State abandons Sheldon prison proposal

By KEVIN WILSON

Opponents of a proposal to convert Plymouth Center for Human Development at Five Mile and Sheldon roads into a state prison won out last week when the governor's office abandoned the proposal.

The state instead will proceed with its original plan to construct a prototype regional prison at Five Mile and Beck. Governor James Blanchard announced February 16. He said he based the decision on a recommendations of the departments of corrections and management and budget.

"The governor's decision today climaxes five months of controversy since the state first announced its plans to take over the Plymouth Center property at Five Mile and Sheldon for a new medium security prison," stated representative Gerald Law (R-Plymouth Township).

The proposal to renovate Plymouth Center buildings for prison use was made last October but has since been stalled while the department of corrections made an environmental impact study. Meanwhile, local governments and homeowners associations made an intensive lobbying effort to stop the plan.

The state earlier had identified the Beck Road site, near the present Phoenix Correctional Institution, as the first location for construction of a multi-security regional prison. Roughly $1 million had been invested in site preparation.

But renovation of the Sheldon Road site would have saved $20 million in construction costs, the department of management and budget determined, and provided much-needed beds in the corrections system on a shorter time frame.

What had not been considered, Blanchard said in a statement released last week, was the potential cost to local governments.

"The economic impact information, which I requested, has shown that long-term loss of local tax dollars could have resulted from the conversion," Blanchard said. He referred to a report prepared by township staff and lobbyists Karoub & Associates submitted to the department of corrections late last month.

Primary opposition to the proposal to convert Plymouth Center came from Northville and Plymouth townships. Both stated that on-going developments in the region would be damaged if the prison was built at Sheldon Road.

In Northville Township, a senior citizens' housing complex long planned for the vacated Wayne County Child Development Center grounds northeast of the site would likely not be built if a prison were nearby, officials argued.

According to the economic impact report, the loss of tax revenue to governments from the township to state level would run $1.7 million per year. Even more revenue could be expected in the first two years, the report stated. The land is presently owned by Wayne County and is untaxed.

Similar expectations were stated in regard to an industrial park development on the southeast corner of Five Mile and Sheldon in Plymouth Township. That township estimated the loss in tax dollars due to failure of the park development at $1.6 million annually.

Both argued that planning for these major developments had been done in the expectation that the new prototype state prison would be built at Beck Road.

"We are very pleased that the governor is sensitive to the problems of the

Local reaction quiet

Reaction to the announcement last week that the state would abandon the proposed conversion of Plymouth Center for Human Development to a medium security prison was favorable but somewhat subdued.

Those involved in the fight against the proposal had been anticipating such an announcement at least since the Republican party gained a senate majority, stating repeatedly they were "optimistic" about the ultimate decision but somewhat wary of believing it until they saw it on paper.

"It's pretty much what we'd expected and hoped for," said Northville Township Supervisor John MacDonald. "A lot of people deserve credit and I, for one, would like to give the governor credit for making the proper decision."

MacDonald also singled out Senator Robert Geake (R-Northville), Representative Gerald Law (R-Plymouth), the Concerned Citizens committee and its lobbyist, Karoub & Associates, and township staff

Rea's license transfer approved

By KEVIN WILSON

Two city council members and the mayor switched their earlier votes on reconsideration of James Rea's application for a liquor license transfer, and council approved the transfer 4-1 Monday night.

Rea's license and dance permit will be relocated from the Winner's Circle Bar on West Main to a new restaurant he intends to open at 135 North Center. The transfer was approved by the state liquor control commission last year and required only city council's approval to take effect.

Mayor Paul Vernon and councilmembers G. Dewey Gardner and Paul Folino all voted in favor of the transfer after opposing it on October 10, 1983. Councilmember Carolann Ayers again favored the transfer — she was the only one to do so on the earlier vote.

Councilmember J. Burton DeRusha stood alone in opposition to the move, citing as his reason the protest lodged by the pastor and members of the Open Door Church, which is immediately adjacent to the new license location on the north.

Although the council vote followed a sometimes heated public hearing of more than one hour's duration attended by an estimated 75 people, there was little new testimony on either side of the issue.

The major difference between the current and previous discussions of the matter was the institution, last month, of an amendment to a city ordinance regulating the operation of establishments holding dance permits. Tighter restrictions were placed on hours of operation, and noise audible beyond the establishment walls was prohibited.

All three councilmembers who switched votes had explained their October opposition in terms of concern regarding the dance permit attached to Rea's license, his refusal to give it up in exchange for the transfer and the expectation that noise emitted from the establishment would create a nuisance on North Center.

Monday night, all three cited the more stringent regulations governing dance permits as a major factor in their upcoming votes.

Roughly half those attending the council session were members of the Open Door Church, many of whom addressed council with concerns similar to those stated in the October hearing — primarily the impact they perceived a liquor licensed establishment operated by the Winner's Circle owner would have on their church and school operations.

Vernon attempted to restrict testimony to "new information" and was moderately successful in that no church members read passages from scripture as they had done in the earlier session and there were few attempts to convey the church's opposition to the consumption of liquor on religious grounds.

Open Door pastor Mark Freer confined his comments to a repeated allegation that the issue had been dishonestly presented.

"We don't think things have been dealt with honestly," Freer said. "We don't think things have been above board. If it had been clearly presented in the first place, I don't think it would have turned out the way it did."

Freer cited confusion regarding the church's initial stand on the matter and said a liquor control commission investigator lied in regard to his contact with the church. He said Rea had been deceitful in his discussions with Freer and that he had been misquoted in the press to make it appear the church had changed its mind when it had not.

He argued that the main argument of transfer supporters, "that the Winner's Circle is a negative influence as it is and will become a positive influence when it moves to another location is kind of ridiculous."

"You can make something pretty on the outside," he continued, "but it's still what it is on the inside."

Aside from church members, the only

MacDonald makes bid for 35th District judge

Northville Township Supervisor John MacDonald has thrown his hat in the ring for what promises to be one of the most hotly contested races in this political year — that for the 35th District Court judgeship.

MacDonald filed nominating petitions in Lansing February 17. He said the petitions carried 400 signatures "of people from all the communities" in the court's jurisdiction (cities and townships of Northville and Plymouth, plus Canton Township). Requirements are for at least 166 valid signatures and candidates may submit no more than 36.

MacDonald said he will not seek reelection to the township board regardless of the results of his campaign for the bench. "I believe it's fair to file early and let people know your intentions," he said. Deadline for filing petitions is June 5.

The 35th District court judge's seat coming up for election this year is the one presently occupied by Judge Dunbar Davis, who is retiring. The new court building opened just over a year ago bears Davis' name.

MacDonald was the first to file nominating petitions for the judgeship — in fact, the first non-incumbent to file for a judge's seat in the state — but the list of possible candidates for the 35th District Court is huge. Virtually every politically-active attorney in western Wayne County has been rumored to be interested.

Dad 'n' Daughters

Eli Frankel found not just one date, but two for the "Daddy-Daughter Valentine Dance" at the Northville Community Center last Friday night. Accompanying their proud pop through a square dance are Amy Beth, age five, and Sarah, age three. More than 30 "couples" attended the Recreation Department's gala event, sampling punch and goodies in between promenades about the dance floor. More photos on page 3-A. Record photo by Steve Fecht.

Schools face money woes as election nears

By MICHELE McELMURRY

When the Blue Ribbon School Finance Committee presented its 9.5 mill recommendation to the board of education February 13, chairperson Richard Ambler stressed the committee's decision to propose a 7 mill renewal with an additional 2.5 mills was anything but "arbitrary."

The seven-member committee, brought together in January, was charged with studying the school district's finances and recommending a millage proposal for the district's upcoming April election.

Members of the committee included management consultant Richard Ambler; J. Patrick McCormick, director of Forward Program Management; Harriet Sawyer, an educator and state president of the American Association of University Women; G. Dewey Gardner, local businessman and Northville City Council member; James Armstrong, a manufacturer's representative and Northville Township trustee; Lee Holland, accountant and N.C. Schrader, local businessman.

In their study of the district's finances, each committee member was supplied with some 30 documents to assist them in examining the current and future needs of Northville Public Schools.

The material provided to the committee included a wealth of information in areas such as finance, enrollments, test data, inter-district comparisons and projections.

The compilation of these documents — perhaps one of the most inclusive packages amassed by the district — provided the committee with a comprehensive overview of the district's financial operations. (The documents provided to the committee are available to interested residents in the Superintendent's Office at the Board of Education building, 501 West Main.)

Based on its study of the district's finances, the committee told the board an additional 3.75 mills would be needed (in addition to the 7 renewed mills) to fund existing programs and provide "desirable" reserves.

However, with the wounds still healing from the 9.5 mill renewal defeat in April, 1981, and an anti-tax climate prevailing throughout the state, the committee recommended the school board go for 2.5 additional mills for two years in its April 9 election — 1.25 or $375,000 below the desired funding.

The 2.5 additional mills proposed by the committee would bring an additional $700,000 to the district. However, should Northville voters approve the additional millage in April, the district still will need to cut corners in order to compensate for a $1 million shortfall projected for the coming school year.

The committee concluded that should voters approve the 9.5 mill levy in April, the district will be operating with virtually no reserves. Though programs will remain intact, it will be up to the board and administration to build back the needed reserves.

Noting that most school districts keep approximately five percent of their budget in reserve (to pay for unexpected costs), the committee expressed

Salaries are top budget item for schools

In January, 1982, the Northville Board of Education and the Northville Education Association signed a three-year contract extension.

The three-year contract, which will expire in June, 1985, provided a 6.08 percent salary increase to teachers in the 1982-83 school year.

However, for the 1983-84 and 1984-85 school years, a formula was developed to maintain salary schedule rank for Northville teachers at a level comparable to 17 other school districts. In keeping with other school district salary adjustments, Northville teacher salaries ranked eighth highest (of the 17 other districts) in 1982-83, ninth highest this year and will rank 10th in 1984-85.

Data provided by the Metropolitan Detroit Bureau of School Studies indicated that of 28 school districts reporting statistics, Northville ranked 12th highest in percentage increase during the 1982-83 school year and 18th in actual amount. Average salary for Northville teachers in 1982-83 was $29,970.

In comparison with the 17 districts used to determine teacher salaries, Northville currently ranks ninth highest in teacher salaries at the master's degree-maximum level at a rate of $33,406 per teacher. (To be at the maximum level teachers must have a master's degree and at least 10 years of teaching experience.)

The Blue Ribbon Finance Committee told the board of education that approximately 80 percent of the teachers in the Northville school district have a master's degree and are at the maximum step on the salary schedule.

Since 1980-81, teacher salaries have increased 21.4 percent at all levels. Minimum salary for a teacher with a bachelor's degree has increased from $13,351 in 1980-81 to $16,210 in 1983-84. Maximum salary for a teacher with a bachelor's currently is $28,113.

Minimum salary for teachers at the master's degree level is $17,854 with maximum salary at $33,406.

At the administrative level, the superintendent's salary has increased approximately 10 percent over the last four years from $46,787 to $51,500.

Salaries for the two assistant superintendents have increased 12.44 percent from $40,635 to $45,688. A director's salary at the administrative level currently is $39,611 — up 8.72 percent since 1980.

Salaries for all principals have increased 12.41 percent since 1980-81 with elementary principals earning $37,315, junior high principals earning $39,854 and the high school principal making $41,913.

The 17 districts with which Northville is compared range from Dearborn Heights, Southfield, Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills (mostly larger than Northville) to Walled Lake, Clarenceville and South Lyon.

Wages also have increased for custodial/maintenance employees, bus drivers and secretaries.

In addition to salaries and fringe benefits, other fixed costs to the district include utilities, energy and supplies.

Energy and utility costs alone have increased 45 percent in the district since 1980.

Total utility costs including electricity, gas, telephone and water totaled $598,208 in 1980-81 and $870,320 in 1983-84 — an increase of $272,112 in three years.

In addition, approximately $320,000 was spent in 1983-84 to upgrade the K-12 programs. Additional program costs in 1983-84 included 1.2 teachers for the study skills lab at the high school, 2.2 additional teachers for the required sixth hour, additional teacher hours for the North Central Evaluation work, lunchroom supervisors, fringe benefit costs for the adult education liaison and a part time teacher for elementary music.

While a hefty fund equity helped the district maintain programs over the past two years, funds have not been available to restore services deleted from the district due to money woes.

In 1980, the district decreased its library staff from two librarians to one at the elementary and junior high school levels and from two to 1.5 at the high school level. The work year for librarians also was reduced by five days.

The eight-hour work day for library aides was reduced to six and aides work only on days when students are in session. The library supplies and books budget also has been reduced by $1,000.

In counseling, one counselor was dropped from the junior highs and high school and the work years reduced by five days.

Students field trips and use of buses have been reduced by 50 percent and $10,000 has been cut out of the extra-curricular budget.

Financial future bleak for schools

concern over Northville's dwindling fund equity.

In its report, the committee pointed out that the district's fund equity has dropped from a year end balance of $1,459,211 in June, 1982, to a projected year end deficit of $737,751 for June, 1985.

According to data provided to the committee, the decrease in fund equity traces back to the 1981 millage renewal defeat.

While voters approved a reduced 7-mill renewal in July, 1981, the loss of 2.5 mills or approximately $700,000 in revenue left the district to either cut programs or dip into its reserves.

Over the past two years, the board of education has avoided slashing programs by using its more than $1 million fund equity.

During the 1982-83 school year, the board went so far as to levy one less mill (31.9) for the district due to a fund equity of more than five percent of its budget. Maximum authorized millage in the district is 32.9.

However, while the district may have been in a position to levy less millage in 1982-83, this school year's 4.4 percent ($439,000) decline in State Equalized Valuation (SEV) coupled with increased costs forced the board of education not only to levy the maximum millage but dip even deeper into its fund equity.

The committee noted that at the present 32.9 mill levy, the district can project an approximate $700,000 fund balance deficit by the end of the 1985 school year.

General fund projections provided by the administration showed that an additional 2.5 mills would help alleviate the deficit reserve, however, to restore the fund equity to a "desirable" level, an increase in the district's SEV also will be necessary.

Assuming expenditures increase five percent each year through June, 1987, the administration projected that with a levy of 35.4 operating mills, an SEV increase of five percent would be needed over the next three years to bring the fund balance to $58,000 at the conclusion of the 1987 school year. Should the SEV increase only one percent, the fund balance deficit would total more than $2.6 million by the end of the 1987 school year.

As an out-of-formula district, Northville does not receive state aid for instruction through the state aid formula. In fact, over the last three years state funding for Northville Public Schools has decreased almost 90 percent. In 1980-81, approximately 7.8 percent or $745,000 of the school district's budget was funded by the state. This year, less than one percent or $93,950 was financed by the state.

With virtually no state funding, the financial burden of financing schools falls on the shoulders of the local taxpayers. Approximately 95 percent of this year's operating budget was funded by local millage.

The Blue Ribbon Committee told the board that should voters approve a 2.5 mill increase in April, more than 65 percent of the district's taxpayers will realize only a one mill increase due to Michigan's Homestead Property Tax.

The state allows a deduction on the state income tax of 60 percent of the property tax for those residents who qualify — which amounts to a 1.5 mill credit.

Compared with the 36 school districts in Wayne County, Northville ranks 23rd in operating mills. The total amount of dollars produced per mill varies from district to district based on the total SEV of the district. In Northville, one mill equals $301,000.

In an outline of the budget factors from the 1980-81 school year to 1983-84, the committee found that total school district expenses increased 20 percent. However, it was noted that the increase was only a fraction less than the Consumer Price Index for the same period which rose 20.5 percent. The CPI for Detroit area urban wage earners and clerical workers in July 1980 was 252.1. The CPI for July 1983 was 303.8.

It was noted that the district's revenues from all sources (local, state, intermediate, etc.) had increased 10 percent since the 1980-81 school year with salaries up 18 percent, fringe benefits up 31 percent and purchased services up 29 percent.

However, enrollment in the district has decreased approximately 10.6 percent over the last three years.

State returns to original prison plan

Northville-Plymouth area and has seen fit to honor a commitment made by the previous administration to restrict the site to the southwestern corner of the township," said State Senator R. Robert Geake (R-Northville).

The governor called the decision to return to the original plan "a responsible course of action" and took note of the issues raised locally.

"I am particularly heartened by the recognition of concerns raised by local citizens," he said. "This action balances the urgent need to expand our prison capacity with the legitimate, but competing, interest in local development projects that increase the community's tax base."

A spokesperson in the governor's office said it was crucial to make a decision soon if the Plymouth Center plan was to be abandoned.

"One of the issues was to get it done as quickly as possible," said Greg Morris of the governor's staff. "The need for beds in the corrections system is acute. There was clearly an issue for the state in times of time and dollar savings, but after analysis getting input from the community, the decision was that we're going back to the original construction plan."

Morris said present expectations are to start building the Beck Road prison "this construction season. That's why, if the decision was not to convert Plymouth Center, it had to be done very soon."

The regional prison construction cost is estimated at $35.8 million and the legislature has already appropriated $16 million for this year. Construction is to be done over two years.

Geake and Law, together with Karoub & Associates (under contract to an ad hoc citizens committee formed by the Northville Township Homeowners Association) led the legislative opposition to the plan.

Timing of the governor's decision was probably influenced, in part, by the recent Republican assumption of a majority in the state senate. Geake gained several key appointments including a seat on the appropriations subcommittee on corrections. He was also named to the joint house-senate capital outlay committee. The latter must approve state spending on buildings and would have considered the conversion plan sometime within the next few months had the administration not abandoned it.

But legislators and others involved stressed that the debate over the prison location was not purely a matter of party affiliation. Law noted that several key Democrats appeared to side with the local opposition and that, had the administration gone forward with the plan, it likely would have been defeated.

Subdued reaction locally

members who prepared the economic impact statement cited in the governor's announcement.

Kitty Rhoades, who headed the Concerned Citizens of Western Wayne Committee with Blake Northrop, agreed that the announcement seemed anticlimactic last week, but added, "Of course, we're delighted — it's been a long battle."

She noted that it also has been an expensive one with the committee spending about $20,000.

"Our Contract (with lobbyist firm of Karoub & Associates) runs until March 31 with the township committed at that time.

"If any extra funds are unused at that time, after holding onto them until we're sure it's going as anticipated, they will go to senior citizens. If the senior citizens' village is at a stage worth putting money into, they will go there, or otherwise to some other constructive use (for seniors)."

Rhoades, who said she received word of the decision via a telephone call from Karoub's office, added, "It's nice to know the little guy can still be heard."

City settles with clerks

City council Monday night ratified a new agreement with the Northville Clerical Employees Association, which represented a dozen clerical employees.

Like all city employee bargaining units, the clerical workers agreed to a 1983-84 contract calling for no change in wage rates from the previous year.

In exchange, the workers won two additional paid vacation days, a $50 annual clothing cleaning allowance and the addition of brother-in-law and sister-in-law to the immediate family definition for bereavement leave.

The major change in the contract revolves around the reorganization of clerical positions. The controller position (Betty Lennox) has been removed from the bargaining unit and reclassified as a supervisory employee.

The tax department will be merged with the finance department for work organization and supervision. The building department will move into the clerk's office on retirement of Phyllis Bell at month's end; the clerk IV building clerk position will be eliminated and a clerk III position (lower on the wage scale) added in the city clerk's office.

City manager Steven Walters reported to council that the reorganization will allow the city to reduce total clerical costs over the next several years without the layoff previously expected.

Council members noted again the dedication and understanding of city employees who have accepted the wage freeze dictated by the city's deficit of more than $400,000.

This couple wasn't cutting any rugs at the "Daddy-Daughter Valentine Dance" last Friday. You see, 6-year-old Courtney Hamilton is hiding a cast for her broken leg underneath her right leg-warmer. # Billy Smiley up for Grammy award

By SUE LOWE

Billy Smiley, son of Weldon and Evelyn Smiley of Milford, is impatiently awaiting the results of the Grammy Awards this year.

His interest stems from the fact that he has been nominated for two awards under the gospel music category of Best Gospel Performance by a Duo or Group.

Smiley produced an album for the Galtier Music Band entitled "Passing the Faith Along," and co-produced and performed an album by White Heart entitled "White Heart." Both entries have been nominated.

The Grammy Awards are the most prestigious awards in the world of music, comparable to the Academy Awards in the field of motion pictures. Gospel music has only recently been added to the list of categories.

CBS will televise the Grammys at 8 p.m., February 28, from the Shrine Auditorium in Los Angeles. John Denver will make his fifth appearance as host.

Besides his Grammy entries, Smiley has also been nominated for Dove Awards, the gospel music industry's award for Christian artists.

Smiley is co-author with Bob Farrell of "Because of Who You Are," an entry for Song of the Year. The two albums, White Heart and the Galtier Vocal Band, have also been nominated in the category of Best Performance by a Group.

The Dove Award ceremony will be held March 8 in Nashville, Tennessee.

Smiley is a 1980 graduate of Azusa Pacific College in Azusa, California, with a degree in music theory.

He performed with the Bill Galtier Trio on tour and now plays the keyboards and guitar with White Heart, a contemporary Christian group of six men who tour and also record on the Word label.

He is employed by the Paragon-Benson Publishing Group in Nashville, producers of contemporary songs for gospel artists.

Smiley says that even when he was in high school in Northville, he knew he wanted to use his musical talents in a Christian way.

"I have no thought of going into secular music," Smiley says. "I have written some pop things, but I just don't have the desire to pursue that avenue."

Smiley recalls singing as a child with his sisters Laurie and Sharon. The Smiley Trio, accompanied by their mother, Evelyn Smiley, sang for church functions. Today, Evelyn is the organist for the Milford United Methodist Church.

According to Evelyn, 60 different artists have recorded her son's songs. These include the Imperials (their recording of "Because of Who You Are" rose to eighth on the gospel music charts), Pat Boone, Sandi Patti, Larnell Harris and Gary McSpadden.

Smiley has written or been associated with such single hits as "Starting Now," "Because of Who You Are," and "All Because You Love Me."

Presbyterian Church series

Adult classes focus on social issues, relations

A second series of four Sunday morning adult Christian education courses is announced by Northville First Presbyterian Church.

Open to all interested, the courses begin March 4 and run on Sunday mornings through April 15.

"Do You Really Hear What I Am Saying?" and "Koffee with Ken (The Reverend Kenneth W. Elmer, M. Division, interim assistant pastor)" will be presented at 9:30 a.m.

At 11 a.m. there will be a choice of "Contemplation in a World of Action" or "Contemporary Social Issue Seminar: Crime and Corrections." Registration fee for each is $15 a person.

"Do You Really Hear What I Am Saying?" will be taught by Dr. J. Harold Ellens, Ph.D., an author, lecturer, therapist, pastoral care consultant for the Presbytery of Detroit.

The series will cover break-downs in communication in both the world of business and at home which lead to needless misrepresentations and misunderstandings.

This seven-week seminar is designed to help people improve their interpersonal skills in listening and in interpretation. Communication theory and theological applications to skilled dialogue will be part of this course. Special emphasis is being placed on communication issues between men and women.

"Koffee with Ken" will include a study of the parables of Jesus led by the Reverend Elmer. He notes they "mark a very special and significant part of our Saviour's ministry."

"Through the telling of down-to-earth stories, He helped people see themselves more clearly and brought them to a new awareness of the Kingdom of God." This is a hands-on, discussion-oriented seminar in which participants will receive an overview of the parables, an in-depth study of the Parable of the Prodigal Son, and a new method for studying the Bible.

"Contemplation in a World of Action" will be taught by Sr. Elizabeth Pickens, S.J., and Sr. Ann Chester, I.H.M.

In both Protestant and Roman Catholic churches, seminar sponsors report, there has been a renewed interest in understanding and experiencing a deeper sense of spirituality. Realizing that a busy way of living is not bringing the fulfillment for which they seek, people, they explain, are drawing upon their inner resources for more centered living and greater intimacy with God.

This class is set up as an introduction to the process of spirituality. Sample themes include a definition and brief history of spirituality, trends in our society that have led us to this crossroad, practical exercises in prayer and meditation and how to use effectively a personal journal.

Sr. Pickens is an assistant professor of spiritual formation at St. John's Seminary. Sr. Chester, a former professor of English at Marygrove College, now is involved in leading ecumenical, spiritual-directed retreats. Her retreat center is located in Monroe.

"Contemporary Social Issue Seminar:

Crime and Corrections" will be taught by guest speakers.

It is to focus on "an important aspect of Christian witness — response to the critical social issues of our time." It cites crime and corrections as one of those issues in our nation.

Given the New Testament directives to remember and visit those who are in prison, guest speakers will come to the church to speak on the following topics:

The historical role of the church in incarceration and rehabilitation;
A multi-security prison for Northville?

The role of industry in prisons;
The role of the contemporary church in prisons;

The world of the prisoner;
Post-incarceration problems for ex-offenders;

Open forum.
It is announced that this seminar can be used to continue conversations on how main-line Protestant churches can better meet the needs of those who are imprisoned.

Schoolcraft Wind Ensemble to play Sunday

The Schoolcraft College Wind Ensemble will present a winter concert at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at the Marquis Theater downtown. In addition to a program by the wind ensemble, featured performances will be given by the Schoolcraft College Jazz Band and by a French horn quartet.

The ensemble program will include Jacques Offenbach's "La Belle Helene," and "Do Not Go Gentle Into That Good Night" by Elliot Del Borgo.

The quartet is conducted by Victor Markovich and consists of 50 musicians from different communities and different professions. The ensemble rehearses weekly at the college and performs throughout the area. Last summer the ensemble was a regular feature of the Livonia "Music Under the Stars" series.

Guest conductor Jack Kopnick also will direct the march "Under the Double Eagle," by J.F. Wagner. Kopnick is a bass clarinetist in the ensemble and director of music at Allen Park High School.

Featured at the concert will be "Cornucopia," a French horn quartet composed of local area musicians, including Kathy Hildebrandt of Northville.

The Schoolcraft College Jazz Band will perform contemporary and traditional jazz under the direction of Michael Grace, a teacher of jazz theory and jazz laboratory bands at Community High School in Ann Arbor. Both of the college organizations are open to musicians of all ages who wish to audition for membership.

General admission tickets are $4, and student and senior citizen tickets $3. Tickets will be available at the door. For further information, phone 591-6400, ext. 510.

Obituaries

Ray Noder, retired jeweler, dies at 76

Northville jeweler H. Ray Noder, who retired from the business he had operated here for 19 years in March, 1981, to "do some fishing," died February 17 at Garden City Osteopathic Hospital.

He was 76.

In 1979, when he was over 70 and still running his business at Main and Center streets, Mr. Noder recalled how he had fled from his father's farm in Edgetts, Michigan, and eventually worked for his room and board to learn the jewelry business from a friend in Big Rapids.

He did not plan to retire then, but health problems changed his mind 18 months later and he sold the business, "to do some fishing as soon as the weather permits and if the doctor lets me."

His first store was in Ewart. He later opened another in Adrian and in River Rouge and worked in stores in Wyandotte, Flint and Detroit before starting in business in Northville. In spite of burglars and vandals at times, he said on retiring, "The best years of my life have been in Northville."

He was born October 6, 1907, in Reed City to Christopher and Flora (Russell) Noder. He married Coralie Cox, a school teacher, who survives.

He also leaves a son Kenneth and daughter Patricia Vickery, both in Colorado; a brother Eldred of Saginaw; sisters Faye Noder of Reed City and Gladys Elkert of Big Rapids; three grandchildren Doug, Pam and Carrie and four great-grandchildren.

He was a member of Kiwanis, Free and Accepted Masons and Order of Eastern Star in Lincoln Park No. 47.

Funeral service was at 7 p.m. Monday at Casterline Funeral Home with the Reverend Richard Griffith of Novi United Methodist Church officiating. Burial was in Forest Hill Cemetery in Ewart.

DEMETRA A. BIEGERT

Memorial services for Demetra A. Biegert of 224 Lake Street were at 10 a.m. February 18 in Casterline Funeral Home, the Reverend Richard Griffith of Novi United Methodist church presiding.

Mrs. Biegert died February 15 at Botsford Hospital, Farmington Hills, at age 68 following several weeks' illness.

A homemaker who lived most of her life in this area, Mrs. Biegert was a member of the ladies auxiliaries of the Northville VFW and Northville Eagles. Her husband, Howard, died in April, 1981.

Mrs. Biegert was born September 3, 1915, in Highland Park to Chester G. and Caroline (Woodworth) Mills. Her mother, Caroline Higgins of Northville, survives her. Also surviving are sons Robert J. (Joe) Gotro of Ferndale and James H. Biegert of Brighton. She leaves five grandchildren.

Mrs. Biegert's sister, Margaret Frederick of Wisconsin, a niece Shelby Geddes and several cousins also survive. The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the charity of the donor's choice.

GORDON B. LIBBY

Funeral services for Gordon B. Libby were at 11 a.m. Monday in Ross B. Northrop & Son Funeral Home, Father Frank Polle of Our Lady of Victory Church officiating. Burial followed at Rural Hill cemetery.

Mr. Libby was a resident of 18564 Jamestown Circle who came to Northville 14 years ago and was a member of the Northville Senior Citizens and the Pinochle Club. He worked 40 years as a die-setter with General Motors before retiring in 1963.

He died at St. Mary Hospital, Livonia, February 16 at age 85. He leaves his wife of 59 years, Goldenia (Deslippe) whom he wed in August, 1924.

Mr. Libby was born September 15, 1898, in Canada to Isaac B. and Florence (Robinson) Libby.

He leaves daughters Mrs. June (Robert) Tucker of Southfield, Mrs. Dorothy (Donald) Spain of Adrian, and Mrs. Nora (Joseph) Miller of Livonia and sons Gordon of Garden City and Paul of Highland. One son preceded him in death.

He also leaves two brothers, a sister, 22 grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Mr. Monger leaves his wife, Joyce, daughter Betty Shupe of Plymouth and sons Lester Jr. of Wixom, Lowery of Brighton and Bradford of Wixom. Also surviving are sister Betty Nasholm of Milford and six grandchildren. Mr. Monger was preceded in death by one son and one daughter.

He was a member of St. William's Catholic Church of Walled Lake and of the Northville post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Born in Montrose April 18, 1928, to John and Doris (Lambert) Monger, he was self-employed.

Transfer of Rea's liquor license okayed

stated opposition came from N.C. Schrader, owner of a furniture store directly south of Rea's new location.

His opposition was countered by a petition signed by 46 downtown area business people and public statements by several others. Among those signing the petition were owners of virtually all North Center establishments between Main and Dunlap excepting Schrader. Also represented were many Main Street businesses.

Signers included such prominent local business figures as Charles Lapham, James Ely, Stanley Johnston, Carl Johnson, Fran Chirri, Charles Freydl, Glenn Long, Robert Black, Rich Holloway, Les Bowden, Walter Coponen and William Sliger.

Speaking directly in support of the transfer were James Spagnuolo, Andrew Piccoli and several residents.

Freer characterized the support as being from patrons or employees of the Winner's Circle or from businessmen "antagonistic to God" and won approving comments from his church members when he said they "need to be born again."

He added that it was "easy to sign a piece of paper" but that the supporters should have attended the meeting "as we have."

After the hearing, Folino said he had "spent hours trying to determine what will be for the good of the community as a whole" and concluded that the transfer would be best. He cited several concerns, however, asking that Rea post signs making clear that the private church lot was not for use of his patrons and noting that the dance facility ordinance could be interpreted strictly to address noise problems.

Folino also cited the example of Getzie's Pub, which he characterized as an asset to the community replacing Joe's Little Bar, which he described as similar to the Winner's Circle. He said he hoped this transfer would accomplish a similar turn-around and said, "If it does not, I will be among those screaming the loudest about it."

DeRusha questioned that argument in his own statement, saying that "cleaning up Main may be a good reason for the bar to move, but it's not a good reason for it to move next door to a church." He noted that the Presbyterian Church is also in the Central Business District zoning and, as a result of the Rea transfer, council would be establishing a precedent that could put a bar next to that church also.

He said a better location would have been the abandoned Shell gasoline station at Seven Mile and South Main "but apparently that was not explored."

Gardner said that "as an elected official I find it very difficult to make these kinds of decisions. Determining what is in the public interest sometimes runs contrary to my personal convictions. But I must consider what is in the best interest of the entire community."

He, too, cited Getzie's Pub, which is adjacent to his Four Seasons florist business.

Ayers repeated her earlier position that she must vote for the good of the community as a whole, noting specifically that denying the transfer would mean continuance of the Winner's Circle's existence as it is at present. She added that there are zoning classifications within the city that allow churches and schools but not bars.

Vernon said the vote he was about to make "is the most difficult decision I've had to make in the more than 12 years I've sat in a council chair. I have to set aside my personal beliefs and consider the public interest."

He noted that the U.S. Supreme Court has determined that the denial of liquor license location solely on the basis that a church is within a certain distance is illegal and that council could wind up on the losing end of a legal suit if it proceeded to deny Rea's application. He said he didn't "necessarily agree with that decision, but it is the law."

"There may be some on council who are willing to run that risk," he said. "But it must be a consideration."

Library hosts investment seminar

"Investing in Your I.R.A. — The Individual's Tax Shelter," a seminar on personal financial planning, will be held at 7:30 p.m. February 29 in the Northville City Hall Council Chambers.

Presented by James Palmer of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith, the seminar will include an illustrated lecture and an audience question and answer period.

The program, sponsored by the Northville Public Library, is free and open to the public.

To reserve a seat, call the library at 349-3020.

Winner's Circle closing at end of racing season

James Rea said after Monday's council vote to approve the transfer of his liquor license to 133 North Center that it will be "about three months, at least" before he is prepared to open his new establishment.

Noting that his lease has expired at the present location and that he is continuing on a month-to-month agreement, he said he expects to operate the Winner's Circle through the end of the current season at Northville Downs.

"I have to keep it going to survive financially," he said. "But there will definitely be a closing of at least 30 days before we open the new place."

Rea had pledged, when requesting reconsideration of the transfer, that there would be period when he would be out of business. Mayor Paul Vernon had suggested that being closed for a period of time had been a key factor when Joe's Little Bar was rebuilt as Getzie's Pub in eliminating "the less desirable clientele."

Rea said he was pleased, of course, with council's decision to allow the transfer but that he had been "as nervous as I've ever been in my life" while listening to the roll call vote.

He was approached by several members of the Open Door church, some of whom apologized for the more flamboyant rhetoric of other church members and others who shook his hand and welcomed him as their new neighbor with statements that they hoped they could get along despite their differences.

Church members had also approached council members with similar conciliatory remarks.

TAX TIPS

LEE E. HOLLAND, C.P.A.

PAYMENT OF ESTATE TAXES

If you own an interest in a family or other business, under the tax law your beneficiaries can pay the estate taxes in installments if the value of the business exceeds 35 percent of your gross estate. There are other advantages, too. For example, estate taxes on the business may be deferred for up to 14 years. If the value of the business is less than $1 million, a minimum 4 percent interest is payable for the first four years, with the remaining principle and interest payable over the next 10 years.

If more than 50 percent of the business is sold or disposed of in some other way before all of the estate taxes are paid, then the unpaid tax becomes due immediately. If estate tax payments are delinquent for six months or more, the balance is also due immediately.

Talking about estate taxes have you had your will reviewed lately? The Federal estate tax laws have been changed and it may be a good idea to consult with your attorney or accountant.

Break-in at Huff Welding reported last week

In the City...

Two new wheel rims and two new tires, valued altogether at $662, were stolen from a 1980 Ford Mustang parked at McDonald Ford, 550 West Seven Mile, between 7 p.m. February 14 and 7:30 a.m. the following day.

Unknown person(s) last week broke into Huff Welding, 21043 Old Novi Road, stealing an unknown amount of change from a cardboard change container left in one of the business' offices. According to reports, entry was gained by breaking a 15" by 18" glass window, causing $15 damage. The theft was believed to have taken place between 5:30 p.m. February 13 and 7:55 the following morning, when the buzzer alarm was first heard.

peared in last week's Record), moving the car out of the garage and airing out the garage, which was filled with smoke. There were no injuries in connection with the incident.

City police arrested six drivers on drunk driving charges between February 14 and Sunday. Three arrests were made during county Alcohol Enforcement Team assignments.

Amend sign ordinance?

Township zoning ordinance provisions prohibiting the zoning board of appeals from granting variances from the tight restrictions governing the size, height and placement of signs may be lifted by the township board.

The board February 9 referred the issue to its attorney asking that an ordinance amendment be drafted deleting the prohibition against variances on signs.

The action was on the recommendation of building official Troy Milligan, who suggested that variances ought to be allowed, citing specifically the planned Meijer shopping center at Eight Mile and Haggerty roads.

"Here's a business with a huge building, near the freeway, and we're going to tell them they can only have a small sign a few feet off the ground," Milligan said. "It's ridiculous. There ought to be some proportion."

Milligan prefaced his remarks with an aside to trustee Richard Allen, the board liaison to the planning commission, asking that Allen "not take my head off for this."

Allen said afterward that he agreed the Meijer sign ought to be allowed to be in proportion to the size of the development, and would be unfairly limited in size and height by the present sign ordinance.

"I don't see why the appeals board shouldn't be allowed to grant a variance," he said.

Milligan noted that signs are "just about the only thing the appeals board can't grant a variance on."

Allen said he would address the matter at the planning commission's next meeting. The board voted unanimously, with trustee James Nowka absent, to refer the issue to the attorney for preparation of an amendment. A public hearing would be required before the board could alter the zoning ordinance. Planning commission approval is generally sought for such changes, but is not legally required.

The south side glass window to the kindergarten classroom at Amerman Elementary was reported broken last week, with damage estimated at $50.

A home on West Dunlap was illegally entered between 10:30 a.m. and 3:20 p.m. last Friday. When the resident returned at the latter time, a coffee table inside was discovered overturned. No other damage or theft took place.

A windbreaker, sweat pants and gym bag together valued at $70 were stolen from a locker in the "A" wing at Northville High School last Thursday. According to a city police report, the locker was left locked at 7:10 a.m. and the items were discovered missing at 1:05 p.m. No suspects have been reported.

Three windows were shot out of a 1980 Ford parked at a Five Mile Road residence February 15, state police reports indicate.

The report states the car owner, a Northville resident of Six Mile Road, told police she parked the red two-door at 9 p.m. February 14 and, upon returning to the car at 2:15 a.m. the next day, found it had been damaged.

Officers found the front windshield was cracked with one hole in it and left side door and left rear windows were shattered by what appeared to be repeated impacts from a BB or pellet gun.

Damage estimates were to be supplied later by the owner. Police interviewed residents of the area, none of whom saw or heard anything suspicious during the period in question.

Big Meijer sign opposed in Novi

The Novi Planning Board says it's opposed to a request for a variance from Meijer's Thrifty Acres to erect two signs on the southwest corner of Eight Mile and Haggerty Road in Northville Township.

Meijer's plans to begin construction of a shopping center at the Eight Mile-Haggerty Road intersection later this year and has requested a variance from the Northville Township Board of Appeals to permit them to erect two signs at the site.

Specifically, Meier's would like to erect a wall sign and a pylon sign with 117 square feet on each side. The variances are required because the township zoning ordinance limits them to one sign and restricts the size of pylon signs to 60 square feet per side.

Novi's planning board was invited to comment on the request for a variance because the Meier's site is directly across the street from the Orchard Hill Place Office Park on the northwest corner of Eight Mile and Haggerty Road in Novi.

And the planners let it be known that they did not think the variance should be granted.

"We should tell them the sign will reflect very poorly on their township and will not enhance the area," commented Planner Joseph Toth.

Planning Board Chairman William Briggs asked if anyone supported "this monstrous sign," and, after receiving a unanimously negative response, directed Community Development Director John Hazelroth to notify Northville Township officials of the board's opposition to Meier's request for a variance.

"If this were in Novi, we'd be strongly opposed to it," commented Briggs.

Hawthorn director is guest

Dr. Harold Wright, director of Hawthorn Center, will discuss Anorexia Nervosa at the March 2 meeting of Northville Woman's Club.

Wright, who received his B.S. and M.D. from University of Michigan, has been director of Hawthorn since 1971 and has extensive experience in the area of child psychiatry.

The March 2 meeting will be held at 1:30 p.m. at First Presbyterian Church fellowship hall. Glad Evans is chairman and members are reminded it is guest day.

Boards seminar topic

Schoolcraft College, in cooperation with the Livonia Chamber of Commerce, is presenting a conference entitled "The Effective Board" March 10 for persons who currently serve on non-profit boards of directors or would like to do so.

The day-long Saturday program begins at 8:30 a.m. in Rooms B200-210 of the Liberal Arts Building on campus. According to Georgene Sloan, conference coordinator, "well-informed, well-trained board leadership can be one of the strongest assets a non-profit organization can have. This program will promote good boardmanship by providing training in board management skills."

Topics and facilitators are as follows: Board Membership: Who, Why and How, by Richard J. Hayward, B.S., president of R.J. Hayward Company; Management and Leadership Techniques, by Shirley Bryant, M.A., coordinator of community education department, Birmingham Public Schools; Everything You Ever Wanted to Know about Public Relations, by Richard Egli, M.A., ASPR, administrative assistant for community relations of the Plymouth-Canton Schools; and Communicating Confidently, by Mary J. Sanders, M.A., principal owner of Creative Sales Training, Inc.

Ray Lech, executive vice president of the Livonia Chamber of Commerce, is working with Schoolcraft on the Better Boards project. He comments, "This program is so beneficial to our community because it helps improve the efficiency and effective operation of the non-profit organizations that provide vital services contributing to community growth, welfare and economic health."

Topics will cover who should sit on a board and why, how to approach new members and get them to keep them involved, how to acquire some tools for running an effective organization, identifying one's leadership style and selecting appropriate goals.

Conference fee is $35; it includes a light lunch.

Registration must be received no later than March 2. For registration information call 591-6400, extension 409.

The Effective Board is offered in conjunction with the Building Better Boards for Community Organizations program as part of a national demonstration project administered by the American Association of Community and Junior Colleges with financial assistance from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation.

Our Opinion

Prison fight won, now it's time for village action

Congratulations are due all-around for those who opposed the state proposal to convert Plymouth Center into a prison. The announcement last week that the proposal has been abandoned is all the proof anyone needs that they were successful in transmitting the message that the state cannot proceed willy-nilly without considering the needs and desires of local government and citizens.

All along the issue has been one of long-term versus short-range planning. The enticements of potential construction cost savings and the prospect of having prison cells made available almost immediately were real, but only patchwork solutions to a major problem that requires a wider perspective. What came out in the ensuing debate was the truth that the savings would be lost over the longer term as a result of hindered development and likely increased operating costs. That the administration eventually saw this, at least to some degree, is to its credit.

We remain disturbed, however, that it has taken so much shouting to get the message across. We were shocked to learn last November that the proposal had been put forward before any detailed study of environmental or economic impact had been started. Had such a study been done beforehand, we believe the folly of the conversion plan would have been evident long ago.

That, in turn, would have allowed the state to proceed with the construction of the Beck Road prison rather than first dragging its feet last summer, then bringing progress to a complete halt in October. As a result, we believe, the prison would have been completed earlier, better addressing the urgent need for additional space.

We are no more enamored of the periodic executive order to release prisoners ahead of schedule to reduce overcrowding than is anyone else in this state. It is simply a bad practice required by the state's failure to launch a comprehensive prison construction plan several years ago (and not, to be fair, the current governor's fault).

Granting the governor and his staff some leeway for being relatively new to Lansing, we hope they have learned something from this incident. Had they researched this issue thoroughly, particularly looking to the history of how the Beck Road site came to be selected initially, they might have anticipated the arguments against the proposed conversion and seen the value in them.

More importantly, they might have discovered the previous administration's commitment to a location agreed upon with the local community. We would hope such commitments are taken seriously by state government, regardless of which party or individual made them.

Is there reason for such a hope? We don't know. The administration's position is ambiguous as regards the prior commitment. It still contends that the proposal demanded consideration. The cynical among us would argue that the abandonment of the plan resulted less from a sudden onset of sense within the administration than it did from the rising probability that pushing the proposal would generate another political loss for the governor. With Republicans gaining control of the senate and the lobbying effort having landed some Democratic support for the opposition, the timing of the governor's decision might be construed simply as recognition he would be fighting a losing cause.

Like all those who fought the prison, we'd prefer to learn that the administration simply made an understandable error and has learned from its mistake. As a community with so many state-owned facilities within its boundaries, Northville may yet again have its needs conflict with those of the state. On a more general basis, surely other communities will have similar conflicts. We shall have to wait to see how it deals with such issues in the future before we can say for certain that this administration has learned that state and local government must cooperate for everyone's benefit.

With the prison site set at Beck and Five Mile, we hope there now can be serious interest developed in the plans for a Cavanagh Elderly Village project at the former Wayne County Child Development Center on Sheldon. Granted, this project also has been delayed for economic considerations. With the economy showing signs of improvement it is to be hoped that the Wayne County Economic Development Corporation will be able to find a developer.

The type of village proposed is needed by senior citizens as well as by the township. When completed, it could add substantially to the township's tax roll.

Silver hair and silver skates

Helen Santmyer has become my new heroine. While many have yet to hear of this up and coming writer, she is getting considerable publicity across the country for a novel she has written titled "... And Ladies of the Club."

I have no idea whether her 1,300-page novel about life in a small Ohio town is worthy of the praise it already has garnered. After all, it isn't even scheduled to be published until late June. However, the word is that it is among the best works written on middle America.

Not bad for an 88-year-old woman plagued by cataracts and arthritis. It took her 15 years to write her epic — mostly because she did it in longhand. Never mind the cataracts that have left her blind in one eye.

Though her book was published years ago, it only recently was retrieved from the library bookshelf. Thank goodness someone had the sense to pick-up a copy of this woman's work.

While Miss Santmyer's novel most likely will make the bestseller list (Book of the Month Club already has chosen it as its summer selection), it's not just her work which is worthy of attention. I think the spirit and determination of this smalltown author is the most appealing aspect of "... And Ladies of the Club."

In our youth-oriented society, we have a knack for shooing away anyone with a wrinkle. We disregard the life experience of our elderly citizens and put them out to pasture. It seems the growing trend in business today is to dismiss the 30-year employee to bring in a bright, young talent. The publishing world is no different. While the publishing houses were busy screening manuscripts of new, young writers, Helen Santmyer already had an American classic under her belt.

It should be pointed out that Miss Santmyer had published two novels and a memoir prior to "... And Ladies of the Club" — none of which were given much notice. However, that didn't stop this tiny woman from writing a third novel later in life.

I find considerable inspiration from this newfound author. So I didn't become a millionaire at 25 or won't be a Pulitzer Prize winning author at 30. I have plenty of time. In fact, I may just wait a few decades to pursue my lifelong dreams.

Because of Helen, I may just put behind my disastrous debut as a world class figure skater some 20 years ago. Knowing that to be a Peggy Flemming would take considerable hard work and determination (after all, figure skaters are put on skates before they're potty trained), I took skating lessons at the advanced age of six. However, my career was shortlived when I landed on my derriere during my performance as a Mexican Jumping Bean in the Eaton Park Skating Show of 1964. Needless to say, I hung up my skates.

You know, I think I'm going to go buy a new pair.

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

I know it's a week late for a Valentine's Day column, but I couldn't have written this before last week's paper was published for reasons that soon will become obvious.

You see, I picked up the Green Sheet to read the Valentine's Day ads and, quite frankly, was somewhat embarrassed about the number written specifically to me.

You may have seen them. "Philip dearest," said one. "I'll be yours forever. Hugs and kisses, Snookums."

Or, maybe you saw the one that said, "Phil, just wanted to tell you how much I care for you. All my love, Honey Bear."

Of course, you may have noticed that not everyone used my real name. Some of them just referred to me by nicknames. You know the kind — tender little names that sound sappy in public, but are just perfect at other times.

Like the one from Teddy Bear: "Hey, macho man, be my Valentine forever."

Needless to say, I was somewhat embarrassed just from reading the Green Sheet. But that embarrassment was nothing to what I felt when I got home and started reading the Valentine ads in the Detroit News and Detroit Free Press.

I was astonished at how many people were nice enough to send me Valentine ads through the dailies, even though they're an inferior advertising medium.

There must have been somewhere between 20 to 30 ads in each paper written just to me — Phil. I don't know how many there were that used pseudonyms like Honey Bear or Love Bunny.

Of course, some of them were sort of off-color ... inappropriate for a family newspaper, so I won't repeat them here.

So why am I writing this Valentine's Day column a week after Valentine's Day? The answer is simple. I just wanted to thank everyone who thought enough to send me one of those nice little messages.

It means a lot; it really does. As Mac Davis might say: "There are times when it's hard to be humble."

Reader Speaks

Prison foes commended for efforts

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Concerned Citizens for Western Wayne County, I would like to thank the many, many people who helped with the "prison fight."

The response to the cry for help was overwhelming! It would be impossible to list the hundreds who donated time, services, material and money. Without all of these generous people, it would have been impossible to raise $20,000 in less than four months, much less to "fight city hall" — and win! Thanks to each and every one of you for your help.

Some workers stayed behind the scenes and developed our portion of the required Environmental Impact Study. Without this crucial material, the decision rendered would not have been in our favor. A sincere thank you to them for the many hours spent preparing that information.

Karoub & Associates, the lobbying firm used in both prison fights, has done an excellent job representing the Northville communities. As of April 1, the firm will be under financial contract to the township. Full time representation will greatly benefit the community and will hopefully eliminate the feeling of "playing catch up" when dealing with the state.

With the relocation of the prison, the time is right for the Wayne County Economic Development Corporation to progress with the Senior Citizen complex as rapidly as possible.

Concerned Citizens now moves to the background, hopefully not to be needed again in the near future.

If, however, circumstances call for community action, the people of Northville have proven they are willing to become involved.

Thank you for your cooperation and support.

Sincerely,

Senate debates tax cuts

By R. ROBERT GEAKE
State Senator

Rolling back the income tax: no longer does it seem a question of if; rather, it's now a question of how. At last count, there were as many as five different proposals, all costing various amounts of money, to cut Michigan's extremely unpopular income tax increase. And that's just in the state senate.

One proposal simply gets rid of the tax hike, and lowers Michigan's current tax rate of 6.1 percent back to its original 4.6 percent. That rollback would cost approximately $525 million in tax revenues this fiscal year. With estimates that the 1984 surplus will be around $260 million, this plan would mean a cut in spending of at least that much.

A less dramatic idea suggests matching the expected surplus of $260 million to a tax cut — which would mean dropping the rate from 6.1 percent to 5.35 percent. That would mean a slight cut in government spending of about $2 million, which could be accomplished with little pain and anguish in the state departments.

A more general plan simply states that once the budget surplus is established, the tax cut would be matched to that amount. Another plan would place surplus revenues in the state's Budget Stabilization Fund.

Still another suggestion would roll the tax back by .01 percent per million dollars of surplus. This, however, would be the most dramatic of the rollback plans — resulting in an actual cut in the state income tax rate from 6.1 to 3.9 percent, which would require an enormous cut in state spending.

Getting away from the tax rollback angle completely, another senator has proposed hiking the personal income tax exemption claimed on tax returns from $1,500 to $4,000. That would mean a $600 million cut in the overall budget — so after the surplus, a cut of $340 million would be required during this fiscal year.

That is the most far-reaching plan. The most limited proposal, in terms of dollar cuts, is one that would cut the income tax rate from 6.1 percent to 5.85 percent, costing about $87 million this fiscal year.

Whether any of these proposals will see the light of day remains to be seen. Even if one or more bills do manage to pass both houses of the legislature, Governor Blanchard has said he will veto any proposal that cuts the budget more than he wishes.

Governor Blanchard prefers his own plan, a cut in the income tax rate from 6.1 percent to 5.35 percent — but not until October 1. All that plan does is move up the already scheduled decrease by three months.

Law joins Medicaid panel

Legislation has been adopted in the Michigan House of Representatives creating a special oversight committee to study possible needs for changes in Michigan's Medicaid system, according to State Representative Gerald H. Law (R-Plymouth), one of five legislators recently appointed to the panel.

Law, who is serving his first term in the House, explained that the committee would investigate several aspects of the Medicaid program in the coming months.

"We will not only be studying the system for possible changes, but we will also concentrate on the methods used by the various state departments responsible for administering Medicaid and monitoring the health care delivery system," Law stated.

Law also pointed out that, in 1982, nearly one quarter of all state tax dollars was spent on health care, and that from 1978 to 1982, state government health care expenditures rose by 54.4 percent, while the entire budget only grew by 16 percent during the same four year period.

"These health care costs constitute the single largest and most rapidly rising component of the state budget, and I look forward to the challenge that this committee presents in attempting to curtail this tremendous cost to the taxpayers of Michigan," Law concluded.

Township construction is up

There were 81 new single family houses constructed in Northville Township in 1983 with a total valuation of $6.7 million, according to the annual building department report presented to the board of trustees February 9.

Building inspector Troy Milligan reported there were also 42 residential additions (excluding garages) at a total value of $517,700.

Other 1983 building activity included four non-residential buildings, 28 garages and three non-residential structures, four commercial additions, and three garage additions. Five builders completed dwellings started by another builder and one new "basement only" was built.

Milligan's reported stated total value of all new building in the township, including $65,000 for the golf dome at Oasis Golf Center, was $7,556,028.

Tax aid provided for senior citizens

Northville area senior citizens can get free help with their income tax by attending the tomorrow's tax session at Northville Public Library.

The Plymouth-Northville AARP Tax Aide Counselors for the Elderly will be at the library from 1-5 p.m. to assist interested persons with their income tax. There is no charge for the service.

Those planning to attend should bring last year's tax return, any W-2 forms from 1983, any statements of interest, dividends or pensions received, the total amount of Social Security received and any other amounts of money received, amounts of hospitalization costs other than Medicare and any blank forms or booklets.

Also, homeowners should bring 1983 property tax statements and renters should bring the amount of rent paid and to whom it was paid.

Democratic caucus set to elect party delegates

Michigan Democrats will caucus March 17 to select which presidential candidate's delegates will be sent to the party's national convention.

Five delegates are to be sent from the Second Congressional District, and Democrats in the Wayne County portion of the district will caucus at the Plymouth Cultural Center from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. March 17 to provide input on that selection.

Any citizen claiming to be a Democrat may indicate a presidential preference in the caucus. Active membership in the party is not required, only the willingness to sign a document stating a Democratic affiliation. The proportion of support given each candidate will be reflected in the selection of delegates, explained Orville Tongate, Wayne Second Democratic chairman.

Those wishing to state a preference must be registered voters with the exception of 17-year-olds who will be 18 before November 6 (election date) and state an intention to vote.

"When they come to the polling place," Tongate explained, "they'll be handed a piece of paper on which they must write their name and address, check a box indicating they are a Democrat, check a box stating they're registered, check a box beside the name of a presidential candidate and sign this document."

Each candidate gaining 20 percent or more support will be allotted at least one of the five second district delegates to the national convention, Tongate continued. For example, if a candidate is preferred by 60 percent of the Democrats in the district he will be allotted three delegates. If there are insufficient candidates gaining a 20 percent share of the support, then the remaining delegate or delegates will be sent uncommitted to any candidate.

Those interested in becoming delegates must state a candidate preference and file with the party headquarters by February 24. Delegates must be either elected precinct delegates or party members in good standing. Names of potential delegates will be turned over to campaign committees for the candidate.

Actual selection of delegates will be done April 14. In addition to the preferential mix, the delegation must meet standards for sexual balance and other criteria. Tongate cautioned that, with only five delegates to be selected from the entire 2nd District, it is impossible to know if any will be from the Wayne County portion of the district.

The Second Congressional District, presently represented by Republican Carl Pursell of Plymouth, contains all or part of Washtenaw, Lenawee, Hillsdale, Jackson and Branch counties. The Wayne County portion includes both Northvilles, both Plymouths and most of Livonia.

Parson to Person...

WONDERFULLY STRANGE

Dr. James Luther

The enemies of Jesus came one day to see if the reports of His power were true. They came in hatred, yet went away saying, "We have seen strange things today" (Luke 5:26).

They heard him say to a palsied man, "Thy sins are forgiven thee." Strange words these, yet even stranger is what happened next. After reading the critical thoughts of their minds ("How can this man forgive sins?"), he healed the sick man. He proved His right to forgive sin (which is a sickness of the soul) by removing the sickness of the body; the palsied man took up his bed and went away healed.

Christ's enemies saw strange things the day they spent with Jesus. Everything about Him is unusual! It is strange that He should love the unlovely (us), strange that He should die for our sins, the just for the unjust. It is strange that He can turn a poor sinner into a child of God—that He can change lives.

Strange, but true! Join us this Sunday as we discover if the Bible teaches "Christian Communism."

The last thing you need when you're over 55, is a problem paying for your car insurance.

Age has its rewards. Sometimes it does with Auto Owners. They give good drivers age 55 or older a discount. So instead of raising your premiums or reducing your coverage you may pay a little less for your auto insurance.

Auto Owners respects maturity and a good driving record. Just ask your "no problem" Auto Owners agent how he can save you money on your car insurance. When you hear the news, you'll be glad you've got a few years behind you.

'Arts and People'

Northville's Wilson Saavedra wants to remove the barriers that separate the two

By B.J. MARTIN

Once in a while some dreamer comes along with a brilliant idea, logical and sensible, but because it runs against the grain of "common wisdom," it not only never happens, it never gets a chance to happen.

Cynically approached, Northville's Wilson Saavedra's dream is a perfect example. Here's what he wants to do: form a non-profit "entity" (for lack of a better word) devoted to removing the psychological barriers between people and the fine arts.

This "entity" would sponsor concerts and activities, but not selfishly, and not exclusively. It would cooperate with other groups. It would traffic ideas, and spread the growth of culture in a relatively unstructured way — through creative use of media and through events which are as much "get-togethers" as "concerts" or "exhibitions."

Perhaps most importantly, its goal would be to free art from the straight-jacket of exclusivity, and aid the growth of the public's interest in the fine arts — beginning right here in Northville, where Saavedra lives.

Sound like a tall order? There is a line from a poem by Antonio Machado which Saavedra likes to quote:

*"There is no road,
But the road is made
as you walk."*

It might be useful to understand exactly who Saavedra is, and why his background suggests something remarkable can be expected.

As he tells it, when he was a boy growing up in Chile, he belonged to a household that valued classical music, although not to an unusual degree.

Music "appreciation" was never forced on him, he adds, but his environment was such that he didn't feel at all odd about one day embarking on a cross-town journey by himself to see a concert. He was nine years old, and he saved up his allowance for a ticket and bus fare in eager anticipation of the event.

The theatre was producing a work called Carmina Burana (Worldly Songs), by Carl Orff. For those who aren't familiar with the music, it is performed by a Wagner-scale orchestra with large choir. But far from being ponderous and overly self-conscious, the work is explosively rhythmic, powerfully inspirational.

Its effect on the impressionable boy was tremendous. "The next thing I remember," he recalls, "I was listen-

"To many people, the fine arts are entertainment," "But to me, they have always been a need."

— Wilson Saavedra

ing to music six hours a day." With his friends, he would eagerly go to concerts, delve into classical records, and most importantly, he developed an urge to share his joy in appreciation of the music with others.

But Saavedra's career led him in a very different direction. A careful yet intuitive judge of human nature, he developed a knack for marketing and economics while a scholarship student at Northwood Institute in Detroit. Because of his ability to speak Spanish and English, he later became a valuable business consultant to major auto firms with dealings in South and Central America and the Caribbean.

He presently is a business consultant for Ford Motor Company, where he has had remarkable success translating Japanese marketing methods to dealerships in South America. Still, while Saavedra slowly gathered expertise in market economics, he admits he never escaped his fascination with art and music.

"To many people, the fine arts are entertainment," he explains, accompanied softly by a piano and string trio tape playing in another room. "But to me, they have always been a need."

The rooms of the Highland Lakes subdivision home where he lives with two cats illustrate that clearly. They contain works of art and expert craftsmanship from all over the world — a carved door from Chile, carved leather cushions from Morocco, original paintings and prints of neoclassical graphic art, a lamp made from the exterior of a spiny fish. . . . There are museums with duller contents than Saavedra's living room.

Also, his collection of classical music recordings reveals an encyclopedic interest and knowledge in the subject, particularly in chamber music.

Which brings back the subject of Saavedra's dream: its formal name is "Arts and People," and it is officially registered as a non-profit organization. As for the details of its nature, Saavedra concedes many of them still are being worked out.

But one of the central projects of "Arts and People" is a weekly chamber music series that would continue not for a season, or a year, but every week for generations to come, if possible.

"I'd like to establish it as a tradition," he says. "It has to become a consistent, natural thing. . . . I expect enthusiasm for the new and untried will pervade this. I think people will appreciate it, and learn to accept the extra responsibilities such projects demand."

"We have to sell not so much the product as the concept," he continues. "We'll be happy if we can interest people in any form of expression. If they decide they don't like this particular series, our hope is that they will be encouraged and interested enough to try another kind. The idea is to nurture the growth of interest in self-expression."

Saavedra began his interest in developing an open-ended chamber series program when he noticed he was constantly seeing the same people when he attended a fine arts event in the Detroit area. "I became friends with many of those people," he says, "but I began to feel there was something wrong."

"A lot of people are upset with some aspect of their life, and I think it's because this side of them is underdeveloped. I'm a strong believer in people. There is so much good in people, it's just that sometimes things happen to them that gets in the way of that. "The thing is to give the public a chance of recognizing its unfulfilled needs," he adds. "It illustrates our values that when schools are in a tough (financial) situation, usually it's the art and music teachers sent out the door."

With many people, a professed love of art is merely a cultivated pose, but Saavedra's enthusiasm and ideas have an obvious spark of sincerity.

Another story illustrates this: when Saavedra chaired the Renaissance Concert series at Orchestra Hall (at the request of violinist Misha Rachlevsky), Saavedra developed a February 14 program devoted to, of course, romantic works by composers written for their loved ones or telling a romantic story.

"In the programs for the show, we included a little Kleenex with instructions to feel free to use it to wipe away any tears during the concert," he says. "That's an example of how 'Arts and People' will approach its goals."

"Going to a concert should be natural, like going to dinner or a movie. We'll try to get to that point."

"I'm going to write a little booklet for people going to our chamber series," he adds. "It'll be called, 'So You're Going to a Concert for the First Time.' It'll be done in a very subtle manner, so at least people can read and see some kind of guide."

Saavedra's background promises to deliver: he was a guiding hand in producing the Renaissance Concerts, a personal acquaintance of many DSO musicians and also an expert in marketing.

His tentative plans are to try to arrange a building in the Mill Race for the concerts, but he admits costs are a considerable problem. "We're still discussing it," he says.

Another "Arts and People" project under way is production of a half-hour weekly cable television program that would cover a broad range of activities: listing and discussing local art and music events, interviews, discussions and reviews of concerts and exhibitions, and so forth.

Saavedra lifts up a nearby videocassette. "This is one of the programs we're going to have on," he says. "It's an in-depth interview with Antal Dorati (former director of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra). It's the kind of thing you can't find anywhere else."

"Dorati told me," he adds, "Already you're doing the right thing with this television program. If there is one thing I would like to tell people who tell me they don't understand classical music, it would be that the point is not to understand it. Musicians often don't understand it. The point is to open yourself to it."

As one might expect, despite his interest in developing a cable series, Saavedra is critical of television's role in separating people from artists:

"With TV, everything is 'Entertain me,' and the creative part of people is dying because of it. 'Arts and People' will involve itself with developing the ability to feel, the ability to express."

"I'm hoping our TV program will be useful in trying to get ideas for the development of art."

Northville will get its first look at what "Arts and People" can do March 3 with the presentation of "A Spanish Fiesta" at the Northville Marquis.

Does all this sound intriguing? If so, Saavedra says he needs "volunteers, volunteers and more volunteers," to help set the wheels in motion, and he insists anyone interested should feel free to give him a call at his home phone, 349-5237.

Hospital commissions tapestry by local fiber artists

By JEAN DAY

It took a year of their time and talent, but Laurie Fowler and her husband Bill Thelen have completed an impressive tapestry. The textile wall hanging measures 22-by-7 feet and was commissioned by St. Joseph Hospital East in Mount Clemens for its lobby.

"It has a religious theme," Laurie Fowler explains, "depicting a sunset over water." Incorporated into the tapestry is a scroll with a credo on the healing arts. She adds that the hospital plans to use the tapestry on the rear wall of its lobby. It was commissioned as part of a hospital renovation and is being delivered to the hospital this week.

Artisans Fowler and Thelen work in their studio home at 201 Fairbrook. They have exhibited at the Ann Arbor Art Fair and are known for their abstract fiber designs. Thelen says the tapestry was "fun to work on because it was different from what we had been doing — we experimented with techniques, even ordering some yarns from Uruguay."

Dresselhouses go south for anniversary

A former Northville couple, Gerald and Janyth Dresselhouse who now live in Chelsea, will be celebrating their 25th wedding anniversary next Tuesday in Orlando, Florida. With their two sons David and Bruce, they will visit Disney World and Epcot. They also plan a visit to the Busch Gardens in Tampa.

The Dresselhouses are graduates of Northville High School Class of 1956. They were married in 1959 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church here. Mrs. Dresselhouse is the former Janyth VanAtta.

She's creating 'Fabulous Fakes' today

When Phyllis Slattery became president of the Michigan

Division, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, she tapped good resources in her own club, the Northville branch of the WNFGA. Today her fellow club member and friend Wilma Cushing is presenting a program at the state winter council meeting-luncheon at Dearborn Inn.

In her talk-demonstration, "Fabulous Fakes," she is showing how to use silk flowers combined with fresh and dried materials in creating arrangements. She is completing a two-year term as state arts and crafts chairperson.

Members from both local garden branches, Northville and Country Girls, are among the 300 women attending the meeting from throughout the state. President Slattery was presiding at the morning sessions.

These area women are in the news

In acting, horsemanship and scholarship, area women have been making news with their activities.

Darlene Sullivan of Northville received the champion award in the "roadster to bike class" of the road horse division at the Michigan Horse Show Association's annual awards banquet held last month at the Sheraton Oaks in Novi.

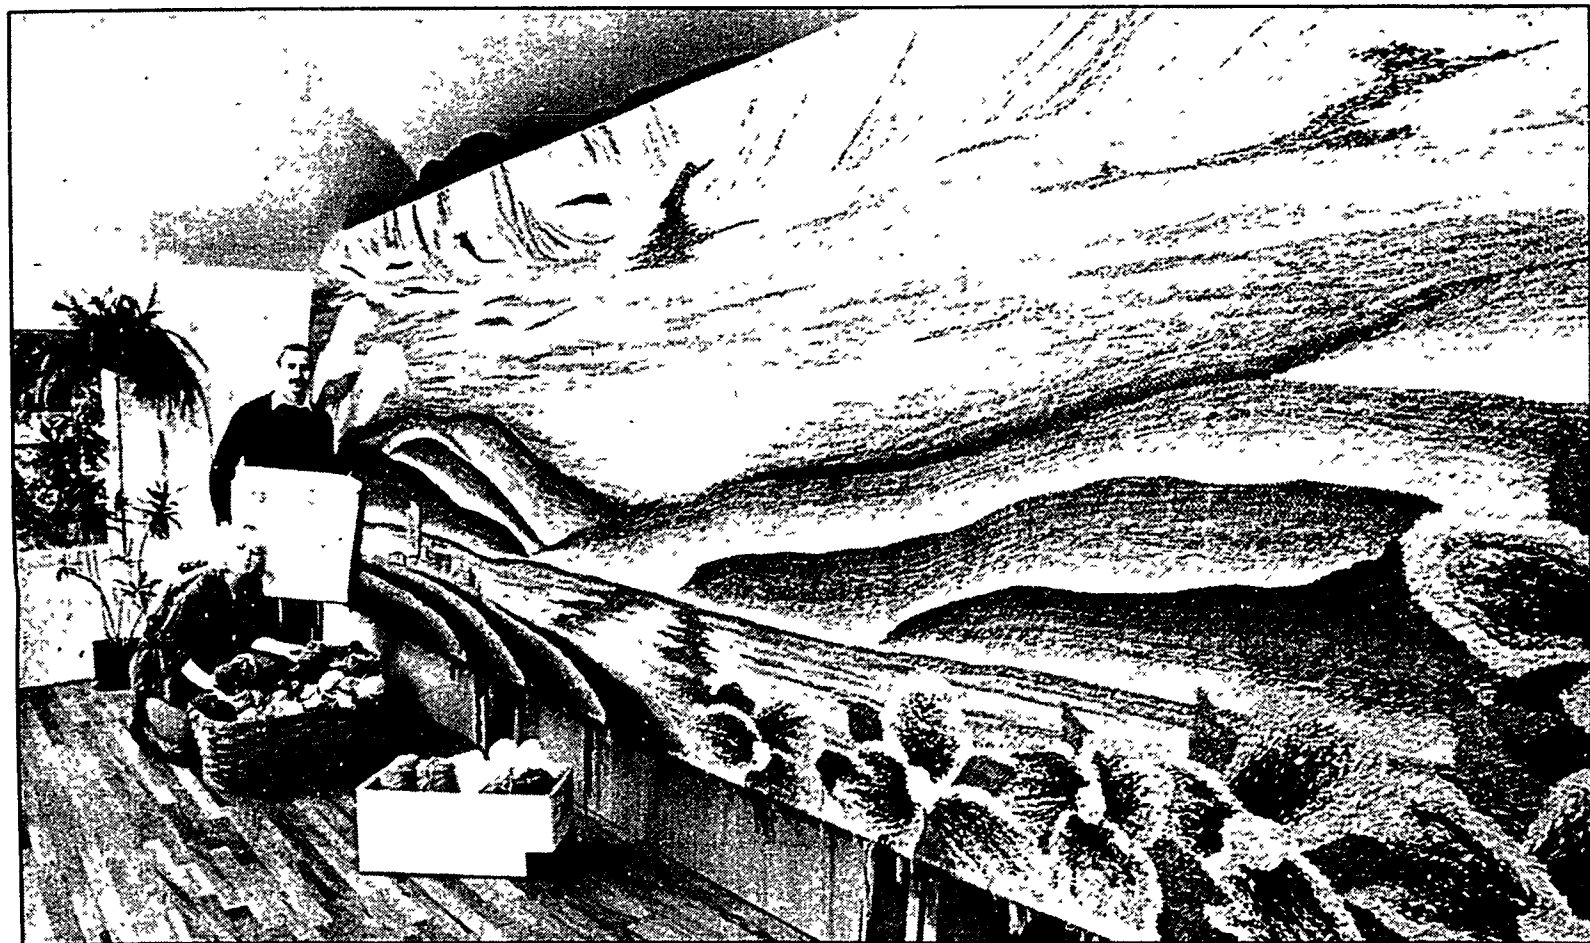

Stacey Koberzynski, also of Northville, was awarded reserve in the English pleasure class of the Morgan division. For more than 50 years the MHSA has served as a foundation for the Michigan horse show industry, honoring achievements of its members.

Area resident Irene Schweyer of New Hudson has the major role of Peggy in "The Father of the Bride," current production at the Henry Ford Museum theater. Performances are Friday and Saturday evenings at 8:30 p.m. through March 10. The play also is offered in combination with the museum candlelight dinner program.

This is Irene Schweyer's 23rd role in the Henry Ford

Museum theater.

Kimberly Ann DeRusha, formerly of Northville and now living in St. Louis, Missouri, and Beverly Luzadder, 41278 Lehigh Court, have been selected for inclusion in the 1983 edition of Outstanding Young Women of America. The listings are of young women between the ages of 21 and 36 who have distinguished themselves in service and leadership. Honorary president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs Margaret Arnold serves as chairman of the Outstanding Young Women of America advisory board.

A Celebration Of Life

We want our funerals to be a celebration of our lives — a time to reflect on all the good times. That's why we've taken care of our arrangements now. We were able to have all our questions answered by the funeral director. We were able to record our wishes and he even let us pre-finance our funerals.

The Northville Record

Mustang cagers dunk Hawks 68-55

By B.J. MARTIN

It was an up-and-down week for Northville in Western Lakes Activities Association basketball action last week.

Make that down-and-up, like a yo-yo. On Tuesday, former victims Livonia Churchill took advantage of an 18-3 third-quarter blowout to snap Northville's three-game win streak with a 59-45 shocker. Then on Friday, the Mustangs took full command against the John Miller-less Farmington Harrison Hawks, winning 68-55.

Northville had made the Chargers an easy victim in a previous encounter this season, but center Steve Schrader pulled up with a sprained ankle in the second quarter of Tuesday's game. Until then he had been Northville's only effective scorer, and nobody was hot enough to pick up the slack.

Northville didn't even score in the second half until 1:31 remained in the third quarter. "Some of our big people couldn't get a basket and (Bob) Pegrum and (Steve) Frellick were bottled up by their zone," Lutes said.

"We weren't getting anything to fall and when we fell behind, it was a disaster. They're a guard-oriented team, and they could hold on to the ball as long as they wanted."

Schrader's 15 points led the Mustangs, but Northville's next-highest scorer was Frellick with eight. Three Chargers scored 10 points to pace the win.

In Friday's game, the Mustangs managed to find at least one hot hand in each quarter. In the first quarter, Pegrum's long jumper was dead-on and the senior point guard picked up eight of his 17 points for the night.

In the second quarter, it was the Mike Weber Show. The senior forward dominated inside play at both ends of the court, picking up 11 of his season-high 19 points and seven of his 11 rebounds to help stake Northville to a 38-30 halftime lead.

"Mike was playing really hungry Friday night," Lutes said. "If he plays that way against Stevenson, we're going to give them a lot of trouble."

Scott Gala came off the bench and canned six quick points to keep Northville alive in the fourth quarter. The 6'2" senior finished the night with nine points and eight rebounds.

"I don't know what to do about Scott and Mike," Lutes sighed. "They both started last year and have been playing so well they deserve to start. But we've been successful using Greg (Wendell) and Dan (Nielsen) at forward, too."

In the final quarter, Frellick caught fire, scoring eight of his 10 points as Northville sailed to the easy win.

Looking sharp in starting roles were Wendell with four key first-half assists, Longridge with six first-half points, and 6'6" center John Storm, who started in place of Schrader. Despite his painful ankle sprain, Schrader played briefly and effectively in the second half.

"It's still hurting Steve a bit — I'm

Burgett, Vogt place at districts

Senior Mustang wrestlers Joel Vogt and Brian Burgett are on their way to the Class A regional wrestling tournament at Trenton this Saturday.

Vogt placed fourth at 185 pounds and heavyweight Burgett took third at the Class A districts at Temperance Bedford last Saturday — one of the state's most competitive districts.

"It was pretty much Temperance Bedford against the rest of us, they ran away with it," said Northville coach Gary Emerson. "But I was surprised at how well the WLAA (Western Lakes Activities Association) schools did down there — I really wasn't expecting that."

Bedford easily took the district title, with Plymouth Canton and Belleville a distant second and third.

Burgett qualified for the semifinals — and regionals — by pinning matmen from Walled Lake Central and Ypsilanti (he dropped Ypsi's Troy Dunn in just 17 seconds). Romulus' Tracy Klein, the eventual champion, upset Burgett in the semis with a first-period pin. But "Bubba" rebounded by pinning Plymouth Canton's Jim Molsen in 2:20 to take third.

Vogt had a hard road to back up his fourth seeding. The musclebound

Spikers seek consistency

By B.J. MARTIN

Northville's varsity volleyball squad just lacked a knockout punch against Walled Lake Western last week.

Twice the Mustangs had the Lady Warriors on the ropes in their February 13 encounter. In the first game, Northville led 6-2, and wound up losing 15-11. In the second, it was even worse — Western rebounded from an 8-2 deficit to clip the Mustangs 15-10.

"It's like we forgot what it took to get to six or eight," said Coach Steve McDonald. "When it got close we started making silly mistakes. We're still a pretty young team, but by this time of the year we shouldn't be making them."

The loss toppled Northville to a 5-13 season record. Western is now 8-7.

"If we could've kept the momentum we'd have been OK," McDonald added. "But it was like we were two different teams out there."

Showing signs of promise in the midst of the team's inconsistency was junior hitter Erin Ryan. Ryan collected 11 good hits and tapped one good dink against Western. "Erin played an inspired game," McDonald said. "If she works at her game, especially this summer, she could play college-level volleyball."

Cheryl Spaman "played pretty well," according to McDonald. The junior socked seven good hits and made two good dinks in the contest. Mandy Olgren contributed some steady back row play with 12 serves, 10 good. "She's really improved," McDonald remarked.

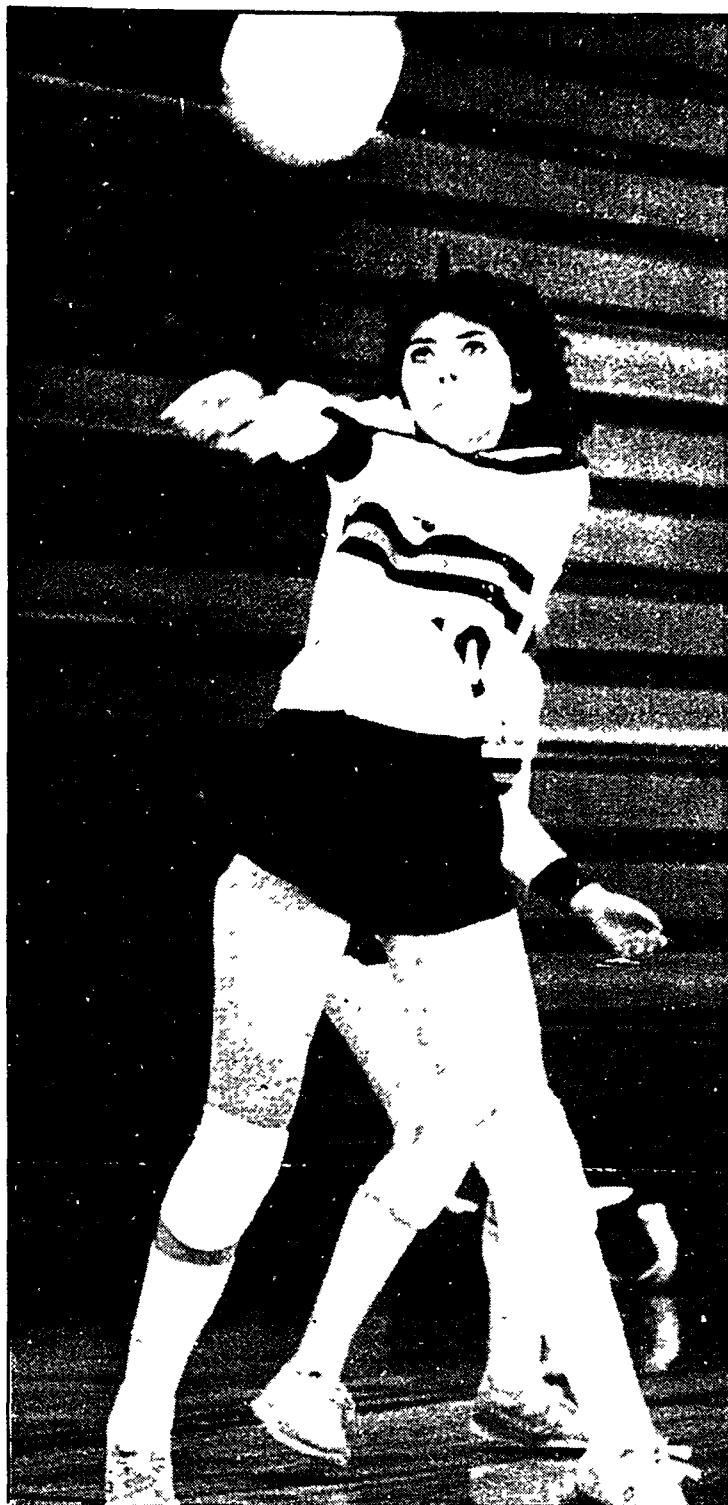

Also playing solidly were setters Cheryl Berryman and Tracy Martin, each with 14 good sets.

Saturday, the Mustangs competed in the 30-team Schoolcraft Invitational, and at several points during the day, demonstrated they could be a very tough team to beat when they put their minds to it.

The high point of the day was Northville's second game against the squad that finished first in its five-team pool, Temperance Bedford.

Bedford was the defending champion of the tourney and looked like it in the first game, wiping out the Mustangs 15-2. But in the second game, Northville put everything together and won 15-11.

"It was nice to see the girls come back and play well against a good not sure he'll be 100 percent for Thursday," Lutes said.

Northville expanded its lead from 11 points after three quarters to 20 points with 2:12 remaining, and Lutes cleared the bench to mop up.

Thursday, Northville hosts 12-5 Livonia Stevenson in the first round of the WLAAs playoffs. The Spartans had been early-season favorites for a league title, and they defeated Northville in a December encounter. But Lutes believes a solid team showing could avenge the loss.

"They've been an up and down team, and we've improved a lot. We're hoping to make the playoffs a kind of payback time. The key for us is going to be shutting off Tom Domako (Stevenson's 6'7" center)."

If Northville (now 11-6) wins, the Mustangs will play the winner of the Livonia Bentley-Plymouth Canton game on Tuesday. If Bentley wins, Northville will play at home and if Canton wins, Northville would play at Canton Tuesday night.

Should Northville lose, the Mustangs would play the loser of the Walled Lake Western-Walled Lake Central game.

To regional

senior — relatively light for his weight class — took a first-round pin, then defeated sixth-seeded Ken Bolinear 9-6 to qualify for semis.

Bolinear got the jump on Vogt with a quick takedown, but Vogt took the lead with two reversals, scoring seven points in the second period. Then it was a matter of simply avoiding mistakes, and Vogt hung on for the win.

"That felt good," Emerson declared. "Beating Bedford at Bedford is like beating God."

Vogt then took on the number two and one seeds in that order. South Lyon's Jeff Thomas, the eventual champion, pinned Vogt at 1:03 in the semifinal, then North Farmington's Brian Hood pinned Vogt at 2:47.

Districts are a one-match elimination situation, and the only other Mustangs to wrestle more than once were 145-pounder Mike Leavitt, 112-pounder Don Graham and 98-pounder Toby Balai. Each of the three won "rat-tail" first-round matches only to fall in their next matches.

"They all did a real nice job, but it was really tough out there," Emerson said. "It's so scary with districts."

Norm Estigoy, an excellent 126-pounder for Northville, was ill, and 155-pound Ernie Bock was grounded by his stomach muscle injuries — both were possible regional qualifiers conspicuous by their absence.

Losing their first-round matches were: Jim Assemany (105), Dennis Nadeau (119), John Lazar (126), John Letarte (who wrestled well against the tournament's second-seed 132 pounder), Mike Davis (138), Steve Smith (167) and Dino Candella (198).

Sports editor's note — It was incorrectly reported last week that Jim Assemany lost his final league tournament match to take sixth. Assemany in fact topped Livonia Churchill's Mike Krause 16-2 and took fifth place at 105 pounds.

Track coach tabbed

It was announced last week that Brian Murphy will take over as head coach of the Northville Mustangs boys' varsity track team this spring.

Murphy, 43, has considerable background in coaching — at De LaSalle High School from 1971 to 1975, he guided the varsity track team to two regional championships, and also coached the varsity cross-country team.

Murphy then took over as head coach of Garden City's track team from 1975-76. He returned to coaching after a five-year absence, taking over the track coaching reins at Livonia Ladywood. In 1981 and 1982, he coached at Plymouth Middle School.

"He knows track and field very well," said NHS Athletic Director Ralph Redmond. "He should help to stabilize our program somewhat."

Varsity cross-country coach Ed Gabrys will assist Murphy.

The head coaching position had been left open by the departure of Gary Polley.

Swimmers clinch division crown

Northville High School has a first-place Western Division trophy on order.

Oh, earning it last week wasn't that exciting — the Mustangs only had to beat Livonia Churchill, Farmington Harrison and Plymouth Canton in dual meets to claim the division title. And the only real challenger to the Mustangs was Churchill two weeks before. But last Thursday's 104-68 romp over Canton made it official.

"We swam pretty well," said Coach Pete Talbot. "It was nice for us that we won a meet that important so easily."

Easy it was — Northville took firsts in nine of 11 events, falling short only in diving and breast stroke.

There were good reasons for missing the diving first — Jeff Metz, till then undefeated in league competition, had picked up a toe injury that made landing on the board an ordeal. He still dove well, scoring 196.05.

Taking firsts for Northville were Adam Swallow in the 200 free (1:58.2) and 500 free (5:23.0); Doug Buell in individual medley (2:14.7) and 100 fly (59.21); Chris Johnson in the 50 free (23.6) and 100 free (53.3); and Jeff Bainbridge in the 100 back (1:01.1).

Both Mustang relay teams took firsts

— the medley relay team of Bainbridge, John Gass, Buell and Vince Shimp clocked a 1:50.83 and the freestyle relay foursome of Tim Valade, Swallow, Dave Wayne and Johnston turned in a 3:44.9.

The previous Tuesday's 97-80 non-conference loss to Livonia Franklin was much more interesting, albeit a much worse showing. Metz, Darius Mikalonis and Dave Wayne were all sidelined for th meet, the latter two with illness, and their absence was all the Patriots needed to eke out a 97-80 win.

Highlight of the meet for Northville was the diving of Jeff Pawlowski. His score of 204.8 was his best ever and qualified him, with Metz, to compete in the Class A Regional diving championships.

Buell's first-place 59.1 in fly gave Northville a two-point lead with five events to go. But Franklin managed 1-2-3 sweeps in the 100 freestyle and breast stroke to offset firsts by Swallow in the 500 free and Bainbridge in backstroke. By the freestyle relay, Franklin had an 87-72 lead that Northville could not make up.

"They kind of surprised us," Talbot admitted. "Missing those three made the difference, but we still should have been able to win."

Northville will host Livonia Stevenson in the Mustangs' final home meet of the season. The meet, which begins tomorrow at 7 p.m., will be "Senior Night" for the squad. The team will then gear up for a run at the league championship at the Western Lakes Activities Association playoffs next week.

Wednesday Salem will host preliminaries at 2 p.m. Then the following Friday, March 3, the Rocks will host the finals.

Mustang gymnasts earn invitation to regionals

By B.J. MARTIN

There's good news and bad news about the gymnastics team.

Bad news first (it travels quicker): Northville lost two dual meets last week, falling to Belleville 119-117 and to Farmington Harrison 121.75-117.35.

And the good news: both of Northville's team scores were high enough to qualify the Mustangs as a team to compete in the Class A Regional championships next month. It will be the third year in a row Northville will compete as a team at regionals.

Senior Cathy Heitert was as usual the dominant figure in both meets. Against talented Belleville, Heitert swept vault with an 8.3, uneven bars with an 8.85, balance beam with an 8.5 and floor exercise with an 8.2.

That Heitert's uneven bars score was her highest is not surprising. Hampered by damaged knee cartilage, she has found beam, floor and vault competition extremely painful. In uneven bars, which impose less strain on her knee, she appeared much more at ease.

"They want her to have surgery," reported Northville Coach Debbie Heck. "All it takes is to aggravate it once, and it's so bad you can barely walk. She's going to have a hard time putting weight on her leg now."

Diane Hale was the team's next leading scorer. Hale finished third in vault with a 7.6, second in bars with a 7.45, fourth in beam with a 7.85 and fourth in floor with 7.45.

The only other Mustang to place in any event was Wendy Wobermin. Wobermin claimed fourth in vault with a 6.7 score and fourth in bars with a 6.85.

Rounding out Northville's vault scores were Alicia Hickman's 6.6, Kim Wobermin's 5.7 and Julie Cass's 5.65. In bars, Kim Wobermin scored 5.0 and Tonia Hickman 4.8. In beam, Wendy Wobermin scored 6.6; Tonia Hickman 6.35, Kim Wobermin 6.2, Alicia Hickman 6.15 and Stacey Laurer 3.85. Alicia Hickman and Wobermin each scored 7.2 in floor and Tonia Hickman added a 6.8.

Two nights before, with Northville's scores held back somewhat because of lack of warm-up time, Harrison capitalized on its home advantage.

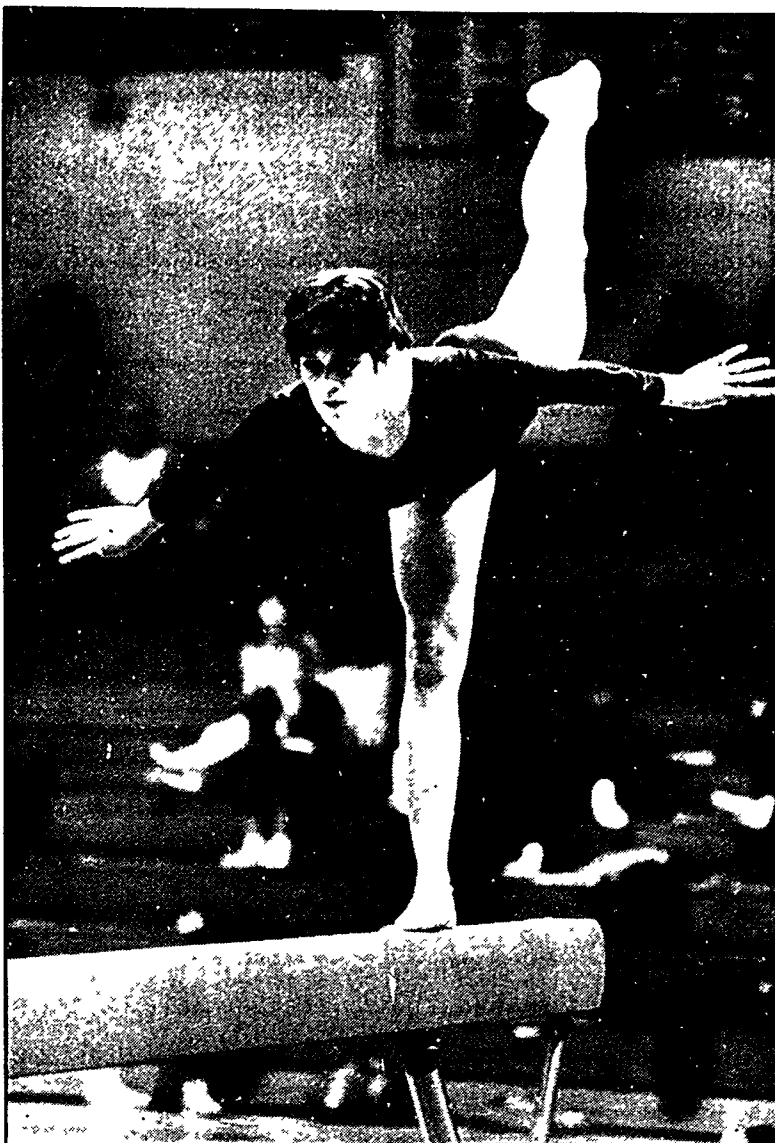

Heitert could manage only two firsts against the Hawks, registering a first-place 8.35 in vault and a winning score of 8.55 in balance beam, but finished second in floor exercise and uneven bars, with scores of 8.35 and 8.15 respectively.

Hale managed Northville's only other places, taking thirds in beam with a score of 8.15, in floor exercise with an 8.0 and in vault with a 7.9.

Other Mustang scores in beam were: Alicia Hickman, 6.45; Cass, 5.7; Wendy Wobermin, 5.65; Terri Forte 5.25 and Kim Wobermin 4.8. In uneven bars were: Hale, 6.95; Wendy Wobermin, 7.0; Kim Wobermin, 5.8; Tonia Hickman 4.9 and Dena Shackelford, 4.9.

In balance beam, Tonia Hickman scored 7.05, Wendy Wobermin 6.35, Kim Wobermin 6.3 and Alicia Hickman 6.1. And in floor exercise, Alicia Hickman scored 7.5, Wendy Wobermin 7.1, Forte 6.8 and Tonia Hickman 6.2.

Northville will wrap up its dual-meet season on the road, with meets tonight against Ypsilanti and Monday against Dearborn.

team," McDonald declared. "Hopefully we learned something from that, and it'll help our confidence."

Keying the win was solid play from two freshmen called up for the tournament, Robin Strunk and Tricia Ducker. Also, Ryan and Jane Cassidy played well, while Spaman and Nicki LaRoque helped out with improved consistency. "They weren't flashy, but they were two of our steadiest players Saturday," said McDonald. "They're both starting to hit the ball well at the net."

Northville split games against each of its opponents but one — North Farmington took two against the Mustangs, 15-5, 15-10. Northville went 12-15, 15-8 against Livonia Clarenceville and 12-15, 15-7 against Novi, whom the Mustangs host tonight at 7 p.m.

This Monday, Northville will play its final home match, against North Farmington. It will be "Senior Night" for the team and its followers.

The following Saturday, March 4, Northville will compete in the WLAA playoffs. McDonald is optimistic that the Mustangs can surprise some teams at that tourney if they play to their potential.

Cheerleaders win Alma bid

The Northville Mustang varsity cheerleading team, with a boost from JV cheerleader Lisa Lutz, qualified for the State Cheerleading Championships to be held at Alma College this Saturday.

At the Regional Championships, held at Holt High School in Lansing last Saturday, Northville placed fourth of the eight teams competing, despite the absence of Lisa Dye due to injury. Lisa Lutz was called up to fill in, and both Lisas will accompany the team to Alma.

Northville qualified for the state by finishing with 85 percent of the first-place team's score — the Holt Regional Champion was Woodhaven, one of the best cheerleading squads in the state.

The remaining varsity cheerleaders are: Amy Holland, Jill Anger, Jill Taschner, Jody Folino, Kim McRae, Jean DuSablón, Sandi Stephens, Michelle Craig and Kathy Kossak.

Northville girls pace Twisters Club

Northville's Kathy Abraham, a student at Meads Mill Junior High, took firsts in all four events in a gymnastics meet between her club, the Livonia Y Twisters, and the Mount Clemens Y Club.

Kathy took the overall honors in Class

IV with a score of 30.05. In the February 12 meet. Another Northville girl, Yvonne Beebe of Cooke Junior High School, took second in floor exercise in Class III.

The Great Lakes Class IV District Meet will be held at the Livonia Y March 4.

Women bankers break out of teller's cages

By TRISH COATES

A career in banking for women used to end with promotion to head teller. Today, the horizons have expanded to where increasing numbers of bank managers are female and there is opportunity to move beyond that level.

Maryann O'Connell, manager of Manufacturer's Bank Novi branch, cautions that the rise of women to higher echelon positions doesn't mean they're taking over the industry.

"This is still a male-oriented business," O'Connell said. "It's going to be awhile before you have a woman (bank) president."

Nancy Jarrait, manager of Security Bank Oakland County in Novi, said women need to rely on their own skills to move ahead. "You have to work a little bit harder," Ruefully, she added, "Even harder than the men."

As branch managers, both women supervise customer relations, open accounts, build up new business for the banks and handle loans. As O'Connell summed it up, "Everything that happens here, I'm responsible for."

Five years ago O'Connell entered the banking field in the management training program at Manufacturer's. Her psychology degree helps with dealing with customers, but she's had to take courses in finance and accounting to round out her education.

Jarrait took a different track in reaching her current position, one which no longer holds promise for women. Ten years ago, she took a job with Security as part-time teller. Her ability to maintain accurate count of money brought her to the attention of the manager and she was promoted to supervising the drive-in windows.

When an entry-level management position opened up, she applied for and won the job. Today, moving up from teller to manager would be difficult if not downright impossible, she said.

O'Connell agreed that the teller position is not the way for women to gain access to the higher echelons of power in the bank. "You need that college degree," she explained.

Problems with acceptance by customers have been few but not nonexistent, according to the bank managers.

"There's still a problem out there with the perception of women," O'Connell said. She attributes this more to unfamiliarity with women in positions of authority than to open hostility.

Nonetheless, she retains faith in the sensibilities of clients to appreciate competence.

"The more you know and the more confident you are determine customer reaction," O'Connell said. "If you know your job and can give straight answers to their questions, they will accept you."

'You have to work a little bit harder. Even harder than the men.'

— Nancy Jarrait
Bank branch manager

Jarrait said she experienced some negative reactions from customers when she first became a manager, but she chalked most of that up to her age and inexperience, not her sex. "Most customers today accept me," she said.

Every once in awhile, both women are faced with irate customers, usually over a problem cashing a check. O'Connell said there are certain skills needed to deal with such people, the most critical being patience.

"Sometimes you just let them rant and rave to get it out of their system, then talk reasonably with them," she explained. "Sometimes there's nothing you can do."

Both women said they see opportunities ahead in their careers. From their current positions as managers of low-volume branches, they foresee moving up to branches handling more business. From there, promotion to officer level is not out of their reach.

O'Connell said she hasn't received any flak from her male co-workers, but that some problems are inherent.

"So many higher-ups are men. They share interests," she explained. "Building up rapport with 50-year-old men is hard for a young woman."

Neither woman considers herself to be an outspoken feminist determined to change the system. In fact, it's quite the opposite.

To succeed, O'Connell suggested, women have to accept the situation as it is and work with it, not against it. And as far as Jarrait is concerned, nothing succeeds like hard work. The few women at Security who've made it have done so through working hard and sticking out the hassles, she said.

As male managers and customers get used to the sight of women managers and realize they are competent, both women said, their jobs will become easier.

If O'Connell has her way, the way of women managers in the future will be smoothed a bit by the current crop.

"When women my age move up, it will be to the benefit of women just starting out in banking," she said. "All of us will help along the new woman any way we can."

January home sales up 15 percent from 1983

Sales of existing homes started 1984 on a high note with Metro MLS, the multi-listing arm of the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors, reporting January sales at a 15.1 percent gain over the same month in 1983.

Indicating a continued recovery from a three-year housing market slump, the 845 sales were more than double the number recorded in January 1982.

The average price of $56,148 paid in January was down $468 or 0.8 percent from a year ago and $613 below the December average. It also was well under the $58,076 average price for all of 1983.

Conventional mortgages continued to regain favor as the most-used method of financing with 53.4 percent of January buyers choosing such instruments. With a high percentage now being written as adjustable rate mortgages, conventional mortgages more than doubled their percentage figure from a year ago and reached their highest level since August, 1979.

Land contracts, which were used in nearly one of every two sales a year ago, continued to decline in popularity to a 30 percent level. Assumed mortgages, which accounted for one of every three sales last year, were used in only 18.3 percent last month. Use of FHA and VA mortgages dipped to 7.1 percent from 24.1 percent last year.

While conventional mortgages were the most frequently used financing technique in every price range they found greatest favor — 75 percent — in the $90,000 to $100,000 class. Land contracts peaked in the $30,000 to $40,000 price range with 28.4 percent. The greatest number of assumed mortgages and government insured mortgages was in the under $30,000 price class.

Overall, four percent of buyers paid cash for their homes with the highest figure in the $70,000-$80,000 class.

Increased buyer interest appeared to moving ahead at a more accelerated pace than that of sellers with the 3,926 homes listed by Metro MLS members in January only 3.3 percent above the year earlier figure.

Some of the most active markets covered by the service showed a sharp reduction in listing from 1983. For example, Livonia had 333 listings in January 1983 but only 246 this year.

CROWN ARABIANS STABLE recently opened its new facilities at 2301 Six Mile, South Lyon. Owned by Ross Crown and managed by George Carlton and Harvey Schirmacher, the business is open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. seven days a week.

The stable offers horse boarding, training and lessons. It has a barn and an indoor arena with a heated observation room. Ross will also pick up and deliver horses as well as evaluate horses for sale or purchase. Ample outdoor acreage is available and the barn has an automatic fly control system, said Ross, who encouraged any inquiries at 449-4144. The stable also offers breeding services.

COMMODORE CARTAGE, a firm owned by John Quinn of Northville, was the mover of an exceptionally heavy piece of equipment recently.

A milling machine weighing 70,000 pounds, measuring 24 feet long by 14 feet wide, (at left in photo above) was moved from Foundry Flask and Equipment in Northville to Coleman, Michigan, near Midland.

The huge milling machine had been purchased by Homestead Manufacturing of Coleman. Photo by John Galloway.

Tax refunds to be donated

As Michigan taxpayers fill out their 1983 state income tax forms, they have two options for contributing a portion of any refund. They can donate $2 to a state fund for local child abuse programs, and/or donate at least $2 to a fund for the development of non-game wildlife habitat.

The Wildlife Fund is new this tax year. Monies will be used to support research and management of non-game fish and wildlife, designated endangered species and designated plant species. The fund will be administered by the DNR.

Farmers must file March 1

Commercial farmers and commercial fishers must file their 1983 federal income tax returns and pay any tax due by March 1, the Internal Revenue Service said in a reminder last week.

Persons who earned at least two-thirds of their 1982 or 1983 gross income from farming or fishing and did not pay estimated tax by January 17, 1984 (or paid by that date but underestimated their tax liability) must file their returns and pay all tax due by March 1 to avoid paying a penalty. Free IRS Publications 225 "Farmers Tax Guide," 595 "Tax Guide for Commercial Fishermen" and 505, "Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax" provide additional information.
