Ford to re-evaluate valve plant shut down

By KEVIN WILSON

Ford Motor Company will review its decision to close its Northville Valve Plant under a tentative agreement reached between the firm and the United Auto Workers Saturday.

Norm Fultz, president of valve plant UAW local 896 and a member of the national negotiating team that forged the historic 30-month contract proposal, said Monday company representatives have agreed to re-evaluate the decision to vacate its operation here if the contract is ratified.

While Ford spokespersons noted the agreement contains no specific mention of any plant, they confirmed that outsourcing provisions of the agreement indicate a company review of situations like that in Northville.

"I'm very hopeful," Fultz said Monday. "I think it looks pretty good."

He said he is scheduled to meet with labor relations staff of the nation's second-largest automaker here Friday. He is in Chicago today, where the UAW's national Ford council will pass its verdict on the contract. If approved, the agreement would be submitted to the rank and file for ratification.

Fultz said the review here would re-evaluate the company's decision to buy engine intake valves from a non-union Eaton Corporation facility in Nebraska.

Ed Snyder of the Corporate News Division at Ford said the tentative, agreement on outsourcing (the practice of buying parts from foreign or non-union facilities that had formerly been produced in-house) calls for a review of outsourcing decisions made during the 1979 contract due to expire September 14. Ratification of the new agreement would replace that contract and run until September 14, 1984.

The decision to subcontract valve requirements formerly filled by Northville was announced in November, 1980.

Snyder said Tuesday Ford chief negotiator Peter Pestillo has made specific reference to the Northville Valve facility as an example of the pledge to review past outsourcing decisions. Pestillo, who had traveled to Washington, D.C., and was unavailable for comment before press time, also referred to a similar situation in Sheffield, Alabama, Snyder said.

One part of the outsourcing agreement is a company pledge to minimize its impact on the number of UAW members employed. Ford promises to make its "best effort" to replace jobs lost due to outsourcing. This is in addition to a firm commitment that no plants will close due to outsourcing in the next 24 months. The latter commitment is not retroactive and would not apply to the valve plant.

Nonetheless, Fultz said he had no doubt the company was committed to an honest and thorough review of the situation at the Northville plant, which has been officially "closed" according to the company line.

"I heard it sitting across the table from Mr. (Donald F.) Petersen (Ford president) and Mr. Pestillo," Fultz said. "You can't get any higher than that, except from (Chairman Philip) Caldwell, and he's out of the country."

"I believe what they say," Fultz continued. "Before he left, Mr. Caldwell spoke to us and what he said, I believe in. We're all in the same boat, if the boat sinks, we all drown. They're sincere."

Ford lost roughly $1.5 billion in 1980 and during negotiations revealed it will soon report losses of more than $1 billion for 1981.

Assuming ratification of the agreement by the union rank and file, a review could open a whole new ball game at the local plant. The decision to close it was based on several economic factors and the reduced labor costs under the new agreement could shift the balance, Fultz indicated. He said economic provisions of the agreement could be "a big plus for us" during a

Local UAW seeks agreement

If the UAW's Ford national council, voting today in Chicago, approves the tentative agreement reached last week more than 200 members of local 896 at the company's Northville plant will be among the rank-and-file members voting on the contract.

Noting that his members have little to lose in such an agreement, local 896 president Norm Fultz said Monday it is his hope to bring in the first ratification vote in the country.

"We've tentatively set a special meeting for Sunday," he said. "I would hope not to have any negative votes. I'm hoping we can be the first in the country (to ratify)."

Fultz, a member of the UAW bargaining team that reached what is being called an "historic" agreement Saturday, is clearly a strong supporter and sees little reason for opposition in his membership.

Virtually every member of local 896 is on some form of layoff. Those with the lowest seniority have not worked since April last year. Many have exhausted unemployment benefits and the recent depletion of the company SUB (supplemental unemployment benefit) fund left some without any income, Fultz related.

Even if hopes to reopen the Northville plant (see related story above) were dashed later, these workers would benefit from a ratification vote. One clause calls for the company to credit the SUB fund with $70 million, thereby restoring benefits lost by those with less than 10-year seniority. Laid off employees with 10-20 years service lost 20 percent of the benefit and that would be restored under the agreement.

Even a short-term reopening at the plant could be valuable to any called-

Angry residents protest city lights

The new cobra-style street lights being installed along Rogers and in or adjacent to parts of the city's historic district are inappropriate and "look ridiculous," angry area residents told city council Monday night.

Sixteen residents of the west part of the city, including representatives of the newly formed Wing Street Association, attended the session to protest the lighting that was compared to expressway design installation.

Francis Gazlay of 221 South Rogers questioned why the lighting replacement design had not been brought before the city's historic district commission on which he is a member. He also asked if it wouldn't be possible to have the fixtures themselves changed before they are hooked up on Rogers.

Gazlay said he had questioned city officials about the cobra-style replacement lights when he saw they were being installed on South Rogers and was told that the 1920 vintage lights no longer were available from Edison.

"I'm still not sure which streets are getting the new lights, but I was told that they cost less," Gazlay continued.

It was Gazlay who suggested that perhaps the city could consider a three-year replacement plan or that the residents themselves could seek a special assessment district to pay any additional cost more traditional lighting would require.

Kenneth Felt of 116 North Rogers declared, "the lights look ridiculous for a historical neighborhood - I don't think that kind of lighting is appropriate for Rogers. It's going to be terrible. It's commercial."

"We're going to have three kinds of lighting in the city," he pointed out, saying he didn't think it fair to residents who have been living in and keeping up old homes in the west section of the city while paying high taxes.

The item was on the agenda at the request of Main Street residents W.L. and Lynn Paquette.

Mayor Paul Vernon commented he was not aware of the reason for the request but was told by Felt and Gaye Swallow of 318 South Rogers that there has been strong objection voiced to the cobra installations. Swallow questioned why the city couldn't install the colonial style fixtures that are located in Lexington Commons subdivision.

It was explained that those had been installed by the developer.

Colin Dunbar of 531 West Main said he was an Edison employee but was there as a city resident objecting to the fact that Edison has three choices available and that those who live in the area were not consulted about what they would prefer.

Vernon noted that he is chairman of the historic district commission and stated the lighting was not a matter that falls under its jurisdiction.

"Probably no one in this audience finds the lights more distasteful than I," he commented as he asked City Manager Steven Walters to explain the problem the city encountered in conjunction with the Mainstreet '78 construction downtown.

Walters cited the many times the lighting had been shorted out and the patching of wiring that had gone on. With the Mainstreet repaving, he said, it was decided to abandon the existing underground wiring and change the pattern for lighting the Rogers Street area.

Because there has been no lighting at all on Rogers, as residents pointed out Monday night, Walters said the decision was made to connect the new pattern from Seven Mile and have it extend to the west edge of the downtown.

Edison, Walters said, would not rewire the old glass-globe lights.

It was decided to install the cobra-style lights on South Rogers, which, he noted, is not in the historic district, but admitted an error was made in continuing them on North Rogers, which is in the district.

Where the old posts exist on Main and Dunlap, he said, colonial tops will be used.

Swallow asked why colonial lights could not be used throughout, especially when Dunbar quoted an Edison fixed cost of $216 a year per colonial light and $279 for the cobra design. The lights under this plan are installed by Edison with the cost reflecting installation and electricity use.

Walters replied that the decision to use cobras was based on the number - that more colonial lights would have been needed to light an area.

Vernon added that only certain designs are available from Edison and explained that the lights in the Mainstreet area were bought by the Downtown Development Authority, which owns them and buys only the power from Edison.

He also stated that "we have an obligation to meet lighting standards or we could be hit with lawsuits."

Asked if this were a legal requirement, like the plumbing code, Vernon said it was not.

He suggested the residents might petition for a special assessment district and then the city could do cost studies and come up with actual costs on the different options.

"This sounds like hindsight," observed Wilma Albright of 350 South Wing. "Why wasn't this done ahead of time?"

Sidney Stutz (right) battles Al Cousineau in pro division

Stutz passes the puck to raise CARE funds

By JOHN MYERS

Sidney Stutz passes the hockey puck to himself on the left wing...He sets up and shoots, but the goalie makes the save. However, Stutz gets the rebound on defense...He shoots...He scooooores!

Confused and wondering how a guy can pass the puck to himself all over the ice and eventually score?

It's easy when the game you are playing is really table hockey and the players are controlled by metal rods.

Although table hockey is not as popular as video games such as Space Invaders and PacMan or table soccer, it still holds an attraction to Northville's Sidney Stutz and approximately 95 other players from Michigan and throughout the United States.

Stutz, who is president of the World Table Hockey Association, conducted the 10th Annual Maestro Cup Classic last weekend at the Michigan Inn in Southfield.

There were 16 competitors in the professional division who came from Honolulu, Hawaii; Chicago, Illinois; San Antonio, Texas; Worcester, Massachusetts; and Windsor, Ontario, Canada.

City clericals file unfair practice charge against local

Two separate unfair labor practices charges now have been filed by city employees as representatives of the city clerical workers filed their own charge against the union February 3.

Local 2720 of AFSCME Michigan Council 25 AFL-CIO, representing the Department of Public Works employees, had filed a charge against the city earlier.

Both clerical workers and DPW employees await a representational action.

By this week no date had been set for a hearing by the state employment relations commission for the election at which it has been requested that the charges be aired.

The request to have the city council recognize the Northville City Clerical Employees Association as sole bargaining representative for all clerical employees, including library and recreation, (who had been represented by the AFSCME local) was signed by 11 clerical employees last fall.

The action followed a letter written September 23, 1981, in which eight clerical employees stated to Susan Bello, chapter vice-chairman and union bargaining representative, that they had not an opportunity to discuss in a union meeting or to vote on the issue of "super seniority."

It noted that the request had been made to have a meeting so the issue could be discussed and that the chapter chairman had refused. The clerical workers notified her also that they supported layoff and recall of employees by classification.

At issue were DPW layoffs after the city council eliminated trash collections by the DPW and signed a contract with an outside firm to make the collections.

DPW workers laid off because of the change sought to have clerical workers with less seniority laid off instead.

The petition for representational election then was filed October 12, 1981, and an election was set for January 27 of this year. However, Administrative Law Judge Bert H. Wicking set the motion aside on the technicality that the election consent agreement did not concern AFSCME's representation status.

A consent election conference regarding the decertification petition was scheduled for February 1 but was postponed and no date has been set.

Last November Betty Lennox, city controller, and Melanie Robinson, librarian, filed an explanation of the request for independent representation with Judith J. Rhodes elections officer supervisor, Michigan Employment Relations Commission.

It stated the request was being made on three grounds:

Incompatibility as "the nature of the clerical and Department of Public Works duties are so diverse that both groups cannot be adequately served by a single bargaining unit."

Lack of communication as "attempts to the City of Northville Clerical Employees to work within the existing AFSCMA local unit have failed because of lack of communication and mutual respect between the DPW and Clerical, the Union Representative and Clerical, and the Union State Officers and Clerical. This had resulted in the total alienation of the groups."

Discrimination as "clerical employees in the local AFSCME unit face discriminatory practices in meetings where they are out-voted and verbally abused. In addition, the bargaining team does not consider clerical and DPW requests to be of equal importance in negotiations."

In December Lennox and Alice Ritchie, chosen as official clerical representatives, notified the city that the majority of clerical workers had agreed to give up their June 1982 Cost of Living (COLA) payments as other city workers were being requested to do in light of budget deficits.

Because it appeared there would be a transition period between the representational election and re-organization of employees into separate DPW and clerical groups, the city council issued a statement that "the city has no desire or intention of taking advantage of this transition period, and wants the employees to have sufficient time during the transition period to examine their options."

It agreed then the city "shall not make any unilateral changes which affect the DPW or clerical employees" and that the city would work with representatives appointed and if either group reorganizes into a new union and presents signature cards of the majority of its employees the "city will voluntarily recognize that union and will not require a MERC hearing or election."

On January 27 on behalf of Local 25, an unfair labor practices charge was filed with the state and the request made not to hold the February 1 hearing.

The local charged there was an attempt "to fragmentize the unit by severing approximately 13 clerical positions." The charge also was made that the city was encouraging formation of the independent union.

On behalf of the clerical employees an unfair labor practices charge was then filed February 3, citing the fact that the local was making proposals that would adversely affect the clerical workers and stating that untrue statements had been made about the situation.

It stressed that the clerical workers themselves, not the city had instituted the request for separate representation.

Geraldine Fitzgerald's Bushnell series guest

"Streetsongs," a show of exultant songs people are likely to sing as they walk along a street, will be the first program of the year in the Bushnell Performing Arts Series.

Featuring Geraldine Fitzgerald, "Streetsongs" will be presented at 8 p.m. Tuesday, February 23, in the Bushnell Congregational Church's Detroit location at 15000 Southfield Road at Grand River Avenue.

Admission is $7 ($3 for students) and the audience is invited to meet and chat with Miss Fitzgerald at a reception following the program, which will be presented in Fellowship Hall.

Ample, safe lighted, guarded parking is available. Additional information about the performance or tickets is available at 272-3550 during regular business hours.

Miss Fitzgerald has a long list of screen credits which include "Wuthering Heights," where she played opposite Laurence Olivier and for which she received an Oscar nomination. She also starred in "Dark Victory" and most recently appeared opposite Liza Minelli, Dudley Moore and Sir John Gielgud in "Arthur."

"Streetsongs," which she will present next Tuesday, has been performed in a one-hour special over National Public Television as well as at Lincoln Center and the White House.

Bushnell spokesperson Molly Dailey notes that Miss Fitzgerald is not a singing actress. "She is an actress, Laurie Thelen, who explained she was at the meeting as a representative of the Wing Street Association, which met before the council session to object, asked that those who live on the streets be able to have input in the decision.

As cost figures were given by residents, Council member Dewey Gardner said they did not correspond with the ones he had been given and asked to review them.

Walters pointed out that costs were extremely important to the city at this time, recalling that three DPW workers and a police dispatcher have been laid off and that again "we're looking seriously at laying off people."

Gazlay noted that the council agenda included discussion of uses for Wayne and Oakland County block grant money (totaling approximately $60,000 and $15,000 respectively) and questioned if lighting could not be considered.

This was included in the grant discussion later, but Walters said it would not qualify under the guidelines given.

In addition to the style, commonly referred to as "expressway lighting," several residents objected to the brightness of this type of light. Swallow said she now has a cobra replacement in front of her home and does not like it.

Council member J. Burton DeRusha said the council "has a common concern" with the residents and told those attending, "I think you ought to let us talk about it — I think we'll figure out the best way."

Vernon said he was going to ask the city manager to talk to Edison to see cost differences. As the city has an obligation for the basic lighting, he felt any assessment would be only for any differential.

He obtained names of residents to contact and said the city would be studying the matter.

CDC buildings to be examined

More extensive use of existing Wayne County Child Development Center buildings, in development of senior citizen housing is the hoped-for result of action approved by the township board last week.

The board okayed building official Troy Milligan's request that he be authorized to explore the possibilities.

Milligan, a longtime advocate of recycling the buildings rather than demolishing them, said he would like to have architectural students compete to devise a floor plan for renovation.

A proposed senior citizens housing project on the site of the vacated county school has long been in the planning stages and is approaching reality. Despite the worst slump in the housing market of recent years, several potential developers have responded to a prospectus for the project sent out by the Wayne County Economic Development Corporation.

Feasibility studies to date have called for demolition of residential structures on the land and renovation of some community buildings to supply residents with medical, food and recreational needs. But Milligan suggested the living quarters on the parcel off Sheldon between Five and Six Mile should not be demolished.

"There's a lot of potential there," he said. "They (the former residence buildings) are all masonry construction so they're virtually fireproof. Insulating them wouldn't be too hard. The shell (of a building) is about one-third your costs."

Clerk Susan Heintz pointed out that earlier analyses of the compound by the EDC determined that new buildings would be cheaper than renovation in the long run. The primary reason cited has been energy costs.

"But that's assuming you use the existing generating plant and tunnels," Milligan said. "And they're right, that's too inefficient. But if you treat them like any other buildings, use basement or rooftop units, it could work."

The building official indicated he was prompted to explore the idea because at least one potential developer (several have toured the site recently) showed an interest in renovation.

"This fellow from Lansing was wondering why the cost estimate to demolish the buildings was so high," Milligan related. "Then he went out there and saw them and he understood, but he wondered why they couldn't be used instead."

He proposed that the township put up $600 as prizes for a contest among Lawrence Institute of Technology architectural students to lay out a potential floor plan to show developers.

Supervisor John MacDonald said he was not sure it would be legal for the township to put up prize money, so Milligan suggested a private party or even the EDC could do so.

"Certainly it's something we would like potential developers to look at," MacDonald said. "It is up to them, of course, to decide how they would like to tackle the project, but you can certainly pursue information that might help them."

In related action, the board of trustees approved a contract for a $20,000 community development block grant gained through Wayne County.

Bingo proposed as fundraiser

Will bingo become a weekly event at the Northville Community Recreation Building?

Until more research is done, weekly bingo nights at the community building remain another possible fund-raiser to help eliminate some of the $39,000 building deficit.

Commissioner William Bingley researched the proposed idea and presented some of his findings to the recreation commission at last week Wednesday's meeting at township hall.

"Bingo could be a good proposition for us," he declared. Most of the information obtained by Bingley came from a company called Bingo King based in Littleton, Colorado.

The cost to buy the necessary bingo equipment would be around $3,500, Bingley said. Items needed would include a flasher board, a set of deluxe bingo balls, bingo cards, "Early Bird" special cards, glue sticks, bingo markers and ink doobers.

Bingo King also sells tables and chairs which Bingley suggested the commission should think about buying if this fund-raising idea receives approval.

"It would make our building more appealing for rentals. This could accelerate your program," he explained.

Bingley, who plays bingo himself, suggested enough tables and chairs need to be purchased to accommodate 500 people. This would raise the initial purchase price of all equipment to around $7,000.

However, Bingley was not sure of the cost for a license from the State Gaming Commission, and he was not sure of the rules and regulations regarding the operation of a bingo game.

Tuesday night to hold the event was suggested by Bingley, who added if a good game is run, it will become part of the "circuit" of avid bingo players.

Asked how long it would take the commission to break even on its investment, minus tables and chairs, Bingley said about 10 weeks.

Based on an average attendance of 100 people, Bingley said there should be a $1.50 admission fee, $1 for three bingo cards and 50 cents per card for the "Early Bird" specials.

Approximately 15 games should be played with $100 overall jackpot. Also, $27.50 would be awarded for the first "Early Bird" special and $10 for the second special.

The total profit realized for the evening, Bingley said, would be $358. But, he said, other gimmicks could be sold along with the bingo game, such as refreshments.

Commissioners were given a list of recreation accomplishments from 1979 through 1981 and were handed recreation department evaluation forms to return to Personnel Committee-members Jane Watts and Gary Sixt by February 19.

Commissioners were asked to review the two and a half page list of accomplishments and, if they wanted to add anything, to do so under the appropriate heading, Sixt said.

The evaluation forms will be recorded by Watts and Sixt, who will then put together the appraisal and send it to director Ed Kritzcz.

"The whole idea is to give Ed a viewpoint in total," Sixt said.

Commissioner James Nowka wondered how the appraisal was being handled after its completion. "It will be reviewed with Ed before the next meeting," Sixt responded.

Watts also explained a draft form of the goals and objectives for 1982-83 will be presented at the March meeting for the review of the commissioners to make additions and corrections.

In addition, Nowka asked how persons in the community who have complaints can respond to the commission in some fashion. As an example, Nowka said persons in the community could make an evaluation.

Chairman L.T. Sylvestre explained a procedure is being established to handle complaints.

"I think the tools in this area have to be a little better," Nowka said.

The commissioners unanimously approved a motion to send the recreation commission by-laws to both the township board of trustees and city council for their signature.

Kritzcz reported the new thermostat system had been installed in the community building in mid-January, but until the February heating bills arrive it cannot be determined how much money is being saved.

In the closest vote of the evening, the commission approved by a 4-3 vote for the chairman and rec director to check further into the rec department obtaining its own bulk mailing permit and to purchase one if necessary.

Commissioners Nowka, Watts, Carolann Ayers and Jerome Mittman voted yes, while Sixt, Sylvestre and Bingley voted no.

The rec department currently uses the city bulk mailing permit. However, in publications mailed by the department the words "The City of Northville" appear in the return address, which some commissioners felt caused some of the hard feelings about the rec department in the township.

Northville workers saved from Wixom well accident

Two Northville men narrowly escaped death Friday afternoon when they were overcome by poisonous fumes while cleaning a well in Wixom.

Wixom firemen pulled the men out of a 10-foot deep well owned by the C&O Railroad Company located at the end of Manistee Street near Pontiac Trail and North Wixom Road.

The men, 25-year-old Anthony Rivard and 27-year-old Bruce MacGregor, were taken to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital by Fleet Ambulance after the ordeal. Both were listed in serious condition, according to Dr. David Malicke, with Rivard the more serious of the two.

Several hours after the incident, MacGregor was listed in good condition while Rivard was in critical condition in the intensive care unit. Both men have since been released from the hospital.

They apparently inhaled a combination of sulfurous and muriatic gases produced by a chemical reaction from acids being used by the men, employees of Clay Pool Well Drilling of Livonia, to clean the well.

According to Wixom Police Officer Richard Ziegler, the accident took place while MacGregor, Rivard and a co-worker, James Gerulski, were working for the second day at cleaning a well used to service a C&O railway track section house where railroad employees report to work.

MacGregor was the first to go down into the well, where he quickly was overcome by sulfur fumes and possibly gases from muriatic acid, Ziegler said. Rivard then followed MacGregor into the well intending to rescue him but collapsed from the fumes, Ziegler said.

After waiting a few minutes for Rivard to return, Gerulski apparently realized both men had been overcome by the fumes and ran for help, Ziegler said.

Gerulski flagged down a passing motorist and asked her to get help. The unidentified woman drove toward the police station and spotted Ziegler, who was on routine traffic patrol, on the way there.

While driving to the well, Ziegler contacted Wixom firefighters, who met him at the scene within two minutes.

Wixom Firemen Brian Odette and Richard Webb each went down into the well with gas masks to rescue the two men, both of whom were overcome by sulfur fumes within minutes of descending into the well.

Odette entered the well first with a rope, which he tied around Rivard. The firemen, Ziegler and Gerulski then pulled the semi-conscious man from the well. Webb went down next for MacGregor, who was rescued the same way, Ziegler said.

"It worked out pretty well," Ziegler said afterwards. "It sort of gives you tingles. Everybody seemed to know what to do at the right time. They really did their job."

MacGregor and Rivard could not be reached for comment.

Township approves uses for county block grants

Continued work on the Park Gardens sewer project, renovation of a township fire engine and two planning studies are the intended uses of $99,000 in Wayne County Community Block Grants in Northville Township.

The board of trustees Thursday approved the list of intended uses for the 1982-83 fiscal year for submittal to Wayne County grants administration officials. The grants program runs on a July 1 to June 30 fiscal year, one quarter out-of-phase with the township's April 1 to March 30 year.

The $99,000, which Clerk Susan Heintz and county officials "have assured us the allocation for this year" is split into two functions — 80 percent for projects and 20 percent for planning. The township board elected to fund two items in each category.

Park Gardens sewer program continues to receive the lion's share of the money at $78,000. That amount is down from the $85,000 granted in past years, however. The remaining $7,000 has been designated for purchase and installation costs in repowering the township fire department's ladder truck.

The $14,000 allocated to planning functions is split into $5,000 for implementation of covenants and restrictions to insure that a senior citizens housing complex is built the way planners demand, and $9,000 to plan a community park.

The housing complex proposed for the Wayne County Child Development Center would include recreation, medical and food service facilities, but a decision to allow the project to be constructed in phases created a problem.

Responsibility for the support facilities, which on their own offer little or no profit to potential developers, would be insured through the covenants and restrictions.

These must be drawn up and executed by township legal and planning consultants, at an estimated $5,000 cost.

The other planning effort will be focused on a community park to be located on what is now state land on Beck between Five and Six Mile roads north of the state prison site.

Transfer of the property from state to township ownership is being pursued in Lansing, with an eye toward development of the site as a park.

Presenting the list of projects for submittal, Heintz said it was completed after discussion with county grants administrators regarding eligibility of programs. A long list of projects had been considered in an earlier public hearing, but some were found to be ineligible for the grants.

"First of all," she related, "police departments are not eligible. That's because the federal Law Enforcement Administration used to have a grants program. LEA doesn't have grants anymore, but police are still excluded from the block grants."

That put an end to the police request that some grant dollars be allocated toward purchase of a four-wheel-drive vehicle for the department.

Paving of Gerald Avenue, another proposal, also does not meet eligibility standards. Use of grants for engineering purposes requires that the program meet a benefit test defined according to county demographics. For the township, that means the program must be targeted to benefit an area with 29 percent low-income population.

Planning programs need not meet such a test, Heintz said. The federal assumption in allowing use of grants for planning is a preventative measure. Proper planning, the argument runs, stops problems before they start.

The Park Gardens project has met the benefit test in previous years and it is assumed it will do so this year.

Heintz said the ladder truck program could meet the standard if the township argues that it primarily serves the apartment complexes and state institutions in the township. These targets meet the benefits test.

Fire chief Robert Toms had stated during the earlier hearing, however, that he wishes to use the truck more often at house fires. He cited the large size of many colonials in the area, and difficulties in fighting fires from above without such a truck.

He also noted a rapid increase in the use of wood-burning stoves which pose the added hazard of hot sparks landing on the roof and starting fires there.

Heintz noted she also was notifying the county of the township's intent to help residents seeking money for housing rehabilitation under another program.

Applications for that federally-funded program will be processed in May, she said.

Former exchange student returns

"My timing is just right — I've seen no snow in three years," observed an enthusiastic Bill Bowman after he flew in from Australia just behind the first of the three big snowstorms the first week in February.

Still curly-haired and smiling, Bowman was renewing friendships on a two-week visit with the David Totten and Michael Malinowski families.

They were his hosts when he was here from January, 1978, through January, 1979, as an exchange student sponsored by Northville Rotary Club.

Now 22, Bill is fulfilling the ambition he had voiced when here as a high school senior. He was hoping for a career in banking or accounting. He now is in his last year in accounting at the University of New South Wales in Sydney, attending college full time after going part-time and working for two years with the Sydney branch of the international accounting firm of Deloitte, Haskins and Sells.

He knows he has a job with the firm when he completes his studies. In Australia, he will have to work for three years and take an examination before becoming a charter accountant. In five or six years he may be able to transfer to a branch of the firm in the United States, but "that's down the road."

Rotary exchange program chairman Chuck Mann and Bowman had "something in common to talk about" when the former exchange student attended the club meeting last week. Bowman became the program speaker as he updated members on his activities in the three years since he was here. Mann, who is with Holland, Newton and Associates, Certified Public Accountants, still is serving as Rotary exchange program chairman.

At last Tuesday's meeting he introduced Bowman to Fabio Nielsen, current Rotary exchange student from Sao Jose Dos Campos, Brazil.

"Bill has been good at keeping in touch," comments Mann.

"Everyone says I sound the same but look a bit heavier," says Bowman. During his visit, Bill Bowman was kept busy touching base with lots of former acquaintances and friends.

Mayor Paul Vernon, who was president of Rotary when Bill was an exchange student, with his daughter and son-in-law, the Roy Kuckenbeckers, took Bill to the Downs and the following night he accompanied the Vernons to a fundraiser for Representative Jack Kirksey at the Marquis.

Bowman also dropped in on City Manager Steven Walters at city hall and visited Dr. George Aune and Dr. Barbara Campbell at the high school. He accompanied Malinowski to Schoolcraft and met new president Richard McDowell. Bill said he was sorry not to see more former high school classmates but was aware when he came that most would be away at school.

Bowman himself has "gotten a bit involved" on campus in Sydney. He is treasurer of Shalom, the resident society, and is one of nine student representatives on the University Union board of management which runs food outlets and stores on campus. It administers a $1.5 million budget a year as the 18,000 students pay $80 each to the union, he explains, agreeing it is good experience for a future accountant.

In addition to saving for an airline ticket to the United States, Bill bought a four-week American Airlines "fly anywhere" ticket.

He left Northville Monday for a two-week swing that would take him east to New York and Montreal, to Chicago, south to Orlando, Florida, then west to Grand Canyon, Las Vegas, San Francisco and Los Angeles — then to Sydney.

"I may be sleeping on the planes," he grinned. "But it's worth it."

Kensington slates upcoming programs

Looking for something new and unusual to do, but don't know where to go?

Kensington Metropark has a number of different programs lined up in the next couple of weeks.

The first is the "Farm Chores" program at the Farm Center at 4 p.m. Saturday, February 20.

Young and old participants will have the opportunity to feed and water the farm animals and learn about the basic animal care during the one and a half hour work/study program.

Advanced registration is required for this free program.

Another program conducted by the farm center is "Weaving Wool" 7 p.m. Tuesday, February 23.

Weaving wool is demonstrated by farm interpreter Lori Anderson, who also will discuss the history of the craft and cover the basics of weaving wool during the one and a half hour program.

Advance registration is required, and there is a cost of $1 per person.

For more information on these programs, call 685-9105. If no answer, call 685-1561.

There are two programs scheduled at the nature center as well.

The first is the "Enjoying Nature With Your Tot" at 2 p.m. Sunday, February 21.

Naturalist Julie Cerbus will take parents and their three-to-five year old children on a winter nature discovery tour through the use of children's books, games and a short walk to give parents a few tips on how to enjoy nature with their child. Another family program is the "The Winter Sky" at 7 p.m. Wednesday, February 24.

Cerbus will conduct a one-and-a-half hour winter sky watch, and star legends and facts will be discussed.

Both programs are free, but advanced registration is required.

For more information, call 685-1561. A vehicle entry permit is required. The cost is $7 annual or $2 for both senior citizens and daily.

Parson to Person...
FREEDOM
Dr. James H. Luther

The feeling of freedom is exhilarating! The apostle Paul found true freedom, "Stand fast... in the Liberty wherewith Christ has made us free" (Galatians 5:1). Later he insisted: "I will not be brought under the power of anything" (1 Cor. 6:12). Yet, there are today many counterfeiters of real freedom!

Consider the terrible counterfeit called alcohol. This drug costs society more than $25 billion a year. It is responsible for 50% of traffic deaths and 1/2 of all suicides. It plays a part in 1/2 of the 5.5 million arrests per year. Recent studies suggest that heavy drinking increases the risk of mouth and throat cancer.

Drugs are offered to many as means of freedom. But the story of drug usage is littered with broken lives, blown minds, and early deaths.

How long will it take us to accept the truth that Jesus spoke when He said of Satan: "There is no truth in him" (John 8:44). Our Lord gave us the formula for real freedom: the scriptures plus the Savior equals freedom. "The truth shall make you free... and if the Son, therefore, shall make you free, you will be free indeed" (John 8:32-36).

Have you ever experienced true freedom? It is a glorious thing.

Table hockey tourney raises CARE funds

Ivan Sanislo of Madison Heights won the professional division which Stutz has previously won a few times. However, he was unable to qualify for the playoff round, which he claimed did not bother him.

The 32-year-old player was more concerned about running the tournament and raising money for CARE, where proceeds from the tournament are donated.

"We raised $400 this year, and our goal was $500. Last year we raised $200 and we raised $350 prior to that," Stutz said.

Stutz said he was exhausted from the two-day tournament. "The last thing on my mind is table hockey," he declared.

Stutz also ran a novice division with 80 players competing. He mentioned that three-quarters of those players were returning participants.

"That's the one that counts to me. The competition is really great," Stutz said.

One of the main differences between a novice player and a professional, Stutz said, is experience.

"Pros are more experienced in tournament play and they have been playing for years," said Stutz, who hasn't played much in the last two years.

"I have other important things to do with my family, my tire business and other recreational activities," he explained.

The pros also spend more time practicing plays, playing, at least once a week with their own peers and taking different ideas from other players, Stutz said.

Concentration also plays a major part in the performance of a professional.

"The ability to block out external distractions is a key," Stutz explained. A pairs division, which Stutz likes to play, also was a part of last week's competition.

"You can talk to each other and there is more team camaraderie because when you play singles you're all by yourself. You can cheer and encourage each other and point out mistakes, which is nice," Stutz explained. "You have four hands instead of two."

Stutz became involved in the World Table Hockey Association in 1969 when he went to his first tournament in New York. It was there, that he began his push to become president of the WTHA, earning the title in 1971.

He has been running the Detroit tournament for the last 10 years, and noted it is the only major table hockey tournament remaining.

When Stutz first began playing in 1971, there was a four tournament circuit. "In 1975 and 1976, that was the heyday of table hockey," he explained.

Tournaments were hosted in New York, Boston, Chicago and Detroit. However, Stutz cited its current unpopularity to the lack of sponsorship from the now defunct firm which made tournament table hockey games.

However, Stutz claimed is having fun running his Detroit tournament to help raise money for CARE.

"I do it from the benefit point of view," he said. "I'm doing it strictly for the fun of it."

In last weekend's tournament, the novice division was won by Richard Marks of Staten Island, New York, while Jerry March and Mike Bruno, both from Chicago, won the pairs division.

Ford to re-examine valve plant shut down

review of the decision.

Chances of reopening the valve plant might hinge on maximizing use of the space within it. It has not produced exhaust valves in recent years and reliance on the intake valve production alone was cited as one of the economic factors in the decision to close.

Several employees of the plant have suggested, however, that space formerly occupied by the exhaust line could be devoted, for example, to stamping operations for a different engine part.

Throughout the negotiating process there have been signs Ford was not yet committed to completely vacating the site. Deadlines for the final layoff passed, dismantling of equipment came to a halt — the company even continued to feed the ducks beyond the supposed last day.

When layoffs finally struck the final group of high-seniority hourly laborers, they were on a temporary, one-week-at-a-time basis. Fultz pointed out the company has not yet completely abandoned the plant, the reported plan.

He said there are more than 25 hourly employees who have yet to receive notice of indefinite layoff but are on "temporary" layoff. Ford also reportedly has issued a "hold" order that prohibits company facilities, that have received valve plant equipment to install it and also halted dismantling of the plant here.

Company spokespersons would neither confirm nor deny the latter report. Public relations persons did confirm a Friday report (prior to settlement) that several salaried employees of the plant had been ordered to report to work at new locations Monday. Fultz, speaking from the plant Monday, said all were still there that afternoon.

"I don't know what they're doing, but they're all here," he said.

During the closing process, it was reported Ford did not plan to retain any staff at the plant after it vacated. A scrap dealer was said to be in the wings, slated to remove the heating plant the day after the last employee was laid off. An alarm system was being installed in January, reportedly to obviate the need for a full-time security worker.

back workers. Those employed after the effective date of the pact, Fultz said, could become eligible for an unprecedented "guaranteed income stream (GIS)" that would provide workers with 15 years or more seniority an income through retirement.

The program would pay 50 percent of the hourly rate to a laid-off worker with 15 years seniority, plus one percent per additional year up to a 75 percent maximum to paid through the employee's retirement. Benefits would continue during this period and seniority also would accrue to the worker.

Central to the optimism toward the local 896 vote is the outsourcing agreement, however. It demands a review of the plant closing here and would forestall near-term future closings due to subcontracting of parts production.

Between GIS and the pledges on outsourcing, Fultz and other union officials noted, the proposed contract would carry powerful "disincentives" to future closings such as the one announced here. It might come too late for Northville Valve, but given the present situation, Fultz does not anticipate finding any local 896 workers who would say it is "too little." Without the agreement, he noted, there would be nothing at all for workers here.

Ford news relations personnel noted another provision of the contract that could apply — a pledge to experiment at two unspecified locations with a lifetime employment program. Up to 80 percent of the workers at the two locations would be guaranteed jobs for life in a Japanese-like job security program.

The near-total abandonment of the Northville plant right now does not bode well for its chances of being chosen for the experiment, but on the other side of the ledger it has been noted the relatively small number of hourly workers and the predominance of high-seniority employees here might make it attractive by minimizing the cost of the experiment.

750 subscribe to cable in city — meter reading begins

About 750 homes in the city are subscribing to Omnicom Cablevision as the pay cable television construction is almost complete in the area, Omnicom President Peter Newell told city council in his first February session.

The number is about the same as in the township, which he listed as having one 800-subscribers.

A unique aspect of the city installation is use of the cable system for automated reading of water meters. By the beginning of February, Newell told the council, 11 homes were hooked up to have automated readings in a test program.

With the automated system, meters can be read daily, City Manager Steven Walters explained, noting that an advantage to the resident would be quick notification of a leak.

Walters added that DPW employees' homes were among those hooked into the automated reading system as a way to monitor the test.

A cable channel is used to take the meter reading and relay it to a computer. Most of the homes are located in the central part of the system in the test program. Residents in the area chosen were sent letters inviting them to participate and three quarters indicated they were interested.

Systems and Support of Owosso is equipping the selected homes with the advanced Datalet terminals to read the water meters electronically and give the information to the computer through the cable television system.

Special meters made by Neptune Water Meter Company are being used for the demonstration test.

Systems and Support has applied for a patent under the name Datalet for the compact microprocessor that takes the readings and handles communications with the central computer.

Up to 100 homes eventually may get the demonstration, Newell told the council that Omnicom does not carry any "hard R" films.

"We do have 'soft R' but have a lock-out key device we make available to parents at no charge. There is a deposit fee only."

Local documentary programs, such as one featuring summertime activities at Maybury State Park to be viewed next summer, are in process, Newell said.

He added that a local studio has been set up and is operating from the school administration building.

"Local organizations need access to gram blocks of news are updated through the day.

"I think it is going to be one of the most popular," he observed, mentioning that there also will be more in-depth news.

Noting that movie channels are the reason most people now subscribe to the cable network, Newell told the council that Omnicom does not carry any "hard R" films.

Novi man arrested in Winner's Circle Bar theft

In the city...

A 26-year-old Novi man stood mute at his arraignment at 35th District Court February 8 on charges of larceny in a building, city police report. He was released on $5,000 personal bond.

John Johnson was charged with taking three bags full of empty beer cans, total value $60, a three-quarters full bottle of Jack Daniels, valued at $10, and a case of beer, valued at $15, from the Winner's Circle Bar, 111 West Main, February 7, police said.

Johnson was found behind a dumpster behind the bar. When questioned by police, he said he had found the beer and empty cans and was going to hide everything there until later, police said.

A witness told police she saw Johnson carrying something from the rear door of the bar toward the dumpster. She also heard the inside bar door being unlocked twice, the report said.

The witness then looked out her apartment door and saw the rear door open and the suspect carrying something toward the dumpster, the report stated. The witness said there were two full plastic bags sitting just outside the rear door.

Police then took Johnson into custody, the report said.

An engagement ring and wedding band, valued at $700, were stolen from a South Center residence between November, 1980, and November, 1981, police said.

The complainant, who reported the items missing February 8, said 20 to 30 persons have been in and out of the home during the above time, and he has no real suspects, police said.

...In the township

Lillian Evelyn Bockelman, 43, of 45 Brookside Place suffered serious injury and was issued a traffic citation for crossing the center line in a February 9 collision on Northville Road, according to township police reports.

The 7:15 a.m. accident also caused injuries to the other driver and minor injury for three young passengers.

Bockelman told police she was driving southbound on Northville Road south of Seven Mile when she lost control of her car in snow and icy conditions, crossing the center line.

Her vehicle, traveling an estimated 10 miles per hour, struck nearly head-on a car driven northbound by 17-year-old Ernest Berryman of Rippling Lane.

Three 15-year-old girls were passengers in the car driving an estimated 20 miles per hour, according to the report.

Bockelman suffered what were described as "incapacitating injuries" and Berryman visible injuries. The three passengers complained of injuries not visible to the officer. All were transported to St. Mary Hospital by Novi Ambulance.

Nearly $1,000 damage was reportedly done to several cars in a string of malicious destruction cases reported to township police February 13.

The owner reported she was at a party and let her car parked on the street.

and property destruction in the Grandview Acres subdivision December 28.

All were released on a personal recognition bond. The 17-year-olds return to court for preliminary hearing tomorrow. The juveniles, both of whom are 16, will be handled by the circuit court because the crimes they are charged with constitute felonies.

The four were suspected in six separate incidents of destruction and theft from automobiles parked on Oppolio, Maxwell, Marilyn and Fry streets, north of Seven Mile in the post-midnight hours December 28.

Apprehended on suspicion of one incident, the four Northville High School students revealed their involvement in the other five. Most stolen property, including tool sets and one radio base station, was recovered and not all affected property owners were willing to prosecute.

The only incident of destruction was damage to Christmas tree lights at one residence. The vehicles from which the items were stolen were unlocked at the time.

Clinic offers vaccinations for dogs

A dog vaccination clinic, open to any dog owner in Michigan, is scheduled for 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., Saturday, February 20, at the Lyon Township Hall, 5700 Pontiac Trail, New Hudson.

The shots at $6 each will be good for three years and will be administered by Dr. Michael McLaughlin of Dr. R.J. Keenan's veterinary clinic in New Hudson.

Power discusses communication revolution

By PHILIP JEROME

The world is about to undergo a radical change that will revolutionize life as we know it today. That was the message imparted by Philip H. Power to the Novi Chamber of Commerce at Fellowship Breakfast Tuesday.

Speaking on the "Communications Revolution," Power said the coming changes in communications technology will alter virtually every aspect of life as we know it today. "We are about to witness the biggest change in the way we work and live since the Industrial Revolution," Power told an audience of approximately 60 business leaders who gathered at the Red Timbers restaurant for the breakfast meeting.

Power is chairman of the board of Suburban Communications Corporation, owner of the Observer-Eccentric Newspapers as well as Sliger-Livingston Publications which includes The Northville Record.

The coming communications revolution, he said, will be created by rapidly-expanding technology in three areas: computers, satellites and cableoptic transmission lines.

"Projections tell us that better than 70 percent of the homes in America will contain some form of a computer within the next few years," he said.

"The French government right now is planning to give each of its citizens a computer within the next five years as a means of revolutionizing their telephone system. Why? In the long run, they believe it will be cheaper to give everyone a computer because they will no longer have to print telephone directories or hire information operators.

"Eventually, there will be giant computer bases scattered across the country which will be able to tap into just about every conceivable piece of information from books and magazines to the stock market."

The second major factor in the coming communications revolution, Power said, is satellites which can transmit information from one part of the world to another within milliseconds.

The third factor is new technology in transmission lines, which are best exemplified by the development of cable television. Whereas information bits previously were transmitted through copper wire, the development of fiberoptic wires permits the transmission of thousands and thousands of information bits every second.

What is necessary for the communications revolution to occur is the ability to interconnect the three components — computers, satellites and fiberoptic transmission lines. "It's a process which has just about been accomplished," Power said.

Noting that Metrovision, Inc., has recently been awarded the cable television franchise for Novi, Farmington and Farmington Hills, Power noted that cable television is on the leading edge of the coming revolution. "Cable will enable people to access an incredible data bank of information," he said. "But, as technology expands, to further interconnect the three components, the revolution will become even more extensive.

As an example of the types of services that can be provided through the expanding communications network, Power noted that the fire department of a small town in Sweden is presently linked into a computer base in Atlanta, Georgia.

"When there's a fire in that town, the firemen type a code into their computer equipment and within seconds receive a complete floor plan of the building which is on fire, including the location of bedrooms, furnaces and everything else the fire fighter must know to successfully fight the fire," he said.

Power also noted that Suburban Communications Corporation is getting increasingly involved in transmitting information through the cable network.

The Livonia-based company presently leases a cable television channel through Metrovision in Redford and is broadcasting daily.

"We've only recently developed the technology to be able to tie directly from the reporter's terminal in the newsroom to our cable television facilities," he said.

Although excited about the future of the communications revolution, Power also sounded a somber note at the end of his address.

"I'm very concerned about the future of the institutions which hold this land together," he said. "America is a heterogeneous country, a melting pot of all types of people from all parts of the world.

As the publisher of community newspapers, he said, he has always viewed one of his responsibilities to develop products which pull people together, instead of pulling them apart.

"But right now in New York, through the capabilities of cable television, there are separate channels for Black Americans, Spanish-speaking people, Polish-speaking people, people who like to watch pornography and people who like to watch nothing but sports.

"The counterbalancing risk of cable television is the fragmentation of separate segments of the community by technological systems which divide us instead of pulling us together."

Community needs determined view

The recent request of a group of Novi residents living in Brookland Farms and Dunbarton Pines to have the school district boundary lines redrawn to enable students in those subdivisions to attend Novi schools instead of Northville schools was well documented and presented effectively at the Novi and then the Northville board of education meetings.

Thursday the request will be heard at a joint session of the intermediate school boards of Wayne and Oakland counties. The hearing, which will be held in Northville, had been postponed because of a snowstorm.

Gordon B. Parker, Brookland Farms resident who was one of those carefully researching and leading the redistricting petition request, expresses his concern in a letter to the editors of both The Northville Record and The Novi News this week regarding editorial coverage of the issue. He notes that the papers have the same general manager but took opposing stands.

This is true — and as it should be. We're proud of the fact that each paper has the editorial freedom to look at the situation and to judge what seems best for the community it serves. In Northville the school board and newspaper understand the identity problem presented, but the issue is deeper than that. For Northville, school officials figure, it would result in the loss of $130,000 in revenue that would mean there would have to be an increase in taxpayer contributions or a cut in programs and services.

However, outweighing this is the fact that there are 568 Novi and Novi Township students enrolled in Northville schools under present boundary lines. To permit the 60-plus to change almost certainly invites others. This would be disastrous to the school system.

It is unfortunate that school district boundaries do not conform to governmental ones, but it is a fact. There are students in the Northville school district who live in the City of Northville, Northville Township, Salem Township, Lyon Township, Novi Township and the City of Novi. Redistricting, if it is done, should not be a piecemeal process.

Parker's comment that it is necessary for those who live in the Novi community to read The Northville Record to hear about school news if their children are in the Northville District is correct. Because Sliger/Livingston Publications, which owns both newspapers, is aware of the situation, it does offer a reduced price subscription of $13 a year that gives subscribers both newspapers. Since one subscription is $12, the price of one dollar more is a news bargain.

Record carriers deserve praise

The warm weather spell which has descended upon the area this past week has left many of us "thinking spring." Melting snow drifts, clear roads and sidewalks and unseasonably warm temperatures have put the recent blizzard-like conditions temporarily out of mind.

There's no doubt that the winter of '82 long will be remembered. Record cold temperatures and blizzard conditions have taken their toll on Michigan residents.

For the past few weeks, schools, businesses and industry temporarily shut doors due to the onslaught of snow which hit the area. However, many braved the nasty conditions in order to get the job done.

At The Record, our primary concern is making sure area residents are provided with the news. Though reporters, editors, photographers and advertising personnel are counted on to bring Northville residents the news about the community, it is the carrier who is depended on to deliver the newspaper to your front door.

The past few weeks have been tough for the approximately 45 Record carriers who have been trudging through the snow delivering newspapers, and we commend them for a job well done.

Like the postal carrier, these youngsters — boys and girls who range in age from 10 to 14 — are relied upon to deliver the newspaper regardless of the havoc wrought by Mother Nature.

From the rest of us at The Record, we thank you.

The coupon caper — double or nothing

Last week's A & P advertisement in The Record was enough to make me want to move to Bora Bora. Across the top of the four-page ad spread were the words "Double Coupon." For the past few years, these two little words have sent me into a state of utter panic. My only thought after reading it was "I hope my mother doesn't see this."

When I walked in the front door that evening, I knew I was doomed. "Guess what?" my mother asked while searching frantically through the kitchen drawers in search of scissors. "Oh no," I thought, "she's seen the paper." Sure enough. Within minutes she was ripping through a stack of newspapers, clipping coupons with lightning speed.

For those who may be unfamiliar with "double coupons," let me explain. As an incentive to economically-minded consumers, grocery stores offer double off on coupon values. Which means your 15-cent coupon is 30-cents off as long as the double coupons are featured.

Double coupons are great for consumers who are trying to save a few dollars. For those trying to maintain their sanity, however, it's another story.

As the daughter of a coupon-crazed maniac, I have spent more than my fair share of Saturdays pushing carts around the grocery store while the almighty bargain hunter searches for items to match her coupons.

Needless to say, I have come to hate this ritual. On weekends when stores are featuring double-off coupons, my mother's up at the crack of dawn ready to play coupon warfare. As the dependable, cooperating oldest child, I get suckered into going along for the ride.

The coupon charade wouldn't be so bad if my mother could control herself. However, she insists on clipping every coupon she can find regardless of what the item is. For instance, we have coupons for everything from bird feed (we don't have a bird) to animal crackers (we don't have any preschoolers, either).

However, to make matters worse, we only buy items for which we have coupons. This means we usually go home with nothing to eat.

On a typical double coupon Saturday, my mother can be found standing in the grocery aisle with her fist full of coupons comparing toilet paper prices. However, she doesn't just compare the price. She'll figure out how many 2-ply tissues are in each roll and how many rolls are in each package. She'll then check the price, how much her coupon is worth and how much it will be when you double the coupon value. After 25 minutes of accounting, she'll throw a package in the cart.

This little "best price" folly continues for each item. While she's playing super consumer I'm usually tearing my hair out or suffering from early stages of frostbite while standing in the frozen food aisle waiting for her to find the best orange juice bargain.

In all fairness, I have to admit that our grocery bill is trimmed down considerably — even though we don't use half the items we buy. I also realize I should be more understanding of my mother's attempt to save a buck. After all, she gets such a thrill when she makes a "killing" at the grocery store. In fact, she's still gloating about the time she had a 50-cent coupon for a $1.09 container of "Soft Soap." That meant it was $1 off with the double coupon deal.

Okay, so we couldn't get the top off the stupid soap. But for nine cents, what would you expect?

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

Thank goodness for Philip Ogilvie. As a member of the legal profession, Ogilvie has developed a fine eye for details.

In addition to serving as city attorney for the City of Northville, Ogilvie also provides an invaluable service to our newspapers. Every Wednesday morning, he scans the pages of the paper in search of typographical errors, misprints, etc.

Apparently we haven't had too many glaring mistakes lately because Ogilvie's visits — and accompanying guffawing — have been somewhat less frequent.

But last week he found a mistake in my column about the way my wife stocks the refrigerator with health foods, and, as is his wont, he dutifully brought it to my attention.

"There seems to be a typo in your column this week," said Ogilvie with that certain gleam in his eye.

"Really, Phil, I must have missed it. 'What could it be?'"

"Down in the last paragraph, it says something about having 29 candles on your birthday guava," he pointed out. "I know it must have been a typo because you wouldn't purposely have tried to mislead people into thinking you're that much younger than you really are."

Needless to say, I was terribly embarrassed. There it was in black and white — "29 candles." Ogilvie was right. There should be more than 29 candles on my birthday guava.

Worse than that, he knows what a stickler I am about getting the facts — even unimportant facts about how old I really am — correct. After all, one of the first rules of journalism is, "Accuracy, accuracy, accuracy."

I don't know who was responsible for that typo in my column last week. But I intend to rectify the mistake immediately.

I'm really 32.

Editorial viewpoints in boundary dispute questioned

To the Editor:
Living in the City of Novi, with children in the Northville schools, we subscribe to both The Novi News and The Northville Record. It was interesting to note that both papers wrote editorials concerning the proposed school district boundary line change for Brookland Farms and Dunbarton Pines in your February 3 editions. It was also interesting that both papers, with the same general manager, took contrasting stands concerning this issue.

The Northville Record, while opposing the request, stated "the reasons for such a request are warranted." The Novi News in supporting the proposed revision, said, "it makes little sense to have students live in one city and attend school in another."

The above editorials really illustrate one of the plights our area is in. Unless our residents subscribe to both papers, they do not receive the full story on any issue that is of concern to us. The unfortunate part of this is the fact that many people do not realize that they must read both papers to get the news from both communities. By reading The Northville Record, it would appear that the proposed change in school district boundaries has no support. This, of course, is not the case as The Novi News is very much in support of this issue.

Cordially yours,
Gordon B. Parker

Township resident welcomed this help

To the Editor:

I would like to thank Northville fireman Larry Simpson for braving six-degree slush and snow in order to change my flat tire. He had passed my car with an effort returned to see if I needed help.

Northville's a wonderful place in which to live.

Thank you, Larry!

Sincerely,
Debbie Gesdorf

Retired carrier tells 'how it used to be'

To the Editor:

A short time ago a friend sent me a clipping taken from the paper (telling) where your postmaster stated that if a piece of mail came to the post office and, even if a number on it was transposed, it would not be delivered but returned to the sender. That sort of thing cannot be excusable, to say the least.

Any old timer can remember me in Northville as I was one of the two first city carriers appointed to Northville's house-to-house delivery back in 1928. H. R. Sonnenberg was the other carrier appointed. He passed away five years later.

My point is this: the clerks would sort the incoming mail to the carriers and, if the clerk found a piece of mail without even an address, they would lay it aside until all was sorted. Then (they) would pass it along to the carriers, and they in turn would look at it and, if it wasn't his, he had a stamp that said, "not for carrier" with his number on it. This was passed to each of the two city carriers and two rural carriers.

If any of them knew the party, it would be delivered without any "if, and, or buts." If none of the carriers knew the party, the clerk would then put it in General Delivery for 10 days. If not called for by then, it would be returned to the sender. Only then.

I had some of the same experience a couple of years ago. I mailed a letter to Joe Litsenberger on Fanner Street. Because it didn't have the number, which I didn't know, it was returned to me. Here, Joe worked at the Northville post office for 30 years, but now retired.

I know some now, at the office, know him. That burned me up for he had lived at the Fanner address for over 30 years.

The only thing I can say to all you Northville people (is) to regret what is happening and just stop and wish it like it used to be in the post office in Northville.

Please excuse my writing as I am not as young as I used to be. I retired in 1960 after 32 years in the Northville postal service.

Yours truly,
Harry S. Belding

Treasury department appreciates story

To the Editor:

In late 1981 you carried one of our press releases about taxpayers who had not received their 1980 federal income tax refunds. The refunds were sent out by the Internal Revenue Service but were returned as undeliverable by the Postal Service. Even after a follow-up notice was sent out, there were still some 1,300 Michigan taxpayers who did not get their refunds.

As a result of such newspaper articles, we received 452 inquiries about the refunds. In most of these instances, it proved to be the correct taxpayer who saw his or her name in the paper, or heard about it from a friend or relative. In one instance, we were able to get in touch with a young lady in Florida who found out about her refund from her mother in Detroit.

Those who found their refund, I am sure, appreciate the fact that you carried the story. We at the Internal Revenue Service do as well.

I wanted you to know the results of this project, to say thanks, and commend you for a really fine community service.

Sincerely yours,
Walter A. Dunnigan
Public Affairs Officer

Allen Terrace residents thank city firemen

To the Editor:

On the 19th of January, a very cold, crisp morning, our firemen, DPW men and police received a call at a little after 9 in the morning that there was something wrong at Allen Terrace.

Sure enough, two sprinklers went off at 342 and 242 apartments. Us gals didn't think that much water could come down. But it did.

The firemen were there to do a tremendous job. As there were two of us whose furniture and personal belongings had to be taken out, they worked hard and (there was) not a scratch or broken piece.

Then came our city workers and the DPW. They worked hard. With all these great men that our city has working, (it) sure makes it a more safe and happy place to make our home. Many times they get a slap in the face and are criticized about some things that are not true. They are human. They are very busy people.

Sometimes they don't know which way to turn, as, that very busy day they had two other calls to make — a gas leak and a house fire. So "hats off" to the fellows — a very big "thank you" for all your kindness and (for) how you can keep cheerful after a day like that was.

Thanks a million.

Joyner helps form 'shadow government'

By TIM RICHARD

One suburban Wayne County Commissioner calls it a "Shadow Government" to make certain suburbia is protected as the county moves into its homerule charter. He is R. William Joyner (D-Plymouth).

Another commissioner says the "Shadow Government" looks more like Joyner's campaign team. "I noticed that with some amusement," said Mary Dumas (R-Livonia).

She added that several things Joyner's team is recommending are already being done.

Joyner held a press conference recently with the group to announce that "those of us living in the other 42 cities and township outside of Detroit are beginning to believe we are being overlooked."

A county public information employee wrote a two-page press release coining the term "shadow government." A photograph of the event was enclosed.

Meanwhile, Joyner sent out his announcement of his 1982 campaign team.

Attending the meeting were:

• Karl Gansler, Plymouth City Commissioner and an "honorary campaign manager" according to Joyner.

• Carol Bodenmiller, Canton Township trustee and another "honorary campaign manager" named in Joyner's release.

• Liz McCarville, "Northville Township Citizen Group Leader" according to the county, and Joyner's community campaign coordinator according to his release. McCarville is one of the founders of the Park Gardens residents' group.

• Janet Keller, "City of Plymouth homeowner and government activist" in the county's words, Joyner's 1982 Campaign Manager, according to his release.

Other officials at the press conference not involved directly in Joyner's campaign were James Reeves, Sumpter Township supervisor; Floyd Bevins, Sumpter trustee; and Don Rusnock, president of the Wayne-Westland school board.

Asked about the similarity of the lists, Joyner said Monday: "It's probably easier, when you're calling a press conference in downtown Detroit, to call your friends.

"These people are also elected officials or civic leaders in their own right. (County Commissioner) James Rashid was there, although he didn't sit at the head of the table (where the camera was aimed)."

"This is not just talk. We are attempting to follow through.

"I just called my friends," he added.

Joyner has already said he will not seek reelection to the county board this year. After county reapportionment, he would up with only a small part of his old district in a new, predominantly Republican district with Dumas.

Joyner is waiting for the state Reapportionment Commission to act on redistricting the Michigan Legislature before announcing whether he'll run for the House or Senate.

The "shadow government" offered a half-dozen recommendations.

The first was for a "transition team" to work with the process of transforming Wayne from a general law county, as it has been since the 19th century, to Michigan's first homerule charter county.

Dumas, whose district also includes Northville, said the proposal already is being worked on in committee. The idea was first voiced publicly by Robert Fitzpatrick, executive director of the Wayne County Economic Development Corporation and a probably candidate for county executive.

Another proposal was for a "special jail task force to ensure the most efficient use of the new county jail upon its completion next year," in Joyner's words. Dumas said such a group has been created.

A third proposal was "that county property at Eloise (in Westland) be better utilized," Dumas said another commissioner already had offered a resolution for a compiled list of all available county properties.

A fourth was that "outcounty communities be given fair representation by the board of commissioners."

Dumas called that a function of the out-county caucus, adding that "Joyner hasn't been there half the time." Commissioner Thomas Presnell (D-Westland) chairs the caucus.

Other Joyner proposals were that candidates for county executive be encouraged to tour county offices and that the road commission fulfill its legal obligation to care for township roads at no additional cost to the townships.

Meanwhile, County Board Chairman Samuel Turner (D-Detroit) announced a list of committee chairmanships which left out the most vocal voices of the suburban bloc. Turner was reelected to a one-year term in January.

Chairing the general government committee again will be Paul Citkowski (D-Detroit).

The Public Works Committee will be headed again by Clarence R. Young (D-Ecorse), who votes with the black bloc and whose district is half-Detroit. Richard Manning (D-Redford) is a member.

Human resources will be headed by Arthur Blackwell (D-Highland Park), another member of the black bloc. Among the members are Presnell (vice-chair), Dumas and Joyner.

Edward K. Michalski (D-Detroit) again will chair the public safety and judiciary committee.

All 27 county commissioners serve on the ways and means committee, which will be chaired by William Suzore (D-Livonia Park).

On the slopes with Northville Ski Club

By JOHN MYERS

It could not have been a more perfect day for skiing. The snow had been falling steadily since about noon Friday, February 6 — the day I would go to Alpine Valley Ski Resort with the Northville Community Recreation Ski Club.

To the avid downhill skier, it was almost perfect conditions. With the two major snowstorms that hit the area prior to Friday's downfall, there was ample snow covering the slopes.

However, the abundance of snow also was creating havoc on the roads. So, when it started to snow steadily again that Friday, the question remained, "Would we go?"

Despite the snow, the ski outing was still on. About 225 of the 364 ski club members, whose ages range from 13 to 17, were glad the evening was not canceled. So was I. It had been at least six years since this sports reporter last "hit the slopes". I was really excited about this assignment, but there also was a little apprehension.

I kept asking questions like, "Will I fall and break a leg?" "Should I take a lesson to learn how to stop after coming down the hill?" and "What have I gotten myself into?"

"Maybe I should have gone skiing at least once before tonight so I don't look like a total fool on the slopes," I thought.

However, all of the apprehensions disappeared once I reached the community building at 4:20 p.m. to get ready to leave. Just a few skiers were in the lobby of the building when my wife Debbi and I arrived. Kids were either sitting around and talking about what happened at school or were playing some of the arcade games.

The crowd grew bigger with each passing minute. Finally, at 4:45 p.m. someone yelled, "The buses are here!" and it was a mass exodus of skiers who filed out of the building and lined up in front of one of the nine buses used to transport club members to the slopes.

There were only 18 people on our bus, but others were filled to capacity. In fact, we had some entertainment provided by four gentlemen in the bus in front of us. They were making faces, pretending to pull their trousers down to "shoot us a moon" and pasting the back of their lift tickets to the window.

While in our own bus, kids were talking loudly, sitting on top of the seats, laughing at jokes being told and listening to a radio someone brought along.

We came to find out these were not unusual happenings as members Jill Roth and Monique Morgano attested.

"Everybody is talking all of the time," said Roth, a second-year member of the club whose brother, John, also belongs.

"People were talking about skiing and things like that," explained Morgano, who is a third-year club member.

However, the drive out to Alpine did not take as long for the other eight buses as it did for ours. The normal 45-minute drive took about an hour and fifteen minutes for us because of a cautious and slow-moving car which we followed from Ten Mile and Haggerty until Oakley Park Road.

The arduous pace had first-year member Bob May sigh, "It's going to be a long day."

And no sooner did May make his remark when someone in the back of the bus yelled, "How much longer (until we get there)?"

After what seemed like an eternity riding in the bus, Alpine Valley was in sight. As the bus made its way to the parking lot, kids started to check their skis, boots, poles and hats.

Once the bus parked, everyone headed for the slopes.

Until it was time to leave, I saw virtually no one connected with the club — due mostly to the fact that the majority of the members were either on the intermediate and advanced hills while I was getting used to skiing on the "Bunny Hill" which is more commonly known as the beginner's hill.

Roth mixed her night of skiing between the intermediate and advanced hills, while Morgano did the same. However, both Kelly Kreutzberg, a second-year member, and Dan Lengyel, a first-year member, skied on the advanced hills known as "Glacier" and "The Ridge".

"The most difficult (hill) is the Glacier. The Ridge doesn't have as many moguls (small mounds on the slope) as Glacier," Lengyel observed.

Most of the night, Lengyel said, he worked on parallel skiing in and out of the moguls. Kreutzberg was working on his jumping on "The Ridge" before someone hit him on the back of his head with a ski pole to cut short his evening's ski activity.

As for myself, I finally mastered the beginner's hill, advanced beginner's and made a run down the intermediate hill before the night ended.

But all of that was not accomplished without taking a couple of breaks, which nearly everyone in the club does.

A consensus among most skiers is to eat something during the first break and then use another just to relax a while before making the final runs down the slope.

Most of the breaks that night ranged from 15 minutes to 45 minutes. What the kids did during their second break varied.

"I played some arcade games with my friends," Kreutzberg said.

Lengyel sat around one of two fireplaces with some of his friends, while Morgano said she and her friends stopped for some hot chocolate and talked.

"We sat at a table and talked about the people skiing there," said Morgano laughing.

Now, what do the nine bus drivers do while everyone else is skiing?

According to Cynde Laramée, the driver of our bus, they go out to eat before heading back to the lodge to play cards until 10:30 p.m. at which time they get the buses warmed up to head home.

And sure enough, the buses were ready to roll when the round-up call was made at 10:30 p.m. for club members. It was not until approximately 11:15 p.m., after program director Matt Sullivan had checked every bus to make sure everyone was boarded, that we headed back to Northville.

Unlike the ride to Alpine, the journey home was much quieter. One of the most popular activities on the trip home is to sleep.

"Everyone went to sleep (on our bus)," Roth observed.

And what did you do? "I went to sleep," she added.

When the buses pulled up in front of the community building around midnight, it looked like a huge used car lot with all of the parents waiting to pick up tired skiers.

For those who had to call home for rides, there was a long waiting line to use the phone.

Another successful evening for the ski club had ended. And for the kids in it, they like it for a number of reasons.

"All of my friends are in it and I like to ski," explained first-year member Lisa Vincenti.

"It's a better cost and you get to ski every week," added Kreutzberg. "It would cost too much by myself."

"I like it," said second-year member Joel Vogt. "It sure beats sitting at home, which is what I probably would have been doing."

Dental Dialogue
of A. Allen Tuchklaper, D.D.S.

CARPENTER'S WIFE CONCERNED
Q. My husband's a carpenter and holds nails between his teeth. Can this be harmful?
A. Yes, it's an abrasive mechanical action that can wear away the teeth. For instance, the teeth of a pipe smoker may show abrasion damage where the stem of the pipe is habitually held. In your husband's case holding the nails between his teeth could cause visible notches on the cutting edges. Make certain you don't produce similar results by holding needles or bobby pins between your teeth. Your husband needs to recognize his habit as a harmful one, and find a safer, if less convenient, spot for his nails.

Plan dinner in historic district homes

By JEANDAY

Mill Race Historical Village is on the eve of the 10th anniversary of its founding by Northville Historical Society, and the society is scheduling special events to mark the milestone.

In place of the annual winter dinner dance, begun as a fundraiser by the society in February, 1973, a progressive dinner benefit is being planned this year. The date is March 27.

Historical society president Francis Gazlay announces that Sonya Lane is in charge of arrangements. Mrs. Lane, who has been active in Northville Newcomers, says she volunteered for the post "to become better acquainted." Dinner arrangements, she adds, are being planned so that everyone has a chance to talk and get to know each other better.

She explains that diners will gather first for cocktails from 7:30-8:30 p.m. in Mill Race Village. Dinner then will be served in about a half-dozen host homes, all located in the historic district of Northville. Then participants will move on to two other homes for dessert. Main Street resident Marian Frohriep is coordinating homes for the event and has signed up Joanne Harris, Alma Coir, Barbara Glover, Lucia Danes and Lynn Paquette to join her in opening their homes.

Karen Hooper and Val Cook are in charge of menu arrangements and will be assigning diners to the homes. Reservations will be accepted for 50 couples at $20 a couple. In addition, each couple attending will be asked to bring one dish. Those making reservations will be assigned dinner hostesses who will call to invite them personally and give out dish assignments, Mrs. Lane explains.

Invitations will be sent to historical society members, Mrs. Lane adds, but everyone interested will be welcome to sign up. She may be contacted for more information at 348-0628.

Tickets are on sale for 'Grease'

Spring offering by the Northville High School drama department will be "Grease." Now in rehearsal, it will be given March 19-20, 26-27 at the high school.

Tickets now are on sale at $2.50 for students and $3 for adults at IV Seasons in town.

'Great Depression' is Newcomers' party theme

Beginning today, Northville Newcomers and Alumni may make reservations through March 3 for two March events. "The Great Depression Party" is certain to be a hit, says President Judee Sweet. It will be held from 8-11:30 p.m. March 13 at Plymouth Cultural Center. The Newcomers plan to "take a step back in time with soup lines, prohibition drinks, silent movies and a silent auction (to which each guest brings an item.)"

Oldie tunes will be played for dancing and those attending are encouraged to wear appropriate attire. Janet Lord chairs the party and is taking reservations at 420-0153. (Cost is a depressed $6 and a passing dish.)

"Plant Potpourri" is the ladies day event for March 10 in Mill Race Village. John Windland, known as the Geranium Cowboy, will be speaker at the potluck salad luncheon. Senior groundskeeper for Oakland University, he is in charge of the greenhouse at Meadowbrook Hall. He will speak on scented geraniums, their care and even on recipes to use geraniums in cooking. His samples will be door prizes. Lani Bond is taking reservations at $3 at 349-2889.

Anyone living in the Northville School District for five or fewer years is eligible for Newcomer membership and may call Ellen VanNoord, 348-8726, or President Sweet, 420-3278. They also may be called for rides, adding, "We would love to help with introductions."

He located 'tons of pictures'—and a family

Because of a conversation following a similar Novi road railcrossing accident a few weeks ago, Dick Hill, the young man we wrote about last week, has found a link to his family's past. He had come to look at Record files, hoping to find a picture of his mother who was killed in an accident on Novi Road in 1947.

Dennis Belleperche was talking with Judy Batzloff about the recent accident when it was mentioned that her aunts had been killed in a similar one years ago. Last Thursday another aunt was contacting Hill by telephone at his Kentwood home. "We have tons of pictures of his mother," the family reports.

Utilize these tax breaks to avoid 'marriage penalty'

The disparity requiring a married couple to pay more tax than two single people will be eased, but not in time to affect 1981 federal income tax returns. Therefore, it benefits married people to search for every available tax break on federal returns.

Since tax rates tend to be highest for married people filing separate returns, it is usually not advisable to file in that manner. However, there are exceptions, such as when one of you has high medical or dental expenses. Then, you should compute your taxes both jointly and separately, and compare results.

It's possible that by filing separately, one of you may exceed the three percent limitation necessary for medical expense deductions, which you would not reach with combined incomes.

Don't forget to take work-related deductions, too. If one of you looked for a job in 1981 and paid employment agency fees, the cost of printing resumes, or traveled to and from job interviews, these expenses may be deductible, even if you didn't find a job.

If one of you was unemployed during 1981 and received unemployment benefits pushing your income past the $25,000 mark, part of those benefits are subject to income tax. If you file separately, all unemployment compensation is subject to tax.

If your income increased significantly in 1981 because one of you went back to work, or you both received large raises, you may be able to cut your tax bill by averaging your income. This lets you total the current year's income with that of the previous four years, average it, and possibly avoid the much higher tax rate.

To qualify for income averaging, add up your taxable income for the previous four years. Take 30 percent of that and add $3,000. If your 1981 taxable income exceeds that amount, you may qualify for income averaging.

The credit for child care expenses may provide tax relief if both you and your spouse work. You can claim 20 percent of expenses for a tax credit of up to $400 for one child and $800 for two or more children. A credit reduces your tax rather than your income, and is worth more than a deduction.

For 1982, thanks to the new tax law, this credit will increase at a graduated rate according to your family income. Here's how it will work: If your income is $10,000 or less, claim a credit for one child up to a maximum of $720 or 30 percent of the first $2,400. For each additional $2,000 in adjusted gross income, the tax credit will decrease by one percentage point, but not below 20 percent.

You can have as much as $200 in qualifying interest and dividends on your 1981 income ($400 on a joint return) without paying federal income tax on it. Beginning with your 1982 return, however, that amount will be cut in half and apply only to dividends. These inclusions are now on a return basis and no longer limited to each spouse's dividend income.

Until April 15 or your filing date, you can contribute to an Individual Retirement Account to shelter up to $1,500 in income ($1,750 with a non-working spouse). If you both qualify as employed individuals, deduct up to $3,000.

These benefits will increase with your 1982 tax return. Each working spouse can contribute up to the lesser of $2,000 or 100 percent of income to an IRA, and then can qualify even if they are covered by an employer plan.

(Prepared by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants).

'Pockets of prosperity' exist in job outlook for June grads

There are pockets of prosperity in the job outlook for June graduates, according to a nationwide recruiting trends survey done by Michigan State University's placement services.

Jack Shingleton, director of placement services, says graduates in certain fields, particularly engineering and computer science, will be in high demand, while the demand has leveled off, or in some cases fallen off, in some non-technical fields.

"What we're finding are pockets of high demand," said Shingleton. "In some areas of engineering and computer science, for instance, there will be more jobs to fill than there will be graduates to fill them."

Patrick Scheetz, assistant director of placement services, said the same is true in other fields. "In education, for instance, there is great demand for science and math teachers, while many elementary teachers cannot find jobs."

Overall, the placement officials said they expect the demand for graduates to be about the same as last year, when 87 percent of the graduates found work within three months of graduation.

The nationwide survey of 428 businesses, industries, government agencies and educational institutions also showed that salary offers to new graduates would be up about 5.2 percent more than offers to June 1981 graduates.

Highest starting salaries will be paid to chemical, electrical and mechanical engineers, who will earn an average of more than $22,000 a year.

Sears catalog marks first sign of spring

While snow still is piled in growing mountains throughout the area, Sears announces that a "harbinger of spring" is en route to some 16 million families.

For more than 85 years, the Sears catalog has not only mirrored what's been happening in the country, but also has directly influenced the shape of things to come.

Sears' 1982 spring-summer catalog, for example, reveals that designer-inspired and designer merchandise at affordable prices is a big issue. The book opens with 12 pages of fashions from Cheryl Tiegs sportswear, nightwear and swimwear collections, and closes with 16 pages of Diane Von Furstenberg home fashion designs for the bath, bedroom and table.

The prevalence of women in the workforce is reflected in such catalog offerings as the "Magic Closet," which groups six classic pieces together for a total of 12 different outfits — all for under $40.

Mustangs gain crucial win over Harrison

By JOHN MYERS

It was pure delirium in the Northville High School gymnasium Friday night. Northville boys' basketball coach Tim Lutes paced the sideline grinning from ear to ear, patting each of his players on the back and raising a fist in the air for joy.

Senior forward Tim Wagner could not find enough of his own teammates' hands to slap and he occasionally flashed the number-one, sign to the hometown fans.

And the fans themselves were cheering wildly, hugging each other and congratulating the Mustang cagers and Lutes.

All of the above happiness was promoted by the Mustangs' thrilling 46-39 victory over Western Six Conference leader Farmington Harrison.

The win puts the Mustangs back in the race for a possible share of the conference title. Currently, Harrison still remains on top with a 5-2 mark, followed by Northville and Walled Lake Western with identical 4-2 marks. Livonia Churchill is 2-3 and Plymouth Canton is 0-6.

In order to clinch at least a share of the title, Northville must travel to both Canton 8 p.m. Thursday and Churchill 8 p.m. Tuesday and win, which will not be an easy task.

"I've been coaching here four years and we have yet to win over there (Canton). It's a key game for us," Lutes explained.

Northville's shot at the title was made possible with a big fourth-quarter effort and strong play from the reserves against Harrison.

The Mustangs blew a 29-24 halftime lead in the third period as the Hawks outscored them, 12-2, to take a 36-31 lead into the final stanza.

"We forgot about being aggressive," Lutes offered.

But the Mustangs remembered in the final period as they limited Harrison to a mere three points while scoring 15 themselves.

The Hawks were leading 39-33 with 6:38 left in the game when Northville made its move. A bucket by Wagner and three points by Doug Eaker pulled the Mustangs to within one when Dave Malinowski made a key play in the game.

Harrison had gone into its slow-down offense. Malinowski came-from-behind and stole the ball from Hawks guard Fred Solomon, dribbled the length of the court and was fouled by Solomon on the lay up attempt.

Malinowski calmly sank both free throws to put the Mustangs ahead for good, 40-39.

"David made a real smart play," Lutes praised.

Four of the last six points scored by the Mustangs came from charity tosses with Tim McLaughlin connecting on a lay up with 26 seconds remaining to seal the win.

One of the keys in the victory for Northville was the play of reserves Eaker, Tim Wagner and John Foley, Lutes said.

Eaker and Foley each scored six points, while Wagner connected for seven off the bench.

McLaughlin took scoring honors with nine points. Steve Handley netted eight, Malinowski six and Carl Lang tossed in four to go along with a team-high 10 rebounds.

Northville's five-game overall and 23-game home winning streaks were snapped by non-league opponent Brighton, 43-41, last week Tuesday.

"Tuesday — all the circumstances were ripe for an upset," Lutes said.

Dave Malinowski paced the Mustangs with 16 points, while McLaughlin added eight.

Northville's junior varsity raised its overall record to 14-2 and its league mark to 5-1 with wins over Brighton, 45-41, and Harrison, 53-41.

Scott Gala was the top scorer against Brighton with 14 points, while Mike Weber topped the Mustangs with 17 points against Harrison.

Two NHS grapplers win conference titles

By JOHN MYERS

Heavyweight Vince Candela successfully defended his title as the Mustang wrestling team took fourth place in the Western Six Conference championships Saturday at Northville.

For the second consecutive year, Plymouth Canton won the championship with 187 points. Walled Lake Western was second with 181½ points, followed by Farmington Harrison with 102½ points, Northville with 100 points and Livonia Churchill with 94 points.

The fourth-place finish by the Mustangs improved upon their last-place standing of a year ago, but Northville coach Gary Emerson was not overly pleased with the performance of his squad.

"We did not do as well as I had hoped," Emerson observed. "We did not wrestle to our potential."

The only other champion to emerge from Northville was Jack Wallace at 138 pounds, who wrestled with a shoulder injury he sustained in mid-January.

Dan Sackllah, at 167 pounds, and Neil Fitzpatrick, at 185, were runners-up in their respective weight divisions. John Latarte took third-place at 132 pounds, while Erwin Morfe, at 105, Neil Hartshorne, at 112, Steve Smith, at 145, and Mike Collins, at 198, all placed fourth in their respective weight classes.

Both Candela and Wallace did what was expected of them, Emerson said, and Latarte turned in a nice performance. However, Emerson was expecting some better performances of his other wrestlers.

The Mustangs will be competing in the tough Temperance-Bedford District Saturday.

"If you get out of Temperance, you have a shot at going to state. The top four heavyweights in this district will probably place in the top six at the state meet," Emerson explained.

Only two matches were needed for Candela to win his second straight title. The senior heavyweight pinned Canton's Alex Young in 1:38 of the first period.

In the championship match, Candela was in command most of the way in winning, 5-0, over Western's John Adams.

It only took two matches for Wallace to win his title. He downed Harrison's Marty Dugas, 5-0, and beat Canton's Brett Harrala in the championship match, 4-0.

Western's Aldo Buttazzoni proved to be too much for Sackllah, who lost the championship match, 16-2. Sackllah reached the finals by beating Churchill's Greg Worley.

Another Western wrestler, Craig McCallum, beat Fitzpatrick for the 185 pound title. Fitzpatrick beat Churchill's Dave Scott and Canton's Don Page to reach the finals.

One of the most pleasant surprises for Emerson was Latarte at 132. Latarte had to replace John Collins, who had surgery for appendicitis in early February.

Latarte lost his opening round match to Western's Rob Westcott, but came back in the consolation round to beat Harrison's Don Stewart and pin Churchill's Oshmia Karadsheh in the finals.

Spikers lose to Canton

Although it may seem hard to believe, Northville girls' volleyball coach Steve McDonald found some positive notes to reflect upon after the team's loss to Western Six Conference rival Plymouth Canton last Wednesday.

The Mustangs lost two tough games, 15-13 and 15-12, in the match to Canton, but McDonald said the overall team play was better than what was displayed in a thrashing by W-Six rival Walled Lake Western at home a week ago Monday.

The girls were more enthusiastic...there was more life, which were good positive signs," McDonald observed. "We started four juniors and two seniors and they played well together and they talked to each other on the court."

As a coach, it was a joy to watch the difference between Monday and Wednesday," he added.

Western humiliated the Mustangs in two straight games, 15-3 and 15-5.

The better play in the loss to Canton had McDonald optimistic about the team's chances to win a match this week. The Mustangs faced South Lyon Monday, travel to Farmington Harrison today and will participate in the Schoolcraft Invitational which begins at 9 a.m. Saturday. Northville also travels to W-Six foe Livonia Churchill Monday.

"We need a 'W' (win) pretty bad. We should do okay (against South Lyon)," McDonald assessed.

McDonald cited the front-line play of Melinda House and Leslie Kucher in the Canton loss.

McDonald had two senior players, Tenley Magdich and Sharon Knauss, resign from the team last week.

Candela signs with Grand Valley

Northville High School defensive lineman Vince Candela signed a national letter-of-intent Friday night to play his college football at Grand Valley State College this fall.

Candela, who also wrestles for the Mustangs, will receive full tuition, books and fees from Grand Valley. "I think it's a good move for him (Candela). Grand Valley is a very reputable school," Mustang head football coach Dennis Colligan said.

The 6-foot-1, 252 pound lineman was in the running for a scholarship until the last minute to play at Central Michigan University, but the Chippewas signed two players who were thinking of attending Michigan State University which then brought Grand Valley in to the picture for Candela. "I think it will work out to his benefit," Colligan said. "I think it's (Grand Valley) a great place for him to play ball. I think he'll fit right into their plans."

Grand Valley is the defending champion of the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, and is coached by Jim Harkema.

Candela was named last fall to the Sliger/Livingston County Newspapers All Area team as well as being selected to the All Western Six Conference, All Suburban and various honorable mention All State teams.

He recorded 51 first hits and 39 assists, as most teams ran away from his side of the field. Candela also had five quarterback sacks and eight tackles for loss. Three other Mustang football players still are deciding where they would like to play their college football. They are Tim McLaughlin, Neil Fitzpatrick and Chris Dimitroff.

Fitzpatrick is meeting this week with representatives of Adrian College, a member of the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association,

Gymnasts make Hawks fifth straight triumph

Winning is becoming as easy as counting "one, two, three, four, five" for the Northville girls' gymnastics team this year.

The Mustangs recorded their fifth consecutive triumph last Wednesday as they downed Farmington Harrison, 102-2-94.

Northville puts its undefeated record on the line against Ypsilanti Monday. The Mustangs host Plymouth Canton 7 p.m. Thursday and Hartland 1 p.m. Saturday.

Mustang coach Debbie Heck said the team has been working well together, but it knows it may lose a meet some day soon.

"They know it's in the cards," Heck said. "But, I can't complain being 5-0."

Senior Paula Broderick was the top performer for the Mustangs against Harrison. Broderick scored an 8.1 in the vault, a 7.2 in the uneven bars, a 7.4 in the balance beam and an 8.25 in the floor exercise.

Amy Aaron also turned in some good performances for the Mustangs. She tallied a 7.7 on the vault, a 5.05 in the uneven bars, a 6.15 in the balance beam and a 7.5 in the floor exercise.

Both Tish Johnson and Wendy Wobermin competed in all four events. Johnson tallied a 5.3 in the vault, a 6.35 in the floor exercise, a 4.05 in the uneven bars and a 4.1 in the balance beam. Wobermin scored a 6.65 in the floor exercise, a 6.0 in the balance beam, 6.7 in the vault and a 5.7 in the uneven bars.

Two other Northville gymnasts competed at the meet. Lisa Whitmyer scored a 2.1 in the uneven bars, while Marian Rothermel scored a 5.5 in the floor exercise.

Despite swimming at home, Northville's boys' swim team lost two dual meets to Detroit Catholic Central and Western Six Conference rival Plymouth Canton last week.

The losses put Northville's overall mark at 2-8 overall and 1-3 in league play. The Mustangs traveled to Inkster Cherry Hill Tuesday in hopes of snapping a three-meet losing skid. Northville also travels to W-Six rival Farmington Harrison Thursday, and will try to make it two straight wins over the Hawks this year.

Canton downed the tankers, 55-27, Thursday, while Catholic Central defeated Northville, 56-21, February 9.

"We swam much better against Canton than we did against Catholic Central," Mustang coach Pete Talbot said.

Seven different Mustangs swam their personal best times in the Canton meet, but Talbot has been a little dismayed at the performance of his junior swimmers this season.

"Some guys are swimming better than others. The juniors are not doing quite as well as I thought, while the sophomores are swimming better than I thought. It has kind of surprised me," Talbot elaborated.

Adam Swallow turned in his best times this season in both the 200-yard freestyle (2:03.5) by seven seconds and the 500-yard freestyle (5:45.9) by 10 seconds.

Vince Shimp recorded his best time in the 100-yard freestyle (57.70), while Tim Walker swam his best time in both the 200-yard individual medley (2:36.3) and 100-yard backstroke (1:06.3).

Chris Behen swam his best time in the 100-yard breaststroke (1:13.4). Jeff Smith recorded his best time in the 500-yard freestyle, as did Capote in the 50-yard freestyle. Jeff Metz scored his best this season in diving.

Swallow was the only swimmer to take a first place in the Canton meet with his performance in the 200-yard freestyle.

Pallas finishes first Triathlon race

By JOHN MYERS

At least Tom Pallas knows he can do it. But whether the Northville Elementary physical education teacher will compete in another Hawaiian Ironman World Triathlon will remain a mystery for awhile.

On Saturday, February 6, Pallas competed in his first Hawaiian Ironman World Triathlon at Kailua-Kona and completed the rugged course in an unofficial time of 14 hours, 55 minutes to place in the top 400 of 585 participants. The winner of the event, 25-year-old Scott Tinley of San Diego, California, completed the course in a record time of 9 hours, 19 minutes and 41 seconds.

What makes the feat special is that

Pallas had to swim 2.4 miles in the ocean, then hop on a bike for a 112-mile ride around part of Hawaii then run a 26 mile, 385 yard marathon all in one day—one event after the other.

The 34-year-old Hamtramck resident was feeling good about his accomplishment, but hedged when asked if he would participate in a second Triathlon. "It's going to be in October and I'm not mentally prepared," explained Pallas, noting the race directors changed the date of the Triathlon to give the participants from the Midwest and East a more equal chance against West Coast participants who can work out outdoors year-round.

"Maybe sometime in the future," he added. "It's like getting through final exams and having to start studying all over again."

It was a series of mini-triathlons Pallas put himself through prior to the event which helped him pass the "big test."

Beginning in October, Pallas rode a bike for three to four hours, ran for two to four hours and swam one-and-a-half miles every Saturday to help prepare himself.

"I really think they were (beneficial)," said Pallas, who said he felt good throughout the Hawaiian race. "I had no sore muscles, no black toes or blisters," he added.

The closest Pallas came to having a significant injury was when he believes a Portuguese man-of-war jellyfish may have stung him while swimming.

"I had three welts on my neck, but it didn't bother me," he explained.

There also was a moment of disbelief before the start of the Triathlon.

"Ten seconds before the start of the race I said to myself, 'I can't believe I'm here'. But with no seconds to go I knew I was here," he explained.

A deeper reality hit during the 112-mile bike ride around part of the island, which Pallas said was the toughest for him.

Because he had to train during the winter months, Pallas set up a bike in his home's basement, removed the front tire and attached two small blowers to the back wheel to simulate road conditions.

But, that was not enough since Pallas believes actual road work would have been more beneficial.

Also, Pallas had to keep reminding himself to keep a steady pace even though other persons were passing him. "I said to myself, 'Okay Pallas, there is a marathon to run, yet, so you have to control yourself,'" he said.

There was a slight mishap, Pallas said, while riding his bike. A Hawaiian boy was not looking while walking backwards across the road in front of Pallas, who yelled and hit his brakes. Pallas scraped his right arm on the handlebars.

The marathon was the easiest, he assessed, and Pallas did most of his running during the night. "It was dark and the moon was out. There was a tiny bit of rain. I just took in the sights as I went along," he added.

With the end of the Triathlon, came the end of three years of training for the event. Now, Pallas said he still will run in one marathon a year as well as do some biking and swimming.

"But not on such a strict a schedule," he explained.

OLV cagers win two games

Two victories helped Northville's Our Lady of Victory boys' seventh and eighth grade basketball team offset a tough loss to Livonia St. Collette in games last week.

OLV downed Dearborn's St. Albert the Great, 32-25, and Redford's St. Robert Bellarmine, 27-11, but fell to St. Collette, 27-22.

It was a tight defense and patient offense which propelled the Cougars past St. Robert Bellarmine in their last home game. John Lobbia paced the scoring attack with eight points, while Sean McLaughlin canned seven and Dan Kozlowski netted six. McLaughlin also dominated the boards with a season-high 16 rebounds.

Lobbia, again, was the big gun against St. Albert as he burned the cords for 14 points and McLaughlin added 10. Lobbia grabbed 14 rebounds and McLaughlin swiped 13 caroms.

In the only loss, St. Collette pulled out the triumph over OLV in the final minutes. Lobbia netted 10 points, while McLaughlin and Doug Martin each canned four points.
