Monday's stormy weather may have wrught havoc for drivers, golfers and those who forgot umbrais, but for Grant Johnson, left, and Joe Ferry, rainshowers grated the perfect conditions for testing the waters. Johnson al Ferry turned a picnic table into an ark and made their way cross the flooded grounds in Hines Park. The park was a viual swamp after Monday's showers. City picks CEMS, completes plan for regional ambulance

By KEVIN WILSON

The city of Northville will join with the township, Novi and Farmington to contract with Community Emergency Medical Service (CEMS), a subsidiary of Botsford Hospital, in a regional ambulance plan.

Northville City Council voted 4-1, with member J. Burton DeRusha voicing the only dissent, to award the contract to CEMS over Novi Ambulance. The latter firm has supplied emergency medical service here for 11 years.

The action was in line with the recommendation of an ad hoc committee (including representatives of all four communities) report that studied bids. Novi Ambulance was the only other bidder.

Novi Ambulance owner John T. Early, charging that CEMS had undue influence on the committee report and that "the fix was in," said Tuesday morning he was preparing a "multimillion dollar suit against Botsford, CEMS and the Farmington Forum (a newspaper)."

CEMS officials said they are "ready to go" with regional service whenever the communities wish. Northville was the last of the four governments to approve the plan. Township manager David Lelko said he expects a meeting of officials from the four governments to draft a contract with CEMS within two weeks

City council members said their decision to opt for the regional system over continuation with Novi Ambulance, whose bid offered lower ambulance charges, was predicated on two weeks' study of the issue.

"I'm satisfied there were some legitimate reasons the low bid was not the only consideration in the committee recommendation," Mayor Paul Vernon said. "There is, I think, sufficient iustification for some concern about Mr. Early's operation.'

Information presented before council included several letters of complaint about Novi Ambulance, councilmember Paul Folino's outline of Early's contract with Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital, and reports from councilmember Carolann Ayers and city manager Steve Walters regarding other aspects of the operation.

Early and his attorney Allen C. Ingle presented information showing that, although they do not have a mutual aid

Protests lodged against liquor license transfer

Application for approval of a Class C resort liquor license for Genitti's restaurant at 108 East Main drew protests from owners and former owners of other liquor licenses at the city council session Monday night.

Council will not make a decision on the tranfer of a resort license (with a dance permit the applicant "does not want," according to city manager Steve Walters) from Hayes Township in northern Michigan until its next meeting.

But James Rea (Winner's Circle), Bob Getzie (Getzie's Pub) and Bill Boyd (who once owned the license now in use at MacKinnon's Restaurant) all appeared before council Monday to obiect.

Walters explained that the license transfer request is a special situation, in that the license "is one issued before, I think the date is 1954, and is one of those that are transferrable from one

Walters said the city already has one more Class C license than its population would allow because the one used at the bowling alley is also a resort license.

Rea based his objection to the issuance of a license at Genitti's on earlier council comments that bars are undesirable in the central business district

"Sure Mr. Genitti might start out with a nice restaurant, but if he can't make it as a restaurant and there's a liquor license there, what's it going to be then? Another bar in the central business district, which you say you don't want.

"Mr. Genitti has already had four dif-ferent uses in that building — it's been a fruit market, then a meat market, then a lunch room with, whatever it is now, a junkyard? It could very easily turn into another bar.'

Getzie said he would not object to issuance of another license if it went to a of voters at the next regularly scheduled township election and also to any required rezoning. The purchase is to take place in a period not exceeding two years

Noting that the township has been searching for land on which to build a fire station in the west part of the Sownship for five years, Toms strongly recommended the purchase of the property located just west of the Thomson gravel pit entrance.

Planting of hospital barrier hedge under way

Greenrdge Nursery workers began planting perimeter bushes at Northvill Regional Psychiatric Hospital last week in accordance with an agreement between the township and department of mental health.

Barberry bushes along the Seven Mile frontage, with barrier roses around the other three sides of the property are to be supplemented with cycone fencing in heavily-wooded areas where sunlight is insufficient forolants.

The Hdge was approved by DMH as a compromise with township of-ficials and residents who have urged fencing of the facility for years to reduce^kwalkaways."

As DNH officials cautioned when approving the plans, the bushes are smill and appear not to provide a barrier at this point. The type selected are said to grow quickly.

Towiship police routinely report escapes from the hospital exceeding an average of one per day and, in good weather, nearing two per day.

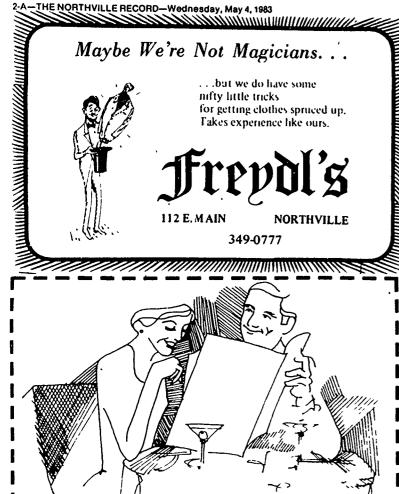

The nedge proposal was approved after discussion between DMH director Patrick Babcock, hospital and township officials and a group of residents from housing developments adjoining the institution grounds nearly two years ago.

DMH and NRPH appropriated funds for the project last year with the intent of beginning planting last fall. After consulting with bidders, however, it was found the young plants might not survive the winter if planted too late in the season and planting was postponed to spring.

The project also includes the installation of a guardhouse structure at the Seven Mile Road main entrance to the hospital grounds. That structure was built last fall and, in conjunction with the hedge, is expected to help hospital security forces monitor more closely the persons arriving and leaving hospital grounds.

agreement with CEMS, Novi Ambulance was called to several Farmington locations in the past week "to cover for CEMS," which changed ambulance companies two weeks ago. They claimed this showed inadequacy of CEMS's ability to serve the region.

CEMS representative Ed Barter, associate administrator at Botsford, said the frequent calls to Novi Ambulance for backup or provision of advanced life support were by arrangement with the city of Farmington as an interim measure.

"If we had the regional concept in place already, we could have backed ourselves up with Northville or Novi units," Barter said. "This is really a confirmation of the regional concept.

"As it stands now, we have an agree-ment with Farmington that CEMS sends a basic unit and if an ALS unit is needed the city calls Novi Ambulance. In every case (cited by Ingle) our unit was on the scene first and was the primary responder."

Ayers reported that she had discussed Novi Ambulance with administrators of Providence Hospital's Novi Center and found that while "there were no complaints about the medical care provided by the paramedics, they did have problems with the administration of the company.'

Early said Tuesday that Providence Hospital had "been trying to buy me out for a year and one-half now and I won't sell; so yes, they have a problem with me.

Walters said a township survey of the ambulance quarters which city and township jointly provide in vacated Wayne County Child Development Center buildings showed Novi Am-bulance had not located a vehicle there in accordance with the present contract.

- But Lelko said Tuesday the township 'has not monitored it (use of the facility) in more than a year. We did monitor for a few days maybe a year and a half tinued. "It ji seems to me we have ago, but activity picked up and there received a svice over a period of didn't seem to be a problem since then.

Early said there may be no vehicle in quarters for long periods on days when there are frequent calls, particularly at the state hospital. "All their runs go to Ann Arbor and if we have five or six in a day, the car's on the road all day. We've followed the contract and backed it up with the Novi unit when the Northville one is on the road."

Folino said his discussion with Northville State Hospital administrators revealed that Novi Ambulance's contract with the institution expires September 30 and that the hospital will bid out the service at that time.

Last year, Folino said, the hospital paid Early $123,000 for an average of two to three ambulance runs per day.

The combination of the low rates in cluded in the Novi Ambulance bid and the possibility that the hospital contract may be lost to another bidder this fall led to council speculation that Novi Ambulance might not survive as a business by the end of the year.

"The rates in the bid," Vernon said, "were predicated on serving the entire region. Farmington and Novi will go with CEMS. We could very easily, come October, if Mr. Early serves only Northville and loses the hospital, find ourselves contracting with a bankrupt ambulance company. At the very least, it raises a question about his ability to continue a level of service

"An ambulance service simply cannot survive with those rates in only one or two communities," he concluded.

DeRusha argued that "if we assume he (Early) is pricing himself out of business, we do ourselves a disservice and would do him a disservice. We do a disservice to the idea that the bid process is how we establish what is a fair price.

"If he were a new company coming in here, I could see the argument (that the bid was too low). I would say, 'yes, he's thrown out a low bid that he will have problems living up to," DeRusha con-

While stay with Novi Ambulance 'could backfi' DeRusha said, referring to the baruptcy scenario painted by Vernon, i we're attractive (to other compans) to serve now, I maintain we'll ba ractive in the future to serve."

Early argu that 80 percent of the runs made inhe past year were in response to caoriginating for sources dispatchers -hich are the only ones the contracts ect.

"The ad hoc committee report estimates that the four communities will generate, from the emergency dispatch, 2.6 calls per day," Early said. 'Say three calls a day, times 30, is 90 calls a month. We've been averaging 325 to 350 runs a month. The contracts are not the only thing I'm counting on support myself."

Ayers, the council representative to the ad hoc committee, moved acceptance of the committee recommendation. Folino seconded. Ayers and councilmember Dewey Gardner cited advantages in the regional concept, referother than theommunity emergency rring to backup provisions and creation of a joint committee to oversee, and review the service.

Parking lot expansion for Charley's approved

Charley's restaurant, 41122 Seven Mile Road, has received approval by township officials to expand its parking lot despite claims by owners of a neighboring business the stormwater runoff from the lot already runs onto their property against their wishes. At its regular meeting last week Tuesday, the Northville Township Planning Commission unanimously approv-ed the parking lot expansion after hearing a report from consulting engineer Edward McNeely explaining his reasons for changing his recommendation from disapproval to approval.

Approval of the expansion originally had been expected at the commission's March meeting, but members voted to table consideration until McNeely could attend to discuss personally why he now favored the plan.

At last week's meeting, McNeely said that he had discussed water retention and flow plans with Muer, township supervisor John MacDonald and the owners of an affected neighboring business, Nichols Realty, Inc.

When plans for the expansion were first brought to the township's attention in 1981, McNeely informed the commission that easement for additional drainage onto property of Nichols Realty would be necessary unless drainage problems were otherwise resolved.

Among the requirements was a system of drainage that would not increase the amount of flow onto Nichols' property which has previously been agreed to since 1947. Stormwater now flows - and should continue to flow to a county-administered storm drain ditch along Seven Mile Road.

"Our conclusion," McNeely told commissioners at last week's meeting, "is that the Muer corporation has done those things the township has re-

> The re-routing of proposed drainage obviates the need for obtaining an easement from Nichols, he claimed.

Although nobody was at last week's meeting representing Nichols, a February letter from Neil and Annie Nichols to commissioners had asked them to require a more permanent solution to drainage problems, preferably installation of a drain on the parking lot grounds.

Citing numerous problems the restaurant has caused the Nichols' realestate business, including restaurant debris left on the Nichols' property, Northville Charley's customers and employees blocking Nichols' private parking areas, and problems of snow being plowed onto the Nichols' property, the Nichols' requested the commission to reject the proposed water flow plan.

McNeely said that the township board was inviting legal challenges if the expansion were not approved, and that county authorities be responsible in any future court action. "It appears," McNeely stated in a recent report to the commission, "that future problems which may arise will have to be handled at that time and in a forum other than at the township level."

The planning commission did impose one other requirement for final ap-proval of the site plan — effective shielding for light fixtures on the some 38,000 square feet of planned parking area. Engineering consultant William Lincoln called the screening a "minor item.'

Each deed is stated as a land sale with the purchase price of one dollar.

Council referred the documents to its legal counsel for confirmation that both city and county agree on the legal descriptions of the parcels and authorized city administrators to complete the transfer on those conditions.

Township confirms sewer participation

Agreeing that Northville Township has "very little choice" regarding par-ticipation in the Huron Valley Wastewater Project, Northville Township trustees unanimously adopted resolutions to participate in the ewer system and provide for its financing at a special meeting last Thursday

The board acted after hearing a report by township engineer Jack McNeely who told members that the township, like most of the 16 others in the project, is under the gun. "The DNR (Department of Natural Resources) is saying if we can't get our act together, it will take the money (grants) and we

MacDonald stated that costs will be high at the onset but will go down with added use. "We can argue all day MacDonald commented on the long." cost apportionment, "but our primary objective is to have a sewer, and, as far as I'm concerned, the time is now.'

He explained that once the system is in place operational charges will have to be paid by users.

Clerk Susan Heintz, also pointed to the fact that "the state has said you must do something and prove you are doing something" as she indicated the township has little choice.

MacDonald added that the DNR has threatened to stop construction in the which all 17 participating communities township unless the project is approvcapacity. McNeely told the board that some weight is being given to the institutions located in the township.

In the chart developed by Duane R. Egeland, deputy managing directordirector of of engineering for Wayne County Public Works Department, the township's phase one share of the estimated total construction cost without financing costs is listed at $1,159,123. Total estimated cost at the end of phase three is $5,284,315. Schedule of obligation with financing costs totals Northville Township out at $6,548,523 with total cost of the entire systems listed at $59,496,833.

The service area begins north of Northville Township in Oakland County with Commerce Township and the cities of Wixom and Novi.

Included in Wayne County in addition to Northville Township are townships of Plymouth, Canton, VanBuren, part of the City of Romulus, Huron Township. cities of Flat Rock and Rockwood, part of Brownstown Township, cities of Woodhaven and Gibraltar. support proposals to construct the socalled super sewer, even though the system will no longer serve the city.

City council determined April 25 it is in the city's best interests to support the Huron Valley sewer project even though city sewage will not be routed to the proposed Brownstown treatment plant.

Consulting engineer Edward McNeely told council the state Department of Vatural Resources has determined Northville has sufficient capacity in the Rouge Valley system carrying sewage to a Detroit treatment plant.

'There will probably be some kind of diverter put in the system somewhere to continue flows to Detroit," McNeely said. "It is likely a diverter will be built at Wilcox Road (in Plymouth) and direct the current level of flow to Detroit while allowing future additional flows to go into the Huron Valley ystem.

McNeely told council it is still to the city's advantage to support the multimillion dollar super sewer program in order to insure return of funds paid to support planning of the system.

Approval of the project also insures construction of a relief sewer through Northville Township that is essential to future growth in both the city and in Novi, McNeely added.

The DNR is saying that, if there is to Huron Valley system there will be no building in all except two of the 17 communities involved," McNeely explained. "They're talking about a building ban that would include Northville and Novi.'

Northville Township, which would receive service through the Huron Valley system, also approved a resolution of support for the project. Costs of the system to the township are projected at more than $6 million.

The city stands to receive a refund of money it has paid in the past to help pay for planning and engineering phases of the project.

Mayor Paul Vernon told coun-cilmembers the city of Northville is viewed among county officials as a leader in efforts to have the super sewer project started.

Although city sewage will technically be routed to Detroit, the city system will benefit from construction of the relief interceptor through Northville Township as part of first phase Huron Valley system construction.

Novi sewage flows also run through the city, and portions of the Huron Valley project will also relieve some of the load on these links in the present system.

Construction of the Huron Valley system is projected by roughly 1987, with the first phase (including the much-needed relief intereceptor near the Rouge River between Seven and Five Mile Roads) to begin within one protection for today s econi Paul Folino 430 N. Center Northville 349-1189

Jane Field named a Truman scholar

A 1981 Northville High School graduate has been selected one of two 1983 Truman Scholars from Michigan

Jane Field, daughter of David and Delores Field of 43558 Six Mile, is one of 101 college students throughout the country chosen for the prestigious honor.

Field, a sophomore at Kalamazoo College, will receive an annual maximum stipend of $5,000 per year for the last two years of college and two years of graduate study.

Scholarships were granted to promising students who have demonstrated a firm commitment to a career in public service at the federal, state or local levels.

Field, who was among the valedictorians in the NHS Class of '81, is the third Kalamazoo College student to be selected as a Truman Scholar.

She currently is participating in the college's Career Development Program as an intern at the L. Lee Stryker Center for Management Studies and Educational Services, located at Kalamazoo College.

Her internship entails developing a computerized directory of Kalamazoo County organizations and agencies working to improve the quality of life, such as governmental and human service agencies, service clubs and other private organizations. Field also assists with ongoing Stryker Center projects, including the Core Council of Governments, the Kalamazoo Forum (a non-partisan and nonpolitical organization which helps local residents identify and deal with area-wide problems and opportunities), as well as business and management courses and seminars.

An economics major with concentrations in public policy and international commerce, Field expects to pursue graduate studies and a career in an area of public service related to international affairs.

Field's on-campus activities include the student newspaper, Women's Interest Group and Bread for the World. She also performs with the Kalamazoo College Singers and the chapel choir.

A total of 936 nominations were received for the scholarships. Regional Review Panels composed of leading civic, business and academic leaders screened and reviewed the nominations, interviewed candidates and submitted their recommendations to the board of trustees.

Scholars were selected after an intensive six-month search throughout the United States.

Field will attend an awards ceremony for the newly named Truman Scholars at the Harry S. Truman Presidential Library in Independence, Missouri, May 8. Margaret Truman Daniel, the late President's daughter, will present the scholarships to the recipients at the ceremony.

Additionally, Milligan informed Lewiston that the

"It seems a reasonable request as both your neighbors have done a remarkable job in cleaning up the surrounding properties," Milligan wrote. "I will allow you until April 29 to demolish and remove those buildings. If you have not complied by that time, legal proceedings will commence.'

Unable to reach Lewiston since the deadline passed last Friday, Milligan yesterday morning turned the case over to township attorney Nels Carlson of Kerr, Wattles and Russell. Unless Lewiston responds to legal proceedings by contacting township officials - as Milligan anticipates - Carlson will seek a "show cause" order from Lewiston.

If the matter is yet unresolved, Milligan said he is uncertain exactly how the township would go about remedying the situation. But in other Michigan communities, often the procedure is for the local government to approve awarding a contract to a demolition firm to tear down the building, then adding the cost to the property owner's tax assessment.

Tornado Siren's to be heeded hear "what to do" instructions it seems they apply to someone else until the situation becomes a firsthand one. The severe storm, the tornado alert - and then the warning signal - Monday are a case in point.

Perhaps because this is just the onset of tornado weather in Michigan, many of us did not know the meaning of the city-operated sirens heard in both the city and the township. Both reported receiving calls from anxious residents.

Severe weather procedures are explicit: a tornado watch is is in effect when conditions are favorable for development of tornadoes. When conditions are threatening, residents should listen to Detroit area radio or television stations for latest weather bulletins.

THE TORNADO WARNING IS ISSUED WHEN A CONFIRMED TORNADO SIGHTING HAS BEEN RECEIVED — TAKE COVER IM-MEDIATELY.

The warning to take cover is a THREE-MINUTE SIREN. It is a steady blast. The all clear is a oneminute siren, one minute of silence and another one-minute siren.

Generally, local police and firefighters advise, tornadoes move from southwest to northeast. However, they are known to come from all directions.

To take cover, residents are advised to go to a basement and to get under stairs or heavy furniture. The object, safety experts say, is to get as low as possible and in as small area as possible. Protect your head with arms, clothing, helmet — anything to protect from blows to the head. In buildings with no basement, it is advisable to move to small, interior rooms or

No matter how many times we hallways on the ground floor. Bathrooms are considered a good choice because plumbing strengthens walls. Under a desk with arms covering the head also is suggested.

> Because most tornado deaths are the result of head injuries, the emphasis is on PROTECTING YOUR HEAD.

In schools, nursing homes, hospitals, factories and shopping centers people are advised to go to designated shelter areas. Interior hallways on the lowest floor usually are best. In high-rise buildings, interior small rooms or hallways are considered best protection.

In the City of Northville, when a warning siren is given, the fire department also is notified and a squad called in. That's what was happening Monday. While the siren still was sounding, fire vehicles were approaching the fire station at city hall. There watches were posted to observe any funnel clouds that might appear. Procedure also is to notify schools, the Ford factory and the racetrack (when they are open) of the situation.

Had a funnel been sighted, and if it appeared likely to hit a local area, residents would be notified by police. Pamphlets with additional weather information is available at the city police department.

In general, residents are advised to avoid large clear-span rooms, north-south halls (EAST-WEST are better), and when outdoors to seek the LOWEST PLACE, such as a ditch or depression in the ground to lie flat in and cover the head. In an automobile, stop the vehicle and seek a ditch. Do not attempt to outrun a funnel cloud. Remember, tornadoes can travel at speeds exceeding 70 miles an hour.

I may have time on my hands

If only I had more time. That's one of my more constant utterances. Last weekend I wanted more time — to read the New York Times as well as a local paper - to critique high school journalism papers I had been requested to read - to do some shopping - and to rearrange the cupboard.

The remarkable thing — and the reason I am writing about it — is that I think I'm going to be able to do some of these things. Serious things like concentrate on newspaper design. Frivolous things like putting polish on my nails for a change. I'm learning some fundamentals of time management.

It's not more time that most of us need but more control over the 168 hours a week that we all have. I learned in a time management session last week. It seems too simple, but there are techniques that do work. One of the basics is to ask yourself, "What is the best use of my time RIGHT NOW?"

That can be determined with a daily to-do list. Everything on the list then is given a priority -A or C. "B" things should become less important "C"s or critical "A"s. The A items then should be prioritized. Then - and this is the secret for me — start with the most important and STAY WITH IT UNTIL IT IS COMPLETED.

That means that when I have a 10-minute segment of time I do NOT use that time to complete a non-critical "C" type item like filing pictures — even though the time exactly fits the task. (Such tasks should be handled another way, through proper delegation. That's another technique related to time saving.) At home, I do not clear the coffee table; I iron another shirt or keep on planting the garden, whichever is the weekend's top priority.

About Town

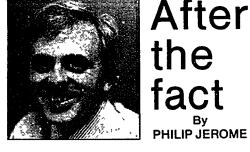

By sticking with the important task, even though it can't be completed in the 10 minutes available, I am on my way to finishing a needed story. Believe me, some stories are easier to write than others. Also, I think most of us find they are easier to write if we get to them as soon after the meeting or interview as possible.

Procrastination is a special problem for most newspaper people. I remember the late Doc Greene at the Detroit News as the best sports writer I ever knew. Even a non-sports person like myself read his column just because it was so beautifully written. He had the problems of proscrastination coupled with some others that necessitated the newspaper's assigning someone just to try to get him back to the office and his typewriter by deadline. When a writer can describe the sensation of flying into New York in a helicopter and viewing the tall buildings surrounding him as tall crates and cartons, he is allowed the proscratination. Most of us aren't.

Besides the "do it now" advice, I am finding some other time-saving techniques work. For instance, a great rule is "handle a piece of paper only once." It goes in the waste basket sooner now. That particularly applies to all the "junk mail" I receive at home. I have learned I am not going to take that exercise course somewhere, nor am going to drive miles to save a couple of dollars on a 'bargain.'

When the task seems overwhelming, I'm going to use the "Swiss Cheese" technique. I'm going to "poke holes in it" until its done. Best of all, as I look ahead, as advised, my life in the next six months looks very appealing. I'm going to cram a lot of important things into those 168 hours a week. Here's to time management.

By Steve Fecht

Bob and Carol and John and Joyce and Bill and Beverly and Ed and Yvonne had better look out. This is going to be my year.

Bob and Carol and John and Joyce, et. al. just happen to be my neighbors. They're good people, too. Couldn't ask for a nicer neighbors.

They're tootin' top rate music

Northville High School's Jazz director Michael Rumbell, whose and Wind Ensembles certainly have something to toot their horns' about.

The two bands recently took first division ratings in separate state competitions — placing them among the highest ranked high school bands in the state.

It is the first time in more than a decade that the Northville High School bands have earned a first division rating. Anyone who has heard the sounds of these talented musicians can attest to the fact that such an honor is long overdue.

Much of the credit for the success of these ensembles goes to guidance and direction has molded these students into first-rate musicians.

On May 19, both the Wind Ensemble and Jazz Band will attend the National Heritage Festival of Music at Shenandoah College and Conservatory of Music in Winchester, Virginia. While on tour, the students also will make concert appearances on the steps of the United States Capitol building and at the Jefferson Memorial.

From the sound of it, it appears Northville will be well represented in the music festival. We wish them the best of luck and our hearty congratulations.

Best of friends

ut they'd still better look out. It's still going to be my year.

What I'm talking about is my lawn. We're the newcomers in my neighborhood; only been there eight years. But it wasn't long after we moved in that I noticed their lawns looked a lot nicer than mine. Less crab grass ... fewer dandelions ... just an overall greener quality to their grass.

Well, it's been a long process, but I figure my time has finally arrived. Lordie knows it hasn't been easy. Frustrated with the weeds, I started hiring a lawn spraying outfit three years ago and it has worked wonders. No more crab grass, no more thistles and no more dandelions in my yard.

Nobody admits it, but I've got a hunch we all keep an eye on each other's yards. I believe this to be true because a couple of years ago I noticed my grass was always longer than everyone else's. Then I figured out why: They'd always wait till I got down mowing before they started mowing. If I mowed Thursday morning, they'd mow Thursday afternoon. If I'd mow Saturday night, they'd mow Sunday morning. Very insidious.

And there are other touches, too. Bill and Beverly's split-rail fence, John and Joyce's Russian olive trees, Bob and Carol's little sculptured gardens, and Ed and Yvonne's professional cross-cut mowing techniques. Oh, yes, I've seen them all. But they don't count.

What we're talking about here is the lawn. And this year my lawn is going to be Numero Uno. The crab grass is gone, I have a new lawn tractor with specially-made Gillette blades and my new grasscatcher is the envy of the neighborhood - even though they won't admit it.

Already my grass is looking greener than everyone else's. And wait till the forsythia and flowering crab start blooming. It's definitely going to be my year. Now if I only had some Russian olives and a split-rail fence.

Writer questions timing of Field Day for community

To the Editor:

In recent weeks I've heard many comments and conflicting ideas regar-ding the proposed Field Day for July 3rd. The idea is an excellent one, but the timing appears to be questionable.

First of all, how well attended will the event be on July 3rd with many people out-of-town for the holiday weekend?

Also, will some of the groups and clubs be preparing for the parade on July Fourth by putting the finishing touches on floats or practicing their marching routines? Will church commitments exclude others from helping as some city council members have mentioned?

Also, as mentioned earlier in The Record, if it rains, the rain date for this project is July Fourth. Now really! This would be a direct conflict with the Jaycee-sponsored parade and barbecue, the historical societysponsored flea market and auction, and all the other activities that take place on July Fourth.

Maybe chairman Liz McCarville and the recreation department would be better advised to consider moving the Field Day to a non-holiday weekend and hold it on a Saturday with a Sunday rain date.

I've heard comments and questions about the events to be held. Are there going to be races or heats with the winners to participate in a final or are there strictly going to be individual tim-ings with the fastest being the winner? On the Fourth there will only be the field events, no booths permitted.

We've heard a lot of talk and seen a lot printed about this event. It appears right now that the community needs to know what is being planned; what they need to do, and the recreation department needs to examine the timing and dates for this project.

This is a very worthwhile project with a lot of backing. Let's see the planning and direction that's necessary to bring this project to a successful completion.

Sale of Aid Alarms benefits firefighters

To the Editor:

At this time I would like to let the citizens of the community know what a new business is doing to help the Northville Fire Department, which to my knowledge no other business has done. There are many pieces of equipment needed by our fire department, but with the state of the economy and budget cuts not all the needs can be met. One very necessary item is a special air compressor which fills the firemen's air packs (tanks) with filtered air. These tanks are what the men wear on their backs and enable them to breathe pure air while going into smoke-filled buildings, either to rescue victims or to fight the fire more quickly.

Through the kindness and generousity of R. Strauss, president of Prestige House, our fire department will benefit from the sale of every Personal First Aid Alarm.

Program directors Stephen Strauch, \ retired fire department lieutenant, and his wife Gert, along with co-director Barb Apel, have set a goal of $8,000 for the fire department to purchase a new compressor.

Arrangements have been made to sell the alarm for 12 - well below retail cost and, for every alarm sold, the fire department will receive $1.50.

Personal First Aid Alarm has a powerful screech, which can summon help for someone in need to alert the family at night in case of fire or other emergency.

The small size (41/2 by 11/2 inches) makes the alarm/flashlight ideal to slip into purse or pocket as extra security for women out alone at night. The alarms will be available at the City Garage Sale as well as at Prestige Concerned citizen House, 341 East Main.

Township buys road dust chemical

While last weekend's rains may have taken care of road dust complaints temporarily, township officials looked ahead to summer dust problems and approved purchase of 175 tons of magnesium calcium chloride liquor application for unpaved roads in the township.

At a special meeting last Thursday trustees unanimously okayed the quota-tion from Wayne County Road Commission for the application by the county of the magnesium calcium chloride liquor, at the rate of $52.09 per ton, for a total cost of $9115.75.

While Gerald H. Dresselhouse, county road maintenance engineer, estimated the township would need 160 tons, Walter Holinoty, head of the township sewer and water department, calculated the township's 16.8 miles of gravel roads would need the 175 tons at the rate of 1,730 gallons per mile.

He also recommended the application be started in June, rather than the last two weeks of July, as usually has been done.

The price approved was the low bid to the county from Bay Dust Control Division of Liquid Calcium Chloride Sales, Incorporated. It included furnishing and continuously applying the dust deterrent on the gravel streets and roads to county pressure specifications. Business manager David Lelko told the board the county has just scrapped the township roads.

Lelko reported he has met with the new township beautification commission and, beginning last Monday, a Phoenix correctional facility resident will be working on the township grounds. Annuals are to be planted along the entrance driveway, he said.

Lelko also told trustees that he will have a report this month on the joint ambulance agreement with Farmington, Novi and the City of Northville. He said Community service had been agreed upon by all but the city, which is preparing its own report for consideration of the council.

Automobile Specialty Company production line will turn out 10,000 cars this year

Gilding the Lincolns

By LEANNE ROGERS

A dream car — long body, plush seats, a cloth half-roof and electronically-operated moonroof.

If you are driving a Ford Lincoln Continental or Mark VI, chances are those last two options were installed by the Automobile Specialty Company, located on Beck Road in Wixom.

The facility was opened in 1974, according to the company's president and general manager Karl Knoth. "We move about 10,000 cars through this facility in a year," he said. "We located in Wixom to be close to the Ford Assembly plant. We should be as close as possible to the company we are doing work for to save transportation costs."

Automobile Specialty is a division of ASC, Inc., which was formed in 1965 in California. The company expanded to Michigan in 1968 and has a number of facilities across the country.

"This is a multi-division company. We work in sunroofs, customizing and auto parts manufacturing," said Knoth, a Nor'We are looking at different products. We don't want to be considered (only) a luxury car business.'

thville resident. "We were one of the first customizers in the country. We were certainly the first to bring electric sunroofs in this country."

Other divisions of the company build convertibles for General Motors, limousines for Chrysler and various roof treatments for cars.

In Wixom, the company works specializing Ford's line of large luxury cars. Carriage roofs, simulated convertible roofs and electronically operated moonroofs are the primary additions made to the cars. The majority of the firm's business comes from orders through the Ford Assembly plant rather than direct orders from customers or dealers, said acting plant manager Don Teets.

The special order cars are sent to the Automobile Specialty plant and work can be completed within four to six hours of the vehicle reaching the production line, according to Knoth. There is not a long waiting period for the specialty work, he added, since the cars are returned to the factory within one week.

"We use a woven fiber on the roofs, not vinyl. It was originally used by Mercedes Benz and we brought it over," he said. "It's actually woven and treated to be water repellent."

A smoother, more sophisticated look is added to the car with the half-fiber or simulated convertible roofs, Teets said, but there is also a practical benefit.

The tops are manufactured at the factory including a heating process to remove wrinkles and stretch the covering.

Malpractice crisis feared

Michigan physicians are more philosophical today about medical malpractice issues, but remain incensed over frivolous, unfounded lawsuits that increase health costs and threaten a new malpractice crisis

That's the theme that surfaced from a series of physician meetings in Detroit, Grosse Pointe, Lan-sing, Grand Rapids, Bloomfield Hills and Southfield recently.

Nearly 200 doctors attended the meetings, sponsored by Physicians Insurance Company of Michigan (PICOM). Many who attended are top specialists in their field. Discussions focused on new trends affecting professional liability and legal defenses against non-meritorious lawsuits. Views that surfaced:

• Sympathy and theatrics play too great a role in courtroom decisions.

 Big financial jury awards produce a ripple effect throughout the economy and ultimately costs are passed along to the public.

Standard of care should be the priority consideration in determining whether malpractice is involved

Certain lawyers proclaim unrealistic or idealized standards of care - and those attorneys have no basis for defining medical standards.

• It costs a plaintiff only about $40 to file a malpractice claim and the legal system does nothing to prevent the filing of frivolous lawsuits.

· Doctors and insurance company that settle frivolous claims out of court make it profitable to file such claims and encourage more of them, adding further to the public's cost.

· Hospitals that require doctors to carry highcollar liability insurance to practice at those hospitals are fattening the kitty for potential settlements and awards and are providing additional incentives for filing frivolous claims.

Dr. Arthur Eisenbrey, a Detroit neurosurgon and chairman of PICOM's board of directors, participated in some of the meetings with doctors.

'An insurance company's in business to insure legitimate risks and to pay on legitimate claims," said Eisenbrey. "There's something seriously wrong with a system that invites frivolous lawsuits - and even rewards them with financial gain. And it's the public that eventually pays the cost."

Eisenbrey said PICOM's physician-controlled board has taken a stand against non-meritorious lawsuits. "We believe in a strong defense philosophy against nuisance claims that are filed in hopes of getting a financial settlement," he said.

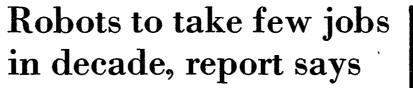

Our patients, companies that purchase health benefits for workers and the public generally already pay well for health and medical services. Payouts for frivolous claims and excessive, sympathy-based jury awards add to the public cost

"We can't afford another malpractice crisis fueled by frivolous lawsuits, unwarranted settlements and excessive financial awards.'

He said doctors are less amazed by frivolous lawsuits since they're more aware of how the system works. "Some patients and some attorneys are fishing for settlement money," he said. "That's unfortunate - and costly if they get away with it."

anticipated, nor be as devastating as feared in the American workplace, say the authors of a new study released by the W.E. Upjohn Institute of Employment Research.

Current hyperbole is countered with a reasoned analysis of the job displacement and creation potential of industrial robots in the U.S. and the state of Michigan by 1990 in The Human Resource Implications of Robotics by H. Allan Hunt and Timothy L. Hunt.

The authors are senior research economists at the Upjohn Institute, a non-profit organization established in 1945 as an activity of the W.E. Upjohn Unemployment Trustee Corporation. The latter was formed in 1932 to administer a fnd set aside by the late Dr. W.E. Upjohn to "research into the causes and effects of unemployment and measures for the alleviation of unemployment."

The authors contend the introduction of industrial robots is simply a stage in the long history of automating production and that the effects will be evolutionary rather than revolutionary.

"There are physical, financial and human constraints on the rate of change in manufacturing process technology as it is actually applied," they write. The study suggests that current tity discounts offered.

Two conduct chamber programs

Three financial experts will present the May Council on Small Enterprises Seminar for the Oakland County Chamber of Commerce.

Greg Kelley, president and founder of Multi-Financial Services; Julius Giarmarco, tax attorney with Giarmarco for a $5 fee, non-members for $10, inand Marzella, P.C.; and James cluding a continental breakfast. Kirkland, specialist in estate and business planning and president of Diversified Professional Consultants, will present the May 17 program.

Robots will not arrive as rapidly as perceptions of robot population, nticipated, nor be as devastating as employment and potential human unemployment as a result have been vastly exaggerated.

"Futurists and others compete for media attention with wild projections of the impact of robotics — 800,000 people making robtos, 1.5 million technicians maintaining robots, millions of workers displaced - with little or no consideration of the practical matters involved." The study supports a forecast putting the 1990 U.S. robot population between 50,000 and 100,000 units, representing annual growth of 30 to 40 percent. From this, it is estimted 100,000 to 200,000 jobs would be eliminated directly and 32,000 to 64,000 new jobs created.

The authors assert the projected robot population "will not support cataclysmic employment impacts, either in terms of job creation or job displacement." The jobs eliminated are semi-skilled while the jobs created require significant technical background. Any increase in unemployment is likely to be felt by new labor market entrants, by the less-educated and the less-experienced part of the labor force. The book may ordered from the W.E. Examine computer costs before purchase, say CPAs

Those personal computers that fit on a desk top are part of an electronics revolution sweeping into the 1980s much as television swept into the 1950s. Other parts of the electronic revolution are video game units, cable television systems, videotape recorders, and special cable or computer information services.

All told, new electronic technology is changing the way people work, communicate and spend their leisure time and money, notes the Michigan Association of CPAs. Michigan manufacturing facilities decline

The decline in Michigan manufacturing facilities is bot-toming out, according to publishers of the 1983 Michigan Manufacturers Directory.

Statewide, there are currently 14,762 manufacturing plants, just 22 more than at the end of 1977. Declines of 290 and 289 plants were registered in 1981 and 1982.

Wayne County's 3,168 manufacturing plants continue to lead the state, though it lost 57 plants in 1982. Second was Oakland County with 2,376 manufacturing plants, a 0.3 percent increase over 1981.

Macomb County made the biggest gains, picking up 73 facilities in 1982. Third overall with 1,745 plants, Macorhb's gain helped reduce the loss experienced by the top 15 counties to 58 percent year-ago levels.

Computer advises investors at Comerica offices

Comerica Banks is using personal computers available for walk-up use in 69 Detroit area branch offices to explain investment options to customers.

Comerica last week installed a new program explaining the advantages of Stable Earnings Term (SET) Savings Plans, after a four-week program showed 700 customers used the in-branch computers to learn about IRAs.

Stable Earnings Term Plans are one, three or six-month fixed money market rate savings plans which can be used to diversify the customers savings portfolio and protect it against falling interest rates. No experience with computers is needed to use the program — it leads the user through the investment decision-making process by: — Asking customers questions about their immediate cash needs; - Using graphs to compare SET deposut rates to rates paid on liquid investments like money market deposit accounts and money market funds over the past six months;

Listing current SET rates.

"So much attention has been focused on the new money market deposit accounts over the past few months that many customers have forgotten about medium-term savings plans," stated Mark Woods, assitant vice president, Consumer Financial Services.

"We've found computers like this are a very effective and interesting way for consumers to learn about investment options. And unlike brochures or other literature, the consumer can get answers that apply to his personal circumstances.'

SET plans require $2,500 minimum deposits (the same as money market deposit accounts) and currently pay 34 percent higher interest. A substantial penalty is incurred for withdrawals prior to maturity.

"It isn't the only car we get orders on but the blue is very big this year," said Teets. "The designer cars like the Pucci or Bill Blass are popular, too." The suggested retail price on a specialized Bill Blass Lincoln was $25,920. The factory charge for the half top and moon roofs reach about $2,000. "We don't receive that much," Knoth added. A vehicle being exported to New Foundland, Canada had a $34,469 sticker price.

Teets said.

He noted the plant has a Fordapproved paint shop not currently being used by the firm.

The poor economy, high gas prices and integration of some processes by the Ford Motor Company have had an impact on the Wixom division, according to Knoth.

"We used to build propane cars here until Ford started doing it themselves," said Knoth, pointing to stacks of propane tanks unused at the facility. "Our future is unclear. There is more talk of integration.'

• Reflections on Mother's Day

This Sunday, mother will have her long-awaited day of celebration.

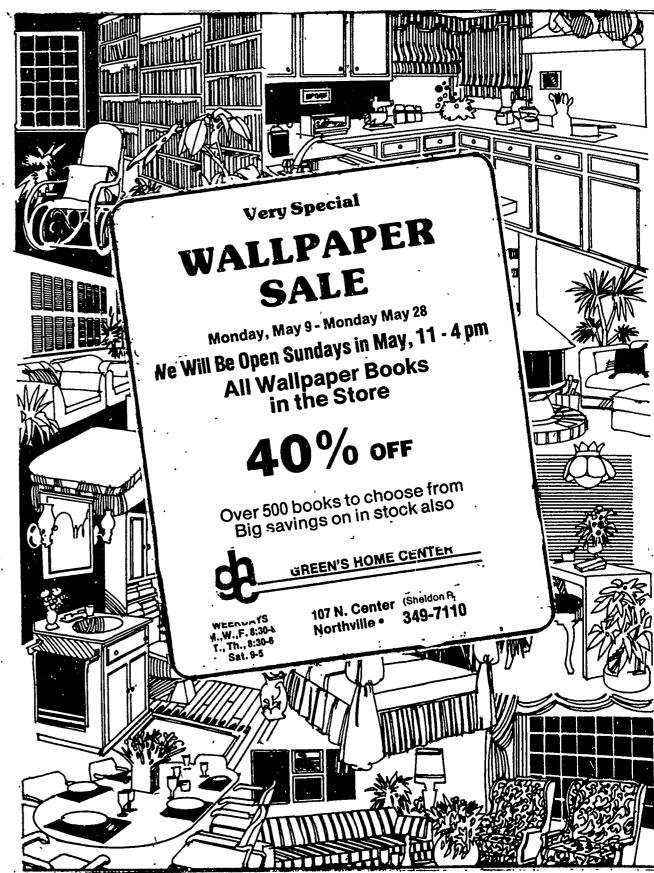

She'll be remembered in a variety of ways — a bouquet of flowers, a box of candy, a handmade card or a seven-year-old's clean room. Though such tokens of appreciation often seem Though such tokens of appreciation often seem inadequate compensation for her unselfish love and caring, they are symbols of thanks and gratitude for a job well done.

Most of us have special memories of mother whether it was the time she rushed home from work to pick-up a stranded Boy Scout or allowed a "My mother was just great about it," she added. "She never said one word.

"I don't remember any repercussions from that, but I sure remember how I felt when I saw those little piles of sawdust under each leg."

Chairman of the Northville Township planning commission RICHARD DUWEL related his family's Mother's Day tradition in Ohio. "I grew up in Cincinnati," Duwel recalled. "My mother's now 81 and she still lives there in an old home on the west side with a big porch — which she just dearly loves. "Mother's Day was always special. Dad and we kids would go out and buy bunches of flowers for these big stone pots she'd keep on her porch. I don't know of a year we missed. Last May was the first Mother's Day after Dad died and we made sure he got her flowers. We've made arrangements this year, too, because that's the way we'll always remember Mother's Day. It's a special tradtion."

disgruntled eight-year-old to keep a pet snake.

In celebration of Mother's Day, we have asked several local residents and businesspersons to share their recollections of mother.

WILLIAM HOOD, the school district's administrative assistant for operations, had no trouble recalling one of his most pleasant memories of his mother from his childhood in Scotland.

"The thing a remember best," he recalled, "and I talk about it all the time, is when I was coming home on a cold winter's evening from school.

"I remember walking in the door and my mother would have the house filled with the aroma of hot baking goods."

Northville High School secretary NAN OLIVER, said she has many memories of her mother, who how lives with her. However, the time she remembers best is when she brought home a stray, collie.

"I've always been an animal lover," she said. "I was always picking up stray dogs and stray cats and mother would put up with them because I loved them.

"One day I brought home a collie dog," she recalled. "We had left the house to go out and when we returned home that dog had chewed every leg of our brand new dining room set. "Mom was kind of hard to figure out," RALPH REDMOND, athletic director of Northville High School, remembered fondly. "The four of us as kids used to get together and try to figure her out. She's a very intricate lady.

a very intricate lady. "Nowadays as adults, when we gather together, she's still the main topic of conversation. We still haven't figured her out."

Northville Recreation Commission Chairman L.T. SYLVESTRE recalled his mother as a busy, well-loved lady. "Mom was a registered nurse, and a practicing registered nurse until last year when she retired. She always worked long hours at the job and still found time to raise three kids.

"She was one of those rare people whom everybody liked. There's not many people who can truly say they haven't an enemy in the world, but

Renovated club hosts spring events

By JEAN DAY

This month local residents are getting to see the results of a $700,000 renovation project at Meadowbrook Country Club on West Eight Mile that includes a redesigned kitchen complete with pastry and banquet facilities.

Last week members of Northville Mothers' Club were given a tour of the club by manager John DeHart, viewing the new women's lounge and the separate entrance to the dining room as they made plans for the club's spring dinner dance to be given there May 14. The club renovations also include the men's locker room and an addition to the golf pro shop. Still to be completed are the canopy and new front entrance.

Carol Richardson and Joan Roth are in charge of arrangements for the dance. Club president Barbara Willoughly explains this event is a "fun" one rather than a major fund raiser for the club.

The community is invited, and tickets are available at $35 a couple. Richardson may be contacted at 349-7784 or Roth at 349-8646. The evening will begin with cocktails at 6:30 p.m. with beef tenderloin dinner at 7:30 p.m. Back by request to play for the dancing is The People's Choice ensemble.

Clubwomen plan 'Reflections of Spring' show

Another annual event upcoming at Meadowbrook is the "Reflections of Spring" luncheon fashion show May 12. Chairperson Nanci Greer is assisted by Sue Bayer. They promise that this is to be "a very different show — with no com-mentators but lots of comedy." A program will contain the fashion descriptions.

The committee has recruited club members, both men and women, to model along with five professional as fashions from Me and Mr. Jones, John Smith and Armbrusters are shown. They include Joy Holloway, Joe Lineman and Roger Hoskins from Northville as well as former resident Joan Mandell of Farmington and Mariellen Greenbury, Kathy Maggio, Pam Min-cher, John Greer and Bob Dorchy. Wardrobe assistants — all from Northville — are Dorothy Malasky, Carol McMann and Edie Doheny.

To carry out the Oriental theme chosen for the show Aggie Dorchy has contracted with the South West Oakland Vocational Center to have its students create live flower arrangements in Far East designs for the tables. Cocktails for members and their guests at 11 a.m. will precede the noon luncheon and 1 p.m. show.

Third local chef competed in chili cook-off

Jay Flaviani of Northville was the third local resident to be tapped to participate in last weekend's Great Chili Cook-Off benefit for the National Kidney Foundation of Michigan. He had placed eighth in the 1982 event and gained a spot as an alternate this year.

He joined William Besso and Tom Mac Kinnon of Northville in the competition held Saturday at the Farm Council Grounds in Saline. Eighty cooks participated for the chance to win the International Chili Society competition to be held in California - and to aid the Kidney Foundation.

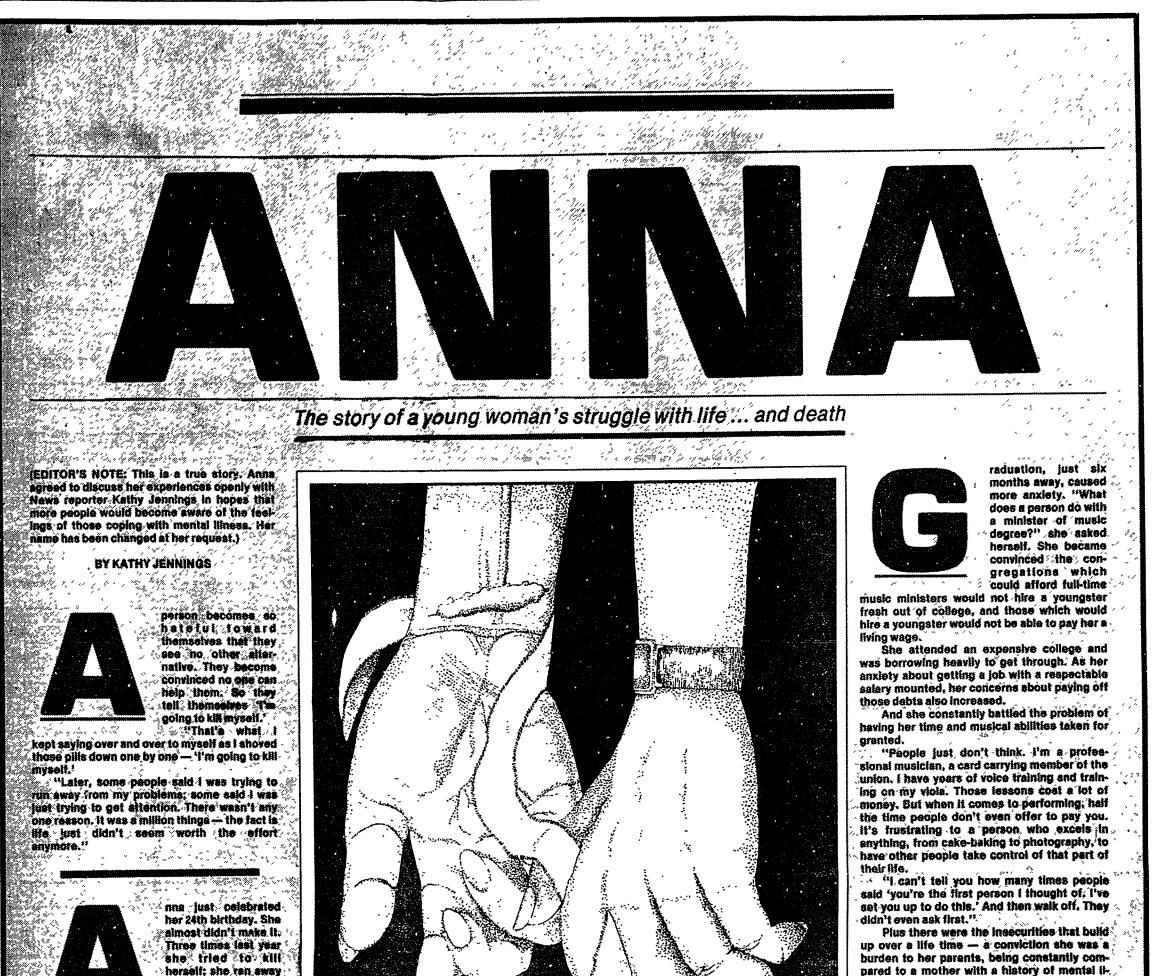

Inspecting

hen she got home she talked to a lot of people about her problems. She hinted around the subject of cuicide. She asked questione "about" it. Mainly she wanted to know whother Christhemselves went to hell. Most people said yes. Anna decided she was already in hell so taking the final step would be "no big deal." She asked her sister what she thought it. would be like if something happened to her. She wondered If her sleter ever thought what It would be like if Anna wasn't there anymore. Her sister did not know how to answer the awkward question.

It was several weeks after she had been home that she admitted to her parents what had happened. They urged her to seek counseling from the pastor of their church.« »Her parents did not learn until later that questions over her religious convictions were one of the many factors that contributed to her condition.

It was at a Christian crusade that she latched onto the idea of taking her life. There she tieard a story of a devout Christian who committed suicide. The point of the story was lost in her tangled mind as she focused on the act. At school Anna had been studying theology; psychology, philosophy and science.

For Anna, the classes were mentally exhausting.

"Some classes ask such deep questions that you think about them too deeply. It does something to your mind; you lose contact with reality. If you go around thinking about it, you and up in the metaphysical mind-ast, rather than reality.

"I walked around in a daze sometimes, I used to think for a whole day sbout how close we were to the stars and how close we would have to get before we would burn up."

Anna attended a religious college that taught many of the same doctrines she had learned in the fundamental church she attended throughout high school. But her classes also raised troubling philosophical questions. She began to doubt aspects of the faith that had once supported her.

'She struggled with a feeling of . too late hopelessness so strong it seemed it would never go away.'

With six dollars her grandmother had given her as a birthday present, she bought two botties of Tylenol. She took them the night before she was to go to the hospital for tests to determine if there was a physiological cause behind her depression.

Her mother went into her bedroom éarlier than usual the next morning to wake her up for the trip to the doctor. Physiciana said later that if she had slept much longer she might never have recovered.

She was rushed to the emergency room of the local hospital, but it was too late to pump her stomach. The drug had already been absorbed --- she had five times the lethal desage in her blood stream. There were further complications due to the chemical properties of the Tylenol. It could not be simply flushed from her blood stream like some drugs. Special instructions regarding her treatment had to be obtained from the Rocky Mountain Polson Control Center.

Physicians prepared the family for the worst. It would be at least three days --- the amount of time it would take her liver to fail --- before they would know whether she would live or die.

The family kept vigil in the prayer chapel of the intensive care unit. There were church members at their side at all times. One parishioner paid the airplane fare so a younger sister could be flown in from California.

Dollhouses, primitives featured at new shop

Anyone walking along the makeshift street at the top of the stairs at 107 East Main most likely has noticed the most recent addition to the Uptown Shops.

Through the stenciled glass door, tucked between Jan's Needlepoint and Two's Company, is Carol's Antiques a quaint, little shop packed with everything from early primitives to handmade pine dollhouses.

Owners Carol and Bob Hoornaert have been open for business a little more than a month - and, so far, are doing quite well in their first business venture.

Carol's Antiques originally was housed in the corner room of the Uptown Shops. However, Carol explains they ran into a snag when they couldn't fit their enormous dollhouses through the shop's front door.

The couple remedied the situation by switching shop locations with Jannel Lovill and Marge Cinader at Jan's Needlepoint.

With Bob working for Ford Motor Company, Carol mans the shop from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays.

Sitting in her shop, among shelves filled with duck decoys and old egg baskets, Carol explains that though she's been collecting since she was 15, she's a relative newcomer to the business

She notes that for the past two years she has strickly done antique shows trudging out in the wee hours of the morning to set up for the onslaught of dealers and collectors searching for bargains.

"Actually, I started in the flea markets," she says, "and worked my way up to the shows."

However, "Bob was tired of hauling to the shows," Carol admits, citing that to 4 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday.

May 22 at Orchestra Hall.

as one of the reasons for finding a shop. With the shop open five days a week, there isn't a lot of time left to do many of the area markets. However, Carol mentions she still does the Davisburg antique show at the end of each month.

Carol's love for primitives is evident throughout the tiny shop. Baskets, type trays, crocks, wooden molds and early advertising items are placed among newer folk art pieces.

The Hoornaerts also carry furniture such as desks, tables and pressed back chairs - most of which have been meticulously refinished by Carol and Bob

"I would just have primitives," Carol says, "but you have to have a variety." Among the pieces setting Carol's Antiques apart from other antique shops are the large pine dollhouses which grace several tables within the shop. The dollhouses, made by family friend Ken Bockleman, are all handmade - from the shingles on the roof to the pane glass windows.

Carol explains that all the dollhouses are originals, with no two designs exactly alike. They usually are on display in the first story windows of the Uptown Shops.

Carol says she does her buying just about everywhere - from garage sales to exclusive shows.

'We don't go to auctions," she notes, "Bob doesn't like them."

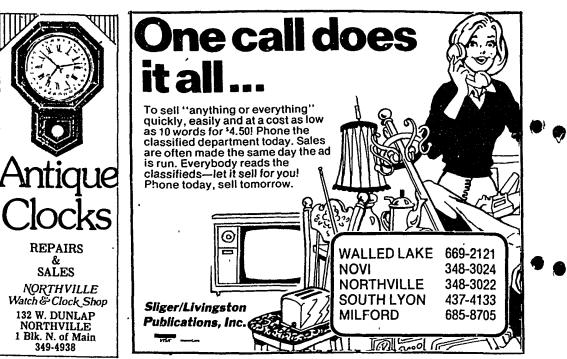

She mentions that on a recent buying trip, she walked into a garage filled with duck decoys. The seller, a former hunter, was selling them for "virtually nothing," Carol explains. Needless to say, they now are being sold on consignment at Carol's Antiques.

Carol's Antiques is open from 10 a.m.

Anna: A young woman's story of attempted suicide

Family members were allowed to see her briefly, during 15 minute visiting periods, three times a day. Her face was swollen and yellow with jaundice.

All family members could do was tell her they loved her, and hope she could understand.

Every morning they posted themselves in the hall to catch the doctor as he hurried through on his rounds. Even when the critical chemical changes in her blood appeared to be positive, the doctor refused to give encouragement. He warned the improvements could reverse themselves. Instead the improvements continued, and Anna lived. "I didn't expect to be here when I woke up," she said as she regained con-sciousness. "Where did you think you'd be?" her sister asked. "Hell."

A person who attempts suicide faces a lot of questions when they recover, and many people have opinions to offer.

Anna faced the people who wanted to know why a person "with all my ability, with everything I had going for me" would do something like that.

"What they don't realize is that all those talents can also be detrimental. If you can't keep them in control - they start controlling you. If people aren't considerate you get used, burned out, and taken for granted."

She felt trapped, cornered. She fluctuated between despondence and apathy. She struggled with a feeling of hopelessness so strong it seemed it would never so away.

"You face that. You realize it's never going away, and you decide to put yourself out of your misery.

At the point when she tried to take her life, she had no self esteem. When she awoke to find herself alive she was not impressed by the number of people who showed their regard for her with visits to the hospital, flowers and cards.

Anna believed if they really knew her, if they knew what went on in her mind, they would like her as little as she liked herself.

"I am just not the sweet sort of person they say I am. I harbor feelings of hate toward people I should love. I'm very pessimistic toward life. And I can be a real martyr.

Some people told her those who try to kill themselves are relieved to find they have been saved.

But Anna said her relief lasted only momentarily.

"I really figured that I had ended myself, and four days later I found myself coming back to consciousness. Someone was telling me I was going to be all right, there wasn't any permanent damage, and I was going to live." At that moment she was relieved.

"But it didn't change anything. For months-on-end I still wanted to kill myself."

She talked to a psychiatrist and agreed to commit herself to a sanitarium.

But the therapy did little to improve her mental condition.

simply not the kind she needed. It was "dry and impersonal." Anna said she needed specific illustrations of ways to cope with her problems, but the therapists talked in abstracts.

when they released her from the sanitarium in April, because she had convinced them she was better. She admitted later she was good at "faking out" psychiatrist-types.

When she got home she spent most of the next two months in her bedroom. Sometimes she walked around the house raking her finger nails down her face. It was just three weeks after her release that she tried suicide once more. This time she took the medication she had been given to help her sleep and calm her nerves, and Tylenol she had purchased.

Her already sensitive stomach would not accept the overdose and she vomited most of the pills before they could kill her.

Anna had been seeing a psychologist at a counseling center in her home town. Even after the suicide attempt, he did not recommend she be hospitalized again, so she remained at home.

Next a job opportunity that her parents believed would be ideal came up - counseling at a music camp. She was accepted for the position and wanted to try it.

But she was not ready for it.

"I couldn't even get out bed yet, and being a camp counselor is the kind of responsibility that keeps you going day and night for two months."

As she saw it, the only way to get out of it was to do something drastic. She ran away.

She walked east out of town, staying to the side of the road, unless she saw a police car — then she hid in the grass.

Various people saw her along the way. They knew the direction she was travelling. Her parents' church gathered together as many people as they could to comb the area where she was last seen.

As she walked along she thought of throwing herself in front of the cars passing her on the roadway. She slept in the woods. There was nothing to eat. Finally, she gave up sleeping in the woods and stumbled into the outskirts of Albion. A woman, noticing Anna limping along, offered her a ride and took her home with her.

Providentially, Anna's congregation had opened a satellite church in Albion. She knew people in town, called them and they contacted her parents.

Her mother and father immediately came to get her.

"When Dad got there he kissed me. There were big tears running down his face and he said 'my baby, we're gonna get you well.""

Anna had made her point, she proved she needed more help. Her feet were blistered, the inside of her legs were chafed from the 30-mile walk, she was hungry and thirsty. But being exposed to the elements for three days caused no serious physical problems. Her parents institutionalized her in a second sanitarium.

In the beginning, she was in a closed ward for patients who may harm themselves or others.

Varsity soccer team 'at last' takes home Schoolcraft crown

By B.J. MARTIN

It's been three years, but at last the Northville women's soccer team emerged the winner of the Schoolcraft soccer tournament, turning in four playoff wins of impressive teamwork last weekend.

For the last two years, Northville has had to take home second-place honors at Schoolcraft. But Saturday the emotionally-charged Mustangs posted a 1-0 final win over tourney favorite Plymouth Salem on Lisa Cahill's second-half scoring rush and the fifth straight shutout turned in by the Northville defensive corps.

'In the past we've had some super players," said jubilant coach Ron Meteyer, "but this year our talent is more evenly divided. We have a more balanced attack. I think the key was our playing together with some emotion."

After losing 5-2 to tough Livonia Stevenson Monday of last week, the Mustangs have simply steamrolled all their foes since, getting superior defen-sive leadership from 1982 all-state sweeper back Martina Millen. Millen has played the last several games with a painful ankle injury, but the strong, slender senior has consistently done a heady, rugged job of containing opposing forwards, aided by fellow backs

Kim Petit and Kim May, both juniors. Tournament play began Friday afternoon, with the Mustangs easily muscling past Brighton 5-0. All five Northville goals were posted in the first half. Eager to rest his players for future games - the tournament necessitated two 40-minute games Friday and two more Saturday - Meteyer went to his bench with little decay of offensive firepower, although the Bulldogs held Northville scoreless for the second half. "We have a very strong bench this year, in addition to a really wellbalanced starting unit," claimed Meteyer, adding that he credited the Mustangs' ability to have enough gas to blow past Salem the following day to the clutch play of his bench. Starting junior insider Cahill has in particular been on a tear. Against Brighton, she posted three first-half goals before she was assigned to the bench to rest up for the quarter-final later. Her last two goals in the game came on beautiful crosses from the right side that Cahill rocketed past the righton goalkeeper before she had a Capping the scoring was Terwin, who vollied a loose ball 20 yards out into the back of the Canton net. "Sue's been do-ing a great job for us," noted Meteyer. "She hasn't been scoring a lot, but she's been getting lots of assists. That seems to be her role." Senior goalkeeper Jenny Gans picked up the shutout.

In the semifinal against Garden City, it took 10 minutes for the Mustangs to post the first goal, again by Cahill. The quick, compact junior intercepted a clearing pass and fired a bullet past the Garden City goalkeeper, who had no time to react.

In the second half, Irwin tallied from five yards out with a rush on goal, slopping through the mucky goal crease and slipping the ball in. Junior winger Amy Nieuwkoop punched in a short cross from Terwin for the final goal.

Toppling tough Livonia Stévenson got Salem into the final on Saturday, and by then, field conditions had degenerated into what Meteyer called a "pig sty." After a scoreless first half featuring excellent work from Gans and both defenses, Cahill found daylight after receiving on a long clearing pass from Petit.

Cahill blew past a defender positioned too far upfield in an attempt to draw an offside call, broke in on goal, touching the ball three times, then chipped a shot past the Rocks' goalie. An instant later, the Mustangs mobbed Cahill in congratulations.

Meteyer said the defensive reserves keyed the win after Millen took a nasty shot in the eye during the second half. Filling in with tough defensive play were junior Carol Anderson and sophomore Julie Robson.

Meteyer singled out the play of his midfielders for specific praise, noting strong showings from senior Joan Rofson and by sophomore Kathy Korowin.

Each of the Mustangs took home an inscribed bronze medal for the tourney championship, and a trophy for the first-place finish is now on prominent display at the high school.

Stevenson's upset of Northville the previous Monday was the Mustangs' only loss of the season thus far, and Meteyer predicts Stevenson, Livonia Churchill and Salem will be the big rollers in the WLAA this season. Penalties came home to haunt the Mustangs in the loss, with two penalty shots and a free kick leading to three of the Spartan goals. Petit, assigned to the forward line in the contest, answered with a penalty shot goal. Cahill added the other Mustang score after dribbling around a Stevenson defender on a rush up the left side. Senior midfielder and team captain Chris Kreutzberg picked up the assist.

As for domination against Brighton, the Bulldogs mustered only two shots throughout the contest, only one of which required a good save from senior goalie Leigh Ann Spaman.

Adding the remaining two goals were senior midfielder Janice Irwin, who drove in a 20-yarder on a loose ball, and sophomore striker Sue Terwin, assisted by left wing Kelly Coutts, who also assisted on a Cahill goal.

Cahill's left-footed five-yard-out drive, assisted by Terwin, broke the ice in Friday's 3-0 nightcap quarterfinal win over Plymouth Canton, blanked 5-0 by the Mustangs only a week before.

Junior striker Kelly Coutts added the insurance goal with a second-half chip shot off a close-in cross from left winger Sue Borthwick. Borthwick, also a junior, cut in on goal along the left end line, drawing the Chief goaltender to the side of the net, then rolled a pass across the goalmouth to the wide-open Coutts.

The following Wednesday, Northville completely dominated Livonia Franklin in a league game, holding the Patriots to two shots on goal. Spaman in particular did a good job of breaking up dangerous situations with some aggressive play in goal.

All three Mustang goals came in the second half, with Irwin posting the first at three minutes, a 20-foot volley off the rebound of a shot by Borthwick.

Kreutzberg netted the second goal on a penalty shot minutes later, and senior right wing Tish Johnson added the third, picking up a cross from sophomore left winger Linda Town-

Softball team posts first win of season

At 1-2, the Northville softball team isn't looking invincible just yet, but coach Mary Minor thinks her squad may just be onto something after splitting two games last week against Western divison rivals Livonia Stevenson and Walled Lake Western.

The Mustangs downed Stevenson 6-5 to get their first win of the season on the board, although Minor considered the loss to the Warriors to be just as heartening.

"Last year, we got mercied twice by Western," Minor said after the game. "So I definitely consider a 5-3 loss a big improvement." Against the Spartans, senior first baseman Trish Settles started things rolling in the third inning with a double to left center. Senior centerfielder Judy Morgan took first when the behind-theplate umpire ruled the Spartan catcher had interfered with Morgan's swing. Panowicz socked a long single to right field to drive in Morgan and Settles.

In the fifth inning, the Mustangs rallied for four runs. With one out, sophomore infielder Jackie Mateuci, Morgan and Settles all drew walks. Vicki Robins dropped a grounder to third that eluded the third baseman, permitting Mateuci to score.

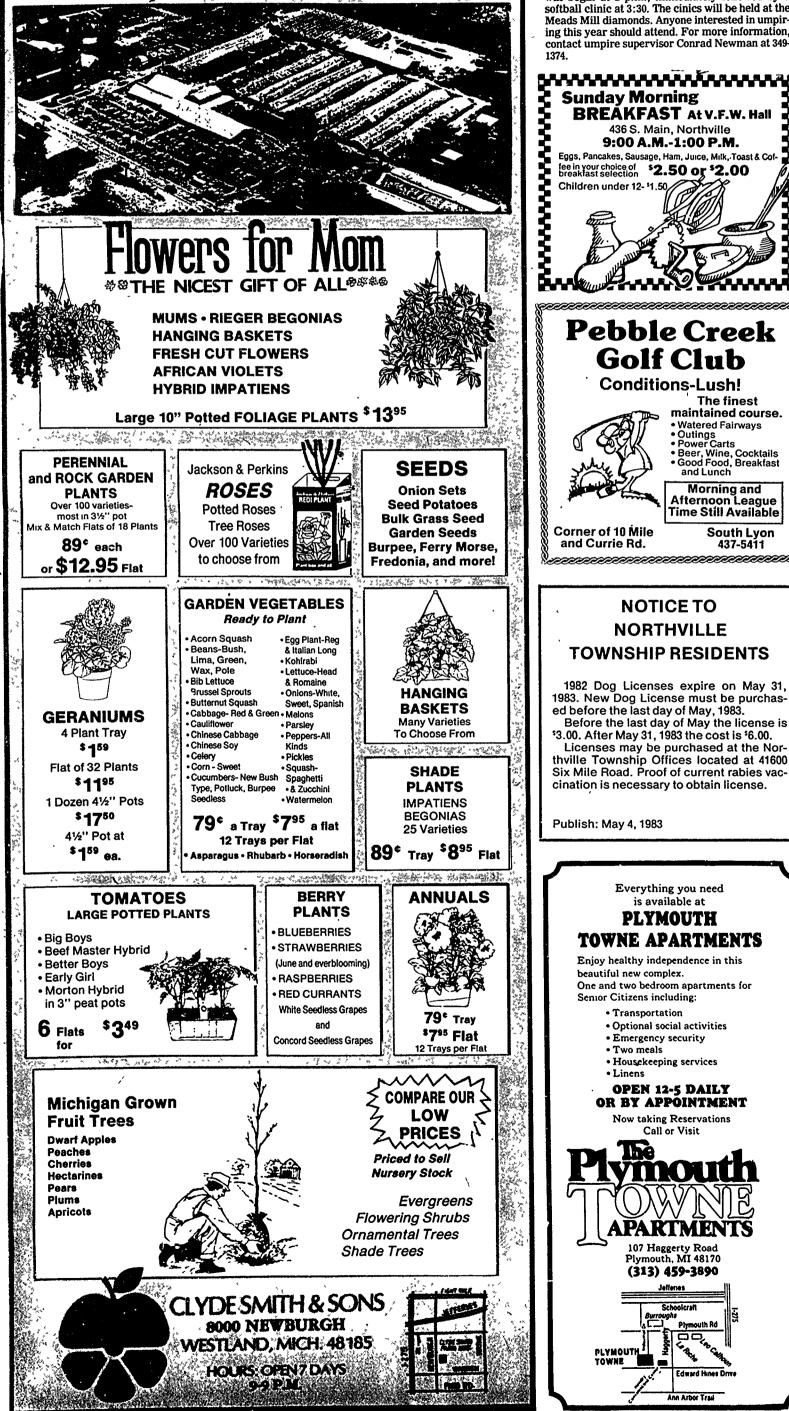

"When we scored on the fielding error, they got a little bit rattled," Minor said. It showed. The Spartan pitcher yielded a walk to sophomore outfielder Lori Housman that forced in Morgan. The next hitter, starting pitcher Sue Keiser, lifted an easy fly ball to left, but the Stevenson left fielder squeezed her glove shut an instant too soon. The runners held while Keiser took first loading the bases again. Again an unintentional pass brought in a run, with Robins jogging home on a walk to Julie Panowicz. Finally, infieldér Jan Roberts socked a ground ball to third. Again the infielder booted the play and Keiser came home, ending the scoring. Keiser went the distance for the win, raising her record to 1-1.

"I'm really pleased wth the defense we displayed in that game," Minor said, noting that in the seventh inning the Warriors had loaded the bases, but were silenced on three excellent fielding plays on the next three hitters. Shortstop Berryman and third baseman Roberts made two excellent fielder's choice throws to the plate on ground balls and retired the next batter pitcher-to-first.

"We had trouble getting the key hit, though," Minor added. "We left nine runners on against Western and we need that clutch hitting to be a winning team. If we could have gotten one-third of them home we might have won. But it's really good to see the way the team's starting to come together; we're really starting to jell."

Minor singled out the flexibility and readiness of her bench for praise. "I get the feeling this year, I could take anyone off the bench and see them do just as well as the starter. That's really comforting," she said.

The Mustangs picked up all three runs in the first inning, jumping on starter Renee Kane, who then settled down and gave up only three more hits in the game. Berryman started the ral-ly with a single to left. Morgan reached base on an error, then Settles lashed a double up the left-center alley to score both Berryman and Morgan. Settles hustled home from second on outfielder Pat Wazny's single to end the Mustang onslought. Western rallied for two in the bottom of the first and added runs in the second, third and fifth inning on Keiser, who dropped to 1-2 with the loss. Barring more inclement weather, the Mustangs will resume action today at 4 p.m. against Livonia Churchill at home. A non-league game against Brighton has been re-scheduled for tomorrow with more re-scheduled games to appear later this month. Follow Mustang Roundup for details.

Novi 'fun run' attracts cream of local talent

By PHIL JEROME

Unusually cold temperatures did not prevent several record-breaking performances in the third annual Providence Hospital/Novi Run Sunday.

Garden City's Judy Buresh established a new record of 18:44 in the women's 5,000 meters, Walled Lake Western star Chris Mein set a new record of 16:16 in the men's 5,000 meters and Novi's Doug Kurtis set a new record of 32:12 in the men's 10.000 meters.

Joanne Sandau of Redford won the women's 10,000 meters with a 44:07 clocking.

But the record which most impressed Bill Scott of the Novi Parks and Recreation Department, which co-sponsors the race in conjunction with Providence Hospital's Novi Ambulatory Care Center, was the total of 406 runners in the event. "The thing that's really rewarding is that the run gets bigger and bigger every year," observed Scott, noting that the race attracted approximately 300 runners last year.

"I think it's really becoming a popular race; our goal is to have the Providence/Novi Run recognized as one of the top runs in the state.'

In addition to the 5,000 and 10,000 meters, the race includes a one-mile fun run/jog. Results from the fun run were not available, however.

In the 5,000 meter races, Buresh established a new course record of 18:44 in defending the title she won last year. Mein, a member of Walled Lake Western's fine cross-country and track teams, made his first appearance in the Novi Run a successful one by taking the men's race in 16:16.

In the 10,000 meter races, Joanne Sandau of Redford was an easy winner in the women's division with a time of 44:07, while Doug Kurtis, Novi's Olympic hopeful and a member of the Adidas racing team, took top honors in the men's division with a record time of 32:12.

Rain, rain, go away.

"It's the worst I've ever seen," said Mustang baseball coach Fred Holdsworth of this season's scheduling snafus

April showers have let up long enough to allow only three of Northville's 11 scheduled games to take place. The Mustangs split two of them last week, winning 6-2 over Livonia Stevenson Monday and taking the short end of a 12-9 slugfest against Walled' Lake Western last Wednesday. It didn't take long for Mustang hitters to tee off on Stevenson pitching. In the first inning, Northville centerfielder Steve Frellick drew a walk and moved to third on a wild pitch and a single by designated hitter Todd Bartling. Senior catcher Andy Dimitroff then ripped a fastball into the alley in right center for a two-RBI triple.

Dimitroff came home when shortstop Dave Longridge reached base on an inield error. Another error/put secondbaseman Mickey Newman on first and advanced Longridge to second. Both hot-footed it home when outfielder Jerry Pawlowski doubled down the rightfield line to stake the Mustangs to a 5-0 first-inning lead.

"We're getting some belated hit-ting," said Holdsworth, happy to have a win under his belt. "But you can't really say we're hitting well - we're only itting .175 as a team. It seems when we get them, we get them in clusters."

Stevenson came back with two in the fourth while Spartan hurlers took ing in relief instead of starting the hardthrowing right-hander, Holdsworth replied, "We need him in the bullpen. I'd like to use him every day if I could."

Against Walled Lake Western, a team noted for its offensive explosiveness although Warrior bats have been mostly silent for the better part of this season - junior Dan Nielson was humming along just fine, no-hitting the Warriors until the fourth inning. Then Nielson was catapulted off the mound by a thunderous Western rally.

The Warriors connected for 10 runs in the fourth, erupting with eight hits, three for extra bases, and jumping on two Mustang errors, two walks and a wild pitch.

Western added two more runs in the fifth inning to complete their scoring, but then Northville made some noise of its own

In the fifth inning, 6'5" first-baseman Steve Schrader emptied the bases with a grand-slam blast over the fence in right center.

In the seventh inning, the Mustangs rallied for five more runs, on three singles, courtesy of Schrader, Bartling and Dimitroff, two walks and an error. That speaks well for our team, I think," Holdsworth observed. "They didn't give up when we got far behind. That's a good sign."

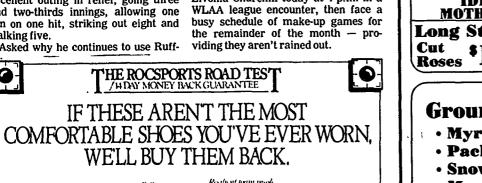

Nielson took the loss, yielding seven runs on five hits. Holdsworth had a little trouble finding a suitable replacement for Nielson after he had worked three he tried Ruffing fing had his worst outing of the season, giving up three runs on two hits in twothirds of an inning. Doug Doyle followed Ruffing in Doyle's first appearance, getting the final out of the fourth after yielding one hit. Mickey Newman was called in from second base to mop up two more innings, giving up two runs on one hit, five walks and striking out four. The 1-2 Mustangs will tangle with Livonia Churchill today at 4 p.m. in a WLAA league encounter, then face a busy schedule of make-up games for the remainder of the month - providing they aren't rained out.

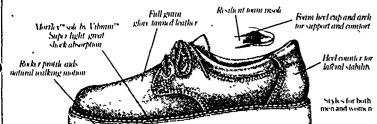

Holdsworth at his word and blanked Mustang hitters until the fifth. Junior third-sacker Bob Pegrum scored the final Northville run when he advanced to third after a single, a stolen base and a wild pitch, then beat it home on a grounder.

Senior Jim Thomson worked three and one-third innings to pick up the win, cattering one run on two hits, five walks and five strikeouts. Junior Tim Ruffing turned in his second straight excellent outing in relief, going three and two-thirds innings, allowing one run on one hit, striking out eight and walking five.

Every working person with earned income from performing personal services is now eligible for an Individual Retirement Account. Contributions to this account are TAX DEDUCTIBLE each year and earnings are also TAX DEFERRED until retirement (age 591/2). A working person may contribute up to a maximum of $2,000.00 per year. A husband and wife who are both working may EACH contribute up to a maximum amount of $2,000.00 (total $4,000.00). A working person with a non-working spouse may contribute up to $2,250.00 per year.

YOU ACTUALLY SAVE MONEY TWO WAYS: 1) TAX DEDUCTION

For example, even though an actual cash contribution has been made in the amount of $2,000.00, it would cost the taxpayer in the 40% tax bracket only $1,200.00 in actual dollars because of the $800.00 tax savings incurred.

2) TAX DEFERRAL

Interest earnings on your annual $2,000.00 contribution are also tax deferred until retirement when tax brackets are usually lower.

Federal regulations require a substantial interest penalty for early withdrawal from certificate accounts, and withdrawals from your IRA prior to age 59½ may. result in tax penalties. When you withdraw the money in your IRA Account at retirement after age 59%, your withdrawals will be taxed as ordinary income at a time when your tax rate is likely to be lower.

IRA Accounts are insured separately to $100,000.00 by the FSLIC.

So close — Hawks edge Mustang tracksters 70-62

It's difficult to describe how close the Mustang men's track team came to knocking off Farmington Harrison in Thursday's WLAA Western division opener, but maybe these examples will suffice:

Northville lost three points when its top two 800-meter runners were disqualified because teammates were running alongside them on the infield of the track yelling encouragement.

The Mustangs lost the mile relay by three seconds, the 800-meter relay by 0.5 seconds and the 400-meter relay by 0.3 seconds.

Northville's Chris Jones and Pat Campbell clocked 1,600-meter times of 4:58.1 and 4:58.2, respectively. Harrison's winning time was 4:57.8.

Final score: Harrison 70, Mustangs

"We can't afford to keep losing all three relays like that," said ex-asperated Mustang coach Gary Polley. "This week we're going to change things around and try to get one relay team we're pretty sure will get us some points and not try to spread out our talent like that."

There were no bright spots in the stor-my sky Thursday, but there were a few the soggy track for Northville on (Polley noted that a shovel was needed to retrieve the shot throughout the event).

The most noticeable improvement came in the distance events, where the Mustangs had been left out in the cold Lyon. After being completely shut out distance work. in the 1,600 and 3,200 against the Lions, "I give them Jones and Campbell's strong showings Joel Vogt and Mark Knoth again in the 1,600 and by Jim O'Neil and Rich dominated their respective events. Q. Could I tighten the clasp on my removable partial denture and save myself time and monev?

A. Even if you are the original "Mr. Fixit" around your house, you shouldn't attempt to tighten the clasp on your par-tial yourself. What very likely will happy when you bend the metal is that you will distort it beyond repair, or even snap it apart completely. This will mean a costly repair or maybe even the need to totally replace your partial. Not a very wise economic move. Your dentist, using the proper instruments, can easily and quickly make can easily and quickly make the adjustment that is causing your denture to feel loose and uncomfortable in your mouth.

Your concern about saving time and money is understan-dable, but in this instance don't try to economize your dental health.

Shots

There's nothing more annoying than missing flash shots. The most common reason is that you were too far from your subject. For ALL flash cubes, flipflash, flashbars, and AG-1 peanut bulbs, 12 FEET is the greatest distance for a well-exposed flash shot. With electronic flash units, check the scale on the unit for your maximum distance. The brilliance of the light on your subject drops rapidly with distance. Other common problems are bad battery contact, corrosion on the camera/flash unit contact point, or a broken connecting cable. The eraser which comes on erasable pens is about the best thing for corroded or dirty contacts. Shine up battery and/or lamp contacts and/or hot-shoe contacts, then wipe or blow out any loose rubber or dirt. Good, fresh alkaline batteries, by the way, always help you get your shot.

Ever get half a picture on your 35mm flash shots? Your camera shutter is fully open only at speeds of 1/60 or below with most focal-plane shutters. Set your camera to the speed which is colored differently on the dial, or in some cases to the "x" mark or the little lightning bolt.

Person... Small Pebbles on a Big Beach

Once a child was told that the sun was 92,000,000 miles from his house. He then asked, "Is it that far from the roof or the basement?" Little child! His house seems so tall to him, yet when com-pared to the expanse of space it is insignificent.

When we compare our lives with the eternity of God, we are "small pebbles on a very big beach!'

God's Word tells us that "God resisteth the proud, but giveth grace to the humble" (I Peter 5:5). This means that God is in opposition to the proud individual. What is the "grace" that He gives to the humble? It is spirituality! There is no such thing as a spiritual, proud person. Great men and women of God have walked before God conscious of their own unworthiness and His great blessings.
