Tax bills mailed, valuations down

By KEVIN WILSON

Property tax valuations are down, but some millages are up, so Northville property owners will have to examine their individual bills, being mailed this week, to determine whether they owe more or less than last year.

Township property owners will likely receive bills or a copy of the bill sent to the mortgage company either Wednesday or Thursday, clerk Susan Heintz said Monday. City bills for school and county taxes (the city collected its own 16.18 mills in July) will be mailed Wednesday, said Donna Kohn, deputy city treasurer. Property owners whose bills are paid by a mortgage company will get copies of bills this week in the township, later in the city. If the mortgage-holder pays the taxes, such copies are for the information of the property owner and do not require payment.

Township property owners in the Northville school district will see a bill for 53.95 mills, those in Plymouth schools a 32.55 mill total. Plymouth schools collected a summer tax of 18.50 mills (half that district's total 37 mill levy); so the total tax paid in 1983 in the township portion of the Plymouth district is 51.05 mills.

One mill equals one dollar of tax for every $1,000 of assessed property value (the latter should be 50 percent of the market value of the property). To calculate the amount due in the year-end bills, multiply the assessed valuation of the property by .05395 in the township, Northville district, .03255 in the Plymouth district.

City bills bear different millages dependent upon county. In Wayne County, the winter bill is for 51.45 mills; in Oakland County the total is 49.2961 mills. Add the 16.18 mills from the summer bill and total property taxes

City considers pool

No insurance bids

By KEVIN WILSON

Pleased with the results of participating in self-insurance and pool insurance programs in the health and workers compensation fields, city council Monday night decided to examine similar programs for vehicle fleet, property, umbrella liability and municipal and police liability coverage.

Blackout caused by downed line

Much of the downtown and the north western part of the community were blacked out between 9:47 p.m. Sunday and 2:17 a.m. Monday when, according to reports, a broken tree limb snapped a power line located behind 2348 Lexington Street, a private residence.

According to representatives of Detroit Edison, 1,432 customers (residences and businesses combined) were affected by the four-hour power cut. City dispatchers reported no major injuries or mishaps resulted, despite the traffic light at Main and Center streets being out.

The power outage affected an area bordered on the west by Napier Road, on the north by Nine Mile, on the east by the C&O railroad line and on the south a City insurance programs will not be opened out to bids, however, and council seems set to select coverage from among three options.

Present at the special Monday session was insurance consultant Wade Waterman, of Governmental Risk Managers, Inc., who told the council that if it decided to retain commercial insurance coverage it should simply renew the present policies in force with various insurers. Renewal prices quoted totaled $111 less than last year's cost at $34,441, and Waterman said the city would not be likely to find a savings on identical coverage by going out for bids.

Also present, however, were representatives of the Michigan Municipal League (MML) pool insurance program, which offers similar coverages under a single contract. City manager Steven Walters reported the city has a "very good" experience in a similar MML workers compensation pool.

Taking off his hat as consultant, Waterman himself described his firm's own self-insurance program, the Michigan Municipal Risk Management Authority, and offered a quote of $31,207.

The council spent more than two hours discussing the various insurance options, including variations in the APPLICATION deadline for travel league baseball coaching positions has been set at December 16. Interested people should submit applications to Ed Harp, 641 Reed Court, Northville.

Board, architect sign agreement

By MICHELE McELMURRY

Almost a month after appointing Coquillard, Dundon, Peterson and Argenta as architects for the renovation of Northville High School, Northville Board of Education Monday approved a contract agreement with the firm to begin work on the project.

The board approved the agreement by a 6-0 vote. Trustee Gerald Munro was absent from Monday's meeting.

Assistant Superintendent Burton Knighton told the board that the agreement is a result of more than a dozen meetings between the architects, the district and the district's attorneys and contains several changes from the standard American Institute of Architects (AIA) agreement.

Knighton noted that approximately a dozen changes were made to the AIA agreement to offer the school district adequate protection and to spell out more specifically the services that would be provided by the architect.

Among the negotiated changes made in the contract was a provision to select jointly a full time on-site project representative to be on the building site at all times while construction is in progress.

Architect John Argenta, who will be directing the high school renovation, told the board a project representative "will give you very tight control of what's going on in the building."

He noted the project representative will be reporting directly to Knighton during the construction.

Other changes made in the contract agreement include the elimination of any passages leaving the architect as the ultimate judge in any resultant differences of opinion between the owner and the architect or builder and a provision that the architect assist the owner in providing services and tests necessary for the project to proceed.

Merrill Lynch bid wins

Merrill Lynch-Pierce-Fenner & Smith Inc. was the winning bidder of the $7,750,000 school building and site bonds for renovation of Northville High School, following the board of education's acceptance of bids Monday night.

The board approved the bid award by a vote of 6-0. Trustee Gerald Munro was absent.

Of a syndicate of at least 21 bidders, Merrill Lynch Pierce Fenner & Smith Inc. with National Bank of Detroit offered a 10.214 percent effective interest rate — the lowest offered among the vying bidders.

Other bidders were Manufacturers Bank and Manley, Bennett, McDonald & Company at 10.2809 percent and John Nuveen & Company, Inc. at 10.3043 percent.

Richard Barch of Stauder, Barch & Associates, the district's financial consultants, told the board and administrators that it was difficult to compare the bond bids as he knew of "no other school bond issues this year."

"To my knowledge there has not been any school financing this year — except maybe energy notes," he said.

The prospectus and bid forms for the $7,750,000 bond issue were sent to prospective bidders by Stauder, Barch & Associates on November 18.

Bids were due at the board office by 7:30 p.m. Monday. The sealed bids were opened by board secretary Douglas Whitaker and read by Richard Barch.

Barch and John Street, the district's director of business and finance, tabulated the bids and announced the winner at the conclusion of the board's meeting.

The Merrill Lynch bid was accompanied by a "good faith deposit" of $155,000 and included a $210 premium with a net interest cost of $15,020,601.46 or 10.214 percent.

The maturity schedule for the bonds is 26 years and five months.

The interest rate offered on the matured bonds by Merrill Lynch is as follows:

1986-1994	— 11.5 percent
1995	— 9.80 percent
1996	— 9.50 percent
1997	— 9.70 percent
1998	— 9.90 percent
1999-2000	— 10 percent
2001-2002	— 10.10 percent
2003-2004	— 10.15 percent
2005-2007	— 10.20 percent
2008-2010	— 10.25 percent

In addition to awarding the building and site bond bid, the board also approved a resolution to accept the final qualification of bonds.

The board's approval was needed to ratify the terms of approval of final bond qualification.

The board, which adopted a resolution to apply for final qualification of bonds October 24, received approval from the Michigan Department of Education November 14.

Goodfellows ready

Getting out their newspaper bags for the seventh annual Northville Goodfellows' newspaper sale downtown and on Seven Mile Road this Saturday are, from left, Pat Kennedy, C.A. Smith, Northville City Police Chief Rodney Cannon, Northville Township Police Chief Kenneth Hardesty and A. L. Radford. Ninety-one year old Smith founded the Northville Goodfellows seven years ago and continues as local chairman. Copies of The Northville Record are donated for the sale to help keep the Goodfellows' pledge, "No child without a Christmas." The need is especially urgent this Christmas, says Smith, who has been active all year in assisting the needy through the Civic Concern Committee formed early in 1983. Last year the Goodfellows raised $2,061 in their paper collection. Record photo by John Galloway.

become 67.63 mills in the Wayne portion of the city, 65.4491 in the Oakland portion.

Valuations were up, on average, in Wayne County by a small amount — 0.22 percent. They were down in Oakland County by 4.11 percent, based on post-December board of review figures for 1982 and unadjusted 1983 figures. December boards of review, and appeals to the Michigan Tax Tribunal often alter a municipality's total state equalized valuation (SEV).

The total city SEV rose a mite in Wayne County, with the 1982 adjusted figure of $47,666,691 rising to $47,773,450 as a 1983 base. The Oakland drop, which Kohs said involved reduced valuations concentrated in the Lexington Commons North area and around Morgan Circle, brought the SEV from $37,325,492 after last year's adjustments to $35,788,843 prior to 1983 adjustments.

Total city SEV dropped by 1.75 percent, from a 1982 final tally of $84,992,183 to a preliminary '83 figure of $83,562,293.

The township-wide SEV was down 6.06 percent, dropping from $184,719,010 after 1982 adjustments to $173,531,590 before 1983 adjustments.

The valuation decreases will not, in all cases, result in tax cuts. Under truth-in-taxation provisions and Headlee amendment requirements, taxing authorities are allowed to increase millage rates to make up for lost comparison with that of Waterman's firm and the renewal offers from the present insurers.

"I don't think we have to go out for bids again," said mayor pro tem Dewey Gardner, chairing the session in the absence of Mayor Paul Vernon. "These people all bid on the coverage last year, and we had our consultant go through

SEV so long as they conduct public hearings prior to doing so and do not exceed the maximum authorized for each unit.

Several taxing units are utilizing all or most of their maximum levy this year after reducing millages in 1982 in accordance with truth-in-taxation law and the Headlee amendment. Among them are the Northville school district (up from 38.45 mills to 39.9), Wayne County Intermediate School District (1.11 in '83, 1.10 in '82), Schoolcraft College (1.92 this year, 1.90 last) and the township (3.7 this year, 3.56 last year). The city millage collected in June was the same as in 1982, when the rate was raised two mills.

Tax bills are due February 14 in the township, February 28 in the city. The township board often extends the deadline to February 28 early in the year. Bills are payable at township hall and city hall. The township has a 24-hour drop box in the lobby for receipt of tax bills and allows payment at the Manufacturers Bank branch at Six Mile and Winchester.

Property tax payers are often eligible for a reduction of state income taxes under the "circuit breaker" deduction. These deductions can be processed early enough to provide the income tax return prior to payment of the property tax bill. Applications can be made through any state Department of Treasury office. The forms will also be available at township and city halls, though neither has received them as yet.

and negotiate what we needed."

Council member Burton DeRusha also said he felt putting the coverage up for open bidding would not be the best route to follow.

"If we open it up," he said, "we're right back where we were two or three years ago. Nobody bid an acceptable package and we had to nitpick these things through. It took a lot of time, and we had to pay our consultant to negotiate with all these different firms. I don't want to open that Pandora's Box again."

But council member Paul Folino disagreed, arguing that council ought to either renew the present policies or, if it chose to examine the MML and self-insurance options, solicit new bids from commercial insurers as well.

"I think if we request a quote from MML we have to open it up," Folino said. "I don't think we can limit our bidding to a closed company."

When other members said the MML and self-insurance plans were different and not directly comparable to commercial coverage, Folino continued to urge opening the coverage to bids on a package basis that might facilitate comparison.

"The insurance marketplace today, in competitive bidding, is very, very keen," Folino, himself an insurance agent, said. "Without getting bids, we won't know what else might be available. I've seen workers compensation, for example, drop from $1.25 a head to 37 cents — that's phenomenal."

line just north of Seven Mile Road. Some businesses and homes in the area had an alternate power source originating elsewhere.

Sunday night storm winds blew down a tree limb that cut the power line, termed a "three-phase primary conductor," and broke a circuit supplying

If we're going to open it up for one, I'd open it up for everybody."

DeRusha said he feared getting involved with a large number of bids that could not be directly compared.

"We have our renewal cost — that option is available if we choose not to enter a pool," he said. "If we open it up, I'm afraid we're going to get into this business of trying to pick one coverage from one bid and one from another and nitpick through the fine print to give everyone a fair hearing."

"Maybe you (Folino) understand all the terminology and can figure out where they give you something in the big print and take it away in the little print, but I don't understand it and we'll need to have our consultant explain it all to us."

"We could meet every Monday night from now through January and end up having to do something we don't really understand," DeRusha concluded.

Acknowledging the time problem, Folino said it was one factor "that really irks me — because I asked you to get going on this last January and hoped we could get started comparing these things last spring."

Gardner asked for a motion to authorize the city manager to request a quote from MML. Council member Carolann Ayers made the motion, seconded by DeRusha. The vote was 3-1 in favor, with Folino the lone opposition vote. He noted afterward that his opposition was because no others were being allowed to bid.

Also incorporated into the agreement is a guarantee from the architect that his construction documents will meet all applicable codes and a stipulation that the drawings and specifications are the property of the Northville School District.

The district also requested that many services considered additional services at additional cost to the owner be incorporated as basic services.

A provision that the architect provide a time schedule for the performance of architectural services for the owner's approval within 20 days of the execution of the agreement also was incorporated in the contract, as well as the establishment of a fixed construction cost as a condition of the agreement.

In accordance with the contract, should the bids come in over the fixed amount, it will be the architect's responsibility to redo the plans and specifications so that bids come in at or under the fixed amount.

Knighton noted that at the final meeting between the district and the architect on November 22, a fixed construction cost was established at $7,366,530.

Knighton said the fixed construction cost will include everything for the project except the architect's fee and miscellaneous expenses that are the responsibility of the school district.

He also noted that the architectural fee of 7.25 percent has been divided into two parts in the contract agreement.

The fee for basic architectural services is 6.5 percent of construction costs. However, since provision of a full time on-site representative is not a basic service and would be paid to the architect on a different schedule, the fee of .75 percent is provided.

The district also eliminated the binding arbitration clause from the AIA agreement, Knighton said, adding that there "are a number of clauses (in the agreement) for the district's protection."

Knighton told the board that the district's attorney recommended leaving the statute of limitation out of the agreement and letting the current statute of limitation prevail.

Questioned about possible change orders during construction, Argenta told the board he could not "say there won't be any changes" but anticipates that "change orders will be minimal."

He noted that "we have a pretty decent set of drawings of the original building" which has given the architect a good idea of what is underneath the building's facade.

Following a formal signing of the agreement at the board's meeting Monday, John Argenta commented that the contract negotiations were among "the most grueling things I've been through in 20 years."

"On the other hand," he added, "as a taxpayer I'm going to sleep good tonight."

The renovation of Northville High School will be conducted through five architectural phases.

Tuesday hearing set

Homeowner asks rezoning to let rooms

A public hearing before the Northville City Planning Commission Tuesday will determine public sentiment about a request of a Grace Street homeowner to seek a rezoning to rent out rooms in his residence.

The home, 625 Grace Street, is located at the corner of Grace and Base Line streets and is owned by Kenneth Peavy, 3370 West Six Mile.

A public hearing must be scheduled before such a rezoning request can be approved, and the commission voted recently to schedule the hearing for 8 p.m. Tuesday at City Hall.

It is expected the request will draw a good deal of unfavorable response from neighboring property owners, who have said they disapprove of the property being used as "a flophouse," as one put it.

Peavy has rented out rooms in the residence since November, 1974.

In his request for rezoning, Peavy said unless he is allowed to rent the rooms, he will be unable to keep the property.

"There is adequate parking and the property has always been well maintained," he reported to commissioners, adding he believed there were other boarding houses in the neighborhood.

"The city has almost no sleeping rooms available which can provide low-cost housing for its lower income residents," Peavy stated.

Reapportionment issue coming to a head

By TIM RICHARD

While few political observers expect Democrats to try to reapportion the Michigan Senate, a minority member says it's a real possibility — and that three freshman Republicans have been targeted.

"There are revised plans completed by the Democratic staff. I can't believe they're doing it for exercise," said state Senator Richard Fessler (R-West Bloomfield).

He was interviewed in the wake of a voter recall of Senator Phillip O. Mastin, a Pontiac Democrat. Democrats have reportedly issued repeated oral threats that if Mastin went down, they would reapportion the Senate in order to win back some seats in 1986.

Any effort to reapportion will have to come this week. The 1982 election gave Democrats a 20-18 Senate majority. Mastin will leave office as soon as his recall is certified, probably sometime during the week. And Wednesday, Macomb County voters are scheduled to decide whether to recall Senator David Serotkin (D-Mt. Clemens) who, like Mastin, voted to raise the state income tax. If Serotkin is recalled, the Senate balance becomes 18-18 with Republicans hoping to win the two vacated seats and a majority. If a Democratic-biased reapportionment plan is to be approved, it must be done while the party still has control of the Senate.

Some experts think, however, that Democrats may be hesitant to vote for a one-sided reapportionment because the vote could be turned into another recall issue.

Senator R. Robert Geake (R-Northville) has doubts that reapportionment will be attempted.

"There was some saber rattling," Geake said. "We were told that if Republicans participated in recall efforts, the Democrats would reapportion us into oblivion. But we've been scrupulously honest when we said we would not take part in recall efforts."

"The exception was Brooks (Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson, who supported the Mastin recall and chastised fellow Republicans for refusing to do so). But Brooks isn't a legislator. Individual Republicans may have supported recall, but not the party."

Nonetheless, Fessler, who comes from a fairly safe western Oakland County district, believes Democratic targets are:

• Doug Cruce, R-Troy. Cruce, 35, won the 16th District seat, formerly Democratic, after one term in the House.

• Norman Shinkle, R-Lambertville. With no prior legislative exposure, Shinkle, 32, represents a district encompassing Monroe and Lenawee counties.

• Paul Henry, R-Grand Rapids. A former two-term state representative, Henry, 40, has a district that includes Michigan's second largest city and eastern Kent County.

How would it work against Cruce? Fessler said, "My district (17th) might be enlarged to take in Birmingham and increase my Republican voting strength, and Cruce (16th District) would lose that Republican base."

"They could shift some of Mastin's district (8th) west to Brandon, Groveland and Springfield Townships, then perhaps take the Pontiac Township area and put it in Cruce's to make it more Democratic."

"Or they could move Jack Faxon (15th, D-Southfield) into Lyon, Milford and Commerce and put some of Oak Park into Cruce's," Fessler said, noting that Oak Park had helped elect Democratic senators Doug Ross and Daniel Cooper in the '70s.

Fessler, though a freshman senator himself, said he feels secure because his district is so strongly Republican and he had four terms of public exposure as a state representative.

Democrat Faxon noted that Mastin's vote is not needed for reapportionment to go through the Senate. With Mastin gone, a Senate majority is only 19 (more than half the senators "elected and serving"). With a 63-47 majority in the House, Democrats could easily reapportion the Senate, theoretically at least.

The 1982 apportionment plan approved by the state Supreme Court was drawn up by former elections director Bernard Apol. Its districts are more compact and less sprawling than the Democratic plan which the high court approved in 1972.

But Democrats have considered Apol's plan a "Republican" plan. And the court said the Legislature is free to adopt another one if its districts are more nearly equal in population.

Faxon said it's common knowledge a new redistricting plan has been drawn.

"But maybe only two or three people know what's in it," Faxon said. "I imagine it was done deliberately so no one would have an answer (for reporters)."

"I've seen one for my area. Yes, it's good. My (current) district is overpopulated by 18,000 or 20,000. It (the new map) will make some reductions. But it won't affect me politically. And I have no idea what the timetable is."

Senate Majority leader William Faust (D-Westland) could not be reached for comment.

Senate reapportionment may involve changes in these district boundaries — see text for detail

Can collectors

Students at Meads Mill Junior High School were busy packing food items last week, following completion of their second annual can drive to help needy families and individuals. The can drive, a joint effort of the Student Council and math teachers Linda Moore and Jan Smith, netted a total of 3,821 cans for donation to the Plymouth Salvation Army Post. This year's

Elementary schools open holiday shops

EDITOR'S NOTE: The monthly Northville PTA-PTSA column which appears the last Wednesday of each month September through June is compiled by volunteer Linda Handyside. She coordinates material from the publicity persons in each of the elementary and junior high schools.

In addition, Jerry and Tina Delaney compile information about Our Lady of Victory School's activities and Nancy Lawrence writes about upcoming events at William Allan Academy.

Also, Carol Whittenburg and Sharon Pilat have joined with news about Christian Community School.

$5. Free gift wrapping is available.

It may be 12 days before Christmas but December 12 will feature "Christmas in Other Lands" at Amerman. The customs, traditions and food of China, Germany, Finland, Poland and England will be explored by people from these countries at assemblies during the day. In the evening the Second Annual Family Christmas Sing-along will take place in the courtyard. Tree lighting, bonfire, carols, hot chocolate and cookies; promise to make it a fun evening for the family.

The next Amerman PTA meeting will be January 16. There will be no December meeting due to the holidays.

Amerman's first roller skating party will be January 18. Fun activities will be planned for the whole family. Mark your calendars for this important family event.

MORaine

Moraine students are beginning the holiday season much like most of their parents do, with special homemade foods. Many classrooms, with the help of parent volunteers, baked special items at school the week of November 21. Mrs. Naomi Poe's first and second graders made rolls and cranberry sauce, Mrs. Bess Miller's second graders made muffins, their own butter and pumpkin pies, and Mrs. Beverly McKenzie's kindergartners made apple pizza.

Kindergartners especially enjoyed having their parents visit school November 23 for a special Thanksgiving program.

Many of Moraine's teachers currently are taking college level computer classes, in conjunction with a grant Moraine has received from Wayne State University. Be watching for a computer open house to be held at school in the spring.

Moraine's Book Fair was held the first week of November, giving students and parents an opportunity to purchase a wide variety of reading materials at very reasonable prices.

Moraine's PTA sponsored a sale of Current Stationery products last month. Proceeds of more than $300 will go toward some as yet undetermined item for the school. Next meeting of Moraine's PTA will be at 9:30 a.m. January 9 in the school library.

Babysitting is available to parents attending.

WINCHESTER

Winchester students are anxiously awaiting a chance to purchase "just the right gift" for family members when Santa's Secret Store opens for business December 7 and 8. Chairman Jan Juhasz reports that work began last summer on the 2,000 handmade items which will be displayed at the December 5 preview in the Little Theater. Prices will range from 10 cents to $2.

The first and fourth graders in Martha Sartori's, Lou Wolf's, Harry Rosinski's, Pat Kuxhaus' and Donna Hicks' classrooms will join the Glee Club in presenting a vocal music program at 7:30 p.m. December 8 under the direction of Ann Jarvi.

The Christmas spirit is growing in the fifth grades and in Donna Hicks' classrooms as they again sponsor the Sweet Shoppe Sale December 14. In addition to providing delicious homebaked goods to students and teachers, sale proceeds will be used to help needy families have a happy Christmas season.

Watch for the first edition of this year's "Razzler," containing classroom news, student writings and Winchester happenings, to be published in early December by Chairman Judy Shattuck and her staff.

November was a busy month at Winchester. Thanks to the efforts of many parents and teachers, the November 11 Fun Fair was an enormous success! The Book Fair, chaired by Judy Shattuck, offered reading materials for the children to purchase, and provided monies to be spent in the Media Center. Some of these funds will be used to augment the Parent-Teacher library, which is off to a good start. Committee chairmen, Lou Wolf, Mernie Hines, Barb Gougeon and Arlene Frayne, welcome book donations from home libraries.

Band teacher Gary Gandolfi and the fifth and sixth grade band students enjoyed their trip to the University of Michigan for Band-a-Rama. The November 22 Turkey Trot/Chicken Run was well attended by students and teachers who participated in the 20-minute Fun Run. Selected writings by Winchester students were compiled by teachers Jerree Akin and Kathi Deventorf and published in our literary magazine, "Winchester Writes."

Thanks to PTA Vice President, Debbie Gesdorf, for compiling a membership directory of PTA members. Congratulations to Student Council officers: President, Karl Siegert; Vice President, Matt Sepos, and Secretary, Jennifer Howland. Malinda Cote and Ted Dewey were selected as Outstanding Service Club members for October. Winchester students and staff welcome back library aide Barb Gougeon after her absence for surgery. The next PTA meeting will be held at 9:30 a.m. December 6.

COOKE

The oranges and grapefruits sold by students in October will be delivered to the school the week of December 5. Arrival will be announced in school, and parents are expected to pick up orders that same day.

The new turntable purchased for the band room with funds from last year's fruit sale has been installed.

The 146 seventh graders in Mrs. Dorothea Bach's English classes are writing to pen pals in Steele, Missouri. Letters, pictures, maps and newspapers are being sent in both directions as students learn about a young friend in another part of the country. The students also have completed a business letter writing project in which letters were sent to the official U.S. travel organizations for foreign countries. Material has been received from around the world.

Several Cooke teachers have been busy attending conferences this fall.

Mrs. Edie Pegrum attended the Michigan Art Education Association Fall Conference in Grand Rapids. Approximately 300 educators viewed the commercial exhibits and student art work. Workshops on trends and changes in art education were available and many ideas were shared.

Mrs. Mary Freydl, who is the junior high representative on the Michigan Association of Speech Communication executive council, attended the fall conference as well as that of the Michigan Council of Teachers of English and the Writers Conference sponsored by Detroit Women Writers at Oakland University. Mrs. Freydl also attended the Speech Communication Association annual national convention in Washington, D.C., November 11-13.

All Cooke students participated in Writing Month in Michigan activities.

Ms. Marian Burg attended the Environmental and Occupational Health Conference in Troy this fall. Speakers discussed the timely topics of indoor air pollution and hazardous wastes. She also participated in the Michigan Science Olympiad orientation. This group will host a student interscholastic competition in the spring, and Ms. Burg hopes to have a Cooke team participate in the Olympiad.

CHRISTIAN COMMUNITY SCHOOL

Christmas is just around the corner, and the Children's Christmas Store will be a busy place December 6 and 7. Children will be able to purchase Christmas gifts for the whole family in a price range they can afford. Many of the items this year have been handmade by moms who volunteered their time and materials. A special thanks to Sue Mitchell and Ila Williams for coordinating the event.

Our Preschool M-W-F class will be undertaking a project that is a child's delight. They will be making gingerbread houses December 2. A new T-Th class may be formed in January. Please call the school for details.

Trish Moore's preschool class recently visited Moonkin Toy Shop on a field trip and were filmed for P.M. Magazine. The segment will be shown December 14.

December 7, grades 1-5 will be going to Greenfield Village to see the play, "Wizard of Oz."

Along with the hot lunch and milk program, ice cream and fruit juices now are available. Proceeds from the sale of ice cream at lunch time are going into a special fund to help renovate the Statue of Liberty.

Plan on attending our rollicking Roller Skating Party January 31 at Riverside Skating Arena. Students must be accompanied by an adult. We are expecting a terrific crowd of students, parents and staff.

Don't forget to keep saving your Campbell Soup labels and Post fitness labels. Send them to school with your child as soon as possible. The labels are worth points toward getting free equipment for the school.

Materials are coming in, and plans are under way for our library. Resource materials and books are now being categorized and processed. Many thanks to each person who has donated time, books and talent toward this important project.

OUR LADY OF VICTORY

Throughout the month of December, we have several dates to remember:

The first social gathering of the month is this Friday, December 2, for the annual Our Lady of Victory Pizza Supper being held in the Social hall from 5:30-8:30 p.m. Pat and Sue Reardon and Dick and Cathy Walle have been busy planning and working hard to make this one of the most popular social events for the OLV families and friends.

'Twas the month before Christmas, and throughout OLV

The kids were rehearsing and singing with glee...

The students are preparing for their Christmas Music Program entitled "A Family Christmas" which is scheduled for December 6.

Sally Swift's first graders' play, "Love Was Born," will take place December 15. Kathleen Ramseyer's second graders are making Christmas presents and working on a special Advent project. Teri Alcocer's third graders and Sharon Brandt's fourth graders will be traveling together to the Detroit Institute of Arts to see Sara Crewe's "Christmas Surprise" at the Youth Theater December 8. Sister Betty Kubacki's recently-elected sixth grade officers are: Mike Padden, Carrie Isabell, Kevin Delaney and Reggie Laramee. A field trip to Temple Beth El will culminate their study of the Old Testament and the Jewish faith. Kathleen Puzio's seventh graders will be presenting a play curiously named "Christmas in Ozland."

Our Lady of Victory children, parents and staff wish a very Merry Christmas and a safe and Happy New Year to the entire Northville Community.

Jerry and Tina Delaney

WILLIAM ALLAN ACADEMY

Who says November's dull — not the Academy students. This month was more than packed full of challenging, interesting and fun-filled activities.

It all started with our Third Annual Great Pumpkin Award which is given to the greatest 3-4th and 5-6th grade

"pumpkin painters." The great winners were Holly McDonald-Korth, Anjie Mahajan and Scott Brown.

Aside from the 3-4th and 5-6th graders' artistic talents, they have been well involved in the study of life sciences. This month they set-up a "life" unit after much research. They now have a terrarium — designed for plant life study — and two live rabbits and fresh water aquarium.

Our 1-2nd graders at the Academy finished their Pilgrim Books. Pictures, poems and stories were all done by students throughout the month. To wind up November, the first and second graders had their own art contest — the Great Gobbler Award. This award was given to the best design made out of the child's individual handprint into a turkey. Our winners were Katie Johnson and Kevin O'Sullivan.

November was the kick-off of our school's "Reading Olympics" to celebrate National Children's Book Week. Winners of the "Book Certificate" from the Current Stationary sale were Jason Chess, kindergarten; Jenny Jenkins, 1-2 grade; Jeremy Lawrence, 3-4 grade and Scott Brown, 5-6 grade.

December promises to be even more exciting. The Academy Christmas Production — "Little Red Schoolhouse Remembered" — is scheduled December 15 with top billing at our own Marquis Theater. It is written by our fifth and sixth graders.

Rehearsing for the upcoming production of "A Christmas Carol" are Dave Dore (left) and Matt Meyer as Scrooge and Linda Howe as Christmas Past (above). The Northville High School production, sponsored by the Drama Club, will open at 8 p.m. tomorrow with additional evening performances Friday and Saturday. A 2 p.m. matinee also will be held Saturday. Tickets at $3 for adults and $2.50 for students are available at the door or at IV Seasons Flowers. Photos by John Galloway.

College offers telecourses

Schoolcraft College is offering five telecourses during its upcoming winter semester to offer a viable alternative for persons too busy or otherwise unable to pursue a traditional on-campus education.

Offerings include four courses in business and one in political science, according to Assistant Dean Larry Ordowski, a new temporary director of television courses at the college.

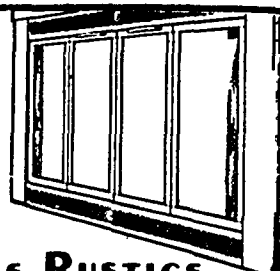

Schoolcraft telecourses are televised over Channel 56 and also available on Cable Channel 16 seen in Northville, Plymouth, Canton and Garden City.

The courses are coordinated by full-time instructional faculty and the college offers additional support services for persons whose schedules may not permit regular viewing at the time classes are televised.

Walk-in registration for the winter semester runs December 5-15 on campus. Previously admitted students will need to make a registration appointment at the Registrar's Office.

Cross-registration adopted

Schoolcraft College is seeking cross-registration agreements with other community colleges allowing a student to enroll at one college and take some course work at another.

Students would be charged in-district tuition rates at both.

"This will help us avoid duplication of programs," said trustee Mary Breen, who moved that Schoolcraft adopt the policy. "It will avoid eliminating small programs that have few students."

The board adopted the new policy unanimously.

Under it, a student would register at Schoolcraft and, when necessary, take a needed course at (say) Oakland Community College. At OCC, the student would be charged the in-district rate rather than the non-resident tuition, which is typically twice the in-district rate.

Students attending another community college may take courses at Schoolcraft at in-district rates if they meet these criteria:

- Their college has entered into a cooperative cross-registration agreement with Schoolcraft;
- The program is not available at their college;
- Space is available.

OCC has adopted a similar policy. Administrators are encouraged to engage in regional curriculum planning to avoid program duplication.

Art auction benefit for HAVEN

A fine arts auction to benefit HAVEN, Oakland County's shelter for victims of domestic violence, will be held this Friday at the Sheraton Southfield, 17017 West Nine Mile.

Park West Galleries is conducting the event, with owner Dr. Albert Scaglione as auctioneer.

Preview with wine and hors d'oeuvres starts at 7 p.m.; the auction begins at 8 p.m. Donation is $7.50 per person in advance or $10 at the door. Please call HAVEN at 334-1284.

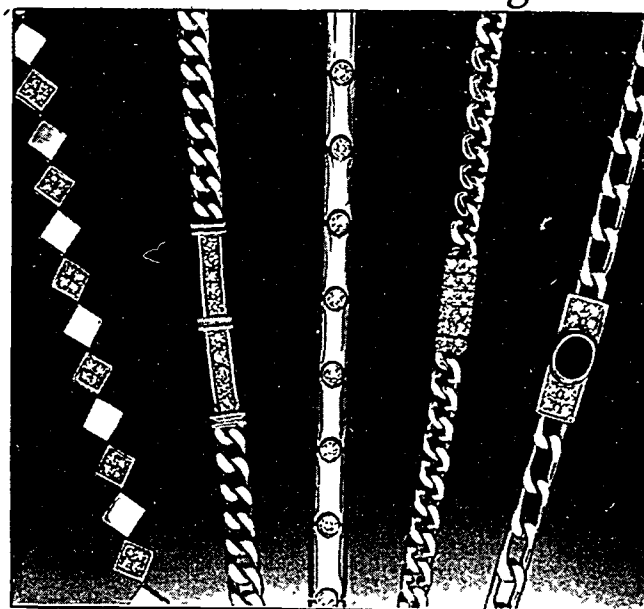

Park West Galleries is the country's largest privately owned gallery. The auction will feature works by artists such as Dali, Altman, Kipniss, Agam and Miro.

This is the second year HAVEN and Park West Galleries have joined efforts. Last year's auction drew 350 people and raised $5,000 for the Pontiac-based shelter which provides temporary housing, counseling and assistance for domestic violence victims and their children.

Obituaries

Ralph Neville, Water Wheel owner, dies

Funeral service for Ralph Ernest Neville, 56, owner with his wife of the Water Wheel Restaurant in Northville, was held at 7 p.m. Friday at Casterline Funeral Home with Pastor Gordon Mesic of Canton Calvary Assembly of God officiating.

Burial was in Mount Hope Memorial Gardens Cemetery in Livonia. Mr. Neville, a resident of Brighton, died November 22 at St. Joseph Hospital in Ann Arbor.

He was also employed with General Motors Corporation and was a member of Brighton Trinity Church. He was born April 11, 1927, in Detroit to Clyde W. and Edith G. (Shales) Neville.

He leaves his wife Laura Barbara, children David, Michelle and Paul at home, Darryl, Kenneth, William and Bryan; brothers Clyde W. Neville of Detroit, Eugene H. Neville of Grand Blanc, James Watts of Southgate and Theodore Leonard of Missouri; a sister Marie Quinn of Detroit; and four grandchildren.

MICHAEL W. WADE

Michael Walter Wade, 64, of 41303 Lagoon Court, died unexpectedly November 25 at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia.

Funeral service was held at 10 a.m. Monday at Our Lady of Victory Church where he was a member. The Reverend Father Frank Polle officiated. Burial was in Rural Hill Cemetery.

A retired inspector at Burroughs Corporation, Mr. Wade had lived in the community since 1982.

He was born June 1, 1919, in West Virginia to Lawrence and Eva (Kreczykowski) Wiadrowski. He married Alexandria R. Chrostowski who survives.

He also leaves daughters Mrs. Anrea Wienclaw of Northville and Mrs. Edward (Lauren) Zabrosky; brothers Joseph Widrosky of Stockbridge and Peter Kosar; a sister Mrs. Rose Verostek of Canton; and two grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were made by Ross B. Northrop and Son Funeral Home in Northville.

TUCKLA D. BARKAY

Funeral service for Mrs. Tuckla D. Barkay of 18221 Jamestown Circle is being held at 10 a.m. today (Wednesday) at Our Lady of Victory Church where she was a member. The Reverend Father Frank Polle is officiating.

Burial is to be in Mt. Olivet Cemetery. A prayer service was at 7:30 p.m. Monday and rosary at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. Arrangements are by Ross B. Northrop and Son Funeral Home in Northville.

Mrs. Barkay, who was 85, died Sunday at Mt. Carmel Mercy Hospital after a long illness.

She came to the community in 1978. She was a retired inspector at L.A. Young Spring and Wire Company.

The former Tuckla Debs, she married Samuel D. Barkay who preceded her in death in 1955. Her mother was Sadie Hamway Debs.

She leaves two daughters Mrs. Grant (Rose) Bauman and Mrs. William (Mary) MacGillivray, both of Northville; two sisters; two grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

MADELON T. ZOMBORY

Funeral service for Madelon Theodora Zombory, 61, mother of Glenn Zombory of Northville, was held at 11 a.m. November 23 at Evergreen Lutheran Church where she was a member. The Reverend Robert F. Gibson officiated.

Burial was in Roseland Park Cemetery. Prayers were at the Harry J. Will Funeral Home in Redford.

Mrs. Zombory, a homemaker and a Dearborn Heights resident for 32 years, died November 20 at Mt. Carmel Mercy Hospital of cancer.

She was born April 8, 1922, in Princeton, Michigan, to Edward and Agnes (Beckstrom) Olive.

She was married to Robert S. Zombory who survives.

In addition to her husband and son Glenn, she leaves sons Dale of Gallen, Michigan, and Paul of Dearborn Heights; a brother Dale Olive of Marquette; and a sister Mrs. James (Marion) Scullion, also of Marquette.

Holiday giving project at Northville Charley's

Again this year employees of Northville Charley's at 41122 West Seven Mile are participating with the restaurant in The Holiday Project program. The non-profit, national organization focuses on people who will be shut-in for the holidays, arranging and financing visitations.

Beginning last Friday and continuing through Christmas Eve Northville Charley's will be featuring a special drink called a Roman Holiday Coffee. The drink, dining room manager Diane Campbell explains, costs $2.50 with one dollar from the sale of each being donated to The Holiday Project.

The steaming coffee drink is made with Amaretto and real whipped cream, she adds, noting that last year restaurant employees raised $300 for the project. This year's goal is $500.

Employees also have begun making plans for another Christmas cookie party at Our Lady of Providence School for girls. It is scheduled for 3 p.m. December 15.

Campbell reports that employees again this Christmas will be taking homemade Christmas cookies, ice cream, entertainment and Santa Claus to the school.

Donations of cookies or money for the school will be accepted during the week of December 11 at the restaurant.

The Holiday Project is an outgrowth of a Christmas tradition started in San Francisco in 1971 which has grown to include prisons and other institutions as well as hospitals. It now includes Hanukkah as well as Christmas.

At the end of nine years after its founding the project had visited more than 300,000 people in 76 cities across the United States and had raised more than $2 million to support its program of visiting and giving gifts to people confined in institutions during the holidays. It was incorporated as the Holiday Project in 1980 and operates in 30 states.

"The purpose of The Holiday Project is to give people an opportunity to experience what the holidays are really about so that they can create a context in which to hold them and have them be a real celebration and a contribution to people's lives," Campbell explains.

In 1982 in the metropolitan Detroit area 110 volunteers wrapped 2,348 gifts; 147 volunteers (such as the Northville Charley's staff) visited 2,507 persons in 20 area institutions.

Nationally, 210,528 persons were visited in 1,953 institutions by 20,404 volunteers.

College lifts funding goal

By TIM RICHARD

In an era of tax revolts and tight state aid, Schoolcraft College is seeking all the private and federal money it can find — and beginning to find it.

President Richard McDowell told trustees the Schoolcraft College Foundation has raised its fund goal to $40,000 from last year's $25,000.

"We're pleased with the early results," said McDowell, reporting that $8,400 has been received from 170 gifts. Foundation funds are used for student aid and for equipment which the college couldn't otherwise afford.

McDowell reported college administrators are seeking $2,000 from the state in order to revamp the computer program, serving more students and upgrading the quality of the program.

Last month McDowell announced receipt of $167,000 in federal job training funds and a specific $34,000 grant to train Ford Motor Company employees.

The board voted to accept its biggest list of gifts in years — nearly $18,500 in cash and materials.

Largest was a 1982 Buick Century worth $12,000 which General Motors donated to the college's automotive department. Transportation from Flint worth $250 was arranged by Buick dealer Tom Armstrong through Anchor Motor Freight Inc. of Birmingham.

Next were eight 1982 transmissions, which Ford Motor Company's Livonia transmission plant donated to the automotive service program.

Plymouth Wayne Welding Company of Garden City donated nearly $1,700 in wire and electrode materials to the welding program.

Industrial Metal Fabricators Company of Detroit donated 8,500 pounds of scrap metal worth an estimated $850 to the welding program. Metropolitan Alloys Corporation, also of Detroit, donated 300 pounds of aluminum alloy worth $270 to the foundry course.

Johanna Wirbel of Ann Arbor gave a 1978 Volvo station wagon worth $600 to the automotive program.

Other gifts and donors were: two sets of new soccer goal nets worth $180, Little Caesar's Western Suburban Soccer League, Farmington, and $50 cash from the Business and Professional Women's Club of Plymouth.

In other business, the Schoolcraft board of trustees:

- Renewed its membership ($425) in the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments. The board reappointed trustee Laura Toy as SEMCOG delegate and named trustee Rosina Raymond alternate delegate.

- Dropped its membership in the Association of Governing Boards of Universities and Colleges (AGB). Trustee Harry Greenleaf said he was "appalled" at the 55 percent increase (to $990) AGB is charging for the year. Raymond said AGB is oriented more toward four-year colleges, and Schoolcraft derives more benefit from the American Association of Community and Junior Colleges.

- Voted 4-2 to pay Burns Sign of Plymouth $8,685 for design and construction of an announcement sign readable by passers-by on Haggerty Road. Trustee Sharon Sarris, who voted no, said she was hesitant because there was no clear picture how the sign would fit into the college's forthcoming marketing program.

Pursell presses Seaway project

By TIM RICHARD

Unity, Coalition, Regional agenda.

The sunbelt has political clout because of them. Why can't the Great Lakes states get together, too?

"It's difficult to achieve because of the enormous diversity in a complex industrial region," answered U.S. Representative Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, the 2nd District congressman who once led a group called the Gypsy Moths.

"It's not like the sunbelt, where they're interested in 1) defense contracts, 2) the oil depletion allowance and, 3) tobacco subsidies and agriculture. That's about the three basic priorities of the sunbelt.

"We have about 17 major priorities," said Pursell, whose current project is selling the lakes states, Canada, the Reagan administration and Congress on a $1 billion-plus modernization of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Pursell was asked about a remark at the Congress on the Economic Future of the Great Lakes that lakes state congressional delegations "are the easiest ones to roll" because they lack cohesion.

"In all honesty, I think it's an excellent point because of the diversity," he said. He added that there is a generation gap in the Michigan delegation.

"The junior members are attracted to these regional ideas, and the senior members are somewhat reluctant because they've been targeting their fields of expertise. I'm not criticizing that. It's the nature of the game.

"Democrats and Republicans think an awful lot alike in the sunbelt, but we don't see that up in our region. We have major philosophical differences within our delegation."

Pursell was interviewed by a panel of reporters for the November 27 "Spotlight on News" program on WXYZ-TV (Channel 7).

Afterwards, he observed, "I walk into the Capitol restaurant every Tuesday, and there's the Georgia delegation meeting for breakfast." He said the Michigan delegation has rarely met as a unit since the Chrysler loan package bills of three years ago.

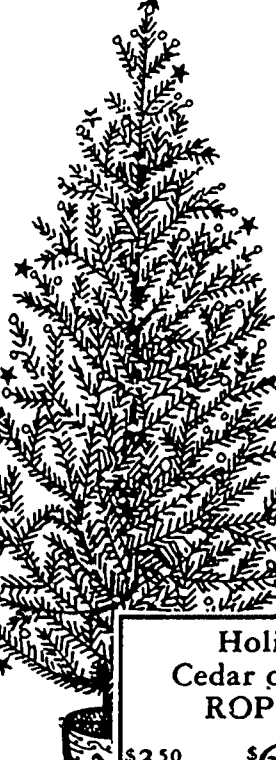

Of the Seaway, Pursell said interest is picking up in his modernization proposal. It involves building a second lock at Sault Ste. Marie capable of handling 1,000 foot ships and parallel locks on the St. Lawrence River to accommodate two-way traffic.

"The Canadians feel it's an opportunity to modernize the Seaway because it's 25 years old. Fact is, the midwest must modernize the Seaway if we're going to be able to compete in the world marketplace. Farmers, manufacturers and new industrial leaders are looking to the Seaway as a chance to move their products to the export market.

"The (U.S. Army) Corps of Engineers has a congressional study under way. We're in phase II of that. Our decision should be completed in 1986, and I'm interested in the United States being ready to plan with the Canadian government rather than being behind," he said.

Pursell referred to Canada's decision in the 1950s to go ahead with the locks to enable ocean-going ships to reach the Great Lakes — with or without U.S. involvement. With then-Congressman George Dondero (R-Royal Oak) leading the way, the U.S., after decades of debate, agreed in 1954 to join the project.

Pursell saw no danger to the project from French-speaking Quebec's threats to separate from English-speaking Canada — quite the opposite. "They're making a recommendation to their (Quebec) premiere in the next two months to participate, and I think they will."

Police Blotters

Burglars strike it rich in Edenderry

In the Township ...

Items estimated to be worth $3,200 were stolen from an Arselot residence sometime between 6:30 and 9 p.m. November 19, township police report.

The complainant told police she had left her home at 6:30 p.m. November 19 and upon returning less than three hours later observed that the interior of the home was lit and she could see a television turned on in an upstairs bedroom.

She said she drove to the rear of the home, went inside and found the home and been broken into.

The officer at the scene was told that a door leading into the garage as well as a door leading from the interior of the garage into the home had been left unlocked by the complainant, who further stated she had found the front door unlocked — although it previously was locked.

The officer noted that the complainant had two dogs — a German shepherd and a bull terrier — who were left loose in the home at the time of the incident.

The officer also found during an inspection of an upstairs bedroom that a clock was stopped at 8:18 p.m.

The door leading from the garage into the home also showed what appeared to be pry marks. The officer later learned that the complainant's father had locked the door prior to leaving the home following his daughter on November 19.

Stolen items included a $1,750 gold necklace with a diamond pendant in a Tiffany setting, a $1,200 woman's gold ring with four diamonds surrounded by emeralds, a $600 gold chain necklace with six charms, $300 gold earrings with diamonds, $300 man's gold wedding band, lady's watch estimated at $130, $200 man's watch, $500 yellow gold pierced earrings, $300 gold necklace with an old American coin, $500 gold chain bracelet and other various jewels and pieces of costume jewelry.

Various pieces of silverplate and sterling flatware valued at more than $1,700 also were stolen as well as $375 in currency and coins.

A 1965 Chevrolet Impala valued at $3,000 was reported stolen from a Savoy Court residence sometime between 11:30 p.m. November 20 and 7:30 a.m. November 21, township police report.

The complainant told police the vehicle was locked and parked in front of his residence at the time the incident occurred.

He further stated that the car is up for sale and that at 6 p.m. November 20, a potential buyer had come to the residence to look at the car.

The complainant said he was offered $2,200 for the car but refused the amount.

Township police are investigating the incident and have contacted other police departments in connection with the theft.

An emergency light bar valued at $200 was stolen from a Northville Township Fire Truck at the Sheldon Road station sometime between 9 p.m. November 22 and 10 a.m. November 24, police report.

According to police the light bar had been unbolted and wiring was cut. The canvas on top of the truck also was torn with damage estimated at $100.

The officer at the scene noted in the report that the building is in "extremely poor condition" and entry could have been gained through any of the four windows.

At the time of the report, the vehicle had been moved from the Sheldon Road station to another location.

An Innsbrook resident reported an estimated $200 damage to a 1982 Lincoln Mark VI sometime between midnight and 9 a.m. November 24, according to township police.

The complainant told police unknown suspects smashed the windshield on the vehicle while it was parked overnight outside her apartment.

The officer at the scene said it appeared someone threw a large object at the windshield causing it to shatter. However, no object could be found in the area.

An Arborway resident was issued a violation by township police in connection with a hit and run accident at Haggerty and Eight Mile roads November 25.

According to the police report, the incident occurred when the suspect hit a vehicle stopped at a red light at the intersection of Eight Mile and Haggerty.

The driver of the damaged vehicle told police the suspect got out of his car to give the complainant driver license information; however, when she requested insurance information, the suspect returned to his car and drove away.

A witness at the scene confirmed the complainant's report to police and noted that while driving away the suspect threw two beer cans out of the passenger window.

Township dispatch contacted the Oakland County Sheriff's Department to obtain information about the suspect. The Sheriff's Department made contact with the suspect's wife who said her husband had called her about the accident but indicated that neither party wanted to make a report.

The suspect's wife was advised that a report had been requested and that her husband should come to the Northville Township Police Department.

The suspect reported to the Northville Township Police Department November 26, where he gave a written and verbal statement about the incident.

According to the police report, the suspect said he did not give insurance information because he was hurrying to pick up a friend.

The suspect was issued a violation for failure to stop within and assured clear distance and is to appear in 35th District Court December 27.

... In the City ...

A city police officer considers it likely that "unknown subjects" who broke into Cooke Junior High School last Saturday were in the school's kitchen while police investigated the scene.

City police responded to an open alarm from the school at 7:36 p.m. Saturday and discovered two school windows had been broken out. One — a plexiglass window leading to the kitchen — had been removed all in one piece.

Police, however, could find no evidence of theft or persons at the scene that night, and left word for school employees to contact the city should evidence of any theft be discovered later.

Monday morning, it was discovered that the plexiglass molding on the right side of the entrance to the school's kitchen area had been replaced, leading one of the responding officers to conclude "the subjects were in the kitchen when officers were investigating the breaking and entering."

An investigation Monday determined that nothing had been stolen from the kitchen.

City police reported four incidents of wheel cover thefts from parked automobiles during the last week.

The most expensive loss was four wheel covers from a white and maroon 1979 Mercury, owned by an Auburn Heights man, parked in the main lot of Northville Downs. The wheel covers were valued at $564. According to police, the theft likely took place between 7 p.m. Friday and 2 a.m. Saturday.

Four wheel covers together valued at $400 were taken from a tan 1981 Ford, owned by a Livonia man, and parked at Northville Downs Saturday, November 19. The theft reportedly happened between 7:30 p.m. and 11:30 p.m.

Four chrome wheel covers valued at $250 were stolen from a beige 1979 Ford parked in the driveway of a home on Springfield Court. The theft likely happened between noon, Tuesday, November 22, and 10 a.m. last Friday.

Four silver GM wheel covers were stolen from a brown 1983 Buick parked in the city's lower downtown parking deck facing Cady Street. The owner of the car, a Canton woman, valued the loss at $100. The wheel covers were taken between 6:55 p.m. and 10:50 p.m. last Friday.

A white 1976 Olds Cutlass parked in the Allen Terrace lot, 401 High Street, was discovered Saturday to have a smashed windshield of unknown cause. The car was parked in the east side parking lot, and the damage, listed at $200, reportedly took place between 1 p.m. Friday and 10:25 a.m. Saturday.

There were two incidents of broken windows of private residences in the city. The owner of a home on Horton Street told police he was watching television at 2:10 a.m. Sunday when he heard the sound of glass breaking. He discovered a 28"x28" double strength storm window to his home had been broken, but did not see who had done it, although he did hear a vehicle driving off. Damage was estimated at $50.

The owner of a home on Allen Drive reported discovering a 33"x24" lower storm window to a storm door had been shattered at an unknown time. The damage was discovered at 7:45 p.m. Saturday.

... From State Police ...

Traffic fatalities over the Thanksgiving holiday period were significantly reduced from last year, state police reported Monday, with only nine deaths reported statewide compared with 27 during the same period in 1982.

The 102-hour holiday period used for reporting traffic deaths began Wednesday at 6 p.m. and ran through Sunday midnight. The nine deaths came in nine separate accidents, most in outstate Michigan. The 1982 death toll derived from 23 accidents.

Of the nine accidents, three are known to have involved drivers who were intoxicated, three others are known to have no alcohol involvement and no conclusion had been reached regarding alcohol usage in the remaining three accidents.

None of the persons dying on the highways over the holiday weekend was wearing a seatbelt. In 1983 to date, only 4.7 percent of the accident victims who had seatbelts available had been using them when killed.

The weekend traffic toll brings to 1,202 the number killed on Michigan highways in 1983, a reduction of 6.9 percent from the 1982 figure as of November 28 which was 1,291. Of these, 744 victims had seatbelts or other restraints available in the car and only 35 had used them.

Fatal accidents over the Thanksgiving weekend occurred in Genesee, Bay, Lenawee, Saginaw, Ontonagon, Grand Traverse, Osceola, Muskegon and Washtenaw counties.

Three of the fatal accidents were car/pedestrian type, two were two-vehicle broadside collisions, one was a two-vehicle head-on, one a single vehicle collision with a solid object, one a single-car rollover and one a car-train accident.

Window decoration at IV Seasons deserves special award

Windows excellent — award warranted

The special Chamber President's Christmas Decorating Trophy award presented by the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce to Four Seasons owner Dewey Gardner is a well-deserved one. The decorated windows of the flower and gift store on Main Street long have been holiday season attractions, adding to the enjoyment of shopping downtown.

The windows annually have won awards in the store's classification in the window judging that is part of the Christmas Walk the Sunday before Thanksgiving. Residents and visitors have come to anticipate outstanding decorating. This year's window features popular teddy bears in old-fashioned setting.

Gardner and his staff have said they begin planning the Christmas window early in the year while ordering at the merchandise markets. The Chamber President's Christmas Decoration Trophy award was voted upon at the last chamber session. President Sherry Spaman said chamber members in doing so were acknowledging Gardner's outstanding contribution to the holiday season decorating. "I don't know why we didn't think of it sooner," she commented.

As established, the award may be presented twice to the same business, which then is retired from competition to a "hall of fame" status. It does not have to be awarded if no decorating is considered outstanding enough in a given year, according to Kay Keegan, chamber executive director. Previously, judges awarded first and second place and honorable mention in five classifications — but there was no overall winner. Creation of the trophy award also provided opportunity for new competition in the gifts, florists and antiques category this year, with Wooden Shovel Antiques capturing first place.

As Barbara Jamieson, one of the chamber judges, commented, the downtown is filled with many excellent decorations. It's well worth taking time to window shop along downtown streets.

Liberal tilt is inherent

Recent polls show that the public no longer regards the press with much more trust than it does politicians, whose credibility of late has ranked right up there with that of snake oil salesmen and grave robbers.

Judging by trade journals, this disturbs many journalists, largely those in the television and daily newspaper games, who recall the post-Watergate days when reporters were regarded as heroes. Now we hear at every turn that "the media" is too liberal, too critical of the established order, and that this bias is reflected in news accounts, which are blamed for everything from the outcome of the Vietnam War to the firing of a sports coach.

There are many, myself included, in this business who would not only admit that the press has something of a liberal bias, but who would prefer to see it err in that direction than in the other. The bias comes not so much from a determined leftist activism as it does from individual motivations to enter a career and the backgrounds entailed in doing so, together with the requirements of the job.

While a large proportion of our readers are schooled or work in business or in technical fields, the vast majority of reporters have liberal arts educations of one form or another. The liberal bias, I believe, is far less severe on the pages of weekly community papers such as The Record than it is in the major national press and television news. Still, taking stock in our offices you'd find people with degrees reflecting majors and minors in English, history, political science, international relations, music, art, religion, education and philosophy. A survey of our readers, I wager, would show far more degrees in business administration, engineering, marketing, mathematics and sciences than would ever be found in a similarly-sized sampling of journalists.

Given those differences in expertise and points of view, it should surprise no one that when reporters falter in the quest for pure objectivity they more often fall to the side readers find "too liberal." It also shouldn't be any great revelation to discover that reporters, who are generalists, make honest mistakes when trying to cover the nitty-gritty of a specialist field. The result is something short of the full truth in the eyes of those deeply involved.

In fact, it is most often those deeply involved on one side of an issue who shout loudest that news accounts are not objective — they speak, of course, from a viewpoint that hardly recognizes objectivity. Ethical reporters (and the profession has others — just as there are quack doctors, ambulance-chasing lawyers, and similar hooligans in every field) are not writing biased stories for personal gain of the monetary or power-grabbing sense. They're doing the job, meeting the obligation of the press to perform a "watchdog" role in society. This often means calling for reforms, or change from the present way of doing things — which is pretty close to the political science 101 class definition of liberalism.

If we too often sound the alarm erroneously, there is cause for concern. But most of us would prefer to have it that way than to have no one shouting at all. Perhaps the distrust of the press results from an overzealousness in the post-Watergate years — like the little boy who cried "wolf" too often, we find ourselves ignored even when there is a real cause for the alarm.

For instance, I personally find Ralph Nader and his ilk untrustworthy and feel the auto industry gets a bad rap from so-called "consumer advocates." At the same time, I would prefer to have such folks around generating exaggerated, slanted coverage of such issues as the Pinto fuel tank design or X-car brakes than to have the criticism totally unreported, or versions of the story circulating to act as apologies for error.

In this light — intent on assuring that issues are raised for discussion — a press biased to the left is far more active and effective than one slanted to the right. Overly critical? Yes, at times. But that is the nature of the beast — even conservative journalists, whose writers are most fond of bewailing the liberal slant of the newspapers and television, produce more critical stories than laudatory ones.

That readers and viewers recognize a liberal bias is sufficient argument that the other side somehow gets its message through — else how would people know the press was slanted? Readers may reject the slant of a story, but the press has done its job if it holds the bias to a minimum, distributes the basic facts and provides a basis for debate.

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

Not many people realize it, but a newspaper editor frequently serves as a counselor to area residents, receiving calls from distraught citizens seeking assistance with their problems.

One such call came in last week. I could tell the woman was troubled by the tone of her voice, which quavered as she asked her wise and friendly local editor for advice on a domestic problem.

"It's my husband," she related. "I don't know what I'm going to do with him."

"What's the problem," I asked in a benign and understanding voice. "You can talk to me."

Her words came slowly. "Well," she stated, "you may remember him. I told you about him last summer. He's the guy who wears long-sleeved shirts in the middle of the summer no matter how hot it gets just so everyone will know he drives an air-conditioned car on his way to meetings with all kinds of important muckety-mucks."

Suddenly, it all came back. "Not that Bozo, again," I grimaced. "The guy who has his shirts monogrammed with ivory thread on the cuffs? What's he up to this time?"

"It's his Christmas list," she responded. "There's only one thing he wants for Christmas; it's some sort of super briefcase that's in the four-figure price range."

"A briefcase that costs more than $1,000?" I asked incredulously. "How can a briefcase cost more than $1,000? Does it come with a wet bar and television set, or what?"

"I think it has some sort of special imported leather," she replied.

"Imported from where?" I interrupted. "The moon?"

"I think it's important that you set this clown straight. And you ought to do it quickly," I continued. "Get him handkerchiefs — monogrammed with ivory thread, if you want; but don't get him that briefcase. That's the most ridiculous thing I've ever heard. You can't condone that type of behavior."

She thanked me profusely for the advice and hung up. I can only hope that I helped — there are some problems only an editor can handle.

Church women donate to local charities

To the Editor:
As Christmas time approaches, the physical needs of the community seem more pronounced. Church Women United of Northville and Novi feel privileged to be able to support three charitable organizations.

Thanks to Lynn Paquette and those who helped her conduct a successful September garage sale, the CWU had an excess of $150. Since the community helped make the sale a success, it was decided unanimously to return the money to the community. Donations of $50 each were given to Northville/Novi FISH, Northville Civic Concern and Novi Emergency Food Program.

Church Women United is a national movement through which Orthodox, Protestant and Catholic women express the ecumenical dimensions of their faith. Our chapter includes seven local churches.

Yearly CWU sponsors three ecumenical services for the community. The next service is World Day of Prayer scheduled for March 2, at the Novi Methodist Church. These services are interesting, inspiring and short. They provide an opportunity for all of us, through many, to gather together to praise our one true God. Join us.

Recognition needed for seniors program

To the Editor:
I think it is time for the Northville Senior Citizens to stand up and be counted. Their plight and their endeavors should be recognized; and (they should) be reimbursed for what they have been denied.

The Seniors had to give up a building and meeting place with complete furnishings, and start anew. Through the goodness of the Presbyterian Church, the Northville Seniors Club has a place to meet once a month.

However, they have to be self-supporting due to the fact that city funding was eliminated because of a limited budget. The Seniors still did not have adequate social facilities here in Northville. As a result, many that could drive or had other transportation took advantage of what other neighboring cities had to offer.

Thanks to the board of education, the area Seniors were provided an office and meeting rooms in the elementary school building. With this help from the school, along with the backing from the senior citizens' council, it has been possible to open a weekly activity center.

This is open to all Seniors, 55 and over, and has provided a needed incentive for a growing program. In the 27 weeks the center has been open, there has been a total attendance of over 700. To me this is a giant step in the right direction for our Seniors. It is hoped that in the near future additional facilities and activities would be made possible, along with needed transportation for Seniors, to these and other civic functions and services.

Bills seek to reform Detroit Water Board

By TIM RICHARD

Republicans in the Michigan legislature are pushing two different reform bills to give suburbs their own representation on the Detroit Water Board.

Their complaint is the same. In the words of Senator Richard Fessler (R-West Bloomfield), sponsor of the Senate bill:

"Currently, there are more than 100 communities in southeast Michigan who purchase their water and/or sewer would include a representative from each customer community. Each would have one vote per 10,000 population.

Detroit could nominate six persons and the assembly would pick three of them.

Fessler's bill, co-sponsored by Senator Doug Cruce (R-Troy), is similar to plans advocated during the 1970s by Representative John Bennett (D-Redford).

An aide to Cruce said the bill has been referred to the Senate Finance and Municipalities committee, chaired by Gary Corbin (D-Clio). "At the very least, we should get a hearing. It may be reported out," the aide said.

Law's bill is patterned after the act creating the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority. It would create a Southeastern Michigan Water Authority (SEMWA) to replace the Detroit Water Board.

It calls for a 15-member SEMWA board, one representative for every 300,000 population. In any city with 300,000 population, the mayor, with council consent, could select its own board members. In practice, only Detroit would pick its own members. Detroit would have four members.

Wayne County suburbs probably would have four seats, while Oakland would have three, Macomb would have two and Lapeer and Genesee would share two, under Law's formula.

Law's bill would assign no role in the selection process to either Wayne County Executive William Lucas or Oakland County Executive Daniel T. Murphy.

In Oakland County, the first water board member would be picked by the SEMCOG General Assembly from Oakland County residents — the same method by which SEMTA board members are picked.

The method is unpopular with Oakland commissioners, who would like to be able to appoint all three SEMTA board members. It also is disliked by Murphy who wants county executives to have appointing powers similar to those of the mayor of Detroit.

Suburban Wayne and Macomb members would be picked by their respective county boards. The two members representing Lapeer and Genesee would be picked by SEMCOG and Governor James Blanchard.

Law concedes his bill has a tough road ahead. Indeed, he may be unable even to get it into the hearing stage.

"It will be a couple years battle," said Law, a first-term lawmaker.

Fessler is more confident about his bill, despite the repeated setbacks of the past.

'It will be a couple (of) years battle.'

— Gerald H. Law
State Representative

service, and more than half the users reside outside Detroit.

"Yet the suburban users have virtually no input into the operation of the system or the rates charged for usage," Fessler said in a recent news conference.

Representative Gerald Law (R-Plymouth Township) says suburban customers of Detroit have "no confidence" in Detroit's rate setting procedure. "I won't say suburban representatives on the water board could lower rates, but at least suburbanites could have more confidence in them," he said.

At present, the Detroit Water Board has seven members — four from Detroit and three from suburban customer communities. All are appointed by the mayor of Detroit, and all are removable by the mayor at will.

The suburban representatives are there as a matter of Detroit policy. Neither state law nor the Detroit city charter requires suburban representation.

Fessler's Senate bill is a plan long pushed by Oakland County Drain Commissioner George Kuhn of West Bloomfield. It would set up a nine-member board — three from Detroit and six from the customer communities. This board would set water and sewerage rates.

The water board members would be elected from a new body called the "Metropolitan Water and Sewer Assembly." This single-purpose body Should Michigan's so-called "surrogate" mothers be considered criminals who engage in baby-selling or as kind-hearted women who make the ultimate sacrifice to help a desperate, infertile couple?

The emotional drama of that question was characterized by passionate debate on the floor of the Senate recently. Previous arguments had been heard in committee meetings and public hearings held around the state.

The debate focused on a controversial bill — Senate Bill 63 — which seeks to ban surrogate parenting arrangements outright and make the practice a crime. The bill passed in the Senate on a 21-12 vote. It now moves over to the state House, where it is expected to have an even rougher row to hoe.

The bill's sponsor explained that she introduced the legislation because she strongly believes it (the surrogate arrangement — ed.) puts the child outside the parameters of Michigan's carefully designed adoption laws, and turns babies into commodities that can be bought and sold. Since it is presently illegal for other natural ways to sell or give their children away, supporters contend that we must extend that same protection to the children of so-called "surrogate" mothers who are also, in fact, natural mothers. They say the complexity of this practice does not allow for regulations that anticipate all of its potential problems.

Most of those who oppose the bill would prefer to have surrogate arrangements remain legal, but regulate them through stringent laws that do not allow for profit. They cite the human needs of infertile couples who desperately desire to have a child. Because there is such a long waiting list for adoptive babies, many will never be able to exercise that ability. Regulating the practice, they contend, will be safer than sending surrogate arrangements "underground" where there is more potential for abuse.

A majority of the Senate, however, disagreed and approved the bill, which simply prohibits a couple from entering into a contract with a woman for the purpose of conceiving and bearing a child for them. Penalties under the bill are misdemeanor charges for a first offense and felony charges for repeated offenses. Both could bring about imprisonment, fines or both.

After the bill passed, an attempt was made to bring it back to the floor to reconsider the vote. The motion failed, but it brings to light the high degree of emotion and legislative ambivalence surrounding an issue like this one. The drama is sure to continue in the House, perhaps on an even greater scale.

Drug abuse center seeks fund

By SUSAN KAUPPILA

Nora Wilson believes this is a Thanksgiving she will never forget.

Two weeks ago Nora stood in front of the congregation of the Milford Presbyterian Church and asked her fellow members to pray.

"I needed their help. The Executive Board of the Palmer Drug Abuse Program of Southeast Michigan had set December 1 as the deadline to raise the remaining funds to bring counselors from Texas so we could begin helping young people with drug abuse problems.

"I asked them to add PDAP to their prayers, and let me tell you, things are beginning to happen," she exclaimed Friday.

That is how Wilson summed up her feelings when she learned that a local resident, Beverly Paisley pledged $5,000 from the Charles M. Bauervic Foundation to help PDAP reach its goal.

Paisley said Monday she had been watching PDAP for the past year and was impressed with the way area residents were supporting it.

"Everybody knows there is a drug problem. What's so scary is that you never know who will become involved," she said.

In addition to the $5,000 grant from her father's foundation, Paisley stated she would also give PDAP $5,000 to bring Dave Toma to speak in Huron Valley. An ex-cop, he is nationally known for increasing drug awareness in this country. He will appear in Brighton November 29-30.

Nora and her husband Dick, along with the Board of Trustees and other PDAP supporters, have been working hard to raise $91,700 for the first year's operating budget of the office at the Milford Presbyterian Church.

By Monday of this week, $6,197 is still needed. Of that amount, $2,325 has been pledged, leaving $3,872 to go.

"People have been marvelous. Anybody and everybody have been trying to help us reach our goal," Wilson related. "For example, there is a lady on Social Security who donates $5 each month out of her check.

"If the donations continue, we are seeking a January 21 opening," she said.

Although located in Milford, PDAP will serve a 50-mile radius of the village. According to Wilson, the program is a non-profit, para-professional, outpatient program to help teenager, adults and parents who lives have become unmanageable due to the effects of substance abuse.

Unlike many drug assistance programs, PDAP is free to all participants. It provides a positive peer group, welcomes all age groups from 12 years up, holds weekly meetings, activities, provides group support for family members and individual and group counseling to drug abusers.

The Wilsons became involved with PDAP when one of their sons was a drug abuser while a student in Huron Valley Schools. Unable to find help locally — both for themselves and for their teenager — the Wilsons sent their son to PDAP in Texas where he underwent counseling.

"We know what our youngster went through and how we couldn't find anyone to talk to," Dick Wilson explained. "We are committed to establishing such a program here."

Donations to PDAP may be sent to P.O. Box 460, Milford, Michigan 48042. Persons seeking additional information may call 624-PDAP.

Users tell their stories

"I have used pot, mescaline, LSD, acid, speed and cocaine. . . I wanted to escape, to block things out."

That is how 19-year-old Mike Brandon of Highland began his story of drug involvement.

"I got involved because my older brother and his friends were using pot. When he moved away, I was so alone and the only one at home. I got into the heavy stuff after he left," Mike recalled.

Today Mike isn't proud of his past. But he has been straight for over year and wants to tell his story in order to help others.

'It was peer pressure — I made my first buy at school. Soon I was popping pills — it made me feel good.'

Tim Driscoll drug user

Physically Mike still suffers from the effects of drugs. "I have short-term memory. I can remember things long ago, but I have a problem remembering things like a doctor's appointment that I made. You just forget."

"There are over 500 chemicals in pot. We don't even know what half of them are. One puff on a marijuana cigarette lasts 30 days in your brain. It burns out your brain cells," Mike related.

"The first time I got busted at Milford High School was when Mr. Lancaster, the assistant principal, caught me and another kid exchanging stuff. They (school officials) didn't find anything on me, even though I had a couple hits of acid, speed and two joints in my wallet."

"I ditched the stuff in the river on the way home. I was worried about going to jail," Mike said.

Although he promised his frantic mother that he would lay off drugs, he didn't. He went on to even harder stuff.

"One night I smoked some hashish and took a couple of hits of speed. I got a sharp pain in my chest and I was numbing out (arms and legs were numb). I was very scared and I had my dad take me to the hospital," Mike said.

"For some strange reason though, I told myself I couldn't stop using drugs, so I quit the hard stuff and just used pot," he went on.

But a year ago Mike wanted to make his family proud of him. He had also heard about an alternative education program for dropouts at Brooks Center run by former MHS teacher Lyman Jump.

"I decided to give it a try. It was a new start. . . it was a hard start. From Brooks, I got a job with Mr. Jump's help and I graduated last June," Mike related.

"I hope PDAP opens soon because I don't want kids to go through what I went through," he said.

Tim Driscoll, 23, began smoking pot when he was 13-years-old.

"It was peer pressure. . . I made my first buy at school. Soon I was popping pills. I also took speed, acid and every once in awhile I snorted coke."

"It made me feel good, and I could escape. I could be in a bad mood, pop a pill and feel good. When I took acid, it was fascinating to see all the colors," Tim said.

"I quit school at 17 because it wasn't the fun place to be. There was more going on outside of school that I was interested in. My whole attitude toward life changed. Nothing mattered except getting buzzed," he added.

Tim eventually experienced a bad trip and ended up in a hospital.

"My parents have been supportive in helping me get my act together. I have done a lot of things to hurt my parents which will take time to heal, he explained.

When Tim was traveling around the country and landed in Denver, he became involved with PDAP there.

"It was like a big family to me. There were people my own age trying to stay straight. I would like to become a PDAP counselor to help kids," Tim continued.

Low-cost storm windows boost growth of Novi business started two years ago

By TRISH COATES

Now that winter has arrived, it's time once again to think about energy bills. Heat Check Energy Projects in Novi offers one quick and relatively painless way to keep those ever-rising costs in line.

Heat Check manufactures "Heat Savers," inside storm windows which insulate and reduce heat loss.

"It's an inexpensive answer to a very expensive problem," said Nancy Bates, owner and manager of the company. "It's expensive to replace windows. This product is very cost-effective."

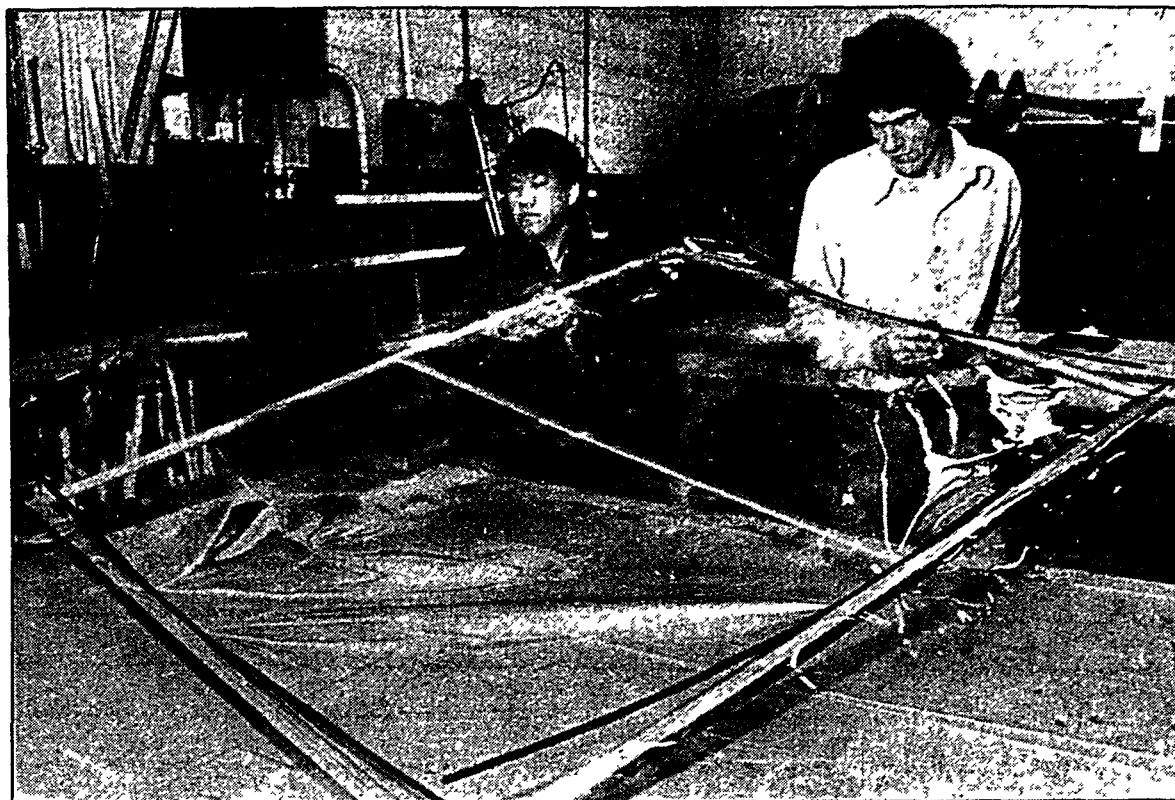

Each Heat Saver has a narrow aluminum frame. Glass is not used, but acrylic, which is stronger and has a higher resistance to heat loss. The insert is placed over the inside of the existing window. The bulb gasket weatherstrip forms a tight seal, eliminating drafts. The dead air trapped between the insert and the glass window acts as an insulator, reducing the heat loss.

The panels can be used in place of or in conjunction with storm windows. Vinyl handles and lightweight construction make them easy to install and remove.

Bates said the bulk of Heat Check's business is residential, but libraries, schools, banks and churches all have installed the panels successfully. Virtually any place with conventional windows can make use of the acrylic panels.

One customer, a Michigan National Bank branch in Sterling Heights, boasted a 37 percent drop in fuel bills after putting in the panels, Bates reported. The cost of the windows was amortized in six months.

Installation costs vary because each panel is custom made. The custom design ensures the tightest possible fit between the window frame and the elastomeric seal on the insert. A company representative measures each window and computes the cost. Total cost for an entire house could range from $400 to $1,400.

The panels qualify for the energy tax credit. "What that means to people who are eligible is a 15 percent tax credit up to $2,000," said Bates.

Bates said customers like the panels for several reasons, chief among them being the energy savings.

"The greatest source of heat loss is through windows," she said. "There is virtually no resistance to heat loss through a single pane of glass."

The panels also eliminate drafts. "When you stop cold drafts, you're more comfortable at lower temperatures," Bates explained. "For every one degree you lower it, it's three percent off your fuel bill."

Bates also cites a third benefit: "It stops the icy windows that people hate so much."

The company supplies a lot of inserts for door walls. "They're a major loss (of heat)," she said. "It's all that glass."

Senior citizens like the panels because they're light enough to lift in and out. People with central air-conditioning can leave them in year-round because the panels keep the hot, muggy air of summer out of the house.

Bates said she believes that it's not only important to sell, but also to serve. She is attempting to see that more is done in the area of consumer education about energy. Heat Check plans to sponsor energy management seminars to discuss ways to reduce fuel bills. The first, on November 17, featured Princeton Energy Partners, Inc.

One of the problems Bates confronts is that people are spending money paying huge energy bills at the same time faced with spending more money to buy a product to save energy. She said people often say they have storm windows or thermopane windows so they don't need anything else.

She disagrees, arguing that storm windows don't seal completely around the edges and thermopane seals break in time.

Heat Check consists of Bates, six sales representatives and three-to-four men building windows in the shop. The main office and manufacturing shop are in Novi with another office in Farmington Hills.

Bates started the company two years ago. The original plan called for her to manage it with her husband, but his work kept him too busy.

"I'm proud our company is here in Michigan, making Michigan products for Michigan people," she said. "It's kept money here and that's important."

Bates said she was mildly surprised by the success of the fledgling business. "I didn't think it would take off like it has," she said. "It grew faster than I thought it would."

It may surprise some people to see a woman managing a manufacturing firm, but it doesn't surprise Nancy Bates. "I've always been a rebel," she declared. "I refuse to be locked into roles."

Several Heat Check sales reps also are female. "I don't have any problem with thinking women are as good as men. I have two women who could sell most men under the table. I also have some very competent men."

"I do think they (women) have to be a lot sharper to get the same results, just to legitimize what they're doing."

Bates said she has faced some resistance from people in business because she's a woman. She cited one example where she called to request a bid on acrylic. "They sent it to my husband," she recalled.

Recently, a man called asking to speak to the manager. Bates responded that she was the manager. He then asked to speak to the person in charge. She said she was in charge. He asked several more times, each time phrasing the question differently. Each time he received the answer that Bates was the person he wanted to talk to. "He had a mental block," she said.

Bates had some advice for other women in business. "It's important to be competent to start with and to belong to professional organizations. It gives you new insights all the time."

She said the most serious problem facing women in business is being taken seriously. "It doesn't matter how professional I am if a person refuses to relate to me in a professional manner," she said.

Bates cautioned that women, more than men, need to balance their lives regarding roles and objectives. She stressed that making windows is not all there is in her life, but it is an important part of a whole.

"I play a lot of roles in my life," she said. "And as far as being the window tycoon of Michigan, I won't be. That's not my primary objective in life."

"I really feel good because I can manage a shop and that I have operated a business with integrity," she added. "I've given people jobs and that's good."

Bates' first business endeavor was instituting a nursery school program which focused on art, music and developing social and emotional skills. Her program, Artstart, helped children learn to deal with their fears and responses to problems, rather than learning the three R's.

After the school was running smoothly, she said, she needed to do other things. She first chaired a commission on aging, trying to install senior citizen housing in Farmington. She left the commission to direct a political campaign for city council. Then she directed educational programs for a mental health outpatient clinic.

Bates said her various projects have helped, not hindered, the development of her own three children. In fact, they've often been involved with them with her.

"I think our children took pride in the things we did," she said. "Certainly my husband was supportive. I'm glad I didn't have to expend energy fighting him."

Bates also is proud of her accomplishments with Heat Check. "It's a good product," she said. "It does the job. We don't have to trick people."

Business Briefs

MARGARET RAYMOND, manager of the South Lyon branch of First Federal Savings and Loan of Livingston County, officially retires December 2. The staff at the South Lyon office, 301 South Lafayette will be serving coffee, cookies and doughnuts all day Friday in her honor. Customers, friends and acquaintances are invited to stop in to congratulate Raymond and wish her happiness in retirement.

Raymond began as a teller with First Federal in August 1968, trained in the Howell office, and began work at the South Lyon branch when it opened at 134 East Lake in October 1968. She was named branch manager in 1973 and was appointed a First Federal assistant vice president December 31, 1975. The branch office was moved to its present location February 14, 1978.

Retirement plans for Raymond and her husband Don include enjoying travel, their cottage at Au Gres and visits with their children and grandchildren.

Holiday decor is a busy sideline for hairstylist

The workshop at Lou Lappa's home is filled with finished, half-finished and not-yet-started decorations for the holiday season.

Lappa, a hairstylist at the "Your Hair & Us" salon in Novi's West Oaks shopping center, is also a professional decorator. And his seasonal creations grace some of the finest homes and most prestigious institutions in the metropolitan area.

Many of Lappa's creations will be on display when "Your Hair and Us" hosts its grand opening and Christmas open house at its West Oaks location this Sunday, December 4, from noon to 6 p.m.

The salon is offering a 10 percent discount on his creations in conjunction with the celebration, and there also will be refreshments and door prizes.

Lappa, who holds a degree in horticulture from Michigan State University, worked for years with Dearborn's Harry Miller, whose company did seasonal decorations for the Ford Rotunda, the Dearborn City Club and other posh establishments in the Detroit-Deerborn area.

Gaining invaluable experience, Lappa helped decorate many of the offices of Ford plants for seasonal parties.

Interestingly, Lappa reports that he prefers to work with artificial Christmas trees and roping. "They last longer and appear fresh over a long period of time," he explained, noting that many of his decorations go up for Thanksgiving and last through New Year's Day.

"People who do a lot of entertaining are proud of their homes and want them to appear at their absolute best during the holiday season," he added.

Although decorating homes is a specialty, Lappa's arrangements may be as small as a tabletop basket, tastefully filled with greens, ornaments, ribbons, gilt bells, pinecones and papier mache figurines. Others may contain wooden objects, nuts, dried florals, gilt and colored ribbons.

No two are ever alike and all can be saved permanently, he said.

One of Lappa's current projects is making a mammoth Christmas wreath, some 40 inches in diameter, for a Detroit home. The wreath is being fashioned of green roping imported from Germany and will be placed over a mantle in a home with a cathedral ceiling.

Giving the appearance of pine boughs without the problem of drooping needles, the wreath is nestled with papier mache figures, hand-sized birds covered with real feathers, ribbons, glitter bells and realistic-looking pieces of imitation fruit.

"One of the nice things about it," said Lappa, "is that it can be re-used next year or re-vamped for an entirely different look."

Lappa said he believes a good artificial tree is a good investment for people who prefer fashion. "Real trees with traditional ornaments, tinsel and popcorn," he said, "are fine for families with small children. But for the young couple in its first home or the executive who entertains a lot, the popcorn look is not always best."

"The tree can often complement a room, picking up the points of decoration and adding a flair during the holidays," he continued.

"A room with blue carpeting, for example, may look best with a modern, artificial, blue tree with white flocking. It can be highlighted with some of the really beautiful ornaments being fashioned today — many of them works of art in their own right."

"A row of colored lights and a few plastic balls are not the only ornaments available today," he added.

Lappa's decorator for the holidays are only one of the features at the salon's open house this Sunday. Although a hairstyling salon, "Your Hair & Us" is also a designer gift shop. Paul Chmielewski, another stylist, has created some unique, avant-garde, stenciled T-shirts and sweatshirts which will be on display in addition to Lappa's creations.

Thanksgiving

To escape oppression the pilgrim: did flee.
To a new world across the deep sea.
For freedom in the new land was first on their mind.
Then meeting the Indians who were most unkind.
They planted their crops and hunted for game.
The Indians meanwhile were doing the same.
A meeting between them became the pilgrims' first aim
The Indians just refuse to play their game.
And then to their great dismay.
A meeting was planned one wonderful day.
A banquet was held, the two parties met.
To thank God for all their blessings and yet,
They had no name for the meeting that day.
But Thanksgiving, we know, is to give thanks and pray.

Ben Heltjan

November

November in this clime
It's Harvest time.
Poor big city kid,
Never saw peas in a pod —
Never saw a clod of rich brown soil
In a field.
Doesn't know how much shelled corn
One cob can yield!
Doesn't realize
Farmers feed the whole world wide.
God controls the weather,
So farmers must learn patience,
And learn to work together.
Rain and shine they must abide.
The farmer's wife
A real helpmate must be —
Not only can, and cook, and bake,
And feed the threshers free,
But also may help
Pick up potatoes, or later
Pick up potatoes,
Before it rains!
November is Harvest time after toil and pains,
As a thankful nation
To God we pray
On Thanksgiving Day.

"Good bye Little Bluebird"

Good bye little Bluebird
I know you can't stay,
The snow flakes are falling and you must fly away:

Fly away to the South Land where the bluebirds go,
away to that somewhere,
where the warm breezes blow.

I'll miss you in the morning
outside my window sill, and I'll miss you in the evening when all nature is still.

Good bye little Bluebird,
I wish I could go away where the sun shines, and the warm breezes blow,
away to that some where
out there in the blue.

Good bye little Bluebird
I'll be waiting for you.

Alta Lynch
(Grandma Appletree)

Tartan Plaid

Bright tartan plaid
Woven of scarlet and yellow,
Russet and gold —
The spirit of the Highland October;
A lustrous
Red cheeked and warm.

F. Al Hasenau

Carved Decoy

Oh, shaven pimpled game —
quenching salt water
without a neck,
to swallow.
She tames you for dinner
grinding her steel undull —
six oz. portions;
supposedly chicken,
flour gullible.

Margaret O'Brien

The Season's Greetings!

Christmas cards, both large and small
In hues of bright array
Still come in numbers that enthrall
With the same old words that say

"Merry Christmas! Happy New Year!"
The message is the same,
With a "Yo-Ho-Ho to one and all!"
Old Santa does proclaim.

It's not so much the message
Imprinted on the page;
It's the Spirit that's behind it
That we love, from age to age!

We are thankful for your greetings
And hope that you'll be blessed
With all the joys the season holds,
And a life you like the best!

From priesthood to author

Former priest weaves clerical tales in mystery novels

By B.J. MARTIN

It was easy to picture Bill Kienzle in the pulpit as Detroit's leading mystery writer recently addressed Northville Woman's Club members.

The author of five mystery novels featuring priest and sleuth Father Robert Koesler as the memorable fictional protagonist, Kienzle related anecdotes and observations like he was retelling proverbs and reading scripture.

The subject matter was much the same as in Kienzle's well-traveled 20 years in the priesthood. But the approach was somewhat different. For example, here are some quotes from Kienzle during his pre-tea sermon — er, talk:

On the church hierarchy:

"It used to be more fun being a bishop. Before, bishops did hardly anything. If the bishop wanted to read, someone would hold the book and turn pages for him, someone would hold a candle for him to read by... Now people just bring money."

On Roman Catholic ceremony:

"Depending on how moist your skin is when the priest makes the sign of the cross on your head Ash Wednesday, you might have a mark there for a week."

On the ability of clergy to err, too:

"A friend of mine was a chaplain at a girls school where there was a girl named Linda whom nobody could help but notice. Let's just say Linda had matured early. She was, you might say, stacked."

"Anyway, when giving communion he, like many of us, would often recite the person's name before the blessing. He'd say, 'Jane, the Body of Christ'... 'Cathy, the body of Christ'... only once, when Linda appeared before him, he said, 'Christ, the body of Linda.'"

"These things happen. Freud steps in and takes over."

Not exactly typical Sunday school fare. But Kienzle, is far from being a typically religious man, despite his conservative dress and demeanor and soothing baritone speaking voice.

"When someone picks up one of my books, they're going to learn something about the pressures of being a Catholic priest in the modern world."

William Kienzle

Kienzle began to stir public interest with "The Rosary Murders," his first novel after leaving the priesthood, which he wrote in 1975. A grisly gripper about a psychotic killer who leaves rosary beads twisted in his victims' fingers, the book is primarily based on the thoughts and deeds of Kienzle's entry in the pantheon of super-sleuths — Father Koesler, a Detroit priest and editor of the Detroit Catholic.

Father Koesler and the City of Detroit figure into all of Kienzle's subsequent books, in order: "Death Wears A Red Hat," "Mind Over Murder," "Assault With Intent," and his most recent, "The Shadow of Death."

"Kill And Tell," a mystery involving the high-pressure world of Detroit's auto industry, is due out next spring, and the prolific Kienzle is at work on another novel in which professional football players figure.

Throughout his books, Kienzle frequently refers to real Detroit area locales — St. John's Seminary, the Detroit News and Free Press buildings, Joe Muer's restaurant, Lafayette Towers and Sacred Heart Seminary, for example — and his attention to detail has an interesting effect on local readers, who actually know the places he writes about.

"I was born and raised in Michigan and I'm very proud of Detroit," he told the afternoon Woman's Club gathering.

"But the rest of the world thinks nobody really lives there. Once a reviewer chided me for telling him more about Detroit than he ever wanted to know. Now if you're writing about specific places in New York, well, that's different, critics seem to think."

"That's one reason I moved back to the Detroit area," added Kienzle, who has lived in Dallas, Minneapolis and Kalamazoo, in addition to the Motor City. "I was beginning to lose the sense of the city, with its so many new aspects. There are a lot of nuances I want to get. I tend to write rather lovingly of Detroit's future."

Now Kienzle lives in Southfield with his wife and editor Jane, a former copy editor for a Detroit daily newspaper. "I've found it extremely helpful to marry an editor," Kienzle told the audience. "Jane can tell me, 'people won't believe that,' or 'people won't know what you're talking about.'"

Despite his decision to leave the clergy in the mid-seventies, Kienzle retains an interest and an expertise in Catholicism, particularly as its clergy attempt to apply it to a confusing modern world. His books, he explains, are a way to introduce his readership to the subject painlessly.

After his 20-minute talk, Kienzle fielded some interesting questions from the audience. Asked which of his characters are based on real people, Kienzle quipped, "Is this a preliminary to a lawsuit?"

"Actually," he continued, "there are a couple of priests who aren't talking to me because I've used them as characters in my books. The newspaper characters I use are composites. The police, with a few exceptions, are imaginary."

Asked if there are any plans to film his books, Kienzle said a project to film "The Rosary Murders" had been brewing for several years. "They now have a first draft of the script, which I did not touch. I don't want anything to do with it," he said with a mock-shudder.

It appears he's retained his conservative morals after all.

Entertainment

The Northville Record

If an old fashioned Christmas complete with a sleigh ride, hot spiced cider, a holiday feast, carolers and a tour of decorated vintage homes sounds more appealing than a trip in the station wagon to your local shopping mall, the place to go is Greenfield Village.

For the past several years, Greenfield Village has been offering two after-hours programs for visitors who wish to step back into the Christmas celebrations of yesteryear.

The Yuletide Evening programs — available December 1-30 (excluding December 24 and 25) — are offered at both Heritage Hall and the Eagle Tavern. Though similar, the two programs offer a slightly different format.

This year's Heritage Hall Yuletide Evening will be held from 7:30-10 p.m. and includes cocktails, a winter-time dinner of Cornish Hen with Apple Stuffing, musical entertainment, a sleigh ride, walking tour through selected village homes and hot spiced cider at the end of the journey.

The Eagle Tavern Yuletide Evening, held from 6:30-9:30 p.m., begins with a sleigh ride followed by a traditional dinner of Alamo Beef with Sausage Stuffing, musical entertainment, a walking tour and hot spiced cider at the end of the evening.

While Heritage Hall provides a hearty meal in a festive setting, dining in the historic Eagle Tavern, once a stage coach stop and inn, adds a special touch to your historic holiday evening.

Formerly the Clinton Inn, the tavern was converted in 1982. Once a cafeteria for hungry village visitors, the conversion to the Eagle Tavern has brought a far different fare to the 1850s structure. Food and drink served at the tavern is prepared from recipes of more than a century ago.

Instead of tuna fish sandwiches and chips, village-goers now choose from a bill of fare consisting of baked pickler with lemon butter sauce, pork apple pie, roast beef with wine or horseradish sauce and the like.

The Yuletide dinner is accompanied by musical entertainment and followed by a lantern-lighted walking tour. The walking tour of selected village sites begins at the Elias Brown General Store, an 1854 country store featuring a host of mid-19th century goods and reproduction toys.

Following a visit to the country store, a guide will direct participants to the Wright Home, Cohen Millinery and the Henry Ford Birthplace.

At the Wright Home, visitors will tour the Dayton, Ohio urban home featuring a gas lighting system, gas heat radiators, a porcelain sink and an icebox. A Christmas of 1900, complete with a full size tree decorated with store bought ornaments and an old phonograph playing Christmas music, will be highlighted at the home of Orville and Wilbur Wright.

At the Cohen Millinery, visitors will get a glimpse of commercial life in the 19th century. The store, located in Detroit in the 1890s, offered a variety of ready-made hat styles to which the proprietor would add distinctive trims to suit individual tastes.

The Henry Ford Birthplace will feature a rural Christmas of the 1870s. The boyhood farmhouse of Henry Ford will be decorated with ornaments of natural materials and a simple tabletop tree trimmed with handmade flags reminiscent of the centennial.

The Museum Store in the village will be open for both programs. Visitors will find glassware, brass, books and other products, including items made by Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village artisans.

Reservations for the Yuletide Evening programs are accepted on a first-come, first served basis and should be made as early as possible. The programs cost $21.50 per person and full payment is required in advance for individuals and small groups. For more information, call 271-1620, extension 415.

In addition to its Yuletide Evening programs, Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum will be celebrating Christmas Past December 3-31.

Holiday visitors will have the opportunity to meet character portrayals of St. Nick of the Victorian era, joined by famous illustrator, cartoonist Thomas Nast. Clement Moore, author of "The Night Before Christmas," will be there, too, as well as Sarah Rorer, food editor of The Ladies Home Journal during the 1890s.

Special Yuletide foods, singers and performances on antique musical instruments will provide a festive atmosphere throughout the Henry Ford Museum great hall.

Historical buildings in Greenfield Village will be decorated for Christmas and guests will see preparations underway for the holidays that range in period from the 18th century through the early 1900s.

The Henry Ford Museum Theater will present holiday performances of "The Wizard of Oz." Performances are scheduled for 2 p.m. December 3, 10, 17 and 26-31.

A Greenfield CHRISTMAS

Eagle Tavern: Historical Dining

restaurant review

DIANE KOVACS

Looking for something unusual in the way of a dining experience? Then head out for the Eagle Tavern in Greenfield Village.

As you might expect, the folks at Greenfield Village have gone all out to research and recreate the attitudes, atmosphere and foods that were prevalent a century ago.

Originally located in Clinton, the Eagle Tavern was the first night's stop on the six-day stagecoach ride from Detroit to Chicago.

You can't get there by stagecoach anymore — unless, of course, you park your car and arrange for a ride at the admission gate to the village. But dining at the Eagle Tavern is an enjoyable, fun and different experience.

The curators obviously have done their work in making everything as authentic as possible. The servers are dressed in authentic period costumes and even the hostesses — Adaline and Isabella — bear the names of the hostesses who awaited the arrival of the stagecoach back in the 1850s when Calvin Woods was the innkeeper.

Before you sit down for dinner, you're invited to stop by the bar to clear your throat of the dust from the long ride. You can order one of the "temperance drinks" if you're so inclined, but you also can order ale, corn whiskey or an unusual sounding "cock-tail" named Stone Wall made with rum and cider.

The first thing that strikes you upon entering the dining room is that there are no individual tables. Each table seats eight, and on a busy day you may well be dining with strangers at either elbow.

The server explains that it's not really a problem. "Boarding house reach" is not allowed, she explains. "And besides, you get to meet new people."

The server also engages you in 1850s small talk. "How are the horses?" she asks. "Did they get bedded down in the stable?"

We also were cautioned not to "pinch" the salt, which is contained in what appears to be a sugar bowl. "Use the tip of your knife if you need salt for your food," she says.

Our party of two must have appeared somewhat

more reputable than other diners. "We trust you'll behave yourselves, and no cursing is allowed in the dining room," they were told.

The food, of course, is also what you would have found in a typical roadhouse of the 1850s. The "bill of fare" was simple, listing only three entrees — a la mode beef with wine sauce, roast turkey with stuffing and baked ham with applesauce.

Don't worry about anything coming from cans. Everything, including the applesauce, is made from scratch — just as it was a century ago.

Our meal began when the server brought a basket filled with soda biscuits, cranberry muffins and applebread along with currant jelly and sweet butter. The homemade quality is obvious. And, if you run out, they'll bring you more.

Next came the relishes — cabbage slaw, cranberry relish and pickled cucumbers, that were indeed something special.

The entrees, each of which costs just $6.25, were good, old-fashioned All-American eating. Both the roast turkey with dressing and the ham with applesauce were accompanied with mashed potatoes and carrots. Servings were large, and the food was tasty.

Each dessert costs $1.25 and the menu includes trifle, pumpkin pie and cranberry pudding in cranberry sauce. Having already had plenty to eat, my companion and I opted to split a serving of cranberry pudding. A touch bland, we thought, but unusual nevertheless.

Dishes of peanuts and raisins are served after dessert has been cleared away.

Except for the special Yuletide Evenings (see above), the Eagle Tavern is open only for lunch — daily from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. The food is good and natural, the servings are plentiful, but most of all dining at the Eagle Tavern is a lot of fun.

One word of advice: prepare yourself mentally (historically?) before you go — when the server asks if you got the horses bedded down alright, you can ask her if she's heard of that young politician from Illinois... "you know, the one who wears the stovepipe hat."

Eagle Tavern, Greenfield Village. Meals daily from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Liquor available. Visa, MasterCard, American Express. Call Greenfield Village at 271-1620, extension 418 for reservations.

MUSIC: FREE CHRISTMAS CONCERTS The Cultural Activities Program at Henry Ford Community College will present two free Christmas concerts in December. Harpsichord specialist Bernard Katz will perform at 12:10 p.m. December 13 in the Adray Auditorium of the MacKenzie Fine Arts Center. Katz, who performs for the Brunch with Bach series at the Detroit Institute of Arts, will play harpsichord and piano in the one and a half hour concert. The Pastiche Woodwind Quintet will give a concert at 12:10 p.m. December 15 at the Adray Auditorium. For more information, call 271-2750. "CEREMONY OF THE CAROLS" Benjamin Britten's "Ceremony of the Carols" with harp accompaniment by guest artist Liz Hainen will be presented by the Huron Valley Community Chorus at 4 p.m. December 4 at the Millford Methodist Church. Tickets are $2-5 at the door.

THEATRE: "A CHRISTMAS CAROL" The Charles Dickens' classic will open a four-week run at the Meadowbrook Theatre on the campus of Oakland University near Rochester on Thursday, December 1, at 8:30 p.m. 377-3300 for ticket information. "PETER PAN" The classic story of Never Never Land will be presented at Wayne State University's Bonstelle Theatre, starting December 2. 577-2960 for ticket information. "SCROOGE" The Harland Players will present the musical "Scrooge" at 8 p.m. December 15-17 and at 2 p.m. December 18 at Harland Music Hall. For tickets, call 632-5251. "A CHRISTMAS CAROL" The Northville High School Drama Club will present "A Christmas Carol" at 8 p.m. December 1-3. A 2 p.m. matinee will be held December 3. Tickets will be sold at the door.

FAMILY FARE: BREAKFAST WITH SANTA The Detroit Institute of Arts will offer a "Breakfast With Santa" now through December 23 in the Kresge Court cafe. Especially designed for families with preschoolers, breakfast will be offered from 9:45-11 a.m. Tuesday through Friday and will feature a "Wassail Waffle" and white milk at $2.50 for children under 12 and Danish and coffee at $1.75 for accompanying adults. Advanced reservations are required and can be made by calling the DIA ticket office at 832-2730. SANTA LUNCHEONS The Farmington Community Center will host its annual Santa Luncheons at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. December 2-4. This festive tradition includes lunch, entertainment and a special "Kids Only Boutique" hosted by the Farmington Hills Junior Womens Club. Santa will be on hand to listen to Christmas wishes and individual and family pictures with Santa will be taken for $2. Lunch is $3.50 per person and will be served by Santa's elves. Lunch menu includes pizza, juice, and Goodie Bags filled with special surprises. The "Kids Only Boutique" will be open from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. December 2-4 and will include inexpensive items to purchase for family, friends, teachers and pets. Prices will range from 25 cents to $2.50 and volunteers will be on hand to help shoppers. Advance reservations are required and should be made by calling 477-8404.

HOLIDAY ART: BBAH HOLIDAY SHOW Well-priced handcrafted gift items by over 100 artists will be featured at the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association's holiday show, Monday through Thursday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Friday and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. until December 10 at 1516 South Cranbrook Road, Birmingham. PLYMOUTH ARTS AND CRAFTS SHOW More than 75 different artists from throughout Michigan will be featured at the Plymouth Department of Parks and Recreation Christmas Arts and Crafts Show held from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. December 2 and 3 and 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. December 4 at the Plymouth Cultural Center, 525 Farmer Street. Admission is free.

HOLIDAY TOURS: A VICTORIAN CHRISTMAS AT MEADOWBROOK HALL Nearly 40 Detroit-area florists and exhibitors have donated their time and materials in decorating the historic 100-room mansion of Matilda Dodge Wilson for the annual Christmas tour. The 13th season for the annual Christmas Walk, this year's tour has as its theme "A Victorian Christmas at Meadowbrook Hall" in honor of the 100th anniversary of the birth of Mrs. Wilson. Tours will be conducted from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. now through December 11. In addition to the mansion, Knole Cottage, a six-room mini-mansion playhouse nestled in the woods near the hall, also will be decorated and open for tours. Santa Claus will be in residence in the playhouse all 12 days of the Walk. Admission for Hall tours is $5 weekdays, $6 Saturdays and Sundays. Adults over 64, students and children under 19 and Oakland University affiliates have reduced rates of $4 each. Knole Cottage tours are $1 all ages; Greenhouse tours are 50 cents all ages. Food service is available in the Carriage House and gift boutiques will be available in the Staff Quarters. Meadowbrook Hall is located on the east campus of Oakland University in Rochester. For information, call 377-3140. FARMINGTON HOLIDAY OPEN HOUSE The Farmington Community Center and Farmington Historical Museum — both early Farmington homes built during the Civil War — will host their annual Holiday Open Houses from 1-9 p.m. December 7.

Here are several activities which Paul Black, a member of the Novi Library Board, likes to do during December and the holiday season:

1. ATTEND A PERFORMANCE OF "THE MESSIAH" by George F. Handel. The Ann Arbor Choral Union has an outstanding presentation, but I usually go to the performance at the Fort Street Presbyterian Church in Detroit.
2. TAKE IN A WASSAIL FEAST. The Wassail Feast at the Detroit Institute of Arts is the best known, but it's also one of the toughest to obtain tickets for.
3. CUT OUR OWN CHRISTMAS TREE and have a tree-trimming party with friends. We have a large living room that will accommodate a 15-foot tree, so we usually head up to a place near Highland to chop our own.
4. SHOPPING AT TWELVE OAKS. Christmas shopping can be fun.
5. GO SKIING. I like both downhill and cross-country. I head for Mt. Brighton to hit the downhill slopes, while Maybury State Park and Kensington are good places for cross-country.

Mothers' Club parties slated Saturday

By JEAN DAY

Some 1,200 invitations went in the mail earlier this month for the annual Northville Mothers' Club and Life Member Christmas cocktail benefits traditionally held on the first Saturday in December.

This Saturday evening 10 homes in the community will be aglow, offering hospitality and informally ringing in the holiday season. Proceeds from the event fund school projects of the Mothers' Club and scholarships of the Life Member group, composed of women who had been in the Mothers' Club for 10 or more years.

The community-wide event has been a tradition since the first benefit was given in 1972. It was an idea of former resident Bonnie Rinehart, a past president of Mothers' Club. She brought it from Denver where it had been used successfully by a church group of her mother's. The parties are held in homes of members around town at approximately the same hour. Most this year begin at 6 p.m. Hors d'oeuvres are the same at each home and are made by club members.

Party hosts this year and their assistants are President Sue Anger and her husband Russ, at their Morgan Circle home, with H. G. and Lil Nelson, Ken and Nancy Rosselot, N.C. and Diane Schrader assisting; Ray and Roxanne Casterline with Roger and Carolyn Nieuwkoop, Gary and Barbara Sixt and Gordon and Carol Townsend; David and Kathi Jerome with Don and Barbara Willoughby and Diane Ramsey.

Other hosts are Patrick and Phyllis Kennedy with Bill and Judy Bartling, Wade and Sarah Deal, Mary Pohlod; Lynn and Carole Lower with Don and Glenda Buist, John and Sandra McRae and Ed and Nancy Perpich; Jim and Joan Roth with John and Connie Conder, JoAnn Kissel, John and Sharon Lineman; Bob and Joan Sellen with Rob and Joy Holloway, Mac and Carol Richardson and Van and Carol VanSoest.

Completing the list are Richard and Margie Sievert with Jim and Pat Kitchen, Charles and Nancy May, Bruce and Edie Pegrum; Alan and Judy Somershoe with Paul and Angie Baetz, Dave and Marge Longridge and Nat and Mary Whiteside.

Pat and Hal Wright are hosts for the Life Member group party assisted by Kalin and Phia Johnson and Herb and Jean Anne Weston. The Wrights also were hosts for one of the eight parties given in the first benefit in 1972. It raised about $1,200 for school projects with those attending paying $5 a couple. With inflation, this year's donation is $10.

Sherry parties are their tradition

If ever a time of year encourages traditions, it's the holiday season. Friends of English-born Anne Pyett and Canadian-born Mary Esther Fountain have come to anticipate their annual sherry party, held last week on Tuesday afternoon at the Donegal Court home of Mrs. Pyett.

Initially, the hostesses remember, they decided to give the sherry party every other year as a way of greeting friends during the holidays. Such parties were often given in Canada, Mrs. Fountain reported. They changed to every year because they themselves have enjoyed them so much, Ann Pyett related last week as they welcomed hosts of friends from 3 to 6 p.m.

Mill Race is decorated, ready for party

The annual open house-sale of the Mill Race Weavers' Guild held in conjunction with the merchants' Christmas Walk the Sunday before Thanksgiving provided impetus for decorating in the village. The large, evergreen wreath is in place on the steeple of the New School Church and Yerkes House has appropriate Victorian decorations.

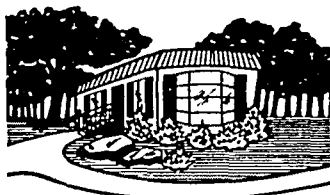

Annual Christmas party for Northville Historical Society members and their guests will be held in the Yerkes House Friday, December 9. Again this year Laura Hixson is chairperson for the party.

Woman's Club continues holiday tea tradition

As has become a traditon in Northville Woman's Club, new members will be honored at the Christmas tea to be held December 16 at 1:30 p.m. at First Presbyterian Church.

"Sounds of Christmas," a holiday music program, will be presented by Stacey Becker and Faith McClory.

LEARN HOW TO SAVE A LIFE!

As a community service, Botsford General Hospital will be offering a free training program for area citizens in cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR). The ultimate purpose is to enable citizens to perform CPR for heart attack victims until emergency medical personnel arrive. Certified instructors will teach the course.

The one-session, 3-hour "Heart Saver" course will be offered the first Thursday of each month at 7:00 P.M. in the Community Room of the Administration & Education Building directly to the East of the hospital.

To pre-register (required), please call the Department of Health Promotion and Development at 471-8091, on Monday through Friday from 9:00 A.M. to 5 P.M. Class size is limited, so please register early. Botsford General Hospital is located at 28050 Grand River Ave., Farmington Hills 48024 (North of Grand River, behind the Botsford Inn).

Wrestlers open season

Experience boosts mat hopes

By B.J. MARTIN

The holiday season may be our favorite time of year, but that's not the way it is for wrestlers. While we gorge ourselves on turkey and stuffing, the over-brawny lads who have to make their weight classes must shed every ounce of spare fat.

"The last couple of years since they've extended the football season, it's been a lot harder to get weights down," explained Gary Emerson, now at the 15-year milestone coaching the Mustang mat men. "We're going to be a little chunky for the first week or two."

The squad has a busy week ahead, opening its season at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow (Thursday) against Farmington, then traveling to the Belleville Invitational at 11 a.m. Saturday and to a quad meet at Detroit Country Day Tuesday.

Emerson made his pre-season analysis of his team's chances this season pretty early — in February, in fact. At the end of the '82-83 season, he said the '84 squad would be "a very interesting group. With 25 returning wrestlers, I don't foresee any holes in our lineup. We should be able to make a run at the WLAA title."

Emerson sounded a mite more cautious last week, but he was still enthusiastic. "Last year we lost six of our dual meets by one match, usually because one of our easier first-year guys would get pinned," he said. "This year, we're more solid up and down. We should be a decent dual team."

"As far as tournaments, I don't know if we'll have any really outstanding wrestlers, but we'll be better."

Emerson noted Plymouth Canton will be returning several league champions a pretty decent wrestler."

"Part of the problem is that some parents don't want their kids to wrestle because they think it's too rough. What's ironic is that wrestling is much more controlled than something like football, where you've got 22 people all coming at you with their hard stuff and a ref who might be 20 yards away."

"In wrestling, the refs are right up next to you and will enforce rules that are designed to prevent someone from being hurt before it happens. In football, someone gets his head ripped off, and they call a 15-yard penalty."

The lightest and heaviest classes will be two of the strongest for Northville. Senior Jim Assemany finished fourth in the WLAA at the league tournament last season, and will return at the 98-pound class this year.

Back at the top end of the scale is the 1983 division champion heavyweight, Brian Burgett. Burgett, whose weight fluctuates between 250 and 260 pounds, took second in the league at the tournament, and hopes are high for the senior to go all the way this time.

Among the noteworthy returning grapplers from last year's team is senior co-captain Ernie Bock (155), who was 17-17 overall last season, but finished fourth in the league. A knee injury and would be tough to overcome for a division championship, but noted the Chiefs "do have some holes to fill."

As Emerson predicted, there won't be any holes for Northville. All the weight classes are filled, almost all by returning varsity wrestlers.

"We don't have too many little guys," Emerson noted. "We'd like some more sophomores on the team, and we don't have 'em. That's really too bad, because it takes about a year to figure out the details, another year to learn how to apply them, and then you can be

It's time to get reacquainted with your phone bill.

When you go to your mail box and find your next phone bill, you'll notice it's changed in some ways. For example, there'll be more pages because the billing information will be more extensive and listed differently. These initial changes are the result of Michigan Bell's upcoming separation from AT&T on January 1, 1984.

We'd like to explain these changes. Probably the first and most important thing to understand is that after January 1, 1984, your Michigan Bell bill may include charges from Michigan Bell and AT&T or other long distance service companies, but you'll continue to pay the total bill to Michigan Bell.

Your billing information will be in three general categories:

Basic Service.

In the future, Michigan Bell will continue to provide and bill your basic telephone service, as well as your local and zone usage. Included in your monthly service could be Custom Calling, Touch-Tone® Service, or optional calling plan charges. Michigan Bell will also bill you for any directory assistance charges you incur.

Long Distance.

Your long distance calls will be separated between those provided by Michigan Bell and those that after January 1, 1984, are provided by other long distance carriers but may be billed by Michigan Bell. They will appear on separate pages.

Telephone Equipment Charges.

In the past, your telephone equipment charge was added into your charge for basic service. Now it will be itemized on a separate page. Ownership of the equipment Michigan Bell now provides you for a monthly fee will soon be transferred from Michigan Bell to AT&T.

Phone numbers will be listed on your bill to call if you have questions about your billing or service. And when you receive your new bill in December, a bill insert will clarify the various pages of the bill in much greater detail.

We want to do whatever we can to help you understand the changes that are taking place in your phone company. Please remember...

IT'S AT&T
WE'RE SEPARATING FROM...
NOT YOU.

Facts down the line. We suggest that you continue to watch your monthly telephone bills for any additional changes in the billing format, repair service or procedures for establishing or changing telephone service. Also, because your telephone business office is busily engaged in normal day-to-day telephone service matters, this toll-free number is a source for answers to your questions about your changing telephone company. 1 800 555-5000.

All-Area cage team serves up size, savvy

Break out the fine crystal and champagne — here's a toast to the 1983
Sliger-Livingston All-Area girls' basketball team.

The 10 players on the All-Area first and second teams are definitely the cream of the crop. Composed of players from Walled Lake Western, Walled Lake Central, Novi, Northville,
Lakeland, Milford, South Lyon and Whitmore Lake, 1983 proved to be a vi-tage year.

The five players selected for the first team by writers from The Novi-Walled Lake News, Milford Times, Northville
Record and South Lyon Herald are tall and talented as they had a combined average of 84 point and 60 rebounds per game.

Novi's SUE RASINSKE was the top scorer on the All-Area team. A 5-10 junior forward who averaged 20.8
points and 10.6 rebounds per game, Rasinske also was a first-team choice on last year's All-Area and All-Kensington Valley Conference teams.

"She is definitely one of the two best players in the league," said Novi coach Bill Ayotte. "Sue's done the job even when she was being double and triple teamed."

The tallest and one of the most talented players on the first team is VAL HALL, Walled Lake Western's 6-3 junior center. Hall has led the Warriors to a 21-1 record and a district championship this year.

"Val has improved immensely," said Western coach Tom Stitner. "She's a hard worker and has a super attitude;
she wants to learn. Val has only touched the tip of the iceberg as far as what she can do."

Hall has averaged 14.5 points, 13 rebounds, 4.5 assists and four blocked shots per game for the Warriors this year.

Named to the first team from Walled Lake Central is PATTY FITZGERALD, a 5-11 senior forward who averaged over 16 points per game and was the Vikings' top rebounder.

"She did a very good job for us, she was very consistent," said Central coach Ken Butler of his four-year starter.

TERESE SAULSKI of Lakeland was named to the All-Area first team despite missing the last eight games of the season with a knee injury. It is the third straight year that the 6-0 Saulski has been named to the All-Area first team.

"Terese was extremely important to us," said Lakeland coach George Heitsch. "She was our top scorer and an excellent rebounder. What was most beneficial was her court sense; she was very smart on the court." The Eagles were 9-3 with Saulski and 1-7 after her injury.

Saulski averaged 15.1 points, 14.3 rebounds, 3.5 steals and 2.5 blocked shots per game.

Rounding out the first team South
Lyon's PAM BAKER, the third player to be a repeat selection. Baker led the Lions to a second-place finish in the KVC with an 11-3 record (15-6 overall).

The 5-9 senior averaged 17.5 points and almost 12 rebounds per game.

A GREAT WAY TO SERVE

Ducker, Korowin among cage honorees

"She is a leader by example," explained South Lyon coach Ron Shanks. "Pam is very quick and has a very good vertical jump. To be a good rebounder you have to be quick and persistent, and she's both of those."

The All-Area second team doesn't have the impressive stats of the first team, but is a formidable group nonetheless.

The only senior on the second team is Central's SHERRY STROHS, a 5-7 guard-forward who averaged over 12 points per game and was the Vikings' top defensive player.

"She very unselfish," stated Butler. "You couldn't ask for a nicer person or a harder worker. Sherry is one of the most coachable kids I've ever had."

Three players from Milford (19-2) were named to the second-team.

Leading the Milford entries is DAWN HORNUNG, a 5-4 junior guard who averaged 9.1 points per game and already holds all the school records for assists at Milford.

"She's been on the varsity since the ninth grade," noted Milford coach Don Palmer. "Each year she becomes a more complete player. She's quick, a good ball-handler, a threat to score and the passing ability has always been there."

Milford's top scorer and rebounder in 1983 was JILL SHEFFLER, a 5-9 junior who averaged 10.9 points and 6.5 rebounds per game.

"Pound for pound and inch for inch, she's as good as anybody who plays the post position," asserted Palmer. "She's just five inches shorter."

The third Milford junior on the second team is CATHY GODIN, a 5-6 forward who averaged 8.3 points, 4.5 rebounds and led the team in assists.

"Cathy is very under-rated," said Palmer. "She's the type of kid I'd definitely be interested in if I were a college coach."

Completing the second unit is South Lyon's MARYFRAN PEETERLIN. The 5-10 junior was her team's second leading scorer and rebounder, averaging 8.0 points and 8.4 rebounds per contest, while leading the Lions in blocked shots.

"She's very quick. Next year I think she'll be one of the dominating players in the league," said Shanks.

Northville placed two players among the honorable mention selections, both of whom are expected to return to action for the Mustangs next year: freshman TRICIA DUCKER and junior KATHY KOROWIN.

MENTIONED MUSTANGS — Two players from the Northville Mustangs varsity basketball team were granted honorable mention All-Area status: freshman center/forward Tricia Ducker, left, and junior point guard Kathy Korowin, right. Ducker was the team's scoring and rebounding leader and was named to the All-Western Division WLAA team by league coaches. Korowin, the team leader on court, led the Mustangs in assists and was one of the squad's most improved players, according to Coach Rick Hurst.

Sports editors' selections for All-Area team honors

FIRST TEAM
Player	Height	Class	School
Patty Fitzgerald	6-0	Senior	Walled Lake Central
Valerie Hall	6-3	Junior	Walled Lake Western
Sue Rasinske	5-10	Junior	Novi
Pam Baker	5-9	Senior	South Lyon
Terese Saulski	6-0	Senior	Lakeland
SECOND TEAM
Sherry Strohs	5-7	Senior	Walled Lake Central
Cathy Godin	5-6	Junior	Milford
Dawn Hornung	5-4	Junior	Milford
MaryFran Peterlin	5-10	Junior	South Lyon
Jill Sheffler	5-9	Junior	Milford

HONORABLE MENTION

NORTHVILLE — TRICIA DUCKER and KATHY KOROWIN; Walled Lake Western — Sue Baglow, Carol Croll, Sheri Davis and Nancy Leach; Novi — Sherry Lawton and Peggy Wilson; Walled Lake Central — Aimee Frey; Lakeland — Cheryl Haslock and Ann Marie Noren; Whitmore Lake — Diane Drefts and Shelly Watson; Milford — Kelly O'Connor; and South Lyon — Carol Baaki.

Emerson predicts good mat season kept Bock inactive most of the fall, but he appears to be in good shape going into the season.

The other two co-captains back in action this season are senior John Letarte (132) and Joel Vogt. Letarte was 9-7 in varsity competition last season, losing to league champion Larry Jangica by decision in the WLAA meet.

Vogt wrestled to a 10-12 record in weight classes as high as 185 last year, but Emerson is hoping to use the fast, strong junior at 167 this season.

Senior Rob Wolfgram, 7-13 last season, is working down toward 105, while at the 112 class, a trio of young wrestlers is looking for action: juniors Don Graham and Dennis Nadeau, who spent time on both the varsity and JV last season, and sophomore Vince Pava.

Ken Kehoe, a sophomore, and junior Mike Bates (118 in '83) are vying for the 119-pound slot.

At 126, there are three candidates for the job: quick senior Norm Estigoy and juniors John Lazar and Pat Storm. Estigoy wrestled at 126 for the reserves last year, and posted a 3-1 record.

Senior Mike Davis (3-13 in '82) should fill the 138 slot. At 145, returning senior Mike Levit (4-11 in '82) will see action, as may junior Jay Anderson, who finished fifth out of 10 at the league meet last year.

Dino Candella, a junior, will wrestle at 185. Candella finished 4-11-1 last season.

At 198 is Don Unsworth, a junior who went 1-4 on the varsity last year.

"Of course, we'll move people up and down as the situation determines," Emerson said.

Contest winner

Novi's DAVE VIERS took home the $10 first prize in the final week of the Northville Record/Novi-Walled Lake News Football Contest, guessing the correct outcomes of all but two college and pro grid games listed last week.

RON BARNUM and HUTCH KERNS, both of Northville, also guessed all but two outcomes correctly. But Viers' guess of 48 points in the Tampa Bay-Houston tie-breaker was closer than Barnum's 38 and Kerns' 33. Barnum wins the $5 second prize and Kerns the $3 third.

SPORTS BRIEFS

SKI CLUB NEWS

A mandatory meeting for all Northville Recreation Ski Club members will take place tonight (Wednesday) at 5:15 p.m. A representative from Alpine Valley will attend and answer questions regarding the ski area. Also, club rules and regulations will be discussed.

The first ski club trip is scheduled for Friday. Buses will begin loading at 4:15 p.m. at the Community Recreation Center and leave at 4:45 p.m., weather permitting.

ADULT VOLLEYBALL MEETING

An organizational meeting for the winter season of adult co-ed volleyball is scheduled for 8 p.m. Monday at the Recreation Center.

EXTRAVAGANZA TICKETS

Some tickets are still available for the Schoolcraft College Extravaganza, a once-a-year fund raiser dinner dance for the school's athletic department. The dinner dance begins at 7 p.m., Friday, December 9, at the Plymouth Hilton. Featured will be a prime rib dinner, a champagne reception, prizes and the J.C. Heard band for dancing. Tickets subject to tax credits and deductions are available at $100 per couple. For more information, call the college at 591-6400, ext. 480.

REFEREE CLINIC

A clinic designed to educate those interested in refereeing or simply learning about paddleball and racquetball will be offered at Schoolcraft College's handball court facilities from 6:30-10 p.m. tomorrow (Thursday). For details and/or to register for the clinic, phone 591-6400, ext. 480.
