TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

9.5 mill vote set Saturday

By MICHELE McELMURRY

With only three days remaining before electors head to the polls to cast their votes in special school millage election, Northville school officials are giving one last plug for what they consider "an essential 9.5 millage renewal."

Since the board of education unanimously approved a resolution February 9 to hold the special millage renewal election on Saturday, administrators have been stomping for voter approval at meetings ranging from the PTA to the League of Women Voters.

And the message reiterated each time has been that without approval of the 9.5 mills, the school district will face drastic cutbacks in programs and staff.

In light of harsh economic conditions, the recent increase in equalized property assessments and the feeling among many residents that "these are not normal times," administrative concerns over a possible millage defeat are becoming more evident.

However, School Superintendent Lawrence Nichols said he remains optimistic about the millage renewal and Northville Board of Education Trustee Karen Wilkinson added that resident's reactions to the proposal are "leaning more towards the positive side."

Nichols noted earlier that over the past 10 years, the community has supported all school millage renewals but said the recent uprising over increased property assessments is causing some concerns for school administrators facing the upcoming special millage election.

Nichols said as early as two months ago that "if the mills aren't renewed, there will be cataclysmic program reductions."

These "cataclysmic" cuts will mean 30 percent across the board reductions in school programs and layoffs of 30 percent of the staff, according to Nichols.

The mills up for renewal are the result of three separate issues — 3.9 mills passed in 1976, 2.6 mills passed in 1978 and 3 mills passed in 1979.

The 9.5 mills represent 36 percent of the district's voted additional millage and 28.6 percent of the total collectible operational millage.

Translated into dollars, the 9.5 mills represent approximately $2.5 million of the estimated $8.4 million in local tax revenue.

The contention of the board of education and Nichols is that in order for the district to maintain current programs, the millage rate must remain at its present 26.5 mill level.

The board is asking that the 9.5 mills be renewed for a period of five years, which would mean that the total authorized extra voted millage (26.5) would come due in 1985.

At the board of education's regular meeting February 9, board members approved Nichols' recommendation to hold a special election April 4 for the following reasons:

— without an election at this date the board will have to develop two separate budgets.

— in addition, the district will have to develop two complete schedules and staff allocations at all levels.

— the district would need to formally notify, sometime in April, approximately 30 percent of the staff that they will be laid off at the conclusion of this school year.

— success at an April election will permit the district to plan programs within its means and conclude the current school year in an orderly fashion.

However, drawbacks to holding the election this Saturday include a cost of approximately $4,000 and the high degree of concern among homeowners about the residential equalized assessments.

With virtually no attendance at board of education meetings, the administration has had a difficult time gauging public reaction to the millage renewal.

The largest audience in attendance at a board of education meeting this year was last week when approximately 125 persons crowded into the Cooke Junior High cafeteria to voice their concerns about the High School's junior varsity soccer program.

However, after the soccer presentation only a handful of people remained in the audience.

Yet, administrators are getting some local feedback by speaking to community clubs and organizations.

Nichols said one of the most difficult problems he is faced with is explaining to taxpayers that the school district revenues are not increasing in like way with rising property assessments.

The Northville school district is composed of all or parts of six separate units of local governments — City of Northville, Northville Township, City of

Chuck Dunn with long-time customer George Houtz

35 years shear work ends for barber soon

EDITOR'S NOTE: Retirement may have come a few days earlier than expected for Charles Dunn who was hospitalized at St. Mary Saturday. He had closed shop early because he was experiencing some pain and is undergoing tests now.

By JEAN DAY

Sometime late in the afternoon a week from Saturday, Charles Dunn is going to ring up his last $4.50 haircutting fee and close up for good the shop at 110 West Main that has been a 35-year institution.

Customers for the last several days have been aware of the "countdown" at Chuck's Barber Shop where lettering on the mirror today proclaims "nine more working days until R-day, April 11."

As they lean back in the sole remaining vintage porcelain and fancy cast iron barber chair and look upward to the high, metal painted ceiling, customers learn that Chuck Dunn's just waiting for the time when he can spend the rest of the year fishing and hunting near Clare where the Duns have their cabin.

Why is he putting away his clippers and scissors on April 11? That's easy. His 65th birthday will be April 12, and Chuck's retiring.

The rows of 26 antlers and the elk head on the walls will be gone, as will the wooden rocking chair and chrome chairs where customers have waited their turn and swapped tales of fishing and hunting.

"That rocking chair was old when I came in 1946," the barber observes.

Dunn had been released from service in 1945 and came to work at the second chair in the shop the next year. A Howell resident then, he had served in the U.S. Army in World War II. He had had to return to school and become re-licensed.

Nineteen years ago he bought the business from the widow of owner Max Dillenbeck.

For a brief time after he started at the shop, Dunn remembers, hair cuts were a quarter and a shave was 15 cents. The price very shortly rose to 50 cents for a haircut, however.

Today, Dunn is aware, his $4.50 haircut is "cheaper than most." On a large razor hung by the mirror is a sign proclaiming "no shaving."

In earlier times, however, Dunn recalls, "We used to do shaves, shampoos and even massaging. All the barbers have quit shaves — today the big thing is hair styling."

"It used to be," he continues, "that they got haircuts every two weeks — now, it's once a month for most."

Dunn used to have women customers in years' past. But Dunn still has many faithful customers for his "regular style" cuts.

"Tom Campbell has been coming for 35 years," he says, adding that Campbell says he's going to be his last customer.

There are five-generation families like George Stanford's. His father had been a customer and later his boys were — "right down the line." Dunn also cites the Baggett family as supplying four generations of customers.

"Ohmygosh, no," he says, "I never really had any problems. I tried to tame down (some first-haircut youngsters) as they came to be propped on the board." The leatherette padded board still is ready in the shop to stretch across the chair arms and raise a young customer to proper height.

Dunn's record is perfect. There has been no trouble and no break-ins at the shop he has rented for many years from the Harold Bloom Agency next door. He recalls that the building was built and owned by Ray Richardson and was bought by Bloom just before Richardson's death in the early sixties.

In earlier days, Dunn had "a couple of young fellows in adjacent chairs" but has operated alone for the past 15 years, keeping the shop open Tuesday through Saturday from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. — or until the last customer waiting is finished.

"I've had enough to keep going," Chuck Dunn says of his barbering business, noting that the weather makes a big difference.

"They just don't come in on rainy days," he says.

On a bleak day like last Thursday Dunn was looking ahead to his first summer vacation in 17 years. It had only been during the first fall days of deer-hunting season that he propped the deer head in the chair, draped it with a barber cloth and "went hunting."

"I'm going to miss it," he acknowledges, "but I'm going to have a lot of fun."

He mentions that his wife, whom he calls "Toot," is all for his retiring and has been trying since last year to have him do so.

"She loves to fish — she's worse than I am and always goes with me," he notes.

Ponders chances

By KEVIN WILSON

Sometime this afternoon (Wednesday) Northville Township will hear which day in May it will be seeking police millage approvals from the voters.

Wayne County election scheduling officials were to decide this morning whether to add the township's 1.5 mill renewal and 1.0 new millage issues to the May 19 special election called for consideration of a state tax reform proposal or to have the issues appear on the May 5 election date already approved.

Meanwhile, the board of trustees passed a resolution Monday night supporting the police millage issues, while expressing concern for their chances.

The primary cause of worry in township hall is the possible impact of the state-wide ballot proposal on the local millage issue when appearing on the same ballot, should the May 19 date be chosen.

On the other hand, Clerk Susan Heintz asserted, "It is almost physically impossible to have two elections within two weeks of one another; that is why the county has a standing rule that they must be 30 days apart."

Police Chief Ronald Nisun, presenting a request from "Citizens for Township Police," a political group backing the millage proposals, said the May 5 date is preferable to the May 19 special election, from a political standpoint.

"What they are afraid is going to happen," Nisun said, "is that we are going to be thrown into a barrel with this thing and lose because of it. There are going to be Tisch people coming out to defeat the governor's plan, there will be business people fighting it because of the sales tax rise, and we're going to get a 'no' vote because people are in a mood to say no."

Heintz said she was told it is likely that three one-mill issues proposed by Wayne County may also appear on the May 19 ballot (for the sheriff's road patrol, the prosecutor's office and the county hospital) and that those may also harm the township issue's chances.

"We were all set with a May 5 election, practically all alone," Trustee James Nowka said. "We said we would go to May 19 if the governor did because it would save us money in running elec-

Township adopts 1981-82 budget

Northville Township adopted its 1981-82 fiscal year budget Monday night, balanced at $1.09 million while absorbing a $35,700 deficit from the previous year.

Projected expenses in each of the 22 areas the township lists differ little from those discussed during previous budget hearings and reported here.

Revenues are to come from property taxes of $483,000 ($351,000 last year); state shared revenues of $343,000 ($305,000 last year); general administration (charges and fees for services) of $93,200 ($120,800); licensing and enforcement collections of $49,750 ($58,000); building department fees of $40,700 ($75,700) and federal revenue sharing of $81,000 ($16,000 carried forward from last year's $48,900).

During a public hearing preceding the board of trustees vote on the budget, focus was primarily on the police budget of $433,000.

Township resident Patrick Coyne objected to the amount allocated, arguing that voters had approved a 1.5 mill tax for police service and accused the board of circumventing the peoples' wishes by supplementing the department with money from the general fund.

Millage income, reduced from 1.5 to roughly 1.47 mills by the Headlee Amendment, comprises just under 50 percent of the police budget with the rest coming from the general fund one mill levy. The police department, like all township operations, will have its fringe benefits costs (included in the total budget figure above) paid in part through federal revenue sharing dollars.

The allocation of the federal revenue sharing monies, some $65,000 this year with $16,000 carried over from last year, was made within the budget, following two poorly attended public hearings on the issue.

Coyne suggested that the township police budget is too high because it is overstuffed, but township officials argued vehemently that it is, in fact, undermanned.

"I don't think we need that kind of expenditure," Coyne said. "We have one chief, who is doing a fine job...one lieutenant, three sergeants and five patrolmen. I don't think we need five supervisors for five officers."

Police Chief Ronald Nisun explained that all officers except himself also function as patrolmen. He said three sergeants are needed because one is a detective (on the road one day out of five) and the others need the authority to make decisions when neither the chief nor lieutenant is immediately available.

Coyne suggested elimination of one shift, or deletion of night dispatchers in favor of 911 emergency telephone services.

Business tax factor change extends review board dates

Commercial property owners won't see a reduction in the state equalized values of their properties after all.

That's because the city was successful in persuading Wayne County to erase an earlier announced reduction.

The action means the SEV of commercial properties in the city will be boosted back to about their 1980 levels, thus putting the multiplier at 1.5728 rather than the earlier announced 1.2544.

Last year's multiplier was 1.58.

Because of this change, which city officials claim is justified because "commercial property values have been increasing rather than decreasing," an extra hearing of the board of review has been slated for Thursday to specifically hear any complaints by affected commercial property owners.

The board of review will meet from 3 to 4 p.m. and from 7 to 8 p.m. at the city hall.

Had no added hearing been called, commercial property owners would have had no way to appeal their assessments because the announced change in the SEV factor came after the last previously scheduled hearing.

And if they had been unable to appeal locally they also would have been locked out of any appeal to the state tax tribunal since only those persons who have first taken their complaints to the local board of review are permitted to carry their appeals to the state.

According to City Manager Steven Walters, each commercial property owner in the city was advised by letter of the change in the SEV multiplier and of the added Thursday hearing of the board of review.

Only commercial assessments are part of Thursday's sessions — not residential assessments.

"The county listened to us, and the county sent the recommendation that it (SEV multiplier) be changed to the state," said Walters. This was not a matter of objecting. The city doesn't accept or reject factors.

"The county was not willing to consider a residential (factor) change."

Grote accepts Washington job

Schoolcraft president leaving for new post

Schoolcraft College President C. Nelson Grote is leaving the college to become president of a larger community college district in the state of Washington.

Grote reports August 1 to district 17, which operates two campuses in Spokane. He has headed Schoolcraft since 1971.

Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees approved Dr. Grote's request for release from his Schoolcraft post at its regular meeting March 25.

The release is effective for July 31, 1981. Dr. Grote's individual contract, which extended through June 30, 1984, had a provision for termination by "mutual consent of the parties," the condition which was applied following a brief closed session of the board and Dr. Grote.

Trustee Mark McQueston, who was a student member of the Presidential Search Committee which recommended Dr. Grote for the Schoolcraft post, said they had been very good years and wished him well in his new position.

Board Chairman Harry G. Greenleaf said Grote has "done an exceptional job as president here the last 10 years.

While we will hate losing him, we will never stand in the way of Dr. Grote's accepting the opportunity and the challenge he has been extended in Washington."

The Washington community college district covers six counties with a population of 500,000 and is the largest of 22 such districts in the state.

Enrollment is 27,000, about triple that of Schoolcraft. Grote will have two campus presidents reporting to him. Both campuses are in Spokane. One is liberal arts oriented, the other vocational-technical. There is reportedly a certain rivalry between them which will present Grote a diplomatic challenge.

The district was organized in 1963, about the same time Schoolcraft was organized.

Grote and his wife Wilma are looking forward to being close the their first grandchild. Their daughter Carol and her husband live in Washington. Another daughter is married and lives in Texas.

The Grote's son Mark is a junior at Livonia Stevenson High School and is an accomplished cellist.

Grote, 53, came to Schoolcraft, serving northwestern Wayne County, after serving as dean of applied sciences and technology at Morehead (Kentucky) State University.

He succeeded founding President Eric Bradner and was assigned the task of improving the community college's vocational-technical offerings. Career enrollment now outdistances liberal arts enrollment.

Now in his 31st year as an educator, Grote has either taught or been an administrator in K-12 schools, a state department of education, a community college and a university.

City council lauds Mill Race efforts

Northville City Council members Monday night told Northville Historical Society officers that the Mill Race Historical Village is "a fine attraction" and that they have no desire to interfere in its management.

The statement was made at a special council meeting with the society in New School Church in the historical village. It had been called at the request of the historical society after the council had asked about the rental fee structure for the church building.

Mayor Paul Vernon explained that the question had come up as a result of his being asked to officiate at 29 weddings. He was seeking a location for the ceremonies, he said, suggesting the Mill Race church when asked.

Eleven of the ceremonies have been performed there, he added, with 15 others at city hall and the rest in private homes.

At first, he said, the $100 charge seemed high, especially for a brief ceremony with only families attending.

At the meeting Robert Daniel, society president, outlined for council members why the $100 charge is assessed.

The many requests to use the building for weddings, he said, resulted in employing a part-time appointment secretary for $25 a month. She also receives $10 for opening the building up to a maximum of three times for each wedding — usually for an inspection, for the event and for closing it afterward. This amounts, then, to $30. Twenty dollars also is allocated for cleaning the building after an event.

The charge is for 90 minutes with an additional levy of $60 for a longer period when a reception follows a ceremony.

The charge, Daniel told council, represents only 2.4 percent of the society's income and has not deterred those interested. He cited the fact that 26 reservations already have been made for the months ahead.

Society member John Brugeman explained to council members, all of whom were present, that the society's primary concern is, "This is a historical building." Many historical societies do not rent out such buildings, he said, citing the old train station in South Lyon and Greenmead mansion in Livonia that are used only as museums.

Daniel also told council that the society has had a problem with pilferage, losing about a third of its china and all of the tablecloths. "We don't have two ash trays alike and we have bought dozens," he added.

The church building is the only one rented, he said, as the Hunter House and Yerkes House are considered museums.

When renovation of the Wash-Oak Schoolhouse is completed, it will be available for use by teachers and their classes.

It does not appear that it will be ready for another year, it was pointed out, as both money and volunteer help are needed.

Daniel detailed for the council that the society pays light and utility bills of the village. Most of its funds, he emphasized, come in small amounts from many projects and gifts. He mentioned that Northville Newcomers had just given a $170 donation.

At the conclusion of the meeting Mayor Vernon stated he would like to ask that the rental fee schedule be uniform, saying he would inform those seeking his services that the building is available as an option.

The historical society had been permitting a $35 charge for small weddings at which the mayor officiated if there were no more than eight present. Vernon added that he would like to have provision made at city hall for such services after the court facilities move out.

DeRusha lauded the volunteer work of the society and asked how the city could support it. Martha Nield suggested urging more people to become members. The society has 172 members at present.

In the interest of better communication, the society suggested it could send meeting minutes to the council. The suggestion was accepted with appreciation.

Council member Carolann Ayers said she felt communicating concerns on a regular basis would be most helpful to both bodies.

Commission member Stanley Johnston recommended that "the less the council has to do with its (society's) operation of the Mill Race the better. If people like it (the church), they should be willing to pay."

"I think we should promote the village every chance we have," he concluded. The feeling was seconded by the other council members.

PTA Founders Day Banquet's a 'roaring success'

Approximately 250 people attended the PTA Founders Day Banquet March 26 at the Northville High School cafeteria. The dinner, presented by the Northville PTA-PTSA Coordinating Council, was deemed a "roaring success" by everyone involved including school administrators, community members and local officials. At far left, Coordinating Council President Mary Ann Russell presents Mrs. John Steimel with an award honoring her late husband Postmaster John Steimel for his contributions to the school district. At left is guest speaker William McLaughlin, former Michigan GOP chairman. School Superintendent Lawrence Nichols and his wife Julia (below) listen to McLaughlin's address. Winchester honorees Marge Riker and Principal Milt Jacobi accept their awards (middle below). Longtime PTA member and former Northville Board of Education member Sylvia Gucken (bottom) accepts the Distinguished Service Award from Mary Ann Russell.

To replace sheriff

Police Hines locally: County

All communities bordering Hines Park, including Northville and Northville Township, will be notified that they will have to assume responsibility for police protection in the park if Wayne County succeeds in eliminating the sheriff's road patrol.

Sitting as the Ways and Means Committee March 25, the board of commissioners issued a policy statement which declares that, if the county is successful in court, the local communities will be legally responsible for patrol of the area within their jurisdictions.

The statement was sent to all communities adjacent to the park. As of press time, neither Northville nor Northville Township was in receipt of the statement, which reads, in part:

"This is notice to you that the County of Wayne is in litigation involving the discontinuance of the road patrol concerning Hine Park and other areas.

"Please take notice that areas of Hines Park within your respective jurisdictions are your lawful responsibility to protect in the event the County of Wayne prevails in court proceedings, it is expected that you will carry out your police duties."

Since the county decided to cease road patrol services late last year, there have been several attempts to find a way to patrol Hines Park. A one-mill county tax levy specifically for the road patrol may be an issue on the May 19 special election ballot.

Technically, the road patrol was disbanded January 31, but Sheriff William Lucas has continued to order the deputies to work. Several appearances have been precipitated by both sides of the dispute in circuit court, the State Court of Appeals and the Michigan Supreme Court.

Reconsideration of previous decisions is being addressed in both the Appeals and Supreme Courts. A separate suit from the sheriff is scheduled April 6 before Judge Victor J. Baum, who also is handling prior suits from the county, the deputy labor unions and the communities involved.

In the past two weeks the deputies won retroactive pay withheld since February 1, but were warned by Baum that they continue working at their own peril without assurance of further pay. His order was issued from the bench pending a later full written opinion, he said.

Since then, however, the order was postponed by actions before either the Appeals or Supreme Court, still later the postponement was reversed, then motions were filed by the Lucas for reconsideration of the reverse decision.

At this point, unresolved issues include:

— Decisions from the Appeals and Supreme Courts on whether Baum's original order should hold.

— The April 6 suit from the sheriff claiming inadequate manpower to fulfill his statutory duties.

— A suit from the deputies, date not yet established, asking protection from layoffs.

In the meantime, the county is reissuing about 250 layoff notices and approved requirement for Lucas to post a $500,000 bond to assure "faithful performance of his duties." Lucas, with court action, thwarted the March 20 attempt to issue layoff attempts. He has defied all such attempts since February 1.

The county also has notified fuel suppliers that it will not pay for gasoline delivered to the sheriff until the dispute is resolved. Monday, Lucas ordered most patrolmen to use motorcycles, patrol cars to sit with the engine off until there is a call and said the parkway would be patrolled by deputies mounted on horses.

The board of commissioners ordered elimination of the road patrol last November when constructing the 1980-81 budget and attempting to overcome a $20 million deficit.

Lucas objections are estimated, so far, to have cost nearly $1 million in unappropriated funds.

The county may eventually be found liable for still more deputies wages, and possibly for the legal expenses incurred by Lucas in his fight with the board. The intent of the bond requirement, according to commissioner James Rashid, is to dissuade "reckless expenditure, especially when no funds are appropriated."

at the library circulation desk during regular library hours from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Former NHS student helps develop computer

Mark Haynie, son of Robert and Midge Haynie of 44020 Cottisford in Northville, played a key role in the development of a recently introduced powerful computer while pursuing his master's degree in California.

Haynie, 24, is a 1974 graduate of Northville High School and received his bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan's School of Computer Engineering in 1978.

He went to work for Amdahl Corporation in Sunnyvale, California as an associate engineer, enrolling at Stanford University in Palo Alto to study toward his master's degree at the same time.

Since joining Amdahl, he has been assisting in the design automation department in the development of the new $7.5 million Amdahl 580 computer introduced in November.

He wrote computer software (programs) to generate hardware for the computer. The machine is the fastest business computer on the market, able to add two figures in the time it takes light to travel 20 feet.

The University of Michigan uses an older model Amdahl computer.

Mark will receive his master's degree in computer engineering this June. His parents plan to attend the commencement ceremonies.

Showboat activities set for seniors

Northville area senior citizens interested in spending a day on the Chesaning Showboat will have an opportunity to do so July 16.

Tickets are $11.50 per person and reservations must be made by April 22. Buses will pick up at Allen Terrace and Big Boy at 2:30 p.m.

To make reservations call Marie Knapp at 349-2230 or the Recreation office at 349-0203.

Reading set tomorrow evening

Poet Denise Levertov's guest at Schoolcraft

Poet Denise Levertov will do a reading of her work at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Waterman Campus Center.

Since 1946, Ms. Levertov has written 13 books of poetry and is known for her clarity of image and illumination of experience. Her subjects often are personal such as the loneliness, love, marriage and grief.

On the pain of divorce, she writes:

Something in each of us is waiting to see if we can survive, severed

On love she writes:

When you love me well it is when Imagination has flicked its fire-tongue over you...

Pamela Hadas of the St. Louis Post Dispatch wrote, "Ms. Levertov offers us a woman who is homespun and wild in one, a woman who plays frisbee thinking of total communications, a woman living for two or living alone, writing a dream poem, a divorce poem, a grief poem, a loving parting poem." Ms. Levertov's appearance is made possible by a grant from The Louise Thayer Bryan Fund in cooperation with the Cultural and Public Affairs Committee.

The Louise Thayer Bryan Fund is an endowment fund established in memory of former Northville resident Louise Thayer Bryan.

Admission to the poetry reading is free and open to the public. Student activities will host a reception immediately following the reading.

Police funding dominates township budget process

Those moves were strongly opposed by township officials, who argued that the size of the township (16 square miles) and increasing population demand the strongest force the township can muster.

"I don't know about you," treasurer Richard Henningsen said, "but I want a policeman available 24-hours a day and when I call I want him there as soon as possible."

Trustee James Nowka suggested that Coyne review the list of police calls in the department office, and added a pitch for strengthening the force, not cutting it.

"I have to believe," Nowka said, "with the ways things are going with the economy, unemployment, and rising population, our police are going to be more needed than ever. Until we have two cars on the road all the time to patrol a community of our size, I will not be wholly satisfied."

It was noted that the City of Northville's police department employs 15 people to patrol an area one-eighth the size of the township and is able to offer better protection.

Coyne said he felt the board was "overstepping its bounds" by increasing the police budget by any amount over the approved 1.5 mills. He asked if the board would limit police expenses to whatever millage is approved May 19, and was told by Supervisor John MacDonald that the board would do what it thought necessary to provide adequate service.

"By your logic," MacDonald said, "we shouldn't be funding the recreation or library departments at all because the people turned down millage requests on those issues. I don't think that is the way to decide things."

Largest projected expenses in the budget, after the police department, are for "legislative" items, an $83,900 allocation that includes a hefty sum for legal fees to resolve long-standing suits, and the fire department at $82,740.

The budget appears to take a step toward resolution of problems surrounding allocations to the joint library and recreation department agreements with the city.

It was apparent that earlier projections that library and recreation departments would be underfunded may have been pessimistic.

Representatives of both the library and recreation commission said the amounts included in the township budget would be adequate to suit their projected needs.

Township trustees will meet with city council members tonight to discuss the budgets for these joint services. There was some indication Monday that there will be little difficulty in reaching an agreement.

The township's projection of $59,000 for each service did not include fees it thought would have to be paid out of the township's general fund, but it seemed the library and recreation commissions had included those monies in their needs lists.

In the case of the library, allocated $62,800 after inclusion of past-due bills to the county system is seemingly enough to maintain current levels of service, Paul Dawson, chairman of the library advisory board told the board.

Robert Bingley, of the recreation commission, settled some of the board's concerns regarding budget items and told trustees that the $2 surcharge for township participants (included in the department budget to make up for township underfunding) can "probably be removed" if $2,500 allocated to the Fish Hatchery project as matching funds for potential grants is instead applied to the general recreation budget.

The board voted unanimously to adopt the budget. It also adopted a resolution giving township employees an additional "floating" paid day off. Township employees receive only a three percent wage increase under the new budget and the additional holiday will not add to the salary costs, Clerk Susan Heintz said.

"It's just one day for each employee for them to take when they want and we just operate without that person one day," she said.

Business Manager David Lelko said he would soon have the budget printed and available at the township hall in its adopted form. He emphasized that a budget is only "a planning document" and does not bind the township to particular expenses put forth in it.

Police Blotter

Four in Silver Springs collision

Four Northville residents suffered minor injuries March 25 in a two-car collision at the intersection of Scenic Lane and Silver Springs Drive, township police reported.

Dorothy Garzia, 42357 Amboy Court, and her two passengers — eight-year-old daughter, Angela, and Susan Lamphair, 42385 Anchor Court — were hurt when their vehicle, traveling eastbound on Scenic Lane, collided head-on with a westbound car driven by Alice Hanson, 41079 Scenic Lane, police said.

Hanson suffered minor cuts and bruises, while Garzia suffered a black eye and her passengers complained of a bruised hip and a bump on the head.

Garzia told police she turned her vehicle from Silver Springs onto east-bound Scenic Lane, saw the westbound car coming at her and stopped her vehicle just prior to impact.

No tickets were issued due to the fact that both vehicles were traveling left of the center line, police said.

Malcolm Olds, 48265 West Seven Mile, suffered minor injuries March 24 in a two-car collision on Seven Mile at Innsbrook Drive, township police reported.

Szabo's vehicle, traveling eastbound on Seven Mile, was bumped from behind by a car driven by Charles Szabo of Ontario, Canada.

Police said both vehicles were making a right turn onto Innsbrook Drive when the accident occurred.

Szabo, who was not hurt, was ticketed for failing to stop within an assured, clear distance.

A 23-year-old Detroit man was arrested and charged with larceny from a motor vehicle March 23, city police reported.

Richard O'Reilly was apprehended by city police, apparently, while in the process of removing a right front tire from a 1973 El Camino at Phil's 76, 130 West Main.

Police were notified that a yellow van with a flat right front tire was driving recklessly through the city parking lots.

Police discovered O'Reilly's yellow van parked near the El Camino, they said, with the driver's side front tire removed and lying on the ground.

A second suspect, who fled the area, was apprehended by police a few blocks from the scene. He was not charged, however.

Seven greens at the Dun Rovin Golf Course, 16377 Haggerty, were damaged by a vehicle sometime during the early morning hours of March 24, township police reported.

Damage is estimated at $10,000. The suspect vehicle is believed to have snow or truck tires on the rear and regular tires on the front, police said.

Township police are investigating the theft of a power amplifier, a radar detector and two Jensen speakers from the unlocked garage of a Baintree residence sometime during the early morning hours of March 24.

The stolen property is valued at $360.

A 1978 mo-ped valued at $375 was reported stolen from the parking lot in front of China Fair Restaurant, 42313 West Seven Mile, March 24.

Police are searching for a green van which was seen pulling away from the area just after the theft.

The owner told police the bike was locked at the time of the theft.

A 1979 Honda Hobbit (mo-ped) valued at $425 was taken from the backyard of a Lehigh residence sometime between March 20 and March 21, township police said.

The bike was taken from inside a fenced area. Police said there were no signs of forced entry.

A Northville man suffered minor injuries March 25 when his motorcycle, traveling northbound on Center, was struck by a northbound car, city police reported.

Dennis Kiley, 128 Rayson, told police he was making a right turn onto east-bound Rayson when a car driven by Ronald Horner, 849 West Main, turned into his bike.

Horner, who was ticketed for leaving the scene of a personal injury accident, told police he was in the right-turn lane when Kiley turned in front of him. Horner was not hurt.

Two six-kilowatt Onan generators were reported stolen from two vans parked at International Diamond Tool, 21099 Novi Road last week.

One generator was taken sometime between March 20 and March 21, while the other was stolen sometime between March 22 and March 23.

Each piece of equipment is valued at $300.

School 9.5 mill election Saturday

Novi, Novi Township, Salem Township and Lyon Township.

Nichols explained that because the district's state equalized valuation is composed of assessed valuation in the portions of those six units within the geographic boundaries of the school district, the composite total of the assessed valuation is not the same as any of the individual units.

With all six units lumped together into a single tax base, the district's SEV is a composite of all the units — with the rollback determined from that figure, he said.

In addition, Nichols explained that the school district revenues are limited to the previous year's Consumer Price Index (13.5 for 1981-82) exclusive of new construction or improvements.

The millage rollback is based on the percentage of increase in the district's SEV vs. the Consumer Price Index exclusive of new construction or improvements.

Nichols said the district has rolled back more than two mills over the past two years and because of the state method of funding, district revenues have been less than the Consumer Price Index for the past two years.

In compliance with the 1978 Headlee Amendment — otherwise known as the Tax Limitation Amendment — if the assessed valuation of a school district goes up more than the preceding year's Consumer Price Index, the school district must roll back millage to a level no more than the revenue increase of the preceding year's CPI, he explained.

Many taxpayers have raised the question as to whether or not the special election can be termed a millage "renewal."

Many contend it is an "increase" as the Headlee Amendment rollback on the expiring 9.5 mills does not carry over to the new millage being voted on Saturday.

Nichols said another major concern of the administration is Northville's declining student enrollment coupled with state cutbacks in education.

Nichols explained that it is very possible that within the next few years the district will receive no funding from the state and will be totally dependent on local revenues.

In a report presented to the school board at its March 23 meeting, Business and Finance Director Harold Hines told the board that local tax collection in the district's general fund represents approximately 95 percent of the school district revenue.

"Any loss of revenue would have major impact," the report stated.

The report presented by Hines was an outline of the projected revenues for the 1981-82 school year based upon local tax collection.

"With the millage renewal approval and federal-state grants it would appear our 1981-82 revenue projection would be from $10 to $10.5 million based upon current information," Hines stated in his report.

Approximately $9.5 million of the projected $10 million revenue estimate for 1981-82 would come from local tax collections based upon the Consumer Price Index formula.

This would represent an increase over the 1980-81 year of about $1.1 million.

The 1981-82 millage renewal of 9.5 mills, subject to rollback, is approximately 26.9 percent of next year's estimated revenues, officials have stated.

Whether or not the school district will have that nearly 27 percent — or approximate $2.5 million — to work with will depend on voters at Saturday's special election.

If voters defeat the millage April 4, there is a "possibility" that the board could hold another election in June, according to Trustee Wilkinson.

"My guess is that we would hold another election because the cuts would be so devastating," she said.

However, Wilkinson added, defeat of the millage renewal April 4 will mean "immediate cuts" which can't be delayed until June.

GOP speaker

Philip Ruppe will be guest speaker at the Wayne II Presidential Dinner Dance to be held at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, April 11, at the Plymouth Cultural Center. Presently director of Washington services for AMAX, Incorporated, a major international mining company, the speaker served in the U.S. House of Representatives for six terms, representing the 27 counties of Michigan's 11th Congressional District. In Congress, he served on the Interior and Insular Affairs Committee and on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee where he was a ranking member. Tickets are $22.50 a person and include wine, flaming sirloin of beef and entertainment. Limited to 200, they are available from Pat Kirksey, 425-6594. Wayne II Republican Committee is the statutory committee for the area including Northville and Northville Township.

Review board meets Thursday

Concerning the residential factor, Walters said that generally it "is fair." In those cases where the factor worked an unfair assessment, such as in Lexington Commons South, property owners were advised to appeal, he said.

The net effect of the increased commercial factor, according to the manager, will be a larger than anticipated millage rollback.

Aside from the fact that Walters and other city officials contended the previously announced reduction did not reflect increasing commercial values, another reason for the city's desire to increase the commercial factor was to protect its "captured taxes" concept in the downtown improvement project.

Township ponders chances for police millage approval

tions. We didn't anticipate this bed sheet ballot."

Heintz noted that the board resolution setting the date had indicated its willingness to move to the special election date, so there is little chance that the county will keep the May 5 date.

"It's probably way too late to try to get the May 5 date back," she said. "Besides, we won't have time to publish for that day now." By law, elections have to be announced in a newspaper 30 days prior to the date. Next week's Record comes out after that deadline before the election held May 5.

"So in essence," Nisun said, "what's happened to our May 5 proposal is we've had a 50-ton weight hung around our necks?"

Supervisor John MacDonald said that was a fair assessment. "We're just boxed-in, it seems. I don't like it any better than anyone else, but no one expected this much activity."

The board decided to seek the millage approvals in its March meeting. The 1.5 mill "renewal" is deemed essential for continued township operations.

The 1.5 mills was approved by voters five years ago and is used solely for police. It has been "rolled back" under Headlee Amendment provisions compensating for increased assessments.

No one in township hall has the figures for police millage separated out, but the approved 1.5 mills comprises one-half the total authorized millage. Roll backs have reduced the 3.0 mills to 2.93 and half that would be 1.465.

Other millages are 1.0 for general operations and 0.5 for fire services approved last August. The fire millage is not subject to Headlee rollbacks in this first year, so the actual police and general operations mills actually split the lost .07 mill.

The police renewal would restore the full 1.5 mills approved five years ago, and would be untouched by Headlee rollbacks the first year. It would then be reduced accordingly with 1980 the base year.

Business Manager David Lelko and

Treasurer Richard Henningsen said failure to gain approval of the 1.5 mill issue would mean drastic cuts to all other township operations as well as the police department, because funds would be drawn from elsewhere to maintain the police force.

The 1.0 mill of "new" tax appears as the second township proposal and is tied to the renewal in such a way that, should the renewal fail, the new tax would fall too. Voters can approve the renewal without the 1.0 mill addition, but cannot do the reverse.

The added mill would enable the police to add at least three new patrolmen and assure two patrol cars on the road at all times — a goal of the department for many years now.

Under current budgetary restraints, the township may have to lay off one patrolman this fall — reducing the staff from 10 to nine. Nisun said he needs 14 officers to assure 24-hour two car service when sick leaves and vacation time are considered.

The chief also was worried that failure in May would require another election later in the year. MacDonald said he would support a later election in the event the board's May bid fails, but Nisun said the chances later may not be any better.

"We can't use taxpayer money to campaign for this, as you know," Nisun said. "The group just calculated what it thinks would be necessary to publicize this right and came up with $5,000 — most of which we will get in donations from the business community. If we fail this time, I don't think we could raise that kind of money again later in the year."

MacDonald said the chance's of May approval are "roughly even" and it is virtually impossible in the current climate to predict voter reaction.

While keeping an eye on the upcoming school millage election, township officials also will be trying to ascertain the impact the tax reform plan would have on local millages if it is approved.

Heintz said that, as of Monday, no one at the state level could tell her what would happen if township voters approved 2.5 mills May 19.

Plymouth Y slates fitness workshop

For those trying to shed the winter blabs but need a little help in breaking into spring, the Plymouth Family YMCA may be the place to start.

The Plymouth Y will hold a one-day Inspiration Workshop from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Canton High School.

The workshop will include a day full of activities with participants taking part in aerobic fitness and dance, swimming instructions and exercises, self defense, health and nutrition, hair styling techniques, make-up and glamour techniques, folk dance and an assertiveness explanation.

A diet lunch also will be included and participants should plan on wearing loose-fitting clothing and gym shoes and should bring a towel, bathing suit and cap and small rug or mat for exercising.

New collector for hospital

Donations of clothing for residents of Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital may now be made at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Koontz, 795 Grace, Northville.

A screened-in porch at the Koontz's is available so donations may be made at any time.

Mrs. Shirley Matthews, who has collected clothes for the hospital for many years, can no longer assist in this volunteer service due to poor health. Spokespersons for the hospital said they have appreciated Matthews contribution.

Methodist church presents Easter season musical

Because of the tremendous crowd of more than 600 attending last year's Easter season youth musical, this year's offering of "Lightshine," at Northville First United Methodist Church, will be given in two performances, the Reverend Gunther C. Branstner announces.

It will be presented at two services, at 10 and 11:30 a.m. on Palm Sunday, April 12, at the church.

Final Lenten potluck supper will be held at the church at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 7, with a program following at 7:30 p.m.

"Christian Laity: Alive in Hope," a film report on the North American Congress of the Laity, will be presented. Included are such names as Gerald R. Ford, Malcolm Muggeridge, James Reston and Peter Drucker.

The Reverend Branstner reports that the series has drawn crowds ranging from 90 to 150 each evening.

A White Breakfast at 9:30 a.m. April 14 will follow the general meeting of United Methodist Women at 9 a.m. at the church. There will be communion in the sanctuary at 9 a.m.

A goal of $1,000 has been set for the annual "One Great Hour of Sharing" at the church during Lent. For 40 years, says the Reverend Branstner, the United Methodist outreach has aided the fight against suffering and need in the world. He stresses that all of the gifts go to the Methodist Committee on Relief.

Final film in a family series at the church, "What Wives Wish Their Husbands Knew About Women: Money, Sex and Children," will be shown at 7 p.m. Sunday.

Women's center schedules sexual harassment program

Schoolcraft College's Women's Resource Center is sponsoring a one-day workshop entitled "Sexual Harassment: No Place in the Workplace" from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

The day-long workshop will help participants focus on what constitutes sexual harassment, what legal remedies are available to its victims and what can be done to stop it from happening in their own workplaces and schools.

Dorothy Jones, Program Specialist with the Union Minorities/Women Leadership Training Project at the University of Michigan, and a member of the Michigan Task Force on Sexual Harassment, will be guest speaker at the workshop.

To pre-register or for more information call the Women's Resource Center at 591-6400, extension 430. The $10 workshop fee is payable at the door.

League sets garage sale

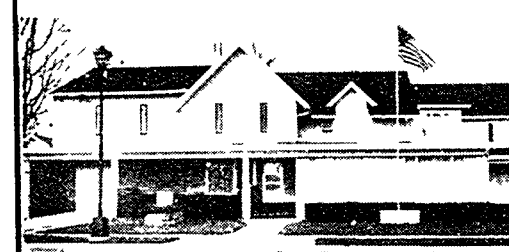

Northville residents wishing to dispose of their unwanted, good-condition items can do so at the Plymouth Symphony League's first "Whale of a Sale" to be held April 10 and 11.

The sale will be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. April 10 and from 9 a.m. to noon April 11 at the Grange Hall in Plymouth.

Persons interested in donating items or wishing more information should call 459-1335.

Terms of the sale are cash only — no checks will be accepted.

College gives peer training

Women interested in participating in the peer counseling training at the Schoolcraft College Women's Resource Center are invited to call the center at 591-6400, extension 432, by April 7 to arrange for an appointment.

Group interviews will be held at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. April 8. The seven-week empathy training course will meet from 6-9 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays beginning the last week in April.

Designed for those with an interest in helping women discover their potential, participants will study to develop empathy listening skills and problem-solving techniques. Upon successful completion of the intensive training sessions, they are requested to serve as volunteer peer counselors three hours a week for a minimum of four months.

Employed women willing to volunteer for evening or Saturday hours in the fall are being sought.

No previous training is necessary; however, participants pay for two institutional credits of instruction. For further information, call or visit the center located in the second house south of the Schoolcraft campus on Haggerty in Livonia.

'Requiem' set Sunday at Presbyterian church

An Easter-season presentation of "Requiem" by G. Faure will be given at 5 p.m. Sunday by singers from the area and a small chamber orchestra with harp and organ at First Presbyterian Church.

The special presentation is being arranged by David Heinzman, church organist, who will direct the performance.

"The program is open to everyone interested in hearing the glorious music, 'The Mass of the Dead,'" says the Reverend John Mishler, assistant pastor.

The presentation also is endorsed by the Northville Arts Commission as a worthwhile community activity. While many of the singers are members of the church chancel choir, it is stressed that this is not solely a church event.

A free-will offering will be taken.

Sealarks slate Tuesday meeting

Sealarks, a fellowship for women alone, will hold a business session at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at First Presbyterian Church. It will be followed by a program demonstrating flower arranging.

Other April activities include an evening of cards and games at 7:30 p.m. April 25 at the church.

On April 5 at 12:15 p.m. members will meet at the church to attend a brunch together.

"So we discussed it and figured it's gonna be important one day, so why not get what I want and the family wants down on paper. Now I know there won't be any confusion over what 'Daddy' would've wanted. Actually, I'm surprised I didn't think of it before..."

Judge Dunbar Davis offers students legal advice

Career Day

Meads Mill students host professionals

Choosing a career is not always the easiest decision a person has to make.

What may seem to be an exciting and stimulating profession could turn out to be the pits. The problem is that you never know what field you're suited for until you give it a try.

When you're 12 or 13 years old, planning your future occupation may seem trite in comparison to the upcoming sock hop.

However, for the students at Meads Mill Junior High School looking at possible future careers is of the utmost importance.

On March 18, Meads Mill students had the opportunity to learn about a variety of occupations ranging from a disc jockey to and F.B.I. agent at the school's annual Career Day.

Career Day, sponsored by Meads Mill staff and administrators, offers students an opportunity to gain perspective in their top career choices which cannot be achieved through books, tests or research.

Three half-hour sessions were conducted by professionals in a variety of fields and students chose the three career presentations they would like to participate in.

At this year's Career Day, students explored a variety of careers and received "hands on" experience from professionals in everything from reading news wire copy for radio programs to police fingerprinting.

Participants and the professions they represented in this year's Career Day included Lee Holland, C.P.A., accountant; Schoolcraft College Drama instructor Dr. L. Ruddock, actor; John Colling, archeologist; Peter Albertson of Winebrenner and Ebejer, architect; Northville artist Caroline Dunphy; Chuck Sonta, former Boston Patriots All-Pro, athlete; and Thomas Shankie of Leo Calhoun Ford, auto mechanic;

Dick Ruffner, Century-21, business; Dr. Karim Nafisi, Northville Laboratories, chemist; Pat Moore, Christian Community Church, child care; Mike Havala, Ford Motor Company, computers; Dr. George Berquist and Jan Colling, dental hygienist; Trooper McAllen, Michigan State

Police, detective; Tawnya Townsend, WRIF disc jockey; Dr. John Anderson, Henry Ford Hospital; Andy Anderson, Northville Public Schools, draftsman; Don Klokenga, K.H.D. Deutz Corporation, engineer; and Special Agent Jim Dixon, Federal Bureau of Investigation;

Rick Asher, Michigan Department of Natural Resources, fish and wildlife specialist; Jeffrey Aiken, Art Van Furniture, interior decorator; Judge Dunbar Davis, 35th District Court of Michigan, lawyer; Mike Richardson, U.S. Navy, military; Kim Johnson, Barbizon Modeling School, model; Tom Rice, The Giftfiddler, musician; Sue Zoldak, R.N., nurse; University of Michigan Professor David Rea, oceanographer; Pete Wroblewski, F-Stop, photographer; Yvonne Kathrapoulis, I.S.E.P., physical therapist; Bob Williams, pilot; Sergeant Phil Presnell, Northville Township Police; Kathy LaCombe, psychologist; Tom Campbell, WJR Radio announcer; Jan Schemanske, Michigan National Bank, secretary and Joe Blake, social worker;

Rosemary Thibodeau, American Airlines, stewardess; Sandy McRae, teacher; Jim Zayti, Zayti Trucking, truck driver; Dr. Carol Geake, veterinarian and Eastern Michigan University Professor Paul Milske, zoologist.

Our opinions

'No' on millage suggests a need for economies

As much as we would like to support the millage renewal request of the Northville School District, we cannot do so.

Quality education always has been a prime objective of our community. There is no doubt millage is needed to continue the standard this district has worked to attain and wants to maintain. In normal times, there is little doubt that this newspaper would support the 9.5 mill request. Frankly, we cannot remember a time The Record has not supported a millage renewal request of the district.

However, as others are pointing out, these are far from "business as usual" times. We have to be aware that many area residents are unemployed, have agreed to take pay cuts or are giving up raises to save their jobs.

Faced with the same spiraling costs affecting each of us, and given the fact that the state school aid formula penalizes districts which help themselves (indeed, it is quite possible that one day soon the district may lose all its state aid and enter a "negative" aid position requiring it to pay the state), the school board is caught in a financial dilemma.

It seems inconceivable, therefore, that the board could routinely approve a 9.5 percent increase in salary for the superintendent (boosting his salary to $51,000 from the current $46,787, which was up 9.5 percent from his 1979-80 salary of $42,728) and a nine percent across-the-board increase for other administrators.

The size of the administrative staff, increased in times of growing population, also raises a question. The district's enrollment now is close to that of 1974. We would like to see consideration, at least, of a comparable rollback in this area.

Also, we believe the school board must at least consider changes in the curriculum, possibly even eliminating some classes and activities, athletics included, of marginal importance.

The assumption that the 9.5 mills being sought actually is an increase with the Headlee rollback is valid in theory but hard to assess. The difficulty is that the rollback covers three separate millage levies, giving three different fractions to be compounded. The total rollback over the past two years has been 2.2 mills. Superintendent Lawrence Nichols thinks the next rollback will amount to 2.5 mills. Nichols is concerned that there will be less money, rather than more.

The 1981 rollback will be determined by the 13.5 consumer price index figure applied to the 1981 SEV, which is not expected to be known until the end of May. In addition, the way state voters mark their ballots May 19 in reaction to the state tax reduction proposal may affect millages.

We recognize that the board has a history of levying only millage needed, and we applaud the superintendent's statement that if the district revenues exceed anticipated income (Nichols says he honestly doesn't think this will happen), he will recommend to the board that it not levy the full amount.

The district (composed of six different governmental units in the school district but with more than 80 percent in Northville city and township) is very much in the spotlight as it is the first to seek millage after announcement of big equalized assessment hikes in Wayne County. We are seeing those who always have supported their schools financially look at the coming tax increases and conclude they simply can not afford to support this request.

We certainly believe millage is needed and that the district will not be able to continue without some renewal. However, financial times have indicated the outcome — not this newspaper.

If the millage request fails Saturday, the school board still will have an opportunity in June to save the district from financial ruin by presenting voters with a more realistic package. Perhaps by then unknown factors will be clarified. However, if Saturday's request fails and the board simply chooses to put the same millage issue to voters, without carefully screening its budget, it will be making a tragic mistake.

Parking can be free

Formation of a committee by the Northville Chamber of Commerce to study downtown parking problems is a giant step in the right direction for the good of the coming Mainstreet renovation, and for all of us who shop and work in town.

The eight-member committee, Paul Folino reported for the chamber at the March 2 city council meeting, knows it has a challenge. It was formed at the request of City Manager Steven Walters who told the annual dinner meeting gathering of the chamber that Mainstreet this summer could be designed without curb meters and without lot time restrictions — if merchants are willing to control themselves. This means merchants would not park in prime areas themselves, nor would they allow their employees to do so, so that shoppers would be encouraged.

This encouragement is needed, especially now, when some shoppers have been "caught" in the present system of vigilant ticketing for overtime parking by the city police. In January (the last report presented to council) some 600 parking tickets were issued in contrast with 133 a year ago. The result has been to free prime lot spaces for non-workers, as is right. However, it also has irritated shoppers who overstayed their meter or lot time. We also question if police officers could not be used more effectively in the community.

Record receptionist

MARGE ERCOLI

Marge Ercoli is our receptionist Girl Friday — and Monday. She shares the duties with Molly Manley, and makes "the book ends of the week" cheerful days for all of us.

Marge also is living proof that "volunteering" can pay off. While she was coordinating the monthly PTA column for The Record two years ago, she learned of the receptionist vacancy, applied for it and was hired. We already knew from the year-long volunteer association that Marge was an organized, positive, pleasant person.

In addition to being the smiling, blonde presence at the desk at 104 West Main and the voice on the telephone, Marge has assignments helping the advertising department. "It is enjoyable to observe an ad taking shape, scheduling it and seeing the final results in the paper," she comments.

She still continues her six-year involvement with the PTA and serves on the Northville Council. The mother of Angie and Dante, ninth and seventh graders respectively at Meads Mill School, and Frank, a fifth grader at Silver Springs, she is active in their schools. "They claim no German of their mother — only the Italian of their dad," she says. Her husband Bob is regional sales manager for Fairchild Electronics. Both he and Marge have been active in Meadowbrook Estates Homeowners Association. He currently is its president, and Marge writes "the neighborhood grapevine."

The Ercolis met and married while both worked for the same electronics company in Ann Arbor in 1965. They first settled in Dearborn Heights but traveled to

Marge helpfully listens to customers

Northville every fall for apples and cider and almost every summer Sunday for ice cream and to see the ducks, she recalls. They then built their home in Northville Township and "have grown some deep roots since 1974."

Marge reveals she was born down in Covington, Kentucky, but moved with her family when quite young to Ypsilanti. She was graduated from Ypsilanti High School.

She's been "doing her part" ever since, writing cooperative nursery newsletters, hosting PTA meetings and whatever else needs done. In her free time, Marge enjoys doing needlepoint, playing tennis and entertaining friends.

What do you write about yourself when you have been a wife and mother for 16 years, asks Marge. That's easy, we say that the woman "who came in one day as a volunteer and left as an employee" is a positive plus, doing her full share for us, too. Having both Molly and Marge at the desk gives The Record a great team.

Marge says that the two days a week are "perfect" for her family life but still give a chance "to interface with people." At times, she feels, "all Northville passes by our window on Main Street."

If you really want to know who is minding the desk — and telephone — Marge offers a tip, she says, "Northville Record-Now News" while Molly answers, "Sliger Home-News." With either response, it's a helpful person who will relay your call, want ad or other business to the right desk.

JACK W.
HOFFMAN'S
COLUMN

The horses were pounding across a rugged western landscape on the television screen when the little smart aleck persisted, "But if the hard ground hurts the horse's feet why didn't it hurt the Indians' horses?"

Like any adult cornered by an inquisitive child, the father hurriedly searched the crevices of his mind for a suitable answer before replying, "The Indians only rode after a rain when the ground was soft."

"Then why are they stirring up all that dust?"

Her questions were sharp arrows, piercing holes in his explanation as to why today horses must wear shoes but in the "olden days" they galloped around barefooted and seemed to get along pretty well.

Although he would not admit his stupidity in the youngster's presence, he was stumped and later took the question to a staff of bright reporters — all of whom suggested he look elsewhere for the explanation.

Finally, the horseshoe school in Belleville came to his aid. "They wear shoes for the same reason you wear shoes; to protect their feet from bruises," the schoolmaster said.

"The fact of the matter is that even the Indians put shoes on their horses."

"Their horses didn't need shoes in soft terrain but when they went into the mountainous areas the Indians tied moccasins on the feet of their horses."

"You're putting me on," said the father.

"Not at all," said the schoolmaster. "If you don't believe me look for samples of these deer skin shoes the next time you visit the Smithsonian."

"Horses have been using shoes for probably as long as man has been riding them. In the Roman days, they wore wooden shoes."

"Why? What kind of smart aleck are you? For the same reason President Washington wore wooden teeth, that's why. Goodbye!"

School millage renewal request challenged, endorsed

To the Editor:
The recent announcement that the Northville school administrators salaries will be increased by nine percent and in the case of the superintendent nine percent plus an additional 3.2 percent increase in the annuity fringe should be cause for concern.

Apparently the nine percent across the board increase for administrators was granted as the result of negotiations with the Northville Association of School Administrators (NASA). If this settlement was mediated as reported in The Record, then there was no obligation on the part of either the board or the NASA to accept the mediator's recommendations. The amount of increase (nine percent) is critical because it necessitated an increase of at least nine percent for the superintendent, that is, if the board, as they did, chose to keep the superintendent's salary in line with subordinate positions in the district.

Administrators should not be blamed for seeking salary increases or benefit improvements. We all at one time or another have done that. I have no negative opinions regarding performance of any of the administrators involved. Those that I am familiar with are doing an excellent job and deserve to be adequately compensated.

What concerns me, however, is that the board does not in this case show evidence of understanding that these are not normal times. It's not the time for "business as usual decisions." Are we to expect nine percent across the board increases again the following year?

Is it prudent to continue increases in the public sector during a period of time when increases in the private sector are rare?

Board members must certainly be aware that (1) thousands of area people are unemployed; (2) employees have agreed to take pay cuts and to give up previously negotiated increases to save their jobs; (3) management employees, many of them superior performers deserving salary improvements, have experienced lay-offs and significant salary reductions; (4) local homeowners are extremely upset about the expected substantial increase in their property taxes.

Northville residents have been supportive of the schools in terms of both time and money. With this action, though, the board makes it easy for an already critical public to become more critical. The amount of increase during these times is indefensible.

Taxpayers who are looking for an excuse for not supporting the schools will jump at this one. As a supporter of our schools I strongly resent any such untimely action which is certain to have a negative impact on the quality of my children's education.

Name withheld by request

To the Editor:
As a nine-year resident of the Northville community, I have consistently supported school millage elections, at times serving on committees to promote the passage of increases. My record of approval is about to be broken.

The 9.5 percent increase in our superintendent's salary and the nine percent across-the-board salary increases, plus "professional growth allowance" for principals are an outrage to the citizens of this community at this time.

A high percentage of Northville families depend either directly or indirectly upon the automotive industry, which is struggling to survive. We are trying to cope with the cost-of-living spiral, ever-increasing taxes, and growing utility bills on incomes which have not increased at all. Many people have taken demotions and/or pay cuts just to keep their jobs; others, less fortunate, have been laid off indefinitely or permanently.

It is inconceivable that the board of education unanimously approved the new salary schedule in this time of a depressed economy. Isn't there even one member who will stand up for the cause of overburdened taxpayers and say a resounding NO to inflationary, unreasonable wage demands?

Several years ago the administrative staff was increased because of a growing student population. Perhaps it is time to consider an administrative staff reduction now that we are experiencing a declining enrollment.

Unfortunately, the administrators' raises ensure them the cream off the top of the budget, so when the millage is defeated the educational programs will be cut, and our children will be short-changed again.

Sincerely yours,

Helen I. Schneider

To the Editor:

We take this opportunity to endorse the Northville School District millage renewal election scheduled for April 4.

We realize that millage and taxes are issues that are very emotional and are perceived differently by each voter.

The financial times that we all face are besieged with frustration concerning ever-rising taxes, spiraling inflation, and generally poor economic times. We realize that the citizens who reside within the boundaries of the Northville School District have historically supported the needed finances of schools to provide the every essential quality education. At the same time there is also the realization that, due to a number of factors, property assessments and property taxes have increased alarmingly.

Since the school district is requesting a renewal which in itself will not add to the tax burden, and is badly needed to meet the expenses of the school district, we hope that you will join with many of your neighbors in supporting this renewal effort.

It is difficult to predict how the majority of voters will respond May 19 when they react to the Tax Reduction Proposal that will be on the ballot. If a majority of those coming to the polls support the proposal, future tax increases (including the proposed increase created by Public Act 114) will be limited to six percent annually.

Since the Tax Reduction Proposal would create approximately a 50 percent tax reduction, in essence the increase more realistically would be limited to three percent a year. This ballot issue also provides for a factor that returns 60 percent of all property taxes paid on a homestead that are in excess of 2.5 percent of a taxpayer's income.

We genuinely believe that the Northville schools have used the taxpayers' dollars wisely and urgently need this renewal millage. We thank you for taking time to consider our thoughts relative to this matter.

Sincerely yours,

R. Robert Geake
State Senator
Jack E. Kirksey
State Representative

To the Editor:

It's millage election time in the Northville School District, and the taxpayers are about to be zapped again. The election is being advertised as a simple renewal; but, a close look would indicate it will actually result in a millage increase.

The millage that has expired is no longer 9.5 mills. It has been rolled back (reduced) to around 8.5 mills by the Headlee Amendment, and would probably be only about eight mills if effective in 1981. The ballot language calls for an increase of 9.5 mills, and as a new increase voted this April, it would not be reduced by prior years' Headlee Amendment roll-back requirements.

Result: we are losing an effective eight mill tax and gaining a new 9.5 mill tax — a fat 1.5 mill increase called a renewal. The taxpayers are had again.

I am going to vote NO on the tax increase request on April 4, and I would urge everyone else in the Northville School District to vote NO.

When the requested tax increase is defeated, I am sure the school board will waste no time setting another election. The "business-as-usual" attitude of schools and governments is disgusting. In today's economy, many people like Ford salaried employees, AMC and Chrysler workers and many others are taking wage reductions. Others are willing to take no increase this year to keep their jobs.

It would be quite refreshing if the Northville school system would join the crowd and try for a true "no increase" year. The Headlee Amendment will allow rising assessed valuations to increase our taxes about 10 or 12 percent this year. That is the equivalent of three to four mills. If we reduce the expiring eight mills by three mills of the inflationary increase, it would indicate that the school board should ask for renewal of only five of the expiring eight mills to bring about a true "no increase" tax year.

It would be nice for the taxpayer to see one cost element in his budget matching the lack of increase in his income. I am voting NO on this and any other increase in millage until the school board appears willing to share the burden of inflation and chew on a few of the bullets. I am tired of the lead diet while government and the school systems continue business and caviare as usual at my expense.

Donald C. Young, Jr.

To the Editor:

We would like to point out the deception being used by the Northville School Board in calling the upcoming millage election a simple renewal. By omission, the school board has failed to inform Northville voters that the Headlee Amendment roll-back on the expiring millage does not carry over to the new millage being voted on April 4. This means that the ballot proposition actually provides for an increase in the effective millage, not a renewal as advertised.

The taxpayers of the State of Michigan worked hard for the adoption of the Headlee Amendment to protect themselves against the excessive tax increases based on rapidly increasing assessed evaluations. Advertising the upcoming election as a renewal is a cheap trick to circumvent the protection of the Headlee Amendment.

We are going to vote NO on the proposed school tax increase on April 4. We do not like being deceived by the promotion of a renewal vote that is actually an increase. We would hope other voters will recognize the deception and vote against the school millage increase April 4, 1981.

She questions priority-soccer over academic?

To the Editor:

I just attended a school board meeting and have come away feeling very agitated. Community meetings generally attract very little public interest. This night seemed to be different. The cafeteria-hall at Cooke was overflowing.

I soon found out why. Parents, students, teachers — all were there to push for a junior varsity soccer program at the secondary schools. Ten to 12 speakers stood to present their feelings to the board. It was well done and would have been very impressive, but, enough is enough, folks.

My patience with sports lovers has grown thin. Athletics have a place in our lives, certainly, but never, never should it have ever — before, now, or in the future — been allowed to be a part of our educational system. It belongs in community recreation departments, not in schools of learning.

How many generations of children are being brought up to believe that sports and games are the important ingredient for a happy, successful life? How many of those parents and teachers would have come out in such force for an academic program the school system needs? They weren't there to learn about school business, that is for sure. Within minutes of completing their sport presentation those adults stood up in mass and left the meeting.

Approximately seven or eight people stayed to hear a presentation about a course change involving Marketing I and II, ratification of the school ad, ministrators' agreement, who were to be given pre-notification of non-renewal of their administrative contracts, what additional repairs will be done at the high school, discussion of the superintendent's contract and a 1981-82 revenue projection given by the business manager.

An agenda was passed out before the meeting began. Everyone knew what was to be discussed — yet those adults chose to send a silent message to their children — our sport is important, this other business is not.

What a sad commentary on the priorities a good many adults have today. There is only one consolation, maybe those adults will go to the polls on April 4 and vote "yes" for the renewal of nine-and-a-half mills for the schools so they can have their soccer program and we, who care, will have the academic program at least maintained.

Sincerely,
Lois Hoffmeister

Doctors team says there's credit deserved

To the Editor:

We are very upset at the coverage you finally gave us in The Northville Record. We are the Doctors Basketball Team. We are proud of how we fought to win the championship of our league, which is the seventh, eighth, and ninth grades.

Just because we lose one game you print the headlines like we were escaped convicts. So we lost one lousy game. The other teams in the league have lost more than we have.

We heard that someone from your paper was going to do a write-up on our team and recognize our two coaches. Instead we get headlines that we lost. What kind of a paper do you run? Do we deserve to be put down? Just put yourself in our place. Would you like it?

The other recreation sports have articles every week. All we get is the recreation standings every once in a while. The high school also gets publicity every week. Are we not as important as the high school? We should hope we are.

According to an expert, adolescents need to be encouraged and praised. It keeps them out of trouble when they know other people care what they do and when they do well. It also gives them more self-confidence.

It is too late to correct your mistakes, but, in the future, try to remember the little guys.

Center residents need continued dental care

To the Editor:

As an employee in the dental clinic at Plymouth Center for Human Development, I am appalled at what is happening to the dental care of the mentally retarded people being placed into the community.

The frantic push for the deinstitutionalization of these people is resulting in the absence of many services once provided for by the institutions, such as dental care. The whole purpose of deinstitutionalization is supposed to be to provide a more normal environment for the mentally retarded people in a community. It has been my experience that many of these people being placed in the community are not being provided the dental care that is required to maintain proper oral conditions.

Few dentists in private practice are willing or have the knowledge to provide the necessary care for the unique needs of these people. Private practitioners have contacted the center's dental department requesting information regarding the methods and techniques which are essential to provide proper dental care for these people.

In the past six months former residents have been returned to the center's dental department seeking treatment. Their return was a last resort after several attempts to acquire dental care in the community dental offices had failed.

Many of these problems regarding dental care for the mentally retarded could be eliminated if the state-subsidized regional dental clinics were maintained to provide this most important preventive and restorative dentistry. The facilities are presently available and in service, but will be terminated at the closing of the institutions.

The PCHD has one of the largest and the best equipped dental clinics for the mentally retarded in the state institutions. This clinic has provided necessary dental services for thousands of mentally retarded people in the past 20 years. Because of the above stated facts, it seems only natural for the already existing clinics to stay in operation. If they do not, it seems that many mentally retarded people will be neglected as far as their dental care is concerned.

Pursell tells SEMCOG Northeast can survive

By TIM RICHARD

Faced with a federal administration oriented toward the Sunbelt, Southeast Michigan can still survive and prosper if it plays its political cards right.

The key, said U.S. Representative Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth), is to "take the high road. Be positive. Let's not think of what we can take away from the Sunbelt."

The 2nd District congressman assessed the danger to Michigan and the Sunbelt as he spoke to the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, whose member local governments met Thursday as a general assembly in Southfield.

In his third term in Washington, Pursell has worked himself into a co-leadership position in the Northeast-Midwest Congressional Coalition, a group whose analysis of President Ronald Reagan's budget proposals says the older, northern industrial states will be hurt.

Regional planning — SEMCOG's chief reason for existence — also would suffer under Reagan's budget cuts, the group contends.

Pursell, a rapid transit supporter, said he is resigned to the prospect that Southeast Michigan's plan for an underground light rail line would have to be scaled down to win federal funding. He insisted Governor William Milliken and regional leaders work out a new compromise, even if — "We have to dump the subway."

Pursell told SEMCOG leaders there is hope if Snowbelt political leaders on Capitol Hill and at home play their cards right. His advice:

- Continue to make the Snowbelt congressional coalition more bipartisan.

- "The Northeast Coalition started as a very liberal organization. . . It's now emerging as a bipartisan group. But, if we take a divisive position it will be counterproductive. We (the Northeast) have 218 members, but we are losing 20 congressmen in 1982."

- Be better organized. He cited a floor battle in 1980 in which the outnumbered Snowbelt beat the Sunbelt by 40 votes on a defense money bill simply by getting all its votes on the floor.

- Pick its targets carefully.

- "We're not going to reopen Kinchel Air Force Base (in the Upper Peninsula). But we can study the Defense budget and go after contracts for auto glass, carpeting and chemical. . . The toughest battle in appropriations — the federal budget of $660 billion is being cut $45 billion — is to take the remaining balance and bring some back in transportation, housing and student aid."

- Do "rational long-range planning. Where is the plan for rebuilding Detroit? Most congressmen don't know what it is. Most taxpayers don't know what it is. I don't know it. I'm not sure you know it."

- He asked: "Why isn't Wayne State University participating in the rebuilding of the city of Detroit?"

- Sell Southeast Michigan's advantages: an adequate water supply compared to Sunbelt shortages; the St. Lawrence Seaway; good highways; "hopefully" balanced transportation; research centers; a good labor market; tourism; changing seasons; and a more moderate climate which has historically been associated with high productivity."

- Other activity at the meeting included Chairman Robert L. Bovitz's report that SEMCOG has begun participation in a Greater Detroit/Southeast Michigan Economic Action Council.

- It has joined the Detroit Chamber of Commerce, state Office of Economic Expansion and Detroit Edison Company. They will identify industries which might be good prospects for the region and promote regional marketing.

- SEMCOG's role will be to provide a data base, Bovitz said. It also would "insure that concerns of local government are fully meshed with efforts to attract new businesses," the Trenton mayor said.

- "This participation by SEMCOG is likely to require $20,000 to $30,000 of local funds as well as $80,000 to $100,000 in federal funds. The source of the local funds would be a combination of SEM-

COG's own funds as well as funds provided by the chamber and the private sector," Bovitz said.

College grants sabbatical

Accounting instructor Richard T. Arlen will get a sabbatical leave from Schoolcraft College for the winter semester of 1982.

But an unhappy faculty union leader told the board of trustees that three proposed sabbaticals should have been granted.

Arlen will use his four months — "to become knowledgeable about the operation and application of the new mini and micro computers," attend an industrial school and possibly propose realignment for the community college's accounting program.

Board policy grants a faculty member halfpay whether he or she uses the full year or only one semester. Arlen will be gone one semester.

A sabbatical leave is a college tradition in which an instructor who has worked seven years gets time off for study or research. At Schoolcraft, leaves are not automatic but may be granted after the instructor submits a detailed plan.

Recommended by a faculty administration sabbatical committee, but turned down at the board level were:

- Gordon Snyder, a biology instructor who wanted the winter semester to study the horned lark, a bird which nests on the Schoolcraft campus and does well near a human environment.

- Albert Agosti, a sociology instructor who wanted the full year to travel to New York's Harlem area, Washington D.C., Italy and possibly Cuba, Nicaragua and Mexico to study "dynamic changes convulsing Western society and revolutionary societies."

- The board and President C. Nelson Grote supported only the Arlen proposal on the grounds that the others failed to "clearly promise reciprocal advantage to the college and because of the serious financial problems the college will be facing in 1981-82 as a result of a continuing recession."

Del Sipes, president of the Faculty Forum, the instructors' union, said it would have been cheaper to grant all three leaves and use temporary replacements than to grant only Arlen's.

The reason, Sipes said, is that Agosti would draw only half salary for a year's absence, and the college would have saved $17,000 of his salary. The cost of replacements would be about $20,400 and so the net cost of all three sabbaticals would be $3,400.

Sipes said the cost of granting only Arlen's leave, however, will be a net of $5,400 because there would be no dollar savings for his half year absence.

Board members had different reactions on the values of the proposals.

Mark McQuesten, the only former Schoolcraft student on the board, said he saw great value in Agosti's increased understanding of "Third World changes. In a suburban institution, students are in great need of exposure to other cultures," he said. "It is incumbent on us not just to let him go but force him."

Chairman Harry Greenleaf said, "I was enamored with (biologist) Snyder's proposal. I didn't know there was a horned lark and I see interesting environmental implications in a bird that has found accommodation with man. I have difficulty seeing it (advantage to the college) in Agosti's."

Grote added, "Agosti was granted a leave for almost the same purpose seven years ago. His leave created great dissatisfaction with the board on the accountability issue."

Dunn says he feels very much a part of Northville as he has always done his shopping here although the family has lived in Farmington Hills.

At first, he remembers, he intended to move here but "you get rooted." Besides, his younger daughter Linda, her husband, three sons and a daughter live across the street. Older daughter Ann, her husband and five daughters live in Howell.

Each daughter has acquired one of the shop's barber chairs. Linda and Larry Hendrick also have taken an old cash register, a sink and the old barber pole that used to mark the shop and have set up a barber shop in a corner of their recreation room.

"The girls are getting so much fun out of this," Dunn says with satisfaction. His sons-in-law will be helping him move the rest of the equipment, probably to his garage, as the shop closes. It then is to be renovated as the new home of Travel Plans.

Looking at the aged pine paneled wall, Dunn says it's a shame the walls can't recount the stories he's heard.

Like the one about the perfect spot on Walled Lake to fish for pike. "This customer said you take a bead on a yellow house right across from the big commercial dock. Then, as a fellow did, you go out so many feet and just pull in the big ones.

"He said one was so big he couldn't bring it in. He got a couple of scuba divers near to go down and look. They said the line was caught in an old car body. You know, some cars were supposed to have been driven off the dock.

"Well, he begged them to see if they could free it.

"They came back up to say it was impossible — 'the fish had rolled up the windows'."

No one has enjoyed the stories more than the barber.

He knows so many "wonderful guys."

A lot of people are going to miss Dunn's friendly wave to all the "regulars" passing by.

"They say I only wave to the girls, but that's not true," says Chuck Dunn. The last wave will be late Saturday.

Schoolcraft considers tuition hikes

BY TIM RICHARD

Schoolcraft College trustees are pondering an administration proposal to hike tuition $3.50 a credit hour. The new level of $22 in the fall would be a 19 percent increase over the current $18.50.

Non-residents of the district would be raised $2.50 to $31.50 and non-residents of the state would be lifted by $1.50 to $43.50 under the plan.

The board will hold a special meeting at 8 p.m. April 8 to discuss the possibility of a tuition increase and other business matters.

"We are getting beat over the head by the legislature because they see us passing to them some of the costs," President C. Nelson Grote told trustees last week.

"This will not balance the budget. Cuts will still be needed," he added.

E. F. Peterson, business manager, said the state considers 25 percent of the budget to be a "fair share" for tuition to bear. Early in the 1970's Schoolcraft tuition provided 26 percent of the budget, but in recent years tuition has been only 22 to 24 percent. The increase would put Schoolcraft's tuition in the 25 percent range.

Nationally, Peterson said, the Bureau of Post Secondary Education has worked out an index of higher education costs similar to the Consumer Price Index. The higher education index stood at a base of 100 in 1972. For 1981, it stands at 200 or double.

"If our 1972 tuition was $11 — and that's a fact — then it should be $22 in 1981-82," Peterson said.

Board Chairman Harry Greenleaf observed that the inflation in the higher education index was greater than the inflation in consumer prices.

Other trustees were silent, except for mild gasps at the size of the proposal.

Small increases were proposed for non-resident students, Grote said, because Schoolcraft already charges non-residents relatively more than most southeast Michigan colleges.

Edward McNally, vice president for student services, said Schoolcraft would be competitive with the proposed hikes.

Wayne State University charges $20 a credit hour plus lab fees; Macomb County Community College, $23.50 plus lab fee; Oakland Community College, $16, though it's planning an increase this year; Highland Park Community College, $21 plus a $10 lab fee; Jackson, $25 and Henry Ford, $17.

The administration's budget committee had written in increases of $2 for residents and $1 for non-residents in its early projections, McNally said. But as the figures were compiled, it unanimously decided to recommend the $3.50-$2.50-$1.50 hikes.

The budget committee gave this outline for 1981-82:

"Status quo" operating budget would be $14.2 million, state aid, property taxes and the same level of tuition will yield $13.3 million. Without spending cuts and a tuition increase, the deficit would be nearly $900,000.

W. Kenneth Lindner, vice president for business, said the committee contemplates spending cuts of nearly $400,000. A tuition hike of $2 for residents and $1 for non-residents would raise $258,000. A tuition hike of $3.50-$2.50-$1.50 would yield more than $480,000 and close the gap.

There was no recommendation on which spending cuts to make, but Lindner said candidates for the chopping block might be the Independent Human Studies Program, the articulation project, the subsidy to the Cultural and Public Affairs Program, the day care center, some sports, the Women's Resource Center, the job placement office, public safety and the coordinator of special events.

Budget projections were made under the assumption the May 19 election on a constitutional amendment cutting taxes would make no difference in Schoolcraft's total revenue from state aid and property taxes.

Feminist Laurie Shields

She backs displaced homemakers

BY MICHELE McELMURRY

The 61-year-old woman in arch-supported blue sneakers may not typify the stereotyped image of today's feminist or epitomize the look of the "new woman," but then again — appearances can be deceiving.

For Laurie Shields, political activist, writer, co-founder of the Alliance for Displaced Homemakers and the Older Women's League, the sneakers are worn for comfort and to dispel the myth that "little old ladies in tennis shoes" are feeble-minded, useless and over-the-hill.

For the past six years Shields has been stomping for the rights of older women and has criss-crossed the country in an attempt to rally support from women of all ages to show that older women are indeed one of society's most valuable human resources.

For the past three months, Shields has traveled to more than 35 major cities to reach out to women interested in working for the rights of the "displaced homemaker."

One of the many stops on her 35-city tour was in the Detroit area where she made several guest appearances.

At Schoolcraft College a week ago Friday, Shields addressed approximately 25 women at a luncheon sponsored by the Women's Resource Center.

As a displaced homemaker herself, Shields told her audience that now is the time to take action and that women must lobby local and state governments to gather support for the older woman re-entering the job market.

"I know what discrimination is about because of my age," she said. "My husband died 10 days after my 50th birthday and when it came time to look for a job I thought there was nothing to it."

However, after a many months of job searching and no offers, Shields said she finally came to the realization that "ageism compounded with sexism" was definitely working against her.

During that time Shields was introduced to Tish Sommers, the west coast activist who coined the term "displaced homemaker" and also the first coordinator of NOW's National Task Force on Older Women.

Since their initial meeting in 1975, the two women have been the bulwark behind the displaced homemakers movement and have been a powerful political force in the movement of rights for older women.

In 1975, Shields and Sommers founded the Alliance for Displaced Homemakers. Shields served as national coordinator for the movement and traveled throughout the country rallying for state and federal legislation which would recognize the talents of the older former homemaker.

In 1978, again with Sommers, Shields co-founded the Older Women's League Educational Fund and served as its executive director. With passage of federal legislation providing programs to re-train displaced homemakers, OWLEF moved to convene a national training conference on displaced homemakers which was held in Baltimore in October, 1978.

The conference led to the forming of the Displaced Homemakers Network and as Shields explained "recognized the displaced homemaker as a disadvantaged segment of society for the first time."

Since then Shields has worked to focus attention on other concerns of middle-aged and older women, serving with Sommers to produce a series of Gray Papers and in October, 1980, co-sponsoring with the Western Gerontological Society the White House Mini-Conference on Older Women.

Last year, Shields released her book, "Displaced Homemakers: Organizing for a New Life" (McGraw-Hill, $5.95).

In terms of her political activism and ardent support of women's rights, Shields describes herself as a "late blooming feminist."

After attending the University of Wisconsin, Shields worked in a variety of advertising and journalism positions eventually serving as beauty editor for the Los Angeles Examiner.

In 1955, she married Arthur Shields, Irish actor and former member of Dublin's Abbey Theatre. She also became stepmother to Shield's daughter Christine, now working in Washington.

Shields explained that for "15 years I was Mrs. Arthur Shields and in no way did I feel I wanted to go into politics."

She said that as a full-time homemaker, wife and mother, her only free time was spent volunteering for church, school and community activities.

Upon her husband's death in 1970, Shields said she came to realize just how little society had to offer the suddenly single older woman.

"If you survive your husband you attain sainthood," Shields said in describing widows.

However, she explained that saint status doesn't pay the bills or help adjust to life alone.

Statistics show that displaced homemakers — women over 40 who are either widowed or divorced — are facing disaster in their old age.

"The largest group of women uncovered by Social Security is homemakers," Shields said.

"The main culprit in insurance, social security and pension is the dependability factor," she explained. "We have never recognized what the homemaker has given to the family unit."

Herbist to conduct Mill Race workshop

Noted Ann Arbor herb consultant Sandy Hicks will conduct an all-day Saturday workshop April 11 in the New School Church in Mill Race Historical Village.

Entitled, "Herbs for Flavor, Fragrance and Fun," the spring offering of the Northville Historical Society is open to anyone interested in planting and using herbs.

An active gardener, Mrs. Hicks has designed herb gardens for the Matthaei Botanical Gardens and Cobblestone Farm in Ann Arbor. Her own garden on Dixboro Road also is a showpiece.

She is a docent and an instructor at Matthaei Gardens. As a member of the Herb Society of America, she currently is serving on its slide lecture committee and is editor of the society's publication, The Herbarist.

She has traveled widely, gathering much of her herb information in foreign countries.

At the workshop, says coordinator Lucia Danes, she will share her ideas on planning and planting an herb garden that is ornamental as well as utilitarian.

In addition to garden design she will discuss herb selection and culture, harvesting, drying and processing. She also will explain how to use herbs for flavor, fragrance and fun.

Interesting treats and beverage will be served. Participants are asked to bring a sack lunch.

The workshop is being held from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Registration may be made by sending a check for $12 made out to Northville Historical Society to Lucia Danes, 121 High, Northville, 48167.

The society is offering two more spring-related workshops at the Mill Race Village. Registrations are being accepted for Helen Maki's Edible Wild Plants workshop May 9 and for horticulturalist John Brugeman's Plantings for the Older Home May 16. Mrs. Danes may be called at 349-6784 for details.

Boys State fund established in postmaster's memory

By JEANDAY

A living memorial in honor of the late John Steimel, Northville postmaster from 1965 until his death January 17, is being planned by friends. For two decades the popular postmaster had served as chairman of the American Legion Wolverine Boys State program here. As the time for choosing high school students to participate in the program approaches, friends who had decided upon a living memorial rather than flowers are establishing a fund to aid this program.

"At first the interest may only be enough to provide transportation for a boy in the program, but eventually we may even be able to send a boy," explains Judith Sechler who is working with Karen Massel and Norma Vernon to set up the memorial tribute.

Mayor Paul Vernon has taken over chairmanship of the legion project with help from his wife Norma. Since applications must be submitted by June 1, friends are hoping to establish the memorial as soon as possible to be able to honor John Steimel. He died unexpectedly of a heart attack at the age of 53. His interest in the Boys State program was part of an over-all concern for youth of the community. A 30-year member of Lloyd H. Green American Legion Post, the postmaster also had headed the local March of Dimes Campaign for many years.

Anyone interested in participating in the memorial project may call Mrs. Sechler or Mrs. Massel for information.

Mothers' Club dance Saturday benefits schools

More than 200 members and guests are expected to dine and dance at the annual spring benefit of Northville Mothers' Club this Saturday at Meadowbrook Country Club.

The evening is to begin with cocktails at 6:30 p.m. with a London broil dinner at 7:30 p.m. (A special French cheesecake dessert is planned). Playing for dancing from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. will be The People's Choice band. This is the third year the band has played for the club benefit.

The name of the band might be taken for the theme of the dance as chairman Judy Somershoe and co-chairman Lois Housman emphasize they expect women attending will be wearing both long and cocktail-length dresses. Both women also have been in charge of ticket sales at $30 a couple.

As always, proceeds are used to finance club projects in the Northville public schools.

As usual, groups of friends have reserved tables to dine together. Among those hosting gatherings beforehand are the I.M. McLeods of Sunnydale. "We always have a wine and cheese party — so it has become a tradition," mentions Ardis McLeod. Assisting as co-hostesses will be Kathi Jerome and Barbara Willoughby.

Father Ron Thurner was the celebrant at the 5 p.m. mass and the Our Lady of Victory choir, under the direction of Sister Chris Gretka, honored the service. Sister Chris also accompanied the Dufaults' eldest son Paul Emile in a presentation of "Our Father" and "Panis Angelicus."

A buffet reception was held at the Country Place Condominium clubhouse.

Attending the anniversary celebration were the Dufaults' sons Paul Emile of Birmingham, Robert of West Branch and Edward of Kenwood, California, with their respective families. Daughters Adrienne Awender and Jeannine Cassell of Brighton and Deanna Dufault of San Francisco also attended with their families.

Paul Dufault and Helen Margaret Lappan were married March 21, 1931, at St. Rose De Lima Church in Riverside, Ontario, by Father Wilfrid Langlois.

The couple met while active in "Le Cercle Dramatique" in Border Cities, Canada.

Helen, the eldest of 16 children, was born in Walkerville, Ontario, which now is Windsor, and Paul was born in Calumet Township in Michigan's Copper Country.

Mr. Dufault is a retired design group supervisor with Ford Motor Company and Fisher Body Tech Center. Hobbies include macrame, needlepoint, barge and metal working.

Both Lula and Leroy King of 767 Carpenter agree that they've never regretted a moment of their years together.

On March 8 the Kings celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at a family dinner which included their children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren and other family members.

The Kings' four children include sons Bill of Salem, Larry Joe of South Lyon, and twin daughters Aubrey Lee King of Novi and Audrey Mae Lewis of Plymouth. They also have 10 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The Kings were married March 6, 1931, in Union City, Tennessee. Mr. King was born December 25, 1905, in Union City and Mrs. King was born there July 12, 1915. The couple met at her home.

Displaced homemakers join forces for equal rights tion was released showing that every one out of four women working today can expect to be poor in old age. They can also expect to be poorer than men as social security is tied to wages and women, who earn less, get fewer benefits.

In 1977, the median income of females 65 and over was $59 a week. For men in that same age group it was twice that much.

"As long as women are paid less than men and are trapped in 'pink collar' low paying jobs, social security benefits will be lower," Shields said.

She also explained that "older women are hurting by no-fault divorce" and a changing society.

"The mores and morals have changed and we're caught in the middle," she said.

Shields said the Older Women's League's 1981 national plan of action will be to call for better health insurance coverage for older women through enactment of model state legislation mandating fair and equitable conversion privilege for former dependents.

OWL is also focusing on advocating long range changes in Social Security which provide greater equity for women and protect benefits currently available.

Shields emphasized that women must unite together to help change the misconceptions presently barring older women from re-entering the job market.

"We have to relieve a bad legacy for younger women," she said.

"We must speak up," Shields added. "We as women need one another — there is no age limit to involvement."

Shields said one of the first steps which needs to be taken is that older women have to show their abilities.

"We have to have a positive image," she said. "Older women must not continue to be portrayed as the only ones who suffer constipation, have tired blood and use Preparation H."

She said that middle-aged to older women constitute the largest majority of voters in the country and that it's time they stood up and voted for their rights.

"The hand that rocked the cradle has to be ready to rock the boat," Shields remarked.

"We're not saying to our legislators, 'do you love your mother?' but 'don't forget the older women.'"

Shields urged older women to participate in the movement to show their working potential and self-sufficiency and emphasized that one is never too old to get involved.

"It's very hard to feel over-the-hill when you're marching up the hill to tell your congressman a thing or two," she said.

There are currently 25 Older Women's League chapters throughout the country — though there is not one in Michigan.

Shields said women interested in forming a local chapter or in joining the national organization should write her at the Older Women's League Educational Fund, 3800 Harrison Street, Oakland, California, 94611.

Barbershop bonanza on tap

Fifth annual Parade of Harmony will be presented in the Lakeland High School KIVA by the Milford barbershop chapter on Saturday.

The show, which salutes the 43rd anniversary of the founding of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America, will get underway at 8 p.m.

The local chapter was chartered in 1950 and for almost 31 years it has provided fine four-part harmony to thousands of barbershop quartet fans in this area.

Theme for this year's show is "I Hear America Singing," a package of folk and patriotic songs closely identified with American history, as sung by Huron Valley Chorus, under the direction of Rick Dale.

Chapter president Roger Morris, who also is this year's show chairman, has written a script to develop the theme.

The chorus also will sing two selections it intends to present at the spring competition in Traverse City April 25. It features soloist Bette Roselle in an obbligo to the popular Lida Rose.

Program vice president Tom Shull has engaged the Black Velvet from the Grand Rapids chapter as headliners for the show. This young quartet has appeared in Milford's Legion Hall on two previous occasions and their singing style has won them many fans in the area.

The Nitty-Gritty Good Time Four also comes from Grand Rapids. While they are a new quartet on the scene, featuring a comedy routine, the group is comprised of veteran showmen in the barbershop style.

The Very Idea, the third foursome on the show, comes from the Oakland County chapter. The quartet has performed at special functions for the Milford chapter, and it features a blend of new and veteran quartet personnel.

S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A., Inc. is a non-profit organization, having the Institute of Logopedics in Wichita, Kansas as its international service project. Since 1964 the society, through the Harmony Foundation, has contributed nearly $4 million to help children and adults with speech and hearing defects.

The local chapter is averaging better than $10 per member each year in contributions to the institute, while participating in many community projects.

The members will join the mass chorus for a big barbershop spectacular on May 23 at Pine Knob, the third year for this event which has been averaging more than 5,000 in attendance.

The Milford chapter also is one of the area organizations hosting the 43rd International

Spring concert's Sunday

Schoolcraft College Chorale and Madrigal Singers annual spring concert will be presented Sunday at 4 p.m.

Scheduled at the Marquis Theater in Northville, the concert is free and the general public is welcome.

According to conductor Bradley Bloom, the program offers a wide variety of both secular and sacred music for all ages and tastes: "Each year we try to select music that is challenging and enjoyable to both singers and audience," he said.

Bloom, who directed choral activities at Schoolcraft for the past 12 years, indicated the spring concert also promises to be exciting because it contains a spirit which anticipates spring and the coming Easter season.

The program includes the popular "Mass in G" by Franz Schubert with soprano soloists Debra Maseles of Berkley and Julie Sciotte of Livonia, Tenor Paul Wiltzie of Livonia, and Sean O'Neal of Plymouth and James Scherphorn of Westland. Bloom said the Mass is popular with both amateur and professional choirs because of its highly tuneful nature.

A second work scheduled is Ralph Vaughn Williams' "Serenade to Music." Although composed in 1938, the "Serenade" is a lush romantic composition based on a text by William Shakespeare which expounds on the beauty of music and the "sweet harmony" with music.

Featured soloists from the Madrigal Singers will be mezzo soprano Heather Hoobler of Livonia, bass Mark Banka of Livonia, Ms. Sciotte and Wiltzie.

A third concert piece incorporates a 20th century medium called the electronic synthesizer. Composer Leslie Bassett utilized this instrument for a work entitled "Collect," which combines electronic sounds with

NHS baseballers eye second title

By KEN KOVACS

Being number one isn't easy. Particularly the year after you have achieved that status.

Bob Kucher, Northville High School baseball coach, knows it and his players know it.

So when they take the field April 9 against Southfield, the 1980 Western Six Champion Mustangs will be trying extra hard to start the 1981 season with a victory.

Northville will have only two non-conference games — against Southfield and Novi (April 13) — before opening league play against Walled Lake Western April 15.

Only three regulars are back from the championship Mustang squad — seniors Gary Kucher, Steve Norton and Brian Pratt.

Kucher, who holds down second base, batted second last season and was used mainly to advance the runners to second base.

His coach — and father — said he is counting on Gary to be a leader this year, along with third baseman Norton and shortstop Pratt.

"These guys played back-up roles as juniors, since we had a senior-dominated squad," the veteran mentor said. "This year we are hoping they will be the main event."

Other Mustang ball players who saw some action last year include first baseman John Ackley, a senior, and pitcher Bob Thomson, who also plays the outfield.

Ackley, who played half the season with the varsity and half with the junior varsity last year, likely will be Kucher's starting first baseman.

"He is a good hitter and solid fielder," the coach praised. "I expect some big things out of him this year."

Steve Denhof, a senior left-hander, also will see action at first, Kucher said.

Thomson, a senior, should be the top man on Kucher's pitching staff, along with Mark Denhof, also a senior and junior Dave Malinowski.

Ward wins full-ride

Mustang basketball phenomenon Ward will show his stuff for the fans at San Diego State College next fall.

The 6-foot-7 Northville center recently signed a fully-paid athletic scholarship to play basketball under Dave "Smokey" Gaines, former head cage coach at the University of Detroit.

The senior center averaged 17 points and 12 rebounds per game for the Mustangs, setting a school single-season rebounding record with 283 in 23 games.

He led the Mustangs to an 18-4 overall record, the first Class 'A' District 21 basketball crown ever and a Western Six Conference co-championship this year.

Several Michigan colleges and universities showed interest in the talented cager during his junior and senior years, including, Alma College, Wayne State University, Michigan Technological University and Division I Central Michigan University.

Among the honors Ward received this year were All-League and Sliger All-Area first team, Detroit Free Press All-Suburban second team and Detroit News All-Metro West first team.

Recreation softball signups end Friday

Softball season is just around the corner.

Several teams that played in the Northville recreation leagues last year did not meet the March 27 registration deadline. Therefore, they will be required to register with new teams this week.

All men's, women's and coed softball teams that plan to play in Northville this year must register by Friday, April 3.

Further information is available by calling the recreation department at 349-0203.

The regular Northville Community Recreation Commission meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. Wednesday, April 8 in the city council chambers.

Open basketball for elementary and junior high school students continues from 3-5 p.m. Monday and Wednesday at the community building.

Cost is $1 per visit. The gym is open for adult basketball 9-11 p.m. also on Monday and Wednesday.

Open swimming continues from 8-9 p.m. Monday and Wednesday, noon to 1 p.m. and 4-5 p.m. on Saturday (3-4 p.m. adults only) at the high school pool.

Cost is 50 cents per visit.

Senior citizens can sign up for garden plots on a first come, first serve basis at the community building.

Approximately 60 15-by-40 plots are available to city and township seniors.

Bill Dicks to coach Mustang girls swim team

Bill Dicks has his work cut out for him.

As the new girls swim coach at Northville High School, he must work in the shadow of Ben Lauber, one of the winningest coaches in the history of Northville athletics.

In 11 years of coaching swimming at Northville, Lauber boasts nine league championships, one state title and an overall dual-meet record of 147 wins and 12 losses.

But Dicks, who beat out several qualified applicants, seems to have it all worked out.

"I am not going to replace Ben," he said earlier this week. "Nobody could do that."

"But I think I can continue where he left off," Dicks predicted. "I want to build a swimming program in Northville which reaches into the junior high schools."

As Cooke Junior High School

swim coach for the past two years, the recently named high school girls coach has taken a big step towards that goal.

He led the 52-member Cooke squad to an undefeated season (8-0) and coached the Northville Swim Club team to a league championship and 7-1 mark this summer.

And despite his added responsibilities, the Cooke science and math teacher will retain his duties at the junior high school and swim club.

"Each season comes at a different time, so it shouldn't be a problem," he predicted. "The only overlap will be in November during preparation for the state high school meet. But that shouldn't cause a problem."

Dicks has several years of coaching experience, including a stint with the United States Navy (1971-73) in California and the Philippines Islands, and a year as an assistant coach at Wayne State University.

While at Wayne, Dicks had the privilege of helping coach three swimmers who received national rankings.

Other coaching credits include a year as AAU Livonia Spartans Aquatic Club mentor. Dicks also plans to continue as head of this program.

As a high school swimmer at Henry Ford High School in Detroit, he achieved "all-city" honors in the breast stroke.

Following graduation from Henry Ford, the talented swimmer attended Oakland Community College for two years, before transferring to Wayne State, where he assisted Steve Squer for a year before joining the Navy.

As an operations specialist, the Detroit native taught Red Cross swimming classes in California and coached a Navy team in the Philippines a year later.

As Mustang girls coach, Dicks said he plans to stress conditioning, both physical and mental.

"I think the talent is here, it is just a matter of getting the most out of each swimmer," he said.

Coach sees potential

Young Mustang softball squad readies for opening contest April 10

Northville High School could be the dark horse in Western Six Conference girls softball this year.

Defending league champion Plymouth Canton — with several returning starters — must be considered the favorite and a hungry senior-dominated Walled Lake Western team could give the Chiefs a run for the top spot.

But third-year coach Tim Lutes is confident his young, talented squad will come on strong the latter part of the season.

"We have one major problem to overcome and that is inexperience," he said. "We are deep in talent and I think we can be a good ball team. But we have to limit the early mistakes caused by the lack of experience."

Of the 12 members on the varsity squad, only four are seniors.

Judy Orr, who hit .370 as Northville's starting leftfielder as a sophomore, missed last season with a broken ankle. Lutes touted his returning slugger as "possibly the best outfielder in the league."

Another returning senior is Amy Abraham, who will hold down the duties at first base and possibly fill the catcher's spot on occasion, Lutes said.

Darcy Lovelace, also a senior, likely will be the starting catcher for the Mustangs, while Robin Miller, the final returning senior, will hold down second base.

One of only two juniors on the squad is Jill Matteucci, an infielder who saw quite a bit of action last year. She will be stationed at shortstop or third base.

The other junior, Sheri Robins, did not play last year, but Lutes expects a big year from the versatile player.

"She can play shortstop, third base or even the outfield," he said. "And she is a real power hitter we really need her in the lineup."

Six sophomores fill out the Northville softball roster, including three or four players who are battling for starting positions, according to Lutes.

Sue Keiser, though slight in stature, is a "real tough competitor" and has a good arm, Lutes said. She is battling for a spot as a starting pitcher, as well other positions.

One of the best all-around athletes on the Mustang team this year, Trish Settles — a Mustang swimming standout — will be vying for a starting spot in the outfield.

Meanwhile, Nancy LaPlante likely will be Lute's number one pitcher. She also may be used at an infield spot when she is not on the mound, according to her coach.

Rounding out the list of sophomores are Carol DeBoutte, Chris Heary and Julie Panowitz.

DeBoutte, an outfielder, is the speediest Mustang softball player, and may be used as a pinch-runner on occasion. Lutes also praised her fielding abilities.

Heary, one of the most consistent hitters on the squad, will be used as a designated hitter and utility outfielder, Lutes said.

Another versatile player, Panowitz can play the outfield and infield equally well and likely will play a back-up role for both areas.

"She, like Keiser, is a scrapy little girl," Lutes said. "She really hustles and gives her all."

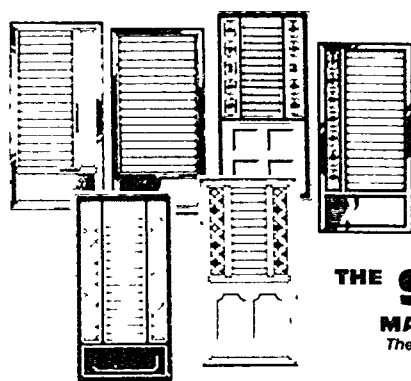

Where will Northville end up in the standings?

"It is hard to say at this point," Lutes said. "But we could surprise some people this year."

Alma college baseball player from Northville

Northville resident and former Novi High School baseball standout Keith Crosslin is among 39 players on the Alma College 1981 baseball team.

The talented freshman will handle the duties in center field for the Scots, who were 17-11 overall last year and 8-4 in the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association (MIAA). They are defending MIAA co-champs.

The Alma baseballers also were champions of a seven-team tournament played in Florida and were participants in the NCAA Division III Regional Tournament in 1980.

There are 22 returning players, including 17 lettermen, from that championship team.

Bill Klenk has guided the Scots for the past eight seasons. They have won two outright championships, tied for two and finished second four times under Klenk's leadership.

The Scots started the 1981 season by taking second place in a four-team tournament in Florida during Alma's Winter Term break the first week in March.

Alma's Michigan season opens April 4 with a home game against Saginaw Valley.

May, Wohlfeil are leaders

Brian Wohlfeil and James May led the Northville-Novati Bobcat swimmers in a mini-meet against West Bloomfield March 21 and 22.

Swimming in the seven-and-under division,

Wohlfeil finished fourth in the 25-yard breast stroke with a time of 21.8.

He also took sixth in the 25-yard free style, clocking in at 18.3.

May was clocked at 20.3 in the 25-yard backstroke for a second-place finish.

He also took third in the 25-free and 50-free events with respective times of 17.25 and 38.3.

The Bobcat tanker also posted times of 23.65 and 22.37 in the 25-yard butterfly and 25-yard breast stroke.

NHS thinclads right on schedule

By KEN KOVACS

The times run by Northville High School thinclads Saturday at the Eastern Michigan University Huron Relays were nothing to write home about.

But they were good enough for Mustang coach Ed Gabrys, who is planning to work his team into peak form by the end of the season.

"We would like to score well at these early meets," he admitted. "But at this time of the year doing well is merely a feather in your cap."

"The guys were right about where I expected they would be," the fourth-year coach said. "They were not bad times for the first competition of the season. But we do need more work."

Tri-captain Scott Dayton posted a time of 10:40.0 in the two-mile run, while fellow cross country teammate Clar Couyoumjian ran a 4:46.0 open mile.

The encouraging part of Couyoumjian's performance, according to Gabrys, was his first two half-mile segments, clocking in at 2:17 and 2:27.

"He started out at a 4:35 two-mile pace, which is exceptional," the excited coach said. "If he can continue to improve his time in the final legs of the race, he will be hitting some real good two-mile times later in the season."

Both Dayton and Couyoumjian ran cross country under Gabrys the past two seasons. Another cross country convert is Pete Wojcicki.

The sophomore hit a time of 2:17 in a half mile leg of the distance medley Saturday.

Wojcicki and Jim Williams, a junior, will run hurdles for the Mustangs, along with tri-captain Scott Robins and German exchange student Mike Klein and Dan Hutton, all seniors.

Robins posted a time of 8.7 in the 60-yard high hurdles at the Huron Relays, which puts him just about where he finished last season, according to Gabrys.

"We worked out a few problems he was having and I think he will hit some pretty good times the next few times out," the coach predicted.

Jim Willoughby, another sophomore, hit times of 2:15 and 2:16 in his respective legs of the two-mile and distance medley relays.

Though sprints and hurdles were the Mustangs' weakest area last year, when they finished fourth in the Western Six, Gabrys is confident that this area is much improved.

Other strong competitors in this area include juniors Dan Vogt, Mike VanBuren, Bruce Burry and Ron Beason.

Vogt, who probably is the Mustangs' top sprinter, ran 220-yard legs of 25.0 and 24.8 Saturday in the 880-yard relay event.

Senior Pat Letarte and sophomores

Clay Walts, Jeff Anger and Dave DeMattos also are expected to contribute.

Northville's other tri-captain, senior Dave Ward, leads the Mustangs in the field events.

As a junior the 6-foot-7 high jumper cleared 6-foot-1, long jumped 20 feet, threw the shot 44 feet and set a league record of 137 feet in the discus throw.

Other Mustang high jumpers include Robins, who hit 5-10 consistently last year and Anger, whose jumps averaged 5-6.

Robins and Anger also compete in the long jump along with Vogt.

Junior Dan Sackllah and sophomore Dave Bach will compete with Ward in the shot put, while Sackllah, Bach and Williams will hurl the discus.

Northville's leading pole vaulter is Letarte, while Vogt is the number two man.

"We are pretty strong in the field events with Ward and the one-two punch of Letarte and Vogt," Gabrys said.

Dave Ward is hoping to set a new high jump mark

Northville resident Todd Ballard, (fourth from left), recently met Detroit Piston center Paul Mokeski along with four other McDonald's Restaurants "Meet Your Favorite Piston" Contest winners. Each of the youngsters had the opportunity to visit the Pistons' locker room and each was given an autographed basketball and four reserved seat tickets to the Pistons-Seattle SuperSonics basketball game. Each also was introduced on the public address system during the game. During the season, a winner was picked to represent each McDonald's Restaurant in the greater metropolitan area. Other winners pictured include Mark Ziegler (left) of Ann Arbor; Richard Brodbeck of Milford; Paul Vires of Stockbridge and Leroy Wellwood of Milan.

The talented left-hander pitched 16 innings last season, posting an Earned Run Average (ERA) of 1.31.

"Though he only played part of the season last year Thomson has the most varsity experience of any of our pitchers," Kucher said.

Malinowski and Denhof, both right-handers, were the Mustang JV pitching aces last season. Malinowski posted a 2.72 ERA in 36 innings. Denhof's stats were similar in 25 innings.

Malinowski also led the junior varsity squad in hitting with a .375 average, and was tops in RBIs and hits.

Six other pitchers are vying for one or two more spots in the bullpen, Kucher said.

Among the applicants are juniors Joe Peters, Jack Wallace and John Foley, all right-handers, and sophomores John Dranginis (a left-hander) and Jim Thomson.

"I will probably keep one or two, possibly a sophomore," Kucher said. "I may need them later in the season. The ones who don't make it may play for the junior varsity for at least part of the year."

A trio of sophomores is vying for the starting catcher's position, since Northville lost standouts Jim Behen and Bob Boshoven to graduation.

Among the candidates are Todd Bartling, Andy Dimitroff and Greg Anusbigian.

"This is one of the best groups of young catchers we have had in a long time," Kucher said.

Junior Willie Newman, who hit .320 while playing third base for the Mustang junior varsity last year, will be stationed in left field.

Another junior, Steve Wynn, will occupy center field, while Mark Denhof will cover the territory in right field when Thomson or Malinowski are on the mound.

Though Northville is the defending Western Six champ, Kucher said Plymouth Canton is favored to take the title this year.

"They have a returning letterman at each position," the coach said. "And Churchill should have quite a few back, too."

"Several of our players lack varsity experience, so we still have a lot of questions to be answered," he continued. "It is hard to compete as champion in a very tough league like the Western Six."

Coach Bob Kucher is counting on strong hitting from Steve Norton (above) and Brian Pratt
