Council irked about referral; queries homes

James Crumpton, escapee from Northville State Hospital who was acquitted by reason of insanity of killing Tekla Hamilton in her East Main Street home in 1979, has been referred to a forensic center for treatment, city council learned Monday.

Although Wayne County Prosecuting Attorney William L. Cahalan's office filed a motion for having Crumpton committed through probate court, Judge Ira Kaufman found him to be a person requiring treatment and he was referred.

City Police Chief Rodney Cannon received this information July 27 after a letter was sent to the prosecuting attorney's office asking about alternatives available.

"It seems like a gross miscarriage of justice," Mayor Paul Vernon observed while councilmember J. Burton DeRusha noted, "It gives him an opportunity to repeat."

The letter stated there is no procedure to avoid or appeal such a decision.

Councilmember Carolann Ayers, with the rest of the council agreeing, took comfort in the notation that "the case was soundly prepared by your police department." The letter also stated that the finding by the judge was one which "legally is the province of the finder of fact."

The council instructed the clerk to write the prosecutor asking to be kept informed about Crumpton's situation.

Mrs. Hamilton, an 81-year-old retired nurse and resident of the community for 45 years, was killed at her East Main home. A first degree murder charge was filed against Crumpton in March of 1980.

About an hour later on Monday night's lengthy agenda, the council listened to a presentation by Judith Shelton, director of the community placement development program at Northville Regional Psychiatric Center (Northville State Hospital), outlining plans for foster homes in the community for the chronically mentally ill.

She began by stating she has no homes at this point under consideration in the city and differentiated between the mentally retarded and the mentally ill. She represents the mentally ill.

At its previous meeting, the council had heard a presentation on foster home care in the community for the mentally retarded. Mayor Vernon told Shelton the city had been advised by three agencies that homes would be sought. She replied that this is because it is located in both Wayne and Oakland counties and has heard from agencies of both counties "where never the twain shall meet."

Asked if home placement for the mentally ill were not a relatively new program as opposed to that for mentally retarded, the director said it has been in existence since she came to the hospital in 1967. Then, however, the placements, she said, were primarily in the inner city of Detroit and were transient.

Asked about the characteristics of those who might be placed in foster homes in the community, Shelton described the residents as those who may be a bit disoriented, may talk to themselves and hear voices. She said they would "look just like any other residents except that they might not be as well dressed."

DeRusha said he gets "a picture of great possible violence — against themselves or others" as Shelton said these residents were schizophrenics.

Schizophrenia is defined as "any of a group of psychotic reactions characterized by withdrawal from reality with highly variable accompanying affective, behavioral and intellectual disturbances."

Shelton said these patients at the hospital "may be subject to a great deal of inner stress and are at our mercy to plan for."

She continued, "These people have been in institutions all their lives. In a home they will be able to take a shower

It was a sidewalk sale — and a whole lot more — last Saturday as residents crowded Main and Center streets for the Northville merchants' annual sidewalk clearaway and craft and antique sale. It also was the first view of Mainstreet '78 beautification in its final stages. Workmen had worked into the night before the sale to lay as many brick areas as possible. Trees with decorative grids were installed along with a few bushes. Council member G. Dewey Gardner reported Monday that it also was "the best sale in years — almost a third better than ever." Among those enjoying the sale were Northville residents Jeff Lightfoot, above, and his son Brad, who is "almost 2." ## Nisun ousted after refusing physical exam

By KEVIN WILSON

Former Northville Township police chief Ronald Nisun, demoted to patrol rank little more than a month ago, has been sent notice of termination of his employment as a result of his refusal to submit to a physical examination upon his return to work.

Nisun, who was allowed to complete his accrued vacation time when stepping down as chief June 25, reported for work July 20. Interpreting a policy the former chief developed himself, the township demanded that he pass a physical examination before beginning duties as a patrolman.

Nisun refused and was suspended without pay. He filed a grievance through the Police Officer's Association of Michigan (POAM), collective bargaining representative for township patrol officers, protesting the physical exam requirement and determination of seniority.

A later letter from the township notified him that failure to comply with the physical examination requirement within 10 days would result in termination of his employment.

Then, August 3, a letter signed by acting chief Kenneth Hardesty notified Nisun of the termination.

Holding that the physical exam requirement applies only to persons never having worked for the department before, Nisun and the POAM are protesting the demand. Gerald Radovic, a business agent for the POAM's Pontiac offices said the grievance will be amended to argue also that termination is "without just cause."

Township officials contend the collective bargaining agreement leaves physical exams at the discretion of the employer. Radovic said the contract is vague, but does not spell out such authority.

"We felt that since he would be working in a new area, he should have an exam," said supervisor John MacDonald Monday.

"It is a policy, really, he (Nisun) developed himself. It's a part of the collective bargaining agreement. They (Nisun and his advisors) are arguing that it comes under sick leave, which doesn't require a physical, but the contract also says, I think, the employer may demand a physical at any time he feels it appropriate."

Radovic contends otherwise. "There is no provision in the collective bargaining agreement that any employee has to have a physical after the original date of hire," he said.

Another dispute being handled through the grievance procedure involves the former chief's seniority as it relates to various aspects of the patrol position.

"The contract is also vague as to his seniority in the unit," Radovic said. "It does not address this situation."

If Nisun beats the termination issue, it appears the union and township are close to agreement on the seniority aspect. Both Radovic and MacDonald said the township ought to recognize Nisun's 15 years of employment as it applies to pension benefits, vacation time and the like, (salary, also determined by seniority, is cited in the grievance as a disputed issue), but that he would be treated as a new hire for purposes which would impact other members of the bargaining unit.

The latter would mean Nisun would be lowest seniority patrol officer in the event of a layoff (likely this year) and in regard to shift assignments, choosing vacation periods and the like.

For those purposes, Nisun would likely be allowed the 10 months of time he served as a patrolman before becoming chief. The contract calls for a full year service before seniority is effective.

With that little time on the books, MacDonald confirmed

City to monitor

Cable troubles cited

As cable television is about to become a reality for area residents who wish the service, Omnicom, the cable firm franchised in Northville and Northville township, is finding that not everyone is feeling elated.

Six residents appeared at Monday night's city council meeting to confront the Omnicom representative about disregard for trees and plantings during underground cable installation in the Morgan Circle-Lexington Commons areas.

"They're ripping through our property," an angry William Todd told William Pruitt, new director of engineering for Omnicom.

"We always experience the greatest problem with the underground installation," Pruitt conceded, promising, "we will put everything back the way we found it."

Mayor Paul Vernon, who had made a personal inspection of the damage at the Todd home on Fairfax, told Pruitt that Todd's sump pump line had been severed with the stump left standing.

Obviously making an effort to keep calm, Todd said his concern also was for a great tree in the easement whose roots had been cut.

"The damage is devastating to this tree. I would think you could stay three feet away," he said, noting that he had paid a premium for his lot because of features like the large tree.

Questioned whether the damage would kill the tree, Todd replied, "This is the first year I picked up a bushel of leaves in July."

To repudiate Pruitt's assertion that company workers clean up and leave easement areas as they found them, Todd produced a bag with what he said was about 20 feet of cable left on his property.

He and other residents objected to receiving letters with postcards to return if there were a problem the company should be aware of in laying the cable. None of those returning cards had been contacted in advance.

Pruitt said unless there would be a special problem, residents were not contacted but the cards were given to work crew foremen to alert them.

Todd asked why he could not have been contacted, as the card stated he would be, saying he would have given permission for the cable to be installed in his yard rather than in the easement to protect the tree.

City Attorney Philip Ogilvie replied that the cable company does not have this right and does so at its peril as at any time an owner can require it be put back into the easement.

Mayor Vernon noted that easements

Recreation examined

By KEVIN WILSON

The tangled web of interests involved in Northville recreation operations should shake itself loose over the next few weeks, as joint meetings of city, township and recreation officials are scheduled twice within one month.

First up is an August 19 session at the request of township planners, who have tried to arrange such a meeting since early this year to discuss the master plan for recreation facilities.

City planners, the township board and city council are all invited to the session at 8 p.m. in township hall, to examine the future growth of the joint service.

Under scrutiny for the first time will be the final version of a recreation master plan based on a 1979 study. Completed more than a year ago, the plan was only recently printed in sufficient quantity for such a discussion. Recreation officials said there was no money available to print the plan earlier.

Operations of the recreation department have been the subject of much confusion in city and township hall recently, with most involved citing a failure in communications between the three administrative bodies.

The recreation commission is a quasi-independent body with members appointed by both city and township government and financed jointly through a complicated formula assigning a portion of the cost based on population. With a clear idea of the goals of the

Millage approval spells relief for school officials

Northville Public School officials are breathing a sigh of relief this week in light of the recent voter approval of a 7-mill, three year proposal by a vote of almost two-to-one.

The official tally from the board of canvassers meeting Thursday shows that of the 4,258 registered voters casting ballots in last Tuesday's election, 2,764 voted in favor of the proposal with 1,450 voting against it. There were 44 invalid ballots.

The proposal was approved in all six of the district's precincts. Votes cast in each precinct are as follows:

Precinct 1 (City offices) — 234 yes, 219 no, 6 invalid;
Precinct 2 (Silver Springs) — 316 yes, 164 no, 5 invalid;
Precinct 3 (Winchester) — 582 yes, 206 no, 8 invalid;
Precinct 4 (Amerman) — 522 yes, 273 no, 9 invalid;
Precinct 5 (City offices) — 296 yes, 110 no, 4 invalid;

Precinct 6 (Moraine) — 374 yes, 304 no, 3 invalid.

Of the 624 absentee ballots tallied, there were 440 "yes" votes and 174 opposing. Ten absentee ballots were invalid.

School officials indicated earlier that the number of absentee ballots cast in this election was about twice that of previous school elections.

Officials are attributing much of the success of the millage approval to the staunch campaigning conducted by the Citizens Advisory Committee, school board members and administrators.

After the defeat of the board's 9.5 mill renewal request last April, school officials and community members joined forces in an effort to regain part of the lost millage.

Their efforts appear to have paid off with approximately 64.9 percent of the 4,259 persons voting in the election approving the proposal.

What lies ahead for the board of education and school administrators will be the implementation of the already approved $700,000 in cutbacks.

The board will amend its 24.4 mill budget to include the additional 7 mills — bringing the total authorized millage level to 31.4.

The reductions which will be implemented in the upcoming weeks include cuts in transportation, extra-curricular, one central office administrator, seven non-teaching staff positions, nine and one-half teaching positions (due to declining enrollment), capital improvements and fund equity.

Assured it is legally possible to change the proposed locations of "convenience" shopping centers in Northville Township's master plan of land use, the board of trustees recently asked the planning commission to review the sites.

Only to find out changing the plan could be an expensive proposition.

Location of the convenience centers — small shopping centers to serve the immediately surrounding area, as opposed to larger regional centers — has been argued frequently, both during the drafting of the plan (completed a year ago) and afterward.

Three sites in the township are designated as convenience centers in the master plan, one of them simply because planners believed the zoning was demanded by court order.

But recent advice from the township attorney noted that the court order no longer holds, and that the township is free to remove business zoning from the corner of Six Mile and Ridge.

That leaves the township free to adjust the entire plan to remove the proposed convenience center zoning at Six Mile and Sheldon, the single most controversial location (the third is at Six and Haggerty).

A proposed center at Six and Sheldon was rejected by the previous board of trustees and currently is the subject of litigation. Members of the current board have said they object to the Six and Sheldon location as depicted in the plan on grounds that the supposed service area is close enough to downtown Northville.

After reviewing the attorney's opinion during the July board meeting, Trustee C. James Armstrong introduced a resolution asking the planning commission to review the possibility of changing the master plan.

Passed unanimously by the board,

the resolution reached the commission last week.

Planning consultant Claude Coates said republishing the master plan to reflect changed shopping locations would cost roughly $600 to $700 while review by the consultants could easily mount into "four figures."

He suggested the township could pay for the changes with the same sort of grant funds originally used to pay for the plan. This year's federal allocation, however, was intended for review and revision of subdivision regulations and preparation of a comprehensive map showing environmentally sensitive areas of the township and another showing historic sites.

Coates' suggestion is being forwarded to the board of trustees.

Council sets hearing for parking ordinance

A public hearing on a proposed handicap parking ordinance for the city was set for 8 p.m. September 21 by city council Monday after the council studied a survey of present marked spaces it had requested.

The amendment to the city zoning ordinance is required by the state which already had cited the city for lack of a handicapper parking provision.

Together with many other communities, the city is slated for a hearing August 13. The city attorney was instructed to report that the amendment has been prepared with the hearing scheduled.

Requirements were reduced Monday by council as it noted that "most spaces now provided always are empty."

Under state law, no provision is necessary for public or private lots with fewer than 25 spaces.

The council therefore approved one handicapper space for 25-74 spaces, two for 75-124, and three for 125-299, with one additional for every 150 over 300.

The motion passed with council member Carolann Ayers voting against reduction in the number. The state statute calls for one handicapper space per 50 parking spaces or major fraction thereof up to 200, plus an additional space per 100 in excess of 200.

The ordinance amendment provides that properly marked spaces in city and private lots will be policed under city ordinances.

The survey prepared by the city manager revealed that among municipal lots only the parking deck, which presently does not designate handicapper spaces, will need markings. It was noted that some signs are down because of downtown construction.

Among private lots Hamlet Center will require adequate marking of spaces now provided. Water Wheel Restaurant, Wagon Wheel, Good Time Party Store and Northville Professional Center will need to mark spaces.

Others, such as Chatham's, have the required number. Arbor Drugs has two more than the new ordinance suggests.

Selection expected tomorrow

Schoolcraft trustees to name finalists for presidency

The Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees will interview its final candidate for the college presidency in an open session tonight in the Administration Building.

Dr. Richard McDowell, vice president of Allegheny County (Pennsylvania) Community College, will be interviewed at 7 tonight. The meeting is open to the public.

McDowell is among five candidates being considered as a replacement for outgoing Schoolcraft President C. Nelson Grote, who has accepted a college presidency in Spokane, Washington.

Dr. Lyle Robertson, academic vice president of Macomb County Community College, was interviewed Monday night. Other candidates interviewed last week include Dr. Edward Pierce, president of Quincy (Massachusetts) Junior College; Richard Thompson, provost of the Orchard Ridge Campus of Oakland Community College; and William Colovas, vice president for instruction at Wayne County Community College.

Profiles of Pierce, Thompson and Colovas appear below.

The Schoolcraft Board of Trustees is expected to narrow the field to two candidates tomorrow.

Northville resident's a candidate

"Harmony. Communication." If William Colovas, 48, is hired as president of Schoolcraft College, changes will come "very slowly" and after a lot of listening.

Colovas, a Northville Commons resident, is vice president for instruction at Wayne County Community College, where he has been for the past 12 years. Prior to that, he was director of health, physical education and athletics at Monroe County Community College.

Colovas Thursday told Schoolcraft trustees that his chief asset is "the ability to work harmoniously with people in a consensus, participatory environment."

"A president has to be a shirt-sleeves kind of person, able to delegate but be on top of everything... accessible with the faculty..."

"I would sit back and get acquainted. Your institution has been successful. You don't slam-bang try to reorganize just for reorganization's sake. Just try to fill the slots with good people."

"You need to be open, work with staff, have good communication — especially the spoken word," he said. "This business of flashing out memos — I seldom send a memo unless I've told the person what I'm doing first."

Colovas has studied — again with admiration — the work of South Carolina and other Sunbelt state community colleges in working for economic growth.

"In South Carolina, if a new industry is to locate, the state pays the community college to train 300 or 400 workers for a given industry. The state pays for the equipment

WILLIAM COLOVAS

"They have companies coming in — Michelin Tire — companies from Denmark, Taiwan..."

"We need to be alert to the changing economy. Michigan has the wherewithal to stabilize its economy, and maybe grow. Community colleges must play a role."

He sees the possibility of a state-mandated or voter-approved property tax cut. In that eventually, the college would have to "cut back until a better day," although his instincts are to protect instructional programs.

He called the Schoolcraft College presidency "a real plum" and praised the work of the Schoolcraft Foundation. "Community colleges have to get into private fund raising, possibly for survival."

OCC provost looks to the future

The 1980s may spell "doom and gloom" for Michigan community colleges, or it may be a decade of expansion and growth.

Richard Thompson, one of five candidates for Schoolcraft College president, told college trustees Wednesday that his experience prepares him either way.

Thompson, 41, described himself as "not an excessively career-oriented person."

He has been provost for four years at Oakland Community College's Orchard Ridge campus in Farmington Hills, where he has been since 1966. Prior to that, he taught at Macomb Community College and in high schools. He is the president of the Oakway Symphony Society.

Thompson said his experience as an English teacher, counselor, department head, administrator and faculty union chief have prepared him for the job. He holds bachelor's and master's degrees from Eastern Michigan University.

"I don't see the doom and gloom

RICHARD THOMPSON

'Long-range planning's' his goal

"Long range planning."

Edward Pierce came back to the term time after time during a 2½-hour public interview with the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees, faculty members and the public.

One of five candidates to succeed C. Nelson Grote as president of Schoolcraft, Pierce, 54, Tuesday told how his administration kept Quincy (Massachusetts) Junior College from either shutting down or being transferred to the state. He has been president of Quincy nine years.

"I have completed my mission at Quincy. I've peaked. If I am to be rejuvenated, I must leave," said the chemist, a Cambridge native.

His mission at Quincy, Pierce said, "was to provide quality education and assure its future, not just as a junior college but as a comprehensive community college."

Holding tuition constant, Quincy doubled the number of courses and increased enrollment and revenues four times, he said, through long range planning supported by research.

Pierce received state funding for the municipal college. He solicited private funds from the insurance industry for programs to train fire safety inspectors and from hospitals to train licensed practical nurses and surgical technicians. Alumni were solicited for $100 gifts.

"We developed an 'outreach' — to serve single parents and lower economic groups. We had professionals in to assist us. Out of our typing and keypunch programs, 40 of those people have found jobs."

Pierce said the community college should be "the cultural center of the community. Books, Dramatic arts."

And it has a role in economic redevelopment by working with state and local development officers in the fields of training and re-training for jobs. "I cannot pinpoint that redirection," he said, "but give me three months with institutional research."

Programs focus on students-to-be

Schoolcraft College Women's Resource Center and Counseling Department will team up for special programs August 11 and 18 for persons hesitant about entering or returning to college.

The programs will feature a panel of students who plan to share their successful college experiences.

Information about academic programs, financial aid, special support services as well as a tour of the Schoolcraft College campus will be provided along with a discussion of career decision-making and non-traditional opportunities.

The August 11 program is scheduled from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in Room 124 of the Applied Sciences Building and includes a $1 fee for lunch at the Waterman Campus Center.

A condensed evening program is scheduled

August 18 from 5:30-9 p.m. in Room T300 of the Applied Sciences Building. No meal or campus tour will be provided.

Participants can apply for admission to Schoolcraft College at either program. A $10 application fee is required.

Further information or reservations may be obtained by calling the Women's Resource Center at 591-6400, extension 430.

It's time for student physicals

Northville public schools' students entering the 7th or 10th grade next fall are required to have physicals before the start of the school year.

Physicals also are required for all new kindergartners and out-of-state students.

Physical forms are available at the board of education office and the junior highs and high school.

that's forecast in population shifts," Thompson said, predicting instead that community colleges will inevitably benefit as costs continue climbing at four-year colleges.

"I can see families who cannot afford to send away multiple students to a four-year college. We may see a shift... there may be a lot more of two-plus-two students" — students who complete an associate degree at a community college, then transfer to a four-year college.

If things get worse in the state and aid to colleges falls, Thompson said he would prefer to "pull out funds furthest removed from education first — unfilled positions, support skills."

"I hold the activities in the classroom to be foremost," he said. "The further you get from that, the more likely it is to be cut."

"The president of a college must establish and develop a relationship with his or her constituent legislators," Thompson said.

Dental Dialogue

WORDS OF WISDOM

Q. Do wisdom teeth always need to be removed?

A. No. Wisdom teeth (third molars) shouldn't be extracted without a good reason. However about 80% of the population will have at least one impacted molar that will need to be removed. Impacted teeth are those that cannot fully emerge above the gum line. Persons with small jaws usually have insufficient room for the wisdom teeth, while those with large jaws may have no problems. As we get older, impacted wisdom teeth can push against the other teeth and cause damage to the roots. Most dentists agree impacted are created specifically for the purpose of installing utilities. He asked Pruitt from now on to have the company report to the city manager's office the Thursday or Friday in advance as to the areas where the crews will be working the following week.

He also stated that complaints must be registered with the city manager and a follow up on their resolution be given.

Taking note of names and addresses of those attending and their complaints, Pruitt agreed.

"We are doing everything with the intention of getting through as painlessly as possible," he declared, adding, "after all, we want you as customers."

"Had they started this way and followed through, we would not be here," observed Connie Cronin as she and her husband left with their neighbors, the Richard Wilhelms of Morgan Circle.

The council also took note of pending Senate Bill 898 which would deregulate the telecommunications industry, giving cities sharply reduced powers to regulate cable in their communities.

Aware that this could make possible rate increases by cable companies without city consent, the council passed unanimously a resolution against such decontrol.

Recreation solutions sought

department, city and township officials will be ready to discuss the most problematic of recreation issues in recent years — finances.

With township and city operating under differing fiscal years, and the recreation department expenses concentrated in certain seasons, coordinating the cash flow to the operation has been complicated and resulted in more than a few disputes among members of the three bodies.

Confusion last reigned this spring, when township officials sliced a portion out of the recreation budget while seeking to balance the township budget. A joint session of city council and the township board determined that September would be the best time to coordinate efforts for recreation and library funding.

A tentative date of September 17 has been established for another joint meeting of the two governments, this time including the recreation commission has an integral part of the budgeting discussion. According to City Manager Steve Walters, the two communities often have discussed such a meeting in years past, but never could establish a suitable time for all parties concerned until it was too late.

Walters and township business manager David Lelko, however, along with the elected officials of both governments, appear intent on assuring such a session this time around.

Recreation operations may not be in any better shape after the two meetings, but those involved say they intend to make sure all parties to the joint agreement understand their responsibilities and the position of the others.

Sun shines on sidewalk sale

The sun shone on Northville's annual sidewalk sale last Saturday, bringing out crowds in record numbers. Shoppers picked up bargains, browsed at craft and antiques booths and inspected the new look of Main Street. There was lots to admire with brick paved walks, trees and shrubs started and new Victorian lights.

Police Blotter

Car and jewelry stolen while family vacations

A 1980 Pontiac Bonneville and more than $25,000 worth of items were stolen from a Steepleview residence between July 25 and 27, township police report.

The car was valued at $11,000. Among the items stolen from the house were a reel-to-reel tape deck, $750; a cassette tape deck, $500; a stereo receiver; two diamond rings, combined value of $6,000; two pearl necklaces, combined value of $850; two pearl bracelets, combined value of $400; a bracelet worth $1,000; and a ruby and pearl bracelet worth $500.

Also taken were a diamond necklace worth $10,000; four chains with a combined value of $3,700; a diamond tie pin worth $2,000; and the family portrait. There was $50 damage to the doorwall. The owner said unknown persons broke into the house and ransacked it while he and his family were on a weekend vacation, police said.

Entry appeared to have been made through the south side doorwall, which leads into the kitchen. Also, it appeared the sliding screen door had been cut near the lock, which was pried off the screen door, and then the doorwall was forced open, police said.

The doorwall area is totally isolated with a heavy row of scrubs and bushes running behind the house, and the family room extends out blocking the doorwall from view, police said. Also, the neighbors to the west have a privacy fence.

A neighbor said he saw the garage door open at the residence at 7:45 a.m. July 27 with only one car in it, police said. The neighbor said the garage still was open at 5:40 p.m. the same day when he returned from work.

However, the witness and his wife said the garage door was closed at approximately 9:30 p.m. July 26, police reported.

Police believe the lights were taken out of the automatic garage door opener so they would not turn on in order the unknown suspects could steal the owner's car.

The complainant said the suspects had access to the car keys since a set was kept in the glove box, police said. A check book also was in the glove box. There are no suspects in the case.

A 1979 Grand Prix sedan, valued at $7,500, was stolen from an Eddington Court residence sometime July 24, township police report.

The owner said unknown suspects took the vehicle from the parking lot of his residence, police said. Police have no suspects.

Items and cash totalling $2,230.68 were stolen from an Innsbrook residence between July 25 and 26, township police report.

Taken in the robbery were a television ($303.68); golf bag and clubs totalling $184; stereo receiver ($239); tape deck ($450); turntable ($180); two speakers ($600); cassette recorder ($80); necklace ($104); eight United States currency Silver Certificates ($65); and coins totalling $25.

The complainant said unknown suspects entered his apartment and took the items. Police saw gouge marks on the outside of the doorhandle which indicated forced entry, the report said. There are no suspects in the case.

A canvas tent ($200), a radio ($22) and a flashlight ($4.79) were stolen from a Scenic Harbor residence between July 28 and 29, township police report.

The owner said the family had set up the tent, with the radio and flashlight stored inside, in the backyard for three weeks. The daughter had last seen the tent in the backyard at 1:30 p.m. July 29, police said.

A neighbor said neither he nor his family saw anything, police said. Police have no suspects.

Three wire wheel covers, valued at $300, were stolen from a 1980 Buick when it was parked at a Silver Springs residence sometime July 28, township police report.

The complainant said his grandmother owns the car, but she was out-of-town. The wheel covers, with built-in locks, were stolen while the car was parked in the car port of the residence, police said.

The resident and the neighbors were not at home at the time of the incident, police said. There are no suspects.

Phoenix prisoner escapes

Minimum security prisoner Micheal Shelton escaped last Friday from the Phoenix Correctional facility here, a prison spokesperson said.

Officials said Shelton was working outdoors when he apparently walked away from the facility at about 4:30 p.m. Friday. They say he is not believed to be armed at this time.

Shelton is a 5-foot-6, 146-pound black male. He has brown eyes, black hair and was last seen wearing a blue shirt (prison number 2139313) and pants. His last known address is 12787 Freeland in Detroit.

The spokesperson said Shelton was serving nine to 25 years at the facility for assault to murder in connection with an armed robbery.

Lines crossed en route to paved Wallis

No sooner did city and township officials begin studying methods by which Wallis Street could be paved as a connecting link between Silver Springs Drive and South Main, than a new fly appeared in the ointment.

The Highland Lakes Condominium Association board notified the township it has not committed itself to pay for paving a portion of the road cutting through the complex, and, in fact, did not even know it was supposed to pay until it appeared in the newspaper.

Paving Wallis was first proposed by adjacent industrial landowners, who offered to pay for the paving if a suitable bid can be connected to the city's South Main project.

City and township officials are looking for an appropriate agreement that would pave the township-owned street without requiring the formation of a township maintenance crew.

Informal discussions had led to the conclusion Highland Lakes would pay to pave a portion of roadway adjacent to a parking lot for recreational vehicles. The segment would be the connecting link between Wallis and Silver Spring.

Dorothy Gaul, a member of the Highland Lakes board, appeared before the township board of trustees July 16 to state the condo owners had never agreed to pay for the paving. An exchange of letters between township hall and the association confirmed Gaul's contention.

A meeting is scheduled Thursday evening between township officials and Highland Lakes board members to attempt to address the difficulties. Although early discussion noted that the new road could be closed off during peak Northville Downs traffic periods, Clerk Susan Heintz said she thinks the association is still concerned about increased traffic along the route.

Mental referral angers council

every day and wear clean clothes for the first time. They (in the hospital) are not in a situation where they can improve themselves. In wards geared to 30 and containing 40 they have nothing more to do than look forward to than smoking a cigarette."

Shelton stated that many saw a doctor once a year in the hospital, giving no hope of treatment.

She said the average cost of patient care in the hospital is $100 or $116 a day. In foster homes, she contrasted, it is "roughly" $65. She added that federal funding (available only for the foster home care) can add another $20 to make costs about the same.

The figures, she told council, are based on six people in a home with one staff member for every three persons. She said they include salaries, leasing, a car, maintenance and $1.05 a day allowances.

Under department of social services revisions, she said, the city clerk will be notified in advance when a foster home is being considered.

"If we find one," she promised, "we will talk with the council and with neighbors."

Councilmembers told Shelton they felt it somewhat ironic that they were hearing of the placement program just after learning of Crumpton's acquittal.

Shelton replied, "I screen each person into the program and am personally responsible."

Asked about the future of the hospital if the foster home program is developed, Shelton said she anticipates it will remain open as "we're getting 20 to 30 new patients a day."

"It looks like we're being offered three choices — the mentally ill, mentally retarded and the criminally rehabilitated," said DeRusha as Shelton reported on the law that says not more than one foster home may be located within 1500 feet of another without council's consent. She added that she knows nothing of the program for the criminal rehabilitation — and does not want "to touch that."

Mayor Vernon thanked the director for coming to the council meeting and asked that council be kept informed about possible foster homes, as promised.

Nisun fights firing from patrol position

that Nisun would be the first township-paid officer out of work if projections that a single lay off will be needed this year come to pass.

"We are attempting to work some kind of a resolution to this," MacDonald said. "I don't think this situation is any good for him or for the department."

Nisun was the first township police employee, enforcing local ordinances while serving as a constable in Livonia. He was later hired as a full-time patrolman and then designated chief of the force as it expanded.

Of his 15 years with the township, Nisun had been chief of the department for the past 10 years. He submitted his resignation and requested assignment to patrol duties after a closed door hearing before the board of trustees, during which his alleged misconduct in releasing township stationery to an arms dealer was examined.

Radovic said it is "ironic" that the township has now terminated his employment, before the former chief ever worked as a patrolman.

"If they had terminated him originally (instead of the demotion), we (POAM) wouldn't even have been involved," because Nisun as chief was not protected under union grievance procedures, Radovic explained.

"It's a very touchy call in that he never actually served as a patrolman," Radovic said, "and I suppose it may be up to an arbitrator to decide whether he deserves union representation."

"We will pursue this as vigorously as if he had always been a member of the bargaining unit until a decision is made about that," he emphasized. "Unless the arbitrator decides differently, we are assuming he is a member of the unit."

Statewide fresh produce book ready

If you're not into "do-it-yourself" gardening, but still like to pick your own fresh fruits and vegetables, State Senator Robert Geake (R-Northville) has a solution.

The 1981 edition of "Country Carousels," a booklet listing approximately 900 pick-your-own farm or roadside markets in Michigan now is available, Geake said.

The directory lists the name of the farm or market in alphabetical order by county, gives directions for getting there, names the produce available and gives a telephone number to call for availability.

The booklet, published by the Michigan Department of Agriculture, is free.

"I hope folks will recognize what a handy reference this booklet can be," Geake said. He encourages anyone who wishes a copy to write him at the state capitol, P.O. Box 30036, Lansing 48909.

Novi Ambulance probation lifted by county board

After receiving information as requested, the Oakland County Project Medical Director has taken the Novi Ambulance Company off probation.

Dr. Michael L. DeMars notified the company that all the documentation regarding the structure of the company which was requested had been received and the company had been found to be in compliance with all the conditions it was asked to meet in order to end the probationary period.

The ambulance company was placed on probation after a hearing before the Oakland County Medical Control board June 29. The board requested documentation from Early as well as the State Public Health Department regarding the company's licensing to operate "Alert" ambulances as advanced life support vehicles.

The letter to owner John Early announcing the end of the probationary period states that "concerns which precipitated the probation arose in large from misinformation received by (former project medical director) Dr. Paul Pomeroy from the Emergency Medical Service division of the Michigan Department of Public Health, further complicated by certain pieces of your correspondence not being on file with the EMS division of Oakland County."

"All the documentation assembled in this matter has been reviewed and I am pleased to inform you all the imposed conditions have been met and along with your assured compliance with other requests made of you," DeMars letter goes on to say.

DeMars said he hopes the incident has a positive effect and a closer working relationship between Novi Ambulance and Oakland County EMS system develops.

The probationary period was initiated after questions were raised over whether Early was dispatching the wrong vehicles on emergency calls. The company's privilege to perform ALS service was temporarily suspended over the weekend of June 27, until a hearing on the matter could be scheduled. ALS privileges were reinstated following the hearing.

On ALS calls trained paramedics attempt to stabilize the victim at the scene, treating victims much as they would be handled in a hospital emergency room. Basic EMT service consists primarily of first aid and transportation to a hospital.

Ambulances used for ALS service must be inspected by the MDPH and the body governing emergency medical service in Oakland County must be notified of the state's approval.

Northville Charley's

Parking site plan rejected

Township planners hung out the "No Parking" sign for Northville Charley's last week, denying the C.A. Muer restaurant's site plan submission for added parking space.

Citing several problems with the plan presented to them, the commissioners voted unanimously to reject the plan during regular session July 28.

Planning consultant Claude Coates advised the commission that the plan submitted, which would have expanded the parking lot at the Seven Mile eatery to 176 spaces, did not comply with several township regulations.

Coates emphasized the lack of a 600 square foot loading space and failure to indicate location of required trees in the lot, as well as failure to meet a five foot setback requirement on the north side.

The planning consultant also was under the impression that a large refrigeration unit on the north side of the building was under site plan review, but it was discovered the installation already had been made to the building without clearance from the planning commission.

The installation does meet all zoning requirements, he noted.

Representatives of the firm may take the plan to the zoning board of appeals, seeking a variance on the zoning restrictions cited.

Also needing approval would be proposed extension of the stockade fence lining the north side of the lot, separating it from adjacent residential properties. As one of the few P-1 (parking) zoning districts, the lot is required to have a four and one-half foot tall masonry wall.

The current lot has fence of the same height, and the plan submitted to planners called for an extension to that fence.

Market day

The peak of the growing season is here, and every Thursday the Northville Farmers' Market in the parking lot at Main and Hutton is filled with right-from-the-grower fresh produce. Stands are brimming with sweet corn, tomatoes, beets, onion and new potatoes. Farmers begin unloading at 8 a.m. and are there until 4 p.m. — or until sold out.

Top, Janice Cook admires plants shown by Ann Raney, who comes from South Lyon with plants and flowers.

Below, the McNally youngsters, Michael, 2, and Jenny, 4, already are market shoppers.

The chamber of commerce which sponsors the weekly market from June through October reports there is a stand where an assortment of fruit strudel is sold, as well as a table of jams, jellies, cookies and pastries. Shoppers can buy farm-fresh eggs and honey, as well.

A new addition to the market is handmade pottery crafted in the old German manner.

Northville resident James Angelo, right, was the recipient of the Member-of-the-Year Award at the Ferris State College Associated Construction Students Awards Banquet held at the end of the spring quarter. Angelo, a student in the building construction program, founded the Associated Construction Students (ACS) Club and served for the past year as its president. His fellow members chose him as their member-of-the-year. Presenting the award to Angelo is the club's advisor Harry Cooper. As ACS president, Angelo presented fellow clubmember Bryan Whitfield with the M.K. Martin Award for team building and leadership qualities.

First Ultreya set at OLV

To some 160 people in this part of the state the words "Cursillo" and "Ultreya" hold a special spiritual meaning.

A Cursillo is a three-day spiritual retreat that provides a method whereby a Christian is enabled to continue to grow in his or her faith, explain Sue Holstein and Susan Couzens.

Those who have participated in such a retreat then gather at a regularly scheduled Ultreya, or meeting, to continue this spiritual growth.

The first Ultreya for Northville will be held at 8 p.m. next Thursday, August 13, in the basement of Our Lady of Victory administration building at 770 Thayer.

Assisting with the planning are Father Ronald Thurner and Father John O'Callaghan, priests at Our Lady of Victory Church. Both have participated in Cursillos, serving as spiritual directors several times at the retreats.

The planners explain that the program is non-denominational and draws Christians of many churches.

They know that about 160 persons in Northville, Farmington, Novi, Canton and Howell areas have made a Cursillo and now are eligible to attend Ultreyas. Ultreya meetings are planned for the second and fourth Thursday of each month at OLV.

"Our purpose is to reach out for growth with speakers to reinforce our experience. It's a community of experience between you and God," Mrs. Holstein explains.

As they met last month in preparation for the first Ultreya meeting here, Mrs. Holstein, a Northville resident of 816 Springfield, pointed out that she is Catholic but that Mrs. Couzens, of 48205 Nine Mile, is an Episcopalian, a member of St. John's Church in Plymouth.

"DeColores is a familiar greeting to those who have made a Cursillo, the Spanish word for little course, given to the retreat," it is explained. Talks at a retreat cover the basic teachings of Jesus.

At this time the Northville committee is seeking those who have participated in a Cursillo to form the local Ultreya. Later, Mrs. Holstein expects, there may be arrangements for a local Cursillo.

She may be reached at 349-4909 or Mrs. Couzens may be called at 348-9198 for more information.

Both women say they are excited about having a local Ultreya to continue the learning of the Cursillo, relating that it is a growth method that "deepens your faith."

Fathers O'Callaghan and Thurner both indicated that there is a happy, uplifting aspect to this method of spiritual growth.

Father John O'Callaghan, Father Ronald Thurner of OLV obviously are enjoying planning the first local Ultreya with Sue Holstein and Susan Couzens

Bea'd approve

Although it's a little discouraging, I'm not giving up.

As Bea Carlson, a founder and member of the Northville Beautification Commission until her death in November, 1979, struggled to arouse community interest in a local beautification program, she wrote the above comment to a regional commission member.

She did indeed persevere and, thanks to her early interest, and that of those who served with her, downtown today is abloom with flowers and trees in a program hard to visualize a few years ago. The letter containing the comment is being shared by Norma Vernon who worked with Mrs. Carlson for many years on the beautification commission and, after her death, has continued to make beautification important in the community.

"You get a glimpse of her wonderful outlook on life and of her struggle to establish a beautification program here," Mrs. Vernon observed.

We're sure the community's look at the Mainstreet '78 beautification last Saturday during the merchants' sidewalk sale made the fight of those who early envisioned a downtown with planters, trees and benches worthwhile. It was a first glimpse of the decorative appearance that the downtown is acquiring.

It isn't completed yet, but enough of the new Victorian-design lampposts are in place to give a picture of the future illumination along Main Street. Some of the trees planned for the downtown area already are in place surrounded by attractive ornamental grids, and most of the brick inserts in the sidewalks are laid.

Best of all, the sidewalk sale — combined with a street craft and antique show — was well attended. Residents flocked to town to shop, browse and admire. Since only days before, downtown streets were being surfaced and curbing was being installed, it took an extra effort to have as much work as possible completed by the sale day.

Crowds continued steady all day, observed a pleased Nelson Schrader who has followed up the community beautification with a facelift for his own building on Center. It is this hand-in-hand effort that those who work for Mainstreet '78 hoped would occur.

Shoppers are able to see how the downtown will appear when Mainstreet '78 is completed later this year by viewing the scale model Dewey Gardner is displaying for the city in the window of IV Seasons flower shop on Main Street.

We're looking great — and we know Bea would approve.

Caution needed

It's understandable that city council is concerned about the state plan to place the mentally ill in foster homes in the community. Anyone who lived here in 1979 and remembers the unnecessary death of Tekla Hamilton, an 81-year old widow, knows that the plan, as council member J. Burton DeRusha observed Monday night, has potential danger.

Mrs. Hamilton was killed in her East Main home by a walkaway from the state hospital. He was acquitted by reason of insanity and now, it was reported to council Monday, is at a forensic center.

We do not dispute the philosophy of professionals like Judith Shelton, director of the hospital's community placement development program, that there is need for different, more humane treatment for the mentally ill.

We do have concerns, however, about a program which is under attack by those who are professions, including the president of the Michigan Psychiatric Society, Emanuel Tanay, MD, who sent Governor Milliken a telegram July 27. It stated, "Deinstitutionalization is the discharge of patients who need not be in institutions and not the wholesale relocation of sick people into communities."

He continued, "Well meaning government officials, public spirited citizens ... have supported policies which could not work because they disregarded realities of mental illness."

As Mayor Paul Vernon and other council members have reiterated previously, the community has welcomed the handicapped in special school programs and through programs of groups like Kiwanis. We feel the city is right in making every effort to protect its residents. There is great need for humane treatment, but it must be responsible care with concern for the rest of the community.

We need no more "unfortunate incidents."

Off the record

By Michele McElmurry

In the newspaper business, where deadline pressure is the norm, reporters quickly learn to keep their stories brief, concise and to the point. Though this may seem like an easy task to some (afterall, that's what reporters are trained to do) it often is difficult — sometimes downright impossible.

For the reporter with a penchant for elaboration or "flowing prose," making a story "as tight as possible" is often an exasperating prospect. Yet, if the reporter falls short of this expectation, he or she can rest assured that the editor will soon remedy the problem — taking out a few inches here or a few there — eventually cutting your story to half its length.

As a newspaper reporter, I have learned that brevity is of the utmost importance when writing a story. To keep your reader's attention you stick to the facts — presenting them in as concise a manner as possible.

With this philosophy in mind, I believe there is correlation between newspapers and public meetings. In fact, one could argue that the two go hand in hand, considering that for most reporters the largest part of the job is covering the meetings of local city councils, school boards and township planners.

Having covered one such body of public officials every second and fourth Monday of each month for the past year, I have come to realize the importance of brevity — and the lesson which most public officials could learn.

I have few complaints about the board meetings which I cover. The presiding officer for the past year has kept things going smoothly and meetings rarely run more than three hours. However, not all reporters are as fortunate and many of my colleagues spend anywhere from four to five hours sitting on hard chairs listening to officials banter back and forth.

From a reporter's point of view, long council or board sessions are not conducive to meeting deadlines the following day. (Especially for the Record reporter who covers a Monday meeting and has a Tuesday noon deadline). However, my concerns go beyond deadline woes and impatient editors. My qualm with meetings that run unto the wee hours of the morning is that I have serious doubts about the effectiveness of a council or board which has half its members nodding off at 1 a.m.

There are numerous reasons why meetings tend to run on. Often times councils pack their agendas as thick as dictionaries — attempting to cover too much in too little time. There also are those officials who like to hear themselves talk — though what they say has little meaning. Some public meetings sound more like a senate filibuster than a gathering of a local body to discuss the placement of a STOP sign.

Then there is the board or council member who comes unprepared. This is a problem which irks many — and rightfully so. The official who looks at his or her agenda five minutes before the meeting is the one who often wastes time with unnecessary questions.

This problem can exist with the public as well. Many boards and councils put few restrictions on the length of public presentations. If officials familiarized the public with their meeting format and asked people to keep their presentations brief, many councils would not have to listen to half-hour complaints about how Mr. Green's dog ruined Mrs. Smith's rose bushes.

There's no doubt that most public officials are generously giving their free time to serve on these councils and committees, and it's easy to sympathize with the official who appears somewhat distraught when the clock approaches midnight.

It's hard to be effective after putting in a 15-hour day and worrying about the 7:30 a.m. breakfast you have with your boss tomorrow.

It works the same way for reporters. After a late meeting one night, an official tried to reach me at the newspaper to clarify a point he had made. I naturally was not there. It's not that I turn into a pumpkin at the stroke of midnight, it's just that at that hour of the day my mind has turned to mush. To be effective, I have to go home and sleep on it.

Photographic Sketches . . .

By JIM GALBRAITH

JACK W.
HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

She'd cry at Fidel Castro's wedding, so you can imagine the blubbering that went on at our place as my wife watched the goings-on in England via television last week.

For someone's who has never been in England, has no English ancestry, and whose closest brush with royalty is the oft-told story that her grandmother was nearly run down by the queen's carriage, she is without doubt England's greatest ambassador.

She knows just about all there is to know about British royalty, collecting since childhood clippings and trivia about the lords and near lords. When you and I were collecting comic books she was lugging home Prince Albert cans, toads and anything else remotely suggesting royalty. Her repertoire is so extensive, she could, undoubtedly, tell you the color of toilet tissue favored by the highnesses and near highnesses.

She can tell you the names of duchesses and dukes but is hard pressed to give you the name of our congressman. She knows the whereabouts of the royal jewels, but can't tell me what happened to my new hammer.

All of which is to say I wasn't surprised last week when she sprang from bed at 4:30 in the morning, lugged the 100-pound television set from the family room, and took up a wedding vigil in the living room.

"Good morning," I said, "what's all the racket out here?"

Her eyes wet with tears, she replied, "You missed it...you missed the wedding of the century! It was glorious."

"It certainly must have been," I said, "even the dog has been crying. Why didn't you take her out?"

"I couldn't. Now the prince is signing the registry and they'll be coming out of the church soon. You wouldn't want me to miss the march out of the church and the carriage ride back to the castle? The dog will have to wait. This is too important."

"No hurry now," I said. "But when it's over, you've got some real crying to do. While you've been watching, the dog spread her pomp and circumstance all over the family room floor."

School system reform suggested despite millage win

To the Editor:
In view of the recent millage approval, I would like to express my sentiments.

The majority of voters who accepted this millage renewal most likely did so in order to avoid inducing what have been called "cataclysmic cuts." Recent newsletters and campaign literature succeeded in convincing a majority of voters that the school district would be in a dire state if the millage failed. Summaries of the board's proposed budget cuts were so ominous that few parents would choose to oppose the millage.

Although I want to see the Northville Public Schools continue providing students with quality education, I also sympathize with the homeowner burdened with increasing taxes and property assessments, pay cuts and freezes, and layoffs.

Certainly, budget cuts are necessary even with the renewal, but to accept the proposal only to avoid the publicized cuts, without demanding reapportionment of existing funds and the institution of urgent improvements, is unwise. Although funding is obviously necessary, pumping money into the school system cannot insure quality education in itself.

Concerned citizens action groups banded together to achieve what they felt their children needed and deserved. But, now that they have given the schools their financial support, will they continue their zealous efforts to insist it be well spent?

This election was an emotional one, and the vote counts were close in some districts (precincts, ed.). If the great effort put forth into passing this renewal was organized well prior to the election and directed toward improving the present system with available funds, maybe more voters would have been convinced their money would be used wisely and truly is essential to continue the educational process.

Community participation lacks the strength needed to consistently influence the board and effectively voice public opinion. Having attended several board meetings, I have witnessed the apathy plaguing our citizens. Only when such "crucial" issues as a junior varsity soccer team at the high school are at stake do citizens react vehemently.

Many problems exist in our schools. School employees are a great expense, but their quality is directly responsible for the efficacy of the schools. Apathy and inadequacy are not uncommon, and several existing staff positions are unnecessary.

Teachers should be responsible professionals and accept a merit rating system as most workers do, not an across the board seniority system. In numerous instances, proficiency and dedication do not coincide with seniority, and a merit system would provide the incentive to give students a quality education.

Declining enrollment calls for an immediate proportional decrease in school administrators. Pay increases must be awarded sparingly. To grant nine percent salary increases to school administrators and turn around to ask for a millage increase is inexcusable.

Most taxpayers are willing to provide what they can to the schools but intend it for improving programs, purchasing materials, and benefiting the students, and not to line the pockets of school employees who consistently expect more money for less work in these hard economic times. Funds must be directed toward improving of academic programming first, and any surplus awarded to employees second.

I hope the citizens of this community will demand improvements be made before providing the schools with more money. Until it is proven that it will be spent wisely, passing millages only condones imprudent spending.

Providing students with a high quality education requires more effort than pushing a "yes" lever in a ballot booth.

To the Editor:

The deadly earnest game proceeds as usual and our children's education is the wedge.

Right about now the principals of the Northville School District are headed for the bargaining tables. In March our teachers start their bargaining. And unless something changes from the previous 15 or so years both will want more money and as much more control over school matters as they can get.

About 80 percent of the school budget is salaries of all personnel. Budget cuts mean wage increases negotiated and cuts in the program offered the children. By law, a school budget must be balanced and by law contracts must be kept. And there is just so much money.

Representing the district (you) at the bargaining table has always been the central office administrators. Board members are almost forbidden by the administration from even observing actual bargaining sessions.

Mr. Knighton, as present personnel director, heads a team suggested by the administration and rubber stamped by the board. The team bargains with guidelines set by the board.

This means the board, advised by the administration, determines its limits of salary increases and language changes in the contract. Bargaining is done under state law and bargaining infers give and take in the process.

The problem with this arrangement, which has been going on in Northville in exactly this manner since teachers gained the right to bargain, is that administrative salaries are based on what teachers make. This year the superintendent will get a nine and a half percent raise partly because teachers get at least a nine and a half percent raise.

I want a change in this process, but I disagree with your editorial suggestion. I want to send the board lawyer to the table with the board of education as advisors and the administration as information gatherers.

This team is more accountable to the public. Other districts find this satisfactory. The argument against this is that the administrators are on salary and the lawyer costs additional money. But would he?

The lawyer is at the table now at the wrap up of negotiations but too much has been given away by then.

The taxpayers are sending a message via the millage defeat (first time around) and the Northville board and the administration prepare to do business as usual.

If we want change in the school system, let's try doing things differently where it counts — at the bargaining table. Eighty percent of the budget is decided there.

Nisun defended

To the Editor:

(NOTE: This letter was addressed to "Citizens of Northville Township")

My name is Kathy Nisun Lulek. I am the daughter of the former chief of police. This letter is for one purpose and one purpose only — to set the record straight. I wish to explain to the general public that we, my father's family, have no problem with a mistake he made, an honest mistake, a mistake he honestly made and freely admitted, trying to help someone with nothing to gain for himself.

My father is a good man. He served his community with pride and a deep sense of duty to his men and his department. No one could possibly know better than his children of the time and hours he spent away from us making Northville Township a safe place for other people's children to live.

Looking back, I can't ever remember when he could spend a whole holiday with his family because he had a very personal commitment to the community he served. I have always looked up to my father and respected who he was what he stood for, but would never want to fill his shoes.

For all the hours and hassle he had to put up with, this man still loves his job and wants it back. When dad was at home or any time off, we had a police scanner going at all time. I feel as if I grew up with that department, just as did the officers that served there along with my father.

My father raised that department from infancy to a full-fledged department capable of serving the needs of a growing community. He had the foresight and the vision to make that department and the men that serve there into what they have now become, and I am sure that each and every one of them can and will recall being hired and taught to respect the law and the community they serve by my father.

I feel a very personal sadness for the township of Northville, for it has lost one of the most dedicated men that will ever serve a community. Most of you have probably never heard his name before and could really care less who runs the police department as long as the job gets done. My dad was right out there on the street along with his men (and) the citizen's committee, that my father founded, asked for the millage to be passed so that Northville Township could have the kind of police protection your dollars pay for.

Does that sound like a man who could make a mistake so severe he would and could be stripped of his position?

He wasn't even given the courtesy of an unbiased hearing before being found guilty. Even a patrolman would have been suspended pending an investigation.

My father was told by the township supervisor (John MacDonald) that he could, in fact, return to the department as a patrolman and when he reported for work in good faith and in deep humiliation he was suspended without pay because he refused to take a physical. But a physical is for a new hire.

Also, Mr. MacDonald said that he (Nisun) could retain his 15 years seniority, but now the word is that the police union will not accept that as a binding agreement so Mr. MacDonald is now trying to change things and ordered Lieutenant (Kenneth) Hardesty (acting police chief) to suspend him (Nisun) without pay.

It would seem to me that a man of Mr. MacDonald's position would in this instance get his facts straight before he makes a commitment. Back when Mr. MacDonald was a trustee, he tried so very hard to get my father out of office, through back-door maneuvers, without success — but now he got his chance.

My father is a good man, he is not guilty of any crime. His record for the past 15 years is without a blemish. He served as president of the Chief of Police Association for three years, and was vice president another year, bringing honor and dignity to Northville.

In closing, I wish to extend my sympathy to Northville Township for not taking the time to be informed or to care what happens to Ronald L. Nisun because it is certainly your loss. I believe with all my heart that justice, as my father taught me, is a very hard mistress and I believe in this instance that justice can and will prevail and it is most certainly the citizens that care and are concerned as were the group of people that showed up at the meeting of the trustees — a meeting where no questions were answered by Mr. MacDonald, a man you elected to represent you and lead the township, a man who as my father's boss had exactly two meetings in eight months with my father, hardly what you would call communicating with his chief of police.

I love my father dearly, and it breaks my heart to see what the good people of Northville Township have let happen to him for he surely gave more than they gave him.

Sincerely yours,
Kathy Nisun Lulek

Criticizes recreation

To the Editor:

The last straw has finally broken the camel's back! The consistent mismanagement of the Northville Recreation Department and the abuses by the staff have forced the writing of this letter.

First, let's ignore the recreation department's failure to organize a men's basketball league this past winter. Why? Let's also ignore the fact that there is no women's softball league this summer. Why?

Let's ignore the fact that three major youth recreation activities — junior football, soccer and junior baseball are organized and administered by private organizations. Why?

Let's ignore the fact that it is virtually impossible to contact the recreation director during regular business hours, yet see his vehicle parked at various beer gardens and golf courses in the area. Why?

Let's ignore the fact that the recreation director had zero input at the 1981 budget appropriation meetings for the township because he never showed. Why?

Let's ignore the fact that when asked about the lack of response to the community center gym floor donation program, the recreation director said, "It's not my job to sell squares." Whose job is it?

Obviously, as citizens, these facts cannot be ignored. Nor can we ignore the fact that there was improper supervision and medical supplies during junior basketball this past winter. We can't ignore that the assistant to the director is unqualified for the job. We cannot ignore the fact that the same person, who is a salaried employee of the city, was also the Northville High School swim coach and attended and supervised swim practices during city business hours, five days a week, during the last two seasons.

Can we ignore that the secretary is paid approximately half the salary of the director while doing two-thirds of the work? These questions need answering. As citizens of Northville these questions demand answering.

However, I must congratulate the recreation director and his assistant on the superb effort put forth on July 28, 1981, with respect to getting Thomson Field playable for the men's softball league after torrential rains had flooded the field. I must say the gasoline that you used to dry the field helped immensely. Never mind that home plate was torched. Never mind that there are scheduled rainout weeks during the season for such an occasion. Never mind that this effort is unprecedented in the history of Northville softball! Never mind the waste of fuel and risk of personal injury to the grounds crew. Never mind that this effort has never been put forth to continue any softball tournaments, which are potential revenue producing projects, held at Thomson Field in the past.

Finally, let's not forget that one of the teams playing that night has the recreation director and his assistant on their roster.

This flagrant abuse of their positions for personal gain and profit must come to an end. These obvious conflicts of interest are alien to the public positions they hold. The purpose of the recreation department is to design and administer programs that the citizens of the community can participate in and enjoy.

The position of recreation director demands qualities such as integrity, honesty, a sense of fair play, impartiality, and dedication; qualities foreign to the current director and his assistant. It's time to wake up, Northville, and find out what's going on at 303 West Main.

Sincerely,
A concerned citizen
and recreation participant

Thanks ball workers

To the Editor:

Last weekend a regional baseball federation tournament was held at the Northville High School field. Teams of 13 and 14 year old boys were from Detroit, Utica, Dearborn Heights, Riverview and Northville.

A special thank you to the tournament committee that sponsored and organized the entire tournament and did an outstanding job.

Members of the committee were the chairmen — John Swienkowski and Bob Frellick — and included Bud Bell, Ken Dominique, Dave Longridge, Dennis Nielsen, Mick Havalala and Ed Kritzcz. A special commendation to Ed Kritzcz and his crew for their splendid work on the baseball diamond. A special thank you to all the young boys and girls who served as ball retrievers.

All in all, it was a fine weekend and a fine experience for all of us.

Thanks to all who contributed and a special salute to Bob Frellick for all his hard work and enthusiasm.

Dumpers observed

To the Editor:

It seems there are persons who feel by not paying for rubbish and garbage removal this past summer (Northville Colony and Commons) they are not seen as the tan station wagon drives up and deposits three (or) four bags of trash in the dumpster at Winchester School on Sundays and Wednesday evenings.

All it takes is trying to get your license number and a call to our police and you'll be in for a rude awakening.

Seen but soon it'll catch up with you.

Geake named to registration oversight group

State Senator Robert Geake (R-Northville) has been appointed to a special Senate Oversight Committee to monitor the voter registration programs in Michigan high schools.

"Under a law which took effect in July, 1979, eligible students may be registered to vote by properly certified personnel in each high school," Geake explained.

"Given the large number of high schools in the state and the large number of township, city and village clerks who are affected by the law, it is necessary that everything possible be done to ensure that the law is implemented smoothly and effectively," Geake added.

The two-term senator from western Wayne County pointed out that the law serves to broaden citizen involvement in the elective process.

"Based on the low voter interest in past elections among young people old enough to vote, I believe that registering those youth to vote is one of the best ways to get more of them involved in the electoral process," Geake said.

The committee is to report its findings and recommendations on implementation of the high school voter registration law to the Michigan Legislature no later than December 31, 1982.

Conference ideas studied

Recommendations to improve the state's economic climate made by the Michigan Conference on Small Business reached the state senate floor recently.

Senate majority leader William Faust (D-Westland) urged the legislature to review the recommendations.

"Over the past fifteen months, the 1,450 small business participants in this conference have met to help formulate action designed to strengthen the prosperity of our state," Faust said.

Noting that the conference was a joint venture between the state Department of Commerce and the private sector, Faust added the recommendations should receive attention during legislative deliberation and implementation of programs intended to revitalize the economy.

He offered a concurring resolution (meaning the house agrees) that was sent to the Senate Administration and Rules Committee for review when the senate returns in September.

It was not lost on local representatives of the conference that their recommendations will be attracting attention during a session leading into an election year.

"We'll be watching," said Charlie Bakkila, proprietor of Bump Shop Charlie's on Old Novi Road. "We'll be watching very, very closely to see how they vote, and will generate support, or non-support, depending on their (state legislators) votes."

The conference and its recommendations were an outgrowth of the 1980 White House Conference on Small Business.

It offered 60 recommendations, choosing 15 as "top priorities."

Among the recommendations are revisions in worker's compensation rules and unemployment regulation, and elimination of the single business tax in favor of a graduated business income tax.

A sunset law requiring periodic review of state regulations, a right to work law, cuts in state spending and creation of an export division within the Department of Commerce were other recommendations.

Bakkila noted that the recommendations were sent to Governor William Milliken in late June and reached the legislative floor in less than one week.

The governor has indicated he also will give serious consideration to the recommendations.

Kerr house moves around the corner

Last Thursday, just before the August 1 deadline, Kerr House began its move to a new location around the corner on First Street to make room for the post office's planned addition to the west on Cady. In an agreement with the postal service, the city agreed to move the house, selling the property for the expansion. Kerr House had served as the city's senior citizen headquarters until Allen Terrace Senior Center was built and activities were moved there. At left, above, the house first was stripped of its brick siding in preparation for the move. Everything went off without a hitch, City Manager Steven Walters reported. The short move to the property — purchased for the house last month — was without problems.

No push for second police millage vote

By KEVIN WILSON

All's quiet on the police millage front. Despite the apparently encouraging results of last week's school millage election, no one in Northville Township hall is actively pursuing a repeat election on the one mill addition to police revenues that lost by a narrow margin in May.

"There haven't been any discussions along those lines," supervisor John MacDonald said Monday. "We kind of left it up to the citizens committee to come to us. If there doesn't seem to be any public demand for it, why have it?"

In a May 27 vote township residents gave overwhelming approval to renewal of the 1.5 mill levy that has financed the police department since 1976, while rejecting the township's request for an additional mill by a relative handful of votes.

In a special meeting shortly thereafter, the board of trustees discussed the possibility of a second attempt to pass the new millage with representatives of Citizens for Township Police, a campaign committee built around a core of friends and relatives of police officers and expanded to include residents desiring more police protection.

At that time, discussion centered around the perception the chances for passage would improve after the school district had concluded its millage elections and when voters were not faced with a state-wide tax reform plan as was the case in May. The board suggested that the citizen's committee present a petition to demonstrate community demand for increased police service if it believes a second attempt would succeed.

In May, officials said the one mill addition was necessary if the township police force is to field two patrol cars at all times. The money, they said, would be used to hire at least three new officers and purchase and operate an additional vehicle.

With only the renewal millage, it was said, at least one officer would have to be laid off before the current fiscal year is out, perhaps as early as October.

Possible dates for a second election proposed were late August (just outside county restrictions that prohibit two elections within 30 days for the same voters), September and November.

Township officials leaned toward a November date, hoping to "piggyback" the election issue with the county charter election — recently proposed for November 3. By choosing a coinciding date, the township could stand to be reimbursed for election costs from the county.

An August date is now out of the question, as time constraints prohibit the required planning to conduct an election.

Utility cost discussion offered

Rising cost of utility bills will be the topic of a town hall meeting for area residents from 7-10 p.m. this Thursday at Livonia-Churchill High School cafeteria, State Representative Sylvia Skrel (R-Livonia, Westland) announced. Representatives of Consumers Power Company, Michigan Consolidated Gas Company, Michigan

Bell Telephone Company, Detroit Edison and the Public Service Commission will be present to answer questions. Attorney General Frank Kelley and Congressman William Ford have been invited to the open forum. "As a member of the House Public Utilities Committee, I feel it is my prime responsibility to communicate with my constituents and respond to their questions on this issue," Representative Skrel said.

She added that she urges all interested citizens to attend.

Lawmakers Jack Kirksey (R-Livonia, Northville) and Tom Brown (D-Westland) have been invited.

Farmhouse gains distinction

By JEAN DAY

The sequoia-red Victorian house with bisque trim on Rayson just east of Center undoubtedly looks more distinguished today than it did when it was built about 109 years ago.

Owners Kenneth and Jean Harrison are at the end of a five-year plan that — for starters — added a porch, changed the entrance to include a vestibule, expanded the second story, remodeled the kitchen and relocated the garage to make room for a brick patio.

Best of all, the house obviously is blooming with great amounts of loving care bestowed by owners who acknowledge "We're very strong preservationists."

Combine this interest in researching the history of the period with Ken Harrison's woodworking skills and the result is an authentic background for the oak antiques the couple collected when they were first married because, they say, "We couldn't afford new and acquired early in-law pieces and bought others."

Today Jean Harrison views her round oak table and arrow-back chairs and admits she's glad it happened that way as prices have escalated on antique furniture.

The Harrisons gathered such choice pieces as a walnut cylinder-top desk and a Regina disc music box of 1906 for the living room and a hall tree that "is supposed to have come from a castle in Ontario."

When the Harrisons decided to move the front door from the living room, they opened up a small side room on the east end of the house to create an entry. Using old pattern books, Ken Harrison designed an elaborate wainscoting cut on the diagonal with wood from a former courthouse in Pontiac.

He also installed a stained glass window and an old door bought as salvage in Detroit. Using an old pattern again, he etched the glass for the door.

Harrison is an industrial arts teacher at John Glenn High School in Westland where his wife teaches English. It was through Harrison's efforts that the gazebo in Mill Race Historical Village was built by shop students as a class project at John Glenn.

"This house probably originally was not very distinguished. It did not have a lot of architectural detail. There was nothing we had to worry about restoring; so we have done what we call an 'interpretative restoration' of what would have been characteristic of houses of the period," Harrison explains.

There were moments when the couple wondered about the wisdom of their choice after they moved from a care-free condo in Westland.

"We were thinking that renovating meant new wallpaper," Jean Harrison says now. It actually has been five years of such basic work as removing jalousie windows and reconstructing wooden porch pillars, adding second floor bedrooms above, relocating and opening up the stairs to the second floor and redoing a first floor bath.

This bath will be a conversation piece when the home is one of seven open on the Northville Home Tour September 24. The basin is recessed in a large oak dresser. Over it hangs a mirror in a handsome old frame.

The bath is located behind the entry off the dining room. The dining room boasts new dentil trim. Stairs to the second floor also are in the dining room, as was typical of Victorian Michigan farmhouses.

The Harrisons found them steep, and did not like having them enclosed behind a door. They opened up the stairway, turned it and installed an open staircase with massive newel post found at the Saline market.

At the top of the stairway and on bedroom doors are small brass "commemorative" plaques.

"We were very, very fortunate — when we really got 'downers' our friends would come help; so we named the rooms for them," the Harrisons explain.

The first project of the couple after moving in was the kitchen renovation. Tour visitors will find the kitchen-keeping room is a warm oasis with lots of decorating ideas.

A diagonal island holds the stove and is positioned to take maximum advantage of space and its location across from the sink and refrigerator. There is a counter on the other side looking toward "the area we live in," according to the Harrisons. A comfortable couch faces the Franklin stove, and a television sits on a window sill in a bookcase wall. There is another round dining table.

By the door is a peg coatrack fashioned from a piece of bargeboard Harrison found last summer in crawl space under what originally had been the summer kitchen and a shed.

"When we first moved, we fretted about whether the house would have had bargeboard," Harrison recalls, "but I climbed up to the roof and couldn't find any indication. Last summer

The double-ring ceremony was officiated by the Reverend Guenther Branstner.

After the lighting of the wedding candle, the bride and bridegroom presented a red rose to their mothers before exiting from the altar.

The bride's empire style gown was enhanced with a ruffled lace bodice and her wide brimmed hat was trimmed with matching lace.

She carried a bouquet of silk stephanotis and greens surrounded by three fresh gardenias.

The bride's sister Mrs. Douglas (Jeanne) Stenback was matron of honor. She wore a yellow chiffon dress with a ruffled neckline and carried a cascade of silk blue morning-glories, yellow roses, white violets and greens.

Staff Sergeant Ed Millhouse of Monroe served as best man. The bridegroom's brother William Hermann and the bride's brother-in-law Douglas Stenback were ushers.

Harrisons restore 109-year-old home

mer when insulating I found the two strips that would have fit perfectly, but I don't think they ever were installed." Outside the kitchen door, a brick patio is screened with lattice work. In the yard beyond is a one-of-a-kind piece of play equipment for the couple's only child, born in 1976.

"We call it Christopher's attic," his mother explains, saying she had not wanted an ordinary swing set; so the elevated deck house with tire swing was devised.

Home tour visitors will notice the Harrisons' large clock collection as they visit the house next month.

In addition to wall clocks brought back from a trip to Britain and a steeple and an ogee clock, they have an old Coca Cola time clock — as well as a very special new acquisition.

The tall case clock in the dining room is the fourth in a numbered, limited reproduction authorized by Greenfield Village-Henry Ford Museum of its Jacob Ebby clock. Crafted by the Colonial Clock Company of Zeeland, Michigan, during its 75th anniversary year, the early American clock is of hardwood and is duplicated in the exact dimensions of the original. It features three revolving scenes on the clock face.

The Harrisons mention that Northville Clock Man Mel Anderson also has one of the first reproductions.

A plaque on one of the antique wall clocks is the reason the Harrisons found it irresistible. It reads: "Mr. John Laidlaw by the workmen of his employee 1882."

Other accessories so appropriate to the house include a Fitzroy barometer and a mirror sign etched with the words "Home Lodge." In the kitchen-keeping room is an early sampler dated 1798 and signed by the embroiderer, Margrat Murray.

The Harrisons aren't certain of the exact date the house was built as early abstract records didn't include that information. However, it was first taxed in 1872.

Tour visitors approaching the house surrounded by a picket fence will be able to appreciate the exterior painting that is a result of a visit to San Francisco.

"We used bolder colors after looking at the brightly painted ones there," Harrison says. Trim is basically bisque but also includes cream on woodwork details, contrasting with the red paint that leans toward a rust tone.

The porch roof is painted a soft, sky-blue on advice of former neighbor Donald Fee, also an active worker in Northville Historical Society. He told the Harrisons that all Victorian homes had porch roofs in that shade — "so when you sat in the swing and glanced up, it looked like sky."

The 1981 home tour, co-sponsored by the Women's Association of First Presbyterian Church and Northville Historical Society, will include seven homes ranging from a former barn to Victorian and contemporary.

Nursery workshops set

Creative Day Nursery will be holding two week-long workshops August 10-14 at Mill Race Historical Village for preschoolers and children ages 7-12.

Outdoor exploratory drama will be offered from 9:30-11 a.m. each day for children ages 4 to 6.

The workshop will explore drama through story, poetry, music, rhythm and dance. Much of the material for the workshop has been written by Creative Day directors Heather Fee and Ellen Wahi.

An outdoor fiber sculpture workshop will be held for children ages 7 to 12 from 12:30-2:30 p.m.

Children will experiment with unusual weaving materials and learn plaiting, tubular weave, strip weaving and dyeing. The aim of the workshop is to build an environmental sculpture on the grounds of the village.

Children participating in the workshop can bring rope, wire, string and any other weavable materials for making the sculpture.

Cost for the five sessions is $25. The workshops will be held outdoors at the Mill Race. In case of rain they will move into the Cottage.

To register for the workshops call Heather Fee at 349-7191 or Ellen Wahi at 349-2161.

School's now freshly painted gray

By JEANDAY

By last Friday exterior painting of Wash-Oak schoolhouse in Mill Race Historical Village was 90 percent completed — and the painters' brushes made final the decision on what color the one-room schoolhouse would be. It's very light gray with white trim.

That's the description of James Harris who has been overseeing work on the building since it was moved to the village during the time he was historical society president.

Ever since the historical society acquired the empty, vandalized and forlorn building standing in a field of weeds on Currie Road in 1974, there has been debate about its eventual color.

As the building — roofless and without additions — was moved into the village in November, 1975, there was discussion about whether the schoolhouse should be painted the typical red to give "a spot of color" to the village. The study continued as it appeared this schoolhouse always had been white.

As funds were raised with Tivoli Fairs, annual dinner dances and auctions, work progressed on the schoolhouse. With a new roof, it stands today on a new foundation. Heat has been installed and electrical wiring's in. In years past, the schoolhouse withstood a stormy protest when a furnace replaced the wood stove. There also was a lively period when washrooms were added to replace the outhouse.

Next step is to finish interior trim, Harris says. After plastering is complete, it will be ready for desks and books. Then, as planners envisioned, school will open for local students to learn what it was like to attend a one-room schoolhouse 100 years ago.

Most recent fundraiser for the Wash-Oak schoolhouse was the historical society auction in the Mill Race during the July 4 celebration. Donations from society members and friends included everything from light fixtures, furniture and paintings to sports equipment — realizing $838 for the restoration project.

Goncalo DaCunha's going home to Portugal

The party hosted by the Frank Fireks of 45134 Byrne Drive Monday night was a farewell celebration for six students and their metropolitan Detroit area host families who have been visiting here from Portugal on the Children's International Summer Village program.

The Fireks, including son Todd, 14, have been entertaining Goncalo DaCunha, 15, from Lisbon.

The family previously has hosted a Swedish student on the exchange program. This December daughter Joleen, 11, will be among 48 children going to a children's village camp in the Philippines. Young people from 12 countries will participate in the month-long adventure.

Mrs. Firek explains that younger participants stay in the children's villages while those who are in the 13-15 age group stay in private homes on exchanges. Todd Firek is planning to participate in such an exchange next year.

Conrad Burkmans celebrated

Twenty five years ago on August 4 Conrad Burkman and Nina Freytag exchanged marriage vows in First Presbyterian Church here. They celebrated their silver wedding anniversary at an open house from 3-7 p.m. Sunday at the Old Base Line home of his parents, the John Burkmans.

The senior Burkmans had collected pictures taken 25 years earlier at the wedding and had them on display for the more than 80 guests to enjoy. Among the guests was one of the couple's attendants, Warner Frank of Dearborn.

Roadside picnic tables to get new look

NEW LOOK—Those rustic wood picnic tables along Michigan highways (top) are slowing being replaced with a new type of table (bottom), which—reportedly is thief-proof, cheaper and easier to maintain.

Rustic roadside picnic tables, for years a symbol of Michigan hospitality, are slowly giving way to a "new breed" of tables along the state's 9,500-mile highway system.

The Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT), which maintains some 3,000 picnic tables at its 76 rest areas, 103 roadside parks and 175 table sites adjacent to highways, is gradually replacing the old wooden standby.

The new design is non-portable, easier to maintain, longer-lasting and virtually thief-proof, say MDOT officials. The design is simple: wooden planks attached to a concrete pedestal serve as benches and table top, while the entire rig is anchored to a slab of poured concrete on the ground.

Currently, approximately 150 such tables stand at rest areas along state freeways.

But the wooden tables, which have been used for millions of picnics since their emergence in the 1930's, will not become extinct, say MDOT officials.

"Eventually, we plan to replace all the wooden tables at our rest areas with the pedestal design," said Ross Wolfe, MDOT's chief forester.

"We will retain them at roadside parks and table sites, however," Wolfe said. "Last year, at least 27 wooden tables were stolen, even though they weigh about 300 pounds and were bolted to the ground. Three tables were stolen from one area, and that's not all that uncommon."

Wolfe said the switch to the fixed design also is spurred by an effort to reduce maintenance costs. The wooden tables must be hauled off to garages each fall where they are stored during the winter, sanded and varnished. In the spring they must be transported back, with only three to four tables fitting into one truck.

"Maintenance of the fixed-style tables is considerably lower," Wolfe noted. "We only remove the wooden boards which serve as benches and surface come winter, and we can haul hundreds of them on our trucks at the same time."

The roadside picnic table began in 1929 when Ionia County Road Engineer Allan Williams, tired of eating Sunday picnics on three stumps, hammered together some discarded boards and placed the "table" along old US-16 in Ionia County. A historic marker now marks the spot.

The state highway department quickly picked up on the idea, and by the 1930's tables were appearing along many state highways. The wooden tables reached such a pinnacle in popularity during the 1970's that the department printed a brochure telling folks how to make them for their backyards.

AG questions mortgage practices

By WARREN M. HOYT

The state's attorney general is working on two separate fronts to protect consumers against questionable mortgage practices.

With the advent of creative financing with spiraling property costs and mortgage interest rates, certain lenders have been adding some "creative" contract of their own with the result being even more costs to the consumer.

Attorney General Frank J. Kelley already has served notice of intended legal action against a Harper Woods mortgage company, which he charged requires homeowners to incorporate as a business in order to qualify for a second mortgage.

Kelley charged the requirement to incorporate allows the mortgage company to bypass the state usury laws and charge more than double the legal interest rate on second mortgages.

The attorney general said that the company, Manor Mortgage, is confusing prospective borrowers on the terms and conditions of credit transactions and is failing to reveal material facts which mislead the consumers and which the consumers could not be expected to know on their own.

pected to know on their own.

By requiring a potential borrower to incorporate himself, Kelley charged the company could usurp the usury law which limits a second mortgage interest rate to 7 percent.

Kelley also has threatened to go to court if two large mortgage lenders do not agree to stop invoking a "due on sale" clause on the mortgages of people trying to sell their homes by land contracts or mortgage assumptions.

Those companies are Detroit and Northern Savings and Loan and First Federal Savings and Loan.

Due on sale clauses require a homeowner to pay off the balance of the loan before allowing a home to be sold on a land contract or assumption.

Kelley said they create an unreasonable restraint on the ability of a person to sell a home.

The attorney general said that other lending institutions invoke the clause but a legal judgment against the two named savings and loans would then compel the others to stop the practice.

Kelley said it was unlikely that persons who had been forced to pay off their mortgages could get any retribution if the practice is stopped.

He charged that the two lenders were invoking the clauses in order to force home buyers to get mortgages at higher interest rates than that of an assumable mortgage or a land contract.

A 1977 Court of Appeals decision ruled regular use of due on sale clauses were unenforceable and an unreasonable restraint on a person's right to buy and sell property. The Supreme Court upheld that decision when it refused to hear an appeal.

A lender can only use a due on sale clause when it can prove that a prospective buyer is a bad credit risk, Kelley said. If the due on sale practice is stopped, there is a chance lenders will try to slow up sales by claiming that people are bad risks, he added.

Kelley said complaints have come in from many people on the practice and realtors have told his office the practice has had a "catastrophic" effect on real estate sales.

Such clauses have been outlawed in other states through legislative action, Kelley reported and added, "but our legislature seems to have a case of judicial timidity."

Joining in on the suit will be the Financial Institutions Bureau, whose director Martha Seger, said routine use of due on sale clauses is illegal and that her bureau will take action against other lenders who improperly use the clause.

Meteor shower slated soon

Highlighting August evening skies are the Perseid meteor shower and three planets — Jupiter, Saturn and Venus, says University of Michigan astronomy professor Richard G. Teske.

Each year in mid-August comes the opportunity to view the dependable Perseid meteors, named for the winter-time constellation from which they seem to come, notes Teske.

"This year the greatest number of them should be observed from the evening of August 11 until dawn on August 12. During this period, each hour, we may witness between 50 and 100 of the sand- and pebble-sized particles flashing into earth's atmosphere and burning up," he says.

Realtors see it as aid

Push for tax-exempt savings

Realtors are urging passage of a bill now before Congress to permit various types of savings institutions to issue one-year tax-exempt savings certificates with the funds tied to home mortgages.

"While far from a total solution to current housing problems, this version of the bill would go a long way toward making homes more affordable," said Robert D. Shimmin, president of the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors (WWOCBR).

"The record level of mortgage interest rates now is effectively barring about 90 percent of first-time home seekers. With the low rate of savings, many thrifts and small banks which furnish mortgage money are having trouble. Part of the problem stems from the rate these institutions must pay to compete for deposits, which in turn forces a higher mortgage interest rate."

Certificates issued under provisions of the proposed bill would reduce the cost of funds of these depository institutions. The tax-exempt interest rate they would pay would be limited to 70 percent of the rate for treasury bills, of about 14 percent. This would drop tax-free interest paid on the certificates to 9.8 percent or less.

"With thrifts needing from one to two percent for operations, we could expect home mortgages from this influx of funds at about 12 percent," Shimmin said. "Such a drop from even a 15 percent rate, would lower monthly principal and interest payments on a $60,000 home, with a 20-percent down-30-year mortgage, from some $607 to less than $494."

He said the tax-exempt status of interest earned on the certificate, up to $1,000 for individuals and $2,000 for couples, would make them attractive to savers and competitive with higher yields from other instruments on which taxes must be paid.

The National Association of Realtors estimates that tying the funds to home mortgages would permit five million people to afford their first home or upgrade their current housing.

Shimmin said that this would mean as many as 25,000 home sales within the WWOCBR territory which includes major portions of Northwest Detroit, Wayne, Oakland and Livingston counties.

"We know there is very strong housing demand building in our area," he said. "Thousands of good homes are listed for sale, but the great share of prospective buyers can't beat the affordability problem. Enactment of this bill would certainly create a great deal of new opportunity for both buyers and sellers."

He noted that passage of the measure would cause an initial reduction in government receipts of $4 billion or more. But, he added that resulting growth of the economy, including creation of more than 400,000 jobs, would more than compensate for the depleted revenues.

Ask the Lawyer

By LARRY KORN

Questions? Address them to lawyer Larry Korn, c/o this newspaper

Q. I was standing by my car, which was parked at the curb, when another automobile came by and struck me. I was knocked to the ground. I went to the hospital where they treated me and sent me home. I have severe backaches, and feel that my injury is getting worse. I only carry no-fault insurance, as my car is an old car. I have no money to pay heavy doctor bills, yet I feel I do need treatment. How do I go about suing the driver of the car that hit me?

A. If you carry even the minimum no-fault insurance policy on your car, you should report the accident and your injuries to your insurance carrier. Under your no-fault policy, they have the responsibility to pay all of your medical bills.

See your family doctor immediately and arrange for him to treat you. If you quickly recover from the back pains that you are suffering, you will have no action against the driver of the car that struck you. You must have serious impairment of a bodily function in order to recover from the other driver.

A simple back sprain or whiplash injury does not come within the requirements of "serious impairment of a bodily function."

Q. I have been married 13 years. Without any fault on my part, my wife took our three children and moved out of the marital home. I have reason to believe that she has a boyfriend. She has moved with the children, however, to the home of her mother.

My wife started suit for divorce and says that she wants the house and furniture, custody of the children, and alimony. I do not feel that she is entitled to any of the things that she demands. Is it possible that the courts will take everything away from a husband when the wife is really at fault?

A. In an 11 year marriage, it is quite likely that your wife may be awarded the marital home and the household goods, furnishings and appliances if she is awarded custody of the children.

In determining custody, the court would look to what is for the best interests of the children. In circumstances such as yours, if your wife is awarded the marital home, the judge, as a general rule, will determine its fair market value and award you one-half of its fair market value to be paid to you by your wife when the youngest child attains the age of 18 years, or when your wife remarries, or when she vacates the marital home, or when the marital home is sold.

If your wife is breaking up the marriage because of a relationship with another man, the court may award you more than one-half of the marital assets of the parties. The court considers fault in determining what each party will receive when the property is divided. The court also considers fault in determining whether a wife is entitled to receive alimony from her husband.

If you care for your wife and children, I would suggest that you make every effort to see a marriage counselor as quickly as possible. If marriage counselling is not effective, then I would suggest that you retain an attorney who specializes in domestic relations.

Q. I am a widow whose husband recently died.

My sole income at the present time is social security. Five years ago, my husband and I purchased a home on land contract. We paid $20,000 down and agreed to pay just interest for five years. After the fifth year, we were to have a balloon payment in which the entire $40,000 land contract balance was to be paid in full. Naturally, with the death of my husband, I have no money to meet the balloon payment. An attorney for the sellers is threatening to foreclose on our land contract.

What can I do to save my property?

A. If you wish to save the house, you would have to obtain a new mortgage on your home. You will never qualify for a new mortgage since you only have the income from social security. If a member of the family will make an application for a new mortgage, you may be able to obtain a new mortgage on the property. However, with interest rates at 16 1/2 percent on new mortgages, it is hardly conceivable that you will be able to make the payments that the new mortgage requires. Though it is difficult to part with a way of life that has become so dear and precious to you, you must take the necessary steps to preserve your equity in your home.

Therefore, as quickly as you can, list the property with a reputable realtor. You might then invest the proceeds from the sale of your house in a smaller home.

You might also consider depositing the proceeds from the sale of your house on a time savings certificate and using the interest income to help you with the rent on a small apartment.

Good luck!

WE PUT THINGS WITHIN EASY REACH !

Reaching people is the goal of all forms of advertising... some are successful and some are not. But of all forms of advertising available, only one has the distinction of being able to consistently reach those people who are ripe for responding to the advertiser's message. This, of course, is the Classified Advertising section of your newspaper. Why? Because your Classified section is aimed at a pre-sold audience... people read the Classified Ads because they are already in the market to buy! It isn't necessary to convince them that they should buy a home or an automobile or rent an apartment, or look for a job or engage the services of a professional... they are already convinced of that need.. what they want is someone who can ANSWER that need.

It is also the only people-to-people medium that is available to every member of the community! Individuals turn to the Classified Ads every day to buy or sell items ranging from pets to power mowers and bicycles to motor boats. And the Classified section is the only place they can reach so many people at such a low cost.

So if you're a businessman or an individual who wants to reach out and pick people who are ripe for your messages, put that message in the Classified Advertising section of this newspaper.

Millage passage means slight cuts in sports

By JOHN MYERS

Ralph Redmond is breathing a little easier these days about the Northville schools sports program.

The athletic director for Northville High School was not too sure how the July 28 vote of a 7-mill, three-year package for the school district was going to turn out. If it failed, then it might possibly have meant no more school-sponsored sports. If it passed, then it would mean some type of budget cuts in the sports program.

So when the voters of Northville approved the request by nearly a two to one margin, Redmond was a happy man not only for the sports program but the entire school system.

"It (millage passage) relieved a lot of anxious moments. Anyone connected with the school and concerned about its well-being had to be relieved," Redmond said at his office Monday morning.

"I think those who realized what would have happened had not the millage passed had to be relieved," he added.

"I haven't met a person close to the schools that doesn't have a feeling of relief and I thank the Good Lord they want quality in the schools," Redmond said.

This was the second time in four months Northville voters were asked to approve a millage request. The board originally asked for a renewal in April of all of the 9.5 mills that had expired this year.

But Northville voters soundly defeated request in an April 4 election, thus prompting one more crack at it by the board after some consultations with a citizens advisory committee and school administrators.

Redmond had a stronger feeling about the July election than the first vote.

"The people who worked behind the scenes calling and contacting the different community groups to help get people out and vote I think was indicative in the number of people that voted (4,259) considering it's summer and people are going on vacation.

"People were stopping in and getting absentee ballots before they left. This shows what a loss it would have been to the community, the kids and schools in general," Redmond said.

Even though sports in the school district were saved by the millage passage Redmond said, "That is not to say some belt-tightening is the order of the day."

Because Redmond has not received any definite communication from the school board, which has approved a $20,000 across-the-board reduction in extra curricular activities for the 1981-82 school year, he still has devised a tentative budget for this year.

"It (budget) does eliminate some equipment purchases scheduled for the upcoming year and will appreciate transportation reductions," Redmond explained.

"But, it will not eliminate any singular sports activity," he added.

If further cuts are required, Redmond said the teams schedules would be reduced in the number of games played. For example, he said if a team was scheduled to play 18 contest it might only play 16.

"This is not unordinary. You sometimes lose games to snow dates or rainouts, like in the case of baseball. But what we will adhere to our are league contests," Redmond said.

If games need to be eliminated from the schedule Redmond said non-league contest would be the first to go.

"In doing so, it would make up a portion of the reduction the amount of money suggested for co-curricular activities. But, there are other areas in co-curricular activities besides sports," he added.

Also, the central school office and the board will be looking at the future financial and economic picture to determine if further reductions are necessary later in the year, Redmond said.

"Hopefully, it won't mean a loss or elimination of a complete program. Just a little more tightening up," he offered.

Another area Redmond is hoping to receive some help is in game management. He said he already has talk to the Northville Boosters Club about helping work certain paid positions for free.

Such positions include ticket taking, security, working field entrances, help the visiting team bus, field officers, medical treatment, ambulance and whatever else the sport being played requires.

But if the millage had not passed, Redmond said it would have been hard to guess what kind of effect would have been created in sports.

"It would have meant a certain loss of co-curricular activities. It would have been so devastating to the core of teachers, the administrative core, the academic core...it no doubt would have meant a zero operational budget because the cuts were so deep," he said.

With all worries about not having a sports program behind the school, all systems are go to begin the fall season.

man not only for the sports program but the entire school system.

"It (millage passage) relieved a lot of anxious moments. Anyone connected with the school and concerned about its well-being had to be relieved," Redmond said at his office Monday morning.

"I think those who realized what would have happened had not the millage passed had to be relieved," he added.

"I haven't met a person close to the schools that doesn't have a feeling of relief and I thank the Good Lord they

Reese squad misses winning state title

So close, but yet so far.

That is exactly what happened to the Northville Pee Wee Reese team in the State Tournament Monday evening at Baumgartner Park in Sterling Heights as it took second place.

In the title game against the Sterling Heights Phillies Monday, the Northville contingent's bats went silent in a 9-4 defeat. It was the third and final confrontation between the two teams in the tournament.

Sterling Heights now moves on to the national tournament in Atlanta, Georgia beginning today, while the Northville squad starts to think about next year.

"We went with full class all the way. We kept our heads high and represented the community well," assistant coach Bruce Griggs said. "The kids were disappointed, naturally. They wanted to win it all."

In the championship game, Northville could only muster one hit in the first four innings against Phillies pitcher John Polowski.

By that time, Sterling Heights had built up a comfortable 6-0 margin on Northville pitcher Bill Jones.

Sterling Heights scored three times in the opening inning and added three more in the third. The squad added two in the fifth and one more in the sixth to capture the victory and the state title.

Northville, however, could not score until the fifth inning when it tallied one run.

George Daraban led-off the inning with a single and scored on a single off the bat of Bobby Malec.

It was the sixth when Northville had its one and only big inning, but it was a little too late.

Brian Baldrice singled with one out and stole second. Bill Jones followed with a walk and Daraban then cracked a double to knock in two runs. A double by Malec scored Daraban.

"It was a nice climax to the season. The kids worked hard all year," Griggs said.

Northville began the double-elimination tournament by outslugging Battle Creek, 16-12. Northville used practically everyone in the ballgame as the team slashed 12 hits. Eric Gala began the game with a homerun.

Against the Sterling Heights Tigers, Northville had the scoring machine cranked up again in winning a 9-4 verdict.

In its first confrontation with the Sterling Heights Phillies, Northville was on the winning end of an 11-4 score.

In the first rematch, the Phillies handed Northville an 11-8 defeat by scoring four times in the bottom of the last inning to set up the championship showdown

Koufax team ousted from regionals

Despite starting both its games strong, Northville's Sandy Koufax blue team could not pull out a victory at the end in the Regional tournament for 13- and 14-year-old boys conducted at Northville High School during the weekend.

In one of the most exciting games during the double-elimination tournament, Utica-Shelby ousted the Northville contingent from the competition with a hard fought 7-6 victory in 11 innings Friday night.

Northville had lost its first game of the tournament Thursday night against eventual champion Riverview, 14-7. Riverview won the title when it downed Utica, 6-4.

In the Utica contest, Northville began the game with some first inning fireworks which produced three runs.

Jay Bartling was hit by a pitch, Mickey Newman singled and Paul Havalala reached base on a fielder's choice. Rick Van Buren walked to drive in one run and Tom Ross singled to knock in two more.

Utica scored twice in both the second and fifth innings to take a 4-3 lead. That lead was short-lived as John Norton blasted a homerun to tie the contest at 4-all.

The score remained tied until the ninth inning when Newman singled to drive home Rob Cannon, who had doubled. Utica came back with a run in the ninth to knot the game once again.

It was not until the 11th inning when the game finally was decided.

Newman again singled home Cannon, who had singled and moved to second on Bartling's bunt single.

But, fate was not to be as Utica came up with two runs in the bottom of the 11th to win the game.

Greg Ryba pitched excellent ball for the last eight innings after relieving starter Newman. Ryba allowed only one earned run, nine hits, struckout five and walked five.

Against Riverview, Van Buren

Dicks, Genitti sail the high seas in Mackinaw race

By JOHN MYERS

"The thrill of victory and the agony of defeat."

Those are the words recited by announcer Jim McKay during the lead-in of ABC's famed Wide World of Sports program. While the words are being read, former soccer great Pele is shown in a moment exemplifying the thrill of victory and, to capture the agony of defeat, a ski jumper is pictured falling off the side of the runway.

Keeping this theme in mind, now picture Northville High School girls swim coach Bill Dicks and businessman John Genitti fitting the mold.

Both Dicks and Genitti participated in the 57th Annual Port Huron to Mackinaw Sailboat Race July 25-27 and each man holds a half claim to the above sentence.

Holding ownership to the thrill of victory is Dicks as he was part of the seven-member crew of Natalie-J, which took first-place honors in their respective Division J class.

On the other hand, Genitti had the misfortune of experiencing the agony of defeat as the boat he was aboard, Gold-digger, lost its mast near the end of the race during inclement weather and had to drop out.

It was the storm Sunday that determined how the boats were going to finish in the race. Good fortune was on the side of Bill Dicks and the Natalie-J crew, but fate was not on the side of Genitti and the Gold-digger crew.

"Sunday, there were winds about 35 knots, gusting up to about 40, with the waves about 10 to 12 feet. It was really rough for about 12 hours and about three of us were feeling bad," said Dicks, who has been sailing for five years. "I was feeling a little bit green and the owner and navigator got sick."

After the storm past, Dicks said the boat rounded the last turn toward Mackinaw with one boat ahead of them and one behind them.

"The one boat ahead of us went in toward shore and parked it (they lost the wind), so we sailed right by them and beat them by 12 minutes. We had stayed in the middle of the channel and kept right in," Dicks explained.

It was not until they neared the docks at Mackinaw, Dicks said, that they knew they had won the race for their division.

"The wives were holding up the number one sign with their hands," he said.

When they reached the dock, it was time for a victory dunking in the water.

"Everybody was thrown in. Boy, Lake Superior is cold. Plus, that was our last set of dry clothes. But, it was worth it because it feels good to win the race," Dicks said.

Things were not as fortunate for Genitti and the rest of the crew of Gold-digger.

"We were coming to Cove Island at 3 p.m. The weather started picking up and we were right where we just wanted to be in the race. We were beating (sailing into the wind as much as possible) toward Mackinaw and the wind started to freshen up," said Genitti, who has sailed for about 15 years.

The winds were about 40 knots, Genitti said, when the mast broke on their boat at about 11 p.m. Sunday night.

"I was sleeping at the time because my watch didn't start until midnight, and went to 4 a.m., when someone yelled, 'mast went down' and that means all hands on deck."

"By the time I got my foul weather gear and safety harness on, a guy was standing there cutting away at the mast and there were 12-foot seas," he added.

It took the crew about 30 to 45 minutes to cut away the mast and sail from the boat, Genitti said, and he was glad to be on a boat with seven other sailors who boasted around 220 years worth of experience combined.

Not only was the mast down, but the radio was out as well, Genitti said. It took awhile before the Coast Guard boat following the race, Brambel, checked on the condition of the Gold-digger boat and its crew.

Genitti noted being out in the middle of the lake with a disabled boat was rather helpless.

"We were in the dead center part of the lake with land three miles away from either side of us," he said.

"It is a sinking feeling," Genitti added.

But, no matter how one does in the Mackinaw race, it is the race to be in during the summer if one is an avid sailor.

"This is the granddaddy of 'em all. The prestige of the race...to say you have been in one. It's a good feeling to say you completed it," Dicks said.

The Class B shuttle relay team of Jane Thompson, Matt DeMattos, Todd Messing and Mary Phillips was edged out of a place in the semifinals, but their performance earned them a ninth-place finish overall.

The Class C shuttle relay team of Randy Jones, Jenny Frey, Kristen Brielmair and Skip Davidovich missed advancing to the semifinals by one tenth of a second. In doing so, this was the best performance of the season for them.

Scott Howard was a bright spot in the dashes for Northville by placing in the top 10 in the 50-yard dash for Class C boys. David Balok and Stewart Kissinger turned in strong performances in the dashes for Class A (14- and 15-year-olds) boys. The coaches, John Monagle and Bruce Turnbull, praised the efforts of Kissinger who moved up an age bracket for the meet.

For the girls, Michelle Craig placed well in the preliminary heats, but not well enough to reach the Class A 75-yard dash final.

In the standing broad jump competition, Nine Wilkiemeyer just missed placing with her leap of 6-8 in the top echelon for Class B girls.

Overall, the coaches were pleased with how the young Northville squad did in making the semifinals and finals in most of the events.

Women to play in golf benefit

Twenty women golfers from the Meadowbrook Country Club, along with 268 golfers from Wayne and Oakland counties, will be participating in the Sixth Annual Babe Zaharias Invitational Golf Tournament next Tuesday at their own home course.

The proceeds from the tournament will be given to the American Cancer Society.

The golfers are representing 22 country clubs from Wayne and Oakland counties. There will be two shot-gun starts with the morning group teeing off at 8 a.m. and the afternoon session teeing off at 1:30 p.m.

Competing for Meadowbrook in the best ball foursome for 18-hole stroke play are: Dorothy Malasky, Barb Shaw, Edie Doheny, Carol McMann, Maureen Wegryn, Kay Heuer, Bobbie Buesser, Betty Hussey, Novella Zinkon, Joy Holloway, Cecyl Herguth and Gisela McCabe.

Also playing in the tournament from Meadowbrook are Julia Lefler, Nancy Blay, Bette Brady, Mary Ann Coopes, Carol Timmer, Ann Padmos, Barbara Chenot and Shirley Seymour.

The two winning teams will compete at the Walter Hagen-Babe Zaharias State Finals in September at Boyne Highlands.

Mildred "Babe" Didrikson Zaharias was an ardent supporter of the American Cancer Society prior to her death from colon cancer in 1956.

Youth tourney rescheduled

Rain, rain and more rain forced the postponement of last week Tuesday's Fifth Annual Junior Invitational at the Meadowbrook Country Club.

However, tournament directors have rescheduled the event for Tuesday at Meadowbrook.

Northville youths competing in the tournament are nine-year-old Brian DeAlexandris and his sister Kristin, 16; Dan Sullivan, 15; and Wendy Sayer, 15. In all, about 125 golfers from 20 country clubs in southeastern Michigan will be competing in the event. Qualifying rounds were conducted in early July for the youths with the winners eligible to compete in the invitational.

Nine holes of play have been slated for boys ages nine through 12 and 18 holes for both boys and girls ages 13 through 17.

Play is due to get underway with an 8:30 a.m. shotgun start.

Other clubs sending representatives besides Meadowbrook are Washtenaw, Dearborn, Plum Hollow, Western, Grosse Isle, Barton Hills, Detroit Golf Club, Forest Lake, Pine Lake, Farmington and Edgewood.

Also sending golfers are Tam-O-Shanter, Burning Tree, Twin Beach, Country Club of Detroit, Lakelands, Lochmoor, Red Run and Orchard Lake.

Physical exams slated

All Northville junior high and high school athletes should mark one, or both, of the following dates on their calendars.

Physicals for all athletes will take place Monday at the high school for junior high and high school students. The boys should report at 5 p.m. and the girls at 6 p.m. to the gym. The cost is $5.

Also, team pictures for high school fall sports only will be taken August 20.
