewelry, including rings, pins and necklaces. He has exhibited in the Royal Ontario Museum in Toronto, Metropolitan in New York and was asked to join the Smithsonian traveling exhibit which visited 90 nations.

At the opening reception April 5, Mrs. Sober announces, Chippewa Indian children will dance to the beat of four drummers. Tickets will be available at the Dalglish showroom for the reception. Mrs. Sober may be contacted at 420-2985.

HELP FOR HOME BUYERS will be the topic at a home buyers seminar and financing workshop sponsored by Rymal Symes Realtors next Tuesday (March 31) at 7:30 p.m.

The seminar will be held in the Novi Public Library on Ten Mile, east of Taft Road.

Included among the panel of distinguished experts on the program will be representatives from Detroit Federal Savings, First Federal Savings of Detroit, an attorney and an accountant.

The panel will be prepared to answer questions and explain the many new methods and techniques of home financing that are available today.

Additionally, topics will include tax facts about buying or selling and the legal aspects of home ownership, land contracts, wrap-around mortgages and more.

The seminar and workshop are free to the public and seating is limited. To secure a reservation, call 478-9130.

STAR PAK SOLAR SYSTEMS, the largest and one of the oldest solar companies in Michigan, announced record sales for the past six months. It is on the way to selling and installing $1 million worth of solar equipment this year.

Sales in excess of $100,000 for February capped an extensive pre-price increase sales effort, according to President Reynold Hendrickson.

"One of the key factors in our success has been our ability to adjust rapidly to constantly changing business conditions," Hendrickson said. "We paid our dues early in this business. We stand behind our installations and our products."

Since its beginning six years ago, Star Pak has sold and installed over 700 active solar systems and has aided in, or designed, construction of some dozen solar homes.

Star Pak is distributor in Michigan and Ohio for FAFCO solar hear exchangers for swimming pools and domestic water heating — the largest selling solar collector in the world. Star Pak also distributes a light-wight copper and aluminum AET solar panel for domestic water heating.

BRUCE ABBOTT of Novi has been appointed to the Honor Council of the AC-Deleco Division of General Motors Corporation for outstanding performance for the year of 1980.

Abbott and his wife, Phyllis, will leave for Scottsdale, Arizona in April where he will be recognized as the top district sales manager from the Detroit sales region.

Active in the Northville-Novl Colts Little League football program as well as coaching baseball and basketball in the Novi Parks & Recreation program, Abbott served as president of the Village Oaks PTA in 1975 and 1976, served on the Novi Community Education Council, and is very active at the Northville United Methodist Church.

The Abbotts, with their daughter Kelli and son Brad, are seven year residents of Novi.

DONALD GREVENGOOD, president of Security Bank of Novi, has announced that the new Beck Road office is now open for business. The new office is located at 30880 Beck Road near Pontiac Trail.

It is Security Bank of Novi's third office. The manager is Art George.

Lobby hours are 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 9:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Friday and 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday.

Drive-in service is available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Friday and 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday.

A grand opening celebration is being planned for later this spring. A fourth office of Security Bank of Novi is scheduled to open this fall at the corner of Ten Mile and Taft Road.

MORTGAGE lenders in the Detroit area remain pessimistic regarding an early decline in home loan interest rates, according to the Western Wayne Oakland Board of Realtors (WWOCBR).

Commenting on a February survey by the U.S. League of Savings Associations, WWOCBR said that nationally 88 percent of respondents expected the rates to be above 13 percent at mid-year. A high percentage felt they would remain about 14 percent and virtually none saw them below 12 percent.

Covering 1,113 lenders, the survey also found 71 percent expecting mortgage interest rates to stay above 12 percent through 1982.

RICHARD EVERHART of Novi has been promoted to the position of vice-president of finance at Walker Wire & Steel Company in Ferndale. Everhart, 36, has been Walker's controller since joining the company in 1978. The announcement was made by Walker President J. Douglas King.

Walker Wire and its Royal Wire division of Warren is one of the midwest's largest producers of steel wire and cold drawn bars, as well as the largest in Michigan. The company serves wide-ranging industries including automotive, appliance and construction.

Everhart earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in accounting in 1966 and his MBA degree from Michigan State University in 1968. He was granted a Michigan C.P.A. certificate in 1972. He resides with his wife Judy and two children in Novi.

Injury shatters Paula Broderick's dreams

The season ended on a sad note for Northville High School gymnast Paula Broderick Saturday.

The lone Mustang to qualify for the state gymnastics finals at Troy High School, Broderick injured her right hand during the first few seconds of her routine on the uneven parallel bars.

The talented junior still managed to post a score of 8.1, but had scored nearly .3 points higher consistently the latter part of the season and Northville coach Jack Townsley felt she had a good chance to finish higher in the finals.

"The injury really hurt her performance," he said. "There were a lot of excellent gymnasts there, but if not for the injury, who knows where she might have finished."

Broderick amassed 32.05 points at the regional meet at Ann Arbor Huron this year, scoring an 8.15 in vaulting and 8.0 in floor exercise competition.

A standout performer for the Mustangs as a sophomore and junior, Broderick missed qualifying for the state finals in the all-around this year by only .05 points.

She finished 11th in the state in the floor exercise with a score of 8.6 and finished 18th on the balance beam with a score of 7.7.

Townsley said he is looking forward to next season.

"We will be losing only two performers to graduation," he said. "We will have basically the same team plus I have heard there are a few sophomores with experience who plan to come out."

JV soccer at NHS?

By KEN KOVACS

Approximately 125 concerned parents of soccer players at Northville High School got a firm "maybe" from the board of education Monday night in answer to their request for the continuation of junior varsity soccer programs.

Though there are no official JV girls or boys teams, Ron Meteyer, who coaches both varsity squads, retained 28 and 24 players, respectively, on his squads the past two years.

These players compete against other schools who have junior squads or with rival reserve varsity players.

But this will be the last year that he will be able to do that Meteyer said Monday.

"We have had some 40 kids out for each varsity team," he said. "I just can't keep all the talented players I would like to. I can't give them the attention they deserve and still do a good job with the varsity squads."

In a presentation to the board at Cooke Junior High School, parents' spokesman John M. Leinonen emphasized the low cost of soccer, as compared to other sports.

"All we are asking for is the transfer of approximately $1,500 to the soccer program," he stated. "We do not want to add anything new, just make official and continue what coach Meteyer has done informally for the past two years."

"It would only cost about $23 for a referee per game, which would amount to $230 for the 10 home games," he estimated. "A coach's salary would be only about $1,300."

Several high school players and a few other parents echoed Leinonen's statements and emphasized the great number of soccer players in the area.

"The interest in soccer is tremendous," said Travis Nixon, a girls recreation soccer coach. "There are five complete teams in Northville made up of girls only. There will be about 50 girls per year coming into the high school soccer program."

"And we have found that in one year of junior varsity coaching and intense competition has made more of a positive change than three or four years in recreation soccer," Nixon added. "The level of competition is completely different."

Board members said they also would like to see the programs continue, but pointed out the current financial problems and said the request would be looked at "in context with all extracurricular activities."

"If we don't get the millage renewal we won't get anything," said Trustee Karen Wilkinson. "That amounts to $2.7 million, which is one third of our budget."

Superintendent of Schools Larry Nichols supported Wilkinson's statements.

"This board has been very supportive of soccer in the past," Nichols said. "But the administration has a responsibility to present a totally balanced budget. If we can fund this and other things we will."

Nichols told the board he would have a full report on the subject to present at the next board meeting Monday, April 27 at Silver Springs Elementary School.

Kim Maguire named to first team

Senior spikers lead All-Area Sliger squad

By KEN KOVACS

Though it doesn't measure up to girls tennis or basketball as yet, girls volleyball is beginning to make a name for itself in high school athletics.

And the increasing number of talented area players was evident on the 1981 Sliger Home Newspaper All-Area team, selected by Sliger sports editors last week.

Sports editors from the Milford Times, Northville Record, South Lyon Herald and Novi-Walled Lake News found such an abundance of talent on area teams that they agreed to an All-Area third team this year, along with the first, second and honorable mention picks.

Milford Lakeland's one-two punch, twin sisters LISA and LINDA CLINARD, leads the list of first team selections. Both were named to the Inter-Lakes Conference first team and led the Eagles to a 15-8 overall mark.

Linda was named Lakeland MVP as a setter and middle blocker. She handled 91 percent of her attempted sets, was accurate on 81 percent of her 155 serves and 77 percent of her 230 spiking attempts.

Lisa was Lakeland's top spiker, scoring 44 points on hits. She also scored 20 serving aces and 89 percent of her 190 serves were playable. The senior spiker also was a strong defensive player, as evidenced by her 95 percent receiving stats. Lisa was accurate on 84 percent of her spiking attempts.

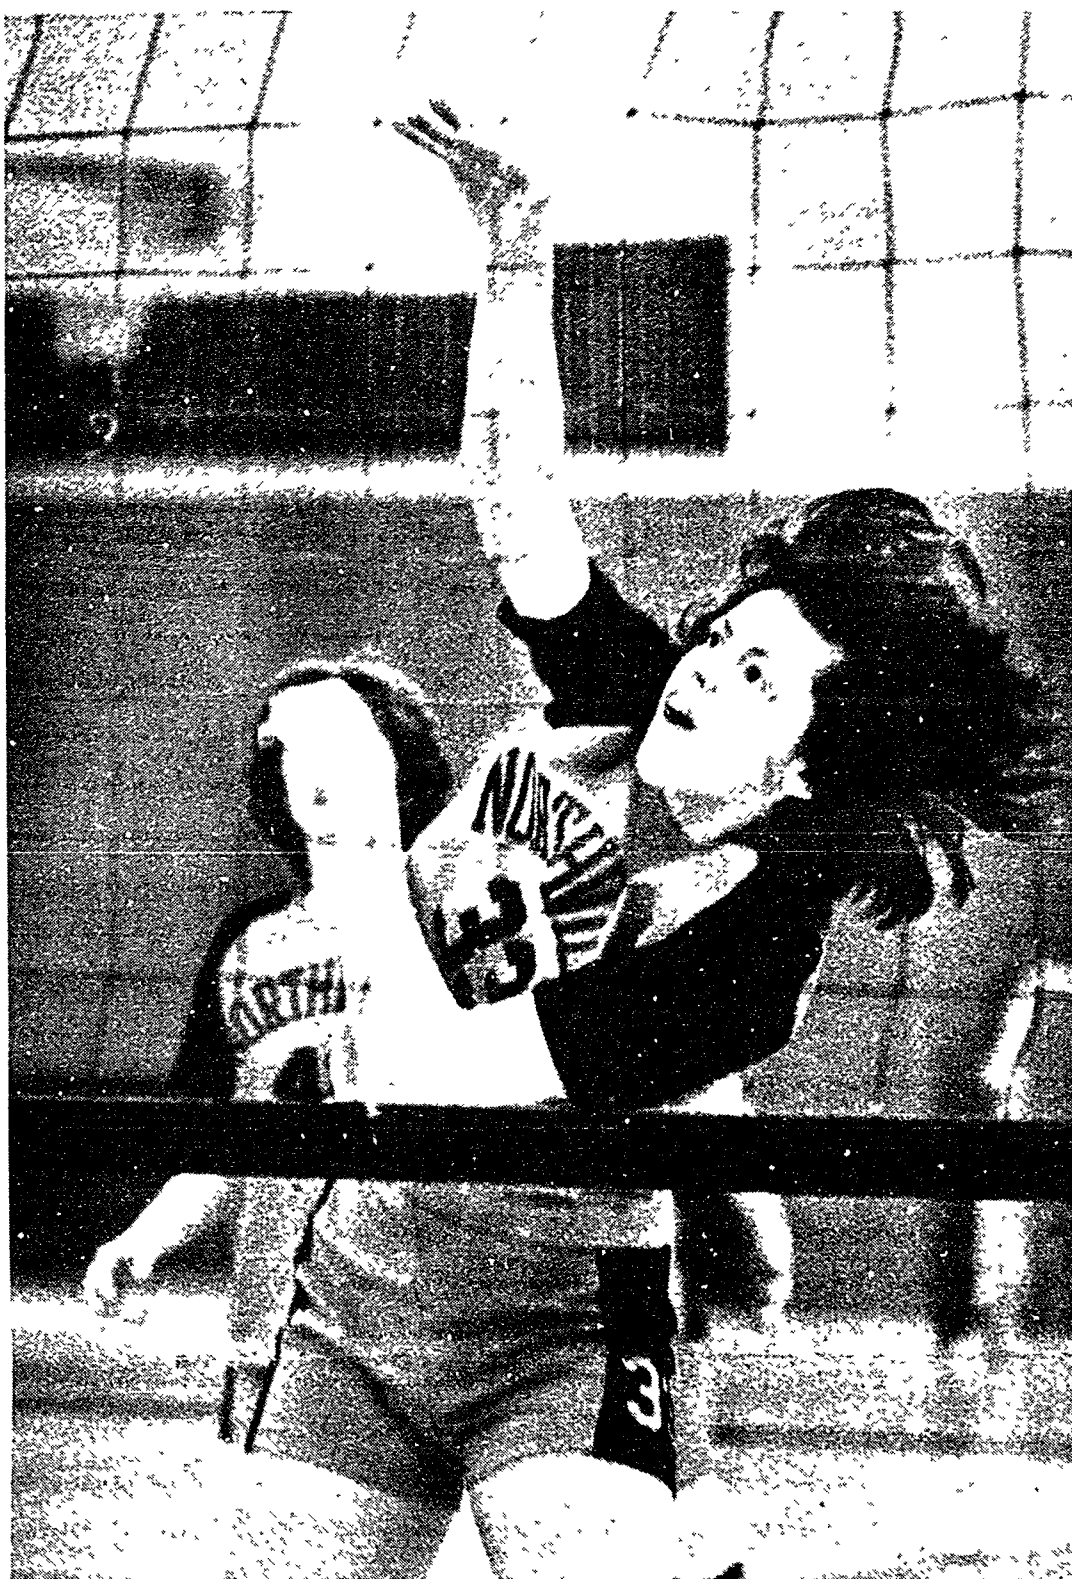

Whitmore Lake's DENISE DREFFS also was among the top first team selections. The 5-foot-8 senior spiker scored 19 kills, 125 points on serves and was accurate on 94.5 percent of her total serving attempts. She also handled 83.2 percent of her spiking tries. The talented Dreffs was named to the first team All-Tri-County Conference as a junior and senior.

The backbone of the squad, according to Walled Lake Central coach Cathy Hirsch, WENDY KEELTY led the Viking spikers in nearly every category. The senior spiker served for 99 points, was 95 percent accurate in her serving (missed only 10 all year), handled 82 percent of the balls that came her way and 78 percent of her spiking attempts were good. Keelty was named to the All-Inter-Lakes first team for her efforts.

BRIGITTE NISSEN led the Walled Lake Western Warriors to a tie for first place in the Western Six Conference. The talented senior, who specialized in setting, handled 91 percent of the balls that came her way. But she also excelled in other areas, serving accurately 85 percent of her attempts and hitting for 80 percent — including 14 kills. Nissen was named to the Western Six first team for her efforts.

KIM MAGUIRE was to Northville what Brigitte Nissen was to Walled Lake.

Leslie Nadeau to play basketball at Auburn

She was touted as the top Class 'B' girls high school basketball player in Michigan and the fourth best college prospect in the state — Class 'A' girls players included.

Leslie Nadeau (right), top Class 'B' cager

But no Michigan colleges or universities will ever get the opportunity to have Northville resident Leslie Nadeau play for their cage team.

Nadeau, of 21217 Summerside, recently accepted a full athletic scholarship to Auburn University in Alabama.

A student at Livonia Ladywood, the talented team captain averaged 19 points, 14 rebounds and three steals per game and led her squad to the finals in the girls Class 'B' state championship. (They lost 44-35 to Flint Beecher).

At 5-foot-10, the aggressive cager was rated by one high school scouting service as one of the top 15 girls players in the nation.

Scouting reports emphasized her good speed and "ultimate aggression" in going to the hoop and added that she "really hustles on defense."

A 50-percent shooter from the field, she was the mainstay of a powerful Ladywood squad for two years.

Nadeau's other basketball honors this year include a spot on the Detroit Free Press Class 'B' All-State girls basketball first team; membership in the Stayfree Wade Trophy Medals Club — a national award honoring the best women's high school basketball players — and an invitation to try out for the United States Women's Basketball team, which will compete in the 1984 Olympics.

A versatile athlete, Nadeau also runs track for Ladywood. Last season she set a school record in the 220-yard hurdles (31.0) and was a member the mile relay team which set another school mark (4:07.2).

The 17-year-old student also is a talented painter, who has won several scholastic art awards and had her work displayed at national high school art exhibitions.

Celtics down doctors

Scott Bush scored 32 points for the Celtics as they held off the Doctors, 40-35, in the season finale Saturday. It was the Doctors' only loss of the year in seventh, eighth and ninth grade Northville recreation junior basketball. In other divisions, the chargers were unbeaten (10-0) in the third and fourth grade competition, while Lynx also finished with a 10-0 mark to take the fifth and sixth grade title. Final results and standings are as follows:

Name All-W-6 spikers

Tri-champions Livonia Churchill, Plymouth Canton and Walled Lake Western (with 7-2 league marks) dominate Western Six Conference All-League volleyball selections this year. But Northville, which finished at 4-6 in the league, just behind the trio, did manage to place Kim Maguire on the first team and Tammy Chew on the second. Two other Mustangs, Diane Hrubik and Melinda House, received an honorable mention. Maguire, the Mustangs' most valuable player and co-captain, led Northville on the front line as well as in the backcourt. The 5-foot-8 senior spiker, a starter as a junior and a senior, was Northville's best all-around player, according to coach Steve McDonald. "When she gets a spiking opportunity she will get it in," he said. "She could play college volleyball if she wanted to." Chew, also a senior, was a hard-nosed competitor who covered all areas of the court for the Mustangs. She never hesitated to dive for a ball and, according to McDonald, was a "very supportive player." Other members of the Western Six first team include Marianne Pink and Debbie Dickinson of Canton, Diane Rencsok of Churchill, Brigitte Nissen of Western and Cindy Pink of Farmington Harrison. Accompanying Chew on the second team are Sue Hoeft and Cathy Fergin of Western, Cindy Colaungelo and Beth Wesman of Churchill and Mary Reardon of Canton. Receiving an honorable mention from the coaches were Julie Tillman, Kris Mellema and Tracy Grubb of Western; Carolyn Barr and Polly Roberts of Canton; Jill Bernardi, Lori Huffman and Dawn Lemieux of Churchill and Sharon Agar, Ann Corbett and Terry Mahinske of Harrison. (Note: No Waterford Mott players were named to the All-League squad due to lack of representation at the coaches' All-League meeting March 16.)

New mark for Cahill

Ferris State swimmer Tim Cahill last weekend added another school record to his list of accomplishments this season.

The former Northville High standout bettered his own record in the 200-yard breast stroke at the NCAA Division II National Swimming and Diving Championships at Youngstown State University in Ohio.

Cahill clocked in at 2:13.07 Saturday, breaking the school mark of 2:13.48, which he set earlier in the year. The former record was his qualifying time for the national championships.

The sophomore Bulldog tanker finished 13th, missing All-American honors by two places.

The Bulldog team finished 28th overall.

Earlier in the year, Cahill also tied the school record in the 100-yard breast stroke in the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference meet with a time of 1:01.5 and was a member of the 400-yard medley relay team which set a school record of 3:39.52.

Dental Dialogue

of A. Allen Tuchklaper, D.D.S.
NO LAUGHING MATTER

Q. Is it true that a dentist discovered anesthesia?

A. Yes. Part of the credit for the discovery of anesthesia has been given to Dr. Horace Wells, a Hartford Conn. dentist who used nitrous oxide (sometimes known as laughing gas) to remove a tooth painlessly from a patient in 1844. Today most modern dental offices use it routinely as a safe effective way of reducing a patients discomfort and anxiety. While you may frown at your dental visit, nitrous oxide will help put a smile on your face.

This column is presented in the interest of better dental health. From the office of A. Allen Tuchklaper, D.D.S.

BEFORE YOU OPEN AN INTEREST-EARNING CHECKING ACCOUNT... COUNT TO TEN.

If you think all interest-earning checking accounts are the same, you haven't been reading the fine print. Just one example: Major financial institutions in this area require minimum balances ranging from $500 to $2000 for such an account, in order to avoid monthly service charges. First Federal Savings of Detroit requires only $300.

So if you're about to open an interest-earning checking account, count the advantages you get at First Federal. You may get some of them elsewhere. But only at First Federal do you get all ten. Count 'em.

1. Your First Federal interest-earning checking account earns 5 1/4% annual interest
2. First Federal compounds this interest continuously and pays it monthly providing an effective annual yield of 5.467%
3. There is no monthly service charge as long as you maintain a minimum balance of just $300
4. First Federal offers overdraft protection (You must apply for this benefit separately)
5. First Federal gives you your first 50 personalized checks free. No strings attached
6. First Federal returns your cancelled checks with each monthly statement Free
7. First Federal has over 60 offices conveniently located near where you live, work or shop. You can transact your First Federal business at any one of them

8. First Federal provides fifteen 24-hour Night Owl Windows (automatic teller machines)
9. First Federal's Prestige Emergency Cash Feature entitles you to nationwide, out-of-town emergency cash withdrawals from your interest-earning checking account

10. If you're at least 62 years old and sign up for direct deposit of your Social Security or other retirement benefit, you can have an interest-earning checking account at First Federal free of monthly service charges and with no minimum balance requirement

Ten advantages that explain why thousands upon thousands have already opened their interest-earning checking accounts at First Federal. Just drop in at any First Federal office, and one of our friendly staff will help you open your account almost before you can count to ten. You'll find it a very interesting experience and one more reason to make First Federal your Center for Family Financial Matters.
