things facing the district in the future?
Incumbent Doug Whitaker, who is seeking election to his third term, said he felt he has "been a responsible and contributing board member" during his years on the board.

'I wouldn't run again if I hadn't enjoy it," he said, "I have been in the trenches taking the shot and shell - and most criticism has been deserved...It seems a shame to bow out when we have a chance of achieving our goals."

Whitaker also mentioned that "having a perspective on problems can be helpful in the next four years.'

Deputy Director of the Wayne-Oakland Library Federation, Whitaker has lived in the community 15 years. He was first elected to a two-year term on the board in 1977 and was elected to a 'full four-year term in 1979.

Prior to serving on the board of education, Whitaker was president of the Northville High School PTSO and served on the committee working on the Amerman Elementary School addition.

Acknowledging his support of a bond issue for the renovation of Northville High School, Whitaker noted there "are tangible and intangible" reasons for renovating the 25-year-old facility.

"We've made surface improvements," he noted, "and it looks better - but we can't patch and mend anymore."

No, he is not a corporate troubleshooter, company account exec or highpowered CEO. Believe it or not, Eddie is a Cooke Junior High School seventh grader who just happened to get through to Lee Iacocca while doing research for a class project.

According to Eddie and his telephone collaborator Kelly Byam, the whole thing started with Arthur Miller's story 'Grandpa and the Statue.'

After reading the story of the Statue of Liberty in teacher Dorothea Bach's class, students decided to pool their money to assist in the face-lift of the statue, which is pegged for restoration beginning next year.

After raising some $25 in their own classroom, Mrs. Bach's students took their fundraising to the entire seventh grade. Their fundraising efforts proved successful with seventh graders donating $65.62 for the face-lift of the famous statue.

With the fundraiser completed, the only thing left to do was send the Though Eddie received little more than a friendly greeting from the Chrysler chairman before his secretary intercepted, the seventh grader said he was shocked" to be talking to Lee Iacocca.

The two seventh graders succeeded in getting their information and sent Cooke's donation off to Chrysler, c/o Lee Iacocca.

As for Eddie, he said the only disappointment was "my mom didn't believe me when I told her"

Expanded downtown use planned

Ambitious plans to expand the number of special events downtown were revealed to city council Monday

Mayor Pro Tem G. Dewey Gardner told council the merchants hope to sponsor at least one special event monthly in the downtown area with hopes that some will become annual events on odel of the Christmas Walk and Sidewalk Sale.

Gardner said he had been asked to seek preliminary council approval for use of sidewalk right-of-way for the first event - called Summersong (see story below right).

At least two other downtown attractions are in the planning stages for this summer, Gardner related, with the aim oeing to "schedule something monthly, maybe even weekly."

"The point is, the downtown looks good and they want to use the facility." Gardner said.

The success of the recent Garage Sale and merchant participation in it were discussed, with Gardner noting that it was only last year that merchants opposed use of downtown streets for the

Voters to choose two for school board seats

"The school board is not going to run the district," he noted, "it's going to advise and consent the administration and superintendent.

"I really wish we'd get two or three business people on the board."

Coyne, also a member of the Northville High School Renovation Feasability Study, has two children currently attending Northville Public

Though a supporter of the high school renovation, Coyne said he has reservations concerning the proposed bond

"The problem we've got is that we are locking ourselves in to the seven mill maximum (debt retirement)," he said. "Negotiations with teachers have left us trapped.

"I'm afraid the bond issue will lock us in." he noted. "I think we're going to have problems three to five years down the road. The way the bond issue is structured," he noted, "we're not going to have any money for maintenance.'

Having "gone through two sets of children in the schools," Coyne said he was not "that enthralled with the middle school concept. "I am not convinced, based on 20 years of watching, that the middle school is the way to go," he said.

However, he said he thought "community education is one of the greatest things we could have here.

"I think it's one of Dr. Bell's greatest contributions," he said.

Newcomer James Petrie, a former teacher and currently director of a federal demonstration project in television and computers for the Dearborn Public Schools, said he "always has had an interest in education." Mentioning he has done "a lot of doorto-door campaigning," Petrie said he has gained some perspective on how the community feels about the school district.

He also noted that his "experience both inside and outside the classroom" would be an asset to the board.

He and his wife Lonna have three children attending Winchester Elementary School.

Having read over the feasability

A resident of the community since 1978, he currently is a clerk in the law offices of George Constantine.

Bondy said he "hopes to bring to the board all qualifications associated with my educational background" as well as 'a younger point of view that represents not only a present interest in the Northville schools but also a future interest." Bondy said he supports the bond issue proposal "since the cost of a new building would be inhibitive.

He noted that a new facility is needed "enable students to meet the challenges of the environment that they are preparing to meet."

He also noted that the renovation would "make the existing structure safer for students and faculty" and pointed out that "the high school in a comunity can be and often is a focal point of the community and an element of its pride.'

While Bondy mentioned his support of the superintendent's long range plan, he said it will need "continuous review and attention" to ensure that goals are

He listed enrollment, higher technology and curriculum as some of the most important issues facing the district.

As the youngest candidate seeking a board seat, Robert Blanton said he believes he has "a little better perspec-tive on the situation at the high school as a recent graduate.'

A 1982 Northville High School graduate, Blanton said he is running for the board "to get more involved in the community."

Currently a student at Schoolcraft College - where he is studying pre-law he also works with the mentally impaired in the Wayne-Westland School District.

He is a member of the Army Reserve and has lived in the community five Blanton said he supported the bond issue and said he thought a renovation of the high school would help the overall feeling about the facility.

It's fun selling.

It's fun selling printing.

But the most fun is meeting old friends and making new ones. Since the boss's son took over the billing on News Printing's computer for the summer, I have been sprung from the office to sell. In January N.P.I., as we are affectionately known, took over the composition and sheet-fed departments from The Northville Record down at the plant on Main Street at Seven Mile. Now we not only print newspapers but everything else that's "fit to print": letterheads, envelopes, business cards, brochures, invitations, catalogs, and

Being a bit tentative about my new selling career, I decided to take on old friends first and headed for "uptown Northville".

My first thought was to drop in and call on my old friend and business associate, Bill Sliger, in The RECORD building. He is starting up a new business as representative for Thompson McKinnon Securities, a nationwide brokerage house, and surely he will need printing, I thought. That call paid off.

Next stop was to Ed Jamieson at Travel Plans, who gave me a tour brochure to bid on. Hey! This was great; this was going to be easy! On to City Hall, Community Federal Credit Union, on down Main Street in and out of each store all the way to Long Plumbing and back again. Chatted with Charlie Freydl, Chuck Lapham, Bill Wright at Northville Pharmacy, Dewey Gardner of IV Seasons and many other friendly people. Then north on Sheldon to Dunlap.

One surprise discovered on Sheldon a popcorn shop, Old Northville Popcorn Company, which makes 30 different flavors. I couldn't resist buying a bag, and was it good!

In and out of shop after shop explaining what N.P.I. had to offer in printing. Many old friends were astonished to learn we were located in The Northville Record plant and had been here for over 12 years, printing newspapers. Now I wanted them to know we could print almost anything. Thirty-nine employees here in downtown Northville ready to serve all printing needs at a fair price, with fast service and always top-quality workmanship.

Everyone was most hospitable. Even merchants I didn't know thanked me for dropping in and leaving my card and brochure. Yes, this was going to be a fun summer out on the road.

Watch The RECORD for the next chapter on my walk through Northville - and beyond.

Oh, by the way, if you need some printing, phone Harvey Ritchie or me at 349-6130. Or better yet, drop by our plant. Even if you don't require anything now, we'd like to get to know you. And the coffee is always free.

See you next week.

Summer job deadline Friday

Friday is the application deadline for the Michigan Youth Corps, Governor James Blanchard's summer jobs program for youth. All unemployed Michigan residents age 18-21 are eligible to apply at high schools, community colleges and Michigan Employment Security Commission

There are 60,000 jobs to be awarded — 35,000federally-funded and limited to those from lowincome families while the other 25,000 are statefunded and open to all in the eligible age group.

State Representatives Gerald Law and Willis Bullard, both of whom represent portions of Northville, urged their constituents to make application for the jobs by Friday, June 10.

Approved by the legislature May 25, the program is the largest of its kind in the nation. The jobs pay minimum wage ($3.35 per hour), most are for 40hour weeks, and are scheduled to last from 8 to 11 weeks and begin in July. Some supervisory positions paying $5.50 per hour are also available.

Many jobs will involve outdoor work in state parks and near highways.

Officials emphasized that the program is not operated on a first-come, first-serve basis. Hiring preference will be given those from families where a principal wage earner is unemployed. After those persons are placed, priority will be by age with the eldest applicants to be placed first.

Target of the program is to give those "who grew up during a time of depresssion in our state . . . a chance to begin in the world of work - an opportunity many have not yet had because of these tough times," the governor said.

Bullard particularly urged participation by young women, noting that of the applications filed since the June 1 starting date, only 30 percent have been from females.

"Perhaps there is a public perception that the jobs are aimed at men because they have been primarily described as park and highway clean-up projects," he said. "But obviously women can paint a fence or remove litter as easily as any man, and there are also other jobs that are creative and can utilize and develop talents women have.'

Applicants should bring their social security numbers when applying. To facilitate applications, Wayne, Washtenaw and Oakland County MESC of fices will operate on extended office hours, remaining open until 7 p.m. through June 10. The extended hours are exclusively for receiving summer job ap-

Dr. Lansing, featured speaker for the Saturday night banquet, will discuss how the "gender gap" is holding, as well as report on her new research.

The conference will conclude Sunday with the election of officers and presentation of the new state leaders for 1983-

Lansing received her Ph.D. from the University of Michigan in 1970 and currently is a political science professor at EMU. Her publications include numerous empirical studies relating to the political behavior of women.

Her work has been published in The New York Times. The Washington Post and The Detroit Free Press. She has contributed papers to the American Political Science Association and to international conferences.

She has been involved as an activist with women's issues for 15 years. In addition to running for a congressional post from the state of Michigan, she has traveled widely and has lectured on politics around the world at the request of the United Information Service.

As leading co-author of "Women and Politics: The Invisible Majority," she was involved in extensive research in a comparison of British and American women. Her current research deals with the effects of religion on the voting behavior of women in Western Europe.

'Two and a half years ago the New York Times asked 15 political scientists where women were going, and I was the only one who said there was a difference between the voting behavior of men and women," Lansing remarked ly Violence in Michigan.'

It is in this book that Lansing claims credit for coining the term, "gender gap," which showed itself in full force the 1982 elections. Although, she points out, gender has not been a strong variable, it has nonetheless been a point of difference over the past 30 years during which voting behavior has been studied. Economic status and educational level have tended to differentiate people's voting behavior much more noticeably than gender, she found.

Women have always been slightly more inclined than men to favor social issues, peace-oriented issues," Lansing has observed. "They just have not been recognized for their political clout."

She found that women between the ages of 40 and 60 are the strongest voting group, but even the 18 to 30 yearthe so-called disaffected feminists, vote in greater numbers and are more liberal voters than their male counterparts, she said.

The professor evaluates 1980 as a watershed year for women in politics. Since President Reagan's strong conversatism represents a political stance that has been heard only rarely from a modern presidential candidate, he was perceived as a warmonger and unsympathetic to the concerns of the newliberated worldly-wise woman.

Consequently, she predicted in her book (it was published in 1980) that the American woman's political voice would soon be heard throughout the land — a prediction that came to fruition two years later. In 1982, she points out, the weak variable became the 'gender gap" and a force to be reckon-

Senior citizens to visit Michigan Space Center for state NOW offices

Northville area senior citizens are invited to sign up for a day's outing to visit the Michigan Space Center and view the Cascade waterfalls in

The tour will be by deluxe motorcoach and includes admission to the Cascades and the center as well as dinner at the Cascade Clubhouse.

Those participating will leave Northville at 2:15 p.m. Friday, June 24, returning at 10:45 p.m. Cost is $28.

Visitors to the Michigan Space Center have a "see and touch" experience, sponsors explain. They may touch an actual piece of the heat shield of the Apollo 9 spacecraft, charred and blackened during re-entry to earth.

They will be able to inspect a Mariner spacecraft with 12-foot solar panels and examine an early prototype lunar rover designed for travel by the astronauts over the moon's surface.

A piece of moon rock may be inspected through a microscope — and visitors also may step behind a cutout of an astronaut suit to have photographs taken.

The illuminated Sparks Cascades consist of 500 feet of water coursing over 15 separate waterfalls in a constantly changing blend of light, color and music. In the Sparks Foundation Historic Room at the Cascades visitors have a chance to explore the history.

Those participating will have a roast beef or chicken dinner with salad, vegetable, potato, dessert and beverage. Tax and gratuity are included in the package price.

Reservations for the trip must be made by this Friday with Marie Knapp,

Fogel is shooting for the sky: taking off for USAF academy

Connie Fogel and the U.S. Air Force Academy seem to be made for each

At least that's Fogel's view, and the Colorado military school apparently agrees because it recently granted her appointment to the academy.

"I first heard about the academies when I was at Meads Mill," says the Northville High senior. "And it seemed to offer some of the things I was interested in.

"I want to study engineering - I'm pretty good in math and science, plus I'd like to learn to fly, and I'm interested in seeing what the possibilities are of a career in the Air Force," she explains.

As is the case for all three of the nation's military academies, potential students begin application in June of their junior year, filing a pre-candidacy

To assure equal opportunities nationwide, the academies limit the total number of appointments made from each congressional representative's nominations. Fogel found her district's representative, Carl Pursell, had no spare nominations to make. After interviewing with the staffs of the two senators from Michigan, Fogel received nomination from Senator Carl Levin.

Appointment was a near thing, she explains, with an old burn injury complicating medical approval. By the time she had processed "tons of paperwork," Fogel says, the Air Force academy class was virtually full.

"I first received a letter telling me I had just missed out," Fogel explains. It was only a couple of weeks ago that Fogel learned she would be going to the academy after all.

She had made alternate plans to study engineering at the University of Michigan and "was just that day going to mail my deposit to U-M when we received a call to say another appointee had been disqualified and that I could have the spot.

That settled, Fogel now has a fairly solid idea of what she'll be doing for the next 10 years: four years at the academy, plus six years (including

Parson to Person...

> A Friendly Enemy

Recently I read of a tongue-in-cheek proposal to have a "National Congress on Hospitality." Yet, when we emphasize hospitality, we are following Rom. 12:13: "Share with God's people who are in need. Practice hospitality.

The Greek word for hospitality means "love of strangers." The word "stranger" can also mean "enemy." The two words were nearly synonymous in some ancient nations. One way to destroy an enemy is to kill him. A better way is to make that enemy into a friend. Hospitality does that!

Strangers who visit our church can sometimes feel like an enemy. A person can attend a church for months without receiving an invitation for coffee or refreshment in a member's home. Hospitality breaks barriers and builds bridges. It makes "welcome" more than a word in the bulletin.

Let's forget about a National Congress on Hospitality. Instead, why not invite some new folks to your home or out for fellowship next week. Show them genuine and generous Christian love.

Local cable telecast of city council meetings — one of the most frequently cited potential uses of local access channels provided under the franchise agreement — will be possible this summer.

Omnicom Cablevision informed participating governments last week that the "suitcase studio" equipment designed for such uses is available to taping council sessions. Equipment allowing the signal to be sent live is expected in the next few, according to Omnciom program director Suzanne Skubick

Access to the two "suitcase studios" is to a group of persons designated by the government board. Training is supplied by Omnicom.

Under the cable franchise agreements with township and city, the company is required to supply the necessary equipment and training Skubick says is now available.

12-year-old angler wins trip to Vegas in tourney

By B.J. MARTIN

When young Scott Donnelly cast his line one day last winter, he came up with a catch he'll never forget.

Scott, 12, the son of Bob! and Sandy Donnelly of Novi and a student at Moraine elementary in Northville, is pretty good with a fishing pole, you see. When he accompanied his mom and dad to opening day at the Detroit Boat Show at Cobo Hall last February, Scott decided to try his luck at the Trilene casting tournament.

'He was hot...He's been fishing since he could hold a pole.'

The tournament, sponsored by the Berkley Trilene fishing line company, drew thousands of Michigan anglers seeking to win a trip to Las Vegas to participate in the company's 10-state speedcast tournament finals. Men and women of all sizes and ages, some with decades of fishing experience, lined up to have a shot at dropping the weight at the end of their lines into one of three 3foot diameter target hoops 50 feet up cast, Scott dropped his casting plug only a yard off the mark. He was then instructed to pick which of three targets 50 feet away he would try for with three chances. He picked the middle one, and came close but missed on his first try. Then he tried again.

Fizzzzz, went the reel, plop went the plug - smack in the center of the middle ring. Scott was on his way to Vegas. At least he will be. The details of his trip for two are forthcoming, but it is scheduled for the third week of August. Amazingly, Scott had never cast for accuracy before the tourney. But he does now, with a $100 fishing pole he won from Trilene and a hoola hoop in his back yard. Scott has his eye on the national title in Las Vegas — first prize is $2,500, a cup and a day of fishing with a top bass fishing pro.

"It felt great," Scott says of his accomplishment at Cobo. Scott has been fishing with his family "since he could hold a pole," says Sandy. Mostly the Donnellys go for bass in Hale, Sandy Donnelly Michigan, where the family keeps a speedboat and Scott has his own trolling

At the Las Vegas tournament, Scott will participate in the 10-state speedcast championship. Under the rules, participants will have one minute to accumulate points by casting into one of three targets - two located 50 feet away, worth one point each, and one located 75 feet away, worth two points each. Scott has already mapped out his strategy. "I'm going for the 75-foot one all the way," he says.

And if Scott has as much time to practice over the summer as do most 12-Guess who won.

Landing a park

Township officials gathered early Memorial Day to make ceremonial payment of $1 to the State of Michigan, finalizing the purchase of a parcel of land near the state corrections property on Beck Road between Five and Six Mile. The township plans to make the property into a recreational park. Present were, from

County creates corrections planning commission

A long-range corrections planning commission was created by vote of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners May 19 at the urging of commissioner 'Mary Dumas.

Dumas, whose Livonia-centered district includes Northville, is chair of the public safety and judicial committee. Dumas said there is an immediate need to study corrections because of the opening of a new jail facilitly and possibility a bill in the state house may require housing of additional felons.

"Alternative sentencing proposals must also be studied," Dumas said. "Day fines, reverse work release, careful bond review, and restitution programs are but a few of the successful alternative sentencing proposals being used elsewhere.

"Because housing is our most difficult problem to deal with at the jail, I have the count called to me each day," she said.

The jail averages around 950 prisoners per day, which is the maximum. "With the opening of the new jail, we will probably be forced to house the 600 inmates from DeHoCo; and if the Padden bill passes, we may have all first and second year felons dumped on Wayne County.'

Members of the long-range planning commission will be the county executive, sheriff, prosecutor, chief judges of the circuit and recorders courts, a representative of the district courts, representatives of business and labor, chairman of the board of commissioners and chairman of the public safety and judicial committee.

Detroit Grand Prix workers reported on 'fast track'

It was an "exhausting but rewarding" weekend in Detroit for volunteer workers at the Detroit Grand Prix, according to Northville's Bill Braund.

Braund, one of several Northville residents who helped run the race, said that he and other Sports Car Club of America (SCCA) members were hardpressed for time.

"They really worked hard," he said. "A lot was asked of them and they did it

SCCA is the sanctioning body of Grand Prix racing in the U.S. and its Detroit Region is charged with organizing the event here.

With workers having to report at 5:30 or 6 a.m. and not getting home until near midnight, he related, four hours sleep a night was about as much as could be managed. He said he still felt fatigued Tuesday morning as he prepared a critique of his crew's performance.

"But you really feel a part of it," he said of working the event. Saying this year's event ran more smoothly than did last year's and that he anticipates even better performance in 1984, Braund had high praise for the equipment group he led, which included four others from Northville.

But participating is more exciting than watching, Braund implied, noting that the Detroit Region SCCA hopes its role in staging what will likely become the nation's only Grand Prix will display the attractions of membership in the group. Why Are My Prints A Funny Color?

If vou've tried some photos indoors with ordinary room lights, your prints probably came back too orange; if you were under fluorescent lights, they probably look green. While your eye is so sophisticated that it automatically "filters out" the real color of electric lights, the machine that make your prints can't do that automatically.

Printing machines are usually set up to correct color over a small range, which covers daylight situations pretty well. So when a negative comes through which has been exposed by what is really very orange light, the machine goes all the way to one end of its range trying to compen-

This leaves a lot to be desired if you really need good color. The only solution for room light shooting is to choose a color-compensating filter. The choice for tungsten (orange) light is an 80A filter. Under fluorescent lights, an FL-D will get your color back close to normal.

Car chase ends in Center Street crash

In the city...

A car chase originating in Novi ended when a fleeing automobile broadsided a car driven by a Northville woman last Friday morning. The Northville woman, Suzanne Cowles, was reportedly unhurt.

According to Northville police reports, Daniel Henry Slack, 18, of 38309 Tralee Trail, Farmington, was driving southbound on Center Street with Novi police 500 feet behind in pursuit. Slack reportedly ran a red light at Main, striking Cowles' car at the intersection of Center and Hines.

The chase began at 7:34 a.m. when Slack's car was seen westbound on Nine Mile Road in Novi without a license plate and swerving over the yellow line.

Novi police pursued and Slack reportedly turned left onto Center and sped through traffic control signs and the residential neighborhoods on the street at about 50 miles per hour, running lights at Eight Mile Road and Main

Immediately after the collision, Slack was taken by ambulance to St. Mary Hospital. As of yesterday, Novi police reported he was still being treated there for leg injuries. Slack's case has been turned over to the Oakland Coutny prosecutor's office for further legal ac-

Summerside Lane in Northville was the location of two significant thefts last stolen Monday from the driveway of a residence on Summerside. According to the owner's account to police investigators, the vehicle was stolen between 12:13-7:30 a.m. The car was reportedly left unlocked, with the keys on the floorboard.

Police report no suspects in connection with the theft.

Two days earlier, an outboard motor valued at $400 was reported stolen from the garage of a home, also on Summerside, but not the same residence as the Pinto theft.

The robbery reportedly took place between 8:30 a.m. and 10:26 p.m., when it was discovered. It was a 1973 Johnson outboard motor, colored white and green, serial number J394999.

An AM/FM cassette player/radio was stolen from a home on Reed Street between 5 p.m. Saturday and 4 a.m. Sunday, it was reported this week. The theft apparently took place at a party that night. The radio was described as a Panasonic with a broken antenna.

There were two incidents of malicious destruction of property reported by city police this week. The most significant was to a 1979 Oldsmobile parked on High Street Thursday afternoon. $200 worth of damage resulted when a rock was used to break the front windshield of the car between 3:15-5 p.m. No suspects are reported.

The other incident took place at A silver 1977 Ford Pinto was reported Cooke Junior High school Sunday, May

District Court July 5.

An estimated $500 worth of railroad ties was destroyed by fire May 28 along the C & O Railroad tracks between Innsbrook Drive and Northville Road, township police report.

An officer dispatched to the area southwest of Innsbrook discovered a smouldering fire on the east side of the railroad bridge. Northville Township

Fire Department also was dispatched. An investigation at the scene revealed the fire destroyed railroad ties which were part of the bridge support. An officer found a plastic bag in the weeds approximately 25 feet south of the bridge containing a mirror, paper towels, a sponge and matches.

C &O Railroad officials were notified of the incident and replied that the area would be inspected before trains crossed the tracks.

Police have no known witnesses or suspects at this time.

A $300 red Toro lawnmower was stolen from the garage of a Rayburn residence sometime between May 19 and 28, township police report. The complainant told police the owners were on vacation when the incident occurred. The garage was equipped with an automatic garage door opener and an officer's investigation revealed no signs of forcible entry. There are no suspects at this time.

A glass doorwall at a Jamestown Circle residence was damaged sometime

June 4, according to police. The complainant told police that someone threw a rock through the doorwall. No one was seen outside after the incident and there are no suspects.

Damage is estimated at $200.

Memorial Day report

Holiday accidents down, deaths up

JUNE 10, 11, & 12 TH. fri. 9 am to 9 pm

Increased safety awareness on the part of motorists and intensified patrols by law enforcement agencies were major factors in holding the state traffic fatality count to 10 over the recent 78hour Memorial Day holiday.

With only eight fatal traffic accidents over the weekend, the count reached a 20-year-low, but two double fatality motorcycle accidents raised the death count to 10. Last year, nine died in Memorial Day accidents.

This year was unusual in that there were no fatalities on the Sunday of the weekend. Colonel Gerald L. Hough, State Police Director, credited that Operation C.A.R.E. program, which provided 2,725 hours of increased patrols, and the assistance of the Michigan National Guard, which provided helicopters to conduct air speed timing and traffic surveillance.

Troopers were very active, Hough said, removing 207 drunk drivers from the highways, issuing a total 9,877 traffic citations and assisting 2,013 troubled motorists.

Of the eight weekend accidents, four involved motorcycles and accounted for six of the deaths. Of the remaining four accidents, none of the victims was wearing a safety belt - two were thrown from their cars and killed. Alcohol was a factor in three of the eight accidents, investigators said.

Our choices for school board are Whitaker and Dore

Next Monday, Northville voters will cast ballots in one of the most contested school board elections in recent history. We are encouraged that six residents have expressed an interest in vying for the two board seats and hope the community will reciprocate that interest by going to

Some of the faces in this election are familiar. In addition to incumbent Douglas Whitaker, candidates Russell Dore and Patrick Coyne are making their second bid for the board. Newcomers are

Incumbents unbeatable at Schoolcraft College

In Monday's election Northville voters will be facing 13 names on the ballot for trustee posts at Schoolcraft Community College. Eight candidates are seeking the three six-year terms while five have filed for the single two-year term open.

Among the candidates are three from Northville - Myron Kasey, who is seeking a six-year post, John C. Burkhardt and J. Christopher Rotta, both seeking the single two-year term.

We wish we could say they were strong candidates with a good chance of being elected, but all face formidable opposition from incumbents seeking reelection.

Kasey, a King's Mill resident at 18246 Jamestown Circle, is a registered professional engineer and a partner in Orunite Technologies; he previously was manager of advance models and materials engineering for Chrysler. Burkhardt, 19850 Fry, is completing work on his Ph.D. degree at University of Michigan and is director of University Health Services at Eastern Michigan University. Rotta, 1022 Canterbury, is "single and unemployed" and is running as a student candidate. He received an associate of arts degree at Schoolcraft in 1978 and expects to receive a second degree in computer science there this month.

We encouraged local residents to run for the college posts and feel these are qualified professional candidates; however, it has become apparent that the at-large voting makes it impossible for them to garner enough votes to defeat the popular Livonia incumbents. They are incumbents who have performed well for the college district.

Harry Greenleaf has been chairperson of the board for four years and is seeking the six-year term. A supervisor in organization planning and salary administration for the central staffs of Ford Motor Company, he brings the only industrial voice to the board. He is considered objective and sensitive to the needs of the entire district, although he is one of six current trustees from Livonia on the seven-member board.

Rosina Raymond, also of Livonia, is seeking her third six-year term. She has had a deep, continuing interest in the college since serving on the founding committee in 1961. She taught junior high and at Madonna College. She currently teaches genealogy for community education and is known for having a deep sense of history. She also is a strong supporter of women, voting for five women and no men in selecting a board replacement for Nancie Blatt who resigned when she moved from the district.

The two-year term is the remainder of Blatt's uncompleted term. Sharon Sarris of Livonia, appointed to fill out Blatt's unexpired term until the election, is considered to have performed well on the board. Like Raymond she is a member of the 2nd District Women's Political Caucus. She owns a consulting firm called the Sarris Group and formerly was a franchise manager for Harron Cable TV in Southfield.

Other candidates for the six year terms are Gerald L. Cox, Daryl J. Delabbio, both of Garden City; Mary Breen of Plymouth; Bryan A. Graham of Livonia; and Harvey A. Failor of Canton. Other candidates for the two-year term are Wesley L. Berry Jr. and Mark E. Stenhauer,

League's lack: Our loss

For next week's school board election there are no interviews of candidates by the local League of Women Voters. Like many other organizations, explains Northville resident Dee Richardson, who has been treasurer for the Northville, Plymouth, Canton and Novi league. the league's effectiveness has been hurt by lack of volunteers.

'It's just that more and more women are working and don't have the time," Richardson commented, noting that the voter service coordinator position for Northville is vacant. The league presently is seeking a volunteer for the post.

Billie Whiteley, a Plymouth resident, who assumed the league presidency last month, cites the need for a voter service person for Northville as one of two "most critical" vacancies. Relating that the league has several portfolios open, she also seeks publications and natural resources persons. She will be hosting the June general meeting at her home at 7:30 p.m. this Thursday and may be contacted by anyone interested in the league and its services at 453-7381.

It is encouraging to note that last weekend the league's immediate past president Nancy White was to be installed in Lansing as vice president of the state League of Women Voters.

The league did hold candidates' forums in Novi and Plymouth-Canton for the upcoming school board elections. We hope that a voter resource person for Northville will be available before another election - the league's vacancy is the community's loss.

Despite the slate of six candidates, this year's campaign seems to be rather low-key. Perhaps the recent events unfolding in the district - an administrative reorganization and the unveiling of the high school renovation feasability study — have overshadowed the election. If this is the case, voters need to focus their attention back to Monday's

The responsibilities placed on board members — particularly at this time of considerable change in the district - requires a total commitment from those elected to serve. It is crucial that board members have both the time and energy — as well as enthusiasm and knowledge -- to devote to serving the district. In our opinion, the candidates best suited to fulfill that commitment are incumbent Douglas Whitaker and Russell Dore.

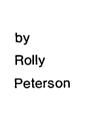

As current board president Whitaker has been working closely with Superintendent George Bell on goals for the district. He knows the distinction between the board's function of policy-making and the superintendent's of administration. He supports the advisory committee's recommendation for a bond issue for renovation of the high school and is convinced of the advantages of returning to a middle school concept for the district. We do not carte blanche support returning incumbents, but the district is on the verge of major projects to upgrade curriculum and facilities. It would be an error, in our opinion, not to have Whitaker's solid background on both.

We did not support Russell Dore in his initial bid for a board seat as we felt the expertise of incumbent Karen Wilkinson was valuable and because Glenna Davis already has proved to be a capable addition to the board as she filled an unexpired term. However, we expressed the hope that he would continue his interest in the schools — and he has. He worked on the citizens' advisory committee feasability study and has attended board sessions. A business executive, he could make a solid contribution to the board.

We feel the district also could be well served by James Petrie who has become knowledgeable about the district and has evidenced his interest by attending candidates' sessions and campaigning actively through district neighborhoods. He reports he has heard major hopes and concerns of residents.

Chris Johnson, who, when elected to the Northville Board of Education, was one of the youngest board members in the state, has proved that age and experience are not always criteria in determining contributions to the school board. He probably would be one of the first, however, to warn about the time demands required to be a competent board member. He gave that time and also brought a background to the job as a long-time resident. We are pleased that other young candidates Robert Blanton and Robert Bondy are interested in seeking a board seat but have concern that they know the demands it makes. We hope, however, that they will continue their interest. We feel, too, that Patrick Coyne, by his own admission, serves best in his role as a ques-

What makes Joe or Jane Candidate run?

Why would anybody wish to run for

I've often wondered. And the question came to mind again recently when I was asked to moderate a Meet the Candidates activity. The candidates were running for a local board of education.

During their introductory statements, I listened to the reasons-concern for the school system, devotion and even love of community, interest in education, the simple motivation to become involved, the desire to see policies and procedures applied equally

Those, essentially, were the reasons articulated at that candidates' night. I'm sure there are other reasons why people seek public office and I'm not referring solely to seats on the board of educationremuneration, the challenge of a job, interest in public issues, satisfaction of ego, the desire to be part of a good operation or to improve

Probably no one motive prompts a person to run for public office. A combination of the foregoing reasons is a more likely ex-

Perhaps these expectations will be satisfied. But I doubt it. They will at best be partially fulfilled.

Waiting to dash these high hopes, these lofty ideals, is the quite pervasive public attitude that all politicians are crooked or feeding at the public trough or seeking some personal gain rather than the public good.

Watergate didn't help politicians, nor did Abscam or any other sordid political mess. And it isn't only the national disgraces that grip the memory and make all politicians out to be crooks. If local residents have locked horns with local officials and lost, that experience turns them sour on government of all kinds. No matter that the elected officials had good reason(s) for taking the action they did. No matter that if the opposite action had been taken, an equal number of residents would have been angry.

I contend the large majority (as high as 95 percent) of elected officials are honest, motivated by positive forces and doing a good job. The problem is the tendency of the public to apply the egregious example to all governmental units.

And I firmly believe the less local residents come in contact with local government, the more inclined they are to badmouth politicians. Distance, in this case, lends disenchantment. These people are always willing to believe the worst about their local officials, whether the worst is rooted in fact or not.

Some people, if not the majority, think it abominable that politicians should lambast a person or proposal. "They are always fighting" is the view. But debate, if not heated rhetoric, is inextricably part of our governmental system. Better open, heated debate than the ominous silence characteristic of autocratic societies.

We in the newspaper business probably have done the politicians no favors. We report with regularity the explosions at city council or the township board. Let's face ic, the story about two political factions coiliding is infinitely more vivid and interesting than the quiet presentation of a service pin to Joe Volunteer, who has just completed 10 years on the police force.

saying we should drastically alter our approach of reporting the good and bad. But we must be more mindful of the positive and attempt in coverage of hot issues to put issues and the elected officials debating them into perspective-in writing.

Grand Prix gains from experience

TRACKSIDE NOTES FROM A GRAND PRIX SPECTATOR:

We racing fans who were cast in the role of apologists for the much-criticized 1982 Detroit Grand Prix can feel somewhat vindicated this week in our protests that "next year will be bet-

Given experience, a full year to plan and no shortage of critical comments to learn from, those involved put on a much more professional show last weekend. The effort was evident in decreased parking prices, improved traffic and crowd control, closer adherence to published schedules, better television coverage and in a dozen smaller ways.

Given the vast amount of attention the event has already received, I'll try to restrain the following comments to topics I've not seen addressed elsewhere, and I think I've read virtual-

- · One of the most-criticized aspects of last year's Grand Prix was the red flag that stopped the race to allow tow truck removal of an immobilized car. This year, there were several cranes strategically located to insure swift removal of a car by lifting it over the wall without having to stop the race. event, two cars stopped on straight portions of the track and were simply left at trackside for the duration. Elio de Angelis' Renault-powered John Player Special (Lotus) sat dead on the front straight from lap 5 to the end, the driver having thrown his gloves into the dirt in frustration before running across the track and over the pit wall.
- Somebody got the word that a Detroit race ought not to totally ignore the local product. Adding the Champion and Kelly American races as supporting events put tons of Detroit-bred racing iron on the streets, all but silencing the foreign-invasion rhetoric that hampered publicity efforts last year. It also made for better racing action when the big boys weren't on the track. It isn't only cars that spectators identify with, however. One of the most exciting races of the weekend was the Formula Mondial event Saturday, when distinct cheering sections could be heard for Michael Andretti (Mario's son) and eventual winner

Josele Garza (a name familiar from Indy racing).

 That it was transmission failure in Rene Arnoux's Ferrari that put an end to his dominance of the race came as little surprise to those who could see the start. After forming up on the grid, the cars lapped the circuit on two separate occasions before the start — both times, pole-sitter Arnoux jumped off the line almost as if racing. Full-throttle starts from a dead stop put a tremendous strain on the entire drive train and are usually avoided unless needed.

With the two "practice" starts, the actual start (when he lost the drag race to turn one to Nelson Piquet, who'd done his practicing the day before), "normal" race driving and another start from a standstill after his pit stop (when his Ferrari came onto the track like a scalded cat), Arnoux very likely put a greater strain on his gearbox than did any other leading driver. His retirement was the only one attributed to transmission

Some things that still need work:

- Pricing strategy. From what I could see, the top and bottom ends of the scale sold well, the middle ranges more spottily. As people learn what is available, perhaps they will move from both ends into the middle, where it might pay off to offer a quantity discount for families or other groups buying blocs of tickets.

— Totally unobscured views of the track are rare. This is inevitable on a circuit laid out on city streets with the high standards for spectator safety evidenced in Detroit, but could be alleviated with more consideration in the arrangement of spectator (not safety) fences and support equipment.

Minor delays pushed Saturday and Sunday action behind schedule, indicating organizers may want to pad it out a little longer to allow for the unanticipated.

 As if anyone needed reminding that Northville and Detroit are far different communities, consider this: Northville City Council has several times debated the advisability of scheduling community events on Sundays when they might conflict with church services. In Detroit last Sunday, there was racing in the streets at 9 a.m. and concessionaires were selling beer.

Protest planned at cruise missile plant

. Until recently, we heard very little in the media about Cruise missiles, but they are increasingly in the news now that 400 are due to be deployed in Europe in December of this year.

The Cruise missile is already installed on B-52 bombers at Griffis Air Force Base in New York and at Wurtsmith Air Force Base in Michgan. The U.S. Navy plans to use thousands of Cruise missiles on ships, including WW II renovated battleships. The Cruise nissile can be moved around on easily hidden launchers the size of a semitrailer truck.

The Cruise missile is a fearsome, distabilizing nuclear weapon because it is small, mobile and cheap (costing about a million dollars each.) They will be the first long-range weapon in history small enough to be concealed from satellite verification. The government has not yet explained how arms

The hardest part of sponsoring a canned food drive is getting the word out to the public before they enter the restaurant. Without your help, and the help of the downtown merchants, shop owners in Highland Lakes and Northville Plaza malls, and church committees we could never have gotten such a great response — who carries around canned food in their pocket?

Thanks to the terrific support from the community and the guests at Northville Charley's that brought in cans, we collected a total of 500 in 30 days as many or more as any other par-

Beware of teen drinking

By R. ROBERT GEAKE State Senator

Injury and death. They just don't seem to relate to June, the month of graduations, youthful-exuberance and festivity. But the sad fact is that those very celebrations can result in highway casualties and fatalities because of the teenage drinking that often accompanies them. Granted; - that's a sobering thought at such a happy time, but it's one that more parents and young people should consider and discuss together.

Because of all the celebration and general good feeling at this time of year, parents are often more likely to 'go easy" on their teenagers who may be graduating, or going to a prom or special party. They often extend curfews and even turn their backs on their drinking at parties, wedding receptions or open houses.

But consider the potential outcome of that lenience. First, there is the obvious danger to the young person. These individuals, inexperienced behind the wheel, have even less ability than their elders to maneuver a vehicle while under the influence of alcoholic Continued on 14

AFTER EXTRACTION TIPS

Q. What should I do after an extraction?

A. The main point to remember following an extraction, is to allow time for the blood clot to form in the empty socket. This process must happen in order for the area to heal. There are certain precautions you can take to avoid disrupting the clot once it's formed. Don't do anything to create a suction in your mouth. For example, smoking, rinsing, or drinking through a straw. Also cut down on your activity for about 24 hours, and avoid hot liquids, alcoholic beverages, and eat soft foods the first day. Continue to brush and floss your teeth but remember not to rinse the mouth vigorously. Most extraction sites heal quickly and with no complications.

Secondly, we now have a new, strict drunk driving law in effect in Michigan, and law enforcement agencies are not going easy or being more lenient at this time. In fact, they're cracking down. As of April 1, breathalyzer tests can be administered at roadside, the penalties and fines for driving under the influence are much stricter, and license revocations and suspensions are much more common.

Mexican eatery adds spice to downtown Northville

Since 1947 Michigan Aluminum

HOT SPOT — Making a go of the restaurant business in downtown Northville are the operators of Juan Carlos, a Mexican restaurant that has undergone rapid growth; John Hansen and Chuck Schmidt are partners (not pictured is Pete Hansen). John's wife Laura and her mother, Maria Campos, make it? happen in the kitchen.

By KEN VOYLES

Revitalization in downtown Northville is epitomized by places like Juan Carlos Restaurant, a recently expanded Mexican eatery, and by its owners, a pair of brothers and a lifelong friend.

The restaurant, which opened its doors as a carry-out business in December, now has a full-fledged dining area for patrons and offers a complete line of authentic Mexican dishes as well as sandwiches, homemade soups and pizza.

Juan Carlos, located on Mary Alexander Court, is literally a touch of Mexico just off the city's Main Street.

The owners, John and Pete Hansen and Chuck Schmidt, rely on the cooking expertise of Marie Campos, and her daughter Laura Hansen to bring to life the various Mexican dishes offered on the menu. And the atmosphere in the new dining room is pure Mexico.

Everything we make is from scratch. It's made here every morning. My mom is the one who knows how to make the real Mexican food. She's the teacher for all of us," said John Hansen's wife Laura.

been a manager of several pizza places and wanted to open a restauruant.

"Since Laura and her mother know Mexician food we thought that would be the type of business to start," he added. "After that it was just a matter of finding the right community.'

John and Laura are residents of South Lyon, while Schmidt lives in Canton and Pete and his wife Grace, who also works at the restaurant, live in Milford. Maria Campos resides in

As soon as the business opened for carry-out the owners realized there was a market in the community and that a dining area was desperately needed.

John Hansen, 33, and Schmidt, 33, grew up together in Detroit. They split the managing chores, while Pete, the older Hansen at 39, is a relatively silent partner. He is employed by Ford Motor Company.

"What is now the dining area used to be a bookstore. When that went under we knew we had our expansion," said

Schmidt added that the business hasn't quite lived up to his expectations for success. Nonetheless getting established is a slow process, one he realizes.

"It hurts us being just off Main Street," he said. "But the general response of the Northville community has been a very kind one to us." The renovations to the dining area were carried out by the owners and several friends. John Hansen, a carpenter by trade, did much of the Juan Carlos (translated John-Chuck) offers a full line of lunches and dinners. We want to stress our lunch offerings. Other businesses in Northville seem to get a lunch crowd. We haven't yet and I don't know why," John said.

The new dining area is open to 10 p.m. every night of the week but Saturday when it stays open until midnight. Carry-out orders can be placed until 11 p.m. five days a week.

The house specialities, according to Campos, are the wet burrito and the nachos grande. "They have been our best sellers since we opened," said Campos. Juan Carlos is also one of the

Insurance cost cited as business problem

The cost of liability insurance regulated by government accounts for more than half the top 10 concerns of small businesses nationally, according to a recent survey.

Respondents to the survey by the National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB) showed those liability costs the only ones among the top 10 not the direct result of an unhealthy economy. "Among the most serious problems small firms identified were payroll taxes, which have been hiked twice in the last nine months," said Roger Haynes, spokesman for NFIB/Michigan.

The November survey askd 20,980 small business owners selected at random to rate 72 problems by severity. Interest rates were rated at the top, but researchers attribute the responses to abnormally high interest rates at the time of the survey.

Responses were categorized by industry to find specific problem areas. Manufacturers and wholesalers were more concerned with worker productivity while transportation firms were harder hit by government paperwork requirements.

Small retailers found electricity rates harder to swallow than most while agricultural firms cited competition from imported products as a major

"Small entrepreneurs in metorpolitan areas see their problems in the same order, and with roughly the same intensity, as their small-town twins," said Haynes. He added that rural employers were less burdened by finding and keeping good workers than were the urban employers.

Small, metropolitan businesses rated payroll taxes, benefit costs and locating qualified employees as bigger problems than either smallcity or retail firms.

"Individuals who might need the new budget/service are those whose current income is not sufficent to meet their current needs," Bonifield says. Individuals who are laid off for example, may have bills they were able to pay when they were employed, and not know what to tell their creditors when they can no longer meet these payments. The same is true for senior citizens trying to live on social security."

Bonifield acts as a mediator between her client and his creditor. "Sometimes," says Bonifield, "I will write a letter to the creditor and describe my client's specific problem, and how we are trying to correct it. I will offer the creditor some amount of money, even just a small monthly payment, in place of the client's regular payment.'

The pressure of a financial problem may be too great for an individual to deal with, and it helps to have someone look at the situation objectively, says Bonifield.

She claims there have been very few problems when dealing with creditors, and they are usually

"It is much easier for people to cope with their financial predicament when they have a guide to follow and some goals to meet," she says.

'After three months with the budget we worked out, the individual may be able to keep their financial situation under control," Bonifield says. "If they are unable to, I will continue to work with them

Sometimes a client may prefer to refinance. This is when the individual would rather borrow money from the bank to pay all his debts, and owe one large payment to the bank. If this is the case, Bonifield will refer them to a cooperative bank.

In 80 percent of the cases, however, this is not necessary.

The cost of Bonifield's financial/budget services are very reasonable. "Other places charge a percentage of the individual's unpaid debts," explains Bonifield. "I don't do that." For a one time budget consultation it usually costs an individual

Mini-Olympics

Preschoolers vie for medals in Northville Co-op events

Among the many rites of spring at Northville Co-operative Preschool is the annual Mini-Olympics for all preschool classes in the program. This year's non-competitive events, held May 26, drew quite a throng of mini-olympians. Events included the obstacle course, somersault, hoop jumping and rolling down a hill. Preschoolers completing events were awarded Olympic medals — as well as cheers from their fans. Among those participating in this year's Mini-Olympics was Eve Radzialowski, 2, at left, who pauses with a hula-hoop to watch her classmates get their picture taken. Another hula-hooper was Jenny Nelem, 5, at right, who completed the hula-hoop roll for an Olympic

Sisters dance into Highland finals

Sixteen-year-old Leslie Grover, a student at Northville High School, and her sister Elizabeth (Grover) Weaver trace their Scottish ancestry through their father, Rod Grover, whose parents were Scottish. It has given them a special interest in Highland dancing — for which both are winning widespread recognition.

Memorial Day weekend they were among the 130,000 attending the 16th annual Highland Festival Games at Alma College. Leslie came home with the first place trophy in the under-17 classification and the Best Dancer award from the closing ceremonies. Her sister Elizabeth placed in three dances to win an adult award. She is married to Bill Weaver, who teaches Scottish dancing here. He piped for the dancing at Alma. The couple recently returned to Michigan from North Carolina, and Bill is enrolled at Central Michigan University. Janis Burkhardt of Northville is Leslie's teacher.

Leslie's mother, Yvonne Grover, reports that on May 29 the Federation of United States Teachers and Adjudicators of Highland Dance sponsored a regional competition in which Leslie took first place regionally in her age category and Elizabeth captured runner-up place in the 18-and-over category, winning paid trips to the National Scottish Dance Competition being held at Oberlin College June 25.

It's Valrances' final event for Newcomers

The traditional party for this year's board members of Northville Newcomers Club and their spouses was held Sunday. Retiring president Sharon Valrance and her husband Jim were hosts at the cook-out at their home.

The new board for next year officially took over at an informal joint board meeting of Newcomers May 9 at the Valrance home. It was a wine and hors d'oeuvres welcome for new president Joan Hursey and her officers. Alice Patterson is the new membership chairman.

The art fair will be held in the courtyard from 5:30-7 p.m. More than 300 works of art will be displayed with each student having at least one object exhibited. Gail Raben, Amerman's art teacher, has been collecting and setting aside student projects all year.

Another feature of the art fair will be the first showing of several pieces of student art work that have been matted and framed to become a permanent part of Amerman's art collection.

The ice cream social will be held from 6:30-8 p.m. The traditional sundaes, ice cream cones, homemade pies, cakes, cookies and coffee and orange drink will be available. A new feature this year will be fresh popcorn.

In addition to the good things to eat, children may wish to try their luck at the cake walk — winners will take home cakes this year. Helium balloons will be another new feature.

Chairpersons for the event are Laurie

Slagter and Pam Lennig. Advance ticket sales will be for Amerman students Friday morning.

Northville's Martina Millen

Tina Millen is state MVP

By B.J. MARTIN

The state's best female soccer player lives in your neighborhood.

That's the word from the all-state selection committee, who convened last week and unanimously agreed Northville's outstanding defender Martina Millen is this year's Michigan high school soccer most valuable player.

Millen, a senior, had been named an all-stater on the 1982 team, and her selection this year — according to coach Ron Meteyer, the first ever by a unanimous vote — was announced last night at the varsity team banquet.

The Mustangs' leading scorer, junior striker Lisa Cahill, was accredited honorable mention all-state status.

Altogether, seven Northville varsity soccer players were singled out for post-season honors on the Western Lakes Athletic Association all-league and all-division teams.

Named to the all-league team from the 16-2-1 co-WLAA champion Mustangs were 1982 Millen and this year with the Mustang record for most goals scored in a season — 30 — exactly twice as many goals as the Mustangs allowed all year. Cahill's scoring show broke Marge Muller's record of 26 set in 1982. Cahill also collected seven assists.

Named to the all-Western division team were defender Kim Petit, winger Tish Johnson and midfielder Christine Kreutzberg.

Petit, a junior, also received all-division honors in 1982, as did Kreutzberg, a senior. Petit contributed one goal and two assists in addition to her steady defensive play, while Kreutzberg finished the season with two goals and three assists.

Johnson is one of the team's (and league's) fastest strikers. The senior finished the season with 10 goals, second on the team, and added seven assists.

Senior Jan Irwin and Junior Kim May were awarded honorable mention status, Irwin for the second year in a row.

Rocks crunch Mustangs in district finals

Dan Nielsen's superb two-hit shutout of Farmington in the Class A district baseball semifinal Saturday morning went for naught, as the Rocks of Plymouth Salem crunched the Mustangs 15-3 in the final Saturday afternoon.

The day was a study in contrasts of Mustang pitching — in the first game Nielsen, who had not yet posted one win all season in spite of some brilliant pitching efforts, was in complete control. But control was nonexistent against Salem, as four Mustang hurlers issued 15 walks.

"You don't win ballgames that way," coach Fred Holdsworth observed.

NORTHVILLE 7 FARMINGTON 0

Nielsen, a junior, had his best game ever in the semi. On the mound the beefy senior struck out 11, issued no bases on balls, and allowed only one Falcon baserunner to get as far as third base.

Nielsen had it all, getting a mitt-popping fastball, a big-dipper curve and a yo-yo-like change-up over the plate with remarkable consistency. His three-run homer in the fifth inning was icing on the cake. It was a big triumph for Nielsen, who had pieced together five scoreless innings against Plymouth Canton and four scoreless innings against Livonia Franklin earlier in the season, but consistently ran into trouble in the late innings.

"If Dan stays in condition next season, he's going to be a really dominating pitcher," Holdsworth noted. Holdsworth affirmed he would return as coach in '84. "We should have quite a team next year," he added. "We'll be returning seven of our starters, and we'll have 13 players back in all."

Left fielder Jerry Pawlowski contributed two of the Mustangs' six hits against Farmington, knocking in two runs with a bases-loaded double in the third inning and scoring on Nielsen's homer.

third inning and scoring on Nielsen's homer.

Todd Bartling, who played an excellent game behind the plate, had two singles — his first loaded the bases in the first inning, permitting lead runner Chris Behen to score on sortstop Dave Longridge's grounder. Nielsen's shot just over the rightfield fence scored Bartling in the fifth.

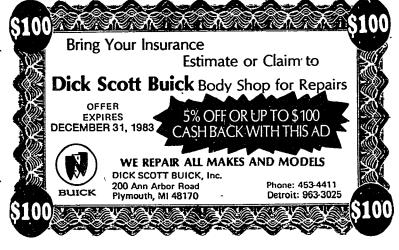

Eleven passes issued by Farmington pitchers contributed to the Falcons' downfall — the

Panowicz sizzles at track tourneys

Panowicz came within 0.9 seconds of capturing first place in the 300 meter hurdles at the MHSAA Class A state finals competition in Jackson Saturday, finishing third in the state in a schoolrecord 43.9 seconds — a somewhat amazing performance for a 15-year-old.

Panowicz added an eighth place in the 100 meter lows with a 14.8 to add another medal and finish the meet with all seven of Northville's points, placing Northville 24th among the 55 teams that scored. Meet winner was Flint Northern with 59.

"Cindy was a little disappointed," remarked Northville girls' track coach Ann Dayton, "but I thought she'd done very well. She hadn't had much close competition during the season, and I think that would have helped. This was really the first time she had any competition." Panowicz finished 12th overall — just out of scoring - in the 200 meter dash, where her 25.8 tied her own new school record.

But just how dominant an athlete Panowicz can be was demonstrated even more clearly at the Western Lakes Athletic Association league meet last Wednesday. The multi-talented Panowicz captured four first places at the meet to score 40 of Northville's 47

Churchill with 85. The remaining team scoring went: Walled Lake Western 72, Famington Harrison 64, Plymouth Salem 63, Livonia Stevenson 48, Northville 47, Farmigton 37, Plymouth Canton 30, Waled Lake Central 211/2, Walled Lake Central 211/2 and Livonia Bentley 11/2.

Panowicz took firsts in the long jump with a school record 17'3", in the 300 meter lows in 44.8, in the 200 meters in 25.8 and in the 100 meter lows in 14.6.

Rounding out Northville's additional points were Wendy Nuechterlein, who took fifth in the 3,200 meters with a personal best 12:13.5., Kim Assenmacher, who took sixth in the 400 meters in 64.4, her best-ever time, and Northville's 400 and 800 meter relay teams.

The 400 meter relay team of Kerry Lenaghan, Erin Ryan, Laura Chamberlain and Mary Howley clocked a 53.5 for sixth place, while the 800 team of Lenaghan, Ryan, Kim Campbell and Howley did two laps in 1:53.7.

Dayton said she was just as much pleased by performances that finished out of the scoring, including the 1,600 relay team of Assenmacher, Lynn Bills, Howley and Chamberlain, who finished seventh by a fraction in a season-best

"They ran in a slow heat and didn't have any competition," Dayton added. "I think they could have done even bet-

Junior hurdler Mark Knoth competed Saturday at the MHSAA state track finals at Jackson, finishing out of the scoring in his first appearance at the state level in the 300 meter lows. But boys track coach Gary Polley said the weekend was far from a total loss.

"It was a good experience for Mark to go to the states," Polley remarked Monday. "During the regular season, he never lost in a meet, at least until the regionals. Seeing people in front of him must have thrown him a little.

Indeed, Knoth particated in one of the most competitive events at the state level. Although he has run better than the 40.2 seconds he posted at Jackson, including a 39.8 at the regional championships two weeks before, the scorching time of Steve Everett of Lansing Everett led the field at 36.4.

Everett was the state winner with 53 points, just ahead of Flint Northern with 41.

Unofficially, Knoth's time was 13th best, but the junior appears to have a good shot at improving that finish next year.

'Mark will be on the summer team coached by (assistant boys' coach) Brian Turnbull," said Polley, who announced he would step down from coaching track last month.

Senior Dave Bach withdrew from state finals competition in the shot put after qualifying in the regional May 21. His previous best of 50'9" was well back of the state record 62'11/2", made by Monroe's

Gary Price Saturday. previous Wednesday, Northville finished ninth of the 10 teams that competed in the Western Lakes Activities Association track championships at Farmington, completing the meet with 12 points, well back of winner Livonia Churchill with 160.

Knoth sat out the tournament to prepare for states, but Northville picked up points in the 220, the 880, the 440 relay and the shot put.

Joel Vogt was Northville's top finisher, taking third in the 220 in 23.87. Bach finished fourth in the shot put with a 49'4" effort, and John Klokkenga took sixth in the half-mile, doing two laps in 2:04.15.

The 440 relay team, all underclassmen, gave Northville its remaining point, clocking a 46.34 for one more sixth place.

The Mustangs' finish, however, was close to coach Mary Minor's early-season goal of reaching the .500 mark with her relatively young team, which is still experiencing rebuilding.

Mustangs should have learned from the experience in the afternoon follow-up.

> PLYMOUTH SALEM 15 NORTHVILLE 3

It wasn't a case of the Rocks having a better team than the Mustangs — in regular-season play, Northville had topped Salem 9-8 - it was a case of nightmarish pitching. After starter Jim Thomson had established a 5-2 record going into the Salem contest, including some of the Mustangs' best-pitched games all season, the magic was gone on Saturday.

Thomson faced six batters, walking five and allowing a single, when Holdsworth decided he had seen enough. With undefeated lefthander Doug Doyle nursing a sore arm, Holdsworth called on infielder Bob Pegrum, who turned in five innings of solid relief after yielding two walks and a single in a jittery first inning.

Problem was there were two more innings to go. Pegrum, tiring in the unexpected workout, permitted a six-run Rock rally in the sixth inning, and Mickey Newman and Steve Schrader each had control problems in further relief. When the dust cleared, Northville pitchers had issued a seasonhigh 15 walks.

The Mustangs picked up their first run in the first inning on Pawlowski's double, two walks and a sacrifice fly by Longridge. Nielsen, DH for the afternoon game, singled in Pawlowski in the fourth inning for the second, and Pegrum added the last Mustang run in the fifth after being hit by a pitch, coming home on a single by Longridge.

The split finished off the Mustangs' season at a very respectable 13-6.
