Northville Board of Education trustee Gerald Munro announced Mon-day night that he will not seek another four-year term on the board in June due to increasing personal and professional

He told the board that though "exciting things are happening right now . . . I've decided to give it to someone else who has the time to put into it."

Noting "conflicts in the past" in trying to attend the board's four or five meetings a month, Munro said he felt he could not commit to another four vears due to other time constraints.

Personnel Director at Schoolcraft College. Munro first ran for the board of education in June, 1979, but lost to David Llewellyn and Douglas

However, in June, 1980, he succeeded in winning a four-year seat by narrowly defeating contender Ronald Barnum by

While Munro's announcement leaves one seat open to a non-incumbent, board president Chris Johnson will make a third run for the other four-year term open on the board.

Johnson, first elected to the Northville Board of Education in 1976, told board members Monday night that he will seek his third four-year term in "My biggest reason (for seeking reelection) is to continue work on the high school renovation project," Johnson said. "It's been very rewarding over the past few years.'

Johnson, 28, an attorney with Cummings, McClorey, Davis and Acho in Livonia, was only 21 when first elected to the board — making him the youngest resident ever to win a board

He won reelection to his second fouryear term in 1980.

Though one board seat is open to a non-incumbent in the June election, former school board member David CLlewellyn has announced his intention to run for a four-year seat.

Llewellyn, who did not seek reelection to the board last June, announced his intent to run again at Monday's board meeting.

An analyst with Ford Motor Company, Llewellyn said he "isn't as busy as he thought he would be last June when he decided not to run for reelection. Llewellyn's seat was filled last June by newcomer James Petrie.

First elected to the board in 1979, Llewellyn said "a year of inactivity' has brought him back to the board and also noted he would like to continue to be a part of the district's long-range tenure.

As of Monday, only Johnson and Llewellyn had taken out petitions for the two four-year terms on the board.

Nominating petitions for the two school board seats to be filled in the annual June school election currently are available in the Northville Public Schools business office. The filing deadline for all petitions is 4 p.m. April Prospective candidates seeking election to the school board must be 18 years of age, a citizen of the United States, a resident of Michigan for 30 days and a resident of the school district on or before the 30th day prior to the annual election.

Candidates also need a minimum of 20 valid signatures of registered school electors of the district. It is suggested five additional signatures be obtained in case some of the signatures do not meet registration requirements.

Petitions also must be circulated in more than one township or city. Therefore, candidates wishing to petition in both the City of Northville and the Township of Northville must file two separate petitions.

For further information, contact John Street, director of business and finance, at 349-3400.

Administrator face termination from school posts

Three Northville Public Schools administrators received notification Monday night of the district's intent to terminate their contracts effective July 1.

The board of education unanimously approved the pre-notification of the contract terminations and scheduled a special call meeting of the board April 30 for final consideration of each con-

The board approved the non-renewal of contracts for Michael O'Leary and George Aune, former high school prin-cipal, due to funding uncertaintes for next year's program.

William Hood, the district's administrative assistant for operations since 1980, was terminated due to "unsatisfactory job performance."

Under the Michigan School Code, notification of non-renewal of an administrator's contract must be given 60 days before the contract termination date. The affected administrator also must be provided with no less than 30 days advance notice that the board is considering non-renewal.

O'Leary, who was laid off in the spring of 1983 due to declining enrollment, was recalled to an administrative post for the purpose of completing the research study on the length of the school year.

His final report, "Length of the School Year and Pupil-Teacher Research Study" was completed earlier this year and presented to the State board of education on March 21.

Assistant Superintendent Burton Knighton told the board that there is a possibility some federal or county funding may be available for the dissemination of the research study and could involve O'Leary's services.

However, he noted the "whole thing is rather nebulous right now" and added that not only is there uncertainty about whether there will be interest in funding the dissemination of the project, but should funding become available, it

"(There) has not been significant improvement to give him a satisfactory evaluation for the 1983-84 school year." Buron Knighton, Assistant Superintendent

may be in the form of a very small grant.

George Aune, who was transferred from the principal's post at Northville High School last year to coordinate the Community Education and Over-26 special education program, also received notice of layoff due to the uncertainties in Community Education funding.

Knighton told the board that initially the district had planned for Aune to coordinate the adult education program at Northville State Hospital. However, he noted that because that program "did not come into fruition," Aune's position is uncertain.

In a memo to Superintendent George Bell, Knighton stated that William Hood's performance during the 1982-83 school year was not up to an acceptable level of performance and that there "has not been significant improvement to give him a satisfactory evaluation for the 1983-84 school year."

The board approved notification of Hood's termination on the basis of unsatisfactory performance as reflected in his March, 1983, and March, 1984, evaluations.

Hood was hired by the district in 1980, following a three-year stint in a similar post in the Huron Valley School District.

Township raises salaries for elected officials

By KEVIN WILSON

Salaries for Northville Township elected officials will rise substantially ımıg ilscal year beginning

Acting on the recommendation of supervisor John MacDonald, the board of trustees Monday night set the supervisor's salary at $14,000, the clerk's at $12,000 and the treasurer's at $9,000. Former rates were $11,000 for supervisor, $8,000 for clerk and $5,000 for treasurer.

Also increased were trustees' wages from $25 to $50 per month, paid only if the trustee attends meetings during the month, and the pay rates for all members of appointed boards and commissions were lifted $10 per month. Most were paid $15 or $20 per attended meeting under the prior scale.

The pay increases exceed those recommended by the Northville Township Homeowners' Association board. Association president Kitty Rhoades told MacDonald her group suggested 20 percent increases over the 1980 pay scale for the top three elected officials. That works out to $13,200 for supervisor, $9,000 for clerk and $5,400 for treasurer.

Treasurer Richard Henningsen told the board the pay increases will not strain the budget, noting that higherthan-anticipated state shared revenue payments last year created a surplus carried over into the 1984-85 budget of at least $18,000.

MacDonald said he felt "obligated to at least bring this out to the forefront," since he will be leaving township 35th District judge.

Citing a compilation of all Detroit metropolitan area township elected official salaries (obtained by Canton Township), MacDonald noted that for every job, Northville Township salaries were lowest.

Acknowledging that few townships have the township manager form of government, and that many are charter townships levying higher taxes or even general law townships with broader tax bases. MacDonald said the responsibilities of the jobs do not vary as widely as some might think.

Arguing that the designation "full time" does not require a township elected official to actually put in 40 hours a week on the job, MacDonald said he believes many "full-time supervisors don't put as many hours into it as I do, not that I'm such great shakes, you understand. Just to clear up that

He said "one way to figure what the salary should be" would be to take onehalf the average salary of full-time supervisors. By this method, the pay rates would have been $17,500 for supervisor, $15,500 for clerk and $15,250 for treasurer. "I'm not recommending MacDonald cautioned quickly "I'm just saying that's one way to figure it."

As he produced his recommendations, MacDonald noted that the supervisor's salary he suggested "is not too far from what the homeowners recommend" but that when it came to paying the clerk and treasurer "this is where the thing kind of breaks down - 20 percent (increases) don't even come close to what other clerks are making, never mind treasurers."

Noting the homeowners recommendation was against "changing the pro-portion" of salaries between elected officials and township hall employees MacDonald said there "is no magic to where the (present) salaries come from - as best as I can tell, they were simply cut in half from the full-time salaries in order to create a fund to hire the business manager. I don't know of any other rationale that was used."

MacDonald also noted that in many of the communities studied, although

The property, a portion of the Plymouth Center for Human Development, was under consideration for conversion to a state prison. The governor rejected the site after community groups and area legislators protested.

that property to private ownership and put it on the tax rolls," Geake stated in a press release. "Also, vacant parcels of property become natural targets for every public use proposal that no other community wants, such as prisons, mental hospitals or landfills."

Geake was named to the captial outlay committee last month when the Republican party assumed control of the state senate. Among the committee's responsibilities is review of any proposal to convert public facilities to other uses.

Geake suggested the proceeds from the sale be used to pay for additional mental health facilities "elsewhere in the Detroit metropolitan area," to reduce the current population at Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital.

Geake noted that the state mental health facility on Seven Mile Road was designed to accommodate 650 patients but has a census count of more than 1,000. The hospital is under investigabegan study of a plan to renovate the A building at Plymouth Center - on the east side of Sheldon, opposite the property to appraised for sale - for use housing geriatric patients in the mental health system.

Henningsen later noted that Northville Township ranks near the bottom among urban area townships in the number of employees per capita population. He said the township operates with far fewer employees than most and credited the abilities and dedication of the staff and use of computers for the efficiency of the office operation.

Trustees C. James Armstrong and Thomas Cook both supported Mac-Donald's recommendations, Armstrong saying he had "felt for the salaries of the top three elected officials have been too low."

Cook said he had considered recommending the salaries be increased as of November, when a newly-elected board takes office, but, addressing Mac-Donald, added "that wouldn't be fair to you, Dick (Henningsen) and Suzie (Heintz, clerk). Sue Fostey takes the helm of library's Friends group

Though it's only been four years since Sue Fostey and her husband James moved to Northville following a twoyear stint in Dusseldorf, West Germany, the new president of Friends of the Northville Library already is making her mark in the area of community involvement.

Having recently taken the helm of the Friends group from longtime president volunteer library, Fostey notes that she long has been a "book lover" and avid library supporter. In fact, her involvement with the local Friends organization was initlated at a rare book appraisal sponsored by

Val Cook, Fostey says she "wanted to contribute somewhere where I fit."

Formerly a key player in Grosse Ile's

As head of the library's 65-member support arm, Fostey says she currently is in the throes of reorganizing the program with the executive board Among the tasks recently undertaken by the Friends were a reorganization of the group's bylaws, establishment of new membership fees for residents in-terested in joining the Friends and planning for upcoming fundraisers.

Fostey explains that Friends' membership fees were established at the last board meeting and include five categories. Family and individual memberships are $5, contributing members $10, sustaining members $25 and patron memberships $100. Senior citizens, ages 60 and older, now may join the Friends for $1.

She says that while the Friends' spring, fall and winter booksales - as well as its successful summer sidewalk sale will continue as major fundraisers for the library, plans have been made to expand Friends-sponsored activities.

Among the new fundraising projects is the upcoming fashion show, "A Day in the Life of a Victorian Lady" at the Marquis Theatre (See related story).

Antique clothing collector Sue Neller of Okemos will be using "our Victoriansized members as models," Fostey explains, adding that the April 12 event held in the midst of National Library Week (April 9-14) — will be followed by

In addition to the fashion show, the group also has planned a fundraising dinner at Genitti's in September and currently is selling Northville Library book bags at the library for $7.

She notes that through the group's fundraising efforts, the Friends have supplied the library with an atlas case and have helped with putting The Northville Record on microfilm.

The Friends' latest project is the commitment of a $1,000 contribution toward the purchase of video cassettes

Though heading the Friends' group has kept her active within the community, Fostey is dividing her time among several other activities.

She recalls that prior to her husband's two-year transfer to West Germany with Ford Motor Company, she had been active in both church and civic activities in the metropolitan Detroit area.

Since their return to the United States and move to Northville, Fostey says she has become active with the Peace Resource Center of Western Wayne

Benefit features Victorian fashions

The fashions and styles of Victorian women will be the focal point of an April 12 fashion show, "A Day in the Life of a Victorian Lady," sponsored by the Friends of the Library.

The benefit fashion show, to be held at the Marquis Theater, will include authentic Victorian fashions by antique clothing collector Sue Neller of Friends' members will be used as models and "tea and sweets" will be served following the 2 p.m. show. Chairing the event is former Friends' president and member Val Cook.

Tickets at $6.50 currently are available at the library and at other local shops. All proceeds from the event will go toward library projects.

Neller, who has been collecting antique clothing since the late 1960s, offers complete outfits of clothing from 1840-

Though a dance and theater major with a bachelor's degree from University of Michigan and a masters from University of Wisconsin, Neller began collecting antique clothing to accompany the periods of her husband's vintage automobile collection. Since 1973, she has been in the business of conducting "Nostalgic Programs of Ladies Antique Fashions."

Items in her vast collection include silk and velvet street costumes, period wedding gowns, sport attire, ball gowns, satin and kid leather shoes, fans, beaded bags, reticules, hats, petticoats, corsets, coats, capes and other accessory items.

A member of the Costume Society and the Smithsonian costume organization, Neller also collects antique children's clothing and frequently uses her two young children as models.

Jaycees announce this year's Fourth of July plans

this month from both city council and the township board for the annual Fourth of July parade and fireworks sponsored by the Northville Jaycees.

Tom Hoetger, who is co-chairing festivities with Tim Miner, appeared before Northville City Council at its March 5 session to outline this year's plans and seek support. The council voted unanimously to support the parade and fireworks projects with a $1,500 donation contingent upon the township making a matching donation.

Hoetger then presented the Jaycees' Fourth plans to the township board at its March 8 meeting and received its commitment of $1,500.

As last year's fireworks display was praised by city council, Hoetger reported that the Jaycees hope to "orchestrate" the fireworks to music this year. Relating that the fireworks and insurance had cost $2,968 last year, he anticipated as much as a 35 percent cost increase this year. Parade insurance, he said, cost an additional $1,573.

Questioned by township officials, Hoetger said the cost increase for fireworks was due to changing regulation that would prohibit purchase of certain shells after April 1.

"There are only a few of the good ones left and they're charging a lot for them since they won't be available

For the same reason, Hoetger explained, the Jaycees were seeking donations earlier this year in order to place the fireworks order before the regulatory changes take effect. He said shells ordered after the change will contain less explosive and have a different type casing.

He told both governing bodies the Jaycees are exploring possibilities of changing the fireworks' staging area and the parade route to lower these costs. By not using the Northville Downs parking lot as a starting point for the parade, he estimated it would be possible to save $500 in required in-Hoetger also requested assistance of the city police, fire department and DPW for the holiday festivities. Mayor Paul Vernon, agreeing that the city always has cooperated with the Jaycees in the project, noted that these associated costs are sizeable.

He listed police costs at $969 and DPW costs at approximately $100.

Hoetger agreed to seek police and fire department assistance from the township to help defray costs. Township board members seemed generally agreeable to the idea, but both fire chief

Robert Toms and police chief Kenneth Hardesty said there is a matter of protocol to be addressed.

Neither is able to make a commitment to assisting city police and fire departments until requested to do so by their counterparts, Toms and Hardesty said. Since the city is outside their jurisdiction, they said, no forces would be committed to the effort until there had been a request from the city chiefs. Hardesty noted his department had helped in traffic control efforts last year after being asked to do so.

Hoetger said he would ask the city to make those formal requests for assistance.

As council member G. Dewey Gardner made the motion to give the funds, he observed, "I would hate to see it (the Fourth festivity) jeopardized in any way — it's a highlight of the year."

The motion was seconded by council

As the $1,500 donation was approved by council, Folino suggested that the Jaycees "pass the hat" among cars parked watching the fireworks.

"It's an unequaled display," he said,
"and I am sure nobody would mind dropping a buck into the hat."
Township treasurer Richard Henningsen made a similar suggestion.

Hoetger said it would be considered and that the problem sometimes came down to how much manpower was available. Folino said he personally would offer his services to do this. Hoetger told Henningsen the Jaycee's have been soliciting corporate sponsorships to assist in funding this year's event, explaining that the projected cost increases were not accompanied by a request for increased governmental contributions.

Jaycee Hoetger said his organization last year had encountered "some con-cessionaire problems at the school pro-perty with unauthorized venders on the scene during the fireworks. He said the Jaycees would like to limit concessions to those operated by civic-type organizations.

He was advised to give city police a list of authorized concessions and was told the police would see that only authorized venders operated.

Hoetger reported that the Jaycees had gone on record in support of the planned recreation department field day also scheduled for July 4 but, because of manpower limitations, would not be able to assist in the pro-

At the city council session, it was agreed that the field day and Jaycees Fourth celebration would share the city entrance signs to advertise the events.

City aids 'First Step'

First Step, Western Wayne County project on domestic assault, received support from the city at its March 5 council ses-

City council voted to contribute 15 cents per capita, or about $854, to the organization. The action was unanimous with only council member Carolann Ayers absent. Jane Dewey, executive director, had informed the council that participating communities were contributing that amount. First Step was praised by Mayor Paul Vernon as "very worth while and deserving of sup-

The request had been tabled from a previous meeting so that city council members could be appraised of contributions of other communities.

In 1982 the city had contributed 10 cents per capita, or $569.40. The city did not make a contribution in 1983.

As he supported the project, council member G. Dewey Gardener observed, "I don't think we're aware of the domestic violence in our own community."

Director Dewey, in her appeal for the city's support, noted that for the past five years, First Step has been providing services to families experiencing domestic violence and during that time has aided more than 4,500 families in Western Wayne and Downriver with emergency shelter, counseling, transportation, legal and financial assistance.

"Unfortunately," she com-mented, "the problem of domestic violence continues to grow as are many other family problems which we also often see, such as unemployment, substance abuse and child abuse. Our agency is the only one providing these services to the near-ly one million people living in Western Wayne and Downriver communities.

First Step had been receiving funding from the four com-munities of Westland, Taylor, Livonia and Dearborn Heights. In addition, explained Dewey, there is funding from the state department of social services and United Foundation. However, she said, it is not enough to cover the total cost of services.

"This fiscal year alone, which ends September 30," she stated, 'we must raise over $43,000 from unidentified sources. The following fiscal year we will be faced with raising over twice that

Millionaire's Party scheduled Saturday

One of the taboos for preachers today is talking about money! We are not to mention giving money to the Lord's work because people are so easily offended by such talk. Indeed, some people constantly justify their aversion to church or anything connected with the Lord by saying: "Preachers are always trying to get money."

That such a statement is not true does not seem to matter to these people. Isn't it interesting that accusing a pastor of being a money grabber usually results in that person withholding any support for the cause of Christ (thus, the "offended" person gets to keep his money).

son gets to keep his money).

I for one, am not ashamed to remind people that the work of the gospel depends in a very practical way on the financial support of God's people. To withhold such giving in the face of God's blessings on us is worse than ingratitude: it is embezzlement (Mal. 3:7-10). Our church alone supports 19 missionaries and mission agencies who work around the world in every imaginable kind of work that honors God and blesses mankind. What more noble way to give than when we can invest in eternity?

"...Retirement's only 10 years away-it's too late to start an IRA... right?"

Wrong.

Putting $2,000 each year into a Down River Federal Savings Individual Retirement Account for 10 years could give you an extra nest egg of $35,833;

After all, why settle for just getting by when you can start now and build a bigger and more secure future. At $2,000 a year, you'll have a tidy sum in ten years. An extra $250 deduction is allowed for a non-wage earning spouse for a total deduction of $2,250. And mamed couples who are both employed may contribute up to $4 (XX) a year to an IRA – so you'll have twice as much in your nest egg.

IRA contribution can lower your income tax each year (even last year if you act before April 15)

8-A—THE NORTHVILLE RECORD—Wednesday, March 28, 1984 • •

Thefts, bomb threat mar last weeks of Downs season

In the City . . .

City police reported for the first time yesterday that there had been a bomb threat at Northville Downs Thursday,

According to the report, a track switchboard operator reported receiving a telephone call from someone who - according to her account to police -"sounded like a white male" at 10:37

The caller reportedly said: "There is a bomb up in your dining room. It's going to go off at 10:45 p.m." Track officials immediately contacted city police, and two patrol officers were dispatched to the scene.

At Northville Downs, one of the officers advised Northville Downs Recording Secretary Margaret Zayti that the building should be evacuated, then searched. However, Zayti asked one of the officers if the room could be searched without having her patrons leave. The officer complied, and found no bomb. The police left after 11 p.m.

Asked why the threat only recently had been reported (this is the final week of the racing season), City Police Chief Rodney Cannon replied, "It could be the race track had asked (the report) to be squelched." Later he added, "We don't like to go too public on things like this. It causes a contagious kind of situation."

He likened the situation to rashes of false alarms and similar pranks that are triggered by an initial episode.

Asked whether there had been any reason why the responding officers had good cause to respect Zayti's wish to not evacuate dining room patrons, Can-. non said he did not know.

A white and red 1975 Cadillac valued at $3,000 was stolen from the main parking lot at Northville Downs between 7 and 10:15 p.m. last Saturday. There are no suspects in the theft of the car, which belongs to an Allen Park woman.

A Northville Downs barn was the site of the theft of two standard horse harnesses and two horse equipment bags. The harnesses were together valued at $830 and the equipment bags at $30. The theft reportedly took place between 1:30 a.m. Sunday and 7 a.m.

Another recent crime report from the Downs was that of a wallet stolen from the pocket of a Lansing patron Wednesday, March 14, at 10:31 p.m. The wallet, valued at $20, contained no money, but did contain miscellaneous papers.

The apprehension of a drunk driver early Saturday morning, March 17, resulted in approximately $300 damage to a City Police patrol car. According to a City Police report, patrol officers pulled over 19-year-old Barbara Jane

A 37-year-old Mt. Clemens subcontractor was rescued last Friday by township police, fire and medical personnel after being trapped in a cave-in on Steepleview for more than an hour.

According to police, sub-contractor Edward Parrett had been digging a trench to a storm sewer from a new home construction site when dirt around the trench caved in.

Dispatched to the construction site. police officer Michael Panagotides observed the victim's head to be visible and clear of dirt, but noted that Parrett was buried in dirt up to his chin.

According to the report, Panagotides went into the trench and observed the victim to be breathing and conscious. The officer requested a bucket to be placed over the victim's head in case a second cave-in should occur.

Eddie Wilder, a contractor working with Parrett, told police he was 10 feet north of the victim when the cave-in occurred. Noting that Parrett was completely buried by dirt, Wilder said he dug out enough soil to clear the victim's head, thus allowing him to breathe.

Care of the victim was turned over to the township fire department and CEMS medics upon their arrival. Also assisting was Frank Kosian of Kosian Construction Company, who arrived on the scene to help rescue the victim.

Attending to the victim during his entrapment were CEMS ambulance medics Kibbie Booker and Douglas

After more than an hour, the victim was rescued and transported to St. Mary Hospital for treatment of numerous contusions.

Kosian Construction refilled the trench to prevent further danger.

Northville Township Police Chief Ken Hardesty praised the efforts of rescue workers and noted that "all in all everybody did a fine job — they saved the man's life."

The suicide of a 30-year-old Northville Township resident at his Ladywood Court home last Friday currently is under investigation by township police.

Dennis Leonard Miles was found dead on the floor of his family's garage early Friday evening having suffered from carbon monoxide poisoning, police report.

The victim was found by his mother upon her return home at about 7 p.m. According to police, the victim was lying only 30 inches from the exhaust pipe of a 1981 Ford Mustang when his body was discovered. Police note the vehicle was running at the time the victim was

According to the police report, officers dispatched to the scene were unable to attain vital signs and turned care of the victim over to Community

Emergency Medical Service.
CEMS paramedics radioed Botsford Hospital and relayed condition of the victim. Miles was pronounced dead on arrival at Botsford at 7:34 p.m.

The victim's mother told police her son had been very depressed during the last year and was under the care of an Ann Arbor psychiatrist, the report stated.

The complainant also noted the victim had been an in-patient at University of Michigan Hospital from January 25 through February 22 for psychiatric

The victim's father, who gave a written statement to township police, said he last spoke to his son the evening of March 22. He noted that the victim was sleeping when he and his wife left for work around 8 a.m. Friday morning and mentioned that the 1981 Mustang was parked in the driveway — not the garage — when he left.

Officers at the scene noted an extremely strong odor of carbon monoxide in the garage and house and found the vehicle very hot to touch.

Police noted the gas gauge just under quarter of a tank full. The victim's father told police his son mentioned the car had little more than half a tank of gas the previous evening.

Police also noted there were no tools found near the vehicle, suggesting that the victim was not working on the car.

Police found no suicide note in their search of the victim's home.

Attending Wayne County Medical Examiner Dr. Haresh Mirchandeani told police no signs of trauma were found in the autopsy. He stated the cause of death as carbon monoxide poisoning and further stated the manner of death as suicide.

A Wayne County Road Commission traffic counter, worth an estimated $1,000, was stolen from a speed limit sign pole on east bound Seven Mile sometime between 9:30 a.m. March 15 and 9:30 p.m. March 16, township police

The complainant told police unknown suspects stole the traffic counter off the roadway sign by sawing off the bottom of the sign pole. He noted the traffic counter was taken but the pole was left.

The complainant further stated he searched the area for the missing counter, but to no avail.

Two persons were injured, one seriously, in a two-car collision on snow-covered Seven Mile Road the morning of March 21, according to Michigan State Police.

Adolph Siemenski, 56, of Inkster was taken to St. Mary Hospital, Livonia, with what police described as incapacitating injuries requiring hospitalization after the 8:05 a.m. acci dent just west of Meadowbrook Road.

According to the police account of the incident, Jeanne Michalski, 35, of Savoy Court was driving eastbound on Seven Mile when she lost control of her midsize 1980 Pontiac and crossed the center line, striking the driver's door of Siemenski's small 1982 Ford, which was westbound in the left lane. Roads were described as snow-covered and slippery, with snow still falling at the time of the accident. After the impact, Siemenski's car spun north and west, taking down a post-mounted mailbox en route and stopping several yards off the roadway. Michalski's car spun so that it faced westbound and backed into a tree a few yards north of Seven Mile, east of the point of impact, the police report states. Michalski was cited for violation of the basic speed law (i.e. driving too fast for conditions).

Fully-operative Eight Mile and Taft light expected

By JEAN DAY

While a fully operative traffic light at Taft and Eight Mile appears certain in the near future, city council at its March 19 meeting explored the suggestion of a resident that a second light be installed at Eight Mile and Randolph.

Police Captain James Petres said a flashing light at Randolph could be a possibility.

In a report of his conversation with Janet Vogel of the Oakland County Road Commission, which has jurisdiction over the light, made at the request of council, Petres stated the major reason for the OCRC recommendation to change the flashing signal to a fully functional signal is the traffic volume at the intersection.

The average daily traffic for Eight Mile Road is between 10,000 and 11,000 vehicles, the report states, with the peak hour at the last count being between 5-6 p.m. with a count of approximately 900 vehicles.

The average daily traffic for Taft Road is given as approximately 2200 vehicles. Peak hour in the October count was between 5-6 p.m. with the count of 197 vehicles. In the February count, peak hour was between 3-4 p.m. with a count of 204 vehicles on Taft.

These counts, the report stated, meet the volume warrant for a traffic signal. For the council's information, it was noted that Michigan State University as part of a traffic engineering course in-dicates that a volume of 650-800 vehicles for any eight hours during a day with 25 percent of the traffic on the minor street warrants the installation of a

Vogel also told Petres that several other factors have been taken into consideration. First was the school bus traffic that was observed. Second was the fact that, if the signal functions normally on a regular basis, drivers would become accustomed to the signal and 'It won't be worse than now!'

- Carolann Ayers City council member be less likely to be surprised than if the signal only occasionally turns red.

Hopefully, it was noted, this will cause drivers to prepare for the possibility of stopping as they approach and reduce the instances of drivers running the light.

Regarding the possibility of the light being activated by traffic on Taft, Vogel told Petres that this was being considered for evening and weekend periods. She indicated that, if installed, the total operation of the signal could be based on Taft Road traffic activation of the signal. Cost, she indicated, was not prohibitive since it already is being considered, but loops could not be installed in the pavement until spring or sum-

The change to a fully functioning signal, originally planned for late spring or summer, Vogel said, could take place in the near future as-she noted that flashing warning signs already are in place. Approval of the Oakland County Road Commission, which is needed, was expected to be received at its March meeting.

The city was to be informed of any developments, Petres said.

Mayor Paul Vernon in the council discussion noted a resident had raised the possibility of a light also at Randolph.

"I'm not sure a light at Taft doesn't create more problems for west bound Randolph traffic," he told council.

Council member Carolann Ayers observed, "It won't be worse than

Vernon pointed out that everyone, even engineers, is in agreement that the intersection is an unusual, hazardous one.

Council members also discussed the possibility of having a delay as the light changes to permit westbound traffic off Randolph to make the left turn.

In the discussion, it was noted that three of the five council members live in the area and have first-hand familiarity with the problems at the in-tersection. The observation was made to refute the comment of the writer of a letter on the subject. The writer had written to the OCRC that "those city officials who don't travel that route just do not understand the severity of the traffic problem and the driving situa-

City Manager Steven Walters told council the city has seen Taft Road traffic double in two years.

J. Burton DeRusha, who along with Avers and Folino lives in the area, said. "Probably it will be better to implement what we have" rather than adding a light at Randolph.

The letter written to the OCRC and Vogel with copies to the council, city police and The Northville Record was from Dennis and Cheryl Cassady who are residents of Northville Estates subdivision west of the intersection on Eight Mile.

They wrote that they are "100 percent for it (the fully functional light.)'

Along with the light being functional they suggested, "you will probably have to have a second light at the cross near Randolph Street and Eight Mile. Cars on Randolph trying to go west on Eight Mile would never be able to pull out onto the road.

"Two lights would solve also the gas station problem and the party store traffic problem," they wrote, suggesting also that inset road "bumps" be used on the Eight Mile hill in both direc-

"My husband and myself have had many "near misses" that a traffic light would not have allowed. I realize the Zayti trucks will have to drive more slowly ("bumps" should help them be prepared) but after a short break-in period the road and traffic should flow smoothly," the letter stated. The letter was published in the March 14 issue of

Safety stressed during 'Tornado Week'

March 25-31 has been designated "National Tornado Week" and city police are making use of the occasion to remind city and township residents of appropriate safety measures to take during severe windstorms.

All week, a table with information on tornado safety will be on display in the City Police lobby, located downstairs at City Hall and ajoining the library. Residents are welcomed to examine pamphlets and other informative

Police also want to remind the public that the signal to take cover for a tornado is a three-minute siren blast. The entire three-minute signal is tested at 1 p.m. the first Saturday of each month. In the future, city police Rodney Cannon announced, there will be no all clear sounded. Residents should listen to their radios or television sets for the

The following safety information about tornadoes has been specially issued by City Police:

Watch and Warning: Here's the difference — a tornado watch means tornadoes and/or severe thunderstorms are possible. A tornado warning means a tornado has been sighted and that shelter should be taken immediately.

Council denies zoning

Northville City Council at its March 19 meeting upheld the recommendation of the city planning commission to deny the application to rezone from R-1b to R-3 property at 625 Grace as had been petitioned by its owners.

The petition had been made because the owners, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Peavey, had been cited by the building department for running a boarding house at the location.

The planning commission had recommended denial based on the following

1. Since the enactment of the present zoning ordinance in September, 1974, no material change has taken place in the area which would render the subject site unsuitable as a one-family residence.

2. The subject site and adjacent properties all have one-family designated residences on the lots. There is no evidence of deteriorating or other adverse environmental influences on these properties which would have a negative impact on the subject lot.

3. The applicant has made no compelling argument why the property cannot be used for the purpose for which it

Council member Paul Folino moved to accept the planning commission recommendation and Carolann Ayers supported the motion which passed unanimously.

in the township's 1984-85 budget - two dust suppression treatments are scheduled for the first time since 1980.

A combination of resident complaints and an improved township fiscal position can be credited for the decision to spread calcium chloride on unpaved roads twice this year as opposed to the single treatment applied since the present board took office.

Last year it rose to $9,850 and the budget reflects the expectation that costs will rise again this year.

Treasurer Richard Henningsen explained that the reduction to a single treatment the past three years was primarily a cost-saving move. But residents have complained loudly and frequently that the single treatment is Manager budget grows with interns, car, raise

Budget appropriations for operation of the township manager's, office receive a significant boost in the coming year with the addition of an intern assistant to the manager and purchase of a new car heading the list of changes.

The car, which is to be used not only by manager David Lelko but also by other personnel traveling on township business, is budgeted at $8,000. The present township car, a former police patrol vehicle, is in sorry condition and currently undriveable, treasurer Richard Henningsen explained during a study session.

A rew $9,000 line item is allocated to pay two college-student interns to assist the manager during the year, Henningsen explained.

Lelko said the interns would be assigned tasks "I've wanted to get to but haven't had the time to tackle" in-

Other additions to the manager's budget include a $325 addition to memberships and dues costs, including Lelko's membership in the Rotary Club, $1,000 for education and training (unbudgeted last year, when $180 was spent), and pay increases for Lelko and the administrative assistant.

Small reductions are shown for fringe benefits costs ($350 less), auto and expense allowance ($150 down from last year's budget, $430 below actual from last year) and $50 for literature.

Overall, including the as-yet-unspecified increases in salaries for Lelko and administrative assistant Eunice Switzler, the manager's budget increases more than $20,000 over expenditure levels from last year.

Meijer gets board okay

Meijer Incorporated got two votes of bonds may be sold to finance the consupport from the township board of trustees Monday night.

The mass merchandiser which plans to construct and operate a Meijer Thrifty Acres store at Eight Mile and Haggerty roads in the township will be in line for large amounts of governmental assistance in that effort as a result.

The board first adopted a resolution designating the Meijer site as a project area for purposes of having the township economic development corporation (EDC) assist in financing. Meijer earlier this month made its formal application for up to $10 million in EDC financing.

The board action is the first in several steps involving both the EDC and the trustees before tax-free municipal struction costs.

Also Monday night, the board passed a resolution supporting Meijer's application to inclusion in the overall economic development plan for Wayne County. If Meijer's application to county authorities is approved, the company may also be eligible for government assistance in widening Haggerty Road, supplying water service to the site and construction of a sanitary sewer forced

Any one or all three of those items could conceivably receive federal assistance through the county if the application is approved. The township resolution was in support of Meijer's

Our Opinions

Speak up — officials listen

You can't fight city hall.

What difference does my voice make? Nobody listens to what an individual says.

Don't you believe it.

We are fortunate in both city and township government that officials listen and do want to hear what residents are saying. There also is caring about what constitutents think and want back home on the part of state and national representatives.

At the local level, stories in this week's Northville Record report the actions of city and township officials in response to local concerns.

In the township, announcement is made that the upcoming budget provides funding for two calcium choloride road treatments instead of the one funded in previous years by the current administration. The township frankly states the additional treatment is planned in response to complaints from residents, many of whom stressed the environmental impact of dust which is known to cause respiratory problems. Granted the township is in better fiscal position than in the past, it still has chosen to respond to residents' complaints as soon as it is able.

A letter written by city residents to the Oakland County Road Commission supporting making the traffic light at Eight Mile and Taft fully operational with a copy to city council received full consideration at the last council session. The added suggestion that there might be a second light at Randolph was explored by council who sought the opinion of police captain James Petres who attended the meeting.

Thankfully, state representatives listened to constitutents, as did the governor, when hundreds wrote and signed petitions stating they did not want a prison at the site of the former Plymouth Center for Human Development. Organized opposition with valid reasons was heard, and heeded.

Local resident Midge Haynie learned that going "to the top," in her case Congressman Carl Pursell, can get answers. After a tropical vacation, during which she saw an unexplained phenomenon in the sky which concerned her, she wrote her congressman to ask if there were an official explanation. After an exchange of several letters with different agencies, she had the answer from Pursell. It was a Soviet satellite disintegrating. Frankly, even we were surprised with Pursell's perseverence — and like to think it extends to other problems from home.

An opinion expressed in a clear way, backed up with reasoning, is almost certain to gain the respect of those to whom it is addressed. This does not mean that a request will be granted, but it will have a hearing. Instead of griping, try it.

Deadline nears to file petitions

Petitions for the two four-year terms on the Northville Board of Education are available now at the board of education office. Residents interested in serving their community in this way—there is no monetary compensation—have until a week from Monday—April 9—at 4 p.m. to file.

While incumbent Chris Johnson has indicated he will file for a third term, incumbent Gerald Munro has announced he is not seeking reelection.

Serving on the board requires attendance at the regular monthly board meeting and the special call session, but that is the beginning of a board member's involvement. All serve on special committees and commit themselves to at least four meetings a month. It is a dedication that pays rewards of helping produce a quality school system.

This is the time for the many residents who served recently on special advisory committees for the district to decide to become more permanently involved. It is the time for residents who have become close to the workings of the district to make this commitment to help. We would like to see competition for the two posts in the June election. Remember, the filing deadline is April 9.

By B. J. Martin

New Orleans — great to visit, but . . .

Last week in this space, Record Editor Jean Day offered a travelogue concerning her recent trip to Spain. That's a little more exotic than what I have to offer up to-day.

But I had a real-live vacation last week, my first-ever vacation from a job. I've had a few days off before, always around Christmas and New Year's, and always spent happily at home with the family. But this is the first time I've ever just packed up and left town for different places and faces for a week.

Maybe it's a measure of how naive I am about my rights as a worker, but I couldn't help feeling a little guilty. After all, the workaholic whose column appears below this one recently remarked how he hadn't had a vacation since the seventies (he's supposed to take one in April, but I'll believe it when I see it).

Anyway, I drove down to New Orleans. I won't deny cost was a factor in deciding not to fly, but I do like driving. I would probably be a rich trucker today if I could master CB lingo.

I'm sure many of you who've been to New Orleans would agree that the city simply does it right. Northern cities seem unable to consciously develop the charm and intimacy New Orleans seems to come by naturally. On the drive back, I thought about that, and about the reasons I prefer to live here.

After all, winter is not really a necessary part of life. There's still a lot of room down south. Everywhere I looked, there was expansion — new homes, businesses, jobs and a surprisingly common laissez faire spirit among the supposedly provincial residents of the South.

So why shovel driveways? Why worry about jumper cables, snow-slowed traffic and biting January windstorms? A lot of people up here say, "I really like to see the seasons change." Malarky. The seasons change south of here too. How many times per winter does one need to see snow to be reminded how "pretty" it can be?

I fess up to an unexplainable masochism. Compared with New Orleans, I have to admit the city I love — Detroit — is in very serious trouble. People rarely go there to mingle or sightsee despite the many unique treasures the city has to offer. "It's a long drive" is an excuse even I have sometimes used to not drive downtown. I, who seem to have no trouble driving to New Orleans.

I didn't go to the crescent city to sightsee all that much. I went to sleep in the sun and stop drinking coffee for a few days. But I did go to the New Orleans Museum of Art, and found it serves as a good example of the difference between New Orleans and Detroit.

NOMA is a beautiful museum, perfectly kept up, and the works are presented attractively and thoughtfully. Parking is a snap, and free. It's a marked contrast from the Detroit Institute of Arts, which is often dingy, forbodingly angular and poorly maintained. And if you're not street-wise or rich, parking there is annoying.

But there is absolutely no comparison in the artistic value of the two museums' possessions. Despite many beautiful NOMA artifacts, paintings and statues, the DIA's collection is exponentially greater in scope and sheer power.

I observed some of the music, dance, sports and nightlife scene and had to admit Detroit generally had much more to offer in variety, quantity and quality. A critic might point out by those standards, Chicago, New York or L.A. would be heaven. But I have my hands full just keeping up with what goes on around here.

Make no mistake, I had a great time. The food was inexpensive yet delicious, and the weather nearly perfect. But while I can't say I'm happy the vacation didn't last conger, I'm not really sorry to come back.

Spring sailor

the fact

He's the type of guy nobody likes. I don't even know why we invited him over. Except that we needed another couple to round out our Trivial Pursuit party, and his wife's a downright charming person so we said, what the heck, let's take a chance ... let's invite him over one more time.

It hurts to have to report that he hasn't improved. He no sooner had walked through the door when he announced that he didn't care what team he was on — as long as it wasn't the same team I was on.

"I want to humiliate you," he announced to me, the ever-gracious, ever-humble host.

"I'm going to beat you so bad that you'll always treat me with reverence in the future. I'm going to prove to you once and for all that I'm a walking encyclopedia."
See what I mean? A real bore. I don't know why he was so intent on beating me in Trivial Pursuit ... the only thing I can guess is that it's because I humiliate him regularly in racquetball. I don't recall having ever lost a game.

"I'll bet you've been cheating, haven't you?" I ventured. "I'll bet you bought a Trivial Pursuit game and have been studying the cards ever since ... just so you can impress me with how much you know."

"Ever since you made the mistake of inviting me," he gloated. "There's absolutely nothing on those cards I don't know ... no question, no fact too obscure to have escaped my photographic memory."

my photographic memory."

"Well, I haven't cheated," I replied. "I haven't been reading the cards or memorizing the answers. Like the humble, scrupulous individual that I am, I'm going into this game armed only with my encyclopedic mind."

We played into the wee hours. Game after game. With my team always coming out on top. We finally stopped around two o'clock, ignoring his pathetic pleas for one more game ... one more chance to salvage a shred of self-respect.

"I hope you'te not going to report this in your column," he whimpered as we ushered him out the door.

"I can't promise that," I answered forthrightly. "We journalists have a responsibility to report things exactly as they happen."

Differing opinions offered on school millage issue

To the Editor:

The League of Women Voters of Northville-Plymouth-Canton-Novi wishes to announce support for passage of the Northville School District's April 9 request of 9.5 mills for two years. This endorsement resulted from careful consideration of all factors involved.

On March 7, League members of Northville and Novi met with School Superintendent Dr. George Bell to discuss and evaluate the financial prosal. Our decision to support this millage request is based on the following conclusions:

1. The school administration has adequately demonstrated a need;

2. The millage proposal will directly affect the quality of education in Northville School District;

3. The management of funds and facilities is continuing to improve; 4. The availability of alternate purces of funding is being actively pursued; The most recent data on school operations, as well as educational studies, are being researched and utilized:

6. The present economic conditions are relatively stable and perhaps im-

7. The community appears to be experiencing some population increase; 8. The 9.5 mills appears to be ade-Quate but not excessive for the two-year term. In addition, we would like to commend the district for enlisting the aid of informed citizens to evaluate the current financial status of the schools and for protecting educational programs when cuts were necessitated by the 1981 loss of 2.5 mills.

As a national, nonpartisan organization whose purpose is to promote ed and active participation of citizens in government we urge the voters of Northville and Novi to become knowledgeable of the facts before voting on April 9.

Sincerely, Billie Whiteley, president

League of Women Voters Northville, Plymouth, Canton, Novi

To the Editor:

I urge the taxpayers of Northville to "NO" in the upcoming school millage election April 9.

"Since 1980-81, teacher salaries have increased 21.4 percent at all levels." (Record, Wednesday, February 22, pg. 2-A). How many of us have been as for-

If passed, this restored millage of 2.5 for two years will provide only a cushion for the district. What they really want is 3.75 additional mills, but say that would be too much to ask for now. You can bet that in two years we will be hearing about threatened school closings and strikes.

A "YES" vote for this millage would simply delay the inevitable money problems later. The present decrease in funds is already being blamed on the millage renewal defeat of 1981. A snowball effect is in the making here.

A "NO" vote would force the system to work within a budget, perhaps for the very first time.

It is time for the educators in this district to take concessions, cutbacks and pay freezes. No one hesitated to offer this opinion to the auto workers when that industry was on its knees. Don't be swayed by the increased costs, such as higher utility bills, when most of us paid as much as $200 for gas this

Treat IRAs like pension funds

By GERALD H. LAW State Representative

Michigan residents who maintain Individual Retirement Accounts (IRA) came one step closer earlier this month to receiving assurance that their retirement funds will be covered by the same state statutes and laws as other established pension funds.

On March 7, the Michigan House of Representatives voted 91-9 in favor of legislation that will protect the retirement accounts by exempting them from legal attachment, liens and execu-

The passage of this bill will aid thousands of senior citizens who maintain IRA accounts because, without it, these special pension funds could be legally treated as personal property subject to garnishment and sale. Under current law, pension funds are protected from legal intrusion, except in cases of alimony and child support. Under provisions of H.B. 5309, IRAs will also be excluded from garnishment and sale, but will not be exempt from garnishment for alimony and child support payments. Under present laws, IRA accounts are regarded as savings accounts, except they are not taxed as such. Just as savings accounts are subject to garnishment in certain circumstances, so are IRA accounts. I do not believe that the retirement savings and pensions of senior citizens should be subject to the same kind of treatment as a savings account. It is the job of the Legislature to protect those assets which are legally esigned to serve as pension plans.

The bill now must receive the support of the Senate and Governor James Blanchard's signature before it becomes law, which is expected. The sooner we begin protecting these retirement accounts, the safer they will become from garnishment.

Road board vote explained

Conflict of interest and possible violation of the open meetings act is why three interim nominees and two candidates for permanent appointment to the Wayne County Road Commission were rejected last week, according to County Commissioner Mary E. Dumas.

Turned down were interim nominees Edward Cushman, Peter Glaab and Benson Manlove, and candidates for permanent appointment Curt Boller and Mary Ann Banks. Boller is a Brownstown Township supervisor and Banks is a Romulus City councilwoman who, Dumas said, posed a conflict of interest because they hold other public of-

"When they were asked if they would resign their other office, we did not get a positive response," said Dumas. "We believe they are qualified, but could not adequately serve their local areas while also carrying out broader responsibilities to all 43 communities in the county."

On the interim nominees, Dumas questioned the propriety of an early meeting which she considers secret, saying it was a possible violation of the state open meetings act. Lucas appointed the interim nominees for a temporary period after the state supreme court upheld his authority to dismiss the previous road commissioners.

The 1984 model of the Sliger/-Livingston All-Area basketball team is ready to roll. This finely tuned group of cagers could never be mistaken for an Edsel.

This year's model has a lot of drive, it's tough in the clutch and has the get-upand-go it takes to be a classic.

The players for the latest model were selected from Novi, Walled Lake Western, Walled Lake Central, Lakeland, Milford, Northville, South Lyon and Whitmore Lake high schools by the sports editors from the Novi-Walled Lake News, Milford Times, South Lyon Herald and Northville Record.

Yes sir, this season's model is loaded. One of the components that makes up this year's team is Milford's DAN MITCHELL. The 6-foot senior guard led his team in scoring (11.9 points per game) and assists, while finishing second in rebounds.

"He did it all for us," stated Milford Coach Don Palmer. "Directing the team is where his real strength is." Mitchell, a three-year varsity performer and first-team All-Kensington Valley Conference selection this season, directed the Redskins to a 16-5 record during the 1983-84 campaign.

Another guard selected to the first team put his team on automatic drive when he had the ball. TOM MENARD, a senior at Walled Lake Central, was like a coach on the floor for the Vikings.

"He's our quarterback on the basket-ball floor," Central Coach Steve Emert stated. "Tom was our leader all the way around. He's a tremendous competitor and a great athlete." Menard, whose team finished the season with a 15-8 record, averaged 5.2 assists and 8.7 points per game.

Menard is joined on the first team by Viking teammate CLARK BOCK, an All-Lakes Division WLAA pick. The 6-3 senior center averaged over 10 points and 10 rebounds per outing for Central.

"Clark was our inside game. He was very consistent," said Emert. "He could hold his own with anybody. Clark worked very hard to get where he is

The All-Area first team is blessed with dual big men this season — Bock and Walled Lake Western's MIKE CULLEN.

A 6-5 senior pivotman, Cullen averaged 13 rebounds and eight points in leading Western to a district championship this season.

Young soccer squad faces numerous 'ifs'

Make no mistake, last season is going to be a hard act for this year's Mustang women's soccer team to Northville and Livonia Stevenson were co-champs of the Western Lakes Activities Association in 1983. but the departure of many players from that balanced, poised Mustang squad will be felt this year.

Some left because of graduation. Some left to get an early start on the job market, like Kim May and Sue Others are slow recuperating from injuries, including KIM PETIT, who wrenched her knee in volleyball season, and JULIE NOWKA, who broke her leg in a nasty soccer colli-sion last fall. The health of those two players means a great deal to Northville's chances this year.

"I'm worried," admitted Stan Smalec, who inherited the coaching reins from Ron Meteyer this spring. Smalec is a familiar face on Northville's soccer scene - he has coached youth soccer teams for years, and he has already seen firsthand many of his players' skills.

"Kim got her cast off just last week," he noted. "She's looked fairly good in practices. You look at her play and see the moves are there. She has good ball savvy — she knows what to do, but she can't go full speed. Not yet."

The same goes for defender Nowka, who spent a long time recuperating from her fracture and has lost a step or two in quickness. Smalec will have to bring both athletes back slowly.

Smalec's final cuts turned out to be a chore — 50 girls tried out for positions. Together with good tur-nouts at other WLAA schools, that's an apparent mandate for the league to provide more junior varsity-level competition.

This year's model Mustang is young and built for speed. There are only five seniors on the squad of 22 players, and there are seven freshmen. Much of the team's success will be determined by how fast the inexperienced players learn, and by the sheer amount of effort the experienced players are able to pro-

As far as raw talent, Northville has much of the best: LISA CAHILL holds the school record for goals scored in a season, and hopes are she will continue to be among the state's most productive offensive players this year. She possesses speed to burn, great ballhandling skills and hits a hard shot on goal with either foot.

But Cahill may have to work much harder for her goals than shè did last season with the departure of assist specialists like Johnson and Butter-

There are some good candidates to fill those roles on the forward line among them are seniors AMY NIEUWKOOP, KELLY COUTTS and SUE BORTHWICK. Under Smalec's system, players will see time at several different positions during the course of a season, if not a

Those three are no exception, but they will play especially important roles on the line. Coutts possesses explosive speed but needs to keep it under control, while Nieuwkoop is almost the opposite — a smart technician who needs a chip on her shoulder to be most effective. Borthwick, a valuable returning player from last year, has good kicking ability and plenty of speed.

Junior LINDA TOWNSEND, also returning from last season, will play a key role on the line. Her good ballhandling and passing skills and aggressive approach may be exactly the right counterpart for Cahill. Also competing for starting slots at or around the line are junior JILL BEMER, sophomore DIANNE DRAGON and freshmen KIM FLADING and JULIE ANGER, an adept ballhandler.

Smalec is counting on those four players' speed to make up for their inexperience — and they are all dangerously quick.

In the hub of the defensive action will be a potential team MVP, junior KATHY KOROWIN. "She has good technique, good speed, good hustle and good enthusiasm," Smalec said. He might also add good leadership. Korowin is one of the team's best "control" ballplayers.

Mustang nine eye league championship

By B.J. MARTIN

Maybe it doesn't feel like baseball season quite yet, but it is. Just ask someone on this year's very promising

Northville varsity ballclub. Or ask Mustang Coach Fred Holdsworth, who is hoping his last season at the helm will be the best since he came up four years ago. At the end of the school year, Holdsworth will retire after spending 35 years in the education business as a teacher, administrator and coach at Berkley and Northville

"I'll be surprised if we're not challenging for the league title," he says confidently. "Now it's not my nature to say things like that, but based on what we've got we should be right up at the top.'

That's a big claim, since the Western Lakes Activities Association — and especially its Western Division - is one of the state's strongest prep baseball circuits. Plymouth Canton and Salem, Livonia Stevenson and Walled Lake Western are among the state's best teams every year and should be again. But the Mustangs have the potential to stay right with them.

The most important factor is Northville's experience. There are eight returning players this year, many coming off exceptionally good spring and summer league seasons in '83. With practices confined to the gym and with more than 50 tryouts for varsity and JV positions, those past records have been Holdsworth's guideline in selecting his squad and his starters — at least until a squad and his starters—at least third a few games are behind the team. "We're not going to give any away, but I'm going to have a look at all our players," Holdsworth says of his first three games, which, weather permitting, will be against Brighton, Novi and South Lyon, all from the Kensington Valley Conference.

First and foremost, Holdsworth will check out the pitching staff, to be an-chored by DAN NIELSEN and DOUG DOYLE. Make no mistake, a lot of hopes are resting on those two seniors.

"I'm expecting a big season from
Dan Nielsen," Holdsworth says of the big, hard-throwing righthander. "He was one of our best pitchers last year, but you forget he only won one game (it was a dandy two-hit shutout).

"A lot depends on what kind of shape he's in. He'd throw well for four or five innings and then let down. Either he's got to be in shape to go all the way or we're going to need to have some good relief ready. But he's got the stuff. He has the potential to pitch college ball, maybe pro."

Doyle, who possesses excellent con-trol, speed and mound smarts, was 4-0 in '83 before injury sidelined him for the remainder of the season. He appears to be throwing well this spring, however.

Shoring up the remainder of the staff are CHRIS WILLERER, a junior who was 4-2 with a 3.50 ERA in Mickey Mantle action last summer, plus sophomore CHRIS DOMINIQUE. Dominique had a

'I'll be surprised if we don't challenge for the league title.'

> - Fred Holdsworth NHS Baseball Coach

very good Mantle season as a relief pitcher with four saves and a 3.88 ERA. Returning senior righthander TIM RUFFING will also get a look on the mound. Also chipping in some occasional mound work will be senior third baseman BOB PEGRUM, who had a 4-3 Connie Mack record last summer.

Replacing departed receivers Andy Dimitroff and Todd Bartling behind the plate won't be easy. Both were excellent defensive catchers and very good power hitters. But senior JAY BARTLING, Holdsworth says, is up to the task.

"A lot depends on Jay's arm. It's been hurting him a bit," he notes. It's likely Holdsworth will get a look at a number of players capable of doing some catching for the Mustangs in the

The rest of the infield is intact from last season. At first base is Northville's power hopeful STEVE SCHRADER, coming off an okay .250 batting average for the Northville varsity last year. But the rangy senior found his groove in Connie Mack league over the summer, boosting his average to .333. If he catches fire that way this spring, the Mustangs will be in good shape offen-

Northville's keystone combo, one of the league's best defensive pairings in '83, will feature second baseman MICKEY NEWMAN and shortstop DAVE LONGRIDGE, both seniors. Last summer Newman hit .387 in Connie Mack league, and has decent power, leading his club with 17 RBI. His Mack teammate, Longridge, hit .305.

Pegrum, a reliable hitter, returns at third. If he improves his defense over last year, Northville's infield could be second to none. Another potential third baseman is junior STEVE BURNWORTH, who has looked sharp this spring. Holdsworth says he expects to play juniors a good deal to maintain Northville's momentum in '85.

JOHN QUINN, a senior with a good glove, will be on hand as a backup infielder, while returning senior TODD DEAL will see time at first base as well as in the outfield. An up and coming junior catcher, JOHN NORTON has proven hitting talent - he carried a .371 average in Mantle league last year.

There appear to be no holes in the outfield. JERRY PAWLOWSKI, a senior who hit .319 with power last year, was_ an all-division outfielder. Late last season, Pawlowski carried one of the hottest bats for the Mustangs.

The inside choice for Northville's leadoff hitter this season is outfielder STEVE FRELLICK. Frellick hit at a respectable .280 clip last year — but the senior got on base 32 times, leading the team with 17 walks and nine stolen

MIKE WISSMAN has emerged this year as a potentially valuable factor. The only lefthanded hitter on the team, Wissman clouted .457 in Mickey Mantle league last summer. A senior angling for the tricky right field job (the right fielder faces into the sun home games), Wissman had 15 RBI and 32 hits.

Nielsen may also take a shift in the outfield or at DH. He hit .278 with decent power for Northville last year. Another big righthanded hitter is DOUG HARTMAN, who played well for the Mustang JV last season.

Store turns new page in book sales

By KATHY JENNINGS

In a business traditionally known for its musty smell and somewhat tattered merchandise, The Books Connection in Novi's West Oaks shopping center is a

There are no sagging book cases here. No piles of ragged-covered paper-backs stacked to the ceiling. Instead the recently opened "recycled books" shop offers the old and the new in a setting fit for the most recently-issued bestsellers.

"Our goal is to offer a comfortable retail type of environment — the same type you'd find in Walden's or B. Dalton," explains owner Patricia Franks. "We've had customers stand in the middle of the used book aisle and ask where the used books are.

Franks achieves the affect of a newbook store by carefully inspecting and cleaning the books received in trade. Each is cleaned with a shot of liquid cleaner and wiped with a rag. The Books Connection is also discriminating about the condition of books accepted.

"When they (patrons) know they can get a return for their books they take better care of them," she says.

Franks considers her store unique. "No one else has our combination of discounts," Franks says. Offered are new, used and rental books at discount

With its unique merchandise and retail atmosphere, Franks probably has the largest used-book business in the Detroit area. The Novi store brings the number of Franks' stores to five. Know as The Paperback Outlet, the others are in Livonia, Southfield, Warren and Shelby Township.

Experience has taught Franks a great deal about the book trade and reading trends in general. Cass Franks, Patricia's husband, is a veritable storehouse of facts and figures regarding the industry. A great deal of their success is attributed to the study they put into the market.

It's a market they expect will continue to expand.

"In the midwest approximately 12 percent of books sold are recycled as trades or given to charity. That's low compared to the rest of the country," Cass explains. "In Florida the number recycled is up to 20 percent."

There is a transition and shake out underway in the industry. Fewer than half stay in business past the crucial three years.'

- Cass Franks

With that kind of market potential, the Franks say used-book stores crop up regularly, but only 50 percent survive the first year. "Stores that are as much as six years old wear out and the store dies," Cass says. "There is a transition and shake out underway in the industry. Fewer than half stay in business past the crucial three years."

The Franks expect to be among the survivors, largely because they draw from those who have not traditionally shopped for used books.

We've found two-thirds of our customers have never been in a usedbook store. Or perhaps they've been in one while they were at the cottage during the summer. We think there is a new market."

To attract that market the Franks have gone beyond the traditional marketing techniques of stores that sell used books exclusively.

"Our aim is to attract the new-book market - the 47 percent of people in America who have bought a book for pleasure in the last three months. That's our market place. We intend to compete with major franchises for the reading attention of the buyer."

To expand the market, the Franks also are selling new books, hardcovers and larger paperbacks. They are moving into the hardcover market, despite some industry projections that many people will spend more for a paperback than a hardbound volume.

"I think we're discovering the American reader can't be charted as easily as some people think," Franks "If people are given a comfortable environment there is a marketplace for a mixture of paper and hardback books."

Major wholesalers report the trade in used books has not affected their sales. Franks speculates that's because patrons can stretch their book-buying dollars. "When they never pay more than 35 cents on the dollar, they can read three books for the price of one."

Franks also sees many people turning to used books as an alternative to libraries. "Many libraries are being squeezed financially. As an alternative people are turning to us rather than waiting in a growing line for

"We also find a lot of people who come in to look for out-of-print books by their favorite authors, books they thought they would never be able to

Cass Franks quotes a Gallup Survey showing the book market is on the upswing and suggests that used books are creating a new readership clientele. He says he believes it's so because neither libraries nor major retail booksellers have felt the competition of the growing number of used-book

The Franks' studies of their customers also show a great number come from high income brackets. Which Franks says led them to establish the Novi store, serving customers in communities such as Northville and Walled Lake, as well as

Turnover of the books at their stores depends largely on location, Franks says. "One thing we've found is that it takes longer for the books to turn over in more affluent areas. But eventually they do come back.' Another tidbit of information Franks offers is that in communities without used-book sellers, paperbacks are the staple of garage sales, or are frequently donated to libraries. After an outlet opens, the books are more likely to find their way onto the shelves of the store. "People begin to realize they can convert their books into an investment and they put more value on them," Franks explains.

The Novi store is the first where the Franks offer a cash value credit for trades. At their other stores they offer a book-for-book credit. "We hope this will help stock the store quicker and reward the frequent buyer and trader." Franks

The new store offers all new books at 15 percent below retail and hardcover bestsellers at 25 percent off. Use book prices start at 35 cents, "rentals" begin at 50 cents for 10 days, and newspapers, magazines, new and used comics also

Metro home cost still lowest

New evidence that the Detroit nounced in comparison to western metropolitan area offers bargainpriced housing was produced by January home sales nationwide, according the Metro MLS, multi-listing

The national average price in January rose to $85,700 while that reported by 3,000 Metro MLS members was only $56,148.

Members, who list homes in a 1,600 square mile section of the metro area. also found their average price well Doelow the $63,200 reported for all states in the north central region, which includes Michigan.

The difference was even more pro-states, where the average home cost rose to $115,700, the northeast with its $89,000 average and the south, where the average edged up to $83,900.

ly offer the best home buy values," said Metro MLS president David Jensen. "And, despite the wide range of home prices represented in our listings, we continue to present the most affordable

Jensen said 34.5 percent of homes sold by MLS members in January were priced under $40,000. Nationally, there were only 13.5 percent in that price

In the other photo are winners in Dr. Grimm's South Lyon hometown, Heather Allen, 11; Jamie Kaiser, 4 and Jenny Erwin. The dentist's Northville office is at 1055 Novi Road, in the Hammlet Shopping Center. He resides on Cash in South Lyon.

FOLAND'S INC. has named Starr Advertising Inc. of Northville as its agency of record, agency president Henry A. Starr announced. Foland's, which operates six retail outlets in the Detroit area, made its decision known March 13 after reviewing several agencies. 'We are most gratified to add the Foland's name to our family of clients," said Starr. "They hold a unique position in the Detroit retail marketplace. We look forward to a long and happy association.' Starr Advertising is a full-service marketing/communications firm.

THE GODDARD-TALMAY AGENCY, Inc. in Walled Lake was presented an Outstanding Performance Award by the Citizens Insurance Company of America at its 1984 Agency Regional Meeting Tuesday at the Troy Hilton. "The coveted award is presented annually to the independent agencies who represent Citizens who have had remarkable growth and have done an outstanding job generating business for the company," said James K. Coville, vice president of marketing.

Insurance polices placed with Citizens include homeowners, automobile, businessowners and worker's compensation policies. Goddard-Talmay has represented Citizens since 1923.

Citizens, headquartered in Howell, is represented by more than 550 independent agents throughout the state and second largest writer of insurance through independent agents in the state. Local claims services is provided by Citizens' ten branch claim offices in Michigan.

Cooperation needed to lure new industry

By TIM RICHARD

One of the questions executives ask before agreeing to a corporate transfer is "Where will my wife work?"

Charlotte Doud, vice president for economic development for the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce, makes it her business to be able to answer that Finding professional jobs for spouses is one of the metropolitan area's longrange problems in its attempts to lure industry, said Doud.

She is the chamber's liaison to the Business Attraction and Expansion Council of Southeast Michigan, BAEC is a partnership of the chamber, Detroit Edison, Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) and the state Department of Commerce.

The problem of finding jobs for the spouse, usually the wife, is not to be underestetimated, Doud advises. "Our region is very, very low in women managers and executives," she said.

'According to a BAEC report on the region, other long-range problems in luring industry are these:

• L A C K O F ENTREPRENEURSHIP — Jobs have evolved from the giant auto industry with its giant plants. While this creates a pool of skilled labor, it leaves the region short of people who can start new companies, Doud said.

• MEDICAL CENTER - How can the region build on its medical center resource to attract the kinds of nonlocal patients that patronize the Sloan-Kettering Institute in New York on Johns Hopkins in Boston?

• BRAIN DRAIN — Michigan's colleges and universities educate bright young people who must move to other states to get jobs.

• BASIC SERVICES — Lack of mass transit; problems in some public Southeast Michigan, in the chamber's thinking, must look to 1) expansion of existing small industry and 2) lure new industry to make up for the long-range loss of jobs in the heavily automated auto industry.

"Plants that employ 3,000 to 6,000 are probably a thing of the past," Doud

BAEC is a 2°-year-old effort of the four partners. In that time, it has identified robotics, automobiles, food processing and filmmaking as top prospects for short-term business expan-

Now it is looking at the 20-year road and long-term issues.

What has BAEC accomplished? "The data base has been established," Doud replied. "We have 26 million square feet of commercial and industrial space and 19,000 acres of green field sites." The list of regional assests includes 628 office building and 150 industrial parks.

Without taking specific credit for any development, BAEC lists these clients as expanding business in the region: Memory Computer Ltd. of Dublin (100 jobs now, 300 later), Air Florida (expanded service), Buy Rite (150 jobs), Coca-Cola (300 retained jobs), GM Fanuc (250 jobs), Midwest Telecommunications (125 jobs) and so on.

It adds up to $630 million in new investment in the seven-county region and 8,400 jobs - 3,900 retained and 4,500 new ones, two-thirds in service in-

Diplomacy is key ingredient in Doud's job.

"We have an overabundance of economic development organizations," she said, "and for some people it becomes a 'turf' issue.'

But she's quick to assure that the Greater Detroit Chamber has no interest in trodding on someone else's

"We are a resource for them (the 240 southeast Michigan communities). We're at the front-end, a clearinghouse for information. The EDC's provide hands-on technical assistance; they close the deals."

It's not always easy. "Oakland County sees us as trying to steer everyone to Detroit. Detroit sees us as trying to steer everyone to Oakland County. Can't they see us as the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce?"

Political diplomacy is part of Doud's background, which includes a degreein urban policy development from Michigan State University in 1978.

Prior to joining the chamber two years ago, she was special assistant in the office of intergovernmental relations in the state department of management and budget. While there. she worked on such projects as the Chrysler loan package and the General Motors Detroit-Hamtramck plant.

"A lot of the time we were out there to get everybody to make nice," said the resident of Detroit's east side.

Each fall the region sends a trade mission to Japan and each spring another to Europe.

Next month the chamber is sending staffer Ted Colborn to Japan for an intensive study of Japanese management techniques. "It's quite an honor (to be selected by the Japanese for the program). It's recognition of the development of a world market," said Doud.

"I'm not comfortable with the idea of 'competitors.' There are many joint ventures and many companies with an international component to their

"In Holland, men take flowers home for any occasion and almost any day here, if a man does, it means he's in trouble or it's an anniversary.

When a Dutchman goes to the store for milk, he picks up a bunch of flowers. Every single home has flowers with no exceptions," reports Northville florist and city council member G. Dewey Gardner.

Gardner's observations were made after he attended a two-week seminar sponsored by the Dutch Flower Council at Keukenhof Gardens in Lisse outside Amsterdam. The gardens are internationally known, Gardner explains, saying he had made application and was delighted to be one of 20 selected from the United States to attend. A total of 60 florists participated from around the master course teachers each day. In the afternoon those attending worked with florists to learn European methods.

Gardner attended lectures taught by

"It was absolutely worth it," he says, illustrating his point by saying he always had considered tulips and lilacs perishable. With his new knowledge, Gardner says, he now can keep white lilacs in full bloom for two weeks.

While learning Dutch methods, the visitors worked with Dutch professionals at the school and in their shops.

"To open a (flower) store in Helland," Gardner was told, " a florist must have completed a six-year college

"They do not intermingle products. A florist will sell only flowers, just as bread is sold only at a bakery. There is no diversifying," Gardner explains, noting that flowers and gifts would not be sold in the same shop, as is done at his IV Seasons Flower and Gift Shop. "In Holland every person is an expert in their profession — they are authorities on their product."

Popular hand-wrapped bouquets tied together in clusters are ready to go in a vase, he adds. They are given as hostess gifts, as a welcome at the airport and are sent to a bride. Gardner adds that he already has adopted this European custom of having "friendly bunches" of flowers hand tied in his shop.

"The biggest reason we were there Aplemeer, the world was because of Aalsmeer, the world flower centre, where all the growers have formed a cooperative to take their products to auction. "This is a clock auction with seven clocks in the center of the area that is the size of 50 football fields," the Northville florist describes. Most of the buyers, he adds, are Dutch and phone in their bids from seats in the bleachers. "Everything is inspected and products are guaranteed," Gardner relates.

Although agoraphobia can afflict either sex, it is more prevalent in females. Stocker estimates that approximately 70 to 80 percent of agoraphobics are women. The condition generally begins between the ages of 18 and 35. Some research indicates that there are two peak ages - around 20 and between 30 and 35.

He notes that the Dutch lay wreathes on the floor at funeral homes. They also are used flat as centerpieces but are not hung on doors. He explains that the Dutch use a mechanical product to hold the water and place the flowers in it to create a lasting wreath.

Such products now may be purchased directly from Holland, he adds, as can cut spring flowers from the Netherlands. "They arrive within 24 hours of the time they were picked," Gardner says, mentioning that flowers were "a little cheaper" at their source in Holland because of lack of transportation costs.

"To keep flowers inexpensive, you have to know procedures," he emphasizes. Dutch flowers are grown in hothouses and receive special processing when picked, he explains, noting

Fashion show will feature 12 'Men of Northville'

By JEAN DAY

The focus will be on "Men of Northville" at a spring fashion show beginning at 7 p.m. May 9 at Meadowbrook Country Club. The style show is another "first" for the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce, which has been extending the scope of

Within the next few days, President Sherry Spaman explains, 12 local men will be invited to be models in the show. The celebrity models will be chosen for their involvement in business or professions in town. Board member David Jerome is assisting in the selection. Those selected, Spaman says, all will be well known in the community. They will be wearing menswear from Lapham's. Complementing them will be fashions from the Marquis.

The evening at Meadowbrook will include an appetizer buffet. Tickets are $15. The buffet show is open to the community.

Community Ed slates new travel destinations

Spring trips to the Holland Tulip Festival and the Grand Old Opry in Nashville, Tennessee, have been arranged by Northville travel agent Lesa Buckland in conjunction with Northville Public Schools Community Education Program.

The two spring outings are new additions to the Community Ecucation offerings and are open to residents 18 years or older.

The Holland Tulip Festival trip will be offered May 17. Buses will depart from the M.A.G.S. parking lot at 6:30 a.m. and return at 6.m.

Round trip tickets are $33 and include transportation via Trailways bus (air conditioned with reclining seats), transportation to the parade, a tour of the tulip fields and one meal.

Registrations must be made before March 30; full fee must be paid at that

The Grand Old Opry trip will be held June 21-24 with the Trailways bus departing from the M.A.G.S. parking

The trip fee includes two-day admission to Opry Land, one admission to the Grand Old Opry, three-hour city bus tour of stars' homes, three breakfasts, one dinner and gratuities and a room at the Holiday Inn on Binley Parkway.

Rates are based on room occupancy which includes $335 for double occupancy, $420 for single occupancy and $300 for triple occupancy. Baggage handling and taxes are included.

Full registration must be made before June 11.

Residents interested in the spring trips can register in person or my mail at the Northville Public Schools, Community Education Office, 501 West Main, Northville. Checks should be made payable to Northville Public Northville Mothers' Club will hold its annual spring dinner dance the first Saturday in April at Meadowbrook Country Club. Members now have tickets for sale at $37.50 a couple; they also are available from co-chair Joy Holloway, 349-5074. She stepped in to head up arrangements with Phyllis Kennedy on return from a vacation in Palm Springs. Original chairman Joan Roth, who had made preliminary arrangements, has been sidelined with back surgery.

By popular demand, The People's Choice group again will play for dancing. The event is open to the community.

Suzette Worden heads 53-year old club

Living in Northville and being president of the Mothers' Club at the University of Detroit Jesuit High is a challenge for Suzette Worden. The Sunnydale Lane resident currently is responsible for organizing hundreds of women from more than 50 different Detroit suburbs. All of them have sons presently attending, or sons who previously attended, Michigan's oldest school for boys.

Presently she is planning the annual past presidents' luncheon to be held in the commons of the school at noon April 11. The luncheon will honor all past presidents of the 53-year old women's group that supports a veriety of social and academic efforts at the school.

The University of Detroit Jesuit High School band will perform at the luncheon. Tickets are $6 with reservations to be made before April 4.

Being president of the Mothers' Club at Michigan's only Jesuit High School is described by President Worden as, "more perspirific than honorific. But being president of the club gives me an opportunity to support an institution which provides a tremendous service to my son and more than 500 other young men attending the school."

Ercolis' dog stars as Sandy in Maine

From Cape Elizabeth, Maine, comes news of the Robert Ercoli family. The Ercolis, who moved east from Northville two years ago, report that they're reading of the high school production of "Annie" here with interest as their dog Hershey had won the role of Sandy in a Portland production.

Elementary schools plan upcoming spring musicals

EDITOR'S NOTE: The monthly Northville PTA-PTSA column which apears the last Wednesday of each month September through June is com-piled by volunteer Linda Handyside. She coordinates material from the publicity persons in each of the elementary and junior high schools and Northville High.

In addition, Jerry and Tina Delaney compile information about Our Lady of Victory School.

AMERMAN

Congratulations to Amerman's Founders' Day Award Recipients Darlene Ursel and Jeff Lightfoot, who were honored at the Founders' Day Banquet March 22. Darlene has been a helping hand for Amerman's P.T.A. for eight years and is also very involved with community activities. Jeff is a 5/6 grade teacher at Amerman and has one an outstanding job as a teacher in the Northville School District for 16

Amerman had a successful auction and raffle March 15, thanks to the Northville community's support. The playground will soon reap the benefits. New play equipment has been ordered for the Kindergarten play area and basketball backboards will be installed for upper elementary students.

Many Northville homes were adorned with decorative shamrocks made by Amerman students. The shamrocks were passed out to customers shopping at Chatham's on St. Patrick's Day.

Parents were entertained at the Spring Musical Program on March 21. The theme for the program was "Getting Along" and involved students in grades 3 through 6.

The Amerman Library is a busy place this week as student Science Projects are on display as well as many good books from Children's Book Mark that are available for purchase at the Book Fair. All parents are invited to stop by the library during Parentcher conferences to see the Science and Book Fair.

The third Junior Entertainment Series will be April 4. Pinocchio, a new musical comedy version of the much loved story of a puppet trying his ut-most to be a real boy, will be presented by the Good Time Players.

Fifth grade students will be going to Camp Ohiyesa on April 11, 12 and 13. They will be involved with ecology and nature projects and will participate in outdoor recreation.

Lower elementary students wil be involved with a Metric Unit in April. With the help of volunteer mothers, the students will have the experience of measuring items in the forms of liquid, linear and solid.

As an Easter project, lower elementary students will write a message to another child and place it on a plastic egg and then there will be an Egg Hunt on the playground.

The Amerman staff has been involved with math during In-Service Days. Dr. Lola May, math expert and author, did a workshop on math curriculum development for the accelerated students and Dr. Barbara Price did a workshop on math models you can use to teach math.

Orders will be taken in April for the Annual Spring Flower Sale. Annuals, perinneals, fruits and vegetables may also be available to buy this year.

The Amerman Book Swap will be held April 17 and 18. The next PTA meeting will be at 9:30 a.m. April 16 in the Amerman Library. A video tape introduction to Logo will be shown following the meeting.

MORAINE

March is "Accent on Reading" month and students at Moraine are competing throughout the month to see who can read the most books. Most avid readers at each grade level will go out to lunch with Principal Donald Van Ingen.

Students and music teacher Sandra Craig are hard at work on this year's all-school musical program, entitled,

"If I Were President." It will be presented in two showings at the high school auditorium. The dress rehearsal will be the morning of April 4, when non-parent visitors are encouraged to attend. The evening performance will be held April 5. Everyone in Michigan eagerly awaits the coming of spring. At Moraine, everyone also looks forward to the annual Spring Carnival which always precedes Easter vacation. This year's carnival, coordinated by teachers and PTA chairperson Jackie Burkowski, will be held April 19. Student-made games of chance, snack booths and clowns make this event a highlight of the school year.

PLUS art students, under the supervision of art teacher Gail Raben, are involved in planning a puppet show for which they are creating their own puppets. The puppet show should be ready for its audience in the next few weeks.

Parent-teacher conferences are being held today through Friday with half days of school those days. Parents have been notified of their specific conference times.

The next PTA meeting is at 9:30 a.m. April 2 in the library. Election of next year's officers is an item on the agenda. Remember, babysitting is available for preschoolers while parents attend the PTA meeting.

SILVER SPRINGS

The eagle has landed! Only two days left to order your new Silver Springs Tshirts featuring the "eagle" logo. Reasonably priced at $4 for students and $4.50 for adults, the new shirts boast a large white eagle and "Silver Springs School" on a field of royal blue. Size samples are on display in the school office. . .delivery is promised in Disney Days start tomorrow! Kathy Reavy, PTA president, has arranged for the showing of "Peter Pan" from 1-2:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday in the Rondelle. The film festival is complete with popcorn and McDonald's orange drink (10 cents). School will be dismissed at 11:45 Wednesday, Thursday and Friday this week for Parent-Teacher conferences. Plan to join us for an entertaining afternoon with the boy that never grew up in Never-Never Land. Admission is 50 cents.

April 3 marks the new date for the Spring Musical. Our hostess, Ann Jarvi, promises to give us a fine musical with the aid of the students in the classes of Marion Yockey, Philip Demski, Janet Rigney, Celeste Matestic, Ray Balutowicz and Dwight Sieggreen. We will be entertained by the Silver Springs Glee Club featuring our fifth and sixth graders. (Note that the Art Festival and Science Fair are still planned for May ...more about these events next month).

As a special feature for informed parents of the Northville community, the four Northville Elementary PTA's and PTSA's have joined to give us the renowned speaker, Dr. Mary Bigler, professor of English, who will present her lecture entitled "Motivating Your Child to Read." Dr. Bigler's lecture is both informative and entertaining, and we are sure that you will find many helpful ideas to alleviate your concerns and help you motivate your children. . .come join us April 4 at Northville High School.

The PTA, through the efforts of the JES Program, will bring us Dr. Blondy, a Livonia pediatrician, to speak to our students about "Seat Belt Safety." The program will be presented in two assemblies on April 12. Parents are welcome to attend this worthwhile assembly for students of all ages.

The next day, April 12, the Intermediate Band will tour the musical facilities of Meads Mill. This will enable our students to see the fine facilities available during the Middle School years and will help motivate budding instrumentalists toward harder study. Sue Kupsky

WINCHESTER

The students of Donna Hicks and Kathryn Devendorf are looking forward to their spring camping trip, and are sponsoring a movie for all children at 2 p.m. tomorrow in the gym. There is a donation of $1. Entertaining and informative lecturer, Mary Bigler, will be speaking April 4 in the Little Theatre. Her topic will be "Motivating Your Child in Reading and Language Arts." Everyone is invited to attend.

The lower elementary grades have discovered "It's a Small, Small World," as they conclude their study of other cultures. The Spring music program, under the direction of Ann Jarvi, will feature the classrooms of Martha Sartori, Lou Wolf, Mary Najarian, Barbara Sabo, Judy Coutts, Ron Bird and Jeree Akin as they travel "Around the World in Song." The April 5 program, which begins at 7:30 p.m., will also include the fifth grade Glee Club students in the classes of Gary Hukka, Bill Lenz and Cheryl Mallette singing songs native to America.

The student council and the fifth and sixth graders in Cheryl Mallette's class will be sponsoring a pop can drive to raise money for the restoration of the Statue of Liberty. The students have studied the history of the statue and have built a replica which will be on display. The drive will take place the week of April 9.

April 12 will be Lower Elementary evening at Winchester. Students in grades kindergarten through third and their families are invited to see professional juggler and entertainer, Tim Rowlands, at this 7:30 p.m. program.
Winchester students enjoyed several field trips during March. Martha Sartori's, Lou Wolf's and Mary Najarian's

COOKE JUNIOR HIGH

An after-school dance to raise funds for the yearbook committee is planned from 2:45-4:45 p.m. today.

Tonight is College Career Night for parents at Cooke. Parents will learn about requirements, costs for various colleges, and what financial aid is available.

Nominating committee for the PTO presented its slate of officers for the 1984-85 school year at the March meeting. The slate includes Kay Kepner and Susan Couzens, copresidents; Kathy Skynar, vice president; Jaki Mathis, secretary; and Norma Beemer, treasurer. The committee reports it is pleased with the number of people who have agreed to work when called next year and feels confident of another successful year for the PTO.

Bob Williams' eighth grade English students have been very busy writing short stories and plays. Many already have entered their work in the Detroit Free Press writing contest and are awaiting results. They also are entering a short story, play or essay in the Fourth Annual Wayne County Intermediate School District Writing Contest. Williams reports that some outstanding pieces of work are being

The adjusted studies class (special education) is now doing laminating for anyone in the district at very reasonable prices. The money raised is used to fund the behavior modification reward system in which the students are involved.

All Cooke seventh and eighth graders recently took part in a math contest sponsored by the Michigan Math League. Congratulations to our eighth grade winner Erin Carroll and to Kim Harris, Karl Noffz and Jennifer Hansen who finished close behind and to our seventh grade winner Ricky Abramovich and runners up Bill Butske and Dave Fellicelli. The winners will receive certificates of merit from the Michigan Math League.

Members of the Forensic Team plan to attend Eastern Michigan University's Seventh Annual Drama Day April 7. Three instructional sessions are planned for the morning followed by lunch and a special matinee performance of the play, "Morning's at Seven."

IT'S YOUR FUTURE....

A professional frisble team from Ann Arbor called The Air Aces will perform for all Cooke students April 9. Their show always is an entertaining one which students enjoy.

Thanks to orange and grapefruit sale chairperson Cindy LaChance, and all who helped with the sale and distribution of the fruit. Over $1,000 was raised to be used at Cooke. Thanks also to Bev Warren, Karen Poulos and the committee for providing a great selection of books and a well-run book fair.

Remember to turn in those Campbell Soup labels (fronts needed) at the drop box in the school office.

MEADS MILL JUNIOR HIGH

A great deal has been happening at Meads Mill this past month. We began the month with the Eighth Annual Career Day March 8 under the direction of Dave Adair. Thirty two speakers gave students information on their specific careers. Susan Meyers' students were hosts to our guests. Through this experience the students had an opportunity to explore career and plan for their future.

We thank all of the people who gave of their time so that students could have a meaningful educational experience. At the same time the high school came to introduce ninth graders to the curriculum at the high school, to help preregister for next year and to help plan courses of study for the next three years. In addition, seventh and eighth graders selected and pre-registered for next year's classes

Visits were made March 12 and 13 to Silver Springs and Winchester to introduce incoming seventh graders to programs offered and to pre-register

Parent conferences were March 6

Other activities that we have been involved in include an assembly for ninth graders March 13, a Junior Entertainment Series program. Students saw a presentation on Shakespeare's women by Laurie V. Logan, who has appeared on television. She portrayed characters such as Kate from "Taming of the Shrew," Portia from "The Merchant of Venice," Anne from "Richard the III," "Othello," and Lady Emilia from

The advance art class under the direction of Edie Pegrum had a field trip to the Detroit Institute of Arts March 15 to view displays, exhibits and collections.

A great number of honors have come to Meads Mill this month. First, the English department announced winners of the America and Me essay contest. They were Lisa Hyatt, third; Denise Akroush, second, and Jessica Wiedman, first.

School champions in the Spelling Bee sponsored by Lawrence Institute of Technology included Lara E. Armstrong, seventh grade, and Priya Sriraman, eighth grade.

The math department also would like to congratulate the following students for outstanding achievement on the Michigan Mathematics League Contest. Winners were, eighth grade, first, Micky Moore; second, Jeff Gursky; third, Courtney Bond, Steve Guldberg, Jennifer Trabin; sixth, Eric Halverson, Tom Whelan and Kim Wilds.

Seventh grade winners were, first, Brett Rousseau; second, Becky Frayne; third, Eric Fogel; fourth, Julie Ibach, Siegfried Shyu and Kristin

NORTHVILLE HIGH

Congratulations Northville High School Wind Ensemble for earning another No. 1 rating at the latest Music Festival. Director Michael Rumbell praised his award-winning musicians for their individual talents, stating that, because the district lost most of it music program during difficult declining-enrollment years, this group of student musicians had to learn its art outside the school system. He said they are dedicated, enthusiastic individuals who have learned to combine talents for the sake of the group.

"Annie" players wowed their firstnight audience dispelling all their preweek jitters and frustration. Cast and crew performed like seasoned troupers impressing everyone with their professionalism. Over 100 students, ranging in age from seven to 18, participated in this semester's production. Director Kurt Kinde designs the productions to incorporate most aspects of legitimate theater, including singing, dancing, choreography, acting, set construction, lighting, sound, instrument, makeup, blocking, ticket selling and publicity. Careers have been formed in this diverse atmosphere. Likewise, a broad range of real-life experiences are being learned. By attending performances, the community can demonstrate its appreciation for this fine extra-curricular

A number of Northville High School students hope to improve their creative writing skills when they attend Pat Dorian-Sandbothe's writing workshops held very Monday from 2-4 p.m. and Wednesdays from 7-9 p.m. To further student incentive she enters their works in a number of state and national contests. Recently, Northville High student Anne Conley took first place in competition at Eastern Michigan University earning her a scholarship. She also won an honorable mention in the In-terlochen Manuscript Day contest. Noted American author William Stafford, a final round judge, read her work, making the honorable mention that much more meaningful. New Zealand exchange student Andrew Paxie took third in Lawrence Institute's 14th annual Writers' Contest for his poetry. In addition, he has just been informed he is a finalist in Albion College's High School Poetry Contest.

Foreign language students are getting ready for their second annual International Dinner to be held at 6:30 p.m. April 10 in the cafeteria. Student committee chairpeople Laura Ficyk, Sharon Lane and David Hoye are making arrangements. According to teacher Marie Hopkins, the dinner will have six courses, each featuring 18 different dishes representing France, Germany and Spain. They expect 50-60 to attend, and each will bring a dish to serve. Chairpeople are working out the menu and will be informing those attending what to bring. Entertainment will include student Spanish dancers and a guitarist who will play French, German and Spanish music.

Science student Bill Harmon was invited to attend a luncheon at Oakland University March 21. He was among Michgan high school seniors being honored for their participation in the Westinghouse Science Talent Search. He submitted a paper on antibiotic effectiveness of plant extracts on plant pathogens. He completed his paper in the science seminar course during his junior year. Bill also has been invited to attend the 1984 Brown Symposium on the campus of Southwestern Universit at Georgetown, Texas.

OLV Art Show will be April 14 and 15 culminating art appreciation lectures given to all eighth graders during the past three months.

A spring newspaper drive will be held at the same weekend (April 14-15) in the OLV church parking lot, Main and Orchard.

Tremendous response to the Math-A-Thon benefit for St. Jude Hospital generated donations in excess of $5,000. OLV seventh grader Robert Roux led the way with $370 in pledges from sponsors. All student Math Masters extend gratitude for such wonderful support from their sponsors.

Congratulations of OLV junior high students for receiving top awards in the Metropolitan Detroit Science and Engineering Fair. Jeff Higgins, eighth grade, was awarded second place plaque for his project, "Designing with Aero-Dynamics." Janet Schlachter, seventh grade, was awarded a blue rib bon for her project, "In Which Kind of Soil Does a Pole Bean Grow Best?"

During the second semester, the eighth grade class is having a weekly visit from Ronald Hurley of the Project Business section of Junior Achievement. As part of this business education project, the class will be keeping track of the stock market. Each will be given $5,000 and told to buy whatever stock he or she wishes. At the end of the 15-week session, they will check to see who made money and who weren't so lucky.

Totally Awesome Sixth Graders will be going on a field trip to the Detroit Science Center April 5.

Our Lady of Victory PTO general membership and election meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. April 6 in the OLV social hall followed by an evening of square dancing.

Agoraphobia: when fear and anxiety take hold

Stocker emphasizes, however, that it's difficult to describe a typical agoraphobic. "They're like fingerprints; everyone is different," he said.

As a general rule, however, he says agoraphobics tend to be women who are unable to express their feelings. "There's a general tendency for pa-tients to be passive, dependent in-dividuals who lack assertiveness and are uncomfortable in social situations."

Often times, agoraphobia tends to be a manifestation of marital problems, he continued. "Let's say you have a passive woman who feels trapped in her marriage but is unable to do anything about it because she realizes that she's dependent on her husband ... that she can't make it on her own.

"She's trapped between wanting to get out and knowing that she can't get out. The pent-up anxiety comes out in the form of panic attacks.

The fear of separation tends to be another common element in agoraphobia. The feared separation may involve the marital partner, but it also may involve separation from a close friend or co-worker. "Patients tend to be dependent people; the loss of the individual on whom they are dependent can bring on the disorder," explained Stocker.

treatment of agoraphobia in recent

"An agoraphobic who really wants to work out the problem can make a lot of progess," he said, "but you have to understand that the cure involves overcoming the source of fear. If overcoming that fear involves something like leaving a bad marital situation, it may be too much for the patient to face and he or she will terminate treatment instead of dealing with the problem.

"Therapy must involve the entire family," he continued. "Let's say you have a female agoraphobic who is dependent on her husband. At the same time, you may have a husband who needs to have someone who is dependent on him. In situations like that, the husband may throw up barriers to treatment.

"For example, if he sees his wife starting to make progress, he may insist that she stop treatment. Or it may be more subtle — he might make sure that the car's not available on the day of her next session.'

Stocker likes to involve what he calls 'graded exposures" in his treatment of agoraphobics. For example, an agoraphobic who is afraid to leave the house may be asked to stand on the front porch for one minute every day. Over a period of time, the stay may be extended to two minutes, three minutes

In other instances, the patient may be asked to count the number of steps he or she takes away from the front porch. Eventually, the patient may be able to walk across the street, around the block or into town.

"The quantification progress is beneficial because it provides the patient with measurable progress," said Stocker. "The measurement of progress is very important.

"Patients who want to overcome their agoraphobia can make real progress," he added. "A few fears may linger for a long time, but generally people who truly want to be cured can be cured."

Barbara Piggott seems to prove Stocker's assertion that agoraphobics are all different. Although her age, 26, falls into the typical 18-35 age span, she has never been married and she does not appear to have been a shy, retiring

"She was very out-going," said her mother. "She was always the life-ofthe-party type."

Added her father: "She was so active in so many things and all of a sudden everything changed."

Barbara Piggott currently is visiting her sister in California. Although he does not know her and she is not his patient, Stocker says it's a very positive sign that she would undertake a journey so far away from the "safe place" of hough Americans have displayed an insatiable appetite for the motion picture since its inception as a 20th century, art form, today's film audiences appear to be more sophisticated and selective in their approach to the cinema.

While mass appeal Hollywood productions rarely are at a loss for an appreciative audience, the past decade has brought an increasing demand for alternate cinema whether the American classics of the 1930s and 40s, foreign films or contemporary works by independent film makers.

According to Eliott Wilhelm, curator of film at the Detroit Film Theatre, it has only been in the last 10 years that area audiences have had an opportunity to view the likes of "King of Hearts," the uncut, fully restored version of George Cukor's "A Star is Born" and Rainer Werner Fassbinder's 15-hour masterpiece epic "Berlin Alexanderplatz."

"In 1973, the situation for foreign and special films in this country was fairly grim," Wilhelm notes, adding that at that time "there were literally dozens of important and independent American films that didn't make it to Detroit."

The lack of specialized films available to American audiences prompted the National Endowment for the Arts to offer seed money for established arts institutions whether museums, libraries or the like — to initiate film programs.

Wilhelm explains that in 1973, the NEA endowed the Detroit Institute of Arts with a $10,000 grant to start its film program, Detroit Film

"My job at that time was to bring those specialized films to Detroit,"

Wilhelm explains the reception to the films from Detroit area audiences has been tremendous. "They took off right from the beginning," he notes, adding that he has seen a "fairly dramatic increase" over the past few years. "We used to have approximately 700 to 800 people a night," he says of attendance at the 1,150-seat Detroit Institute of Arts Theatre. "Over the last few years we've had about Wilhelm attributes the DFT's success not only to the quality of films shown, but the variety as well.

Embarking on its second decade, Wilhelm notes that the DFT's "success to longevity is we haven't limited ourselves to one kind of movie.

"We're not just peddiing films to the nostalgia crowd," he notes. "We keep up with the changes going on in

"The trick is to stay vital and never allow the series to stagnate."

To offer a wide variety of films to Detroit audiences, Wilhelm says he reeps a close watch on the international movie scene. Noting that he sees most films at festivals, private screenings, and in other cities, Wilhelm says he tries "not to select films on the basis of whether or not they are going to be extremely popular. "If we have that," he says, "we put them on multiple nights.

He notes, for example, that the January showing of Cukor's uncut version of "A Star is Born" was viewed by more than 6,000 people over six nights.

Another sell-out is Fassbinder's "Berlin Alexanderplatz," currently being shown on five consecutive Sun-

The DFT works on two schedules a year, running a total of 40 weekends. The film series closes in June and July and resumes its second schedule in August.

While the Detroit Film Theatre is considered to be among the best film series in the area and has received raves from devoted cineastes, some suburban area theatres are beginning to broaden their scope of film of-ferings beyond first-run box office

Among the most recent converts is the historic Washington Theater in Formerly a discount movie house. offering $1.50 second-run films, the theatre switched to film classics from the golden eras of Hollywood (1930s-1950s) in February.

According to theatre owner sef-frey Dunn, the conversion to a classic film theatre began with a pilot program last September when the theatre began showing classics every Wednesday and Thursday of alternate weeks. "We did it just to see if there was a market for American classic films.' Dunn notes.

Following an overwhelming acceptance for the classics last fall. the Washington began showing only classics beginning in February.

"The concept we are trying to promote is classic American films from the golden eras of Hollywood," Dunn emphasizes.

Classics shown at the Washington during its first season included the Marx Brothers in "A Day at the Races," a Hepburn, and Tracey series including "Adams Rib", "Pat and Mike" and "Woman of the Year", a Hitchcock series featuring "Rebecca", "Notorious" and "Spellbound" as well as films featuring Cary Grant, Humphrey Bogart and James Cagney.
With its first series concluding April 5, the Washington will open its second film program April 8 with "It Happened One Night", starring Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert.

Dunn notes the first season's series, which was put in a weekly festival format, will be changed to allow audiences more flexibility. Noting, for example, that all three Hitchcock films were shown within a single week. Dunn says he received complaints from moviegoers who said they could not get to the theatre three or four times in a given week to see the entire series.

Admitting that he "does have a lot of competition" with other movie houses, Dunn says he is trying to keep his audience by showing films they request. He notes he already has received "well over 300-400 suggestions? from viewers, but adds that scheduling can be a problem.

You first have to track down the print which has gone into the public domain," Dunn notes, adding that "there may be only three or four prints which are workable."

Despite the age of the films, Dunn says "the majority of the prints are in good condition - not very good, not excellent, but good."

Another lure to the film series. Dunn notes, is the theatre itself. Built in 1922, the Washington is one of the oldest operating movie theatres in Michigan adding a special nostalgic atmosphere to a classic film festival.

Botsford Inn: Greenfield Village West

restaurant review DIANE KOVACS

Antique buffs will love the Botsford Inn.

Located on Grand River near Eight Mile in Farmington Hills, the Botsford Inn is about as close as you're going to get to Greenfield Village without going to Green-field Village.

In fact, as far as historical authenticity is concerned, the Botsford may be superior to Greenfield Village in the respect that it remains at the same location where it was established almost 150 years ago.

The Botsford Inn is a lot of things. In addition to the restaurant, it also is a full-service hotel, an active dinner theater is located on the grounds and it's also the site of Botsford General Hospital.

Much of the charm of this old-style country inn is directly related to his its history — which bears repeating.

Botsford Inn, the oldest operating inn in Michigan still providing food and lodging, was built as a home in 1836 by Orrin Weston and converted into a tavern known as the Sixteen Mile House by Stephen Jennings in 1841. Jennings subsequently sold the tavern to Milton Botsford in

A convenient stopping place for farmers driving their cattle to the slaughter houses in Chicago, the Botsford's location midway between Detroit and Lansing later made it a popular meeting spot for politicos on their way to and from the state capitol.

The similarities between the Botsford Inn and Greenfield Village are not at all coincidental. Henry Ford met his wife, Clara, at a square dance at the Botsford Inn and courted her there frequently. When the inn was threatened with destruction to accommodate the widening of Grand River, Ford rode to the rescue in his Model-T, purchased it in 1924 and restored it.

The Botsford was sold in 1951 to the current owner, John Anhut, who has done a commendable job of retaining the original flavor.

Today, the Botsford is museum of antiques, including several of Henry Ford's personal treasures. Modern conveniences, such as water

Botsford Inn's head chef Mattie Miller serves up homemade chicken pot pie, Botsford steak, salad, Baked Alaska and coolers, look strangely out of place. Of special interest is a room set aside by Ford for his close personal friend, Thomas Edison. As you might expect, dining at the Botsford is like taking a trip into the past. There are three small dining rooms; my favorite is the room which contains just four tables clustered around an old fireplace. The other rooms look through a glass wall into a courtyard; the setting is relaxed and comfortable with no indication whatsoever of the hustle and bustle along Grand River in front of Needless to say, the cuisine is merican — early-American, if you will. Anc. it's rather refreshing to find something other than the continental cuisine which seems so prevalent in many of the finer restaurants today.

The house specialty is the Botsford chicken pie ($7.50), which has been selected for inclusion in a book of recipes from America's finest country inns. The early-American influence is apparent throughout the menu which features such traditional entrees as fresh roasted tom turkey with country-style dressing ($9.50) and short ribs of

beef served casserole style ($9.50) as well as an assortment of steaks and seafood.

Meals are preceded by a basket filled with cornbread and homemade rolls. The dinner salads are fresh and crispy, and the entrees are bountiful. I selected the lamb stew, a specialty of the day; while my companion opted for the medallions of veal in a thick mushroom sauce.

The dessert selection again featured good oldfashioned American dishes - homemade apple pie, strawberry shortcake, cherry cobbler and

A word of advice about dress is appropriate for anyone planning a trip to the Botsford. Although casual attire is allowed, patrons dressed nicely in suits and dresses seemed more in tune with the general atmosphere.
