Downtown Walk rings in holidays

Downtown will be aglow this Sunday afternoon as Christmas lights twinkle and local merchants unveil windows and stores decorated for the holiday season. Continuing a tradition of 26 years, almost all stores will be open from noon to 5 p.m. for shoppers and browsers to view what is new for Christmas 1983.

Remnants of the first snowfall of the season were still on the ground Monday as DPW workers installed greens and crystal lights on lightposts throughout the downtown.

In past years it has become a tradition for families to stay in town after church to view the decorated windows and inspect Christmas merchandise.

Merchants' decorations will be judged immediately before the walk, and prizes will be awarded by the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce in five categories.

In addition to decorating their store or business windows, local merchants through the chamber and the Northville Retail Merchants Association support with donations the festive downtown street decorations.

For the renovated downtown, an old fashioned decorating scheme of greens tied to lightposts with red bows and hung with tiny crystal lights was adopted. This year, chamber president Charlotte Spaman and Michael St. Clare, of the merchants association, report, donations will be used to buy replacements for burned out bulbs. They invited non-members and interested residents to contribute also.

The chamber and merchants in cooperation with the Northville Jaycees and Jayettes will be making sure that Santa will be headquartered on Saturday afternoon in the town square opposite the clock in the home that the Kiwanians have built for him. He also will be strolling through the business area Sunday giving out candy canes to youngsters.

Judges for the decorating contest this year are Terry Fraser, vice president of the chamber, and his wife Phyllis, Ed Jamieson, a chamber director, and his wife Barbara.

Decorations of stores and businesses will be judged for appropriateness, use of color and scale. Categories to be judged are 1. Clothing and Shoes; 2. Gift and Florist Shops; 3. Services — restaurants, travel agencies, photo studios, bakeries, groceries, shoe repair; 4. Professional — real estate and insurance offices, banks; 5. General — jewelry, crafts and furniture.

First and second place awards and an honorable mention will be awarded in

Vernon wins fourth term, takes 62 percent of vote

By KEVIN WILSON

Northville Mayor Paul Vernon won election to his fourth consecutive term last week, defeating challenger Eugene "Bud" Kunz 513 to 315 votes.

Vernon received roughly 62 percent of the votes cast for mayor November 8, when approximately 22 percent of the 3,833 registered electors went to the polls. A total 843 votes were cast.

Council members Paul Folino and Carolann Ayers were both reelected to four-year terms. Both ran unopposed. Folino tallied a total 589 votes, Ayers 583.

Vernon's strong overall showing was reflected in absentee ballot and Oakland County (Precinct Two) voting, where he garnered the lion's share of his support. Kunz ran close in Wayne County (Precinct One), but ultimately lost to Vernon there as well, with the mayor taking 167 votes to the challenger's 153.

In Oakland, Vernon far outstripped Kunz's performance, taking Precinct Two with a 257-101 count. Absentee voters favored Vernon 89 to 61.

The newly elected officers were installed Monday night with 35th District Court Judge James Garber conducting the swearing-in ceremony.

After the installation, council elected member Dewey Gardner mayor pro-tem for the next two years. Vernon put Gardner's name in nomination, member Burton DeRusha made the motion, supported by Folino. There were no other nominations. Gardner has served as mayor pro-tem two years.

The newly-elected members each made acceptance remarks following the installation, with Vernon saying he felt "very honored and very privileged" ed" to be elected to a fourth term.

He said he accepted the office "with humility and pride." His humility, he said, arose from the results in which his challenger, though lacking experience, gained 38 percent of the vote. "It was disappointing to me, and I'm sure it was to others, that the decision was made by only 22 percent of the Prison impact study pushed back

By KEVIN WILSON

Completion of environmental impact studies of the proposal to renovate Plymouth Center for Human Development for use as a prison are not expected to be completed until "February at the earliest," state representative Gerald Law (R-Plymouth) said last week.

In related developments, prison opponents continue to seek funding and have begun a letter-writing campaign directed at the governor's office.

"We had a meeting with department of management and budget people early in the week," Law reported last Thursday, "and they told us they don't expect to finish their environmental study until at least February."

"The reaction of the chairman of our joint capital outlay committee (which must determine whether funds should be appropriated for the project) was that there will be no hearing until those studies are done," Law added. "It may be spring before we get to a hearing, in which case I suggested maybe we ought just to wait until the next budget."

DMB had originally projected that the studies would take roughly two months to complete. Since the studies were begun in October, those involved anticipated mid-December completion of the studies, making it feasible to have the outlay committee hearing when lawmakers return from their holiday break.

The revelation of further delay, Law said, increases legislative skepticism of the plan's merits so far as providing additional jail beds on a short time frame goes.

"When they stopped work at the regional prison site at Five Mile and Beck in favor of this one," he noted, "the renovation program was supposedly going to give them a solution to the overcrowding program faster. Now they've lost an entire building season."

Northville Township Homeowners'

Association president Kitty Rhoades said the Concerned Citizens for Western Wayne County group, which formed around a core from the association, remains $20,000 short of its goal of raising $20,000 to oppose the prison renovation plan.

"We've got $18,000 — we need $2,000 more," Rhoades said. She explained

Students make the grade in state testing program

By MICHELE McELMURRY

Northville students in grades 4, 7 and 10 once again have done "exceptionally well" on the Michigan Educational Assessment Tests in reading and math, according to Nancy Soper, assistant superintendent for instruction.

Soper told the board of education at its meeting Monday that MEAP results returned to the district earlier this month indicate Northville students are "continuing to do well."

She noted that district analysis of grades 4, 7 and 10 in the area of mathematics reflects that 78.6 to 87.5 percent of the students accomplished 75 percent or more of all the objectives.

In the subject area of reading, the students accomplished 88.5 to 94.2 percent of the objectives.

While a summary of the district's MEAP results show little change in most areas in comparison to 1982, an increase occurred in the 10th grade mathematics scores where 78.6 percent of the students mastered 75 percent or more of the objectives. In 1982, 77 percent of the 10th graders mastered 75 percent or more of the mathematics objectives.

The greatest decrease occurred in the fourth grade reading scores where 88.5 percent of the students mastered 75 percent or more of the objectives in comparison to last year's 91.7 percent.

Other results from this year Michigan Educational Assessment Program are as follows:

Park Gardens sewer construction begins

Park Gardens residents awoke to the sound of heavy construction equipment on their subdivision streets last week and rejoiced — the long-awaited sewer project was under way.

Work crews began delivering pipe to the area north of Five Mile near Hagerty on Monday morning. Construction workers from Iannucci Construction Company began clearing and digging operations behind some Five Mile commercial properties later in the week. Completion of the project is scheduled by May 30, 1984.

Township business manager David Leiko reported to the township board November 10 that there would be "no problem spending the money" from community development block grants for the Park Gardens project in time to meet a December 31 deadline. Had the money not been spent this year, block grant regulations would have resulted in forfeiture of more than $100,000 of the funds.

Purchase of the needed pipe and other materials, with the start of construction will use up the amount required to be spent, Leiko said. Officials indicated nearly $200,000 will be spent before the end of the year. Total cost of the project approaches $1 million. Park Gardens has been subject to freregistered voters. "I accept with pride that Northville is a better city than it was six years ago (when he was first elected mayor)," Vernon continued. Among the accomplishments during that period, he cited the downtown improvements, the fact that there are five fewer people on the city payroll than 10 years ago despite the assumption of additional mandated responsibilities, a closer relationship to both the township government and with the local business community, improved senior citizen programming including Allen Terrace and that "the library was retained in the city during my tenure and expanded."

The progress, he noted, "was made possible only by people working together," citing specifically the council members, members of board and commissions including the downtown development authority, the city manager and support he received from his family.

Ayers said she continues "to be enthusiastic beginning this, my second four-year term." The first term, she said, "included many frustrating times, and probably more satisfying ones. Those are the ones I choose to remember as I begin my second term."

She said she had come to realize "the city is not only the city, we have to look to our relationships with neighboring communities, the counties, the state and federal governments."

Folino said he was "very honored" to be reelected unopposed and thanked the voters for "past support and future support," the council members, city administration, DPW and police department.

Vernon's challenger, Eugene Kunz, was gracious in defeat. He said after the election that he knew going into it that "it would be difficult for someone new to politics, without much experience" to win but that he felt the campaign had been worth while "to make sure there's some opposition. It shouldn't just be a cake-walk to be elected mayor."

Township enters contract with Karoub

Karoub & Associates was designated Northville Township's official Lansing lobbyist last week as the township board approved a one-year, $9,000 contract with the firm.

The contract takes effect December 1 and runs through November 30, 1984, Supervisor John MacDonald told the board, and requires $1,000 monthly payments beginning April 1.

Karoub & Associates is presently on retainer to the Northville Township Homeowner's Association, to represent the Concerned Citizens for Western Wayne County, which organized in opposition to state plans to renovate Plymouth Center for Human Development as a prison.

"The homeowners association's resources seem adequate to them through April," MacDonald said. "Without committing ourselves to any specific amount, I think we can say that if they run short between now and then, we would take a look at helping out with that effort. I want to make it clear that the contracts are separate, however."

Though spurred by the prison issue, the township decision to retain a lobbyist was also one of "recognizing that we are going to need representation up there (Lansing)," he added. With 36 percent of the township land area owned by state, county or city of Detroit, MacDonald said, it is likely other issues will arise that require the township have a lobbyist.

The starting date of the township contract was based on a perception that Karoub & Associates efforts in opposition to the prison should be supported by official recognition that the firm is acting on behalf of the township government as well as that of the citizens' group, MacDonald explained.

The April 1 date for the township's first payment was chosen "because that's the first day of our fiscal year and we will be able to budget that expense," he said.

Trustee Richard Allen noted that the contract payments "only start in April. We're paying the full cost. We're not paying three months short (of full contract costs)."

The Northville Township Homeowners' Association sent a letter to the board of trustees, which president Kitty Rhoades read into the minutes, supporting the action.

"It is imperative that we centralize and coordinate our efforts in dealing with the state, via a lobbying firm," the letter stated. "Scattered measures and grass roots movements are not going to protect us from, or inform us of, plans made which may be detrimental to the township...It is in our best interest that we set aside on-going funds for this use, before we find our township being developed and controlled by outside interests."

The township board vote on the contract was unanimously in favor, with all members save trustee James Nowka present.

Prison decision postponed

that the group's contract with lobbying organization Karoub & Associates will require the added money next March.

"The township said they might consider picking up the contract if we run out of funds (see related story) but if we do run short it will be March, and that's the end of the township fiscal year. Even if they wanted to, I don't imagine they'd have the money available then." Donations can be directed to the group at Box 708, Northville, 48167.

Rhoades also reported that the group hopes to "bombard Governor Blanchard's office with letters by the end of December opposing the plan."

Citizens are being asked to write "any type of letter directed to Governor Blanchard, at the Office of the Governor, State Capitol, Box 30013, Lansing, MI 48909. It doesn't matter if you write more than one, as long as they're mailed separately," she said.

Noting that letters written by individuals are given more consideration than are mass-distributed form letters, Rhoades urged that residents write letters that reflect their individual concerns rather than photocopying one version and having many sent.

City police buy portable stop sign

To those who've been wondering what the city police do with the money raised at the police auction — this time, they bought a sign. Last Friday, city police received a portable stop sign for use when a traffic light goes out, or there's a need for some additional kind of traffic control. Specially designed for the department, the large high-visibility sign has the familiar large octagonal red stop sign painted on the front of a silver reflecting surface, and is anchored to with-tand winds of 55 miles per hour. "The good thing about it is that now we don't need to assign one of our officers to direct traffic full time. We can keep them where they can be better used," said Police Chief Rodney Cannon.

Arts Commission plans big splash in January

The recently-invisible Northville Arts Commission and the newly-formed Northville Friends of the Arts organization plan to reappear with a bang this January.

Arts commission representatives appeared at the November 7 city council session to present their plans for an "Arts Celebration" introducing the NAC and NFA to community, outline their plans for the coming year and their long-range goals.

The group has been concentrating its efforts on this one event since late spring with the intent of soliciting community interest and involvement. The program is set up with the expectation that it will be fundraiser to finance remaining activities in 1984.

Slated at the Marquis Theater, the celebration is to begin with a champagne reception, followed by a 15-minute program introduction. The Michigan Opera Theatre is to present a musical revue entitled "As Time Goes By," tied to a showing of the movie "Casablanca."

Arts commission members told council they expect to sell 500 tickets at $6.50 each and raise roughly $1,000. Marquis Theater owner Inge Zayti has agreed to donate the theater and the film for the project.

The arts commission also received council approval of plans to create an "InfoLine" telephone announcement system to publicize arts events throughout the year.

Set up in the board of education building, the service would offer a pre-recorded announcement and allow those calling to leave a message. Arts commission members would return phone calls daily and the announcement would be changed weekly.

Artisans demonstrate crafts at DAR tea

Northville resident Dorothea Shafer today looks at a piece of wood with a wood-carver's eye — inspecting the grain and texture — and deciding if it is right to become a duck or chickadee.

She became a carver two years ago when she saw a notice in her church bulletin that Janie Smith was offering to teach the craft. She recalls that she first thought Mrs. Smith meant her invitation for children, but was told that she was welcome and that more and more women are becoming carvers.

While she isn't a member, Mrs. Shafer notes that there are women members in the Wood-Carvers Guild of Livonia.

Janie Smith has specialized in ducks and shore birds, while Doty Shafer says she likes to use her skill to make small birds — the nuthatch, chickadee and goldfinch.

Grain is especially important if the carving is not being painted, Mrs. Shafer explains.

Both women will be demonstrating their craft and showing how to begin, starting with available carving patterns, at the Colonial Tea being given by Sarah Ann Cochrane Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, from 1-4 p.m. Thursday afternoon at St. John's Episcopal Church in Plymouth. They will be among several Northville residents who are demonstrating handcraft skills at the tea which will feature a total of 16 craftspersons from the Northville-Plymouth areas.

From Northville Meg Copenon will be making baskets while Diane Klonik is spinning and demonstrating yarn dyeing. May Babbitt will demonstrate knitting; Jo Krause, rug braiding; Pat Stringer and Mary Ann Cardno, stenciling. Wheat weaving will be shown by Karen Poulos and her mother, Alva Asquini. Melanie Robinson, a staff librarian at the Northville Public Library, will demonstrate chair caning.

Tickets for the tea are $2.50 and are being sold at the door. The public is encouraged to attend and watch the demonstrations. There also is to be a table with information on genealogy.

PTG sets auditions for 'Bad Seed'

Auditions are being scheduled for "Bad Seed," upcoming production of the Plymouth Theatre Guild. They will be held today and Thursday beginning at 7:30 p.m. at Central Middle School, located at the corner of Church and Main streets in downtown Plymouth.

"Bad Seed" is a serious drama involving a family's struggles to cope with a problem child.

The guild reports that the show offers many roles for both men and women and has an especially challenging part for an eight-year-old girl.

It is to be presented in late January, 1984.

Everyone interested is invited to try out for parts in the drama. Patricia Bray may be contacted evenings at 349-4136 for more information.

Musical duo slates benefit at Marquis Theater Sunday

Bolcum & Morris, a husband and wife musical duo, will perform a benefit concert at 2:30 p.m. this Sunday at the Marquis Theater.

Sponsored by the Schoolcraft College Music Department, proceeds will be used for scholarships and facility improvement. Joan Morris, mezzo soprano, and William Bolcum, pianist, have toured throughout the United States and Europe in recital and as soloists with major symphony orchestras.

Tickets are $10 each for the general public and $5 for students and senior citizens. Tickets are available at the Schoolcraft College Bookstore. For information, call 591-6400, extension 265.

Oakland University awarded grant

The Oakland University Continuum Center has received an $80,000 grant through the State Board of Education to develop employability skills training materials.

The center staff will identify those abilities most necessary to helping young people and adults get and maintain employment and then set up methods to help trainers teach those skills to target populations in the state.

The project includes the development of a user's handbook for educators and other professionals who offer employability skills training. The Continuum Center staff will also develop a job skills-seeking workbook to be used by participants in the program.

The work of the project will have the input of an advisory board of experts from the target populations in the state to help make the project as reality-based as possible.

Pilot training sessions will be conducted for all target populations and trainers workshops will be held. Feedback from trainers and clients will be used to evaluate the program and for revisions in the user's handbook and the participants workbooks.

The user's handbook will include lesson plans for teaching the various competencies or strengths needed by the job seekers and suggestions on recruiting and evaluating the needs of the various job-seeking populations in the state.

Police Blotters

Township homes victimized by rash of break-ins

...In the Township

Northville Township Police are investigating a rash of breaking and enterings in Northville Colony Estates which took place sometime between November 9 and 10.

According to police reports, breaking and enterings were reported on Sutters Lane, Portis, Old Bedford, Westmeath Court, Cotswold Court and Sunnydale between last Wednesday and Thursday.

In most cases, the method of entry into the homes was gained through unlocked garage or side doors. Most complainants told police they found storm doors propped open with door pumps.

While complainants in all cases were home at the time the incidents occurred, no one reported hearing or seeing anything suspicious.

None of the homes was damaged and only a few reported stolen items.

In most instances, the suspects gained entry into the garage and rifled through glove boxes in unlocked vehicles before entering the residences.

Four complainants reported stolen purses and wallets. In three instances, wallets and purses were left on kitchen counters. Another was left on a washing machine in the laundry room.

While mostly currency was missing, one complainant reported a $182 radar detector was stolen from a vehicle. Another resident reported a $150 boy's Huffy bicycle and a $100 Black and Decker lawn edger had been stolen from the garage. The bicycle was recovered by police November 10 on Bradner.

Windshields of two vehicles parked at Seventh Day Adventist Church were damaged sometime between 10:30 a.m. and 12:15 p.m. November 12, township police report.

According to the report, one of the complainants told police he parked his vehicle in the north parking lot at 10:30 a.m. Saturday and when he returned at 12:15 p.m., he found his window had been shot out.

Police found four shots in the vehicle's windshield and one in the passenger headlamp. Damage is estimated at $205.

The other complainant told police he also parked his vehicle in the parking lot and when he returned found his car damaged.

Police found one shot in the windshield and damage is estimated at $200.

Items with an estimated value of $450 were stolen from the front yard of a Seven Mile residence sometime between 8:45 p.m. November 12 and 9 a.m. November 13.

The complainant told police that unknown subjects cut a cable and chain from a lamp post and stole two Firestone tires without wheels and also took an all-terrain tire with a wheel.

The complainant also said the subjects stole a heavy duty padlock and a hitch.

The tires and hitch were chained to a lamp post in the front yard of the residence.

...From State Police

A Livonia woman was seriously injured after running a red light at Five Mile and Haggerty roads and colliding with another car October 31, state police records show.

Evelyn Elizabeth Brown of Livonia was cited for failing to stop at the red light. She was taken to St. Mary Hospital by Community EMS ambulance.

Brown told police she did not know what happened, according to the report. Two witnesses and a Royal Oak man who was driving the other car stated that her 1978 Oldsmobile was northbound on Haggerty and drove through the red traffic signal at roughly 30 miles per hour.

Her car struck one driven westbound on Five Mile by Robert Shand of Royal Oak. The right front quarter of Brown's car struck the left front of Shand's vehicle.

Shand told police he could not see Brown's car because a van was stopped in the left turn lane, blocking his view to the south. Shand was uninjured, but his 1977 GMC pickup was seriously damaged and had to be towed away. Brown was not wearing seatbelts, Shand was.

State police are seeking a warrant for the arrest of a Detroit man on charges he was carrying a concealed weapon when arrested November 5 for drunk driving.

The custodian at the state police Northville post discovered the .25 caliber Baretta automatic pistol behind a file cabinet three days later. The custodian was cleaning a room used by police to administer breathalyzer tests, take fingerprints and photograph suspects when he spotted the gun in a leather holster stuffed behind a two-drawer file cabinet.

The cabinet is used to house prisoners' personal belongings during the booking process. Drunk driving suspects are often asked to sit in a chair beside the cabinet while police officers process tests and paperwork, according to the report.

When the custodian found the pistol November 8, he turned it in to the desk sergeant. A search of police records showed the pistol had recently been subjected to a safety test and was registered to the Detroit suspect. Checking the arrest record, state police found the man had been arrested in Novi on suspicion of drunk driving November 5.

The pistol owner was not listed among Michigan residents licensed to carry a concealed weapon. Police forwarded the information to the county prosecutor's office and asked that a warrant be sought for the man's arrest.

...In the City

Northville City police last Thursday night pulled over a pickup truck for two moving violations, only to discover it had been stolen.

The driver, a Detroit man, was halted for an improper right turn and defective equipment at Seven Mile and Main Street at 8:58 p.m. When he could produce no registration, city police ran a lien check revealing the vehicle had been reported stolen to Detroit police October 8.

The driver was placed under arrest and taken to the city police station, but a warrant request for prosecution was denied — the man reportedly had been loaned the automobile last spring, but was delinquent returning it to its owner, who at last reported it stolen.

Since the warrant was denied, any action taken against the man would have to go through Detroit civil courts in the form of a personal civil suit.

An Allen Terrace resident's auto sustained $100 damage by vandalism when two of the two-door brown Chevrolet's tires were cut on the sides, reportedly sometime Friday night. The car had been parked in the Allen Terrace parking lot, 401 High.

A Huffy Pro Thunder dirt bike left unattended outside Snow's Hardware, 316 North Center, for only five minutes, was stolen between 1 and 1:05 p.m.

Thursday, city police reported his week.

The bike was described as yellow and scratched, and has not been recovered.

One of the top corners of a marble headstone in Rural Hill Cemetery was discovered last Thursday to have been broken off, apparently by an act of vandalism. The damage took place during the previous "week and a half," it was reported. It was estimated at $50.

Reports revised

Hospital walkaway crime grows

Walkaways from Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital are increasingly involved in criminal activity after leaving the hospital grounds, township police chief Kenneth Hardesty told the township board November 10.

Reporting that 52 patients left the hospital without permission in October, Hardesty noted that his department apprehended seven of those walkaways. Of the seven, two were involved in criminal activity when found by township police.

At month's end, Hardesty's report stated, 21 escapees had not yet returned to the hospital and were considered "at large."

Clerk Susan Heintz said the monthly report of hospital escapes will be forwarded to township lobbyist Karoub &

Associates for whatever potential use it might have in efforts opposing state plans to place a prison at Five Mile and Sheldon.

"I'll send (Karoub) the past three years' worth," she said, noting the rise in criminal activity reported over that period.

Township police spent one hour and 14 minutes assisting hospital security forces in October, Hardesty's report showed. At the end of the month, 523 escapes had been reported in 1983, with 502 patients returned.

Hardesty noted that the hospital security committee, on which he sits, has revised the reporting form regarding walkaways. "We will be fixing blame," Hardesty said. "The new form requires a note if the patient is suicidal, aggressive or considered dangerous and, if they're on a grounds pass, who issued them a pass and why."

Heintz praised this revision, noting that it "is something we've been pushing for for some time now."

To resolve 'inequity'

Street parking permit rule revised

New rules regarding street parking permits for a limited number of "special cases" were approved by city council November 7.

At the recommendation of city manager Steven Walters, the council altered policy to allow issuance of a street parking permit in cases where there is one-car garage that cannot be enlarged to one and one-half car size and the driveway cannot hold more than one car if there are two or more cars owned and the house built prior to 1984.

Under previous policy, one street parking permit would be issued for each car over two. But Walters noted "an inequity" which "has become more common since we have enforced the restriction against parking across or overhanging the sidewalk."

Some parts of the city, notably the Northville Heights subdivision, have houses where a small one-car garage is served by a one-lane drive too short to hold two cars. Lots are too small to allow the garage or drive to be enlarged. If anything is stored in the garage, Walters explained, there is no legal way to park a second car at these residences.

"There are only a few cases of such lots which are the result of older subdivision platting practices," Walters reported. "There would be no such cases resulting from future building."

The city parking policy prohibits street parking at night and provides for issuance of parking permits for those cases where residents have not sufficient room to park cars. The permits, Walters noted, allow city police to spot cars owned by residents and easily distinguish them from cars that might be parked illegally by others.

In its old form, the policy allowed permits to be issued only for a third or fourth car under certain conditions. The change allows permits for a second car in those special cases where parking is available only for one.

Veterans' Day celebrated

Under bright skies, several area veterans' organizations jointly observed Veterans' Day November 6, the Sunday before the November 11 official date, at Oakland Hills Memorial Gardens, located at Twelve Mile and Novi roads.

Northville Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4012 with Jim Hornshaw, commander, provided the firing squad and a color guard for the observance.

Both Northville Mayor Paul Vernon and Novi Mayor Robert Schmid addressed those assembled.

V.F.W. State of Michigan Chaplain Lowell "Sam" Elston also spoke and solemnized the occasion by placing a wreath at the foot of the veterans' monument in memory of those who paid the supreme sacrifice.

Introducing the speakers was Lawrence McArthur, Northville post chaplain.

Other dignitaries attending were several V.F.W. Fourth District officers, including Commander LeRoy Conroy, Senior Vice Commander Roy Novosatko and Junior Vice Commander Dale Brubaker.

Also attending were members of the Northville American Legion Post 147, including Commander Robert Burton. Representatives of several area V.F.W. posts and auxiliaries attended from Novi, Livonia, South Lyon, Taylor and Wixom.

Organizers reported they hope to make the Sunday observance annual.

Township forms group home committee

Northville Township has formed a "Group Home Committee" of residents to assist the board in efforts to keep group homes out of the township.

Appointed November 10 to chair the committee was Ed Dorrington, who had appeared at the township's October session to urge the board to oppose the location of group homes in the township. He and other members of the committee had done considerable research on the issue, and supervisor John MacDonald suggested the committee be formed to make that knowledge accessible to the township.

Group homes generally house persons formerly institutionalized in Department of Mental Health programs. The creation of community placement homes for mentally retarded persons, and others for the mentally ill, has been a major thrust of the DMH for several years. There is, at present, only one such home in the township. The DMH has stated on several occasions that it expects to locate additional ones in Northville Township.

Appointed to the committee with Dorrington were Greg Davis, Bob Jensen, Kathleen Kauffman and Nancy Schlanser. Their terms expire in November, 1985.

The most recent application to locate a group home in the township was withdrawn after the chosen site was shown to have problems with its septic system.

At an earlier meeting, MacDonald said the township has generally been more successful opposing group homes "on a case by case basis" than other communities have been filing lawsuits. Such suits are generally lost, he said, while the township has been able to oppose three group homes in the past three years on the merits of each case rather than on a legal challenge to the state's right to place such homes in a community. None of the three was ever licensed.

It was to assist in these case-by-case arguments that the committee was formed, MacDonald said.

Clerk Susan Heintz noted later in the board meeting that the township is in receipt of an application to locate a foster family group home for six children "on Eight Mile between Highland Lakes and Quail Ridge."

This situation is somewhat different, she said, in that the residents of the home are foster parents who have four foster children in the house now. "They want to add two more, which means they have to license it," Heintz said.

She said she and building official Troy Milligan "have concerns about the electrical system — the house has violations right now."

Another concern, she said, was that group homes are not allowed within 1,500 feet of each other. The foster home would be roughly 1,900 feet from the township's only group home for retarded persons on Eight Mile to the west of Highland Lakes.

Conn finishes infantry class

Private Christopher H. Conn, son of James E. Conn, 18667 Jamestown Circle, Northville, has completed one station unit training (OSUT) at the U.S. Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Georgia.

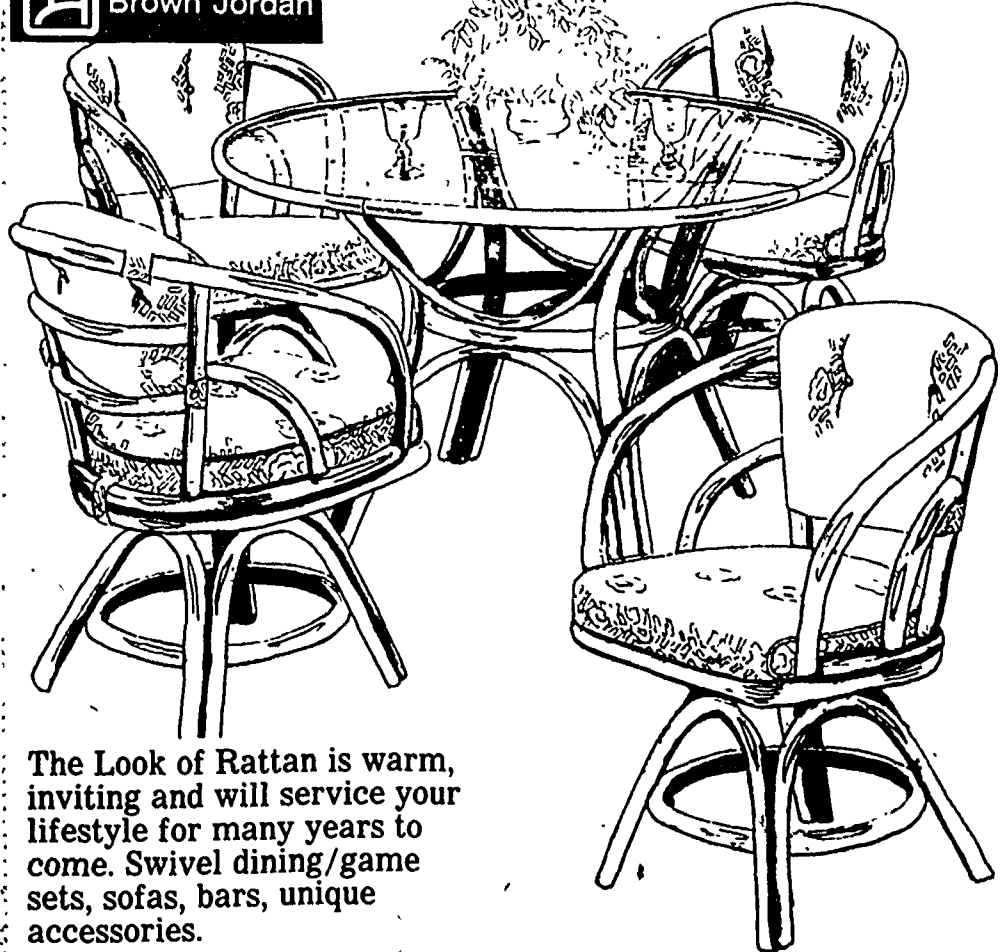

OSUT is a 12-week period which combines basic combat training and advanced individual training, including weapons qualifications, squad tactics, patrolling, landmine warfare, field communications, and combat operations. Completion of this course qualifies the soldier as a light-weapons infantryman and as an indirect-fire crewman.

Soldiers were additionally taught to perform any of the duties in a rifle or mortar squad.

quent septic system failures for many years. Repeated efforts to have sewers installed failed until the township began allocating block grant monies to the project in the late '70s and residents agreed to pay part of the cost by forming a special assessment district in late 1982.

Assessments will be made on tax bills in December, 1984.

City may contest Edison rate rise

City representatives will attend a meeting in Oak Park Wednesday with other units of government to explore joining together as a consortium to oppose electric rate increases requested by Detroit Edison.

The meeting, organized by Oak Park, is spurred by proposed rate increases that include a hike in the Residential Lifeline Rate ranging from 35.7 to 47.03 percent and in the Senior Citizens Residential Service rate between 32.23 and 43.64 percent.

The cost of such a rate increase to cities could be substantial, city manager Steven Walters told city council November 7. Oak Park estimated it will cost that city an additional $180,000 per year, or 38.44 percent more than it now pays for electricity used in city building and public street lighting.

Walters said a similar percentage hike might be expected in Northville, substantially increasing the city's operating costs.

In requesting attendance at the meeting, Oak Park city manager Aaron Marsh noted that city has financed independently four appearances before the Michigan Public Service Commission and has hired an attorney experienced in commission proceedings.

The Northville council selected member Carolann Ayers to attend the session. Ayers said she might not be able to make the meeting, and Walters was named to attend in the event Ayers was unable to do so.

Senior citizens by-laws approved

City and township last week both approved new by-laws for the Northville Area Senior Citizen Advisory Council.

The organization, which programs for senior citizens throughout the community, receives funds from both the city and township.

Created as an independent body last year, the advisory council previously was funded as a portion of the recreation program. The need for a set of by-laws was recognized at that time, chairperson Dorothy Gaul told city council Monday and the township board Thursday.

"We need by-laws so we can apply for grants," Gaul explained. "We've been creeping, we're going to walk next."

The by-laws set forth the purposes, membership, officers' duties and election rules, meeting rules, budget responsibility and rules of conduct for members.

Among the purposes identified are "to establish policies which serve the identified needs of the Northville area senior citizens in the most cost-efficient and effective method possible."

Membership is to consist of nine persons, three appointed by city council, three by the township board, one by Schoolcraft College, one by the Northville Board of Education and one at-large member. The latter presently is a member of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP), Gaul related.

Members serve staggered three-year terms expiring March 31 of each year. The by-laws, Gaul stressed, merely formalize operating methods already in existence so that the organization exists, on paper, for the purposes of seeking grant funding and relating as an independent agency to other governments.

Drunk drivers arrested in enforcement project

Northville city police report their participation on the Oakland County Alcohol Enforcement Team (AET) has been a fruitful one, and they are hoping to expand their role in Wayne County's AET.

"The way Oakland County runs it, it's a very smooth operation," Police Chief Rodney Cannon said. "We're very pleased with how it's worked out."

In Oakland County, the entire city police force has been specially deputized to make arrests of drunk drivers. Officers habitually are assigned two days a month to patrol an area bordered by Eight Mile Road on the south, 14 Mile Road to the north, Napier Road to the west and Inkster Road to the east.

Communities with territory in that area are Northville, Novi, Farmington, Farmington Hills, and Wixom. The police forces of the individual communities, plus the state Highway patrol and the Oakland County Sheriff's department all cooperate on the program.

The funds come from a grant especially for the AET program, which is under the wing of the Traffic Improvement Association division in Oakland County.

Northville police officers report that as many as ten arrests have been made during shifts when AET patrol cars are assigned.

"We're not out to harass anybody," Cannon said. "We're just trying to get drunk drivers off the road."

Plans to mobilize at least some officers on the force for Wayne County AET duty are still being worked out. Wayne County's AET policy differs from that of Oakland County in that Wayne will not authorize a "blanket" deputization of all a community's police officers.

Instead, recommendations for deputization are individually decided upon. Cannon said his officers agree the Oakland County method has worked well, however, and hope there will be a change in Wayne County's policy in the near future.

Students make grade in state tests

— 87.5 percent of the fourth graders mastered 75 percent or more of all reading objectives in comparison to 88.1 percent last year.

— 81.2 percent of the seventh graders mastered 75 percent or more of all reading objectives in comparison to 81.8 percent last year.

— 94.2 percent of the seventh graders mastered 75 percent or more of all mathematics objectives in comparison to 93.6 percent in 1982.

— 90.5 percent of the tenth graders mastered 75 percent or more of all mathematics objectives in comparison to 91.9 percent in 1982.

Soper explained that the MEAP tests assess basic skills in reading and mathematics and noted that "not only are students doing exceptionally well in grade 10, but in grades 4 and 7 as well."

The assistant superintendent told the board the district's results cannot be used as comparative data until information is received from other districts or the State Department's Analysis of the MEAP is released.

Though recognizing that MEAP results often are used as determinants in comparing school districts, Soper stressed that the test significance is determined in how the district utilizes the test information for curriculum improvement.

She pointed out that from a brief analysis of this year's test, the district has determined that certain objectives being tested in grade 4 are not being taught until almost the end of the third grade and noted that the only time the student has a formalized application of that concept is when it appears again in September of grade 4 on the MEAP test.

Soper said that from that brief analysis the district is working to improve skills in that objective during the current year.

Statewide results of the MEAP tests are expected to be released next month. Soper said an analysis of the district's complete testing program will be presented to the board of education's curriculum subcommittee and the board later this year.

She also noted that the Curriculum Council will be utilizing the data as part of the total district's program in reading and math during the months of November and December.

Test results for seventh and tenth graders are being sent home to parents. Counselors at the junior highs and high school also are meeting with students.

ACT test slated November 30 at Schoolcraft

The American College Testing (ACT) Career Planning Program will be given from 6-9 p.m. November 30 on the Schoolcraft College campus.

The Career Planning Program is a series of questions and short tests which summarizes and interprets an individual's responses in a report. The interpretation will help identify job skills, such as reading and number skills, assess interest and identify appropriate career clusters.

Accompanying the report is a booklet, "Planning Your Career," which shows how to use the results as the starting point in career planning.

Adults who are thinking about going to college and need a starting point, or are thinking about a new career direction and need clarification on their abilities, and/or interests may find the test valuable.

For information and a reservation, call the Schoolcraft Counseling Office at 591-6400, extension 312.

Fee for the ACT Career Planning Program is $20.

Author Judith Keith wears many hats

By JEAN DAY

Judith Keith wore many hats as she appeared at Northville Town Hall last Thursday.

The author of "I Haven't a Thing to Wear" became a fashion coordinator as she whipped out a variety of scarves to create different looks for her classic black dress.

"I don't want to call it basic — a classic is whatever works for you, a shirtwaist or whatever," she told her audience, noting candidly, "I'm bosomy; so instead of a shirtwaist I choose a long-lined dress."

She said the shape was 10 years old and that she had had the dress repeated in the same silhouette — "but I threw out the belt two years ago."

Keith became a travel consultant as she opened a 24-inch suitcase and brought out accessories to expand the black dress with eye-catching hats, overskirts, pants, scarves and a fluffy boa.

Most of all, however, she was an entertainer closely identifying herself with her mostly middle-aged audience at the second Town Hall lecture of the current season at the Plymouth Hilton Inn.

"Never wear gray on a gray day or blue on a blue day," she advised, stressing the importance of color.

In terms of hair, she said, white hair can be the most complimentary, softening the skin color and features. European men, she observed, appreciate older women — "the trick is not to look overripe!"

Clothes can be very, very useful as a camouflage, Keith told her audience, pointing to her own tendency to overweight.

"I'd rather be happy and heavy than slim and grim," she quipped.

"I believe in being the best you can be, but we can't all be Jane Fondas — you're negating from where you get your genes. We can't all have Henry Fonda fathers."

Visually, she demonstrated, there are ways to create illusions of slimmness. She suggested wearing long scarves —

"When you're pooped, wear pink. Never let anyone know you are (pooped) — rather make them wonder who you are. Every woman should have pink in her wardrobe."

— Judith Keith

"long, flowing ones make you look much thinner."

Keith, who has appeared on the Today Show and Phil Donahue in her dramatic hats, showed her audience "the real me" as she doffed her scarlet fedora to reveal wisps of hair in curlers. She said they were necessary to hold the hat crown in place. Later, she brought forth from the soft-sided suitcase different wigs, advising her audience to purchase inexpensive ones.

As she displayed the heads of hair, she observed, "Grandma used to say, 'What you haven't got, you can get.'"

"The last thing you want is a wig that looks like your own hair — for a new image, wear a wig."

"But, there's a very fine line between the bizarre and bold — use your good judgment."

"The most important thing is comfort. I don't care how much 'in' a trend may be, don't wear it if it's not comfortable."

Keith suggested, "When your daughter says, 'it's okay,' or, 'Mother, it's interesting,' don't wear it."

Keith's wardrobe-in-a-suitcase featured scarves for color and included a velvet blazer. "A blazer can be very dressy, or sporty — buy an inexpensive soft velvet — the cheap ones don't wrinkle — mine came from JCPenney's."

Her knit travel coat that brought appreciative comments from the audience, however, was purchased in Paris. She said it was an investment and recommended a knit for traveling. "You have only to be concerned with the total look," Keith told her audience. "You set your own style — it's hairdo, hats, the look."

Keith's own style was demonstrated as she showed how the plain black dress "went to varying lengths."

Ripping off the street-length hem, she added a longer piece under the tunic to take the dress to floor length. With an assist from Town Hall chairman Sandy Chouinard, the floor-length tiers were added.

"Use snaps. Velcro and zippers just don't work — have you ever sat on a piece of Velcro?"

With the tunic top she pulled on a pair of pants after displaying the short tunic as a dress but warning, "Nothing ages a woman more than dressing too young." She told how she was being met after a plane trip by her son who had been urging her to "get with it."

She had shed the long skirt and donned a full wig in the plane rest room. "When I came out, the man sitting next to me said, 'There's already someone in that seat.' I had a hard time convincing him," Keith related, wearing the mini and wig for her audience. Her son did not recognize her at the airport but finally came up to say, "Pardon me, but are you my mother?"

"His look changed my attitude."

Keith admitted she contrived the varying skirt pieces for her dress as a joke when Phil Donahue asked if she had something new to appear with on his show to talk about her book.

She also is the co-author of "Candy, Chocolate, Ice Cream 'N' How to Lick 'em." She told Town Hall that she presently is finishing "The Sweet of Bitter Bark," which is a novel.

At the celebrity luncheon following the lecture, Keith drew applause as she confided she had celebrated her 60th birthday last March and had "no lifts."

"I think it's your attitude," she observed, relating that she does calisthenics for three-quarters of an hour each morning, can swim 102 laps and hikes, canoes and plans to take up scuba diving.

In response to questions, she stated

she had been married three times. "I had three quick marriages — just time to have three children."

"My first husband (a Russian prince) walked out on me and two small sons. We never heard from him until two years ago and that was after 30-odd years. I made the mistake of choosing the wrong man."

Keith added she is the mother of two sons and a daughter.

Her book, which was available in both hard cover and paperback at the lecture, contains "26 pages on how to tie scarves," Keith demonstrated many.

A "trick," she confided, to keep scarves in place is a tab at the neckline. "It is a three-inch loop doubled over that can be made from a piece of the hem or matching fabric — and can be tucked under the neckline if you don't need it."

"It's all a matter of experimenting," she said, folding a scarf into accordion pleats and pulling it through the tab to create a "pussycat bow."

"Vera," she said, "is one of the best scarf designers. Thousands bought the smoke rings that almost ruined her business because nobody could figure out how to wear them."

"The only way it works," Keith demonstrated, "is to pull it under a bra strap, out and over the shoulder."

She advocated silk scarves worn at the neckline against the skin as "one of the best ways to keep warm." She said she had discovered this trick as a ski instructor as she wore a silk scarf under a wool turtleneck.

"There's absolutely nothing wrong with wearing a scarf over your head," demonstrated Keith, "but it's not a babushka if you take the ends, and instead of tying them under the chin, take them around the back."

She illustrated how to create a blouse from a large square scarf, suggesting that a square of silk can be purchased and hand-hemmed. Two snaps were sewed to the ends to fasten at the neck. Keith added that the scarf blouse is a comfortable fashion for warm climates.

A large scarf became a cocoon cape when ends were snapped together to create armholes.

The speaker also liked turbans, noting they can be colorful accents and are fine for wearing on planes. She warned that most women do not know how to wear them, saying "tie them all the way back on your head."

A final bit of Keith advice: "When you're pooped, wear pink. Never let anyone know you are (pooped) — rather make them wonder who you are. Every woman should have pink in her wardrobe."

Head chef at age 23

European training aided fast rise to top

By TOM HENDERSON

Keith Famie, the head chef at Raphael's, the highly regarded French restaurant at the Sheraton Oaks in Novi, had them oohing and aahing at Schoolcraft College recently.

The standing-room-only crowd of approximately 100 culinary arts students oohed when he told them his age, 23, which made him younger than some of them.

It aahed when he showed slides of his delectable creations during a fast-paced, two-hour guest lecture on French cuisine.

Who wouldn't ooh and aah? Famie, a graduate of the Southwest Oakland Vocational Education Center (SVOVEC), presented slide after slide of such delicacies as rabbit and pheasant pate, periwinkle and poached salmon, poached pears in red wine, black truffles, duck liver mousse, scallop mousse, lobster mousse and foie gras.

The foie gras (pronounced fwa-gra) made from the swollen liver of force-fed fowl, is imported at $45 a pound wholesale. The truffles, mushrooms rooted out of the ground by pigs or trained dogs, is a steal at $120 a pound wholesale, thanks to Famie's connections in France.

The periwinkle might look like escargot to the uninitiated, but the former is a sea snail and the latter is a land snail, a crucial distinction.

Why is Famie explaining all these things? How, at the tender age of 23, without a minute of college education or cooking school experience, has Famie come to lecture a wild-eyed, awed gathering of culinary students?

How did a kid out of Farmington High School, whose idea of a good kitchen job not so long ago was washing dishes in a Chinese restaurant, get to the point where he is cockily saying: "I want to have the first five-star restaurant ever in the State of Michigan and I want to be the youngest five-star chef ever?"

"A little b.s. and a little luck," he explains.

Actually, Famie's meteoric rise in the world of cuisine was a matter of a lot of guts and a lot of talent.

He started in the business at 15 as a dishwasher at the Great Wall in Farmington. From there he moved on to a dishwashing job at a Holiday Inn and an egg-slinging tour at a burger house.

The first break came when he was 16 and wrote a letter to Duglass Grech, the flamboyant chef known as Duglass Duglass, the one-time television star and then chef at the Great Dane. Duglass took the eager kid under his wing and began his tutelage.

"At 19," says Famie, "I flew into Brussels (Belgium). I didn't know anyone, nor did I know the language. But I wanted to learn European cooking."

A sympathetic American got him work in her husband's kitchen at the Hyatt Regency in Brussels, where "I was at the extreme bottom," chopping vegetables and washing lettuce."

When it was discovered he was working in Brussels illegally, the chef at the Regency found him a job at the Hotel Loews in Monte Carlo, where he cut more vegetables, washed more lettuce and kept his eyes and ears open.

From there came the trip up the ladder, through a variety of elegant restaurants in Europe and New York City; from vegetables to sauces to main courses to, a little more than a year ago, the head job at Raphael's.

Famie's lecture is witty and interesting, the perfect mix of instruction and anecdote. His love of cooking and his energy are obvious. The students, wearing white jackets and with their paper chef hats on the tables in front of them, sit enchanted.

Famie describes for his audience his days of abuse at the hands of the masters, where a slightly inadequate pastry might be hurled to the floor, where he was expected to be in the restaurant at 7 a.m. and wouldn't get out till midnight, where credit was rare and criticism frequent.

It was obvious that Famie wouldn't have missed it for the world, though he advises these kids to get their schooling in school.

Though already a successful chef, Famie is still learning.

"I just returned from Switzerland and a 12-day tour of Europe," he reported. "I ate at five of the 16 three-star restaurants in Europe." (In Europe, the rating system goes as high as three stars, the equivalent of five stars in the United States).

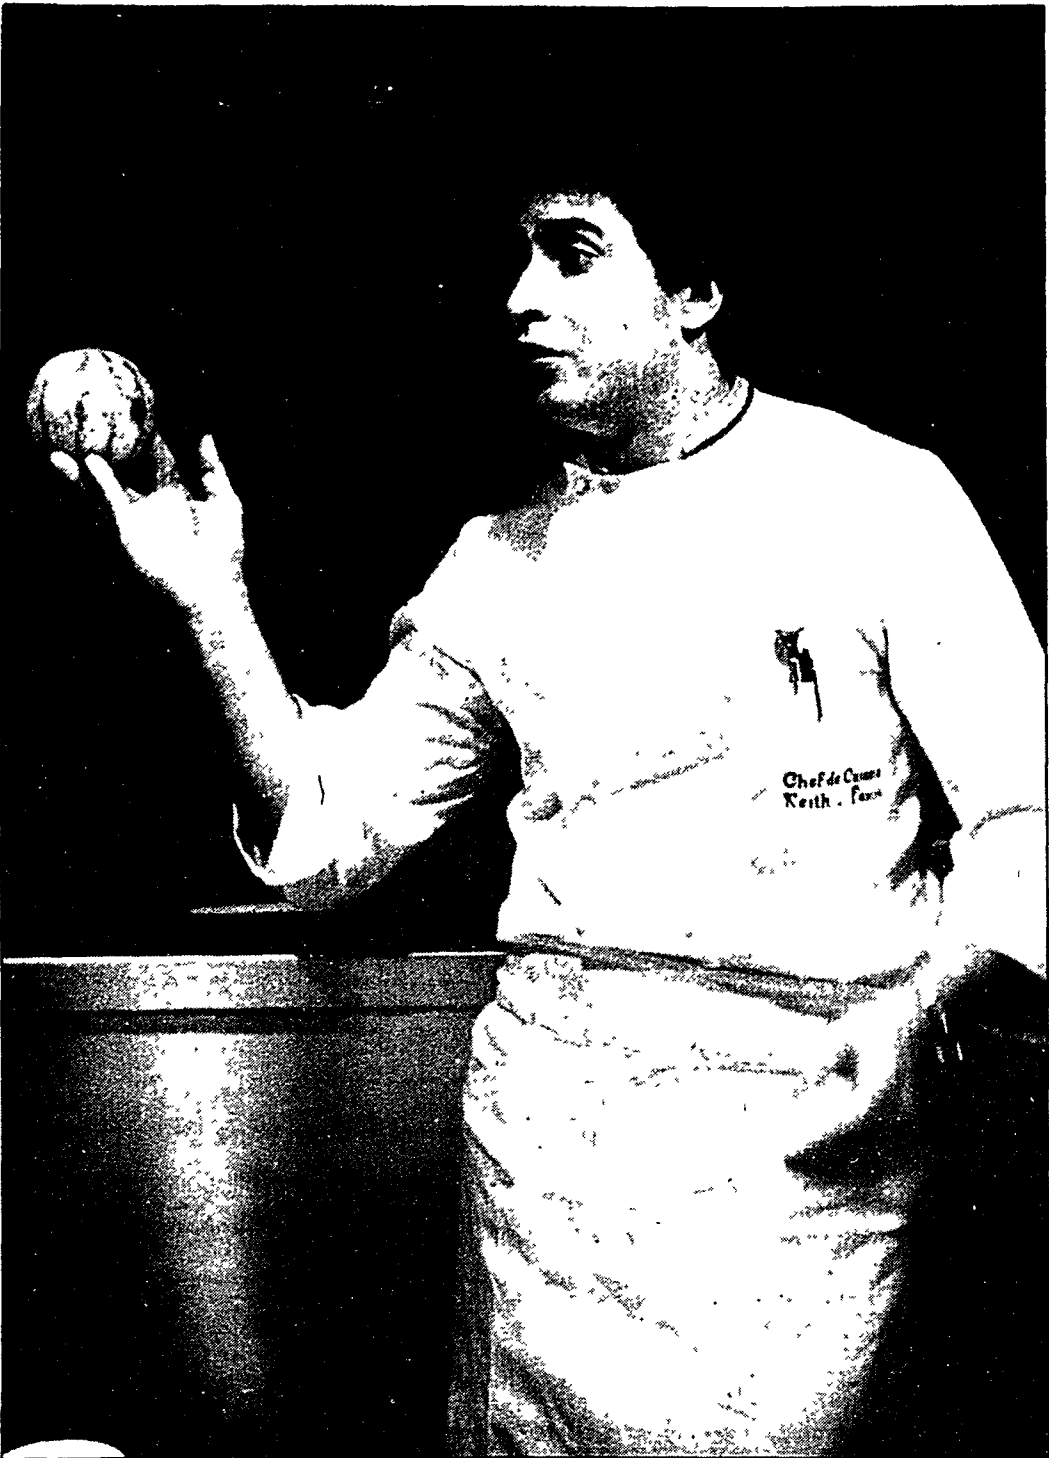

"The chefs at those restaurants are so very, very well known. And yet the red-carpet was rolled out for me. They were impressed to see someone young and eager, who doesn't know the language, knocking on their door and asking about their cooking."

The best meal there cost him $156, and that was for dinner. The cheapest? A couple of bucks at McDonald's.

McDonald's? For a fan of haute cuisine?

"Usually, after work, I'll get out to a Denny's or a Burger King," laughs Famie. "Or I'll go home and make a peanut butter and jelly sandwich."

A rose by any other name is still a rose, and, after all, an American kid, even after he's been to Paris, is still an American.

Township okays purchase of printer, cash register

Authorization to spend up to $11,500 to acquire two items deemed necessary in township hall was approved by the board of trustees November 10.

The board accepted a water and sewer department recommendation that that department be allowed to purchase a work station needle printer for the production of water bills at a cost not to exceed $8,000.

It also accepted treasurer Richard Henningsen's recommendation that the township general fund purchase a cash register for use in township hall at a cost up to $3,500.

The needle printer, business manager David Leiko explained, is necessary because the production of water and sewer bills ties up the printer purchased with the township computer system for a day or longer.

"This is something we knew a year ago that we'd need eventually," Leiko said. "But we figured the water and sewer department wouldn't be up on the computer for a year or so; so I decided to postpone the purchase rather than having the printer sit idle for a year."

The needle printer will be faster than the township's normal printer and will be exclusively for the use of the water and sewer department, he said.

The cash register, Henningsen said, would be a more secure and "professional" device than the "cash box we've been working out of. I spoke with our auditor about this and he thought it was an excellent idea. It will eliminate the possibility of shortages we now have, and allow us to stamp bills with the date and time paid."

Preschoolers go to classes

To allow parents a few hours for holiday shopping or relaxation, New Morning School in Plymouth is offering special classes for preschoolers in crafts and cooking.

Holiday Crafts will be offered from 1-3 p.m. Wednesday afternoons for four weeks beginning November 30. Preschoolers will be making gifts and gift-wrapping presents for family and friends. Class fee is $24 for the four sessions and includes all materials.

Cooking for Preschoolers will meet from 1-3 p.m. Fridays for three weeks beginning December 2.

Preschool teacher Marilyn Romack is looking for one parent who would like to assist in each class. The child would then attend free. To register, call Elaine Yagiela at 420-3331.

Agreement reached on relief sewer contract language

Resolution of one final contractual conflict between Northville Township and the Wayne County Department of Public Works has cleared the way for bidding to begin for construction of a relief interceptor sewer through the township that is the last remaining vestige of the once-mighty super sewer plan.

Township clerk Susan Heintz said Monday the township was prepared to sign a contract with the county that contains language the township earlier disputed.

She told the township board Thursday night the hangup was with, "one 'therefore' in the clause where we acknowledge that the county is broke. Our attorney says the word should be at the end, they want it in the middle."

But after discussing the issue with township attorney Nels Carlson, Heintz said Monday, township officials determined "it's not worth holding up the whole project over that one little item."

The contract was hammered out in a meeting between township, Novi, Oakland and Wayne County officials and attorneys approximately one month ago.

The north arm relief interceptor will parallel a Wayne County Rouge Valley Wastewater Disposal System Interceptor that runs approximately alongside Hines Drive through the township and into Plymouth. The original interceptor is overloaded and spills over into the Rouge River during heavy rainstorms when stormwater infiltrates the sewage system.

The relief interceptor will be approximately the same size as the original — together it is expected the sewers will handle the sewage flow from Novi and points north to a major Rouge Valley Interceptor that runs from Plymouth to the Detroit Sewage Treatment Plant.

Originally a portion of the super sewer plan, the relief interceptor was the only link in the North Huron Valley system to receive funding this year. Cost of the interceptor is estimated at $1.48 million.

Bidding on the project will begin next week, Heintz said. The township share of the cost is $336,000. Novi is also being assessed part of the cost. The township share includes $475,000 for its own benefit, with the remainder representing part of the cost that will ultimately be charged to Commerce Township and the city of Wixom. The city of Novi and Northville Township have agreed to pay the other communities' shares until Wixom and Commerce can raise the funds.

The township share will come from a reserve fund accumulated over a long period in anticipation of both super sewer and the relief interceptor.

Work continues to create a "son of super sewer" project that would route sewage flows from this area to the Detroit treatment plant. County sewer lines throughout the area would need improvement to accommodate the added flows, but the treatment plant supposedly has sufficient capacity to handle sewage that, under the super sewer plan, was to have been routed to a new treatment facility in Brownstown Township.

The new Rouge Valley system being proposed would improve interceptors downstream from the one through Northville Township.

Word that state consideration of the plans to renovate Plymouth Center for Human Development for use as a correctional facility has been delayed pending impact studies is both good news and bad. It is good insofar as it gives opponents more time to gather momentum, bad in that it reflects poorly on the operation of the state.

Such studies should have been completed before the proposal to renovate the center was ever taken seriously. When a state agency prepares to take action, most citizens would assume that it at least had done its homework in advance.

Now that the studies are under way, however, it would seem reasonable to expect them to be completed in timely fashion. The delay until February appears to us to be motivated as much by political as by practical considerations. The Department of Management and Budget may be delaying final consideration of issue in hopes that the heated opposition will cool over time. This would allow the state to either proceed with the plan without having to deal with the strong arguments against doing so, or drop it quietly.

We would be only too pleased to see the latter possibility come about, but cannot ignore the other alternative. It is vital that residents opposed to the proposal not drop their guard in the intervening months. Homeowners' association president Kitty Rhoades says she could "accept losing on the facts of the issue" but could not bear to see the plan go forward simply for lack of proper organization or financing opposing it.

Rather than simply waiting for the state to gather its arguments favoring the proposal, we believe it is important that the extra time now available be put to use raising additional funds to continue the opposition effort and writing letters to the administration that identify the issue, state the writer's position and back up that position with reasons. The citizens' group has the right idea — hundreds, perhaps thousands of letters opposing the plan in brief, rational terms can make clear to state officials the flaws of the proposal.

Primary among those, we believe, is that the renovation of Plymouth Center represents only a short-term solution to a long-term problem — prison overcrowding. Adherence to the corrections department plan to build a system of regional prisons such as the one this community has already accepted for Five Mile and Beck roads is the long-term answer to this situation. Money spent producing beds overnight in an environment not designed for corrections is a short-sighted waste of funds that could be better used addressing the real problem.

That the Plymouth Center location would be an inhibiting factor in the development of both the township's senior citizens' housing complex and of Plymouth Township's industrial development plans simply adds insult to injury. Not only would tax monies be misspent to renovate the center, but potential tax revenues to myriad local governments would be sidetracked. Viewed in this light, DMB's projection that $20 million would be saved in a single fiscal year pales into insignificance against the likely losses.

Still to be answered are several important questions not likely to be a part of the impact studies. High among these is, would operating costs at Plymouth Center exceed those of the regional prison? For instance, would more guards be needed since the site is not designed for incarceration? Would the renovated buildings be as energy-efficient as would newly designed ones? If operating costs exceed those of the regional prison, any savings generated initially would be offset by long-term losses. We'd like to know, also, how the state reconciles its statements that the Plymouth Center site would replace the regional prison only so far as it concerns Northville — a regional prison still would be situated elsewhere. If this is the case, then there are no savings at all — the renovated Plymouth Center would be an addition to the corrections system, not a replacement for anything else.

Finally, the state must be made to justify adding any institutional burden to Northville Township's already saturated 17.5 square miles. If residents must accept such institutions within their community, should they not at least be granted the concession that they be concentrated in a single area (Five Mile and Beck for prisons) rather than spread piecemeal throughout the township? The community has been generally accepting of the corrections presence at Five Mile and Beck. We believe the state should not force anything else down Northville's throat.

Walk's her gift

This Sunday at least 25 downtown merchants will be holding open house, inviting everyone to stop by and browse among gifts and decorations for the Christmas season. It is a custom begun here more than a quarter-century ago that has mushroomed to its present scope, attracting hundreds of visitors to the downtown area on the Sunday before Thanksgiving.

The person responsible for the concept of a holiday open house that has grown into the Christmas Walk was Lila Collins. She instituted the first Christmas-season open house shortly after she became owner of Lila's Flowers, a floral and gift business, in 1956. Now IV Seasons, the business was purchased in 1967 by Dewey Gardner, its present owner. He remembers working for Mrs. Collins while he was in college and then purchasing the business after coming home from Alaska where he had been in service and had stayed to teach.

A few days after Mrs. Collins' death November 6 in Florida, Gardner recalled for The Record how she had decided to hold a holiday open house to display Christmas merchandise and welcome shoppers. She was joined the following year by what was then Stone's Hardware (now Black's) as that store opened its Christmas toy department on the second floor. The next year, the Little People's Shop came in — and the year after everyone was open, Gardner remembers.

Somehow, what could have been just another commercial event never has been. The walk annually is anticipated as the beginning of the Christmas season in Northville. Downtown decorations are put in place by the DPW during the week before the walk. Many organizations take advantage of the day to sponsor benefit projects. Throughout the afternoon, families come to town to admire the decorated windows and Christmas offerings and are warmly welcomed by local merchants. It's a legacy that Lila Collins has left to the community.

Why not a commitment?

Maybe more than ever before, the media define how we perceive ourselves. Time magazine announces the end of the New Deal, and it's the end of the New Deal. Esquire proclaims the end of the free-love era and suddenly the fashionable are more careful about with whom they sleep.

Whether it's because the media have their skillful fingertips on the pulsebeat of the times or whether media hype has a way of actualizing its own ideas is debatable. But the force is there. My friends and I are hardly immune, it seems. People my age have been tabbed the Undecided Generation, and that's the way it seems to have worked in the lives of my friends, acquaintances, and myself.

Of a circle of about a dozen of my closest friends, only one has decided with his spouse to have a child, and we're all well past the age our parents began having children. We weigh whether we're being wise not to breed or just self-indulgent.

We wonder if the institution of marriage itself is a good idea, as we watch some go through painful divorces and feelings of being trapped on an unimaginative treadmill they're not sure they believe in.

Mom asked me a couple weeks ago, "Where's the sense of commitment today?"

Ah, commitment. How to know whether it's commitment through lack of imagination or through genuine belief in the values we've spent the last two decades questioning?

We resolve those questions the same way people always have, I think. The reasons we seem much different from our parents have been spelled out often enough — there has been a gradual de facto emancipation of women. There is a genuine concern over whether it's wise to continue overpopulating the world. America is teeming with people who weren't planned for and victimized by parental indifference and even neglect, and modern birth control techniques provide a means of counterracting that trend.

So why do teachers in lower grades and in nursery schools report the children they handle these days are heartbreakingly hungry for attention and affection? Why do divorce statistics get higher every year? Simple. People have gone ahead and gotten married, had children, without fully understanding how much commitment it takes, or finding it out too late to turn back.

Is such a situation a vindication of "traditional" values? I don't think so. It's merely the result of people's failure to learn to deal with the influx of ideas. Is that their fault? Not really. They are driven by loneliness, they sometimes feel pressured by family and peers, and they try to take halting steps toward stability and security in an increasingly complex world. And sometimes they find they've made a mistake.

A recent Detroit daily newspaper article, written by a woman, called men who wouldn't make such commitments "wimps." Her implication was that the only men who don't commit to marriage and/or child-rearing are libido-crazed hedonists. And there are men who justify that simplistic generalization.

Me, I'm glad we've got guys like that cruising the singles bars in open shirt and gold chains rather than starting families.

I like Edwin Newman.

Edwin Newman, in case you didn't know, is a newsmen for one of the networks — I don't recall which one. But that's not why I like him.

I like him because he takes the English language seriously. He's written a couple of books in which he argues that the English language is being destroyed by television and newspaper people who are supposed to know how to use it correctly.

How can you expect the man on the street to know what's proper and improper, he asks, if the people entrusted with using the language in the electronic and print media set such bad examples?

Basically, I agree with him. And, believe it or not, I generally try to exert my personal sense of grammar in editing this newspaper.

I confess, however, that it gets difficult at times. Take athletic teams, for example. The Detroit Tigers. Does Tigers take a singular or a plural verb? The Tigers is/are a single entity — a team. So Tigers should take a singular verb, right? But would you say, "The Tigers is playing Baltimore" or "The Tigers are playing Baltimore?"

See, it gets tricky. And you thought being an editor was easy.

My staff and I had it out last week over the use of the word "couple." I maintained that a couple is single entity and therefore takes a singular verb. "The couple is planning a honeymoon in Hawaii."

"Wrong," responded my staff. A couple is two people and therefore requires a plural verb. "The couple are planning a honeymoon in Hawaii."

They even had the audacity to cite the Associated Press stylebook, which I, of course, dismissed as a somewhat less than infallible source.

We never did agree on which was correct usage, but I am definitely planning to stick to my guns. I think Edwin Newman would be proud.

See 'The Day After'

To the Editor:

The evening of November 20 ABC-TV will show a movie entitled "The Day After" which shows life in Lawrence, Kansas, before, during and after a nuclear attack. Jason Robards stars as a physician who survives the initial attack.

Ground Zero, a non-partisan educational organization headed by Roger Molander, who was a member of the National Security Council in the Carter, Ford and Nixon administrations, has urged all Americans to watch this show, preferably with family and friends. It won't be an easy film to watch, but the urgency of raising public consciousness about the dangers of nuclear war is such that people need to see this show.

After viewing it, many people will want to share their feelings and ideas with others. The Peace Resource Center of Western Wayne County is one of numerous places around the country where people may gather the evening after "The Day After" for such a forum.

The meeting, Monday, November 21, will begin at 7 p.m. with coffee and at 7:30 p.m. the group will begin its discussion. The PRC is located at the Newman House, just south of Schoolcraft College on Haggerty Road in Livonia. Anyone interested is welcome to attend. For more information, call 464-7766.

Waste. There is toxic waste and solid waste. Both are by-products of our technological and industrial progress. Both are direct causes of ever-increasing environmental and public health problems in Michigan.

To deal with the problem of solid waste, we have developed landfills for burying debris, incinerators for burning our junk, and recycling centers to reclaim usable materials. But all are costly. And not all are either effective or safe.

The growing problem of solid waste management is placing a tremendous economic burden on local units of government and the state budget as well. In an effort to provide the necessary dollars, one of my Republican colleagues, Senator Connie Blinsfield (R-Maple City) has introduced legislation that would establish a $350 million state bonding program.

The money would be used to assist local units of government in promoting solid waste reduction; upgrading and improving landfills; establishing recycling and composting centers; developing energy recovery programs; and providing educational and technical assistance to local governments, industries and citizens.

This bonding proposal would require both legislative and voter approval before the bonds could be sold.

The state adopted a Solid Waste Management Act in 1978 to provide protection for public health and the environment, but some of the regulations have created problems for counties throughout the state.

As a result of the act, the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is ruling that many existing county landfills do not comply with the state regulations. And to make matters worse, as the DNR attempts to enforce the act, each landfill closure ends up in court litigation, adding further to the cost but still not solving the problem.

The problem has reached a critical stage here in our state. Fresh water is one of our most important natural resources. But its cleanliness is being threatened causing potential health problems for our citizens and the waterlife.

I believe the public perceives this critical issue to be a responsibility of the state. To that end, the state would be meeting its responsibility with a bonding proposal earmarked for solid waste management.

Should the taxpayers turn the proposal down, they would place the cost burden at the local level — a move which would only increase, not lessen or resolve the problem. I support legislative action to place the bonding proposal before the voters to decide.

A Republican-sponsored "workfare" program is now moving through the legislative process after receiving the enthusiastic support of Governor James Blanchard and Democratic leaders in the Legislature.

It is a key component in a $63.1 million legislative funding package which will provide employment, education and training opportunities as well as adequate energy assistance to welfare recipients.

Negotiations, which resulted in adoption of the bipartisan package, began after Senate Republicans earlier this year blocked Governor Blanchard's proposed $43 million five-percent grant level increase for welfare recipients in the current Social Services budget.

Republicans in the House and Senate then introduced the workfare proposal which placed the issue before the Governor and squarely on the fall legislative agenda.

Specifically the workfare program, called Michigan Opportunity and Skills Training (MOST) Act requires all able-bodied, employable recipients of General Assistance and Aid to Families with Dependent Children to participate in an education, job training or community work program in order to qualify for their welfare assistance.

In addition to the workfare program, which represents the most comprehensive change of any welfare program in the country, the legislative package calls for the establishment of the following pilot programs:

— Michigan Community Service Corps: an 18-month program involving 7,000 volunteer GA and AFDC recipients who will receive minimum wage payments rather than welfare grants for working in public service jobs.

— Private Employer Incentive Plan: a program to create jobs for welfare recipients, particularly within small Michigan businesses, by permitting an employer's wage costs to be subsidized for six months by recipient grants.

— Michigan Conservation Corps: establishes a year-round state park service employing 500 youths now receiving General Assistance.

The funding package will also protect the most needy citizens from the threat of utility shutoffs during the cold winter months and will implement a home weatherization program to protect against the increasing public costs of soaring utility bills.

The package is an important first step toward getting people who want to work off the state's debilitating welfare.

Jobs program praised

State Representative Gerald H. Law (R-Plymouth) is urging local businesses to participate in the Job Opportunities Project so more young people can find employment.

The project, now in its first month, is aimed at finding job opportunities for former Michigan Youth Corps workers. Law said the joint government-business venture has already referred 3,000 youths to job opportunities with more than 100 employers statewide.

Law explained there are many Youth Corps workers in Wayne County seeking permanent employment.

The program is designed to establish a pool of workers who are looking for jobs, categorize the pool by geographic area, job skills and certification for targeted jobs tax credits and refer them to interested employers for interviews if they meet employer requirements.

Employers are eligible for a tax credit of up to 50 percent for the first $6,000 in first-year wages for hiring persons from economically disadvantaged homes or from areas of high unemployment.

"The program represents an opportunity for businesses to interview persons who have already demonstrated a desire and interest in developing a career," Law said. "I would recommend that all local businesses participate in this project, which will operate between now and December 31."

For additional information about the project, call 1-800-441-4110.

Bullard proposes training

By WILLIS BULLARD, JR.
State Representative

Because one out of every three junior high mathematics teachers in Michigan does not have even a minor in the subject they are instructing, I am supporting legislation (House Bill 5052) that would provide $1.5 million in next year's budget for math and science teacher training.

The funds are needed because teachers are increasingly being assigned to fields where they have not necessarily prepared for in college.

A study of Michigan middle school math teachers in 1981-82 reported that nearly 37 percent did not have even a minor in mathematics. While the Michigan Certification Code supposedly ensures that these assignments cannot occur, teacher layoffs caused by declining enrollments and the poor economy have necessitated reassignments.

There is also a severe and growing national shortage of math teachers due to significant decreases in new teachers entering the profession and the number of experienced math teachers leaving education for non-teaching jobs in business and industry.

A study by the Michigan Council of Teachers of Mathematics found that of the large number of teachers at or near the retirement age, nearly two-thirds were mathematics majors.

This is an alarming statistic. In the coming decade, Michigan will face a crisis in providing competent mathematics and science teachers for its students. We must invest now to adequately retrain our teachers so this potential shortage can be averted. To do less would be a disservice to the students of this state.

New South Lyon facility bowls them over

Allen Mallock behind the counter at his 'dream' bowling center — 700 Bowl in South Lyon

By CINDY HOOGLASIAN

Supplying enough recreation is often a problem in small towns, but South Lyon area residents are enjoying some different pastimes with the opening of the long-awaited 700 Bowl on North Lafayette.

As owner Allen Mallock conducted a tour of the large new facility located on a four-acre parcel, he observed that "six months ago, this was a mud field."

Today, the site is home to an 18-lane bowling center, a game room equipped with two full-sized pool tables and eight video games, a 150-seat bar and lounge, kitchen and a small meeting room.

"The most incredible thing to me is that in this part of the country, we don't have the gift of having eight months to do the job," Mallock remarked. "We have to do it in five or six months. We started construction on May 10 and bowled on September 19."

"This has been a very popular place," Mallock said. "Business has been super good... I've had an excellent response to the center."

Prior to opening 700 Bowl, Mallock owned and operated Lyon Township's Woodside Lanes, an eight-lane facility which was one of only five bowling centers in the state without a liquor license. Mallock has been in the bowling business in the South Lyon area for 10 years.

Construction of the 700 Bowl was Mallock's dream for the past four or five years. He was hampered initially by a problem obtaining a liquor license reservation, he said. Then, the economy went sour and interest rates skyrocketed, placing the cost of money out of his reach. However, conditions took a turn for the better this spring, allowing Mallock to transform his dream into reality.

Entering 700 Bowl, a patron is impressed with the modern decor and cleanliness of both housekeeping and architectural lines. Those wishing to bowl will find a 144-seat concourse area, including 54 tableside seats for snacking and drinkers.

High-quality Brunswick equipment is the 700 Bowl's hallmark, Mallock said, adding that the emphasis is on a quality bowling environment.

Bowlers have apparently taken a liking to 700 Bowl, as many leagues have selected the facility. Mallock reports he has two or three leagues daily, but also has plenty of open bowling available.

Perhaps the most popular attraction at 700 Bowl is the Moonlight Doubles, beginning at 10:30 p.m. every Saturday evening.

"Moonlight Doubles has been very popular," Mallock said. "I've had to turn people away every week."

Part of the attraction is the environment Mallock creates for the Saturday evening play. He said the special effects he uses can be found in only one other bowling center in the nation—one belonging to a friend in California.

Bowlers will remember that Moonlight Doubles are usually played with only the benefit of the lane lights. At 700 Bowl, multi-colored theatrical lights are reflected off two large mirrored globes, which revolve once a minute, creating a starry atmosphere.

Moonlight Doubles cost $12 per couple and includes entry in men's and women's mystery game drawings, high games, high series and strike roll-off. There is also a pot-of-gold offered during Moonlight Doubles, but bowlers must buy tickets to compete in it.

It may be as much fun to watch the moonlight bowlers as it is to be one. The lounge at 700 Bowl offers several diversions for patrons. Food service accompanies a full-service bar and a juke box provides musical relief in the lounge.

The 10-foot diagonal television screen served by a Kios-Nova color beam projection system is an added attraction for lounge patrons. In the lounge, all South Lyon High School athletic activities broadcast over the city's cable television system can be seen. Mallock also shows major sports events.

The kitchen is open from 11 a.m. to 12 p.m. and lunches are served from 11:30 a.m. until 2 p.m. The kitchen serves all the standard snack-bar foods, as well as nachos and deep-dish pizza.

Mallock said one of the most attractive aspects of the bowling business is dealing with the Youth Alliance Bowling Association (YABA), which allows him to instruct children. Mallock was honored as Proprietor of the Year by the Michigan State Bowling Proprietors Association for his support of YABA.

"That really meant a lot to me," Mallock said. He has had the pleasure of watching several youngsters mature into superb bowlers, with one young woman winning a state championship.

Bowling costs $1.10 a game Monday through Friday until 5 p.m. and $1.25 after 5 p.m. Children 16 and under and senior citizens get a price break during before 5 p.m., paying only 90-cents a line.

All bowling on Saturday and Sunday is $1.25 a game. Shoe rental costs 75-cents. YABA league costs are 90-cents a game on Saturdays, with shoe rental costing 60-cents.

700 Bowl is open at 9:30 a.m. and closes at 2 a.m., seven days a week. Mallock employs 17 full-and part-time people in the facility.

Astronaut predicts industry in space

By KEVIN WILSON

Businesses of the near-future will move into space to create new industries and revolutionize old ones, according to a speaker at Schoolcraft College's "Say Yes to the Future" exposition November 5.

NASA Shuttle astronaut Robert Springer, a U.S. Marine Corps lieutenant colonel, told a group of roughly 300 November 5 that "the space exploration phase is done, we are now entering the era of space exploitation."

In concert with a NASA film and shuttle contractor North American Rockwell's booth in an adjacent exhibit hall, Springer said the shuttle's operational tests have been completed and that the "space truck" is now ready to serve the business community in addition to performing its governmental and scientific tasks.

Many near-future benefits derive from the shuttle's ability to launch, retrieve, repair or bring back to earth various types of satellites, he said. Given the ability to launch and maintain satellites more frequently (eight shuttle flights are planned in 1984, and the long-term plan is to launch monthly or more often), and at lower cost, Springer said, he expects much more use to be made of them.

"We are already dependent on satellites for navigation, communications, weather forecasting and earth resource study," Springer said. "We've recently seen satellites used to conduct air pollution surveillance in Pennsylvania. From near-earth orbit it is possible to identify the locations of mineral deposits, for instance. We may soon see the day of the 24-hour wristwatch communicator using satellites for transmission."

"The space exploration phase is done, we are now entering the era of space exploitation."

—Robert Springer,
NASA Shuttle Astronaut

Advocating a NASA proposal to build a permanently manned orbital space station, Springer said such a platform could become a manufacturing center as well as a base from which lightweight, relatively inexpensive "space tugs" could operate without the need to be built to withstand the "tremendous forces involved in earth launching and landing."

Given a base to operate from, free from earth's "gravity well" a return to the moon would not be difficult. A space station could also serve as a center for mining operations that would extract minerals from asteroids, he said. More immediately, however, the shuttle is building the groundwork for new space-based industries that could start generating products for everyday use before the decade is out, Springer said.

"We are already doing materials science experiments on the shuttle to demonstrate how it is possible to produce items in space that would be impossible to make on earth," he said. "In the weightless vacuum of space it is possible to produce new alloys, for instance, that are stronger and lighter than anything we've been able to make here. Steel made in space would be stronger than that made on earth because the crystals are larger. We will be able to make purer superconductors that will produce a leap in electronics technology. The ideal of a single crystal semi-conductor is possible to achieve in space."

Noting that NASA has had some difficulty obtaining budget appropriations for the space station, and even for the fifth space shuttle ("without the fifth shuttle," he said, "any minor failure really harms the program. With the back-up of a fifth shuttle, we would be prepared to continue under virtually any circumstances") Springer said may advances could be made with present-day technology if the funds become available.

"We have 95 percent of technology necessary to place orbital space platforms beaming solar energy to the ground," Springer said. In response to audience questions, he noted that the energy collected at the orbital solar power plant would be beamed to earth in the form of microwaves. "You would need a fairly large ground area, but one of the things that strikes you when you fly over the United States is how much open land we really have — you probably wouldn't have to displace anyone to locate a power collecting station."

Other potential benefits of forming a permanent base in space include the ability to "pinpoint, very accurately, the proper time to plant crops for maximum food production," Springer said. "This could be very beneficial in light of the growing population."

Asked to compare the technology of the shuttle program with that the moon-landing Apollo system, Springer said the "space shuttle technology is far superior to the technology that put man on the moon. It puts us far ahead of the Soviet Union in many respects. The reusable aspect, for instance, is something they've not been able to master. They have a basically permanent manned presence in space, but by comparison their technology is fairly crude compared to ours. This is one of the reasons we say it would be very easy and beneficial for us to build a space station."

The NASA program, he noted, accounts for less than one percent of the federal budget, compared to 30 percent for the department of defense and 40 percent for social services.

Springer ended his presentation by noting that NASA is aware of and concerned about the possibility "technological advances could make man less than what he is now. But with the right moral standards and an awareness of the danger, our technological advances can also make us much more than we are now. We must never neglect our connection with education in the humanities so that we maintain a perspective on mankind's relationship to these advances."

What it takes to become an astronaut

So you think you have the right stuff to be an astronaut and want to know how to go about it?

First be aware the chances for making the grade are pretty slim — the United States now has 76 astronauts. The last 19 were selected in 1980 and among their number was Marine Lieutenant Colonel Robert Springer, who spoke during Schoolcraft College's "Say Yes to the Future" exposition November 5.

NASA only recently announced that it will begin another astronaut selection in the summer of 1984.

There are basically two routes into the program, Springer said. The first is the traditional method which has been used to select astronauts since the first seven assigned to the Mercury program — become a pilot in one of the armed services and, preferably, gain some test flight experience along the way. Since the mid-'70s NASA has also considered applicants not from the military or from a flying background.

Springer advised that youths interested in the program study in some scientific field and continue through the doctorate degree. "The vast majority of astronauts without a flying background have Ph.D. in some related field such as astrophysics or astronomy or one of the other sciences," Springer said.

Students should not allow themselves to become tied into a narrow field, however, he warned. "NASA favors generalists — if you can relate some remote field of study to space flight and publish, that would be an asset. Relate your specialty to something outside the narrow field and you will receive more consideration than a genius tied to one area."

Asked what the "ideal" astronaut candidate would shape up like, Springer said it would be "someone with a doctorate in astrophysics who has done some innovative studies, has 10,000 hours flying time in jets and is 26 years old. That being rather hard to achieve in that time frame, the average astronaut is 34 years old. Pilots are generally older than that — I'm 42."

Springer has not yet been in space, being a member of the freshman class, but his chances of being assigned to a shuttle mission are "as near as you can get to 100 percent — my chances of actually flying are far better than were my chances of being selected."

Springer may have to wait a little while, though. "There are still people selected during the Apollo program who haven't been up yet, and they'll get the first opportunities." But considering the plans for the shuttle program — eight launches in 1984, 12 or more a year thereafter — Springer said he doesn't expect to grow old standing in line.

"I'm looking forward to (the 1984 selection)," he said. "Then I won't be in the freshman class anymore."

Springer took the traditional route to astronaut status, he explained, never really aiming for the program "though I knew a few people who decided early in life that that's what they were going to do — some made it, some didn't."

Springer grew up in Ashland, Ohio, graduated from the United States Naval Academy in 1964, and received a master of science degree from the U.S. Naval Postgraduate School in 1981.

He received his aviator wings in 1966 and assigned to the Marine Air Corps station at Cherry Point, North Carolina where he flew F-4 fighter aircraft. During the Vietnam War, Springer flew 300 combat missions in F-4s. In 1968 he was an advisor to the South Korean Marine Corps in Vietnam and flew 75 combat missions in 01 "Bird Dogs" and UH-1 "Huey" helicopters.

He graduated from the Navy Test Pilot school at Patuxent River, Maryland in 1975 and served as head of the Ordnance Systems Branch and as test pilot for more than 20 types of fixed and rotary wing aircraft. When notified of his selection as an astronaut candidate, he was serving as aide-de-camp for the commanding general, Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic. He has logged more than 2,500 hours flying time, with 1,900 of those hours in jet aircraft.

Along the way, he picked up the Navy Distinguished Flying Cross, Bronze Star, Air Medal, Combat Action Ribbon, a Presidential Unit Citation, a Navy Unit Citation and various campaign ribbons and service awards.

"I enjoyed every minute of it," he said of his career to one young man who approached Springer after he concluded his address. "If you are interested in the field, pursue it, but make sure you're doing what you want. Don't do something you hate just because you think it's going to get you where you want to go. I've seen too many people who staked their whole lives on being selected and then lost out — they've done things they didn't want to do for years and then it didn't pay off."

"Pursue it with the idea that this is a possibility, but make sure you're enjoying what you do along the way."

Good advice, regardless of one's goals. And for those who don't think it likely they could be selected as an astronaut, Springer had some more encouraging words. Asked when NASA would begin taking passengers into space, he responded, "Sooner than you probably think. It won't be long."

Robots, computers displayed

Eastern Michigan's College of Technology showed robot arm

Pontiac Fiero was one of many 1984 cars exhibited

Robotics and computers were the dominant themes of a futures exposition at Schoolcraft College November 4 and 5. There were four exhibits devoted solely to robotics while other exhibitors (such as Eastern Michigan University's College of Technology) employed robots as part of their displays.

Solar energy exhibitors, including one from Star-Pak Solar Systems in Novi, were also in evidence, showing everything from rooftop solar heating collectors to silicon solar cells similar to those used to generate electric power for satellites and spacecraft.

As would be expected of a student-oriented activity, educational institutions were also highly visible at the "Say Yes to the Future" exhibition, touting new programs in advanced technology. Lawrence Institute of Technology had in its display a robot constructed from a Heathkit kit, as did a high school robotics class. Eastern's exhibit was of a model robot arm programmed to demonstrate its ability to locate, lift and manipulate small objects — the full-size robot is already in use in several manufacturing industries.

Microcomputers programmed for all sorts of tasks — from drawing and word processing to games and research — were on display in several locations, many of which allowed visitors to use the computers.

More traditional industries were not left out. The Big Three automakers each were represented by dealers displaying 1984 cars outside the building. The models chosen demonstrated the rising high technology in autos — turbocharged versions of the Ford Thunderbird and Chrysler Laser (with electronic dashboard) were on hand, as was a Pontiac Fiero, which is manufactured by a unique method that remains relatively labor intensive while employing highly advanced production machinery including robots.

Other organizations on hand included North American Rockwell (builders of the space shuttle), the World Future Society (which collected many new members), NASA, the Hospice of Southeastern Michigan and the University of Michigan's Survival Flight helicopter rescue system. Michigan State's experimental agricultural research station made certain visitors understood the challenge of feeding the world's skyrocketing population.

Sales decline in October home market

The increased pace of existing home sales — 64.6 percent over 1982 in the first six months of the year — appears to be fading, according to Metro MLS, listing arm of the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors. Metro MLS reported the October improvement slowed to 22.1 percent.

The 938 home sales by Metro MLS members in October was down 4.5 percent from 983 sales in September, giving the lowest monthly 1983 total since February. The overall pace remains 50 percent above year-ago levels.

"The early year activity was a direct result of mortgage interest rates dropping from a record 18 percent level down near the more affordable 13 percent," said Thomas A. Duke, Metro MLS president.

"When they edged back up a fraction, some prospective buyers lost interest in an immediate move. It may take a downward trend in rates to attract these people back. Unfortunately, it is more likely that rates will hold at present levels."

"Our current average price of $57,918 for 1983 has risen from $56,604 from this time last year for a 2.4 percent increase and we think it will be higher by year's end. Buyers who wait may find that any potential saving from lower interest will be eaten up by the need for an increased loan amount and higher down payment requirement."

Home purchase financing statistics during October indicate growing renewed interest in land contracts, which were used in 28.1 percent of buys, compared to 23 percent in September.

Surprisingly, more buyers are paying cash than are using FHA or VA mortgage instruments. The October comparison was 5.8 percent against 4.5 percent. The difference in September was more notable, 8.9 percent cash versus only 4.7 percent FHA and VA.

The October sales drop from September was not evenly distributed throughout the 1,600 square mile territory of Metro MLS members. Most major sales areas remained relatively close, but several showed large fluctuations.

Detroit sales were down 22 percent, those in Livonia 23 percent, and Southfield 21.2 percent. Farmington/Farmington Hills sales, on the other hand, were up 30 percent and West Bloomfield Township/Orchard Lake posted 12.5 percent growth.

Greg Goodman prepares fillo dough for strudel

Gourmet fare from family leftovers

By MICHELE McELMURRY

While the idea of creating a gourmet meal out of refrigerator leftovers may seem implausible to the common cook, Greg Goodman, chef and proprietor of MacKinnon's, claims it can be done with just a little imagination and effort.

Addressing Northville Woman's Club at its November 4 meeting, Goodman explained that using refrigerator leftovers with fresh items can save both time and expense — as well as avoid wasting food.

"I like to cook, but I don't like to cook so much that I'm anchored to the stove," the former executive chef of the Clarkston Cafe told his audience.

To demonstrate his point, Goodman prepared his "secret strudel," a delicate dish prepared with Sauce Nantua (a base sauce of lobster or crab) and wrapped in fillo dough.

Though Goodman prepared a seafood strudel, he explained that a variety of fresh vegetables, fish and poultry may be used — depending on the cook's preference.

He noted the dish is easy to prepare and is economical as well. For example, he told his audience that "you can use one whole lobster and turn it into a dinner for four or six."

"Duck and chicken is another good way to stretch your dollar," he noted.

Goodman suggested that a duck strudel might be prepared with cherries, port wine, scallions and cream.

Though the strudel may be prepared with a variety of fish, poultry and vegetables, Goodman emphasized that "the sauce is the secret to this particular dish."

Goodman explained that though the sauce originally called for crawfish, he has found that lobster and crab work just as well.

Though the sauce recipe provided by Goodman makes four cups, he noted the amount can be cut down.

Equipment needed to prepare the base sauce includes a three quart stock or soup pot, a grill spatula with a long handle and a strainer. A food processor is optional.

"I can't overemphasize the importance of presentation. It can make the difference between a good meal and a great meal."

— Greg Goodman, MacKinnon's chef

Ingredients needed are:
1 pound whole live lobster or crabs (Alaskan)
1 large carrot (washed and sliced)
3 shallots (peeled and sliced)
1 stalk celery (washed and sliced thin)
¼ teaspoon thyme
1 small bay leaf
1 quart whipping cream
½ cup white wine
½ cup Vermouth

2 tablespoons tomato concentrate
Beef bouillon cube to taste (in place of salt)

The procedure for preparing Sauce Nantua is as follows:

— remove meat from lobster or crab and set aside.

— cut lobster shell or shell from crabs into small chunks and mulch in food processor, using blade.

— in soup pot, combine mulched lobster or crab shells, carrots, and shallots with butter or margarine and saute until shallots are clear.

— add celery, thyme and bay leaf and saute for two minutes.

— add cream, wine, Vermouth and tomato concentrate.

— boil for 15 to 20 minutes, while scraping bottom with grill spatula. Sauce will coat a spoon with a heavy glaze when done.

— add beef bouillon cubes to taste.

— pass sauce through strainer and serve.

— meat can be chopped fine and added after passing through strainer.

In preparing his strudel, Goodman used equal parts of cauliflower, broccoli, carrots, gruyere cheese, crab and shrimp.

"I like to use gruyere cheese," he noted. "It gives it a little zest."

In Our Town

OLV members to model in benefit show

By JEAN DAY

Fund raisers are becoming a big part of the entertaining scene this month and next. Festive events are being planned by local organizations with the aim of having fun while helping a good cause.

One of these is the dessert fashion show being given by Our Lady's League of Our Lady of Victory Church at 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday in the church social hall. Chairperson Judy Hurley explains that the evening show had been held in past years and was revived two years ago so successfully that it is being continued by the league.

Tickets are available at $4 at the church with proceeds to go to work of the league. Gerald's of Northville is doing the hair fashions for the member models while clothes are from Fashion Cents. A variety of desserts and prizes are promised.

Jaycettes pick up auction gavel

Northville Jaycettes have been baking and stitching for their annual craft and baked goods auction being held at 8:30 p.m. tonight following the business meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the council chambers at city hall.

"All our baked goods are homemade — it's a requirement," reports Marty Barnum, president of the Jaycee auxiliary. Each member, she explains, brings both a baked goods item and a craft. This year's auction, which is open to anyone interested, includes candlewicking, holiday stockings and a dried arrangement. Proceeds support Jaycette programs.

Belanger's Meadowbrook president

L.E. "Bud" Belanger of Northville officially will assume his duties as president of Meadowbrook Country Club at the annual meeting this Thursday at the club. Three new directors will be elected at the meeting.

Bud Belanger, one of the owners of Belanger, Incorporated, a family business in Northville, and his wife Lynne greeted club members October 21 at the President's Ball which was well attended by Northville members.

Sheila Welch is a winner

Northville resident Mrs. E.C. (Sheila) Welch of Wing Street remembers that, when she attended the Stratford (Ontario) Festival earlier this fall, she and her friends had fun registering in the Shakespearian festival's fall contest. "We were wondering who might win the trip to London," she says.

She was surprised when The Record called last week, however, to say she was listed as one of six Michigan winners in the contest — winning not the trip but one of the other prizes of ferred.

She had not yet been notified, but the festival press release reports that she has won a prize — which could be opening night tickets for the 1984 season, a poster by award-winning illustrator Heather Cooper of a package of selected gifts from the festival gift shop. She promises to let us know when she learns about her prize.

The big prize of an all expense trip for two to The Old Vic in London, England, including air fare and seven days at the Britannia Hotel, was won by another Michigan resident, Gloria K. Goodness of Walled Lake.

Lisa Smith with afghans, sweaters she has crocheted

Illness victim hones crochet skills

By JEAN DAY

At 21, Lisa Smith is more accomplished with a crochet hook than most of her contemporaries. She also is one in perhaps 40,000 of the general population who has found her life limited by weakness of her body's muscles.

The young Northville resident has myasthenia gravis, a disease of the muscles which is relieved by rest or inactivity. Myasthenia gravis comes from Greek and Latin words meaning "serious muscle weakness."

To Lisa, it means that she no longer can drive to town or to baby sitting jobs. It also has meant that she left Schoolcraft College after a semester following graduation from Northville High School in 1980.

"The brain sends messages to the nerves that are blocked," she explains simply.

When myasthenia gravis began to limit her activities severely, Lisa fell back on a skill she learned in church camp, crocheting sweater vests, berets and afghans. She has been selling the handmade pieces at Parmenter's Cider Mill on Sundays during recent weeks, noting appreciatively that the mill owners have permitted the sale of her wares without charge during the cider season. That outdoor market is ending with the cold weather.

"The brain sends messages to the nerve that are blocked,"

Lisa Smith
Myasthenia gravis sufferer

Lisa now is looking for a new outlet. Previously she worked on the hand crochet items with Marion Cooper, who was known for her handknit items. Earlier this fall, however, the Coopers returned to their native England.

"She does beautiful work," Lois Hollis called to report, explaining that her young neighbor was trying to find a way to be self-supporting in spite of her limitation.

Another neighbor on Franklin Road, Carol Mackinder, also has been supportive, says Lisa. She has given her many scraps of yarn to make into the afghans and vests.

Lisa has on display at her home two hand-crochet afghans she is hoping to sell soon for $50 each. Her sweater vests are sold by size, ranging from $8.50 for size 12. Because it takes about 100 ounces of yarn for an afghan, Lisa notes, it is necessary to sell what she has on hand before investing further in yarn. She's hoping that after the first of the year she will have an outlet.

Lisa remembers it was while the Smith family was living in Indiana in 1973 that she first realized something was wrong.

It wasn't until a year later in 1974, however, that her muscle weakness was diagnosed as myasthenia gravis.

"They thought it was an emotional thing," she recalls.

The symptoms may be blurred vision, double vision, loss of facial expression, difficulty in breathing, chewing or swallowing as well as weakness in the arms and lower limbs.

Not all patients have all symptoms, and the reasons for the defect in the transmission of the nerve impulse are not proven.

Because it is not a communicable disease, it is not reported to health authorities and the exact number of sufferers is not known.

Patients with generalized myasthenia gravis sometimes benefit from surgical removal of the thymus, Lisa and her family learned. Therefore,

Lisa had a thymectomy operation in 1978.

"I was better afterward, and it let me finish high school," she relates. But, after one semester at Schoolcraft, the vision and other problems returned.

Lisa doesn't quite conform to the average myasthenia gravis patient although the disease occurs more frequently in women than in men. It usually begins when women are between the ages of 20 and 40.

While, with modern methods of treatment, the disease is not considered fatal, it does not have a cure.

Lisa, who has lived in Northville six years, has kept up with medical news on her illness. She says experiments are being done with plasma blood exchange in Houston and San Francisco that sound hopeful. In the meantime, she takes her medication every three hours, crochets and rests.

Because she knows that her hopes for the future lie strongly in research, Lisa Smith also is a strong supporter of the Myasthenia Gravis Foundation. She has been promoting the sale of the foundation's cards. The foundation also is selling an Entertainment '84 book.

A variety of Christmas cards, religious and secular, as well as note paper is available, for which she is willing to take orders. She may be called about them at 349-3912.

Scientist special service set

A special Thanksgiving service, open to the community, will be held November 24 at First Church of Christ, Scientist in Plymouth.

The service will begin at 10:30 a.m. with a hymn and the reading of the President's Thanksgiving Proclamation.

During the hour-long service, the readings will explore the Scriptural record of God's "lovingkindness." Brief correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy also will be read.

All are welcome at the Thanksgiving service. Child care will be provided for children too young to attend.

The First Church of Christ, Scientist in Plymouth will host a free lecture with Morris Trevithick at 3 p.m. November 27 at 1100 West Ann Arbor Trail.

Trevithick, a native of New Zealand now residing in Boston, has devoted many years to the practice of Christian healing.

An urban consultant and Canadian economist prior to entering the healing ministry of Christian Science, Trevithick will discuss "Freedom from Deception."

Gerald Herrmann, a member of the local Christian Science Church, will introduce the guest speaker.

Wixom hosts holiday fair

Thirteenth annual Holiday Boutique sponsored by the Wixom Historical Society promises to bring together many artists who practice Early American crafts. It is being held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. this Saturday in the Wixom Municipal Center on Pontiac Trail.

The theme of the show is "Make It an Old-Fashioned Christmas."

Among those practicing early crafts are Bob Horwood and Howard Schweppe who fashion a variety of punched items ranging from wall sconces to candleholders and Revere lanterns in brass, copper and tin. In their display are colorful pieces of Rosemailling and tole painting by Horwood's wife, Anita.

Herbist Jean Riggs is offering an array of herbal gifts ranging from pot-pourri to wreaths.

Northville basket artist Helen Maki and Walled Lake potter Merry Derrick are making return appearances in the show along with wooden toy maker Ron Powell.

New to the show this year is Milford artist Dee Segula who fashions pewter into outstanding pieces of wall decor. Intricate lapel pins and earrings are included in her display.

Calligrapher Sue Leon is offering wall pieces in fine script as well as note papers and cards.

Shoppers are invited to browse through an area of selected antique items.

Honey produced by Wixom bees at the Marshall aviary will be sold.

The historical society will man Sibley's Tavern, offering complete luncheons and snacks.

Proceeds from the boutique are earmarked for the society's Tiffin House restoration project and museum and for the continuation of the monthly program series offered to the public at no charge.

Cooking gourmet fare on a limited budget

He also noted the vegetables should be blanched before they're cut and that the broccoli should be cut particularly fine to make it easier to roll in the fillo dough.

Goodman began preparing the strudel dish by heating the base sauce. He noted the volume of the sauce should be reduced by 50 percent before adding the vegetables and seafood.

He said that the vegetables may be cooked to preference — whether firm or well cooked.

He emphasized that the sauce should not be too liquidy as it may run once it's wrapped in the dough.

"For anyone who hasn't used fillo dough," Goodman explained, "I suggest you use it immediately after it's unwrapped."

"Once opened and exposed to air the sheets become brittle and hard to work with," he added.

To avoid making the strudel too doughy, Goodman recommended using only one fillo leaf.

Once the strudel has been wrapped, it should be brushed with clarified butter and placed in a 425-450 degree oven until the dough lightly browns.

Goodman recommended placing extra sauce over the strudel before serving.

For those preparing the dish in advance, he suggested placing the strudel on parchment paper and keeping it refrigerated until it's ready to be placed in the oven. However, he warned that each strudel should be placed an inch or so apart to avoid sticking.

To enhance the appearance of the main dish, Goodman suggested the strudel be accompanied by pouched vegetables or grapes.

He also noted that gruyere cheese could be placed on top of the strudel.

"I can't overemphasize the importance of presentation," Goodman said. "It can make the difference between a good meal and a great meal."

While he stressed that "variance in color is very important," Goodman also pointed out that food should be functional.

"There's no sense in having something on a plate that doesn't serve a purpose," he said.

The Northville Record

Mustangs outgunned in league cage tilt

By B.J. MARTIN

Mary Howley under pressure

At the beginning of the season, Northville varsity basketball coach Rick Hurst described his team as "kind of pretty, really."

They may be, individually. But there was nothing pretty about the way they looked last week. Both Farmington and Livonia Stevenson, two Western Lakes Activities Association also rans, blew the Mustangs out of the gym in the WLA playoff last week.

Ranks thinned by injuries, illnesses and defections, the Mustang cagers simply lacked firepower. Forced to rely on several junior varsity players, Hurst faced problems trying to get his team into some semblance of organization.

"Our problem is that our seniors — Pat (Wazny) and Denise (Liddle) — are essentially role players who've worked on mastering a couple of things they can do well," Hurst said. "But we have to have the younger players out there doing the athletic work. We've really only got one center and one 'power forward.' When Erin got hurt Tuesday, we had to post up Chris McGowan, and she's only 5'6".

"Hey, Wednesday and Thursday last week, we had only six girls healthy enough to practice, and that was with the JV players we called up. It's like we're just starting out."

NORTHVILLE 35
FARMINGTON 61

Freshman forward Tricia Ducker had the team's biggest scoring outburst of the season Tuesday night, connecting for 19 points. She hit nine of 12 free throws against Farmington.

"We've got a chance to score when we get Tricia the ball," Hurst said. "But every time we'd get it in to her, they'd collapse and double or triple-team her. That's how she got so many foul shots.

"I'll tell you, though, that's pretty good when a freshman hits her free throws that well under pressure."

Things looked bleak in the early going when 5'11" Mustang center Erin Ryan took a bonk on the nose. Ryan stayed in the game, but Hurst said Ryan seemed a little dazed for the remainder of the game.

Liddle helped make up for the wobbly Ryan with 10 points and eight rebounds. But the Mustangs were no match for the Falcons' power forward Alyse Fortune, who romped for 27 points, and point guard Rhonda Lancaster, who scored 18.

"Both of those girls might be as good as anybody in the league," Hurst said. "Those two just overwhelmed us."

He was somewhat encouraged by the play of McGowan and another JV cager drafted for varsity duty, Anne Griffith.

They and Kathy Korowin were working very hard out there," Hurst said.

NORTHVILLE 21
LIVONIA STEVENSON 54

Hurst knew what Stevenson did best — a 3-2 halfcourt zone press — but had only 15 minutes with all of his players that week to practice combating it.

"We couldn't crack it," he said. "It was pretty disappointing."

After the Spartans took charge with a 14-2 first quarter, Hurst elected to give the wave of the future some experience. Griffith, Ducker, McGowan, Mary Howley and Korowin — all of whom should return next year — did a good job of keeping up with the Stevenson reserves. McGowan, Ducker and Griffith each scored six points and played reasonably good defense.

Ryan was nursing her broken nose and did not see action.

But Ryan, as well as savvy power forward Kelly Parker, back from a sprained ankle, should return to the lineup for the Class A District Tournament at Plymouth Salem this weekend.

Northville drew a bye for the tournament's opening round, and will play the winner of Thursday's Westland John Glenn-Plymouth Salem game at 6 p.m. Saturday.

"We need to improve our defense to have any chance," Hurst said. "We have to be aggressive. Kelly should help us stabilize a bit. We should be able to stay in the game. If we play some defense, prevent them from scoring too much, we can stay close."

Soccer salute

Northville kickers honored

By B.J. MARTIN

To their credit, Marv Gans and Dan Swayne, co-coaches of the Northville Mustang soccer team, never grumbled when the announcements for post-season soccer honors were announced.

But, oh, what they must have been thinking.

Not that it was all that bad. In fact, it was terrific — Northville center back Scott Gala and goalkeeper Jeff Metz were named second-team all-state by a special selection panel of Michigan coaches.

Gala and midfielder Steve Starcevic were named to the All-Western Lakes Activities Association team, while Metz, Bob Guldberg, Doug May and Joe Mackle were picked for the All-Western Division team. Joe Arwady and Dave Yarmuth were tabbed for honorable mention tributes.

But a little more recognition could have been appropriate. This, after all, was the team that beat state finalist Livonia Stevenson during the regular season, and soundly beat third-ranked Royal Oak Kimball in the district playoffs. The Mustangs were 10-1-2 in WLA play, 16-4-2 overall.

By contrast, the Stevenson Spartans had five all-league selections.

Perhaps the biggest disappointment was the passing over of Jeff Metz for all-state and all-league goalkeeper honors. Metz, a senior, allowed fewer than one goal per game all season.

Capable of spectacular saves as well as directing his defenders effectively, he was as savvy as swift. To many observers, Metz appeared to be head and shoulders above the rest of the field.

It was Stevenson 'keeper Terry Harshfield, however, who was named to the all-league and all-state first teams.

But all Coach Swayne would say about the picks was: "We feel Jeff's the finest goalie in the state."

And Coach Gans: "We felt Jeff had a really outstanding season."

That's it. Starcevic also had a remarkable season. The senior, probably Northville's most skilled ballplayer, had 25 goals — including nine penalty shots in nine tries. Maybe as much as anyone in the league, Starcevic was able to dominate a game at midfield, back or forward.

The selection of senior co-captain Gala for all-league honors pleased both co-coaches. "Scott was a tower of strength for us," Swayne said. "He held our fullback line together. We knew with Scott there, we'd control the backfield and the other team wouldn't get too many good chances."

Gulberg, May and Mackle are all juniors. Gulberg acquired a reputation as a hard-nosed defensive stalwart. "He broke up anything coming down his way," Swayne said.

WLA shake-up eyed, jump to KVC unlikely

By B.J. MARTIN

Athletic directors from high schools in the Western Lakes Activities Association athletics conference, including Northville A.D. Ralph Redmond, will meet over the next "couple of months" to discuss an extensive realignment or — possibly — the dissolution of the league.

Such action would likely happen in 1985, when the Livonia School District plans to close Livonia Bentley high school, one of the league's charter members, due to declining enrollment.

"We've been talking about adding one or two teams," Redmond said, "perhaps schools from the Northwest Suburban League, like Garden City or Thurston. Or we could possibly form some whole new alliance."

Redmond said it is now "unlikely" Northville will follow through on its flirtation with joining the Kensington Valley Conference in the foreseeable future.

Talk had surfaced last spring that Northville was considering filling an upcoming vacancy in the KVC, polarizing opinions on whether Northville should make the switch.

The schools in the KVC are generally closer to having the same size student body as Northville, but are for the most part more limited in athletic programs offered. Also, some of the KVC squads are from as far away as Howell, which would put a strain on Northville's traveling expenses.

All-Area offense tears up the turf

On the ground or through the air, the Sliger-Livingston East All-Area football squad covered more turf this year than a landscaping company.

Sports writers from The Northville Record, South Lyon Herald, Milford Times and the Novi-Walled Lake News convened last week to select first and second-team offenses, plus kickers, from the varsity offensive units of Walled Lake Central, Northville, Milford Lakeland, Milford, Novi, Walled Lake Western, South Lyon and Whitmore Lake high schools.

The result: four sportswriters and eight coaches who thought their teams should have been better represented — and a very good product.

If some advertising pros wanted to put labels on the product, they'd probably say the five-man offensive line was "king-size industrial strength." They'd describe the three offensive backs as "fast-acting, usable inside and outside." And they'd say the two receivers "look great in a variety of patterns."

And the fine print describing the contents would go like this:

All-area honors have been a long time coming for first-team quarterback TOM MENARD of Walled Lake Central. The senior has been the Vikes' starting signal-caller and safety for three straight years, and this year he led Central's blockbuster offense to a 7-2 season — both losses to perennial Class A powerhouse Farmington Harrison.

Menard rushed for 505 yards at a 6.5 yards-per-carry rate, and scored nine touchdowns on keepers. He completed 60 of 120 passes for over 1,000 yards and seven TDs, and was named to the all-WLAA team as a defensive back.

Northville's senior tailback JOHN QUINN probably won't earn the nickname "Big Bad John." The 5-7, 145-pounder's talent was riddickles, not rounding over them. He did such a good job of that this year he is the all-area team's leading ground gainer with 925 yards at a 5.5 yard-per-carry clip, scoring five touchdowns.

Doubling at safety for the Mustangs, Quinn had two interceptions and was named first-team All Division at defensive back.

Milford's DAN MITCHELL, an all-area end as junior, is one of only two players from the 1982 squad to repeat on this year's team, this time as a running back. The versatile Redskin was named to the All-Kensington Valley Conference team by a unanimous choice of league coaches as a running back and kicker.

Mitchell gained 483 yards and scored seven times, while hauling in 15 passes for 186 yards. "He's a fantastic athlete and a great kid," Redskins Coach Cole Rowekamp remarked. "He's always positive and always did the job — he was our offense."

A transfer student to Walled Lake Central this season, senior WAYNE ADAMS anchored the Viking ground game with 708 yards and eight touchdowns on 148 carries. A bruising 6-0, 190-pound power back, Adams also was a threat through the air, catching 19 passes for 262 yards. He was named to the All-WLAA offensive backfield.

The two wide receivers were cast from the same mold — both are 6-0 seniors with speed and great hands, and particularly dangerous as deep threats.

Novi's DAVE WHITEHEAD led the KVC in receptions and receiving yardage, earning all-league honors at offensive end. The senior caught 30 passes for 368 yards. Whitehead was also a sharp defensive back, with one fumble recovery and three interceptions.

Northville senior BRIAN JENNINGS was Mustang quarterback Dave Longridge's most dependable receiver this season, with 280 yards on 14 receptions.

Five Mustangs named second team All-Area

One reason Northville was less well-represented on the second-team All-area team was that so many Mustangs made the first team.

But second-team honors nonetheless went to five outstanding players who played crucial roles in Northville's 6-3 season: quarterback DAVE LONGRIDGE, center GREG WENDELL, interior lineman TIM JACKSON, linebacker DOUG HARTMAN and punter GARY STRUNK.

Longridge, a 5-10, 175-pound senior, engineered the Mustang attack for the third straight year, this season his best ever. Longridge passed for 416 yards and four touchdowns, adding two more TDs and 154 yards on the ground.

Wendell was a reliable snapper and an effective blocker on offense. The 6-3, 210-pound junior will be an integral part of the Mustangs' 1984 squad.

Jackson was named an All-Division interior lineman. Although he was sometimes overshadowed by first-team picks Steve Schrader, Matt Meyer and Dan Nielsen, Jackson was fourth on the team with 25 first hits and 21 assists.

Hartman, only a junior, was the hardest athlete to keep off the All-Area first-team selections. The 6-0, 185-pound tackler was the leading Northville tackler with 47 first hits and 55 assists. Hartman intercepted three passes, deflected two, and recovered two fumbles.

Strunk was a fairly reliable punter for Northville, with just one block. His high-arching boots prevented opponents from scoring any touchdowns off punt returns all season long. As a defensive lineman, the 6-2, 220-pound junior recovered one fumble, and as a backup tight end, he caught four passes for 25 yards.

Named All-Area honorable mention were senior linebacker ERNIE BOCK, who suffered from a shoulder injury throughout most of the season, then emerging as one of the team's leading tacklers, and tight end MIKE WEBER.

Weber, 6-4, 200, was the team's second leading receiver with eight catches for 53 yards. The big senior attracted a crowd on his patterns, and was particularly valuable as a blocker. When assigned defensive line work, he collected 22 first hits and 14 assists.

MOTION DENIED — Meet the representatives of the defense, the first-team All-Area defense, that is. They firmly object to sustained offensive motion, and you're courting disaster if you try 'em. Front row, left to right: Matt Meyer and Dan Nielsen, defensive ends, Northville; Matt Meyer, interior lineman, Walled Lake Western; Jim Kehrer, interior lineman, South Lyon; Brad Perkins, interior lineman, Lakeland. In back:

For the defense: twelve angry men

The defense rests. They've earned it. Throughout a nine-game schedule this fall, the Sliger-Livingston All-Area defensive unit had a big caseload, pushing, grabbing, shoving, snagging, tripping — and stopping — anyone coming its way with a football in his hands. The eleven distinguished gentlemen for the defense — and a punter — were culled from eight eminent high schools covered by Sliger-Livingston Newspapers in the Oakland County area: Milford and Milford Lakeland, Novi, South Lyon, Whitmore Lake, Northville, and Walled Lakes Central and Western.

Of the eight, Northville fared best in defensive selections with four. Three were from the Lakeland Eagles and two each came from Walled Lake Western and South Lyon.

Will the defense please approach the bench? And be careful not to break it?

First on the docket at interior line is Walled Lake Western's MATT KING, a punishing tackler who saw time at nose guard, tackle and end, as well as on the offensive team.

His coach, Chuck Apap, called King "a one-man wrecking crew," adding the 5-7 170-pound senior played "with the heart of someone a foot taller and fifty pounds heavier." He led the defensive line in first hits with 39 and assists with 69 while doubling on offense. Named to the all-Western Lakes Activities Association team, the Warriors' three-year starter had three fumble recoveries and blocked a field goal.

Lakeland always seems to find some big kids, and this year's model is Lakeland's "Eagle Mountain," towering tackle BRAD PERKINS. The 6-5, 250-pound senior was named All-KVC tackle this season after being honorable mention in 1982. He had 41 first hits, 18 assists and two sacks this season. Coach Kent Griffiths called Perkins "a tower of strength for us all year."

"Not many people ran to his side. He really worked hard during the off-season," Griffiths said.

South Lyon's JIM KEHRER rounds out the interior line slots. The senior Lion, an outstanding shot and discus heaver on the track team last spring, was named to the second-team All-KVC defense. The 6-2, 214-pound tackle also earned league honorable mention as an offensive lineman.

The Northville Mustangs placed both of their workhorse defensive ends on both the All-WLAA team and the Sliger-Livingston All-Area squad. Back after being named to last year's all-area team is senior MATT MEYER, 6-1, 190 pounds. Meyer had 25 first hits and 21 assists with three sacks and a fumble recovery. Doubling at offensive guard, Meyer was a "great blocker," according to his coach, Dennis Colligan.

Anchoring the opposite side is Meyer's classmate, three-sport standout DAN NIELSEN. The hottest hurler on the varsity baseball team and a quick, strong power forward on the basketball team, Nielsen applied his athletic versatility to defensive end. The 6-2 200-pounder recorded 27 first hits, 10 assists, and three sacks.

Backing the line are the two all-KVC picks, DAVE FLACK of South Lyon and GARY STEHR of Lakeland.

Lion opponents took a lot of Flack, a hard-hitting 6-1, 184 pounds. The senior made first-team All-KVC both as a center on offense and as a linebacker, and Flack led the 5-4 Lions with over 70 tackles and 30 assists from his linebacker slot.

Lakeland co-captain Stehr has been called by Coach Griffiths a "big-time ballplayer." A first-team all-KVC pick both this year and in 1982, the 6-3, 225-pound co-captain had the power of a lineman and the speed of a defensive back. Lakeland's best defensive player, he had 52 first hits, 14 assists and two interceptions, returning one for a TD.

"He was the best player I've seen all year," Griffiths said.

In the secondary were two Northville players each given post-season honors by the WLAA.

Named to the first-team all-league secondary was senior cornerback STEVE SMITH, an explosive player for the Mustangs. Smith had three interceptions, returning one for a touchdown, and was the Mustangs' third-leading tackler with 27 first hits and 22 assists.

As a fullback on offense, Smith reeled off five touchdown runs including a 94-yarder and a 96-yarder. He rushed for 484 yards at a 12.1 yards-per-carry clip.

At the other corner is Smith's classmate, MIKE WISSMAN. An all-division pick at the corner, Wissman deflected six passes, intercepted one and caused one fumble. A valuable pursuit hitter, he laid first hits on 19 ballcarriers, and had 26 assists.

At safety is All-Western Division defensive back MICKEY FOLSOM, an invaluable two-way player for the Warriors this season. Folsom, the Warriors' best pass-covering back, had four-game saving tackles this season, Coach Apap reported.

On offense, Folsom led the Warriors at quarterback. As the Western signal-caller Folsom picked up 284 yards rushing and three touchdowns and passed for 489 yards and four more TDs.

Lakeland's GLENN MILLER also handled quarterback chores besides being an All-KVC safety for the Eagles. The 6-3, 185-pounder broke a school record with eight interceptions this season. Seven came in league action to lead the conference.

"Glen is big, quick and a good athlete," Coach Griffiths said. "He has a sixth sense to anticipate when the ball be thrown and if he can get there in time."

Walled Lake Central punter DAVE LOBERT, was probably the most consistent punter in the WLAA this season and was named All-WLAA punter. The 5-11, 175-pound senior boomed the ball 38 yards a crack — including one 69-yarder — and was a dominant factor in the Vikings' ability to regularly keep opponents away from good field position.

Soccer squad reaps honors

May, Swayne declared, was one of the most improved players on the 1983 squad, scoring seven goals. "He improved as the season went on, and gained as well as gave everyone confidence. He played with lots of guts, lots of heart," Swayne said.

Mackle also showed a sharp improvement in his game, to the point where he became a potent offensive threat. Mackle picked up nine goals for the year. Swayne called Arwady, who had five goals, the "smallest guy with the biggest heart." "I'll tell you," he added, "if we had eleven Joe Arwadys on our team we'd be pretty tough to beat. He's our sparkplug."

Swayne characterized Yarmuth, who had eight goals, as "a hard competitor with a lot of speed."

"He also became an offensive threat," Swayne continued. "We would also put him on the best player of another team because he's such an effective defender."

Swim coach Bill Dicks attends Sue La Chance's shoulder

Spartans sink NHS tankers to end season

Livonia Stevenson showed why many Western Lakes Activities Association coaches consider the Spartans a shoo-in for the league's girls' swimming title, dunking Northville 59-24 last Thursday.

Stevenson swimmers took firsts in all but two events: the 100 butterfly — a Kim Thompson specialty — and the 100 backstroke, won by co-captain Shawn Bales.

Thompson recorded a 1:03.5 to win the fly, and Bales clocked a 1:06.4 to take the backstroke. Lisa Felicelli's sizzling time of 26.6 in the 50 yard free could only net a third place.

The diving competition went very well, said Coach Bill Dicks. Kim McRae took second with 163 total points, while freshman Julie Stock finished third with 161.45.

The loss dropped Northville to a 2-4 league record. The Mustang tankers are 4-7 overall.

That doesn't sound very impressive — but the Mustangs have had a way of coming up with surprise showings in invitational meet action, and Dicks is pulling for a strong performance at the WLAA championships this week.

"This is the big one, the one we've been pointing towards," Dicks said. "Stevenson will likely win, but there should be a good battle for second between us, Livonia Bentley, (Farmington) Harrison, (Plymouth) Salem and (Plymouth) Canton."

The meet will also provide a chance for several Northville swimmers to qualify for the MHSAA state meet the first weekend of December. Dicks said times by Thompson and Bales and the medley relay team of Bales, Erika Nelson, Thompson and Felicelli were "close" to the required clockings.

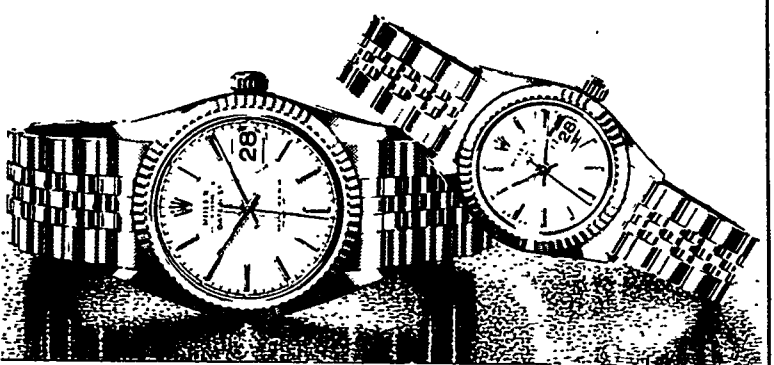

Preliminaries for the league meet will take place today (Wednesday) at 1:30 p.m., and the finals will take place Friday night at 7 p.m., all at Salem High School.

Mustang harriers' 1983: one to remember

Saturday, November 6, marked the close of the Northville varsity cross-country team's 1983 season with a good showing at the MHSAA Class A state meet.

Here is a review of the cross-country program's season:

BOYS CROSS-COUNTRY VARSITY

OVERALL DUAL MEET RECORD:

4-5.
WLAA RECORD: 4-2.
WESTERN DIVISION RECORD: 3-1.
INVITATIONAL MEET FINISHES: second, Schoolcraft Invitational; seventh, Redford Union Invitational; sixth, Class A Regional meet.

INDIVIDUAL PERFORMANCES: Jim O'Neill, team co-captain and most valuable athlete in 1982 and 1983, was named the squad's "outstanding senior." A qualifier for the state individual meet, O'Neill was a medalist at the West Bloomfield Invitational meet, the Walled Lake Western Invitational meet, and was named to the All-Western Division team for the second straight year. His best time at Cass Benton's 5-kilometer course was 17:06 and he ran a 16:43 at the regional. Jim Riney ran one second behind classmate O'Neill's best times at both Cass Benton and the regional. A transfer student, Riney medaled at the Redford Union Invitational and the Walled Lake Western meet. Senior co-captain Pat Campbell was a medalist at Walled Lake Western and was an All-Western Division pick, also named to the Academic first team. Campbell ran a 17:33 at Cass Benton and a 17:29 at the Schoolcraft Invitational. Doug Doyle, also a senior co-captain, was named the team's top scholar athlete for the third straight year, with a 3.7 GPA. Twice recipient of the team's "GUTS" award, Doyle ran a 17:20 at the regional meet. Rich Nazrati, a junior, will be co-captain of the 1984 Mustang squad. His fastest time was recorded at the regional, 17:19. He was a medalist at the Walled Lake Western meet. His classmate and co-captain next year will be Mike Siefken, whose best time was an 18:19 at the regional. Sophomore Matt Winquist emerged the most promising sophomore since O'Neill, recording a regional time of 17:41 and a Cass Benton time of 17:55. He was named the team's most improved athlete, and was a medalist at the John Glenn Invitational and the Walled Lake Western meet. Brett Netke turned in a time of 18:06 at the Schoolcraft Invitational. The junior also ran an 18:20 at Cass Benton.

GIRLS CROSS-COUNTRY VARSITY

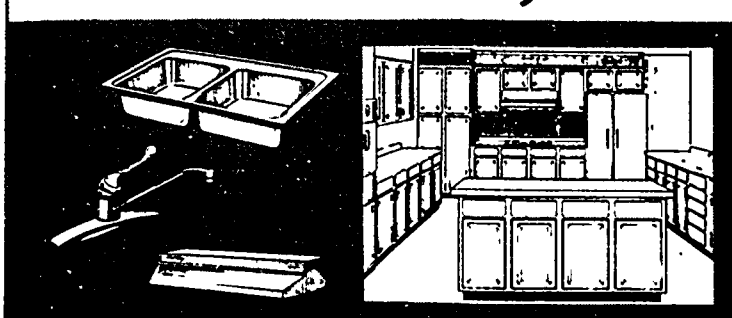

OVERALL DUAL MEET RECORD:

5-2.
WLAA RECORD: 3-3.
WESTERN DIVISION RECORD: 2-2.
INVITATIONAL MEET FINISHES: ninth, Schoolcraft Invitational; seventh, Class A Regional meet.

INDIVIDUAL PERFORMANCES: The top three runners on the 1983 squad were almost interchangeable, but in the end it was junior Cindy Panowicz who left the biggest wake. Panowicz was named the team's most valuable athlete in her first year of cross-country competition, mainly for her sixth place finish at the individual state meet, qualifying her for a spot on the all-state girls' cross-country team. Panowicz medaled at the West Bloomfield, Schoolcraft, Redford Union and Walled Lake Western invitational meets, and was named to the all-conference team. Her best times were a 19:35 at the Kimball regional and she ran a 20:23 at Cass Benton. Captain Kelly Wool compiled an exhaustive list of impressive credentials during her three years on the team. The team's top scholar-athlete this year, Wool was named the squad's "Outstanding Senior." Most valuable runner in 1982, Wool medaled at the West Bloomfield, Redford Union and Schoolcraft invitational for the second straight year, adding a medal from this year's Walled Lake Western meet to a 1982 Ann Arbor Invitational medal. Wool took eighth place at the state meet in 1982. Her best Cass Benton time was 20:23 and she ran a 19:35 at the Class A regional. Wendy Nuechterlein will co-captain the 1984 squad with Panowicz. Named the team's most improved runner for the second straight year, Nuechterlein was named to the all-league team this season. Only a sophomore, she medaled at the regional, and the Schoolcraft, Walled Lake Western and Redford Union meets and made the Academic First Team. Senior Sharon Savageau won the girls' team's "GUTS" award for the second straight year for her efforts to run despite injury. Her best clocking was a 28:13 at the regional, and she ran a 30:03 at Cass Benton. Savageau was also named to the All-Academic team this year.

Ocelot kickers felled

The Pioneers of Lewis and Clark College, Illinois, felled the Schoolcraft College men's soccer team's hopes of qualifying for the national junior college soccer finals with a 4-1 defeat last Saturday.

"Our bubble burst," said Schoolcraft coach Larry Christoff, "They're a great team — rated fourth in the country. We played pretty well — we dominated the whole first half. But we missed some scoring chances. I don't want to take anything away from Lewis and Clark, though. They were a very good team."

The Ocelots won their regional title two weeks before to qualify for the Inter-Region District playoffs at Priton College in Illinois.

SC is 11-2-1 overall and finished 7-1 in its region. "We dominated the teams in our region with a young team of mostly freshmen," said Christoff. "We've got a nicely balanced team."

Included on Christoff's roster are three Northville players — Doug Marshall, who is the team's leading scorer with 13 goals, his brother Greg Marshall, and Chris Koenig.

SC competed in national play in 1978 and 1980. The 1978 tournament, in Miami, was a disaster as the squad was eliminated in the first round. In 1980, however, the Ocelots did "considerably" better, according to Christoff, finally losing to the second-ranked team in the nation in triple sudden death overtime, 2-1.

Mustangs place four on All-Area offense

Despite almost constant double-coverage by opponents' secondaries, the all-Western Division coaches' pick caught four passing TDs and added another on a reverse. Jennings also handled punt and kick return chores for the Mustangs.

Up front come the aforementioned big guys. At one tackle is the mobile Mustang mountain, STEVE SCHRADER. At 6-6, 228, Schrader at times completely obscured from view the Mustang backfield. The senior was an equally fearsome defensive tackle, second on the Mustang team with 31 first hits, 33 assists and three quarterback sacks. Schrader deflected two passes, caused two fumbles and recovered one.

The other tackle slot is filled to the brim by the Lions' King of the Jungle, TOM VAN FOSSEN. The 6-5, 220-pound South Lyon senior cleared a lot of holes for the Lion wishbone offense. He was named second-team All-KVC on both the offensive and defensive lines.

A repeat all-WLAA selection, Central center JIM KREUTZER has been snapping the ball to Menard for three years on the Viking varsity. The 6-3, 225-pound senior was a unanimous All-WLAA selection at center this season.

Coach John VanSicklen calls the Central tri-captain "definitely a major college player," but Kreutzer could get to college on his brains, too — he carries a 3.5 grade point average.

At one guard slot is another Viking all-leaguer, KURT

COUTURE. Couture, a swift 5-11, 185-pound senior, was "a real fine pulling guard," VanSicklen said. "He does a lot of our downfield blocking."

Couture's counterpart is Northville's senior guard JOHN KLOKKENGA, a first-team all-Western Division lineman in the WLAA. Like Couture a fast, bruising blocker, the 5-11, 175-pound Klockenga was one of the chief reasons for Northville's effective outside running game, which altogether ran up 1,958 yards.

Two ties, four winners in this week's contest

It's a tie! Or rather, two ties!

This week there were more people upset than Princeton. In particular, MARC MCNAMARA of Northville, and DAVE VIERs of Novi. Had either picked the Yalies to triumph in last Saturday's Ivy League showdown, they would have taken home the whole $10 first prize in this week's Northville Record/Novi-Walled Lake News Football Contest.

Both McNamara and Viers guessed only one college football outcome incorrectly, and both predicted the combined point total in the Ohio State-Northwestern game would be 49. But the bowl-hungry Buckeyes sacked the Wildcats 55-7 for a combined point total of 62.

We added the first and ($5) second place prize money and split it down the middle — McNamara and Viers will each take home $7.50.

There must be something in the air, because almost exactly the same thing happened to Northville's ROGER FEDORSKY and JEFF STEWART, also of Northville.

Both missed the Princeton call, while Fedorsky additionally swung and missed on Georgia, who fell to Auburn, and Stuart thought Oklahoma State would top Missouri. The pair will split the $3 third prize (which we figure will buy five Northville Records each with their names on page 9-C).
