Christopher Lightfoot at home

The miracle of Christopher

By MICHELE McELMURRY

Though he only weighs six pounds, 14 ounces, Christopher Lightfoot may well be considered among life's toughest fighters.

Born March 1 — 14 weeks before his expected birth date — and weighing a mere two pounds, 10 ounces, the tiny infant has defied the odds and overcome countless setbacks in his struggle for life.

"They said at his birth that he was bottom line on the success rate," says the infant's father Jeff Lightfoot, while cradling his tiny son in his arms.

"Many doctors and nurses said he was a miracle baby."

For Deborah and Jeff Lightfoot, their son's homecoming June 27 almost seemed a miracle. Less than two months ago, doctors predicted that Christopher would not return home for another six months to a year.

For the past four months, the Lightfoot family has been riding an emotional seesaw — teetering between life and death.

"We lived with death and life the entire time we were in there," says Jeff of Christopher's 119 days in the Holden Neonatal Intensive Care Unit at University of Michigan Hospital.

Trouble for the Lightfoots began at the end of January when Deborah started bleeding. An ultra sound test revealed the development of a placenta previa and Deborah was admitted to U-M's Intensive Care Unit.

Deborah's problems intensified while in the hospital and on March 1, unable to stabilize the young mother, doctors delivered Christopher.

Jeff, a fifth-sixth grade teacher at Amerman Elementary School, explains that "Christopher had a better prognosis at birth than some full-term babies.

"When he was born he cried," Jeff explains, "everybody in the operating room grinned right there. They knew he was going to be okay."

To try and prevent a collapse of Christopher's underdeveloped lungs, doctors inserted a tube into the tiny infant only moments after his birth. He did not cry again until the end of May.

However, in the weeks that followed, Christopher's condition deteriorated. His birth weight of two pounds, 10 ounces, dropped to two pounds, two ounces. By April he had developed chronic lung disease and eventually would endure six lung rupturings within three months.

"Things went down hill from mid-March to early May," Jeff explains. In addition to the lung disease, the Lightfoots constantly worried about other problems prevalent among severe "preemies" such as intestinal problems, jaundice, intracranial bleeding and infection.

Deborah's condition also was a concern. She spent 45 days in U-M Hospital before being discharged. For 28 days, she got up only twice — both times she was taken on a stretcher to visit her newborn son.

"The scariest point was when they thought she had stabilized," Jeff explains, "she went to sit up and lost two pints of blood."

Another member of the family who also struggled through the family's difficult time is the couple's son Brad, 3.

"He's been through a pretty rough time," Jeff says of his oldest son. In addition to his little brother's premature birth and his mother's long absence, Brad also has experienced his family's recent move to a new house on Taft Road.

Jeff credits the hospital staff with helping his family through perhaps its most difficult challenge.

"The doctors were up front with us from the start," he notes. "They told us that Christopher could go at the snap of a finger."

He also points out that the hospital was very liberal with its visiting hours, allowing the family to sit with Christopher for hours at a time.

Jeff notes that Christopher was seven weeks old before Deborah held him. Jeff was not able to hold his son until he was nine weeks old.

The couple also received considerable support from other parents of "preemies" who met at the hospital.

City plans cutbacks

With the state legislature expected to appropriate nearly $300,000 less racetrack revenue to the city than is anticipated in its budget, city manager Steven Walters is preparing a contingency plan to cut expenses accordingly.

"These (budget) amendments will almost certainly involve payroll reductions, either in the form of layoffs or employee concessions or both," Walters stated in a deficit reduction plan submitted to the state Municipal Finance Commission.

The MFC is monitoring the city's budget performance closely with its key concern being the continuing deficit of more than $450,000.

In his letter, Walters projected that if the state appropriates the expected $500,100 rather than the formula-determined $800,000-plus included in the city budget, the deficit could grow to $527,000 from its present $451,000.

The city's current plan calls for reduction of the deficit, assuming full racing appropriations, to $227,500 by June 30, 1984.

If the appropriation is reduced, however, Walters said reducing the deficit would require extreme measures.

"Routine budget adjustments during the year could probably offset enough of the projected ($527,411) deficit to hold it at the 6/30/82 level of $483,151 but much more of an adjustment is not likely without major expenditure cuts," he wrote.

Most of the burden must be taken up in the city's general fund, he explained, the other funds being "locked in" by their natures.

City council authorized the preparation of budget amendments to respond to the potential loss of revenue, with Walters to report the results next Monday.

Walters said his recent discussions with the MFC have shown a slightly different attitude on the state's part. When the city earlier this year sought MFC approval for sale of tax anticipation notes, the treasury department was critical of the city's failure to make headway against the deficit, notwithstanding the city's position that its problem is the result of state-administered slashes to the racing revenue.

But more recently, the MFC appears more "understanding" of the city's plight in that it has to provide services to the track prior to receiving state funding, Walters related.

A large part of the city general fund expenditures is the cost of maintaining a police department much larger than is normal for a city of its size. The outsize department is necessary to provide the services required at the racetrack, the city maintains.

Winner's Circle relocates

The Winner's Circle Bar is moving — and changing its name.

Proprietor James Rea received city council approval to transfer the bar's class C liquor license and dance permit from 111-113 West Main to his new building at 135 North Center.

The state liquor control commission must still approve the license transfer, and on-going construction at the new site must be completed and approved by city building officials before the move is made.

The new location has been a beauty salon and recently received an addition to the rear, extending into the city parking lot north of the present location.

Rea showed council plans indicating he would change the name of his operation to The Starting Gate or Starting Gate No. 1. He said those were not the only names under consideration, but that the harness racing theme would be maintained.

When seeking site plan approval for the addition, Rea had first told the planning commission he wanted to locate an arcade in the added space at the back of the beauty shop. Later, city officials said, the new construction was said to be for a retail plumbing business.

The interior of the addition has not been completed, city manager Steven Walters said. Rea wished to know there was no city opposition to the liquor license transfer before investing in remodeling the interior, he explained.

Although council normally requires a building inspection approval before authorizing liquor license activities, Walters said it was appropriate to grant approval with the expectation that the building under construction would meet

At township meeting

Fire station on agenda

Agenda for the July meeting of the Northville Township Board of Trustees at 8 p.m. Thursday in township hall includes continuation of the discussion of plans for a fire station in the western section of the township by chief Robert Toms.

Clerk Susan J. Heintz is to present a proposal for the continuation of the community rehabilitation program.

At last month's council meeting there had been discussion of dropping township participation inasmuch as it had consumed a great deal of the clerk's time previously.

Heintz, in her proposal, notes that she feels continuation is justified as there now are seven resident homeowners on the waiting list who have met preliminary income checks.

As directed by the township board last month, she is submitting a proposed budget of $20,000 for the program, which includes director services, inspections and service of a specifications writer.

Also under old business is consideration of an amendment to the township's facilities plan grant.

Kenneth Kunkel of the township's auditing firm of Plante and Moran is on the agenda.

Also to be considered is street widening in the Greenspan project in the Colonies subdivisions and a stop sign on Portis.

Circus time!

Big Top opens Friday at Downs

In true on-the-road tradition, two 90-minute shows will be given daily this Friday and Saturday under the big top as the circus comes to town.

Billed as an Old Fashioned Circus Under the Big Top, the circus has been setting up tents in the Northville Downs parking lot and bringing in elephants and other animal acts all week.

The caravan began arriving Monday as first workers were on the scene from the previous stop in Atlanta, Michigan, reports Scott Lapham, president of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce which is sponsoring the attraction, one of several downtown summer events.

The two shows daily will feature all the attractions associated with circuses — from trapeze and acrobat acts to a lion tamer, horse show, dog act, monkey performance and the traditional elephants.

There also will be the popular clowns with petite Dolly and big-nosed Ze Ze among the featured stars.

Between the shows at 1:30 and 7 p.m. both days, Lapham announces, there will be elephant rides for the public.

Lapham has obtained permission from city council to bring an elephant into town Friday in a parade up Center at 11 a.m. The elephant will have a "birthday party" treat of an ice cream cone from Cloverdale's in the parking lot behind the store at noon, and all children will receive a special price on ice cream treats during the circus stay.

The pachyderm also will receive gifts from merchants, including from the new Orin Jewelers of Northville, Lapham reports.

Lapham himself plans to present the elephant with a birthday tie from his clothing store. The elephant will have an official police escort during the "amble" through town.

While the circus is at the Downs, hot dogs, hamburgers, potato chips and pop will be sold there by the Northville City and Township Firefighters' groups.

Reduced price tickets will be available in advance from Lapham's store or the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce office at 195 South Main. Advance sale tickets are $3 for children, $5 for adults, and $15 for a family of two adults and up to three children. Prices will be slightly higher at the gate, Lapham said.

The chamber office will be open from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. for sales.

codes when completed. He likened the situation to that when Joe's Little Bar became Getzie's Pub, with the old building demolished and a new erected in its stead.

Both the present beauty salon and the addition are to be converted to bar use, with an opening provided between them. One area is to emphasize food service, the other music and dancing, with free passage between them.

Both a bandstand and dance floor are planned to make use of the dance permit that was added to Rea's liquor license recently.

Rea, who rents at the present location but owns the proposed site, told council he had wished to make improvements to the facility before but was unable to do so.

Council member Burton DeRusha noted the move would bring the bar within 300 feet of a church and asked what guidelines pertain to such locations. Walters said the LCC contacts the church and invites it to comment, with those comments given consideration in the LCC's decision.

"In this case, the church has not responded," Walters said, indicating no strong objection.

DeRusha also asked what influence the change of use and transfer of location would have on the proprietor's obligation to pay for parking spaces.

Walters said the beauty shop use already carries a higher fee than is applied to most retail shops, so Rea's building may not have to add a large number of spaces beyond what is already being paid for. The old location should see a reduction in its obligation, he said.

The total number of spaces involved is unlikely to change significantly, he said.

Transfer of the liquor license was presented for approval as part of the police department's report and was not listed separately on council's agenda. Clerk Joan McAllister, who usually prepares the agenda, said she was absent the previous week, and staff mislabeled the item in her absence. There was no time to change the agenda after she discovered it that morning, she said.

City police chief Rodney Cannon reported he could see "no reason" why the transfer should not be allowed.

DeRusha made the motion to approve the transfer of the license with dance permit, noting that he "opposed (the dance permit) when it went through, and still don't like it." Council voted 4-0 to approve the transfer, Mayor Paul Vernon being absent.

Computing

Chuck DeLand, 11, and Beth Swayne, 12, of Northville recently participated in a computer workshop for kids at Madonna College in Livonia. They worked on microcomputers, such as Apple II and TRS-80 in the computer lab of the college. Chuck attends St. Fabian elementary school, and Beth will be entering Meads Mill middle school in the fall.

After April rejection, produce store's liquor sale is approved

The lesson might be that it pays to persist. When Northville Produce, located at 42939 West Seven Mile, repeated its request for a package liquor license and had denial recommended to the Michigan Liquor Control Commission by the township board of trustees, the applicant asked for a hearing.

It was held May 26 at the Lincoln Park Office of the commission, and the request for a new Specially Designated Distributor (SDD) license to be held in conjunction with an existing Specially Designated Merchant (SDM) license was granted.

The firm and the township trustees were notified in a letter dated July 7 that the request had been approved.

The license was denied by the commission in April after the township board of trustees recommended denial. At the meeting it was pointed out that the applicant is located in a shopping center and is within 2,640 feet of two existing SDD outlets, Perry Drug Stores Incorporated and D & J Goodtime Party Store, which filed an objection to the issuance of the license.

The produce market requested and received a waiver of the ruling that an applicant not be approved within 2,640 feet with the applicant's legal counsel noting that the commission may waive the rule if the business is located in a neighborhood shopping center which does not have an existing specially designated distributor's licensed establishment.

In favor of granting the waiver, it was pointed out that Northville Produce is unique in that it sells many items not available in most stores, resulting in attracting customers from a wide geographic area. With gross sales of $3.5 million a year, it was noted that the business serves 300-400 customers on weekdays and 700-800 on weekends.

Counsel for Goodtime Party Store argued that the license was denied in June, 1981, and that the facts have not changed.

However, the argument in favor of the produce market was that granting it a license would not take away business of existing outlets since the business is unique and serves a different clientele. It was noted that it is located in the most densely populated area of Northville Township.

Petitions with signatures of approximately 3,000 persons in support of the applicant's request were presented.

Local business beware! The new scam in this area is to turn in fake rolls of dimes in exchange for rolls of quarters or paper money. There is a dime in each end and pennies in the middle.

It's funny what acquaintances suggest for this column.

I bumped into Carol Geake, Northville veterinarian, the other day in the beauty shop. We caught up on all our personal news and then, out of the blue, she said, "Why don't you tell people about maggots? No one seems to realize the worst thing you can do for your dog in hot weather is to hose them down. Wet fur attracts maggots."

OK, Carol, I've told them.

And in Hamlet's the other day, two young, always helpful, clerks asked, "When are you going to mention us in your column?"

While talking with an attorney friend this week, I was bombarded with, "Why don't you write about how to write press releases? Most of them are awful!"

I rushed home from work yesterday in the middle of the afternoon to let in the elderly shutter installer. I explained I had to get right back to work pronto, and he would have to look up when through. "Why do all you women work?" he asked. "You should be home making that bed there (pointing) instead of writing a column!"

With all this "selling" going on, I certainly have run into some peculiar answers to my question, "Is Mr. So-And-So in?"

"I'm sorry. He's out for coffee. He'll be back in about an hour."

"No, you're out of luck. He hasn't come in yet." (10 a.m.)

"He's no longer at this extension. Try 234."

Extension 234: "He's quit. He hated Michigan and has gone home to Indianapolis to live."

"May I ask who's calling? Thank you. I'll tell him you're waiting. I am sorry; he's not in."

"He died."

Elys, Babbitts add up to lots of parade marshals

It may have been a "first" in Northville Fourth of July parade history, but a total of 12 grand marshals headed the parade as the sponsoring Northville Jaycees honored early residents.

In keeping with the "Good Old Days" theme, Ron Barnum explains, the Northville Jaycees invited two four-generation families to be grand marshals.

The Ely family was represented by Charles Sr., his wife Margaret, son Charles Jr., granddaughter Molly and her husband Dan Corby and their children Rachel and Jim, who are the senior Elys' great-grandchildren.

May Babbitt was joined in the parade car by her daughter Mary Ellen Dayton, her granddaughter and Dayton's niece Cheryl Gazlay and her daughters Cristen and Courtney.

Jaycees name draw winners

All winners in the annual Northville Jaycees' July Fourth benefit drawing are from Northville this year.

"It was a nice coincidence," Ron Barnum noted as he reported that the winning tickets were drawn last Wednesday.

Top prize of a weekend for two at a Michigan Holiday was won by Patricia Ivey.

Second prize of dinner for two at MacKinnon's with two tickets to the Marquis was won by Bob Willerer.

Third prize of a $50 savings bond was won by Jim Gorden.

A fourth award, in a separate drawing, was a portable home-automobile alarm system donated by Ron Bodnar and won by Pam Sebert.

Seek closing of streets off Beck Road

When construction begins to pave Beck Road north of Eight Mile, access to Beck from five Northville streets may be closed off permanently.

Residents of Northville Estates subdivision have asked that the paving project include the closing of Dunsany, South Chigwidden, Battleford, Holmbury and Elmsmere where they intersect with Beck.

J.G. Hardin, president of the Northville Estates Civic Association, told city council June 22 the residents wish to preserve the "rural atmosphere" of their subdivision and believe a paved Beck Road with access to their streets would detract from that atmosphere.

In a letter to council, Hardin said the paving project and the "subsequent increase in traffic count, speed and increased development in the overall area" is not viewed as a desirable item by the subdivision residents.

Hardin argued that paving of Beck Road will make it a major north-south artery between I-96 and M-14 and said traffic through the subdivision would likely be increased. He said installation of a traffic light at Beck and Eight Mile Roads, combined with southbound traffic from I-96, would lead motorists to use the subdivision as a detour around the intersection.

Hardin requested the closing of the streets with either a cul-de-sac or T-shape at the termini and a berm built up along Beck Road to reduce noise and visibility of traffic.

He said a majority of the residents had been polled and most support the road closing proposal. Some favored keeping one or two streets open to Beck "as long as it wasn't the street they live on," he related.

City engineer Edward McNeely was instructed to approach the City of Novi engineers, who are designing the paving project, and request consideration of including the closings as part of that project.

McNeely said he thought the closings could be done most economically during the paving work rather than as a separate project later. Without knowing the exact plans devised in Novi, he said, he could not say whether the street closings would be more or less expensive than the construction of five intersections when the road is paved.

If there are additional costs involved, city manager Steven Walters said, the city may be asked to pay for the closings, in which case, he warned, it may have to make a special assessment of the subdivision or leave the streets open.

Cost of 'crying wolf' to rise in Northville

Burglar alarm users in the city will be subject to a $25 fee for each false alarm sent to city police beyond four each calendar year.

City police chief Rodney Cannon had earlier suggested a policy of giving lower priority to police response to a location filing frequent false alarms. He indicated police would still respond after the third false alarm but not as a top priority which is usually given such calls.

After checking with the city attorney, however, he recommended the imposition of the fee.

Cannon has maintained some policy is necessary to reduce the frequency of false alarms, noting that over 300 such calls were received in the past year.

In most cases, he said, the cause is "human error" or simple negligence, such as employees neglecting to turn off the alarm when opening a shop.

False alarms pose a danger both to the public at large and to police officers, he argued. Police respond to an alarm sounding as an emergency, driving swiftly with lights and siren, thereby increasing the risk of an accident. An officer who responds to many false alarms at one location may also become complacent, he indicated, and not be fully alert in the event of an actual emergency.

The chief had first proposed a fee be charged, then out of concern that collecting such a fee may prove troublesome submitted the "no response" policy.

Council members were concerned that the policy might open the city to liability in the event police did not respond immediately in an actual emergency and asked that Cannon submit the proposal to the city attorney.

Attorney James Kohl noted a state law that requires inspection and correction of alarm systems which sound more than four false alarms in a given calendar year, and suggested the fee approach would be appropriate.

Council approved the policy, and Cannon said he would provide written notice to all those with alarms tied into the city police department.

Summer Travel and Your Camera

When travelling protect your film with a lead bag for going through airport detectors, a poly bag for muggy climates, or in your padded camera bag to protect against the heat. Don't let your camera or film bake in the sun.

A skylight 1A or 81A filter not only protects the front of your lens against sand and salt but warms up your pictures, getting rid of blues in grass and skin tones.

Special pouches can protect your camera and still let you shoot in sand, rain, or near the shore. Try an inflatable pouch for very rough or wet travel.

A blast of canned air will clean off your equipment when you get back to your room; lintless lens tissue is a must for eyepieces and filters.

When you finish your vacation, bring it in promptly for processing. Film which has been shot tends to shift colors if it is not processed soon.

High-speed chase ends in cyclist's arrest

In the city...

A high-speed chase through the city and township early Sunday morning resulted in the arrest and temporary confinement of a Canton motorcyclist fleeing city police.

Arrested on charges of fleeing and eluding police, driving under the influence of alcohol and operating a vehicle with a blood-alcohol content of .10 percent or above (a test demonstrated a .17 percent content) was Jon Blumenshine of Canton Township.

City police caught sight of Blumenshine when he sped through a red light at Center and Main streets at more than 50 m.p.h. southbound on Center.

Police reported that while pursuing Blumenshine south along Center (Sheldon), the cyclist looked back, then accelerated to 80 m.p.h., the city squad car still in pursuit. The cyclist ran red lights at Six Mile and Five Mile roads, went past the barricades near the M-14 overpass at the C&O Railroad tracks.

Immediately past that intersection, Blumenshine cut off the cycle lights and turned onto Beech Street, where he lost control of the cycle, jumped a curb and slammed into a house at 760 Evergreen.

According to reports, his head struck the house, cracking his helmet, but he appeared to be unhurt. An EMS unit could find no injuries.

Blumenshine, however, was vulgar, combative and abusive, the arresting officers reported, threatening to kill them. He was taken to city jail for temporary confinement until he could be processed. He posted $200 bond Sunday afternoon and was released.

While parked at St. Paul's Lutheran School in the city Wednesday, July 6, a 1971 Fruehoff truck used for transporting newspapers for recycling was set on fire and completely destroyed.

By the time police arrived at the scene, about 4:44 p.m., the truck, valued at $2,500, was "completely engulfed" by flames, according to reports.

"Due to the type of combustible material (piles of old newspapers) stored in the trailer," police reported, "(it was believed) the person responsible could have ignited the fire by simply throwing a match into the rear of the unlocked trailer."

No witnesses or physical evidence could be found.

A number of objects were stolen from the garage of a private residence on Jeffrey Street between 2 and 8 a.m. Friday, city police reported this week.

Stolen from a 1970 Ford van parked in the garage, of which the doors were shut but unlocked, were a Re-Curve (laminated wood), valued at $100; a screwdriver set valued at $15, channel locks and two sockets, together valued at $30; a Rangefinder, valued at $75, two cases of empty beer bottles, valued at $5, and six cassette tapes.

No suspects have been reported in connection with the incident.

$5,200 worth of radio equipment was discovered stolen from school district buses parked in the school bus yard on Eight Mile Road, police reported this week.

According to reports, sometime between Saturday, July 2 and Tuesday, July 5, four black Johnson Fleet Com II two-way radios were stolen from four school buses.

No suspects or witnesses were reported in connection with the theft.

An AM-FM cassette player with equalizer, valued at $925, was stolen from a 1983 Toyota parked in a garage on Ely Street between 8 p.m. Thursday and 7:50 a.m. Friday. The equipment was reported as a black 1983 Fujitsu S 2010, model 10. No suspects or witnesses were reported in connection with the incident.

A $225 Schwinn Sierra 10-speed bicycle was reported stolen from the garage of a Sutters Lane residence sometime between 1 p.m. July 5 and 11 a.m. July 6, according to township police.

The complainant told police that unknown suspects entered the garage through a north side service door which was unlocked.

The complainant said nothing appeared to be broken on the door and nothing was missing except the bicycle.

Police entered the bike in LEIN (Law Enforcement Information Network). There are no suspects at this time.

Items estimated at $260 were reported stolen from a Sunnysdale Lane residence sometime between midnight and 8 a.m. July 6, police report.

The complainant told police that unknown subjects entered the garage of the residence and stole a Phoenix 10-speed bicycle, a tool box containing miscellaneous tools and a six-gallon gas can.

The complainant told police his wife found the garage door halfway open and also observed that the rear entrance was locked but ajar.

There are no suspects or witnesses at this time.

In the township...

Patio furniture estimated at $700 was reported stolen from a North Valley residence sometime between 10 p.m. July 6 and 11 a.m. July 7, according to township police reports.

The complainant told police that unknown suspects stole four yellow and white chairs and a reclining lounge chair from the patio of the residence.

There are no suspects at this time.

Unknown subjects removed mail from a Stoneleigh residence sometime between 1 and 12:30 p.m. July 7, according to township police.

The complainant told police that unknown subjects opened letters and discarded the mail which later was found in a neighbor's front yard. The only item reported missing was a catalog.

There are no suspects at this time. However, the complainant wishes to prosecute.

Auto accidents causing injuries increase over 1982 rates in city

The number of Northville city auto accidents causing injuries increased sharply the first half of this year, police have found.

By the end of June last year, 13 such accidents had been reported, while in the first six months of 1983, 20 accidents with personal injury have been reported, seven in June alone.

Other accident categories, including accidents without injury, have also increased somewhat, although less dramatically. As last year, no fatalities have been reported.

Group seeks area hosts for exchange students

Youth for Understanding, a long-established international student exchange, is seeking area host families for four students expected to arrive in this country in less than two months.

Area representative Henrietta McDonald of Canton reports that host families have not yet been found in the Plymouth, Canton or Northville communities for four students expected this summer.

"Youth for Understanding is appealing to local families with an openness to new ideas to consider inviting one of the students into their lives and homes for the year during this difficult family-finding climate," she says.

Families with or without children may be eligible to host and are encouraged to apply, she adds. Host families are volunteers who provide room and board for the student and offer the same love and guidance they give their own children, McDonald explains.

In return host families may take a monthly tax deduction of $50 in accordance with provisions made by the Internal Revenue Service.

The four European boys being sponsored by Youth for Understanding and who are expected in August are:

Baehr Ulrich of Munich, Germany, who enjoys reading, drawing, macrophotography, cross country skiing and swimming;

Hamalaunen Petri of Helsinki, Finland, who hopes to study law and has hobbies of fishing, racquetball, music and reading;

Schwencke Marcel of the Netherlands who has traveled throughout Europe and enjoys music, particularly jazz and soul, and the beach;

Hanssens Henning of Oslo, Norway, who is interested in pursuing a career in data processing and is active in sports, including soccer, and likes to swim and play cards.

Families interested in hosting one of the four boys should call area representative McDonald at 981-2680.

Difference of opinion

The student artwork recently displayed at Amerman Elementary School certainly was intriguing for Jason Pertile, at left. Jason, who appears deep in thought while observing the drawings of his fellow classmates, seems to have found the picture of his choice. However, his younger brother Michael, 4, had a different opinion of the featured work. Art critics — they're never satisfied! Record photo by John Galloway.

Wet spring may bring more bugs

Are there going to be more bug bites this summer? "Maybe," says bug bite expert, Dean Solomon, of the Livingston County Cooperative Extension Service. "Every year it seems like everyone says there'll be more (bug bites) than the last year, but this year we might see them because of the wet spring we had." Mosquitoes lay their eggs in water, and wet areas make good breeding sites, says Solomon. So the mosquito population will depend a great deal on the precipitation situation. "The population could go up or down, even in one summer," he said. Solomon also added that mosquitoes are not the only biting bugs. "Black flies come out mostly in the earlier part of the summer and almost look like nats, but they can give a very painful bite." None of the biting bugs is poisonous, except to people who have allergic reactions to them. This brings us to the topic of bee stings. For most, the venom of a stinging insect hurts and is annoying, but is not a serious health problem. For some it can kill. Insect stings cause more deaths yearly than snake bites, says the American Medical Association's Handbook of First Aid and Emergency Care. The most common stinging insects are bees, hornets, wasps, yellow jackets and bumble bees. Mosquitoes used to be known for their ability to spread disease, but now this is very rare, reassures Solomon.

Those allergic to insect stings, however, can incur such shock symptoms as severe swelling around the eyes, lips and tongue. Weakness, coughing or wheezing, severe itching, stomach cramps, nausea and vomiting, anxiety, difficulty in breathing, dizziness, collapse, unconsciousness and hives or rash over the body often follow quickly after the sting. It is vital to open an airway and restore breathing. Some experts suggest using a tourniquet in severe reactions where life may be at stake.

Stroke's danger in heat

Along with the fun of summer and the enjoyment of the great out-of-doors come the health and accident hazards that have their highest risk in hot weather. Sun strokes and heat strokes are life-threatening emergencies which occur from too much exposure and too much exercise in the hot sun. Prolonged excessive heat, either in or out-of-doors, can cause heat stroke. These emergencies are a disturbance in the body's heat-regulating system and are caused by extremely high body temperatures due to exposure to heat. The body temperature can be 106 degrees or higher. The skin is red, hot and dry, and there is no sweating. The pulse is rapid and strong. The sufferer may be confused or lose consciousness. In such cases, the victim should be placed in a tub of cold water. If no tub is near, spray the victim with a hose, or sponge the bare skin with cool water or rubbing alcohol, or apply cold packs. This process should be continued until temperature drops to 101 or 102. Medical help should be sought im-

Family celebrates baby homecoming

"The common person doesn't know what you're going through," Jeff explains. By meeting with other parents every Wednesday, the Lightfoots say they were better able to cope with their experience.

"Our parent group helped us relax and feel at ease," Jeff explains. "We all lived with the potential of death."

On May 13 — a Friday — Christopher suffered his sixth ruptured lung. While the incident normally would have given doctors grave concern, it proved to be a turning point for the Lightfoots.

In an x-ray of Christopher's lungs after the rupture, doctors discovered that while the left lung appeared completely black on the x-ray, the right lung had minimal damage and in fact, was normally developed.

"The doctors were up front with us from the start...They told us that Christopher could go at the snap of a finger."

— Jeff Lightfoot

Christopher's healthy right lung proved to be his saving grace. While doctors initially had anticipated that it would be another six months to a year before the infant could be taken home, his continually improved health made it possible for the Lightfoots to bring home their son at the end of June.

If Christopher's survival seems a miracle to the Lightfoots, an even greater blessing is the probability of Christopher leading a normal life with few complications.

"He stands an excellent chance of having no side effects," Jeff explains, while noting that within a year Christopher's lungs will be fully developed.

Mentioning that crib death is more common among premature babies than those born full-term, the Lightfoots have a monitor set-up in their house.

"We know that a crib death could happen tomorrow," Jeff notes, "but we can't worry about it."

Just as a precaution, Christopher has a visiting nurse who checks his vital signs two or three times a week, and the baby visits U-M Hospital once or twice a month.

"We are trying to do things as normal as we can," Jeff explains, noting that the family took Christopher to Northville's Fourth of July parade and to the zoo.

"I think the most unusual thing is that people look at him and say, 'he looks normal'," Jeff says of his youngest son.

"Realistically, Christopher is a month old," Jeff notes, "but he has the social development of a four-month old baby."

While Christopher's life is priceless, the hospital cost of caring for "preemies" is phenomenal. On the bookshelf in the Lightfoot family room is a 65-page cost printout for 16-weeks of care in the Neonatal Care Unit. The totaled figure comes to $138,000.

With Deborah already back on her job at Ford Motor Company, Jeff is staying at home with his two young sons.

Looking at his youngest son, Jeff admits that some of his views have changed as a result of Christopher's experience.

"You know, abortion is legal in this country through the second trimester," Jeff notes. "Christopher was born in the second trimester."

"I used to be very liberal in my views about abortion — I'm sorry, I can't be anymore."

Jeff says he credits his son's survival with the medical advances made in the last few years as well as the care given by the staff at U-M hospital.

"Here they took a baby in his second trimester and he'll lead a normal life," Jeff exclaims. "Five years ago he probably wouldn't have made it."

Commissioners blame DNR for delay in sewer plan

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources, capitalizing on misinformation directed at the Governor's office by the City of Detroit, has all but killed the $293 million super sewer project and some 21,000 jobs, according to a joint statement made last Friday by members of the Wayne County Commission.

The statement was issued by Commissioner Mary Dumas, who represents Northville, together with chairman William G. Suzore, vice-chairman Edward J. Plawcki Jr. and commissioners Milton Mack and Joseph L. Jurkiewicz.

Fourteen western communities, through whose areas the 60-mile long Huron Valley sewer system would run, already have spent millions of dollars in design and engineering costs and have pledged an additional $95 million required by the MDNR in order to obtain $192,105,520 from the federal government to complete the system.

These communities now are threatening to go to court if the DNR does not fulfill its part of the bargain.

In a letter addressed to Richard T.

Hinshon, MDNR Community Assistant Division Acting Chief John E. Breen, director of the county's public works legal services, reminded the MDNR of the contractual rights of the 14 communities to deliver wastewater to either Wyandotte or Detroit and that the county already is a party to the proceedings in U.S. District Court to force Detroit to comply with state and federal regulations concerning its capacity and competence to manage its system.

"It is the prerogative of Wayne County and its communities," Breen concluded, "to determine how the area's sewage will be treated respecting future flows not previously contracted."

Duane Egeland, deputy director of the Wayne County Public Works Department, said he first became aware that a serious problem was developing when the DNR refused to accept "resolutions of intent" originally requested from the 14 communities by June 1.

As one community leader said, "The DNR was ready to 'cut and run' with the money (federal appropriations) right then." Quick action by Congressmen John Dingell and William Ford was credited with getting the deadline extended to June 24, to give the communities a chance to approve "hard" contracts. The county also was required to pledge its faith but not its credit.

When the June 24 deadline was met, the DNR, using information provided in a June 16 letter from Detroit's Water and Sewer Director Charlie J. Williams, opted to divert the funds to outstate communities.

This served to relieve political pressure from those areas and at the same time to satisfy Detroit Mayor Coleman Young who, Suzore stated, is trying ing to keep his own inadequate system intact.

The four county commissioners and the county public works department have released a paper which charges that Detroit used threats of reprisals if the DNR did not accept its recommendations and refutes — point by point — Detroit's arguments as follows:

Calling the charge that the HVWWCS will separate wastewater flowed of the Rouge Valley District now under contract with the DWSC for treatment service erroneous, the paper states that the contract between the DWSD and

State approves proposal for area interceptor

The future of the Huron Valley sewer proposal may be in question, but the most immediate concern of Northville and Novi — construction of an interceptor to relieve the burden on the locally overloaded system — was granted state approval July 1.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources allocated $5 million in federal grant money toward the project, noting it is not affected by the question of whether sewage will flow to Detroit or to Brownstown Township.

Doubts about the future of super sewer, however, pose difficult engineering decisions for the Wayne County Department of Public Works.

The funded interceptor had been planned to correct deficiencies in the Novi-Northville system — primarily overflow into the river where the interceptor accepts sewage from Novi and the city of Northville (just south of Seven Mile and east of Hines Drive). These deficiencies had led to threat of a total ban on future construction in the region until some acceptable sewage treatment plan was filed.

Planned as part of the first phase of super sewer construction, the "relief arm" and the present interceptor running through the parkway were also key elements of the proposal to carry flows from southwest Wayne County into the Huron Valley treatment plant in Brownstown Township.

But without a firm decision on the Huron Valley system, Egeland said, engineering the relief sewer may be impossible.

"We don't know what size to make it," he explained. "Do we size it to serve Novi and Northville only, or do we size it to include Wixom and Commerce (Township) in the expectation that the Huron Valley system will be approved in the future?"

"If we size it for the whole system, then it becomes a big question: 'Will Wixom and Commerce pay their share?'" Egeland continued. "Wixom has said it won't participate in any system that discharges to the city of Detroit."

Having approved the relief sewer response to the local problem, the DNR is not expected to impose the threatened building ban but may be insistent on swift completion of the project.

DNR blamed for super sewer delay

Wayne County for service for the 16 Rouge Valley communities required the City of Detroit to accept flows from the Rouge Valley District up to specified peak flows, but does not establish any requirement for Wayne County to deliver any wastewater to the DWSD. It states there is no intention to divert

Big Boy stays

There will be no interruption of service at the Elias Brothers Big Boy restaurant at 133 West Main, according to officials of the restaurant chain.

There had been rumors for some time that the restaurant would be moving to a building to be constructed at Haggerly and Eight Mile. The Northville restaurant is a company-operated business, and there are plans to move it to the new location.

The present restaurant will continue operation as a Big Boy, officials at the company headquarters in Warren confirmed Tuesday, preferably as a franchise operation.

flows which communities have contracted with Wayne County to deliver to Rouge Valley interceptors. Accordingly, most of the flow currently being discharged to the DWSD system from Huron Valley communities will continue to be discharged to the DWSD system.

To the statement that the DWSD has raised objections to the intended separation at every opportunity during planning for the HVVWC system, the commission paper states that there is no intention to divert flows which the DWSD has contracted to receive from the Huron Valley System.

It notes that North Area Facilities Planning was conducted in accordance with the EPA requirements for a major public participation program and despite issuance of numerous newsletters and holding of several meetings during the course of the 30-month study, the DWSD did not make any comments on the project until the last few weeks before the study was completed.

This, they say, was long after the alternatives, which it now seems to endorse, were publicly evaluated and eliminated from consideration because of obvious deficiencies.

To the charge that updated projections do not support the 1979 Super Sewer plan, the reply is that flows used for the current facilities plans are based on updated population projections of SEMCOG and current loading of the Rouge Valley System was based on actual flow measurement.

To the charge that an alternative excluding Northern and Middle area of the HVVWC system was authorized to be designed during Step II work, the commissioners respond that facilities in the Middle and South areas were authorized to be designed to serve North, Middle and South during Step II.

The statement reiterates that there is no intent to divert flows contracted by the Detroit system for financial or other reasons and noted additional flows cannot be discharged to the Rouge Valley Interceptors without approval of the 16 communities in the system. It denies any communications implying the HVVWC is represented to DWSD bond buyers as being in the DWSD service area.

Super sewer runs roughly from Commerce Township in Oakland County south 60 miles along the western border of Wayne County to the Detroit River.

Among participating communities are Northville, Novi, Commerce Township, Plymouth, Canton, Van Buren, Huron, Brownstown Townships, Romulus, South Rockwood (Monroe County), Woodhaven, Gibraltar, Flat Rock and Wixom.

According to Egeland, the feds already have given the county $75 million for Phase I and Congressional Authorization for an additional $46.296 million for Phase II and $75 million for Phase III.

"The project could be completed without the Phase III funds," Egeland said, "by reducing the size of the interceptors; so money, right now, is not the hangup. It's the DNR which is under pressure to take the project money and spend it outstate. They claim we are getting a disproportionate share of federal funds. We claim we haven't had a fair share for the past 10 years."

Don Ringler, Oakland County Engineer in charge of that portion of the project, agreed.

The Huron Valley Wastewater Control System was conceived in 1959 as a final link to Wayne County's long-range plan to provide efficient and economical disposal facilities.

Salem board postpones action on waste plan

The Salem Township board bowed to opposition from 30 or more citizens in attendance at the July 5 regular board meeting and postponed action on a resolution approving the Washtenaw County Solid Waste Management Plan.

Township Treasurer Russell Knight made a motion to pass the resolution and it was seconded by Board Member Ferman Rohraff. After several residents expressed disapproval of this action, Knight withdrew his motion and Rohraff withdrew his second. The board then moved to table action on the resolution until its August 2 meeting and to ask Jack Durbin, director of public works for Washtenaw County, to attend the meeting and present the plan to the public.

The solid waste plan handles both short- and long-term waste management in Washtenaw County. The short-term plan includes the present Holloway Sand and Gravel Company landfill at Napier and Six Mile. The company has sought since last fall to obtain permits from the township for expansion of the landfill on the 168 acres on the western boundary of the current landfill. The long-term projections of the county's solid waste plan include this landfill expansion.

Salem area residents have organized to fight the landfill expansion as well as Holloway's request for an asphalt plant and sand and gravel mining permits. Although the township planning commission and the township board voted to deny all three requests, Holloway has successfully obtained a temporary asphalt plant permit through district court action in Washtenaw.

Township Supervisor Floyd Taylor told the audience July 5 that Washtenaw's waste plan had already received the necessary approvals of at least two-thirds of the governments in the county. With those approvals, the plan will be forwarded to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

Durbin said the necessary 19 of the 28 Washtenaw County municipalities have already approved the plan and that it was sent to the DNR on June 30. He said Sharon Township was the only township which had voted against the plan so far. He added that on July 7 he had been notified by the DNR that the deadline date for county plans had been extended to January 1, 1984.

Township residents argued that township approval of the county waste plan might weaken its response to Holloway's court case.

Taylor replied that it really did not matter how Salem Township votes since the necessary 19 units had already approved the plan.

Residents urged the board to uphold its planning commission, which had recommended against the inclusion of the Holloway expansion in the solid waste plan.

Taylor pointed out that the board tries to represent all residents of Salem Township and that the more than 300 citizens who signed a petition this spring opposing the landfill constitute only a small part of the 3,342 residents of the township.

In answer to a question on how many people have spoken out for the waste plan, Township Clerk Nancy Geiger said "many people have called or walked into the office" agreeing with the plan.

Township Planning Commissioner Susan Bejin said it was her understanding that Durbin would return in person to a township meeting to explain and discuss the plan with the people.

Taylor responded that Durbin had offered to attend the July meeting but the board had not thought it necessary.

Holloway rejects Salem board's out-of-court settlement

A possible out-of-court settlement of Holloway Sand and Gravel Company's request for a summary judgement against Salem Township has been rejected by Holloway, according to the company's attorney, John Brennan.

After two adjournments, the question of whether Holloway Sand and Gravel Company will be allowed to mine sand and gravel from a 168-acre site in Salem Township is due to be argued in Washtenaw County Circuit Court today. The last-minute effort on the part of the township to reach a compromise proved futile last week with Brennan stating "I consider it (the terms of the proposed settlement) an insult."

Originally scheduled for Judge Henry Conlin's courtroom on June 29, the hearing on the summary judgement request by Holloway has been adjourned twice.

Conlin has already granted Holloway a temporary permit to establish an asphalt plant in a heavy industry area at the southern edge of the 168 acres. He previously denied the sand and gravel permit, saying there was no indication Holloway would prevail in that part of the case. The current summary judgement brief is based on depositions taken by Brennan from three Salem Township planning commissioners.

Holloway initiated the legal action in April after the township rejected requests from the company to establish an asphalt plant, mine sand and gravel and expand its current landfill at Six Mile and Napier.

The compromise proposal presented by the township through its attorney, Margaret Austin, was rejected July 5, the day prior to the adjourned hearing date.

The township board met June 28 at a special session with Austin and senior law partner Charles Dobson to hammer out the proposed settlement. When the minutes of the special meeting were read at the July 5 regular meeting, some Salem Township residents vigorously objected to the special meeting, saying it was not properly posted. Township Clerk Nancy Geiger said the notice of the meeting was posted on the township's bulletin board 18 hours prior to the meeting, as required by law.

Brennan said Holloway rejected the proposal as "not a realistic attempt" to resolve the problem. "They (the township) are saying, 'you quit and our inducement is that we'll let you mine gravel only until the suit is settled.' That doesn't make sense," he added.

Austin said it had been her understanding that the amount of aggregate on the site was about 2,000 yards and that she felt that would be all mined out before the case came to court. She added that she has since been led to believe that may not be a correct assumption.

The township board's June 28 proposal is based on Holloway's agreement to:

- Drop its claim for refund of rents and inspection fees already paid, together with refund for the use of landfill by township residents.

- Drop its challenge to discontinue payments due in the future and allow township residents use of the landfill as in the past.

- Drop its petition to have the deeds (to two parcels of land) set aside. Holloway is currently in the process of landfilling that property. At present, the deeds are either held by or are in escrow with the township until the landfill/ski slope is completed.

In return, the township would agree to allow Holloway to mine sand and gravel during the pendency of the case on the following conditions:

- Holloway will blacktop Napier Road between Five and Six Mile roads.

- Holloway will agree to the alternative restoration plan as presented on March 28 to the Salem Township Planning Commission. Basically, this plan left a hole after the sand and gravel had been removed and did not include a landfill as part of the restoration.

- Holloway will designate the haul route and obtain permits with Washtenaw County Road Commission for incoming and outgoing truck traffic.

- Holloway will supply a cash or surety bond securing performance of the restoration plan.

- Holloway will comply with the condition of Salem Township Zoning Ordinance Article XVI Section 16.11 and Article XXI Section 21.02 pertaining to quarries, sand and gravel pits and performance standards.

Austin said her meeting with the board to discuss a compromise came about after Brennan's partner, Paul Burns, approached her in June to see if there could be a "last-minute compliance" on the sand and gravel question. Brennan confirmed that some "conversations about temporary relief to obviate the need for going to court on the summary judgement on sand and gravel" had taken place.

If Holloway is not allowed to use the aggregate on the site, it will be forced to truck it in from another gravel pit. Austin said Township Supervisor Floyd Taylor and Township Chief Inspector Fred Verran felt this would have a negative impact on the township and that it would be "wise to sit down and see if an agreement could be achieved."

"This offer (proposed settlement) just reflects their (township) conclusion and accord with our position that the sand and gravel for the asphalt plant should come from the site," Brennan said.

Under the previous agreements, the township already holds the deed to 77 acres of land which it has been leasing back to Holloway. Deeds to another 88 acres are in escrow. That 88-acre parcel is due to become township property when the landfill/ski slope is completed. The township also receives some $35,000 a year in inspection and rental fees from Holloway as well as free dumping privileges for its residents.

In its suit against the township, Holloway is seeking to have all of these agreements set aside as well as to recover the fees it has paid and a "reasonable value" for the dumping privileges. As part of its summary judgement suit, Holloway is seeking the establishment of an escrow account to hold all future inspection and rental fees pending the outcome of the litigation.

The township attorney said that she believes the previous agreements with

Holloway are "enforceable."

"That (Holloway's suit to set aside the previous agreements) represents quite a threat to the township," Austin said. "That could be very serious for the township if Holloway should prevail in the suit."

If Holloway's motion for summary judgement is denied today, a pre-trial date has been set for October 6 and a trial date established for March 19.

Commented this week on his client's recent purchase of the Salem Airport, Brennan said, "My client had to purchase the airport because of the issues raised by forces not concerned with the public welfare and it is going to cost the people.

"Those costs (of the airport purchase) will be passed on to people (in road construction costs and landfill fees). My client doesn't want to expand the landfill on it."

"The objections at the state level to the birds is a spurious one," Brennan added. State officials restrict the proximity of landfills and airports because of the aviation hazards posed by seagulls and other birds that traditionally inhabit landfills.

Brennan pointed out that landfills and airports co-exist in relatively close proximity in several places throughout the state, using Willow Run and the Pontiac airports as examples of this.

Resolution calls for landfill moratorium

A resolution which was co-sponsored by Representative Gerald H. Law (R-Plymouth, Northville) and Representative Willis Bullard Jr. (R-60th District-Oakland County portion of Northville) has been introduced in the Michigan House of Representatives calling for a one-year moratorium on the issuance of all construction permits for solid waste landfills and hazardous waste facilities.

Proponents of the bill point out that current state laws regulating the construction of such facilities have resulted in several instances of unsafe dumping and faulty construction at landfills and hazardous waste disposal sites throughout Michigan.

"I believe that there is a definite need for a freeze on the issuance of toxic site permits. The laws need to be changed, and the regulations need to be updated, and the state's role as a monitor must be reinforced through proper and adequate legislation," Law states.

The representatives point out that at the present time there are more than 900 sites in Michigan where groundwater contamination has been caused by faulty landfills.

They note that these contaminations might have been prevented if closer scrutiny of the permits had been practiced.

"There definitely is something wrong with our laws pertaining to these permits," both Law and Bullard state. "This resolution, if adopted quickly, will help prevent future mishaps, and will hopefully bring to light the problems caused by previous legislation."

Watercolors are featured exhibit

Watercolors of Sylvia Johnston are on exhibit at the Northville Art Gallery, 224 South Main, through July 29. The artist, who has studied with Igor Beginin at Eastern Michigan University, will be graduated with honors this summer. She is known for her ability to combine the use of vivid color theory and the technique of watercolor in her impressionistic landscapes. Johnston says she thinks of watercolor as "the magic medium" because it is intangible, and elusive. Her landscapes invite the viewer to find personal meaning within the painting itself. The Northville Art Gallery is open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Gallery manager Sherrill Cannon invites area residents to view the watercolors to "find a personal meaning to make watercolor a 'magic' medium."

Summer Safety

Have fun in the sun, but keep in mind these safety tips

As the lakes and rivers of Michigan warm up to an enjoyable temperature, more and more water enthusiasts will take to the shore. Some will be swimming, some boating, and still others will just sit on docks.

In each of these situations, however, there will be drownings, and in most cases the drownings need not happen.

Basic safety rules, if followed, can mean the difference between a tragic water accident and an enjoyable afternoon for you or members of your family.

Learn to swim well enough to survive in an emergency.

- Do not swim alone and swim only with a "buddy" who has the ability to help when necessary.
- Call for help ONLY when you are in trouble and REALLY NEED IT.
- Swim only in supervised areas, such as at beaches or pools and only when lifeguards are on duty. Stay within the markers to avoid conflicts with boats.
- Do not dive or jump into unknown waters.

Follow the rules established for the particular pool, beach, or waterfront where you are swimming.

Do not swim long distances out from shore. Swim parallel to the shore so that if you become tired you can still touch bottom.

Know your limitations and do not overestimate your ability.

Do not try to swim long distances, either on the surface or underwater. Do not try to swim under objects such as diving rafts and boats.

If you are overheated, stay out of the water and cool off before returning to the water. Although the water temperature may not be very low, if you are overheated, it can be a shock to your system.

Stay out of the water immediately after eating. Wait long enough for digestion to take place.

Stay out of the water during electrical storms.

Do not substitute inflated tubes, air mattresses, or other artificial supports for swimming ability.

Avoid long periods of immersion and overexposure to the sun.

Watch children closely whenever they are near the water and/or in the water. Even in supervised areas and even at shallow wading pools, mere seconds of inattention can be tragically fatal.

Be especially careful early in the season. At this time persons are often not in good condition as they were the previous summer. Also the cold water drains energy much faster than warmer water later in the season.

Take instructions under qualified instructors before participating in such aquatic sports as skin and scuba diving and water-skiing.

Water safety is everyone's responsibility, even when lifeguards are on duty.

Do not engage in any kind of horseplay. This is dangerous and some of those involved may not be strong swimmers.

Keep all glass containers off the beach, out of the water and out of pools.

Bathing suits are lightweight and designed for swimming—long pants and other clothes are not. Improper clothing will tend to tire a swimmer very rapidly.

Respect the judgement and experience of trained lifeguards—follow their advice and do not interfere with the performance of their duty.

When in pools become familiar with shallow and deep sections as marked. Use only the area best suited to your ability.

When at a pool, do not run, push or play on the deck.

Do not throw sand or other objects on the beach, at the pool, or in the water.

A final note is to avoid going in the water after drinking alcohol. Alcohol dulls the senses and reflexes and increases the chances of being involved in an unnecessary accident.

Water enthusiasts—enjoy yourselves! Water caution will make the good times even better.

Geake named to panel to examine Michigan policies on health care

State Senator Robert Geake (Northville) has been appointed to the 32-member statewide Medicaid Task Force and the Senate Special Committee to study the issue of substance abuse.

"I am pleased to be selected one of six legislators on the Medicaid Task Force," Geake said. "The Medicaid program in Michigan is the largest single cost item in the state budget, and it is imperative that we make sure that the program is being run in the most efficient and cost-effective manner possible."

Geake pointed out that the Medicaid program has been increased in cost between 10 and 15 percent each year over the past few years while other state programs are increasing at a much lesser rate or in some cases, decreasing. The cost of the Medicaid program to taxpayers next year will amount to nearly $1.7 billion.

"The objective of the task force will be to identify what areas of the Medicaid program are working, what areas are not, review the total reimbursement program, take a look at cost containment and make recommendations to the Department of Social Services (DSS), the Governor and the Legislature for program changes and cost containment initiatives," Geake said.

The first meeting of the task force, chaired by Dr. Andrew D. Hunt, Dean Emeritus of the Michigan State University College of Human Medicine, is being held July 13 (today) at the Kellogg Center in East Lansing.

Geake said as a member of the Senate Special Committee to study the issue of substance abuse, he will be looking at funding allocations, evaluating quality of care and recipient rights rules, cost effectiveness and the impact of substance abuse on highway safety.

"Drug and alcohol dependency continues to result in an approximate $2 billion drain on the state economy each year," Geake said. "We must continually seek ways through legislation and education programs to discourage the use of drugs and alcohol as well as provide some means of protection to society against those who are compelled to depend on the use of such items."

Kensington Metropark to offer bicycle tours

The Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority has applied to the grants-in-aid section of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources for Land and Water Funds for construction of approximately two miles in length of a hiking-biking trail at Kensington Metropark near Millford.

David O. Laidlaw, Director of the HCMA, said that this portion of construction includes a bridge of approximately 150 feet long and eight feet wide and would complete an eight-mile loop of hiking-biking trail around Kent Lake in Kensington Metropark.

Total cost of the project is about $225,000, wherein the grant would be for $127,500 or one-half the cost, with the balance paid for by HCMA tax funds.

The public is invited to express comments about this proposed project by writing to Hike-Bike Trail, c/o Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, 3050 Penobscot Building, Detroit, MI 48226.

ENERGY PLUS+

Plant modernization. A key ingredient of Michigan's revitalization.

For the past 20 years, Detroit Edison has been involved in a massive program of modernization. Replacing old power plants dependent on diminishing gas and oil with new plants fueled by abundant, cost-efficient American-produced coal and uranium.

Today, this program is near completion. And that's good news. Good for businesses contemplating expansion. Good for attracting new businesses. Good for our state economy. Good for you.

Here's why.

□ Abundant energy is a prime consideration for businesses interested in expanding or relocating to Southeastern Michigan. That means more jobs. More utilization of an already skilled and proven labor force.

□ As more new businesses discover Michigan's plentiful advantages, such as our vast waterways, ideally located industrial parks, state-funded economic incentive programs, and, of course, lots of electricity, they will make our area's economy more vibrant. More stable. Plant modernization has helped to set the stage for economic recovery. And, even now, promising results are beginning to show.

□ Naturally, the benefits of more new businesses and a strengthened state economy mean you enjoy a better standard of living. Plant modernization also means you enjoy a healthier standard of living through use of advanced technology to protect the environment.

Completion of our 20-year plant modernization program means the beginning of a new era for Southeastern Michigan. An era brimming with promise, opportunity and assurances of ample energy. Energy today, plus energy that will take all of us into the 21st century.

Appeals court upholds Oakland tax structure

By CINDY HOOGLASIAN

The Michigan Court of Appeals ruled June 22 that Oakland County was correct in its method of determining the equalized value of residential property in 1981, and that the State Tax Commission's (STC) formula was wrong.

Oakland County took the STC to court because of its imposition of a 1.05999 percent factor on all county residential property assessments last year. The county's attorney in this matter, Leo Goldstein, successfully argued that the county equalized property values were an accurate reflection of the property value as of tax day, December 31, 1981.

Goldstein argued that property was assessed at 50 percent of market value as provided in the state constitution, and that adding the factor inflated the assessment level to about 53 percent, in violation of the constitutional assessment ceiling.

Although the appellate court agreed that using sales figures from as near tax day, December 31, as possible provides the most accurate picture of property values, the court did not provide a solution to the stand-off.

Instead, the appellate court remanded the issue back to the STC to come up with a new procedure to determine state equalized value (SEV). Oakland County has created a $2.5 million fund to cover tax rebates which may be necessary if the STC reduces the factor.

"I filed an appeal on the basis that Oakland County was equalized at 50 percent (of market value) and the state claimed we were below 50 percent," Goldstein explained. "Therefore they added a 1.06 factor to all Oakland County units (of government). The court of appeals came down with a ruling which stated our contention was correct."

"The state used a 30-month and 12-month average of residential property sales to determine the SEV. All the market data Oakland County accumulated indicated a decline in residential values during the last half of 1981. The 30-month study was weighted by the sales of a previous time. The 12-month average did the same thing because sales occurring early in the year were higher than they were on tax day. At the end of the year, the real estate market was still declining. But the state (STC) refused to accept that argument and we had to go to the court of appeals."

In summer, pets need care

Summer can be a tough time for pets—they need protection from the heat, mosquitoes and diseases from other animals, all of which have ready access to the pet.

The most common problem for pet owners, and the one that is most easily remedied, is protecting the pet from the summer heat.

"Never leave a pet in the car, in the sun," said Dr. Jacqueline Scott, a Livingston County veterinarian. "If a pet has to be left, make sure the windows are rolled down slightly and make sure the car is in the shade."

The temperature in a closed car can climb to over 120 degrees in a short time, and even if the car is parked in the shade initially, the sun may shift before the pet owner returns.

The Michigan Veterinary Medical Association recommends that if a dog is being transported in a car, it should be kept from jumping while in the car, and the dog not be allowed to keep its head out of the car windows.

Cats should be transported in carriers and become accustomed to the carrier before the actual vacation. The cat should be taken for a few short trips before starting the extended vacation.

If the pet suffers from motion sickness during the trial vacation runs, a veterinarian should be consulted about treatment.

Pets should not be fed for several hours prior to the trip and fresh water should be made available. Dogs should also be exercised frequently during stops.

The pet owner can take familiar toys and feeding dishes on the vacation, along with the pet's own blanket or bed for an added feeling of security.

"Another important thing to remember is to get the pets vaccinated, especially dogs. They need special care for traveling because they may be exposed to other animals that are contagious, and the owner would never know," said Dr. Scott.

"They need heartworm medication, parvovirus and distemper vaccines, and they definitely need a rabies vaccine, especially with the rabies outbreak we've had here."

Dr. Scott recommended that a pet owner consider boarding an animal if the pet can't be taken along on vacation. "If the pet is left at home, and someone will only stop in once a day, then definitely board them," she said.

Dr. Scott said the best advice for pet owners is common sense. "Make sure the animal has plenty of fresh water, and that a shaded area is available for them when the temperature is high."

Proposal to delay summer school tax to be considered

Local citizens living in townships would have the option of deferring payment of their summer school property taxes under legislation recently introduced in the Michigan House of Representatives, a member of the Taxation Committee said recently.

State Representative Willis Bullard (R-Highland), co-sponsor of the measure, said it permits local treasurers to defer the summer tax collection without penalty or interest until February 25, 1984, if the individual taxpayer requests it.

"The Legislature passed a bill last year to authorize tax collections this summer over the objections of local communities throughout the state," Bullard said. "It was one of the most controversial issues of the session, primarily because it causes a real hardship on people in school taxes the first year, because it requires payment of half the school taxes six months early.

"This bill quite simply states that if a local homeowner prefers not to pay school taxes in the summer, he or she will be able to defer payment of that portion of the tax until February 15 without paying any interest or penalty charge."

However, Bullard added that the bill would affect only those citizens living within a school district or intermediate school district that has not ever levied a summer tax before.

"Many communities already do have summer tax collections, and this would not affect them. Our aim in this bill is to protect people from being hit with a big tax bill six months earlier than they expected it," Bullard said.

Field Day assessed: worth repeating

It's reassuring to note that the many sponsors and volunteers who showed up ready for action at the July 3 Field Day weren't particularly dismayed by the rather small turnout.

It actually was rather remarkable to see enough judges, concession stand workers and volunteers to staff the Silverdome on a good day all ready and eager to do their bit without much of a bit to do. They are the true winners of the day's activities.

Those families who did attend got special impromptu treats, like the teams of kids who got to play firefighter by donning helmets and spraying fire department hoses to their hearts' content, or the sight — maybe "spectacle" is more like it — of watching our local, state and judiciary electees battle it out in a number of undignified competitive events. It was billed, above all else, as a day of fun for all participants, and it certainly delivered on that score.

There are enough explanations for the low turnout. Our front-page gaffe as to the date was certainly one, the Sunday date another, and, of course, the first such attempt at a community activity is inevitably the most difficult, particularly in our very tradition-minded community.

Next year, Field Day planners hope to schedule their events on a separate weekend to assure cooperation from all civic groups and to use a free weekend for activities.

If the organization is as efficient and the volunteers as enthusiastic as this year, we think the numbers of participants will improve considerably.

Let customers park

Northville's successful Mainstreet '78 project which resulted in the renovation and beautification of the downtown area marked the end of parking meters and time limits on Main and Center streets. It was at the request of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce that plans were made to eliminate such shopper nuisances.

The intent has been to leave street parking spaces open for customers as a convenience. Those who work in town are asked to use all-day parking sections of city parking lots, which are free. City police are aware that there currently are about a half-dozen violators — business owners or employees who use on-street parking in violation of the intent of the Mainstreet project.

Admitting that the city can't ever hope to have zero violations, City Manager Steven Walters said this week, however, that another appeal would be issued to get violators to "commit to cooperating" with an official request. This has been done previously, he noted, with success. It doesn't matter that the space is vacant when an owner or employee comes to work, Walters added, it's the fact that on-street parking should be available as a convenience for customers.

"It's an offense that should be taken care of," agrees Kay Keegan, executive director of the chamber of commerce, noting that the chamber has sent out letters detailing the policy and its intent.

It is incomprehensible to us that a business or store owner cannot want the policy followed — to leave space for a customer to buy a loaf of bread or a candy treat, to pick up cleaning or a prescription, or even to have lunch or get a haircut. True, the violators are few, but every businessperson should make sure that they are not his or her employees. It's a matter of good business.

Give us time

Summertime — and the giving is easy. Giving blood that is.

So begins a release from the American Red Cross announcing that summer months are traditionally a slow period for blood donations, but noting that the Red Cross still needs 1,000 pints a day to meet area hospital needs and asking that an extra effort be made this July to donate.

The release continued with the information that the Red Cross Bloodmobile would be located at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Northville Sunday, July 10, and gave the number to call for an appointment.

The frustration is that it was received in the mail at The Record Monday — the day after the blood bank. A search of the waste paper basket for the envelope revealed the press release had been mailed

July 7 — too late for the July 6 edition in which it should have appeared. However, donations always are accepted at the Livonia Donor Center, Bell Creek Office Plaza, 29691 West Six Mile, Suite 100C, on Monday, Wednesday, Thursday from 2-8 p.m. and Tuesday and Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Saturday, 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Appointments may be made by calling 422-2820.

Since this newspaper always has supported the local blood drives, we were particularly concerned with the lack of time allowed. However, this is an all-too-familiar complaint. Anyone with a local event to publicize should adhere to the rule, "the sooner the better," and we'll try to have it in on time. We do goof, but the chances of it happening are less if the information is written and early.

Off the record

A July visit into history

On a summer morning, as the sun peeks over the valley and a soft breeze gently blows across the farmlands, a sense of peaceful repose prevails over this small Pennsylvania town tucked along the Maryland border.

Standing along the edge of a dirt road, its stone fence worn with age, it is hard to imagine that 120 years ago some 50,000 Americans were killed or wounded on this soil in a three-day battle which ultimately decided the fate of this nation.

The once open fields containing row after row of crops now are marked with monuments in memory of those who died on the hallowed grounds of this town known as Gettysburg.

During the past two summers, my mother and I have become quite attached to this historical site. Though a Civil War collectors' show lures us to Gettysburg over the Fourth of July weekend, there is a much more significant reason for celebrating the birth of this nation on a dusty battleground in a small Pennsylvania town.

For those who remember their high school history lessons, the Battle of Gettysburg marked the turning point in the Civil War. The Union victory proved debilitating for the Confederacy and the South would never rise again after that bloody three-day fight.

That the battle ended on the eve of America's celebrated Independence Day always has struck me as an uncanny coincidence. Among those who fought to preserve the Union were the grandsons and great-grandsons of the leaders who formed this nation.

While the horrors of war always have eluded me, there is much to be said for the patriotism which has led many to fight for the freedoms we so often take for granted. The farmers who traded their hoes for rifles to help save the Union were no different from the fresh faced kids sent off to Laos 100 years later. The only difference is that, during the 1860s, Americans recognized the sacrifice of those who fought for their country. Unfortunately, we have yet to acknowledge fully the contributions of those who served in Vietnam.

At the Gettysburg cemetery, headstones marking the graves of countless soldiers are lined in rows on the neatly-clipped grass. These headstones bear the names of soldiers who not only lost their lives during the Civil War — but in the subsequent battles of World War I and II, Korea and Vietnam.

This cemetery, a final resting place for America's lost sons, fathers, brothers and husbands, not only symbolizes the sacrifices made by this nation in its struggles to preserve democracy, but also serves as a reminder to future generations of the need to carry on that tradition.

The most stirring and accurate appraisal of our country's heritage was perhaps best described by Abraham Lincoln at the dedication of the military cemetery at Gettysburg on November 19, 1863. In his attempt to make "a few appropriate remarks," Lincoln urged Americans to "resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain, that this nation shall have a new birth of freedom and that the government of the people, by the people and for the people should not perish from the earth."

They are words that should be taken to heart.

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

My good friends at the Detroit Free You-know-what are at it again.

It was roughly six months ago that the Big City boys decided to launch their so-called "local sections," the sections on Thursday which allegedly serve the suburbs — Oakland, Western Wayne, Washtenaw and Macomb counties.

Actually, "serve" is the wrong word. If you consider a maximum of one or two stories per week about any given community as "serving" than your definition of service is a lot broader than mine.

What the "local sections" were designed to do was tap the allegedly lucrative suburban advertising market. If you can worm away local advertising accounts while only providing one or two stories per week about the given community, I guess it's worth the try.

Frankly, I doubt that the You-know-what's local sections will succeed. The Detroit News tried it with its Metro sections roughly a decade ago and ultimately abandoned the venture.

The thing that really galls me about the YKW's local sections, however, is their obvious conflict with the paper's editorial philosophy.

For years the Detroit Free YKW has ardently supported the interests of Detroit at the expense of the suburbs. The prevailing editorial philosophy seems to be: If it's good for the suburbs, it's bad for Detroit and we're against it.

What's ironic is that the YKW's business philosophy is more advanced than its editorial philosophy. For Southeastern Michigan to survive and flourish, both Detroit and the suburbs must be allowed to meet their potentials.

You won't save Detroit by strangling the suburbs, but you may save Detroit by allowing the suburbs to flourish — and then allowing the salvation to flow back into the central city.

The Detroit Free YKW did it again last week, strongly supporting the DNR's denial of funding for Super Sewer, which is necessary for growth and development in Western Wayne and Southern Oakland County. To add insult to injury, they did it in the Thursday paper which also carries their "local" sections.

It's a lot like being robbed and assaulted at the same time.

Jaycettes laud youngsters for bike contest promotion

To the Editor:
On behalf of the Northville Jaycettes I'd like to thank all the area youngsters who assisted us so wonderfully the weekend before the Fourth by distributing flyers advertising our Bike Decorating Contest which took place prior to the parade at the Downs.

Our article notifying the community of the time and place of this event was mistakenly left out of The Record two Wednesdays in a row prior to the Fourth of July. Some quick art work by Joyce Bousquet and those area kids who helped us out turned what would've been a disaster into a great project.

The bikes were all decked out in their finest, and the kids loved being able to ride in the parade.

Unfortunately, they all couldn't get a first, second or third place prize, but the following youngsters did:

Ages six and under — first, Jason Pertile; second, Mike Terry; third, Mike Pertile;

Ages seven-eight — first, Jennie Parer; second, David Mason; third, Jack Pertile;

Ages nine-ten — first, Ben Wilkiemyer; second, Joe Bress; third, Angela Pertile;

Ages eleven and up — first, a tie, Jennifer Barber, Erin Trosien; second, Sara Johnson; third, Janet Robertson.

Thanks to everyone who participated and to the parents of the kids who got them to the Downs for this event.

Sincerely,
Debbie Anderson
Bike decorating chairman
Northville Jaycettes

It is a blue, three-speed woman's bike, not sure of the brand name, but we think it was a Superior. The unusual identifying mark on it was a sticker which read, "I climbed Castle Rock," and a white seat which was relatively new.

I am a senior citizen, and the bike is mine. I had loaned it to our grand-daughter to ride to school that day when it disappeared.

We would really appreciate its return — with no questions asked — to the driveway of 920 Ely Court.

Thank you.

Reader voices protest over area's condition

To the Editor:
Is living in Northville Township one step above ghetto living? It appears so — or perhaps it is unique to our subdivision.

Entering it, one is greeted by dead or dying pine trees, boats and trailers stored on property, cars and trucks (not construction equipment) parked in vacant lots, lawns unkept, unmowed and unwatered.

Some residences (unoccupied over three years) have yet to get a blade of grass. The streets are filthy. Weeds are at least shoulder high, obstructing the view of drivers.

I traded Detroit and Coleman Young for all this and high taxes.

Northville has a certain pride, and we moved here because of it — but visitors say our sub is the pits!

Sincerely,
Township resident

Chairperson thanks Field Day supporters

To the Editor:
On Sunday, July 3, the Northville Community Recreation Commission held a Field Day fundraiser to help offset the Community Center deficit. The light turnout for the day was a disappointment and yet a new beginning. Through our organizational efforts, many groups in the township and city have become more informed about the recreational needs for our community.

Most importantly we recognize that together we can make recreation more than just a function. We can make participation fun, fulfilling, educational and a healthy environment in which our children will grow. I can only hope that in the future our community will continue to support a program such as Field Day in keeping recreation an essential part of our lives.

On behalf of the Commission, I'd like to thank the following sponsors and contributors that helped make Field Day possible: Cap 'n' Cork Party Store, Genitti's, Northville Lumber, Green's Home Decorating Center, Copy Boy Printing, Grandview Acres Homeowners Association, Park Gardens Homeowners Association, Oakland Hills Cemetery of Novi, and Land and Seas Brass and Nautical Gifts of Plymouth.

Thanks again to Northville Public Schools for the use of the high school football field and concession. Thanks to the Kiwanis, Northville Co-op Preschool and the Chamber of Commerce for participating in the shared service concessions.

A special thanks to all those volunteers who helped put on the program, including the city and township fire and police departments, township and city officials, and special guests State Senator Robert Geake, Representative Gerald Law, Wayne County Commissioner Mary Dumas and district judges Dunbar Davis and James Garber.

"Thanks, couldn't have done it without you" to the following committee directors with whom I've had the pleasure to work in putting on this community activity: Jim Petres, Ken Lehl, Kathy McNally, Judy Sommershoe, Doug Drapel, Debbie Anderson, Doug Boor, Pete Talbot, Debbie Belkoski, Norm Kubitskey, Mike O'Brien, Ann Hicks and Gary Sixt.

Sincerely Yours,
Liz McCarville

Group seeks help for needy residents

To the Editor:
What could Northville do without The Record?

What would Northville do without the wonderful people in Northville? The Civic Concern Committee consists of representatives of churches, clubs and individuals, and all are dedicated to give assistance to those in need.

We are dependent on the wonderful folks of Northville to make it possible for us to provide the assistance needed.

Again we appeal to you for finance and food.

A lady, mother of three who cannot hear, is in desperate need of assistance. Her rent is past due; utility bills must be paid.

She went without food to give what she had to her children before calling us for assistance. After many days in the hospital she has regained sufficient strength to return to work, but bills and baby sitting costs are so much that she must have real assistance to get back on her own.

We call upon you to contribute either cash or food for this purpose. Cash or checks may be sent to Ann Roy, 150 North Center, Northville, 48167. Checks should be made payable to Civic Concern Committee.

Food can be sent to 43643 Nine Mile. Some may prefer to give direct assistance to the mother, and we will give information for this purpose. We need your assistance now and feel sure you will rise to the occasion as Good Samaritans, and we thank you.

Anyone desiring more information may call Roy, 349-8700; Nancy Denney, 349-6559; or C.A. Smith, 349-0854.

AAUW appreciates newspaper support

To the Editor:

The support that you and The Northville Record have given our organization (Northville branch of the American Association of University Women) the last several years and especially this past year has been phenomenal.

We are most appreciative of the front page article concerning our current fund raiser, "The Game of Northville." The article generated much interest in the game within the community and has helped us to sell hundreds of games. This has been especially gratifying because the funds from the sale of the game will allow us to increase the amount of scholarship money awarded to Northville High School students in June of 1984.

The support of The Northville Record has been most significant in making our fund raiser a success.

We are also especially pleased with the coverage given our other activities throughout the year. It is terrific to be a part of a cohesive community such as Northville and to have an outstanding newspaper which reinforces basic values.

Many thanks.

Sincerely,
Lee Rebin

Senior citizen requests stolen bicycle's return

News from Lansing

By R. ROBERT GEAKE
State Senator

Are we starting to listen to reason in the Legislature after all? I am extremely pleased that my colleagues in the Senate went along with several Republican initiatives in passing the Social Services budget. Our intent: to shift some of our spending away from handouts and toward job training and education.

Over the past 10 years our priorities in this state have gradually reversed themselves — away from education and toward welfare spending. As our General Assistance and Aid to Families with Dependent Children grants increased, our educational spending waned. And our schools suffered for it.

In the 1983-84 Senate-approved budget, my Republican colleagues and I worked long and hard to implement provisions to assure that our unemployed people will get training, job experience and, ultimately, employment. We hope the House will concur with these ideas.

The Senate shifted some $73 million away from the Governor's recommended spending — most of which was for caseload increases — and toward job training. We earmarked $43 million, initially sought to increase welfare grants by five percent, for a special Training, Employment and Education Fund. Those funds will be set aside for the administration of a mandatory employment program for welfare recipients which we will take up in the Legislature this fall.

This is one of the most significant victories that we could have achieved. But it is not a loss for our state's disadvantaged. Just the reverse. We want to provide training, retraining, and most important, job experience, for those who are caught in the downward spiral of unemployment and welfare. We want to help them pull themselves out of that depressing state and find their way back into the economic mainstream.

We want to put people back to work. We want to improve the quality of life of the unemployed — and a simple five percent grant increase would not have done that. It would have been an insignificant, platy sum that made no long-term investment in the future of its recipients. We prefer to spend that money on a long-term investment in employability. Better to give up a small increase in favor of job training and a lifetime of work, paychecks, and self-respect.

We achieved a number of other significant victories in the passage of the Senate version of the budget. For one thing, rather than just accepting the Governor's prediction of skyrocketing welfare caseloads, (predictions that have not panned out so far), we have provided enough for a conservative increase. In the event that caseloads do go up more than they have in the past few months, we created a contingency fund specifically for that purpose and that purpose only. In order to get at the money, the Department of Social Services (DSS) would have to obtain a transfer approval from both the Senate and House Appropriations Committees.

We also required cutbacks in DSS staff and a strengthening of residency requirements for welfare recipients so that newcomers will not be as likely to move to Michigan because of our higher payments.

In my view, we are still spending too much on welfare and not nearly enough on education. But I am optimistic that we have made a big step down the long road back to good sense in government spending.

Law tells why he voted against social services

Despite an eleventh hour plan that will delay action on a controversial $43 million job training-heating assistance proposal, State Representative Gerald H. Law (R-Plymouth, whose district includes Northville) voted against the Department of Social Services bill because it is "an example of the uncontrolled spending that creates large deficits."

As approved by the House July 5, the $2.07 billion DSS budget no longer contains the $43 million welfare increase proposed by Governor Blanchard, who wanted the funds for a five percent increase to recipients of General Assistance and Aid to Families with Dependent Children.

Instead, lawmakers removed the money and set it aside for the two programs that will be worked out under separate legislation this fall. Even with these provisions, Law said the budget proposal was unacceptable and too costly.

"This tremendous spending plan will have ominous results. Fiscal agency experts predict a $530 million deficit by 1985 if we continue to spend at such an increased rate," he said. "There will be intense pressure for another tax increase in a couple of years to finance this growth in state government."

Law said he voted against the DSS budget because the state should not be creating new programs in a time of fiscal difficulties. "I don't know how we can justify beginning a new program when we aren't adequately funding current programs, particularly education. If any department deserved to have a larger budget, it was the state's educational institutions. Or, the money should have been put in the rainy day fund so we'd be prepared for any future budget shortfalls," he said.

Had a series of Republican budget amendments been adopted in June, the state could have saved approximately $117 million next year, Law said.

"The Republicans called for an eight percent cap on spending in most state departments. The eight percent plan would have been more than adequate for our current needs. Although Governor Blanchard promised an austere budget, his 12.8 percent increase is more than triple the current 3.4 percent inflation rate and cannot be justified."

C & O crane removes unused rail siding in Northville

More, longer trains signal recovery

By KEVIN WILSON

One sign of economic recovery is an increase in railroad traffic. Dependent on the health of on-line shippers for business, railroads and their operations act as an accurate barometer of general economic activity.

And that barometer is rising according to James Ward, area superintendent for the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, a division of CSX — the Chessie System.

Rail traffic through the road's major yard in Plymouth is up 12 percent over year-ago levels, though hardly approaching the pre-recession level. An average 44 trains per day ran through Plymouth in 1978 — with the latest increase, that number is now 22, Ward said.

This does not accurately reflect the shipping level, however, as the road now runs longer trains where it once would have made two or three trips.

Double and even triple-heading locomotives to tow the longer trains of freight cars reduce labor and fuel costs, making rail shipment more competitive with other modes such as trucking or cargo ships.

This region of the C&O is dependent on the auto industry and much of the increased traffic can be attributed to the early stages of a rebound in auto sales.

Chessie trains run half-a-dozen times per day out of the Chevrolet Spring and Bumper facility in Livonia. The recent boom in large car sales has increased the number of cars produced at Ford Motor Company's Wixom Assembly plant, where Lincoln Continentals and Mark VIs are being built on two shifts for the first time in several years.

"Ford is down right now for vacation — but the end of last month (June) all of Ford Motor was shipping heavily; they tried to get out as many cars as they could," said Jim Hord, General Road foreman.

"Buick in Saginaw is loading like crazy, Lordstown (Ohio, a GM assembly plant site) is loading a lot," he reported. "Multi-level auto cars are at a premium."

The multi-level auto-shipping racks were a common site stored idle at sidings throughout the Detroit area during the recession, but the increased activity has brought most of them back on the road.

Parts suppliers all along the line also are contributing to the load. Two main Chessie routes run through the Plymouth yard, with one heading north through Northville and Novi in its way to a northern Michigan terminus, with a siding cutting west to the Lincoln Yard to handle the Wixom Ford business. This route carries traffic originating south of Michigan and connects with a major cross-country line in Ohio.

The other runs west out of Plymouth into South Lyon and through Milford on its way across the state.

CSX took advantage of the reduced traffic loading during the recession to improve its right of way in this area, which is now composed of virtually new welded steel rail laid in the past two years.

"We spent $13 million on right of way improvements," in the past year, Hord said.

The track improvements allow the longer, heavier, more economical trains to run at competitive speeds, but that is not the only cost-savings realized from the capital improvements.

"As long as the rail is there, we pay (property) taxes on it just as if it was in use, so we remove them after so many years without use," he said, noting that removal is virtually certain when it appears there are no customers to be served by the old rail sidings.

Another capital improvement made in this region in the past year or two is installation of automatic detection equipment at railside. The electronic devices can detect a hot journal box (wheel bearings) and issue a warning before the wheel falls.

They also can detect anything dragging from the train that might represent a mechanical problem brewing. Signaling and control devices also have been updated.

Ward said the end result of the improvements has been to improve Chessie's competitive position in the shipping industry — a claim with results that can be measured in the increased number of railroad cars being shipped through this area.

Fed jobless benefit cut

An estimated 120,000 jobless in Michigan now receiving extended federal unemployment benefits lost up to two weeks of those benefits last week due to a federal requirement.

S. Martin Taylor, director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC) said federal law requires the maximum number of weeks payable through the Federal Supplemental Compensation (FSC) program be reduced in Michigan from 12 to 10 weeks because of a continuing decline in the claimload for regular state unemployment benefits.

Taylor said the decline was largely due to people exhausting state benefits and not from employment gains. A similar two-week reduction occurred in June.

The FSC program provides federally-funded benefits to those who exhaust state benefits. The number of weeks payable is tied to the state's insured unemployment rate (IUR).

While the cutback will affect most FSC claimants in the state, between 10,000 and 20,000 will be affected almost immediately as their benefits will be terminated at least one or two weeks earlier than anticipated.

In early June, FSC dropped from 14 to 12 weeks when the state IUR dropped below 6.0 percent. In addition, the drop below six percent forced the state's own Extended Benefit (EB) program to end, affecting some 56,600 EB claimants.

"It's tragic that so many weeks of benefits should be lost in Michigan with our total unemployment rate so high," Taylor said.

"But the federal government changed the IUR formula, which is used to determine the state's eligibility for EB and FSC payments. The change was made at the urging of the Reagan administration to reduce federal unemployment costs," Taylor explained.

"The formula is now based only on those claiming regular state unemployment benefits. It totally excludes those on our extended benefit programs. As a result, EB and FSC remain in effect for shorter periods of time despite continuing high unemployment."

The IUR is the ratio of those claiming state unemployment benefits to those who are working in jobs covered by state unemployment insurance law. The IUR differs significantly from the total unemployment rate, which is announced monthly and is the ratio of those who are unemployed to the total labor force.

When a state's IUR is six percent or higher, FSC pays up to 14 weeks of benefits. When it is less than six percent, FSC pays up to 12 weeks, less than five percent, up to 10, and less than four percent, up to eight weeks.

During the week ending June 18, Michigan's IUR dropped to 4.95 percent. Two weeks later, FSC by law must drop to 10 weeks. The FSC program began in September, 1982, and is scheduled to end September 30.

Business Briefs

LAWN EQUIPMENT CORPORATION of Novi dissolved its connection as a Stihl distributor May 1 and formed a new organization known as East Michigan Stihl.

John MacFarlane is president of the new Stihl distributor organization. He has 30 years' experience in sales and is a former vice president and member of Lawn Equipment's Board of Directors.

Lawn Equipment and East Michigan had an amicable split with MacFarlane having his stock and equity turned over to him in the form of Stihl inventory.

The business has moved 10 miles west to Milford where MacFarlane has leased 3,200 square feet of office and warehouse space.

"With the separation of the corporations, we feel both will be able to serve and devote more time to our respective product lines," said MacFarlane in a letter sent to all Stihl distributors.

"The metropolitan Detroit area is highly competitive, and we wanted to give our 100 Stihl dealers the opportunity to sell a profitable line," MacFarlane said.

With four employees, including his son Don as parts manager, MacFarlane plans to continue promoting Stihl's strong sellers in his area: brushcutters, blowers and consumer saws. The new company also has the services of Sales Manager Fred Rinke, who worked seven years at Lawn Equipment.

LITTLE CAESAR ENTERPRISES, Incorporated, has begun a campaign to emphasize lunch, fast service and to announce the addition of fountain soft drinks on the menu. The chain's advertising co-ops are relaying the message to the public. The promotion will include special offer print ads.

In 1982, Little Caesars added pizza by the slice (one fourth of a medium cheese and pepperoni pizza), four types of sandwiches served hot or cold in a freshly baked bun (Italian, ham and cheese, vegetarian and tuna), three types of salads (tossed, Greek and antipasto) in three different sizes and Crazy Bread (a soft breadstick brushed with garlic butter and sprinkled with parmesan cheese). The chain also changed its hours of operation to begin service at 11 a.m.

WILLIAM T. PHILLIPS

WILLIAM T. PHILLIPS of Northville has been named to the board of trustees at Madonna College, Livonia.

Phillips is president of PSI Hydraulics, Recycle Engineering and PSI Computer Services, Inc. He is a graduate of Lawrence Institute of Technology and the Detroit College of Applied Science.

Phillips serves on the board of directors of Michigan National Bank — West Metro and is past president of the National Fluid Power Society.

He will serve a three-year term on the Madonna board.

Also named to the board was Sister Madeline Dolan, CSSF, administrator of the St. Joseph Home and Day Center, Jackson.

DENNIS HUTCHINS, formerly of South Lyon, has been appointed as the northeast regional sales manager of Jantzen Incorporated Men's Division, effective September 1. He will be based in Jantzen's regional office in New York City.

Announcement was made recently by Don W. Fish, division national sales manager of Jantzen. Hutchins will succeed Dennis M. Maloney who had previously been selected to be national sales manager upon Fish's retirement on August 31.

Hutchins joined the company in June, 1977, after seven years' experience in apparel sales. He first represented Jantzen in Boston, Massachusetts and has subsequently served the Washington, D.C. territory since being transferred to that city in 1979. He is a 1964 graduate of South Lyon High School who attended Ferris State College in Big Rapids where he studied marketing and retailing.

Hutchins is the son of Russell and Genia Hutchins of South Lyon.

Charley's host clambake

Chuck Muer's Northville Charley's restaurant at 4112 West Seven Mile is holding its second annual "Booster Club Clambake" from 1-4 p.m. this Sunday.

The event is an outdoor picnic to raise funds for the Northville Public Schools' athletic Booster Club which funds sports programs for students of all ages.

Tickets are being sold in advance at Northville Charley's at $15 each. Participants will have their choice of a whole Maine lobster or barbecue ribs, served with mussels, redskin potatoes, bread and butter and corn on the cob. Beer, wine and pop also will be available.

WHND "Honey" radio will be broadcasting live from the clambake all day, providing fun, entertainment and games with prizes.

For ticket reservations call 349-9220.

Restaurant organizers say they expect this year's clambake to raise three times the amount raised last year and note they have added the barbecue ribs to this year's menu. Seating space also has been increased 300 percent.

Riebling's among delegates

Leona Riebling of 44100 Galway was among 705 delegates recently attending the 14th General Synod of the United Church of Christ in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

The delegates overwhelmingly voted to have the United Church of Christ develop as a "peace-making church" and to help fund its efforts in that direction.

In addition, the Synod endorsed a mutual U.S.-Soviet Union nuclear weapons freeze. It also called on Congress to stop all funding for the MX missile and other first-strike nuclear weapons.

Youth needs and interests were designated as a new, four-year priority for the church after vigorous lobbying by youth delegates.

Women also came in for special attention at the meeting, as the Synod elected the Reverend Carol Joyce Brun of White Plains, New York, secretary of the 1.75 million member denomination — one of the first women to be elected to so high a post in any church in America.

Ann Arbor Fair to star local artists

By JEAN DAY

Three Northville artists — Suzanne M. Young, Laurie Fowler and Bill Thelan — are to be among the participants in the 1983 Ann Arbor Art Fair next week. The 24th annual art fair will be held July 20 through the 23. The event actually is three distinct art fairs — the Ann Arbor Street Art Fair, the State Street Art Fair and the Summer Arts Festival.

Suzanne M. Young of Northville will be participating for the first time in the Ann Arbor Street Art Fair, the oldest and the original juried fair. It is limited to some 250 artists who are rigorously screened through a two-part jurying system, consisting of a slide jurying process in the spring and on-the-street jurying during the fair.

Because many artists are invited back each year, there are only openings for about 40-60 new artists each year. For this reason Ms. Young says she is especially pleased to be in this juried show for the first time. An artist and teacher at Mercy High School, she creates figurative wall reliefs of porcelain.

Her hanging sculptures, she explains, take "sculpture off the pedestal to let almost everyone own a piece." Some of her work is of white porcelain, but she also uses a Japanese process called raku to glaze and fire a piece that is placed in sawdust where it ignites and then smolders to create outstanding color effects. The artist and her work will be found in booth 84 in the fair area of South and East University. This event has been rated third among more than 1,000 art fairs nationally and is called "Queen of the Fairs" by the artists themselves.

When contacted last week, artist Young was working to build up an inventory for the show while completing arrangements to move from the cooperative where she has lived for three years to a house with studio space in Northville Township.

Laurie Fowler and Bill Thelan, whose studio home is on Fairbrook in the city, will have a double booth in the State Street Fair located in front of the Michigan Union Building. They will be showing their fiberwork sculpture. Last week they were preparing for the show after returning from a show in Boston Mills, Ohio.

The Ann Arbor street fairs are expected to draw 400,000 people and always have been a popular attraction for Northville residents. Hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Wednesday through Friday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

Newcomers to entertain at Polynesian party

Northville Newcomers began taking reservations July 5 for a Lakeside Luau August 20 at Highland Lakes beach. Hawaiian dancers, leis, torches and music will await party-goers at this first gathering of the new season. Reservation-taking will continue through July 29 by chairman Sue Shepard, 348-6544.

Following the Hawaiian feast of roast pig, there will be a live hula dance revue with "lessons for the willing," reports Joan Hursey, new president of the 170-member group. Cost for the evening is $15 a couple plus a passing dish.

Persons interested in joining Northville Newcomers are welcome to attend, as are third year members who will become Newcomer Alumni in the fall. For information about Newcomers, membership chairperson Alice Patterson may be called at 349-5244, or President Hursey at 420-3027.

Steven Sellas follows sister, brother to Greece

Steven Sellas, 14-year-old son of the Nicholas Sellases of Edenderry, is continuing a family tradition of attending Ionia Village in Bartholio, Greece, as his older brother Spencer and his sister Laraine had done. He left June 27 on the trip sponsored by the Archdiocese of the Greek Orthodox Church which focuses on Greek culture and heritage.

Before he returns July 15, Steven will have traveled to Olympia and visited Athens for three days. He will have tales of the Acropolis, the citadel of Athens, and other Greek lore to tell fellow ninth graders at Meads Mill this fall. This is his first trip to Ionia Village, but his second to Greece.

Cancer Myth #2

"Bumps and bruises can cause cancer."

Some people believe that if they get a bump or bruise it may lead to cancer. That's a myth. It's not true. Bumps and bruises do not cause cancer. If cancer is discovered after an injury, the cancer symptom probably was there before, but it just was not noticed earlier. Get regular checkups and learn to recognize a change in your body that might be a sign of cancer. Call the Cancer Information Service.

St. John's offers summer courses

Moral theology and two scripture courses will be offered at St. John's Provincial Seminary July 25-29.

"Human Sexuality and Sexual Morality," led by George Gustafson, will investigate the theology of human sexuality in Catholic tradition and contemporary thought. Father Gustafson also will consider the methodology and moral evaluation of specific sexual behavior.

Father Gustafson, assistant professor and dean of students at St. John's, is a member of the Detroit Archdiocesan medical ethics committee.

"Book of Revelation — A 'Prophecy'?" will study this book as a pastoral letter to a circle of First century churches containing a prophetic interpretation of their situation written in apocalyptic style. Directed by John J. Castolot, the fallacy of popular interpretation of the book as a detailed prediction of 20th century events will be addressed.

A lecturer and nationally syndicated columnist, Father Castolot is a professor of Scriptures at St. John's.

A survey of biblical texts revealing prophets reflecting on their own experience of the prophetic call and ministry will be the subject of Jerome T. Walsh's "The Prophetic Call and Ministry."

Father Walsh holds a Ph.D. from the University of Michigan and is an associate professor at St. John's and an instructor and guide of the Holy Land Study Tours. He also is a contributor to periodicals and journals in biblical languages and literatures.

Pardon my dust

Northville's 'E' League Padres were way too much for the South Lyon Reds, as the Padres rallied for 11 first-inning runs en route to a 23-3 romp. Above, the Padres' Tony Lindsey is safe at home despite Reds catcher Bill Elliott's attempt to block the plate. At left, the Padres' Keith Halk sails safely into second as Reds second baseman Brian Armstrong makes the tag with an empty glove. Record photos by John Galloway.

Northville 'E' league all-stars clobber rivals from Novi 14-2

Northville's All-Star "E" League (ages 14-16) baseball team captured a bit of the American League's fire last week and demolished the Novi "E" League all-stars by a 14-2 score.

Coach Ed Harp of the Northville Mets platooned 27 Northville players into the the second annual contest with no noticeable decline in offense, defense and pitching.

league team and who each played three innings in the contest:

Paul Newitt, John Lobdia, Freddie Cahill, Daraban, Jeff Harp, Mike Darrow, Kapelanski and Scott Lazarra (Mets);

John Meadows, Hauser, Scott Peterson, Kozler, Dave Trumbull (Phillies);

Eric Morfe, Nowka, Mike Crawford, Shurmer, Candela, Joe Conoway (Reds); Olsen, Grasley, Keith Hale, Bob Workman, Bainbridge, Bugar, Ferde Saunders and Mike Mahokian (Padres).

"It was a game where the kids played together, truly as a team," he said. "It was really a team effort. Each player really picked up one another, played good fundamental baseball and played to his potential."

Winning pitcher with a dazzling effort was Chris Hauser of the Phillies, who retired nine of the ten batters he faced in three innings of work. Hauser allowed no hits, and struck out seven Novi hitters.

In relief, Mets hurler George Daraban and the Reds' Dino Candela were nearly as impressive. Daraban allowed no hits and struck out four while Candela retired 9 of the 11 hitters he faced, allowing only one hit.

Hauser also banged out two hits at the plate, singling in the Reds' Dirk Nowka to open the scoring in the second inning and scoring himself on a fielder's choice, then hitting another RBI single in the third.

Picking up two hits and two RBI each in the contest were the Padres' Joel Grasley RBI and the Phillies' Jeff Bainbridge. Nowka contributed a two-run double in the second, while Craig Kozler of the Phillies duplicated the feat in the eighth inning.

Contributing RBI for the Northville all-stars were the Padres' John Bugar and Mets player Eric Kapelanski.

Mack leaguers split four

Northville's Connie Mack league baseball team extended its season record to 9-4 last week by winning two and losing two in a week where pitching dominated.

Detroit West Seven edged Northville 2-1 in the week's opener, with Bob Pegrum doubling in Steve Frellick for Northville's only run.

Although he took the loss, Dan Nielsen looked sharp on the mound, permitting only two hits, no walks and no earned runs — both West Sevens runs scored on a throwing error.

Thursday, Dave Longridge sparked Northville's offense and defense in a 5-4 win with two hits and two runs, adding two outstanding seventh-inning defensive plays to preserve a 4-4 tie.

Longridge scored the winning run in the bottom of the seventh when he doubled, advanced to third on a grounder, and came home on Mickey Newman's long clutch single. Newman also had a big day, socking an RBI double in a previous trip to the plate.

Saturday, Northville split a twinbill with Waterford, taking the first game 3-0 on Nielsen's superb three-hit shutout. Nielsen fanned 10 Waterford batters, again walked none and lowered his ERA to 2.29.

Pegrum and Longridge again swung hot bats, each getting two hits, with Longridge collecting two RBI.

In the 6-2 nightcap loss, Northville could manage only four hits, two by Newman, including one RBI.

PROPOSED RUNNING COURSE

PHOENIX CORRECTIONAL CENTER

Acquired by Northville Township last May, there has been some debate as to whether the Beck Road park area proposed for playing fields at right should principally be for soccer or baseball use.

PROPOSED SITES FOR PARKING AND FIELDS

Beck Road

PRISON EXPANSION AREA

Views differ on use of new park on Beck

The question of how best to use the newly acquired parklands on Beck Road in Northville Township is expected to see much discussion in the coming month, including at tonight's Northville Recreation Commission meeting.

At issue are differing sports factions interested in the 17-acre parcel. A preliminary plan drawn up by township planning consultants Vilican-Leman and Associates called for two baseball fields, a soccer field and a running course in the "panhandle" section to the east, along with parking areas.

But soccer advocates, citing the already-high demand for soccer fields, criticized the provision and insisted more room be allotted for soccer fields. Also, Commissioner Doug Drapal has said he wanted the plans to provide for winter sports use as well as spring, summer and fall.

The issue is presently being studied by the governmental bodies ultimately responsible for the decision — the Recreation Commission, the Northville Township Board of Trustees, the Northville Recreation Department and Vilican-Leman.

Commissioner Liz McCarville is expected to introduce tonight a proposal to form a committee to discuss use of the park — the committee would consist of representatives of the various government groups, consultants and interested parties.

Already, officials are seeking federal grants to bankroll the costs of preliminary work, including $3,600 for a final site plan, $1,000 for utility plans and $1,800 for a cost estimate of the landscaping project itself. Commissioner James Armstrong predicts word on approval of the projects will come in by October.

Mantle Blue team wins five straight

Northville's Mickey Mantle baseball Blue team turned back Novi and Barney McCoskey last week to notch its fifth straight victory and raise the team's season mark to 7-5.

Against Novi, Blue pitcher Greg Ryba allowed just four hits in six innings of work, striking out six en route to an 8-3 win.

Second baseman Steve Cody paced the Blue offense and defense, going 3-for-3 at the plate, including a double, and making several sparkling defensive plays at the keystone.

Also chipping in some key hits were Jay Bartling, with two hits and two runs; Keith Dutkiewicz, who went 2-for-2 with a double and an RBI; and Mike Wissman, who had two hits to keep his season batting average at a healthy .385. John Norton added another RBI with a single.

In the 7-5 win over McCoskey Saturday, Chris Willerer preserved a Kelly Bell's first win by coming in in the bottom of the seventh with the bases loaded and retiring the final McCoskey batter. Doug Hartman turned in a solid day at the plate, going 2-for-2 with two RBI. Jay Bartling and Paul Newitt also were sharp with the bat.

Gold 9 splits two

Northville's Gold Mickey Mantle nine bounced back from a 15-4 drubbing by Dearborn Heights last Thursday to knock off Detroit Barney McCoskey 6-2 Saturday, paced by a solid debut starting pitching effort by starter Bob Justus.

The team's RBI leader with 8, Fred Cahill, paced the Gold attack with two hits and two RBI, while leading hitter Mark Olsen, now hitting .400, had an RBI single and Rob Cannon added an RBI double.

Justus allowed only four singles in six innings of work, although much of the credit for his win goes to some superb defensive work — Justus struck out just two players. In particular, shortstop Chris Woodman and third baseman Scott Peterson were particularly sharp, allowing just the two runs although McCoskey had stranded eight base runners in the game.

Olsen also wielded a hot bat against Dearborn Heights, getting two of the team's five hits, as did pitcher Rob Workman, whose good relief performance came too late to stop the Dearborn Heights onslaught.

The Gold unit, now 4-6 for the season, will travel to a 12-team Mickey Mantle tournament in Allen Park this weekend.

Mets still two up in 'G'

The Phillies and Pirates stayed close to the league-leading red-hot Mets in Northville "G" league baseball action last week, as the Mets and Pirates took two games each while the Phillies split.

Keying the Pirates' 9-5 win over the Giants were Dave Merrick and Dave Carey, who each collected a double and two RBI, while teammate Steve Bastian drove in three runs and also had a double.

The Cubs' Matt Smith socked a home run in a 7-3 loss to the Giants last week Tuesday. Teammates Nick Solos singled and scored, David McKee had two RBI and Mike Janibor turned in a solid relief effort against the 9-6 Giants.

It's Blue over Gold in Pee-Wee

In Pee Wee Reese league play last week, Northville Blue topped its season mark to 9-5 with a 12-7 slugfest win over Northville Gold Saturday and an 8-3 victory over Plymouth Canton Cragler Sunday.

Against Northville Gold, Robert Richcreek, now 3-0, got the game ball for a strong pitching effort and two singles and a double at the plate.

Steve Nigro tossed a three-hitter against Cragler for his fourth win, while hot hitting came from Randy Jones (3 hits, 1 RBI), Matt Oliver (3 RBI), Steve Pearce (2 RBI) and Mike MacDonell (1 RBI).
