Nick Kolb had a rough time during a friendly game of football last Saturday at Hines Park. It seems he just couldn't get away from fiery Leigh Anne Spaman and her tackle prowess.

School board sets hearing on summer tax collection

By MICHELE McELMURRY

Northville Board of Education will decide at its meeting Monday night whether to impose a summer tax collection of half its annual school property taxes.

The board is expected to reach a decision during its regular special meeting at Silver Springs Elementary School. The board's meeting will follow a public hearing scheduled for 7 p.m.

The board of education approved a resolution January 10 to hold a public hearing on the proposed summer property tax levy. While there has been much discussion with city and township officials concerning the split tax collection, school board members have given little indication of whether they will approve the resolution.

School Superintendent George Bell, who proposed summer property tax collections to city and township officials last August, said Monday he couldn't "tell how the board will vote" on the proposal.

"We know we need the money," Bell said, "but we also realize the political implications."

"I've lost a lot of sleep over this," he added, "and I expect to lose a lot more before Monday."

The school board discussed the proposal at its January 10 meeting but did not make a decision on whether to approve the referendum. At that meeting, board members pointed out that several "uncertainties" in next year's budget make it difficult to determine the financial needs of the district.

Among those uncertainties are next year's teachers' salaries, program revisions for the 1983-84 school year and the leveling-off of city and township assessments.

In the hopes of reducing interest expenses which have totaled more than $1.8 million over the past decade, Northville Public Schools approached local governments last August about collecting school taxes in July.

However, on December 16, 1982, former Governor William G. Milliken signed into law Public Act 333 allowing local and/or intermediate school districts to collect half or all of their property taxes in the summer — even if township or city governments refuse to do so.

In accordance with Public Act 333, the school district was required to pass a resolution before February 1 stating its intentions to collect taxes in summer.

Last September, city and township officials appointed three-member committees to study the proposed summer tax collection. That joint committee met with school board members and Superintendent Bell last Wednesday to discuss the ramifications of the split tax collection.

While city and township officials voiced little opposition to the proposal, several concerns were raised about imposing a summer tax collection this summer.

City Council Member J. Burton

DeRusha proposed the school board take a "referendum vote" next June to determine if the majority of the electorate favors such a proposal. He cautioned against implementing the split tax collection this year, noting that many taxpayers may be not be able to pay in July.

"If you think it's a worthwhile thing to do," DeRusha said to school officials, "don't rush into it... give people time to prepare for it."

Mayor Paul Vernon said he had reservations about proposing a referendum.

City council opposes proposed split tax levy

Northville City Council Monday night unanimously voted a resolution to the Northville Board of Education stating it recommends that there be no summer tax collection this year and asking that the voters of the school district be permitted to decide at the polls whether school taxes should be collected in the summer.

The action followed a discussion of last week Wednesday's meeting of city and township representatives with school board officials to discuss the proposed summer collection.

The resolution was to be sent to the school board before the public hearing set for 7 p.m. next Monday at Silver Springs Elementary School in Highland Lakes subdivision. The hearing is required to be held before February 1 if a summer tax is to be collected this year.

School Superintendent George Bell had asked both city council and the township board of trustees to appoint representatives to meet with school officials to discuss the possibility of a summer collection this year after the state legislature last year voted to permit school districts to collect taxes in the summer even if city or township governments were not willing to do so.

In the past the city has declined to collect a summer school tax, but the new law allows collection by the school district or county if the municipality refuses.

Council member J. Burton DeRusha, council liaison who attended last week's meeting with City Manager Steven Walters, told council he understands the $4,350,000 tax anticipation money borrowed by the school district until taxes are collected will cost the district "in the area of $45,000 which is really a net cost of one percent."

"If that is the main reason for holding a summer collection, I do not feel it is a very good one — it's not really doing the

Neighbors protest expansion plans

By KATHY LAVEY

Agreeing with area homeowners that it is an "issue that transcends political boundaries," the Northville Township board passed a resolution last Thursday supporting the homeowners' opposition to the expansion of Salem Township's Holloway Landfill.

State Senator Robert Geake and Representative Gerald Law, also present at the board meeting, promised to research the matter and help homeowners in any way they could.

About 30 residents from the vicinity of the Holloway Landfill on Napier Road attended the board meeting, many of them Salem residents seeking their neighbors' support in their opposition to the landfill expansion.

The proposed 160-plus acre expansion includes a stepping up of the sand and gravel excavation operation, an increase in refuse dumped in the landfill, and the construction of an asphalt paving plant. Owners of the landfill are currently in the process of applying for an expansion permit.

"(There will be) an increase in air and water pollution, noise, and truck traffic," said Larry Bemish of 8800 Napier Road.

Residents cited some already unpotable well water and what they feel is a high incidence of cancer in the area as grounds for their fears that the landfill is polluting their water.

"We've got decreasing property values and... no control over what's dumped (in the landfill)," said Bemish.

Although they stressed that ground-water pollution was their biggest concern, residents told the board that litter was also a constant problem in the area, and said windblown papers and other trash could always be found caught up in trees and along fences near the landfill.

"The litter has been a disgrace,"

Commercial additions add to 1982 building figures

The number and assessed valuation of building permits issued in Northville and Northville Township are down, but 1982 building figures were "saved" by several commercial additions, building officials report.

In the township, reports building official Troy Milligan, six commercial additions included the kitchen expansion at Meadowbrook Country Club and the renovation of five stores in the Highland Lake Shopping Center. The six additions had a combined valuation of nearly $178,000, down only $8,000 from 1981 figures.

Permits were issued on 18 new single family dwellings in the township for a total valuation of nearly $1.5 million, down substantially from last year's total of approximately $2.25 million.

The total number of township building permits issued in 1982 was 84, down 20 from 1981's total of 104. Milligan noted that, although the number of permits issued in 1982 was considerably fewer than 1981, the valuation of the commercial additions helped keep total valuation nearly as high as in 1981.

"(Building figures) are low, naturally," Milligan said, but added he was surprised they're not down more than that.

Looking ahead to 1983, "I could say it's going to be a great year but I don't see it myself," he said. "If the (proposed) senior citizens' development starts, that will be quite a bit of work... I think next year we will do about the same as in 1981."

In the city, the total valuation of the 50 residential and commercial building, remodeling and addition permits let in 1982, nearly $684,000 is down from 1981's total permit valuation of about $741,000.

City building permits for four commercial additions accounted for about $250,000 in valuation.

The additions included the $118,000 expansion of Belanger, Incorporated on East Cady Street, and a $92,300 addition to the Northville Laboratory on Rural Hill Drive. Permits for the expansion of two Main Street businesses accounted for other commercial additions to bring their valuation to $250,000.

There were no new commercial building permits issued in the city this year.

Northville's downtown renovation didn't have any effect on commercial remodel and repair permits. Only seven permits for commercial remodel and repair, five of them in the city's downtown area, accounted for about $34,500 of the city's 1982 valuation. That is a substantial decrease from the 1981 figure of about $120,000.

Residential additions skyrocketed in 1982. While there were only eight residential addition permits issued in 1981 with a value of about $75,000, 18 were issued in 1982, accounting for about $255,000. Residential remodel and repair permits accounted for $66,500 of the year's building activity valuation.

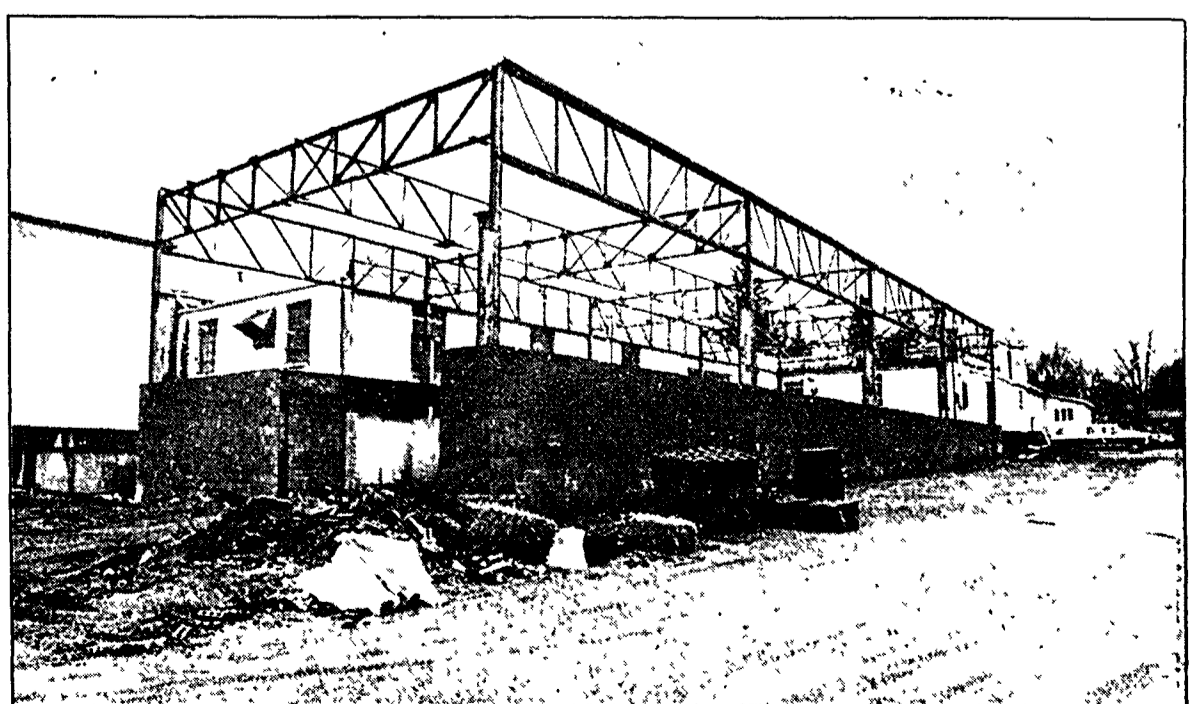

The city also saw a big jump in issuance of sign permits, handing out 40 of them in 1982 with a valuation of about $30,000, compared to 1981's total of 17 with a total valuation of less than $8,000.

The city also issued five new garage permits with a total valuation of about $20,000; it issued three parking lot improvement/construction permits with a total valuation of about $27,000.

Demolitions in the city last year included a house, garage, and chicken coop at 254 South Center Street and a fruit stand on Eight Mile Road.

Phyllis Bell of the city building department points out that the two large commercial additions and the jump in residential additions were what kept 1982 building figures close to 1981 totals. However, she was reluctant to make any predictions for 1983.

"It's iffy," she said. "I really can't say what will happen."

Fifth graders in Gail Raben's art classes recently tried their hands at an old fashioned craft by making apple head dolls. The dolls are in the style of Early American pioneer toys. In addition to the apple head faces, students also made the wire bodies, clothes and hair. The finished products are on display

Township trappers turn out for ordinance discussion

By KATHY LAVEY

Muskies, raccoons, foxes and mink that inhabit the undeveloped areas of Northville Township have stirred a controversy — merely by being there.

Local trappers and representatives from local and statewide trapping organizations as well as Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and Michigan United Conservation Clubs officials (MUCC) attended the regular meeting of the township board January 14 to discuss the issue of a township trapping ordinance.

The board agreed to work with the trappers in writing and implementing an ordinance that may restrict trapping in part of the township. (Trapping season runs from November 10 to January 31).

"This (consideration of an ordinance) started because of citizen calls regarding trapping antipathies and worries about the changing of rural areas — to more urban," explained township clerk Susan Heintz.

Heintz said that trapping in the township is not now limited in any way, but noted that residents in the Phoenix Lake area had contacted the township with concerns about dogs and children possibly getting caught in traps set there.

"This is not necessarily an ordinance to ban trapping," noted police chief Kenneth Hardesty. "We're just looking to see if we need to regulate for safety's sake."

"This is brought about by the fact that we have ... 70 foot lots backing up to Phoenix Lake," said Brian Higgins, president of the township homeowners' association. "This area has gone from open field to vest pocket parks ... there are more children and pets, and I can't believe traps are a good idea for a high density park."

Higgins was quick to assure that the homeowners were not opposing trapping on ethical grounds, simply that they were worried about having traps in areas frequented by children and pets.

"We didn't want to get involved in the 'I love Bambi' syndrome," he explained. "It's not to approve or disapprove of trapping ... It's for safety."

However, trappers who spoke noted that most traps are set far enough out into the water so that domestic animals like dogs cannot blunder into them, and that children wouldn't encounter the traps unless they were purposely looking to do so.

"I've trapped in Northville for 13 years and have been everywhere in the township," said Mark VanNingen. "It's illegal to take properly set and tagged traps; I've never gotten a dog or a cat in a trap, and I for sure haven't gotten any kids ... If you're setting them properly, traps are eight to 12 feet out in the water. If you're using (traps) properly, there's no chance in the world you can present a problem with (trapping)."

Higgins, saying he wanted to "stress being reasonable," suggested that the township limit trapping to the areas west of Sheldon Road, where there is less residential development.

However, trustee James Nowka observed that the area around Phoenix Lake where residents want trapping stopped is also where muskrats, the township's prime trapping target, thrive.

Another veteran trapper, Dave Getzen, noted that there are very few places in the township where people do not go.

"I've set traps out in fields with brush so thick that even I can't get through it, and people have still found my traps," he commented.

Al Stewart, DNR wildlife biologist, also told the board that, if trapping in the township is curtailed, the resulting increase in animal population may have ill effects. Stewart said that raccoons can be carriers of canine distemper and parvovirus, and that foxes can carry rabies.

"When you address this issue, take this into consideration," he urged. "There is a higher incidence of disease in cities with ordinances (against trapping)."

Raymond Rustem, MUCC representative, also noted that the increased population of muskrats after trapping is ceased can help speed erosion of beaches and hence deterioration of lakes because they tunnel to make their nests.

DNR conservation officer Greg Beulle told the board that certain procedures, including public hearings, would have to be followed for the township to pursue a "trapping closure."

Beulle also noted that most "competent" trappers in the township set traps "in such a manner that nothing but what they're trying to trap will get caught in it."

Lee Litherland, a Pontiac resident who represented the National Trappers Association (NTA) told the board that the NTA would seek legal counsel through the National Wildlife Fund and the National Rifle Association to oppose a township decision to go ahead with a trapping closure.

Supervisor John MacDonald asked trappers and organizational representatives to leave their names and numbers with the township so they could be contacted when the board further considers the matter, and asked them to supply "any concise literature" available about trapping.

MacDonald also noted that a trapping ordinance was smoothly implemented in the City of Northville when trappers worked with the city council in writing the ordinance, which permits some forms of trapping.

Board appoints 11 to committees

The brand new Northville Township Rehabilitation Committee got its start January 14 when the township board of trustees appointed five members to the committee.

The board also made six other appointments to other township bodies.

Appointed to the rehabilitation committee, which will review criteria and applications for distribution of community block grant funds, were Pat Wright, Elizabeth McCarville, Jack Van Dam, Brian Higgins and Thomas Cook.

Wright, a longtime township resident, is a member of the township planning commission, the local League of Women Voters and a life member of the Northville Mothers' Club. McCarville is a Fry Road resident. Van Dam is a retiree, while Higgins most recently served as head of the township homeowners' association. Cook, a Ford Motor Company development engineer, is currently a township trustee.

Gary Sixt was reappointed to the recreation commission, while Bernard Baldwin, involved in township government since 1966, was reappointed to the Board of Appeals.

Cider mill may sell wine

Bottled wine may soon be sold at Parmenter's Cider Mill.

Northville Township Board of Trustees voted to recommend to the state liquor control commission to grant a Specially Designated Merchant (SDM) license to Verner Bodker for sale of wine at the mill.

The license, which Bodker applied for in conjunction with a new winery license, permits sale of beer and wine for consumption off of mill premises.

"We are contemplating making and retailing wine from (the mill)," Bodker said. "We have planted some new grape vines and we'd like to get going with that." Noting that it would be several years before the grape vines were producing, Bodker also said he is considering selling "good quality" imported and domestic wines from the mill.

Township approval is not required for the application to be awarded. However, the township must notify the liquor control commission if the mill is not in compliance with local health and safety ordinances.

The license application must also be reviewed and approved by the township police department before the liquor control commission will consider granting the license.

An armed robbery, two car thefts, theft of a racing sulky, a "malicious destruction of property" and six marijuana-related arrests, all at Northville Downs, kept Northville city police busy last week.

A Canton man was robbed at gunpoint of $45 in the parking lot of the Downs at about 10:15 p.m., police reports said.

Reports said the man was standing near his vehicle with his keys in the lock when someone brushed up behind him and pushed him against the car, pressing a "blunt object" into his back.

Reports said the robber took the man's wallet and, finding nothing in it, threw it on the ground. He then searched the man's pockets, taking $45 from one of them.

The husky-voiced assailant told the man to lie down on the front seat of his car and threatened to "blow his head off" if he turned around, reports said.

According to reports, the man waited for approximately a minute. When he got up the robber was gone. Reports said the man never saw the robber or a weapon.

Two 1981 Buick Regals were stolen from the Downs' main parking lot between 7:30 p.m. and 11:30 p.m. last Thursday, according to police reports.

One of the Buicks, a brown auto originally valued at $7,000, was recovered Sunday by Detroit police, reports said. At the time of recovery, the vehicle was valued at $200. It was missing its trunk lid, seats, dashboard, steering column, doors, wheels and tires, and battery.

The other stolen auto, a blue two-door in "like new" condition, was valued at $6,500, reports said. It has not been recovered.

Found missing January 12 was a black and yellow Pennsbury "racebike" sulky valued at $700.

The sulky was apparently left outside a barn at the Downs and was stolen sometime during the night, reports said.

Police said the sulky's owner provided them with a serial number through which the sulky can be traced.

Two tires on a car parked in the Downs' main lot were slashed January 11, police reports said.

Reports said the two passenger side tires on a 1976 Buick were cut with a sharp instrument. The tires were valued at $160.

Five of the marijuana-related arrests were made within an hour January 14 near the east end of the grandstand, according to police reports.

Reports said each of the subjects arrested were "observed smoking a suspected marijuana cigarette." One of those arrested was turned over to Plymouth police on an assault warrant, while another was wanted on a traffic warrant by Detroit police.

January 15, police arrested a man near the Downs for operating a vehicle under the influence of liquor, reports said.

When police searched the man during booking, they found a small quantity of marijuana in his possession, reports said. He was cited for both operating under the influence of liquor and for possession of marijuana, police said.

A youth was arrested January 11 after he apparently set off a small pipe bomb at Northville High School, according to police reports.

The bomb reportedly blew up outside the doors at the south end of the school, causing no injuries or damage to the building.

Police said the youth apparently made two pipe bombs out of copper tubing, gunpowder, and firecrackers, blowing one up at home and one at school.

...In the Township

Approximately $200 worth of damage was done to an auto parked on Silver Spring Drive when vandals broke out the rear window of the vehicle, according to Northville Township police reports.

Reports said the 1974 Toyota Corolla was parked Saturday at about 5:30 p.m. The owner, who returned to the vehicle Sunday around noon, found that the window had been broken. The window was struck along the frame near the driver's side of the vehicle.

The owner of the vehicle didn't hear or see anything, reports said.

Three sections of tree trunk were taken from but returned to the yard of a Seven Mile Road home January 12, police reports said.

According to the report, three sections of the trunk of a tree that had been cut down and trimmed were dragged away, apparently with a tractor.

Police followed gouge marks in the ground to a nearby residence, where they found the tree trunk sections, reports said.

Police reported that the owner of the property where the tree trunk sections were found agreed to return them to their owner.

A Schwinn bicycle valued at $300 was stolen from a garage on Woodhill January 8, police reports said.

Reports said the bicycle thief apparently entered the garage through an open overhead door and stole the red ten speed.

Two hunting ordinance violations were reported in the township last week, according to police.

An unidentified resident reported seeing three or four hunters and five to 10 beagles the evening of January 7.

Another township resident confiscated a 12 gauge shotgun from a man who told him he was hunting rabbit, reports said.

Reports said the man was hunting on private property in the vicinity of Six Mile Road with a 12 gauge shotgun.

hospital escapees for 1982

Forty-one patients escaped from the Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital on Seven Mile during the month of December, bringing the total number of escapees in 1982 to 507, according to a Northville Township police department report.

Of the December escapees, four were apprehended by township police. The total number of December escapees returned in December was 14. Twenty-seven remained at large.

Police chief Kenneth Hardesty reported that the escapees apprehended by township police were not involved in any criminal activity.

During November, the report said, 62 patients escaped, 26 of whom were returned in November and 36 of whom remain at large.

Of the 507 persons who escaped from the hospital during the year, 433 were returned. A total of 86 remained at large, Hardesty reported.

South Center rezoning requested

Northville City Planning Commission last night was to receive a request from three property owners on South Center to consider rezoning four lots to Central Business District (CBD) or General Commercial District (GCD) use.

The owners, City Clerk Joan McAllister said, were expected to seek help from the planners for other uses than residential for the properties on

The request was from property owners the Robert Coles, Norman Witts and Joseph Bongiovanni.

Last night's agenda also listed a request for site, architectural and landscaping approval for property at the rear of 135 North Center for use as a plumbing supply business. Owner

James Rea previously had sought to have an arcade at the site but had been turned down by the planners.

Also on the agenda were proposed zoning text amendments and election of officers, postponed from the planners' first meeting this month.

Meeting minimum floor space requirements may not be a problem for most buildings in the city's PBO (Professional/Business/Office)

District, according to a preliminary report released by Northville City Clerk McAllister.

Few of the structures appear unable to meet current standards of housing requirements. But the full report and final decision on the PBO standards will likely be determined by the city's planning commission meeting last night after The Record press time.

City Council Member and liaison to the commission J. Burton DeRusha had urged the planners during the meeting earlier this month to gather information on floor space availability, before making a recommendation to city council.

Plan Consultant Ronald Nino had mildly opposed DeRusha's suggestion, urging that the planners make their decision on minimum square foot requirements regardless of what currently exists in Northville business structures.

The planners took DeRusha's suggestion and requested McAllister produce figures from the city's field tax sheets.

McAllister said Monday, however, that, while the tax sheets, indicate second floor space, they do not show apartment break-downs by footage, but only the accumulative total. She indicated the only way to obtain areas of individual apartments would be by on-site inspections.

Should the commission make a decision and arrive at specific recommendations, the next step would be for city council to act on those recommendations or develop its own proposal.

Health education classes slated

A series of classes on how to "live healthier" is being offered at the Novi Ambulatory Care Center by Providence Hospital's community health education department. Subjects include cardiopulmonary resuscitation, weight control, babysitting care, nutrition for the 80s and how to stop smoking.

All classes will meet in the community health education room of the Novi facility at 39500 West Ten Mile at Hagerty Road.

Two cardiopulmonary classes — Heartsaver and Basic Cardiac Life Support — will be offered.

The Heartsaver class is a single three-hour session and will be offered from 7-10 p.m. February 3, March 3 and April 7. Signs and signals of heart attack, risk factors, healthy heart living and one-man rescue will be taught. Successful completion results in American Heart Association certification. There is a $2 fee.

The Basic Cardiac Life Support follows the training offered in Heartsaver and includes review of one-man rescue plus two-man rescue, infant and child resuscitation and what to do for the choking victim.

It's a six-hour course that meets for three hours from 7-10 p.m. March 17 and 24. A $5 fee is charged; successful completion results in American Heart Association certification.

A weight control class with emphasis on improved health and greater control over one's life will be introduced January 25 and continued through eight consecutive Tuesdays beginning February 1 from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Taught by American Health Foundation staff, the introductory session is free, while the following eight-week course carries a $100 fee.

"Super Sitters" is a five-week course giving common sense guidelines for babysitters 14 years and older. Discussion will focus on normal childhood development, feeding techniques, how to cope with emergency situations and basic CPR instruction. The course meets every Thursday during March from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. Fee for the series is $5.

"Nutrition for the 80s" will cover behavior modification, how to select foods which meet recommended daily allowances and lose weight permanently, guidelines for increasing activity levels and evaluating weight reduction diets. The class runs four consecutive Thursdays (February 24) from 3-4:30 p.m. The fee is $15.

Free introductory sessions for the "Stop Smoking System" will be held February 14 and 15. Treatment will begin February 21 through 24 from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. with follow-up on Wednesday, March 2.

Pre-registration is required and enrollment is limited. For more information call Providence Hospital's community health education office at 552-9041.

Victorian Age art Woman's Club topic

Dr. Michael Farrell, adjunct education curator at the Detroit Institute of Arts and associate professor of art at the University of Windsor, will discuss "The Arts and Crafts Movement in the Victorian Age" at the Northville Woman's Club 1:30 p.m. meeting this Friday in Mill Race Village.

Farrell will discuss how the art of the Victorian Age was not "a reflection of a particular point of view or a particular taste or style, but rather a synthesis of styles from all periods in history."

This eclecticism, according to Farrell, resulted in the eventual abandonment of taste and quality in furniture, architecture and painting as the middle class attempted to legitimize itself by using the styles of other cultures and other periods.

Farrell said the industrial revolution furthered this decline by producing cheap and shoddy products. However, John Ruskin and William Morris rejected this state of artistic affairs in England and formed the arts and crafts movement which eventually would reform Victorian taste and art and lead design into the 20th century.

Farrell will discuss the influence of the Victorian Age on architecture, painting, furniture, ceramics and glass.

Woman's Club members are reminded that Friday is guest day. Chairman for the day is Mrs. James Richardson.

Yessaian request

Township listens to rezoning plea

Containing that Seven Mile Road has been "progressively losing desirability" as a residential area, an attorney for Charles Yessaian asked the Northville Township Board of Trustees to again consider rezoning three lots owned by Yessaian from residential to office space.

The board tabled the rezoning request until its February meeting to review the matter.

Two of the lots, on the corner of Seven Mile and Fry roads directly across from Northville State Hospital, front on Seven Mile, while the third fronts on Fry Road. One of the lots fronting on Seven Mile is the site of the house in which Yessaian currently lives.

Attorney Angelo Plakas told the board that he and his client felt the lots were "substantially useless" as residential property.

In arguing for the rezoning, Plakas pointed out that no other residential lots front on Seven Mile Road, and that Yessaian and his family felt they were "in some danger and experienced a great deal of apprehension" due to the home's proximity to the hospital and the number of hospital escapees in the area.

"The danger of walkways (from the hospital), precludes sale or development of the property," Plakas said. "We're not attempting to introduce a dramatic change, we are asking the township to give recognition to the natural progression (from residential to office use) in the area."

Plakas also noted that the board granted approval earlier this year for a similar rezoning nearby, and that the Wayne County planning commission had recommended approval of the rezoning request.

Brian Higgins, who spoke for the township's 2,000 voting member homeowners' association, told the board he was against the rezoning, as did several other area residents.

"(Yessaian) is not deprived of the ability to live there, he lives there now," Higgins said. "The traffic created by office or commercial (zoning) is a health and safety hazard on that road ... we have an oversupply of vacant commercial area right now," he said.

Trustees also pointed out that Yessalan knew the hospital was there when he purchased the property.

Yessalan's neighbors protested that they were afraid the rezoning would change the character of the neighborhood and would decrease the value of nearby residential property.

"I've been living there for 27 years and we bought there because we knew there would never be a bunch of stores on Seven Mile ... we would be able to look at the open spaces (provided by the hospital grounds)," said Ella Briggs, a nearby resident. "I think the apprehension (concerning walkways) is much greater than the actual danger."

Patrick Coyne, who also lives near the Yessalan property, told the board that having a commercial establishment or a parking lot on the corner would lower property values.

"That will lower the value of the property," he said. "Nobody has a right to use the property profitably, just properly ... we all bought the property there knowing it was residential, knowing it was one acre minimum (lot size)."

Yessaian told Supervisor John MacDonald that he was willing to drop rezoning request on the lot fronting on Fry Road if it meant the request on the two Seven Mile Road lots would be approved. The third lot could then serve as a "buffer zone" between a commercial or office establishment and the residential area.

Rakoczy ends air traffic training

Airman Matthew A. Rakoczy, son of Thomas Rakoczy of 20896 West Glenhaven in Northville and Kay M. Churchill of Madison Heights, has been graduated from the U.S. Air Force air traffic controller course at Keeler Air Force Base in Mississippi.

Graduates of the 16-week course learned procedures to regulate air traffic and direct aircraft to radar-controlled landings and passed the Federal Aviation Administration Certification examination.

They also earned credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

Rakoczy will serve now at Laughlin Air Force Base, Texas, with the 2108th Communications Squadron.

He is a 1980 graduate of Bishop Foley High School in Madison Heights.

Senator comments on tax statement ruling

An amendment to a recently-passed law may clear up a lot of confusion surrounding the mailing of property tax statements to homeowners and mortgage holders, according to State Senator Robert Geake, sponsor of the amendment. He credits Livonia City Treasurer Elaine Tuttle with the foresight to draw his attention to a significant local problem and to play a key role in devising a solution.

"As a rule, local governments have been in the habit of sending property tax statements to the financial institution that held the mortgage on the house if the homeowner was paying the property tax through an escrow account," Geake explained. "However, in July 1982, Attorney General Frank Kelley released a formal opinion (No. 6085) that the tax statement must, by law, be sent to the actual homeowner. Unfortunately, that practice is not efficient when the bank is actually paying the tax."

"This has caused a great deal of chaos in local clerks' and treasurers' offices because of the need to create new files and mailing lists — and, most important — it dramatically increases mailing costs if the local government wants to continue sending statements to the banks," Geake added. "While we don't doubt the legality of the Attorney General Opinion, we see some real problems with its practicality."

Geake, at the suggestion of Tuttle, drafted an amendment allowing the homeowner, via a form supplied by the local government, to name the mortgage holder as a "designated agent" to receive the tax statements.

It would be agreed, through signing the form, that the bank or lending institution would serve as the designated agent unless the homeowner chooses to revoke that designation, and that the financial institution will be the only agent to receive the tax form.

"We anticipate that this amendment, which became part of Public Act 503 of 1982, will help ease the added burden of time and cost created by the Attorney General Opinion," said Geake. "And the homeowner still maintains the option regarding receiving or not receiving the tax statement."

"I am very pleased Elaine Tuttle took the initiative to bring this problem to my attention. It's a good example of state and local government working together to make public policy more responsive to practical need."

Schoolcraft waits for results of state action

By MARY KLEMIC

Schoolcraft College is taking a wait-and-see attitude toward word that Governor James Blanchard is withholding state payments to schools and local governments.

But Schoolcraft President Richard McDowell cautioned that a lengthy delay in payment would result in some belt tightening affecting services and programs at the school, which has more than 10,000 students.

"We will lose $800,000 in two months and $1.2 million in three months," he said. "You simply can't operate (with that) and continue to provide the services that you have been providing."

Blanchard, citing the state's poor economy, froze state hiring and withheld $509 million in aid to colleges, elementary through high schools and local governments.

State colleges absorbed $135 million of those cuts, elementary and secondary schools $216 million, local governments $144 million, and private colleges $14 million.

Of Schoolcraft's $15-million budget,

$5 million comes from the state, according to McDowell. The rest comes from property taxes and student tuition.

Blanchard's order withheld two-thirds of the January-March quarterly payment — about $800,000, in Schoolcraft's case.

Blanchard's order comes on top of a $200 million delay ordered in September by then-Governor William G. Milliken. That payment is due in the April-June quarter. There is doubt in Lansing, however, that that can be met.

That delay cost Schoolcraft $586,000. The new delay, McDowell said, "is a lot to swallow down."

The state constitution gives the governor authority to cut state spending when he determines revenue projections are insufficient to meet appropriations.

The college president said last week that it was too soon to tell what the delays would mean to Schoolcraft College, which started its semester only a few days before the announcement.

"We haven't made any decisions," he said. "How we're going to handle it depends on the payments" he said.

Council opposes school board's proposal

community a benefit."

DeRusha earlier had asked the school administration to include information how much interest was earned with the funds borrowed before they were used. He reported to council he understood last year, with higher interest rates that present ones, the district actually had a net gain.

This year, he said, he understands there will be a net cost, which he estimated at one percent.

"This is far from 'lining the pockets of banks' as was stated," he observed. City Manager Steven Walters agreed, calling the decision to consider a summer tax collection this year "a bad financial decision."

Mayor Paul Vernon agreed with

DeRusha that "there is no way a resident can borrow at one percent."

The council discussed comments made by both city and township residents that collecting the tax this summer would work a hardship. Previously, a resident had commented to council that she would have to pay the penalty because she would not have the money saved by then.

City Manager Walters noted, however, that for residents who pay their taxes by December 31 in order to receive income tax credit the time is only three-and-a-half months earlier as the summer tax deadline is September 15.

Council member Carolann Ayers observed that the school district "does not have to do it (collect the summer tax) in 1983" and could still do so in the future if it decided to.

The February 1 deadline, she noted, only applies to collecting this year and does not hinder the district from deciding to do so in the future.

Walters reported that Salem township, a part of which is located in the Northville School District, has gone on record as being willing to collect the summer school tax in 1984, but not this year.

Walters pointed out, however, that if the district does decide on a summer collection, "we would be doing our taxpayers a disservice if we did not collect it as it would be more cumbersome to have another (county) collection and more costly as city records would have to be duplicated."

DeRusha reported that at last week's meeting Township Treasurer Richard Henningsen said about 40 percent of the township taxes were collected through mortgage escrow accounts.

Walters said that percentage in the city would not be so high as about half the taxpayers were commercial and were the ones for which it could be a hardship.

"Whether people save systematically or take it out of the sock, it could be difficult — I think someone should be speaking for the community," said DeRusha.

In composing the resolution seeking a referendum of the school taxpayers, the council noted that residents in the Novi portion of the district already are paying a summer tax.

Commenting that he "sees nothing wrong in asking the people what they want to do," Vernon called for the vote.

Summer tax collection hearing slated Monday

dum vote in light of the low turnout of voters for school-related issues.

The primary concern for both government officials and the school board has been the financial burden a split tax collection could have on homeowners with fixed incomes.

The new law gives consideration to senior citizens and those who are blind, paraplegic, quadriplegic or totally and permanently disabled by allowing them to pay taxes without penalty through February 15 of the following year.

The issue of a summer tax collection is not new to Northville Public Schools. The district has advocated a split tax collection since 1972 but with little results.

For the past decade, the school district has had to borrow money to operate during the fiscal year beginning July 1 and pay it back when tax revenue is received.

Interest payments on those tax antipication notes have totaled more than $1.8 million over the last 10 years.

Bell pointed out that the while the district also has earned about $600,000 on invested funds over the same period, the interest expenses account for a substantial part of the school district's annual budget.

For example, this year the district spent $263,000 on interest expenses while earning only $218,000. The total net interest loss was $45,000.

Projected figures with a split tax collection indicate that interest earned would total $77,500 with no interest expense. Total gain to the district from a split tax collection is projected at $122,500.

Energy conservation a booming business for BEMS

By KATHY LAVEY

Everyone knows that energy is expensive — and that wasting it is foolish. But not everybody is doing something about it.

Bud Kunz and the staff of BEMS Energy Consultants of Northville are. By doing what they do, BEMS explain they can help business owners save thousands of dollars annually in heating and cooling costs.

Five-year-old BEMS, the largest energy consulting firm of about 75 in Michigan, last year conducted about 40 "energy analyses" across the state on everything from grocery stores and branch banks to office buildings, schools, and municipal buildings.

In fact, the firm, which employs 10 people full-time and an additional 10 or so at various times throughout the year, is finding that there is so much energy consulting work to be done statewide that branch offices in Grand Rapids, Traverse City, and Kalamazoo are under consideration.

Prompting the expansion is the fact that business increased by 190 percent last year, and continues to expand this year. But no matter how big BEMS is, Kunz vows they will never move their main office from Northville, or open down a job just because of its small size.

"We've always been here in Northville, and I wouldn't have my office anywhere else," Kunz said. "We've done all kinds of buildings ... no building is too small or too big to be analyzed ... I never want to get that big that we turn anybody down because they're too small."

An audit, big or small, is a complicated and time-consuming process. It usually takes at least three months and dozens of factors must be taken into consideration.

Those factors include the age of the building, its location, the existing heating system, the building's use, and its architectural design.

"The problem in this country is that we had a building explosion when energy was cheap," Kunz explained. "All buildings prior to 1977 were not built with energy conservation in mind, so we need to study them and update their equipment."

On a structure like an old school building, Kunz estimates, 50 percent of heating costs can be saved merely by cutting out waste. For other buildings, the saving is lower but still substantial.

"We can assume a 30 percent savings simply by doing things like cutting out waste, balancing the system and updating maintenance people's thinking."

"Balancing the system" includes things like making sure that one part of the building is not overheated while another remains cold, and can be accomplished, Kunz said, by taking advantage of the building's geographical position.

"We study the building architectural and geographically ... we measure the window area and use the sun when we can." By diverting heat from the sunnier and therefore warmer south side of the building to the usually colder north side, he explained, the building's heating system becomes more balanced.

After studying every aspect of the structure, a process that Kunz calls "tearing the building down on paper," the BEMS engineers suggest modifications that will help conserve precious energy, recommending exactly what the building owner should purchase and providing as exact as possible cost figures.

Kunz stresses that the studies must be thorough. "You can't just tell a customer to put in a new thermostat, you have to tell them why they need one," he said.

Remodeling the buildings to be more energy efficient is often expensive, but BEMS also provides customers with a "payback period," that tells them how long it should take them to recoup their investment.

"We are just now doing 10 schools in Plymouth," Kunz said. "It will cost the district $500,000 to make them energy efficient, but it will save them $250,000 a year, so in only two years they'll be paid back."

Besides doing consulting work, BEMS is also involved in several research projects. "Research is a big item with us that helps us do better for our clients," he explained.

Currently BEMS is compiling information regarding a new type of fuel cell, as well as a method by which farmers can run their entire operations using lowly cow manure as fuel.

He admits that these energy innovations are "down the road a way," but

Holloway expansion opposition voiced

noted Salem resident Charlie Muntin. "There is litter all over the roads and fences and trees all the time."

Bemish also noted that the proposed expansion would extend the life of the landfill.

"We were expecting to have it completed by 1987, when it would be made into a ski hill ... we wouldn't mind that," he said, "but the life is now (if the permit is granted) extended into the year 2000."

Besides asking the board for the resolution of opposition, the homeowners also asked the township to sponsor a survey of the level of water pollution in nearby residential wells and to ask the township attorney to investigate all legal avenues open to residents to prevent the Holloway expansion.

"We don't want to wait until our wells are contaminated before we get any action," said Bemish.

Basil Myers of 8762 Napier said the homeowners had a "grave concern that our quality of life is being denied" by the operation of the landfill. He also noted the complications created by the landfill's situation. "We're talking about three townships and three counties being involved in that little pocket," he noted.

One problem that Salem doesn't have is the traffic in heavy trucks coming from the east carrying refuse to the landfill that is routed through Northville township, disturbing residents and helping speed erosion of township roads.

The board was quick to pass the resolution supporting the opposition to the landfill expansion, and supervisor John MacDonald also offered the use of the township hall as a meeting place for residents from both townships interested in organizing to oppose the expansion. However, trustees were hesitant to immediately comply with the homeowners' other two requests.

"I'm not sure we're ready to commit financial resources, but it would behoove us at the very minimum to oppose this expansion," MacDonald said. "Our funds are very limited ... we need to do more homework before we make a financial commitment."

Salem resident Muntin told the board that water from his well on some days was undrinkable, and that he has already once had to install a new well at a cost of more than $3,000. Muntin also noted that most water runoff from the landfill runs into Northville Township.

Other Salem residents presented the board with a history of the landfill and Salem Township board action on it compiled from that township's legal newspaper, the South Lyon Herald.

Salem residents also promised their Northville Township neighbors that they would protest the expansion with the Washtenaw County Board of Commissioners, who vote January 26 on Washtenaw County's solid waste plan, which includes use of the Holloway landfill.

The Salem contingent invited Northville Township residents to attend a January 17 hearing of the Salem Township planning commission, where expansion of the landfill was slated for consideration.

MacDonald urged the residents to organize their opposition to the landfill expansion and enlist the aid of Geake and Law to get better results. "I think it would be beneficial if you could join ranks and work with the legislators to make a more intelligent and effective attack at this problem," he said. "The beauty of organizing is that people listen."

MacDonald also suggested that Geake and Law look for state-level funding for water pollution testing in the landfill area.

"I'm perfectly willing to help them (residents) in any way we can but I don't want to give them false hopes," said MacDonald.

Mall vacancies spark concerns among retailers

By M.B. DILLON WARD

Although retailers at Novi's Twelve Oaks Mall recorded December sales surpassing those of the previous holiday season, some merchants say sales would be higher if the center had more tenants.

The 150-plus store center is the major indoor shopping mall outlet for residents from much of southwest Oakland and northwest Wayne Counties.

Center Manager William Clogg estimates that the 10 1/2 to 11 percent of Twelve Oaks' retail space is vacant, but views the situation "as extremely positive."

"It gives us the opportunity to view new concepts and ideas developed here or in another part of the country. Because we have space available, we can go out and find the type of merchant we want."

Retailers whose stores neighbor Lord & Taylor in the mall's northeast corner, however, find it difficult to attract customers to the largely vacant wing.

"This wing is dead," said a Tuckerman Optical employee, who works near Lord & Taylor.

"You can go for days and not see anyone. It's bad. If there were more stores, more people would shop down here."

August Max manager Barbara Whitacre said the location in the wing "definitely affects our sales."

"We're stuck down here and no one knows we exist. If people come in our store, it's because they just happen to be walking by. It's the same with the Outrigger (a men's store) next door."

"We opened in 1979 and were told this end was supposed to be filled in a year or two. It hasn't. Only a shoe store and chocolate shop have opened up," said Whitacre. August Max sells women's apparel.

Mike Ansara, watch repairman at Precision Watch and Ring, where sales are down 20 percent this year, estimates the vacancy rate is "easily 25 percent in the mall — and the empty space is almost all down near Lord & Taylor."

The 1,159-square-foot jewelry store pays about $50,000 a year to lease space at Twelve Oaks — approximately $43 a square foot.

"It's a lot; you have to do well in order to survive," said Fred Ansara, the store's co-owner.

"The vacancy rate definitely hurts us. There should be no vacancy, especially in a regional center like this. The cost of rent and utilities is just too high. People think 10 times before opening a business.

"We have to be more cautious in buying and have to go to lower-price items."

A number of new leases are now under negotiation "and we expect a number of new stores in 1983," said Jane Lynch, director of corporate communications for the Taubman Co., developer and leasing management agent for Twelve Oaks.

"We're very pleased with our retail mix at the center and feel we're well ahead of the industry in terms of performance."

Lynch declined to reveal what retailers pay to lease space at Twelve Oaks, saying it's a matter of policy to withhold those figures.

"That's something privately negotiated between the lessee and lessor," she said.

Large stores such as the J.L. Hudson Co. own their own space and have a working relationship with the mall, Clogg said.

Hughes & Hatcher, AS Beck Shoes, Ad Libs and Scholar's Choice all have discontinued their leases at Twelve Oaks in the last year.

In Clogg's view, the store failures are to be expected and in no way represent casualties of today's ailing economy.

"People will go out of business in bad or good times. When things get tougher, you have to know why you're in business," he said.

Twelve Oaks has never been completely leased, added Clogg.

Command Performance, a hair salon for men and women, has noted a sharp drop in traffic.

"It's not as heavy as it was last year. People are not spending as much," said Susan Walker, the salon's assistant manager.

Dunn's City Camera, near the large vacant space formerly leased by Hughes & Hatcher, also has felt the pinch.

"It's affected our business. It looks bad to have this huge white nothing there," said a Dunn's sales manager.

"Everybody would like to see more promotion — at this time of year nothing's going on."

Agreed. Fred Ansara, "you can always do better at promotion, but we can't put them down."

Sales promotion director Sheila Armstrong said the mall's management staff stimulates business by advertising, bringing concerts and fashion shows to the mall and sponsoring citizen and other activities, he said.

explains that they are necessary in a state like Michigan where there is not enough sun for all-out solar power or enough wind to use windmills as total power sources.

Kunz frequently conducts "energy awareness" seminars for schools and organizations that consist of energy history, future trends and methods of conservation. He says he does it to keep people up to date on these and other trends in the energy field — and because he enjoys it.

"I love public speaking and I really enjoy doing the seminars," said Kunz. "I think people really want to know more about energy these days."

As a homeowner you may qualify for a MICHIGAN NATIONAL BANK EQUI-LOAN

WHAT IS AN EQUI-LOAN?

An Equi-Loan is a second mortgage secured by the equity in your home. By using your home equity, you can borrow $3,000 or more with liberal repayment terms at simple interest rates. * An Equi-Loan is not a remortgage, but a second mortgage; it will therefore not alter your present mortgage or its rate.

The amount of equity in your home, by the way, is the difference between its appraised value and your first mortgage (if any). This equity provides the basis for borrowing a large amount of money at established simple interest rates with the maximum amount of the loan being determined by the size of your equity.

WITH A SIMPLE INTEREST EQUI-LOAN YOU HAVE THE OPTION OF SIGNIFICANTLY REDUCING THE AMOUNT OF INTEREST YOU PAY.

The earlier you pay back a simple interest loan, the less you'll pay in interest charges. So every time you make an early payment, or an additional payment, you are actually reducing the amount of interest you pay for your loan.

HERE'S AN EXAMPLE OF THE AMOUNT YOU CAN EXPECT TO BORROW.

Each transaction is different and subject to credit approval, however, we are flexible in our lending policy. In general, you can expect that the total of your first and second mortgage will amount to 70% of our valuation of your home. For Example:

Appraised Valuation $50,000
70%
Total Loan Value $35,000
1st Mortgage Bal. $25,000
Available for 2nd Mortgage $10,000

HERE'S HOW TO APPLY FOR AN EQUI-LOAN.

The procedure is much the same as it is for a personal loan. Simply take this ad to the installment loan department at Michigan National Bank West Metro. Or you can phone us at 421-4990 and discuss your plans with a trained loan executive. An appointment can be made if you like.

Our Opinions

Hearing's time to speak on tax

This coming Monday night at 7 p.m. the Northville Board of Education has called a public hearing to be held at Silver Springs Elementary in Highland Lakes subdivision to consider collecting a summer school tax — a tax that now is collected in winter and payable until February 28 without penalty.

The way was paved for a summer tax collection last year when Public Act 333 was signed into law by Governor William Milliken enabling school districts to collect the summer tax through the county treasurer if a city or township government refused, as has happened in the past. Superintendent George Bell, citing the loss of $1 million in interest charges, has sought the collection here.

This newspaper has supported the concept of a summer collection. What has happened recently in the interest market has changed the actual cost of the district's borrowing, however. Because the school district was able to borrow tax anticipation funds at a rate unavailable to individuals and then was able to invest at a higher interest rate until the funds were needed, there apparently was little or no cost to the district last year. We believe this should have been stated.

It was the omission of the amount earned in this way that has aroused the concern of city officials. Council members have stated they feel residents may pay a greater penalty than the anticipated one percent cost the district could incur this year if residents have to borrow to pay their taxes in summer. Granted, these have been unusual times and the difference in interest rates probably will not continue.

City council, concerned that residents are not aware of the situation, is sending a resolution to the school board asking that the summer tax not be collected in 1983 and that a vote of the taxpayers be held to see if a summer tax is wanted. Taxpayers who have concerns or opinions should make them heard next Monday at the public hearing. This is a time for those who support the public schools to speak on the subject.

It should be pointed out that if the district does vote to collect a summer tax, either in 1983 or 1984, the difference in date the tax is paid in some instances may not be more than three-and-a-half months as a summer tax deadline is expected to be September 15, and many taxpayers pay their taxes by December 31 for income tax purposes.

Thanks, Jaycees, for our parade

Unlike Detroit, Northville is not facing the loss of its Big Parade — which leads off the annual Fourth of July extravaganza here and is reputed to be one of the largest in the state. For this we have the Northville Jaycees to thank, and National Jaycee Week seems an appropriate time.

If the local Jaycees, a group of young civic-minded men under 35, did nothing more than provide the Fourth of July parade, barbecue and fireworks, the organization would be adding to our community life. However, the Jaycees locally have sponsored also Easter Egg Hunts, Walks for Mankind, Septemberfest, Toys for Tots, Man of the Year awards, CPR classes, fund-raisers for the National Burn Institute, youth dances and outings for residents of the Plymouth Center for Human Development.

Not all projects have been continuing ones, but at least two have thrived. The 24th annual Easter Egg Hunt was held last year. At an earlier egg hunt, the Jaycees explained, "We make sure we have enough candy that no child goes away disappointed." That may be why the hunt has become a tradition of Easter.

But it is through the Fourth of July festivities that the Jaycees have contributed to making the holiday a "spectacular" in Northville. Jaycee Ron Barnum, a past president of the group who headed last year's Fourth arrangements, reported then that $2,200 had been spent on fireworks alone. In 1982 the city and township each contributed $1,250 toward expenses of the parade and fireworks. The barbecue at the Mill Race raised additional monies, as did other Jaycee projects. In addition to worrying about financing what has become a major event, the Jaycees annually sign up parade bands, marching groups, antique and classic cars that pass by the judges' stand on Main Street. They also find the judges and the parade marshals.

It has not been unusual for a parade of 25 floats and like number of antique or classic cars to move down Main Street escorted by marching bands and with a complement of politicians — especially in election years. All have to be contacted months ahead, and, as Barnum observed last year, there's real competition for good marching bands.

Because the local Jaycees are young men who also are working hard at jobs, they are taking time for their civic activities from their personal lives. Therefore, we salute current President Doug Boor and all the Northville Jaycees.

Off the record

By KATHY LAVEY

She'll be wearing red shoes

As a blanket New Year's resolution, I made a vow of self-discipline for 1983. It includes everything from eating and drinking less to exercising more, from driving less than 70 miles per hour on I-96 to getting up on time, even to controlling my temper and "other bad habits."

Nearly three weeks into 1983, I have found most of those things easy to do. I've lost four pounds since January 1. I no longer sweat blood when I see police cars at the edge of the expressway, and I'm getting up early enough so that I don't have to drive too fast to make it to work on time.

I've been doing pretty well in the temper department, too. One of my favorite lines from any song, ever, is from an Elvis Costello tune called "Red Shoes," in which he warbles "I used to be disgusted, now I try to be amused." That has for some time been the philosophy I use to help me control my temper, and I now use it even more often. Instead of becoming angry, I look for humor. So far this year, my blood pressure is lower and I'm smiling more.

Under the category of "other bad habits," it hasn't been so easy to apply my new doctrine of self-discipline. The Elvis Costello song is appropriate here, too, first because I bought that album on sale, and second because it mentions red shoes — for which I'm currently shopping.

My only (and it's debatable) bad habit is my compulsion for bargain shopping, an area in which those around me are constantly telling me to exercise self-discipline. Though I find it an amusing pastime to spend hours on end combing the stores, Salvation Armies, and rummage sales for such items as red shoes, wool coats, clothes, housewares, records, and anything else I can ferret out, others see it as a disgusting waste of time. (Unless my bargain purchase is presented to them, of course).

For example, a certain aqua colored, hand-knit, all wool sweater I bought last year elicits compliments nearly every time I wear it, and I cannot exercise enough discipline to keep from telling people that it is a $66 sweater for which I paid just $16.

The reason people are disgusted with my bargains, I think, is because they are under the impression that I just walk into them — they don't realize that I'm always on the prowl. I had to suffer at least $50 worth of worry between last November, when I first saw the sweater, and last April when I finally bought it. I was in anguish deciding whether or not to buy when it was busted down to $35, and again when it was marked down to $28.

Only other devoted bargain hunters will be less than disgusted when I describe my euphoria the day I walked into the store and found that sweater tagged at only $16 and, flushed with victory, headed for the cash register. A great purchase like that can keep a fanatic like me going for a long time.

I've found since January 1 that my self-disciplinary practices actually feed my shopping fetish. When I'm thinner and healthier, I will look better in my bargain clothes. Since I'm driving slower, I don't have to worry about using my shopping money to pay traffic tickets, and when I get to work on time I can leave earlier and shop on the way home.

I'm ready to make another shopping killing — and Elvis, this time it's going to be the red shoes. I'm watching the perfect pair, and they're on their third markdown. Check my feet around March and the shoes will probably be there. And while you're checking, look at my outfit, because it will be new, too — I don't own a thing right now that goes with red shoes.

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

Good news, folks. Somebody has actually sent a letter to the "After the Fact" mailbox.

Not just any "somebody," either. The person who sent the letter was none other than Dennis L. Pajot, a former editor of our South Lyon paper who now works as public information officer for the Oakland County Road Commission.

Actually, Dennis didn't really send me a letter. He sent me a copy of a letter which he wrote to Grove Press in Paris, France, in response to my plea that everyone write their favorite publishing house and demand that "The 1983 Collection of 'After the Fact'" by yours truly be available in time for Christmas giving next year.

"Nothing short of the hardbound edition so handsomely engraved with gold embossed lettering will do," he told Grove Press editors.

That's not all. He also asked for an unpurged edition. Noting that Grove Press has published such authors as D.H. Lawrence and Henry Miller in the past, good old Dennis told Grove Press he could "appreciate your editors' finely tuned sensitivities to moral dilemmas often posed by Mr. Jerome's writing, but, after all, 'Tropic of Cancer' wasn't any Puritan tract either."

Then, he actually goes on to tell Grove Press something nice about me and calls "After the Fact" a "welcome breath of fresh air on the otherwise stuffy pages of newspapers."

What's really amazing about all this is that Mr. Pajot and I have not always seen eye-to-eye in the past. I think he once described me as the only newspaper editor in Oakland County he had trouble with.

I remember taking that as something of a compliment at the time, but I'm now reconsidering that position in light of Mr. Pajot's intelligent, well-written letter to Paris.

To be honest, however, I should note that Mr. Pajot's letter was not entirely free of a few subtle digs. Recalling that we once referred to him as a "highly-paid flack" on our editorial pages, he concludes by asking that his bound edition of "After the Fact" be mailed in a plain brown wrapper. "I wouldn't want anyone to know," he said, "that I'm anything but an aggravated flack paid by the most convenient scapegoat organization known to newspapers."

Neighbors protest expansion of Holloway landfill

To the Editor:
We are alarmed, and we are frightened. And sad as it is, we feel all of Northville should also feel threatened. Plans are afoot that could drastically change our way of life, or, indeed, shorten or end it. Sadder still is the fact that this is no exaggeration or over-dramatization.

Last Thursday evening, a goodly number of Northville Township residents and Salem Township residents united in alarm at the Northville Township Board of Trustees meeting to enlist support from the township to avert a potential disaster. We were encouraged to see that State Senator R. Robert Geake and State Representative Gerald Law attended this meeting and lent encouragement and concrete suggestions for us.

The Holloway Sand and Gravel Company is requesting a conditional use permit allowing mining and filling approximately 163 additional acres west of its present landfill on Six Mile and Napier Road. In addition, Holloway wants to build an asphalt plant at the site.

This is a vitally important issue not only to those people who live in the immediate area of the dump, but for people in a several mile radius. Michigan is already rated as the second worst offender of toxic waste disposal in the nation.

The Green Oak Township dump, which is also in Washtenaw County, is already under investigation. For the past two days our air waves have been full of the news of the dump outside Flint which could, if not handled properly, spread death and destruction for many, many miles — even into Northville. Surely, we should be paying most particular attention to a dump that is located so very close to us.

Presently, there are no controls monitoring what is being dumped at the Holloway landfill. Extension of previous use permits will already take us into 1987. If this new use permit is allowed, dumping of waste, air pollution, incredible litter abuse, traffic abuse and noise pollution will continue past the year 2000. Property values will continue to decrease.

These are all considerable hazards to think about. But the real red flag of alarm must be raised to consider the easy possibility of toxic waste ruining many of the surrounding communities. It is a sad fact that toxic waste never becomes an issue until it is discovered and it's too late to do much about it. Let the people of this area be forewarned and adamant in their opposition to this possibility. I urge all those interested to express themselves in writing to the Salem Township Supervisor, Mr. Floyd Taylor, and/or Board of Zoning Appeals, Salem, Michigan, 48175.

Help us — join us to stop this expansion before it is too late for all of us.
George and Carole Miller

It's Jaycee Week

To the Editor:
January 16-22 is United States Jaycee Week. So what? — you may be asking yourself. Well, this is the time for giving the Jaycees the recognition they very much deserve.

Think back to the Fourth of July parade you watched with such enthusiasm, or the chicken barbeque afterwards that was so well attended by people from all over the area, or those fireworks that filled the skies above Northville that evening.

The Jaycees are men from this community; they care about their community, not only by running projects like the Fourth of July festivities that involve much manpower and months of planning, but others like the CPR class held January 18 and the teen dance at the recreation department (scheduled for) January 22.

The Haunted House last October was run by the Northville and Plymouth Jaycees. How many of your youngsters anxiously waited in line there to have the devil scared out of them!

The Easter Egg Hunt every spring is another example of the involvement of these men.

I could go on and on, but I won't. I simply ask that you join me in remembering some of the hard work and dedication of the Northville Jaycees and in wishing them a great Jaycee Week!

Student's 'observations'

To the Editor:
In regard to your article on Tina Stoecklin's award winning poetry in the Manuscript Day sponsored by Wayne State University, I would like to make a couple of observations.

First, I would like to congratulate Tina on her fine works of poetry.

However, the reason for this letter is because of your glorification of Ms. Pat Dorrian Sandbothe. You failed to stick to the subject at hand, and ended up writing half of the article on the accomplishments of Ms. Dorrian instead of the Northville High School students mentioned.

An article which started out as a praising of our nation's future turned into the "Ms. Pat Dorrian Story." My peers and I feel that you were way out of line in your statement that students of Ms. Dorrian, past and present, remember her because she strives for quality education.

Give credit where credit is due. As a senior at NHS, I resent the fact that The Record referred to the Humanities course as Ms. Dorrian's. Again, give credit where credit is due. I am a member of the Humanities course and know that Ms. Dorrian is only part of a team. There are two other teachers involved who also work very hard.

Who is the editor of The Record anyway, Ms. Dorrian? There is a time and a place for everything, and, if you feel Ms. Dorrian deserves this kind of praise, then write a feature story on her. I hope in the future you use a little more discretion in how you present this type of article. Thank you.

NHS senior
EDITOR'S NOTE: This newspaper never stated that the NHS Humanities Department "was" Pat Dorrian Sandbothe's. We did, however, state that Ms. Dorrian was a bulwark behind the formation of that department. A feature story was written about Ms. Dorrian November 5, 1980.

News from Lansing

New report details state fiscal outlook

By R. ROBERT GEAKE
State Senator

At the recent swearing-in ceremony of the Michigan State Senate, one of the speakers addressing us asked humorously if we really knew what we'd "gotten ourselves into." With a $750 million budget deficit looming ominously before us, the humor begins to dissolve.

During the coming weeks, we will be embroiled in debates, discussions, work sessions and arm twisting in an attempt to iron out our budget crisis. The primary focus of our attention will be budget cuts and tax increases. Not a pretty picture. Or a very cheerful choice.

You will be inundated with headlines, newscasts and opinions related to the sorry state of the state's economy. In fact, I just read these headlines today: "State's economy worst in recorded history," "Budget ogre faces lawmakers," and "Jobless rate to stay high."

Because the legislative agenda during the early part of this session has been outlined as "Budget, budget and budget," I will be attempting to keep you informed of our activities through this column. Much of the news I share with you may be depressing, so I'd like to at least give you some positive news to keep in mind as you read all the figures and forecasts.

The Fantus Company, a highly respected international firm which analyzes plant locations for U.S. and foreign companies, recently completed a major study of Michigan's business climate and, in a 55-page report, they've told us that we have made a lot of improvements over the past 10 years and we have great reason to be hopeful that Michigan will make a comeback. Let's briefly look at some of their conclusions:

•On property taxes: Fantus pointed out that the tax exemption program we provide for plant rehabilitation and industrial districts, passed in 1974, is one of the best incentives in the nation. And that those states who have similar tax abatements usually limit the plan to 10 years, while Michigan's lasts for 12.

•On workers' compensation: Fantus told us that Michigan, as a result of reforms made in 1980 and 1981, is now regarded as having the "most far-reaching coordination of benefits provisions of any state." The report also praised our efforts to tighten eligibility and create a competitive rate-setting system.

•On high technology: the study observed that our state has taken major steps to create and expand high tech businesses, as well as two new non-profit research institutes in Ann Arbor and East Lansing.

•On helping local communities: Fantus concluded that Michigan has made many strides in helping communities set up Economic Development Corporations (EDCs) and other incentive programs to encourage new local businesses.

•On venture capital: Fantus praised the Legislature for authorizing the use of a portion of public pension funds for equity and debt investments in small businesses operating in the state, creating a pool of about $250 million — or 10 times the total of private investments in venture capital funds throughout the state.

•On unemployment compensation: the report concluded that efforts made in 1980 to tighten eligibility requirements and revise the state insurance code were steps in the right direction. It did not address the changes made in the system through legislative action last month.

•On employment training: employment training, which has existed in Michigan since 1973, has proved helpful to business, Fantus concluded.

•On the Single Business Tax: Fantus noted that there has been no increase in the SBT in the seven years following its adoption while the corporate income tax rate rose nearly 40 percent in the seven years before that. In addition, they reminded us that special exemptions make the system an improvement over most. It also, they said, serves as a major incentive to capital investment because new expenditures for depreciable machinery and equipment are fully deductible.

The general conclusion of the report was this: "Michigan has a substantially better business climate in 1982 than in 1972."

That's a high note. And something to build on. That's exactly what we'll be trying to do in the coming legislative session. The Republican effort will extend far beyond simply trying to fix the ailing budget — we're looking to establish and build a positive business climate, provide jobs and get the economy moving again, so we don't have to deal with budget deficits like this one every year.

One of the options we'll be considering will be further improvements in the Single Business Tax to make it even more competitive with surrounding states. We've still got a way to go there.

We'll also be trying to further stimulate the establishment of high technology industry throughout the state through incentive programs; straighten out the adversarial relationship between business and environmentalists; examine the property tax for possible cuts, and more closely monitor our workers' compensation, unemployment compensation and welfare programs.

It's a tall order. But the Fantus report gives us hope that the potential for filling it exists in Michigan.

Law selected for city government committee

Thirty-sixth District Representative Gerald H. Law (R-Plymouth) who now represents Northville has been selected to be vice-chairman of the House Committee on City Government for the next two years, it was announced last week.

Your Photos

by Wayne Loder

Displaying Your Photographs

Your best photographs represent the scenes and people special to you, as seen by you and your camera. They make a fine wall decoration for your home or office. Here are some tips for displaying them in a dramatic way.

Theme and group your photographs.

Use various-sized enlargements. For example, cluster a number of 5 x 7 enlargements around a central 8 x 10 or 11 x 14. Do not include too many enlargements in one cluster.

For mounting, try easy-to-use dry adhesive mounts. These are chemically treated sheets. Some are thermo-set, requiring a heat press to activate; others are pressure sensitive. The dry mounts will bond your photograph permanently to its illustration-board backing.

Mounted color enlargements should be framed behind plastic or glass to protect them from the aging properties of dust, humidity, and ultra-violet light.

Hang your mounted pictures at eye-level for easy viewing.

Well-lighted walls give best display. If your room or office is dark, try track lighting to illuminate your photographs.

Board denies compensation for chief's carrying pager

A motion that would have granted Northville Township fire chief Robert Toms and water and sewer department head Walter Holloty three extra days of vacation time yearly for carrying electronic paging devices died for lack of support at the board's regular meeting January 14.

Chief Toms requested the three compensation days after he discovered that police chief Kenneth Hardesty and the police department's command officers received similar compensation for being on call.

"I feel entitled to it, that's why I brought it up," he said.

Township business manager David Leiko explained that the three days' compensation for wearing a paging device were given to chief Hardesty, the only department head who receives them, because the compensation time is given to lower officers in the department and his contract demands he receive the same benefits.

Trustee James Nowka made the motion to give the three days' compensation, which amounts to just over $100 each, to each department head who wears a pager, including Hardesty, Toms, and Holloty.

In other fire department-related business, the board agreed to direct Supervisor John MacDonald to sign a mutual aid fire agreement with the City of Novi.

"This will benefit us both," Toms told the board in recommending the action.

Jack Kirksey's reappointed to labor committee position

State Representative Jack E. Kirksey, (R-Livonia) whose district included Northville until last year's redistricting, is to continue as vice chairman of the House Labor Committee, it also was announced.

Kirksey retained his seats on the House Education and Judiciary committees and was newly selected for a spot on the Military and Veterans' Affairs Committee.

The veteran lawmaker has served as vice chairman of the Labor Committee since 1978 and welcomes another term at the post.

"As it has been in recent years, the Labor Committee will again be considering important legislation that will affect the lives of many Michigan workers," said Kirksey. "With more than 700,000 people unemployed in this state, the decisions we make in this committee and in the entire Legislature will be vital in getting Michigan's financial situation in order."

During his last term in office, Kirksey sponsored legislation that helped bring Michigan into compliance with federal unemployment compensation rules. He and other Labor Committee members held several hearings on unemployment insurance reform and helped to find solutions to Michigan's $2.2 billion debt to the federal government.

"The unemployment compensation package we passed in December was far from perfect, but something had to be done or the problem would have grown further out of control," said Kirksey. "The failure to approve this measure could have cost Michigan millions of dollars in federal funds."

Kirksey said he is once again looking forward to representing the people of the 35th District. "My constituents closely watch my votes on major issues," he said. "I am continually impressed with the large number of people who talk directly to me concerning their views on legislative matters."

"In the next two years, I hope to continue this valuable dialogue with the people I represent so I can make wise decisions on the important issues facing all of us."

Hospital offers tours for students

A 30-minute tour of the emergency treatment area and the laboratory and x-ray departments at Providence Hospital's Novi Ambulatory Care Center is available to local children's groups by appointment.

According to Sandy Lopatowski, director of the emergency care center, the informal tours acquaint youngsters with the look of the rooms and equipment and allow them to know the staff.

Scout groups, 4-H, Campfire Girls and other small groups of youngsters are welcome at the Novi center by advance arrangement with Nellie Grimwade, 471-0413.

Bagpiping, financial planning, computer programming and cake decorating are among the topics of non-credit short courses being offered this winter at the Orchard Ridge Campus of Oakland Community College.

The non-degree and leisure time courses are offered during a variety of time periods throughout the winter. Registration will take place up to and including the first class meeting.

Minimal course fees are charged. Senior citizens, however, will be admitted to one short course per semester with a 50 percent discount.

For a complete listing of short courses and registration information, call the Office of Community Services at 471-7520.

The Oakland University Continuum Center will present three workshops for single people from 7-10 p.m. beginning February 1 in the Grand Prix Room of the Somerset Mall.

Workshops in the Single Living Series will include "Making It Alone," "Making Connections with People" and "Roles, Relationships and Sexuality."

The "Making It Alone" workshop, to be held February 1, will explore the difference between being alone and being lonely. Discussion will focus on how to make it alone in a couple-oriented world.

Individual workshops are $15 each and the three-part series is $30. Pre-registration is required and can be made by calling 377-3033.

Night at Races upcoming for Northville Newcomers

Romano's Pizzeria's a family affair

Joe and Pat Mannino and their family are only too happy to be serving up "Farmington's favorite" pizza — in Walled Lake and Novi.

The Mannino family in October opened a third Romano Pizzeria, with the newest location the Novi Square Shopping Center.

Business so far is "good," reports Pat Mannino, noting that many of the new shop's customers have patronized the family's other pizza shops. (The original is at Grand River and Nine Mile; the "Number Two" shop is at Fourteen Mile and Midlebelt).

The first Romano Pizzeria opened in 1973 just before Christmas. "(Husband) Joe told me 'here's your Christmas present,'" she remembered. "I was thrilled... it was just what I wanted."

The second restaurant came in 1976 — just in time for Joe and Pat's wedding anniversary. The special occasion that prompted the Manninos to open their third shop was just what Pat calls a need for "good food."

Pat explains that she and her husband Joe got the idea to open another Romano Pizzeria when they came to the area to visit son Sam, a Wixom resident.

"When we came to visit, we saw that people here needed some good food," Pat said. "It was second nature to us to open another store so they could have it."

The new Romano's Pizzeria, 45049 Pontiac Trail, is open Sunday through Thursday from 4-10 p.m. and Friday and Saturday from 4 p.m. to midnight for carry-out orders or delivery.

Managed by Sam, the new store features the same pizza popular at the other stores, as well as spaghetti, Italian dinners, chicken and fish. The Manninos also do catering, with daughter Toni helping her mother prepare food for large and small parties. Toni and Pat already have catered parties in the area, including one at the Walled Lake Villa.

Toni and Sam aren't the only Mannino children who have worked in the family pizza shops. In fact, all six of the Mannino children have worked in the family pizza stores at one time or another.

"The kids used to enter pizza making contests and would get disqualified because they were professionals," she said. "When we first opened the store (in Farmington), we stood the kids on boxes so they could reach the counter to make pizza," she added.

The Mannino children have certainly inherited their parents' business acumen — once when Pat and Joe were on vacation the children accepted and filled an order for 900 mini-pizzas.

"They just made a production line and got busy," she said. "They have really learned to think on their feet in this business."

Son Peter is now a food buyer — of course he buys for the family's restaurants. Son Tom, now a dental student at the University of Michigan, also has helped out in the stores; and daughter Tina, now a Florida resident, complains that there is no good pizza in Florida.

"She says we should open up a store down there," laughs Pat. "Can you see us going down there to cook?"

Pat does spend a lot of time on the road traveling from Romano Pizzeria to Romano Pizzeria, personally cooking the sauces at each store and supervising other cooking chores.

Pat's sister Lena, based in Farmington, cooks each and every one of the 400-or-so meatballs sold each week individually — "just like you would at home," says Sam.

"We only cook with the best," explains Pat. "We feel if you wouldn't eat it yourself, don't serve it in the restaurant."

State's business climate 'improved,' report states

A national site-selection firm report released recently finds Michigan's business climate "substantially better" than it was 10 years ago, but said "persistence and innovation in economic development programs will be required to meet the new challenges of the 1980s."

Norton L. Berman, director of the Michigan Commerce Department, called the Fantus Company study a "report card on what Michigan has accomplished in the past decade."

"But, more importantly," said Berman, "it's a blueprint for continued improvement in order to ensure the competitive advantages of Michigan as a state for new business investment and expansion."

The Fantus Company of Chicago is the nation's leading firm specializing in location studies for U.S. and foreign business firms planning plant investment throughout the United States. The Michigan study was commissioned this fall by the Department of Commerce for $45,000.

"It is the consensus of the Fantus Company that Michigan has a substantially better business climate in 1982 than in 1972," the report said. "State government has become far more responsive to the needs and concerns of the business community during the past 10 years."

"A comprehensive reform of the workers' compensation system has resulted in reduced costs for business and will produce continuing savings in future years."

The report focused on a variety of business-related elements, including workers' compensation, unemployment compensation, taxation and assistance to business and communities.

Fantus called for a high-technology research and industrial park in the Ann Arbor area and said making venture capital available to high-tech firms is "imperative."

"Michigan has recognized this need

... Michigan has a substantially better business climate in 1982 than in 1972."

— Fantus Report

and is responding in exemplary fashion. Goals for establishing new venture capital firms as well as targeting funding are in place and impressive," the report stated, but more action is needed.

The report also recommended major improvement in the state's handling of environmental protection procedures, recommended continued review of state taxation as it affects high-tech business and urged "prompt action to meet long-term financing needs of the state highway system."

"The creation of a favorable climate for new business investment should be viewed as a continuing process," the report stated. "Much progress has been achieved over the past 10 years, but the effort to improve the business climate must be maintained if Michigan is to keep pace with other states in the competition for new industry."

"Changing economic, social and political conditions in the 1980s will have a major impact on industrial growth; and Michigan must be prepared not only to adjust to these changes but to capitalize on them."

Business Briefs

DONALD PAZEN, president of Michigan Tax Consultants Incorporated, announced that three new counselors have completed the company's advanced individual training course in Income Tax Preparation.

Jeanette Richman of Milford, Joyce Coe of Walled Lake and John Davidson of Troy are now available through Michigan Tax Consultants for tax return preparation in the client's home. Both Richman and Coe have backgrounds in business administration, plus experience in preparing tax returns.

NOVI COUNSELING CENTER is now offering diagnostic and counseling services to children, adolescents, adults and families at 39595 Ten Mile. The center is located in Suite 103 of the Holly Hill Medical Village across from Providence Hospital's Novi Ambulatory Care Center.

The counseling center is operated by Ronald Fenton and Alan Ablitz. Fenton has a Ph.D. in psychology from Wayne State University. He served several years in adolescent service at Kingswood Hospital and is an assistant professor in Wayne State's Department of Guidance and Counseling. He has been in private practice in Southfield since 1974.

Ablitz has a Masters of Social Work (MSW) degree from Wayne State and is a member of the Academy of Certified Social Workers (ACSW). He worked nine years as clinical director at Boys Republic in Farmington and has been in private practice in Southfield for the past 10 years, specializing in children and adolescents.

Fenton and Ablitz plan to provide diagnostic and counseling services in the Novi-Northville area through the new center.

MARTY FELDMAN, owner of Marty Feldman Chevrolet in Novi, and the Novi High School band appeared at the 67th Detroit Auto Show recently.

THE H&R BLOCK INCOME TAX office located at 341 North Main Street in Milford will be supervised this year by Carol Davison. Davison has worked in the Milford office for three years. The office opened January 3, 1983.

COMMUNITY NATIONAL BANK, for the third time in the last four months, announced a further reduction in interest rates for new 1983 automobiles.

Effective December 28, interest rates on new car loans financed for periods up to 36 months were reduced to rates as low as 13½ percent. That represents a three-quarters of one percent drop from the previous rate. New 1983 autos financed for periods up to 48 months will realize a one-half of one percent decrease in rate to 14.25 percent.

The rate lowerings continue to reflect the improved earnings performance Community National has realized during the latter half of 1982, the announcement stated.

JOHN KURTTI of Novi and Kendel Jensen of Wixom have been promoted by Community National Bank to positions of vice presidents. Serving as branch manager of the Walled Lake office, John Kurtti has more than 12 years banking experience. A veteran of the armed forces, Kurtti and his family reside in Novi.

Jensen started his CNB career in April of 1974 and currently is branch manager of the Keego Harbor office. He graduated with a business management degree from Arizona State University and now makes his home in the Wixom area.

Winner of a second $150 cash giveaway shopping spree at West Oaks was Rita Bathlow of Metamora.

West Oaks is located on Novi Road, just north of the I-96 interchange.

PAUL FELICE, president of Felice Quality Market in Waterford, has been elected chairman of the board of the Oakland County Chamber of Commerce for 1983.

Active in the chamber since 1970, Felice said the largest chamber of commerce in the county will continue to build good rapport with the new legislature and strengthen existing programs.

Gil Munn, owner of Munn Ford Tractor, was elected chairman of the board-elect. In that capacity, he will oversee chamber fund raising and serve as chairman of the board in 1984.

Tom Rugh, public affairs director for Consumers Power, will serve as vice chairman for governmental affairs; Larry Crake of 300 Bowl is the new vice chairman of membership services; Tom Sandon, CPA, is the new vice chairman of community services; and Chuck Kreil of Huttenlochers, Kerns, Norvell, Inc. is the vice chairman of marketing and promotion.

Big year expected on state's snow trails

The reversal of a decade-long drop in registrations and the reopening of 300 miles of trails smooths the way for a second straight season of renewed interest in snowmobiling, reports the Automobile Club of Michigan.

"For the first time in 10 years, the number of snowmobiles registered in Michigan increased, from 232,000 to 238,000 last winter," stated Auto Club Travel Operations Manager James Drury. "In addition, there will be some 5,000 miles of marked trails for enthusiasts to enjoy."

"Last winter's nearly ideal weather conditions encouraged more people to climb aboard their machines," Drury said. "With local governments and conservation groups grooming new trails in Alpena, Berrien, Kent and Dickinson counties this year, the rekindled interest in snowmobiling should continue."

Snowmobile registrations peaked in the early 1970's, with 400,000 vehicles registered statewide, but popularity declined in recent years, due mainly to economic conditions.

The price of a new snowmobile has more than doubled over the past decade while higher gasoline costs made it more expensive to operate machines and transport them to and from trails in state parks and forests.

The two winters preceding last year were unusually mild, which also prompted snowmobilers to stay away from bare-ground trails. Besides adequate snowfall, temperatures averaging zero degrees at night and 20 to 25 degrees during the day are considered best for snowmobiling.

Designated trails will be open and groomed in 63 state parks, two southern game areas and 104 state and national forests in Michigan. There should be lots of room for the snowmobile buffs to enjoy their favorite activity.

Twenty-five grooming machines will handle 2,000 miles of state trails. An additional 3,000 miles of paths will be groomed by local governments and private groups.

Seventy percent of the $15, three-year registration fee for snowmobiles is used to maintain snowmobile trails in the state.

The snowmobile season is expected to begin during the Thanksgiving weekend, weather permitting, in the Keweenaw area of the Upper Peninsula. Trail groomers are expected to be working by mid-December in the remainder of the state.

The snowmobile season should be in full swing by the Christmas holidays. Last winter's heavy snowfall helped extend the season into late March in much of the state.

Auto Club's 1982-83 Snowmobile Guide lists the state's complete marked trail network. State park lands ranging from 45 to 14,000 acres and forest trails from 2 to 142 miles long are included.

Although off-trail travel is allowed on state forest land, it is prohibited or restricted in national forests. Snowmobile enthusiasts should check with ranger offices for rules in each area.

Snow must be at least four inches deep to operate snowmobiles on state land. Trails through southern game areas listed on Auto Club's guide will be open Jan. 1 through March 31.

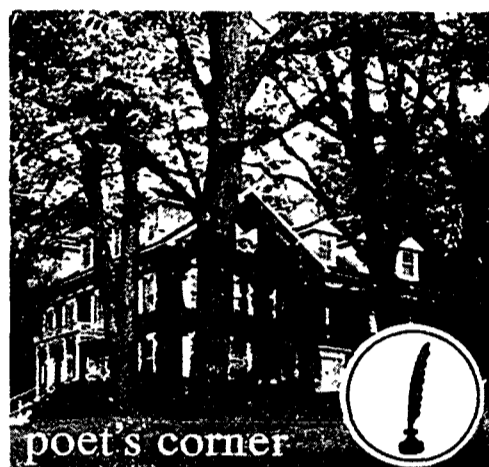

Snowmobilers must be registered with the state to travel on public property. Children under 12 must be supervised by an adult if riding on public lands. Persons aged 12 to 16 must pass an eight-hour, state approved snowmobile safety course to travel unsupervised across public lands. The local sheriff's department or conservation group should be contacted for information.

Snowmobilers must obtain a daily or yearly sticker to operate their snowmobile in state parks.

Auto Club urges snowmobilers to follow these common sense safety rules:

- Dress properly. Avoid loose clothing which may tangle in equipment.
- Carry tools, spare parts and extra fuel.
- Carry survival and first aid kits with a compass, maps, waterproof matches, food and extra clothing.
- Stay on marked trails and watch for fences and wires concealed in snow.
- Never litter and always respect private property.
- Be sure ice is at least six inches thick before crossing lakes or rivers. Avoid ice at river mouths and stay alert for fishing holes, stumps and pilings hidden by snow.

My Mom Is Mine

Jimmy wrote so many things
His teacher put them down;
For Jimmy is only 3, you see,
Can't do it on his own.

She said she wanted Santa
To hear about his thought
"I was a good boy,
And I like green" she caught

And then continued on with
The phrase "My mom is mine"
Santa, Mom and Teacher
Called that his finest line.

Goodbye

I have put you away, like the tattered linens from my grandmother's armoire.
I have placed you gently in a dark, dry corner, where you will be safe from the clutter of the years.
But I know where you are.
And, one day, when I need you, I will take you out and dust you off, and we will turn back the clock for awhile.
We will laugh and remember.
We will smile at each other, and I will close my eyes and know the touch of you and the smell of you and the joy of you.
I will never forget.
But I cannot live my life with memories.
So I will wrap you up again and pack you away where my heart can leave you alone.
Until I need you.

BOYS

Little boys are full of noise
And rattle-taggle twitches.
They fret and squirm like fishin worms,
Finding where the itch is.

They bring home things like colored strings
And chewing gum in pockets,
Old rusty keys and dead bees,
And balljoints without sockets.

They never walk and seldom talk
But you can understand them.
They often fight, teach dogs to bite
And ride their bikes in tandem.

But little boys are full of joys
That only mothers know.
The sloppy kisses, the one that misses,
They never do outgrow.

Those saucer eyes, full of surprise,
When their kite gains the air.
At night in bed, his tousled head,
So sweetly bowed in prayer.

I would not trade all the gold made
For my own little boy.
For dainty girls with all their curls
Could not bring me more joy.

Oblique Observations

Why do I follow
The Oz path
Dreamily
The corner
Of a red brick house-
Does it mean
I passed that corner once?
And there is
In another flash
A dirt path-
So brief
I cannot define Reasons
For such mental pictures
When my love's arms
Are around me.

F. A. Hasenau

Fantasy

Want to take a ride with me?
Over stormy, raging seas?
Can you stay aboard the ship
When the decks begin to tip?
Will you weather any storm?
Reach the island safe and warm?
Can you leave your life behind?
Be happy with the one you find?
Will you sail away with me?
I will have you home by three.

New law helps fight child abuse

By MICHELE McELMURRY

Michigan residents will have an opportunity this year to make a major contribution towards the prevention of child abuse—at a cost of only $2.

In accordance with legislation signed into law last summer, Michigan taxpayers receiving refunds from 1982 income can check a box on their return forms donating $2 to Michigan's new Children's Trust Fund.

The Trust Fund, part of a three bill package introduced in the House last March by Representative Debbie Stabenow (D-Lansing) and Representative Curtis Hertel (D-Detroit), is considered to be the most significant California finance similar children's trust funds by adding extra fees to marriage license and birth certificate costs. Rezmierski credits Dr. Ray Helfer, an internationally known expert on child abuse prevention and a professor of pediatrics and human development at Michigan State University, as the bulwark behind the establishment of the children's trust.

He said Helfer's efforts have helped in bringing the problems of child abuse to the forefront and provided the impetus for the establishment of the Children's Trust Fund.

While Rezmierski noted that the implementation of such a trust is long overdue, he said the need for such a program is even greater during harsh economic times—such as those currently experienced in Michigan.

"The statistics are alarming," Rezmierski said. "We have seen a marked increase in the instances of child abuse because of unemployment. Adults who don't know how to channel their anger take their frustrations out on their children."

Jack Kirksey (R-Livonia), a supporter of the bill to establish the trust fund, echoed Rezmierski's remarks and noted that unemployment tends to "bring out an undue amount of frustration."

"Unemployment creates a great deal of idle time," he said. "Parents are at home for undue amounts of time with no change of scenery. Their children become the victims of their boredom and frustrations."

While Kirksey noted that the trust will support "a terrible need" in Michigan, he said he has concerns about funding for the trust getting caught up in political red tape.

Funding for the trust will be administered by a Child Abuse Prevention Board comprised of the Directors of the State Departments of Mental Health, Public Health, Social Services, State Police and Education as well as private citizens appointed by the governor.

The board, which will serve as an autonomous unit in the Department of Management and Budget, will distribute funds to communities for the purpose of planning and organizing ef-orts to prevent child abuse. Funds also will be provided for prevention services through schools, churches, hospitals, public health and other public and private non-profit organizations.

However, communities will be required to provide matching monies to receive funds.

Representative Curtis Hertel, who introduced House Bill 4556 establishing the Child Abuse Prevention Board, said the bulk of funding for the trust will be provided by the income tax refund. Other contributions will be accepted from foundations, bequests and general funds.

Until the total amount in the Trust exceeds $20 million, only half of the money will be available for prevention services and the other half will be invested. After that goal is reached, only

'Unemployment creates a great deal of idle time. Parents are at home for undue amounts of time with no change of scenery. Their children become the victims of their boredom and frustration.'

Jack Kirksey, 35th District State Representative

earnings from the trust will be spent.

With approximately six million Michigan residents receiving state tax refunds each year, Hertel said he "is hoping that at least 15 percent of the taxpayers contribute to the fund."

However, he noted that with no similar program to compare to, it is difficult to determine just how much funding will be available.

Hertel said the check-off box for the Children's Trust Fund contribution is similar to the Presidential Campaign check box on income tax forms. He also noted that an explanation of the Children's Trust Fund will be included on the form.

Reiterating comments made by both Kirksey and Rezmierski about the increase in child abuse during periods of high unemployment, Hertel also pointed out that during harsh economic times, funding for prevention measures usually gets the budget ax.

With the establishment of the Children's Trust Fund, Hertel said a permanent mechanism for funding local prevention programs will be provided.

What impact the Children's Trust Fund has on helping prevent child abuse remains to be seen. However, most officials agree that providing the funds for the prevention of such abuse clearly is a better alternative than dealing with the nightmarish results after the abuse has occurred.

"Up to now, we've done very little about preventing child abuse and neglect," Rezmierski said. "However, we've paid dearly for the treatment of such abuse."

JACK KIRKSEY

legislation passed in Michigan in providing funding for the prevention of child abuse.

"It's a great first step," said Leonard Rezmierski, Northville's Director of Special Education and co-author of the school district's policy on child abuse and neglect.

Rezmierski pointed out that the new fund will make Michigan one of only a handful of states to set aside money solely for the prevention of child abuse. Michigan is the first state in the country, however, to finance the trust through income tax refunds.

Five other states including Kansas, Washington, Iowa, Virginia and

Neighbors

It's especially because families come to us during their most difficult times that we feel our responsibility so deeply. We've formed some very close friendships here and after being a part of this community for so many years, our commitment to its people is stronger than ever.

Just as our own families know they can count on the support and friendship of our neighbors, we're proud that families here know they can feel confident in the services we provide.

The Northville Record

Northville's Steve Schrader outmuscles Plymouth Salem's John Cohen for a rebound Friday night

Mustangs fall to Salem five

Tough and talented. No two words could better describe Fred Thomann's Plymouth Salem basketball team which ventured into the Northville lair Friday and systematically destroyed the Mustangs, 73-46.

Appropriately named the Rocks, Salem's lanky frontline of 6-6 Rick Berberet, 6-4 David Houle and 6-4 John Cohen, completely outmuscled the Mustangs and demonstrated why they are perennial contenders for the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) crown.

Salem improved its WLAA Lakes Division record to 4-1, second behind red-hot Livonia Stevenson which is 6-0.

Northville dropped to 4-4 overall, but remained in second place in the Western Division of the WLAA at 3-2, trailing Livonia Churchill (4-1) by a single game.

"We still haven't really beaten a good team this year," said Northville head coach Tim Lutes. "Maybe three or four weeks from now, we will be able to stay up with the Salems and Stevensons."

For the first six minutes against Salem, it appeared Lutes' hopes for the future might have arrived early.

Northville jumped out to a 7-2 lead with 4:45 left in the first quarter, utilizing a pair of Mickey Newman field goals and a sticky full court press.

Plymouth scored six straight points to take a one-point lead at the 3:50 mark and the game saw-sawed back and forth until Houle ignited a six-point Salem flurry to close the quarter at 18-12.

The Mustangs opened the second stanza with a Steve Schrader lay up, but a 13-5 Salem advantage through the final seven minutes of the half sent Northville to the lockerroom down, 31-19.

Thomann used his superior bench strength and board power to stretch the Rocks' lead to 50-31 after three quarters.

The final score was Plymouth's biggest lead of the contest.

Houle, who tallied an incredible trio of three-point plays in a 1:07 stretch of the third quarter, led all scorers with 17 points. He was ably assisted by fellow seniors Glenn Medalle, who had 11 points and Cohen who contributed 10.

Junior guard Erich Hartnett also had 10 for the Rocks, whose combination of experience and balance left Lutes a little envious.

"They are always a fine basketball team," Lutes said. "They always seem to be big and strong with lots of depth. But I am not too disappointed in the outcome since we are young and I started five juniors against an excellent team."

"We still lack leadership and I don't have a quarterback yet," said Lutes in reference to his jumbled guard situation. "Dave Longridge has been trying to give us some leadership, but he's got a tough job."

Another factor in the Mustangs' lackluster performance against Salem may have been their lopsided 92-48 victory over Detroit Redford Union the previous Tuesday.

"A closer game against a better team would have helped us tremendously entering our game against Salem," said Lutes. "You don't learn a lot by beating anybody that bad. They (Redford) were a real weak team and just couldn't stop anything we tried to do. But it didn't help us prepare for Salem."

Steve Schrader led Northville in scoring with 11 points, despite hitting just one of eight from the charity stripe. Newman added seven more points to the cause.

Following an encounter with divisional rival Livonia Churchill last night, Northville will take to the road Friday for a 7:30 p.m. contest at Farmington Harrison.

Grapplers battle inexperience

Inexperience has been the number one opponent for the Northville wrestling team this season, and following a 53-9 loss at the hands of Walled Lake Western last Thursday, nothing has changed.

"They (Walled Lake) were supposed to have their best team in six or seven years and they did," observed Gary Emerson, coach of the Mustang grapplers. "They had seven starting seniors and you just can't match that kind of experience."

John Letarte, wrestling at 138 pounds, was one of two Northville grapplers to come out ahead as he beat Western's Gino Rea, 12-6 in an exciting match.

Heavyweight Brian Burgett accounted for the other Northville victory as he made quick work of his opponent, Scott Stoebr, by registering a pin in just 49 seconds.

Letarte, a junior, had been wrestling in a reserve role until an injury temporarily sidelined senior John Collins, giving Emerson just cause to be proud of his effort.

Mustangs swim past Bentley in key match

The Northville Mustang swimming team enjoyed the best of two worlds last week, conquering the meek as well as the mighty.

The Mustangs, coached by fourth-year mentor Pete Talbot, traveled to Novi Tuesday and proceeded to swamp the Wildcats 92-42 in their own pool.

Livonia Bentley proved to be no less of a gracious host Thursday and the Mustangs upped their season record to 3-1 with an impressive 75-52 victory.

"The Bentley meet was our best meet in years," exclaimed a pleased Talbot. "In fact, it was our best meet in my four years as head coach at Northville High School. It really improved our outlook on the season as to who we can compete with in the pool."

"We have a lot of first-year freshmen on our team and that has really helped our program a lot," continued Talbot. "Those kids are carrying the bulk of the scoring load this season."

Novi proved to be no challenge, even for the young Northville team as the Mustangs captured the top two positions in each event except the 50-yard freestyle and the 500-yard freestyle.

Chad Balk, Novi's veteran captain, took the top spot in the 50-freestyle with a time of 26.0 and placed second in the 500-freestyle in 5:32 behind Northville's Adam Swallow (5:26).

Swallow also swam to victory as a member of the Mustangs 400-yard freestyle relay team that included Jeff Bainbridge, Vince Shimp and Darius Mikalonis.

Mikalonis (100-yard backstroke) joined Bainbridge (200-yard medley relay), Swallow and Ron Johnston (200-yard medley relay, 100-yard freestyle) as double winners against Novi.

Swallow took a pair of firsts against Bentley and participated on the victorious 400-yard freestyle relay as the Mustangs took an early lead and never looked back.

Northville visits Farmington Harrison Thursday night for a must win Western Lakes Activities Association meet.

Gymnastics coach frets about safety

By DON NEWSTED

Opening the season with a trio of impressive decisions would normally please even the most pessimistic coach.

Not so for Northville gymnastics coach Debbie Heck, whose constant concern for her athlete's safety far surpasses the importance of winning.

Inferior equipment, a floor exercise mat as case in point, has left no less than five of Northville's undefeated gymnastics team with injuries at various times this season.

Kathy Hietert, currently the Mustangs' most valuable point contributor, was nearly lost for the season when her foot stuck between two taped wrestling mats during practice for a floor exercise, according to Heck.

Hietert has since returned to the lineup, but minor injuries to several other gymnasts have left Heck with, you guessed it, one heck of a problem.

"Our equipment is falling apart. It's just awful. We are jumping on an old wrestling mat that is made of thin foam and it is as hard as a rock. The kids are actually landing on the floor and it is killing their knees."

— Debbie Heck, Gymnastics coach

"Two years ago, I requested a new floor exercise mat, but just last week I was told we would not be receiving any new equipment this year. I realize that a mat will cost $7,000, but it has a dual purpose and we have never received anything from the school."

Diane Hale, another promising Mustang gymnast, has also had a first hand 'experience' with the Northville mat.

"Diane is an exceptional gymnast," Heck said. "But following an injury on our mat, she's only been able to go on the uneven bars and the balance beam. She could go all-around, but has damaged cartilage below her knees and it's very painful."

Despite the obvious discomfort with the Northville mats, which also require a special waiver form to be signed by each visiting team before they can participate on it at Northville, the team has done exceptionally well.

Opening the season January 5 in Clarenceville, the Mustangs took a 97.65 to 79.20 victory.

With the first match jitters thrown to the wind, Northville came home to the concrete floor and posted a 106.1 to 101.55 victory over the Farmington Falcons.

Hietert was a four-time winner against the Falcons, claiming firsts in the uneven bars (7.7), balance beam (7.65), floor exercise (8.1) and capturing the all-around title with a 30.45 score.

Amy Aaron, the team's most experienced high school gymnast, provided admirable support for Hietert much of the afternoon. Aaron won the vaulting competition with a 7.8 score, and had seconds in the balance beam (7.25), floor exercise (7.0) and all-around (29.75).

Hale turned in a second in the uneven bars with a 7.25 score.

On the road again, Northville found even more success in the beautiful furnished gymnasium at Y-silanti, bringing home a narrow 113.75 to 111.25 win.

Highlighting the performance, which was just .25 below the regional cutoff line, was an outstanding 9.05 by Hietert on the uneven bars. A 7.55 by Hale gave her second place.

Hietert increased her all-around score to 33.5 against the Braves and had individual firsts in floor exercise (8.35) and balance beam (8.65).

Aaron captured the vault (7.9) and placed second in the balance beam (7.0), while Wendy Wobermin had a 6.65 floor exercise and placed third in the all-around competition behind Hietert and Aaron.

Northville will put their unblemished mark on the line at the Saline Invitational this Saturday, starting at 10 a.m.

Matmen fight inexperience

John has done real well for us," Emerson said. "He had been wrestling behind Collins at 138 pounds, but we may have to find a place for him."

Collins returned to his spot in the Mustang line-up at the Clio Invitational on Saturday, but it didn't do much good as the Northville 'A' team still finished last in the eight-team field.

Northville's 'A' unit won only four matches at Clio, but the Mustang 'B' team came through with a highly respectable fourth place finish.

Over the opportunist, Latarte capitalized on the chance to once again prove himself and captured the 138-pound title for the 'B' team. An 11-2 triumph over Midland Dow's Tim Reinecke, the tournament's number one seed, gave Latarte his medal.

Dennis Nadeau found success at the 'B' level and finished second to Lansing Sexton's Mike Crawford, losing a 13-8 decision in the finals at 112 pounds.

Jay Anderson placed third with a 3-1 record at 145-pounds and won his consolation final with a decisive pin.

Grunna won the 'B' team title with Lansing Sexton placing second and host Clio third ahead of the Mustangs.

Clio captured the varsity section of the tournament or the 'A' grouping, with Lansing Sexton once again finishing second.

In junior varsity action, Jim Ossemany defeated his Walled Lake Western opponent 15-7 at 98-pounds, Ken Matthes won 10-9 at 119-pounds and Anderson claimed a 9-2 victory at 145-pounds. Unfortunately, the final score of 40-10 for Western all too closely resembled the varsity performance.

Northville jumps back into Western Lakes Activities Association action tomorrow when they host Walled Lake Central at 6:30 p.m.

Saturday the Mustangs will be severely-tested at the Rochester Adams Invitational, the toughest pre-district tournament in the state, according to Emerson.

Tracy Wilkinson tallied three aces against Plymouth Canton

Mustang spikers top Canton squad

Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde are alive and well, it seems, living in the bodies of Steve McDonald's Northville volleyball team.

McDonald, whose spikers opened the season with a pair of losses to Farmington and Novi, recaptured the winning formula and beat a good Plymouth Canton squad 15-9, 16-14 at home January 10.

No sooner had the victorious potion taken effect, when Livonia Stevenson brought the Mustangs back to earth with a convincing 0-15, 15-3, 6-15 triumph.

Northville's record sank to 1-3 with the loss, but the Mustangs are 1-0 in West Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) and 1-2 overall in the WLAA.

Confused? No more than McDonald who witnessed his team's finest performance of the season against Canton, only to find his Mustangs losing ground at Stevenson.

"We played a pretty strong game against Canton," said McDonald. "I think they are one of the better teams in the league. Defensively we were excellent and we hustled the entire match."

Several individuals had outstanding matches.

"We just did not play well against Stevenson," McDonald continued. "We just could not serve well and were standing around on defense. I don't know what was wrong that night."

Kim Pettit turned in a near perfect performance against Canton, completing 20 serves successfully and scoring the bulk of the Mustangs' points, according to McDonald.

Jenny Gans added nine of 12 serves and Leslie Kucher scored on 12 of 13 spikes to pace the Northville attack.

A pair of veteran Mustang setters also gave McDonald reason for optimism. Judy Morgan, one of the Mustang tri-captains, was successful on 19 of 20 sets while Cheryl Berryman performed to the tune of 15 of 16.

"Both girls are fine setters and had outstanding nights against Canton," said McDonald. "Overall, they only missed two sets all night and that was one of our keys to winning."

Northville will now host a non-league challenge from Oak Park tonight (Wednesday) before returning to WLAA action Monday at home against Plymouth Salem.

OLV girl cagers shine in tourney

Our Lady of Victory's seventh and eighth grade girls' basketball team came from behind to defeat Livonia St. Michael's, 24-19, in a recent contest. The Lady Cougars rallied behind Julie Anger's clutch free-throw shooting. Anger hit 4 of 5 from the charity stripe with less than two minutes left in the game.

Anger led all OLV scorers with nine points. Margaret DeMattia and JoAnn Hinds had seven and six points respectively for OLV.

The Lady Cougars also earned a second-place finish in the Christmas Holiday Tourney hosted by OLV. The young cagers trounced Southfield St. Michael's, 34-23, in the opening round. They were less fortunate in the tournament finals, bowing to Redford St. Mary's, 18-15, in an overtime contest.

OLV boys triumph

Northville Our Lady of Victory won its biggest game of the season when it defeated St. Michael's of Livonia 29-26 Sunday in the Recreation Center.

Sean McLaughlin led OLV with 12 points as the Cougars claimed sole possession of first place in the CYO West Suburban League with a 5-0 record.

Joe Brielmaier clinched the hard-fought victory by hitting a free throw with 13 seconds remaining in the game. Brielmaier and Doug Martin finished with seven points each.

RESISTANCE . . .

... Is the Key to Staying Healthy

How many times have you heard the statement "Don't get yourself rundown or you'll get sick." Many times I'm sure. But just what does that mean? Run-down what? How does that have anything to do with being sick?

What they are saying is don't allow your body's resistance to be lowered, if you do, the body will then malfunction. If it malfunctions it can easily become diseased; or keep your resistance high and you'll stay healthy. Simply stated but not easily attained.

The key here is the word "resistance." What is it? How do we attain any resistance to begin with? How does it increase or decrease?

First of all resistance is simply the strength of the body parts, how well they are working and if all are working together. If all body parts are strong and working together resistance is high and you are healthy.

Second, the organ responsible for keeping all parts working correctly, thus keeping resistance high, is the brain. The brain also controls the immune system of the body — our ability to fight off bacterial invasion. The immune system will manufacture the exact antibiotic needed to fight off the invader. There are no harmful side effects from the body's own system.

Many Americans take drugs to raise their resistance, the fact is drugs don't cause the body's resistance to increase. In fact almost all drugs have harmful side effects which lower the body's ability to function correctly.

Third, resistance increases or decreases — depending on the brain's ability to remain in control of all body functions. If the brain is in control of all body parts, they all work correctly and your resistance is high. YOU ARE HEALTHY. EVERY PART IN THE BODY HAS A CORRESPONDING PART IN THE BRAIN WHICH RUNS IT.

How is resistance lowered? As we have stated before the brain controls all bodily functions. It accomplishes this by sending signals over nerve fibers to the parts. These nerve fibers are soft and can be compressed easily, if compressed the signals going through them will be altered.

Body parts need almost continuous signals from the brain to remain strong. By far the greatest area of nerve compression is in the spine. This compression can exist without pain at the spine.

If the bones of the spine are knocked out of position they will compress the nerve fibers causing whatever those fibers go to, to function at a lowered resistance.

LOWERED RESISTANCE LEADS TO SICKNESS AND DISEASE.

How does Chiropractic fit into this picture? The chiropractor through a series of spinal adjustments removes the pressure from the nerve fibers by aligning the segments of the spine which are out of position.

This allows that portion of the brain which until this point had been partially cut off to regain control of the body and thereby raise its resistance. WITH RESISTANCE RAISED, HEALTH RETURNS.

Chiropractic Can Help

The Common Cold And Sinus Problems

If you have a cold, sinus condition or other respiratory disorders you need chiropractic spinal adjustments! Why?

The role of the nerve system in controlling body function is an established scientific principle. Doctors of chiropractic work in conjunction with this principle and consequently the correction of disease and the maintenance of health are the direct result of normal functioning nerve impulse through the nerve system to body cells.

The upper respiratory tract and other vital tissues of the body need a strong normal nerve supply to remain in a state of health. In most cases of common colds, sinusitis, and other upper respiratory problems the nerve system is functioning poorly allowing irritation and inflammation to set it. These patients should consult a doctor of chiropractic without delay. Clinical records prove chiropractic superiority... not only in relieving the symptoms and reducing recovery time but in rebuilding resistance thereby reducing the incidence of respiratory conditions.

Millions of people go to chiropractors and receive health care that they had been trying to attain in other health fields.

Chiropractic is for good health not sore backs or stiff necks. CHIROPRACTIC IS THE LARGEST DRUGLESS HEALING PROFESSION IN THE WORLD. WHY? Simple, it works. Someday every man, woman, and child will be under chiropractic care and when they are, we will have a healthy world.

Every Wednesday at 7:00 p.m. we discuss in detail how people attain good health with the help of Chiropractic. If you would like us to help you have a healthier life, attend.

Some Chiropractic Common Sense

Have you noticed how many of your friends go to a chiropractor? At work do you hear more about Chiropractic Care and how much others are being helped by chiropractic adjustments?

Chiropractic is growing by leaps and bounds. Why? One reason. When we find the cause of a condition and we correct that cause, the condition and all its symptoms leave. We don't try to treat the symptoms because symptoms are signals. Signals warn you of an impending problem. They are not to be eliminated with medication. They will cease as soon as their cause is corrected.

Headaches are a symptom (signals), sinus is a symptom (signal), thyroid conditions are symptoms (signals), asthma is a symptom (signal), ulcers are symptoms, etc., etc., etc. On and on the list goes, and all are signals of a body out of control. Lack of control by the brain to reach a particular part of the body. When this happens, that area malfunctions, which in turn, gives off symptoms.

How does the lack of control occur? All brain signals are carried over nerve fibers. If nerve fibers are "pinched," the flow is stopped or partially blocked. An example would be like stepping on a garden hose. The more you press, the less the flow. Decrease the flow of water to a garden and it soon begins to show signs of change (like symptoms). No amount of fertilizer or chemicals (like medication) will help. The foot has to come off the hose and the water reach the garden to bring life back to the plants. Just as the pressure has to come off the "pinched" nerve in order for you to return to health. "Life energy" flows over these nerves from the brain. It is that "life energy" which must be turned on in order for you to regain health.

If life energy is turned off, no amount of medication will bring you back to health. Your friends go to chiropractors because it works. Help us help you. Come in and see us — we can help.

THE TRUTH ABOUT CHIROPRACTIC

I came into the office after seeing Dr. Mashike's sign as I came to work each day. I stopped because of severe pain and swelling in my right knee, which at times caused problems with my daily routines.

When I came in I thought the doctor was an M.D. and I asked if he could drain the water on my knee. The doctor (chiropractor) went on to tell me that chiropractic adjustments of the spine would help my knee. It was after my first adjustment that I began feeling an improvement with my knee.

I would definitely recommend chiropractic to others. It is important that everyone hear the truth about chiropractic and what is being done to restore health through the adjustments of the spine. The only thing I knew about chiropractic before was what I heard from street talk and they've never been to a chiropractor before.

Check For These 11 Danger Signals

CHIROPRACTIC BREAKTHROUGH

We are now using a new technique. It is called the "fifth cervical technique." It is a combination x-ray analysis, precise adjustment and before and after temperature graphing of the spine. The technique allows us to monitor precise control of acute spinal conditions. The use of the temperature graph allows us to determine when to make a corrective adjustment of the spine. Unlike x-rays, the graph can be used many times with zero exposure to radiation.

We are now using this system on all patients in severe pain, or those who have a long-standing condition which has not been helped by any other methods.

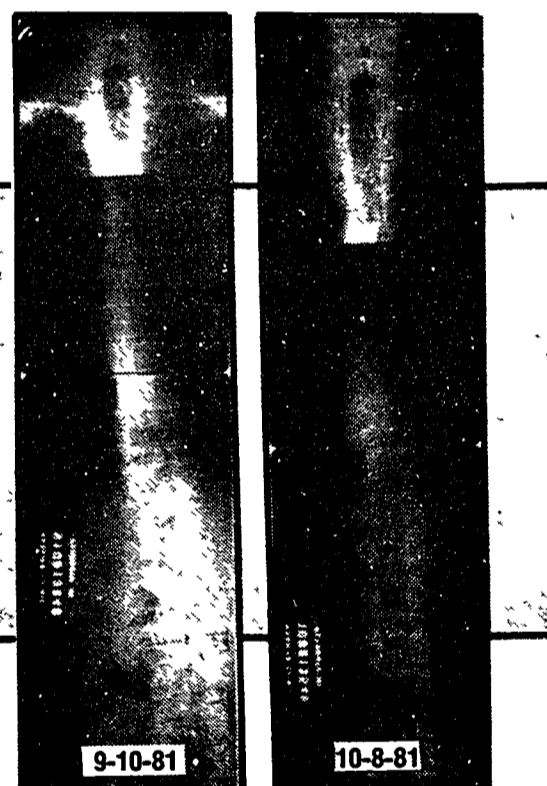

Not only do we correct "back problems," but conditions of eyes, ears, throat, lungs, stomach, etc., etc. This technique quickly removes pressure from pinched nerves, freeing impaired nerve flow, which restores the function of the body to normal.

This technique is a more precise, scientific approach to spinal correction than any other we know. It eliminates guesswork, speeds recovery and requires less exposure to x-ray. Those suffering from job-related injuries are back to work quicker, with less expense to employers than conventional medical care.

The neck is the most important area of the spine. Its curve MUST be correct, if not, even severe low back pain can result. The lower spine can be injected, medicated and adjusted forever with at best, only temporary results. This patient came to us after being treated elsewhere for low back pain. We corrected the neck in four weeks and the pain left.

This spinal correction was made by correcting the neck with our "fifth cervical technique." The patient's spine was never touched below the shoulders. The results again, are in four weeks. In another four weeks, after these x-rays, all signs of the original condition were gone.

A Typical Graphing Procedure

This young man was involved in a rear end collision and suffered a whiplash injury. Three weeks later, even before recheck x-rays were scheduled, his frequency of adjustments were reduced because the graphs indicated a near-complete correction, not only of the neck, but of the entire spine.
