When is breakfast more important than lunch?

When the governor of Michigan prefers breakfast, that's when, say members of the Northville downtown dedication committee who last week finally persuaded the governor to break away from a busy schedule to take part in the dedication festivities.

Governor William Milliken will be here for breakfast Friday, May 21, at 8:30 a.m.

Originally, the committee planned a luncheon on that date — hoping to host the governor and other officials an hour or so before the dedication ceremony.

Up to his neck in budget work, legislative arm twisting, and previous commitments, Milliken saw little chance of visiting Northville May 21.

Local officials, however, picked up some important help from Representative Jack Kirksey, who finally convinced the governor to squeeze in a few hours for Northville before he is due for another engagement elsewhere.

To accommodate the governor's visit, local officials switched the luncheon to a breakfast to be held at the First Presbyterian Church of Northville. Several congressmen and legislators, as well as a host of county, municipal and educational leaders, also are expected to attend.

Following the breakfast, the governor and other guests will walk to the new town square opposite the theater. The governor will unveil a dedication plaque.

Providing music for the dedication ceremony before and following the ceremony will be the Northville High School Concert Band.

Although committee members must still plug in activities from approximately 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., because of the change of the luncheon to breakfast and the earlier dedication ceremony, the remainder of the afternoon activities on May 21 remain intact. Newly added to the Friday schedule will be the music of a jazz quintet from Wayne State University, probably playing in the mini-park at the corner of Main and Hutton from 8-10 p.m.

Another added attraction, this one on Saturday, May 22, will be a performance by Millie Turnbull's dance group. It will perform between noon and 1 p.m. in the town park, sharing the spotlight with puppets and singers starring with the television show, Hot Fudge.

Kiwanis members also announced they will operate separate concession stands near the town park and Geniti's, featuring hot roasted peanuts and ice cream.

Dedication: Our Town Downtown gets underway Thursday, May 20, with a luncheon honoring special contributors to Mainstreet 78. Featured speaker will be Oscar Frenette, WJR personality. Musical entertainment will be provided by Cooke and Meads Mill junior high school vocal groups.

Planned Friday activities in the town square, after the morning dedication festivities, are:

Northville High School Jazz Band, from 3-4 p.m.; the Blue Grass Generation Band, from 4-5 p.m.; a folk music group, from 5-6 p.m.; Blue Grass Generation, from 6-7 p.m.; the folk group again, from 7-8 p.m.; and the WSU jazz band, from 8-10 p.m. All of these, except the jazz band, will be performing in the town square from a band shell assembled for the festivities.

Also on Friday, the Northville Recreation Department will hold a rock concert-dance at the Community Building, from 7-11 p.m. The dance will feature the music of metropolitan Detroit favorites, the Bristols.

On Saturday, May 22, Family Fun Day, Main and Center streets will be closed for a host of activities for young and old.

A pet parade begins at 9 a.m. near the town clock on Main (long-awaited clock

Planners okay rezoning

Following a public hearing, Northville Township Planning Commission voted last week Tuesday to recommend rezoning of approximately five acres on the south side of Base Line east of Griswold from R-3 single family residential to RM multiple family residential.

Owner Hortense Schoultz, 94, was represented by her daughter Marjorie Leach of Grosse Pointe who noted that the property is surrounded by multiple zoning near Highland Lakes and explained that she wished to sell the property to provide for her mother's care.

Northville resident and realtor Samuel Dibble stated he felt the rezoning was in keeping with that of the surrounding area.

At the meeting chaired by William Bohan, vice chairman, he noted the comment of the Wayne County Road Commission that the property frontage, across the eastbound ramp road of the channeled intersection "is not the proper access to a multiple development."

The commission, therefore, recommended the rezoning be denied but stated that if the property could access the interior road of the abutting and surrounding Highland Pointe condominiums, the rezoning would be acceptable to the road commission.

Bohan and commissioners Pat Wright, Bernard Baldwin, Kenneth Sewell, Richard Allen, Dorothy Gay and Richard Duwel (Kenneth McLarty and Marvin Gans were absent) discussed the road commission communications but felt the rezoning should not be denied on the basis of ingress and egress.

In a primary analysis of the request the road commission asked that a

Lacking concessions, state lays off

Any 11th hour concession by the powerful MSEA (Michigan State Employees' Association) or AFSCME (Association of Federal, State, County, Municipal Employees) unions at Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital on West Seven Mile in Northville Township and at Hawthorn Center on Haggerty presently is viewed as unlikely by members.

"The whole situation is so confusing that even the membership doesn't know what's happening — mostly, I learn from what I read in the papers," commented a MSEA employee last Friday.

Governor William Milliken's executive order requiring the state department of mental health to cut salary spending by $5.5 million presently being implemented by DMH director C. Patrick Babcock will reduce the staff at Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital by 72. Director John Reynolds said last week. There presently are 504 AFSCME workers at the hospital.

Dr. Harold Wright, Hawthorn Center director, said 13 cuts are scheduled there. AFSCME has 137 employees at Hawthorn. The layoff notices have been sent and are effective May 18.

Employees covered by MSEA contracts will have a work reduction with corresponding pay cut of eight hours per two-week pay period to be effective with the pay period beginning May 9.

The employees covered by AFSCME primarily are resident care aides and domestic service workers, Babcock stated in his announcement. At the Northville hospital most of the notices went to housekeeping and food service employees and to some attendants.

Food service and child care workers received the notices at Hawthorn where Dr. Wright pointed out the impact will be felt immediately as the number of food service workers will be reduced from 18 to 13. There are 104 MSEA employees at Hawthorn and about 100 workers who are unassigned.

The layoffs are effective for the balance of the fiscal year, until September 30.

A hospital employee pointed out that the unions have closed shop contracts requiring employees who range from ward social workers to therapists, attendants and some nurses to join.

"It's very complicated," a MSEA member explained anonymously, "and the general membership hears only what the union chooses to tell them — many believe everything they hear.

"The people doing the bargaining (for MSEA) are very bright, very articulate people. These people on the bargaining teams have tremendous power.

"The general membership never have been given the chance to vote (on concessions), and that's perfectly legal."

It's legal under the MSEA rules because until the union brings back a proposal there is nothing to vote upon. To this point the union has not made a proposal to the state.

"MSEA is trying to get an injunction against the reduction of work time, stating it considers the action illegal, but I don't know what will happen if it holds. Probably there will be layoffs then," an employee predicted.

"We do have bargaining rights when it comes to a contract," she added.

Three MSEA units — human services, safety and regulation (a small unit of security guards primarily) and building and trades — have contracts while administrative support unit (all clerical) is in process of negotiating.

"Northville (hospital) will have by far the largest layoff," Representative Jack Kirksey noted as he reported the state still hopes for concessions.

In announcing the reductions Babcock said the actions he is ordering were decided upon to accomplish three objectives:

- ensure equity among employees to the maximum extent possible;
- minimize reductions in service;
- and to preserve as many jobs as possible for Michigan's mental health workers.

The actions reduce the department's work force by about 500 persons, all of whom are covered by AFSCME contract. Babcock said no other action with regard to AFSCME-covered employees is anticipated at this time.

The announcement details the MSEA work time reduction of eight hours per 80-hour pay period, and provides for "mandatory enrollment of all personnel not represented by an employee organization in a pay reduction plan."

Employees in the last category have the choice of two plans — they may choose to take a minimum of 48 hours off work without pay between May 9 and September, or to defer at least 55 hours of pay between May 9 and September 30.

Noting that clerical workers are represented by MSEA but do not have a contract at this time, Babcock stated that if one is not negotiated by May 8, they will be required to participate in the same plan as non-represented employees.

"It is my strong hope that employees who are not represented by an employee organization will choose to participate in plan B (deferral of pay). This will minimize the impact on services, and preserve wages for payment in a future fiscal year," said Babcock in the announcement.

He asked for continued cooperation of mental health workers and extra effort "as we strive to meet the needs of those people who look to us for help."

"It's a very emotional issue," said the MSEA employee willing to discuss the situation anonymously. "If federal funds are cut off, we can understand what's happening."

Asked if there were any actions toward an internal split between members willing to grant concessions and negotiators who are not, the respondent could see none "at this point" but noted that the state police and a small union of state highway personnel and professional chemists had negotiated concessions and, therefore, had no layoffs.

WJR's Gene Fogel wins a Peabody

Tall, thin Gene Fogel is a familiar figure to Northville girls' soccer team members and his neighbors at 19983 Seabrook Court in Highland Lakes where he and his family have lived for 11 years. He has coached the team for the past three-and-a-half years.

Fogel's voice has been heard over radio station WJR where he is federal court reporter for those past 11 years.

Today he is picking up a prestigious national award in New York. His work as part of the WJR-AM news team received national recognition last month as the team's 23-part series, "Newsfile: A Bankrupt Court," won a George Foster Peabody award.

The award, the equivalent of a Pulitzer prize, was the only one given in Michigan, Fogel reports appreciatively. He admitted he was "finding it a bit unusual" last week to be on the interviewee end of a conversation but was pleased the team's work had been recognized.

Today Fogel and the other members of the winning news team, Rod Hansen, assistant news director at the station, and Dave White, news director, are in New York to receive the award at a luncheon sponsored by the Association of Broadcast Pioneers.

The award-winning series, which began airing in February, 1981, was acclaimed for bringing "significant reform" to the United States District Bankruptcy Court in Detroit. WJR's disclosure of serious irregularities in court practices led to a grand jury investigation which is continuing.

Zoning revision examined at hearing

Northville Township Board of Trustees received an overview of planned revisions for the township zoning ordinance from planner Claude Coates of Villican-Leman Associates at a public hearing last Wednesday.

Only question from a citizen concerned rezoning back to residential of a five-acre piece of property on Haggerty north of Five Mile.

Stating that the purchase of the property had been based on rezoning for restaurant use, Michael Sherman questioned why the piece was being returned to single family residential from general business.

"A lot of money has been spent to get water and sewer," he objected, pointing out also that the property was located near a bank.

Planning commission chairman Kenneth McLarty as well as other members of the commission attended the hearing and comprised most of the audience. They responded that their reasoning in taking the zoning back to the original residential was that the property had not been developed.

"Unfortunately," Sherman replied, "the economy slowed, but recent developments have allowed pursuing it."

Planners added that, when the rezoning had been accomplished in 1977, the feeling was that it would help preserve the house on the property. It was understood it would be utilized as a commercial building. They also pointed out that the economic slowdown came well after 1977 although Sherman said it was seen to be coming earlier.

The question also was raised whether there were plans for a church to built on property just north of the parcel.

Township administrative assistant Eunice Switzer reported that no application had been made to the building department, but that she understood a groundbreaking was planned for a Seventh Day Adventist Church.

The board of trustees indicated action would be taken at its regular meeting May 13 and adjourned the hearing to that date.

Supervisor John MacDonald asked Coates to present highlights of the revised ordinance.

Coates recalled that the commission first began work on the revision in January, 1979.

The major zoning changes, he pointed out, included the Five Mile and Haggerty change from B-2 to R-3 residential; from the present industrial-multiple at Waterford Pond to single family or R-3; from requested research and development in the southwest quarter of the township to residential; and from residential to industrial between Six and Seven Mile reflecting a court decision.

Use changes include mobile home provisions because of the state supreme court decision last year that manufactured dwellings must be permitted in residential areas on special application to the planning commission.

Public garages were deleted from business area permitted use.

The revised ordinance, Coates noted, also prohibits specifically outdoor storage and parking structures above grade level.

Lot sizes and frontages in all three residential classifications were upgraded. Coates explained this was being done "in the belief that houses being built now require larger lots."

An additional zoning class was added for commercial development, restricting so-called "convenience centers" to smaller parcels than in the current ordinance.

There also were added specification for side and rear yard requirements in office use.

The ordinance also addresses location of air conditioning units, requiring their placement at the side or the rear of the building. It limits the size of accessory buildings on a property, and includes changes in off-street parking.

It is much more detailed in plant material specifications for greenbelts and permits a berm as an option to wall requirements.

Such a wall in the revision would be required around the entire area of a multiple development where it abuts single family residences, Coates said.

Provision also is being made for the planning commission to waive such wall or berm requirements, rather than have the request channeled to the board of appeals.

As required by state statute, site plan requirements are incorporated in the revised ordinance.

Coates pointed out that the mobile home requirements had received approval from the state which had agreed to permit the stipulation that they not be located next to single family residential but within industrial and multiple zoning because of the great amount of land in Northville Township already unplatted public property.

It was noted that the township, therefore, has more control than most communities over mobile home park development.

MacDonald pointed out that there is a difference between the township zoning map and master plan. The master plan was defined as a guide that can show the way for development changes while the zoning map is a part of the township zoning ordinance. The zoning map controls the use of land and requires a public hearing before changes can be made.

McLarty noted that the planners intend to redo the master plan, studying the development of Seven Mile and "spot zoning" across from Northville State Regional Psychiatric Hospital. Clerk Susan Heintz reported that building inspector Troy Milligan wanted the subject of solar homes addressed.

Trustee Richard Allen asked how much change could be permitted in the revision and was told by McLarty "virtually none."

McLarty also objected to the inclusion of the solar homes, noting that it actively promoted in the township that can be governed by subdivision regulations. He also commented that the commission had had no input from the inspector until its work was done.

He added he felt "Coates has done a yeoman's job for the township, especially with regard to the mobile home provisions," and stated he felt the commission had been guided well.

"We have been dealing with the ordinance (revisions) for virtually two years, but I don't consider it final."

Saying he hoped the board would act soon and favorably, McLarty said ordinance changes would continue, or the ordinance itself would be outdated.

Schoolcraft trustees okay tuition hike

By TIM RICHARD

At Schoolcraft College, the fallout came quickly.

Meeting only two hours after the State Senate shot down a proposed income tax increase Wednesday night, the community college board of trustees:

- Increased tuition 15 percent for the fall semester "—the largest ever—" in the words of trustee Paul Kadish.
- Made preparations to borrow up to $2.2 million in tax anticipation notes as opposed to the usual $800,000 loan.

The one percent income tax increase would have enabled the state to restore fourth-quarter aid payments to colleges. In Schoolcraft's case, the loss amounts to $1.3 million out of its $15 million budget.

Trustees took little comfort in the fact that other community colleges are raising tuition as much or more.

"I never thought I'd see the day," said Trustee Rosina Raymond, "but we have no other choice to survive."

The increase was supported by Raymond, Kadish, Chairman Harry Greenleaf, Michael Burley and Laura Toy. Absent were Nancie Blatt and Len Wozniak.

Next fall, residents of the college district will pay $25.50 per credit hour as opposed to the current $22. The district covers the K-12 districts of Clarenceville, Garden City, Livonia, Northville and Plymouth-Canton.

Nonresidents from Michigan will pay $34.50 instead of $30. Non-Michiganians will pay $51.50 instead of $45.50.

On the wall of the board meeting room is a portrait of R. Robert Geake, former Schoolcraft board chairman and now a state senator. Geake, R-Northville, voted against the tax hike. Kadish pointed a finger of blame at the color photo.

"The state is showing a lack of responsibility," said college President Richard McDowell.

"In 1976-77 we received 37.6 percent of our revenue from the state. In 1982-83 it will be down to 24 percent."

In contrast, tuition provided 23 percent of revenue in 1976-77 and will bring in 28 percent of the cash next fiscal year.

Property taxes produced 36 percent in 1976-77 and will generate nearly 44 percent next fiscal year.

In dollar terms, next year's operating budget is projected at $15.7 million with $4.4 million coming from student tuition and fees.

At Henry Ford Community College in Dearborn, trustees already have decided to raise in-district tuition next year to $27 from $21.

Washtraw's will go from $18.50 to $24, Macomb's from $23.50 to $27.50 and Oakland's from $19.50 to (probably) $21.50.

With Michigan suffering from what state officials openly call a "depression" the state general fund budget is expected to be out of balance by more than $600 million for the fiscal year ending September 30.

Governor William G. Milliken ordered a long list of spending cuts, including withholding of fourth quarter state aid payments to community colleges and four-year colleges. Those cuts would have been restored had the senate joined the house in approving an income tax increase which could produce nearly $300 million.

Schoolcraft's cash flow problem is also aggravated by the state aid loss.

"Since 1962," said controller A.H. Raby, "the college has found it necessary to provide monies to meet cash flow requirements for payroll and other operating costs (in anticipation of taxes)."

"While expenditures are spread somewhat evenly through the year, the receipt of income is not," he said. The college's budget year begins July 1, but property taxes in the past haven't begun flowing in until December.

"The problem may be aggravated in 1982-83 in light of the possibility of receiving no state aid for July, August and September (the state's fourth quarter)," he said.

"So he asked for and received board authorization to borrow up to $2.1 million in tax anticipation notes, adding that "only the actual cash needed will be borrowed."

Last summer and fall, the college borrowed only $800,000.

Trustees were cheered by the prospect that some jurisdictions will begin collecting property taxes in July, though they were unsure of how much cash would actually flow in.

In other business, the board of trustees set a special meeting for 8 p.m., Wednesday, May 12, to discuss collective bargaining strategy with college unions.

Dunphy displays works at 'Monterey' premier

More than one show is opening tonight at the Marquis Theatre. While much of the attention will be on the new musical "Monterey," Caroline Dunphy also plans to open a one-artist show in the theatre lobby May 5.

Entitled "Monterey Revisited," the exhibit will feature paintings and drawings of Monterey, California, as it was in the days of its renown as a fishing industry port.

The Northville-based Dunphy also is the company artist for the Plymouth Productions, Inc., producers of the musical. As she has done for many other productions, she painted the sets for "Monterey."

The paintings of the bay, waterfront and buildings are said to be recognizable by those who have visited the peninsula.

"Monterey Revisited" may be viewed during performances of the musical. Appointments to see the show at other times may be made by calling Dunphy at Painter's Place, her studio and gallery on Center Street.

Seven Mile office zone rejected by planners, lot splits determined

Northville Township Planning Commission approved an application for a lot split on Beck Road, but recommended denial of a rezoning petition in Grand View Acres from residential to office use as well as the preliminary site plan for parking at the Montessori school at its April 27 meeting.

Application of Don Thomson to divide 4.3 acres of land into two parcels on the southeast quarter of section eight on Beck zoned R-2 single family residential was given preliminary approval.

The planners did so after studying comments by engineer Jack McNeely and township planner Claude Coates of Vilcan-Leman and Associates.

McNeely pointed out that the site will be serviced by both sanitary sewer and water in the near future, and therefore meets area requirements for the split.

Coates recommended that the final site plan should detail building locations.

Action on the application of Al Pearson for a division of approximately five acres of unplatted land adjacent to Docksey subdivision into four parcels was tabled until the commission's May 25 meeting.

The commission voted to recommend denial of the request of Charles Yessaian to rezone three lots at the northeast corner of Fry and Seven Mile in Grand View Acres subdivision from R-1 single family residential to OS Office Service after hearing objections to the rezoning from other neighborhood residents and the report of its planner.

"The bottom line," Coates observed, "is that there is no demand for OS."

In a letter to township officials dated September 10, 1981, Yessaian pointed out that the property is located directly across from the Northville State Regional Psychiatric Hospital and detailed the problems he, his wife and two preschool-age children had encountered with hospital walkaways.

He stated an escapee had attempted to steal his car but that he had been able to apprehend him. During the meeting, however, another resident pointed out the keys had been left in the vehicle.

Yessaian in his letter stated "my wife calls the hospital an average of three times a week regarding escapees at our house or in our yard."

During the discussion the planners noted it was possible to see the reason for a request to rezone lots fronting Seven Mile but not of the rear property.

The application next goes to Wayne County and then will be on the board of trustees June agenda.

Request from Gary N. Cooper, land development manager for Fulte Homes of Michigan Corporation, for a one-year extension of the final site plan approval for Highland Pointe because construction had not begun due to current economic conditions was tabled.

The commission acted at the request of township building inspector Troy Milligan who reported there were unfinished project problems still remaining in Highland Lakes subdivision.

At the request of her attorney, the application of Valerie Hambleton for her Little Red Schoolhouse property was tabled until the May 25 meeting. Kenneth McLarty, commission chairman, notified the attorney, Walter B. Mason, Jr., that the commission extended the submittal time for plans to May 10.

Application of Lynn Gall for approval for preliminary site plan for parking at the school area on Haggerty was recommended for denial contingent on deficiencies in the application.

Planner Coates noted there was not provision for handicap parking or paving.

The commission tabled until its May meeting the request of James R. Long of Long Development Company for a second extension of approval for a storage building on Gerald Avenue.

Cheese distribution begins, Salvation Army processing

The Salvation Army began to distribute this month's allocation of USDA surplus cheese to qualifying Plymouth, Canton and Northville residents on May 1.

Of the anticipated families, approximately 25 percent have received their allocation of surplus cheese.

The Salvation Army reports it intends to continue to distribute the free cheese to residents of the three communities as soon as possible.

Individuals and families who qualify for the free cheese should contact the Salvation Army by phone, 453-5464, during business hours, Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. for an appointment to receive their cheese allocation. Cheese will be distributed by appointment only.

Families and individuals who have already received an allocation May 1 will not be eligible for a second block of cheese.

Families and individuals are eligible for free cheese on the basis of income only; contrary to previous information, individuals over 60 years of age do not automatically qualify.

The income eligibility requirements are:

- one person household, income of $5,388 or less;
- two persons; $7,113 or less;
- three persons; $8,838 or less;
- four persons; $10,563 or less;
- five persons; $12,288 or less;
- or a six-person family with income of $14,013 or less. For each additional member beyond six, add $1,725 to income for the eligibility lid.

The necessary proof of income may be one of the following: Food Stamp card; Medicaid Card; a WIC card; any Department of Social Services identification; and SSI award letter; or unemployment card.

Further information is available and appointments may be made by calling the Salvation Army at the number and during the hours above.

Everyone's a winner at Special Olympics

A "winning" team in any competition

Let me win.
But if I cannot win,
Let me be brave in the attempt.

Friday truly was a "special" for 14 Northville athletes, teachers and coaches.

It made little difference that these students weren't the fastest or strongest team to compete in the 1982 Wayne County Special Olympics. You see, on this day it didn't really matter who ran the fastest race or threw the farthest—not really.

Oh sure, medals were awarded for excellence, but not all the "winners" were wearing medallions when the day's events came to an end. Many "true champions" walked away without a token.

Good sportsmanship and comradery greatly outweighed metallic charms on this day.

Quitters? There were none to be found. From first place right on down the line, the crowd continued to cheer until the last contestant finished each event. You see, the crowd was comprised of "winners," too. To them, last was as important as first.

They know what "special" really is. I think I came away a winner, too.

Pet parade slated for Dedication

Everyone will be getting into the act in city dedication activities—including pets.

That's right. The Northville Jaycee Auxiliary is sponsoring a community-wide Pet Parade and Contest Saturday, May 22, at 9:30 a.m.

Pets and owners will assemble in front of the Marquis Theatre and parade to the park behind city hall for judging. All pets are welcome, with owners being reminded pets must be caged or leashed.

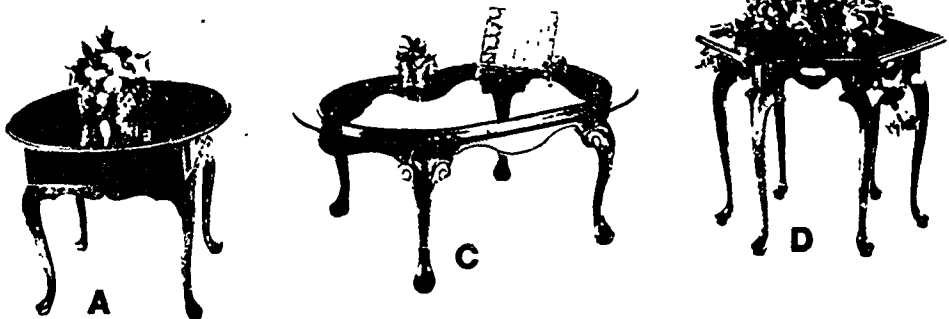

The contest is part of the dedication activities. First, second and third prizes will be awarded in the following categories: best groomed, best trained, hairiest, cutest, most unusual and the most legged pet.

There is no cost to register. However, owners are asked to pre-register by calling 348-2566. Deadline for registration is Friday, May 21.

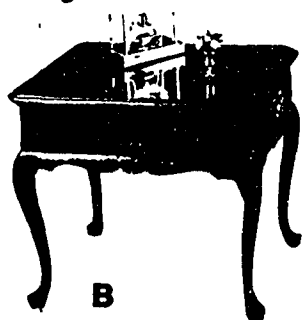

All pets entered in the parade and contest will receive a certificate of participation.

OPEN EVENINGSPolice Blotter*Auto theft avoided*In the township...

Police are seeking a warrant for the arrest of a Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital patient on charges he attempted to steal a car.

The patient escaped from the Seven Mile Road institution April 27 and was apprehended by township police in the vehicle he allegedly attempted to steal from a construction site on Eight Mile Road.

Workers on the site spotted the man first opening the hood, then entering the 1978 Pontiac Firebird Trans Am at about 2 p.m. that afternoon and called police.

Before police arrived, the workers said, they approached the vehicle and saw the man had the keys in the ignition and was attempting to start the car. The owner said it was left unlocked with the keys hidden inside the car in case it had to be moved in his absence.

The escapee told the workers he was "just resting" and that he had just broken out of the hospital, they told police. Hospital security forces identified the man as an escapee. He was returned to the hospital while police pursue the matter.

A $3500 car was destroyed by fire Saturday in a parking lot of the state hospital.

The owner told police the car had been serviced April 30 and smelled of gas all day May 1. She was about to return the vehicle to the service business when it burst into flames, she reported.

The fire was extinguished by the township fire department, but not before the 1977 Mercury was destroyed, according to the police report. The fire occurred in the parking lot on the south side of the hospital's D building.

A purse and its contents, valued at $800, were reported stolen from a Seven Mile Road residence April 27.

The owner told police the purse was on a chair on the first floor of the house when last seen at about 11 p.m. April 26. It was gone at 7 a.m. the next day.

The garage door was left open and the door leading into the house from the garage is not lockable, the police report stated. There were no signs of forcible entry.

Police are continuing their investigation.

Rear windows were broken out of two vehicles parked in driveways along Pinebrook April 28, police reports show. A pellet gun is believed to have been employed to shoot out the glass.

The incidents, reported separately, happened the same night at addresses within the same block. In both cases, the back window of the vehicle was broken. In one, there was also a round dent in the tailgate.

Each window was valued at $150. Police have no suspects at this time.

Two separate single-car accidents each resulted in injuries to married couples in the township, police reports show.

In the more serious incident police were not contacted until after both injured parties had been treated. The couple reported that the man had lost control of the vehicle while trying to back into the driveway of their Meade residence.

The car went into the ditch and the driver's wife was thrown out of the passenger door. They transported themselves to Garden City hospital for treatment.

Minor injuries were suffered by another couple April 26 when a wasp sting caused the driver to lose control while eastbound on Seven Mile. The pickup truck crossed the road near Ridge and turned over on its side. The driver complained of head pain, the passenger of pain in her leg. Both rejected offers of medical care.

Police ticketed Louis Wojtowicz, a Livonia man, for drunk driving following a chain-reaction accident early April 27, police reports show.

The 32-year-old man was arrested and charged with driving a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor after the minor injury accident shortly before 6:30 a.m. Thursday.

The man's blue Ford van rear-ended a car stopped at a red traffic signal in the right turn lane of eastbound Eight Mile at Haggerty. The car then hit another car waiting in front of it.

One of the drivers whose car was hit complained of pain but refused treatment.

The police report states Wojtowicz claimed the accident was due in part to wet pavement. The report shows it was a clear and dry dawn.

Breathalyzer testing done at the township police station indicated blood alcohol levels exceeding the legal limit.

Police picked up two walkaways from Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital last week who were not involved in any criminal activity.

One was discovered walking alongside Seven Mile near Northville Road Tuesday afternoon.

The other was picked up at Perry Drug Store Friday.

Both were returned to the institution without incident.

... In the city

A $300 toolbox, containing various tools, was stolen from a Grace residence garage between April 24 and 26, city police report.

According to the report, the garage was locked with no signs of forced entry. The complainant said the family was away during the weekend and on return, the toolbox was missing, police said.

Unknown suspects stole four wire wheel hubcaps, valued at $240, from a 1978 Mercury while it was parked at a North Center residence between April 15 and 22, police report. However, police did recover one of the hubcaps.

Fire Marshal kayos opening

The Culinary Arts Addition, Schoolcraft College's pride and joy, won't be open for another three weeks, by order of the state fire marshal.

"It seems that both the makeup and exhaust main air ducts, as presently installed, do not meet code," said Kenneth Lindner, vice president for business.

Corrections will have to be made — at a cost of $35,000 to 40,000 — he said. Asked whose fault it was, Lindner told the college board of trustees "I can't lay it on the line because I'm not sure."

But he reported that "the architect and the college were officially notified at the time (October 1980) the final plans were reviewed by the state fire marshal that the details shown did not meet existing code."

Architect is Hoyem-Bass Associates, Incorporated of West Bloomfield.

Nuclear weapons freeze movement gathering steam

Momentum is gathering locally behind a national campaign for a freeze on construction and deployment of nuclear weapons.

The two-month old Northwest Suburban Committee for the Nuclear Weapons Freeze already has distributed information and petitions to 150 people in an area ranging out to New Hudson and Orchard Lake and in to Dearborn.

Even at its founding, committee member Lee Riebling said, Northville participants other than herself included clergy, businesspeople and physicians.

With warmer weather, committee spokespersons foresee greater activity as circulators take petitions door to door and gather signatures on sidewalks. The group's goal is 1,000 signatures per week through May 26.

Riebling is among those leading the effort to gather signatures to place the issue on a state election ballot. If passed by voters, the proposal calls for official state notification of voter support to the federal government.

Riebling and committee member Johanne Fechter attended two freeze-related activities last month and are helping coordinate another this week.

range of knowledge and persuasive arguments of its April 19 speakers at Oakland University — Bishop Thomas Gumbleton, author and arms race historian Sidney Lens, Salt II negotiator Paul Warnke and former presidential candidate John Anderson.

"The evidence that the world is on a collision course with an unimaginable nuclear holocaust is simply overwhelming," was their response to an April 24 symposium sponsored by Physicians for Social Responsibility.

"The only way to avoid what could easily be universal suicide is for the people to make their voices heard and insist that the arms race be halted. If we don't solve this problem, the rest won't matter."

Other area residents at the PSR symposium included Dr. Harold Wright of Northville and several Plymouth and Livonia residents.

Material similar to that covered at the PSR symposium may be expected at a meeting co-sponsored by the NW Suburban Committee at the Schoolcraft College Newman House this Friday night.

Dr. Arthur Vander, University of Michigan Medical School professor and a member of the Washtenaw County branch of Physicians for Social Responsibility, will speak at the 7:30 p.m. meeting in the college's Liberal Arts Theater. Doug Lent, co-owner of a construction business, will also speak.

Plans also call for a showing of the movie, "The Last Epidemic."

Those seeking information about the freeze movement, books, buttons or "Freeze" T-shirts may call Riebling at 349-8234 or Fechter at 455-2149.

Kensington offers family outings

There are many family activities available at the Kensington Metropark near Milford during the coming weeks. Also, boat launching facilities and group camp sites now are open.

First is a family nature program called "An Evening Nature Walk" at 7:30 p.m. tonight at the Nature Center. Park naturalist Julie Cerbus will conduct an evening walk in search of signs of spring as day edges into night.

May brings the fresh smell of spring flowers and soil, frogs singing and night-active animals such as deer, raccoons and bats. Persons should be prepared for muddy trails.

For those families with young children, there is a program called "Enjoying Nature With Your Tot" to take place at 10:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Saturday.

Cerbus will take parents and their three- to five-year-old tots on a spring discovery of nature tour which will combine books, games and an outdoor walk. Parents will receive tips on how to enjoy nature with their child. Participants should dress for the weather and be prepared for possible mud along the trails.

There is a "Farm Chores" program taking the same day at 5:30 p.m. at the Farm Center. Farm interpreter Lori Anderson will discuss the feeding and caring of farm animals. Participants will be able to join in the fun and work. Participants should meet at the big barn at 5:30 p.m.

For those who like bird watching, there is a program called "Kensington's Birds of Spring" to take place 8 a.m. Sunday. Park naturalist Mark Szabo will conduct the two-hour walk in search of migrant songbirds.

Beginning birders (as well as the more advanced) are welcome. Participants should bring binoculars.

Also related to bird watching is the "Sixth Annual Kensington May Bird Count" to take place at the Nature Study Area Saturday, May 15 at 7 a.m. However, the Nature Center stresses late risers can begin at 9 a.m.

The Nature Center staff with the help of visitors takes the bird census in Kensington Metropark, with usually 100 or more species found. The all-day event will begin at the Nature Center. Binoculars are needed. Naturalist Bob Hotelling is in charge of this program.

Another "Farm Chores" program will take place at 8:30 a.m. Saturday, May 15, at the Farm Center. Farm interpreter Ann Wiersma will discuss basic animal care along the way. Participants will have the opportunity to help feed and water the animals.

For bikers, there is a special family nature program called "See Nature By Bike" which will take place at 9:30 a.m. Sunday, May 16.

Cerbus will conduct a five-mile bike tour which will last about two hours along the park's bike trails. The program will help participants discover the wildlife, natural and human history of the area. Persons should meet at the Nature Center parking lot and have a bike.

A family nature program title "Spring Wildflowers" will take place at 3 p.m. Sunday, May 16. Szabo will conduct a one and a half hour wildflower walk to help explain the beauty, historic and medicinal uses of flowers.

Advanced registration is required for all of these free programs. Call the Nature Center at 685-1561. For the "Farm Chores" program call 685-9105 or 685-1561 if no answer.

There also is group camp site available for group tent camping by Boys and Girls Scout units and other properly sponsored youth groups. There is a permit fee of $5 per group per visit; the charge for a Camporee or Jamboree is $5 per troop.

For more information about group tent camping at Kensington, call 685-1561 or write Kensington Metropark, 2240 West Buno Road, Milford, 48042.

Boat launching facilities are available at Kensington. All watercraft users will be required to have a 1982 boat permit, which costs $7 annually, $4 for senior citizens and $2 daily. Also, a 1982 vehicle entry permit is required, as is for all of the nature and farm programs. Cost is $7 annually and $2 for both senior citizens and daily.

Watercraft operators using the Metroparks must comply with Marine Safety Act of 1976, plus local watercraft ordinances and Huron-Clinton Metropark rules. There is a 10 mile an hour speed limit on the lake and water skiing is not permitted at Kensington.

Kensington has two large boat launching sites on Kent Lake. At the East boat launching site, six boats may be launched at one time with space for 60 cars and trailers. There is also additional spaces available for car parking only. The West boat launching site has space for 125 cars and trailers with six to eight simultaneous launchings available at the 120-foot ramp.

Fishermen will be able to catch bluegills, bass and crappies in the lake.

Launching hours are from 6 a.m. until 9 p.m. The park closes at 10 p.m. Cars and trailers are not permitted to remain overnight at Kensington. For more information, call 685-1561.

Air conditioning with a heat pump
...the smart way to cool your home this summer and save on year-round energy use.

Cool comfort in summer. Warm comfort in winter. You get both with a heat pump.

You also save on year-round energy use — when you add an energy-efficient heat pump to your present forced-air furnace.

A heat pump saves money because it moves heat, instead of creating heat.

In summer, it moves heat out of your home at an exceptionally low operating cost.

In winter, the heat pump moves natural outdoor heat to the inside of your home and provides all the heat needed during most of the spring, fall and much of the winter. Your furnace doesn't have to go to work until the outdoor temperature is about 32°F or below.

So, if you're thinking of buying central air conditioning this summer, take a good look at a heat pump. Then think of all the money it can save you on year-round energy use.

Nothing but a heat pump performs like a heat pump.

That's what makes it a very smart buy.

For more information about heat pumps, visit or call your Detroit Edison Customer Office.

DEBORAH ANDERSON, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Anderson of 41680 Nine Mile, was graduated summa cum laude with a Bachelor of Science degree from Alma College, an accomplishment which requires at least a 3.8 grade point average (GPA) and a 3.6 GPA in credits outside the division of her major.

A biology major at Alma, she also was graduated with honors in her major department. To receive honors in biology, a student must have a minimum 3.5 GPA in the major field, write a thesis of honors caliber and present the thesis publicly.

She presented her thesis, "The Metabolic Rate of the Desert Lizard: Cnemidophorus velox and Sceloporus undulatus," at both the 1982 Michigan Academy of Science, Arts and Letters' annual meeting in March and the state Beta Beta Beta (biology honorary) conference in April.

She was awarded second prize for her presentation at the Beta Beta Beta conference.

Deborah researched the thesis at Los Alamos Scientific Laboratories in Los Alamos, New Mexico, and at Alma College last summer when she received a national Science Foundation Undergraduate Research Program grant.

Other recent honors for her include election to both Phi Beta Kappa and Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary societies. She also was inducted as a charter member of Chi Epsilon Mu, an Alma College Chemistry Honor Society inaugurated this year. Membership in that society is open to students who have completed 19 hours in chemistry and who have at least a 3.0 overall GPA and a 3.0 GPA in chemistry.

Deborah was valedictorian of Novi High School's 1978 graduating class.

Fogel receives award today

It has led, to date, to the resignation of one judge, the indictment and conviction of the chief clerk and felony indictments against an attorney and an assignment clerk and the major restructuring of court operations.

Fogel says he and his wife Maureen, a medical technologist, have been very pleased they chose Northville as the community in which to raise their daughter Connie, 17, an honor student and junior at Northville High, and son Eric, 10, a fifth grader at Silver Springs Elementary. "We all love this area," he says.

A graduate of Western Michigan University, Fogel spent two years in the U.S. Army in Augusta, Georgia, and worked part-time for a local radio station there.

He was with station WCAR for five years before joining the WJR staff. The news team brings the third Peabody award to the station. It was won in the past by Mike Whorf and Karl Haas in 1962 and 1968.

Fogel says, "We're responsible for everything we do at the station."

He explains the reporters have two hours between broadcasts in which they write their own material.

The award Fogel and his fellow team members receive today was established by the University of Georgia in 1940 to memorialize a state native who became a New York banker and philanthropist. The awards are administered by the university's Henry W. Grady School of Journalism and Mass Communications. This year 23 awards were given nationally.

Change preschool time

The Northville High School Parenting Preschooler classes, under the direction of Carla Tibble, have been changed from early morning sessions to afternoon.

The preschool, open to three and four year olds, will be held from 2-4 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays May 11-27.

A variety of activities dealing with self- and social awareness has been planned for children and an afternoon snack will be served each day.

The program is free and interested parents may pick up enrollment forms at the high school. Forms should be returned by this Friday.

For additional information call Carla Tibble at 349-3400 between 1:30-3 p.m. or at 349-4896 after 4 p.m.

Our Opinion

Renovated Old Village School now houses ISEP

Long range plan
needs consideration

Northville Board of Education's approval last Monday to develop a long-range plan for the Northville Public Schools during the 1982-83 school year may be the best possible solution for the district in light of its current difficulties.

A long-range plan for the district must encompass all areas of the school system — from enrollment and facility usage to the Institution Special Education Program and the future of the high school. It is our opinion that such a plan is long overdue in the district and we are in agreement with the board and the citizens' advisory committee that it would be of little advantage to the district to deal with each issue in a piecemeal manner.

The district's steady decline in student enrollment over the past seven years has left Northville schools with more than 1,000 fewer students since its peak in 1974-75. Next year's projected enrollment of 3,379 students is the lowest in almost a decade. With the district's school buildings vastly underutilized, the prospect of shutting down a facility appears imminent.

In addition to the decline in the regular K-12 student enrollment, the district also must examine the student enrollment of the Institution Special Education Program. A 1979 decree issued by United States District Judge Charles Joiner called for the moving of patients out of Plymouth Center and into group homes to decrease the population to roughly 100 patients.

Since the decree was issued, patients have been moved out of the center in stages, subsequently reducing the student enrollment in Northville's ISEP program. Over the past few years, Northville has closed three of the five buildings it rented outside the district for the program. While the administration's proposal to close its ISEP program at Taft School in Livonia was received with considerable public outcry, the possibility of relocating the ISEP students into Northville's Public Schools may become a reality as enrollment continues to drop for both regular K-12 and special education.

Among other considerations to be examined by the administration is the proposed grade structure realignment. The citizens' advisory committee's recommended middle school concept of grades K-5, 6-8 and 9-12 certainly will impact the board's examination of the current facilities.

While an estimated $80,000 in costs could be saved by closing a school next fall, it is our opinion that foregoing the savings in favor of developing a much more thorough long-range plan is the necessary course of action for Northville. Making hasty decisions with little forethought — often prove to be the most costly.

Off the record

The honor of his presence was requested

That the governor of Michigan is willing to rise almost at dawn a week from Friday to be whisked from Lansing to Northville by state police for the Dedication Breakfast of Northville's Mainstreet 78 celebration is a tribute to what has been accomplished in the city. It's also the result of some "hard sell" on the part of those who have had a hand in this unique development to make sure Governor William Milliken understood the project.

Normally, there would have been little problem in getting his attendance without a conflict, but, because our celebration has been scheduled for Michigan Week, it happened that the governor had an early commitment for lunch in Mount Pleasant. Therefore, the original invitation for lunch was declined.

Representative Jack Kirksey, meeting with the governor to "push" for the Northville State Psychiatric Hospital hedge and for an equitable distribution of racetrack cuts, also detailed the extent of the downtown renovation. The governor explained he already had a commitment for that time but the idea developed that the dedication agenda could be changed.

A call came from Kirksey to the Dedication: Our Town Downtown committee chairman: The schedule is flexible, isn't it? You meet him any time that day, don't you? Of course, the governor is invited for breakfast. Richard Schlaff, the governor's appointment aide, was called. Give us five minutes to tell what the governor is going to miss by not being here to see the results of a project that used the legislation recommended by the governor himself (tax increment financing, public act 197 of 1975 as amended) and was first used by Ren-Cen. The beautification that has taken place — the new street design, attractive street lamps and plantings — was reported.

Schlaff became excited himself. This sounded like, something special that the governor would not want to miss, an especially positive happening in a depressed economy designed to keep downtown Northville a viable center.

Previously made lunch plans quickly were scrapped by the dedication committee, and a breakfast program was formulated as the governor accepted the breakfast invitation.

Therefore, the governor is coming, arriving at 8:15 a.m. Hopefully, it will be a day of sunshine, a day to appreciate a downtown abloom with 30,000 tulips and sprouting trees encircled with attractive tree guards, a day to sit on the benches lining Main Street and enjoy.

Following the 8:30 a.m. breakfast, Governor Milliken is invited to speak for 15 minutes and then to walk to the town square across from the theater for a brief ceremony unveiling the dedication plaque. We're all invited to watch — it's a day to rise early.

After

By PHILIP JEROME

I'm not exactly a city slicker. In fact, I spent a lot of time on farms as a youngster. Bunt Osborne, who owned the farm across the street, used to let me help during baling season. I helped load the hay in the loft, slop the pigs, even milk the cows on occasion.

So, having established myself as something of a country boy, it's time to address that picture of the dead "cow" on the front page of the Novi paper a couple of weeks ago. In case you don't remember, it was a heckuva shot of a man standing over the carcass of a dead bull which apparently had died by drinking some kind of chemical dumped in the Norton Creek. The man was drying away a tear. It was a poignant shot.

The only problem was the one-liner under the picture. Despite graphic evidence to the contrary, the one-liner, which I confess to having written, said "Norman Tobel dries away a tear after inspecting one of his dead cows."

At the risk of being indelicate, I must reluctantly admit that the incorrect identification of a bull as a cow has caused a great deal of glee in some quarters, and a great deal of consternation in this quarter.

For example, Pete Romanow told me I need to take a plumbing course and advised me never to try to milk one of those cows. "They get real mad," he said.

Bill Briggs hasn't really said anything yet. He just starts laughing everytime he looks at me. Even Mary Weborg, a retired school teacher, has suggested that I must not have done well in anatomy classes. She hasn't come right out and said it, but I suspect the day will come when my goof will be used to demonstrate the need to teach sex education.

Another kicker came in the form of a letter from a Redford Township man who made some comments about the anatomy of breeding stock and did a little photo editing to depict the difference between a cow and a bull. I fully expect to hear next from the Michigan Livestock Association.

I suppose I can live with the heckling, although I confess that Briggs' snickering is somewhat unsettling. But what I really want to know is whether one little mistake disqualifies me from winning any awards for agricultural reporting?

High School principal cites students' projects

To the Editor:

I am enclosing a letter from Mr. Fred Pellerito, program coordinator for the Greater Detroit-North Muscular Dystrophy Association. The Super Dance-A-Thon that he speaks of occurred on March 19, 1982.

This Dance-A-Thon has been a joint effort by students here at Northville High School and students at Novi High School for several years. I, too, am proud of the students who participated and am most pleased with the cooperative efforts of students from both schools.

May I also mention that our student council is sponsoring a blood donation drive on May 11 from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. in conjunction with the American Red Cross. The student council sponsors this event twice a year and welcomes donors from the community. Appointments may be made by calling 349-3400, extension 300.

Sincerely,
George A. Aune
Principal

Panagiotides (badge No. 10) and the township police department in general.

On April 24 my family experienced a very traumatic emergency. In somewhat of a panic I called the township police department who immediately dispatched a police car and the Novi-Farmington City Ambulance Service. Within minutes Officer Panagiotides appeared and took full command of the situation until the paramedics and ambulance arrived.

During the interval this young officer displayed a professional approach that deserves high commendation. It was obvious that he was well trained (a tribute to the department) and highly skilled at his job. Further, his compassion and concern for our well being was so very much appreciated.

As a citizen of the township it is comforting to know that such skill and dedication are available. Our thanks to Officer Panagiotides and to his department.

Superintendent 'requirements'

To the Editor:

The following are performance requirements for the new superintendent of schools: (uniquely designed for the Northville School District)

- Buy a pair of good boots. (You will need them for Northville school board meetings)
- Drive your car on Main Street in middle of winter. (Remember, beauty counts more than safety)
- Repair your car. (Send bill to the Downtown Development Project)
- Accept loads of praise for mediocrity.

e. Reward top administrators with a 12 percent annual pay raise, while ignoring the citizens' advisory committee. (Township board syndrome)

f. Hire your friends as administrators. (A bit of nepotism in Northville is normal)

g. Plead poverty before a millage election. Reward yourself with a huge salary increase after the millage election.

h. Pretend to lay off employees in the spring.

i. Rehire them in the fall, when "new" funding is discovered.

j. Report on the beauty of the downtown development project. Cover up the fact that it cost the taxpayers thousands of dollars in the school district.

k. Write volumes about nothing, but heap praise on the right people to keep your job. (Phil Jerome Syndrome)

l. Eat meals at the eating establishment endorsed by this newspaper. (Indigestion goes with the job)

m. Ignore truth, and report fantasy. (Kevin Wilson Syndrome)

n. Take numerous trips at taxpayer expense, to pretend you are investigating new methods of education.

o. Spend your salary increase at the racetrack.

p. Be certain you have a B.S. among your advanced degrees, for obvious reasons.

q. Attend the proper church in downtown Northville. (Pray. Only God can help you.)

r. Report statistics on assessment tests when they are high. Ignore them when they are dropping.

s. Kiss the blarney stone on Main Street. (Found between a rock and a hard place in front of The Northville Record office. If you can't find it, inquire in The Record office. This newspaper is full of blarney.)

t. Abide with the Number 1 Northville Axiom: Blessed are those who can't resist temptation.

Legislative rules needed

Sometimes lawmakers can be their own worst enemies, a fact evident in the recent income tax vote fiasco in the House of Representatives.

The voting board was held open for nearly 40 minutes while the administration's lobbyists and the leadership of both parties fanned out across the floor to count votes and twist arms, pointing out once again the need for strict new rules.

This disgraceful manipulation of the legislative process must be corrected once and for all through new House rules.

Proposed is a timing mechanism that automatically closes the voting board after a reasonable length of time, a display of the running vote totals and strict prohibitions against excessive lobbying by the executive office and special interest groups.

The call for rule reform goes out after every controversial vote. We've come to expect administration lobbyists and the leadership of both parties to spread across the floor counting votes, and we know the voting board will stay open until the last vote is won. But the income tax vote was worse than anything I've witnessed during my years in the legislature. We're permitting the process to erode because we tolerate bullying from special interests. And when a handful of people determine policy for the state without regard for those who may disagree with them, government is not functioning.

Most disturbing was when the Democratic leadership permitted Keith Geiger, president of the Michigan Education Association, on the floor of the House to talk with legislators. Geiger speaks for one of the most powerful lobbies in the state, and he was out to garner votes in the House chambers. It was an intolerable situation that has no precedent in my memory.

Reform of the House rules will be difficult because the present system can be easily manipulated by the leadership for their own advantage. We often hear fellow legislators complain that they're held in such low public esteem. The criticism we hear is not totally without merit if what happened on the income tax vote is an example of our respect for the legislative process.

path of an oncoming car?

That doesn't matter, I guess... as long as the island is car-proof. Oh, if only I could have my way, I would save the taxpayers a lot of money.

I would take the person who made the statement "we're making it car-proof," lay him on his back in the middle of the street holding the clock on his tummy and if a car hit him, it would bounce off, no damage to him and no damage to clock!

But no chance for me to make any decisions in this town... I've never been a patient on West Seven Mile Road.

Clothes needed

To the Editor:

Several times a year I have to appeal to the good people of Northville to help me help someone in need.

A young woman I know is raising three children alone with no help from anyone except a few friends in Northville. She manages to feed and clothe her children. This young woman needs some spring and summer clothes, size 12. When you go through your closets this spring, will you, Dear Readers, see if you have any size 12 clothes for this young woman?

I know she would be pleased to accept any clothing that is in good repair. The worn out clothing she already has. If you have any ladies size 12 and feel you can help her, please leave your donations on my front porch at 605 Grace.

This is the same address where you can leave washable clothing for patients at Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital where there are about 1100 needy, sick patients.

Many thanks again for caring.

CITY OF NOVI NOTICE OF ENACTMENT ORDINANCE NO. 82-18.10

AN ORDINANCE TO ADD SECTION 1505 TO ORDINANCE NO. 75-18, CITY OF NOVI ZONING ORDINANCE, TO PROVIDE FOR SPECIAL USES IN AN I-1 DISTRICT.

THE CITY OF NOVI ORDAINS:

Part I. That Section 1505 is hereby added to ordinance No. 75-18, as amended, and shall read as follows:

Section 1505. Special Uses Permitted. The following uses shall be permitted, subject to the conditions hereinafter imposed for such use:

- In the event that a lawful land or building use exists in an I-2 General industrial Use District (as defined in this Ordinance), and the property is rezoned to an I-1 District which would not permit such use, any I-2 use, including outdoor storage as permitted and regulated under Article XVI, may be continued, changed, and intensified on the same lot of record, provided all the following conditions are complied with:

(a) All continued uses must conform with the provisions of Article XVI or must be brought into conformity with the provisions of Article XVI within twelve (12) months of the adoption of this Section.

(b) Any enlargement of the structure or additional structures on the lot shall conform to the height, bulk, and area requirements of the I-2 District.

(c) Any changed or intensified outdoor storage or any enlargement of the area of outdoor storage shall be screened according to the screening requirements of Subsection 3 of Section 1601 of the I-2 District. Notwithstanding anything contained in Section 2008 of this Ordinance to the contrary, the area used for outdoor storage must be screened as provided herein prior to the issuance of a certificate of occupancy.

(d) Any expansion of the area of existing lawful outdoor storage must be contiguous to outdoor storage existing on the date of adoption of this Ordinance and shall not exceed fifty percent (50%) of the area of existing outdoor storage. In the event topography, location of building, existing storage, or other features of the land or the existing land use renders the area and location limitations of this subsection a peculiar or exceptional practical difficulty or an exceptional undue hardship upon the owner of the property, the Board of Zoning Appeals may grant such relief as it deems appropriate, providing that such relief can be granted without substantial detriment to the public good and without substantially impairing the intent and purpose of this Ordinance, subject to such conditions as the Board may attach and deem reasonable in furtherance of the purpose of this Ordinance.

(e) If such I-2 General Industrial use of land or building shall be abandoned for a period of six (6) months or more, any subsequent use of land or building shall conform to the regulations specified in an I-1 District, except, however, the special use permitted pursuant to Section 1505 shall no longer be a permitted use.

Republican in county CEO race

There is, at last, a declared Republican candidate for the post of Wayne County Chief Executive.

Harry Stearnes, a public information officer with Wayne County, declared his candidacy in the wide open race for the GOP nomination.

The race is wide open because all the leading candidates — Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara among them — are clustered in the Democratic race. Most political observers believe the Republican nominee will have slim chance of election in the county-wide race.

All county-wide elected posts in the government are occupied by Democrats.

Without denigrating other candidates, Stearnes said he was running for the post because he believes realignment of county government requires a person at the helm who is not tied to the political past. Calling the leading contenders "good ol' boys" of the political scene, he said he believed they owed too much to other political figures to be effective.

Stearnes noted that his present job entails covering the activities of the county government and explaining them to the public through the press. He said he had learned a lot about how the government operates simply as a part of his job and could be more well-versed in that respect than his opponents.

Hearns' hand injury may cancel fight

Former World Boxing Association welterweight champion Thomas Hearns will know tomorrow after a doctor examines two injured fingers on his right hand if he can keep the scheduled May 24 middleweight championship bout with Marvin Hagler, it was announced at a press conference Tuesday afternoon at Hearns' Plymouth Hilton training site.

Kronk Boxing team doctors told Hearns Tuesday to refrain from training for two days. A doctor appointed by promoter Bob Arum will examine Hearns' hand tomorrow and if it is not 100 percent, then the fight will be pushed back until July 15.

Hearns injured his hand last week when he tripped while running indoors and tried to break his fall with his right hand. The "Motor City Cobra" said he apparently did not have his shoe laces tied tight enough while running.

The Detroiters' doctors have been giving him ultrasound treatment for his hand and hip, which he also complained was hurting him.

Hearns is slated to fight Hagler for the undisputed middleweight crown May 24 at Windsor Arena. However, if a postponement is necessary, the fight will be moved to the July 15 date in order to accommodate satellite and cable television coverage. The fight would not be able to take place in June because of World Cup soccer tying up the television satellites.

Assessment rollbacks discussed by county

Asserting that city and township officials are turning a deaf ear to the pleas of local taxpayers, Wayne County Commissioner William Runco said Friday he will recommend a five percent county-wide rollback of property assessments when the full board meets tomorrow.

"Although citizens visited their Boards of Review in record numbers to protest their tax assessments this year, 30 of 36 communities have thus far either refused to file a protest or, if they did, indicated they would not appeal a negative ruling," the commissioner pointed out.

"We must follow the law," Runco said. "We can't allow property to be assessed beyond the 50 percent limitation established by state statutes and if the community leaders are of willing to face the fact, then it will be up to us—it's as simple as that."

Northville Township Supervisor John MacDonald is pursuing an appeal of the tax assessments township-wide. No similar protest has been lodged in the city, where door by door reassessment was done last year. The township anticipates such an effort in the current year. "Taxpayers swamped their local boards of review demanding cuts in an unprecedented number this year," Runco said. "In one case, there were 119 protests in 1981, this year more than 2,100 turned out. In another community the number leaped from 200 to 2,800. How can these people go unnoticed?"

Township officials reported more than 1,000 appeals to the local board of review, forcing the board to meet many extra days and to hear appeals only by appointment on 10 minute intervals.

George McEachran, County Director of the Bureau of Taxation, told committee members last week that each governmental unit could, as an alternative to assessment rollbacks, provide its own individual property tax relief by reducing its millage rate to compensate for possible overassessments.

The township board of trustees has indicated its support for such a measure, in a general way, should the appeal of assessments fail.

Runco did not suggest the county roll back its millage rate by five percent, only that it cut assessments county-wide.

Milford's Body Shop hopes to cash in on physical fitness craze with total program

By SUSAN KAUPPILA

Instructor Sue Floer helps Polly Trites on exercise machine

When most people go into business, the owners decide what the public wants and operate accordingly.

That is not the case with Dave and Charlotte Zimmerman who decided to open The Body Shop, a health club, in Milford last December.

"We did a feasibility study by calling 2,000 people and asking them what they wanted in a such a club. We wanted to provide a facility that people wanted — not just what we wanted," Dave explained.

"They actually designed our program that includes such aspects as a whirlpool, sauna, nursery, aerobic classes and day and evening hours.

"I feel that's important if you're relying on someone else for survival," he added.

"And over 85 percent of the women surveyed didn't mind if men exercised with them. We were surprised at that because men also need a place to work out," Dave chuckled.

Located in Prospect Hill shopping center, the 3,200-square-foot tastefully decorated club boasts a membership of nearly 800 members. The L-shaped main exercise room contains a wide variety of isokinetic equipment plus a treadmill and bicycling machine.

"A lot of people walk in here and say 'Wow.' They think a health club is smelly and all people do is lift weights. They see that's not the case here. I don't want to be associated with that concept," Dave remarked.

"All club programs include warm-up and flexibility exercises then circuit training (anaerobic exercises) on equipment," Dave said.

"Our isokinetic equipment means the exerciser is pushing against his or her own resistance. Work is done at a one to three ratio, meaning a person works 10 seconds and then rests 30 seconds," Dave related. "Our equipment exercises the chest, shoulders, arms, back, abdomen and legs at different joint angles."

Following the circuit training at the various equipment sites around the room, club members can then take part in aerobic exercise.

"Since more than half the deaths each year in the United States are related to cardiovascular disease, strengthening the heart is crucial to good health. Regular aerobic training lowers blood pressure and heart rate so the work of the heart is reduced," Dave stressed.

Brisk exercise or working out on the treadmill also lessens emotional tension and improves the balance of stress-related hormones in the body, he continued. Members cool down by slowing their treadmill jogs to walks and by doing final flexibility exercises on the floor.

Members can then complete their club visit by relaxing in the sauna or whirlpool.

Are members getting results? "Yes," Dave emphasized, "and it's been overwhelming."

"You see, we don't close the door to anyone. Persons who have had heart problems or strokes are welcomed here. We monitor these members very closely. One of our members had open heart surgery last August," he noted.

Dave proudly pointed to a bulletin board on which testimonials from members are displayed.

One from Bill Mudge read: "I lost 45 pounds and 13 inches in two months by exercising five times a week."

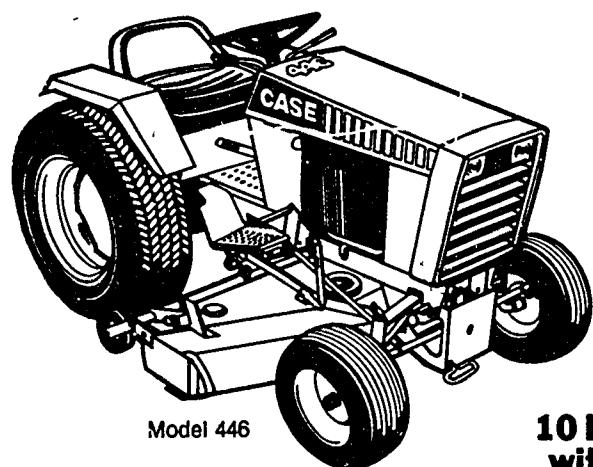

John W. Moore stated: "I've been working out at the Milford Body Shop for the past 12 weeks. During this time I have lost 24 pounds and increased my stamina considerably. My thanks to the friendly staff and members for their help and support on reaching my goals."

Milford Body Shop stresses fitness

Mabel Alexander wrote: "The Body Shop is fun and fantastically healthful for me. It is exhilarating, energizing and I have lost inches. My youthful flexibility is returning and my frequent visits have become an important part of my life."

Although the Zimmermans are enthusiastic about their club along with members, the couple admits "the club isn't right for everybody."

"That's why we have the complimentary first visit so they can see what it's really like. A lot of people just don't care about themselves. They are satisfied with the way they are."

"It all has to do with self respect. Time belongs to them and they have to feel they're worth it," he stressed.

When persons decide to pay the $200 annual fee to join The Body Shop, they can choose their exercise time. From 6-8:30 a.m., it's reserved for men only. From 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m., it's women only. Both men and women can utilize the club after 3 p.m.

Newcomers to the club also fill out a questionnaire dealing with their bodies. A progress chart is worked out between the new member and staff personnel that includes nine instructors.

"We measure and weigh them. We also ask what they'd like to get out of the program. We then set up a program based on their goals and how often they can come," Dave explained.

Darlene Szostowski and I make sure things run smoothly," he added.

While the Zimmermans emphasize physical fitness, they also promote the "wellness" concept. "It's not a gimmick or a fad; it's a lifestyle," Dave related. "It includes physical fitness, good nutrition, the ability to cope with stress, a sensitivity to the environment and self responsibility."

The problem is, many people say they are in good shape because they exercise and weigh about what they should. A healthy person is not necessarily physically fit, but a physically fit person is usually healthy," he declared.

Good nutritional awareness is a part of the "wellness" concept. "My wife and I are just like everyone else. We have a tendency to gain weight. You can believe in nutrition, but you can't push it."

"People should be aware of what you eat and what your body's requirements are. You should learn what good nutrition is and how you can attain it, what role food should play in your life and whether you need to supplement your diet with vitamins," he stated.

If persons decide to take vitamins, the Zimmermans offer a complete line. "Again, we don't push it on anyone. If we see that someone is not as alert as he or she should be, then we'll recommend that they take some for five days and see if it makes a difference. We have them here just for a convenience," Dave stressed.

Nutritionists and health experts give regular lectures on nutrition and preventative health maintenance at the club.

While nearly everyone will agree that a proper diet is important in maintaining good health, they may not realize that stress and one's environment make a big difference between good and bad health, the couple said.

"The elimination of physical activity in our world has led to high stress and stress-related diseases," Dave commented. "Stress levels are particularly high in our state because of the poor economy and unemployment. But if you are aware of what is causing stress, you can deal with it through exercise and modifying your lifestyle."

While a persons may not be able to eliminate high stress entirely, he can learn to change his response to that stress, he noted.

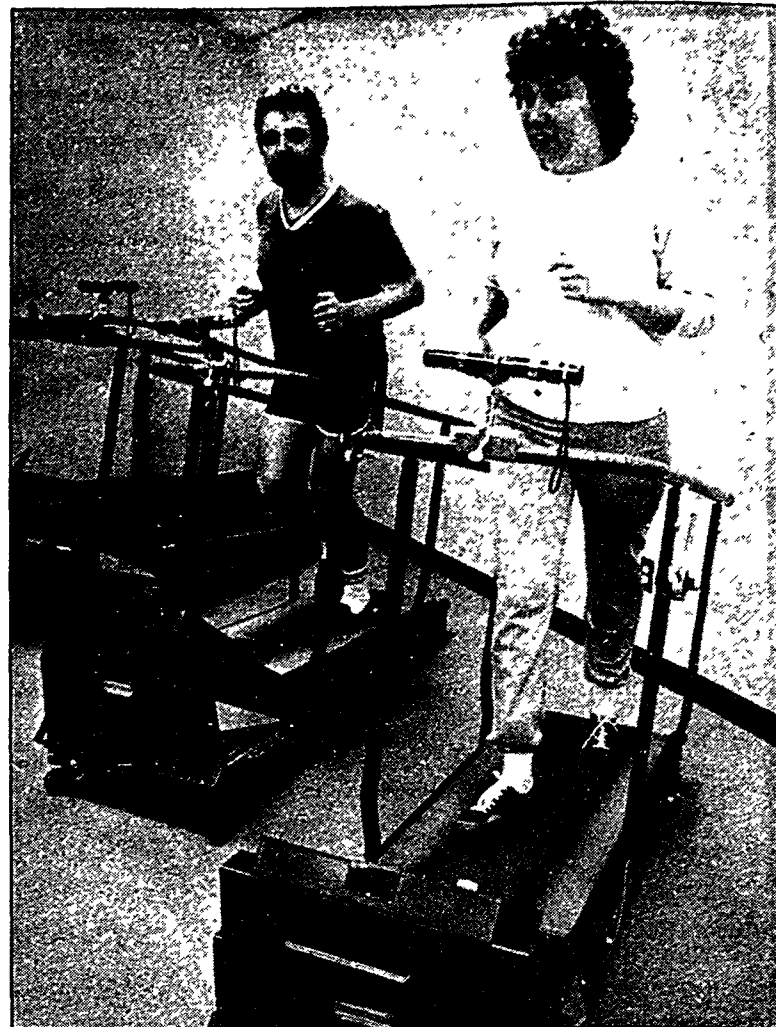

Closely related to stress awareness and management is environmental sensitivity. External environmental forces such as smoke-filled rooms, loud noise, crowds and pollution can affect health, as can personal environmental factors such as smoking, drinking or a network of unsupportive people around you, Dave explained.

"Becoming sensitive to environment factors and recognizing the effect they have on you is the first step to modifying your lifestyle and increasing 'wellness,'" he added.

What does Dave see in the future? "We feel there is a fundamental need for younger people to exercise in a group. We're bringing in an instructor for the summer to work with those 7-16. We plan to have a special exercise program every day so that they can enroll. Mom can drop off the kids for 45 minutes to one hour and go to her shopping," he said excitedly.

The Zimmermans also have hired a gymnast to work with all age groups and plan to expand their aerobics classes at a cost of $1 for members and $2.50 for non members.

With the popularity of the club continuing to grow, there is little doubt that whatever programs the couple plan, they will be done well in every respect.

Realtors say now is the best time to buy

Is now a good time to buy a home?

Realtors nationwide say it is and have launched a far-reaching campaign to convince prospective buyers who may be hanging back unnecessarily.

"This is really an effort to lay current facts out for public consideration," said Lloyd Mason, president of the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors (WWOCBR).

"Naturally our members hope that sales will pick up as a result of this campaign. But, we are not trying to mislead people into making a move they can't afford," he said.

"The market has changed dramatically in the past few years to become increasingly complex. Factors governing decisions on the best time to buy have shifted. We hope through this campaign to better inform today's potential buyers on present market conditions and what may occur in the future. Armed with this information, they will make their own assessment on the best time for them to move."

Realtors say that home purchases are attractive now for a number of reasons. These include home prices, which are rising at a slower rate than inflation; people-to-people financing rates that are averaging three-five percent below conventional mortgage rates; and the large inventory of homes for sale.

They point out that these add to such traditional home-buying incentives as a means of equity accumulation, tax benefits, pride of ownership and becoming established in a community.

"Demographics indicate there is a need for 2 million new housing units each year during this decade," Mason said. "Even an optimistic estimate suggests only two-thirds of the required number will be completed in the next five years. This could cause a shortage as the economy recovers and places upward pressure on prices."

"We think many would-be buyers are needlessly frightened out of the market by the quoted costs of conventional mortgages, yet these account for only a small share of transactions today. We hope to be able to sit down with increased numbers of buyers to explore alternative financing plans with them."

BANQUET FACILITIES have been added at the Lakeshore Restaurant on Pontiac Trail in Walled Lake.

Pat Struve, owner and manager of the restaurant, said the banquet facilities can seat up to 120 people and are ideal for any type of event from church and club banquets to showers, weddings and graduation parties. The banquet room is completely private and decorated in a rustic motif with stained barnwood walls and antique barnyard relics as well as a fireplace.

Groups or individuals who use the banquet facilities can order from the Lakeshore menu or arrange for family or buffet style dining. Specialties of the house include roast beef, masticolli and homecooked specialties such as meat loaf, baked chicken with dressing and Italian sausage cooked in a wine sauce with mushrooms, onions and green peppers.

Struve noted that the Lakeshore Restaurant also offers all-you-can-eat breakfast buffets on Saturday and Sunday for $3.25 from 8 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

BEVERLY ENTERPRISES has donated $1,000 to the Nursing Associate Degree Program at Oakland Community College. The company owns and operates 41 nursing homes in Michigan including Beverly Manor on Meadowbrook Road in Novi.

Raymond Tutwiler, senior vice president of Michigan operations for Beverly Enterprises, said the donation is intended to reward students who have demonstrated outstanding merit in scholastic programs.

The donation will be distributed to four nursing students in conjunction with Michigan Nurse Week (May 2-8). Tutwiler said the donation is being made during Michigan Nurse Week to demonstrate Beverly Enterprises' support of the nursing profession.

State loses 290 plants during '81

There are 290 fewer manufacturing plants in Michigan than there were a year ago, according to the recently-published 1982 Directory of Michigan Manufacturers.

The current number of manufacturing plants in Michigan is 15,051.

The greatest loss occurred in Wayne County which lost 191 plants in 1981. Wayne County continues to be the state's industrial center, however, with a total of 3,225 manufacturing facilities.

Oakland County, which is second in the state with a total of 2,368 industrial facilities, showed a gain of 54 manufacturers in 1981.

Macomb County ranks third with 1,672 plants and lost 25 firms in 1981. Kent County is fourth with 1,083 plants which includes a gain of 11 in 1981. The next largest industrial counties are Kalamazoo with 380 and Berrien with 360.

Almost half the 1981 plant closings occurred in the City of Detroit which has 140 firms that it did a year ago. Dearborn was the second largest loser with 19 closings, while Muskegon and Hamtramck lost 11 and nine respectively.

Not all cities fared as poorly, however. Troy showed a gain of 23 plants in 1981. Southfield was up 16, Kalamazoo was up 11 and Grand Rapids showed a plus-10.

The Directory of Michigan Manufacturers is published annually by Pick Publications, Inc.,

Wildflowers can be grown in yard

When the woods and fields bloom with wildflowers in the spring, did you ever wish you could have some of those beauties in your home garden?

Well, you can. Plants and seeds of dozens of wildflowers are available from nurseries and garden catalogs. The key to growing them successfully is to choose those that are well adapted to the growing conditions in your yard or garden.

Horticulturists at Michigan State University explain that most wildflowers are adapted to a fairly narrow range of soil, light and moisture conditions. Plants that grow well in moist or boggy areas, for instance, generally won't do well if transplanted into a dry, sunny flowerbed. Likewise, meadow wildflowers probably would not thrive in deep shade.

If you plant wildflowers in a suitable location, however, they'll flourish with very little care. They'll often seed themselves so that, once established, they will last for years.

Generally speaking, woodland wildflowers will do best in a shaded area. If your lawn isn't shaded by trees, consider planting shade-loving plants and ferns along the north side of your house or some other building. Wildflowers that are native to meadows and roadsides are more likely to do best in a dry sunny spot, while bog or swamp plants will take hold only in a moist, poorly drained spot.

Woodland flowers available from commercial nurseries, garden centers or seed catalogs may include May-apple, trillium, Dutchman's breeches, bloodroot, wild ginger, violets, trailing arbutus, blue phlox, wild geranium, maidenhair fern and hepatica.

Those requiring moist soil and shade include cinnamon fern, lady's slipper, spring beauty, Jack-in-the-pulpit and trout lily. Ostrich fern and interrupted fern need moist soil but do well in shade or sun. Sensitive fern and lady fern need sun and moist soil.

Wildflowers adapted to sunny sites include butterfly weed, New England aster, black-eyed Susan, ox-eye daisy and bee balm. Bog plants that might do well in a soggy corner of your yard include cardinal flower, Joe-pye weed, gentians, marsh marigold, pitcher plant and sundew. The latter two plants are insectivorous.

Seed catalogs often offer wildflower seed mixtures. These mixtures may include both annual and perennial plants adapted to various parts of the country. Seeds are usually broadcast on a prepared seedbed and gently raked in or lightly sprinkled with coarse sand.

Some catalogs and garden centers also offer wildflower plants, such as trillium, Jack-in-the-pulpit, hepatica, trailing arbutus and maidenhair, lady, leather wood and ostrich ferns.

Transplanting wildflowers from one part of your property to another is another possibility. Wildflowers growing in public parks or arboretums or on private property other than your own should, of course, be left where you find them.

Irrigation system will save time and energy

Moving garden hoses and sprinklers around the garden can be a real drag. But, other than stand and hold a hose, there isn't much else you can do if the garden needs water, right?

Wrong. You can put together a home trickle irrigation system. It'll save you all the bother of dragging hoses around and adjusting and locating sprinklers. And it'll make much more efficient use of water.

Michigan State University Extension horticulturist Lee Taylor says gardeners can get most of the basic components of a trickle irrigation system at local hardware stores.

The only specialized equipment is the emitters, the little tubes or hoses that deliver water to the plants' root zone. Everything else — plastic pipe, fittings, flow regulators, etc. — is fairly standard.

A trickle irrigation system has numerous advantages over other watering methods, Taylor points out.

The first is ease of watering. Once the system is in place, all you have to do is turn on the water for an hour to two per day. You can eliminate even that little chore by using a 24-hour timer clock and a solenoid valve to automate the system.

Efficient use of water is another big plus of trickle irrigation. Microtubes, Dew Hose, Twin-Wall hose and other types of emitters release water directly into the root zones of crops. Very little is lost to evaporation, and no water is applied between the rows.

Sprinklers, on the other hand, throw water on the plant foliage and between the rows. For every gallon of water applied to the row, a sprinkler applies many gallons where they aren't needed.

Because the spaces between the rows stay dry when you trickle irrigate, the garden is accessible right after or even during irrigation. There also may be less weed growth between the rows and hills.

Not throwing water on the crops themselves may mean fewer disease problems. And a trickle system won't splash mud up on the plants the way a hard rain or overhead sprinkling does.

A trickle irrigation system doesn't require any special plumbing. Because the system makes such good use of water at low pressure, an ordinary outdoor faucet can usually supply all of the garden's needs.

It might be desirable to attach a Y-shaped fitting to the faucet so the main line to the garden doesn't have to be disconnected to attach a garden hose for other tasks.

For detailed information on how to set up a trickle irrigation system in your garden, see your county Cooperative Extension Service agent. Ask for a copy of research report 285, "Trickle Irrigation: Guidelines for Use in the Home Garden."

Detroit Farmers Market schedules flower days

Sunday, May 23, and Sunday, June 13, have been designated Flower Days at Eastern Market, when for the first time in 16 years, Detroit's farmers market will host two of the gigantic sale days for home gardeners.

Admission to the market is free, and sale hours will run both days from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Continuing a trend which started just a couple of years ago, the hundreds of growers who fill the stalls with flowers and greenery for flower gardens will also feature the traditional and unique in vegetables and other good things to grow in the food garden.

"Master Gardeners" who have completed comprehensive horticultural training through the Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State University will be on hand all day to provide free advice and answer questions on both flower and vegetable gardening.

Some one million bedding plant flats are turned out within 30 miles of Detroit each year, making the metropolitan area the country's largest flower-producing area. The Flower Days provide area residents the opportunity to see a larger variety of plants than can be seen anywhere else.

Detroit's Eastern Market is located at 2934 Russell, just east of I-75 and south of I-94. Plenty of free parking is available in surface lots throughout the market, and for a nominal charge, parking is available in the recently-completed three-level garage on Riopelle.

Arrival of May starts summer garden season

The month of May kicks off the warm-weather gardening season for much of Michigan. Timely tasks suggested by Michigan State University Extension Specialists include:

- PRUNE spring-flowering shrubs after they finish blooming. Remove old, damaged, weak or poorly-placed branches, retaining the young, vigorous growth to bear flowers next year.
- REMOVE rhododendron flowers as they fade.
- CANKERWORMS in shade and ornamental trees can be serious defoliators. Look for thin, green or brown caterpillars that move about with a distinct inch-worm motion as they feed on tree leaves. When infestations are severe, the caterpillars dangle down from the trees on fine silk threads. The recommended control is Bacillus thuringiensis, a bacterial disease of caterpillars sold as Dipel and Thuricide.
- CHECK pine trees and other ornamentals for sawfly larvae. Though they look like caterpillars, they are the immature stage of members of a non-stinging wasp family rather than butterflies or moths. Sawfly larvae often feed in large numbers, and they raise their heads when disturbed. Control them with Sevin or malathion.
- TO CONTROL tent caterpillars in fruit and ornamental trees, remove the caterpillars and their tents by hand or spray the foliage of infested trees with Bacillus thuringiensis.
- PLANT TREES, shrubs and ground covers. Before planting, remove all non-biodegradable materials — such as plastic cord, plastic burlap and wire — from root balls, trunks and stems. If left in place, they will eventually girdle and kill the plants. Water thoroughly after planting and every week to 10 days during dry weather.
- SET VEGETABLE transplants outdoors during the day for 10 to 14 days before you intend to plant them to give them a chance to get used to outdoor conditions.
- SEVEN to 10 days before the average date of the last spring frost in your area, plant snap beans and sweet corn. Though these crops are susceptible to frost damage, they usually take a week or longer to germinate and emerge from the soil.
- AFTER THE SOIL has warmed up and the danger of frost is past, plant seeds of cucumbers, melons, squash and pumpkins, and set out plants of tomatoes, peppers and eggplant.
- PLANT SEEDS of cool-weather crops such as onions, beets, lettuce, spinach, carrots and radishes for the second and third times. To protect the root vegetables against maggots, sprinkle diazinon on the planting furrow according to label directions.
- TRANSPLANT vegetables and flowers on a cloudy day or in the evening so they have a chance to get over the shock of being transplanted before they are subjected to direct sunlight. They may need shading for a few days and protection against high winds. Placing cutworm collars around them is a good idea, too.
- REMOVE the blossoms from all strawberries planted this spring. Allowing them to bear fruit this year will drastically reduce yields in future years.
- REMOVE unwanted sucker growth around raspberries when the new shoots are about a foot tall.
- THIN APPLES and peaches about three weeks after flower petals fall. Space fruits about eight inches apart. This will give you larger, better quality fruits.
- CONTINUE a regular disease and insect control program in fruit trees.
- WATER NEW or renovated lawns during dry weather to help grass plants get well established before hot weather.
- IN LATE MAY or early June, fertilize established lawns with one to 1½ pounds of actual nitrogen per 1,000 square feet. Applying nitrogen before mid-May can increase the likelihood that susceptible varieties will develop Fusarium blight, a serious turf disease. It also restricts root development and necessitates extra mowing.
- MOW established lawns regularly. No single mowing should remove more than one-third of the length of the leaf blades. Set your mower to cut no shorter than 1½ inches.
- FERTILIZE spring-flowering bulbs before or during bloom.
- REMOVE FADING flowers from spring-blooming bulbs so plants don't channel energy into producing seeds instead of building a supply of food in the bulb for next year's growth.
- FERTILIZE roses when they begin to grow.
- AS SOON AS new growth appears on roses, begin spraying regularly with an all-purpose rose spray to control insects and diseases.
- PLANT GLADS, dahlias, cannas and other summer-flowering bulbs through the end of the month.
- DIVIDE OLD chrysanthemums and plant new ones. Pinch about ½ inch from each growing tip to encourage plants to send out side shoots.
- AFTER THE AVERAGE date of the last spring frost in your area, plant tuberous begonias, impatiens, wax begonias, caladium and coleus in shaded areas, and light-loving annuals such as moss rose, petunias, alyssum and geranium in sunny spots.
- GO MUSHROOM hunting. May is morel month in Michigan.

Borer beetle poses threat to birches

The European white birch, with its stark white, peeling bark and its pendulous branches, is a favorite accent tree for Michigan landscapes.

Unfortunately, it's also a favorite host of the bronze birch borer, a small (¼-inch) metallic beetle whose larvae tunnel through and damage the tree's growing tissue, or cambium. The eventual result of repeated attacks is severe dieback of the upper crown and the gradual decline and death of the tree.

Gary Simmons, forest entomologist at Michigan State University, suggests that the most effective way to control bronze birch borer damage is to avoid planting trees susceptible to borer attack.

The European white birch (including the cutleaf varieties) is the species of birch most often infested.

Paper birch, another Michigan native, has creamy, white bark that peels readily. It does not, however, have the weeping habit of the cutleaf variety of European white birch. Like the river birch, a native North American birch with salmon-pink, papery bark, and the gray birch, another Michigan native, it is considered resistant to bronze birch borer attack and so is recommended for planting in lawns.

ing in lawns.

A new cultivar, Heritage birch, combines the borer resistance of the river birch with the white, peeling bark of the paper birch. It may not be easy to find in local nurseries, but it is commercially available.

To preserve birches already in the landscape, Simmons recommends a multi-step bronze birch borer control program:

- Keep trees growing by fertilizing in spring or fall, watering during dry weather and mulching to retain soil moisture. (Mulching also eliminates the need to mow right up to the tree trunk and so may prevent injuries to the tree by lawn care equipment. Female borer adults seem to be attracted to the injured bark when they're looking for egg-laying sites).
- Remove and destroy or burn for firewood any dead branches or trees. Do this before adults begin emerging in early to mid-June to reduce the number of egg-laying adults available to infest new trees.
- Control birch leaf miners by spraying the foliage in the first half of May and again in early June with foliar sprays of Sevin, Diazinon, phosmet, lindane or malathion. Extensive damage to the foliage by the birch leaf miner stresses the tree and makes it more susceptible to attack by the bronze birch borer.

• Apply lindane to the bark and foliage of susceptible birch trees during the first week of June to control emerging borer adults before they have a chance to lay eggs. Spray twice more at three-week intervals to control egg-laying adults or newly-hatched larvae before they enter the bark.

Landscape mulching provides many benefits

Fooled Mother Nature might not be so nice, but imitating her is okay. Take, for instance, the matter of mulch.

Urban foresters at Michigan State University point out that the forest floor is covered with a natural mulch of fallen leaves and other organic materials. This loose, protective layer — called duff — helps keep the soil cool and moist and prevent erosion.

As it gradually decomposes, it returns plant nutrients to the soil where they can be taken up by other plants.

Landscape plants benefit from mulching in the same ways that forest trees benefit from the presence of duff over their roots.

Landscape mulches help maintain uniform soil temperatures; increase water absorption, reduce run-off and reduce water evaporation so that there's less need to water trees during the summer; and protect the soil against erosion and compaction.

Because a thick mulch around the base of a tree eliminates the need to mow right up to it, mulching also protects plants against mechanical damage by lawn care equipment.

For best results, the foresters advise cultivating the soil before applying mulches. They recommend 2-3 inches of mulch during the growing season and 3-5 inches during the winter.

They advise against using black plastic, aluminum foil or any other water-proof material under the mulch. Such materials will help keep grass and weeds from growing up through the mulch, but they also prevent water from penetrating the soil.

They also caution against using grass clippings from herbicide-treated lawns as mulch. These clippings may contain enough herbicide residue to harm plants mulched with them.

Avoid lapping mulches up against the main stem or trunk of young plants, especially during the winter, the foresters advise. Rodents may take cover under the mulch and girdle the plant by gnawing off the bark.

To The Residents of Livingston, Oakland and Washtenaw Counties:

"Homes by Owner" is a new company which was formed with the intention of helping people sell their own homes.

We are not a real estate company, nor are we real estate agents. We are people who believe there is another more effective way in marketing real estate. A way where people may sell their own real estate at a lower cost than on a commission rate structure.

We are considering a seminar approach but before doing so would like to know people's interest in this.

If you are interested, please send us a letter or call (517)546-7583 between 8:00 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday thru Friday.

Thank you,

Doctor's HOUSE CALL

Do you have a medical question or problem? Write to Woodland Medical Center/Novi, care of Sliger-Livingston Publications, Post Office Box 160, Northville, Michigan 48167. Personal replies are not possible.

Woodland Medical Center/Novi stresses that individual treatment begins with a physician's first-hand diagnosis; information in this column is not a substitute for a physician's first-hand diagnosis. Woodland provides the information in this column in conjunction with Sliger-Livingston Publications as a public service only; no physician-patient relationship is created.

Q. Three years ago I developed arthritis. I am in my early 40s and have become somewhat incapacitated. This is causing considerable strain on my family. It is most difficult to cope.

I don't think people understand the adjustments that must be made. I am just now beginning to adjust and so are other members of my family. Perhaps a discussion of this would help others going through the same difficulty.

A. You have raised a very important subject and have described a situation physicians see all too often — the domestic turmoil that may arise in any illness. Because of its chronic nature, arthritis is an illness that can have particularly far-reaching effects on domestic relationships and family dynamics.

When one member of a family becomes incapacitated for any reason, there are bound to be new demands, new responsibilities placed on other family members. Often, there needs to be a frank reevaluation of functions and roles within the family setting.

The first step to be taken is a realistic attitude by the patient toward his or her illness. Medical care is to be sought and instructions with regard to therapy and medicine followed faithfully.

This is particularly true in the case of arthritis. Much can be done, and the arthritic can, in most cases, lead a reasonably normal life within a new set of guidelines.

It is not always simple. Arthritic victims may initially deny the existence of their illness, and medical care is shunned. If appropriate therapy is not started early, serious incapacitation may appear.

As this begins to happen, the person may become even further isolated. Friends and family are gradually alienated. Sexual relationships are abandoned. Depression ensues, and family relationships are torn apart.

This is admittedly a grim "worst case" scenario. Fortunately, with the great advances made in arthritis treatment and therapy, it is becoming less prevalent.

Most arthritides today understand that sources of help are open, and many different forms of medicine and rehabilitation therapy are available.

The doctor has several medicines from which to select — from aspirin to many newer drugs for control of the inflammation of rheumatoid arthritis. As you probably have already been told, it is important to exercise arthritic joints. The doctor can help in this by establishing a sensible exercise program that does not enhance joint damage.

You have apparently learned this lesson through your personal experience. You apparently have a family which also has recognized the reality of your illness. It is to be hoped that others in your situation will take an example from you and, as you said, "learn to adjust."

Many strong emotional and physical factors come to bear on any family with an ill member, whether due to arthritis or any other chronic illness. All too often, though, the underlying emotional events are not recognized.

For this reason, some families could benefit from professional counseling, and the place to begin would be with the physician. There are many fine helpful informational booklets and brochures available from your local chapter of the Arthritis Foundation.

Through all of this adjustment period, it should be borne in mind that a serene family setting is really an important long range factor in how the arthritic fares in his road to control of the illness and rehabilitation.

Q. I have heard about ultrasound for various things, such as diagnosis. Is it also used for aching joints? Could it be used to ease pain from injury or of arthritis? Just what is ultrasound?

A. Sound is a collection of vibrations. Bang a cymbal and soundwaves radiate from it and if they strike the ear mechanism, the result is sound. Ultrasound refers to sound whose vibrations are so rapid and small that they cannot be heard by the human ear. That's what the phrase means, beyond hearing.

Probably the most important use of ultrasound has been in diagnosis. A machine generates soundwaves of a certain frequency, which when they are directed at the body, rebound from a more dense structure, like the gall bladder.

These waves are collected by a device that displays them in the shape of that organ. In this way, doctors can get a clear picture of an organ without having to look at it directly. It is a valuable tool and, like the x-ray, has its place in diagnosis, especially when trying to visualize some structure deep in the body.

Now, in addition to being able to bound back to form pictures, ultrasound also has the capability, when generated at certain frequencies, to cause heat deep inside the body. Of course, it is not the only way of delivering therapeutic heat, and it is not always the best way in every case.

Sometimes hot packs, heat lamps, whirlpools, hot liquid wax, a simple hot tub bath or even massage can be just as effective. And there is diathermy for electrically producing deep heat. Some methods are more effective than others at certain depths and in certain kinds of tissue.

But, ultrasound has its place and is not a gimmick. Yes, it could be part of a total therapy program in arthritic control. Any heat might be. Heat can be a valuable asset in that condition no matter how it is delivered, because it has the effect of dilating (expanding) blood vessels, thus promoting more brisk circulation in injured areas.

Since you mention arthritides specifically, it should be noted that heat alone is not the answer in arthritic therapy. The doctor has to plan a total program, of which heat is but a small part.

That program has to include daily periods of total rest of the inflamed arthritic joints. And there should be a carefully worked out program of exercise of the joints so that they do not become immobilized.

The time of exercise depends a lot on when periods of relative freedom from pain occur. The object is to exercise the joints within as full a range of motion as is possible without pain. And heat can help here. Heat, whether delivered ultrasonically or by a hot tub bath, helps loosen joints and increase circulation so that joints can be moved more easily without pain.

As to ultrasound therapy specifically, your doctor should be the final judge as to whether this will be helpful for you. For most arthritides, it is not usually necessary, especially if one of the other methods mentioned above works.

Q. My daughter, who is 36 years old, is going through menopause. I understand this is young. Is it considered young? I was in my early 40s when I went through it. Is it true that this is hereditary? What is the average age? Does the fact that a woman goes through this at an early age have any lasting significance?

A. You are right. Your daughter is going through her menopause at a relatively early age. In the United States, the mean age for a natural menopause is 49, and the range is between 40 and 55. Approximately eight percent of women experience the menopause earlier than 40, however, and are said to have experienced "premature menopause."

You will notice that the term used above was "natural menopause." You do not mention it, but if your daughter had her ovaries removed for any reason, then she would experience menopause because of that. It would be called "surgical menopause."

And, of course, that would occur at whatever age the woman had such surgery. Removing the ovaries surgically, of course, brings the same result as when they just "go out of business" on their own. Since you do not mention your daughter having such surgery, it will be assumed here that it has not been done and that her menopause occurred naturally and was of the premature type.

In most such cases or premature menopause, the cause cannot be pinpointed. However, it must be said that any women whose menstrual periods cease prior to 40 years of age should certainly consult her physician. That is just to be certain there is no underlying problem causing it, that it is not part of some illness, glandular or otherwise. It's a prudent precaution she should take.

If her doctor is satisfied that there is no abnormality causing the early menopause, it can be considered a normal occurrence for her, and one she need not worry over. Nor should it necessarily have any longterm significance for her health.

Contrary to popular belief, it is not possible to predict the age of menopause onset from the experience of the mother or other females in the family. True, there is a slight tendency for premature menopause to occur within some families, but the occurrence is not strong enough to call it hereditary, or anything approaching that.

It might be helpful to mention here another often misunderstood fact about menopause. It is, as was mentioned, a normal occurrence, a certain phase of a woman's life. Many pass through with no problems.

For some women there is only a progressive scantiness of the period, or skipped periods, or missing of several periods. The pattern is all quite predictable. These women may experience only the slightest of discomforts, and some will have none at all.

For others, there can be real difficulty. It can be a troublesome phase of life, marked by the well-known hot flashes, nervousness, sleeplessness or depression. A woman experiencing these symptoms should not hesitate to report them to her physician. The doctor recognizes this potential for troublesome menopause and knows that some women have greater problems than others.

There are things that can be done to help a woman over this period. If the symptoms are severe enough, the doctor, after carefully assessing the woman's history, may decide that she is a candidate for female hormone medicine—estrogen.

This helps make up for the lack of estrogen that results from the diminished activity of her ovaries. It can be taken by tablet or by injection. It almost always helps somewhat.

However, not every woman is a candidate for this therapy, and if the doctor declines to prescribe it, he very likely has good reason for that decision based on the individual woman.

As with many medical topics, it is difficult to generalize about menopause, either as to its significance or to treatment. The woman's own physician, armed with all the pertinent facts is the only judge.

ASK THE LAWYER

Questions? Write to Attorney Larry Korn, care of Sliger-Livingston Publications, Post Office Box 160, Northville, Michigan 48167. Questions will be answered on a space-available basis. Answers in this column are directed at specific facts and may not apply in all situations.

Q. In 1978 we purchased on land contract 10 acres of land with substantial down payment and a large balloon payment due September 1982. We subsequently sold this property in 1980, also on land contract, with a final balloon payment due in May 1982.

We were recently advised by the buyer that he wants an extension of the land contract due to the high interest rates and tight mortgage money. In contacting our original owner, he cannot extend our contract as it is part of a recent divorce settlement and he expects us to close in September of 1982.

We want to help these people but feel that a few month's extension will not help them obtain lower interest rates or a mortgage. We cannot run the risk that they could not obtain a mortgage even if we gave them an extension.

We are not in a financial position to close our contract without first closing with our purchasers. What is our legal position and possible alternatives? Should we proceed as if the closing is in May of 1982?

A. Please write your land contract purchaser that you cannot give him an extension of time. Notify him that your land contract seller has given you notice that he expects payment when the balloon is due or your land contract will be placed in forfeiture or foreclosure.

Further advise your purchaser that if you lost your land contract to your seller that would wipe out his contract as well as yours. Therefore, in order to protect yourself, you must foreclose immediately when your purchaser is in default.

Q. I purchased a 1½ acre wooded lot near Houghton Lake. The price included a black top road. Nothing was said about joining an association. Three or four years later, I received a letter asking me to join the association they were starting. I said I did not want to join.

They finally started the association, charging each lot owner $50 per year for dues. I refused to pay the dues.

Over the past four years I have received letters asking me to pay the dues. Finally I received a letter from their attorney trying to collect my back dues of approximately $250. I still refused to pay.

Finally I received a letter stating that they were placing a lien on my property. I would like to know if they can force me to join the association and pay the dues. How can I have them quit harrasing me?

A. Please proceed to retain an attorney immediately. If the association has filed a lien against your property, you must proceed through the circuit court, filing a complaint against the association. Also, obtain an order from the court removing the lien that they have filed against your property.

If they do not remove the lien, the association may seek to enforce their lien and sell your property to cover the indebtedness they claim due from you. From the facts you relate, it is quite likely that you have no legal obligation to join the association and therefore would not be liable for the association dues they claim.

On the other hand, there may be some legal obligation that the association is aware of, which you are not aware of, which may obligate you to be a member of the association and pay dues.

Therefore, I repeat, retain an attorney immediately to investigate the placement of the lien on the land and their claim for association dues.

Q. Last year my wife and I were divorced. The judgement of divorce provided that I should have my two minor children on alternate birthdays and holidays. Last year my wife had the children for Easter vacation.

I wanted to take my children to Florida for Easter but my wife refused and said she was not giving the children to me for Easter because she wished to take them to church. What can I do to have my wife give me the children as the court ordered?

A. You must immediately file a motion for order to show cause why your wife should not be punished for contempt with the circuit court that granted you the judgment of divorce.

It is true that it might be to the best interest of the minor children that they go to church with your wife for Easter rather than to Florida with you for Easter vacation. However, it is quite likely that though you are in Florida the children will attend services with you.

Your wife must obey the order of the circuit court. If she fails to obey the order, it is quite likely the judge will punish her for contempt and admonish her not to violate the order of the court again and order her to respect the visitation privileges that the court awarded to you.

Q. My wife and I are working and would like to open Individual Retirement Accounts. What is the maximum amount we are permitted to deposit in an IRA?

A. The new limits of Individual Retirement Accounts are $2,000 or 100 percent of compensation, whichever is less, for individuals. In effect this means anyone who earned $2,000 or more can contribute up to $2,000. Working couples who file jointly can now contribute up to $2,000 each, or a total of $4,000, but the IRAs must be separately maintained.

Q. What are the new Keogh annual contribution limits?

A. Up to $15,000 or 15 percent of self-employment, whichever is less.

Pack of Dreams

Number one washed away in a torrent of words and tears. The second flew off on the wings of a moth that lived a night and died. The third thawed with the snow to show the trash below. The fourth came apart with the seams of a gown that twinkled through an eve. Five was a flower that lost its bloom though pressed upon a page. Six, that sham, seemed a silver cup but leaked its wine like rain. And seven had no luck at all—lost a trick in hearts to spades. As for eight, it ran too straight on a curve and crashed. And nine winked out its filaments gone before their promised hour. Ten? Why, ten is made to last. You say it's only glass? Quick, wrap it in cotton fast!

Martha Forstrom

Life

When life has a meaning to me I'll step into reality The road we travel is a long one When the moon shines on the sea If love is everywhere Why is there no-one to care? Care about the birds Care about the trees Care about life, care about me Because love is unbinding You can look but you cannot see Won't you try to see it's a finding Open your eyes and look at me I've been in love before And I don't want it any more The pain and rejection Is more than I can stand It always ends the same way She says she doesn't want to stay She just doesn't love me She just wants to be on her own

Shawn Williams

This Old Board

"What a story this old board could tell," She said, as she kneaded some dough. "I've used it for bread and cookies and cakes; There were biscuits to mold and stuffing to make, And onions and cabbage for slaw.

"Other things like fixing potatoes Or cracking nuts or slicing tomatoes; Or pressing a chicken or dicing some greens, Or trimming a steak or mixing some beans."

"This old board could tell of its use By our folks and their folks, to name but a few, And the things they made with its help O'er the years Still seem to be better than some things That are new!"

Charles E. Hutton

If

If I could be me What would I be? Yes, if I could be me? What would I be? A man in search of reality But, I've heard it said Nothing is real . . . I'm just a man trying to express The way that he feels Yes, if I could be me What would I be? A man in search of peace and love A man with love enough to share Someone in search of someone to care If I could be me What would I be Yes, if I could be me I'd be exactly what I want to be If I could be free Yes, if I could be free Yes, if I could be free Then I'd be exactly what I want to be...

Special message for mom on Mother's Day

By MICHELE McELMURRY

At a recent media dinner which my mother roped me into attending as her "date" for the evening, a woman sitting across the table leaned over and exclaimed, "You certainly would know your two were mother and daughter."

This isn't the first time I've heard this remark. In fact, I've spent the majority of my life as my mother's clone — sharing identical interests and tastes in everything from clothes and books to temperament and humor.

As the first kid on the block to have divorced parents, I spent most of my 23 years nurtured under the wings of my mother. The male influence in my household came from my younger brother — a towheaded terror whose favorite pastime was annoying his older sister.

During my past two years as a seemingly responsible adult (prior to this time I was a pseudo-responsible college student), I have gained a much greater awareness and appreciation for the awesome job my mother has fulfilled with such incredible style, grace and total unselfishness — despite some harsh and often difficult times.

Looking at my mother, I easily can see how the term "superwoman" was incorporated into today's vocabulary. For the past 12 years my mother has directed two public relations staffs, served on countless professional organizations, boards and committees, raised three uniquely different offspring, maintained a household with two dogs, a cat, a rabbit and an assortment of gerbils and hamsters — and strangely enough, has managed to keep her sanity.

As a journalist, one of the most frequent comments I hear from my mother's friends and business associates is "following in your mother's footsteps, huh?"

Though my mother and I are in related fields, my intention was not to follow in her occupational footsteps. As a struggling newspaper reporter I often kid my mother by telling her I'd never "sell out" the newspaper business to join the ranks of the public relations professionals. Besides, my mother is too tough an act to follow.

As manager of public relations for Kelly Services, my mother is responsible for handling the public relations of the second largest temporary help firm in the world. Positioned at the company's world headquarters in Troy, she directs a public relations staff in coordinating and developing media relations, special events and national promotions. She also oversees the production of the company's newsletters and represents Kelly by serving on several professional boards and organizations.

She currently is a member of the board of directors of the Detroit

Chapter of the Public Relations Society of America and is a member of the Ad-Craft Club of Detroit, also serving on its publicity committee. Other memberships include the Detroit Press Club, the Detroit Economic Club, the Women's Economic Club, the Women's Advertising Club and the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences.

While her credentials make it appear as though she has been writing press releases and devising media campaigns most of her life, my mother only has been "in the business" since 1970.

Prior to the that time — in the years between her graduation from Northwestern University and her first job interview as a suddenly single parent — my mother was giving her undivided attention to kids and housework.

Like many women of her generation, life after college meant marriage, a family and a house in the suburbs. My mother often refers to those years as her "other life."

As a fulltime homemaker most of her time was spent keeping an immaculate house, driving kids to and from ballet lessons, little league practice and birthday parties and serving as a gracious hostess at dinner gatherings, bridge games and neighborhood cocktail parties.

When my parents divorced in 1969, much of mother's "other life" went right out the window along with the "His and Her" towels.

Starting a career at 35 is no easy feat — especially for the mother of three little children suddenly faced with the dilemma of serving dual roles as both homemaker and breadwinner.

My mother may have been more than a little apprehensive about reentering the work force after washing diapers and cooking meatloaf dinners for 11 years, however, she regarded her newfound vocation as a welcome challenge.

My mother's rise in the public relations business began with rather humble beginnings. Her first job was publicity and promotion manager for WJR radio station, where she spent a year writing promotion material and press releases.

In July, 1970, she was offered a position on the public relations staff at the United Foundation as a newspaper and magazine feature writer and radio and television coordinator.

In 1973, she was named director of public relations for the United Foundation — the first woman named to that position in Detroit.

During her seven years as director of PR for the United Foundation, she also served as a member of the Communications Advisory Committee for the Michigan Cancer Foundation's Cancer Action NOW program and served as a member of the Communications Advisory Committee for the American Red Cross.

While my mother's professional obligations certainly have taken up more than her fair share of time, there are few complaints from the troops at home.

My brother, sister and I have been proud of mom — not only for the success she has achieved in her career — but at home as well.

Raising three kids with little in common can be a parent's nightmare. However, amazingly enough, mom has managed to pull it off.

Living in a house full of females, my little brother, affectionately referred to

Mom's goal: college for her daughter

By JEAN DAY

The year is 1946.

The place is a sociology class at University of Michigan.

The professor has just asked for a show of hand on how many students are "earning their way" through college.

Proudly hands go up. Mine included.

These are the students who are making it on their own?

Heads nod affirmatively.

We are doing so without family encouragement and whatever support parents can contribute?

There are puzzled looks and shaking heads.

Then the professor — in those pre-activist days when students worked and studied for a degree that would be a passport to a better life — throws his zinger:

"The only ones among you who truly are doing it on your own are those without the great encouragement of your families."

For this minority student (females in those days were the big minority) it was the beginning of a great appreciation for my mother.

From the day I was born, there was no doubt in her mind that her daughter with the bright red hair would go to college. Her daughter was given as much encouragement as her son. Always, it was an important day when report cards came home. Keeping an A record meant as much to her as to me. It was the admission to a good school.

She still speaks with regret of the fact that, as one of five daughters in a family of seven living children, she was the daughter tabbed to be the "homebody," to help with ironing chores and almost raise the little sister while she longed to begin nurses' training. Probably the even disposition that made my grandmother want her at home helped her accept the situation. She knew she was needed.

Later she became a bookkeeper. When the time arrived for me to begin college, illness and family reverses made it appear an impossibility.

I enrolled — and went job hunting. I still vividly recall the girl wearing her good suit with the yellow piping and matching beret timidly heading out for an office job interview. "You'll do fine, and you'll love working in a big office," mother encouraged. Somehow, I did get the job, and mother also dusted off her bookkeeping skills and went to work for General Motors.

The office in which she was hired started work at 7 a.m. She rose in the dark at 5:30 to catch the bus across town for years, as my father died not too long after. Never did I hear her complain.

"You can do it" was her standard reassurance through the years. With that kind of belief it would have been hard to fail. Eventually, I was clipping and sending home my first newspaper stories (Mother did regret that I was with The News rather than the Free Press which more of her friends read.)

But the education she found so important has made my life and the lives of my two daughters richer.

A friend once observed, "There's only one person who really thinks you're better than you are. That's a mother."

My mother, who is 85 this year, recently looked back, commenting, "I did the best I could."

You did great, Mom.

Dance aids computer purchase

By JEAN DAY

Mostly, it was just for fun, but those 218 pairs of dancing feet at Meadowbrook Country Club last Saturday were helping buy computers for the junior highs. Proceeds from the annual Mothers' Club dinner dance, together with the club's other fund raising projects, are tabbed for this project.

Cooke Junior High Principal David Longridge explains that the club voted to give the funds to Cooke and Meads Mill schools for the purchases when it found that a third Pet-Commodore computer would be free if two were purchased. A special education grant made the first possible. Longridge and his wife Marge, club past president, hosted a group of 32 for cocktails before Saturday's dinner dance.

"It's the one social event the club does not plan on as a major money raiser. It's a community event we give," explains President Diane Schrader. She's quick to add that other projects are — like the Christmas cocktail parties and the cookbook. The new edition of the cookbook, she notes, is selling fast at $5 and is available at Schrader's Furniture Store and from any member. "The cookbook," she says, "has proved to be a very popular hostess gift." She adds it is usual to have women run into her husband's store for a copy.

A couple of weekends ago it was her gift to former residents Bev and Don Williams who were their guests as they with daughter Jill came to attend Debbie Myers' wedding. They have just bought a new home in Poland, Ohio. Mrs. Schrader reports. The Schraders were among the guests at the cocktail party given by the Longridges.

Don and Barbara Willoughby opened their home on Springfield for another large pre-dinner gathering. She is incoming club president. Co-hosting the party were club members Diane Ramsey, Ardis McLeod and Kathi Jerome. Mrs. McLeod was dinner dance chairman assisted by Carol Richardson.

Among the other large pre-dinner gatherings was a party hosted by Margie and Richard Sievert at their home on Arselot.

When party's a double surprise, it's even better

More than 100 friends and family members attended the party Connie Conder thought she was giving to mark her husband John's 50th birthday April 24. But, because it was going to be the couple's silver anniversary May 4, Connie's mother, Dorrie Smith, decided also to make the party a surprise anniversary one.

The Conders' son Tim came from Dallas. Former neighbors and friends the Martin Rineharts came from Tulsa, Oklahoma, and the Ransom Halls from the Carolinas. Mrs. Smith ordered a replica of her daughter's bridal bouquet and a wedding cake for the event.

Newcomer Alums are brewing something new Northville Newcomer Alumnae are holding their first annual Spring Welcome Night at 7:30 p.m. this Thursday in the New School Church in Mill Race Historical Village. Over coffee and cookies next year's coordinators Toni DuSublon and Pat Bissailon will be introduced.

The group will be welcoming all potential alum members and will be thanking all those who chaired or helped with events this past year. An open invitation is extended by current coordinators Kathi Skynar and Barb Weiss to all third-year Northville Newcomers Club members and all alum members to attend.

It's a winning woman's show all this month

Artist Martha Barnes, a Northville Commons resident of 42366 Westmeath, is having a one-woman show at Farmington Library at 23550 Liberty in Farmington. The 20 large acrylic and watercolor paintings include familiar Michigan landscapes, scenes and still lifes.

Mrs. Barnes might be called a "triple crown" winner. She took first place in the Visual Arts Association of Livonia's show; first in the Livonia Art Club show; and first in the Three Cities Art Club of Plymouth show. She also won the "public choice" awards in the latter two shows.

Senior prom set May 28

"Do you know where you're going to?"

This is the theme for the senior prom of Northville High School's 1982 graduating class. It is being held from 7:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. May 28 at the Plymouth Hilton Inn.

Tickets at $39 a couple went on sale Monday and will be available at the school through May 14.

Couples will be dancing to the music of the Fender Clones, a group of young musicians that includes former Northville High School student Sheryl Wissman.

The prom committee reports that a special effort is being made to encourage a good attendance. The prime rib dinner concludes with chocolate eclairs.

Other features of the evening include having a photographer at the prom, and special favors that include a glass brandy snifter and a memory booklet for attending.

Pap test clinic scheduled

The Plymouth Branch of the Michigan Cancer Foundation is sponsoring a pap test clinic May 12 and a breast screening clinic May 19 at Tonquish Creek Manor in Plymouth. Clinic hours are from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Northville residents are invited to make appointments by calling the Plymouth branch office at 453-3010, weekdays from 1-3 p.m.

There is a minimal charge of $5 for the pap test and $10 for the breast screening exam to help defray the costs, however, special arrangements can be made according to ability to pay. No one will be denied service.

Services offered by the Plymouth Branch include dressings, medical supplies and equipment. Professional counseling for individuals and groups and nursing rehabilitation for patients who have undergone larengectomy, mastectomy and ostomy surgery are available through the Dearborn office. There is no charge for any of these services.

Christopherson unveils 'Little House' plates

Eugene Christopherson, the artist responsible for the "Little House on the Prairie" collector plate series, will unveil the long-awaited plates for the first time at an open house in South Lyon this weekend.

Art enthusiasts and collectors will have the opportunity to meet Christopherson at the Jimmy II Restaurant, at the corner of Pontiac Trail and Ten Mile, from noon to 5 p.m., Saturday, May 8. The public is invited to attend.

During the open house, the artist will unveil the "Little House" series, which features actual scenes from the popular NBC show, for the first time anywhere. He will talk with collectors and sign his prints, both original oils and plates.

Christopherson's visit to Michigan is hosted by the Southeastern Michigan Plate Collectors Association and sponsored by Baran's Collectibles of South Lyon. The association meets for educational and social purposes every third Tuesday of the month at the Northville Mill Race Historical Village.

The new Christopherson plates and his other creations such as the popular, "Dandelions," are available at Baran's, 108 North Lafayette, South Lyon. Further information on the open house may be obtained by contacting Pat Norton at Baran's, 437-1361.

One day prior to his South Lyon appearance, Christopherson will visit patients at Mott's Children's Hospital in Ann Arbor. During his ward visit from 9:30-11 a.m., he will show the children how he creates the pictures which are later transferred to collector plates.

Born and raised in South Dakota, the artist has become so adept at portraiture over the years that he has been commissioned to paint the official portraits of the last five governors of South Dakota.

Two of the artist's children paintings were reproduced as limited edition collector plates. The first was "Old Fashioned Persuasion" and the second was "The Dandelions." In addition, there are plans for more collector plates, one of which includes a new series entitled, "When We Were Children."

Ballooning

In celebration of the Girl Scout's 70th birthday, Northville, Plymouth and Canton scouts held a Waterfair last Saturday at Waterford Bend. Northville Brownie Troops 220, 643, 644, 638 and 740 and Junior troops 573, 737, 379, 331 and 234 celebrated the event with displays of the gift of water, dunk tanks and a balloon lift-off at the end of the day's festivities. Chairperson of the event was Margaret Sweet of Northville. Karen McCreadie, also of Northville, served on the committee organizing the party. The Northville City Department Ladies Auxiliary and the Northwest Lioness Club donated money for the Girl Scout's celebration. Northville Township Fire Department filled the dunk tank and Cooke Junior High Principal Dave Longridge helped out by loaning the girls a loud speaker.

National Day of Prayer marked by local churches

Local churches are being asked to carry the National Day of Prayer message to their members, requesting that they take time privately this Thursday to pray.

The official proclamation of National Day of Prayer issued by President Ronald Reagan was brought to local churches by Betty Smith as she returned to Northville from an America for Jesus leadership conference held in Washington, D.C., April 28-29.

She was one of a group of six Plymouth-Northville area women attending the conference to plan a national conference in Washington in 1984. "It's every church asking members to pray privately," she said.

In proclaiming the day, President Reagan stated, "On that day, I ask Americans to join with me in giving thanks to Almighty God for the blessings He has bestowed on this land and the protection He offers us as a people. 'Let us as a nation join together before God, aware of the trials that lie ahead and of the need for divine guidance. With unshakable faith in God and the liberty which is our heritage, we as a free nation will continue to grow and prosper," the declaration reads.

It was noted that the first National Day of Prayer was proclaimed in 1775 by the Second Continental Congress. Thirty years ago a joint resolution of Congress requested the president to proclaim a day each year, other than a Sunday, as a National Day of Prayer. Eight presidents since then annually have done so.

In addition to publicizing this year's proclamation, those attending the conference last month formulated plans for the next national meeting of Americans for Jesus.

Mrs. Smith reported the theme will be "One Nation under God."

The meetings of women's Christian groups were held at Constitution Hall. Youth groups also were represented with all meeting together the last day at the D.C. Armory.

The last national conference, Mrs. Smith said, drew 500,000. The committee is aiming for two million in 1984, she added.

Church slates May Festival

First Presbyterian Church will sponsor a May Festival at 7 p.m. May 12 for all members of the community interested in attending an evening of desserts and entertainment.

The Livonia Senior Citizens' Kitchen Band, appearing in its first Northville performance, will provide the evening's entertainment. The band has performed for six years at various schools, colleges, churches and civic clubs in Livonia. The unique musical instruments used by this group add a special touch to its performance.

There will be a free-will offering at the door, but reservations should be made at the church office by May 9. For reservations call 349-0911.

Methodist music drama set Sunday

Fourth presentation this year of the Northville Methodist Church young people's musical drama, "...And There Was Light," will be a dessert-theater program for Mother's Day at 7 p.m. Sunday at the church.

Directed by Stacey and Gary Becker, the presentation will be followed by refreshments.

Dental Dialogue

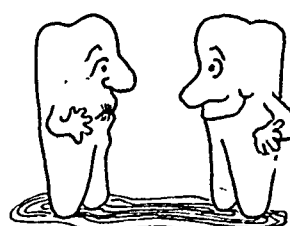

of A. Allen Tuchklaper, D.D.S.

DENTURES SPITE BITE

Q. I'm tired of going to the dentist and I'm thinking of having my teeth pulled and dentures made. Won't this solve my problems?

A. I'm afraid not. Besides prematurely aging you, dentures will acquaint you with three new basic R's — replacing, repairing, and relining. Also, the most important function of your teeth is chewing, and your natural teeth do this job much better than dentures. Your teeth are also important for normal speech besides greatly influencing the appearance of your face. In days gone by dentures were common, but with modern dentistry there is no reason for you to settle for "second best."

This column is presented in the interest of better dental health. From the office of A. Allen Tuchklaper, D.D.S., 24101 Novi Road, Novi 348-3100

Mother's Day message

as "Tom the Terrible" as a youngster, looked upon my mom as a surrogate father as well as a mother. While he was growing up, mom managed to involve herself in anything that interested him. She'd rush home from work to attend all his little league games, would share in his enthusiasm for karate lessons, banjo, drums, motorcycles — or whatever struck his fancy — at that time and proved to be a real sport when he decided to soundproof his room with egg cartons.

A few years back, my brother announced during dinner that he had discovered mountain climbing to be his niche in life. After nearly choking on her spinach salad, mom garnered enough enthusiasm to exclaim, "How wonderful, dear." In the years that followed, she spent many hours trailing her son from one store to another while he tried on mountain climbing boots and looked over packs and gear. She also helped him ready for his summer jaunts to Colorado and has enthusiastically shared in his love of climbing — despite the fact that she can't stand heights.

His summer excursions ended last year, when he called home to say he found a job in Colorado and would living out west "for awhile." Mother, of course, was thrilled — giving her usual support while trying to keep a stiff upper lip.

As the first child to fly the coop, so to speak, mother has had to adjust to life without her only son. What subsequently has resulted from his departure is that we seem to always have a full refrigerator, the house manages to stay orderly for a 24-hour period, and we now can see the furniture in our living room since the tent has disappeared. Yet, there still remains an empty bedroom full of yellowing baseball cards and old Mad magazines.

Living at home since my college graduation, I have come to realize the joys of living with a 17-year-old sister who blow-dries her hair eight times a day, receives 45 phone calls in any given two-hour period and has lost most of her hearing from listening to my Rolling Stones albums at full volume.

My mother mellowed in the upbringing of her youngest — at least that's the perception of this child who feels that the "kid" gets away with everything.

However, despite her rather laid-back approach to raising my younger sister, the kid's managed to turn out all right.

My sister inherited my mother's love for animals and our house is virtual proof of this fact. Over the past few years, our house has been home for a hodge-podge of critters from rabbits to birds. My mother is too soft-hearted to turn away a beagle puppy with sad eyes — regardless of the fact that it has terrorized the neighborhood, ruined the carpets and has established her as the only executive in Detroit to have a dog-hair coated office chair.

As for the eldest child, well, I most certainly am my mother's daughter. I've inherited her expensive tastes, her passion for books, dance, theatre and old movies, her love of history and her lunacy for antiques — and those are all the good qualities.

Through the years, she's been a friend, confidant, companion and ardent supporter. She's offered me the freedom to make my own choices, supported my career pursuits, rescued me from credit card abuse and its aftermath, accompanied me on frivolous excursions and shared in all my joys and sorrows.

As a daughter, I couldn't ask for anything more. My only hope is that someday I will be at least half as terrific as this woman I call Mom.

Dranginis' arm pitches Northville to victory twice

By JOHN MYERS

Fred Holdsworth would like nothing more than to find another pitcher like John Dranginis for his Northville boys' baseball team, so he would be set for the season.

It's simple to see the reason why the first-year varsity head coach would like to have a clone of Dranginis to put on the mound when the original already has pitched.

The senior lefthander has won all four of Northville's games this season, and he currently has put together a string of 19 consecutive scoreless innings. South Lyon was the last team to score on him back on April 22.

But Holdsworth knows he can't use Dranginis in every game, thus his need to find another pitcher to take some of the heat off Dranginis.

The Mustangs won two of three games last week to run their overall season mark to 4-2 and 1-1 in the Western Six with Dranginis again figuring in the triumphs.

Northville downed Hartland, 8-7, Saturday to advance to the semifinals against Brighton at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Lee Shelander Tournament in Howell. If Northville defeats the Bulldogs, it will play for the championship at 4 p.m.

The Mustangs split a pair of W-Six games last week by whitewashing Livonia Churchill, 4-0, but getting blanked by Walled Lake Western, 9-0.

Northville was in action against defending league champ Plymouth Canton Monday. The Mustangs host league foe Farmington Harrison at 4 p.m. today and Livonia Clarenceville at 4 p.m. Friday. Northville has a non-league contest against Waterford Township Monday.

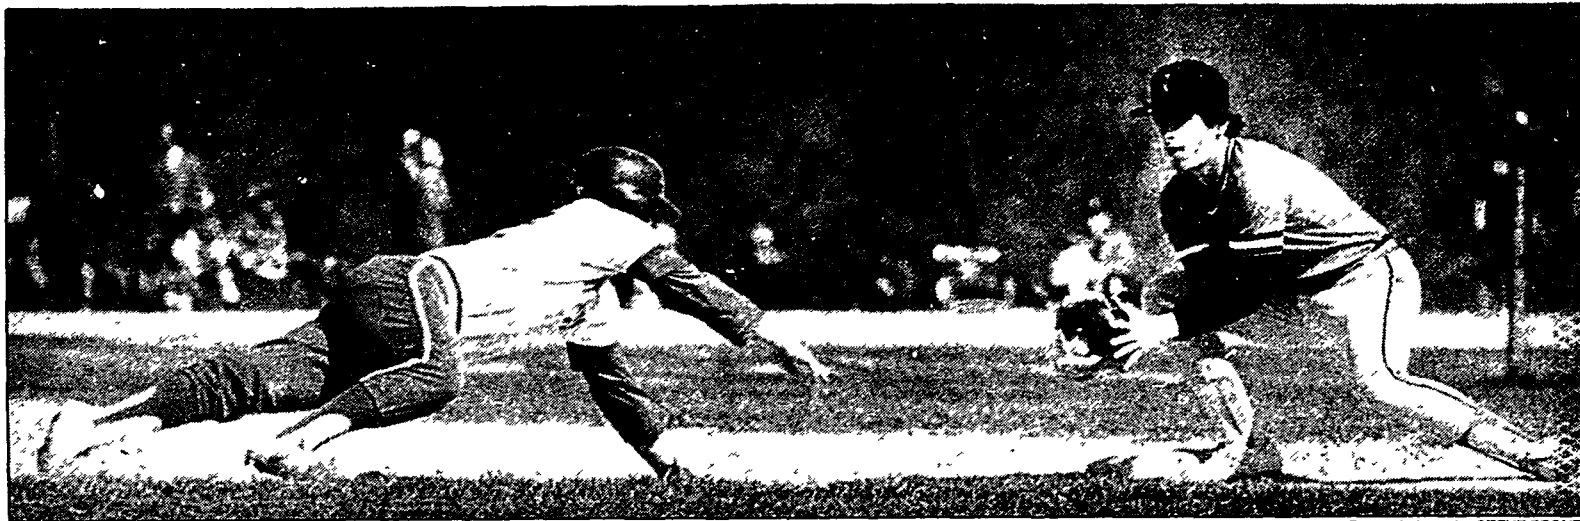

Dranginis came in to save the day against Hartland as he pitched 4½ innings of scoreless relief to earn victory number four.

"It's a surprise he has done this well," Holdsworth noted. "He developed good control, he throws hard and he has a good curve."

Dranginis allowed only two hits, walked two and struckout nine, while his teammates battled from behind to win.

Catcher Andy Dimitroff, who tops the team in hitting, blasted a first inning solo homerun in addition to collecting two other hits and two intentional walks.

The Mustangs touched the plate twice in the second frame, when Dave Malinowski scored on a Bob Townsend single. Northville scored three in the third when Chris Behen came home on a Malinowski single and Dimitroff scored on a Steve Frellick single.

Both Behen and Dimitroff scored in the fourth on singles by Todd Bartling and Malinowski, respectively.

Bartling also had a big day for Northville with three hits as did Malinowski, while Behen added two hits.

The Mustangs bats boomed for 17 hits, but Holdsworth was unhappy when 12 men were left on base, including twice when Northville left the bases loaded.

Some mental errors also hurt the Mustangs, which prompted Holdsworth to say, "We were lucky to win."

Joe Peters started the contest for the Mustangs and allowed all seven runs on eight hits in just under three innings' work. Ironically, it was Peters who started the South Lyon contest in which Dranginis eventually came in to relieve for a 19-15 victory.

Dranginis was the starting pitcher against Churchill as he blanked the Chargers on two hits. He struckout nine and walked three batters.

One of the key cogs in the Northville hitting attack was Dimitroff, who doubled twice and scored both times. Willie Newman also had two hits and scored once in the pitchers' duel.

However, things did not go quite so well for Northville in the Western contest as the Warriors' Guy Whittington shut the door on the Mustangs.

He only gave up singles to Dimitroff, Frellick, Mickey Newman and Todd Harrigan.

Malinowski started the game for Northville and suffered his second loss of the season.

Eight Northville errors did not help Malinowski's cause and Holdsworth suggested, "(Malinowski) deserved a better fate."

Currently, the Mustangs are batting .355 as a team and scoring an average of eight runs per game. The pitching staff is allowing just over seven runs a game.

Last year, the Mustangs finished the season at 5-12, so they are only one victory away from matching that total this season which has Holdsworth a little surprised at his team's fast start.

"We still have to prove ourselves against the better clubs," admitted Holdsworth, who added the schedule will be getting tougher as the season progresses.

Local Fun Run scheduled for Downtown Dedication

All joggers, runners and walkers are being summoned by the Northville Trotters' Running Club and the recreation department to participate in the Northville Downtown Dedication Run to take place at 10 a.m. Saturday, May 22.

There will be a one-mile fun run and five- and 10-kilometer runs which are open to everyone. Medals will be awarded to the first and second place male and female finishers in each age division in the five- and 10-kilometer runs. Certificates will be awarded to all finishers.

Registration fee for anyone 12 years old and under is $3.50, for 13 years old and older, $6. Cost is $5 for Club members. T-Shirts will be given to all entrants registered by May 17. Late registration fee is $8 the day of the race from 8:30-9:30 a.m. However, T-Shirts are not guaranteed for late registrants.

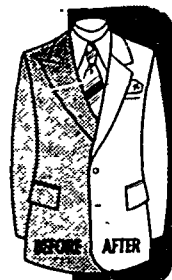

Send or bring completed entry blank to Northville Recreation, 303 West Main Street. Checks should be made payable to Northville Recreation.

Softball team gains first W-Six win

By JOHN MYERS

Mary Minor thinks things eventually will fall into place for her Northville girls' softball team.

The Mustangs won only one of three contests last week, but the first-year varsity coach is starting to see some improvement in her young club.

"I thought the kids played real well, except for the (Walled Lake) Western game. I was really pleased with the Hartland game. We started to do some things successfully," Minor explained.

Northville put its 2-4 overall and 1-1 Western Six Conference mark on the line Monday against Plymouth Canton. The Mustangs have another W-Six contest at Farmington Harrison at 4 p.m. Wednesday. Non-league foe Waterford Township comes into town for a 4 p.m. contest Monday.

Northville lost an 11-6 decision to Hartland in a Lee Shelander Tournament contest Saturday. The loss knocked the Mustangs out of the tournament.

Despite the setback, some of the things that pleased Minor were successful suicide squeeze bunt plays and throwing out a couple of runners at the plate.

But not everything went Northville's way. Hartland broke the game open in the sixth inning to seal the triumph.

Minor, though, had some words of encouragement for the squad. "If the kids keep trying, then things will start falling into place for us," she said.

Sue Keiser was the pitcher of record for the Mustangs as she went the distance. She allowed 11 runs on 15 hits, walked two and struck out one.

Trish Settles had two run-batted-in singles, while Sheri Robins, the hottest hitter on the squad, had an RBI single. Nancy LaPlante drove in two runs, while Robins also scored on an error to account for the Mustangs' runs.

Northville split a pair of Western Six Conference games last week. The Mustangs lost to Western, 16-3, April 28, but downed Livonia Churchill, 6-5, April 26.

LaPlante was the starting pitcher for the Mustangs against Western going just under five innings work. She was relieved by Keiser, who hurled the final out.

Robins cracked three triples in the contest, knocking in two runs and scoring the other. "She's an excellent runner on the base paths," Minor commented. Cheryl Berryman and LaPlante scored on the triples by Robins.

Northville's bats were ringing against Charger pitching, something that had been lacking in previous contests for the Mustangs.

"I was really pleased. The kids seemed to be hitting better. That is something we worked heavily on lately," Minor said.

Berryman led the hitting barrage with four hits in five trips to the plate. Her first double brought home Jill Matteucci, who had walked, while her second double drove in Robins. Berryman also scored on a double by Robins, who had two hits.

The sophomore secondbaseman's third double of the afternoon scored Matteucci, who again had walked.

Northville also scored when Robins touched the plate on a sacrifice by LaPlante and scored on a Jan Roberts' single; she also had two hits. Trish Settles drove in Roberts for the final run of the game.

Another batter who had a good day at the plate was Pat Wazny, who connected for two hits.

Keiser registered her second win of the year when she went just under five innings.

Robins, who was the team's leading hitter last season, continues to do the same this season. She tops the Mustangs with a .579 average.

Mustang netters shock Plymouth Canton, 4-3

By JOHN MYERS

Northville boys' tennis team came up with one of its biggest wins of the young season thus far when it stunned Western Six Conference foe Plymouth Canton, 4-3, Monday on the Chiefs' home courts.

"That was a big 'V' (victory) for us. I thought we would have our hands full, but the kids pulled it out," an elated coach Dick Norton admitted Monday night. Similar to the classic Bjorn Borg/John McEnroe match point tie-breaker at Wimbledon a few years ago, the Mustangs' third doubles team of Kip Mach and Steve Harrison did the same to save the day for Northville.

With the match tied at 3-all, it was up to Mach and Harrison to pull out victory for Northville. And they did so while all eyes were upon them as all other matches were done at this point.

Mach and Harrison had won the first set 6-3 over their Canton opponents, but lost the second set 2-6. Then came the thrilling third set.

Mach and Harrison trailed 5-3 before rallying back to only a 5-4 disadvantage. Then, the pair went to a dozen match points before finally winning the game to even things at 5-all.

The winning streak continued as the pair went up 6-5, but Canton tied things at 6-all before Mach and Harrison finally broke way to give Northville the win.

"It was a pretty exciting match," Norton understated. "I think Kip Mach and Steve Harrison just sucked it up and wanted it more."

The win at third doubles completed a sweep for the Mustangs, which is exactly what they needed to even their overall mark at 3-3 and raise their W-Six ledger to 2-1.

Steve Ouellette and Matt Abraham won 7-5, 6-1 at first doubles, while Chris Sixt and Omar Anisoglu were 6-4, 6-3 victors at second doubles.

Things looked a little bleak after the singles competition where Canton was victorious in three of the four matches. Also, Norton had to shuffle his line-up because regular second singles player Richard Schohl was not able to play.

Parson to Person...

Why Worship on Sunday

Dr. James H. Luther

Sunday is not the Sabbath. It is incorrect to call it the "Christian Sabbath." Saturday is the Sabbath, as given to Israel in the law of Moses. Yet, according to the Bible, the Sabbath days were a type of spiritual truth. Their purpose and meaning were realized in Christ. "Let no man therefore, judge you in food, or in drink, or in respect of a feast day, or of new moon, or of Sabbath day, which are a shadow of things to come; but the body is of Christ" (Colossians 2:16-17).

After the resurrection of our Lord, the early Christians met together on the 1st day of the week, or the Lord's day (Sunday), for the breaking of bread and the preaching of God's Word (Acts 20:7). They took up their offerings on that same day (1 Cor. 16:2).

Just a few years after Christ and the apostles (110 A.D.), Ignatius wrote: "Those who walked in the ancient practices attain unto newness of hope, no longer observing Sabbaths, but fashioning their lives after the Lord's day, on which our life also rose through Him, that we may be found disciples of Jesus Christ, our only teacher." Today also we seek to honor the Lord. He, not tradition, controls the day of worship (Luke 6:5).

Most importantly, we are not saved or lost by keeping a particular day. Our salvation depends entirely upon acceptance of Jesus Christ as personal savior. "For by grace are you saved through faith; and that not of yourselves, it is the gift of God; not of works lest anyone should boast" (Ephesians 2:8).

Scott Dayton (front) and Clark Couyoumjian took one-two in the mile

Dayton double winner in setback to Western

Ed Gabrys is looking to "repeat the magic" this week. After his Northville boys' track team turned in some of its best times of the year at the Observerland Relays Saturday, Gabrys hopes it will carry over into this week's meet.

The Mustangs had a non-league dual meet against Redford Thurston Tuesday and travel to Plymouth at 4 p.m. Thursday for a Western Six Conference meet against Canton. Also, the Mustangs are gearing toward the Cardinal Relays Saturday.

Northville was involved in only one dual meet last week, that against a strong Walled Lake Western squad Thursday (April 29). The Warriors topped the Mustangs, 90-42, which put Northville at 0-1 in the league and 0-3 overall.

At the Observerland Relays, the Mustangs placed 13th out of 16 teams, but Gabrys was encouraged by the times turned in by the dozen runners he took to the meet.

"I was real pleased with the outcome of the meet," Gabrys said. "We had some good performances."

Northville's top performance of the day was turned in by the distance medley relay squad of John Klokenga, Dan Vogt, Scott Dayton and Clark Couyoumjian which took third place.

Kloggenga turned in a personal best of 2:08 in the 880-yard run of the relay. Vogt was clocked at 54.0 for his 440-yard split, while Dayton ran a three-quarter mile split of 3:21. Couyoumjian anchored the relay with a 4:30 mile for a total time of 10:59.8.

Bruce Burry just missed qualifying for the 100-yard dash finals as he was clocked at 11.0 on the cinder track. Sophomore Mark Knoth placed sixth in the 120-yard high hurdles. He had qualified for the final heat when he recorded a 16.1 time in the preliminaries.

That was the first action of the week for Knoth, who missed the Western meet. His absence hurt the Mustangs somewhat in keeping the score close.

The Warriors swept both the high and low hurdles. The winning time in the highs was 17.3, which had Gabrys believing Knoth could have won that event. He also might have been able to take second in the lows, according to Gabrys.

The Mustangs' 440-yard relay lost to Western by eight-tenths of a second, but this is another event Gabrys thinks his team could have won if Knoth, who normally runs in the relay, had been present.

However, Dayton had one of his best days of the young season when he won the mile and two mile over Western's Kyle Chura. Dayton won the mile in a time of 4:45 and the two mile in a 10:12 clocking.

The only other first taken in the meet were by Burry in the 100-yard dash (10.9) and Tim Wagner in the high jump (5-foot-10).

Couyoumjian took second in both the mile (4:49) and the 880-yard run (2:09), while Burry was runner-up in the 220-yard dash (24.5).

"We did well in the sprints and distances," Gabrys noted. "Western is a tough opponent. We would have liked the score a little closer, but that's the way it goes."

NHS thinclads defeated twice

Northville's girls' track team took it on the chin twice last week as it fell to Western Six Conference rival Walled Lake Western and non-league foe Livonia Ladywood.

The Mustangs ran against Redford Thurston Tuesday. Northville is hosting W-Six foe Plymouth Canton at 4 p.m. today and will be traveling to Western Saturday for the Stafford Relays.

Despite the two losses, coach Bob Prom has been pleased with the hard work turned in by the small Mustang squad.

"For the numbers we have, you can't ask for more than they're putting out," he said. "As long as they keep working hard, you can't ask for more."

Becky Baumann could muster the only first-place finish for the Mustangs in the 105-17 loss to Ladywood last week as she won the long jump with a leap of 13-feet-3.

In addition to her first, she was third in both the 440-yard dash with a time of 68.1 and the 220-yard dash with a 30.4 clocking.

Kim Campbell took a pair of second-place finishes for Northville along with a third. She was runner-up in the shot put with a toss of 24-7 and was clocked at 30.7 in the 220-yard dash. She was third in the 100-yard dash with a time of 13.7.

Others to take thirds in the meet for the Mustangs were Sharon Savageau in the discus with a toss of 56-5, Liz McLarty in the 110-yard low hurdles with a 20.6 clocking and Kelly Wool in the two-mile run with a 13:11.1.

Wool was the big scorer for Northville in the 109-14 loss to Western as she was a double winner. She was first to break the tape in the mile run with a time of 6:00.5 and the two mile with a time of 12:59.4.

Kim Assenmacher took the only runner-up slot for Northville in the 110-yard low hurdles with a time of 18.20, while Baumann took the only other points with a third in the 200-yard dash with a 29.6 clocking.

Wool, Campbell, Assenmacher and Baumann have been consistent scorers for Northville this season, but Prom noted other thinclads have been making improvements.

Northville netters upset Canton

The only singles triumph for Northville came, ironically, at second singles where Arvind Seerham was a 6-0, 6-2 victor. He normally plays third singles for the Mustangs where he has been a consistent winner.

However, Chris McCormick lost 6-1, 6-3 at first singles. Scott Werdell lost 6-2, 6-0 at third singles and John Vandervouw lost a tough 7-6, 7-5 decision at fourth singles. (Vandervouw) played well," Norton praised.

If there was one disappointment last week for Norton, it came when Walled Lake Western downed Northville, 5-2, in a W-Six match April 28.

"I thought we could take them," Norton explained. "We didn't play well."

The only winners for the Mustangs were Seerham and third singles and the second doubles team of Sixt and Anisoglu. McCormick at first singles, Scholt at second singles, Werdell at fourth singles, Onelle and Abraham at first doubles and Vandervouw and Mark O'Brien at third doubles all fell to defeat.

Northville also met up with two strong tennis squads last week, losing to Birmingham Seaholm, 7-0, April 27 and Livonia Stevenson, 6-1, April 20.

The lone victor against Stevenson was Seerham at third singles 6-2, 6-1.

The Mustangs have three tough matches this week. They host defending league champ Farmington Harbison at 4 p.m. today, before battling non-league opponents Detroit Country Day Thursday, Brighton Friday and Waterford-Farmington Monday.

Running Club meets tonight

The Northville Trotters' Running Club is conducting an organizational meeting for current and prospective members at 7:30 p.m. tonight at city hall.

$10 with members getting a club T-Shirt, discount on local races, gym time for indoor workouts during the winter and place for persons interested in running together.

Open swim hours at the high school are Mondays through Thursdays 7-8 p.m. for adults only and 8:30-9:30 p.m. for everyone. Cost is 50 cents.

The Men's Class C softball tournament at Thomson Field begins Friday and ends Sunday. Call Pete Talbot at 349-0203 for starting times and for teams participating.

Few tickets remain for Tigers contest

Only a few tickets remain for the Detroit Tigers exhibition baseball contest against the Cincinnati Reds May 6 to help raise funds for area sandlot baseball teams. Tickets may be purchased from the Northville Junior Baseball Association and the recreation department.

There are reserved seat tickets at $7, bleacher seats at $3, and general admission tickets at $4.50 available.

For more information on tickets and/or transportation to the game, call Tony Pump at 349-9151, Bob Frellick at 349-2840 or the recreation department at 349-0203.

Softball tryouts slated

Tryouts for the Northville senior and junior girls' travel softball teams will take place at 3 p.m. Saturday at Meads Mill Junior High.

Players must be 18 years old and under for the senior squad and 15 years old and under for the junior team.

Numerous benefits set

There are a couple of benefits slated to take place in the coming weeks to help charitable organizations in the area.

The Michigan Heart Association has scheduled a "Skate for Heart" benefit Sunday, May 23, at various roller skating rinks around the state. The closest rink locally conducting the event is Bonaventure, 24505 Halstead Road, Farmington.

Sponsored by the Rolling Skating Rink Operators Association, "Skate for Heart" will help promote good cardiovascular fitness, and is expected to be the biggest fund-raising event to benefit the Michigan Heart Association.

There are many chances for participants to win prizes with the grand prize being a trip for two to Disneyland in California.

Persons who wish to participate must obtain registration packets in advance and may do so by calling Bonaventure at 476-2201.

If bowling is more up your alley, then check out the Eighth Annual Bowling Party to take place 8 p.m. Monday, May 17, at Thunderbird Lanes in Allen Park. It is being sponsored by WJR and the Bowling Proprietors' Association.

There will be 23 teams, each squad composed of a WJR personality, sports celebrity and a lucky winner of a special drawing, to compete for prizes and money to donate to charity.

The top team will win $1,000 for each celebrity's favorite charity, with second place winning $500. Also, the first-place team winner receives a color television, while second wins a portable stereo radio. All 20 participants will be given a WJR-BPA bowling shirt as well as an AMF bowling ball and bag.

Entrants must be 16 years old or older. Entry forms can be obtained at any nearby bowling center. The postcard entry must be returned by midnight May 7.

Betty and Herman Wedemeyer of Northville find class an enjoyable way to stay in shape

Class puts participants in the swim

By SHERRY KAHAN

They used to swing and sway to the music of Sammy Kaye.

Now they kick and splash to the beat of Herb Alpert and his Tijuana Brass. And both are pleasurable experiences for the members of a water exercise class at the Schoolcraft College swimming pool.

Participants get the benefits of exercise, and for many there is an extra dividend—they learn to swim.

All of the class are members of one-piece dressmaker suit vintage, but are middle-aged and up. Quite a few grew up without learning to swim.

Rosemary Liedel of Northville said she joined the class "because I needed exercise during the winter."

"I didn't know how to swim," she added, "but I got a bonus. I learned to swim and now can swim the length of the pool."

She always was afraid of water. About 10 years ago a man threw me in the deep end of a backyard pool. It was frightening. Fortunately, a friend pulled me out. I decided I had to overcome this.

The class, taught by Esther Friedrichs of Livonia, is run in eight-week sessions with a new one getting under way the second week in May. There will be two classes, all meeting Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, one starting at 2 p.m., the other at 3 p.m.

The cost is $22 for district residents, $30 for others.

Friedrichs, mother of six and grandmother of six, uses the expertise and agility learned as she earned her degree in physical education from University of Wisconsin.

Besides the program at Schoolcraft, she teaches fitness programs for seniors and in the Livonia community education program.

At Schoolcraft she demonstrates each exercise from the side of the pool while calling out instructions.

"Dig a little hole," she directs, and works her hands in the air while the students do the same in the water. "Now climb a rope," she continues, and students work both arms and legs.

Then she tells them to make some waves. Thirty students flailing away kick up quite a storm in the pool four and one-half feet deep.

There are even a few bumps and grinds demonstrated for imitating in the water. And when class members have run through an hour's workout, they feel it in every part of their bodies with the possible exception of the earlobe.

"No swimming skill is required for entering the class," Friedrichs pointed out. "The emphasis is on enjoyment of simple activities in the water."

"However, basic swimming skills are incorporated into each program. The purpose is progressive exercise for all muscle groups, leading to improved circulation, flexibility, deeper breathing and relaxation."

Both swimming and shape have improved for Herman Wedemeyer of Northville. "I feel like a million dollars," he said.

He and his wife Betty are among several couples in the current classes.

"The first week, I found my muscles were all tight, but then they loosened up," he said. "Now swimming is a relaxer. I haven't lost any weight, but I've slimmed down. That's gratifying when you get in front of a mirror."

Wedemeyer also has learned new strokes and managed not to sink when he turned over and lay on his back.

"I used to think I'd sink," he reported. "But you just lie there and float."

Esther Friedrichs tells students, then shows them, what to do

Further Evidence: 9 out of 10 former higher tar smokers report MERIT an easy switch, that they didn't give up taste in switching, and that MERIT is the best-tasting low tar they've ever tried.

Taste Verdict: MERIT.

Further, extensive unmarked-pack tests confirm that MERIT delivers a winning combination of taste and low tar when compared with higher tar leaders.

Confirmed: The overwhelming majority of smokers reported MERIT taste equal to—or better than—leading higher tar brands.

Confirmed: When tar levels were revealed, 2 out of 3 chose the MERIT combination of low tar and good taste.

Year after year, in study after study, MERIT remains unbeaten. The proven taste alternative to higher tar smoking—is MERIT.
