City to cut spending

By KEVIN WILSON

City manager Steven Walters will wield a carving knife rather than a meat ax as he pares city expenditures to allow for the latest state cut in racing revenue payments.

Walters was instructed by city council Monday to prepare a set of amendments to the city budget cutting $66,000 in expenditures so the deficit does not grow beyond its present level — most recently estimated at $460,000.

While at council's previous session Walters had indicated a need to make deep slashes in expenditures, probably including layoffs and employee concessions, less drastic measures were deemed adequate Monday.

City officials abandoned, for now, the budgetary goal of acquiring a current year surplus to apply against last year's deficit and instead will "shoot for break-even," in Walters' words. Council members discussed possible property tax levies to offset the deficit in succeeding years.

To answer the immediate concern, Walters reported he had determined four budget reductions which could be made "without materially reducing the level of services to the public" that together would save $42,000. Included is a retirement fund "contribution" of $14,000; staff reduction of one clerical worker by September 30 to save $11,000; eliminating the purchase of one police car at a savings of $13,000 and a cut of $4,000 in the fire department's capital outlay budget.

(We) had no indication of the Legislature's plans until '30 to 40 days after we had to adopt our budget.'

Steven Walters,
City Manager

With council's agreement on the approach, Walters said he will present a formal budget deficit plan including the necessary $24,000 in additional savings for the August 1 meeting.

The cuts are necessary because the state legislature is expected to reduce per capita tax payments to the city for the third consecutive year. Walters said his latest discussion with Representative Gerald Law indicates Northville will receive $500,100 in racing revenue.

The city had projected receipt of the full $800,000 allowed by the legislation requiring payments to racetrack cities. With that full appropriation, the budget adopted earlier this year called for the city to make up nearly half its present deficit.

Walters indicated some doubt that the state Municipal Finance Commission (MFC), which is monitoring the city budget deficit closely, will settle for the "break-even" approach to the current year. But council members were in a fighting mood, standing firm in their position that the state government is the major source of the city's budget problems and should therefore be sympathetic with its plight.

Walters noted that there was no indication of the legislature's plans regarding the racetrack revenues until "30 or 40 days after we had to adopt our budget (under state law)."

Saying he "realizes the state has the hammer" council member J. Burton DeRusha said the news that racing payments would be cut also came "after our opportunity to adjust our revenues (through taxation) had passed."

He advocated the break-even approach to the current problem "and then file a three or four year plan to levy, say, one mill or whatever it takes to offset the deficit."

DeRusha said the city could then "apply the millage the first year and hope something comes up before we have to use it for the full four years, or whatever it comes to."

The current year problem, he said, is that "we had the false hope they (the state) would live up to their own obligation."

Walters agreed, saying the budget was planned in the expectation the state "would do what they did for 24 years in the twenty-sixth year."

He cautioned, however, that if the MFC objects to the city's approach and the city fights, even winning the opportunity to tackle the problem its own way may be a losing proposition in the long-term.

"The problem is, if you have to sell a tax anticipation note next year, you have to go back before the MFC for approval," Walters said. "They can make it pretty rough on you, if only through repeated delays in the processing."

Audit reports township finances in good shape

"You're in sound shape, not outstanding, but stable when the SEV (state equalized valuation) is going the way it is," Kenneth Kunkel of the auditing firm of Plante & Moran told Northville Township trustees at their meeting last Thursday.

He praised officials, saying that "overall township records are in excellent shape."

Water and sewer department projections, he added, are "right on line."

Kunkel also had reviewed accounts of the Northville Recreation Department and the Northville Public Library. He told the township board that a deficit of $835 had been added to the recreation department's previous deficit of $42,000.

While community building revenues were in excess of the amount budgeted, he explained program activities incurred the deficit.

From a financial standpoint, Kunkel said, the library is "on target."

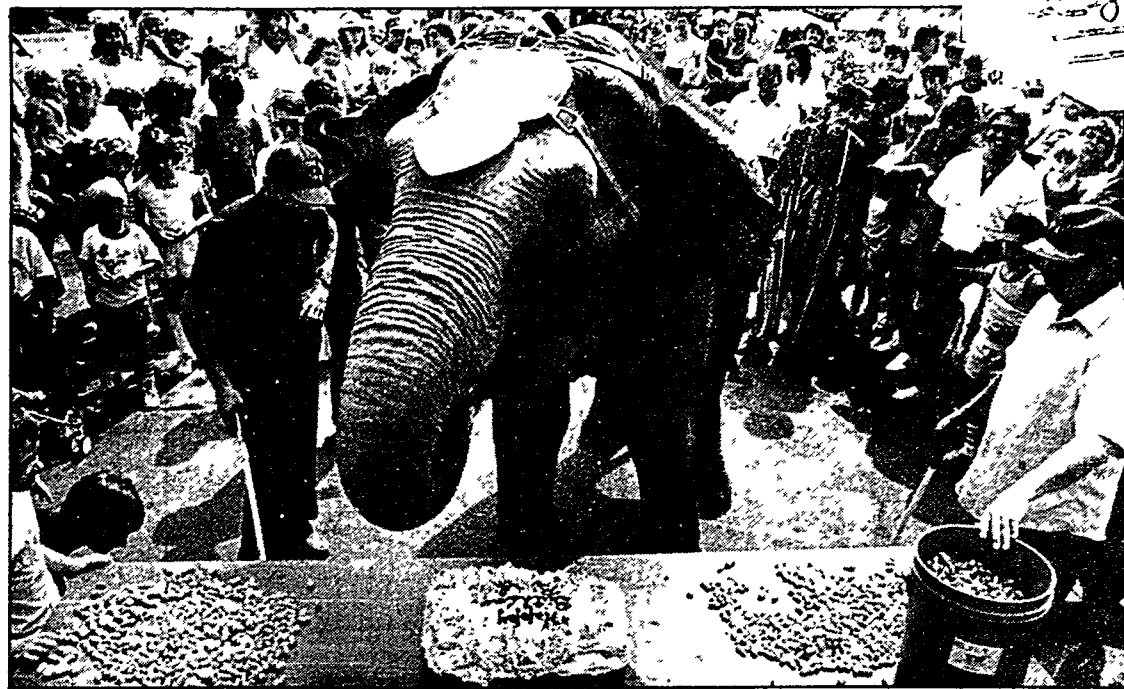

In general, he stated, his firm is pleased with the township's progress and financial management.

Kunkel also mentioned that the township was operating with far less millage than many other communities.

The township's 3.5 mills, he said, is far less than the state average of 13.26.

Supervisor John E. MacDonald said he appreciated Kunkel's evaluation, noting that the firm audits 45 communities. Clerk Susan Helntz stated she appreciated the "excellent research department" of the firm.

Treasurer Richard Henningsen took note of Kunkel's recommendations for the future and said he did not see any problems with them. He agreed that the township would come up with an improved purchasing policy.

Behemoth birthday

Ina's birthday party was the most popular in town last Friday, as the proud-stepping pachyderm bellied up to a feast of cake and peanuts before a host of onlookers in the Cloverdale's parking lot downtown. Ina, an Indian elephant, was one of the featured attractions at the Old Fashioned Circus Under the Big Top at the Northville Downs parking lot Friday and Saturday, sponsored by the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce.

Council approves Griswold offices

Allowing construction of an office building on Griswold in the industrial park is a good idea, city council determined Monday night.

The planning commission's recommendation that zoning be changed to allow the building received no support, however.

Council instead proposed an amendment to the zoning ordinance that would allow applicant Jack Doheny, and any other owner of property in a PR-1 zoning district, to build an office structure on his land.

A similar amendment had been proposed to the planning commission, which opted instead to recommend rezoning a portion of Doheny's property between Griswold and the gravel pit from PR-1 (industrial) to PBO (offices).

But offices are no longer the only uses permitted in PBO, and council member J. Burton DeRusha, liaison to the planning commission, said he found that fact and the appearance of "spot zoning" the site to be objectionable.

"The planning commission discussed it all they wanted to do and sent us this recommendation (to rezone the parcel)," DeRusha said, noting that two "no" votes cast by commissioners were objections not to the PBO zone but to the idea of dividing the zoning on a single parcel.

City manager Steven Walters pointed out PBO zoning allows residential uses on upper stories, specialty retail shops and several accessory uses that are inappropriate to an industrial zone.

An office structure, however, is suited to industrial parks, with Mayor Paul Vernon pointing out many such parks have large office structures within them.

So the proposed amendment, which would allow office uses in PR-1 but none of the other PBO uses. Specifically included in the types of offices allowed are veterinary offices, city manager Steven Walters explaining that the PBO zone allows "medical" offices "and there's always a question whether that includes veterinarians."

DeRusha said expanding the uses allowed in the zoning class might promote development of the industrial area.

"Our PR-1 hasn't developed the way we wanted it to," he added. "And there's no guarantee that by keeping it PR-1 like it is, that it is ever going to develop."

Doheny told planners he thinks the building, to be placed at the shore of Lake Success, will likely have medical clients. He also said he found the ordinance amendment better for his needs than the rezoning to PBO. Had PBO zoning been granted and the office proven a success, he noted, he may have returned to have the rest of the parcel rezoned.

But under the amendment which will be placed in public hearing August 1

Doheny could build either industrial or offices on any part of his property.

Walters said "there are a lot of rational reasons office (zoning) makes some sense" on the parcel in question. The parcel is bound by Griswold, the gravel pit, the township-city boundary line and the railroad tracks.

The township side of the line is zoned, but undeveloped, for multiple-family housing. Office zoning, Walters said, would make a good transitional use from the township's RM zone to the city's PR-1.

"The problem is not office zoning per se," Walters said. "It's what PBO represents other than offices."

When mayor Paul Vernon asked what objection a PR-1 property owner could have to a retail shop or residential use next door, Walters said residents would eventually complain of noise, truck traffic, pollution or other unavoidable aspects of an industrial neighbor.

PUBLIC HEARINGS of proposed amendments to the text of the city zoning ordinance will be during the council session August 1 in city hall. Issues involve the keeping of animals both privately and in kennels. Several minor changes are also proposed in city building ordinances.

ORIN JEWELERS set up shop in the heart of the downtown district last week, amid ribbon-cutting ceremonies and the circus atmosphere — a new business at an old location and an old business at a new location, Center and Main. For details and photos, turn to page 3-A.

A SPECIAL MEETING of the Northville Township Board of Trustees will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday at township hall. Up for discussion will be a fire station for the western portion of the township, Maple Hills drainage agreement and future drainage plans in relation to Super Sewer disposition.

New high school principal to face serious challenges

By MICHELE McELMURRY

For David Bolitho, taking over the principal's post at Northville High School entails more than the usual rigors normally associated with that administrative position.

While trying to familiarize himself with the district, get acquainted with his staff and students and grasp the day-to-day operations at NHS, Bolitho also is preparing for the '83-84 school year — which may well be considered among the most critical years for the district's sole senior high.

In addition to keeping a tighter lid on the open campus, outlining the attendance policy and instituting new graduation requirements, Bolitho, 35, also will be a key figure in the proposed $8 million renovation of the high school facility and next spring's North Central evaluation.

For the former John Glenn High School assistant principal, it's fair to say that the next few months may prove among the most challenging of his career.

Sitting behind his desk in his new corner office, Bolitho appears relatively at ease — despite the mounds of papers and files piled around him.

"I call this my summer plan," he says, "I've been doing a lot of research on what's been done in the district, what's been going on... trying to see if our goals are on the right track."

"I don't want to be a stranger to anything by the time school starts," he adds.

Since his appointment to the principal's post June 20, Bolitho has attempted to acquaint himself as much with the community as with the staff and students of the district.

Like his former and now present associate George Bell, who spent considerable time getting out in the community both before and after his selection as the district's superintendent, Bolitho has spent the past month getting acquainted with Northville.

In addition to meeting many community leaders, he also has attended such functions as Northville's July 4th parade and last Sunday's Booster Club Clambake at Northville Charley's.

"The role of the principal is to be visible," he notes.

Bolitho explains that "Northville's real sense of community" is among the reasons he left his 12-year career in the Wayne-Westland School District to head Northville High School.

"When I applied for the position I just felt at that point in my career it was just the right time — and Northville seemed to be the right place," he says.

In his first 20 days as principal of Northville High School, Bolitho explains he has met with student leaders and sent letters to parents and staff introducing himself.

He also mentions that one of his goals is to meet all high school staff members before the start of the school year and as many students as possible.

"I think I've looked through the yearbook a hundred times," he says, noting that he is beginning to match names with faces.

Though he says he feels its premature to discuss changes at the high school before he's had a chance to meet with all the staff and students, Bolitho did not hesitate to mention some of his immediate concerns.

"From what the community has told me," he explains, "the general image of the high school needs to be improved."

Art show space available

Sixty to 70 specially-selected artists will be displaying and selling their work when the Huron Valley Arts Council presents its biennial "Art in the Park" during Milford's Mill Valley Festival September 17-18.

The juried show will offer cash prizes and "best of show" award as well as a purchase award.

A few spaces still remain for interested local artists. A $30 entry fee includes a 10-by-10 foot booth. The Art Council is looking in particular for quilters and other folk art artists.

Entry blanks are available by contacting Pat Oldford, Art Council president, at P.O. Box 305 in Milford 48042.

The Art in the Park committee is headed by Edie Schoenberg, assisted by Marilyn Fisher (site), Ayesha Lancaster (food), Pat Oldford and Ann Stawicki (artists) and Jeanetta Vesey (publicity).

The Milford Historical Society will hold its annual homes tour in conjunction with the festival.

Shoplifting is stealing and a very serious crime. No business is immune, not even us. Be on the alert, merchants, for some professional thieves in Northville. Some have already struck at least one store and one business here last week.

Christmas in July! That's what we have down at the plant right now. Two beautiful, big books of Christmas cards have arrived for your inspection. Free envelope imprinting of your return address with any name-printed order through September 30.

And our JULY SPECIAL is still on, as well: 20 % off Carlson Craft stationery, invitations and announcements. So come on down and check us out, Monday through Friday, 8:30 to 5. Ask for Vicki.

Have you a particularly difficult print job? Perhaps it includes numbering or perforating or a die cut. We can do it, with quality and prompt service on our letterpress. Such items as raffle tickets, invoices, business cards and envelopes are a snap. Bring your job in for a no-obligation quote. Ask for Harv.

We compose and print newspapers, too. Everything from a small, 4-page flyer to a 7-section University of Michigan DAILY in 4-color. It's exciting work, and if you approach the right person at the right time, easy to sell. What is the customer looking for? — service and quality at the right price, of course, and that's just what he'll get at News Printing. Satisfied customers include most of the area's high schools and colleges; local merchants and businesses; city, state and national publications. Come give us a try. There's always room for one more satisfied customer.

The Haynic family has a wedding coming up: our son, Mark, in California. As parents of the groom we were looking into our obligations, thanks to Marge Sliger's wedding etiquette books. It's very simple: as mother of the groom I wear a beige dress and keep my mouth shut. The father has none.

Question: "Where are you going on your vacation?"

- Answer: 1. "Brighton". (What does one do there?)
2. "Out West". (How far West?)
3. "Boblo". (Imaginative spot)
4. "Tahiti". (Sounds restful)
5. "Germany". (Tour Europe by bus. Good idea.)
6. "Don't know". (Most answer, even in July)

For guaranteed, top-quality workmanship... For fast, courteous service... For a fair price, bring your printing order to NPI or call 349-6130. Ask for Harv or Midge.

Orin Mazzoni Jr. and Northville store workers Rosalie Tucker and David Beyer greet visitors

Family jewelers open for business

By B.J. MARTIN

It's obvious to anyone who has been downtown lately there's a new business establishment at the corner of Center and Main Street. And preliminary indications are, it's likely to stay awhile—at least as long as the business name remains neatly carved in the cornerstone.

The name Orin Jewelers, Inc. is familiar to some from the company's advertisements on television, radio and in publications, and to those who are patrons of its main location in Garden City. It has been a successful business for nearly 30 years at that location, and a welcome part of Garden City's commercial community.

Co-owner with his brother Michael, Orin J. Mazzoni Jr., whose father opened the Garden City location in 1954, said he intends to continue the business' community commitment in Northville.

"One of the places we used to go to was the Old Mill when I was a student at Schoolcraft College," Orin Jr. related. "And I had thought about locating a store here a few years back. So about a year ago when the building went up for sale, I was able to buy the building."

"There were quite a few people interested in the location, but we just decided it would be nice to have some draw (of area customers). It's obvious the downtown area merchants have taken time to work on streetscapes. Also, we've had some customers from Northville at our Garden City store."

The store's ribbon-cutting ceremony took place last Friday and a "Grand Opening Sale" is planned for next week. But Orin Jr., a former president of the Garden City Chamber of Commerce, and store manager Dave Beyer have already joined the Northville Chamber of Commerce and are looking to participate in other community service organizations.

"We're very community dedicated," Orin Jr. declared. "Rather than just move in, we wanted to create an atmosphere where the customer wouldn't feel reluctant to trust us. Our biggest thing had to be that we were here to serve the community. That's the reason for the exterior. We're very interested in what happens in the city."

Indeed, the outside of the building does seem to indicate a desire for permanence. Extensive work was done on the building's appearance, including a complete overhaul of the brick exterior and the fine window glasswork executed by the downtown Tiffany Art Glass Co.

The foundation of the business is a classic Horatio Alger story. After Orin Mazzoni Sr., a master watchmaker and gemologist, learned the watch repair craft in his teens from a watchmaker who couldn't afford to pay him, he opened a store in Weirton, West Virginia in 1933.

Soon afterwards, he made an attempt at a jewelry store business in Mingo Junction, Ohio that eventually failed. Then, in 1954, with a $300 investment, he tried Garden City. The rest is history—one of the area's most successful jewelry store operations.

Orin Sr. further distinguished himself as 1972 "Goodwill Ambassador for Garden City" and as a city councilman from 1975-1976.

Orin Jr. and his brother Michael learned the trade from their father and their mother Mary, as did their sister Joyce Pappas, who acts as a bridal consultant. All are registered jewelers with the American Gem Society, of which Orin Jr., one of a handful of certified gemologists in Michigan, has served as president.

Joyce and Michael are principally responsible for the Garden City store, although each will make periodic visits to the Northville location. Orin Jr. expects to be seen at the store "a couple days a week."

At the Northville location, Orin Jeweler's will deal diamonds and fine jewelry, watches and precious gems, as well as provide a number of watch and jewelry services. Included in the services are custom designing and remounting—jewelers at the store are expert at remounting or redesigning old and antique jewelry, or designing a new setting.

"What's happened in our business within the last 10 years, is that most jewelry stores have gotten away from service areas," Orin Jr. said. "One thing we specialize in is all repair work and service, including the restoration of antiques. If it's repairable, we'll repair it.

"We also specialize in unusual design work. We travel to look for unusual pieces, to California, for example, to find out what their (craftspersons') talents are, so that we can handle unusual requests."

Local at Ann Arbor Art Fair

Michael Louis may well be the youngest artisan in the 1983 Ann Arbor Art Fair.

The 13-year-old son of John and Ellen Louis of 19170 Smock, Michael will be exhibiting his handwoven grapevine wreaths in his uncle's booth today through Saturday.

Michael's mother explains that her son collects most of his materials from the fields near their home.

In addition to the more common circle wreaths, Michael also makes heart-shaped wreaths and other varieties. Prices vary according to size.

A student at Plymouth Christian School, Michael's grapevine wreath business has turned into a rather lucrative summer job.

Hours for the Ann Arbor Art Fair are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. today through Friday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

School Notebook

JAMES WHITESIDE of 21073 Whipple Drive was among the more than 1,000 students receiving degrees at University of Northern Colorado's spring commencement.

Whiteside earned a bachelor of science degree.

Northville residents JOHN CORTEZ and THOMAS ABRAHAM, both Catholic Central High School students, recently completed a week-long intensive study in newspaper and photography at a high school journalism workshop at Ball State University in Muncie, Indiana.

More than 300 students, from a dozen states, participated in classes, lectures and lab sessions — learning to produce quality high school publications.

Northville resident DEBORAH ISABELL has been awarded a Lawrence Institute of Technology Scholarship for the 1983-84 academic year.

Isabell is an incoming freshman in the electrical engineering program at LIT. She was awarded the scholarship on the basis of academic merit.

Twenty-five Northville residents are among the 330 Schoolcraft College students named to the dean's list for the winter semester.

To receive dean's list recognition, a student must carry at least 12 hours during the semester and earn a 3.5 grade point average or better.

MICHAEL C. LIDDELL, SHARON A. MARSHALL, THOMAS C. MCCONNELL, GREGORY L. MURPHY, ROBERT B. FROM, KRISTINA M. QUINN, RITA E. ROSE, JULIE SCHNEIDER, STEVE M. SHAUGHNESSY, KATHLEEN STEPHENS and SUSAN STILSON.

Northville resident LISA TAPP has been accepted for the 1983 fall semester at Sienna Heights College.

She is a 1982 Northville High School graduate.

Three Northville residents are among the almost 2,300 students participating at the National Music Camp at Interlochen.

Students attending Interlochen are DREW FARKAS, participating in the University Men Division; RONALD KEPNER in the High School Boys Division and PENELOPE TREAT, in the Intermediate Girls Division.

CURT SETTINO, son of Charles and Carol Settino of 443 Welsh, was among 78 Wayne County students elected by the Michigan Department of Education for two weeks of intensive study in the second annual Summer Institutes for the Arts and Sciences.

The 10th and 11th graders from both private and public schools will study in their chosen field — visual and performing arts, environmental and life sciences or mathematics.

The institute is being held at Central Michigan University through July 30.

Candidates for the summer program are nominated by their local teachers and administrators and screened by the Wayne County Intermediate School District. Final selection was made by the State Department of Education.

JACQUELINE LONG, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Long of 16231 Appleby Lane, was among more than 200 ballet students from across the United States attending the 32nd Annual Cecchetti Ballet Conference at Michigan State University July 6-18.

Highlighting the conference was a public performance at MSU's Wharton Center under the direction of Alain Dubreuil, principal dancer with Sadler's Wells Royal Ballet of London, England.

In addition to Dubreuil, students received rigorous instruction from a host of well-known professionals. Among them were Francoise Martinet, former leading ballerina with the Robert Joffrey Company; Irina Kladiyova-Pal, nationally renowned choreographer and Margaret Marsh of London, a fellow of the Imperial Society of Teachers of Dancing and a major examiner with the Cecchetti Society.

Holly Kent an Army nurse

Holly Marie Kent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kent of 16757 Meade, was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the Army Nurse Corps and will report for duty today, July 20, in San Antonio, Texas.

Lieutenant Kent will be taking officers basic for six weeks and then will be attending a four-month specialty course in operating room nursing.

After completion of the course she has been assigned to Darnall Army Community Hospital in Killeen and stationed at Fort Hood, Texas.

Holly is a 1979 Northville High School graduate and a 1983 graduate of Eastern Michigan University, where she received her B.S.N.

Larry Markey of Northville owns Ultralight Company of Walled Lake

Take off

Ultralight flying rises in popularity

By KEN VOYLES

One of the fastest growing recreational sports, ultralight aircraft, has been described by some as a menace to the sky.

But for Larry Markey, owner of the Ultralight Company and Sky Sport in Walled Lake, the sport has come a long way from its humble and noisy beginnings less than three years ago.

"Equipment has really improved in the last two years, making it a lot safer and easier for people to fly," he said. "It's a lot less expensive than owning a conventional aircraft."

Markey's business, Ultralight, is a dealer of Vector ultralights, while Sky Sport is an outlet for ultralight accessories such as instrument panels, parachutes, pontoons for water flight and skis for winter sojourns. His partner in business and flying is Marshall MacFarlane.

The sport which suddenly took off about three years ago has gone through a progressive change in equipment, moving from lawn mower to snowmobile engines, for example. The 60 current manufacturers vie for the market, but only about six of them have a major hold on the trade, according to Markey.

"It's a complex sport to learn. When a person buys a Vector they get a kit, unless of course they want us to build it for them," Markey said. "When the ultralight is ready, it's part of our job as dealers to make sure it's flight-worthy and that individuals are trained."

Pilots of ultralights do not need a federal license. However, they are tied to an organization known as the Aircraft Owners Pilot Association which oversees their use. Potential pilots are given examinations through the Air Safety Foundation of which Markey is a member.

Ultralight competition is just beginning to take root across the country, through the experimental aircraft association, changing the complexion of the sport in another way.

"The federals said if we self-regulate they won't impose any more regulations on us," said Markey, a Northville resident and owner of Markey Forest Products, also in Walled Lake.

Part 103 of the Federal Aviation Administration defines rules pertaining to ultralights. Among the regulations: ultralights have to weigh less than 254 pounds without pilot; they are not allowed to carry over five gallons of fuel; they are not allowed to travel faster than 64 miles per hour and pilots have to fly between official sunrise and sunset, unless using a strobe light which allows a half-hour more at dawn and dusk.

"That's important — some of the best flying time is in the morning and evening when the wind is calm," Markey said.

Waste landfill moratorium sought

State Representative Willis Bullard Jr. (R-60th) is co-sponsor of a concurrent resolution which has been introduced in the Michigan House of Representatives calling for a one-year moratorium on the issuance of all construction permits for solid waste landfills and hazardous waste facilities.

Proponents of the bill point out that current state laws regulating the construction of such facilities have resulted in several instances of unsafe dumping and faulty construction at landfills and hazardous waste disposal sites throughout Michigan.

Bullard said the continuing controversy over the proposed Stalex hazardous waste processing plant in Groveland Township shows a desperate need for review of current state laws in this area.

Bullard said he believes there is a definite need for a freeze on the issuance of toxic site permits. "The laws need to be changed, the regulations need to be updated and the state's role as a monitor must be reinforced through proper and adequate legislation," he said.

At the present time, there are over 900 sites in Michigan where ground water contamination has been caused by faulty landfills. "These contaminations might have been prevented if closer scrutiny of the permits had been practiced," Bullard claimed.

something wrong with our laws pertaining to these permits. This resolution, if adopted quickly, will help prevent future mishaps, and hopefully will bring to light the problems caused by previous legislation," he added.

The resolution, known as House Concurrent Resolution 452, has been assigned to the Public Health Committee.

Flying on the cheap

Popularity of newest ultralight aircraft is soaring

Pilots also are not allowed to fly over congested areas, which includes most cities. Markey is based at Price's Airfield near Flint. Locally, ultralight pilots fly out of Wixom's Spencer Airport.

Markey, who has been flying ultralights for a little over two years, also is a conventional pilot with more than 12 years of flying time. He switched to ultralights when "the thrill went away."

"I discovered the ultralights and had some fun. I decided to take that a step further with a dealership. Business has been pretty good," he said.

His dealership is one of few in southeast Michigan but that do is changing. "It used to be basically a cottage industry but dealers are becoming more professionally-oriented," Markey said.

A big brass horn adorns the side of one of Markey's two ultralights. He uses it to say hello to people on the ground. "We're not allowed to fly below 500 feet. We can go as high as 18,000, but most ultralights can only get to 10,000. I like to fly low; it's no fun really high," he said.

Ultralights are more comfortable than they look at first. "That's also changed from the way it was a couple years ago," Markey explained. The craft is built with a tubular aluminum frame and the wings are covered in multi-colored sail material. The pilot's cockpit is usually a bucket seat of some make. The plane is controlled by a coupled link between the flaps on the tail of the craft and the spoilers on the wings.

Pilots are allowed to fly year-round, and the bigger ultralights with better engines have no problems in winter weather after adjustments to stay under the 64 mph limit.

Pilots wear a helmet and carry parachutes, although they rarely need to use them. "Only when you have a mid-air collision or a structural failure," Markey said. "Otherwise the craft can glide down if the engine konks out."

The parachute itself is of progressive design. If a pilot needs to use it, he tosses the chute from the plane. The chute is hooked above the pilot on the frame and will bring down pilot and ultralight together.

Gary Mullins, 33, of Walled Lake acquired his Vector from Markey last Christmas. He built it during the winter and has been flying steadily ever since. In that time he has not had to use his parachute.

"I don't have that many hours in it yet, but so far it's great," said Mullins, who is due to receive his private pilots license in conventional aircraft this summer.

"I looked at six or seven ultralight models and the Vector was by far the soundest structurally. It may not be the quickest and most maneuverable but I consider it the best," he added.

With numerous hours in on conventional craft, Mullins said the biggest adjustment was flying in an open cockpit.

"When I finally was able to fly it, I was anxious having had flight time before," Mullins said. "Larry (Markey) likes to have his customers get some dual hours in a conventional aircraft as well as training in the ultralight. But since I already had that, he took me out for a while so I could get comfortable with the aircraft," he said. The pilot practiced short hops, taking off and flying briefly about 20 feet off the ground before landing right away. He also practiced close turning patterns, as well as slow and fast taxiing before a takeoff and a landing.

"Ultralights are a great recreation sport. They cost about $5,000 but are really practical and economical. Two gallons of fuel will last over an hour," said Markey. "They are easy to load — they fold up — and easy to house."

Critics notwithstanding, ultralights have added a new dimension in man's unending quest to fly safely with the least mechanical apparatus.

New veterinarian

Kevin B. Kratz, at right, son of Northville resident Gerald Kratz, earned a Doctor of Veterinary Medicine Degree from Michigan State University's College of Veterinary Medicine June 11. He is pictured above with John Wesler, dean of the College of Veterinary Medicine. He was among 111 veterinary students to receive degrees at the June commencement.

Orin shop to stress service to community

If it sounds like the merchandise and services are strictly for those with money to burn, Orin Jr. insisted he wants all types of business. "We don't want to go around scaring off people," he explained. "We like to think that no matter what someone wants, between $20 and $20,000, we'll have it for someone wanting to buy it off the street."

"We want anybody to come in no matter what they can spend and we try to help them get the best quality for what they can spend. That way, we build up a good relationship with our customers because they got what they wanted."

A big part of that approach involves educating the buyer, he added. "We like to get that kind of customer, who really may not know much about jewelry, but wants to get himself the best possible deal for what he can afford. We'll sit down and talk to him about how to be a good shopper, and he may go to a hundred other places, but he'll be able to get his money's worth."

"We try to get the repeat business. If we don't do that, then we haven't succeeded. Because if we spend $200,000 a year on advertising, our most important advertising would still be word-of-mouth."

Advises jewelry consumers

Shopping for jewelry is far from a simple undertaking, of course, but a buyer needn't be bamboozled by the esoteric science of gemology.

When evaluating the worth of a gem, the "Four C's" are of prime importance—color, cut, clarity and carat weight. All those factors are combined in what is a nationally recognized system of standards established by the Gemological Institute of America (GIA).

"Everyone should be able to relate to the GIA system," Orin Mazzoni, Jr. of Orin's explains. "You have to be able to compare apples to apples. At that point, it's up to the scruples of the jeweler. In some cases, it's a good idea to get a written appraisal by the GIA standard."

It's also a good idea to stick to jewelers recognized by the American Gem Society (AGS), an organization of jewelry dealers dedicated to high ethical standards in the profession. Only jewelers that have lasted three years and can demonstrate proper credentials and a record of high ethical standards are registered as certified gemologists.

In essence, the AGS is a 'Better Business Bureau for jewelers. If a customer believes he or she is the victim of improper treatment, the AGS can investigate and either right the situation to the customer's satisfaction or take away the jeweler's certification—a severe blow to the practitioner's professional reputation.

Ribbon cutting

Folk festival August 6 and 7

Preparations for the Gitfiddler's seventh annual Folk and Bluegrass Festival at Northville's Ford Field August 6-7 are well under way, promoter Tom Rice said.

Rice, owner of the Gitfiddler Music Shop on East Main and sponsor of the festival to benefit Huntington's disease research, said the two-day event will follow the pattern of past years in featuring top-quality folk and bluegrass musicians for the low donation ($4 per adult each day, $2 for children under 12, and senior citizens, babes in arms free) requested.

Repeat performers include Rich and Maureen Del Grosso, Neil Woodward, Banjo Betsy, Dean Rutledge, Footloose, and several others, including a possible set by Josh White, Jr..

White's appearance depends upon his schedule, but he has performed in past festivals when his itinerary permits.

Scheduled to perform this year are Bobby Lewis, Peter 'Madcat' Ruth, Lee King & The New Grass, Phoenix, Back Forty and enough other folk and bluegrass musicians for a full eight-hours (1 to 9 p.m.) of entertainment each day.

The benefit concerts have been successful fundraisers for Huntington's research, featuring appearances by Marjorie Guthrie, late widow of legendary folksinger and Huntington's victim Woody Guthrie. Marjorie Guthrie died in the past year and Rice is calling for a special tribute to the Guthries in this seventh annual event.

Waterford school reunion planned

Students who learned their lessons in the one-room Waterford school before the district was consolidated with the Northville Public Schools are being sought for a first reunion.

"We're trying to reach anybody who ever attended the school," explains Norma Hazlett, one of the reunion organizers.

The reunion is to be an old-fashioned ice cream social from 1-6 p.m. Saturday, July 30, at Meads Mill Middle School in Northville.

"We know the school existed in 1895," Mrs. Hazlett says, explaining the organizers also are seeking more information about the schoolhouse. Northville Public School records indicate it was consolidated in 1953.

Anyone interested in the reunion or who may have information about the school is asked to call Charles George, 349-1061.

Former pupils have been located as far away as Florida. Ivah Minehart, a teacher in the years 1924-25, is coming from Arizona. Organizers plan to give awards for those who come the greatest distance and for longest attendance.

Police Blotters

Police warn of confidence artists working in city

In the City...

Two men city police believe are part of a group running hit-and-run con games throughout the state scored a $2,700 "hit" in Northville this week.

According to police reports, two men described as "gypsy or Hispanic" approached an elderly woman living in a home on North Rogers Monday at about 2:30 p.m. and offered to resurface her driveway for $10.

While one of the men distracted the woman, the other entered the (north) side door of the house and stole $2,700 in cash she kept there.

There were several witnesses who reported seeing the men. Police are attempting to piece together their descriptions to come up with a composite sketch of the pair this week. They drove a brown 1965 Chevy pickup with gold pinstripes described as being in excellent condition.

"There have been a lot of reports of these kinds of scams," said Sergeant Al Cox. "Offering to fix roofing and driveways are two of the most common. They seem to be able to smell out potential victims, particularly older people, who seem to have less trust in banks."

Cox added it is unlikely the pair will strike again for at least a month, based on similar past experience, but warned local people to be aware of possible con situations. "We get maybe one or two of these a year," he added.

A pair of bolt cutters stolen Tuesday or Wednesday of last week from Snow's Hardware, 316 North Center, were likely the tool used in a larceny that occurred between 5 p.m. last Friday and 5:30 p.m. Saturday.

According to police reports, a pair of red cutters valued at $130 were taken between 5 p.m. Tuesday, July 12 and 8 p.m. Wednesday, July 13 from the hardware store.

Bolt cutters were reported as the tool used to cut through a fence of property of Ely Fuel Inc. located at 200 Railroad Street.

The estimated damage to the fence was $60. After cutting through the fence, the subject(s) siphoned $26 worth of gasoline (20 gallons) from the gas tank of an Ely Fuel truck parked inside the fence. Also, there were signs of an unsuccessful attempt to break into the freezer storage unit of the Chef's Pantry Frozen Foods company located there.

A 23" blue Raleigh boys bicycle valued at $120 was reported stolen while parked next to steps off Hutton Street at Ford Field between 9 p.m. and 9:20 p.m. Wednesday, July 13.

The bicycle was described as having rusty wheels and black tape on the handlebars. Its serial number is N64262310.

A cast iron urn/planter was reported stolen from the front porch of a home on Potomac Wednesday of last week between midnight and 7 a.m. The planter, valued at $300, was described as black, with pink flowers planted inside.

The shooter of a BB or pellet caused $20 damage to the storm window of a home on Dunsany recently. The incident was reported to have taken place between July 4 and July 11.

Police noted that the alarm did not activate at the time of the incident. Damage is estimated at $500. There are no suspects at this time.

Items estimated at $380 value were reported stolen from a Waterford residence sometime between 10 p.m. July 14 and 5:45 a.m. July 15, according to township police.

The complainant told police that unknown subjects entered the house while he was at work. According to police, the subject(s) gained entry into the house by breaking a window on a side door and opening the latch from the inside.

According to the police report, the perpetrator(s) opened drawers and closet doors and dumped the contents of some drawers on the floor.

Items stolen included a $140 Com-pound bow and a $240 Bell and Howell movie camera and projector.

An estimated $400 worth of items were stolen from the garage of a Bradner residence sometime between 1 and 6 a.m. July 13, police report. The complainant told township police that unknown subjects removed an A-coil (part of central air conditioning unit), a set of Wilson men's golf clubs and an electric cord from the garage.

Gasoline also was siphoned from the owner's car parked in the driveway.

Police noted that entry was gained through the unlocked garage door.

A $200 windshield was removed from a 1979 Ford pickup truck parked at a Waterwheel residence sometime between 11 p.m. July 10 and 6:15 a.m. July 11, police report.

No physical evidence was found during an inspection of the truck. There are no suspects at this time.

A pair of outdoor pine benches estimated at $200 were reported stolen from the deck of a Granite Court residence sometime between 8 a.m. July 4 and 1 p.m. July 16, township police report.

The complainant told police the benches were located on a deck approximately 200 feet to the rear of the residence. The deck area is completely hidden from view by brush and trees. There are no suspects at this time.

...In the Township

Four windows were smashed on the northwest side of Silver Springs Elementary School sometime between July 8 and 11, township police report.

A custodian discovered the damage and told police that a board was used to smash two of the windows and rocks were thrown through the other two.

State police announce promotions, transfers

Promotions and transfers affecting four positions at the Northville Post of the Michigan State Police Department were announced July 15.

Detective sergeant Bruce G. Sibert, 37, of the detective division at Northville was promoted to detective lieutenant IV and transferred to the division in the Detroit area. Born in Ann Arbor, he joined the force in 1972 and served at New Baltimore and the Detroit freeway post before being stationed here.

Trooper Richard A. Rosen, Jr., 31, of the Munising post was promoted to detective sergeant III with the Northville division. Born in Lansing, he joined the force in 1973 and served at the Detroit (Redford post) prior to his Munising assignment.

Also transferring into the Northville Post is Trooper Dennis K. Reinsch, 40, formerly of the Paw Paw post. Born in Bay City, he joined the department in 1964 serving at the Detroit (Redford) and Sandusky posts.

Trooper Richard Schneider, 25, a Cheboygan native who joined the state police in 1982 at the Northville post, has been transferred to the post at Wakefield.

All the new assignments were effective July 17.

Law opposes transportation tax authority

By GERALD H. LAW
state representative

Legislation passed by the Michigan House on May 10 would allow local transportation authorities to ask voters for an income or property tax increase to finance their transit plans.

I opposed this dangerous precedent-setting legislation which narrowly passed on a 56-48 margin — the exact number of votes needed for approval. The measure now goes to the Senate for further consideration.

This bill must be blocked in the Senate because it establishes a precedent that would allow property tax above and beyond the 50 mill limitation. By giving this new authority to tax personal income we'd be sending a signal to other interest groups that they should seek the same new taxing powers.

Two Republican amendments to the bill did somewhat improve the legislation. A provision allowing transportation authorities to call elections every 60 days was changed to allow them to be every other odd-numbered year. Another amendment put a two percent limit on any income tax proposed by a transportation authority.

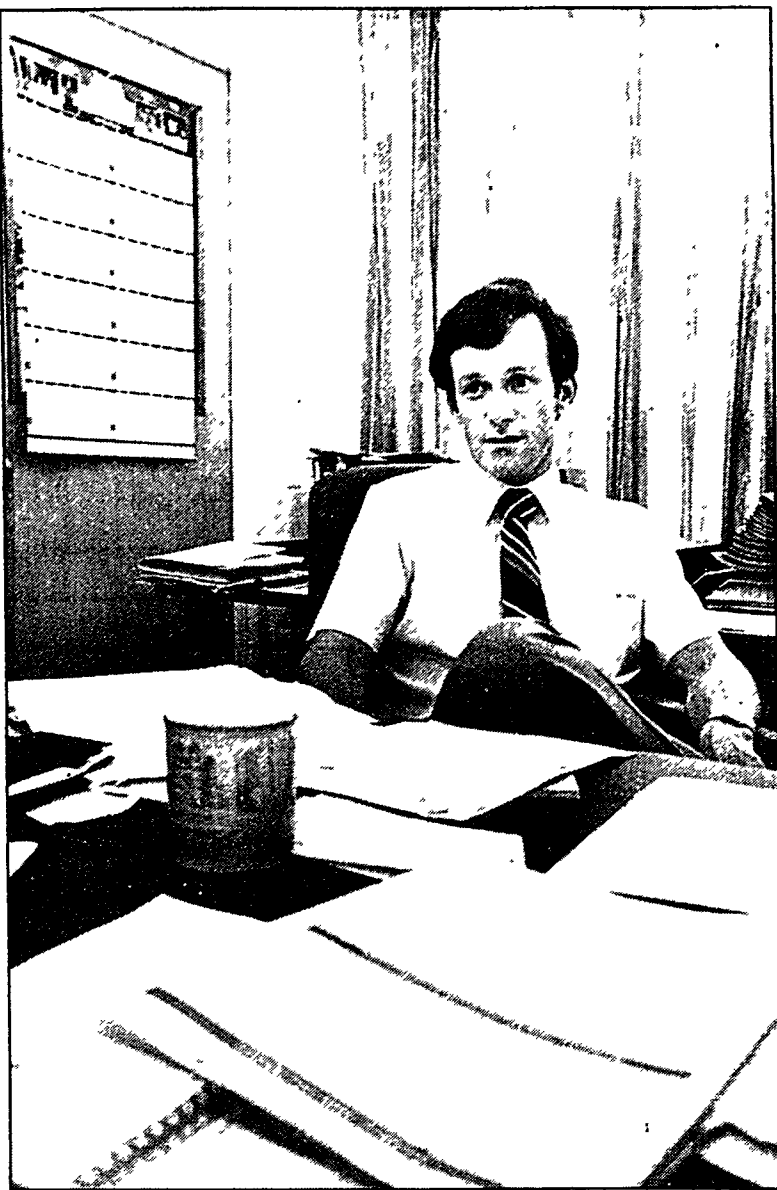

While these amendments helped to minimize the damage, I am convinced the bill is fundamentally wrong. Rather than setting the stage for additional taxation of our constituents, the Legislature should have acted responsibly by watching to see if present and future tax sources are adequate for public transportation needs.

I believe current tax sources are sufficient. In January 1983 the state increased fuel taxes two cents per gallon; in April 1983 the federal government increased the fuel tax another two cents per gallon. A percentage of these significant increases in revenue is already earmarked for public transportation.

How can we further add to the tax burden of Michigan citizens, just weeks after we increased the income tax by 38 percent? With this additional funding, I don't think we should be asking for still more revenue.

As the bill is considered in the Senate, encourage an outpouring of criticism on constituents to help stop the measure before it becomes law. If voters make their voices heard to their senators, I think we can still block this plan from becoming public policy. I urge all beleaguered taxpayers to make their opinions known immediately.

Bolitho dives right in

He notes that he's already met with student leaders about "the concern over the high school's image" and says he hopes to "enlist the kids' support in making some changes."

"I think the student body here is a real good one," Bolitho explains. "They are self-motivated, high achievers and have considerable parent support."

"With that kind of support I think we can do great things," he adds.

Bolitho notes that one of his immediate tasks is to keep parents informed about high school activities.

"We're going to have to do a lot more direct communicating with parents," he notes.

He mentions that he already is planning a high school calendar to be mailed to parents each month — listing activities and appropriate information about what's happening at the high school.

Bolitho notes that a key component to improving the image of the high school will be to instill a sense of school pride in students.

"The kids have to have a sense of pride in the building," Bolitho says, noting that "school pride" will be essential if a bond issue is approved for the renovation of the high school facility.

He notes that should the building undergo the proposed renovation, it will be up to students and staff to decide how the building will be maintained.

Bolitho's first glimpse of Northville High School was on his first day at the job.

"I was amazed at the condition," he says. "There are so many things which need to be done."

"They have placed bandages in areas where that should have had major surgery," he says of the building's repairs.

Though he notes that the facility will need improvements, Bolitho says he feels the high school curriculum is sound.

"I think there are areas of the curriculum which need to be changed," he notes, "but on the whole I think it is very solid."

With the opening of school less than two months away, Bolitho says he is keeping some fairly late hours in preparing for upcoming school year.

"I think the staff is receptive to changes," Bolitho notes, "and I think the transition will be a good one."

He mentions he already has received considerable support from assistant principals Barbara Campbell and Ralph Redmond as well as the board of education and the superintendent.

Of his working relationship with Bell, Bolitho explains he worked indirectly with Northville's superintendent during his years in Wayne-Westland and notes that they attended Wayne State together while working on their doctoral degrees.

However, Bolitho says he knew of Bell long before he began working in the Wayne-Westland School District.

"I was a sophomore at Wayne Memorial High School when George was the band director," Bolitho says with a grin.

When not working on his "summer plan" Bolitho says he enjoys jogging, reading and fishing as well as spending time with his wife Christine and two children Marc, 10, and Christina, 7.

Though he currently is commuting from his home in Westland, he says he is hoping to relocate in the Northville area.

Auto Club targets car theft rings and 'chop shops'

Aiming to stem the rising tide of auto thefts in Michigan, the Automobile Club last week outlined a multi-faceted program of ACTION (Arrest Car Thieves in Our Neighborhoods) and named a blue-ribbon panel to monitor a rewards program of up to $10,000.

A pre-insurance inspection of vehicles and a requirement that salvage yards provide the Auto Club with the vehicle identification number of all major replacement parts are new procedures to begin soon, according to Auto Club President Jack Avignone.

"Stolen car claim costs in Michigan skyrocketed 50 percent last year over 1981, costing insurers $220 million," he said. Last year, he added, 60,000 cars were stolen from Michigan motorists — an average 165 per day.

"The profitability of chop shops is a major reason for Michigan's growing car theft problem," Avignone asserted. "So, we are asking our 1.25 million members, the public and the law enforcement community to fight car thieves through our ACTION program."

To help put chop shops out of business and cut the number of thefts, the Auto Club is also taking these ACTION measures:

- Operating a toll-free statewide telephone line for tipsters who have made police reports on car thieves, theft rings and chop shops to qualify for rewards up to $10,000.
- Etching VINs on auto glass.
- Encouraging motorists to engrave the VIN on saleable metal parts such as doors and trunk lids.

"With those steps and two anti-theft bills introduced in the Michigan Senate this spring, legislation pending in the U.S. Senate and the cooperation of the law enforcement community, the lives of those who steal cars for fun or profit could become more difficult," Avignone said.

He said three prominent Michigan residents will serve on a blue-ribbon panel to monitor ACTION rewards for the breakup of chop shops and theft rings. He named secretary of state Richard Austin, Dr. Marilyn Nagy, associate professor of Family Economics and Consumer Affairs, Eastern Michigan University and Colonel Gerald Hough, Michigan State Police director to the panel.

He said a statewide ACTION hotline, 1-800-AAA-LOSS (222-5677) has been established to receive information at any time from anyone who has made a police report and wishes to qualify for an Auto Club reward.

Tipsters may also mail information to ACTION, the Auto Club of Michigan, P.O. Box 6006, Dearborn, MI 48121.

A $1,000 reward will be paid anyone who provides police with information leading to arrest and prosecution of those involved in the theft of an Auto Club member's car. Up to $1,000 will be paid on home and boat theft tips that result in prosecution.

Rewards of up to $10,000 will be given for information leading to the arrest and conviction of chop shop operators or organized car theft ring members. An initial $1,000 will be granted upon prosecution, with the remainder of the reward given upon conviction.

VINs, a series of letters and numbers that trace a vehicle's origin, will be etched free on Auto Club members' car glass at all claim centers and branch office from noon to 5 p.m. weekdays (7 p.m. on the normal late-closing evening at each facility) and from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturdays. Offices will not be open for other business Saturdays.

The free etching will not be done in rainy weather or on the Saturday (September 3) of the Labor Day weekend. As a special service to non-members, free glass etching will be available to all motorists on Saturday, August 20.

Local crime prevention units and service clubs interested in conducting etching campaigns will be supplied free material by the Auto Club.

As an added deterrent to the thief and as an alert to police, special stickers will be put on front door windows of cars with etched glass that identification measures have been taken.

The new policy of inspecting vehicles before insuring them to be sure they are in the hands of rightful owners and possess the correct VINs begins August 1.

Salvage parts used in repair of a vehicle will be purchased only from salvage yards furnishing the part's VIN. This step is designed to curtail the traffic in stolen parts. The starting date of this program is to be announced.

Township to examine traffic control devices

Northville Township Board of Trustees Thursday agreed to request Wayne County to extend the hours of operation of the traffic light at Six Mile and Haggerty after discussion of dangers in having it turn into a caution light with red and yellow blinkers.

It was reported there had been a bad accident at the intersection the Saturday previous. Supervisor John E. MacDonald said he would write a letter asking to have the light in continuous operation.

It presently begins flashing at 11 p.m. but some motorists, it was pointed out, do not realize the flashing yellow is not a caution light.

A petition signed by 20 residents of the area seeking a stop sign at the point where Portis turns from pavement to gravel in Northville Township also was discussed at the meeting.

It will be sent to Wayne County, which has jurisdiction over the roads, with a letter noting the restricted sight distance at that point.

Chief Kenneth Hardesty said that the county will send a crew out to see the situation, but warned that "Wayne County will say that a traffic sign will increase speed" and said he feels the worst problem is the blind spot there.

Hardesty said township police have found a lot of the traffic at that point travels 20 miles per hour with traffic clocked from 14 miles per hour up to 34 — "but the majority are under 20."

Also on Thursday's agenda was the subject of roads in the Colony subdivisions. During a 1967 rezoning request, Greenspan developers had been asked to extend Winchester to Five Mile (area now called Elk Road.)

Trustee James Nowka questioned whether it would be worthwhile to check with planners Vilcan-Lehman on the situation pertaining to Winchester and other area roads.

It was pointed out that Wayne County has jurisdiction over the roads and decided that the supervisor would write a letter to county officials to see what the current situation is.

Request presented by Mrs. J.D. Janigin to waive planning commission fees for plans being resubmitted was denied by unanimous vote of the board. In doing so, the board noted that the original had had deficiencies in several areas.

Post office asks dog control

Northville postmaster Wallace Cates is asking dog owners to help protect their pets and their letter carriers from the literal and figurative pain of dog bites.

Cates said that 6,879 mail carriers were bitten by dogs last year.

"Dog bites can be disastrous, and that's why we're asking for cooperation from dog owners," Cates said. "We're hoping they will help to protect both their pet and their letter carrier."

Cates suggested dog owners keep their pets in an area away from the mailbox and the areas used by the mail carrier for access to the property.

"If the pet is not kept behind a secure fence, then we suggest the owner restrain the dog with a leash or keep it inside during the usual hours of the carrier's delivery," he said.

The Postal Service has the right to protect its carriers by refusing to deliver mail to a household with an unrestrained dog, he said.

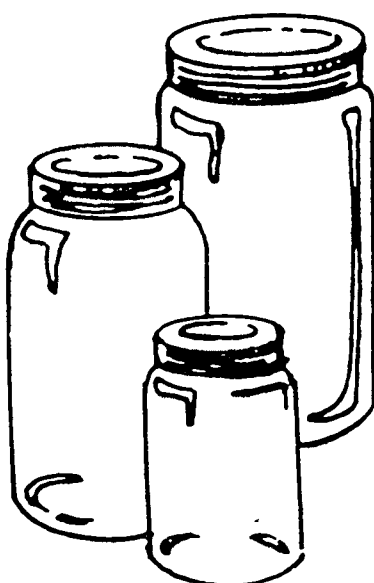

In the case where a dog is allowed to run loose, delivery to an entire neighborhood could be affected, Cates warned. The Postal Service, he added, provides counseling to bitten carriers who wish to seek action against dog owners.

"Things don't have to go that far," he concluded. "We constantly alert our carriers to the problem, but the real solution to dog bites is for the owners to help us. It's the old story of an ounce of prevention being worth a pound of cure."

Travelers are advised not to cut corners on car care

Everything about a summer vacation costs more this year, but the wise traveler will not yield to the temptation to scrimp on car care in an effort to stretch funds for meals, lodging and entertainment.

Delays and frustrations en route to the vacation site are only two possible results of such misguided economy; a far more serious consideration is the jeopardy in which passenger safety is placed if needed maintenance is postponed and recommended equipment neglected.

All the car's systems should receive a thorough inspection at least a week before departure, advises the Better Business Bureau, paying particular attention to:

BRAKES: Is the lining thick enough to last the duration of the trip? Are components completely leak-free? Is pedal pressure solid without sponginess? Is fluid up to the mark?

TRANSMISSION: Is the fluid level correct? Does the car shift at correct speeds without lag or erratic performance?

TIRES: Are treads wearing evenly? Are there any cracks or cuts in the treads or sidewalls? Is tire size adequate for the load? Is the tread more than one-eighth of an inch thick? Are they inflated to pressure levels recommended?

LIGHTS: Do all operate, including signals? Are headlights focused? Are taillight lenses in good condition? Does the glovebox contain extra fuses?

SHOCK ABSORBERS AND SUSPENSION: Is any leakage apparent from the shocks? Do springs sag from age? Does the car continue bouncing after hitting a bump or rough pavement?

WHEEL ALIGNMENT AND BALANCE: Does the car vibrate at highway speeds? Does the steering pull to the left or right?

ENGINE: Will elapsed mileage necessitate an oil change, filter change, or lubrication during the trip? If so, these procedures should be done before departure.

COOLING SYSTEM: Are hoses and fittings leak and crack-free? Are fanbelts tight and in good condition? Do the thermostat and water pump work properly?

If the inspection turns up deficiencies, they should be corrected, even if the cost necessitates shortening the vacation. At the very least, make sure that the engine is in a proper state of tune and that the cooling system is in good condition.

A vehicle that will be towing a trailer in mountainous or desert areas will benefit from a separate transmission cooler and in very heavy use conditions, an engine oil cooler. These two components help assure that transmission fluid and engine lubricating oil remain at the proper viscosity. Overheating causes oil to thin out and increases friction. Additionally, overheated oil tends to oxidize and form varnish which can greatly accelerate the deterioration of seals, gaskets, and other engine parts.

What if one experiences car trouble away from home?

Call a repair dealer or garage, preferably one that sells or is otherwise familiar with your make of car. Those belonging to an auto club should ask the local office for a recommendation and emergency road service.

If the car must be towed, don't necessarily take the first truck that shows up, and don't be talked into having the car towed to a repair shop recommended by the tow-truck operator. Some unscrupulous towing companies monitor police radio calls, go to the scene of disabled cars, and make their money from kickbacks paid by repair dealers whom they recommend to the car owners.

If the garage suggests that the car needs major repairs, try to put them off if possible until the car can be taken home. If the work can't be postponed, call the nearest Better Business Bureau to check the firm's reputation before work is authorized.

If at all possible, stay with the car and watch what the mechanic does. Be especially careful about leaving it unattended in a strange location.

Try to get a guarantee in writing for the work that has been done. The Better Business Bureau recommends that even if all the work is covered by warranty, get and keep an itemized copy of the repair order.

Computer cross-check to cut welfare fraud, Bullard says

The Michigan House took a major step toward documenting welfare abuse with the approval of a computer cross-check system that could help the Department of Social Services identify fraudulent welfare recipients.

State Representative William Runco (Dearborn) sponsored the amendment.

State Representative Willis Bullard (60th district) co-sponsored and voted for the amendment, which requires the department to cross-check lists of welfare recipients with banks, the Secretary of State, the Department of Treasury and the Michigan Employment Security commission.

"By checking with the banks and various departments we can identify recipients with excess income or assets which have not been reported to the DSS," Bullard said.

The proposal is based on a computer match program developed in Massachusetts. Since the cross-check system began there, guilty findings of welfare fraud have increased dramatically. Bullard cited findings that more than 3,300 recipients were found to be fraudulently collecting welfare with just over six percent of Massachusetts banks participating.

Sponsors of the bill hope that a similar cost savings would occur once the system is used on a widespread scale in Michigan.

Novi Special set August 27

The official unveiling of the Novi Special, the famed Indianapolis race car acquired earlier this year by the City of Novi, has been scheduled for Saturday, August 27.

The Novi Special will make its "first public appearance" since being acquired by the city at the second annual Novi Business/Industrial Exposition Day at the Sheraton Oaks.

Co-sponsored by the Novi Chamber of Commerce and Novi Economic Development Corporation, Expo Day '83 has been set aside to recognize and honor Novi businesses.

The morning session begins at 9:30 a.m. and will be reserved for members of the business community to have informal discussions with community leaders, city officials and legislators.

The unveiling of the Novi Special is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. and the Business Appreciation Luncheon will be served at 11:30 a.m.

Expo Day '83 will be opened to the public at 2 p.m. Activities conclude at 4 p.m.

Lydia Moses, secretary of the Novi Chamber of Commerce, said reservations for the luncheon must be made in advance, although each attending Novi company will receive one free luncheon ticket. Additional tickets are available at $10 each.

For reservations or additional tickets, local businesses should call the chamber office at 349-3743. The office is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to noon.

Members needed

The City of Novi is looking for residents interested in serving on the recently-created Novi Historical Commission.

Residents should contact the city clerk's office at 349-4300 for information and an application.

According to Bill Gladden, past president of Novi's Historical Society, the commission was created to give the society a "direction arm into the city and to give the city a direct arm into historical projects."

"The commission will be a recommending body to the city council," Gladden said. "The residents will be appointed by the council." Any Novi resident can apply for a commission post.

One of the main reasons the commission was formed, said Gladden, is so the city will be able to help the society in its current project of moving the old township hall onto Novi Library property.

"We're certain the library will want some assurances about the move," said Gladden. "The commission will handle the museum once it is set up by the society."

Circus time

Northville residents were treated to a weekend at the Big Top last Friday and Saturday at Northville Downs. Sponsored by the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce, the Old Fashioned Circus featured a host of attractions — from trapeze and acrobat acts to a lion tamer and horse show. Among those featured in last weekend's show was this spry lion tamer, pictured above, and the traditional elephants, at right. Record photos by John Galloway.

GRAND DELUSIONS

Dr. James Luther

The work of Satan takes many forms, but he specializes in deception! Since the garden of Eden he has led men along a path lined with lies.

Satan still deceives men today. He persuades some that certain things are attractive which only prove to be a source of sorrow and heartache. Whatever he presents as a blessing turns into a blight; that which he gives as desirable proves to be destructive.

One of Satan's most dangerous lies is this: he makes men and women think that he only tempts us to do wicked and immoral acts. Yet, his work is more dangerous in the spiritual realm.

He causes us to believe that morality and good works are what is necessary to take one to heaven. Others he deceives into thinking that the practice of certain rites and ceremonies will "earn" salvation.

Terrible delusions these, for God's word declares: "By the works of the law shall no flesh be justified" (Gal. 2:16); and that "all our righteousnesses are as filthy rags" (Isaiah 64:6). The worst deceptions are when he leads men to substitute works for Christ, and self-righteousness for the grace of God.

Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved (Acts 16:31). This is God's way, all the lies of Satan notwithstanding.

Outdoor Portraits

Summer is a natural for outdoor portraits. With simple, nonadjustable cameras, you will need to be out in the sun. Place yourself with the sun off to one side. Choose a nice background. Get no more than 5 feet away from your subject and compose your picture in the viewfinder so your subject's head is near the top.

Adjustable cameras with fast lenses let you work in overhanging shade and with backlight. Both of these situations give you more pleasant expressions, and open eyes! Try for open, shaded spots. You can get in close for head-and-shoulders or back up for seated, full-length shots which show clothes, favorite pets, or sports gear. Try to relax your subject by talking about interesting things other than photography.

Composition in portraiture can be simple. The head of a full-length portrait should be above the center of the picture and to one side of the vertical center. Seated poses are better than standing poses because you get closer and fill more picture area. Head-and-shoulder poses don't have to be looking straight into the camera, but eye contact can add a lot to a close-up.

Come see us for prints and enlargements of your outdoor portraits at

The Northville Record

Our Opinions

Hard choices face city soon

It is a given of city council meetings that a zoning change will draw dozens of citizens to attend and comment while the city's very real struggle with its continuing budget deficit is generally discussed in a chamber empty of all but city officials and the press.

Northville is not peculiar in this regard — people generally find it easier to become involved in what kind of building may go up next door than to decipher the hundreds of line items in a budget document.

What makes the absence of public input disturbing however is that the city is on the brink of making some tremendously important decisions that will affect the lives of every resident. With the state indicating that (despite three years education on the topic) it does not care to appropriate the statutory amount due for providing services to the race track yet also demanding an effective deficit reduction plan, it increasingly appears that the city will have to bail itself out.

And by "the city" we mean just that — not just the government, but everyone who makes up Northville. Absent a sudden (and unlikely) change of heart by the state, the deficit must be made up in either or both of two ways — by increasing taxes or by slashing services, most likely by a combination of the two. While council members are already thinking in terms of a temporary millage levy to pay off the debt (both member J. Burton DeRusha and Mayor Paul Vernon proposed it at Monday's session) the admittedly painful alternative of reducing services should not be overlooked.

A large portion of the city budget, when all is said and done, is apportioned to services accorded during the racing season and maintained during the off-season. Exactly how much it costs is unknown: For political reasons, the city has been reluctant to separate these costs, particularly in regard to the police department which is substantially larger than would be needed without the track.

Northville Downs is not going to go away overnight, however, so the city may have to seek ways to offer the services at lower costs or find another way to get the state to assume the burden. Neither alternative serves the citizenry as well as the present arrangement.

The state Municipal Finance Commission may be tough on the city in the next few years — its job is to insure local government complies with state laws that demand fiscal stability. It is being patient with several of the state's cities hardest-hit by the recession, but more prosperous communities such as Northville are likely to get less sympathy, despite objections that the problem is the state's fault.

The deficit of some $460,000 may be the state's fault, but it's the city's problem now. Carrying it around, even if the city manages to break-even another year, is expensive. Interest on tax anticipation notes alone would be better used elsewhere, as would the staff time devoted to controlling the problems.

With the city under the gun to address the problem, in a mayoral election year no less, the decisions taken in the next few months should be worth the effort it will take to understand them.

Gravel pit warning worth repeating

"Why don't you go to Kensington where it's safe and there are locker rooms for changing — it's only a few minutes away?" That's the question Northville Police Chief Rodney Cannon asked some of the swimmers in Northville's gravel pits last week as the heat wave brought renewed interest in Northville's "swimming holes."

The fact that Kensington isn't a satisfactory alternative to the deep, dangerous gravel pits filled with debris here is mystifying to us, too. But the pits remain a popular gathering spot late into the night, nearby residents complain.

Cannon adds that he and his officers have been working closely with township police to catch offenders. Part of the problem, he concedes, is that 95 percent of the swimmers are from out of town. In an intensive effort to eliminate the problem the police have had the cooperation of the railroad and private property owners, enabling them to place the "swimming prohibited" signs 30 feet high.

In the past the signs have been taken down almost as quickly as they were installed. Police also are hoping that having had a large tree cut down by the edge of the pit will eliminate the lure it held for divers.

The city recently approved making the Mill Race Village parking lot a tow-away zone for cars parked there on other than business in the historical village. As soon as the signs notifying people of the prohibition are erected, Cannon says, the police will begin to enforce the measure.

Most of the complaints the city receives, he notes, are for parking near the pits. City police either give a personal citation ($35 and court costs) for swimming or a citation for trespassing which is dependent on the court for penalty.

Township building official Troy Milligan is hopeful that Jack Doheny will be able to build a planned structure soon on the property he owns by the gravel pits. He feels this will make it more difficult for swimmer access — at least in the daytime.

In a tragedy last summer a Livonia swimmer broke his neck and now is a paraplegic after a dive into the pits. That's too high a price to pay for a summer evening's fun. We commend the police for their vigilance and hope it continues. Locally, parents should warn their youngsters that there is good reason for the prohibition and add their own "off limits" warning.

Off the record

Notes of a visitor among the natives

Faithful Off The Record readers will note this is the debut installation by the new fellow in town, so first things first: a warm thanks to all the people who have made my moving into Northville quite a pleasant experience.

I've spent some time thinking of what it is I'm to do with this space. I'm really too young to offer well-cultured pearls of wisdom, too poor (relatively speaking) to give financial advice, and I stray pretty far from common ground when it comes to politics of any sort.

As I am still something of a visitor amongst the natives, I suppose I can offer several of my anthropological findings as to this local branch of Western civilization:

I consider all of you rather lucky to have had a pretty good newspaper covering Northville for so many years. My impression is that the effort and integrity of the longtime workers on the Record are exceptional, and I think that kind of quality comes about because The Record is carefully, and, yes, critically, read.

I was struck — as were Mom and Pop, who visited recently — by the architecture of the older buildings here (none of us were seriously hurt). Having recently read and agreed with Tom Wolfe's "From Bauhaus to Our House," the author's characteristically witty gibe at modern, utilitarian architecture, I recognize many homes and some downtown buildings were built with a much different eye for embellishment and detail than is prevalent these days. Too bad.

Northville is hardly a fast-paced, high-energy, manic town, of course, yet it has a pleasant, quiet rhythm to it — steady, regular. If there isn't a great dance band nearby on Saturday night, at least there's nobody roller skating around with a blaring portable stereo.

People work days, then wander around downtown at night as the trains wail and clack in the distance every so often, giving the vicinity a timeless quality I find comfortable. Northville City is clearly window-shopping capital of the Midwest. The folk are always out there from dusk to late hours, long after the stores are locked up.

Even if some of the old-fashioned appearance of the downtown area is deliberate rather than natural (certainly to a less extent than the strictly pseudo-old timey contrivances of some other downtown development projects), I think it's terrific that the effect works — people still come out of their homes and away from their television sets to mill about and socialize. I get the feeling I could meet everybody in town if I sat on a downtown bench long enough. I know I'd meet the police.

Ah yes, the police. You take the bitter with the sweet, I suppose. The city maintains a good-sized force, and from covering the department, it's plain crime is not a very serious problem hereabouts. (I can hear it now — "Crime is always a serious problem, Mr. Martin." Take it from me, Northville folk — not here, it ain't).

Yes, the low crime rate here is indeed wonderful. But when I'm driving home late at night, the fear of the ubiquitous patrol cars trolling for the night's catch fills me so much I spend more time looking at my speedometer than at the road — and I'm a careful driver.

I'm looking forward to making more such penetrating observations of Northville culture, custom and taboo in upcoming weeks as I learn more about the territory. So far, I like what I see, and I'm looking forward to staying awhile.

About Town

By Steve Fecht

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

The hints had been getting fairly broad lately.

Hints like, "We've got to get you some new clothes. It's embarrassing to seek you walk around looking like you do."

And so I announced Saturday that I thought I'd head into town to see about buying some new clothes.

"Great," she responded. "What time are we going?"

I knew she'd want to tag along. Actually, "tag along" is not quite accurate. I'm the one who "tags along" while she and Scott the Haberdasher do their best to make me look presentable.

I'm almost relegated to the role of manikin. She and Scott pick out the clothes; then tell me what to try on for size.

Unfortunately, it is my sad lot to report that I think they've gone too far this time.

The suit coat they selected was nice enough, even though they used words like "muted" to describe it. The problem came when they selected a pair of purple pants to go with it.

"They're not purple," said Scott, correcting my color ignorance. "They're mauve."

"Mauve," I responded, horrified. "Mauve pants? You want me to wear mauve pants?"

"Think of my image. How would it look for Mr. Macho to go around wearing mauve pants? Do I look like the kind of guy who eats quiche? I don't even like croissants. Don't you have anything in brown? Whatever happened to navy? Why did you pick mauve?"

Scott's answer was simple and direct: "I didn't think you'd go for peach," he said.

I ended up buying those mauve pants to go with the "muted" sports coat. I cast the lone dissenting vote in a 2-1 decision. Scott and my wife voted "yes."

So, if you ever see me wearing my mauve slacks, please don't make any wisecracks. Just think how much better they look than peach.

Jaycees say thanks for Fourth aid

To the Editor:
Even though the 4th of July celebration is now two weeks past, the Northville Jaycees would like to thank everyone involved in making this probably our most successful event ever. We also want the Northville community to be aware of the full scope of this, our organization's largest project of the year from both a financial and a manpower perspective.

First and foremost, our "thanks" go to the City and Township of Northville governments, and their police and fire departments. Without the support both in financial contributions and departmental assistance this project would not take place.

From a financial standpoint, we'd like to thank all of the following businesses and individuals for their generous contributions:

Belanger Inc., Bruce Roy Realty, C. Harold Bloom Agency, Earl Keim Realty, Ely Fuel, Fancy Bath Boutique, Paul Folino, State Farm Insurance, Holloway Bakery, Long's Plumbing, M.A.G.S., Manufacturers Bank, attorney Phillip R. Ogilvie, Puppy Love Pet Salon, Reef Manufacturing, Sandie's Hallmark, Carole M. Shaw & Associates, Schraders, Thompson-McKinnon Securities, William Silger.

Those who donated prizes for the rafle and watermelon eating contest were:

The Beehive Arcade, Copy Boy Printers, D & C Stores, Holloway Bakery, Little Caesars, Holiday Inns, McNishes Inc., MacKinnons, Marquis Theatre, Oasis Golf Center and Cousins Bowling and Trophy Sales.

From a facilities and supplies perspective, the Northville Jaycees wish to thank the following for the use of and assistance in obtaining the equipment, areas and supplies necessary to run this project:

A&P — Seven Mile store, B&F Auto Supply, Contact Communications Co., Coca Cola Bottlers of Detroit, Day Comm Radios, Erb Lumber — Livonia, Fox Tent and Awning, Frito Lay Inc., Guernsey Farms Dairy, Mission Hills Golf Club, Northville Downs, Northville Historical Society, Northville Public Schools, Northville Party Shop, and the Sweet Tooth Express — Mike and Nancy Batt.

Special thanks are in order to Omnicom Cablevision for the opportunity to telecast and tape the parade and preserve it for the future. To Jean Day and Kevin Wilson of the Northville Record for all your help and assistance in letting everyone know what's going on, and to two Jaycees, Mike Terry of "the wrench works" for the repair and painting of the dunk tank and to Keith Mannisto of Starworks, Inc. for a spectacular fireworks display.

Finally, our thanks to everyone in the community who took part in any form in the day's festivities. Without the support and patronage of the people of Northville and surrounding areas, the Northville Jaycees 4th of July celebration might be smaller, or not even exist at all. You're why we do it; "thanks again" for everything.

Township not a ghetto
this letter writer says

RE: The letter to the Editor (Northville Record 07/13/83) Signed Township Resident.

Obviously while you were living in Detroit you didn't see much of the "Ghetto." I believe our Township is far from it. You must remember this community at one time was a farming community until the subdivisions were built and people (like yourself) moved here from the "Big City."

"I can understand you being upset with the way other people in our Township live, but let's not condemn the Township as a whole. (Off hand I can't think of one subdivision that's as bad as you make it sound). I have lived in Northville Township for 23 years and I never have watered my grass.

As for unoccupied residences with tall weeds (or grass), I'm sure Detroit has residences unoccupied. The houses from the 1967 riots stood for years before they were demolished to leave behind vacant lots with tall weeds. I will admit Wayne County Road Commission doesn't get to the tall weeds in Northville Township as they probably should. As for filthy streets, I always thought only the cities had street sweepers. I don't feel the Township taxes are really all that high, look around at other communities in this area. (You could always move to Northville City, then you would know what high taxes are. You could even get your street swept.)

If you feel you gave up something, then you should move back to Detroit and Coleman Young. Remember, you can't get something for nothing.

Respectfully,
A "Proud" Township Resident

Bullards propose unicameral legislature

LANSING — When fresman Republican Bill Bullard, a conservative from Oakland County, joined liberal Democrat Perry Bullard in the Michigan Legislature, most people assumed they would oppose each other on just about everything. But today, the unrelated Bullards joined in introducing a constitutional amendment that would cut the size of the Legislature in half and merge the House and Senate into a single, unicameral legislative body.

Seats in the unicameral Legislature would be apportioned to conform with congressional districts in the state, with four legislative seats in each congressional district.

Representative Bill Bullard Jr. (R-Highland Township) focused on efficiency in explaining the need for this change in state government.

"There is a tremendous amount of duplication of services and effort by the current House and Senate," he said. "By reducing the Legislature to one house and by reducing the number of legislators, we can create a much more streamlined and cost-effective form of representative government. Not only would there be fewer members in the Legislature, but we could save money by reducing staff as well."

Both Bullards agreed that the most important change in a unicameral system would be the increased accountability of legislators.

"Our society and our political problems become more complex an difficult to resolve every day," said Representative Perry Bullard (D-Ann Arbor). "We have to deal with pollution, computer crime, economic development, health care — you name it. All these issues are difficult to grasp, even for those of us who work at it full-time."

"When you combine that with a legislative system that has two houses, 47 committees and a minimum of four votes by committees and legislative houses to pass even the simplest bill, the average citizen just can't figure out what's happening."

Representative Perry Bullard continued, "Citizens have great difficulty seeing how to make changes for the general public good and how to identify and defeat legislators who sell out to special-interest groups."

ORDINANCE NUMBER 80

An ordinance prohibiting the purchase, consumption or possession of alcoholic liquor by persons less than twenty-one years of age and providing penalties for the violation of this ordinance.

THE TOWNSHIP OF NORTHVILLE ORDAINS:

Section 1. PURPOSE. The purpose of this ordinance is to prohibit the unlawful purchase, consumption or possession of alcoholic liquor by persons less than twenty-one years of age to provide for the public health, safety and welfare of persons and property within the Township of Northville, pursuant to Act No. 246, Public Acts of 1945, as amended and to establish penalties for the violation of this ordinance.

Section II. SHORT TITLE. This ordinance may be known and may be cited and amended as the "ordinance controlling purchase, consumption and possession of alcoholic liquor by persons less than twenty-one years of age."

Section III. DEFINITIONS. For the purposes of this ordinance: A. "Alcoholic liquor" shall include any spirituous, vinous, malt or fermented liquor, liquids and compounds, whether or not medicated, proprietary or patented, or by whatever name called, containing one half of one percent or more of alcohol by volume which are fit for use by beverage purposes.

Section IV. PROHIBITIONS. A person less than twenty-one years of age shall not purchase alcoholic liquor, consume alcoholic liquor in a licensed premises, or possess alcoholic liquor, unless the person is employed by a licensee under state law and is possessing said alcoholic liquor during regular working hours and in the course of the person's employment.

Section V. PENALTIES. A person less than twenty-one years of age who violates this ordinance is liable for the following civil fines:

- I. For the first violation a fine of not more than twenty-five dollars ($25.00);
- II. For a second violation a fine of not more than fifty dollars ($50.00);
- III. For a third or subsequent violation a fine of not more than one hundred dollars ($100.00).

Section VI. REPEAL. Any ordinances, or parts thereof, in conflict with the provisions of this ordinance are hereby repealed.

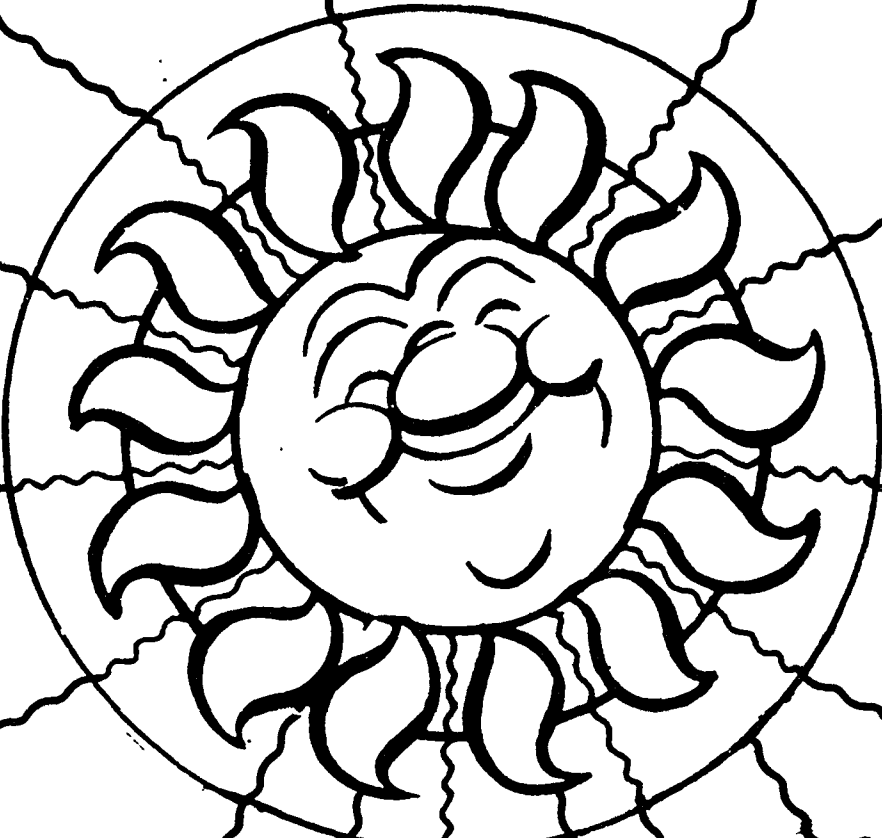

Section VII. EFFECTIVE DATE. This ordinance shall take effect thirty days from and after its first publication.

This ordinance was adopted by the Township Board of the Township of Northville, Wayne County, Michigan, at its regular meeting, called and held on the 14th day of July, 1983, and offered to be given publication in the manner prescribed by law.

I, Susan J. Heintz, clerk of the Township of Northville, do hereby certify that the above ordinance was approved and adopted by the Northville Township board at a regular meeting thereof, duly called and held on the 14th day of July, 1983 and was ordered to be given publication in the manner prescribed by law.

Appe'teaser excellence

Tiny Milford restaurant expands to three levels

By ALICE DAVIES

The Appe'teaser restaurant in downtown Milford Village is a jewel of a surprise to anyone who has not yet discovered it.

For those who have watched it grow, the Appe'teaser is even more. It is a source of pride, a mark of what can be accomplished by good management and a creative approach.

It claims to "make ordinary foods extraordinary and our guests very comfortable for a very comfortable price."

It does. Before its recent expansion to 127 seats, the Appe'teaser was a tiny, one-floor Main Street spot known for its excellent food and good service. People willingly stood in line, often outside on the sidewalk, waiting for a table.

Today, after extensive redesign, the Appe'teaser presents a sophisticated three-floor establishment with a basement wine cellar, suspended stairs that reach to third-floor skylights, exposed natural brick and stone, and a recycled exterior restored to its century-old facade.

Four years ago, owner-chef Chris Angelosante, 24, went straight from the New York Institute of Culinary Arts to this off-the-beaten-track location. First with a partner, and then on his own, Angelosante and his wife, Susan, have established a reputation for excellence.

He pushes both himself and his staff of 70 to produce that excellence. With a new liquor license, Appe'teaser now offers a full bar service, operates its own bake shop and prepares all dishes from fresh materials on a daily basis.

Angelosante cares about these details, but his real concern is how people are affected. "People—that's what it's all about," he says. "If people come out and have a good time, it's comforting to know you've done your job, you've met someone's expectations."

His menu shows this concern for personal service and taste. Lunch can be an Italian Style sandwich, minestrone, chili or other homemade soup; a reuben, ground round, barbecue or steak sandwich; quiche, crepes or an Eastern Market salad.

"I like to see things perfect,"

Angelosante says. "Everything has its own level of perfection and that's always hard to meet."

Dinner choices range from outstanding seafood and pasta dishes to steak and ribs, with unusual side dishes such as tabouli, coconut shrimp, oysters Lauralla, Muoles ala Marinere, or

Monitoring system will ensure Youth Corps system operation

Michigan Youth Corps Director Doug Ross has announced a monitoring system for the summer jobs program that is designed to ensure that every Youth Corps worker has useful work to do and is getting the job done.

"The work of the Youth Corps has begun and we must make sure that it is work that is well done," Ross said. "We promised the youth of Michigan hard work this summer, and promised the citizens of Michigan that Youth Corps workers would earn their pay working for Michigan. We have designed a monitoring system to help us achieve those goals."

Ross said Youth Corps staff, including himself, and the staffs of state departments administering programs with Youth Corps workers will visit worksites across the state.

"Our goal," he said, "is to reach every site for an initial visit by the end of July. Making the Youth Corps work is a large task, however, and one that must involve the citizens of Michigan as well."

"The Youth Corps staff is small. We haven't created a new bureaucracy to run the program. Therefore, we must depend on Michigan's citizens to join with us in making the Youth Corps a success for everyone."

Hoping to encourage public input, the Youth Corps staff has established a toll-free telephone number, 1-800-441-4110, specifically to hear public comments.

"With 25,000 workers at literally hundreds of sites throughout the state, we expect that problems will arise," Ross said. "We will seek to iron out any problem that comes up, whether it is inadequate work material, or poor supervision, or just answering questions the public may have."

Noting that citizens can help identify problem sites by calling the "Make It Work" phone number, Ross said "We need to hear praise as well. When a Youth Corps work crew is doing a particularly good job, we want to know about it and encourage other Youth Corps workers to improve by example."

Ross also explained the the Youth Corps guidelines for resolving worksite problems. "When we get a call about a problem out there, we will immediately request that the state department monitoring that site make an inspection and take appropriate action as necessary."

"If the problem is not resolved to our satisfaction within seven days, the site will be shut down and an effort will be made to shift the displaced workers to other Youth Corps worksites. Because of the short duration of this program, speed is essential in resolving these problems."

Youth Corps workers, he said, will be identifiable by the green-and-white Michigan Youth Corps patches on caps or hardhats.

"We want you to tell us what you see, whether it is a job well done or a problem we need to fix," Ross concluded. "Together, we will help Michigan work this summer."

Business Briefs

The new office brings the total to three offices in the area owned by James Gentry. When many real estate offices are closing, Gentry is proud to be expanding, according to Milford manager Josephine Edwards.

Gentry specializes in exchanging real estate and showing how you can use equity in what you have to buy what you want. The firm also offers counseling in land investments, including developing, splitting and sub-dividing land.

The offices, in Hartland, Highland and Milford, have commercial, light industrial, farm land, residential, lake front, recreational, individual sites and homes in all price ranges, plus investment housing.

The Milford Gentry Real Estate office is open 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., seven days a week. Appointments can also be made for later in the day.

LORI A. CLEMENTS, who has been associated with Revlon of Fifth Avenue, New York since graduating from the University of Michigan in 1981, was recently promoted to supervisor of consultants with Revlon, representing the west and mid-west states of the Dayton Hudson Corporation, the Walgreen chain and the Osco chain stores. Clements will be headquartered in Minneapolis, Minnesota. She is the youngest person ever to be promoted to this position.

A 1975 graduate of South Lyon High School, Clements is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clements of 26670 Pontiac Trail, South Lyon. She received a degree in business economics from the U-M.

THE ARMENIAN RADIO HOUR under the direction of Nerses (Nick) Serkaian of Northville has been expanded to 90 minutes due to its increasing popularity, station WCAR announces. Starting July 10, the program is being heard every Sunday on WCAR, 1090 am, between 9-10:30 a.m.

The Armenian Radio Hour now is in its 40th year of continuous service to the metropolitan area, and is one of the most popular programs ever to air in the Detroit Market, the station reports. It originally was aired on WJLB and WMZK under the direction of Haig Ohanian and Alice Der Vartanian.

For the past 16 years the program has been under the direction of Serkaian, the first American-born director of any ethnic program in Detroit. Serkaian is well known as a master dialectician and voice impressionist, with more than 14 different dialects and many voice impressions to his credit. He is in demand as a master of ceremonies and comedian.

The expansion of the Armenian Radio Hour will give Serkaian more time to devote to humor, commentaries and music. His Armenian-American versions of "The Godfather," "Dragnet" and the "Lone Ranger" have become radio classics. He lives in Northville with his wife Cathy and two of their three children, John and Roxanne. Steve Serkaian is in Washington, D.C. where he is assistant press secretary for U.S. Senator Carl Levin.

spinach tortellini de Firenze.

Desserts include chocolate mousse, cheese cake, California torte and an incredibly good carrot cake, as well as a chocolate ice cream puff.

As elegant as the new building is, the atmosphere is still as welcoming as the old. It's a place for special dinners, for a business lunch, for a late dessert or drink or just for fun.

Hours are 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Monday through Saturday and prices are definitely reasonable. Appeteaser catering service can provide everything for a small luncheon to a large wedding reception.

Angelosante has had a lot of compliments on his venture. But perhaps the comment that pleases him most came from a realtor friend.

"He told me, 'What you've done is what no one else has been able to do. You have a casual, but sophisticated atmosphere.'" Angelosante wanted to create his own class of restaurant. He has.

Milford Village is located five miles north of the I-96 interchange on Milford Road. The Appeteaser may be reached at (313) 685-8909. The mailing address is 335 Main, Milford, Mi. 48042.

Barbecuing offers portable picnic dining

Barbecuing is one of America's most popular outdoor activities ... and while the backyard version still rates number one in the hearts of many cookout chefs, portable picnic barbecues are gaining fast.

From campgrounds to beaches, backpacking to fishing, it's hard to resist the fascination of foods sizzling over hot coals. The new variety of portable grills lets you barbecue almost anything a bigger backyard grill could. Choose from smaller versions of the kettle cooker, covered rectangular cookers and small open braziers, in either charcoal or gas models.

Many portable grills, for durability and easy cleaning, have the same heavy-duty porcelain finish as the bigger grills. Stainless steel cooking grids are height-adjustable. There are vents for better temperature control than is possible with hibachis, and cooking areas also are longer.

Portables with lids help control flare-ups, keep smoke to a minimum, protect food from the elements and reduce the need for turning foods. Sturdy legs, windshields and lock-tops for easy carrying are other important features for more expert grilling at home.

Since there's a great variety of foods that can be barbecued to perfection on a portable grill, it makes sense to indulge in the wonderful flavor of foods cooked over charcoal, not only at home but away as well.

Tender marinated London broil, apricot-orange barbecued chicken and spicy barbecued ribs are only a few of the recipes developed in the Karo corn syrup test kitchens especially for barbecuing on a portable grill. To add flavor to poultry and to improve less tender cuts of meat, the recipes call for marinating several hours or overnight.

Marinades, which contain oil, herbs and spices, vinegar or lemon juice and corn syrup, penetrate meat fibers to help tenderize. In some cases the marinade is used as a basting sauce. The corn syrup in the sauce or marinade balances and blends the flavors and helps the sauce cling to foods, locking in important juices. It also provides the right consistency for barbecue sauces — not too thick or thin. To prevent burning, wait until the last 15 minutes of cooking to baste with the sauce.

To ensure successful outdoor feasts every time, the Barbecue Industry Association also recommends:

- setting up the grill on a flat surface, away from trees, dry leaves or brush.

- lining the bottom of the grill with foil so ashes can be wrapped in neat packages and disposed of when cool.

- using a good charcoal starter when cooking on a charcoal grill — the new chimney charcoal starters are quick and reliable and, like the grills, are light and portable. Or, tote small bags of the convenient instant lighting briquets.

- using long wooden-handled utensils designed for the grill. Gloves and mitts come in handy, too.

MARINATED LONDON BROIL

½ cup light or dark corn syrup
½ cup lemon juice
½ cup soy sauce
¼ cup corn oil
2 tablespoons prepared spicy mustard
½ teaspoon ground ginger
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 cloves garlic, minced or pressed
2 pounds beef top round for London Broil

In shallow baking dish stir together corn syrup, lemon juice, soy sauce, corn oil, mustard, ginger, pepper and garlic. Add beef; turn to coat well. Cover; refrigerate several hours or overnight. Remove from marinade. Grill six inches from source of heat, turning and basting frequently with marinade, 20 to 30 minutes or until cooked to desired doneness. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

APRICOT-ORANGE BARBECUED CHICKEN

1 can (5 ½ oz.) apricot nectar (about 2/3 cup)
½ cup light or dark corn syrup
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
¼ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons corn starch
2 tablespoons orange juice
1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in parts

In 1-quart saucepan stir together apricot nectar, corn syrup, orange rind and salt. Stirring frequently, bring to boil over medium heat and boil five minutes. In small bowl, stir together corn starch and orange juice until smooth. Stir into saucepan. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil one minute. Grill chicken 6 inches from source of heat, turning frequently, 30 minutes. Brush with sauce. Grill, brushing with sauce and turning frequently, about 15 minutes longer or until fork tender. Makes 4 servings.

SPICY BARBECUED RIBS

2 sides (4 lbs.) spareribs
Water
½ cup light or dark corn syrup
½ cup prepared mustard
3 tablespoons vinegar
3 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
½ to 1 teaspoon hot pepper sauce

Place spareribs in large saucepot; add water to cover. Bring to boil over high heat. Reduce heat; cover and simmer 45 minutes or until tender. In small bowl stir together corn syrup, mustard, vinegar, Worcestershire sauce and hot pepper sauce until well blended. Drain ribs well. Brush with sauce until well blended. Grill ribs six inches from source of heat, brushing with sauce and turning frequently, 15 to 20 minutes or until browned. Cut into serving-size pieces. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

SWEET AND SOUR PORK CHOPS

1 tablespoon corn starch
½ cup light or dark corn syrup
½ cup right wine vinegar
¼ cup catsup
3 tablespoons soy sauce
4 center-cut pork chops (about 1-inch thick)

In 1-quart saucepan, stir together corn starch, corn syrup, vinegar, catsup and soy sauce until smooth. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 1 minute. Grill pork chops six inches from source of heat, turning frequently, 30 minutes. Brush with sauce. Grill, brushing with sauce and turning frequently, 15 to 30 minutes longer or until pork is tender. Reheat remaining sauce and serve with pork chops. Makes 4 servings.

INSIDE-OUT CHEESEBURGERS

1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup light or dark corn syrup
¼ cup red wine vinegar
1 clove garlic, minced or pressed
1 teaspoon dried basil leaves
½ teaspoon dried oregano leaves
¼ teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon crushed dried red pepper
1 pound ground beef
8 thin slices mozzarella cheese
4 tomato slices

In 1-quart saucepan stir together tomato sauce, onion, corn syrup, vinegar, garlic, basil, oregano, salt and crushed dried red pepper. Stirring frequently, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 15 minutes. On waxed paper form ground beef into 8 patties about ¼-inch thick. Leaving 1-inch edge, place on each of the 4 patties 1 slice cheese, 1 slice tomato, 1 slice cheese. Top with remaining patties. Press edges together. Reshape by pushing edges toward center. Grill, brushing with sauce occasionally and turning once, 8 to 10 minutes or until cooked to desired doneness. Reheat remaining sauce and serve with burgers. Makes 4.

PORK AND BEANS

1 pound dried navy (pea) beans
2 quarts water, divided
½ pound salt pork
1 green pepper, coarsely chopped (about 1 cup)
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup dark corn syrup
½ cup chili sauce
1 teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon pepper

Rinse beans. In 4-quart saucepan place rinsed beans and 1 quart of the water. Bring to boil. Cover and boil 2 minutes. Remove from heat; let stand 1 hour. Drain. In 4-quart saucepan place beans, remaining 1 quart water and pork. Cover; boil 30 minutes. Drain. Return beans and salt pork to saucepan. Stir in 1 cup water, green pepper, onion, corn syrup, chili sauce, mustard and pepper. Cover; bring to boil, reduce heat and cook gently 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Uncover and continue cooking 30 minutes or until beans are tender. Makes 8 servings.

CALICO SALAD

½ cup white wine vinegar
¼ cup corn oil
¼ cup light corn syrup
½ teaspoon celery seed
¼ teaspoon salt
1 can green beans, cut in 1-inch pieces, cooked, drained
1 can (8 oz.) whole kernel corn, drained
1 can (8 oz.) red kidney beans, rinsed, drained
1 cup diced green and/or sweet red pepper
1 small onion, thinly sliced

In medium bowl stir together vinegar, corn oil, corn syrup, celery seed and salt. Add green beans, corn, kidney beans, pepper and onion; toss to coat well. Cover; refrigerate several hours or overnight. If desired, drain before serving. Makes about 4 cups.

Interest in historic preservation leads to engagement

By JEAN DAY

A specialization in historic preservation has led to the engagement and upcoming marriage September 23 of former Northville resident Allison Crump and David S. Solomon. Allison is the daughter of former longtime Northville residents the William B. Crumps. The engagement announcement came from Hendersonville, North Carolina, where the Crumps are spending the summer. Their home now is Mount Dora, Florida.

The Paul Solomons, parents of the bridegroom-elect, live in Providence, Rhode Island. His father is a retired professor of agricultural chemistry at Brown University where David did his undergraduate work in history.

Allison attended Columbia University where she and her fiancé were classmates in the first masters degree program for historic preservation.

After a stint with the Cambridge Historical Commission and as housing administrator for the city of Salem, Massachusetts, Allison now is federal grant supervisor for the State of Massachusetts. Her mother reports she is based in Boston and is in charge of small cities in Western Massachusetts. Her fiancé has a private consulting firm for preservation projects.

After a wedding trip to France, they plan to live in Cambridge in an historic "triple decker" which they are restoring.

Both Allison and her sister Connie are Northville High School graduates. Connie, an Ann Arbor resident, recently became a full-time staff member of the Ann Arbor News. She previously wrote reviews and other stories free lance for the paper.

A former Ann Arbor News copy editor, Ellen Sponseller Creiger, a Northville resident of Taft Road, has joined the staff of the Detroit Free Press. She previously had been a staff writer for The Record.

Marie-Louise Capote provides comic touch in drama

Northville resident Marie-Louise Capote is the first to admit she was late in starting her theatrical career — but her success in a field that she notes takes a "tremendous commitment" has been exciting. Following roles in "Night Watch" and "Bus Stop" at Schoolcraft College, she was urged by Dr. Ronald Worsley to take the role of Beverly in "The Shadow Box" which he is directing at Henry Ford College.

She was awarded a tuition grant to play the comic part which Joanne Woodward had played on television. Even though it means commuting to Dearborn four nights a week, Mrs. Capote is enthusiastic about the part. "I do a strip tease — suggestively — with jewelry," she confides.

The two-act play is a Pulitzer prize-winning adult drama and will be presented at 8 p.m. August 5-7 in the MacKenzie fine arts center at the college. Ticket reservation may be made by calling 271-2750, extension 476. For interested residents who may not be able to make the performances, Mrs. Capote says it will be possible to sit in on final rehearsals. The story is a sensitive portrait of three terminally ill people and their loved ones.

Mrs. Capote says her love of theater could be inherited as she had a great aunt who was a noted Shakespearian actress. Because of severe health problems, she did not take acting lessons until recently. She and her husband Baltasar with son Greg, 19, and daughter Heather Ann, 15, are residents of Fairbrook. Mrs. Capote says Heather also is serious about the theater and "wants to make it her career."

Winters reunion draws from New York, Honolulu

Last Sunday Lois and John Winters entertained about 50 relatives at a reunion of his family at their Lexington Condominium clubhouse. Coming the greatest distance was John's brother Lee from Honolulu where he is a professor of English at the University of Hawaii. An Oriental translator from his days in the World War II program at University of Michigan, he previously had taught in China.

Also expected were Barb and James Sterling, former Brooklyn Farms residents now living in Traverse. Lois Winters also was hoping that Susan Shutes (who retired at the end of the school year as physical education teacher at Cooke) and her husband Nelson would be on hand from Crystal Lake. There also were to be a former missionary from Japan now living in Tennessee and other relatives from Chicago. The Winters' son Bill was home for the event but was planning to return to New York City shortly.

Their daughter Karen and her husband Carl Stephens were to leave immediately after the reunion for Horton Bay where Carl's parents Carl and Pearl Stephens are vacationing with daughter Mary. The senior Stephens is recuperating at their summer home following a heart attack.

Friends of Library to be on sidewalk

Again this year the Friends of Northville Library will be selling used books and Northville Record pictures from 1981-82 in their stand in front of Northville Pharmacy on Main Street during the annual sidewalk sale July 30.

For several years The Northville Record has given the Friends the pictures from the previous year's files to sell at 25 cents each during the sidewalk sale. Proceeds used from this project go toward special projects and gifts to the library.

Kelly Parker's gold award is highest Girl Scout honor

Kelly Parker, daughter of Gordon and Mildred Parker of Cottisford in Brooklyn Farms, was among six Huron Valley Girl Scouts awarded the Girl Scout Gold Award — the highest achievement in Girl Scouting.

The Gold Award symbolizes outstanding accomplishments in the areas of leadership, community service, career planning and personal development. The plan for fulfilling the requirements of the award is created by the Girl Scout herself and is carried out through close cooperation between the scout and her leader.

The Gold Award recognizes a Senior Girl Scout's commitment to excellence as she develops skills and values to meet present and future challenges in her life. To earn the Gold Award, each girl must complete a challenge in a community service project and take part in a review board interview to evaluate her work.

Kelly, who will be a senior at Northville High School next fall, has been a Girl Scout for 10 years.

The Gold Award winners were honored at a dinner at Woodruff's Grove with their parents, troop leaders, the Council President Pat Levos, Executive Director Gail Slusser and the Gold Award Review Panel in attendance.

Special museum displays on view

The Plymouth Historical Museum is presenting a collection of handmade marionettes and puppets from the Raymond Masters Studio.

Masters is a puppet master and director and producer of theatrical productions. He has produced shows for schools, colleges and theaters throughout the United States, and his productions have been shown on public television.

Also on display at the museum is a rare collection of Bennington and Rockingham pottery such as a cow creamer, a seated Toby mug and a 1849 whiskey bottle shaped as a man in a top hat.

Island hostess

Kim Hubbard, daughter of Donn and Jeanne Hubbard, 18312 Shadbrook, is spending her summer working as a hostess at Fort Mackinac on Mackinac Island. Kim, a junior studying science at Kalamazoo College, wears her colonial costume as she explains to State Park visitors the historical aspects of the buildings owned by the Mackinac Island State Park Commission and works also as a cashier at the Fort Mackinac entrance. She applied for one of the coveted jobs on the island at Christmas and was one of 180 applicants. The park commission interviewed 60, including Kim, who became one of the eight chosen. Her parents plan to spend Labor Day weekend on the island with their daughter.

MR. AND MRS. WALTER RAY KOCH

Couples exchange vows in June 18 rites

Patriarca-Fuertges

Kathleen M. Fuertges, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fuertges of 1012 Grace, became the bride of Michael A. Patriarca in a double ring ceremony June 18 at Holy Family Church in Novi.

The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. J.J. Patriarca of Mentor, Ohio.

Father Norbert Byrnes, priest and professor at the University of Dayton, officiated at the Nuptial Mass. Music was provided by Gary Becker.

The bride wore an embroidered lace gown enhanced with a sweetheart neckline and bodice edged in seed pearls. The gown extended into a cathedral train. A halo of silk flowers held the bride's veil.

She wore her grandmother's ruby and pearl necklace and carried a bouquet of lilies, stephanotis and white sweetheart roses.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was her sister Mrs. John Kain. She wore a mint green chiffon gown and carried pink roses and baby's-breath tied with green streamers.

Senior bridesmaid was Nicol Patriarca, and bridesmaids were the bride's sister Mrs. David Farhat and Mrs. Theodore Fuertges. The attendants wore mint green gowns and carried long stem white roses with white streamers.

Maria Reale was flower girl.

The bridegroom's brother Jerry Patriarca was best man. Ushers were Ted Fuertges, Peter Spitzer and Christopher Patriarca.

The bride's nephew Thomas Kain was ring bearer.

A buffet reception for 260 guests followed the ceremony at Madonna College.

The bride is a 1977 Northville High School graduate and received her bachelor's degree from University of Dayton. She currently is marketing manager at Cardinal Service in Ohio.

The bridegroom received his bachelor's degree in accounting from University of Dayton and is employed with Meador and Moore Company.

Following a wedding trip to Bermuda Island, the newlyweds returned to Ohio where they will make their home.

School graduate and received her bachelor's degree in biology from Michigan Technological University in 1981. She currently is completing her master's degree in biology at MTU.

The bridegroom is a 1976 Romeo High School graduate and received a bachelor's degree from Michigan Tech in 1981. He currently is completing his master's degree in civil engineering at MTU.

Following a sightseeing trip of the Upper Peninsula, the couple returned to Houghton where they will reside.

Koch-Derrick

A wedding trip to the Bahamas followed the marriage of April Lee Derrick, daughter of Jack and Linda Derrick of 47661 Ten Mile, and Walter Ray Koch of 47722 Hickory in Wixom.

He is the son of The Senior Walter Ray Kochs of Riverview.

The Reverend Leslie Harding officiated at the 4:30 p.m. service at Holy Cross Episcopal Church in Novi.

The bride wore a white gown styled with a sheer, embroidered yoke edged with deep ruffle of lace. Lace detailing also adorned the long, puffed sleeves. A hat held her illusion veil. She carried a silk flower bouquet of white and tiny lavender roses.

Honor attendant was Margaret Pierce. Bridesmaids were Christina Derrick, Teresa Larkins and Terry Smith. Tracy Thiede was flower girl. They wore lavender gowns styled with a deep, ruffle encircling the shoulders and sashed with matching satin ribbon. They carried parasols.

Alan Ritchie was best man. Ushers were Scott Derrick, Eric Menkin and Mike Welsh. Lukas Derrick was ring bearer.

A reception for approximately 285 guests followed at Wayne Armvets Hall in Garden City.

The couple spent a week at the Ambassador Beach Bahaman.

The bride is a 1981 graduate of Novi High School and currently is attending Oakland Community College while working as a Service Merchandise assistant department manager.

The bridegroom is a 1975 graduate of Riverview High School and a graduate of Rets School of Electronics. He currently is employed at Service Merchandise in Southfield as assistant unit manager.

Gardiner-Knight

Mary Elizabeth Knight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Knight of 435 Eaton Drive, exchanged marriage vows June 18 with Robert Dean Gardiner, son of Wilfred Gardiner and Mrs. Edna Nash of Kingsford.

The double ring ceremony at St. John the Baptist Church in Marquette was officiated by the Reverend Thomas J. Bain.

Escorted down the aisle by her father, the bride wore a lace gown enhanced with a ruffled bodice and Queen Anne collar. The gown's skirt was tiered with lace ruffles and extended into a chapel train. A Juliet cap held the bride's waist-length veil.

The bride carried a bouquet of white carnations, pink sweetheart roses and baby's-breath.

Sharon Oom of Redford served as maid of honor. The bridegroom's sister Mrs. Darlene Haigh of Iron Mountain was bridesmaid.

The bride's attendants wore pink lace gowns and carried nosegays of white carnations, pink sweetheart roses and pink daisies with baby's-breath.

Best man was Rayomen Church of Oxford. Ushers were Robert Slater of Green Bay, Wisconsin, and the bridegroom's brother James Gardiner of Iron Mountain.

A reception at Northwoods Supper Club in Marquette followed the ceremony.

The bride is a 1977 Northville High

Dogs, cats and critters

Northville Public Library's Fourth Annual Pet Show, held last Thursday in the park behind the library, brought together some of Northville's finest canines and calicos. Some 40 dogs, 11 cats and 40 or more other unusual pets were entered in this year's show, judged by Pete Talbot and Tonni Burns. Ribbons were awarded to pets in a variety of categories — from most exotic pet to the dog with the largest ears. Among those entered in this year's competition was hamster Matthew Johnson, at right, held by owner Kristen Williams. Serving as master of ceremonies was librarian Melanie Robinson, below, who gives a friendly pat on the head to "Randy" — the first place winner in the longest hair category.

Gradual exposure leads to healthier tan

Doctors do not recommend suntanning. There is no health value to suntanning and it leads to premature aging and wrinkling of the skin. Those are simple and valid statements.

However, thousands, perhaps millions of Americans will ignore this advice and flock to Michigan's beautiful lakes and beaches for that "healthy" golden tan.

If you're after a tan, no matter what the price may be, did you know there is a way to do it without burning? While these steps are not a cure-all, they do offer some precaution against spending a weekend suffering from a sunburn.

On the first day of sunning, allow 15 minutes on each side. Gradually, on a daily basis increase your time. When your skin begins to brown you may proceed at the best pace for your own skin to tan without burning. While on vacation, it is difficult to confine your exposure, but remember, if you try to hurry the tan, you'll burn.

The time of exposure should also be adjusted to the time of day. The sun's rays are hottest between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. After 5 p.m. you aren't likely to do much burning.

Creams and lotions can't speed up tanning; however, they may reduce the danger of burning. Remember though, you can still burn through creams if you stay out long enough.

In addition, water in the pool or lake or perspiration wash away much of the cream in a short time. Remember too, to protect your eyes and hair to prevent damage. A sun hat may keep your hair from becoming brittle and hard to manage, while dark glasses or gauze pads may help protect your eyes.

If it is cloudy and somewhat cool don't assume the sun is gone. Some of the worst burns of the summer occur when people think the sun's rays are covered by clouds. You must use the same sun care precautions whenever you're out in the sun.

Enjoy the outdoor life of the summer months without painful burns or peeling and flaking skin—don't overdo the tanning. If you can remember the saying "everything in moderation" you should save yourself a lot of discomfort.

Freezing can prevent waste of perishable food items

Going on vacation and wondering what to do with some of the food in the refrigerator?

DON'T WASTE IT! With a little special handling you can save it for your return. Food costs money, so it's just good sense to keep the quality in the food you buy. Knowing how to store food properly for a long or short time will help save money.

If perishable fruits and vegetables cannot be eaten, freeze them according to specific directions or share with neighbors and friends.

Eggs: Crack eggs into clean muffin tins, stir gently to break yolk, freeze. When frozen, package in freezer bags. Thaw in refrigerator; use within 24 hours. Excellent for cooking. (storage time—12 months)

Milk: For better quality, freeze in freezer containers allowing room for expansion. Thaw in refrigerator. Freezing may affect the flavor and appearance, but can be used for cooking and baking. (storage time—one month)

Cottage Cheese: Dry curd cottage cheese freezes better than cream-style. For better quality, use a frozen container. If you do freeze cream-style, it can be used in lasagna or put in a blender for dips or cheesecake. Thaw in refrigerator. (storage time—three months)

Cold meat, hot dogs, or bacon: Freezing may alter the flavors slightly. Wrap tightly for freezing. Thaw in refrigerator. (storage time—one month)

Dog owners can take steps to stop heart worm disease

By SANDRA ZGODA

A very sad thing is happening to my dog, and I want to tell you about it so you can keep it from happening to your dog.

Two weeks ago, my husband and I discovered that our 12-year-old English Setter, Spider, has heartworms. There is a good chance he is going to die.

We first suspected something was wrong when we took Spider to the lake with us and he wouldn't go near the water. Imagine a small child avoiding a mud puddle or refusing chocolate and you will understand our bewilderment over Spider's behavior.

The next day we took him to our veterinarian who performed a blood test and found evidence of heartworm larvae, called microfilaria, in his blood.

I thought Spider would be given some pills or a quick injection to take care of the problem. Unfortunately, the disease is more serious than I had imagined. A two-phase treatment program does exist; however, it is costly and dangerous:

1) Oral medication must be given for 7-10 days to destroy the young worms; and

2) after the larvae are destroyed, drugs are given intravenously to kill the adult worms. This requires the dog to be hooked to an I.V. machine for three days or longer, depending on his strength and reaction to treatment.

If all this sounds involved and complex, it is. Complications may arise at any time. In our case, Spider has been unable to progress past his first pill. We gave him medication on a Friday evening and spent Saturday afternoon away from the house, unaware of the severity of our problem. We arrived home to find Spider out of his doghouse, barking in the sun, too weak to move and nearly dead.

What we did not know is that many dogs, especially older dogs, have serious trouble taking heartworm medication and therefore should be watched very closely. They should be kept out of the sun in a cool place with plenty of fresh drinking water and food.

A veterinarian should be notified if the dog vomits, faints or becomes extremely weak. Your vet may advise you, as ours did, to discontinue the pills until the dog is stronger. It takes a lot of stamina to handle the war between medication and heartworms.

Right now, we are waiting for Spider to regain strength. While we wait, the worms continue their attack. Soon, we will begin his medicine again and this time — with our new awareness — we hope to pull him through the pill-taking period.

If all goes well, we will then be ready for the final, most difficult, phase of treatment — the I.V. process. The drugs given now are highly toxic. They must destroy living worms up to 15 inches which have invaded the right side of the heart and important arteries.

The dog struggles to maintain life while holding all of this death. The hideous corpses must float out of the heart, through the bloodstream, and be expelled. At any point during this process and for the next six weeks of recuperation, a dead heartworm may interfere with the heart's natural blood flow and cause a heart attack.

The real tragedy of this story is that it need never have happened. Preventative heartworm medication is simple to administer and available from any veterinarian. It may be given in pill or liquid form.

Mosquitoes carry heartworm disease; therefore medication must be administered daily during the warm season. That is all it takes to prevent heartworm. It is too simple an act of love to ignore.

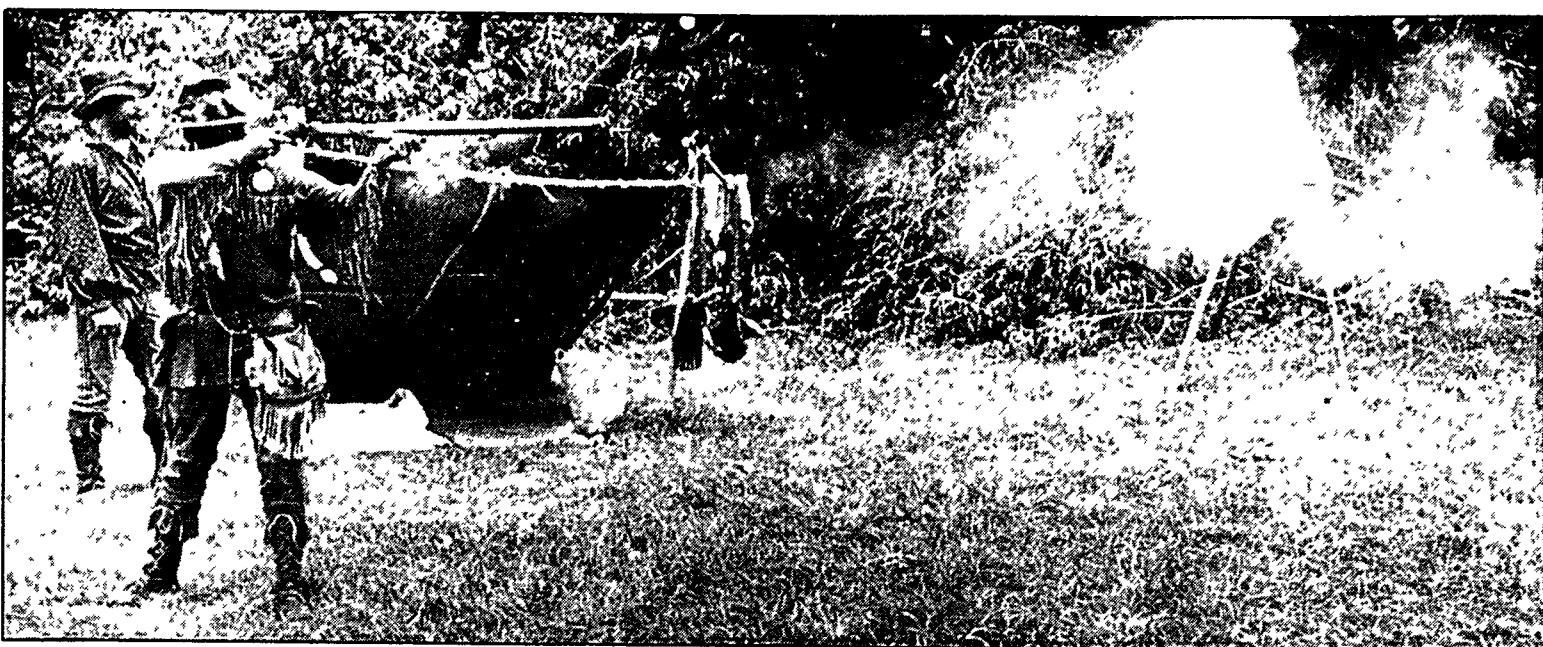

Dogs with severe heartworms may display symptoms. They often become listless, develop a dull coat, cough, lose weight and breath with difficulty.

What I would like to impress upon you is the display of any one of these symptoms means that your dog is already in the advanced stages of this disease. You cannot afford to wait for signs. By the time you see evidence of heartworms, your dog is deathly sick.

It may already be too late for Spider. He is old and weak. The odds are against him. We were ignorant and we may pay for that ignorance with the life of our beloved and trusting companion. It is too high a price to pay.

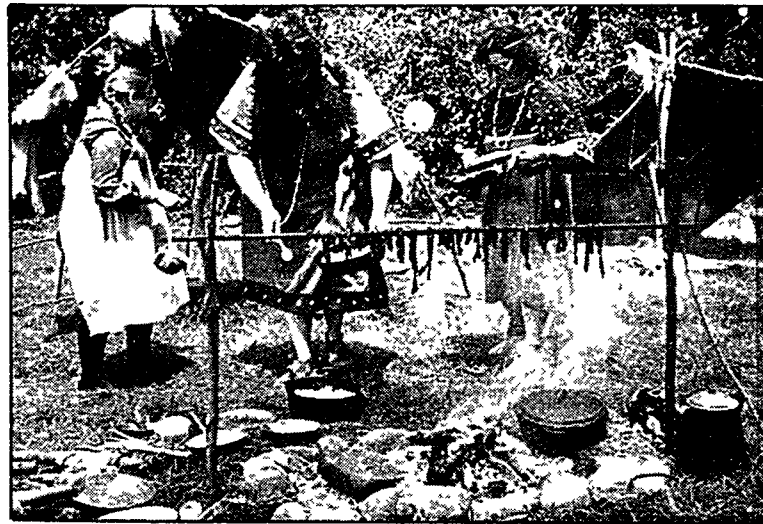

Call your veterinarian today and have your dog checked. Please begin a program of prevention and, if you have time, say a prayer for our little Spider.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Sandy Zgoda is a freelance writer who resides in Novi. Her story is true and is designed as a warning to area dog owners.

Muzzles and vittles

One of the featured attractions in the Fourth of July parade and the Mill Race activities afterwards was a demonstration of frontier firearms and lifestyle put on by the "Free Voyagers" muzzle loader club of Northville, a newly-formed group concerned with preserving the memory of early American pioneer life. ## Here's tips on boat safety

The Red Cross suggests that anyone operating a boat know and observe these rules to prevent tragedy on the waterways this summer:

When boats are meeting in or nearly in a head-on position, each should keep to the right.

When boats are in a crossing position, the one on the right has the right of way.

When one boat is overtaking another, the boat being overtaken has the right of way.

Power boats should give way to manually propelled or sailboats unless the sailboat is overtaking the powerboat.

Small sailboats in a channel should give way to powerboats which cannot operate outside the channel.

Sailboats to windward should keep out of the way of sailboats to leeward.

If the man overboard can swim, a life saving device can be thrown to him. The boat is stopped, the victim swims to it, and is pulled aboard.

When a weak or non-swimmer falls overboard, first swing the stern away from the side from which he fell, toss him a flotation device if he is not already wearing one, and promptly maneuver the boat back to him. Keep a close watch on him at all time and make the approach as you would to a mooring—at reduced speed and slightly to windward if possible. Shut off the motor within a few feet of the victim, and bring him aboard.

The Red Cross also suggests that boat operators and passengers observe these safeguards:

Carry a Coast Guard-approved personal flotation device for every person aboard. Insist that weak swimmers and non-swimmers wear them at all times and that everyone wear them when weather conditions are hazardous.

Keep passengers to a safe number—don't overload the craft.

Don't overpower your boat. Ask your dealer what horsepower is safe for its sizes.

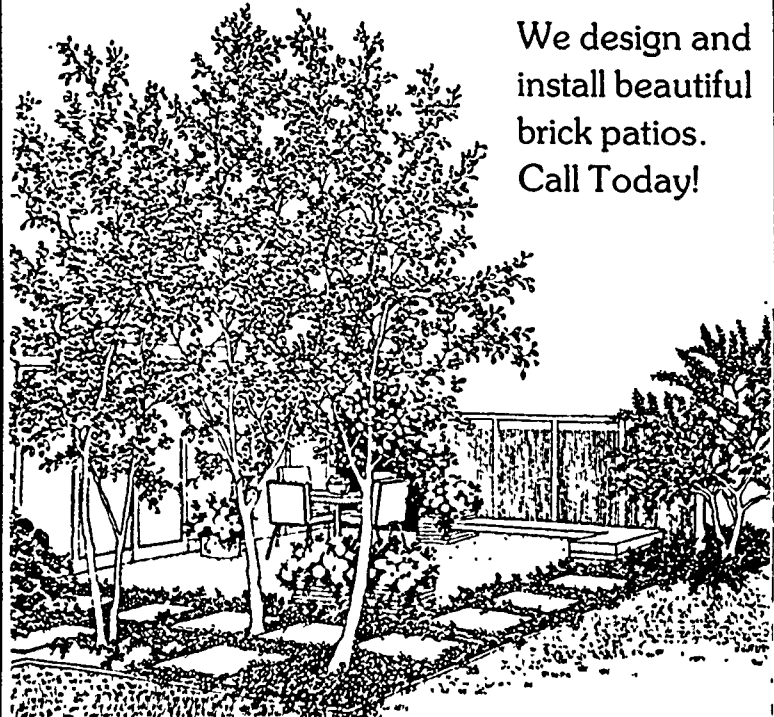

Don't smoke while refueling.

Equip your boat with essential gear—anchor, oars, boat hook, extra line, fire extinguisher, tool kit and first aid kit. Running lights are a must for nighttime operation.

Check weather service forecasts before taking your boat out on open water. Take a transistor radio along to keep posted on changing weather conditions.

Most boats if swamped or capsized will stay on the surface, so stay with the boat in such accidents until help arrives. But in dangerous or extremely cold water, try to get to shore as fast as possible.

Panowicz off to track finals

Northville's Cindy Panowicz, following her excellent sophomore season on the Mustang track team last spring, is keeping at it throughout the summer.

Last week she competed in the six-state regional meet of The Athletic Congress (TAC) held in Muskegon and qualified to compete in four events at the national TAC finals at Duke University, Durham, North Carolina next week — the long jump the 100 and 400-meter hurdles — and the heptathlon. She took first in each event against competitors from across Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, West Virginia and Kentucky.

Panowicz's talents in the hurdle events and long jump are by now well known to her hometown followers, but she has recently added a newly-discovered talent as a heptathlete.

The heptathlon is a two-day, seven-event competition consisting of the high jump, shot put, javelin throw, long jump, 200 meters, 800 meters and 100 meter low hurdles.

In the 100 meter lows she clocked a good 14.92 seconds, leaped 5'3" in the high jump (a height that would usually win at most high school meets), registered a shot put of 26 feet even, turned in a 26.0 second 200 meters, long jumped 16'8", notched an excellent time of 2:31.3 seconds in the 800 meters and hurled the javelin 64 feet.

Her qualification time in the 100 meter lows was 14.9 and she clocked a 65.3-second 400 meter hurdles. Her 17'3" long jump also earned her a ticket to Durham. "Actually I was a little disappointed with my 400 meter lows time," she said. "I'm hoping to get it down to 62 or 63 next week."

She admitted she surprised even herself with her performance in the new events and credited hometown coaches Brian Turnbull and Ann Dayton with helping her prepare for the heptathlon events. "I liked the high jump," she said, adding she may give the event an occasional try on the varsity squad next season.

Mustang cheerleaders place second in state

By B.J. MARTIN

Three cheers for the Northville cheerleading team — one for the squad, one for Jill Anger and one for Jody Folino.

The Northville varsity cheerleading team took second last week at the United States Cheerleader's Association (USCA) camp at Eastern Michigan University, qualifying to compete in the USCA National Grand Championships held in Lansing next month.

At the four day camp running from Thursday, July 7, through Sunday, July 10, the squad spent four days learning cheers, stunts and pyramids, tumbling and mini-trampoline skills and attended sessions for squad evaluation and leadership.

An extremely well-rehearsed Clintondale varsity team swept first place honors at Eastern.

"I think it's really a great accomplishment when you consider the circumstances," said cheerleading coach Licia Maguire. "Our first day there, Jody fell off a mount and hit her head and had to be taken to the hospital. She missed the whole first day and we had to change all the cheers."

It turned out Folino's injury wasn't serious. In fact, the senior took first place in the talent category in individual competition on the strength of a dance routine. She took third in individual competition overall, while classmate Anger, also co-captain, took second in individual competition overall.

The individual performances by Folino and Anger also qualify them for further competition on the national level.

"The Northville Varsity team displayed outstanding skill and leadership," directors of the camp reported. "They are a fine reflection on their school and a credit to their city and state."

"The girls took five new cheers to camp," Maguire said. "Each one took second overall. We're going to take a break for a while then work on the same cheers a little more. We'll make a few adjustments."

Quality qualifiers

Local golfers in tilt

Seven Northville youngsters were among the Meadowbrook junior golfers who qualified for the seventh annual Meadowbrook Junior Invitational to be held on Tuesday, July 26.

They will be competing with 110 junior golfers from 20 area clubs, each of whom must qualify to represent his own club. Youngsters compete in their own age category, 9-years-old through 17-years-old.

Meadowbrook juniors from Northville who qualified are Brad Telepo, representing 9-year-old boys; Bryan Reid, representing 10-year-old boys; and Brian DeAlexandris of Northville, representing 11-year-old boys.

In the 18-hole category, winning qualifiers included Tom Triscari, representing 14-year-old boys and Dan Sullivan, representing 17-year-old boys.

Girls who will play 18 holes are Lisa DeAlexandris of Northville, 14-years-old, and Diane Triscari, 15-years-old. There is no nine-hole competition for girls.

In addition to Meadowbrook, junior golfers will be representing Chemung Hills, Dearborn, Plum Hollow, Western, Grosse Ile, Barton Hills, Detroit Golf Club, Forest Lake, Pine Lake, Farmington and Edgewood.

Recreation Briefs

JUNIOR TENNIS TOURNEY

The Northville Recreation Department will host a Junior Boys and Girls Singles and Doubles Tennis Tournament next week. For information on how to register for the tourney, which takes place July 29-31, contact tournament director Kerry Hlady at 981-2246. Registration fee is $8.

ADULT DOUBLES TOURNEY

Men and women's doubles teams (non-mixed) age 18 or over are invited to compete in the Novi Tennis Tournament Series August 5-7 at Novi High School. Trophies will be awarded for the winner and runner-up doubles teams in men's and women's divisions. Non- Novi residents are charged $10 to register. Deadline for registration is August 3. For further information, phone 349-1976.

ROTTEN SNEAKER CONTEST

Kids 12 and under are invited to bring their most beat-up sneakers down to the Northville Community Center parking lot today (Wednesday, July 20) to compete in the Recreation Department's third annual "Rotten Sneaker Contest." Prizes will be awarded to the most used (not abused) pair of sneakers. All contestants will be asked to model their sneakers in front of a panel of "celebrity" judges. Register at the event.

SOCCER REGISTRATION

If you missed last Friday's deadline to register for Northville Youth Soccer this fall, don't panic — registration is still being accepted, but a $5 late fee will be surcharged. Soccer officials, however, need to make out their fall schedules and make arrangements for coaches and referees, so Northville families are urged to register as soon as possible.

'Jody and Jill' honored individually

The squad will travel to the Lansing Civic Center August 17-20 for the national USCA championships with some 6,000 participants from 38 states across the country, all chosen at state championships like the one in Ypsilanti.

The national championships at the USCA headquarters are the largest held anywhere in the world for participants in the "pep arts."

Each program is directed by a fulltime director and a teaching staff of college students. The camps are dedicated to the professional teaching of cheerleading skills, pom pom routines and drill team routines to providing the best possible situation for teams and individuals to compete in their chosen activity.

One of the benefits of the camp is the teaching of new cheers and the exchange of ideas for squads to use in the future.

Mack 9 get a high 'Nielsen rating,' but July heat wave leaves team cold

Last week may have been a hot one, but not so for the Northville Connie Mack team, who dropped two of three games to settle into a 10-6 season mark.

A talented North Farmington-West Bloomfield squad jumped all over sub-par pitching to top Northville 10-1 on Tuesday. Steve Schrader, whose two hits comprised half Northville's output, drove in Northville's only run with a double. Mickey Newman's triple and Dave Longridge's single were the only other hits.

Thursday, Hartland jumped off to an early 7-0 lead, eventually handing Northville a 9-6 defeat. Todd Bartling led Northville with three hits; Newman added two more. Mike Kaley and Schrader collected two RBI each in the contest.

The squad rebounded with one of the best games of the season against a tough Westland squad in a 5-3 win Saturday. Dan Nielsen continued his excellent pitching, scattering eight hits and striking out seven. He has now pitched three straight games without walking a batter.

Nielsen now carries a 3-2 record with a 2.35 earned run average. He leads the team in strikeouts with 40 in 35 innings of work.

Newman and Bartling gave Northville all the runs the team needed, each doubling in two runs, while a key defensive play in the seventh by left fielder Bob Pegrum — a diving backhanded grab at a sinking line drive — preserved the win.

Newman leads the Connie Mack in batting average (.417), hits (20), doubles (7) and home runs (4).

Also hitting over .300 are Bartling (.362), Schrader (.357), Longridge (.320) and Pegrum (.300), who has a 3-2 record on the mound. Bartling, Schrader and Newman each have 14 RBI.

Contributing consistently good defense for Northville are Todd Deal, Mike Kaley, Longridge and Steve Frelick.

Mantle Gold strains toward .500 mark

The Northville Gold squad split a pair of games for the second week in a row to stay back in the pack in Mickey Mantle League play with a 5-7 record.

Last Thursday, Gold rallied for five runs in the first inning, then as coach Bob Peterson said, "fell asleep at bat," while Detroit Mic Mac rolled past with a 7-5 win.

Mic Mac picked up two runs in the second, fourth and fifth innings and one run in the sixth, while Gold was held to six hits throughout the contest.

Infielders Rob Workman and John Meadows got two each, Workman driving in two runs. Credited with one RBI each were center fielder Fred Cahill and third baseman Chris Woodman.

On Sunday, Gold bounced back to paste South Farmington 13-5. In the team's biggest offensive thrust of the season, Gold batters rapped out 18 hits.

Cahill and Meadows had three each, but the big blast for Gold was right fielder Craig Kozler's long three-run homer to left center. Kozler added another run later with a sacrifice fly.

Workman drew the starting assignment and scattered ten hits — nine

South Farmington runners were left stranded. At the plate, Workman had two hits and two RBI to continue his hot hitting.

Shortstop Scott Peterson, third baseman Chris Woodman and catcher Mark Olsen had two hits each.

Director post to be discussed

A Northville Recreation Commission committee appointed to establish criteria for the selection of a new Recreation Department Director is expected to meet tonight to discuss what those criteria should be.

Once the requirements for the new director are established, the commission will take steps to promote the joint city-township's search for a new full-time director.

Aside from supervising, implementing and drawing up recreation department activities, the director is also responsible for financial accounts of department revenues and expenditures, and regular reports to the Recreation Commission and city and township authorities.

Interim Director Pete Talbot, appointed to serve until the commission selects the permanent replacement, has expressed interest in the post, and commissioners reportedly have also received one other application. It is unlikely that name or the name of any other candidate for the job will be released at least until commissioners name finalists to be interviewed.

In mid-June, when Kricitz announced his decision to resign, Recreation Commission Chairman L.T. Sylvestre projected what he called a "very rough guess" of 90 days would be required to find a new director, thereby placing the time at about mid-September.

Talbot has administered the department since the resignation of former director Ed Kricitz July 1.

Blue team splits two

The Northville Blue Mickey Mantle baseball squad stayed a game above .500 last week by knocking off Union Lake II by a 9-5 score Saturday.

Reliever Chris Willner picked up the win after starting pitcher Greg Ryba allowed five hits in six innings of work. Willner permitted two hits in two innings.

Ryba also carried a hot bat, connecting for a single and a double in three trips.

Mike Wissman and Paul Newitt had two hits each, Wissman picking up two RBI and scoring one run, and Newitt a run and an RBI on a triple and a single.

The win raised the Blue team's season mark to 8-7, with games scheduled this week against Taylor Thursday and Howell Saturday.

Mets win Northville 'G' league championship

The Mets captured the Northville "G" League championship last week, sweeping all three of its games during the final week to finish the year with a 14-2 record.

The Phillies ended just two games shy at 12-4 and the Pirates finished third with an 11-5 season mark.

The Mets closed out their season with victories over the Pirates, Braves and in the 3-2 season finale, the Padres.

Mets coaches Tony Ventura and Ed Pearce credited the team's success to "excellent team attitude, spirit and concentration." It didn't hurt that the Mets also had four players who hit over .500 for the season — Steve Ventura, "Gigfried Shyu, Steve Pearce and R.C. Heaton with Jeff Duwell, Mike Padden and James Norbeck also contributing offensive punch.

Pitching mainstays Pearce and Ventura were ably backed by bullpen aces Heaton and Padden and the solid development of the Mets defense, including the play of Andy Wayne, Pat Fagan, Pat Moylan, Kurt Cleveland and Zack Voelker.

Jason Huizing and Tim Riha were first-year players who contributed a great deal to the considerable overall team spirit.

League commissioner Dan Bastian was commended by Mets coaches and coaches of the other teams for his "great job" of planning and administration.

In other league action, Pirates starting pitcher Heath Meyers and reliever Steve Bastian held the hard-hitting Phillies to one unearned run on only one hit, a two-out single in the bottom of the sixth by Darrin Marsh to break the no-hitter. Catcher Troy Ternes was instrumental in the 4-1 win by preventing Phillies from advancing on the base paths.

The Pirates started quickly, rallying for four runs off hard-throwing Ray Jacques. With two outs in the first inning, Ed Ruiz singled in Meyers, then scored with Ternes on a double by Mike Lobbia. Lobbia came in on a single by Scott Mroz.

The Pirates continued the pressure, but good Phillies defense and clutch pitching led to eight stranded Pirate baserunners.

Last Wednesday, the Cubs turned back the Giants 13-5. Mark Bolda pitched a 3-hitter and allowed only two runs. Paul Smith socked a 3-run homer. Pat Balai contributed two RBI in the win.

Cable TV stations to hook up Northville sports market

Here's your big chance to be TV stars, Northville sportsters. Omnicom, the cable television community now servicing approximately 3,500 city and township homes, is expanding its local sports coverage to include Northville athletic events.

While Northville's sports must split air time with other communities served by the company — including Plymouth, Canton and Belleville and possibly Hamtramck in the near future — there still will be many opportunities for viewers to see high-quality television productions of local sports events.

Already the Northville July 3 Field Day activities have been broadcast several times on local origination channels 8 and 15, the cable stations that will carry the local sports broadcasts.

"We're trying to do as much programming in each community as is possible," says Omnicom Sports Director Keith Lamp. "Not just baseball, football, basketball, et cetera, but also things like fishing and archery. We're trying to set up an overall sports presentation."

For each event Omnicom covers, a two or three-person crew plus an announcer or two take out what is called a "suitcase studio," including a van, two or three cameras, a tape deck, audio board and amplifier. Superimposed video graphics, such as names, scores, statistics and so on, can be added to videotaped transmissions later.

Video crews consist for the most part of interns at local schools or colleges, but local broadcasting talent is being picked over carefully by Omnicom.

'We're just now starting to get rolling in Northville.'

— Keith Lamp, Omnicom Sports Director

sports staff to find budding sportscasters.

The biggest problem for the staff is that of demand. As people grow familiar with the capabilities of local transmissions, it is expected the two-hour blocks of time on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays specifically allotted for sports will become hot property — perhaps the most popular all set to cover an event like a baseball game and it gets rained out, as just happened (last week)."

Requests for air time must be made as far in advance of the date of the event as possible, Lamp says. At least two weeks — barring scheduling conflicts and assuming some degree of viewer demand — is presently appropriate notice, although that figure appears likely to increase by fall, as high school sports kick into gear.

In spite of the emphasis Lamp places on having an "all-around sportscast," he concedes it's most likely that varsity sports — particularly football — will be the station's big draws. Broadcasts are expected to be considerably more professional than the "game films" coaches have traditionally used.

This summer is the first time Omnicom has explored the concept of sports coverage in this area, and contacts with the Northville recreation and athletic community are still being established. "We're just now starting to get rolling in Northville," Lamp says.

If recent encouraging remarks of Recreation Commission members on Omnicom's coverage are any indication, Lamp will have plenty of offers to keep him rolling. At a meeting last week, commissioners discussed seeking more local sports air time, as the Field Day broadcasts had been well received.

Northville's Sting wins NY tourney

The Northville Sting Under-19 girls soccer team last week took home the championship of the fourth annual Yorktown (New York) Soccer Tournament by topping Yorktown 3-0 in two overtimes in the championship game Sunday, July 10.

En route to the final, the Sting knocked off Lewisboro (N.Y.) 1-0 in the semifinal — for Lewisboro, it was the first defeat in four years. Also, Northville beat Connecticut state champions Wethersfield in the previous round.

Coach Ed Pettit credited a strong defense and timely scoring for the Sting's success. His daughter Kim, an all-league player for the Northville varsity team last spring, tallied one goal and teammate Jill Jensen two in the victory, while Mary Jo Taylor of Southfield contributed a superb defensive game.

Other Northville players on the Sting are Kris Pettit, Jane Moylan, Jill Jensen, Sue Borthwick, Jill Berner, April Karl and Nancy Poirer.

The Sting will compete next week (Saturday, July 30, and Sunday, July 31) in the Sarnia Bluewater Soccer Classic in Sarnia, Ontario.

Johnsons, Sreedharan reap Novi net honors

Northville tennis players made strong showings at the Novi Parks and Recreation Junior Singles Tennis Tournament held last weekend at Novi High School.

Boys and girls under age 18 participated in the tourney, which drew 22 participants overall.

Breita Johnson, Northville's 13-year-old tennis upstart, took first place in girls singles.

Hot off her championship in women's singles at the Northville Invitational Tennis Tournament in June, Breita topped her 16-year-old sister, Sarah Johnson, in the final, 6-1, 6-3. The tourney drew nine participants in girls singles.

Northville varsity first-seed Arvind Sreedharan, 17, was beaten in three tough sets by 17-year-old Bob Martin of Novi, 6-4, 5-7, 6-3 for the boys singles title. Sreedharan finished second of the 13 entries.

The Johnson sisters and Sreedharan each took home trophies for their participation.

Stony Creek run set

The 12th annual Stony Creek distance run will be held at Stony Creek Metropark near Rochester/Utica on Thursday, August 4, at 5:30 p.m.

This is the first late afternoon run, according to Bing Eberhart, assistant park superintendent and meet director. Race day registration begins at 4:30 p.m.

There will be six race divisions: Ages 1-10 — 2.5 miles; Ages 11-17 — 2.5 miles; Ages 18-30 — 2.5 miles; Ages 31-35 — 2.5 miles; Ages 46 and up — 2.5 miles; and Open Division — 5 miles.

This event should be considered a "fun run," and not just for experienced runners. Ribbons or other rewards, including trophies, will be presented.

This year there are entry fees: Ages 1 to 10 — $2 by pre-registration, $3 the day of the race; Ages 11 and up — $3 by pre-registration, $4 the day of the race.

In addition there is a park vehicle entry fee of $2 (daily). Advance registration must be placed by Thursday, July 28.

For further information, contact Stony Creek Metropark offices at 781-4242.
