Vol. 112, No. 47, Four Sections, 42 Pages, Plus 2 Supplements Wednesday, June 3, 1981 — Northville, Michigan TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

Voters to elect two for school board posts

Northville voters casting their ballots in Monday's school board election will find their choices limited — with one candidate running unopposed for the full four-year term and only two candidates vying for an unexpired term of one year.

Unopposed in her quest for the four-year board seat is Jean Hansen, 44, of 229 Linden. She is a former teacher, member of the Amerman PTA and mother of two children.

Glenna Davis, 35, of 1405 Fry, and Leland M. Haines, 45, of 16416 Sutters Lane, are seeking election to the one-year seat, which would complete the term of school board trustee Richard Barron. Barron, elected to the board in 1978, announced his resignation in February.

Davis is vice president of Silver Springs PTA, mother of three children, president of Homemakers Equal Rights Association of Michigan and vice president of Northwest-Wayne NOW.

Haines, an engineer for Detroit Diesel Allison, division of General Motors, has been a Northville Township resident for six years, has four children and is a member of the Society of American Engineers. A Mennonite, Haines also is contributing editor to "Guidelines for Today."

In separate interviews with The Record, each candidate discussed his or her reasons for seeking election to the board of education and views on the Northville Public Schools, the school district's current financial crisis and qualifications for serving on the board.

Jean Hansen, whose election to the board is fairly secure with no opposition, said overall she is "pleased with the curriculum offered in the schools."

"The major issue is keeping quality education with decreasing revenues," she explained. "I don't like to see cuts, but I think we have to be realistic."

In light of the district's current financial situation, Hansen said that as a board member she would seek to maintain the basic instructional program and keep class sizes at a reasonable level with fewer classes offered rather than increase class size.

She said she believes "a lot more use has to be made of the citizens' advisory group" and would encourage the continuation of a citizens' committee to serve in an advisory capacity to the board of education.

She said she believes the areas which need most improvement are maintenance and the board's public relations.

She also added that she is not "totally satisfied with all levels of the administration" and would like to see a change in the evaluation process.

Hansen said she believes her professional background in education and her involvement in curriculum will help her in serving on the board.

She added that she currently is not working and will have the opportunity to devote her time to other areas of school business outside of regular board meetings.

Davis, who presently is serving on the PTA, the Northville Public Schools Health Advisory Committee and Curriculum Council and also is a volunteer teacher aide, said her involvement with the schools is reflective of her commitment to serving the community as a board member.

Davis said as a board member she would support an ongoing citizens' advisory committee.

"As a board member I want to go out and listen to what the community is saying," she said.

She said she would like to see a change in community attitude towards the high school and would seek to improve the school's maintenance problems.

Patrick Welles is lifted out of caved-in trench

Cave-in traps worker in 12-foot deep trench

Township fire crews dug a Madison Heights man out from under a pile of wet clay that caved in on him while working with a crew repairing an Pickford Street basement wall Monday afternoon.

Patrick Welles, of Madison Heights, was working in a three-foot wide, 12-foot deep trench alongside the basement wall of a home at 45926 Pickford as part of his job with Guarantee Basement Waterproofing of Novi when the ditch caved in on him.

According to workers on the scene, the cave-in first buried Welles up to his head, but they soon removed the relatively loose dirt from his chest and neck area.

Township fire chief Robert Toms said that when his crews arrived Welles was buried in wet clay to a point just above his waist.

"When we got there, he was buried up to his chest," said township fireman William Gaul. "There was no way we were going to pull him out of that wet, goosy clay."

Toms said Welles had to be shoveled out of the trench. The man was conscious and speaking to the emergency crews as they worked.

"It got to be really tough," Toms said, "the hole was only three feet wide and he (Welles) was maybe five feet below ground level. Every time my guys tried to dig him out, more dirt would fall in."

Welles complained that his legs were numb while crews dug the clay from around him, Toms said. The chief said Welles voiced no other physical complaints.

"We put ropes around him and around our men who were down there with him and pulled him out," he said. "When he was in the ground, his legs were crossed under there. I guess he tried to spin around to get out when it started to come in on him and it pinned his legs that way."

The chief said Welles was taken to a Novi Ambulance unit standing nearby. The ambulance firm was not able to state before The Record deadline to which hospital Welles was taken.

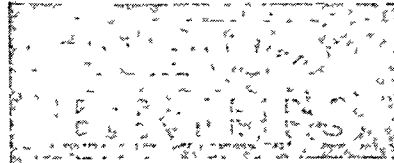

"I would guess they would be checking him for leg injuries," Toms said. "We haven't heard if he broke his leg or what."

A Guarantee Waterproofing employee answering the company's telephone yesterday said she was told Welles was uninjured, but supervisory personnel who would know more were not available for comment before The Record deadline.

Toms said that, even had Welles broken a leg, it could have been much worse.

"I think the guys did a hell of a job," Toms said. "If they hadn't handled that just right, the whole thing could have come right in and buried him right there. If he'd been in that wet clay up around over his chest, he couldn't have breathed."

Township police officers were also on the scene, but could not supply further information as to Welles' condition at press time. Neither Botsford nor St. Mary Hospital had a record of Welles coming into their emergency rooms.

NORTHVILLE HIGH School students will be recognized for achievement and scholarship at 7 p.m. tomorrow at the annual Honors Convocation. The honors ceremony will be held at the high school with a reception scheduled for 9 p.m. in the cafeteria.

NORTHVILLE BOARD of Education Citizens' Advisory Committee will make its final millage recommendation to the board at 7:30 tonight at Old Village School. The committee will present the board with its final mill package for the upcoming July 28 election.

CITY COUNCIL members will be considering applications for the council vacancy created by the resignation of Stanley Johnston at the next meeting on June 15. The council has pledged to appoint a replacement to serve until the November election before its first meeting in July.

EXTRA COPIES of the 1981 Northville High School yearbook are now available. Yearbooks are $15 and can be ordered by calling Barb Koops at the high school. Pictures also are available for 25 cents today through Friday.

Leaves in July

Johnston resigns from council

Resignation of Councilmember Stanley J. Johnston was accepted "reluctantly" by Northville City Council at its May 27 meeting.

It is to be effective with the first city council meeting in July. Johnston stated in his letter to the council he is resigning his seat due to demands of his present job.

Reelected to his second term on the council in November, 1979, Johnston still had two years remaining on his present four-year term.

"I have been unable to fulfill the many duties and obligations that are incumbent upon any member of city council, and it is evident to me that the future months will not bring about any change in my working situation."

"I have given the decision a good deal of thought, and I can assure you that it was not an easy one to make. I make this decision on the same basis that I have served on city council: out of a sincere concern for the best interests of the City of Northville," Johnston stated.

In accepting the resignation with "thanks and gratitude" the council noted that Johnston has served as council liaison on the recreation commission, on the 35th District Court committee and as the council's representative in union negotiations with city employees.

This latter role especially was cited by the council as Mayor Paul Vernon noted it will make it difficult to replace him.

A 30-year resident of the community who previously served two terms on the Northville Board of Education, Johnston was praised by Councilmember G. Dewey Gardner for being "very civic minded."

STANLEY J. JOHNSTON

Gardner said he personally regretted Johnston's need to resign.

Early this year Johnston closed his real estate business at 104 West Main and now is manager and part-owner of Northville Lanes Bowling Alley.

He did not attend last Wednesday's council meeting because he was home ill, Mayor Vernon reported.

Vernon said it will be hard to fill Johnston's seat on council as much more is involved than attendance at the twice monthly council sessions. All members serve on separate committees.

tees as council representatives and many, like that of labor negotiations, are daytime meetings.

The council agreed it will appoint a replacement by the first meeting in July, the time given by Johnston in his letter of resignation to make this possible.

The interim councilmember will serve until the November election when the post will be open to fill out Johnston's term.

That will mean there will be three council seats up for election as well as that of the mayor. In addition to the unexpired term, the four-year terms of J. Burton DeRusha and Gardner will be up.

Only member whose term will not be expiring will be Carolann Ayers, who was elected to her first term on the council with Johnston in 1979.

The council instructed City Clerk Joan McAllister to advertise the council post and to seek resumes from interested citizens by June 12 to give time for consideration.

Johnston who has been serving on the Downtown Development Authority stated he would like to continue in that post.

A resident of Lexington Commons at 20489 Lexington Boulevard, Johnston is a former teacher. Before going into the real estate business, he taught for 10 years and coached football, basketball and baseball. He was recreation director for four years.

He grew up on a farm in Lenawee County and enlisted in the United States Marine Corps, serving for 3½ years during World War II. He was a 1950 graduate of Eastern Michigan University.

Hundreds will raise blisters for mankind Saturday

Local residents shouldn't be too surprised when some 500 to 800 children and adults come walking through their neck of the woods around town this Saturday.

The Northville Jaycees are conducting their annual "Walk for Mankind" to benefit underprivileged persons around the world.

According to Chairman Bob Korr, things have pretty much gone according to plan in preparation for the walk which will begin at 9 a.m. in the municipal parking lot behind Big Boy Restaurant in Northville Square.

"I'm pretty optimistic. We've always had a good response from the kids," Korr said.

He added there have been some excellent people working for him who have helped with the walk before and have talked with the children in school about Saturday's event.

The "Walk for Mankind" is held to help raise money for Project Concern International, Korr said, which helps teach underprivileged people how to take care of themselves.

Of the money taken in by Project Concern, Korr said, less than eight percent is used for administrative costs.

"And groups like the Jaycees, Elks, Kiwanis or Eagles who help with the project practically do it for nothing," he added.

The money is raised by the walkers having persons, groups or businesses sponsor them for a certain amount of money for each mile walked. This year's "Walk for Mankind" is 20 miles.

The Jaycees are hoping to pass $25,000 in donations, Korr said, which would top last year's $16,000 total.

Also, Northville is second only to Livonia in the amount of money raised, Korr said. Livonia raised $78,000 last year, but had around 2,400 walkers, he added.

"I think we'll do well past $25,000, but you never know until race day," Korr said.

However, Korr was quick to point out Northville is number one in the state in most pledge money per sponsor.

That, he says, is in large part due to people like Ray St. Clair, a Chippewa Indian boy who raised over $300 himself last year to help Chippewa Indians around the nation.

Already for this year's walk, St. Clair has about 10 sponsor sheets filled out, Korr said.

Korr related that when he visited the boy recently, St. Clair stated he wanted to help underprivileged kids.

"It's nice to know we have kids (willing) to give their time to help someone else," he said. "Some kids just walk for like a penny or two a mile and raise only three or four dollars, but that is really nice."

For parents concerned about the safety of their children during the walk Korr said they need not worry.

"The kids are number one," he said.

St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church has donated two buses to pick up children who drop out of the walk before reaching the finish, Korr said.

The Northville C.B. Club will have eight cars traveling around to monitor the event. The Club also will be working in cooperation with the city and township police to help insure the safety of the children walking.

In addition, there are 16 checkpoints along the way which are manned by various groups, Korr said. These checkpoints will validate each mile walked and will provide refreshments and any first aid the walker might need.

Groups working the checkpoint stations are the Cabbage Town Club, Highland Lake Women's Club, Northville City Council, Township and City Fire Departments, the Senior Citizens of Allen Terrace, Rotary Club, Kiwanis Club, the Northville Township Board of Trustees and the Northville-Novi Chapter of Parents Without Partners.

"We get quite a bit of participation," Korr said.

Orange juice, donated by Burger Chef, will be served to the walkers in the morning at the start. For lunch at the halfway point they will be served

Layoff notice sent to 109 teachers

An unprecedented 109 K-12 teachers in the Northville Public Schools received layoff notices last Wednesday following the board of education's decision to proceed with reductions based on the current 25.9 mill budget.

The layoffs, the largest in the district's history, include a reduction of 20 teachers due to declining enrollment and teachers returning from leave and a reduction of 89 teachers due to economic uncertainties and the possibility of the district having to continue to operate on a 25.9 mill budget.

The board currently is operating on an actual 24.2 mill budget due to the rollback. The defeat of the 9.5 millage request April 4 resulted in a reduction in the school budget of approximately $2.7 million — about one-third of the school district's funds.

In addition to the 109 K-12 teacher layoffs, the board unanimously approved the administration's recommendation to lay off 20 ISEP teachers due to declining enrollment and to lay off four administrators as teachers at the expiration of their administrative contracts July 1.

"I've sat here for three years and 11 months and I don't think I've done anything harder in my life," said board vice president Charles Peltz in regards to the layoffs. "This is the guts of our program."

The number of teachers recalled next fall will depend largely on the July millage election and the type of instructional program the board adopts for next year, according to Burton Knighton, assistant superintendent for administrative services.

The board, which has been examining ways to reduce the budget by almost $3 million since the April 4 millage defeat, unanimously voted Monday night to reduce the school day to five hours, add 10 students to the staffing ratio and eliminate elementary art, music and physical education.

This would result in a cost savings of about $1 million. An additional $1.6 million previously was reduced from the budget.

Knighton estimated that with the board's decision to reduce class hours and increase class size, an estimated 30-35 of the 89 laid off teachers will be recalled in the fall.

The implementation of the board's approved reductions will depend on the July millage election. To keep a balanced budget the board is required to make programming recommendations based upon its current operating millage.

Barb LeBoeuf, president of the Northville Education Association, said most teachers were prepared for the layoffs in light of the millage defeat.

"The thing that is most incredible to me is that the community did not pass a renewal," she said.

LeBoeuf said she feared that many teachers may leave the district because of the economic situation and the job uncertainty.

"I think the teachers looking for jobs will be ones who will have the easiest time finding jobs and we will have the hardest time replacing," she said.

Of the 20 teachers laid off at the end of the 1980-81 school year, 12 are due directly to the declining student enrollment in the district. It is estimated that there will be 131 fewer children enrolled in the Northville Public Schools next fall.

The remaining nine teachers are being laid off for the purpose of providing positions for teachers who are presently on leave and due to return at the start of the 1981-82 school year. Teachers returning from leave are able to "bump" teachers of lesser seniority according to contract language.

If some kind of millage renewal is passed before the start of the 1981-82 school year, some of the teachers may be recalled or called back to fill part time teaching positions.

The four administrators given earlier layoff notification through non-renewal of their contracts due to declining enrollment and economic uncertainties are Michael Burley, Linda Kowalczyk, Beth Flack and Dan Hull.

All four administrators have tenure in the school district as teachers and would normally have the right to move back into the teacher ranks according to past practice and the definition of seniority.

However, due to the depth of the layoffs in the teacher ranks at the end of this school year, the four administrators will not have enough seniority to move into teaching positions and will be laid off as teachers effective at the end of their administrative contracts July 1.

The board also unanimously approved the administration's recommendation to authorize the superintendent to proceed with the layoff of non-certified personnel as is necessary to the operate the school district with a reduced number of students and on a 25.9 mill budget.

Non-certified personnel includes employees in the custodial, maintenance, secretarial, transportation, teacher aide and cafeteria areas. The administration delayed issuing layoff notices until receiving final approval on unemployment insurance, which the district applied for earlier in May.

The district received notification May 22 that it is insured for unemployment compensation effective since May 1.

The unemployment insurance issued through ARM of Michigan through MASA/SEG will save the district considerable costs in unemployment, according to Knighton.

The district pays a deductible of $44,946 and an annual premium of $5,288 with the carrier paying up to a maximum of $250,000 in unemployment costs.

Final acceptance of the insurance agreement came from Lloyds of London.

City passes $2.3 million budget

Call it "putting your best foot forward."

As city council members approved a $2,346,760 budget for 1981-82 at the May 26 meeting, they also took City Manager Steven Walters' advice and voted to transfer up to $70,000 from the Public Improvement Fund into the General Fund for the fiscal 1980-81 year.

The sum is sufficient to offset the General Fund deficit, making the bonds the city will be seeking for the paving of South Main more attractive to investors.

Walters said he recommended the action as the General Fund is the primary basis of the finance statement furnished prospective bond buyers since it is related to the city's general operations and tax-supported services.

It is the fund generally asked about by buyers and raters, such as Moody's and Standard and Poor's, he said.

Even if the overall total of balances of all funds shows a surplus, Walters warned, the city will be considered to have a deficit balance if the General Fund has a deficit balance.

The city's General Fund showed a $89,232 deficit as of June 30, 1980; with the 1980-81 budget reducing it only to $66,866 (the amount to be transferred), leaving the balance to be offset in 1981-82.

Even though the Public Improvement Fund will have a balance of approximately $75,000, it will not be considered as offsetting the General Fund balance if the proposed two-year repayment plan is maintained, Walters said.

Walters added that the transfer had been discussed with the city auditing firm which had assured that it was a proper action. It was agreed it is in the city's best interest to make the fund transfer if a second measure reducing the Public Improvement Fund's contribution to the General Fund by the same amount for the fiscal 1981-82 also were approved.

As both actions were passed unanimously, the councilmembers noted that the two changes leave both funds in the same position at June 30, 1982.

At the meeting the council also agreed to retain First of Michigan as financial consultant for the sale of the bonds, approved by voters at the May 19 election by 1,341 to 521.

Approval of the 15.48 mill budget was unanimous following a public hearing at the meeting last week Tuesday.

General Fund revenues of $2,346,760 come from property taxes, $1,089,948; state-shared revenues, $291,500; fees and permits, $39,800; fines and District Court, $181,100; sales of city services, $37,000; federal grants, $51,000; interest and miscellaneous, $45,000; inter-fund reimbursement, $611,412.

General Fund appropriations balancing the revenues are administration, $402,965; police, $724,200; fire, $133,750; building department, $45,725; public works, $411,750; city-township shared services, $93,600; insurance, fringes and miscellaneous, $534,770.

The budget earmarks federal revenue sharing funds in the 1981-82 fiscal year at $21,800, police equipment; $19,230, fire equipment; and $12,000, fire inspection program.

The budget reflects 13.68 mills for city operating to be collected on the July tax bills; 0.50 mill for South Main paving debt retirement to be collected on the July bill; and 1.30 mills for the Randolph Drain debt retirement to be collected on the December bills. This is a total levy of 15.48 mills.

The levy is up only a fraction of a mill from last year, rising 0.25 mill. While the 0.50 millage now is added for South Main bonding, the difference in last year's total of 15.18 is accounted for in the operating levy reduction. Last year's operating levy was 13.88 mills.

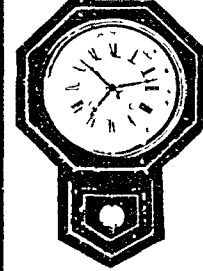

The budget had been gone over in detail by the council at study sessions earlier. As it passed, Mayor Paul Veron termed it a "bare-bones budget."

The council had no one in the audience for the budget hearing.

Curriculum evaluation is essential. Administration costs must reflect declining enrollment.

EDITOR'S NOTE: — Following are biographies and answers to questions asked of the three candidates running for the Northville Board of Education by the local chapter of the League of Women Voters. The League is a national non-partisan organization whose purpose is to promote political responsibility through informed and active participation of citizens in government. The League speaks to issues (not candidates) only after thorough study of the issue and a consensus position has been agreed upon by the members. Using a total of 50 words per question, the three candidates were asked to answer the following questions posed by the League:

1. How can the Northville School District be cost effective while seeking to maintain quality education? Discuss which programs you would seek to protect from possible budget cuts.
2. As a school board member, what do you feel would be your most important responsibilities?
3. What do you think are the Northville School District's strongest points? ...weakest points? Discuss.
4. What assets and/or abilities would you be bringing to the school board if elected?

Age 45. Reside at Sutters Lane with wife Katie and four sons, ages 15, 13, 5 and 3. Northville resident for six years. Employed by Detroit Diesel Allison, division of General Motors. Master's degree in mechanical engineering. Member of the Society of Automotive Engineers. Mennonite and contributing editor to "Guidelines for Today." Author of two books. Taught high school for two years.

1. Dropping enrollment requires fewer personnel, reducing classrooms cuts janitorial, maintenance and utility costs. Closing classrooms is better than closing schools; it avoids costly busing. A new high school attendance policy can reduce repeating classes. Reduce utility costs by improving insulation. Maintain present programs.

2. Promote good communication; listen and communicate with the public and educational personnel. This includes being aware of the community views of taxation and being sensitive to economical conditions so that a "business as usual" attitude is avoided. Communications bring awareness of desired educational opportunities.

3. The elementary and junior high schools are well operated. High school student accountability can be improved by guiding all students to constructive activities. An attendance policy requiring make-up time for unexcused absences will result in improved attendance and fewer suspensions. Parents should have a part in formulating new policy.

4. As an engineer, I can contribute to better operations of the school facilities which is needed due to rising utility and maintenance costs. My past experience as a school teacher also gives me a good understanding of the school environment.

Rezoning hearing changed

Public hearing of a rezoning petition that would permit residential lots on Seven Mile opposite the state hospital to be used for professional offices has been delayed due to a publishing error.

Maps of the lots proposed for rezoning from R-2 (low density single family homes) to OS-1 had improper lot lines drawn, so the publishing process must begin again and the hearing date delayed until completion of publication requirements, the planning commission decided May 26.

Public hearing of the rezoning petition originally was slated June 9. The commission, in ordering republication of the maps with proper lot lines, moved the meeting, to either June 23 or 30, depending on the availability of commissioners. A June 23 session would be at 8 p.m., on June 30 it probably would be at 7:30 p.m., the evening of the regular meeting at 8 p.m.

"I expect there will be a lot of people from Grandview Acres who would like to address this matter," said commission chairman William McLarty, presenting the case for a separate meeting. "We had better be sure to announce the change of dates, because I think this one is going to draw a crowd."

A new house was constructed on one of the lots nearly two years ago, but repeated attempts to sell the dwelling have failed. Owner Joseph Petro said publicity surrounding continued escapee problems at the hospital adversely affects the economics of building homes on the lots. Petro's statements were made when filing original petition for rezoning.

Adjacent lots to the west are zoned for office and commercial uses.

In murder case

Chief denies police racism

By KEVIN WILSON

Township Police Chief Ronald Nisun denied allegations that his department's policies are racist last week, gaining support in his defense from the township board of trustees and citizens.

Charges of racism rose from some quarters after Nisun said state hospital security forces are called when black persons are seen acting suspiciously near Northville State Hospital on Seven Mile Road.

Yusuf Karriem, a Detroit man shot in a Swan Harbour apartment complex parking lot, on Seven Mile west of the hospital, was taken to the state mental facility May 11 when mistakenly thought to be an escaped patient. He died at the hospital before anyone found he had been shot.

Speaking at a special meeting Thursday night called to consider several police-related issues, Nisun said press coverage of the death, for which a township resident faces second degree murder charges, was essentially accurate but "the tone of my statements didn't come through."

Nisun said newspaper reports that he said hospital security guards were called while township police were still enroute to the scene, partially because the man was black, were correctly reported, to the best of his recollection of a conversation with the paper.

However, the police chief said the "process of condensation" which quoted a "handful of statements" from a 20-25 minute conversation with this reporter failed to place the statements in "the proper perspective."

"I don't think I said anything with any kind of malice," he said. "It wasn't a straight question-and-answer type interview, it was more of a conversation. I can't remember everything I said, but I guess I can't dispute whether what I said was accurately reported."

Still addressing his published statements, and letters to the editor criticizing the procedure followed, Nisun apologized for any poor impressions gathered from his comments.

"I apologize to anybody who read the paper and took it that they were not safe in the township because they happen to be of a certain race," he said.

Nisun said his statements were an attempt to explain the incident and demonstrate how problems with escapees from the hospital contributed to the erroneous impression that Karriem was one of those escapees.

"A couple years back I was appointed to a security committee out there (at the hospital)," the chief said, "and I was trying to get through that all we're doing is sitting and spinning our wheels."

"I was hoping that one of the things to come out of this was the fence (around the hospital grounds) we've been talking about for years," he continued.

"Nothing has been done because the people who make these decisions don't live here; they don't understand what goes on. I was hoping this incident might bring home to them just how the problem is affecting us."

"As a fallout of that, I think, it came out way different than I intended it to come out."

He noted after the meeting that return of escapees to the hospital falls under police jurisdiction. Hospital security forces, he said, have no authority off hospital grounds and if an escapee cannot be convinced to return with the guards police must transport the person back.

Township Clerk Susan Heintz noted that walkaways from the unfenced hospital are still averaging one per day. Police reports show township officers return an escapee to the hospital on average twice per week, and also contact several people weekly who are former patients released from the institution.

Nisun said the procedure of calling hospital security is not limited to blacks, nor to the township police. He said location and behavior are the most often-used criteria, though the race of the person reported as acting suspiciously can be a factor. City and state police in the area operate in a similar manner, calling security when they believe there is reason to believe a person has escaped from the hospital.

A letter to the board from the township police Command Officers Association, a recently formed union representing the three sergeants and lieutenant on the force, said, however, that the union would not "condone such practices as described in the article in the Northville Record," and attributed to the chief.

Lieutenant Kenneth Hardesty, union president, said the association's letter meant race "is not even a factor, never even a consideration. We are professional police officers."

Hardesty confined his comments to the letter, declining to relate the statements to the case itself. "All we did was reflect the union's stance that we do not condone discriminatory practices," he said.

The call about Karriem came from a Swan Harbour resident who said the man was rolling and staggering around the parking lot and told police she thought he was drunk.

Nisun said such behavior is sometimes observed in hospital patients who are heavily drugged, and that Karriem had no outward signs of a bullet wound.

"The police department is in no way racist, I am not a racist and the officers in this case, I think, would have reacted the same way had the man been green," the chief said.

"When they (the officers) decided to put him into the state hospital car, they believed he was a patient," Nisun added. "The medical examiner's report is in and says the man died of a bullet wound. He bled to death, internally. At the time (the officers) had to make a decision, and I fully backed them up on that decision."

"There is no question in my mind that had they known he had suffered any kind of trauma, they would have loaded him into an ambulance and sent him to St. Mary (hospital in Livonia)."

While acknowledging that newspaper reports of the incident were accurate, Nisun took umbrage at a Record editorial condemning the police practice. Assuming that publisher Jack Hoffman wrote the editorial, Nisun named him in his complaints. Record editorials are unsigned. They are written by Hoffman or editor Jean Day, with occasional contributions from other staff members.

"I think Mr. Hoffman, who has probably been with The Northville Record, as a reporter and editor before his current post, longer than I have been with the police department, and I've been here 15 years, would know better," he said. "I would think that if I was a racist he would have pointed it out before this, in all this time."

"I think Jack (Hoffman) has done me a great disservice, as well as hurting my confidence in his credibility."

Residents gathered at the meeting made similar statements, supporting Nisun's attack on the editorial. A vast majority of those attending were members of a campaign committee for additional police millage who also stated objection to an editorial opposing the new levy, which was defeated at the polls by 81 votes of nearly 4,000.

No action was taken by the township board. Supervisor John MacDonald said the intent of the meeting was to discuss the subject in public to "clear the air." He said there was no intention of "putting anyone on the spot."

He read the letter from the COA, which said it disagrees with reports that "the possibility exists that had Mr. Karriem been white he could possibly been checked more closely for injuries."

Referring to Nisun's statements to this reporter, and the subsequent story, the letter said "we have no such discriminatory practices, nor would we condone," the policies described in the story.

The letter was signed by Lieutenant Kenneth Hardesty, Sergeant Dennis Roscoe, Sergeant Gary Batzloff (all officers of the COA) and Detective Sergeant Phillip Presnell.

Voters to elect two

League quizzes six Schoolcraft trustee candidates

Voters June 8 will elect two trustees to the Schoolcraft College board. Six candidates are seeking the post.

The Schoolcraft College District encompasses the K-12 school districts of Clarenceville, Garden City, Livonia, Northville and Plymouth-Canton, along with a small portion of Novi.

Trustees serve six-year terms without pay. A two-year community college, Schoolcraft grants associate in arts and associate in applied sciences degrees. Enrollment is about 8,000.

This questionnaire was prepared by the League of Women Voters, a nonpartisan voter information service which neither endorses nor opposes candidates. The league asked candidates for biographical background and for replies to these questions portant qualities or qualifications to consider in the selection of a president of Schoolcraft College?

2. What significant contributions to you feel you could make to the Schoolcraft board?

3. How can Schoolcraft serve its community more effectively in the '80s? What changes or challenges in this endeavor do you foresee?

1. What do you believe are the three most im-

Taki J. Anagnostou

49, of 14125 Cranston, Livonia. PhD polymer chemistry. Vice president for research and development of a multi-plant chemical coatings company. Adjunct professor U-D College of Engineering. Served on two university industrial advisory councils. Former trustee, Kimberly Oaks Civic Association.

1. Must be an effective communicator in order to interrelate academic environment with the community; must be able to work with the board of trustees, school administrators, faculty and students; must understand and work within the legislative process.

2. My combination of industrial and academic experience can add both viewpoints to the future problems of the college. This is especially important as we try to meet the anticipated revenue shortages. I am well aware of industries' needs and can help coordinate the Schoolcraft program.

3. Trade readjustment and revenue shortfall will be future crises. These crises should be dealt with other than by means of the taxation process. Schoolcraft College should project future needs of industry and meet those needs as well as other needs of the community.

Wesley L. Berry Jr.

10021 Middlebelt, Livonia. I am a member of the Livonia Rotary Club, Jaycees and Elks. I am also a member of the Wm. Perrett Masonic Lodge of Plymouth and reside in Livonia with my wife, Christine. As a successful businessman, I operate three businesses including the Wesley Berry Floral companies. I am the director of instruction for a private vocational school. I'm also a consultant for "Morning Magazine" on WJBK-TV and "Kelly & Company" on WXYZ-TV.

1. The search for a college president should not only be a search for an able administrator, but an effort to find a capable person with a firm understanding of the implications of our rapidly advancing technology. By the year 1990, one would expect computers to have become the single most dominant part of your society, the operation of which will be as important as one's ability to read and write. Also the upcoming economic climate demands that he be capable of making maximum use of tax dollars.

2. My avid belief that a community college should meet not only the enrichment but the occupational needs of its community. This will give our community the advantage of better prepared citizens capable of gaining meaningful employment. My sound judgment and outstanding business background will give me the insight necessary to move Schoolcraft College into the challenges of the 1980s.

3. In the years to come, the age of technology will explode into an era of change. The graduates of Schoolcraft will have to be capable of dealing with a host of new careers, brought about by this change. New abilities will be needed for every occupation, and Schoolcraft will have moral obligations to provide the education necessary for not only the sake of its students but for the enrichment of the entire community.

Richard J. Hayward

52, of 17159 Loveland, Livonia. Have served for three years on the board of trustees at Schoolcraft College. Graduate of Madonna College with a bachelor of science in business administration. Thirty years business experience, former executive VP of a local steel company. Presently self-employed consultant to the structural steel industry. Currently serving on the board of trustees of Madonna College.

1. The three most important qualities or qualifications to consider in the selection of a new president — assuming he has the basic experience and education requirements — would be leadership, integrity and a commitment to the community college concept. Leadership — because the college is going to go through a period of change in the next few years due to funding, enrollment and emphasis on job training. Integrity — so that the different groups involved, students, faculty, administrative staff and public, will have the confidence to support his leadership. We should keep the college in perspective and guide it in the path it was intended for.

2. I would continue to give the Schoolcraft board the benefit of my varied experience in business, construction, labor relations, management and educational training. This varied experience allows me to make independent, objective decisions on matters affecting the college.

3. Schoolcraft can serve its community more effectively in the 1980s by planning ahead for the changes that are taking place in our society. There is a changing emphasis within education. The emphasis, especially at the community college level now, is job and marketable skills. We must anticipate these changes and have the vision to prepare for them.

Paul Y. Kadish

44, of 18687 Purlingbrook, Livonia. Eight years, board of trustees, Schoolcraft College, including four years as chairperson, two each as vice chairperson and treasurer. Two years, board of directors, Michigan Community College Association. President, Associated Group Underwriters Inc. Former Democratic nominee, state Senate, 14th District.

1. Educational and administrative background and experience and view of the community college concept. Understanding of the suburban community in which the college must live and the educational and political climate in which it must compete, survive and grow. View of the chief executive in relation to the faculty, student body, community and board of trustees.

2. I have worked hard through the years to gain the respect of the faculty, administration, student body and community. I believe that I have been reasonably successful. With an ability to work well with people of divergent views, I hope to be able to help mediate those views toward the best interest of the community and higher education.

3. Schoolcraft must continue to provide a quality education at relatively low cost to all who wish it. We must keep a constant vigil to avoid waste and duplication. Continuation and further expansion of our community centers, particularly in Plymouth-Canton and Garden City, are necessary. A constant program to update career programs with the needs of the job market must be maintained.

John J. Pantalone

52, of 7558 Melvin, Westland. Hold degrees from three universities. Specialist degree concentrated on negotiations, school law and community college. Currently instructing Community College Organization and Administration to graduate students at EMU; past president, Michigan Education Association; chief negotiator (six years) for American Federation of School Administrators; 20 years educational evaluator for North Central Association; board of directors, NMC alumni; 30 years in youth hockey.

1. The prospective president should possess a) a philosophy that is in agreement with the expectations of the community, b) experiences in democratic administration that lead to high morale — he could not survive without the support of students and faculty; c) written and spoken communications skills, integrity in personal and professional relations and strong intellectual ability and scholarship.

2. My most significant contribution will be a willingness to share 20 years of experiences in community college areas. I offer the following: I have been a community college administrator; have studied and taught community college philosophy and administration, am experienced on both sides of the negotiation table. I consider all this extremely important, but even more important, I understand that the roles of board members and the president are significantly different, and both should be respected.

3. Declining high school enrollments, frequent career shifts, early retirements and an increasingly older population all affect sharply needed change in community college service. The notion that a student will enroll for a two-year program and then leave will change markedly. I foresee individuals availing themselves of community college services many times in many ways. Industry and business will seek our services for additional training and retraining of employees

Laura M. Toy

29, of 28821 Five Mile, Livonia. Graduate with associate of arts degree from Schoolcraft College. Graduate from U-M with bachelor of general studies. Business owner of Cardwell Florist. Women's Advisory Board, Schoolcraft College. Past president, Livonia Youth Commission and Business and Professional Women's Club.

1. Knowledge of fiscal management — managing monies in difficult times. Demonstrated administrative abilities (leadership qualities: ability to delegate authority and responsibility) with strong communications skills with faculty, students, community, political representatives and service organizations. A strong background in innovative instructional approaches to focus the direction of the institution for the '80s and '90s with a commitment to the community college concept.

2. I will be the only past student on the board. My community education background: I understand the directions which the college needs to go in the future to obtain finance dollars while state and federal funds are drying up and becoming more difficult to obtain (such as fund-raising activities which meet the needs of the community). My activities in communities and being a lifelong resident and business owner in the area.

3. Retraining because of the major shift away from jobs in the auto industry. Computer education and word-processing careers for the information explosion and the management of education. Technology at the college must stay current with equipment utilized presently in business and industry. Board members must be aware of declining enrollment of typical 18-20-year-old students. Focus on curriculum career requirements of 30-40-year-old community members in this changing area

Alarm board stays, for now

The on-again, off-again order to remove an alarm board from township police dispatch offices is off-again — for awhile at least.

The board of trustees Thursday decided to forestall its earlier order to remove the board until further study of the situation is completed.

So the alarm board owned by AAA Alarm remains on the premises past the June 1 deadline the board gave for removing it.

The first order to remove the board was made in April but business manager David Lelko delayed sending correspondence to AAA when police chief Ronald Nisun said he would prefer to keep it.

The board declined to reconsider the matter May 14, ordering Lelko to send the letter, which he did. Faced with a crowd of residents and businessmen supporting the police request to keep the board at a special meeting May 28, however, the board reneged and ordered Lelko to study the matter further and report at a June 11 meeting.

Residents and businessmen with alarm systems connected to the police station appeared at the board meeting to protest the order, as did Joseph Alvarez, president of AAA Alarm.

"We spent thousands of dollars to have an alarm system installed, and tied into the police station," said Olga James, a Six Mile resident. "No one told us they were going to take out this board."

She said the alarm is a recent installation, purchased after an October 22 break-in. AAA did not install the alarms, nor did the James' know about the police board before deciding to have an alarm system, but now they are tied into AAA's board and wish to continue.

Nisun said he wants the board into the office because it gives faster response times, but only one because more than one board is too complicated to administer.

Having only one board, however, was the crux of the trustee's decision to remove it. The exclusive nature of the tie-in, the board argued, gives AAA an unfair advantage over other alarm firms. Early in consideration of the issue, the board heard from citizens who said AAA fees were more expensive than others because of the board.

But two businessmen at the meeting said AAA had competitive rates. One proprietor has AAA-installed alarms, another has alarms from another firm but is tied into the police through AAA's board.

The firm charges a fee, usually passed on to the consumer, for other alarm companies to use the board.

More than 25 alarms are connected directly to the dispatch station, after a recent spurt in installations increased use from the 17 formerly connected.

Board members, however, said that number is not a significant one.

"The board had to make some kind of decision," Clerk Susan Heintz said. "In essence, the entire township is paying for our dispatcher to watch over alarms for 25 people."

The response time argument of Nisun drew support from those who said that if police catch a burglar at one home or business the thief is less likely to strike other places in the township.

To arguments that direct lines to the police are more efficient, however, another resident disagreed.

"I run an alarm company myself," said Patrick Coyne, "and I can tell you, it is more efficient to have the alarm sound at the company offices."

"More than 90 percent of all alarms are false," he said, "and that's where we have an advantage over police monitoring of alarms. We know when our customers open the store, or when they are leaving and so, when the alarm sounds at those times, we call to confirm before we call the police."

Board members decided to have Lelko investigate practices in other communities further and report to the board.

"Since we've gotten into this," Supervisor John MacDonald said, "we've found out the city of Plymouth has a board all customers can tie into, so we'd like to look into that some more."

Lelko is to report at the June 11 regular session of the board of trustees. Alvarez may discover then whether his alarm board will stay or go.

Arraign suspect in bomb threats

A Northville man was arraigned in 35th District Court in Canton Thursday in connection with two separate bomb threat incidents that have occurred over the past two weeks, city police report.

Daniel O'Keefe entered a plea of not guilty to two counts of "intimidation, or harassment, by device represented as a bomb or explosive device."

O'Keefe was released on $10,000 bond, police said.

No date has been set yet for O'Keefe's examination, police said.

The first incident occurred May 15 at the Main Street School. Police responded to the scene and made a check of the building in which they found a shoe box with unknown materials laying by the southwest door at the rear of the school, the report said.

The area was secured and the Michigan State Police Bomb Squad was called in, police said. The bomb squad arrived at 1:30 a.m. and a small charge pipe bomb was used to blow open the box, the report said.

All that was found in the box were chicken and spare rib bones, police said.

In the second incident May 22 police responded to a call made by a woman about a possible bomb threat at a local bar and hotel, the report said.

An officer spoke with the woman, who had talked with a waitress who had been approached by a patron and informed her he saw a shoe box with the words, "This is a bomb" on the lid laying next to the rear door where he entered, police said.

The Michigan State Police Bomb Squad was again called in. A small charge pipe bomb was used to blow open the shoe box. The contents of the box were chicken and spare rib bones, the report said.

A 1974 American Motors AMX was stolen sometime between May 25-26, but has since been recovered, city police said.

The vehicle was discovered missing at about 7:30 a.m. May 26 from Charlie's Bump Shop on Old Novi Road, police said.

Proprietor Charlie Bakkila said the car had just been repainted.

The police still are gathering information from various police stations concerning the case. The investigation is open and there is a suspect, police said.

Two incidents of stolen purses were reported to city police.

A woman had her purse stolen May 27 from a parking lot near the north end of the Mill Race Historical Village, city police said.

The woman said she was working at the Mill Race and had the purse next to her car while she loaded a lawn mower in her car, police said.

She said she drove away forgetting about the purse and when she returned it was gone. The value of the beige shoulder purse and its contents were unknown.

A purse was reported stolen from a Maplewood residence sometime the night of May 27, city police report.

The woman said she placed her purse between the car and the bushes of her driveway and took a walk. Upon returning she discovered the purse was missing. The value of the blue shoulder sack purse and contents were placed at $150, police said.

Inmates in tents here

The Michigan National Guard last Friday was setting up two large tents at the Phoenix Correctional Facility to help house 20 additional inmates on a temporary basis, a prison spokesperson said.

The additional inmates are being housed at the minimum-security prison at Five Mile and Beck Road to help alleviate some of the overcrowding at the Wayne County Jail, Sandra Johnson, administrative assistant, said.

She said the inmates who can't be transferred to Jackson State Prison from the Wayne County Jail are the ones being housed at Phoenix.

Johnson believes the inmates will not be at Phoenix very long because "they are housing them in tents."

Schoolcraft trustee candidates address league issues

By TIM RICHARD

In less than a year, the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees will have to replace a president who is moving west, replace a provost who is going to the sunbelt and replace a vice-president for student affairs who is retiring.

The prospect of such a major turnover has attracted six candidates for two seats on the board of trustees in the June 8 election.

An incumbent trustee, a former trustee and four newcomers last week fielded questions on their qualifications and roles in a panel sponsored by the League of Women Voters.

Wesley Berry Jr. said the new president should be "an able administrator capable of understanding the technology of the future — computers."

The 24-year-old florist said the college must provide education on its merits and also consider "the employability of students." He is director of instruction for a floral institute school.

John Pantalone, an administrator in Taylor School District who teaches at Eastern Michigan University, too, said:

"Since 1973 I've instructed communication college administration — people who think that some day they may be presidents of a Schoolcraft College."

Pantalone, 52, who has degrees from three Michigan universities, said placement of graduates in jobs is a high priority

Laura Toy, owner of a floral, card and gift shop, said the new president should have strong labor relations skills.

The only Schoolcraft graduate among the candidates, Toy, 29, said the two-year college needs an alumni program.

She said her involvement with Schoolcraft includes working on millage campaigns, being a member of the Newman Association, taking part in the community garden project, being a member of the Futures Club, attending cultural events and playing school sports. She earned a bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan and also is active in women's political groups.

Taki Agnostou, vice-president for research and development of a chemical coatings company, said he started his career as a bench chemist and has taught at three universities.

Dr. Agnostou, 49, said he has changed his view of Schoolcraft "180 degrees" since becoming a candidate and attending indoctrination breakfasts. His top priorities are strengthening the counseling program and articulation — assuring the transferability of credits earned at Schoolcraft to four-year colleges.

"I deal with the automotive, housing and electrical industries," he said. "I pretty well know what they're planning for the future (in terms of employment skills). I will scrutinize the job outlook. I've got experience in the field, and if I disagree (with administrators' projections), they'll know I disagree."

Paul Kadish, who served on the Schoolcraft board from 1971-79, including four years as chairperson, said he earned "the respect of the faculty, administration and the community."

Top priority, he said, will be "forming the new administration for the next decade. I can be of assistance with helping acquaint the new president with what goes on at the college and understanding the political system of the state of Michigan."

Kadish, 44, president of Associated Group Underwriters, said, "It is not the job of a trustee to go into industry and say, 'What do you have available for our folks?' Our job is to make certain there are staff people at the college who come in with recommendations for programs — and to stop programs that are no longer providing jobs."

Richard Hayward, the only incumbent trustee seeking reelection, said many trustees in other colleges haven't seen in 10 years what he has seen in three — two short strikes and the changing of the top administration.

"For the last two months, I've worked on a subcommittee to set up a profile of a new president," said Hayward, 52, a consultant in the structural steel industry.

Hayward said his involvement with Schoolcraft started with meeting former President Eric Bradner in a construction shanty and has extended through taking labor relations courses, gardening and reading everything published about the college.

Three vie for school posts

"I would like to see a high school student sit on the board of education," Davis explained, "I think the board could get some positive feedback about the high school and it would quell some of the negative rumors."

She said maintenance of all buildings is an area which needs improvement and should be examined by the board and the community.

She said she would seek to maintain the program of getting feedback from recent graduates and was impressed with the possibility of having computer programming as part of the curriculum.

Davis said one of her major concerns is the future of Northville Public Schools.

"I don't think the economic issues are going to get better fast," she explained. "With the kinds of cuts we're making, I think we always have to keep in focus the direct effects on the children."

"You have to make good long range decisions even when the budget's tight. I want to keep my eye on the future all the time."

"Long range planning seems to be something our district has lacked," she said. "With better channels of communication (between the board and the community) I think we can examine some of these areas."

Davis said she also feels there should be more interaction between the schools and the community.

"This community has wonderful resources in terms of people, careers, etc.," she explained. "I think this area could be expanded."

Davis said she has "cleared time for her commitment to the board" and will "live up" to that commitment.

As an engineer, Leland Haines said he believes his career experience could benefit the board of education.

"As an engineer I've been trained to be a problem solver," he explained. "I also could contribute to the better operations of school facilities, such as rising utility costs."

Haines said he was most concerned about "the present financial condition in the school district and the high school's image."

"I think we have to improve the image of the high school and change the high school attendance policy," he said.

"I think we should have fewer suspensions for students who skip," Haines explained. "Instead of suspending those students who skip, we should have students stay extra hours."

"I think this would encourage attendance in class and curb vandalism," Haines said he believes the "question of millage is the most important issue facing the district right now."

"I'm of the opinion that school costs could be reduced due to declining enrollment," he said. "I think we have to work a little harder at reducing costs — this year will be a little harder than next year."

Haines said he believes personnel cuts will have to be made at all levels and feels that administrative cuts should be equal with teacher reductions.

He also said he believes there are too many classrooms for the number of students in the district.

"Closing up classrooms (instead of an entire school) would allow us to save on heating costs and maintenance staff," he explained.

The two candidates chosen to the board will officially begin their terms at the board's first regular meeting in July.

The polls open election day at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m.

Precinct No. 1 — Northville City Offices, 215 West Main.

Precinct No. 2 — Silver Springs School, 19801 Silver Springs Drive.

Precinct No. 3 — Winchester School, 1651 Winchester Drive.

Precinct No. 4 — Amerman School, 847 North Center.

Precinct No. 5 — Northville City Offices, 215 West Main.

Precinct No. 6 — Moraine School, 46811 West Eight Mile.

hot dogs and beverage, Korrr said.

Anyone still interested in walking or in being a sponsor may do so the day of the walk, Korrr said.

To help spur interest among the children a poster contest was conducted. The winner was Kevin Martin, who won a pair of Action Pro Kross Country shoes from Del's Shoes.

Scott Sinkwitt was awarded second place and Ian Newton was third. Both Sinkwitt and Newton received an "I love Northville" T-shirt.

Jayettes President Michele Buelow said a great deal of the credit for the participation goes to art teachers Shirley Talmadge and Edith Pegrum.

She added there was 100 percent participation from the elementary art students.

Buelow also expressed her thanks to Del's Shoe for donating the first prize and to all of the stores who displayed the posters.

'Old-fashioned' social set

"Old-fashioned" is the theme word for the Amerman elementary annual family ice cream social to be held from 6:30-8 p.m. Friday at the school.

Tickets will be sold at the door for an old-fashioned 20 cents each.

Planners report that early, turn-of-the-century socials were the inspiration for this PTA event. Families can socialize, enjoy home baked items, ice cream and games.

MINUTES OF BOARDS & COMMISSIONS The following Minutes were placed on file

Northville Housing Commission, March 25, 1981, Northville Arts Commission, March 23, 1981, April 27, 1981, and Northville Historical Society, April 23, 1981.

APPROVAL OF BILLS. Motion by Councilman Johnston supported by Councilman DeRusha to approve the following bills:
GENERAL FUND-388,270 23, MAJOR STREET FUND-2,950 54, LOCAL STREET FUND-2,606 87, WATER FUND-6,722 33, EQUIPMENT FUND-8,332 12, PUBLIC IMPROVEMENT FUND-16,185 60, ALLEN TERRACE OPERATING FUND-11,979 94, SHARED SERVICES FUND-6,850 18, PAYROLL FUND-52,633 89, CONSTRUCTION FUND-3,315 16, RECREATION FUND-7,663 93, Bond Payments by Wire A T Bond Redemption-5,598 36, Parking Fund-3,155 25. Motion Carried Unanimously.

POLICE REPORT: A Intersection Vision Obstruction Chief Cannon stated the Police Department had reviewed the addresses as listed which were compiled from complaints. Six of the thirteen were within compliance of the ordinance and the other seven have since complied.

b. Unclaimed Property Ordinance. Chief Cannon explained the need for the ordinance re Unclaimed Property.

After much discussion the following changes were made:

Section (A) the word abandoned would be deleted and the word forfeited would be substituted.

The second sentence beginning with the words "As to any such property — would be Sub-Heading (B) Disposal of Property."

Records of Unclaimed Property would be Sub-Heading (C) and Property to Which Inapplicable would be Sub-Heading (D).

Motion by Councilwoman Ayers supported by Councilman Gardner to publish for Public Hearing for the next regular Council meeting to consider an ordinance amendment, Unclaimed Property, to the Code of Ordinances for the City of Northville.

Motion Carried Unanimously. COMMUNICATIONS FROM CITIZENS Mr. Paul Folino, President of the Chamber of Commerce, stated the Chamber was ready to take action to help publicize the S Main Paving question to be put to the voters. He commented they would go door to door and pass out brochures and would also put up signs at the City entrances. Cost of both would be borne by the Chamber. The brochures would also be passed out on Saturday during the City Garage Sale. He asked for comments on the brochure from Council.

Discussion on the financing of the project and the cost to the typical City taxpayer followed. It was noted the most a taxpayer would have to pay for the project would be one-half mill during the first five years of the bond issue. During the last five years, the City's share would decline.

Motion by Councilman Gardner supported by Councilwoman Ayers to adopt a resolution that the City Council pledges that as long as race track revenues continue to be received by the City at the present level or higher, at least one-half of the City's share of the South Main Street project will be paid each year from race track revenues.

Motion Carried Unanimously. Mr. Dolan Sievert, N. Rogers, asked for an up-date on lot No. 374 on N. Rogers.

An appraisal of the property was received from James Cutler. It was his opinion that the best and highest use of the property was as a park or recreational facility. It was also his opinion, it was not economical or profitable to run water and sewer to the site, and with the heavy water runoff he felt a septic system would not function with any amount of efficiency.

Councilman DeRusha commented on the legal access to the property which would have to be shared with adjoining property.

He asked the City Attorney if it were possible to share easements. He wondered if they actually had a saleable piece of property.

Mayor Vernon commented that according to the appraisal the lot was virtually unbuildable. The City Manager stated the appraisal was an opinion and there were certain things a buyer would have to determine, ie, sewer, water, etc.

Councilman Johnston had doubts whether or not the property would perk.

Mr. Sievert stated the property had been given a successful perk test last year.

Councilman Johnston asked if the lot had been given a water table test also.

Mr. Sievert was not sure. Councilman Johnston thought there were too many on site expenses, that it would be too costly to build.

The City Manager shared Councilman DeRusha's concerns and felt the lot was of more value to the city as a park.

Discussion followed on the sale and/or use of the lot. Councilwoman Ayers felt the City was better off holding on to the lot.

Mayor Vernon shared her opinion and mentioned the need for open space. He thought they should work for a planned use of the lot and notify the Recreation Commission to continue to look at it for that purpose.

Motion by Councilman Johnston supported by Councilman DeRusha not to offer lot No. 374 of Northville Assessor's Plat No. 5 for sale, to retain it and continue to look into uses for lot 374 and to notify the Recreation Commission of this action.

Motion Carried Unanimously.

Eric Burkhardt and Peggy Herald, Student Government members from Northville High School were in the audience as part of a class project.

PUBLIC HEARING: PROPOSED USE OF REVENUE SHARING: The Clerk read the notice of public hearing.

Mayor Vernon opened the Public Hearing and asked for comments from the audience, there being no response, he closed the public portion of the hearing, and asked for comments from Council.

The City Manager recommended that Council make a decision on this at the budget hearing.

Councilman DeRusha asked how the funds have been used in the past.

The City Manager mentioned they have been used for Police and Fire Departments and their budgets were short.

Motion by Councilman Johnston supported by Councilman Cardner to defer action and make the proposed use of Revenue Sharing a part of the 1981-82 Budget Hearing.

Motion Carried Unanimously. PUBLIC HEARING: PROPOSED ORDINANCE AMENDMENT - TITLE 5, CHAPTER 5, MOTOR VEHICLES UPON SCHOOL PROPERTY OF THE CODE OF ORDINANCES FOR THE CITY OF NORTHVILLE: The Clerk read the notice of public hearing.

Mayor Vernon opened the Public Hearing and asked for comments from the audience.

Eric Burkhardt asked about the possibility of obtaining a 24 hour permit to park.

The City Attorney stated that would have to be up to the school as to the length of time the permit would be good for. He explained the only thing the City is saying is that the Police Department have the authority to ticket the cars without permits.

Peggy Herald asked about someone who might park for perhaps an hour.

The City Attorney explained the school would have visitors parking, however, if an area states no parking, anyone parking in that area would be ticketed. This would apply to all the schools in the City. He mentioned he had talked with Mr. Redmond and was surprised that no one from the schools was at the hearing.

The City Attorney stated the school would have to come back and ask the City to adopt resolutions on the permit area and limitations to be established.

Eric Burkhardt asked if the teachers would have to have permits also.

The City Attorney indicated that would be up to the school board however, he felt it would be a better policy if they had a permit on their car.

Mayor Vernon explained the school board initiated this action and requested the Police Department to be the enforcing body.

Paul Folino asked what would happen if a student missed the bus and drove to school that day.

Mayor Vernon commented the school board would have to answer that.

The City Attorney stated the Police Department would not be patrolling the parking lot, that the school would have to request it.

Paul Folino asked if the school board could come back and state it is a city ordinance and the police have to enforce.

The City Attorney commented on the fact that it is not public property and the Police are not obligated to go in and patrol it.

Councilman Johnston stated he did not think the City should get into the aspect of treating it as public property.

Mayor Vernon stated this was essentially the same as the OLV parking lot. He closed the Public Hearing and opened it for Council discussion.

Two changes were suggested

In the ordinance, in Sec. 5-503A the word windshield was deleted and "rear window" was inserted in its place and after Department, the word "of" was deleted and "to" inserted in its place.

Motion by Councilman DeRusha supported by Councilman Gardner to adopt an amendment to Title 5, Chapter 5, Motor Vehicles Upon School Property of the Code of Ordinances for the City of Northville as amended at this meeting.

Motion Carried Unanimously. SMALL GROUP HOME. The City Attorney talked to Mr. Kennedy, attorney for the Small Group Homes who indicated he had seen a list of requirements of things to be done on 384 S. Wing.

Mr. Kennedy's response has been received from the applicant. The City Attorney asked if he could have a list of what was being required and so far has not been able to do so. He mentioned the Freedom of Information Act.

Councilwoman Ayers asked if the State assumed Council had approved the application.

The City Attorney explained form and the City's answer. He also stated he asked Mr. Kennedy about parking and recreation for the group home.

Mr. Kennedy's reply was that they only look at the structure of the building.

Mayor Vernon stated he had talked to Dr. Ochberg re the application on Wing Street and also discussed the application on First Street. It was mentioned the City is not in disagreement with the concept but felt that particular location would be counter receptive to what the State wants to do.

The City Attorney would try to get a copy of rules and regulations under which the State works out their guidelines.

Mayor Vernon would contact Dr. Ochberg again.

Meeting recessed at 9:55 pm and reconvened at 10:00 pm.

1981-82 BUDGET: SET PUBLIC HEARING DATE: Mayor Vernon suggested this was the appropriate time to consider moving the regular meeting date from May 18 to May 26 because conflict with Mayors Exchange Day.

Motion by Councilwoman Ayers supported by Councilman Johnston to call a Special City Council meeting on Monday, May 11, 1981 at 7:30 pm to discuss the 1981-82 Proposed Budget.

Motion Carried Unanimously.

Motion by Councilman DeRusha supported by Councilman Gardner to reschedule the regular meeting, May 18, 1981 to Tuesday May 26, 1981 at 8:00 pm.

Motion by Councilman DeRusha to publish for Public Hearing for Tuesday, May 26, 1981 at 8:00 pm to consider adoption of the 1981-82 Budget.

Motion Carried Unanimously.

ANNUAL GARAGE SALE: a. Request to Close Streets-May 16-6:00 am to 6:00 pm: Request from the Northville Chamber of Commerce to have the streets closed to traffic on May 16th, 1981 from 6:00 am to 6:00 pm for the Annual Garage Sale.

The streets involved would be Main from Wing to Hutton and Center from Dunlap to Mary Alexander Court.

Motion by Councilman Johnston supported by Councilman Gardner to approve the request of the Chamber of Commerce to close Center and Main on May 16, 1981 from 6:00 am to 6:00 pm subject to the supervision of the City Manager and Police Department.

Motion Carried Unanimously. b. Sign Request: Request from the Northville Chamber of Commerce to put up 4 signs at the entrances to Northville on April 22nd to May 17 to advertise the Garage Sale.

Motion Carried Unanimously. FLEA MARKET SIGN REQUESTS: Request from the Northville Chamber of Commerce to put up signs at the entrances to Northville during the second week of each month through the month of October. In the event that another organization would like to use the sign, they would use the back side of the signs.

Motion by Councilman DeRusha supported by Councilwoman Ayers to adopt a resolution rejecting the County Board of Commissioners' notice as adopted on April 2, 1981 of discontinuing Road Patrol Service in Hines Park and that copies of the resolution be sent to members of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners and surrounding Wayne County Communities.

Our opinions In Northville— just one choice

Northville residents will be going to the polls Monday to elect two board members who will be helping decide the district's policies in the future. Unfortunately, they will be making only one choice.

Jean Hansen is unopposed for the four year term. Glenna Davis and Leland Haines are vying for the one-year term vacancy caused by the resignation of Richard Barron.

Fortunately, Jean Hansen appears to be a candidate with strong qualifications. She has BA and master's degrees from University of Michigan, has been active in PTA, serving on Amerman's board and has been a participating member of the community.

She believes wholeheartedly in the importance of public education. Our only concern is that her 11 years of teaching should not influence her toward one aspect of the board job.

For the one-year post, our choice has to be Glenna Davis, if for no other reason than that she has shown her commitment to education and the schools through her involvement in a variety of programs. She is vice president of Silver Springs PTA, is a member of the curriculum council and a volunteer teacher aide. She presently is a senior at Eastern Michigan University.

As Michigan president of Homemakers Equal Rights Association she has become politically aware, but she has broadened her interests from this first involvement, serving on such groups as the Northville State Hospital Security Council.

Leland Haines, who holds a master's degree in mechanical engineering, feels he can contribute to better operations of the school with this background. He presently is serving on the citizens' advisory group formed after the millage defeat, but, prior to this, has had little school or community involvement.

Davis' record speaks for itself. She has shown her commitment to her community and to the school system. Her involvement and first-hand experience in the different programs of the school district should be an asset to the board and are deserving of our endorsement.

In interviews, all candidates showed an awareness of strengths and problems of the school district. However, Davis and Hansen have exhibited greater understanding of a board member's role and expressed a willingness to devote a great deal of time to school business, especially during this critical period.

The recent millage defeat has brought to light the lack of communication between the board and the community. It is essential that the lines of communication be kept open and the accessibility which Davis and Hansen can offer is something sorely needed at this time.

The sorrow is that only three have been willing to commit themselves when so many have been critical of the school system.

At Schoolcraft — Hayward and Kadish

For Schoolcraft, three candidates in the field of six stand out as having a strong previous interest in the college. Two trustees are to be elected in next Monday's balloting that also will elect two new members to Northville's Board of Education.

Unfortunately, there is no local candidate among the six vying for the three posts on the college board. All six seeking election to the six-year terms are from Livonia. They serve without pay, and usually without thanks.

Incumbent trustee Richard Hayward deserves reelection. With 30 years in the structural steel industry he brings a knowledge of building and of labor-management relations to the community college board. Those who regularly attend board meetings at the college report "he thinks in terms of solving problems rather than political posturing ... the college is better for having his cool objectivity."

It's good to see Paul Kadish running again. He served from 1971-79 on the Schoolcraft board in years of money frustrations, maturing of the college and some labor problems. He took two years off and returns to the scene refreshed. He has now acquired political skills, in the highest sense of the word. Kadish joined the board when it was politically polarized and left it unified. He didn't do this alone, but was certainly a chief ingredient.

Schoolcraft board is losing trustee Mark McQuesten, the only former student who ever served in its ranks. Laura Toy could bring the board a student perspective. She was graduated from Schoolcraft with an associate in art degree, going on to earn a baccalaureate at University of Michigan.

As an alumna she has worked on millage campaigns and in advisory groups to programs such as the Women's Resource Center. She likes work but lacks the labor-management experience of Hayward and Kadish, and her political activity in women's groups could suggest a one-issue orientation. Past candidates, however, have come to the board and grown into the job.

Those interested in Schoolcraft College should make every effort to vote wisely as the new board will help appoint a new president, at least two vice presidents and probably a number of deans.

Since four of the other five trustees are from the Livonia school district, Northville residents — along with those of Plymouth-Canton, Clarenceville and Garden City — stand accused of ignoring the college they helped create and for which they are paying taxes.

Off the record

By Kevin Wilson

The new management of the laundromat near my home in Inster is a married couple recently arrived from their native land of South Korea.

They brought a message all that way that's had me pondering and scratching my head since an evening a couple of weeks ago when the husband was helping me fold clothes.

I was rushing around, trying to finish in time to get home before my wife did, and the man grabbed my arm as I tossed some item into the laundry basket:

"American peoples," he said, looking straight into my eyes from about four inches away, shaking his head, "all the time hurry, hurry, hurry. Where you go at?"

I tried to explain, without success because his English is new to him and my Korean is non-existent. It slowly dawned on me that the man was not asking me, personally, what I was rushing around like a madman for, but was genuinely trying to understand a culture trait he had been watching for a month or so.

I couldn't tell him where we were all trying to "go at" in such a hurry. In fact, in the larger sense, I couldn't tell him about why I, personally, find myself running full speed sometimes and getting nowhere at all.

All of which leads circuitously to an idea I've been thinking about seriously.

Why is it that no matter how direct the impact of an election on voters, officials are always thrilled if the turnout approaches 50 percent? Are they eternal optimists, seeing only a half-full cup without noticing the half-empty part?

Locally, less than 50 percent of the registered voters in the township went to the polls in a three-issue election, every vote of which had a potential influence on their bank balances.

And that's supposed to be good.

Why? Because people don't turn out for elections anymore, that's why. The stock explanations are apathy, lack of education on the issues, lack of trust in government, a belief that votes don't influence anything.

The overlooked part of the puzzle is that we're in too big a hurry. Work schedules conflict with elections, there are always other things to be done, other places to go.

Judging by the numbers willing to sit through some meetings of public bodies just to speak to one issue that is two hours down the agenda, I can't buy the apathy argument. At least not around here.

The real apathy is at the legislative level, where no one is trying to improve things. If people are in too big a hurry on Tuesdays, why don't we have elections when they slow down?

What's wrong with Saturday or Sunday elections? Those who object to these days on religious grounds could always be granted absentee voting privileges.

Or how about voting for a solid 24-hours, say noon Friday to noon Saturday, or the days of your choice? That would not only allow more time for people to "get around to it" but would likely shorten those awful lines that discourage some.

The unions would have us declare national holidays for those elections, and state holidays on state election days. I don't know that America could handle another paid holiday, but it's another idea to throw in the kettle.

How about paid time off only if you can show you voted? Business could do its part without it costing a thing if it extended the working hours election day and gave employees time to go vote in shifts, the time to be made up by coming in early or leaving later.

Surely working until 6 or 7 p.m. beats leaving at 5 and standing in line until 9 p.m.?

Of course, nothing is being done. Problems of this sort are like the weather — everyone talks but no one does anything. The legislative bodies are not likely to change election procedures. There is no constituency for such a big switch, no lobbys, no votes in it.

We're all in such a hurry, going our own directions, that there is little likelihood of us noticing where the grand experiment that is democracy is going, in its own hurry.

The Korean laundromat owner is seeking citizenship. It's a shame that he's one of the handful likely to use it as intended.

Remembering smells isn't as easy as remembering those things that produced the smells. But if you really put your mind to it, those nostalgic odors from the past live again.

The rules are simple: take yourself back to a particular place and time, recall some past activity, concentrate — and presto! — the smells are alive.

Take for instance the Saturday smells my brother Dick and I conjured up. I started started with a simple one, he spiced it with others, and we soon had a hybrid that was as real as the original.

For me, the Saturday smell in our home, where the kitchen served for both cooking and bathing, was the bread rising near the coal stove register, the rolls baking in the oven, and the giant doughnuts sizzling in a pan of grease and then popped steaming into a dish of sugar.

"That's about right," said Dick, "but Saturday was really three smells — morning, afternoon and evening. And they all sort of blended together to produce a smell that I'd rather forget."

He reminded me of the giant kettle of vegetable soup — so big that soup was part of our menu half-way into the next week. ("Doncha remember? It would sit on the stove for days — the grease on top congealed until reheated.")

By early evening the smell of soup seasoned with the aroma of baked break and rolls, melted into the steam from scalding tubs of bath water. And these, together with wet towels and wet hair, produced the smells he — and now I — remembered.

But it was the Monday smell he favored:

The big copper tub on top of the two-burner kerosene stove in the basement...the pungent bars of Fels Naptha soap whittled into the kirchunking Maytag washer...the piles of dirty clothes...and the clean, sun-fresh smells that came in off the lines.

"Remember?"

Could second school millage rejection spell disaster?

To the Editor:

It seems that many citizens voted "No" in the recent school millage election in order to protest perceived faults of the Northville School District.

Avenues for rectifying these grievances do exist — such as contacting school board members, attending school board meetings, campaigning for candidates who feel as you do, serving on the school board, working on citizen's advisory committees, building strong, viable PTAs, etc. These appear to be more constructive solutions than the destructive one of slashing the school budget by $2.7 million.

Although it is obvious that these are difficult economic times, the deplorable consequences of increased class size, elimination of enrichment and extra-curricular activities, and the lay off of superb teachers are not sacrifices I am willing to make for the sake of a few dollars.

When it becomes necessary to "tighten one's belt," I prefer to cut back on luxuries. I do not consider quality education to be one. I intend to vote "Yes" in the next election, and hope I am given the opportunity to vote for a millage level that will keep our programs intact.

Sincerely,
Cheryl Holmberg

To the Editor:

As a student at Northville High School, I feel people should hear a student's feelings about the millage renewal that was defeated on April 4.

The week of the election The Record quoted Lawrence Nichols (superintendent of schools), saying, "If the mills are not renewed, there will be cataclysmic program reductions." He mentioned 30 percent across the board reductions in school programs and a layoff of 30 percent of the staff in Northville's school system.

Trustee Wilkinson guessed that if the millage were defeated, there would probably be another election, but there would be immediate cuts that had to be made beforehand.

The 9.5 millage renewal was defeated and almost two-to-one. Because of this, there is a $2.7 million loss of revenue in the district. In the past weeks, I have seen expenses that are considered unnecessary to many people, such as the new trash compactor in the high school cafeteria and the landscaping of the grounds around the school.

Even though money was budgeted for those things long before the millage election, things like these in addition to the pay raises, make it easy to see why the millage was defeated. People think their money is being wasted.

The board is now discussing cuts in next year's curriculum. Some of these are in teachers, other staff, and the closing of two schools. All of these would increase class sizes considerably, making class conditions harder than they already are in classes which average about 30 students now.

Another cut that would hit many people hard is in extra-curricular activities. In Northville, many of these activities are very successful, not only our many sports teams, which have done well in league and state competitions, but also our forensics, drama and band organizations.

It would be terrible to throw away all of the hard work students put into these activities because people feel money is being wasted on those unimportant things.

I feel the board should publicize the proposed cuts in detail before the next election in July. People should know that they and their children will be hurt both now and in the future if the millage is defeated once again.

Sincerely,
Melissa McDaniel

To the Editor:

In a city mainly composed of elderly without children, it is hard for me to see why only 20 percent of Northville's eligible voters voted in last month's millage. With the large number of cuts that will be made in the schools, it seems that more of the voters with children would have gone out and supported the renewal.

The cuts, which will be in transportation, extra-curricular programs, the laying-off of staff, and reducing the school day, would greatly affect all students. By reducing the school day for six classes to five, many students would not be able to get the classes they both need and want for entering college or getting jobs. Many colleges want entering freshmen to have a foreign language. With that, English, math, science, and social studies, all five class hours are math, science, and social studies, all five class hours are taken; leaving no room for required PE classes or helpful college-prep classes such as typing, short-hand, or accounting. If the school day was cut in half, which is another possibility, getting these classes would be even more difficult.

They are also thinking of increasing the size of the classes. In some cases this would cause rooms, that can only accommodate 40 students, to become overfilled with 45 or more students.

Some of the reasons given for the defeat I do not agree with. One reason given was the lack of improvement in Northville schools. I do not know about the junior high or elementary schools, but in the high school there has been a lot of improvements in just the last year. For example, the building has new floor tiles and has been painted, along with other things. Another reason given was the decline in the quality of Northville's education. If the quality of education is so low, then why is the average score of Northville's students on the ACT generally higher than the state and national averages? Still another reason given was that some people felt this millage was an increase. It is not. It is just a renewal to maintain the present level.

I do agree with the argument against the administrators getting a pay raise. It does not seem right, to me, that they should get pay raises when everything else is being cut and when they are being so highly paid already. I think the up-coming millage election would have a better chance of passing if their pay was at least cut back to what it was before this recent raise.

These are my feelings, but I cannot vote. So I feel the least I can do is encourage the registered voters, who have children that this will also affect, to go out and vote in July.

Soccer coverage spotty

This is in regards to your coverage of soccer. In the May 13 paper you did not put in any boys games.

In the May 20 paper you left out one of the UIOBoys-Tornado but put in the other two. In the May 20 (issue) you only named the goal scorers. I do not know if you know anything about soccer but it wouldn't be much of a game with only forwards.

I would please like a clarification of your policy. I know this is a well-used phrase but I have better things to do with my time than writing up these reports and trotting up to the paper office at 10 p.m. Sunday only to have you not use the material.

These blubs in the paper mean a great deal to these young players. I will repeat what I said to your predecessor: The residents of small towns buy the local paper to read about themselves, their neighbors and their local institutions. Your proliferation of ads will not benefit you without the readers.

Several parents have expressed reservations about renewing their subscription.

I am grateful you give us coverage. I am asking you be more organized about it and inform us as to your intentions.

Bands say 'thanks'

To the Editor:

Here it is, the end of another school year. On behalf of the Northville High School bands, we would like to thank the administration for all the support they have given us during the past year.

More than once the bands needed help and the administration gave it. They were represented at every concert and performance the bands gave.

Getting Down to Brass Tacks

By CHRIS JOHNSON
School Board President

Balancing the 1981-1982 budget

Last week Tuesday night the board of education ordered reductions which come close to balancing the 1981-82 school year budget. Before describing the cuts, I would like to explain the reasons why the cuts have been ordered. State law requires that the board adopt a balanced budget each year. The school year begins in July and ends in June. It is a misdemeanor for the board to intentionally adopt a deficit budget.

More important is that the board is trying to make the community aware of what kinds of programs the school district will and will not have with a 25.9 mill operating budget. I want to point out that these are actual reductions and are not threats designed to scare you. The reductions also include the amount of money necessary to cover unemployment costs.

The school day was reduced to five hours, which means the state required minimum of 900 hours of instruction. Ten students were added to the average class size, bringing the numbers up to 35 for kindergarten, 38 for grades one through six, and 39 for grades seven through twelve. All art, music and physical education was eliminated from the elementary schools.

The board ordered the closing of one elementary school and one junior high school. All transportation in the entire district was eliminated. All extra-curricular activities in the district were eliminated. The board also reduced all special education to the state required minimum levels.

In addition to the personnel eliminated with the closing of the two schools, the board further eliminated three central office positions, another building administrator, eight custodians, three maintenance positions and three secretarial clerical positions. The district's maintenance program was virtually eliminated with the elimination of the entire capital outlay budget. The district's planned textbook replacement program was also eliminated. The teaching supplies at every level were reduced in half.

Severe cuts were made in luncheon supervision as well as eliminating equipment maintenance in the food service program. The gifted and talented program was eliminated as well as the driver education program.

All of the above cuts place the board within $100,000 of a balanced budget. More cuts will be ordered before the beginning of the fiscal year in July. I would like to remind you that the board will be considering the recommendations of the Citizens Advisory Committee on June 8, 11, and 15. We welcome you to attend and to comment on these proposals. The board is trying to prepare a renewal package on June 15, 1981.

The board is trying to prepare a renewal package on June 15, 1981.

Opposes Detroit tax plans

Suburban residents who work in Detroit would become "tax scapegoats" if the legislature authorizes a plan to "bail out" the deficit-ridden city, State Representative Jack Kirksey (R-Livonia, Northville) charged last week.

In an unusual joint session of the legislature, Kirksey told members of the Seest Committee, comprised of eminent Detroit business, labor and civic leaders, that he "vehemently" opposes an increase in the non-resident income tax as a way to relieve the city's $119 billion deficit.

"I understand the proportions of Detroit's financial problems," Kirksey said, "but I am convinced that an increase in the non-resident income tax would only contribute to Detroit's financial woes. Tripling the non-resident income tax would be a catalyst to businesses to move from Detroit to other cities where the tax rate is not so high."

Ford Motor Company executive Fred Seest, former General Motors Chairman Thomas A. Murphy and UAW President Douglas Fraser addressed the joint session of the Legislature to lay out their plan to rescue the state's largest city from the brink of bankruptcy.

Arguing that Detroit simply cannot survive without the help of state lawmakers, they urged adoption of a package of proposals, including the non-resident income tax increase.

Kirksey, however, raised the question of "taxation without representation."

"It is simply not fair to raise the taxes of thousands of suburban residents who work in Detroit without permitting them to participate in the election," he said. "That is taxation without representation, and a very serious issue indeed."

The legislature is expected to vote on the package in the next several days.

3 post 'A's

Three Northville residents achieved a 4.0 or "straight A" grade point average during the winter term at Michigan State University.

Northville residents who received a 4.0 average were Suzanne Babich of 336 North Ely Drive, Scott Fisher of 44827 Galway and Steve Pyett of 18449 Donegal Court.

A total of 541 students at Michigan State University received a 4.0 average during the winter term.

Bill to ban school smoking

State Senator Robert Geake's (R-Northville) bill prohibiting smoking by adults as well as by minors in public schools has been endorsed in concept by the State Board of Education.

Senate Bill 128 would prohibit smoking by all persons on public school property except in the course of classroom instruction.

In taking a "support concept" position the Department of Education notes that it has been documented by the United States Surgeon General that smoking is harmful to a person's health, and it should be banned in public places, including schools.

The Department of Education continued by stating that the school is the "ideal" setting for providing good examples for children.

In addition, nonsmoking students and school employees have every right to expect unpolluted air to breathe.

Senator Geake said he is very pleased with the Department of Education's position and hopes a hearing date can be set in the near future to discuss the merits of the bill.

Township readies to negotiate two police contracts

Labor negotiations with township police employees will begin soon and the board of trustees has named an experienced national labor consulting firm to its negotiating team.

The board named O'Brien, Bowers, Ambler & Associates as consultants to its negotiating committee of Supervisor John MacDonald, Clerk Susan Heintz, Treasurer Richard Henningsen and Trustee Thomas L.P. Cook.

Richard W. Ambler, a principal in the firm and a township resident, offered to aid in the negotiations without charge, MacDonald said, but that offer was turned down.

The personnel consulting firm is led by three retired Chrysler Corporation officers and has offices in Grosse Pointe Park.

MacDonald said Business Manager David Leiko probably will conduct most of the negotiations, but that Ambler, most likely, could be called in for the most difficult segments.

"Dave has to work with these people day-in and day-out," MacDonald said, explaining to those attending the meeting. "I don't think that (having him operate as chief negotiator at all times) would be a good idea. We won't call in outsiders unless we absolutely need to."

Negotiations on two police contracts was delayed until after the outcome of the May 19 election, in which two police millage issues were decided.

The contract with the township local of the Police Officers Association (POA) expired at the end of the fiscal year March 31. Officers agreed to work under the old contract until after the vote. POA represents five officers, four part-time dispatchers, four full-time dispatchers and one community service officer (a CETA employee given union benefits under federal requirements).

A Command Officers Association (COA) was voted into being last winter, and represents the township's one lieutenant and three sergeants.

The unions representing the officers have presented their proposed contract, Leiko said Monday, and a preliminary meeting last week was conducted to clarify the proposals.

Formal negotiations, he said, likely will begin next week, or as soon as all parties can meet. The consulting firm will be supplied with the proposals of both sides, so it may be prepared to become involved if asked.

The motion naming the firm stated that the consultant would be used when thought necessary by the negotiation committee.

According to the firm's literature, Ambler was a Chrysler spokesman and principal negotiator in seven national negotiations. He has over 30 years personnel and wage and salary administration experience in companies of all sizes.

His title at Chrysler was manager of salary and wage administration.

His associates in the firm include William M. O'Brien, who was a vice president at Chrysler for 18 years and chief negotiator for the firm in several national contract negotiations with the United Auto Workers, sitting across the table from Walter Reuther, Leonard Woodcock and Douglas Fraser, presidents of the UAW.

For NHS students

Outdoors is conservation classroom

Learning from textbooks can be valuable and create a knowledgeable student, but as 16 Northville High School juniors and seniors found out recently, learning from life itself enriches the experience many times over.

The enlightened 16 were the latest beneficiaries of a conservation outing in Northern Michigan conducted by teacher Ron Meteyer that has become something of an NHS tradition.

The latest edition May 3-5 was the sixteenth outing in the series — one each fall and spring for the past eight years as part of Meteyer's one-semester course in conservation.

Signing up for the course alone is not sufficient to make the trip to a YMCA camp northwest of Hale. Students must be juniors or seniors with a "B" average in biology or special permission of the department.

The class work, combined with the hands-on experience of the outing, constitutes the equivalent of a sophomore-level college course in conservation, according to Meteyer.

"There has to be a lot of self-motivation," he said, and despite the traditional views of school "field trips" the outing is very academically oriented.

It's no lazy student's fare. From sun up to well past sun down, the students are on the go, buffeted with a myriad of mind and muscle challenges that this spring included the planting of trees on the steep slopes of an eroding landscape.

Taking a school bus, the students, Meteyer and one parent get a first-hand look at state and federal conservation efforts in action. Students must produce $30 each to participate in the outing, with the school district paying $2 for each $1 the student pays.

This semester, all 16 students eligible made the trip.

While this year's spring outing did not feature a close-up look at an out-of-control forest fire, as it did last year, there was plenty to learn about in a tour of the fire areas.

Conducted totally outdoors, the class focuses on forestry, wildlife management, endangered birds, and watershed management. The Tawas/Oscoda area is perfectly suited to the task, as several significant examples of each are within close striking distance of the camp.

Tawas Point, for instance, extending into Lake Huron on the north side of Tawas Bay is a state park designated as a wetlands preserve — the natural habitat of several species of plant and animal life seldom, if ever, seen elsewhere.

The trip to the point also gives students a chance to see a U.S. Coast Guard-operated lighthouse standing at the base of the point and examine an area where conservation efforts co-exist with public use of waterways — shipping lanes and pleasure boating.

A Kirtland's Warbler preserve, complete with a renowned ornithologist's explanation of how the endangered little bird species is being supplied with a protected natural environment through combined national, state and private efforts, was another stop on the journey.

At the preserve, the U.S. Forestry Department, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and Michigan Audubon Society help protect the nesting songbirds by capturing and removing cowbirds, a species that takes over the nests of other birds.

A surveyor from the U.S. Forestry Service explained operations at the Lumbermen's Monument on the Au Sable River, where a replica lumber camp is under construction. The monument itself is a memorial to lumbermen who lost their lives in forest fires.

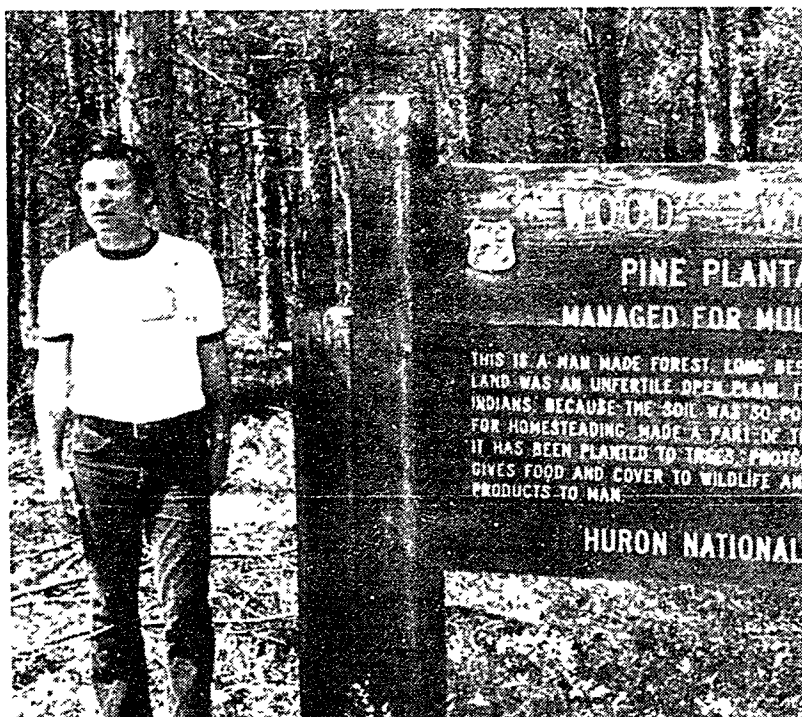

The Huron National Forest, occupying much of the area, is another object lesson in management. It is a man-made forest managed both as a habitat for wildlife and as a source of wood.

Another stop made by the class demonstrated river control at a dam on the Au Sable, which includes salmon ladders allowing the fish to get up river to their spawning grounds each fall.

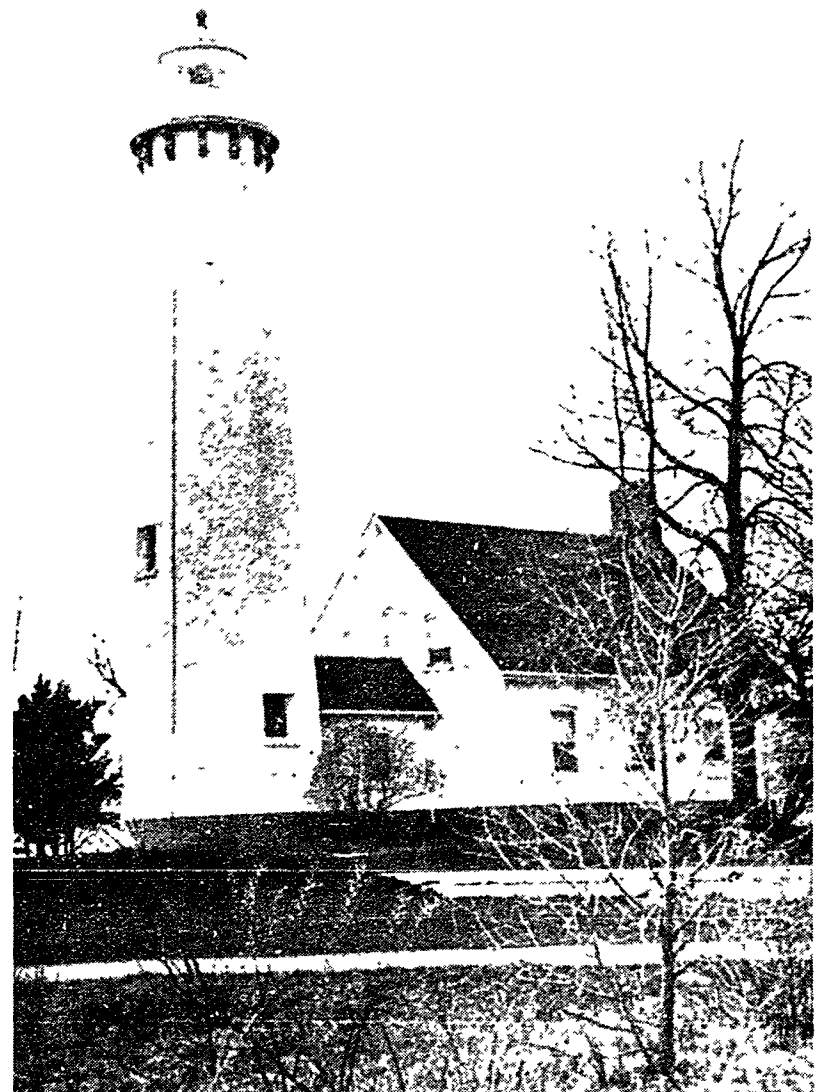

While the academic interest of observing classroom theories applied in conservation and management efforts is the central theme of Meteyer's outing, he also hopes to impart something a little extra.

In education circles it is known as a sociological experience, to most people it translates as a lesson in self confidence, cooperative effort and a love for the land.

Students bring their own outdoors gear, and plan and prepare meals from buying the food to cleaning up after eating.

A-plus for teacher

Moraine Elementary teacher Naomi Poe, recently named Woman of Distinction by the Delta Kappa Gamma International, also rates an A-plus with her first graders. The longtime educator has taught in Northville since 1967 and was honored by the local chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, a teachers honorary, for her contribution to teaching. Record photo by Steve Fecht.

She's honored for dedication to teaching

For the past 25 years, Moraine Elementary teacher Naomi Poe has devoted most of her time to education. Whether its been teaching sentence structure to sixth graders or helping first graders with the basic alphabet, Mrs. Poe has done it all — and with considerable patience and understanding.

In recognition of her contributions to education and dedication to teaching, the Alpha Nu Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma International, an honorary teacher society, recently honored Mrs. Poe with its Woman of Distinction award.

The award was presented to Mrs. Poe by Alpha Nu member Gayle Fountain at a meeting held at Mantel's Restaurant in Ann Arbor.

Mrs. Fountain read and presented Mrs. Poe with a poem she had written about her, enumerating the longtime educator's professional and personal qualities including generosity, patience, professionalism and sympathy.

Mrs. Poe has been a teacher in the Northville Public Schools since 1967 and has taught all grades except fifth and kindergarten.

A Northville resident, she also is past president of the Northville Education Association.

She received a bachelor of arts degree from Kent State in 1943 and a master's degree in reading from Oakland University in 1973.

In addition to teaching, Mrs. Poe also is active in her church. She has three sons, one daughter and three grandsons.

The Woman of Distinction award was sponsored by the Western Wayne and Washtenaw Coordinating Council. The council is composed of three chapters, with each chapter honoring a member.

The Alpha Nu chapter is primarily composed of members from the Northville and Plymouth areas.

Couple to live in Denver

Kristen Egeland exchanges vows with Steven Black

A move to Denver, Colorado, has followed the marriage of Kristen Karyl Egeland of Northville and Steven Carter, Black of Novi.

They exchanged vows and rings in a 4 p.m. ceremony May 2 at First Presbyterian Church of Northville. The Reverend Larry McMellen officiated at the altar decorated with a spring floral arrangement.

The bride, the daughter of Mrs. Frank Williams of Northville and Daryl Egeland of Farmington Hills, was escorted to the altar by her father.

She wore an ivory, floor-length gown fashioned with a high neckline and long sleeves. Matching bands of satin and lace adorned the bodice and sleeves. Her double veil of illusion was fingertip length.

She and her bridal attendants carried everlasting nosegays of dried flowers which repeated the colors of their gowns.

Karyn Egeland came from Ohio where she is a senior at the College of Wooster to be her sister's honor maid.

Bridesmaids were DeDee Webb, former Northville resident now living in Stone Mountain, Georgia, Laurie Day and Susan Snyder, sister of the bridegroom from Camp-ton, Kentucky.

They wore gowns of ivory floral print voile styled with a deep flounce at the hemline and lace-edged matching shawls. The bridegroom, son of Mrs. Lee Snyder of Campton, Kentucky, and James Black of Pontiac, asked Timothy Northrup of Canton to be best man.

Groomsmen were his brothers Jim Black of Campton and Dave Black of Novi and the bride's brother Eric Egeland of Okemos.

The couple chose words from "The Prophet" by Kahlil Gibran to repeat as their marriage vows.

The bride is a 1980 graduate of Northville High School and attended Western Michigan University at Kalamazoo for a year.

Her bridegroom is a 1976 graduate of Novi High School.

Donations needed for July 4 auction

By JEAN DAY

The steps of the Wash-Oak Schoolhouse being renovated in Mill Race Historical Village will be the scene of an auction at 1 p.m. on July 4. Sponsors promise everything from antiques to garage sale fare will be up for bids. Proceeds will be used to help complete work on the historic building.

The auction is planned as one of the events of the holiday — always a big celebration here with day-long festivities in the Mill Race Village following the Jaycee-sponsored parade.

The parade itself has gained a reputation as being one of the largest and best in the state. In years past participants have included Governor George Romney and Wayne County Sheriff William Lucas.

Other Mill Race events beginning after the parade include a chicken barbecue, militia demonstrations and tours of the historic buildings in the village. The Jaycees cap the day with spectacular fireworks.

"Attic and garage sale cast-offs are welcome for the auction," sponsoring historical society members state, inviting anyone to bring donations to the basement of the Yerkes House (the large Victorian home) between 9 a.m. and noon any Saturday. Carol Butske and Lucia Danes are working on auction arrangements.

Francis Gazlay was named president of the historical society at the annual meeting last Thursday in the village.

Retiring president Robert Daniel and his wife Jackie were honored for their three years of service to the society. They were presented with a picture of their home done by a fellow society member, Donald Fee.

The Daniel home was a landmark house on property now owned by Schoolcraft College at Seven Mile and Haggerty. The Daniels moved it a few years ago to its present Five Mile Road location. They have been restoring it ever since. The home is scheduled to be open on the Northville Home Tour September 24. The tour, which now is being held every other year, is co-sponsored by the historical society and the Women's Association of First Presbyterian Church.

Other society officers for the coming year are Kenneth Harrison, vice president; James Beaudoin, treasurer; Virginia Hayward, corresponding secretary; and Joan Hoffman, reelected recording secretary. Board members are Helen Maki, Pat Meyers, John Brugeman, Martha Nield, Jack Burkman, Mrs. Danes, Mrs. Butske and Daniel.

The society also tapped Kathleen Otten, 348-3619, to be membership chairman. Mrs. Butske reports that membership is up from the previous year but that the society would like to have other interested residents sign up. Newcomers, especially, are welcome.

Open houses honored new Ferris 'alums'

Open houses following commencement ceremonies at Ferris State College honored two local graduates.

Eric Thomas Nichols, son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil E. Nichols, received two degrees in the May 16 ceremonies — a bachelor of science in finance and an associate in applied science (real estate). His parents hosted an open house at their home on Caldwell the following day for friends, relatives and schoolmates. Among those welcomed were Kee Ktiyadisai of Thailand and Tracey Kelso of Honolulu.

For the past five semesters Eric had worked as a residential advisor and earned 63 credits in the last three semesters.

Karen Andersen, who received her bachelor of science degree in applied biology in the May ceremonies at Ferris, was honored by her parents, the Hans Andersens of Brookland Farms, at an open house on the Sunday for friends and family.

She now is completing her internship at the Holland, Michigan, hospital.

Dental Dialogue

of A. Allen Tuchklaper, D.D.S.

FLOSSING FACTS

Q. I'm a little confused about the type of floss to use and how to use it.

A. You should clean your teeth with dental floss at least once a day. The best time is after brushing at the end of the day. Slip the floss gently between the teeth and floss up and down each side until the floss makes a squeaking noise. This motion removes the invisible buildup of plaque. Unwaxed floss, does this job best. Also be sure to slide the floss carefully under the gum margin of each tooth. If you need more help your dentist or hygienist can provide a step by step demonstration.

This column is presented in the interest of better dental health. From the office of A. Allen Tuchklaper, D.D.S.

Cooke forensics team takes top honors in state meet

When it comes to public speaking, students at Cooke Junior High School seem to have a way with words.

The Cooke forensics team once again captured the top honors in the recent State Junior High Forensics Tournament held at the University of Michigan.

By earning 12 state awards, Cooke topped its own previous record and won more awards than any other junior high school team participating in the tournament.

The awards included two first place honors for team members Alan Griffith and Mike Wasserman, who are both in the eighth grade.

Griffith took first place in the state for impromptu speaking with a perfect score for the day of 3-300 in three rounds of competition. Wasserman captured first place in extempore speaking.

Second place winners were Jenny Cass for extempore speaking and Sandy Horstkotte for informative speaking.

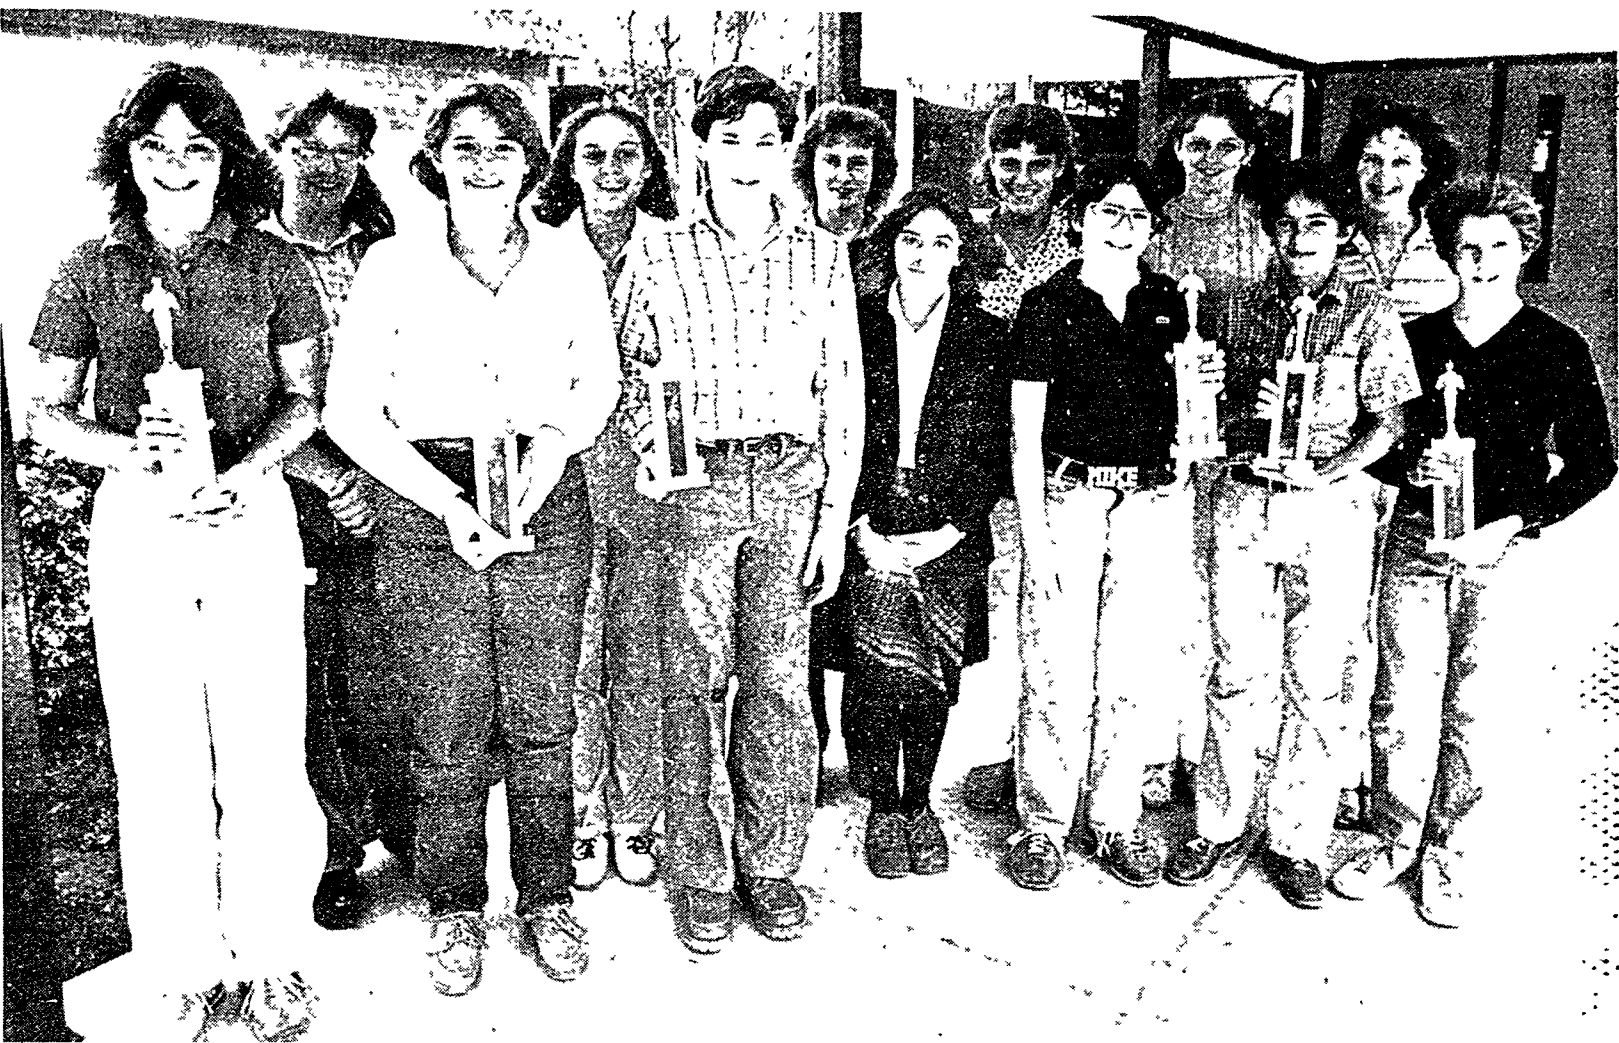

Third place trophies went to Jerod Swallow for humorous reading and to B.R. Bohan for impromptu speaking.

Placing fourth were Evelyn Smith in Storytelling and Jane Cassady in informative speaking.

Fifth places went to Karen Leech and Laura Chamberlain for their duo interpretation and to Jane Rodda for humorous reading and Judy Bustamante for extempore speaking.

A sixth place award went to Cindy Spencer for storytelling.

In addition to the 12 award winners, 16 other team members earned awards for excellence — ranking 85 percent or above in all three rounds of competition.

Church elects Readers

At a recent meeting of the members of First Church of Christ Scientist in Plymouth, Gerald W. Herrmann was elected first reader and Mrs. Maxine Reisdorf will assist him as second reader.

They will conduct the services of the local Christian Science church for the next three years.

Since Christian Science has no ordained clergy, local members are democratically elected to fill administrative posts and to conduct services.

The two elected readers are responsible for the Sunday and Wednesday evening services of the church. Their primary duty is to read the Christian Science lesson-sermon on Sunday.

Imagine walking through the Louvre and hearing the Mona Lisa complain about having to wear the same clothes for hundreds of years.

For the students at Silver Springs Elementary School, Mona's complaints were heard in the upper elementary's spring musical production entitled "Pictures at an Exhibition."

The production, which combined both music and art, was presented by approximately 70 students in the 5th and 6th grades.

"Pictures at an Exhibition," is the story of two children who stay in an art museum after hours and watch the paintings and statues come to life—including the Mona Lisa, who complains about her old clothes.

Musical and drama were under the direction of Mary Kay Pryce with coordination from Edie Pegrum who produced the art work used in the production.

Activities abound for Girl Scouts

As the end of 1980-81 school year approaches, area Girl Scouts have been busy with a flurry of activities.

Northville volunteers recently were honored at the spring meeting of the Plymouth-Northville-Canton Area Association. The meeting opened with the installation of new Area Association Chairperson Peggy Seery of Canton.

Nancy Schuerman, a leader at Amerman Elementary School, received a 25-year pin and 15-year pins went to Margaret Sweet of Amerman and Judy DeFrancesco of Moraine.

Engraved plaques were presented to the V.F.W. Post 5012 Ladies Auxiliary in appreciation of the American flag donated to Plymouth-Northville-Canton Area Association.

Margaret Sweet also received a Best Friend in Scouting award for the work she has done in special events during the last year.

Kathie Landrum, media representative for Northville, also was recognized for her contributions.

Two troops from Northville attended the annual Plymouth-Northville-Canton Junior Encampment May 2, 3 and 4 at Camp Linden.

Junior troop 379 from Amerman and Junior troop 702 from Our Lady of Victory participated in a variety of activities that weekend.

Kristi Kunka from troop 702 designed the 1981 Junior Encampment patch awarded to the approximately 400 girls attending Junior Encampment. The patch, designed with a bee and daisy, carries the slogan "Buzz into Jr. Encampment."

Three Clusters held Fly-Up ceremonies at Mill Race Historical Village. On May 13, 23 Amerman girls made their transition from Brownies to Juniors.

Eight girls from Our Lady of Victory received the new Badge Books at a Fly-Up ceremony held May 21.

On May 23, 11 girls from Moraine became Junior Scouts at a Flag and Fly-Up ceremony.

Troop 474 from Silver Springs will hold its Fly-Up and Court of Awards June 2 at a family picnic at Maybury State Park.

Amerman Cluster provided girls for the flag ceremony at the opening of Mayors Exchange Day May 17. Girls from Troop 234 also planted flowers at the post office during Michigan Week.

Troops from Moraine Cluster have been participating in a variety of activities. Brownie troop 644 enjoyed a weekend of camping at Hilltop Camp May 15 and 16. Troops 116, 557 and 331 joined together for an overnight trip to Greenfield Village. Brownie Troop 644 helped out at the June 2 ice cream social at Moraine.

Your June utility bill may be the most important one you'll receive all year.

When you open the envelope containing your June utility bill you will find a very important booklet (or you might receive it as a separate mailing.)

It describes the new Michigan Residential Conservation Services program featuring a Home Energy Analysis.

The new service is offered by eight major Michigan utilities and meets the requirements of the Michigan Public Service Commission and the 1978 National Energy Act. It's available to all homeowners and renters who pay energy utility bills.

Even if you and your family are already conserving energy, the Home Energy Analysis can show you how to save more.

For a $10 fee, you will get a complete inspection of your home by an energy specialist from your utility. You will learn how effective your present insulation, weatherstripping, caulking and other energy cost saving measures are, and you will be provided with information on specific things you can do to reduce energy waste.

You also will receive a written computer analysis giving you estimates on how much recommended improvements will cost and how long they will take to pay for themselves. Information on contractors who can do the work, details on financing, tax credits and Home Weatherization Grants for low income persons also will be provided. After the work is completed, you may have it inspected by your utility.

Some of the recommendations may cost very little or nothing at all. Some you may be able to do yourself. Others will require the services of a contractor. In any case, the Home Energy Analysis puts you under no obligation to carry out any of the recommendations. However, you probably will want to do at least some of these, because now you will know a great deal more about how to make your home energy efficient.

Whether or not you decide to have a Home Energy Analysis, please read the booklet that comes with your June bill or by a separate mailing. It lists many things you can start doing right now to save energy and money. The booklet also tells you about assistance you can get from your utility to help you make your home more energy efficient—with or without the Home Energy Analysis. Lists of contractors and lenders, as well as do-it-yourself information also are available from your utility.

You can sign up for your Home Energy Analysis by returning the postcard in the booklet or by getting in touch with your utility. The sooner you sign up, the sooner you can start reducing energy waste in your home.

The Michigan Residential Conservation Services program is conducted through the utilities listed below. You can select any one of which you are a customer to perform your Home Energy Analysis.

Boblo picks up steam

Big Band cruises start on Friday

Big Band shipboard concerts begin Friday with the Jimmy Dorsey/Lee Castle Band as the Boblo 1981 season picks up steam.

The bands perform aboard the steamships Columbia and Ste. Claire on Friday night cruises which tour the river and lakes.

Cruises depart every Friday at 8:30 p.m. and return at 11:30 p.m.

Other bands slated this summer include: Les Elgart (June 12); Russ Morgan (June 19); Tom Dorsey/Buddy Morrow (June 26); Joe Vitale (July 3); Warren Covington (July 10); Russ Carlyle (July 17); Larry Elgart (July 24); Glenn Miller (July 31); Austin Moro (August 7); Woody Herman and His Thundering Herd (August 14); Tommy Dorsey/Buddy Morrow (August 21); Bob Crosby and Bobcats (August 28); and Guy Lombardo/Teddy Phillips (September 4).

If night cruises aren't for you, Boblo is offering a unique riverfront to island-in-the-lake amusement park adventure for the family.

First shipload of holiday-bound children and adults left the Boblo docks adjacent to Joe Louis Arena on May 23, and there's many more boatloads of fun still to come.

The Boblo season runs through Labor Day.

After cruising 90 minutes downriver from Detroit the Boblo boats arrive at their Lake Erie island destination.

Visitors will discover a completely new entertainment experience on the island:

—Five new rides constructed last year and improved this year, including The Spinnaker, Pirate, Polp, Galaxie Coaster, and Italian Dodgem Cars.

—Two new theaters, one featuring stunning special effects created by 180 degree projection. The other, the Carousel, offers an upbeat song and dance review.

—A terrifying demonstration of the prowess of Birds of Prey new from Jungleland in London, Ontario...during which an eagle dives from high above the crowd to retrieve food from the hand of its trainer.

—Many newly redecorated shops and refreshment stands offering a variety of food, beverages, gifts and souvenirs.

Richard Langlais, chief executive officer of Boblo, has announced plans to dock the 100 passenger Boblo auxiliary cruiser "Friendship" at the foot of Hart Plaza. The friendship will be available for short luncheon, cocktail party and dinner cruises.

Persons wishing more information about the Boblo excursions may call 962-9622.

Aircraft exhibit at Twelve Oaks Mall

The amazing young men and the flying machines of Chapter 384, Experimental Aircraft Association, is at Twelve Oaks Mall through Sunday.

These colorful fun machines are very unique aircraft used for recreational and sport flying. The planes are called "experimental" because they are not commercially produced but are all handmade by members.

Partially finished projects are included in the display and pilots are on hand to answer questions and provide information on the planes. The projects displayed are varied cross-section of construction types and configurations.

Film presentations highlight the activities of the Experimental Aircraft Association, which is an international organization devoted to promotion, development and enjoyment of sport aviation. Sport aviation is the recreational use of aircraft of all kinds.

"Learn the pilot's recipe for a perfect day," a spokesman said. "Find out about the secret ingredients of crisp dawn mornings laced liberally with anticipation, steady beats of propellers, savory adventure."

Center hours are 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. through Saturday, and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Persons wishing to learn more about the exhibit may contact Linda Anderson at 348-9400.

HOUSING PRICES in Michigan and other north central states remain well below other sections of the country, according to a report from the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors (WWOCBR).

A study of existing home sales at the end of March by the National Association of Realtors revealed median prices — half of buyers paid less and half more — of $52,700 in north central states.

Nationally, the median was $64,500 led by the $92,400 price in western states. In the south, the median price was reported at $61,900 while the figure in the northeast states was $62,300.

The study also showed that median price increases in the north central states during the past year were well below those in other sections.

The north central increase from March 1979 through March 1980 was only 4.3 percent. This compared to a national percentage increase of 8.4 percent. The largest jump in median prices during the year-long period occurred in southern states where it rose 13.1 percent. Increases ran at 7.1 percent in the west and 6.6 percent in the northeast.

The study also showed a sharp drop in existing home sales in all sections of the country during 1980, culminating in a 22 percent nationwide decline from 1979.

A drop of 24 percent was indicated in both the north central and western states closely followed by a 23 percent decline in the northeast. Despite strong population growth, southern states recorded a 19 percent decrease in existing home sales during the year.

Locally, WWOCBR reported a sales decline of 22.7 percent in 1980 compared to 1979 to closely parallel the national experience.

It appears, however, that the price increase here remained below other sections of the country. WWOCBR, which reports average, rather than median, sales prices found a March 1979 to March 1980 increase of only 2.7 percent. The average price — total dollar volume divided by the number of units sold — generally is several thousand dollars higher than the median price.

The WWOCBR figures showed an average existing home price of $57,050 during March 1980 through its 1,600 square mile territory. The March 1979 average price was $55,509.

Spouses of club members attend the business sessions to familiarize themselves with current operations of the organization. Delegates to the meeting represent the region, which includes the states of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Ohio.

SELECTED FOR membership in the American Chiropractic Association is Dr. Harry Holmes whose office is located at 8599 West Grand River, Brighton. The announcement of the selection was made recently at the organization's national headquarters at Des Moines, Iowa.

DR. HARRY HOLMES

As a member of the ACA, Dr. Holmes joins thousands of fellow doctors of chiropractic, all dedicated to improving general health care.

Dr. Holmes is a graduate of the National College of Chiropractic located in Lombard, Illinois, and is a member of the Michigan State Chiropractic Association. He and his wife, Therese, reside in South Lyon.

Membership dues in the association support major programs of chiropractic education and research, and provide materials for use in public education and vocational guidance.

'Better housing buy here'

Companies considering housing costs for employees in seeking a new location for a headquarters, branch or plant should take a good look at the Detroit area.

That's the advice of the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors (WWOCBR), which reports transferees from other sections of the nation find a much better spread of affordable housing available here than in other areas.

Citing figures for 1980 sales by its members, WWOCBR reports nearly half were under $50,000 and nearly 19 percent sold below $30,000. Nationwide, only about 34 percent of homes sold last year at under $50,000 and less than 10 percent below $30,000.

"We think such figures also deserve study by companies contemplating a move out of the state," said Robert D. Shimmin, WWOCBR president. "They may find that a large share of managerial and skilled personnel are made to compensate for increased housing costs and present high mortgage interest rates."

Shimmin said housing is most expensive in western states where last year less than 10 percent of homes sold at under $50,000 and nearly half went for $90,000 or more.

"The flow of population into some southern states also is raising prices so that the size of the lower-cost home market is diminishing," he said. "In the southern states during 1980, only 9.8 percent of homes were priced under $30,000, less than half the percentage here."

Shimmin noted that a recent nationwide survey of 500 companies found that mortgage assistance and help with real estate fees were now classed as the most important special inducements for key employees to move to another part of the country.

The housing indicated that responding companies expect the cost of housing and interest rates in 1981 will have the greatest impact on the availability of executives and professional personnel.

"If this is the case," Shimmin said, "these people should welcome a chance to move to the Detroit area. They will find the same real estate dollar provides more and better housing or that a home comparable to the one left can be had at a much lower price."

WWOCBR figures are based on sales by its 4,000 members in a 1,600 square mile area covering northwest Detroit and major portions of Wayne, Oakland and Livingston counties.

GENERAL MOTORS Detroit area Award for Excellence-recipients include from left Raymond Harris, Union Lake; Eric J. Schillinger, Glenn R. Betts, both of Novi; and Robert B. Fair, Jr., of Northville. They were among top winners recognized for excellence in the GM community activities program at a luncheon honoring all award recipients and their spouses at the Detroit Renaissance Club.

Walter E. Douglas, president of New Detroit and spokesperson for the judging panel, announced the awards. He noted that "all of us on the judging panel were amazed at the number of GM employees involved in community activities and the depth of their involvement."

He said that in selecting the outstanding winners, judges had considered the amount of personal sacrifice and effort involved, leadership exhibited and the results of the employee's efforts. Top Gold Medal winner in the area-wide competition was Norman J. Johnson, Jr., of Southfield, director of employment relations for General Motors.

Schillinger is from AC-Delco Division; Betts, Cadillac Motor Car Division; Harris, Fisher Body Fleetwood Plant; and Fair, General Motors Corporation.

PAUL A. JOHNSON, Northville insurance agent with offices at 335 North Center, and his wife were invited to be the guests of the affiliated companies of Farmers Insurance Group June 10-13 at its Topper Club convention in Nashville, Tennessee, according to George Seebart, vice president-sales.

The invitation came in recognition of Johnson's "outstanding achievements in the insurance field." R. S. Stohlman, vice president-claims, was announced as keynote speaker for the program of business sessions with the convention headquartered at the Opryland Hotel.

Topper Club honors are awarded annually to district managers and agents throughout the companies' operating territory who meet production standards in all affiliated companies of the organization.

Prepare the site this year to plant next year's berries

It's not too soon to begin preparing the site where you'll plant strawberries next year, especially if it's now covered with sod or infested with crabgrass.

According to Jim Hancock, Extension small fruits specialist at Michigan State University, proper site selection and preparation are keys to a productive strawberry planting.

The spot you choose for your strawberry patch should be on high ground so cold air tends to flow away from it rather than settle into it. In a low spot, plants are likely to suffer late spring frost damage.

A low spot also is likely to have poor soil drainage, Hancock points out. Strawberry plants will not tolerate flooding for more than 24 hours, he says. More than this will kill the roots.

Fertile soil, a full day's direct sunlight and access to water for irrigation are other requirements of a good site for strawberries.

Avoid planting strawberries the same year that sod is removed, Hancock advises. The white grubs that feed on the roots of grass plants will adapt themselves to strawberry roots and seriously damage young plants, he explains. Remove the sod one year and plant the next spring, he advises.

Also avoid a site where strawberries, tomatoes, peppers, eggplant or potatoes have been grown within the past three years. These crops are all susceptible to soil-borne wilt diseases that tend to build up in the soil over time.

If you can't fumigate — which is recommended for commercial growers but usually not feasible for home gardeners — a three-year waiting period between wilt-susceptible crops is the recommended strategy for avoiding wilt problems. An alternative is to use wilt-resistant varieties. Recommended varieties for Michigan include: Guardian, Redchief, Scott, Delite and Earliglow.

The gardener can put in any of these varieties without a waiting period.

If quackgrass is a problem in your chosen site, a combination of chemical herbicides and tillage can be used to control it the year before planting. If you're dealing with a small plot of ground, spading the soil and pulling the grass out may be effective. But you have to get every scrap of root to prevent the pesky weeds from regenerating and staging a comeback.

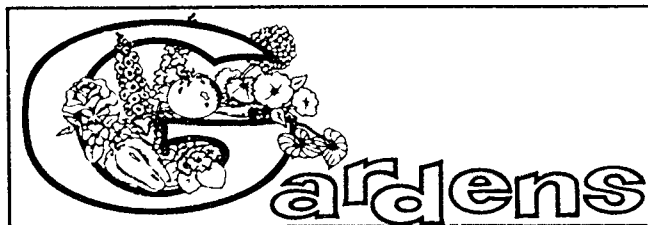

Strawberries grow best in a soil rich in organic matter. Hancock suggests adding organic material — manure, lawn clippings, sawdust, compost, etc. — or growing a green manure crop — rye, buckwheat, sudan grass, sudan x sorghum hybrids or millet — the year before.

If you plant the cover crop in the spring, plow it under before it seeds (mid-summer). If you plant it in mid-summer, plow it under the following spring as soon as the soil can be worked. Two cover crops can even be planted before strawberries are set: one in the spring, to be plowed under in midsummer, and rye or millet in midsummer, to be plowed under the following spring.

"This may seem like a lot of bother,"

Hancock notes, "but thorough preparation of a carefully chosen site increases the number of productive years your patch is likely to give you and improve the quality of the fruit produces."

Recycle the Garden

Discover the ultimate bargain in blooms this spring. Select a flower pot dahlia for indoors, and when summer comes, plant outside for blooms all summer.

Greenhouse growers have recently turned to dahlias for new interest in spring-flowering houseplants that can be transplanted to the garden. The carefully selected varieties feature compactness in the container, as well as the home garden setting.

Notable among new dahlia introductions is Dahl Face, available as blooming plants this spring across the country. This outstanding new dahlia sports vividly colored blooms from its container debut through the end of its summer outdoor season. No staking is necessary for 'Dahl Face' in the garden.

The dahlia is a carefree garden plant. Cultural requirements consist of full day sun and well drained but fertile garden soil. All dahlias prosper when they are fertilized particularly at planting time and specifically with food rich in organic material, such as well rotted cow manure.

The adaptable dahlia makes even a better investment if its tubers are dug up in the fall before a frost. The new seed-grown varieties have spent the summer making tubers, which can be rested throughout the winter months, then replanted in the spring.

Since the advent of the flowering gift plant gardeners have been making regular treks with their purchase to the garden. The problems have been the selection of what to recycle for success. Today's dahlias are the best choice yet.

Dahlia Dahl Face

ROSE MOSS

A hot grower

Portulaca or rose moss is a self-reliant flower. Drought doesn't faze it and little or no cultivation is needed.

Rose moss does best in spots which are too hot and dry for other flowers or weeds. It's a desert flower with fleshy leaves and stems and a strong network of roots that sustain it through long, dry spells.

A little known fact about portulaca seeds is that they frequently germinate and sprout better if stored in a refrigerator at approximately 40 F for two to four weeks.

Precchilling breaks the dormancy that may cause slow sprouting. Single and double flowered forms are available, mostly as color mixtures.

Tomato is Number 1 in garden popularity

It's no wonder that the tomato is the most popular garden crop.

The plants are fairly easy to grow and highly productive. The fruits come in a variety of colors, sizes and shapes and are rich in vitamins. And tomatoes can be used fresh or cooked, canned and even frozen.

Lee Taylor, Extension horticulture specialist at Michigan State University, suggests that gardeners with sufficient space plant at least five tomato varieties to provide for every need: an early tomato, a main season red tomato for fresh eating, a yellow tomato for variety, a cherry tomato for salads and snacks, and a paste-type tomato for canning and snacks.

Because tomatoes take a long time to grow, they're planted in the garden as transplants. Growing your own transplants gives you more choice in varieties, but buying transplants generally gives better quality plants, Taylor notes.

Help transplants get used to outdoor conditions by setting them outside in a semishaded spot the day for a week or 10 days before planting, Taylor suggests. This practice is called "hardening off."

If cutworms tend to be a problem in your garden, it's a good idea to protect tomatoes against them with cutworm collars. Simply cut a strip of lightweight cardboard three to four inches wide and about 10 inches long and place it around the plant. Push it about one inch into the soil so it doesn't blow away. There it will act as a barrier between hungry cutworms and tender plants.

To reduce the space taken up by tomato plants — and to get fruits up off the ground — Taylor recommends caging plants. Cages are nothing more than wire cylinders placed around plants. They can be made from concrete reinforcing wire, woven wire fencing or other similar materials.

The Thief

Death...cold and heartless comes to one and all yes, death comes to both the great and small
No one knows just when the thief will come but try and run try and hide
for you too my friend, must some day die...
Buddy Dennis

Song of Charlotte

She blesses each flower that grows
Beside our country fence,
As she leans to caress a rose
Or admire a hyacinth.

She cherishes the tree-peony
And covets the shy wood-flox;
She smiles at the bright daffodil
And the "poultry" perched on the rocks.

She nurtures the Flower of Tibet
With prayers and simple love;
She caresses the sweet violet
And clematis twining above.

Her devotion is ever strong
Though others now help with the care,
But her heart is filled with a song
That will always remain with her, there.
Charles E. Hutton

My Philosophy

We must live for today
As tho it were the last.
Not to worry about the future
And certainly not the past.
We must put meaning
Into the 'Book of Life'
And live each chapter to the fullest
Coping with love, happiness and strife
We must do it all with love
Until our LORD calls us from above.
Mary Devlin

Mother's Way Today

Mother's love is warm and free
Always there waiting to be Faithful to fill or fix your day
She knows what you need and She'll show you the way
Her touch will soothe and
Her words are kind
Honest encouragement to surely bind

With a look so wise
She'll sweetly smile
With tears in her eyes
She'll hold your hand or hug you tight
She'll calm your fear and take your fright

Time has passed and taught you to know
This miracle of love has made you grow
Her love will live on Wherever you are
Your life is her gift
To be on this star

Whether she's here or gone far away
The person you are is because of her say Memories reflect her manner and way
Even the orphan has to hold her day

God is love — mom is too
A woman who gave love to you.

Life is now — time to be,
Take hold of what she gave to thee...
Darlene Joy

Let the Children Play

Let the children play
Let them live just one more day their little minds cannot comprehend the things that kill honest men the children are tomorrow's world teach them today the way of peace and love teach them to trust in God above take them by the hand help them understand peace and love and kindness too and someday the children might teach us too...
God bless the little children of the world
Buddy Dennis

Umpire

"Strike three you're out!" is the old Familiar cry.
"No he isn't!" is the angry crowd's reply.
Whether you don't or whether you do
One of the fans is always yelling at you.
Whether they shouldn't or whether they should,
You want to be an umpire?
I don't think I would.
Mary Devlin

Reality

The sense reaching from our minds... entwined with heart and soul revolving with the seasons
and man.
Patricia Kotlarczyk

Spring

Flowers are blooming and grass is growing
The sun is shining and the rooster's crowing.
Spring has arrived at long last,
The snow and cold of winter have past.
Time to put away the heavy fur coat
Time to start fishing and get out the boat.
The birds and bees and each growing thing
Are trying to tell us that it's SPRING.
Mary Devlin

Bee

Suspended in the warmth of the breeze, the newborn spring bee searches...
eyes glistening with light...
searches...
for a blossom upon which he alights... finding food
and the survival of his wee body within the vast meadows...
fresh and new.
Patricia Kotlarczyk

Mother

A gentle touch who is full of love
With all the happiness she brings
Who loves their children
As deep as the sea
Who's busy as a bee
Mother is a gentle touch
Of love
Like a mother
The kindness may be
Who loves their children as deep as the sea
Chrissan C. Tietz

Existence

We walk down the corridors that are the mystery of life.
We've seen a million tears and smiles and much more conflict.
We know what hate and pain are... but we also know the tremendous power and feeling of love...
all.
Patricia Kotlarczyk

In 90kl Wind

Margaret O'Brien

Love

Love blooms growing sprouting from within...
and we are the leaves
upon the vine.
Patricia Kotlarczyk

Spinning

Just spinning and turning, my thoughts always on the run. Just can't seem to find some fun or peace of mind. My Elders say, give it time.
The kids will grow and be gone. You will retire and you will find lots of time...
But what about the peace of mind
In time...
In time...
Christmas Cathy

Sparrow

The sparrow flew high...
its little body
riding the deep horizon... he disappeared before I could see him better...
I thought it was you.

New tax plan coming?

By WARREN M. HOYT

After voters rejected 3-1 the latest property tax proposal, legislative leaders and Governor William G. Milliken agreed the issue has not been settled by the vote and the legislature, on its own, must devise a new tax plan.

Milliken, who saw his proposal defeated in all 83 Michigan counties, said he would abide by the decision of the voters.

He added he is looking at about 10 ways to cut property taxes, without providing any replacement revenues.

The most common assessment of why voters turned down the proposal was distrust of government leaders.

Speaker Bobby Crim (D-Davison) said the level of distrust threatens the success of efforts to revitalize the economy.

Opponents, meanwhile elated over the defeat of the proposal, said the action reflected on the credibility of Lansing leaders.

The message of the voter rejection of the property tax cut/sales tax increase amendment by a stunning 563,050 to 1,447,318 vote was discussed in meetings around the capitol as leaders performed a postmortem on the proposal.

Tax cutter Robert Tisch, whose stock soared as a result of the defeat of the proposal, now wants the legislature to implement by July 1 the tax cut portion of the proposal — a 50 percent cut of property taxes for operating purposes and a 50 percent credit for city income taxes.

He is demanding the legislature carry out this proposal without nearly $800 million in replacement revenues the 37.5 percent increase in sales and use taxes would have provided.

Among the other proposals advanced was one by Senator John Welborn (R-Kalamazoo) to cut property taxes by 10 percent, costing the state $500 million.

Other legislators favor liberalizing the circuit breaker program to give more income tax credits for property taxes in relation to personal income.

Milliken, who said he does not rule out anything, said, "I would have to review everything before I would support more cuts than the $250 million in Proposal A.

One avenue he said does not seem open is an increase in the income tax rate to pay for property tax relief as he expressed a belief the legislature would not approve that tax hike.

Crim said the legislature could work on a statutorily-provided tax relief, but he did not offer a firm commitment to that approach.

But, he said, "We cannot abandon our goal of decreasing the burden on the homeowner without crippling the ability of government to provide basic human services that a humane citizenry demands."

Representative William Ryan (D-Detroit), chairman of the House Taxation Committee, also agreed the legislature needs to act. "I do think there's something wrong with the property tax. It needs evening out," he said.

Ryan, however, did not endorse a specific plan.

Even though he said voters might be indicating the tax structure ought to stay the way it is, the governor said he still thinks property taxes are at a level that "makes it difficult for people to survive."

"The regrettable thing about the vote is that the issue will continue to occupy our time when we should be addressing our economic problems," Milliken said.

But Milliken, noting the voter rejection of a string of eight tax plans, said Tisch should not be encouraged. He said a new ballot proposal would also have a difficult time and suggested such complex issues may never be approved by the people.

(Questions? Write to Attorney Larry Korn, c/o Sliger-Livingston Publications, 104 West Main, Northville, Michigan 48167. Questions will be answered on a space-available basis).

Q. I was divorced from my husband in 1979. The judgment provided that my husband would be awarded the house, but that he would pay me the sum of $10,000 for my equity within one year from the date of judgment.

Two years have now gone by, and he has made no effort to sell the house nor borrow enough money to pay me. What should I do?

A. Retain an attorney and file a motion for the appointment of a receiver to sell the house, and out of the sale of the house, to pay you your $10,000.

Q. I am the landlord of a small two-story flat. My upstairs tenant recently lost his job. My tenant could not pay the $125 per month rent, so he applied for assistance from the Department of Social Services. They agreed to pay $105 per month rent. Do I have to accept $105 per month when I know that I can rent the flat to a new tenant for $150?

A. You do not have to accept anything less than the rental agreement you had with your tenant of $125. Send your tenant a seven day notice to quit. If he does not pay the $125 rent that is due, start suit in district court where your property is located.

Q. My beauty shop operator did my hair with a substance that made my hair brittle and very unpretty. I am very embarrassed with the color of my hair and its condition. As a result, I am ashamed to go out in company. My beautician says he does not understand why that particular tint affected my hair that way. Can I sue this man for damages for the embarrassment and suffering he has caused me?

A. You most certainly can. You should not only sue the beauty shop operator, but you should also sue the company that manufactured the hair tint or dye that caused the embarrassing brittleness and distasteful color. You are entitled to damages for the pain and suffering that you have suffered as a result of this distressing experience.

Q. Can the state revoke an operator's license of a person who has been picked up for drunk driving and refused the breath test while demanding a blood test?

A. The Implied Consent Law, as interpreted by the Michigan Supreme Court, says that if you are arrested for drunk driving, you have the following rights:

"(1) To arrange for someone, such as your doctor, to give you some chemical test, such as blood or urine, but only if you first take the test the arresting officer offers you (which will usually be a breath test); (2) to demand that some test be given, even if the officer doesn't offer one; (3) to demand that only a breath test be given, even if the officer offers a different test."

To protect your right to drive, you must first take the test the arresting officer offers you (which will usually be a breath test).

Under the Implied Consent statute, the arresting officer must allow you the reasonable opportunity to gather evidence in your own defense. This would include submitting to additional tests, such as blood or urine tests.

The problem which has arisen most recently has occurred when a defendant has taken the breath test and then demanded the blood or urine test. Some arresting officers have refused to transport the defendant to a medical facility where such tests can be conducted under sterile conditions.

Because most doctors will not come down to a police station at 4 a.m. to draw blood or take a urine sample, an officer's refusal to transport a defendant to a medical facility has been interpreted in many district courts as denying the defendant his fundamental right to gather evidence in his own defense.

It has been the experience of this attorney, and several other attorneys in Southeastern Michigan, that if a defendant did take a breath test as requested by an officer and then was denied the opportunity to have the other medical tests conducted, that denial of the defendant's right to gather evidence in his own defense would constitute grounds for dismissal.

Satisfied with performance

Klausler sets sights on '82 Indy 500

By JOHN MYERS

Already, Tom Klausler is looking forward to next year. What is he looking forward to? The answer is his second Indianapolis 500-Mile Race.

The long-time Northville resident competed in his first Indy 500 last week Sunday during the Memorial weekend and placed 29th in the 33-car field. But, the anticipation for next year's race already has started.

"Naturally I'm looking forward to next year's race with a more competitive car," Klausler said, who got interested in racing at age 14 when he first went to the track with his father.

Klausler received his chance to drive in an Indy 500 when Doug Schulz of Scottsdale, Arizona, offered it to him.

"He put together the whole deal. He got the sponsor and the crew. He was instrumental in getting the whole thing started," Klausler said of Schulz, who he has driven for before in Can-Am races in 1977 and 1980.

"He just called me up on the phone and asked me if I wanted to drive. Immediately, I said yes of course," he added.

"This was something I wanted to do for a long time. It is difficult to get a halfway decent car to be competitive," Klausler said.

He mentioned there were 105 entries for this year's race and for the people who had a slightly non-competitive car they didn't have a chance to qualify.

The three-year-old racer he qualified in was a non-ground effects car, one of five in the field. He added the speeds to qualify this year were up significantly from last year.

"People who were competitive last year didn't make the field this year," he said.

One of the reasons for faster qualifying speeds, according to Klausler, were modifications made in the car's engine which produced a 100-times more horsepower.

"Last year the qualifying speed for the pole was 192 (miles-per-hour) and this year it was 200 with half of it because of the horsepower and the other half in the car," Klausler said.

To make the field for what most call "the greatest spectacle on earth," Klausler had to qualify the car during one of two qualifying weekends at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

The first weekend of qualifying attempts was May 9-10. Klausler said that Friday (May 9) the drivers drew a number for a place in the qualifying line.

"That guaranteed an attempt (to qualify) and everybody has a shot at the pole position," Klausler said.

He said there were 27 qualifying attempts made Saturday between the intermittent rain and that Sunday's day of qualifying was rained out completely.

"I had number 21 but took a pass because the car arrived late and I had just passed my rookie test Friday," Klausler said, noting a driver can waive off the first two of his three allotted qualifying attempts.

"When you qualify you better have the speed to qualify for the race," Klausler said.

He did qualify the car during the last day of attempts with an average speed of 186.732.

Klausler said he qualified the car at about 3:30 p.m. in the afternoon Sunday, May 17. He said at that time he was the 27th fastest car and did not fear being bumped from the field.

An interesting sidelight, he said, was the fact at about 1 p.m. that Sunday the track was in perfect condition, the weather was cool and cars started to pick up speed.

At that time, four-time Indy 500 winner A.J. Foyt rolled out his back-up car which was qualified by George Synder, Klausler said.

Also, Klausler noted the Jerry Sneva incident. Sneva made his car go seven miles-an-hour faster, but was later disqualified from the field when it was determined a screw was placed in the car's pop-off valve to add extra boost.

"Things got pretty interesting," Klausler said. "We weren't worried, though (about being bumped from the field)."

After being assured of a place in the field, Klausler and his crew members went to work on solving a transmission problem which plagued the car.

"All month we had trouble with the transmission," Klausler said.

When they were still having the problem near race day, he started to get concerned.

But, on race day, he was feeling confident the problem was solved with the new gear boxes.

"I was feeling pretty good and I didn't think we would have any trouble," Klausler said.

However, luck was not to be on their side. The gearbox went, forcing Klausler out of the race on the 60th lap.

"We were running quite well in the race. I didn't know what to expect for the first time. I had worked my way up to 19th at the time," he explained.

Klausler thinks he might have finished in the top seven in the race if the gearbox hadn't failed.

"But it's hard to speculate now if we wouldn't have had any trouble where I would have placed," he added.

His reasoning on placing in the top seven was the fact he was running laps at speeds of 180-182 which were about the same as third-place finisher Vern Schuppan.

"As it was the crew was pretty happy, but I was just a little disappointed," Klausler said.

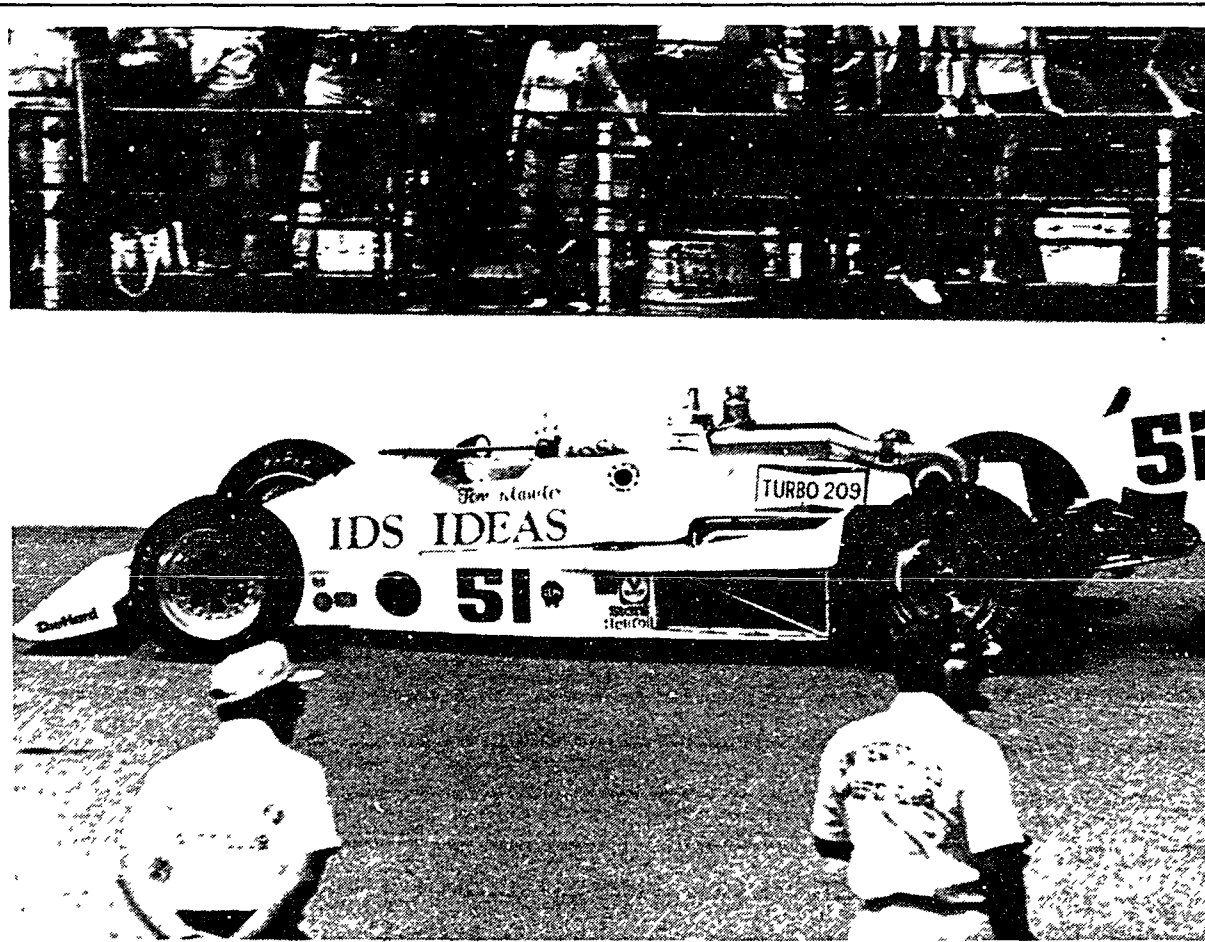

The sponsor of the car, IDS, an investment firm in Minneapolis, Minnesota, also was pleased with how the car fared in the race, Klausler said.

As for a rookie winning the race, Klausler explained it is a very difficult task.

"That type of race is hard for rookies to win. There is a lot of strategy involved. It is not an instinctive race. It is definitely a real thinking man's race," Klausler said.

"That is why the veteran drivers do well. They have it down to a fine art," he said.

Tom Klausler is looking to get the Indy 500 down to fine art someday himself.

Mustangs finish second

For the Northville girls soccer team, this definitely will be a season to remember.

The Mustangs were nipped by Livonia Stevenson in the championship game of the Schoolcraft Invitational Saturday and finished the regular season in the runner-up slot in the West Suburban Soccer Association to, none other, Northville's old nemesis Stevenson.

Mustang coach Ron Meteyer, though, was pleased with how the season went for his club. The club finished the year at 14-2-3 overall.

"The kids did everything I asked of them and a lot did more than I asked of them," Meteyer said.

Meteyer has most of his team coming back next spring. He noted that league foe Bentley does also, but that league champion Stevenson will be losing some key players.

"It will be interesting to see what happens next year," he said. "I think we're going to improve."

In the championship game of the Schoolcraft Invitational, Stevenson and Northville battled to a scoreless tie in regulation time.

The tie-breaking method used for this tournament was the shootout where five players each has a chance in a one-on-one situation to score on the goalie.

Meteyer said he had Elizabeth Bohan, Marje Muller, Jacque Nixon, Janice Irwin and Sara

Girl tracksters place last in Western Six league meet

Nobody likes being last in anything, especially sports, but somebody must. That's why the Northville girls track team isn't dancing with joy with the conclusion of the Western Six Conference meet last Wednesday at Farmington Harrison. The local thinclads finished last.

Livonia Churchill's girls claimed the title, followed by Walled Lake Western, Waterford Mott, Plymouth Canton, host Farmington Harrison and Northville.

Despite the last-place finish, Mustang coach Bob Prom was proud of the way his team performed in the meet.

"I was delighted to see a lot of people better their times," he said. "What can I say I was disappointed we couldn't have finished higher."

"It just didn't work out that way," Prom added.

The Mustangs could only muster two fourth-place and three fifth-place finishes.

The only individual to place in the meet was Hollie Raycraft. She was fourth in the shot put with a toss of 28-7 and was fifth in the discus with a throw of 84-9.

The relay teams were the only others to score any points for the Mustangs. The mile relay team of Pam Stephens, Tammy Selfridge, Kris Rosmorduc and Anita Hodge were fourth with a time of 4:30.2.

The 400-meter relay team of Charlotte Paquette, Laurie Coolman, Vicky Arwady and Hodge were fifth with a 55.8 clocking. This same team also was fifth in the 800-meter relay with a time of 1:57.0.

Prom said Patty Jose made the finals in the long jump but couldn't place. She had one leap of 14-8 which Prom said was the best for her this season.

He also cited Jeanne Stoddard who he said improved her time in the 100-meter low hurdles with a time 17.7. Others Prom cited for improving their times for the season were Paquette in the 200-meter dash with a 28.5 clocking and Selfridge in the 400-meter dash with a time of 1:05.3.

"They did very well," Prom said.

But, the root of the problem for Prom and his team to do any better than they have all season is the fact only a handful of girls were on the team this year.

"As one coach said to me 'You know, in order to be competitive you have got to have bodies'," Prom said. "Until we have people where we don't have to call upon so few to do so much we won't be competitive."

The Mustangs, he added, competed against teams that had ninth graders competing for them, while Northville's varsity squad had no freshmen.

"That makes a world of difference," he said.

However, that didn't dampen the spirits of Prom.

"I was pleased with how the girls tried and improved their times. I'm very proud of each and every one of them."

Mustang netters cop third in conference

Fourth place in the Western Six Conference Tournament which took place last Wednesday and Thursday was the best the Northville boys tennis team could muster. It gave the Mustangs third in the league overall.

Points are awarded for each dual meet a team competes in, and how its does in the league meet to determine the final league standings, Northville coach Dick Norton explained.

Farmington Harrison was crowned the champion this season. Plymouth Canton was next followed by Northville, Walled Lake Western, Waterford Mott and Livonia Churchill.

As for how the team did in the tournament Norton said his singles players played well, but he was a little disappointed in the play of the doubles teams.

"Some boys in the singles did fairly well, but it was the doubles teams that let me down a bit," Norton opined. "That cost us a few points."

The team lost some valuable points, Norton said, when the number-three doubles team of Dave Babich and Brian Shake lost their second-round match after a first-round bye.

Babich and Shake lost in their match to Randy Shell and Greg Cooper of Walled Lake Western 1-6, 6-4 and 2-6.

The number-one team of Steve Ouellette and Tony Nader lost its match to Laine Reynolds and Brooke Davis of Waterford Mott in straight 6-4 sets.

Matt Abraham and Chris McCormick, the number-two team, won the only doubles match of the day for the Mustangs. They defeated Matt Swiatek and Chip Schultz of Western 6-2 and 6-3. However, they lost in the second round to Jody Bhagat and Nick Lessins of Farmington Harrison 3-6 and 1-6.

The doubles combinations had been the most consistent part of the Mustang squad all year for Norton and he said they picked the wrong time to have a let-down.

"All of the sudden they fell flat. As one player said to me, 'We picked a bad time to choke.' He analyzed it pretty well," Norton said.

In the singles department, Norton said Jeff Williams, Rick Getzen and Richard Schohl all played well.

Williams, at number one, lost his opening round match to Aldo Stanisavljevic of Mott 6-3, 2-6 and 6-8. Williams also lost in the next round to Craig Kimel of Canton 1-6 and 4-6.

Norton said Williams had a good year at number-one singles, but said Williams was not strong enough to win some of the opponents he faced.

At number two, Getzen won his opener over Larry Garza of Western 6-2, 3-6 and 6-1, but lost to Kevin Johnston of Canton 2-6 and 1-6.

Schohl, playing number three, beat Tim Irons of Churchill in his opener 6-2 and 6-3, but fell to Bob Adam of Canton 0-6 and 1-6.

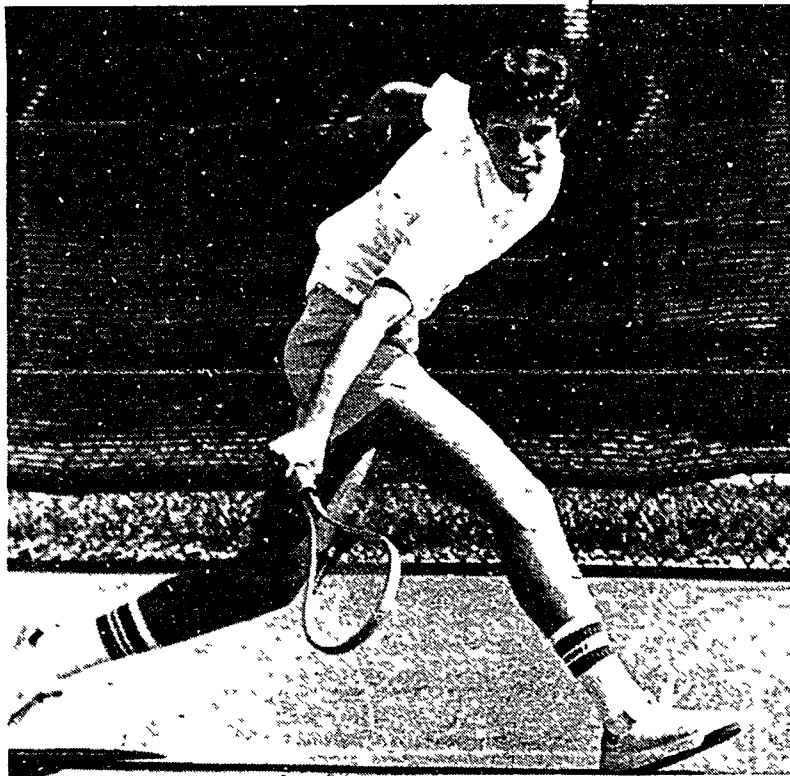

Both of these players, the coach said, had better years than their records indicate because of the move up in playing positions they made from last year.

At number-four singles, Tim Frader lost his opening match to Tom Pasley of Canton 2-6 and 3-6.

Overall, Norton felt the team had a good season, despite its 5-8 overall record.

"I felt one meet we should have won was (the Brighton match). Everything else was pretty much predictable," he said.

In the junior varsity tennis tournament, Omer Anisoglu of Northville made it to the semifinals before losing.

Performances good, but thinclads finish last in meet

Not so surprising was Livonia Churchill running away with Western Six Conference boys track meet title. What was a little surprising and disappointing was the Northville thinclads placing last.

Churchill won the title with a whopping 149 points to runner-up Farmington Harrison's 93. In third was Walled Lake Western with 88 points followed by Waterford Mott with 59 points, Plymouth Canton with 56 points and Northville with 48.

"That's what we didn't want to do," Mustang coach Ed Gabrys said. But he was quick to point out there were some odd performances the team did accomplish.

Clark Couyoumjian was the only double winner for Northville as he won the mile in a time of 4:26.7 and won the 800-meter run in a 1:59.3 clocking.

The only other winner for the Mustangs was Scott Dayton who grabbed first in the two-mile run with a time 10:00.4. He also was second behind Couyoumjian in the mile run with a time of 4:37.7.

"I thought those were excellent performances," Gabrys said. "Scott (Dayton) hasn't let up in one single meet."

Gabrys said Couyoumjian is loaded with talent and said Couyoumjian has run everything from sprints to long-distance races.

As for Couyoumjian's performance in the 800-meter run, Gabrys said Couyoumjian ran his type of race.

"That was the fastest half mile for him, bar none," Gabrys said. "With his double, that was a real amazing performance."

Gabrys noted Dayton had a real challenging race in the two-mile. He said Dayton was involved in a nip-and-tuck battle with freshman Kyle Chura of Western and won the race by a tenth of a second.

"It was very courageous performance for him to double," Gabrys said. "He was challenged the whole way (in the two mile), but he never gave up. He ran a smart race."

Gabrys said Dayton probably has run more miles than anybody else in the league and added Dayton has a lot of experience as well.

Another individual placing for Northville was Scott Robins, who was fourth in 200-meter dash with a time of 23.6. He also was fifth in the long jump with a leap of 19-8 and was a member of the fifth-place 800-meter relay team.

A sidelight to Robins was that he placed in the long jump on only two attempts. Gabrys said because of ankle and knee problems plaguing Robins, and that he wanted to save Robins for the 800 relay, was why Robins only made the two tries.

Other members, along with Robins, on the 800 relay team were Ron Beason, Bruce Barry and Dan Vogt. Their fifth-place time was 1:35.5.

The only other team to gain points for the Mustangs was the 400-meter relay team of Rick Burgett, Vogt, Barry and Beason. Their fifth-place time was 46.3, which Gabrys said was the best this season.

Field event specialist Dave Ward did not compete in the meet due to a prior commitment.

In all, Gabrys thought the team did well at the meet with the people he had, but said the performance were not enough.

Gabrys already is looking toward next year and said the team will be strong in the sprints, distance races and that the relay teams should be improved.

He added the squad will be lacking a little bit in the field events due to loss of both Robins and Ward to graduation.

"The team should be balanced," Gabrys said.

Pete Wojcicki clears the hurdle in the grueling 330-yard low hurdle event

Martin winner in Leelanau run

Northville's Bonnie Martin won the women's 36 and over division of the 1981 Leelanau Challenge Race Memorial Day in Glen Arbor.

Martin toured the 15.1-mile course in 1:57:03 and was the first woman across the finish line overall. She edged Julie Davison, of Alpena, who ran the course in a time of 2:04:05. Davison was entered in the women's 20-35 division.

The overall men's winner was John Adams, of Spring Lake, who set a course record with a 1:20:13 clocking. Adams was in the men's 20-35 division.

Meads second, Cooke fifth in league

There was a lot of good to come out of the league track meet last week for the Meads Mill Junior High team even though it didn't claim the league title.

One was the fact Meads Mill placed second in the seven-team field Belleville North again was the winner for the sixth straight year, it has won the title every year since the league's inception. Cooke Junior High was fifth.

What made the runner-up finish sweeter for Meads Mill was that it edged out Belleville South, a team which had defeated Meads Mill by 60 points earlier in the year, by two points for the honor.

And finally, there were many good individual performances in the meet by Meads Mill thinclads.

The day didn't start out bright for Meads Mill as it was in last place after the field events. Only Mark Knoth in the shot put and John Letarte in the long jump placed for Meads Mill.

Things brightened up considerably for Meads Mill as the 800-meter relay squad ignited the team. The relay team of Cathy Young, Julie Ellsperman, Cathy Sawyer and Carla Vincenti came from behind to win the race at the finish line. Cindy Panowicz then set a league record in the low hurdles as she broke the previous record by nearly a second. She also set a Meads Mill school record in the 200-meter dash as she placed second in the meet.

John Klokkega and Doug Doyle continued their winning ways as they both won their events.

Klokkega won the 880-yard dash as he knocked off five seconds from his previous best time. Doyle won the mile by clipping 10 seconds off his previous best time.

Knoth closed out the winning for the Meads Mill boys as he captured the 100-meter low hurdle event after placing second in the high hurdles.

Jim O'Neil and Kelly Wool placed fifth and fourth, respectively, in the two-mile run. In the 100-meter dash, Norm Estigoy placed fourth and anchored the second-place 400-meter relay team, all with a bad back. Other members of the relay team were Bill Butterfield, Bill Donaldson and Tom Stark.

Letarte was third in the 400-meter dash and sixth in the 200-meter dash, while Jane Thompson and Kathy Whelan placed second and third, respectively, for the girls.

Margie Wojcik copped a first in the high jump and a second in the mile. Panowicz was second in the long jump and Lori Miller was fourth.

The girls 400-meter relay team of Laurie Ryba, Chris Stassinis, Carrie Pyden and Lisa Vincenti placed fifth. The boys mile relay team of O'Neil, Chris Jones, Doyle and Klokkega placed second to round out the scoring.

For Cooke Junior High, John Raczkowski was third in the pole vault while Scott Gala was sixth in the high jump. Brian Jennings was third in the high hurdles and took fifth in the low hurdles.

Joel Vogt claimed a first place for Cooke in the 400-meter dash, was second in the 800-meter run and was fifth in the long jump.

Wendy Nuechterlein was first in the mile run, while teammate Jenny Nixon was sixth in the 200-meter dash. Samatha Barber was fifth in the 75-yard dash and Pat Wazny was third in the shot put event.

Jill Kilner was fifth in the 400-meter dash, while teammate Alica Hickman was third in the 75-yard dash. Kerry Lenaghan was third in the 100-meter and fifth in the 200-meter dashes for Cooke.

Karen Brining and Wendy Wobermin were fourth and fifth, respectively, in the low hurdles.

The boys 400-meter relay team of Andy Robson, John Briningstool, Matt Peltz and Laura Chamberlain were fourth. The girls 400-meter relay team of Barber, Kilner, Wobermin and Hickman placed fifth.

The final league standings show Belleville North in first followed by Meads Mill, Belleville South, Redford Pierce, Cooke, Dearborn Best and Cherry Hill.

Nowka lined up to each take a shot at the Stevenson goalie. The group scored three times.

But, Stevenson connected on four of its five chances and thus won the game by a 1-0 score.

Meteyer was not pleased with the tie-breaker method used this year and said he will push for a different set-up next year.

"Those penalty kicks are a lot of pressure on certain kids. That (shootout) is an individual thing, not a team thing. The game should be decided on the field," Meteyer said with a tone of displeasure in his voice.

Northville started the long day by downing Mercy, 4-0, in opener of the tournament.

Meteyer said a major concern of his before the tournament was that the games were 50-minutes instead of the usual 80 minutes due to the 15-team tournament.

He said his team is usually a second-half ballclub and that it usually takes the Mustangs 30 to 40 minutes to get moving in the contest.

Such wasn't the case against Mercy as the Mustangs exploded for three goals in the first half. The first came from Angie Butterfield 10-minutes into the game. Seven-minutes later Bohan connected for the second Northville goal and was followed two minutes later by a goal from Tish Johnson.

Kathy Montgomery closed out the Mustang scoring in the second half with a goal at the 15-minute mark. Johnson had two assists in the contest with Butterfield and Lisa Brownell adding an assist apiece.

It was the Marje Muller show against West Bloomfield in the second match of the day for Northville.

Muller scored all three goals in the shutout win. Her first goal came at 10-minutes into the game. She scored the only other goal of the first half at the 21-minute mark.

She closed out the scoring with a goal with only six minutes left to play.

Mantle squad begins season

The Northville Mickey Mantle baseball team will open its season Saturday at 4 p.m. Windsor, Ontario, at the Northville High School baseball field.

The Mantle team has a schedule of 22-games in the Northwest Suburban Amateur Baseball Federation League. Other teams in the 15- and 16-year-old league are from Wayne, Oakland and Livingston Counties as well as Ontario, Canada.

Rec'briefs

The next regularly scheduled commission meeting is Wednesday June 10 at 8 p.m. at city hall.

Registration for summer recreation classes is the week of June 22. Brochures will be mailed to homes a week before registration.

Reservations still are available for the free backpacking clinic June 4 at 7:30 p.m. at the community building. Call the recreation department for reservations at 349-0203.

The open swim hours are as follows: Monday through Thursday 7-3 p.m. for adults only; Monday and Wednesday is open swim from 8-9 p.m.; and Saturday is open swim from 1-2 p.m. and 4-5 p.m. Cost is 50 cents at the door.

It was another shutout for Northville as it turned back Bentley for the first-time ever with a 3-0 verdict.

"That was the crowning glory that day. We had never beaten Bentley before," Meteyer said.

Northville had a chance to either tie or win the WSSA title if the Mustangs won their contest against Livonia Franklin last Wednesday and Stevenson lost or tied Livonia Churchill.

The Musyangs did their part by downing Franklin, 2-0, but Stevenson edged Churchill, 4-3.

After disposing of Franklin, Meteyer said the team went to watch the Stevenson-Churchill match and almost saw their title dreams come true.

Stevenson crushed any title hopes Northville had, Meteyer said, with the game-winning goal scored in the last minute of play.

"We thought we had a piece of the action," Meteyer said. "We ran a close one."

Liberties lead primary division

The Travelers and the Liberties are deadlocked for first place in the girls Intermediate Division softball with identical 3-0 records.

The Gems are alone in second place with a 3-1 record followed closely by the Sunbirds with a 2-1 record. The Falcons are 1-2, while both the Phillies and the Aztecs are winless at 0-4.

The Travelers beat the Falcons 16-5. Homeruns were hit by Lisa Meininger, Lisa Yarmuth and Bev Henderson. Good defense has sparked the Travelers with good defensive plays being turned in by Lisa Crawford, Kristin Buelow and Cathy Sawyer.

The Gems downed the 7-1 behind

Lucy Petrides pitching. She aided her own cause by opening the game with a homerun followed by a pair of doubles and devastating baserunning.

Petrides was assisted in the game by Julie Nowka, Lynn Frellick, Cathy and Lori Miller and Charese Beuther.

In another game, the Gems they defeated the Aztecs, 21-13. Frellick was forced into pitching for the first time this season and did an outstanding job. She was aided by Shelia Harden who scored three times. Also scoring runs were Michelle Cross, Krista Kardt and Mary McDonough.

In Primary Division play the Liberties are alone in first with an unblemished 4-0 slate. The Phillies are in second with a 2-1 record while the Falcons and the Travelers are tied with 1-2 marks. The Gems are winless at 0-3.

The Travelers downed the gems 4-3 for their first victory of the young season. It was a good defensive game with Christi Kunka, Cathy Best, Heidi Robins and Karen Baird all playing well for the Falcons. Baird cracked a two-run homer.

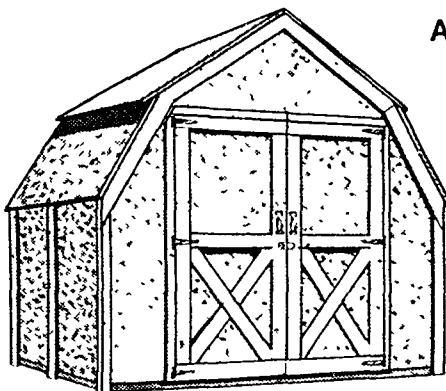

In other games, Liberties tripped the Phillies, 8-3; the Travelers lost to the Phillies, 13-5; and Liberties clipped the Gems, 13-2.
