Only the beginning

West Main resident Lynn Paquette found her snow shovel early Tuesday morning to begin the first snow removal of the new season. While the winter solstice, the official beginning of winter, will be the latest (5:30 a.m.

December 22) for the remainder of the century, according to University of Michigan astronomers, nobody needed the calendar yesterday to tell that winter has arrived. Record photo by John Galloway.

City asked to reconsi Winner's Circle transfer

By KEVIN WILSON

City council made the first moves in a process that may ultimately lead to the transfer of James Rea's liquor license and dance permit from the Winner's Circle Bar on Main to a new Rea venture on North Center.

After concluding regular business Monday night but prior to adjournment, Mayor Paul Vernon told council he had been having periodic discussions with Rea in the months since the city rejected his transfer application when Rea refused to drop an attached dance permit from the license. Vernon showed a letter he had received from Rea requesting council reconsideration of that denial.

"I've talked to Mr. Rea on several occasions," Vernon said. "As you know, my principal concern (when rejecting the transfer) was with the dance permit portion of the license and some of the problems that could result from that."

Although several council members, including the mayor, have stated a willingness to reconsider the transfer if Rea were to reapply without the dance permit, Vernon said Rea was unwilling to part with the permit.

He and Rea, though, are "in complete agreement" that a transfer including the permit could be worked out if there were city-imposed restrictions and conditions upon its operation, Vernon added.

The mayor said he had then spoken with the city attorney, who advised that the city could probably not restrict the Liquor Control Commission-issued license and permit directly, but does have authority to regulate "dance halls" under an ordinance that also restricts arcades, pool halls and adult book stores.

Vernon suggested the council amend that city ordinance accordingly as the first step in a process leading to reconsideration.

Council members questioned the mayor's willingness to consider the transfer with dance permit attached, but Vernon said he had discussed restricting the use only after ascertaining that Rea is "unwilling to drop it. He

Santa's visiting Northville

Santa is spending quite a bit of time here listening to Christmas wishes. He's also available for home and club visits.

Thanks to the Northville Jaycees and the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce and the Retail Merchants Association, Santa Claus is very real.

He is sitting in his house in the town park by the clock every Friday from 5-8 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday from noon to 5 p.m. Sponsored by the chamber and merchants, this Santa (Pat Howley) is hearing local youngsters' wishes for the third year.

Santa's available in full costume for visits to families and organizations through the Northville Jaycees. He may be reserved through December 23. The $10 for a 15-minute visit goes back into the community, the Jaycees explain, in local projects.

Santa visits, hears wishes and passes out candy canes. The Jaycee Women are assisting by making his reservations. "The more people the merrier it is," say President Marty Barnum and Pam Hoetger who are arranging the visits. Call Hoetger at 348-6640.

Prison foes to seek aid with telethon

A "telethon" to local residents will originate from Northville Township Hall tonight as the last effort this year of the Concerned Citizens of Western Wayne County committee fighting the proposed prison at Five Mile and Sheldon.

Kitty Rhoades, committee co-chairperson, explained Monday that the telethon will begin at 6:30 p.m. with 10 volunteers using the township's lines to telephone local residents.

Each will be asked to write a letter to Governor James Blanchard opposing the proposed prison at the former Plymouth Center for Human Development property on Sheldon and Five Mile.

In addition, Rhoades explained, every resident contacted will be asked to telephone three friends to request them to write letters before the end of the year.

Rhoades said the committee hopes the "chain letter" approach will be effective in getting more mail to the governor and keeping the issue alive.

Other volunteers, she said, are going door to door in subdivisions asking homeowners to write.

Little has been heard recently of plans to move the site of the planned prison from Five Mile at Beck, where utilities already had been installed by the state for a medium security prison, to Five Mile at Sheldon closer to the planned senior citizen village on former Wayne County Training School property.

Rhoades said this is because an environmental impact study presently is being done for the proposed new site. She warned that the committee feels opposition must continue.

"We're dead," she declared, "if the committee runs out of money — or Karoub." James H. Karoub Associates, Lansing-based lobbying firm, was hired by the committee and the township to fight the move.

Contributions to Concerned Citizens of Western Wayne County may be sent to Box 708, Northville, 48167.

All residents are being asked to voice their opposition in letters to Governor Blanchard. He may be addressed at the State Capitol, Lansing, 48909.

Sheldon site included in revised prison plan

A revised, long-range regional prison facilities plan, which continues to show a regional prison at Five Mile and Beck but includes a Sheldon Road location as an "alternate," is expected to be submitted for approval by the Michigan legislature before the month is out.

Representative Gerald Law (R-Plymouth) said the department of corrections has drafted a revised plan that includes the possible use of Plymouth Center as a prison. The department had submitted a long-range planning proposal in 1982 that was approved by the House but remained in committee in the Senate when the session closed.

"The irony of it is," Law said, "that if it had gone through the Senate last year, the corrections people told me, they would have had no choice — they wouldn't have been able to propose the

"Now they've got this revised plan with that listed as an alternate location, which is not in our favor," he added. "I'd have preferred to see it come back in the same form as last year. And it wasn't the corrections people who made the decision to include the alternate site, they were told to do it."

Those telling the corrections department to revise its long-range planning document were said to be backers of the proposed Plymouth Center alternate in the department of management of budget. An immediate savings approaching $20 million is projected by that department in abandoning the Beck location in favor of renovating the center property.

Summer tax collection agreed to by city

By KEVIN WILSON

They still don't like it, but council members Monday night agreed to have the city make summer tax collections for Northville Public Schools.

Acting in response to an "informal request" by school superintendent George Bell that the city and district begin negotiations to set a price for payment to the city for making the collection, council authorized city manager Steven Walters to do so. It added a resolution, however, stating council's displeasure with the district's decision to proceed with summer tax collections.

"There is no advantage to residents or our taxpayers for us to refuse to do it," Walters said. "The schools would go ahead and do it anyway, and Wayne County would be the collecting agency. People would either have to pay by mail or go down there (to county offices in Detroit)."

The county charges a one percent collection fee which the city does not, Walters noted, so having the city perform the collection would save taxpayers at least that amount.

In addition, the city itself would lose interest earnings on the money collected prior to the time it is paid out to the schools, Walters continued.

Finally, late payment penalties charged by the county far exceed those charged by the city and law provides that late fees charged by school districts making summer collections not surpass those of the collecting agency.

"I think it's time to give in," said council member Carolann Ayers. "We all understood our arguments for not wanting them to do it, but I don't think they ever did."

When the state first authorized the summer collections and provided that districts could bypass uncooperative local governments, council members

Meijer representatives show plans to officials

By B.J. MARTIN

Meijer Thrifty Acres developers took a giant step toward constructing a shopping complex on 34 acres of land at Eight Mile and Haggerty roads, with the Northville Township Planning Commission's contingent approval of preliminary site plans last week.

Developers still need to obtain from township commissioners final site plan approval, which will likely take place early next year to permit work to begin in spring. At its meeting Tuesday of last week, however, commissioners made it clear concerns they voiced about about sewage disposal, landscaping and traffic flow needed to be addressed before they would approve those final plans.

It is expected the shopping center would set the tone for greatly increased development of neighboring lands for business use over the next decade and beyond (see accompanying story). Preliminary plans for the center include a 185,000 square foot central store, with a parking lot designed to accommodate more than 1,000 cars, plus extensive landscape modification by planting trees and building berms.

Although plans for water supply to the shopping center appeared satisfactory, commissioners were uncertain about the routing of waste material from the site. The preliminary plans called for the center's sewage to be conducted by a 400-foot 10-inch pipe to join existing sewer facilities to the west.

Commission Vice-Chairman Bernard Baldwin said he was unsure such a long and slender conduit for disposal of highly-pressurized sewage was a good idea. "One foot of error in something like that and the whole thing could wind thinks that it is necessary." Rea said Tuesday morning he believes the dance permit, which allows band music and dancing but not other forms of entertainment, is crucial to the success of the new business he hopes to open.

Winner's Circle transfer issue is revived

"In this business, I'd have only three things to offer people, and those are food, drinks and entertainment," Rea said. "If I don't have some amusement for people, I might as well close up after 9 p.m. They'd go someplace else where there was entertainment."

Rea has characterized his intentions for the new location as primarily food-service oriented as opposed to the present liquor-oriented operation. "The experience of food places shows people leave after 9 p.m. if you don't provide some kind of amusement," he said.

In his present location, he said, video games, pool tables and other games provide amusement. Plans for the as-yet-unnamed North Center business call for elimination of many of these items.

"If I go over there (Center) without some kind of amusement for people, I don't think I could survive," Rea said.

In response to council questions at Monday's meeting, at which Rea was not represented except in the mayor's comments, Vernon said revision of the city ordinance could include restriction on the hours during which a band could perform and prohibition of Sunday operation. Other restrictions that would keep any such business from becoming "a disco-type place with all the nuisance that implies" could also be adopted, he said.

Vernon further added that Rea had agreed to close down the Winner's Circle for a "significant period of time" before opening his new venture. Citing the renovation of Joe's Little Bar into Getzie's Pub, when construction time stretched over a period of many months, Vernon said as a result the bar "got rid of most of the bad clientele."

Similar results would be hoped for in a Winner's Circle shut-down, he said.

Rea said Tuesday the delay in gaining the liquor license transfer alone would force a closing of "a couple months. My lease ends here January 22 and I couldn't be ready to move by then if they gave me the word now."

He said he was somewhat disappointed in that lapse of time because he "had hoped I could operate through the racing season here and then open up the new business right away."

Closing down for a while would "hurt me, but would help bring in a better group of people," he added.

At Monday's meeting, council member Carolann Ayers, the only member to cast a vote approving the earlier request, said she thought council should reconsider its action.

Member Burton DeRusha, however, said he was "bewildered" by the mayor's apparent willingness to reconsider the issue if the dance permit were included. He added that "all these side issues to real issue I faced that night (when the transfer was denied), and that is moving a bar next door to a church."

Although the council vote to deny the transfer came after a public hearing during which members of Open Door Church protested the proposed location adjacent to their place of worship, only DeRusha said at that time that the church location was his main reason for opposing the transfer.

Vernon, Paul Folino and G. Dewey Gardner all said their opposition stemmed solely from the dance permit issue.

Gardner agreed to join Vernon in a two-member committee to go over the city ordinance with city manager Steven Walters and revise it to restrict the use of all dance permits within city limits.

"After that," Gardner said, "we can reconsider the particular case of the Winner's Circle."

Asked what advantage they could be in relocating the bar, Vernon said he was concerned with "removing an eyesore. I have spoken with many people who said they were disappointed the transfer did not go through because they believe we are now stuck with that location."

DeRusha and Folino, however, noted Vernon Huntton, owner of the building that houses the Winner's Circle, had recently appeared before the Historic District Commission seeking approval of plans to improve the building.

"Doesn't that solve your eyesore problem?" asked DeRusha.

Vernon and Gardner both said relocation of the bar would also help further development at the southwest corner of Main and Center. Vernon noted that Huntton's plans were questioned due to a balcony on the east side that "would encroach on the adjacent property. We know of plans to build a multi-story building on the site where the bowling alley parking lot is now."

Gardner added that plans are being developed not only for the lot but for the site of Northville Lanes itself. Although it would be premature to discuss them in detail, he said, closing the Winner's Circle could be seen as an asset in efforts to develop the corner.

DeRusha and Folino both expressed disappointment at the move toward possible relocation with the dance permit included. "I have no qualms about looking at dance permit regulations for other locations," Folino said. "I'd like to see him reapply without the dance permit, though."

Gardner noted that the ordinance could be revised, but council could still find against the transfer even after reconsideration.

Vernon said he would communicate to Rea that council "has received his request for reconsideration and that reconsideration has been deferred until we consider some revisions to our ordinance."

City agrees to collect

tried to dissuade school officials from making the summer collection. It was opposed on grounds it would cost taxpayers more money to make two collections for schools (one summer, one winter) and that taxpayers would be denied six months interest income on the money paid in July instead of December.

But Bell has projected huge cost savings to the district from improved cash flow due to summer collection — instead of paying interest to borrow money for operation from September to December, the district can earn interest for money collected in September but not needed until months later.

Although the city makes its own summer collection, city property owners will receive two separate bills next July for several reasons.

"The school district has already been notified and agreed that it will be a physically separate bill," Walters said. "If taxpayers were to get a single bill from the city that could be two or three times as much as they were expecting, it would generate a lot of confusion."

He added that city and school deadlines for payment differ, with the city tax due September 1 and school tax in mid-September.

"If it were on one bill, people might defer paying until mid-September and find themselves facing a two percent city penalty for being late," Walters said.

The cost of providing separate bills will be paid by the school district as part of the agreement to have the city make the collection, Walters said.

He projected that the agreement between city and schools would provide for payment of between $1 and $1.50 per tax bill.

Sheldon site part of prison plans

The new corrections plan still lists a Northville location as the top priority building site, but the rank ordering is somewhat different thereafter, with a Detroit location dropping from second to fourth.

"What doesn't make any sense to me," Law said, "is how they can propose Plymouth Center in the regional prison plan. It's not a three-tiered structure (to house a mix of minimum, medium and maximum security prisoners) — it wouldn't meet most of the criteria for what they said a regional prison should be, except for proximity."

Law said he had not yet had a chance to review the document in detail but had spoken with corrections department officials about its contents. "They haven't submitted it (for legislative approval) yet because, as I understand, one of their people is out of state and hasn't signed it. It will probably come to us this week or next."

With the legislature on the brink of partisan warfare over recall and reapportionment, Law noted, it is not at all certain that the plan can be passed through both chambers this year.

Any negotiation efforts to alter the plan could be hampered by the partisan split. Due to the recent recalls, the senate is certain to be divided in an even split of 18 members from each party by the time the plan reaches the upper chamber.

Club donates for three

During the Christmas season, Highland Lakes Women's Club is making donations to three local groups.

A donation of $100 is being made to Concerned Citizens of Western Wayne County for the fight against the proposed move of the prison to Five Mile and Sheldon, Betty Elstro, club treasurer, announced Monday.

Donations of $150 each are being made to the Civic Concern project which aids local needy and to FISH, emergency help organization.

Shopping complex to set planning tone

The Meijer shopping center firm's decision to go ahead on plans to develop a Northville location had been long awaited — Good Will Inc., a Meijer subsidiary, acquired the 34 acres of land southwest of Haggerty and Eight Mile roads in June, 1973, from Ruth and Nate Shapiro.

After years of unfavorable economic conditions that made the cost of development prohibitive, Meijer representatives approached planning commissioners last August 30 asking to consult the township engineer and planning consultant at the Meijer firm's expense.

Along with some of the most detailed and complete preliminary site plans ever presented before the planning commission, the firm, with the help of its township consultants, prepared an impact analysis documenting the effects the new location would have.

The analysis provides a useful and concise guide to a number of aspects of the proposed shopping center, including the following data:

ECONOMIC: Because Meijer stores are generally self-contained, with an internal security force and advanced fire protection system, the demand for public services is low while it is estimated Meijer will pay $150,000 per year in property taxes. In addition, sales taxes collected in the facility are returned to the community by the State of Michigan.

EMPLOYMENT: Approximately 275-300 people will be employed at the new location, including 30 managerial positions. The company has an extensive on-the-job training program and a merit advancement promotion policy.

PUBLIC SERVICE: Among the community services promoted by Meijer, Inc. are the Fred Meijer Community Service Award to employees who have made outstanding contributions to their community. The firm makes contributions to charities chosen by local award winners. Meijer, Inc. employees have contributed $358,000 to United Way campaign in 1983. The company provides educational scholarships to children of Meijer employees, and a new award offers an overseas exchange student program.

TRAFFIC FLOW: An average estimate of weekday traffic entering from Haggerty is 2,486 vehicles added to the present average daily traffic of 6,182 vehicles. The minimum road construction expected at the site would include a deceleration right-turn lane off southbound Haggerty and a left turn lane for northbound traffic. Discussions are continuing on whether road improvements would be more extensive and who would finance such improvements.

Commissioners grant conditional approval

up in someone's back yard," he said.

But consulting engineer Edward McNeely said the system could handle even peak volume sewage from the shopping complex. The strain of future developments in the area, however, might require further expansion of sewage disposal facilities, he added.

The preliminary plans called for expansion work along Haggerty Road, but little along Eight Mile. Along Haggerty Road, developers drew up plans for a center left-turn lane and a right-turn deceleration lane, to be added to the existing two lanes.

Meijer representatives said those proposed road modifications were drawn up according to specifications developers discussed with county road commission authorities.

But none of the commissioners said those specifications would be satisfactory. Enlarging Haggerty Road to five lanes in that area was more in line with what township planners considered appropriate.

Commissioner Marvin Gans said, "Even though it may come to the Wayne County Road Commission, we must have some control, too. We're responsible for the welfare and safety of our residents."

Meijer representatives likely will try to find a way to avoid paying the entire tab for widening Haggerty, since the road would probably be expanded in the near future anyway. But Gans told Meijer representatives, "If you're ahead of their schedule, we'll expect you to do a fair share."

Regarding the plan's landscaping and construction appearance, Baldwin noted that because of the property's topographically low setting in relation to neighboring lands, it would be "visible for nearly a mile" from the north along I-275 and Haggerty Road. That and the fact that neighboring industrial developments to the north have been attractively designed, commissioners agreed, dictated that the Meijer's development be as "aesthetically pleasing" as possible.

Commissioners made it clear that a complex similar to those Meijer stores located in nearby communities would be unsatisfactory when the time came for final approval.

"We want more than just trees and screening for the behind area," Gans said. Referring to other satisfactory township developments such as the Swan Harbour subdivision's landscaping, he told Meijer representatives,

"Put that kind of quality in there and we'd have something your company would be proud of, as well as our community... it behooves you to do that."

Developers plan to put more than 200 trees on the Meijer property — nearly double what township zoning ordinances require. But the placement of those trees, to permit optimum shading of the complex along Eight Mile and Haggerty roads, was a prime concern of commissioners.

Preliminary plans called for trees around the periphery of the property to be planted 15 feet apart at the center for each tree, but Township Planning Consultant Emanuel De Brincat said some communities have insisted on 10-foot placement. Although the exact density of plantings was left unspecified, Meijer representatives appeared to be willing to do whatever was possible.

Vice President of Real Estate for Meijer, Inc. John Stephenson said the company planned to ask the Wayne County Road Commission for approval to plant trees on county-owned property along Haggerty Road.

According to the preliminary site plans, clusters of trees would be placed at various places within the parking lot to "break up" the appearance of a flat, bland concrete lot. The plantings are expected to "soften" the appearance of the store and parking lot from points north, as well as from Haggerty Road to the east.

Architectural drawings of the store itself showed a marked difference in appearance from other Meijer stores. The building exterior primarily would be a dark brown brick. It will be 22 feet tall at its highest point, along the facade.

"When we were first considering development several years ago, I remembered one of your commissioners said, 'After all, this is Northville,'" Stephenson said. "We've tried to keep that in mind when designing this store."

One of the Commissioners who reacted unfavorably at first to the landscaping plans was Charles DeLand. But, by the end of Meijer representatives' presentation to commissioners, even DeLand was encouraged. "My first impressions were pretty negative," he said, "but I feel more confident about it now."

The eight Commission members present — William J. Bohan was absent — voted unanimously to approve the preliminary plan with the understanding their stated concerns must be alleviated for final approval.

Carolers invited to sing

Caggettown families are inviting former residents of the area east of Center and south of Base Line as well as anyone else who would like to join them in their annual carol sing.

It will be held throughout the Caggettown area beginning at 7 p.m. December 20 at the home of Tina Fries, 610 Base Line.

The carolers also would like the names of residents in the area who would enjoy having the carolers stop to sing at their homes. Nancy Berg, 348-2765, may be contacted.

The carolling families will return to 610 Base Line for cookies and treats. Santa will be there to welcome youngsters. Each participating family is asked to bring a plate of cookies.

The carol sing is an activity of the Caggettown Association which meets on alternate months throughout the year.

Deficit cut

City revises revenue projections upward

Budget amendments projecting a deficit reduction of $11,500 were approved by city council Monday night, along with amendments to reflect gains against the deficit reported earlier.

Due to projected increases in state shared revenue payments over original budget figures, the city can look forward to an increased reserve of $11,500 to offset the $450,000 deficit on the books, city manager Steven Walters said.

He called his revisions to the projection "conservative" in that they are based on having the next two quarterly payments equal the most recent one when at least one of them is likely to exceed it.

"Keep in mind that the present quarter we're talking about was August to October, the next one will include Christmas and should be higher," he said.

Shared revenues are paid based on state sales, income, single business and intangible taxes. Thus far this year, sales tax payments have been slightly below the city budget projection, but income and single business tax revenue sharings have been above anticipated levels. Shared revenues from intangibles taxes have been roughly on a par with the city budget figure.

Mayor Paul Vernon asked if the state Municipal Finance Commission had forwarded any reaction to the city's proposed deficit reduction plan calling for a balanced 1983-84 year and elimination of the deficit in succeeding years.

Walters said the MFC had made no official response but in informal discussion he believed the MFC was "skeptical about our budget including a wage freeze — I think they were concerned about how our labor negotiations would come out. So far, and it's too early to say for certain, but it appears that we're going to get that freeze on wages — we still have one contract in negotiation, but everyone else has so far agreed."

The wage freeze is a key element in city plans to balance the current year budget. If city employees all agree to the freeze, the gains against the deficit reflected in the past few budget amendments likely will exist at year-end. Wage increase, however, would require amendments showing the added costs.

Council also approved amendments to the Allen Terrace operating fund and general fund budgets. The Allen Terrace amendments reflect the year-end surplus of $30,000 reported recently and the reduction in general fund contributions to the Allen Terrace fund allowed by that surplus.

The general fund amendments reflect the reduced payment to Allen Terrace, police vehicle purchase costs exceeding the budgeted amendment (due, Walters said, to an error in an earlier budget amendment, not an unanticipated cost) and adjustments to the Arts Commission operation.

Already reflected in the estimated $450,000 deficit are the savings due to the Allen Terrace subsidy reduction, though council action Monday made that offsetting figure official.

Hearing set for block grants

A public hearing on proposed uses of 1984 Community Development Block Grant Funds will be conducted before city council December 19.

At issue are the city proposals for the expenditures of an anticipated $80,000 in federal funds administered through Wayne County and $7,500 routed through Oakland County.

For 1983 the city used Wayne money primarily to retire library bonds with $20,000 devoted to planning for phase II of the downtown development project. Oakland funds went, with previous year's money, toward heating plant renovations at the recreation building.

Proposed 1984 uses include the library bonds again in Wayne and improvements to Ford Field with Oakland money.

After the hearing December 19, council will establish priorities for use of the 1984 grants and those will be considered in a January 9 public hearing.

Showin' off

New Morning School, a pre K-8 school in Plymouth, hosted its 11th Annual Student Museum last week. Each of the parent cooperative's students culminated an individual study of interest with a display of models and information. Among participants were three Northville residents. Danny Hardy, age 10, (right) created a display on electricity, complete with two handmade motors. Jennifer Johnson, age 11, created a display on cooking, featuring a robot "maid," an herb chart and information on various foods. She arranged a trip to the Hillside Inn in Plymouth for her class to see a restaurant's food preparation facility. Heather Yagiela, age six, (above) presented a young child's version of a study about domestic cats.

Substance abuse Task Force slates meeting

The newly organized Task Force, a group formed last month with the goal of eliminating the use of illegal substances by local youth, will meet at 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday in Northville High School library.

High school principal David Bolitho reports that the group's primary task will be to organize and plan a community-wide campaign that will provide alcohol- and drug-free chaperoned parties and activities for the community's youth during the holiday season.

Tuesday's meeting is open to all community members interested in eliminating substance use and abuse, and in improving the quality of life of Northville's youth. "The tomorrow of our community's youth depends on what happens today," stressed Bolitho in announcing the meeting.

Parents and high school administrators met to organize the Task Force November 28. Robert Willerer has been named chairperson.

The organizational meeting followed a Phase II session of The Chemical People Program attended by students, parents, counselors and high school administrators at the high school November 9. The Chemical People is a nationwide program to combat substance abuse among the country's youth.

Following the presentation, Bolitho led a panel of resource people in a discussion of substance abuse and its effects on youth of Northville.

The Task Force is seeking involvement of all Northville civic and service organizations, local officials, church and PTA groups, as well as student and youth organizations. This network of community adults and youth is to develop an awareness of the physical, psychological, emotional and legal ramifications of drug and alcohol use on young people's lives.

Focusing on the positive position, the Task Force has established the following preliminary objectives:

- Obtain the facts about the extent of substance abuse by community youth.
- Increase the community's awareness of the consequences of substance abuse on all young people and their parents.
- Encourage the business community to participate in a vigorous age identification process to eliminate the sale of alcoholic beverages and drug paraphernalia to minors.
- Compile a resource list of individuals, organizations and treatment centers that may aid and support troubled youth and their families.
- Seek training for high school students to become peer counselors.
- Establish an effective elementary and junior high educational program encouraging students to choose an alcohol- and drug-free youth.
- Encourage parents to have alcohol- and drug-free chaperoned parties for their under age students.

• Educate the community at large as to the legal ramifications of serving or allowing alcohol to be served to minors at chaperoned or unchaperoned events.

• Suggest appropriate free time activities for students on inservice days and after school

• Plan events with and for young people that are alcohol- and drug-free.

• Enlist the aid and cooperation of local and state governments and their agencies whenever appropriate.

The Task Force program emphasizes that many of the community's youth do choose to lead alcohol- and drug-free lives. Illegal substances, they say, affect the quality of life of the non-user as well as the user. The non-user student faces daily pressures and continual decision making in order to avoid illegal substances.

The Task Force stresses that energies school officials, parents and law enforcement agencies spend on enforcing and limiting illegal substance abuse could well be devoted to serving other important needs of students.

Suburbs assess selves to fund water rate battle

Suburban governments are raising money again to fight the city of Detroit's water rate increases.

"But we're in the driver's seat for the first time," an optimistic Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara told representatives of the 77 suburbs (including Northville) last week. "We've got to stick to it."

"This is the first reported case where the customers won," added George Ward, attorney for the Suburban Association of Detroit Water Customers. Although confident of ultimate success, Ward predicted the seven-year-old case could drag on for more years.

Reporting on the meeting to council Monday, city manager Steven Walters said "we're only years away now."

In October, the Michigan Court of Appeals ruled a circuit judge had erred in calculating the rate of return Detroit is permitted to earn on water it sells to the suburbs.

The appeals court sent the case back to the circuit court for new hearings on what should be the proper rate of return. If the suburban position is upheld, the 77 governments could win back as much as $35 million for five years of water bills plus interest at 12 percent.

Meanwhile, however, Detroit has asked the state Supreme Court for leave to appeal — a motion Ward dismisses as premature. "If it goes to the Supreme Court, it'll go back to the circuit court (for rehearing on the facts) and you know what'll happen: it'll be right back up to the Supreme Court."

"The Supreme Court might take as much as nine months to decide whether to grant an appeal, though it might be as short as six months. Assuming the Supreme Court slams the door (on Detroit) it might be six months before the circuit judge hears it."

So suburban city councils and township boards are being asked to contribute five cents per capita (based on the 1980 census) to fight the appeal.

Earlier assessments of five cents and 2.5 cents, beginning in 1976, raised a total of $147,000, McNamara reported.

At that, the investment in the legal fees, engineering testimony, certified public accountants fees and other costs looks like a bargain next to the potential winnings.

Walters told council the city's share, likely to be apportioned in the form of credits against future bills from Detroit and distributed on the basis of past bills, "doesn't look bad for an investment of something like $280. It could be hundreds of thousands of dollars."

The council approved its participation in the continued legal action.

Ward gave this explanation of the court of appeals victory:

Detroit figured it earned $22 million on its investment of $245 million in the water plant — a return of 9 percent. The circuit judge ruled the rate was fair.

But the suburbs argued that Detroit's actual ownership equity (subtracting the amount of bonded debt) was only $86 million. Subtracting interest payments of $6.9 million, Detroit actually earned $15 million — a rate of return of 17 percent.

"We said 17 percent was too high," Ward said.

By his calculations, Detroit overcharged the suburbs at least $7 million a year for five years — a total of $35 million. The appeals court panel ruled in the suburbs favor.

Noting that the courts had found the difference in rates between Detroit and suburbs acceptable, council member J. Burton DeRusha said Monday "Detroit ought to be kicking themselves."

"It appears to me the court said it was all right that suburban residents pay double what Detroit residents do," DeRusha said. "If Detroit hadn't been quite so greedy, they probably could have had it all."

Three locals in MYS, Sunday concert is free

Three Northville residents will be performing when the Michigan Youth Symphony (MYS) celebrates its 33rd season with a free concert in Ann Arbor's Hill Auditorium at 3 p.m. this Sunday.

MYS members from Northville include Wendy Warner, flute; Ron Kepner, bassoon; and Ann Shephard, violin.

Featuring 75 of the most talented young musicians from throughout the state, the MYS will present a program of symphonic music that includes Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony," "Coriolan Overture" by Beethoven, "Prelude to the Afternoon of a Faun" by Debussy and "The Hary Janos Suite" by Kodaly.

MYS is sponsored by the University of Michigan School of Music to give aspiring musicians an opportunity to perform great symphonic works not normally possible in school programs. Members of the select group range in age from 10 to 18 years.

The conductor for this season is Zuo-Hang Chen, a doctoral student in conducting at the University School of Music. Following graduation, Chen most likely will return to China as the conductor of the Peking Symphony Orchestra.

Police Blotters

Deer hits car on Five Mile near Beck

In The Township...

An automobile valued at $4,000 was stolen from a parking lot off Silver Springs Drive according to a December 1 township police report.

The 1975 Ford Elite, a black two-door with burgundy interior, was said to be in excellent condition. The complainant told police she had parked the car in the lot at 9:45 p.m. November 30 and discovered it had been stolen when she returned at 10:30 a.m. the next day. She told police the car had been locked.

Stolen with the car were an estimated $900 worth of woman's clothing comprised of assorted coats, slacks and blouses. The stolen car bore a personalized front license plate.

A South Lyon man was injured in a single-car accident on icy roads in the early morning hours December 2, according to police reports.

Robert Lee Huss, 48, of South Lyon was taken to Providence Hospital's South Lyon center by Community EMS ambulance after the 4:30 a.m. accident on Eight Mile. He had suffered visible but not incapacitating injury, according to the report.

Huss told police he was driving west-bound on Eight Mile at approximately 35 miles per hour when he saw another car either stopped or moving very slowly in front of him. When he hit the brakes in his 1976 Datsun, he reported, the car went into a slide and left the south side of the road, landing in a clump of small trees west of Westview.

Police noted the icy, treacherous driving conditions and issued no citations in the accident.

An estimated $2,000 worth of damage was done to a 1983 Chevrolet Camaro parked on Old Bedford December 1, the owner told police.

Scratches, possibly made by a key or other sharp object, were found in the paint on the hood, deck lid and both sides of the car. The owner told police the damage was done between 9 p.m. and midnight while the car was parked on the street in front of a house.

A car-deer collision on Five Mile Road November 26 left a South Lyon man's car badly dented, but the deer left the scene before police arrived.

The driver of the car told police he was westbound on Five Mile just east of Beck Road at 8:45 p.m. when a deer jumped out from the south side of the road and crossed in front of his car, hitting the left front fender.

Police searched the area but could not find the animal. The value of damage to the car was not established.

Nearly $2,000 damage was done in a "lawn job" at a Sutters Lane residence December 3 or 4, according to police.

The owner told police the lawn was in good condition at 10:30 p.m. but had been driven across when seen at 8:15 a.m. December 4. Besides leaving 25-foot long tire tracks in the lawn (damage estimated at $60), the malicious destruction included damage to six, 8-foot-long cedar landscaping rails and to a tree 18 feet tall.

Damage to the tree, a small-leaved diameter, was set at $1,800; the rails were valued at $20 apiece.

Damage estimated at $400 was done to the lawn at a Cherry Ridge residence early December 3, police accounts state. Police found three 17-year-old males in a 1975 Oldsmobile 98 stuck in the mud on the front lawn of the residence less than 30 minutes past midnight.

The lawn had been torn up severely by the car driving across it, and the damage of deep ruts in the grass was valued at $370. Another $30 damage was estimated for a small evergreen bush that was run over and torn from the soil.

The teens in the car told police they wanted only to see what was at the end of the road and did not realize they were driving on someone's lawn. The owner declined to press charges immediately.

...In The City

A Northville man is expected to be arraigned this week on charges of stealing $809 from the Clark station, 510 South Main, last Thursday.

He was discovered about noon Monday by the manager of the station in what City Police Chief Rodney Cannon called a "fluke meeting, by chance" at a Northville bank. A cab driver who had driven the man from a Detroit hotel to the bank reported the man had refused to pay his cab fare, and police were dispatched to the bank.

The man was arguing with the station manager about the money when he was arrested by city police, searched, handcuffed and taken to the downtown police station.

The man had been a one-day employee at the Clark station, and had apparently been entrusted with handling much of the paper money taken in and used for change at the station. Thursday, at about 3:45 p.m., the manager reported to police, he said he was going to a nearby store for cough drops and never returned.

Chief Cannon said he expects the man will be arraigned this week. The cab driver also has filed a complaint for non-payment of $36 cab fare.

Five modified yellow harnesses for Northville Downs race horses were reported stolen from an unlocked barn on Downs property between 3 p.m. November 15 and 8 a.m. November 17. The harnesses, owned by a man from Farmington Hills were being stored in unlocked Barn B on River Street, and are valued together at $1,875.

A pickup truck containing $4,000 worth of horse shoeing equipment was stolen while parked at 395 First Street between 9 p.m. Tuesday, November 29, and 6 a.m. Wednesday, November 30. The truck, a white 1982 Ford, is valued at $6,500.

A horse trailer parked at Northville Downs was ransacked November 26, and $465 worth of miscellaneous items were reported stolen last week, including a $320 black harness, $130 hobbles and $19 head holder.

Nearly $3,000 worth of tools were stolen from a white 1979 Ford van parked at Northville Lanes last week. Stolen from the van, owned by a Canton man, were two tool boxes with tools, drill box, a Holt four-gallon scrubber, upright vacuums and miscellaneous tools together valued at $2,935. The theft reportedly took place between 9:25 p.m. Thursday and 12:55 a.m. Friday.

Another theft during nearly the same time frame took place in the lot. In this case, a car battery, valued at $85, was stolen from a 1971 yellow four-door AMC owned by a Northville man who had parked his car there between 8:30 p.m. and 12:30 a.m.

The theft of a $250 clarinet from the band room at Cooke Junior High School November 29, was found out by the parents of one of the two 12-year-old boys involved. The instrument has been returned to its owner, and the boys, one from Northville and one from Novi, admitted the theft when questioned by Northville City Police. One of the boys has been admitted to the Wyandotte General Hospital Rehabilitation Center.

The glove compartments of three unlocked automobiles parked in the unlocked garages of two Grace Court homes were discovered ransacked between Thursday and Friday, with nothing of value stolen.

The time frame for the enterings was about the same.

In one garage, the contents of the glove compartments of two cars were discovered tampered with, reportedly between 6 p.m. Thursday and 9:40 a.m. Friday. In a neighboring house's garage, one auto and glove compartment had been entered, with only the owner's manual taken, reportedly between 7 p.m. and 7:45 a.m.

...From State Police

Two patients at Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital are the prime suspects in a November 27 break-in at the hospital snack bar in the 'C' Building, according to state police reports.

Stolen from the snack bar area, which was closed when the 4:20 p.m. theft occurred, was an estimated $400 in small bills and some cartons of cigarettes.

Police were alerted to the burglary by hospital security officers, who heard a patient yelling in the hallway soon after the break-in. The Livonia man who owns the snack bar concession (he is not a state employee) estimated the amount stolen, which he said was high because a dollar-bill changer in the snack bar area had recently been emptied.

It was the presence of the changer that prompted the owner to leave open the door leading to the eating area of the snack bar, he told police. It had been normal procedure to lock all entry doors to the room, but many patients had asked that access to the changer be allowed.

Police determined that the thieves entered the room through the unlocked door, then kicked in two small doors closing the serving window of the closed-in snack bar itself. The window had been secured by two steel-pins on the doors which entered the counter and the roof. A length of 2x4 board was also employed to secure the doors.

Both pins were broken and the board splintered, police noted, and there were dirty smudges on the door such as might be made by someone kicking it. Once inside, the thieves found the money tray in an unlocked cabinet. Cash and coins were scattered throughout the room, the report states, totaling a little more than $40.

Damage to the doors was estimated at $15. A patient who had been in the adjoining hallway at the time of the theft described the two perpetrators for police and said they threw him a few packs of cigarettes as they left the room and ran down the hallway. This same patient was the one who cried out that the snack bar had been robbed.

Another patient was too incoherent due to mental illness to be a useful witness, the investigating officers concluded.

A Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital patient attempted suicide November 27 by stabbing herself in the neck five times with a knife she brought into the institution from home after a visit at Thanksgiving, state police reports indicate.

Police were investigating a burglary at the hospital snack bar (above) when they were told by security officers there had been an attempted suicide.

Their investigation found the woman had begun stabbing herself in the neck in a rest room at about 4:50 p.m. Another patient in the room started crying for help after the victim fell to the floor bleeding heavily from the neck wounds.

By the time police arrived, the woman had been taken by Novi Ambulance to St. Mary Hospital. Because the other patient had been in the room, police investigated to determine whether the injuries were self-inflicted or had resulted from an assault.

Doctors at the Northville institution told police the woman's history of illness included several attempts at suicide and self-mutilation and that she had only recently stabbed herself in the eye with a fork.

The woman's doctor at St. Mary said the five wounds she inflicted would cause no permanent injury and penetrated between one-quarter and one-half inch. With doctor's permission, state police interviewed the woman who said she stabbed herself to "kill the demons" within her and that no one else was responsible for her injuries. She said she had gotten the knife while home for Thanksgiving on a general pass.

A state hospital employee was seriously injured December 4 when she lost control of her car on an icy patch of the hospital service drive.

According to the police report, roads were icy Sunday morning at 7:10 a.m. when the woman was driving west-bound on the service drive, hit an icy patch and rolled over. The woman was taken to Providence Hospital by Novi Ambulance with injuries characterized as "incapacitating" in the police report.

A purse belonging to a teacher at the hospital was reported stolen last week, police said. The woman said she left her office in her car on a phone call, since the phone in her room did not work. As she walked out of sight, she said, she saw a man stop walking down the hall and turn back toward her office.

When she returned to her office, she told police, she found the $50 purse she had stored in her left bottom desk drawer was missing. It contained her wallet, which carried many credit cards, a small amount of cash and 15 blank checks drawn on her account with a credit union in Pontiac.

Given the description of the man who had stopped in the hallway, police were seeking a patient or possibly a hospital employee as suspect.

Final plan approval denied for offices

By B.J. Martin

A request to approve the construction of an office complex on Six Mile Road, accessible from the entrance drive to Northville Township offices, was rejected by township planning commissioners last week.

That rejection is going to be costly to Dr. Paul Clancy, a developer who wanted to build two medical offices and one 2,400 square foot general office on the .83 acre site. Dr. Clancy and his architect Tom Kerwin made it plain they were irritated at the commission's inflexibility on what they called "minor points."

"I'm really shocked there are any points causing problems," Clancy complained to commissioners at their Tuesday, November 27 meeting. "We've completely changed from our original proposal (which called for a four-office complex). The reason we're seeking a final plan now is that we want to start construction during this business season. And since you don't meet in December, we'll have to wait two months."

But commissioners noted there were gaping flaws in the site plan submitted the previous week.

One of the most significant shortcomings was that developers had not secured approval for stormwater runoff involving Wayne County Road Commission property from county authorities.

There had to be WCRC approval before the Planning Commission could accept final plans, Commission Chairman Richard Duwel told Dr. Clancy.

Another problem was that the building's floor plans were vague regarding the extent of basement construction. Township Engineer Edward McNeely said, "Since there is a stairway indicated on the plan, I assume there is a basement, although we don't have plans for the basement."

McNeely also noted a township ordinance required that finished elevations should be calculated to 1/100 of a foot — the site plans are much less detailed. "We ordinarily require storm drainage charts in detail," McNeely said. "But there are no flow line elevations shown."

Commissioners noted that stormwater could collect in depths of even 15 inches on parts of the office parking lot during a 10-year storm.

Further, township residents attending the meeting were concerned about additional traffic flow in and out of the township hall entrance. Dr. Clancy would prefer to keep the office's only entrances off the Township drive, since entrance along Six Mile would necessitate construction of a deceleration lane.

One of the residents at the meeting, Barbara O'Brien, said: "The drive (to township facilities) should not be yielded to the flow of traffic to the medical complex. I have to think emergency and police cars have to cope with an increase of traffic volume — that could be a problem. I wish there were fewer or no entrances off the township drive."

O'Brien, chairperson of the Northville Township Beautification Commission, also requested a detailed landscape plan in accordance with zoning rules.

Commissioners were not sympathetic with Dr. Clancy's efforts to get through a final site plan while bypassing preliminary approval, and seeking a conditional final plan approval.

Kenneth Sewell, a veteran commissioner who resigned effective after the meeting, said, "I'm getting tired of listening to developers who aren't prepared with their final plans. We're being asked to circumvent our normal procedures and rules."

One of those rules is that the commission will grant contingent approval for only preliminary plans — final site plans cannot be granted contingent approval.

Commissioners did vote unanimously to grant conditional approval of the plans as preliminary site plans, with Dr. Clancy's agreement. Also, the Commission agreed that if Dr. Clancy should submit a $500 fee, it would schedule a special meeting in December to approve the final plans if the problems are resolved.

It is uncertain whether Dr. Clancy will ask for a December planning commission meeting, although he told commissioners at their meeting last week he would decide "within a few days."

As of yesterday, he still had not contacted township offices.

McCarthy funeral today

Funeral service for Russell John McCarthy, 80, of 18726 Jamestown Circle is being held at 10 a.m. today at Our Lady of Victory Church where he was a member. Father Frank Pollie is officiating.

Mr. McCarthy died December 4 after an illness of several weeks.

A Ford Motor Company retiree, he came to the community 14 years ago from Detroit. He was born June 18, 1903, in Laurium, Michigan, to Dennis and Julia (Lynch) McCarthy. He married Elizabeth Harris December 31, 1938.

He leaves his wife Elizabeth, daughters Judith Kendall of Farmington, Mary Anderson of Rochester, Barbara Szeft of Pennsylvania and Ruth Cryderman of Northville, a brother Justin McCarthy of Farmington and 10 grandchildren.

Rosary was held at Casterline Funeral Home at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. Burial is to be in Pine Grove Cemetery in Eagle Harbor, Michigan.

Mercy celebrates Christmas

Northville residents Michele Basile, Colette Richards, Anne Paler, Noelle Schmeck, Paula Teevens and Sheila Worden are among the students participating in Mercy High School's musical celebration of Christmas at 3 p.m. Sunday.

The concert will feature a musical tree trimming — a Dickens setting for well remembered carols; an orchestral rendition from L'arlesienne by Bizet; and the famous Benjamin Britten "A Ceremony of Carols."

These carols, set to poems by Southwell Cornish, The Wedderburns and other authors, are medieval in spirit and will be accompanied by harp.

Harpist Christa Grix also will perform solo literature.

The concert will be followed by a reception in the Mercy auditorium lobby.

Tickets are available at Mercy High School or from Mercy music students.

Library hosts puppet show

A special Christmas puppet show will be presented at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at Northville Public Library.

The show will feature "Hansel and Gretel," and will be performed by Brenda Hughes and the Brendel Puppets of Troy.

The performance, sponsored by the Friends of the Library, will also include holiday skits using hand and mouth puppets and will last about 45 minutes.

There will be Christmas treats for all children who attend.

For more information about the puppet show, call the library at 349-3020.

Impressions of Russia

Northville resident back from USSR

By JEAN DAY

Russian women may go to the moon, but they don't drive many cars and they're not as liberated as it might seem.

Those first-hand observations of Northville resident Lorraine Steimel were gained on a vacation with the Nomads flying club to that country.

She and trip mate Mary Conway of Grosse Ile were in Tbilisi, "a very pretty city with parks," when they sat down on a park bench and lit up a cigarette a la the Virginia Slims advertising.

"Since living conditions are so crowded," she explained, "the parks are much used. As soon as we lit up, there were 101 eyes on us. We found out later women do not smoke in public in Russia."

Mrs. Steimel, who has been a dental assistant at Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital for the past eight years, returning to the post after raising a family, joined the Nomads about two years ago. The trip to Russia, however, was her first with the group.

The widow of the late postmaster John Steimel recalled that she and John had discussed joining the group; so when Norma Terry, a friend who is a Nomad, suggested joining, she did.

"I was going to quit if I didn't use it," she said, "when the trip to Russia came up. The price was so good I couldn't

From Tbilisi the tour went to Yerevan, an Armenian area; to Baku, Azerbaijan, on the Caspian Sea; and to Kiev in the Ukraine before returning to Moscow.

During the 1300 mile trip, she said, the Americans "walked and didn't feel threatened."

She added that the Russians "pretty well know what you're doing" because travel arrangements have to be made through Intourist with visitors staying at approved hotels. One of their hotels had been built for the French for the Olympics. "It had bathrooms," Mrs. Steimel commented.

The visitors were not required to take all trips planned for them, she said, and they were asked only to "please tell the guide that you're not going."

Her only hostile incident occurred when she was taking pictures from the tour bus. They had been told, she recalled, not to take pictures of soldiers or military equipment. She had not realized a soldier was in her lens as she was snapping a building until he was shaking his fist and his head at her.

"There is huge evidence of the military," she reported, "you see men in uniform and (military) trucks everywhere."

However, she came away with the feeling that the Russian people themselves want peace. In Tbilisi, she illustrated, a journalist who spoke English told them that Russians are being told almost the same things about America as Americans are being told about the Russians — "and they are terrified that we're going to start the war."

"Believe me, the people really do want peace," the journalist told the visitors.

This impression was backed up for the visitors by a large "No to War!" monument they viewed in Yerevan.

The group was welcomed warmly by most Russian people, Mrs. Steimel felt. She recalled that a waiter refused to let them pay for drinks at one stop. "In the markets they wanted to give us things," she added.

Did the visitors drink vodka? Lorraine Steimel said she did not because it was served undiluted and was "too strong." She mentioned that the Georgian region has a fine champagne, however, and regretted not bringing any home.

In English the visitors were asked, "You don't like your president?"

The question came because of stories in the newspapers.

Lorraine Steimel said she explained, "This month I may not, but next month I might."

She noted that in the Russian papers there were headlines about United States, France, Germany but nothing about Russia. She said they still are showing film clips from the riots here.

While the country boasts about automation, she said, they still saw workers cutting down weeds by the roadside with sickles.

A surprise was the beauty of the Russian suburbs. Not only were they clean, but they contained statues, paintings on the elaborately arched ceilings and other works of art.

"We ran into a lot of non-functioning churches," Mrs. Steimel continued. "They attended a show in one; others are museums."

"Every city has a Lenin square," Mrs. Steimel noted, saying the Russians "absolutely revere Lenin."

She also observed that in Russia there are oil wells "right next to each other — the EPA would never allow before they're Russians," Mrs. Steimel observed.

Nomad visitors saw No to War! monument in Yerevan turn it down.

"People do say, 'whatever possessed you to do that as your first trip to Europe,' but the Nomads were even surprised at how many signed up."

Lorraine Steimel said she just asked to be given a roommate for the trip, and the Nomads paired her with the former teacher. She said it worked out very well and added the endorsement for club trips that they are a good way to go as "it's possible to be with a group or go your own way."

There were 90 on the trip, too many for the Nomads to use their own plane. They flew to New York and then traveled by FinAir to Helsinki, Finland, and by Airflot, a Russian airline, to Moscow.

The 16-day trip took the Nomads from Moscow to Tbilisi, the capital of Georgia, an area with snow capped mountain peaks. "The people there want you to know they're Georgians before they're Russians," Mrs. Steimel observed.

Serving the Public

Skubick finds career in cable television

By ARLENE FUNKE

Suzanne Skubick finds deep satisfaction in teaching youngsters how to produce a TV show and taping local shows with a message.

Skubick, 33, has racked up a number of seemingly glamorous jobs ranging from TV reporter to press secretary for politicians. She's worked hard and is quietly proud of her achievements.

Currently, Skubick is deeply immersed in helping local people get onto cable TV programs for local viewing. She is community affairs and program director for Omnicon Cablevision.

Several hours of local community programming are required under Omnicon's franchise agreement with Northville, Canton and Plymouth. That means coverage of local governmental meetings, parades, scouting events, talk shows and other local features.

"I consider myself a citizens' advocate," Skubick said. "I think the concept is fantastic — it's the best of First Amendment rights."

During a recent teacher strike in the Plymouth-Canton school district, union representatives felt their issues weren't being expressed sufficiently. The school board's views were being aired on a local school board channel.

By helping the teachers prepare a tape for airing, Skubick feels she performed a valuable service to the community.

The petite, youthful Skubick has had to develop a thick skin and good self-concept as she fought for employment in the fishbowl life of a TV reporter.

A native of Cincinnati, Skubick began her career at 22 as the only woman reporter at a Duluth TV station in 1972. The man who hired her left to take another job, and his replacement fired Skubick.

"They came out and admitted the guys didn't like a woman in the newsroom," Skubick said.

Skubick was soon discharged from her next TV job in Minneapolis-St. Paul because a marketing study showed she looked too young and "lacked credibility" as a reporter.

A job at a Louisville station ended abruptly when Skubick quit after her boss demanded sexual favors.

"It's the only time I have ever experienced that blatant (harassment) in my work, but that was enough," Skubick said.

After coming to Michigan, Skubick served during the mid-1970s for three political candidates and as administrative assistant for the Michigan Senate Democratic Office. She also had reporter stints with four TV stations.

Television is a "funny" business, Skubick said. "Hiring and firing are very subjective. You have to have good self-concept."

Skubick gained knowledge of politics through her work for candidates. While working in Lansing, Skubick met and married her husband of five years, radio and TV political reporter Tim Skubick.

Following her marriage Skubick obtained a master's degree in telecommunications and began a career in cable TV.

"To be perfectly honest, I have never heard of cable TV," Skubick said. "The more I heard, the more excited I became. I'm excited about the opportunities for women and minorities."

Juggling two careers has meant a lot of sharing and commuting. The Skubicks divide their time between a house in Lansing and an apartment in

Suzanne Skubick has spent a good part of her career on camera, or very near one Walled Lake.

"I know the term is overworked, but Tim is a liberated husband," Skubick said. "Sometimes my long hours get to him."

"He does most of the housework, and I do the cooking," she added.

Some officials have been dissatisfied with Omnicon's performance on local programming. Skubick believes great strides have been made, but it's time-consuming work.

Skubick estimates her average workday at about 12 hours. In her free time she likes to read managerial manuals and technical books.

Currently, she earns around $30,000, which she acknowledges is higher than what counterparts may be earning at other cable firms. She believes she's worth her salary.

"I work hard and I have a lot of experience," Skubick said. "In our society, a person is measured by his or her salary."

Her goals include either becoming a corporate program director or a systems manager, responsible for the entire cable system's operation. Her timetable is three years, "sooner if possible."

High on her list of important assets for success are providing good community service and, whenever possible, helping other women attain success.

"I'm a feminist," Skubick said. "I believe in networking, women helping women."

Helping trim the Christmas tree at Allen Terrace are, from left, residents Kate Ambrazie and Ann Vandal. The tree in the senior citizens' complex was trimmed Friday with ornaments, but residents will continue to add mittens, hats and booties that will be donated to the Salvation Army. While special visits and events are scheduled for the seniors all month, the residents' party will be held at 7:30 p.m. December 22. Tuesday Delta Kappa Gamma hosted a party. Thursday from 4-5 p.m. Girl Scouts will carol through the halls with residents invited to open their doors to listen. Cub Scouts will entertain from 7-8 p.m. December 11. ## Lorraine Steimel relates Russian visit impressions that here." In the airports visitors may take free pamphlets written in German, Spanish and English. Mrs. Steimel has one on the 1905 revolution and other titled "The April Thesis." After returning from the trip August 4, Mrs. Steimel has been recounting her adventures and looking at future trips. Her sons both are encouraging. Brian, a Plymouth resident, is working at the Eastern Michigan University library while getting his master's degree in children's theater there. Jon is living in Alma. He received his master's degree from Michigan State University in social work.

Next trip will be a shorter one, Nomad Steimel thinks.

As a memento of this trip she purchased a gold ring with amber stone in one of the Beriozka shops. These are Russian stores that accept foreign currency, she explained. Her ring bears a sickle and hammer stamp—to leave no doubt of its origin.

"But capitalism exists in Russia," Lorraine Steimel said. "I charged my ring on my Mastercharge."

Chamber music concert to be presented Sunday

The music of Mozart and Dvorak will be performed when the Novi Chamber Music Society presents a concert at 2 p.m. this Sunday at the Faith Community United Presbyterian Church.

Admission is $3 for adults and $2 for students. A reception will follow the concert. The church is located at 4440 West Ten Mile between Novi and Taft roads. Call 349-5666 for more information.

Performing will be four members of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra (DSO): Geoffrey Applegate, violin; Malvern James Kaufman, violin; Glenn Mellow, viola; and Carole Gatewood, cello. They will be assisted by Novi pianist Follaine Laing.

Laing, a University of Michigan graduate, has performed on many area chamber music recitals and recorded with several DSO members. She recently accompanied DSO first flutist, Ercin Monroe, in a recital at the New York Flute Club in New York.

Applegate joined the DSO in 1981

after graduating from the Peabody Conservatory in 1980. He has soloed with orchestras and played chamber music in Europe and South America as well as the United States.

Kaufman, a student of William Kroll and Joseph Knitzer, is a graduate of the Eastman School of Music. He was a member of the Rochester Philharmonic, Dallas Symphony, U.S. Army Band Strings, Baltimore Symphony and the National Symphony before joining the DSO.

Mellow, now in his fourth season with the DSO, has a Master of Music degree from Indiana University. He has participated in the Casals Festival in Puerto Rico and the New School concerts in New York.

Gatewood graduated from Indiana University and was a member of the Birmingham (Alabama) and Denver symphonies before joining the DSO two years ago. She has studied chamber music with Janos Starker, Raphael Hillyer and the Tokyo String Quartet.

Record set straight—here are correct dates for two events

A "Christmas in Other Lands" celebration at Amerman Elementary will take place next Tuesday at the school—not on Monday as incorrectly reported in last week's PTA news in The Record.

Customs, traditions and food of China, Germany, Finland, Poland and England will be explored by people from these countries at assemblies at 9:15 a.m. and at 1:15 p.m.

In the evening, the second annual family Christmas Sing-along will be held in the courtyard with a tree-lighting, bonfire, carols. There will be hot chocolate and cookies.

A segment of the visit by Christian Community School preschool class to Moonkin Toy Shop will be shown on P.M. Magazine Tuesday, December 13, not December 14 as stated in last week's PTA news.

Trish Moore's class recently visited the toy shop on a field trip and were filmed for the program.

Red Cross drive seeks donors

The holiday season is a busy, happy time for most people. But along with the festivities, unfortunately, often comes blood shortages.

Donating blood gets pushed to the bottom of many people's priorities during the holidays. Many organizations that normally sponsor blood drives, such as schools and businesses, are closed.

But the need for blood doesn't take a holiday. Blood can be donated by anyone in good health between the ages of 17 and 65 who weighs at least 110 pounds. Take time out from your busy holiday schedule for a blood donation, and bring a friend.

Two nearby locations and times for donations are: Sunday, December 18, Newburg Methodist Church, 36500 Ann Arbor Trail, Livonia from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. For information, call Larry Johnson at 522-1977 or 492-1175; and Thursday, December 22, St. Mary Hospital, 36475 Five Mile Road, Livonia, from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. For an appointment, call Grace Fox, 464-4800, ext. 2540 or 525-4589.

Mission Impossible

Dr. James Luther

I have heard most of the attempts to explain the events of the first Christmas. Some have tried to logically explain the virgin birth (actually it is the virgin conception of Christ). That is somewhat like coming up with a formula for the resurrection. Both are impossible without a miracle.

Others seek to identify the guiding star as some unusually bright star in our heavens. Yet, the Bible records:

"the star, which they saw in the east, moved before them till it came and stood over where the young child was" (Matt. 2:9).

It was a miracle!

Do not be surprised if the incarnation boggles your mind. Even Mary struggled with the angels' message of the virgin birth:

"How shall this be, seeing I know not a man?"

Let the miracle of the coming of God's Son capture your mind, and warm your heart this Christmas Season. Those are more than just lyrics that say: "Joy to the world, the Lord is come". He has come! And He is coming again!

Our Opinion

Dear Governor: Don't move it

State of Michigan
Office of the Governor
Lansing

Dear Governor Blanchard:

As local residents are being contacted in a telethon tonight to "write the governor" to object to the moving of a planned state prison a mile eastward from Five Mile and Beck to Five Mile and Sheldon roads, I am taking this opportunity to address an open letter to you.

I was pleased to learn earlier this year that you do read what is being said in the state's newspapers. After The Record editorializing February 9 in support of the proposal of Willis Bullard Jr. (R-60th District) to freeze salaries of state officials and legislators, you sent a personal response pointing out that you did not think it would be right to accept and keep the $8,000 raise recommended for the Governor by the State Officers Compensation Commission.

An accompanying release from the Executive Office explained you had announced you would be contributing that amount in January, 1984, to hunger-related charities. The increase was awarded before you took office. It quoted you as saying, "In view of the sacrifices I have asked the people of Michigan to make, I just wouldn't feel right in accepting the raise." The pay increases that take effect in January will make our legislators the highest paid in the country, our editorial noted.

We printed your reply with pleasure — partly stemming from the thought that our voice was heard in Lansing. Now I am writing this open letter to you editorially on another matter, one that will have far-reaching effects on our entire community.

State corrections officials right now are preparing an environmental/economic impact study of plans to use the Plymouth Center for Human Development as a prison. The announcement of plans to convert the center into a medium-security prison instead of building the planned 500-bed regional prison on the prepared site a mile west stunned local officials in September.

The regional prison, designed as a prototype for the future, already was approved, and $1 million had been spent bringing utilities to the site. Most importantly, the Northville community, already bearing the burden of having more than one-third of its land in non-taxable use, had accepted the prison location at Five Mile and Beck adjacent to the Phoenix Facility and DeHoCo.

Already located in the township are Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital (generating its full share of problems for the community), Hawthorn Center, Northville State Police Post, Maybury State Park, Hines Parkway and the vacant former Wayne County Child Development Center slated to become the Cavanagh Elderly Village.

To shift the planned multi-security regional prison from the more remote site near the Phoenix facility to the more centrally located PCHD property violates the spirit of an agreement made with township officials five years ago. They agreed to the new prison rather than one at the abandoned Wayne County Child Development Center site. It was to be the last in the township and a prototype that correctional officials endorsed.

Since then the WCCDC has been planned as an elderly village with some $120,000 in federal grants already spent to get it off the ground. However, should the prison be moved to Sheldon Road the entrance would be almost across the street. Because security is one of the prime concerns of the elderly, the prison in that location would doom the village.

Department of Management and Budget officials have told us that renovation of the Plymouth Center could save the state $20 million and have the prison in operation sooner. No one has seen figures that prove the savings, and study of the proposal now has stalled construction of the prototype prison officials had hoped to have in operation. The southeast Michigan region the prison at Beck and Five Mile would have served still will not have the regional facility recommended if the plans are changed.

It is difficult to see the reasoning for a stop-gap prison that may save money but will penalize this community as well as Wayne County, which also would benefit from having an elderly village on its tax roll. There is concern from our neighbor to the south. An industrial park is planned adjacent to the Beck and Sheldon site. Its developer already has heard objections from proposed tenants regarding a prison so close.

Governor Blanchard, your predecessor did not choose to listen to Northville's pleas for a security fence at the state hospital to help with the problem of at least one or two walkaway inmates daily. The community lives with an ongoing concern for its safety. It was a walkaway inmate who murdered an elderly woman not too many years ago. Many other residents have hosted unwelcome, uninvited "visitors."

The state has refused to assist with this problem and now seems to be adding another potential one. Shifting a prison "only a mile east" does not sound like much unless you live here. The Beck Road location is fairly remote and already has prison facilities contiguous to it. Sheldon Road becomes Center Street in town — one of the downtown's two main streets.

I, any township official and our legislators would be delighted to have you inspect our community and the sites personally if your busy schedule permits. The statement has been made that we "don't count" because Northville traditionally has been a Republican stronghold. However, in the last gubernatorial election many of us listened to what you stood for (including this editor) and voted for your beliefs. Now I — with the community — am asking that you listen to our problem.

As you signed, I, too, send kind regards.

Hopefully,
Jean Day

Hinting for Christmas

There are two kinds of holiday season columns, you know: the "diatribe against commercialism" column and the "Why Can't We Have the Christmas Spirit All Year Long?" column. I don't know about you, but I never read past the first sentence of either type. So I'd better try something different.

I think the reasons I enjoy the holiday season — we used to say "Christmas season," but we've discovered some people are not Christians — are perverse. Why else would I have to stifle a snicker when some kid whines "Why can't I have a Darth Vader molecular vaporizing gun?" to a harassed-looking Mom?

Anyway, here are 10 reasons I like the holidays:

One — cold weather gives me an excellent chance to get reacquainted with the great indoors. "Slippers" is in bold face on my Christmas list and will complete the picture nicely. (Are you listening, sis?) I already have a very old easy chair, a satisfactory reading lamp, plenty of unread paperbacks, and a record collection that is the envy of everyone but my neighbors.

Two — I have great sweaters and exactly nine plaid flannel shirts (Which is enough, right, Grandma?); so my wardrobe is, for once, okay, except for long Johns (hint, hint). It can now be told — I used to hate getting long Johns when I was a kid. The reason was, for every pair of long Johns I got, there was some G.I. Joe accessory or other great toy I didn't get. Nowadays, my fanny gets cold, and my G.I. Joe collection is pretty complete.

Three — even though I'm pretty low on the seniority totem pole here at The Record, I get vacation time. (Hooray!) This is especially good because I haven't had a week's vacation since 1981. Just about the time I was due for one at my previous newspaper job, I was hired by The Record and the Novi-Walled Lake News. As of January 1, I become eligible for a week off. Not that I have the vaguest idea what to do with it.

Four — the football playoffs and bowl games are starting up. As a sports writer, of course, I have to keep abreast of developments in the game. So in the interest of keeping my ability to write from the perspective of the Average Guy regarding sports, it is not only my right, but also my duty to see these games accompanied by a certain beverage made in downtown Detroit (not Vernor's) and a bowl full of pretzels.

Five — every time I feel depressed about living in an apartment instead of having a house all my own, I can look out my window and watch people shovel snow. This cheers me up considerably. I can watch with rapt fascination for hours the merchants or their hirelings shovel the downtown Main Street — that is, my — sidewalks.

Six — there is absolutely no need for me to appear anywhere without a shirt, except in private. Under a bulky sweater, I can claim I have the physique of an Olympic swimmer. This ruse is harder to pull off when I'm wearing nothing but an Olympic swimsuit.

Seven — it's a great time to believe I'll actually keep my New Year's resolutions. Right now, I fully believe that by this time next year I will have finished work on a best-selling novel, lost 15 pounds, become a Felix Unger in the neatness department and become the first sportswriter to earn a Pulitzer Prize.

Eight — presents, presents, presents. I love getting 'em. They say "It's better to give than to receive." Uh-huh. They also say, "It's better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all." And we know what a crock that is.

Nine — cookies. Mom makes 'em. Aunt Phyllis bakes 'em. And I takes 'em. Doctor's orders — my physician tells me I have a chronic insufficiency of refined sugar. One might also put fudge, cashews, marshmallow treats, fudge bars and other holiday fare under this heading.

Ten — 'cuz it's the most wonderful time of year. Everybody's jolly, and you get to see family and friends. Strangers say, "Merry Christmas" or "Happy New Year" and, gosh, I wish it could last all year.

So have a good 'un, okay?

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

It was one of those semi-ritzy affairs which occur around the holidays. I'm not talking about white tie and tails, but nice enough so that you'd want to wear a suit or sports coat.

At any rate, I was sitting off in a corner, minding my own business, when I was approached by an attractive young woman, who I knew, with a pair of attractive young women, who I did not know.

"Stand up," said the one I knew, "these ladies read your column in the paper and would like to meet you."

Being an obedient type after years of in-house training, I arose to the occasion and was introduced to the ladies with the courage to confess to having read my column on occasion.

I told them it was nice to meet them and thanked them for reading my column. Whereupon we all stood there and stared at each other.

The deathly silence was finally broken by the lady who had made the introductions in the first place. "Well," she suggested, "why don't you say something witty?"

My mind started whirling. "Something witty? Please think of something witty," I told my mind in a state of panic. But nothing happened. My mind was blank.

"I can't think of anything witty to say right now," I blurted out finally.

"What's wrong with you?" asked the introducer while the two introducees stood there with looks of disappointment on their faces. "I'll bet Art Buchwald can think of witty things to say at a party. I'll bet he has tons of witty things to say."

In desperation I tried to think of a good joke. But it just didn't seem right. My humiliation complete, I slunk back into my chair.

I tried to console myself with thoughts that it isn't easy to be witty on command ... that Art Buchwald probably has developed a whole file of appropriate witticisms over the years for such occasions.

But my wife quickly squashed my efforts to assuage my bruised ego. "I can't believe you couldn't think of anything to say," she said. "At least you had the good sense to sit down."

Growth basis of bills promoting agriculture

By GERALD H. LAW
State Representative

Agriculture and forestry will play a crucial role in Michigan's economic recovery if an eight-point legislative plan devised by House and Senate Republicans to aid these industries is enacted.

I strongly support the goals outlined in this agenda because agriculture and forestry generate $22 billion a year for Michigan's economy and have the potential to create even greater financial benefits for the state and its nine million citizens.

For several decades, Michigan's economy has been dominated by the auto industry. Today we are at a crossroad as we search for ways to stimulate our staggering economy.

With the proper state incentives Michigan's agriculture and forest industries could lead the way to a strong and lasting recovery. Our state is second only to California in the number of commercial crops grown. We lead the nation in the production of six crops: blueberries, pickling cucumbers, Eastern soft white winter wheat, navy beans, red tart cherries and plantation Christmas trees.

Although Michigan has an impressive agricultural record, still more can be done and this legislative plan addresses how we can help our economy even further. The Republican Action Plan for Agri-business/Forestry calls for:

- Ten-year phase-out exemption from the Single Business Tax for agriculture or forestry industry processing facilities, whether they be existing, expanding or new.

- Creation of a new Agricultural and Forestry Research and Development Fund.

- Earmarking a portion of horse racing revenues for the purpose of promoting horse racing, increasing purse levels and improving track facilities.

- Creation of a legislative policy task force to develop an equitable statewide water-use policy.

Republicans have already outlined a major economic action plan that would reduce business costs, bring about regulatory reform and encourage new job growth. However, we are placing additional focus on agriculture and forestry because they are vital to Michigan's economic recovery efforts. Food processing, export sales of farm products and the commercial expansion of wood and paper products have a job-growth potential that has barely been tapped.

We must remember that Michigan residents involved in agri-business and forestry experience many of the same economic disincentives which stunt investment and growth in more traditionally defined businesses like General Motors, Clark Equipment and the small retailers and manufacturers. What's good for business is also good for agri-business and forestry.

I am hoping for a quick, positive bipartisan action on these economic legislative programs. If enacted, they would be the first major step toward new and permanent jobs for Michigan's unemployed men and women and would put our state in position to take advantage of the national recovery now taking place.

News from Lansing

By R. ROBERT GEAKE
State Senator

Decorum in the Senate came to a screeching halt during the recent reapportionment battle, as blatant and angry partisan politics rode roughshod over the rules that formerly governed our proceedings.

Democrats, distressed over the second recall of one of their state senators, were determined to redraw electoral lines to assure themselves of even stronger and more solid majorities in both houses after the next elections. Republicans were not allowed to speak, either in committee or on the floor of the Senate, in spite of Senate rules allowing them to do so. The deed was done without debate. Any pretense of following rules or maintaining control was abandoned.

As for the reapportionment issue, the logic and fairness of the Republican perspective seems obvious. According to our Constitution, new election district lines were drawn after the 1980 census to reflect population changes. That action was drawn out and controversial, and the battle waged on so long even the primary elections had to be delayed.

The issue finally stumped the Legislature and the Supreme Court. An impartial elections expert named Bernie Apol, a former Michigan State Elections Director, was called in to draw the final map. It was judged by all to be fair.

Even James Blanchard said, "Most civil servants claim they're non-political and its baloney. With Apol it's true. There's not a partisan bone in his body."

It is the position of the Senate Republican Caucus that the reapportionment plan, drafted by Mr. Apol and approved by the Michigan Supreme Court in the spring of 1982, is both fair and constitutionally correct. The majority party had not legitimate reason to tamper with it.

But much as I deplore reapportionment, I must also say that I am ashamed of the way Senate proceedings were conducted during this debate, or lack thereof. Though Republicans requested to debate and add amendments time and again, they were not acknowledged and the process became a one-party circus.

The Democratic leadership in the House of Representatives, however, have said they will not act on this purely partisan bill. I certainly hope that those calmer and more level heads will continue to prevail in both the house and in the Governor's office.

Running a legislature by recall paranoia and reapportionment revenge is not a class act. Michigan deserves better and desperately needs more. It is high time we expended the high level of legislative energy we have just witnessed on more worthy efforts — like creating and retaining jobs in Michigan and improving our economic climate. If the Legislature could achieve those worthy goals, there'd be little reason to worry about recall or re-election.

Results of Election: The results of the City election held November 8, 1983 were as follows: Mayor—Paul Vernon, 513 (elected), Eugene Kunz, 315; Councilmembers—Carolann Ayers, 583 (elected), Paul Folino, 588 (elected). Total votes cast, 843.

Installation of New Officers: Judge James Garber, 35th District Court, administered the oaths of office to councilmembers Ayers and Folino and then to Mayor Vernon. Mayor Vernon gave the following statement: I am honored and privileged to be elected to a fourth two year term as mayor of the City of Northville. I accept that responsibility with both humility and pride. Humility because I recognize that 62% of the voters who went to the polls chose my experience and my performance record over a candidate who received 38% of the votes even though he has had practically no experience in city government. It was disappointing that the decision was made by only twenty two percent of our registered voters. I accept the responsibility with pride because Northville is a better city than it was six years ago when I was elected to my first term as mayor. Relations have improved with the township administration to the benefit of the entire community. We have survived a difficult economic period with declining revenues yet have maintained a reasonable city millage rate with no appreciable reduction in services. We have five fewer people on the city payroll today than we had ten years ago even though the state has mandated additional services that require more manpower to provide. There is a much closer relationship between city hall and the business community that has perpetuated commercial growth to alleviate the tax burden on our residential property owners. We have improved our senior citizens programs including the opening of Allen Terrace as a popular and well managed senior citizens home. The library was retained in the city and expanded for use by the entire community. One need only look about our community to agree that there has been very significant progress made during my three terms as mayor. But that progress has been possible because of people working together. I have been fortunate to have a cooperative, conscientious, hard-working city council with members that come to council meetings well prepared to deliberate and act responsibly, putting personal feelings aside and acting in the best interests of the entire community. Members of our boards and commissions, including the dedicated members of the downtown development authority, and our very capable and devoted city manager have all contributed to that progress. And last, but certainly not the least, my family who have given me support and understanding when I really needed it, especially my wife Norma who has been by my side for more than forty two years and who loves Northville every bit as much as I do. I pledge to continue working harmoniously with city council, with our senior citizens, with the business community, with our boards and commissions, with Northville Township administration and with every other person who wants to make a great city even greater during the next two critical years.

Councilwoman Ayers addressed the enthusiastically looked forward to her next four years and had learned a lot during her last four years and hoped to represent the voters of the City of Northville.

Councilman Folino stated he was very honored to be reelected unopposed and thanked the voters for past and future support and thanked city council, city administration, DPW and police department for making the city a better place to live.

Election of Mayor Protem: Mayor Vernon recommended Councilman Gardner for Mayor Protem. Motion by Councilman DeRusha supported by Councilman Folino to elect Councilman Gardner Mayor Protem. Motion carried unanimously.

Request for use of City's Signs: Motion by Councilwoman Ayers supported by Councilman Folino to add the request of the Northville High School drama club to the agenda to use the city's signs to advertise the school play from November 21-December 3. Motion carried unanimously. Motion by Councilman Folino supported by Councilwoman Ayers to approve the request of the Northville High School drama club to use the city's signs from November 20-December 3, 1983 to advertise the school play. Ted Mapes, Superintendent, DPW, is to be contacted prior to making the signs. Motion carried unanimously.

"Miles for Missions" Run rescheduled—First Baptist Church of Northville: Motion by Councilman Gardner supported by Councilman DeRusha to add the request for rescheduling of the run to the agenda. Motion carried unanimously. Motion by Councilman Gardner supported by Councilman DeRusha to reschedule the "Miles for Missions" Run to be conducted by the First Baptist Church of Northville to Saturday, November 19, 1983 subject to the supervision of the city manager and police department. Motion carried unanimously. Meeting was recessed at 8:30 p.m. and reconvened at 8:40 p.m.

Survival Flight Discussion: Postponed to another meeting, date to be announced.

Miscellaneous: Councilwoman Ayers brought up the matter of clarifying, for the recreation director, the matter of attending city council meetings. Mayor Vernon suggested this be handled much the same as the city attorney. He felt a communication should be sent to the recreation director extending him a very cordial invitation to attend, however it is not necessary to attend every meeting. Discussion on the setting of recreation rates and budget followed. Councilwoman Ayers advised the new director would be reviewing fees and may have some suggestions. Mayor Vernon asked the reelected councilmembers if they were willing to serve on their appointed committees as in the past. Councilwoman Ayers and Councilman Folino agreed to do so. Mayor Protem Gardner thanked Mayor Vernon for recommending him for Mayor Protem and city council for electing him. Meeting adjourned at 8:45 p.m.

Respectfully submitted, JOAN G. McALLISTER, CITY CLERK

Northville little affected by proposed redistricting

By KEVIN WILSON

Should the move by Democrats in the state legislature to redraw legislative districts in response to successful recalls of state senators go through, Northville would find itself little affected.

"I think they thought Northville was pretty safely Republican and left it that way," said State Representative Gerald H. Law (R-Plymouth). "In redrawing the lines, they've crossed county lines more often to gerrymander safe Democratic districts."

Under a plan approved on a 19-18, strict party-line vote in a late-night session of the state senate last week, Law's 36th District would lose some Democratic areas in Canton and a portion of eastern Plymouth Township while gaining the Oakland County portion of Northville and western Novi. The latter areas are presently in the 60th district represented by Willis Bullard (R-Highland).

The 6th Senatorial District represented by Northville Republican R. Robert Geake would be even less affected by the reapportionment plan. Except for losing a small portion of Redford Township, Geake's district was left untouched by the proposal.

The plan was passed through the Senate at 1:30 a.m. December 1, only hours after it became clear Senator David Serotkin (D-Macomb) would be recalled. The recall is not official until elections officials certify the vote count; so Serotkin was able to vote, retaining the Democratic majority in the senate. Without Serotkin, party-line votes will produce 18-18 ties.

Republicans say the plan approved last week would help Democrats hold onto four threatened Senate seats and take over in one or two other districts, and pick up another four to six seats in the house, where the Democrats' majority is already 63-47.

The state House now has until December 31, 1984 to act on the plan and it is thought Democrats will employ the threat of redistricting to counter any GOP entry in recall drives.

There are four potential ways to complete the following statement being discussed in Lansing. Democrats will push the bill through the house:

1.) Only if Republicans take part in further recall campaigns against Democratic legislators who supported the personal income tax increase. "House Speaker (Gary) Owen (D-Ypsilanti) has given his word he will not if Republicans stay out of recall," said Senator Patrick McCullough (D-Deerborn), who is seen as the next likely recall target.

2.) At their own peril. "If it goes through, another 10 or 12 Democrats will be recalled," threatened Senator Doug Cruce (R-Troy). "Gary Owen has his finger on the trigger, and if he pulls it there will be all-out war."

3.) But Republicans will go to the voters. Geake said Republicans would "go statewide with an anti-gerrymandering petition drive forcing a referendum on the redistricting bill."

4.) After the November 1984 election. At that time, it will be impossible for Republicans to retaliate, speculated Senator Richard Fessler (R-West Bloomfield).

"I think it will come out of the House in a November of 1984," said Fessler. "It's a life preserver (for Democrats). If they perceive they're losing their grip, he (Owen) will pass the reapportionment plan to regain control in 1986."

'Gary Owen has his finger on the trigger, and if he pulls it there will be all-out war.'

— Doug Cruce (R-Troy)
State Senator

If they survive, there'll be no need to pass reapportionment."

McCullough took credit for arranging an "unprecedented" meeting between political leaders who proposed a truce: no Republican involvement in recalls and no Democratic pushing of reapportionment.

McCullough deplored a reapportionment-recall duel as resulting in "unreasoned chaos."

That is also a description of the result of reapportionment given by Law. "If that thing goes through, that's the end of our year. We won't be able to get anything done, we'll just be fighting all the time."

Law noted that the redistricting was allowed for by the state Supreme Court only if it resulted in more evenly distributed populations per district under the "one man, one vote" principle. Population variation under the Apol plan adopted in 1982 is seen as the major weakness.

Under the present boundaries, Law said, "Detroit really has one too many (House) districts — they've got districts with 70 or 80,000 while outstate districts run way over that. So they (Democrats) had trouble expanding their Detroit districts without pushing each other out."

Doll Carriage a fantasy world come alive

By SUE LOWE

There is a land of fantasy where Mark Twain and Abe Lincoln mingle with Marilyn Monroe, and where Teddy's bears have tea in fine china.

It is a land destined to turn adults into children and children into wide-eyed cherubs whose dreams have come true.

This world of fantasy is open to all, for it happens just inside the Doll Carriage, a doll, toy and miniatures store located in the Colonial Village Shopping Center, 1427 South Milford Road, Highland.

Creators of the fantasy are Eva Farden and Connie Betcher, two sisters, who have gathered the artistic efforts of countless doll makers into their store.

They can supply the demands of the serious doll collector who wants numbered first editions. They can also supply a 3-year-old whose heart's desire is a baby doll to love and cuddle.

Doll collectors are children who walk around disguised as adults. They collect dolls which have been created by artists who either own their own companies, such as Louis Nicole, or who work for large doll manufacturing companies such as Effanbee or Gorham.

The doll collector is a serious collector much like the person who collects limited edition numbered prints. He or she is looking for a doll which is unique because of its beauty, its originality, its age, or the fact that it, too, is a limited edition numbered piece of art work.

Mark Twain, Abe Lincoln and Marilyn Monroe, character dolls at the Doll Carriage, are examples of limited edition dolls. Eva Farden explained that the molds from which these dolls are made are used for one or two years and then destroyed. As the buyers vie with each other to complete their collections of certain character dolls, the prices of these dolls can rise from $75 (the cost of Marilyn Monroe at the Doll Carriage) to as much as $6000.

The same realities guide collectors of stamps, coins, antiques, etc. Scarcity raises the price, and collectors bid constantly in an arena of scarcity. For instance, if it could be found, what might be the cost of the first Teddy Bear?

The creator of the first Teddy Bear was Margarete Steiff, founder of a German toy empire 103 years ago. Shortly after Theodore Roosevelt refused to shoot a bear on a hunting trip, Steiff bears dressed in hunting costumes were used to decorate at a dinner at the White House.

In 1903 Steiff made only about 12,000 bears. In 1907, after the White House dinner, the company sold almost a million of "Teddy's bears."

Steiff stuffed animals can be identified by a brass button in the ear. The Doll Carriage carries the famous Steiff animals, including limited edition collectors' items like the "Tea Party" which features four little friends sipping tea from fine china cups. The store also carries all sizes of Teddy Bears made from the original Steiff pattern—each with a brass button in his ear.

Collectors are not the only "real" people who move in the fantasy of the Doll Carriage. Others are children. For these customers there are moderately priced baby dolls (still the most popular doll), story-book dolls, days of the week dolls, Corgi miniature vehicles, race car sets, chess sets, games, puzzles and coloring books.

None of the toys are ordinary, nor are the materials with which they are made cheap or flimsy. The Corgi cars, for instance, cost under $10 and are made of durable metal. Children who collect and play with Corgis are familiar with the various models which feature such items as doors which open and close, trunks with removable suitcases, etc. All of them absorb abuse without blemish and provide hours of entertainment.

Farden explained that the dolls are also made of durable materials with the possible exception of some collectors' items which are porcelain. "Most of the dolls, including the character dolls, are made of vinyl," she said. "The hair is often real human hair, although some dolls have acrylic hair."

The Doll Carriage has one example of the woodcarving artist Michelangeli of Italy. The clothes for this beautiful puppet were made from antique fabrics and lace which the artist collected all over Europe. Farden says she and her sister plan to import more of Michelangeli's works.

Brand names carried by the store include Eggenbee, Heidi Ott, Gorham, Alresford, Gibson, and Dolls by Pauline.

Others are Gotz, Royal House of Dolls, Dolls by Jerri, and Louis Nichole designs from World Doll. A limited number of older antique dolls are also available.

Louis Nicole made his mark on the doll world when he was chosen to design the dolls for the White House during Carter's term as president.

Although Farden and Betcher are the proprietors of the store, their husbands, Art Farden and Gordon Betcher, also take an active part in the business. Art is learning to repair dolls and has almost completed a Victorian dollhouse which can only be described as a mansion in miniature.

The decision to open the Doll Carriage did not come from years of experience in the field of toys for either sister.

"Our mother had collected dolls for about five years, but we were relatively new at the toy business when we began," Farden admitted, "we have really learned in a hurry."

Farden credited the Toy Fair in New York City with much of her education. "I never knew there were so many dolls," Farden and Betcher collect dolls now.

The hours for the Doll Carriage are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday. During the Christmas season the store will be open until 9 p.m. on Friday.

The Doll Carriage opened December 15, 1982. It is located in the Colonial Village Shopping Center owned by Bill and Donna Saunders. Even the quaint decor of the shopping center adds to the fantasy of the toy store. It creates the aura of times past when life was simpler and folks had time to play with toys.

Expert discusses job opportunities

Computer careers gain appeal from workers in transition

By JEAN DAY

"Do not be intimidated — human beings are greater than computers" is the message Ruth Jeffries brought to members and guests of Northville Business and Professional Women's Club last week as she encouraged women to investigate computer careers.

Now branch manager of Four Phase Systems, Incorporated, a subsidiary of Motorola, Incorporated, Jeffries herself is an example of a successful career change.

A former school teacher with an English background and the mother of seven, she went into the data processing industry 12 years ago. She was a systems analyst and then had gone into computer sales.

"There is a mystique surrounding the data processing industry," she acknowledged as she spoke at the club's November 28 meeting at the Saratoga Trunk restaurant.

Jeffries said the field is one in which "the person who is competent can become known." She explained that "one of the things the computer has done is to give opportunity to see if a job is being done well.

"There is a mystique surrounding the data processing industry."

— Ruth Jeffries

"Computer professionals do tend to be snobbish," she confessed, urging women whose companies may be getting computers to "read and don't be intimidated. There are many periodicals that can step you through the maze."

What is important, Jeffries stressed, "is that you understand the application for the work you are doing. The biggest reason (for having a computer) is to save money, or to increase productivity. If it doesn't save money or increase productivity then the system is no good."

"Remember you know more about your job than they (computer programmers). If you have opportunity, give your input and insist they be patient with you."

"Try to get training and build on your own expertise. There are opportunities (in the industry) to grow and be part of the future — I'm not afraid of it (data processing) any more."

She cited the travel industry as a business that has made use of computers and noted also that "telephone systems are computers — even though you do not have a screen on your desk — if they are used for conference calls or have a call waiting system."

For women considering entering the computer field, or changing to it, Jeffries said it is an industry that has generally welcomed career changers. She mentioned that some in the field have been psychologists or teachers and that a math background is not a requirement. It is more important to be a logical-thinking person, she emphasized.

"It is a young field, growing very very fast and is more welcoming (than some others)," she told the BPW. "It is not necessary to get a degree in computer science," she said, suggesting, however, that women interested should take some courses.

Asked about community college computer courses, Jeffries said that was the type of instruction she would recommend.

She also had a personal recommendation for career women that she said had worked very well for her: it was to dress professionally.

She said she had read John Molloy's book on dressing for success and followed his rules.

"I perceived a change in the way I was treated," she told the women. Her "uniform," she said, now is strictly dark suits, such as the one she was wearing. However, she observed, glancing at the brass blazer-type buttons on the jacket, she intended to change them to dark ones.

Her suit was accessorized with a high-necked silky blouse and pearls.

"It really works," she declared, relating that one of her employees was asked, "Does Mrs. Jeffries really make you dress that way?" — the answer was "yes."

It was definitely part of the "transition into a computerized world," the title of Ruth Jeffries' talk to about two dozen women.

Plymouth Symphony hosts "The Nutcracker Ballet"

Performances of "The Nutcracker Ballet" will be presented by the Plymouth Symphony at 2 and 5 p.m. Sunday in the Plymouth-Salem High School Auditorium. Northern Ballet Theater of Livonia, under the direction of Michelle Wolfe, will accompany the orchestra in the performances.

Although "The Nutcracker" is one of Tchaikovsky's most popular non-symphonic works, the ballet was received with indifference at its first performance in St. Petersburg in 1892. The ballet was presented periodically in abbreviated versions until 1954, when choreographer George Balanchine, with the New York City Ballet, presented a fresh interpretation.

Northern Ballet Theater of Livonia, which is in its eighth year, provides a repertoire of classical and contemporary ballets. In addition to performing, the company also presents lecture/demonstrations and residencies.

The company has been under the artistic direction of Michelle Wolfe since 1975. Wolfe, who also functions as the resident choreographer, has studied and performed with dance companies such as the Joffrey Ballet, the Royal Winnipeg and the Metropolitan Opera Ballet.

Tickets for both performances will be available at the box office. Single and season advance ticket sales will be at Four Seasons Flowers in Northville, Beltner Jewelry and Hammell Music in Plymouth, Arnoldt Williams Music in Canton and Liberty Music in Ann Arbor.

Single concert tickets for the ballet are $6 for adults and $3.50 for senior citizens, all children and students. No one will be admitted to either performance of the ballet without a ticket. Further information may be obtained by calling the Plymouth Symphony Society at 451-2112.

Free babysitting for preschoolers will be available during the concert.

The concert is made possible in part by a grant from the State of Michigan through the Michigan Council for the Arts, the City of Plymouth and the Plymouth Symphony League.

Northville Business and Professional Women's Club members have been "Speaking Up" — and taking off in new interest directions this fall.

At the club's November meeting a week ago Monday, President Marilyn K. Maher reported that the October campaign to "Speak Up — join BPW — it offers new opportunities, new chances for personal growth" has been successful.

The club made its first presentation of a new award in a program to recognize working women at the meeting. A plaque honoring The Northville Record was presented to Record editor Jean Day. It read, "In recognition of The Northville Record's advancement of women in the work place — presented by Northville Business and Professional Women's Club 1983."

Maher explained that nominations for the award had come from outside, but that the BPW had contacted an employee to see if she felt women actually had equal opportunity. School reporter and Our Town editor Michele McElmurry had confirmed it.

Day, in accepting the award, said the newspaper did offer equal opportunity in pay and advancement in practice as well as principle. The Record editorial staff is 50 percent female while the advertising manager, Suzanne Dimitroff, also is a woman.

A former Record reporter and member of the Northville BPW, Ellen (Sponseller) Creager, went on to the staff of the Ann Arbor News and now is working for the Detroit Free Press.

As the club began its "Speak Up" program this fall, it was noted that for more than 60 years the national federation has been the voice of working women, speaking up on such issues as pay equality and fair benefits.

Maher reported to club members on an opportunity to take an individual development eight-week course the beginning of the new year and reminded members that the December meeting is to be a dinner theater program featuring "Scrooge."

An October orientation program describing the club's "Speak Up" goals had resulted in new interest in the club which seeks women working in stores and businesses as well as professional women, Maher said. A new member as a result of the membership drive is Kathryn Hoppe, a dentist with offices in the township. Other new members are Jeanne Stempien, an attorney, and Barbara Nelson, head teller at the Northville Branch of Detroit Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Harriet Welland reported that application forms for the Bea Carlson Womanhood Award and national foundation awards were being reviewed as well as Girls State applications. Mrs. Welland and her daughter Pam, club treasurer, are newer members of the club, which holds dinner meetings the fourth Monday of each month. Current meeting location is Saratoga Trunk restaurant on Grand River.

The club, Maher pointed out, also has retained many long-time members. Marlene Danol, a past president who also served as state BPW president, and Virginia Plunkett both still are active members, serving on committees. President Maher is a CPA now in business for herself; she formerly was with Holland-Newton in Northville.

The club was organized by the late Bea Carlson, a Northville city council member, in 1948 with the aim of "furthering businesswomen professionally." It annually has presented scholarships to women.

In Our Town

MacDonalds lunched with TV celebrity

By JEAN DAY

Good causes can have fun benefits, as Northville Township Supervisor John E. MacDonald and his wife Anne recently discovered.

MacDonald reports that Bob FitzPatrick, chairman of the Wayne County Economic Development Commission on which MacDonald also serves, is a member of the board of directors of the American Cancer Society. Through FitzPatrick, they were invited by the board of directors to have lunch with Norman Fell and his wife Karen at Dearborn Country Club. Fell, who is Stanley Roper on "Three's Company," was in town doing advertising films for the American Cancer Society.

McAllister wedding takes families south

Leaving today to attend the wedding of their brother, Bradley B. McAllister, and Deborah E. Mueller in Florida are Diane Ording and Dawn Buda, who operate McAllister's House of Decorating at 324 East Main. With them will be Diane's husband Richard and their daughter Andrea and Dawn's husband Dave with their four children, Wendy, Kimberly, Scott and Andrew.

The sisters with their families also will be spending the holidays with their parents, Bruce and Beverly McAllister of Palm City, Florida. They are former Northville residents who established the decorating business here. They were in town at Thanksgiving.

The wedding will take place at their home on the St. Lucie River December 17. Brad McAllister, a Northville High School graduate, has been a Florida resident for five years. Also attending the wedding will be his brother Brian, who lives in Florida.

Genittis didn't cook turkey

"That was half the trip!" declares John Genitti as he relates that he and his wife Toni ate their Thanksgiving dinner with their children Laura and Andy on a Norwegian cruise ship in the Caribbean. For the owners of the Hole-in-the-Wall the cruise was a holiday from cooking. Genitti adds that it worked out very well for the youngsters who found playmates their ages among the 800 passengers.

The Genitti family also spend four days in Orlando visiting Disney World before returning.

The busy Genittis and staff of Lapham's store also found time to decorate the trees in their block along the south side of Main Street with dozens of bright red bows to add to the holiday decorating.

help organization, and C.A. Smith of Northville Civic Concern Committee. Each of the three organizations received $50 from Church Women United, a national ecumenical organization. The local chapter is composed of members from seven local churches. It annually also sponsors three ecumenical services for the community. Record photo by John Galloway.

Local musicians perform in Ann Arbor concert

Three Northville residents will be among the musicians participating in the Michigan Youth Symphony's Ann Arbor concert at 3 p.m. Sunday.

The free performance in Hill Auditorium will feature 75 of the most talented young musicians from throughout the state ranging in age from 10-18.

Northville students participating in Sunday's concert include Wendy Warner on flute, Ron Kepner on bassoon and Ann Shephard on violin.

The program of symphonic music will include Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony", "Coriolan Overture" by Beethoven, "Prelude to the Afternoon of a Faun" by Debussy and "The Hary Janos Suite" by Kodaly.

Michigan Youth Symphony is sponsored by the University of Michigan School of Music with the goal of offering aspiring musicians an opportunity to perform great symphonic works not normally possible in the school programs.

The orchestra rehearses at the School of Music from September through May and performs concerts throughout the Midwest.

This year the orchestra has been selected to perform at the Youth Fine Arts Festival in May, 1984.

The conductor for the season is Zuo-Hang Chen, a doctoral student in conducting at the University School of Music. Following his graduation, Chen is expected to return to China as the conductor of the Peking Symphony Orchestra.

The Northville Record

Heavyweight Burgett pins down mat win

It took about all night, but in its opening match last Thursday, the Northville varsity wrestling team managed to equal its entire victory total from last season: one.

And it was a thriller: Northville trailed league rival Farmington 33-30 going into the final individual match, but had its trump card back in heavyweight Brian Burgett. The 260-pound heart of the Mustang mat squad needed a decision to tie and a pin to win.

He got the latter, and a good-sized throng of Mustang mat fans responded with cheers.

"It was a nice match to start out with," said coach Gary Emerson. "Hopefully, it's going to set the tone for the remainder of the season. We'll be a real exciting team."

Things looked bleak in the early going. Northville had to forfeit at 98 pounds, then first-year wrestlers Toby Balai and Pat Bock took losses at 105 and 112. Just like that, Northville was down 15 points.

Mike Bates came up with a first-period pin at 119 pounds, but at 126, Norm Estigoy lost a "kind of a crusher," according to Emerson. "It was real tough. He lost 7-6 on a reversal."

Then John Lazar was decided 12-9 at 132 pounds, and at that point the Mustangs finally bottomed out.

Jay Anderson won on a pin at :56 seconds, Mike Levit followed with a pin at 155 pounds in 2:37. And suddenly the score was tied at 24. Ernie Bock gave the Mustangs the lead for the first time, winning on a 50-second pin at 167 pounds.

Then things got shaky. Joel Vogt was close to smelling a pin, then the table turned and Vogt himself was pinned at 185. Dino Candella lost a heartbreaker at 198 pounds, 9-6. Then Burgett did his rescue act.

"We had a good turnout, and there were a lot of Farmington people there, too," Emerson said. "It's important to get the fans kind of excited, I think it did help us. It looked like the flip side of what happened to us a lot last

Mustangs win S. Lyon cage tourney

By B.J. MARTIN

The Mustang varsity cagers survived a 50-47 shootout with Belleville Friday and dumped South Lyon 69-43 Saturday to open the squad's '83-'84 season and capture first place at the South Lyon Basketball Tournament.

"If we're going to finish at the top this year, we've got to start winning on the road, so I'm really pleased we were able to do that," said Coach Tim Lutes.

Lutes had plenty of reason to be optimistic after last weekend's action. The Belleville Tigers several times threatened to blow Northville out of the game with their superior quickness, but the Mustangs came on strong in the final moments with clutch shooting and floor play from Steve Frellick and Bob Pegrum.

Northville trailed by seven points at 2:45 remaining, and by three points with 16 seconds left. But a three-point play and then a one-and-one by Frellick put the Mustangs ahead to stay. Frellick canned all 11 of his points in the second half, eight during the frantic fourth quarter.

"It was a realization we weren't the second-best team out there," Lutes remarked. "We just hung in there and knew somebody would have to win it and it might as well be us. Both teams were kind of feeling out each other until the last quarter — then we went at each other."

Weber led Mustang scorers with 13 points and contributed an excellent floor game, Lutes said. Scott Gala added 10, and kept the Mustangs in the ballgame during the third quarter.

Gala made one of the game's most spectacular plays in the final seconds of the third quarter. He made a steal on a two-on-one Tiger fast break, flung the ball upcourt on the run, took a return pass and pulled up to can a five-foot jumper to tie the score.

Throughout the game, Lutes shuffled in his players as if it was hockey he was coaching. At times, none of his starters was on the court. "We've got a lot of balance," he said. "I was really encouraged by the way we were able to move people in off the bench."

At times, however, Northville looked plainly rattled against Belleville's pressure defense. "We just didn't show good poise at times," Lutes said. "We couldn't duplicate their quickness in the backcourt, although we got better as the game got along."

The Mustangs made it 2-0 Saturday, rolling over tournament host South Lyon, a middle-eschelon Kensington Valley Conference team. The Lions kept the score close through the first quarter, but then Northville exploded with a 28-7 rally in the second.

"They'd gotten a good look at the press we used Friday night and practiced for it Saturday," Lutes said. "So we put a different high-pressure, double-teaming kind of press in the second quarter, and we just blitzed 'em. I think they only got four shots off in the whole quarter."

During that stanza, the Mustangs collected seven steals and forced the Lions to foul to prevent easy baskets. The strategy backfired — Northville shooters converted 10 of 14 charity tosses.

Again Weber led Mustang scorers, posting 15 points — the senior forward

Lions, Tigers are Mustangs' first victims was nine of nine from the line. Point guard Dave Longridge got all eight of his points in the first half, sinking his first four shots. Pegrum also added eight points.

All the Mustangs scored at least two points in the contest. Among the most impressive appearances was Dan Perpich, a 6-3 guard who has earned a starting slot. In Saturday's game, Perpich had four assists and seven rebounds.

"Dan didn't play much last year on the varsity, or for that matter, he didn't play much as a sophomore on the JV. But he's worked really hard and with his height he gives us some flexibility. He did a good job Saturday," explained Lutes.

Backup forward Greg Wendell also had seven rebounds, and Gary Strunk demonstrated some offensive prowess, coming off the bench and hitting three shots.

The Mustangs kick off their league season with big games at Farmington Friday and Plymouth Canton next Tuesday. "The Farmington game is one we can't afford to lose," Lutes said.

"They'll be after us — we kind of upset them in their gym last year, and they've got a couple guards who can hurt us from the outside. They'll start a couple of 6-4 kids, and they've got a 6-7 center on the bench."

About the Chiefs, one of the WLAA's best teams, Lutes said, "It's very tough to win at Canton. In the whole time I've been here, I don't think we've ever won in Canton's gym."

The Mustang junior varsity also won the South Lyon tournament, beating the Lions 56-40 in the final Saturday.

year, losing by just one match."

Joe Conaway, Dave Baird and Don Unsworth were winners on pins in JV competition, while Mike Verosko and Dennis Nadeau took losses.

At the nine-team Belleville Invitational Saturday, there was little chance for an outstanding team performance — Northville has a number of good, but not dominant wrestlers.

The Mustangs were well off the pace with 60 total points, to winner Romulus' 105, but were close to scores in the middle of the pack. "Even some of the seedings could have changed how we finished," Emerson said.

Jim Assemany, third at 105, Vogt, fourth at 185, Bock, second at 167, and Estigoy, second in a tough 126 field, were Northville's only medalists at the tournament.

"Assemany had a real good day," Emerson said. "I'd say he wrestled his best ever."

Soccer players receive honors at fall banquet

Three members of the Northville Mustang varsity soccer team were given special awards at a banquet in the team's honor last week.

Forward Joe Mackle was named the team's Most Improved Player and forward/midfielder Joe Arwady received the Coaches' Award, for "best exemplifying heart and spirit."

Goalkeeper Jeff Metz was selected the team's Most Valuable Player.

Co-Coach Marvin Gans called the banquet a "very nice occasion," and declared his thanks to guests George Bell, superintendent of Northville schools, David Bolitho, NHS principal and Ralph Redmond, athletic director, for attending.

All-Stater

Northville's Chris Wagner, a senior at Dearborn Divine Child, was honored last week with a selection to the All-State football team as a defensive back. Selections of the poll are recognized by the Michigan High School Football Coaches' Association. Wagner, who was the Falcons' first-string quarterback in addition to being a defensive back, has started and starred for Divine Child for three years. He was also named to All-Metro, All-Catholic and all-league teams.

Swallow soars to gold medals

Jerod Swallow may very well be a name to remember.

At the Midwest Junior Dance and Junior Pairs championships in Minneapolis last week, the 17-year-old Northville ice skater became the first skater in more than 20 years to win gold medals in both events.

Skaters from 27 states appeared in the Midwest tournament; so Swallow and his two partners are in pretty elite company.

Teaming with Rochester's Shelly Propson in Junior Pairs, Swallow took a silver in short program and a gold in long, good enough for first place overall.

In Junior Dance, Swallow teamed up with Livonia's Jodie Balogh to claim overall gold medals by taking first in compulsory dances, second in original set pattern and first in free dance.

Swallow and his partners' performance qualifies them to appear at the Junior National Pairs and Dance competition, to be held January 15-21 in Salt Lake City, Utah — an event closely watched by U.S. Olympic Team officials.

Swallow and his partners will continue their training at the Detroit Skating Club in Bloomfield Hills and the Academy Skating Club in Flat Rock, in preparation for the Junior Nationals.

The skaters earned invitations to the Midwest championships by earning gold medals at the nine-state East Great Lakes Regional competition in Cleveland in October. The previous year, the same teams took golds in Novice competition at the regional.

Cougars, Sabres split cage series

A good-sized crowd turned out at the Northville Community Recreation building Sunday to watch the Our Lady of Victory Cougars take on Farmington Our Lady of Sorrows in the opening game of the 1983-84 CYO basketball season.

Four divisions were represented. In seventh and eighth grade boys, the Cougars needed a three-minute overtime to top the Sabres 24-18. Pat O'Rourke and Matt McDonald played solid offensive and defensive games.

The Sabres seventh and eighth grade girls' team, however, walloped the Cougars 40-4 despite good play by Cassie Callaghan and Janet Schlacter.

In fifth and sixth grade boys, the Sabres edged the Cougars 27-22. Craig Dalziel and Mike Padden were among the Cougars' top players in the game.

The Sabres won 33-6 over the Cougars' fifth and sixth grade girls' teams.

The OLV cagers will return to action at 1 p.m. Saturday at Divine Child in Dearborn.

EXTRA: The Grade 7-8 OLV cheerleading squad won first place in the Thanksgiving Tournament hosted by Our Lady of Sorrows, and received a trophy following the Grade 7-8 boys' basketball game.

New track record set

Leader's best, a four-year-old pacing mare, set a new track record at Northville Downs Saturday night, winning the $5,500 open event in 1:58.4.

The mare, owned by Dennis Molica and the estate of Cora Molica of Galesburg, Michigan, took the lead near three-quarters and won by two-and-a-half lengths over Captain Vance and Hiview Matic.

Trained and driven by Carl Putnam, the Leader Pick-Wooster Lady Miss shaved 0.4 seconds off the record set earlier this meeting by Lusclous Lea. Leader's Best victory was the seventh two-minute mile of the meeting and also part of Putnam's driving triple the same night.

In other Jackson's Action, Shilaway Bilbo notched his fourth victory of the meeting, taking Friday's Open trot in 2:03.2. Driver Jeff James took the lead approaching the half and registered a three-and-a-half length score.
