Ford will reopen waterwheel plant

By KEVIN WILSON

Months of negotiation between Ford Motor Company and the UAW paid off last Wednesday when the firm announced it would reopen its Northville facility, closed November 20.

Company and union leaders presented the news as symbolic of their relationship under a new labor agreement.

While Ford said it has not yet decided what will be manufactured and how many will be employed, the commitment to reopening fulfills a pledge to "do everything possible" to save the picturesque water wheel plant.

UAW Vice President Donald Ephlin, head of the union's Ford department, and Local 896 President Norm Fultz told a press gathering on the plant floor early Wednesday afternoon they had that morning received word the facility will reopen.

"I don't think I've had a happier moment in my life," said Fultz, who has been trying for more than a year to save the jobs of the 250 local members he represents. About 40 of those members were present to hear the announcement.

Fultz also was a member of the bargaining team that hammered out a national labor agreement with Ford which made the reopening possible.

Ephlin emphasized that Ford was not bound to open the plant under the new national pact and said the reopening was indicative of the firm's commitment to a new era of labor relations.

Harold A. Poling, executive vice president of Ford North American Operations, employed similar phrases in a statement released late Wednesday morning.

"I believe this (reopening) is indicative of the new relationship that developed during the (national) negotiations and which contributed to the belief that, working with the national and local unions, we can have a profitable operation at Northville," Poling said. "As we observed after the negotiations, consideration of our employees is an important part of our business decisions."

The agreement called for a review of closing decisions in Northville and in Sheffield, Alabama, but reopening was not required. Fultz related that after the union bargaining team voted to accept the agreement, Ford negotiator Peter Pestillo was asked to have the company "take another look at Northville," and he agreed to do so.

According to Ephlin, Ford president

Donald E. Petersen "personally made the commitment that the company would do everything it could to reopen" the Northville plant during formal signing ceremonies.

Ephlin, widely touted as the most likely successor to Douglas Fraser as UAW International president, noted that the Northville plant "became symbolic of our problem with outsourcing—the purchase of parts from a foreign or non-UAW domestic source."

He said it was "ironic" that Fultz was a member of the national bargaining team that had the opportunity to address the outsourcing issue with the company. The Northville and Sheffield workers are both members of the union small parts plants subcommittee which Fultz represented. They are the only plants Ford has closed since 1979 due solely to outsourcing.

Reopening will likely occur by early summer at the latest, union and company officials said last week, after a Ford study determines the best use of the facility. Engine valves, the only product manufactured here since Ford arrived in 1919, may no longer be produced here, however.

While both union and company officials noted the symbolic nature of the reopening, Ford left no doubt it does not intend to lose money here, and the valve operation has been tagged as a loser.

Bill Harris, of the company's public relations department, said Ford still

Local UAW president given credit

By KEVIN WILSON

"This is about the happiest day of my life," the man told the press gathering last Wednesday. "I stuck with it. I stuck with Don (Ephlin). I knew he would deliver. I never really had any doubts."

The speaker is known to some as "Moose," to others as "Bud." He shows up in print as Norman E. Fultz, president of UAW local 896.

Whatever name people know him by, however, there is general agreement he is one of the primary reasons Ford Motor Company announced last week that it had reversed an earlier decision and will reopen its Northville plant.

Fultz and his 17-month fight to save the plant have been praised by both union and company officials from the grass roots to the tree tops with words like "tenacity" and "persistence."

This might surprise some upon first hearing this usually soft-spoken man talk about his efforts. He doesn't wear his passion for the work at hand on his shirtsleeves — it runs much deeper.

There are some, including some in Ford management, who say privately that, but for Fultz, the plant would have been shut down for good in July of 1981, the company's original target date.

But that date was canceled, as were several subsequent deadlines, although production finally came to a halt November 20.

"We tried just about everything we could think of," Fultz told The Record Friday afternoon, chuckling as he finished, "including buying the place."

Virtually every chance to keep the plant open (including a $3 million purchase bid the company rejected) was exhausted when Ford and the UAW moved toward an early opening of contract negotiation nationally and that fortuitous event provided the lever Fultz needed to put things over the top.

UAW Vice President Donald Ephlin, head of the union's Ford department, said Fultz's presence as one of 14 members of the bargaining team that forged the 30-month agreement ratified last month was central to the focus of the negotiations on outsourcing — the practice of buying parts from non-UAW suppliers both here and abroad.

Coming from the man who is the leading prospect to become president of the union, that notice carries weight.

Fultz modestly returns the credit, saying Ephlin and UAW International President Douglas Fraser "were hitting pretty hard on this."

That may be, but Fultz, who has been an employee of the Northville plant since 1955 (when automation was making its first inroads on jobs) and was first elected to the local's bargaining committee in 1970, was firmly committed to keeping the plant open before chances for a new labor agreement were so much as a whispered rumor in some Dearborn corridor.

"I personally never gave up any hope," he said. "It was a long road, but I always thought we'd get there."

Despite Ford's continued position that the production of valves here does not make economic sense, Fultz still contends he and his membership can do that job.

"They say we may not even make any valves, and that's alright, as long as we have jobs," he said. "I'd like to see them bring some valves back, though. I still think we could make 'em cheaper and that'd be good for us and the company."

That conviction arises from a long experience of relatively calm management-labor relationships at the plant and a sense of what others have called "family atmosphere" at the facility.

One might also call it "community," and Fultz is well aware of that aspect of the plant's operation, with most workers coming from Northville and its immediate neighbors.

Fultz himself spent his school years in South Lyon and lived in Northville (on Center) until 1964. He has five children: Norman Thomas, 25; Norma, 21; Marcella, 19; Jeffrey, 16, and Michael, 11. He and his wife Gloria now

NEWS BRIEFS

FIRST ROBINS are being sighted in the area, confirming the calendar notation that spring really did arrive last Saturday. Dorothy MacDermaid reported seeing a fat one in her yard on Horton last week.

TOWNSHIP BOARD will hold a series of meetings Monday beginning at 7:30 p.m. First up is a public hearing on proposed use of federal revenue sharing for 1982-83 fiscal year and a hearing of the township's proposed budget for the year beginning April 1. Adoption of the budget is slated at 8 p.m. Annual meeting of the township, including final reports of officials and the supervisor's state of the township address, begins as soon as budget matters have been concluded.

ONLY FOUR petitions have been taken out for the two school board seats to be filled in the June 4 election. Filing deadline for candidate positions is 4 p.m. April 12 at the board offices. Signatures of 20 registered voters are required.

PARK GARDENS association meets at 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday in Tanger Elementary School on Five Mile Road near Haggerty.

Board president Karen Wilkinson echoed Johnson's remarks and added "I'm tempted to vote 'no' on this motion — I don't want to lose you."

notified officially at Monday night's board meeting, it was aware of the official announcement of Nichols' appointment last Thursday in Royal Oak.

The 21-school Royal Oak district has a student enrollment of just under 10,000 in contrast to Northville's 3,500.

Nichols will receive a three-year contract and will be moving to Royal Oak from Livonia as part of the agreement.

The salary increase was one reason for taking the larger district post, Nichols said. He will be making $57,750 in Royal Oak in comparison to the $51,000 annual salary he nets as Northville's superintendent.

There had been rumors last week that Nichols was one of two or three finalists being considered by the Royal Oak School Board from an initial field of more than 80 candidates.

However, board president Karen Wilkinson told the audience Monday night that his candidacy for the Royal Oak post was not a secret to the board.

"We've (the board) known about this since his first interview almost six weeks ago," she explained.

Last Saturday morning, board members found themselves in the unusual situation of evaluating a

"Overall, the four years that you have been here have been very good and a good period for the district," Chris Johnson said Saturday. "Overall, I am extremely pleased and have seen growth."

Planners grant approval of gas station conversion

City planning commissioners approved, with certain conditions, site and landscape plans for the former Shell gasoline station located on 575 South Main, which owners would like to convert into a family entertainment center.

Commissioners voted by a 5-2 vote to approve the site and landscape plans with the conditions to eliminate two corner ingresses and egresses (Seven Mile and South Main), improve traffic circulation on site and pedestrian arrival land points and to incorporate bike racks outside the parking area.

Chairperson Lesa Buckland and commissioners James Cutler, Luke Durst, Stewart Kissinger and Jay Wendt voted in favor of approval. Commissioners Bruce Turnbull and C. Thomas Wheaton voted against. Commissioners Charles Freydl and Fred Joels were absent.

Part owner Richard Marzak said the operation, which would be known as the Electric Light Room, would be a family entertainment center serving limited amounts of food and ice cream and providing video game amusement.

The gas tank holes from the service station operation have been filled with sand, Marzak added.

Planning consultant Ronald Nino said "the property should be looked at as new business since it is a complete new use of the building."

Among changes Nino recommended in the site plan were installation of a buffer strip between the lot and the right-of-way; closing two of the four driveways; and insuring that the lot could not be within 10 feet of the street right-of-way.

The two driveways could be closed, Nino said, because there is enough space necessary to achieve parking. Also, this would allow for a 10 foot green belt around the property, he added.

For courtyard dining

MacKinnon's seeks cafe approval

Dining or having a leisurely drink at an outdoor cafe while enjoying the results of Northville's Mainstreet beautification may become a reality here when warm sunny weather arrives later this spring and summer.

MacKinnon's restaurant at 126-130 East Main has applied to the Michigan Liquor Control Commission to develop a courtyard cafe at the back entrance of the restaurant.

"It's exciting that someone's thinking of this type of expansion," Mayor Paul Vernon commented as city council Monday night referred the request to serve alcoholic beverages to the police department for a report before the council recommends either approval or denial to the liquor control commission.

Vernon added that the planned outdoor garden cafe is not going to be "just a few tables set out, but a very attractive operation."

In a separate consideration City Manager Steven Walters told the council that with outdoor cafe operations at restaurants downtown becoming a real possibility, there is a zoning ordinance question in relation to parking space provisions.

He recommended that the zoning ordinance be amended to exclude limited outdoor cafe areas when operated in conjunction with an indoor restaurant inasmuch as such use would be seasonal.

He told council that other restaurants also have been considering outside operations.

The council referred the ordinance amendment to the planning commission for its input but also voted to publish it for public hearing April 19, noting that to delay passage could work a hardship in getting such operations going by warm weather.

Councilmember G. Dewey Gardner expressed his endorsement of outdoor cafes, mentioning that "this kind of thing is one of the Mainstreet concepts we had hoped would occur."

The council requested the city manager and attorney draw up a resolution to permit such uses on individual application.

In response to a question of regulation from Dennis Spiker, a member of the audience, the council assured him that the building inspector and city officials would be monitoring requests and would take pedestrian traffic needs into consideration when approving any sidewalk operation.

All requests, whether for an outside flower or fruit stand or for a cafe operation, would be granted on an individual basis, he was assured.

City water rate increase approved; council joins others in lawsuit

While agreeing that the city has no choice but to pass on to users the latest water rate increase from the City of Detroit that will take effect on all bills after July 1, city council Monday also voted to join other area communities in a water rate case against Detroit.

The Detroit Board of Water Commissioners approved new rates and charges that were confirmed by Detroit City Council February 24. Northville's existing rate in the city of $3.20 per mcf. will rise July 1 to $3.68, a 15 percent increase.

City Manager Steven Walters

reported this will require approximately a 12 percent increase in water rates, which actually would amount to a six percent increase in a typical city water user's total water and sewer bill.

City Attorney Philip Ogilvie reported that the city's increase "is small compared with those of some communities." He cited the city's ability to store water during off-peak hours in the water tower as the principal reason.

The council voted unanimously to approve an assessment of two cents per resident to fund an appeal of Judge William Peterson's decision in the Suburban Association of Detroit Water Customers rate case with the City of Detroit.

The appeal is against a 1976 increase of 39 percent that the communities claim had no relationship to costs incurred. Judge Peterson ruled last December the increase was allowable.

The lawsuit now going to the Michigan State Court of Appeals is on the part of 70 communities buying Detroit water.

The court case was begun by Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara, who stated the across-the-board increase was unfair.

Stuart Oil to pay DNR for 1980 oil spill cost

The D.A. Stuart Oil Company has pled "no contest" to charges stemming from an oil spill into Waterford Pond September 29, 1980. Michigan Attorney General Frank Kelley announced March 5.

The Chicago-based petroleum marketer's Northville storage plant at 175 Railroad leaked 2,000 gallons of waste cutting oil into the pond, a branch of the Middle Rouge River. The oil was blamed for death of at least 10 waterfowl that landed in the pond on migratory patterns. A Pontiac humanitarian agency cleaned oil from the feathers of another 80 ducks, geese and swans.

Response to the spill, which Stuart Oil said was due to vandalism at the time, was swift, and most birds affected were treated and the pond was cleaned of oil relatively swiftly. The company has since closed the plant.

"Stuart was fully cooperative with Department of Natural Resources," Kelley said. "The company has spent some $250,000 in cleaning up the spill and will reimburse DNR $1,700 for the costs of its investigation."

Judge Roman Gribbs, of Wayne County Circuit Court, accepted the plea arrangement on the recommendation of the attorney general's office and DNR. He imposed no fine, but placed the company on probation until it pays the

$1,700 due DNR.

Stuart closed the plant in November, 1980, saying a newer plant in Ohio could be operated more efficiently and in a more pro-business regulatory climate. The closing, Stuart officials said, was not related to the spill.

While the company had the building up for sale, a large portion of the structure was consumed in a three-alarm blaze May 6, 1981. A man police said was a vagrant was convicted of arson in the case and sentenced last summer.

The plant is north of Wallis and east of the C&O railroad tracks in the industrial park, just north of Ely Oil. It was originally owned by Mergraf Oil Company, a firm with historic connections in the city.

Waterford Pond lies north of Six Mile Road and east of the railroad tracks in the township. Water flows into it from the north after passing the Ford plant and exits the pond westward under the tracks and Northville Road.

Fines imposed for conviction in such an oil spill can range from $2,500 to $20,000 per day of occurrence under criminal law and a $10,000 per day fine can be imposed under civil proceedings.

The company paid for the clean up operation, however, and pledged to pay DNR costs so was allowed to make the plea.

Schoolcraft blood drive's tribute to Walter Lockhart

Schoolcraft College has designated its March 30 Blood Drive as a tribute in memory of philosophy instructor Walter Lockhart, a Northville resident who passed away February 6.

Former students and community residents are invited to participate in the blood drive which is scheduled from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. in the Waterman Campus Center.

To facilitate scheduling, the college health service would like donors to call 591-6400, extension 388, for an appointment. Those unable to schedule an appointment may still donate on a walk-in basis.

Persons unable to donate on March 30 may contact the Red Cross Center at 422-2771 for a later appointment. All donations through June 25 may still be designated for the Lockhart Memorial Blood Drive.

Residents make donations

Northville residents Mr. and Mrs. Jan Reef donated $1,000 to Schoolcraft College to be placed in an endowment fund in their name which provides scholarships and loans for senior adults. Other Northville residents donating gifts to the Schoolcraft College Physical Education Department included Thomas Johnson, $300; Mrs. Ella Briggs, $100 and Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Luckett, $100. The Northville Branch of the American Association of University Women also donated $10 to the college.

Can you guess where these architectural landmarks are located?

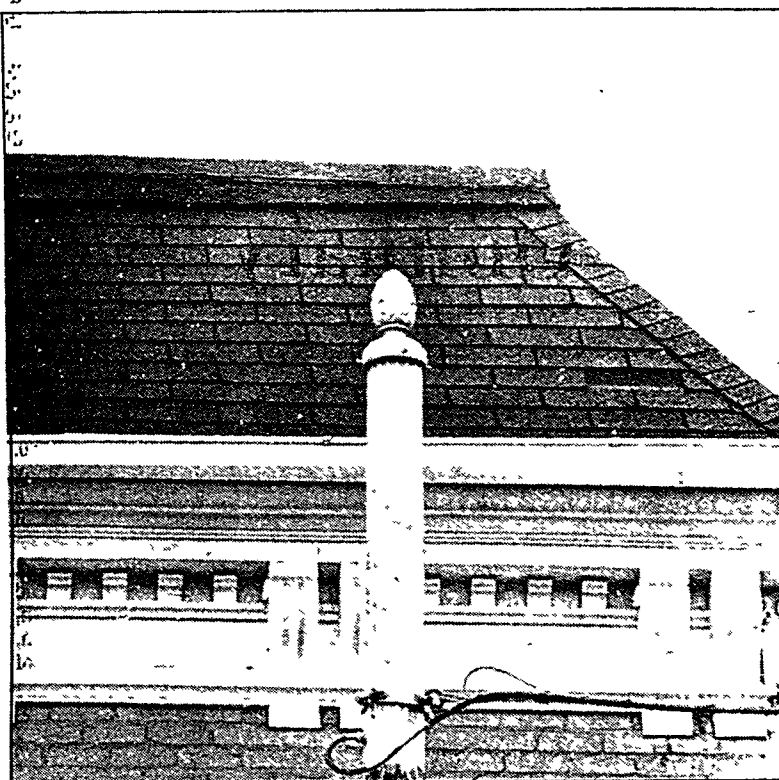

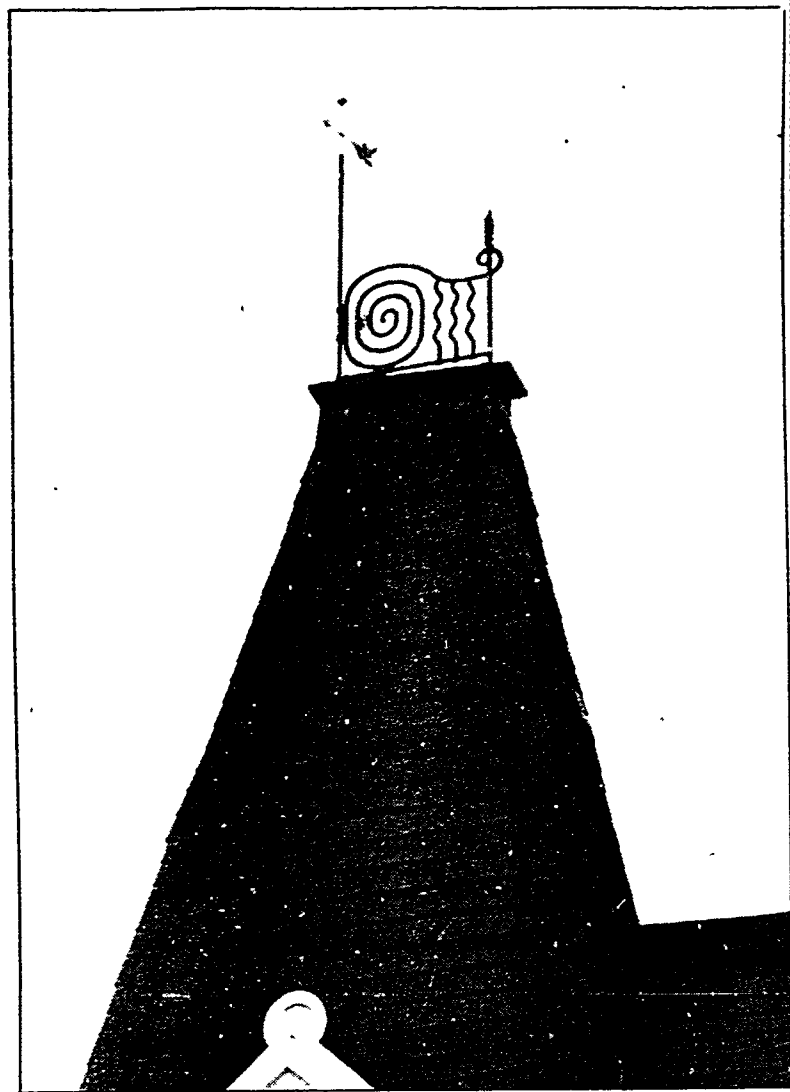

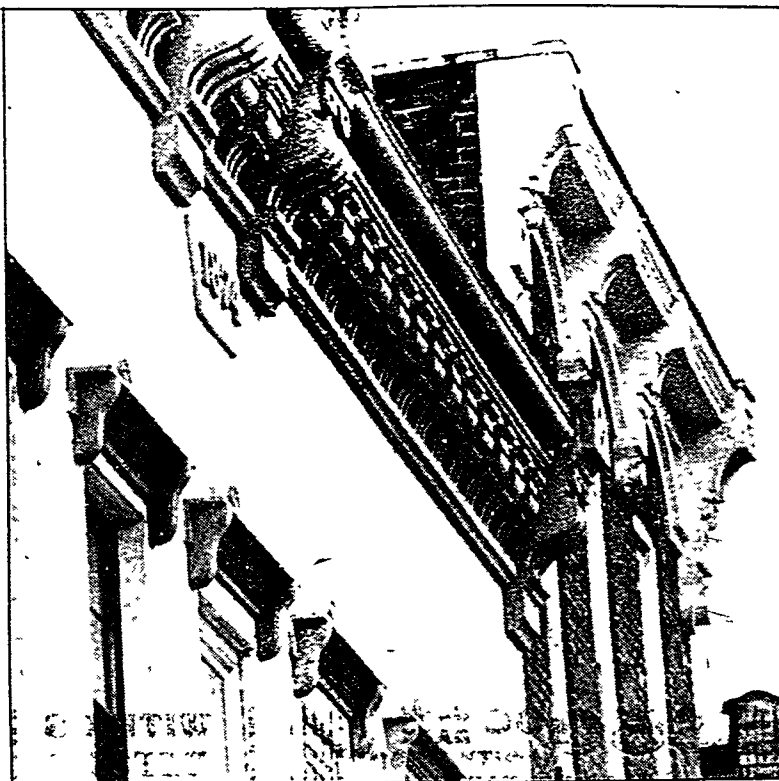

Sunny spring days invite a more leisurely pace — giving time to glance upward. If you don't immediately recognize these architectural landmarks in downtown Northville, they can be identified during a five-minute stroll through downtown.

For armchair guessers, there are identifying details in the photographs taken by Record staff photographer John Galloway. For example, the drama mask has meaning on the building pictured at the left. There's also a clue at the bottom of the shot.

The familiar view of the building cornice, directly below, is included as a reminder of how intricate and handsome our Victorian architecture really is. The classic ornament topping the pole, lower left, is one that goes virtually unnoticed — but (clue) the gray pole has a very necessary purpose.

For those who can't identify these Main Street landmarks, we will do so next week.

Downtown overhead wires to be removed

Those last remaining overhead wires downtown are about to be removed in the final stages of the Mainstreet '78 beautification program.

City council Monday night unanimously approved a resolution required in the Downtown Development project to convert overhead-powered traffic signals to underground power.

The resolution, City Manager Steven

Walters explained, will authorize Wayne County Road Commission to proceed to convert the signals at Main and Hutton, Main and Center and Center and Dunlap intersections to underground power.

Walters said the request will be "hand delivered" to the country road commission maintenance yard to expedite the work. He said the commission has indicated that, if approved immediately, the work can commence this week.

Detroit Edison then will proceed, as planned, to remove overhead wires and poles.

The city expects to have the Mainstreet project completed before Michigan Week when the dedication celebration will be held.

Dedication events, Walters said, will begin at noon on the Thursday of Michigan

Week and continue with festivities through Saturday, planned as a special family-community day.

Because of the special community celebration, Walters told council, the annual awards banquet honoring city employees and members of boards and commissions, usually held during Michigan Week, this year will be held early. It is scheduled for April 22 at First Methodist Church.

Three get nominations

Three Northville residents are among the 19 outstanding young men and women nominated by Congressman Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth) from Wayne County for admission to the nation's service academies.

James S. Belander and John J. Weibel have been nominated by Pursell for the class entering July 1982 to West Point Military Academy.

T. L. Sean Cook of Northville has been nominated for the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

The congressman's selections followed the recommendations of a special citizen board, which independently evaluated applicants from the Second Congressional District. It is composed of educators, community leaders and experienced military officers from the three counties in the district.

The various academies make the final decisions on which nominees to admit.

Nichols earns high marks

Both Superintendent Lawrence J. Nichols and board of education members commented Saturday, as they met for a three-hour performance evaluation of the superintendent, it was most unusual to be evaluating a person who is leaving the district.

During the session, however, in which the board gave Nichols high marks, the board focused on how its goals and objectives are being met. President Karen Wilkinson suggested as the evaluation began that it could serve to indicate what the board "should be looking for in a new superintendent."

Nichols officially notified the board at Monday night's meeting that he was accepting Royal Oak's offer to be superintendent of the 9,100 student district June 30.

The two-part evaluation was compiled by personnel subcommittee chairman and trustee Gerald Munro from evaluations filled out by each board member prior to the meeting.

In performance as chief executive the board rated Nichols "outstanding" in three classifications and "more than satisfactory" in four. In achievement of the district's goals and objectives he was rated in the composite as "outstanding" on one count, "more than satisfactory" on five and "satisfactory" on one.

The rating scale ranged from outstanding to more than satisfactory, satisfactory, less than satisfactory and unsatisfactory.

As he compiled the list, Munro observed that a district "wouldn't talk about hiring an average superintendent; so, if satisfactory is average, you have a turkey."

Board member Chris Johnson disagreed, saying he felt a satisfactory performance meant "you've done the job."

Jean Hansen compared the ratings to grading an honors class "on a bell curve," noting that "satisfactory is average and you start out above average."

Douglas Whitaker told Nichols, "I think you have done us a lot of good with your ability to explain with clarity complicated issues."

Nichols told the board the Northville school district is a very complex one with the largest special education program in the state with separate financing, and six different funding sources — actually seven as the city represents both Wayne and Oakland counties.

The board focused on the "goals and objectives" section of the evaluation with special interest as it stated this would be important in the selection of a new superintendent.

When Nichols was hired four years ago, President Wilkinson recalled, the area of instructional improvement was of prime importance.

"I think we have leadership here, and we're going to be looking at funding new improvements," she commented.

Johnson said he rated Nichols higher on this as he feels the district now has created standards.

Hansen said she feels the central office is understaffed in terms of getting projects done, however.

Nichols reported the administration has been discussing assigning specific responsibilities to staff members, saying "personnel with expertise can be very helpful."

Whitaker noted, "Our community seems to have told us it will not permit additional persons (at central staff)."

Johnson replied, "You can't say that because you don't have more money you can't provide good programs — that's ridiculous. We have to prioritize."

Nichols suggested the board should look at recommendations of Hansen's citizens committee on Program Standards and their Effectiveness.

He noted that grade and program restructuring will be examined this summer.

Another area to be given careful consideration will be the high school.

Trustee Glenna Davis said she felt that an examination of the high school had to be made because "the attitude is that what we do with the high school affects other buildings."

Nichols said there is "going to have to be a renovation program within the next five years for the high school."

He mentioned that at the time the high school was constructed, energy efficiency was a small consideration. However, the cost of heating and maintaining the building with its many windows today is straining the district's budget. He suggested, however, that the board not discount the value of its picturesque setting.

Board members agreed that another high priority topic will be more community involvement in the school district.

"You have to find ways to involve broader community," Nichols noted.

Police blotter

Arraignment set for local man

In the city...

A Northville man will be arraigned in 35th District Court tomorrow on charges of malicious destruction of police property. The man is being held in Wayne County Jail, and bond has been set at $10,000 cash, city police said.

Charges stem from damage to a Northville city police car Saturday night. Damage to the police vehicle was placed at $1,300.

Police arrived, according to their report, when advised there was a fight in the front yard of a Beal Street residence. Police saw a 1978 Ford Thunderbird parked in front of the house with the passenger side door open and the windshield broken.

Police then were told the fight was in the house, the report said. Police were walking to the front entrance of the home when a white male appeared from in back of the home. Police asked the man if he knew of the fight, and he said he and the man later arrested did have a fight in the front yard, police said.

During the discussion, the suspect left through the front door and got into the car. He yelled he wanted to kill himself prior to entering the car, the report said.

The other man told police the suspect would not be able to drive the car because the first man had the keys, the report said. As police approached the car, it started and backed up, turning wheels to the left causing the car to strike a cement wall, the report said.

Police attempted to open the driver's door, but it was locked. The driver also ignored an officer's request to stop the car and exit, and accelerated rapidly, heading west on Beal.

The car stopped when the first man jumped on the hood and yelled to stop, but the driver continued west on Beal, the report said. An officer got in his car and pulled in front of the fleeing car so it could not continue west. The car stopped just prior to reaching the Griswold intersection, the report said.

The officer tried to subdue the driver, but he backed up and accelerated rapidly, hitting the police car in the right rear quarter panel. The officer tried to break the driver's side window to no avail with a flashlight, the report said.

The suspect's car again hit the police vehicle in the right front door before backing up and driving across the grass and curb in front of the Detroit Edison substation only to strike a guy wire, the report said.

The suspect turned his car north on Griswold from Beal and stopped in the southbound lane of Griswold. He then left the car and was arrested by police, the report said.

A 24-year-old Wixom woman was cited for driving while under the influence of liquor March 18 after a one-vehicle accident in which her truck stopped at the edge of the creekbed by the Ford Valve Plant on South Main, police said.

According to the report, Tammy Sue Clayton's car passed a police car at the high rate of speed. The police car had stopped to turn around.

The officer tried to stop her, but before the emergency lights could be activated, the woman's car went into the curve at Main Street without attempting to negotiate it, jumped the curb, knocked over a Detroit Edison lightpole and traveled 138 feet before stopping at the edge of the creekbed, the report said.

There were no injuries, police said.

Two separate incidents of larceny at Northville High School were reported to police last week.

Unknown suspects stole approximately $106 from a wallet after breaking the lock on a locker sometime March 18, police report.

A $20 calculator, $30 running shoes, a $20 duffel bag, a $20 gym sweatsuit $15 worth of gym clothes were reported stolen from a locker at NHS sometime March 18, police said. It is not known how entry was gained since the lock was not tampered with, police said.

Two separate incidents of car damage at the Cady and Center Street parking deck were reported to police last week.

Damages totaling $150 were reported after someone broke the rear window on a 1980 Dodge Omni sometime March 16, police said.

Another $150 damage was reported after unknown suspects broke the rear taillight and damaged the driver's side door on a 1980 Toyota sometime March 19, police said.

Someone cut wires and took a lightbar, valued at $150, from the roof of a 1979 Ford station wagon while it was parked in the Northville Downs lot sometime March 20, police said.

Unknown subjects took four sets of steel tow chains, valued at $98 apiece, and one wrench, valued at $16, from a truck bed parked at a West Main business sometime March 16, police said.

Unknown suspects pried off the vent from the passenger side front fender and both fenders were scratched with a sharp object, resulting in $200 worth of damages on a Ford Thunderbird parked at the community building lot sometime March 13, police report.

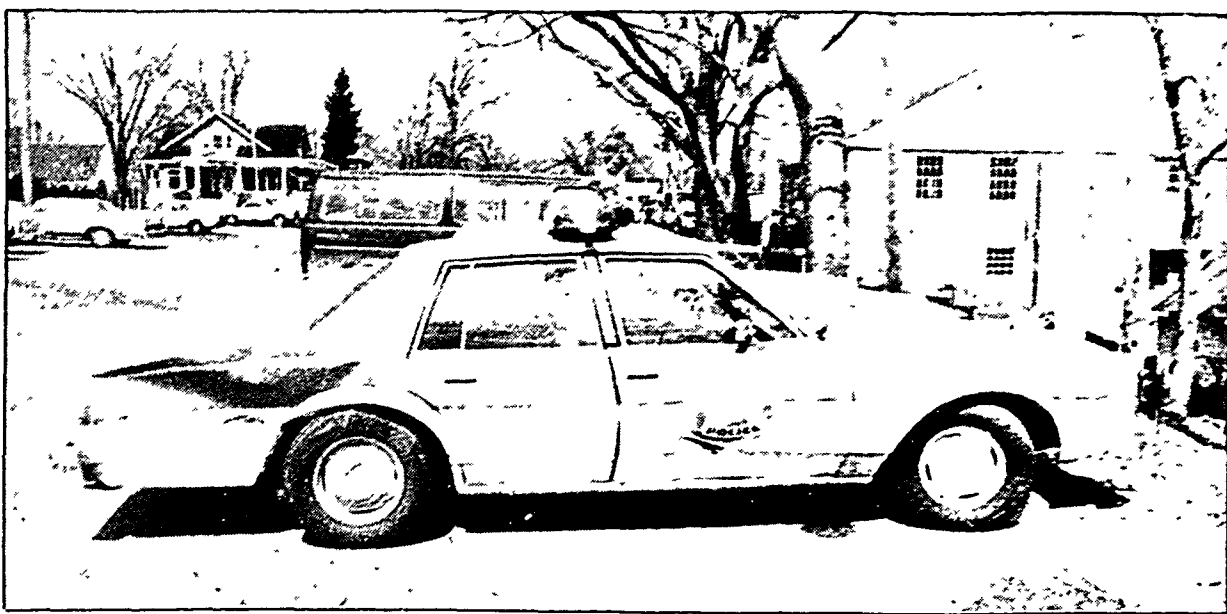

...In the township

A Northville Township police officer drew his service revolver on an escapee from Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital March 17, police reports show.

The escapee, being pursued by hospital security officers along the north side of Seven Mile west of Haggerty near Smock, was reaching behind his back when the township patrolman approached from the east. The security officer shouted to the township officer that the escapee had a knife.

Seeing a glint of metal as the man brought his hand from behind his back, the township officer reported he drew his pistol and leveled it at the subject, who dropped the weapon — an eight-and-one-half-inch long butter knife with serrated edges.

The knife was confiscated, and the escaped patient was turned over to the hospital security forces that had been in pursuit.

This city police car was damaged to the tune of $1,300 when a Northville man drove his car into the police vehicle twice

Waterwheel plant to reopen

considers valve production alone to be an unprofitable use of the plant. The closing decision, first announced in November, 1980, and finally implemented November 20, 1981, was based on that analysis.

Ford had decided to purchase the valves it needs from a non-unionized Eaton Corporation plant in Nebraska. Full capacity of the Northville plant, it said, was no longer needed since demand for valves dropped in the switch from large V-8 engines to smaller four and six cylinder power plants in the past few years.

Even when local workers offered $3 million to buy the plant and produce valves for sale to Ford the company said the operation here was economically unsound and declined the offer.

"An extensive study has been undertaken," Poling stated, "to determine the details of what we could make in the plant and the number of employees who could be reinstated."

Fultz said present equipment can be used in any centerless grinding operation and there is room for installation of other equipment, if necessary.

He said Friday he would prefer that at least some valve production be retained at the plant, since it would mean swifter recall for the 200 workers now on layoff — particularly those 70-100 employees who have only one month or less of benefits left.

The local union, Fultz said, stands willing to negotiate a new agreement with Ford when asked to do so. Work rules, not wage rates, would be the topic for discussion. Under the new agreement, the local will have more autonomy in making such decisions than it had when Fultz talked concessions last year.

The first layoff at the plant was April 3, 1981, and the workforce was gradually pared to 81 hourly and 22 salaried employees by the time the last valve was produced November 20. More than 30 hourly employees remained on the job through late January, dismantling equipment and putting the plant in mothballs.

That process was thrown into reverse after Wednesday's announcement, and the handful of people still assigned to the facility (three hourly, three salaried) started unpacking boxes and filling desk drawers late last week.

Most supervisory personnel at the plant have been transferred to other facilities, and Fultz said that, while he has heard nothing officially, he is sure a new management team will be brought in for the reopening.

Mayor Paul Vernon also addressed the gathering, crediting Fultz for almost single-handedly keeping the closing issue alive, and said city officials are "anxiously awaiting the opportunity" to hear Ford's intentions for the plant.

Asked if the city planned to grant any tax abatement to Ford, Vernon said he could not respond and that Ford has not asked for tax relief. He said such a request would be considered seriously.

Nino also wondered if the lighting met the one foot of candle power requirement and expressed concern about the drainage.

Attorney Milton Levenbalm, who was involved with the original site plan, said permission would be required from the Wayne County Road Commission for curb cuts. He felt the extra curb cuts not only helped drainage, and noted the WCRC already has approved it once.

"To mess up the entire parking lot to redo drainage is a total waste," said Levenbalm, who added it is not new property, but existing property.

Marzak stated he has worked on the site plan for six to seven weeks. The main concern was to enable traffic to enter and exit freely, and to take traffic away from the building and contain it within the property, he added.

Part owner Velma Belasco, who has operated a drive-in restaurant, did not understand why all four exits could not be used.

She stated there has never been accidents on Seven Mile or Northville Road (at the site) and added it is a good corner because one can see in all directions. In addition, there is a sidewalk and a 22 foot greenbelt, Belasco noted.

Marzak, though, is returning to the commission's April 6 meeting with another site and landscape plan.

Nichols resigns here, takes Royal Oak job

"You have handled delicate problems and been very successful in guiding in new directions, especially in the area of instruction where we were looking for a leader four years ago.

"This superintendency has been a growth experience in expenses and budget for you," he told Nichols.

Board President Karen Wilkinson told Nichols, "You have been more than satisfactory — you have been outstanding."

Nichols was hired as Northville's superintendent in August, 1978, replacing Raymond Spear who resigned to head the DeWitt school system. Prior to his tenure as Northville's superintendent, Nichols served as director of secondary education in Livonia.

With Nichols' resignation official, the board of education now is faced with a lengthy and intense search and selection procedure for hiring a new superintendent.

Wilkinson said Monday the board hopes to keep on a time schedule beginning next Monday night, March 29, when the board will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the board offices at Main Street Elementary School to discuss criteria for selecting a new superintendent along with salary and contract terms. The meeting is open to the public.

"We are on a very, very tight schedule," Wilkinson observed. The board will post the position Friday and hopes to make a selection by mid-June.

Did ducks help plant?

Virtually everybody associated with the Northville Ford plant was given some share of the credit last week when the company announced its decision to reopen the facility — including the flock of ducks that makes its home in the waterwheel pond.

"I think they helped us," said Norm Fultz, president of the UAW local 896. "They attract attention. They kept us in the public eye when that's what we needed."

The ducks and geese that gather at the plant have not always been the favorite topic of conversation among Ford personnel who are in regular contact with the press.

There was a perception at times that, while Ford and the union were worrying about the jobs and futures of 230 workers, the press and television were focusing attention on the ducks at the expense of more important concerns.

Much of that melted away last week, as both laborers and management acknowledged the role the waterfowl played in giving the plant an identity, in giving it an extra splash of color that brought the cameras and writers to the scene.

"All you have to say is Northville now," Fultz said, "and people say, 'Oh, you mean the place with the ducks.'"

For its size, the plant has received far more press coverage than it might have. At least one national network news team featured the plight of the plant, and the ducks, and wire service stories about the facility have run in newspapers nationwide. A Christmas season visit to the area by a New Yorker writer produced more attention and, through its appearance, alerted other news teams that have since made the trip here.

The arrangement by which Ford supplies feed for the flock was first written into the local union contract in the middle 1960s. When it appeared Ford would leave, the city offered to have its employees spread the feed the company supplied until some other tenant was found.

Now that the reopening is secure, it appears the ducks, too, have been relieved of a worry. Fultz said last week there is only one non-negotiable item in the local contract — duck feed.

Metropark programs offered

Two different family nature walk programs are being offered by the Nature Center at Kensington Metropark Sunday, April 4.

"Life in a Pond" will begin at 10:30 a.m. with park naturalist Julia Cerebus conducting a one-and-a-half-hour walk to look for the spring activities of frogs, salamanders and insects and to listen to their sounds.

Dip nets and shallow pans will be used to collect some of the critters for a closer look by participants. Persons should dress according to the weather, and boots are suggested for walking in or near water.

"Sights and Sounds of Spring" will take place at 2 p.m. with park naturalist Mark Szabo conducting a one-and-a-half-hour walk to help visitors discover the sights and sounds of spring. He points out it is a time the air is full of sounds of birds, frogs, toads and insects.

Both free programs require advanced registration.

For more information, call the Nature Center at 685-1561. A vehicle entry permit is required. The cost is $7 regular and $2 for both senior citizens and daily.

Dr. James H. Luther

Recently in a printed sermon I read Matthew 20: 1-16. This portion is important in a society dominated by rights and various ideas of equality. Students say, "The teacher isn't fair" (they mean they didn't know the answer). Labor and management both cry "unfair practices". Every conceivable "minority" group asserts their "rights" in answer to an "unfair" society.

Yet, Jesus tells the story of a man who gave the same wage to day laborers even though some worked 12 hours, some 6, some 3 and some only 1 hour. Now, the wage of one denarius was a good wage for a day's work. When the ones who worked all day grumbled at the ones who only worked one hour, Jesus replies, "Are you envious of my generosity? Have I treated you fairly? Isn't it up to me what I do with my money?"

You see no one has "rights", only privileges and responsibilities. Everything of worth that we enjoy is from God. Our view of "rights" is different from God's view. The next time you complain about something "unfair", you better thank God you did not get what you deserve. We all deserve love and condemnation.

Is life "fair"? NO! Is Jesus fair? Always! And if He chooses to be more than fair to you, or to someone else, isn't that His wonderful business?

Welcome Back

Northville
Valve
Plant

Last week's announcement that Ford Motor Company will retain its facility here in Northville has to be the best news heard not only here but in the entire region in quite some time. While the reopening means jobs and the continued presence of a large taxpayer and good neighbor in the community, and we are thankful for all of it, it also means a great deal more.

This could be the signal for an economic turnaround not only locally but everywhere the automobile industry is a major presence. Not to read too much into the reopening of one small plant, we believe it is indicative of the both the industry's and the union's efforts to come back from adversity. The cooperative nature of the labor relations that led to the reopening bodes well for the industry and, by inference, the region.

Spoken of in such abstract terms, the announcement might seem a remote affair even to those most overjoyed amongst us. But in more specific terms, it is a story of individual initiative, determination and foresight that results in good for all. Had not the union kept the issue alive, and had not Ford made a concerted effort to work with its insistent employees, the plant might well have been abandoned.

While the focus in such an event would have been on the lost tax revenues to our local schools and government, there was much more at stake. Ford Field is a prime example. The land belongs to Ford Motor Company and was being leased for a pittance to the city and the recreation department. When the plant went up for sale the field was part of the deal, causing concern that the only decent playing field in the city (off school grounds) would be lost to the recreation department and its many other users.

More than 60 years' presence in a community has its other effects too. The ducks are visible, and often noted, but what of the frequent visits to town made by outsiders who wished to see the plant? What of the hundreds who flocked through daily on their way to employment in the old water wheel facility? Even had none of them left a penny behind, they would have been sorely missed.

We have believed for some time that the best use of the Ford plant was as a manufacturing facility at least, and as a Ford manufacturing facility at best. It took people with more business savvy and more good intentions than we could have imagined to make that a reality, and we salute those who did the job, from Ford President Donald Peterson to the local 896 laborers who voted overwhelmingly, and first, for a national agreement that offered them little more than a glimmer of hope. We salute especially Norman Fultz, whose efforts on behalf of the plant and his members' jobs became nothing less than a community service of high order.

We have still to hear what the picturesque facility will produce, or how many jobs it will offer. There is little to fear in that regard, however. We are sure those studying the issue will come up with an answer that will insure a long and happy future for Ford in Northville. We are sure as well that the city will be cooperative in helping to insure that presence through the most responsible and effective means available to it.

All too often in recent months has the bad word come down that a plant is, unavoidably, due to close. It often casts a pall over the good that goes on even in the worst of times. The phoenix-like re-emergence of this facility, it seems to us, is an exact reversal of the process, and so we say, in all sincerity to Ford Motor Company and each of its employees, "Welcome back, we would have missed you."

Plant reopenings ease family tensions

Here, there and the moon:

It was great news to hear Ford Motor Company decided to reopen its Northville Valve Plant in the next couple of months. The reopening was a direct result of the new contract hammered out by the United Auto Workers Union and Ford management just a few weeks ago.

Although Ford is unsure what operations will be done in the plant, I can only imagine the great sense of relief the workers felt knowing a majority would have their jobs back. It had to be a good feeling for most of the workers that the uncertainties of the what the future held, if in fact Ford was going to keep the plant closed, are gone for now.

This same sense of relief was felt by my family Sunday night when the UAW and General Motors Corporation agreed on a new contract similar to the Ford-UAW agreement. First, a little background on why: in early February, not long after contract talks broke off again between the UAW and the number one auto maker, GM announced four plant closings — two of them in Detroit, and one of those was a die testing plant where my dad has worked for 20 years.

It came as quite a shock to hear that in six months to a year dad was going to be out of a job. Even worse, he was on his own, practically, to find new employment once the plant was closed. As my dad said at the time, "There are a lot of guys at the plant wishing they were 55 (years old) right now so they could retire, including myself." He also cracked, "I guess I won't be getting my watch for 25 years of service at the plant after all."

Looking at the situation with some laughter made the announcement more bearable to handle. Also, the future did not look so bleak because my mother was secure in her job as a secretary at the General Motors Technical Center in Warren, and making enough money to survive the situation. My mom's working helped eased some of the worries my dad had about surviving through tough economic times.

Now the future has become a little brighter with the new UAW-GM agreement canceling the four previous plant closings.

The news seemed to put a new spirit back in the family knowing that, for at least two-and-a-half more years, dad's plant would remain open.

But the big question we wonder about now is how much of the work which had been outsourced to non-union plants will return? That was one of the main reasons the plant was closed in the first place.

Other thoughts: a concern among some people this winter about how well the snow would be removed from the redesigned downtown city streets is being answered. Now that the snow has melted, it looks as if the streets are in good shape without much of the damage some skeptics had forecast — such as the snowplows taking out chunks of curbing.

However, in the parking lot off Wing next to our building, there is a light pole which did not quite survive the perils of the snowplow blade. The cement barricade around the base of the light pole looks as though some hungry animal that loves to eat cement sunk its teeth into it all winter. (Anyway, the pole now is due to be removed in the final steps of the Mainstreet '78 downtown renovation).

Because "The Bomb" (that is what I like to call my 1971 Pontiac) would not start Monday morning and I had to wait for Scooter to pick me up, I had the opportunity to watch the Space Shuttle Columbia launch into orbit for a third time. What intrigued me most were comments being made by the television announcers covering the event.

One of the comments made was, hopefully, someday the launching of the space shuttle will become so routine it will not always be a big media event. The other, which really caught my attention, was the fact National Aeronautics and Space Administration would like to be sending up shuttles 20 to 24 times a year.

That got me thinking — could that possibly mean the next major airline company in the world may be the space shuttle, and special discount trips to the moon will be the main attraction. Where do I sign up?

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

Hopefully, you've probably already noticed something different about this column. Lik, what happened to the "e" after "you've" or the "e" after "lik."

There's no reason for concern. I haven't really gone bananas yet. I'm just trying to stay abreast of modern trends in the area of spelling.

It seems there's an organization named "Better Education thru Simplified Spelling, Inc.," which has mounted a campaign called D.U.E. — Drop Useless Es.

A recent press release from BETSS tries to underscore the problems with all these useless Es by pointing out the number of D.U.E. words in Lincoln's Gettysburg Address.

"Lincoln's Gettysburg Address contains a total of 1,138 letters," said the press release. "Eighteen of these are final Es which misdirect the reader and should be dropped." The release then proceeds to point out all these dangerous D.U.E. words in the order they occur, starting with "four score" and working all the way through "people."

So what's the purpose of all this concern over D.U.E. words? Efficiency, of course. "If these eighteen Es are dropped we can write this passage with 1.58 percent fewer letters," say the people from BETSS.

"This is not, in itself, a great saving; but it can be crucially important as a good start on the way to the simplification of our irrational spelling."

Ayb F. Citron, a PhD. and executive director of BETSS, also notes that other passages have been analyzed and are found to vary between 1 and 1.8 percent in D.U.E. letters.

To lend credence to its cause, the BETSS people include on their stationery a list of distinguished advocates of simplified spelling. The list includes such names as Andrew Carnegie, George Bernard Shaw, Theodore Roosevelt, Mark Twain and Noah Webster.

Do I support BETSS? You're darn right, I do. Except I don't think they go far enough. If I had my way, we would totally eliminate all vowels. Then, we could really have fun trying to figure out what's going on.

Getting Down to Brass Tacks

By CHRIS JOHNSON
Board treasurer

On Monday, March 22, the board of education accepted the resignation of Lawrence Nichols, superintendent of the school district. Mr. Nichols has accepted a new position as superintendent of the Royal Oak school system. The board of education has already begun the process of finding a new superintendent. The board hopes to have a new superintendent on the job when the new school year starts on July 1.

One of the first steps the board will take is to define characteristics, expectations and qualifications for the new superintendent. The board also will be developing criteria upon which to select candidates to interview and to evaluate those candidates who are interviewed.

The board of education would like to solicit any thoughts, concerns or recommendations you might have regarding the characteristics and expectations of the new superintendent. This information is requested to be in writing and such submitted within the next few weeks. Please send your comments to Karen Wilkinson, President, Board of Education, 501 West Main Street, Northville.

The board would like to encourage your attendance at the coming meetings at which criteria will be established. You are also invited to attend the interviews which will be conducted by the board of education.

This will be a very open process and the board encourages you to be knowledgeable about this process. The selection of a new superintendent is a very important event for the district.

Loss of trust cited

To the Editor:

As a resident of Park Gardens subdivision, and a member of the Homeowners Association, I want to say that you "hit the nail on the head" with your editorial last week (March 17) "Attitude Change Would Help."

My comments to follow are in this same light but will hopefully add some more insight into our feelings. After observing, and participating in the township board meeting March 10 (especially the items related to the Beck Road SAD and the pending Park Gardens SAD), my trust in our elected officials and the township engineer has all but disappeared. Their ability to circumvent an issue without a clear answer, or to just refer to it as "stupid" or "dumb" is a good indication that they are not truly acting on the behalf of all township residents.

I suspect that their efforts may be well-intentioned to do what is best for the entire township by not directing any township money (specifically water and sewer funds) to but a small segment of the entire community. This is obviously a good general position to hold, but it cannot be maintained all the time.

There have to be exceptions to every rule and I'm confident this "rule" has been bent many times before and will be again in unusual cases. Now is the time to bend it again. If there was ever a special circumstance that would warrant a temporary change in policy, the installation of a sewer in Park Gardens has to be it.

No one can any longer question the necessity of a sewer in this area, but not everyone is aware of the complex and therefore expensive sewer system that is required. Currently a significant amount of money (primarily federal block grant funds) has been allocated to help offset the abnormal construction costs. Note that none of this money came from township funds except that portion that came from excess payments by Park Gardens residents for their water SAD.

Park Garden residents are now asking the Northville Township board to keep the remaining costs to us a minimum. This can be done by installing a sewer that is just sufficient (no excess capacity) for our area. Since a sewer is planned to be built some day along Haggerty, other unsewered areas could tie into that system directly without using the Park Gardens system. But if the experts decide otherwise, and put a sewer in Park Gardens that is larger than is needed by the immediate area, we ask the Board to pay this additional cost out of the substantial water and sewer special fund.

Finally, as your editorial tactfully stated, the township board has accomplished whatever has been done "with some prodding from the (Park Gardens Homeowners) association." This is so true. It is my opinion this "prodding" only occurred because of some extreme efforts by Bill Basse and Liz McCarville, the associations president and vice president respectively. I want to publicly thank them for their work and hope that they can keep it up, because we need them. If not for their enthusiasm and endurance I'm confident we would not be as far along towards solving a major community problem as we are today. Thanks again Bill and Liz.

B.J. Taylor

Reader likes new look

To the Editor,

You should be commended on your face-lift of the flags throughout The Northville Record. Indeed, this new look is crisp, clean and attractive.

One element of the revised front page flag (not mentioned in your March 10, 1982, "New Look" article) is the conspicuously missing badge of General Excellence from the Michigan Press Association.

I hope that you and your staff will personally accept the challenge to re-establish The Northville Record as one of the best weekly newspapers in the state and regain this coveted award.

Chuck DeLand

EDITOR'S NOTE: We currently hold the General Excellence Award from the Michigan Press Association given in 1981 citing The Northville Record as the best newspaper in the state for its size — a top award of which we are very proud and are working hard to retain. We moved the insignia to the editorial page flag in our New Look revision with the thought that it appropriately belongs there.

Publicity earns thanks

To the Editor:

I would like to thank The Northville Record, specifically Jean Day and Suzanne Dimitroff, for the wonderful publicity given to the recent two-woman art show I was involved in.

I would also like to express my thanks and appreciation to each member of the Northville Arts Commission for selecting me and for the hours they worked during the show.

To my friends and to all my neighbors on Whipple Street who came to see the show, thank you. All of this effort helped contribute to a very successful two days.

'Grease' compels letter

To the Editor:

We attended opening night of Northville High School's "Grease" production and were so pleased with the results that we felt compelled to send the following note to drama teacher/director Kurt Kinde, and the "Grease" cast and crew:

Congratulations! Your "Grease" production was most enjoyable. The community can be proud of its young people when they display such fine teamwork and efforts beyond the norm. It was evident from the start that you all put a great deal of work into this production and under Kurt Kinde's expert direction you pulled it off in grand style.

"Break a leg" for continued success in your future endeavors.

We would encourage others in the community to attend this weekend's final show, either Friday or Saturday at 8 p.m. For $3 (or $2.50 for students) you can't beat the price for a most entertaining evening.

My Old Ford

Of my Old Ford every one makes fun,
They say it was born in 1901
Maybe it was, but this I'll bet,
She's good for many a long mile yet,
The windshields gone and the radiator leaks
The fan belt slips and the horsepower squeaks.
She shakes the nuts and screws all loose,
But I get 20 miles on a gallon of juice,
When I can't get gas I burn kerosene,
And I've driven home on paris green.
She has a rattle in front, and grind in the rear,
And a chinese puzzle for a steering gear;
Her coils are dead, her plugs won't fire
And her piston rings are baling wire.
But in spite of this she pulls me thru
And that's about all any car can do.
With high priced cars they give you tools
Some extra parts and a set of rules,
Some wire stretchers, and a pair of shears
Are all I've carried in 15 years,
And if I live to see the day
She falls to pieces like the one horse shay
If old Hank Ford stays in the game
I'll buy another by the same durn name.

Gentlemen:

This letter is intended to express our support and appreciation to the Ford Motor Company and the United Auto Workers Ford Department for the decision to reopen the Northville manufacturing facility.

The merchants in the community have a vital interest in the general level of local business and professional activity; they have put their own money into their various enterprises and provide a rather wide range of locally-available goods and services.
The loss of any major employer would be felt in ever-widening circles, from the employees most directly affected to the smallest independent business person, who might just well be the neighborhood Northville Record carrier.

We are grateful that the spectre of unemployment has been lifted from those workers whose jobs are to be restored, and hope that this reopening will create an air of encouragement throughout the entire community.

Thank you,

Dear Mr. Petersen,

We are extremely pleased with the decision to keep the Ford Motor Company in Northville. This plant has been a very important part of Northville for over sixty (60) years.

It has maintained good employment for many of our citizens and been a good neighbor, always cooperative in any project in the City.

The Northville Valve Plant has historical significance in American industry. It is the last of Henry Ford's 'renown Village Industry' plants, which in an earlier day, dotted southeastern Michigan.

Many of us feel that the decision to remain open, would have made Mr.
Henry Ford very happy, as this, plant with its waterwheel, was very dear to him.

If the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce can be of assistance in the future, please call on us.

Sincerely yours,

Baran's Jewelry: Living testimony to time-honored business tradition

By GREGORY W. GRAESSLEY

The fall of the Roman Empire in the fifth century launched the western world into the medieval age and all its associative traditions which spanned 1,000 years until the Italian Renaissance. But there remains in our society some of the traditions of the Middle Ages.

Perhaps one of the most die-hard traditions of the Dark Ages is the sense of family, specifically, the timeless practice of the "son following in the father's footsteps."

While modified to a certain degree, the Baran family of Baran's Jewelry in South Lyon has retained the legacy of a family-run business.

Owner Ed Baran, 64, and his wife Frances have operated the shop in downtown South Lyon since 1964. Prior to his arrival in the "Best Little City," Ed was a horologist in the Staff Building in Detroit.

"It's always been my idea and dream to go to a small town somewhere and own a jewelry store," said Ed. "I wanted to offer a jewelry store with watch repair."

When the building at 108 North Lafayette went up for sale by the McIntosh family, Ed moved his family from the Motor City to the southwest corner of Oakland County and set up shop.

Now, 18 years later, the Barans' children are grown and married but each has a hand in the business operations.

Foremost on the family-help list is Pat Norton. The lone Baran daughter is a full-time employee at the shop and responsible for the recently-added collector's plate facet of the business.

The Baran sons, Larry and Jim, also make their contributions to the store. Larry has part-time work responsibilities, holding the fort during Saturday morning hours.

Jim, on the other hand is "the silent partner," according to Ed. Jim "helped enormously in researching the plate addition," Ed explained.

All the Barans report that the age-old idea of a family-run business is flourishing. Key to that success is knowledge, service and dependability, according to Ed.

"Having a small business allows for an opportunity to get to know all facets of the business," said Ed. "If you work for someone else, you only get to see a part of the business — this little corner or that little corner. We all have to get into everything in order to keep the business going."

"People depend on the small store. They trust the neighborhood business, if not, they wouldn't come around anymore. We deal with people on a personal basis — not a one-shot deal."

— Ed Baran,
Baran's Jewelry

Norton echoed her father's sentiments. "They (my parents) allow me to give as much as I want," she said. "They encourage me to do what I want. I have an opportunity to explore other things, not just one portion of the business."

Norton added that she gave up a career as a teacher in the South Lyon school district in order to devote her full attention to the jewelry store.

"The trend in business today, what's killing the small businesses, is change," said Ed. "The big stores carry a lot of things we just can't carry. They advertise very strongly."

"We offer people the service. People come in here for watch repairs and appraisals for insurance purposes. Any 'ma and pa' store today is service, that's what really draws them in. People depend on the small store. They trust the neighborhood business, if not, they wouldn't come around anymore. We deal with people on a personal basis — not a one-shot deal."

Even though Ed and his wife have built a solid reputation, the business has expanded in order to keep pace with the times.

"We've had to diversify," said Frances. "That's really the only way to get new business. That's why we added the plate collection."

Still, even with the plate collection, Ed said it is the service which must stand as the foundation of the business.

"Being knowledgeable about what you sell is very important," he said. "With plate collecting, you can tell more to a customer in five minutes about the plate's history than what they can learn in a book."

Pat Norton, Ed Baran and Frances Baran put family pride in their South Lyon jewelry store

There is a lot of information coming out about these plates and you stay on top of that better than anyone."

Norton added that her responsibilities with the plate collection have kept her up to date on all series, but this might not be the case at a larger store.

Beyond diversity and service, the Barans conceded that people should take a cautious approach to jewelry. Since, by its very nature, a jewelry store works with high-quality, expensive items, the Barans agreed that people should be careful with their gold, gem and diamond purchases.

"You have to be careful when you're buying something of value," said Frances. "People have come in here with things they believed to be worth a lot of money, saying they 'stole it for only $40 or $50,' but it's mostly just junk. You have to be very careful."

"We all know about how the price of gold went out of sight a while back," said Ed. "I had a woman come in here with a big box of gold items. She wanted me to appraise it for her, so I went through all of it and it was mostly worthless. People generally don't know a whole lot about jewelry so they should be very careful."

Ed said when he is called on for an appraisal for a so-called "steal" jewelry item which is worthless, the dubious owner's reaction is usually one of anger.

"People get mad when they find out they've been taken," said Ed. "Their first reaction is to get mad, blame me for not appraising it at its worth. I feel sorry for people who aren't careful with what they buy."

The stories about the store do not all pertain to people who have made poor purchase decisions.

"One of my first episodes to the area came shortly after we bought the store," said Frances. "The old store carried a full line of luggage, which we did not continue to carry."

"Well, I had a customer come in and ask for a get-away bag. He was referring to a piece of luggage, but in my mind a get-away bag meant something different. I'm able to laugh about it now."

Realtors wage battle against legislation

Realtors have launched a nationwide campaign urging the public to seek congressional action to reduce projected federal budget deficits and bring down home mortgage interest rates.

Full-page newspaper ads launching the campaign declared: "Federal deficits and credit policies are causing high interest rates — which are taking up to one-fourth of the value of your home."

"The ads are geared to alert homeowners to current and future government policies adversely affecting home investments," said Lloyd Mason, president of the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors (WWOCBR).

"As presented, the facts will be of concern to anyone who has tried to buy or sell a home over the past couple of years. It's been a nearly impossible task in most cases and will get even worse unless remedial government action is taken promptly."

"We point out that government policies leading to record budget deficits and an unnecessarily tight squeeze on the growth of credit are keeping mortgage interest rates beyond the affordability level," he continued.

"Based on the past 40 years, these rates should be about 12 percent, or three percent over the underlying inflation rate. Instead, they are 17 percent or higher."

"As a result," said Mason, "the market value of homes, which represent a major share of personal worth, is being drive down by as much as $25,000 for the average owner."

The newspaper ads featured coupons addressed to senators and representatives with a message urging "...policies that will slow the growth of spending and change tax policies toward a balanced budget for 1984. Also, the Federal Reserve Board should be encouraged to increase the growth of credit 1 to 2 percentage points to help bring interest rates down."

Readers were asked to sign the coupon and send it to the National Association of Realtors in Washington for distribution to elected representatives.

"We hope that people who may have missed the ads will write directly to their representatives supporting the goals of the campaign," said Mason. "The greater the response to our appeal, the stronger the reaction will be among those determining government policies."

Mason said the ads also pointed out numerous other ways in which the government is hurting home ownership. The listing included:

- Tax relief last year created incentives to divert funds away from home mortgages.

- The government proposes to close down the self-supporting FHA, VA and GNMA programs that are necessary for many families to buy homes.

- The government is focusing on ways to help savings and loan banks at the expense of home ownership.

- The so-called "Housing Commission" proposes that the federal government override state laws that limit increases in interest rates on mortgages assumed when homes are sold.

- The administration recommends allowing savings and loans to abandon home mortgages even though they were created to serve home ownership.

- The administration recommends allowing community banks to be swallowed by huge financial corporations and give them unfair advantages over small businesses which do not have protective federal charters, federal insurance and access to government credit.

"All of this should be food for thought and action by anyone who owns a home or wants to buy or sell one," said Mason. "But, unless such concerns are made known to Congress, we can look for a severely under-housed nation for years to come."

Michigan Tractor adopts team approach for improving productivity and earnings

Michigan Tractor & Machinery Company in Novi has embarked on the biggest employee involvement effort in its 38-year history.

The company calls its program "M-TEAM" — the TEAM stands for Targeted Employee Action Methods, an American version of Quality Circles, a widely-used problem solving technique in Japanese industry.

President Mark Jung said the primary purpose of M-TEAM "is to provide our customers with quality service."

"At the same time," he added, "we expect it to help improve employee morale and productivity."

Michigan Tractor sells and services Caterpillar earthmoving equipment and industrial engines from four facilities in the lower peninsula.

"Even though we're down to less than 250 employees now, our managers can't possibly be everywhere and know everything," explained Jung. "Yet management is responsible for the entire operation."

"Last year was one of our worst in recent memory," he continued. "To get in the black this year and next, we need the support and active participation of all employees to keep costs under control. And we'll still need that control when the economy improves."

By mid-February, three M-TEAM circles were trained and operating at the company's two Novi facilities. Two more circles will be up and running at the Grand Rapids branch by the end of the month. And the Kalkaska branch will begin testing in the near future.

The first circles involve workers in the service and parts departments. But circle facilitator Mary Dye said she expects that other circles in other departments will be launched once the pioneering groups have accumulated more experience.

The process sounds simple. Each week, three to 10 employees — volunteers from the same work group — meet for one hour on company-paid time to discuss operations-related problems and develop solutions.

Their recommendations are presented to the manager or managers with the authority to implement them. Multi-department and company-wide proposals go before the M-TEAM steering committee.

But, before any circle began work on its first recommendation, an intensive company-wide training program was initiated with management and local union officials.

The first official body organized and trained was the M-TEAM steering committee. Composed of 12 representatives from top management and the union, the group sets the practices and policies under which the Quality Circle program will operate.

At the same time, circle leaders were chosen to oversee the circle process, ensuring that steering committee guidelines are followed. The leaders underwent 16 hours of pre-circle training. A circle facilitator also was chosen to assist the steering committee and individual circles obtain resources to perform their tasks. The facilitator also is responsible for intra-company communication regarding general circle activities.

Once pre-circle training was completed, training began for circle members. Initial sessions covered the circle concept, identifying and analyzing problems, and developing proposals. Like the steering committee, facilitator and leaders, member training took about 16 hours of company time.

The circle process itself begins with identifying and clearly defining a problem. A list of the probable causes is then compiled. Sometimes the group will use a technique called "brainstorming" to generate as many ideas as possible. Various other techniques of displaying and analyzing data pertinent to the problems under study are used by circle members when defining a proposed solution.

Interest in quality circles at Michigan Tractor emerged 2½ years ago. Searching for ways to improve quality and morale, VP-Service Manager Ernest Walters attended a seminar on Quality Circles conducted by the American Management Association.

By October of 1971, initial groundwork was laid to begin applying a Quality Circles program at Michigan Tractor. The company signed a contract with Consulting Associates, Inc., for technical assistance in implementing the program.

"We can't go on doing business as usual and expect to survive and prosper," said Walters. "M-TEAM is going to teach us all how to work smarter and adapt as a company to a harsh economic climate."

Boat show coming to Twelve Oaks for weekend show

A mariner's paradise will be created when the "Sun Travel" Boat Show arrives at Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi this Friday, March 26.

An exciting collection of cruisers and sailing vessels from the metropolitan Detroit area's 10 leading dealerships will be displayed during the 10-day program.

Boating enthusiasts will have an opportunity to win $2,000 toward the purchase of a craft of their choice from the following participating dealers: Anderson Marine & Sportland, Inc., in Flat Rock; Bloomfield Beach and Boat Facilities in Pontiac; King Marine in Walled Lake and Redford Marine Sailboats in Redford.

Entry blanks are available at the information desk in the mall. The drawing will be held Saturday, April 3, at 2 p.m. in center court.

Other events scheduled during the "Sun Travel" Boat Show include a "Tides of Fashion" ... informal modeling, static exhibits of sporting equipment and graphic displays of the featured boats.

Twelve Oaks Mall is located at the Novi Road exit on I-96. Mall hours are 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday and noon to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

Children's fashions, to be highlighted at Twelve Oaks Mall

The arrival of the Easter Bunny at Twelve Oaks Mall this Sunday (March 28) at 2 p.m. will be the highlight of the annual spring children's fashion show.

Stevi VanMeter, 1981 Junior Miss Dance of the United States, will welcome the Easter Bunny with song and dance. Miss VanMeter, a 13-year old from Keego Harbor, has many credits to her young career.

She starred for three weeks at the Whiting Auditorium in Flint in their 1981 annual "Spirit of Christmas," was in the Chesaning Showboat in 1980 and 1981, has appeared on Kelly & Company, and currently is filming a 1982 Christmas television special, "Song of the Elf Child," in which she will be the lead actress.

She has performed for the Twelve Oaks Mall Christmas and Easter opening programs and starred in last year's "Back to School" fashion show.

The fashions will be modeled by children aged 2 to 8 and will highlight Twelve Oaks' children's stores.

Tax refunds available for losses from floods

Homeowners and businesses suffering losses in recent floods in southeastern lower Michigan may be able to gain at least partial recovery through tax refunds.

Casualty losses resulting from sudden, unexpected events such as a flood, can be claimed as tax deductions to the extent they exceed $100 per casualty. On business property there is no $100 exclusion.

Tax deductions, however, do not apply to any amounts recovered from insurance companies, the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants points out.

When the President of the United States declares a stricken community a federal disaster area, tax deduction claims for losses can be applied to tax returns for the preceding year without waiting for the filing of this year's income tax returns.

When tax returns already have been filed for the preceding year, an amended return should be filed on Internal Revenue Service Form 1040X. To expedite processing and speed the refund, an inscription such as "Disaster Area Casualty Loss" should be written across the top of the form.

Those planning to claim deductions should take steps to establish proof of damage suffered. Photographs of what's left of the property should be taken now. Later, the "before" photographs showing condition prior to the disaster might be obtained from family photo albums or those of friends and neighbors, the association of CPAs suggests.

To establish the amount of loss, records of purchases and amounts spent over the years on capital improvements are helpful, but don't tell the whole story. Because the deductible loss is the difference between the cost or the value of the property just before the casualty (whichever is less) and the value immediately afterward, depreciation and salvageability must be taken into consideration.

Appraisers with specialized knowledge of the types of property affected (real estate, furnishings, automobiles, etc.) are qualified to make such assessments.

With insurance, it only is necessary to notify the insurance broker and he will have a company adjuster inspect the damage and determine amount of loss.

Damage on uninsured property may be assessed by independent appraisers listed in the telephone yellow pages, the CPAs suggest.

Generally, with the declaration of a federal disaster area, Congress passes a bill permitting the Small Business Administration to grant reconstruction loans with a minimal interest rate to homeowners and businesses hit by disasters.

The Internal Revenue Service distributes Publication 547, which includes instructions and schedules to help a victim organize information about losses.

If those losses exceed $1,000, the IRS suggests using form 4684 to report the losses on personal income taxes. The form can be obtained by phoning IRS offices.

New child restraint law to take effect on April 1

If you drive and carry young children in your car, there is a new Michigan law you should know about, according to the office of the Michigan Secretary of State (MSS).

The law will become effective on April 1 and requires that all children under four years of age be protected when riding in vehicles.

There are two ways to provide such protection to young children. One way is to use a child restraint device and the alternative is to use seat belts.

The new law requires that all children under four years of age be placed in infant restraints when carried in front seats.

Children between one and four years of age who are carried in the back seat may be restrained by seat belts. But children less than a year old must always be held in a restraint device whether carried in the front or back seat, added the MSS office.

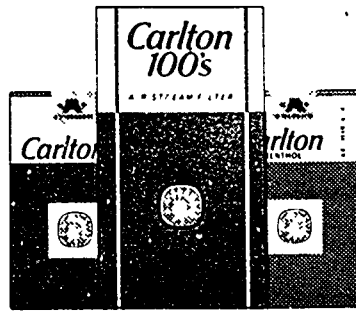

In 1980, 26 children less than four years old were killed and another 3,331 were injured in Michigan highway accidents, according to the MSS. The new law is expected to substantially decrease those deaths and injuries.

Cash, credit and loans—use wisely

Credit cards

Credit cards can be used to buy gasoline, register for a class or travel through Europe. But unless you understand the expenses and risks, you could be making costly mistakes by relying on credit.

Credit cards are popular because they're convenient. Approximately three credit cards exist per family in the United States. But unless they're used properly, that convenience is costly.

One way to curb costs is to pay the balance in full each month and avoid finance charges. The cost of "using" money for more than a month will generally outweigh the convenience of using credit cards.

Billing disputes reduce that convenience. Over 400 complaints were registered solely against departments stores in one city last year. But billing errors aren't as widespread as some may think. The most frequent complaints are misunderstandings caused by such developments as cancellations of ordered merchandise. In some cases, the cancellation hasn't been posted, and the correction doesn't appear on the same billing statement as the order.

Other major sources of misunderstanding are the amounts charged for interest and the annual fee. Truth in lending laws stipulate that both the finance charge and the annual percentage rate of interest be explained to customers.

Understanding the method used to calculate interest helps you compare costs and understand your bill. Don't rely on the annual interest figures. Different methods of figuring can result in different finance charges.

One of three methods is used to calculate interest on bank credit cards like VISA and MASTER-CHARGE. They include the "adjusted balance" method, the "average daily balance" method or the "previous balance" method. Read the credit agreement on the billing statement to find which method is used because it affects what you are charged.

Let's say you have a billing statement for $300 and you pay $200, leaving a $100 balance. During the billing cycle, you charge an additional $200. The annual interest rate is 18 percent, 1.5 percent monthly.

Under the adjusted balance method you are charged interest on the last cycle's unpaid balance — in this case, $100. Your interest totals $1.50. Using the previous balance method, your finance charge is figured on your last balance of $300, a total of $4.50.

Companies that use the average daily balance, however, calculate the finance charge until the end of the cycle. Payments are also subtracted from your balance the day they are received. Interest is charged on the average daily balance. So when you charge items makes a difference.

Using the same scenario, the $100 unpaid balance would exist for the entire cycle and would thus accrue $1.50 interest charges. If you charged the $200 at the beginning of the cycle, it would also accrue interest for 31 days and the charge would be $3 for a total of $4.50.

However, if you charged the $200 with only 10 days remaining in the cycle, you would have a $300 balance for 10 days ($3,000) and a $100 balance for 21 days ($2,100). Your average daily balance would be $184.52 ($5,100 divided by 31 days) and your interest charge would be approximately $2.47.

According to the Fair Credit Billing Act, consumers don't have to pay disputed charges until the company investigates the claim and proves itself correct. If you don't pay, however, and the original charge is not an error, you're liable for any finance charges that accrue.

To insure your rights, notify the company in writing of your complaint, including the amount of the charge and your account number. The company must acknowledge your complaint within 30 days.

Loans

Whenever a loan is made, there's always the risk the money will not be repaid. In supplying a mortgage, banks, savings-and-loans and other financial institutions protect themselves by requiring escrow.

If you're applying for a mortgage, inquire about escrow funds before signing an agreement. Be sure you know what the escrow is for, when deposits are due, if they earn interest and when the account is debited.

By definition, escrow is a document or fund held by a third party and delivered upon completion of an agreement. If you have an escrow account for a mortgage, the money is probably set aside to pay property taxes. The fund assures the lender that taxes will be paid if you go broke or declare bankruptcy.

Not all banks and savings-and-loans pay interest on escrow. So, check your state banking commission (about local regulations) and individual banks and savings-and-loans before you open an escrow account. If there is a state law requiring interest payments to depositors, see where the highest rates are available.

If there isn't a law, check if your money can earn interest anyway. In some states, financial institutions pay interest even though it isn't required.

In some states, where interest payments are required, the rates may be as low as two or three percent. In other states, mortgage lenders are required to match passbook rates. Regulations might differ for savings and commercial banks.

The difference can be important, depending on when the escrow account is debited and credited. The amount of money, of course, correlates to the taxes paid. But a larger difference is whether you pay all your taxes through the bank, your account being credited and debited periodically; or if the bank holds one tax payment until your mortgage is paid off.

For example, even at three percent interest, $300 for one quarter's payments yields $9 for the first year it is held. If the mortgage holder required escrow until the mortgage is paid off, the interest could be substantial. The money is then either applied to the last tax payment or subtracted from the last mortgage payment.

On the other hand, if your account is credited monthly and debited each quarter, your earnings will be lower. On the same $300, you might earn only $4 in interest for the year. If an entire quarterly payment is held for three months, the interest would be $2.25 per quarter.

There is no set amount of money you can plan for escrow until you know your taxes. Usually, the required monies equal one property tax payment, monthly or quarterly, although they sometimes include casualty insurance or assessment costs. So if your taxes are $2,400 yearly, your escrow amount would be $200 or $600 if taxes were paid quarterly. Any interest earned on this money is taxable.

Some consumers regard escrow accounts similar to withholding since it's money automatically set aside to pay future taxes. And, like withholding, you may be better off using an escrow account only if it's required by your mortgage holder. If you budget for taxes and keep these funds in a liquid investment, you can earn interest on your account, the interest will, in almost all cases, be lower.

Service contracts

After buying expensive appliances, consumers are often angry when confronted with high repair bills. Service contracts offer insurance against these bills, but before you sign a binding contract, decide if your repair bills really warrant insurance.

A service contract guarantees repairs for a period of time in exchange for a premium. It's similar to buying a warranty. You can buy contracts from a manufacturer or any of about 40,000 independent contractors, dealers and appliance repair shops.

What the contract covers, how long it's valid, whom you buy it from and the age of your appliance all figure in the cost of the contract.

Not all contracts are the same. Some cover only parts; others include only labor. If you feel that high repair bills are caused by labor costs, you might need a contract that pays for labor. Manufacturer contracts generally cover labor costs, but some independents do not. The difference in contract price could be $20 or $50, but that savings could be cancelled by labor costs that add $12 to $40 per hour. Both labor costs and contract prices vary across the country.

Some contracts allow more service calls than others. In a "preferred" contract, your free calls are limited and each additional call could cost you about $10. Others stipulate that all calls are free, after a deductible of anywhere from $25 to $75.

Complete coverage means all parts and labor costs are insured. This isn't always true. Auto contracts might not cover the brakes or the electrical system. You can buy a service contract for only the television picture tube. If an uncovered part of your appliance breaks, you have to pay for it yourself.

Contract prices depend on the age of your appliance. For the second year of your television's life, a contract might cost $90; for the third year the price could increase to $120.

If your appliance isn't currently under contract and is more than a year old, you might be required to pay $25 or $30 for an initial service call, inspection and possible repairs. The older the appliance, the more costly the contract. But once your appliance gets to a certain age, you can't buy contracts because the probability of repairs is too high.

Keep in mind that most appliances are virtually trouble-free for the first two or three years, the period contractors most like to cover. If you decide to buy a service contract, don't buy when your appliance is still under warranty. Even if you buy future coverage for the appliance, the contractor has the loan of your money during that year.

Make sure your contract provides for in-home service or compensation for pick-up and delivery expenses. If it's a contract for a car, inquire whether you can have the repair done at a local shop and whether towing charges are provided.

In spite of the cost and the overestimated price of repair, experience might convince you to buy a service contract. But since you can't predict when you'll need insurance, compare the cost and services of different contracts before you sign.

ASK THE LAWYER

Questions? Write to Attorney Larry Korn, care of Sliger-Livingston Publications, Post Office Box 160, Northville, Michigan 48167. Questions will be answered on a space-available basis. Answers in this column are directed at specific facts and may not apply in all situations.

Q. I have obtained a ticket for a drawing in which the grand prize is a $238,000 English Tudor home. If I won, what income tax would I have to pay for this grand prize?

A. If the cash market value of the English Tudor home was $238,000 you would pay a tax on the $238,000 less the cost of the ticket as ordinary income on your income tax. That could run as high as one-half of the $238,000.

Q. I was divorced five years ago in another state. In addition to providing support and medical coverage, the divorce agreement states that I had to make payments on and provide for the jointly-owned marital home until all children had reached the age of 18.

A. You would have to make payments on and provide repairs for the jointly-owned marital home until all children reach the age of 18. Had your judgement of divorce provided that you would make payments and provide repairs until your wife re-married or permitted another man to reside in the marital home, that would have terminated your responsibility.

I doubt that after the judgement of divorce has been in effect for five years that any judge would permit you to modify the judgement at this time. The motion to modify the judgement of divorce would have to take place in the state where the judgement was rendered.

Q. Would you explain briefly how to buy treasury bills or treasury notes? Also, is the income deductible from my income tax? Would you also explain about municipal bonds and whether they are deductible?

A. Treasury bills and treasury notes are obligations of the United States. Treasury bills are generally of 13-week, 26-week or 52-week maturity. The minimum amount that you can use to purchase a treasury bill is $10,000.

Treasury notes range in maturing periods from one to 10 years. They are issued in denominations of $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, $100,000 and $1 million.

There is no service charge for the purchase of treasury notes or treasury bills if the purchase is made directly through the Federal Reserve Bank. There is a charge if you purchase treasury bills or treasury notes from your stockbroker or your bank.

The Detroit Branch of the Federal Reserve Bank is located at 160 Fort Street West (P.O. Box 1059) Detroit, Michigan 48231. The telephone number is 1-313-961-6880, extensions 372 or 373. You can call the Federal Reserve or write them for information on how to buy treasury bills, notes or bonds.

The income from treasury notes, bills or bonds is subject to all taxes imposed under the United States Internal Revenue Code. However, their income is exempt from state and local income taxes.

Q. I live with my father. My father has his own car which is insured and I have my own car which is insured. I was driving my father's car when I was involved in an accident. The accident was my fault.

A. My father's car has minimum liability limits. Can I use the bodily injury liability of my policy to help pay for the injuries that the other driver received because of my negligence?

A. The No-fault Act requires policies to provide for residual liability coverage for the use of the motor vehicle. Some companies have an exclusion clause for a relative residing in the same household. That clause must be looked at carefully by your attorney.

A recent case held "The No-fault Act requires policies to provide residual liability coverage for the use of a motor vehicle." The exclusionary clause conflicts with this requirement. Further it is a matter of law that the phrase, "furnished or available for the frequent use or regular use of the name insured," is repugnant to the No-fault Act. Have your attorney carefully review your policy as an insurer may be able to exclude the owner of an insured automobile from liability coverage during his or her use of an uninsured automobile.

Q. I am the owner of a piece of property that is now several years behind in taxes. The treasury wrote and said that they were going to take my property away if I did not pay the taxes. What should I do?

A. Either write or call your treasurer and advise the treasurer that you would like to make monthly payments on the back taxes until they are caught up. Many cities like Detroit will permit you to make part payments of taxes until the arrearage is paid in full.

Q. My father died leaving a will which left me all his property. My father remarried after my mother died and I am wondering whether or not my stepmother will have any interest in the estate that my father left 100 percent to me.

A. In Michigan, a widow has the right to either take under the will or to elect to take under the Michigan Statute of Descent and Distribution or take her dower rights.

Since your stepmother is going to receive nothing under the will it is quite likely that she may elect to take under the Statute of Descent and Distribution because she would then receive her homestead rights, her rights to furniture and furnishings and her right to a marital allowance which means that she could get from $100 to $500 a week for her support for one year from the death of your father.

She might also elect to take her dower. I would have a talk with your stepmother and see what her wishes are. If she elects to take under the will, then your father's wishes would be respected, and perhaps that is what she would like to do.

Q. I filed a complaint to divorce my husband in the circuit court. My husband has not answered my complaint or filed any pleadings. We bought a house in 1970 out of which I paid $4,000 down and my husband paid $1,000 down. The house is now worth $35,000 and we owe $15,000. Will the judge give me the house?

A. If you paid for the major portion of the down payment and you have made most of the mortgage payments on the marital home, it is quite likely the judge will award you the house as your own sole and separate estate.

However, if your husband has worked hard over the years and provided for you and the children and made all the mortgage payments on the marital home, it is quite likely the judge will conclude there is approximately a $20,000 equity in the marital home.

He will probably take into consideration the fact that you paid $4,000 more than your husband did on the down payment and award you the marital home with the provision that you pay your husband anywhere from $5,000 to $10,000 when the youngest child is 18, when you remarry, or when you sell the marital home or whichever comes first.

Q. My husband is about to enter the hospital for a serious operation. I am concerned about being able to cash his Social Security check. Can I sign his name?

A. Rather than sign his name to the Social Security check, I would suggest that you first have your husband execute a Power of Attorney. This will give you the authority to sign his name, sign his checks, sign him into the hospital and authorize surgery.

A Power of Attorney is a simple instrument and I would recommend that you see an attorney immediately to have one executed by your husband.

Q. My husband and I have substantial amounts of property in our own individual names. Would we have to pay any taxes if we each executed deeds transferring all the property to ourselves as husband and wife?

A. President Reagan had a new tax bill passed under the terms of which a husband and wife may transfer assets to each other without any tax liability. No gift tax is assessed in the transfer of property from a husband to a wife or from a husband and wife to each other.

Vitamins are essential to well-being

Do you have a medical question or problem? Write to Woodland Medical Center — Novi, care of Sliger-Livingston Publications, Post Office Box 160, Northville, Michigan 48167. Personal replies are not possible.

Q. Please discuss vitamins, and particularly large doses of them. Is it true that some can be harmful taken in large amounts? Will vitamin C cure the common cold, or will vitamin E enhance one's sex drive?

A. Vitamins are substances found in foods that make possible many essential body metabolic functions. In western society, where well-balance diets are standard, deficiencies of vitamins are fortunately rare, and we get the required relatively minute amounts we need daily.

The chief needs for vitamin supplements in our diets stem from specific events, such as a disease that does not allow our bodies to use them from our food, or special situations, such as pregnancy, when extra amounts are required.

Any diet that restricts food groups may require special supplements of the kinds of vitamins normally obtained from that food group. Vegetarians, for example, have to be sure their diet regimens are not depriving them of vitamins of the B group, for example.

Elderly people, who may have incomplete diets for one reason or another, frequently require the one-a-day type vitamin supplements. It is important, too, that children get their full range of vitamins.

Generally speaking, though, any well-balanced diet supplies our vitamin needs, and in the absence of conditions, such as those mentioned, supplementation remains a controversial matter.

Even more controversial is the subject of massive, or mega-doses, of vitamins. Certainly, large doses of Vitamins A and D can be harmful. These are among the so-called fat-soluble vitamins, which have the potential for building up into toxic amounts in the body.

The common cold Vitamin C is well known. Studies thus far have failed to produce any convincing evidence of its effectiveness in preventing the common cold, which is a virus caused illness. Nor is there any evidence that Vitamin E will effect a person's libido.

A word more about vitamin needs. If a person has been chronically ill, they might need supplementation. The chronic alcoholic may need supplementation, because they very likely have deprived themselves of proper nutrition. Other people need vitamins because they have intestinal problems that do not allow normal absorption of them in the body. Frequently, a person may need extra vitamins following surgery.

In summary, then: Yes, vitamins are essential; yes, there are situations in which supplements are necessary for health; yes, massive doses of certain kinds of vitamins can be harmful if taken over extended periods; yes, the normal, well-rounded western diet will provide all the vitamins most people need.

Here is a partial list of vitamins and the amounts of them necessary daily for health:

Vitamin A — 5,000 I.U.'s
Vitamin C — 45 mgs.
Vitamin D — 400 I.U.'s
Vitamin E — 12 to 15 I.U.'s
Folic acid — 400 micrograms
Niacin — 12 to 20 mgs.
Riboflavin — 1.1 to 1.8 micrograms
Needs for vitamins vary depending on age, and also change for women during pregnancy or while lactating.

Q. I broke my nose many years ago playing football. Unfortunately, it was not corrected then. Now, at 42, I have all kinds of difficulties, chiefly in breathing. I also seem to be sensitive to pollens and other plant substances. Can the broken nose be related to my allergy problems? Would having surgery at my age be possible, and would it help now? Who should I see to find out?

A. You should be examined by your family doctor to learn just what is, or is not, contributing to this breathing difficulty. An allergic condition can cause congestion of the nasal tissue and obstruct that airway. The fractured nose might also be a factor. Both of these conditions combined can add up to a serious obstruction.

There are tests to find out if a person is allergic, and, if so, to what substances. An allergist is a specialist in that. The doctor might also want to refer you to an ear-nose-throat specialist to determine the status of the nose and whether surgery is needed and will help the breathing problem.

Age should be no bar to this kind of surgery.

Here's how to manage your utility bills

Have your monthly bills for gas, electricity, water, oil and telephone services been climbing at a rate faster than you've budgeted for?

From 1976 to 1981 those costs on a national average rose 79 percent. Nonetheless, with proper planning, you can manage your monthly utility bills just as you manage other household expenses.

What rate do you pay for utilities?

Utilities have a set rate for a certain amount of usage, but rates are not always the same. For example, phone rates are high during daytime and lower at night. Electricity costs, if air conditioning is involved, rise sharply during summer months.

What is estimated billing?

Estimated billing stabilizes monthly gas and electric payments by averaging bills over an entire year. This helps you sidestep season highs. However, don't confuse this with estimates made when the meter reader can't gain access to your meter. Those estimates might be based on recent usage which could be higher than your current use.

What other fees should you check?

If you pay a flat rate telephone service fee, find out what portion covers equipment rental. If you buy your own phone, you might save money in the long run, but it's wise to check first.

How will the AT&T reorganization affect your phone bill?

Now's a good time to review all the charges on your telephone bill because the billing system may change. It's possible that you will get separate phone bills — one for local service, one for long distance and another for equipment rental.

According to Paula Horii of AT&T, details related to separating the parent company from its operating units and the impact on billing procedures will be ironed out and announced in the next six months.

In the meantime, ask your phone company representative to explain what your rental and local service charges cover. The boundaries of local service could change, according to telephone company officials. Local areas will be established by state regulatory bodies and local service rates are expected to increase.

On the plus side, the federal excise tax on telephone service was reduced January 1 from two to one percent and will phase out altogether by 1985.

Should you be collecting more in### terest on your deposit?

If you paid a deposit in order to get phone or utility service, the interest on this deposit may have risen in your state. Your utility company or state public service commission will know. Most utility companies will return your deposit with interest after a year by deducting it from your bill.

How can you cut costs?

The best way to cut costs and keep your payments stable is to monitor your use of utilities. Try to be more efficient.

Electricity, for example, is billed in kilowatt hours, which is watts multiplied by hours used divided by 1,000.

Let's assume you have five 100-watt lightbulbs in your home that could be replaced by 60-watt bulbs. You're paying for an extra 40 watts for each hour you use each bulb. If you use each bulb for two hours nightly, you're spending an extra $2.16 monthly (based on the average U.S. rate for electricity).

Lead you in the paths of truth and righteousness

Remember the cross you bear is nothing com-

Remembering

As I sit here trying to recall
The years when I was, oh, so small
There was Aunt Bert, whom I loved so dearly
When Mom died, she took her place so completely
Then Aunt Clara comes to mind
And my she treated me just fine
I was young when you came to see
The folks and kids of the Hein Family
Which Lil, Vi and I were also a part
By thought and words you showed we, too, were in your heart
Uncle Ed, your laughter and with coins tingling in your pocket
Are two things I remember as I sat twisting my locket
Aunt Liz with her beautiful white hair
I'm sure no one can ever compare
Your visits were always a treat
As Aunt Bert rose to the door you folks to greet
"Why Ed and Liz come on in" she'd say with a smile
"We haven't seen you for a while."
There were cakes and pies baked for our fun day
With relatives to share with us on Sunday
The jokes, laughter and tears were part of each visit
Which all of us enjoyed to our limit
Soon homeward bound you'd all be gone
Then Aunt Bert would say, "Bedtime. There's face washing to be done."
So off to bed we had to go. Even Marvin known as "Little Joe"
Then her voice heard from the stairs, "Don't forget those important prayers."
Our minds still active recalling the day
Somehow, we did thank God for your visit that Sunday
We loved them more than words could tell
As you and yours chose our home to sit a spell.

Candles

Candlelight supreme
A mood entirely too serene
Flickering hopes upon the wall
Shaded questions among us all
Waxed dreams for everyone here
Dipped into the future, ever so near Melting drops, running to its base
Candles and candles, a hot burning race
Completely gutted, no light to be found
Our hopes all melted, no smiles,
Not a sound.

Terry E. West

Realization

Out for a walk in the snowdrifts following a lonely track.
what matters the steps are approaching there is naught to expect coming back.

It is simply an aimless wandering
To have something to do.
The stillness is unbroken
And my thoughts are all of you.

I sit down on a stump to rest
I feel depressed and blue.
I now hear the rippling water
And a crow's loud caw caw too.

But what is the use of dreaming?
I've done it my whole life through.
And the only way to be happy
Is to think and then to do.

I am up and away in a moment
I have a great deal to do.
I must prepare for the morrow
And study the whole day through.

Through work must come our pleasures.
I cannot dream of you.

M. Lambert

Storm

The winter storm has passed. I heard the lonely howling wind, as it passed my window. It's icy fingers desperately tearing at any crevice, trying to enter my humble dwelling.
Had I looked out I would have seen, under the streetlight, swinging to and fro, snow driven by the merciless wind, in its mad rush to, heaven knows where.

By dawn the wind may be gone, and in the early morning light, all will be pure white stillness.
The rounded soft contours of snow covering everything will speak of calm, and one can hardly imagine the storm that raged at midnight.

Life is like that it seems, youth with a mad rush of desire, passions that drive one into every facet of endeavor.

There are also moments of quiet stillness when all is peaceful. Rare they may be, yet we need these lulls to renew our strength, to fortify our resistance against any storm life may send us.

Until all is calm again, then we can say, "The storm has passed."

Cheese co-op flourishes here

If grocery cooperatives save money, why not a cheese co-op for lovers of mozzarella, white cheddar, havarti, gouda, swiss, muenster, blue, parmesan, Monterey Jack or even sliced American or brick?

The idea seemed a natural to Sue Shepard who last spring had been hearing of a grocery cooperative and the great savings involved from a friend in Dearborn Heights.

As the author of the Northville Cooperative Preschool newsletter, she inserted an item in the May 1981 issue asking if anyone would be interested in starting a local cooperative.

Even she was surprised, she relates, at how the idea took off as it began in July.

Noting that cheese is one of the easiest foods for which to get discounts, the Novi resident of 23075 Beck says modestly her idea "is working out nicely."

When the savings range from $1 a pound to half the supermarket price, it's not hard to understand why.

"At first it was overwhelming," Sue Shepard says as she recalls that the co-op enjoyed "instant success." The cheese cooperative now is limited to the present 70 members, but a waiting list was started this month. Members also indicate they would be willing to help others start a similar venture.

Last Thursday 17 members took their turn weighing, cutting and wrapping the various cheese orders that were neatly placed in 55 grocery bags for members to pick up between 12:30 and 1:30 p.m. at First Presbyterian Church.

At first members met in homes to cut and distribute the cheese, but in December the cooperative moved into larger quarters rented at the church for the once-a-month operation.

Savings range from $1 a pound to half the supermarket prices

Members pay $2 to join and are required to place an order at least once every three months.

Each month members receive a list of cheeses available with approximate prices. For the March co-op last Thursday there was gouda at $2.11 a pound; sharp cheddar, $1.97; mozzarella, $1.68; and crumbled blue cheese, $1.97, as a price sampling of some of the 23 varieties available.

The cooperative also has expanded to include turkey rolls, hard salami, cottage cheese and butter — all at considerable savings.

"People really do use a lot of cheese," Shepard observes, noting that the average order from a member is 10 pounds. No minimum number of pounds is required, however.

The co-op operation deliberately has been kept simple, members explain.

It's also fun to help cut and weigh the cheeses that come in rounds, cylinders and loaves, comments member Kathi Jerome who often drops by for the monthly distribution even when it isn't her turn to work.

As it is set up, everybody works in some way about once every three months.

The co-op has borrowed a scale. One member who is a nurse at Providence Hospital noticed an unused Toledo scale in a hospital storeroom and arranged for the co-op to purchase it.

Membership dues and a five percent surcharge added as needed have enabled the venture to rent the space at the church and financed purchase of cutting boards and the special knives the women found they needed.

"We've tried to keep it simple," emphasizes founder Shepard. An adult education English teacher in the community education program of the Plymouth-Canton School System, she and others who set up the cooperative have been able to keep the program free of time-consuming red tape.

Order sheets are available a month in advance and must be returned the Friday before pick-up date, usually the third Thursday of the month with April being an exception. Because of Easter, cutting and delivery will be April 23.

Orders are paid for when placed with Shepard, Kathy Andersen or Peg O'Doherty. Checks are made payable to Patricia Rossing.

Monthly orders are then placed with the supplier in Grosse Pointe. In the early days of the co-op, orders had to be picked up there. Now, the volume is sufficient that the order is delivered to the church. The deli items are purchased from a Plymouth wholesaler.

After cheese is delivered about 10 a.m., other members go to work, operating in groups of two or three, cutting and packaging from 10 a.m. to 12:20 p.m. Then orders are picked up until 1:30 p.m. Baby sitters are available at the church for workers who pay $1 per child for this service.

There is a master schedule of work times with members responsible for finding their own substitutes.

All the rules are outlined on a single sheet of paper given each member joining the cooperative.

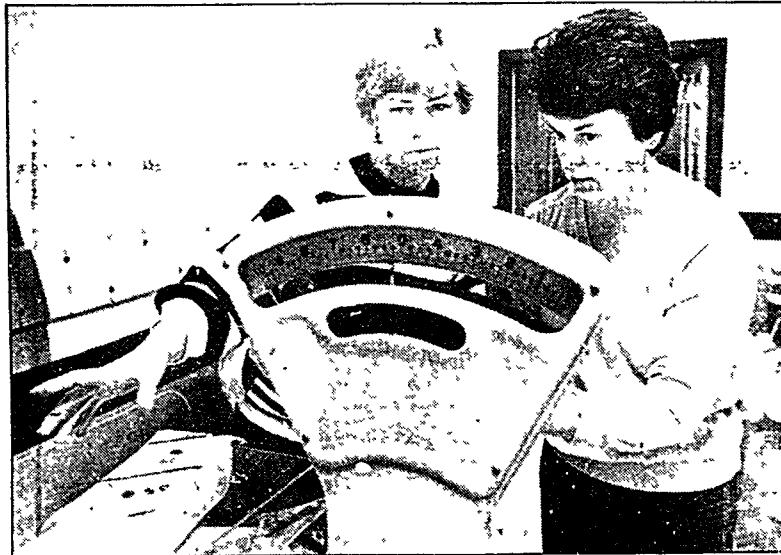

The surcharge on the first three months' orders has created the surplus to cover expenses and buy wrappings, bags and other supplies.

While Sue Shepard initially considered having a local food cooperative, she's happy now just to have the cheese operation. Recalling the Christmas order of 500 pounds, she declares she has no intention now of branching out.

There's no reason to change a fun project that has succeeded because, as Sue Shepard observes, "Everybody's interested in saving money."

Crowds bid for store's contents at weekend auction

By JEANDAY

A cardboard box even sold for $2 with two ladies bidding for it," reported Neil A. Nichols who said he was "real pleased" with his first local auction. The Northville resident and recent auction school graduate sold the contents of Gifts by Marison at 115 East Main last weekend. Owners Gene and Marison Dixon decided to hold the auction when the building owner announced expansion of his liquor store into the store. Scheduled as a Saturday event, the auction halted at midnight and then continued from noon until 6 p.m. Sunday as Nichols and his father, Neil E. Nichols, sold merchandise and fixtures. Lowest price for one of the Tiffany-style lighting fixtures was $70 with the others bringing a bit more, Nichols recalled.

The auction took longer than expected because the lanky auctioneer was willing to sell items individually for the most part — although assorted cards were sold in bags of 24, usually bringing about $3 (one successful bidder, however, found she had acquired 24 bar mitzvah congratulations).

"Here's springtime in the swamp," Nichols announced as bidding began for two cuddling, cuddly green stuffed frogs — which were sold for $7. Bidding was brisk for all the stuffed animals with pink Dumbo elephants going twice at $6, stuffed kangaroo, $10, a skunk, $8, bunnies, $5 and $9.

Some of the audience that overflowed the shop as the auction began at 10:30 a.m., a half hour before it was scheduled, came for a special type item, such as a Hummel Christmas bell whose $38 price reportedly was close to retail. A large Royal Doulton Indian head mug for which Nichols attempted to start the bidding at $50 drew no response until a $10 bid was offered. It quickly rose to $15, $20, $25, $30, $35 and then was knocked down for $37.

Large jars with floral and geometric decorations — made in the Philippines — sold for $7 each. Other items the gavel fell on included 13 Petoskey and jade stones, $24; carved wooden bookends, $15; wood framed mirror, $11; a bucket of red, white and blue carnations "crocheted by some little lady in India or Northville," $9; a Little People plate, $6.

Other bargains included a box of 30 cube pencil sharpeners, $17; 13 miniature china watering cans, $20 (but bearing original tags of $7 each); set of soup bowls, $10; ceramic statue of George Washington, $30.

Nichols' chant, "Do I have a $10 bill?" for a 50th anniversary Popeye plate, however, had no takers Saturday, and it went back on the shelf until later.

The Northville Record

NHS cagers ousted in regional final

By JOHN MYERS

Detroit Cooley's Mr. Inside and Mr. Outside were too much for Northville's boys' basketball team to handle as the Cardinals soared past the Mustangs, 96-64, for the regional championship at Livonia Franklin last Friday.

Cooley's Mr. Inside, Roy Tarpley, and Mr. Outside, Anthony Watson, combined for 72 points, eight more than the entire Northville team, to pace the Cardinals in scoring.

The 6-foot-4 1/2 Tarpley, who practically scored at will inside on the smaller Mustang team, scored 41 points. The 6-2 Watson provided the outside shooting for Cooley, and added a few dunks of his own, en route to a 31 point night.

The loss ended Northville's successful season at 13-11. This is the furthest the Mustangs have advanced in Class A competition, and since Northville advanced to the Class B semifinals in 1962 under coach Dave Longridge where the Mustangs lost to eventual state champion River Rouge, 72-53, to end their season at 20-1.

Still, Mustang coach Tim Lutes was proud of his team's accomplishments during the tournament run, and so were the players.

"The kids came out feeling super," he explained. "They felt very, very positive about their performance."

A realistic approach was taken to the game, Lutes said, with the team knowing it probably would not win, but yet remembering those "once-in-a-while upsets" could occur.

"We were going to attack the basket hard," said Lutes, which is exactly what the Mustangs did — consistently pushing the ball hard up the floor on Cooley's full-court pressure defense.

"The kids battled hard," the fourth-year mentor explained. "We had a heck of a time. We ended the season on a positive note."

As for the performance of Tarpley and Watson, Lutes asked, "Where else do you meet two major college players on one team?"

Tarpley scored 14 points in both the first and third quarters and added eight points in the second and five points in the final quarter to account for his 41 points.

The senior center, who has verbally committed to attend the University of Michigan, netted 17 field goals and connected on seven of 10 free throws.

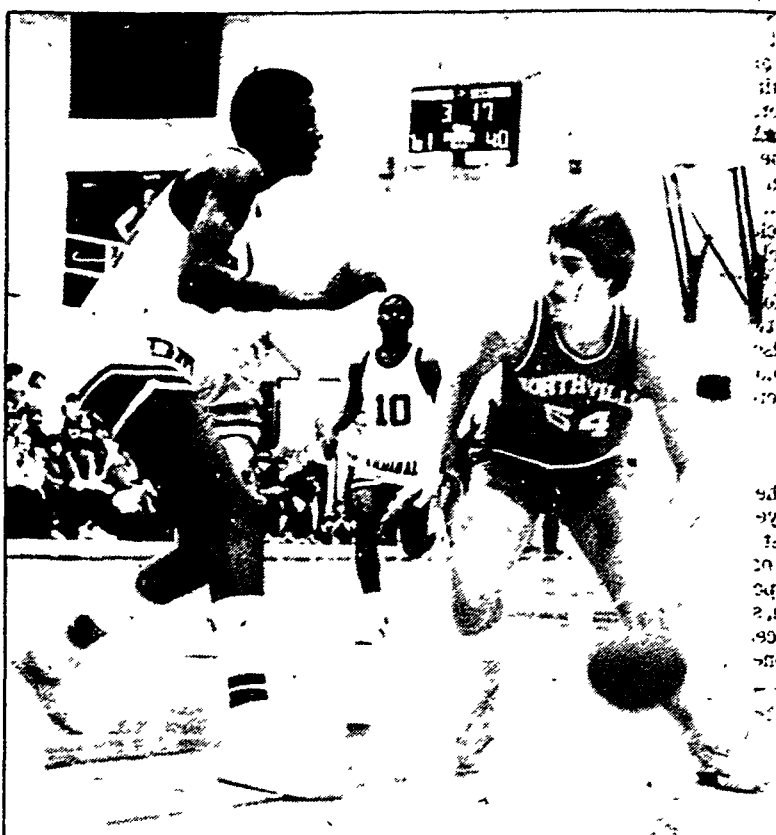

"Which is not bad," said Lutes, who added U of M basketball coach Bill Frieder attended the game to watch his prize recruit.

"(Tarpley) has great hands and runs well (for a big man) up and down the floor," he added.

Sophomore center Steve Schrader paced the Mustangs in scoring with 16 points, while senior Carl Lang added 14 points. Tim McLaughlin tossed in eight, Dave Malinowski and Rod Kurzawa each had six, Tim Wagner had five, Doug Eaker had four, John Foley and Dave Bach each had two and Ray McDonough had one point to round out the scoring.

Northville connected for 22 field goals, to Cooley's 40, and made 20 of 43 free

House on all area volleyball squad

It is not really so surprising Walled Lake Western dominated The Sliger-Livingston Publications All Area volleyball teams this season. When one considers the Warriors lost only once this season, to Portage Northern in the Class A state volleyball meet at Howell Saturday, it seems only natural most of the talent would come from this squad. Also, the Western Six Conference champions had rung up 21 straight victories until that point.

In all, five Western players were named to either the first or second team as selected by the sports editors of the Northville Record, Milford Times, Novi/Walled Lake News and South Lyon Herald.

The 12 players tabbed to either the first or second team were chosen from eight schools (Northville, Novi, Walled Lake Central, Western, Milford, Lakeland and South Lyon).

Only one player from Northville, Melinda House, was selected to the team. The same held true for Milford, Lakeland, South Lyon and Novi. Central had two players placed on the teams.

Also, Northville's Leslie Kucher was named to the honorable mention list.

Here now is a look at this year's top 12 players:

FIRST TEAM

The Mustangs may have won only three matches all year, but MELINDA HOUSE was Northville's most consistent player. The 5-foot-9 senior served the ball 130 times, of which 120 were good (either for points or kept in play) for 92 percent. In addition, she had 156 hits, of which 125 were good, for 80 percent.

One of the key ingredients in Western's success this season was the play of junior ANDREA CORDEIRO, a transfer student from Brazil. In only 14 games (she didn't come out for the team until after Western ran off to an 8-0 record), Cordeiro was a threat at the net with 89 spikes and 41 kills while serving at a 75 percent pace (58 of 78).

While Cordeiro put many a team away with her kills it was BRIDGET ARENS, a 5-4 senior, who made it all possible through her serving and sets. Arens' roundhouse serve confused many an opponent as she successfully made good on 170 of 205 for an 83 percent clip.

Another key figure in Western's rise to state runner-up status was CATHY FERGIN, a 5-7 senior. Fergin drilled 227 spikes of her own including 51 kills while failing on only 18 others.

One of the top players for Novi was NANCY SMOLINSKI, who helped her team to nine wins this year. The 5-6 senior played the power spot for the Wildcats to which her six kills and 20 spikes can attest. She was 84 of 99 serving for 85 percent with 19 aces, and was 159 of 174 for 92 percent in forearm passing.

The premier setter in the area this season was Central's KATHY NARDUCCI, a 5-4 senior. She was successful on 584 of 596 attempts for 98 percent. Also, she made good of 237 of 253 forearm passes for 94 percent and had 21 spikes. In the serving department, Narducci was 187 of 203 for 92 percent.

SECOND TEAM

Another main cog in the Western volleyball machine was SUE HOEFT. A 5-8 senior, Hoeft rang up 227 spikes and 48 kills while playing in the same front row as Cordeiro and Fergin.

Rounding out the selections to the second team for Western is JILL ORCUTT, a 5-7 senior. Orcutt had the luxury of serving with Fergin, Cordeiro and Hoeft in the front row and Arens setting — Western's most powerful alignment. On the season Orcutt made good on 137 of 172 serves (80 percent) while garnering 157 spikes in 187 attempts and 25 kills.

Western named area's best club

There wasn't any doubt; not this year. This year's Sliger-Livingston Publications area girls' volleyball Team of the Year and Coach of the Year go hand in hand — Walled Lake Western is the 1982 area Team of the Year while its coach, Ron Fuson, is this year's Coach of the Year. Easily.

As Western-Six Conference titlists, district and regional champions, the Warriors ran up a 21-game winning streak over the course of the season before finally falling to state champion Portage Northern in the state finals at the Class A State Championship at Howell High School last Saturday (March 20).

Unranked all season long, Western swept eight straight games to win the Western Six title before surprising perennial Kensington Valley Conference powers Brighton and Howell enroute to its district championship.

Over the year Western won 43 games while losing only 11 for an astounding .796 winning percentage in terms of games won to games played.

More incredibly, in two years as the Western coach, Fuson's teams have run off 34 triumphs against only six defeats for a .850 winning percentage. A team of juniors last year, Western put together a 13-5 mark prior to this season's 21-1 record.

Throughout the year, five of Fuson's players went the full circuit while two others shared front-line and back-row duties. Five of the seven regulars are also seniors, and another, Andrea Cordeiro, is a junior transfer student slated to return to Brazil this fall, thus leaving Fuson with but one returning starter next fall. Only sophomore Kristin VanPutten will return.

The others, Sue Hoeft, Bridget Arens, Jill Orcutt, Lauren Wilson and Cathy Fergin will all graduate this spring.

From the beginning of the season, Western, a rather short (its tallest player is 5-9) but scrappy team, blew through its first eight opponents enroute to an 8-0 record — all without Cordeiro who did not try out for the team until late-January.

hrows to the Cardinals' 16 of 30. Cooley outrebounded Northville, 47-31, with Schrader cleaning the glass for nine boards and Lang hauling in seven caroms.

Cooley raced to an 8-0 lead in the opening two minutes of the game and led 23-9 after one period. The Cardinals outscored Northville in the second quarter, 22-1, to take a 45-30 advantage at halftime.

Cooley blew the game wide open in the third stanza and took a commanding 3-43 lead into the final stanza. Both coaches substituted freely in the last quarter with Cooley outscoring the Mustangs, 23-21, for the final outcome.

"Aside from the third quarter, it could have been a 14 or 15 point ballgame," Lutes noted.

"We just wanted to work hard and see what happened," he added. "(Cooley) had just too much talent."

Last year, Cooley topped Northville, 70-58, in an opening round regional game at Franklin. The Mustangs, who were paced most of the year by Dave Ward and Dave Greer, ended the season at 18-5.

Northville made it to the regional final with a shaky 50-46 win over a scrappy Livonia Bentley squad last week Wednesday.

Two free throws by Eaker with three seconds left in the game sealed the triumph for the Mustangs.

As in the Walled Lake Central contest to win the district crown, Northville hit eight critical free throws in the final quarter while the Bulldogs, who were a miserable seven of 19 from the line in the second half, missed six from the charity stripe.

The Mustangs gained a 13-7 advantage after one period, and built up a nine point lead midway through the second stanza before Bentley connected on eight of 10 charity tosses to close Northville's lead at the half to 28-25.

Once again, Northville tried to pull away from Bentley in the third quarter by building up a seven point edge at one point, only to lead, 38-36, heading into the final period.

"I think both teams felt the pressure of being in the regional," Lutes explained.

Hockey contest to feature Detroit Red Wing Oldtimers

Remember the days when the Detroit Red Wings enjoyed better times in the National Hockey League, instead of the hard times the club now is experiencing?

Well, Northville's Kiwanis Club will be bringing back a taste of yesteryear when it stages an exhibition hockey contest featuring the Detroit Red Wing Oldtimers March 26 at the Plymouth Ice Arena.

The preliminary event, which pits the former Red Wing greats against all-star youngsters from Northville, Plymouth, Livonia and Novi, will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Tickets may be purchased from any Kiwanian or from Genitti's Hole-in-the-Wall restaurant, Northville Travel Plans or the Hamlet party store.

For more information, call Kiwanis president Salim Abraham at 349-1474 (home) or 329-0255 (business).

Broderick, Aaron place at state meet

So close, but yet so far.

That is how senior Paula Broderick and junior Amy Aaron felt after they competed in the vaulting event at the state Class A gymnastics meet Friday night at Plymouth Canton High School.

Both were competing in the preliminary round Friday in hopes of advancing to the state finals Saturday afternoon. However, Broderick and Aaron barely missed making the cut for a return visit.

Broderick scored an 8.6 and Aaron an 8.5 to miss by one- and two-tenths of a point, respectively, returning Saturday as one of the top eight performers left to compete for the state championship.

Broderick's score placed her 11th overall and Aaron, competing for the first time in a state meet, was 12th.

Northville coach Debbie Heck said both Broderick and Aaron were pleased with their performances, and added, "There was some degree of disappointment to get so close (in vaulting)."

"They did real well, and they had fun," she added.

Broderick also competed in the floor exercise event. She posted a mark of 8.4, but Heck was unable to say where that placed her.

Broderick has competed at the state meet in each of her three years at Northville. Last year, she hurt her hand in the uneven bars event, but still finished to post an 8.1. She was 11th in the floor exercise with a score of 8.6 and was 18th in the balance beam with a 7.7.

As a sophomore, she placed 11th in the floor exercise with a mark of 8.6 and was 18th in the balance beam with a mark of 7.7.

East Kentwood won the team title this season. Junior Jodi Thompson, of East Kentwood, won the all around competition. She was first in the vault, balance beam, floor exercise and the uneven bars.

Ocelot basketball teams end with losses

Both the Schoolcraft College men's and women's basketball teams concluded their seasons with losses, but the men's gymnastics team took second at a triangular meet.

The Ocelot men's cage team lost to Henry Ford and Mott Community colleges to complete their regular season. Schoolcraft finished at 16-10 overall and 10-8 in conference play.

Mott crushed the Ocelots, 106-87, in Flint February 20 despite a 33-point performance by Schoolcraft's Phil Blevins, who also hauled down 15 rebounds.

Right behind Blevins was George Merriweather with 14 points, Bill Keyes with 13 and Junior Staten with 10.

The Ocelots lost a tough game to Henry Ford, 83-77, despite another strong scoring performance from Blevins, who connected for 28 points.

Merriweather tossed in 20 points and Manuel Smith added 10 points.

The women's cage squad dropped contests to Henry Ford, 84-22, and St. Clair Community College, 97-54.

Peck was the top scorer against St. Clair with 21 points, while teammates Gerri Shufeld and Kelly Magy each contributed 12 points.

Karen Lucas was the squad's leading scorer against Henry Ford with 10 points. The team finished the regular season with a 3-17 overall record and 1-16 in the conference.

The men's gymnastics team placed second behind Central Michigan University, but ahead of the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater at the meet in Mount Pleasant February 19.

CMU tallied 170.9 points to Schoolcraft's 159.5 and Whitewater's 149.45.

Schoolcraft had problems as all-arounders Bruce Schafer and Chuck Thompson had to compete with minor injuries.

Is Mine A Chiropractic Case?

Body's Warning Signals and Chiropractic Science

How long has it been since you really felt good? How long since you got up in the morning with the energy and bounce that make you glad to greet the new day?

How long has it been since you really listened to your body?

The human body is a marvelous machine. It's a carefully integrated unit, not just the sum of its parts. And when any one of those parts isn't functioning properly, the body sends its signals, just as your car does when there's something wrong.

IF IT'S YOUR CAR, you may be aware that it's "running a little rough." You may not be getting the miles per gallon you once did. If you have learned to recognize the warning signals, you know when it's time to take your car to the shop, to prevent a total breakdown.

But many of us fail to listen to our bodies as well as we listen to our automobile engines.

Nobody likes pain.

So instead of listening to their bodies, many people's first inclination at the sign of an ache or pain is to take a medication to cover it up. This is like turning off a fire alarm without attempting to put out the fire.

PAIN IS IMPORTANT to your well-being. It is nature's early warning signal, a life-and-death message relayed through your nervous system that tells you when something is wrong.

As such, pain is merely a symptom and not the cause of most health problems. Therefore, the sensible approach to health is not merely to turn off the pain (or treat the symptom), but rather to find the causes and correct them.

Chiropractic recognizes that nerve interference is the underlying cause of many types of painful disorders, for interference with nerve control impairs a wide variety of bodily functions.

THUS, THE DOCTOR of Chiropractic seeks to maintain the neural integrity of the body, free from spinal defects and postural distortions. He seeks to establish normal function in order to allow body organs to work properly.

He seeks to enable your body's natural restorative powers to operate the body to eliminate basic health problems as well as associated pain and discomfort.

Never judge the seriousness of a pain by its location. The central nervous system originates in the brain and extends through the spinal column, reaching every major part of the body.

With more than three million impulses generated in the nervous system every second, an atomical or functional disturbance can result in pain or malfunction at most any point of the body.

OFTEN THE LOCATION of the pain has no known correlation with the source of the health problem. If the pain alone is treated, the health disorder may be left to become more serious.

As a Doctor of Chiropractic, I urge you to listen—really listen—to your body. And if you pick up warning signals, don't mask them with pills or pain-killers.

Make an appointment today for you and your family to have a spinal examination.

"Back to work again"

Recently I had a strange accident. My son used my truck to go to work. So I had to use my wife's car. I am a 6 feet tall while she is only 5'3". While struggling to get into her small car and adjust the seat to my comfort, I felt a click in my neck. Before I got to work, I felt pain. By noon I could hardly turn my head. At 1:30 I went home because of the pain. The next morning I could not raise my head to get out of bed. It hurt terribly.

I went to Dr. Nick for x-rays and he told me my neck bones had misaligned and I had a severely pinched nerve. I am a brick mason, and my back and neck is essential to my work. In two days I was feeling much better with the Doctors treatments. I could feel myself becoming progressively better each day. I found strength. I thought I had lost 10 years ago. My appetite has increased and I have found my job is not a drag anymore. I have fun at work now and laughing is easy. My family has noticed the change in my attitudes and that to me is very important. In closing I must thank the Doctor and his staff for making me feel...let's say "young" again. At 54 years, its fun.

Thanks Dr. Nick.

Chiropractic Never Fails Me

I have visited chiropractors in the past and have always been afforded relief after a few initial contacts. Recently I experienced what appeared to be a pinched nerve in the upper neck and shoulder area after several sessions of racquetball. Seeing advertising for chiropractic in my neighborhood is what initiated my original visit.

During the time, I was experiencing problems with sleeping and with everyday general activities such as sitting, walking, standing and driving. Because of these problems I found it difficult to function at work and at home without being easily irritated.

Now that I have completed several weeks of adjustments I no longer experience any pain, am sleeping well and playing racquetball once again. And I find my disposition through daily activities and routines much more pleasant.

"I Threw Away my Pain Pills"

Twenty-eight years ago I was treated by bone specialists for "deteriorating discs and arthritis" in my spine.

I was put into traction, wore a back brace and was told to take pain pills.

They said that when it got so bad I couldn't stand it they would do a spinal fusion, but they wouldn't guarantee anything.

When Dr. Nick opened his office my family and I decided to put ourselves in his care.

In just a few short weeks I have improved so much I can't believe it!

I have more energy and stamina than I've had in years. I'm sure that thanks to Dr. Nick I will soon be pain free.

I hold a job with a lot of physical stress. Without Chiropractic care I just couldn't function.

Thank You!

Most Common Complaint Is the Headache

What's the most common complaint that people bring to our Chiropractic Clinic?

More than half of the people who visit our office complain about headaches.

It has been estimated that there are over 200 different causes of headaches. Head pain can be a dull throb, a severe ache, a sharp, constant pounding or any variation in between. They may be classified as mechanical, functional, toxic and reflex. These are the most common types and they are caused by one common factor: nerve pressure.

When tension builds up in the neck muscles it causes tremendous pressure on the nerves. And that pressure is responsible for the headache.

Based upon scientific studies, every organ, gland, muscle and tissue of the body must be supplied with its quota of vital nerve energy. This energy, which originates in the brain, passes through the spinal column and branches out to every organ in the body. If these delicate nerves are subject to pressure, a distressing condition develops.

The Doctor of Chiropractic will correct this nerve interference and release the pent-up pressure that causes tension and headaches. Upon locating the misaligned segments of the spine, your chiropractor will make an adjustment to restore the misaligned vertebra and remove the pressure on the delicate nerve trunks.

When this pressure is relieved, the vital nerve energy will flow unchecked and tension that builds in the muscles is relaxed. All glands, muscles and body parts will begin working together. Headaches are very rare in the human body under these conditions.

If you're plagued with headaches, let your chiropractor help. He'll relieve the pressure, relax the tension, relieve the pain, and restore your good health.

"COULDN'T WALK DOWNSTAIRS"

I live in a high rise apartment for senior citizens. It used to be that the walk from my room to my car was too much for me. I saw an advertisement for Dr. Nick's office so I decided to see him. After examining me, he found that my neck and hipbones were not lined up right. He started me on a program of adjustments and in a short time I found I could make it to the car non-stop and not be out of breath either.

I have also noted that I feel stronger and more relaxed which lets me sleep a lot better. My nerves have eased up and now I can hold my food down. Before seeing Dr. Nick, I used to vomit and had diarrhea a lot.

If you're tired of going to doctors that tell you "you're just getting old" or "it's just your nerves," then see Dr. Nick. You'll feel better for it.

"So, as a last resort"

AUGUST 1978
months.

APRIL 1979

Our son John had an auto accident and was in a coma for 4 1/2 months. We started taking John home from the V. A. hospital on weekends only. The doctors there said John had reached his maximum and they suggested a convalescent home. Well we weren't ready to do that. So I took my vacation and three months leave of absence and brought him home for good.

SEPTEMBER 1979
John's left side was still paralyzed, his left hand clenched in a fist and held up to his chest and his speech was impaired. But one day he woke up and said his first word, "Mom." It was then that I knew there was a chance.

WE started exercising his leg and he got to the point where he could lift it about 6 inches off the bed. But that was it. We needed something else.

FEBRUARY 1980
The Saturday morning mail brought in a flier from the DOINIDIS CHIROPRACTIC LIFE CENTER. My husband and I discussed it with my mother. We were willing to try anything so we called to make an appointment.

Dr. Doinidis x-rayed John's neck, back and pelvic bone and showed us where John's spine was twisted way to the left. He started adjustments that same day on John.

APRIL 1980
The progress John has made is remarkable. He is able to lift his left leg up almost all the way and can now even stand by himself. His speech has improved and his humor and attitude is much better. We just don't know what surprise John will show us next.

All these improvements in John have come about with Dr. Doinidis' help... and we thank him.

ARM PROBLEM CORRECTED THROUGH CHIROPRACTIC

I experienced pain in my left forearm and a soreness in the lower back spinal area. This condition existed for a period of 4 weeks before seeing Dr. Nick. I decided to go to a chiropractor rather than an M.D. My decision was not difficult because I'm aware that M.D.'s prescribe medicine for symptoms and spend very little time on finding the cause of a problem.

Dr. Nick's diagnosis of my spinal column based upon x-rays proved correct. Within a period of 2 weeks the soreness and pain gradually disappeared.

I am happy with the results of Dr. Nick's adjustments. My general physical condition and awareness is still continuing to improve.

NO MORE PAIN

I became a believer in chiropractic care seven years ago. I was driving my mother to a chiropractor because she was having back problems. Her chiropractor convinced me to have adjustments since I was coming anyway. I was having a lot of headaches and bad menstrual cramps and he said that adjustments would take care of that. We went for over a year and during that time not only did I get rid of my headaches and cramps but I didn't get sick the whole year. Not even a cold, which I would get at least 4 times a year. We moved and I quit going for adjustments.

Seven years passed and my headaches returned along with the menstrual cramps. I've been getting my fair share of colds too and after my baby was born my legs ached a lot, especially at night. I was tired of feeling lousy so I called Dr. Nick. He was the closest to our house. After a few adjustments I'm having fewer headaches and my last period was a breeze. My husband and little girl also came to Dr. Nick. I know we're in good hands and because of chiropractic care we'll all be able to enjoy good health.

As a twig is bent so grows YOUR CHILD'S SPINE

The condition of your child's spine and nerve system during the early formative years may determine his or her whole future health. Children do suffer misalignments of the spinal vertebrae through falls, sports or minor accidents and stress. The onset of childhood, and later adulthood illnesses can in many cases, be traced to seemingly unimportant spinal injury. For this reason it is especially important that children's spine be periodically examined by a doctor of chiropractic. Prevention beats correction every time.

The average patient in our office spends less because the "cause" of his affliction is arrested. This includes necessary instrumentation, spinal x-rays, and office visits. With children, the average costs are considerably less because of a child's fast rate of responsiveness. MANY PEOPLE SPEND MORE JUST FOR RELIEF ...PRESCRIPTIONS, PAIN RELIEVERS, TRANQUILIZERS ALL COST MONEY ...AND YOU STILL END UP SICK ...YOU HAVE SPENT MONEY AND TIME ...AND STILL HAVE THE TROUBLE ...the old cliché that "you'll just have to live with it," or "it's your nerves" just doesn't make sense in a chiropractor's office ...LET'S GET RID OF THE TROUBLE SO YOU CAN LEAD A HAPPY, HEALTHY LIFE ...you are entitled to it ...so why not have it?
