Light voter turnout expected in Monday school election

Voters in the Northville school district will go to the polls Monday to elect two school board trustees from a slate of three candidates.

Candidates vying for two four-year terms on the board are incumbent Christopher Johnson, former school board member David Llewellyn and newcomer Larry VanderMolen.

With few inflammatory issues prevailing in the district and the sparsest slate of candidates vying for trustee posts in two years, voter turnout is expected to follow the pattern of previous years with an estimated five to seven percent of Northville's registered voters casting ballots.

Last year, an estimated seven percent of Northville's 10,941 registered voters elected incumbent Douglas Whitaker and newcomer James Petrie to the board.

Coupled with the relatively low-key campaigning of this year's school board race is the absence of a League of Women Voters' candidates forum for the second year in a row.

The LWV forum traditionally has offered the community its only opportunity to hear the candidates face the issues.

According to LWV president Billie Whiteley, candidates' forums have been conducted in both Novi and Plymouth-Canton. However, she notes that Northville LWV members have shown little interest in conducting a forum for the local school board race during the last two years. (Record interviews with the three candidates were published in last week's edition.)

Vying for his third four-year term on the board, Christopher Johnson holds the distinction of being the youngest resident elected to the Northville Board of Education. He also is the only Northville High School graduate serving on the board.

He won his first four-year term in 1976 at the age of 21 and currently serves as board president.

An attorney with Cummings, McClorey, Davis and Ache in Livonia, he is a graduate of University of Michigan and Detroit College of Law.

He resides at 312 West Main with his wife, Patricia.

Following a year's absence from the board, David Llewellyn announced in March his intention to seek another term.

A product engineering supervisor in body and chassis engineering for Ford Motor Company, Llewellyn, 42, served on the board from 1979-83.

A graduate of Penn State University with an MBA from University of Michigan, he lives at 21748 Connemara with his wife Barbara and sons Brett, 16, and John, 14.

Larry VanderMolen, 44, is a political science professor at Schoolcraft College and has been a member of the Schoolcraft faculty for 19 years.

He has served three years as a member of the Northville Township Wage and Salaries Commission and has been a precinct delegate for 10 years.

He holds bachelor's and master's degree from Western Michigan University and a Ph.D. from Michigan State University. He also earned a legal assistant degree from Oakland University in 1979.

He resides at 41848 Ladywood with his wife Lynn Alice and children Kristen, 17, Scott, 16, Ann, 14, Todd, 12, and Kathy, 10.

Township candidate slate set

By KEVIN WILSON

At the 4 p.m. Tuesday deadline for filing nominating petitions there were 11 candidates for the seven positions on the township board of trustees.

Clerk Susan Heintz reported that the August primary election ballot will show only single candidates for each of the three executive positions — supervisor, clerk and treasurer, and eight candidates for the four trustee seats.

Those in the race include Heintz for supervisor, deputy clerk Georgina Goss for clerk, and incumbent treasurer Richard Henningsen for re-election. Barring successful write-in campaigns, all three are assured victories in both the primary and the November general election.

Those vying for trustee positions include incumbents Richard Allen, James Nowka and Thomas Cook and newly-appointed trustee Donald Williams. The other three applicants for the vacancy Williams was selected to fill also filed — Myron Kasey, Greg Dawson and Michelle Demers. Also filing was Marilyn Little. Demers is the only Democrat among all the candidates who had filed, and is thus assured of making it past the primary and into the November general election. Only four of the seven Republican trustee candidates will advance to the general election.

Township constables are also elected officers. Present constables James Schrot and Joseph Lukowski will both run unopposed.

Of the seven-member board of trustees elected in 1980, five are up for election again this year, Heintz being the only one running for a different post. Current supervisor John MacDonald is running for 35th District Court judge and trustee James Armstrong resigned in April after moving to the city.

Tuesday's deadline also applied to nominations for precinct delegate, state and county positions, U.S. Congress, court judgeships, and other elected offices. A round-up of candidates entered in the primary election will appear in next week's paper.

Senior village proposal shifts emphasis

By KEVIN WILSON

Maybe they ought to change the name to the Jerome P. Cavanagh Not-So-Elderly Village.

The latest proposal for development of the 101-acre parcel of Wayne County Child Development Center property represents a shift in emphasis from earlier plans for a 1,300-unit complex of housing exclusively for the elderly.

Instead, roughly half of a projected 1,260 units would be devoted to elderly housing, while the rest would be developed as "market-rate" apartments open to renters of all ages, but marketed with an eye on "empty nesters" over age 50.

The township board of trustees got its first look at the latest proposal May 30 at a session attended by representatives of the developer and of the Wayne County Economic Development Corporation (EDC). The township has not yet blessed the plan, setting a special meeting Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. to consider it. The EDC board will examine the proposal June 13.

The EDC holds a 99-year ground lease on the county-owned land and has been engaged in a three-year search for a developer to make the housing project a reality and return the idle land to the tax rolls.

But adopting the latest proposal would mean several alterations from the goals set forth when the township's own EDC first proposed the project more than six years ago.

Among the changes: a large portion of the property would have to be rezoned to allow market rate apartments open to all age groups and, the developer and Wayne County EDC representatives suggested, tax abatement might be required on a few acres of the development for one of the elderly housing projects.

William Tucker of the county EDC told township board members the new tack was taken in response to "financial reality." Costs of developing the village as previously projected were too high to entice any developer to invest in the plan, Tucker said.

But devoting a large portion of the property to low-density market rate apartments generates the kind of lure necessary to make the estimated $80 million project fly, Tucker said.

"Nothing works unless the bucks work," Tucker explained. Noting the

City tax hike opposed

By KEVIN WILSON

At least two council members favor a tax increase somewhat smaller than the 1.25 mill proposal contained in the city's proposed 1984-85 budget. Both Carolann Ayers and G. Dewey Gardner stated last week that they would support a one mill hike, but found the extra .25 mill (earmarked to purchase an emergency generator for city hall) objectionable.

The city's proposal to raise property taxes to accelerate retirement of a year-end $262,000 deficit drew only one citizen to a public hearing last week.

The May 29 hearing on the tax increase was to be followed by a council decision this Tuesday evening, after The Record went to press.

Speaking against the tax increase was resident Kevin Hartsborne of 256 Griswold. Citing the city's $2.5 million budget, he suggested "there's plenty of room to find $80,000 (the amount the city realizes on one mill of property tax) other than a tax increase. I feel it's time someone made a stand and said 'no more taxes.'"

Mayor Paul Vernon responded that

Mustangs state champs!

The faces of Lisa Cahill and Tricia Ducker say it all: The Northville Mustangs brought home the 1984 Michigan State Girls Soccer Championship Saturday with a thrilling victory over defending champ Livonia Stevenson. A special "Welcome Home Party" to honor the team is planned for 7 p.m. Friday at the downtown square next to the Main Street clock. The magnificent Mustangs will be presented to their home community and the championship trophy will be displayed. See today's sports section for photos and the story of the game. ## D-Day memories still strong, awesome, after 40 years

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Record asked readers for D-Day recollections last week for publication today, the 40th anniversary of the Allied landing at Normandy. The story below was compiled from the memories recounted by three respondents to that plea, together with research into the historical information about the invasion that is remembered today as the beginning of the end of World War II.

By KEVIN WILSON

June 6, 1944. America awakes to learn the invasion force has landed in France. Details are sketchy, but it is clear a beachhead has been established at great cost.

Three current Northville residents remember the day, the days leading up to it and those following. For them, the details are not sketchy. In fact, they may be all too clear.

For if there's any element of their stories we found difficult to get to, it is the details of what they saw and heard and did on D-Day.

Call it a nightmare vision few would want to carry around for 40 years. Maybe there are many more here now who were there then but don't care to talk about it much. The details are there, but it is unpleasant to remember them and virtually indescribable. Yet it is impossible to forget.

Raymond Lustig of 42318 Pellston Drive remembers. He wrote it down for us, his hands trembling as he held the pen so that he had to throw away his first draft.

"Here are some things I remember:

"The sound of artillery shells exploding in the water — the belching 16-inch guns on a warship off to our starboard — the first GI floating face down in the water — a ship on fire on our port side."

Lustig was one of 18 soldiers attached to the 90th Infantry in the Counter Intelligence Corps detachment. He landed at Utah beach late on June 6. After nightfall, the burning ship lit their way. There were insufficient landing craft for all the 58,000 American troops to land at once, so Lustig and many others had to sit offshore, watching the horrible battle yet unable to participate. Many landing craft sank in the four-to-five foot waves, slowing the operation further. More Lustig remembers:

"The wall of red tracers from machine guns when the German planes strafed us — the incredible noise — the confusion — the ache in my stomach from being scared stiff."

Fear is the common element in these three stories. Spoken and unspoken. Ask for details from memory and likely as not you'll get the more pleasant ones.

Earl Wuesteck of 991 Grace enlisted in the Navy at age 17 in Calumet. He landed in England in January, 1943, as the Allies were building up force for the great invasion everyone knew was coming, but no one knew when or where.

As a sailor Wuesteck might be thought lucky by some, but he did his stint on the beaches as well. Assigned as part of a landing craft crew, he says now "more soldier than sailor we were. People'd look at us and say we didn't look Navy, we looked like dogfaces."

"I remember training how to land on mock-up beaches in England," Wuesteck says. "When I got there I felt I'd been there before, the mock-ups were so good. All the houses and landmarks were right where they were supposed to be."

"There" was Omaha beach, generally acknowledged as the bloodiest, toughest of the five landing sites. Wuesteck landed at 6:15 a.m. with the 1st Infantry Division. So vicious was the fighting that General Omar Bradley at one time considered giving up the Omaha effort to concentrate on Utah.

Lustig has far different memories of his mock-up invasion at Utah beach, perhaps because he landed late in the day, after the area had been a battlefield for many hours.

"We couldn't find anything. I remember tripping through the sand looking for landmarks and you'd fall in to a hole where a bunch of guys had an anti-aircraft battery set up or

Senior village proposal shifts, adds other age groups

township's desire to have development center buildings renovated rather than demolished, he said the current plan calls for rehabilitating 28 of the 33 buildings on the site.

"The present buildings don't lend themselves to adaptive re-use for seniors," Tucker said. "We face either finding an adaptive re-use and saving hundreds of thousands of dollars in new construction, or demolishing them at a cost of nearly $1 million."

Al Bekke, representing the partnership that has proposed the latest plan, expanded on Tucker's explanation. "Adapting those (two-story) cottages for seniors ideally requires an elevator in every building — that's an expensive proposition."

Bekke didn't say it in so many words, but made clear the investment in adding elevators is not one the partnership is much interested in making. He described the four major partners (Singh Associates of Novi, Robert S. Binder Building Company, Jerry Garrett, and Griswold Holding Company) as having a net worth "well into the nine-figure range — we have the ability to undertake and complete a project of this magnitude."

Displaying a land-use map of the parcel and an outline site plan, Bekke told board members about the Northville Elderly Development Corporation's plans to construct an integrated complex of market rate and senior citizen housing on the site.

"We're talking about 600 units, or beds, exclusively for seniors in a whole range from independent living arrangements to congregate care to intermediate care to nursing facilities," he said. "We also propose low-density market rate housing including 250 units that involve rehabilitation of the existing structures."

The area exclusively for seniors is sufficiently remote from the market rate housing, Bekke said, "that they don't have to hear stereos or children playing if they don't want to," but close enough that interaction between residents of the various housing units should be frequent.

Tucker added that "professionals in the field increasingly recommend that the age groups be mixed. Basically, young folks keep the old folk young. And there are advantages to the young from being in contact with older people."

One element of the proposal that caused obvious concern among board members is that for 300 units of government rent-assisted independent housing for elderly and handicapped persons. Bekke explained that the partnership is seeking a non-profit sponsor for those units, mentioning an effort to revive the interest of the League of Catholic Women.

Such a development would likely require tax-abatement, Tucker told the board, but would make apartments available to elderly persons at a rate not to exceed 25 percent of the tenants' income.

As for the time scale, the developers made more optimistic projections than did Tucker. Bekke suggested a five-phase building plan beginning in 1985 and carried out over four building seasons. But Tucker said he felt the developer should not be tied to such a stringent schedule and that the project could take seven or eight years to completion.

Among the first elements to be constructed would be "the amenities — the community building," Tucker said, noting it would be completed in either phase one or two of the schedule.

The center, likely to be located in a rehabilitated school on the property, would include recreational facilities and possibly some small shops and would be open to all residents of the complex. Bekke suggested it might be open to the entire community.

First to be developed would be a 120-bed nursing home and 120 beds for intermediate care patients, Bekke said. The following year, the subsidized apartments (150 units) would be started and the first 150 market rate units would be opened.

The third year projection given by Bekke calls for 150 units for congregate care of the elderly and a further 200 market rate apartments, leaving 250 senior citizen units and 200 market rate units to completion.

Reaction from the township board was mixed but leaned toward the favorable. Trustee Richard Allen said he was "very happy to see this plan includes more rehab of existing building than any other we've seen."

Clerk Susan Heintz voiced several concerns. She noted federal grant monies had been used for studies of the project and wondered aloud if the township might not be required to repay that money if the eventual project was not exclusively for the elderly. She asked about rezoning the property and also inquired whether the present utility service to the site would be adequate. "We had a utility survey done that showed it would be enough for an elderly development — that didn't anticipate there would be families living there with the added load on water and sewer systems."

Tucker said a subsequent survey showed the utilities would be adequate for the kind of development proposed. He said preliminary contacts with federal block grant officials indicated there would be no recriminations from that quarter should the new proposal proceed. He was asked to "get it in writing."

Bekke said one reason the developer expects the utilities to be sufficiently sized is that among the partners is a firm "that manages several developments for the empty-nesters — that is, people whose children have left home and who decide they want to live in smaller quarters and not have a lawn to take care of and so forth. We expect 60 percent of the tenants will be empty-nesters, that is, age 55 to 65."

Treasurer Richard Henningsen asked whether "we have gone astray from what we set out to do. The program sounds good, saving the buildings and so forth, but the law is the law, are we going to have a problem?"

Tucker said he would typify the EDC's position as "being between a rock and a hard place. If we insist on a purely elderly development, it may never happen. We've spent $150,000 since 1978 on this project. I've talked to the grant people and they say there's no problem."

"One of the things to consider is that there's so many players in the game — the developer, the county, the EDC, the township. The project is dynamic, it's evolving."

Asked more pointedly if the project would result in block grant officials demanding repayment of the amount invested in planning, Tucker said "look at what we bought — we bought feasibility studies, market analyses, utility studies. We bought things to see if it was possible to develop that land and put it on the tax rolls."

Proposal at a glance: major plan elements

- Major elements of the tentative proposal to construct housing at the vacant Wayne Child Development Center property on Sheldon between Five and Six Mile roads:
- Complex would cover 101 acres, much devoted to greenspace;
  - Plans include a two-to-three story nursing home and similar low-rise intermediate care facility near Sheldon at the southern end of the property;
  - Senior citizen apartments in a five-to-seven story structure would be located at the back of the property near the south end;
  - Subsidized apartment units available to seniors and handicapped persons with income under $13,000 a year;
  - 600 two- and three-bedroom market-rate apartments would occupy the largest land area on the north side

- of the property, including 250 units of "garden apartments" in rehabilitated structures and another 350 units of new construction;
- Market rate rents in today's dollars estimated at $550 to $700;
  - Community center utilizing former school structure would include recreation areas and, maybe, convenience shopping;
  - Five-phase building program to begin in 1985, completion expected in four to eight years;
  - Present zoning (RME — multiple residential — elderly) would have to be altered for acreage involved in market-rate housing;
  - Subsidized apartment structure may require tax abatement;
  - Total estimated cost nearly $30 million.

Board awards first bids for high school

It appears that Northville voters said enough about next year's school funding when they approved a millage renewal and an additional 2.5 mills in the April election.

Monday's truth in taxation hearing, the second of three steps required to levy taxes in an amount greater than last year's levy, garnered no public attention. Administrators, staff and the press were the only members of the audience.

The hearing, which lasted only a few minutes, precedes the board's adoption of the millage rate for the 1984-85 school year. The board is scheduled to set the total operating millage at 35.40 mills at its 7:30 p.m. meeting next Monday in the board conference room at Old Village School.

Observing the empty chairs in the audience, board president Chris Johnson noted, "this is one particular levy that is not surprising to the community. I think that's why tonight's hearing is quiet."

Following the hearing, the board awarded its first bids for the Northville High School renovation project.

Upon the recommendation of architect John Argenta and assistant superintendent Burton Knighton, the board unanimously approved an $80,000 bid to J. H. Comins Company to supply two new Unilux boilers.

Knighton explained that only two bids were received on the boilers, but that only one of the bids was on the boiler recommended by the architect.

Argenta told the board he "highly recommended" the Unilux boiler and noted that "it is considered one of the best boilers in terms of operating ease and efficiency."

Life span expectancy is about 25 to 30 years.

It also was noted that the high school's present boilers, which are at the tail end of their life expectancy, have some resale value.

In addition to the boilers, the board also unanimously awarded a $129,400 bid to Hickson-Costigan, Inc. for renovation of the pool area.

Of the six firms bidding on the pool work, Hickson-Costigan was the lowest bidder. Bids ranged from a high of $165,000 to the approved $129,400.

In addition to awarding its first bids, the board also authorized the administration to receive bids on the construction of footings for the building additions to the high school.

Argenta told the board that construction of footings at this time would not be disruptive because most of the work is being done on vacant land. He cited key areas as the activities center, cafeteria and academic wing.

It was noted that the board's facilities subcommittee reviewed the preliminary drawings for the footings and agreed with the bid recommendations on the boilers and pool area prior to the board's approval.

In other action, the board approved the appointments of two new members to the board of canvassers. Rosemary Palarchio of Edenderry was appointed to the Democrat seat for a term ending December 31, 1985. John McConachie of Revere Court was appointed to fill the Republican vacancy for a term ending December 31, 1987.

Heads of the class

As the school year draws to a close and graduation festivities get under way, Northville High Schools' senior class seems to be the focus of attention. The Class of '84 will be in the limelight June 15 at the school's 115th commencement. Heading this year's class are valedictorians Scott Yaekle (far left) and Diana Schneider (right) and salutatorians Dan Perpich (right) and Jenny Merrifield (left). Senior festivities begin tonight with the 7 p.m. Honors Convocation. Baccalaureate is Sunday morning at 9 a.m. with graduation at 7 p.m. June 15. Record photos by Steve Fecht.

Registration under way for summer school program

Northville Public Schools will be offering a host of courses for students during its 1984 Summer School Program beginning June 22.

Registration currently is under way at the Main Street Elementary Building, 501 West Main, and will continue through Friday.

Elementary classes to be offered at Amerman Elementary School Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday for five weeks from July 2 to August 2 include a Kindergarten Readiness Program from 8:30-10 a.m.

The program is designed for children who will enter kindergarten this fall and focuses on language development, self-confidence and listening skills, as well as small and large motor development. Class size is limited to 12 students.

General readiness skills, as well as reading and/or mathematics readiness skills are areas to be covered. Class size is limited to 12 students.

Reading, will be offered from 8:30-10 a.m., to students in grades one through six. The course will give students an opportunity to maintain learned skills and develop some new skills. The teacher will work with students individually and in small groups. The focus of the class will be on correcting reading difficulties. Class size is limited to 12 students.

Mathematics, also for students in grades one through six, will provide students with lessons using computation and problem-solving skills. The teacher provides activities on an individual and small group basis. The class will be offered from 10:05-11:35 a.m. Class size is limited to 12 students.

Computer, to be offered in two sessions, is designed as an introduction to computer usage on Commodore Pet computers. The course will be offered from 8:30-10 a.m. for students in grades 1-3. A second session from 10:05-11:35 a.m. will be offered to students in council felt it had already cut the budget "to the bone" and could not make further cuts without reducing services. City manager Steven Walters noted that the tax increase will not fund any expansion of city government, but would instead be used to more rapidly erase the deficit the city has carried for four years now.

Only one speaker at city tax increase hearing

"Without the increase, we'd reduce the deficit by $102,000 — the tax increase simply adds to that," Walters said. In a May 21 memo to the state municipal finance authorities, Walters projected a deficit reduction of $182,135 in the coming year, bringing the one $500,000 deficit down to $79,908.

The millage rate was increased by two mills for 1982-83 and was continued last year. The proposal for the coming year comes atop that increase.

Council members said they hoped the additional millage would be in place for only one year, though Walters cautioned that any unexpected setbacks might force continuation of the tax for another year.

"If we don't deal with this deficit, a lot of important things in this community just won't get done," said council member Paul Folino. "You've got some horrendous street paving that has to be taken care of that has been delayed because of the deficit, as just one example."

Gardner said his support of the one mill increase is based on wishing "to see the deficit erased so we can get on with city business."

When Hartshorne suggested funds might be found by laying off personnel or reducing overtime hours, citing the precedent of having items purchased by special millage that would normally come out of operating revenues."

Gardner, who said his attendance this week was still in question, sided with Ayers against the .25 mill. He said it "seems to me we're setting a very high priority for a piece of equipment if we do that. I'm not opposed to the generator, I think it would be a real asset."

"But maybe there are other ways of finding the money. Maybe it could be a project for a civic group," Gardner continued. "I hate to set it as a priority over salaries, benefits for our employees who have accepted wage freezes, which is what we're doing if we earmark the millage."

Folino said he felt it proper to earmark the millage, saying the designation of city hall as an emergency shelter demanded that the generator be purchased.

"What kind of shelter are you offering people if you don't have the facilities to help when they get here?" asked Folino. "To prolong the purchase of the generator is, I think, a very dangerous course to take."

If council were to approve both

Jacqueline George files for 35th District judge

Three-way celebration

Jaycees announce Fourth of July plans

Jacqueline George, a Northville Township resident for the past three years, has announced that she is a candidate for judge of the 35th District Court to replace the retiring present Judge Dunbar Davis.

In 1962 George was graduated from Rosary High School and then attended the University of Detroit to obtain a degree as a dental hygienist. During this time she obtained a Bachelor of Arts degree in psychology from Wayne State University in 1971.

Working as a substitute teacher following graduation, George says she realized that she wanted most of all to be an attorney and possibly a judge.

In 1976 she received a Juris Doctor degree from Cooley Law School in Lansing. After passing the bar examination, she has practiced as a trial lawyer mostly in the field of criminal justice.

George is the eldest of three children of the late John Pomann and his wife Julia.

He was a D.S.R. bus driver for the City of Detroit who worked days for the D.S.R. and, his daughter relates, at night worked as a musician to help his three children get a college education. Two children became attorneys and a third became a Roman Catholic priest.

Outside her professional life, George has been involved in matters concern-

JACQUELINE GEORGE

Northville (Our Favorite Place) will be the theme for this year's Fourth of July parade, Tom Hoetger of the sponsoring Jaycees reported this week.

"Floats and decorations can focus on anything in Northville — anybody's favorite spot — the well, Ford Field, the park or a facsimile of a store front," he explained.

The parade will start at 10 a.m. on the holiday, taking the same route as last year from the Downs parking lot north on Griswold to Main and along Main to Rogers and back to the Downs along Fairbrook.

It will be the first event in a three-star day. The Jaycee barbecue and Northville Historical Society events will follow in Mill Race Historical Village. The Jaycee fireworks at dusk will conclude the festivities.

Hoetger said he had met with Northville Historical Society President John Brugeman to coordinate planning. The society is to have a float in the parade featuring a "hands all around" quilt.

Jaycee Jeff Campbell is in charge of parade arrangements and may be contacted between 4:30-6:30 p.m. at 349-0779 by any individuals or groups wishing to enter a float, old car or ride horses in the parade. There is no entry fee, but the committee would like to have entries filed by June 26.

Stressing that it is a patriotic, not political, event, Hoetger said that candidates for office may not be in the parade. "We will not allow election-related participation," he said.

However, persons who presently hold office may participate as officeholders only. He said he has had confirmation of participation from Judge Dunbar Davis and Judge James Garber of 35th District Court and added he expects to have "quite a few dignitaries."

Wayne County Executive William Lucas, who has participated in the parade for many years, is expected and Hoetger said he hopes also to have Oakland County Executive Daniel T. Murphy participate.

Antique cars, a popular feature, are promised.

"Hopefully," Hoetger said, "there will be about the same number of entrants as last year — more than 100."

He mentioned the Jaycees would like to have new participants and urges merchants and others who have not previously entered to consider doing so.

The Jaycees, he reported, are in the process of signing up bands to march in the parade and hope to have at least four. These are hired, he said, with funds raised by the Jaycees and with donations. This year the city and township each contributed $1,500 toward expenses of the holiday.

Hoetger said the Jaycees also are seeking small contributions from corporate sponsors.

He anticipated the parade will take an hour and a half.

At 11:30 a.m. the first barbecue chickens will be ready to eat at the tent in the Mill Race. The Jaycees plan to serve from 11:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. — or whenever the chickens are gone.

The tent will be located next to the blacksmith shop under construction in the historical village. The village will be the scene of an arts and crafts sale sponsored by the historical society, which is selling booths.

The fireworks are scheduled to go off at dusk, which last year was about 10 p.m. The high school plateau is used for the display, and the Jaycees emphasized that there will be "absolutely no access" to the area by spectators.

The Jaycees will seek a $1 donation for cars parked in the high school and Amerman Elementary parking lots. This year concessions sold during the fireworks will be regulated by the Jaycees. Anyone interested should call Hoetger at 348-6640 between 7-9 p.m.

Further details of the Jaycees' Fourth activities will be planned at the next meeting, which will be at 7:30 p.m. June 13 at city hall. It is open to anyone interested.

Ford cautions drivers

Northville Ford Plant officials have asked that motorists be cautious when rounding the South Main curve in front of the plant.

"We've lost around 20 ducks to traffic in the last six weeks or so," said Jim Puckett, production control supervisor. "We're quite concerned."

The bend has long been marked by a "Duck Crossing" sign, which was missing from its post at last report.

The large flock of ducks and geese inhabiting the pond beside the water-wheel plant has generated a large number of young this spring, Puckett noted. Plant manager Bill Sherrick was moved to issue the request to motorists after one of the larger Canada geese was struck by a car May 29.

The goose "was part of new family we had out there," he noted. "People get used to there not being any ducks during the winter, but in the spring they start moving around and out into the street."

Police Blotters

Walkaway takes up residence in vacant apartment

In the township...

A Northville State Hospital walkaway took up residence in a vacant Innsbrook apartment for four days last week before being arrested by township police for breaking and entering.

According to police, township officers were dispatched to the apartment complex at 4:45 p.m. May 30 on a report of a white male being chased by residents.

Officers arriving at the scene spoke with the complainant who said he and his friends were playing cards at his residence when a white male subject walked into the main entrance door — which was unlocked at the time.

The complainant said the suspect walked into the apartment, replied "sorry" and walked out of the residence without doing any damage or stealing anything.

The complainant described the suspect as a white male, approximately 6 feet tall with greased back brown hair. He noted he was wearing gray trousers and a light colored striped dress shirt.

Officers at the scene had information that the subject may be the same person involved in sleeping in vacant apartments. Police further were notified of an empty apartment in the complex.

In checking the apartment, the township officer found it was empty of furniture, had no curtains on the windows but noticed the bathroom light was on.

In looking through a bedroom window, the officer found the window was not locked. He proceeded to open it and was able to clearly see mud and dirt on the floor. Prior to this, the officer noted scuff marks in the mud directly below the window.

The officer entered the apartment through the unlocked window and confronted the suspect in the hallway. The suspect was taken into custody by the officer and notified he was under arrest for breaking and entering.

The suspect replied, "I escaped from the state hospital and I didn't break in. The windows were unlocked."

The suspect was taken to the township police station where he told police he walked off the hospital grounds at 1:30 p.m. May 25, found a vacant apartment and slept there four nights.

According to the police report, the suspect further stated that at 10 p.m. May 27, he found an unlocked camper van in the parking lot and removed a coffee mug and some magazines. He also noted that at 10 p.m. May 28, he found an unlocked, yellow four-door vehicle in the same area and removed a box of woman's clothes. He told police the stolen property was in another apartment but he could not recall the location.

The suspect was identified by the complainant as the same man who entered his apartment. He was returned to the state hospital by township police.

Township police are filing a felony prosecution report against the suspect for breaking and entering.

Township police are investigating the arson of a 1980 Ford Mustang found burning in an alley behind Perry Drugs on Seven Mile at approximately 7 p.m. May 29.

Officers at the scene found the vehicle parked behind the drug store with smoke coming from the doors and trunk.

Police noted that township fire department personnel at the scene had smashed out the car windows in order to extinguish the fire within the interior of the vehicle. The trunk and passenger door also had been pried open.

The complainant told township police he went into the alley to dump garbage and observed smoke coming from the vehicle. He further stated that he did not see anyone in the area at the time the incident occurred.

The officer at the scene had the township dispatcher run a LEIN (Law Enforcement Information Network) on the vehicle and found it was registered to a New Hudson resident.

Both the officer at the scene and Township Fire Chief Robert Toms observed that the ignition was punched.

A portion of the ignition was on the floor of the vehicle in front of the passenger's seat. Toms stated the fire appeared to have started along the upholstery on the rear of the passenger's door.

He further stated that if the vehicle was not stolen, the cause of fire was accidental. However, if it was stolen, the cause was arson.

At 8:55 p.m., the owner of the vehicle contacted township police and stated that the car had been stolen sometime between 5-7 p.m. that evening from the parking lot of a Westland bowling alley. He further stated that he had notified Westland police about the incident.

Township police are holding the vehicle for arson investigation.

A Mercury 65-horsepower outboard motor valued at $1,400 was stolen from a boat parked in the backyard of a Docksey residence sometime between 8 p.m. May 31 and 8:30 p.m. June 1, township police report.

The complainant told police the boat was parked in the backyard of his residence at the time the incident occurred and that he was surprised to find the motor missing as both he and his next door neighbor have dogs that bark at anything suspicious. He noted that neither dog barked throughout the night.

An estimated $600 worth of jewelry was stolen from an Innsbrook apartment sometime between 3 p.m. May 30 and 2:30 a.m. May 31, township police report.

The complainant told police she discovered the jewelry missing from the top of her dresser May 31 and that she believed unknown suspects entered her apartment while she was at work.

She said she found the screen missing from her dining room window and believed it was the point of entry into her apartment. Police detected no forced entry.

Only jewelry on the top of the complainant's dresser was stolen. No other items were moved or disturbed in any way throughout the apartment, police noted.

Items stolen included a $10 jewelry case, a $100 gold locket, $30 in miscellaneous costume jewelry, a $150 pair of diamond chip earrings, $200 gold chain, $50 amethyst necklace and $50 gold chain bracelet.

In the city...

Two men — one employed by the amusement park firm contracted by the Northville Jaycees for last weekend's carnival — were apprehended in the act of stealing a wrought iron bench from a home on Randolph Street last Thursday.

The men were observed by a patrolling officer at Dunlap and Wing streets carrying the bench into City Parking Lot No. 2 when they were stopped and questioned by city police.

The owner of the bench (which was valued at $100) elected not to prosecute, according to a city police report.

A bicycle left on the carnival grounds at Northville Downs was reported stolen between 7:30-10:15 p.m. Saturday. The bike was described as a red and yellow 20" Murray, valued at $160.

A Murray dirt bike was stolen from inside the locked entrance of an apartment building at Northville Park Apartments Friday. The blue and chrome dirt bike, valued at $200, was reportedly taken between 8 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Friday.

Damage to an automobile parked at Northville High School between 2:30-5 p.m. Wednesday of last week was estimated to be worth nearly $800 by its owner. The automobile, a 1981 Toyota, suffered broken headlights, torn off door mirrors and numerous body dents.

Police seek suspect in rape case

The victim said she remained in her bedroom and waited one or two minutes before calling police.

Officers at the scene found the front door locked but gained easy access to the home through a rear glass doorwall on the north side of the residence which police believe may have had a defective lock.

Upon the officers' arrival, the victim was transported to Botsford General Hospital. She told police the suspect did not have a weapon and she had no visible injuries.

Finding the interior of the home in good order and no signs of forced entry, township officers at the scene contacted Michigan State Police to bring out tracking dogs in search of the suspect.

According to Presnell, police were led in the northwesterly direction of the home and currently are investigating evidence gathered along the trail.

Anyone with information regarding this incident should contact Captain Phillip Presnell at the Northville Township Police Department. Persons assisting police with this case are eligible for the department's Silent Observer program award.

Judge Davis to talk on court

Judge Dunbar Davis will speak on how to file a claim in small claims court at the June breakfast meeting of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce at 8 a.m. next Wednesday at First Presbyterian Church.

This is the final breakfast program of the year. It is open to interested individuals and business owners as well as the general chamber membership. Coffee and rolls are served from 7:30-8 a.m. There is a $3 charge.

Judge Davis was elected judge of the 35th District Court in 1968. His term expires December 31, and, having reached 70 years of age, he will not run again. He received his degree from the University of Michigan Law School.

Reflections

Katie and Heidi Zimmerman catch a glimpse of their newly-painted reflections at William Allan Academy's Fifth Annual "Country School Fair." The little sisters were among those having their faces decorated by face painter Kathy White at the school's spring event. Other festivities included pony rides, a bake sale, tote art, a button booth and much more. Record photo by Steve Fecht.

Olympics, talent show

School hosts year-end festivities

End of the school year events at William Allan Academy in the red schoolhouse on Eight Mile include the academy's "Summer Olympics." Since the Winter Olympics had to be canceled, the staff reports that this event is a highlight. The Winter Olympics will be held the last day of school at "Family Picnic Day" at Murray Lake on June 15.

Another all-school event, which has been planned by the music-drama teacher, is the "Student-Teacher Talent Show," to be given June 14.

Almost all the Academy kindergartners have finished their "word packets" for reading and are writing and illustrating their own sentences.

The first-second graders are completing their space unit study. The grand finale is a blast-off to the moon complete with space helmets and air-packs made by the children. They also have taken a field trip to Cranbrook for a laser light show which exemplified all their hard work and study about space.

The Academy's third-fourth and fifth-sixth graders donned their old clothes and waterproof boots for their long-awaited trip to Camp Ohyesa. The camp provided in-depth study of plants and wildlife in a bog.

Homeowners voice opposition to Haggerty sewer assessment

By KEVIN WILSON

Potential beneficiaries of the Haggerty Road Interceptor sewer are far from unanimous in their opinions of the project, a public hearing last week demonstrated.

Most notably opposed to the $3.8 million project were residents the Meadowbrook Estates subdivision, many of whom told the township board May 30 that they believe their septic systems are adequate and that they do not desire sewer service.

The subdivision north of Seven Mile and west of Haggerty comprises a small portion of the township-proposed special assessment district that extends along the Haggerty Road corridor from Eight Mile to Five Mile.

Supporters of the proposal included several owners of large parcels which have not been developed due to lack of adequate means for sewage disposal.

Township engineer Edward McNeely made a 45-minute presentation describing the project at the outset of the meeting.

He explained the township's desire to rid its sewer system of six present and anticipated sewage lift stations and the attendant operating costs, the possible involvement of the city of Novi, the need to cooperate with Plymouth Township to provide an outlet, and the likelihood that involvement in the Haggerty Road project will provide property owners in the district their best opportunity to gain sewers at the lowest possible cost.

But many Meadowbrook residents weren't buying, and several cited the same reason.

"What I object to is paying for a sewer primarily because of Meijer's," said Patrick Coyne of Pierson Drive.

Township officials conceded that the pending construction of a Meijer store was a spur that hastened the project along, but argued that the sewer is a necessary element of the township's long-range development plans.

McNeely noted the several parcels where owners are merely waiting for sewer service before building. "There's imminent development all through this area," he said. "What this all comes down to is that the entire area can benefit. And the entire township will benefit both from reduced operating and maintenance costs and from a wider tax base. For that reason, I expect the township will bear a large portion of the cost."

Meadowbrook Estates residents, especially, questioned the need to have the properties developed.

"If you're going to assess everything on a housing basis, we're going to lose Dun Rovin (golf course) and Oasis (golf course)," Coyne said. "They'll have to build houses there. We'll have another Canton here, and nobody wants that here."

Several residents of the subdivision, the only one included in the district, noted recent large investments in septic systems and argued that their systems should serve another 15 to 20 years before needing replacement. They viewed investment in the sewer system as redundant.

After McNeely explained that assessments are based on the idea that property is enhanced by having sewers available, either by increasing in value or becoming more useful, and did not depend on whether or not the sewer was used immediately or was needed, several persons spoke against the assessment.

"A lot of us came out here because it was open and we are self-sufficient and we like it that way," said Ella Briggs of Seven Mile. "I don't want my property enhanced."

Countering those views were a handful of people from the projected northern end of the system who argued that septic fields and tanks will not suffice forever.

"I understand the feelings of people who are faced with a $15,000 hole-in-the-ground (septic field) they just put in," said Russell Lyon of Eight Mile. "But a few months, a few years, maybe several years down the road they're going to have to rebuild it again and at what cost?"

"This (sewer) would cost less. I live near Meadowbrook Country Club. I have an older system, an older field. And fields in that area are starting to saturate the ground. We're frankly afraid to drink water from wells. There are more and more septic tanks in that area and the ground can only accept so much," Lyon continued.

"I see this (sewer) as a good investment at this time."

Township board members, noting that the district was requested by the board rather than the residents, offered similar explanations.

"We didn't set up an assessment district and say 'these people have to be in it,'" said trustee Thomas Cook. "What we wanted to do was give you an opportunity to get in on the deal."

Supervisor John MacDonald, in response to a question, said the board would "seriously consider" a petition from any portion of the district that would like to be left out.

Pressed for an estimate of what costs might be assessed property owners, McNeely hazarded a guess at $3,500 to $4,000 on a one acre lot in the Meadowbrook Estates area. He cautioned that the figure was pure guesswork.

He noted, however, that if the subdivision opted out of the Haggerty district and found "four, five, ten years down the road that owners of 51 percent of the property wanted sewers" a new and smaller district, absent the expected contributions from the township and from Novi, would likely cost residents substantially more.

Invasion veterans remember Normandy

Wuesteck got to know Omaha beach well — he was pinned down there for three days, unable to perform his assigned role of shuttling landing craft back and forth to the troop ships.

Part of it was the weather. It provided cover and the element of surprise crucial to the invasion, but it also wreaked havoc on the men and machines assigned the enormous task.

"We left, actually, on June 4 from Portsmouth," Wuesteck recalls. "The weather was so bad, the landing craft were swamping and we were called back."

That night he remembers as a very emotional one.

"We knew what we were in for," Wuesteck says. "We were out loaded for bear and had to come back. That night there were thousands of us in big groups, singing. It was quite a moving thing."

The weather was not much better the night of June 5, but there was a forecast of improvement by morning and the order went out to launch the invasion. The weather didn't clear.

"In the first wave, we were to land at all costs," Wuesteck says. "The tide was out, and there were big obstacles in the water but in we went. We had to go ashore, put grappling hooks in to hold the landing craft. We were there the first three days."

For June 6 alone, total Allied casualties are estimated at 10,000. It took the entire day for the forces on Omaha beach to advance up the bluffs and one mile inland. Of the 1,465 American dead, 3,184 wounded and 1,928 missing, it is estimated 90 percent of the damage was suffered at Omaha. British, Canadian and other Allied soldiers at Gold, Juno and Sword beaches had established their ground as well. There were 154,000 men — five divisions — ashore in 24 hours.

Hardly enough. The Allies had but a foothold on the European continent. They needed more — more men, more tanks, more jeeps, more supplies, more everything — if they were to advance.

And therein lies the rest of Wuesteck's story and that of Bill Craft, Amerman elementary school principal.

Craft, too, landed at Omaha, about a week after the initial invasion. Besides Omaha Beach, Craft and Wuesteck have something else in common: Wuesteck is also an elementary school principal, at Redford Union Roosevelt Elementary.

They might have passed each other in those few days following D-Day, for Wuesteck's job had turned to shuttling out from the beach with wounded G.I.'s and German prisoners and going back in with a load of fresh troops.

Craft was among the latter. He was with the 35th Infantry Division, made up of the activated National Guard units from Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska. If D-Day itself was tough, the attempt to break out from the beaches represented no diminishing of the fighting. When Craft landed at D-plus seven or 10 days, the front was a mere 10 miles away.

"I remember walking from the landing craft to the front lines about 10 miles inland. The front was very slow, hedgerow fighting. You kept your head down," Craft remembers.

"I remember being very brave for about one day and then being very, very scared," he adds. "We'd advance about 100 yards in one day, from one hedgerow to the next."

It took some time before there were sufficient tanks and a methodology devised to break through the miles of dense hedgerows in Normandy. Craft reluctantly recalls the fighting techniques.

"We lost a lot of people there — people I trained with, people you got to know well," he says, edging into his memories. "I remember you took turns going out as the scout when you moved from one hedgerow to the next. You couldn't very well convince a guy to go first twice in a row."

Keeping your head down was essential. "I had a number of shots at people," Craft remembers, a sad tone to his voice. "You never see the people — it wasn't hand-to-hand combat like they had in the Pacific, but it was close. You could hear them. You occasionally got a shot at someone stupid who put his head up. But if he was stupid for having his head up, you were stupid for having your head up to see him. I never knew if I hit anyone. Now I hope I didn't."

Eventually, that particular horror ended. "I remember breaking out from Normandy, riding on tanks. We hooked up with (General George) Patton's tanks. For so long you'd been making 100 yards a day and all of sudden you were going 20, 30, 40 miles in the same time."

The actual breakout was realized in a battle at St. Lo, where Craft remembers "your own bombs falling short, and they were falling on you." History records 5,000 casualties in the battle joined by the 29th and 35th Divisions. It was after that that Patton's Third Army was formed and began its race through France toward Germany. Craft must have memories of this battle that claimed as many casualties as Omaha beach on D-Day, but the bombs falling short are all he cites.

He shies away from the detail again, and returns to "I do remember the fear.

For a number of years it went on — I couldn't have talked to you about it like this 25, 20 years ago. Now it's better, but it's still hard."

Northville's Normandy veterans supplied other memories as well. Wuesteck recalls seeing what he later learned was the first of the V-1 rockets going overhead while he was beached.

Craft remembers flopping over the side of the troop ship off the coast, climbing down the nets and into the landing craft on a heaving sea.

Lustig remembers spending two years with the 90th, all the way into Czechoslovakia, the whole time assigned as a CIC officer to protect the infantry from spies and sabotage and firmly convinced he'd never come home alive, never complete 40 years with Dun & Bradstreet, never retire in 1979 and move to Northville.

"I remember coming home, steaming into New York harbor, seeing that New York skyline I thought I'd never see again," he says. "A boat came alongside to greet us and there was a band aboard playing ... something. The tears were flowing."

Yet again and again when you talk of D-Day with these men it is the fear you hear. The noise, the smoke, the confusion.

In the history texts it all looks so neat and orderly. Five beachheads, red arrows and little flags indicating the troop movements. Well-planned, logical, brilliant.

But from the battlefield, nothing looked orderly. Little seemed planned. It was survival. And, yes, fear. For without fear, there is no real courage. And without courage, there would have been no D-Day victory to remember and no 40th anniversary celebrations today.

Northville involvement in war effort, D-Day as reported in Record

By the time D-Day rolled around America's involvement in the war was total. Soldiers and sailors were not alone in the landing craft and on the beaches — all America rode with them and Northville was certainly no exception, as a look into back issues of The Record makes clear.

The June 9, 1944, edition of The Northville Record (the paper published on Fridays then) included among many war-related news items a localized story of Invasion Day.

Headlined "Village Devout Ask for Safety of Loved Ones" in three decks, the one-column story carried a sub-headline saying "Churches are filled; Import of Invasion of Europe Strikes in to Homes of Community."

The opening paragraph of the story: "The people of Northville responded to the news of Invasion Day by going in to the various churches of the village for prayers of supplication, asking for the protection of their loved ones in Service and for an early realization of a just peace."

The following story recounted how the various churches in the community conducted noon services on June 6, stayed open all day that Tuesday and Wednesday and how most also conducted special services Tuesday evening.

War-related stories dominated the front page and overshadowed the upcoming high school graduation news. Copies of the paper were being sent to all Northville's service men and women, who numbered nearly 400 in early June.

Families provided news and information about their sons and daughters involved in the war effort, and the soldiers and sailors often sent letters that were reprinted on the front page of The Record under a two-column logo that said "Winning the War in 1944" in large type, and subtitled "With Northville's Men and Women in the Service." The feature usually filled the two left columns of the front page, individual items being separated by little "V" markers. Photos of various service people ran along the bottom.

The count of Northville's sons and daughters in the service was taken from a story regarding the community's Roll of Honor, dedicated one week before D-Day on Decoration Day. The roll was a billboard-size (12 by 32 feet) construction at the village center that marked the names and locations of those in service.

At its center was an 8 by 12 foot color map of the world, with 32 U.S. flags marking the locations where Northville people were serving in action. Surrounding the map were plaques bearing the names of 386 service people, room being left at the end of each alphabetical grouping for additions.

First word of a Northville man involved in the D-Day invasion appeared a month later, in a letter sent by Ensign Charles Pink and published in the "Winning the War in 1944" column on July 7.

Some excerpts:

"Although we are limited in what can be said about the invasion, I can say that we unloaded our rockets on our target and got out of the dangerous area without a casualty ...

"The trip across was no picnic as we had rough weather all the way. June is supposed to be the best month for sailing on the Channel but June 6th turned out to be far from a smooth day. However, the element of surprise may have been present due to the Germans thinking we would not attempt such a large operation on such a rough day. Anyway, most of the crew was seasick on the way over and even yours truly felt the rolling and pitching of the craft. The soldiers must have been a little seasick at least when they hit the beach.

"Two things stand out about all others in my mind during the invasion: (1) The hundreds and hundreds of ships, crafts and boats we had in the operation, which gave me a feeling that nothing could stop a successful beachhead from being established; and (2) the absence of German air power being in the area ...

"Upon closing I will go so far as to say that when we left the French coast our armies were definitely established on the beachheads and thousands and thousands of tons of supplies were pouring into the beaches behind the soldiers. However, it seems that there is still a long fight before victory will be won."

The rest of these editions are filled with ads touting bond sales, stories about rationing and the availability of various items, photos of new bond posters and lists of the newly-enlisted and conscripted.

Additional communications arrived over the next few months from Northville men who had participated in the invasion.

Frederick Donald Sober, a longtime resident and active member and worker in the Northville Historical Society, died June 2 at Garden City Osteopathic Hospital. A retired manufacturers' representative in Detroit, he was 78. He and his wife Marion have been Bradner Road residents for many years.

Known to most as Don Sober, he was part of a trio of volunteers who worked on the restoration of the Yerkes House in Mill Race Village. With Jack Burkman and E.A. Chapman, who died March 3, 1983, he had worked on the house and also had assisted with the classes sponsored by Northville Historical Society. He taught chair caning in the crafts program.

He helped build the Street of Shops, Children's Learning Center and Marge Mitchell's Grandma's Attic at the Plymouth Historical Museum. He also was a member of the Plymouth Historical Society.

He was born September 12, 1905, in Detroit to Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Sober. Her maiden name was Kingsley. He leaves his wife Marion, an area artist known for her pastel portraits.

Other survivors include a sister Dorothy Pitner of Columbus, Ohio, and two nieces Mary Lyle Browne and Dolly Miller of Columbus.

No formal funeral service was held. Arrangements were by Schrader Funeral Home in Plymouth. It is suggested that memorial tributes may be made to the Northville Historical Society for the Don Sober Trust Fund, P.O. Box 128, Northville, 48167.

JACK E. TAYLOR

Funeral services for Jack E. Taylor, a retired banker and former mayor of Plymouth, were held at 11 a.m. Tuesday at Schrader Funeral Home in Plymouth.

He had lived in the Northville-Plymouth area until 1957, moving to Rochester where he lived until 1970. He also was a resident of East Tawas.

He was a vice president of National Bank of Detroit, retiring in 1970. In addition to being mayor of Plymouth, Mr. Taylor served on the city council and chamber of commerce board. He was a member of the Rochester chamber and was active in establishing the Crittenton Hospital there. He also was Past Master of Plymouth Rock Lodge No. 47.

He was born June 21, 1905, in Detroit to Guy and Loretta (Peterson) Taylor. He was widowed.

He leaves a son Jack Taylor Jr. in Atlanta, two stepsons Charles and James Lapham of Northville and two granddaughters Mrs. Jeffery (Pamela) Green of Port Huron and Sandra Taylor in Cumming.

Burial was in Riverside Cemetery in Plymouth. The family suggests that memorial tributes may be made to the Michigan Heart Association.

ESTHER MALE

Graveside funeral service for area resident Esther Male was held Monday at Evergreen Cemetery in Alpena.

Mrs. Male, a press operator in the plastic industry, died May 31 at her South Lyon home at age 63. She had come to the community in 1963.

She was born July 8, 1920, in Michigan to Herman and Tillie (Blada) Stelzer. She leaves one son Thomas Male.

Local arrangements were made by the Ross B. Northrop and Son Funeral Home in Northville.

DANIEL J. CORDTS

Our Opinions

For school board: Johnson, VanderMolen

Though we are discouraged that only three candidates have shown an interest in seeking election to two seats on the Northville school board in next Monday's election, we are pleased to find a strong and dedicated incumbent vying for another term.

The slate of candidates in this year's school board race include an incumbent, a former school board trustee and a newcomer — all offering varying experience and expertise in the education field.

If experience were the only criteria in deciding the outcome of this year's race, Chris Johnson would no doubt be a shoo-in. His eight years on the school board make him one of its most tenured members along with Karen Wilkinson and Douglas Whitaker. We have hesitated to support third-term candidates in past elections, feeling that boards need new ideas and thinking. We have no reservations in supporting Johnson, however, for he has continued to prove his independence while giving his time and talents to the district.

Since his election to the board in 1976 at the age of 21, Johnson has proved to be a maverick on the board. During his reelection four years ago, we pointed out that Johnson was neither a "yes" man nor a disruptive, negative board member.

We find the same to be true today. In his tenure on the board, Johnson has been both an independent thinker as well as a valuable team player. His participation has assured that Northville's school board is not a "rubber stamp" board.

Though many were hesitant to endorse a 21-year-old candidate eight years ago (including this newspaper), Johnson has shown a maturity beyond his age. We find his youthfulness refreshing and his dedication to the board infallible.

A longtime resident of the district and the only Northville High School graduate serving on the board, Johnson always has served the community's interests. During his interview with The Record, he pointed out that "there are a lot of things you can do for a community." We believe the residents of the school district have been the beneficiaries of Johnson's commitment.

We wish we could recommend with the same surety for the other board vacancy (Gerald Munro is not running for reelection). Former trustee David Llewellyn proved during his first term that he is, as he states, a "team player." He did not run for reelection, he said a year ago, because of his job situation at the time. We feel now that he is running at the urging of present board members who want to retain the team.

Larry VanderMolen, a political science professor at Schoolcraft College, we feel, indeed would be — as he says — a "good watchdog" on the board. In the past we have had reservations when he outspokenly jabbed at local governmental actions. In this race, however, he has expressed satisfaction with the district's curriculum standards and states he is running because one of his major concerns is "the future of financing for education." He showed his awareness of Northville's situation as an out-of-formula district that has resulted in 95 percent of funding coming from local tax dollars and pledged to work for a better system of financing.

In addition to his expertise and interest in financing, VanderMolen would bring a new background to the board as a representative of higher education. It also is true that he could be considered a faculty representative. He denies that he holds any pro-teacher bias and points out he did not receive the endorsement of the Northville Education Association.

As a candidate, VanderMolen indicated in his comments that he is well aware of financial problems education is facing. His concern and desire to work for changes was far from a hot-headed approach. We hope, if he is elected, that VanderMolen will continue in his area of expertise while learning to work with present board members to keep the district headed in its positive direction. He is well aware his performance will be watched.

On the basis of the need for financing reform for such districts as Northville and VanderMolen's perception that finances are the "key item" now facing the district, we feel he should have the chance to contribute. We have concerns that he has not been a member of the audience at board meetings even after announcing his candidacy. But he assures us he understands board members make a great commitment of time to attend board meetings and many, many other committee sessions and functions of the district.

It is to the credit of all three candidates that they are willing to serve the school district. The trustee posts are without pay for long hours of dedication — but the satisfaction of contributing to education is great.

Congratulations to our champs!

While the upcoming Northville Board of Education election is the most serious editorial we'll have this week, this is the one we're delighted to write and one we don't expect to generate any dissent:

We're happy and proud to offer our congratulations to the Northville High School varsity girls' soccer team, which captured the state soccer championship last Saturday by defeating defending champ Livonia Stevenson.

Wherever and whenever we've seen the Mustangs play this season, they've always demonstrated team spirit, talent, determination and sportsmanship in which the Northville community can take pride. They've made believers out of coaches, parents, opponents, officials and classmates alike, and they've consistently set a fine example for younger athletes.

And now, they've also demonstrated they're the best soccer team in the State of Michigan. To the State Champion Mustangs and their fine coach, Stan Smalec, we think you're tops and we're glad your record now proves it.

Off the record

By JEAN DAY

It's our responsibility

We presently — and often have been previously — are being asked why The Record endorses candidates in an election. The answer is simple: we are a community newspaper with our first obligation to serve our readers. It is vital that the hometown newspaper inform its readership about local issues and officials — or it is not doing its job.

Incumbents in a school, city or township election obviously have performance records that have been reported by our reporters regularly covering their meetings. Readers who have attended such meetings and read about them will be able to form their opinions about their qualifications.

It is the newcomers seeking office that usually are unknown. We feel it is the responsibility of a community newspaper to arm those going to the polls with as much information as possible about all candidates, but especially about these newcomers who may be able to add to the quality of local government or school administration.

During the past weeks we have conducted staff interviews with all three school board candidates. All were asked to provide background information about their education and professional background. All complied and this information was printed last week along with their responses to specific questions.

It is unfortunate that the Northville sector of the Northville, Plymouth, Canton and Novi League of Women Voters for the second year has not had a voter interest chair and, therefore, has not held public forums at which candidates could speak and answer questions from the public. We have to add, though, that in recent years such forums have been poorly attended. It has to be discouraging for both candidates and those who worked to set up such open hearings to have a handful of residents in the audience. They did provide another opportunity nonetheless for us to report on the candidates.

In our interviews we asked each candidate why he was running for the school board post which takes hours of time and pays only in personal satisfaction. Each candidate was questioned in detail about the requirements of time — would he be able to attend board meetings, subcommittee and planning sessions as well as school functions? On a continuing basis, we have observed that no local public office demands greater blocks of time than the post of school board trustee if it is served well.

We also queried each candidate on his assessment of the quality of education and administration in Northville. We asked about financing concerns because the problems of Northville as an out-of-formula district have been a major concern that we feel must be addressed in the not-too-distant future.

Now we are giving our readers our opinions in the column at the left of the candidates before they go to the polls to elect two school board trustees next Monday. It would be easier to say all are qualified candidates — make your choice. But we have observed few voters in the audience at recent school board meetings (none at Monday's truth-in-taxation hearing.) We feel our readers expect informed guidance from us as first-hand observers. Ideally, we intend it should help voter turnout. All we can say now is — please vote.

About Town

By Steve Fecht

Bridging the gap

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

Billy Broomfield wrote me a letter the other day.

Oops, I mean Bill Broomfield. William Broomfield, Congressman William S. Broomfield.

You'll have to excuse the familiar manner in which I refer to the congressman. It's just that he writes me all the time. Tells me what's going on in Washington — just as he does every other journalist in his congressional district.

Bill even sent me an invitation to President Reagan's inaugural ball last time around. Nice invitation, too. It was printed up on luxurious stationery. Told me I couldn't really attend, but — here — have an invitation anyway.

But I digress. The topic of Bill's most recent memo is waste in the Defense Department's purchasing of spare parts. You've probably already read these figures, but I think they bear repeating.

For example, the Defense Department paid $1,118 apiece for plastic stool caps that you and I can purchase for a few pennies anywhere else. A $7 claw hammer cost us $435 apiece and $3.97 vise grip pliers cost $243.

Interesting stuff, right? The geniuses in the Defense Department paid $10,000 apiece for repair kits for flight simulators that ordinarily go for $92.44. They also paid $100 or more for parts already in their own supply system for approximately a nickel.

I've always attempted to resist the urge to say nasty things about government bureaucrats. As I get older and more conservative, I prefer to vent my anger on people who cheat on welfare.

But all this evidence is piling up that the biggest cheats of all are rich people, not poor people. Doctors — a minority but still too many of them — ripping off Medicare and Medicaid to the tune of millions of dollars. Certifiable idiots approving payment of $435 for a hammer. And unindicted felons in our country's largest corporations committing grand larceny every time they send a bill to the Defense Department.

I don't have an ending for this week's column. I'm too depressed.

Editorial opinions of The Record are developed and written by Editor Jean Day and staff members Michele McElmurry, B.J. Martin, and Kevin Wilson.

Northville High School writers awarded top honors

Northville High School writers recently took top honors in three state and local writing competitions.

In the Michigan Council of Teachers of English competition, Tami Kimery and Mike Leavitt took certificates of merit for their poetry. Honorable mentions in poetry were awarded to Ann Conley and Heather Davis.

In the fiction category, certificates of merit were awarded to Maureen Okasinski and Christine Burke.

The awards were presented at Central Michigan University as part of the Michigan Week State Youth Arts Festival, May 18-19. Poets read their poetry at the Michigan Council of Teachers of English luncheon.

Tami Kimery, Mike Leavitt and Ann Conley also took honorable mentions for poetry in the Detroit Free Press Writing Contest.

Certificates of commendation for poetry in the Free Press Writing Contest were awarded to Maureen Clancy and Christine Burke.

In the fiction category, Matt McDonough took an honorable mention and David Merrifield was awarded a certificate of commendation.

In the Wayne County Intermediate School District Writing Competition, David Merrifield took a second prize for essay.

Short story winners were Jennifer Trausch, who took second place, and Christine Burke and Jeff Peters, who were awarded certificates of merit.

Marko Kaasinen took a first prize in poetry with Tami Kimery, Maureen Clancy, Ann Conley and Heather Davis taking certificates of merit.

Awards were presented during an award ceremony, reception and mini-workshop May 21 at the Wayne County Intermediate School District office.

Communications tower to be added to skyline

A 260-foot tower will be added to Northville Township's western skyline by the middle of next year, as township officials last week approved site plans for the project.

The tower will be built on the eastern-most sector of Consumers Power property at 9440 Napier Road near Seven Mile. The utility company will use the tower to communicate with 40 stations located throughout Michigan's lower peninsula.

When recently explaining Consumers' need for the aerial to Northville Township Board of Appeals, engineer Douglas DuPerow said it would enable the company to "control costs and maintain communication" among regional and state CP offices and facilities. The company is seeking to replace its use of the Michigan Bell telecommunications system with its own microwave broadcasting network, he added.

Consumers Power has used its Napier Road property since 1955 for company operations under a zoning variance extended in 1958. The Board of Appeals approved in April an additional variance permitting construction of the tower, and the Township Planning Commission added its unanimous consent (Commissioner Marvin Gans absent) Tuesday of last week.

The tower will be held in place with three down guy wires and anchors and will have flashing beacon lights at top and midpoint, as required by the Federal Aeronautics Administration.

One aspect of the tower — its "fall line" — concerned Township Planning Commission Chair Richard Duwel. But engineers of the company explained their position to his satisfaction.

To summarize Duwel's concern, Section 15.29 of the Township Zoning Ordinance stipulates that a tower's distance from the property line of the parcel on which it sits must equal its height. This guards against the unlikely occurrence of a collapse onto adjoining property.

But the 260-foot tower is located only 265 feet from its lot line.

Consumers Power representatives gave the following two points in explanation:

First, CP engineers informed the Commission that, even if the tower were to collapse, it would almost certainly fall down, not over, because of guy line pressure downwards and the tower's center of gravity. A 1700-foot tower recently fell, they noted, but affected only a 600-foot area.

Second, the adjoining property that would be affected is Maybury State Park land. As Planning Commissioner William Bohan pointed out, residential development on park property is "extremely unlikely" in the foreseeable future.

POSTAL EXAM WORKSHOP

(Clerk-Carrier) Starting Pay: $10.62/hour

Special announcement for all candidates planning to sign up for the Northville Area Postal Exams when they are soon announced for the 481 zip code areas. (Last offered in July 1981 — and since they won't be given again for at least 3 years, don't miss out!)

NOW is the time to prepare. The pressure is on to score as high as possible to get the job. The first step toward a postal service career is getting your name onto the "Register of Eligibles," which is accomplished by passing this Exam. To be one of the first hired, you need to get one of the higher scores! And to be hired at all during the next three years, you will need to score at least 95%!

4-HOUR WORKSHOP

Score 95-100% or Your Tuition is Refunded!

It is possible to get a very high score with adequate preparation. From years of experience and discussions with our Advisory Board (consisting of former postmasters, training managers and examiners), we know that it takes exactly four hours to teach you everything you need to know to score 95% or better — which is what you'll need to get a job. Achievement Center workshops are conducted by instructors teams of two or more (depending upon the size of the workshop) — not by one person alone as in other workshops. This enables us to reach out and give help where needed.

Benefits derived from this course extend far beyond the postal exam. The skills and attitudes will help in every area of future learning and test-taking. We have helped thousands of people successfully prepare for the Postal Exams. But don't take our word for it. Take our guarantee! Come to the workshop. If you don't feel, at the end of the course, that it will help you achieve a score of 95% or better, don't pay for the workshop! Furthermore, if your score is less than 95% on the official exam after using our techniques, we will immediately refund your tuition in full!

You are invited to bring your tape recorder to record the workshop for personal exam review.

You may attend as many extra sessions of the workshop as you like (on a space available basis) without additional tuition charge.

WORKSHOP TUITION — $35 (Includes guaranteed 4-hour Workshop, The Core Guide to Postal Exams, Sample Exam with Answers, Workshop Workbook, POSTAL EXAM ALERT with SIGN-UP DATES MAILED TO YOUR HOME and Take Home Practice Kit containing Practice Exams with Answers, Flash Cards, and "Simulated Exam" on cassette tape.) Please bring two No. 2 pencils with you to the Workshop.

Seating is limited. Pre registration by phone is advised. Otherwise, you may register by arriving thirty minutes early. Tuition is payable at the door by cash, check, money order, MasterCard, VISA or American Express.

TAX TIPS

LEE E. HOLLAND, C.P.A.

THE SALE-LEASEBACK STRATEGY

If you think resoroting to the sale-leaseback strategem signifies a business is in deep trouble, think again. This has become an increasingly popular device to use in lowering your tax bracket.

In a sale-leaseback arrangement, you sell your property to another person or entity and agree to lease back the same property or a portion of it according to terms spelled out in a contract. One of the big advantages of this arrangement is that it often frees more cash than you could raise through an ordinary business loan and at a lower overall cost. Another big advantage is that it allows you to split income with other family members, giving them income on which much lower taxes will be paid than if all the income was yours.

The sale-leaseback has other tax-saving advantages that you might want to discuss before taking this step. For a review of these and other tax-saving advantages, why not call us for an appointment to discuss them?

Business Briefs

STANDBY POWER INC. of Novi is one of the Michigan wholesalers and distributors who will be represented at the Electrical Construction Exposition at the O'Hare Exposition Center near Chicago June 5-7.

The wiring of homes and offices to handle the varied electrical and electronic systems available today will be the subject of extended discussions and exhibits at the exposition.

The introduction of computers and cable television, the greater use of programmable controllers and changes in the installation and uses of telephones are producing substantial changes in electrical construction, according to sponsors of the three-day event.

Better lighting in offices, wiring for data-processing systems and security alarms to guard against burglary and fire also will be considered at the conference and demonstrated on the exhibit floor.

Unemployment line led to car wash

By PHILIP JEROME

Randy Mayer had a good job as a tool-and-die maker with Federal Broach in Livonia.

He made good money, enjoyed company benefits ... had plenty of spare time to pursue his personal interests, including his involvement with the Novi Jaycees.

That was back in the early 1980s. Before the recession hit. Before the economy fell apart. Before new unemployment figures made headlines every week.

Mayer was one of the victims.

"It happened in June of 1982," he recalled. "I got laid off."

"The place was running out of work and I was low man on the seniority totem pole. I only had a couple years at Federal Broach ... and when orders dried up, I was the first to go."

Unlike many victims of the economy, Mayer did not take the setback sitting down. Rather than joining the ranks of the unemployed, he found a new boss ... a man he admired and respected, a man he enjoyed working for, a man who would never tell him he no longer had a job. Namely, himself.

Mayer entered the ranks of the self-employed.

"I collected unemployment for a while," he admitted, "but it was no good. Collecting unemployment is like eating crow."

"My association with the Jaycees is what pulled me through," he continued. "Jerry Surles, a member of our Novi chapter, is owner of Wash on Wheels, a company which washes just about everything from houses to mobile homes and airplanes. He offered me a job and I took him up on it."

"Then we heard that the Novi Auto Wash on Novi Road was for sale, so Ed Conley, Bob Overmars — two more Jaycees, and I pooled our money and bought the business."

"It was strictly an investment opportunity for them. For me, it was a whole new beginning."

Today, Mayer is firmly entrenched as co-owner of the Novi Auto Wash on Novi Road. Surles recently bought out Conley and Overmars' share and the two — Mayer and Surles — are 50-50 partners.

Mayer said he had been interested in becoming self-employed, particularly in the auto wash business, for some time. Being laid off accelerated the decision.

In 1979, before he went to work for Federal Broach, Mayer and two more of his Jaycee friends had formed

Randy Mayer bought Novi Car Wash rather than collect unemployment

ed a syndicate to purchase the Goat Farm Tavern property on Novi road when it was for sale with plans to put up a car wash. The tavern was purchased by another party, however, and the deal never materialized.

"It was my experience with the Jaycees which really got me interested in self-employment," said Mayer. "I was chairman of Novi Gala Days, our annual summer fair, and I learned a lot from that experience. You have a budget of something like $30,000 for Gala Days, and it's up to you to make it work.

"You can take $30,000 and mess it up, or you can do a good job and make it a profitable venture."

"And I also like working with people ... working with the public. Being able to work with people is critical to being a successful businessman."

Fresh seafood flown in for weekly sales

By KEVIN WILSON

Northville is miles away from any significant body of water but will soon be one of the best places to obtain fresh-caught east coast seafood, thanks to a unique venture called Fresh Catch Express operated by a Michigan couple.

Alan and Priscilla Toth of Superior Township will visit Northville every Saturday from 1:15 to 4 p.m. beginning this week with a truckload of seafood flown in from Maine. The entire load will be sold within 24 hours — anything older than that will not be sold from the truck.

Freshness is the key to the venture, said Alan Toth. Using exacting standards for selecting, shipping and refrigerating the catch makes the fish the freshest available, this far inland. Venue for the Northville stop is the parking lot of the Giffidier music shop downtown at Main and Griswold.

The truck also makes stops in Ann Arbor and Canton Township.

On its first visit in Ann Arbor three weeks ago, the Fresh Catch Express truck was "literally mobbed," Toth said. "If you'll excuse a fish word, it went swimmingly. We were really surprised, it being our first day and not having done much advertising."

The Toth's got into the business because they were looking for a way to support themselves and made the proper connections through Priscilla's parents — Penobscot Bay, Maine residents.

'It went swimmingly. We were really surprised, it being our first day and not having done much advertising.'

— Alan Toth
Fresh Catch Express

"A lot of their neighbors fish, and our first idea was just trucking in some lobsters," Priscilla explained. "We had my father contact a lobsterman and he suggested this — it's being done in New York state. We took a look at the operation there, and it looked appealing."

Priscilla has been a social worker for 20 years and said she "didn't want to do that much longer." Alan is a regional representative for the Association for Public Justice, a Christian political organization which, he takes pains to point out, is very different from the Moral Majority.

They got a coincidental boost in that the lobsterman Patricia's father sought out just happened to have the largest operation in the state and knew of the Syracuse, New York operation. "If he'd chosen someone else, we'd probably be trucking in a few lobsters rather than flying in a full selection of seafood," Alan explained.

Seafood for the operation comes from the Boston Fish Pier plant, which handles most of the Boston fishing fleet. Only two types of catch are handled. Day trip fish, that is, those caught by small boats which go out and return each day are one. The other is the "top of the trip." The top of the trip are those fish caught at the very end of a four to seven day fishing trip.

Top of the trip seafood is shipped to the Toth's the day it comes in, while day trip fish comes off the boats in the evening and is shipped the next morning.

Turning over the load in 24 hours is a major factor in assuring freshness, and also the reason for stops in several communities within that day-long period.

The food is packed in covered tins (metal conducts cold from the 12 degree Fahrenheit ice better), and buried in ice to protect it from drying out in contact with air and from losing freshness due to warmth. The fish is kept between 32 and 34 degrees from the time it comes off the boat until the customer buys it. No brine tanks are used — all whole fish and fillets are washed in a clear water spray.

Fresh Catch Express carries fresh fillets and steaks, live shellfish (lobster, clams, etc.), shrimp, crab, whole trout and salmon and some other items.

Selling from the back of a truck may not offer too many opportunities for luring shoppers with attractive surroundings, but the Toths go out of their way to provide as much atmosphere as possible. The recorded sound of ocean and gulls brings a touch of New England along wherever the truck is, and personalized service in the form of buying suggestions, recipes, and brochure on fish basics are also offered.

Toth said they picked Northville has one location in view of its population's income and interests. "Our fish isn't cheap, but it's high quality," he explained. "When I first checked out Northville, I didn't see a fresh fish market anywhere either. I did find out there was one place selling fairly fresh fish, but there still isn't anywhere in Northville that has fish as fresh as ours or as big a selection. The other store doesn't specialize in seafoods."

Some readers of the Green Sheet may find it more convenient to visit the Fresh Catch Express truck at its Ann Arbor stop, each Friday from 2 to 6:30 p.m. in front of Showerman's IGA in the Plymouth Mall at Plymouth Road and Huron Parkway. For further information, contact the Toths at 483-6600.

MESC is accepting Youth Corps applications

Michigan Employment Security Commission offices began accepting applications for the Michigan Youth Corps program Monday and will continue to do so through June 15.

MESC Director S. Martin Taylor said the 102 offices will be the only sites where young people can apply for the summer jobs program.

"Although the state legislature has not passed final Youth Corps legislation," Taylor said last week, "we must begin the registration process now to insure we will have a pool of eligible candidates ready for immediate referral to jobs once the program is approved and before the summer has passed."

To qualify for the Michigan Youth Corps, young people must be 18-21 years old, unemployed and Michigan residents. Preference in hiring will be given those from families where the principal wage earner is unemployed. In addition, older applicants will be referred to jobs before younger ones.

Jobs are expected to last from six to 12 weeks and pay $3.35 per hour. Corps members could work a 30 or 40-hour week.

Anticipated work stes include public parks and recreation areas, highway areas, county fairs, hospitals and schools.

MESC offices, in most cases, will be open normal working hours from 8:15 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday during the next two weeks to accept applications for the Youth Corps. Check your local telephone directory for the nearest office.

"Young people should apply only once," Taylor said. "Duplicate applications could cause a person to be dropped from the applicant pool entirely."

MESC offices will screen all forms and refer names of eligible candidates to employers. Employers will then contact the applicants directly to arrange interviews.

As in any job interview situation, Taylor advised young people to appear on time for the interview, and be prepared to show proof of age and a Social Security card. Failure to accept a job or report for an interview could result in no further referrals for the youth. Pending final legislative action, this year's Michigan Youth Corps is expected to create 15,500 jobs.

No 'workin'-at-the-car-wash-blues' for this owner

"In the car wash business, we're not really washing cars, we're working with people. A good car wash is part of it, of course, but the key to success is making the customer feel that he's just spent $3.50 to wash his car and received his money's worth — and then some."

It's obvious that Mayer receives a great deal of satisfaction from being self-employed

There are headaches, of course.

Mayer said he is constantly amazed at the amount of paperwork involved in owning a business. And the cost of running a business has been a real eye-opener, he said.

"During high-volume months, you have $20,000 in costs just to stay open. You have to know what you're doing about budgeting money."

The car wash business also is highly competitive. "All the car wash owners talk to each other, but we probably don't tell each other the truth about things like volume and overhead," he said.

"The competition is good; it forces you to stay on your toes. You have to do a good job in everything from quality of employees and landscaping to chemical balancing."

But there are rewards as well. Mayer said he applies the Jaycees' concerns for youth and the handicapped into his business. "We employ handicapped individuals and we work with Novi Youth Assistance to provide jobs for young people who need work," he said. "It's worked out well."

He also offers special senior citizen discounts.

The greatest reward, however, may be the feeling of accomplishment.

"It's been a great experience," reflected Mayer. "It involves over 90 hours per week, but it's not like you're working for someone else. You don't punch a time clock. You're working for yourself. I like what I'm doing and I know what I do benefits my business."

Condos: financing and taxes

Condominiums are treated just like houses for tax purposes, but there are other considerations to keep in mind before deciding how to finance such a home, says the Michigan Association of CPAs.

About 5 million people now own condominiums, according to Douglas Kleine, director of research for the Community Association Institute, an Arlington, Virginia-based organization that assists condominium development associations.

The growth of condos, Kleine says, is partly due to their lower selling price when compared with single family homes. The media price (nationally) of an existing condo is $58,000 while existing family homes average $70,000. Kleine also points out the appreciation of condos, an important factor to buyers who plan to sell, is now nearly the same as the appreciation of a single family home.

In a condominium development, the purchaser owns a unit plus an interest in the common property and facilities (such as a swimming pool or tennis courts). The operation of these common facilities is the responsibility of a board of directors made up of owners of units in the development.

Getting a mortgage on a condo is similar to getting a mortgage on a single family home. In many cases, developers sponsor financing arrangements on newly-built developments. But buyers should be careful with dealer-sponsored financing packages. In some instances, a deep discount offered up front masks steep payment rises in the future.

Find out what the Annual Percentage Rate (APR) on the mortgage is. This is a standard formula that, under recentlyenacted federal law, buyers are entitled to know. It permits comparison of different mortgages.

The mortgage payment is not the only monthly expense condo owners face, however. Condo associations set fees that go toward maintenance of common facilities. The fees vary depending on the development. Most monthly maintenance fees around the country, Kleine states, are between $100 and $200. He added that the fee in a luxury development can be several times higher. In rare instances, part of the fee can be deductible on federal income tax — which brings another important question: How do tax advantages of a single family home compare to those of a condo?

Condominium units are treated as separate housing spaces for tax purposes. As is the case with single family homes, condo owners are entitled to deductions for interest paid on mortgage loans, real estate taxes and any casualty losses. In addition, the rules on capital gains upon the sale of any home also apply to condominiums, as does the once-in-a-lifetime exclusion of profits up to $125,000 for those age 55 and over.

There are some special tax considerations for condo owners. In some cases, property taxes assessed on common element in a complex are deductible. When a share of a maintenance fee is used to pay property taxes, for instance, owners are entitled to deduct that portion of their monthly fee. Similarly, mortgage interest on common property is also deductible (for example, a social hall where residents gather). Most condo associations, however, do not own property separately, according to Kleine.

A more common tax-saving device offered by condo association comes from the association's reserve fund for improving and replacing structures in common areas of the development. Under certain reserve plans, unit owners can reduce their original purchase of a condo when selling their units. By adding contributions to the reserve fund from the original unit purchase price, it is possible to reduce capital gains upon sale, Kleine suggests. It is wise to inquire about the type of reserve fund offered in a development.

Those thinking about buying a condo but planning to rent it out most of the time may be able to deduct the entire maintenance charge as well as other expenses attributable to the rental. If there is any personal use of the property, deductions will be limited. The rules for deducting expenses on rental properties that get part-time personal use are complex and owners may wish to consult a CPA to get the full story.

Money Management is prepared by the Michigan Association of CPAs.

Put home in good repair to sell fast

Encouraged by continued improvement in the residential real estate market, sellers listing properties for sale are finding strong competition in attracting buyers.

"It's very much a buyers' market, with a broad range of choices in terms of location, price, size, age and condition of homes on the market," said David N. Jensen, president of Metro MLS.

His multiple listing service, which covers northwest Detroit and major portions of Wayne, Oakland and Livingston counties, recorded more than 17,000 new listing in the first four months of the year, including more than 4,600 in April.

"Even with the sales pace more than double that of the recession-bound days of 1982, the increase in listings is more than holding its own," he said. "Recognizing the strong competition, sellers hoping to get the best price for their homes are well-advised to make sure they are in top shape.

"There are only so many buyers who are prepared to move to a home in need of extensive remodeling or repair, even at an advantageous price. With the initial costs of purchasing and moving, many don't have the extra funds needed and hope to avoid any added outlay until they are well settled.

"If a home has been well-maintained, it generally doesn't cost the seller too much to restore it to sale condition. We generally counsel against extensive remodeling unless it is required to place the home in full working order," Jensen added. "(Remodeling) serves to increase the asking price, which tends to place it beyond the reach of a number of potential buyers."

Jensen says spring is an ideal time to shape up a home being offered for sale, starting with the exterior. Some tips include:

- Lawns and landscaping should be at their seasonal best. Blooming flowers, whether annuals or perennials, and a green, weed-free lawn demonstrate fertile soil.

- Clean walks, steps, shining windows and fresh-looking entrance doors should welcome prospective buyers.

- The roof should be leak-proof, eavestroughs clean and in good repair, trim freshly painted or washed. No loose brick, stone or stucco should be evident and all siding should be properly affixed.

- Fix any leaky faucets, stuck doors, loose knobs, cracked windows or any other items that suggest the home has not been given good care.

- Every homeowner is interested in ample closet and storage space, so unneeded articles should be discarded, excess that would cause overcrowding should be stored elsewhere, and all storage areas arranged neatly.

- All plumbing should work properly, bathroom tubs and showers should be well-caulked, and all tile and brightwork firmly affixed.

- Bedrooms should have excess furniture removed and be arranged to accent available space.

- A little paint or fresh wallpaper can set other rooms off to their best advantage while freshly shampooed carpets and waxed tile and hardwood floors help indicate a well-kept home.

"The best advice for anyone preparing a home for sale is to place themselves in the prospective buyer's position," Jensen concluded. "Make a complete survey of the home and assure that everything would be attractive if your roles were reversed. Chances are you'll be doing this again when you are out prospecting for a new residence."

Calendar seeks travel events

Questionnaires are available from the state travel bureau, department of commerce, for inclusion of events in the upcoming Michigan Calendar of Travel events.

The calendar, which will include recreational, cultural, arts/crafts/antiques and sporting events and activities taking place during the fall/winter season of October 1984 through March 1985, will be compiled from information supplied by July 2.

Those planning events for inclusion in the calendar should set dates or tentative dates and send information to the travel bureau by July 2 if they wish to see them included.

Obtain the questionnaire form from the Travel Bureau, Michigan Department of Commerce, Box 30226, Lansing, Michigan.

Store offers buyers working space

In addition to offering a wide selection of unfinished furniture, John Colizzi, owner of The Sawmill in Northville, is providing an area where do-it-yourselfers can work on the unfinished pieces they have purchased.

Scott Yonker puts finish on table in Sawmill work space

In a move earlier this year from downtown Main Street in Northville to expanded quarters in the Northville Plaza Mall (at the opposite end from A&P) at 42301 Seven Mile, Colizzi has set aside space for persons who purchase furniture at the Sawmill to refinish it on the site.

"There are many people who live in apartments who would have no place to sand, stain and finish a large piece of furniture," he explains.

In addition, Colizzi is holding free classes on how to finish furniture.

The business also will do custom finishing — painting, staining and antiquing furniture.

In the expanded quarters Colizzi also is carrying a finished line of antique reproduction furniture. He reports he is particularly pleased to be handling Habersham, a respected line of country antique reproductions.

Previous owners had opened the unfinished furniture business at 215 East Main several years ago with Colizzi purchasing it from Robert Boshoven when he moved to the South.

Since acquiring the business, Colizzi also has opened another unfinished furniture store in Wyandotte.

England, Florida lure the John Gibsons

By JEAN DAY

Last Thursday — May 31 — was a milestone date for Betty Gibson, known to many Northville students as their school bus driver. When she parked the bus after her last trip, she officially finished an association with the Northville Public Schools begun in 1967. She had seen students board her bus as kindergartners and continue through graduation. She and her husband John now are anticipating retiring somewhere on the east coast of Florida late this fall. He began his career with the Northville Schools as a bus driver in 1960; in 1969 he changed to the position of outside maintenance. He ended his employment with the schools in the fall of 1983 as a custodian at the high school.

Both are 1939 graduates of Northville High School. He is a life resident of Northville and also completed a year at Michigan State University. His father, J.R. Gibson, was graduated from Northville High in 1907. Betty Gibson recalls she has lived in Northville since she was 12 years old. She is the daughter of Bea Carlson, who had the distinction of being Northville's first woman city council member. The Gibsons will be near her brother and sister when they move south. They lived on landmark farm property at the corner of Sheldon and Six Mile until a recent move "seven miles down the road."

The couple has two children. Son John of Plymouth is a photographer and insurance salesman. Daughter Peggy is married to an Englishman and lives in Coventry with her husband and two children. They are the reason for the Gibsons' "one big trip almost every year" to England, Betty Gibson confides.

This week she is busy planting her garden. Both Gibsons were among the honorees at the second annual retirement recognition party given by the Northville schools May 22. Other honorees were Bill Gears, Fred Holdsworth, Burnice Juday, Chuck Kehren, Aleana Sharp, Margaret Skipton and Shirley Talmadge.

Burnice Juday, who began her career with the Northville schools in 1968, also retired in 1983 with Gibson. She began as manager of the high school book store and became the high school counseling secretary in 1977. A widow with three sons, she was born in Ohio and grew up in Indiana. Her sons live in Brighton, Midland and Tucson, Arizona.

Aleana Sharp began working in 1962 as a cafeteria assistant. A Howell native, she is a widow with four children and 10 grandchildren. Margaret Skipton began working for Northville schools in 1972 and presently is the day custodian at Cooke Junior High. She was a "pioneer" in that she was the first woman in Northville to become a custodian and "get the same amount of pay as men."

Rigmor Cuolahan continues to serve institute

Among nominees to the board of directors of the International Institute of Metropolitan Detroit is Northville resident Rigmor Cuolahan. The directors will be elected at the annual dinner meeting being held June 25 in the executive dining room of Ford Motor Company, Dearborn.

Mrs. Cuolahan is a longtime institute volunteer. In addition to having served on the board she is a volunteer at the gift shop each Wednesday, assisting in ordering ethnic specialties from around the world.

Nuttalls are researching home history

Since January, 1983, Cindy and Chuck Nuttall have been occupying the home at 230 First Street that had been lived in for many years by the late Hazel and Horace Boyden, and before that by Mrs. Boyden and her parents. They moved here with daughter Angie, 8, from Pinckney.

While working on the home they have been trying to collect information about the date it was built. They feel it must have been before December 28, 1894, because last week they discovered a copy of The Northville Record of that date as they tore out a portion of the attic in preparation for a renovation into a bedroom.

Glave-McBride vows read in Virginia ceremony

Ann Grayson Glave, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Kenneth Glave of Ashland, Virginia, and Brian Neal McBride of Leominster, Massachusetts, exchanged marriage vows May 12 at St. Ann's Catholic Church in Ashland.

The bridegroom is the son of William Phillip McBride of Northville and the late Mrs. McBride.

The Reverend Brian Yanofchick officiated at the ceremony. Honor attendants were the bride's sisters, Gail Elizabeth Glave and Jennifer Carol Glave. Other attendants were Cheryl Kelly, Vicki Ottaway and June Pickett. Flower girl was the bridegroom's niece, Amy McBride.

Curt McLelland served as best man. Ushers were the bridegroom's brother Dave McBride, Mike Beauregard, and the bride's brothers Christopher Glave and James Glave. Ringbearer was the bride's cousin, Thomas Glave.

Wedding music was sung by William P. Glave, cousin of the bride.

A reception was held at Hollyfield, home of the bride's parents.

Following a wedding trip to Long Boat Key, Florida, the couple will live in Fitchburg, Massachusetts.

Presidents exchange

At its meeting May 14, Northville branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association honored its retiring president Molly Manley (left) and welcomed new branch president Olga James. Manley, who has headed the WNF&G branch for the past two years, gave the gavel to James, who will serve as president through 1986. Record photo by Steve Fecht.

They're named readers

Frank A. Riley and F. Dawn Evans began three-year terms today as first and second readers in the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Plymouth.

They succeed Gerald W. Herrmann and Maxine Reisdorf.

Riley is an associate broker with Century 21 in Plymouth and Evans works in the accounting department of Hawthorn Center in Northville.

Since Christian Science has no ordained clergy, local members are elected democratically to conduct services. The second reader reads references from the Bible and the first reader reads correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy. Christian Scientists consider these two books to be the pastor of the church.

During the week, the same references serve as a Bible lesson, studied daily by church members throughout the world.

The 8 p.m. Wednesday meetings begin with a hymn followed by readings from the Bible and Christian Science textbook.

Sunday services and Sunday school are held at 10:30 a.m. in the Plymouth Church, 1100 West Ann Arbor Trail.

The Northville Record

Soccer squad wins thriller for state title

By B.J. MARTIN

The story of the state champion Northville soccer team would have made a terrific fairy tale.

But it's all true.

After 80 minutes of regulation time, four five-minute overtime periods and two series of shootouts, the Mustangs stunned 1983 state champion Livonia Stevenson 2-1 Saturday to become the new Michigan High School Athletic Association State Champions in women's soccer.

But that "official" score doesn't tell a fraction of the tale it represented:

A 5-1 victory over Kalamazoo Loy Norrix Wednesday landed the Mustangs in Saturday's final at Flint Atwood Stadium. To some, it had appeared Northville's route there was a little too easy.

"Some people thought we didn't even have the right to go out on the field and play Stevenson," said Northville Coach Stan Smalec. "They said we had an easy way to the final."

"I say, hey, we've played eight must-win games in the last 15 days. And a lot of those games were against tough teams — Canton, Mercy . . . What can I say? The girls did what they knew they had to do. I didn't have to tell them anything."

It's easy to see why some counted Northville out of the final. In April, the Spartans ripped an uncertain, injury-strapped Mustang squad 6-0. That score haunted the 17-4-1 Mustangs right up to the week of the final. Stevenson was rated tops in the state going into the Saturday's game, while Northville was tied for eighth.

But someone forgot to tell the Mustangs they didn't have a chance.

This time around, Northville outplayed and outthrust the Spartans throughout the better part of Saturday's contest. The Mustang defense straightjacketed Stevenson's forward line, and Northville's superior depth and tenacity gave the team the edge in controlling midfield play as well.

After a scoreless first half, striker Lisa Cahill staked the Mustangs to a 1-0 lead on a spectacular goal 9:36 into the second. Taking a pass from Kim Flading, Cahill spun to the left of a Spartan fullback and drove a high, hard left-footed shot inside the far post.

An instant later, Cahill was mobbed by her teammates while a good-sized party of Northville fans who made the trip to Flint (and festooned the stadium with banners) roared their approval.

Cahill's goal was one of three times Northville's all-time leading scorer had put the ball in the Spartans' net in regulation play Saturday. One goal was called back on an offside call and another for a handball.

The Spartans made the most of one of their few scoring chances. With 11:30 remaining, Danielle Montroy punched in a loose ball for the equalizer.

Stevenson and Northville exchanged scoring opportunities in the remaining regulation time, but stayed deadlocked at 1-1. A good save robbed Mustang winger Jill Bemer of a goal, and Sue Borthwick headed a perfect corner kick from Kathy Korowin right across an open goal.

The tie score held up through four five-minute overtime periods, the last two in sudden death.

During those final moments, Northville's gritty game conditioning over the last three weeks — plus the talented, versatile "role" players on the Mustangs' bench — paid off, as Smalec seemed always to find the right players to spell his exhausted starters.

"Since we've gotten our timing together, our game has been to really go after the ball," Smalec said. "I think that made the difference, plus our girls' ability to play different positions. The girls really wanted the ball and covered for each other. They did a lot of switching out there."

After the four overtime periods were exhausted, there was a shootout, in which five players from each team alternate taking one penalty shot each on the opposing team's goalkeeper. The team scoring the most penalty shots wins.

In the first series, Cheryl Spaman and Bemer converted their shots, while Montroy and Paula Divens scored for Stevenson. Roxanne Serkalan had a hard shot stopped by Stevenson goalie Doreen Beagle, and Korowin rung a rocket off the right goalpost that bounced wide.

Referees called a second, "sudden death" shootout — this time the first team to gain an advantage after an even number of shots would win. Jill Anger set the table with a penalty-shot goal, leaving the game-deciding shot to Cahill.

Cahill told Smalec she didn't want to shoot in the first series due to her nervousness. But this time, Cahill fired a rocket just inside the post for the game-winner.

Once again, the team mobbed Cahill — but the real hero of the shootouts was goalkeeper Tricia Ducker. The quick, lanky freshman had taken some hard knocks earlier in the game — one collision left her bloody and bruised — but she continued to play superbly, even more so in the shootouts. Two of the four saves she made in the shootouts were dazzling diving stops on the point.

Trackers 5th at league meet

Ann Griffith set a new 1,600 record Wednesday

Northville's Cindy Panowicz capped a super week of track with a third and fourth-place finish at the Michigan High School Athletic Association Class A Track Finals Saturday.

The junior took third in the state in her best event, the 300 meter hurdles, clocking a 43.6. That was just 0.1 seconds behind runner-up Cathy Nash of Saginaw, and 1.2 seconds back of state champion Carolyn Ferguson of Benton Harbor, who set a new state record of 42.4 in the event.

Panowicz also took sixth in the 100 meter hurdles, registering a personal-best time of 14.8 seconds — just 0.3 seconds behind winner Ferguson.

Both of Panowicz's times established new Northville High School records.

Panowicz was the dominant competitor at the Western Lakes Athletic Association league meet at Livonia Stevenson last Wednesday, scoring 30 of the Mustangs' sixth-place 46 points at the close meet.

Farmington and Farmington Harrison tied for first at the meet with 83 points each. Walled Lake Western was third with 72, followed by Livonia Stevenson, 63; Plymouth Salem, 58, Northville; Plymouth Canton, 41; Livonia Churchill, 34; Walled Lake Central, 15; and Livonia Bentley, held scoreless.

Panowicz snapped the tape in the 100 and 300 meter hurdles while the competition was still negotiating the last hurdle, clocking winning times of 15.08 and 44.03 respectively. She added another first in the 400 meter dash with a time of 58.64 — more than 1.5 seconds ahead of her nearest competitor, and a new school record.

Only the high jump gave her some competition. In her first try at the event in a league tourney, she cleared 5'1" to tie with Walled Lake Western's Pam Roselle for third. Farmington's Sambia Shivers won at 5'3".

Strong as Panowicz's showings were, Coach Ann Turnbull (whose 400 meter record of 59.6 Panowicz broke) was even more pleased with the performance of freshman Ann Griffith.

For good reason — Griffith placed fourth in the 1,600 meters, trimming more than 13 seconds off her previous best mile-equivalent time. She set a new Northville High School record of 5:30.78 in the event and finished only 6.2 seconds behind league champion Julie Recla of Churchill.

Wendy Nuechterlein and Griffith ran seventh and eighth in the 3,200 meters with excellent times of 12:29.0 and 12:33.4, respectively.

"I knew she had it in her," Turnbull said. "She'd had trouble with people boxing her in before, so I told her to go out fast and make them pass you." Griffith ran that strategy to perfection.

"Ann told me she's going to go to the state in the mile before she graduates," Turnbull added. "The way she's going now, I wouldn't be a bit surprised."

Junior Laura Chamberlain clocked the third-best 100 meter time of the meet (13.39) and freshman Robin Strunk added a sixth in long jump, sailing 15'1 1/2".

Becky Baumann's preliminary 200 meter time of 28.1 was faster than two times that placed in the final of the event, but she was eliminated in semis.

Lynn Bills just missed placing in low hurdles with her personal-best time of 51.4, seventh overall.

Panowicz also recently qualified for the National Junior Track Finals in Los Angeles.

Mustangs celebrate district semifinal victory

Mustangs fall in district final

By B.J. MARTIN

The Gabriele who pitches for Walled Lake Western doesn't have to blow his own horn. Others will do it for him.

"He's the best pitcher I've seen in high school baseball in a long time," Northville Baseball Coach Fred Holdsworth said of Western's junior phenom Dan Gabriele. The Warrior ace, already eyed by many major league scouts, struck out 16 Mustangs to hand Northville a 5-1 loss in the Class A District Final on Saturday.

The game marked the end of a great season for Northville's fine baseball team. The Mustangs ended up 16-4 this year, and are co-champions of the Western Lakes Activities Association's Western Division.

"I think we were the best overall team in that district," Holdsworth said. "But Western's unbeatable with Gabriele pitching. I think they'll have to come up with someone else to pitch to get to the state title."

Gabriele allowed just three hits and two walks against the Mustangs. He also picked up the win with short work in Saturday's semifinal against North Farmington, striking out six of the seven Raiders he faced.

Only second baseman Mickey Newman had Gabriele's number, connecting for a solo homer in the seventh inning to break up the shutout. It was the fourth time in the two district games Saturday that Newman sent opponents' outfielders to the fence — he came away with two homers and two long outs.

Dan Nielsen pitched well, but it would have taken a perfect game to keep Western under wraps. The Warriors rallied for three in the first and two in the third to hand the senior righthander his second loss in nine decisions.

In the district semifinal earlier that day, Newman socked a first-inning two-run homer to lead the Mustangs to a 2-1 win over Westland John Glenn in the district semifinal.

Northville was shut down thereafter, although a sixth-inning flurry nearly made the score 3-1.

Mustang catcher Jay Bartling was headed home from second on a single by Doug Hartman, but the throw from the Rocket center fielder beat Bartling to the plate. Bartling lowered his shoulder and sent the Rocket catcher flying with a block worthy of an offensive tackle.

After a brief confab, the umpires decided Bartling's charge was a little too rough, and sent the senior receiver off the field. John Norton filled in to handle Mustang hurler Doug Doyle for the last two innings.

And Doyle (4-1, 1.82 ERA) was brilliant. In seven innings, the lefthanded senior struck out six, walked two and allowed just one unearned run. Some solid defense helped him along, but his pitch selection and control kept the Rockets off-balance throughout the game.

The Rockets threatened in the final inning, with one on and one out. But third baseman Bob Pegrum, Newman and first baseman Steve Schrader combined for a sharp 5-4-3 double play to end the game.

"It was an outstanding year," observed Holdsworth, who will retire this year. "I thought we'd challenge for the division title and we did."

"(Our season) definitely proved the importance of good pitching," he added. "Doug, Dan and Chris Willerer all did an excellent job for us."

Despite a three-run rally in the last inning, the Braves fell to the Reds by a 9-8 count in a contest featuring 30 hits, 10 for extra bases. Eric Shurin tripped twice and Scott Howard doubled twice for the winners. Michael Valentine paced the Braves with two hits and three RBI ... Troy Ternes knocked in two runs for the Astros.

G LEAGUE: A three-run rally in the bottom of the sixth propelled the 3-1 Mets to a 6-5 win over the Braves May 25. Jeff Durrell's RBI double brought the Mets within one, and Matt Bergstrom delivered a bases-loaded single to score the tying and winning runs. Mets hurler James Nordbeck (1-0) picked up the win ... Two days before, the Mets used a four-run rally in the second and a five-run rally in the fifth to upend the 1-2 Yankees 11-6. The Yanks' Doug Geedorf had a super day at the plate, knocking in three runs and scoring three with a home run, a double and a single. Winning pitcher Mike Lang (2-1) and Bergstrom led the Mets' hitting attack, with Bergstrom knocking in two runs ... The Cubs tripped up the Angels 6-4 May 22, getting four innings of shutout pitching from winner John Schreiber. Nick Sales doubled and singled and knocked in two runs for the winners and teammate David Huff went 3-for-3. Beno had two hits and two RBI for the Angels ... The next day, the 3-0-1 Cardinals defeated the Yankees 15-3 behind the two-hit pitching of Darrin Marsh and Tim Hubbard. Billy Kelly had two hits and two RBI for the Yankees.

blank penalties.

"She didn't look like a freshman out there," Smalec added. "She saved the game for us, no question."

But there was an entire teamful of heroes:

Jill Anger played effectively at sweeper and midfield. Despite injuries, Bemer, Borthwick and Cahill all contributed hard-nosed, unselfish line play. Kelly Coutts filled in strongly at midfield and wing. Kim Flading played a gutsy game at midfield and kept the pressure on the Spartan defense with her chip passes and willingness to fight for possession of the ball.

Jill Gallagher played over stomach pains and helped neutralize Stevenson's strikers. Another defender, Jill Jensen, turned in a fine game despite a sore back. Korowin played the entire 100 minutes at her usual strong, intense level. Kerry Lenaghan, usually a forward, played a much-needed excellent game at midfield. Nicki Grasley turned in some solid spot work at halfback.

Amy Nieuwkoop spelled Bemer several times and figured in two scoring opportunities. Julie Nowka, Northville's sometimes overlooked right fullback, again quietly dominated her area of the field with consistent, dependable play. Spaman, a welcome face after her comeback from a leg injury, controlled the middle on defense while her long clearing kicks continually

'Our game has been to really go after the ball.

Stan Smalec

frustrated the Stevenson offense.

Versatile Gaynelle Wagner went in and out of the game at sweeper and midfield, doing an excellent job.

Missing in action were Kim Pettit and Linda Townsend. Pettit's knee injury sidelined her for almost the entire season, but she was used late in the season for some critical corner kicks.

Townsend, so effective as a forward line sweeper late in the season, aggravated an ankle injury on Friday and was sidelined for the game. Her teammates carried her up to accept her state championship medal at post-game ceremonies.

There were several players who didn't get into Saturday's game, but who helped Northville get there in the first place: freshman goalie/forward Serkanian, who scored in Wednesday's game (along with Bemer, Flading and Cahill twice); greatly improved halfback Jenny Kuffner; and Jill Kilner and Diane Dragon, who played sharp ball in Wednesday's victory and in earlier appearances this season.

Two more people should get some credit for the team's success: trainer/scorer/halfback Sue LaChance, whose medical handiwork helped keep Borthwick on her feet, and Northville High School Athletic Director Ralph Redmond.

Redmond arranged for the Mustangs to practice Thursday and Friday on the University of Michigan's artificial turf at Yost Field House in Ann Arbor in preparation for the game. That proved helpful in negotiating the green carpet at Flint Atwood Stadium.

The enthusiastic fans at the game were definitely a positive factor in the victory. "I was very happy to see a lot of people out at the game," Smalec added. "For a lot of them, it was the first time they'd seen a game, and they said, 'I never knew what I was missing!'"

The championship was Northville's first ever in Class A athletic competition. Northville's only other state title was a Class B men's swimming championship in 1973.

Sending post-game congratulations along was Gene Fogel, coach of Catholic Soccer League champion Farmington Our Lady of Mercy. Long associated with soccer in Northville, Fogel attributed Northville's success to the "tremendous recreation soccer program" existing in the community.

As for Coach Smalec, his players said it all with their ensemble shout at the awards presentation: "We love you, Mr. Smalec."

Lineman granted lacrosse honors

Northville's Stacey Lineman, a sophomore at Detroit Country Day School in Birmingham, has been named to the All-Midwest Women's High School Lacrosse Team for the second straight year.

The honor followed the Yellowjackets' strong showing at the recent Midwest Tournament in Buffalo, New York. DCDS took second place in the 28-team tournament, thanks in part to Lineman's leadership.

The rarely-seen sport has become something of an institution at the school, with outstanding teams in both men's and women's competition the norm. This year was no different, as the Yellowjackets claimed the Michigan Women's Lacrosse State Championship this spring.
