Elwood's the center of attention as he strolls Northville High hallways

NHS robot teaches as it learns

By B.J. MARTIN

They say Northville High School's only resident "student," Elwood, was named for the taller of the Blues Brothers, but it's hard to figure why. Elwood Blues was tall, a sharp dresser, could outdance Michael Jackson and played harmonica.

But this Elwood is a robot — the creation of Heathkit and Dick Deskovitz's individual study electronics course students. Heathkit supplied parts and instructions, and Deskovitz's students supplied the labor — nearly 2,000 hours worth.

"It's one heck of an educational tool," says Deskovitz, whose pupils recently finished assembling Elwood (originally christened by Heathkit as "Hero One"). The project began last September, and kept the absorbed crew working long beyond classroom hours to turn the pile of microchips, transistors and wires into a C-3PO-esque "droid."

"The interest has been sensational," Deskovitz adds. "Kids are coming in all the time to get a look at it."

"It's a beautiful extension of our electronics program. Other schools have robots, but generally the teacher assembles the thing and then brings it in. I think the key thing here was that the students did it themselves. "It's one thing to see how you can run a program on a video screen, but it's another to see something actually move according to your instructions."

Move and talk, as a matter of fact. A little voice synthesizer gives Elwood a 750-word vocabulary, considerably more than that of Elwood Blues.

He says things like "Low Power," when his batteries are running low, "Good Morning" when a student "wakes him up," and "Ready," when he wants further instructions. Last Thursday, he learned "Bye-Bye."

What else can he do? Well, marathons are out — his rechargeable batteries don't go too far. But he can "see" by way of his light sensor, "walk" by way of three wheels on his underside, and he can grab things in his tong-like hand.

But he's still a baby right now, still learning to do things on his own. In the coming weeks, students plan to program Elwood to do a variety of tasks of which he is capable.

Maybe he'll learn to turn on the lights in a room he goes into. Maybe he'll

'Green light' given to Meijer store plans

By B.J. MARTIN

A Meijer Thrifty Acres shopping center to be located at Eight Mile and Haggerty roads will likely open in spring of 1985, as the retail firm's developers secured final site plan approval from township planners last week.

At its February 28 meeting, the Northville Township Planning Commission voted unanimously to approve revised final site plans for the corporation's 34.7-acre land parcel on the southwest corner of the Haggerty-Eight Mile intersection.

"We have to secure the financing to develop first," said Meijer spokesman Dave Lukens last Friday. "But it's our intent to start construction this spring and open in spring of next year (1985)."

Meijer representatives had submitted final site plans in January, but township planners tabled approval until several issues could be studied by township and Wayne County officials.

The most thorny of those issues was the method of sewage disposal from the 185,000-square-foot building. Developers had acquired the rights to the property in 1972 in anticipation of a major sewer route being built along Haggerty Road — with public funds.

But successive sewer plans including "Super Sewer" were rejected, and Meijer developers decided to pump store sewage into an existing gravity-flow system serving subdivisions located to the southwest and south in Northville Township.

But township planners, as well as residents attending the commission's January 31 meeting were concerned about the potential hazards of the proposed high-pressure sewage line. A backup downstream, one resident noted, would soon result in major sewage flooding in subdivision homes.

The commission voted to submit the Meijer plans to the Township Water and Sewer Commission for study and a recommendation. At the water and sewer commissioners' February 15 meeting, Northville Township Engineer Jack McNeely repeated the analysis he had given planners earlier — that any mishap with the sewage line was most unlikely unless more properties came "on line."

Since additional development in the area would almost certainly occur after construction of the Haggerty sewer system, McNeely said Meijer's originally proposed route was "not an immediate concern."

Acting on the advice of Township Water and Sewer Commissioner Walt Hollinoty and McNeely, water and sewer commissioners recommended a compromise disposal plan.

Under the proposal, introduced by Hollinoty, Meijer would pump into the existing township system until the plan-

Board grants energy audit

By MICHELE McELMURRY

In an effort to curb rising energy costs in Northville's school buildings, the board of education Wednesday night awarded a $40,500 contract to a Dearborn engineering firm to conduct a comprehensive energy audit of the district's facilities.

Moylan Engineering and Associates was the lowest bidder for the district-wide audit to be conducted in all of the district's facilities except the high school. A comprehensive energy audit of the high school was completed in December, 1982, by Harley, Ellington, Pierce and Yee, a Southfield-based architectural firm.

Citing energy costs of $1 million — almost 10 percent of its annual budget — the board of education authorized the administration to secure bids for an energy audit at its January 23 meeting.

Burton Knighton, assistant superintendent for administrative services, told the board that while five engineering firms were invited to bid for the project, only three responded to the administration's request.

In addition to Moylan, the local firms bidding for the contract were BEMS Engineering and Bach Engineering and Associates. Both firms estimated the cost of the project at $53,249.16.

While the $40,000 bid from Moylan Engineering and Associates was considerably lower than the estimates from the two local firms, Knighton stressed that the contract was not awarded solely on the basis of the bid figure.

Board secretary Douglas Whitaker, who was among the panelists interviewing the firms, noted that "all three gave comprehensive presentations."

"We felt that any one of the three firms could do the job," he added.

Superintendent George Bell told the board that while Moylan Engineering and Associates is based in Dearborn, James Harvey, a senior engineer and partner in the firm, is a Northville resident and will be working on the project.

In its district-wide audit, the engineering firm is expected to identify all energy conservation measures and to make recommendations for a comprehensive energy conservation program, showing estimated implementation costs and payback periods.

In addition to completing the audit, the consultants will assist the district in preparing energy grant applications for matching federal and state funds through the United States Department of Energy.

Principal funding for the project is expected to come through Public Act 431 which enables school districts to borrow money for a period of 10 years for the purpose of financing energy improvement in schools.

Approved by the state legislature in December, 1982, P.A. 431 allows school districts to sell bonds in an amount up to 1.25 percent of the State Equalized Valuation of the district.

The sale of the bonds does not require a vote of the electorate and the debt is repaid through general fund monies saved because of the utility cost avoidance achieved through the completed energy measures.

Knighton told the board a comprehensive energy program "could save the district hundreds of thousands of dollars."

Township proposes $1.4 million budget

A proposed $1.42 million 1984-85 budget got its initial review by township trustees March 2 with the focus on projected revenues and the spending plans for the library, recreation program and police department.

Projected revenues of $1,426,715 were up from last year's budget of $1,302,694, but below the projected actual 1983-84 figure of $1,655,872. Business manager

David Lelko explained that delayed payment of state shared revenues from 1982 boosted the 1983-84 township income such that the actual current figure does not provide a true comparison with the projected 1984-85 revenues.

The budget shows income from property taxes and related revenue (the one percent administration fee) falling by $24,000 — due largely to the 1983 reassessment that reduced property tax bills last December.

Increased revenues are expected in the building department, where construction of an estimated 52 houses, two condominium projects and the Meijer store at Eight Mile and Haggerty are expected to boost revenues by $31,000 from the prior year.

Lelko is also projecting a $68,000 increase in state shared revenues over the 1983-84 budget figure, though the expectation of $419,000 this year is well below the year-end '83-84 total of $471,480.

Proposed expenditures for the shared services programs (library and recrea-

Street repairs — city needs them, but cash is short

Streets in all sections of the city are in varying stages of needing resurfacing. On that city council was in agreement Monday night. How to pay for paving was the problem.

"We need to look at all streets in Northville and develop a long-range plan, establishing priorities," agreed Mayor Paul Vernon as such streets as Main in the western part of the city and those in Northville Estates were cited.

Councilmember G. Dewey Gardner initiated the discussion as he asked what the status was of paving for Northville Heights Subdivision. Residents of the subdivision earlier had appeared before the council to request repaving.

City Manager Steven Walters reported that engineering studies had been done and a report drafted. He warned council, however, that, should the residents vote to have a special assessment, the city does not have funds in its budget to pay its share.

In the past, he said, the city has paid three-quarters of resurfacing costs. The council noted that it had been able to work out paving arrangements for South Main and that various payment methods could be explored for a general city resurfacing.

Meijer store plans get 'green light'

ned major Haggerty sewage interceptor becomes available. Since use of the pump would likely be short-term, Meijer could use less expensive sewage disposal equipment than if the route were to be used permanently.

Meijer has also received approval from Wayne County Health Department officials to build a wet well and haul off the sewage by truck. But such a short-term arrangement appears unlikely unless completion of the shopping center coincides almost exactly with availability of the Haggerty sewage route.

McNeely explained a possible third option to planners last week: "If they (Meijer developers) have the very good fortune for the Haggerty sewer to develop rapidly enough to be on time for their opening, they have that option also," McNeely told planning officials at last week's meeting. "It's their financial decision to make."

Asked after the meeting which sewage disposal option Meijer would most likely pursue, Meijer Vice-President of Real Estate John Stephenson speculated that the tie-in to the existing sewage route seemed most likely at present. But, he added, it was difficult to confirm that due to variables in both the store and Haggerty sewer line's construction schedules.

The other reasons commissioners had delayed final approval in January were zoning issues resolved last month by the Township Zoning Board of Appeals, plus landscaping plans, which were resolved at last week's commission meeting.

The ZBA last month granted a variance allowing two pylon signs to be built on the property, one more than zoning regulations allowed without such a variance. But officials said they were unable to grant a variance permitting Meijer a larger, taller sign. As a result, the sign on the front of the Meijer store will be considerably smaller than those on the faces of other stores in the chain.

The final landscaping plans (including the placement of more than 130 trees in the parking lot and along Eight Mile and Haggerty roads alone, plus several berms) were explained by Meijer architect Paul LeBlanc to the satisfaction of Northville Township commissioners.

Lighting plans for the site were shown to planners for the first time at last week's meeting. The lights will be 50 feet directly over the parking lot and 25 feet above driveways leading to the parking lot. Meijer representatives claimed nearby properties would be shrouded from the light of the installations by trees and topography.

Several hurdles remain for Meijer, in addition to financing. The firm must complete its roadwork plan for the Wayne County Road Commission and must also get final engineering plan approval from McNeely.

The engineering plans will be submitted to county and township officials, and will touch on the remaining controversial aspects of the proposed construction:

Road commissioners are insisting on detailed stormwater runoff plans as well as detailed plans for widening Haggerty Road near the shopping center.

The engineering plans will also determine the placement of fire hydrants, and the source for pressurized water for emergencies.

Since those engineering issues did not need to be resolved prior to final site plan approval, commissioners unanimously endorsed Commissioner Marvin Gans' motion for approval, with only Vice-Chair Bernard Baldwin absent.

Board initiates sewer plan

Formation of a special assessment district to construct a major sewer interceptor along the Haggerty Road corridor was begun with passage of a resolution by the township board March 2.

The resolution is the first official step in the creation of a special assessment district for the sewer, which would serve an estimated 1,000 acres of property along the eastern edge of the township.

Residents attending the special board meeting asked if beginning the district at this time would exclude the planned Meijer store at Eight Mile and Haggerty from the district, and were assured that it would not.

"If it moves along in a timely fashion, Meijer has agreed to participate," explained trustee Richard Allen, who as the board representative to the planning commission has been involved in discussions on the issue.

Supervisor John MacDonald added that the township water and sewer commission hopes to work out a temporary arrangement suitable to Meijer's needs. The Haggerty sewer likely cannot be installed until some time after the proposed opening date of the Meijer next spring.

There is an incentive for the developer to tie into the Haggerty Road sewer rather than constructing a system routing sewage to the west, Allen said.

"It's cheaper for them to tie into the S.A.D. than it is to go to a pumping station," Allen explained.

When asked if Meijer's commitment to the S.A.D. was on paper, MacDonald said it was not because "the problem is us." Meijer would use the Haggerty sewer if it were available, he said, but the township cannot provide it in time, nor can it provide a guarantee that it will be built in the near future.

The resolution passed last week instructs township engineer Edward J. McNeely to prepare plans for the new sewer system and cost estimates for its construction. Several public hearings and resolutions remain before the special assessment district is officially in place.

A large interceptor sewer near Haggerty Road has long been a part of the township's long-range planning for development on the east side. It had been included as a part of the "super sewer" proposal which was turned down last year. A new plan to improve sewer lines leading to Detroit's treatment plant deleted the Haggerty interceptor, prompting the township to consider construction of the sewer as an independent project.

Reject package liquor request

Noting that the city already has three stores with Specially Designated Distributor (SDD) licenses permitting the sale of alcoholic liquor for off-premises consumption, Northville City Council Monday voted unanimously to recommend denial of a new request.

Northville Party Shoppe at 680 West Eight Mile near Taft is seeking approval for the license to be used in conjunction with its existing Specially Designated Merchant (SDM) license which permits sale of beer and wine for consumption off the premises only.

"I don't think we need another (SDD) store," councilmember Paul Follino stated, saying he feels the city now is covered geographically with Good Time Party Store on Seven Mile, Spagy's Liquor Shoppe on Main Street and Hamlet Food Mart on Novi Road.

City to assess paving needs

of a letter to Ed Kriewall, Novi city manager, concerning the Beck Road construction agreement between the City of Novi and the City of Northville.

Dated February 23, the letter detailed two items the city wished included in the paving contract. One was an indemnity clause recommended by the city attorney to protect Northville under the City of Novi's insurance and the contractor and engineer insurance coverages since Northville will not be engineering the project but could be subject to suit.

The letter also noted that the extension south of Eight Mile on Beck was assigned 100 percent to the City of Northville. This apparently was done because Novi had no jurisdiction south of Eight Mile and it was assumed Northville did.

Walters pointed out in the letter that neither city has jurisdiction on the south leg, which is in the township, and therefore under the jurisdiction of the Wayne County Road Commission.

He suggested sharing that cost on a 50-50 basis since it is required by the connection of the north leg of Beck to Eight Mile and said if this is agreeable the city is ready to proceed with the paving agreement. The conditions were approved at last week's Novi council meeting.

City Manager Steven Walters said three liquor stores for 5,700 people is considered a fair number.

Noting that the Michigan Liquor Control Commission notice asked for council's input if the location were not in compliance with appropriate health laws and ordinances or other factors, Mayor Paul Vernon said he felt proximity to Cooke Junior High School on Taft Road definitely was a factor in his evaluation.

It was pointed out that the previous owner of the party store had three violations of selling to minors and was about to lose the license when he sold the business.

"If we ran into a problem with soldering, we'd work on soldering techniques, or whatever. And people would be enthusiastic, they'd really want to learn,"

Deskovitz declares.

"We're trying to get students to follow electronics all the way from learning the basics to assembling — and understanding — what goes into making of something like the robot. It makes a big difference when you have something to which you can apply what you've learned.

"Now they're showing me how to work it."

Fire engine tops township block grant requests

Proposed uses for $88,000 the township expects to receive through the federal community development block grant program include purchase of fire truck designed to combat brush fires, a van bus for use in the senior citizens' program, and assistance to low and moderate income residents in paying special assessments.

The proposals will be discussed in a future public hearing. The proposed uses were selected from more than dozen recommended by various township departments and were approved by the township board last Friday.

Also receiving block grant funding, if the proposals are approved, would be the First Step domestic abuse program and planning for a park on Beck Road between Five and Six Mile roads.

Largest share of the monies would go to the fire department for purchase of a truck designed for use fighting grass fires. Township fire chief Robert Toms presented evidence last month that, of the brush fires in the township, 70 percent occur on state property such as the mental hospital. These areas are, by definition, low income regions eligible for block grant assistance.

So the estimated $46,000 cost of the truck is recommended for 70 percent grant funding, or $32,200.

The vehicle for the senior citizens' program would cost $26,800, according to the proposed uses, and is eligible for full funding under the grant program.

Another $15,000 of the grant funds would be devoted to payment of special assessments for low and moderate income persons. In recommending the appropriation, township clerk Susan Heintz noted that these funds likely will be used most in the Park Gardens area, but that other residents will be eligible for assistance.

The First Step program would receive $1,000 from the township's block grant share — the amount requested in a letter to Heintz from First Step executive director Jane Dewey.

tion) show the reduction of the township's assessed property values, combined with a small increase in the city values, shifts the shared services funding burden slightly toward the city.

Shared services are funded on a formula which provides that 45 percent of the budget be split 50-50 between township and city and the remaining 55 percent be apportioned on the basis of overall property values. The net result for 1984-85 has the township providing 59.66 percent of the locally funded budget for library and recreation while the city picks up 40.34 percent of the tab. Last year the proportion was 60.12 percent township and 39.88 percent city.

The township police budget proposal of $635,647 includes promotion of one of the department's three sergeants to lieutenant and the hiring of one additional patrol officer. The proposal presented by chief Ken Hardesty is $50,182 higher than last year's budget and $74,000 than end-year estimates. Hardesty explained that the department was budgeted for the one more patrol officer last year, which he postponed to the upcoming fiscal year. Two officers were added last year.

Of the increase, Hardesty noted, some $18,850 results from a bookkeeping change that includes "in-and-out" expenses in the budget rather than in a separate accounting. These increases do not reflect actual increases in expenditures over last year, he said: provision of a school crossing guard in Highland Lakes at a cost of $4,690 (one-half funded by the school district); police details to Highland Lakes and McDonald's (budgeted at $6,000 but expected to result in income of $7,500); training of officers ($1,000 from the state); and participation in a county alcohol enforcement program ($7,000, fully reimbursed).

More detailed review of the budget will be conducted during March, with one special session scheduled March 13 at township hall. Additional reviews may be scheduled if necessary.

Police Blotters

Break-ins reported at community center, businesses

In the City...

Two city businesses and the Northville Community Center were broken into within a 14-hour time span last week, but city police would not say whether the three break-ins were related.

Approximately $275 worth of miscellaneous tools was stolen from the boiler room/storage area for Town and Country Bicycles, 148 North Center. According to city police, unknown person(s) gained entry to the business room by prying a hasp and lock from the rear door sometime between 6:30 p.m. Thursday and 1 a.m. Friday. Stolen were a 1/2-inch drill, a 3drill, a chrome timing light, an orbital sander, a circular saw and a jigsaw. Damage to the lock was estimated at $5.

No theft was reported in a break-in at the Northville Insurance Exchange, 670 Griswold, but the business sustained $1,000 damage when a tinted 4-foot by 8-foot window was shattered, apparently by a rock. A police report stated that sometime between 6 p.m. Thursday and 7:30 a.m. Friday, unknown person(s) entered the building's kitchenette area, and apparently helped themselves to a bottle of soda pop and a carton of yogurt kept in the refrigerator. Nothing, however, was reported stolen. Police confiscated the bottle and carton, plus a spoon used to eat the yogurt, for investigation.

Four video games inside the Northville Community Center were broken into between 11 p.m. Thursday and 8 a.m. Friday, city police reported. Undaunted by the fact the building is located next door to the city police station, unknown person(s) entered the building by removing the door window in the building's southwest corner.

Going through the locker room in the basement, the subject(s) removed the door hinge pins from the door leading to the front lobby, then removed the door. Coin containers to the four machines were removed, then left on a pool table in the lobby after $80 worth of quarters was removed. Damage to the machines was estimated at $100.

A black 1975 two-door Oldsmobile was stolen while parked in front of R & J Styling, 543 West Seven Mile, between midnight and 1 a.m. Saturday. According to a city police report, the car had a dented driver's door.

An automobile accident at Beal and River streets at 7:57 a.m. Sunday resulted in a Northville woman's being taken by ambulance to Providence-Novi Hospital, where she was treated and released.

According to a city police accident report, Dixie Lee Gripe, 43, was issued a citation for failure to yield at the River Street stop sign. James Hombring of Garden City, the driver of the other car, was unhurt.

City police reported six arrests of drunk drivers between Thursday and Sunday. One arrest was made in Canton Township during a shift on the Wayne County Alcohol Enforcement Team.

...in the Township

Items valued at $1,195 were stolen from the garage of a Winchester residence sometime between 2 and 7:50 a.m. February 23, township police report.

The complainant told police her husband noticed the garage door open when he left for work at 7:50 a.m. February 23, but thought one of his daughters left it open.

According to the police report, the complainant further stated that her husband called her from work to advise her about the door being left open — at which time she went out and noticed items missing from the garage.

Police noted that the garage door was unlocked at the time the incident occurred.

Items missing included a $300 Toro lawn mower, a circular saw valued at $175, a buffer/sander valued at $150, a Rockwell saber saw estimated to be worth $150, a Black and Decker electrical impact wrench valued at $150 and other tools and materials.

An AM-FM cassette valued at $350 was stolen from a 1982 BMW parked in a Swan Harbour lot sometime between 11:15 p.m. February 28 and 10:30 a.m. February 29, township police report.

The complainant told police that unknown suspects gained entry to his vehicle by prying on the driver's door window and apparently lifting the lock button while the window was pulled back. The dashboard also was damaged around the radio opening.

Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $200.

Unknown suspects smashed the windshield and damaged the hood of a 1982 Pontiac Trans Am parked at a Jamestown Circle residence sometime between 10:15 p.m. February 25 and 2:30 p.m. February 29, township police report.

The complainant told police the vehicle had been parked in front of the Jamestown residence since February 23.

Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $200.

TAX TIPS

LEE E. HOLLAND, C.P.A.

USE OF TAX REFUND TO MAKE IRA CONTRIBUTION

Thanks to a new IRS ruling, it is possible to use your 1983 tax refund to make an IRA contribution. Under Rev. Rul. 84-18 you can make the contribution after the return is filled (and refund is received) if the contribution is made no later than April 16, 1984 (April 15 is on a Sunday).

Even more dramatic, file for an automatic 120 day extension (until August 15). This allows you to get a 1983 deduction even though you do not make the contribution until 7 1/2 months after the close of the year.

Of course, if you owe tax, you should still take advantage of this maneuver so as to reduce your 1983 tax liability.

This is just one of many tax-saving opportunities under the law that you can take advantage of. Why not call us for an appointment to discuss them?

Historical society offers craft classes

Basketry, chair caning, Pysanky and quilting are only a few of the classes and workshops being offered this spring by the Northville Historical Society.

Lucia Danes reports that brochures have been mailed to area residents and registration currently is under way.

Among the instructors returning to Mill Race Village this spring is Helen Maki, who will be teaching Basic Basketry from 9-11 a.m. Fridays, March 16 through April 6.

Basketry techniques for beginning or advanced students will be taught in the four-week class. Cost is $20.

Maki also will instruct a Pysanky workshop from 9 a.m. to noon March 24. Pysanky, a Ukrainian tradition of decorating eggs with wax and dyes, is for adults only and will meet at Wash Oak School.

Don Sober also will return to New School Church to instruct a four-week Chair Caning class from 7-9 p.m. Wednesdays, April 4-25.

Sober will instruct students in the seven-step method of caning.

Mary Gerathy, a popular herbalist from Greenfield Village, is conducting a one-day workshop titled "Gathering for Fragrance."

The workshop, offered from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. March 24, will focus on all aspects of fragrant plant materials and how to preserve for wreaths, potpourris, sachets and room fresheners. Gerathy also will share her recipes for fragrant concoctions and resources for oils and preservatives.

Among the new offerings is a Still Life Painting class taught by Northville artist Caroline Dunphy. Participants in the four-week course will choose their own medium and set up a Victorian still life using flowers, fruits and articles from the Northville Historical Society's collection.

Still Life Painting will meet from 7-9 p.m. Tuesdays beginning March 27. Cost is $20.

John Brugeman, a horticulturist and president of the historical society, will instruct a morning workshop on Spring Pruning March 31.

Participants will learn basic pruning techniques for ornamental shrubs and trees. Cost for the workshop is $7.

Other workshops offered this spring include "Early Northville, A Walking Tour," instructed by author Laura Smyth Hixson. Participants in the May 5 afternoon workshop will accompany Hixson on a two-hour tour of sights pictured in her book, "Early Northville."

Jo Krause, who has been teaching society classes for five years, will instruct a Quilting for the Beginner workshop from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. March 31.

Participants will learn the basics of quilting while executing the country "shoo-fly" pattern in a quilt block.

Kids-Only classes include a Natural Egg Dyeing workshop from 9:30 a.m. to noon April 21 for children ages eight and older.

Mill Race Basket Guild volunteers will be conducting a two-session Easter Basket class March 31 and April 7 for children nine and older.

Students will make a hand-woven split basket with handle. Cost for the class is $8.

Instructor Wanda Huber will teach children to use natural materials to make dyes for Easter eggs.

Anyone requesting more information or a brochure should call 349-6784.

Friends slate dinner for Gearns family

Friends of Bill and Joanne Gearns and their five children will be holding an "appreciation" spaghetti dinner for the family from 1-5 p.m. March 18 at the Northville VFW Post 4012 at 438 South Main.

"For those who don't recognize the names of this couple, they have lived in the Northville area for more than 25 years," reports Ruth Mejia, a member of the North-West Lioness Club which Joanne Gearns currently heads as its president.

"Bill Gearns," she explains, "recently took an early medical retirement from the Northville Public Schools after working for the schools for 16 years. While there, he worked at football games for the Northville Colts."

He is a member of the Northville City Volunteer Fire Department and American Legion Post 147. With his wife he actively has worked to raise money for "Jerry's Kids," cancer organizations, the North-West Lioness Club and the Woman's Auxiliary of the Northville City Fire Department and the Civic Concern Committee.

Right now, Mrs. Mejia reports, he is in Detroit Osteopathic Hospital suffering from cancer.

"Because they have done so much to bring a little light to others without any thought of thanks, we want to show our appreciation," she says, urging those who know the family to help support the dinner a week from Sunday.

The VFW is donating its facilities for the benefit and others are donating the meal so that everything raised will go to the Gearns family, Mrs. Mejia states.

Dinner tickets are being sold at various business locations around town and will be sold at the door. They are $5 for adults. Pat Alkire of the appreciation committee may be contacted for more information at 349-3687.

Benefits offer chance to dine at college

Both Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees and the Women's Resource Center at Schoolcraft are sponsoring dinner events this month on campus.

Area residents who have heard of the fame of the college culinary arts department have an opportunity to enjoy special dinners while assisting the college organizations.

The board of trustees is sponsoring an Irish Semi-Buffer Dinner Dance March 16 at the Waterman Campus Center. Dinner will be from 6:30-8:30 p.m. with dancing following from 8-11:30 p.m.

Ticket donations are $12.50 with a beer and wine cash bar. Menu will include "Irish Bangers" (spicy Irish sausage with sauteed apples and onions), roast shoulder of lamb with mint sauce, creamed Finnan Haddie, boneless chicken and leek, authentic Irish lamb stew and conclude with Irish mist cake with brandy sauce.

Reservations may be made by calling the college, 591-6400, extension 212. Checks should be mailed to the president's office at 18600 Haggerty, Livonia, 48152.

A donation of $25 includes two tickets and recognition as a sponsor of the Women's Resource Center. Individual tickets also are available for $10. Checks should be sent to the Women's Resource Center/Schoolcraft College, 18600 Haggerty, Livonia, 48152. Tickets will be held at the door.

Canine casting

When selecting cast members for Northville High School's upcoming production of "Annie," director Kurt Kinde had one rather unusual audition — choosing the right canine to play Little Orphan Annie's beloved Sandy. Northville residents — both young and old — turned out at the dog auditions to show off their prized pets. The only criteria was that the pooches be paper trained. Pictured above is Shannon Couzens (center), who stars as Annie in the upcoming production, surrounded by pet owners and Sandy hopefuls. At right, director Kurt Kinde and judge Carol Stuebben watch the auditions. Record photos by John Galloway.

Nirider named to new post

Northville native Lisa Nirider, a former public relations director for the American Cancer Society in Detroit, has been named associate director of publicity at Lenoir-Rhyne College in Hickory, North Carolina.

Nirider, 30, held several positions with the American Cancer Society in Detroit in addition to her public relations post. She served as director of income development for almost three years and was responsible for all fundraising and other activities to raise approximately $1 million annually.

She also served as executive director of the Calhoun County Unit of the American Cancer Society in Battle Creek and was the information specialist for the American Red Cross in Detroit before joining the Cancer Society.

Nirider is a 1976 graduate of Michigan State University with a degree in journalism and worked at the Detroit News during her college days. In 1980, she was selected as the Young Careerist for District 9 (which includes Northville) of the Business and Professional Women's Club.

She and her family moved to the Hickory area in November. Her husband, Stan, is employed as plant manager of the Shatterproof Glass Corporation plant in Claremont. The Niriders have two children, Matthew, 2, and Katie, 1. They reside in the North Lakes area of Caldwell County.

YOU ARE INVITED TO AN IMPORTANT FREE SEMINAR.

You may think of an Individual Retirement Account (IRA) primarily as an excellent way to obtain a $2,000 deduction on your income tax every year.

Almost everyone with earned income now has that opportunity. But it is also much more than that. It's an opportunity to add substantially to your retirement funds.

What you may not know — and will discover at this special seminar — is that some IRAs do more for your money than others.

You'll learn how some lock you in to one type of investment. How others limit you to a fixed rate of return. While a Merrill Lynch IRA opens up virtually the entire range of investment opportunities to your money during the important accumulation years.

The reason, of course, is to give it more chances to grow faster. You'll learn how you can choose from over 50 different investments. How you can switch from one to another any time your goals change or new opportunities arise. And why you, like more than 750,000 Merrill Lynch IRA customers, who have invested over five billion dollars to date, can have confidence in our world financial leadership and IRA experience.

Before you make a decision as important as a retirement investment, you should know all your choices. We'll explain them to you. The seminar is free, but reservations are essential. To make yours, please call or mail the coupon today.

For further information, contact the Community Education office at 349-3400, extension 214.

Millage meetings slated

Northville Schools Superintendent George Bell will answer questions about the upcoming April 9 school millage election in a series of general information meetings beginning March 15.

Meetings are scheduled at 7:30 p.m. and will be held at the following locations:

- March 15 — Moraine;
- March 21 — Silver Springs;
- March 27 — Amerman;
- March 28 — Winchester

The meetings are open to the public.

In addition to the scheduled general information sessions, Bell will address two sections of the Current Issues classes (senior citizens' classes sponsored by Northville Community Education) about the millage election.

The superintendent will make a presentation at 9:30 a.m. March 14 at Swan Harbor Clubhouse and at 9:30 a.m. March 27 at Allen Terrace.

Although the two presentations are part of the Current Issues classes, the meetings are open to the public free of charge.

N.A.C. to meet Wednesday

The Northville Action Committee (N.A.C.), formerly the Substance Abuse Task Force, will meet at 7:30 p.m. March 14 in the high school library. Guest speaker will be Norma Maudlin of the Royal Oak Families in Action.

The Northville Action Committee has been meeting bi-monthly in an effort to eliminate the use of illegal substances by Northville youth.

Comprised of parents, students and school staff members, N.A.C. has spent much of its time educating members about the extent of the substance abuse problem in Northville.

Although still in the formation stages, N.A.C. currently is working on an informational brochure, a parent handbook and a letter to area merchants. A letter has been drafted to be delivered to all area merchants that sell alcoholic beverages asking for their help in the enforcement of a vigorous age identification process.

The V.F.W. and the Amerman PTA recently sponsored programs on substance abuse presented by the Michigan State Police. More informational meetings are planned for the future.

The Northville Action Committee meets at 7:30 p.m. the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month in the high school library. The public is welcome.

Straight A's win her second scholarship

The local chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma did not have to look too far this year when awarding its annual scholarship.

For the first time in almost a decade, the teachers' organization has renewed its $500 scholarship to a former recipient.

For the second year in a row, Carolyn Dragon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dragon of 21864 Bedford, was selected for the local scholarship based upon her perfect 4.0 (straight A) average during her first semester at University of Michigan.

Mary Najarian, president of the local chapter, explained that while the scholarship traditionally is given to a graduating high school senior, Carolyn's "outstanding" academic performance during her first semester in U-M's College of Engineering convinced the chapter to renew the honor.

Najarian noted that when selecting recipients, the scholarship committee takes into consideration academics, social activities and financial need. Delta Kappa Gamma has been awarding scholarships to Northville High School seniors since 1957.

While Carolyn was among the valedictorians in Northville High School's Class of '83, she also was a member of the pompon squad and worked at Elias Brothers.

Currently looking toward the field of bio-engineering, the 19-year-old scholarship winner said her interests are in the areas of math, medicine, human psychology and anatomy.

Though only in the second semester of her freshman year, she noted that she's "looking ahead at graduate school — maybe medicine."

With five brothers and sisters, Carolyn's $500 scholarship will undoubtedly be put to good use. She noted that while her older brother just graduated from U-M in electrical engineering, her younger brother will be entering Michigan State University this fall.

Locally, Karen Wilkinson will be the distinguished honoree of the evening in recognition of her many years of service to the Northville Public School district as both a member of the Northville Board of Education and her affiliation with the Michigan Association of School Boards, where she now serves as president.

Each school will also honor two persons who have dedicated themselves to the welfare of children and youth in the school community.

David Bolitho, principal of Northville High School, will be the speaker of the evening.

Tickets are available in each school office.

Bookstop houses used books

Add another name to the list of area book stores carrying used books.

At the Bookstop in Northville Plaza Mall at 42261 Seven Mile there's a special room, Second Time Around Bargain Back Room, for browsing and finding secondhand bargains.

Owner Janis Stevenson says she stocks mostly paperbacks but also has hard cover books in the room that has about one-third of the store's business.

The books are offered at half the cover price — or at a bargain 50 cents with a trade-in. "Needless to say," remarks Stevenson, "most transactions are trade-ins." She adds that she welcomes readers who are free to take their time browsing in the mall store.

Stevenson has operated the book store for four years, celebrating its fourth birthday in February. Bookstop is open from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday.

Council requests input on Eight Mile stoplight

"I don't know that I've been convinced that we need it," commented councilmember J. Burton DeRusha as city council Monday night considered a recommendation of the Oakland County Road Commission to make the traffic light at Eight Mile and Taft fully functional daytimes Monday through Friday.

Mayor Paul Vernon agreed that "real concerns have been registered" regarding motorists' ability to stop on Eight Mile in the wintertime.

City Manager Steven Walters reminded the council that "we don't have the authority to say what to do — it's the Oakland County Road Commission."

The recommendation to change the signal from the current flasher with a button on the pole for pedestrian traffic to a fully functional signal from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday came from Janet Vogel of the road commission who had conducted a survey of the intersection traffic.

The council instructed Walters to see if she will meet with the council and explain the recommendation. "We need communication with the road commission and want to explore this more," said Vernon.

Captain James Petres of the city police department told the council that the daily 24-hour traffic count was 11,000 on Eight Mile and 2,200 on Taft.

The police department had been notified that the work order was to be submitted with work to be completed this spring, pending final approval of the road commission.

Library preferred grant use

Northville City Council Monday night approved unanimously earmarking Wayne County CD Block Grant Funds for the library debt retirement as number one priority and the Downtown Development Authority for the second phase of the Mainstreet program as number two.

It acted upon recommendation of City Manager Steven Walters. He said that when funds become available in July, the city should proceed with the downtown development.

During his training, Good received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid and Army history and traditions.

Our Opinions

Welcome, Meijer — a valuable asset

Northville Township Planning Commission's final approval of site plans for Meijer, Inc. ranks with the saving of the Ford plant as one of the most significant economic developments in the Northville community in recent history. Beyond the considerable economic impact of the store itself, it establishes the tone for the area as a future business district.

Overall, we think that's going to be a plus. There are some who don't care to see Northville grow too fast, and, indeed, had Meijer decided to locate almost anywhere else in Northville but Eight Mile and Haggerty, its 185,000-square-foot store and proportionately large parking lot could have been overly intrusive.

But traffic and existing development along I-275 make it absurd to insist on preserving a strip of undeveloped land right in the expressway's shadow. That's particularly true when local tax revenues — which mostly go to schools — stand to get a shot in the arm when the store hits its stride. If more businesses move in to take advantage of the location, so much the better.

In fact, it's possible the gains in tax revenue may more than offset any possible devaluations in property value caused by the increased proximity of the business to residential subdivisions. If well-packaged and well-located businesses help foot the tax bill, Northville's residential desirability is enhanced.

Arguments that the additional runs by township police and fire departments to the Meijer are questionable. Store plans include an extensive interior sprinkler system, and Meijer will provide its own security force.

Meijer developers earned the commission's approval by accommodating to the township's relatively stringent landscaping and construction requirements. There are so many trees and berms planned to "soften" the impact of the store, by the time the trees mature it might be hard to see the building from Eight Mile or Haggerty. And the Meijer sign on the front of the building is almost comically small relative to the size of the store.

On the other hand, both the downsized sign and the tree plantings are definitely aesthetic pluses, particularly compared with the appearance of other Meijer stores. It will be wise for planners to insist on similarly strict standards for future businesses locating nearby.

'Annie' continues fine record

When Daddy Warbucks, Miss Hannigan and Little Orphan Annie take to the Northville High School stage March 16, chances are this cast of characters will be playing to a full house.

Students, staff and parents are putting the final touches on the drama department's spring musical after months of long, hard work. It seems likely that the upcoming production of "Annie" will be as well received as past presentations — most notably "Grease" and last spring's musical "The Music Man."

The Northville High School Drama Department has earned a reputation for quality and professionalism — and deservedly so. For years, the NHS drama department has been entertaining the Northville community with an array of theater favorites — from "Arsenic and Old Lace" to "Fiddler on the Roof."

While all involved in the drama department's efforts are deserving of plaudits, much of the credit for its success goes to director Kurt Kinde.

Kinde's rapport with students coupled with his dedication to providing quality theater in Northville not only has offered delightful entertainment to local audiences, but has given NHS students an excellent training ground in drama. It definitely is affordable entertainment for the community. The drama department is offering a special price of $1 to senior citizens for an evening performance. Allen Terrace residents will have a bus available to take them to the high school.

We wish the cast much success on its opening night and throughout its four-evening run. "Annie" will be shown March 16-17 and 23-24 with a special matinee scheduled March 24.

Leapin' lizards, don't miss it.

Press too powerful? Not this writer

So people think the press is getting too powerful these days, do they? They think we have too much of an influence on events, eh? We should all be so lucky.

Take the weather. Please. There really was no indication before last week that March would come in like a lion. But forget the isobars and pressure centers — the real reason for last week's blizzard was the fact that we planned to run articles on kite-flying and gardening in last Wednesday's "Our Town" section.

This alone would provide ample proof that the Power of the Press is overestimated, but I'll give another example. In January, I wanted to make us look like we're right on top of things. I wrote a story about how the Northville Township Planning Commission was going to consider Meijer Thrifty Acres' final site plans.

My headline went something like this: "Approval of Meijer site plans expected at meeting." At that January meeting, the Township Planning Commission decided to table them for a month.

If you think about it, though, the headline wasn't misleading. I sure expected commissioners to approve the plans back then.

Last week, of course, commissioners finally did approve 'em. I figure that's because I didn't write a preview story this time around. So does Meijer, Inc., who sent me a thank-you card.

My unnerving prognostication carries over to national politics, which, I suppose, is why I'm a sports writer.

"Jimmy Carter?" I scoffed in early '76 after seeing one of his yawn-inspiring campaign speeches in Missouri. "The guy doesn't have a prayer of getting the nomination, let alone winning the presidency."

This may seem like myopia, but actually I was pretty close. I was just four years ahead of schedule.

I started 1980 by thinking Ford or Bush (George Bush, he's vice-president) would outrun Reagan for the Republican nomination. Think that's dumb? I bet a six-pack on Carter the night of the election, and I hadn't even had anything to drink yet. Here was my reasoning: I figured everybody was saying they'd vote for Ron just to scare Jim-Boy into doing something/anything. Election night, I was so mad about being wrong, I hurled both my Frank Sinatra records out the window of my apartment. I replaced them with the "No Nukes Concert" and "Best of Joan Baez."

So get your betting money out front now, because I'm picking 'em this year: Mondale will breeze to the Democratic nomination, but Reagan will bury Fritz in a landslide this November. (If the Democrats win, I will pitch a Crosby, Stills and Nash record out my window.)

Did I say I was better suited for the world of sports? No sooner do I write that the Mustang basketball team has "turned the corner" and is playing the best it has all season, then it loses three straight. It can now be told. I did the same thing to the Tigers last fall. I took my Pop down to that September double-header against Baltimore when we were down by about three games. I said, "This is it, Dad. This is the night we make our run on 'em." It rained that night. And the Orioles took both ends. I'm sorry, Detroit.

My friends call this phenomenon "jinxing," i.e. predicting an event with such vehement certainty as to guarantee the opposite will occur. It works very well in cards. When playing euchre, for example, it's good form when down 8-3 to say, "Well, might as well finish the game, even though we don't have a chance." You are guaranteed to sweep the next seven points.

So don't sweat it, Mustang cagers. I predict you'll get blown away in the Class A Districts this week. You're welcome.

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

I know what you're thinking. "Geez, but it's been a long time since Ol' Phil wrote about Bonnie and Clyde. I wonder how those characters are doing."

Good news, folks. In response to numerous requests, I've decided to give you an update on the latest adventures of the Golden Boys.

Actually, the news is not good. The problem is that B and C seem to be developing neuroses as they race through puberty into adulthood.

When last mentioned, the Golden Boys had been reunited. Bonnie had been rescued after going AWOL for more than a month in those sub-zero temperatures during January, and our yellow-and-white orphans had been reunited.

A lot has happened since then. Most importantly, the Golden Boys have been neutered in accord with the best advice of the Humane Society.

The neutering had the desired psychological effect, making B and C less prone to stray away from home. However, the operation has had some psychological side effects, and that's what's got me worried.

For example, Clyde, the fearsome hunter, has grown particularly attached to a chair in the study. Mr. C appears to live in mortal fear of being forced to go outside. Everytime we approach the front door with that "it's time to go outside" look in our eyes, Clyde runs and hides under his favorite chair.

The problem with Bonnie is somewhat different, but no less dissettling. You remember Bonnie? The incredible hulk? The barbarian of the cat world? Well, Bonnie seems to think he's a bird.

Mr. B. goes outside without any problems. But once he gets there, he heads immediately for his favorite tree — a 40-foot evergreen along our property line.

When Bonnie's not inside, he can be found perched quietly in the uppermost limbs of the evergreen ... probably discussing the idiosyncracies of homo sapiens with his little feathered friends.

I'm resisting my wife's suggestion that the Golden Boys should see a cat psychiatrist. There are times when the cure seems worse than the disease.

Proposed salary hikes criticized

To the Editor:
Township board members should come out in the open regarding the proposed salary increase for elected officials. Who is behind the utter disregard for the taxpayers of Northville?
I served on the wage and salaries commission when we adopted the concept of part-time positions for supervisor, clerk and treasurer while the business manager's position was established as a full-time position.
Thus, the business manager could handle daily business and administrative duties, supplemented by dedicated part-time professionals, serving as elected officials. To be sure, some wrinkles still need to be adjusted, but the structure has worked reasonably well.
Not surprisingly, some elected township officials are attempting to raise salaries to further their own careers. It is clear an attempt is being made to create an impression of need, when in reality, the business manager is capable of handling administrative duties on a daily basis.

Furthermore, the wage and salaries commission should be the proper vehicle for consideration and discussion of such proposals, but it has been allowed to remain dormant for the past two years.
An important distinction must be made between voluntary dedication and greed by manipulation. Careers, fame and imagery should be secondary, when one decides to serve the public, but too often they become the focus of attention by some politicians.
If money is available for salary increases, why not consider giving it to staff members working in the township hall based upon merit and performance? Whatever happened to our proposals regarding a merit plan and performance evaluation?

Larry D. VanderMolen
EDITOR'S NOTE: Initial evaluations of township staff took place in October, 1983, as a program of evaluations was instituted.
He supports proposal for school millage
To the Editor:
Three years ago I co-chaired the Citizens Advisory Committee formed to study millage alternatives after renewal of a 9.5 mill request was turned down by voters. I also chaired the Budget Analysis Subcommittee that developed the financial analysis on which the 7 mill level was based.
I accepted these appointments because I felt very strongly about two things. First, the voters, stung by the recession, simply were not going to renew the 9.5 mills, and second, acceptance of a 2.5 mill reduction by the school district was burdensome but achievable.

The response by all school personnel was responsible. The superintendent initiated numerous studies which identified ways to reduce costs, and total expenditures were curtailed to the lower millage level. The board and teachers responded by adopting a moderate labor contract.
It is my opinion that this attitude of cost moderation without sacrifice of quality education continues today throughout the Northville School District. The increase of 2.5 mills to restore the millage to the 1980 level is the minimum necessary to sustain a quality program in Northville and is consistent with responsible management and controlled costs.
I support this increase and urge approval.

Checkpoint debate brewing in legislature

By R. ROBERT GEAKE
State Senator

In the future, the term "Checkpoint Charlie" could be bad news if Charlie happens to be drunk. That will be the case if the Governor's Drunk Driving Task Force — made up of police, lawmakers, community officials and private citizens — gets its way. That group has proposed Michigan begin a program to stop motorists at random and check them for sobriety.
The task force is now concluding a series of hearings across the state on the proposed checkpoints, and the issue has become a source of controversy. The ball is now in the legislative court, as a result of a recent bill introduced in the senate to allow such check lanes. In response, a house bill was proposed to make them illegal. If those divergent bills are any indication, the issue is certain to be a hot one when and if it reaches our chambers.
The two sides' positions stack up in the following way: supporters of the check lanes believe they are an effective deterrent to drunk driving. Citing similar programs in other states, they claim that drunk driving arrests rise significantly under a checklane program.
Advocates believe that these checks are on a brief and reasonable driving interruption, well worth the inconvenience if they cut down on Michigan's many drunk-driving related injuries and fatalities. That has been the case in Maryland, they point out. Maryland's program, in effect for about a year, uses checkpoints only at night and on weekends. Each checkpoint is manned by about eight officers wearing reflective vests. Reflective lights tell motorists about 500 feet in advance that they are about to be stopped by a government authority and observed for signs of drunkenness, and could even subsequently be administered a breathalyzer test.

Opponents, who include the American Civil Liberties Union, believe the checkpoints are a "Gestapo" type of technique that represents not only inconvenience but a severe government invasion of privacy, as well. They contend that the checkpoints are a violation of constitutional safeguards against "unreasonable searches and seizures."
Supporters and opponents are all over the map on this one. The Michigan State Police director favors the checklane concept, as does the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police. The Michigan Sheriff's Association, however, opposes it, pointing out the potential traffic hazards and costs.
Is Michigan ready for drunk driving checkpoints? Our drunk driving laws were given a sharp new set of teeth less than a year ago, and we have not fully analyzed the success of those new laws.

Reform bars lawmakers from immunity

By GERALD H. LAW
State Representative

On the 1982 general election ballot, voters approved Proposal A, which allowed the legislature to amend the State Constitution to change "existing constitutional exemptions for legislators from civil arrest and process during legislative sessions."
Last week, the Michigan House of Representative adopted the changes mandated by the voters so that they are no longer immune from such civil infractions as traffic violations, subpoenas and other administrative cases unless they are actually in legislative session or in committee meetings.

The three-bill reform package was approved earlier this year by the senate, but the package was returned following house action because some minor changes were made in the earlier senate version. After the changes are made, the governor is expected to sign the legislation.

Once the legislation is signed, lawmakers will no longer be able to avoid traffic violations by claiming immunity. Papers can be served to them and they can be subpoenaed at any time when they are not in actual session, or in committee, or performing legitimate legislative business. Under the old immunity laws, state lawmakers could only be served papers or subpoenas on a handful of days in late December, after the legislature had adjourned for the year.

The changes in the immunity laws are fair and healthy. Lawmakers will still be insulated from legal action during the legislative day, and constituent letters, tapes and other communications will be exempt from the new subpoena powers, preserving the trust between legislator and constituent.

Using the newspaper to improve reading

Welcome to our Newspaper in Education News, a special page published today during Newspaper in Education (NIE) Week, March 5-9.

What is NIE Week? Co-sponsored by the American Newspaper Publishers Association Foundation and the International Reading Association, NIE Week is designed to help get students interested in reading by using the newspaper.

Last year, 600 newspapers participated in the NIE program and some 1.5 million students used newspapers in the classroom as teachers explored new ways of enhancing reading skills.

Many teachers found that using the newspaper as a classroom tool not only improved the students' reading skills but also influenced student motivation and increased math skills and knowledge of current affairs as well.

Our Newspaper in Education News is a family page—for parents who want to help their elementary-aged students improve their reading skills. The exercises presented here are designed for parent and child to work together.

The newspaper can serve as one tool to help improve students' reading skills. For more information on what parents and students can do to develop the "reading habit," contact a reading specialist in your local school district.

Pictures prove casualty loss

SUE LOWE

It's a dismal scene and the possibility of its becoming a reality worries everyone.

It is the scene that occurs in the mind's eye when the word "fire" is mentioned. We picture ourselves standing in front of a pile of blackened wood staring into space.

All too often those fears are realized (insurance figures indicate that one out of every five families will suffer a loss sometime in their life). A home or business burns or, worse yet, explodes and the owner is left with the impossible task of reconstructing the loss for an insurance company.

Ken Lee, proprietor of Expert Video Photography, says he can make this task a lot easier more accurate by taking video pictures of homes and businesses before disaster strikes.

Lee says he has researched the subject and talked with people from various insurance companies and is convinced that if clients need homeowners policies, they'll need pictures to document the loss.

"You can tell your insurance company you had three sofas or two television sets, but how do you prove the condition of those items?" Lee asks. He says if you can't prove your case, you will lose money. And, the situation will be the same no matter what occurs — fire, lightning, theft or natural disaster. Lee urges people to prepare in advance by having video pictures taken of their belongings. "The tape can be placed in a security box and will serve as a permanent record which will help you reclaim your assets at an equitable value," he explains. The shelf life of video tape is 25 to 50 years.

"There are only 12 people in Michigan who do this full-time," Lee says. "It is a new idea whose time is emerging." He says someday such a service might be supplied by insurers.

According to a local insurance executive, the precautions Lee urges would be valuable to a client reconstructing a loss for an insurance claim. Insurers know their clients forget to claim many items. Lee suggests one forgotten item could be worth the cost of his video service.

Admitting the importance of pictures in conducting an insurance claim, why should they be video, and why taken by a professional photographer?

Camera quality, which relates to picture quality, is the answer to both questions. Cost might be another consideration. "The cost of a colored print to document every item in the home or business could be astronomical," says Lee.

The camera Lee uses in his service is a Minolta he says is one of the best available. "I have approximately $7,000 worth of equipment," says Lee. "It's designed to produce sharp, clear pictures of tiny items such as jewelry or large items such as the exterior of a building."

Aside from pictures for insurance claims, Lee's camera could also be used to record family pictures or important documents. Although these have little financial value, they mean a lot to the people involved and video tape is another way of keeping them for posterity.

The tape can be shown with a VHS recorder on the average television set. The pictures are of professional quality. The audio portion of the tape is valuable for the customer to describe unlabeled possessions.

Lee says he has been interested in photography since he was a teenager. "I liked to take close-ups of flowers and subjects which required detail work," he says. The change to video photography was a natural progression for Lee, but he says he had the idea for his business before he bought his camera. Lee has been operating Expert Video Photography for nearly a year.

Prices for Lee's service are $45 for the first hour and $35 for each additional hour, plus $10 for the tape. The average house takes between 60 and 90 minutes to tape. Lee is registered with area police departments and is bonded and insured.

Do not be misled by 'Jeep' ad

By CHUCK NUSBAUM

Is it true you can buy Jeeps for $44 through the U.S. government? Definitely not, says a spokesperson for the U.S. Defense Property Disposal Service, and people should be wary of newspaper and magazine ads that even hint at the contrary.

A reader alerted the Argus to just such an advertisement that appeared twice recently in the "Green Sheet" classified section of all newspapers belonging to the Sliger-Livingston chain. The ad invites readers to call a Chicago area number to purchase a directory with "facts" on the $44 Jeep mentioned earlier.

The phone number connects you with a private information service that advertises two different directories selling for $16.50 each or two for $22. One directory lists sources for government surplus goods while the other—entitled "Tapping Uncle Sam's Millions"—provides information on other federal government windfalls ranging from land to low-interest loans.

Bill Collins, a public affairs spokesperson for the defense agency's disposal service, said the directories are usually little more than a list of addresses that are otherwise available at no charge from the government.

"They'll send you the nearest little brochure you ever saw," he said. "They print them in two colors and everything. The trouble is, once you go through all that information, you still have to call us to get on a bidders' list. But by then you've already blown anywhere from $2 to $50."

Applications for the surplus bidders' list are available from the DPDS Bidders Control Office-2, Post Office Box 1370, Federal Center, Battle Creek, Michigan 49016.

Collins said defense officials have been working with the postal service for several years to put an end to the "Jeep" schemes. Those who profit from the familiar come on usually keep one step ahead of authorities by frequently changing their addresses, he said.

"They are giving you something for your money, so it's hard to catch them," said Collins. "There's no copyright law on government publications and the Freedom of Information Act requires us to bare our files to these people. It's a messy situation. We end up helping the people we're trying to put out of business."

The "Jeep" gimmick employed by these enterprisers is patently false, said Collins. The tough little vehicles that people associate with the World War II era are cut up for parts or crushed, and cannot be sold to the public.

Defense officials do on occasion dispose of modern Jeep CJ5's, Broncos or Scouts, said Collins, but even they are usually sold for a scrap value of $300 to $400 if they are not first claimed for "reuse" by state or local governments.

"We try to reutilize all our vehicles to save tax dollars," explained Collins. "Otherwise our main objective is to get as much as we can for them."

Dawn Whitmarsh, manager of classified advertising for Sliger-Livingston Communications, said the company tries to screen out any advertising that could mislead readers. "We're a family newspaper, and we don't want our readers to get ripped off," she said.

Whitmarsh said the "Jeep" ad was allowed to run only after advertisers changed their pitch to make it obvious they were selling a type of directory. She said the newspaper recently banned similar advertising by one California outfit that was asking $16.95 for what turned out to be a simple listing of government jobs.

"There's a lot of people out of work in this area, and we felt these ads were a disservice to them," said Whitmarsh.

For the past few weeks, dance instructor Nancy Thomas has been guiding a troupe of little twinkletoes through the rigors of ballet. Sponsored through Northville's Community Recreation Department, the beginning ballet class not only helps area tiny tots attain poise, grace and style, it also gives them a chance to wear legwarmers. Thomas, who has been teaching dance in Northville for many years, always keeps an eye out for prima ballerinas. Not too hard to find with this group.

Auction offers services, unusual items to top bidders

By JEAN DAY

Just when it seems that every fund-raising possibility has been exhausted, some local organization comes up with an appealing new idea. At Amerman Elementary it's a PTA auction of both goods and services for adults and youngsters to be held in the gymnasium on March 15.

Beginning at 7:30 p.m., Amerman teacher John Stutterheim will be offering services, including those of a legal consultant to draw up a will, a veterinarian to neuter a cat or dog, a dentist for examination and cleaning, tutoring, typing and even rototilling a garden — all to the highest bidder.

Judy Beyersdorf, Amerman PTA president and auction chairman, says the PTA is hoping that area residents (in addition to parents with children at Amerman) will attend. Babysitting will be available without charge for children under five years old, and refreshments are planned. In addition to the on-the-floor auction there will be some special items offered at silent auction for the highest bid.

In addition to services, workers report, there will be choice items offered, including four lobsters, a Pendleton blanket, a "welcome home" meal, a youth guitar, season passes to the Detroit Institute of Arts and Detroit Science Center passes. For young people there will be cross country skiing, roller skating and horseback riding to bid on. A special item is "lunch with Principal William Craft and Mayor Paul Vernon."

Some 150 services and merchandise items have been donated, PTA workers report. Mrs. Beyersdorf adds that the community has been most generous. Members of her committee will be attired in old-fashioned costumes as they assist the auctioneer and serve refreshments a week from Thursday.

Chocolate mousse to complete society dinner

Jeanne Hubbard and Lynda Heaton have chosen with care the menu for the Northville Historical Society's progressive dinner this Saturday. When those attending assemble at the Yerkes House in Mill Race Historical Village, they will nibble on filled cheese puffs, Teriyaki chicken wings, Williamsburg olive balls and a veggie bowl while sipping cocktail punch.

Participants will be assigned dinner homes (most are being hosted in homes in the historic district) and will bring dishes for the menu. Main course will be filet mignon served on crouton with Dumouchelle butter, West Indian cold rice salad, la marmite vegetable with wines. Final stop will be for chocolate mousse cake with coffee and tea.

The committee had a special assist with the dinner from Helen Hopping who volunteered to bake all the yeast rolls for the dinner. At two rolls a person that totals 240 rolls — because the event has been a sellout from the week it was announced. Recipes used for the dinner will be published in next week's Northville Record.

They're Questing in Ann Arbor, then Indiana

Base Line Questers antiques study club is planning an outing in Ann Arbor on March 15. Members plan to visit the Treasure Mart before lunching at the Ann Arbor Women's City Club and then visiting the Jefferson Art Lighting Studio for a special tour. Reservations and transportation arrangements are being made by Ruth Klein.

The group also is planning a spring outing May 15-16 to Shipshewana, Indiana, to pay a second visit to the Amish market there. Shipshewana is located just south of the Michigan border near Sturgis and is noted for its vast outdoor market and antique auction.

Silver Springs students return to "yesteryear"

February 20 and 27 were special dates for third and fourth grade students in the classes of Janet Henderson and Mary

Larsen-Ramsey vows recited

Diane Ramsey of 725 Randolph and Thomas H. Larsen of Novi exchanged marriage vows January 28 at First Presbyterian Church of Northville.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. George Pritchard of 525 Fairbrook. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Lawrence Larsen of Plymouth.

The bride was given away by her sons, Charles and Cameron Ramsey.

Dr. Lawrence Chamberlain officiated at the double ring ceremony. Soloist was John Merrifield.

Matron of honor was Carolyn Kleinsmith of Plymouth with Jerry Coll of Plymouth serving as best man.

The bridegroom's sons Michael and Brian Larsen served as ushers.

A reception for 75 guests followed the ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Postma of Northville. Out-of-town guests included the bride's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Pritchard of BelAir, Maryland.

The couple honeymooned at Shaker-town at Pleasant Hill in Kentucky. They have made their home in Novi.

Culik at Silver Springs Elementary. They report that teachers and students crossed the "twilight zone" bridge at Mill Race Historical Village and entered the Victorian Era. The teachers found themselves in long dresses . . . students were "zapped" into knickers and long dresses and spent their day writing on slates at the Wash Oak School.

The classes were the first to use the authentic curriculum developed by the Northville Branch of the American Association of University Women for the schoolhouse. The world as it was in 1873 came alive for the 1984 students. In preparation for the visit, youngsters in Ms. Culik's had read Jack Hoffman's book, "Northville — the First 100 Years." They invited the author to speak to them during their outing.

(New offerings at the Library)

The following is a selection of new fiction on the bookshelves at Northville Public Library:

The Crucible of Time, John Brunner. An outstanding science fiction epic which traces an alien race's progress from primitive existence to the threshold of space travel.

Countrymen of bones, Robert Butler. As J. Robert Oppenheimer and team prepare to test the atom bomb, archeologist Reeves works on a most important find.

An Admirable Woman, Arthur A. Cohen. The life of a woman (who resembles Hannah Arendt), a brilliant German-Jewish scholar who affected many by her work.

Turtle Beach, Blanche d'Alpuget. In Malasia, Judith meets a magnetic man whose oriental ways and thoughts are both attractive and repellent to her.

The last gasp, Trevor Hoyle. This terrible vision of the possible near future convincingly shows how drastically our supply of air could diminish.

Season of yellow leaf, Douglas Jones. This haunting, memorable saga of a white girl, 10, kidnapped by Comanche Indians, portrays their way of life.

Act of Darkness, Frances King. In India during the 1930s, an English boy is murdered. A suspenseful story of Indian-English mistrust.

Falls the Shadow, Emanuel Litvinoff. This serious character study investigates the reasons why one respected Israeli is gunned down by another.

Marie Blythe: a novel, Howard Frank Mosher. Soon after her family moves to Vermont, Marie becomes an orphan. Taken by the rich Benedicts, she is 14 and friendless.

The stories of Bernard Malamud, Bernard Malamud. From the National Book Award winner, these 25 tales have idiosyncratic, very human and wonderful characters.

Tikal: a novel about the Maya, Daniel Peters. In the pre-Columbian Mayan empire, dedicated to wars and self-glorification, a clan rebels, led by its holy man.

The anatomy lesson, Philip Roth. Guilt ridden, angry, obsessed, mordantly witty Zuckerman is back in this sequel to Zuckerman unbound.

A Country such as this, James Webb. Three Naval Academy graduates keep their pledge to remain close through the Korean and Vietnam wars and afterwards in Washington.

Madeleine, Pamela West. An absorbing psychological novel about a 21-year-old Scottish girl, tried over 125 years ago for the murder of her former lover.

Methodists plan Lenten observance

A service of Holy Communion at 7:30 p.m. today will usher in the Lenten schedule at First United Methodist Church of Northville.

Prior to the service, a pancake supper will be served in fellowship hall by the church youth club, beginning at 6 p.m.

Each Wednesday evening during Lent through April 11 there will be adult studies at the church from 7:30-9 p.m. Courses include Parenting coordinated by Dr. George Berquist; Discipleship as seen through the Gospel of Mark with Rosella Lee as instructor; a survey of the Book of Romans by the Reverend Eric Hammar.

Beginning on Ash Wednesday (today) at 6:30 a.m. there will be an opportunity for a time of Bible study, prayer and devotion with those attending having coffee and donuts.

A special Lenten devotional of faith renewal is scheduled for 8-9:30 a.m. beginning Sunday and continuing through April 15. Following a continental breakfast and time of sharing, participants will study events of the last week of Jesus' life.

Two church family nights also are slated during Lent. A dessert night is planned for 6:30 p.m. March 18. It will include study on missions for young children, a musical review for youth group and a film for adults, "All Your Parts Don't Wear Out at the Same Time." It deals with aging.

A second family night is set for 5:30 p.m. April 8. A planned potluck will be served before a program provided by Bill Becker on the art of Lent.

As in previous years, the church announces, youth of the congregation will present a musical on Palm Sunday under the direction of Gary and Stacey Becker at 10 a.m. and 11 a.m.

Local artists featured in weavers' exhibit

Northville fiber artists Donna Pacheco and Gloria Teeter will be among the 100 weavers participating in the Michigan Weavers' Guild Exhibit and Sale March 7-11 at Somerset Mall in Troy.

Pacheco, a graduate of Brandeis University with study in fine arts and art history, will be featuring rugs and clothing at the Somerset sale.

She has studied with Gloria Teeter at Traditional Handcrafts and has participated in many juried shows and exhibits throughout Michigan.

Teeter, owner of Northville's Traditional Handcrafts for more than 11 years, will be a juror for entries in the exhibit.

A member of the Michigan Weavers' Guild, Michigan League of Handweavers and the Michigan Yarn Retailers' Association, Teeter has taught weaving, spinning and natural dyeing at Traditional Handcrafts.

Featured techniques in the widely-acclaimed show include weaving, spinning, basketry, sculptural crochet, wrapping, knotting, felting and bobbin lace.

Articles in the exhibit and sale will range from fine art objects to functional accessories, wallhangings to wearables, baby blankets to bed throws, jackets to jewelry, pillows to placemats and traditional techniques to eccentric fiber designs. Handspun and dyed yarns will be a highlight for knitters and other fiber artists.

150th celebration

To mark the 150th anniversary of First United Methodist Church and the Centennial of United Methodist Women, local U.M.W. members led the worship service the final Sunday in February in commemoration of the church's celebration. First United Methodist Church will be marking its 150th anniversary throughout the year with special services the last Sunday of each month. A celebration dinner will be held in October. Local members have traced United Methodist Women to 1871 when it was then known as the Women's Foreign Missionary Service. Among those participating in the special service were from left Karon Frisbie (front), Meg Coponen and Louise Older. At right are Laura Hicks (front), Louese Cansfield, Rosella Lee and Pat Eden. AAUW hosts Fireside Chats

Northville AAUW members will meet for Fireside Chats on March 13 at the homes of volunteer hostesses, Margaret Spigarelli and Joyce Liddle.

"Stress and Time Management" will be discussed by Virginia Kennedy at the Spigarelli residence, 21648 Welch.

Kennedy, who holds a master's degree in guidance and counseling, has worked with adolescents in a Life Management Skills program in Livonia. She also has taught empathy training and self-directed career planning courses through the Women's Resource Center at Schoolcraft College.

For the past year, she has been teaching courses in Time Management and Procrastination at Schoolcraft.

Elizabeth Unsworth, R.N., will discuss "Women's Health Concerns" at the Liddle residence, 42240 Chatterton. Unsworth, a Northville resident, received a bachelor's degree from Presbyterian University in Pittsburgh. She is a registered nurse with American Nurses Association certification.

She joined the staff of the Visiting Nurses Association of Metropolitan Detroit 11 years ago, where her diversified caseload has provided her with a wealth of experience in the health field.

The American Association of University Women is open to women graduates of accredited colleges and universities. Anyone interested in membership should call Jean Hansen at 348-6096 or Jay Ward at 349-3456.

Demonstrations of various fiber techniques emphasizing spinning and weaving will be held during the exhibit and sale. Visitors may try their hand at a loom or a spinning wheel.

The Michigan Weavers' Guild, sponsors of the Somerset exhibit and sale, was founded in 1947 for the purpose of promoting excellence in handweaving and related fiber techniques.

Membership in the Guild consists of women and men from the greater Detroit metropolitan area, Ontario and as far out-state as Grand Rapids, Williamsburg and Lansing.

The Somerset Mall Exhibit and Sale will be held from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Wednesday and Saturday; 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Thursday and Friday and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday.

There is no admission charge. Somerset Mall is located at Big Beaver and Coolidge in Troy.

Mustangs claim division swim title

By B.J. MARTIN

Pete Talbot's swan song turned out to be a pretty good tune.

"It was very satisfying," grinned the Mustang swim coach after his squad took top divisional honors in the Western Lakes Activities Association's Western Division at the WLA League Swim Meet Friday.

"We worked hard for this ever since we lost it last year," Talbot added. "We worked hard for it since then and when we had to swim well, we did."

The meet was Talbot's last as head coach of the Mustang tankers since the NHS grad will be moving to North Carolina this spring. And the team gave him a good memory to go on.

"In the five years I've been here, I think we've come a long way toward getting our program back to where it should be," he said.

Northville's 152.5 points took fourth overall at the meet, but league champ Plymouth Salem (251), Livonia Stevenson (236.5) and Farmington (182) all come from the league's Lakes Division. The Mustangs' closest Western Division rival was Livonia Churchill, who scored 146.

Plymouth Canton finished sixth with 86.5 points, Farmington Harr seventh with 61.5, Livonia Bentley eighth with 37, Walled Lake Central ninth with 24 and Walled Lake Western last, with 10.

Northville got its biggest scoring boost from the diving finals, where Jeff Pawloski, Jeff Metz and Joel Grasley each finished third, fourth and sixth, respectively — the best showing by any team in the event.

There were no Mustang champions, but there were some close calls. Backstroker Jeff Bainbridge took second in the 100-yard backstroke with a 58.31 timing — less than a second slower than Stevenson's Kevin Everhart and half a second off Northville's school record.

Darius Mikalonis took fourth in the 200 freestyle with a 1:53.67 time and sixth in the 100 back with a 1:01.06.

Doug Buell picked up a sixth place in the 100 butterfly for Northville's only additional finish in the top six in individual events.

Only Salem's freestyle relay team was faster than Northville's foursome of Buell, Mikalonis, Ron Johnston and

Northville's heavyweight hero, Bryan Burgett.

Burgett fifth at state

Bryan Burgett's not an easy guy to overlook anyway, but the Northville senior gained even more visibility last weekend.

"Bubba" placed fifth in the state at the Michigan High School Athletic Association Wrestling Championships, held at Lansing Eastern High School Friday and Saturday.

Burgett (37-9) had a hard battle for his fifth-place medal. He gambled a quick takedown maneuver in his first-round match against Hazel Park's Tim Radinger, but Radinger turned Burgett over for a 22-second pin. The defending state champ, Radinger reclaimed his title this year with a 35-0 record.

Burgett wrestled his best with his back to the wall. He needed three straight victories to claim a medal.

The first one was easy. Burgett gained a default victory over Lake Orion's Kerry Midkoff, who had been injured in an earlier match.

Then Burgett faced East Kentwood's Brandon Born, the tourney's biggest competitor at 6'5", 245 pounds. Undaunted by Born's 33-5 record, Burgett slammed his back to the mat in just 53 seconds.

Roseville Brablec's Chris Alfano was Burgett's next opponent, and Burgett avenged an earlier loss to Alfano with a 44-second pin, qualifying Burgett for medal bracket competition Saturday.

In consolation semifinals, Burgett lost on a pin at 1:05 to regional first-seed, Randy Siegler of Monroe, who sported a 35-3-1 record. The loss dropped Burgett to the fifth-sixth place match and Burgett beat Tom Barker from Grandville 17-6.

"Barker just wouldn't go down," Emerson laughed. "Believe it or not, that the only match Bubba won by decision all season."

Burgett, you see, tends to pin his opponents rather than take decisions. As a result, he holds the Northville High School season record for pins — 28.

"Bubba was just 15-15 last year, his first year of wrestling," Emerson said. "But he worked really hard and never missed a day of practice. I was glad he got to have the experience of going to state — it's a real nice set-up with the ceremonies and medals. He's just been a great kid."

Northville cagers' losing streak ill-timed

It was a week of upsets, in New Hampshire and Maine as well as hereabouts.

But it was the Northville varsity basketball team who looked like a bunch of Walter Mondales in the Western Lakes Activities Association playoffs last week.

Make that John Glenns — Walled Lake Central and Farmington Harrison, each throttled by Northville earlier this season, stung the Mustangs with two WLAAs tourney losses. The pair of defeats, the second and third in a row for the Mustangs, dropped Northville's final regular-season record to 11-9.

Worse, the negative momentum is coming at the worst possible moment — as the Mustangs prepare for the Class A Districts at Plymouth Canton this week. At 7:30 p.m. tonight, Northville will have to beat the winner of this week's Plymouth Canton vs. Wayne playoff game to make it to the district final Friday. All playoff games are at Plymouth Canton.

It was no Super Tuesday last week — a determined Central squad knocked off the Mustangs 71-61 braced by cener Clark Bock's 20 points and forward Tom Cummings' 17. Central plucked up 29 fourth-quarter points — 15 from the free-throw line — to preserve the win.

Bob Pegrum led Northville with 17 points, but even the senior point guard was off his game, committing eight turnovers. And despite a size advantage, Northville was repeatedly beaten on the boards. Mike Weber led the Mustangs with 10 rebounds and added 12 points, but he and Pegrum were the only Mustangs scoring in double figures.

"Nothing seems to go right when you lose," said Coach Tim Lutes, who was at a loss to explain his team's flat-footedness. "We just aren't playing good defense — that's why lately, we're giving up so many foul shots," he added.

After a dismal night Tuesday, Steve Schrader — named All-Western Division center by WLAAs coaches this week — exploded with 24 points Friday. But it wasn't enough to knock off Farmington Harrison, who prevailed 63-61.

A better showing at the free throw line would have helped the Mustangs, but they were only 13 of 26.

Northville led the game by as many as 13 points, but the Hawks chipped away at the Mustangs' lead throughout the second half. The Hawks finally caught Northville late in the fourth quarter, as guard Brian Hickey began hitting 20-footers like layups.

Hickey finished the night with 24 points — almost all in the second half — and his two free throws with seconds left provided the victory margin for Harrison, now 6-13.

Mustang gymnasts fourth at WLAAs meet

By B.J. MARTIN

Despite fine performances by Northville's Cathy Heitert and Diane Hale at Saturday's Western Lakes Activities Association meet, there was no way anyone was going to eclipse tournament host North Farmington.

The Raider squad totaled 131.7 points, a full 6.6 points ahead of runner-up Plymouth Canton's 125.1. Canton took Western Division honors by nosing out third-overall Farmington Harrison (121.25) and Northville (120.50).

Plymouth Salem finished fifth with 120.25 points, followed by Farmington, Walled Lake Western and Walled Lake Central.

Only one gymnast — Canton's Linda Beale — had a better afternoon than Heitert. Beale accumulated 34.91 points to receive top individual honors, while the Northville senior scored 33.95 to take second. Hale was 10th overall with 32 points, and Wendy Wobermin placed 19th with a solid 28.3 total.

"There might have been some problems with nerves," admitted Mustang gymnastics coach Debbie Heck who may have been the reason for the problems. Heck became the meet's worst casualty when she ripped knee cartilage while spotting (aiding dismounts) in balance beam. Without Heck's reliable hands to catch them, the Mustangs may have felt a little wary on the beam.

"It's important to have someone experienced do the spotting," Heck explained. "If you miss a spot, if you're not right in tune with it, a girl can really get hurt."

Northville's beam scores suffered accordingly. Heitert fell twice and Hale once during their routines, a very rare occurrence under normal circumstances. Heitert placed sixth with a 7.9, when her routine likely would have scored near 9.0 without the falls. Hale tied for seventh, scoring 7.85.

It's uncertain whether either Hale or Heitert could have topped North Farmington's Sharon Shiffra's 9.1 in vault, but both came close. Hale nailed down her half-twist-on, full-twist-off perfectly, scoring a fifth-place 8.85. "That was Diane's best vault all season," Heck said.

Heitert placed sixth with an 8.75 despite her accidentally performing the wrong vault on her second try. Ironically, the vault she did was more difficult than the one she had intended and might have been the afternoon's best.

Heitert rebounded by claiming first in uneven bars with a score of 8.9. Hale tied with North Farmington's Dona Kebrdle for tenth, scoring 7.75.

Scores throughout the meet were low in floor exercise, where Kebrdle's 8.6

led the field. Heitert was third with a score of 8.35, but was edged for a division title by Beale's 8.55.

The Mustangs' floor ex performances were practically flawless, but excellent execution was the norm rather than the exception at the meet. Wendy Wobermin scored 7.6, Hale 7.55, Alicia Hickman 6.9 and Terri Forte, 6.95.

Only a freshman, Forte has come on strong in the last few meets to play an important role in the Mustangs' floor exercise competition. Her flashy routine earned an excellent 7.25 only two nights before.

In balance beam, Kim Wobermin scored 6.95, Wendy Wobermin 6.6 and Tonia Hickman 6.5.

Rounding out Northville's vault scores were Wendy Wobermin's 6.85, Alicia Hickman's 6.75 and sister Tonia's 6.4. Wendy Wobermin turned in a very good uneven bars routine with a 7.25. Tonia Hickman scored 5.65 and Kim Wobermin 5.35.

Thursday, Northville hosted Dearborn in a meet rescheduled due to the February 27 snowstorm. It was one of the year's closest meets, but Northville placed first and second in every event to win 120.4-119.25. The meet completed Northville's regular season with a 5-7 record — a mark not truly indicative of the team's ability as its performance Saturday showed.

Heitert swept all four firsts, scoring 8.9 in vault, 8.5 in bars, 8.35 in beam and 8.4 in floor. Hale took seconds in vault with a 7.9, beam with a 7.7 and floor with an 8.2. Wendy Wobermin's 7.6 was second in uneven bars, where Hale took third with a 7.0. Wendy added Northville's only other place, taking fourth in floor exercise with a 7.8.

Heck is almost completely immobile because of her injury, and that spells trouble as Northville readies for the Class A Regional Tournament at Jackson County Western in Parma this Saturday. It will be impossible for Heck to spot her girls all week.

"I have to find somebody experienced enough to do that for me, but it'll be hard for the girls to trust whoever it is," she explains. High-scoring Ann Arbor Pioneer and Plymouth Canton will be two of Northville's toughest obstacles at the meet, and only two teams will represent the district at the state meet March 17.

Still, Heck thinks Heitert, Hale and possibly Wendy Wobermin have a good chance to place and represent Northville at the state next year — for Heitert it would be a return trip.

For those interested in seeing the regional, the Class A Regional meet will begin at noon. Parma is located 10 miles west of Jackson along I-94.

KVC champs oust Mustangs in district

By B.J. MARTIN

Steve McDonald said he was "not impressed" with the team that nosed out Northville in the opening round of the Class A District Volleyball finals. But that may have just been the Mustang spike coach's bravado.

Fact is, the Highlanders had earned a Kensington Valley Conference championship only the week before and last Saturday claimed the district title by stomping Walled Lake Central in two games, 15-8, 15-7.

It should be pointed out right here, Northville went three against Howells — and McDonald thought the Mustangs could have won.

Howell was a tough draw for Northville's opening round and the Highlanders swept the first game 15-8. But in the second game, the Mustangs came back with a vengeance to bury Howell 15-6. Then the roof caved in.

"We lacked mental toughness toward the end," McDonald said. "We had to dig in a little farther and we weren't able to."

"Howell's a smart team," he added. "They have a lot of seniors, which we don't, and that might have been the difference this year."

Taking advantage of some ragged play and costly mental errors by Northville, Howell romped to a 15-4 win in the third game.

The loss dropped the Northville spikers' season mark at 7-14.

"It was kind of a rollercoaster season," McDonald reflected. "What I said at the beginning of the year was still true at the end — that the girls were really hungry to learn all they could about the game. I think it was my best year of coaching, too."

"I really think all our juniors and sophomores gained a good deal of learning from their exposure to the different styles of teams we played against," he added. "The girls took constructive criticism very well — they had a super attitude."

'It wasn't a real nice way to end the season.'

— Steve McDonald
NHS Volleyball Coach

Jane Cassidy's strong performance in the loss sparked the team, especially in the second game. Besides contributing solid backcourt play, Cassidy had an excellent serve going for her. All 10 of her serves were in, she missed none, and she picked up two aces.

Nicki LaRoque's serve was also on target — she had eight good and one bad, and she added 10 good hits and two good dinks for the morning contest.

Chris McGowan and Cheryl Berryman played their usual strong setter games, combining for 49 good sets, with just four bad sets. Both also served rather well, Berryman hitting seven serves, with one bad and McGowan hitting nine serves with one bad.

In the front row, Bev Henderson had Northville's best performance. Henderson blocked five shots and was in large part responsible for Northville's better moments against Howell.

"She had some key blocks for us in that second game," McDonald noted. "In fact, all the girls looked like a team that really wanted to win, in that second game."

Henderson added six good hits, one bad, and three good dinks.

Her counterpart hitter, Erin Ryan also played well, McDonald said. The lanky junior collected eight good hits and three bad against the Highlanders.
