Layoffs of 28 ISEP instructors imminent

By MICHELE McELMURRY

Seven regular K-12 teachers and 28 Institution Special Education Program staff members will receive pink slips within the next few weeks, following the board of education's approval Monday to lay-off personnel due to the district's declining enrollment.

Acknowledging the approval of layoffs as one of their more difficult responsibilities, board members said they are anticipating some recalls for the K-12 teachers.

However, Personnel Coordinator Debra Wangrud told the board it is doubtful that any of the ISEP staff will be called back.

Staffing projections in the ISEP Program for the 1983-84 school year have been based on an enrollment of 240 students — a decrease of 60 students from the 1982-83 enrollment projection. Wangrud also said the district has been notified that a number of Plymouth Center residents may be in community placement next fall — which could mean an even further enrollment drop.

Other factors leading to staff reductions in the ISEP Program include the board of education's February decision to shut down ISEP's operation at Taft School in Livonia and the graduation of some 40 ISEP students this August.

Those students leaving the program in August will have reached the age of 26, and in accordance with the Michigan Mandatory Special Education Act — Public Act 198 — no longer will be eligible for special education programs and services.

ISEP personnel facing layoffs at the conclusion of this school year include seven classroom teachers, one speech therapist, one physical education teacher, one physical therapist, one psychologist, one sensory motor room teacher (funded under Title I), 12 instructional aides, one COTA, one secretary and two administrators.

Noting the "loss of talent" to the district, School Superintendent George Bell told the board he will be meeting with pink slipped ISEP staff members to help them find job opportunities outside the district.

Three of the seven K-12 teachers facing layoffs in June are at the elementary level, where the largest enrollment decline is anticipated in the coming school year.

The district is anticipating an enrollment decline of some 140 students in next year's K-12 program. The enrollment projection for the 1983-84 school year is 3,247 students in comparison to this year's enrollment of 3,389 students.

At the secondary level, a reduction of 2.4 positions was anticipated as a result of the enrollment drop. However, the resignation of two secondary level personnel and the addition of a full-time equated staff member to provide release time for high school chairpersons reduced the number of layoffs.

Of the four secondary teachers being pink slipped, the administration is anticipating that some may be recalled once the academic schedule of classes at the secondary level has been established.

Bell also noted that enrollment at the secondary level is higher this year than anticipated. If the trend continues next year, staffing cuts in the junior highs and high school may not need to be reduced.

In accordance with past practice, the district proceeds with teacher layoffs at the end of April or at least 60 days before the end of the fiscal school year.

Few changes proposed in city's '83-84 budget

By KEVIN WILSON

Projecting a small decline in property tax revenues, a stable millage rate and full payment of state support that was cut in previous years, city manager Steve Walters presented city council with a "hold the line" budget proposal Monday night.

In the first of three scheduled hear-

Three enter race from Northville

By the 4 p.m. filing deadline Tuesday, three Northville residents were reported to have filed petitions for the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees race.

Myron Kasey of 18246 Jamestown Circle is among the candidates seeking one of three six-year terms on the college board; Jay Christopher Rotta of 1022 Canterbury is vying for the two-year post; and John C. Burkhardt of 19850 Fry filed petitions for both the two year and a six-year term. He stated he will make the decision of which race he will enter by Friday.

Other candidates filing for the six-year terms by deadline were Harry G. Greenleaf of Livonia, currently board chairperson, Harvey A. Fallor of Canton township, Daryl DeLabbio of Garden City, the city's director of administrative services, Mary Breen of Plymouth, Gerald C. Cox of Garden City, Bryan Graham of Livonia and incumbent board treasurer Rosina Raymond of Livonia.

In addition to Rotta and Burkhardt, candidates vying for the two-year post are Sharon Sarris, a Livonian who was appointed to the post in 1982, Wesley L. Berry, Jr. of Livonia and Mark E. Steinhauer of Livonia.

ings on the $2.5 million 1983-84 general fund budget, Walters said the city deficit could grow by the end of the current fiscal year by as much as $17,000 to approach the $500,000 mark.

The budget proposed for next year would eliminate roughly one-half the deficit, with the remainder to be recouped the following year.

Walters emphasized that the projections were predicated on restoration of state shared revenue and parimutuel tax payments to full entitlement levels. Both had been cut severely in both 1980-81 and '82-83.

Full payment is more likely this year because of the 38 percent state income tax increase approved last month, he said.

"There are no new hires indicated in this budget, no wage increases and an assumption there will be no large COLA payments," Walters told council. "This is basically a budget of a holding pattern — basically, you go into it with the idea there is a deficit so there is no money for expansion."

Council members noted that despite a two mill property tax increase last year, and reduced spending in many areas, the deficit is likely to grow this year because of reductions in revenues from the state.

Walters and council member J. Burton DeRusha both pointed to the drastic reductions in parimutuel tax payments as the major problem faced by the city. Had the full formula amount in race track revenues been received, Walters said, the city budget deficit would have been cut to $150,000 by this June and would have been eliminated in the next year.

DeRusha said the tax increase from last year offset cuts in state shared revenue payments, but "could not touch" the more than $300,000 lost from race track funds.

Preparation underway for chamber garage sale

Northville's annual City Garage Sale sponsored by the community chamber of commerce is just 17 days away. The city has given permission to have Main and Center streets blocked off from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, May 14, for the event which has become known as a "giant flea market" for bargain hunters.

It also has become a way to "clean house" for many local residents who take spaces.

Chairman Scott Lapham says 131 spaces have been sold since he began taking reservations two weeks ago. There were 10 spaces available at $15 each yesterday, but workers anticipated they would be sold this week.

Many organizations have reserved space to raise funds for club projects.

Among them is Northville Kiwanis Club which also is seeking donations from residents for the sale. The Kiwanians promise to accept "anything" from the home, basement or garage.

Residents with items to donate may have them picked up or they are invited to drop them off at the Kiwanis booth on the day of the sale. Contributions to Kiwanis are tax deductible.

Frank Skinner, club president, may be called for pick-up at 349-4216. Members John Genitti, 349-0915, and Jack Hoffman, 349-4094, also may be called.

Other local organizations reserving space include Eastern Michigan University Parents' Council, Knights of Columbus, Masonic Temple, Community Education, Lioness Club, Northville Rotary, Northville Pom Pon Squad and the Suburban Chorale.

Most of the space reservations this year were made in person with groups picking their own locations. In previous years, sponsors say, many more were mail-ins.

In addition to household goods, the garage sale in the past has featured fast foods, craft and antique items.

Kay Keegan, executive secretary of the chamber of commerce, reports that the chamber-sponsored summer flea market in the parking lot at Northville Downs will begin on May 14 also. The markets will continue to be held on the second and fourth Saturdays of the month during the season.

The chamber-sponsored flea market at Northville Plaza Mall on Seven Mile now will move outdoors to the mall parking lot and will be held on the first and third Saturdays of the month, Keegan explains. Rentals at the outdoor markets are $5.

Branstner will move to a different pulpit

By JEAN DAY

The Reverend Guenther C. Branstner, who has served as minister of First United Methodist Church longer than any other pastor in its 149-year history, is leaving to become minister of St. Paul's United Methodist Church near Square Lake Road in Bloomfield Hills.

The Reverend Eric Hammar, who has been superintendent of the Saginaw Bay District in the Michigan District of the Methodist Church, will become minister of the Northville church June 18.

Announcement of the change was made Sunday following Reverend Branstner's 10 a.m. sermon by Dr. George Berquist, head of the church pastor-parish committee which is in charge of all paid staff of the church. Branstner, minister of the Northville church for 15 years, will deliver his last sermon as its minister June 12. This is his longest pastorate.

Branstner, who is highly regarded for the quality of his sermons, said he understands he is being tapped for the new post as he is known as a "pulpit man."

His new church, he notes, has a church building constructed in the mid-1960s. It is without a mortgage and the congregation recently purchased a $50,000 organ for it.

"I understand the bishop (Bishop Edsel Ammons) feels they need a bigger challenge," Reverend Branstner explained Monday.

He called the move "an interesting opportunity" for himself and said he had accepted this post rather than an out-state one as his wife Ginny will be

MILL RACE Historical Village will be open to visitors for the first time this season from 1-4 p.m. this Sunday. Volunteer docents will be on duty in the buildings to supply information about the village and its history.

APPLICATIONS for summer drivers' education will be available Monday in the Northville High School office. The deadline for returning applications is May 9.

SEVENTH GRADE Orientation will be held at 7 p.m. next Tuesday, May 3, at Meads Mill Junior High for all students who will be seventh graders at Meads Mill next fall. The meeting will be held in the Meads Mill Media Center and all parents and students are welcome to attend. For more information, call 348-2620.

TOP RATING was achieved by Northville Jazz I Ensemble under director Michael Rumbeil at the state MSBOA jazz festival last Saturday at Eisenhower-Utica High School. The First Division rating, highest possible, places the jazz band among the best in the state.

PROCLAMATIONS marking today as Professional Secretaries Day and this week, April 24-30, as Secretaries Week in Northville have been issued by Mayor Paul Vernon. He also took official note of Girl Scout leaders, proclaiming April 22 a day in their honor, at last week's council session.

able to commute to continue teaching in Plymouth.

The minister, who is 59, came to Northville from an east side Detroit church. Previously, he had been a pastor in Gaylord.

Under his direction the Northville church has expanded, moving from the old church building (now the Open Door Church) at Center and Dunlap to the present one at Eight Mile and Taft in 1970. Initially, services were held in the Christian education building. The sanctuary was built in 1977. The church now has a congregation of more than 700 members.

When he first was in the Methodist ministry, Branstner recalled, a three-year move was mandatory, but working wives were cited as having done a great deal to decrease this mobility.

The ministry was not Branstner's initial career choice. He was headed toward an engineering career as he was graduated from Flint Central High School in 1941. But, he has explained, a "bum eye" rejected him from an AC Spark Plug Division program. After working for his father, a mason contractor, he enrolled in a Christian college in Asbury, Kentucky.

In 1980 Branstner was selected by Northville Masonic Commandery No. 39 to take a tour of the Holy Land with other ministers.

As he began his second decade with the church in 1979, he looked at what could be ahead in religion in an interview.

"It may be necessary for people's lives to be simplified and to take on new priorities," he observed. He expressed concerns about the place of the church in young people's lives but felt confident as well as concerned about the future of the church.

The Branstners have four children, two still are living at home. Bruce, 29, is in the Army reserves with the Rangers and plans to return to duty in the fall, either with the Rangers or in Officer Training. Todd, 20, has been attending Schoolcraft College but may return to Michigan Technological Institute in the Upper Peninsula this fall.

Son Mark, 31, is living in Detroit and working on a doctorate in anthropology at Wayne State University. Daughter Holly, 25, is finishing her master's degree work at Wayne.

Official announcement of the ministerial changes will be made at the Methodist Conference in Adrian the second week in June. Branstner said.

The Reverend Hammar is completing his six-year term as Saginaw District Superintendent. It is not renewable. He previously had been minister of the Orchard Hills Methodist Church in Farmington Hills.

"What they don't realize in Lansing is that those cuts hurt us a lot more than the other race track cities (Livonia and Hazel Park)," DeRusha said.

The revenues from the track taxes makes up 12-to-15 percent of the city's income, Walters said, while in Livonia and Hazel Park there is less dependence on the payments. Walters said Northville maintains a full-time police force as large, or larger, than Plymouth's. Plymouth serves a population and area seven to ten times as large as does the Northville department.

"Yet we have to maintain that size department year-round to handle the needs at the track for six months," Walters said. "You just can't hire and equip full-time, trained police officers for six months at a time."

There is a loss from year-ago levels projected in property tax revenues, which Walters said was due to two factors — reduction State Equalized Valuations in Wayne and Oakland Counties and a large reduction in tax payments from Ford Motor Company.

Removal of expensive equipment (taxed as personal property in previous years) from the Ford property and an appeal launched by the company accounts for a large part of the $1.9 million SEV decline, Walters said. Residential property valuation reductions of five percent in Oakland County and one percent in Wayne also erode the tax base, he added.

Each mill of property tax this year will yield $79,400 for the city (based on $7.5 percent collection) compared to $81,200 last year, the budget projection shows. Full collection would yield more than $81,400 per mill. General fund property taxes remain at roughly 15.7 mills.

Council also heard a budget request for $6,850 (included in Walters' projections) from the Northville Arts Commission. The commission received $1,500 from the city last year, and presented its argument that activity was hampered by insufficient financing.

Representatives outlined an ambitious program of publicity and programming for the next fiscal year to back up its request for a quadrupling of city support.

Council members suggested an approach to Northville Township for possible funding (the township does not now contribute to finances of the operation).

Plans to operate an arts commission phone line and office brought a council recommendation that the Chamber of Commerce be approached about sharing space in its South Main building and alternating staff hours to answer phones and greet visitors through the business day.

Battle continues against landfill

There has been no joy in Salem Township for the past five months as area residents continue to battle their "Golaith," an expansion of the Holloway Sand and Gravel landfill/ski slope operation at Six Mile and Napier.

The latest battleground was a public hearing April 19 at the township hall. The hearing was slated by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) in response to Holloway's application for a construction permit under Michigan Public Act 641, which governs landfills.

Twenty of the more than 150 persons present at the two-hour hearing took advantage of the opportunity to speak against the Holloway proposal. Holloway engineer Jim Everett outlined Holloway's plans and one resident spoke in favor of the expansion, citing Holloway's contribution to the tax base of the township and Holloway's right to use his property in accordance with the zoning.

John MacDonald, supervisor of Northville Township, presented a resolution from his board opposing the granting of a permit to expand the landfill. Several residents of the Northville Township side of Napier, which borders the landfill on the east, also spoke against any expansion.

Holloway applied to the township last fall for conditional use permits to mine sand and gravel from a 168-acre parcel lying west of the current landfill and to eventually fill the property with solid waste. In addition, a permit to install an asphalt plant on the southern portion of the Holloway property was sought.

After holding a public hearing and having a number of meetings, the Salem Township Planning Commission voted in March to deny the landfill and asphalt plant permits and to recommend to the township board that it deny the sand and gravel mining permit. The township board in turn supported the commission's actions at its April 5 regular meeting.

Prior to that meeting, the DNR hearing of April 19 had been advertised in area newspapers by the Washtenaw County Health Department, the agency certified to handle the landfill permits if DNR approval is obtained.

Ervin J. Parker, district business executive, who served as hearing officer, declined to say whether the DNR has the power to override the township's prior action and allow the landfill. He did say, however, that "the DNR does not hold hearings for no reason."

The hearing officer explained that the three-man DNR hearing group was there merely as an impartial team to take testimony and determine if there are any legal problems involved. He said the public has until April 29 to submit comments or questions by mail to: Michigan Department of Natural Resources, Ground Water Quality Division, P.O. Box 30028, Lansing, Michigan 48909.

After that date, Parker said all findings and recommendations would be turned over to the DNR director. The public hearing was taped by the DNR and a transcript will be made of the proceedings, he added. No questions were answered by the DNR team during the hearing other than to explain that the director will make the final decision and that that would not be done at a public meeting.

Elmore Elitzroth, a geologist with the DNR groundwater division, said that if the DNR director takes no action on the application by June 18, the permit would be automatically issued.

The Washtenaw County Health Department is certified to handle all permits and to make tests of the landfill operation, Parker noted. He added that these tests are ongoing in every landfill site in Michigan.

Two attorneys for concerned citizen groups listed a number of reasons in opposition to the proposed expansion. Among these was a question on the accuracy of the Holloway application since the ingress and egress of the proposed expansion will be over property already decided to be township property under previous landfill agreements. The township is not a co-applicant in the proceedings as was pointed out by one attorney.

Grade heights for the landfill were also questioned as was the possibility that township wetlands were being violated.

Concerns about the proximity of the Salem Airport in connection with the ultimate height of the landfill as well as the landfill's attraction for seagulls were also aired.

Holloway's engineer in his presentation said that the maximum height of the proposed west landfill expansion is approximately 150 feet above the existing ground which would be 40 feet lower than the height already set for the existing landfill/ski slope. The proposed top of the existing landfill allows for a clearance of 20 feet according to the standards of the Michigan Aeronautics Commission, Everett added.

Everett stated, "The north slope will be a relatively gentle slope of seven horizontal to one vertical. The west and south slopes will be 2.5 horizontal to one vertical. The bottom of the proposed slope will start at approximately 700 feet south of the center line of Six Mile."

Everett also reported that Holloway has tried several deterrents to keep the birds from circling. These include experiments with a "number of scare tactics."

"We installed a seagull bannering wire system which helps somewhat but was not a total solution," Everett reported. He added that a portable tape player and speakers, transmitting a seagull distress call, emulating sounds of a dying gull, was set up in September 1982. He said this is turned on when birds are seen and that it has been quite effective in causing gulls to leave the vicinity.

Shooting 12-gauge crackershells at the gulls has also helped with the problem, Everett explained, as has the installation of an electronic noise maker which emits a series of high and low sound patterns.

Everett's report stated that State of Michigan Act 641 requires three feet of compacted clay for artificially lined sites. "However," Everett said, "in Holloway's design there is the required three feet plus an additional nine feet of natural dense clay."

"All clay used in lining the site will be highly impermeable. Another safety feature designed into the landfill is a clay wall around the outside of the landfill built from the bottom of the fill to the existing ground. This wall will be more than 10 feet thick and is built of the same highly impermeable clay. This prevents water or methane gas from entering or exiting the fill."

In response to this, an area resident pointed out that a governmental study recently stated that all landfill liners will leak eventually.

A leachate collection system which will allow the leachate to be pumped back to the top of the landfill for reintroduction there is also planned, according to the engineer.

The possibility of fungus disease coming from the birds as well as danger to aircraft was brought up by Charlie Muntin, who lives within 300 feet of the proposed expansion.

Among other concerns voiced by area residents were the effect on the clay lining of reverberations from freight trains on the tracks south of the landfill, water quality in the area, effects of the expansion on the Johnson drain, a study of the well depths and soil types in the area, problems with trash truck traffic and a requested analysis of leachate ponds.

The citizens group also presented a mock-up of the present landfill as well as the proposed expansion.

Northville High School seniors Marianne Rothermel, (from left), Roy Kiplinger and Tina Stoecklin were among the 5,300 finalists chosen in the 1983 National Merit Scholarship Competition. The three NHS finalists competed against some 15,000 semifinalists in the United States. They will be eligible for one of the 1,800 scholarships to be awarded to finalists this year. All three students in the Class of '83 have distinguished themselves at Northville High School. Holloway files suit against Salem action

Holloway Sand and Gravel filed suit Friday in Washtenaw County Circuit Court against the Salem Township board and the township's planning commission seeking relief from recent actions of the two bodies.

The suit arose after township officers denied Holloway conditional use permits for sand and gravel mining, a landfill expansion and an asphalt plant.

All three operations were requested for a 168-acre parcel located just west of the company's current landfill/ski slope operation at Six Mile and Napier.

Due to the arrival of the asphalt season, the company asked that the court issue a temporary order allowing Holloway to operate the asphalt plant and to mine sand and gravel until the issues of the case are decided. A judgment declaring the Salem Township Zoning Ordinance void is also sought.

In addition, Holloway is seeking to reverse two agreements with the township which convey title to the township of a total of 165 acres of land where the ski slope is being constructed of trash and earth.

The original 77 acres of this property has already been signed over to the township and is leased back to Holloway. Title to the remaining 87 acres is currently in escrow and, according to the agreement, that land is to become township property when the ski slope is completed.

In the extensive suit filed Friday by Holloway's attorney, John Brennan, the company also seeks "an order requiring Salem to pay to Holloway any monies that Holloway has previously paid for 'rent' and 'inspection fees,' plus interest."

The suit estimates the "rent" paid as $150,000 and "inspection fees" as $100,000 since 1971.

An order requiring Salem to reimburse Holloway for the "reasonable value" of free dumping privileges granted to Salem Township residents is also sought.

Brennan charged in the suit that the rent, inspection fees and free use of the landfill constitute an illegal tax.

Co-defendants in the suit, in addition to the township board and planning commission, are Frederick C. Verran, zoning inspector for the township, and Norma Schmehan, secretary of the commission. Charges against the two stem from the refusal of Schmehan to attach a certificate of approval to the asphalt site plan and the refusal of Verran to issue a certificate of zoning compliance, a certificate of occupancy and a building permit for the asphalt plant.

According to Brennan's brief, although the planning commission did advise Holloway that its application for a conditional use permit to operate an asphalt plant operation was denied, the commission did not advise the company in writing of any rejection of its site plan.

The suit contends that the asphalt plant does not require a conditional use permit since it is planned for an area already zoned general industrial by the township. Brennan states that the purpose of such zoning is to "provide for all manner of industrial uses" and that the asphalt plant is thus an accepted use requiring only site plan approval.

In addition, Holloway's suit charges that electronic tape recordings of open meetings of the planning commission held on February 21 and March 28 are being illegally withheld from Holloway representatives by the planning commission's secretary.

The suit also asks that all "rent" and "inspection fees" paid to Salem during the term of the litigation should be paid into a specially designated escrow account pending the outcome of the litigation. The brief explains that the company "is apprehensive" that it might not be able to recover the fees if the suit terminates in Holloway's favor.

An order awarding Holloway costs, attorneys' fees and disbursements, "including compensatory damages in the amount of $500," is also sought in the briefs filed by Brennan.

Bloodmobiles in Northville twice during month of May

A community blood drive coordinated by Northville Jaycettes with the American Red Cross will be held here Thursday, May 5.

A Red Cross bloodmobile will operate at First Presbyterian Church of Northville from 2 to 8 p.m.

Another bloodmobile will be at Northville High School, Wednesday, May 18, from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Southeastern Michigan Region blood services supplies nearly 1,000 pints of blood per day to hospitals in Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Washtenaw and St. Clair counties.

Parson to Person...

Dr. James Luther

Sometimes scientific expeditions will board a ship to gather specimens of unusual marine life. Nets are let down thousands of feet, and when pulled up they contain strange creatures, awful looking denizens of the deep.

A good way to understand yourself is to look deep into your soul. When the spirit of God turns the light of His Word on the human heart, we find it full of ugliness: "The heart is deceitful above all things and desperately wicked" (Jer. 17:9). How can we be proud, knowing that in our flesh dwelleth no good thing? (Read Romans 7:15-24).

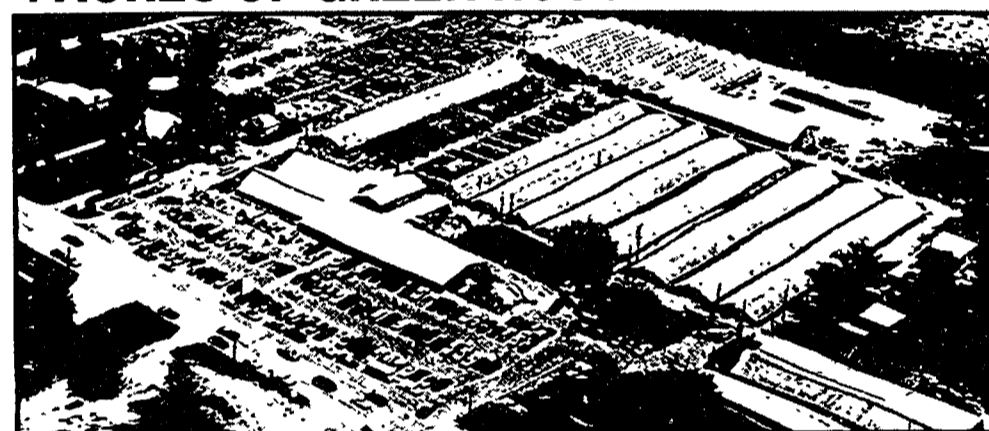

Having looked at yourself and discovered your need, now look at the purity of Christ. He "who knew no sin" was made sin for us, "that we might be made the righteousness of God in him" (II Cor. 5:21).

Have you been changed into the righteousness of God; or are you walking through life with a lovely cover over a desperate heart?

Join us next Sunday as we continue our studies from Jonah with the sermon: "A Prayer from the Depths."

SCOLIOSIS

Why does it cripple young girls?

Scoliosis (curvature of the spine) is a crippler of the young, striking the 10-19 age group. We don't know why, but girls in this age group are eight times more likely than boys to contract this disease.

Local school systems are offering preliminary scoliosis screening and recommending a follow up exam to those students with suspicious findings.

Our clinic is equipped to totally evaluate and treat scoliosis.

The exam will take less than 30 minutes. To set up an appointment call us today.

Sewer issues reviewed by township trustees

Huron Valley Wastewater Control System is on the agenda of a special meeting of the township board of trustees set for 7:30 p.m. today. Discussion of plans for a fire station in the western section of the township also is to be discussed.

At the April 14 meeting of the township board Fire Chief Robert Toms had indicated he had been exploring sites and designs for a station in the western part of the township and wished to share his findings with the board.

The meeting to consider a resolution and draft of contract to meet bonding requirements for wastewater control was called after the township held a public hearing on the Haggerty Road Multi-Municipal Service Area Facility Plan April 18 at the township hall on Six Mile.

At the hearing Ken Bonin, engineer of wastewater systems for the Wayne County Board of Public Works, introduced Zid Vitins, project manager, of Orchard, Papke, Hiltz and McClimente, Incorporated, who displayed alternate plans for the sewer to service a corridor along Haggerty.

Recommended plan for the interceptor utilized 12, 15 and 18 inch sanitary sewers. Sub-total interceptor costs were listed as $2,619,900.

Total estimated project capital costs for the lateral six and eight-inch sewers was shown as $11,254,274.

Vitins, displaying various alternate systems that had been studied, said response had been highest for a "no action" approach but stated that loss of land value due to lack of on-site treatment systems made this unacceptable.

CBD on South Center set for public hearing

Extension of central business district (CBD) zoning along the west side of South Center between Seven Mile and Fairbrook will be considered in public hearing May 17, city planners decided last week.

Acting on a petition to rezone three lots from R-2 to CBD, the commission instead elected to include in the public hearing all nine parcels — covering the entire block opposite the Northville Downs.

Consultant Ronald Nino told the commission there "is justification for another public hearing" because conditions have changed substantially since one year ago when a similar petition was rejected. Nino previously recommended against business zoning in the area.

The action came after the commission's rezoning committee recommended the three-lot petition would be better accepted if it were for a transitional PBO (professional business office) zoning rather than CBD. But petitioner Ruth Cole objected, saying, "We're not interested in offices — at all. We can make more money putting a small business there than we can renting those houses as offices."

Cole said the property, surrounded by parking areas, is unsuited for residen-

Better Living group goes to Grayling summer camp

Those who are depressed, haven't felt well in a long time or feel a need to change their lifestyles are the people for whom Better Living Seminars designed a summer health camp.

Dr. Arthur Weaver of Northville, associate professor of surgery at Wayne State University, and his associate, health specialist John Swanson, are planning a health camp at Camp Au Sable in Grayling May 22-29.

They advise that health problems build up over a long period of time and that it takes both time and effort to change how one feels.

The health camp program considers many aspects of one's life, and offers professional staff to teach a better understanding of lifestyle and health needs.

The top-ranked cost-effective plan, he outlined, continues from Eight and a half mile on Haggerty to Schoolcraft and the Middle Rouge interceptor along the easterly limits of the areas served. It is a gravity system with no pumping stations.

Vitins said the final report on the sewer project should be sent to the Department of Natural Resources by May 3. It should be certified and sent to the USDA by June, he added.

The timetable for construction was given as June, 1985, when Wayne County sells bonds to begin work which will be completed by 1987.

Federal funds for the sewer project amount to 80 percent of the cost, but this percentage will drop to 55 if action is delayed until next year, the township was warned.

Township treasurer Richard Henningsen noted that the plan "will certainly take care of that side (east) of the township."

Township water and sewer superintendent Walter Holinoty said he is "thoroughly satisfied" and wants to see the project "fly."

The hearing was held following several presentations to the board and was to comply with federal requirements. Only two residents attended, Margaret Tegge and Frances Matison.

It was stipulated that the public record of the hearing will be kept open until April 29 with written comments to be submitted to Orchard, Papke, Hiltz and McClimente, public participation coordinator, 34935 Schoolcraft, Livonia, 48150.

tial use and that PBO would not restore the lost value because "there's office space all over Northville to rent — I don't think the city needs any more offices."

Cole said she is not interested in making a parking lot of the three parcels, but is not yet certain what kind of business might be located there if the rezoning is granted.

Commissioner Jerome Mittman, speaking for the zoning committee, said the major concern of its members in recommending PBO was that the corner is "an entrance to the city" and should retain a residential appearance.

Commission chairperson Lesa Buckland said that if the hearing were called for consideration of nine lots of CBD, the commission could recommend any lesser zoning (such as PBO or residential) or fewer number of lots. If the hearing were called for a PBO consideration, however, CBD could not be granted, she said.

In any case, the May 17 hearing would be for planning commission consideration of public input on the proposal. The commission's eventual decision would be in the form of a recommendation to city council, which would make the final determination in the matter.

Those attending will consider how to stop smoking, what to eat, what kind of exercise is safe, how to deal with stress and how to regain maximum health.

The camp is a health improvement program and educational program. Those attending learn to improve diet, prepare tasty, satisfying low-fat meals that are nutritious. Help is offered in weight management, smoking cessation and stress control.

Interspersed are recreational activities like canoeing, horseback riding, ceramics, nature walks and relaxation.

Further information and registration is available by requesting the health camp brochure from Better Living Seminars, P.O. Box 574, Plymouth, MI 48170 or calling 459-0894.

JAN STEVENSON

New director seeks members for band

Jan Stevenson, new director of the Northville Community Band, is looking for residents who haven't touched a horn in years as well as student band members and other active musicians to participate in the reorganized band.

The band now meets from 7:30-9:30 p.m. Tuesdays at Cooke Junior High.

As she seeks new players, Stevenson stresses that membership in the community band is open to all musicians interested in playing music in an ensemble, in improving musicianship together and in performing in concerts.

She emphasizes that no tryouts are required.

The new director has her degree in instrumental music education from the University of Miami, Florida. She has played the flute in various groups, including the Florida West Coast Symphony and the Augusta Civic Symphony. She presently is music director at the Church of the Holy Cross in Novi.

She picked up the baton of the community band when the previous director Bob Williams resigned due to ear problems.

Anyone wishing more information about the band may call membership chairpersons Steve Munsell, 420-2663, or Francine Holinoty, 348-0398.

Flames spread from parked car in drive to garage, bringing roof down on second automobile

Fire starts in auto, spreads into house

A fire which swept through the east side of a Ravina residence in Northville Township April 13 is believed to have started in the engine compartment of a car parked along side the garage, according to township police and fire officials.

Police reports state that no one was injured in the 2 a.m. blaze. Damage to the home is estimated at $100,000.

According to the police report, officials believe the fire started in a 1981 Ford Escort parked approximately three to four feet away from the garage of the Alan Haxton residence on Ravina.

It is believed the heat of the fire activated the automatic garage door opener and raised the garage door — allowing the fire to spread to the interior of the residence.

According to the report, the owner of the house told police he was awakened by his wife who said she smelled smoke.

Patricia Haxton said she woke up upon hearing "popping sounds" and saw an orange glow. She then got everyone out of the house through the front door before the fire started to spread.

Alan Haxton told police he had not been working in the garage the evening of the fire and that the garage door was closed.

Police arriving at the scene found the garage door open and the house filled with smoke.

A neighbor on Bradner Road told police he got up to shut off his television when he heard a crackling sound outside. He stated he opened his front door and saw the Ravina residence on fire. After calling police, he ran to the burning house to see if everyone was out of the building.

The garage and kitchen areas of the home were destroyed by the blaze and smoke damage was reported throughout the home. The 1981 Ford Escort was burned as well as a 1978 Ford Thunderbird parked inside the garage.

Car fire leapt from drive, to garage and into house before it was brought under control

In an effort to raise $800 for the Northville Fire Department a personal-sized alarm selling for $12, marketed by Prestige House on Main Street, will be sold in town. Alarms, powered by a replaceable cartridge ($2) and containing a flashlight, will be sold at the garage sale May 14 and in local stores. The fire department is to receive $1.50 from each sale. Contempt charge leads to arrest in park

In the Township...

A Silver Springs Drive resident reported 14 letters stolen from the top of the mailbox inside his apartment building April 22, according to township police.

The complainant told police that the majority of the letters were Easter cards but that three checks, mailed as bills, also were taken.

He said none of his relatives had received the cards when he reported them stolen.

According to the police report, two of the three checks were cashed at a local bank. The other check has not yet been located.

The incident still is under investigation.

A 28-year-old male wanted on contempt of court charges by the Alpena County Sheriff's Department was picked-up by township police April 24 on Hines Parkway.

According to the police report, a township officer on routine patrol observed the suspect in a small gray Fiat parked along the shoulder of Circle Drive at approximately 3 a.m. Sunday.

The suspect, Stanley R. Szuber of Dearborn Heights, could not produce valid identification when questioned by the patrol officer as to what he and his companion were doing in the park after hours.

The officer then ran a LEIN (Law Enforcement Information Network) check which showed a misdemeanor warrant had been issued on the suspect by the Alpena County Sheriff for contempt of court. The LEIN report was confirmed by Alpena sheriff's officials who stated they would take $300 bond or would pick-up the suspect.

According to the report, the Alpena deputy stated the original charge against the suspect was for indecent exposure.

The suspect was advised of the warrant and placed under arrest. His car was turned over to his companion, a 17-year-old Canton female. The suspect was issued a violation for occupying the park after posted closing hours.

The suspect posted bond at 7 a.m. April 24 and was released. He is to appear in 88th District Court May 2.

witnesses at the time of the incident.

...In the City

For the second time in two weeks, McDonald's Ford auto dealership, 550 West Seven Mile, was victimized by the theft of car wheels and tires. City police, when patrolling the grounds at 8:51 a.m. Saturday morning, discovered that all four tires and wheels were missing from a Ford Mustang GL. The vehicle was found resting on two brake drums and two milk cartons.

The type of tires and wheels and their value had not been ascertained as of press time Monday. Police report no suspects in connection with the thefts.

The owner of a home in the 600 block of Fairbrook has reported the theft of a Pugeot moto-cross bicycle valued at $140 between midnight and 2 p.m. Sunday. The bike is described as blue, with rusted spots and a torn seat. The bike was reportedly left unlocked in the back yard of the home.

City police reported the theft of a Jensen AM/FM stereo cassette recorder from the glove compartment of a vehicle parked in the northeast corner of the parking lot of Northville Park Apartments, 987 Novi Road. The incident took place sometime between 3:30 p.m. Saturday and 1:15 p.m. Sunday. The stereo, valued at $140, had not been installed and was kept in the unlocked glove compartment. The car had been locked, the owner said, but was discovered unlocked on Sunday.

Unknown suspects knocked or pulled down a lamp post on the northeast corner of Little Caesar's on Seven Mile Road sometime between midnight and 2:30 a.m. April 17, township police report.

The incident occurred only two days after a disposal truck knocked down a similar lamp post in the Highland Lakes Shopping Center parking lot.

The complainant, Larry Sheehan, told police he had no suspects or

Refresher for RNs offered

Registered nurses who need to update their skills will have the opportunity to do so at Schoolcraft College this spring.

The R.N. Refresher Course, to be offered May 3-June 28, provides an opportunity to acquire a greater knowledge of the nursing process as a means of planning and giving individualized care to meet patient needs.

It also helps licensed nurses who have been away from general practice gain knowledge of current diagnostic studies and related nursing care, current management of patients with selected medical or surgical problems, current trends in nursing and the functions and responsibilities of various members of the health team.

Participants review their previously learned nursing skills as they become acquainted with new skills and equipment. The class schedule for weeks 1-3 includes lecture and individually arranged lab practice from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

During weeks 4-7, students attend lectures from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday and have clinical practice Thursday and Friday, day shift. During the eighth week, students have clinical practice Tuesday through Friday, with the final exam to be given June 28.

Clinical practice, all in general hospitals, will include patient care assignments made by faculty, experience with medications and treatments and observation in some specialty areas.

Dorothy Sampson, R.N., M.S.N., is coordinator and lecturer, and will be assisted by clinical instructors. For further information, call 591-6400, extension 410.

Photographer featured in Milford show

By ALICE DAVIES

Curtis Watkins may be a lot of things to a lot of people, but this Saturday night he will be a hometown boy coming home.

And regardless of the reputation he has earned as a professional artist, this hometown show at Milford's Mill Gallery is important to him.

"I have lectured and shown my work from coast to coast, but I have never been more excited about a show than this one," Watkins says.

Billed as a "two man, three artist" show, Watkins and photographer John Galloway of Howell make two of the three. The third artist's work is created only when Watkins works under a self-induced hypnotic trance.

When he graduated from Milford High in 1964, he knew he wanted an art career and studied two years at Ann Arbor Art Center, two more years at the Kendall School of Design in Grand Rapids.

"My high school counselor advised against it," Watkins recalls. "But one of the things I want to say to young people is that you can make it as artist. He credits MHS teacher Fran Johnson for encouraging him to try."

After a stint in California, Watkins was back working as an illustrator in Ann Arbor when hypnosis began to play an unexpected part in his work.

Watkins had studied hypnosis for several years and learned to use it for relaxation and to deal with stress. By 1971 he was using self-hypnosis to ease anxieties over the illness of his father. While others took a coffee break, Watkins used the time for hypnosis.

One day, he stayed in the trance for 25 minutes and discovered an unusual piece of art in front of him when he awakened. It was so unlike his other work, Watkins found it hard to believe it was his.

"No matter how hard I tried, I could not remember doing the drawing," Watkins says. He soon learned to use the creative trance almost at will, producing startling work totally different from his own natural style.

Today, he recognizes something in his paintings after they are completed—he sees his own thoughts, presented in a way his conscious mind has never seen them.

The idea of painting in a trance, without conscious recollection, is the kind of idiosyncrasy that could attract more attention than the art itself. Instead of becoming involved in Watkins' adult art work, his Milford viewers might see only its odd beginnings without recognizing what has been produced on its own merits.

Fortunately, Watkins will come home with credentials and recognition from other respected authorities. Here are some of those reactions to Watkins, both as a person and as a serious professional artist.

—Item— His work has hung in an International Art Show in Washington D.C.; in Battle Creek and in a one-man Lansing show that made the front page of our state capital's newspaper.

—Item— He is listed in "Who's Who in the Midwest." He has appeared on most television talk shows in the Detroit area and now an agent is encouraging a move to New York.

But in Milford, this artist will be remembering familiar faces and places. It's his place, the one place he will always think of as home, he says.

His family name turns up repeatedly in Milford history and civic affairs and is seen today on several landmarks; Watkins Boulevard entrance to Milford High, the Bissell-Watkins-Craigie house on Union Street.

Watkins encouraged photographer Galloway to join him in the Mill Gallery show, which begins April 30 and runs through May 28.

Galloway works as a press photographer for Sliger-Livingston Publications and Suburban News—the parent company of The Milford Times. Many in the Milford-Highland area will recognize both Galloway and his work, which has frequently appeared in this newspaper.

Galloway's photography appeared in the book, "To Be Loved and Accepted—Children with Handicaps," published in 1977 by the Michigan Department of Education. He has done work for television commercials, slide and video presentations.

"I've never done a show, this will be a first for me and I'm looking forward to it," Galloway says.

The Mill Gallery is hosting an opening reception Saturday, April 30 from 7-9 p.m. and Watkins hopes to see a lot of familiar faces there.

"The opening is for everyone and everyone is invited," Watkins stresses. "I would love to see some of my old classmates and friends that night."

Two weeks later Watkins will present a lecture-demonstration, "Exploring Creativity through Hypnosis," at 2 p.m. Sunday, May 15 at the Mill Gallery.

The Gallery is open Tuesday through Saturday from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Addition plans shown for Ely doughnut shop

Only a city policy requiring widening of North Center when improving property fronting on the street poses a major obstacle to site plans for a doughnut shop addition to the Snow Hardware-Ely Fuel building.

If enforced at the location, the policy would require "lopping a few feet off the front of the existing structure."

That was the analysis given city planners by consultant Ronald Nino, who also questioned the parking arrangements in the site plan, being formally presented for the first time.

The plans, according to property owner Claude Ely and engineer Harold Penn, would result, after road widening, in the retention of a six-foot walk between the building front and the North Center curb line. "It's tight," said Penn.

Nino said special approval would be required for such a small setback from the street.

The planning consultant also suggested additional parking spaces be provided to offset the loss of spaces to the public because some indicated spaces are occupied on a regular basis by fuel trucks or U-Haul vehicles.

Nino said the matter of the street widening should be referred to city council for interpretation of the policy.

"The North Center widening policy is going to have to specify, eventually, where it is going to narrow down and funnel into the narrower pavement to the south," Nino explained.

"For example, how is the city going to enforce the widening policy at the corner (at Dunlap) where the bank building is — there is no room there," he continued. "It may be that this (Ely property) is where the council will want to start funneling it down, it may be that they want it to be south of this point or just north of it."

In the event the street must be widened, Nino advised that the doughnut shop addition, which would run along the entire southern face of the building and wrap around the east end, could be moved four feet farther east and maintain the same floor space by being extended four feet to the north (on the east, or back, side of the structure.)

Nino praised the plan for including exterior renovation of the present structure designed to complement the new addition.

The plan was assigned to the planning commission's site plan review committee for further study, and city clerk Joan McAllister was asked to relay the concern about the widening policy to city officials.

Spring festivals highlight schools' events

EDITOR'S NOTE: Northville PTA-PTSA News, which appears the last Wednesday of each month September through June, is compiled by volunteer Linda Handyside. She is responsible for coordinating material from the publicity persons in each elementary and junior high school.

In addition, Carole Litzelman of Our Lady of Victory's Parent-Teacher Organization compiles information about OLV's activities and Nancy Lawrence writes about upcoming events at William Allan Academy.

AMERMAN

"Other Things and Company," from the Oakland University Department of Theater and Dance, will be presenting "Poemsicles" tomorrow at Amerman School. "Poemsicles" is a dance and musical theatre production based upon the poetry of Shel Silverstein and Judy Vorst set to music. The program is being sponsored at Amerman as part of the JES Series.

Amerman's annual plant sale now is under way. Orders are being taken for petunias, alyssum, marigolds, begonias, impatiens, geraniums and shasta daisies. Flower orders are due no later than tomorrow. Flowers will be ready for pick-up between 1:30 and 4 p.m. May 25. Order forms have been sent home from school.

The next PTA board meeting is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. May 16.

MORAIINE

Moraine students are being immersed in history. Today and tomorrow, Moraine parents and friends will be able to enjoy a musical program titled, "This Land is Mine." This program, put on by students in grades two through six, is being directed by music teacher Sandra Craig and features songs and costumes of past eras in American history. To accommodate everyone who might want to see the special program, it is being held in the Northville High School Auditorium.

Another example of the living history lesson taking place at Moraine comes from Mrs. Judy Higbee's fourth and fifth graders. They will be spending the week of May 9-13 at Wash Oak Schoolhouse in Mill Race Village. Students and teacher will wear costumes of the 1700s and will spend the week participating in activities of the Revolutionary War era. Students even are preparing special knapsack-type totes for their lunches.

In the next few weeks, Moraine students should be busy putting finishing touches on science projects and art work for the June 3 science fair and annual art show. To make the date even more compelling, June 3 also is the day of the ice cream social. Artists, scientists and ice cream enthusiasts, circle June 3 on your calendar!

Thanks to all parents who were able to help out with the "Playground Work Bee" April 23. Not only did people donate their time and energy, they came bearing tools, such as drills, chain saws, shovels, rakes and pickaxes. Brenda Garner, Ali McKay and Joyce Dunkerly are PTA representatives who have been working hard to coordinate efforts for this playground revitalization project.

In May, we will be looking forward to Michigan Week (May 15-21), which brings with it a host of special events including Career Day May 18.

SILVER SPRINGS

During April, the third and fourth graders in Mary Rochon and Jan Henderson's classes went on a field trip to Maybury State Park. Students were given books to complete during their four-hour stay and were asked to identify and draw different types of fungi, mosses and related products for their science program. The children had lunch at Maybury and enjoyed one of our better spring days.

Janet Rigney will be taking six students to the Young Authors' Conference at Oakland University April 28. The students will be taking their books with them and will participate in workshops to strengthen their creative writing. They will have the opportunity to meet a published author and discuss the writing process. Silver Springs participants include Claire Cryderman, fourth grade; Melissa Muir, fifth grade; Melissa Petro, fifth grade; Steven Emsley, Kindergarten; Heidi Zimmerman, Kindergarten; Eric Hencken, fourth grade. Congratulations!

Thursday, May 5, is the Silver Springs Fine Arts Festival. Parents are invited to view students' displays in the Science Fair held in the Roundell (projects will be on display May 3-6). In addition, the Spring Musical will begin at 7 p.m. Students from Philip Demski and Phyllis Saunders' classes will perform along with the Silver Springs Glee Club and Band, led by our own Ann Jarvi.

Parents will enjoy viewing the Art Festival provided by our students prior to the musical. Artwork on display will include three-dimensional pieces completed by our students throughout the year under the direction of Shirley Talmadge.

As a special feature, Marcia Scarr will introduce the community to those special works of art produced by Silver Springs students that will be framed for the art gallery in our lobby and those pieces to be presented to the Board of Education for the art gallery in the board offices.

Winning spellers

Last Thursday, Our Lady of Victory School hosted the Lawrence Institute of Technology-Detroit News Area Spelling Bee for Oakland County. Among the 17 schools participating in the competition were several Northville schools. From left is John Cassel of Moraine Elementary, runner-up Jon Stenhauer of Meads Mill, winner Mark Schiefsky of East Farmington Middle School, Chris Julien of Silver Springs and Carrie Isabell of Our Lady of Victory.

On May 6, Celeste Matestic's class will be visiting our school. The class will view the Science Fair and have lunch.

On May 11 and 13, Silver Springs will host the annual Kindergarten Orientation. Kindergarten Orientation is an opportunity for the student to visit the school and participate in a mini-kindergarten day and meet the teachers. Preschoolers will also have a snack and have some of their skills checked-out. All of this helps the staff in planning next year's program. Should you have questions about your child's readiness to begin school in September, this is the opportunity to get some additional information and/or input from the Silver Springs staff. If your child will be five-years-old on or before December 1, please call the office to make arrangements to participate in the Kindergarten Orientation.

The May 18 Assembly featuring "Poemsicles" by "Other Things and Company" is sponsored by the PTA and our JES program. This will be the final "special" assembly of the JES Program for this school year.

The PTA has planned a Family Swim Night May 19 at Northville High School. This is another opportunity to enjoy your family for an evening! Chairperson Sue Stinson reports the PTA Plant Sale is well under way. Plants ordered can be picked-up May 27.

morning of May 6. If you or your neighbor have children who are planning to attend kindergarten next year, please contact the school office so they can attend the round-up.

As part of the Junior Enrichment Series, the Detroit Institute of Arts will present a program on African art to fourth graders May 10.

Students from Barb Sabo's, Pat Kuxhaus', Judy Coult's and Ron Bird's classes, as well as the Fifth Grade Glee Club, will transport the audience "South of the Border" during the May 11 vocal music concert. Teacher Ann Jarvi reports that the 7:30 p.m. performance will include songs, Orff and rhythm instrument accompaniments and folk dance.

Career Day will be held May 17. Classroom teachers and Career Day speakers will be treated to a breakfast that morning prepared by the PTA.

Think Spring! The PTA Sale will be held May 25 under the chairmanship of Carol McCreddie.

The "Kids on the Block" visited the third graders April 20 and helped promote understanding of the handicapped through an entertaining puppet show.

Kindergartners through third graders enjoyed ventriloquist Jimmy Still, who entertained at the Lower Elementary Evening April 21. Also on April 21, Winchester students were fingerprinted as part of Operation Childfind, sponsored by Northville Rotary. Parents may pick up their child's identification prints at the school office.

All Winchester students enjoyed the Detroit Science Center's presentation on "Energy" April 22.

Karen Wesley, Publishing Center chairperson, reports that 212 books were published by Winchester students this year. Congratulations, new authors!

Congratulations also to the winners of the 1983 Spelling Bee: Fourth Grade — Catherine Donkers (first place) and Kristin Meehan (second place); Fifth Grade — Amy McManus (first place) and Pretti Bagga (second place) and Sixth Grade — Karen Whelan (first place) and Shannon Jackson (second place).

COOKE

EMI students and their teacher John Campbell have been busy since Easter break. On April 21, these students visited the Exhibit Museum in Ann Arbor. The trip was a follow-up on their studies of prehistoric animals.

This Friday these students will participate in the County Special Olympics at Edsel Ford High School. Students who qualify at this meet will go to the State Special Olympics in Mt. Pleasant.

Twenty-nine Cooke students and their coach, Mary Freydl, will be traveling to Ann Arbor this Saturday to take part in the Junior High School State Forensics Tournament. The tournament is held in the Modern Languages Building at the University of Michigan.

Cooke's Third Annual Luncheon and Fashion Show will be at 11 a.m. May 5. Fashions will be presented by Fashion Cents of Farmington and modeled by Cooke students, moms and teachers. Maurice salad will be served for $3 for adults and $2 for students. Tickets will be on sale beginning Friday. Purchase them early, as space is limited.

Last month at Cobo Hall, ninth grader Lori Hoffmeister was awarded a first place ribbon at the Science and Engineering Fair of Metropolitan Detroit. Her Life Science project on the Effects of Acid Rain also won a Certificate of Recognition from the Air Pollution Control Association and a Certificate of Recognition from Detroit Edison. The Navy also awarded Lori a special award. Congratulations, Lori.

MEADS MILL

Students were happy to have an afternoon free today while the teachers had a curriculum in-service meeting. Tomorrow is the day to buy homebaked treats at lunch for 20 cents each.

Our Forensics Team, under the guidance of Wilma Castillo, has been practicing for the University of Michigan State Tournament by sparring with Cooke. Our team travels to Ann Arbor this Saturday for the event.

The Acting and Play Production class enjoyed the lively production of "The Music Man" put on by the high school students last month. It probably inspired many of the students to "go for it" and try out for a future play.

March 29, the high school and Meads Mill chors performed at Meads Mill in an evening performance.

The track team has begun practice with Coach Cy Nichols. Many students have gone out for the sport and are sprinting, hurdling and vaulting around the field.

Twenty-five students received recognition awards for participating in the 1983 Midwest Talent Search. Those scoring very high in the Talent Search were able to take the SAT as practice for the future.

Report cards went home with students April 15. The school grade point average for this marking period was 2.89. The average for each grade level was as follows: 9th grade — 2.88, 8th grade — 2.97 and 7th grade — 2.77.

The English Concepts class went to the Hilberry Theatre at Wayne State University to see a presentation of Julius Caesar April 19.

The last dance was April 19. Those who dressed in Hawaiian garb paid a lower admission. Proceeds went to the cheerleaders.

Three of our students received the Detroit Free Press Scholastic Writing Awards: John Kiplinger received a Commendation Award for Junior Poetry. Lori Miller received a Key Award for Junior Short Story and Kristin Vanderbok received a Commendation Award for Junior Short Story.

Jayshree Matadial and Jon Steinhauer represented our school at the Regional Spelling Bee held at Our Lady of Victory School.

The final PTSA Board meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. May 18 in conjunction with the band meeting.

OUR LADY OF VICTORY

Spring is being heralded at Our Lady of Victory School in numerous ways.

Many OLV families and neighbors contributed newspapers in the April 23-24 newspaper drive. Brownies in Troop 621 and 204 also did their share with a massive cleanup of the rectory grounds April 16.

Field trips are being planned by the third and fourth grade classes under the direction of Mrs. S. Brandt and Mrs. T. Alcocer for a visit to the Detroit Institute of Arts April 28.

Flowers again will fill our social hall on May 20 as our PTO is sponsoring its Third Annual Flower Sale with Sparr's Greenhouses as our supplier. Order forms, available at OLV School, are due the week of May 2-6 with pick up scheduled May 20. Information is available from Carolyn Pump at 349-9151 or Esther Cook at 349-4479.

Friday's PTO General Meeting promises to be interesting. Included on the agenda is the election of new PTO Board members for 1983-84; a presentation of the new Archdiocesan Report Card Grading System for 1983-84 and a drawing for a $25 package of tickets for Fun Day.

It's coming...it's coming...June 3 is OLV PTO's First Western Fun Day to be held from 3 p.m. to midnight. Chairman Linda Cousineau promises an afternoon and evening of fun to all who attend. This event will include crafts, from 3-9 p.m., in-school games, a dunk tank, Girl Scout book sale, moon walk, entertainment, food and a Millionaires Party from 7 p.m. to midnight. All school, Parish and Northville residents are invited.

Junior Girl Scouts are requesting donations of used books for the Fun Day be dropped off at the OLV school office.

WILLIAM ALLAN ACADEMY

March ended with a bang as our rummage sale was a huge success. The money was put to good use on computer software. Also, the William Allan Academy parents, students and friends had a wonderful time at our school's first Open House.

Academy students welcomed April very enthusiastically — especially the second graders. Their new Apple IIE computer with Terrapin Logo arrived.

Our Academy's first graders have been studying dinosaurs. They wound up their research and reports with an informative visit to the University of Michigan Exhibit Museum. To add to their unit of study they will be doing dinosaur dioramas in art class.

The Academy's third and fourth graders continue their studies on the United States. They are still excited about their work on the computers, doing basic lessons and earning even more special time for work with "Instant Zoo." The fourth graders recently started geometry. Both third and fourth graders continue to work each day on special questions which have to be answered using research skills.

Our Academy's fifth and sixth graders are having a lot of fun doing their "Safari Reports." They travel to a location somewhere in the world, making three stops in specific areas. They then tell about their stops, about the people, location, vegetation, etc. The children, too, were pleased to present Miss Val with their special Art Project Surprise — the school crest done in jelly beans.

Mark your calendars. Saturday, May 21, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. is the Annual "Country School Fair." Pony rides, Ye Olde Bake Shop, a button booth, games, a T-shirt table, the Book Closet, hot dogs, popcorn, cotton candy and much more will be among the events.

NHS hosts preschool

Registrations still are being accepted for the Northville High School Preschool to be offered from 9:30-11 a.m. Tuesday and Thursday mornings, May 10-26.

The program is free of charge and offers a variety of large and small group activities for the preschool child. Children will participate in making a nutritious snack each day. Program emphasis will center on self-concept and socialization.

Persons interested in the preschool, may pick-up applications at the high school. For more information, call program director Carla Tibble at 349-3400 during the school day or at 349-4896 after 4:30 p.m.

Boutique, open house planned at Montessori

Northville Montessori Center announces its Seventh Annual Open House and Arts and Crafts Boutique from 2-5 p.m. Sunday at the center, located at 15709 Haggerty.

Additional boutique hours will be 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Friday and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

The public is invited to meet the staff and parents in a casual atmosphere and to get acquainted with the Montessori method of education.

The school offers a year-round program of learning for children ages 2½ to 12 years.

Lynn Gall, administrator and director, will be available for questions and comments on the center. Fall enrollments will be taken at this time, as well as registration for summer day camp.

The school's natural setting of fields and woods provides much opportunity for science and nature study. Activities include arts and crafts, limited water play, games, books, garden preparation, harvesting, nutrition, dance, drama, sports and woodworking.

In addition, there is an after-school art program focusing on creativity and individual expression through use of a wide variety of media, such as clay, paint, bread dough, collage and paper mache.

Classes meet once a week, from 3:30-4:30 p.m. Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, starting May 3 for Northville Montessori students and from 4:30-5:30 for the community.

Cost is $30 for a six-week program. For more information, call Arlene Evanowski at 349-1391.

Kindergarten registration slated

Northville Public Schools are looking for children who will be five-years-old on or before December 1 to register for school in September.

Registrations currently are being accepted at all elementary schools.

Each child registered will be provided with the necessary medical forms to be completed by a family doctor verifying that all immunizations are current. Proof of birth is required when registering the child for school attendance.

Kindergarten visitation days for registered students will be held the week of May 2 at Amerman, Moraine and Winchester elementary schools and the week of May 9 at Silver Springs.

Making cookies at co-op

When it comes to making cookies, co-op preschoolers Julie Flis, 3, (from left) Melissa Poole, 4, Liana Kambouris, 4, and Tony Pesca, 3, find they came out best when made with Play-Doh. The preschoolers are among the students in the Northville Co-op Preschool program for three and four-year-olds. The preschool currently is taking enrollments for a variety of programs including the Toddler Group for ages 18 months to 2½ years, which meets from noon to 1:30 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays. For further information, call Sue Shepard at 348-6544 or Sylvia Kambouris at 522-3064. Record photo by Steve Fecht.

NHS bands plan May trip to Shenandoah College

Northville High School Wind Ensemble and Jazz Band, under the direction of Michael Rumbell, will attend the National Heritage Festival of Music at Shenandoah College and Conservatory of Music in Winchester, Virginia, May 19-22.

The bands will compete in the National Heritage Festival of Music and appear in another concert in Old Town Winchester in front of the historic 1840 Courthouse.

While on tour, the students also will make concert appearances on the United States Capital building steps and at the Jefferson Memorial in Washington, D.C. They will have an opportunity to tour Washington, Jamestown Festival Park and Busch Gardens.

Anyone interested in making a contribution toward the cost of the trip should contact Mrs. Thomas Rothmel at 349-6313 or Mrs. David Kiplinger at 420-2748.

She earns Girl Scout honor

Northville resident Kelly Parker has been selected to attend the Girl Scout Wider Opportunities program by the NOARK Girl Scout Council in Harrison, Arkansas.

The daughter of Millie and Gordon Parker, she is a junior at Northville High School and is active in Troop 501.

Wider Opportunities is a program of self-enrichment events sponsored by the Girls Scout of the USA or individual councils across the country. The opportunities range from exploring the diversity of southern California to participating in Wisconsin's International Fly-In. Participants are selected from applications made by Cadette and Senior Scouts.

Kelly was selected to participate in "Ozark Mountain Madness" and will be one of 24 girls to travel across the Ozarks and explore native craft areas. She also will have an opportunity to canoe the White and Springs rivers.

Schoolcraft hosts diabetes seminar

"Ask the Doctor," a program designed to answer questions about diabetes, will be given at 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday in the auditorium of the Liberal Arts Building of Schoolcraft College.

The entire evening has been set aside for a physician and their families to question a physician with a special interest in diabetics.

The program is being sponsored by the American Diabetes Association-Michigan Affiliate with the feeling that diabetics need more information to care for their diabetes properly than perhaps is necessary with any other disease.

Guest physician will be Dr. Thomas Palmer of Canton, a family practice physician who is associated with the Oakwood Hospital-Canton and Dearborn.

Representatives of pharmaceutical companies will display products for diabetics. There is no admission charge.

The most convenient parking is in the south parking lot of Schoolcraft College, the lot closest to Six Mile off Haggerty and facing the entrance to the Liberal Arts Building.

Three other "Ask the Doctor" programs will be held in May in other locations. For information call the American Diabetes Association at 552-9480.

Jaycettes sponsor area babysitting clinic

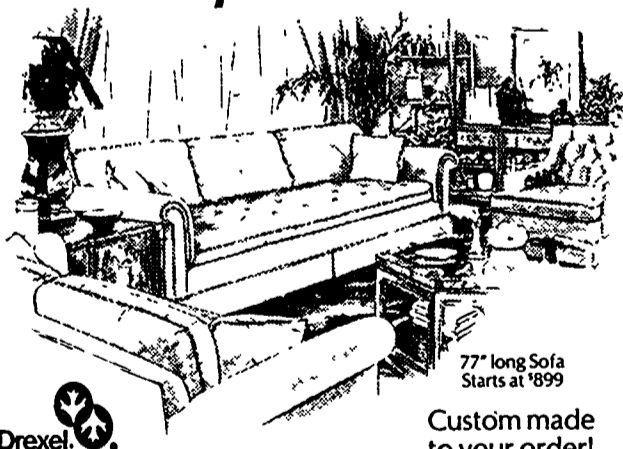

A three-session babysitting clinic sponsored by the Northville Jaycettes will be conducted the first three Saturdays in May.

All three afternoon classes, offered to area youngsters age 12 and older, will take place at city hall. Instruction will include basic CPR, emergency first aid, and games and entertainment for youngsters.

Classes will be from noon to 3 p.m. May 7 and 14 and from noon to 4 p.m. May 21.

Cost is $2, to be paid at the first afternoon's class. There is a class size limit of 25 persons and registration is required before April 28. To register, call Liz McCarville at 420-2528 or Debbie Anderson, 349-4426.

Jail crowding plan offered by Dumas

With prospects that DeHoCo and the county jail annex will both close within the next year, Wayne County Commissioner Mary Dumas last week introduced a long-range correctional program to ease jail overcrowding.

"Even with the opening of the new county jail this fall," Dumas stated, "the county will face the need to house some 650 prisoners now at DeHoCo and another 250 at the 'M' Building Jail Annex."

According to corrections authorities, when the new downtown Detroit jail opens, the license for the "M" Building will be revoked. It is expected the county will lose a suit, now in Appellate Court, initiated by Detroit to force the county to take over DeHoCo.

The minimum security prison at the Plymouth Township-Northville Township border, will need to be refurbished at a cost estimated at $4-$40 million if the county is forced to take over. The alternative is to close it down and house the prisoners in the two downtown jails.

Capacity of the new jail facility is estimated at 570 to 700, maximum. The old jail holds 743.

"To make matters worse," Dumas, whose district includes Northville and Plymouth, continued, "the State Corrections Commission is planning to force counties to hold prisoners with sentences up to two years, instead of the current one-year limitation."

"This means an even larger prison population."

Dumas' program calling for alternatives to incarceration of low-risk offenders has received support from both County Executive William Lucas and Sheriff Robert Ficano.

"This long-range correctional program... will need the cooperation of all parties in the criminal justice system if it is to work," Dumas said. She said it must be innovative, effective and involve every alternative from detention to probation or community service.

"The Wayne County Juvenile Court is already allowing youngsters to work out their sentences through community service programs or paying restitution to the victims. The City of Livonia and Plymouth are also providing similar programs," Dumas said.

She added that Hennepin, Minnesota, has a community corrections program with an excellent record. The county court there uses work and restitution programs, and also allows low-risk offenders to continue normal activities providing that they report to a court officer each day. This program has been considered 85 percent effective.

Dumas said a comprehensive corrections plan "must include pre-trial and post-trial sentencing alternatives, conditional release for low-risk prisoners, alternative corrections facilities and revised bond procedures."

She also said a bill had been introduced in the state legislature by Jeff Padden and Basil Brown to allow Michigan county sheriffs to release low-risk prisoners in the same manner as the governor has authorized prisoner releases from state facilities.

In Oakland County

Waste plan approved

George Schutte is probably smiling more these days.

Schutte, who serves as the supervisor of the Oakland County solid waste unit, announced last week that the county's solid waste master plan received the necessary approvals from two thirds of the county's municipalities.

According to Schutte, 41 of the county's 61 municipalities okayed the waste plan while "six or seven" voted against the plan. State law mandates that two thirds of the county's municipalities okay the plan before it can be passed along to the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR) for the final approval.

Schutte said the county will continue to accept approvals from other municipalities. He added that he feels good about the 41 'yes' votes, pointing out that those votes represent 80 percent of the county's population.

When asked if he anticipates any problem from the DNR, Schutte said he does not because the county has been working with the DNR on the waste plan.

While Schutte can breathe easier with the approvals in hand, his work is far from complete. He said the next step in the process is negotiating contracts with the various communities and the landfill operators. He added that those negotiations, which are aimed at securing waste flow, will not occur until late summer.

The county will also start the planning and engineering work for its resource recovery facilities, Schutte said. Those facilities will be designed to burn waste to produce steam for sale. Two small facilities, located in Wixom and Rochester, will only be built if the market is there, he added. The larger facility in Pontiac is still years from reality, he indicated.

The county's waste plan, mandated by state Act 641, calls for a combination of landfills and resource recovery to dispose of the county's non-hazardous solid waste for the next 20 years.

YWCA staffer Sue Cadwell helps Girl Scout Katy Lloyd, 9, with project

'Outreach' is YWCA aim

By JEAN DAY

"We've tried to be unique in taking services to people, addressing particular needs," explains Corinne Vincent, a Northville resident who has been executive director of the YWCA of Western Wayne County since the fall of 1970.

During the more than a dozen years that she has headed the YWCA, she recalls, the emphasis has been on the "W" as she and her staff have tried to respond to women's needs.

"We're not trying to duplicate anything," she says, differentiating the programs of the "YW" from the YMCA ones. "The YMCAs have fine physical fitness focus," she observed as she detailed programs offered by the YWCA that are geared to women's needs.

She also stresses the "outreach" aspect, saying the YWCA aims to have a decentralized program, taking workshops and classes into the 10 communities it serves. "But, actually," she adds "Northville is nobody's (territory)."

Vincent is happy to fill that void — and the Western Wayne YWCA has taken a first step in that direction as it has joined hands to offer a series of Girl Scout badge workshops with the Huron Valley Girl Scouts at Northville First Presbyterian Church.

The three-week workshops began April 16 and continue through this Saturday, developing interest in music with songs from other countries and music games; in folk arts including making puppets and herb teas; in local lore from family history to needlework and learning about past cultures; and in computer fun and games.

Through the Girl Scout-YWCA cooperation the workshops are being offered for a fee of $5.

With the breakthrough of a first workshop right in Northville, the director is hoping for additional ones.

"I live here," she says, "and if people want things, we will work on such needs with classes and meetings to be held in churches or wherever there is a place."

Our Opinions

Answers needed on ambulance plan

It is refreshing to see Northville City Council making a close examination of the regional ambulance proposal. Often, committee recommendations are accepted at face value without proper deliberation, but councilmembers made clear that will not be the case here.

The recommendation of an ad hoc committee that the city, township, Novi and Farmington change ambulance providers was so rapidly approved, with little discussion, by the other three government bodies it looked suspicious, even if it was not.

This is not to say that changing from Novi Ambulance to Community Emergency Medical Service (CEMS) would not be an improvement — only that the evidence and public discussion to date have created more questions than have been answered.

Keeping in mind that the only thing at stake is which ambulance company will receive calls from the four communities' emergency dispatchers (leaving individuals free to call whichever firm they choose), it seems the aim would be to obtain an agreement for the best service possible at the most equitable price.

The ad hoc committee has added to its priorities the inclusion of a mechanism for the resolution of disputes and a governmental review of services. This oversight provision is imposed upon whichever firm wins the agreement, since it was a condition of the proposal for bids.

Given that much, neither the committee report nor public discussion by the governmental bodies has answered the key question — is CEMS service so superior to Novi Ambulance's that it justifies the (relatively) higher cost to consumers?

Much is made of a "history of complaints" against Novi Ambulance service and owner John Early, but to date few such cases are documented or proven. Many of these complaints involve the allegedly high cost of Novi Ambulance service, yet the committee defends CEMS rates as "no higher than" what is paid to Early's firm now. Faced with competition, Early has offered to cut his rates.

Another oft-heard complaint — again without supporting data — is that Novi Ambulance imposes charges for services not performed. If the governments really believe their "mechanism for resolution of disputes" and formation of a review board will prevent or resolve similar complaints in the future, is not Novi Ambulance just as susceptible to these controls as is CEMS?

The old adage that "where there's smoke, there's fire" indicates the dissatisfaction with Novi Ambulance is probably based on some legitimate difficulties. It may be that it would be to Northville's good to separate itself from this firm. If so, the public would be better served if it were told why.

Even if the four governments involved find Novi Ambulance provides less effective service, there remains the question of whether CEMS offered on a regional basis is a true improvement. CEMS is a relatively new firm whose greatest advantage in some officials' eyes may be that it is the only company, other than Novi Ambulance, willing to serve the region.

It might turn out that the regional concept was flawed from the beginning — that the more populous Farmington and Novi have different needs from the city and township of Northville, and therefore require a different provider.

There are a lot of "ifs" and "maybes" in this editorial. The uncertainty results because no one — not the committee, nor any of the three governments which have thus far accepted its recommendation — has provided compelling evidence in favor of either ambulance firm. We can only hope city council's consideration next Monday night makes clear the reasons underlying its decision.

Spring's in the air — noisily

Mild and gentle as last winter was, its departure is not mourned. In garden beds throughout the renovated downtown thousands of tulips planted by garden groups and other volunteers are getting ready to burst into color. Beautification commission members responsible for the spectacle are hoping it will occur about Michigan Week — May 15-21.

The balmy weather and longer hours of sunshine, however, are bringing out other evidences of spring. We are reminded that our suburban community is "on the edge" of real farming and horse country. It's a treat to drive west on Seven or Eight Mile roads toward Pontiac Trail and view the foal frolicking in the fields of horse farms.

There are dangers, however, in being near horse farms as riders are encountered on these roads.

Most are knowledgeable, but drivers should be alert to the fact that animals are not always predictable and that going a little slower is a good idea.

Not so pleasant, however, for those who do not enjoy the sport is the arrival of motorcycle season. We already have received a complaint that cyclists are using subdivision pathways and ignoring noise ordinances. The resident calling wondered if newcomers are aware there are noise restrictions in both the city and township that should be observed.

Even without restrictions, common sense says that those who choose to ride through subdivisions should be considerate of residents trying to enjoy their yards. The "vroooooom" of spring is not welcome in neighborhoods where families are enjoying the outdoors — or trying to sleep.

Keeping an eye on the auto industry

RUMINATIONS OF AN AUTO BUFF/INDUSTRY OBSERVER:

• Reading Brock Yates' "Decline and Fall of the American Automotive Industry" the past few weeks I've come to the conclusion it should be required reading for every engineer or MBA candidate with an eye on Detroit. Not because Yates says anything new or astounding, but because he consolidates the legitimate (and some far-fetched) common criticisms of the industry's weaknesses.

For example, Yates suggests top auto company officials be required to purchase and operate a car through the dealer network — just like the rest of us. The company-supplied and maintained vehicle, he contends, distances the decision-makers from the realities faced by consumers. This is a suggestion any Michigan resident has heard a dozen times from auto company engineers and middle-management types. Yates' greatest service may be putting these people's perceptions into print.

• On a more encouraging note, Ford Motor Company is making a bold move to recapture some of its market share by going in whole-hog for aerodynamic styling motifs. The hot-selling Thunderbird and the upcoming (in May) Tempo/Topaz models are more adventurous in this way than anything the other American automakers are now doing or are projected to produce in the near future (excepting GM's Corvette, Camaro/Firebird and upcoming Fiero, all in specialized markets compared to the family-car Tempo or T-Bird).

To my eye, and obviously to that of the buying public, the new T-Bird is near-perfect esthetically (I'd like it better with less chrome, particularly objecting to the shiny waffle iron on the nose, but traditional T-Bird buyers probably like it the way it is). On the other hand, the T-Bird's sister, the Mercury Cougar, despite its high sales, strikes me as a prime example of one of Yates' objections to Detroit styling.

With its "formal" roofline, differing front and rear treatments and additional trim, the Cougar has one foot in styling themes of the past and the other in Ford's futuristic aero vision — in the end it is a poor rendition of both themes. I think it sells to people who like the T-Bird but opt for the higher status of the Mercury nameplate over Ford. Either that, or there's no accounting for taste.

• By contrast, everything coming out of GM other than the sports models seems to be "arrow" rather than "aero" styled. Long, low hoods and high, short trunks with a distinct wedge profile show up not only on the 1983 models but in spy photos of future products. This isn't objectionable, but it doesn't take much looking around to see that Japanese cars have looked like this for a few years now, and that softer shapes are attracting a lot of attention. As one non-automotive-minded reporter recently told me, "I think people generally like rounder shapes in cars, period." As usual, GM is being conservative with its family cars and with the market share the company has, who's to argue?

• As an example of how automotive engineers and designers must always be shooting at moving targets, consider the Corvette. Splendid as it is, Chevrolet engineers were aiming at Porsche 928-level performance. They exceeded the German car's handling ability and came close on the acceleration and top-speed figures.

The acceleration times and top-speed might have matched the Porsche's, except that the German firm introduced a more powerful 928S version just as the Corvette was coming to market, and tests in the auto buff magazines show the Porsche maintains a slight edge in these departments. Another target was the Ferrari, which also just got a new, more powerful engine.

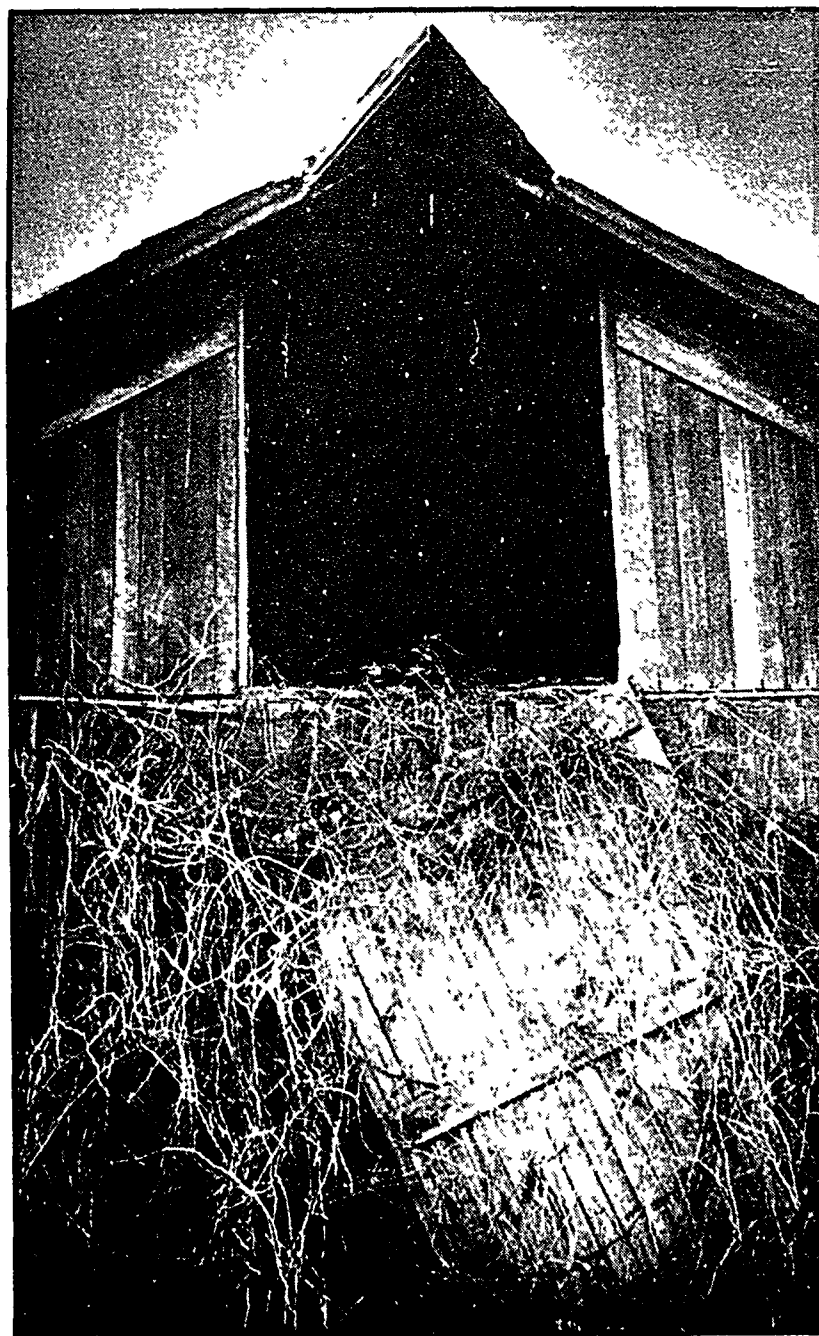

The new Corvette is said not to compete any longer with the Datsun 280-ZX, an old nemesis now thought to belong to a lower class of sports car, despite addition of a turbocharged engine. But Nissan is expected to unveil a redesigned sports car by the end of this year that could bring it back into contention with the elite.

Don't get the idea that Chevy is worried. Published reports are that GM engineers believe there is still untapped potential for added performance from the new Corvette, and prices are still far below those charged for the exotic German and Italian cars. Right out of the gate, the Corvette stepped into world class competition — the test now will be how well it keeps up while everyone is making improvements over the next several years.

About Town

By Steve Fecht

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

Ah, spring. Da flowers is bloomin' and da first signs of buds is appearin' on da trees.

Bah, humbug.

It's not that I dislike spring. Actually, it's my favorite season. It's the consequences of spring which leave much to be desired. Like having to rake up the twigs and branches which accumulate over the winter. And having to mow the bloomin' grass.

There's nothing like waking up on a beautiful Saturday morning only to be told that today's the day we tackle the yard.

In some respects, I strongly resemble Dobie Gillis' hippie friend Maynard G. Krebs, who was allergic to manual labor. And over the years I've developed a fairly formidable arsenal of defenses.

"Oh, you wanted to work on the yard today?" I said when she told me of her plans. "And I thought maybe we could go to the zoo and see all the baby animals."

Zoos and baby animals are powerful ammunition as far as my wife is concerned. Trips to the zoo are one of her favorite activities. But when she decides it's time to clean the yard, she can't be deterred.

So it's time to move to Plan Two. Resigned to having to work on the yard, the strategy involves shifting as much as the work load as possible to the board shoulders of someone who was raised on a farm and is used to all that bending and raking.

"I have to go into town to pick up some work gloves, dear. Carry on; I'll be right back."

And just when I get ready to mow the lawn, I discover we need gasoline. "Rats, we're out of gas. I have to go into town to get more. Carry on; I'll be right back."

It's impossible to be gone all the time, of course, and I eventually end up doing a little work. But with proper planning, it's possible to shift the major portion of the load.

By the time I got back from my third trip to town, most of the raking was done and there were neat little piles of twigs all over the yard waiting to be picked up.

That's when I pull up on the tractor with the cart on the back. "I'll stop by each pile and you scoop it in," I said trying to look tired. Then let's take a break, I feel pooped."

The following list is how the funds were allocated.

Northville High School, studio model piano, music department, for chorus, band and auditorium stage performances, $3,000.

Cooke Junior High, JVC video equipment (PTO will commit for the other half of cost of equipment), $935.50; 15 blank video cassettes, video S.A.T. prep course, total $1,498.

Meads Mill Junior High, Dukane Automatic Sound Filmstrip Viewer, Hitachi programmable VHS video cassette recorder, portable indoor-outdoor soccer goals, masterpieces from great museums, Versailles filmstrip and cassette, total $1,481.

Amerman Elementary, large screen television, $1,000 (PTA making up balance of the $2,500).

Moraine Elementary, 16 and 14 inch Timpani Suzukis, set of tone bells, two cassette player, Bell & Howell recorder, software for Pet Commodore computers, total $929.

Winchester Elementary, computer programs, American flag-base and pole, video equipment cabinet, computer and projector carts, display rails, kindergarten games, set of bongo drums, Hop Palmer song book, The Music Man and other filmstrips, cork display board for kindergarten, total $983.

Silver Springs Elementary, Commodore Pet Computer, four carts for audio/visual equipment, total $1,011.

Purchase of metal plates to be placed on such large items as the piano brought the total donation of $9,902 to $10,000.

Referendum vote can decide local zoning

To the Editor:

How could township residents challenge the legality of zoning ordinance amendments? In a recent case, the Michigan Court of Appeals upheld the right of the people to circulate petitions and vote on zoning ordinance amendments. (Huxtable vs. Meridian Trustees, 102 Mich App 690, 1981).

The Meridian Township Board amended the zoning ordinance by rezoning a parcel of land (owned by a construction company) from rural residential to single family low density.

Within 30 days of the approval of the amendment, plaintiffs submitted petitions containing the signatures of 1500 residents requesting a referendum on the zoning amendment. Ultimately an election was held on May 20, 1980, and the amendment was disapproved by the township voters 2,762 votes to 884 votes.

Meridian Township Trustees had claimed residents had no such right to a referendum, because the township had adopted a charter township form of government. They argued that such a right was only guaranteed to residents of a general law township (such as Northville Township).

Imagine the audacity of township officials attempting to abolish the right of the people to vote by inference to the weaknesses of the charter township law! Despite these shenanigans, the Michigan Appeals Court ruled the right of referendum was considered to be valid. Furthermore, the court emphasized it could find no intrinsic distinction between charter and general law township regarding the right of referendum.

This decision reaffirms my contention regarding the dangers of becoming a charter township. Clearly, the charter township form grants more power to the township board, while restricting the rights of the voters. General law townships allow residents the opportunity to vote on each additional mill above the one mill provided by state law, while charter townships are allowed to immediately levy five mills.

Procedures for challenging zoning ordinance amendments include the following:

1. Circulate petitions.
2. Secure enough signatures to represent more than eight percent of the number of township residents voting for governor in the last gubernatorial election.
3. File the petitions with the township clerk.

4. An election is held regarding the zoning ordinance amendment.
5. The ordinance amendment is invalidated, if a majority of the registered voters residing in the township vote against the amendment.

Objects to scheduling of events on Sundays

To the Editor:

This is an open letter to Novi Parks and Recreation and Providence Ambulatory Unit.

I would like to commend you for your sponsorship of the 5K and 10K Run for Community Awareness on May 1 at 9 a.m. I strongly object, however, to the obvious exclusion of many Novi citizens who are Christians and will be in church while this event is taking place. We are not only systematically excluded from participation, but because streets are blocked off, it is difficult to get to our church services.

Those of us in Novi who enjoy running and desire to exhibit our spirit of loyalty must cross over the border and run again this year in the "Discover Northville" Run in the fall which is scheduled on Saturday.

The officials in Northville are to be commended for their consideration of this large segment of our population, which Novi officials choose to ignore and disregard.

Sincerely,

Richard S. Burgess

Praises those involved in Progressive Dinner

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Northville Historical Society, I would like to commend Sonja Lane and her committee for the success of Saturday's Progressive Dinner. The meal was a delicious way to raise monies needed to furnish the Wash-Oak Schoolhouse in the Mill Race Village.

Such an event was made possible by many people. The Society wishes to thank the 12 hostesses who so graciously opened their homes. Special thanks go to Kris Broderick of the Northville Gallery of Flowers, 335 East Main Street, for the lovely arrangements in each home; to Terry Trotter at Paul's Farm Fresh Produce on Seven Mile Road for his assembling of the entree ingredients; and to Joyce Weber of Speedy Printing, also in the Highland Lakes Shopping Center, for her complimentary printing of recipes. We are fortunate in Northville to have such helpful merchants!

Sincerely,

Martha Nield, director,
Northville Historical Society

News from Lansing

By R. ROBERT GEAKE
State Senator

School financing, with its many foibles and problems, has captured the imagination of virtually every state legislator in these budget-crunching times. A wide variety of plans is being placed before us that would change the school aid formula, or establish minimum funding levels, or create special educational funds, to cite a few examples.

A measure attracting more attention than usual is Senate Bill 91, which allows school districts to establish permanent base millage rates. It provides that the millage rate approved by voters at the next election could be locked in, and could then only be lowered — or raised — via special referendum. It would eliminate the need for millage renewal elections.

Essentially, it sets the school district up as a "charter authority" similar to that of other local units of government, to establish the millage rate. That rate could not exceed the 1983-84 operating millage, and would be used for school operation only. A 50 mill limit would be set, as required by the Constitution.

The permanent millage plan is raising a number of arguments, both pro and con. Supporters tell us that it will provide more stability for our schools and a more secure environment for students. It would also allow more time for long-range curriculum and program planning, because the schools would have a much clearer idea of their future funding levels. In addition, it would eliminate the costs and headaches of renewal elections, and cut down on "pink slipping" teachers due to fear a millage may not be renewed.

The bill's supporters also believe that it will allow teachers' and school administrators to concentrate on their main purpose — teaching. Too much time and money is being spent on millage campaigns, they say. Let the voters decide once and be done with it.

Finally, the bill's advocates believe the bill has enough built-in flexibility to calm the nerves of the tax-fearing public. It allows them to call for a vote to lower the base rate through a petition signed by 10 percent of the district's voters. They could also vote to raise the rate, but not beyond the 50 mill limit.

Senate Bill 91 also has its detractors. Many insist, especially in light of taxpayer anger over the recent 38 percent income tax increase, that this is not the time to be etching tax rates more permanently — or even slightly eroding the say-so of voters.

They fear it takes away the taxpayers' already-limited authority to establish local tax rates, and eliminates their watchdog role of reviewing and approving school millages.

Some also believe that the measure is unconstitutional, and could conceivably be construed too liberally in granting too much charter authority to school districts. School districts should not be treated the same as other local units of government, they claim.

The Senate Education committee, to which this bill has been referred, plans to take a couple more weeks to study the idea and hear testimony. Not too surprisingly, the school representatives are all for it. I'd like to hear what you, the taxpayers, think of the idea.

Proposal D vs. H decision will set precedent

By GERALD H. LAW
State Representative

The State Supreme Court, still stinging from public reaction to the ouster of former Justice Dorothy C. Stoen, is finding itself in another odd predicament as the justices begin hearing the cases regarding Proposals D and H, utility measures approved by voters last November that appear to be in conflict.

The two proposals ban automatic utility rate increases. Proposal D dictates that no utility company can have more than one rate increase case tried before the Public Service Commission at one time.

Proposal H, however, would allow for simultaneous hearing by a utility company for rate increase approval by the commission.

The State Solicitor General, representing Proposal D, claims that it should have supremacy over Proposal H because it was initiated by the people. He also points out that Proposal H, on the other hand, was approved by the Legislature, and then placed on the ballot, and therefore was not initiated by the people.

Attorneys representing the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce, who pushed for passage of Proposal H, refer to Article 2, Section 9 of the State Constitution, which states that whichever of two conflicting measures receives the greatest number of votes becomes law, regardless of who initiated the measure in the first place.

Proposal H received 200,000 more votes than Proposal D.

The court action began when an Ingham County Circuit Court judge issued an order that prevented any automatic rate increases by utility companies, which keep both Proposal D and H from taking effect.

Consequently, the Supreme Court was asked to intervene to clarify technical constitutional language pertaining to the two proposals.

Whatever decision the high court makes, a precedent will indeed be set.

If the court agrees that Proposal H should take priority over Proposal D, because it received more votes, then our system of referendum voting will be substantially altered.

Should the Supreme Court side with Proposal D, then future referendum measures on the General Election Ballot, if approved by the voters, could be overturned by the court. In addition, any measures approved by the Legislature for placement on the ballot could be negated by the Supreme Court as well.

Bullard bills proposes unemployment waiting

By WILLIS BULLARD, JR.
State Representative

A package of labor-related bills has been introduced in the Michigan House of Representatives that could substantially improve Michigan's business climate, and aid in the creation of new jobs for Michigan's unemployed construction workers.

I co-sponsored House Bill 4363 which would amend the Michigan Employment Security Act to require those out of work and eligible for unemployment compensation to wait one week before becoming eligible. If adopted, employers could save millions of dollars annually, and workers would still receive all their benefits.

The Michigan Employment Security Commission is currently $2.3 billion in debt. If the state changed current eligibility standards to include a one-week waiting period before the newly-unemployed could receive benefits, Michigan employers would save millions of dollars. In addition, the MESC, still borrowing from the federal government to cover state unemployment costs despite recent increases in unemployment insurance rates, could retire the federal debt much quicker.

Under current state law, unemployment benefits last for 26 weeks. If the law is enacted, those receiving unemployment benefits would still receive 26 weeks of benefits. However, an unemployed person would receive the first week's compensation during the 27th week of unemployment.

Many employers are reluctant to hire new workers because of Michigan's unemployment system. Laid off workers and others often find work after several weeks, yet their previous employer has had to pay benefits for longer than is really practical. Under this proposal, employers would save enough money by instituting the one-week eligibility period to create more jobs in their workplace.

The other bills in the package, House Bills 4346 and 4370, deal with prevailing wage legislation that particularly affects state building programs, school construction and projects undertaken by economic development corporations.

At the present time, any building project that involves state funds, or funds received from the sale of bonds through EDCs, must require that the workers on that project be paid union scale wages.

By eliminating prevailing wage language in our laws, construction costs could drop, more jobs could be created, and we could get more people back to work. Too many projects are being canceled because labor costs are far too high. Reducing those costs, which are actually artificially determined by the state, would ease many of Michigan's chronic economic problems.

The jobs package has been sent to the House Labor Committee for further consideration.

Police gun law exemption planned

Michigan law enforcement personnel would be exempt from prosecution under the felony firearm law under legislation co-sponsored by state representative Gerald Law (R-Plymouth, Northville) last week.

The felony firearm law calls for mandatory two-year sentences for commission of a felony while in possession of a firearm. But, Law said, that law does not now exempt police officers, who are required to carry firearms, from prosecution.

"The implications under current law are that whenever a lawfully-authorized police officer is performing his duties and inadvertently commits a felony he could be subjected to a mandatory prison sentence," Law said.

"This is simply unfair to the police who are merely trying to do their job, and it would be pretty difficult to be a policeman without protection," he added.

The legislation introduced last week "could be viewed as a technical change in the law," Law said.

He said the bill was needed to amend the current law following prosecution of a Dearborn police officer who became involved in an altercation with a felon, who later died from injuries sustained in the fight.

Because the officer was carrying his service revolver, he was charged under provisions of the felony firearms act.

Under Law's bill, a police officer responsible for a suspect's accidental death caused by something other than gunfire, would be charged with manslaughter, which carries no mandatory sentence.

House Bill 4173 has been endorsed by most law enforcement organizations in the state, including the Michigan State Police Troopers Association and the Michigan Sheriff's Association.

Autofocus Cameras To The Rescue

Autofocus cameras are now coming to the rescue of photographers everywhere who want the ease of operation typified by 110 "pocket cameras" but want the quality of 35mm.

Autofocus cameras generally focus on the subject as quickly as you can push down the shutter release. These cameras generally use two types of auto focusing systems - the visitrone which focuses on contrast and the infrared which sends out a beam of light at the subjects and uses a receptor to read the distance. Neither system appears inherently better although most manufacturers are going to the infrared system.

Besides focusing automatically, most auto focus cameras have built in flash and motorized advance and rewind. Many are auto-loading. Both slide and print type films can be used in most speeds available today. One camera even has the capability of using the new 1000 ASA film for low light shooting.

Stop into F-stop, 43220 Grand River in Novi, (348-9355) today to see how easy and inexpensive autofocus cameras can be.

This week F-stop is featuring the new Ricoh FF-3AF Autofocus Camera - the most advanced autofocus camera on the market today. It is so small it will fit into your shirt pocket but yet has every automatic feature available today including motorized advance and built-in flash, as well as 1000 ASA capability! $149.95 ONLY (Limited Quantities)

YW gives special focus

She cites as possibilities, a support group for non-custodial mothers, Weekend Moms, being held at the YWCA center at 26279 Michigan in Inkster, as well as a Mothers Learning group relating to women and their role as mothers and wives.

The YWCA also sponsors weight loss and stop smoking clinics featuring hypnotist James H. Hoke, divorce support groups and group outings, including an upcoming trip to the Tulip Festival in Holland, Michigan.

At the Phoenix divorce support meetings discussions are held on topics that range from assertiveness to grants, schooling and job placement. Currently, the meetings are being held in Canton, Taylor and Livonia.

Relating that the YWCA was renting a building in Dearborn when she became director, Corinne Vincent recalled that shortly afterward it moved into its own building on Michigan Avenue, built with a United Foundation grant and a fund campaign. "It was baptism under fire," she remembers.

"However," says Vincent, "a building never is the answer. Your drawing area is about five miles — that's why outreach programs are so important."

"That's why I place so much faith and stock in decentralized programs."

The exception, she points out, is the YW's "Hub" for Singles of the Motor City which features dancing every Sunday from 8-11 p.m. at the Michigan Avenue building.

"We've had this for five or six years, and it draws people from all over," she relates.

A program Vincent thinks is much needed is the Women's WE Exchange.

"We've had 'Old Boy' networks for an eternity," she comments, and it's time women had the same thing."

An upcoming WE program at 7 p.m. May 9 at the center will give women an opportunity to hear how eight other women successfully changed careers.

Vincent operates the Western Wayne YWCA with a professional staff of eight and a clerical staff of 14 — "and a lot of part-time people."

Much of her time, she explains, is taken up with fiscal management and keeping up with federal and state laws.

Since she became executive director of the YW more than a dozen years ago, Vincent was asked how she managed raising son Todd, now 20 and a student at Allegheny College in Pennsylvania, and keeping a household. She says she and her husband David and Todd "all kind of worked together."

They have particularly enjoyed the farm dating back to the 1800s they purchased in Maine, she adds.

Todd is attending the school from which his mother received her bachelor's degree in art. She did graduate social work at University of Pittsburgh and has studied at the University of Michigan.

When Todd was born, Vincent retired from a Y staff job and became a volunteer. She was elected to the board and then returned to work part-time until the directorship was open.

Civil War conference scheduled Saturday at Botsford Inn

Northville Civil War buffs will have an opportunity to gather with serious students of the "war between the states" at this Saturday's second annual Midwest Civil War Conference at Botsford Inn in Farmington Hills.

Sponsored by the Abraham Lincoln Civil War Round Table of Michigan, the conference will feature a series of expert speakers, a panel discussion, exhibits and other special events — all illuminating some aspect of the Civil War.

Although the event has been organized principally for members of the Civil War round tables in Michigan, Ohio and Indiana, the general public is invited to attend. Proceedings will get under way at 9 a.m. and will conclude with a dinner speaker in the evening.

One of the speakers will be Nicky Hughes, curator of the Kentucky Military History Museum. He will travel from Frankfort, Kentucky, to relate how the conflict impacted his native state and made it truly a "brother's war" in the Bluegrass region.

Steve Mrozek, the curator of the Troy Historical Museum, will portray a member of the 15th Michigan Infantry Regiment in an unusual first-person narrative. He will describe Sherman's March to the Sea as the soldiers themselves experienced it.

Matt Switlik, the director of the Monroe Historical Museum, will describe the experiences of Michigan's best-known and most effective artillery battery. Switlik is one of the country's acknowledged authorities on Civil War artillery.

The panel discussion will have four experts debating the Battle of Gettysburg as they attempt to identify the single event or command decision that determined the outcome of the bloody three-day struggle.

Dr. Lloyd Ostendorf, a Dayton, Ohio, commercial artist and Lincoln scholar, will be the dinner speaker. The country's foremost expert on Lincoln photographs, paintings and sculpture, he will discuss both the circumstances of the Lincoln art and what it tells us about the war-time president.

The conference exhibits will include a display of Civil War weapons, many of which are rare pieces.

The fee for the day long conference is $13. Tickets for the dinner and dinner talk are $12. Reservations may be obtained by sending a check, made payable to Frank E. Hasse, 8529 Dogwood Lane, Warren, 48093.

New business grows from study of plants

Photoby STEVE FECHT

Sue Kenneweg turned a green thumb into a growing business

By JEFFREY LAPINSKI

Please, no jokes about 'branching out' or 'putting down roots.' Sue Kenneweg is serious about her 'budding' business.

A Green Oak Township resident, Kenneweg is Plant Concepts, a one-woman business that offers a wide range of personal services relating to the care and maintenance of plants.

Kenneweg's business grew from her personal frustration with her own house plants. She started boning up on greenery after her expensive plants began dying on her. Following a good deal of reading and a lot of questions, Kenneweg became a self-taught plant doctor.

"I just got better at it. I just became the plant hospital as far as everybody in the family goes," Kenneweg explained, adding that she would receive falling plants brought to her by relatives.

The next step for Kenneweg involved plant parties. "Why not a plant party?" she asked, comparing them to Tupperware parties.

Finding success in the plant parties, Kenneweg then decided to start her business and filed the name of "Plant Concepts" in February in the five counties comprising the metropolitan Detroit area. She also received a sales tax number from the state to enable her to purchase from suppliers.

Stated simply, the nature of Kenneweg's business is plants. She sells

WILLIAM POULOS

GERRY DOBBS

WILLIAM G. POULOS of Northville has been appointed director of purchases for Chevrolet Motor Division. He succeeds Fred Peekart, who retired April 1 after 36 years of service.

A Detroit native, Poulos graduated from General Motors Institute (GMI) in 1969 with a bachelor's degree in industrial engineering. He received a master's degree in business administration from the University of Michigan in 1977.

Poulos began his GM career as a GMI student-in-training at Cadillac Motor Division. Upon graduation, he was named a junior engineer — process and production. Later the same year he was named a supervisor of materials control.

During the next 10 years, Poulos held a number of positions at Cadillac, including assistant superintendent — materials control, and project manager of corporate consolidated scheduling.

In 1979 he was named director of materials control for the division and in 1981 became director of purchases and traffic. He was appointed director of fabricated components — purchasing activities for GM materials management staff in 1982.

GERRY DOBBS was recently recognized as top salesperson, first quarter 1983, at Century 21 Suburban Realtors of Northville. Dobbs has been with the company since 1979 and earned awards for record sales during this period.

Evola Music collected more than 250 cans of food for the drive by charging an admission price of one can of food for an organ concert featuring Seth Rye, touring artist for the Lowrey Organ Company.

It was the second time the Twelve Oaks store has donated food to the Novi Food Program. Some 420 cans of food were donated after an earlier concert in November.

Valentine said Evola Music is pleased to be able to assist the food program in Novi. Additional concerts are planned in the future.

GUARDIAN INDUSTRIES (NYSE) of Novi has announced that a definitive agreement has been entered into with Hordis Brothers, Inc., for Guardian to purchase, for an undisclosed cash consideration, all the fixed assets and inventory of that company's glass facility in California.

Consummation of the transaction is contingent on certain conditions being satisfied; closing is expected in early May.

Hordis Brothers, Inc., is a privately-owned glass company with principal offices in New Jersey. The glass facility in California produces rolled and tempered glass products.

Guardian Industries is a leading manufacturer and fabricator of flat glass products used in construction and, to a lesser extent, in transportation applications. Other building products manufactured by the company include a broad line of fiberglass insulation products.

Guardian also serves the amateur photography market through a nationwide network of 12 photo-processing facilities.

STEVEN SROCYNSKI OF MILFORD, is the director of marketing for the Comm*Data Computer House in Milford. He brings with him a depth of computer business experience.

As general manager of Pennsylvania Pacific Computer Corporation, Sroczynski was responsible for managing the home computer market as well as the business systems market and within three months the company was one of the top 30 Commodore dealers in the east.

Sroczynski was also acting executive vice-president of Retail Data Systems, Incorporated, a computer house based in Annapolis, Maryland. Before that he worked with the American Telephone and Telegraph Company where he was staff manager and market manager. He developed and executed market plans, identifying the potential market, competition, sales application, market strategy and tactics. He distributed the corporate business revenue requirements of $1.3 billion between the 28 market segments.

Sroczynski was the first to assemble sales applications selling Bell System solutions to small and medium sized customers, recognized by vice-presidents around the country as a landmark in progress.

RICHARD G. BASS of Novi, who started his professional career in sales and marketing with Ziebart Rustproofing Company in 1963, has been appointed manager-associate dealer sales.

Bass will be in charge of Ziebart's Associate Dealer Program, a marketing plan designed to develop sale of Ziebart's appearance and protection services at new car dealerships or at Ziebart dealers by referral from auto dealers.

During his association with Ziebart, Bass has held a number of sales and marketing positions, the most recent as district sales manager for Michigan.

He also supervised the company's car show car program. Bass studied at Detroit Institute of Technology before joining Ziebart Rustproofing.

He and his wife, Cheryl, reside with two daughters in Novi.

Business sprouts from plant study and rents plants and offers a regular maintenance service which includes treating sick plants. In addition, she provides consultation, design and set-up all free of charge. And all of these services are available to both commercial and residential customers.

Giving an example of her services, Kenneweg said she can go into a bare office and tell the customer what plants are suited for that environment. She also likes to involve the customer in plant selection.

In an office with existing plants, Kenneweg said she comes in, looks at the plants "and we go from there." If the plants are infested with insects, she knows the cure, including which chemicals to use. She will also sell or rent plants and set up a maintenance schedule. If her plants die, she will replace them.

Those same services are available to the homeowner. Kenneweg mentioned that she can also warn people about the hazards of certain plants, especially those that can be poisonous to curious toddlers.

Plant parties are another way Kenneweg contacts with potential customers. A host or hostess can arrange the party and ask the guests what types of plants they are interested in. Kenneweg will then bring those plants to the party.

Kenneweg added that the host/hostess of the party will receive a free plant and credit towards the purchase of additional plants. That credit is based on the amount of sales generated by the party, she explained.

When asked how her new business was doing, Kenneweg explained that she has several clients in the Brighton area, adding that Plant Concepts is currently in the "building process."

Kenneweg operates out of her Green Oak Township home but she does not live in a greenhouse. Her home is accented with several flourishing examples of her work and she keeps some plants in her basement workshop. However, for large orders, she usually visits a wholesale outfit.

In her basement, Kenneweg keeps several replacement plants as well as some "starters," young plants grown from larger parent plants. The workshop is also used to prepare plants that are due to enter the working world. "I like cleaning and shining the plants up before they (the customers) get it," she added. "I find that when I dust the plant off, they seem to sprout up in growth."

Kenneweg explained that dusting the plant makes it look better and helps it out too. She warned never to dust under the leaves because it will block the plant's pores and make the leaves curl. She said she shines the plants with a dish sponge and a commercial plant shining material.

When watering plants, Kenneweg uses a commercial plant food. She said the soil is a good tip-off on when to water. However, some plants need more water than others and the plant owner needs to know the "dry" plants from the "wet" ones, according to Kenneweg.

Another important factor for healthy plants is the proper environment. Kenneweg said that many people just do not know how to take care of plants. For example, plants may be overwatered or the wrong plants will be placed in the wrong lighting.

In addition, some plants purchased from stores may carry good prices but they may also carry insects and disease that can infect healthy plants back at home or the office, explained Kenneweg.

While Kenneweg's business may sound interesting, it is not unique. Several large firms operate in the Detroit area, serving large customers such as shopping malls. "Oh! They're big," she exclaimed. "They have trucks and everything."

Kenneweg has no trucks; she just uses the family car. But things are doing just fine for the "seed" she planted. "I think it's going okay."

Anyone interested in reaching Kenneweg can do so at (313) 437-6418.

Lines drawn in battle over jobs program

By CAROL AZIZIAN

Battle lines are being drawn in the fight over federal dollars targeted toward developing job training programs for Michigan's unemployed.

"It's a big political problem that won't be easily solved without a lot of blood-letting," said state representative Maxine Berman, D-Southfield, a member of the newly-created Michigan Job Training Coordinating Council.

The 50-member council — comprised of business, labor and government leaders — was appointed by Governor James J. Blanchard. The blue-ribbon panel met for the first time last week to decide how to divide the federal pot among local governments.

Across Michigan, local government officials are competing to get shares of some $200 million in federal funds which the state is expected to receive October 1.

In both Wayne and Oakland counties, areas hard-hit by the recession such as Detroit, Pontiac and Downriver communities are seeking large chunks of the money to administer their own programs.

Meanwhile, county executives in both Wayne and Oakland want to keep control of the purse strings so they can run the show.

Federal dollars will be handed down under the federal Job Training and Partnership Act (JTPA). Congress passed it last year to replace the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA), which is now being phased out.

Under the new act, local officials and representatives of private industry will work together to train thousands of unemployed persons in many fields, particularly high technology, construction and health services.

Unlike CETA, the JPTA makes no provision for placing workers in government-subsidized jobs.

"This is not CETA under a new guise," said Phillip Power, Blanchard's appointee as chairman of the council. "The problem with CETA was that it evolved into a patronage (system) and provided very limited useful training."

"We want to train people for real jobs — jobs of the future that will stick and grow," said Power, chairman of Suburban Communications Corporation, parent of both Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and Sliger-Livingston Publications.

Some Oakland and Wayne County communities, however, may hold up the process by refusing to budge on their demands.

In Oakland County, officials from Pontiac and surrounding communities remain at odds with Oakland County Executive Daniel T. Murphy over who should administer the training program. Oakland County is expected to receive about $11 million in federal job training funds in fiscal 1984.

State Senator Phillip O. Mastin, D-Pontiac, a member of the job council, said Pontiac and four other surrounding communities want to run an independent program because those areas have been harder hit than other Oakland County cities.

"Forty percent of the county's unemployed live in Pontiac, Waterford Township, Pontiac Township, Independence Township, an Lake Orion," Mastin said.

Eighty percent of the work force at five General Motors Divisions also resides in those communities, added Mastin, who was Murphy's opponent in 1976.

In Wayne County, three areas — the city of Detroit, Downriver Community Conference and western Wayne suburbs — want to set up programs independent of the county. Wayne County's total allocation will be nearly $38 million in 1984.

It's likely that Detroit, which has one of the highest unemployment rates in the country, will be allowed to run a separate training program.

The political dispute, however, is in the rest of Wayne County. The Downriver Community Conference, which already operates a successful job training program under a federal grant, fears getting swallowed up in the county bureaucracy.

Mayor's and supervisors in western Wayne County have banded together in an attempt to meet the needs of their suburban communities.

Tax credit offered to summer employers

Hiring young people for the summer could cost employers substantially less than a dollar an hour this year.

The federal Targeted Jobs Tax Credit (TJTC) program is now offering employers an 85 percent tax credit for hiring economically disadvantaged 16 and 17-year olds, according to S. Martin Taylor, director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC).

The new credit applies toward the first $3,000 in earnings per qualified employee. Consequently, depending on the employer's tax bracket and assuming the employer is paying the minimum wage of $3.35 per hour, the credit could mean some employers would actually be paying as little as 50 cents an hour for qualified youth.

To qualify for the tax credit, employers must hire youth who are:

- Age 16 or 17 when hired and are from economically disadvantaged families. Economically disadvantaged families have incomes that are 70 percent or less of the government-defined "lower living standard." To meet this standard in Michigan, the income of a family of four cannot exceed $10,670 in metropolitan areas and $10,400 in rural areas;

- hired after April 30, 1983, for any 90-day period (or less) between May 1 and September 15; and
- first-time employees of the firm.

Taylor added that families in Michigan might qualify as being economically disadvantaged if both parents are unemployed and are receiving unemployment benefits or welfare assistance and have no other source of income.

Employers must request the tax credit certification on or before the date the youth actually begins work, Taylor emphasized. Otherwise, they will not be able to claim the credit.

To claim the credit, employers must request a TJTC certification from their nearest MESC office for each potentially eligible youth. The MESC will then give the employer a simple TJTC voucher form to complete. The employer also can request certification by letter to the MESC Job Service office.

In either case, the letter or the voucher must be completed and postmarked on or before the date the youth begins work. If employers anticipate any delays in obtaining a timely postmark, they can hand deliver the voucher or letter to the MESC for date stamping and mailing.

Once the MESC receives and reviews the voucher, it will send the employer a TJTC certification for the employer's records. At tax time, the employer must file the IRS form 5884 — "Jobs Credit" — with his or her federal income tax return. The one form can cover all the employer's TJTC eligible workers.

The tax credit is limited to 90 percent of the employer's tax liability after this liability is reduced by the amount of other applicable credits. The employer's business expense deduction, such as wages, is reduced by the amount of the credit, as under previous employment tax credits. An unused portion of the credit may be carried back three years or forward 15 years.

"The nice thing about TJTC is the ease with which employers can claim the credit," said Taylor. "There is very little paperwork or red tape for employers to bother with and our MESC Job Service can help employers find youth who will qualify them for the tax credit."

TJTC was established by the Revenue Act of 1978 and offers employers tax credits for hiring workers from nine groups including: Aid to Families with Dependent Children recipients and Work Incentive Program registrants; Supplemental Security Income recipients; General Assistance recipients; certain handicapped individuals; and economically disadvantaged individuals from the following groups: Vietnam veterans, 16 through 19-year olds in approved cooperative education programs, 18 through 24-year olds, and ex-offenders convicted of a felony and hired within five years of their conviction or release.

The tax credit for hiring summer youth begins for the first time this year. For more information about the TJTC program, Taylor urged employers to call their local MESC Job Service offices or call a special toll free number, 1-800-482-2959.

Talking it over

Owner Jack Doheny greets Taylor water commissioner Ted Beard during an open house last week at Jack Doheny Supplies in Northville, the state's largest supplier of municipal sewer equipment. The open house April 19 featured trained factory representatives shwing more than $1.5 million worth of equipment on display, including some of the more technically advanced machinery used in pollution control. Equipment shown included treatment plant equipment designed to meet latest EPA requirements, ditch cleaning equipment that could cut costs by 80 percent, used and rental machinery. Those attending were treated to a buffet luncheon during the eight-hour open house. Photo by John Galloway

Local streets won't benefit from nickel rise in gas tax

A warning not to expect improvement of city and county roads as a result of the five-cent federal gas tax increase comes from Earl Rogers, engineer-director of the Michigan County Road Association.

"The five-cent federal gas tax increase is not going to be a windfall for county and city road and street systems," he said, "because the bulk of the new money is going to the nation's freeway and primary trunkline systems.

"For example, there will be no increase in the federal urban funds, the money source of most city and urban construction which totaled $29 million in Michigan last year.

"There will be a $5 million increase for the 16,800 mile county federal aid secondary road system and another $5 million added to the local bridge replacement programs, with the latter receiving the most notable advance in relation to the needs.

"Overall, the counties and cities are scheduled

State chamber sets list of legislative priorities

Legislative priorities of the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce were announced last week, with major emphases on improvement of the business climate and reform of government, politics and tax policy.

High on the list was state deregulation of interest rates, with the state chamber contending the step is necessary to insure sufficient consumer credit.

The state chamber also advocates "meaningful tax incentives" for investment in small business.

"These tax incentives should be of sufficient magnitude to compensate the investor for risk-taking," the chamber's written statement says.

It also encourages "exemption of venture capital gains from the Single Business Tax base if the gains are reinvested in another venture capital arrangement within one year."

Under governmental reform, the statement emphasizes the chamber position that state rules and regulations should not be more restrictive than federal standards in the same field.

The chamber takes a similar position in regard to safety in the workplace rules, where the organization states that MIOSHA should insure business meets federal standards but should not impose more stringent requirements.

All state regulations and regulatory agencies should be subject to sunset review legislation, the chamber states.

The priorities list also addresses two items already being debated — plain language contract legislation and closing the voluntary quit loophole in the unemployment system. In the first case, the chamber urged that such legislation, entered on the house floor last week, not include compliance with a mathematical formula.

In the latter instance, the chamber position favors not only closing the loophole, but strengthening the suitable work requirement and improving restitution requirements to help recover improper payments. Republicans introduced legislation along these lines last month.

On the national front, the state chamber backs added effort to revise and reauthorize the federal clean air and clean water acts along lines proposed by Michigan Representative John Dingell.

Closer to home, the chamber proposes reforms to the property tax, single business tax, workers compensation and unemployment taxes and the income tax.

"On the property tax front, 'overall...assessing reform...accompanied by elimination of the need for equalization factors' is needed, according to the statement.

The property tax collection fee should be at a flat rate rather than on a percentage basis, the chamber argues, contending that the government's cost for collection is the same regardless of the size of the tax bill.

The chamber advocates deferral of property taxes due and owing on new unoccupied residential property until the original builder transfers ownership.

Single business tax credits for research and development and for export sales are another priority. Workers Compensation and Unemployment Compensation payments should be removed from the SBT base, the chamber statement adds.

The final tax reform proposed by the chamber would allow an exemption to state taxation for interest income received from funds invested in Michigan financial institutions and dividends from Michigan corporations.

The chamber will support the present legislative district boundaries, assuming the expected Democratic attempts to alter the lines at mid-decade occur.

Reform to labor laws should institute a waiting period for the unemployment compensation system, and alterations to the benefit level so that it does not automatically increase. Benefits should be tied to the fund solvency, overall business climate and rate of insured employment, the chamber statement urges.

Candy Contribution

C'mon kids, the stuff's so good
Just Sanders' smell can set the mood.
Watch the melted chocolate satin
Rain from a bucket — to make us fatten.

We'll have to wait for jelly beans
They're white and limp without sheens
Of color. Break off the freshest peanut brittle
Take more than such a very little.

Cream centers stand there by the score
Waiting for coats of orange, maple and more.
A woman's cool hands pick the best
To lay one at a time in a brown, fluted nest.

Inside a box; this time a Heart—
Where else could one work and test every part?
They noticed my pockets had quite a bulge—
And, still gave me their Heart so I could indulge.
F.A. Hasenau

Dreams

Ty and I were watching the sky
On the way to town today.
He can be so laughing and free
While watching the clouds at play.

He showed me, it's easy to see
A whole kingdom in the sky.
Bees, and trees, and ships on the seas,
Whimsical magic we spy.

Towns, and clowns with faces all frowns,
Gliding so dreamily by.
Dogs, and frogs, and green polliwogs,
Floating along on a sigh.

Whales, and quails on take-me-home trails,
Quietly drifting along.
Boats, and goats, and musical notes,
Singing a mystical song.

Ty and I love watching the sky,
Sharing the visions we find.
We can be so laughing and free,
Conjuring dreams in our minds.

Veil of Tears

This will change you'll learn at last
This too will pass
Forget the mess you've made
Nothing forever lasts
You are just a single grain of sand
A fraction of a larger piece of land
The sky and sea will accompany you
Regardless of what you decide to do

Can't disguise the loneliness that around
You looms
Weaving webs of doubt and solitude
And locks you tight in shackles of doom
Face the fact before it raises its face to you Change will come regardless of what you choose.

Here you stand head in hand losing fast
Give up your excuses and plead ignorance
Decisions that you've put off in the past
Form obstacles that block your every path There's nowhere to run to hide you from your view
Guardian angles no longer hover over you Better face the facts and confront all your fears

Prophets will barkingly forewarn
That gambling gains are cursed from days of lore
Wager against what fate may hold in store
There's nothing you can count on anymore
You have nothing to lose when you hold nothing
dear
Your sight obscured by your veil of tears.

Choose your game play it wise play it fast
Take all you can win like it may be your last
Those who never venture never gain
And are destined to forever remain
Lonely for their remaining years
Seeing life through a constant
Veil of tears.

Face of Winter

she is pale...
subtle in tone.
Quiet moods fill her moments
serene.
She brings the spirit of silence to cover the land... only the gentle rustling of her snow within the trees is heard.
Her season is one of beauty.
Her face
a quiet loveliness.
She is fragile dressed in white lace.

Sharing

We start out in life with the world on a platter, Then we say to ourselves what else can possibly matter?
But if you keep thinking of yourself and don't care,
You have nothing to give and nothing to share!

Voices

What is the meaning of life on this earth?
No answers as yet satisfy.
Without understanding, we question life's worth,
And its blessings we are apt to deny.

There are myriad voices proclaiming to guide
In the ways they feel sure bring the light,
Yet with what certainty do we decide
Which voice knows the wrong from the right?

The truths of the ages are ever the same,
No matter the length of our strife,
The purpose we seek is ever the same—
To solve the mystery of life.

How long will it be until truth becomes known
To all of mankind upon earth?
What is the answer for you alone,
And how will be measured your worth?

The answer will come as we let ourselves go
In our search for true values within,
And the light of all truth will increasingly show

School Closing

The fields are covered with weeds.
Trees have fallen.
The children's cries are silent.
Wind squeaks the schoolhouse door.
The shattered windows stare black from grey dust rooms.
Our feet sound in the hall.
A paper flies before us,
its scratchings marked in red.
The shelves are empty—
not a book nor globe.
The desks have disappeared.
But there — a piece of chalk used to scrawl
"No More School!"
on a blackboard glowering in the gloom.
The blinds askew, their cracked bamboo like missing teeth in a dead man's skull.
A closet stands agape to show a calendar forgotten on the floor.

Has it been so long since our eyes have seen these walls?
Was this our life—so long ago
now broken and forlorn?

Father's Day

Isn't it difficult To find Something for the man who has EVERYTHING?
We searched
Our minds
But couldn't come up with ANYTHING.
So, Father's Day came
And all we did was say
We love you, Pop.
Who needs to shop
For the man who gave us our name?

Winter

Time flows... leading gently the rivers of thought and seasons of change—and now
as the snow lightly cascades swirling and dancing outside the window, it is the season of calm and quiet solitude...
a new year touched with the miracle of a new beginning...
fresh as the falling snow... magical as twinkling stars upon the white blanketed land.
Serenity is found as dawn shines her frosted light over the earth.

Grace Pollock honored as 'Woman of Distinction'

When Grace Pollock began her teaching career back in 1934, her monthly paycheck came to $49 for teaching with an additional $1 for janitorial services — and that included splitting her own kindling for the woodburning stove.

"That first year was an experience," Pollock says of her teaching beginnings in a one-room country school in Hubbard County, Minnesota.

Despite such humble beginnings, Grace Pollock made a lifelong career of education — spending most of her teaching years in the classrooms of Northville Public Schools.

From her early years as a teacher in Minnesota to her more than 30 years of teaching Northville kindergartners, Pollock never lost her enthusiastic commitment to guiding the many youngsters under her care.

To honor Pollock's dedication to the teaching profession, the Alpha Nu Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma honored the longtime educator as its "Woman of Distinction" this month.

The award is befitting of a woman, who at 68, still keeps a hand in teaching as a needlepoint instructor at Beverly Manor Convalescent Home and as a Youth Club teacher at First United Methodist Church.

"Teachers were overabundant when I started teaching. However, they began to get more scarce during the war."

Grace Pollock

Sitting in her red brick West Street home, Pollock explains that a letter from then-superintendent Russell A. Amerman brought her to Northville in September, 1943.

"Teachers were overabundant when I started teaching," she reflects. "However, they began to get more scarce during the war."

Through her teaching in Minnesota, Pollock says she found her niche with kindergartners. However, there were no kindergarten teaching positions in her home state.

"Kindergarten teacher posts were scarce in Minnesota at that time," she explains. "Teachers just didn't retire — many of them were 82 and 83-years-old."

Pollock, a native of Duluth, Minnesota, received her bachelor's degree from St. Cloud Teachers College and later earned a master's from Wayne State University.

When she began teaching in Northville in the middle of World War II, there were 53 kindergartners in the entire school system.

"Of course, at that time there was only one elementary and one high school in the district," she points out.

During her many years as a kindergarten teacher, Pollock says there rarely was a dull moment.

"There wasn't a day that went by where someone didn't learn something new," she relates. "At that point in their lives, they always are discovering something."

Pollock continued to teach kindergarten in Northville until her retirement in June, 1976.

Reflecting on her 30-some years of teaching, she mentions the changes which have taken place in education.

"I think children are way ahead of what they were," she says. "We didn't know enough then about the outside world."

In her many years of teaching, Pollock has seen the district grow from two schools to seven and has worked under several administrations. To this day, she credits Russell Amerman and Elroy Ellison for making her teaching career in the district so successful.

Pollock says she still stays in touch with many of her former students and mentions that many of the "neighbor kids come over to borrow encyclopedias."

When not busy teaching at Beverly Manor or watching youngsters in Youth Club, Pollock tends to her 155 African violets and needlepoints.

Asked if she plays the upright piano against her living room wall, Pollock merely chuckles.

"I had to play the piano for kindergarten," she says. "However, I haven't played for so long that I'm out of touch."

"Actually," she says, "I never really passed the 'Mary Had a Little Lamb' stage."

In Ann Arbor

Bella Abzug among panel guests

Bella Abzug, Hazel Henderson and Eleanor Holmes Norton will address the economic concerns of women at 8 p.m. May 6 at the Power Center in Ann Arbor.

The three internationally known activists will focus on today's political and economic climate as well as the creation of alternative futures.

The discussion is sponsored by Friends for Women's Credit, formed to offer innovative forums on women's issues, and the University of Michigan's Women's Studies Program. The two groups brought Kate Millet, Gloria Steinam and Alice Walker to Ann Arbor last October.

Abzug, a lawyer and politician, has been an outspoken crusader for peace and human rights for more than 20 years. A member of the U.S. House of Representatives from 1971-76, Abzug founded the National Women's Political Caucus, presided over the National Women's Conference in Houston in 1977 and was appointed by former President Carter to co-chair the National Advisory Commission for Women. She currently is president of Women USA. Henderson is one of the nation's original environmentalists. Her worldwide leadership in political, economic and social causes is built on the belief that individuals can improve the quality of their lives.

Norton, a lawyer and social activist, has been involved in fighting discrimination since the 1960s. In 1965, she became Assistant Legal Director of the American Civil Liberties Union and then served as chairperson of the New York Commission on Human Rights from 1970-77. In 1977, former President Carter appointed her to chair the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. She currently is teaching at Georgetown Law Center and is actively involved in fighting Federal cuts in programs for women and children.

A question and answer period will follow the discussion. Participants also may attend an "Afterwords" with the panelists at the Michigan League with hors d'oeuvres and a cash bar. The League is located on East Huron, a block from the Power Center.

Tickets for the event are $10 general admission and $5 for students and seniors. For tickets, write to Friends for Women's Credit, 6475 East Joy Road, Ann Arbor, 48105 or call 769-7450.

Heinzman benefit, scholarship flower sale supported

By JEAN DAY

Salutations, caring friend,
Your thoughts, concerns, have helped me see
My life is changed, not at an end,
And still productive I will be.

I might have problems, but it's still a crime
To not acknowledge prayers given with love,
Despite my lackings there's life and time,
Respect and faith in the Father above.

Instead of my body, I now use my mind
To live with purpose and not regret;
And many who've known have cared and been kind,
I thank you sincerely, I'll never forget.

— Scott Heinzman

Friends of Scott Heinzman received copies of this tribute at a benefit for the young quadriplegic held April 17. Scott was injured in a dive at the Northville gravel pit July 6, 1982. After six months at University of Michigan Hospital, he now is in independent living in Ann Arbor and hoping to attend computer school.

Because he requires extensive personal care, the benefit was held by family and friends to help. David Heinzman, his uncle, reports it was a huge success, and the poem reveals the 21-year-old's appreciation and positive outlook.

They're buying flowers to grow scholarships

Ways by which good works get accomplished in our community continue to evoke amazement and pride. In six weeks, on June 9, two grants-in-aid in the amount of $500 each will be presented on honors night at Northville High School to two graduating seniors to help with their freshman year in college.

These grants are presented by Northville Mothers' Club Life Members — a small group of 37 active members who raise the funds for the scholarship by giving a holiday cocktail party, an auction and a spring plant sale.

Right now members are taking orders for flats of impatiens, begonias ($10.50), petunias and marigolds ($7), and for geraniums ($1.90) and hanging baskets of ivy geraniums ($10.50) to be delivered May 16. Orders are being taken through May 1 at West End Lamps, or with Glad Evans or Ruth Mary Atchison.

Members will pick up the orders at their spring potluck meeting May 16 at the home of Margie Davis.

Deadline's approaching on applying for grants

Northville High School counselor Alta Olson reminds parents and graduating seniors that the final dates to make application for grant and scholarship awards is at hand, and some application deadlines, including the Mothers' Club Life Member award, are past.

Other local scholarships are available and should be applied for now. They include Northville Woman's Club, $300, deadline this Saturday; Country Girls Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, $350 to a student entering the science field, deadline May 2; Northville Branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, three scholarships of $600, May 13; Northville Jaycee Auxiliary, $200, this Thursday; Young Feminist Award of the Northwest Wayne Chapter, NOW, $100, May 13; Schoolcraft Trustees Award, five tuition scholarships, with application made to the college prior to May 16. Deadline already is past for the Northville AAUW $300 scholarship and for the $500 Delta Kappa Gamma award.

Docent activities not limited to Mill Race

Even before last Sunday's training session for new Mill Race Village Docents, the docent corps numbered 44 active members and 10 substitutes and special-day workers. The 1983 season will begin Sunday, May 1, and continue each Sunday afternoon through October. The volunteer guides are stationed in the buildings in the village and are informed about the history of the village, its buildings and their furnishings.

The docent group itself now is holding a variety of social activities. A tour of the Troy Historical Museum is scheduled for May 21, an annual box social (with lunch packed in old or unusual containers) on July 13 and a potluck luncheon to end the season October 22. At the luncheon John Brugeman, horticulturalist who has instituted much of the village's Victorian landscaping, will tell how the gardens were planned and planted.

As in much volunteer work, docents report they "get more than they give" as they learn and share local history. Anyone interested in the docents is invited to call co-chairpersons, Alice Pooley, 348-2284, or her sister Marion Roller, 349-5947, or membership head Orla Hamilton, 349-4337.

Newcomers' events set

Northville Newcomers Club has scheduled three popular events as the final activities of the current year.

Reservations now are being taken for the annual mini-home tour to be held May 12. It is the final Ladies Day event of the year and will include visits to three Northville homes offering "everything from country charm to the unusual design of a home constructed from an old barn," reports Sharon Valance, president.

The 40 members (it's limited to that number) taking the tour are meeting in the China Fair parking lot on Seven Mile to form car pools at 9:15 a.m. Following the tour, participants will lunch at Hillside Inn in Plymouth. Both Newcomers and alumni may make reservations with Marjorie Nugent, 349-7581. Cost for the day will be $8.

The annual dinner dance, regarded as one of the Newcomers' most traditional and elegant events, will be held in the Chestnut Room of the Sheraton Oaks in Novi May 20. The evening will begin with cocktails at 7 p.m. with a cash bar, followed by dinner and dancing at 8 p.m. This evening is open to Newcomers, alumni and their guests at $36 a couple.

Table reservations also are being accepted. Reservations are limited to 70 couples and are being taken through May 9 by Bonnie DeSiro, 420-0027.

The annual spring membership and thank you tea will be held from 1-3 p.m. May 5 in the Mill Race Historical Village.

Auction benefit planned May 13

Area friends of Farmington Community Center are gearing up for a second annual benefit auction to be held at the center at 24705 Farmington Road at 7 p.m. May 13.

The event already is considered one of the center's major fund raisers. This year is no exception, says program director Kathy Dowling.

"With more than 150

diversified items to be auctioned, this promises to be another successful venture," she reports.

Proceeds help meet the needs of the center and enable it to offer quality classes and workshops.

A silent auction begins at 7 p.m. followed by the live auction at 8:30 p.m.

Items offered include dinner certificates at area restaurants, symphony and theater tickets, gifts and services, such as wallpapering and sailing trips on personally owned boats.

Special auction items include Bob Schmeckler's autographed hat, lunch with Ernie Harwell, tour and interview with Sonya Friedman and lunch and tour with Ronnie Clemmer.

Mini-vacation packages at the Westin, the Grand Traverse Resort and Farmington Holiday Inn are included.

Tickets for the auction are $7.50 a person and include complimentary wine and hors d'oeuvres served throughout the evening.

She's guest at conference

Northville resident Sandra A. Trosien participated in the annual National Association for Gifted Children Conference April 22-23 at Central Michigan University. The topic of her presentation was gifted adolescents.

It's especially because families come to us during their most difficult times that we feel our responsibility so deeply. We've formed some very close friendships here and after being a part of this community for so many years, our commitment to its people is stronger than ever.

Just as our own families know they can count on the support and friendship of our neighbors, we're proud that families here know they can feel confident in the services we provide.

The Northville Record

In one of the most evenly-matched dual meets in recent memory, Northville dragged South Lyon down to the final event — the mile relay — before the Lions emerged with a 64-59 non-league victory.

It was a game of inches in both track and field events and the two squads seceded for the lead throughout the meet. At the completion of the field events, the Lions' sweep of the discus and first two places in the shot balanced strong Mustang showings in the high and long jumps.

Cindy Panowicz picked up the first of her three first-place finishes when she unleashed a 15'11 3/4" leap in the long jump, while Becky Baumann placed third with 14' 1/2", a half-inch short of second.

Panowicz, altogether, turned in a remarkable performance Friday, posting school records in the 110-yard hurdles (15.5), the 220-yard dash (27.2) and the 330 hurdles (47.2).

Equally impressive was long-legged strider Jennifer Trausch, who collected firsts in the high jump with 4'7" and the mile with a 6:04, kicking into the lead on the gun lap. She added a second-place finish in the 880 while her knees were still wobbly from the mile.

The Mustangs got needed points in short distances with second and third places in the 100 — Baumann in 12.4 and Laura Chamberlain in 12.9 — and the 440 — Kim Assenmacher in 68.9 and Erin Ryan in 71.4.

Also notching a first-place was the 440 relay team of Chamberlain, Samantha Barber (who took third in the high jump with a 4'5" effort), Ryan and Kerry Lenaghan.

But the most exciting part of the meet came in the three events climaxing the match — the 220, the 2-mile, and the mile relay. Although Panowicz set the school record in the 220, her lead at midpoint evaporated in the final stretch and she and South Lyon's Sue Tomanek went stride-for-stride to the tape with Tomanek barely edging Panowicz.

In the 2-mile, Kelly Wool kicked past the field with two laps to go, sailing easily to a win in 12:20.3. But the key points which tied the meet came from Wendy Nuechterlein's third-place finish in 12:56.7.

But the mile relay, like the 880 relay, is not a strong event for Northville, in spite of Assenmacher and Ryan. The Lions never trailed in the event, coasting ahead by 20 yards at the finish line.

The Mustangs bounced back two days later with a sixth-place finish at the "River Rat Invitational" in Ypsilanti on Saturday. Northville posted only two firsts — both courtesy of Panowicz in the hurdles. Panowicz lowered her own 330 lows school record to 47.2 seconds and also placed third in the long jump, thus scoring 30 of Northville's 38 points.

The remainder came from Trausch's fourth-place finish in the high jump (4'10") and Nuechterlein's fifth-place two-mile time of 12:55.0. Wool sat out the meet, although Northville coach Ann Dayton said it was likely Wool could have won the 2-mile.

Official results are still coming in, but Ann Arbor Huron was the meet's clear winner.

Northville opens its Western Lakes Activities Association season tomorrow in a home dual-meet encounter with Farmington Harrison at 4 p.m.

Soccer squad kicks off spring in 5-1 win over Chiefs

It took a while, but the Mustang soccer squad finally played its season opener, posting a 5-1 league victory over Plymouth Canton last Friday. Junior striker Lisa Cahill provided the winning margin by herself with two goals and an assist against the Chiefs.

Cahill's pair were the first tallies of the match. Her first came six minutes into game action when the center forward took a pass from midfielder Christine Kreutzberg, broke up the middle directly on goal, pulled the Chief goalkeeper out of position and slipped the ball neatly into the lower right corner.

It took 21 minutes for the follow-up despite numerous chances. On a special play Mustang coach Ron Meteyer designed to immobilize an opposing goalie on a corner kick, Cahill thrust her noggin into a pretty centering kick by sophomore Kathy Kerwin and the Cahill header sailed in the net.

Two minutes later sophomore forward Sue Terwin took a pass from winger Amy Nieuwkoop, trapped the ball 12 feet from the net and fired past the Canton goalie for a 3-0 mark. "That one broke Canton's spirit," Meteyer said after the game. When Kathy Young posted, a fourth Mustang goal with five minutes left in the half, the game was clearly out of reach.

Young's goal came when a pass from Cahill caromed off a Chief defender. Young was simply in the right place at the right time and fired a right-footer into the net.

Canton broke the shutout five minutes into the second half when the Northville defense experienced a mixup after stand-out back Martina Miller was pulled from play to nurse her ankle strain. The Chiefs scored on a scramble in front of the Northville net, one of only four shots on Northville goalkeepers Jenny Gans and Leigh Ann Spaman.

Speedy Mustang senior Tish Johnson answered with the game's final tally when she picked up a loose ball at midfield, sprinted down the right wing and fired a hard shot into the Canton goal.

"Tish" was the only goal we got on a breakaway," Meteyer observed. "That's different from the way we played last year. This year I think we work the ball better and won't pick up so many goals on breakaways as we did last season."

Northville will take on WLAA rival Livonia Franklin today at 4:30 p.m. and Meteyer has hopes of capturing the winning trophy in the Schoolcraft tournament this weekend.

Coach Minor cites progress despite 14-1 loss to Canton

There weren't many bright spots in Northville's season opener last Friday as Plymouth Canton thumped the Mustangs 14-1 in five innings before the game was finally called.

"Sure, it was a big disappointment," coach Mary Minor said, "but the girls' spirits aren't dampened. We had a practice Saturday to work on some of the mistakes we made, and I see them starting to get together better."

Canton pitchers yielded only one hit in the ball game — senior centerfielder Judy Morgan's second-inning triple up the alley in right center. Morgan's blast scored third baseman Jan Roberts, who had reached base on an error, cutting the lead at that point to 5-1.

Senior Sue Keiser went the distance in the WLAA loss, suffering from nervousness in the early going as were her teammates.

"We had a bad case of the jitters out there," Minor conceded. "The girls looked very nervous, dropping easy fly balls and so on. But they started to settle down as the game progressed, and they should be playing better this week."

Getting back on the winning track, however, may be difficult. The Mustangs go against tough league rivals Livonia Stevenson and Walled Lake Western this week before traveling to participate in the Livingston tournament Saturday. "I'm especially worried about Stevenson," Minor reported. "It seems like they're always doing well in district and regional play. It's a tough league with games against Stevenson, (Livonia) Bentley and (Plymouth) Salem counting."

A GREAT WAY TO SERVE

Near-misses fatal in loss to S.Lyon

Mark Knoth, as usual, was the Mustangs' heavyweight scorer. His 15.3-second time in the 120-yard high hurdles and his excellent time of 41.4 in the 330 lows were good for firsts. An unexpected added talent Knoth demonstrated Thursday was in the high jump. In his first-ever try at the event, Knoth took second place with a 5'8" leap, averting a Lion sweep.

Again sophomore Joel Vogt emerged as a key individual in the Mustangs' plans. His 23.6 won the 220 and he also captured the 440 in 54.3 seconds.

"We're going to start using Joel differently," Polley declared. "I'm going to take him out of the 880 relay and put him in the 100 to pick up some points there, because we can't afford to keep getting swept in that event. That's the great thing about Joel, you can put him in anywhere and he'll do well."

Among the near-misses for Northville were the mile and 880 relays, both of which South Lyon took by a only a couple of steps. Polley said the difference in the two teams' schedules may have accounted for Northville's losses in those two events, as South Lyon had completed three dual meets before hosting Northville in the Mustangs' dual meet opener.

One more bright spot — the heavy relay, an exhibition quartet of beefy throwing event specialists (Kratz, Bach, Jackson and Raubacker) clocked a 56.3 for an exhibition first place.

spite of a few encouraging individual efforts, Northville's opening dual meet against South Lyon last Thursday was definitely a setback — the Mustangs were clobbered 99-33 by an unexpectedly quick and strong pride of Lions. Coach Don Polley and assistant Brian Turnbull now face the task of regrouping and reassessing the squad.

"The team is still young and I think the times showed that," observed Turnbull. "The distance squad will prove itself after a few more meets. We've got to do more work, though."

Preparing for the Mustangs' first Western Lakes Activities Association meet tomorrow, against Farmington Harrison, Polley added, "We're looking forward to improving a lot on our times. We've got to get the distance times down. I have no idea what kind of times Harrison has, but I think we'll be competitive. I don't think it'll be a 66-point difference."

In all, the Mustangs were completely shut out in the discus, the 100-yard dash, the mile and two mile, and the long jump, leaving the efforts of the team's better athletes negated.

Among the Mustangs who did look promising was senior Dave Bach, who unleashed a winning heave of 47'11½" in the shot put. Randy Kratz's 41'10" second-place toss also came in handy, while Tim Jackson and Dave Raubacker, both juniors, also marked respectable distances.

Netters show promise in three wins

The Northville tennis team demonstrated how far it has come and how far it has to go last week as the Mustangs raised their dual meet season record to 3-0 with two solid wins, then got bombed by three talented teams in the four-team Edsel Ford tournament last Saturday.

There was a little bit over our heads over there at Edsel Ford," Mustang coach Dick Norton conceded. Northville went against state-ranked Cranbrook and Detroit Country Day in the tourney, while host Edsel Ford showed its strength also. Cranbrook took the top spot with 32 points, DCDS posted 12, Edsel Ford 9 and Northville 3.

All three Northville points came from consolation matches in doubles play. In number two seed, Dave Jelso and freshman Keith Dutkiewicz — filling in capably for Jelso's usual partner, Jeff Smith — took an Edsel Ford pair 6-3, 4-6, 6-1. In third seed it was John Huston and Brant Nicholas, who lost first-round competition to DCDS in three sets, beating Ford 6-3, 7-5; and in fourth seed Dirk Nowka and Tim Campbell turned in a hair-raising win over DCDS 2-6, 7-5, 7-6.

"It was a good experience for us, playing that caliber of competition," Norton philosophized. "It should help us against our league opponents."

The Mustangs opened the week on Tuesday with an easy 6-1 win over Brighton in a non-league encounter. In the first seed, it was Arvind Sreedharan topping the Bulldogs' Kevin Strick, 6-3, 6-4. Rich Schohl bested Joe Morley in two sets, 6-2, 7-5; Scott Werdell took Steve Russell 6-3, 6-3 in third seed, and Rick Vach derailed Brighton's Intto Kim 7-5, 6-3.

The Mustangs' only loss came in first-seed doubles, when Bulldogs Tim Boyd and John Rackov defeated Chris Sixt and Omer Anisoglu 6-4, 6-3. But Smith and Jelso combined to beat Brian McLaughlin and Kevin Velk 6-1, 7-5 in second seed, and Nicholas and Huston maintained their strong third-seed record with a 6-3, 6-1 victory over John Long and Dean Tingle to post two more Mustang wins.

The league opener against Farmington last Wednesday proved a little bit rougher going, the outcome of the match still in question with two doubles matches to go. The squads split in singles with Sreedharan and Vach posting wins in first and fourth seeds, respectively, while Shohl and Werdell took their lumps in second and third.

Sreedharan took the Falcons' Drew Chuba 6-1, 6-3, while Vach easily notched wins in two sets 6-0, 6-1. Schohl fell to Rick Freis 0-6, 1-6; and Werdell lost to Mark Duprey 3-6, 4-6.

Fortunately a Mustang sweep in doubles put the match out of the Falcons' reach. Sixt and Anisoglu played the meet's only three-set match, winning easily in the first set 6-0, then floundering 4-6 in the second before regaining their composure in the third to win 6-4.

Impressive in second and third seeds were Jelso and Smith, who took Roger Wolf and Craig Conway 6-3, 6-0 and Nicholas and Huston, who beat Robert Noch and Jim Lyle easily 6-1, 6-0. Nicholas and Huston, in particular, looked sharp with Huston's steady volley game complementing Nicholas' more power-oriented style.

I'm very pleased with the way they've been coming along," Norton observed. "Especially Huston. We may give him a try in singles before long." Only a freshman, Huston is one of several young players Norton hopes to build a strong future program around.

The Mustangs take on division rival Walled Lake Western today and will go against Ypsilanti in a rematch of the season opener, which Northville won easily 6-1.

Mustangs 'play ball' at last, but lose opener

It took eight days, but the Northville varsity baseball team finally got the season opener under its belt last Friday. Unfortunately, Plymouth Canton edged the Mustangs 3-2, jumping on three Northville errors in the sixth inning to score all three runs.

The first game of the season originally had been scheduled for April 14, but rain and even snow delays kept the Mustangs off the diamond and in the gym. The difference in defense — Northville committed three key errors to Canton's zero — may have had something to do with Canton's ability to get in three games before facing the Mustangs.

"Canton's got an excellent defensive team, but you've got to expect a few mistakes in your opening game. But it was their fourth and that's going to be some advantage," Fred Holdsworth explained.

The miscues offset an excellent pitching effort turned in by Mustang hurler Dan Nielson, who yielded only two runs and four hits in five innings with a savvy mix of pitches.

Reliever Tim Ruffing looked extremely sharp also, coming in in the sixth inning with two runners aboard, walking one hitter to load the bases, then fanning three straight Canton batters. In two innings of work, Ruffing yielded no runs and no hits.

But the Canton pitching staff was equally impressive, and despite Northville hitters' ability to get good wood on the ball, often the hits went straight to Chief defenders. The Mustangs connected for only three hits, scoring once in the bottom of the sixth, when senior DH Todd Bartling's single scored outfielder Chris Behen.

A Special Offer... For One Week Only

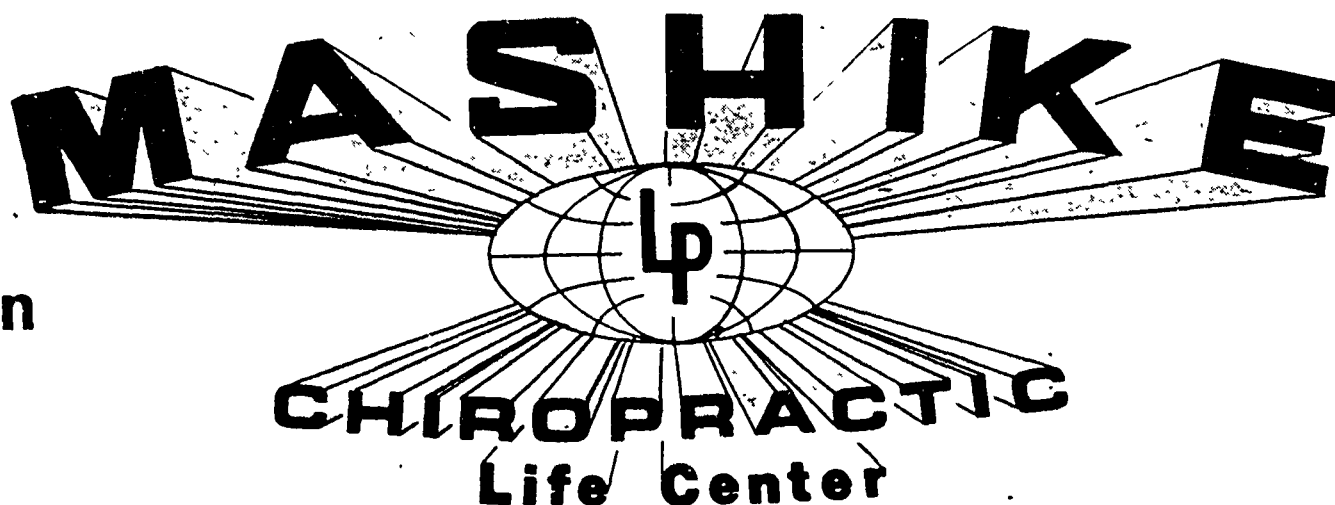

Are you tired of going from doctor to doctor looking for relief, trying to find someone or something to ease your pain and suffering? Have you been told your pain is just in your head and caused by your nerves (but you know it's real)? Why not try chiropractic care.

Chiropractic is the natural health science. Chiropractors realize that when your body suffers from aches, pains and discomforts these symptoms are actually warning signals of your declining health and not the central underlying problem. Chiropractors are "cause doctors" and seek to locate and correct the cause of your health problems and thereby eliminate your symptoms.

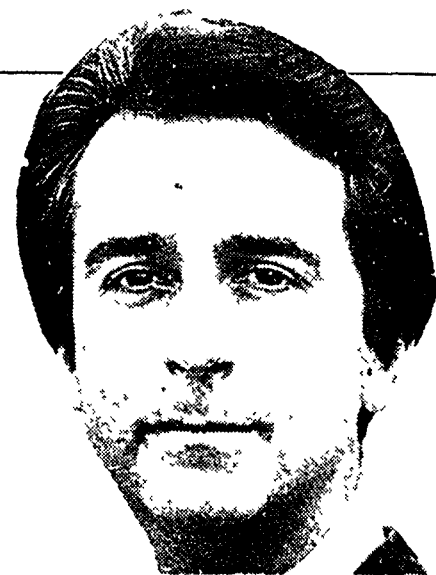

Why be sick when you can be well.

CHECK YOUR POSTURE

Correct posture is attained when your muscles hold your body in balance. To check your posture try this simple test: stand with your back to the wall with head, shoulder blades, calves and heels touching the wall. Place your hands at your sides. Flatten the hollow of the back by pressing the buttocks back against the wall. The space at the back of your waist should not be greater than the thickness of your hand.

Now stand facing the wall with palms of hands on front of thighs. If your chest touches the wall first, your posture is excellent or at least quite good. If your head touches first your posture is only fair. If your abdomen touches first, your posture is poor.

Ask your doctor of chiropractic to tell you how important good posture is to good health. He will explain in detail how bad posture affects the functions of your entire body. More important, he will help you to correct your postural problem.

What Does Good Posture Do For You?

1. Improves appearance and makes clothes fit and look better.
2. Aids in personality development by instilling confidence and pride.
3. Promotes better health since body organs have room to work properly.
4. Makes it easier to work and play since the body is better coordinated and more comfortable.
5. Lessens possibility of accidental injury since the body is in balance.

What Are The Causes of Poor Posture?

1. Poor eyesight.
2. Foot problems or ill-fitting shoes.
3. Weak muscles which cannot hold the body in proper position.
4. Improper nutrition leading to a deficiency in vitamins and minerals.
5. Poor bedding which does not properly support back muscles.
6. Negative physical and mental attitudes.
7. A distortion in the body from failure to develop properly.
8. An injury to muscles, ligaments, tendons or bones.
9. Excessive weight which the body cannot adequately support.
10. Emotional and physical stress.

Children Need Chiropractic

Children need spinal check-ups early in life, for very obvious reasons. In the formative years, little ones are most susceptible and most exposed to the human and natural influences which could affect their health. Preventative maintenance can ward off disease and illness. Children love chiropractic, because it is gentle and effective. No foul-tasting medicines to force down, no painful and dangerous injections. And no financial drains on the parents.

The diseases of children are many and varied, but virtually all of them can be avoided through regular scientific health care service.

WITHOUT PILLS OR DRUGS

Things like leg pains, headaches, fevers, poor appetite, nervousness, nightmares, asthma, ear aches and the like can be cured without pills or drugs by chiropractic care — and, better yet, prevented by chiropractic care and early spinal check-ups.

A very important part of your children's health program should be back-to-school spinal check-ups, usually in the late summer. Your chiropractor can check your children's spines and determine whether there is a problem, and if so, correct it. Spinal check-ups are not only a good physical measure, but can help your children be more mentally alert and therefore better students.

Any activity in which the structure of the human frame is thrown out of normal balance can cause distortion of the spine. Since it is impossible to restrain a child from participating in the numerous normal activities that may cause stress and strain, the correction of faulty body mechanics during the early stages is important. This is why doctors of chiropractic recommend that children have periodic spinal health examinations.

Active children are particularly prone to spinal subluxation because they are energetic, impatient, and have an innocent disregard often for caution. Spinal disorders often are the result of twists, sudden turns, awkward lifts and postural positions, and shocking body contact during play. If not corrected, spinal problems may lead to interference with normal nerve function and body mechanics causing or contributing to severe illness.

MOST POSTURAL FAULTS CAN BE HELPED

You cannot be really physically fit without good posture, for health and efficiency are affected by posture. Poor posture contributes to shallow breathing, a cramped chest cavity, faulty digestion and poor elimination. It often results in lack of energy. Working efficiency is impaired. Employers and teacher, as well as parents, should be constantly on the alert for opportunities to improve the postural environment of those under their supervision. Better and more scientifically designed chairs, better positioning of work materials, a more informative program of postural education... all will contribute to more and better production.

A game of checkers takes a lot of thought and consideration as to which move to make next.

The decision you make may result in winning or losing the game.

Every day you have to make decisions. The wrong move may cause unhappiness to yourself or others.

These are the moves we all have to make for better living conditions, easier work, and fullest enjoyment of our lives.

These are the luxuries we all want and can have if we can afford the price.

But, the greatest luxury we can possess is good health.

In all the activities of life, in everything we do, health is an ever present consideration.

Yet few of us give any thought to the intricate functions of our bodily machinery, or do we realize the importance of the nervous system as a controlling factor.

Every part of your body depends upon the nervous system to produce the power and strength to function properly.

Interference with nerve transmission by a displaced vertebra somewhere in the spinal column causes one or more organs of the body to cease functioning properly.

Good health results from proper regulation of body function in its nervous system. If the organ is not receiving the normal quantity of nerve power inside, it cannot function efficiently.

The important factor in maintaining that healthy, happy feeling is-giving nature an opportunity to heal.

All matter has a breaking point, it can withstand just so much force without breaking down. So it is with the human body. Its component parts can take just so much abuse and no more.

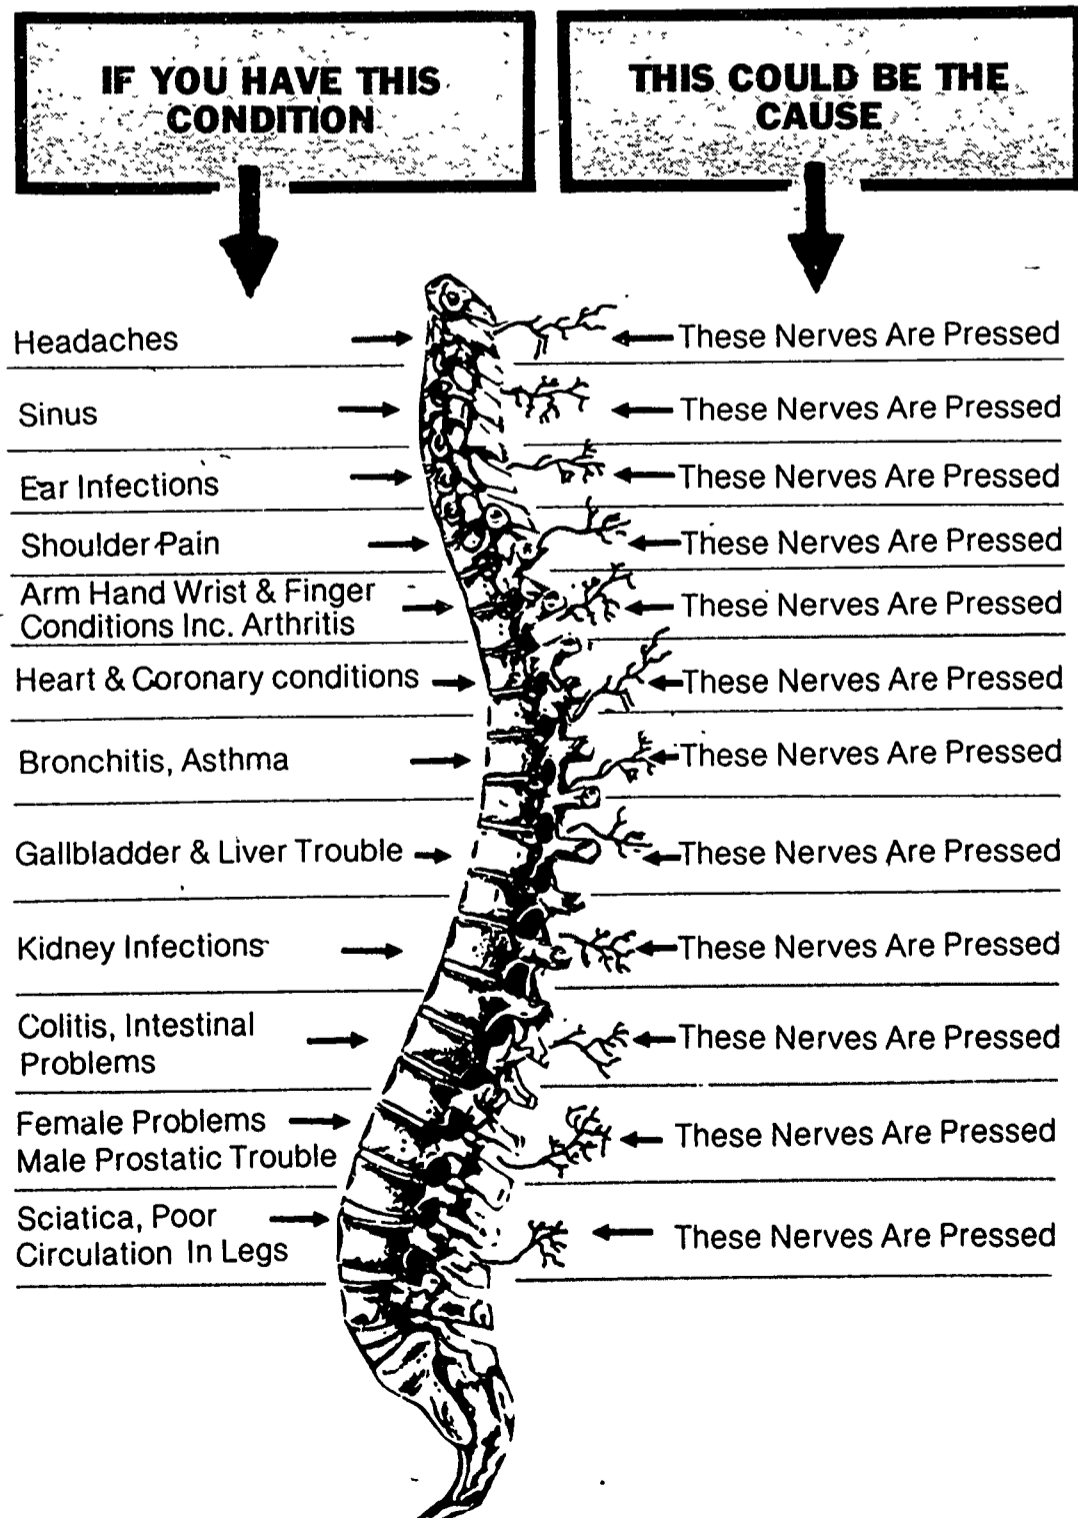

In back of every ailment is a fundamental cause. In the correction of this cause, it is essential to utilize the method which will be most effective.

The chiropractor is specially trained to locate and remove dangerous nerve pressure. He is an expert at correcting displaced vertebra and releasing nerve pressure in the spinal column.

The spinal factor warrants thoughtful consideration, especially if other methods have proven ineffective.

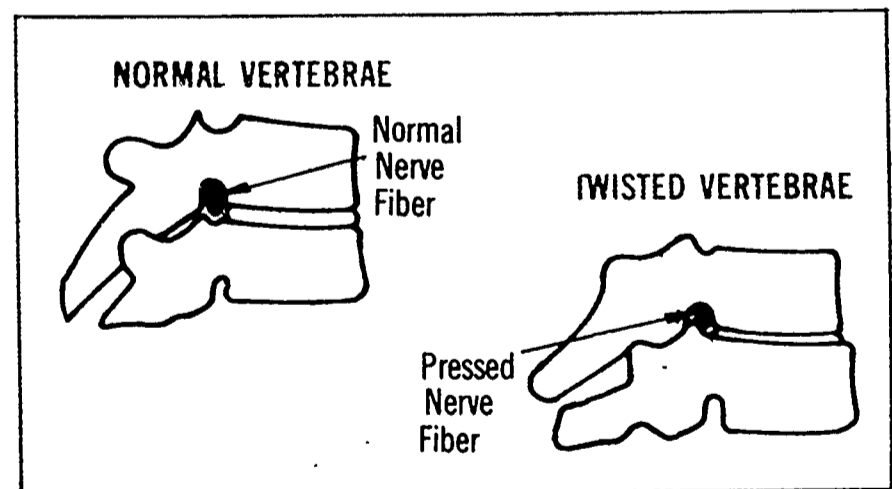

Effects of Spinal Misalignments

If through a fall, jar or bump these vertebrae are knocked out of alignment (picture below right) the vertebrae will press on the nerve existing between them, consequently blocking the flow of nerve impulses, resulting in loss of normal function which leads to sickness as mentioned in the chart at left.

Pain in the spine or neck need not be present to have the cause of your problem there. Symptoms are signs or signals, which are the result of a cause. They need not be located in the same area. For instance, pain and swelling in the hands can be caused by pressed nerves in the base of the neck.

Chiropractors correct these mis-alignments thus allowing the body to function normally again.

If you have any of these problems mentioned above in the chart and want the cause corrected, make an appointment now.

Chiropractic is growing at a fantastic rate. In only 85 years we have become the number one drugless health care provided in the world. Why! Because chiropractic delivers results.
