Board contracts for NHS renovation study

The first step toward a possible renovation of Northville High School soon will get under way following the board of education's approval last Thursday to award a feasibility study contract to a Southfield architectural firm.

Coquillard, Dolgner, Dundon and Argenta, Inc., was selected by the board to conduct an architectural feasibility study of the high school structure beginning sometime within the next few weeks.

The architects were among four firms making presentations to the administration and board of education last week. The four finalists presenting high school feasibility study proposals were screened from a field of more than 16 architectural firms.

Other firms making proposals were Harley, Ellington, Pierce, Yee Associates of Southfield; TMP Associates of Bloomfield Hills and Lane, Riebe, Weiland Architects of Farmington.

The board of education met for almost an hour last Thursday to discuss the four architectural presentations. While the board acknowledged that all four were highly qualified for the job, Coquillard, Dolgner, Dundon and Argenta came out the overall favorite.

The feasibility study to be conducted by the firm entails a thorough examination of all components of the high school structure. The firm will be working closely with school administrators and the high school department chairpersons to determine the educational specifications for the proposed renovation of the 23-year old structure.

Bell said he plans to meet with the architects and high school chairpersons after the holiday break to begin preparations for the study. He added that he hopes the firm will be able to complete its study sometime next summer.

Cost for the project is undetermined at this point, Bell said. He explained that the amount will be negotiated with the architects after the study gets underway and the amount of time and community involvement is determined.

The high school feasibility study is the first phase of the district's long range plan to renovate the high school and realign the current grade structure to a middle school concept.

The long range plan, proposed by the superintendent, was approved by the board of education in late October.

Bell said the major impetus for proposing the project is to make the high school more educationally sound for students.

"I was shocked to walk into Northville High School on my arrival," said the former Van Dyke Public School's Superintendent. "I came from an area which was considered an inner city area and there weren't any buildings as deteriorated as Northville High School."

In outlining the monumental task ahead, Bell said the high school chairpersons will play a key role in the project by providing the architects with suggestions for each department.

"We are not trying to create a Taj Mahal on top of the hill," Bell explained. "However, we do have to make some major changes up there."

Korean babies get homes for Christmas

Prudy Vannier and Karen Marburger — and their families — received their real Christmas gifts last week when they went to Metropolitan Airport to pick up their new daughters from Korea.

Katie Noel, who is about 20 months old, arrived Monday, December 13, to become the newest member of the James Vannier family. Melinda Marie, about 13 months old, came in on a flight with nine other Korean babies Thursday to join Kim, Karen and daughter Dawn Marburger.

Both babies are Koreans abandoned on the streets of Seoul, capital of South Korea. Officially listed as abandoned, with Korean equivalent "John Doe" names, the babies had been placed in orphanages.

Both families had decided to seek Korean babies to adopt — but did not know about each other's application until Mrs. Vannier and Mrs. Marburger met at a coffee for applicants early last year.

The decision to adopt a Korean baby — and to ask for a girl — was a family one, James and Prudy Vannier explain. Ryan, 8, Chris, 7, and Jaime, 4, held dinner table conferences with their parents and decided to ask for a girl to bring the family total to two boys and two girls.

"We worked on the name for a month," recalled Prudy Vannier last weekend as her new daughter sat contentedly on her lap. It was a family consensus vote that decided the matter.

"Dawn, now 16, had been asking for a Korean daughter ever since she was five," related Karen Marburger who said she continued to hope for a baby and had infertility treatments before going the adoptive route.

She added that she appreciated the attention Dawn and a friend had given the baby since she joined the family. "Mindy thought night was day, and they entertained her into the morning while I got some sleep," she explained.

"I don't think they come healthy," commented Mrs. Vannier as she said Katie Noel weighs 16 pounds at about 20 months and had an ear infection as well as bronchitis.

"She's doing fine now," she added. Both babies have been taken to doctors by their new parents since their arrival.

Prudy Vannier says they were told Katie had been malnourished and abused. Right now her left foot is so black and blue and swollen that she can't wear shoes.

"They told us she could walk, but with her foot so sore she hasn't tried," noted her new mother. "But she has crept," added Jim Vannier.

For the most part, Katie seems willing to sit on Prudy Vannier's lap and watch the activities of her new family. She also seemed to trust Mrs. Vannier's mother Geri Shanahan, who "always comes for a few days when there's a new baby in the family."

Mindy joined the Marburgers "smiling but with a cold," according to her mother who, after the doctor's visit, also is treating her new daughter for conjunctivitis, an eye inflammation.

"She keeps eating until we stop feeding her," Mrs. Marburger said, holding Mindy by the Christmas tree which is up and decorated at their home at 769 Novi Street.

Prudy Vannier agreed that feeding these babies is no problem. "You can tell they have been in an orphanage," she said, telling how Katie quickly protects her food if she thinks it's threatened.

"She trusts me, but if one of the children comes near, she puts the Cheerios on her lap with her hands protecting the food."

Around the Christmas tree at the Vannier home at 1065 Horton are stuffed toys, but Katie will have nothing to do with those that are animals.

"She loves the doll," said Mrs. Van-nier, "but Korean children must have been taught to be afraid of animals."

Right now Katie's sleeping on the floor at her own insistence.

"We had the crib ready, but she wants her blanket on the floor — and I let her," said Katie's mother, adding, "I need my sleep, too."

Mrs. Vannier's training as a teacher may be helping her understand the little newcomer. As a parochial school teacher, she taught classes in kindergarten through eighth grade.

Katie is well supplied with clothes as friends gave a shower when the Vanniers knew they were getting a little girl about 21 months old. "They seem able to guess the ages of the abandoned babies pretty well — they say within five weeks," she related.

Both families started the adoption process the beginning of the year with the Michigan Department of Social Services. When the program ended in mid-year for lack of funds, it was taken over

Township opts to stay with ambulance plan

After considering joint service with the City of Plymouth, the Northville Township board last week elected to stay with its original plan to join with the city, Novi and Farmington to solicit regional ambulance service proposals.

The township board decision, reached in special session Thursday night, effectively brings both Northvilles into the Novi-Farmington regional plan, since city council had already taken similar action contingent on the township's joining.

Administrative review of the alternative — contracting with Huron Valley Ambulance, a firm recently selected by the city of Plymouth — produced a recommendation to stay with the regional plan generated by an ad hoc committee representing the four communities.

Clerk Susan Heintz said she, business manager David Lelko and city manager Steven Walters met Wednesday afternoon with Huron Valley ambulance company representatives and city of Plymouth officials to discuss the idea of regional emergency medical service including Plymouth, both Northvilles and other communities.

"They (Huron Valley) effectively said they don't want to service the Oakland County communities — essentially, they don't want to cross the county boundary at Eight Mile Road, though they would make consideration for the city of Northville," Heintz explained.

Possible difficulties with the Plymouth plan included a legal challenge to that city's contract with Huron Valley ambulance. The city presently offers emergency service through its fire department, and the employees of that department have protested the city's decision to switch to a private provider.

Moreover, Huron Valley Ambulance does not yet have licensing to operate Advanced Life Support (ALS)-type units in western Wayne County. The Washtenaw County firm, associated with St. Joseph Hospital in Ypsilanti, would have to obtain licensing from both a western Wayne organization and, for the city, Oakland County.

Heintz and Lelko both said that the requirements contained in the proposal request document (specifying terms to potential bidders) drafted by the ad hoc committee have advantages over the Huron Valley proposal.

"There's nothing to stop (Huron Valley) from submitting a proposal to the Novi group," Heintz told board members, "although they said they didn't want to do that."

Racetrack appropriations include $550,000 to city

While betting at Northville Downs was down somewhat in November, totals for the Jackson meet still are "way up from a year ago," City Manager Steven Walters reported to city council Monday night.

Council members also were encouraged about the future of House Bill 6153 on racetrack appropriations. Passed in the House, it was approved by the Senate just before it adjourned last Friday.

Lauding "diligent work" by Representative Jack Kirksey, R-Livonia, Northville, Mayor Paul Vernon commented that "it even is expected the governor will sign it."

The bill to make appropriations for the Department of Agriculture for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1983, stipulates the $2,195,269 will be distributed in specified grants to Livonia, Hazel Park, Northville, Saginaw and Jackson. The Department of Agriculture receives horse racing revenues in the state and distributes grants back to the communities in which tracks are located. These funds are to be used for expenses incurred by having the track in the community and include police and fire protection.

Northville is slated to receive $550,249.77.

Hazel Park and Livonia are listed to get $687,947 each. Saginaw's allocation is $152,006 while Jackson's is $110,765.

In a communication to Walters, Vernon and city council sent last Friday by Kirksey, he said Governor William Milliken's office has "indicated there will not be any problem in signing of the bill."

He warned, however, "it is important for us to remember that House Bill 6153 only appropriates the funds but does not guarantee that all of the funds promised will actually be received."

"As you know from past experience, these funds are very likely to be considered for significant reductions by executive order of the governor's office. We all understand that this is a very real possibility."

Kirksey anticipated that when James Blanchard takes office he will have to sponsor some form of increased taxation along with a reduced appropriation from the existing budget.

"The racetrack funds, although not tax dollars and certainly a well-deserved reimbursement to the cities involved, are nevertheless extremely vulnerable to political intervention," explained Kirksey.

As city council members have indicated during this year's cuts in anticipated returns, the problem, as cited again by Kirksey, "is that only a few legislators have a real interest in this funding to racetrack cities (approximately six representatives of 110 and three or four senators)."

"The majority of legislators look at the total money appropriated," he continued, "and see it as a source of funds for some special activity that they wish to promote."

Kirksey, who no longer will represent Northville in the legislature when it goes into session next year due to redistricting, has assured the city that he will continue to give the matter "top priority to ensure that this source of funding continues at least at its present level." He added that he expects to receive support in this from Representative-elect Gerald Law.

Holloway landfill expansion heard

Most persons living in the area of the Holloway Sand and Gravel landfill at Six Mile and Napier in Salem Township do not want the landfill expanded.

About 20 residents of the area spoke against the landfill at the December 13 public hearing held by the Salem Township Planning Commission.

Charles McGee, manager for Holloway who presented the expansion plan, was the only one who spoke in favor of Holloway's plan to expand the mining and landfill operation, which the company has run in the township for 17 years.

Holloway wants to expand the operation to an additional 168 acres lying west of the present landfill. In addition, the firm has requested a conditional use permit to construct an asphalt plant on the southern portion of the property.

The proposed landfill expansion is in an agricultural-residential zoning, while the asphalt plant would be located in an area currently zoned general industrial. According to the Salem zoning ordinance, both requests require conditional use permits within the current zoning.

The planning commission listened to the residents' comments on the proposal for more than 1½ hours before adjourning the public hearing. Planning Commission Chairperson Donald Riddering informed the public that the commission did not expect to make a recommendation on the requests in December but would meet on January 17 to discuss them further.

That January meeting will be open to the public, although not as a public hearing, and will begin at 8 p.m. at the township hall.

The final decision on the sand and gravel mining and landfill request lies with the township board after receiving the recommendation of the planning commission, according to the township zoning ordinance.

Floyd Taylor, Salem Township supervisor, said this week that the landfill expansion is shown on Washtenaw County's 10-year proposed solid waste plan. He also pointed out that a tentative agreement between the township and Holloway would add an additional $20,000 a year in inspection fees for the life of the mining and filling operation.

Holloway currently pays $35,000 per year to the township under the agreement to fill and build a ski slope at Six Mile and Napier. That project is slated for completion in 1987, when the ski slope would become township property.

McGee added that the agreement being worked out with the township would require Holloway to pave Napier between Five and Six Mile roads. It would also require Holloway to pave the road to the asphalt plant. All Salem Township residents would receive free dumping privileges under the proposed accord.

Some members of the audience said at the December 13 meeting that they questioned whether the ski slope would be useable if the expansion goes in west of it. They pointed to the large amount of plastic bags and paper that blow from the current landfill as a hazard to the slope if expansion occurs.

Other residents living close to the current site said they have had problems with their water and dry wells, which they attribute to the landfill. Still others cited the large number of trucks which traverse the roads in the vicinity as a problem to the safety and welfare of residents.

Larry Beemish of Napier said he had done his own survey and counted 785 southbound trucks and 690 northbound trucks in one day.

Charles Muntin of Six Mile charged that many of the trucks do not stop for the Napier and Six Mile intersection and are a hazard to safety. He noted that one Salem resident was killed in such an accident a few years ago.

Possible air pollution from the asphalt plant was cited as a detriment to the area. The possibility of trucks losing asphalt along the area roads, which would then be thrown up on cars, was also listed as a minus.

McGee told the group that all phases of the landfill would be monitored by the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and that the Environmental Protection Agency would insist on an odorless plant. In addition, he said OSHA would set noise standards of 90 decibels at the property and would also require control of dust. "We can't have dust and there will be no smell," McGee stated.

The audience responded to this with laughter.

Ronald Shoebridge, owner of Salem Airport, which lies farther to the west and across Six Mile from the landfill, wrote a letter stating that he views the possible expansion as a hazard to aviation and thus to residents. He cited the height of the present landfill, congregating of birds and blowing trash as some of the hazards.

McGee had noted at the outset of his presentation that the company would be required to comply with all DNR regulations pertaining to airport locations, height of landfills and other hazards and that there would be a meeting with the DNR on whether or not expansion would create a hazard.

Most residents pointed out that they had "put up with the landfill for 17 years" and that they felt it was "about time for someone else" to have it.

Riddering reiterated that the planning commission is merely a recommending body when it comes to the sand and gravel mining permit which is connected with the landfill operation. He said the township board has the final say on the permit and the agreement with the company if the request is approved. He noted that the conditional use permit for the asphalt plant can be granted by the commission since it is a use allowed in general industrial zoning in Salem Township.

Township Board Member Ferman Rohraff, who is the board's liaison to the planning commission, noted that the proposed expansion is in Washtenaw County's solid waste plan. "The county must have a plan and if we don't allow it the DNR will set it up and we will have no control over it (running of the landfill)," he said.

Lucas talks to city, township

Wayne County executive-elect William Lucas wasted little time in making sure western Wayne County officials, including those in Northville, get the idea he wants their support.

Lucas came to Northville December 7, meeting first with township, then with city officials as part of a series of "get-acquainted" meetings in the area.

Supervisor John MacDonald reported to the board of trustees that Lucas spent 45 minutes with MacDonald, Clerk Susan Heintz and business manager David Lelko.

MacDonald said he was impressed with Lucas' knowledge of local issues, especially the senior citizens village project planned for former Wayne County property. "He is very much in favor of that, and of releasing other unused county land to get it on the tax rolls," the supervisor said.

He also said Lucas avoided direct mention of a group of 13 western Wayne County officials (including Northville's) banded around Livonia mayor Edward McNamara, although MacDonald indicated it was evident Lucas' visit here was motivated by the political rivalry for power between Lucas and his primary election opponent.

Hearing of Lucas' support for release of county properties, trustee James Nowka, long a supporter of recreation programs, asked MacDonald to insure that Lucas learns of the need for a permanent soccer field in the township.

BACKACHE WOES

Q. If I had a bad tooth extracted do you think it would help my backache?

A. No. Years ago dentists and physicians believed systemic diseases could be caused by "bad" teeth. Today they know better, but this misconception is still popular with the general public. Pain from a tooth can be referred to the jaw, the head and the ears, but it can't be the cause of pain in a remote part of the body. Besides the fact that a healthy tooth should never be extracted, it is best not to ignore a medical problem like backache by assuming your teeth are the cause.

Recreation commissioners firm up fund-raising ideas

Recreation commissioners started firming up plans for various fund-raising ideas to help reduce the community building deficit at their meeting last week Wednesday.

Two of the seven ideas discussed will be taking place in the near future. Although not actually a fund-raiser, the Our Lady of Victory girls' basketball tournament to take place at the community building December 26 and 29 will help provide rental money to the department during one of its slowest periods.

At the time of last week's meeting, director Ed Kricitz reported OLV coach Ed Kritch was trying to get a girls' tournament scheduled. Since then, the tournament has been finalized.

This year's tournament will be with four teams, while next year Kritch hopes to expand to eight teams, Kricitz said.

The OLV boys' team already is slated to play in another tournament this season, but it is hoped the boys will have a tournament of their own next year at the community building, Kricitz added.

In years past, it (community building) has been a cobweb," Kricitz cracked. "This (tournament) is a way to stabilize it during the slow period."

Another fund-raiser which will donate money to the building deficit is the Northville Jaycees "Millionaires' Party" tentatively slated for February.

Jaycee member Bruce Hackmann made a brief presentation to the commission stating the group will be donating 50 percent of the proceeds to the recreation department, 40 percent to the township fire department and 10 percent to its own group.

"All we ask is for your support, and that each member on the commission sell five to 10 tickets for the organization," Hackmann said.

The cost of the ticket is $5 which provides for $4 in betting chips and $1 for a drink, Hackmann said.

The goal of the group is to have at least 250 people in hopes of raising around $3,000.

"I think it's nice project for you to do for us," commissioner Carolann Ayers commended.

Commissioner James Armstrong motioned the commission waive the rental fee for the night of Millionaires' Party because of the donation being made to the department. It passed unanimously.

One idea the commission committed itself to working on is a raffle of prizes in order to raise some money for the community building.

Commissioner Gary Sixt originally talked about having a car raffle in which either a new Ford Escort, Mustang or EXP would be the one and only grand prize. With the Escort being the lowest priced car ($5,800), Sixt presented his plan on what the commission could possibly make.

He explained each commissioner would either have to sell 112 $10 tickets or 50 $25 tickets (which is actually three $10 tickets) in order to make a profit of around $4,000.

"Our only concern is when do we have to pay the dealer, and what are the legal ramifications," Sixt added.

If the commission is falling short in its sales, Sixt said the drawing could be delayed 45-90 days in order to help meet the cost and, hopefully, gain a profit.

However, some of the commission members expressed reservations about getting a car to raffle off.

Commissioner Liz McCarville did not think it was possible, and said she would have a hard time finding the people to buy the tickets.

Ayers said the commission is a small group to sell tickets, and doesn't have the manpower of some other groups like the Jaycees.

Commissioner Doug Drapel thought it would be better to have a number of prizes — such as dinners for two or televisions — and could have flyers made to be put in the stores which donated prizes.

It was pointed out by Hackmann, after being asked by the commission, that the commission would have to make some kind of expenditure to secure the prizes.

Sixt explained he didn't care what kind of raffle the commission ran, just so long as he had their commitment to get involved in the project in some way.

"Let's don't make a contact unless we're going to do it," Sixt said.

"I'm looking for your commitment," he added.

The commission then responded it would be committed to get behind this idea, at which point Sixt said he would develop new figures and plans to be presented and be acted upon at January's meeting.

McCarville also presented two other ideas to the commission, which it agreed to get started.

Her first idea is to have the "First Annual Athletic Day" on July 3 at Fish Hatchery Park prior to the 4th of July festivities. "I checked around to make sure I wasn't stepping on anyone's toes," she added.

There would be events for all ages running from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m. with a general fee being charged to enter, McCarville said.

There also could be a concession stand run by the commission, and it is planned to get other groups involved in entering events or running some type of concession, she added.

"This a good way to bring the township and city and other groups together," McCarville said.

Kricitz noted there is a similar event conducted in Grand Blanc by its recreation department. This year's event, he said, raised over $8,000.

McCarville also talked about selling frisbees with either a name or logo printed on the face. The frisbees could be sold for around $3, she added.

She also mentioned she was talking with the people at Central Distributors about their hosting a Budweiser softball tournament in which proceeds would be donated to the department. She added she was still getting more information to present at the January meeting.

One idea scrapped by the commission was bingo. The big hang up in starting the project was money.

There were other factors cited by the commission for putting bingo on the backburner for now — including rules interpretation and manpower help.

"Personally, I feel there are two stumbling blocks," chairman L.T. Sylvestre said.

"How do we fund for the initial outlay for equipment? And where do we come up with the manpower for 50-52 weeks a year?" he added.

"I don't think its feasible for us to do it," he continued.

"If we were financially sound, where we could invest $4,000, it would be worth the gamble. But, we have too many things going against us," Sixt said.

"But, I would like to keep looking at this either monthly or quarterly," Sixt said.

The newly formed Northville Gators United States Swim Club also has made a proposal to help with the community building deficit, Kricitz said.

The Gators, he explained, would like to stage a weekend mini-meet (Saturday and Sunday), and donate 50 percent of the proceeds to the recreation department.

All that would be required of the commission is its help in various duties in staging the meet in order to get the proceeds, Kricitz added.

In another matter discussed by the commission, it was decided Kricitz would sit down with the finance committee to determine a spending policy. Members of the finance committee are John Buckland and Jerry Mittman.

Sylvestre said, since the commission does not have a spending policy, it would be a good idea to get one established. He reported Kricitz agreed to the idea.

Schoolcraft wins grant for robotics lab

By TIM RICHARD

Schoolcraft College has won a $104,000 state grant to equip a robotics laboratory by next fall, President Richard McDowell announced this week.

Under Schoolcraft's program, students will learn not just to operate "end arm" robots but to program them, according to Dr. Conway Jeffress, vice president for instruction.

The community college's robotics program will begin in January with laboratory sessions in the Applied Sciences Building starting in fall.

"The three lecture-type robotic courses which we are offering in January are all fully subscribed," Jeffress said.

So it appears that not only is there adequate promise of future employment, but there is more than adequate interest on the part of students."

Committee of the state Department of Education headed by Director Philip Runkel approved Schoolcraft's laboratory grant last Friday, McDowell said.

"It's part of the $134 million community colleges' appropriation," McDowell said. "The legislature threw in $3 million for community colleges for economic development."

Jeffress said "most of the $104,000 requested will go to purchase 12 computer stations, six mobile robots, one stationary Rhino robot and supporting software and laboratory materials."

Schoolcraft's contribution is about $8,500 of in-kind services — specifically some released time for faculty member Jerry Wale and modifications of an existing laboratory to accommodate the new equipment.

"We could fully admit students in the next few months," Jeffress said.

Schoolcraft will produce "a more flexible student who can handle any computerized equipment," Jeffress told the board of trustees last week.

"Unlike our neighboring colleges, we have not concentrated on 'end arm' hydraulics or other mechanical aspects of robotics. We have instead concentrated our efforts on the control systems which govern the action of robots or other programmable machine tools.

"While students will have an appropriate array of courses in electronics, statistics, manufacturing, hydraulic and pneumatics, the focus will be on programming mechanical devices.

"The college's needs assessment study — along with those produced by Oakland Community College, Monroe, Washtenaw and the University of Michigan — support the need for this kind of training.

"We see our program as producing a more flexible graduate less dependent on the specific recovery of the auto industry for future employment.

In other business, the board of trustees last week:

- Changed a class scheduling policy to allow the administration more leeway in canceling a class for which enrollment is small. The previous policy forbade canceling a class of 12 persons enrolled.

- Renewed a policy authorizing waivers of tuitions for students 60 years of age or older who meet college admission requirements.

- Renewed the college's membership in the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments for a membership fee of $400. Schoolcraft is one of only a handful of educational institutions which belongs to SEMCOG. Vice chairperson Laura Toy was named SEMCOG delegate and trustee Sharon Sarris was named alternate.

- Renewed its membership in the Association of Governing Boards of Universities and Colleges for a fee of $640. AGB provides seminars for new trustees, chief executives and board chairpersons; provides publications to member colleges and helps shape federal legislation.

- Accepted gifts of $100 from John G. Cluett of Livonia for use in the athletic department's soccer program and $35 from John H. Cruse of Livonia whose donation will be matched by Michigan Bell Telephone Company.

Township treasurer unhappy with court financial changes

Recent adjustments in 35th District Court financial procedures and the court's 1983 budget proposal were less-than-hospitably received by township treasurer Richard Henningsen this month.

The treasurer has grudgingly accepted the court's intention to cease making quarterly payments of revenues to communities. As explained by court administrator George Wiland, the court plans to simplify its bookkeeping and remedy a cash flow problem by retaining court revenues (from fines and court cost penalties imposed) and applying them against each community's court costs.

In the end, excess revenues will be paid to the communities or shortfalls will be billed to them. At present, the five supporting communities receive quarterly payments and must make quarterly payments back to the court.

Henningsen was less accepting of the budget document Wiland notified him the court would adopt if objection is not lodged by January 1. He said it includes a large raise for Wiland and, overall, represents and eight percent rise in court costs. He said the township share of costs, as represented in the budget, far exceeds the level of funding generated in revenues at present when the township is already exceeding expectations.

"We're in there for $159,000," Henningsen said, "and that's way out of line with what we're paying now."

Supervisor John MacDonald, who sits on a court oversight committee, assured Henningsen his complaint would be forwarded and that the budget was not going to be approved in the form submitted by Wiland.

City council members received notice of the court's anticipated payments and revenues at the December 6 session.

The amended budget for 1982-83 shows court revenues to the city at $60,000 and city contributions to the court at $78,000.

Students favor conservatives in mock election

A general trend toward more conservative political views among college students was evidenced in mock elections conducted in the political science classes taught by township resident Larry VanderMolen (below) at Schoolcraft College December 6-13.

Area politicians and members of the press remarked on the conservative shift as they observed the mock campaigns for governor such as that between LaJean Seibert, Lisa Judge and Michael Glasser (left to right, at right) December 9.

Seibert, most conservative of the three, won by a wide margin, perhaps assisted by the campaign "literature" in the form of cookies given members of the mid-morning class (below right). Students debated tax revisions, education funding, management of Great Lakes waters, jobs creation, and transportation issues.

VanderMolen said he conducts surveys of his students each year and that the subjective judgement of conservative tendencies is borne out in the survey results. "I can't speak for what is happening at the large universities," he said, "but they are definitely growing more conservative at this school, in my classes." Record photos by John Galloway

Township police, fire chiefs buy, fix vehicles

Northville Township's 1983-84 fiscal year may be more than three months away, but the police and fire chiefs are already busy making sure they are prepared with the necessary vehicles to do their jobs.

Police chief Kenneth Hardesty received authority to order two replacement patrol cars at a cost not to exceed $20,000 at the township board of trustees meeting December 9. The department regularly replaces two cars each year, complying with a union contract requirement that patrol vehicles not exceed 60,000 miles before replacement.

Hardesty was not quite finished reviewing bid documents for the purchase, but told the board he expected to buy Chevrolets or Fords, which he said were comparable in their performance.

He said Monday he has ordered two Chevrolet Impalas from Lou LaRiche Chevrolet in Plymouth, based upon having received a "better price" after all equipment was installed than was submitted from McDonald Ford in Northville.

The cars ordered contain the usual complement of heavy duty police equipment such as suspension, tires, brakes, alternators and radiators. They will replace one Chevrolet and one Plymouth now in service effective with the new fiscal year next April.

By that time, fire chief Robert Toms told the board, he expects to have completed this year's major vehicle improvement program — replacement of the engine in the department's ladder truck.

A used diesel engine was purchased earlier in the year and Toms asked for, and received, up to $4,000 to have the engine installed at the board's December meeting. The ladder truck is powered by an old V-12 Seagrave engine for which parts are difficult to find, Toms said. Installation of the V-8 diesel was estimated to cost $3,200 last March when Toms was preparing this year's budget, and federal grant funds were appropriated to accomplish the job.

Toms also gave the board early notice that he would like to include an expenditure of $20,000 to $25,000 for restoration work on engine 2101, the tank truck, in next year's budget. It would likely be the largest capital expense in his budget for the year, but Toms said the 1959 truck would be restored to as-new condition.

Restoration would be considerably cheaper than the cost of a new truck which would likely exceed $90,000, he said. With the new power train in the ladder truck and restoration of the tanker, he said, the department could dispose of some of its older vehicles which are still in service as "back-ups."

"We've accumulated a lot of vehicles over the years," Toms said. "Now we're ready to trim down our fire department so it's lean and mean and ready to go."

Sale of the V-12 Seagrave engine, which Toms and Assistant Chief Burt Sass said was a collector's item, plus sale of other vehicles next year would partially offset the capital expenses, Toms said.

Township boards get new members

New members will sit on the township board of review and board of canvassers next year. The township board of trustees appointed one new member to each body while reappointing current members to each.

New to the board of canvassers, which certifies elections, will be Jan Stevenson, owner of the Bookstop book store in Northville Plaza Mall. Stevenson replaces Jane Watts, who resigned her position because she moved out of town.

Reappointed were Charles George, Fred Embry and Charles Guider, creating the required balance of two Republican and two Democratic members, clerk Susan Heintz said.

Heintz also told the board the canvassers may have no work to do in the coming year, as there are no elections scheduled in 1983.

Charles George and Dorothy Johnson were both reappointed to the board of review, on the recommendation of supervisor John MacDonald. The board hears and rules on property tax appeals each March and December.

New to the board of review will be Russell D. Fogg of Iron Gate Court, a real estate agent with Thompson-Brown Company. He is presently studying for a degree in appraising.

MacDonald told board members he sees Fogg as "the real estate member" of the board of review and said he would like to have it be a policy that one person in real estate sit on the board each year, alternating the appointment among the various companies with representatives.

Fogg has been a resident of Northville 10 years, and is a member of the Lions Club and Knights of Columbus.

348-0744Attorney suggests city raise insurance limits

Warning that "personal injury awards in Wayne County civil litigation have literally 'gone through the roof' in the past 12 years, city attorney James R. Kohl has recommended to council that it raise its insurance limits.

The suggestion came as the city has been taking bids prior to its renewal date of January 12 on city policies.

Kohl recommended raising the coverage to at least $10,000,000, and, if economically feasible, said a $20,000,000 excess policy "would be worth while."

As the bids were studied at Monday night's council meeting, council member Paul Polino requested that City Manager Steven Walters get bids for the $20,000,000. It was agreed they would be available for the council to study at its January 3 session.

The council Monday was told that bids from five firms presently are being reviewed by insurance consultant Wade Waterman.

The decision had been made earlier this year to have Waterman review the insurance bids to avoid any possibility of the city encountering a situation similar to that in Troy. That city was sued for a police action and lost in court. Then Troy found it did not have the coverage it understood it did.

The insurance bids were received under categories of property risks, public liability and an (umbrella policy) for excess liability.

Bids have been received from Insurance Exchange, Advanced Underwriters, Griffin-Smaley, Maplewood Agency (current insurer) and Les Bowden.

Kohl told the council in a letter on the insurance bids that prior to 1970 there had not been a million dollar verdict. Since then, he said, "Wayne County juries are turning them out at a rate of at least one a month. An accident may well injure more than one person. Multiple claims from the same accident may have multimillion dollar exposure."

City clerk Joan McAllister confirmed Tuesday that the current city coverage under its excess umbrella is $10,000,000.

During competition for the bids which were received December 16, the city received an objection from Maplewood Agency, the current insurer, on handling of the bidding process.

Red Cross seeks blood donations

Holiday time traditionally is a time of family gatherings and friends sharing the festive season. It is also a time of accidents and emergency surgery.

The American Red Cross Blood Service, Southeastern Michigan Region, reports it is also a time of decreased blood donations and the possibility of a critical blood shortage.

"Blood donations decrease during the holiday season because many businesses and industries which supply much of the blood collected for patient needs are closed during the week between Christmas and New Year's Day," said A. William Shafer, M.D., director of the regional blood services.

Again this year, the Red Cross will sponsor Save-A-Life Sundays December 26 and January 2 to avert a shortage of blood. The Save-A-Life program was started in 1974 as a one-day program and expanded to two days in 1979 to help meet increased blood needs.

All Red Cross regional blood centers will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. both days. Nearest center to Northville is on Five Mile in Livonia. To make an appointment call 422-2787.

According to Dr. Shafer, there is generally a dramatic increase in elective surgery after the holiday season. Combined with the reduced donations, this could create a major shortage in the blood supply.

Metropark offers nature programs

Two nature programs have been slated by the Kensington Metropark near Milford to help kick off the new year.

"Tracks — Stories in Snow" is a family nature walk covering one and a half miles starting at the Nature Center at 2 p.m. Sunday, January 2.

Naturalist Mark Szabo will help participants identify and interpret animal tracks during this one and a half hour program.

"Plants in Winter" is a one and half hour family nature walk which will start at the Nature Center at 10 a.m. Sunday, January 2.

Szabo will discuss the beauty and uses to be found in the stark remains of plants in the winter season during a one and a half mile walk through the woods.

Both programs are free, but require advance registration. For more information, call 685-1561. A vehicle entry permit is required. The cost is $7 annual or $2 for both senior citizens and daily.

With tobogganing and sledding season just around the corner, Kensington Metropark chief park ranger Howard Chanter has listed some safety tips that should be followed.

First off the list is the person should know the area being used. Hidden hazards should be checked for as snow may hide logs, stumps, stones or fences. Also, the snow condition should be checked as frozen snow and ice can cut like broken glass, Chanter explained.

A person should not go down a hill in which he/she cannot see the entire length of it or use areas or hills where there are bumps or drop-off areas, he said. Naturally, read and obey posted rules and signs, Chanter added.

Using proper equipment is a must, he noted. A person should wear warm clothing and footwear in addition to protecting their face with ear muffs, gloves and a scarf, Chanter said.

A good toboggan pad should be securely attached at all times, and the toboggan should be checked for broken or cracked boards after each run, Chanter explained.

Not only should there be proper equipment, but it should be used properly, he added. A toboggan is hard to steer, especially on hard-packed snow, Chanter noted. Toboggans or sleds should not be overloaded, and a person should keep both arms and legs inside the toboggan or sled, he said.

The area also should be used safely, Chanter said. Sleds and toboggans should not be used on the same runs because sleds cut ruts and make it difficult to keep toboggans running smoothly, he said. Toboggans pack snow and make it difficult to steer a sled, he added.

In heavy use areas, persons should allow the group ahead of them sufficient time to get out of the way before starting downhill, he said, because once started downhill, there really is no method of stopping.

Use the marked returns to go back up the hill for another run, Chanter said. Get out of the way as soon as the toboggan or sled stops, and be alert for other groups coming down the hill after you, he added.

Council reviews parking costs

Northville City Council Monday night reviewed parking assessment costs and was asked by Mayor Paul Vernon as to how to consider Cady Street expansion "as soon as possible."

The parking assessment was left at the present rate of $1,800 by unanimous action of the council. The rate the city charges businesses for parking space credit is reviewed in June and December.

Through the assessments the city has paid for the parking deck and improvements to city parking lots. Businesses coming into the city are assessed space charges depending on amount of traffic they generate.

The Cady Street area has been targeted as the next area for additional parking.

Vernon noted that the city is continuing to attract a large number of visitors who shop and eat here. "Favorable comments continue to pour in," he observed as he mentioned that on a recent evening he was unable even to find a parking space in the deck off Mary Alexander Court.

Council member Paul Folino, who confessed he "prefers to try to park right on Main Street," said he had experienced difficulty recently in doing so but agreed "it's good that there's so much business."

City approves parking

Action was taken to permit parking on the east side of Wing Street south of Main Monday night by city council.

It acted on recommendation of Police Chief Rodney Cannon who recommended that the east side of South Wing, from 30 feet south of West Main to 30 feet north of West Cady be posted as a two-hour parking zone. Approval was given unanimously.

A "no parking anytime" zone on the south side of West Cady between South Center and South Wing and on the east side of South Wing from West Cady north for 20 feet was approved.

The council earlier had asked Cannon for a recommendation of parking for South Wing. Presently both sides of the street in the block south of Main are posted as prohibiting parking. Cannon told council, in response to questions on street striping, that Hutton and Dunlap are wide enough for proper traffic flow and are striped accordingly until downtown reconstruction is completed.

The striping of Randolph at Eight Mile, he stated, has been extended to the tip of Eight Mile so westbound Randolph at Eight traffic will not block the eastbound Randolph traffic turning left from westbound Eight Mile. This, he noted, had created a problem prior to striping.

"In reviewing these areas," he told council, "I do not see any traffic hazard, it merely requires a driver to be alert."

Downs rearranges schedule

It's especially because families come to us during their most difficult times that we feel our responsibility so deeply. We've formed some very close friendships here and after being a part of this community for so many years, our commitment to its people is stronger than ever.

Just as our own families know they can count on the support and friendship of our neighbors, we're proud that families here know they can feel confident in the services we provide.

Police Blotter

Arrest warrant sought in assault

In the township...

Police are seeking an arrest warrant for a 24-year-old Grace Street resident suspected of assault and battery at the Bee Hive Arcade December 15.

A Bee Hive co-owner filed a complaint after the man allegedly struck him in the head when asked to leave the Seven Mile Road arcade. The complainant told police the man had been loitering on the premises the day before and was asked to leave and told not to return.

According to the complaint filed by the partners in the concern and essentially confirmed by three witnesses, the man entered the arcade about 7:30 p.m. and the victim immediately approached him and asked him to leave.

An argument ensued, became heated, and the man struck the victim in the head, knocking his glasses off, according to witnesses. The victim's partner came to his aid, and they forced the man out the front door. According to the report, the suspect shouted threats from his car as he left.

Police had not yet obtained an arrest warrant, but believed they had a positive identification of the suspect.

A 68-year-old Southfield man was arrested and held overnight in the township police department's detoxification cell December 18 after he was arrested for drunk driving at the scene of an injury accident.

According to police reports, the man was driving southbound on Northville Road at 12:20 a.m. and, just south of Seven Mile, struck a car driven by a Garden City woman. The woman had stopped her car in preparation to make a left turn into the Gas-N-Go station on the corner. Her car was hit in the rear. She complained of a headache and said her head had hit the steering wheel during the crash.

The reporting officer noticed the Southfield driver was staggering at the scene and appeared to be intoxicated. The man told police he had been to the racetrack and had been drinking some. He also said he had been driving too fast and was unable to stop when he saw the stopped car ahead of him.

A half-full open bottle of vodka was found in the car glovebox, which the driver claimed he did not know was there. He could not recite the alphabet nor could he stand on one foot without losing his balance. Breath tests at the station revealed blood alcohol levels of .17 and .16. The man was cited for operating a vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants and for transporting open liquor. He is to appear in 35th District Court January 18.

A Hickory Ridge resident reported $420 damage to his lawn and landscaping December 13. The man told police someone had driven a car across his lawn and bushes. He said he suspected a relative with whom he had had an argument the night before, but said he would not press charges unless police discovered a witness to the incident.

...In the city

Two suspects are being questioned in connection with an incident in which a 1972 Oldsmobile Cutlass was damaged while parked on East Main Street sometime December 11, city police report. Damage was placed at $300.

Damaged were the car's four tires, valued at $200, and the rear window, valued at $100, police said.

According to the report, police responded to the incident and were informed a vehicle suspected in the incident was heading westbound on Fairbrook.

An officer pursued the car and stopped it at Clement and Sunset. However, the driver and the passenger denied any knowledge of the incident, the report said.

MSP urges highway safety improvement

With Michigan accident records so far indicating a traffic death toll below 2,000 for the eighth time in the last nine years, State Police Director Colonel Gerald Hough urged motorists and pedestrian cooperation in extending this improvement in highway safety through the holidays to year end.

Hough again emphasized that the holiday season provides an especially appropriate time for drivers and pedestrians to show goodwill and concern for safety by exerting the extra attention needed for traffic accident prevention. Be sure to make use of the protection offered by seat belts, he said.

He cautioned that general holiday excitement can distract motorists from giving full attention to hazards of reduced visibility, snowy or icy roads and excessive speeds.

He advised motorists to refrain from driving when and if their holiday celebration includes any immoderate drinking.

To date, data indicates Michigan's traffic fatality toll will be, provisionally, around 1,430. Last year's actual total was 1,589.

In the 1964-73 period, tolls were over 2,000 with the record worst being 1969 when 2,487 died on Michigan roads.

The holiday periods this year will be 54 hours long, extending from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday for both the Christmas and New Year periods. Traffic accidents claimed 15 lives during Christmas and 17 during New Year's in 1981's 78 hour periods.

All state police districts and posts will operate highway patrols as manpower permits.

State police remind persons of potential thin ice dangers

State police have issued a seasonal reminder of the potential danger to persons who venture out on-to thin ice in early winter.

Department Director Colonel Gerald Hough noted water accident statistics have shown that non-boating accidents each year include some deaths caused by falls through ice.

Because ice may sometimes look stronger than it is, police advise outdoor enthusiasts that ice thickness should be tested for safety whenever there is any doubt. Be wary of areas where moving water under ice may keep the surface dangerously thin, Hough said, noting this would generally be on streams, rivers or over spring areas of ponds and at the inlets and outlets of lakes.

In view of holiday school vacations, Hough urged parents to be especially vigilant in warning children about the dangers of outdoor ice, suggesting supervision in play areas as necessary.

To safely bear the weight of individuals or small groups of persons, outdoor ice should be two-to-four inches thick.

Florist decorates his own home in musical Christmas theme

With preparations for the Christmas and New Year holidays in full swing, it's no wonder florist Jack Smith is hip-deep in poinsettias, garlands and evergreens.

Smith, a Northville township resident and owner of French's Flowers and Gifts in Livonia, admits that despite the economic crunch, his business has been steady with many requests for personal home decorating.

"This is the most beautiful time of year to decorate," Smith says. "We've been doing a lot of homes in the area and in Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills."

Among the homes decorated by Smith this holiday season was the White House. For the second year, Smith was among the florists asked to decorate the Reagan White House for Christmas.

In fact, he only recently returned from Washington, D.C., having spent a week in the White House flower shop working with teams of florists under the direction of White House florist Dorothy Temple.

Smith explains that due to a state dinner, this year's preparations for decorating the White House got underway a little later than usual.

While the delay caused him little problem, Smith says the only inconvenience was finding time to decorate his own home.

However, with the help of his colleagues and family — most notably his son Todd, 19, who is following in his father's occupational footsteps — Smith has completed decorations on his ranch home in North Beacon Woods.

The house, located on Woodbend, has been the Smith residence for slightly more than a year. The family's former

Township home's festive with trees, wreathing

Northville Commons home was open on the 1978 Northville Home Tour. As one would expect, the decorator's touch prevails throughout the house. Most notable among the decorations is the Christmas tree. Smith explains that each year the family chooses a different theme for its tree. This year's 12-foot tree, purchased at Detroit's Eastern Market, is centered around a music theme. Branches are adorned with sheet music, tiny instruments and plaid ribbons with strings of beads intertwined. Smith explains that everybody in the store helped in putting up decorations.

He points out that all flowers go together and are color coordinated with the house furnishings. "The decorations really conform to the house," Smith said. Noting the family does a lot of entertaining throughout the holidays, Smith points out the decorations are functional without being overbearing. Poinsettias abound throughout the home, gracing the foyer and living room fireplace. An evergreen wreath adorned with gold horns, ribbons, pine cones and tiny lights rests above the fireplace and is surrounded with garlands tied at each corner with a red bow. Garlands and greens are used throughout the home. Intertwined around the dining room chandelier is a rope of greens. Though the roping looks real, Smith explains it is made of polyester. He notes that the roping is very popular this year — not only because it looks real but also is fire retardant. Several small arrangements are placed in various rooms throughout the house. Smith also notes there are a few decorations which are used every year — regardless of the decorating theme. Most notably, he points to the family creche and a group of carolers — both have been used since the Smith children were youngsters. The outside the Smith home almost is as decorated as the inside. The Smith's son Todd decorated the outside of the home with evergreen wreaths adorned with blue ribbons and tiny lights. Smith notes that his son now supervises all outdoor decorating for his shop. A 25-year veteran of the florist business, Smith is an active member of the American Institute of Floral Designers and a national trustee for the American Academy of Florists. He has helped decorate the White House the past two years and worked on the Smithsonian Institute's "A Victorian Extravaganza" in 1980 and on Ronald Reagan's inaugural.

Correction

Comments regarding election of planning commission officers and other January agenda items were incorrectly attributed to township planning commission chairman Kenneth McLarty in a story about a Seven Mile rezoning petition in last week's Record. McLarty was not in attendance at the public hearing reported. Vice chairman William Bohan presided at the meeting, and made the statements attributed to McLarty. The Record regrets this error and any inconvenience it may have caused.

NHS energy program not conducted professionally

To the Editor:
Regarding the energy audit at Northville High School:
As a school taxpayer, I don't feel the Energy Conservation Program at N.H.S. was conducted in a professional manner. Northville High School officials received an Energy Grant to have a Technical Assistance Audit to assist them in an engineering study to conserve energy.
Northville High School received a 50-50 matched grant; $7,500 federal money matched by $7,500 school money.
My understanding is, if you spend tax money, the project should go out for bids. This is stated in the National Energy Conservation Policy Act, Title III, Public Law 95-619.
First question: did N.H.S. officials ask for bids?
I thought $15,500 was for a complete audit. If I read the paper correctly, N.H.S. paid an additional $9,125 for engineering fees. Question number two: is this true?
Harley, Ellington, Pierce and Yee, I am sure, is a very reputable architectural firm. Did Burton Knighton need an architectural firm to bring to his attention the fact that the caulking has dried, cracked and was missing in some places, and that there was snow coming in around the curtain wall.

In times like this, I would think a school maintenance department would have weatherstripped the exterior doors without being told. Extreme air infiltration obviously had to be uncomfortable for the teachers and students. Question number three: what are Burton Knighton's duties?
I consider myself knowledgeable about boilers. With our past experience with boilers, we have seen them operate efficiently for 50 years. Seventy percent efficiency shows neglect. Knighton's department should be responsible for testing boilers for efficiency at least twice a year. Analyzing a boiler with the right equipment takes about 15 minutes. Question number four: who is responsible for equipment maintenance? Obviously, someone is not doing his job.
Thermal heat loss through single-pane glass is rather small. In most schools, this will account for approximately two percent of the building's heat load. After caulking has been completed and air infiltration has been reduced, the heating energy use will also be reduced.
Therefore, payback time for double glazed windows will extend into several years. Question number five: would it be wise to spend $33,000 for a 10 year payback period, or spend the money on other energy saving projects with shorter returns on investments?

With all due respect to Ron Marketter, a Technical Assistance Engineering Energy Study should include more than caulking, weatherstripping and replacing windows.
What about the mechanical equipment of a school built in 1958. I am sure some of the equipment is obsolete; controls need updating, and ventilating systems not functioning properly need attention. This is what an engineering study should reveal, not things so obvious that the students could report.
If Mr. George Bell will answer these few questions in a public statement, we as taxpayers will remain proud of the Northville School District.
Sincerely,
Bud Kunz

Michigan homeland," page 13-A, The Northville Record, December 1, 1982), sent to us by friends in Northville, there is little question that the Ayeast's encountered a succession of unpleasant incidents and situations during their Texas venture.
Also former Michiganders, we have found an enjoyable and interesting life during our four years here, which in addition to suitable employment now includes a lively variety of cultural and social activities and these include many Texans who have become friends.
Nor is our circumstance unique. We know numerous people who have come here from other locales, including Michigan, and have likewise settled into pleasant, comfortable lives.

Of course, some readjustment is required. Of course, there are some things one doesn't care for, and perhaps never will. Yet are not "rat races" to be found in most busy areas of the country, as compared with bucolic Novi? Why pick on Texas?
Is not Florida also crawling with insects? Those who move there hire exterminators, as we do. Do not Ohio farmers and Wyoming ranchers also prefer pickups? Shall we legislate that they and Texans instead drive in sedans because we prefer them? Are not Tennessee hill people and Maine Yankees and Philadelphia or San Francisco society types also cool to newcomers?
What is so different or deprecatory about Texans, then?

Actually, we find most Texans just as friendly and large-hearted as Michiganders. All in all, Texas is okay. So, indeed, is Michigan, where a part of our hearts will always remain and where, perhaps, we shall also return one day.
So, it's not that we've turned into renegades. We simply enjoy it here. Accordingly, we find your article to be over-generalized, one-sidedly negative, and essentially inaccurate. Out of fairness we believe you owe it to your readers also to describe the other side of the Texas coin. It is a far brighter one.
Yours sincerely,
J.K. Hillstrom

Township board may rejoin MTA

Northville Township's search for a municipal organization to serve its needs may come full circle next year if the reception given a Michigan Townships Association representative this month is indicative of board of trustee attitudes.
The township dropped its MTA membership two years ago, largely out of a concern that the organization was dominated by sparsely populated rural townships with interests different from Northville's.
Saying it could not afford membership in two such organizations, the board joined a new organization of larger townships called the Chartered and Urban Townships' Association (CUTA), but MacDonald said at this month's board meeting he will recommend that membership not be renewed.
Township officials have also eyed the services offered by the Michigan Municipal League (MML), which usually represents cities. While the services are attractive, all three organizations often lobby on behalf of their members regarding legislation in Lansing and Washington. The interests of cities sometimes conflict with those of townships.

So, when MTA's associate director John LaRose appeared before the board December 9 to ask "what have we done wrong" and invite the township to rejoin his organization, his proposal was not rejected out of hand.
"We're talking to 24 non-member townships, essentially trying to figure out what we're doing or not doing that makes you think you don't want to belong," LaRose said. While most such organizations offer information regarding legislation affecting their members, management and fiscal advice, group insurance and similar programs, and lobby on their members' behalfs, LaRose cited several MTA programs he considered above-average.
"Our Capitol Currents newsletter is, we think, the best of its kind in the state of Michigan, and is fastest reporting the news, our management forums can provide able assistance, of course, there is our legal service and our lobbying benefits are better than ever before," he said.

Advised by MacDonald that there was a desire to have MTA attack the problems faced by larger, urban townships, LaRose said he knew of the perception that MTA was deficient in this area, but believes the concern has been addressed.
Among lobbying efforts of the past year, LaRose said MTA supported fire insurance legislation that could save townships money, revised property tax administration fee legislation and opposed summer school tax collection legislation now on the governor's desk.
The township's dues to MTA (figures on a population basis) would be $1,500, the top limit of the dues schedule, LaRose said, but indicated some reduction of that amount might be available in the first year the township rejoins the organization.
MacDonald told LaRose MTA membership would be considered early next year as the board drafts its 1983-84 fiscal year budget.

First step taken toward renovation

The most obvious problem plaguing the high school is energy, Bell noted. A comprehensive energy audit conducted at the high school revealed that approximately 11.5 percent of the high school's 1981 energy costs could be saved through improved energy saving measures.
During 1981, high school energy costs totaled $173,568. Bell noted that not only have high school energy costs put a hole in the school district's budget, but the problem has extended into the classroom.
"The money we spend on energy could be used on books and teachers," he noted.
Bell also pointed out that some of the school corridors have no heat at all, causing cold air to move through hallways and classrooms.
In addition to energy savings, Bell said that "a good share of the high school renovation will just be bringing the building up to code."

Some areas which will be studied include an improved fire alarm system, sprinkler system, replacement of single-pane windows with safety glass and the design of barrier-free facilities for handicapped.
In selecting Coquillard, Dolgner, Dundon and Argenta, Inc., the board pointed out the firm's previous experience in renovating Riverview Community High School — a building similar in both design and construction to Northville High School.
Board members also expressed their pleasure with the firm's previous experience in assisting with bond issue preparations and in working with community groups and school personnel.
Of the four firms making presentations, board trustee Glenna Davis said she felt Coquillard, Dolgner, Dundon and Argenta had "the most rapport with the people."
She also noted that having "Mr.

Former Michiganders find Texas enjoyable

Regarding the enclosed article ("Disillusioned 'Texans' return to Argenta living in the community is a real plus."

John Argenta, the firm's corporate treasurer and the architect who will be directing the NHS project, is a Byrne Drive resident.
Bell said a citizens' committee to work on the feasibility study likely will be formed sometime in January.

News from Lansing

By R. ROBERT GEAKE
State Senator

The news coming from our prisons these days is not good. We have barely recovered from the massive damage and bloodshed of the riots in Marquette, Jackson and Ionia. And now, we have received word from the federal government that Michigan prisons have failed miserably in conforming to U.S. requirements.
In fact, we could even lose state control of our corrections department if we don't remedy the health, safety and overcrowding problems cited by federal investigators.
Our state officials tell us that, once again, tensions are building within the prison walls and the atmosphere is ominous. Why is this happening?
Hindsight now tells us that the "get tough" vote at the polls in 1978 that rid our prison system of "good time" credits did not achieve what we set out to do. It did not, unfortunately, serve as a deterrent to crime.
In retrospect, it was a double-edged sword: first, it created longer terms which led to overcrowding; second, it took away the prisoners' incentives to stay out of trouble and the guards' power to reward and punish through "good time." Why should prisoners act judiciously when they must serve their full terms anyway?
I believe the voters had the best of intentions when they voted "yes" on Proposal "B" back in 1978. They were scared. Scared of being too easy on felons. Scared of seeing convicts back on the streets too soon. Scared that we aren't safe in our homes any more, let alone in the streets. But now it's time to reconsider.
The best solution to the problem, perhaps, would be to build new prisons. But the voters turned down that option in 1980, when they voted "no" on Proposal E. Too expensive. Why give them new fancy facilities with gyms and lounges to destroy? That rationale is perfectly understandable.
But let's face it: until we are able to revamp our prisons and convert empty

Trustees opt for original plan

Present in the audience were representatives of Community EMS, a Boisford Hospital subsidiary that is expected to bid on the Novi-Farmington-Northville regional plan. They told the board their interest was in "seeing if Huron Valley will be allowed to bid." Pointing out that the Washtenaw County organization does not have ALS licensing for Wayne or Oakland Counties and "can't really be sure of getting it" the Community EMS employees said requirements for such licenses differ from county to county. "The Washtenaw and Oakland license provisions are not really compatible," they said.
ALS service is required in the request for proposals, with specific reference to state and Oakland County regulations.

The proposal document, seeking a five-year contract, also requires the successful bidder to maintain at least three locations from which EMS vehicles are to operate within the four communities.
In response to board of trustee questions, Lelko said such a location may not be in Northville but would have to be close to the Novi-Northville border to meet the intentions of the ad hoc committee. MacDonald said he thought it would be to the applicant's advantage to examine the old fire station on Wayne County Child Development Center grounds presently housing Novi Ambulance vehicles and crews as one possible location.

Trap ordinance proposed

Consideration of a local ordinance to regulate or outlaw trapping in the township has prompted police chief Kenneth Hardesty to seek community opinions on the issue.
"Trapping, I know, is a little controversial," the chief said Monday. "We've had two complaints recently about traps being set — one in the area of Whisperwoods subdivision and the other out by Phoenix. Basically, people are worried about the traps being there while their kids are out playing in the area."
Hardesty said an ordinance either regulating trapping by confining it to certain areas or totally outlawing the practice is being discussed for consideration by the township board of trustees and that he would like those with an opinion on the issue — either way — to contact him.

"Right now, there are no restrictions on trapping in the township," Hardesty said. "Over the past three or four years, though, we've had a number of complaints. You can't hunt in the township (discharging a firearm within the limits is a crime) but there's no law against trapping."
Hardesty said he "would not presume" to make an independent decision regarding the issue because he believes it is one that should "reflect the community's feelings" and he lives outside the township and is a hunter himself.
Written comments, addressed to Hardesty, may be submitted at the police station in the Northville Township Civic Center, 41600 Six Mile Road. Those interested may also contact the chief by telephone on the police department's non-emergency business line, 349-9400.

by Bethany International, a private agency, that first was called Bethany Christian Agency, recalled Karen Marburger.

The Marburgers' excitement rose before Mindy's arrival when they received a call from a woman in Washington state, saying she had cared for Mindy for two hours at the airport and loved her. They then knew Mindy really was about to arrive.

Both families are waiting for the babies to talk, but, as Trudy Vannier mentioned, the difference in Korean language and English would be difficult for anyone.

Karen Marburger says there is a "Mama-like sound" when Mindy cries.

Right now the Marburgers and the Vannier clans are just glad to see Mindy and Katie smile.

Name Burkman

As the reappointment of John Burkman to the city's historic commission was approved unanimously Monday, Northville City Council expressed its appreciation that he was willing to continue to serve.

Burkman's current term expires the end of the year. The new three-year term will expire January 1, 1986.

The historic commission reviews applications for exterior changes of buildings located within the historic district of the city, often working with applicants to ensure designs that are in keeping with the Victorian feeling of the community.

New Milford shop's a modern day 'Peddler'

By ALICE DAVIES

The Village Peddler.
That's the name.

Outside, shiny brass lettering on deep green, stained glass panels and a brick entrance underfoot.

Inside, a tree grows right into the ceiling. From an old fashioned glass showcase, trays of handmade chocolates beckon.

The Village Peddler on Milford's Main Street seems designed to enchant. While parents explore its artful displays of such items as cards and wrappings from the Metropolitan Museum of Art, children enjoy a unique play area created just for them.

And there is plenty to explore.

With everything from Colonial Candles and hand-crafted quilts to mod items like a baby bottle bearing the University of Michigan monogram, the Village Peddler seems to have something for almost everyone.

One corner is devoted to teddy bears.

Another section holds the most challenging and beautiful jigsaw puzzles. There are Christmas napkins, plates, coasters, ornaments and wall hangings.

Pewter look-alike metal pieces in traditional candle holder and porringer designs. A chest of duffle bags. Calendars, Garfield.

And still more. There are toys, lovely dolls of all kinds, hand-knit caps and scarves, baskets and wreaths to suit any taste.

Fine baking dishes and cooking utensils fill other shelves.

Open less than a month, the Village Peddler was virtually mobbed by visitors during Milford's Christmas Open House when chef Werner Heyer demonstrated the art of chocolate dipping.

This Village Peddler is the creation of Katherine Magaluk and her husband Philip. While she was a pre-med student at the University of Michigan, Kathy worked summer months in a Mackinac Island gift shop.

"I discovered I liked it and switched my major to retail management," she recalls. She has never regretted the change.

When it came to renovating their 19th century store, Kathy started out working with a designer, but soon discovered she had her own ideas about what should be done.

The colors are hers — hunter green, natural wood floors, rust and gold. The shape and design of the whole place is hers, including the incredible tree she built with a friend.

Which part is her favorite? Either the tree or the kids' play area, but she isn't sure.

New things keep coming in, and the shop is changing all the time, she points out. Three Christmas trees went up in different areas of the shop — Victorian, Country and an unidentified "Eclectic" tree — for the holiday season.

When the very popular "Pineapple" gift shop closed its doors in Milford last year, Kathy could see a need for the kind of shop she has created in the Village Peddler.

Husband Philip, who is an electrician and worked on the remodeling project, encouraged and supported Kathy's ideas.

"The location is good here, right in the middle of Main Street," she says. "Everyone wondered what we were doing here, what it would be like."

It's enchanting. The president of the Historical Society publicly congratulated them on their work and the general response has been excellent, Kathy says.

Old-time peddlers traveled from place to place, offering their wares. But this is one Village Peddler that seems to have found a permanent home.

Jan Stephens and Beverly Melone help solve party problems with their MS Rentals in Milford

You can rent their champagne fountain

By ALICE DAVIES

What might be a major problem for party-planners can now be solved with the help of a relatively new Milford business called MS Rentals.

MS specializes in banquet and party supplies and can provide just about anything you ever thought about needing, from an outdoor dance floor and canopy or tent to crowd-size chafing dishes and fine silver.

Owners Beverly Melone and Janet Stephens, who also run the Gold Depot located on Main Street in Milford Village, started their rental service almost by accident, they say.

"We started with the silver pieces because we had them in the shop,"

Beverly explains. After adding tables and chairs, they realized there was no rental service in the immediate area when they began receiving requests for other party needs.

The response has been so good that the two women have continued to add new items and services until they realized they had established a full rental service.

"People basically know what they want when they come to us," Beverly said. "At this point, most people want a kind of do-it-yourself plan, but we also work with catering services."

One of the most popular items has been a champagne fountain, along with basics such as punch bowls, coffee urns and glassware. Another favorite is the series of huge, clear plastic salad bowls which come in a series of sizes and can be nestled with ice between them to keep salads crisp.

Candles, napkins, tablecloths and other accessories can be color-coordinated from the MS Rental selections. Although many items are definitely designed for large parties or banquets, others would suit a smaller, at-home dinner party.

A copper chafing dish or silver coffee service may not be part of every-day living for many, but renting them for special occasions makes sense for a lot of people, the two women agree.

Most people don't have room to store a lot of these things and many don't really want to spend time polishing the silver, they said. With MS Rental services, party planners can have the fun of using these things without the responsibility of owning them.

Weddings, graduations, showers, family reunions, a costume ball — MS Rental has helped plan and provide equipment and supplies for all of them.

Jan and Bev say they may need one or two weeks' notice for some items and encourage customers to reserve items well in advance.

"Right now, we are doing a lot of holiday parties," Beverly said. Most of them are at-home affairs, some very large and others small. "People enjoy giving parties and we enjoy helping them."

Economic Alliance supports jobless bill

Equity in meeting the system's critical financial problems was a major objective.

Robert Dewar
task force co-chairman

The Economic Alliance for Michigan, a recently formed group of business and labor leaders, announced its general support for the unemployment compensation financing bill approved this month by the state House of Representatives.

"The Economic Alliance for Michigan congratulates those in the legislative and executive branches of state government, as well as the various affected groups, for the statesmanlike leadership in bringing this critical issue so far toward final legislative resolution," said a joint statement from Irving Bluestone and Fred Secrest, co-chairmen of the Alliance.

"Final approval by the Legislature and the governor before the end of this year is critically important for the economic well-being of our state."

The alliance policy statement described the House bill as "a reasonable, while certainly not a perfect, response to the critical financial problems facing Michigan's unemployment compensation system."

"Quick resolution of the serious financial problems confronting the Michigan unemployment compensation system is a major priority if this state is to move forward in dealing with its serious economic and employment problems."

"As a group working toward consensus approaches to the key economic problems facing Michigan, we are certainly pleased that the efforts of so many have resulted in the House Bill enjoying broad support from the business and labor sectors," Bluestone and Secrest said.

"Because this bill attempts to resolve a financing problem of at least $3.6 billion over the next four years, it is gratifying that the proposal enjoys such broad-based support."

"While the Economic Alliance Board endorsed the House bill by more than the required three-fourths vote, it is understandable that some of our members were not in support of this bill," they continued.

The policy statement identified six "criteria for an appropriate response to the financial problems confronting the Michigan unemployment compensation system." Robert Dewar and Donald Ephlin, co-chairmen of the alliance task force that developed the policy statement, described how the alliance concluded that its six criteria were reasonably met by the House bill.

"Expedient elimination of the debt is a key goal. However, doing that in the near-term would put an unreasonable and counterproductive burden on Michigan's economy," Ephlin said.

"The alliance concluded that the highest priority was eliminating the interest-bearing portion of the debt, which now amounts to $641 million. The House bill would allow that debt to increase to $841 million by the end of 1983, but then eliminate it by the end of 1986.

"The non-interest-bearing portion of the debt, now $1.6 billion, would be reduced to $940 million by the end of the 1983-86 four-year period which is the principal focus of the bill. The House bill struck a reasonable balance between three important, but somewhat conflicting goals of debt elimination, minimizing negative impacts on the state's economy, and building needed reserves."

"Another major concern for the alliance was the new federal debt-repayment tax which will first be payable in January 1983," Ephlin said. "The House bill moves as quickly as possible to cap this escalating tax in 1985 and then projects its elimination in 1987."

"Equity in meeting the system's critical financial problems was certainly a major objective, though certainly the most difficult one to define," said Dewar.

"The alliance concluded that there should be an appropriate sharing of the total burden between different categories of employers and between employers and employees. The system's financial problems are so large that it would certainly be inequitable to resolve them by imposing additional burdens on just one group."

"The House bill would secure $3.6 billion in financial relief for Michigan's unemployment compensation system over the next four years. This major burden would be divided into about equal thirds among the unemployed; the positive-balance employers whose contributions have more than covered the benefits to their laid-off workers; and the negative-balance employers where the payments to their laid-off workers have been larger than their taxes."

"Over the next four years, the House bill would decrease projected benefits to the unemployed by $1.1 billion," said Dewar.

"Some $600 million would be saved by freezing maximum benefits at the 1982 level through 1986, rather than increasing according to rises in the average weekly wage."

"Another $257 million in benefits would be eliminated by calculating the weekly benefit at 65 percent of the worker's after-tax earnings, rather than the current 70 percent. Finally, $234 million of benefits would be eliminated by tightening up eligibility requirements."

"Employers would pay $2.5 billion more in taxes during this same four-year period," said Dewar.

Homestead tax credits cut

Homeowners' and renters' Homestead Property Tax Credit is reduced or possibly eliminated for Michigan's upper income taxpayers, according to the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants.

Beginning with the 1982 tax year, the Michigan income tax credit allowed persons who own, rent or lease their homes is reduced by 10 percent for each taxpayer whose household income exceeds $65,000 (with an additional 10 percent for each $1,000 of household income) and is eliminated when the household income reaches $75,000 or above. This is due to Public Act 269 of 1982, effective October 5, 1982, the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants reports.

Old Rockin' Chair

*Old rockin' chair, how good you feel to tired an' achin' bones;
to lean a weary head to rest;
'gainst your once bright tones.*

*Your worn, thin threads begin to show;
your arms reveal some mars;
still you can rock me to and fro though rockers scratched and scarred.*

*The sturdy shoes of brother's and sister's slippers too;
all had to be so close to mother
as every day was through.*

*You were such a welcome gift back then, so long ago;
just seems my thoughts are bound to drift;
to that Christmas, white with snow.*

*And all the years that passed between;
of love and work — joy too and grief;
they went too fast it seems.
Then you brought me such relief.*

*We've stood these years of wear and tear;
you, now bleached out and white my hair;
but we're still here, though worse for wear,*

just you, an' me — old rockin' chair.

Christmas Through the Year

*It makes a mother feel so proud
To see such grown-up children
Be humble
Be gentle
Be kind
Be loving
Be smart.*

*It makes a mother feel so proud
To see small grandchildren
Be cute
Be gentle
Be kind
Be loving
Be smart.*

*It makes a mother feel so proud
To see the family all together
Argue together
Work together
Play together
Help each other
Love each other.*

*It makes a mother feel so proud
In a special sort of way,
To have a special family
Each carries Christmas feelings
Each day throughout the year.*

Marlene Willemse

Children

*Innocent wonders within children's eyes, playing outside under fading skies.
Wrapped up in fantasy's game, making pictures on the window pane.
Dancing against season's delight, adolescence dreaming of a starry night.*

At That/This Point in Time

*Hamlet's time was out of joint — O cursed spite
That he was ever born — at just that point in time—
To set it right,
And at this point in time — O spited curse
That I was ever born to immortalize
Today's cliches in verse!*

Love

*As we walk,
Along the beach,
Through the water and sand.
Watching the sunset;
Dreaming endlessly,
of a life together.
We share our deepest thoughts,
and secrets.
Our hopes are also shared;
our hope for a life long love for each other,
which will always be there,
in both of our hearts.*

The Twelfth Day of Christmas

*Two weeks after Christmas, and all through the town
The street decorations are still coming down.
The papier-mache, bedraggled and torn
Is hanging in tatters, looking very forlorn.*

*The tired red bells are forgotten and weary,
The faded trees lie abandoned and dreary.
The dolls and the toys and presents galore
Are all scattered 'round the house, down on the floor.*

*Talk of St. Nick is no longer heard
And of reindeer prancing you hear not a word.
The old Christmas carols are now laid to rest,
While "Dreams of White Christmas" have lost all their zest.
The yuletide cards are now filed for a year,
And charge account statements are plenty and already here.*

*The Twelfth Day of Christmas is, as you must know
The end of the season and New Year's bright glow.
Those "week-end vacations" are now past and gone...
About all that is left is a sigh and a yawn.
Charles E. Hutton*

Season's Greetings

*Now is the season to be jolly,
Deck the home with wreaths of holly,
Dress the tree,
Wrap the gifts,
At a time like this, my heart lifts.*

*It's worth all the pushing and shoving at the mall,
The endless wait in line
To pay for it all,
It's worth the expense for extra food,
You know the kids will be extra good.*

*Families merge in person or by 'phone,
We try to make sure no-one's left alone,
Humbug? No.
Commercialised? Yes.
But it's a great time of the year, nevertheless.*

Kit Henderson

Christmas

*The snow is falling lightly,
The sun is shining brightly.*

*The kids are out to play,
In the snow all day.*

*You can hear the carolers singing,
And ring ting tinging.*

*The streets are crowded,
But everybody is proud ...*

THAT CHRISTMAS IS ON ITS WAY!!

'Sugarplums' sing, dance at club program

Twenty seven members who have joined Northville Woman's Club in the past year and their sponsors were recognized at the club Christmas program last Friday.

"Visions of Sugarplums," an original musical parody to "The Night Before Christmas," was presented by members of the program committee under the direction of Glad Evans and Connie Eis to a crowd of more than 100.

New member Stacey Becker, who is Mrs. Evans' daughter, was pianist and directed a seven-member chorus in singing Christmas songs. Chorus members were Lois Gibbons, Nikki Greenfield, Pam Lloyd, Faith McClory, Lane Norton, Sher Watkins and Karen Woodruff.

Mrs. Becker's husband, Gary, was enlisted to be master of ceremonies. John McClory was the man in the Santa suit.

Tom Rice, owner of the Giftfiddler store, and "Chickie" Gervan, a teacher at the Dance Factory on Seven Mile, entertained during the skit. The Beckers' children Betsie, 5, and Skip, 4, were show stoppers as they sang Christmas duets, including "Santa Claus Is Coming to Town," for club members.

The "sugarplums" were merchandise borrowed from local stores and exhibited by program committee members Sue Anger, Alice Chamberlain, Margie Davis, Norma Peltz and Carol Richardson and by Mrs. Davis' son Matt. Their "gift suggestions" brought from under the Christmas tree on stage ranged from a rocking horse from Moonkin Toys to a six-foot submarine from Genitti's.

They also included a cocktail dress from the Marquis, a snow shovel from Black's, a portrait from Fox Studio, Bedtray from Long's Fancy Bath Boutique and a man's fur jacket from Lapham's.

During the meeting club president Phyllis Slattery called upon Barbara Willoughby, scholarship chairman, to introduce the club's recipient Janet Hudolin, who was a special guest.

New members presented with red carnations by vice president Lois Winters were Elizabeth Morelli, Margaret Donovan, Rosemary Devereux, Patricia Duwel, Ruth Pritchard, Dorothy Horner, Marcie McConville, Lenore Bauman, Mrs. Becker, Esther Cook, Georgina Cox, Sherrie

Duff, Linda Handyside, Olga James, Barbara Jackson, Nancy Naszradi, Karen Knauss, Diann Korowin, Clare Long, Nancy Rosselot, Lucy Steeper, Janice Wilhelm, Jeanne Hubbard, Carol Townsend, Sharon Valrance, Marion Ziff and Sandra Wittner.

Pat Eden reported the Men's Night dinner program for January 7 is a sellout, but a waiting list is being compiled.

Chickie Gervan taps out a sugarplum 'gift' as Santa John McClory opens his sack during the program.

WELCOME — three of the 27 new Northville Woman's Club members honored at last Friday's Christmas program are congratulated by friends. New members holding carnations are Sharon Valrance, Jeanne Hubbard and Carol Townsend. Con-

Diane Harper wed in Virginia

For her marriage to Scott Fletcher, Diane Harper wore her mother's wedding gown and walked down the same church aisle in Portsmouth, Virginia, as her mother had 32 years earlier when she married Diane's father.

The daughter of Fred and Evelyn Harper of Fermanagh Court in Northville, she was escorted down the aisle of First Presbyterian Church of Portsmouth by her father in a 6 p.m. double-ring ceremony October 9.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Martha Smith

MR. AND MRS. SCOTT FLETCHER

of Portsmouth.

The church was decorated with white flowers and lighted with candles in the windows and candelabra at the altar as the Reverend David Garth officiated. The service included the lighting of a unity candle by the couple from candles held by their mothers.

During the candlelighting ceremony the bride's cousin David Harper of Bloomfield Hills sang the "Wedding Song." He also sang pre-service solos.

The bride's gown of Victorian design was of silk slipper satin fashioned with Chantilly lace overlay on the fitted bodice and extending in wide panels down the skirt and cathedral train. Her mother made her lace-edged illusion veil.

Her bridal bouquet was a cascade of white roses.

Mrs. John Stuparis was matron of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were another sister, Mrs. James Pell, Mrs. Robert Norfleet, Mrs. Richard Reynolds and the bride's cousin, Mrs. Robert Brown. Their gowns were styled with lace-covered Victorian bodices and periwinkle blue floor-length skirts of silk chiffon. They carried bouquets of blue and white silk flowers.

Bryan Fletcher was best man for his brother. Ushers were another brother Steven Fletcher, a cousin Robert Atkins, James Pell and John Stuparis.

The bride also added to the special sentiment of the day by forming a receiving line in front of the church courtyard fountain which had been dedicated to the bride's late grandfather, Fred Harper, Sr.

A dinner dance reception for 150 guests followed at Elizabeth Manor Country Club.

After a wedding trip by automobile through the Pocono and Smoky mountains, the newlyweds are living in their new home in Portsmouth.

The bride, a 1971 graduate of Northville High School, received her BA degree from Michigan State University and her MA degree from Eastern Michigan University. She is a first grade teacher in Deep Creek, Virginia.

Her bridegroom served with the U.S. Army in Germany for three years. He now is distributor for Monarch Supply Company of Virginia.

MELINDA ROTTA, JOHN MILLER

Wedding date set

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Rotta of 1022 Canterbury announce the engagement of their daughter Melinda to John A. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller of Huntington, Indiana.

The bride is a 1977 Northville High School graduate and was graduated from University of Michigan in 1981. She currently is employed as a counselor with Trinity Park West Baptist Retirement Center in Livonia.

Her fiancé is a 1975 Purdue University graduate and is employed as a chemical engineer for Standard Oil in Chicago.

A May 21 wedding is planned at Our Lady of Victory Church.

Santa has many willing helpers

By JEAN DAY

C.A. Smith, the local Goodfellows' "Santa," knows that 61 children in 26 area families (24 in Northville and Novi and two in South Lyon) will have "a Christmas" — thanks to generous support of the Goodfellows' annual paper sale here the first Saturday in December. Smith reports that the sale raised $1,800.

The amount is greater than last year's — except for two donations of $250 and $500 that were not repeated this year, Smith reports. Anyone knowing a family that will need help to "keep Christmas" may call Smith at 349-0854.

High School Santa's really white-bearded

The Santa who heard Christmas wishes at the Hill-Top Shoppe at Northville High School December 11 truly is white-bearded. Art teacher Roy Pedersen was recruited for the job. Record readers may have recognized him on the front page of last week's newspaper.

Pedersen confides he "used a bit of white shoe polish" on his whiskers for greater authenticity. Good choice.

Hospital Santas still are needed

The pile of presents for patients at Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital on West Seven Mile in Northville Township appears not so high this year to Mary Ellen Patterson-Hollis, legal secretary for attorney Philip Ogilvie. Ogilvie annually coordinates citizen, church and Rotary gifts for patients at the hospital. Because there currently are more than 1,000, he is not assigning individual wishes this year.

There's still time for anyone wishing to bring gifts — such as gloves, purses, shirts, sweaters or hats — for a man or a woman patient, however. The gifts should be wrapped and brought to Ogilvie's office at 104 West Main.

V.F.W. Post, Auxiliary pay annual Christmas visit

Among the organizations faithfully remembering others at the holiday season is V.F.W. Post 4012. Post members and the ladies auxiliary made their annual Christmas visit to Wishing Well Manor convalescent home December 16. Bingo was played, and each resident received an attractive basket of fruit and a personal gift.

The auxiliary members personally arranged the special fruit baskets.

Child care service offered

The Women's Resource Center at Schoolcraft College through its Child Care Referral Service maintains a listing of as many as 200 cooperative nurseries and day care centers in the Northwest Wayne County area.

The listing includes details on locations, fees, services and eligibility requirements.

The service matches parent's and children's needs with each of the center's offerings. It also offers several options for parents to select.

For further information, contact the Women's Resource Center at 591-6400, extension 430.

She's in 'Nutcracker' ballet

Lisa Ehlert, daughter of Ronald and Cathy Ehlert of 42062 Banbury, was among the dancers in the Michigan Ballet Theatre production of "Maria's Nutcracker."

The full-length ballet was presented in three performances December 11-12 at Harrison High School in Farmington Hills.

The Michigan Ballet Theatre, beginning its 15th year, is headquartered in West Bloomfield. In 1972, it was designated as a performing company by the Mid-States Regional Ballet Association and was selected an Honors Company in 1980.

The Nutcracker Ballet, choreographed by Artistic Director Evelyn Kreason, has been a mainstay of the MBT repertoire since it was first performed by the company in 1968. It was restaged in 1980 by Dominic Missimi.

Party December 4, she was informed her name had just been drawn as winner of the afghan handmade by Norma Terry as her scholarship fund donation. A delighted Mrs. Weston reports that the white and beige afghan really was coveted.

The annual party drew former club members and their husbands, including Pearl and Bud Weber from Mt. Lebanon near Pittsburgh and Andy and Bob Bogart from near Charlevoix. The Webers were telling friends of his retirement and their plans to spend the winter in Florida and summer at their cottage in Arcadia, Michigan.

Florida reunion's set for February

Former Northville resident Ed Barnes reports from Florida that the annual reunion of former residents and Northville vacationers in Florida will be held at noon Thursday, February 3, at the Crown House Restaurant, located between Bradenton and Sarasota a mile-and-a-half south of the airport.

Those wishing to attend are asked to send reservations to Ed Barnes, 324 Sally Lee Drive, Ellenton, Florida, 33532.

Laura Smyth Hixson's book's a gift to Mill Race

Sales of Laura Smyth Hixson's pictorial history of early Northville really have "taken off," reports Virginia Hayward for Northville Historical Society. Proceeds of the book, priced at $5, go to the society for Mill Race Historical Village restoration work.

Bookstall on the Main, which has been selling the book for the historical society, by last week had recorded sales of $1,000 — and called for a new supply.

The Northville Record

Tankers surprise coach with third at WLAA relays

Pete Talbot only had modest goals for his youthful Northville boys' swim team going into the Western Lakes Activities Association Relays Saturday. After it was over, not only were other coaches impressed with his squad, he himself was a little startled.

"I figured we would finish around fourth or fifth, and I would be happy with that," Talbot explained.

Instead, the Mustangs tied for third place with Livonia Churchill with 53 points and easily were within reach of second-place Farmington (62).

"I was quite surprised," said Talbot of the team's performance.

"We swam real, real well. We made an impression on some people who didn't think we would do well," he added. "I think what's going to happen at every meet is that I'm going to be surprised."

Plymouth Salem captured the title with 84 points. Livonia Stevenson was fifth with 46 points, while Plymouth Canton placed sixth with 39 points. Livonia Bentley was seventh (38) and Farmington Harrison was last (22).

The Mustangs qualified in nine of 10 events for the finals. The 200-yard freestyle relay was disqualified in the preliminaries when an official ruled one of the swimmers missed touching the wall on a turn.

Still, the Mustangs were only two points out of second place when the finals began. However, the Mustangs were beset by another disqualification in the 200-yard butterfly relay.

If the Mustangs could have finished the event, Talbot believes Northville would have finished second giving them 10 extra points. Farmington finished nine points ahead of Northville in the final standings for the runner-up slot.

Northville did have two championship relay teams. The 200-yard backstroke relay team of Tim Walker, Vince Shimp, Doug Buell and Dodis Mikalonis took top honors with a 1:59.2.

The diving tandem of Jeff Metz and Jeff Palowski was first with a combined score of 320.3 points. That was 34 points better the Churchill's second-place tandem.

The 400-yard individual medley relay squad of Buell, Mikalonis, Dave Wayne and John Gass placed third (4:21.9) for Northville's next highest ranking.

The Mustangs did come away with three fourth-place finishes. The 200-yard medley relay team of Mickey Nader, Adam Swallow, Ron Johnston and Walker (2:00.0) was one. The crescendo relay team of Joel Grasley, Tom Valade, Jeff Bainbridge and Swallow (5:00.3) did the same as did the 200-yard breaststroke relay team of Nader, Gass, Chris Behen and Blake Anderson (2:16.2).

The 400-yard medley relay team of Jon Burchard, Bainbridge, Shimp and Behen took fifth (4:30.9), while the 400-yard freestyle relay team of Eric Wheatley, Dave Kehoe, Mike Ventura and Drew Paredes took sixth (4:38.8).

"This helped build their confidence. It showed them they could compete with the other (WLAA) teams," Talbot related.

The Mustangs also started their dual meet season with a victory over non-league Redford Union 87-39 last week Monday. Northville won nine of 11 events to win going away.

"It was a nice meet to start with. It gave the kids a little confidence, and chance to see what they could do," he added.

The 200-yard medley relay team of Mikalonis, Behen, Burchard and Johnston started the winning ways by taking first (1:55.6). The 400-yard freestyle team of Anderson, Wayne, Walker and Bainbridge finished the meet with a win (4:06.44).

Individually, Swallow, Burchard and Buell all went home double winners.

Swallow captured the 200-yard freestyle (2:05.0) and the 500-yard freestyle (5:39.1). Burchard was victorious in the 50-yard freestyle (24.7) and in the 100-yard freestyle (56.48). Buell won the 200-yard individual medley (2:18.6) and the 100-yard butterfly (1:01.4).

Mikalonis took first in the 100-yard backstroke (1:04.3) for the only other individual victory.

The Mustangs are off for the holidays until January 4 when they host non-league Brighton.

Slow-starting cagers split pair of contests

Slow starts seem to be a habit of the Northville boys' basketball team at each game it plays. Against some teams, the Mustangs are able to recover to win. Some others, they go away losers.

That was case this week as the Mustangs started slow against Western Lakes Activities Association Western Division rival Plymouth Canton, but came away a 44-36 winner last week Tuesday.

However, Northville battled one of the best teams in the WLAA in Livonia Stevenson and dropped its first league contest of the season 68-48.

"We pretty much followed the same script as we did a week ago against Farmington," commented head coach Tim Lutes on the Canton contest.

"We got behind a little bit in the first quarter, but we picked up the pace in the second, third and fourth quarters," he added.

The Mustangs fell behind 8-4 after the opening period. "We weren't taking good shots, and we weren't being patient. Canton could have been further ahead, but it only made two of seven free throws," Lutes related.

Northville exploded in the second period for 17 points. The sparkplug was Scott Gala, who came off the bench to can eight points.

Northville held Canton to 12 points to take a 21-20 lead at halftime. The Mustangs took a 33-30 advantage into final quarter.

The Mustangs quickly built an eight-point lead early in the final stanza and went to the stall offense in the final minutes. Canton's fouling sent the Mustangs to the charity stripe 14 times, and they hit a dismal five shots.

However, Northville rebounded the missed shots only to have Canton foul again to put the Mustangs back at the line.

Canton had its problems at the foul line only hitting eight of 19 for the evening. Northville canned 10 of 20.

Gala topped the Mustangs with 11 points, while Steve Frellick added nine and Mickey Newman seven, all in the fourth quarter.

"It was a good win for us," Lutes offered.

The same could not be said for Northville against Stevenson as the Mustangs never were a factor in the contest.

The Spartans cruised to a 18-10 first-period lead, 35-18 at intermission and 51-32 after three quarters.

"They're the best team we've faced in two years," Lutes said. "I didn't think we played well. Even if we did play well, at best we would have lost by five or 10 points."

The Walk-On shirt is a classic in its field. She'll definitely appreciate your thoughtful consideration on Christmas morn when she opens that special box from you. The package containing her Walk-On shirt of 50% DuPont Dacron* polyester/50% cotton in one of its winning colors. She prefers it for its quality, look and sure fit. And the confidence it gives her.
