City faces new state cuts as council approves budget

Calling the unanticipated latest cut in state racetrack returns to the city of $240,035, "absolutely unbelievable," Northville city council last Wednesday made plans for an appeal directly to Governor William Milliken as it passed a 1982-83 budget that the council agreed will need additional cuts.

Bound by charter to pass the budget following Wednesday's public hearing, the council unanimously adopted the $2,690,472 budget and approved an additional two mill levy increasing millage to 15.68.

Complicating the increase was the state's determination that Oakland County's State Equalized Evaluation be set at 1.06 for residential property. Commercial and industrial keep a 1.0 factor. Wayne County also has a 1.0 factor.

Because Oakland County has indicated it will fight the factor in court, the council made provision in its motion to hold in an interest-bearing escrow account the six percent additional that the factor will cause to be levied on residents living in the Oakland County portion of the city.

"It's a very serious situation we face tonight. I think we already have a bare bones budget, and the only way we can accommodate more cuts (in state returns) is by drastically curtailing services," stated a serious Mayor Paul Vernon as the council looked at the latest 33.39 percent cut that reduced state racetrack returns from the anticipated $719,000 to $336,155. Previous cuts have been made of $80,530 (11.20 percent) in November, 1981, and of $62,280 (8.66 percent) in April.

Vernon also explained to the audience of eight residents, Allen Terrace commission members and city department heads that a good share of the track money returned to the city is eaten up by services the city must provide to the track.

Racetrack monies are handled by the state department of agriculture. City Manager Steven Walters noted that the department, faced with the latest directive to make cuts ordered by the governor, had little choice.

"Layoffs," he said, "would not produce that kind of reduction."

This cut of racetrack funds, Walters continued, impacts state budget reductions 10 times as heavily on cities that have race tracks. The council learned that Livonia, also hit by the latest slash, was considering legal action.

As Vernon advised council to "proceed as though this third cut will not occur," council member J. Burton DeRusha questioned, "Are we not burying our heads in the sand?"

Vernon replied that the council has the freedom to adjust the budget as necessary.

As the budget hearing was held, Laura Hixson questioned budgeted employee costs. Walters said that fringe benefits for the 55 employees, including those in the library and recreation departments, amount to 82 percent of base wages. He explained that these are budgeted back to the city departments as overhead.

Alwynne Bales expressed concern about the Oakland County SEV factor differing from the Wayne factor.

Walters stated the city had two choices — a rollback to offset the factor which, ironically, he said, would be done to residences in both counties, or to levy the factor and place that money in escrow.

He estimated that it will be a year or more before the courts make a decision on Oakland County's objection.

As the city taxes were reviewed, including the 1.20 mill for Randolph Drain and .50 mill for South Main paving,

Board picks Bell for superintendent

By MICHELE McELMURRY

Northville Board of Education will approve tonight the appointment of Van Dyke Superintendent George Bell, as the district's new chief executive in a special meeting at Northville High School.

The board is expected to approve unanimously a three-year, $50,000 contract negotiated with Bell last week, according to board president Karen Wilkinson.

The $50,000 salary offered to Bell is an increase over his current $48,000 salary as Van Dyke's superintendent. It is, however, less than $51,000 currently awarded to Superintendent Lawrence Nichols.

Bell, who met with the board for a second interview last Tuesday evening, was selected the top contender from a field of eight finalists. An estimated 100 applications were received for the superintendent's post since the vacancy was announced April 2 following Nichols' resignation.

Bell, who is expected officially to take the superintendent's helm July 1, will retain his residency in Canton. Wilkinson said the proximity of Bell's residence to the Northville Public Schools was a consideration in negotiating the residency provision.

During interview proceedings, Bell requested the board allow him to remain in Canton due to the current slump in the housing market and his youngest son's high school status.

He told the board he would prefer his son not attend school in the same district where he was superintendent.

The board, which has spent the past two months searching for a candidate to fill the district's superintendent's post, chose Bell as its top candidate in an informal discussion session May 21.

Wilkinson said the board confirmed its decision after meeting with Bell in a second interview last Tuesday at the Hillside Inn in Plymouth.

Bell, 54, has been superintendent of the Van Dyke Public Schools in Warren since June, 1980.

Selected Van Dyke's Superintendent during one of the district's more tumultuous periods, Bell "helped turn the district around," according to Van Dyke Board of Education President Raymond Richard.

According to Richard, Bell led the district to a millage victory after several futile renewal attempts.

"He even turned the students around," Bell explained. "We didn't have any school spirit, and he brought that back into the district."

Richard attributed Bell's success in Van Dyke to his "ability to get along with people."

"He will be greatly missed in Van Dyke," he remarked, "especially by me."

During the board's initial interview proceedings, Bell told the board he will "get to know the community by being involved in every facet of it."

While serving as Van Dyke superintendent, he was involved in several community organizations including the Warren Research and Development Council and the South Warren Neighborhood Improvement Organization.

GEORGE BELL

Bell brings to Northville considerable educational experience. He began his career in 1951 as an instrumental music instructor in the Wayne-Westland School District. In 1959, he was named music coordinator for Wayne-Westland Schools.

He was named principal of Wayne Memorial High School in 1966, serving in that position until his selection as Van Dyke Public Schools Superintendent.

He holds a doctorate of education degree and an education specialist degree from Wayne State University. He also received his bachelor's and master's degrees in instrumental music from Wayne State.

He serves on the executive board of the Metropolitan Detroit Bureau of School Studies — a service organization for more than 100 school districts — and has been an instructor at Eastern Michigan University.

He is a member of the Michigan Association of School Administrators, the Michigan Association of School Boards and the Michigan Association of Secondary Principals.

He resides in Canton with his wife Ruth, a preschool supervisor in the Wayne-Westland Schools, and his youngest son Robert, a junior at John Glenn High School. His oldest son Steven is an assistant professor of mathematics at Princeton University and his daughter Kathy is an executive accountant for Unistrut Corporation.

Tonight's meeting at 7 p.m. in the Northville High School cafeteria will precede the League of Women Voters school board candidates' forum scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

Complaints lodged over new zoning ordinance

Although it has not yet taken effect, already there is a hue and cry to amend Northville Township's new zoning ordinance.

The document, which governs development in the township, was adopted May 13 and takes effect June 15. It was drafted by the planning commission during public meetings over the past two years.

But, as soon as the document was published as a 44-page insert to The Record May 19, there arose a clamor over the new setback requirements specified, and the planning commission heard three complaints on this subject at its regular May session last Thursday.

Builder Fred Greenspan, homeowner representative Fran Walker and the township's own building official, Troy Milligan, all contend the new requirements work a hardship in subdivisions already being built.

Residential lot size requirements are increased in the new ordinance, but the requirement does not apply to subdivisions that already have plat approval from the planning commission. The new setback rules, however, do apply to subdivisions already in progress, and that is the crux of the problem.

"With the new setbacks, on the smaller lots in (Northville) Colony III and IV," Greenspan explained, "none of our models fit on the lot. I can't sell my models on those lots."

The old lot size requirements of 75-foot minimum width in the Colony subdivisions cannot accommodate both the 55-foot wide house which is Greenspan's smallest model and the new 12-foot setbacks in the side lots. The old requirement was 10-foot minimum.

An added five feet of front yard requirement also poses a problem, Greenspan related, as pushing the house back five feet puts the lot in violation of the 50-foot minimum rear yard setback rule.

"You're squeezing it in from all sides," Greenspan said. "If you can't give me some relief, I'll have to develop a whole new model, smaller house with a different floor plan."

Walker, representing the recently-formed Lakes of Northville Homeowners' Group, added that inevitably smaller houses with larger front yard setbacks could have an adverse affect on home values in the subdivision.

"We came in and purchased homes in a subdivision we thought would be a certain size," Walker said. "None of the models now fits on 108 lots — one-third of our subdivision, when one-third is already built."

"It makes it basically impossible to build a ranch house on those lots — do you want 108 colonials?"

When planners noted that few ranches have been built in the subdivision, Walker replied that "you have to give people a choice."

Planning consultant Claude Coates

explained the situation, noting that while the increase in lot sizes does not affect subdivisions in progress, the setbacks do. "In effect," he said, "the new setbacks take 14 percent out of the building envelope on the old lots."

Walker and Milligan related another aspect of the setback situation is that homes to be built now will have to be five feet farther back on the lot than are the homes on neighboring lots.

Acknowledging the concerns raised by those present, planning commissioners explained the reasoning behind the changes.

"There are homes over there," Bernard Baldwin said to Walker, "that in my opinion are overbuilt for the lots. The purpose the board had was to force larger lots and address overbuilding on the lots."

Noting that the explanation did not address the immediate problem, Baldwin said he simply wanted the reasoning understood.

"I think there should be some relief for the builders," Milligan said. "Take a small builder, for example Mr. Cervi, now he has seven purchasers in process. If he goes through all the trouble of lining up financing and all the rest, then he has to go back to those people and say 'I'm sorry, I can't build that house for you,' they may well cancel."

Greenspan expressed a similar concern, noting that "it (the setbacks) is a technicality of two feet one way, five feet the other way. But in today's economy, when those builders who are left are often very close to having to close down, it can be the difference between whether a man stays in business or not."

Commission vice chairman William Bohan, leading the session in the absence of chairman Kenneth McLarty, said he was receptive to the pleas, but was "not ready to write a blank check about what kind of relief we can offer."

Along with other members of the board, Bohan said he wished to see more detailed evidence of the extent of the problem before choosing a solution. Coates was instructed to look into possible amendments to the new ordinance, and a similar request is being extended to the township attorney.

Federal grant delay stalls sewer study

Major studies regarding the so-called super sewer project are nearly done, and would be completed immediately if the state and federal governments ever get around to releasing grant funds for the project.

"We're dead in the water right now," consultant James Scott said to a citizens' advisory committee last week. "The money has not been forthcoming to complete the report and move on to a public hearing. Current fiscal year appropriations are still hanging fire."

The basic conclusions of the report are done, the consultants said last Wednesday, and decisions about which communities would be included and what sewer services would be involved in the massive project are done.

Essentially, studies show the best of six alternatives considered would provide sewer service to Commerce Township, Walled Lake, Novi, Wixom, Northville, Northville Township and Plymouth Township in what is known as the North Huron Valley Service Area. The Village of Wolverine Lake could be added at minimal added cost, if that community expresses an interest.

All would route wastewater to a new treatment plant proposed in Brownstown Township. Those communities that already have some sewer service now route wastewater through the Rouge Valley system to a Detroit treatment plant. Contracts for that treatment will continue under the alternative tentatively selected, with some flows from the new system "diverted" to guarantee the Detroit facility enough flow to operate efficiently.

Political considerations were among the facets considered, under the broad definition of "implementability" of the alternatives considered.

Scott explained that one plan was clearly best from a purely engineering standpoint, but left out Commerce Township and Wixom, both of which expressed strong desires to join the proposed sewer system.

"We were looking to avoid an inference of engineer bias, but rather to respond to the public need," Scott said.

Those alternative plans which routed all wastewater in the system to Brownstown and none to Detroit were "economically more promising," he added. "But politically, that could not gain acceptance as Detroit retains contracted flow the Rouge Valley North Interceptor (currently serving the area.)"

In effect, he said, the new construction would be planned to carry anticipated additional flows from future development in the area while the Rouge Valley system continues to carry flows equivalent to those at present.

There is still much flexibility in the plans to serve the north service area of the Huron Valley system, composed of communities north of Canton up to Commerce Township. White Lake had also indicated an interest, but engineering studies showed connection of that community would cost more than projected population figures justify.

When Commerce Township Supervisor Robert Long asked about the proposed routing of the main interceptor to his community being around the eastern edge of Walled Lake, he was told early indications are that a route to the west would run through an "environmentally sensitive area of Commerce" but that the routing is not yet firmly established.

The $300 million project would be constructed in four phases with completion expected in 1986-87, according to the study presented to the citizens' committee. Time tables for the project are dependent on funding decisions. According to the consultant, state and federal coffers would pick up 80 percent of the costs while local governments would have to ante up 20 percent. A small portion of the total cost is not eligible for federal grants, so local communities would be responsible for 100 percent of that portion. This raises the local share of the total cost.

The local share of interceptor costs would have to come from the various communities directly. Treatment plant construction costs would be recovered in the sewer rates charged to users.

The first phase of interceptor construction as currently projected would be a sorely needed relief interceptor through Northville and Plymouth, paralleling the Rouge River. This would relieve a "bottle neck" restricting sewer capacity in the area.

The relief sewer, at a projected construction cost of nearly $5 million, is needed regardless of flow routing south of that point.

Township hikes fines for illegal parking

Parking illegally in Northville Township soon will take a bigger bite from the perpetrator's pocketbook.

The board of trustees May 13 approved a new schedule of parking fines at the recommendation of police chief Kenneth Hardesty that will make illegal parking a more costly proposition in the township than it is in the city.

The standard parking fee applied when a car is left in an illegal spot or overtime in a posted spot will rise from the present $5 to a $10 tab. Similarly, paying the fine more than 10 days after receiving the ticket will cost another $10 (formerly $5).

The big hit is saved for those able bodied persons who park in the spots reserved for handicapped drivers — such violators will be fined $25 and the $10 late fee applies. This violation also formerly carried a mere $5/$5 charge.

Hardesty submitted a study of fine schedules for surrounding communities (Northville, Plymouth, Livonia and Novi) and both the 35th and 48th district courts. Of these, the city's is comparable to the old township level, with a standard fee of between $1 and $5 and a $10 strike against violators in handicapped zones. A $2 late fee applies to late payers.

By contrast, Livonia's standard fine is $23, with $5 and $10 handicapped charges, and $25 for late payers.

The township's new $10/$25 plus $10 structure is matched by the 48th District Court. The 35th, which handles most township business, has the old $5/$5 structure from which the old township rate was adopted.

Novi charges $15 for standard abuses of parking privileges and matches the township on the other items. Plymouth has a $5 to $10 for all types of violations and a $10 late fee.

The new fee structure was adopted by the board as an amendment to a 1970 resolution that set the structure now used until the new one is enforced.

FitzPatrick to announce

Robert E. FitzPatrick, executive director of the Wayne County Economic Development Corporation and former chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, called a press conference for 4:30 p.m. yesterday (Tuesday) at which he was expected to announce his intentions regarding the 1982 campaign for county executive.

The scale of the press conference indicated FitzPatrick was ready to make formal announcement of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination, already telegraphed by a campaign committee and petitioning on his behalf.

There was also speculation, however, that FitzPatrick might file as a Republican or that he might step out of the race. Campaign headquarters had been closed two weeks ago, but Fitz-

Patrick said it was done to save money until he had made his final decision.

The EDC director was one of the first whose interest in the position created by the new homerule charter was known. The Democratic field has since become crowded, with Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara, county sheriff William Lucas and Detroit city councilman Mel Ravitz among the announced candidates.

The handful of contenders for the GOP nomination in the race have been given slim chance of ultimate success, since Democrats historically have been dominant in county-wide races such as that for the executive seat.

Some observers, however, speculate that the personalities involved in this race might open the way for a Republican with strong support from the western suburbs.

Q. What can I do about bad breath?

A. Certain toothpastes and mouthwashes make advertising claims that they can cure bad breath. When in fact, all they do is temporarily mask the odor. Still they are popular because many people are overly sensitive about their breath. A more effective means of obtaining fresher breath would be the careful monitoring of diet (no garlic or onions), and good oral hygiene (vigorous brushing and flossing). If bad breath persists when the mouth is clean a person should be checked for gum disease or such conditions as diabetes or indigestion. The primary cure for halitosis is finding the cause and then removing it.

working downtown got along as best they could. The power outage meant the Fashion Cellar's Barbara Waskowski had to bring customer Linda Swearngen up to the doorway to find enough light to complete the haircut begun downstairs (below).

Two local residents earn Air Force degrees

Two Northville residents have been graduated from different schools within the United States Air Force.

Airman Gregory A. Sepanski was graduated from the United States Air Force avionics systems equipment course at Lowry Air Force in Colorado. Meanwhile, Airman Sheryl L. Zilch was graduated from the United States Air Force aircraft maintenance specialist course at Chanute Air Force Base in Illinois.

Sepanski studied maintenance of integrated airborne equipment, and earned credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

The 1980 graduate of Northville High School now will serve at Hill Air Force Base in Utah with the 388th Aircraft Generation Squadron. He is the son of Ronald and Penny Sepanski, 19804 Crystal Lake Road.

Zilch was trained in aircraft engine maintenance, repair and service.

The 1981 graduate of Onekama Consolidated High School now will serve at Beale Air Force Base in California with the 9th Field Maintenance Squadron. She is the daughter of Constance M. Zilch, 18507 Jamestown Circle.

School board candidates face the issues

As the Northville Board of Education election approaches June 14, The Northville Record has interviewed the five candidates vying for two four-year seats open on the board of trustees.

Each candidate was asked the same five questions by the Record editorial staff. Though the comments below were slightly edited due to space considerations, each candidate is given a similar amount of space for the total interview response.

The candidates were asked to answer the following questions:

1. Why are you running for the board and what qualifications and experience can you bring to the board?
2. What do you perceive are the most important issues facing the Northville Public Schools in the next five years?
3. What improvements do you feel could be made in the Northville Public Schools?
4. There has been considerable citizen input this past year in several areas of the school district — specifically program standards and facilities. How important to you think this input has been to the board? How would you continue to keep the lines of communication open between the board and the community?
5. The student enrollment decline occurring in the regular K-12 program also is plaguing the Institution Special Education Program. What do you see as the future for ISEP?

Karen Wilkinson

One of two incumbents seeking reelection, Karen Wilkinson is running for her third term on the board. She was first elected to the Northville Board of Education in 1974 and was elected to her second term in 1978. She served as board president during the 1979-80 school year and was elected to the post a second time last July. A homemaker, she lives at 45871 Fermanagh with her husband William and children Sheryl, 19, and Donald, 16. Born May 1, 1937, in Washington, D.C., she received a bachelor's degree from Albion College and attended graduate school at University of Michigan. She serves on the board of directors of the Michigan Association of School Boards and the Michigan High School Athletic Association. She also is a member of the League of Women Voters. She is a member of the State Department of Education Advisory Committee on Gifted Education and the Committee on Life Role Competencies.

1. I was sort of wishy-washy about running initially but decided with a new superintendent it might be fairly valuable to have some breadth of experience with a new person coming in. That was one consideration. And I still like it. I think still liking it and having the enthusiasm is an important ingredient. I decided if I didn't have that kind of enthusiasm I wouldn't serve anymore because it would not be as beneficial as it could be.

What could I bring? Well — obviously eight years and I hope some reasonable experience. I'm a lot smarter than I was originally. You gain so much knowledge. (I also can bring) a little bit of uniqueness different from the other board members — maybe because I do a little more statewide, and I think that helps to broaden your vision a little bit. That kind of experience helps you deal with local issues a little bit better just because you've gained some knowledge and have met some different people.

2. The obvious ones, of course, that we're beginning to deal with now are the long range planning. The next one that occurs to me would be what I would call improvement on instruction. Not just improvement, but a first step that we're really getting tied into for next year would be the computer education and really updating or trying to be more anticipatory of what children are going to be needing when they get out of school. This will be one piece of it. I think the instrumental music program could be another piece of it because I think society is changing to enough of a degree that we will be finding ourselves with more leisure time, and I'd like to see leisure time used productively.

The other thing that's really bugging me, and I don't know where we're going to go is the funding of education itself. By constitution, I think our state has a responsibility and I think they're abnegating the responsibility. When I talk about funding, I think about the local responsibility — I think about cost containment. I think there are those kinds of issues we have to deal with, and they're awfully hard to balance out.

3. I guess maybe not in priority, but one that leaps out in my mind is what I would call better use of staff. But involved in that would be a continued improvement in the evaluation because I think we've made some strides. I think we needed to, and I think we have. If we're talking about staff, maybe a more direct involvement of principals in a different way — maybe a better use of their time and their expertise — in the classroom, in overall kinds of decisions.

We've got to work stronger on using our human resources better. I'm still looking for a lot more improvement in the high school. Energy conservation, of course, is a big one — there's been small inroads made there, and I think there's some more big ones that can come along. I have a personal feeling that we probably would serve the community and ourselves better by going in there and doing some renovating as opposed to building. The high school is a particular problem, and some of that's a staff problem, and we aren't there yet by a long shot.

4. I think it's ultimately absolutely necessary. We have designs within each building that are always there for input, but it tends to be only parents, and it tends to be only parents that are active. You have a PTA or PTO at each building, and you've got curriculum advisory committees at each building, but they're very low key. I think there might be a small core without the breadth of the community, and I think this kind of thing needs the breadth of the community.

I think there's a definite place for it. I'm excited, and I hope that kind of interest remains high with the citizenry because we've got an awful lot of people on those committees that I never knew before — that's good. You don't want that kind of group that is only supportive. I guess I want the free-thinkers ready to ask and ready to criticize.

5. If they ever close the institution over there — which is always the big "if" — I think we'll end up with 200 or 300 students out in the community placement homes or in group homes. I think you would find that it could logically go back under the intermediate school district umbrella for special education — which means in return it would come back to the local communities. It's hard to anticipate, but I think the program is here to stay unless there are some real directions that change.

It's a hard question. We can see that we have a real involvement in ISEP at least for two or three years. Close to one-third of our ISEP people are living at home or living in a foster home — they are not in the institution.

Patrick Coyne

Owner of Master Guard of America, Inc., Patrick Coyne is seeking his first term on the Northville Board of Education. Born September 10, 1933, he lives at 19651 Pierson with his wife Mary and his sons Mike, 11, and Robert, 6. He also has a son Daniel, 27, and a daughter Nancy, 24. He holds both BBA and MBA degrees in business administration from University of Michigan. He is a member of the Northville Kiwanis, the United States Golf Association and the Junior Golf Association.

1. I'm running for the board because

I'm very frustrated with what I've seen in our school system. Two things — I'm upset with the way our board is out of control as far as financing. We have had the biggest increase in taxes with no attempt to modulate that growth as far as economy. Number two — I'm running for the board because I have two boys in school. I think the way teachers are teaching isn't always getting through to the students. When I have to go to school and ask "what are you trying to teach?" — when I can't pass the test, when my daughter who just graduated from college can't pass the test — something is wrong.

I have a feeling that most school board members are more concerned with raising taxes and spending more money instead of utilizing what we've got more efficiently. My major is a major in business and finance. In 20 years, I've learned how to control costs. I've learned that bureaucrats traditionally spend every penny they can get unless you put constraints on them. I don't think we've got that constraint. I think our school board that we have now has no fiscal constraint based upon economy.

2. Two issues. The first is a realistic projection of where we're going. Nobody wants to stick their head out and say "based upon everything we've looked at, here is where we're going to be as far as the type of numbers, the size of the school district and how we're going to restructure it." I don't understand why there's such a reluctance to do this. In five years, I think the decisions we're going to have to make are: Number One — what are we going to do with the high school? That should have been looked at for every year now for the past five years. That high school is a major problem. Number Two — what do we do with all of our elementary schools because we're going to have to close two, at least, of the four we have. If in fact, our junior high is compatible, we may want to consider changing our junior high system and use Cooke as a senior high. I think our whole restructuring as to the size and containment of what we are going to be doing is going to be a dramatic change in five years. Nobody wants to face that — but we have to face it.

The second issue I worry about is what are we teaching kids, and what are we expecting kids to learn, and what are we preparing kids to do. I'm not sure we're doing what we should be doing.

3. I can't even give you an intelligent answer to that until I study it better. There's a lot of questions I can ask, but as far as improvements, I can't say anything until I see what we've got.

4. I think the school board ignored it. I think the biggest farce of the citizens' advisory committee was that what they advised the school board to do, the school board never presented to the population. In fact, all they did was have Nichols come out and say "we've got another proposal." They never once

Glenna Davis

Elected to the the Northville Board of Education last June to complete the term of former trustee Richard Barron who resigned, Glenna Davis is seeking her first four-year term on the board. Born in Canada, September 3, 1945, she is a senior at Eastern Michigan University. She resides at 19405 Fry with her husband John and children Christie, 14, Rachel, 9 and Adam, 6. A homemaker, she currently serves on the Schoolcraft College Women's Advisory Committee and is president of the Homemaker's Equal Rights Association of Michigan. She also serves on the Northville State Hospital Security Council, Silver Springs Elementary Parent Advisory, Silver Springs PTA, Northwest Wayne County National Organization for Women (NOW), NOW's Homemakers Rights task force and the Michigan Media Project. She also is a Sunday school teacher at the Unitarian-Universalist Church in Farmington.

1. I'm running because I had the unique opportunity to run for a one-year term which I thought was very advantageous because I could try for a year and learn the job and had seen what I could bring to it. I had a lot of experience in the school system and in the community before I decided to run for the board the first time and I was able to see what the job entailed. I didn't have a real high expectation of what I could accomplish in one year because I knew it was a big job, and it takes a lot of time to learn. I'm also politically astute enough to know that as a lame duck serving for one year that I really didn't have that much power.

I think I've done a good job, and I think I can see that there are some things I would like to accomplish that I think are reasonable goals. Should I be elected for a full four-year term, I think I could make some changes for the better.

came out and said we have three or four options. The citizens' advisory board was set up to advise the board of education. Not once did the school board come out the first of April and say, "you know our citizens have advised us to close two schools." All they came out and said was "we have to consider bringing all our institutional students into the Northville school system." That was never one option that the citizens' advisory committee advised the school board.

Number two — the citizens' advisory committee did a grade restructuring which Mr. Nichols completely muddled.

the water with because a grade restructuring is a non-feasible option. We don't have the capacity in our school buildings the way that we're set up to even use that option. So, I believe the citizens' advisory was the right step to go. Unfortunately, the school board and our superintendent of schools elected not to even use it.

5. That's embarrassing because I don't know enough about ISEP. I know a little about the school system. I don't feel I understand ISEP, yet. I don't feel we should be penalized in the Northville school system for the ISEP program. If ISEP is going to penalize the Northville school district, ISEP should be turned back to the state and let the state run it.

With the decrease in enrollment, I anticipate within two or three years that the state would say we're not going to have and ISEP program — at which point the students that live in Northville who are going to ISEP will end up being in the Northville Public Schools.

Glenna Davis

2. I think dealing with declining enrollment and funding for schools. I think the choices we have to make in the next three years are very critical. Voters are going to be ever more critical of our decisions. Here in Northville, where local dollars are essentially running our schools, they are going to be ever more critical of the decisions and rightly they should be. So, I think this is where I could do a good job. The link between what the community's saying and what the school board's doing needs to be really strong. I think that by attending things like the PTA council meetings and the things I can do during the day, I can keep my ties to the community open.

It's very easy when you're on the board to just see people that are deeply involved with schools and then you lose touch with what people who are only involved with schools marginally, but still are voters and whose opinions are still important, are thinking and feeling. I think that input needs to be brought back. I'm very happy with the idea of a long-range plan. The development of that plan is going to be very important and the implementation of that plan and keeping some flexibility in that plan, because we are really unique here. Most districts that are facing declining enrollment do not have the possibility anywhere on the horizon that they could have growth, and, with all the underdeveloped land in Northville, I think we would be very foolish to lock ourselves into a plan that didn't have some flexibility. I think creative curriculum along with declining enrollment is going to be a real challenge — dealing with ways we can provide a challenging curriculum with fewer and fewer students. It's going to take some innovative leadership.

3. My biggest issue in terms of our schools that I think could be improved is both the image and the substance of the high school. I think, if you listen to the community survey we had last year, these were two things that really jumped out at me — other than declining enrollment. Citizens and parents seemed to be well satisfied with the education the kids were getting at the elementary school level and the junior high level, but I think the anxiety level really jumped when kids are starting at the high school. I think some of that is an image problem. That building is just awful. This is a community of fine homes and people care about appearances and I think some of the bad image is somewhat superficial because people go up there and think "this is a pit, how can anything good be happening up here?" Some very good things are happening up there. There need to be some changes, though. I think parents have been speaking out against the open campus for some time, and I think that contributes to the vandalism problem.

I think it's improved a lot. I don't want to say there hasn't been substantial improvement in the maintenance, but there's still room for improvement. I think we need to have something that involves the kids. That's really what I would like to see in terms of day-to-day maintenance and picking-up and sort of housekeeping details which seem to be falling short. I think if the kids are involved, they're going to be putting some peer pressure on the rest of the kids. I think we have to do a better job of communicating some of the good things that are happening there.

4. I really was strongly in favor of initiating the committees when I first came on. It's been immensely helpful. I support the use of citizens' advisories. I think that's a really important tool. I think we're getting better at it here. The most important thing I think that can happen is that citizens that work on the committees see that what they have done is used. That is the best encouragement.

5. I don't have a magic ball on that one. In the whole issue of institutionalized kids, there is one component of that program which is growing — that is the kids who are in group homes. I can't see the service entirely dying out. I really can't say because it's something that's funded by the state. I wouldn't have the ability to predict the state's commitment to a program like this. We're dependent on Lansing essentially. My opinion of us running it is there's many advantages, and I think it offers us as a district some flexibility in terms of dealing with our declining enrollment and facilities.

Russell Dore

A resident of Northville since 1975, Russell Dore is seeking his first term on the Northville Board of Education. Born in Frankfort, Michigan, January 30, 1937, he resides at 409 Larry with his wife Judy and sons David, 14, Patrick, 14, and daughter Kelly, 12. Manager of training and education for the Fruehauf Corporation, he serves on the board of directors of the Greater Detroit Chapter of the American Society for Training and Development. He previously served as president of the Washington State Chapter of that organization and was chairman of the Washington State Advisory Council on Vocational Education. He is a member of the Michigan Association of Industrial and Organizational Psychologists and currently coaches youth soccer in the Northville Soccer Association. He holds both bachelor's and master's degrees in organizational psychology from Michigan State University and received his doctorate in educational psychology from the University of Washington.

1. I guess I'm running because all my life I've been involved in some kind of community service. I thought about doing something in Northville and looked at the things that were going on, and I guess I felt my background would perhaps be most appropriate in the field of education. I have about 15 years of experience in the training field in industry, so I am in education professionally. I have a doctorate in educational psychology which is from an education department, although again, my emphasis has been management development training/employee education in companies.

I've done teaching. I've done some college teaching — held some college administrative positions. I've done some community college teaching. I've never taught in a K-12 system. Being a part of the personnel department, I also am involved in some recruiting of college graduates; so I see the end product of our educational system.

2. I think quality education is always a major concern, and I think we have that — but we have to keep it and improve it. The other concern is cost consciousness. In my own case, as with many people I know, their family income is actually decreasing. Many people are on a bonus plan with the automotive companies or suppliers and so forth and there literally are no bonuses for Ford people. There are a lot of Ford people in Northville, General Motors people and a lot of suppliers. When 20 percent or more of your income is based on a bonus and all of a sudden there is no bonus, that means you're losing. Even though you may get a merit increase, your income is actually going down.

Many second wage earners — either husbands or wives in a family — are laid off or not able to get jobs. And I think that climate is very important and what is says is people are concerned. You don't like to go on record running for the school board saying "I don't think the school board will pass a millage in the next few years if they have to" — but that's really what I believe. If we just keep every program that we have now, costs will rise. Since costs will rise, I think we need to start doing something now to lower costs so that with inflation and rising costs we can run a school district on the same amount of money next year. I don't think the people will respond to a millage in the next year or two or three.

I don't really know if one is required or how soon, but I do know that from the looks of the budget, there isn't a lot of money in there. To run the same programs another year or two, it's probably going to cost more money than is available. I don't think the answer to that will be to do as they have in the past and go to the voters and say "inflation is up, costs are rising so we're asking for more money." You can do that when people's incomes are going up. I don't think you can do that in Northville for the next three years. So we'll have to find ways to cut programs; perhaps ways to economize without cutting programs — try to keep ahead of rising costs.

3. I haven't spent a lot of time at the high school, however, at the school board meetings it's evident the board is aware of the high school physical building as a problem. I guess it's very expensive in terms of energy, and we either have to keep paying that out or make some refinements. I guess there are some problems with the building that need renovation some how — either with a total plan to build a totally new one at some point or really major renovations — putting a lot of money into it on a piecemeal basis. One way or the other, I think there has to be a plan for the high school. Again, I haven't had time to research this area yet, but it sounds to me from what's been discussed at the board meetings, that if we left it alone, five years from now we'd have a real serious problem with that facility. That's my impression.

4. I think it's very important. I think a lot of work has gone into these committees by the district. If I were elected, I would continue to set up advisory groups in key areas of concern. I feel that they need to have microphones at the school board meetings for both members and the audience. I think we could make it a little better presentation. That would help the communication. It also seems like there should be a citizens' advisory committee in the high school. That would make sense — it's an important issue. There should be a committee to tackle that.

5. Basically, it seems the parents and staff of ISEP seem to prefer one location where they can have staff specialists rather than dispersing them to other schools. I guess we should keep them in a separate facility as long as we can. I think you could do that even with a small population. Mainstreaming doesn't seem the answer for the majority of those kids.

Andrew Sambrone

A lifelong resident of Northville, Andrew Sambrone is seeking his first term on the board of education. Born in Detroit, December 18, 1956, he resides at 113 West Main with his wife Gwendolyn and daughters Stacey, 8; Cheyenne, 4; Carolyn, 3 and Conietta, 15-months. He attended Northville High School until 1974 and received his GED in 1980. He currently is manager of Cal's Gulf Service on Main and serves as a volunteer probation officer with the 35th District Court and is a volunteer with the Northville City Fire Department. He also is a member of the Fraternal Order of Eagles 2504.

1. I'm a lifelong resident of the community and a product of the school system, so to speak. Some of the past irregularities of the present board is really what prompted me to run — last year's millage defeat and then the millage renewal and then the so-called.

Five vie for school board

ministratively top heavy. There could be some streamlining along those lines. As far as teachers are concerned, we've got some good teachers. We've got some teachers that are probably lacking — there's got to be some ways of making that situation a little better, too. I think we've got adequate facilities. We've got some of the newest schools in the state — especially at the elementary and junior high level. The high school though, that's a sad situation up there. I've been out of the high school for eight years now, and it's probably gone slightly more downhill since I was there. Administration is a problem there. I don't think there's people there willing to take the right kind of responsibility at the right places. There's a lot of buck passing. I've seen it.

4. I have not really been following that all that much. The community should take interest in the school district. It is their district — their kids go to the schools. Community input will help decide how the district's going to be run. If I were elected, I'd generate public interest probably through the committees you're talking about. The school district is no different from a representative of a council. You have constituents — you have people you have to listen to. You vote your conscience, but you also vote what you feel is best for the district and the people in that district.

5. I do believe we're going to have a problem as far as a rented building. I've been trying to follow the Taft situation as closely as possible, and if we don't have that building to rent any longer because of funds, if we do have declining enrollment in our district and if there is a possibility of one of the elementary schools closing down, I don't see where there would be any problem. Let's open up one of the elementary schools we would be closing down to the ISEP program. Let's face it, the ISEP kids are special kids. They have special problems. As far as putting them into a regular school, that would create difficulties on the regular students' parts and the ISEP students' parts.

Candidate interviews were compiled and written by Record education writer Michele McElmurry.

Delivers the taste of cigarettes with up to twice the tar.

—Landmark Smoker Study

Extensive research proves 'Enriched Flavor' MERIT consistently matches the taste of leading higher tar brands.

---

Latest research offers the most conclusive evidence yet confirming MERIT as the proven taste alternative to higher tar smoking.

MERIT Taste Does It!

In impartial tests where brand identity was concealed, the overwhelming majority of smokers reported MERIT taste equal to—or better than—leading higher tar brands.

Moreover, when tar levels were revealed, 2 out of 3 chose the MERIT combination of low tar and good taste.

Taste Debate Ends.

In a second part of the same study, smokers confirm that MERIT taste is a major factor in completing their successful switch from higher tar brands.

Confirmed: 9 out of 10 former higher tar smokers report MERIT is an easy switch, that they didn't give up taste in switching, and that MERIT is the best-tasting low tar they've ever tried.

Year after year, in study after study, MERIT remains unbeaten. The proven taste alternative to higher tar smoking—is MERIT.

City appeals racetrack revenue reduction to Milliken

Mayor Paul Vernon has sent an appeal to Governor William Milliken asking for his intervention with the "Michigan Department of Agriculture's" apparently unilateral decision to cut $907,000, "illegally," from the racetrack communities.

After thanking the governor for taking time from his busy schedule to become a part of the city's downtown dedication, Vernon went on to detail how reductions in racetrack revenues and state general revenue sharing funds had caused the city to adjust the 1981-82 budget by reductions in work force and by obtaining concessions from employees as well as "cuts in almost every other budget area."

"Even with those adjustments we were still faced with a budget deficit of $349,105 which we have attempted to resolve by issuing a tax anticipation note for $345,000 at relatively high interest and by an increase of approximately two mills for our 1982-83 budget," he stated.

Then, Vernon noted, the city had just received word of the $240,035 additional cut "which results in a total cut of $3.25 percent in our actual share of 1981-82 racing revenues from Northville Downs, and that actual share we should have received was less than the original budgeted amount because of low attendance."

Vernon pointed out that the cost for track-related services already provided by the city during the last racing meets "greatly exceeds the net racing revenues to the city without any consideration being given to tax loss because of race track use of property that would provide much greater revenue through some other use."

Vernon also told the governor that "cuts in racing revenue resulted in the City of Northville contributing eight times as much toward balancing the state budget as other communities of comparable size without racetracks."

"The City of Northville is now being asked to contribute 20 times as much as those communities because of the May, 1982, cut of $240,035 in our racing revenues," he wrote.

"The recent executive order reduces the state general revenue sharing funds to cities comparable in size with Northville an additional $330,000, which is all they will be contributing toward balancing the state budget as a result of the executive order, but Northville is being asked to contribute $330,000 plus $240,035. That we cannot accept," he objected.

As of Tuesday, the city had not received a reply from the governor.

City faces cutbacks

DeRusha emphasized that it is important for residents to realize that most of the taxes collected by the city go to the school system. The city, it was pointed out, acts as a "pass through" for school collections, with only about 22 percent of what is collected retained for city government.

As the latest state slash in track returns was discussed, Vernon said the city was "on the brink of not being able to absorb the decrease."

At its May 24 meeting the city approved borrowing a tax anticipation note for $345,000 from Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit at par 12.875 percent. Only other bid, 15.5 percent, was from Manley, Bennett, McDonald and Company.

As the council voted unanimously to accept the low bid, Walters observed that it was a lower than anticipated rate, saving the city approximately $3,600.

The tax anticipation notes, dated May 15, will mature September 1.

The city found itself in the position of having to issue the notes after the reduction in state revenue sharing and the two prior cuts in track returns. The amount will have to be made up in the budget just passed under the state's uniform budgeting act.

As it digested the latest slash in anticipated track returns, the council expressed disappointment that State Senator R. Robert Geake, who represents Northville and Livonia and is a member of the appropriations committee, had not been able to stave off the cuts.

"I understand he made no plea on our behalf," criticized a disappointed Vernon.

He estimated that cities with racetrack revenues were hit 10 to 20 times as hard by state reductions as other cities.

As the council pondered whether to adopt the budget it had reviewed with the city manager and controller Betty Lennox at study sessions during May, Vernon said he felt it was doubtful that "the state will dig into racing revenues next year."

"It's the first time this ever happened and is a consequence of the serious condition the state is in."

Council member G. Dewey Gardner asked Walters what choices the council had with the budget.

Walters said the city might set another public hearing and levy the maximum millage (three more mills, taking the total to 18.68), or it could delay taking any action to see if the appeal to the governor would be heard, or it could "wing it" and pass the proposed budget.

As DeRusha and others stated they felt taxpayers had a sufficient burden, the motion to approve the budget passed unanimously as council members recognized additional cuts will be forthcoming.

Police Blotter

Burglars steal car

Burglars stole a car and items valued at more than $650 from an occupied home on scenic Harbor Lane in the early morning hours May 26.

The man of the family arose about 4 a.m. to go to work and passed the house again about 4:50 a.m. when all appeared to be in order. An hour and twenty-five minutes later, his wife arose to find her purse missing, a $197 color television gone, items missing from the bedroom and the car gone from the garage.

The culprits had removed the telephone receiver in the kitchen and placed it on the floor, wrapped in a rug. Missing with the purse were several credit cards and cash. The purse had also contained the keys to two-tone blue 1982 Chevrolet with a dent in the right front door, valued at more than $6,600.

The couple's 12-year-old daughter told police she heard sounds of people moving in the house around 5 a.m. but assumed it was her early-rising father and went back to sleep.

The phone in the couple's bedroom was found on the floor and $350 in savings bonds and a $75 gold sapphire ring were discovered missing from the room. Other items have since been found missing from the home.

Police, who suggested the burglary was done by professionals who do not ransack the home, have no suspects at this time. It is believed the burglars may have entered through the front door, which may have been unlocked. The car had not been recovered two days later.

A 17-year-old Livonia youth has filed an assault complaint with township police following a fight in the Waterford Pond area May 23.

The youth said he and three friends, aged 20, 21 and 24, were riding bicycles in the area when three males aged 25-29 began shooting fireworks at them. When the bicyclists approached the three, a fight ensued.

During the fight, the complainant told police, one of those who had been shooting fireworks picked up a nearby pipe and struck him on the elbow with it. Police observed bruising and abrasion on the man's elbow.

The complainant could not identify the men involved and police have no suspects.

Wire wheel covers, valued at $200, were stolen from a 1981 Chevrolet Malibu while it was parked at a South Ely Drive residence between May 24 and 25, city police reports indicate.

Why Talk of Being "Saved?"

Dr. James H. Luther

Many people are either confused or threatened when they hear of someone being "saved" by the Lord. Yet, since Jesus is the Savior, it stands to reason that He came to save people from something. He once said: "For the Son of man is come to save that which was lost" (Luke 19:10).

Some feel that Jesus sought to create a new religion, and make people religious. Nonsense! He constantly pointed out the hypocrisy in the religious system of that day. Religious people crucified Him!

Some feel that Christ came to establish men in social morality. How sad! Human morality without spiritual life is not only impossible, it is deceptive. Men manipulate "morality" to suit themselves; or they sacrifice "morality" to some higher pressing circumstance (eg. situation ethics). Morality without salvation is like movement without life: mechanical, inanimate, and doomed to flounder.

Jesus came to save us. From what? From ourselves: our sin and our subsequent helplessness. The event takes place when we admit our need and turn from our sin to receive Him into our life. The result is new life within, leading to eternal life.

The only thing more wonderful than being saved is knowing it. And you can know it! "...I have written unto you that believe on the name of the Son of God, that ye may know that ye have eternal life" (1 John 5:13).

Our Opinions

No solutions in bickering

That no one, apparently, knew of the difficulties caused by the township's new zoning ordinance before it was passed into law is regrettable, however, the ongoing feud in township hall trying to assess blame for the problem is unproductive.

Building official Troy Milligan says he did not know of the new setback rules until he read them in the published document. Planning commissioners, who were previously critical of Milligan for not participating in the redrafting of the ordinance as much as they would like, claim it was his responsibility to find out before now. They also suggested last week that the builders also should have known what was coming.

It may be difficult for the commissioners to understand, but while they have spent two years immersed in the zoning ordinance revision few others are as well-versed in the rules of the game to understand that new setbacks apply to all properties while the new lot sizes only apply to new subdivisions. Someone has to spell that out for them before they understand.

Milligan is understandably peeved that the only version of the ordinance he saw before had a typographical error that retained the old setbacks. But he must understand that it is no one else's responsibility to chase him around and tell him what he has to know to perform his job. Commissioners, on the other hand, might acknowledge that Milligan took a sick leave right in the midst of their most thorough reviews of the work done in the first 18 months or so of the revision.

The bottom line of it all is that it appears several builders in the township may face a real hardship in completing subdivisions already underway. The new ordinance acknowledges that it is unfair to change the rules in the middle of the game as regards lot sizes, yet does exactly that in regard to setbacks. One can argue that it should have been caught before, but it makes little difference now.

It is often the case that such an ordinance needs revision almost immediately on publication. That is because it is so all-encompassing perfection may be bit much to ask. The work done on the ordinance was well done and the commendations given planners deserved.

Builders, homeowners, the building department and planners should now consolidate their efforts to resolving the problem in a way acceptable (if not exactly perfect) for all involved. The overconcern with who did what, when and to whom merely gets in the way.

Fairness lacking in racetrack cuts

It's easy to see why racetrack returns are an appealing way for the state — specifically the department of agriculture which monitors the operation of all racetracks in Michigan — to withhold return of revenues to the communities in which they are located. As city council observed last Wednesday, it's a much more palatable way to come up with funds in the state's current monetary crunch than cutting department employee payrolls.

It is not, however, fair, nor, as Mayor Paul Vernon objected to Governor William Milliken in a direct appeal last week, is it legal. The returns have been allocated to racetrack communities as part of an agreement in which cities like Northville and Livonia provide police and fire protection services to the tracks.

It is true, in effect, as Vernon objected, that the City of Northville is contributing far more toward balancing the state budgets than are non-track communities. "The City of Northville," Vernon wrote, "is now being asked to contribute 20 times as much as those (non-track) communities because of the May cut of $240,035." The latest slash reduced the expected $719,000 return to Northville to $336,155. In effect, the state has taken away more than half the anticipated revenue from the track.

Since Northville Downs has completed its current racing season, the services the city is committed to supply have been rendered. The city actually is in the position, if the cut stands, of having to repay money to the state.

The actions, admittedly the first of this type, have been taken by a severely depressed state. Like the council, we hope that such cuts will not be necessary in the upcoming budget year. By borrowing $345,000 in tax anticipation notes, the city was planning to handle the previous two cuts in track returns of 11.20 and 8.66 percent. The last cut of 33.39 percent, however, is too much to ask of the community.

We hope the governor will listen to Mayor Vernon's argument that the impact is indeed 20 times greater than on non-track communities of like size and find a way not to inflict such a penalty.

We hope also that the city council will return to its former policy of not using racetrack returns for general operating funds. The time also may be at hand to consider whether having a track in our midst is the financial asset it previously has been — if the state continues to view such revenues as an easy way to balance its budget, it certainly won't be.

A thankful view of Memorial Day

When my mother had her fourth and fifth sons some 16 years ago, my Russian grandmother's broken English response was, "Oh no, there going to be a bad war."

With five males born to my parents, it certainly seemed an ominous omen in a nation that had engaged in such massacres as World War I, World War II (the sequel) and the Korean War. And sure enough, Vietnam came along — but a little too early for the five of us.

Vietnam was just body counts, Kent State and the magic of television to allow me invulnerability as I witnessed bloodlettings from the humid climes of Saigon.

I'm among the generation of young Americans that has avoided that ever-present sword that dangles over our heads like Damocles — in the form of the Department of Selective Service's lottery.

Sure, I've got a draft card still shoved away in a drawer with a dried up boutonniere from my senior prom, my Detroit Zoo key and the orange sanitary socks I wore as a high school hurdler.

When I reached my 18th birthday, they were still looking for names to add to their rolls "just in case." They took my name, sent me a card and told me not to destroy it (burn it?). Then, they cancelled the draft. Reinstated the draft. Said they were going to abolish the draft. And it's still drafty — probably from all of the hot air about it.

But I'm also among the generation that doesn't know firsthand about war. To us, war is only a nightmare we never had to dream, if we didn't want to. The rockets' red glare, bombs bursting in air — meant either 4th of July or TV pictures of Ireland or Hogan's Heroes.

While watching George C. Scott portray George S. Patton last week on a TV rerun of the general's life, I realized that George (as in Patton) and I probably would not have gotten along all that well.

I don't quite follow all the concepts or necessities for war. Or as Robin the Mork Williams suggested — maybe we ought to fight these wars with comedy.

The Falklands are a prime picture of nationalism at its worst. For the generation of youthful Americans that have never experienced war firsthand, the attitude of "at all costs, we're going to get our flag raised over the land of sheep or die" is difficult logic to relate to.

I've seen the top Vietnam war movies of the past decade "Coming Home" and "The Deer Hunter" about 20 times combined. That is war to me.

The P.O.W. bracelets that people used to wear and the struggle to bring back M.I.A.s is war to me.

Rubber green helmets and plastic machine guns that we squealed about the backyard in hot pursuit of "Japs" with as children — that is war to me.

Last Monday, I got the day off because it was Memorial Day. What that means to most people my age is barbecued chicken, a six-pack of Mick, a bottle of Coppertone and a beach.

"Decoration Day," an elderly lady called it in passing a few days ago. I only know it as Memorial Day — the day when the V.F.W. members break out their uniforms and march across the nation. The day when men old enough to be my grandfather, father and brother remember when they were as young as I and crawling stomach to the mud, fearing for their lives in enemy territory. And the memories of fallen friends that never came home to their sweethearts.

I'll probably never be able to fully understand the emotional involvement that these men have wrapped up in the last Monday of May. I appreciate it, I just can't empathize with it properly. And it is because of them that I have not had to realize the fears of war and that I can pursue such a "frivolous" livelihood as writing.

Thank you, gentlemen, for the freedom to have played those army games as a tot, gone to that senior prom, run those high school hurdle races and seen those movies about how ugly war can be.

But most of all, thanks for the freedom to write this column.

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

"Look at that," she said, gazing out the doorwall window. "There's a rabbit out there."

"I've seen rabbits before," I responded. "Basically, they all look pretty much alike if you ask me."

But she insisted that I leave my comfortable seat on the couch and go see her silly rabbit.

"Where?" I asked, peering out the same window. "Where is this rotten rabbit that's so special."

"You can't see it? You don't see that cute little critter out there?"

"I don't see a darn thing."

I should have known she was baiting one of those traps she likes to push me into. But before I fully gathered my wits and realized what was about to happen, it was too late. The trap had been sprung and she was taunting her catch.

"Well, maybe you can't see the rabbit because the grass is so high," she suggested. "If you look real close and you catch him at the top of one of his hops, you can see the tip of his ears sticking up over the grass."

"By the way," she wanted to know, relishing her victory, "when are you going to mow the grass? It's beginning to get a little long and I'm afraid the neighbors are starting to talk."

She had me good. It was a clear-cut first round knock-out. Not even a TKO. I'm talking down and out for the count.

"I'll get it first thing this weekend, my pet," I said, realizing the best strategy was to stay down until that Great Referee of Conjugal Relationships hit the 10 count rather than attempt to regain my feet and receive additional verbal battering about the head and shoulders.

Actually, I don't mind mowing the lawn. It's just that there are things I like better. Like watching the Tigers on television or sleeping, for example.

Confidentially, I'm hoping it rains everywhere this weekend except Tiger Stadium. And if I do have to mow the lawn, I darn well hadn't better see any miserable rabbits.

Second family sought for exchange program

Fabio Nielsen has been in the United States four months now and is becoming something of an expert on the country — especially its sports.

The 16-year-old Brazilian sports nut is this year's Rotary exchange student. He arrived in the country in January — on Super Bowl Sunday, in fact.

Richard Allen, Ford Motor Company engineer and Northville Township trustee, remembers the date well because it was he who went to the airport to pick up Nielsen and bring him to what would be his home-away-from-home for the first part of his stay here. Families are being sought to take the student in for two other four-month stays before he returns to Brazil.

A resident of suburban Sao Paulo, the country's largest city with a population of seven million, Nielsen says he sees the opportunity to study here as "very important to my life."

One of his particular interests in the exchange program has been improving his English through daily use. In that Allen, his wife Pat and sons Jim, 16, and Steve, 14, say Nielsen has made great strides.

"When he first got here," Allen explains, "we had (township business manager) David Leiko's wife Sue here, and she's from Sao Paulo and was translating for us. When we saw her last, she was commenting on how Fabio's English has improved."

The Northville High School student's English is quite good now, and he understands virtually everything said in the language. His speech, of course, carries the inflections of his native Portuguese, and Nielsen says that can sometimes be a problem but is becoming less of one.

His major interests are sports, and he's acquired a minor reputation in local youth soccer circles. He has been playing the game (football in his native language), he says, since he was old enough to kick the ball around.

Allen says the Brazilian youth has been teaching soccer to his friends while learning about American sports, most recently baseball.

Baseball isn't the only thing Nielsen is having first experiences with in the States. When he arrived, he had never seen snow before, for example. Within two weeks of his arrival, however, he was skiing on the icy flakes with a church group.

While he says he "loved" skiing, and enjoyed the snow, he adds, "the cold I do not like so much."

The Allens, spurred by Nielsen's stay with the family, have been rather active in terms of visiting places and events "you wouldn't normally go to, although you know maybe you should," Allen explains.

They took Nielsen to a University of Michigan hockey game, where he was "shocked by the level of violence" in the college game, though it is tame in comparison to the professional version. They have also been to various restaurants, Greenfield Village, and recently took in a Tiger game — and up to the top of the Renaissance Center towers.

Deciding to serve as host family to a foreign exchange student didn't take the Allens very long from the time they learned about the Rotary program in a Record article.

"This has been something I always was interested in doing," Pat Allen explains. "Ever since I was at home and we had a German student come stay with us. It was a fascinating way to teach someone else about your country and learn about another country."

"Right then I thought that it would be a good idea to become involved with an exchange program once the boys got into high school," she relates. "When I read that there was an opening when Fabio was coming, we talked about it. I called Chuck Mann that night, I was terrified I wouldn't be the first."

But the Allens were both fast enough and well-suited to the role. Since then, Nielsen's presence has been blended into the family's home life.

"One of Rotary's instructions is that you're not supposed to treat the student as a guest, and you're not to treat them as a slave," Pat continues. "Fabio has chores to do around the house, just like our own boys do. He's pretty good about it, I have to remind him sometimes, but I have to do that with my own boys. He's treated like one of the family."

He's become something of an expert at mowing the lawn, driving the family's riding mower. One of the restrictions of the program is that Nielsen cannot drive a car.

He can indulge in some of his other interests, which include his high school history class, one of his favorites. He has begun a newfound interest in photography in his few months here, and his sports enthusiasm fits in well with the Allens' similar activities.

The soft-spoken youth is also interested in travel. Nielsen is looking forward to July when his father, a manager with an airline, his mother and sister come to visit him. They will visit an American student in Ohio who stayed with the Nielsens last year, and go to Florida. Allen says it would be a bonus if the next family to host Nielsen plans some summer travel. The Allens have taken him to Niagara Falls and to Toronto, where he most enjoyed the Science Center.

Having Nielsen in their home has also been a learning experience for the Allens themselves, Pat explains. They have learned much about his lifestyle, which differs from our own in some ways but less than some imagine. When they found out Nielsen was from such a large city, she adds, there was some concern about his adjustment to a small community such as Northville, but he says he likes the quiet.

Steve and Jim also say they have learned from Nielsen, and not just a few soccer tips. The contact with a foreign culture has been interesting, and learning about life in Sao Paulo has been interesting, Jim says.

They are hoping two other families are interested in sharing that experience, one to take over this month and another about four months later, in September or October.

Those interested can call Chuck Mann, coordinator of the Rotary program, at 349-5400.

Advocates more right turns on red

To the Editor:

Some time ago the authorities wisely decided that much energy could be saved by allowing a right turn on red. This, of course, could only be done after bringing your vehicle to a full stop and if the cross walk were clear.

Evidently the powers that be in Northville and Northville Township do not agree with this conclusion as one witnesses the profusion of "No right turn on red" signs that abound in our area. No doubt there are some times of the day or week when this is necessary, (but for the life of me I cannot think of a solitary reason.) In other communities this restriction only applies on weekdays or during certain hours, but here it is a 24-hour, seven-day week exclusion.

The most ridiculous ban is the No Right Turn on Red sign from Northbound Northville Road to eastbound Seven Mile Road. It would be most interesting to have someone defend the reason for continuing the sign at this location.

There is no through traffic on Seven Mile Road since one must make either a right or a left turn onto Northville Road. It is true that there is a limited left turn arrow from southbound Northville to eastbound Seven Mile — but this should in no way deter someone from making a right turn on red from northbound Northville Road to eastbound Seven Mile since it is only permissible when the way is clear.

At the very least, a red and green arrow could be installed for the right lane of northbound Northville Road. The red arrow would appear during the short time that southbound traffic is making a left turn, but then the green arrow would allow a right turn thereafter. Pedestrian traffic is almost nil here; so that presents no problem.

If anyone agrees with me — let us inform the local authorities that Northville should join the rest of the concerned citizenry in conserving gasoline.

Yours truly,
J.F. Westmeier

Thanks participants in Amerman musical

To the Editor:

We would like to thank publicly the dedicated teachers and fantastic children at Amerman who were responsible for the splendid all-school musical presented May 19.

Your original "This Is My Country" presentation was filled with clever dialogue, enthusiastically sung tunes, and spirited dances done by hundreds of costumed, smiling children.

We appreciate the countless hours involved in putting together a production of this magnitude. The director Mrs. Sandra Craig as well as the script writers Mrs. Karen Wineman, Mrs. Marilyn Kaestner, Mrs. Eunice Martin, Mrs. Anne Lauer and Mrs. Patti Atkinson deserve to be complimented on a truly outstanding job.

Sincerely,
Amerman PTA

Class of '37 slates reunion

Northville High School Class of 1937 is holding its 45th year reunion this Saturday at the Elks Club in Plymouth.

Carl Stephens, one of the planning committee members, reports that about 50 members of the class with spouses and sponsors are expected.

Working with him on arrangements are Bruce Turnbull, who was president of the 50-member class, Fred Casterline and Theda Lyke of South Lyon.

The class has previously gotten together for 20th and 40th year reunions. Reservations still are being taken by Stephens at 349-0090.

Cable TV paying off

Returns from cable television franchise operations are flowing into city and township coffers, though perhaps not in the amounts anticipated by budget planners.

Omnicom, a division of Capital Cities Communications, Inc. and holder of cable franchises in both Plymouth and Northville, paid the first quarter three percent fees to both communities last month.

According to supporting information sent with the checks, Omnicom had 1,064 subscribers in the township and 721 in the city as of March 31.

Both figures were reductions from the December 31, 1981, totals of 1,168 and 732 respectively. The cuts were expected as new subscribers dropped out after early promotional rates were increased to normal costs of the service.

The bottom line is that Omnicom paid the township $1,660 based on gross subscriber revenues of $55,319 and the city $1,492 based on a gross of $49,732.

Wiring is not complete in either community, though the remaining portions to which service must be supplied are relatively small.

Township business manager David Leiko said the budget predicts a subscriber total of about 1,500 after cable is brought into the condominium and apartment complexes. No further digging for cable installation in subdivisions is expected.

Cabaret concert

Phil Benstein, above, practices for the Northville High School Cabaret Concert at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the cafeteria of Meads Mill Junior High School. Jazz Band I, Jazz Band II, an alumni jazz band and two rock groups will perform. There will be dancing, free popcorn and fun for all. Tickets are available from all band members and at Sandie's Hallmark Shoppe on Main. Tickets also will be available at the door the night of the concert.

Realtors report decline in cost of buying home

Declining average home prices in most local areas should encourage bargain-conscious buyers to begin moving into the market, according to the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors (WWOCBR).

A report on the April activities of the board, the state's largest, reveals the average price for 2,330 homes sold by members this year was $56,256 — nearly $500 below last year's figure.

A comparison of April prices showed an even larger drop from $59,099 in 1981 to a current of $57,362.

Year-to-date statistics show lower prices in 14 of the board's areas of coverage where more than 25 homes have been sold this year. Prices were higher in seven others.

WWOCBR sales volume for existing homes is off nearly 35 percent in 1982 following declines of 20 percent in both 1980 and 1981.

"Even our figures can't accurately reflect price trends in this recession market," said WWOCBR President Lloyd Mason. "Many sellers are keeping prices higher than might be expected to cover their expenses in participating in below-market financing."

"The 15 percent decline in listings this year indicates that many potential sellers are content to sit tight and wait for prices to climb when the market does begin to open up," Mason continued.

"But, we also note an easing off of withdrawn listings and a high number of price reductions. This points to a substantial number determined to sell their property at the best price they can obtain."

"The buyer who has a substantial share of the price obviously has a great deal of added leverage in such a competitive market and should, by careful shopping, make an excellent deal."

WWOCBR statistics show lower prices in all its northwest Detroit sales areas except the Woodward to Greenfield area between Six and Eight Mile. Prices for the 42 homes sold in the area are averaged about $1,000 more than a year ago at $36,143. However, the 16 sold in April averaged only $31,877.

Other major WWOCBR market areas showing lower prices include Westland ($41,729 from $47,233 in 1981), Livonia ($61,999 from $64,736), Canton ($64,202 from $70,820 a year ago) and Southfield ($72,511 from $76,575 in 1981).

Showing higher prices this year are Dearborn/Dearborn Heights ($54,594 from $52,005), Wayne ($41,288 from $38,071), Farmington/Farmington Hills ($84,757 from $78,578) and Royal Oak ($49,833 from $47,563).

Business Briefs

M&B CONTRACTING CORPORATION of Novi is one of five Michigan Road Builders Association (MRBA) members to win a safety award from the Associated General Contractors of America (AGC). M&B won first place honors in the category of best one-year record with between 200,000 to 500,000 hours exposure.

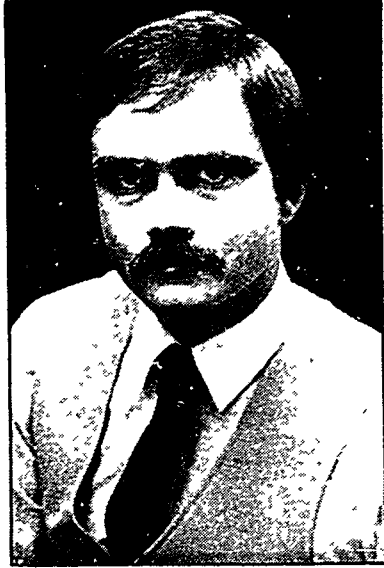

The MRBA received third place among all AGC chapters in the nation for having high member participation (50 to 100 members), combined with a low number of accidents in 1981. It has finished first in this category for the past two years.

Larry Martin, executive director of MRBA, said he was pleased to see so many Michigan companies receive awards. "These awards demonstrate how dedicated our members are to the safety of their employees," he said.

The MRBA serves over 400 firms involved in road, bridge, tunnel and airport construction throughout the state. It currently is working with the governor and state legislature on the transportation package.

SANDRA WASIELEWSKI

MIKE HALL

SANDRA D. WASIELEWSKI of Northville has been promoted to accounting officer at Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit. She joined the bank in 1971. A graduate of University of Michigan-Dearborn, she holds a bachelor of science degree in accounting.

COBB & PATTON AGENCY, Incorporated, of Milford and Howell, has announced that Michael Hall has recently joined the firm.

Hall, who recently completed the Michigan State Insurance Institutes' Property, Casualty and Life Insurance Schools, is now licensed with the State of Michigan as an insurance agent. He will represent Cobb & Patton Agency in both the Howell and Milford offices as an Agent Sales Representative for the many companies the firm represents.

Hall is a resident of Howell and a member of the Grace Lutheran Church and Howell Area Jaycees. He was formerly employed by Chateau Communities, a Mount Clemens developer, and was community administrator of Chateau Howell prior to joining Cobb & Patton.

CHANTELLE BATEMAN (right) picked up this $60 Cornwall oreadbox from the Nob Hill collection from Geri Krollick of Geri's Hallmark of Brookdale Square at South Lyon last week after her husband was the lucky winner in a drawing at the card shop.

Krollick said she plans to have similar drawings prior to all major holidays. Entrants need only write their names and telephone numbers on their cash register tapes and drop them in the box at the store in the shopping mall at Pontiac Trail and Nine Mile.

DR. ROBERT J. STILES of Novi and Dr. A.F. Dick of Northville attended a Michigan Chiropractic Council Seminar May 22-23 in Grand Rapids.

The seminar was led by Dr. Barge of LaCrosse, Wisconsin, in the detection and treatment of scoliosis. Dr. Barge has done extensive research in scoliosis and torticollis. The educational seminar was part of a continuing education of chiropractors.

WILLIAM C. SLIGER, former publisher of Sliger Home Newspapers, has resigned, effective May 31, as a member of the corporate staff of Suburban Communications Corporation (SCC). Since selling his group of community weekly newspapers to SCC in November, 1976, Sliger has remained with the company, most recently serving as vice president-editorial.

Sliger purchased The Northville Record-Nowi News in 1956 and then acquired The South Lyon Herald in 1961 and The Brighton Argus in 1969. He established a central press and composition plant for all the newspapers in Northville. Sliger, 59, stated he would remain associated with SCC on a limited basis for special assignments until the end of the year. While he intends to become involved in business in the area, his plans are indefinite.

WHITMORE LAKERS will have a new business to frequent when Mr. B's Tees opens its doors at 10 a.m. Friday, June 4. According to manager Sandy DeFillippo, the new shop will specialize in imprinting sportswear with a variety on iron-on transfer designs, numbers, names or letters. She said the shop will offer fashions for the entire family from newborns to adults as well as accessories such as shoelaces, baseball caps and buttons. The apparel will also change with the seasons as jackets and jogging suits will be stocked when the weather cools in the fall. The shop will be located at 9519 Main in Whitmore Lake and will be open from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday. It will be closed on Sundays.

"FREE N' EASY", a relatively new country music band opens an engagement at Aberdeen's on Northville Road, Northville, this Thursday. Two area residents, Dave Williams of South Lyon on the drums and Gene Martin of New Hudson on bass, augmented by Gary Randall of Dexter on the rhythm guitar, George Brady of Ypsilanti on playing lead guitar and keyboard player Michael Powell of East Detroit, make up the five-piece combo. Four of the five also do vocals.

Bank warns of escheatments

Each year thousands of Michigan residents unknowingly miss out on their rightful shares of millions of dollars instead turned over to the State of Michigan through the escheatment process.

Escheatment is the reversion of property to the state due to the failure of persons in legal possession of such property to acknowledge ownership by a specified time.

Michigan law requires that banks and other financial institutions release all inactive accounts to the state after seven years. In 1981, those accounts totaled approximately $8 million.

However, National Bank of Detroit announces that 216 of its accounts scheduled for escheatment and amounting to more than $20,000 never made it to the state, thanks to two ads that ran in metropolitan newspapers. The ads, the bank explains, constituted a final effort to locate those entitled to the accounts.

Owners and the NBD branch offices where the dormant accounts were maintained were listed. Customers whose names appeared in the ads (the last ran May 28) are asked to contact the indicated NBD offices before the accounts are escheated.

The bank reports it placed the ads as a service to help avoid unnecessary escheatment of customers' funds to the state.

Small ads get attention too.

LAND AND SEA GIFTS, a shop that specializes in nautical gifts and accessories, has been opened by Brian and Mary Higgins at Forest Place Mall in Plymouth.

The store carries clothes, tote bags, duffel bags, glassware, books, charts, custom sales, picnic ware and scrimshaw as well as shipwreck furniture and handcrafted artifacts made from wrecks on the bottom of the Great Lakes.

The shop also carries a large selection of traditional brass items such as hooks, candlesticks, scones, lanterns, mirrors, trays, planters and animals. The Higgins offer a special order service for quick delivery of anything needed in brass or boating articles.

Upstairs, browsers will find the Maritime Art Gallery, the only gallery in the Midwest that specializes in Great Lakes art. Represented are lake square riggers, freighters, old steam boats and seascapes by top artists.

Since Michigan has the largest number of registered boats in the U.S. and a colorful lake history, the Higgins felt such a shop was needed to satisfy the needs of boat lovers everywhere. The grand opening is scheduled for June 4-5.

New cucumber varieties yield increased production

Hybridizers have rebred the cucumber into a miraculously different object than the plants that originated in India years ago.

Their latest development is the creation of gynoecious varieties which have virtually all female flowers (they're the ones which bear the fruit) with just enough male flowers to keep the females happy. Thus, nearly all the energy of the plant goes into producing fruit and production is higher.

Then they've selected the characteristics home gardeners want — mild flavor and a thin skin. The new "Oasis" cucumber from Ball Seed Company is a good example of the plant scientists' success. If ever there was a sweet cucumber, "Oasis" is it. And the skin is so tender, you'll never find one in a store; it's too tender to ship.

The new cucumber is a slicing variety, producing fruit four to five inches long. Cucumbers come in a variety of other shapes and sizes, too, including the lemon cucumber, at maturity the shape, size and color of a lemon.

The plant scientists have tamed vine size, too, so that many varieties approach the character of a small bush. There's one growing trick they haven't solved for you. Don't leave mature cucumbers on the vine, or they will stop producing flowers and small fruit. Keep cucumbers picked and they'll keep producing until cold weather lays them low.

Although cucumbers are warm season vegetables, they do well even in cool or short seasons because the cucumber has a short growing season from seed to picking. And they don't require as much heat as melons for a good harvest.

Sow seeds indoors four weeks before planting outdoors but plant them in individual containers, peat pots or cell packs so that you can transplant them without disturbing the roots, which they resent. You can also buy started plants in nurseries and garden centers for planting when the soil and night temperatures are both warm.

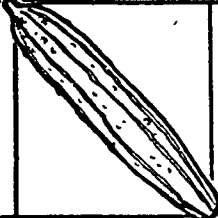

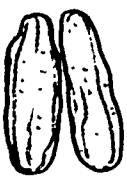

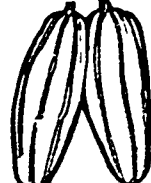

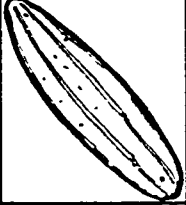

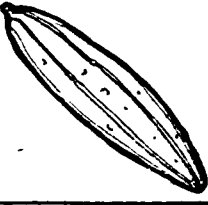

The larger vining varieties need 48 to 73 inches between rows, with plants spaced 12 inches apart in the row. The new compact bush varieties take less space.

Cucumbers grow splendidly in containers, on patios and decks. Trellising them over or against a wall, either in containers or planted in the ground, is a good space-saving technique. And by hanging down, gravity will cause cucumber fruits to grow straight rather than curling as they're apt to do if they sprawl over the ground.

Cucumbers, with fruit so high in liquid, are heavy users of water. If moisture is short, they'll just stop growing. If rainfall fails you, plan to provide at least one inch of water per week. Fertilize according to the manufacturer's recommendations.

The first flowers of cucumbers probably won't set fruit, but don't worry. The male and female flowers are separate and the fruit comes from the female flowers which start appearing later. On the gynoecious varieties, such as "Oasis" the fruit will be produced closer to the base of the plant.

Some of the newer cucumber varieties are also tolerant of a number of diseases which can affect older varieties.

Brightly-colored flowers enliven Northville's Main Street

Bright colors add garden excitement

Summer is the time for the old swimming hole, parades, festivals and fiestas, the celebration of heat and light and color. Many gardeners revel in the heat, planting bright, hot summer colors — which include flashing reds, vibrant oranges and sunshine yellows.

Some gardeners go for pure colors ... one dramatic statement in a single color, provided by a variety of different plants in the same shade. The color experts call this a monochromatic color scheme. For example, geranium "Red Express," geranium "Smash Hit" ornamental pepper "Red Missile," salvia "Bonfire," verbena "Blaze," and zinnia "Red Sun" were all combined in one large bed planting at the Geo. J. Ball, Inc. trial grounds in West Chicago, Illinois last summer. This selection of different flowers of the same color family, arranged by height and foliage textures provided an exciting show much commented on by visitors.

Another way to create the same excitement is with a floral tapestry — the use of different shades of the hot colors, ranging from the drama of a light lemon yellow, shading through the orange tones to a strong orange red.

Because marigolds have such brilliant summer colors, they're the first choice of many for summer plants. They come in pure yellows, oranges, bronzes, copper and deepest copper red.

New "Encore" marigold from the Ball Seed Company is primrose yellow. Two-inch flowers literally cover the mounding plants which grow 12 to 16 inches high. A very early dwarf marigold is "Bonanza Yellow" from Denholm Seeds, which forms an 8-inch mounded plant with 2-inch yellow flowers. A third new kind, "Torch," also from Denholm, grows 10 to 12 inches high. Plants are very uniform and the flowers are bicolor, red and gold.

Because marigolds have such brilliant summer colors, they're the first choice of many for summer plants.

ASK THE LAWYER

Questions? Write to Attorney Larry Korn, care of Sliger-Livingston Publications, Post Office Box 160, Northville, Michigan 48167. Questions will be answered on a space-available basis. Answers in this column are directed at specific facts and may not apply in all situations.

Q. My wife filed a lawsuit in small claims court against a gas station and won the case because the defendant didn't show up on the court date. She got a default judgment. The court said if she could find out where the defendant did his banking, she could get the money that's owed her. How can we do this?

A. It's often difficult to find out where someone does their banking. However, in small claims courts, it is possible to request the court clerk to assist you in instituting a creditor's examination.

Upon service of a subpoena the defendant will be compelled to come into court and answer questions about where he banks, the account numbers, etc. He also may be ordered to produce his books, accounts and all his records. If the defendant fails to appear at the creditor's exam, the judge has the right to order his arrest.

There is another avenue that your wife can pursue and that is to ascertain the form of business the defendant had. If he was in business as a partnership or sole proprietorship, his personal property can be attached — for instance, you can attach his car or truck.

It's always nice to go into court and get a judgment against a defendant, but that doesn't necessarily mean that you will get your money. When you get a judgment against someone, you still have to collect on the judgment and that is sometimes the hardest part of the entire lawsuit and not always successful.

Q. I fell a while ago and broke my wrist. I received a check for a certain amount and it says, "In full payment of the account or claim as stated below." That evidently means that they are going to absolve the apartment building where I fell in the driveway and broke my wrist. I don't know if I should accept this check. I haven't seen a lawyer about it.

A. Sign no checks. My advice is to contact a lawyer before you sign anything. He can sit down with you, evaluate the matter and tell you whether or not you should go ahead and sign or attempt to negotiate a better settlement with the insurance company.

Q. I purchased a used car from a private owner which he had advertised in the paper as being in excellent condition. He assured me when I talked to him that the brakes were in good condition. The day I purchased the car I discovered the brakes were completely destroyed. I got an estimate for the repair work needed and it comes to about $500. When I tried to contact the person I purchased the car from, he avoided me. So I filed in small claims court. What do I need to do to prepare myself for court?

A. Your damages in small claims court will be whatever your out-of-pocket expenses will be, that is, the amount of money you will have to expend to get the brakes in safe operating condition. You have already taken the first step in obtaining an estimate from a reliable brake repair facility. When you go to court, take the individual who did the brake estimate with you. Alternatively, you can have the repair work done and then show the bill to the court to substantiate how much you paid to have the brakes repaired.

Prospective purchasers of used cars should be advised that if they are negotiating for a used car, any representation that is made regarding the condition of the car should be put in writing. If the seller says to you, "The car just had new mufflers and shocks installed," put that in writing and have the seller sign it. This will be your protection; the seller is making representations to you.

Normally, when you buy a used car you buy it "as is," and when you buy "as is," there is no warranty. If the owner makes verbal warranties to you, ask him to put them in writing. If he refuses to put them in writing, it's possible you're dealing with a dishonest person.

The phrase "in excellent condition" used in advertising a car for sale is a general representation. The courts differentiate between what is called "sales puffery" (that which is said to sell a car) and direct representations which you rely on to buy the car.

One of the direct representations that you relied on when buying your used car was the seller telling you it had good brakes. If the seller had told you the brakes were destroyed, you probably would not have bought it. The rule of thumb in purchasing anything like a used car is, "Let the buyer beware."

Q. Two years ago I was shopping in a large chain store. I couldn't find the item I was looking for and asked the stockperson to help me. As we were walking down the aisle, I tripped over several boxes that were stacked in the aisle and fell flat on my knee. I'm a procrastinator; I never went to the doctor, I treated it myself and it seemed to get better. Periodically since then I've had some pain in the knee. Now it's really hurting me. I did make a report to the store manager at the time I fell.

A. You were correct in reporting the incident to the store manager at the time it occurred. What I would suggest you do at this point is see a lawyer. You've indicated that it's been two years since the incident. You've only got a short period of time before the statute of limitations runs out, that is, before the time runs out for you to file your claim in court.

In this particular instance, the statute of limitations is three years. You should have gone to a doctor immediately after the accident, even though you indicate that your knee seemed to get better. This would have documented your injuries. Two years after the fact, the lawyer representing the store is going to say that there have been other intervening causes for the knee problem. Because of your procrastination you have made this a very difficult case.

Q. My daughter wants to see a lawyer about a personal injury case she thinks she has. How much is it going to cost her to talk to a lawyer?

A. Generally it will not cost a thing.

Personal injury cases are usually taken on what is called a contingent fee and the Michigan Supreme Court has set up the rules as to how much a lawyer can charge on a contingent fee arrangement.

When you go to a lawyer to consult about a personal injury case, he will listen to you, get the facts, make a determination as to liability and probable recovery and they you and the lawyer will enter into a written contingency fee arrangement. Usually, lawyers who do personal injury work do not charge for the initial consultation.

Q. The year before last I signed a home improvement note for my brother at an out-of-state bank. About a month ago my brother told me he's going to file bankruptcy. Last week I received a letter from the bank which said he had filed bankruptcy and the monthly payment was due. Do I have to pay it?

A. In law school, they used to jokingly refer to a co-signer on a note as a "stuckee;" unfortunately, you appear to be a "stuckee." In signing for your brother you were the guarantor on the note. When he defaulted on his payment you became liable on the note. Even though you indicated he is going into bankruptcy, which will wipe out the debt for him, it doesn't wipe it out for you. Therefore, you are stuck on that note.

It has been said, never loan any more money than you can afford to give away as a gift. Anyone considering loaning money or co-signing on a note should have a lawyer protect his interests. If one of my clients calls me with this kind of situation, I say to the borrower, "What kind of security can you give my client?"

If the borrower can't give security and merely wants to give a handshake and a promise, I say, "I'm sorry; I am responsible for my client's business concerns. I cannot approve this transaction." In the future, I hope you will have a lawyer who you can contact to be the hard guy.

Q. My license was suspended because I built up too many points and tickets. They want me to appear in Detroit Traffic Court for driving with a suspended license. I don't have any money to pay my tickets. If I appear in court on my court date, will they cart me off to jail because I can't pay?

A. Even though you don't have any money to pay the tickets, do appear in court on your hearing date. The Detroit Traffic Court referees are usually very understanding. If you say, "Look, I don't have any money at this time," assuming that you are found guilty and fined, they will give you time to pay the fine. I would not concern myself about being locked up simply because of lack of money.

I would strongly suggest you get an attorney, even if you have to borrow the money, because if you have been driving on a suspended license you could get a mandatory three days in the county jail or the Detroit House of Correction. That's in the statute. If you retain a lawyer, he might be able to work out a plea to a different offense, perhaps to driving with no operator's license on person, which does not have mandatory jail time.

You are playing a very serious game of Russian roulette here by driving with a suspended license and building up points and not paying your tickets. One day, you are going to come up with a loaded bullet and the judge is going to send you to jail.

Q. My son wants to borrow some money. He just went through a divorce and has to pay his wife $9,000. He got the house and if he can't raise the money he'll have to sell the house to pay her. He wants me to take out a loan and give him the money, and I want to know how to protect myself. He said he'd put my name on a quit claim deed and give me a promissory note.

A. If you are to lend your son this money, then of course what you would like to have is as much protection as possible. First, have your son execute a quit claim deed where the two of you are designated as joint tenants with rights of survivorship, so that if anything happens to him you, as his survivor, will take the property by operation of law without having to go through probate.

You also can get a mortgage for the money you are lending him. If he defaults on the payment, you have a right to foreclose on your mortgage. Those are some of the ways you can protect yourself, but you should see a lawyer to make sure the papers are drawn properly to protect your interests.

Money Management

People on fixed incomes are hit hardest by inflation. In most cases, that includes the aged who depend on Social Security, a pension or a retirement plan. If you have a parent, relative or friend who currently is in or nearing this situation, you can assist by helping them plan now to best utilize their own income.

Although it might be difficult to set up an exact budget for an elderly person, you should anticipate costs they might have to contend with. In this way, you can budget for known costs, estimate expenses for possible emergencies, such as medical care, and investigate available programs to assist them.

For example, as housing costs continue to rise, the aged might not be able to continue in their own apartment or home. Homesharing, in which an elderly person lives with a younger single or family, and congregate housing in buildings designated for older people, are alternative methods to automatically moving the elderly in with you. Rent also may be more affordable.

If the elderly need more than financial assistance to get by, pay only for what they need. While only about five percent of people over 65 are institutionalized in nursing homes, it is estimated that 20 to 30 percent of these people need not be there.

Alternatives to these facilities exist in day care for the aged and, if medical care is necessary, the services of visiting nurses and aides. At the 800 adult day care centers in the United States, the emphasis may be social or medical. Also, the cost runs from about $12 to $50 per day. This is compared to an average of $1,000 per month for nursing home costs.

Also investigate in-home care. The cost will depend on whether it's provided by a registered nurse, a practical nurse, an aide, a homemaker or a companion.

When comparing the cost of care, consider how much Medicare and insurance plans will provide. In general, Medicare covers only 40 percent of medical care for the elderly. And certain requirements may have to be met. For example, Medicare hospital insurance, automatically included when you become eligible for Social Security, covers 100 percent of the first 20 days in a skilled nursing home, but you must have been hospitalized first.

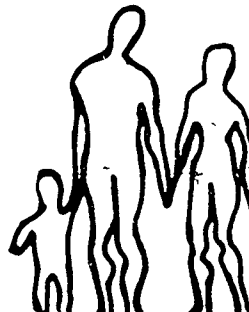

In addition, insurance may cover only what is considered a reasonable charge. To protect the elderly against the difference, ask the doctor if he or she will accept only what insurance pays. This practice is known as assignment.

If you contribute to your parent's, relative's or friend's support, you may be eligible for tax breaks. By providing more than half the support during a calendar year for your parent, grandparents or other direct descendant, you can claim that person as a dependent, even if he or she doesn't live with you.

If the person is unrelated, only claim him or her if you live in the same home. Related or not, the person must not have more than $1,000 in taxable income, not including Social Security. In addition, your dependent must be a U.S. citizen and cannot file a joint return with anyone else.

If you share the support of this person with others, and no one provides more than half the support, whoever provides more than 10 percent of the total support and meets all other criteria can claim the exemption. An agreement on the exemption must be signed by all eligible persons.

Doctor's HOUSE CALL

Do you have a medical question or problem? Write to Woodland Medical Center/Novi, care of Sliger-Livingston Publications, Post Office Box 160, Northville, Michigan 48167. Personal replies are not possible.

Woodland Medical Center/Novi stresses that individual treatment begins with a physician's first-hand diagnosis; information in this column is not a substitute for a physician's first-hand diagnosis. Woodland provides the information in this column in conjunction with Sliger-Livingston Publications as a public service only; no physician-patient relationship is created.

there had it. Please discuss this disease.

Why would the doctor have been interested in her spleen? She was not given any antibiotics for this infection. Would that speed her recovery? Should she engage in physical activity? We are worried about her playing sports.

If your daughter came down with infectious mononucleosis, one thing is certain. Somewhere, probably within a couple of weeks prior to her symptoms, she was exposed to a particular virus. It is called the Epstein Barr Virus, called EBV for short.

This virus is widespread and infectious mononucleosis is a relatively common illness. It is found most often in the 15-25 years of age group, but it may also occur in very young children and even in infants.

We also know that the mode of transmission is usually through some close contact. This is how it came to be called the "kissing disease," although, of course, it can be passed without kissing having taken place.

It probably will never be determined just where or from whom your daughter got it. Her classmates need not have been obviously ill with the same virus, but could have passed it on anyway. It's one of these peculiarities of some viral illnesses.

There can be carriers, who are not ill, but nevertheless can pass on such illnesses. Many people show blood test evidence of having had mononucleosis who never can recall the particular episode.

One reason is that mono may mimic many other ailments. The symptoms can be similar to others. Throat infections, rashes or flu may be erroneously diagnosed while the person may actually have mono. It has been noted that often subtle evidence of mono may produce such things as poor school performance, unexplained malaise, etc.

Often the person may come down with the illness long after the actual exposure. The period of a couple of weeks mentioned is a general rule. The so-called incubation period may be as long as six weeks.

The symptoms usually include general fatigue, sore throat, prolonged fever and swollen glands of the neck. A rash may appear on the trunk. Because the particular virus in a sense "breeds" in the spleen, that organ can be involved. The spleen may actually enlarge and stay that way for many weeks. This is why doctors are so careful to examine the spleen of a person with mono.

The enlarged spleen is potentially a dangerous situation.

It is for this reason, chiefly, why physicians advise strongly against any physical activity during the recovery period, a concern that the spleen may be further damaged by a sharp blow, etc.

Of course, with mono, the patient usually feels too much malaise to want to participate in vigorous physical activity, anyway. The general advice is to let the physician be the judge as to when the person should resume activity.

Another organ usually affected by this virus infection is the liver. However, there is seldom any jaundice (skin or eye yellowing) resulting from that. There are some quite rare complications from mono. They are evident to the physician and, however rare, he is alert to their possibilities. They include invasion of the nervous system, the pancreas and the heart. To repeat, these are rare complications.

There is one good thing about mono. It almost never recurs in the same person. The antibodies that build up against the initial virus invasion stay on.

A word about diagnosis. That is done through several kinds of blood tests. One detects the presence of the antibodies created by the body to fight off the virus.

Antibiotics are not effective against viruses, whether the flu type, EBV or any other kind. The best treatment for mono is rest, liquids and other supportive measures. Return to activity should be gradual. It is never a pleasant illness, and seldom a serious one.

Mini Olympics make tiny tots big winners

In their second annual Mini Olympics April 24, students in Northville Cooperative Preschool proved that even tiny tots can be big winners when the going gets tough.

Students from all four of the coop's programs — from toddlers to five-year-olds — competed in this year's competitions which included a bean bag throw, relay race, kick ball, obstacle course, roll-down-the-hill and the broad jump.

For these little Olympians, it mattered little who won or lost — the key objective was participation. Stars were awarded to those who participated in the varied events such as Nicole Czarnomski, 5, below, who wiggled her way through the tunnel in the obstacle course competition.

The official kick-off of this year's games was acknowledged with the Olympic parade. At right, Joey Garzia carried the torch, while Jaime Pescia, left, and Sandy Morante held the preschools banner.

After all events were completed, the little athletes were treated to a picnic provided by their parents.

Canterbury's wowing in Pensacola

By JEAN DAY

Former Northville resident John B. Canterbury, now program director of small Pensacola, Florida, FM radio station WOWW-107 that only went on the air March 17, 1980, has been instrumental in the station's winning a top national award from Billboard magazine.

In Billboard's annual radio awards' competition the station was chosen number one among small-market country radio broadcasters. "To a radio station, it's like winning an academy award for best picture," explained Canterbury who submitted the station's contest entry. Canterbury, whose father is a former city councilman, accepted the award in Nashville, Tennessee, with the station's general manager.

They reported it was especially satisfying as radio consultants had scoffed at the station's format, which Canterbury explained is "hybrid country, a blend of modern progressive country with a touch of mellow rock or adult contemporary." In an interview in the Pensacola Journal, Canterbury attributed much of the station's success to the fact that its image is not based solely on the music it plays. "We promote it as a leader in the market, as a service to the community." He estimated the station had conducted 30 medium-to-large promotions last year and 40 secondary ones, such as catamaran races and such charity promotions as the "Vein Drain" blood drive.

Locally, diamonds were a winning promotion

In our area, station WJR has been celebrating a 60th anniversary by giving away diamonds. Barb Jamieson at Travel Plans was one of the lucky winners of diamond pendants. Listeners were required to send in postcards bearing their birth date.

Barb, whose birthday was May 4, the same day as WJR's, was one of the winners that day—a birthday should be a lucky day. Her card was chosen from some 22,000 entries.

A penguin was honor guest at her party

Carol Van Soest's birthday was last Sunday, but the surprise celebration arranged by 15 long-time friends was given a week earlier and might be called a penguin party. The honoree's close friends speak of her as a penguin lover, a collector of miniature penguins, of books about penguins and even blouses with penguin designs.

Therefore, when Carol (who thought she was going out for brunch with the Marvin Walkers and George Berquists) arrived at the Walker home on Winchester Court, a large, fluffy penguin waddled out to greet her. Jane Patton, who had been her college roommate, had come from Kentucky and located the penguin costume to rent in Cincinnati. Until the honoree lifted off the penguin's hat, she had no idea her friend, who had spent the night before with the Lynn Stringers, was in the area.

Also helping celebrate the "life begins at ..." birthday were another college-days' friend Elaine Henke of Ann Arbor and Sharon Kerr of Farmington Hills, as well as husband M.J. and son Marc. Her present, naturally, was a penguin shirt.

Jeff Lee's one of 'The Kid Connection' pros

Northville High School senior Jeff Lee is performing with "The Kid Connection," billed as Michigan's first professional kids' showcase which will premier at Birmingham Seaholm High School at 8 p.m. this Friday and run through Sunday with a 2 p.m. matinee Saturday.

Jeff did not audition last June but was invited to be emcee and spokesman during promotional performances. He will be attending New York University in September. He is serious about a stage career after getting his education.

Sturniolo-Hines exchange vows

Elisabeth Hines, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Phelps Hines of 407 Ely, exchanged marriage vows May 15 with Donald Sturniolo, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sturniolo of Hialeah, Florida.

The double ring ceremony was held at Island Park, a small island on the Huron River. The Reverend Thomas Hartley officiated.

The bride wore a white cotton gown with a circlet headpiece of fresh baby's-breath.

Terri Pelchat of Novi was maid of honor, and Joseph Schinner of St. Louis, Missouri, was best man.

Following a "moveable feast" brunch for 45 guests, the couple left for a backpacking trip in the Blue Ridge Mountains.

The bride, a 1977 Northville High School graduate, is finishing her special education degree at Eastern Michigan University and is employed at John Leidy's in Ann Arbor.

The bridegroom is a 1969 Hialeah High School graduate and received both BA and MBA degrees from Washington University. He currently is a senior sales representative for Monsanto. The couple will reside in Ann Arbor.

Lois Bolton wed in Plymouth rites

Lois Ann Bolton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas C. Bolton of 16355 Bradner, became the bride of Daniel J. Bliss of Warren April 24 at First United Methodist Church of Plymouth.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Frank G. Bliss of Warren and the late Mr. Bliss.

The ceremony was officiated by the Reverend John N. Grenfell, Jr., with the scripture read by Orville H. Bryant, a friend of the bride and bridegroom.

The bride wore her mother's gown of antique ivory satin enhanced with a lace-trimmed, sweetheart neckline. She wore a brim hat and carried a loosely wrapped bouquet of white lilies, carnations, baby's-breath and ivy.

The bride's sister Linda M. Koch of Howell was matron of honor. She wore a rose colored gown and carried a bouquet of pink and lavender fresh spring flowers and baby's-breath.

The bride's parents entertained the couple at an open house for 80 guests May 16.

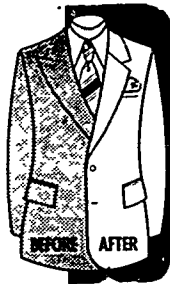

The bridegroom's brother-in-law Charles J. Mascari of Troy was best man. Other attendants were the bridegroom's niece and nephew Dana Marie and Charles Mascari, also of Troy.

A brunch reception at Dearborn Inn followed the ceremony with approximately 95 guests attending. Special guests included the bridegroom's daughter Laurie Bliss of Warren and the bride's brother Robert D. Bolton and his family from Denver, Colorado.

Other guests were the bridegroom's aunt Mrs. Russell Lennan of Ontario, Canada, and the bridegroom's cousins Mr. and Mrs. Ron Lennan of Ontario, Canada, and Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Lennan, also of Ontario.

The bride's parents entertained the couple at an open house for 80 guests May 16.

Cynthia Meining wed

Cynthia Marie Meining, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orville E. Meining of 7710 Curtis, exchanged marriage vows May 8 with Bradley Louis Westfall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Westfall, Jr., of 602 Grace.

The double ring ceremony was officiated by the Reverend Gunther Branstner at First United Methodist Church. Flute music accompanied the candlelight service.

The bride wore an ivory gown designed with a Queen Elizabeth neckline, long fitted sleeves and a fingertip veil. She carried a bouquet of ivory and rose silk flowers.

Maid of honor was Michele Shelton. Bridesmaids were the bride's sister Terri Meining, the bride's sister-in-law Barbara Meining, and Patti Terch, who served as junior bridesmaid.

The bride's attendants wore dusty rose gowns with chiffon capes and carried bouquets of rose silk flowers.

Flowergirl was Jennifer Jordan, and ringbearer was Jason Jordan.

Robert Keller was best man, and ushers were the bridegroom's brother Tom Westfall, John Bourne, the bridegroom's brother-in-law Fred Fisher and Rick Rosselle. Junior usher was Hugh Jordan.

A reception for 220 guests was held at the Plymouth Cultural Center following the ceremony. The couple took a wedding trip to the World's Fair in Knoxville, Tennessee.

The bridegroom is a medical specialist in the United States Army at Fort Stewart, Georgia.

St. John's courses offered

St. John's Provincial Seminary again is offering its two-credit, five-day summer courses open to laity, religious and clergy at its Plymouth campus.

Classes begin each Monday, starting July 21, and conclude each Friday through the month of July. Courses are in session from approximately 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. for credit or audit, applicable toward a degree, continuing education or enrichment.

For the first time a spirituality series will be offered. Teaching specialists will focus on spirituality models made relevant for today from the Middle Ages and contemporary periods, the Old and New Testament and the Prayer of the Church — Liturgical Spirituality.

How to deal with anger and how to be an effective helper are two pastoral theology courses especially designed for parishioners in service to their parish and to each other.

Other courses include the New Code of Canon Law, the Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults, Christology, Fundamental Moral Theology and Celebrating Sacraments.

For information or registration, call St. John's Seminary at 453-6200. Summer brochures describing the program are available on request. Registration closes June 11.

Baptist concert

The Watchmen, a four-member ensemble from Tennessee Temple University in Chattanooga, Tennessee, will be featured in a special performance at 6:30 p.m. Sunday at Northville's First Baptist Church. The program will include hymns, gospel songs and spirituals. Traveling in 14 northeastern states and Canada, the Watchmen will represent Tennessee Temple University in some 70 churches this summer.

St. Kenneth's Church slates weekend festival

Several Northville residents will be on hand when St. Kenneth's Church of Plymouth sponsors its two-day Family Fun Festival this weekend.

The festival, held from noon to 10 p.m. Saturday and noon to 9 p.m. Sunday, is chaired by Rayburn resident Steven Alföldy.

Larry McConlogue of Northville Commons is co-chairing the Millionaire's Party open from 5:30-10 p.m. Saturday and 1-9 p.m. Sunday. Barbara Alföldy is co-chair of the festival's flea market.

Denise MacLean will be Kenny the Klowne, scooping five-cent ice cream cones and selling penny candy in the sweet shoppe. Joe Legner of Winchester has obtained some O! Time Movies which will be shown every 30 minutes for 25-cents both days of the festival.

Jeff the Magician, featured at the Winchester School Family Night, is returning for a show at the festival at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Other festivities include carnival rides, a moon walk, video and tent games, Yogi Bear and Boo Boo, Saturday Spaghetti Supper, Sunday Southern Fried Chicken Dinner and a drawing with a $2,000 first prize.

Tickets are available at the festival for $1 each.

Teen modeling course scheduled

Northville resident and former professional model and fashion coordinator Marlene Coffey will repeat her Teen Modeling course at Farmington Community Center beginning June 23.

The modeling course will include techniques in runway, models' poses, hesitation and pivot, as well as skin care, make-up, exercises, posture and wardrobe planning.

Registration is being held at the Farmington Community Center located at 24705 Farmington Road. For further information call 477-8404.

Church school registration taken

Registration now is being taken for First United Methodist Church Vacation Church School open to students in kindergarten through fourth grades.

The church school will be held from 9:30 a.m. to noon June 21-25 and will offer games, crafts, stories, music and puppets.

A $3 fee covers the costs of materials and supplies. For further information and registration, call the church at 349-1144.

Both the Northville boys' and girls' track teams will be participating in their respective Western Six Conference meets today, weather permitting. The girls will be hosting the W-Six at Northville High School beginning at 3 p.m., while the boys will be at Livonia Churchill.

Tennis team nets second at W-Six meet

Runner-up would be the best description of the performance of Northville's boys' tennis team at the Western Six Conference meet last week Wednesday at Plymouth Canton.

The young Mustang netters took runner-up slots in five of the seven matches to place right behind defending league champion Farmington Harrison and retain second place overall for the season.

Harrison successfully defended its league title with 21 points, while Northville tallied 11. Host Canton was next at four, while Walled Lake Western had three and Livonia Churchill none.

Coach Dick Norton was pleased with the performance of his young squad because of the pressure to win a number of opening matches.

Northville received a number of high seedings; therefore, most netters were in the semifinals for their first matches. Without victories, Northville could have fallen to the bottom of the league standings.

"I think the kids did very well," he praised.

No one was more aware of the importance of those victories than Norton. "To a certain extent, because that would have cost us a lot of points," he explained.

One of the most consistent players on the team all year was sophomore Arvind Sreedharan, who came away with runner-up honors at first singles.

He lost to Harrison's Adam Gordon in the finals 6-1, 6-0. Sreedharan reached the finals with a triumph over Western's Don Peasley 7-6, 6-2.

"(Sreedharan) played very well for us all year. He really came on strong near the end of the season," Norton offered.

Also coming away with runner-up honors was junior Richard Schohl at third singles. He lost to Harrison's Mike Corey 6-0, 6-3 in the championship match. Schohl downed Western's Spencer Solomon 6-1, 7-6 in the semifinals.

Senior Chris McCormick lost his third singles semifinal match to Western's Chris Smith 6-0, 6-3, while sophomore Scott Werdell also lost in the semifinals at fourth singles.

Werdell beat Western's Carl Buttenmiller in a first round match 5-7, 6-4, 6-2 to advance to the semifinals. However, Harrison's Evan Hughes downed Werdell 6-1, 6-3 in a semifinal encounter.

It was sweet revenge for first doubles team Steve Ouellette and Matt Abraham on their way to a runner up finish. After disposing of Churchill's Dave Pierini and Jeff Olds in the first round 6-1, 6-2, the senior tandem trimmed Western's Dan Smith and Terry Sova in straight 6-1 sets to advance to the finals. It was the first triumph in three meetings with Sova/Smith for the Mustang pair.

But, the bubble burst in the finals when Harrison's Jody Bahgat and Nick Lessins downed the pair 6-2, 6-3 in the finals.

The second doubles squad of sophomore Chris Sixt and junior Omar Anisoglou also were runners-up with downed Canton's Tim Feldcamp and Todd Garnett 7-5, 6-3 to advance to the finals against Harrison's Raffi Manoukian and Rob Shapiro, who won 6-2, 7-6.

The third doubles team of John Vandervouwe and Mark Olgren also were runners-up. In the semifinals, the senior pair beat Canton's Eric Papp and Joe Erdelyi in three sets 3-6, 7-6, 6-4, but fell to Harrison's Rich Morrison and Dave Haack 7-5, 6-3 in the finals.

In the junior varsity tournament, Northville's Steve Harrison won the singles title with four straight triumphs. Also competing in the tournament were Kip Mack, Rick Vach, Tim Campbell, Jeff Smith, Dave Jello and Bill Harmon, all of whom reached either the quarterfinals or semifinals.

Meteyer to step down as boys' soccer coach

Ron Meteyer joked he might be the first coach in the state to step down from a high school soccer team to a youth recreation team.

Joking or not, that is exactly what the Northville High School science teacher did last week Wednesday when he resigned from his coaching position with the Mustangs' boys' soccer.

With two sons of his own now playing in under 10 year old soccer league in Farmington, Meteyer decided to devote more time to his family rather than to continue coaching the high school squad.

"The time demands were too great in addition to my other responsibilities," explained Meteyer, who will remain coach of the Mustangs' girls' soccer team.

Because Meteyer wants to coach both his sons in soccer in their teams playing in the fall, it would be virtually impossible to continue as the Northville boys' coach.

"I just had to set my priorities," he noted.

Not seeing enough of his family while coaching both high school teams and the way his teaching curriculum was slated made Meteyer decide to step down.

"I feel I wasn't getting enough time with my children," he said.

However, coaching the boys' team for the past three seasons was a rewarding experience for Meteyer.

"I gained a lot of recognition for Northville soccer. I get a lot of attention throughout the state," observed Meteyer, who is a member of the state coaches board for soccer.

RON METEYER

"I'll miss that, but I'll make it up with my kids," he added.

Last fall was the worst season, record-wise, for boys' soccer as the team limped home with an overall mark of 7-8-2, despite starting the season with three straight victories in winning a third consecutive Detroit Country Day Invitational title.

The best season for the boys' team was 1980 when the Mustangs advanced to the second round of the state playoffs before being eliminated by Bloomfield Lasher 2-0 and finishing with an overall slate of 16-2-2. Northville blanked Grosse Pointe North in a first round contest 4-0.

Northville regains winning formula

Northville's boys' baseball has not enjoyed the kind of week it had last week since the start of season back in late April.

The Mustangs, who were mired in a long losing streak, snapped out of it with two victories in three contests last week to raise their overall mark to 7-12.

But, Northville now is battling a new problem — the rain. Twice in the past five days — Friday and Tuesday — the Mustangs have had their MHSAA Class A district contest with Milford canceled because of rain. The two teams probably will try to play the contest today.

Two good pitching performances last week guided the Mustangs to a 4-2 triumph over Waterford and a split in a doubleheader with Livonia Franklin — winning the opener 7-3, but losing the nightcap 10-4.

"When we get good pitching...we win. When we don't get good pitching...we lose. Pitching is 90 percent of baseball and I guess that's right," coach Fred Holdsworth offered.

Senior left-hander John Dranginis snapped out of the doldrums with the verdict over Waterford. He went the distance to record his fifth win against four defeats. Also, it was his first triumph since beating Hartland 8-7 May 1 in the Lee Sheldahl tournament.

"He pitched a solid ball game against a solid ballclub," Holdsworth noted.

Northville got on the board in the second inning on a run-scoring double by Dave Malinowski. The Mustangs added two in the fifth with the aid of three walks and singles by Dave Longridge and Andy Dimitroff.

Northville completed the scoring in the sixth with a run on a walk, a Chris Behen single, a stolen base and a fly out.

Waterford helped the Mustang cause in the contest with eight walks, while Longridge was the team's top batsman with two hits.

Jim Thomson won the opener against Franklin for his second triumph of the year against one loss. "He's starting to come around," Holdsworth observed.

Northville did all of its damage against Franklin in the third inning when the Mustangs exploded for seven runs.

Bob Townsend started the inning with single, followed by Mickey Newman's single, walks to Dimitroff and Malinowski, Todd Bartling's single and doubles by Steve Schrader and Townsend.

Townsend keyed the offensive attack for Northville with three hits, while Bartling and Schrader, who was called up from the junior varsity squad for the last three games, both had two hits.

While Northville kayoed Franklin in the third inning, the Patroits delivered the knockout punch in the first inning against the Mustangs in the nightcap.

A big six-run first inning propelled the Patroits to victory as Mustang hurler Malinowski had his troubles. The senior righthander allowed six runs on three hits without retiring a batter in the first inning.

Sophomore Bob Pegrum, another junior varsity player called up, completed the five inning game by allowing four runs on four hits, and he struckout three.

The Mustangs scored one in the second on a couple of walks, a fielder's choice and a double by Greg Wolfe. Northville added three more in the fourth in a couple of errors, doubles by Mike Kaley and Bartling and a single by Willie Newman.

Local runners garner top honors in Fun Run

More than 170 runners from the southeastern part of Michigan took part in the Northville Downtown Dedication Fun Run Saturday, May 22, with 26 local runners garnering either a first or second place finish.

There were few problems reported during the one mile fun run and five and 10 kilometer runs. And despite the high number of Northville runners grabbing top honors, it was Plymouth's Fred Holappa who won the overall title with a time of 36:25 in the 10 kilometer run. He also won his 50 years old-and-over age division.

Local runners taking first in the 10 kilometer run were Patrick Fries in the 32-and-under (59:20); James Holloway in the 30-34 year old division (39:57); Robert Szymula in the 40-49 year old division (38:30); Bea Flanagan in the 40-49 group (49:26); and Nidge Poirier in the 50-and-over division (52:43).

Those taking runner-up honors were Wayne Frogner in the 12 and under (68:25); Bill Edmonds in the 30-34 division (40:03); Mike Kowalski in the 35-39 group (39:27); Dave Lehmkuhl in the 40-49 division (40:49); and Maricya Fry in the 30-34 division (50:12).

Northville winners in the five kilometer race were Wendy Nuechterlein in the 13-17 group (22:55); Kathy McMillan in the 18-23 division (20:32); Ron Nuechterlein in the 35-39 group (18:18); Joy Colizzi in the 35-39 group (26:12); Beverly Kavash in the 40-49 group (25:49); Harry Henderson in the 50 and over group (23:52); and Rita Pedersen in the 50-and-over group (27:57).

Runner-up slots went to Robert Kavash in the 50-and-over division (25:53); Jane Lawson in the 40-49 group (31:14); Joe Kofka in the 40-49 division (26:01); Teri DeGross in the 30-34 group (25:12); Bill Scott in the 24-29 group (18:19); Annette Isom in the 18-23 division (21:27); Stacey Nield in the 13-17 group (22:58); Sonja Dove in the 12-and-under (28:54); and Paul Stoecklin in the 12-and-under (20:20).

Tennis tournament slated

Get that tennis game in shape. It is time again for the Third Annual Northville Open Tennis Classic to take place June 11-13 at the Fish Hatchery Park and high school courts.

The tournament is being held prior to National Tennis Week, and there will be men's and women's singles and doubles and mixed doubles. Participants can enter only in two categories.

The entry fee is $10, and tennis balls are supplied. Trophies will be given to the winners and runners-up in each event. Entry deadline is June 8.

Also, the Lipton Iced Tea Mixed Doubles Championship qualifying round will take place the same weekend. The winners of the tournament will advance to one of 128 sectional events for a chance to compete in one of 32, one-day regional playoffs.

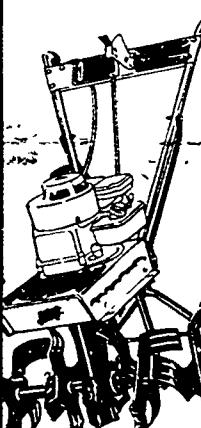

Those winners will advance to the National Finals at the Sawgrass resort in Ponte Vedra, Florida, via Eastern Airlines, all expenses paid.

For more information, or to obtain an entry form, call the Racquet Connection, 124 North Center Street, at 348-6350. No phone entries will be accepted.

Buyer's Guide

BOWL A FREE GAME

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS

Just purchase from any Chatham Supermarket an 8-Pack of 1/2 liter bottles of Coke, Tab, Sprite, Dr Pepper or Sunkist Orange at the regular price of $2.39 plus deposit, or as a Cash Dividend Special at $1.49 plus deposit, and Chatham will give you one certificate to bowl a free game at any one of 110 participating BPA Bowling Centers. You will receive one free bowling certificate for each 8-pack you purchase. A list of Participating BPA Bowling Centers is posted on every certificate. Offer expires June 22, 1982.

BOWLING'S A BALL AT YOUR NEARBY B.P.A. BOWLING CENTER

Chatham and the Michigan Bowling Proprietors Association have again joined to provide you with the opportunity to enjoy a free game of bowling fun. Bring the whole family and enjoy summer bowling together. Bowling is an inexpensive way to enjoy healthy entertainment.
