Small business

Something about hot sunny summer afternoons brings out the entrepreneurial spirit in youth. As in most cases, for Seth and Joel Klain, ages 8 and 6 respectively, it took the form of a roadside lemonade stand on Beck near Maybury State Park. Business was a mite slow, despite the Klain's pre-inflation price structure (a mere nickel a cup), but the overhead was low, the capital investment straight from the kitchen, and the boys found the working conditions just about perfect.

7-mill school proposal slated for Tuesday's vote

It's back to the polls for Northville voters next Tuesday as they cast ballots in the Northville Public Schools millage renewal election.

Board of education members and school administrators, trying to recoup some of the 9.5 mills turned down by voters on April 4, will be asking residents to approve a 7-mill, three-year millage proposal.

The 7-mill request is 2.5 mills — or $700,000 — less than the original proposal put to voters in April.

The proposed millage package was approved by the Northville Board of Education upon the recommendation of the Citizens Advisory Committee — a community-wide citizens group formed after the April millage defeat to provide the board with community feedback in regards to Northville's public schools.

The committee, which made its recommendation to the board in June has been out in full force — along with board of education members and school personnel — promoting the millage election and stumping for its support.

For the past month, Northville residents have been hit with a barrage of literature, phone calls and door-to-door petitioners urging them to get out and vote "yes" for the 7-mill proposal.

The staunch campaigning currently underway by both school personnel and citizens committee members is a definite contrast to the low-key campaign approach taken by board members last April.

Low-key campaigning is usually the norm in most school elections — if for no other reasons than to down play the fact that residents are being asked to pump more dollars into the school system.

However, this campaign has been anything but low-key.

Informal neighborhood coffees, a July 4th campaign kick-off, a League of Women Voters millage forum and a host of other public meetings coupled with a deluge of pamphlets, leaflets and flyers have provided Northville's electorate with more school data than it most likely would receive during the whole of the regular school year.

There is little question as to why the board has taken such a zealous approach to its campaign. Board members and administrators fear that a repeat of the April 4 millage election will put the district in the worst financial shape in its history.

School officials also realize that this election represents not only the board's second attempt to renew the millage — but also perhaps its last attempt. Board members have conceded that there is little chance they will go back to the voters if Tuesday's election fails.

Yet, regardless of the high-powered public relations pitch, there still appears to be questions as to what the proposed 7-mill, three year request represents.

Many residents are still pondering over whether or not the request is a renewal, an increase or a decrease, and whether they are being asked to give more or less dollars for fewer or additional educational services.

The ballot placed before Northville voters Tuesday will ask whether "the amount of taxes which may be assessed against all property in Northville Public Schools...be increased by 7 mills on state equalized valuation for a period of three years...for the purpose of providing additional funds for operating purposes (this being a decrease of 2.5 mills from 9.5 mills

City prohibits parking overnight year-round

Plea of a city resident with a short driveway and two sons with cars fell on deaf ears at city council Monday night as members decided to continue the ban on overnight street parking as a uniform traffic code was adopted for the city.

Pamela Stopper of 43798 Dorisa Court was seeking a lifting of the overnight ban that prohibits parking from 2:30 a.m. to 7 a.m. without a permit.

Her sons, she explained with humor, arrive and leave irregularly. It's easy, she added, to forget to call the police to inform them of the cars parked overnight on the street.

As proposed in the public hearing held before the code was approved, the overnight ban would have applied only from November 1 through March 31. Originally, Stopper had come to the meeting to ask that this be changed to "during the snow season."

She also objected to the charging of $5 for a permit fee, noting that such communities as Franklin Village and Birmingham do not charge residents for permission to park overnight in front of their homes.

Jerome Mittman then stated he preferred the ban to be continued year-round. Mayor Paul Vernon agreed but said the reason normally is to permit snow removal.

He said the ban is a help to police in crime prevention and requirement of a permit "shows the automobile has a right to be there."

It is possible to call the police department and notify of a car parking in the street if a homeowner has guests or if a driveway is being repaired. Chief Rodney Cannon stated permission can be granted for a period of three days.

The adopted code also prohibits overnight parking in municipal parking lots without permission.

The ordinance to adopt a uniform traffic code for cities, townships and villages has been required by the state.

It provides for the observance of handicap parking on public and private property, sets penalties for drug addict or intoxicated persons operating vehicles, as well as defines implied consent, rights to refuse chemical tests and reasons for license suspension.

The ordinance takes effect 10 days after passage, which was by unanimous action Monday.

Purchase tied to ambulance service

By KEVIN WILSON

In what could prove to be the first move toward a change in the supply of ambulance service in Northville Township, the board of trustees Thursday approved the purchase of a rescue vehicle from the City of Plymouth.

Ostensibly intended to supplement the township's fire department, the $3,500 purchase coincided with indications of dissatisfaction with Novi Ambulance, the firm contracted to supply emergency service in the township and city.

Although considered separately during the July 16 meeting, the vehicle purchase and criticism of Novi Ambulance were linked by township officials.

The purchase had been virtually complete when considered by the board for final approval. A letter to chief Roy Hall of the Plymouth Fire Department confirming the purchase was signed by the "executive committee" of Supervisor John MacDonald, Clerk Susan Heintz and Treasurer Richard Henningsen and dated June 30.

Township fire chief Robert Toms was instructed to pick up the rescue vehicle in a letter from Heintz dated July 2. Although the vehicle needs renovation and repair, the latter communication prohibits work on the rescue unit until after the July 16 board meeting.

Toms explained at the meeting that he expects to pay for the rescue truck by selling an old five-ton Army truck owned by the department but replaced by a truck donated later.

He said he expects to realize the $3,500 from sale of the truck and gain funds to renovate it through the sale of other out-dated equipment. The new vehicle would replace an old van which is to be taken off the road.

The fire chief said he wanted the vehicle to carry rescue equipment not available when the department recently responded to an emergency call in which a worker was buried while renovating a house foundation. He also referred to a Northville Jaycees campaign to purchase a "Jaws of Life" device to donate to the department.

The tool is used to remove people from wrecked automobiles.

MacDonald hinted at the connection of the purchase with ambulance considerations by adding that it was also "in possible anticipation of a need for this kind of vehicle."

He said after the meeting that the purchase could "definitely" be construed as an indication the township may be seeking alternative ambulance services in the near future.

During late June and early July while the purchase was being negotiated Novi Ambulance was being criticized from several quarters.

Oakland County officials were investigating the firm and owner John Early in regard to alleged licensing improprieties which state officials have since cleared away. Early was to answer to the Oakland authorities at the end of July.

A major metropolitan daily, meanwhile, was reporting a host of complaints regarding overcharging by Early's ambulance services. And a monthly magazine noted a long delay in the arrival of an ambulance at Northville State Hospital, although it did not cite Novi ambulance by name.

Novi city officials have been collecting complaints about the service and say they are studying the matter.

Early's attorney, Allen C. Ingle, ap-

Postal carrier makes special delivery

It definitely was a special delivery.

As Northville postal carrier Joe Hoppersberger, who delivers mail to Highland Lakes residents, now says proudly, "You know us mailmen — we deliver."

And deliver Joe did a week ago Tuesday. He took charge as son John David decided to arrive quickly.

As Joe recounts, his wife Karen was a month overdue for their third child and on the advice of her physician had taken castor oil that afternoon. Hours later, in the middle of the night at their home at 8921 Butwell in Livonia, she told her husband, "The baby's coming — right now!"

To complicate matters, it turned out to be a breech birth.

Hoppersberger recalls, "I called the EMS (Livonia emergency service) and got to work."

Within two hours it was all over, but the new father says it was hectic at the time.

He did "talk his way" through the delivery and this helped Karen, he says.

"Here we have a leg. It's coming."

"Oh, it's a boy."

By this time the emergency assistance had arrived, but Hoppersberger says now, the firemen seemed relieved to have him in charge.

"They told me afterward that this was their first home delivery — and it wasn't like the training said."

NEWS BRIDGES

CITY COUNCIL already has insured that September will hold a full schedule of meetings. Monday it changed the regularly scheduled first meeting of the month to Tuesday, September 8, to avoid Labor Day conflict. A special meeting was set for 8 p.m. September 14 with an invitation for the planning commission and city building officials to meet with council. A joint meeting with township officials also is to be on the September agenda.

JAY WENDT was appointed to the Northville city planning commission Monday night by council to fill a vacancy for a three-year term that will run until 1984. Wendt previously had served on the library commission for four years. The planning post had been vacant as Jerome Mittman's term on the commission was expiring when he was appointed to city council to fill the vacancy caused by Stanley Johnston's resignation.

STUART OIL fire defendant has pled guilty to a lesser charge of attempted arson and his case has gone to the probation department for recommendation. Chief Rodney Cannon reported to city council Monday. He explained the court took into consideration the fact that the defendant is "functional but somewhat retarded" in the sentencing.

PLANNING COMMISSION of Northville Township meets at 8 p.m. Tuesday, July 28 in township hall, 41600 Six Mile Road. Agenda items include discussion of the recreation master plan and several other planning matters.

Of state institutions

Council expresses concern with group home policies

During the past several months Northville City Council, like most neighboring communities, has been receiving letters from institutions outlining group home placement policies of the Michigan Department of Mental Health and announcing their intent to develop such homes in the community.

In responding to them Mayor Paul Vernon has been asking program sponsors to explain how the requests are to be coordinated.

He also has written Dr. Frank Ochberg, state mental health director, of the city's concerns, pointing out the number of mental institutions and the ISEP program now operating in this area. He has noted that residents have been receptive and helpful to those in the program with groups like Kiwanis assisting with recreation, etc.

Last month, after receiving a letter from Ms. Laima Starwas, director of community placement unit at Northville Residential Training Center, he extended an invitation for groups to appear before council at their earliest convenience.

Starwas had written that "there are developmentally disabled (mentally retarded) persons in the City of Northville for whom it is intended to develop community homes."

Monday night Starwas and Carol Park, educational recruitment coordinator at the center, attended city council meeting.

Admitting that it was unfortunate the council had not been informed in advance when plans were made to use a house on the rear of the lot on Wing Street for a group home, Starwas said in the future she would like to come before the council to have its input from the outset.

She agreed that the Wing house was not a good choice and said the license application will be withdrawn.

Council had objected to the home when proposed as residents of the area pointed out it shared a common driveway, had virtually no lawn space and only the minimum amount of room for six persons plus staff.

At the time, council member Burton DeRusha questioned whether such a situation was "improving the quality of living for those who would be placed there." Last Monday he commended Starwas for a better approach, as he criticized the official application which had only asked council to report if there were another group home within 1500 feet.

Council's explanation of its reasons for rejecting the Wing application had been totally ignored, he told Starwas and Park. "It makes you wonder about people who serve in government," he observed.

He asked Starwas why the application was being withdrawn on the Wing Street property. She replied it is because "the person who owned the property backed out."

Park told council that part of the confusion of the placement project results from it being new in Michigan, although the concept is working in other states.

The Department of Management and Budget, she said, "is making guidelines more comprehensive in home selection. All leases, she explained, must go through this department. She added that "a cap now has been placed on the rate of return, permitting only 12 percent instead of the past rates that were as high as 15 percent."

Vernon said the story of the Grosse Pointe doctor who was reported as "profiteering" with a group home had been a concern.

Starwas and Park outlined the responsibilities of the Department of Mental Health and Department of Social Services in placements.

The Department of Mental Health, she said, contracts for administrators while the Department of Social Services makes the resident placements.

"We have the feeling that it's a very disorganized program," Vernon told the women as the council tried to ascertain how the programs are coordinated. He added, "Up to now everything we've read has been negative, we're looking for positives and want to work with you."

The council accepted Starwas' offer to inspect a group home as she explained, "We're trying to make a normal life for these people (mentally retarded)."

During the discussion it was pointed out that placements are being sought for mentally retarded, mentally ill and for prisoners.

Letters to the city on group homes had come from the Northville Regional Psychiatric Center and Clinton Valley Center (Oakland County) as well as from the Northville Residential Center.

Vernon also wrote Representative Jack Kirksey regarding the number of such letters received.

Kirksey replied last month that he has been aware of the placement programs, especially for Livonia and Northville areas.

"I am not opposed to the rationale associated with deinstitutionalization of some of the patients that are currently in our state mental hospitals," he wrote Vernon, but added, "I am very concerned, however, to the degree that the deinstitutionalization has occurred. I am also extremely upset with the plans that the state has for future deinstitutionalization."

"A case in point is that of the State of Michigan's plan to deinstitutionalize the patients in the Plymouth Center for Human Development. At one time the population of this institution was approximately 700."

"The State of Michigan originally planned to deinstitutionalize all of these patients (many of them severely retarded and needing extensive supervision) and close the center. This plan has been reconsidered and the center will remain open but will only house approximately 150."

Kirksey went on to state that he contends that only a relatively small percentage of the patients at the Plymouth Center were appropriate candidates for foster care home placement.

"This feeling has been confirmed by talking with members of the staff at the center. Even those who are staunch proponents of community placement have said unofficially to me that they are literally scraping the bottom of the barrel in an effort to carry out the state plan," he wrote.

He told Vernon that "most of the placements that have occurred in our general area and basically throughout the state have been classified as retarded. The State Department of Mental Health hopes in the near future to consult on the placement of mentally ill patients."

He expressed concern that such placements could be a much greater problem than that of the retarded and offered to discuss the placement problems with community leaders if such meetings are upcoming.

Vernon assured council he would pursue having institutional representatives planning foster home care in the city appear before the council to explain further local plans.

At the July 6 city council meeting the council unanimously supported two resolutions of other communities on adult foster care. Holly is seeking a moratorium on the release of mentally ill to residential foster care until the state "addresses the problems involved."

Westland urges applications for adult foster care homes be held in abeyance for those that would house mentally ill.

Park Gardens group gets board support

Representatives of the recently formed Park Gardens Homeowners Association found a receptive board of trustees July 16, and came away with some assurances that their problems are taken seriously.

They secured promises from the board to ask Wayne County to grade the subdivision for better surface drainage, have the township engineer examine a nearby construction project for any contribution it may be making to the sewage problems in the area and to examine the possibility of demanding certificates of occupancy for used home sales.

None of the promises involved official board action, so the township is not bound to carry through on them, but it already has proceeded with the first two steps.

"It's very frustrating for us and for you," said Supervisor John MacDonald, "but I think we've done as much in the past six months as has been done over the past 20 years. That is not to brag about our performance, merely to let you know that we are spending the money that we do have in an attempt, at least, to alleviate your problems."

Park Gardens, a four street subdivision off Five Mile near Haggerty, is plagued with failing septic fields. Human waste accumulates at the surface during rainy periods, posing a health hazard to the residents. Attempts to gather monies to install sewers have, to date, failed to produce a solution.

The township has accumulated roughly 50 percent of the needed money to install a sewer in Five Mile Road to which the homeowners could connect — perhaps at their own cost, although a search for funds to make connections also is underway.

First phases of the sewer construction are in process — the purchase and installation of two pumping stations needed to handle the added capacity and send it uphill to a major Wayne County sewer.

While waiting for the sewer project, however, some things should be done to minimize the effects of the septic failures, residents suggested.

Acting on a suggestion by William Basse, of Parklane, MacDonald already has mailed a letter to the Wayne County Road Commission asking it to give priority treatment to Park Gardens when grading roads.

Basse suggested the measure to improve surface drainage and reduce the amount of standing water, usually contaminated, that accumulates after a rain.

Some residents also were concerned that a nearby construction project changed the grading in such a way that it slows storm runoff. Township engineers McNeely & Lincoln, Associates, has been asked to investigate the grading to see if any improvement can be made on that front.

Most complicated of the residents suggestions, and the one likely to take the most time to implement, is that the township require that used homes placed on the market be certified habitable, much the way new homes are with a certificate of occupancy.

This request was the only one to meet some resistance from the board. Suggested by Elizabeth McCarville, the idea met with some hesitancy from the board, but it later promised to examine the possibility.

McCarville said she thought such a requirement would allow new buyers to know of problems, such as failing septic fields, before purchasing a home. She noted that her home needed new plumbing almost immediately and said she would have appreciated some investigation before the home was sold.

Demand for city signs increasing

The signs at entrances to the downtown area designed by the city to help promote local events are proving so popular that city council now is receiving requests to use the back sides when many happenings are pending.

At its July 6 session, it granted permission to the Retail Merchants Association to advertise the annual city sidewalk sale from July 18 until the sale day of August 1.

The Blue Grass Festival, annual benefit planned by Tom Rice of the Giftfiddler, was given approval to use the back of the signs from July 25 until August 9, date of the event, with the option of moving the signs to the front after the sidewalk sale is over August 1.

Merchants also were given approval to close Main Street from Hutton to Phil's Pure Station at Wing and Center from Dunlap to Cady for the annual sale.

House, director of manufacturing for Grow Chemical Company of Troy, was instrumental in having the 1968 GMC diesel tandem-axle tractor donated to the department. Now dressed out in fire-engine red paint and hooked up to the department's 5,000 gallon stainless steel tanker (also donated) the "new" vehicle is the best performer in the fleet, Toms enthused from behind the wheel (at right).

Council pares budget

City council Monday night was faced with the first paring required to keep its 1981-82 budget in balance. Additional expenses, in particular the 1980 District Court settlement to the township, amounting to $18,134 for a total of $85,000 for the 1980-81 year, have been responsible.

This, City Manager Steven Walters told council in a memo, will require an amendment to the 1981-82 budget.

Both Walters and City Attorney Philip Ogilvie are on vacation this week; but the council followed the city manager's recommendation.

In his review of the budget, Walters suggested revising operating services downward by $18,134 to $219,018 to bring the budget into line.

Expenditures to be decreased were patrol wages, cut $10,000 to $232,000; refuse collection wages, cut $4,134 to $59,866; and accounting computer, cut $4,000 to $5,000.

In conjunction with the proposed cut in refuse collection, the city manager reported to council, he and Public Works Superintendent Ted Mapes have been reviewing possibility of contracting for refuse collection, checking with various neighboring cities to see how they handle refuse.

"It appears that this could produce a substantial cost saving to the city without a significant reduction in the quality of service," he commented in a memo, estimating that the savings could reach $20-$30,000 a year.

Walters also pointed out there could be an additional future advantage to contracting for this service. "We are presently responsible for our own disposal, and have a contract with a landfill owner. When this ends, we will have to find another site. We do not presently have a long-term solution to refuse disposal under our control," he advised.

Walters asked the council if it is interested in having the possibility explored and proceeding with a cost analysis and proposed bid specifications. The council voted to explore the matter. Council member Carolann Ayers asked, however, that the city not opt to handle the real problem of future landfill by "farming it out." She suggested study should be given this problem that will need a solution in the future.

Mapes said Monday that neighboring cities, such as Plymouth, report little problem with contracting with private companies for the service. He said some of the cost reduction involves fringe benefits now paid city employees. He added, however, that the city's quality of collection service has been high, bringing few complaints from residents.

Last month the city council gave authorization to transfer up to $85,000 to the city's general fund budget in additional appropriations for 1980-81 so that the general fund would show a positive fund balance at June 30, 1981, for the bond sale statements for South Main paving project.

Since the general fund had been planned for 1981-82 to offset the balance of the deficit, this required a change with the contribution being reduced in 1981-82 and increased now.

Earlier, the council authorized preparation of bid proposals for an upgrading of the accounting computer system for the city.

The seed money for the conversion project is now eliminated in the general fund budget balancing.

While announcing that the project is being shelved for the time being, Walters noted that he and controller Betty Lennox have been obtaining information about the possibility of using service bureaus as an alternative to buying equipment. Walters said they will investigate further.

Police case will go to arbitration

One of two city police department disciplinary measures reviewed by city council in closed session June 29 is being taken to arbitration, city council was notified at its meeting Monday.

Council review of the other was accepted.

Police Officers Association of Michigan which represented the officers at the closed session filed an amended request for Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service in the action taken against Hugh Jordan. The closed session is permitted under the Open Meeting Act in personnel matters when the person involved seeks it.

An arbitrator with experience in labor matters concerning law enforcement is being requested by the POAM. The notification was signed by Gerald Radovic, business agent, who had represented the officers along with William Birdseye at the meeting with council.

In regard to the hearing against David Fendeleit, council was notified by the POAM that the answer was accepted and the grievance closed.

It was understood that the closed hearings with the policemen were regarding two separate actions. The patrolmen had taken their grievances through required steps. Chief Rodney Cannon's disciplinary action was reviewed by City Manager Steven Walters before it was taken to the council.

Parson to Person...

About Heaven

Dr. James Luther

Heaven, what a pleasant thought. But it is more than a pleasant thought or a wishful superstition. If you are interested in knowing more about heaven consider these facts and references.

- 1) Heaven is a real place (John 14:1-3).
- 2) The Lord's throne is in heaven (Psalm 11:4).
- 3) Heaven is the place to which the saved go at death (II Corinthians 5:8).
- 4) Heaven is far better than the best of Earth (Philippians 1:21-23).
- 5) Heaven is an inheritance given to all who trust Christ as Savior. (I Peter 1:3-5).

Perhaps the most common question about heaven is whether we will know our loved ones when we arrive there. The answer seems obvious. Heaven is a place of light, no darkness. It is a place of sight, no blindness. We shall know more there, not less! The disciples recognized Moses and Elijah when they appeared briefly with Jesus on the Mount of Transfiguration. If they recognized men they had not even known in life, how much more will we know and appreciate our friends and loved ones!

But many who wonder about our ability to recognize in heaven have never recognized the Son of God in this life. Jesus is the only way to heaven (John 14:6). Do you know him "whom to know aright is life eternal"?

Police Blotter

Motorbikes targeted by Northville thieves

A 1973 Yamaha 80 motorcycle, valued at $300, was stolen from a Maxwell residence between July 11 and 13, township police report.

The owner said unknown persons entered his garage and stole the cycle. He said the garage doors were closed, but not locked, police said.

There was no indication of forced entry and nothing else appeared to be missing or disturbed, police said.

The owner was not at home at the time of the theft, but he checked with a neighbor who said he didn't hear or see anyone, police said. Police noted there are several bushes and shrubs which make it difficult for the neighbors to see anything.

There are no suspects in the case.

Two incidents of stolen mopeds were reported to township police last week.

A 1978 Bonchi moped, valued at $300, and a 1980 Yamaha QT 500 moped were stolen July 13 while they were parked near the north shore of the Griswold gravel pit, police said.

The owner of the Bonchi said he was swimming at the Griswold pit when his moped was stolen from the wooded area of the north shore, police said.

The owner of the Yamaha moped said he had parked it in the weeds and when he returned the moped had been stolen, police said.

Police in both incidents have no suspects.

A 24-inch Schwinn 120 10-speed bicycle was stolen while it was parked on the east shore of Spring Harbour Lake July 12, township police said. The bike was valued at $200.

The owner said while he was swimming at the lake, unknown persons stole the bike, police said.

There are no suspects.

A coin operated newspaper stand was stolen between July 14 and 15 from in front of a business on Seven Mile, township police said. The stand was valued at $237.

A delivery man said unknown persons took the stand between 2 and 2:15 a.m., police said.

The case is still under investigation.

Rear window louvers, valued at $100, were stolen from a 1980 Chevrolet Camaro at a Jamestown Circle residence between 6 and 11 p.m. July 14, township police report.

The owner said unknown persons stole the louvers off the rear window of the car while it was parked in front of her residence. She did not hear or see anyone, police said.

The owner spoke with neighbors, but no one heard or saw anything, police said.

Police have no suspects.

More than 200 golf balls, valued at $109.60, were stolen July 13 from a local driving range on Haggerty and Five Mile, township police report.

Police have a suspect in the case, but are waiting for the complainant to sign the warrant to take the case to court, police said.

City police report an aluminum corner post at a Rayson residence was damaged during the early morning July 15. Damage was placed at $100.

The owners said unknown persons struck the corner post with a vehicle while either exiting or entering the driveway, police said.

Police have no suspects.

Hines Park detail routine

It is business as usual for the policemen of Northville Township who patrol their area of Hines Park.

Despite the cutbacks in the Wayne County Sheriff's Department, acting Police Chief Lieutenant Kenneth Hardesty said his department is handling its cases in Hines Park like it normally would.

Township officers have been enforcing the parking regulations within their jurisdiction, he said. There are only a few short spaces in which to park and Hardesty said the officers have been enforcing these.

Other than parking violations in the park, police cases have involved people staying after curfew hours and creating noise and about three cases of indecent exposure, according to the acting chief.

Patrolling the area is about the same as last year, Hardesty said, noting there has not been any big increase, or decrease, in the number of people using Hines Park.

"We haven't changed anything," Hardesty said.

He acknowledge that one park section of particular importance in patrolling is the area adjacent to the heavily populated Kings Mill subdivision.

However, cutbacks in the sheriff's department have not adversely affected the township's general patrol efforts, Hardesty emphasized.

Named to pollution board

Governor William G. Milliken announced the appointment of James N. Howell of Northville as a member of the Air Pollution Control Commission on June 24. The appointment is for a term expiring June 15, 1984, subject to Senate confirmation.

Howell, a resident of 16808 Dundalk Court, is director of environmental control for Great Lakes Steel, a division of National Steel Corporation.

He will succeed Donald R. Naish of Dryden as a member representing industry.

Prior to his present position, Howell was director of environmental affairs and director of safety for the firm's midwest division.

A graduate of Michigan Technological University, he is a professional engineer in Michigan and Indiana.

He is a member of the Water Pollution Control Federation, Air Pollution Control Association, Great Lakes Steel Management Club, American Iron and Steel Institute, American Iron and Steel Engineers, steering committee of the Michigan Coalition for Clean Air and Michigan Manufacturers Association, and is vice-chairman of the Michigan Air Pollution Association.

FRED W. HILES

July 4 retiree

America celebrated its 205th year of independence July 4 and Fred W. Hiles, in a sense, celebrated a little independence of his own.

A radio technician with the Northville Michigan State Police post, the 62-year-old resident of Plymouth began his independence from work by retiring from the police force July 4 after more than seven years of service with the department, a MSP spokesman said.

He worked with the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and the state for two years each prior to joining the state police in April of 1974.

Before working with the Department of Natural Resources and the state, Hiles had been with the Detroit police department for 25 years from 1945 to 1970. Most of the time was spent in communications where he earned the lieutenant rank.

Beginning in 1939 he was in the U.S. Army Air Force for 71 months, including 58 months overseas.

He was born in Duluth, Minnesota, and was graduated from high school in Detroit. He and his wife Lottie have a son and two daughters.

Acting chief pay increase okayed

Acting Township Police Chief Kenneth Hardesty will be paid at the annual rate of $24,825 while performing the task — three percent more than he would have earned in his regular role as the department's only lieutenant.

The board of trustees approved the pay raise during its regular meeting Thursday, but made no move toward beginning the process of hiring a new permanent police chief.

The salary level approved falls short of that budgeted ($25,650) for former chief Ronald Nisun, who was to begin work as a patrolman Monday, but raises Hardesty's pay above the level prescribed for a lieutenant at $24,100.

According to treasurer Richard Henningsen, the pay rate leaves the board free to negotiate salary when it eventually does choose a new chief, while rewarding Hardesty for his extra duties. A new chief would, presumably, make more than the figure set for Hardesty.

The acting chief might actually make less than he would have as a lieutenant, since the pay increase was tied to an order that he not be paid overtime. As a lieutenant, Hardesty was eligible for overtime pay, but now is a straight salaried employee.

He is, however, by terms of the agreement allowing him to "step out" of his role as union president for the Command Officers Association (COA) still to be protected by the union.

For disciplinary or other matters, the agreement states, Hardesty will be considered a member in good-standing of COA and the review processes accorded members will be followed.

Supervisor John MacDonald explained that it would be "unfair" to make Hardesty drop the union's protection while serving the temporary role of acting chief.

"For now he is neither fish nor fowl," he said. "To give up his union protection would be asking him to risk his career without offering anything of permanence."

The raise approved last week consists of three percent ($700) budgeted as a raise this year for Hardesty as lieutenant plus three percent of the new total ($725) for acting as chief.

Senior citizens bum around at hobo party

Residents protest Nisun demotion

By KEVIN WILSON

Charging that former Police Chief Ronald Nisun's resignation was made "under duress" a handful of residents sat through a three hour township board of trustees meeting Thursday night to demand the board reconsider the action.

Nisun submitted a formal letter of resignation June 25 at the conclusion of a board hearing closed to the public (at his request, therefore legal under the opening meetings act) during which the board examined his alleged release of township stationery to an arms dealer.

He asked, in the same letter, that he be assigned duties as a patrolman at the end of his accrued vacation time. He reported as a patrolman Monday for the first time.

Declining to concede that Nisun's letter was voluntary, approximately five residents argued at the end of the July 16 meeting that the action was essentially a demotion demanded by the board and was too severe a penalty for the infraction cited.

Robert Ray, former captain of the township's auxiliary police, told the board he wanted it to reconsider the decision because, he said, the penalty Nisun paid for the infraction is too severe.

He referred to an exchange of letters with Supervisor John MacDonald, in which MacDonald supplied Ray with documentation surrounding the incident which was also released to the newspaper after the closed session.

As was reported by this paper, Ray noted that signatures affixed to an order for 84 Smith and Wesson handguns and a federal excise tax exemption form are not in Nisun's handwriting, although it is his name on the documents.

"They are clearly forgeries," Ray said. "A man's whole life, his entire career is involved here."

Board members said there was no question that Nisun had not signed the documents, but that their concern was that he supplied the needed stationery while aware it was to be used for a bogus order for handguns.

Another resident asked if there were any other infractions on Nisun's record. There was no response from the board. Law enforcement personnel records are not subject to the freedom of information act, and therefore not a matter of public record unless released by the employee.

MacDonald said, however, that the board hearing of the Nisun matter focused on the single incident and did not examine any other part of his 10-year record as chief.

"So the man's entire career is destroyed on a first infraction of poor judgment?" said Ray.

"There is more involved here than just a matter of poor judgment," Clerk Susan Heintz responded.

Another resident asked MacDonald "what crime did he (Nisun) commit? The paper (The Record) said the federal agent called this an open investigation. What crime is involved here?"

The supervisor said he felt Nisun was cleared of criminal intent in the incident, and that the township board's decision was not based on criminal activity but on "preserving the integrity and reputation of the police department and the township."

Pressed for an answer from his perspective as a practicing attorney, MacDonald declined to comment on the legality or illegality of Nisun's involvement with the arms dealer.

"All I know is he did something, whether it is criminal or not we didn't get involved with," he said. "We only considered what his action meant to his job. Even the chief, or the former chief rather, admits it was a foolish thing to do."

The audience members continued to press the argument that even if the action demanded a penalty, it should have been a less severe one. They claimed Nisun's letter could be not be construed as an admission that demotion to patrolman was appropriate discipline. "What did you do," asked Sandra Shearrer, a former employee of the department, "tell him to resign or get fired? Was that his choice?"

MacDonald reiterated that whatever discussion was conducted with Nisun was done in a closed meeting, and declined further comment on that portion of the incident, "unless Mr. Nisun and his attorney are present to protect his interests."

He added, however, "I don't think there was duress. Chief Nisun resigned."

Ray kept up the theme, however. "I'm sure a lot of people in this room have done things as bad..."

"Not everyone's a chief of police," MacDonald shot back, cutting off Ray's statement. "There's the bottom-line difference. That's what we're really talking about here."

Few of those present attempted to defend Nisun's action in release of township stationery to Robert Pattison, a Livonia arms dealer. They argued only that the penalty was too severe.

Some alleged Nisun was promised he could maintain his full 10-year seniority when stepping down to patrol rank, but found later he was to become the low seniority patrolman.

"Seniority is an issue to be dealt with by the union," MacDonald said. "We do not have the capacity to make such a promise. Beyond that, as I have said, I would be uneasy about talking about what happened in a closed session."

Nisun's seniority status could be significant because the township has said it will have to lay off at least one patrolman unless it can pass a millage increase within the year. Under union rules, the patrolman with lowest seniority would be laid off.

It is possible for the township and union to have differing seniority standards for the same employee. Nisun, for instance, might be considered a new, probationary employee for union purposes while maintaining vacation and pension status as a 10-year employee of the township.

Earlier, MacDonald and Heintz said the board discussed every level of discipline ranging from no action to termination of employment. All board members, they said, agreed that Nisun should no longer serve as chief, and finally settled on patrol rank as the most workable position for the former chief.

Shearrer seized on earlier discussion involving acting chief Kenneth Hardesty during which it was said the chief, as a salaried administrator, is not protected by a union and that there are no established disciplinary procedures for the post.

"You said yourself you have no guidelines," she said. "This is the first incident of such an offense you've had to deal with, and you have no guidelines. You know the chief resigned under duress. Who was the judge? Where was the jury?"

MacDonald responded: "I guess we were the jury. We're the people elected to serve the township. I believe he got a fair hearing. We're elected to do that job."

Asked if there was any chance for an open meeting to reconsider the board decision, MacDonald pointed out that the original hearing was closed at Nisun's request and the action was concluded at that point.

When another resident charged that chiefs of other suburban police departments are engaged in similar conduct and go unpunished, various board members responded that other departments are not their concern.

Clerk Susan Heintz moved adjournment of the meeting, and discussion was brought to a close.

Shearrer, who first broached the subject early in the meeting during a period set aside for public comment, had been invited to talk with MacDonald after the meeting, when comments would no longer be a part of the public record. Neither she, nor any of the other residents, approached the supervisor after the meeting had been closed.

Funeral service today for pioneer Carrie Taft

Carrie L. Taft, widow of the last family occupant of the pioneering Taft homestead at Taft and Eight Mile roads, died Monday at the age of 80.

Ill for the past eight years, she was a resident at Hendry Convalescent Home upon her death.

Mrs. Taft, who was herself a member of a prominent Northville family — the Litsenbergers, was born March 20, 1901 in Fennville, Michigan, the daughter of Sidney and Carrie (Parker) Litsenberger.

She moved to Northville in 1912, and on August 14, 1925 she was married to Gerald F. Taft, who preceded her in death here on March 6, 1965 at the age of 65.

Mrs. Taft was a parent, a supportive mate for a very active husband, and a past member of Kings Daughters, Woman's Club, and the Mothers Club of Northville.

Her husband was born on the family homestead, now part of Lexington Commons North, which was owned by the Tafts from 1824 when the land was acquired from the government by his great grandfather until it was sold for development of the present subdivision. She and her husband lived in a house, now gone, on this old farm which until relatively recent years was part of Novi Township.

Pitts Taft, third settler in Novi in the spring of 1825, lived on the then forested farm. It was here that one of the first schools in the area was built for the education of pioneering children.

Taft Road, which originally was a farm lane, was named for the pioneering Tafts.

Mr. Taft, who was involved in road construction for much of his adult life, had been an active member of the Lloyd H. Green Post of the American Legion (having served in the Navy during World War I), a member of the local Optimist Club, and president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Together with his wife, he was active in the National Morgan Horse club and was a president of both that organization and the Michigan Horse Show Association.

Surviving children of Mrs. Taft are Lois Simons of Peoria, Illinois and William D. Taft of Plymouth. She also is survived by eight grandchildren and four great grandchildren; four sisters, Mary Whipple of Novi and Alice Junod, Virginia Smith, and Catherine Sibley, all of Northville; and three brothers, Joe, John and Bob Litsenberger of Northville.

Funeral service for Mrs. Taft is at 11 a.m. today (Wednesday) at Casterline Funeral Home, with the Reverend Dr. Lawrence Chamberlain of the First Presbyterian Church of Northville officiating.

Burial will be in Rural Hill Cemetery.

DURHAM H. STRACHAN

Funeral service for Durham H. (Jerry) Strachan of Livonia was held at 11 a.m. Monday at Ross B. Northrop and Son Funeral Home with the Reverend V. F. Halboth officiating.

Mr. Strachan, a service technician with General Electric Company, died July 17 at Harper-Grace Hospital at the age of 54.

Burial was in Glen Eden Cemetery.

Mr. Strachan was a member of Grace Lutheran Church and was a U. S. Navy veteran of World War II.

He was born June 1, 1927, in Michigan to Durham and Helen (Gimmel) Strachan. He married the former Ellen Milke who survives.

He also leaves three children, Pamela, Randy and Todd; a sister Helen Chitti; and one grandchild.

Council hears Omnicom complaints

Cable television may be bringing new entertainment to some city residents in the future, but right now it's considered an unwanted intrusion by others.

Richard and Jan Wilhelm of 501 Morgan Circle and their neighbors the Richard Cronins told city council Monday night they considered the installation "trespassing."

They told council that some of the residents had received post cards to return if they had objections they were concerned about in the ements, but that there had been no response to these.

"The young men — very young and very flippant — just arrived last Saturday morning," Mrs. Cronin told council.

"I don't feel any of this is necessary for none of us really want the cable TV. There are trees (in the easement) 30-40 feet high I hate to think they are going to be destroyed."

Police Chief Rodney Cannon said Saturday's complaint was only the fifth the police department had received about the installers. However, he told council, the installers, a firm from the Upper Peninsula hired by Omnicom, "are not like utility workers. They do go about their business in a very direct way."

"I'm steamed," Cronin told the council, accusing the project of being "snuck past" him.

"I'd like to have a better say in this, but the attitude is 'You got it — you're stuck with it.'"

Mayor Paul Vernon told the speaker he strongly resented any such implication as the firm was granted a franchise two years ago after a public hearing that was fully publicized.

The council, he said, felt it had selected one of the most reputable firms, pointing out that Omnicom is owned by Capital Cities Communications.

The residents were assured that the city would "follow up" on the complaints.

Service concerns prompt truck purchase

appeared at the meeting to deny all charges against his client. He said he assumed from newspaper statements attributed to business manager David Lelko that discussion of the charges would be a board agenda item.

Lelko explained that information had been circulated to all board members, but that no discussion had been requested.

Ingle said he wished to "clear up" the stories circulating about Novi Ambulance.

He recited the specifics of the incident Oakland County authorities had questioned and charged that there was no wrong-doing on Early's part. He said there was an attempt to discredit Early, but declined to name parties involved. Early has suggested a competitor is trying to bring Novi Ambulance into dispute.

"To this date, we have never received any charge from anyone," Ingle said. "There are no complaints about Novi Ambulance or its service."

Ingle said state licensing authorities have cleared Early of the allegations made in Oakland County June 29.

He went too far for MacDonald, however, in claiming there are "no complaints."

MacDonald was vehement in stating displeasure with Novi Ambulance.

"To say that there were no complaints was an absolute untruth," MacDonald charged. "We have received complaints about overcharging and response times. They're all on file."

Ingle said Novi Ambulance charges may be higher than others in the area because other communities make larger subsidies to other companies. He also said average Novi Ambulance response times are around five minutes, and said response could only be improved by shrinking the area covered.

The township supervisor was not buying those arguments either.

"He (Early) has the use of a facility right here in the township that we have gone to great expense to provide for him," MacDonald said, referring to a former Wayne County Child Development Center fire station renovated for Novi Ambulance use as a part of the service contract.

"There are serious questions regarding whether he uses that facility in the manner intended," he said. "If he was in the place we provided for him I'm sure the response time would be at least a couple minutes better."

MacDonald also hinted that the township may soon be seeking alternative services.

"Let me just say it seems all is not right with Mr. Early. I personally, without speaking for the board, am not really satisfied with Mr. Early."

He suggested "we just leave it at that."

Ingle said he only wanted to explain that his client had been besmirched because "of the Detroit News going around behind our back."

Should the township seek alternative service to that contracted from Novi Ambulance, other communities may also be affected. City and township share the contract with Novi Ambulance, and the firm provides service for other nearby municipalities.

No indication was available last week that a joint venture into providing alternative service was under way.

They did take the new mother and baby to St. Mary Hospital afterward where the baby produced his first cry. He weighed in at a hefty eight pounds, ten ounces.

Both mother and child continued to do well and were released last weekend.

The newcomer will be getting acquainted with brothers Joshua, 8, and Peter, 9.

Hoppersberger, who has been a Northville mail carrier for nine years, now is taking a vacation until August 4.

His co-workers and those on his routes have come to know the mailman for his enthusiasm for the Plymouth Community Chorus in which he is an active, singing member.

When he returns to duty now, he'll have a zippy male delivery to report.

Arcade licensing law gets green light

By KEVIN WILSON

Township pinball regulations are bouncing off another bumper on the way to being flipped into the law books.

Proposed licensing provisions for amusement arcades have been sent to the township attorney for review, following first approval by the board of trustees Thursday.

The five-page ordinance proposed by Clerk Susan Heintz calls for a $10 per machine annual license fee, up to a maximum of $150, to operate an arcade containing five or more coin-operated amusement devices (pinball and video games).

Annual licensing requires inspection by the township building inspector and police chief and the law restricts hours of operation and the age of employees.

Heintz said her draft ordinance closely follows the provisions of an Ypsilanti law passed two years ago.

At the recommendation of acting police chief Kenneth Hardesty the board voted to amend the document to provide for removal of a license for cause.

Hours of operation would be restricted by requiring arcades to close at midnight and open no sooner than noon. Arcades would be closed until 2 p.m. Sundays. Persons under age 17 would be barred from arcades after 11 p.m. unless accompanied by parent or guardian.

The restrictions on hours do not apply to establishments where hours are established by the Liquor Control Commission — allowing bars to remain open until regular hours even if licensed as arcades.

Gambling is prohibited as is loitering. Businesses or individuals with a gambling conviction in the past are prohibited from licensing. Operators are made responsible for evicting those under the influence of alcohol or other substances.

Food preparation at an arcade is prohibited unless it also carries license as a restaurant.

Screens or drapes that might prevent a police officer from observing activity in the arcade are prohibited, except in regard to Liquor Control Commission establishments.

Arcade owners would not be allowed to employ persons under age 18.

Violation of the ordinance carries penalties ranging from a $500 fine plus court costs, to 90 days in jail or forfeiture of the license or all three at the "discretion of the court."

The township's proposed law is less strict than some proposed in surrounding communities. The city of Plymouth Monday night was advised to pass an "emergency" ordinance restricting arcades. It calls for license fees of $200 per electronic game, $50 for a juke box and $25 for a cigarette machine.

Township zoning and licensing ordinances being considered apply only to games, not juke boxes or vending machines.

The Plymouth law also prohibits location of an arcade within 600 feet of a church, public or parochial school or playground. Northville Township planners are considering a setback requirement of 300 feet from residential areas.

Plymouth's more extensive law also gives police broader authority than the simple lifting of a license provided in the township. It gives police the authority to seize a game suspected of being used for gambling, and to destroy such a machine if it is confirmed that it was used for gambling.

It sets no limits as to what is and is not an arcade, demanding licensing for all machines.

Plymouth City engineer Ken West said the community is receiving frequent requests to locate arcades there.

Township building official Troy Milligan made a similar statement when requesting guidance from the township recently.

Novi City Council recently instructed its attorney to draft an ordinance governing arcades in that community.

After the review by township attorney Nels Carlson, the board is likely to take a reaffirmation vote adopting any changes suggested.

The planning commission is to consider revised zoning restrictions at its next meeting July 28. That portion of the regulations would be a part of a wholly revised zoning ordinance to be completed some time this year. It, too, would be subject to review by attorneys.

Township poised for road treatments

Things should be clearing up soon for people living on gravel roads in Northville Township, though there was a moment of panic in township hall when it looked as if dust clouds might float in the air all summer.

Dust palliative will be spread on all township dirt roads this week under an agreement with Wayne County and a private firm. Calcium chloride treatments were to begin this week, but there was some minor confusion recently that delayed the project somewhat. Business Manager David Leiko said the roads would be treated "definitely within the month (of July)."

A mere two weeks ago, however, officials were scratching their heads trying to figure out how to pay for the treatments.

The community budgeted $7,000 for a single treatment of roads this summer, basing the amount on early estimates of the cost provided by Wayne County.

As the time for the application of palliative approached, business manager David Leiko was told the contract would require a $10,000 payment.

Combined with a shortfall from projected receipts on state shared single business tax revenues, officials feared the entire budgeted amount for the treatments had been wiped out.

Informed that the figure was in error, however, they gave the go-ahead at a cost of $6,864 — an amount approved by the board of trustees Thursday.

A check for that amount was issued Friday. The county, on receipt of the township payment, will order the chemical treatment.

Dust treatments became an issue when the township was drafting its current year budget because the program has been conducted twice annually for several years, but had been cut entirely from current year plans.

Resident protests reinstituted the program, but with only a single treatment.

State okays South Main borrowing

Because no work is visible yet in paving of South Main through a bond issue authorized by voters last May 19, it may appear to local motorists traveling the street regularly that nothing is happening.

Not so. The agreement has been signed with the Wayne County Road Commission for the paving, and survey work began almost immediately.

Last week City Clerk Joan McAllister received notification from the State of Michigan Department of the Treasury that the Municipal Finance Commission on July 14 approved the city's request to borrow $455,000 through General Obligation Unlimited Tax Highway Bonds.

City council already had voted to hire First of Michigan Corporation to sell the bonds, possibly out of state, to obtain the most favorable rate possible in the bids received.

Then, work should be under way almost immediately.

"It looks like we're right on target," Mayor Paul Vernon reported with satisfaction Monday.

The paving project, he said, should be completed by November 1, coinciding nicely with the completion of the downtown Main Street '78 beautification. Wayne County Road Commission, he said, was agreeable to adding the paving of Wallis Street to the South Main project. Wallis, he explained, will be paved from Main to the township border with the possibility of including the township portion of the road if this is agreed upon by the two communities. The project will have unit bids for this paving, he stated. Then additions or subtractions may be made.

Residents of Wallis, located in the industrial sector near the railroad, had asked for the paving.

Judge Garber commented nothing further was known re the court reorganization except that their employees would no longer be district employees but would be State employees. He mentioned the judges' salaries were trying to be equalized. He explained the City would get a rebate of $9,300 and they could keep $5,000 and pass on the $4,000 which would bring the 35th court judges' salaries up to the maximum level.

Judge Garber thanked Councilman Johnston for his services on the District Court Advisory Board and hoped the City would send them someone new.

The City Attorney asked where the volunteer probation workers would be working. Judge Garber stated they could work any place that was convenient for them. He also mentioned that the last day for court in the City of Northville would be September 3. He invited Council to drop in and look over the new facilities.

Councilman DeRusha asked about the light at 8-Mile and Taft Road. The City Manager updated Council on a meeting he had attended with Burton Kneighlton and a local Oakland County representative. He stated this spring he called Oakland County to find out the status of the light. He was advised that Wayne and Oakland Counties had come up with a jurisdiction of the intersection. The intersection and west is under Oakland County now. Wayne County had agreed to the installation; however, Oakland County had refused it. They concluded, in a one page report, that the light should not be put in. There wasn't any notification of any kind that Oakland County concluded it was not necessary. The school finally received a copy of the letter and it was decided they discuss this first with the Board. The City Manager stated he has not heard from the School Board.

The City Manager discussed the dispute re the Novi Ambulance, AMCARE and the City of Novi.

Meeting adjourned at 11:40 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,

Eligible participants must be a resident of the area involved in the LGCWW, must have lost their major source of support, no minor under 16 and be out of the work force. Ms. Vitale did mention, however, women with younger children could avail themselves of the workshops.

Brochures describing the services offered may be obtained at City Hall.

The City Manager mentioned that Northville Township had become a member recently. Their member communities are: Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Plymouth, Inkster, Northville, Westland and Townships of Redford and Canton.

Mayor Vernon asked the City Attorney to write an ordinance that would mandate that the City has. He asked for a report to identify the number of handicapped spaces in the city, also, the number of police violations issued and if a record of any complaints.

The City Attorney would rewrite the ordinance incorporating the ideas given. He would inform the Court the City is in the process of adopting an ordinance.

The Township would build, or cause to be built, the proposed road according to State Major Street standards. The Township would then deed the street to the City for road purposes only.

The City would establish the street as part of its street system, hopefully obtaining Major Street status, and would maintain the street from that point on. The City and Township would make an agreement about joint approval of traffic regulation and other matters concerning use of the street.

The City would receive Gas & Weight Tax for the street at Local $20 and if a Major street $3,560 per year.

The City Manager was instructed to forward the letter as drafted to the Township.

This is a non-profit environmental organization working to save seals and whales from extinction and working on environmental problems closer to home.

Discussion on our present ordinance and perhaps amending it to require these types of organizations to file with the City Clerk and ask for badges which they would have to wear as identification while soliciting in the City.

Motion Carried Unanimously.

PLANNING COMMISSION SITE PLAN FEE RECOMMENDATION: At their regular meeting, July 6, 1981, the Planning Commission made a motion to recommend to City Council a sliding scale schedule as a new fee to come before the Planning Commission.

It was stated in the Resolution to adopt the fee schedule that the schedule was exclusive of the fee charged by the City for professional services used to assist the planning commission in its review of site development plans. Those costs would be assessed by special billing to the applicant.

Discussion followed on this and it was noted that it would be a supplement to the Planning Consultant. Also, there was discussion on filing completed applications, the planning consultant, building department fees, the function of the Planning Commission and take action on the Master Plan.

Mayor Vernon suggested Planning Commission might review the Zoning Ordinance. He also asked that the fees that were submitted to the Planning Commission from other communities be given to Council to compare with the fees approved by Planning Commission.

7-mill school proposal set for Tuesday ballot

which expired with the 1980 tax levy." Within the wording of the ballot proposal, one will find both the words "increase" and "decrease." Though this may seem confusing, the millage request is in fact both an increase and a decrease — depending on how you look at it.

At the present time, the authorized operating millage for the Northville Public Schools approved by Northville voters is 25.9 mills.

However, based on the Headlee Amendment — otherwise known as the tax limitation amendment — the school district only is able to levy 24.4 actual mills which reflects a rollback of 1.4 mills or $432,366 less in revenue.

The Headlee Amendment limits local governmental agencies (of which Northville Public Schools is a part) from collecting more tax dollars from taxpayers than collected in the previous year, plus the inflation rate. The inflation rate limit from 1981-82 has been set at 13.5 percent.

During the 1980-81 school year, the Northville Public Schools were operating on a 33.18 mill budget (of 35.4 authorized mills rolled back in accordance with the Headlee Amendment).

Of the 35.4 authorized mills, 9.5 mills expired at the end of December 1980.

The 9.5 mills which expired with the 1980 tax levy were a combination of three separate millage issues approved by Northville voters. The issues included 3.9 mills passed in 1976, 2.6 mills passed in 1978 and 3 mills passed in 1979.

The 9.5 mills represented 36 percent of the district's voted additional millage and 28.6 percent of the total collectible operational millage.

In dollar figures, the 9.5 mills represented approximately $2.7 million of next year's projected $10 million K-12 budget.

When 1,827 of the slightly more than 2,900 Northville voters turned down the 9.5 mills on April 4, the board of education was left with a 24.4 mill budget and was faced with making cuts to the tune of $2.7 million.

To cut the budget by $2.7 million — or roughly 30 percent — the board has had to make drastic across-the-board reductions which has resulted in what many have termed a "bare bones budget."

To comply with the state law, the board of education has adopted next year's budget at the school district's current funding level of 24.4 mills. At this millage level, the projected revenue from local tax collection for the 1981-82 school year is $7.2 million.

However, on May 11 the board agreed to go back the voters to try and recoup some of the lost 9.5 mills and on June 15, the board approved the Citizen Advisory Committee's 7-mill, three year proposal by a vote of 5-1.

The 7-mill, three year proposal

(which will expire at the end of 1983) will mean a reduction of approximately $700,000 in next year's program. Reductions approved by the board are in areas such as teaching staff (9.5 positions due to declining enrollment), one central office administrator, extra curricular programming, transportation, capital outlay and other areas.

If the 7 mills are approved in Tuesday's election, the board will amend the budget to include the revenues from the additional millage.

In essence, Northville voters looking at the ballot next Tuesday will be deciding whether to "increase" the current 24.4 mill levy by 7 mills — which is a "decrease" of 2.5 mills from last year's authorized millage level of 35.4.

If voters approve the school's millage proposal Tuesday, the board will adopt next year's budget at a 31.4 mill level — which would include the $700,000 (equivalent to 2.5 mills) in cutbacks.

Though the budget will have to be reduced by 2.5 mills, school officials contend the cuts will not directly harm the district's basic educational program.

If the millage is defeated in Tuesday's election, approximately $2.7 million in budget reductions already outlined by the board immediately will be put into effect, the board has stated.

If these reductions are to be implemented, many contend that next year's program will be far from educationally sound.

However, what school officials fear most goes beyond what will happen to the schools next year. It is the long range implications which have most officials sitting on the edge of their seats.

At a millage forum sponsored by the League of Women Voters last Thursday, School Superintendent Lawrence Nichols told the audience that should the millage fail, the board will be forced to operate on a budget of 24.4 mills.

"I fear that this level of funding (24.4 mills) will be the forecast for the future," Nichols said. In which case, "the effects on the kids of the school district will be devastating," he added.

School officials, wary of the low-voter turnout which has plagued most school elections, had earlier doubts about holding the election during July when many residents are away from the district.

However, as of Monday afternoon, 407 absentee ballots had been issued, according to Harold Hines, director of business and finance.

"We're averaging about twice the number we normally would," Hines said.

Absentee ballots are available through Monday for residents registered to vote in Tuesday's millage election. Absentee ballots are available at the school administration offices at 501 West Main. Ballots may be picked up at any time and also will be available at the administration offices from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday.

Saurer's in science program

Mary Kay Saurer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curt Saurer of 201 Ely Drive, is one of 33 high school juniors currently participating in the Summer Science Program at Kalamazoo College.

Mary Kay, a junior at Northville High School, is interested in biology and chemistry and plans to major in pre-medicine with an eventual career goal as a surgeon.

As a participant in the program, she is studying water quality in the Kalamazoo area at sites such as the Kalamazoo River, Asylum Lake, Woods Lake and Arcadia Creek.

The program offers science-oriented high school students an experience with college-level instruction and laboratory work and provides guidance and encouragement to talented young people with strong potential for scientific and technical careers.

Students representing 32 different high schools in nine states throughout the nation were chosen for their demonstrated abilities and motivation in the sciences.

Participants are living on the Kalamazoo College campus throughout the program.

Kalamazoo College was one of two in Michigan selected for a program grant from the National Science Foundation (NSF). This is the sixth Summer Science Program offered by the college and the fifth conducted with NSF support.

Dr. Richard Cook, Kalamazoo College associate professor of chemistry, is directing the program with the assistance of John Fezy of the University of Notre Dame and Francis Georgia, who has served as head counselor for the program since its inception.

City pays off court debt

City manager Steven Walters presented township business manager David Lelko with a check for $16,494.86 Thursday, settling a long-standing debt resulting from erroneous 35th District Court records.

The error, found more than one year ago, resulted in the court sending traffic violation fines due the township to the city instead. Accumulated over a long period, the total error exceeded $30,000, which the city paid in installments over the past several months.

The amount paid consisted of $16,190 in outstanding principal plus interest on that amount.

While outstanding, the debt had proved a source of friction between city and township, particularly when jointly-funded programs were discussed.

At times when the township was pleading its uncertain cash flow as reason for delayed payments, the debt was raised as a reason for the township's fiscal problems and for the city to accept the delinquency.

Lelko told the board of trustees July 16 that the recent payment helps the township get through a current difficult period.

Treasurer Richard Henningsen noted that the township budget is front-loaded, that is, it requires many major payments in the first quarter of the fiscal year. Although the community's annual budget is in balance and the township is solvent, he said, the situation poses cash flow problems because some of the township income from state and federal sources is yet to be paid, while expenses are mounting.

He, too, said the city payment will help the township cash flow in the current period.

The city had to make a minor adjustment in its budget in order to make the lump sum payment, approved by city council earlier.

Our opinions

Millage approval will force change

- Our enthusiastic support of next week's millage issue does not mean we support all of the ways the school board uses or plans to use money in Northville public schools.
- However, by limiting the school district's revenues, as this 7-mill renewal does, the public not only forces the board to stop dreaming up costly new programs, functions (usually non-academic) and/or additional personnel, it also forces the board to reexamine the public's meaning of "quality" in education and redirect limited monies to those areas that can best achieve it.
- For starters, we suggest the board consider:
- Elimination of at least two other administrators and their supportive staffers — beyond the one now earmarked for extinction — and redirection of resulting savings to the academic classroom.
  - A three-year moratorium on administrative salary increases, with the resulting savings going to the academic classroom.
  - Establishing and publicizing an early hard-line position for the next round of teacher and non-certified personnel contract negotiations.
  - Stopping the use of lawyers, paid professionals, or administrators in the bargaining process; replacing them with board members and lay representatives of our district.
  - Make the first move, open negotiations to the public (for observation only) and force teachers to state they don't want the public to hear what they say at the bargaining table.
  - A requirement that all administrators and supervisors live within the school district and that their children attend our schools.
  - A competitive, non-seniority program within the district, supervised by students and parents, which publicly rewards only the best academic teachers and the best custodians.
- A policy mandating board challenge of every recommendation made by the administration.
- A requirement that all top administrators spend at least one-day weekly in our schools and that all principals spend at least one day weekly in the classroom as observers or substitutes.
- Elimination of the absurd contract clause which prohibits non-paid, qualified volunteers from driving district-owned buses on academic field trips extending well beyond school hours.
- A three-year moratorium on convention or seminar attendance, with resulting savings to go to the academic classroom.
- A policy of prohibiting employees from using the district's hot lunch program unless they volunteer as lunchroom observers who insist on good student conduct.
- If busing is not eliminated or substantially reduced, reinstitution of the closed campus concept.
- Prohibition of smoking by anyone anywhere anytime on school property.
- A policy of sharing, where possible, personnel, facilities or materials with neighboring districts whenever a function has marginal benefit based on single district use and cost.
- Trashing forever the philosophic nonsense that suggests "it doesn't cost us anything if it's funded by the state or federal government."
- As we stated at the outset these are just starters. There are better ideas among our readers, we're sure. The beauty of next Tuesday's peeled down millage issue, which we support, is that with its passage excuses for mediocrity are eliminated while at the same time the board and administrators necessarily must consider some of the public's suggestions if they are to provide the kind of "quality" the public is demanding.

Boost welcomed

When, at long last, an acceptable use for the 101-acre property on Sheldon in Northville Township (formerly the site of the Wayne County Child Development Center) seemed to be found in plans for a senior village, local residents and officials breathed a sigh of relief. It appeared this spring that the development of a senior citizen complex would ease the threat of the property being used for a prison and would also add more than $1 million in taxes to the township, schools and county revenues.

After two years of negotiations, a lease arrangement had been agreed upon with Wayne County. The legislature had appropriated $150,000 to initiate planning for the first phase of what ultimately would become 1300 housing units and a 200-bed convalescent center. It was projected that work could even begin this fall. Then Governor William Milliken gave the project a line-item veto in trimming the budget.

Last Friday Township Supervisor John MacDonald and Robert Fitzpatrick, executive director of the Wayne County Economic Development Corporation, went to Lansing to try to impress on commerce department officials the impact on the state's economy the senior village could have. They were successful in arousing enough interest to have a delegation promise to make an on-site inspection of the property this coming Monday.

We hope this may be the first step in returning the appropriation to the state budget. MacDonald and other township officials are to be commended for continuing to seek the appropriation in addition to other funds. All efforts possible to impress on Lansing the need for this project should be made. Not only is there a demand for senior housing, but it would add property to the tax roll in a community that still has a full share of non-taxable property.

LEE IACOCCA
President
Chrysler Corporation

Dear Lee,

Thought I'd drop you a congratulatory note for the early July sales figures and share a few thoughts from one recent new car shopper.

Glad to see your market share going up, even in a slow period. My standing as a car expert rises with your sales — I told friends and relatives if anyone could save Chrysler you could.

It always pained me that you worked for Ford. Mustangs and racing involvement aside, I could never bring myself to admire Fords (don't spread that around, some of my contacts here work for the Dearborn giant). Besides, my family has a lot invested in Chrysler. My grandfather worked many years at the Trenton engine plant and many family members started their working careers at Jefferson Avenue Assembly. (My own first real job was at a Ford plant, before your falling out with Hank the Deuce).

So you understand why I checked the Chrysler-Plymouth and Dodge dealerships while shopping for my first new car. I would have liked to shop more of the old, but it seems two near my home and one near work have folded since Ma Bell pumped out her last directory in September 1980.

Since I'm helping pay your bills, and you didn't have to give me $50 to get me in the door, I thought you'd be interested in what I found at the open dealers.

As a card carrying car buff, my outlook may not coincide with the average buyer's, but you know as well as I the real Chrysler fan longs to see evidence of the firm's former reputation for engineering excellence. Those 1950s and '60s Chrysler 300s are hard to forget. Never mind all the Valiants and Dusters I've worked on or driven well into their second or third trip around the odometer readings.

I found what I was looking for and bought a car with little chrome letters spelling "Plymouth" on both ends, but you might be disappointed anyway. See, it's not a real Plymouth, but one produced in Japan by Mitsubishi, the same folk who built the planes that smashed Pearl Harbor.

I understand Chrysler owns stock in that company, but not a majority. I also read in the trade press Mitsubishi is nearly out of the agreement granting you exclusive distribution rights, and will form their own dealerships.

Lee, drain their brains on front-wheel drive technology as your price to let them go. Even now you have one vicious competitor on your own lots. If you want to hang onto what's left of the dealer network they need that kind of car.

This is not to say your own cars can't compete. In the same price range, (and believe me, I was shopping the low, low end of the market) I might have been happy with one of your own little front-drivers for a few less bucks. (At least, since Sid Musallam at Livonia Chrysler-Plymouth was attuned to modern reality and had shed the all-too-common hucksterism, I assume I could have had a similar deal on a domestic Plymouth).

One tip on marketing. Where the Japanese have you guys beat when prices coincide is in standard features. I understand the domestic companies are adjusting to that, but I still don't see many standard reclining bucket seats, for instance. Another example is opening windows in the back seat (fewer air conditioning buyers at the low end of the range). The Japanese almost all have these things standard, but there are only a few domestics, mostly more expensive, that manage.

Anyway, what I want to tell you is you're making progress, but your overseas competitors have a slightly better handle on the modern car market. The latest crop of domestic products is closer to what the value-conscious, educated modern consumer is after. You only missed me by an inch instead of a mile.

High gas prices, higher interest rates and the consumer movement all play a part in a shift in attitudes, and I'm sure planning at Chrysler is adjusting to it. Hope so, I'd like to think my next car could be a domestic product. By the by, Chrysler Credit got my loan business, and between that and your share of the sales price I feel I've helped a little. Hope you interpret my comments as meant — constructively. And understand I'm trying to keep the faith. You can do it.

Sincerely,
Kevin A. Wilson

Getting Down to Brass Tacks

By CHRIS JOHNSON
School Board President

The Northville Public School district is facing a very important millage election on Tuesday, July 28. The board of education is requesting that the voters renew 7 mills of the operating budget for the 1981-82 school year. This is 2.5 mills less than the request made on April 4.

I would briefly like to review the events which occurred after the April 4 election to answer the questions about what action the board has taken and the reasons for the action. Rather than attempt a quick repeat election in June, the board decided to thoroughly examine the budget and community opinion.

Almost immediately, the board requested volunteers from the community to help the board with two critical questions: (1) why was the millage defeated? and (2) what is the community willing to support? This committee became totally involved with a community survey and analysis of the budget. The committee reported back to the board with its survey results as well as its recommendations in the financial area.

The board also was faced with the reality that the 1981-82 school year budget would have to be adopted without any part of the 9.5 mills as part of the school district's revenues. State law requires that the board adopt a balanced budget for the school year. This means that no revenue could be counted which the voters had not granted.

The sheer size and scope of the reductions are devastating to the district. The total dollar amount was approximately $2.7 million dollars. I must repeat, these are actual cuts ordered by the board in order to balance the budget. There are no threats involved, just the cruel facts. A review of those cuts will show that every single program of the district was either cut back or eliminated. This is the actual budget adopted by the board and will remain unchanged if the July 28 millage fails.

The board paid careful attention to the citizens committee report. The committee felt that if the board was willing to make cutbacks and still make a commitment to quality, the community is more likely to support a reduced millage. The board agreed that in light of economic conditions, this approach was the wisest choice. The board decided to reduce the 9.5 request down to 7 mills.

This reduction amounts to about $700,000 in the district's revenue. This means that even if the 7 mills is passed, the school board will cut some areas of the budget. Those areas include central office administration, some non-teaching positions, teaching staff due to declining enrollment and various instructional program reductions. The board also will reduce some transportation and will reduce the extra-curricular budget.

I feel that the choice before the voters is clear. The school board and the citizens advisory committee members are available to answer questions that you may have on this election. Please call us or attend one of the meetings being held in the district.

I hope that after you have examined all of the facts and figures, you will join me in voting "yes" on July 28.

JACK W. HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

I'm supporting the "plain English" law proposed by state lawmakers. It's worthy of your support, too.

Its passage, hopefully, may influence much needed change in the language of educators and federal bureaucrats.

Backed by the State Bar of Michigan, House Bills 4147 and 4197, would require consumer leases and purchase agreements to be written in plain language. Also, consumer contract forms must meet standards of readability. Insurance policies, bank loan applications, financial agreements which fail a readability test will draw penalties.

Here's a sample of the kind of language that would be eliminated:

"The seller's acceptance of any installment or payment after it or the full amount may have become due and payable hereunder and shall not be deemed to alter or affect the buyer's obligations or the seller's rights hereunder with respect to any subsequent payment or defaults therein, nor shall the seller's acceptance of any installments or payments after any other default hereunder be deemed to constitute a waiver of such other default."

Translated into plain English:

"The seller can accept a late payment. If he does, that does not mean he will accept other late payments. The seller does not give up any other rights by accepting late payments."

Back in 1943, Language Expert Rudolf Flesch devised the Flesch Readability Scale ranging from 0 to 100 for brevity and simplicity. Higher scores suggest easier reading. A score of 60, we're told, indicates easy reading for a person with 8th-to-9th grade education.

It comes as no surprise to those of us who annually agonize over income tax forms that the Internal Revenue Code rates a minus 6. A negative score probably indicates the writer is a retarded chimpanzee.

Undoubtedly, it was an educated chimp that changed the word "surplus" to "fund equity."

School election

To the Editor:

I would urge every property owner in the Northville School District to consider carefully the chaotic economic consequences of a millage renewal failure. Location, including the quality of a school system, is the biggest single factor home seekers consider when buying a home. Should this renewal fail, the cuts to balance our school budget are so drastic that the school system will become second rate. Northville would be no longer a desirable place to settle, with the inevitable result of a lowering in property values.

Have you considered that with the property tax deductions you receive on your federal and Michigan tax returns, that the tax savings you would realize with a millage renewal failure are negligible?

You would pay almost as much in taxes anyway, except that the money would go to Washington and Lansing instead of being kept right here in Northville. I, for one, prefer some of my tax dollars to be kept here to maintain our property values.

I truly believe that a failure to renew this millage amounts to economic suicide and urge every voter to vote YES next Tuesday to help us maintain Northville as a good place to live. I love Northville!

To the Editor:

Many recent articles in your newspaper regarding the school millage proposal have been slanted toward gaining voter approval with very little discussion relative to the consequences facing taxpayers if the millage is approved.

I have four children and all attend Northville Public Schools — elementary, junior and senior high. They participate in extracurricular activities and would possibly be involved should some schools be closed. So you can see I am very interested, as many others are, regarding the quality of education produced by the Northville school district.

I, however, cannot support the school administration millage proposal for the following reasons which I would like all taxpayers to consider before voting on July 28.

1. Proponents of the millage continue to refer to it as a "renewal" instead of an increase as if to imply taxpayers will not see a tax increase if the millage passes. In reality, though, if the millage passes, there will be a very healthy tax increase in terms of actual dollars owed, over last year.

2. "Logic" used by the school administration to counter the tax increase question was that increasing property tax was really good because it lessened the taxpayer's federal and state tax obligation. Logic like that could put us all in the poorhouse.

3. The idea that a 7.0 mill increase is needed to maintain "quality education" has been the main theme of the administration's campaign. We, the taxpayers of course, are asked to accept this at face value. There is very little evidence to indicate that the 24.4 mills already levied will be spent to maintain "quality education" but we are "assured" by the school administration that the 7.0 mill increase definitely will.

4. Another "selling point" used by the administration is that a sound school system has a positive effect on property values and therefore is a good investment. No one can deny that, but the school administration apparently is convinced that a sound school system is synonymous with increased taxes rather than responsible administration. The quality of a school system is a major concern of prospective house buyers, but so is the purchase price and the cost of ownership. A continuous increase in property taxes could very well make Northville homes too expensive for most buyers and force them to buy in surrounding communities with a lower tax base. Even now, national statistics indicate that the average price of a home is out of reach of 97 percent of the public. Many home owners today are forced to sacrifice large amounts of their equity in order to sell their house. Higher taxes will just aggravate the situation which doesn't sound like a very good investment to me.

5. The size of the school administration staff and recent salary increases in connection with the "belt-tightening" program has never been fully explained. One administrative official at a millage information meeting side-stepped the administrative staff issue, always referring to central staff size, not the total Northville school system. A member of the Citizens Advisory Committee attending the same meeting said administrative staff was looked at but there was not enough time for a full assessment before the 7.0 mills was proposed. Really!

6. School administrators have indicated they are not getting a windfall from our increased property taxes. Well, as I write this letter I am looking at my county and school tax bills. The school tax assessment is 80 percent of my total tax bill. What's more, my property taxes have increased at least 16 percent each year for the past three years. Check your tax bill just before you go to the polls.

The bottom line is (that) we are being taxed out of existence. Federal, state and local government officials are working overtime thinking up new ways to get into our pockets. Any time you have a chance to decrease your taxes you had better do it. We all have the opportunity on July 28 if we vote "no" on the 7.0 millage increase.

The school administration's job is to run the school district in a responsible manner. They should do this with the 24.4 mills they already have allocated without continually asking for additional millage increases. We will have a quality school system when the administration realizes this. Send them a message and vote "no."

Signed,
A "no" voter

To the Editor:

Because of the insight and considerable talents of the Amerman classroom and special services staff, my son will enter Cooke Junior High well prepared to deal with the work required of him. I am most grateful to Ms. Eunice Martin, Ms. Gale Bartula, Jeff Lightfoot, John Sutterheim, Larry Krabill and Ms. Patty Dow, and am disturbed to realize that fully half of these individuals have received pink slips and will be unavailable to other Northville youngsters should the millage fail.

I cannot be considered a wealthy person, and am well aware of the necessity for thrift. I cannot with any conscience, however, attempt to save dollars by denying Northville children the teaching excellence prerequisite to the academic preparation upon which their lives will depend.

I intend to register my "yes" vote on July 28, and will continue to work in positive ways to improve aspects of our system with which I am dissatisfied.

Yours very truly,
Stephanie B. Ruiter

To the Editor:

On July 28, the Northville School District voters will be asked to approve a seven mill tax increase. This is a reduction of 2.5 mills from the April 4 request which the voters overwhelmingly rejected; however, the reductions to be made to decrease costs by 2.5 mills fail to face the issues and objections voiced by the voters.

The taxpayers objected to the nine percent salary increases given administrative staff personnel. A roll-back of those increases and negotiation of a salary freeze for unionized employees was clearly called for. The employees of the school system would have been heroes by sharing the current economic hardships with the taxpayers. The failure to join the rest of the community only illustrated a business-as-usual attitude to benefit the school system employees at the expense of the taxpayers, and will certainly not gain any votes for the millage request on July 28.

The school system seems to continually add administrators or non-teaching personnel. To be consistent with the enrollment decline since 1976, we should have 28 less administrators than the present 134. I see no such reduction proposed to reduce the cost of the school operation.

Finally, the continuing enrollment decline during the past five years has long indicated the need to close at least one school building. The necessary study to determine which building and other necessary rearrangements should have been made long ago to be implemented now, but then, Northville does not try to decrease costs, just raise taxes to get more revenue to cover costs.

I see no attempt by the school administration to heed the complaints of the taxpayers, only the threat to cut programs, supplies, and benefits to the students — give everyone raises but don't maintain the taxpayers' investment in buildings and equipment. Until I see an attempt to run the school system for the students and taxpayers instead of to benefit the employees, I am going to vote against any millage increase request. We need some cost control in the Northville School District before high taxes drive everyone out.

Donald C. Young, Jr.

To the Editor:

For the past several months local members of the League of Women Voters of Northville-Plymouth-Canton-Novi have been studying the current financial crisis facing the Northville School District — such study being a part of our ongoing examination of the Northville education system. Our present education position states that we "support measures to provide all children in the Northville School District with an adequate and, if possible, improved education."

We strongly support the passage of the request for seven mills on the July 28 ballot.

League members agree that the district cannot afford to lose a significant portion of its revenues without causing serious damage to the educational program. We also realize that approval of the seven mills will still require cuts in the budget. The League of Women Voters sincerely hopes that these cuts will not adversely affect the general educational program nor increase the pupil-teacher ratio.

In addition, the league urges the school board to press for effective tax reform. Until other methods of funding public education are found, we recognize that in these inflationary times millage increases may be necessary to meet the immediate and pressing needs of our local school district.

The League of Women Voters is a national, nonpartisan organization whose purpose is to promote political responsibility through informed and active participation of citizens in government. The league does not support or oppose candidates or parties. It does, after careful study, take stands on issues.

Sincerely,
Nancy J. White

State to study senior village plans

By KEVIN WILSON

Lansing is expressing renewed interest in a proposal for an elderly housing project in Northville Township.

Governor William Milliken invited Wayne County Economic Development Corporation director Robert Fitzpatrick and Township Supervisor John MacDonald to Lansing last week to discuss a $150,000 state allocation for the project the governor may have mistakenly vetoed.

Milliken executed his line-item veto powers on an appropriation passed by the state House and Senate that would have gone toward preparations to begin the first phase of construction. He appears ready to take another look at his decision.

According to MacDonald, the conference last week brought no firm commitments from Lansing, but a group from the Department of Commerce is scheduled to visit the Wayne County Child Development Center site for a first-hand look Monday, July 27.

The state earlier had plans to locate a prison on the site and it also was considered as a state police training camp, after being bypassed as a location for the state police post located on Seven Mile Road.

A lease agreement for the 101-acre parcel of the 700-plus acre development center property has been concluded with Wayne County, Fitzpatrick said, but will not be signed until there is a firm commitment from some quarter to finance further activity.

The area leased contains most of the buildings on the site. Some site preparation expected for the first phase would be demolition of the structures. A few would be saved for use as part of the complex of 3,500 housing units, a 200 bed convalescent center and assorted recreational and service facilities.

Original planning called for completion of the entire development as a single project, but it took nearly two years to obtain a lease agreement by which time public funds were becoming scarce. Latest considerations propose phased development.

Fitzpatrick said this approach is more likely to get the project started earlier and attract developers to the later phases. Many developers nationwide have expressed an interest, EDC sources claim.

Meanwhile, the EDC and township are in line to receive some $350,000 in reallocated block grant funds administered through the county and the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments.

The money would be used to complete planning for the first phase of the development. According to the grant application, virtually all of the first phase would be financed under Section 8 housing, providing rent subsidies for low income senior citizens.

Overall, the plan calls for housing accommodating all income groups.

The township board approved the application for block grant monies at its July 16 meeting. A switch in planning consultants by the county EDC made the reallocated funds necessary. The EDC is tackling the early planning and demolition phases in-house to save money and assure swift action on the project.

SEMOG reviews the application for the block grant which would fund the EDC activity July 28.

She receives therapy award

Carole Terry Kobe, OTR, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Terry of 43625 Nine Mile, recently received the 1981 Outstanding Occupational Therapist Award from the Michigan Occupational Therapy Association.

Kobe, a 1970 Northville High School graduate, and presently Occupational Therapy Supervisor at Borgess Medical Center in Kalamazoo, earned her award on the basis of outstanding achievement in her work at Borgess in 1980.

Some of her achievements at Borgess include participation in the publication of "Milestones of Development," which won an AOTA Communication Award and is based on the Infant Development Program which she established at Borgess and the development of biofeedback relaxation training in the pain therapy unit at Borgess.

Kobe also was appointed adjunct clinical instructor at Western Michigan University on the basis of fieldwork supervision of occupational therapy students.

A 1975 Western Michigan University graduate, Kobe has worked on the occupational therapy staff at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia.

Readers give views of weed problem

To the Editor:

Your article about the weeds in Highland Lakes was very good. It tells the whole story. Thanks to the people over in the condo association, we kids don't have a place to go play ball, or play games.

Those weeds have caused a lot of pest problems, such as, snakes, mosquitoes, mice, rats, also a lot of allergy problems like hay fever, sinus problems, etc. My mom and dad pay $50 a year to cut the weeds. Look what we get. Nothing.

Now the condo people are going to put up a fence, which I think is pretty stupid. When the adults in the condo association were young, they probably had a place to go play ball or go play games without weeds growing... We're not asking for much, just an area cut. We have offered to cut it with our own machinery, but now the weeds are too high for our lawnmowers. There has been a lot of talk, but the weeds still aren't cut.

Jamie Craik
20209 Rippling Lane

To the Editor:

In reply to your article written July 15, Re: Highland Lakes Condo Association and Rippling Lane Homeowners versus Weeds, I feel we should be heard.

An issue is being made by the condo board that the individual homeowners immediately surrounding the lake area are not members of their own homeowners association for the purpose of representation, and this is true.

Two years ago all of us were members until we were told they could not do anything more for our unkept conditions in open space B behind our homes and the association would then concentrate on being a social organization. Therefore, more than half of our Rippling Lane residents are no longer members.

I have attended a few board meetings en masse with the homeowners and the condo association only to have been informed by the board prior to the onset of the meetings that we would not be able to speak. I have also left these meetings with the feeling I certainly wasted my evenings.

Some of the excuses given to us for no weed cutting by the condo board were: a law suit was pending between the land developer and the condo. Next they said they did not have enough funds in their treasury to hire someone to cut the weeds. We offered to cut with our own manpower and they said No because of their insurance liability. We offered to sign letters absolving them of any responsibility; again they refused. We then hired counsel to advise us of our legal rights and we were told not to pay our $50 annual maintenance fee until he could investigate further. After two years of no action, we went to an attorney who specialized in these matters, and he advised us we did have to pay our fee. Meanwhile, a lot of anger has been built up between the single family residents and the condo board.

We as a whole had urged Mr. David Craik to be our spokesman in this matter. However, it has boiled down to his being unjustly accused of deeds he did not do. The years prior to 1980, Mr. Craik did cut down some of the weeds adjacent to his property, but he has not cut any weeds since 1979.

We were warned if more cutting was done a fence would be erected. Well, it is 1981 and they are erecting a fence. It should be noted, however, a week ago a large patch of weeds was cut down southwest of open space B abutting the condominium property of Mrs. Alice Hanson. It appears to be a case of double standards.

This entire situation of who thinks the weeds are nature's beauty and who thinks the weeds are a health hazard and snake and rodent breeding haven is becoming a "Hatfield-McCoy" issue, making it impossible to "Love Thy Neighbor."

We do not want to destroy nature's work. We just want to improve it so we all can enjoy the view.

Sincerely,
Mitchell J. Deeb

A lifetime of Northville memories

BY MICHELE McELMURRY

Tucked among the trees off Clement Road stands a small, white house surrounded by greenery and foliage. The winding drive leading to the house separates the residence from the traffic which passes from Main. There is a feeling of peacefulness in this corner of the city — a certain calm which seems to hover over this little place.

Since 1943 it has been the home of one of Northville's oldest surviving natives. She usually is found these days sitting in a velvet-covered chair low to the floor — an important consideration since this tiny woman stands only mental picture of such detail that it seems as though the time frame has stood still.

Though she claims she no longer remembers many things, her memory for dates, names and places is astounding.

Born on Cady Street June 20, 1889, she was the only child of Alice (Sage) and Edmund James Robinson. The Robinsons were not Northville residents at the time of Ethelwyn's birth — they came from Detroit to stay with Mrs. Robinson's sister Mary Withee "for the blessed event."

Northville had great sentimental value to the young couple. Not only did

When her grandfather died in 1901, Ethelwyn returned to Detroit with her father, who had since remarried.

Mrs. Verschaeve recalls that many of her earliest memories are of days she spent in Northville.

"I've really been in out of Northville all of my life," she says.

"Northville was lovely back then," she recalls. "It was just a sweet, quiet, friendly little town — much like New England. They used to say Northville was more New England than New England itself. In many ways it's still like that — it's still a charming community."

"Some of my happiest childhood memories are of days we spent here," she recalls. "We used to come out quite often on Sundays."

When I was very young, we used to come out here with the horse and buggy. There was an old toll gate somewhere along the way and we would stop there for a rest. Later, when I was in high school, we would come on the interurban car which would sometimes stop in Farmington.

When I think of old Northville I think of Main Street. At one time there was a bandstand in the middle of the street — I think my father used to play the clarinet in the band. Before they demolished the old opera house, I would go in and try to imagine where my parents used to sit. For years there was an ice cream parlor next to the opera house and Alina Hunt's father used to own a bakery where Genitti's now is.

Ethelwyn attended school in Detroit, graduating from Central High School in 1908. She went on to the University of Michigan, receiving her bachelor of arts degree in art and philosophy in 1914.

After graduation, Ethelwyn decided to take her art talents to the classroom and was hired as a teacher at Bloomfield Hills Seminary and Miss Eastman's School in Detroit.

In 1919, while a student at the Wicker School of Art, she met a young painter named Arthur Verschaeve, a Belgian artist who had come to the United States in 1914.

Two years later, while studying in New York, Arthur and Ethelwyn were married. "I was an old gal when I got married," she says. "I was 32 and he was 25."

Studying art in New York during the 1920s was "a very interesting time," Mrs. Verschaeve explains.

"We studied at a number of places in lower New York and with many talented people. At one of the Jewish schools we had some awfully interesting models to work with — many of them were immigrants — most were old men with the long beards, robes and tall hats. None of them had been over here too long."

The couple also studied at the Woodstock School of Painting before moving to California.

The couple's only child, Artura, was born in San Francisco May 7, 1924. Shortly after her birth, the couple moved back to Detroit.

The Verschaeves settled in the Detroit area for almost 20 years. Ethelwyn went back to her former high school — Detroit Central — to teach art and her husband worked as a design engineer for Ford-Mercury.

At one point they owned a small art studio in the downtown area.

In 1943, the Verschaeves decided to look for a new home. As Mrs. Verschaeve recalls — they didn't have to look very far.

"I was about ready to retire from teaching then," she explains. "One day I brought Artura out here to look at the family graves. I began looking around and realized just how beautiful it was here."

"When we found this place (the Clement home), I knew it was what I wanted," she says. "I was so entranced that I rushed home, got my husband and we came back and bought it."

The Verschaeves spent the next few years repairing and adding to their new home. In 1945, Mrs. Verschaeve retired from Central High School, though she continued to teach on a volunteer basis at Northville State Hospital.

Throughout the years, the Verschaeves spent much of their time with family and friends and both continued with their painting — occasionally exhibiting their work, teaching classes and traveling. The Verschaeves remained friends with many of their former art teachers and classmates — such as Mary Stratton, the founder of Pewabic Pottery, Leo Misner, noted for his woodcarvings, and John Wicker.

They also were involved in many community organizations and activities. They were both charter members of the Northville Senior slightly more than four feet. Her hands are remarkably flexible with little trace of arthritis — perhaps kept nimble from a lifetime of painting. Her eyes sparkle with expression and her voice is little more than a hushed whisper — often interrupted with light laughter when she remembers a past anecdote.

Smiles come easily to this aged but still lovely face. For Ethelwyn Verschaeve, who reminisced after marking 92 years last month, it has been a life rich with knowledge, unquenched curiosity and a desire to live her days to the fullest.

Her home, enveloped in tall grass and overgrown plants, is unassuming with its narrow porch, screen door and gravel walkway. The clapperboard structure was once a tenant building constructed at the turn of the century on what was then a fruit farm.

It underwent reconstruction in 1943, when several additions were made and more up-to-date facilities were installed. Little has been done since that time.

Without the fancy gingerbread trim or Victorian-era design which graces many of the area's homes, there seems to be little architectural or historical value about this unpretentious dwelling.

However, the lack of the structure's historical significance ends at the front door — for inside lies a wealth of history which has been virtually untapped — and a lifetime of memories of one of Northville's oldest residents.

The tintype and daguerreotype photographs on the end tables in the living room seem in sharp contrast with the Pewabic vases adorning the fireplace mantel. The carved walnut Victorian furniture looks out of place among the abstract paintings in hues of bright orange and yellow. Resting on the book shelves are leather bound editions of such classics as Dickens' "Tale of Two Cities," and Sir Walter Scott's "Ivanhoe" interspersed among glossy covered copies of modern art books on Paul Klee and Jackson Pollack.

The objects in this room, which appear to represent a myriad of different periods and styles, are not a designer's attempt to mix the old and the new. For many of these objects are timeless. They represent little bits and pieces of a lifetime. Small treasures which serve as reminders of the past.

"I've had quite an interesting life," the owner explains, "hard in spots — but I've met so many interesting people."

Talking with Ethelwyn Verschaeve is like watching a slide show. In describing to her listener a specific event or incident from the past, she will create a most of their relatives live in the area, but they had been married in the Cady house in 1882.

"My roots are very, very deep here in Northville," Mrs. Verschaeve explains.

For Ethelwyn Verschaeve, the word "newcomer" most likely refers to anyone who settled in the area after 1900. Most of the city's street and building names are reminders of former family members and friends.

"I had a host of relatives here," she says, "the Yerkes, the Dubuars, the Dunlaps, the Whites. Actually, the only Dunlap I was related to died years ago."

"At one time there were houses on every corner with relatives," she recalls. "Many of the old families used to intermarry."

In addition to being a descendant of Northville's earliest settlers, Ethelwyn Verschaeve can trace her family tree back even further to the 18th century.

Her great-great grandfather, David Dean, was a Revolutionary War hero and is buried in Newburg Cemetery.

Her grandmother Mary (Dean) Robinson was one of Northville's pioneers, coming to the area in September of 1835 in a covered wagon. Like many of Northville's earliest settlers, Mary Robinson had come to the area from New York. (Mary Robinson died in 1935 at the age of 100 and is buried in Rural Hill Cemetery in the family plot.)

Her grandmother's sister Jenny Dean was graduated from what was then Ypsilanti State Normal (now Eastern Michigan University) and eventually became a missionary to Persia.

The old John Canterbury house on Randolph used to be the academy. Grandmother and her brothers used to go to school there and were taught by Dr. Cochrane, who later married my grandparents Oscar Robinson and Mary Dean.

Other family relations included Dean Griswold, her father's cousin.

"Dean Griswold was named after the family name," Mrs. Verschaeve comments. "In fact, grandfather lived with Dean Griswold in the yellow house at Wing and Dunlap until grandfather died."

Her father was born in Livonia and her mother in Lockport, New York. For a time, Ethelwyn's father owned a lumber yard on Hutton.

Ethelwyn was brought up in Detroit, where her father had moved his lumber business. Her mother's death in 1895 resulted in a move for the five-year-old youngster, who was sent to live with her grandparents in St. John's.

When I think of old Northville I think of Main Street. At one time there was a bandstand in the middle of the street — I think my father used to play the clarinet in the band. Before they demolished the old opera house, I would go in and try to imagine where my parents used to sit.

When I was young, we used to come out here with the horse and buggy. There was an old toll gate somewhere along the way and we would stop there for a rest. Later, when I was in high school, we would come on the interurban car which would sometimes stop in Farmington.

Don and Carolyn DiComo at 'SailAway' outing in Grosse Pointe

By JEAN DAY

Assisting an organization can be fun as well as work. Ask Edenderry residents Don and Carolyn DiComo. They became sailors for an evening as members of the planning committee for a summer Madonna College party for members of the President's Cabinet, held at a Lake Shore Drive home in Grosse Pointe.

Theme of the event was "SailAway" honoring those who are substantial annual donors to the Livonia college. Both Di Comos have been closely associated with the college, and he is the college architect.

Ruby milestone for Langtrys

A fortieth anniversary reception for former Northville residents the Edwin Langtrys was attended by many friends from here. It was given July 11 by the Langtry children at Great Oaks Country Club in Rochester where a tent was pitched on the lawn for the festivities. Son Bob and his wife of Rochester made the arrangements assisted by Langtry daughters Carolyn and Mary Lou. Afterward the senior Langtrys hosted a family dinner.

The Langtrys, now now live on the lake at New Baltimore, were offered congratulations by the Jan Reefs, Jack Blackburns, who are in town from Florida for the summer; Alfred Parmenters, who came back from Lost Lake where they have retired; W. G. Williamses; William Daveses; H. O. Evaness; and the Don Schwendemanns, also former Northville residents now living near the Langtrys. The men are business associates.

What impresses a British visitor?

At the end of a two-week, whirlwind visit here, the Bruce Turnbolls put their London friends the Frank Adamsses on the plane for home. The couples had met when both were touring Sicily.

The Turnbolls picked up the Britishers and took off for Canada, showing them Niagara Falls, Toronto, Kitchener and London, Ontario. They also visited Mackinac Island after spending a festive Fourth of July here. After Frankenmuth and Mackinac, the visitors rested at the Turnbull cottage at Pentwater on Lake Michigan — and that, the first time visitors to America said, was the most memorable experience of the trip. They marveled at the great body of fresh water, reports Rita Turnbull.

The Turnbolls have been invited to visit in London and may do so next year, incorporating the stop with a trip to Scotland.

Shelley and Amy rate as international travelers

Shelley Mathis, 14, and her sister Amy, 9, are being picked up in Chicago today by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Mathis of 21943 Center. With their cousin Angela Larmer, 9, of Texas, they have been visiting their paternal grandparents in Belgium for four weeks. Their grandfather is on assignment overseas with General Dynamics. The young tourists also had been sightseeing in Paris and in Germany and Holland before taking Sabina airlines return trip. Mrs. Mathis explains that they left from Detroit but that the return schedule brings them into Chicago. This is the girls' second trip to Belgium as they also visited with their parents two years ago.

Norm and Shirley Davis are restoring 1810 house

Norm and Shirley Davis are preparing to move from their home on Morgan Circle to an historic house in Franklin, Tennessee, near Nashville. "We bought the oldest house in Franklin," Mrs. Davis says, relating that it already has been registered as the Blackburn-Davis House. The Daveses are in process of renovating the 1810 house with a preservationist contractor. Originally a log cabin, the old walls are visible in the restoration. The house boasts three fireplaces and now also is acquiring air conditioning and central heat.

A. Yes. Grinding the teeth is called bruxism, and it affects 10% of adults. Even with the best oral hygiene, it can cause periodontal (gum) disease, tooth wear, and if extreme the loss of teeth. Habitual clenching and grinding loosens the teeth in their sockets by damaging the membranes and supporting bone. Eventually the teeth may detach from the gums and infection can set in. ## Kennedy-Pyett vows recited here

When Karen Lee Kennedy and Nicholas John Pyett exchanged vows and rings at First Presbyterian Church May 30, the candlelight ceremony culminated a romance that began when both were seniors at Northville High School.

He escorted her to their senior prom as they were graduating in 1976.

Both went on to Michigan State University where they received their degrees in 1980. The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Kennedy of 45145 Emery, currently is a clinical dietitian at Chelsea Community Hospital in Chelsea. The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger H. Pyett, 18449 Donegal Court, is a senior accountant with Arthur Andersen and Company.

The Reverend John L. Mishler officiated at the 5:30 p.m. service which included lighting of a traditional unity candle. John Merrifield was vocalist with David Heinzman playing the organ.

As she walked down the aisle to the traditional wedding march, the bride wore a sixpence in her shoe, following the English tradition for luck.

She wore a gown of pleated knit sheer adorned with re-embroidered Alencon lace and styled with a Queen Anne neckline and bishop sleeves. The skirt extended into a chapel train. Pearls and matching lace accented the crown holding her mantilla veil, also trimmed with matching lace.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white miniature carnations, stephanotis, sweetheart roses, lily of the valley, baby's-breath and English ivy entwined with double satin ribbons.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents. Special sentiment was added with a poem written by the bride's father for her wedding day printed on the back of the ceremony program.

Susan Kennedy was honor maid for her sister. Bridesmaids were her other sisters Patricia and Cheryl Kennedy, Nancy Heckler and Debra Ochman of Grosse Pointe Farms. They wore sky-blue Qiana gowns with accordin pleated skirts, halter tops and matching chiffon capes bordered with white Alencon lace. They carried multi-colored spring bouquets and wore blue miniature carnations with baby's-breath in their hair.

Stephen Pyett was his brother's best man. Ushers were the bride's brother Douglas, Bryan Riegner, Timothy Smith and Royel Riddell of Kalamazoo.

Wendy Nuechterlein and Jennifer Haupt, neighbors of the bride, were basket girls, passing out handmade roses filled with rice for "showering" the couple as they left the church.

Following English tradition of the bridegroom's parents, the church bells pealed just before the couple left the church.

A dinner-dance reception for 220 guests followed at the Plymouth Hilton Inn. Eileen Vanderbeck, a college friend of the bride from Troy, was reception hostess.

Special guests included the bridegroom's grandmother, grandfather and uncle who had come from England to attend the wedding, along with cousins and close friends of the family. Other guests came from Ohio, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Indiana.

After a 10-day wedding trip to Bermuda, the newlyweds are making their home in Farmington Hills.

She's delegate at national conference

Northville resident Leona Riebling was among the delegates attending the 13th General Synod of the United Church of Christ in Rochester, New York, June 27-July 1.

The opening session of the 13th biennial General Synod of the denomination was addressed by the Reverend Dr. Avery D. Post, who was re-elected to a second term as president of the 1.8 million member United Church of Christ.

At the five-day policy making conference, the 705 delegates overwhelmingly set the issues of peace and family life as priorities for the next four years.

Delegates called for a peace program which would explore policies to resolve global tensions and reserve the dependence of the U.S. and other nations on armaments.

In a specific action against nuclear arms, the synod instructed Dr. Post to inform the Reagan administration of its "forthright desire for nuclear disarmament, even if this process must begin with a unilateral initiative on the part of the United States," asking for an offer from the U.S. to reduce nuclear weapons in the hope that the Soviet Union will follow suit.

On the subject of abortion the synod declared that every woman must have freedom of choice to follow her personal religious and moral convictions concerning the completion or termination of her pregnancy.

The synod added that abortion should not be considered a primary method of birth control. To reduce the need for abortion it proposed that counseling, family planning information and assistance be made available to all.

The delegates also urged the passage of freedom of choice legislation at both the federal and state levels to provide the funds necessary to insure that all women, including the poor, have access to family planning assistance and safe, legal abortions performed by licensed physicians.

The synod also called on all levels of the denomination to "actively oppose the passage of constitutional amendments and legislation revoking this freedom of choice."

Couple wed in garden ceremony

Lynn Ann Spencer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Spencer of Livonia, and Bruce Michael Margolis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Margolis of Southfield, exchanged marriage vows June 28 in the wedding garden at Temple Beth El in Birmingham.

The double-ring ceremony was held outdoors under a canopy with the Rabbi Dannel Schwartz officiating the service. The bride was given away by both parents.

Music for the ceremony was provided by the couple's friends, Nancy Peterson, who played the flute, and vocalist Dorothy Imgrund, who played guitar.

The bride wore a white Qiana gown with a high, lace bodice and cathedral train trimmed with lace. She wore a matching finger-tip veil and carried a silk cascade bouquet of roses and lily of the valley with peach accents.

The bride's sister Barbara Spencer served as maid of honor and her sisters Karen and Kathy Spencer were bridesmaids.

The bride's attendants wore peach Qiana gowns made by the bride's mother. Each carried a silk nosegay of azaleas and rosebuds in peach and white.

Best man was Michael Callahan. Ushers were the bridegroom's brothers Jeremy and Steven Margolis.

Approximately 130 guests attended an outdoor reception held at the home of the bride's parents.

Following the reception, the couple left for a wedding trip to Toronto and Niagara Falls.

The couple met their freshman year at Eastern Michigan University, where the bride is now a senior majoring in special education.

The newlyweds are making their home in Northville.

Elmer Schuberts to live in condo

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Schubert are moving to a condominium on Washington Circle in Lexington subdivision. They were married May 30 in St. Sabina Church in Dearborn Heights.

The bride is the former Lucille O'Malley of Dearborn Heights.

Both she and the bridegroom were widowed. Former co-workers at Burroughs Corporation, they had met again at a retirement party.

A reception at Chamberlain restaurant in Dearborn for about 60 guests followed their marriage.

The Schubert home at 413 Beal has been sold to Dr. Robin Meyers, minister of Bushnell Congregational Church, which is being moved to Novi. The historic, Victorian home in Bealtown had been on the Northville Home Tour in 1974.

Cutest Kids

Little Wes Morland, 11-months-old, and Jennifer Banks, 19-months, took top honors in the Northville Jaycettes "Cute Kid Contest" July 4th. The tiny tykes were chosen the winners from a pool of 18 contestants ages three or younger. The contest, in its second year, raised concrete with glass fibers. The Davises have visited there recently.

The move to Tennessee will take them closer to son John, a sophomore at Clemson University in South Carolina. Their other son Tom, a high school sophomore, also will be in on the move.

Mrs. Davis, an active resident here, already has resigned her position on the library board in preparation for the move.

Home tour house switch

Northville Home Tour committee reports there's a change in the itinerary of the tour upcoming September 24.

Instead of stopping at the home of John and Pat Meyers on Walnut tour visitors will be invited to view the home of Ken and Jean Harrison at 119 Rayson. Harrison, vice president of Northville Historical Society, and his wife have a restored home in Cabbagetown.

Tour chairpersons Pat Stringer and Alice Pooley explain that the Meyers family had a set-back in their renovation work when a car hit a new addition. The tour is a benefit co-sponsored by Northville Historical Society and the Women's Association of First Presbyterian Church and will feature seven houses.

In addition to the Harrison home, the older, Victorian homes of Sally and Wes Hendrikson, Jackie and Bob Daniel and Hilda Veinott will be open as will the restored barn of Barb and Dan Williamson and the newer homes of Barb and Gary Sixt and Barb and Stan Toor.

A lifetime of memories

Citizens' Club and Mrs. Verschaeve is still involved with the Northville Review Club and is a life member of the Woman's Club.

In 1968, Arthur Verschaeve died at the age of 72.

Artura, who was then an art teacher in the Ann Arbor school system, came to live with her mother after her father's death. However, on May 6, 1978, Artura died at St. Joseph's Hospital in Ann Arbor. She was 53.

"Artura was the fifth generation of artists in our family," Mrs. Verschaeve explains. Her speciality was jewelry fashioned from gold, silver and semi-precious stones.

Since Artura's death, Mrs. Verschaeve says she has kept herself busy with "little things."

"I always find something to do," she claims.

Though she no longer paints, she admits that "just about every 24 hours I say I'm going to paint again."

She still has friends in Northville, but not many relatives. "I guess I'm the only one left," she remarks.

Family welcomes Russell Clark

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Belleperche of 18166 Jamestown Circle announce the birth of their first child Russell Clark.

He was born July 5 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor and weighed eight pounds and one-half ounce.

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Leikett of Northville. Elaine Keyes of Detroit is paternal grandmother.

The baby's father is an active member in the Northville Jaycees.

Sawyer attends AAUW meet

Northville resident Harriet Sawyer, state membership vice president of the American Association of University Women, attended a national leadership conference in Boston June 21 sponsored by the national leadership of the AAUW.

The conference, with the theme "Learn, Energize, Act, Develop (LEAD)," preceded the opening of the Association's Centennial Convention.

Following the leadership conference, Sawyer participated in the week-long Association Convention.

The convention focused on changing the direction of the AAUW, streamlining the leadership and work of the board of directors.

Though she says she doesn't get out as often as she would like, she still manages to drive her car into town a couple times a week to go to the post office.

She says she enjoys going into town — just to keep in touch with what's going on and to meet new people.

"I think the newcomers have brought a new kind of friendliness to the town," she says. "Some of the country effect has been taken away, but I think it's more colorful in one way and less in another. It's still a beautiful place."

West Bloomfield Symphony lists series

The West Bloomfield Symphony Orchestra has announced its series of five concerts for the 1981-82 season.

Opening the season on October 11 will be a "Russian Spectacular," featuring David Syme on the piano.

Other concerts in the series are "Music for the Dance" on November 15, "Valentine Special" on January 31, "Symphonic Fireworks" on March 7 and "Great Music of the 20th Century" on June 6.

All subscription concerts are scheduled for Sunday evenings at 7:30 p.m. in the West Bloomfield Auditorium at 4925 Orchard Lake Road in West Bloomfield.

In addition to the subscription series, two performances of "The Nutcracker," featuring the Contemporary Civic Ballet Company, are scheduled for Sunday, December 20 at 3 and 7:30 p.m. in the West Bloomfield Auditorium.

Also scheduled are two performances in a family concert series.

"The Wonderful World of Animals" featuring "Peter and the Wolf" narrated by WJR's Jimmy Launce are scheduled for Saturday, April 3, at 2 and 4 p.m. in the West Bloomfield Auditorium.

The West Bloomfield Symphony attributes its outstanding quality to the direction of Felix Resnick who has led an active career as conductor, composer and violinist. Resnick has assembled a sizeable number of Detroit Symphony members together with many other talented musicians to form this orchestra.

His conducting credits include a number of appearances as guest conductor of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra at Ford Auditorium, Meadow Brook Music Festival and on tour. His compositions include music for industrial and documentary films, recording credits and an award-winning score.

A founder and musical director of the Detroit Sinfonietta, Resnick also conducted a series of concerts for the American Artists Series at Cranbrook Museum, featuring first performances of American composers.

In addition to conducting the West Bloomfield Symphony, he conducts the Grosse Pointe Symphony. He also continues to serve as a violinist with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra (which he joined in 1942) and as a director of the Michigan Orchestra Association.

Season tickets are $30 for adults and $15 for senior citizens (over 65) and students (under 18). Benefactors ($500), sponsors ($150) and patrons ($100) receive two complementary season tickets and preferential seating until August 28.

Individual concert ticket prices are $7 for adults ($8 for October 11 concert) and $4 for students and senior citizens ($5 for October 11 concert). Tickets for single subscription concerts, if available, will be offered after September 28.

Ticket orders are now being taken for the Subscription Series, The Nutcracker and the Family Concert at the West Bloomfield Symphony Office at 5640 West Maple Road, Suite 201, West Bloomfield, Michigan 48033.

Telephone orders are accepted on Master Card, Visa and American Express at 626-1560. Summer office hours are 9 a.m. to noon, Monday through Friday (June to August). Office hours the rest of the year are 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The West Bloomfield Symphony Orchestra is a non-profit organization that is partially supported through a grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts.

Auto experts disagree on domestic industry's future

First prediction: Technology is sophisticated enough right now to make a four-passenger car that could get 100 mpg in city driving, perform reasonably well — and sell for $6,000.

Second prediction: Another 400,000 American auto-related workers will soon join the 155,000 Big Four workers already on longterm layoff.

There was a prediction for every taste at a U.S. Congressional subcommittee hearing in downtown Detroit on automobile technology recently.

The committee winged into the Motor City to take testimony on pending legislation to establish a special research and development wing in NASA to study automotive technology.

Representatives of the UAW, Ford, General Motors, the University of Michigan, independent research companies and auto industry analysts testified.

Their views on what the future holds for the auto industry, and what should be done about the future, sometimes sounded as much at odds as grinding transmission gears.

Dr. Sherwood Fawcett, president of the research-oriented Battelle Memorial Institute, offered an alternative to government-directed research and development — a contest with a $140 million first prize.

The winner would be the first company — domestic or foreign — to build the 100 mpg, $6,000 car.

"Forget who does it. Let the Japanese do it — I should cut my tongue out — but the nation would benefit, the world would benefit," said Fawcett.

Battelle might, too. Fawcett said the company makes the proposal after a year-long engineering study produced plans for a streamlined, supercharged "Pertran" vehicle that he says will fill the bill. No prototype has been built, however.

Fawcett's plan would impose a deadline by which production had to be underway. If only one manufacturer met stated criteria for the car, then the builder would get a $14,000 federal payment for each of the first 10,000 cars. That's $140 million.

The manufacturer would have to establish assembly processes that would guarantee minimum production of 100,000 units a year.

"The technology is a lot more in hand than the cost," Fawcett admitted.

Dr. Beno Sterlicht, chairman and technical director of Mechanical Technology, Inc., of Latham, New York, took a darker view.

More than half the cars sold in the United States by 1983 will be equipped with engines built somewhere else, he said. That change will mean the loss of 400,000 jobs and a $5 billion annual balance of trade loss to foreign manufacturing nations.

It also will mean, Sterlicht predicted, that U.S. automakers will be on the road to becoming distributors instead of producers.

Sterlicht called for a presidentially-created "National Automobile Project with dedication and commitment similar to Project Apollo."

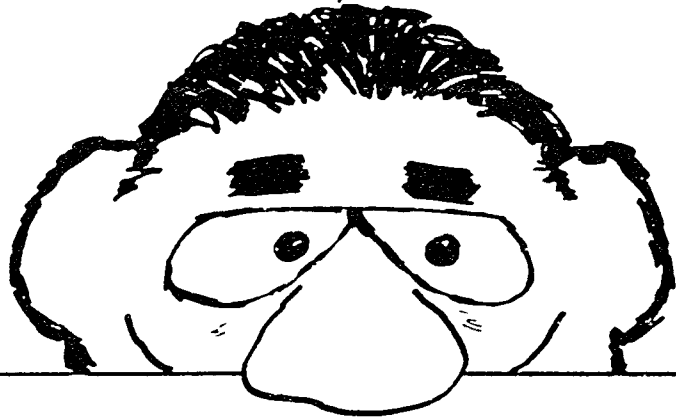

Dave Cole, director of U-M's office of study for Auto Transportation, praised the idea of hooking auto research to NASA and further suggested the National Science Foundation become involved as well.

Cole said U.S. automakers, who spend only three percent of sales on research and development, should be spending five percent instead. And he echoed Sterlicht's warnings on foreign-built components, predicting that U.S.-built components in U.S.-assembled cars will drop from the 95-96 percent range today to 85 percent by 1990.

Cole also warned that American colleges aren't educating enough engineers in post-graduate courses, and that many of those now enrolled in those courses are foreign nationals.

More than half the cars sold in the United States by 1983 will be equipped with engines built somewhere else.

PATRICIA A. STANLEY has been appointed Public Information Coordinator for the Woodland Medical Center in Novi. The appointment was announced by John Mucasey, M.D., president of Woodland Medical Center P.C.

PATRICIA STANLEY

Woodland Medical Center is a major facility providing a full range of family health care services for Oakland and Wayne County residents. It is located on Twelve Mile adjacent to Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi.

Stanley, who attended Ferris State College, has been with Woodland for one year, during which time she held the position of executive secretary. Her new job responsibilities will include maintaining a liaison with the local media, as well as coordinating public information and service programs for the general public.

GROUND-BREAKING CEREMONIES for a large new manufactured housing rental community in Novi were held recently by Champion Home Communities, Inc., a land and real estate development company headquartered in Rochester.

Novi Mayor Romaine Roethel and City Manager Edward Kriewall participated in the ceremonies that officially started excavation.

Named Novi Meadows, the housing community will rent developed sites to owners of manufactured homes. It consists of a 70-acre tract at 26500 Napier Road, approximately one mile from the Wixom interchange on I-96.

When completed the community, being developed in two phases, will consist of 401 rental sites. Phase one, consisting of 176 rental sites, is scheduled for completion and occupancy by December of this year. The 225 rental sites for phase two are scheduled for development by the end of 1982.

All utility lines will be concealed underground in the community which will feature, paved, well-lighted private streets as well as attractive green belts and landscaping. A clubhouse and in-ground pool for all residents is planned in phase two.

Global Mobile Homes, Inc., will soon establish an on-site location in the Novi Meadows development for displaying and selling manufactured homes.

John Seibel, president of Champion Mobile Home Communities, said homes sold by Global for the Novi development will range from approximately $18,000 to $35,000, including home delivery and installation.

Monthly rental sites in the development will range from $175 for single-section homes to $190 for double-section homes. Approximately 80 percent of the development will accommodate single-section homes.

Transportation tax bill pending

By WARREN M. HOYT

The legislature will be shooting for year-end approval of a package of bills, being readied for introduction, to restructure and increase transportation taxes.

The legislature will come at a time when failing revenues from the current system of per gallon fuel taxes and weight-based license fees already has forced a few local road agencies to shut down for the summer and for other state and local agencies to institute cuts in service and maintenance.

Representative Mary Brown (D-Kalamazoo), who will sponsor the legislation, said the system needs to be restructured to provide tax revenues based more on the value of fuel because the increase in "the cost of gas and the cost of road construction and maintenance follows closely together."

The current system has not only failed to keep pace with inflation, but actually has taken a dip as fuel consumption falls and vehicles get lighter.

The proposal would change fuel taxes from 11 cents per gallon sale to 11 percent on the wholesale price — currently about $1.20 for lead-free gasoline. As the wholesale price of fuel rises, so would the tax revenue as it would be computed on a percentage basis.

A flat $28 passenger vehicle registration fee would replace the sliding scale starting at a minimum of $20. The average license fee is $26 on a 4,000 pound vehicle

Truck licensing fees would be increased by some 30 percent

And, more general fund money would be used to supplement public transit systems while distributing the funds under a new formula utilizing current allocations as a base.

Brown said she hopes for summer-long discussions by interested groups in order to allow for house approval by October. (The legislature will return to session following a summer recess in mid-September).

Revenue estimates for the package are not readily available, but Brown said the concept of the tax system is more important now than the particular rates of taxation.

"The problem is there and needs to be solved and there are the vehicles. If someone can come up with a better mousetrap, they're welcome, but we need the mousetrap," she said.

Brown added that given the past history of gaining approval on tax measures, the timetable would be very tough to meet, but noted that conditions in the 1982 election year would be worse.

"The problem is there and needs to be solved and there are the vehicles. If someone can come up with a better mousetrap, they're welcome, but we need the mousetrap," he said.

Brown added that given the past history of gaining approval on tax measures, the timetable would be very tough to meet, but noted that conditions in the 1982 election year would be worse.

Bill Davis, of the Michigan Municipal League and one of several representatives from local road interests enlisted to help devise a new tax plan, said there is a real need for more dollars

He said it is a problem that every legislature in the country is facing or will face. He noted that Indiana already has moved to a fuel tax based party on value and Minnesota has increased its tax to 13 cents per gallon.

Michigan needs to restructure its taxes because "continuing to tax vehicles on weight and tax fuel on gallonage is directly inverse to keeping up with our needs," Davis said.

Transportation Director John Woodford said he is not ready to endorse any plan but added two things need to be addressed — stabilizing revenues and allowing for future growth to deal with inflationary increases.

Woodford said he has not assessed how much money is needed by state and local road agencies. He noted he is only trying to fulfill a responsibility to operate and maintain existing facilities.

He said the reduced revenues have forced the department to eliminate about 350 employees, eliminate the "bare pavement" policy in the winter for all but a few high-traffic roads and eliminate roadside paving

Cracker Count

(In a Box of Animal Crackers, the Gorillas outnumber the tigers by six to two. The bears outnumber the sheep by five to two. The camels outnumber the rhinos by four to three. But the buffalo and the giraffe come out even at one each. —L.M. Boyd)

Just one Giraffe
And one Buffalo
Among all these—
Are all that show.

It to say, that "Narrow Gate's" getting Narrower...with hate. Hear how "religious"
Hypocrites condemn each other's path, setting
Up their Inquisitions, complete with vicious Bloodbath! Holy Christ, how sickening!
I will not contribute — this insanity
Must end! I pledge my life to quickening

Dad and Daughter

*When you're young you want to be just like him
He listens to your every whim
You want to go and do everything he does
And you know he's the best that ever was
You find you can talk to him about anything
He listens to everything
But as you grow older you tend to separate
You spend more time with mom and he feels he just doesn't rate
You can see rejection on his face
And before you know it he's on your case
You know it's not because he doesn't love you he only feels rejected
And you try to get this feeling corrected
It's hard for either one of you to say "I love you"
But yet that feeling is inside you
This feeling is coming from your heart
Although you're many miles apart
So there's nothing left to do
Except to say, "Dad I really do love you."

Four squads claim league championships

What do the Astros, Braves, Phillies and Liberties all have in common?

If you guessed league champions, you are right.

In final regular-season action the Astros claimed the F-League baseball crown, while the Braves grabbed the G-League title.

In girls recreation softball, the Phillies won the Primary Division and the Liberties took the Intermediate Division.

Only the E-League is still playing regular-season games. Currently, the Mets hold a slim one-game lead over the Cardinals and a game and a half advantage over the Phillies.

F-LEAGUE

In the final game of the season, the Astros downed the Padres, 5-1, to avenge a 5-3 defeat they suffered to them earlier in the week.

Astros pitcher Paul Havala hurled a one-hitter and struckout 14 enemy batters to secure the victory. This was the second time this season Havala had struckout 14 batters in a game.

Leading the Astros in the hitting department was Tom Ross with two hits and two runs-batted-in.

In the earlier confrontation Padre pitchers Rick Van Buren and Doug Hartman combined for a three-hitter. Hartman aided his own cause by collecting three hits, while Mike Wissman belted a homerun for the Padres.

Team members of the winning Astros squad are Havala, Ross, Paul Stephens, Dan Sheehan, Ed Cocagne, Chris Hauser, Steve Smith, Dave Jameson, Bill Herguth, Jerry O'Brien, Tim Blanchard and Denny Kozloski. The head coach was Pete Ross, Jr., and was assisted by Pete Ross, Sr., and Mike Havala.

The leading batsman was Smith at .519 followed by Havala at .439 and Ross at .429. Havala led the pitching staff with an earned-run-average of 2.48 with 89 strikeouts and was aided by Smith and Hauser on the mound.

In other action during the week, the Reds nipped the Giants 2-1. Reds pitcher Chris Willerer struckout 15 batters in outdueling the Mets' Tom Alkire, who struckout nine batters.

The tables were turned on the Reds as they lost a one-run contest to the Mets, 14-13.

John Meadows had three hits for the Mets and teammate Chris Dominique knocked in three runs. John Taschner had two hits for the winners. Bob Baird had two hits for the Reds.

The Mets exploded against the Braves, 21-8, as Jeff Busch went the distance for the Mets to record the triumph.

Rob Cannon had three hits and John Meadows drove in three runs to pace the victors. Scott Peterson had three hits for the Braves.

In the final contest, the Giants edged the Braves, 10-9, as Fred Cook picked up the win with four innings of relief pitching. John Norton had two hits for the Giants, while Dave Kurzawa and Steve Cody both had two hits.

G-LEAGUE

It came down to the final game of the season as the Braves and Mets battled it out for the league championship.

Both teams had entered the contest with identical 13-2 records, but the Braves claimed the title with a come-from-behind 7-5 triumph.

The first inning saw the Braves pull out in front, 3-0, on a three-run homer by Doug Martin. The Mets came storming back in the bottom of the first on hits by John Lobbia and Doug Meadows to tie the game.

The Mets added two more runs to surge ahead 5-3 heading into the last inning, but victory was to elude them.

The Braves rallied for five hits in the top of the sixth inning which included a game-tying clutch hit by Rick Alonzo and the game-winning hit by Keith Smith.

Martin went the final three innings for the Braves in recording the win. He allowed no hits and struck out five.

Mike Tabaczynski went three-for-three at the plate and finished the season with a .649 batting average to pace the Braves.

GIRLS SOFTBALL

In another contest that came down to the last game of the season, the Phillies prevailed over the Liberties, 6-5, to win the Primary Division championship.

Both teams had entered the contest with identical 11-4 records.

In this see-saw battle the Phillies opened up a 3-0 lead in the first inning, but the Liberties came back with two runs in the third on rbi doubles by Heather Sixt and Megan Abraham.

The Liberties added three more in the fifth inning with the big blow being a two-run double by Abraham.

The Phillies added one run in the fifth to cut the Liberties lead to 5-4 heading into the last inning.

Kris Abitz started things for the Phillies with a one-out single followed by a run-producing double by Breita Johnson to tie the contest.

With two out Amy Freimund singled home what proved to be the winning run in the top of the sixth. The Liberties went out one-two-three in the bottom of the inning and the Phillies had the championship.

Freimund paced the winners with a three-for-three performance and three rbi. Dianne Ford was the winning pitcher for the Phillies as her season record ended at 12-4.

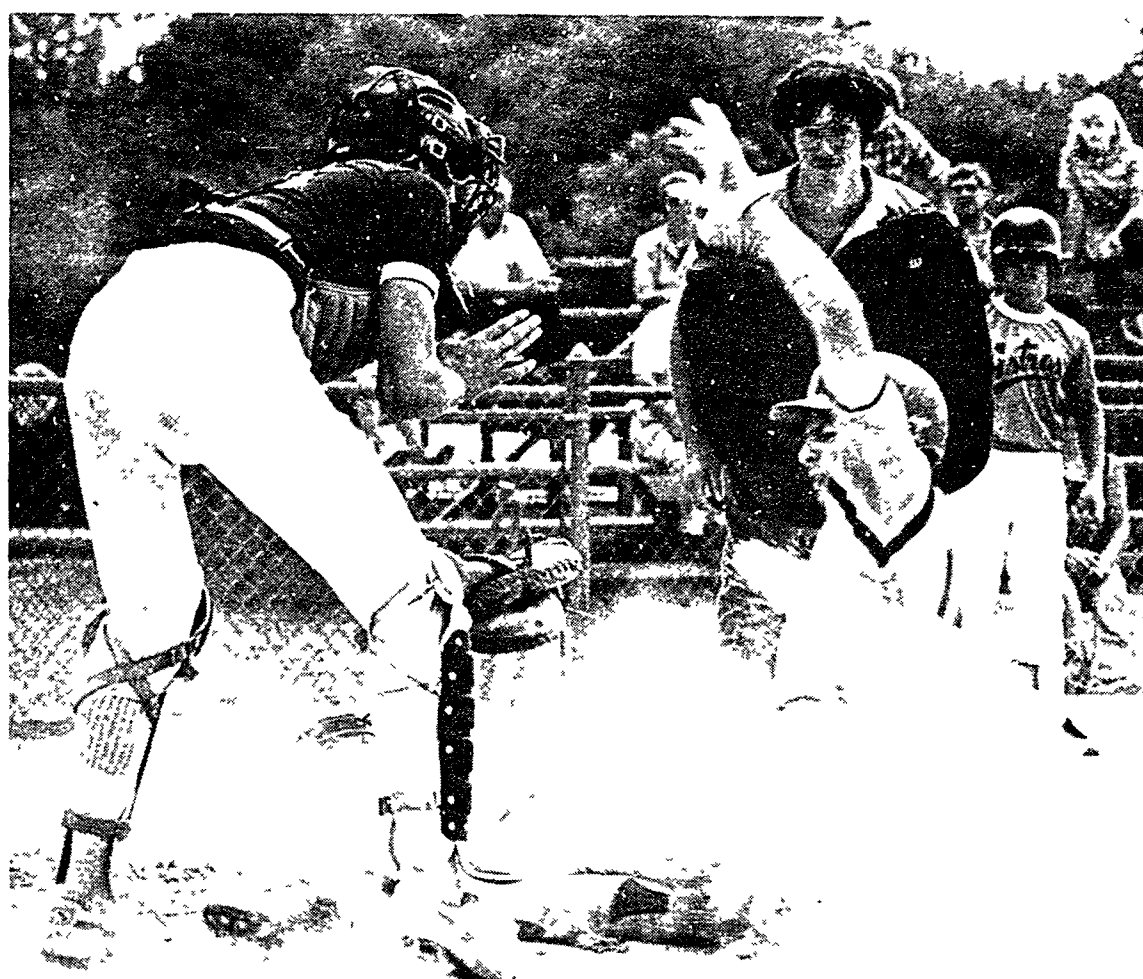

Sixt and Abraham each had three hits apiece for the Liberties. Abraham also drove in three runs.

'Heading home'

In both of these pictures Astros player Paul Havala has his attention directed towards home — home plate, that is. Havala (above) grimaces halfway through his pitching motion. He helped his own cause by scoring a run when he slid under the tag of Padres catcher Rick Van Buren. The Astros won the F-League championship this week.

'Break' gives Ward opportunity to play

By JOHN MYERS

It was a "small break" which gave Dave Ward the opportunity to play with the Michigan Amateur Athletic Union basketball team in the National AAU Championships in Jacksonville, Florida in late June.

Not an original member of the team slated to go, the former Northville High School cage standout received a call after center Larry Polec, of Sterling Heights, broke his hand.

Because Ward was one of the first alternates for the team in case an incident like this happened, he then was asked to play.

"They called me because I was next in line and asked me if I wanted to go, I said, 'Sure, I'll go,'" Ward explained.

The team Ward was placed on was selected from the one he played with at Schoolcraft College for the Fourth Annual International Basketball Classic May 30-31.

Such Michigan high school stars as Lansing Eastern's Sam Vincent, Flint Central's Eric Turner, Highland Park's Percy Cooper, Detroit Western's Greg Washington and Detroit Southwestern's Leslie Rockmore comprised part of the squad that placed fourth in the national tournament.

After a couple of practice games, the team left June 22 for Tampa, Florida to play the Florida AAU squad in an exhibition game before tournament action was to begin in Jacksonville June 24.

The Michigan squad was defeated by a Florida quintet, but Ward was satisfied with his efforts on the opponent's 7-2 All-American center.

"He only scored four points against me so I was pretty satisfied with myself. I scored six points against him," Ward said.

The defensive tactics Ward used against Florida's big center, he said, was "almost anything I could do to keep him away from the basket."

That include a lot of pushing, shoving and practically punching underneath the basket, he added.

While Ward was putting the clamps on Florida's center, the rest of the team could not stop the opponent's All-American guard.

Also, the Michigan team was missing Vincent and Rockmore for only that game and that could have made a difference in the score, Ward sug-

Local riders shine in shows

Lisa Grunheid made off like a bandit, but Marie Johnson did not fair quite as well during the last three weeks of horse show competition.

Both Northville riders have competed in the Michigan All Morgan show at the State Fairgrounds in Detroit during the weekend and at the Tri-County Horse Show in Midland the weekend of July 3-5.

In competition at the State Fairgrounds, Grunheid claimed the High Point Youth Championship trophy for the third time and now gets to keep the trophy permanently.

"Anyone who wins the High Point Youth Championship three years, it doesn't have to be consecutively, can retire the trophy," Grunheid explained.

It was 1976 when Grunheid first claimed the trophy and she won it last year as well.

Other honors for Grunheid include first in the Saddle Seat Equitation for 16- and 17-year-olds; first in the Junior Exhibitor English Pleasure for 14- through 17-year-olds; was the Reserve Stock Seat Equitation champion; and was third in the ## Saddle Seat Championship.

According to Johnson, she did not do anything "spectacular" as she was fourth in both the Trial Class and the Command Class.

The All Morgan Show at the State Fairgrounds has really improved in recent years, Johnson said, noting that this year's show was the biggest ever.

In the show at Midland, Grunheid won the Stock Seat Equitation championship; was the Reserve Saddle Seat Equitation champion; won the Amateur Western Pleasure championship; took first in the Saddle Seat Equitation for ages 16 and 17; first in the Junior Exhibitor English Pleasure class; and she was second in the Stock Seat Equitation for ages 16 and 17.

Johnson was third in the Ladies Western Pleasure and sixth in the Amateur Western Pleasure competition.

In all, Grunheid felt pretty good about her showings in the past two shows and for shows during the last few months.

Winner's Circle takes over first place

What at first seemed like the impossible happened for the second week in a row in adult softball league action.

Winner's Circle Bar again showed its dominance over Long Mechanical with a 19-5 triumph last week Tuesday. Two weeks ago, Winner's Circle whipped Long Mechanical, which had entered the game undefeated in 11 contests, 16-5.

The win vaulted Winner's Circle into first place in the American League race, while Long Mechanical dropped to second.

Over in the National League, Action Dry Wall continues to hold its slim one-game lead over both J&S Steel and Sheehan's Little Caesars and a two-game advantage over the Eagles.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Winner's Circle Bar 19, Long Mechanical 5: The new leaders of the American League again had the bats exploding against Long Mechanical. The homeruns were plentiful for Winner's Circle as it belted six for the evening. Craig Forhan led the homerun barrage with two. He had a two-run shot in both the first and second innings.

Also, connecting for round-trippers were Tex Trumbull, Mark Lisowski, Dan Christy and Gary Lisowski. Trumbull also had four runs-batted-in, while Mark Lisowski added a single and five rbi.

Jim LaPlante had a big night at the plate for the winners with a three-for-four performance and two rbi, while Pete Talbot collected two hits in three at-bats and drove in a run.

For Long Mechanical, Rick Bingley was perfect at the plate with three hits in three plate appearances, plus one rbi. Jim Long, John Sinclair, Rex Balko, Jim Zayti and John Bates had the only other hits.

Winner's Circle Bar 16, Northville Gallery of Flowers 2: Winner's Circle made short work of Gallery of Flowers by scoring 16 runs in three innings to record its second win of the week.

Mark Lisowski was a menace at the plate by slamming a homer, two singles and driving in eight runs. Tex Trumbull added a double and two singles, while teammates Craig Frohan, Rob McGuire and Gary Lisowski each added round-trippers.

Gallery of Flowers was held scoreless until the fourth inning when Tom McLaughlin doubled, Russ Scott and Ken Glowski singled and Jim Broderick hit a sacrifice fly to score a pair of runs.

Long Mechanical 18, Recycled Raiders 3: The mark of a good team is the ability to bounce back after a tough loss. Long Mechanical more than bounced back by erupting for 12 runs in the first inning en route to an easy victory.

John Sinclair had the big night at the plate for the winners by belting a homerun, a double, a single and knocking in three runs.

Rick Bingley, Jim Long, Bill Sinclair, Ron Tini and John Bates all had two hits in helping the cause for Long Mechanical.

The Recycled Raiders were limited to five hits with Bill Bosanko and Bob Phillips each collecting two singles and Kurt Naszrani adding another.

Sheehan's on the Green 14, Northville Lab 11: Tim Doyle blasted three homers in powering Sheehan's past Northville Lab.

Doyle connected for homeruns in the first, third and fifth stanzas and added a single in the seventh to pace the hitting attack of Sheehan's.

Also belting round-trippers for the winners were Andy Bechtel and Michael Theisen. Dan Thomas had a good night hitting by rapping three singles in the 15-hit Sheehan attack.

Northville Lab had a big six-run fifth inning, but it was not enough to pull out the victory. Mark Reinwand and Dave Brewer each slammed homers for the losers, while Bill Potter, Bob Potter and John Adams each collected two hits.

Court Time Racquet Club 14, Recycled Raiders 4: An 11-run opening inning was all Court Time needed in cruising to victory.

Court Time had a balanced hitting-attack with Mike Williams, Fred Kenny and Joe D'Agostino each banging two hits and knocking in two runs.

There was not much hitting done by the Recycled Raiders as it was held to six hits. Mark Naszrani, Andy Orlando, Bill Bosanko, Tim McGraw, Mike Kramer and Steve Cuzzillo each had singles.

Baber Roofing 12, Canterbury Cleaners 6: Baber Roofing used a five-run fourth inning to break a 6-all deadlock and cruise to victory.

Of the 12 hits by Baber three were for doubles and the rest were singles. Roland Tarrow, Rick Tarrow and Bill Gearn each drove in three runs. Roland and Rick Tarrow both had two hits, while Gearn had a single and two sacrifice fly-outs.

Jerry Rothermel collected three singles and an rbi to pace the Canterbury hitting attack. Dan Carpenter was the big rbi man by driving in three runs.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Action Dry Wall versus Northville Jaycees: In its only game of the week Action Dry Wall won by forfeit over the Northville Jaycees. The victory kept Action Dry Wall atop the division.

J&S Steel 23, L&H Players 7: A couple of five-run innings and a nine-run seventh propelled J&S Steel past L&H Players.

Fred Yankee paced the 25-hit attack for the winners with a five-for-five performance and scoring three times. Russell Barnes and Gary Callender each banged four hits with Barnes scoring three times and Callender twice. John Muir added three hits for the winners.

L&H Players used a six-run fifth inning to stay alive in the game before J&S Steel put the contest out of reach in the last two innings.

Delaine Harmon and Rick Girard each collected two hits for the losers.

Sheehan's Little Caesars 4, St. Paul's Lutheran Church 2: Two runs each in the first and third innings proved to be enough for Little Caesars in this low-scoring affair. Of the nine hits garnered by Little Caesars Ray Janisse collected four of those in a perfect night at the plate. Stan Tarnowski scored twice, while Janisee and John Osborne each crossed the plate once for Sheehan's.

St. Paul's rapped 11 hits, but could only muster two runs. Dave Dundek, Roger Schultz and John Mueller each belted two hits for the losers.

Eagles 10, Belanger 8: The slim victory kept the Eagles close to division leader Action Dry Wall as it trails by only two games. However, it took a come-from-behind effort by the Eagles to secure the win. Trailing 6-1 in the fifth inning, the Eagles scored seven times and never looked back.

Tom Day led the Eagles' hitting attack with three singles in four plate appearances. Seven other Eagles collected singles in the victory.

Pacing the efforts of Belanger was Chris McCoskey with three hits in four at-bats. Harvey Stetke, Mike Wagner and Jim Gleason each had two hits.

Our Lady of Victory 9, First United Methodist Church 5: A three-run sixth inning made things a little easier for O.L.V. against First United.

Dave Penrod had a homer and two singles, while Randy Prokop picked up a triple and two singles to pace the hitting for O.L.V.

For First United, Greg Morland and Gary Beason each connected for solo homers in the fourth inning, but it was not enough. Bud Hazzard and Brian Turnbull each had two hits.

About 25 youngsters from the Northville recreation track and field program will participate in the finals of the Detroit Metro Area Youth Fitness Meet to take place at Lower Huron Metropark, near Belleville, at 9:30 a.m. Thursday, July 30.

The Northville squad, coached by Brian Turnbull and John Monagle, is one of 46 community and recreation departments competing in the 1981 finals.

Boys and girls will participate in the 50-yard, 60-yard and 75-yard dash; softball throw; standing broad jump and running hop, step and jump; shuttle relay; and chinning.

In gearing up for the Youth Fitness finals, the squad had its first mini-track meet July 13. Only four events were slated: the 440-yard run, triple jump (running hop, step and jump), 100-meter dash and 60-yard low hurdles.

In the 440-yard dash for 10- and 11-year old boys Skip Davidovich took first place with a time of 1:13.5. Greg Paler was second with a 1:19.0 clocking. For the girls, Amy Spaman was the winner with a time of 1:19.0.

Cindy Panowicz was a clear winner in the 12- and 13-year-old girls 440-yard dash. She ran an excellent time of 1:05.2, while Jane Thompson was second with a 1:11.0 clocking. Nina Wilkiemeyer was third at 1:30.0.

Kristen Brielmaier claimed first in the 10- and 11-year-old girls 100-meter dash with a time of 19.2. Jenny Frey placed second with a 19.8 clocking.

In the girls ages 12 and up, Panowicz recorded her second win of the day by winning the 100-meter dash in a 14.2 clocking. Michelle Craig edged Thompson for second. Craig was clocked at 15.2, while Thompson was timed at 15.3.

In the 10- and 11-year-old boys group Scott Stephens took first-place honors with a time of 16.3. Randy Jones (17.1) and Davidovich (17.3) placed second and third, respectively.

David Balok was a winner in the boys ages 12 and up group with a time of 15.6. Dan Magdich was second at 16.6 and Stewart Kissinger was third with a time of 18.6.

Spaman recorded her second win of the day by winning the 60-yard low hurdles race for 10- and 11-year-old girls. Spaman's time was 13.2. Frey was the runner-up with a time of 13.8.

Also claiming another victory was Panowicz when she won the hurdle event for girls ages 12 and up with a 9.6 clocking. Thompson was second at 11.7 and Craig was third at 12.9.

For the boys ages 10 and 11, Stephens was first with an 11.8 clocking followed by Paler (12.2) and Jones (12.3).

Paul Stoeklin took first-place honors for boys 12 and up in the hurdle event with a time of 11.0 over Balok. Magdich was third with an 11.9 time.

In the triple jump event, Stephens was first with a distance of 20-4 followed by Jones at 19-6 3/4 and Paler at 19-6 1/4 for boys 10 and 11.

Magdich was first for boys 12 and up with a distance of 24-10 1/2. He was followed by Balok at 23-4 and Stoeklin at 19-8.

Spaman again showed her strength by winning the girls 10 and 11 triple jump with a distance of 22-4 1/2. She was followed by Frey at 18-8 and Brielmaier at 15-0.

For girls 12 and up, Wilkiemeyer grabbed first with a distance of 21-4 1/2 followed by Craig at 21-2 and Mary Phillips at 20-6.

For the Phillies, Ford also was the team's leading hitter with a .705 average. She had 31 hits, eight homers and 44 rbi. Johnson paced the Phillies in on-base percentage (.718) and runs scored (22). Team members of the Phillies were Johnson, Abitz, Ford, Freidmund, Keri Slattery, Stephanie Odom, Chris Murphy, Jennifer Clark, Kim Ballard, Marcia Foley, Amy Nehs, Tina York, Amy Gardner, Susan Marshal and Kellie Pence. The coaches were Frank Freimund and Jerry Nehs.

In other action the Gems forced the title showdown by downing the Phillies, 3-1, earlier in the week. The game saw three double plays in the first three innings. It was the fifth straight win for the Gems.

It was not a good week for the Falcons as they dropped two games last week. The Liberties downed the Falcons, 10-6, and the Travelers edged them, 12-10.

In Intermediate Division action the Liberties closed out the season with a perfect 15-0 record. In their only game of the week, the Liberties trounced the Phillies, 18-7, to cap the undefeated season.

The Travelers, who finished in second place, won their only game by also defeating the Phillies, 20-13.

The Phillies could not buy a win during the final week as they tied the Sunbirds, 10-10, in their third game of the week.

However, the Phillies received good defense from Angelas Bjorge, Kim Richcreek, Amy Hillman, Laura Rebain and Julie Kiehfuss during the week.

The Gems won two contests from the Aztecs, 24-20 and 18-4, while the Aztecs bounced back against the Falcons, 29-3.

E-LEAGUE

In action last Friday, the Mets downed the Reds, 11-3, while the Phillies were a big winner over the Angels, 19-7.

The Cardinals blasted the Padres, 23-2, and the Angels edged the Reds, 9-6, in games last week Wednesday. In close contests played last week Monday, the Cardinals slipped past the Mets, 5-4, while the Phillies clipped the Padres, 10-9.

Koufax squad loses two games

Northville's Sandy Koufax blue team definitely could be singing "the blues" after what happened during the weekend.

Northville ended its regular season with losses to Crestwood, 11-6, and to Detroit West Seven, 12-4, which did not have anyone from Northville singing a happy tune. The team ended the season with an 8-6 record.

John Norton led the Northville batsmen with four hits and two runs-batted-in. Rob Cannon and Paul Havala contributed two hits each.

Divisional winner Detroit West Seven held off a small rally by Northville to record its 14th win against no losses.

The Northville contingent battled to within three runs of Detroit, 7-4, in the fourth inning. The big hit was grand slam homerun by Rick Van Buren. Mickey Newman helped the Northville cause along with two hits.

The Northville blue team will host a Federation baseball tournament July 30 through August 1 at the Northville High School diamond.

Five scouts off to jamboree

Five boy scouts from Northville Troop 755 will be attending the 1981 National Scout Jamboree July 29 through August 4 at Fort A.P. Hill near Fredericksburg, Virginia.

Charles Gross, Michael Lapham, Alan Griffith, Tom Broderick and Marty Broderick will be representing Northville, which has the largest number of scouts attending from the 14 Gemini District members heading to the jamboree.

Altogether 141 scouts and leaders from the Detroit area will be at the jamboree, which is conducted every four years.

This group makes up only a small part of the approximately 30,000 scouts and leaders representing all 50 states and approximately 30 foreign countries.

The only requirement to participate in the jamboree was the payment of the registration fee. The Detroit contingent will be leaving Saturday and will return August 5.

Before the Detroit group arrives at Fort A.P. Hill it will participate in two days of tours. The group will tour the "Amish Homestead" near Lancaster, Pennsylvania; take a 45-minute scenic ride through the Amish countryside on a steam train at Strasburg, Pennsylvania; take a guided tour of Gettysburg National Military Park; and an all-day guided tour of Washington, D.C.

Activities at the jamboree will feature a number of skill events.

Two major arena shows will take place featuring nationally-known entertainers Burl Ives and the Oak Ridge Boys.

... 'Break' helps Ward

The team arrived in Jacksonville June 24 after having the previous day off and opened tournament play in the evening against New Jersey.

Using a three-guard offense of Vincent, Cooper and Turner, the Michigan squad won rather handily.

"I really didn't see much playing time. I was proud to be on the team. It helped a lot to know I could play well with them," he explained, noting every team in the tournament had at least one All-American player.

A hastily put together Indiana squad was defeated by the Michigan squad June 24 which put them into the semifinals scheduled for June 26.

It was the contest against New York in which the team tasted its most bitter defeat.

Holding a 12-point lead late in the second half, the New York squad bounced back to win the contest by five points, thus pushing Michigan into the consolation game.

Fourth place was the best the team could claim since it lost the consolation game by two points against Philadelphia, a contest in which Ward started.

Ocelot athletes need housing

Out-of-town student-athletes attending Schoolcraft College this fall are seeking assistance in finding housing, Athletic Director Marvin Gans said.

The student-athletes have some money, Gans said, but not enough to rent their own apartments. (Schoolcraft does not have any on-campus housing.)

That is why the athletic department is making a plea to residents in the Schoolcraft area for any assistance they may be able to offer, Gans said.

For further information contact the Schoolcraft physical education office at 591-6400, ext. 480.

Golf tourney scheduled

Northville's Salem Hills Golf Club will be one of five sites hosting qualifying rounds August 3 for the 66th Annual Michigan Golf Open Championship to take place in late August.

Professional and amateur golfers residing in the state are eligible to participate in the 1981 Michigan Open, which will take place at the Newcomb Course at Grand Traverse Village August 31 through September 3.

Entry forms are available at most professional shops in the state or from the Michigan Professional Golfers Association by calling 569-0400. The fee is $60.

More than 400 contestants are expected to enter, according to Tournament Director Jack Seltzer, of Port Huron. This number will be narrowed down to a starting field of 144 (and ties from the qualifying rounds).

The championship field will be cut to the low 70s and ties after two rounds.

Some of the state's top golfers already are entered for the event. Defending champion and 1979-80 PGA Player of the Year Lynn Janson was among the first to enter. He will be joined by former champions Gene Bone (1965 and 1966), John Molenda (1968), Tom Deaton (1977), Randy Erkrine (1976, 1978 and 1979) and Bob Ackerman (1975).

Michigan PGA President Jim Dewling said the gallery will be admitted free throughout the Open, which has an estimated purse of $25,000.

Sunrise's season successful

Local teams winning championships in the West Suburban Soccer League came few and far between, but the Northville Sunrise under-10 girls team was one of the lucky few to capture a title.

To win top honors in the division, the Sunrise had to defeat Plymouth No. 4 in a post-season playoff game. They did so and emerged as Division II champions.

The squad went undefeated in regular-season play with an overall record of 5-0-3. The all-around effort of the Sunrise team pleased coach John Edwards.

Leading scorers for the Sunrise were Wendy Kohl, Leigh Bills, Mandy Berlinski and Abby Edwards, who also doubles as one of the team's goalies.

RENEW

We're going to vote July 28th and we're going to vote "yes."

We are proud of our community - we want it to prosper and grow. Northville's growth depends on its children - and they depend on us to make sure of their education in a first class system.

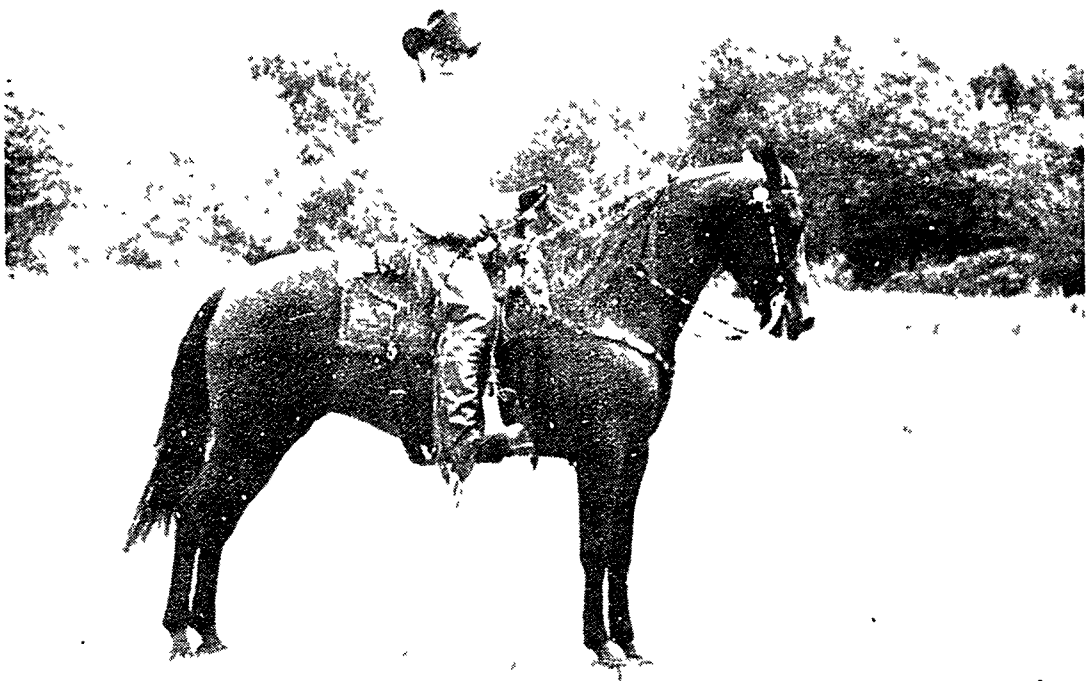

Your support on Tuesday, July 28th, will guarantee a first class school program in Northville - will make sure our children have the proper foundation for a good life.

Let's ALL vote "yes" on July 28th!

(Top left picture) Marie Johnson sits aboard her horse "Executive's Tai", while Lisa Grunheid (above) is aboard her horse "Kanes Genie" as a show committee member holds the trophy.

...Riders

"Since Ohio I've been practically on the road for the past 12 months and when I think about it I've really cleaned up," she said. For the four past shows, which include Ohio and Indiana, Grunheid has taken home the High Point Youth championship in each one.

With all of the travelling done so far Grunheid said she is going to take about three weeks off before getting back into the bigger competition again. She'll be taking it easy for awhile, but even so she intends to practice daily with her horses.

On the other hand, Johnson has not done as good as she would like and attributes part of the problem to working indoors the past two shows.

"My horse always does well outside and with the shows being inside and all of that noise it affects the horse. I train the horse here at home in the outdoors so its trained better for outdoor shows," Johnson explained.

The next horse show for Johnson will be in Midland again this weekend.
