Citizens' committee begins NHS review

Tonight an estimated 34 members who have agreed to serve on the Northville Public Schools' High School Citizens' Advisory Committee will be boarding a bus at the high school at 7:30 p.m. for a visit to inspect Novi High School.

The trip is the second in a series of weekly meetings in which the committee will look into facility and curriculum needs for the high school. Novi High School was selected as an example of new school construction.

Last Wednesday Superintendent George Bell welcomed about 42 committee members and school staff personnel, charging the committee, which was termed a Blue Ribbon one, to study future needs.

"Assume this will be a four-year high school including grades nine through 12 by September, 1985," he said, explaining the present high school built in the 1950s will need remodeling, renovations and additions.

He charged the committee to seek out information and advice and then to make written recommendations to the Northville Board of Education which "reflect the collective judgments of a majority of the committee."

The final report is to be presented to the board of education April 27.

Introducing John Argenta, a Northville resident and architect with the firm of Coquillard, Dolgner, Dundon and Argenta chosen for the renovation planning, Bell said he will be looking at the building and site renovation. It was pointed out that the school with its many windows was built when energy costs were not a consideration, as they must be now.

He noted that "things have changed dramatically" since the high school was built and said now his firm will be reviewing fire marshal and barrier free requirements as part of the renovation.

At the third meeting, it is planned that the Blue Ribbon Committee will be broken into subcommittees with participants becoming familiar in general terms with all aspects of the high school curriculum and facility needs.

Advisory consultant Raymond E. Kehoe was introduced. A former University of Michigan professor in the school of education, he was hired by the Northville School District to work as a consultant for the feasibility study project.

He is considered a foremost authority on school plant planning in this area

35th District Court costs questioned by city council

As city council members questioned portions of the 35th District Court budget Monday night, Judge James Garber admitted that the formula used to apportion costs penalizes communities like Northville and Plymouth Township.

He also told council that he now feels the pending state takeover of the court system eventually will benefit these communities.

Council member J. Burton DeRusha, who serves as council liaison to the court, told Garber that the council "is used to working with more precise budgets" than the one submitted by the court, which Garber said is "really more than I think will be spent."

Garber appeared at the council's request to answer questions but emphasized that Judge Dunbar Davis, not he, is the presiding judge who makes final determinations on budget items and salaries. Court administrator George Wiland, initially scheduled to attend with Garber, was out of town at the Michigan Judicial Institute, Garber explained.

A budgeted salary increase of $5,000 for Wiland came under fire at the session.

DeRusha observed that the increase "is not becoming in my mind," calculating it at almost 20 percent based on current pay thought to be $32,500. Garber stated he was not certain that Wiland currently receives that full amount.

He noted that Wiland has not received an increase in the two years he has been in the post.

"I find it hard to justify the increase," council member Paul Folino told Garber, in view of cuts the judge had detailed in the probation and clerical staffs.

The new budget, put together in October, Garber said was based on last year's figure of $965,000, a sum $123,000 over what actually was spent. He told the council that part of the budget costs were the expensive employee benefit packages that have been part of the union agreement.

Garber was questioned by City Manager Steven Walters regarding the court's commitment to Blue Cross-Blue Shield programs when others, including the city, have gone to less expensive carriers. Walters told Garber he feels the city employees did not lose benefits by agreeing to a change of carrier.

Garber replied that the court employees have been unwilling to change, noting, "You know, it's difficult to get out of (such) contracts."

Walters observed, "It's never been easier."

He asked Garber, "Why ratify if it's not realistic?"

Garber said that salaries had been holding the line but the new contract in January, 1984, probably would grant a small increase but have benefits given back in return.

He explained these could include giving back personal days.

"I think the vacation days between now and March 1 are outrageous," he told council. "It seems we're closed more than we're open with Martin Luther King Day, Lincoln's birthday this Friday and next week George Washington's birthday."

Garber reiterated that he was on hand to answer the council's questions as he had done when he was presiding judge, but that Judge Davis has been presiding last year and this.

He said it is expected he will continue to be until retirement in November, 1984. He will be 70 this July, and that is the mandatory retirement age, Garber explained, noting that it is hoped he can "finish his career as presiding judge." Garber said that the court had expended its budget in 1982 by approximately $50,000, attributing the fact in part to the consolidation under one roof in the new court building as making it possible to reduce the staff by 17 employees.

He emphasized that the only pay raise projected in 1983 was for the court administrator. He pointed out that Wiland has taken over some additional duties, some of which had been done by Magistrate Louis Hopping.

He said the court "has no control" over tickets written, the use formula that council feels is a penalty for the city.

"In Northville the kinds you write are not the larger price tags — you don't have expressways in your boundaries," Garber observed. He cited the race track as the city's only "crime attractor."

Even there, he said, it appears that the person who had perhaps had too much to drink leaves the city and is more likely to be caught driving impaired on the expressway or on Seven Mile in the township.

"This is why I say I think the state takeover will benefit Northville in the long run," he told council.

Garber agreed with Mayor Paul Vernon who asked if the formula based on use "penalizes those that enforce." Canton, which does not, it was agreed, is a case in point.

"I wish I could come to you with a brighter picture," Garber told the council, while saying he feels the costs will be essentially the same as in 1982 for this year.

Justice Department investigates hospital

A federal review currently is being conducted at the Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital on Seven Mile in Northville Township by the Civil Rights Division of the United States Justice Department, it was confirmed this week.

Officials at the Michigan Department of Mental Health say they have not been informed of the content of the review.

According to Patrick Babcock, director of the mental health department, the federal review is the first time an investigation of this type has been conducted in Michigan.

Babcock acknowledged Monday that federal investigators were in the hospital last week. He said the review would take four to six months to complete with repeated visits to the facility.

"We have asked, but they were not willing to tell us the nature of the review," Babcock said.

"I understand this is the procedure in order to protect complainants. We'll still cooperate in supplying them with records. I'm not that interested in the complainant's identity, I would like to know the nature of the complaint so we can give them the correct information," Babcock said.

Babcock said there have been complaints of alleged abuse at the facility. He said the complaints were investigated and the necessary precautions were taken to correct the situations.

Tom DeLoach, public information officer at the mental health department, said the federal review basis of authority is a broad federal statute that allows the Justice Department to review a program in any setting in which people are involuntarily confined.

"The order came down through the governors office in December and it would normally be based on one or more complaints by people interested in the facility.

"Our approach is that we have many reviewers come to the facility and this a more general review of rights of people in the facility," DeLoach said.

"I don't want to be in the position of determining what is under review. They have not told us why that facility was selected among the many in the nation," he said.

The hospital was built to accommodate 750 patients. The current patient population at the hospital is 1060; the staff, including maintenance and workers not in contact with patients, is numbered at 1090, said John Reynolds, director of Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital.

"It makes everything awfully difficult, with a lot of pressure. We are vastly overcrowded," Reynolds said.

Boutique saleswoman assaulted

A Main Street shop saleswoman is in stable condition following an assault Friday night by a man dressed in women's clothing.

Gloria Lane, 56, a Northville resident and saleswoman at the Marquis Boutique, currently is recuperating from head injuries and a fractured rib suffered as a result of Friday's incident.

According to police and witnesses, the incident occurred at approximately 8 p.m. The assailant was described as a white male, approximately six feet tall, 200 pounds with a long black wig and wearing women's make-up. He was dressed in a three-quarter length tan jacket, maroon skirt, wine opaque stockings, light tan shoes and was carrying a black purse.

Lane said she was working alone in the boutique when the assailant entered the shop and asked to see several items of clothing for a friend's daughter. "I was nervous when he came in," she said after noticing he was a man dressed in women's clothing.

"He kept his head turned away and wouldn't look at me," she said. "I also had a hard time hearing what he was saying." According to Lane, the customer said he could not decide about making a purchase and left the store after a few minutes.

After his departure, she said she called the other Marquis boutique to ask if the customer had been in that store.

The saleswoman working at the other shop, who asked not to be identified, said the man had been in the boutique but noted that a customer and her husband were in the store at the time.

Lane said that the suspect returned to her shop while she was on the phone with the other saleswoman.

According to the other saleswoman, Lane hung up the phone without telling her the customer had returned.

"He asked to see a sweater in the corner of the store," Lane said. After selecting a sweater, Lane said she turned around just "as he whipped a black-jack from his pocket and started hitting me over the head."

Police said they are uncertain about whether the weapon was a blackjack or other blunt object.

Lane said she fell to the floor and covered her head but does not remember crying for help. The assailant left the store, but returned seconds later and began hitting her again.

She said he then fled the store while she grabbed a sweater from the rack to cover her bloody head and made her way to the other shop.

The other saleswoman said she and the two customers helped Lane and called for emergency medical assistance.

According to Lane, nothing was said during the attack and robbery apparently was not a motive. Police have no suspects or motivation in the assault.

Northville City Police are asking for information from anyone who may have seen the suspect or observed anything connected with the assault.

and has been involved with a number of projects, including Novi High School.

Future weekly sessions of the committee include a visit also to a renovated high school, Wayne Memorial High School and Westland John Glenn were mentioned as choices.

Plans for faculty interaction with the committee are on the agenda for March 2 with identification of building needs by the administrative staff on March 9.

Other meetings will include discussion of Kehoe's report and that of the architect. Subcommittee reports then will be reported to the committee as a whole and there will be a listing of general findings and conclusions before the report is readied for the board.

Asked what is considered a usable life span of a building, Kehoe said it would be 50 to 60 years, depending on the structure. The architect reported he sees no problem structurally with the building, saying it is sound.

He advised, "shoot for the sky at the beginning, putting everything on the table. At some point, then, the dollar value will have to be discussed. Then choose and throw away."

Bell noted that the high school is located in a "prime location," and Argenta agreed that it is "the most spectacular school site in Wayne County."

"You're not going into a total renovation of the whole building," he said.

Revealing that the district is now at the limit of its seven-mill bonded indebtedness, Bell said the committee would have to make decisions, such as, whether the pool needs to be widened from four lanes to six.

"Your first draft," he warned, "is going to look like Cobo Hall. What you'll want is some nice science rooms, nice grounds, areas you're not ashamed of when you want in. The community is not going to object to a media center, only if it's too fancy."

"The changes will be upgrading, and you do need to upgrade," he concluded.

NEWS BRIEFS

APPLICATIONS now are available in the Northville High School main office for students who wish to register for spring driver's education classes. Application deadline is February 14 and classes begin the week of March 7.

Nutrition, estate planning topics of upcoming courses

"Better Eating for Better Health" is the title of an upcoming seminar co-sponsored by the Northville Public Schools Community Education Program and the American Red Cross.

The seminar will be held from 7-9 p.m. Wednesdays February 23 through March 10 at Northville High School and will be conducted by Yvonne Stephens, Northville Public Schools Food Services Supervisor.

The seminar will focus on nutritional awareness, identifying roles of additives in foods, recognizing major nutritional issues relating to the different stages of the life cycle and learning ways to reduce sodium and sugar in one's diet.

Cost for the seminar is $16 per person and includes Red Cross materials. Registration deadline is February 18.

Northville Public Schools Community Education Department is offering two workshops especially designed for senior citizens.

"Estate Planning" will be offered from 7-9 p.m. February 9 at the Board of Education Offices and from 7-9 p.m. February 23 at Amerman Elementary School.

Cost for each workshop is $5 per person.

Other upcoming workshops include a Pre-Retirement Planning seminar to be held from 7-9 p.m. March 3. It will be conducted by Margaret Southworth, a certified financial planner and tax attorney Jack Couzens. Cost for the workshop is $5 per person or $8 per couple.

For registration or more information, call 349-3400, extension 214.

Davis helps businesses as consultant at CMU

Joan Davis of Northville acted as a free consultant to a local business during the fall semester under Central Michigan University's Small Business Institute program.

The 32 students in the program suggested options for dealing with problems faced by owners of restaurants, bowling alleys, printers, tool and die shops and manufacturing concerns. The practicum let business students exercise their expertise in areas such as finance, marketing and accounting.

Joan is a CMU senior and the daughter of Marie and E. Gene Barr of Northville.

Hang-glider crashes

...in the township

Police report the crash of a Hawk ultra-light aircraft Sunday. The ultra-light crashed on the south side of Six Mile Road, west of Sheldon. Witnesses reported to police that the craft had taken off approximately one-third of a mile from its crash site. The craft was reportedly 150 feet in the air before it started to fall.

According to reports, witnesses watched the craft descend, and then went to the crash site where they saw the pilot lying on the ground.

Reports state the witnesses helped the pilot walk to a car and he was later transported by ambulance to St. Joseph's Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Police report the craft slid for 125 feet before stopping and they observed that the wheels were broken off the craft and damage was done to the right ruder.

tempted unarmed robbery at a Northville business.

The suspect entered the store on February 2 and looked at clothing before asking the salesperson for change for a $50 bill, the report stated.

According to police reports, when the salesperson asked to see the bill, the suspect put his hand inside his coat and told the victim he wanted money. Another customer entered the store and, at this time, the suspect said that he and his wife are separated and he needed money.

The salesperson then offered the suspect money and told him to get something to eat and get some rest, the report stated.

The suspect took the money and gave the victim a false name and address, police said. No suspects have been taken into custody.

Police reported the incident to the National Transportation Safety Board and the FAA.

According to township police, 48 escapees were reported from Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital in January. Twenty four people were reported returned to the facility for the month.

According to the report released by the department, seven escapees were reported by police in January, with 24 of the escapees were still at large when the report was issued.

The total time spent in apprehension and assistance to the Northville state hospital security was nearly two hours.

The department reports that none of the escapees they came in contact with was involved in any criminal activity.

A larceny from a business was reported to police February 2.

According to reports, a man's red leather coat was reported missing by the victim of the larceny. The victim indicated the coat was taken from a chair by his table.

No witnesses or suspects were seen by the victim.

Northville City Police report an at-

Police report the arrest of Gordon Jeffrey Grimes of Farmington. Grimes was arrested February 4 on a charge of aggravated assault stemming from a January incident that took place at the American Legion Post in Northville, reports said.

According to police, Grimes was unable to post bond and he will be arraigned on the charge in 35th District Court.

A breaking and entering was reported at a Northville business on February 2, reports state. The incident occurred between 3:30-6 a.m., according to reports.

Police state that the back door was pried open and an inner office broken into. $200 was taken from a cash register; a pipe found at the scene was confiscated for finger prints, police said.

The incident is still under investigation.

A larceny from a motor vehicle was reported to police on February 1. Cassettes and a holder were taken from the unlocked vehicle around 4 p.m., according to police reports. The vehicle was parked at a West Seven Mile business at the time of the larceny, reports state.

Car registration rises

By GREGORY W. GRAESSLEY

The costs of registering vehicles in Michigan, new and old, will rise during 1983 as the state abandons vehicle weight as a criteria for determining registration fees.

According to State Representative Fred Dillingham, Republican-Fowlerville, the new registration system of passenger cars is based upon the retail value of the automobile.

"The old license plate fee was tied to vehicle weight," Dillingham said. "We've found that new, expensive cars are weighing less and less. Many people felt that by simply raising the fees based upon weight to generate more revenue would put an undue burden on the average taxpayer. Someone who drives an older, heavier car would end up paying more than someone buying a new, lighter vehicle."

Dillingham added that the philosophy behind the new system is that consumers who can afford more money for a vehicle should pay more money in registration fees.

He added that most passenger cars were not significantly heavy enough to merit a weight-based registration system, stating that the heavier, commercial vehicles were the most damaging to state highways.

The new system, which goes into effect for all new cars purchased after October 1, requires that the new car's registration fee must equal 0.4 percent of the car's purchase price (excluding all other taxes). For each of the following three years, the purchase price is reduced 10 percent, before the 0.4 percent factor is employed to determine the car's registration fee.

For example: a car with a purchase price of $7,500 has a registration price of $30 (7,500 multiplied by 0.004). The following year the purchase price is reduced by 10 percent, then 0.4 percent of that figure is the registration fee, or $27.

Court costs questioned

He anticipated that when the state takes over the court system the city, instead of paying additional costs, will realize some returns.

The use method had been agreed upon by the court's advisory board which includes representatives from Plymouth, Northville city and township, and Canton, at a meeting in November, 1982.

Currently, the city has been billed for $25,699 in costs still owed up to 1983. Wiland has billed the city for $17,310 as the initial 1983 payment. The court has been retaining disbursements of revenues in addition to help pay costs.

Tell me about your high gas heating bills and I'll tell you how you can save up to 20%* with Ameri-Therm.

For years I've talked with people who are tired of wasting fuel and money. Gas rates keep going up, so they come to me for advice.

Every day, for homeowners like you, I correct the money-wasting problem of gas energy loss with Ameri-Therm® Vent Dampers.

The problem is very common: When a furnace, boiler or water heater shuts off, warm air is quickly lost up the chimney. Energy escapes, but you still end up paying for it.

People want to save as much as they can, so I tell them to keep heat inside with an Ameri-Therm Vent Damper.

Ameri-Therm is the thermally actuated vent damper that's:

- Proven in millions of locations.
- Saves up to 20%* on fuel bills.
- Popular choice of American homeowners.
- Five year limited warranty.
- Thermally actuated to operate efficiently with no wires, electricity, or other power source.
- Eligible for 15% tax credit.
- Available for gas furnaces, boilers and water heaters.

Northville cheerleaders capture WLAA championship

By DON NEWSTED

Lecia McGuire is a proud woman. McGuire, coach and part-time mother for Northville's talented cheerleading squads, watched with pleasure January 29 as her varsity women swept to their second consecutive Western Lakes Activities Association Cheerleading Championship at Northville High School.

Not to be outdone, Northville's all-sophomore junior varsity team also captured its championship trophy and combined the two squads were crowned WLAA Grand Champions for 1982-83.

Competing at the prestigious Michigan State Sports Camp, Northville claimed not only the team title, but swept all four of the camps individual cheerleader awards.

Jill Anger, a junior, took top honor at MSU, but was followed closely by teammates Sue Bosanko (captain) in second, Sue Buist and Tracy Swope (captain) tied for third. Jody Folino finished fourth.

Northville's junior varsity took third at that competition, but their were no individual awards available.

In addition to the forementioned, Northville's varsity team consists of seniors Lisa Luoma and Beth Henningson. Juniors Amy Holland and Jean Dusablon round out the squad.

McGuire's nine-member Mustang junior varsity consists of Kim McRae, Sandra Horstkotte, Sandy Stevens, Tracy Kohl, Laura Chamberlain, Michelle Craig, Lisa Dye, Jill Taschper (captain) and Kim Harrigan.

"The girls worked real hard to win the conference championship," stated McGuire. "Last year was the first year that our conference held cheerleading championships and since I was the organizer, it meant was something extra special to me. It was like a dream come true for all of us."

"We have had a lot of support from the high school and the community," continued McGuire. "They feel that we have represented the community well and many have actually followed us to competitions. Mr. (Ralph) Redmond (athletic director) has also been very supportive of our program."

At the regionals, Northville will have the opportunity to qualify for the state finals at Alma College February 26 by finishing in the top third of its Class A division.

"I've coached for eight years and qualifying for the state finals is a big deal," emphasizes McGuire. "Michigan has the best high school cheerleaders in the country, so this is a big deal for us."

Halftime exciting at Northville High

Pom pon team members Kim May and Kim Dalessandro strut their stuff

Record photos by Steve Fecht

One can never be sure how Northville's youthful basketball team will perform these winter eves, but it is a comforting feeling to know that the Mustang Pom Pon team always will put on a great halftime show.

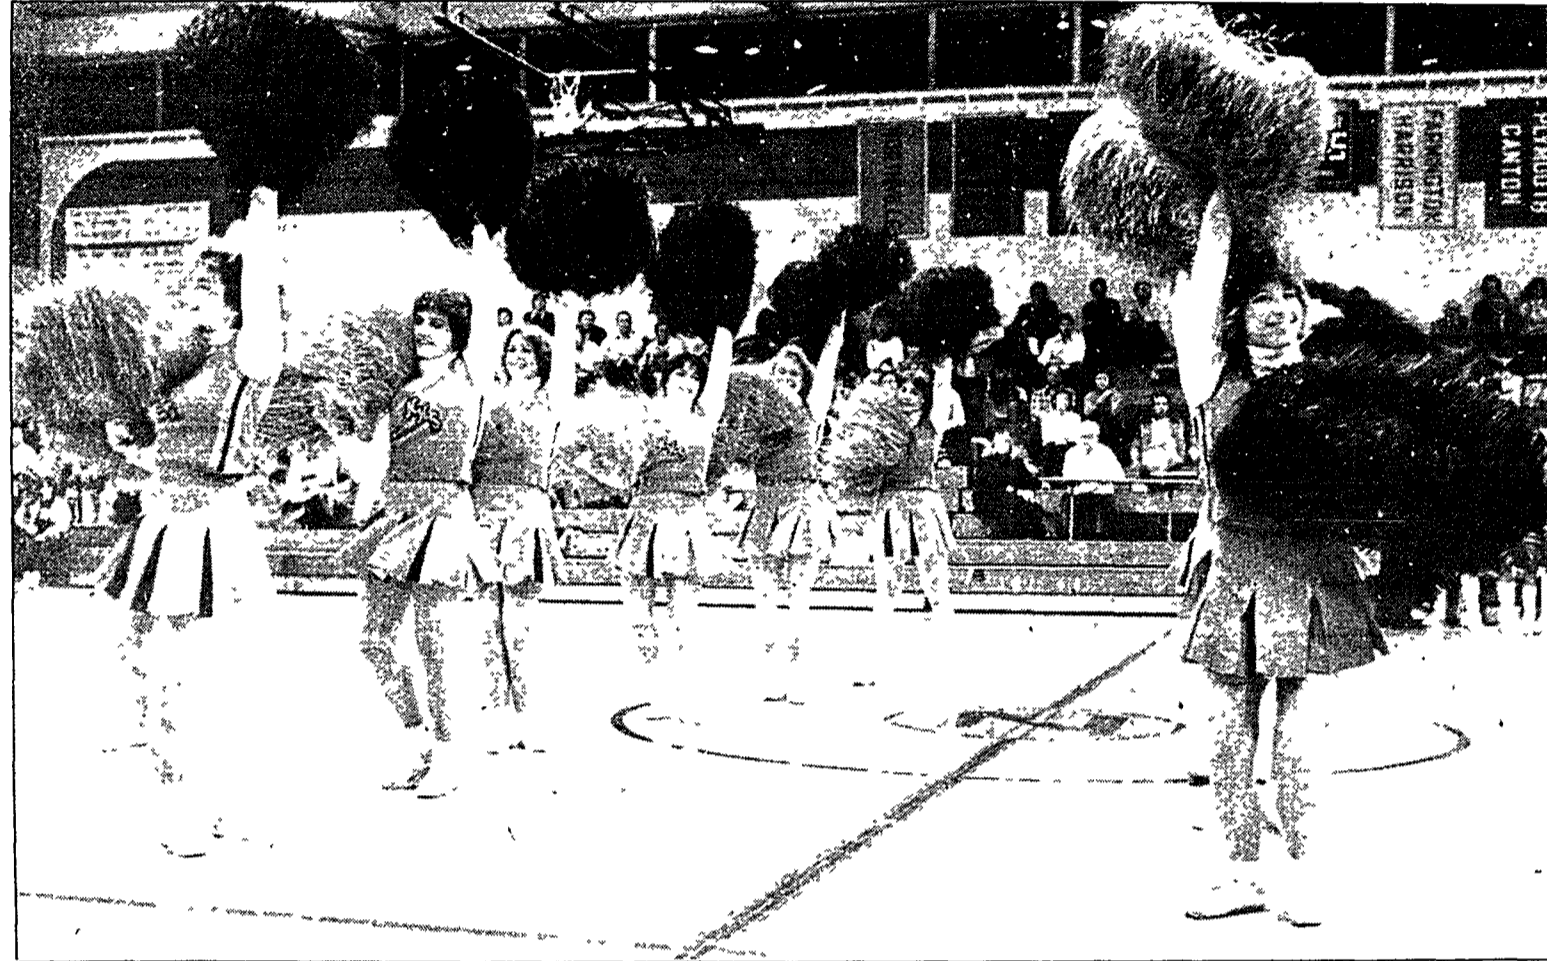

Exciting and entertaining dressed in their endless array of orange and black, Northville's 12-member pom pon team has brought warmth to the hearts of Mustang faithful.

We salute captains Carolyn Dragon and Laura Santos, along with Kim Dalessandro, Angie Goudreau, Pam Stevens, Kim Netke, Alisha Hickman, Lisa Szymula, Kim May, Chris Hanson, Michelle Bryson and Maren Rosmarde for returning excitement to intermissions at Northville High School.

It's coach Linda Kahill who is coordinating the truly beautiful performances.

A sweet smile is Angie Goudreau's secret to success

Even when Northville's basketball team goes on the rocks, the pom pon team remains a winner and generates a genuine case of Mustang fever

Basketball fans at Northville-Walled Lake Western game were entertained by an orange and black pom pon serpent

Landfill proposal gets Washtenaw County approval

Washtenaw County's "five- and 20-year" solid waste disposal plans were approved on a 7-2 vote by the county's board of commissioners February 2.

Casting one of the dissenting ballots was County Commissioner Martin Straub (R-Second District), who represents Salem and Northfield townships. County Commissioner Dillard Craiger of Ypsilanti Township also voted 'no'.

Straub was present February 1 at Salem Township's regular board meeting, which was attended by nearly 100 citizens of Salem and Northville townships. Most of those present either spoke against the proposed expansion of the Holloway Landfill at Six Mile and Napier roads or applauded those who did speak against it.

Straub stated at that meeting that he planned to vote against the county's solid waste disposal plan.

As explained by Fred Barkley, deputy director of the Washtenaw Metro Planning staff, the county is required by Public Act 641 of the State of Michigan to come up with both short and long-term plans for solid waste disposal. These must be approved by two-thirds (19) of the county's 28 municipalities by July 8 in order to meet the requirements of the state bill, Barkley added.

Barkley explained that each municipality will have one vote on the proposal.

Both the five-year and the 20-year plans include the Holloway Landfill, according to Barkley.

Holloway has requested conditional use permits from Salem Township to expand its sand and gravel mining and landfill operations to include the 168 acres adjacent on the west, to the current landfill. An asphalt plant on the southern portion of that property is also in the discussion stages.

Residents of Northville Township in Wayne County which lies adjacent on the east to the present landfill have joined Salem Township residents in organizing to fight the expansion. The group's concerns involve the increased air, noise and water pollution which they say will result from the expansion.

Angry citizens of both townships berated Salem board members at the February 1 meeting when the board refused to pass a resolution asking the Washtenaw County commissioners to postpone voting on the solid waste plan until after the Salem Planning Commission had made its recommendation and the township board has acted on the Holloway request.

After repeated requests by the citizens, Board Member Fernan Rohraff, who also sits on the Salem Township Planning Commission, finally offered such a motion but it died for lack of support. Board Member Harvey Barkley, chairing the meeting due to the illness of Township Supervisor Floyd Taylor, explained that he could not second the motion since he was acting as chairperson.

Neither Township Clerk Nancy Geiger nor Township Treasurer Russell Knight gave their reasons for not seconding the motion.

Several citizens announced that they planned to attend the county commissioners' meeting and Geiger said Monday that about a dozen citizens did. She added that James Fulkerson of Salem Township and three Northville Township residents also spoke against the county plan and the proposed Holloway expansion at that meeting.

Barkley said there are three landfills in Washtenaw County presently—Holloway, Chelsea Village and Ann Arbor City. In addition, he explained that a portion of Washtenaw's waste goes to Wayne Disposal at 1-94 and Rawsonville Road and to Manchester Transfer in Lenawee County.

Angry residents of the landfill area have complained that the Holloway fill actually gets approximately 10 percent of its waste from Washtenaw and the remainder comes from other areas.

Barkley said the reverse is also true and a percentage of the county's waste is transported outside of Washtenaw for disposal.

The metro planning director said all five sites, including the proposed Holloway Landfill expansion, are a part of Washtenaw's state required short- and long-term solid waste plans.

Three task forces are being established immediately, Barkley explained. One is a sanitary siting committee, another is an energy recovery group to monitor new technology for developing energy from solid waste and the third is a source separation recycling committee. Barkley said this latter group will encourage waste recycling drop-off stations which would help reduce the amount of refuse in the county's "waste stream."

We helped the Torturos when fire destroyed their home. Who can you turn to?

Red Cross disaster relief doesn't stop with just food, clothing and shelter. We helped Michael and Phyllis Torturo re-establish their source of income. Then showed them how to use those funds to obtain a trailer home for their family.

What if the next fire in town destroys your home? Who can you count on to lend a helping hand? You can count on us.

Jerod Swallow and Shelley Propson are victorious at Broadmoor Ice Arena in Novice Pairs competition

Skater Jerod Swallow lives his dream on ice

By DON NEWSTED

Some men dream, but make dreams their master. Jerod Swallow dreams, but lives each day with the realization that he alone controls the destiny of his desire to skate in the 1988 Olympic Games.

Swallow, a 16-year old Northville High School sophomore, has stuck his talented feet in the door leading to the Calgary Winter Olympics with several impressive performances on the ice.

Participating in the prestigious Midwestern Sectional Ice Skating Championships in Colorado Springs, Colorado, in early January, Swallow, with the help of a few friends, captured a pair of gold medals.

Skating in tandem with Shelley Propson, a petite 13-year old from Rochester, the Michigan pair won a gold medal in the novice pairs division at world famous Broadmoor Ice Arena.

Jodie Balogh, a Livonia native who has been sharing the ice with Swallow for almost the entire five years he has been skating, helped prove that practice can approach a state of perfection.

In the novice ice dancing competition, the Balogh-Swallow duo, jointly coached by former United States pairs and dance champion Johnny Johns and one-time British National ice dance champion Peter Dalby, added another gold medal to their ever growing list of achievements.

Adding icing to Swallow's already well-decorated cake was the satisfaction of being the only double-gold medal winner at the Midwesterns.

"Winning the Midwestern championships was really exciting," Swallow said of his gold-tinted triumphs. "All the people were congratulating me, and it makes you feel like you have really achieved something. It made me feel like all the long training hours had really paid off."

"I was really nervous with the pairs championship," Swallow said honestly. "But once I got out on the ice, everything went all right."

Success at Broadmoor, however, didn't occur without some sense of insecurity.

"The world rink at Broadmoor is 15 feet shorter than our local rinks," explained Jerod's father John, an avid and ardent supporter of his rising star son.

"The difference really made a difference when he first arrived," continued the elder Swallow. "During his pairs competition, Jerod bounced off the boards, but didn't fall down. He came out of a side-by-side spin and just continued on. It was a tough transition, but things worked out fine."

Reaching the novice championships didn't come without plenty of dedication and hard work, including over 30 hours of practice per week split between the National Academy of Ice

Swallow's novice pairs a 'golden' success story

Skating in Brownstown Township and the Detroit Skating Club.

"There is a 78-mile triangle between Brownstown, the Detroit Skating Club and Northville," said John Swallow with the ring of an offspring transportation expert. "We have arranged for Jerod to be released from his classes at the high school at noon each day, which makes things a lot easier for all concerned. But getting there on time with ice schedules so tightly regulated can create problems."

That concern is easily understood when you consider that John Swallow is principal of South Middle School in Novi and wife Gay teaches at Plymouth's Miller Elementary School. Both are busy people.

Throw in Jerod's practice allotments for weight training, ballet and gymnastics skills that have to be learned, and free time for the 10th grader to enjoy his hobby of downhill skiing is scarce.

Tight schedules and travel expenses don't seem to bother the Swallows, however, a fact that seems to have extended throughout the entire household at 318 Rogers in Northville.

"About a year and a half ago, Jerod was ready to hang it up," his father says with a grin, "but his brother (Adam, a varsity swimming star at Northville High School) helped talk him out of it, and everything has been fine since."

For Jerod, who started his ice existence at the rather late age of 11 as a junior hockey player, the phase of questioning commitments is long since past. "The motivation and self-discipline have got to be there and not everyone can do that," Jerod says with the sound of a future educator himself. "It's tough sometimes to keep mentally prepared for competitions that are so far apart, but those competitions are the positives that keep you going." Although ice skating competitions are not common place, several important events on the Swallow 1983 agenda are forthcoming.

Looming seriously pertinent in Jerod's plan for Calgary in 1988 is a February date with the U.S. Figure Skating Association which the Swallows feel should improve the skater's competitive status to the junior level. From there, Olympic eligibility is just one step away.

Further tests will come during a March session in Columbus, Ohio, where a judges' seminar will rate midwestern skaters.

The end result of proving himself in midwestern circles will be the U.S. National Junior Championships later this year in Salt Lake City, Utah. An impressive performance in Utah will lead to the Junior World Championships in Sapporo, Japan, in 1984.

"Next year, if we do well at the Nationals, we will go to the World Juniors in Japan," Jerod said hopefully, "but my ultimate goal is to be on the 1988 Olympic team that will go to Calgary."

Meeting former U.S. Olympians David Santee and Scott Hamilton has only increased Swallow's keen sense of where he wants to be in five years.

"It was a thrill to meet those people and learn from their coaches," Jerod said with a gleam in his eye. "But we (partners) want to model ourselves after Ty Babalonia and Randy Gardner (former U.S. Olympic ice-dance champions). They have style, strength and unison in pairs' dancing. It's beautiful to see."

With career foresight like Jerod possesses, lifetime ambitions to appear in professional ice shows and teach skating seem well within his grasp.

Just hold the contracts until the spring of 1988, when a young man's dream has been fulfilled.

Longtime ice dance partners Jodie Balogh and Jerod Swallow skate smoothly to a gold medal at Midwestern Ice Skating Championships of A. Allen Tuchklaper, D.D.S.

Dental Dialogue
 HARD TIMES

Q. Does my son have so much decay because he has soft teeth?
 A. No. Teeth aren't soft at all, they are extremely hard. The enamel on teeth is the hardest tissue in your body. In fact, it is one of the hardest natural substances, harder than even gold or iron. It is this quality that protects teeth from the enormous wear and tear they encounter. We know that the longer the enamel remains in the mouth the harder it becomes. That is why people over the age of twenty have a slower rate of decay. While it is true some teeth are more susceptible to decay, the reason isn't because they are "soft". Good dental care and regular check-ups are still the best way to combat decay.

This column is presented in the interest of better dental health. From the office of A. Allen Tuchklaper, D.D.S., 24101 Novi Road, Novi 348-3100

Obituaries

Lifelong resident Russell Williams, 81, dies

Lifelong Northville resident Russell Albert Williams, 81, died January 28 at Great Lakes Convalescent Center in Detroit.

A retired painter, he was a resident of Novi Street. Funeral services were private with arrangements made by Casterline Funeral Home.

Mr. Williams was born in Detroit, April 26, 1901, to Charles and Jessie (O'Hara) Williams. He was preceded in death by his wife Margaret in 1981.

He is survived by his daughters Dorothy Baker and Ruth Girardin, both of Northville.

RUBY M. WILLIAMS

Northville Public Schools' employee Ruby M. Williams died February 1 at her Carpenter Street home. She was 61.

A resident of the community since 1940, she was born in Red Cloud, Nebraska, April 14, 1921, to Harry and Hazel (Schull) Nitzel.

Funeral service was at 11 a.m. February 4 at Casterline Funeral Home. The Reverend Guenther Branstner of First United Methodist Church officiated. Burial was at Rural Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Williams is survived by her husband Homer and her daughter Barbara Van DeVen of Manchester.

Other survivors include her brothers Paul Nitzel of Northville, Norman Nitzel of Arizona, Gene Nitzel of Ohio, Dean Nitzel of Plymouth and her sister Mrs. Opal Pauger of Plymouth.

She also is survived by two grandchildren.

CARMEN B. RUSSELL

Former Northville State Hospital

registered nurse Carmen B. Russell died February 1 at her home on Harsens Island after a long illness. She was 86.

Born in Texas, December 23, 1896, to William and Nannie (Tear) Houston, she had been a member of Orchard Hills Baptist Church in Novi.

Funeral service was held at 11 a.m. February 3 at Casterline Funeral Home. Pastor Gary Schwitz officiated, and burial was at Rural Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Russell is survived by her husband William and her sons Wilbur and Larry Russell.

She also is survived by her brother Bernie, eight grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren.

NELLIE MAY DAYTON

Funeral service for area resident Nellie May Dayton was held at 1 p.m. Monday at Casterline Funeral Home.

The Reverend Guenther Branstner of First United Methodist Church officiated. Burial was at Oakland Hills Memorial Gardens in Novi.

Mrs. Dayton, a South Lyon resident, died February 5 at St. Joseph Hospital in Ann Arbor. She was 82.

Born in West Branch, May 14, 1900, to John and Elgie (Benjamin) Rowden, she was a homemaker. Mrs. Dayton was preceded in death by her husband Acel in 1971.

She is survived by her daughter Velma Gray of Northville and her sons Charles Dayton of West Branch, Harold Dayton of South Lyon, Robert Dayton of Woodstock, New York, and Bruce Dayton of Novi.

She also is survived by 13 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

NINA HOWELL

Funeral service for Nina O. Howell was to be held at 11 a.m. today at Christ the King Church. Father Victor Clore is officiating. Burial will be at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery in Southfield.

A rosary was held Tuesday at Ross B. Northrop and Son Funeral Home.

Mrs. Howell died February 6 at University Convalescent Home in Livonia. She was 83.

A homemaker, she was born in Westville, Illinois, April 19, 1899, to Oren and Margaret (McCulley) Crum. She was a member of St. Mary's Church of Redford and Christ the King Church.

She was preceded in death by her husband Keith in 1971.

Mrs. Howell is survived by her sons John of West Bloomfield, Jerome of River Rouge, James of Northville, Joseph of Plymouth and Robert of Wayne.

Other survivors include her brother Keith Crum of Detroit, her sister Marie Testa of Georgetown, Illinois, 18 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Irma L. Small, a resident of Schoolcraft in Livonia, who operated an animal kennel, died January 22 in Livonia. She had many customers from the Northville area.

Funeral service was held at 10 a.m. January 26 at St. Edith's Catholic Church with the Reverend Father James C. Scheick officiating.

Burial was in Riverside Cemetery. The family suggests that Mass offerings may be made in memory of Mrs. Small. Arrangements were by Schrader Funeral Home in Plymouth.

Born July 22, 1907, in Somerfield, Pennsylvania, Mrs. Small married Michael E. Small, who survives.

She also leaves a daughter Mrs. William (Madeleine) Shortt of Farmington Hills, a son Eugene V. of Livonia, six grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Weaver to speak at seminar

Arthur Weaver, M.D., of Northville is one of the scheduled speakers at a course on oral cavity carcinoma to be presented by Wayne State University March 30.

Dr. Weaver will speak on "Etiology and Magnitude of the Problem" at the course sponsored by the Department of Otolaryngology at Wayne State.

The course will be held at the Sheraton Southfield Hotel and is co-sponsored by the Michigan Dental Association, the Michigan Dental Hygienists Association, the Michigan Cancer Foundation and the American Academy of Family Physicians.

The registration is $100 for physicians and dentists, $60 for hygienists ($15 more at the door). The course is approved for 7.25 category I CME credits.

He's promoted at Howe

Howe Military School in Howe, Indiana, promoted Cadet Pfc. Anthony J. Hamilton to the rank of Corporal January 18. A freshman at the school, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hamilton of Northville.

He received the school's marksman badge December 16 after qualifying for the award.

Betty Hoffman, Janet Brown and Carol Ann Donnelly arrange FISH closet

FISH expands the local clothes closet

Residents of Northville and Novi who need emergency aid in the form of food, clothes or just to find out what agency can help them with their problem often turn to FISH.

FISH is an emergency, non-financial service run by volunteers who can help people in need; officers stress their aim is to help quickly and confidentially.

The newest service offered by FISH is a clothes closet located in the basement of the First Presbyterian Church in Northville. The closet is open on Monday and Wednesday from 10 a.m. to noon.

Carol Ann Donnelly, a board member of FISH, runs the clothes closet on Monday and Wednesday mornings with the help of church members. "The clothes closet is doing real well. What we do need are baby clothes and up to size 10 children's clothes. We go through them so quickly. FISH always had a closet, but until January it was in my basement. It was all by appointment then and I ran it myself, but now more and more people are coming to the church and we're getting a lot more help.

"Even though we're only open for the two mornings, people can call to make an appointment if that's not convenient for them. A lot of people are struggling, like single parents who work; so we try to help them by getting them to the closet when they can make it," Donnelly said.

FISH is capable of responding to almost any emergency need situation, she added.

"We can do almost anything. We can get food out, do baby-sitting, cleaning, driving and handyman things. But all of this is strictly on an emergency, short-term basis. We don't have the manpower to do anything on a long-term basis," Donnelly explained.

The Northville-Novu FISH chapter has over 70 members. Most volunteers work the telephones, and about a dozen people are on the driving list.

Donnelly said the aid given by FISH is growing each year and the organization needs volunteers who can pick up and deliver large items.

"More people know about the service, and we advertise every week in the papers and other places. I think things are getting worse, because I've been putting in overtime for quite a while and we can always use help," she said.

Donnelly emphasized that FISH services are for emergency needs only. "Sometimes people will keep calling for something every three days, and it's not even an emergency. I keep track of the situations, we get the help to the people, and I make sure nobody is abusing the service. I can refer them to the people who can help them on a long-term basis."

FISH can also loan wheelchairs, walkers and other medical items.

FISH has a 24-hour emergency answering service for Northville and Novi. The number is 349-4350 and is for emergency need situations.

Our Opinions

Two's better

We didn't have much expectation that the fight led by new State Representative Willis Bullard Jr., R-60th District (which includes the Oakland County portion of the City) for a two-year pay freeze for Legislators and other state officials would be successful.

It certainly seemed warranted, however. Its failure now places Michigan in the position of having the highest paid legislators and officials in the country when the latest increases become effective in 1984.

Realistically, Bullard agrees that his resolution to reject the determination of the State Officers Compensation Commission to grant the raises in 1984 to the Legislators, Governor, Lieutenant Governor and Supreme Court Justices was doomed from the beginning. He was able to find only 19 co-sponsors from a total of 110 House members.

"Everything was stacked

Bullard tried

The recent decision to retain Bushnell Congregational's Detroit church understandably has brought cheers from its city-based congregation. To close the doors of the more than 50-year-old stronghold undoubtedly would have been a tremendous loss to its congregation.

While we are pleased that Bushnell will keep its Detroit church open, we are even more pleased to see that plans for a new church on Meadowbrook Road still are a reality. We believe that much of the credit for keeping the dream of a Northville church alive belongs to Bushnell's minister Robin Meyers.

Since taking the helm of the liberal Protestant Congregational church almost two years ago, Meyers has been caught in the middle of one of Bushnell's most agonizing decisions — whether to sell its Detroit church and build a new church in the Northville/Novi area. Unfortunately, this difficult decision has created considerable animosity between the Detroit and suburban congregations.

The congregation's January 23 vote to retain the northwest Detroit church reversed its 1979 decision to sell the more than 50-year-old structure and move its membership to the suburbs. The decision also appeared to have dashed the hopes of building a new Bushnell in Northville, as construction of a new church would be dependent on selling the $1 million structure on Southfield Road.

We need them

The observation recently was made that this community seems to have more of what used to be called traditional families than is usual today — and, therefore, there are many non-employed mothers in such families here. The point was made that, because of this situation, there has been considerable volunteer involvement.

This being Jaycette Week, it seems an appropriate time to acknowledge the many projects in which these young women are involved. As Jaycee President Doug Boor points out, without their volunteer assistance many projects for senior citizens, for the burn center, for children at Halloween and Christmas would not exist.

Another organization that would not exist without volunteers against us," he summed up last week as he reported that a like resolution in the Senate was defeated on a voice vote and that his resolution died in the House Appropriations Committee before the February 1, 1983, deadline without a hearing. Unfortunately, voice votes make it impossible to know how local representatives vote. It would have taken a two-thirds vote by members of both the House and Senate to reject the raises.

When the state is millions of dollars in debt and the Governor is asking taxpayers to sacrifice by paying higher state income taxes and when expected funds are not being sent to governmental and school units, we agree with Bullard that everyone — including Legislators and other public officials — should be willing to sacrifice.

Bullard is to be commended, however, for his stand and giving what he called "a good college try"

Despite claims that Bushnell will pull out of its plans to build in Northville, Robin Meyers has stood firm in his decision to construct a new church on Meadowbrook Road. While he has fought to keep the Detroit church open, he has not waned in his pledge to the small congregation meeting in New School Church at Mill Race Village.

Meyers' optimism leads us to believe there will be a Bushnell in Northville. He has shown his devotion to Bushnell's congregation by conducting the 9 a.m. sermon each Sunday in New School Church before heading to Detroit for the 11 a.m. service. Without an assistant for more than a year, he claims he can continue to divide his time between the two congregations for as long as its necessary.

Though he has been criticized for supporting the congregation's decision to retain the Detroit church, Meyers says he believes the decision will ease the hard feelings among the congregations. No longer fearful of losing their church, we hope the Detroit members can work with their suburban members in building a sister church in Northville.

Two years ago — shortly after his selection as Bushnell's youngest senior minister — Meyers noted that not every minister gets an opportunity to build a church. We hope that opportunity becomes a reality for Robin Meyers and Bushnell Congregational.

is FISH, the Northville-Novi emergency help group that offers immediate aid to others. FISH volunteers long have transported those needing a way to get to the doctor, have supplied food and other help.

Last month the clothing closet run by FISH and supplied by community donations expanded to a permanent location in the basement of First Presbyterian Church. Anyone needing clothing may visit the clothes closet for whatever is required — and there is no charge. Without dedicated volunteers who help when the room is open and who sort the donations, it could not exist to serve today's need.

We can be thankful there are such volunteers aiding our community. We all would be poorer without them.

Flu's worse when you're alone

I suppose it was reciprocation for the lack of snow we've had this winter. Nevertheless, last Wednesday I came down with what everyone else seems to have caught — the flu.

For the past few days, I have managed to sniffle through an entire box of Kleenex, swallow a bottle of aspirin and turn into a cold medicine junkie to help fight off a fever, chills, sore throat and runny nose.

I realize I haven't been the only flu sufferer this year. In fact, I know of many people with the same ailments. While I'm not sure this little "bug" has reached epidemic proportions, there has been a dramatic number of students out of school due to illness and many employees taking sick days to try and shake their aches and pains and rid their stuffy heads.

Last week, the number of absences among Northville Public Schools' students peaked with an estimated 15 percent of the student body absent from class due to the flu. In relation to other years, that is twice as many absences due to sickness.

In our office, just the mention of the flu sends everyone into hiding. While we haven't resorted to wearing surgical masks, we've all been walking around with our fingers crossed. With only three staff writers and one editor, all workers are regarded as a precious commodity. Two of us already have caught the little bugger — fortunately it wasn't at the same time.

When it comes to sickness, I am among the world's greatest cowards. This last flu bout only reinforced that observation. What made matters worse, however, was that I had to suffer the ailment alone. That's right, I had to fetch my own orange juice, take my own temperature and fluff my own pillows. All this suffering because my mother had the audacity to go to Florida prior to my pending illness.

While it may sound rather ridiculous for a 24-year-old to be blubbering about taking care of herself for a few days, I have to confess that illness brings out the infant syndrome in me. I seem to fall apart with every ache and pain. I feel the need to be babied, coddled and nurtured under the tender loving care of family.

With no one home to take care of this poor, helpless creature, I was left to fend for myself. While I missed having my mother bring me my favorite "sick" foods — baked potatoes, fruit cocktail, saltines, and ginger ale with vanilla ice cream — I was consoled by the fact that our two dogs decided they would keep me company.

For three days, the little mutts breathed their swamp breath all over me, traipsed across my pillows and parked themselves at the foot of my bed. They barked at every car that drove by the house, demanded to be let outside every half-hour and hogged half of my bed. Every time I turned over or tried to move my legs I hit a beagle or poddle.

At the conclusion of the weekend I decided I had had enough. Feeling somewhat better, though not entirely up to par, I knew my only relief would be returning to the office. My sickness had turned into dogitis.

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

I tried my hand at sales once. It was back in the days when I was young and impressionable and allowed someone to convince me that the only person who could stop me from becoming a multi-millionaire by selling life insurance was Phil Jerome.

I remember one of the stories about sales techniques that came out of the training seminars. It seems that a mother was looking for sneakers for a youngster who was bound and determined to have Red Ball Jets.

They went from shoestore to shoestore, but were unable to find the kind of sneakers desired by the youngster. They never did find the Red Ball Jets, but they finally bought a pair of sneakers from a salesman who used his head. When asked if the store carried Red Ball Jets, the salesman responded, "No, but we've got something even faster."

The best salesman I ever met personally worked at Vic Tanny's. I was embarked on a rigorous, three-times-per-week training program, trying to lose the spare tire around my middle.

I worked, I slaved, but the tire refused to disappear. Finally, I went to one of the instructors for advice. "Look," I said, "I'm doing three sets of 50 situps three times a week on the top bar — the one that puts you at a 45 degree angle. But I've still got this fat around my middle."

The instructor/salesman eyed my middle and then checked my workout regimen.

"You're doing three sets of 50 situps? Three times a week? Off the top bar?" he asked, repeating the words slowly to make sure he had heard me accurately.

"Yes," I assured him. "But my spare tire won't go away."

"Jerome," he finally responded. "I just want you to know that underneath that layer of fat you have a stomach of steel."

I never made it in the life insurance game. But I have a strong suspicion that somewhere out there is a multi-millionaire insurance salesman who got his start as an instructor at Vic Tanny's.

Readers Speak

Resident likes service, merchandise shopping locally

To the Editor:
Several weeks ago there was a very convincing article in The Record about shopping Northville. I agreed at the time but did nothing about it. But the several times I have shopped Northville, the courtesy of the salespeople in the various stores made an impression on me.

Therefore, I had to express it here. May I help you?
If you shop Northville you may hear this question as you saunter down the store aisles.
— Some time ago, my neighbor suggested I accompany her downtown for a few errands. It was nice weather and a short outing would be pleasant.

I think we stopped in most every store on Main Street — the window displays were so inviting. Given a bit of time, just to look around, shortly a smiling, friendly salesperson asked "the question."

Sure enough, she could. The few items we had been hunting for weeks elsewhere were right there for us. Shopping bags were required by the time we covered both sides of the street.

I went in to renew our insurance (which George had asked I care for) and made a future appointment with the attorney.
By lunchtime, we felt a shake and sandwich would be just fine. We enjoyed these among the bustle and greetings with many of our friends — business people on their lunch hours.

In a week or so my neighbor called again and asked I accompany her to a nearby mall. She wanted a special dress for the club party. We parked and then walked and walked to the entrance and then looked for the dress shop.
Three salespersons were visiting as we walked in, spoke to us, but made no effort to help or direct us. As we looked over the dress cases, trying to make out the tags which gave the size and price, I finally took one dress out and held it up. This elicited action on the part of a helper.

Crowding in a small room with two dresses, the "tryng on" process began. Neither dress seemed to be what my neighbor had in mind. The helper went out and brought in another frock, but, after a trial, it failed also.

There was still a bit of chatter among the three as we took our leave and walked the long distance of the parking lot. Neighbor decided we would try the shops in Northville and see if she would be successful.

In a few days we were back downtown with one purpose — the purchase of a fantastic dress. It did not take long for just the right one to be presented and it looked fabulous — color, fit and style (no alterations.)

Such good fortune required a leisurely and special lunch. Entering, we found the ambience delightful, the food great, the coffee hot and rich. We ended with special wine.

Relaxed and pleased with what we had accomplished, we returned to our car — just behind the stores. Next time I want to look closely at that handsome chair and candle table in the window of a store just around the corner. Also, I want to get more of that luscious homemade candy.

Why does one feel "bigger is better," that the "other pasture is greener," the "mark-downs are bigger?"
Shop Northville — be served well — save gasoline and parking fees — and keep your money in Northville.
A Northville booster

Jaycettes praised — on national week

To the Editor:
I think during Jaycette Week February 6-12 it is appropriate to publicly thank the Northville Jaycettes and President Debbie Anderson for the tremendous contribution that they make to the community.

These women give tirelessly of their energies to projects that benefit our community. The senior citizens and the handicapped persons have benefited from the special projects and hayride socials.

Lives are — and will be — saved through the blood drives and contributions to the Jaws of Life. Newborn babies will live to enjoy life because of the infant disease and burns prevention awareness programs. Kids will have happier holidays with the toys collected and Santa Visits scheduled because of these women.

Our own Jaycee chapter would not be able to run the caliber projects — July 4th, Easter Egg Hunt, Haunted House, Pancake Fly-In — without these dedicated individuals working.

Northville Jaycettes, we thank you. You are truly the most dynamic organization and progressive contributors with whom I have ever been associated.

Yours truly,
Douglas Boor,

New drunk driving law to take effect April 1

By R. ROBERT GEAKE
State Senator

Hey, Foster Brooks, Dean Martin, Andy Capp and Leroy Lockhorn: we're not laughing at drunks anymore in Michigan.

Anyone who watches television or reads the comics is used to seeing drunks portrayed as lovable lugs who stumble into their cars and drive home to the waiting spouse with the rolling pin after a night on the town. In Michigan, after April 1 when our new drunk driving laws go into effect, citizens who choose to get behind the wheel while they're under the influence won't be taken lightly anymore.

They'll be treated as the potential killers that they are.

We are cracking down on drunk drivers in a big way. In fact, Michigan will have the stiffest penalties in the nation for drunken stiffs.

Why? Because it's time we stopped laughing. It's time we stopped sympathizing with drunk drivers and sighing, "There but for the grace of God go I." It's time we faced facts: drunk drivers are lethal weapons behind the wheel and far too many innocent people have suffered at their expense.

Did you know that about as many Americans die in traffic accidents year as we lost during the entire duration of the Vietnam War? And that over half of these victims — 25,000 in 1981 — were involved in accidents where alcohol was a factor? In Michigan, in 1980, 1,025 people lost their lives in alcohol-related accidents. That's 57.8 percent of our total highway deaths.

As we passed this bill in the Legislature last year, many argued that a law won't do the job. That if someone's going to drive drunk, he'll continue to do so because he doesn't realize or won't admit he's had too much booze to react quickly and drive safely. Or that we'll always have the "macho" types who set out to prove that a "real man" can hold his liquor enough to drive himself home.

That may be true. This law is certainly not a panacea that will get every drunk driver off the road. It's only a beginning. Education and peer pressure and good sense are going to have to play a role as well. But it may make drinkers think twice about taking that "one for the road" if they realize that a breathalyzer reading of 0.10 or more will be considered an automatic crime instead of just a presumption of drunkenness. And that there will be a lot less chance for plea bargaining.

Some other particulars: police will be allowed to administer preliminary roadside breath tests for more evidence toward conviction. First offenders will have their licenses suspended for at least six months and up to two years, and they'll have a tougher time getting restricted licenses for driving back and forth to work.

Second offenders will have their licenses revoked for at least one year and third time violators will be found guilty of a felony punishable with a minimum five-year license revocation. Second and third offenders won't be able to get restricted licenses at all.

Our present jail and fine penalties for all offenses will remain intact. That means imprisonment for up to 90 days and a fine of $100 to $500, or both. In addition, all convicted offenders will have to undergo screening for substance abuse problems and accept treatment — at their own expense — if the court orders it. The court will also be authorized to sentence anyone convicted of a drunk driving offense to up to 12 days of community service.

Penalties for those driving "impaired" by liquor — with a blood alcohol level of .07 to .10 percent — will become more stringent under our new law too. First and second offenders will have their licenses suspended and third offenders will have them revoked.

I supported this new law and I look forward to it going into effect on April 1. I'll breathe easier and at least hope that we'll begin to see it serving as a deterrent to drunken driving.

I don't like driving down the highway knowing that no matter how sober or alert I am, I could be victimized in seconds by a drunk driver who can't concentrate on the median, or even stay awake.

I don't like worrying about my children or friends or colleagues being potential targets. And I'm tired of reading news stories about good people who hoped to make society better being killed in such a senseless way. It's simply no funny.

State Representative Willis Bullard Jr., R-60th District (includes the Oakland County portion of the City of Northville), has expressed disappointment in losing the fight he led for a two-year pay freeze for Legislators and other state officials.

Bullard was the sponsor in the Michigan House of Representatives of a resolution rejecting the determinations of the State Officers Compensation Commission that raises be granted in 1984 to the Legislators, Governor, Lieutenant Governor and Supreme Court Justices.

He was able to find only 19 co-sponsors for his resolution out of a total of 110 members of the House. All 20 sponsors were Republicans.

"When the Governor is asking taxpayers to sacrifice by paying higher income taxes, I believe all members of our society, including Legislators and other public officials should be willing to sacrifice," Bullard said.

Bullard's resolution was sent to the House Appropriations Committee where it died, before the February 1, 1983, deadline, without a hearing.

The Michigan Senate voted by a voice vote to defeat an identical resolution introduced in that body. It would have taken a two-thirds vote by members of both the House and the Senate to reject the raises.

When Shorter is Better

Should you always load your 35mm camera with a 36 exposure roll of film?
The answer is... Not necessarily. There are times when using a 12-20 or 24-exposure roll is better.

You might want to take a group of pictures out of doors in daylight, then switch to indoor photography. For best results, you would want to switch from daylight to indoor color film.

There are times when you want to use a film with a 400 ASA rating for capturing fast action, then move to subjects which are moving more slowly or require less lighting. Perhaps you want film with a 100 ASA rating to avoid graininess. Using shorter film rolls will allow this flexibility.

The sooner you get your film processed after it is exposed, the better. Exposed film left in a camera too long will fade and lose detail. The shorter film roll means you can get your film processed right away without losing unexposed film and you can see your photographs as quickly as possible.

Come in and discuss your film needs with us. We'll show you how to save time and money at f-stop, 43220 Grand River, Novi, 348-9355.

Law sees aid for state in transportation plans

By GERALD LAW
State Representative

The dollar volume of contracts awarded for improvements on Michigan's highways, roads and streets will more than double this year, going from $146 million last year to an estimated $315 million in 1983, according to the State Transportation Department.

The great bulk of the money will be spent for reconstruction and other improvements on existing highways, rather than on new construction.

The transportation financing will also create jobs in Michigan. Obviously, jobs will be developed in industries serving highway maintenance and construction. But, there is also a definite relationship between land use changes and jobs at factories, and transportation of people to these new industries — getting the raw materials in and the finished products out.

Passage of transportation financing bills in December by Congress and the Michigan Legislature will reverse a steady decline in funding for highways, roads and other transportation.

Now, instead of just filling potholes, Michigan will be making substantial improvements and undertaking long-deferred reconstruction of some of its worn-out highways.

Congress approved a five-cent-a-gallon increase in the federal gas tax, effective April 1, and increased various motor vehicle excise taxes. The State Legislature raised Michigan's motor fuel taxes by two cents in 1982, and an expected additional two cents in 1984, and boosted auto and truck registration fees by 15 and 30 percent respectively. The federal gas tax increase is the first since 1959 and the state boost the first since 1979.

The new funding will not solve all the problems, but it will enable the state to meet some of its most pressing transportation needs, and that means primarily the operation and maintenance of its existing systems.

New state income will allow Michigan to match all available federal transportation aid expected this year.

The state will gain on three counts under the new federal legislation. It will share with all other states an increase in basic federal aid, but will also benefit from a provision that requires all states to receive from Washington at least 85 percent of the money its motorists pay in federal gas and excise taxes. Michigan has long been a "donor" state to the federal highway trust fund, receiving only 83 cents of every dollar in federal taxes from 1956 when the fund was established through 1981. Changes in the distribution formula also favored Michigan.

Of the $315 million expected in contract awards through the end of the year, $235 million will be for work on the state highway system and $80 million for county roads and city streets.

Only 50 miles remain to be built on Michigan's Interstate system, and work will continue to close the final gaps in a few other freeways.

Money spent for reconstruction, repair, resurfacing and rehabilitation of the freeway system will about triple from the $26 million apportioned for such work in fiscal 1982. There also will be substantial increases, although not as large, for work on the primary state highway system, state and county roads; major urban streets and county municipal bridges.

I think the preservation and improvement of Michigan's transportation system is an important step on our long road to economic recovery. Although the cost may seem high, maintaining an effective network of highways in Michigan will be an investment that benefits us for years to come.

Joyner fund raiser's set for February 24

Friends of William Joyner have announced a fund-raising cocktail party to be held from 6-8 p.m. on Thursday, February 24, at the Plymouth Hilton Inn. Purpose of the event is to raise some funds to help pay off the nearly $10,000 debt left over from Joyner's unsuccessful campaign for state representative. Tickets are $10 per person and may be ordered by calling 455-1390. Honorary chairmen for the event are State Representative Gary Owen, Speaker of the House, and State Senator William Faust, Senate Majority Leader.

Two other fund-raising projects are under way to help pay off this campaign debt. One is a collection of pop bottles; the other is a paper drive. Anyone with papers or pop bottles to donate may call 455-1390 for pick-up.

Computer disasters are this firm's business

By JEFFREY LAPINSKI

Imagine, if you will, that you are the president of a substantial company. You started small but things have been real successful and you now have a modern, up-to-date, bustling business.

And then disaster hits. A busted water main floods your main computer room and forces a shutdown. You have no access to your data processing facility. Orders cannot be shipped, inventory cannot be checked and financial records are inaccessible. The future of your once successful enterprise lies in that water-filled computer room.

However, if you are a smart executive, you would call Chuck Gladfelter, director of marketing for Corporate Contingency Services (CCS). His business is computer disasters. Within hours, CCS would tie your company into a brand new computer facility that will keep your business in the pink until your computer room is out of the sink.

"Today's corporations are computer dependent and vulnerable," said Gladfelter. "Should something happen to disrupt their data processing centers, even for only a few days or weeks, companies could be forced out of business."

"Our objective is to provide the necessary consultative expertise to help companies prevent a disruption from occurring in the first place. But should a natural disaster happen, such as a flood, tornado or fire, we will provide our subscribers with a fully operational data processing center, capable of filling in until normal operation can be restored."

CCS, a "grandchild" of Blue Cross-Blue Shield of Michigan (BCBSM), is located in the sprawling, new BCBSM building in Lyon Township. CCS is actually a division of Michigan Medical Service, Incorporated (MMS), which is

"... should a natural disaster happen, we will provide our subscribers with a fully operational data processing center, capable of filling in until normal operation can be restored."

Chuck Gladfelter

a wholly-owned subsidiary of BCBSM.

Just getting started, CCS was formed to meet the computer dependency of today's large corporations. Gladfelter stressed that computers are "critical" to the operations of the modern business world. Without the use of a main computer, most businesses could not survive beyond two weeks, he added.

CCS gives businesses a computer home away from home. In the event of a disaster, businesses "can literally move their data processing department here," said Gladfelter, referring to the new BCBSM building. At its Lyon Township site, CCS has a huge computer room, or "hot site," stocked with the latest, state-of-the-art IBM machines.

CCS also offers a "shell facility" for its clients. The facility is empty but fully wired for computers. It is aimed at those companies which may elect to BYOC (bring your own computer). Businesses can simply bring their equipment to the shell site, plug it in and start working.

If any home computer operators are interested in CCS, forget it. The service is strictly major league. The Level I subscription rate carries a standard monthly fee of $5,000 per month for a one-year contract. That fee decreases to $4,000 with a three-year pact.

In the event of a computer disaster, a Level I client has to pay a $20,000 "disaster initiation fee" which guarantees immediate access to the computers. There are also daily usage fees — $6,000 a day for up to six weeks for the hot site and $500 a day for up to six months for the shell facility.

For smaller subscribers, there is the Level II subscription rate — a $2,000 to $1,600 monthly fee, a $15,000 disaster initiation fee, a $3,000 daily equipment fee and a $300 daily shell site fee.

Gladfelter said the prices were "competitive" with other firms in the market. He added that the fees also discourage any unnecessary use of the emergency computer site. In addition, because CCS is brand new, it can offer the latest in computer technology.

So far, CCS has gotten a good response, said Gladfelter. He said the initial thrust of CCS will be with the other Blue Cross-Blue Shield services across the country. He added that there has been local interest in CCS from some major Detroit corporations.

The disaster service offered by CCS is actually the last in a series of three services offered by the new firm. CCS divides its offerings into three parts — Assess, Assist and Assure.

According to Gladfelter, Assess ex-

HAPPY DAY NURSERY at 346 North Lafayette, South Lyon, has begun a "latch-key" program for elementary students, according to Director Janet Schneider. Special rates are available. In addition to preschool care, Happy Day provides child care and a full range of activities for public-school students who have no place to go after school when both parents are at work.

CONSTANCE A. SYPNIEWSKI of Milford has been appointed assistant secretary for Coca-Cola Bottlers of Detroit Incorporated, Chairman Stuart W. Giller announced.

In addition to her new responsibilities, Sypniewski will continue in her position as executive secretary to Giller. Sypniewski held a variety of secretarial positions at the Stroh Brewery Company before joining Coca-Cola in 1970.

AGNEW MACHINE COMPANY of Highland has announced the promotion of three engineers. Wesley Gots, who joined Agnew in 1981, has moved from assistant engineering manager to engineering manager.

Gots assumes the duties of three-year employee Neil Gerry, who will now be the manager of proposal engineering. Mike Schmitz, also with Agnew for three years, was promoted from buyer to production control engineer.

SHARON SERRA, Realtor Associate with Real Estate One, has been named assistant manager of the Northville/Novi office. Serra was licensed with Real Estate One in August of 1979 and had her best year ever in 1982 by exceeding $2 million in production.

Darlene Shemanski, associate broker and sales manager, said Real Estate One is proud of Serra's past successes and is confident of her continued achievement in sales. Shemanski said Serra has added a new dimension to her career by becoming assistant manager and will participate in Real Estate One's management development program.

Serra is active in the Novi community. She resides with her husband and three sons in the Village Oaks subdivision.

BARBARA T. KIWICZ of Northville has been promoted to manager in the tax department of the Detroit office of Arthur Young & Company, international public accounting and management consulting firm.

Kiwicz joined the firm in 1977 after receiving her BBA in accounting from the University of Michigan. She is a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants, the National Association of Accountants and the American Woman's Society of Certified Public Accountants.

amines the potential risks of a company that is deprived of its computer facility. Assist is the next step, where CCS helps a company put together a computer recovery plan. The third step is Assure, which includes the actual hot site and shell facility.

While CCS is itself a newcomer, Gladfelter explained that the computer disaster field is relatively recent. In the past, he said, businesses usually relied on one of three alternatives for computer relief. One was a reciprocal agreement with other businesses with computers. The flaw was that the system was unproven, Gladfelter added.

The second alternative was a shell site, empty but wired for computers. This is unworkable because companies cannot buy computers quickly enough in the event of a disaster. Computers are not on-the-shelf items and most companies cannot live without the machines beyond two weeks, Gladfelter said.

The third alternative was an agreement with a data processing service. Again, this alternative was untested. In addition, services do not have enough excess computer capacity, Gladfelter added.

With CCS, clients have access to the hot site for up to six weeks. If normal operations are not restored by then, the shell facility can be used for up to six months. In addition, office space and teleprocessing facilities are available.

Gladfelter also explained that the IBM equipment used by CCS does not sit idle waiting for a disaster. It does work but it has an interruptible workload. Within four hours, a workload can be removed from the machine. The net effect is to have an empty machine waiting for the client, according to Gladfelter.

Other services offered by MMS, the parent of CCS, include risk management services and a provider terminal network, said Gladfelter.

Risk management is a medical claims monitoring and control process, Gladfelter explained. Risk managers advise client hospitals how to handle claims. The service also acts as a quality control agent and an educator. "We point out potential problems, hopefully before they happen," said Gladfelter.

The provider terminal network was described by Gladfelter as an "electronic mailing device." A computer terminal is installed in a doctor's office. The terminal allows the doctor direct access to Blue Cross-Blue Shield and that speeds up the claim process. The network runs over normal telephone lines.

COOK'S CONNECTION at the West Oaks Shopping Center in Novi is now offering 20 percent off all merchandise at all times through a special discount factory outlet program.

Kathy Tellish, manager of the store, is shown with some of the merchandise available at the gourmet/gift shop which has been open at West Oaks since last fall.

Cook's Connection Owner Phil Alper is a former developer who decided it would be fun to own a retail business and ultimately chose the gourmet/gift field.

Featured at Cook's Connection are Copco, Le Creuset and Calphalon cookware; Ottagiri and Staffordshire mugs; kitchen accessories and gadgets from Rowoco, Hoan and Mayer; Kenwood blenders and Robot Coupe food processors.

In addition, the store has canister sets, spice racks, cookbooks, wine racks, Wilton's complete line of cake accessories and kitchen textiles such as aprons, hot pads and placemats as well as pasta makers, pizza pans, spices in packets from Spice Market, several blends of coffee and tea, coffee grinders and kitchen clocks.

Alper said he is particularly proud of a complete line of cutlery carried in the store.

Cook's Connection also features cooking classes and recently offered a free wok demonstration by Christine Liu, author of "Nutrition and Diet with Chinese Cooking."

SOUTH LYON ANSWERING Service has been purchased by Denise M. Strecker, at right, who is expanding it to include office services. Professional typing, word processing, copy writing and editing are offered at the office located at 127 East Lake, South Lyon. Strecker is also in the process of establishing a temporary help agency as well as other office services.

The answering service offers a DayLine Service from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Mondays through Fridays, and from 8 a.m. to noon, Saturdays. TotalLine is available 24 hours a day, including weekends and holidays. Strecker said she can handle calls for any telephone within the 437 exchange.

A 1980 graduate of Central Michigan University with bachelor's degrees in business marketing and advertising, Strecker was previously employed as an advertising copy writer in the creative advertising offices at Kmart's world headquarters in Troy. She and her husband, John H. Strecker, are planning to move to South Lyon in the near future.

Guardian Industries report record earnings

Guardian Industries Corporation (NYSE) of Novi has reported record revenues and earnings in both its fourth quarter and fiscal year ending December 31, 1982.

Guardian Industries is a leading manufacturer and fabricator of flat, glass products used in construction and, to a lesser extent, transportation applications. Other building products manufactured by the company include a broad line of fiberglass insulation products.

Guardian also serves the amateur photography market through a nationwide network of 12 photo processing facilities.

The performance of the three-month period marked the 30th consecutive quarter in which higher revenues and earnings were recorded over the comparable year-earlier period.

Revenues for the fourth quarter were $116.8 million, 36 percent higher than the $86.1 million in 1981. Earnings rose nine percent in the quarter to $7.4 million, compared with $6.8 million last year.

Revenues for the year totaled $418.8 million, 15 percent above the $364.5 million reported in 1981. Earnings were seven percent higher, rising from $31.4 million in 1981 to $33.7 million in 1982.

Commenting on 1982 results, Guardian President William Davidson said it was particularly noteworthy that Guardian had achieved its seventh consecutive year of record-breaking performance in the wake of depressed economic conditions in both the construction and transportation markets.

"The highlight of the 1982 performance," said Davidson, "was the success throughout our glass operations in achieving continuing inroads into the marketplace. Revenues of our combined glass operations increased 30 percent in 1982 while profits rose an even greater amount."

Davidson said Guardian also achieved success by its penetration into glass manufacturing abroad, as well as by the strength of its architectural reflective glass area which experienced a doubling of sales.

"Notwithstanding the many economic uncertainties now facing us, there are enormous opportunities ahead of us for continued growth," said Davidson. "Our optimism is based on the fundamental strengths of our operations which have been demonstrated by our 1982 results."

"Significantly, our large expansion programs of the past few years have yet to be fully reflected in our performance," Davidson continued.

"PINK POWER" INSULATION REBATE!

$10 BACK—WHEN YOU ADD 10 ROLLS OF INSULATION.

Add an extra blanket of pink insulating power on top of the attic insulation you already have. You'll save on your fuel bills this winter and on heating and air-conditioning costs for the rest of the time you own your home.*

And by doing it now, you'll also get a $10 rebate on the new "Attic Blanket"—the most powerful roll of thermal protection you can buy. Or get $10 back on regular Fiberglas® insulation.

See the light?

$10 REBATE FORM.

To: Owens-Corning Rebate Offer
P.O. Box 3147, Syosset, N.Y. 11775

I'm enclosing a copy of my dated sales receipt, and my required proof of purchase—the R-25 labels or NAHB RESEARCH FOUNDATION thermal performance labels from 10 rolls of Owens-Corning Pink Fiberglas® insulation.

Upon verification, please send my $10 check to:

Name _____ (PLEASE PRINT)
Address _____
City _____ State _____ Zip _____

This form must accompany your request. It may not be reproduced in any way. Offer limited to retail do-it-yourself customers.

One $10 check per customer. No group, organization, or commercial requests will be honored.

Check requests must be received no later than March 31, 1983. Please allow 8 weeks for delivery. Checks must be cashed no later than May 31, 1983. Offer void wherever restricted, taxed or prohibited by law.

*See your supplier for your insulation requirements. Savings vary. Find out why in the seller's fact sheet on R-values. Higher R-values mean greater insulating power.

Poetry

As the sun in the east inches upward
Flame red, like a ball of melted steel
The sky slowly changes from gray to a clear blue
Frosted snow sparkles and in the barren trees
Winter birds flutter and chirp a happy sound
February, our shortest month of the year
Temperatures have reached their lowest and
Likewise we have reached a state of acceptance
Once more we are assured we will survive
We have passed all the tests of scraping windshield,
Walking and driving through tons of ice and snow
While being weighted down with more clothes
Than we would choose, and we have paid our heat bill
A month of reflection, filing our tax, a time
To reestablish our priorities, to put life in order
Just as every fourth year February gets
That extra day to keep our seasons in order.

Atchisons' romance began with a bang

By Mary Spry

Doctor Russell M. Atchison and his wife Ruth Mary have a love affair that has transcended a shooting, late night medical rounds and a maid-of-honor who can't remember witnessing their wedding.

Ruth Mary Baldwin met Dr. Russell Atchison because her father had been shot by a Boy Scout's stray bullet.

In January, 1936, Richard T. Baldwin, publisher of the Northville Record, had been putting the paper together when an employee told him that bees were buzzing through the building.

The January bees turned out to be stray bullets from a Boy Scout troop practicing at a gallery next to the paper. Baldwin was hit by a bullet and Dr. Atchison was called in.

"I came in to examine him, and I cut off his tie and shirt. I tried to follow the path of the bullet and found that it was still lodged inside. I sewed him back up and the bullet was removed later," Dr. Atchison recalled.

Ruth Mary came home to Northville every summer to work on the paper. Dr. Atchison came back to Northville to take over his ailing father's medical practice after one year of residency at the University of Michigan medical school. But their paths never crossed until the shooting incident brought them together. And even then Cupid's arrows seemed to have missed their mark. Well, they missed Ruth Mary Baldwin.

Dr. Atchison even wrote a love letter to Ruth Mary after the initial meeting but that didn't get the desired response. "I wrote her a letter, and I never heard from her. She somehow contacted me and told me it was nice of me to send her a letter, but she couldn't read my handwriting; so she didn't know what I was writing her about."

To which Ruth Mary Atchison responds: "Well, it wasn't my fault. You know how doctors write."

Mrs. Atchison remembers meeting the Doctor when she visited her father, but the relationship didn't begin until a few months later.

The summer of '37 saw the blossoming of their romance. "The only way we would be able to see each other was on my rounds. This was the Depression.

Nancy Soper, Dr. Mike Hoben didn't talk shop

By JEAN DAY

Northville Assistant Superintendent of Schools Nancy Soper met Dr. John Michael Hoben, superintendent of Plymouth schools, who became her husband two years ago, when both were working on their doctorates in a program at Wayne State University.

But don't assume their common professional background was the reason they began dating.

"So many people thought our professions brought us together, but it was just the opposite — we found we enjoyed the theater, symphony and dining out. We actually talk very little about our professions for our concerns are so similar that we want to get away from them," she explains.

Nancy Soper also recalls that, while they participated in the special program to encourage school administrators to get their doctorates for a year-and-a-half, he didn't ask her for a date until the end of the program — even though they were two of only three single persons in the class of three women and 25 men.

Both had been widowed — she for eight years and he for 10 when they began dating.

Their dating, she also recalls, did not lead immediately to wedding plans.

"It will be five years on the seventh day of March," Nancy Soper remembers exactly, "that a routine check-up disclosed I was very ill although I felt fine. I was to be told that I had a possible malignancy and was diagnosed as having cancer.

"My main concern was 'what are my choices?' — I made the decision to have a modified mastectomy, and my main concern was 'what's the prognosis, what choices do I have?'"

Adding that she was off five or six weeks, Nancy Soper says she then "went on about my life.

"Mike and I were not dating each other seriously then, but he saw me as no different. There never was any sympathy — I just wouldn't allow it," she says firmly.

"We continued to date off and on for three years, seeing other people also. Being diagnosed (as having cancer) and having major surgery has odds like Russian Roulette. I decided that should not interfere, however, with why I would want to spend my life with someone, nor should ethnic heritage. It's the person, not background, heritage, or any reason like cancer or vision, that should count. "I'd rather have what I did than lose

Mothers' Club to slice up pizzas Friday

By JEAN DAY

After years of serving pancakes at a pre-game dinner at Northville High, Northville Mothers' Club has decided to slice up pizza with beverage and salad from 5 to 7:30 p.m. this Friday in the Northville High School cafeteria before the Northville-Walled Lake Central basketball game.

Co-chairpersons Angie Baetz and Edie Pegrum explain that the decision was made to switch to pizza because of its great popularity with students. Pizzas are being catered by the Pizza Salon on Novi Road. The public is welcome. Tickets are available from club members and will be sold at the door. They're bargain priced at $2.50 for adults and $2 for students through high school age.

Woman's Club to offer volunteering ideas

Northville Woman's Club has planned a special program for its next meeting to answer members' questions on how to choose a meaningful way to volunteer their time, with special focus on organizations in the area.

Five women of the community who serve in different volunteer capacities have been tapped by co-chairpersons Sue Anger and Norma Peltz to participate in the "Speakers' Forum" at 1:30 p.m. next Friday, February 18, at First Presbyterian Church.

They are Carolann Ayers, a member of the League of Women Voters and a city council member; Rita Byrd, president of FISH, emergency non-financial help organization; Gerry Dodds, participant in Providence Hospital's Hospice Program; Marjorie Sliger, a gallery and staff aide at Detroit Institute of Arts; and Jeanne Federspill, a professional administrator at Providence Hospital currently serving as director of volunteers.

Each is to give an informal, 10-minute presentation aimed, the chairmen explain, at helping women find worthwhile volunteer opportunities. Members are reminded that they may bring guests to the program. Tea chairman is Myrtle Ferguson.

Our Lady of Mercy High auction gets parental aid

One thousand dollars' worth of gifts has been purchased for the auction planned by Our Lady of Mercy High School as a result of a pre-auction dinner party hosted January 16 by Carolyn and Don DiComo and Audrey and Chuck Marino at CJM Farms on West Seven Mile. It was a fun evening, Mrs. DiComo reports, enabling parents of 30 girls in the Northville- Novi area who attend OLM to become better acquainted while touring the Marino barn and enjoying a spaghetti dinner and "spirits." "It was a great help to have meat for the event donated by Northville Meats," Mrs. DiComo says, adding that many area businesses have given generous donations.

Classmates sought for reunions at Northville High, Western Organizers of a reunion for the Northville High School Class of 1977 are trying to locate their former classmates. Karen Assenmacher Lemieux said plans for the reunion are on hold until the class officers and fellow classmates are contacted. The reunion is tentatively scheduled for this fall. For information, contact Karen Assenmacher Lemieux, 420-4035.

Western High School of Detroit's Class of 1963 currently is making plans for its 20-year reunion. Area alumni interested in attending and those with information on the whereabouts of classmates should contact Janet Rogers Day at 421-5944 during business hours.

The auction will be held this Saturday evening, February 12, at Our Lady of Mercy High School. Tickets at $25 a person are available from Sally and Wes Henrikson, area captains, by calling 349-4607, or from Our Lady of Mercy High School.

Couple sets June date

June wedding plans are being made by Kimberly B. Marshall, whose parents, Robert E. and Betty Marshall of 20343 Woodhill, are announcing her engagement to Peter J. DiGennaro of Raleigh, North Carolina.

He is the son of Louis and Rose DiGennaro of Philadelphia.

A 1979 graduate of Penn State University, he is a marketing field representative for the A.C. Nielsen Company.

His fiancée is a 1976 graduate of Northville High School and a 1980 graduate of Northwood Institute in Midland where she affiliated with Lambda Chi Omega Sorority. She presently is employed as a salesperson with Bentwood, Limited, in Raleigh.

The couple is making plans for a garden wedding in Raleigh on June 5.

Hobens' romance bloomed after illness

my eyesight," says the educator positively.

"Every experience I've had has strengthened me, she adds, explaining she feels her ordeal has made her more understanding of various kinds of student deficiencies as well as with great abilities.

"People can make a difference in their lives if they really want to — a tremendous amount can be learned from experiences.

"My goal is not to live to be 100 — I don't have a choice. I don't put anything off, so I decided if I found someone I wanted to spend my life with and who wanted me I would marry.

Of their marriage she says, "I have even a stronger one than the first — and that was good."

Her first husband, an attorney, died of cancer at 38 years of age. He discovered it suddenly, during a routine check, and was told it was so widespread there was absolutely no treatment. He died four months later, Mrs. Soper (who keeps her name professionally) remembers.

Dr. Hobens' first wife died after having been ill for 12 years. She had no children, but he has a daughter Michelle, an architect and graduate of the University of Michigan, now working in Washington, D.C., and a son John, a graduate of Eastern Michigan University, now working in the computer field in Houston, Texas.

Nancy Soper observes candidly that when they were married at Christmastime two years ago in a December 19 ceremony at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church in Plymouth, both she and Mike Hobens were "very independent — and still are."

She adds that both have had to "accept dependence and monitor the independence."

She leaves no doubt that the effort has resulted in a successful alliance, noting that she feels it helps the second time around that "you don't have to prove anything. I think you can have a better marriage. The first time I was so naive."

Her new marriage, she explains, has been a real sharing of interests. He's really interested in what I do — that's something that attracted me and Mike to each other.

"I enjoy cooking, and he took an interest and now loves to cook. We're looking at going for a week to a cooking school at Greenbriar."

She collects clocks and likes antiques — he's interested in both now, she says. She adds that, as a result, they "built a very traditional house from scratch," designed for them by an architect and built by Frank Bausa, a local builder.

She had learned to sail with her first husband and interested Mike enough so that they bought a boat, but sold it after finding they only used it five times during a busy summer.

She taught Mike to ski cross country, and they now look for get-away inns on weekends. As a result of this activity, he took up photography.

She learned to play golf in return for his learning to ski.

She's also become a sports fan.

"Mike was a professional athlete, playing basketball with the Boston Celtics. He started as an engineering student at University of Michigan and, when about to be drafted, enlisted in the Marines. He served in World War II in China and became a captain. He was called back in the Korean conflict.

"He coached football and basketball in Cheboygan and in Plymouth."

After receiving her first degree from Moorhead State College in Kentucky, Mrs. Soper received her master's degree from Michigan State University, but confesses that she has become a U-M fan with Mike. He played for U-M.

His wife admits that, while she has come to appreciate athletics, she is "not quite sure" how she feels about football.

"I always like to think I have a sense of humor, and, therefore, Mike has had to develop one. I think both of us are stronger people for this sharing."

They also have shared a second illness as Nancy Soper had a partial hysterectomy last year. She indicates that this is another reason for "not putting anything off."

They're now thinking they would like to spend a summer in Europe, seeking out old inns as they have in Ohio and Canada.

"We had not married really young the first time," Nancy Soper recalls, noting she was 23 and he was 28, and feels both had what were considered "good relationships."

"But in this marriage we have helped each other grow. It's not 50-50. We each give the other 100 percent."

Consideration a factor in Atchisons' love story and I was working all day and doing my rounds late at night. So she would come with me when I made my rounds. I would go to a psychiatric hospital in Rochester, and she would stay in the car while I was inside. I had a Packard convertible, and some of the patients would come out and talk to Ruth. She decided to come into the hospital, but she was just as frightened there."

Miss Ruth Mary Baldwin and Dr. Russell M. Atchison were married in 1938.

Since the Depression was still in full swing, a quiet wedding was decided upon by the couple. Ruth Mary was a recent graduate of Albion College, and the ceremony was performed by the president of the college, Dr. Seaton.

Rounds for Dr. Atchison on the morning of the wedding and a last-minute hunt for clothes for the doctor began the day.

Ruth Mary dressed for her wedding in one of the college dormitories, and Dr. Atchison dressed at her uncle's home.

"The maid-of-honor slipped and hit her head just before the wedding. She had a concussion and to this day she doesn't remember a word of the ceremony," they recalled.

"We went to Win Schuler's for our wedding dinner, but the best man had an abscessed tooth and he couldn't eat anything," Dr. Atchison added.

The new Ruth Mary Atchison had to adjust to the sometimes lonely life as a wife to a physician. "I was here alone a lot when he would be out at the clinic and making his rounds. You had to be awfully independent and make a life for yourself. We lived in this old house that made horrible noises and at night I would be so scared. I lost 15 pounds in the first two years we were married."

Russell M. and Ruth Mary Atchison eventually had four children. Richard McRae, Russell Malcolm, Rhonda Marilyn and Roxanne Marie.

"Well, it saved time and money on luggage monograms" is the explanation.

"We always tried to do things together, to make time as a family. The four children and I would go on rounds with Russell. I remember sitting under a tree at Mount Carmel Hospital, reading to the children while we waited for him."

Dr. Atchison described a sense of humanity as being important in their children. "They have a regard for everybody else. They will go out of their way to help someone else."

Dr. and Mrs. Atchison are very proud of their children and their accomplishments. "To teach them to be honest is the most important thing," according to Ruth Mary Atchison.

Is there a magic formula that makes this 45-year relationship as fresh and caring as a budding romance?

"We have a natural respect for one another. We really never had time to get mad at each other. Marriage isn't easy — a sense of humor is important and each individual has to give and take. I know that sounds trite, but it's true," Ruth Mary Atchison said. "I feel very lucky to have married Russell."

And what does Dr. Atchison think is one of the secret's of their loving and obviously successful relationship?

"She takes care of the spelling, and I take care of the money."

Gospel Fellowship lists dinner meeting speaker

Juan Carlos Ortiz, author and Christian teacher from Foothill Christian Center in Los Altos, California, will be the guest speaker at the February 18 dinner meeting of the Northville-Plymouth-Livonia Chapter of the Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship.

Originally from Buenos Aires, Argentina, where he served as pastor of El Tabernaculo de la Fe, he has ministered extensively throughout Africa, Europe, Australia, Asia and North and South America.

He is the author of such books as "Disciple," "Call to Discipleship" and "The Cry of the Human Heart" and has served as the principal speaker at the Lausanne, Switzerland, World Conference on Evangelism. He currently lives with his wife and four children in California.

The meeting at 8 p.m. follows dinner which will be served at the Sveden House Restaurant in Farmington Plaza.

The dinner is $6 per person which includes tax and gratuity. Both dinner and program are open to the public.

Reservations are required for the dinner and may be made by calling Daniel Beeter at 349-0006 or Earl Flynn at 348-3352 or send checks, payable to "FGBMF," P.O. Box 5332, Northville, by February 15.

The Northville Record

Northville cagers throttle Western

By DON NEWSTED

Walled Lake Western provided a quick remedy for Northville's ailing basketball team.

Western remained the picture of perfection for the 1982-83 season as Northville handled the Warriors their 14th consecutive defeat Friday night, 62-47.

Northville entered the contest with a two-game losing streak and appeared a likely candidate to make it three and end Western's miseries throughout a sluggish first half.

'This was a pleasant victory. They (Western) are probably playing their best basketball of the season...'

— Tim Lutes

Northville led at the half 27-25, thanks to the outstanding one-two punch of Steve Schrader and Mike Weber, who each had 10 points.

Life reentered the Mustangs in the third period and the result, much to the dismay of Western's hard luck coach Ted Felegy, was a 42-30 deficit at quarter's end.

Northville continued to pound the North Warriors in the fourth period and, at one point, had outscored their winless (0-14) opponents 29-9 after intermission for a 56-34 lead with 4:40 remaining in the game.

That was Northville's largest lead of the game as Mustang coach Tim Lutes emptied his bench for several minutes of frantic basketball Northville's seldom used pine brothers.

Steve Schrader, who scored 26 points January 7 in a two point win at Western, once again hurt the smaller Warriors with 20 points and 14 rebounds, his best all-around effort of the season.

Weber added 12 points and seven rebounds for Northville.

"This was a pleasant victory," Lutes said. "They (Western) are probably playing their best basketball of the season right now, and it was encouraging to find out that we have improved somewhat since the first time we played them."

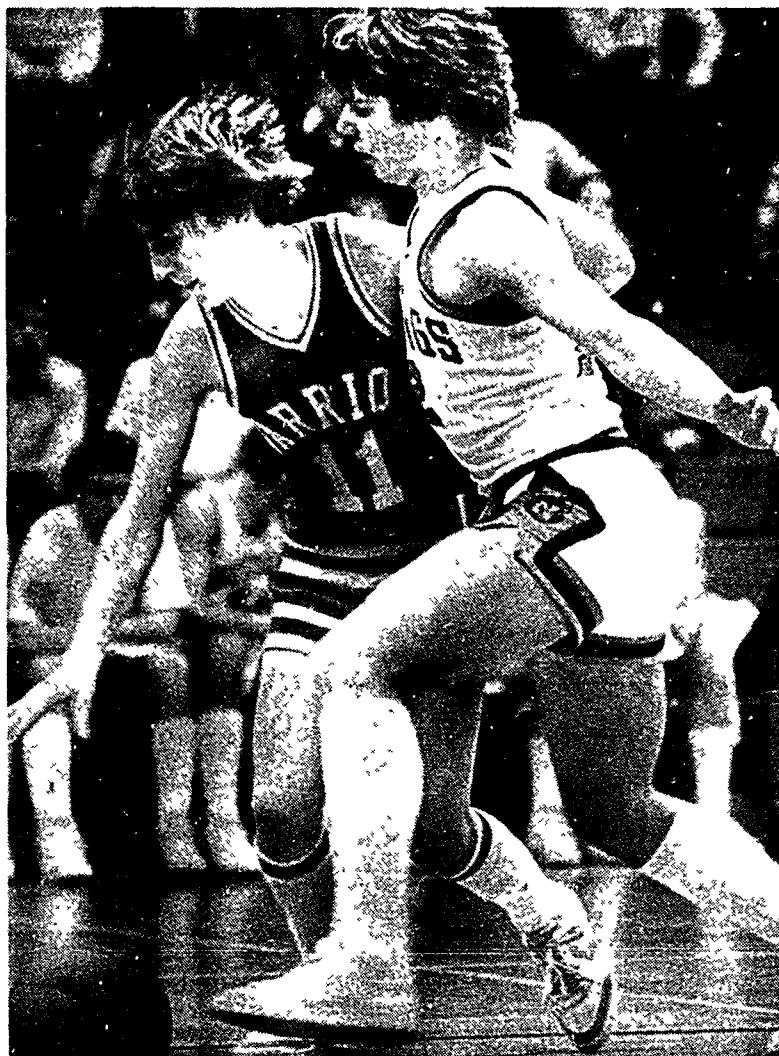

"Steve was the key to the game and this was his best all-around effort," Lutes said of his 6-foot-5 junior center. "He hasn't been getting the rebounds inside that we have to have. Everytime you see someone have a great game, his rebounds seem to be the key to that success. That was true tonight of Schrader and Weber. We were trying to get the ball to them, and they did a good job once they got it."

Seemingly, nobody got the ball February 1 at Plymouth Canton, where the Mustangs fell harmlessly to their Western Lakes Activities Association Western Division rivals, 51-34.

Northville (5-5 in the WLAA) still holds a precarious half game lead over Canton in the divisional race, but is a full three games behind leader Livonia Churchill (8-2). Northville is 6-7 overall.

Schrader led the Mustangs "balanced" attack against Canton with just six points, while Scott Gala, Dave Longridge and Mike Kaley each added four.

Ron Remus led Canton with a game-high 19 points.

Mickie Newman confronts Western's Kyle Chura

Wrestlers still 'interesting' in defeat

Losing has become a way of life for Gary Emerson's Northville wrestling team in 1982-83, but the team isn't going down without a fight.

Emerson's youthful Mustangs nearly corralled a Western Lakes Activities Association title contender February 3, but experience caught them short once again, 42-25 at Plymouth Canton.

Canton, who won the WLAA title in 1981-82 and returned no fewer than three defending individual league champions to its lineup, wrestled up to expectations after Northville had bolted out to a 10-0 lead after two matches.

Jim Assemany blasted Jeff Condit 11-0 to open the meet and was followed up by Bruce Wolfgram's pin of Keith Smith at 5:02 to give the Mustangs their early advantage.

Northville lost seven consecutive matches thereafter, breaking the streak at 167-pounds when Ernie Bock defeated Canton's Wayne Young, 7-3.

Joel Vogt (185-pounds) pinned Ernie Kromm at 1:11 and heavyweight Brian Burgett pinned Jim Mason in 4:50 to close out the Mustangs' scoring for the day.

"Had we been able to do a couple of things, we might have won this meet," said Emerson in hindsight. "We wrestled fairly well. They are defending league champs and are probably one of the top three or four teams once again, along with Plymouth Salem, Livonia Bentley and Walled Lake Central.

Northville's gladiators (1-11 overall, 1-8 in the WLAA) return to action tonight at Farmington Harrison.

Mustang swimmers shocked by Livonia

Northville's swimmers won the battles, but Livonia Churchill won the war of the water and escaped with a thrilling 66-61 last-event victory February 3.

Leading throughout the meet's initial 10 events, Pete Talbot's splashers had victory stolen from their grasp as Churchill's 400-yard freestyle relay team swam to a 15-second win to clinch the meet.

Despite the heartbreaking defeat, which lowered the Mustangs season record to 4-3, Talbot remained confident in the face of defeat.

"Chalk one up for experience," Talbot said realistically. "Everything went as planned, with the exception of the backstroke event, which we unexpectedly lost. This was a hard loss because we had so many good performances," Talbot continued. "We had a lot of good swims, but it was not quite enough. This (the loss) was a shocker as far as the team was concerned, and we all think we really should have won this meet."

Churchill's strategy in the 100-yard backstroke also was a key to winning the meet, according to Talbot, whose team lost several key points when Livonia's newly inserted Dave Baird won the event in 1:02.49.

Northville's Jeff Bainbridge (1:03.13) and Darius Mikalonis (1:03.43) finished second and third, respectively, in the key event.

Mustang gymnasts host Dearborn tonight

The stage is set for one of the most important gymnastics meets in Northville history.

Dearborn invades Mustang country tonight at 7 p.m. for what promises to be an exciting rematch of last year's dual meet, won by the Pioneers.

Northville lost just three times in 1981-82. Defeat has already been avenged against Ypsilanti and Plymouth Canton this season, but Debby Heck's undefeated Mustangs would like one more feather for their already well-decorated caps.

"We lost to Dearborn last year, but we are a lot stronger than we were last year," Heck said enthusiastically. "The girls are really working hard, and at mid-season we are just getting our routines down and falling into set patterns, so our scores should really start jumping.

And jump they did against Walled Lake Western, as Northville scored a school record 120.5-101.8 victory over the Warriors February 3.

Northville's previous high was 117.0 last season and 120.5 easily eclipsed the team qualifying score for state tournament competition of 114.0.

Kathy Hietert dominated all but one event for Northville, with senior Amy Aaron forcing Hietert into a runnerup role in the vault, 8.45 to 8.4. Hietert was victorious in the uneven bars (8.65), balance beam (8.7), floor exercise (8.5) and captured the meet's all-around honor with a season high score of 34.25.

Heck's first year junior star has already qualified for state tournament competition in every event and will join Aaron (vault and balance beam) and Diane Hale (uneven bars) in regional action March 11-12 in Coldwater, Michigan.

Problems could arise, however, with the additional qualifications of Tish Johnson and Wendy Wobermin. Only four gymnasts can make the regional trip and Heck fully expects all five of the forementioned athletes to qualify.

Hale had a 6.8 score in her uneven bar routine against Western, good for second place behind Hietert. She also finished third in the floor exercise (7.85) and tied for third with Wobermin on the beam (7.55).

Aaron added a second place effort in the floor exercise.

Northville enters tonight's meet in complete health, but the same cannot be said for the state of the Mustangs' floor mat. Its condition could cost a victory if Dearborn decides to take an automatic 28 team points that are allowed in cases of faulty equipment. Heck took the automatic points. Unfortunately, Salem's problem is also Northville's, and the result could be the end to a perfect season.

Churchill swims to victory

Foremost among the Mustangs who posted improved times, was freestyler Adam Swallow, who bested his previous 200-yard clocking by a full two seconds to win in 1:57.57.

Swallow's 500-yard freestyle victory surpassed his personal record by four seconds.

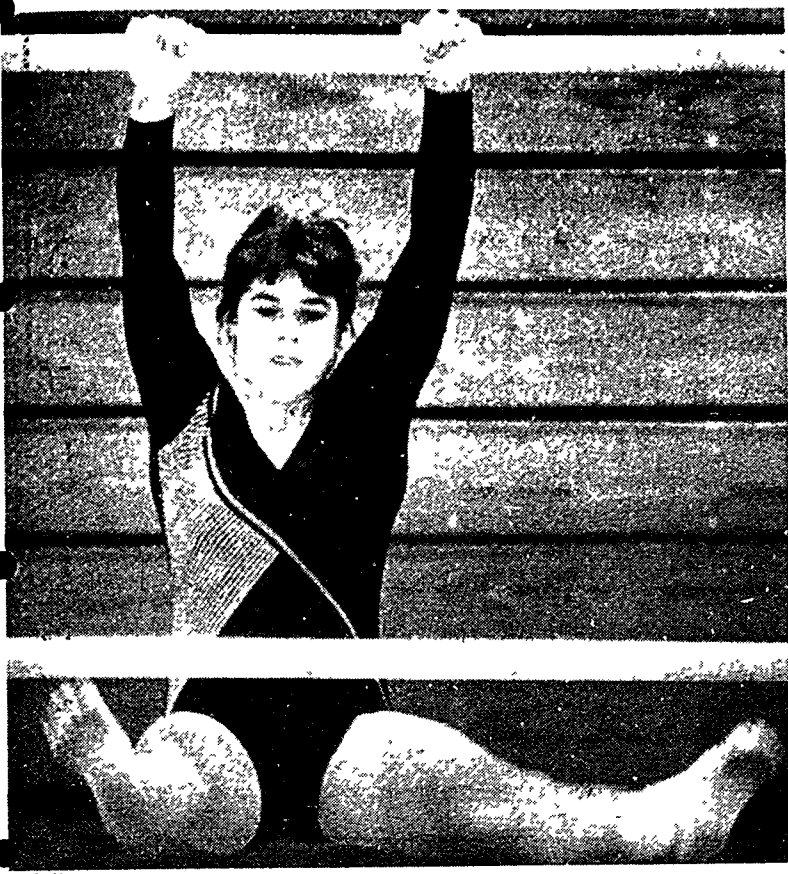

Northville received additional improvements from Bainbridge in the 100-yard backstroke, Ron Johnston, who was second in the 50-yard freestyle (24.23), and Doug Buell, whose 100-yard butterfly victory (59.29) gave the Mustangs a 36-33 lead midway through the meet.

Talbot was also pleased with the timing turned in by the 200-yard medley relay team of Bainbridge, Chris Behlen, Buell and Johnston that won the meet's opening event in 1:51.29.

Losing to Churchill had a double meaning for Northville swimmers, who now trail their tormentors by one game in the Western Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association. Northville is 2-1 in the division and 2-2 overall in the W.L.A.A.

Life doesn't get easier for the Mustangs, who traveled to perennial state power Detroit Catholic Central yesterday and return home tomorrow to swim Plymouth Salem.

"Plymouth Salem will probably be the Western Lakes swimming champion this year," said Talbot. Enough said.

Northville netters bounce Harrison

The carousel continues to spin for Northville's volleyball team.

Northville opened its week from atop the big wheel, beating Farmington Harrison 11-15, 15-6 and 15-7.

Somebody should have stopped the rotation of alternately winning and losing that has plagued the Mustangs throughout the 1982-83 season, as Livonia Bentley slammed Northville 15-1, 15-6.

"We decided to play against Harrison," said Mustang leader Steve McDonald. "But it was another story against Bentley. The girls just didn't play well. If we had played up to our potential, if we had played well, we could have beat them."

Tracy Wilkinson led the Mustangs against Harrison with nine of 13 hits, including three aces and some outstanding play along the back row, according to McDonald.

Cindy Runyon and Leslie Kucher also turned in sterling performances. Runyon achieved seven successful hits and 11 of 12 serves, with three aces. Kucher added her usual effort of nine of 11 successful hits and 12 of 17 serves to the Mustang attack.

Wilkinson, a lanky senior for McDonald's 4-6 spikers (3-4 overall in the Western Lakes Activities Association, 3-1 in the Western Division), was forced to miss the Bentley contest due to minor surgery. She will return to action this week. Maria Schroder was singled out as a steady influence against Livonia in a match McDonald soon would like to forget.

"Maria came in and played very well," McDonald said. "She had seven reception chances on defense and missed just one. She was a bright spot in a bad match. It just seems like

Wednesdays have been a bad night for us to play," said McDonald, ever searching for answers to his teams consistent midweek demise. "Maybe the girls are still tired from Monday. When you play on Mondays, they don't get home until midnight and have to get up for school the next day. Fatigue may be our downfall on Wednesday Wednesdays." McDonald can thank the schedule maker for a break in the Monday-Thursday routine this week. Northville did not play Monday and returns to action tomorrow with a 7 p.m. contest at Plymouth Canton.

Following Canton, however, the Mustangs return to the Monday-Wednesday syndrome.

and Erin Ryan. Setters Tracy Martin, a sophomore, and Chris McGowan, a freshman, have also been very impressive.

Northville does not have a junior varsity swimming team, but that is a blessing in disguise for Pete Talbot's 4-3 Mustangs.

Freshman Doug Buell currently leads Northville in point scoring with 90 and heads a class of three other important first-year Mustang point scorers, including Jeff Bainbridge, Darius Mikalonis and Dave Wayne.

Prep Prospects

Debby Heck's undefeated gymnasts have a pair of sophomores beginning to make waves.

Diane Cannistero scored a 6.65 in the vault during the Mustangs 120.5-101.8 win over Walled Lake Western last week, while newcomer Mary Beth Morrissey hit 3.0 on her floor exercise and freshman Julie Cass scored an impressive 4.9 on the vault in that meet.

Steve McDonald happily reports that Northville's 7-2 junior varsity volleyball team has received some outstanding performances from sophomore strikers Beverly Henderson and Erin Ryan. Setters Tracy Martin, a sophomore, and Chris McGowan, a freshman, have also been very impressive.

Leslie Nadeau, a 5-foot-11 sophomore guard on Auburn University's women's basketball team, is currently averaging 2.0 points per game as the Lady Tigers fourth guard. Nadeau has played in 13 games, averaging 6.6 minutes, one assist and one rebound per game.

Dave Ward, a 1980 graduate of Northville High School, is currently playing collegiate basketball at an Diego State under former University of Detroit head coach David 'Smokey' Gaines.

Several other Northville graduates are participating in collegiate athletics this year, including swimmers Kim Strom (Northern Michigan), Allyson Farquhar (Georgia), Vidas Mikalonis (Illinois State) and Mike Weber (Eastern Michigan).

Tina McLaughlin played football at Central Michigan last fall and former Mustang wrestler and grid-standout Vince Candela was active at Grand Valley State.

Freshman Gary Kucher has helped Schoolcraft Community College to a 19-5 record in basketball thus far, good for second place in the Eastern Division of Michigan's Community College league.

The 10 Best Reasons to Invest in Leather

1. COMFORT. Leather's porous surface and millions of fibers allow free circulation of air, so leather always has the comfortable, supple feel.
2. LOOKS. Leather adds a special touch of sophistication to any decor.
3. DURABILITY. The ultimate in long-lasting beauty, it will not tear, fade or stretch.
4. VALUE & ECONOMY. The unsurpassed durability of leather ensures that your leather furniture will keep on giving year after year.
5. UNIQUENESS. Each piece of leather furniture is characterized, with individual markings . . . proof of its history.
6. COLOR. All leather colors pictured in this circular are specially priced. A wide selection of other leather colors and finishes are available on custom orders.

7. CARE. Of all upholstery materials, leather is the longest lasting and needs the least care.
8. FLEXIBILITY. Well styled leather upholstery fits into any interior gracefully.
9. AROMA. Leather truly rewards the senses.
10. PRIDE OF OWNERSHIP. Leather enhances your own senses of quality and luxury.
