Ambulance decision stalls

By KEVIN WILSON

Citing an absence of facts supporting a committee recommendation, Northville City Council Monday night again tabled consideration of entering into a regional ambulance service contract with Northville Township, Novi and Farmington.

The city is the last of four governmental units that must agree to an ad hoc committee recommendation to contract with Community Emergency Medical Service (CEMS) for the regional service to become reality. The tabling, in effect, delays for at least two weeks final determination of the issue.

"I feel there's something more to this (recommendation) than we're getting in this report," said councilmember G. Dewey Gardner, explaining council's inaction.

Added councilmember J. Burton DeRusha: "according to the report, Novi Ambulance (the present provider) is the low bidder, yet the other communities went with CEMS. There must be something else going on that's not reflected in the documents we have here."

Northville City Council is the sole member of the four-community study group that received, prior to its consideration of the matter, a report from Novi Ambulance attorney Allen Ingle charging "gross errors" in the ad hoc committee report favoring CEMS.

The other three governments have already approved the committee recommendation. Farmington began receiving CEMS service Friday. Novi city manager Ed Kriewall said his city is still awaiting Northville's decision. Novi Ambulance owner John Early said he had filed a request with Novi to have the issue reconsidered in light of Ingle's report.

Northville Township approved the committee recommendation March 31, contingent upon city approval.

"Township approval was contingent both on the city approving and eventual conclusion of a contract with Community," township business manager David Lelko said Tuesday. "Our idea has always been to go with the city and that was the intent here. If the city elects not to go with the recommendation, we'll have to re-evaluate the entire situation."

"Our goal right now is to reach some sort of decision — are we going to do something or not? If we're doing something, let's get on with it, if not, let's look at something else," he concluded.

While Farmington and Novi may reach separate agreements for CEMS service, city manager Steven Walters told the Northville council the requests for proposals involved regional service.

"It is necessary for all four to accept for the bidders to be bound by the contents of their bids," Walters said. "The proposal does not obligate the bidder to serve any one, two or even all the communities."

It is the content of those bids, and the committee evaluation of them, that had Northville council "between the devil and the deep blue sea," according to councilmember Paul Folino.

As put forth in bid specifications, and detailed with comparisons in Ingle's counter-statement, Novi Ambulance would charge residents less in most emergency cases.

Ingle's examples show differences of $105 (severe auto accident), $47.50 (heart attack) and $53 (broken arm) — all in favor of his client. In addition, the CEMS proposal allows a $15 per run rate increase next year.

Walters, who with council member

Carolann Ayers represented the city on the ad hoc committee, said one concern "Novi and Farmington had was that Novi's rates were not sufficient to maintain a level of service — that perhaps the rates are not realistic."

Early responded that when complaints were forwarded to him from the communities "a year and a half ago, we revamped our entire operation" to reduce costs.

"Now you say my rates are too low. We cut costs by not buying the most expensive ambulances, by not buying the most expensive equipment," he added.

After council deliberations, Early said he had long purchased "top of the line" vehicles that cost more than $45,000 and that most of these were now completely paid for and, due to high quality, would continue to provide good service. When making new purchases, he said, he had chosen less costly vehicles.

But Walters told council the "paid off" explanation, offered at Novi and Farmington meetings, "has implications regarding the continued quality of the operation and the rates two years down the road."

Early countered that CEMS, an essentially new business, was starting with the same cheaper equipment he is now buying, citing a $17,000 vehicle purchase as an example.

Novi Ambulance to survive business losses, owner says

John Early isn't about to throw in the towel.

Things may not seem to be going Early's way, what with his Novi Ambulance firm on the brink of losing its agreements with Novi, Farmington and possibly Northville and Northville Township. But even that eventually wouldn't put him out of business, Early told city council Monday.

Assuming Farmington and Novi agreements are lost (both cities having accepted a recommendation to contract with Community Emergency Medical Service from Botsford Hospital), Early said he does not foresee closing any of his facilities.

"My accountant tells me 82.3 percent of my calls last year came direct to the office," not through local police agencies, which is all that is affected by the agreements with the governments. Early said he believes he will still do a substantial proportion of the ambulance business in the area without receiving police calls — particularly in light of his new, lowered rate structure.

"I have a long-term contract with Northville Downs through 1988," he added. "And I have contracts with Northville State Hospital, Plymouth Center and Phoenix Correctional Institution (all state-operated in Northville Township)."

Early's explanation came in response to apparent city council concerns that, if Northville were the only community to select Novi Ambulance, it might be choosing a financially gutted operation.

"If it came to it, I can pull in and just have my central offices in Northville and I could not only survive, I could survive very well," he said.

Application deadline set

Board begins search for principal

Northville Board of Education met Monday to initiate its search for a new principal to take the helm of Northville High School next fall.

The board will be seeking a replacement for NHS principal George Aune, whose request for an administrative transfer was approved by the board March 28.

The administration already has posted the position through placement offices of major universities in the area, as well as within the district.

Applications for the post must be received by assistant superintendent Burton Knighton on or before May 20.

The resumes and credentials of candidates will be screened to identify the top 10 candidates to be interviewed by a selection committee.

School Superintendent George Bell said a selection committee currently being formed will consist of one parent, one high school student, one high school teacher, one district building administrators and the district's two assistant superintendents.

The selection committee will interview and individually rank the top 10 candidates. Based upon the ranking of the committee, the field of candidates will be narrowed to the top three, who then will be referred to the superintendent.

Bell will make a final recommendation to the board of education.

Qualifications for the high school principal's post include an earned master's degree at an accredited institution with course work in administration and supervision; advanced study beyond the master's degree with evidence of commitment to furthering his/her educational background; holder of a Michigan Secondary Permanent or Continuing Certificate; proven leadership ability and experience; minimum of five years experience in public school education at the high school level and evidence of good communication and management skills.

Salary for the position will be based on experience and qualifications.

The selection of a new high school principal for the 1983-84 school year comes at a time of considerable transition for Northville High School. The candidate chosen for the post will begin his or her tenure in the midst of renovation plans for the high school building and implementation of future program needs for students.

It still is uncertain what position George Aune will hold once he steps down as high school principal July 1.

Aune, who has headed the high school since 1977, requested an administrative transfer in a March 18 memo to Bell.

His new position is expected to be outlined in an administrative reorganization plan currently being drawn-up by the superintendent and expected to be presented to the board of education sometime in mid-May.

Oleg and Helen Zaleski turn in registration forms for new library card

Patron registration under way at library

Northville Public Library initiated the second phase of its transition to an automated circulation system Monday by signing up patrons for new library cards.

Registration for the new green and white plastic cards coincided with the beginning of National Library Week which concludes this Saturday.

According to librarian Anne Mannisto, registration for new cards will be an ongoing process. However, she noted that the library is expecting the bulk of its regular users to register for cards within the next three or four months.

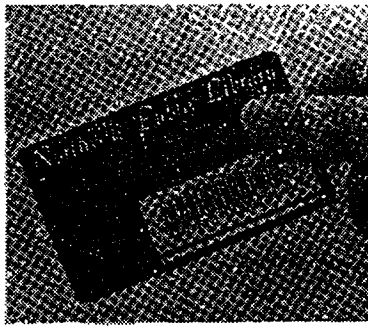

Those eligible to register for cards at Northville Public Library must be residents of Northville city or township or residents of communities outside the Wayne Oakland Library Federation (WOLF) system but residents in the Northville Public Schools District.

Persons 18 years of age who are registering for cards must have some form of identification. Those under 18, must have a parent's signature and some form of their parent's identification.

Mannisto noted that all residents may register, as long as "they are old enough to sign their name on the back of the card."

The new cards contain a bar code which will be linked to similar bar codes on each book in the library's collection once the new computer system is in place.

Northville Library began bar coding some 30,000 books in its collection in February, 1982, as the initial phase of its transition to the automated circulation system.

The new library system, which has been in the planning stages for nearly two years, is expected to be in place sometime within the next six months to a year, Mannisto said.

Once in place, the library will begin linking the information on each book into the data base. The computer terminal in the library will store all circulation and collection data.

In addition, the new system will process all overdue notices, identify what books are on reserve and will speed up the process of finding books within the WOLF system.

"The automated system will provide much more efficiency and accuracy in circulation," Mannisto said.

April surprise

Youngsters like Jeana Hinman and Chris Nix who hadn't found enough white stuff all last winter to scoop into snowballs enjoy last week-end's post-season snowfall that filled the courtyard at Amerman Elementary School. The storm Saturday night caught everyone by surprise, DPW superintendent Theodore Mapes related Tuesday. The DPW was alerted at 5 a.m. Sunday by city police and "had plowed and were home again by 12:30 p.m.," Mapes said. While Metro Airport reported 3.4 inches had fallen, Northville received about six inches of fast-melting snow, he added. Record photo by John Galloway.

Regional ambulance decision postponed

DeRusha said he is "not really bothered that, when faced with competition, a businessman is willing to lower his rates. From the paperwork I've seen, there seems no reason to change ambulance providers.

"I don't like to be influenced by the other communities, yet it seems odd that all would go with CEMS given these facts," he added. "It seems on the surface we would be better to live with the devil we know than with the devil we don't know."

Walters and Ayers said one committee concern not thoroughly reflected in the report was the "high number of complaints" about service quality and cost experienced in Novi and Farmington.

Walters and Mayor Paul Vernon said the number of complaints filed in Northville was not high.

"The other communities had a record of many more problems (with Novi Ambulance)," Ayers said. "They determined, for that reason, that cost would not be the prime, motivating factor."

"But we don't see that here (in the report)," Gardner countered.

Vernon said Early had appeared before council on infrequent occasions before and always seemed to "have a chip on his shoulder, to have an aggressive attitude." He also said he had heard some complaints about service, but had not examined them in depth. "I think whoever is providing the service is going to receive some degree of complaints," he said.

Ingles and Early charged that Botsford Hospital, creator of CEMS, had an undue influence on the committee deliberations and that CEMS was allowed to alter its bid after the committee studied it.

Walters said both companies had been asked for "clarifications" of portions of their proposal and acknowledged that an outside observer might interpret the clarification offered by CEMS to be a reduction of the advanced life support charges.

Ayers said regular communication with Botsford was involved, since it would be the central hospital in the plan, but that the hospital did not have influence in the bidding or selection processes.

"We did talk to Botsford and they expressed some concerns about working with Mr. Early under certain conditions," Ayers said.

"You mean administratively?" asked Gardner. "Yes," she said.

With all council members excepting Ayers having stated a desire to further explore the facts if the issue before making a decision. "There are a lot of unanswered questions," Folino concluded. "I go back to this ad hoc committee report, and to me, when I read the report, then put it with the proposals — I can't put the two together and come up with four."

As a member WOLF, Northville Public Library has access to more than 60 other member libraries within the system. If a patron requests a book not owned by the library, it may be obtained through the interloan system.

Mannisto said other libraries in the WOLF system also are registering patrons for new cards within their communities. Once patrons have registered for cards in their community, cards may be used in any library within the WOLF system.

Mannisto said once cards are issued, patrons should get in the habit of bringing them to the library at all times. However, she noted, patrons will not be denied books if they have forgotten their cards.

Persons with overdue books also are expected to pay fines before a new card can be issued, she said.

The library is asking patrons to fill out a simple form when registering for their new cards. If forms are filled out sufficiently, cards immediately are issued to the users.

Recreation officials hear park site plans

By B.J. MARTIN

After listening last week to a report on site plans unveiled in March for a 17-acre multi-use recreational park in the township, recreation commissioners will study the proposed project over the coming weeks to decide whether to recommend it for further action.

Planning consultant Emanuel DeBrincat of Vilcan, Leman and Associates presented to recreation officials last Wednesday plans to construct three baseball diamonds, a large soccer field and a running course at the site, located off Beck Road just north of the Phoenix Correctional Institution.

The land parcel would also include a community recreation building and approximately 160 parking spaces for easy access to the recreation grounds.

Most of the property, bordered on the west by farmlands and to the north by Our Lady of Providence School, is occupied by an apple orchard no longer in use, located just east of Beck Road. The orchard has presented a perennial problem to township officials because of the need for spraying. Under the site plan, the orchard trees would be leveled to make room for the three baseball diamonds.

Landscaping the baseball area, DeBrincat said, would take a minimal

— Emanuel De Brincat
Planning consultant

amount of financing, and is likely to be the first part of the project to be completed.

To the west of the orchard are grassy areas that vary in topography, and would require extensive landscaping. The area earmarked for the soccer field is currently a low-lying marsh that under the plan would be filled in by material from a knoll located to the west.

Extending west of the main park area is a "panhandle" of land that would make up a one-mile running and obstacle course. DeBrincat said extensive tree planting in this area would make the run pleasantly scenic.

There do appear to be hitches in the plan — one of the most considerable is financial. Designs include a 6-foot-high chain length fence commissioner Jim Anderson called "a looming obstacle" financially. The fence, to be built along the south and west border, and options such as lights for the fields are also expected to be difficult to obtain.

Additionally, representatives of the Phoenix Correctional Institution have said the changes in property use may cause some problems. The park's proximity to the institution may make patrolling the prison grounds more difficult, with excessive numbers of people using park property. Prison administrators now make a policy of routinely bringing in for questioning people found on the orchard grounds at night.

"The administration of the facility," DeBrincat told commissioners, "expressed concern with the possibility of people throwing over contraband — drugs, weapons, et cetera."

But, DeBrincat added, the institution's head architect had informed him a vacant buffer zone within prison grounds, according to the plan, should be sufficient to offset such dangers.

Like township planning commissioners at the site plan unveiling March 29, recreation members wanted to consider other design options for the park, including picnic tables, park benches, alternative tree and shrubbery plantings and various different layouts of athletic fields.

Recreation commissioner Douglas Drapal wanted possible winter use of the parklands included in any site plan, and his fellow commission members agreed to review the plan extensively in consultation with recreation department officials.

All the park land is presently owned by the state department of corrections, which is expected to transfer the property at a minimal cost to the township, pending an approval by voter referendum. The site plan study was funded by federal grant money available to township planning projects.

Board grants contract to business manager

Northville Township Business Manager David Lelko's contract was renewed for one year by unanimous action of the township board of trustees last Thursday.

The action was recommended by Treasurer Richard Henningsen. Lelko's service runs from January 1 of each year. The contract, Henningsen said, includes a small 4-5 percent increase.

Henningsen said that he also is checking funding for rebuilding a fire engine as requested by Chief Robert Toms and for redoing the township hall steps as part of the new budget.

He reported to the trustees that he has had communication from a tax collection agency which handles collections of parking fines and taxes in other communities. Henningsen said he would like to be able to collect the $2300 owing in fines and $1382 in taxes. He said the firm collects for Livonia.

Questioned about the unpaid taxes, Henningsen said two unpaid bills were those of residents and four were of non-residents.

The collection agency receives 35 percent, he added. Asked if the school district would be in favor of the collection agency attempting to collect the taxes due in this way, Henningsen said he had a verbal concurrence.

The matter was placed on the May agenda for further study. Trustee Thomas L.P. Cook asked to have summer hours for the township office placed on the May agenda.

Supervisor John MacDonald reported that the economic development authority is "seeing more activity" and said he is hopeful there will be interest in the senior village project on the child development project.

At the meeting the board officially authorized the new township beautification commission to do landscaping and provide plantings for the township hall grounds.

Lelko reported that dates for receiving state shared revenues are April 18, May 23 and June 30. He said the state does have plans to pay back the monies.

Senior parents 'Sail Away' with June party plans

Northville High School senior class party plans are cruising right along in keeping with the "Sail Away" theme chosen for the Class of '83 party that traditionally follows commencement exercises.

Plans for the June 17 party are under direction of general co-chairpersons Glenda Buist and Mary Pohlod.

They report they are working with an enthusiastic group of parents of seniors to coordinate ideas for decorations, entertainment and food in the setting of a cruise ship.

A $15 donation per family of graduating seniors is asked. It is to be sent by May 1 to Mrs.

Suzanne Kaley, 1022 Springfield, Northville, 48167. Checks should be made payable to Northville Senior Class Party — 1983.

In the near future letters of invitation will be going out to seniors giving particulars of the party.

The chairpersons are encouraging parents of senior class members who have not yet volunteered to help to call to give their time and talent in the fun project.

Committees and their chairpersons still needing additional help include decorations under Mrs. Sara Ryan, 420-2452; check room, Mrs. Carola Caroselli, 348-9365; and clean up, Ron Ehler, 348-1854.

City honors Mickey, Shrine, girl scout leaders

City Council Monday approved issuance of three mayoral proclamations. The three designate Mickey Mouse an honorary Northville citizen, June 10-11 Moslem Shrine Hospital Newspaper Sale days and April 22 Girl Scout Leader day.

Mickey Mouse will be a city visitor Friday afternoon, brought by Omnicon Cablevision as opening publicity for initiation of the Disney Channel on the system which holds the city and township franchise.

Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck will be in town at 1:30 p.m. Friday and again at 4:30 p.m. Saturday.

Mayor Paul Vernon also proclaimed April 22 (Friday) as Girl Scout Leader Day in accordance with a national observance honoring 300,000 Girl Scout volunteer leaders.

The Shrine hospital newspaper sale on the June weekend raise funds for the Shrine Philanthropy which operates 21 hospitals providing free treatment for crippled or burned children from infancy through age 17.

The sale will be the fourth annual such event in Michigan and part of an 11-county effort.

Council also issued permission to the Lions Club (whose Northville members are now affiliated with the Plymouth Club) to solicit financial assistance April 29-30 in the city during White Cane Week.

Psychotherapist is speaker at BPW's Monday meeting

Dearborn Heights psychotherapist Diana Kuper will discuss "Women in Transition," or "Changing Lifestyles," at the April 25 meeting of the Northville Business and Professional Women's Club.

In her discussion, Kuper will utilize vignettes showing how women's lives have changed and the psychological implications caused by such change.

Kuper holds a master of arts degree in humanistic and clinical psychology from The Merrill Palmer Institute and holds bachelor's degrees from University of Michigan and Tel Aviv University.

She currently is in private practice and works with both adults and young adults on an individual and group basis. She has taught at Oakland Community College and currently is teaching at Henry Ford Community College and Wayne County Community College.

The meeting will be held at 6:30 p.m. at the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth. Reservations should be made by Friday with Berenice Ellis at Bookstall on the Main at 348-1167.

Bergen shares experiences at Town Hall

Polly Bergen lights up lobby of Plymouth Hilton Inn

Polly Bergen shared her philosophy of life, her beauty secrets and her famous chili recipe with an admiring Northville Town Hall audience that filled the Plymouth Hilton Inn meeting room last Thursday.

She also explained how she played Rhoda Henry in the television mini-series, "Winds of War."

"To a large degree, Mitch was responsible for my getting the part of Rhoda Henry," she revealed at the celebrity luncheon following the lecture. Explaining that Bob Mitchum and his wife are "very very old friends," she recalled that, while other actresses were being considered, Mitchum kept recommending her.

"I hadn't acted in years — my career had been taking other directions — but finally they said I could audition."

For an established actress to have to go through an audition was difficult, Bergen admitted, but by then she too thought she was right for the part.

"When I auditioned, they agreed I was right — then I did not hear one word for eight months. I thought they had decided against me."

"On Thanksgiving, two years ago I was cooking one of my two meals a year and the phone rang. My agent said, 'You have the part of Rhoda — can you take the next plane to California?' I said I had dinner cooking and 'No, I can't.'"

"My Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners are for 20 to 40 people, but I did fly to California the next day and had 33 costumes fitted between Friday night and Sunday evening. Then I started learning my part for the next day's shooting."

"We shot for over a year; I never had a more wonderful time."

"Everybody hated the bitchy woman, but I liked Rhoda. Rhoda really tried hard. She had a narrow sort of environment. In the military a wife gets her status from her husband. Rhoda tended to overdress with those silly hats with veils. She was lonely with her husband away so much and wanted attention."

Bergen said some of Rhoda Henry's wardrobe was original from the 1940s, and other pieces were made for the part.

"I loved her clothes — they helped me play her."

"Remember when nails had half-moons and how wearing a girdle changes the way you walk," she asked.

"I wore a girdle while I was playing Rhoda — it helped me play the part," she told the women whose laughter indicated they remembered the era.

Wearing black pumps with three inch heels, a man-tailored, double breasted pin-stripe suit with a ruffled matching navy paisley print blouse, and not an extra pound, Polly Bergen looked better than Rhoda Henry.

She admitted to being 52 years old and newly married after being alone for 11 years.

"My, you do ask pushy questions," she observed with the casual good humor that sparked her talk. She answered all queries at the luncheon, adding, "but I do wish you had asked about the face-lift a couple of months ago. Then I could have said 'no.'"

She tied her decision to have a face-lift with the theme of her talk — that "most of us spend our lives pretending to be a lot of things we may or may not be."

Bergen, who spoke without notes, said most people spend their lives trying to "turn the dial" to become what they think others expect them to be.

Referring to face lifting, she observed, "It's not whether you have one, but why. If you think you're going to get a husband back or get a boyfriend, no. I did it for professional reasons."

Saying she interviewed five different doctors, "all top specialists," and looked at pictures of their work before having the face-lift, Bergen advised that this is no place to economize.

She also reported she told the surgeon she decided upon, "Do less rather than more."

Several women in her audience asked if she still were manufacturing her beauty care products. She said the business had been sold and she has nothing to do with the present operation. She recommended keeping skin "as clean and moist as possible."

She explained that her fashion shop ventures had been set up for her parents and that shops, such as one in Gatlinburg, still are in operation.

From Northville, Bergen was flying west to see her new granddaughter, her first, who was born three weeks ago with a birth weight of two and a half pounds.

The actress said the baby was doing well, however. The baby's mother, Kathy, is Bergen's step-daughter whom she had raised since she was nine years old. Bergen also has a son, 23, whom she called "a professional student" who is to be graduated this year from UCLA. A daughter, 25, is a cable show producer in New York — "and the closest to being me."

Bergen used examples of her own feelings and attitudes as the basis for her lecture on fulfillment.

Telling the audience to "think of yourself as the dial on a radio — you spend all day turning the dial trying to find that identity a person expects you to be."

"We want to be the kid on the block everybody likes; we want to be chosen first for the volleyball team. As adults, we want to be the perfect wife, mother and friend. When we have support systems, our lives run along smoothly."

Then, she continued, because women live longer than men and children create lives of their own "if we have done our job properly," women are finding themselves face to face for the first time with their own feelings.

"Most of us are doing this," she said, "when we are in our 50s and 60s and least able to make a change, when we want to relax a bit."

Bergen recalled how she felt 11 years ago when her marriage of 20 years was over.

She said she and her children had gone to Mexico for a vacation. Watching the young people on the beach, she recalled, "made me feel time had

Driver receives violation for parking lot incident

...In the City

A Gerhardt flute valued at $253 was stolen from room A-6 at Northville high school, police reported. The musical instrument was stolen at about 10:30 a.m. Monday, April 11, when its owner left the room and returned shortly after to find it gone. City police report no suspects in connection with the theft.

City police reported the theft of a Clarion push-button stereo from a 1969 Ford Mustang sometime between noon, Thursday, March 14, and 2:30 p.m. the following Saturday. The car was parked in an alley adjoining Carpenter when the stereo, valued at $170, was stolen.

Security guard Robert Conklin may have thwarted a burglary attempt at the Northville Ford auto dealership, 235 East Main Street, when he responded to an alarm Tuesday of last week at 8:48 p.m.

The alarm sounded from the basement area of the building when Conklin investigated the cause. At the foot of the stairs leading to the basement, he saw an 18-20 year old white male who shouted an expletive, then "disappeared," according to his statement to police.

Going to the basement window, Conklin reported seeing two white men running away from the rear of the building. City police investigators checked the rear door of the building and discovered it unlocked. Police also found several windows were left open. It is believed nothing was taken. Police report no suspects in connection with the incident.

The tires and wheels of four brand-new Ford Escorts were discovered stolen from McDonald Ford Sales, 550 West Seven Mile Road, this weekend.

According to city police reports, officer David DeLauder was on his patrol rounds that he saw four Ford Escorts mounted on milk crates from the PACE food company. The tires and wheels, the value of which had not been set as of Monday morning, were gone.

Police believe the tires were stolen at about 12:30 a.m. Sunday, shortly before the snowfall early Sunday morning, as snow was discovered on the milk crates, but there were no footprints visible.

...In the Township

A 33-year-old Canton man was issued a violation for leaving the scene of a property damage accident April 15 after knocking down a lamp post in a Seven Mile parking lot, according to township police reports.

Elwin Dean Gabbard, driver of the Aaro Disposal truck involved in the incident, is to appear in 35th District Court May 17.

According to a witness, Gabbard was attempting to back the disposal truck into a parking space in Highland Lakes Shopping Center at about 10:40 a.m. when he hit the lamp post — knocking it down and pulling the cement piling out of the pavement.

The witness told police Gabbard pulled away from the scene and parked in a different space in the lot. The driver then appeared to go into Cindy's Coney Island. Upon leaving the Coney Island, he drove behind the shopping center and exited the lot eastbound on Seven Mile.

Township police called Aaro Disposal in Romulus to obtain the name of the driver.

Gabbard told township police Monday he did not report the accident because he did not know where to report. When police mentioned he drove past the Michigan State Police Post on Seven Mile, Gabbard acknowledged that he saw the post and had no reason for not stopping to report the incident.

Larry O'Sheehan, owner of the lamp post, told police he estimated damage to be about $2,500.

A briefcase and its contents estimated at $200 were reported stolen from the sidewalk of a Marilyn Street residence April 12, township police report.

The complainant told police the incident occurred around 7:10 a.m. According to police reports, the complainant said he left the briefcase on the sidewalk in front of his home when he left for work.

The complainant said he reached Northville Road when he realized he had left the briefcase. Returning to his home, he looked around the area but could not find the missing item.

He told police he believes it was stolen. There are no suspects in the incident.

Board approves resolution for Park Gardens bonding

The resolution passed by Northville Township trustees last Thursday officially confirmed the roll for Special Assessment District No. 12 for Park Gardens sewer improvements for bonding purposes.

First installment on the bond issue of $669,000 will be due December 1 of this year and subsequent installments will be due on December 1 of each year thereafter until payment and interest is paid on the bonds.

The resolution stipulated that interest on unpaid installments shall be at the rate equal to one percent in excess of the average rate of interest borne by the bonds to be issued in anticipation of the collection.

In other action, the board of trustees at the request of the Village of Lake Orion gave support to House Bill No.

4194 which proposes to establish a regional administrative agency to manage the Detroit Water and Sewer System.

Lake Orion council letter stated, "It is our belief that this system has been badly mismanaged and that we are paying the costs of this mismanagement."

Water Department Superintendent Walt Holinoty recommended that the trustees also lend support to the bill. Trustees also approved the request of Moslem Temple Shriners to conduct their fourth annual hospital newspaper sale in Northville Township June 10-11 as part of an 11-county area sale to raise funds for the Shrine philanthropy which operates 21 hospitals for crippled and burned children.

Site plans approved for PBO location, North Center

Site plans for improvements at 410 North Center to allow use as an office structure were approved by city planners last week.

While limited parking space and a narrow driveway were concerns discussed by the commission, consultant Ronald Nino said the existing building and lot configuration do not allow for any better arrangement.

"Our ability to bring about an ideal condition has always been constrained by the fact that we have an existing lot and building condition," Nino said. "There isn't anything we can do about the fact that the driveway is not wide enough and ingress to and egress from the parking stations will be difficult."

The space available in the structure demands four parking spaces under rules for the PBO (professional business office) zoning district. Only three are available. Owner Anthony Harbin applied to the Board of Zoning Appeals seeking a variance to allow attended parking under rules applicable in the CBD.

Such an arrangement would allow four cars to be parked in the space on site, but the BZA rejected the application, stating that the parking arrangement would require cars to back out the drive onto North Center — a practice BZA members said was illegal.

Without the fourth parking space, Nino told the commission, Harbin should be allowed to use only 1,050 of the 1,175 square feet of floor area in the building for offices. Harbin and his attorney said they would close off part of one room on the second floor and use it for storage rather than as a traffic-generating office.

Denis Roux, who owns property adjacent to Harbin's, asked the commission to require guard rails be erected around the parking area to protect his fence from cars he said would damage the fence while maneuvering in the tight quarters.

As commissioners discussed this proposal, Roux and Harbin each stated his case in an argument over whose property the fence actually sits upon. According to Harbin, two surveys of the property show that Roux's fence is on his property.

For his part, Roux said he had a survey showing the fence on his side of the property line.

Nino told the commission that erection of a guardrail at the narrowest portion of the driveway would take up enough room that only a subcompact car would be able to drive between the fence and house without hitting the rail.

He also advised that the dispute over the fence location is a "civil matter" not under planning commission jurisdiction.

Nino also explained that a similar plan had been approved in September, 1980, for a different owner, but that approval has lapsed. He said the resubmitted plan was vastly improved and widening of North Center in accordance with city policy is properly indicated.

Engineering review by McNeely & Lincoln, Associates resulted in several recommendations for specific alterations to drainage patterns and requirements for the road widening.

When plan approval was moved, Commissioner James Cutler, who owns property adjacent to Harbin's, asked to abstain from voting, citing a personal conflict. During discussion of his request, he said he knew "my fence is going to take a beating from people parking there" but did not wish to reflect that participation in a commission vote. The plan was approved, with Cutler abstaining from the vote.

Post office explaining COD, vacation policies

Because of confusion on some postal policies and problems that have arisen locally, Northville Postmaster Wallace Cates announces that effective May 1 only cash will be accepted for COD (Cash on Delivery) mail, custom articles and money orders.

He also states that Hold Mail (vacation mail) can be kept at the post office for a maximum of 30 days only and will not be delivered over the counter but will be delivered by the customer's mail carrier on his return.

"There seems to be some confusion on postal policies and regulations; so I would like to clarify some of the misunderstandings which have arisen at this office," Cates said, pointing out that it is a regulation that Hold Mail can be kept at the post office for residents who are away for only up to 30 days. Time beyond this, he said, will be granted for emergency purposes only.

Such Hold Mail no longer can be picked up at the post office on the resident's return, he explained, saying, "It is a time consuming and costly process to have window clerks going from the front of the post office to the back to locate such Hold Mail."

"Not only is it costly for the Postal Service, but it also hinders those individuals who are waiting in line to purchase postal commodities," he stated. Hold Mail will be delivered to the postal customer's residence, by his mail carrier, upon his return.

Explaining that the Northville Post Office has received numerous checks for CODs in which the checks either bounced or a "stop payment" was initiated, Cates said beginning next month only cash will be accepted.

"When a 'stop payment' for a check made out for a COD delivery occurs," he said, "the action does not harm the COD sender, as the sender is sent a money order on the day the check is presented to the post office."

"What actually happens is the post office loses that amount from its account, making the post office short of funds and disrupting accurate bookkeeping. The post office, then, must collect from the postal customer the monies due plus an additional $10."

Cates said that "stop payment" and "bounced" checks have become a common occurrence here, and that is why the management has decided to initiate the cash-only policy for CODs, custom articles and money orders.

State police figures show child restraint law works

Statistics show Michigan's child restraint law, enacted last April, reduced the numbers of children injured in traffic accidents in 1982.

Michigan State Police director Colonel Gerald L. Hough revealed the figures in a report to the Michigan State Safety Commission in Detroit April 15.

The law requires specially-designed infant safety seats for smaller children and use of some form of restraint for all children under four years of age.

Figures for the first eight months after the law's enactment show a decrease of 31 percent in injuries to children from birth to 3 years old — far greater than the nine percent reduction in all other age groups.

"The citizens of Michigan have accepted this law and the proof is the large reduction in children's injuries," Hough said.

A side benefit of the child restraint law seems to be an increase in the number of adults wearing seat belts. Safety belt use rose from a statewide average of 10.9 percent in 1981 to 14 percent in 1982.

Hough attributed at least a portion of the increase in belt use to parents who strap their children in, then buckle up themselves to set an example.

Continuing his support for a mandatory safety belt law for all car passengers, Hough cited the statistics as an "example of what benefits in injury reduction would be obtained" under the proposed legislation.

Off to Waterloo

Sixty Amerman sixth graders in Larry Krabill and John Sutterheim's classes were treated to a trip to Waterloo Nature Center in Chelsea, thanks to the Northville Branch of the Women's National Farm and Garden Association. Students on the outing hiked the Lowland Woods trail to examine everything from skunk cabbage and trilliums to frogs and birds. They also got a close-up view of snakes, turtles and salamanders inhabiting the woods and ponds of the Waterloo area. Accompanying students on the trip was Georgiana Herald, chairman of the Northville WNFGA conservation committee. Students board the bus, at left, while Larry Krabill, left, John Sutterheim and Georgiana Herald take a head count. Record photo by Steve Fecht.

Chief requests $25 fee for false alarm cases

Business owners whose burglar alarm systems sound frequent false calls to police would be charged $25 per false alarm under a proposal put forward by city police chief Rodney Cannon Monday.

Cannon, addressing city council, said that frequent responses to false alarms (more than 380 last year) are costly to the police department, pose a danger to citizens and police officers, and that the fee would help defray the expenses and discourage the "negligence" causing the alarms.

because of owner negligence setting off the alarm. "You have to go, and the police car goes straight there as swiftly as possible," he said. "The public is exposed to the police car and sooner or later someone's going to get hurt and for no reason."

He noted there were 17 calls to one business in a single week last year.

Even calling the business owner to determine whether an alarm is false or not does not lessen the cost to the department, Cannon explained.

There would be no charge for the first three false alarms (through the police alarm board or called in by alarm companies) at any business in a calendar year, Cannon proposed.

He supplied a survey of area police departments showing fees for false alarms ranging from $20 to "around" $50 per call. The nearest community charging a fee is Livonia, where the cost is $35 and being raised to $50.

Cannon said the problem was with repeated calls to the same business

"We have to send a car anyway to make sure the person on the phone is speaking freely, not being influenced to tell us something that's not true," he said.

Such phone calls do lessen the danger to the public, however. "The car doesn't go as fast if we've got the person on the phone," Cannon said.

Council instructed city manager Steve Walters to investigate methods of instituting such a fee — noting that it could be a fine for an ordinance violation or an administrative fee.

Annual garage sale set May 14, Main and Center

Northville Community Chamber of Commerce has obtained city council approval to close Main and Center streets downtown for the annual garage sale Saturday, May 14.

Formal request was made by letter from chamber president Scott Lapham in Monday's council packets.

To be closed for the sale are Main between Hutton and Wing streets (leaving access to Phil's Union 76 from Main) and Center between Dunlap and Cady, leaving access from Mary Alexander Court.

Also closed will be the parking lot east of the drug store, where the high school choir will perform.

Council also granted permission to use entrance signs to publicize the sale May 4 through May 14.

Community invited to open house

Salvation Army occupies new quarters

Many Northville residents may not think of the Plymouth Salvation Army as a local organization, but the Plymouth corps has 2,500 people in the Plymouth, Canton and Northville area who support its work.

Corps members visit Northville Psychiatric Hospital twice yearly, at Easter and Christmas, bringing gifts to each patient. They also pay visits to the Detroit House of Correction in the township and to area nursing homes.

Local mothers and children participate in the Salvation Army camping program. Usually, the Salvation Army becomes aware of these mothers as they are aided at Christmas time.

Residents eligible for commodity distributions of cheese and dry milk find them at the corps building in Plymouth.

Northville Rotarians and Kiwanians aid this social service work of the Plymouth corps as do individuals, although many have never entered its building.

Lieutenant William Harfoot, commander of the Plymouth Salvation Army, is hoping that those who have supported the corps will come to its open house Saturday to view the new, expanded facilities at 9451 Spth Main in Plymouth, just south of Ann Arbor Road.

From 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Salvation Army members will show off new quarters in the renovated former Main Street Baptist Church and a 7,000 square-foot addition. The chapel, meeting rooms, offices, kitchen and spacious recreation areas will be open for visitors to see the results of the $600,000 expansion project begun in 1981.

This Sunday members will dedicate their new building.

"The building is going to allow for growth and development," Harfoot explains.

One of his goals, he says, is to provide for some personal growth for the about 700 areas families on low and fixed incomes in the area. "These are the people who can't afford Vic Tanney and other health clubs," he explains.

"We have been talking to other agencies offering to allow them to use space for such programs," he adds.

This, he states, was the motivation behind the move to larger quarters from a citadel at 290 Fairground, sold to help make the move possible.

"Fortunately," says Harfoot, "the community respects our work."

A fund drive raised $490,000 in 180 contributions, Harfoot explains. The corps, one of 12 in the metropolitan Detroit area, operates, as do the others, with an advisory board of local citizens who sympathize with the Salvation Army's efforts.

It is explained that these volunteers give time, financial support and advice to those who are on "active duty."

The Plymouth corps board has 15 members from Plymouth and Northville and an advisory committee of five from Canton.

Northville members are William Sliger and Donald Francoeur.

Serving with them in terms which expire the end of 1985 are James Jabara, Cindy Merrifield and Donald Sutherland, who is the board treasurer.

Roger Haslick of Plymouth is chairman, serving through 1984 with Frank Palmer, Dr. A.E. VanOrnum, Win Schrader and Richard Raison, secretary.

Harold Fischer, vice-chairman, is serving through 1983 with Harold Head, Carl Lampton, Gene Overholt and Betty Pint.

Canton members are Stu Angel, Terry Carroll, Dominic Cirino, Larry Miller and Debbie O'Connor.

Harfoot adds that the Plymouth corps has a direct line to Northville and any needs here through staff member Lucille McKinney, a Northville resident.

"All programs are accessible to the people of Northville," Harfoot emphasizes, explaining referrals come from such organizations as the Goodfellows and from the police departments.

"We go back to families we helped at Christmas and invite them to camp. It's $2 a person a week. A mother of three can pay for this with her grocery money."

"We get funding from several sources," he continues, mentioning "excellent response" from service organizations.

Sources of income include the Plymouth Community Fund, sale of The War Cry, direct mail appeals, church offerings and gifts, and the recent building campaign.

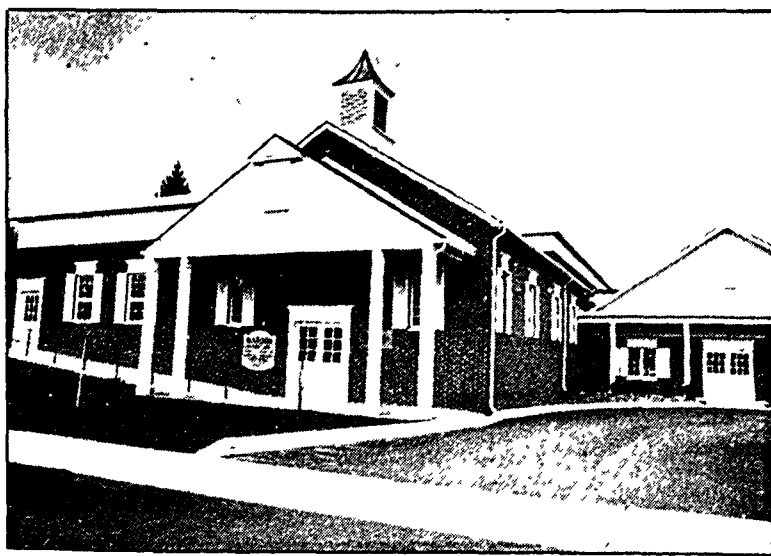

Harfoot, who has been at the Plymouth corps for seven years, points out that the Salvation Army has been in Plymouth for 54 years, moving and expanding four times before the move last month. The Salvation Army itself was founded in England in 1865 by William Booth.

It has long been identified with its brass bands playing on street corners as well as for its willingness to respond immediately to human need, and its work in hospitals and prisons.

Harfoot who was brought up in a Salvation Army family notes that the Army is the largest publisher of brass band music in the world. Harfoot is hoping to have a local band develop.

During World War II, the Salvation Army gained the respect of U.S. soldiers for its service to troops.

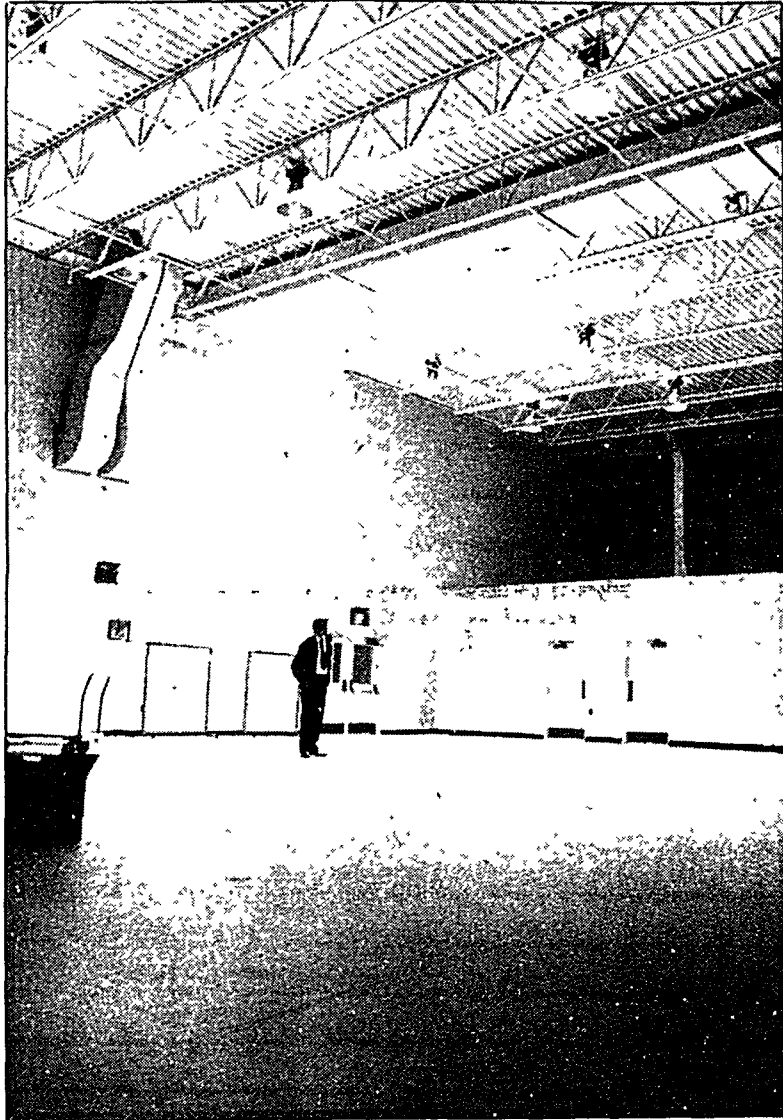

"You never meet a World War II veteran who doesn't have a story he wants to relate about the Army," agrees Harfoot.

New quarters of Plymouth Salvation Army located on South Main Chapel is part of expanded quarters of corps.

Four petitions filed for Schoolcraft College board

With six days left before filing deadline, one candidate has dropped out and two more quietly have entered the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees race.

Filing deadline is 4 p.m. Tuesday, April 26. Petitions with 50 to 200 signatures of registered voters are required to be on the ballot in June.

James St. Louis, a Farmington Hills police officer who lives in Livonia, announced this week he will drop out of the race because he plans to move to a new job in northern Michigan.

As of Friday, four persons had filed nominating petitions for three six-year terms on the college board, virtually assuring a contested election.

Those who have filed are: Northville resident Myron Kasey of 18246 Jamestown Circle; Harry G. Greenleaf of Livonia, currently board chairperson; Harvey A. Fallor of Canton Township and Daryl DeLabblo of Garden City, the city's director of administrative services.

Incumbent board treasurer Rosina Raymond of Livonia indicated she would seek a new six-year term but has not filed nominating petitions. Incumbent trustee Len Wozniak of Livonia is expected not to seek a new term.

A two-year term also is open. Incumbent Sharon Sarris, a Livonian who was appointed to the post in 1982, has announced she will run for it but has not yet filed nominating petitions.

She is filling the vacancy created by the resignation of board vice-chairperson Nancie Blatt, who moved to Chicago.

Nominating petitions are available in the president's office in the Grote Administration Building on campus.

The Schoolcraft College District includes all of the Clarenceville, Garden City, Livonia, Northville and Plymouth-Canton K-12 school districts and a small portion of Novi.

passed me by. I proceeded to find out what is it you do to become an adult at age 41."

After a self-inspection, which she urged her audience to do also, she lost 22 pounds and began new career ventures.

"Take your clothes off and stand in front of the mirror," she advised, "and really look at yourself and what you want to be."

Then, she told the women, draw a line down the middle of a piece of paper and list good and bad features.

"If you really make a project of coming to terms with who you are, you'll give it a shot."

Recalling that while she was growing up, she "never wanted to be anything but Shirley Temple," Bergen said she had singing and dancing lessons and "always won the amateur show until I was four."

Today, she said, "I just want to be the very best 52-year-old woman I can be — my life has changed a lot (since her marriage eight months ago) — and I haven't lectured for a little more than a year."

"You have made this a wonderful, relaxed experience," she told her audience warmly. And women in the audience flocked to her luncheon table to say it had been inspirational for them, too.

Her chili recipe appears on page 2-C. J.M.D.

CITY OF NOVI NOTICE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the City of Novi has adopted

ORDINANCE NO. 83-18.14

AN ORDINANCE TO ADD SECTION 2022 TO ORDINANCE NO. 75-18, AS AMENDED, THE CITY OF NOVI ZONING ORDINANCE, TO ESTABLISH A VARIATION IN APPEARANCE FOR PROPOSED SINGLE FAMILY DWELLINGS TO INSURE THAT SINGLE FAMILY DWELLINGS SHALL NOT BE SUBSTANTIALLY SIMILAR TO AN IMMEDIATELY ADJACENT SINGLE FAMILY DWELLING.

THE CITY OF NOVI ORDAINS:

Part I. Preamble. The City Council hereby finds that substantial similarity in appearance of adjacent single family dwellings adversely affects the desirability of immediate and neighboring areas, impairs the benefits of occupancy of existing homes in such areas, impairs the stability of the environment in such areas, prevents the most appropriate use of real estate and the most appropriate development of such areas, and produces degeneration of property in such areas with attendant deterioration of conditions affecting the public health, safety, comfort, morals, and welfare of the citizens thereof.

Part II. That Section 2022 is hereby added to Ordinance No. 75-18, as amended, and shall read as follows:

SECTION 2022. VARIATION IN APPEARANCE

1. In any one-family residential district, there shall be a variation in appearance of one-family detached dwellings, according to the following standard:

No dwelling structural form shall be located adjacent to a substantially similar dwelling structural form, without there being at least one dwelling with a different structural form between the two substantially similar structural forms.

2. Dwelling structural forms shall be determined to be substantially similar if the Building Official, or his designee, find four (4) or more of the following criteria to be similar:

(a) Height of the main roof ridge, or, in the case of a building with a flat roof, the highest point of the roof beams, above the elevation of the first floor;

(b) Height of the main roof ridge above the top of the plat (all flat roofs shall be deemed identical in this dimension);

(c) Length of the main roof ridge, or in the case of a building with a flat roof, length of the main roof;

(d) Width between outside walls at the ends of the building measured under the main roof at right angles to the length thereof;

(e) Relative locations of windows in the front or any side elevation with respect to each other and to any door or doors in the same elevation;

(f) Relative location with respect to each other of garage, if attached, porch, if any, and the remainder of the building in the front elevation.

The criteria in subparts (a) through (d) above shall be deemed to be similar if the difference in measurement of such dimensions listed is less than two (2) feet. An end-to-end or side-to-side reversal of the criteria in subparts (e) and (f) above shall not be considered a dissimilarity in determining whether the relative locations of those elements are similar.

3. Building Permit Review. No building permit for any single family dwelling shall be issued unless it has been found as a fact by the Building Official, or his designee, that the construction of the building will not violate subparagraph 1 of this Section. The rejection of an application for a building permit shall be in writing and shall set forth the reasons for denial of the application.

4. Appeal.

(a) An appeal may be taken from any adverse determination of the Building Official, or his designee, to the Construction Board of Appeals by any person or entity aggrieved by such determination. Such appeal shall be taken within ten (10) days of the denial of an application for a building permit, by filing with the Building Official, or his designee, and with the Construction Board of Appeals, a notice of appeal, specifying the grounds thereof. The Building Official, or his designee, shall forthwith transmit to the Construction Board of Appeals all of the papers constituting the records upon which the determination was made. Fees to be charged to persons taking an appeal to the Construction Board of Appeals shall be those prescribed by City Council pursuant to Section 2303.

(b) An appeal may be taken from any adverse determination of the Construction Board of Appeals to the Board of Zoning Appeals by any person or entity aggrieved by such determination. Such appeal shall be taken within such time as shall be prescribed by the Board of Zoning Appeals by any person or entity aggrieved by such determination. Such appeal shall be taken within such time as shall be prescribed by the Board of Zoning Appeals by general rule, by filing with the Building Official, or his designee, and with the Board of Zoning Appeals, a notice of appeal, specifying the grounds thereof. The Building Official, or his designee, shall forthwith transmit to the Board of Zoning Appeals all of the papers constituting the records upon which the determination was made, together with the record of the hearing before the Construction Board of Appeals. CITY OF NOVI NOTICE

ORDINANCE NO. 83-18.13

AN ORDINANCE TO ADD SECTION 2021 TO ORDINANCE NO. 75-18, AS AMENDED, THE CITY OF NOVI ZONING ORDINANCE, TO ESTABLISH A REVIEW OF PLANS FOR PROPOSED SINGLE FAMILY DWELLINGS TO INSURE THAT SINGLE FAMILY DWELLINGS SHALL NOT BE GROSSLY DISSIMILAR TO THE EXTERIOR ARCHITECTURAL APPEAL AND FUNCTIONALISM OF SINGLE FAMILY DWELLINGS ALREADY CONSTRUCTED IN SURROUNDING AREAS.

THE CITY OF NOVI ORDAINS:

Part I. Preamble. The City Council hereby finds that the existence of a gross dissimilarity in exterior design and appearance of a single family dwelling in relation to the prevailing appearance of existing single family dwellings in the surrounding area, adversely affects the desirability of immediate and neighboring areas, impairs the benefits of occupancy of existing dwellings in such areas, impairs the stability of the environment in such areas, prevents the most appropriate use of real estate and the most appropriate development of such areas, and produces degeneration of property in such areas with attendant deterioration of conditions affecting the public health, safety, comfort, morals, and welfare of the citizens thereof.

Part II. That Section 2021 is hereby added to Ordinance No. 75-18, as amended, and shall read as follows:

SECTION 2021. STRUCTURE REVIEW

1. Definitions.

A. As used herein, "grossly dissimilar" shall mean immediately obvious difference.

B. As used herein, "surrounding area" shall mean single family dwellings within one thousand (1,000) feet in all directions within an R-1-F and R-1 District and within three hundred fifty (350) feet in all directions within R-2 through R-4 Districts, of the lot on which the single family dwelling unit is to be located.

Measurements under this section shall be made from the lot line of the proposed single family dwelling site to the lot line of each surrounding single family dwelling already constructed in the area. If any part of a lot is within the specified area, the single family dwelling constructed thereon shall be deemed included within the surrounding area. Measurements shall be made from the front lot line, or the rear lot line, or the side lot lines, whichever produces the shortest possible distance between the two measured lots.

2. Reviewing Official. The Building Official, or his designee, shall perform the duties and exercise the powers as provided in this Section.

3. Building Permit Review. No building permit for any single family dwelling shall be issued unless it has been found as a fact by the Reviewing Official, after view of the site of the proposed single family dwelling and an examination of the building permit application, that the exterior architectural appeal and functionalism of the proposed single family dwelling will not, when erected, be grossly dissimilar to the exterior architectural appeal and functionalism of the single family dwellings within the surrounding area.

4. Grant of Building Permit. A building permit for a single family dwelling shall be issued by the Reviewing Official unless:

(a) The proposed single family dwelling fails to satisfy the standards set forth herein to insure that the single family dwelling will not, when erected, be grossly dissimilar to other single family dwellings within the surrounding area; or

(b) The building permit application fails to comply with all applicable statutes and ordinances.

5. Review Standard. In determining whether the exterior architectural appeal and functionalism of the proposed single family dwelling is grossly dissimilar to other single family dwellings, the Reviewing Official shall consider the following features:

(a) The square footage of such proposed dwelling is not less than seventy-five percent (75%) of the average square footage of the single family dwellings constructed within the surrounding area.

(b) The type of materials used in such proposed dwelling is not grossly dissimilar to the type of materials used in single family dwellings constructed within the surrounding area.

(c) The architectural design of such proposed dwelling is not grossly dissimilar to the architectural design of the single family dwellings constructed within the surrounding area.

6. Appeal.

(a) An appeal may be taken from any adverse determination of the Reviewing Official to the Construction Board of Appeals by any person or entity aggrieved by such determination. Such appeal shall be taken within ten (10) days of the denial of an application for a building permit, by filing with the Reviewing Official and the Construction Board of Appeals, a notice of appeal, specifying the grounds thereof. The Reviewing Official shall forthwith transmit to the Construction Board of Appeals all of the papers constituting the records upon which the determination of gross dissimilarity was made. Fees to be charged to persons taking an appeal to the Construction Board of Appeals shall be those prescribed by City Council pursuant to Section 2303.

(b) An appeal may be taken from any adverse determination of the Construction Board of Appeals to the Board of Zoning Appeals by any person or entity aggrieved by such determination. Such appeal shall be taken within such time as shall be prescribed by the Board of Zoning Appeals by general rule, by filing with the Reviewing Official and with the Board of Zoning Appeals, a notice of appeal, specifying the grounds thereof. The Reviewing Official shall forthwith transmit to the Board of Zoning Appeals all of the papers constituting the records upon which the determination was made, together with the record of the hearing before the Construction Board of Appeals. Fees to be charged to persons taking an appeal to the Board of Zoning Appeals shall be those prescribed by City Council pursuant to Section 2303.

7. Relation to Other Ordinances. This Ordinance shall not be interpreted to be in conflict with any of the provisions of Ordinance No. 83-18.14.

Part III. Effective Date and Publication. This Ordinance is hereby declared to be an emergency Ordinance, which is immediately necessary for the preservation of the public peace, health and safety, and shall become effective immediately. It shall be published by publication of a brief notice in a newspaper circulated in the City stating the date of enactment and effective date, a brief statement as to its regulatory effect, and that a complete copy of the Ordinance is available for public purchase, use and inspection at the office of the City Clerk during the hours of 8:00 A.M. to 5:00 P.M. Local Time.

Bills would give state control in city bailouts

By GERALD LAW
State Representative

Legislation to provide guidelines for state assistance to Michigan communities facing financial emergencies has been introduced in the Michigan House of Representatives.

The bill is designed to allow the state to intervene when serious financial problems arise in communities. Under present law, Michigan can lend cities in distress financial aid, but the state has very little control over how the money is managed and spent.

Not only is this bill designed to assist financially-strapped cities, but it will also protect Michigan's credit ratings and the credit of local communities by allowing the state to require prudent fiscal management.

Under the provisions of the bill, the state treasurer would investigate a local unit of government which is facing default, cannot meet its payrolls or make pension payments or meet other financial responsibilities. The treasurer would consult with local officials and report to the governor.

The report could recommend that a financial management team be selected by the governor to assist the unit.

When the governor receives the team's report, he can determine whether a financial emergency does exist in a given community and direct the Local Financial Emergency Assistance Loan Board to appoint an emergency financial control manager to develop a financial plan with the help of local officials.

This manager would conduct a study of the factors and circumstances that led to the crisis and would make the appropriate recommendations to correct them.

The emergency financial control manager would also for estimating what cash resources are available and to ensure that the local government conducts its business within the limits set by the state.

An important feature of the bill is that local officials are involved with the entire process and have ample opportunities to respond to reports, meet with the governor and even go to court.

This is not a state takeover bill. The assistance and cooperation of local government officials is an essential part of it. They may or may not have been part of the problem, but we definitely want them to be part of the solution.

I am convinced that the economic survival of our communities is vitally necessary to the interests of the people of this state who pay for and rely on government services.

It is up to the legislature to recognize that the health and welfare of our citizens would be jeopardized by government insolvency at any level and to take steps to prevent it.

Stress in children is examined

Amerman Elementary School PTA will sponsor a special program titled, "Children — What Causes Them Stress and What Can We Do About It," at 7:30 p.m. April 26 in the Amerman library.

Program speakers will be Mrs. Virginia Baumgartner, a Northville

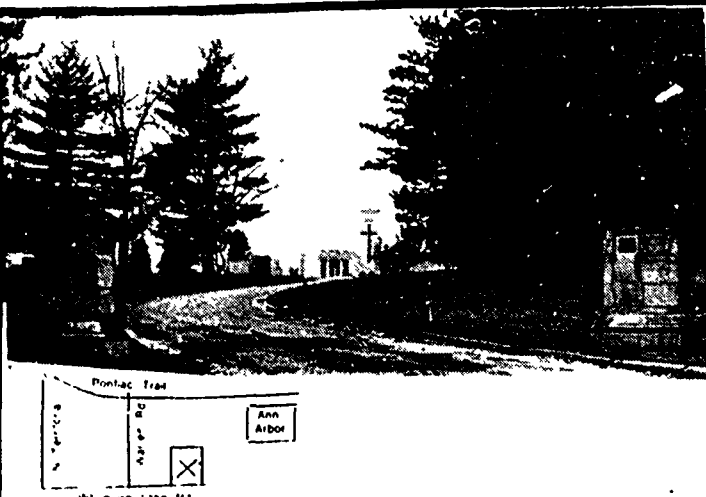

Public Schools social worker, Mrs. Patricia Atkinson, an Amerman teacher, and Matt Rohr, a recent University of Michigan graduate who also headed the Peer Counseling Office in Northville.

The program is open to the public and will be followed by dessert and coffee.

Concern for others

Debbie Anderson, president of the Northville Jaycettes, presents a bag of groceries to Pat Kennedy of the Northville Project Concern, an emergency program established earlier this year by C.A. Smith and others to give aid to area residents in need. The Project Concern Committee is hoping anyone who has food, clothing or other immediate needs will contact it for help. Smith may be called, or Ann Roy. Roy has food which has been donated at Bruce Roy Realty office. The group welcomes donations of food staples and money. Record photo by John Galloway.

Cancer fundraising drive beginning April 23

April is Cancer Control Month, and Northville residents once again will be visiting their neighbors with life-saving information about cancer while asking for contributions to assist in control of the disease.

The American Cancer Society's annual fund-raising and educational drive will be held April 23 through May 2.

Mrs. Charles Kramer and Ms. Jan Paver, community chairpersons for Northville, are spearheading the drive and will coordinate the efforts of 344 volunteers who will visit neighbors with life-saving information about cancer.

The goal in Northville is to raise $4,605. Last year, Northville volunteers raised $3,378.

Each American Cancer Society volunteer will distribute a new leaflet which tells some of the advances in diagnosis and treatment for cancer, while emphasizing the seven warning signals.

Connie Richards, Metro Detroit Residential Crusade chairperson, said the purpose of the Cancer Crusade is two-fold. "Raising money to support our program is important, but so is telling people about prevention and early detection," she said.

Overall in the Detroit Metropolitan Area, 15,000 American Cancer Society (ACS) volunteers hope to raise $475,000 from the door-to-door campaign. These monies, along with dollars raised through the efforts of other Society fund-raising projects, will fund a variety of research projects, provide service to patients and educational programs for schools, businesses and organizations.

American Cancer Society research grants currently in effect in Michigan account for the largest amount of research funding at any one time in the history of the ACS with 23 grants totaling $2.223 million.

For patients and their families, the ACS offers a variety of rehabilitation services, including "I Can Cope," "Adopt-a-Patient," "Focus on Living" and "Reach to Recovery." Educational programs are available at no charge to schools, businesses and organizations.

Our Opinions

There's news at library

Monday's start of patron registration at Northville Public Library appropriately coincided with the beginning of National Library Week. The registration of Northville residents for library cards marks the second phase in the library's move to an automated circulated system.

More importantly, however, it also provides the library the opportunity to update its list of patrons — and hopefully bring new readers through its doors.

While many Northville residents regularly utilize the library and its programs, others perhaps may not be aware of the services offered. Aside from its collections and resource materials, the library offers a host of programs for young and old alike — from preschool story hours to an ongoing paperback book sale.

In addition to the efforts of librarians Anne Mannisto, Melanie

Robinson and several aides, the Friends of Northville Library has served as a supportive arm in offering a variety of programs and services to the community.

In commemoration of National Library Week, Northville Public Library has slated several events, beginning with last night's rare book talk with antiquarian book dealer Ruth Iglehart. Sponsored by the Friends, the discussion preceded today's opening of the Friends Used Book Sale. The sale, held from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. in the meeting room, will continue through tomorrow. National Library Week activities will come to a close Saturday with a puppet show for children.

For those who have not yet taken advantage of the library's wealth of services, now may be the best time to do so. In an age of video mania and $4 movies, sitting quietly in an easy chair with your nose in a book may be a welcome change.

No easy answer at landfill

In the past four months, residents of the western portion of Northville Township as well as many Salem Township residents have been vehement in their objections to any expansion of the Holloway Sand and Gravel Company's landfill operations at Six Mile and Napier roads.

Those residents should be somewhat relieved after the Salem Township Planning Commission responded positively to their concerns by denying Holloway's requests for enlarging the landfill and establishing an asphalt plant. In addition, the commission recommended that the township board also deny sand and gravel mining permits to the company.

It is certainly commendable that the commissioners demonstrated their sensitivity to the feelings of the residents. They should also be lauded for the thoroughness of their reasons for denial.

However, it appears likely that the final decision on the Holloway question will not stop with the planning commission but will ultimately be settled in court.

The Holloway issue was not one that was easy to decide. It was clearly an unwanted issue to Holloway's neighbors because no one really wants a landfill next door, across the street or even in close vicinity of their homes.

However, landfills are a necessary evil because we generate trash in the multi-tons. Until someone comes up with a better idea, since incinerators cannot handle all types of trash, there has to be some place to "dump." Apparently, from state and local governmental reports, Holloway runs a "good" operation, as landfills go.

But Salem Township residents have lived with a landfill for more than 20 years and are tired of it and its accompanying trucks, noise, odors and possible pollution. We are also concerned about possible groundwater contamination and its accompanying health hazards. There are even problems for pilots using the nearby Salem Airport in the gulls that normally congregate at landfills.

We agree with the planners when they state that the expanded landfill would detract from the planned ski slope. Under an earlier agreement with Holloway, the slope now under construction at Six Mile and Napier will become township property when completed sometime in 1987. It appears that Holloway's request to fill land adjacent to it could render the ski slope unattractive and useless for many more years to come.

Despite the reasons presented by the commission, Holloway has some reasons on its side, too. First, there is Holloway's mining permit. Courts historically tend to allow landowners to remove the resources from their property. This mining leaves a hole which very often becomes a landfill as part of the restoration of the land.

Some township officials have indicated that they believe the township cannot prevent a firm or individual from mining the resources on its own property and that court cases in the past have proved this to be true. With this in mind, some municipalities have opted for working out agreements with mining companies that allow municipalities control of the operation as well as remuneration. Salem Township has been one of these municipalities and the coffers of the township are richer for it.

We have wrestled with the question and find it a no-win proposition. The planning commission has reflected the citizens' feelings on this issue and put forth good reasons for denial. Holloway, on the other hand, has equally strong reasons. It wants to mine the land and has a good reputation in the business. The key question may be: are Holloway's requests objectionable? Even Salem planners have split on these questions. Right now, it is an ongoing problem with Department of Natural Resources representatives holding a hearing last night.

There is no easy answer and perhaps a court decision ultimately will be the determining factor.

Off the record

By Michele McElmurry

A history lesson not forgotten

Though I've looked at their faces hundreds of times, I still am driven to tears by the sight of their ravaged bodies, shorn hair and horrified expressions.

They always have appeared ageless; virtually indistinguishable from one another in their striped prison uniforms. The only identifying mark characterizing one from the other is a small six-digit number burned into their arms.

These images have come from behind the barbed wire fences of places such as Auschwitz, Treblinka, Bergen-Belsen, Dachau and other smaller but equally as horrifying death camps.

Most of those photographed in the camps now are gone — gassed to death in "showers," used as human guinea pigs by merciless SS doctors, tortured, starved or simply stripped of all will to live.

Of those who perished in the concentration camps, most were Jews. Singled out by the small Star of David worn on their coats, six million would die before World War II came to a close.

Remarkably, however, there were survivors. Many of those to emerge from the death camps were left alone — having seen their families perish or watched as neighbors and friends were marched off to crematoriums. Others were left homeless — their towns and villages destroyed.

These survivors have spent the last 40 years living with the nightmarish memories of Nazi Germany. While many have kept their dark secrets locked behind closed doors, others have opened their wounds to warn future generations of man's destructive capabilities.

The recent reunion of Holocaust survivors in Washington, D.C., and Saturday's commemoration of the 40th anniversary of the Warsaw Ghetto uprising has brought worldwide attention to what some believe to be humanity's darkest hour.

Of the 15,000 survivors gathered in Washington, many still were looking for long-lost relatives and friends. Some wore T-shirts bearing the names of former villages and family members. Others were just hoping to see a familiar face.

The search for any links to the past is becoming increasingly more difficult for the Holocaust survivors. Most are middle aged — if not older — and many have died since the liberation of the camps.

With fewer and fewer survivors left to tell their horror stories, it is imperative that future generations carry on these legacies. It is essential that we never forget the atrocities of Nazi Germany.

While a reoccurrence of the Holocaust seems unfathomable, history has an uncanny way of repeating itself — particularly when preceding generations have not learned the lessons of the past.

There will come a day when there is no one left to tell us about the horrors of Auschwitz or the struggle to survive in the Warsaw Ghetto.

For the millions who suffered, we must promise — never again.

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

Thank goodness for Vogue magazine.

I generally try to keep it quiet, but the truth is that I'm the unofficial fashion editor for this newspaper. Some of my dearthless fashion prose appeared in the special "Spring Fling" edition which appeared last week. And it wasn't too bad, if I say so myself.

That's where Vogue comes in. Whenever assigned to do a little fashion writing, I head for my wife's collection of Vogue magazines and start reading to put myself in the proper frame of mind to write about "fashion statements" and "bold, new colors."

But that's not why I'm grateful for Vogue. The reason I'm grateful for Vogue is that it has provided me with some useful information.

Specifically, I was reading a story about men, women, muscles and physical fitness when I stumbled across some interesting statistics.

"Look at that," I said to my wife as she came in the door from her daily three-mile run. "It says here that men are naturally stronger than women."

"Right here in this women's magazine," I continued as she strapped the five-pound weights on each ankle, "it says that the average man has 69 pounds of muscle while the average woman only has 45 pounds of muscle."

I was sure she was listening even though she had turned up the volume on her aerobics record while swinging her dainty little barbells back and forth in tempo with the music.

"Yep, it just goes to show that no matter how hard women might try," I continued, "they simply can't keep up with men when it comes to the old strength department."

I was on a roll and both of us knew it. "Yessirree, I think it's terrific that you gals are so interested in physical fitness ... just make sure you never lose sight of the fact that my body is loaded with 69 pounds of muscle while your fragile little body only has 45 pounds."

Finally, she spoke up. "Would you like to try a few minutes of aerobics with me?" she asked. Needless to say, I declined. Gentleman that I am, I didn't want to show her up.

Charter townships more vulnerable to annexations

To the Editor:
Why would Senator Bob Geake introduce a bill to allow a charter township to provide police protection through an intergovernmental contract with other units of local government?

Is this an attempt to provide charter townships with protection from strip annexation?
Strip annexation allows cities to reach out and touch someone by adding small strips of territory in a township to the city. Current law provides no protection for charter townships from strip annexation.

Cities may annex strips of land in a charter township easier than a dog licking his chops after a hardy meal, with about the same effects. You can bet the city of Northville would love to do exactly that, if Northville Township is foolish enough to adopt a charter township form of government.

Actually, general law townships, such as Northville Township, have more protection under state law than the charter townships. If the city wants to annex a portion of the charter township, only two areas vote in the election, the residents of the portion to be annexed and the people of the annexing city. The remainder of the charter township does not vote.

However, in a general law township (such as Northville Township) three separate elections are held:

1. An election is held in the portion of the township to be annexed,
2. Another election is held in the remainder of the township,
3. Another election is held in the city proposing the annexation.

Imagine a scenario where the City of Northville would desire to annex one of our shopping centers or an industrial district. If we remain a general law township, then all three sections are allowed to vote as outlined above.

On the other hand, if we become a charter township, then the city could utilize quickie strip annexation procedures. This includes circulating petitions, securing state approval, holding a speedy election, and, in the blink of a jaundiced eye, the city has added a valuable portion of the township to the city. Of course, this means additional tax revenue for the city, while the township loses tax dollars.

We can only hope township officials have enough wisdom not to be tempted by the tax increases provided by charter township form of government. Remember such a proposal could raise our township millage by five more mills.

Senator Geake's introduction of Senate Bill 36 is an attempt to provide charter townships with a thread of protection. Since Northville Township remains a general law township, is this bill pulling more strings leading to higher millages through the charter township path toward the pay-more syndrome?

It seems to be another admission regarding the weaknesses of charter township government and the state laws regulating such procedures.

Girl scout leaders deserve recognition

To the Editor:

As part of National Volunteer Week, April 22 has been set aside as Girl Scout Leaders Day. On behalf of the volunteer personnel committee of the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council, I would like to thank all of the Girl Scout leaders and all other Girl Scout volunteers for their dedication and service.

Girl Scout volunteers help girls find a new world in Girl Scouting through learning values, leadership skills and giving community service.

At the same time leaders and other volunteers open up a new world for themselves by making new friends, expanding their skills through training and learning the rewards of volunteer service.

Some of the different volunteer positions in Girl Scouting are leaders, co-leaders, troop service directors, board committee members, media representatives, trainers and many others. If you would like to find a new world as a Girl Scout volunteer, call Joyce Smith at 483-2370 for more information.

Sincerely,
Kathie Landrum,
Chairman volunteer
personnel committee,

Drivers should watch for those riding horses

To the Editor:

For more than two years I have been riding my horse in Northville. In this time the people of Northville have been great. They are nice enough to slow down, and move over when greeted by a horse on the road. A big Thank You goes to all of you.

One exception to this happened, when my girl friend's pony was struck in Seven Mile. I hope the lady driving the maroon Cadillac found her car undamaged, since the only thing she was concerned about was her car!

There was no concern for the pony or friend, who was upset and at a loss of what to do. The pony looks as if he will come out of it all right, but my friend will never forget what happened.

Clothing donations sought for ill person

To the Editor:

I have a request to your readers from a young lady who has been very ill and unable to work to appeal on her behalf for size 12 clothes.

Even though it looks like spring will never come, it will, I hope. When you are cleaning out your closets, will you be good enough to put any size 12 clothing aside for this young woman who needs help desperately. I sent her some new underwear, but she does need blouses, slacks, skirts, pajamas and maybe a pretty dress if you have an extra size 12. Many, many thanks again, Shirley Matthews 605 Grace

Governor will donate raise to hunger-related charities

To the Editor:

I am aware of your February editorial on the subject of pay raises for state officials. I would like to share the enclosed release with you.

As I have indicated, I don't think it would be right for me to accept and keep the $8,000 raise recommended for the Governor by the State Officers Compensation Commission.

Kind regards.

Sincerely,
James J. Blanchard
Governor

Release:
Governor James J. Blanchard announced today that he will contribute the $8,000 pay increase he is scheduled to receive next January to hunger-related charities. The increase was awarded by the State Officers Compensation Commission last year before Blanchard took office.

The Governor, members of the Legislature, and Justices of the Supreme Court, were all recommended for pay hikes by the Commission. Those increases, slated to take effect next year, became official last February 1 when the Legislature failed to overrule the Commission decision.

Stated Governor Blanchard, "In view of the sacrifices I have asked the people of Michigan to make, I just wouldn't feel right in accepting the raise."

State presidential primary need questioned

By R. ROBERT GEAKE
State Senator

It's becoming a primary question: Is the Presidential Primary obsolete? Or is it just held too late in Michigan to be of any political significance?

As the 1984 national election draws closer and the state's fiscal crisis gets more attention, people are beginning to ask whether we want to spend the anticipated $5 million that will be needed to hold another Presidential Primary in this state.

In 1980, the primary was held in May and had relatively little impact on the race. It cost about $3.4 million.

Various lawmakers in Lansing are attempting to deal with this situation in their own ways. One recently-introduced bill proposes doing away with the Presidential Primary altogether.

Another moves the date ahead to the first Tuesday in September in the year preceding the election. Still another pushed up to the first Tuesday following the first Monday in September in an attempt to avoid the Labor Day vacation crunch.

Those who want to move the primary ahead contend that by May of the election year, the nominations are virtually sewn up — and that we're spending the money needlessly. They say Michigan's primary would be more interesting and significant some eight months earlier.

That suggestion has its critics among local election officials, however. The counties complain that there's not enough time between the August state primary and a September Presidential Primary to get all the administrative functions completed. The townships, who, along with city clerks, favor abolishing the primary altogether, have said that if it has to be held, it should be between January 1 and March 31 of the election year.

Local officials won one of their legislative battles in 1981 when a law was passed requiring townships, cities and counties be reimbursed from the state's general fund for the costs of operating a Presidential Primary.

Non-partisan ballot law proposed

A former Republican township supervisor has introduced a package of bills in the state house to make elections in the state's 1,200 townships non-partisan. The bills would also streamline the appointment procedure for filling township board vacancies.

State Representative Willis Bullard, who represents the Oakland County portion of the City of Northville, said his experience as a local official prompted him to sponsor the bills because "partisan considerations do not and should not enter into deliberations on local matters."

Issues on the local level simply are not Democratic or Republican," Bullard said, "yet we require our township officials — more than 6,000 of them in the state — to run on a partisan ballot."

"Frankly, I think that discourages many interested and responsible people from running for local office, and because tickets can't be split in a primary, it isn't fair to the person who wants to vote for people from different parties."

The former Highland Township supervisor explained that municipal elections are conducted on a non-partisan basis in all but a few cities of the state.

"In fact, Ann Arbor is the only large city I know that conducts partisan elections. It's written in

Other critics claim that Michigan's "open" primary is all but meaningless because it allows anyone to vote for nominees

Those who want to keep the primary contend it is an important piece of the national political picture, and that Michigan should not be left out of the process. They point out that Michigan, now more than ever, needs to play a vital, visible role in the national scene.

If the issue of eliminating Michigan's Presidential Primary comes before us, the debate is sure to be a lively one. If you have an opinion to share, I'm listening.

the charter, and there may be a handful of others like it," he continued. "Obviously, there's a reason that cities generally conduct non-partisan elections and I am applying the same reasoning to townships by sponsoring these bills."

"I think they will have a major impact when you consider that each township has a minimum of five and a maximum of seven elected officials."

Another bill in the package would permit a township board to appoint a successor within 30 days of the resignation of an official.

"Presently, the board can't appoint a person to fill a position until the person who has resigned has actually left," Bullard said. "Obviously, that bogs down the process. In my own case, I knew in November that I would be leaving my position as supervisor to go to Lansing."

"But the board couldn't appoint anyone to fill my place until I had actually left in January. They had two meetings — one to indicate who they would like to appoint before I left office and a second to make the actual appointment after I left office."

"My legislation would eliminate the need for one of those meetings, and permit the departing official to vote on his or her replacement, which under the present system is not possible."

Stand-As-You-Go Picture Taking

No photographic equipment bag is complete without a rugged and hardworking tripod. This three-legged camera support will pay for itself many times by preventing picture blurring due to camera movement. It will also open numerous picture-taking opportunities to you: Tripods are great when you're working with heavy zoom lenses that change a camera's point of balance.

In portrait photography they allow you to move freely around the room, working with your subject and lighting, while your camera remains in fixed position.

Tripods guarantee sharp pictures when dim light conditions demand long exposures.

You can become part of the picture yourself when tripods are used in combination with self-timed shutters or cable release.

Your tripod should have adjustable legs and be sturdy enough to accommodate heavy equipment.

You'll find the tripod that's just right for you at F-Stop, 43200 Grand River, Novi, 348-9355.

Sports car on fast sales track

By KEVIN WILSON

New car introductions don't attract as much attention as they did when annual model changes meant a crowd on every showroom floor, but there's something akin to that excitement taking place at Chevrolet dealerships this week.

Chevrolet officially introduces the all-new 1984 Corvette in this part of the country Thursday, having debuted the car in California March 24.

Three area Chevy dealers report intense consumer interest and increased floor traffic arising from the introduction of the first total redesign of the flagship sports car since the 1968 model.

Despite sticker prices in the $25-$26,000 range (base of $21,800 plus options), Chevrolet dealers in Novi, Walled Lake and Milford all report orders approaching or exceeding the number of 1984 Corvettes they expect to get. All three are selling the car at manufacturer's suggested retail price — no discounting, no incentive plans.

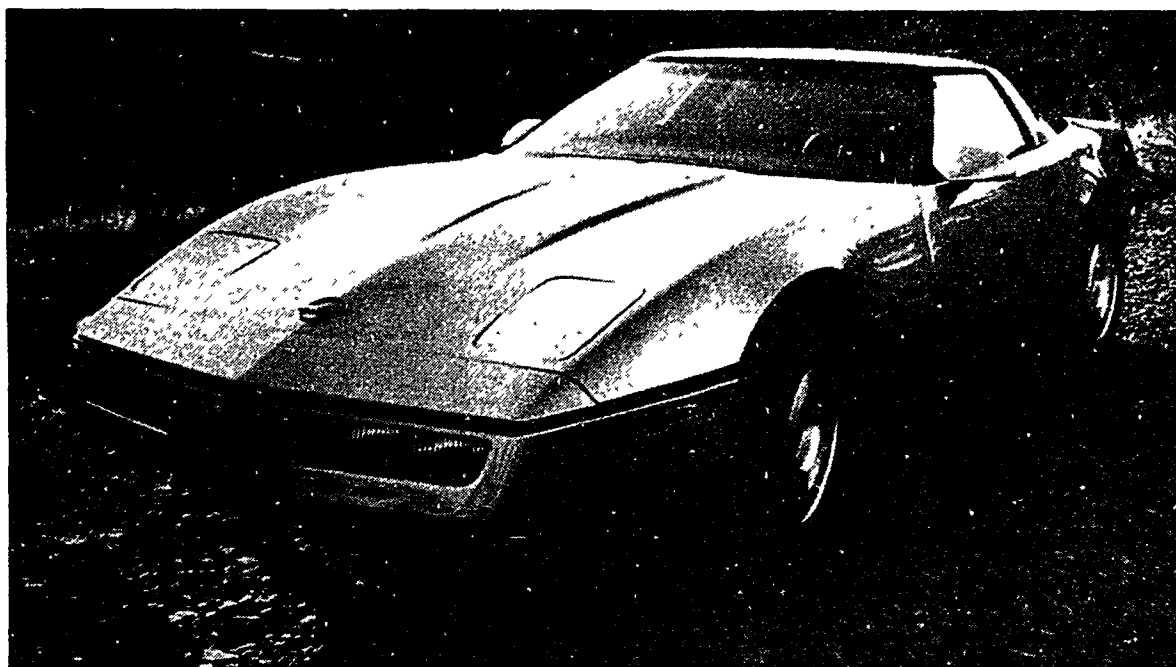

While Chevy made a splash when it announced a base price about $3,000 lower than many analysts had forecast, Marty Feldman of Marty Feldman Chevrolet in Novi said price is not a major factor in selling Corvettes.

"Loaded car to loaded car, they're up about $6,000 over the 1982s," Feldman said, explaining that there was no 1983 model year Corvette.

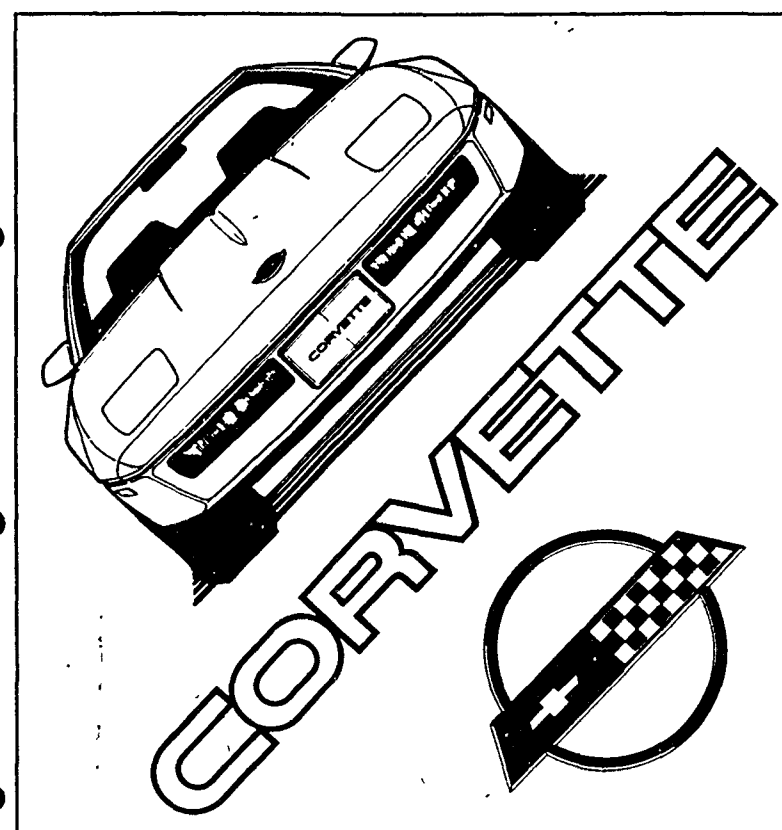

"But selling Corvettes is not a problem, especially this new design," he continued. "We're really talking about the individual who would be interested in a Porsche or Ferrari — a real sports car person. And a Porsche (928), of comparable performance with the 'Vette' goes for more than $40,000 and a Ferrari more than that."

Says Peter Van Camp, of Van Camp Chevrolet in Milford: "It's really an entirely different market — you're getting into the area where prices don't matter as much."

And Dick Morris, whose dealership is in Walled Lake: "You're talking a different breed of cat. We've been talking

GM touts engineering in Corvette redesign

When Chevrolet says the 1984 Corvette is totally redesigned, there's more to it than advertising hype.

General Motors is putting its reputation on the line with the Corvette, calling it a showcase of the best its engineering divisions can do.

From the tires up, the car is brand new, with the only carry-over item being the 205-horsepower, 350-cubic inch fuel-injected V-8 engine and standard four-speed automatic transmission — both introduced in their current form on 1982 models.

About those tires — with the optional wheel and tire package or Z-51 handling package (virtually all Corvettes have one or the other) each tire is unique to its corner of the car. Tire widths front to rear differ (8.5 wide in front, 9.5 inches at the rear).

Designed by Goodyear especially for the Corvette, the tires feature a "unidirectional" tread designed to perform best when the tire is rotating in one direction.

The vented aluminum wheels (also "one-way" designs that pump cooling air onto the brakes) are mounted to a four-wheel independent suspension whose most distinctive feature is a fiberglass composite single leaf spring at front and rear.

Chevrolet first started using these springs — which are lighter and more durable than the common steel coils — on the 1981 Corvette in the rear. Now used in front as well, the springs are cited as one technology pioneered by GM.

The entire suspension package, from forged aluminum linkage to tire treads, is credited with giving Corvette the best objectively-measured roadholding ability of any production car in the world. Skidpad tests show .95 g cornering — just short of enabling the car to go around a bend so fast that the sideways force is greater than the weight of the car itself.

The engine feeds power into either

Corvette entices dealers, too

While car dealers don't have a public image as the most trustworthy of sources about the cars they sell, one has to admit the dealer generally knows something about the product. In the case of the 1984 Corvette, the dealers interviewed for the main article at the top of this page hardly have incentive to tell anything but the truth — they can sell as many of the cars as Chevy sends them this year, so give a listen.

— Marty Feldman, Marty Feldman Chevrolet, Novi: "I've always had Corvettes as my personal cars and I'll tell you this, the new one is a big improvement. I could get in both cars, in the passenger seat, blindfolded, and in a minute I could tell you which is which, there is that much difference."

— Peter Van Camp, Van Camp

Chevrolet, Milford: "I've seen them around and at the (GM) Proving Grounds (in Milford) and I'm impressed. I think it's a definite improvement, there's a little more European flair. I've talked to some of the people who helped engineer it — one of my customers had a large part to play in the engineering — and I'm very impressed with what they've accomplished."

— Dick Morris, Dick Morris Chevrolet, Walled Lake: "I haven't driven a Corvette as a personal car in about 10 years, but with this one, I'm thinking about it. The family and friends are really encouraging me to get one of these."

Twelve Oaks panel names teen members

JAMES YURICK

PAMELA GODWIN

Three local students are among 26 selected to serve on the 1983 Fashion Panel at Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi. Named to Twelve Oaks' 1983 Fashion Panel were Pamela Godwin of Milford, Linda Mace of West Bloomfield and James Yurick of Novi.

Pamela, the daughter of Bob and Ann Godwin of Milford, is a senior at Milford High School.

LINDA MACE

Linda, the daughter of Tony and Brigitte Mace of West Bloomfield, attends Walled Lake Western High School where she is a senior.

James is the son of Emil and Betty Yurick of Novi. He is a 1980 Novi High School graduate.

The 26 members of the Fashion Panel were selected from over 300 applicants between the ages of 16 and 20. An evaluation was made from personal interviews and runway presentations by a panel of fashion and retail experts.

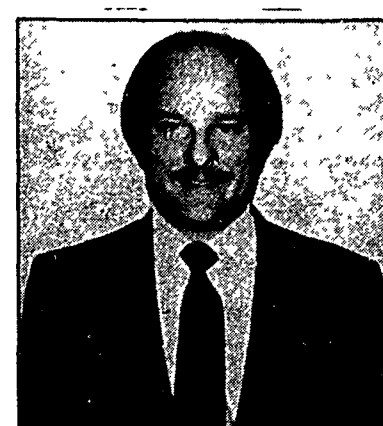

Applicants were judged on gracefulness, projection of personality, enthusiasm, style and self-confidence.

Sheila Armstrong, Twelve Oaks' promotions director, said this group of talented and vivacious young men and women will represent the fashion statements reflective of Twelve Oaks Mall's 160 fine stores and services.

They will serve on the panel until September, attending workshops on poise, polish and grooming, fashion forecasts and career directions in retailing and modeling.

The Fashion Panel will gain valuable experience and exposure in the fashion and retailing industry, Armstrong added. They will have an opportunity to participate in fashions show and in-store seminars as well as restaurant and window modeling.

Cancer Myth

"Bumps and bruises can cause cancer"

Some people believe that if they get a bump or bruise it may lead to cancer. That's a myth. It's not true. Bumps and bruises do not cause cancer. If cancer is discovered after an injury, the cancer symptom probably was there before, but it just was not noticed earlier. Get regular checkups and learn to recognize a change in your body that might be a sign of cancer. Call the Cancer Information Service.

Corvette to compete with Europe's exotics

the four-speed automatic (fourth gear is overdrive) or innovative four-speed manual transmissions. The latter features computer-controlled overdrive operating on the top three gears, but is not yet available on early production runs out of the two-year-old Bowling Green, Kentucky plant. There have been press reports of minor glitches in the system needing resolution.

When the power reaches the wheels, Corvette accelerates to 60 miles per hour in less than 7 seconds and top speeds in the 140 mph range. With the four-wheel disc brakes, the car can push the speedometer from 0 to 100 mph and back to 0 in less than 23 seconds.

These performance figures put Corvette right in the ballpark with the Porsche 928, Ferrari 308 GTB and other exotic sports cars — vehicles GM said it used as "targets" when designing its new "American exotic."

A lot of GM's wind tunnel time has been devoted to this car, and despite retention of several styling themes from the previous model, it has resulted in a modern and efficient appearance. Thanks to extensive use of aluminum, magnesium and fiberglass where steel is the norm, the Corvette has lost 170 pounds over comparable 1982 models.

The new design is 8.8 inches shorter overall on a two inch shorter wheelbase than the earlier model. It is 1.1 inches lower and two inches wider.

The new shape gives increased head room, a minor gain in leg room, a lot more shoulder room and much more storage space than Corvette buyers have come to expect.

Finally, GM is trumpeting an emphasis on quality control and offering a 36-month, 36,000 mile warranty on Corvette. That should close whatever remaining gaps there are between the Corvette and the world-class sports cars it will compete with.

Those are the basics. Then there are the Delco-Bose stereo designed specifically for the 'Vette, the colorful analog instrument displays, the luxurious leather interior fittings, the new fiberglass finishing techniques and more. And this is the first model year.

Burger Chef becomes Hardee's

Last year's merger of Hardee's and Burger Chef has become evident to consumers with conversion of 15 greater Detroit area Burger Chefs to Hardee's recently. Another 48 local Burger Chefs will be converted in May.

The move is the first in the merger of the two restaurant chains following Hardee's purchase of Burger Chef from General Foods Corporation in March, 1982. The 15 units opened last week, after a two-day changeover, are being used to train new employees for the 48 combined-menu restaurants to follow.

Each Hardee's and converted Burger Chef will employ an additional 10 to 15 employees beyond the number working now. Hardee's will continue to offer the full Burger Chef hamburger line and add a line of breakfast biscuits and three specialty sandwiches (roast beef, chicken fillet and hot ham and cheese). Biscuits will be made from scratch in the store.

The merger is the largest in fast-food industry history, resulting in a combined total of over 2,000 outlets in 38 states and nine foreign countries.

Tiffany Art Glass

Renovated business brings new life to centuries-old craft

By MICHELE McELMURRY

The sunshine pouring through the second story window at 121 East Main shimmers against the panes of effervescent yellows, reds and blues — spreading a rainbow of color throughout the room.

The myriad of colored glass hanging in the downtown window is a reflection of its creators, Joe DeLoye and John Zawadski.

Owners of Tiffany Art Glass, DeLoye and Zawadski have spent nearly the past decade recreating the centuries-old artform of stained, leaded and etched glass.

The two artists began their business partnership six years ago after working together on a project. Both had taken classes in art glass design and decided to combine their talents.

The partnership led to more business for the two young artisans and by 1977 they decided to make it a full-time operation by opening their Northville shop.

"It went from being a profitable side line to being a profitable full-time business," DeLoye explained.

Since that time, DeLoye and Zawadski have completed more than 1,500 commissions in everything from stained glass window panes and Tiffany-style lamp shades to 19th century church windows and beveled glass doors.

"Our work is all over," DeLoye explained, "in both the United States and Europe."

DeLoye said that much of their work comes from businesses — particularly restaurants. Among their local commissions is the large stained glass window inside MacKinnon's dining room. The window entailed a month's worth of work for the two artists and contains more than 700 pieces of glass.

Tiffany Art Glass, appropriately named after the American painter and decorator largely credited for making stained glass a fine art form, hardly is noticeable tucked between Holloway's Bakery and Black's Hardware.

However, through the single wood door at the sidewalk entrance is a flight of steep, narrow stairs leading to the airy studio which serves as both workshop and gallery for the two glassmakers.

The studio has undergone some major revisions in the past three years, DeLoye explained, largely due to a 1980 fire which virtually destroyed Tiffany Art Glass.

window design and size specifications.

The client can either give the glassmakers a specific design or just let them create their own.

"We'll start with a rendering of what we're going to make," DeLoye explained. "Then we need a full-size working templet before we can get going."

The working templet usually is a large cardboard outline of the rendering drawn to full-scale.

Once the templet has been made, the design is drawn and placed on a cartoon.

The colored glass is sent out to be fired, DeLoye explained, so the colors do not run.

The pieces are assembled at the shop, and the partners install their own work.

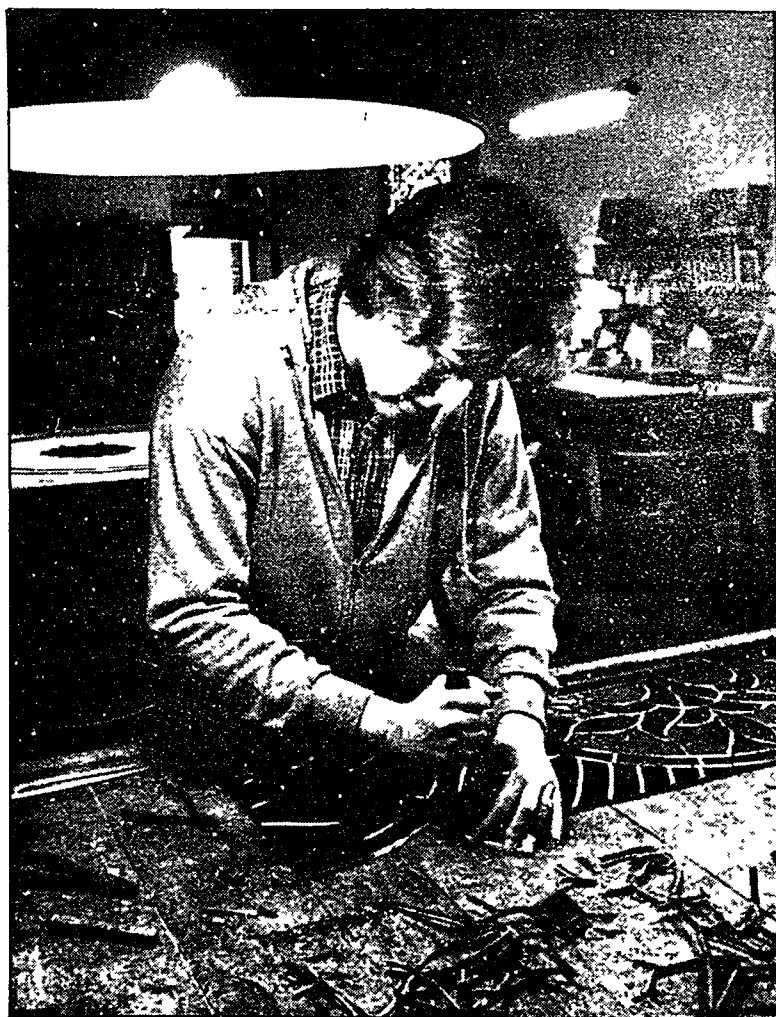

DeLoye explained they primarily use European glass in their work because of its "richer color." He noted that the DeLoye explained that one of the difficulties in restoring glass is matching new colors with the old. Leonard Wade, a Farmington artist who also is part owner of MacKinnon's, does the glass painting for Tiffany Art Glass.

DeLoye and Zawadski currently are working with Wade on a four-series

JOHN ZAWADSKI

Though little burned as a result of the fire at what was then Foltyn's Bakery, smoke and water damage ruined most of workshop area and gallery.

"That almost put us under," DeLoye reflected. "It ruined part of our business."

Unable to re-establish their supply business, DeLoye and Zawadski decided to work almost exclusively on a commission basis.

Opening a temporary shop on Center Street while the Main Street studio was being renovated, the artisans began putting the pieces back together.

Since moving back to their original shop two years ago, DeLoye and Zawadski have established a growing clientele for their business.

The studio now is open for business five days a week and by appointment. The front room gallery, with its display of window panes, beveled glass doors, lamp shades, jewelry boxes and architectural antiques, draws many people into the studio. All items are for sale as well as for display — to give prospective clients a sampling of the glassmakers' work.

In addition to their own work, DeLoye and Zawadski sell handblown glass, such as vases, bowls and paperweights, and carry Blenko glassware.

The back of the studio is the work area for DeLoye and Zawadski. Among the tables, work benches, tools, sanders and racks of sheet glass are drawings and outlines of various projects currently in the works.

Among the pieces which DeLoye and Zawadski currently are working on is an arch-shaped stained glass window for the stairwell of an old home.

Zawadski mentioned that much of their work comes from people restoring old houses — particularly those from the Victorian era. Homeowners interested in preserving the home's authenticity will try to replace windows, doors and other features with reproductions of the originals, he noted.

When working on a commission piece, such as a window, the artisans first meet with the client to discuss the European glass is handblown to attain the sharper color hue, whereas American glass tends to have a more muted color.

The partners basically work with four different types of glass — stained, which is painted lead glass; lead, any type of glass; etched, which is frosted and beveled, which looks mirrored.

Zawadski explained that beveled glass is the most costly of the four types because of the time-consuming grinding process.

Price range for new works in any type of glass can range from $40 to somewhere in the thousands — depending on the magnitude of the project.

In addition, the partners also do repair work, though DeLoye pointed out that "95 percent of our work is new."

However, restoration work has given DeLoye and Zawadski an opportunity to see a variety of different glass designs. Among those has been an 1894 Grosse Ile church with an original Tiffany window.

design of Michigan songbirds.

With the front of their shop being a virtual showplace for their work, DeLoye and Zawadski do not display their work in other galleries. However, they do exhibit at the Ann Arbor Art Fair.

DeLoye said the public's desire for quality craftsmanship has kept Tiffany Art Glass thriving. Though there seems to be a growing number of glassmakers, DeLoye and Zawadski aren't too concerned about the competition.

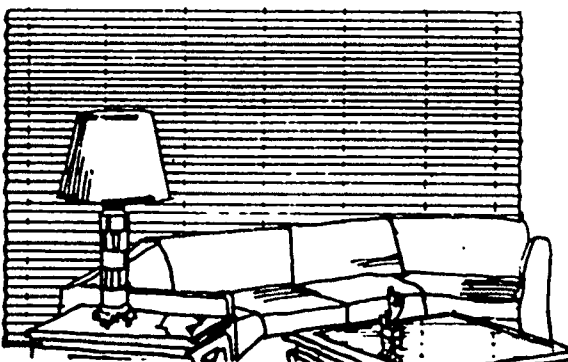

Most of their competitors, DeLoye noted, are "mom and pop businesses."

Two local men will be competing in chili cook-off

By JEAN DAY

Two local residents are among the lucky 80 whose names were drawn from some 190 would-be entrants in the Great Chili Cook-Off held annually as a benefit for the National Kidney Foundation of Michigan. William Besso will be stirring up his own recipe for the second year in the contest. Joining him April 30 at the Farm Council Grounds in Saline will be Tom MacKinnon of MacKinnon's Restaurant on Main Street.

"You really get into chili," remarks Besso, who says he just keeps improving on his recipe, which includes tomato juice among the ingredients. Kidney Foundation sponsors report that the contest draws hundreds of spectators. Would-be contestants vie to compete and willingly pay the $40 entry fee. "The money goes to a real good cause," Besso observes. Winner in the state-wide competition receives air fare for two and the chance to compete in the International Chili Society World Championship Cook-Off in California. The Michigan Foundation this year expanded the number of entrants from 50 to 80 because of the high interest.

This is the first time Tom MacKinnon has competed in the benefit, but local residents already have sampled his chili recipe. It's the recipe used when the restaurant serves chili during the Christmas Walk and City Garage Sale.

There is no doubt about the growing popularity of the dish that originated in Texas. Northville Town Hall ticket holders dug quickly into their purses for pencils last Thursday as Polly Bergen was requested to share her chili recipe — which apparently is well known. The Record, in response to requests, is printing it this week.

the village May 1. Members of the guide group volunteer to serve in the various buildings in the Mill Race Historical Village, located on Griswold off Main by the Ford plant, on Sunday afternoons to describe them for visitors.

Anyone interested in joining the guide group is invited to attend an organizational meeting at 1:30 p.m. April 24 in the New School Church in the village. Helen Single may be contacted for reservations and information at 349-6336. Docent co-presidents are Alice Pooley and Marion Roller.

Phyllis Slattery's presiding at garden meet

The April issue of Michigan Newsletter, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, includes a picture and message from Northville resident Phyllis Slattery, who heads the state division. She will be presiding at the annual meeting and awards luncheon set for May 18 at the Northfield Hilton in Troy.

She also is announcing an exhibit of flower arrangements to be staged in Meadow Brook Hall in Rochester as a benefit for the hall June 9 and 10. Members and guests are invited to attend the show honoring the late Matilda Wilson, a past national president of the WNFGA.

Interurban information's being sought

Any local residents whose picture albums contain snaps of the old interurban railway that ran from Farmington to Northville can make a contribution to historic preservation. Detroit Jack Schramm is in process of researching information for a three-volume history of the interurban and would welcome information and pictures local historians are willing to share.

"It's history that's fast being lost," he observed as he asked to have readers call him at 884-3067, or write him at 19129 Cheshire, Detroit, 48236.

Mill Race to be setting for Newcomer tea

Annual spring membership and "thank you" tea of Northville Newcomers will be held from 1-3 p.m. May 5 in the New School Church in Mill Race Historical Village, President Sharon Valance reports.

Highlight will be the introduction of the new president and Newcomer board for the coming year. All Newcomers and prospective members are invited to attend the tea. Reservations may be made with Debbie Gesdorf, 349-6412. There is no charge. Alice Pooley of the Northville Historical Society Docents group will speak on the history of the village.

Kyle weighed four pounds, 10 ounces and Brian weighed three pounds, eight ounces.

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bosak of Northville. The new twins are their ninth and tenth grandchildren.

Tickets on sale in advance for Plymouth Home Tour

Tickets currently are on sale for the Plymouth Symphony League's Spring Home Tour slated from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. May 19.

A salad luncheon will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth.

Sponsored by the Allegro Group of the Plymouth Symphony League, the tour will feature six homes in the Plymouth area.

Tickets, at $6.50 for the home tour and $3.50 for the luncheon, only are available by advance sale. Tickets may be purchased at Four Seasons in Northville and Me and Mr. Jones in Plymouth. They also are available by mail.

Included in this year's tour will be a 120-year-old landmark home, a country colonial adapted from an Ann Flander's plan, an Asian contemporary home, a three-story traditional style house, a home with an unusual eclectic mix and a 1928 home furnished in the style of that era.

Checks should be made payable to Plymouth Symphony League and a self-addressed stamped business size envelope should be enclosed. Orders should be addressed to: Home Tour Tickets, 12460 Beacon Hill Drive, Plymouth, 48170.

Polly Bergen's chili recipe

"It's a delicious chili recipe," Polly Bergen stated as she shared a favorite with Northville Town Hall ticketholders attending the celebrity luncheon afterward at the Plymouth Hilton Inn last Thursday.

The actress recited her apparently well-known recipe from memory but emphasized it was to serve 20.

"Let's face it," she told the women, "chili takes trouble to make; so you might as well make a batch and freeze it."

Cook pieces of garlic in oil in roaster pan until brown; drop in hamburger ("I use ground round as its leaner") and cook until "gray" in color.

Drain and put aside. Saute onions and peppers ("I don't have to tell you to remove the seeds — you're experienced cooks") chopped medium fine until the pepper is translucent. Drain excess oil and water.

Mix all with Italian tomatoes chopped, tomato paste and can of water ("My mother always rinsed out the can and put the water in"). Salt and pepper to taste. Add two capfuls of the white vinegar, a couple of cloves and bay leaf, chili powder and cayenne pepper.

Then add the cans of kidney beans, either five or six. Stir all.

"You can cook it an hour and serve it, but it's better cooked three to four hours. Then freeze the remainder," concluded Bergen, adding that she serves chili with a tossed salad and garlic bread.

- 6 lbs. ground round
- Pieces of garlic
- 6 medium onions
- 6 peppers
- 2-3 large cans Italian tomatoes
- 1-2 cans tomato paste
- Salt, pepper to taste
- 2 capfuls white vinegar
- Cloves, bay leaf
- Chili powder
- Dash cayenne pepper
- 5-6 medium cans kidney beans

Church plans Northville survey

Pastor Gene E. Jahnke and Good Shepherd Evangelical Lutheran Church in Novi have announced plans to survey more than 5,000 Northville area residents.

The purpose of the survey, according to Jahnke, is to determine what today's men and women believe. A similar poll was conducted in Novi last year.

Kindercare Learning Center observed the "Week of the Child" April 5-9.

Artwork from the Center is on display at Novi Public Library in honor of the week's celebration.

For more information about the Center, call Jill Miller at 348-1589.

Jahnke, who is director of the religious survey, hopes to complete the Money collected was for an Easter project for Our Lady of Providence School for Girls on Beck. Goal was to raise $300.

At the same time members of Holiday Project, a volunteer group that remembers others who also might not have anyone with whom to celebrate at holiday, went to work. Under the direction of Linda Skeeba of Northville, they dyed eggs and made 100 Easter baskets to deliver to Our Lady of Providence the Wednesday before Easter.

At Christmastime, Holiday Project and Northville Charley's employees had paid a first visit to OLP.

At Easter they found the girls delighted with the baskets, but even more so with the return that remembers others

The Northville Record

Mustangs seek to better 1982 season record

Track is back at Northville. Or at least it's on its way.

The Mustang boys squad completed its circuit of early-season tournament action, posting 12 points and pulling off a seventh-place finish in the Lingerman relays at Walled Lake Western high school last Saturday.

Although that finish is something short of glorious, coach Gary Polley, in his first year as head coach of the Mustangs, thinks Northville may have the bodies this year to come up with a strong conference record.

"We've got a good team for the future," Polley said of his underclassmen-heavy squad. "Out of this group there are only 12 kids returning and only six are seniors. We're going to make some mistakes, but we've got better talent than we've had in quite a while."

Also more talent. This March, 43 players signed on for the program, way up from the meager pickings of 26 in 1982.

"The ninth graders give you more things to do," Polley explained this week. "You don't have to run your more experienced people ragged. It'll take time for them to develop; you're going to find some mistakes. But we'll hold our own against some of the Class B schools."

Leading the way for the Mustangs will be the team's top performer, junior hurdle specialist Mark Knoth. Knoth posted a second-place 15.17 time in the 120-yard highs at the Lingerman relays Saturday, and looks to go after the school record this season. Polley will rely on Knoth to pick up winning points in the 330 lows also.

Joining Knoth in the hurdles will be junior Kurt Assenmacher and freshman Tim Millen.

The Mustangs also look to be strong in the shot, where three returning lettermen will muscle in some points. They include Dave Bach, who put a 45'10" toss in 1982, and two vastly improved weight men in Randy Kratt and Dave Raubacher. In the discus will be seniors Mike Beltz, who will also see action in the high jump and pole vault, and Pete Wojcicki. Juniors Tim Jackson and Mike Wissman promise continued shot power in the future.

First year man John Quinn and versatile veteran John LeTarte will also work on the pole vault, and Polley predicts all will be around 9 feet by late in the season.

Consistent sprint talent will be forthcoming from Quinn, Dave Wilson and Dave Bach, who have shown good quickness, but lack varsity-level experience. In the 220, Polley will go with Vogt, Randy Eppers, Quinn and junior Mike Ventura. John Briningstool will join Eppers, Briningstool, LeTarte and Vogt in the 880 relay, while it will be Quinn, Wilson, Beltz and junior Norm Estigly in the 440 relay. At the Lingerman, the 880 foursome posted a fifth-place 1:36.8 with a bad handoff and the 440 quartet placed sixth with a 47.2 clocking, but Polley said they have done better in the past and in practice.

In middle distance it will be sophomore Vogt and LeTarte in the quarter mile. Vogt's 23.3 220 timing and 52.5 440 clock put him in striking distance of school records in those events. Vogt will lead off and LeTarte will anchor the Mustang mile relay team, sandwiching Benningstool and Klokkenka.

Tri-captain Klokkenka will lead half-milers, with Rich Naszracki expected to add points, also. Freshman Michael Oglesby and another first-year man, senior Brett Netke, have also shown promise in the event.

Other middle distance men include Rob Smith, Tom Broderick, Tom Kemp, Dave Balock, B.R. Bohan and Tim Koss.

In distance events, the Mustangs have a solid one-two punch in the mile with Pat Campbell and Chris Jones, each of whom has cracked five minutes. In the two-mile the pair will also see some action, along with junior Jim O'Neil, seniors Jim Willoughsby and Wojcicki and a quartet of freshmen — Matt Winquest, Peter Lehr, Ken Booth and Eric Dove.

In the mile, juniors Chris Jones, Pat Campbell and Jim McNight will compete with up-and-coming sophs Rich Nazzardi and Alan Griffith.

The Mustangs are gearing up for their first dual meet tomorrow, a non-leaguer against South Lyon. Polley expects a victory from the encounter, adding that a loss would likely be considered a problematic setback.

Veteran talent boosts Mustang nine

With 11 returning players on this year's squad, the fortunes of the Northville Mustangs baseball crew may take a turn for the better in 1983. Last year, the squad put plenty of green talent on the field, and coach Fred Holdsworth thinks the extra seasoning may improve the team's record.

To get an idea of the difficulty the Mustangs will have establishing a winning team in the tough Western division of the Western Lakes Athletic Association, featuring 1982 state runner-up Plymouth Canton, one need only compare the team's league and non-league records last season. The Mustangs were 7-6 out of conference and only 1-7 in WLAA play.

"This year, it may even be tougher because we have to play all the teams in the other division, like (Plymouth) Salem and (Livonia) Bentley," Holdsworth said this week. "But this is the best material we've had in a long time. We've got excellent hitting — we scored more than five runs a game last year — and our pitching should be good, but we'll need to work on our defense."

With the inclement weather keeping teams indoors, defense is a part of the Mustang game that may take a while to come around.

Holdsworth is counting on senior Jim Thomson to carry much of the pitching load for the Mustangs. In 1982, Thomson compiled a 2-1 record, but should be Northville's ace this season, with last year's six-game winner John Granginis ineligible due to age restrictions.

Big (6'5") Steve Schrader, fresh from an outstanding basketball season as second-team all-area center, will double at first base when off the mound. The junior has looked sharp in training sessions in his familiar haunts — the gym — this spring.

Other possibilities to complement the pitching staff will be Catholic Central transfer Dan Nielson, who also can don the catcher's gear on occasion. Up from last year's junior varsity are Nielson's junior classmates Doug Doyle, Steve Marrone and Tim Ruffing. All will likely receive tests on the mound this spring.

"If we get four pitchers out of that group we should be fine," Holdsworth observed. "We'll definitely get the hitting."

Carrying much of that hitting weight will be senior Andy Dimitroff, who will do most of the receiving for Northville. Co-captain of this year's squad, Dimitroff smacked the ball at a .362 clip last season, pounding six doubles and a home run, and scoring 15 times.

Also calling the signals will be senior Todd Bartling, who will alternate catching and designated hitter duties with Dimitroff. Last season, Bartling hammered .317 and led the Mustangs in RBIs with 16. Junior varsity regular Tim Ruffing will also don the mask from time to time.

Joining Schrader in the infield will be a host of juniors. At the keystone will be returning second-sacker Mickey Newman, who batted .259 in 1982. Dave Longridge will return with solid defense at shortstop, to be spelled on occasion by a talented up-and-comer from last year's junior varsity, Jeff Metz.

An added plus that may help the Mustangs achieve a winning season is that Longridge and Newman teamed on national champion Mickey Mantle-league team West Seven in the 15-and-16-year-old bracket last summer.

Junior Bob Pegrum will draw the third-base assignment this year after being called up to the varsity at mid-season to handle third-base duties as a sophomore. Senior Mike Kaley also figures to see action at the hot corner.

Patrolling the outfield will be senior Chris Behn, who slugged .283 last year, and junior Steve Frellick. Frellick saw limited action in 1982 because of injury, but hit a nice, round .400 in six games when he returned to the lineup.

Senior Greg Anusbigian and juniors Todd Deal and Jerry Pawlowski, like Nielson a transfer from Catholic Central, are also looking for action in the outfield.

The Mustangs were scheduled to play their first three league games this week, but Holdsworth may be forced to cancel all of them because of field conditions wrought by typically Michiganian April weather. So far, glacial and monsoonish turns have forced rain checks on a non-league contest with South Lyon and a double-header against WLAA rival Livonia Franklin.

Tennis squad nets victory over Ypsilanti in first match

The Mustang tennis squad romped handily over Ypsilanti in the season opener last Friday, dropping only one match and winning all the rest in only two sets each.

Veteran Northville coach Dick Norton was encouraged by the win. "We're going to have a halfway decent season," he predicted. "Farmington Harrison and Plymouth Canton are going to be the teams to beat in our division. But Harrison's graduated its second, third and fourth-seed singles and its top two doubles teams. They always manage to come up with top players, though."

Last season, the Hawks went undefeated in divisional dual-meet play, but with some maturing talent on this year's team, Norton says the Mustangs have a shot at unseating Harrison. Last year, Northville went 5-3 on the division circuit, and although graduation last year took away some of the team's best talent, there are plenty of young players who look to establish a solid program for years to come.

In spite of the strong showing against Ypsilanti, however, Norton will not stand pat with his lineup. "We're going to make some changes," Norton claimed. "I haven't had much of a chance to look over the players with this weather. Undoubtedly we'll be trying some of the younger players. We have a lot of good freshmen and sophomores and we're trying to build a program here."

Against Ypsilanti, Arvind Sreedharan topped Dave Kimball, 6-1, 7-5 in first-seed competition. "Arvind's our mainstay," Norton said of the junior who earned top seed late last year. "He's like a wall out there; he doesn't make many errors. I'm trying to get him to be more aggressive. He needs to be more aggressive and hit the ball harder to be a really good player."

In second seed, Rich Schohl rallied from a 6-1 second match drubbing and a 3-5 third-set disadvantage to pull off a 6-4, 1-6, 7-5 victory over Ypsilanti's Joe Madsen. "He just ended up wanting it more than the other guy," Madsen said after the contest. "He's the opposite style of Arvind, really inconsistent, always going for the game-winners. He needs to work on his consistency and keep the ball in play longer."

Junior Rick Vach disposed of Steve Smith 6-1, 6-3 while third-seed Scott Werdell fell to Sameer Desai 6-7, 1-6 in third seed competition.

In doubles, junior Chris Sixt and senior Omer Anisoglu teamed to top Gary Wobank and Randy Hildbrandt, 6-2, 6-3. "I've been entertaining the idea of splitting them up and playing them in singles," Norton said. "I haven't had much of a chance to size everybody up. What I've got out there now is just kind of a guess-timate."

Senior Dave Jelso and junior Jeff Smith beat Tom Kimball and Peter Gehrin 6-2, 6-3 in second-seed doubles. "That's a new combination," Norton reported. "They played decently. We'll probably play them together more."

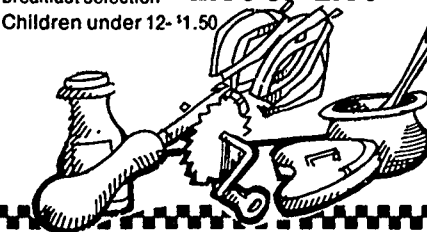

Brant Nicholas, only a sophomore and John Huston, one of a bevy of talented freshmen, combined to beat Mike Manchester and Steve Kasarjian 6-0, 6-1 in third seed.

The Mustangs take on Farmington, "an unknown quantity" according to Norton, in their division opener today at 4 p.m.

Young recruits bolster hopes for improved Mustang runners

Ann Dayton's efforts to recruit plenty of young talent for her varsity track team have borne fruit. The 1983 roster of 33 girls — only three of whom are seniors — is triple the number who donned spikes last season, and the outcome of this year's team will depend much on how the young talent develops.

"I went down to the junior highs to see meets and talk to the girls," Dayton said this week, explaining the bountiful turnout of freshmen and sophomores on this year's team.

She added she is encouraged by the unofficial results of a scrimmage last week against Plymouth Canton when the girls emerged victorious 67-56, setting — unofficially — three school records.

Junior Kelly Wool, coming off a fine season last fall with the Northville cross-country squad, posted a 12:21 two-mile in Thursday's meet, a full seven seconds under the school record she set last year.

Another young standout is sophomore Cindy Tanowicz. "I'd been waiting to get her," Dayton declared. In her first outing of the season, Tanowicz clocked in under the school record in the 110 hurdles — set at 15.7 seconds in 1978 — with a 15.48 timing against Canton. Tanowicz also burned up the track in the newly-added 330 lows, posting a 48.4.

"I'm hoping Cindy will be in form for the state championships in the hurdles," Dayton added.

Junior Becky Baumann has her eyes on a school record, too. Baumann tied coach Dayton's Mustang 220 record with a 27.5 last spring, and when she recovers from a footful of bruised toes, she should be on her way. Baumann will double in the 100 and see relay work also.

Three Mustangs have already topped a respectable 4'6" in the high jump — sophomores Jennifer Trausch and Samantha Barber, and freshman Jill Stiles.

Picking up surprise third places against Canton were Kim Campbell in the shot and, in her first-ever try at the discus, Magie Wojocki. Both are juniors.

Not so surprising was the long jump victory of the talented Tanowicz, who took a first against Canton with a 15'9" leap. Classmate Erin Ryan took a third in the event.

Sophomore Kerry Leneghan has shown promise in the sprints, capturing a third place in the 100 against the Chiefs. Still, she will sit out the 880 relay, which features Baumann, Kim Campbell, Ryan and Tanowicz.

Wool posted a 5:58 win in the mile against Canton, but will likely sit the event out for much of the season to concentrate on the two-mile. Jennifer Zollars will be expected to pick up the slack. Only a freshman, Zollars posted a third-place mile finish against Canton while her classmate Wendy Nuechterlein looked sharp in the two-mile, placing second.

Half milers Kristen Nelson, a senior in her first year of track, and Kim Assenmacher, a senior with cross-country experience, completed times of 2:45 and 2:50, respectively. Assenmacher will also see time in the quarter-mile, having won the 440 last week in 69.7.

"We'll be a lot better toward the end of the season," Dayton reported. "We hope to be able to be in the meet with anybody. It'll take some hard work, though."

The Mustangs will host South Lyon at 4 p.m. tomorrow in a non-conference game.

Kim Assenmacher took top honors in 440 dash

Northville graduate rates high in Spring Arbor track outlook

Hot off capturing second place in its own indoor nine-team invitational tourney March 12, the Spring Arbor College women's track team, with Northville graduate junior Kathy McMillan, has been preparing for its spring invitational coming up Saturday.

McMillan will compete this season in the 1,500 meter run with the squad, filling out a roster that Spring Arbor coach Bob Butler hopes will find its top strength from McMillan's forte — distance. McMillan, according to Butler, is a very strong miller and burned a 1,500 meter time of 5:09 this winter.

"Our distance events are definitely our strongest," the veteran coach declared. "With a strong cross country program in the fall, the women are much more prepared for the spring events."

"We got off to a slow start (in indoor competition last winter) because the women were not really ready at the beginning of the season," said Butler.

"They got more experience and were in better shape by the end of the season."

Butler added that he expects a relatively successful outdoor season as a result of the early training and competition the women received indoors.

Expected to highlight the upcoming Spring Arbor season are individuals Butler hopes to see qualify for the NAIA nationals later this spring. They include a senior from Highland Township, Gretta Schellenberg, a high hope for the 800 meters. Schellenberg broke the Spring Arbor field house record in the 600 meters with a 1:27.2 clocking. She is expected to join McMillan in 1,500 meter competition, also.

Butler expects Spring Arbor's toughest division rivals this season to be Saginaw Valley and Hillsdale, both longtime track and field powerhouses.

Mustang softball coach aims to bust .500 mark

Thwarted by another Michigan false alarm spring arrival, training plans for the Northville softball squad were skewed by typically inclement weather conditions — but for the Mustangs, the prevailing climate may have been a blessing in disguise.

In her second season as head coach of the Mustangs, Mary Minor is in the process of reconstructing her team in the face of meddlesome graduations and mass senior exits during Easter vacation.

Only three of Minor's 14 varsity athletes resisted the temptations of a Florida rendezvous for the daily grind of softball practice in the arctic Michigan climate.

When her vacationing charges returned last week, Minor found herself with just three days to prepare for last week's scheduled season premiere at South Lyon. But the Michigan weather turned ugly again, and the Mustangs got a brief reprieve.

"The vacation period was like a lost week to me," Minor said. "I really expect the first few games to be tough, but after that we should jell together quite well."

Such optimism is not unusual for coaching staffs in early spring, but Minor may have just cause for her outlook.

Reaching her stated goal of a .500 season is obtainable due in part to the talented right arm of senior pitcher Sue Kaiser. A veteran of four seasons at Northville, Kaiser is an established starter with a capable understudy in sophomore Bev Henderson.

Kaiser may have had her finest moment of 1982 when she bested undefeated Kensington Valley Conference champion Milford Lakeland (14-0) during a dramatic 9-7 Mustang victory.

What made that win more impressive was the MHSSA district tournament atmosphere, the dramatic flavor added by the 13-inning showdown, and Northville's modest 7-10 season record.

Flanagan paces OCC wins

Sandra Flanagan of Northville played a key role in leading the Oakland Community College (OCC) softball team to a sweep over Flint Mott Community College in a doubleheader played April 12.

Flanagan, a 1981 Northville High School graduate, went 1-for-3 with an RBI in OCC's 5-2 victory in the opener. But she saved the best for the nightcap, Receiving for Northville's hurlers in 1983 will be junior Denise Liddle, up from the junior varsity a year ago, and senior backup Judy Morgan, who will spend the majority of her afternoons patrolling centerfield for the Mustangs.

Around the infield, Minor has some veteran ballplayers, including junior shortstop Cheryl Berryman. Berryman hit at a respectable .333 clip last season, adding 12 stolen bases and capably handling second-base duties.

Sophomore Jackie Matteucci, sister of talented 1982 Wildcat softballer Jill, who graduated last year, will handle second base duties this season. But much-improved senior Julie Panowicz may work her way into some starting assignments at the keystone.

At first base, senior Trish Settles adds valuable experience as a returning starter, as does third baseman Jan Roberts, a junior.

Minding the open spaces along with centerfielder Morgan will be one of four candidates for the vacant right and left-field slots — Chris Heary, a senior, Pat Wazny, a junior, plus sophomores Lori Housman and Vicki Robins, younger sister of another departed standout last year, Sherri Robins.

Talented in her own right, the younger Robins is one of four exceptionally fleet-footed Mustangs who give Minor a quick softball team.

"We have some speed," Minor noted. "Robins, Settles, Matteucci and Berryman are all fast, so we should do fine on the basepaths, but our real strength will be our defense. We'll be a good defensive ballclub, and I think we have a few good hitters, but it's so hard to tell when you can't get outside to practice. Only time will tell."

"Obviously, it will be more difficult to play in our new league setup," said Minor, whose outfit compiled a 3-5 Western Six record last year.

Northville will open its eight-game home schedule against Brighton this week.

going 3-for-4 with three RBIs in a 7-1 OCC triumph. The three hits included a home run.

For the day, Flanagan collected four hits and four RBIs in eight trips to the plate.

Flanagan is the starting shortstop for the OCC softball squad which now stands at 5-1 on the season.

Mustang anchor

John Quinn carries the baton across the finish line as he anchors the Mustangs' 440-meter relay team in the Langerman Relays. Quinn joined Norm Estigly, Dave Wilson and Mike Beltz in posting a time of 47.2, good for sixth place in the 12-team invitational meet. Overall, Northville had a total of 12 points to claim seventh place. (Record photo by Steve Fecht)
