War remembrances of South Vietnam

By MICHELE McELMURRY

Gary Callender was three months out of high school when he was drafted into the army in September, 1968.

The son of a Detroit police sergeant, Callender spent eight months in training before being assigned to the Ninth Infantry Division in the Mekong Delta region of South Vietnam.

"When I went over there I was 18," Callender relates, "just a kid off the street. When I came back I was an old man."

Though the details of his 13-month tour in South Vietnam remain vivid after nearly 14 years, Gary Callender still is apprehensive about discussing his participation in the Southeast Asian war which took more than 57,000 American lives.

Despite earning 24 medals for service in Vietnam — including a Purple Heart and the Bronze Star with Valor device, Callender says "the real heroes of the war" were those Americans killed in the rice paddies and jungles of Vietnam.

Sitting at a desk in the Northville City Police station — where he has spent the past nine years working his way up the ranks from auxiliary to sergeant — Callender says he's still haunted by the public's perception of Vietnam veterans as "drug addicts" and "baby killers."

"When I first came back I wouldn't even talk about it," he recalls. "My friends would say, 'why don't you put it behind you.' But there's no way I can do that."

Faced with the public's animosity toward Vietnam, Callender has remained relatively silent about his service. His only involvement with a veteran's group is with the local VFW Post 4012.

Though only 33, Callender has been a veteran for 14 years.

Only 18 when he began his tour in Vietnam, Callender says; "it was an experience that helped me."

"I don't wish it on anybody," he notes, "but I feel I'm better for it."

"The only thing I regret is that I was only 18," he says. "I think if I was older I would have understood more about what was going on around me."

When Gary Callender landed in Vietnam in April, 1969, it was "106-degrees at three in the morning."

"It would cool off at night to 85-90 degrees and we'd be cold," he says.

Callender explains that dealing with the elements was half the battle in Vietnam.

With the terrain of the country consisting primarily of swamps and jungles, Callender notes soldiers rarely wore dry boots or uniforms.

"Most of the time we were walking through fields where the water reached somewhere between our knees and waist," Callender says.

"In the swamps, the mud was so thick you had to have a chopper pull you out," he adds. "And of course, where there's mud, there's snakes."

Disease — particularly malaria — always was a potential hazard, Callender explains.

"We used to go through three bottles of bug juice a night to keep the mosquitos off," he adds.

After spending four months in a Mobile Riverine Unit and less than a month with an infantry company, Callender volunteered for a six-man unit known as The Hawks.

One of the original 18 members of The Hawks, Callender spent eight months in the combat zone of the Delta region tracing down the enemy through intelligence reports and searching for booby traps.

A guerrilla unit primarily trained in jungle fighting, Callender explains, The Hawks provided the Viet Cong "with a taste of their own medicine." However, the casualties were tremendous. Within less than eight months, some 300 soldiers would serve in the three six-man Hawk units. Callender was one of the few original members to survive the war.

"The majority of the casualties were from booby traps," Callender explains. "When you're going with six guys, you figure the first two guys would go."

Lull allows prison foes to marshal forces

By KEVIN WILSON

While state corrections officials conduct an environmental/economic impact study of plans to use Plymouth Center as a prison, opponents of the move are using the time to gather information expected to assist in efforts to have the project abandoned.

A joint capital outlay committee of the state legislature is expected to consider the project at the conclusion of the impact studies. When that hearing is scheduled, those opposed to the plan hope to convince legislators it would be better to proceed with earlier plans to build an entirely new regional prison at Five Mile and Beck than to renovate the Plymouth Center site at Five and Sheldon.

State representative Gerald Law (R-Plymouth) said a key part of the effort is to present an assessment of local economic impact. Northville Township, Plymouth Township and Wayne County all have prepared or are working on statements evaluating development plans in the area and how these might be affected by the change in prison locations.

Plymouth Township's statement notes that land on the south side of Five Mile, immediately south of the proposed prison, is zoned for industrial development that would likely not occur if the facility for the mentally impaired is turned into a correctional institution.

Planning in both townships has been done with the idea that a regional prison would be at Five Mile and Beck, adjacent to the Phoenix Correctional Facility. The creation of a separate prison location in addition to Phoenix would cost Plymouth Township and other taxing units (schools and county, primarily) an estimated $2.9 million a year in personal and real property taxes, according to that township's evaluation.

Law said the figure is derived from a projected valuation for the adjoining properties in Plymouth Township, assuming they were developed as planned. Values are at 1983 levels, with the projected loss in tax revenues likely to grow as assessments rise with inflation.

Northville Township's assessment, still in preparation, is likely to reflect a similar loss of revenues resulting from cessation of development at the Wayne County Child Development Center property (included in township master plans as a senior citizens housing complex).

City okays road widening

Widening of Eight Mile road from a point west of Center Street to Novi Road will likely begin this spring. City council Monday night authorized the mayor and city manager to enter an agreement with Wayne and Oakland counties to perform the widening.

The project will receive majority funding from the federal government, with the two counties and the city dividing the local share costs. The city is to pay $7,300 on execution of the contract and another $7,300 by September 1 of next year.

City manager Steven Walters told council this allows the city to split its Northville voters weren't exactly flooding the polling places on a cloudy, cool Tuesday morning to cast ballots for mayor and city council members.

Clerk Joan McAllister reported at 10 a.m., three hours after polls opened at city hall and Amerman Elementary, that 128 persons had cast votes. Of 160 absentee ballots out, only five were still outstanding, she added.

"The absentee total is good," she said. "But it's starting fairly slowly (at the polls). Usually, there's a line outside when we open. There was no one waiting at city hall, I don't know about Amerman."

McAllister had projected a low voter interest in the election as the only contested race was for mayor, with Eugene Kunz, previously inactive in city electoral politics, challenging six-year incumbent Paul Vernon. Council members Carolann Ayers and Paul Folino were unopposed.

A week before the election, the clerk had projected a turnout of 25 to 30 percent. To achieve that, roughly 1,000 votes would be needed before the polls closed at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

In the last city election in 1981, 1,085 voters cast ballots. The only contested race that year was for a two-year council term in which Folino narrowly won over Jerome Mittman. That election also carried the ballot question that established the charter for Wayne County government.

Total registration in 1981 was 4,037, this year it is 3,833.

Results were not in when The Record went to press. Watch for full results in the November 16 edition.

Veterans' Day observance, office closings on Friday

Veterans' Day 1983 — this Friday — will be observed locally by Lloyd H. Green Post 147 of the American Legion with the annual breakfast at the post home at 100 West Dunlap.

Commander Bob Burton and Hank Gardner, chairmen, say that everyone in the community is welcome to come, eat and pay a moment's tribute to the country's veterans. Pancakes, sausages and eggs will be served from 6 a.m. to 2 p.m. for a $2.50 donation.

Sponsors report that, as he has done for years, Dave McLaughlin will be cooking breakfast.

The day will be observed by some governmental agencies, but not all.

Locally, city offices and the recreation department will be closed as will Wayne County offices. The Northville library will be closed, as it would be anyway on the winter schedule.

There will be no mail delivery except special delivery and express mail from the Northville Post Office; however, the lobby will be open from 6 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. for boxholders to pick up mail. The holiday collection schedule will be used for mail box collections.

Township offices will be open, and the observance is not a vacation day for Northville Public School students who will be in school on regular schedule.

By KEVIN WILSON

Futurist author Alvin Toffler presented a cautiously optimistic picture of the near future for a receptive audience of approximately 1,000 persons at Schoolcraft College November 4.

Noting he had spoken at Schoolcraft in 1976, the author of "Future Shock" and "The Third Wave" said that "in the intervening seven years, the world has changed probably half a century's worth."

In an adjacent exhibit hall, visitors to Schoolcraft's "Say Yes to the Future" exposition could see some of those changes — computers designed for home use, aerospace displays featuring the space shuttle, several robotics displays including one intended for domestic purposes and advanced solar energy systems.

Holding close to the thesis of his 1980 best-seller, "The Third Wave," Toffler told those assembled in the main gymnasium that "what we are living through now is the general crisis of industrial society" as it collapses to make way for a decentralized, diversified civilization. In a few decades, he said, the world will be as radically different from that of the present day as today's is from that of the pre-industrial era.

Recalling his own projections in "Future Shock" that the pace of change is accelerating, Toffler outlined the rapidity with which he expects the transition to move.

"The first wave was agricultural and it spread across the globe over a period of roughly 10,000 years as we changed from a hunting-gathering society to an agrarian one," Toffler explained. "The second wave, the one now coming to an end, began with the industrial revolution and lasted about 300 years."

"The third wave is hitting us now, and it is happening in America and in the more advanced industrial societies first," he said. "This one is going to sweep over us in a matter of decades."

The pace is so rapid now, he indicated, that the fully industrialized nations will move on to the new form of civilization before much of the world can fully enter the industrial period.

"If you look at the planet, there is a belt of approximately two dozen industrial societies, primarily in the northern hemisphere," Toffler stated. "There is Canada, the U.S. and Mexico, which have together about 250 million people; Western Europe where there is another quarter billion people; another quarter billion in Eastern Europe and, in the most recently industrialized region, Asia, there is again an approximate quarter of a billion people, give or take a bit."

Overall, he said, there are one billion people living in industrial societies "and they dominate the other 3 billion living in the rest of the world, who are only now on the verge of creating industrial societies."

Diverse, decentralized society rising, Toffler claims

Beneath their cultural and ideological differences, which he conceded were significant, Toffler said the industrial societies share a "parallel, underlying structure" that makes them essentially a single civilization.

"It is that structure that is collapsing around us and being replaced by something entirely new," he said. Cautioning that the vision he was about to present "could be derailed by war, economic collapse or other widespread disaster" Toffler said there is ample reason to be optimistic that civilization of the future can be an improvement on that of today.

Toffler said the second wave was characterized by centralization, concentration, standardization and the creation of a mass society pulsing to an underlying rhythm. Each of the industrialized societies has created forms of mass communication, mass education, mass marketing, mass production, mass distribution. Each of these systems, he said, interconnects with the others, creating a mass society.

Using education as example, Toffler said the way schools are structured in industrial societies is connected with the need to create an industrial workforce.

"All industrial societies develop systems of mass education and, despite what seem to be large differences on the surface, each has created a curriculum based on three fundamental courses. Whatever else they learn, children in these schools learn punctuality (to be there when the bell rings, move to another class when the bell rings, all on a strict time schedule); they learn obedience (and particularly not to ask too many questions) and they learn to perform routine tasks, repetitive work. These just happen to be precisely the skills required of the labor force in an industrial society where we worked in factories."

The creation of school systems in the second wave, Toffler said, was "magnificent and democratizing development in society. But, they were also a machine in preparing the work force."

Among the facets of society being concentrated were the population (brought together in large cities to supply factories with a sufficient labor concentration), energy (dependency on fossil fuels centralized the distribution system) "we took children and concentrated them in schools, and with sick people we brought them into one place and called it a hospital."

The end result was the end of extended families (which were needed to survive in an agrarian society) and the standardization, among industrial nations, on the nuclear family.

Toffler said a great many of these second wave institutions are now coming apart, and began doing so in the late 1950s as indicated when art began to criticize societal pressure toward conformity (the standardization of people).

"All these interconnective systems," he said, "formed the greatest civilization there has ever been — the second wave. That's the system that's coming apart."

As evidence, he cited economic difficulties, unemployment problems in all industrial societies, rising protectionism, and a great many sociological changes begun in the past 20 years.

"The third wave contradicts the old. It is a new civilization and it's not just computers and genetic engineering and aerospace, but sociological, religious, and economic."

A "key difference" in the coming third wave is "diversity," Toffler said.

"The third wave contradicts the old. It is a new civilization and it's not just computers and genetic engineering and aerospace, but sociological, religious, and economic."

— Alvin Toffler

"The mass society is becoming demassified."

"Karl Marx and Henry Ford both said mass production was the most efficient form of production, and in their day they were correct. Now, mass production is swiftly becoming the less efficient form of production. The cost of diversity soon will be, and in many places is, no more expensive than mass manufacturing."

The most advanced factories of the present, he said, no longer produce "2,000 standard, identical items, but instead make 38 of these, 13 of those, a handful of something else."

In a discussion with military officials after publication of "The Third Wave," Toffler said, he was told he had neglected their field in his discussion of specialization. "From an era in which mass destruction was the military objective, growing from machine guns to atomic weapons, we now have 'precision targeted' weapons. They have what are literally 'smart' bombs that can be targeted to destroy a very small area. What we have is the customization of destruction."

Before this decade is out, he said, people will be able to "go shopping" on a home computer. "Say, I wanted a camera. I'd punch in what I wanted, say a 35 mm, and up would come a list of all the cameras meeting my criteria. I could specify certain features I wanted and have those listed, and get a picture of the product. A little farther in the future, it is possible I'd be able to manipulate that picture, look at it from all sides, open it up.

"When I'm ready I can ask for prices and they'll all come up," Toffler continues. He noted that pricing will likely become destandardized as well, "with a bit of electronic haggling going on and the price fluctuating from day to day, even minute to minute, depending on production costs and other variables when you place your order."

The ultimate expression of this marketing system would be to allow customers to design products suiting their own needs "and then when I hit the button, I might actually be starting the production line somewhere. The system isn't perfect, because we still have to have transportation and delivery systems — we don't have teleportation, yet."

This vision dovetails neatly with a portion of Toffler's book in which he foresees a "prosumer" society, in which consumers often produce things for their own uses rather than buying them from others. By doing tasks themselves, people can save money and often time in many ways today and this trend is likely to grow, Toffler contends.

One of the most popularized aspects of "The Third Wave" is Toffler's prediction of the "electronic cottage" to allow many people to work in their own homes. Commuting, he said last week, is the most "inefficient use of time and resources we engage in anymore — commuting is the stupidest thing we do."

But the electronic cottage idea has been misinterpreted, he said. "I never said everyone would, or should, work at home. But, perhaps a great many people will work part of the time at home and part in an office. Another thing often brought up is social contact, our need for social contact and of course I agree, we all need social contact. But human beings had lots of social contact before there were factories — there were large families and neighbors and the folks in town."

Among the coming changes, he said, is the "reassignment of educational tasks and health care to the home... and moving decision-making power from the great centralized governments both downward to regional and local bodies and upward to a network of many, many international or transnational organizations."

Education and training, he said, may become the major basic industry in America over the next decade or two as the society sees a need to transform its workforce from an industrial one to a third wave type.

"When we established our educational system," he said, "we were generally sending our children to people who were more educated than we were. Without being critical of the teaching profession, I think we have to realize that increasingly parents are more educated than are the teachers."

Universities, he said in response to a question, will have to "decompartmentalize knowledge. We must balance the talent for dissection of problems with the talent for synthesis."

In concluding his address, Toffler said, "we are looking at a transformation so enormous it can no longer be contained within the word 'change.'"

"It's only against this background that we can understand events as they happen and attempt to direct our society toward what we feel is desirable. The question this poses for us as individuals is 'Do we align ourselves with the second civilization or do we become part of the revolution?'"

Allen Terrace returns unused donation to city

Fiscal year-end accounting for the city housing commission has resulted in return of more than $18,000 to the city general fund, council learned Monday.

Housing director Fran Yoakam reported that as of June 30, the department had not used $19,100 of city contributions. The housing commission retained $1,001 — the amount of the subsidy granted renters in excess of Allen Terrace Trust Fund revenue. Overall, she said, a surplus of $11,915 is being carried over from the 1983 budget into fiscal year 1984, applied to the reserve account which grows from a budgeted $13,750 to $25,665.

City manager Steven Walters told council the $18,099 returned to the city will be applied against the city's deficit, which at last reporting was $458,000 and now will be reduced to roughly $440,000.

"This (return of city contribution) is reflecting gradually what we anticipated — that over about 10 years there would be a sizeable cost to begin with that would be reduced until Allen Terrace is self-supporting and may reach a point where it contributes to the budget," Walters said. "It is now self-sufficient aside from the subsidy of providing general services."

The returned money is partially the result of an intensive program that reduced the obligation against the trust fund (which subsidizes rents) by increasing the proportion of tenants receiving state assistance.

"It is our intent to continue to pursue our goal of financial independence," Yoakam told council.

Walters noted that while the adjustments are reflective of the Allen Terrace fiscal year ending June 30 of this year, the city has closed its books on that period and the change will be shown in current fiscal year budgets.

Marquis adds weekend shows

"Broadway Melodies," the Marquis Theater's premier presentation of its fall season, will be held over an extra weekend due to ticket demand.

Evening performances beginning at 8:30 p.m. have been added for Friday, November 18, and Saturday, November 19. Tickets are $6.50. Performances are scheduled for 8:30 p.m. this Friday and Saturday with a matinee Sunday. Last Saturday and Sunday performances were sold out.

The Marquis' next production will be a holiday feature, "Sleeping Beauty."

the prison proposal was aired.

Law indicated the capital outlay committee will be receptive to arguments opposing the proposal only if they focus on economic consequences that counter state department of management and budget projections that the renovation could save $20 million over the cost of the new prison.

He said he is examining the long-term operating costs of the renovated site versus those of a new prison as he continues to attempt to gather information for presentation to committee members.

Local efforts have also been aimed at gathering sufficient information to stop the renovation project, while attempting to gather political support favoring the regional prison concept over the "quick-fix" solution to prison overcrowding represented by the renovation plan.

"They tell me now that they can house 'X amount' of prisoners fairly quickly at Plymouth Center," Law said. "What they don't say is that they've let an entire building season go past when they could have been constructing the regional prison at Five and Beck. Instead, they (the corrections department) stopped work at the site last spring and let the legislature go ahead and appropriate funds for it that they never intended to use. Had they not done that, I'm fairly certain the Beck Road prison could have opened on a competitive time frame with their proposal."

Two Northville VFW Post 4012 members were incorrectly identified in a photo caption on page 13-A of last week's Record. The caption should have said Merle Hoag, Bob Hock and post commander Jim Hornshaw presented a flag to township officials.

Sunrise Sunset

Here are some guidelines for great sunset or sunrise pictures.

Find the good-looking skylines toward the west for sunset; east for sunrises. Check out the scenery to north and south for possibilities of side-lit late afternoon scenes, too.

Find a good vantage point so you can compose your shots beforehand. Divide the picture with a third of the scene in front of you—either one-third sky or one-third landscape. Don't put the sun dead-center either.

Your exposure can be just what the meter says. One good rule for sunsets is to start shooting when your meter says 1/4 at 1/60th with any speed of film.

To jazz up your color pictures when the sky doesn't cooperate, try one of the black and white contrast filters, such as orange or red. Bracket your shots to be sure of good ones. You might try some of the special effects filters, too.

For further suggestions and all your picture-taking needs, come see us at

Northville resident stars

Marie-Louise Capote in '40 Carats'

Marie-Louise Capote of Northville is playing the feminine lead role of Ann Stanley opposite David Ide's portrayal of Peter Latham in the Plymouth Theatre Guild's production, "40 Carats," at 8 p.m. this Friday and Saturday.

The show, being presented in Central Middle School at Church and Main in Plymouth, opened last Friday with three performances slated.

It is the first time the Northville resident has appeared with the guild. Last year she starred in the Schoolcraft dinner theater and previously has been on stage in the Henry Ford Community College productions.

The theater guild reports this is a story "for everyone who believes in love at first sight and happy endings." It relates how a young man, 22, meets and falls in love with an older woman, 40, in Greece. The romance — and problems — continue when he follows her back to New York.

Mrs. Capote and her family have been Northville residents for several years and currently are restoring a 98-year-old home at 222 Fairbrook. She is a substitute teacher and a member of Northville Woman's Club. Her interests also include piano, yoga and sailing.

She is playing opposite David Ide who previously has been involved in two productions for the Plymouth Community Arts Council. A Canton resident, he is single and is a fashion model.

Others in the cast are Tobin Hissong, Rod Morey, Donna Belzer and Gail Mesner, all of Canton; Laurel Twitcheil of Redford who currently is enrolled in Wayne State University's bachelor of fine arts program, majoring in theater; Donna Barnes of Plymouth with Karen Wendt and Bob Myrtle.

Al LaCroix is directing the play while Robin Galick is producer. Tickets are $4 for adults, $3 for students and senior citizens. They may be ordered by calling 455-5263.

Taylor-Bologna play next at SCC

"Lovers and Other Strangers" by Renee Taylor and Joseph Bologna will open this weekend at Schoolcraft College as the fall dinner theater presentation of the Schoolcraft College Players under the direction of Dr. Ronald Worsley.

It will be given this Friday and Saturday and next, November 18-19. Dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m.; curtain time is 8 p.m. in the Waterman Campus Center.

The play is a comedy about love, sex and marriage in which the authors, a husband and wife team, depict the war of the sexes in five one-act plays.

The first play in Act I, "Brenda and Jerry," depicts a young man (George Tjilos) who has just picked up a young lady (Mary Lilburn) in a singles bar, only to have the lady turn the tables on him.

In the second play, "Mike and Susan," a young girl (Toni Skatikat) is awakened from a sound sleep at 4 a.m. by her fiancé (Joseph Hoffman) who has come to tell her that he is a nervous wreck and can't go through with their wedding.

Third play is about a thoroughly married couple (Dan Ferrier and Elizabeth Erdody) who can't decide who wears the pants in the family.

Act II opens with "Hal and Cathy"

'Lovers And Other Strangers,' is a series of five one-act plays about love, sex and marriage written by a husband-and-wife team.

which takes place in the bathroom of Hal's suburban home where Cathy (Anne Marie Furie) has gone to slash her wrists. Hal (Dan Ferrier), the married man in the case, tries to talk her out of it by using his own peculiar brand of logic.

Second play in Act II, "Bea, Frank, Richie and Joan," features a couple who has lived and fought together in their version of married bliss for 30 years (Betty Ring and Bal Capote). The play is about their hilarious efforts to prevent the divorce of their son Richie (George Buchanan) and his wife Joan (Debbie Hassell) by confessing their own failings.

Dr. Worsley of Henry Ford Community College's theater department also directed last year's production of "Bus Stop."

The buffet dinner menu includes branded fruit compote, tossed salad, petite potted Swiss Steak Provencale, baked filet of North Atlantic Cod a la maison, potatoes royale, fresh vegetables, assorted breads and rolls and dessert. To make reservations call 591-6400, extension 265.

NHS graduate behind local station's stories concerning Northville

Northville resident Laurie Leinonen, a 1980 graduate of Northville High School and currently an intern for WXYZ-TV, is the reason for the latest publicity downtown Northville has received.

Northville was featured last Friday on "Good Afternoon Detroit," an Emmy-nominated magazine format show that appears on Channel 7 (WXYZ) at 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

On the program viewers were encouraged to spend a day in Northville, visiting antique stores, shops and Mill Race Historical Village. To top the day off, it was suggested visitors could dine at MacKinnon's, Genitti's or Elizabeth's and perhaps catch a show at the Marquis Theater.

It was written and produced by Leinonen who expects to be graduated from the University of Michigan with a BA degree in communications in May, 1984. She is the daughter of Joan and John Leinonen of 46425 Pickford.

She has produced several segments for "Good Afternoon Detroit" during her internship which began in the summer and has extended into fall.

Saturday classes teach skills for ACT, SAT

Registration is under way for the December ACT exam preparation offered beginning November 19 by the Division of Continuing Education at Oakland University.

Saturday workshops will be conducted November 19 and 26 and December 3, in preparation for the December 10 ACT exam. Meeting times are 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. with an hour lunch break for the first two classes, and from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. for the third class.

Qualified instructors will focus on the best approach to test-taking for successful results. They will analyze the mathematics section of the exam and explain reading comprehension, sentence completion, analogies and acronym sections. Tuition is $75.

Registration information may be obtained by calling the Continuing Education office at 377-3120 between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. weekdays.

VFW collects for troops

Members of Northville Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4012 and its auxiliary announced Monday that plans are being made locally to collect and send packages to U.S. troops in Beirut and Grenada.

The post and auxiliary are joining with other veterans' groups in the area to collect and send 1500 items for the troops.

Donations of any of the following items would be appreciated gratefully, reports Linda Burton, auxiliary president.

Being collected are paper, envelopes and pens; canned meats and small cans of peanuts, fruit cocktail, soups and puddings; razor blades, shampoo, toothpaste; Christmas candy and Pringles chips; small games and one pound coffee cans for packing.

Items may be dropped off at V.F.W. Post 4012, 438 South Main, from noon to 5 p.m. a week from Saturday, November 19.

The auxiliary also is welcoming monetary donations to purchase articles. Burton may be contacted at 349-9828.

Township says 'thanks' for anti-prison vote, county taxes approved

Nine of the 15 members of the Wayne County Commission found their way to Schoolcraft Community College last Thursday for the fifth of eight commission meetings scheduled outside the City/County Building.

The regional meetings are scheduled with the intent of providing area residents opportunity to attend a commission session. Few were present, however, with members of the audience in the auditorium of the college liberal arts building mostly county employees there to speak to agenda items, or media representatives.

After a delay of more than half an hour until a quorum was present, Mary Dumas, 10th District representative (Northville, Plymouth, Livonia) introduced Northville Township Supervisor John E. MacDonald.

MacDonald thanked the commission for passing a resolution opposing moving a planned state prison from Beck and Five Mile roads to Sheldon and Five Mile and stated the township appreciated its support.

As recommended by the Ways and Means Committee, the commission approved unanimously a 7.32 mills ad valorem tax levy for the county, the same as previously. Chairman William G. Suzore noted that this is the maximum amount that can be levied as "the county is at the limit — there's nowhere else to go."

Reporting Friday on the effects of the levy adopted by the commission, Commissioner Dumas said that taxpayers generally can expect nearly a five percent decrease in their tax bill in 1984, primarily because of declining residential property values in Wayne County.

On the basis of the state equalized valuation, the levy indicates the amount of millage and assessment raising funds to operate cities, townships, school and drain districts as well as for other purposes within taxing jurisdictions.

Until the commission adopts the levy each year, cities and townships and other taxing jurisdictions are prohibited from collecting the taxes that fund public services. With adoption of the levy, revenue can now be collected from taxes due after December 1.

This year the levy throughout all 43 cities and townships in the county is $127.7 million, about $5.25 million less than the $133 million levied in 1982. That, Dumas pointed out, reflects $700 million less in SEV, down to $78 billion this year from $78.7 billion last year.

In the taxing procedure, SEV is determined by assessment of property at one-half actual cash value. After assessments are determined locally by officials in each community, the county commission in April each year conducts hearings and applies equalization factors assuring uniform rates for all jurisdictions across the county.

The SEV together with millage, local and county, determines individual tax bills. Like the SEV, the millage rate varies with each community, any of which can vote more millage for schools, drains, police and fire protection.

Wayne County's own millage already is levied at the maximum allowed by charter, plus an extra one mill for operating expenses approved by voters for five years in 1980. Each mill brings the county $18 million revenue.

State Equalized Value for Northville Township for 1983-84 is listed at $173,531,590 while the City of Northville's SEV is given as $47,773,450.

Declining residential property value is given as the main reason for the reduced SEV with the influence clearer in the downriver communities of Brownstown Township, Gibraltar, Rockwood and Trenton where property values have dropped from six to 10 percent, affected in part by the loss of heavy industry, such as the Ford stamping plant, Firestone and Wyandotte Chemical companies.

Property values declined the least in the Grosse Pointe areas, Dumas pointed out.

In Northville city and township the 1983-84 tax spread will include 39.90 mills for Northville Public Schools, 1.11 for Wayne County Intermediate School District and 1.92 for Schoolcraft Community College District.

At Thursday's meeting at Schoolcraft the commission also passed a resolution supporting the demand for financial relief for families of the 269 passengers and crew members of the Korean Air Lines Flight 007 of September 1.

It approved a 10-year leasing agreement with Cadillac Towers Associates for Friend of the Court operations.

It also approved an agreement between Hotel, Motel, Restaurant Employees, Cooks and Bartenders Union Local 24, AFL-CIO and the county for jail service.

However, a proposed agreement between the administrative unit of the Wayne County Bar Association and the county was voted down with seven yes, one no vote and one abstention.

The proposal called for raises that in some instances were for increases higher than $20,000. Assistant Prosecuting Attorney's salary would be increased from $411,730 to $65,000.

Dumas stated she felt "it is a bad time to give the increases" while Commissioner Milton Mack noted that the county is being put "in the rather strange position that the people being supervised are making more than the supervisors."

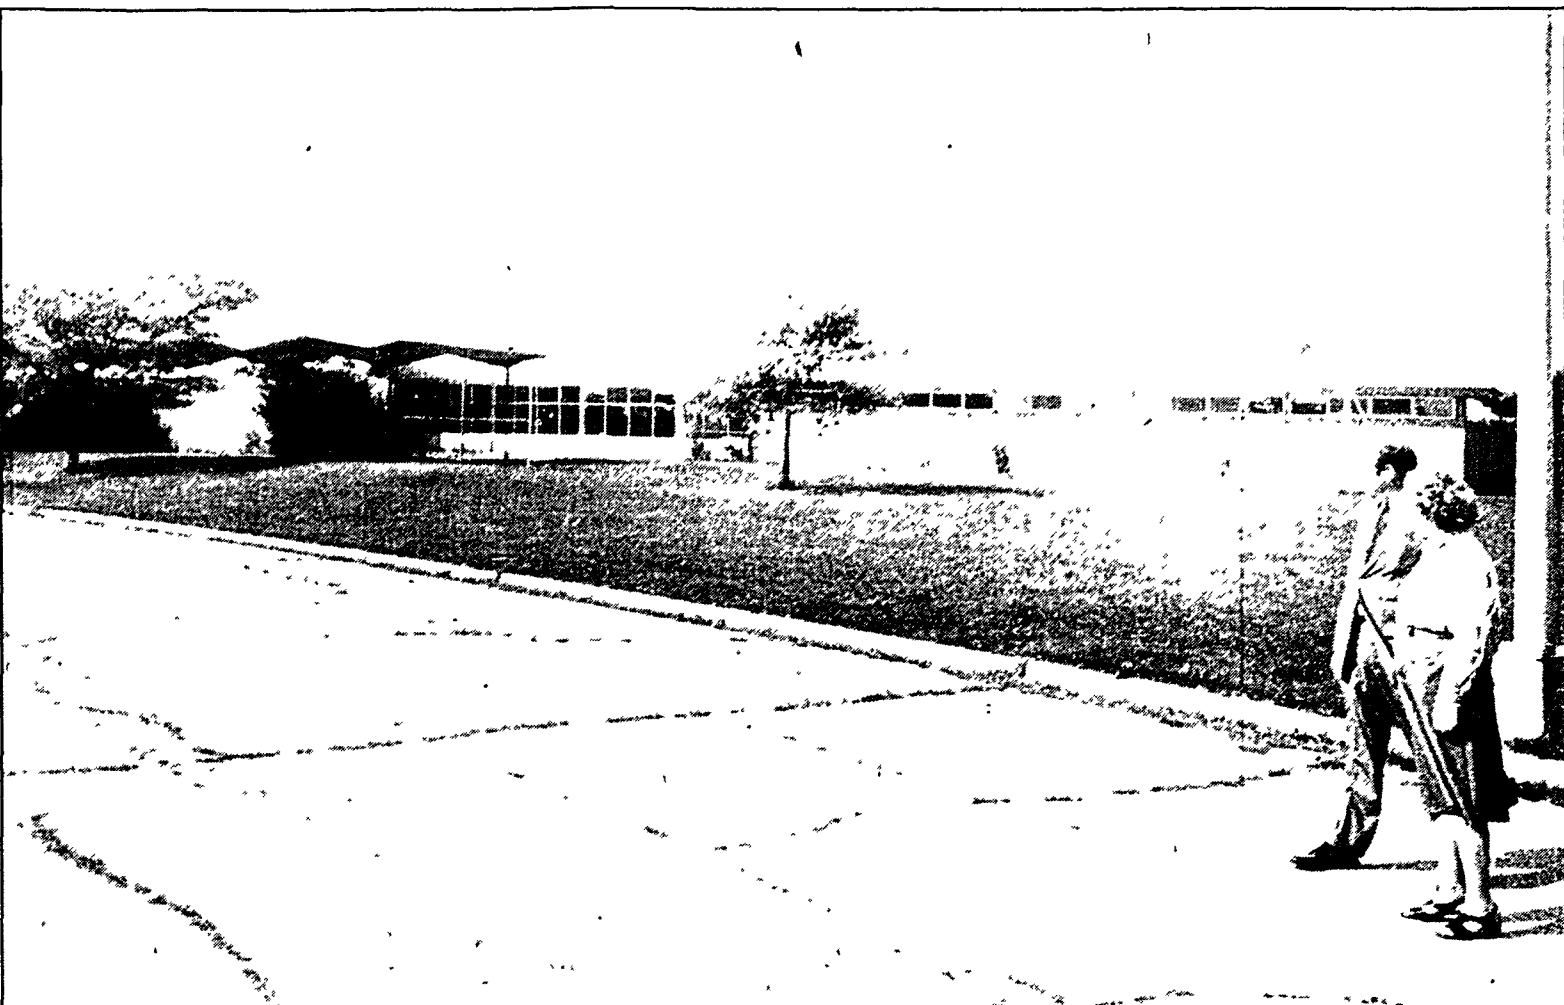

Commissioner Joseph L. Jurkiewicz stated it is a case of "catch up" with some employees not having received an increase in the past five years.

Dumas also expressed concern as an agreement between the Greater Detroit Building and Construction Trades Council of the AFL-CIO and the county was approved from October 1 of this year through June 20, 1985.

With the large numbers of unemployed in the area she said she questioned giving the prevailing wage rate to workers who would be working 12 months of the year and receiving many fringes. She pointed out that many workers in the area were able to find work only a small part of the year. It passed 8-1 with Dumas voting no.

The commission passed for the day and did not vote on the chief executive's request for approval of a contract with Kirwood Hospital to provide emergency service for eligible recipients of the county.

Request of Dumas for consideration of a Driving Under the Influence agreement was referred to the public safety committee.

Township Supervisor John MacDonald and county commissioner Mary Dumas toured Plymouth Center site

John Perry to lecture

Veteran remembrances of Vietnam

"In my first operation we went out with seven guys — including the captain who invented the Hawk teams," Callender says. "Within the first two hours we got hit. We lost three guys — including the captain."

"The first month you're there is the hardest," Callender relates. "After you've been there a month you realize the only safe ground you have is the ground your two feet are on."

However, despite the high casualty risk, Callender says he felt most secure working with the six-man unit.

"You had six guys you could depend on," Callender says. "There were friends I grew up with from kindergarten through high school that I wasn't as close to as these guys after three months."

Callender notes that Hawks also worked as relief units for companies in trouble.

"If a company got hit real bad, they would pull the company out and send choppers in with one Hawk per chopper."

"We'd fall out and wait for the Viet Cong to come out of the jungle and pick up what the Americans had dropped."

"They'd pick up anything to make mortar."

In assessing the Vietnamese armies, Callender describes the North Vietnamese as being "well trained and excellent shots" and the Viet Cong as being "farmer by day, soldier by night."

"As jungle fighters, I really respected them," he notes. "Of course you're fighting on their turf."

During his eight-month stint with The Hawks, Callender took a shrapnel wound from a grenade. He remains evasive about the incident noting only that a "Viet Cong threw a grenade and I had nowhere to go to protect myself."

"They dusted me off to Saigon where I spent a couple days. Then they shipped me back to my company."

"They gave me a Purple Heart for that," Callender says. "That's one I don't think I deserve."

"My buddy took a duel hit with a mortar round," he recalls. "You could put a quarter of him in a body bag."

"I cried then — but that was the only time."

"The hardest thing was that you didn't know who your enemy was," Callender says. "The whole country was your enemy — whether they were six-years-old or 80."

However, Callender notes that the Vietnamese were not the only enemies.

"We had all the people back home hating us as well as all the people there hating us," he says. "You just got to a point where you didn't care anymore. You knew you were going to die, you just didn't know what day it would be."

Callender says that while he was angered by the anti-war protests erupting throughout the United States, he was more upset about the draft dodgers.

"I'm really angered that they allowed the guys that split to Canada to return," he says. "I can't accept that."

Callender was pulled out of Vietnam in May, 1970. After his return home he spent a year looking for a job and trying to "gear down" from more than a year of fighting.

Callender says he believes the hardest part about coming home was trying to cope with the public's rejection as well as gearing down from the war.

"It's crazy," Callender explains. "You've been an animal for 13 months and then they ship you back home and say 'behave.'"

Despite the public's outcry against one of America's most "unpopular wars," Callender says he doesn't "feel it was unjust for us to be there."

"You know they still don't call this a war," he notes. "They call it a police action."

"Well, I was there and it sure seemed like a war to me."

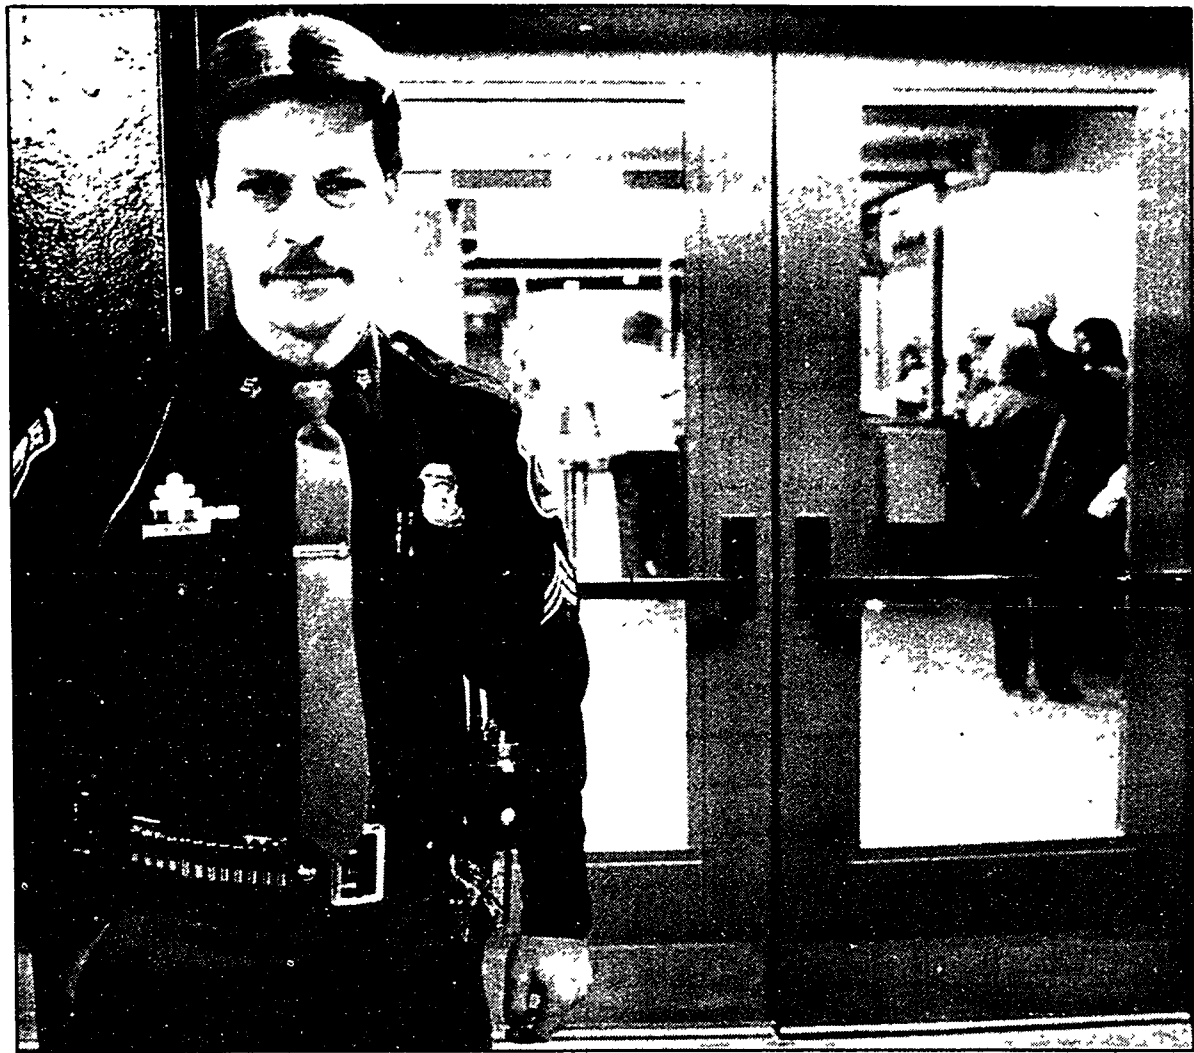

Callender says he believes the major difference between Vietnam and other wars — particularly World War II — was that there was no front line in Southeast Asia.

"In World War II there was a front line and you'd secure everything behind you," he says. "In Nam, you'd take an area and a month later you'd have to take it again."

Though he lost many friends in Vietnam, Callender says he does not believe they died in vain.

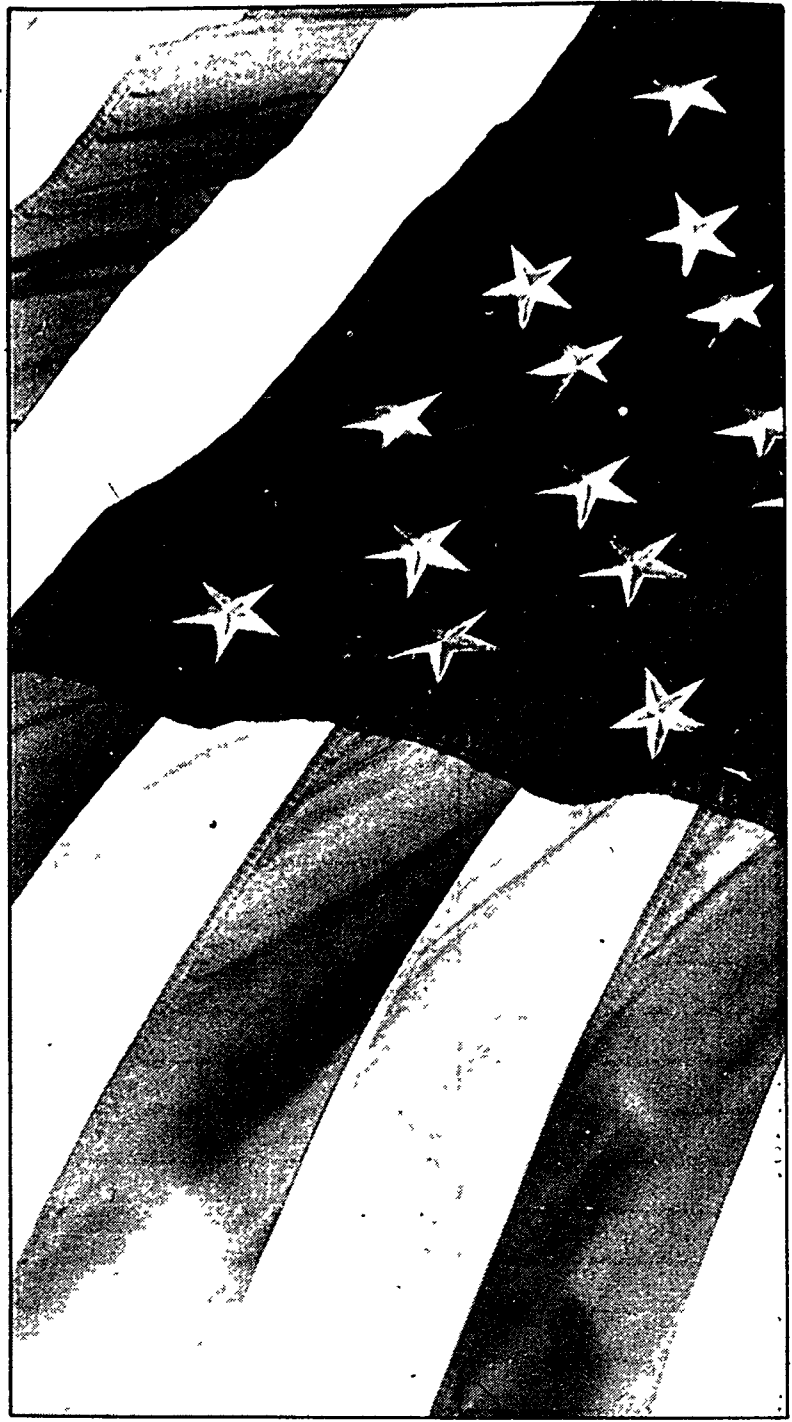

"We were unpopular because it was an unpopular war," he says. "But we thought we were doing the right thing."

"There is no way I'll admit we lost that war."

Lila Collins, local florist, dies at age 73 in Florida

Former longtime Northville resident and businesswoman Lila Collins died Sunday in Englewood, Florida, at the age of 73. She had been ill for the past year.

Mrs. Collins owned and operated Lila's Flowers in Northville for 16 years. The business now is IV Seasons Flowers and Gifts.

Shortly after opening her business in 1966, Mrs. Collins originated a pre-Christmas show in her shop that developed into the traditional Christmas Walk on the Sunday before Thanksgiving as other merchants joined her through the years.

Mrs. Collins moved to Florida a year and a half ago. She was born July 26, 1910, in Detroit. The former Lila Vereysey, she married Fred Collins who died in 1956. She also was preceded in death by a son Terrence and a sister Ruth.

She had lived in Northville for more than 30 years and had been a member of Our Lady of Victory Church.

She leaves her son Dan in Englewood, a son Michael in Ann Arbor, daughter Kathy in Whitmore Lake, two brothers James and Charles and five granddaughters.

Funeral arrangements are being made in Florida.

EDWARD D. MATATALL

Funeral service for former Northville resident Edward D. Matatall, 61, of Westland was held at 10 a.m. Saturday at Casterline Funeral Home with the Reverend Lloyd G. Brasure, pastor emeritus of First Presbyterian Church, officiating.

Mr. Matatall died November 2 after an illness of three months at the Veterans' Administration Hospital in Allen Park. He was a member of the Berkley Post of the American Legion and Northville V.F.W. Post 4012.

He was retired from Hayman Company where he had been in property management.

Born April 30, 1922, in Nova Scotia, Mr. Matatall was the son of James D. and Dorothy (Payne) Matatall. He married the former Betty J. Yerkes, who survives.

He also leaves sons Edward G. in California, Donald I. of Westland, James C. in Illinois, William A. in Pennsylvania; a daughter Kathleen Kata in Florida; sisters Dorothy Jason in Indiana and Betty Kaluse of Detroit; brothers Horace G. of Detroit and Larry H. of Taylor; and seven grandchildren.

Burial was in Grand Lawn Cemetery in Detroit.

WILLIAM LEO MEDICO

Funeral service for William Leo Medico, 73, of 18627 Jamestown Circle, will be held at 10 a.m. Thursday at Our Lady of Victory Church where he was a member. The Reverend Father Frank Pollie is officiating.

Burial will be in Mt. Olivet Cemetery in Detroit.

Mr. Medico died November 6 at St. Mary Hospital after an illness of long duration.

He came to the community four years ago and had been an accounting clerk for Ford Motor Company for 30 years.

He was born in Pittston, Pennsylvania, September 19, 1910, to Ignaz and Vincenza (Montante) Medico. He married Edith Jeannette Goyette, who survives, in 1959.

In addition to his wife he leaves a daughter Mrs. Vivian Borel of Tucson, Arizona; a son Ronald I. of Los Angeles; four sisters Mrs. Grace Alcini, Mrs. Frances Melnik, Mrs. Mary Wallison and Mrs. Josephine Gavrilov; and five grandchildren. He was preceded in death by a daughter and a sister.

Funeral arrangements were by Ross B. Northrop and Son Funeral Home.

MIKE O. DEEB

Funeral service for Mike O. Deeb, 98, father of Mitchell Deeb of Northville, was held at 10 a.m. Monday at St. Ives Catholic Church of Southfield with Father Grandtre of St. Ives officiating. The service was preceded by a wake service at Casterline Funeral Home.

Mr. Deeb's grandsons served as pallbearers. Burial was in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery in Southfield.

Mr. Deeb died November 3 at his home in Southfield.

He was born July 31, 1885, in Lebanon. He was married to Jennie Rice Deeb who preceded him in death March 20, 1975.

In addition to his son Mitchell he leaves sons Frederick P. Alexander in New Hampshire, Edward in Nevada, Fred and Phil in Arizona, Thomas in California; daughters Viola Darga of Dearborn, Jo Krumb in Georgia; and Vera Zuccarini of Southfield; a brother Sam Davis in Pennsylvania; 32 grandchildren and 34 great-grandchildren.

LAURA L. BURRELL

Funeral services for Laura L. Burrell, 22, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Burrell of Salem Township, were held at 3 p.m. Wednesday, November 2, at the Schrader Funeral Home in Plymouth with the Reverend Luther Stanley officiating. Burial was in Riverside Cemetery, Plymouth.

Miss Burrell died October 30 in Farmington Hills.

She was born August 17, 1961, in Garden City, and was a student at Pontiac Business Institute. She was a member of Landmark Baptist Church in Plymouth.

In addition to her parents, she is survived by her grandparents Hayes and Hazel Burrell of Plymouth and Mrs. Mary Rotarius of Cohoctah. She is the niece of Rodney and Diane Burrell of Northville, Mrs. Calvin (Margaret) Lang of Fowlerville, and Mrs. Lloyd (Mary) Strong of Westland.

Memorial contributions may be given to the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

DAR slates November activities

Sarah Ann Cochran Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, have set November dates for two special events.

The chapter is sponsoring a colonial tea and craft demonstration from 1-4 p.m. November 17 at St. John's Episcopal Church in Plymouth.

Tickets may be obtained by calling 420-2299 or 453-4425.

The chapter's 57th birthday will be celebrated at a luncheon at noon November 21 in the Miles Standish Room of the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth.

The program will focus on the DAR Museum. Speaker is Mrs. George Merwin of Detroit, a former Northville resident and active chapter member. Reservations, and more information on the DAR, may be obtained by calling 348-2198 or 453-4425.

In Uniform

Private E-3 Michael J. Hollis, son of James and Lois Hollis of Northville Township, is assigned to the 556th Military Police Company in Siegelback, West Germany. He has been in West Germany since August, 1982.

The 556th Military Police Company is a police unit with a demanding and challenging physical security mission.

Hollis completed his MP training with the Fourth Platoon at Fort McClellan in Alabama where he received a letter of commendation for high marksmanship with the M16A1 rifle.

Since being stationed in Germany, he has earned a certificate from the University of Maryland European College Division in "Stress Management for Physical Security Military Police" and a certificate from the Seventh Army Combined Arms Training Center for "Site Security."

Newly-promoted Sergeant Eric H. Bock, son of Bernard and Theresa A. Bock of 9155 West Six Mile, Northville, has been decorated with the Army Achievement Medal at Fort Benning, Georgia.

Harness horses escape from Downs paddock area

From State Police ...

An 18-year-old Northville garbage truck driver was cited for careless driving and transportation of open intoxicants October 28 after a rear-end collision on Northville Road at Seven Mile.

According to the state police report of the incident, an off-duty trooper saw the accident in which the truck, northbound on Northville Road, struck a car stopped at a red light at Seven Mile.

The impact was slight, no one was injured and both vehicles remained driveable. Both the driver and her 12-year-old passenger in the car were wearing seatbelts. Belts were not available in the truck.

In the course of investigating the accident, troopers saw a half-full quart bottle of Miller beer in the passenger compartment of the garbage truck. The report states the bottle was "still sweaty" when seized and dumped at roadside.

Also during the investigation, police discovered an outstanding fugitive warrant issued from Redford Township for the arrest of a Walled Lake man who was a passenger in the truck. The man had been charged with possession of fireworks and had failed to appear in court on the charge. He posted a $50 cash bond and was released pending a new court date this week.

State police recovered and returned to their owners two harness horses that had run away from the paddock at Northville Downs October 24. The horses, which had broken out of paddock three at the Downs, were standing on and beside Sheldon Road one-half mile south of Six Mile at 8 a.m., according to the report. A passing motorist who lived nearby had filed a report of horses running loose on the roadway, prompting the police discovery.

A motorist reported the theft of the spare tire and wheelrim from his pickup truck October 20, according to state police reports. The man told police he was driving westbound on Seven Mile near Pierson at 6:45 a.m. when the tire carrier broke, dropping the wheel and tire onto the roadway.

He said he drove approximately 200 yards before he could get onto the shoulder and stop his truck. When he went back for the wheel, he told police, there was a lot of traffic on the road. Cars were swerving to avoid the mounted tire, then a car headed eastbound stopped for a short time. When the man got to the scene, the wheel and tire were gone. Police searched a wide area, according to the report, and could not locate the missing wheel.

The tire, a mud-and-snow type size L78-15 was valued at $54, the wheel rim on which it was mounted at $48.

State police said Monday that the annual Jaycee Haunted House on the grounds of Wayne County Child Development Center has again led to a spate of trespassing and destruction complaints on the grounds of the center and at the adjacent Plymouth Center for Human Development.

The haunted house operation itself is not at fault, but youths attending the Halloween event often return to "explore" the buildings and the network of tunnels connecting them. In the most recent incident, a 16-year Livonian and a 17-year-old from Westland were arrested Sunday on the Plymouth Center grounds.

They told police they "got the idea when they went to the Jaycee haunted house," according to the police report of the incident. A Plymouth Center security guard spotted the two as they were returning to their car (parked at the center) from the Child Development Center.

While there was no evidence the youths had stolen or destroyed anything while on the grounds, reporting trooper Greg Bristol said "this is the beginning. Last year we made about 40 arrests for trespassing and destruction there after the haunted house."

"There were damage reports around $2,000 in some of them. They see it's all vacant when they go to these haunted houses and they come back later to look around by themselves. It's dangerous, someone could get hurt out there and there'd be no way to know."

Although trespassing and vandalism consistently have been problems at the child development center, many who engage in these activities now are captured and arrested. When the grounds were designated for development of a senior citizens' housing complex, patrols by area police agencies were stepped up.

... In the City

At least $500 worth of new car parts and a pair of high-quality roller skates were stolen from the inside of a 1976 Chevy Camaro parked in the Northville High School shop lot between 7:30 and 8:30 a.m. last Friday.

The merchandise, left inside the car while awaiting service, included four new tires, two sets of front shock absorbers, and a power steering hose.

Wage freeze agreement settled with city police

Northville police officers and the city have reached agreement on a one-year pact including a wage freeze and concessions.

Council Monday night approved the settlement recommended by the city negotiating committee. While freezing wages, the agreement grants two additional vacation days per year, increases the officer's clothing allowance by $50 per year and continues the present hospitalization benefits.

Also a part of the pact with the Northville Police Officers Association were rules allowing employees to trade shifts and continuation of a trial work schedule begun last year through September, 1984. The agreement otherwise expires June 30, 1984. Police had been working under an extension of the

The glove compartment was damaged and the vehicle title taken from it, city police reported.

City police recovered a boys bicycle discovered unattended at the corner of Hutton and Dunlap streets at 10:25 a.m. Sunday. It was later reported stolen from the front of Arbor Drug Store, 133 East Dunlap. The bicycle, valued at $80, was returned to its owner.

A one-foot-by-two-foot rear window of the Northville Party Shoppe, 680 West Eight Mile, was broken with a thrown rock at 11:37 Friday night. An open alarm drew police to the scene immediately, but officers could not find the person or people responsible.

A campaign sign for city council member Paul Folino, posted in front of the Michigan Bell building on Center, was set afire by vandals at 10:15 p.m. Saturday. Police were unable to determine who caused the arson.

Folino ran for election unopposed.

... In the Township

Unknown subjects caused an estimated $400 damage to a 1979 Pontiac Firebird parked in an Ingotate Court parking lot by removing the left rear wheel lug nuts sometime between 9 p.m. October 28 and 10 a.m. October 29, police report.

The complainant told police that when the vehicle was removed from the parking space, the left rear wheel fell off the vehicle damaging the left rear wheel well and quarter panel.

City patrol car purchased

Purchase of a new city patrol car was approved by council Monday.

Blackwell Ford of Plymouth was the selected bidder among six, although at $10,553.07 it was the second-lowest. Low bidder was Fox Hills Chrysler of Plymouth at $10,336.37, but chief Rodney Cannon and city manager Steve Walters both recommended purchase of the Ford.

"We can have the Ford warranty work done locally (at McDonald Ford) rather than having to send someone out of town and someone else to bring them back," Walters explained. "Over the life of the car, the cost of traveling to obtain service likely justifies the difference in price."

McDonald Ford had bid $10,837 in the independent city solicitation. Although a state pool exists for the purchase of police vehicles, Walters explained that the pool bid was higher than those obtained by the city. "It may be an equipment difference — if we purchased through the pool we'd have to take it as specified in that bid."

Mayor Paul Vernon state that the city "has had trouble with Chrysler service." Cannon's recommendation to council included the statement that "major repair parts, if needed, are more readily available from Ford Motor Company than Chrysler Corporation."

Our Opinions

Breakfast, service honor veterans

This Friday is Veterans' Day, the day now set aside to honor those who died in defense of our country in all wars since 1776. November 11 originally paid tribute to soldiers who did not return from France in World War I and then also to those who fought in World War II.

November 11 is a date so identified with the observance that Congress exempted it from the Monday holiday law, returning the observance to the November 11 date in 1978.

Locally, American Legion Post 147 has served breakfast for longer than anyone can remember beginning at 6 a.m. each November 11. It has become a time to take a moment to pay tribute to those who did not return as well as those who did and who have had the rest of their lives strongly affected by their experiences.

This year Northville Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4012 initiated a commemoration service to honor all area veterans last Sunday at Oakland Hills Memorial Gardens in Novi. Area service groups were encouraged to participate. Several state commanders of the American Legion attended and gave their support. Jonathan Tobias, one of the organizers, reports it was well received and that plans are being made to expand the service participation next year.

Wartime memories are different for everyone — for some, they are remembrances told to them by parents or grandparents. For others, they are experiences shared by sons, brothers, husbands and lovers. All give special meaning to the time set aside for remembrance.

This week Northville resident and businessman Harry P. Millnamow brought to The Record a poem he composed two years ago at this time relating his impression of the day and what it means.

He has called it "The Soldier."

And their souls passed into eternity from whence they came.
And time and space and Heaven and earth mean nothing now — for they became what they were before they were infants only of time.
Forgotten by the womb that bore them,
for she too has passed away.
And only Mother Earth will hold them now
to her eternal breast.
Loved so much, remembered
so often.
Honored in his time, but forgotten,
yes forgotten now and forever.
Harry P. Millnamow

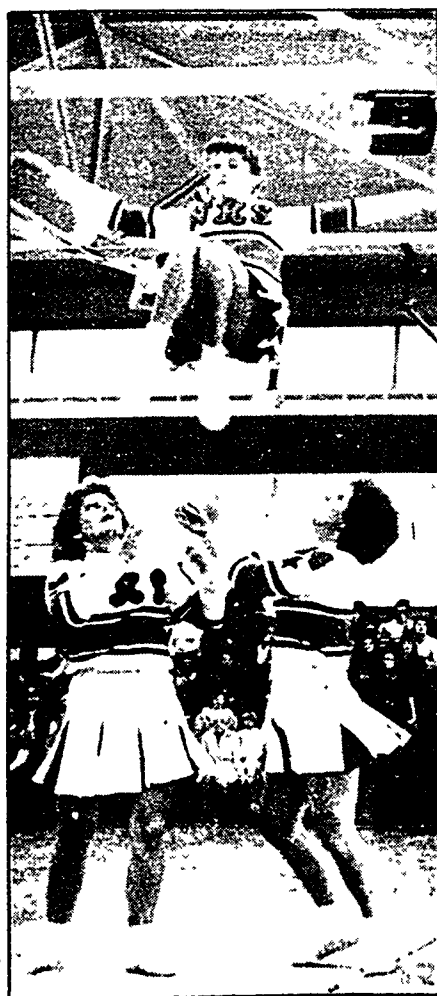

This Friday's observance proves that there are those who remember and appreciate.

Cheers!

We'd like to go on record commending one of Northville's most successful institutions — namely, the varsity cheerleading team, which last week took first place at the Western Lakes Activities Association championship for the third straight year.

Throughout the year, we've been impressed not only with the squad members' tumbling and synchronized routine skills, but with their dedication and spirit, which is what it's all about in the first place. Running a fund-raising car wash here or a youth cheerleading clinic there, they've been a welcome part of the community.

So cheers for Jill Anger, Michele Craig, Lisa Dye, Jody Folino, Amy Holland, Kathy Kossak, Kim McRae, Sandi Stephens and Jill Taschner, and also for the league champion junior varsity, who look to pick up where the varsity leaves off next year.

Forgotten heroes

Among the mounds of paper I have hoarded over time are magazine articles and newspaper clippings depicting last year's Veterans' Day tribute at the Vietnam Nam memorial — a wall of marble engraved with the names of 57,000 Americans who lost their lives in Vietnam.

Though I have carefully preserved the accounts of that day, I don't think I'll ever forget the photographs which grace those pages: the hands lightly touching names on the giant marble wall, the tears shed by survivors and the embrace of fellow veterans. After more than a decade of apathy, America finally paid tribute to those forgotten heroes.

In the last few years — most notably in the past year — Americans have given the Vietnam War some long overdue attention. After years of silence, Nam veterans are being asked to come out of the woodwork while the country takes a closer look at its participation in that conflict.

There is no doubt that Vietnam was a much different war in comparison to World Wars I and II. However, those who fought in the rice paddies and jungles of Vietnam were no different from the men who had previously marched through Europe. Yet, it only has been in the last few years that the public has stopped treating Vietnam veterans as outcasts.

With all due respect to my parents' generation, I think Vietnam has been greatly misunderstood because of the public indifference which prevailed during that conflict. There's no doubt it was an unpopular war. We were exposed to more anti-war demonstrations in those days than ticker-tape parades honoring the soldiers who fought the war. However, it is hardly fair to condemn those who put their life on the line. After all, what choice did we offer the 17-year-old farm boy whose number was called?

The country was in a state of social upheaval when young, fresh-faced Americans left for war — a far cry from the patriotic fervor which sent my father's generation overseas to fight the Germans and the Japanese. I find it interesting that while my mother can remember — in precise detail — what she was doing the day Pearl Harbor was bombed, the years between the Tonkin Gulf incident and the fall of Saigon are murky at best. Perhaps she would have been more aware had my little brother been 18-years-old rather than eight.

Though I had little comprehension of the Vietnam War as a child, the Life magazine which arrived each week told the story I was too young to understand. The photographs of a young American medic holding a Vietnamese infant, POWs marching barefoot to makeshift cells and shell shocked soldiers squatting in rice paddies seem etched in my memory.

In junior high school I ordered a POW bracelet which remained on my wrist until Major Donald O'Dell came home. It was a small contribution to the war effort. However, it was my way of showing that I had not forgotten.

In talking with Northville City Police Sergeant Gary Callender about his experience in Vietnam for a story on Veterans' Day, he kept reminding me not to "make him out to be a hero." However, it's hard for me not to think of men like Gary Callender and others who fought in Vietnam in any other way. Most of those who fought in Vietnam were the older brothers of my generation.

While my mother may remember the day Pearl Harbor was bombed and what she was doing when the Germans surrendered, one of my most vivid memories is being glued to the television watching American POWs being greeted by their families after arriving back in the United States.

For my generation, our heroes had come home.

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

My wife and I don't play games anymore — it was hazardous to the health of our marriage.

I'm talking about game games. Naturally, we still play those little mind games that make marriage such an exciting challenge.

Like when she's chewing me out for coming home at some ungodly hour, I can usually divert her attention by subtly getting her to start talking about her kittens. Cat-talk is usually a successful tactic — it's a big chink in her armor.

Or when Michigan is playing on the tube and she wants me to rake leaves instead. That's when I develop a physical ailment that requires me to spend the rest of the afternoon resting comfortably in bed. She's good at those little mind games ... and so am I. That's what makes it interesting.

But when it comes to game games, there's complete incompatibility. Take Scrabble, for instance.

I like Scrabble. I like the challenge of saving my "x's" and "z's" so I can plop them down on a triple letter blank and make the word long enough to pick up a double word score as well. That's what the game's all about, right?

Not the way she plays it. She seems to think speed is the most important quality.

I'll spend 15 minutes figuring out how to put down "axiom" for 36 points only to have her respond with "cat" — four points. It drives me crazy.

It's not unusual for the score to be something like 64-12 after two moves — and it only gets worse from then on out.

That's why we arrived at a mutual decision to stop playing Scrabble. She'd get mad at me for taking so much time and I'd get mad at her for plopping down those miserable little four-point words.

She wanted to know why I couldn't play a simple, little friendly game. I could never understand why she wanted to play a game if she wasn't really interested in playing the game.

Our mind games are a lot more challenging.

Mixed feelings about our Homecoming stories

To the Editor:
I would like to take this opportunity to comment on a number of issues dealing with homecoming.

First of all, thanks to Mr. Musial for his letter printed in the November 2 paper. If only more people like him would voice their opinions.

I too was disappointed with The Record's coverage of our homecoming activities. Not only did you not need to print about the float incident, but you should have mentioned quite a few positive points you missed.

Yes, you had pictured Doug Doyle and myself, as the king and queen, but chose not to mention the remaining court members. They certainly deserved recognition.

Congratulations to senior representatives Ernie Bock and Jeannine Cook, Dan Perpich and Shawn Bales; junior representatives Sheri Rosenthal and Joe Mackle; and sophomore representatives Hutch Kerns and Nicky LaRoque. I hope despite the mishap you all were very proud, and had a good homecoming.

This brings me to Mr. Bolitho's decision. I'm with him all the way. Traditions like that need to be stopped, and unfortunately our class is going to take the brunt of all the change.

Mr. Bolitho is someone the high school has needed for a long time; someone who will stand his ground and involve not only parents, but also the students in his decisions.

I also have a number of thank yous

I'd like to express. To everyone at the high school who made my homecoming special aside from the parade. This includes the faculty for putting up with all our craziness throughout the week; the administration for allowing the activities to continue; Pep Club for a fantastic dance and well-organized program; students who supported me; Jerry Gloer and his troupe of escorts for a special touch; Steve Fecht for choosing the picture of me hugging my sister for the front page; Dwight Siegfren and Albright Studios for their photographs; but, most of all, my friends and family.

I hope in the future The Record will do a better job covering homecoming.

Sincerely,
Darlene Piskor

Park officials explain fees are collected year-round, but at this time of year the park does not have personnel to staff all entrances; therefore, summons envelopes are placed on vehicles without permits to collect fees.

Trick-or-treat times too early for parents

To the Editor:

One event I constantly looked forward to as a kid was Halloween.

From picking out a pumpkin to dressing up in a costume and parading around the neighborhood with my dad collecting treats as he chatted with the neighbors, all are very fond memories.

I guess that's why I resent it so much that now that I'm the dad, you community organizers are trying to deprive me of this special day. Just who decides that trick or treating should take place between five and seven o'clock?

I heard the argument that it keeps the kids on the street during the daylight hours. My contention is that it's less safe because between five and six you've got all the fathers like myself racing to get home so as not to disappoint the kids on "their day."

And doesn't it seem funny that I called township hall on October 31 at 4:15 p.m. and the phone rang and rang and rang...

It's refreshing to know that someone was home enjoying the excitement of the hour. If you must set a time, why not make it six to eight so that some of us that have to work for a living can enjoy it, too.

Sincerely,
Richard C. Pariseau

Criticizes park's way of collecting its fees

To the Editor:

We were visiting Maybury State Park trails to look at the changing leaves, and to collect a few. Being there under an hour, we were very disappointed to find an envelope saying to deposit the amount indicated or a warrant would be out for the owner's arrest within 48 hours.

With no one posted at the opening gate, I think it's a poor way of collecting money.

Does Wayne County need help that badly?

EDITOR'S NOTE: Maybury is a state park with entrance fees (daily $2 or annual $10 permit) going to the state.

Panel to discuss drug abuse

To the Editor:

On Wednesday, November 2, the Public Broadcasting System broadcast the first of a two-part program on substance abuse, "The Chemical People." Aided by Nancy Reagan and other public personalities, we learned that while drug usage among youth is a national problem, it must be recognized within each individual community, school and home.

Part two of this program will be shown today (Wednesday) on Channel 56, locally.

This program will emphasize the problems of youth and substance abuse on the state level.

Following this one hour program, we will have an opportunity to ask questions and make suggestions at our own "Town Hall" meeting. The Parents'

Advisory Committee of Northville High School is sponsoring this meeting for all interested parents, students and citizens at the high school cafeteria, 7:45 p.m. tonight.

Television sets will be arranged in the cafeteria so that everyone present might watch the program, after which a panel consisting of a high school counselor, substance abuse counselors and law enforcement personnel will be available to lead us in a discussion on substance abuse in Northville.

This is a fine opportunity for everyone in Northville to come together to work on a program which can only benefit our youth and the entire community. We hope to see you at the high school cafeteria tonight at 7:45 p.m.

Does the legal selling of drug paraphernalia enhance illicit drug activity and make it harder to enforce laws? Those who contend that it does want Michigan to join 36 other states in outlawing devices used with controlled substances.

A bill which has cleared committee and is scheduled for full Senate action would prohibit the manufacture, sale, delivery or possession of such items as roach clips, water pipes, bongs and cocaine spoons.

The distribution of drug paraphernalia is a multi-billion dollar industry. There are estimated to be 30,000 "head shops" nationwide that reportedly thrive on the widespread use of illegal drugs.

The federal Justice Department has left it up to state and local governments to decide whether to crack down on the sale of drug paraphernalia. For those states that choose to outlaw paraphernalia, the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration has prepared a model act that is intended to be both effective and constitutionally sound.

Patterned after the federal model, the Senate version defines the term "drug paraphernalia" and lists factors that may be used by courts to determine if an item falls within the definition. It specifies that owners or distributors of drug paraphernalia are liable if they are fully aware that the items are intended for use with controlled substances.

Penalties for violations would differ depending on whether or not minors were involved. An adult found guilty of selling drug paraphernalia to a person under 18 would be subject to imprisonment for not more than a year, or a fine of up to $7,500 or both. When a minor is not involved the maximum penalty would be 90 days in jail and/or a $5,000 fine.

Supporters of the measure say the present policy of permitting the sale and possession of drug paraphernalia appears to condone drug abuse. They contend that allowing the industry to prosper breeds disrespect for the law and glamorizes the drug culture.

Arguments against the legislation are equally as strong. There are concerns that law would violate freedom of choice and could be used by police to harass individuals who have committed no real crime.

Some opponents say efforts to deal with society's addiction problems should be concentrated on better education and public awareness of the harmful effects of drugs. Others believe police efforts to seek out and apprehend drug pushers would be severely fragmented.

What do you think? If you have an opinion on this important matter, please contact my office.

Cab licenses approved for Livonia taxi firm

Northwest Transport Company, a Livonia-based taxi company, was approved for licensing by city council Monday night.

The firm has a fleet of 23 cabs, attorney C. Charles Bokos told council, which it would like to operate in Northville. Northwest Transport operates in the cities of Plymouth, Farmington, Redford, Livonia and Garden City under the names Suburban Checker and Yellow and Red Cab Co.

It also holds the contract for SEM-COG dial-a-ride service in northwest Wayne County and operates that service in Northville.

The firm will be the second licensed to operate in the city. Novi-based Community Cab, which has three cabs, recently was granted a rate increase by city council.

Bokos noted that Northwest Transport's rates will be lower, particularly on short trips. Charges are $1

Northville's Bradow to talk to Camp Fire assembly

Northville resident James Bradow, president of the Detroit Area Council of Camp Fire, will represent the area as one of nearly 1,000 delegates who will attend the youth agency's national congress in Philadelphia next week.

The convention will focus on youth issues with topics including child health, costs of programming, new technologies, members of the future and volunteer involvement.

The Detroit Area Council serves girls and boys from kindergarten through high school in the four-county area. For more information about the Camp Fire program, contact the council office at 833-2670.

Parson to Person...

More Thoughts of Heaven

Dr. James Luther

Perhaps the most common question about heaven is whether we will know our loved ones when we arrive there. The answer seems obvious. Heaven is not a place of darkness, but a place of light. It is not a place of blindness, but a place of wonderful sight. We will not know less there, but more.

When Moses and Elijah appeared to Peter, James, and John on the mount of transfiguration, they were recognized. If the disciples knew the heavenly representatives whom they had not known in life, how much more shall we know our own loved ones!

We will know Christ in heaven, and He will know us (Jn. 14:1-6). We will know others, even as we are known, when we see them "face to face" (1 Cor. 13:12).

Do you know Christ now, "whom to know aright is life eternal?"

Mays of Michigan strong after 100 years

It's been 100 years since Abraham May opened the first Mays of Michigan store in 1883. But a century of progress hasn't taken the company from its basic philosophy of dealing with people.

"You've got to offer honest value for an honest dollar," said Norman Talmo, president of the company which has just opened a store in Novi's Twelve Oaks Mall.

"If you follow that kind of philosophy, you can stay in business a hundred years like we have."

The company has good reason to celebrate this landmark, which it calls its "First 100 Years. Since 1972, Mays of Michigan has witnessed an 800 percent increase in business, while opening stores in Breton Village in Grand Rapids and Boca Raton, Florida.

But it hasn't always been that way. The company was a family-owned business until 1967 when it was sold to an out-of-state, publicly-owned corporation that took just five years of poor management to undo much of the success achieved by the Mays families.

In 1972, Talmo bought the business and set about to restore both merchandise quality and image. He bought back Mays charge accounts, which had been sold to a collection agency, and began correspondence with Mays customers to let them know the company was back in local hands and their business was wanted.

"We knew we had to do more than just tell them what was happening," said Talmo. "We also had to get the garments on the people's backs so they would find out we had put the value back in our merchandise."

Despite the rough stretch of road for the company in the late 60s, Talmo had confidence in the true value of his purchase. Mays had built a solid reputation, not only in Michigan. It is recognized world-wide as the first store to display clothes on hangers.

The company was called the Giant Clothing Company in 1903 when Meyer May, Abraham's son, offered another Grand Rapidsian, John Thomas Batts, a place to display his new invention — the wooden coat hanger. Until then, men's suits — the stylish ones that sold for $2 — were stocked on shelved folded.

Batts came up with the piece of wood fashioned to fit under the shoulders of the suit, the famous Frank Lloyd Wright designed the glass cabinet to display the suits, and Meyer May gave them space in his store to exhibit the innovation.

In 1905, the company was incorporated under the name A. May & Sons and today there are five stores in two states known simply as Mays of Michigan.

The Mays of today is "a Michigan corporation, growing with Michigan," said Talmo. Mays employs over 150 people.

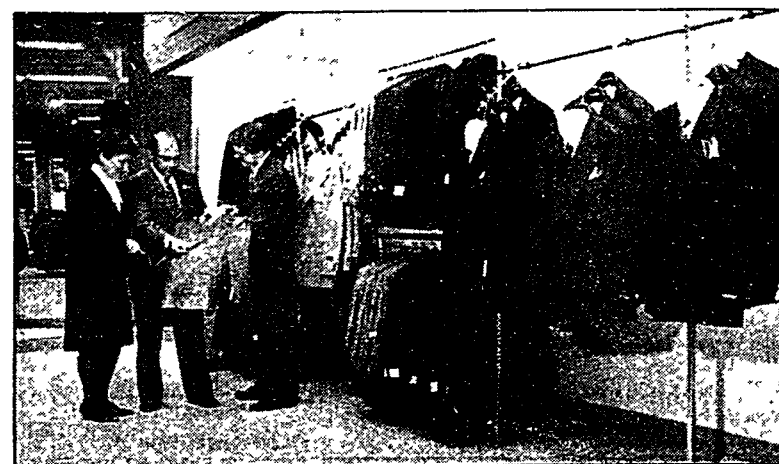

The Mays president has some definite ideas on what it takes to continue its success in a very competitive, demanding business. "Unless people are well-served, they're not likely to come back again," said Talmo, pointing to his people's ability to deal with the public.

"I think we generate an atmosphere in our stores, because our people are putting in a team effort to provide the best possible services to our clientele. The customer notices the difference."

Mays's buyers look for what they call the "classic fashions," clothes with a more conservative approach, but with some of the current fashion in them as well. "We don't usually get involved with fads," said Talmo. "While some stores look for fad items to give them overnight volume in business, we consider it more important to provide our clientele with fashion that endures."

MAYS OF MICHIGAN — Celebrating its 100th anniversary this year, Mays of Michigan most recently opened a new store at Novi's Twelve Oaks Mall. "Classic" fashions for both men (below) and women (at left) are the mainstay of the store's business.

Great Lakes leaders to convene in Detroit

Leaders in business, labor, government, agriculture, education and the professions from six Great Lakes states will meet in Detroit November 21 and 22 to discuss how the states can attack their mutual problems and exploit their common strengths.

Plans for the Congress on the Economic Future of the Great Lakes States were revealed recently by Walter J. McCarthy, Jr., chairman and chief executive officer of Detroit Edison, which initiated and will host the congress at the Westin Hotel. McCarthy will serve as general chairman.

Principal speakers at the congress will be Roger B. Smith, chairman and CEO of General Motors; Owen Bieber, president of the UAW; Frank W. Naylor, Jr., U.S. Undersecretary of Agriculture and Governor James J. Blanchard of Michigan. Detroit Mayor Coleman A. Young will welcome delegates.

McCarthy said the objective of the congress is "to identify goals, strategies and areas for cooperative effort to improve the economic future of the Great Lakes region, considering the impact of government policies and the considerable human, business, educational, natural and civic resources available."

"We believe the states need to have some long-term strategies and priorities to help them and business and labor organizations operating in the region plan intelligently for the future."

"The last thing we want to come out of this meeting is a new organization," McCarthy added. "There are plenty of those already as witness the large number of Great Lakes organizations helping sponsor the Congress."

Joining Edison as sponsors will be a large number of organizations representing Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin. They include the Council of Great Lakes Governors; the Great Lakes Economic Policies Council; the Center for the Great Lakes; state AFL-CIO organizations from Michigan and the other states; NAACP and Urban League chapters in various cities; the National Association of Women Business Owners; New Detroit, Inc.; the Northeast-Midwest Institute; the Great Lakes Commission; the President's Council of State Colleges and Universities and state chambers of commerce, farm bureaus, women's groups and manufacturers associations throughout the area.

"What we are trying to do," McCarthy said, "is provide a forum which will bring these and other organizations together — along with individual experts in many fields — to pool their intellectual and other resources in a search for ways to attack the Great Lakes state's common problems and to further exploit this region's enormous strengths — including a large and skilled work force, a strong industrial base, an excellent transportation system, a modern and balanced energy system, and many first-class universities and other educational institutions."

The Congress will open with a plenary session at 10 a.m. Monday, November 21, featuring Young's welcome, introductory remarks by McCarthy, and major addresses by Smith and Naylor. Bieber will speak at lunch the first day and Blanchard the second day.

The afternoon of the first day and morning of the second will be devoted to workshops on eight subjects: stimulating new investment, energy resources, human resources, natural resources, agriculture, the infrastructure, federal allocations and interstate teamwork.

Moderators and facilitators will be assigned to each workshop and background papers prepared by the Northeast-Midwest Institute on the workshop subjects will be distributed in advance to participants.

The Great Lakes Economic Policies Council will sponsor or co-sponsor a reception the evening of November 21. McCarthy said attendance at the Congress is by invitation only but that observers will be admitted with advance approval.

ROBERT STONE

DR. KATHRYN HOPPE

ROBERT STONE of Bruce Roy Realty, Inc. in Northville leads the firm in listings and sales again this year. Stone joined the firm two years ago as a Realtor associate and was its top producer in 1982.

Active in area real estate sales since 1969, Stone was previously owner of his insurance agency. He is a founder and officer of Follmer-Stone Investment Associates. He lives in Northville with his wife Myrna, who is employed at Detroit Federal Savings & Loan in Northville.

DR. KATHRYN A. HOPPE recently opened dental offices at 18600 Northville Road, Northville. A 1978 University of Detroit School of Dentistry graduate, she will continue office hours at her other offices in Woodland Medical Center, Novi.

Active in the American, Michigan and Detroit Dental Associations, Hoppe is a member of the Northville Business and Professional Women's Club and is available to speak to community groups of various dental topics (for more information call 348-9800).

Hoppe and her husband Phillip J. Kovacs are residents of Northville.

OAKLAND HILLS MEMORIAL GARDENS is conducting a bird house contest for those age 12 or under. First prize is a $100 savings bond, second and third place winners receive $25 bonds. Judging will be May 20, 1984 at 2 p.m., winning bird houses becoming property of the cemetery and placed on the grounds. Refreshments will be served. Contact the cemetery for registration forms.

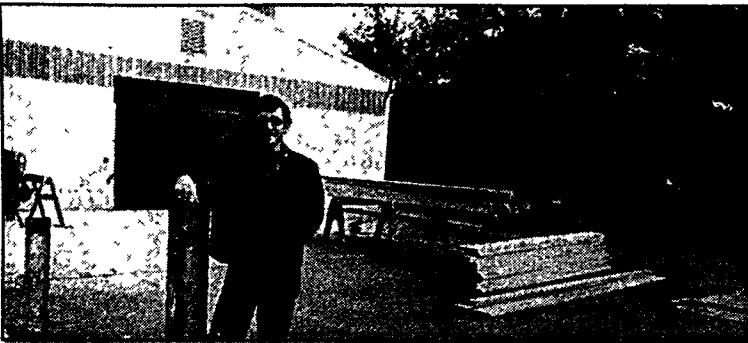

FRANK N. GREADY, a 64-year-old resident of South Lyon, will retire at the end of this year from his post as warehouse supervisor at the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority's central warehouse, located in Kensington Metropark near Milford. According to the HCMA, Gready started with the park system in 1959 and was promoted to warehouse supervisor in December 1972. He served in that post until taking a medical disability leave in May 1979. Gready graduated from South Lyon High School and is a veteran of World War II.

GOOD NEWS

NORTH VILLAGE CABINETRY, will open in the Uptown Shops at 107 East Main, Northville, on November 15. Owner David J. Vanderworp, a Northville resident, reports the business will offer custom cabinetry, furniture, handmade accessories, Shaker reproductions, manufactured kitchen and bath cabinetry, carpentry, remodeling and deck-construction services.

The shop will feature displays of VanDerworp's handcrafted cabinetry, with photos of his cabinetry and carpentry work on display November 15. The new business will feature Merillat, Quaker Maid and Crystal & Rutt cabinets. The shop will be open from noon to 4 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday.

GREEN OAK AUTO at 12676 West Ten Mile, South Lyon is expanding to 1 1/2 times its original size with this 48-x-50-foot addition, due to be completed this month. Owner Dennis Debuc of South Lyon (above) opened the business on May 1 of this year and recently took in Walter Bolt of White Lake Township as his partner. "We had to have extra space for the winter," Debuc said, adding that he is "very happy" that business is going well. The company has an automobile service department and a body shop.

INGE'S DIP AND DELI opened October 28 at 56230 Grand River, New Hudson. The carry-out offerings include daily hot meal specials, fresh-made sandwiches, coffee, soft ice cream treats and slush. Hours are 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily, except closed on Sundays. Owner Inge Prince ran a grocery store in her native Germany before coming to New Hudson in 1964. She was employed as a foreman for 15 years at Aero and Auto Stud Company in New Hudson prior to opening the deli.

KENNETH J. FOLEY, a South Lyon resident, has been elected to the American Angus Association (AAA), according to Dick Spader, executive vice-president of the St. Louis, Missouri-based organization. The AAA, with some 38,000 active life and junior members, is the largest beef cattle registry association in the world. Its computerized records include detailed information on nearly 10 million registered Angus. These records help members select and mate the best animals in their herds to produce high quality, efficient breeding cattle which are then recorded with the AAA.

RideShare computer open to public

For the first time, the general public in Southeast Michigan can take advantage of a computerized ridesharing service that can help them save up to $1,000 or more each year by matching them with car- or van-pooling partners.

RideShare, a free service of SEMCOG (the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments) previously worked with employers throughout the region to match employees interested in sharing the ride to work. Making the service available to the public maximizes RideShare's ability to reach more than 1.8 million commuters in the region to help them cut their costs, often dramatically.

For example, a commuter who drives 40 miles roundtrip can save over $1,000 a year by joining a four-person car-pool or 15-passenger van-pool, and almost $800 by sharing the ride with just one other person.

Commuters who drive longer distances can save even more by ridesharing. By joining a car- or van-pool a commuter who drives 80 miles roundtrip to and from work daily can save almost $3,000 annually.

The most economical commuting option RideShare offers is to become a van-pool driver. Drivers of the 12 or 15-passenger vans ride free and have use of the vans evenings and weekends. In return, they collect fares and work with RideShare to find and maintain the minimum number of passengers.

In addition to saving money, car and van poolers reduce or end the hassle of driving and fighting rush-hour traffic; conserve energy; and help reduce traffic congestion and costly highway deterioration.

Commuters interested in ridesharing simply call RideShare's new phone number, 963-RIDE, to have their names added to the data base of potential ridesharers. Within three or four days, they will receive a match list of names of others interested in ridesharing who share similar work hours, destinations and home locations, who they call up to arrange to start sharing the ride. Nine or more riders are needed to form a vanpool and receive a fully-insured passenger van from MichiVan, a vanpooling program sponsored by the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT).

A special marketing plan has been developed to further public awareness of the RideShare program. Highlights include van demonstrations in central business districts; radio and public service announcements touting ridesharing as a sensible commuting alternative; and a local promotional event, RideSharing Week, to coincide with National Transportation Week next May.

The projected placement next spring of some 100 highway signs next spring along freeways and major arteries in SEMCOG's seven-county region is another vehicle for informing the public about RideShare. The signs, a cooperative project of SEMCOG and MDOT, will feature the RideShare name and the phone number.

While general public outreach is a new arena for RideShare, the program will continue to emphasize employer programs, because employees fulfill two of the criteria for successful ridesharing — common work destination and hours.

Since its 1980 inception, RideShare has distributed almost 14,000 matchlists to employees interested in finding ridesharing partners. In 3 years, matchlists distributed through employer programs have generated 2,485 car-pools carrying 7,200 commuters. In addition, more than 2,000 commuters currently ride to work in the 200 vanpools operating the SEMCOG region.

The decision to expand RideShare's scope to encompass general public matching and reach more commuters is a timely one. Transportation experts believe that ridesharing will continue to increase because of our society's propensity for low-density living and the difficulty of funding transit. In Southeast Michigan, over 213,000 — 16.8 percent — of all 1980 work trips were made by car or vanpool, which indicates ridesharing is already an acceptable commuting mode for a sizable portion of the population.

Nationally, 16 million people carpool or vanpool, saving the U.S. 14 million gallons of gasoline per day, or 3.5 billion gallons per year. But more than 52 million Americans still drive alone — 150 million empty seats representing a huge unused transportation resource.

However, ridesharing programs nationwide are having an impact. In Southeast Michigan, over 50 million vehicle miles have been saved by existing car and van pools since 1980, which means reduced traffic congestion and highway deterioration. Vanpools alone have conserved over 720,000 gallons of gasoline, with all Southeast Michigan ridesharing commuters conserving almost 3.5 million gallons, at a savings of more than $4 million since 1980.

Other benefits of ridesharing for the region: by removing vehicles from the roads, cars and vanpools have reduced air pollutants by a total of 2,123 tons since 1980 and prevented an estimated 302 accidents and 100 injuries.

Firm slates energy clinic

Heat Check Energy Products of Novi will host an Energy Clinic featuring Don Nelson "The House Doctor" November 17.

Nelson is a well-known authority on residential energy saving techniques and uses scientific methods to determine the most effective conservation techniques.

The free program, proprietor Nancy Bates said, will be of interest to persons interested in either retrofitting conservation systems to a present home or in designing a new residence. "He (Nelson) does a lot of consulting work for people designing new homes," she noted.

His presentation includes a slide show and demonstration of techniques used to analyze present energy use. It will begin at 7:30 p.m. November 17 in the Heat Check Energy Products office on the second floor of the Cougar Building, 21500 Novi Road.

New bank opens in Wixom

Community National Bank (CNB) has announced the relocation of its Wixom branch office to its new site at 49200 West Pontiac Trail. The new office at the corner of Pontiac Trail and North Wixom Road replaces the former South Wixom Road facility.

Manager of the new Wixom branch is Carol Wiles. She has a staff of six members. Wiles has over 11 years of banking experience with Community National, most recently serving as assistant manager of the Keego branch office.

The new branch office features 1,700 square feet of office space with modern drive-through banking, safe deposit boxes and night depository.

A 24-hour Bank Anytime machine also has been installed to enable CNB customers around-the-clock access to their bank funds. Community National is the only financial institution in Wixom to provide a 24-hour machine.

Bank Anytime cardholders receive the following conveniences: balance inquiries, withdrawals of available balance from checking/savings accounts, deposits and transfers to and from checking/savings accounts, and cash advance from MasterCard/Visa accounts.

In addition to the 16 Bank Anytime machines throughout the county, cardholders also have access to their funds at over 1,500 "Magic Line" sites throughout the state. Individuals wishing to obtain "free" Bank Anytime cards may do so at the new Wixom facility or any other CNB office.

Travel guides combined

A combined, four-season travel guide to Southeast Michigan has been issued by the Southeast Michigan Travel and Tourist Association.

The association has released "Travel Fun," a merger of the group's Summerfun and Winterfun books into a 112-page, four-color glossy handbook.

Covering an 11-county region, the guide has year-round information about major attractions, accommodations, events and happenings.

The guide is free to those stopping by the SMTTA offices in Troy or by sending $1 to cover postage and handling to "Travel Fun", P.O. Box 1590, Troy, MI 48069.

The association is a non-profit promotional organization supported by the local travel industry.

IDS schedules finance clinic in Northville

Tips on how to keep inflation and taxes from eroding purchasing power will be the subject of a personal financial planning seminar November 15 and 16 at 7:30 p.m. in the Northville Community Center.

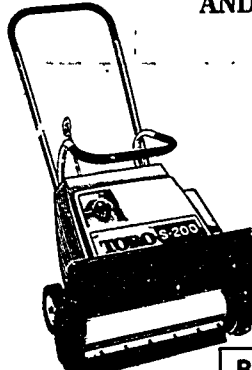

The seminar is sponsored by IDS (Investors Diversified Services), the nationwide financial services firm with local offices at 24567 Northwestern Highway, Suite 3-A, Southfield, MI 48170.

The seminar will cover such important topics as the effects of inflation on income and savings, the difference between fixed and equity investments, how to plan and meet financial goals and personal budgeting.

There is no cost for the seminar, but those planning to attend should make reservations.

Father tells story of David, his special son

By JEAN DAY

I remember we went to the University of Michigan, and they said 'your child is severely retarded.'

William Craft, principal of Amerman Elementary for the past 16 years, was recalling the day almost 25 years ago when he and his wife received the first of two traumatic shocks in relation to their son David John.

Their first son and third child, they were told, would not even have the mental capacity of a three or four year old. He would never feed himself, would never stand or walk, or talk.

Craft remembers becoming aware that David perhaps was "slow" because the Crafts could compare his progress as an infant to that of their daughters, Barbara and Audrey.

"It was a terribly traumatic time for us," he says of the months after David's birth on June 10, 1958. "You think at first 'he's a bit slow' — after a while you have to face reality — we took David to Ann Arbor for some testing.

"Then, at first you think there will be some training, something he can learn to do, but there was no mental capacity.

"His mother liked to think he recognized us ... I don't know ... he responded to anyone who would rub his back or talk to him."

After the definite word from the university, David became a patient at the Plymouth Center for Human Development. He was there for 23 years, leaving for a group home only four or five months ago.

Last Friday, while on a bus en route to Bryant School where he was a student in the Northville ISE Program, David experienced breathing difficulty. He immediately was returned to his group home where ambulance and police escort were waiting to take him to Garden City Osteopathic Hospital emergency room.

The call that came from there was the second traumatic shock for the Crafts. His father explained that David always had been a healthy child, though slight, and that they had no reason to expect his death.

"You think at first 'he's a bit slow' — after a while you have to face reality."

"In fact," he remembers, "the day he died his mother was going to make chocolate pudding for him. He liked anything chocolate although it had to be fed to him in silvers."

David had been sick in mid-August and was hospitalized for a few days at New Grace Hospital because he was dehydrated and had lost five pounds after entering the group home. His father is not sure if it was because of the medication.

After David's death, however, the Crafts were shown that records at the group home indicated David's weight was up to 81 pounds.

"Next to the entry they had written 'Yeah!'" Bill Craft reports.

The Crafts were told David was placed on the bus about 25 minutes to 9 a.m. and that the driver noticed a problem with his breathing — they don't know if it was an obstruction — and the bus returned to the group home at 9:05 a.m. The death officially is listed as cardiac arrest caused by aspiration; however an investigation still is going on, says his father.

Two ambulances and two police cars were waiting at the group home to transport David to Garden City Osteopathic Hospital. It was from there the call came to his mother, Lois Craft, herself a psychiatric nurse.

When Bill Craft received word to call the hospital, he thought it meant his critically ill 88-year-old mother had died. He says he was confused, however, because she was at Botsford (where she died several days later).

Bill Craft agreed to talk about his son's quarter-of-a-century life because David had involved them in the Plymouth Center for Human Development and in the group-home concept and both have had local impact.

At the center, Craft says, they always found David clean.

"There David was a bit of a favorite with the staff. Some retarded persons give no response when attention is paid to them, but if anyone paid attention to David, there were smiles. David was never violent.

"He had gone to the group home in June — it was something we had resisted — we didn't think the supervision would be so close."

The Crafts had been invited to an open house at the facility in which the staff wished to place David. Craft says they were not pressured but found themselves impressed with the home. It was brand new with three bedrooms for six residents.

"They weren't that insistent but said 'we're trying to find the best place for David'.

"It was located in Redford Township, and we found the community very accepting, unlike other places," Craft says.

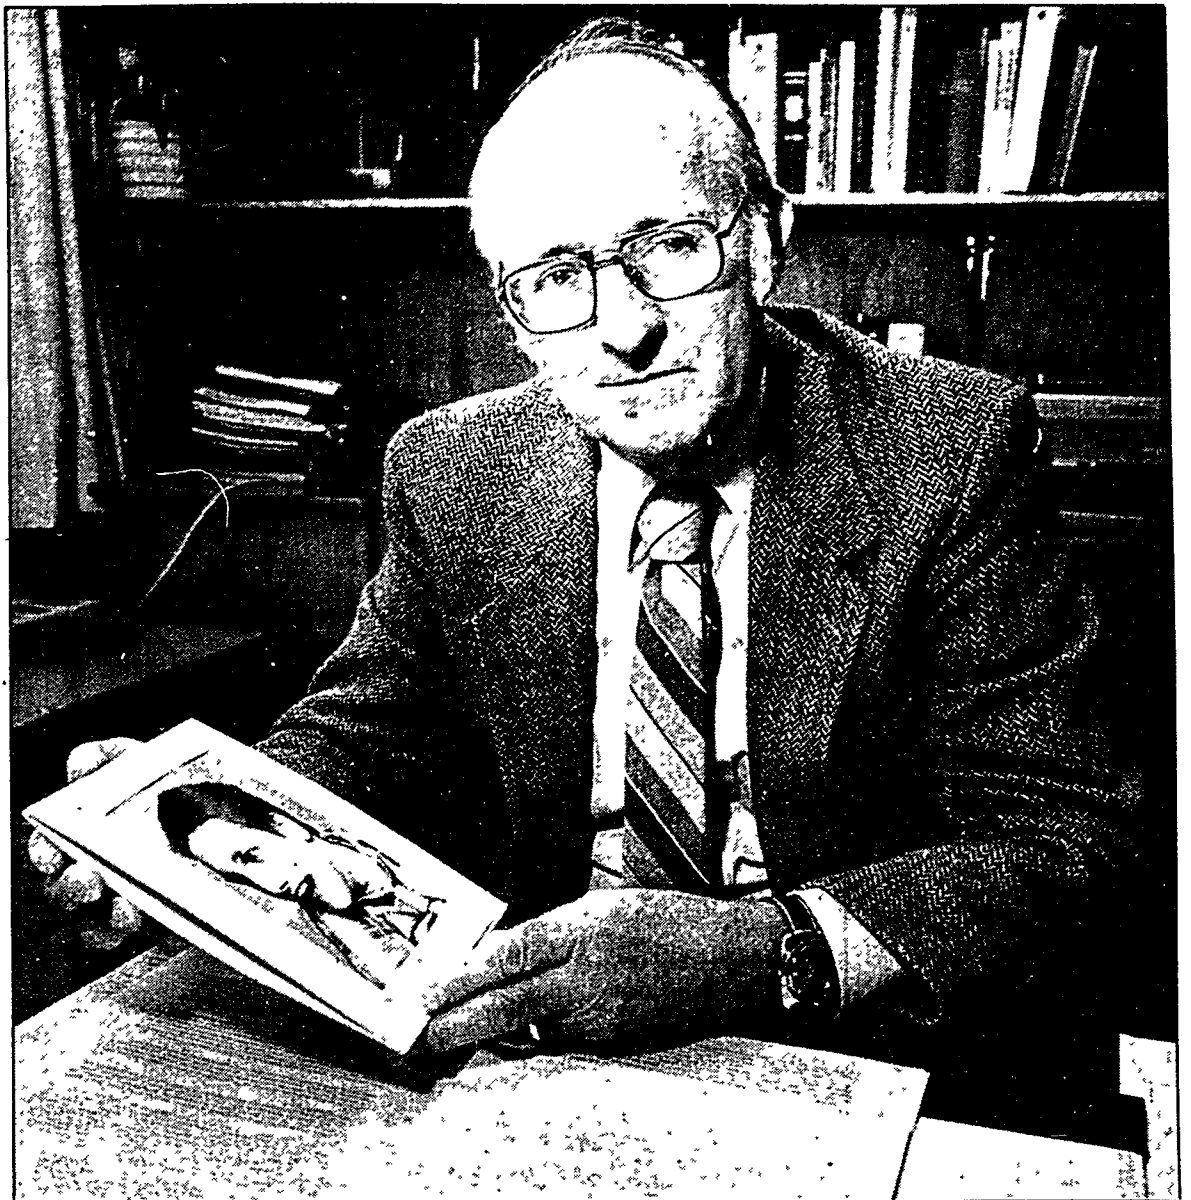

They remained pleased with the facility after David moved in, he relates, as "it's more a home environment. You walk in and you don't smell the institutional smells.

"At the Plymouth center he was kept clean and comfortable, but they make a tremendous effort (in the group home.) For the first time they had goals for David. They were very minimal, such as, 'David will track the spoon when being fed.'"

While David could not interact with his roommate, Craft says that had the 63-year-old roommate had attention earlier he feels certain there "would have been a world of difference."

The Craft family was in close touch with David all during his life. He was home for Thanksgiving and Christmas and on many, many weekends.

Groups slate wine-and-cheese galas

By JEAN DAY

As if to prove that social events follow cycles, the season is filled with wine and cheese parties — following an October calendar dotted with fashion shows.

Northville Historical Society is calling its wine-tasting party featuring California wines an "extravaganza" — and it sounds as if it will be just that. It is being held at 8 p.m. Friday in New School Church in Mill Race Historical Village. Society members Dennis and Cheryl Cassidy are serving as hosts for the evening.

They emphasize that this is planned as a "purely social" event rather than one where wine has been sold. And at $5 a person, it is not a fund raiser. Wines have been ordered for some 50 members who are asked to bring an hors d'oeuvre and a wine glass — at least six ounce size.

All tasters will be greeted with a glass of California champagne. Six varietal California wines will be tasted during a discussion of their history and terminology. There also is to be an evaluation of the wines tasted and an informal question and answer session.

Cheryl Cassidy explains that her husband, by profession an engineer, "has been into wines" for quite a few years and has studied European and American varieties and now is selecting wines from different regions of California — Mendocino, Sonoma and Napa south to Madera. The Cassadys may be called at 349-7249 to check if there are cancellation spaces available.

Newcomers to get acquainted sipping wines

On November 19, Northville Newcomers will usher in the holiday season with a wine and cheese tasting party with the Northville Winery serving assorted wines for tasting at Mill Race Village. Marge Rousseau, chairperson, and her committee have arranged to have a variety of unusual cheeses and crackers to sample with the wines.

Joan Hursey, Newcomer president, adds that those attending are bringing festive hors d'oeuvres and desserts. "With a flutist playing in the background, it will be perfect ambience to meet and make new friends," she promises. Marge Rousseau is taking reservations at 358-1804 until November 15 at $12 a couple.

Two weeks ago members and guests of the League of Women Voters also sampled wines of the Northville Winery at the league's annual party held at Parmenter's. The league was one of the first groups to latch on to the idea of a wine and cheese get-together.

Community Quilters become volunteer stitchers

Northville Community Quilters report they have added a day a month to their calendars to do special sewing for area hospitals and nursing homes. On the first Wednesday of each month members will be working on baby quilts, lap robes and making garments for premature babies in the intensive care units of area hospitals. They also plan to sew layettes and help fill other needs that come to their attention.

Film classics offered

Dan Greenberg and the Oakland Community College Communication Arts and Technology Department will offer two cinematography classics at 1 and 7 p.m. tomorrow and November 17.

The films will be shown free of charge in the Performing Arts Theater located on the Orchard Ridge Campus.

Tomorrow's film is "Bizarre Bizarre" directed by Marcel Carne with scriptwriter Jacques Prevert. The film, which features some of the best-known French actors of the 1930s and 40s, is set in Edwardian England.

"Bizarre Bizarre" begins with a murder that never took place and moves rapidly through an enormously complicated plot involving mistaken identities, Mack Sennett chases and a gallery of strange characters.

"The Weavers: Wasn't That a Time!" will be shown November 17. The film, directed by Jim Brown, is a documentary of the legendary folk-singers who won the hearts of Americans in the 1950s with hits like, "Kisses Sweeter Than Wine", "Good-Night Irene", "This Land is Your Land" and "If I Had a Hammer."

The film is the story of the Weavers — Lee Hays, Ronnie Gilbert, Fred Hellerman and Pete Seeger. Cast includes Arlo Guthrie, Don McLean, Holly Near and Peter, Paul and Mary.

On the third Wednesday of the month they will continue the tradition of holding a learning workshop in the morning, helping each other and making a quilt to sell to help fund their charity sewing. Hours are 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. with quilters arriving with brown bag lunches.

The group, reports Sybil Kerr, has a varied membership, ranging from mothers of preschoolers to great-grandmothers. She observes that quilting "is a marvelous generation bridge," adding, "they keep their hands busy and old sewing crafts alive while enjoying chatting with each other." She notes, "This organization predates the current interest in patchwork and quilting."

It is sponsored by the Women's Association of First Presbyterian Church and meets in the church library or in members' homes. Chairman Kerr stresses it is not a fund-raising group nor does it do custom work. Anyone interested is welcome at any meeting or may call her at 349-3173.

On the quilters' holiday schedule, the next meeting is November 16 with Mary Ann West of 121 Baseline. Other meetings will be November 30 at the church; December 21 at the Kerr home at 212 West. Beginning in January, 1984, meetings will be on the first and third Wednesday at the church.

Marriage in Cambridge announced

By way of Florida comes the announcement of the marriage of former Northville resident Allison Meredith Crump to David Joshua Solomon September 23 in Cambridge, Massachusetts.

The bride's parents, former Northville residents the William Crumps, attended the ceremony and reception at L'Espalier and now are back at their apartment in Mount Dora, Florida. The bridegroom's parents, the Paul Solomons of Providence, Rhode Island, also attended. Marion Crump writes that the trip east also included viewing a special "Art of the New Frontier" exhibit at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts.

Children's Yule workshop scheduled at Mill Race

In the spirit of Christmas past, the Northville Historical Society will host its Fifth Annual Children's Christmas Workshop from 1-3 p.m. December 3 in the New School Church in Mill Race Village.

Children in grades 1-6 are invited to participate in an afternoon of fun and crafts.

Although the projects planned are to be Christmas surprises, youngsters will be making early-American decorations and gifts with natural materials.

Planners Carol Jean Stockhausen and Lucia Danes, both former art teachers, guarantee all participants will leave with a shopping bag full of old-fashioned gifts wrapped and ready for the holidays.

Due to space limitations, only the first 75 children enrolled will be accepted.

To enroll a child, deliver name, address and a $7 check made payable to the Northville Historical Society to 218 Dunlap, Northville. Registration deadline is November 23.

Parents are asked to park in the Griswold Street parking lot and walk children over the bridge to New School Church directly ahead.

Couple met as students

Amy Lincoln married in ceremony in Orient

MRS. ANDREW WILLIAM WISEMAN

Amy Kathryn Lincoln and Andrew William Wiseman of Cincinnati incorporated Oriental wedding customs with traditional American ones as they exchanged vows and rings at Tokyo Union Church in Tokyo October 22.

The 5 p.m. service was in English and Japanese with Dr. Brett Fenwick officiating before 40 Japanese guests and the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Lincoln of Northville.

The Lincolns toured Japan prior to the wedding and then vacationed afterward in Hawaii as the trip also was a silver anniversary celebration for them.

The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. James A. Wiseman of Cincinnati.

The wedding was held in October, which is the "wedding month" in Japan, with a traditional Japanese-style reception following at the Akasaka Prince Hotel.

In addition to the bride's parents, special guests were the Motohiro Nakajimas, who were the bride's host family while she was attending Waseda University in Tokyo in 1981-82; he is director of the editorial department of the Oriental Economist magazine. Other special guests were the Ogawas, who were the bridegroom's host family while he attended Waseda University at the same time.

The bride received her BA degree from Albion College in 1982. She is planning to teach English in Japan.

Her husband received his BA degree from Ohio Wesleyan University in 1982 and now is with Overseas Military Sales Group, working at Yokota Air Force Base.

The bride designed and made her waltz-length gown of white satin with organza overskirt. The Schiffli lace-covered bodice was styled with elbow-length sleeves and a round neckline that dipped to a V in back. Pink roses, lily-of-the-valley and ivy were used in the bride's bouquet and for her floral decorations as well as for the church decorations.

As honor maid, Akiyo Nakajima of Tokyo wore a traditional Japanese kimono and carried a single white, long-stemmed calla lily. The bride's sister, Mary Beth Lincoln, was unable to make the trip to be in the wedding as she presently is a senior honors student at Albion College. She plans to visit the Wisemans in Japan this May after graduation.

Takaki Hibino and Tatsuo Watanabe, both of Tokyo, were best man and usher, respectively, at the ceremony. They are friends of the couple from Waseda University.

The newlyweds are making their home in the Tokyo metro area in the foothills of Chichibu-Tama National Park.

Mrs. Lincoln had hosted a going away tea for her daughter in July before she left for Japan. Guests included the bridegroom's mother and his twin sister, also named Amy.

Lois Winters gave a shower for the bride-elect.

Loriann Tuggle is married in heirloom wedding gown

Loriann Tuggle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Tuggle of Smock Road, exchanged marriage vows with David Nidzgorski in an evening ceremony September 17 at Holy Family Church in Novi.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Nidzgorski of Canton.

The double ring, candlelight ceremony was officiated by Father Robert Schaden and included the lighting of the unity candle.

Escorted down the aisle by her father, the bride wore a family heirloom gown. It was of antique ivory lace enhanced with a Victorian neckline and long sleeves.

She carried a bouquet of white roses, gardenias, gladioli and English ivy.

The bride's sister, Roseann Tuggle, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were the bridegroom's sister Mrs. Patricia Hammer of Canton, Linda Hrublak of Northville and Leslie Kresin of Northville.

The bride's attendants wore cocktail-length mauve silk dresses and carried presentation bouquets of mauve tiger lilies, stephanotis and ivy.

Junior bridesmaid Christina Phillips wore an ivory cocktail-length dress.

Best man was David Champion of Canton. Ushers were Jerry Tuggle of Farmington Hills, Mark Tuggle of Northville and Tim Lilley of Buffalo, New York.

Following the ceremony, the bride and bridegroom were escorted to a reception at the Finnish Center in a Rolls Royce. Approximately 130 guests attended.

The bride is a 1976 Northville High School graduate and received a bachelor's degree in business law from Ferris State College. She is employed as a claims adjuster for Commercial Union Insurance.

The bridegroom is a 1977 Salem High School graduate and received his degree in criminal justice from Michigan State University. He is employed with Stroh's and is attending University of Detroit where he is working on a master's degree in industrial security.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Toronto.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID NIDZGORSKI

Schoolcraft series offered

Coping With Change — the process by which the future invades our lives — is a new seminar offered by Schoolcraft College Community Services from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. November 15.

The purpose of the seminar is to analyze how human beings cope with change from three different viewpoints: the organizational view, the personal perspective and the role of the change agent.

Learners will identify the effects of change, practice positive methods of adapting to change, realize why and how people resist change, design a systematic approach to implement change and learn to help others overcome resistance to change.

Fee for the seminar is $15. For further information, call 591-6400, extension 409.

Stepparenting: Making it Work, a workshop to assist both existing and potential stepfamilies explore some of the benefits and problems in the family structure, will be offered by Schoolcraft College Community Services from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Saturday.

Topics for discussion include discipline, helping the family become a cohesive unit, allowing for individuality, improving communication and dealing with resistance from children.

For further information, call 591-6400, extension 409.

Plan joint service for Thanksgiving

An ecumenical community Thanksgiving service is being planned by four local churches for 7:30 p.m. November 23.

The Thanksgiving Eve service will be held at First Presbyterian Church with First United Methodist, Our Lady of Victory and Bushnell Congregational churches participating.

The service is to include music by the combined choirs of the participating churches.

Details for the community service are to be finalized this week at a meeting of Dr. Lawrence Chamberlain of the host church with the Reverend Eric Hammar of the Methodist Church, the Reverend Robin Meyers of Bushnell and Father Frank Polle of OLV.

St. Paul's hosts bazaar

St. Paul's Women's Guild will hold a Christmas Bazaar from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. this Friday in the St. Paul's School gym.

Included will be a Christmas Boutique, bakery pantry, stitchery and children's gifts.

Lunch will be served from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and will include soup, salad, pie and coffee for $3.

There is no admission charge.

Heinzman directs organ workshop

Northville resident David Heinzman will conduct a Christmas workshop for church organists tomorrow and Friday at Musical Heritage in Royal Oak.

Workshop sessions are scheduled from 10 a.m. to noon and 7:30-9:30 p.m. both days. Participants may choose any time combination of either session.

The workshops are open to all organists including young persons with keyboard knowledge. Emphasis will be on the art of registering the organ for hymns and all periods of church organ literature.

Heinzman has conducted numerous workshops throughout the Midwest. Christmas organ music will be available for review and the registration fee of $25 includes all materials.

To register call 547-3446.

Craft relates story

"As we got older and he got longer and taller, it was more difficult," Craft says, relating it was amazing how his wife, however, somehow was able to take David from a wheel chair and slide him into the back seat of the car propped with pillows.

"When we had him home, we would oil him — his skin would get so dry — cut his hair and nails.

"You love him," the principal sums up, looking at his son's picture.

"One of our great concerns has been 'what happens when we're gone' — it's a concern of every parent of a retarded child."

David's sisters loved him very much, Craft adds. He says it was no secret about David.

"It wasn't something we tried to hide, but people don't know about our other two children either."

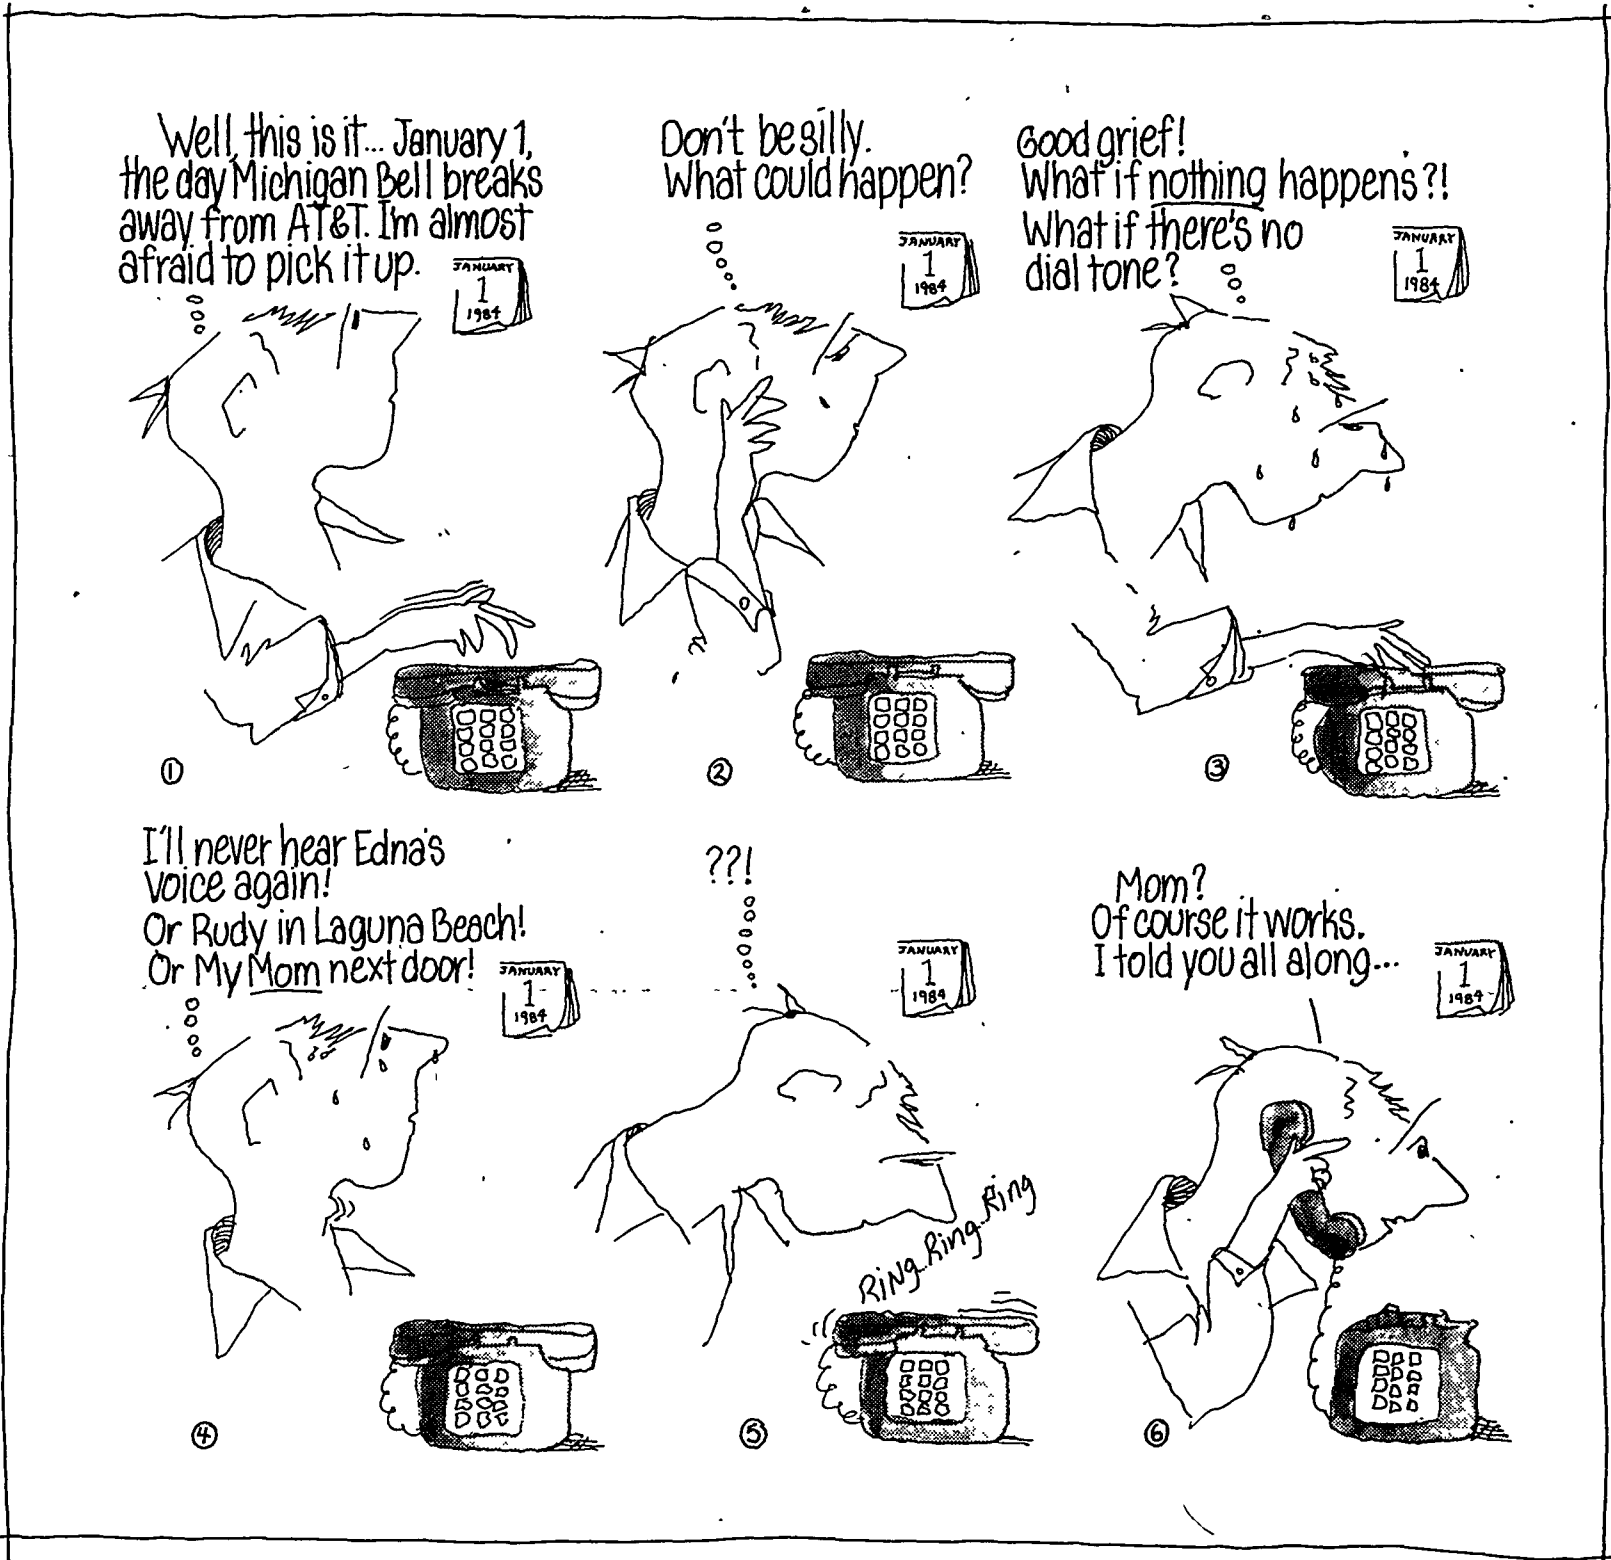

The Crafts' daughter Barbara, 31, is a lawyer and currently is chairman of the Michigan Consumers Council. For a long period she worked in Lansing with legal services. She and her sister Audrey, 27, a psychologist working with half-way houses for drug abusers, live together in Grand Rapids.

"I've really had tremendous comforting responses from all the community," Craft says.

Craft says he always has remembered a sign he saw in the pediatrics unit at the university hospital when David was being tested.

"It read 'The main purpose of childhood is to play' — some think the main purpose of childhood is to read.

"I want them to know how to read; I want them to know how to use the computer, but I want them also to enjoy childhood," said the principal of Amerman students last Thursday.

Come January 1, you'll still get through to Edna in Engadine or your mom next door... as quickly and efficiently as ever.

You've probably heard about the sweeping changes taking place in the telephone industry, and maybe you've been wondering just how they'll affect the telephone service in your home or in your business.

As a matter of fact, when you pick up your phone on January 1, you may be very surprised to learn that your service has changed very little. For one thing, you will be able to dial your local and long distance calls exactly as you did before. About the only immediate change will be how your calls are billed. That's where LATAs come in.

LATA is a new word to all of us. It stands for "Local Access Transport Area." In Michigan there will be five LATAs (which happen to closely approximate our Area Codes — see map). For now, the important thing about LATAs is this:

Starting January 1, 1984, whenever you place a local or long distance call within the LATA in which you live, you will be billed for that call by Michigan Bell. When you place a call from your LATA to another LATA in Michigan or elsewhere, you will be billed by another long distance carrier. Some carriers may elect to have Michigan Bell include their charges in the bill Michigan Bell sends you. Others may not, and will bill you directly.

We'll be telling you more about LATAs and other calling information as the details unfold.

So, as the expression goes — "not to worry." You'll still have your phone service — as good as ever — because we're working to make the changes in your phone company better changes for you. After all...

IT'S AT&T WE'RE SEPARATING FROM... NOT YOU.

Facts down the line.
Because your telephone business office is busily engaged in normal, day-to-day telephone service matters, we are providing this toll-free number as a source for answers to the questions you may have about your changing telephone company. We also suggest that you watch for our informational messages in your newspapers and in your monthly telephone bills. 1 800 555-5000

The Northville Record

Cindy Panowicz en route to her sixth-place finish in the state meet

Panowicz named to all-state squad

Northville junior Cindy Panowicz is now an all-stater in two sports. At the MHSAA Class A cross-country championships in Hartland last week, Panowicz took sixth in individual competition, recording a blistering 19:39 to earn a spot on the all-state girls' cross-country team.

Panowicz had also been named to the all-state track team for her performance in the 330 yard low hurdles last spring. "It was Cindy's best race

'It was Cindy's best race ever ... She just kept on sprinting.'

ever," harrier coach Ed Gabrys said. "She was running eighth and kicked past the two girls ahead of her in the last half-mile. "She said she thought the finish line was about a hundred yards closer, so she timed her sprint early — but it worked out, since she just kept on sprinting."

Classmate Wendy Nuechterlein finished 24th with a similar surge, coming from running in the mid-40s at the midway point to finish 24th. "It was Wendy's second state meet," Gabrys pointed out. "She knew how to run it, and that helped."

Mustangs finish at 6-3 with win over Wildcats

By B.J. MARTIN

After the Novi-Northville grudge match last Friday night, it was Novi's turn to carry the grudge.

Looking nothing like the unit that fell 20-16 to the Wildcats in 1982, the Mustangs trampled Novi 35-14 in the frosty season-closing contest.

The ground game gave the 6-3 Mustangs all the margin they would need in the season-ending game, as running backs Steve Smith and John Quinn combined for 226 yards rushing and three touchdowns.

Meanwhile, the Northville defense wasn't letting Novi get anywhere until the "A Team" was pulled out after three quarters.

Braced by its four all-league players (see accompanying story) the Mustang defense held Novi to 15 yards total offense in the first half, allowing just two first downs, one on a penalty.

After a scoreless first quarter, the Wildcats quickly collapsed. After a fumbled snap of a punt attempt gave Northville the ball on Novi's 22, Mustang quarterback Dave Longridge dropped back on the first play from scrimmage and spiraled a TD strike to Brian Jennings to open the scoring.

On its next possession, Northville held three downs and forced another Novi punt — and the results were equally fortuitous. This time Northville recovered a weak punt under pressure at the Novi 12. And on the first play, Smith zipped up the middle on a trap play untouched into the end zone.

Longridge's strong-side pitch to Quinn added a two-point conversion.

Northville added two more touchdowns in the third quarter. Dave Longridge capped a six-play 48-yard drive by taking a 19-yard option run around the corner for a TD, while blocks by Steve Schrader and Matt

All-leaguers

12 Mustangs earn honors

Four Northville seniors were named last week to the Western Lakes Activities Association all-league football team, while all-division honors went to five more Mustangs.

Named to the all-league team were defensive linemen MATT MEYER and DAN NIELSEN, cornerback STEVE SMITH and offensive tackle STEVE SCHRADER.

Awarded all-division status were running back JOHN QUINN, wide receiver BRIAN JENNINGS, safety MIKE WISSMAN, linebacker DOUG HARTMAN and guard JOHN KLOKKEGA.

It's a tribute to the effectiveness of the defense that their stats aren't too impressive — it's just that opposing teams rarely held the ball long enough to build them up.

The Mustangs allowed more than 13 points against them only twice all season — to 5-1 Farmington Harrison and 5-1 Plymouth Salem. Defending state champion Harrison was held to only 20 points, the Hawks' second-lowest scoring output of the season.

Nielsen and Meyer anchored a line equally effective against the run and pass. At 6'2", 205 pounds, Nielsen was a ferocious defensive end, recording 27 first hits and 10 assists on the season. He recorded three quarterback sacks, as did Meyer.

Northville's co-captain, the 6'1" 190-pound Meyer recorded 25 first hits and 25 assists to repeat as an all-league player. He has already declared his intent to play for Alma College's football team next year.

Steve Smith emerged as Northville's most explosive ballplayer, both on defense and offense. On defense, Smith picked off three enemy passes, running one in for a touchdown, and he deflected six more passes. He was third on the team in tackles despite his being a cornerback.

Filling in on offense for injured Todd Deal, the 5'9" 170-pound Smith led the team in touchdowns with six, rushed for 484 yards at — get this — a 12.1 yards per carry clip, including TD runs of 94 and 96 yards.

Schrader, a two-way player all season, was practically a one-man offensive line. At 6'6", 220 pounds with both speed and agility besides, Schrader was a fearsome pass protector for quarterback Dave Longridge, and exploded holes for Deal, Quinn and Smith like TNT. As a defensive lineman, he was second on the team in tackles and he recorded three sacks.

Next to Schrader on the offensive line was 6 foot, 170-pound Klokkega, a quick, savvy senior, valuable as a pass protector and short-yardage mauler, but especially as the lead blocker on outside sweeps.

SEASON SIGN-OFF — It was a bumper crop of football talent Mustang Head Coach Dennis Colligan harvested this season, and the Novi Wildcats got a good look at it Friday night in the two teams' season finale. At left, Mustang signal-caller Dave Longridge fires under pressure in his last high school game. Longridge was named honorary mention all-league by WLAA coaches last week. Below, the Mustang defensive line swarms over — and under — Novi ballcarrier Steve Korte. The Mustangs allowed the Wildcats only 14 yards rushing in the entire game. At right, all-division linebacker Doug Hartman searches for an opening after snatching his third interception of the year. Record photos by Steve Fecht.

Four Mustangs named all-league

narrowly missed being named to the all-league backfield, was perhaps more responsible than anyone else for the Mustangs' good season. The palomino-sized workhorse (5'7" 145 pounds) of the Mustang offense rushed for 925 yards overall this season at 5.5 yards per carry, scoring five touchdowns. As a defensive safety, Quinn intercepted two passes.

The 6-foot, 170-pound Jennings was Longridge's favorite receiver all season. Jennings caught 14 passes for 280 yards, and scored four touchdowns, three in the air and one on a reverse.

The only Northville junior selected all-division, Hartman led the Mustangs in tackles with 5.2 first hits and 6.1 assists per game. But for some outstanding talent at linebacker in the WLAA this year, he would have been an easy choice for all-league. The six-foot, 185-pounder also intercepted three passes and recovered two fumbles.

Mike Wissman contributed 19 first hits and 26 assists from his strong safety slot, deflecting six passes and picking up one interception.

Receiving honorable mention league honors were three seniors: co-captains quarterback Dave Longridge and tackle Tim Jackson, and Mike Weber.

Longridge threw for 416 yards for the season, completing 34 of 94 passes for 416 yards and four touchdowns. He scored two touchdowns on keepers. Colligan called the senior co-captain "the team's offensive leader."

"He even straightened out my mistakes," Colligan added. "No way could we have gotten as far as we did without Dave."

Tough on both the offensive and defensive line, the 5'10", 209-pound Jackson was the Mustangs' fifth leading tackler with 26 first hits and 23 assists for the season, while Weber, 6'4" 200 pounds, picked up 22 first hits and 14 assists.

"We're going to miss a lot of those guys next year," Colligan said, and indeed it will be tough to replace them and one of the best groups of seniors to ever play for the Mustangs.

Aside from those listed above, the other seniors who contributed to the squad were wide receivers John Kaley, Roger Holdomb, Mike Baldwin, Mike Sylvestre, Tim Horling and Steve Crawford; linebacker Ernie Bock, who missed most of the year due to injury, then came on strong late in the season; running back Dave Wilson, and linemen Napoleon Morfe, Chuck Kellar, Konrad Meister, Tom Millen, Tom Homrich, Steve Hamilton, Jim Ziegler and Andy Cocagne.

Mustangs wallop Novi

Meyer mowed down the Novi pursuit like a wheat thrasher.

On its next possession, Northville went to Quinn twice to get to the Novi 11, then let Quinn take a strong-side sweep into paydirt.

After Novi struck back with a fourth-quarter TD, Smith capped the Mustang scoring with a 57-yard touchdown burst up the middle, again on a trap play. Jack Sylvestre converted his third extra point kick in four attempts for the night, and the second-team offense and defense took over.

Greg Wendell and Quinn led the defensive charge with four first hits and Doug Hartman picked up four assists.

Senior scholar-athlete Kelly Wool digs in at the MHSAA state meet Saturday

Netters get WLAA trophy

It looks like Northville's outstanding girls' tennis team will bring home a trophy after all.

Following discussions among Western Lakes Activities Association athletic directors, it has been decided that Northville will receive a trophy as co-conference champions for capturing first place at the league tennis tournament last month.

Because the Mustang netters had a worse league dual-match record than Livonia Stevenson and Farmington Harrison, and because of confusing and unwritten league rules on the award, Northville team members and Coach Uta Filkin believed the squad would receive no trophy despite its first place finish at the league tournament.

But at the behest of Filkin and Northville Athletic Director Ralph Redmond, the reasoning behind the rules was re-examined.

"It was never really clearly pointed out how the trophies were to be awarded," Filkin said. "It was Stevenson's coach's opinion we should win the conference trophy outright. It's all still new—we are still trying to work out a lot of the incongruities."

Members of the co-conference champion team are Holly Hubbard, first singles; Jackie Nicols, second singles; Vicki Robins, third singles and Denise Colovas, fourth singles. The doubles teams were Jeannine Cook and Leslie Oliver, first; Jean DuSablón and Jennifer Trausch, second; and alternating at third doubles were the team of Jill Jensen and Lori Housman, and the team of Amy Nieuwkoop and Lauren Oliver.

UTA FILKIN

Four harriers in state meet

Senior Kelly Wool finished 38th overall with a 20:39 time in her second appearance at the state.

The only boys' team entry to qualify for the state, Jim O'Neill turned in a respectable 48th place finish—ahead of all but two area runners, with a very good time of 16:59.

Panowicz was also named the Mustang girls' team's most valuable player for the season, and was elected co-captain of the 1984 squad with Nuechterlein, who was named most improved runner. Wool, Northville's 1982 MVP, was honored as the team's best scholar-athlete.

O'Neill was named the boys' team MVP for the second straight year. Next year, the boys will be co-captained by Rich Nazradi and Mike Siefken. Matt Winkquist was named most improved runner and Doug Doyle earned the scholar-athlete award with a 3.8 scholastic average.

"The guys who will be returning will be a pretty good nucleus to build on, along with a pretty strong freshman class," Gabrys said.

JIM O'NEILL

Junior varsity football team ends season with 7-2 record

Anyone very concerned with the losses to graduation on the Northville varsity football team really needn't worry.

"Oh sure, there are no 6'6" Steve Schraders coming up. No returning all-leaguers like Matt Meyer. But there is the cream of the Northville junior varsity, who only went 7-2 this season, ending the year with a six-game winning streak.

The JV capped that season last Thursday with a 26-13 romp over Novi. Scoring on runs in the first quarter were running back Gary Harper and quarterback Paul Newitt, each on one-yard dives.

Harper bashed in from the two in the third quarter, and Newitt struck through the air with a 25 yard pass to Don Norton.

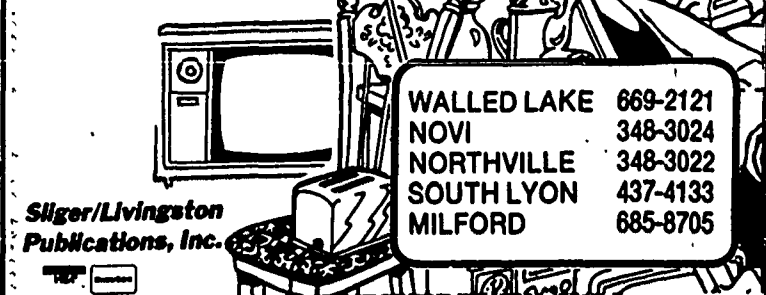

It was one of the season's best games for both Harper and Newitt. The tailback picked up 148 yards on 27 carries, while Newitt completed seven of 15 for 119 yards.

Tony Skrabut led the defense with six first hits and Tim Millen added five.

LEARN ABOUT AN INDUSTRY THAT'S ALREADY OUTPACING THE ECONOMY.

The service sector of the economy is booming. And at the Merrill Lynch seminar we'll discuss how it encompasses everything from telecommunications to tourism, hospital care to advertising, services everyone uses in day to day living. You'll learn about the New Economy Fund, a mutual fund composed of growth-oriented companies' stocks, and how you can benefit.

The services industry is, in fact, the fastest growing sector of the economy. We'll explain how you'll be able to invest in an area that is expected to account for over half the gross national product by 1995. You realize, of course, that the success of an industry doesn't guarantee the success of the individual companies in it.

Kathy Korowin drives against Bentley

Hot Bentley cage team tops Northville 51-27

By B.J. MARTIN

After holding Northville to only nine first-half points, Livonia, Bentley's girls' cage team breezed to a 51-27 win in the opening round of the Western Lakes Activities Association playoffs last Thursday.

The 15-2 Bulldogs got plenty of punch from backcourt aces Laurie Day and Lonnie Payne, who combined for 29 points to lead the Central Division champions to the lopsided victory.

The Mustangs' freshman center/forward Tricia Ducker picked up 11 points and junior point guard Kathy Korowin 6 to pace Northville, which fell to 2-15 overall with the loss.

'This time we were a lot better.'

Rick Hurst
Basketball coach

The 5'11" Ducker has averaged nearly 10 points per game in her last five performances to emerge as the Mustangs' leading offensive threat. Ducker finished the night rebounding in double figures for the third time in her last four ballgames as well.

"Tricia's regularly drawing our opponent's best defensive player," Hurst said. "That's really a good sign. She played well for us when we could get her the ball."

Hurst said junior forward Erin Ryan has shown rapid improvement also, particularly in defensive rebounding. "We're using her closer to the basket where we can use her on the boards, and that seems to help us a lot," he said.

"Kathy, Tricia and Erin are starting to look like real ballplayers," Hurst added. "I'm real confident we're going to be a much better team next year with them as the core."

Indeed it looked like there was already progress since the beginning of the season — In September, the Bulldogs bit Northville 61-25.

"The last time we played Bentley we couldn't even force them out of a fullcourt game. This time we were a lot better," Hurst pointed out.

"Progress" is a term important to Hurst, and he and sub-varsity coaches have made inroads at promoting a good basketball program at Northville. "I'm really proud of the way Cy Nichols at Cooke and Bonnie Sutherland at Meads Mill have been working," Hurst said. "We'll be a lot better next year and even more after that."

"I've been here less than two years, but I'm thinking the program is in good shape. I know I've improved my coaching a lot over my first year. If I can improve the same way as my players have, it'll make us a lot better."

Jerod Swallow with Jodie Balogh

Swallow vies for skating titles

Northville's Jerod Swallow teamed with Jodie Balogh to qualify for the Midwest Junior Dance and Junior Pairs skating championships to be held in Minneapolis November 27-December 3.

Swallow, age 17, and Balogh, age 14½, earned gold medals at the nine-state East Great Lakes Regional competition in Cleveland, October 27-29. Jerod also took second in the junior pairs at the regional, teaming with Shelly Propson. Both finishes were good enough to qualify for the Midwest championships, which will feature ice-skating teams from 27 states. Should Swallow and either partner finish in the top three in either junior dance or junior pairs at the Midwest, they will travel to the National Junior Championships in Salt Lake City in January.

Familiar to top-level competition, Jerod and Balogh took golds at the 1982 regionals in novice dance, while Jerod and Propson took first in novice pairs.

Division champ kickers rebound with 2-1 win

The Northville varsity soccer squad ended an excellent season Monday of last week with a 2-1 come-from-behind league win over Livonia Churchill, dealing the Chargers their first home-field defeat in two years.

The victory marked the end of Northville's season with a record of 16-4-2. The Mustangs were 11-1-1 in league competition, and won the Western Lakes Activities Association Western Division crown.

Senior forward Ken Vandella's goal staked Churchill to a 2-1 halftime lead, but the Mustangs answered with Steve Starcevic's 25th goal of the season seven minutes into the second half, and Randy Eppers' go-ahead tally four minutes later. Eppers fired home a loose ball in front of the Charger net for the winner.

"We came out kind of flat in the first period, and because of our loss to Stevenson at the regional two days before, I'm sure Churchill thought they could beat us," said Co-coach Marvin Gans. "But we started going to the ball much better in the second half, and that was the difference."

After Eppers' goal, Northville controlled play much as it did in the two teams' previous encounter this year, which Northville won 4-0.

Starcevic's team-leading total of 25 goals for the season is unusual in that he is predominantly a midfielder with defensive responsibilities. The senior has a great deal of experience on travel teams, including overseas play, picked up many of his goals on penalty shots and from his deadly long-range rockets.

ADDENDUM: Livonia Stevenson, the team that defeated Northville 3-2 in the Class A Regional championship, lost to undefeated Troy Athens 3-0 in the state title game.

CORRECTION: In last week's story it was incorrectly reported that Joe Arwady scored on a rebound of a Joe Mackle shot. The Joes were mixed up — it was Mackle who capitalized on the rebound of Arwady's shot for Northville's second goal against Stevenson.

Novi youth teams to join Northville's soccer league

Northville's Under 14 boys and girls Western Suburban Soccer League will apparently face at least a couple of new teams from Novi this spring.

In a step designed to upgrade Novi's competitive level in soccer, the Novi Parks and Recreation Department has tentatively approved 14-and-under boys and girls teams in the WSSL, which now includes teams from Northville, Livonia, Plymouth and Farmington.

"We were experiencing a drop-off in the number of kids interested in soccer at the high school level," Nick Valenti, coach of the Novi High School soccer team, said last week.

"It was definitely hurting the varsity soccer program at our high school," he added. "Our kids weren't getting the same competitive experience as those from other communities, since we were only playing other recreation league teams from Novi."

As current WSSL teams from Northville, Farmington, Livonia and Plymouth have well-established programs, it is likely Novi teams will struggle at for at least a few years.

But Valenti said he thought the move would increase interest in the game, and he ultimately hopes to extend WSSL programs to younger age divisions.

He contrasted the effective youth soccer program under way in Northville, and noted it was largely responsible for Northville High School's successful varsity soccer team. By contrast, he pointed out, Novi's varsity was winless this fall.

Valenti said forming Novi WSSL teams will reduce Novi players' need to join teams in neighboring communities.

Tell me about your high gas heating bills...

and I'll tell you how some people saved as much as 20%* with Ameri-Therm®

THE PROBLEM

You have a hole in your roof.

The hole?

Your furnace vent.

Every time your furnace turns off, the warm air in your home is quickly lost up in the furnace vent, and on goes the furnace again, heating the air and running up your gas bill.

When a furnace, boiler or water heater shuts off, warm air in your home is quickly lost up the furnace vent. Energy escapes, but you still end up paying for it. People want to save as much as they can, so I tell them to keep heat inside with an Ameri-Therm® Vent Damper.

THE SOLUTION

Close the hole in your roof with an Ameri-Therm® Vent Damper.

The heat of your furnace opens the Ameri-Therm® Vent Damper. When the furnace turns off, the Ameri-Therm® Vent Damper closes your furnace vent and the warm air you paid for stays where it belongs, inside your home.

The Ameri-Therm® Vent Damper is...

SIMPLE

- Easy to install
- Requires no electrical hookup

SAFE

- Proven in millions of locations worldwide
- Five-Year limited warranty

SAVES MONEY

- Eligible for 15% tax credit
- Based on a study of 400 homesites done by the East Ohio Gas Company, some people saved as much as 20% on their gas heating bills. This study showed an average savings of 12%. Your individual savings may be higher or lower depending on climate, living conditions, and home insulation.

Available for gas furnaces, gas boilers and gas water heaters.

Are all-star games for youngest leagues a wise policy?

By B.J. MARTIN

Last weekend there were all-star games for Northville youth soccer teams. All I can say is I'm glad I wasn't in the shoes of the coaches picking the all-stars from the Under 10 boys' and girls' leagues.

I suppose I'm pretty far off the beat of the times. I recently questioned mentioning elementary school-aged kids in the paper at all, and now I find these kids are participating in all-star games.

I understand there must have been some good intentions behind the decision to hold the all-star games for all the age groups: it gives the players another chance to show their skills. It's a source of pride to the kids and parents who participate.

But that doesn't balance the fact that scheduling those games may not be a good idea.

I recently declared some of my reservations on the subject of publicizing youngsters' athletic accomplishments, and the column I wrote on the subject generated one particularly interesting response. I won't share the person's name, but he sent along some study results concerning pre-adolescent and adolescent athletes.

In a joint policy statement issued in 1968 by the American Academy of Pediatrics, the American Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, the American Medical Association Committee on Medical Aspects of Sports, and the Society of State Directors of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, the following remarks were made:

avoided in order to prevent exploitation of the children.

Listed under detrimental effects of interscholastic athletic competition for junior high students were:

"Emotional demands of inter-school beyond their physiological limits."

There's no need to be melodramatic about this — for the most part, coaches in little league football and soccer are reasonable men and women. But we need to be careful that the needs of the kids less gifted at an early age are met too — and that means not trampling their enthusiasm for the game by making them feel they "aren't good enough."

Don't think it's a problem? Novi's soccer program has floundered for a while in part because older youth league players gave up on the game after their teams routinely got pounded by well-established league teams from surrounding communities.

By all means, a kid's interest in the game is directly tied to his sense of pride. Are we as parents and coaches creating that through the "star system," or are we sending a message that we're only interested in the good players?

By the way — any youngsters who are worried they're not doing well in sports should know that experts describe the number of middle-level (junior high) athletes who continue to excel at the high school level as "exceedingly low."

Apparently, how adolescents and pre-adolescents will mature into young adult bodies is something nature and positive, determined attitudes settle long after the sub-teen years.

Sports In Perspective

"Contests (for elementary school-aged children)...should not include play-offs or all-star games."

"Excessive publicity" and "public pressure on the scores" should be competitions at a time when the biochemistry of the participants is in rapid flux," and —

"The desire to please peers, parents and coaches drives the participants

Recreation Briefs

SKI CLUB REGISTRATION

The Northville Recreation Ski Club, for youths 12-17 years of age, will be holding two more days of registration: Saturday, November 12, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., for renewal of membership; and Saturday, November 19, for new members on a first-come, first-serve basis. Registration will take place at the Community Center from 10 a.m. to noon. Club packets must be picked up prior to registration. The club fee is $35 per participant.

OPENS WIM

Recreation Open Swim is scheduled at the Northville High School pool for Mondays and Wednesdays from 8:30-9:30 p.m. The fee is 50 cents. Weekend swimming takes place on Saturdays from noon to 2 p.m. and from 4-6 p.m. The fee is $1. Also, a special "adults only" swim will take place Saturdays from 3-4 p.m. Fee is 50 cents.

BEGINNING TUMBLING

A second session of Tumbling is scheduled to begin Saturday, November 12, at the Northville High School wrestling room. All children ages four and up may register for this five-week session. The fee is $15 per participant.

COMMUNITY CENTER RENTAL

Looking for a group meeting site, party location or location for a wedding reception? The Northville Community Recreation Center is available for such appropriate occasions. There are meeting rooms, a stage, gym and kitchen facilities for rent on an hourly or daily basis. For further information, call the department at 349-0203.

OPEN GYM

The fall session of recreation open gym at the Recreation Center has just begun. The gym will be open Monday through Friday from 3-5 p.m. The fee is $1 per day.

VOLUNTEER COACH NEEDED

The Northville Recreation Department is seeking an adult volunteer to coach youth basketball for a seventh, eighth and ninth grade team. Practice will begin soon, with games starting in January. Please contact the department at 349-0203 if interested.

FUN 'N' FITNESS

Join the Recreation Department's fitness program now in session and the registration fee will be pro-rated. The program consists of dance, fitness and exercise to music and is appropriate for all men and women. You may select one time or any combination of days and evenings. The classes are offered Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 9:30-10:30 a.m. or Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7-8 p.m. A babysitter will be available for the morning session only at 75 cents per class per child.

Grid contest winners

Northville's CHRIS ODOM, always uncannily near the top of the heap in the Northville Record/Novi-Walled Lake News Football Contest, nosed out two out-of-towners for the $10 first prize in last week's edition.

Odum picked only two outcomes incorrectly, as did Farmington's ART THOMPSON and Westland's CARMON WHITE. But Odum guessed 31 points would be scored in last week's tie-breaker, Hillsdale vs. Michigan Tech, and that was just five points off the magic number of 36.

Thompson guessed 30 points and will get the $5 second prize, and White pegged it nine points high at 45 for the $3 third prize.

Most of this week's entries had four or five incorrect guesses. Maybe the most popular mistake was the outcome of Oklahoma's trip to Missouri. The Tigers, however, are prone to home-field upset wins over big guns in the Big Eight, and did it again last Saturday, clawing the Sooners 10-0.

Other folks went wrong on the Clemson-North Carolina game, the Notre Dame-Pittsburgh matchup and the Long Beach State-Montana contest.

This week marks the last week of the contest, and no more high school games are on the line. So college football buffs, show your stuff.

NJBA officers named

New officers were elected last week to head the association's new 1984 Northville Junior Harp. Jim Newman was Baseball Association, the elected vice-president, organization that Bob Peterson secretary oversees youth league and Alma Stephens, teams in the city and treasurer.
